

'Monitor' To Stay In Grave

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The participants in a national conference on the Civil War ironclad the Monitor agreed the ship will continue to rest in its ocean grave 220 feet deep for the foreseeable future.

"The emphasis must be on research, leaving to other men and other times the possibility of raising the Monitor," said David Stick of Kitty Hawk, author of "Graveyard of the Atlantic."

The conference, which finished Tuesday, gathered some of the foremost authorities on the Monitor and nautical archaeology, shipwreck recovery, diving, underwater salvage and preservation.

The experts agreed that "anything is possible" and so the Monitor may someday be recovered and preserved, but that considerably more information is needed about the condition of the wreck.

"None of the dives performed so far have been worth one iota to engineers trying to determine how to raise the ship," said Capt. W.F. Searle Jr., a national expert on naval salvage.

Searles and others stressed that raising and preserving the ship would be expensive and time consuming. Cost estimates range from $10 million to recover the ship to $30 million to maintain it, tacked on to a constant maintenance budget.

Larry E. Tise, director of the state Division of Archives and History, said raising the Monitor would take a commitment to care for the ship forever. He said previous shipwreck recovery projects have been hampered by insufficient commitment and inadequate funding.

The public should also understand that "any object that might be recovered will only barely approximate what the Monitor was in its heyday — in fact, it will be barely recognizable — and only barely approximate what it is as it rests on the Atlantic floor."

"Whether the American people would consider that a wise investment, we can only guess," Tise said.

Two Were Injured

CAR HITS TRUCK — Two persons were injured last night when a car struck a truck on rural road 1774 near Black Jack. According to Trooper Fred Davis, a car driven by Johnnie David Bunting, of Rt. 1, Grimesland struck the side of a tractor-trailer truck driven by Cleveland Sherman, Jr., of Rt. 3, Greenville. The investigator said both Bunting and a passenger identified as Peggy Ann Bunting were injured and transported to the hospital by members of the Winterville Rescue Squad. Trooper Davis said the truck was across the highway backing into a driveway. The trooper said that the headlights from the truck blinded Bunting causing him to hit the truck. Damage was placed at $800 for the Bunting vehicle and an estimated $200 damage was set for the Sherman truck. No charges were made in the accident. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

No Deals On Moro By Govm't

By MICHAEL J. DUFFY
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — The Christian Democrats appear determined not to release terrorists in exchange for former Premier Aldo Moro despite a specific plea for a swap from the kidnapped political leader.

Premier Giulio Andreotti and other top leaders of the government party met Tuesday night after the receipt of the fourth letter from Moro since his kidnapping three weeks ago by members of the Red Brigades, Italy's most feared urban guerrilla group.

After the meeting Il Popolo, the party newspaper, said the captive, who is president of the Christian Democrats, had been forced to make the appeal and did not mean it. It said: "The text of the letter ...reveals once more the conditions of absolute coercion in which such documents are written and confirm that this letter, too, is not morally attributable to him."

Andreotti said the same thing in reporting to Parliament Tuesday on an earlier letter from Moro. He said then that the government could only "respond in rejecting in the most firm way any acceptance of blackmail."

This left the possibility of private negotiations by Moro's family. However, a communique from the Red Brigades said: "The trial of Aldo Moro will go forward."

The kidnapers in earlier communiques said the five-time premier was being given a people's trial for "crime against the people" during the years he has been an influential political figure. But one of the 15 leaders of the Red Brigades on trial in Turin said Monday that the organization did not "think it necessary to eliminate Moro individually."

Moro's earlier letter to the government, delivered last Wednesday, only hinted at the possibility that his captors might exchange him for the 15 defendants in Turin. His second letter was more specific, though it still did not specify that it was the Turin 15 whose freedom his kidnapers wanted.

He wrote that an exchange was "the only possible positive solution" and complained:

"I am a political prisoner placed in an untenable situation by your hasty decision to close any discussion relating to other persons imprisoned in a similar way. Time is flying and unfortunately there is too little."

"May God enlighten you. We hope that you do quickly what is necessary."

German Plant For N.C.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt, who left Sunday on a trade mission to Europe, has landed a new industry for North Carolina.

The governor called his office Tuesday to report that Trenn Jaeger Co. of Euskirchen, West Germany, will build a plant in the Raleigh area. It will assemble and manufacture cold saws for cutting and drilling metal.

"We don't know yet the exact location or how much the capital investment will be, but the plant will hire about 60 people in a high-precision type of manufacturing," he said.

Hunt spent an hour Tuesday talking with the head of the U.S. Travel Service about expanding tourism from Germany to North Carolina and met for an hour with a Swedish furniture buyer who expressed an interest in buying more furniture from the Tar Heel state.

Ultimatum To Royal Sister

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II reportedly has given her younger sister, Princess Margaret, a royal ultimatum: end her relationship with brewer heir and aspiring night club singer Roddy Llewellyn or withdraw from public life.

Buckingham Palace declined comment on the front-page report today by the Sun newspaper.

"I wouldn't dream of contacting the royal family about private conversations," a palace spokesman said.

Park Denies Any Reports To Seoul

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tongsun Park denies in heated testimony that he reported his payments to U.S. congressmen back to South Korean officials, and says he has no idea how four such purported reports got in his house.

One of the reports claimed that House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. asked Park in 1974 to make contributions to other congressmen but Park told the House ethics committee Tuesday that was not true.

He suggested perhaps "someone is trying to zing me" and planted the reports, complete with recommendations on influence-buying operations, in his Georgetown home.

Park suggested a notation in his handwriting was forged on one report and denounced as an embezzler a former employee who testified he saw one of the reports in Park's house in 1972 while Park was there.

In the tensest moments before Park completed two days of public testimony, he accused Chief Counsel John Nields of "doing a superb job of character assassination and trying to eliminate me."

"You better make up your mind whether you believe my story," Park said, "or rumors, hearsay or even so-called intelligence reports."

The report on a trip led by O'Neill, then the House Democratic leader, to Seoul in 1974 said he requested campaign contributions for each congressional delegate. It recommended the money be handed to the congressmen in Seoul.

Park testified O'Neill made no such request to him and O'Neill blasted the report as a "total fabrication."

Carter Hedges On NATO 'Equalizer'

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The proposed neutron bomb, which President Carter reportedly decided will not be part of the U.S. arsenal, is known to American military men as the equalizer.

U.S. military officials say the weapon could halt a tank attack in central Europe where the Soviets have an estimated 3-to-1 numerical tank advantage.

There has been considerable speculation about

Carter's plans for the weapon, which is intended to kill enemy troops with radiation while limiting destruction of the surroundings.

Sources told the Associated Press that Carter has tentatively decided against producing the weapon. He should make a final decision soon, according to State Department officials who declined to be identified.

The neutron warhead would kill enemy tank crews by sending streams of neutrons through the thick steel of their vehicles. Blast and fire damage would be limited to the immediate area and, according to weapon-backers, would spare civilian lives and houses on the periphery of the immediate battlefield.

U.S. arms control negotiator Paul Warnke said early this year the weapon "kills more Russians and fewer Germans." The weapon most likely would be used along NATO's front in West Germany.

Carter met Tuesday with West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher, who pressed his government's support for production of the weapon.

However, British Prime Minister James Callaghan said in London on Tuesday the NATO allies have yet to decide if they want the weapon built or deployed in Europe. Most NATO nations have opposed the warhead.

Muriel Will Tell On Saturday

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Will she or won't she run?

That's the question Sen. Muriel Humphrey says she will answer Saturday at the annual Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party's dinner.

The dinner is being dedicated to her late husband, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, who died of cancer Jan. 13. The affair also will serve as a forum for the widow to announce whether she will be a candidate in a November election to fill the remaining four years of his term.

No Evidence Of Israeli Leaving

ABASSIYEH, Lebanon (AP) — Though Israel says it is thinning out its forces in southern Lebanon, its soldiers are acting as policemen, carpenters, doctors, administrators and water workers for Lebanese civilians in the area.

Much of this activity is directed at alleviating the plight of refugees returning from north of the Litani River after being driven from their homes by the Israeli invasion three weeks ago.

Abassiyeh, three miles east of the Palestinian-held port of Tyre, is the refugees' principal re-entry point. Israeli troops carefully check the small flood of people returning from Beirut, trying to weed out Palestinian guerrillas who might be among them.

Fifteen passengers piled out of one dusty Mercedes sedan while Israeli military police checked for weapons. The dusty road from Tyre was lined with loaded cars waiting to enter devastated Abassiyeh.

Workers from Israel were busy here and in other damaged towns, repairing some of the damage from bombing, artillery and tanks.

There was little evidence of the "thinning-out" announced by the army on Monday. A reporter who drove through the occupied area from east to west saw tanks and mobile artillery in the same positions they occupied when southern Lebanon was first opened to journalists two weeks ago.

But the positions seemed to be more lightly manned than before.

Israeli tank and gun crew relaxed or worked to make their positions more comfortable.

Indict Student On Rape Counts

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Timothy Wayne Jones, a student at Durham High School, was indicted by the Durham County Grand Jury Tuesday on 11 counts of rape and several other charges.

The 18-year-old defendant, charged with a series of rapes in the Durham area during a 12-month period, was held without bond pending arraignment.

He was also indicted on 13 counts of first degree burglary, four each of armed robbery and felonious receiving of stolen property, three each of crime against nature, assault with a deadly weapon and common law robbery and one each of breaking and entering and assault with intent to commit rape.

Galifianakis Overlooks Allegation Of $10,000

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Amid reports that a former aide of his might testify today, former North Carolina Rep. Nick Galifianakis denied Tuesday that he had ever done any favors for Tongsun Park Tuesday.

But Galifianakis refused to comment on allegations he was given $10,000 by the South Korean businessman.

Park told the House Ethics Committee Monday that he gave Galifianakis $10,000 in addition to a previously disclosed $500 campaign contribution.

In further testimony Tuesday, Park said that, "as I recall, someone who worked for Mr. Galifianakis came to my home" to collect the $10,000 for the former congressman's 1972 Senate campaign.

In answer to a question from chief counsel John Nields, Park said Galifianakis had asked for the money.

Nields asked if Park discussed the contribution with Galifianakis later and Park replied: "I believe Mr. Galifianakis did tell me he appreciated the contribution I had made."

In a statement released through an aide Tuesday, Galifianakis, a Durham attorney, said, "It is my understanding that Mr. Park's testimony will continue before the House committee.

"I will make no comment on his testimony until it is complete and I have had an opportunity to review it," said the statement by the former Fourth District Democratic representative. "I do not know what his testimony will be."

"However, I stand by my statements that Mr. Park never asked me to do anything for him and that I have done nothing for him."

Galifianakis said last fall that he rejected a $500 campaign contribution from Park in 1970. The $500 from Park apparently came with several other checks, he said, and his staff returned it.

The contribution apparently was for Galifianakis' 1970 primary campaign for the U.S. Senate nomination. He defeated incumbent B. Everett Jordan in the primary, but lost to Republican Sen. Jesse A. Helms in the general election.

In his statement last fall, Galifianakis denied reports that he helped Park's lobbying and business activities and said his contacts with Park were strictly social.

Avoiding Trial

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — David Berkowitz, suspected of being the .44-caliber killer known as "Son of Sam," has decided to plead guilty to the killings without a trial, two newspapers said today.

The Long Island newspaper Newsday said discussions were under way about the former postal clerk's incarceration in a state prison for the criminally insane.

Berkowitz had already said he would plead guilty to all charges against him if he was found mentally competent to stand trial.

Judge Joseph Corso indicated last week that if that happened, he would have little choice but to accept Berkowitz' guilty plea.

HOSPICE ACTION?

I saw a program on UNC-TV Feb. 2 in which a Mr. and Mrs. Zorza were interviewed about the terminal illness and death of their 25-year-old daughter in a hospice in England. The interview on the "MacNeil/Lehrer Report" was an outgrowth of a "Washington Post" article written by the Zorzias soon after their daughter's death. It was moving, to say the least, and informative about hospices (centers operated especially for the care of the dying) and how they operate. Is there any thought of starting a hospice in this area? Mrs. C. T.

"We are deeply interested," says Dr. Walter Pories, chairman of a group now studying the needs of the dying of Pitt County and Eastern North Carolina.

He said meetings have been held by hospital, rehabilitation, and medical school personnel and preliminary plans for a hospice program for this region are being made. Anyone having an interest in being a part of this effort is asked to contact Dr. Pories or Dr. James Mathis at the ECU School of Medicine or Dave McRae at the Pitt County Memorial Hospital Rehabilitation Center.

Farmville Board Defers Action On Annexations

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
Farmville Commissioners voted last night to recess a hearing on the annexation of an area on Highway 264 west of town until its regular June meeting.

Annexation of the land on which Valor Division of U. S. Industries is located may be voted on at their May meeting, they indicated.

Annexation of the Eastwood-Allen-Umphlett residential property was also tabled.

Study was called for on a request to improve an alley behind the south side of the 100 block of E. Wilson Street. It was ascertained that nothing probably should be done to tear up this area while the street out front is being worked on as part of the CBD project, since ready access is needed for the business places on this side of Wilson Street.

Approval was given to the following items of business:
— a change order for the inclusion of 14 water taps in "green" areas in the downtown area at a cost of about $1,400.

— a deferred compensation plan participation which will be optional for town employees;

— the intention to give, if budgeting allows, a six percent cost-of-living raise to each town employee, plus improved major medical benefits in the health insurance of each and an increase in minimal life insurance. (The major medical benefit would be raised from $10,000 to $250,000 and the life insurance from $2,000 to $5,000 and $10,000. Cost to the town would be about a six and a half percent increase on its present $708,000-per-year labor budget. The Board indicated it is not in favor of granting an additional holiday for town employees at this time.);

— the purchase of a pickup truck for the waste water treatment section during this model year;

— the intention to draft a resolution calling for the routing of Highway 264 past Farmville from Wilson by its present route, then curving to the north to make use of the Chiquapin Road and then the Old Stantonsburg Road;

— the granting of reduced tap-on fees and rates equal to those of in-town water and sewer customers for those on 264 West who will agree to tap on during the time when the sewer is being constructed;

— the institution of a one-percent discount for those who pay their town taxes prior to Sept. 1;

— the inclusion of the town of Southport as a member of Power Agency Number Three (Each member town must vote on the entry of a new member);

— a budget amendment noting that Collins and Aikman has paid, through the town, the bill for tv analysis of a sewer line late last year;

— the repeal of parking restriction on the north side of Belcher Street;

— the intention to seek liability insurance for public officials of the town through the ICMA program, since the company which has insured the town for one year has discontinued this type of insurance coverage. (The Commissioners noted that they believe the company should pay the town interest on the money placed with it when the town paid for a three-year policy);

— the payment of an additional $1.33 per month per town employee for Blue Cross insurance;

— communication to the League of Municipalities that Farmville approves changes in the local government employees retirement system;

— communication to Carolina Power and Light Company concerning the proposed annexation of its switch station, which is just outside the town limits, and which must be inside if the town is to have continued franchise tax receipts.

