

Consolidating Of Landfill Unpredictable Operations Is Discussed Coal Miners Voting Today

By STUART SAVAGE

City and county officials — at the request of the Pitt Board of Commissioners — held a joint meeting last night to discuss a possible consolidation of the city and county landfills, and to talk over problems of other agencies funded jointly by the two boards, such as the Pitt-Greenville Airport and Sheppard Memorial Library.

Commissioners and councilmen, along with city manager Jim Caldwell and county manager Reginald Gray, before the session ended, agreed to hold joint meetings every three months to discuss problems of mutual concern. Gray told the gathering the primary purpose of last night's gathering was to discuss the county's solid waste disposal study and to propose that the city close its landfill and use the county facility a quarter-mile West of the city limits. The county manager said commissioners have met with the eight municipalities currently using the county landfill and with officials from Farmville, which like Greenville, has maintained its own sanitary landfill. He said the nine municipalities have accepted the county proposal.

"The program is not finalized by any means," Gray told the joint session, emphasizing, "we want the program to be a cooperative endeavor." Continuing, the county manager said commissioners, "envison a county-wide solid waste program with as near equal service to all taxpayers as practical."

Gray said the county proposal includes the use of only one landfill in the county — the 130 acre county-operated site West of Greenville — and the installation of 40-cubic-yard containers at various locations throughout the county.

The container sites would be, "attractive, sanitary and clean," and would provide county residents a place, within a reasonable distance from their homes, to dispose of their solid waste, Gray explained.

Gray said seven to nine container sites would be installed the first year, beginning with the "outer perimeter of the county," with the remaining sites installed closer to the landfill over the next two years.

He said one container would be located at the landfill itself so residents can dispose of solid waste material there anytime, and explained that transfer stations — 40-cubic yard containers or compactors — would be located near the municipal limits of each of the towns using the landfill.

He said the transfer stations will allow municipal garbage trucks to dump their loads near their town limits, rather than drive to the county landfill as they now do.

Gray noted that the county would probably contract the hauling of the 40-cubic-yard containers to the landfill, "in the initial stages," because of the cost involved in the hauling operation.

The county manager told the city officials, the commissioners, "offer Greenville the use of the Pitt County landfill," with the county purchasing any of the city's landfill equipment other than Greenville departments could not use. "We don't want to leave you holding the bag," Gray emphasized.

The county landfill, Gray said, can handle, "double or triple the amount of solid waste without additional expense," and with better utilization of manpower and equipment.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's striking coal miners, defiant and unpredictable throughout their 109-day walkout, are voting again on whether to accept a new contract offer.

As before, most officials of the United Mine Workers said they expect a close decision by the 160,000 soft coal miners eligible to vote today at union halls from Appalachia to the Rockies.

"I ain't making predictions" about the final outcome, UMW President Arnold Miller said Thursday while flying from Washington to his home District 17 in Charleston, W.Va. But he predicted that the 21,500-member district, the union's largest, would approve the new accord.

Union spokesman Paul

Fortney said that, if the balloting is close, the result may not be known until late tonight.

In the first reported voting returns, UMW Local 1810 in Alledonia, Ohio, rejected the proposed contract by a 3-to-1 margin.

Local president Joe Hoskins, who said he believed the contract would be defeated when all votes were in, announced that his local voted 316-104 against the contract.

Three weeks ago the local also defeated a proposed contract. Union officials had forecast a close vote then but the rank-and-file turned it down by better than a 2-1 margin.

Union officials forecast a close vote three weeks ago, when a previous contract proposal was put before the miners. The rank-and-file turned it down by better than a 2-1 margin. After the contract rejection, miners almost universally defied a federal judge's back-towork order which President Carter obtained under the Taft-Hartley Act. UMW officials had said their members would ignore the order, as they had during a series of strikes 30 years ago.

Even if the miners accept the latest offer from the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, the strike would not end automatically.

The UMW and the Association of Bituminous Contractors are negotiating a separate pact to cover about 10,000 mine construction workers. Miners ready to return to the pits under a ratified contract may refuse to work if the construction workers are without an agreement and throw up picket lines.

Explosion Kills One

MORNING BLAST IN AYDEN — An explosion of unknown origin shattered Rick's Relics shop in Ayden this morning, killing the owner, Rick Swain of Kinston. Ayden Fire Chief Melvin Fussell said that two other persons were seriously injured in the explosion and were taken to Pitt County Memorial Hospital by the Ayden

Rescue Squad. Names were withheld pending notification of their families. Fussell said the shop, located at 105 E. Third Street, across from the Fire Department, had a portion of the roof and front window blown out in the explosion which occurred a minute or two after 11:00 o'clock this morning. Ayden Police Chief Tommy Burney said an Ordnance Disposal team from Fort Bragg had been called to check the building and to remove relics from the demolished building. Hundreds Evacuated Because Of Chlorine Leak In Enfield

By SHARON BOND
Associated Press Writer

ENFIELD, N.C. (AP) — Hundreds of persons were evacuated and 29 were taken to hospitals Thursday night after a leak developed in a chlorine line at the Enfield water plant, releasing foul-smelling, toxic gas into the immediate area.

Residents in a five-block area of this Halifax County town were evacuated from their homes about 7:30 p.m. by police and fire personnel wearing gas masks.

Some of those overcome by the fumes were found on their hands and knees, violently ill, when rescue squads arrived at the scene.

The leak, which occurred in an above-ground pipe outside the plant, was temporarily repaired within 40 minutes, according to Enfield Mayor B.D. Kimball.

The gas quickly dissipated, and those evacuated were allowed to return to their homes about 10 p.m., Kimball said.

"It caused a lot of furor," he said. "It could have been a lot worse."

The cause of the leak was not immediately known. Kimball said further repairs on the pipe would be made today. The water supply was not affected, he said.

Enfield Police Sgt. Claude Saunders said he was leaving the police station Thursday night when he was met by a man reporting a bad odor around the plant. A short time later, a young boy called police to say he "smelled Clorox."

Police, highway patrolmen, sheriff's deputies and fire and rescue squads from Halifax and neighboring counties were immediately dispatched to the scene.

Rescue workers found a boy under the plant on his hands and knees. The water plant operator, Doug Chapin, had gone inside the plant to try to shut off the chlorine line and was overcome on his way out, also dropping to the ground.

Saunders said crews wearing gas masks went from door to door in the low-income neighborhood, telling residents to "go as far away as they could get."

Some residents, choking and vomiting from the gas, had to be carried from their homes.

Others fled "with their night-clothes on," Saunders said. Some went on foot to a church parking lot, while others went to homes elsewhere in town.

Twenty persons were taken to Nash General Hospital in Rocky Mount. Six of them — Chapin, two police officers, and two residents of the area — were admitted to the hospital. They were reported in good condition early today.

Three persons were treated and released at Edgecombe General Hospital in Tarboro. Six others — four children and two adults — were taken to Halifax Memorial Hospital in Roanoke Rapids, where they were kept overnight for observation.

Dr. Walker Long said the six taken to Halifax Memorial were "in pretty good shape" early today. "Everyone who came, we're keeping a while," he said.

Long said some of those brought to the hospital told him "it seemed like the end of world" when they were overcome by the colorless gas.

Will Meet Needs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt said today the state will provide funds for the University of North Carolina system if federal funds are cut off.

Hunt said in a news conference that the state legislature is prepared to do whatever is necessary to adequately provide for the university system.

"If HEW does cut off funds to the system," Hunt said, "state funds will be adequate to cover the needs. Now I'm not saying the state would automatically appropriate funds to cover every program funded by the federal government. The legislature would take a look at the programs and provide funds for the true needs of the university system."

Hunt said state taxes would not be increased to cover the appropriations. He also said he was perplexed by HEW's refusal to accept UNC's desegregation plan and said he doesn't know if further negotiations will help the situation.

"I would encourage UNC President Friday and the board to enter into further negotiations only if they feel there is a reasonable chance for settlement," Hunt said. "Califano called me yesterday and recommended that the negotiations continue. But I told him negotiations are pointless if the chances for a settlement are slight."

Hunt has authorized the university to hire a law firm if the UNC board decides to challenge HEW's ruling and begin suit proceedings. The UNC Board of Governors ad hoc committee, elected to select a legal representative, was to meet today with Carl Voght, a member of Leon Jaworski's staff.

When asked if UNC's desegregation woes and the Joan Little case were having an adverse effect on national opinion of North Carolina, Hunt said he had felt no repercussions so far.

"I think North Carolina looks good when its lawmakers try to enforce the laws," he said. "I think people who are considering moving to the state will be pleased to find out that North Carolina laws are respected and upheld."

Begin Rejected Carter Demand On Settlements

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin flew home today after rejecting President Carter's demand for removal of Israeli settlements from the occupied territories as "not just" and appealing to the American public for backing.

Sources in Israel claimed the Carter administration is trying to get Begin replaced by Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, a report both the White House, the prime minister and Weizman denied. And Weizman told two Israeli newspapers the opposition Labor Party should join the government coalition to form a "national peace government" that would stand up to the United States.

