Dutch Marines Free Hostages Of Moluccan Terrorist Group

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer
ASSEN, Netherlands (AP) — Dutch marines firing heavily stormed a local government complex in this northern Dutch city today and freed 70 hostages held by Moluccan terrorists since Monday, a government spokesman said.

The spokesman said one man whom the Moluccans claimed to have killed as the assault began was found in the building alive and wounded. The spokesman said three other hostages were lightly wounded during the attack by 60 men of the 100-member marine anti-terror squad, the same one that broke a siege by South Moluccan terrorists last year.

Three young Moluccan gunmen were reported captured in the 20-minute operation, which came 40 minutes after the 2 p.m. (8 a.m. EST) deadline set by the terrorists for the government to meet their demands or face the execution of hostages.

Earlier reports had indicated five or six terrorists in the building. "They're free, they're free," a marine officer yelled into his radio as the marines secured the four-story Trente provincial government headquarters in wooded suburban parkland of this northern Dutch city.

The marines went in after a shot was heard inside the concrete-and glass-building and the terrorists telephoned the government crisis center and claimed they had killed a male hostage, the spokesman said.

The anti-terrorist unit, which had been airlifted in transport helicopters to the siege scene Monday night, attacked from two sides under a withering barrage of covering gunfire from marine sharpshooters on roofs of nearby buildings.

Town Board Abolishes Ayden Housing Authority

By DEBBIE JACKSON
Reflector Staff Writer
AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board last night approved a recommendation abolishing the town Housing Authority and designating itself to function as the Authority.

The action which becomes effective June 15, was approved following a public hearing. Several citizens were present at the hearing, but none voiced an opinion.

The Board had previously been presented a petition requesting that such action be taken. Town Manager Don Russell noted that "unsanitary and unsafe" conditions in public housing were cited as reasons for the requested take-over.

The North Carolina General Statutes Chapter 157-4.1 authorizes the Board to assume the role as Housing Authority. "We presently have in Ayden 124 units of public housing, 40 units of elderly Section 8 Housing, and approval for an additional 50 units of public housing," said Persinger.

He added that, "A recent housing survey made in Ayden indicated that from a total of 1,141 housing units surveyed, 16 percent were found to be in substandard condition and eight percent were found to be in dilapidated condition." Persinger said that the decision to take over the Authority was made "after a study of housing conditions, coupled with our ongoing Community Development Project, approval of additional housing units and the the woods...his whole personality changed.

After the January, 1977 affair, which was investigated by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department, "Aage got steadily worse," Mrs. Justesen testified. She said Justesen was, "afraid of Mr. Bunton."

Noting that Justesen wanted to purchase Bunton's interest in the machine shop, Mrs. Justesen said Bunton, at one point, "offered the shop in exchange for me and the boys."

Mrs. Justesen explained that on the morning of the day Bunton was killed, Justesen received three letters from Bunton's attorney indicating that Justesen was behind on the rent and on the payments for the shop and indicating Bunton wanted Justesen to, "get out of the shop."

She said Justesen seemed, "glassy eyed," after receiving the letters. "He just acted too quiet," when Bunton, "wanted to foreclose on the business."

Mrs. Justesen said she, "saw him (Justesen) walking out the front door of the shop with a shotgun," late that afternoon and said he, "shot Bunton's windows out (the Bunton home was across the street from the machine shop)," then, "he (Justesen) drove off."

Under cross examination by the State, Mrs. Justesen termed Bunton, "a dangerous man," and said she was afraid of him. "This is why I submitted to him," she testified.

She noted that the first time she submitted to him was in 1971, "in the grocery store office. He told me he needed me. He didn't rape me, I submitted to him. I was afraid of him, he said he was going to kill my husband."

Mrs. Justesen added that she submitted to Bunton, "maybe 20 times," from 1971 until 1976, adding that she told Justesen the whole story in July, 1976.

Mrs. Kirsten Spencer, a cousin of Justesen's from New York, said Justesen is a gentle man whose, "life revolves around his work and family."

She noted that Justesen's father was a shoemaker in Denmark, adding that Justesen and his family were, "involved with the underground," during World War II. "...helped get Jews out of Denmark into Sweden," so they would not be killed by the Germans.

Mrs. Spencer said both Mr. and Mrs. Justesen were, "very naive when they came to the United States."

She added that Bunton once told her, "Jonanna and the children are really my family."

Dr. Robert Rawlings, a forensic psychiatrist at Doretha Dix Hospital in Raleigh, said he had examined Justesen on two occasions following the September shooting — once on November 25 and the second time on December 3.

Rawlings said that in his opinion, Justesen was, "not able to distinguish between right and wrong," at the time of the shooting. He said, "in my opinion," Justesen was suffering a, "very severe depressive reaction."

The physician said Justesen was, "sad, having suicidal thoughts," and was, "a workaholic." He added that as a result of the July, 1976 incident, Justesen suffered, "insomnia, impotence, weight loss and memory loss. He was obsessed with Mr. Bunton," and "recalled shooting him," but had, "no feeling" about the killing.

Justesen, Rawlings said, "got to the point where he over-reacted...over-responded to the situation," and "continues to be depressed and have suicidal thoughts," and, "needs hospitalization and treatment for his depression."

Other witnesses took the stand this morning for the defense, attesting to Justesen's good character and reputation, and at least two witnesses testified that they had heard Bunton threaten to kill Justesen.

In his argument to the court, defense attorney Charles Vincent pictured Justesen as a man whose whole life centered around his work and his family, with, "a dream to own his own machine shop."

Vincent said, "Henry Bunton came into his life and offered him an opportunity to own his own business," but according to the lawyer, "that dream that he always had was not what it seemed to be," pointing out that Bunton had an affair with Justesen's wife and was attempting to take the machine shop business from him.

"The whole dream... completely wiped out," Vincent said, "because his life was penetrated by a man who he trusted, violated his wife... taken his business."

Justesen, Vincent said, completely over-reacted.

District Attorney Eli Bloom told the court, "I don't think murder ought to be slapped on the hand," and said he thought Mrs. Justesen, "made it all up," to get her husband off.

Sadat Condemns PLO; Asks Restraint By All

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat today condemned the Palestinian terrorist raid in Israel over the weekend in which more than 30 people were killed and described it as a "sad and tragic" event.

At the same time, the Egyptian leader urged restraint and called for an end to the "vicious circle" of strike and counter-strike that has engulfed the Middle East for three decades.

"Anything against the civilians I shall always condemn," Sadat said in the first Arab denunciation of the raid. He spoke to reporters in the Nile valley town of Beni Suef, about 70 miles south of Cairo.

The statement in English was broadcast live by Cairo radio. "Believe me, I describe it as a very sad and tragic incident and when I heard that the Palestine Liberation Organization declared their responsibility about it I asked myself what will be the result?" the Egyptian president said.

Sadat said he would "have liked action towards the establishment of peace instead of starting revenge again and the vicious circle again."

But the Egyptian leader also noted that no peace can be achieved without settling the Palestinian question. Negotiations between Egypt and Israel are hung up over this issue, with Egypt demanding an independent state for the Palestinians and Israel claiming this was impossible because of the security threat it would pose.

It was Sadat's second attack on the Palestinians in recent weeks. He strongly criticized them after the murder of Egyptian newspaper editor Youssef el-Sebaei in the Nicosia Hilton Hotel Feb. 18. That killing led to the abortive attack by Egyptian commandos on a commandeered jetliner at Larnaca airport in which 15 commandos were killed.

Eleven Palestinian raiders landed on the Israeli coast Saturday 37 miles north of Tel Aviv, hijacked an interurban bus and then a tourist bus, and tried to go to Tel Aviv with about 70 hostages to seize a hotel and free imprisoned terrorists.

They were stopped by a road-block seven miles north of Tel Aviv and in the ensuing gun battle, the bus exploded. Nine of the Palestinians were killed and the other two were captured.

Reports of the number of Israeli dead were varied. Police reported 32 were killed and the army said 36 died.

White Collar Workers Join Pothole Repairs

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Some 500 men and women who normally design new highways will be pushing asphalt instead of pencils in a stepped up battle against potholes on Pennsylvania's battered roads.

Most of the white collar workers who volunteered to join regular road crews filling the holes were among 1,105 employees who had been threatened with layoffs because of a budget crunch in the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation.

Gov. Milton Shapp canceled the planned March 1 layoffs under legislative pressure. Although it was not clear whether the pothole program was an offshoot of the layoff cancellation, the legislature agreed quickly Monday to shift $10 million to the road maintenance fund to pay for pothole repairs.

Shapp called the extra money "an emergency shot in the arm."

"I think it's a great gesture on their (the employees') part and on the department's capacity to get more people out to fill potholes," said Lt. Gov. Ernest Kline, who announced plans for the pothole offensive. "I thought it was silly for Penn. DOT to be laying off people with all those potholes to be filled."

Eileen Carroll, a typist in the transportation department's Philadelphia office, was among the handful of pothole volunteers not in the design department where the cutbacks had been planned.

"I think it would be a change," she said. "They explained in a meeting they didn't want to discriminate and would offer the job to women. I was thinking maybe I'd lose some weight. From what I understand it will be hard work."

Most of the volunteers have been working on designing construction projects, which for the most part were halted last June for lack of money. The design division employees who did not volunteer for pothole duty will work on design projects which are continuing for safety reasons.

The American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees agreed to have white collar workers step from behind the drawing board to trudge along the highways doing maintenance work.

"It demonstrates a large measure of goodwill," said Gerald McEntee, executive director of state employees' union. "We are attempting to cooperate with the state in a limited program of four to six weeks to fill those potholes."

Found Laxity In 'Security' Check

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A sheriff's hot line message helped brighten the morning at the Omaha Police Department.

The message Monday from the Lyons County sheriff's office in Nevada, told how a safe was rifled of $1,246 in a burglary last week in Fernley, Nev.

On Saturday, the owner of the safe received a package in the mail containing $1,044 in cash and a note which read: "Dear Folks, I have done similar 'security checks' from Maine to Oregon and have never found security as lax as in your place. Do something about it. I may come back. Signed, The Cracker."

PARIS (AP) — The Socialist-Communist alliance launched a desperate runoff campaign today after agreeing to support joint candidates.