— intention to continue, but change location, of some of the containers during an experimental program of dumpster program;

— intention to buy an EDO (EVO) packer-type garbage collection truck when one is needed, with discussion of buying a demonstrator model, if it is possible.
John Staley of the ECU Regional Development Institute addressed the Board about a proposed application for funds for a Community Development Program project. He recommended the seeking of a single-purpose grant, saying that Farmville would be competing with towns from throughout North Carolina for a set number of dollars. An advisory committee, composed of the Rev. Clyde Dunn, Methodist minister; Mrs. Rose Day Evans, a merchant, and Howard Ellis, also a merchant, was appointed by Mayor Sara Albritton to help decide how Farmville could best use these funds, if granted.

It was noted that a grant sought for funds to build two tennis courts and a ballfield has been turned down. Commissioner LeRoy Redden inquired as to why some of these recreation facilities, planned before he came onto the Board, weren't slated to go on the south side of town.

He was told that the sites had to be where there was land already available.

Discussion was made of contacting the county schools about the possible use of some land owned by the county behind Sugg School for a ballfield.

The Town Administrator Patrick Thomas was asked to answer an Ohio firm that has expressed interest in leasing the town's No. 1 Waste Treatment Plant once it is vacated for use in pre-treating industrial waste. The Commissioners asked that he inquire by mail as to exactly what the company has in mind, so as the guide them as to whether to invite the firm to look at the plant further.

Intention was stated to extend the same hospitalization and life insurance benefits to volunteer Rescue Squad members that volunteer firemen now have. It's estimated that this extension will cost the town about $2,600 a year for the health insurance and possibly $4,500 to $5,000 a year for the life benefits.

Car Collides With Canopy

An estimated $3,000 damage resulted yesterday from a 4:20 p.m. collision on Maxwell Street, 250 feet South of the Dickinson Avenue intersection, according to police.

Officers said a car driven by Ronnie Lee Gardner of 600 Vance St., collided with a walkway canopy at the Moose Lodge after the Gardner vehicle was forced off Maxwell Street by another vehicle.

Damage to the Gardner car was estimated at $2,000 while damage to the canopy was set at $1,000.

Investigators reported both Gardner and a passenger in his car were injured.

Returning From Sessions Today

Glenn Cox, superintendent of the Greenville City School, and eight of the nine members of the city school board, are due to arrive in Raleigh at 9 p.m. tonight on the return trip from attending the National Convention of American School Boards of Education.

The nine left Greenville on Friday, March 31 to attend the convention being held this year in Anaheim, California. School board members on the trip are chairman Henry Dunn, members Dr. James Bearden, Ed Carter, Miles Frost, Mrs. Lucille Gorham, Bobby Pettis, Ed Stallings, and Ed Waldrop.

Opposes Ban In CIA Charter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress "would make us look silly" if it prohibited the Central Intelligence Agency from assassinating foreign leaders or overthrowing other governments, says one of the CIA's organizers.

Clark Clifford, a former secretary of defense, told a Senate committee that if that prohibition were written into a new CIA charter, "then all activities not prohibited would at least by inference be permitted."

Case Dismissed

WILLIAMSTON — Receiving stolen property charges against Southmet Recycling Corp. of Greenville and one of the firm's employees were dismissed in Martin County Superior Court yesterday by Judge Albert W. Cowper.

Cowper dismissed the charges at the close of the State's evidence, indicating that the State had failed to introduce sufficient evidence to let the case go to the jury.

The charges against Southmet and an employee, Harold Weinstein, were brought by a Martin County Grand Jury in September 1977, and alleged that the defendants had purchased copper stolen from a Martin County firm.

However, three men charged with breaking, entering and larceny in connection with the theft of the copper from Reddick Fumigants of Williamston, pled guilty to the charges, yesterday.

They were identified as Johnny Lee Lawrence, Joe Smithwick and William M. Paige.

Some Of The Impact Is Eased

U. S. Steel Corp., the largest domestic producer of steel, which had announced a price rise has now said it will roll back the $10.50 per ton price increase for competitive reasons.

That, of course, doesn't mean that all of the price increase will be eliminated but it will modify the inflationary impact of the originally announced price increase.

The announcement of the initial price hike had been surprising to the government and brought an adverse reaction from the White House.

Some other steel producers also announced price increases, but less than that of U. S. Steel.

The steel industry has been in difficult times recently, particularly hardpressed by foreign competition.

It is difficult to see how the original price increase which U. S. Steel planned could have helped the steel industry in improving its competitive position.

Beyond that the big increase would only feed inflation in this country — something that we definitely don't need at this time.

U. S. Steel's modified price increases will probably be the pattern for the entire domestic steel industry. The industry should be a little more competitive with foreign steel makers and the inflationary pressures on the national economy will be a little less.

Many Hours Of Training Put Into Use

Last week the Greenville Rescue Squad had to put some of its many hours of training to use in removing an injured man from the roof of a building.

The squad has won state and national honors for its rescue work and it was this type training that was used in the actual rescue.

"That's what all the training is about," said Assistant Chief of Rescue Tony Brannon, "being prepared for the unexpected."

It is indeed, and it is that kind of training that will be so worthwhile in the event of a disaster.

THIS AFTERNOON

A Land Crusade By Hunt

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Those closest to Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr. laugh when they remark that he can make a moral issue out of almost anything.

The governor is making a moral issue of land-use regulation. His aides think attaching moral significance to a number of activities in state government is not amiss; many issues affecting people do have moral undertones.

"God gave us this land, and it is up to us to protect and use it properly for our own generation, and for the future generations," the governor commented recently in discussing present and future actions of the Coastal Resources Commission, and of the state in future land policy considerations elsewhere across the state.

Drawing on his childhood in Wilson County where he recalls that his roots sink into family soil 150 or 200 years deep, the governor recalled "Soil Stewardship Sunday."

His father was a soil conservationist. On Soil Stewardship Sunday, he would deliver a guest sermon at a local church.

Duty

The central message: it is our soil and our responsibility to protect it, and use as God intends.

There was considerable furor as North Carolina established the Coastal Area Management Act in 20 coastal counties. The law requires detailed land use plans pinpointing where specific kinds of development will be allowed, and areas which will be protected.

"There was concern over why it applied only to the Coast," Hunt recalls. "That is the area, because of its fragile nature, most in need of protection."

"North Carolinians are only now coming into full realization of the value of the coastline to our entire state — it is one of North Carolina's greatest natural resources, this great coastal area with its open space, beauty, clean air and abundant water."

The furor has not disappeared, and controversy continues to arise from time to time as the new law is further applied and understood.

But residents have come to understand, says the governor, that the law is "positive and not negative," that it is not "anti-development." Its purpose is to "protect, preserve, and bring orderly use" to the land.

NOBLITT

Coastal residents now appreciate those aspects, recognizing that protection and preservation are essential to the future. "I can't imagine building condominiums in a place which does not offer beauty and livability," says Gov. Hunt.

The governor is pushing hard for governmental compliance with the plans drawn up by local governments under the Coastal Area Management Act. There is considerable concern that various federal or state actions would run contrary to the local plans.

"It would be morally wrong for the state to come in and take action contrary to the plans you have drawn," the governor said recently to members of the Coastal Resources Commission.

No Answer

Concern persists that the Coast was singled out for attention. Hunt still sees a need for land management in the Mountain and Piedmont sections, but his position is ambiguous.

"We still must push ahead for land use planning by local governments under the guidance of state principles," does not answer whether a statewide counterpart to the Coastal Area Management Act will be forthcoming. The measure has been stalled in the General Assembly largely due to the governor's reluctance to push it vigorously.

Perhaps the lack of support results from too many other priorities, but those close to the governor would not be surprised to see the measure move up on his priority list.

Such a push would seem only natural after hearing the governor talk about "a deep-rooted moral obligation to protect our gift from God... the soil."

Carter Learns Ropes

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — As a world leader, President Carter is still finding his way, no longer the freshman and yet uncertain about how to attain U.S. foreign policy goals.

He is neither bold nor passive. He maintains that the United States should lead by example, most specifically on human rights.

But he has toned down his public criticism of the Soviet Union and other chronic violators of human rights, and he is gradually giving ground on arms control, another early visionary goal.

His trip to Latin America and Africa may have enhanced American standing in the Third World and might pay off eventually in promoting peaceful transition to black rule in Rhodesia.

Yet there is no indication of a break in the pattern of strife in the breakaway British colony.

Carter is the first president in recent times to have passed a year in office without U.S. troops firing a shot in anger.

But at the same time, the Russians have burrowed deeper into Africa, maintained a foothold in the Middle East and could be free to break out new nuclear weapons if the SALT talks fail.

The Panama Canal treaties — one approved, one pending in the Senate — are at this point the major foreign policy accomplishment of Carter's first 15 months in office.

He does not claim to have solutions to the most intractable of Arab-Israeli differences. Even the cheeriest optimists within the bureaucracy do not expect an early weapons limitation agreement with Moscow.

Meantime, administration sights have been lowered on that issue. Carter now aims for a reduction of about 10 percent from the strategic weapons totals tentatively agreed upon by Gerald Ford and Leonid Brezhnev in November 1974.

This is a substantial retreat from the massive cutbacks Carter's negotiators tried to get a year ago.

It's also the sort of marginal reduction Henry Kissinger thought was sewed up during his January 1976 Kremlin talks — only to be sidetracked because of concern within the Ford administration that an arms agreement with the Soviet Union was politically unwise in a presidential election year.

In the Middle East, Carter is trying to fan the flickering hopes of an Egyptian-Israeli accord. Differences over the Palestine Authority.

40 Years Ago Today

April 5, 1938

If the Greenville Board of Aldermen were magicians enough to take the $35,000 authorized at a recent bond election, divide it five ways and give each group $7,000 the problem of securing satisfactory sites for the athletic field and recreation centers would be solved.

But such being the powers of the board, the situation is more complicated than ever, following a meeting last night called for the purpose of hearing suggestions by citizens.

Most of those speaking favored separate sites for the athletic field and playgrounds. It was pointed out that options were held on four sites.

By ART BUCHWALD

The Last Tax Loophole

WASHINGTON — Every city, county and state government is trying to think up new ways of raising tax dollars.

All the obvious things have already been taxed such as income, cigarettes, gasoline, parking, liquor, everything you buy in a store etc., etc., and it's almost impossible to come up with something new that doesn't already have a tax on it.

I was therefore very impressed with a new revenue raising idea proposed by Merriweather Sample, who found something to tax that nobody else had thought of. In America today, this is the equivalent of discovering a new constellation in the sky or a virus without a name or a noncarcinogenic spray that will kill fire ants.

Sample revealed his plan at a secret meeting of the board of supervisors of Bleeding County.

"Gentlemen, I think I have it. I propose we put a tax on jogging."

There was a look of surprise from everyone in the room.

"Jogging?" someone said. "Sample continued, 'There are thousands of joggers running all around our county right now and it isn't costing them one cent. I say they've been getting a free ride for too long.'"

One nervous supervisor said, "But how can we tax men and women for just running around?"

"It's simple. They're using county roads and sidewalks to jog. Do you realize the damage they're doing every time they clomp on the asphalt or the pavement?" Sample said.

"I didn't know runners do damage," another supervisor said.

"Take a walk around and see for yourself. There are cracks everywhere, and they were made by pounding feet. There is just so much abuse a pavement can take from a 200-pound man and a 110-pound woman. If they just ran in their bare feet it would be one thing, but most of them wear sneakers and running shoes. We're not just talking about one or two people. There are thousands of joggers out there destroying our streets and sidewalks and someone has to pay for it."

A lady supervisor said, "If we start taxing people for jogging there will be a terrible uproar. Many people consider it the only free thing they're permitted to do."

Sample scoffed at the comment. "Joggers get pleasure out of running, just as other people get pleasure from drinking beer and smoking cigarettes. No one tells them they HAVE to jog. But if they're going to do it, and if they feel it gives them a lift, let them pay for it."

"What kind of tax did you have in mind?"

"I think at the beginning we could require them to buy a license for $5 a year. It would be printed on cardboard so they could wear it on the back of their running suits. Then we could add a surcharge of one cent for each mile they run."

"Suppose they downplay how many miles they've run?"

Sample grinned. "That's the beauty of it. Most joggers love to lie about how far they've run. I never met one yet who didn't exaggerate the number of miles he completed in a day. Every jogger will gladly pay extra money just to impress another runner."

"It might work," a supervisor said.

Sample hit the table. "Running for free is the last big tax loophole in America, and it's our job to close it."

One supervisor asked, "What do we tell our jogging friends when they say it's unfair that they have to pay to exercise?"

"Just tell them 'Life is unfair.'"

To the editor:

There is a prayer bill which will allow prayers in the schools again. The way I understand it, there was no real threat to anyone praying in schools. Some teachers continued. I hope it passes though, as it may remind some people of why this nation came into being — freedom to worship God as each saw fit.

We must stop believing, as children do, that freedom is "doing what you want" and grow up to realize that freedom is being allowed to do what is right in God's sight. Separation of church and state means no one religion is to be exalted by the state, and the state can't dictate the services of churches. It has nothing to do with prayers in a public school.

The idea of this bill could be that when all else fails, try God. The wise King Solomon said that all wisdom begins with the knowledge of God. Schools were started by Martin Luther to teach children about God. The printing press was invented because hand printing the Bible was slow and tedious. The motion picture was invented to teach the gospel. How far we have deviated until now the disasters of public education are common knowledge.

The federal government can be blamed for this, and now they want to meddle with church schools. If you've ever wondered why the federal government wants complete control over all children's minds, read "None Dare Call It Treason" and "None Dare Call It Conspiracy." Then read Solzhenitsyn's "Warning to the West" and decide if we should continue our merry way teaching "doing your own thing," fun and games, sex and visiting the school guidance counselor for more fun and games, or perhaps we should teach love of God and fellowman, plus the basics.

THE INSIDE REPORT

The Neutron Bomb Debate

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Carter's unseemly effort to escape political blame for arming NATO with the neutron "bomb" has generated popular resistance to a vital military modernization program, building "a debate of enormous ignorance" within the alliance that is kept alive by Soviet propaganda.

President Carter may soon announce the start of production of the neutron, a nuclear warhead for short-range tactical missiles which kills with enhanced radiation rather than fire and blast. Nevertheless, the agonizing indecision that has marked the administration's handling of the neutron is a signal example of superpower leadership succumbing to pedestrian politics.

This retreat from reality is costly, considering the overwhelming consensus of military experts and knowledgeable officials in the State and Defense Departments: the neutron bomb would vastly reduce the threat to Western Europe of blitzkriegstyle tank attack by the Warsaw Pact on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Admittedly many Western politicians refuse to accept even the remote possibility of Soviet leaders ever authorizing an attack. But such wishful thinking flies in the face of the conventional military imbalance in Central Europe; Gen. Alexander Haig, NATO supreme commander, on March 21, described as "grievous" the superiority of Warsaw Pact tank forces alone.

Existing nuclear warheads on the 60-mile Lance missile, if delivered against a Communist tank attack, would spread terrible destruction and death to civilians through blast effect and fire. In contrast, the neutron warhead is designed to kill tank crews through radiation, thereby menacing the heart of Soviet military strategy in Central Europe: the massed tank attack. In popular debate, it has been transmogrified into a weapon that kills people but spares property — distorted but effective political propaganda.

By truly inhibiting the Soviets, the neutron warhead could make nuclear war on the continent less likely. Since it deters the massed tank attack, Western nuclear response becomes less likely.

Why, then, did President Carter not order an immediate start of production when Congress approved funds for the neutron bomb. The reason: he buckled to pressure.