Some observers pointed out that talk of a "Dump Begin" movement in Washington could be an attempt by Begin's supporters to deflect criticism at home of his failure to reduce Carter's support of Egypt's demands.

Begin went public in Washington and New York after three days of talks with Carter. He told the National Press Club in Washington that U.S. praise for Israeli peace proposals has "suddenly disappeared from the lexicon." Then he told the Conference of Presidents of Major American Jewish Organizations in New York that the talks were "difficult" because "either directly or indirectly, the impression was made to me that Israel was obstructing peace."

"What an allegation!" Begin declared. "There isn't one day we didn't work for peace. This is an allegation in which there is a moral wrong."

"I will again turn to the moral greatness of the American people — whether Christians or Jews — and appeal to their fairness." Rabbi Alexander M. Schindler, the president of the New York conference, responded with a call for an unrestrained attack on Carter's Mideast policy.

The White House had planned to issue a statement on the differences between the U.S. and Israeli governments but decided not to because "it possibly would be counterproductive" and "could further complicate a difficult situation," press secretary Jody Powell said.

Israel has established nearly 100 Jewish settlements in the Sinai Desert and on the Golan Heights and the West Bank of the Jordan River, the territories it captured in the 1967 Arab-Israeli War. The United States is backing Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's demand for removal of all of the settlements as well as self-determination for the Palestinians of the West Bank.

Begin in his Washington speech reiterated that Israel will never allow the Palestine Liberation Organization to control the Judean hills of the West Bank, overlooking Israel's coastal plain. And he declared that the Jewish settlements in occupied territory were "absolutely and inseparably connected" with Israel's future peace and security.

White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said the parity provision is unacceptable to the administration. The White House is expected within a few days to announce new actions to help the farmer.

Smith Sees HEW Issue Smearing N.C. Image

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

State Senator McNeill Smith says that the state's battle with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare over the agency's move to block federal funds for state universities is resulting in an "unjustified smearing of North Carolina's image."

The U.S. Senate candidate, campaigning here Thursday, said that he was sorry that HEW Secretary Joseph Califano had threatened to cut off the federal aid but he added, "I don't believe he will go through with it."

Discussing HEW's action, taken because of the University of North Carolina system's refusal to meet federal desegregation demands, Smith suggested that "because North Carolina has done more about education for blacks" in the past, too much may be expected of the state.

The matter "can and will be settled," the Guilford County Democrat observed, since "both sides agree" on the overall objective.

"What upsets me is that this is giving North Carolina the reputation across the nation of being...stubborn and backward, which in fact is not the case," he added.

Smith has urged North Carolina officials to continue negotiations with HEW.

He said that in the past, when new programs "came along" for the education system, officials were urged to locate them at some of the previously all-black schools "to attract a good ratio from all over." The new veterinarian program was suggested, for instance, for A & T State University in Greensboro, he said.

New Mobile Crime Lab For Pitt Sheriff's Dept.

A new mobile crime laboratory, equipped with "everything needed to go out and investigate a crime scene," has been placed in service by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

The $16,950 van, purchased through the Mid-East Commission, will be available for any crime investigation activity in the county, the sheriff said, including assistance to Greenville Police.

Sheriff Tyson said that two men will be assigned to the mobile lab initially and will share the call duties. Billy Tripp and John Baker have completed some 40 hours of training at SIRCHIE Fingerprint Laboratories in New Jersey, it was noted, and will serve as identification officers. According to the sheriff, the new vehicle has a complete stock of equipment for collecting evidence and handling crime investigations. Among the inventory items are narcotics testing equipment, fingerprint equipment, cameras, lighting equipment, metal detection kits, bill marking tools, tape recorders, evidence collection kits, blood kit, and a complete assortment of tools.

among other equipment and kits.

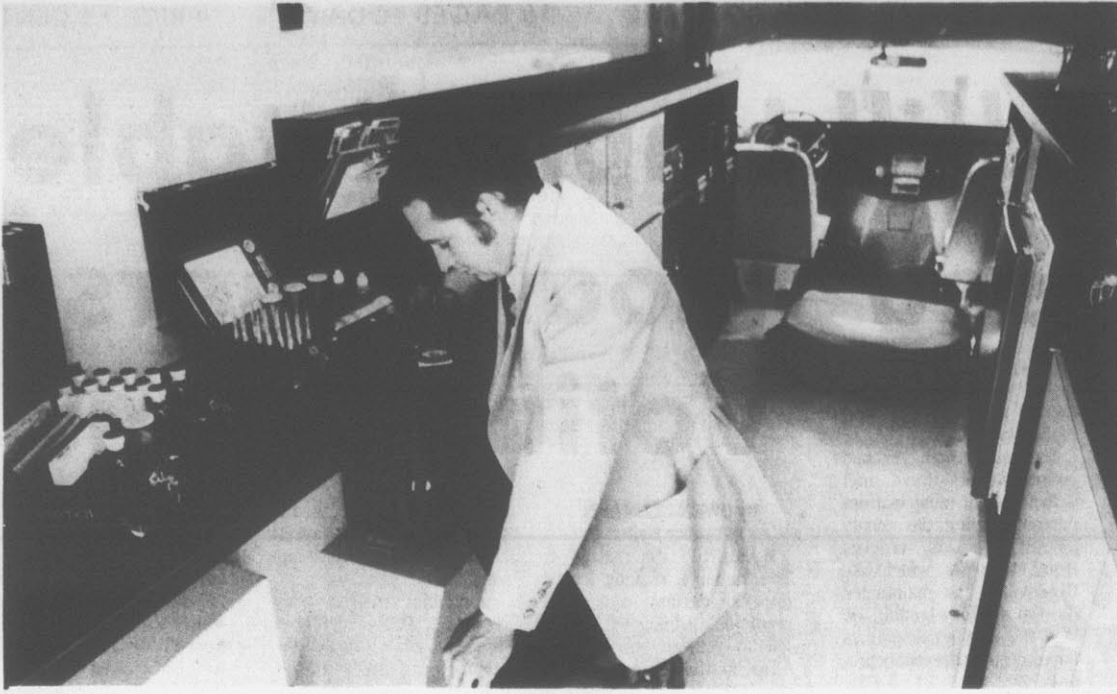

In addition, a refrigerator for film and blood sample storage is available as well as a sink, and working tables where officers can complete their investigation reports.

Sheriff Tyson, noting that investigators previously carried their equipment in a station wagon, pointed out that the new van is "completely outfitted" to handle county investigative needs.

Pitt County furnished five per cent of the vehicle's total cost or $847.50, the sheriff said, as did the state. The balance of the funding was provided by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, a federal agency, through Mid-East.

Mull Requirement For Solar System

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration, hoping to increase the use of solar power, is considering a plan that might force builders to install solar energy systems in all future homes, energy officials say.

How this would be accomplished and exactly what type of systems would be required aren't yet known, said an Energy Department spokesman.

But the spokesman, Jim Bishop, said such a mandatory solar program is being studied for inclusion in a "big solar initiative" the president will announce in May.

Bishop said the program would likely be announced on May 3, which has been designated "Sun Day" by citizen groups promoting increased use of solar power.

"There will probably be a presidential statement," Bishop said.

One possibility being studied, he said, is asking Congress to require that all homes eligible for Federal Housing Administration (FHA) financing have passive solar systems.

Passive systems use building design and solar collectors to maximize the effects of evaporation and heat flow, as opposed to more elaborate systems requiring pumps and other electrical and mechanical devices.

Bishop said that over the next few months the energy agency would work with officials of FHA and the Department of Housing and Urban Development to try to come up with a proposed "requirement that there be a passive solar system in every single new house."

"It has to be considered a top priority," Bishop said.

Motorists Ignored His Pleas To Aid Rescuer

MORGANTOWN, Pa. (AP) — When a single-engine plane swooped in front of his bus and crashed, driver Allan Thomas ran to the wreck. But other motorists ignored his pleas to help, stopping to take photos and movies as he pulled two victims from the burning plane.

"It was flaming, there wasn't time to go for help," Thomas said Thursday, after rescuing Harold Denlinger, 32, and his daughter, Emily, 8, from their plane, which had smashed into a dirt embankment along the Pennsylvania Turnpike near here.

Thomas was driving a Greyhound bus on a run from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia when he saw the plane crash about 2:30 p.m.

"I just took a chance, that's all," he said about running to the burning plane. "It was moving slow when it crashed, and I thought they might need a hand getting out."

They did. Emily's face had been raked by branches that whipped the plane as it tore through tree limbs. Denlinger was unconscious, his hands stiff on the controls.

Thomas took the girl first. "I wasn't scared," he said. "I just knew I had to get her out."

Thomas had problems when he went back for Denlinger.

"It was like he had been dead three days, he was so stiff," Thomas said. By this time, several dozen motorists had stopped, but Thomas's pleas for help went unanswered.

"I said, 'Won't somebody please help me?' but they all told me to get back, that the plane was going to explode. Some of them were taking pictures. Some of them were taking movies," Thomas said.