It was a last-ditch effort to salvage victory in the final round of voting Sunday for the National Assembly and wrest power from the conservative-centrist majority that has been in office since 1958.

Restoration of leftist unity became necessary after the Socialists and Communists turned in a surprisingly weak performance in the first round Sunday, polling almost nine percentage points below the 54 percent predicted.

The agreement by Socialist party leader Francois Mitterrand, Communist Georges Marchais and Robert Fabre of the small Left Radicals was stitched together Monday night. It called for mutual withdrawals to ensure full support for the best-placed leftist candidates in the 423 races still to be decided in the runoff elections.

The three leaders urged all local party organizations to meet immediately to ensure "loyal cooperation" in backing the leading leftist in each district. There will be a new poster campaign naming the selected candidate, and all other leftist candidates were told to take part in the chosen man's campaign meetings.

The Communists abandoned demands they pressed for months, right up to Monday morning, for prior agreement on a radical revision of the joint leftist platform and a commitment on Communist cabinet posts.

They also agreed to shelve for the time being a discussion of major differences with the Socialists which split the alliance last September, notably over the extent of nationalization and defense policy.

Only 68 seats were won in the first-round voting, and all but five went to government supporters. The Communists, Socialists and Left Radicals trailed the government forces in the popular vote also, 45.1 percent to 46.5 percent. Though 6.5 percent went to other leftist and ecologist candidates, the combined total was short of the 53 percent considered necessary because of gerrymandering to insure a majority in the assembly.

"We're beaten," Communist journalists conceded privately. The first-round turnout was nearly 83 percent of the nation's 35.2 million voters, a record in national parliamentary balloting.

Jacques Chirac's conservative Gaullists led the voting with 6,451,454 votes, or 22.6 percent, followed closely by the Socialists with 22.5 percent. Then came President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's centrist Republicans with 21.5 percent, the Communists with 20.5 percent, the Independents with 2.4 percent and the Left Radicals, 2.1 percent.

Historic Cape May Retain Aura Of Past

By PETER MATTIACE
Associated Press Writer
CAPE MAY, N.J. (AP) — In the late 1800s, Jackson's Club House on Columbia Avenue offered Victorian elegance and seaside charm — and a little roulette and poker — to eager city gentlemen from Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Today, the gambling tables are gone, but the gingerbread graciousness of Col. Charles Jackson's Italianate-style mansion remains.

The porch's pine planks still creak under the foot. Black gaslight chandeliers hang heavily above a loveseat and a Chickering piano in the drawing room.

From Jackson's pilaster cupola three stories above the street, those with wanderlust in their hearts can still see steamers heading for Delaware Bay and Philadelphia or the fishing boats coming home to this southern tip of New Jersey.

The townsfolk call it simply "the mansion," but it's the "Mainstay Inn" now, a retreat to the graceful Victorian era. Owners Tom and Sue Carroll have changed the name but not the charm that the wealthy New York businessman built into his 28-room mansion in 1872.

There are no closets, no telephones, no television and no air conditioning. China chamber pots still wait under the beds. A sunlit bathroom with a copper bathtub is down the hall. Modern clothes go in carved walnut wardrobes. Breakfast is at 9 o'clock sharp.

"It's old fashioned and we want to keep it that way," says Carroll, a former Coast Guard officer who "just fell in love" with Cape May eight years ago.

Cape May — the whole city of four square miles — was dedicated as a National Historic Landmark last October. The National Park Service has counted more than 600 buildings of historical significance in this city.

"We don't see ourselves as living in a museum," says Fred Coldren, public relations man and city councilman. "We're caretakers of a very important national asset. We're proud of that, but we're also a living town."

The quaint gas lights that line 16 city streets are turned off now — not because of age, but by a stern state decree during a modern energy shortage. However, state officials have hinted they will grant an exemption.

Tucked away 150 miles from New York and 85 miles from Philadelphia, proud Cape May residents enjoy their serene lifestyle of quiet, almost desolate winters and busy but relaxed summers.

The Coast Guard Recruit Training Center supports 300 families and many Coast Guardsmen have retired here. But 95 percent of Cape May's economy depends on tourism. The city's population of 4,800 swells to more than 50,000 in the summertime.

Boosters don't talk about the gambling and prostitution that once flourished in an uneasy peace with vacationing clergy-men and religious groups in seaside retreat houses.

But natives still talk about "The Fire" that levelled 20 square blocks of wood-frame buildings in 1878. It sent Cape May into a decline just as a new island resort called Atlantic City prospered 40 miles up the coast.

The new, subdued, seaside town rebuilt after "The Fire" gave Cape May its concentrated Victorian charm of today.

"What remains is one of the largest collections of late 19th-century seashore buildings in the United States," said Carolyn Pitts, a National Park Service architectural historian.

With the economy so dependent on tourism, it was necessary rather than historical idealism that forced Cape May to turn to its past.

"It's a seashore resort with one exception — we don't have a beach," Coldren said.

Ocean currents have been eroding Cape May's beaches since the federal government built two long stone breakwaters near the Coast Guard base about 70 years ago. About half the city's beach is gone.

It wasn't until the mid-1960s that some residents realized that the old houses could be the city's salvation. Although officials and businessmen were wary, preservation-minded residents pushed the central business district for the National Register of Historic Places seven years ago.

Support of the historic strategy grew as business recovered. Last year, the Interior Department named Cape May to the cream of historical designations, joining 4,000 National Historic Landmarks such as Williamsburg, Va., and Newport, R.I.

Children Won't Share Grandmother

DEAR ABBY: I have three adorable grandchildren, ages 6, 8 and 9. I love them all dearly (and equally) but they are extremely jealous of each other, and there's always a fight for my attention when I visit them.

I am careful never to bring one a gift (even on birthdays) without bringing a gift for the other two. I am also very careful not to praise one too much in the presence of the others, and I never make comparisons.

However, the rivalry and jealousy persist. I'm sure other grannies have the same problem. Have you any suggestions?

TORN IN THREE

DEAR TORN: Sibling rivalry has been with us since Jacob and Esau (not to mention Cain and Abel), but you can minimize the competition by spending time with each child individually — instead of trying to divide yourself into three parts, like Gaul.

DEAR ABBY: It's getting so I hate to go out with my husband. He's 32 and I'm 31, and all he wants to do is go to X-rated movies and look for girls to pick up on the way home. He says he gets real turn-on thinking about being with me and another woman.

We never have actually picked up a girl, but after every movie we just drive around, wasting baby-sitter money, looking for one.

I hate to say no to him because that gets his "poor me" attitude going and then he is unbearable.

He is a college-educated man working in a respected field. Does he need help or do I?

TURNED OFF

DEAR TURNED OFF: He definitely needs help. And if you go along with his kinky ideas, you do too.

DEAR ABBY: May I speak on behalf of a group of people who sometimes have difficulty speaking for themselves? The group I'm speaking of (and for) is usually sensitive, shy, insecure and gentle. Their problem? They are QUIET. They simply find it difficult to speak up in a crowd or to make small talk.

I just returned from a class I joined as part of my continuing battle to overcome this problem. While in class, someone embarrassed me by saying, "Gee, you're quiet!" I am aware of that fact, and commenting on it publicly is just as rude as saying to someone, "Gee, you talk a lot!"

Abby, please tell your readers that many quiet people have deeply rooted problems that they are trying hard to overcome. If people really want to help a quiet person, they should ask him a question, thus giving him a chance to talk. But never make an issue of his quietness.

SUFFERING (QUIETLY)

DEAR SUFFERING: Thanks for taking the time and trouble to speak out for the quiet ones.

CONFIDENTIAL TO TAMMY IN TORONTO: No matter what your past has been, you have a spotless future.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Laaky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

My kids couldn't wait until they walked.

At eight months they were pulling themselves up to tables. At nine months they were teetering unsteadily from room to room. At 14 months, they were running away from home.

"When I called them in to take their baths, they were playing in the house in the next block. When I wanted them to help me unload groceries from the car, they were digging in a cave and couldn't hear me. When I called them to dinner they were on a raft in the middle of a major river.

Through years of getting varicose veins of the neck from shouting for them, I discovered only one sure-fire way to get them at your elbow... have a friend who dropped by to "talk."

I had a kid once safely tucked away for two weeks at camp. My friend Marge dropped in to tell me about Elaine's stereotomy and before she got out the details, he parked himself between our coffee cups and said, "Dogs get fat after their operation. I hope poor Marge can hold the line."

"What's with Mary Worth?" asked my friend, amazed.

"Don't you have something to do?" I asked.

"Nope."

"Then go play."

"What'll I play with?"

"Try the $800 worth of deferred payments in your bedroom."

"The batteries are all burnt out. Why don't you want me to listen? I won't tell."

"It isn't a matter of telling. It's just that this is big people's talk."

"You want me to grow up, don't you?"

"Not in one day."

"If you don't want me to listen, why don't you go someplace and talk where you can be alone?"

"We're sitting in a parked car now. Look, if you were talking to your friends and I just barged in and sat down in the middle of your conversation, what would happen?"

"You'd fall asleep."

Somehow, that elusive child who is never around when you want him has managed to eavesdrop on every conversation I've had.

"Why don't you come right out and send him packing?" asked Marge.

"He knows too much," I said slowly.

No syrup on hand for those brunch pancakes? Melt apple jelly or apricot preserves. If necessary, you can thin the preserves with a little of the syrup from canned fruit.

Country-Style Baked Ham Is Easter Treat

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Holidays are a time when family and friends gather together and celebrate The Day, usually clustered around a food-laden board. Such an occasion is Easter, when people of many lands assemble after worship and eat their way through a variety of national dishes.

In France, rural folk often serve navarin printanier, tender, milk-fed lamb stewed with early spring vegetables.

In Italy they like suckling lamb, too, in a dish called abbacchio. This is lamb flavored with rosemary, popped in the oven and basted with white wine. The Italians also serve a hearty Easter pie filled with ricotta cheese, eggs and spinach or artichoke hearts. The flour and water dough for this is rolled out paper-thin. Traditionally, 33 sheets of dough are used, one for each year of Christ's life.

In Poland, most housewives keep busy cooking and baking for at least two days before Easter. The big meal is lunch on Easter Sunday, an elaborate cold buffet that is really a mid-day dinner.