Fearing a political reaction, the President overruled advisers and some civilian admirers (including the State Department's bureau of political-military affairs). Instead, he quietly invited West Germany and other NATO allies to take the first step and formally ask for the neutron. From that safe perch, the President would then give his approval.

That forced on West German Chancellor Helmut

Schmidt a decision more painful than the one Mr. Carter sidestepped. Although Schmidt could easily get his parliament to approve the neutron, he would endanger his own power because of opposition within his Social Democratic party in the absence of a strong U.S. lead.

As the Carter administration continued to procrastinate and seek some easy way out, other socialist governments in Western Europe (particularly the Dutch) wavered under political pressure. "The controversy suddenly started to build and a debate of enormous ignorance broke out all over Europe," one Western European diplomat told us.

Enter Moscow. Sensing disorder in NATO, the Soviet Union unleashed a typical campaign against the "inhuman" neutron bomb. Demonstrations in Western Europe were promoted amid Soviet demands that the U.S. renounce the weapon.

The passion of the Soviet campaign derived not only from the attempt to exploit dissension within NATO, but the desire to safeguard Soviet strategy. If confronted by neutron warheads, the Kremlin would have to devise

Strength For Today

BELIEF AND ACTION

What makes a person a Christian?

A Christian is a person who believes something, and tries to live his or her life sincerely on the basis of that belief. A Christian believes in Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior to such a fundamental degree that he or she makes this conviction the basis and central motive of life.

Yet merely to believe is to be a sentimentalist or a hypocrite. To try to live the Christian life without the motive power of strong conviction is to attempt the impossible. Christianity involves both conviction and conduct, and conduct truly Christian always grows out of conviction.

Today many people emphasize the necessity for Christian conduct but think too little about Christian belief. Our forefathers emphasized belief too much and Christian living too little. Some people today fall into the error of believing that we can be Christian without believing very much of anything.

Businessmen Must Eat, Drink

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen must eat and drink if others are to live. Or so it is argued, and perhaps effectively too.

More specifically, this is the argument being put forth by the motel and hotel people, who are fighting to avoid losing a big segment of their revenues:

If business executives are denied full tax deductions for the cost of their martini lunches, it will be a "human tragedy" measured in lost jobs and swollen welfare rolls.

The lost jobs, says Howard P. James, won't be those of executives. They will instead be the jobs of the untrained, of minority group members, of the disabled. And of women too.

You are looking at a segment of business that provides more jobs for such people than any other, he told the House Ways and Means Committee, imploring it not to "tamper with our ability to continue to do that."

James is chairman and chief executive officer of The Sheraton Corp., and an officer of the American Hotel & Motel Association, which believes it is fighting a noble battle against a proposed injustice.

That alleged injustice would be perpetrated by the Carter administration if it succeeds in reducing by 50 percent the amount of deductible entertainment expenses for food and drink.

As many as 93,000 lodging industry jobs and 30,000 jobs in related industries could be lost if the Carter plan is enacted, James argued. "It makes neither economic nor social sense," he said.

But certainly, James has been asked, the personal pleasure of a relative few should not be paid for by the hard work of many? President Carter said that, and a lot of people echoed the sentiment.

But, James testified, "such a personal enjoyment standard has no place in determining whether an item is a legitimate business expense deduction." He termed the proposal dangerous.

The lodging industry has an effective argument, albeit one that sends a reverse impulse surging through the nerves of even the most dedicated capitalist: that their pleasure insures the survival of others.

But pleasure, say many lodging industry executives, isn't the issue at all. The business lunch, they say, seldom includes three martinis; more likely it is part of a process by which business really gets done.

In recent years, said Neil Messick, association president, "business lunches really haven't had too much to do with drinking." In fact, he claims, "drinking has not been an 'in' thing for a long time."

What is called the business lunch, he maintains, is an opportunity "to get away from the office to a remote place without distractions where people can buy and sell."

Aver N.C. Water Drinkers Have Little To Fear

By KATHRYN WHITE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — In the past year, North Carolina's water supplies, which weren't exactly pristine to begin with, have been defiled with mystery chemicals, tainted with phosphoric acid, doused with formaldehyde, and coated with unsightly algae.

And in addition to these results of railroad derailments, vandals' works and other mishaps, the scientific community has linked the state's water supplies with heart disease and tentatively tied them to cancer death rates.

Nonetheless, state officials believe habitual water drinkers have no more to worry about today than they did five or ten years ago. In fact, they say that new municipal construction, designed to upgrade facilities in the next three to five years, along with increased knowledge and regulation of industries and municipalities, will likely make drinking water less harmful in the future.

"If it seems we are having more waterborne disease outbreaks, it is because some (diseases) are new in the sense that they were never thought to be waterborne," said James F. Stamey, assistant chief of sanitary engineering in the state Division of Health Services.

"The improvements in surveillance and reporting probably...attribute to what seems like an increase in disease." Scientists at the University of North Carolina presented the latest evidence concerning the possible link between drinking water and cancer death rates.

Examining 214 municipal water supplies in the state for the presence of nine different categories of waste, the researchers detected positive correlations between water with metal processing wastes and colon cancer; between water with textile wastes and leukemia; and between surface water and colon and rectal cancer, leukemia and fetal deaths.

Russell F. Christman, head of the department of environmental sciences and engineering at Chapel Hill, cautioned that the results "do not mean that these kinds of water cause cancer. At the very best, it may suggest a relationship" between water supplies and cancer deaths.

But the results were deemed significant enough for the researchers to ask the federal government for a $1 million grant to further study the relationship between North Carolina drinking water and cancer.

Meanwhile, an Environmental Protection Agency study, completed in 1977, reported a "plausible" connection between "soft" water supplies and the incidence of heart disease, hypertension and related illnesses.

While acknowledging that most areas of the state have what is considered soft water, Stamey emphasized that "hardness" and "softness" are relative terms. "The jury is still out on that question of what should be the level of hardness or softness," he said.

Water is termed "hard" when it contains more than a certain level of calcium carbonate, and labeled "soft" with less than that amount.

The scientific community generally believes the correlation between soft water and heart disease is due to the presence of sodium, which is the most practical softener available, Stamey said.

But soft water is also known for its corrosive qualities. "It has the ability to attack the vessels which carry it and to potentially absorb particles from a tank," he said. Thus, particles assimilated from water pipes and containers could be the disease-causing elements, he said.

Until recently, when scientists began linking it to diseases, soft water was thought desirable, Stamey said. Hard water does not lather easily, making it impractical for bathing and washing, and it often has an unpleasant taste.

The question is not whether use of sodium with drinking water should be totally abandoned, but "how much sodium intake is good or bad for the general population?" Stamey said.

The state's potential for water pollution by accidental means will remain great because many companies and municipalities either make, store, or dispose of hazardous chemicals and other materials, according to Robert Carter, head of the state water quality operation branch.

"The potential is always there, but there are controls through pesticide programs, through the (1974 Federal Safe Drinking Water Act, through the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act, and through the Toxic Substances Control Act, which all provide safeguards," Carter said.

The state Division of Health Services is expanding its staff to conduct more comprehensive routine analyses and investigations of water supplies, in conjunction with the Environmental Protection Agency, Stamey said.

"If you're going to point out the additional hazards, you need to also point out that there is a whole lot of new activity aimed at controlling these things," Stamey said.

a new battle plan for its still growing force of 20,000 tanks in Central Europe to carry out any attack against the West.

The peculiar military value of the neutron warhead is that it has no obvious offensive role to play, only a defensive role which for NATO would correct the dangerous imbalance in conventional forces. NATO's only role is defensive; the Warsaw Pact's only role, except for policing Moscow's European empire, is offensive. Thus the emotional political debate within NATO against the neutron is irrational.

That debate has become so heated in West Germany that its officials have been verboten to use the word "neutron." In deciding finally to order production of this defensive weapon, Mr. Carter will undoubtedly come under harsh attack. Ironically, it will be harsher than if he had grasped the issue firmly last summer instead of passing the buck to the Europeans.

Named Adjunct Professor Of Library Science

ECU News Bureau
Dr. Eugene Brunelle, director of East Carolina University Library Services, has been appointed adjunct professor of library science at ECU.

Dr. Gene Lanier, chairman of the ECU Department of Library Science, announced the appointment, adding that his department is "fortunate to have someone of Dr. Brunelle's background and experience" involved in the library science program.

Brunelle, who came to ECU in 1976, will hold the adjunct professorship concurrently with his present position.

"Dr. Brunelle has 25 years of experience in library and bibliographic work, teaching, research, student advisement, editorial work and library administration," said Lanier.

"This he will share with the students in library science and participate in our program on a part-time basis."

Emergency Farm Aid Bill A Hoax, Says Lawmaker

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The emergency farm aid package headed for votes in the Senate and House — and a presidential veto if it passes — is an election-year hoax, says a disgruntled congressman, designed to lay blame for farmers' troubles on the president.

The bill was approved Tuesday by conferees from the House and Senate, despite administration promises of a veto. It now goes to a Senate vote, possibly this week, and then to the House.

"It's an election issue, and it's rotten," said Rep. Frederick W. Richmond, D-N.Y., a dissenting member of the conference committee. "It's a hoax on the farmers (that this will become law)."

The congressman said conferees approved the bill because "it cleans their skirts. They can blame it on the president. 'I'm disgusted,' he added. "This is a disservice to the Democratic Party and to the farmers."

Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., sponsor of the most controversial section of the bill, said he didn't know why conferees approved the bill despite the veto threat, "but it happened. I hope we can persuade the president that it's not the monster he's been told it is."

Dole said he sent Carter a telegram asking for a meeting before any final decision is made. "But we're not under the direction of veto threats," he added.

Dole's section, one of the main targets of the veto threat, would allow growers of wheat, feed grains and cotton to secure a federally guaranteed return on their harvest of almost parity, provided they idle one acre for every two planted this season.

Parity prices, the principal goal of farm protesters, theoretically would give the farmer the same favorable balance between costs and returns growers enjoyed in 1910-14.

Unhappy farmers have argued they are being driven out of business by rising costs and low farm prices. Supporters of the American Agriculture protest group jammed the outside corridors Tuesday as the conferees worked.

If the measure becomes law, Agriculture Department and Congressional Budget Office economists say, the average city-dwelling family of three that spent $49.61 a week on food last year could expect to see its grocery bill rise by $1.06 to $2.60 a week.

That would be on top of the $2.98 to $3.96 already being added to that family's food costs by inflationary pressures, according to government estimates.

Between $2.5 billion and $3.4 billion would be added to the $7.9 billion budget for 1978 and 1979 farm-income programs.

The higher feed prices the one-year bill would provoke also would "decimate the livestock sector," responsible for a third of consumer food costs and just now recovering from a four-year slump of its own, said Agriculture Department chief economist Howard Hjort.

The Senate must act on the compromise first. If passed there, it could go before the House next week, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and many others think urban members there could kill it. Richmond predicted the bill's defeat in the House.

If it does pass, its fate in the White House is clear. Both Bergland and Vice President Walter F. Mondale have said a veto was certain. Hjort repeated that promise Tuesday.

Congress has never overridden a farm bill veto.

The bill provides a new intermediate target price for idling 3.5 acres for every 10 planted, between the basic level and the maximums, which now would be 97.7 percent of parity for wheat, 95.8 percent for corn and 95.5 percent for cotton.

The bill would raise basic federal target prices on wheat this year from $3 to $3.50 a bushel, on corn from $2.10 to $2.40 a bushel and on cotton from 52 cents to 60 cents a pound.

Targets for sorghum, barley and oats are based on the corn target. The Agriculture Department pays farmers the difference between the target and a lower average market price during the main selling months.

The rates at which the department would lend farmers money with the crop as collateral would be increased for wheat from $2.25 a bushel to $2.55, for corn from $2 to $2.25 and for cotton from 44 cents a pound to 48 cents. Loan rates are the support prices.

Major markets now are much higher, but in mid-March the national average returns to farmers were $2.65 for wheat, $2.11 for corn and 50.7 cents for upland cotton.

The department this year has required those seeking price or income supports to idle one acre for every five they plant to wheat and one for every 10 they plant to feed grains.

In addition, payments averaging $100 an acre on the total idled land are available to corn farmers who divert another acre for every 10 planted.

Cotton farmers can obtain similar payments for idling one acre for each 10 planted.

Those programs, plus payments to wheat growers for using some land for grazing or hay instead of harvesting it, are designed to take a total of 21 million acres out of production, leaving 192 million for those crops, the Agriculture Department said.

The bill would idle up to 59 million, it said.

Under the conferees' proposal, a wheat farmer would have a $3.50 target price by staying with the department's approach, a $4.25 target for idling 3.5 acres for every 10 planted or a $5.04 target for idling one for every two acres planted. Parity for wheat was $5.15 in mid-March.

For corn growers, idling 3.5 acres out of 10 planted would mean a $3.05 target and setting aside one for every two would produce a $3.45 target. Parity now is about $3.60 a bushel.

For cotton, either no cutback or a 20 percent set-aside would give a 60-cent target, a 35 percent set-aside would give the farmer a 72-cent target while the 50-percent step would produce a target of 84 cents a pound. Parity is about 88 cents.

The conferees said that farmers could not obtain both a diversion payment and payments under one of the higher target-price schedules.

Continuing To Turn Up Aflatoxin In N. C. Corn

By GLENN STEPHENS
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State health officials say they are continuing to find traces of aflatoxin, a cancer-causing substance, in some corn being milled to make meal.

The Health Department's food and drug division said Tuesday that after checking 16 of North Carolina's 44 corn mills it ordered four of them to recall meal from grocery shelves. Inspection of corn supplies at the other 28 mills are being made.

Dr. William Y. Cobb, director of the food and drug division, said the investigation began last fall after aflatoxin, a substance produced from a mold on corn, peanuts and certain other crops, was discovered during the corn harvest.

He said spot checks have been continuing and that recalls have been completed by two of the four mills discovered to have unacceptably high levels of aflatoxin. Another mill has almost finished recalling contaminated supplies of meal and the fourth has just begun the process.

The contaminated meal may be used as feed for mature cattle unless the level of aflatoxin is too high or it may be destroyed.

Under regulations of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, it is illegal to use corn with more than 20 parts per billion and milk with more than one-half part per billion of aflatoxin for human consumption. Corn with more than 100 parts per billion may not be used for animal feed.

After aflatoxin was found in corn produced in North Carolina last fall, Cobb said, officials began looking for signs of the substance in products used for human consumption.

Cobb said corn meal recalled last fall was acceptable for use as feed for mature livestock since none of it exceeded the 100 parts per billion tolerance.

Following inspection of the corn mills last year, officials began looking at milk supplies and found aflatoxin problems in six farm-to-market routes. Four farms were ordered to cut off shipments of milk for a maximum of three days each.

Farms where milk with aflatoxin was produced changed their cattle feed supplies and the problem cleared up within a few days, officials said.

Samples of milk made in retail stores did not turn up any instances of aflatoxin at unacceptable levels.

Destroy Still

FACTOLUS — Pitt County ABC officers yesterday destroyed an illegal distillery in a wooded area near here.

ABC enforcement chief J. M. Ward described the still as a 50-gallon copper still complete with cap and coil, four 50-gallon mash barrels, a 50-gallon cooler and 20-gallon doubler.