Thomas said two men finally came forward and helped him pull Denlinger from the plane. A bus passenger helped him lug a 50-pound fire extinguisher from the bus to the wreck and fight the fire.

State troopers, a fire engine and an ambulance then arrived. Thomas said the entire rescue took about 15 minutes.

Denlinger was listed in poor condition Thursday night in the intensive care unit at Reading Hospital.

Diamond Solitaire Is Sending New Message

NEW YORK (AP) — The diamond solitaire has long been, and continues to be, the universal expression of love, but one needn't be engaged to get the message, says Cheryl Poser, fashion director of the Diamond Information Center.

"The solitaire is the focus of a rapidly emerging trend in contemporary jewelry design which trades complexity and detail for the sheer eloquence of one beautiful gem," she says. "The current proliferation of diamond solitaire jewelry is part of the general movement toward classic form in fine jewelry."

Clean, streamlined shapes in bracelets, pins, rings, pendants and earrings provide a variety of showcases for solitaire stones, presenting them in simple surroundings, like individual works of art.

One designer positions a single diamond as the "catch" on a polished gold wristband, giving the stone a function as the closure of the bracelet. Another puts a round, brilliant-cut diamond on the end of a gold hair pin, which doubles as a lapel clip. One pair of earrings displays two diamonds wedged within gold box-like frameworks.

The interpretations are endless, but always fundamental, making the single stone the center of attention, Ms. Poser notes.

Designers agree that while the dazzle of small diamonds in clustered or paved arrangements offers an effective design treatment, a diamond of significant size — say 3/4 carat or more — can best be appreciated on its own. It is no longer an embellishment, but a star in its own right; to elaborate on the subject becomes merely redundant, they explain.

FOCAL POINT—The diamond solitaire stars in a variety of contemporary roles: earrings display round brilliant-cut stones in a gold box-like framework; single diamond is balanced on end of gold pin, to wear in the hair or on a lapel; solitaire takes the spotlight as the "catch" on a gold wrist band. Artists Discuss Work On Tapes

By KAREN MILLS
Associated Press Writer
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Do you ever feel when going through an art gallery that you don't understand what the artist wants to say?

That sometimes bothers artists too.

A project is under way in Minnesota which could cut through that language barrier and enable more people to understand the work of a selected group of women artists.

Slides of the artists' works are being coordinated with tapes featuring artists discussing the works — explaining how the finished piece evolved and what the artist is trying to communicate.

"We're demystifying the art experience," said Joyce Lyon, a painter and printmaker who applied for federal and state grants for the project.

"In our society, the visual is not that important to us so the sensitivity is generally quite low," she said. "It's the verbal language that is stressed in schools, and visual language often needs translation."

Work on the project began in September, and 14 tapes with accompanying slides are to be completed by August, said Ms. Lyon.

The slide-tape packages, geared to a general audience with some interest in art but not a great deal of expertise, will be available to community groups, schools and other interested persons throughout the country for a nominal rental fee.

The one-year project will cost about $10,000, which includes research, photography, editing, production and equipment. The project is being paid for with grants from the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, the Minnesota State Arts Board and Cardiac Pacemaker, Ms. Lyon said.

The contemporary artists featured in the tapes were selected from among the some 150 members of the Women's Art Registry of Minnesota, which is open to all women visual artists in the state.

The project was limited to women artists, Ms. Lyon said, "because historically and in the present a lot of the work of women artists has had no outlet."

She said statistics show women artists have created only about 5 percent of the work in major shows in the last 25 years, and "the numbers and quality of women artists far outdistance that."

Hostess's Approval Needed For Others

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: We have a wedding invitation with a smaller card included that reads as follows:

"Mr. and Mrs. _____ will attend. Number of guests _____." The outer envelope was addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith," and the inner envelope was the same. Is it proper to fill in, "Mr. and Mrs. Smith plan to attend, and the number of guests is FIVE"? (This includes our two children and my husband's mother, who makes her home with us.)

I say that since there was only "Mr. and Mrs." on the envelopes, the invitation is for only the two of us. My husband says that we are allowed as many guests as we wish, and they are asking us to please fill in the number. Who is right?

NUMBER, PLEASE

DEAR NUMBER: You are. Under no circumstances should invited guests include others without the approval of the hostess.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl living in a foster home. I don't mind being in a home—the mother is a sweet person and I love her. But the father is not the type of father I would like. I am very big for my age, and sometimes I have problems about it. The father has offered me money to let him touch me, but I have never accepted.

Abby, the reason why I don't tell my foster mother is that I don't want to be sent away from here.

I have asked God to help me, and He does. I'm saved, but I am still afraid of this man. I never let him touch me. I always run into the bathroom and lock the door.

Please tell me how to cope with this without being sent away.

AFRAID

DEAR AFRAID: Please, please, tell your foster mother! I am almost certain you'll not be sent away, but if you are, it would be better than living in your present environment. Your foster father is a sick man and needs to be treated. If you don't tell your foster mother, he could eventually harm you or some other young girl. I beg you to confide in your foster mother today. Write again and let me know how you are. I care.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 19 and in nurses' training, I became pregnant. It was the first and only time I ever went all the way, and I got caught.

The boy offered to marry me, but he wasn't ready for marriage and neither was I, so I said no. I had the baby and gave it up for adoption to a family unknown to me. But I was assured that the child would be loved and well cared for.

My parents stood by me through it all, for which I'll be eternally grateful because I caused them a lot of grief and heartache.

I've been a nurse for three years now and have fallen in love with a young doctor. He is so kind and good. I never knew anyone that wonderful could exist. He's asked me to marry him and I want to. But I don't know if I should tell him about my past.

Please advise me. He can't understand why I haven't given him an answer. Thank you.

R.N.

DEAR R.N.: Tell him the truth. If he's as "wonderful" as you say he is, he'll not hold it against you—and if he does, you're ahead to know it up front.

Foreign Minister Finds Job Stimulating

By ROLF SODERLIND
STOCKHOLM (AP) — Foreign Minister Karin Soder is generally regarded as the most successful member of Sweden's non-Socialist government, but she would never admit it herself.

"If my work is seen as positive, it depends on my able fellow-workers at the Foreign Ministry," she explained to The Associated Press.

Mrs. Soder, 49, has visited 18 countries since she became the world's only woman Foreign Minister late in 1976. A hard-working mother of three, she is an exotic figure in international politics. But she tries not to pay any attention to the fact that she is a woman, saying, "I try to do my job."

Is she satisfied with her performance so far? "No," she said firmly, adding with a smile, "and I hope the day I OK myself, someone will tell me to quit politics. Not being satisfied is the best driving force."

Mrs. Soder is the vice chairwoman of the Center Party, which formed a coalition government with the Conservatives and the Liberals after the fall of the Social Democrats in the September, 1976 general election. It was the first Social Democratic defeat at the polls in 44 years.

Prime Minister and Center Party leader Thorbjorn Falldin caused some surprise when he presented his cabinet list Oct. 8, 1976. Newspapers had speculated Karin Soder would be named Minister of Education or Minister of Social Welfare. Foreign policy had not been her field.

But Mrs. Soder got off to a flying start, speaking at the annual opening session of the United Nations' General Assembly five days after becoming Foreign Minister.

Summing up her experience so far, the former school teacher said, "It is more stimulating than I had thought it would be."

When not traveling or working at the Foreign Ministry, Mrs. Soder shares the house-

Pitt Tech Big Area Business

Pitt Technical Institute is big business for our area.

President William E. Fulford, Jr. reported at the institution's Progress Night Monday that its impact is $5 million annually. The total budget is in excess of $3 million. Financial aid to students of the institution amounts to over $2 million (including VA benefits) each year.

The institute's annual budget is supported with 79.1 percent state funds, 7.5 percent county, 9.2 percent federal and 4.2 special funds.

Most of that money goes directly into the local economy, but by far, even more important is what Pitt Tech does for the students who seek more training from the institute.

According to the Pitt Tech report 48 percent of its students are in technical programs and 15.5 percent are in vocational courses.

Technical courses include such programs as agricultural business, architectural drafting, accounting, police science, nursing and radiology.

Vocational courses include automotive mechanics, carpentry, masonry, cosmetology, surveying and other such fields.

Still other students are in courses designed to upgrade their occupational skills, while others are in general adult education courses.

For the future a new shop/classroom building to cost $1 million is due to be completed by May, 1979. In the planning stage are programs in energy conservation, auto parts counterman, auto body repair, industrial mechanic and a college transfer program.

The institute also sees an expanded role in health services in the future and courses in energy technology and conservation, as well as uses of solar energy.

Pitt Tech was founded to provide additional education to young people and adults at a low cost. Its programs have remained flexible through the years to meet these needs. The institute should remain as close to the grass roots as it possibly can. In this way it can continue to meet the quickly changing educational needs of the community in the best way.

Senate Losing Another Symbol Of Past

Another symbol will be gone from the U. S. Senate when Mississippi Sen. James O. Eastland retires at the end of his present term.