In the center of the table is a tiny Easter lamb made of sugar or sculpted from butter. Around it lie platters of cold baked ham, roast veal and turkey, molds of jellied pigs' feet, garlands of fresh and smoked pork sausages, vegetable salads and pickled mushrooms. After all this come the Easter cakes: tall, golden bakki, cheese cakes and layer cakes surrounded by mazurki, little rectangular pastries topped with nuts, dried fruit and chocolate or marzipan.

In Russia, many Soviet households still follow the customs of their ancestors on Easter. The day is celebrated with exquisitely decorated eggs and kulich, a fruit-laden, tall golden yeast cake eaten along with paskha, a super-rich cheese cake.

In America the Easter favorite is baked ham, which has been popular ever since 1539 when Fernando de Soto landed at Charlotte Harbor in Florida with 600 soldiers, 350 horses and 13 hogs.

Here is a recipe for breaded country ham baked with a basting of bourbon.

1 10-pound smoked ham
2 1/2 cups water
4 ounces bourbon whiskey

BPW Club Scholarship Given Thursday

Debra Carol Rhodes, a junior student majoring in special education at East Carolina University, is the latest recipient of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club Scholarship.

It was presented to Ms. Rhodes Thursday night at the meeting of the club at the Ramada Inn.

Ms. Rhodes is planning to be graduated at the end of fall semester and then seek a M.S. in special education with a concentration in mental retardation. She works at Caswell Center, Kinston, during the summer. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Margaret Grigg of Kinston.

Doug Jackson, crime prevention officer for the city, spoke regarding crimes committed by women in Greenville. He explained the Crime Watch Program and emphasized its effectiveness in this area. He also distributed ID tags for keys and explained their use.

The local club will participate in the district meeting of BPW Clubs in Wilson Sunday. Young Careerist Jo Nottingham will represent the Greenville BPW Club in the district competition.

Calculate Intake By Counter

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — One way to try to cut down your food intake is by registering every bite you take on a calculator-type device. The hand-held electronic counter recently introduced by a Fort Collins manufacturer is supposed to monitor not only how much you eat but how fast you eat it. The device comes with a chart to record daily diet progress and speed of intake and a guidebook that discusses nutrition, dieting and permanent weight loss.

Eating More Does Not Keep You Warm

CARBONDALE, Ill. (UPI) — Frank Konishi, Southern Illinois University-Carbondale nutritionist, says it's a myth that eating more food keeps you warmer.

Konishi says a high protein diet produces more body heat during the digestive breakdown of food, but the key to keeping warm is proper winter clothing.

He added that the "hobbling effect" of bulky clothing worn during cold weather makes an individual use more energy and need more calories.

Johnny Can't, One Duck Can

For years the public has been distracted over Why Johnny Can't Read. It was a certain bait for readership, posed by writers who could give a multitude of horrible examples of poor Johnny and their theories as to why it happened and how to reverse the condition.

Anguished mothers and fathers have spent untold hours pondering the spoken and written words of scholars who had a lot of points pro and con about the subject. Alas, poor Johnny; to all intents and purposes he remained pretty much at the same point before becoming the central figure in a catchphrase. (There is always a Johnny in our world.)

It has occurred to us that the experts were not too keen in remedying the situation because if Johnny finally learned to read the experts would lose substantial income from their writings and lecture fees.

Now we have a new theory. A brief story last week told how graduate students at Drake University have been devoting their time to teaching a duck to read. That would go far toward explaining the eternal question. The system is putting its best foot forward teaching ducks, porpoises, chimps, horses, dogs and what-not how to read. Once they have a breakthrough in the creature field, they'll turn to Johnny.

Scant Time For Carter To Listen

President Carter is scheduled to make a brief visit to North Carolina this week.

He will stop at Wake Forest University on Friday for about an hour to make a speech on national defense policy.

No doubt the president won't have time to talk to many North Carolina Democrats, but if he should he would find deep dissatisfaction with recent

Department of Health, Education and Welfare actions on tobacco and the state's higher education system.

Since the president ultimately bears the responsibility for HEW's meddling perhaps he might want to become aware of the dissatisfaction which is welling up in this state.

Tax Cut For Development

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Aware that proposed cuts in manufacturer's inventory taxes to be dealt with in the May session of the General Assembly may open the door for complications, the case is now being built for the approach as an economic development tool.

The problem is that a tax cut for one, select group will doubtless lead to pressures from others who want the same benefits.

It has long been acknowledged that if manufacturing plants were given relief from inventory taxes, then wholesale distributors would seek similar advantages, as would eventually retailers.

Bypassing that prospect, a legislative study commission at the urging of Gov. James B. Hunt and a host of legislative leaders has gone ahead with its homework in preparation for the legislative session.

Another complication bound to come up is the fact that the measure seeks to draw a line between firms with a "high level" of inventory, and those with less inventory.

A Thin Line

So it is certain that when a firm falls just below the line and doesn't qualify for the tax break, while another — possibly even a competitor — does qualify, the pressure will likely be in the form of a challenge to the constitutionality of the law.

To offset these future likelihoods, the report of the Committee on the Inventory Tax makes it clear: "The single significant goal sought through changes in the tax on inventories is the fostering of economic development."

"The proposals set forth here are not purported to be tax reform; it is not inequitable treatment that is sought to be alleviated. Rather, these changes will create a tool for use in industrial recruitment."

"It is, therefore, logical to restrict relief to manufacturers only."

That recommendation also notes that the goal is to use the "most limited means possible" of achieving the goal, and takes pains to say that increased industrial development "will provide ample revenue to offset the cost of the proposed tax reduction," and to note that "a conservative approach will best serve to protect the fiscal integrity of the state."

The goal is to "bring manufacturers to North Carolina, and to encourage those already here to expand ..."

In a nutshell, the proposed law will allow a percentage of the inventory of raw materials compared to total manufacturing costs to determine a "high-level" of inventory — plants using a lot of materials or particularly expensive stuff would get relief. Routine operations would not.

Will such an approach help in economic development? That debate continues as some maintain the total tax package in this state compared to others is attractive even though the competitor doesn't have a tax on inventories.

Nonetheless, state development specialists have convinced legislators that "when all other factors balance out and the existence of the tax on inventories in North Carolina will be the determining factor" this state may lose to another.

Local Tax

The inventory tax is a local property tax. Those relieved of it will get credit against their state income taxes so that local governments do not lose. That problem had caused opposition from both county commissioners and city officials in the past.

In a nutshell, the proposed law will allow a percentage of the inventory of raw materials compared to total manufacturing costs to determine a "high-level" of inventory — plants using a lot of materials or particularly expensive stuff would get relief. Routine operations would not.

Nonetheless, state development specialists have convinced legislators that "when all other factors balance out and the existence of the tax on inventories in North Carolina will be the determining factor" this state may lose to another.

NOBLITT

Only those inventories "truly part of the manufacturing process qualify for the relief," the committee determined, and observed that "finished products are not peculiar to the manufacturing process. ... it would be inequitable to include finished goods held by manufacturers while excluding those held by wholesale and retail merchants." Thus, only raw materials and goods-in-process will be eligible, and argument is expected over definitions.

An Offer To Mr. Begin

CAIRO — After 10 days in this benighted country, I have found a solution for the whole of the Mideast crisis. In the interests of world peace, I modestly pass it along.

In my scenario, Mr. Sadat, the president of Egypt, makes one more visit to Mr. Begin, the prime minister of Israel. After the usual pleasantries have been dispensed with, Mr. Sadat bespeaks himself, firmly but politely, as follows:

"Manny, my patience is exhausted. Either you give us a reasonable settlement, or ... or, we surrender."

At that dreadful prospect, Mr. Begin trembles and turns pale. "But, but ...," he says.

"I mean it," says Mr. Sadat. "Come to terms or you can take over my trade deficit. You can repair the broken windows in the Cairo Museum. You can clean my filthy streets. You can solve the transportation mess. You can have the poverty, the squalor, the massive illiteracy. All yours, Manny, including the stinking camels! Whaddya say?"

It is an offer Mr. Begin can't refuse. Back in 1973, the conquering Israelis demonstrated their sound good sense. They got within 45 miles of Cairo — just 30 minutes away by cab — and brought their tanks to a screeching halt. With one more push they could have had the whole schmeer. Prudence intervened. Judgment triumphed. The Israelis thought better of the prospect. They backed off, and the rest is history.

To visit Egypt, however briefly, is to gain some understanding of the desperate fix in which this Arab republic finds itself. If Egypt were a publicly traded corporation, it would be ripe for takeover. In terms of its gross national product, the trade deficit is pure disaster. Egypt's population is growing at an annual rate of 2.3 percent. This could produce 80 million human beings by the turn of the century, double the estimated 39 million who now struggle for survival.

If an honest balance sheet could be prepared, Egypt would wind up bankrupt. The International Institute for Strategic Studies has estimated that Egypt spends $4.8 billion a year to maintain 342,000 men under arms. These were the figures for 1975. The current expense is doubtless greater. If the money bought an effective army, navy and air force, perhaps the outlay could be defended, but Egypt's armaments are mostly hand-me-downs from the Russians. Spare parts are running out. Egypt couldn't lick six brigades of Cub Scouts.

To its credit, Egypt is trying valiantly to educate more than 6,000,000 school children. It is trying to move ahead with health services. It maintains 2,500 birth control centers.

After all, deflation must start at the top.

Other Editors Say Dream In Jeopardy

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

"America, the land of the free and home of the brave" is a phrase citizens have learned to embrace from childhood. Yet, one wonders, in the light of present developments, just where is that freedom and whether we're brave enough to face the future unafraid.

A study just completed on the impact of inflation and recession now divulges that a third of U.S. families have decided to lower their standard of living and have lost faith in the American dream because of economic problems.

This study, conducted by a professor of sociology at the Graduate School of the City College of New York and reported by the Associated Press, also found that more than a fifth — 22 per cent — of those contacted found that they were less interested than they used to be in owning expensive things.

Furthermore, 35 percent said they were going to lower their living standards and an equal number indicated lost faith in the American way because of the economic crunch.

Fifty-six percent, these depressing figures reveal, indicated lower aspirations, although only 2 percent reported that they had lowered their hopes considerably.