Ward said no mash was present and indicated that the still had not been operated recently.

Found about 2 p.m., the unit was destroyed with axes.

Ward said it is the first still officers have uncovered in Pitt County in about a year.

instances of aflatoxin at unacceptable levels.

Hoping To Improve Vocational Effort

WILLIAMSTON — Businessmen and agency representatives from the five-county Mid-East Region will hold a conference April 13, on ways to improve the effectiveness of vocational training programs in this area of Eastern North Carolina.

Registration for the conference, to be held at Martin County Community College here, will begin at 8 a.m., with the sessions scheduled to start at 9 a.m.

Sponsored by East Carolina University and ECU's Regional Development Institute, the Mid-East Commission, and the Regional Manpower Information Consortium (a voluntary association of agencies that provide vocational training services in the region), the conference will review how current vocational training programs respond to the current needs and problems of employers in Pitt, Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford and Martin Counties and how those programs can be made more effective.

Most of the session will be devoted to small group workshops in which employers and vocational program operators can discuss training needs and ways to meet those needs.

Employers desiring to attend may make reservations by calling conference planning committee chairman Norman Clyde at (919) 397-2531.

Nature Events At Fort Macon

FORT MACON STATE PARK — Three nature events are scheduled for the public this week at Fort Macon State Park. All are open to the public without charge. The three are:

— Friday, April 7, 9 a.m. — Bird Walk. Painted Buntings are scheduled to begin arriving. The bird walk will be led by interpreter John Fussell.

— Friday, April 7, 11 a.m. — Island Discovery Hike. A walk along the beach and into the dunes and forest behind the beach. Led by park naturalist Mark Joyner.

— Saturday, April 8, 9 a.m. — An island hike similar to the one scheduled on Friday.

Those going on the bird walk will meet at the fort entrance; and those for the nature walks will meet at the park bathhouse.

MISS COLLEGE-BOUND — Sandra Atkins, a Rose High School student, was crowned Saturday night during a pageant sponsored by the Greenville Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta sorority. Runners-up were Miss Anita Dicken, first; and Miss Cheryl Patrick, second.

Once Energy-Rich Northwest Sees Shortages, Too

By B.J. McFarland
PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Pacific Northwest, once the land of plentiful power, has come up against the energy crunch.

Private, public, and political forces already are at work to try and solve the problem.

Washington's Gov. Dixy Lee Ray describes the situation as a potential regional civil war.

The region's main energy fortress, the federal Bonneville Power Administration, is busy trying to find a new formula for allocating power generated by its system in order to keep average citizens protected, and at the same time avoid any drastic effects on the regional business economy relying on federally produced power.

Any high-use energy user, such as the region's aluminum plants, might be maimed or perish in the struggle.

It is state against state, mainly Oregon and Washington, on getting or maintaining preference power from the BPA pool. Washington holds the upper hand currently because of its preference ties to BPA through the law which established the Bonneville Power Project. That law requires the BPA administrator "to give preference and priority to public bodies and cooperatives." Washington has many, Oregon few.

Oregon is trying to get a share through Gov. Bob Straub's state power agency, authorized by the 1977 legislature but not yet implemented. Straub believes Oregon, with such an agency, could tap BPA power under the preference provision.

Washington state thinks little of the Oregon plan, and even BPA says there is no power available for Oregon, nor for the city of Portland, which has filed legal action to tap BPA hydroelectric resources.

Private utilities, which supply much of the power in Oregon, are busy developing alternate power sources. These include coal-powered generators, nuclear facilities and geothermal plants. Other means of power generation, such as wind power from prime sites along the coast and solar stations producing power from space, are being studied.

While the war clouds are forming, participants thus far have approached the battle lines with an attitude of "let's try and avoid it with a togetherness effort."

United Press International has made an in-dept inspection of the various facets of the energy situation in the region. Some of the findings:

Legislation — Congress eventually will have to take to grips with the situation and decide what avenues must be taken to avoid serious consequences in the region. Legislation already is before congressional committees for study. However, Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., said he would like to see the federal government turn over the nation's energy problems to private sources, adding, "I don't know why we simply can't conceive that the government cannot manage anything well."

Nuclear — Further development of nuclear power is highly controversial, and has been slowed down by licensing agencies who are being more deliberate in their evaluations and by anti-nuclear forces who foresee a holocaust from an accident at a nuclear power plant. Nuclear power currently is generated at the Trojan plant near Rainier, Ore., and at the Hanford facility in southeast Washington. Portland General Electric, in partnership with others, operates the Trojan plant and wants to build new nuclear power producing facilities in eastern Oregon.

Hydro — Planners for the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers'

North Pacific division say it is a fallacy to believe that hydroelectric projects have reached their full potential in the region. One corps planner said, "This region could save 113 million barrels of oil a year if it boosts water storage by 7 million to 11 million acre-feet and installs additional generators to use that water." The corps has a revised list of 154 potential storage sites, of which there is a "selected list of 35" that avoid federal wilderness and scenic areas and are most promising for development. Those 35 sites, said one corps official, could generate the equivalent of giant Grand Coulee dam in eastern Washington.

Outlook — Myron Katz, director of the Northwest Energy Policy Project which made a commissioned study for the Pacific Northwest Regional Commission — a state-federal partnership, predicts an energy slowdown in the region. He said the study found it far less costly to overbuild than underbuild. "Most people don't believe there is any energy problem" and will not make any "sacrifices until they see the power crisis. But the big decisions on energy will be decided by the Arabs and global leaders. Those decisions will not be made in Salem, Boise or Tacoma."

Environmentalists — The Natural Resources Defense Council and other environmentalists say an intensive regional energy conservation program can eliminate the need for additional generating plants beyond those existing and certain of the resources under construction or already approved.

Nuclear opposition — The Trojan Decommissioning Alliance, a rather loosely knit organization leading opposition to nuclear power development, is composed of about 100 persons and supported by "affinity groups." The oldest member of the alliance is 34.

One member of the group, Eugene Rosolie, 28, had moved from New York to Oregon, he said, "to escape proliferation of people and insanity. My biggest nuclear power concern is safety. If a serious one occurred, we would have to evacuate a whole area, and such an area would be uninhabitable for thousands of years."

The alliance twice has picketed the Trojan plant, and both times large numbers of the group were arrested for trespassing. It has planned another demonstration for St. Patrick's Day at Portland General Electric's downtown Portland office building.

Multnomah County Democrats in Portland also adopted a plank in the county platform calling for decommissioning of the Trojan plant, and hope to get the plank put into the state Democratic platform at the state convention March 31-April 2.

Impact — The basic problem is that the Pacific Northwest — outside having 40 percent of the nation's hydroelectric potential — is deficient in energy resources. No crude oil or natural gas is produced commercially, and outside of strip-mining in Washington to fuel a thermal powerplant, there is virtually no coal mining in the region.

While per capita consumption of all energy forms is only slightly greater for the region than the nation, the region's per capita electric energy consumption is almost double the national average. Utilities project that in the next 20 years, firm energy requirements for the region will more than double and peak energy demand will almost triple, yet virtually all the economically feasible and socially acceptable hydroelectric energy potential will be developed by the mid-1980s.

Natural Gas — More than one third of the Pacific Northwest's energy needs, outside transportation, are met by a relative newcomer to the regional energy picture, natural gas.

There is room for expansion of its use in home heating, said Paul Howe, senior vice president for operations of Northwest Natural Gas Co., Portland. He said while natural gas supply is not unlimited in the region, it is very good, with contracts on Canadian gas good through 1989. He anticipates these contracts will be renewed beyond that. On an annual basis, industry uses more than half the natural gas on Northwest's system.

The growing South: Its population is growing ten percent faster than the rest of the U.S.

And Southern Railway is growing right along with it.

Everybody knows that the South is one of the fastest-growing areas in the U.S. But what you might not know is that the South's population is growing a full 10% faster than the rest of the country.

Needless to say, we at Southern Railway are happy about all this because each time the South grows, we grow, too.

After all, who do you think carries the raw materials to the new plants that are part of this growth? And their finished goods to market? In large measure, we do.

And, as the South's population grows who do you think brings the things these people need? The cars, the carpets, the appliances, the clothing, the sporting goods and the food? Largely, we do.

But, we're not growing just to keep up with the ever-increasing population. We're growing to be prepared for an even bigger South of the future.

According to the federal government, the railroads will get an increase in freight volume of 143% by 1990.

And the railroads' share of market will go up by a big 24%.

Will we get the lion's share of these increases when they come? Maybe. But whatever happens, we're getting ready for them by expanding right now. We're putting in a new $43 million freight classification yard in North Carolina. We're adding to our microwave communication system, which is already the largest in the South. And we're laying double track where one used to be enough to handle the traffic in the area.

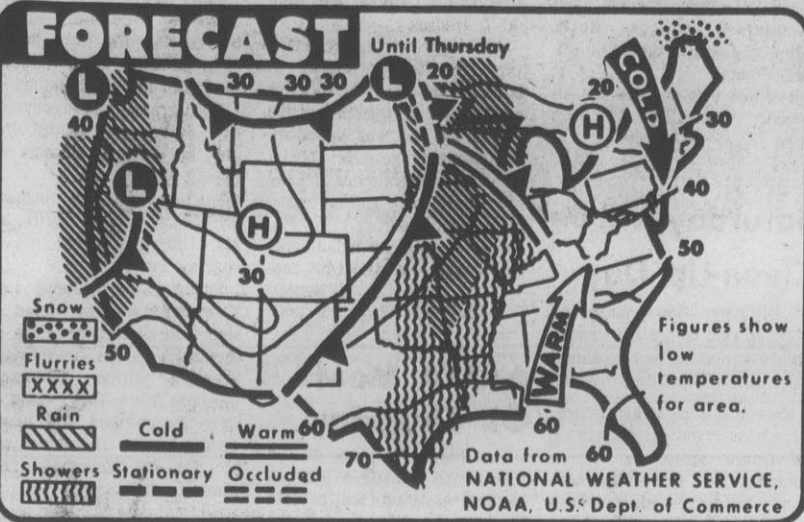

So, even though we're growing right along with you, we're also growing ahead of you.

Because when the demand is there, we want to be there, ready to serve.

SOUTHERN
 THE RAILWAY SYSTEM THAT GIVES A GREEN LIGHT TO INNOVATIONS

The Southern Railway is one more good reason for living in the South.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST—Showers and rain are forecast today from the eastern Gulf to the upper Great Lakes. Rain is expected for most of the Pacific coast. Warm weather is due for southern and middle Atlantic areas but most of the country will be cool. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A rather weak cold front moved through North Carolina today but its effect isn't expected to be felt until tonight and Thursday when temperatures will show a cooling trend. Meanwhile, today was expected to be another warm sunny day with high temperatures reaching the 80s over most of the state. By Thursday, the highs will be back in the 70s. Readings generally were warm around the state Tuesday with 84 degrees registered at Wilmington, New Bern and Fayetteville. Asheville and Raleigh had a high of 83 and Charlotte had an 82. Friday will bring a chance of showers while fair weather is expected Saturday and Sunday.

Women's Report By Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new National Advisory Committee for Women will report to the president regularly on "initiatives needed to promote full equality for American women." President Carter created the committee Tuesday, and said it also should review the recommendations of the now defunct National Commission on the Observance of International Women's Year.

PLAN STAGE VERSION
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A stage version of the popular movie musical "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" is being prepared for a pre-Broadway tour.

Chamber Ensemble In Friday Concert

The Contemporary Chamber Ensemble of the ECU School of Music will present its second program of the year on Friday, April 7, at 8:15 p.m. The concert will be held in the A. J. Fletcher Recital Hall on campus. The student ensemble, under the direction of Carroll W. Ridenhour, a senior, will perform works by three 20th century composers.

The program opens with Stravinsky's "Septet in Three Movements." Other pieces will be Anton Webern's "Quartet in Two Movements" — to be conducted by Dr. Rodney Schmidt, faculty advisor; and Honegger's "Concerto da Camera for Flute and English Horn."

Musicians are John McLellan, Eric Haas, Danny Green, Harvey Stokes, Mike Kincaid, Elizabeth Weeks, Courtie Burns, Glenn Davis, Linda Hanson, Dee Braxton, Larry Lyles, Katherine Campbell, Holley Hicks, Rolanda Allison, Jim Kittrell, Cliff Bellamy, Janet Reeve, and Karen Coupe.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

Carter Signing Bill Thursday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans will be able to work longer under a new law to be signed by President Carter.

Carter plans to sign into law Thursday a bill that allows federal workers to remain on the job as long as they are able and most people in the private sector to work until age 70.

Jurors Indict Former Judge

HENDERSON, N.C. (AP) — Former district court Judge Linwood T. Peoples was indicted Tuesday by a Vance County grand jury on three counts of embezzlement.

The grand jury also indicted Vance County Commissioner

William H. Hughes on one count of embezzlement and Henderson waitress Betty Cheving on two counts of embezzlement.

Peoples was indicted for allegedly embezzling $27 each from Michael Thomas Smith, Arnold Sneed Walker and Ronald T. Hudson.

He resigned as district court judge in the 9th district in January to run for superior court judge. At the time of his resignation, he was under investigation by the state Judicial Standards Commission and the SBI for allegedly settling traffic cases out of court.

Peoples said the indictments would in no way affect his candididacy for superior court judge. Chief Justice Susie M. Sharp of the N.C. Supreme Court had barred Peoples from holding criminal court until the completion of the investigation.

The grand jury considered five indictments against Peoples, but returned three as true bills.

Hughes, who is a candidate for Vance County sheriff, and Ms. Cheving could not be reached for comment.

Superior Court Judge Lacy Thornburg said he would instruct the defendants to present themselves to the Vance County Sheriff's office Wednesday morning when they would be formally charged and placed under arrest. Thornburg said he did not anticipate bond would be necessary.

No trial date has been set.

Rampants Hold Off Bertie By 10-9

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
WINDSOR — Rose High School survived a five-run rally by Bertie Senior High School in the seventh inning yesterday to take home a 10-9 Division I baseball victory.

The win evened the Rampant record in the league at 1-1, and brought their overall record to 5-2.
Rose took a 4-0 lead in the first inning and built that to 7-0 before Bertie rallied for one in the bottom of the second and three in the third to trail 7-4. Rose pushed over three more runs in the sixth only to see Bertie threaten to tie it up with five in the bottom of the seventh before the fire was finally put out.

Rose got the offense going in the top of the first, scoring four times. Ronnie Chapman walked and with two away, he scored when Jeff Aldridge's fly to deep left was misjudged by the fielder for a double. Williams followed with a walk and Joey Mattheis singled to center, scoring Aldridge. Bobby Woronoff hit another fly to left that was also misjudged, falling in for another double, with courtesy runner Reggie Spain and Mattheis scoring on the play.

The Rampants added three more in the second. Robert Morehead reached to open the inning on a Texas leaguer to right. He then stole both second and third. With one away, Mike Shank reached on an error, scoring Morehead. Greg Lee singled, and the two runners pulled a double steal. Aldridge then singled to center, scoring both Shank and Lee for the 7-0 lead.

Bertie came back with its first run in the bottom of the inning. With one down, Donald Cutrell singled and scored on Bill Eubanks doubled to center. Eubanks was thrown out trying to stretch it to a triple.