A strong conservative with 36 years service Sen. Eastland announced he would not seek reelection.

While he felt his health would allow him to continue in office, he could not at the same time conduct a long campaign such as he faced.

An era will be ending for Mississippi, the South and the nation.

THIS AFTERNOON

A Difference In Attitude

By BILL NOBLITT

SOUTHBOROUGH, Mass. — Computer Alley is a high-speed expressway in this inland community where thousands of workers occupy more than half-a-million square feet of factories producing space-age data processing gear for some half a dozen different firms.

There is no sewerage system: the plants are on septic tanks. Executive and laborer alike fight monstrous traffic on narrow, decaying, unmarked roads honeycombing the area. Employers line up at the local Employment Security Commission offices hoping to find on the unemployment lines somebody willing to take a decent paying job.

"Massachusetts is at full employment — even though the state's unemployment rate is seven per cent. We've stabilized at that," says Paul D. Stein, vice president for manufacturing of Data General Corporation.

Data General is now putting a North Carolina computer plant into operation, located in Clayton, a small (population 4,900) rural community in Johnston County some 20 miles east of Raleigh.

Not Fleeing

The firm is not, contrary to reports spread in Massachusetts, trying to escape anything in New England. "We did not come to North Carolina to move existing jobs to a better climate with disruption to families, property values and tax rates... we did not come to pay low wages and escape high-wage areas... a myth that has some vogue in New England."

"We intend to pay reasonable and competitive wages... equal to (or) higher than at our New England locations," Stein says. About 80 per cent of the Johnston County work force (eventually reaching 1,000 as contemplated expansions take place) will be North Carolinians trained in building the computers.

Neither was the move to escape taxes. "We expect to pay our taxes... but we also expect something in return. No worthwhile industry is looking for anything for nothing."

"But Massachusetts won't even put in one of the absolutely essential services for a business — a sewer system. We pay one hell of a lot on taxes and we expect basic services.

"They would like for us to grow in that state... but they do nothing to help us," Stein says.

NOBLITT

In fact, the state's leniency with unemployment and welfare programs is responsible for the "unfortunate situation... a state unemployment compensation rate and welfare benefit rate so high that it competes with the jobs we offer," Stein explains.

Still, Data General is expanding on the original site in Massachusetts, nearly doubling its executive and research facility.

Why Here?

Why a Data General plant in North Carolina, with expansion already being talked, and a possible second location elsewhere in the state somewhere down the road?

"Because our research people — and I — are convinced that this is the best state in the nation for economic growth," Stein says flatly. "We like it."

There is the usual cataloging of basics: education, climate, transportation, utilities, location.

But Stein says there is something beyond that even more important: "There's the matter of local and state attitudes... one that shows they really want development and want to welcome us as members of the community."

"North Carolina is well known for being really on the ball in providing basic services: an acceptance and ability to help get things done."

"But above all, there's the matter of attitude. And I can tell you things don't just happen accidentally... or if they do they likely won't be what local communities want to happen."

"Those communities which plan ahead with imagination, work to avoid the problems plaguing New England, and which go out seeking growth are going to find it... and they can be selective in the kind of industry which they bring in," Stein feels.

Panama Arm Twisting

WASHINGTON — There were a lot of rumors that President Carter did some old-fashioned arm twisting to get enough votes for the first part of the Panama Canal treaty in the Senate.

This was strongly denied not only by the White House but by senators who showed up the next day with their arms in slings.

Sen. Chisholm Chippendale told me he didn't think anyone in the Carter Administration leaned on him to vote for the treaty.

"I did get a call from Rosalynn a week before," he admitted, "but she just wanted to know how my wife was."

"That was thoughtful of her," I said.

"Actually, it was kind of strange," Chippendale said.

"because I'm not married." "They're weak on research at the White House," I said. "Anything else out of the ordinary happen last week?"

"Well, I don't know if it's worth mentioning but Ham Jordan came out to the house on Monday and offered to cut my lawn. I told him it didn't seem worth cutting because of the winter, so he said he'd mulch it for me."

"All by himself?" "No, Jody Powell came out about noon and helped him. I thought that was real nice of those two boys, what with all they've got to do."

"Ham likes to mulch lawns," I told him. "Then what happened?"

"Well, I was working in my office on Tuesday and a box with a note in this girl's handwriting arrived from the White House. It was full of chocolate-chip cookies and the note said, 'I couldn't think of anyone I'd rather make chocolate-chip cookies for than you.' At the end of the letter she said, 'I love you,' and it was signed 'Amy.' I thought that was really sweet."

ART BUCHWALD

"Weren't you suspicious of all the attention you were getting from the Carter people?" "Heck, no. I just thought they were being right friendly."

"But I read somewhere they never answered your telephone calls in the past."

"That's true, but I called on Tuesday afternoon to find out what day were going to celebrate the Fourth of July this year and guess who they put me through to?"

"Chip Carter?" "Nope. Vice President Fritz Mondale. I was embarrassed to ask someone of his stature such a simple question, but he just laughed and said, 'That's what I'm here for.'"

"You really had a great week?" "That's not the end of it. U.S. Trade Negotiator Bob Strauss stopped by to see me that evening and invited me to go to Japan with him to talk to Japanese bankers about the yen. I'm not big on the yen, so he said I could visit a geisha house while he talked to the bankers. Heck, I never guessed Bob Strauss knew I was alive. But the best thing that happened to me was I got invited to have breakfast with the President on Thursday morning — just him and me."

"Wow! That must have been a thrill."

"Let me tell you it was. We had scrambled eggs, toast and coffee. Every other senator I've talked to who has had breakfast with Mr. Carter says he only gives them coffee — and, if they're lucky, a piece of Danish. A full breakfast with President Carter is the equivalent of a State dinner as far as my colleagues on the Hill are con-

Trying Senate Recalls

By MIKE SHANAHAN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring constitutional precedent, opponents of the Panama Canal treaties in at least five states are organizing attempts to recall senators who voted for the first of the agreements.

The treaty guaranteeing the waterway's neutrality was approved 68-32, with one vote to spare, and the pact to actually turn over the canal to Panama is expected to be equally close.

The efforts are being undertaken despite legal opinions that only the Senate itself can give members the boot.

Because of the length of time required for a complete recall campaign and the unlikelihood of ultimate success, the main purpose of the efforts appears to be changing the handful of votes necessary to defeat the second treaty vote.

Efforts to gather signatures for recall votes are known to be underway in Wisconsin, Louisiana, Arizona, Tennessee and Montana.

In Oklahoma and Colorado similar drives were begun, then dropped because organizers were informed that the Constitution has no provision for recall of U.S. senators.

A group calling itself Impeach Baker and Sasser Inc., organized in Tennessee with the declared aim of removing the state's two senators, Republican Howard Baker and Democrat James Sasser for their pro-treaty votes.

In Arizona, Dan Hough, who said he represented a group of Phoenix voters, obtained recall petitions on Tuesday from the secretary of state's office in the first step toward unseating Democrat Dennis DeConcini.

Over the next 120 days, Hough must obtain 185,252 signatures (25 percent of the votes cast for DeConcini in the 1976 election), to get the recall question on a statewide ballot.

Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Ariz., the treaty foes' chief strategist and head of a national coalition seeking to encourage public opposition to ratification, disavowed any connection with the recall drives.

"The Senate anti-treaty forces are in no way connected with the recall movement, which is independent," Laxalt said Thursday.

Four Pitt County schools, Ayden, Farmville, Stokes and Winterville are among more than 150 rural schools in the state that have already entered the 11th Annual Cooperative Essay Contest and others are expected to participate.

All rural schools in Pitt County have been sent material and invited to enter the essay contest, according to M. G. Mann, general manager of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Co-operative Association and the Farmers Co-operative Exchange, the two farmer-owned co-operatives that are sponsoring the contest.

The subject of the essay contest this year will be "The Kind of Farmer I Intend to Be" for boys, and "The Kind of Farm Woman I Intend to Be" for girls.

In addition to the usual prize of a one-year college tuition scholarship, the winner will also be presented with a $100 cash award to help pay other expenses during the first year of college.

THE GALLUP POLL

Family Income Needs Rise

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — By their own estimate, Americans believe that it requires $201 per week, as a minimum, for a family of four to make ends meet today.

In this latest Gallup Poll, the public's median estimate of living costs for a four-person family is the highest amount recorded in these surveys going back to 1937.

The extent to which inflation, now cited by the American people as the No. 1 problem facing the nation, has affected living costs comes to light in a comparison of poll results obtained by the Gallup Poll during the last 40 years.

In 1937, when the Gallup

Poll first asked this question, the median answer given was $30. A decade later the figure was $43, and by 1957 the amount had risen to $72. In 1967 the figure hit three digits, $101, for the first time.

During the last decade, inflation and a rising standard of living have doubled this amount to $201 per week. In short, while it took four decades for the sum to reach $100, it took only one decade, 1967-77, to double that amount.

No Regional Differences

In earlier years marked differences in living costs were found in the different geographic regions of the nation. In this latest survey, consumer estimates of living costs are virtually the same from region to region.