Of course, not everyone could be sampled in these findings; however, those contacted were widely distributed as to population centers. There were 1,982 on the list of people who live in the metropolitan areas of New York, Atlanta, San Francisco and Detroit. Among the findings were the following:

Inflation has hit hardest at the poor, with 43 per cent indicating that they were a lot worse off today than they were a few years ago. The retired, it is shown, are better able than all groups, except the white collar workers, to cope with inflation.

The list also included the necessity for additional members of the family to get a job, while most found it necessary to cut their food budgets and cut down drastically on expenses for entertainment.

And, unfortunately, many of those surveyed found it expedient to put off medical and dental expenses.

Yes, such a report is naturally depressing at a time when a senseless strike of coal miners heaps additional hardships upon the whole population and the energy crisis continues to grow worse.

Unfortunately, no panacea for a return to better conditions is provided in the survey, but those who control our destiny have every need to devise new ways and means of getting away from the popular practice of delving into Uncle Sam's diminishing stores for items which cannot be regarded as necessities.

After all, deflation must start at the top.

Soviets Ready For Risks

By PHILIP C. CLARKE

Soon after the United States forced Russia to back down and remove its nuclear missiles from Cuba in 1962, top Soviet leaders held a secret emergency session in the Kremlin. They decided to launch an all-out arms buildup that would make the Soviet Union the world's mightiest military power. The Soviet leaders were determined that never again would Russia be humiliated as in the 1962 Cuban missile crisis and that in any new showdown it would be the U.S., not the Soviets, that would have to cut and run.

Today, there are signs that the Soviet Union may feel powerful enough to risk another eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation with the U.S. The clearest sign came recently in the form of a thinly-veiled threat to reintroduce Soviet missiles into Cuba.

The threat was revealed by Democrat Congressman Charles H. Wilson of California, a ranking member of the House Armed Services Committee, who recently attended sessions of the U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitation talks in Geneva as an observer. Wilson said he was buttonholed after one session by two top Soviet delegates: Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir Semenov and General I. Beletsky, the delegation's military member.

"The indicated," said Rep. Wilson, "that if we deployed the land-based cruise missile in West Germany, Britain or wherever else among NATO nations, (then) they might be inclined to put some missiles again into Cuba. ... They said they would have this right if we did this same thing in Western Europe."

The cruise missile is a pilotless jet designed to fly low enough to avoid enemy radar detection and hit targets many hundreds of miles away with pinpoint accuracy. The Pentagon has proposed arming some of our NATO allies with a land-based version of the weapon in order to counter the enormously superior Warsaw Pact forces poised along West Europe's borders.

To any American who remembers the Cuban missile crisis, it would seem that this latest bit of rocket-rattling by the Soviets should be taken very seriously. Especially now that it is known that Soviet pilots are flying MIGs on routine patrols from Cuban bases, replacing Cuban airmen now on combat duty in Africa along with 30,000 or more Cuban troops. And now Soviet submarines and surface warships regularly engage in joint maneuvers with Cuban ships in the Gulf of Mexico and prowl close to our Atlantic coast.

There can be only one explanation for Washington's silence, and that is its desire to keep alive what remains of détente: that illusory policy which permits the Soviets to point a gun at our head while talking sweetly of peace.

And not only the Soviets! During a recent visit to Mexico City, Fidel Castro's Foreign Minister, Isidoro Malmierca, warned that Cuba would give military support to Panama if needed to defend the Panamanian people against "U.S. aggression."

"We will help those governments who request it to struggle for independence and social justice," said Malmierca. "Latin American integration is a permanent desire of the Cuban revolution."

Castro's foreign minister expressed "sadness" over the continued presence of U.S. forces at Guantanamo Bay in eastern Cuba, and spoke of the "possibility of armed U.S. intervention in the Panama Canal."

Castro clearly has had his eye on the Canal for a long time. He and Panamanian strongman General Omar Torrijos decided at a secret summit meeting in Havana in January, 1976, to "cool it" on the Canal until after the U.S.

Strength For Today

PLOWING WITH PIGS

In his famous book, Gulliver's Travels, John Bunyan described how the foolish inhabitants of an imaginary country found a new, and presumably easier way to plow their fields. They buried acorns in the fields and then turned loose herds of pigs. The pigs, rooting for the acorns, would supposedly dig up the ground sufficiently for planting.

Unfortunately, it proved to be more difficult and expensive to bury the acorns and care for the pigs than it would have been to plow by ordinary means. And to make matters worse, the fields "plowed" by rooting pigs never produced good crops.

It is interesting how often people who are always looking for the easy way are finally forced to do more work for poorer results than the people who are willing to do the necessary work in the beginning.

The person who puts in nothing gets nothing. Rewards wait for the people who work for them.

Higher Barrier To First-Job

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — It was still another encouraging report on the job market. Unemployment for February fell to 6.1 percent. The rates for women, blacks and adult men fell. Almost everyone was pleased.

Almost. Teen-agers, it was noted, found it harder to obtain employment, their jobless rate rising to 17.4 percent from 16, and more than doubling that percentage in some inner city areas.

The consequence: wasted human resources, wasted time, wasted opportunity, and perhaps wasted lives as well. The bald truth is that it is getting harder and harder to meet the first-job barrier.

It isn't because of a lack of effort by both adults and youngsters. Aware of the damage and the dangers, public and private agencies have developed varieties of job programs. But then they undo them again.

Inner city schools often are designed to graduate rather than educate youngsters. Public vocational training schools have diminished in number. Apprenticeship programs have deteriorated. Meanwhile, the federal minimum wage level has been lifted to $2.65 an hour, most likely provoking employers into eliminating the very jobs that in other years enabled an unskilled beginner to obtain training.

And because of legitimate concern for their own welfare, older workers are tending to remain on the job longer than before, thus making it more difficult for entrants to secure a foothold.

It isn't only the dropout or the poorly educated who has trouble entering today's labor force. The unemployment rate among young college graduates has more than doubled in recent years.

Official statistics show, for example, that only 3.3 percent of college graduates 20 to 24 years old were without work in 1970. The comparable figure for 1977 was 8.2 percent.

What is the solution? Government job programs, say some. Nonsense, say others: public programs are self-defeating, drawing capital from private enterprises that are the true source of productive jobs.

That argument might never be resolved, involving as it does the most basic of economic and political considerations. But from whatever viewpoint one argues, the shrinkage of small business must be a factor.

The National Small Business Association notes that in 1960 small- and medium-size businesses

Coffee Prices Down

By CHERYL DEBES

AP Business Writer

Most supermarket food prices keep climbing, but coffee is dropping and apparently will go even lower.

The idea of cheaper coffee may be hard to believe for shoppers who watched prices rise over two years from $1.27 to nearly $4 for a pound of America's most popular beverage.

But the latest federal figures show the average retail price down 12 percent, from a record $3.93 a pound last June to $3.47 in January.

The price now is down to about $3.40, and last week Folger's Coffee Co., the second-largest U.S. processor, cut wholesale prices by 15 cents, to $3.03 a pound. This foreshadows a further retail drop since store prices usually follow wholesale prices by three or four weeks.

Most coffee analysts think the price will continue to fall. Fred Gray, a U.S. Agriculture Department economist, says the retail price might be $2.25 a pound next winter.

"It's essentially a question of supply and demand," Gray said. "Americans are drinking less coffee, mainly because of the high prices. As a result, domestic roasters aren't importing as much."

As analysts explain it, the price increases for coffee resulted from fears of a world shortage after a severe frost in Brazil in July 1975, when Americans were paying an average $1.27 a pound. Prices shot up, and then two factors set in to bring them down.

The first was consumer reaction. Last year, U.S. per capita coffee consumption dropped 27 percent — from 12.8 pounds to 9.4 pounds of beans — as many people switched to tea or soft drinks.

The second was that the predicted coffee shortage never occurred, and analysts now see prospects for a substantial recovery in world production, already up 11 per cent from last year.

At first, Brazil and Colombia, the largest coffee-growing nations, tried to hold the price of green beans above $3 a pound. But then they saw the trend and let go. Beans now sell for under $2 a pound.

Last week, Central American coffee-producing nations tried Farmers of this county, in polling an even 7,300 ballots in favor of controlled tobacco production, according to unofficial figures, led the state in the number of votes cast favorably in the referendum. Only 62 farmers voted against the proposal.

Several Eye Assembly Return

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Several former members of the General Assembly will take a crack at returning to the club in this year's elections. One is former Sen. W.D. "Billy Mills" of Onslow County, one of the state's most influential senators until his unexpected defeat in the 1976 elections. But colorful Jerry Popkin, a Jacksonville furniture store operator who defeated Mills, has decided not to seek reelection. Mills is expected to replace him. Some of the former legislators trying for a comeback are Republicans who were turned out in the Democratic sweeps of 1974 and 1976 which left the GOP with only 10 seats. They dropped to nine when Sen. Carolyn W. Mathis of Charlotte joined the Democratic Party last winter. Two former Republican House members, William E. Lang of Lexington and Gilbert Lee Boger of Mocksville, are seeking seats in the 21st Senate District, made up of Davidson, Davie and Rowan counties. Three former Republican representatives, Marshall Hall, William S. Hiatt and Clyde R. Greene, must survive a primary with Bob Hayes of Elkin before they can challenge Democratic incumbents P.C. Collins Jr., J. Worth Gentry and David H. Diamond in the 28th House District — Alleghany, Ashe, Stokes, Surry and Watauga Counties. Democrat John M. Jordan of Alamance County, an unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor in 1976, is seeking a House seat. Former Sen. Glenn R. Jernigan, D-Cumberland, is running for the Senate. Observers don't expect big changes in the Democratic-Republican ratio. Republicans are running for 29 of the 50 Senate seats and 56 of the 180 House seats. Eight senators who won in 1976 and 22 representatives won't try to come back. Five house members entered Senate races. They are B.D. Schwartz of Wilmington, William A. Creech of Raleigh, Conrad Duncan of Stoneville and James H. Edwards of Granite Falls. Rep. Marcus Short of Greensboro is running for the Senate. Four of the six blacks who won 1976 elections gave up their seats to accept appointments. Two of their successors now face serious competition from prominent black candidates. A.J. Clement III, who replaced H.M. Michaux of Greensboro, now U.S. attorney for the Middle District, faces serious competition from Kenneth B. Spaulding of Durham. And Harold L. Kennedy Jr., who was named to replace Richard C. Erwin of Winston-Salem, now a Court of Appeals judge, will face off against C.C. Ross, former mayor pro-tem of Winston-Salem. John W. Winters of Raleigh, who is now a utilities commissioner, was replaced by former Raleigh Mayor Clarence Lightner, who decided not to seek election to the post. The fourth black to give up his seat was Joy Johnson of Robeson County, now a parole commissioner. Sens. E. Lawrence Davis of Winston-Salem and McNeill Smith of Greensboro are not running for reelection to the state body because they are seeking election to the U.S. Senate. Sen. Roger Sharpe, D-Burke, a Smith campaign aide who wants to attend law school, is not seeking reelection either. The Rev. Coy C. Privette of Kannapolis, who lost the 1976 Republican nomination for governor to David Flaherty, is running for a house seat. Retiring legislators include Rep. John Ed Davenport, D-Nash; Sen. William G. Smith, D-New Hanover; Rep. Fred Dorsey, R-Henderson; and Rep. Ned R. Smith, D-Forsyth.