The Falcons came back with three more in the third. Bobby Francis led off with a walk and with one down, John Harrell singled to center. Both runners were sacrificed up and a wild pitch let Francis score. Jack Curlings walked and Marshall Bennett singled in Harrell. Cutrell singled to score Curlings.

It stayed at 7-4 until Rose added three more in the sixth inning. Will Sanderson and Robert Morehead both reached on errors, and moved up a base on an out. A balk scored Sanderson, and Shank singled to score Morehead. Shank stole second and moved to third on an error on the play. Aldridge walked, and a double steal scored Shank.

The Rampants, however, couldn't live with their comfortable 10-4 lead, giving up five in the bottom of the seventh as Bertie almost pulled it out.
Steve Hoggard led off with a walk and Harrell doubled down the right field line. Joseph Holley singled to center, scoring Hoggard, but Holley was cut down trying to make it to second.
Curlings grounded out to deep short, but Harrell scored on the

Ayden-Grifton Downs Hawks

WHEAT SWAMP — Ayden-Grifton scored three runs in the top of the seventh to gain a 4-1 victory over hosting North Lenoir in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game yesterday.

The game opened the league season for the Chargers and left them with a 1-0 mark in the conference. Ayden-Grifton is 3-4 overall.

The game was a scoreless affair until the fifth inning when Ayden-Grifton finally broke the ice. That came when Paul Setliff doubled and scored when Chris Phillips reached on a two-base error.

The Chargers then got what proved to be the difference in the top of the seventh. Setliff walked and Phillips singled. Harold Edwards reached on an error, loading the bases.

Brady Quinn followed with a single, scoring Setliff and Phillips. Mike Teachey, who hurled the game for the Chargers, then drove in the final run with a single, scoring Edwards.

North Lenoir avoided a shutout with a run in the bottom of the seventh. Pete Davis and Tony Graham reached on fielder's choices and Gary Sullivan singled in Davis.

Sullivan was the only hitter in the game with two hits.

The Chargers return to action on Friday, hosting North Pitt.

Table with columns: Team, Score, Errors. Rows: Ayden-Grifton, North Lenoir.

Albemarle Nips Martin Academy

ELIZABETH CITY — Albemarle Academy pushed over two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to take a 6-5 win over Martin Academy yesterday.

Albemarle got the initial lead with three runs in the first. Hall singled and moved up on a passed ball. Jennings reached on an error, and a wild pitch scored Hall. Manos walked and Jennings scored when Copeland grounded out. Smith then singled in Manos.

Martin came back with two in the fourth. Sherwood Leggett walked and Cliff Haislip reached on an error. Another error on the play let Leggett score. Butch Bragg then grounded out, scoring Haislip.

Albemarle got another run in the fifth. Hall singled and stole up. He scored when Manos reached on an error.

Martin got another run in the sixth. William Peele tripled and scored on a passed ball.

Then, in the top of the seventh,

Martin added two more runs for a 5-4 lead. Tim Gardner doubled and came around on passed balls. Haislip walked, and also was able to move around on passed balls.

But Albemarle came back with two in the bottom of the inning to get the win. Smithson walked and Jennings reached on an error, scoring the tying run. Manos then reached on another error, scoring Jennings with the game winner.

Gardner, Jeffrey James and Durwood Leggett each had two hits for Martin, while Hall had a pair for Albemarle.

Martin returns to action on Friday, meeting Lawrence. The Pioneers are now 2-1 in conference play and 3-3 overall.

Conley Tops Rams, 4-2

SNOW HILL — D. H. Conley's girls' softball team remained unbeaten yesterday, and handed Greene Central's Lady Rams their first loss, 4-2.

Conley and Greene Central both scored two runs in the second inning. It stayed at 2-2 until the seventh inning when Conley added its other two.

Both of those runs came when Lorri Garrish hit a two-run homer.

Dianne Hardy was the winning pitcher.

Gail Jones was the lone hitter in the game with two hits, pacing the Lady Rams.

Greene Central is now 5-1 overall and 0-1 in Eastern Carolina Conference play. Conley is 4-0 overall and 2-0 in the league.

Greene Central goes to Southern Nash on Thursday, while Conley entertains Farmville Central on Friday.

Table with columns: Team, Score, Errors. Rows: N. Pitt, Aycock, Conley, Greene Central.

Pant-HERs Defeated

PIKEVILLE — C. B. Aycock's softball team romped to a 17-2 victory over North Pitt yesterday afternoon.

The Lady Falcons led from the start, scoring four runs in the first and fourth innings and three each in the third and sixth. Nan Kearney led the attack with two hits.

Tammy Gardner was the winning pitcher in the game which dropped the Pant-HER record to 0-3 for the season. North Pitt will host Ayden-Grifton on Friday.

Table with columns: Team, Score, Errors. Rows: N. Pitt, Aycock.

Farmville Tops Southern Nash

SPRING HOPE — Farmville Central outlasted Southern Nash yesterday, capturing a 3-2 victory over the Firebirds in an Eastern Carolina Conference baseball game.

Farmville grabbed the lead in the second inning with a run. Edwards Hines singled, stole up and scored on Lewis Yelverton's single.

In the fourth, Farmville added a second run. Hines singled and stole second. He scored when Ted Johnson reached on an error.

Southern Nash got its first run in the fourth, scoring it when Overman shacked a solo home run.

The Jaguars got what proved to be the winning run in the fifth. Moore singled and stole second. Philip Gordon singled to score him.

Southern Nash closed to 3-2 with a run in the sixth. Grady singled and stole second, scoring when Farmer reached on an error.

Allen Moore, Hines and Clark May each had two hits to pace the Jaguars. Overman had two for Southern Nash.

The Jaguars are now 5-4 overall and 1-0 in the league. They entertain Conley on Friday.

Greene Central Rolls Past Conley

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer
HOLLYWOOD — Greene Central's hitting power proved too much for D. H. Conley to handle yesterday afternoon as the Rams rolled over the Vikings for a 12-6 baseball victory.

The Rams were able to stretch their 12 hits into 12 runs in the contest, taking advantage of six walks and two Conley errors. Greene Central had a home run by Russell Brann, a double and a fluke triple.

The Vikings also had 12 hits, but Greene Central played errorless defense, twice picking men off base and ending the game with a double play.
"I thought defensively we did pretty good," Ram coach Jim Fulghum said. "That's about as few errors as we've made all year. I guess we hit pretty good, too."
Fulghum said the Rams have had their ups and downs this season and, hopefully, they are starting to jell. "We can't relax on anybody."

Donald Wooten, a left-hander, started and went the distance for the Rams to raise his record to 2-2. He didn't walk a single Conley batter, while striking out three. "That's the first time Wooten went all the way," the coach commented. "I thought he battled pretty good." Fulghum said an injury prevents Wooten from striking out too many batters.

The Rams scored in five of the game's seven innings, including three in the third, four in the fourth and three more in the fifth. After scoring one run in the third, Conley pushed across five tallies in the fifth, sparked by Dale Bailey's three-run homer. But the Vikings were unable to generate much offense the rest of the way.

Leadoff batter Mike Chase scored in the top of the first for Greene Central. He singled, went to second on a wild pitch, was sacrificed to third by Greg Holmes and scored on Jay Carraway's single.
Conley had two hits in the bottom of the first, but left two runners on base.
In the third, the Rams scored a trio of runs after two outs. Carraway walked with two away and courtesy runner Jeff Scott stole second. Scott came around when Brann hit a home run to left center.

Al Murray followed that with a single and a steal. He was brought in by Collyn Beamon's base hit to make it 4-0.
The Vikings got on the scoreboard in the bottom of the frame. Nuggie Worthington doubled with two away and Micah Dixon singled him in.
Conley again got two outs on the Rams in the fourth before they started to do damage. Donald Shaw led off with a single and stole second, but starting pitcher Jeff Allen struck out the next batter and a foul fly to the catcher produced a second out.

Allen, who was charged with the loss, walked the next batter, Holmes, before Carraway slammed a double to score Shaw.
Brann walked to load the bases and Murray knocked a three-run triple, which took a bad hop over the Viking center fielder.
Three more Greene Central runs came across in the top of the fifth. A pair of singles by Shaw and Scott Davenport put men on first and third. Chase hit a fielder's choice, but Shaw beat the throw home and Davenport, who had stolen second, moved to third.
Davenport came across on Holmes' infield out and Carraway walked. Courtesy runner Scott and Chase then pulled a double steal with Chase scoring.
The bottom of the fifth was the Vikings' turn. Jeff Mills led off with a single and went to third on Arnell Credle's double. Bailey then knocked a three-run homer. Dixon singled and made it to third on Randy Edens' double and both runners scored when Ben Wilson got a base hit. That made it 11-6.

Greene Central's final run came in the sixth as Beamon singled and came home when Davenport reached on an error.
Shaw paced the Ram attack with three hits, while Carraway, Murray and Beamon had two each. Murray had three runs batted in and Carraway and Brann had two each.
Worthington had three hits for the Vikings, while Dixon and Randy Edens each had two. Bailey had three RBI and Wilson a pair.

Twins, Mariners Square Off In Opening Baseball Game Of Year

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer
The Minnesota Twins and Seattle Mariners aren't considered contenders in the American League West, but one of them will be all alone in first place sometime tonight.

The major league baseball season gets under way when those two teams square off in Seattle's Kingdom. The National League kicks off Thursday afternoon in Cincinnati with the Reds hosting the Houston Astros, and all 26 major league clubs are scheduled for action by Saturday.
There also were a dozen exhibition games scheduled today and two more on Thursday.

In their sophomore year, the expansion Mariners hope to better last season's mark of 64-98.
"As a second-year club, people will expect more from us," says Manager Darrell Johnson. "I think we can give them a little more. I expect us to wind up in the mid-70s somewhere. There's just no way we're not a better ballclub than last season."
On the other hand, people expect less from the Twins, who held onto first place for all of May, most of June and even as late as Aug. 15-16 before fading to fourth, 17 1/2 games off the pace. Although Rod Carew and his .388 bat are back, the Twins lost league RBI leader Larry Hise and batting runnerup Lyman Bostock in the free agent draft.

Seattle's Glenn Abbott, a 12-game winner, will have the honor of throwing the first pitch of the season. He will be opposed by Dave Goltz, who won 20 for Minnesota last season.
The National League opener pits Cincinnati's Tom Seaver against Houston's J.R. Richard. "I think this is the best team we've ever had, including the '75 and '76 teams when we won the National League championship," Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson said Tuesday after the Reds rallied from an 8-1 deficit to beat the Detroit Tigers 9-8 in the final exhibition game.

"Your record in the spring doesn't really matter, but winning some games late to establish a winning atmosphere is important," said Anderson. "I'm going out on a limb. By Oct. 1, I expect to win. We're absolutely ready, not from a rah-rah standpoint but as ready as professionals as I've ever seen them."
As the exhibition season wound down, the defending NL champion Los Angeles Dodgers suffered their seventh consecutive defeat, bowing to the Oakland A's 6-5 on Jeff Newman's two-run single in the eighth inning even though third baseman Ron Cey, sidelined since March 26 with a pulled hamstring, returned to action and rapped out four hits.
"It doesn't really concern us," said Al Campanis, the Dodgers' general manager. "If we'd have kept all our players together then it might. But injuries have kept us from really playing as a unit a lot of the time, and that makes a big difference."
"We should have everybody ready to go soon. I hope the team we've seen recently isn't the team we'll see when the season starts."

As the various teams struggled to cut down to the opening day limit of 25 players in the AL and 24 in the NL, which is on an economy kick this year, there were a couple of surprising deals.
The Kansas City Royals sent slugging first baseman John Mayberry to the Toronto Blue Jays for a player to be named later, opening a spot for rookie sensation Clint Hurdle.
With Duffy Dyer out with a broken thumb, the Pittsburgh Pirates reacquired catcher Manny Sanguillen from the Oakland A's for relief pitcher Elias Sosa, outfielder Miguel Dilone and a player to be named later.

Robersonville — Williamston High School's tennis team gained a 5-4 victory over Roanoke yesterday.
Williamston won four of the singles matches, then added the number three doubles to capture the victory.
Williamston is 4-2 and will travel to Roanoke Rapids on Thursday. Roanoke entertains Edenton on Friday.
Summary:
Tony Joyner (R) defeated Doug Chesson, 6-2, 6-4.
Gene Burns (R) defeated Joey Godard, 6-2, 6-0.
Duke Douglas (W) defeated Ricky Smith, 6-7, 7-6.
Gil Williams (W) defeated David Whitchard, 7-5, 7-5.
Tim Rogers (W) defeated Carl Jenkins, 6-3, 6-3.
Melvin Mason (W) defeated Jimmy Long, 6-0, 6-1.
Joyner Smith (R) defeated Chesson Godard, 8-4.
George Knight Burns (R) defeated Rogers Douglas, 8-3.
Mason Williams (W) defeated Whitchard Jenkins, 8-4.

Senior Duane Baker is one of two returning starters and the only Bear pitcher with experience. He was one of the team's leading hitters a year ago and compiled a 9-1 hurling record. He has been handling the bulk of the mound duties thus far.
Joining him on the pitching staff are a pair of freshmen, Clay Gardner and William Roberson. Roberson said both are outstanding athletes. Gardner is also a starting shortstop, while Roberson gets the nod at third base when not on the mound.
Rounding out the Bear infield are junior first baseman Doug Baker, junior second baseman Jackie Harrison, and sophomore Jesse Bullock behind the plate.
The team's other senior, Joe Harrison, will start in left field. "He's a real heady ballplayer," Roberson said. "He knows his job real well."
In center is the team's other returning starter, junior David Bowen. Roberson terms him "an outstanding defensive ballplayer."
Abby Baker is the team's other outfielder. The junior starts in right field.
Roberson said Jamesville should be "head and shoulders above the rest of the teams" in the B-H-M Conference this season. Bath and Chowinuity could be in a heated battle for second place.

"I'm hoping we might be pushing up there somewhere. We're hoping to be in the top four."
The key for the Bears? "I think it's time. If we can hold our own for the next three or four ballgames and get into the latter part of the year, I think we'll be OK. We're just so inexperienced."

Ballesteros Is New Challenger

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — A new dimension has been added to the Masters Golf Tournament this year.
For almost two decades, there has been Jack Nicklaus, the man to beat at the Masters. And there have been the challengers, the Weiskopfs, the Irwins, the Floyds, and, more recently and successfully, Tom Watson, who last year beat Nicklaus at his own game.
Another dramatic Nicklaus-Watson confrontation is a possibility in the Masters that begins Thursday. But not really probable.
The new dimension is Severiano Ballesteros, a Spaniard and the most exciting personality in the sport since the young Arnold Palmer.
"He's a long, very long (hitter)," said veteran Billy Casper, the 1970 winner of the Masters. "And he's a fantastic putter. His game is ideally suited to Augusta National. He will win here. Probably more than once."

Ballesteros, 21, flagship of the "Spanish Armada" that has dominated European golf for two years, says in improving English: "I need more experience ... Very difficult to win in the States."
He accomplished that last week, however, winning the Greater Greensboro Open in his first start in a regular PGA Tour event. He became the youngest player in 15 years to capture a tour title.
Incredibly, considering his age, it was his 19th worldwide title.
Here, however, he faces a field that includes 58 tour-tested American pros, nine American amateurs, 10 foreign pros and one foreign amateur.
Chief among them is Nicklaus, 38, holder of all the golf records worth having who has dedicated himself to supremacy in the Masters, U.S. and British Opens, the PGA.