Previously, people living in the 13 Southern states had always gauged costs for a family of four in that region lower than had residents of the three other geographic regions. Currently, though, the median average estimate in the South, $200, almost exactly equals estimates from other parts of the nation.

Similarly, residents of the Midwest, who until 1976 estimated needs in that region as being significantly lower than those recorded on both coasts, peg their cost of living at the same level ($200) as do those living in the East ($201).

Predictably, inhabitants of the nation's largest cities (one million residents or more) cite a significantly higher figure ($248 per week) than do those living in smaller cities, towns, and rural areas.

This question was asked, as it has been since 1937, to determine the public's estimate of living costs for a family of four:

"What is the smallest amount of money a family of four (husband, wife and two children) needs each week to get along in this community?"

The following tables highlight the trend since the first survey and the results by the major regions:

Minimum Amount Needed By A Family Of Four (Non-farm families)
1978	$201
1977	199
1967	101
1957	72
1947	43
1937	30

Smallest Amount Needed By Family Of Four (Based on non-farm families)
NATIONWIDE	$201
East	201
Midwest	200
South	200
West	201

The dollar estimates arrived at in these surveys are based on national samples of the adult, civilian, non-farm population.

Strength For Today

ENDS AND MEANS

Some people will argue that the end justifies the means. The trouble with this philosophy is that before long the means becomes an end in itself. An evil means will sooner or later corrupt the most noble ends conceivable.

We live in a universe where everything operates according to well-established laws. We observe this in the physical universe, and scientists through the centuries have become familiar with some, but certainly not all, of these physical laws.

Many people find it hard to realize, however, that there are spiritual laws just as precise and binding as the natural laws of the universe. And one of these spiritual laws is that good ends can only be achieved through decent and righteous means. We cannot do evil things and cause good to result. No good end can be served by lying dishonestly, or deceit, or by casting aside the norms of decency and restraint. As we sow, we reap.

Urban Policy Decisions Loom

by MARC ROSENWASSER Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, ending his agonizing search for a national urban policy, today weighed proposals that sources said may provide an additional $3 billion for the nation's cities.

Carter was to make his final decisions today and announce them Monday.

Knowledgeable sources who asked not to be identified outlined for The Associated Press several of the "leading options" among 200 pages of proposals sent to Carter last Monday by domestic policy chief Stuart Eizenstat.

Eizenstat met Thursday with key senators to discuss the policy.

The urban policy has been in the works for a year. It was to have been unveiled last summer, but the task proved far more difficult than expected and the release was delayed until this spring.

Carter drew fire last summer when black leaders, mayors and union officials said he was ignoring his urban constituencies. At that point, Carter ordered his staff to step up work on the urban plan.

They emerged this week with a lengthy four-part proposal covering economics, community and human development, neighborhoods and government reform. For every program, Carter's staff gave him several options as to what course he might take.

The major thrust of Carter's plan is designed to stimulate business activity in areas that find it difficult to attract investment. Also among the proposals before the president are two that would immediately help some local governments that are battling to balance their budgets.

One proposal would provide a half-billion dollars for state and local governments hard pressed by rising welfare costs. The other is an adjustment in antirecession assistance which would more than triple next year's payout to more than $1 billion.

Carter also is considering a possible requirement that urban impact reports accompany all major legislative initiatives. He reportedly will favor financial incentives for states to aid their cities.

In addition to new spending programs, Carter is expected to restate some recent proposals and to alter existing programs. The sources said these elements of his policy could bring the total pricetag to $5 billion.

About $80 billion now flows from Washington to state and local governments, according to a Carter budget analysis.

Pilgrims Walk Way Of Cross

JERUSALEM (AP) — Thousands of pilgrims trudged along the rain-dampened Via Dolorosa this Good Friday, many of them laboring under heavy wooden crosses, to mark Christ's march to his crucifixion.

The solemn procession led by Franciscan friars in brown habits wound through the ancient lanes of Jerusalem's old city, stopping for devotions at the 14 stations of the cross.

The hour-long walk ended at the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, the traditional site of Calvary. In the courtyard of the 800-year-old church knots of worshippers waited their turn to file through the wooden doors.

The Latin liturgy echoed off the stone walls inside the church as the pilgrims filed up the steep staircase to the spot where tradition holds Christ

Cruel Symbol Of Hope

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

To some, it might seem an odd symbol. It's a rack of torture, an instrument of pain, shame and death. Yet the cross is the chief emblem of Christians, and to them, the sign of hopeful realism.

Their attention focused on it Friday as they meditated on its meaning. In churches across the land, believers gathered to reflect on Christ's hours of dying on the cross and its implications about our existence.

"The cross is folly to those who are perishing," writes the missionary-apostle Paul, but it is "the power of God and the wisdom of God."

It says, most obviously, that rough and brutal agonies rend our world, that there is hurt and tragedy even for the best of lives, that good is trampled, the innocent abused.

It's a hard reality, etched in the daily headlines of wars, refugees, sickness, hunger, disasters and death, and some call it all a madhouse, an absurd jungle, giving up on it, hunting escape in distractions, "spacing" out.

But curiously, the Christian stance embraces this tangled life as basically gracious despite its travail, and finds hope in it, even in its harshest of injustices, in the cross itself.

"It says that God is suffering with us," the Rev. John Shea comments in the U.S. Catholic, published in Chicago. "He is on the cross. Our suffering is not alone and somehow it will be brought to new life in ways we don't know yet."

That's why the day commemorating the crucifixion is called "Good Friday." To believers, it says that God himself, as mirrored in our dimension in Christ, suffers the anguish of this somehow disordered, human-run world, cherishing it, even though it kills him.

But why the atrocities? Why, the old question goes, does God allow the horrors, the unfairness, the evil?

It's a tough question, with many answers attempted, primarily that mankind was given the dignity of free will, to choose well or wrongly, and that he often does the latter to baleful effect.

In many ways also, the suffering chastens and educates against the blunders, ignorance and flawed acts and attitudes. "Suffering produces endurance and endurance produces character and character produces hope and hope does not disappoint us," Paul writes.

Finally, however, theologians say that many of the imbalances and afflictions of life remain unexplainable. As the voice out of the whirlwind told the protesting Job, it's not his business, but God's.

Yet the cross says he is "with people in their pain," Shea observes. "It's very hopeful. But it's not the type of hope that ignores the tragedy and pain. It's not Pollyanna." It says "that God is sacrificial love."

That's the theological crux of it; he bears the brunt of it, somewhat like a parent dying to save a drowning child who in ignorance or defiance has strayed beyond his depth.

This thing we call hope — it is a strange thing. It springs eternal in the human breast . . . and yet so often it has been mocked by time and tragedy.

Why, indeed, does every man cling to his hope, even when the self-styled realists cry "hopeless."

The answer is written in the beautiful history of the first Easter Day. Faithful friends of the Master came to anoint His Body. Came sorrowing . . . without hope.

And they returned rejoicing: "Christ is risen . . ."

That was the birthday of Hope . . . the certainty of Christians that even death cannot destroy the believing soul!

And every Easter Day countless men and women discover or rediscover that Hope. It brings a new joy to their lives. It will, to yours

Hunting The Source Of Formaldehyde In Water

LILLINGTON, N.C. (AP) — State water-quality officials are trying to determine the source of a formaldehyde spill on the Cape Fear River that continues to threaten water supplies in some eastern North Carolina communities.
 Investigators from the state Department of Natural Resources and Community Development began Thursday checking industries between Sanford and Pittsboro to determine if any of them were dumping the chemical into the river.
 Formaldehyde is a lethal liquid gas used in embalming and wood treatment.
 The communities of Sanford, Lillington, Erwin and Dunn switched to stored water after a heavy concentration of formaldehyde was detected at the Sanford water plant's intake about 2 p.m. Wednesday.

 Facilities at Fayetteville were to be shut down today. The mass of formaldehyde, moving downstream at about 1 mph, was expected to reach that city's Hoffer water plant late this evening.
 Wally E. Venrick, a regional engineer with the state Department of Human Resources, said the chemical might be sufficiently diluted by the time it reaches the mouth of the river to make closing Wilmington's water plant necessary.
 But Venrick said the Wilmington plant engineers will monitor the water until there is no further danger of contamination. He said the river may not be completely free of the pungent gas until early next week.
 The chemical had already contaminated raw water at the Sanford plant when it was discovered Wednesday during a routine test. The plant was closed, water lines were flushed, and the town switched to stored, treated water.

 Because of the early warning, water officials in Lillington, Dunn and Erwin were able to fill their storage tanks long before traces of the chemical were detected in the river above Lillington.
 The Sanford plant was allowed to resume normal operations Thursday afternoon. The Lillington, Dunn and Erwin plants were expected to start up again today.
 Venrick said that he was "very, very concerned" about the spill and puzzled by the source. Among the industries near the river that use formaldehyde are Weyerhaeuser Co., Reichold Chemicals and Allied Chemicals, state officials said.
 If the formaldehyde originated with one of the industries, whether it was deliberate or accidental, the industry would face stiff government penalties.