A flash flood watch continued in effect this morning in the North Carolina mountains on the eastern slopes and foothills. A cold front coming out of a storm in Indiana was setting off showers and thunderstorms ahead of it, sending a heavy band of rain through the mountains. It was expected to move east across the state during the day. In Tennessee the line has produced 1 1/2 inches of rain. Through the North Carolina mountains and foothills 1 1/2 to 2 inches were expected. The two-inch mark was the threshold for possible flash flooding through the area this morning. As the rain and the front moved out of the mountains late this morning they were expected to begin to slow down. As a result the threat of rain was expected to linger in the east tonight and along the coast Wednesday. From overnight lows in the 40s highs were in the upper 50s to mid 60s Monday. Coolest areas were the northeast and the northwest mountains. Hatteras reached only 56 with Elizabeth City at 58. The warm honors went to Fayetteville at 67.

Farmville Gets Grant
FARMVILLE — The Town of Farmville has been awarded a $4,500 grant for a demonstration project to achieve energy conservation in local government operations. The grant, a 100 percent award administered by the Energy Division of the N. C. Department of Commerce, is for "heuristic" routing of the town's refuse collection vehicles to achieve fuel savings. The project will call for scientific routing of the trucks using non-co uterized techniques specially developed and designed for smaller cities by the Solid Waste Management Division of the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency. The work program will be carried out primarily by Public Research and Management of Atlanta, Ga., the Farmville Town Administrator Patrick A. Thomas said. Farmville received the grant in competition with other units of local government in the category of intergovernmental relations. The program is designed to discover significant energy-saving techniques which can be widely duplicated in other jurisdictions, Thomas said.

Critical Question For N.C. Peanut Farmers

The critical question for a peanut farmer at this time, according to Joe S. Sugg, executive secretary of the North Carolina Peanut Growers Association, is whether or not he should contract for the sale of additional peanuts in the 1978 crop year. Sugg stated that the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Peanut Growers Association in a recent meeting went on record as recommending to the peanut producers of North Carolina that they not contract their additional production for less than $420 a ton, which is the price support level on quota peanuts. Under the program, according to Sugg, peanut producers throughout the United States may contract any portion of their production of Segregation 1 additional peanuts with buyers for exclusive use in the export or crushing markets. The proposed regulations are that a grower may contract up to the quantity of Segregation 1 additional peanuts between his quota and his base poundage, but no more. In discussing the question as to whether growers should contract, Sugg pointed out: — The contracting of peanuts for the export market at prices less than loan would create a tendency on the part of foreign buyers to set their purchase price level at less than the price for domestic peanuts. — Should a farmer contract for prices less than his quota, he would then have to deliver his contracted peanuts from his quota peanuts, which would cost him the difference between the $420 per ton loan and the contracted price. — Growers contracting at less than the $420 per ton loan level would have a tendency to reduce the purchases of U.S. produced peanuts by the domestic buyers at loan levels for export. — If there are no peanuts marketed at less than the $420 loan level, there will be a greater chance of those peanuts, which go into the Segregation 1 additional pools selling for export at loan levels or above, thereby accruing the profits to the U.S. producer rather than extending a discount, at the cost of the producer, to the export buyer. According to Sugg, the anticipated market demand for the foreign buyers this fall will be strong enough to use all the U.S. produced additional peanuts or at least a large percentage of them, thereby generating good profits to the pools and dividends to the growers who place them in the pool. Sugg added that the only way a farmer can assure himself of full loan level prices for his production is to produce only the amount of his quota. However, he noted that his Board felt that at least for this year the growers should try planting a large percentage of their allotment in order to fully capitalize on the potential export market.

Three Greenville persons were named "Top Teen Democrats" during the 17th annual N. C. Teen Democrats Convention held in Durham this past weekend. They are David Daniel, Susan Warshauer and Gigi Branch. Others attending from Greenville were Hannah Taft, Scott Griffin, Garrett Young, Tommy Riggs, Lisa Thompson, Anne Middleton, Diane Strickland, Helen Whitehurst, John Hendrix, David Burks, Mike Brohan, Mike Fuller, Willey Corbett, Chris Browning, Rick Capwell and Laura Lauffer. The Greenville Club won the attendance award. Warshauer was named second vice president and Daniel was named third vice president. Jim Graham, N. C. Commissioner of Agriculture, was the keynote speaker. Candidates attending were Luther Hodges, Lawrence Davis, John Ingram, Joe Felmet and David McKnight. These senatorial candidates took part in a forum. Resolutions were passed favoring the local option on liquor by the drink, supporting the Panama Canal Treaty, against the Dept. of HEW using tax money for an anti-smoking campaign and favoring Gov. Jim Hunt's energy conservation policy.

centers in an effort to restrain the growth in population. But the social and economic problems outdistance the efforts at relief. Every day, by one knowledgeable estimate, a thousand peasants move into Cairo from the country. They add to the unbelievable misery of the old city, where population densities approach 250,000 per square mile. Egypt is starved for capital. Tourism offers potentially a nice return. Last year a million tourists came to Egypt; they spent an estimated $370 million, which meant more to the economy than earnings from the Suez Canal. The Ministry of Tourism hopes for 1.7 million visitors in 1980, with spending of $850 million. An additional 45,000 hotel rooms are in prospect, but when one watches the inefficient techniques of building construction, that goal has to be viewed with a skeptical eye. The one thing Egypt cannot possibly afford is another war with Israel or with anyone else. Even the rich and friendly Saudis could not bankroll such folly. At some cost — indeed, at almost any cost — Egypt must come to terms, reduce its arms spending, and cultivate the resources that might produce a better life for its people. The dialogue in my scenario is written in jest, but this is graveyard humor. Mr. Sadat's declarations of "non-negotiable principles" amount to no more than a pitiful bluff. In the fateful game of Mideast poker, he is down to a busted flush. A good gambler would throw in the hand.

agreed to give it up. After that would come a joint campaign to force the U.S. out of Guantanamo, and later, out of Puerto Rico. The Cubans and their Soviet masters never have hidden their desire to turn the entire Caribbean into a "Red lake." Soviet heavy bombers now fly regularly out of three Cuban air bases, two of them built by the U.S. during World War II. And despite Soviet assurances to the contrary, Russian nuclear submarines now operate from the Cuban port of Cienfuegos. Busy as they are in Africa these days, the Cubans and Soviets are finding time to lay some groundwork in Panama, as well. Last July, two high-level Soviet "trade" and "cultural" delegations toured Panama and reached agreement, among other things, to install a branch of the Bank of Moscow and to develop the Panamanian port of Vacamonte. A recent defector from Torrijos' G-2 intelligence service, Alexis Watson-Castillo, has revealed that Panamanian G-2 agents are now commanded by a Cuban officer and that Panamanian "frogmen" have been trained in the art of planting explosives on the hulls of ships. Watson-Castillo said that the Torrijos regime has stand-by plans to blow up ships and block both ends of the Panama Canal if the U.S. Senate refuses to ratify the treaties. Waiting in the wings are the Cubans and the Russians.

to again boost prices for beans by withholding them from market. But importers said these nations do not have the storage facilities to continue this and will back down as they see Brazil and Colombia making money. "What was a seller's market has turned into a buyer's market," a New York coffee trader explained. "And most roasters aren't buying, which indicates they think they can get a better deal." Essentially, analysts think only a repetition of the 1975 Brazilian frost could stem the price erosion. And even such an effect is unlikely since no real shortages occurred after the frost — only fears of shortage. Rep. Fred Richmond, chairman of a subcommittee that has investigated coffee prices, believes lower consumption will force lower prices. "There's a national trend away from coffee consumption," the New York Democrat said. "The roasters are painfully aware of that trend. And it should be obvious to coffee-producing nations that they have a stake in reducing prices. Because once people get out of the habit, it's not so easy to attract that business back."

NEW YORK (AP) - New weakness in the dollar helped push the stock market into a moderate decline today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 4.50 at 755.46.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 5-3 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The dollar declined sharply today against leading foreign currencies, hitting a new low against the Japanese yen.

Analysts blamed the drop partly on disappointment over a new plan agreed on Monday by representatives of the United States and West Ger-ny aimed at shoring up the dollar.

A number of currency traders said they had hoped for more drastic measures.

Sony led the active list, off 3/4 at 7 1/2, in trading that included a 109,000-share block at that price. The company reported a 49.6 percent quarterly earnings decline.

National Presto Industries tumbled 7 1/2 to 26 1/2. The company reported record earnings for 1977, but acknowledged that the figures fell short of some advance expectations on Wall Street.

Kennecott Copper climbed 1 1/2 to 24 1/2. Curtiss-Wright Corp. said it had acquired nearly 10 percent of the company's stock.

STP, the American Stock Exchange volume leader, jumped 6 1/2 to 21. Esmark has agreed to acquire the company for $22.50 a share.

The NYSE's composite index dropped 21 to 49.33, and the Amex market value index was off 44 at 125.21.

Volume on the Big Board slowed to 9.08 million shares by noontime, against 12.01 million at the same point Monday.

Plane Crew Escapes, Hijacker Seized

By JOHN MOSSMAN Associated Press Writer DENVER (AP) - The quick thinking of three crewmen who leaped from the cockpit of a United Airlines jet to the runway 15 feet below was credited with aborting a hijacking by a man who said he had terminal cancer and wanted to fly to Memphis or Cuba.