Bertie Nips Williamston

WILLIAMSTON — Bertie Senior High School captured a 5-3 softball victory over Williamston yesterday.
Williamston scored a run in the first, but Bertie came back with two in the second. Williamston tied it up with another in the second, but Bertie again scored two, this time in the top of the third.
Both teams added single runs in the sixth.
M. Hoggard hurled the victory for the Falconettes.
P. Greer led the Bertie hitting with two including a two-run homer in the second. M. Hoggard also had two.
Williamston is now 2-1 and plays host to Plymouth on Thursday.

Aycock Captures 12-9 West Edgecombe Stops Roanoke

Win Over North Pitt

PIKEVILLE — C. B. Aycock blasted three home runs on route to a 12-9 victory over North Pitt in a high school baseball game yesterday afternoon.

The Falcons scored four runs in the first inning, one in the second, three in the fourth and four in the fifth as they handed the Panthers their sixth loss in six starts.

Jones led Aycock at the plate with a 3-4 performance, including one homer. Pennington was 2-4 for the Falcons, while Whitley and Singleton each had home runs.

The Panthers were paced by Roy Briley, who was 3-4 including a home run, and Tim Corey, who was 2-4.

The Panthers held a brief lead with a pair of runs in the top of the first. Jeff Hines received a base on balls and Briley followed up with a 1-run homer.

In the bottom of the inning, Jones singled for Aycock and Singleton reached on an error. Beamon walked and Pennington singled in Jones. After one of the Aycock runners was thrown out, Whitley knocked a three-run round tripper.

Another Aycock run came across in the second. Thomas doubled and scored when Hare reached on an error. That gave the Falcons a 5-2 lead.

North Pitt came back with a pair in the third. Carl Wilson walked and Ronnie House followed with a double. Victor Evans' single scored Wilson and House came in on a fielder's choice by Bailey.

Aycock added a trio of runs in the fourth and a two-run shot by Singleton in the fifth wrapped the game up. The Panthers rallied with four runs in the seventh.

North Pitt plays at Ayden-Grifton on Friday.

West Edgecombe Stops Roanoke

ROBERSONVILLE — West Edgecombe handed Roanoke its second Eastern Plains Conference defeat of the year yesterday, taking a 7-3 decision.

West Edgecombe came up with three runs in the top of the first. Joe Smith and Earl Taylor both walked, but Taylor was cut down at second on a fielder's choice as Alan Gray reached.

Mike Edmondson walked, loading the bases. Smith scored on Kelly Webb's sacrifice fly, and Tim Jones walked, reloading the bases. Walks to Andy Lassiter and Bruce Rhodes forced in the other two runs.

Roanoke came back with one in the bottom of the first. Ken Gurganus walked and so did Charlie Smith. Cliff Keel was hit by a pitch and Street Lee walked, scoring Gurganus.

West Edgecombe got what proved to be the winning run in the third. Webb reached on an error and stole up. He scored on Lassiter's single.

West Edgecombe added two in the fourth and one in the fifth. Roanoke got its other two in the seventh.

Keel and Will Harris both had two hits to lead Roanoke.

The Redskins, now 1-2 in the league and 5-3 overall play host to South Edgecombe on Friday.

Jamesville Rolls Up 8-1 Win Over Lakers

JAMESVILLE — Jamesville's Tommy DiNardo pitched a one-hitter as the Bullets defeated Mattamuskeet 8-1 yesterday.

DiNardo, who struck out 13 Laker batters and walked only one, didn't allow a single earned run to cross the plate.

Mattamuskeet's lone tally came in the top of the first when Mann reached on an error and scored on Pies' base hit.

The Bullets matched that in the bottom of the frame. Toby Holliday walked and moved to third on Trent Ange's infield out.

Ed Lilley sacrificed him home.

In the second, Keith Modlin doubled and then came in with the winning run when Victory Lilley reached on an error.

Jamesville scored another run in the third and then added five insurance scores in the sixth. Jeff Holliday led the way with three hits.

The Bullets are now 6-2 overall and will host Bath on Friday night.

Women Playing Guerrilla Roles

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — More women are taking up the gun in the guerrilla organizations of Western Europe.

A former coed is led into court in chains as a member of Italy's Red Brigades, the terrorist organization that kidnapped former Premier Aldo Moro.

A 22-year-old dental assistant among the South Moluccans who commandeered a train in the Netherlands last year was described as the most ruthless of the gang.

In West Germany, 10 of the 16 terrorists sought for the kidnap-slaying of industrialist Hanns-Martin Schleyer are women. So are two of the three killers of banker Juergen Ponto.

"In Italy of 1978 we have arrived at armed feminism," said an Interior Ministry official. "They act in cold blood."

"They are violent because society has been so violent against them for so long," said Tina Baffi, an Italian female attorney.

Although no woman has reached the pinnacle of power in the Irish Republican Army, women have been in the forefront of the Italian and West German terrorist movements.

Western Europe's best-known female terrorist in recent years was Ulrike Meinhof, a Hamburg journalist and housewife who with anarchist Andreas Baader organized and led West Germany's Baader-Meinhof Gang in the early 1970s in a campaign of arson, bank robbery, shooting and bombing.

Another leader in that group was Baader's mistress, Gudrun Ensslin, who aided him in his first terrorist attack, setting fire to a department store in Frankfurt in 1968 as a strike against the "pig-fascist state." When Baader was arrested for the arson, Mrs. Meinhof led the prison raid that rescued him.

Baader, the two women and a male associate were captured

Joseph E. Grimsley Jr., boiler technician fireman apprentice, son of Minnie W. Little of Farmville, completed the basic boiler technician course at the Naval in 1972. All four were found dead in their prison cells, Mrs. Meinhof during the trial, and the other three after a terrorist hijacking to secure their release failed. The government said all four committed suicide but their disciples carrying on their terrorist fight claimed they were murdered.

Italy's Red Brigades also was founded by a man and a woman, Renato Curcio and his wife, the late Margherita Cagol. And like Mrs. Meinhof, Miss Cagol in 1975 led an armed attack that freed Curcio from jail.

Miss Cagol was killed shortly after in a shootout with police. Nadia Mantovani, once a model pre-med student at the University of Padua, took her place at Curcio's side. She is still beside him in the defendants' cage in Turin, where the government is attempting for the third time to try 15 members of the Red Brigades.

S. Korean Businessman Says He Gave Big Sums To These

WASHINGTON (AP) — Korean businessman Tongsun Park says he gave away $850,000 in political contributions. Here is a list of the 31 present and former members of Congress and two unsuccessful candidates to whom Park says he gave money.

—Former Rep. Ross Adair, R-Ind., a $500 check in 1970. Previously has had no comment.

—Former Rep. William Ayres, R-Ohio, a $500 check in 1970. Confirms receiving it.

—Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., the forgiveness of an $1,800 bill for a party at Park's George Town Club, a $2,950 cash contribution and a 1970 check for $500. Confirms the payments.

—Rep. John Breaux, D-La. Park testified he directed a $5,000 check in 1972 payable to Breaux through an intermediary but is not sure he ever received it. Breaux denies it.

—Rep. William Broomfield, R-Mich., a 1970 check for $1,000 which was returned and never cashed. Says his staff returned it without telling him.

—Rep. Kika De La Garza, D-Texas, a $500 check in 1970. Confirms it.

—Former Rep. Edwin Edwards, D-La., a $25,000 contribution in 1971, $10,000 of which was given through Edwards' wife, Elaine, and $15,000 to Edwards' brother, Marion. Edwards, who is now Louisiana's governor, acknowledges receipt of $20,000 but says he doesn't know about an additional $5,000.

—Rep. Thomas Foley, D-Wash., a $500 check in 1970. Confirms it.

—Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen, R-N.J., a $500 check in 1970 that was returned uncashed.

—Former Rep. Nick Galifianakis, D-N.C., a total of $10,500, of which $500 was advanced as a credit to entertain constituents at Park's George Town Club in 1972. The remaining $10,000 was given, Park said, in 1972 when Galifianakis was running for the U.S. Senate. Galifianakis has said previously the $500 payment was returned. He refuses comment on the $10,000.

—Former Rep. Nick Galifianakis, D-N.C., a total of $10,500, of which $500 was advanced as a credit to entertain constituents at Park's George Town Club in 1972. The remaining $10,000 was given, Park said, in 1972 when Galifianakis was running for the U.S. Senate. Galifianakis has said previously the $500 payment was returned. He refuses comment on the $10,000.

—Former Rep. Richard Hanna, D-Calif., received, Park said, a total of $262,000 between 1970 and 1975. Convicted of conspiracy.

—Former Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md., $500. Confirms it.

—Former Rep. Albert W. Johnson, R-Pa., $1,000 in 1974. Confirms it.

—Former Rep. Donald Lukens, R-Ohio. The committee said it has records showing Park gave Lukens a total of $1,000 in separate $500 payments in 1968 and 1970.

Park testified he has no record he ever made any contribution, "but knowing our close relationship I conclude I must have made some contribution." No response.

—Former Rep. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, now a senator, a check for $500 in 1970 and $1,000 in cash in 1972. Confirms it.

—Rep. John McFall, D-Calif. Park said he gave McFall $1,000 in 1972 and $3,000 in 1974, both in cash. Confirms it.

—William E. Minshall, R-Ohio, a total of $56,000 of which $20,000 was contributed in turn to former President Richard Nixon's 1972 election campaign. Refuses to comment beyond saying he did nothing wrong.

—Former Rep. Chester L. Mize, R-Kan., a 1970 check for $500. Confirms his campaign committee got "a check," but that he doesn't recall the circumstances.

—Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., a 1970 check for $500. Confirms receipt.

—Former Rep. Otto E. Passman, D-La. Park said he paid Passman between $237,000 and $247,000. Denies receiving the money.

—Former Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y.; cash payments for $2,000 in both 1970 and 1972. Died.

—Rep. Edward R. Roybal, D-Calif., a 1974 cash payment of $1,000 in Passman's office. Roybal has denied receiving such an amount.

—Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J.; $100 in cash in 1970. Confirms it.

—Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., a check for $300 in 1970. Confirms.

—Rep. Charles H. Wilson, D-Calif., a 1975 cash payment of $1,000 which Park testified was intended as a "typical" Korean-style wedding present. Wilson received the cash in Korean currency and Park testified the congressman asked an officer of one of Park's companies to exchange it into U.S. dollars. Wilson confirms that Park gave him money as a wedding present when he married a Korean woman in 1975. However, Wilson says he never solicited gifts or favors from Park.

—Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., a $500 check in 1970. Confirms it.

—Rep. Edward Patten, DN.J., a $3,500 payment. Declined to comment.

—Rep. John Rarick, D-La., a payment of $1,000 cash in Passman's office. Denies receiving the money.

—Former Rep. Seymour Halpern, R-N.Y., who Park said received $1,000. No response.

—Unsuccessful candidates Philip B. McMartin, $1,000 check in 1970 and Bob Eveles, $300. No response.

SUING LEADERSHIP
WHEELING, W. Va. (AP) — A faction of United Mine Workers has sued union leadership alleging miners did not get financial help from the union when they needed it during their recently ended strike.

Difficult Road To Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional energy negotiators are meeting to write a compromise energy bill, but so far can only agree that "there is complete unanimity of feeling that we have to move fast," says Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Jackson said conferees hope to complete their work by April 20, the first anniversary of President Carter's presentation of the stalled energy bill to Congress, but that there was no guarantee of even this. The House-Senate committee remains deadlocked over the issue of natural gas pricing.

MINE DEATHS

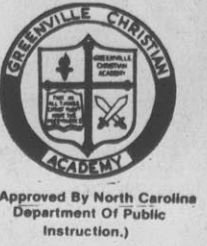

DUTY, Va. (AP) — Five men died in a coal mine near this tiny southwest Virginia mountain town when they apparently were overcome by carbon monoxide, officials said.

By Dr. H.G. JONES
For the Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The first section of North Carolina's most successful plank road — the Fayetteville and Western — opened between Fayetteville and Little River 128 years ago.

The era of the plank roads in North Carolina was relatively short-lived. Plans began taking shape in 1848, business reached its peak by 1855, and a rapid decline followed.

Although two railroads already existed in the state by 1848, the inadequacy of transportation facilities for moving native products to market was well recognized.

Farmers not served directly by the railroads found it difficult to move their goods through the deep sand and mud of existing roads.

In November, 1848, Gov. William A. Graham gave his support to road improvement and stated: "I am forced to the conviction that we labor under greater disadvantage than any state in the Union. The man who is obliged to transport in wagons over roads no better than ours can no more contend for profits with him who has the advantage of railroads or good navigation than can the spinning wheel with the cotton mill."

Taking note of their simplicity of construction and the bountiful supply of cheap timber, the governor instructed the legislature to investigate the adaptability of plank roads for crossing the "sand and swamp of the lower country and the clay soil of the upper country."

From the beginning, the town of Fayetteville led in the development of plank roads — though they eventually were built at various places from Wilmington to Asheville.

Having failed in early efforts to gain financial support for a new railroad, a group in Fayetteville turned to the possibility of constructing a new trade road. Their bill to charter the Fayetteville and Western Plank Road Co. was passed in 1849.

Two other plank road companies also were chartered before the 1848-49 session ended, and the number of separate companies grew to 84 before the last charter was granted in 1860. Many of them, however, never built a road.

One student of the plank road movement has written that in appearance a typical plank road was usually a single "track" about eight feet wide, located on the right side of a roadbed leading to a town.

The other side of the roadbed would usually be graded, drained, and packed for the benefit of vehicles which had to get off the plank road for passing.

Four "stringers" or sills provided a foundation for the planks which were laid across the sills. The plank road surface then was covered with sand "to make the road more durable."

The first section of the Fayetteville and Western road was constructed in this fashion at an average cost of $1,465.27 per mile, though expense could vary considerably with the terrain.

Most plank roads were operated on a toll basis, and toll houses were set up at various points to collect fees from travelers. Most roads, however, suffered at the hands of "cheaters," who found it easy to travel on the plank roads until they approached a toll gate and then detour around it through the woods.

The years of 1854 and 1855 are said to have marked the high point in prosperity for the Fayetteville and Western as well as most of the other 500 miles of plank roads built in North Carolina prior to the Civil War. Expansion of rail service, "cheaters," development of other construction techniques, deterioration of existing wooden roads, and the coming of the Civil War all contributed to the rapid deterioration of the plank road era in North Carolina. Though their importance had long since dwindled, the final days of the "farmer's railroads" or "mudless highways," as they were called, were decreed on April 10, 1869, when the state legislature turned over control of the remaining plank roads to the counties in which they existed.

Act Against Illiteracy

RALEIGH — With the support of Gov. Jim Hunt and the many hours contributed by volunteers in five communities in this state, the first giant step in eradicating adult functional illiteracy is well on its way in North Carolina.

According to Dr. Thomas Dudley, Adult Basic Education coordinator, Department of Community Colleges, this step in eliminating adult functional illiteracy in this state is being concentrated in the service areas of Caldwell Community College, Wilkes Community College, Forsyth Technical Institute, Robeson Technical Institute and Martin Community College.