Reversal In Births Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's birthrate is on the rise, but population experts say the nation may nonetheless reach zero population growth by the middle of the next century.
 Provisional statistics compiled by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare show the birthrate climbed to 15.3 births per 1,000 population last year, up about 3 percent from the 14.8 per 1,000 recorded in 1976.
 It was the first increase recorded in the annual birthrate since 1970 and reversed the slow decline of recent years.
 But Paul Glick, population specialist for the U.S. Census Bureau, said the birthrate in the United States is still very low, and the number of children women expect to have remains at a statistical average of 2.1.
 The level of no population growth is almost exactly 2.1 children per family, slightly higher than the apparent two children per couple, because some children never reach adulthood.
 Glick said present projections indicate the United States will reach zero population growth about 2050, when the older generations that themselves were products of high birthrates have died off.

Wayne Hays To Campaign

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Wayne Hays hopes to begin campaigning in earnest in about two weeks for the Ohio House.

Hays, who resigned from Congress because of the Elizabeth Ray sex scandal, filed petitions this week for the Democratic nomination in June for the seat held by A.G. Lancione, 71, who is retiring.

Hays, 66, was prevented from actively campaigning when he tore a tendon in a knee last month in a fall at his farm. "I'm in a walking cast," he said Thursday in a telephone interview from the St. Clairsville bank where he is chairman of the board. "But I can get around. I can drive my car."

He said he expects to be out of the cast in two weeks.

Hays has lined up a campaign committee which includes his wife, Pat, as treasurer. "She's good with books," he said. Five other Democrats are running for the nomination. Only one Republican had filed petitions by the deadline Thursday.

Most Wouldn't Choose Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans believe cities are needed, but most of them would not want to live there, says a survey conducted by Louis Harris and Associates for the government.

The survey showed that cities are looked upon as necessary for their economic, cultural, intellectual and recreational services. But Harris concluded: "The city's image today as a place to live and raise children is overwhelmingly negative."

be, "no difference in costs," when asked by Mayor Percy Cox if Greenville's participation would affect the cost of implementing the county's plan in any way.

Cox then said, "I don't see where the city has any other choice," adding that "it costs us $100,000 a year," to operate the city landfill. Gray noted that it costs about the same amount to run the county landfill.

Councilwoman Milly McGrath expressed concern that abandonment of the city landfill would prevent the use of the 100 acre site for recreation, "when filled." She was told by Public Works Department director Mayo Allen that the site could still be used to dispose of tree stumps, dirt and other such material.

Allen noted that, "the way we're going now," the city landfill would last another 10 to 15 years. It would take longer to fill the area if it were used only for dirt, stumps and other such material.

Gray noted that by law, the county landfill is unable to accept large limbs and stumps.

Following the discussion, it was agreed that a joint committee work out a plan for presentation to the city council.

The two governing boards also agreed to form a joint committee to recommend changes in legislation which will allow city council and county commission members to serve as ex-officio voting members on the airport authority.

At present, the city council and county commissioners each appoint two members to the Airport Authority. Those four then elect a fifth voting member. One commissioner and one council member are included as non-voting members of the authority.

Commissioners and city council members indicated their willingness to contribute $1,500 from each of the two boards to the Greenville Art Center. The $3,000 will be used for a matching grant from the North Carolina Arts Council to fund improvements and repairs to the art center.

In discussing the joint funding of Sheppard Memorial Library, officials instructed the city and county manager to review the proposed library budget so both boards can act on the total budget for the facility when the new budget is prepared.

The next joint session of the boards was scheduled for June 6.

Smith Sees...

"The answer was that it would be easier to put the school at Raleigh because of the programs already there," Smith recalled. He said that "if that's the case, then you would never put anything there (at A & T)."

Smith noted that Califano, who also caused a stir when he proposed action involving the state's Stabilization program, has abandoned his attack on that and backed off the tobacco program.

Mentioning tobacco, the candidate said that there is "no need to fear programs that are factual." He said that research should continue for new tobacco uses.

Smith said that research has already shown that tobacco is one of the best sources for pure protein and that even after the protein extraction, the tobacco is suitable for cigarettes.

He asserted that tobacco is not the beneficiary of welfare and he pointed out that farmers "don't expect to be on welfare or be the beneficiaries" of give-away programs. Smith said that farmers are independents who just hope to recover more than they pay in production costs.

Smith, who recently received the endorsement of the N.C. Association of Educators, said that he still viewed the Senate race as one that narrowed down to him, Luther Hodges and John Ingram as the top three candidates.

The Robeson County native campaigned in various Pitt County towns yesterday and attended a reception at East Carolina University. He said he was depending a "great deal on grassroots support" in his effort to gain the Senate seat in Washington now held by Jesse Helms.

Retirement Bill To White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is expected to sign a bill which will allow persons in private business to keep working until age 70, and prohibit the federal government from forcing civilian employees to retire before any age.

The measure was approved 62-10 Thursday in the Senate and went to the White House for the president's signature.

Its chief sponsor, Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., who is 77, said he believes Carter will sign the bill next month. "This marks the first step in guaranteeing the right to grow old in dignity," Pepper said.

Beginning in Sept. 30, the legislation would eliminate a requirement that civilian federal employees must retire at 70.

Military employees are not involved.

The legislation also will prohibit, beginning at the end of this year, a private employer who has at least 20 employees from forcing a person to retire before age 70.

The bill will not alter the age at which most persons can begin collecting maximum Social Security benefits. Pepper also said most private pension plans will not be affected because they require a person to retire before a pension is received.

State and local governments also must abide by the new 70-year rule, but the bill provides for exceptions such as persons in high-risk jobs such as policemen or firefighters.

Card Of Thanks

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks to all my friends for the cards, flowers, gifts, visits and prayers while I was in the hospital and since I have been home. It was a lot of comfort to me and I shall always remember your kindness. May God bless each of you is my prayer.

Confirms Order Of Extradition

NEW YORK (AP) — Screaming and sobbing as she was carried from the courtroom, Joan Little has been sent back to jail following a judge's order that she be held for extradition to North Carolina to complete a prison sentence.

Revocation of Miss Little's bail Thursday by state Supreme Court Justice Leonard Scholnick prompted a noisy outburst by about 200 of Miss Little's supporters who crowded the Brooklyn courtroom.

Scholnick gave Miss Little's lawyer, William Kunstler, until next Tuesday to appeal the extradition order. Meanwhile, Miss Little, 24, will remain in jail.

Miss Little, who is black, gained national attention during her 1975 trial on charges of killing a white jailer in Beaufort County, N.C. Miss Little, who said the jailer tried to assault her sexually, was acquitted in that case.

But last year, while serving her original sentence of 7 to 10 years for breaking and entering, she escaped from a North Carolina prison and fled to New York. She was arrested in Brooklyn last December.

Last month, the New York

Appellate Division ordered that Miss Little be granted bail and she was released from custody on $51,000 bond. Since then, she had been working as a legal assistant for the National Council of Black Lawyers.

Gov. Hugh Carey subsequently ordered Miss Little returned to North Carolina to complete her sentence, leading to Thursday's revocation of bail, a prelude to her extradition.

Kunstler and Miss Little appeared before Scholnick with a final appeal. The lawyer repeated his frequently voiced claim that his client's life would be in grave danger if she were returned to North Carolina, an assertion that authorities there have called baseless.

Claim Panic Is Partly To Blame

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee blames the high cost of liability insurance partly on panic, citing one example of a school district's premiums jumping from $8,000 a year to $325,000 because one student sued for $1 million for an unspecified injury.

The small business subcommittee recommended more regulation of insurance companies. It suggested creation of a Federal Insurance Commission to oversee insurance practices not already regulated by the states.

Clemson Edges Past East Carolina

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor East Carolina's Pete Conaty

and Clemson's Mike Brown hooked up in a pitching duel yesterday afternoon, with Brown and his Tigers finally coming out on top, 3-0. Conaty gave up the first run in the fifth inning to snap the scoreless tie, and the Tigers added two more insurance runs in the top of the ninth. The Pirates were able to get to Brown, but not when it counted. Three times they left runners stranded at third base. Two of those runners reached there with none out, while the other arrived with just one away. But neither time could the Pirate bats get the ball far enough out of the infield to make it count for a run.

Conaty, who finally left the game after facing one batter in the ninth, did a fine job for the Pirates. He gave up seven hits, walked two and struck out two. Tim Stiller came on in the final frame, allowing a hit and giving up one of the two ninth-inning scores.

"Pete just got tired," Coach Monte Little said. "He pitched eight innings on Monday night. We really didn't plan on his going but about five, but he just kept getting them out."

Little was not upset about losing to the nationally ranked Tigers. "The kids did a fine job against a great team. We were tired (from four games in four days), but we still picked ourselves up. I'm proud of them. They fought well, and getting a split from a team like Clemson is something to be proud of."