"We did not know that the crew was going to escape," said Ted Rosack, special agent in charge of the Denver FBI office. "They did it on their own. Their actions ended what could have been a tragedy. I think it's extremely commendable. We were prepared to refuel the plane and let it continue on." Clay Thomas Jr., 27, of Mountain View, Calif., surrendered shortly after the crewmen jumped from the aircraft, leaving him alone in the plane with a red-and-white flight bag which he said contained a bomb.

The bag contained some books and papers and a lollipop. "There was no bomb," said Rosack.

The crewmen escaped about an hour after the plane, flying from San Francisco, landed here at Stapleton International Airport. Thomas had gone back to the passenger compartment, apparently to see if his demand that the plane be refueled was being met.

As agents converged on the Boeing 727 and lowered its rear stairway, Rosack used a car loudspeaker to call for Thomas to surrender. Moments later, as it was growing dark, Thomas threw the bag off the plane and walked down the stairs with his hands up over his head. "I surrender," he was quoted as saying.

Thomas was arraigned Monday night before U.S. Magistrate Royce Sickler for aircraft piracy, which carries a maximum 20-year prison term, and held under $250,000 bond. When told of the amount of his bail, Thomas cried, "You'd think I was the killing, criminal type." The curly-haired Thomas told Sickler he was an unemployed, disabled Army veteran and did not have enough money to hire an attorney.

Thomas described himself to Sickler as "a psychiatric case" and asked to see a psychiatrist. Sickler told him to take that up with his court-appointed attorney. No mention of Thomas' alleged cancer was made during arraignment. When he first commandeered the flight the hijacker told the crew he suffered from terminal cancer and needed treatment.

He initially demanded to be flown to Memphis, Tenn., then changed his destination to Cuba.

The Seattle-bound jet was diverted to Oakland, Calif., where all 68 passengers and the four flight attendants were allowed to leave. A refueling stop was planned at Denver but because the plane did not have enough to reach Memphis. Pilot Al Grout, 54, and co-pilot Jack Bard, 40, broke bones in the jump from the cockpit. Flight engineer Louis Warfield, 34, was not injured. Grout had his leg placed in a cast and was released. Bard remained hospitalized overnight with a broken left heel.

Redevelopment

Commissioners approved an amendment to the engineering contract with Rivers & Associates to bring land surveying rates up to present levels. Joe Laney, commission executive director, said that the contract was executed in 1973 and engineering service rates have gone up.

The engineering services involve survey plats for disposal parcels and acquisition severances. Boyd said that two acquisitions were completed in Southside since the last meeting and one purchase was made in the West Meadowbrook area. One demolition also took place in West Meadowbrook, he reported.

A resolution was adopted authorizing employees of the Redevelopment Commission with ten or more years in the retirement system to purchase their military time served to be applied toward retirement credit.

An eligible employee has the option to purchase, for a lump sum, his service time based on initial salary and rate of contribution to the retirement system when he became eligible, plus six per cent interest. The cost to the commission would amount to .13 per cent of the employee contribution to the retirement system.

Ayden Board...

(Continued from page 1) re-application for the grant are held to provide local input into what areas the money, will be allocated.

Four additional target areas were discussed by the Advisory Board of the CD program. These are: (1) Ormond, Throver, Jackson, and Joyner Streets, (2) Turnage, Blount, and Watermelon Streets, (3) East First, Hart, McCary, and Blount Streets, and (4) West First Street.

The Board also approved all the new areas for "revitalization" except for West First Street.

Suggestions were made last night for including a mini-park in the HUD application and perhaps a day-care center to be run by volunteers.

Cox said that HUD has not sent him the final regulations or information concerning the final deadline.

In related business, the Board approved Jasper Smith to serve on the Community Development Advisory Committee.

The Board also decided to table any action concerning the leasing of the railroad property to Marshall Desten's Wild West Show, as representatives of the show had requested more time to negotiate with the railroad company for additional frontage.

An amendment to the town budget for fiscal year 1977-78 was approved with an addition of approximately $4,000 from Law and Order funds. These funds added to additional anticipated revenues from the Clean Water Bond grant and Water and Sewage charges will be placed under Police Salaries, well repair, and possibly replacement of the town's present lift stations.

The Board also authorized the demolition of a condemned building on Pitt Street. The Building Inspector was authorized to demolish a substandard vacant house after all laws had been complied with.

In further business, the Board authorized the town Tax Collector to advertise and sell all real property where taxes remain unpaid

Death Ruled By Drowning

Dr. Jack A. Koontz, Pitt County Medical Examiner, reported this morning that drowning has been ruled as the official cause of death of Mrs. Jean Edwards, whose body was found in a rural pond on Feb. 19.

Dr. Koontz said that word had been received from the state medical examiner's office on the Edwards autopsy and that the toxicology report was negative, showing no sign of drugs or alcohol in the bloodstream.

Dr. Page Hudson Jr., state chief medical examiner, had indicated earlier that death was probably due to drowning but an official ruling withheld pending the toxicology report.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson reported today that his office is continuing to investigate the death.

Mrs. Edwards had been indicted on Jan. 23 for the Jan. 17 shooting death of her husband. She was released under a $50,000 bond pending trial and had been missing from her home for some ten days when her body was found floating in a pond near Greenville.

Restructuring Move Seen As Failure

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A plan to segregate big-time college football schools from the game's lesser lights is failing, the Associated Press has learned, with potentially ludicrous results.

Today marks the end of the 60-day period the NCAA's football-playing schools had for declaring a three-year commitment in divisions I-A or I-AA, which were created at the NCAA's convention in January.

A check by the AP discovered the five conferences and perhaps all 17 independents being urged to comprise the bulk of I-AA, the "minor league," are adamant in their decision to opt for big-time IA.

Designers of the restructuring plan hoped for roughly 80 members in I-A and 80 in I-AA. But now it appears I-AA will contain as few as 28 or 30 members — comprised mostly of the Big Sky, Yankee, Ohio Valley and Southwestern athletic conferences.

Under the restructuring plan of the NCAA Council, these guaranteed appearances were transferred to I-AA, where the "tier group" would presumably locate.

Under the mathematical ratio used to figure the television guarantees, a division I-AA of around 28 members would be guaranteed about 10 regional appearances every two years, each with a payoff in the neighborhood of $450,000.

its while another, larger group faces dwindling finances and uncertain futures.

The 60-member College Football Association can be expected to discard its low profile. The CFA, chief spear-carrier for the big-time powers, may become more aggressive, launching renewed efforts to gain a measure of autonomy within the NCAA membership for the Notre Dames, Oklahoma, Penn States, etc.

The four-year, $118 million contract the NCAA signed with ABC-TV last spring lies at the heart of the issue.

The contract guaranteed 16 appearances each two years for a "tier group" of 57 schools — 17 independents who had not been on television the past three years, plus the Pacific Coast Athletic Conference, the Missouri Valley, Southern, Southland and Mid-America conferences.

Under the restructuring plan of the NCAA Council, these guaranteed appearances were transferred to I-AA, where the "tier group" would presumably locate.

appearances every two years, each with a payoff in the neighborhood of $450,000.

Thus, Boise State of the Big Sky and Vermont of the Yankee two examples of schools which never before even glimpsed a television check — could be banking hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Schools like Tulsa of the Missouri Valley and Kent State of the Mid-American may see a disappearance of already-slim TV revenue.

Brand New Spring, Brand New Tunes

Yankee catcher Thurman Munson (r) is congratulated by teammate Reggie Jackson in 1977 after hitting a two-run homer against the Kansas City Royals. Last year, it would not have been a good idea to invite the two to a cocktail party together.

But this is a brand new spring and Munson and Jackson seem tuned to the same wavelength — at least to the extent of mutual respect for each other's abilities on the diamond. (AP Laserphoto)

Titan Coach Sees Game As Title One

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — As Detroit coach David Gaines sees it, the winner of tonight's game between his 18th-ranked Titans and North Carolina State will probably go on to win the National Invitation Tournament.

"And I think the key for us is doing it on the boards," the first-year coach added. "We want to run if possible, yes, but we've got to get the ball off the boards. Once before when we couldn't do that, it cramped our style."

Detroit's style is run-and-gun, and it's paid off for the Titans this season. Gaines' team carries a 25-3 record into tonight's game — the best of any squad in this year's NIT — and has averaged 94.8 points a contest.

The Titans' fast-paced attack impresses N.C. State coach Norm Sloan.

"In playing Detroit, we're going to meet one of the best teams in the country at the transition game," Sloan said. "Their fast break is outstanding. They're a very loose, wide-open running team with excellent shooting percentages."

That suits 7-foot-2 Wolfpack center Glenn Sudhop just fine, however.

"We prefer to play a team like Detroit, one who plays a run-and-gun style," Sudhop said. "They're playing into our hands."

Although Gaines concedes that N.C. State, 19-9, "outsizes us at every position," Detroit's 6-foot-7 center, Terry Tyler, averages 12.9 rebounds a game — compared to a 6.1 average for the taller Sudhop.

Because of a change in the tournament pairings, the winner of tonight's game will play the winner of the Georgetown/Dayton match when the tournament moves to New York's Madison Square Garden for the semifinal round March 19.

N.C. State officials said Monday that tonight's contest would not be televised because about 2,500 to 3,000 tickets remained unsold.

Farmville Tennis Is Lacking Experience

By JIM KYLE, Reflector Sports Writer

Farmville Central tennis coach Don Dempsey paints a pretty discouraging picture of his team's chances for success this season. With the top three players from last season gone, the Jaguars might be lucky to win a single match, according to Dempsey.

Dempsey, a veteran girls' coach at Farmville in his first year at the helm of the boys' team, said things are looking "terrible. We had a couple of pretty good players last year and they both graduated."

As a result, the Jaguar team has very little experience. Only junior Roy Richardson, the number one seed, has more than one year of varsity playing time. "Inexperience will be one of our main problems, there isn't any question about it," Dempsey said.

"I just don't know if we can beat anybody. I've been looking around for someone we can beat, but I don't know who it would be."

The coach admittedly doesn't know a lot about what the other teams in the area have, however.