The five pilot projects are costing almost $1 million. Except for local funds of $50,000 at Robeson Tech and $53,536 at Martin Community College, the projects are being financed entirely from federal sources.

After successful completion of these five one-year projects, it is expected that similar programs will be established at all institutions in the community college system with the hope of financial assistance coming from the General Assembly.

Bed-Ridden Mom Successfully Raised Her Children

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — Dorothy Gruber spends all her time in bed but nobody has ever accused her of being the least bit lazy, especially not her four children.

Basically unaided, she reared them all from her bed, to which she has been confined since 1954 when her spinal cord was severed by a bullet fired from a gun wielded by her former husband.

Mrs. Gruber will not discuss the incident but she loves talking about her children, particularly Howard, who recently received a master's degree in sociology. He was only 2½ when his mother was paralyzed from the waist down.

The story should be about him, she told Huntington Herald-Dispatch writer David Peyton, when he interviewed her last week.

But Nancy Meadows, her Welfare Department caseworker from the division of rehabilitation, thinks differently.

"Dorothy Gruber is one of the most unusual people I've ever met," she says. "I don't think I've ever seen such spirit. Sometimes, when I have a few extra minutes, I go to her house just to visit."

Mrs. Gruber, however, sees nothing remarkable in the fact that she cooks, sews and cans food from her bed. "The good Lord never promised us an easy life," she says.

She also claims no special credit for rearing her children despite her handicap. "I brought them into the world and I was responsible for them."

After two months in the hospital, she returned home and began caring for Howard, Donald, who was then 12, Edith, 11, and Gloria, 9.

With a little prodding, she can remember some of the problems. About the time Howard cut his head. Or the time he broke his arm and she had to get somebody to take him to the hospital.

"All that waiting," she recalled. "I guess you could call that going through hell."

She even disciplined her children when they needed it. Howard remembers "how Mom used to make me go to the back yard where there was this plum tree. She'd make me cut a switch and bring it to her so she could switch me. If I brought a little one, she'd make me go back and get a big one."

Her children are all grown and gone now but Mrs. Gruber stays busy. She has a housekeeper, paid for by the welfare department, who comes in and does the cleaning. Otherwise, she takes care of herself.

A hot plate and a small electric oven are under the bed, along with a toaster and assorted cooking utensils. A small refrigerator stands beside the bed, as do a small utility cabinet and an electric sewing machine. Last summer, she canned 24 pints of apple butter. And she makes quilts, operating the sewing machine with a hand control.

Mrs. Gruber says when she is frustrated or depressed she remembers these words from her Bible: "The Lord said he'd never put more on us than we could bear."

Review Ethics Of Euthanasia

ECU News Bureau
Ethical considerations regarding euthanasia, withdrawal of medical care and suicide of terminally-ill persons were discussed by Prof. James Leroy Smith of the East Carolina University philosophy faculty at a recent gathering at the University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Prof. Smith's presentation, "Conceptual, Empirical and Normative Considerations Concerning Euthanasia, Cessation of Treatment and Suicide," was given during a National Science Foundation short course, "Ethical Issues in Death and Dying."

Hospital Care Unit Comforts Patient And Family

By DALE SINGER
ST. LOUIS (UPI) — For patients who lie dying in a coldly efficient modern hospital, comfort from family and friends is more welcome than a constant flow of doctors, nurses and strange-looking machines.

That's the philosophy at the continuing care unit at Lutheran Medical Center in St. Louis. Visitors, including children, are welcome at all hours and can even spend the night in special quarters. Extraordinary life-support systems are not used. Relief from almost constant pain often is only a shot or a pill away.

Coordinator Ruth Reko said changes were made to take away the large part of the fear of death that really is a fear of the unknown — a fear of being isolated from loved ones when they are needed the most.

"In other hospitals, if someone is dying and the family wants to stay, the family may be made to feel it is breaking the rules," Mrs. Reko said in an interview. "That type of anxiety isn't needed at such a time. It doesn't help the family or the patient."

"To die alone is one of the greatest fears many people have."

Mrs. Reko and Susan Grinslade, nursing supervisor in the 12-bed unit that opened in January, said the continuing care concept based on English hospices is becoming more popular in the United States. Hospices in the U.S. are in New York City, New Haven, Conn. and Boonton, N.J.

St. Christopher's Hospice in London, the model on which most are based, is where patients with terminal illnesses, usually cancer, go to die.

Mrs. Reko and Ms. Grinslade said the biggest obstacle in the United States is the cure-oriented outlook that many medical people have. When there is no hope for the cure of a terminal patient, they said, the case is often shunted aside.

"Dying patients become isolated," Mrs. Reko said. "They may be moved to a private room, since no one wants to be in the room with a dying patient. Their call lights may be answered more slowly than those of someone the doctors and nurses feel may be saved."

Dr. Robert Kraetsch, who has treated many of the unit's patients, said, "Most people go into medicine thinking they're going to cure someone. In a lot of cases that's not possible, but the patients still need attention."

Isolation is a constant threat to the dying patient. Pain is another. Patients at Lutheran often have had bad experiences in other hospitals, where relief is administered by schedule, not by need.

At Lutheran, Mrs. Reko said they don't have to worry about it anymore.

"Pain medication is available at all times. Elsewhere, the patient may have been told the pharmacy was down to one more pill, and that may cause some anxiety because after that pill, it won't be there next time.

"Our philosophy is that we're going to keep trying. Some people get the message from medical personnel that to be a good patient, you don't complain. We want them to let us know if they feel pain, to know that we won't abandon them or let them endure the pain alone."

Ms. Grinslade said the decision against using machines to prolong breathing was a decision in favor of the patients. "We're more concerned with promoting death with dignity. It's a more peaceful type of thing."

She said the staff is closely knit personally and professionally. The bonds they form with patients and their families are strong and long-lasting.

The follow-up after a patient's death begins with the funeral and continues for a year.

"We draw a lot of support from the family," Ms. Grinslade said. "We're trying to see how they're doing, and they always say they couldn't have done so well without our help. It really makes you feel good about what you've done."

"The quality of life is enhanced. The patient's quantity of days may be shortened, but the families have watched these people suffer for many months. Relief from this pain is much more important than prolonging it."

Caesarian Birth Class Planned

A class for persons anticipating the birth of a child by Caesarian section or who wish to learn more about the subject will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. in the Physical Therapy Department of Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

A similar class is held the first Friday of each month. A film is shown and couples who have experienced a Caesarian birth are available to share their experiences and answer questions. For more information, one may call 756-5883 after 5 p. m.

The program is co-sponsored by Eastern AHEC.

Injuries Cost Dollars, Days

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — During fiscal year 1976-77, nearly $73 million was paid in total compensation for injured workers in North Carolina, according to the N.C. Industrial Commission.

More than 1.3 million work-days were lost because of injuries on the job.

Problems associated with the injured worker are the focus of a two-day conference to be held today and Thursday at the Hyatt House here.

The Southeastern Industrial Rehabilitation Institute is open to persons involved in all aspects of industrial rehabilitation, including employers, insurance agents, rehabilitation counselors, attorneys, workmen's compensation, administrators and injured workers themselves.

The division of rehabilitation counseling at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine at Chapel Hill has received a $23,000 training grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to help sponsor the institute.

Other institute sponsors are the Southern Association of Workmen's Compensation Administrators and the region IV office of the HEW Rehabilitation Services Administration.

John Wayne Hand-Crafted Pistol Doing Well Gun-Maker's Specialty

BOSTON (AP) — John Wayne's recovery from open-heart surgery is routine — except for a presidential phone call and televised get-well wishes from Bob Hope.

Martin Bander, spokesman for Massachusetts General Hospital, said Tuesday that President Carter had telephoned Michael Wayne, the 70-year-old actor's son, to say he was praying for him.

Bander also quoted the president as saying: "John Wayne is a great national asset. If there's anything I can do for him, please let me know. He surprises all of us with his ability to recover. Tell him he is in my thoughts and prayers."

During the Academy Awards Monday night, Wayne was paid tribute by master of ceremonies Bob Hope.

"We want you to know, Duke, we miss you tonight," Hope said. "We expect to see you amble out here in person next year 'cause no one else can walk in John Wayne's boots."

Wayne was operated on Monday for a faulty heart valve, and Bander said the hospital switchboard was swamped with calls from well-wishers from around the world.

By MICHAEL HOLMES Associated Press Writer ROCKWELL CITY, Iowa (AP) — Rex Merrill is a man who knows his guns.

"I made my first one in 1948," he said. "I've been working on it, off and on, ever since."

Merrill makes pistols. Perfectly balance deadly accurate, carefully crafted, much-desired pistols.

He makes them by hand. "We don't turn 'em out like popcorn, you know," he said as he turned a weapon over in his oil-stained hand. "One gun dealer told me I could sell 10,000 a year if I could make 'em. But..."

He can't make 10,000 a year. Even now that he's hired a full-time, non-family employee, Merrill's tiny shop has turned out only about 200 pistols.

What he turns out — carefully, quietly, with his son, grandson and his other employee — are single-shot target and hunting pistols that have won shooting tournaments, bagged game and earned the praise of gun magazines across the country.

"We don't do any advertising at all," he shrugged. "Don't have to. No use spending money on advertising if you can't keep up with the orders you've already got."

The orders — listed by hand in a simple ledger book — are backed up at least 60 guns. Buyers from Puerto Rico to Alaska have placed orders. Gun buffs from England to Australia have written for information.

"Sold the first one of these in 1969 to a fella over in Carroll, Iowa," Merrill said. "He seemed to like it. Word got around, I guess."

Each of numerous small boxes in the shop contains a single set of the parts that go into a Merrill Sportsman. All 34 parts are made in the two-room shop crammed full of equipment.

Not one is welded or machine-stamped. They are cut and turned, one at a time, on aged machines. They are measured, filed and fitted, one at a time, by hand. The carved wooden grips, in teak or walnut, are turned one at a time on a machine Merrill designed and built.

The boxes of parts are then placed before pipesmoking Steve Bierstedt. One at a time, Bierstedt fits each piece into place. File in hand, he removes a thousandth of an inch of metal, one stroke at a time.

Assembly takes Bierstedt about four hours per gun. When he's finished, an incredibly thin sliver of metal measuring foil will slide through the openings. A human hair will not.

This is the way Rex Merrill wants it. The gun bears his name and represents 30 years of work.

"We get nearly $300 for these. I don't want them to jam. That's what I like about this," he said, a flannel-shirted arm gesturing around the shop.

"We've had offers from other gunsmiths who wanted to make them under our name. But, you can't tell what they do to us." Rather than sell out, rather than collect royalties, rather than turn the business over to outsiders, Merrill spends his days afford one.

"Rex said he needed a little work done," Bierstedt said. "I worked off my gun. Then the wife wanted one, so I worked off hers. Then I worked off one for a buddy. Finally, I just stayed on."

FIND 1944 WRECKS
FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Wreckage of two World War II fighter planes that crashed in 1944, apparently involved in U.S. aircraft deliveries to the Soviet Union, have been found 50 miles southeast of Fairbanks, the Army says.

BIG HYPO — Stephen Papenberg, health inspector for Rutherford, N.J., uses testing device that checks air quality. Air is forced by the plunger at bottom, through the glass tube at the top of the instrument. The tube is filled with chemical that will change color if chemical being sought is present in the air. Rutherford is testing air to determine if there might be carcinogenic substances in the air that caused several persons in the Borough to contact blood cancer in the past several years. Possible Witness To King Death In A Tennessee Mental Hospital

By LES SEAGO
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A woman who may have seen Martin Luther King Jr.'s assassin only minutes after the fatal shot may be released soon from a Tennessee mental hospital, the hospital superintendent says.

"Grace Walden is a patient here," Dr. Maurice Cohen, superintendent of West Tennessee Mental Health Institute at Bolivar, said in a telephone interview Tuesday.

"She is free to go but she cannot leave ... unless we can place her in a community. We are in the process of preparing to discharge her," he said.

Mrs. Walden, 62, has been at the Bolivar hospital since 1968, several months after the slaying of King. Her potential testimony about what she saw April 4 at the Main Street boarding house where the fatal shot was fired has been the subject of some debate.

Tuesday, a group of ministers called for Mrs. Walden's release and accused the state of Tennessee of keeping her in the mental hospital to discredit her.

In a statement read by the Rev. S.B. Kyles of Memphis, the 17 ministers suggested that she was hospitalized because she refused to identify a photo of James Earl Ray as the man she saw leaving the bathroom where the fatal shot was fired. Ray pleaded guilty to the King slaying in 1969 and is serving a 99-year prison sentence, although he has attempted to retract his plea and is seeking a full trial.

Cohen said Mrs. Walden is suffering from "chronic brain syndrome, I suspect due to abuse of alcohol." He said she is also suffering from diabetes. "She's always been open — she's never been locked up," he said.

Cohen said she has been interviewed by investigators for the House Assassinations Committee, which is looking into the slayings of President John F. Kennedy, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and King.

He said she has also been interviewed by newspaper and television reporters and by lawyer-author Mark Lane, whose book "Code Name Zorro" alleges that King was assassinated as part of a conspiracy in which Ray was set up to take the blame. Lane is now representing Ray.

Cohen said the congressional investigators talked to Mrs. Walden last summer for almost four hours. He said Lane interviewed her Sunday with a nurse in the room.

"When she is interviewed, she has a vivid picture in her mind of the man she saw leaving the bathroom, but she can't say how long she's been hospitalized," Cohen said.

He said despite her mental problems, Mrs. Walden is capable of functioning outside the hospital with some supervision. Hospital officials have applied on her behalf for Social Security payments to provide her with an income, he said.

Once an income is secured, the hospital will find a home for her, probably in Memphis. "I would say she'll be out of here in a month," Cohen said.

Noise Pollution Program Rapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — A six-year-old federal program to reduce noise pollution is "poorly administered and irresponsibly conducted," says Sen. John Culver, head of a subcommittee holding hearings on the results of noise control.

Culver said the Environmental Protection Agency, which has chief responsibility for enforcing the 1972 Noise Control Act, has failed "in so many ways to meet its mandated responsibilities."

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are inspired with all sorts of interesting, new and progressive ideas and plans of action for making a success of your own special activities. Be sure you make the arrangements now, but do not put them into effect until another day when the planets are in your favor.

ARIES (March 21 to Apr. 19) Find right ways and methods of expansion and make life easier and more affluent. Further your aims via the social ladder also. Be careful of poor investments.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Give some thought to what your true aims are and how best to gain them. Use good, practical sense and you gain them easily.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are thinking clearly and can understand how best to gain your finest personal aims. Know which of your friends can help you. Join in group affairs and be happy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do whatever will stamp you as a conscientious citizen and improve your position in your area. Try doing something different from the norm.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A new plan you have in mind needs more work and inspiring ideas if you are to put it across successfully. Contact those who might be able to help you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find better ways of handling responsibilities. A long talk with a loved one can bring better understanding, more harmony between you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Have a talk with a clever and dynamic partner and come to a fine understanding. Do not dilly-dally about a civic duty you have to perform.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have much work to do, so get at it quickly and it is soon behind you. A co-worker may be forceful, but don't pay any attention.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take care of obligations before you go out to amusements. Be careful that you do not overspend.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be more inspired in relating to others and you get good results. Forget that plan that is no longer workable. Study a new project that could add to your income.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Become more productive at your work by understanding your limitations, which could be fewer than you think. Conversations with allies brings more understanding, harmony.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Be conscientious in handling financial affairs and get good results. Look about you and see what repairs are necessary to make abode more charming, comfortable.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be alert to new ways and means through which to become successful, so be sure to send to right schools where such trends are stressed. A brilliant, intelligent person in this chart.

ed to Baby Jane?" in 1962. The actress, who was born in 1906 in Lowell, Mass., is 70 years old today. (AP Laserphoto)

'Just Another Birthday' Today For Bette Davis; She's Seventy

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bette Davis doesn't hide her age, but she doesn't dwell on it either. "It's just another birthday," she says of her 70th today. "A big one, I'll admit, but I don't believe in birthdays."