The Pirates got nine hits off Brown, who walked one and fanned four in going the distance for his fifth win of the year against no losses. He was in trouble a number of times, but each time got out of it.

"I don't think we lost any of their respect," Little said of the Tigers. "Bill (Wilhelm, Tiger coach) said they played one of their hardest games Wednesday night against us (won by ECU, 4-3)."

"Losing to them won't hurt us. We have grown up a lot and we see now that we can play with anyone," Little said. "I still say we'll have a good year."

The Tigers offered a threat in the first when Robert Bonnette reached on an error after two were out and stole second. Another threat came in third when the Tigers put runners at first and second with one out. Again in the fourth they put men on first and second with two away.

Finally, in the fifth, the Tigers got what proved to be the winning run. With two away, Neil Simons doubled to left. Bonnette followed that with a single to left, scoring Simons.

Clemson offered no other threats until the ninth, when two more runs scored. Alan Hoover doubled to send Conaty from the mound. Bill Schroeder singled him in and courtsey runner Gene Wisniewski scored on a sacrifice fly by Billy Weems for the 3-0 final margin.

East Carolina threatened in the second, as Raymie Styons doubled and runner Tim Hardison moved to third in the first out of the inning. But a ground-out and a fly ball ended the threat.

In the second, Robert Brinkley and Jerry Carraway opened the inning with singles, and took third on a wild pitch, only to see two popups to the infield and a grounder end that chance.

The Bucs got their first two runners on in the fourth on singles, but again, couldn't move them up. In the seventh, they again put two on, but with two away, and couldn't do anything else.

In the eighth, Billy Best led off with a double and moved to third on a passed ball, only to again see infield outs end the threat.

"We just couldn't deliver the hit or the long fly when we had the chance," Little said. "Clemson did a great job on defense against us."

The win moved Clemson to a 15-4 record, while the Bucs dropped to 9-6. East Carolina will host Southeastern Massachusetts on Saturday in a 1 p.m. doubleheader.

First Showdown Set On Banks Of Mississippi On Saturday

ST. LOUIS (AP) — College basketball's elite, the survivors from an original tournament field of 32, converged today on the banks of the Mississippi River to await a pair of Saturday matchups that could prove strikingly similar.

The semifinal lineup of the NCAA's 40th postseason tournament is made up of Kentucky and Notre Dame, each relying on size and muscle, against Arkansas and Duke, underdogs with racehorse speed.

Kentucky, the nation's top-ranked team, faces Arkansas, No. 5, in the second game of the afternoon doubleheader at the 19,000-seat Checkerdome.

But first comes a confrontation between Notre Dame, No. 6, and Duke, No. 7, another pair of teams with contrasting styles.

As each team settled into its tournament quarters, the lone ripple was created by the status of Arkansas senior Marvin Delph, whose eligibility was revoked because of money raised to send his parents to the West regional tourney last week.

An NCAA subcommittee on eligibility reinstated the 6-foot-4 Razorbacks star 24 hours later, however. "I can't talk about it," Delph later demurred.

While Delph pondered his ex-emption, Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton and his Kentucky counterpart, Joe B. Hall, mulled over the quality of their teams' recent performances.

"We played awfully well in the (Nevada) Las Vegas game, the next to the last in our regular season," said Hall, "but we've been pretty much on the decline. I'm looking forward to coming back up now."

"I'm like Joe," said Sutton. "I don't think our ballclub has played as well right now as we played earlier in the year. I think that's due to the fact that miss any ball games, he hurt his knee and he really never has been able to come back and play at the same level he did earlier in the year."

If Arkansas is to capitalize on its advantage in speed, the 6-foot-11 Schall and 6-7 Jim Conley must neutralize the inside strengths of Kentucky's Rick Robey and Mike Phillips, 6-10 front-liners.

Sophomore guard Kyle Macy, a 90.1 percent free throw shooter, is Kentucky's outside threat. But for pure shooting, a Razorbacks threesome of Delph, Ron Brewer and Sidney Moncreif is unexcelled.

Duke's hopes against the deep Irish hinge heavily on the scoring and all-around court excellence of junior Jim Spanakel, the lone Blue Devils upperclassman to go with two sophomores and two freshmen.

Duke's Coach Bill Foster saluted the Irish as a team boasting finesse in addition to power and added, "They have very good, quick instincts. They're talented. They use their personnel very well."

Saturday's 2:15 EST doubleheader will be nationally televised (NBC), as will Monday night's championship game.

Conley Slips Past Pam Pack

HOLLYWOOD — A three-run homer by Nuggie Worthington in the fourth inning helped D. H. Conley defeat Washington 8-6 in a high school baseball game yesterday afternoon.

It was the second home run of the afternoon for the Vikings and the third one of the game. Conley's Ben Wilson and Washington's Lawrence Tolson each hit two-run home runs in the first inning to the fenceless left field.

Worthington's shot was over the fence in right, however, and came after Mike Phillips had singled and Mike Edens had reached on an error for the Vikes. The inning gave Conley a 6-5 lead in the game and two additional runs in the fifth sealed the victory.

Phillips, Edens and Worthington each singled to start off the fifth. Dixon reached on a fielder's choice, with Phillips and Edens scoring as Worthington was thrown out at second.

The victory, taken by Conley pitcher starter Jeff Allen, was the second of the season for the Vikes against one loss. They will play again Thursday in the first round of the Pitt County Easter Tournament at East Carolina's Harrington Field.

Rocky Mount Hands Rose First Loss

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer
 ROCKY MT. — Rose High was unable to come up with the hits needed to offset a four-run fourth inning by Rocky Mount and the Gryphons handed the Rampants their first loss of the season 4-1 yesterday afternoon. Rocky Mount got all three of its hits in the fourth and combined them with three walks to push four earned runs across. Rose also got three hits in the contest, but spread them out over three innings. Again, the big problem for the Rampants was not getting the hits with men on base. The Rampants left men stranded in five innings, all but one in scoring position.

"They made the plays they had to," Rose coach Ron Vincent sighed. "We just didn't get the hits." The coach said his team hit the ball hard, but the Rocky Mount infielders were able to gather them in for outs.

Mike Williams started on the mound and pitched the entire game for the Rampants, recording his first loss in two starts. Williams, who had 11 strikeouts, had trouble in only one inning, but the Gryphons took quick advantage of it. "Williams battled tough; he battled all the way," Vincent said.

The coach was also pleased with the entire team for never giving up. "We showed a little class today; we didn't ever quit," Rose scored its only run in the sixth after loading the bases to no avail in the fifth. "It's a long season," Vincent concluded. "We'll have another chance."

Rose had men in scoring position in each of the first three innings, but was unable to push them across. In the second, Greg Lee led off with a double to center field and made it to third on an infield out, but couldn't get home.

Rocky Mount also had a man at third early in the game, but was unable to score until the fourth. Billy Merrifield walked and went to second on a base hit by Jake Lassiter.

Davis Wants Decision On A's Future Today

DENVER (AP) — Oilman Marvin Davis has had a bellyful of his 3-month-old, on-again, off-again effort to bring the Oakland A's to Denver and has set a deadline today on the matter.

Contacted at his Palm Springs, Calif., home, Davis said Thursday night, "We'll know by morning which way it will bounce. We're having a press conference in Denver about 9 a.m."

"If they get together fine, if they don't, fine. We've had a bellyful."

Earlier Thursday in Denver, Davis had said he was 90 percent sure the deal would go through.

The latest hangup in the American League club's star-crossed sale is A's owner Charlie Finley's adamant refusal to pay more than $1 million to break his lease with the Oakland Coliseum. That lease still has 10 years to run.

Finley had been given a noon Thursday deadline by American League President Lee MacPhail to agree to pay $2 million of the Coliseum's demanded $3.25 million to break the A's lease.

In Chicago Thursday night, Finley said he wasn't going to pay that disputed $1 million and since he hadn't heard from MacPhail, he still still faced the possibility of running the club in Oakland this season.

"I'm down at the railroad station with my bags packed, but if that train don't show up with those money bags, I'll just unpack and play ball again in dear old Oakland," Finley said.

Finley insisted that San Francisco Giants co-owner Bob Lurie pay that disputed $1 million or that the remaining major league baseball owners come up with more than the $1 million they have agreed to pay.

Davis said his battery of five lawyers was still working on getting paperwork completed for the sale despite the 11th hour developments.

MacPhail, contacted Thursday, cast the first gloom on Davis's optimism. "If Charlie Finley doesn't pay, I can't guarantee the deal won't fall apart," MacPhail said.

Davis's representatives had met earlier Thursday with city officials to discuss use of Denver's Mile High Stadium by the A's when the major league season opens in two weeks.

The coach was also pleased with the entire team for never giving up. "We showed a little class today; we didn't ever quit," Rose scored its only run in the sixth after loading the bases to no avail in the fifth.

"It's a long season," Vincent concluded. "We'll have another chance."

Rose had men in scoring position in each of the first three innings, but was unable to push them across. In the second, Greg Lee led off with a double to center field and made it to third on an infield out, but couldn't get home.