Richardson is "the best player on our team," according to Dempsey. "but he played down low in the lineup last year and didn't play any good games. I'm sure that will give him a problem this year." As the top seed, Richardson may have trouble building a good record.

Senior Sully Sullivan has played tennis for several years, but last season was his first on the Farmville Central team. The team's second seed, Sullivan "probably will win some matches because he does have some experience," Dempsey said.

The third man on the ladder is senior Wayne Winstead, another player with just one year's experience. "Wayne has a good attitude and is improving," according to Dempsey. "He might be able to help us some by the end of the year."

Three sophomores round out the starting six. They are David Dunn, Bobby Patterson and Skip McLawhorn, ranked in that order. "They have some ability, they just didn't start playing early," Dempsey said.

Only two other teams, Greene Central and C. B. Aycock, will compete in tennis in the Eastern Carolina Conference this year. Dempsey said the Rams are supposed to be improved, while the Falcons lost a number of good players.

"I don't know who's going to win this year," the coach concluded, "but I wouldn't place any heavy bets on our winning."

Lady Pirates Sweep Openers

East Carolina University's women's softball team opened its first season yesterday with a sweep of a doubleheader against North Carolina Central. The Lady Pirates took the first game, 10-4, and then polished off their foe, 16-6, in the second contest.

East Carolina pushed over two runs in the first inning of the opener, and added three in the fourth, two in the fifth and three in the sixth. N.C. Central got one in the fourth and three in the seventh.

Gay Hines led the Pirate hitting with four, while Robin Faggart added three, including a homer. Denise Dixon also homered for the Lady Pirates.

In the second game, East Carolina pushed over two in the second, six in the third, and four each in the fourth and sixth innings. Central got four in the fifth and two in the seventh.

Addie Carter, Sue Cobb and Donna LaVictoire each had four hits for ECU, while Jan McVeigh added three.

Leigh Sellars was the winning pitcher in both games.

East Carolina, now 2-0, travels to Central on Wednesday.

First Game: N.C. Central 000 100 3-4, East Carolina 200 323 x-10

Second Game: East Carolina 026 404 0-16, N.C. Central 000 040 2-6

Duke's Foster Coach Of Year

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Duke's Bill Foster, who guided the Blue Devils this season from last place to their first Atlantic Coast Conference tournament title since 1966, has been named ACC basketball coach of the year.

Foster received 82 of the 125 ballots cast for the honor by members of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association. Dean Smith of North Carolina was second with 20 votes, while Norm Sloan of North Carolina State was third with 18.

The Blue Devils, after finishing second to North Carolina in this season's ACC standings, won the conference tournament and a trip to the NCAA playoffs.

Foster needed four years to accomplish his rebuilding job at Duke, and his own recruiting was the key. The last three conference rookies-of-the-year have been Duke freshmen under Foster — Jim Spanarkel, Mike Gminski, and Eugene Banks.

In fact, there is not a single senior on Foster's seventh-ranked squad.

After building successful programs at Bloomsburg (Pa.) State, Rutgers and Utah, Foster arrived at Duke for the 1974-75 season. Since then, he has compiled a 64-46 record, boosting his 17-year mark as a college head coach to 272-171.

The 47-year-old Norwood, Pa., native is a graduate of Elizabethtown (Pa.) State and holds a masters degree from Temple University. In 1975-76, he served as president of the National Association of Basketball coaches.

Goalie Giles Melcohe of the California Seals, had a record six assists in the 1974-75 National Hockey League season.

Wildcats Top Final Poll; Duke Seventh

By The Associated Press

Kentucky and UCLA, who had to come from behind in the second half to win their first-round games in the NCAA playoffs, wind up one-two in the final weekly Associated Press college basketball poll.

The Wildcats, who rallied to beat Florida State 85-76 on Saturday, received 29 of 43 first-place votes and a total of 828 points in the poll announced Monday to retain the top spot which they have held for most of this season. Kentucky takes a 26-2 record into the Midwest Regional semifinals against Miami on Thursday.

UCLA got 11 first-place votes and 790 points after struggling to get past Kansas 83-76. The Bruins, also 26-2, have drawn Arkansas as their second-round opponent on Thursday.

Marquette, the defending NCAA champion, was upset by Miami 84-81 in overtime in the opening round and plunged from third to eighth.

Another team with a 26-2 mark, DePaul, moved up one spot to third place in this week's poll. The Blue Demons beat Creighton 80-78 in their first-round NCAA tournament game and face Louisville on Friday.

The four other clubs which climbed past Marquette, all first-round winners, were Michigan State, up two places to fourth with 505 points; Arkansas, up two places to fifth with 488 votes; Notre Dame, up four places to sixth with 411 points, and Duke, up one place to seventh with 378 points.

Following Marquette, in eighth place with 342 points, are Louisville, 305, and Kansas, 234.

The Second Ten consisted of San Francisco, New Mexico, Indiana, Utah, Florida State, North Carolina, Texas, Detroit, Miami and Pennsylvania.

DePaul, Michigan State and Utah received one first-place vote apiece. Newcomers to the Top 20 this week are Indiana, Miami and Penn, replacing Houston, Syracuse and Illinois State.

IF Looks To More Offense Next Season

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Defense may be the way you win games — but it's also a pretty good way to lose fans. So the National Football League plans to open up the offense a bit more in 1978.

The league's 28 owners were expected to vote today on a package of proposals to give quarterbacks more protection by slowing down the defensive charge and to give him better targets by limiting defensive tactics against his receivers.

To get these and other rule changes in the books, 21 owners have to approve. Commissioner Pete Rozelle repeatedly stressed to newsmen Monday that the changes were only proposals — but it seemed unlikely they would be rejected.

Here, basically, are the proposed changes:

—Offensive linemen may lock or flex their elbows and open or clench their hands when fending off defensive players. Previously, the locked elbow and open hand were prohibited.

—A defender may make one intentional contact with a potential receiver and it is limited to within five yards of the scrimmage line. Previously a defender could "chuck" the receiver as often as he wished within a three-yard zone and once again further downfield.

—A double touch will be allowed by offensive players. In the past, if a pass receiver tipped the ball, no other offensive player could touch it unless a defensive player touched it first.

—Intentional grounding by a quarterback trapped in his end zone, previously a penalty of half the distance to the goal line from the scrimmage line, is now a safety.

E. Wayne Tops Jags

NEW HOPE — Eastern Wayne rolled to a 12-2 victory over Farmville Central as the Lady Jaguars opened their softball season yesterday.

Farmville pushed over two runs in the first inning, but were unable to score again, despite leading the bases on three different occasions.

Eastern Wayne came up with two in the third to tie it up, then added one in the fourth, three in the fifth and six in the sixth.

Diana Gordon and Dianne Barrett led Farmville with three hits each, while Melba Wiloughby added two.

Darcy Lee had a solo homer for Eastern Wayne in the fourth inning.

Farmville, now 0-1, plays host to South Edgecombe on Wednesday.

NEW YORK (AP) — He reads books like "The Power of Concentration" and authors like Ralph Waldo Emerson, thinks about life in metaphysical terms and uses phrases like "positive thinking" and "mind power is the only power."

If you think that Butch Lee is not your ordinary "jock" basketball player, you're right.

"I'd say he's in a class by himself," says Marquette Coach Hank Raymonds.

Along with this intensified intellectual drive, Lee also can hit the open man, blitz the baseline and shoot the middle out of the basket.

That has put him in a different athletic class as well. On Monday, his stock shot even higher with the announcement of his selection as The Associated Press college basketball Player of the Year.

"You couldn't have chosen a better person for this award," said Raymonds after his straight-shooting guard collected the Adolph Rupp Trophy in special ceremonies at a midtown New York hotel. The award is presented annually by The AP and the Commonwealth Athletic Club of Kentucky.

"The AP chose a man for what Coach Rupp stood for: a winner," added Raymonds. "Lee is a fine man being whom Adolph Rupp would be proud of."

Lee's parents would have had to be as proud, too. Alfred and Gloria Lee beamed as their son lifted the hefty bronze trophy with his name inscribed on a gold plate.

"I guess dreams do come true," said Lee, who has been dreaming about this big prize ever since he won a "little wooden trophy" as a New York schoolboy.

Captivated by the New York Knicks and enthralled by Earl Monroe ("I always wanted to create the excitement he does"), Lee vowed to leap out of the ghetto through athletics.

"I set a very high standard for myself," Lee said. "I wanted to be the Player of the Year in the country."

Although shy when he first arrived on the Marquette campus in Milwaukee, he eventually came out of his shell for good as an upperclassman.

He looked inside himself and found unique possibilities.

"The mind," he says, "is the source of everything. People don't know what they're capable of. I believe we have tremendous power flowing from our minds. You can do anything you want to if you THINK you can."

Lee's scoring average was down a couple of points from last year, at 17.3, but his overall game picked up. He wound up as Marquette's second leading scorer in history.

The nationwide balloting gave Lee a 2-to-1 margin over his nearest competitor, North Carolina's Phil Ford. Lee received 121 votes to 62 for Ford.

Larry Bird of Indiana State was third in the voting with 44 and Minnesota center Mychal Thompson was fourth with 33 ballots. Freeman Williams of Portland State was accorded fifth place with 13 votes.

Saints Rally Past Farmville

DUDLEY — Southern Wayne rallied for three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to take a 3-2 victory over Farmville Central yesterday.

The defeat was the first for the Jaguars in two starts.

Farmville took the lead in the game in the first inning, getting a run. Billy McLawhorn singled and stole second. He was sacrificed to third, and scored on Phillip Gordon's double.

The Jaguars added their other run in the sixth. Edward Hines singled and Eugene Joyner ran for him. Lewis Velverton singed, and both runners moved up on an out. A balk then scored Joyner for the 2-0 Jaguar lead.

But the Saints came up with three in the bottom of the seventh to win it. Rose singled and Williams walked. Polk reached when his grounder was misplayed. Dove then tripled in all three runners to win the game.

Farmville Central returns to action on Thursday, playing host to Rose.

Gloria, Mike To Leave Family

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — On Sunday, the famed family of CBS' "All in the Family" is breaking up. Archie and Edith Bunker's daughter, Gloria, and her husband, Mike, are leaving home, ending part of an era.

The Stivics and their young son are moving to California. Mike, the house liberal in the working-class hostel of America's best-known bigot, has accepted a university's offer to teach.

In reality, Rob Reiner (Mike) has a new ABC series afoot, and so does Sally Struthers (Gloria), she for CBS.

It means the Bunkers, played by Carroll O'Connor and Jean Stapleton, will return next fall without them, facing a ninth season in what some wags have dubbed "Part of the Family."

This Sunday's show, No. 183 in Norman Lear's hit series, was taped two Fridays ago in an atmosphere akin to a wake, the good kind. It was marked by laughter, sadness and one-take professionalism.

Lear, who is leaving TV, possibly for good, personally greeted the audience of nearly 300 souls who braved a driving rainstorm that night for the farewell taping in Stage Four at station KTTV here.

Most were show-biz folks, friends of the cast and staff. They and Lear howled when the production crew, usually a casually dressed lot, went on stage clad in tuxedos. It was their own "Family" salute.

Lear briefly discussed the series. He also read a letter from House Majority Whip John Brademas of Indiana, who praised the show and asked if Archie and Edith's chairs could go to the Smithsonian.

The sad-faced producer grinned, said sure, the chairs would be donated. Then he introduced the cast regulars, starting with Miss Struthers, "a glorious comedienne and actress."

She got a standing ovation. Lear raised his hands in mock dismay and said, "Oh, you can't do that every time. Save it." His order was ignored as Reiner, Miss Stapleton and O'Connor appeared.

At 8:37 p.m., after a false start, taping began.

Lear eased into a crowded control booth backstage, sat next to Brigit Jensen-Drake, a pleasant, white-haired woman who has worked on his "Family" ever since CBS introduced them on Jan. 12, 1971.

Alternately beaming and peering at the bank of TV monitors before him, Lear said little, lost in his own thoughts. After each scene, he went on stage, chatted a bit, then returned.

You wouldn't have guessed the last of the original "Family" was being recorded. The booth atmosphere was loose, relaxed. That is, until the show's closing scene of Archie and Edith.

The kids gone, they sat in their living room, Archie fighting tears, Edith softly weeping. They said nothing. The scene on the monitors slowly faded to black. The work was over at 9:13 p.m.

It was quiet in the booth and on stage. Then, a few sniffles were heard, then increasing applause. Lear leaped up, shook hands all around, and ran on stage, hugging each member of the cast.

QUITTING "MAUDE" — Actress Beatrice Arthur relaxes at home Monday in Los Angeles with her dog Julie after announcing she is quitting the television series "Maude". "I have had six full years", Miss Arthur said. "It's been absolutely glorious, I've loved every minute. But it has been six years and I think it's time to leave." (AP Laserphoto)

The American Contract Bridge League Charity of the year for 1978 is the Mental Health Association. There are those who might say that this is truly a most worthwhile cause for any organization that has to deal with bridge players! The Foundation enjoyed its finest year in 1977 when it contributed $375,000 to various causes.

If you would like to join in organized bridge's efforts to promote the betterment of its fellow man, play in tomorrow night's Continental-wide Charity Game. Your local bridge club has details of the game nearest you.

Sitting East when this hand was dealt was the Foundation's treasurer, Lee Hazen of New York. At the time, he was a relative neophyte at the game, while the declarer was an experienced player whose skill Hazen respected. Hazen had to refuse a charitable act to thwart South's attempt to bring home his spade slam.

Against South's six spade contract West led the jack of diamonds. Declarer ruffed, cashed the ace of spades, noting the 3-0 split, and unblocked the ace of hearts. Then he led the ten of spades, and Hazen paused to take stock.

It seemed that declarer had made a silly play, conceding a trick to the jack of trumps when obviously there was no need to. Since declarer was not known as the soul of charity when it came to the play of the cards, why was he acting so munificently?

Hazen was not completely sure of the answer, but one thing he knew: If declarer was keen to lose a trump trick, it could not be right to oblige. So Hazen allowed declarer to win the trick.

Declarer followed with the ace and king of clubs, and again Hazen applied the same principle: If declarer left trumps in the game, it could not be right to ruff. He sluffed a diamond, and discarded again when declarer continued with the queen of clubs. Now there was no way for declarer to avoid losing two club tricks.

Observe if Hazen accepted declarer's largesse, the contract would have made. Declarer would have had an entry to the table to discard his losing clubs on the K-Q of hearts.

Sharing Costs In Weevil War

RALEIGH — Cotton producers in eastern North Carolina will be paying $50.50 per acre of cotton to participate in the Boll Weevil Eradication Trial this year.

The official program costs were announced today by coordinators of the eradication program in the N.C. Department of Agriculture, the N.C. Agricultural Extension Service, and the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

According to N.C. Agriculture Commissioner James A. Graham, all cotton producers in the program's "suppressive" area will be required to participate. The suppressive area is that part of the state east of and including the counties of Caswell, Alamance, Chatham, Lee, Harnett, Sampson, and Pender. The area also includes the sections of the state east of Highway 87 in Cumberland County.

Graham stated that the first important deadline for producers will be April 15, by which time they will be required to report their intended cotton acreages for the 1978 planting season.

Producers must complete cotton acreage reporting forms at their local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service offices. Based on the acreage reported, each producer must pay a $5 per acre non-refundable fee to the ASCS, due also on April 15.

Anyone who reports an intended acreage after the April 15 deadline will be subject to penalties.

Graham added that the remaining share of the $50 per acre payment, based on acreage measurements to be made by the ASCS, will be due on June 15.

Cotton growers voted to provide 50 percent of the funding for the eradication program in a referendum held in December, 1976. The other 50 percent is being provided by the federal government and the State of North Carolina.

Producers who need further information should contact their local ASCS offices, county agricultural extension offices, or the N.C. Department of Agriculture's pesticide and protection division.

Ingram Raps Insurance Profits

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Insurance Commissioner John Ingram said Monday that figures for a recent three-year period show that profits for North Carolina's insurance industry were "six to seven times the national average."

"My staff contends that there is no need for automobile insurance rate increases in North Carolina," said Ingram.

That was his reaction to the announcement by the insurance industry Sunday that it was putting a 6 percent auto insurance rate hike into effect while it appeals Ingram's rejection of the increase in court.

"In 1977, property and liability business reached an all-time high in underwriting and investment profits," Ingram said in a statement read at a news conference.

"The property and casualty insurance business has picked up momentum to such an extent that underwriting is estimated nationwide at $1.68 billion, the highest ever a 32 This figure surpasses the previous national high of $880 million set in 1972."

In announcing that it was appealing the auto insurance rate case, the insurance industry said that under a 1977 law it was putting the 6 percent increase into effect on April 1.

The industry said that figures it offered at a hearing before Ingram on the request showed that instead of 6 percent, it was entitled to a 23 percent rate hike.

In reply to questions, Ingram repeated his denial that an insurance company illegally donated $500 to his 1976 reelection campaign. "...To my knowledge there was no corporate contribution to my campaign in any manner," he said.

Ingram was referring to published reports that Insurance Department investigators were probing the possibility of such a donation.

Ingram, a candidate for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate, said he is convinced that the "allegation...is nothing more than a deliberate political smear to hurt my Senate candidacy."

As far as he knows, Ingram said, the allegation "was raised concerning a breakfast...held on inauguration day 1977, after I was elected." He said an audit is underway and he expects to have an additional statement when the audit is completed.

Suspect Some Teachers Over-Do The Discipline

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Members of the New Hanover Board of Education said Monday they believe "some teachers may have gone too far" in disciplinary methods that included tying students to chairs and throwing out their lunches.

In a principal's memo obtained last week by the Wilmington Star-News, there were also indications that some students' mouths had been taped shut and other students had been shut in closets.

The board went into executive session last Friday after board member Dorothy Johnson requested that it discuss "specific occurrences in the classrooms." Mrs. Johnson wanted the board to deal with a complaint from a parent that her child had been tied to his chair at Wrightsville Beach School. She also said there was a complaint a student's lunch was thrown out as punishment.

Since the Friday meeting, the Star reports that there have been at least three other complaints from parents with children at Wrightsville Beach School that teachers at several grade levels tied students to their chairs.

There have also been reports that other unusual disciplinary measures have been taking place at other schools.

Last Wednesday, School Superintendent Heywood C. Bellamy issued a firm warning to principals during their monthly meeting that such discipline methods would not be tolerated.

During Friday's meeting with the board, Bellamy assured members that teachers had been warned and that use of unacceptable discipline methods would be noted in a teacher's record.

Vice Chairman William F. Landon said he believes the situation is under control. He said he did not consider the reported cases "serious" but rather "blown out of proportion."

"I don't think it was as bad as everyone thinks," he said. "But I agree that somewhere along the line you've got to take care of the situation."

Board member Harry G. Latimer said, "As far as I'm concerned, I personally believe too much has been made of it, although I think some teachers may have gone too far."

He said it must be remembered that these students were tied with ribbon or yarn, not "rope or leather." Latimer also said he believes misbehaving children should be sent home.

"It's up to the parents now," Mrs. Johnson said, "to let the board know what's going on in the schools. I think we have to address ourselves to complaints even if they aren't pleasant."

First Donors In Fund Drive

KINSTON — The Kinston Jaycees have made the first contribution in the area drive to raise funds for the purchase of a blood cell separator, known as a Pheresis machine, to be located in Greenville.

The Jaycees contributed $1,000 to the drive, spearheaded by the Greenville Jaycees, following a successful fund-raiser Saturday evening here involving a "roast" of Dr. Jesse McDaniel, president of Lenoir Community College.

According to Dick Carney, administrator of the new Tar River Sub-Center in Greenville, the $1,000 is the initial contribution in the effort to raise $17,000 for the new machine. Jaycee chapters within the Tidewater blood program region are being asked to assist in the drive.

Carney noted that the machine will enable the sub-center staff to harvest as many as 15 pints worth of a single blood component from a blood donor. The machine is capable of removing components from the blood and returning the remaining components to the donor in the same process, he explained.

The Pheresis machine is used in the treatment of several blood disorders such as leukemia and other types of cancers.

Carney reported that the nearest Pheresis machine in the Tidewater Red Cross.

The Kinston Jaycees have challenged other clubs in the area with 100 or more members to match their $1,000 contribution. The Greenville chapter, in coordinating the fund drive, has also made a $1,000 commitment toward the project.