Jamesville Girls See Bright Softball Year

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

Jamesville's softball team finished second in the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference last year, the first year for softball at Jamesville. This season, according to coach Deborah Wilson, the team stands a good chance of finishing even higher.

"Things look pretty good," Wilson said. "We only lost one starter and we've got some good replacements for her. We've got some good freshmen and good hitters. We're hoping for first place. We've got a good chance at it because we've got some good ballplayers out there."

Wilson said the Lady Bullets should be strong on defense, with experience at every position. In addition, the two leading hitters from last season return to provide strength at the plate.

"I feel like we're pretty strong; I don't think we've got any definite weaknesses," Wilson said. Experience is the strongest point in Jamesville's favor. Although last season was the first for softball at the school, all of the team's players gained experience in summer league, the coach said.

The Lady Bullet pitching, led by sophomore Mika Ellis, should be strong this season. Ellis is "an outstanding pitcher with a good spin ball," Wilson said. "Her pitches are hard to hit."

Junior Sylvia Hardison will also do some mound work for the Lady Bullets.

Behind the plate will be junior Linda Hardison and Tammy Timmons. Both are good hitters, while Timmons may also be used in the outfield.

In the infield, Lori Modlin, a junior, will start at first. She is a good hitter and good defensive player, Wilson said. Modlin will be backed by freshman Donna Sue Hardison.

Three girls are vying for the starting spot at second base. Sophomore Donna Jo Hardison is the returning starter and should log most of the time there, but sophomore Windy Perry and freshman Terry Bell will also play at second.

Kim Hardison, a senior and the second-leading hitter on last year's team, will start at third. In addition to playing good defense, Hardison had a .523 batting average last season. She is backed by freshman Dee Ann Spence.

At shortstop is the best glove in the infield, Jeannette Barber, a junior. "Most of the time, if the ball comes anywhere around Jeannette, she gets it. The other girls kid her about having a vacuum cleaner for a glove," Wilson said. Freshman Tammy Williams will play behind her.

In the outfield, junior Melody Sullivan is the starter in left, but she is out with an injury right now. Timmons will be taking her place.

Sandy Rogers, a senior and last season's most valuable player, gets the nod in center. In addition to playing well defensively, Rogers sported a .525 batting average last season.

Senior Jo Shivar will start in right, while senior Kathy Spence, backed by junior Joyce Manning, will start at short fielder.

Wilson said Bath and Bear Grass should be among the top teams in the B-H-M Conference this season.

"I think we stand a good chance of being second or first, especially first," she said. "We're shooting for the top, as always, and I don't feel like that's an out-of-reach thing this year."

left all three runners on base. Rocky Mount put men on second and third in the bottom of the inning, but Williams came up with two consecutive strikeouts to end the threat.

The Rampants' only run came in the sixth. Leadoff batter Jeff Aldridge and Greg Lee reached on two consecutive errors by the Gryphon third baseman. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch and Aldridge scored on Will Sanderson's infield out.

John Kennedy was the winning pitcher for the Gryphons, who extended their record to 4-1. Kennedy is 2-1 for the year.

The Rampants are now 3-1 for the season and will play again Thursday in the first round of the Pitt County Easter Tournament against D. H. Conley.

While the East Carolina University baseball team just finished a two-game stand with Clemson University, the Pirate football team might be wanting a little bit of the Tigers themselves.

Seems Charlie Pell, the coach of the Tiger football team put his foot in his mouth the other day.

While speaking at a Rotary Club meeting in Myrtle Beach, Pell made the following comment, as quoted in the "Myrtle Beach Sun News."

He was asked if Clemson would schedule Pat Dye's East Carolina University Pirates in the future.

Pell replied that he would be glad to play Dye's Pirates, "as soon as he (Dye) can get people who can read and write."

That quote appeared in the March 21 edition of the "Sun News." Two days later, a clarification appeared.

"It was just something between me and the man who asked the question," Pell was quoted. "I certainly didn't want to hurt anyone, the players, the coaches, or the school."

Seems to us like the only one hurt by a statement like that is the fellow who made it.

Hopefully, East Carolina can get on the Clemson schedule. It would be a good game for both teams.

Georgia Tech Coming In?
 About the only reason Georgia Tech isn't already in the Atlantic Coast Conference is that the Atlanta, Ga., school hasn't asked.

There has been a lot of talk about Georgia Tech joining the seven-member conference over the past few years. The ACC has let it be no big secret that they would love to have Georgia Tech, along with its rich media market, come into the conference.

It would be a plus for the ACC, and perhaps a plus for Tech, which already has a good rivalry with several ACC teams in many sports.

We heard the other day that an informal poll of the ACC has already been made on the subject. Our source told us that the vote was 6-1 in favor of accepting Tech.

Surprisingly, the lone vote against Tech was reportedly from N.C. State.

If Tech wishes to join, it would seem to be a closed matter. If they want in, they're in.

Electrocuted On Opening Transformer

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — Ductility to his small brick house and Argon was angry. The electricity to his small brick house apparently had been cut off.

and he intended to do something about it.

With a tire iron, he opened the transformer behind the house Wednesday night. Moments later, a neighbor "heard something go bam, bam, bam."

It was the sound of 14,000 volts of power rushing through Argo's body.

Argo, 22, lay in critical condition Thursday in the burn unit of Charlotte Memorial Hospital, suffering from third-degree electrical burns and resultant deep muscle damage on his chest, arms and face.

Union County Sheriff Frank Fowler said Mickey Culp, the only witness to the accident, told him he tried to stop Argo from tinkering with the transformer.

"Culp said (Argo's) power had been cut off," Fowler said. "(Argo) told his wife he wasn't going to do without power... He went out there, messing with the power box. Culp said he tried to stop him, but Argo knocked him down."

A neighbor said Culp and his wife share the home with the Argos.

Culp told authorities he saw only a flash after Argo pried the lock off the lid of the transformer. Power was immediately shut off to other houses in the Stallings community neighborhood, about 10 miles north-west of here.

"You could smell it," said a neighbor, recalling the odor of burning flesh. "You could see the smoke. It was a sickening smell, a horrible smell."

A Duke Power Co. investigating team was at the scene Thursday, seeking witnesses and taking pictures. There was no visible damage to the transformer, a three-foot-high green box set in a bank at the edge of Argo's back yard.

Duke Power spokesman Alex Coffin would not say if power to the house had been cut off, saying the company's relationship with its customers is private.

Contaminated Milk Removed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — All milk that may have been contaminated with the cancer-causing poison aflatoxin is now off the shelves of North Carolina supermarkets, according to state agriculture officials.

In another development Thursday, it was disclosed that three grain mills in the state have been ordered to recall thousands of pounds of cornmeal which the state says has been contaminated with aflatoxin.

Dr. William Y. Cobb, state food and drug director, said the contaminated meal had been found in mills at Dunn and Laurinburg and in Nash County. He declined to name the mills but said the state now is tracing the corn back to grain dealers who supplied the corn to the mills.

Milk contaminated with the substance may have been sold in the state during January and February, officials said earlier this week.

"Our surveys were done last December and January," said Bill Wilder, assistant state agriculture commissioner. "As far as I know, any contaminated milk would be off the market by now, if any of it did reach the market."

The problem began last fall when drought conditions produced excessive fungus on corn crops, agriculture officials said. The fungus, in turn, produced aflatoxin, and some of the affected corn apparently was fed to dairy cattle.

Using emergency funds, the state food and drug protection division initiated a statewide aflatoxin testing program that led to the temporary closing of seven dairy farms in Wake, Orange, Durham and Iredell counties.

"We identified the problems early and stopped any questionable milk sales," Wilder said. Aflatoxin can cause cancer of the liver. Although officials said they did not believe there was a serious threat of adults developing cancer from contaminated milk, they said such milk could pose a serious problem for small children.

Two Nailed To Wooden Crosses

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Two Filipinos had themselves nailed to wooden crosses one after another on Good Friday in a re-enactment of Jesus' crucifixion almost 2,000 years ago.

A crowd of 40,000 shrieked and jostled for a better view, first of Juanito Piring, 35, then Mariano Bagtas, 28, who were nailed through the palms and stayed on the crosses for three minutes.

Their crucifixion took place on a stage in the village of San Fernando, 30 miles north of Manila.

Piring, who has been crucified on Good Friday for several years running, called the ritual an "atonement for my sins and those of others."

By The Associated Press

A cold front that was north of North Carolina this morning was expected to move over the state during the day, bringing in cooler air. And a front moving in from the west was bringing rain.

The rain is expected to spread into the western portion of the state tonight and then move eastward across the state Saturday. Current weather indications are that the rain will linger through Easter Sunday.

Overnight low temperatures this morning were some warmer than Thursday's readings as they ranged in the 40s and 50s.

High temperatures around the state Thursday ranged in the 70s with Raleigh recording a 79 for the highest reported reading.

Temperatures were expected to reach the low to mid 70s over the south portion today while holding in the 60s elsewhere. Along with Saturday's rain, temperatures probably will get no higher than the 50s over most of the state.