An expectable response from an actress who, unlike some others, has never been reluctant to reveal her age: She was born April 5, 1908, in Lowell, Mass.

At 70, Bette Davis exhibits no slackening of her enormous energies. She declined a recent birthday interview — "I'm much too busy with the Academy Awards and all that." She has spent 47 years in films and during the past year appeared in three movies: Disney's "Return from Witch Mountain," the television film "Harvest Home" and the all-star Agatha Christie mystery "Death on the Nile," her 85th movie.

"That's the best thing for me, having my work," she said at the Egyptian location in October. "I would never get married again; that just wouldn't succeed. When your children grow up and leave you, it can be very lonely. Luckily for me, I've got my work to fill the gap."

When she is not working in films, she goes on the road with her one-woman show, screening highlights from her film career and commenting on her life and work. Miss Davis has always been free and open in her comments, and these are some of her remarks in recent times:

"I've always known the value of the press. They're just as valuable as the performances you give; you can't exist without them. That is something that is lacking today. Young people don't realize the value of publicity. They're fools."

"It took me a long time to learn to fight. In the beginning I wasn't that way at all. It wasn't in my nature, but I realized that you have to force yourself to fight for what you want or they simply won't respect you. I never would have had the same career if I hadn't fought."

"The only thing I worry about is dying without a cigarette in my mouth. People have suggested that I give up smoking, to which I answer, 'Whatever for?'"

"Of Human Bondage" was my first step up the ladder, the first time I was considered possibly a really good actress. The character I played was the first bitch heroine on the screen, and none of the well-known actresses would play it."

"Nuts to growing old. Don't you ever believe that life begins at 40 or that it's wonderful to be 70. I'd give anything to be 30 again. Every so often somebody asks me if I've had my facelift. I always tell them, 'Would I look like this if I did?'"

"I think the key to life is to never stop accepting its challenges. As far as I'm concerned, once someone stops accepting challenges, he's dead."

Hank Williams Movie Planned

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Warner Bros. will begin production this summer on a movie about the late country music singer Hank Williams, a family member says.

His son, Hank Williams Jr., also a country music singer, revealed the movie plans Tuesday at the opening of a museum honoring his father on Nashville's Music Row.

Williams, who died in 1953, was best known for "Your Cheatin' Heart," "Lovesick Blues," "Kawliga" and "I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry."

May Register For Art Class

Registrations are now being taken for a new art class of ten-weeks duration to be held at the Art Center beginning Tuesday, April 11.

The class will be a basic one in painting with emphasis on fundamentals, materials, and techniques of color mechanics. Dan Morgan will be instructor.

Persons wishing to register are to call 758-1946. Classes will be held for ten consecutive Tuesdays from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
6 ♠ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: King of ♠.

A two-way finesse is a treacherous holding, for it's always difficult to guess which defender has the missing honor. The best method of tackling such a combination is to find a line that eliminates the finesse completely.

South took a direct route to the optimum contract. Once his partner supported spades, South knew exactly where he wanted to play the hand.

West led the king of diamonds, and when dummy appeared, it seemed that declarer would have to rely on the club finesse for his contract. To complicate life, he could play either defender for the missing lady.

Closer analysis revealed that a strip and end play could guarantee the contract. The opening lead marked the queen of diamonds with West. It trumps were 2-2, declarer could draw trumps, eliminate hearts, and then throw West in with the queen of diamonds to force an advantageous lead.

Accordingly, declarer won the ace of diamonds and drew two rounds of trumps. He wasn't too concerned that the suit split 3-1, because it was West who showed out on the second trump. That meant that a partial elimination would succeed.

Declarer cashed the king and ace of hearts, then ruffed a heart, stripping that suit from both his hand and dummy. Now West was given the lead when declarer exited with a diamond.

West was faced with a choice of unhappy plays. If he returned a red suit, declarer would ruff with dummy's remaining trump while discarding a club from his hand. If West shifted to clubs, it would eliminate declarer's guess in that suit and present him with three club tricks. Either way, the slam was assured.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. Abetting Illegal Honking Of Horns

KENT, Wash. (AP) — The picket sign might have read more aptly, "Honk If You're Looking For Trouble."

Rosie Wiemes wasn't, of course, the day she was arrested for illegally honking her horn.

She was driving by a struck auto dealership in Kent when the picket sign saying "Honk If You Hate Scabs" caught her eye. Not being particularly sympathetic to one side or the other, Mrs. Wiemes decided to honk anyway.

That's when the Kent police officer pulled her over for violating state law, R.C. W. 46.37.380, which limits "tooting" to reasonable warning honks.

Thinking she may have been the target of an anti-union policeman, Mrs. Wiemes and her lawyer, Alva Long, went to court.

The state law against honking, the judge said, was not valid in Kent. An assistant city attorney meekly told the court the city had forgotten to adopt it.

"They adopted the drunk-driving law, the reckless-driving law, but they forgot to adopt the state Don't-Honk-If-You-Hate-Scabs law," said Long. "It's not only a foolish law to begin with, but she didn't break it. She couldn't. Because there isn't one."

Long hardly had time to absorb the case of Mrs. Wiemes because he was busy with another one.

It was the case of Everett Allen, 74, of Seattle, who was arrested March 26 by a King County policeman — for a horn violation.

Allen wasn't in his car at the time of the arrest. He was on the sidewalk outside an auto dealership, carrying a picket.

It said, you guess it, "Honk If You Hate Scabs."

There, of course, was no horn on his picket. So he wasn't honking it.

The policeman nabbed him for the next closest thing: Making someone else honk the horn illegally. The actual charge is "aiding and abetting" the illegal honking of a horn.

CHAIRMAN — Air Force General David C. Jones, above, has been named by President Carter to become chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Jones, 56, is currently Air Force chief of staff. (AP Laserphoto)

Revival Planned For Next Week
FARMVILLE — Wesley United Methodist Church near here will have the Rev. Foster Reynolds of Salter Path conducting a revival next week.

The choir of the Salter Path Church, of which the Rev. Reynolds is pastor, will lead a song service at the church the last night of the revival, Saturday.

The revival starts Monday, with services each evening at 7:30. Special music will be provided the first five nights. The church is located one mile east of Joyner's Crossroads on State Road 1200 (the Old Stantonsburg Road). The public is invited.

Revival Begins On April 9
 Revival services will be held April 9-15 at the Kings Crossroads Free Will Baptist Church.

The guest speaker will be Scott Sowers, pastor of the Marlboro Free Will Baptist Church. Special singing will be held during the services which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend.

Extra Postage On Odd Shapes
WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Postal Rate Commission goes along with it, large and oddly shaped mail will cost an extra 13 cents by summer.

The Postal Service Board approved the surcharge Tuesday and sent it to the commission for authorization. The surcharge is expected to have its greatest effect on greeting cards, many of which come in unusual sizes.

Dollar Sees Small Rise
LONDON (AP) — The dollar rose fractionally against all major West European currencies except the West German mark at the start of trading in Europe today and gained more than a yen in moderate trading in Tokyo.

The dollar closed in the Japanese capital at 219.40 yen, up from 218.325 Tuesday. Buying by oil companies to cover imports helped the dollar, traders said.

Opening European dollar rates were:
 Frankfurt, 2.0156 West German marks, down from 2.0195 late Tuesday.
 Zurich, 1.8790 Swiss francs, up from 1.8725.
 Paris, 4.5750 French francs, up from 4.57.
 Amsterdam, 2.1605 guilders, up from 2.1585.
 Milan, 851.05 lire, up from 851.

In London, the pound sold for $1.8660, down from $1.8725. The morning price for gold was fixed in London at $178.65 an ounce, down $1.85 from the Tuesday morning fixing and $1.10 lower than Tuesday's closing price of $179.75.

The morning price in Zurich was $178.375, $2 lower than Tuesday's close.

Queen's Guards: Not Toy Soldiers

By LILLIAN O'CONNELL
UPI Life-Style Editor

When you ask Sir Julian Paget what he considers the high point of his career in the queen's Coldstream Guards, he answers without hesitation his command of the queen's birthday parade in 1962 — this despite a distinguished military career in the field.

Two months before that colorful ceremony the much-decorated baronet had been on operational duty with his battalion in Kenya.

Commissioned in 1940, he fought with the Guards Armored Division in Europe in World War II, including the battle at Arnheim, made famous by Cornelius Ryan in his book "A Bridge Too Far." He served three years in Palestine when Israel was trying to set itself up, "being shot at by both the Jews and the Arabs;" in Aden, "being shot at by the Arabs;" and with the NATO forces in Germany.

This 56-year-old retired officer is living proof that the Guards are not just toy soldiers as so many people think.

Educated at Christ Church, Oxford, where he obtained a degree in modern languages, Sir Julian was appointed a Gentleman Usher to the queen in 1972. He is deputy editor of the "Guards" magazine and author of "Counter Insurgency Campaigning" and "Last Post — Aden 1964-67."

His latest book, "The Story of the Guards," was first published in Britain two years ago and is now available in a full-color, profusely illustrated American edition (Presidio Press.)

The history of the Guards dates from the time of King Charles II, in whose lifetime all the present regiments were formed with the exception of the Irish and Welsh Guards.

Actually the story of the original regiments begins in the troubled year 1642 during the reign of Charles I. England was on the verge of civil war and Ireland was in a state of rebellion. Parliament was reluctant to send English troops to quell the Irish rebels and so they raised 10 Scottish regiments, which were to act as a royal guard for the king, who planned to lead his troops into battle.

The king never went to Ireland, but the 10 regiments served there for seven years before returning to Scotland in 1649. They had been reduced to such low numbers that they were formed into one unit known as the Irish Companies.

The book traces the Guards' history through many famous engagements, including the Seven Years War (1756-63), the American War of Independence (1775-83), the battle of Waterloo (1815), the Boer War (1899-1902), World Wars I and II, right down to the present action in Ulster.

The quiescent volcano that is Ireland has erupted again as it has at intervals over the last four centuries. Each regiment, with the exception of the Irish Guards, has carried out several four-month tours of duty in this grim warfare which began in 1969 and which involves "our own kith and kin."

But the ceremonial is the bright side of the coin for the Guards units and Trooping the Color the highlight.

In 1962 Sir Julian had over 1,000 troops working on his word of command — or his 113 words of command, for that is what it takes to get all the maneuvers correct.

He was mounted and had to worry about what his horse was going to do. The sovereign, who is colonel-in-chief of the Guards regiments, also is mounted during the ceremony.

At the end of the parade, "which fortunately went all right," Sir Julian rode back to Buckingham Palace alongside the queen and, while footmen served carrots on silver trays to the horses inside the palace grounds, Sir Julian and the queen shared a glass of champagne inside the palace.

Trooping the Color is held each year in the first half of June to celebrate the queen's official birthday. The ceremony traces back to 1755 when there was a need to "troop the color" in front of the soldiers so they could recognize it as a rallying point in battle.

Residents Of Tiny Island Are Combatting Forces Of Change

By PETER O'LOUGHLIN

NORFOLK ISLAND (AP) — An American who traded his U.S. citizenship to become an Australian has joined the descendants of the Mutiny on the Bounty in their fight to stop Norfolk Island from being swallowed by Australia.

Ed Howard, 52, a lanky native of Cleveland, Ohio, now living on Norfolk, has become one of the most outspoken opponents of the Australian plan to introduce taxes, welfare and politics to the tiny 14-square-mile island 900 miles east of Sydney.

"This is a unique island," said Howard, a former business consultant who moved to the island from Sydney with his wife, Alice, in 1974 and started a weekly newspaper.

"A poll among islanders showed that a majority do not want change."

The issue of the island's future has deeply divided the 1,600 formerly close-knit inhabitants of Norfolk, where crime is unknown, horses and cows have right of way over cars and the biggest event on the social calendar is the annual Bounty Day celebrations where residents reenact the landing of their ancestors 121 years ago.

Discovered by Captain Cook, used as a brutal Devils Island penal colony by Britain, abandoned, then resettled by the descendants of Fletcher Christian and his mutineers, Norfolk Island stumbled as a peaceful and remote Australian-owned backwater until 1974.

The Australian Labor government then decided it should be brought into the mainstream of Australian society. Until then,

Sun Day To Be International

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "Sun Day" celebration planned on May 3 to focus U.S. attention on the potential of solar energy will coincide with similar observances in at least 18 other countries, says organizer Denis Hayes.

Hayes, who conceived "Earth Day" in 1970 to highlight the environmental movement, said on Monday the "Sun Day" idea has been picked up by groups in Australia, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, England, France, Guyana, India, Ireland, Japan, Kenya, Nigeria, the Philippines, Rhodesia, South Africa, Spain, Sweden and West Germany.

STATUS QUO—Cows and horses have right of way over people and cars on tiny Norfolk Island, where the islanders are fighting the Australian government to prevent change to their traditional lifestyle.

it had been loosely governed by a Canberra-appointed administrator.

An independent judge carried out a long inquiry into the island's needs, and recommended it become a part of the Australian Capital Territory, pay tax, and receive social welfare.

"They'll spoil it forever if they make it a part of the Australian political system," said Howard, sipping coffee in the sitting room of his elegantly restored farmhouse overlooking the Pacific.

"The government doesn't touch your life here, but if Norfolk becomes part of Australia, the social structure will get badly soured. And it could cripple the economy of the island."

"There are some changes that must come, but they don't have to crush Norfolk to do it," The Howards work hard at being accepted by the clanish islanders who speak an antique language — 18th-century, west-country English dialect mixed with Tahitian. But Howard has made some enemies by his outspoken stance.

Feelings are running high on Norfolk, so high that a bumper sticker war between the supporters and opponents of the changes has broken out. Opponents led by the eight members of the Norfolk Island Council have appealed to the United Nations to protect them from the Australian government, sent a delegation to Canberra, and hired a Sydney public relations firm to promulgate their views.

A small but vocal group of islanders want the Australian old age pension, national health coverage and other social benefits. They claim there is real hardship on Norfolk and that small handouts from charities and dependence on relatives does not suffice.

But Norfolk Islanders like Bill Blucher, a member of the council and descendant of the mutineers, says they don't mind paying tax as long as the money stays in Norfolk and is administered by islanders.

Blucher claims the 20,000 Aussie tourists who visit the island each year will stop coming because prices will rise dramatically if Norfolk is fully integrated into the Australian economic system.

"Without tourism, there will be no revenue, no economy, and the island will be a dead duck. The Australian taxpayer will have to foot the bill," he said. Until tourism started, the islanders lived as subsistence farmers, adding to their income from whaling, which has now finished.

Trunks Not Just For Travelers

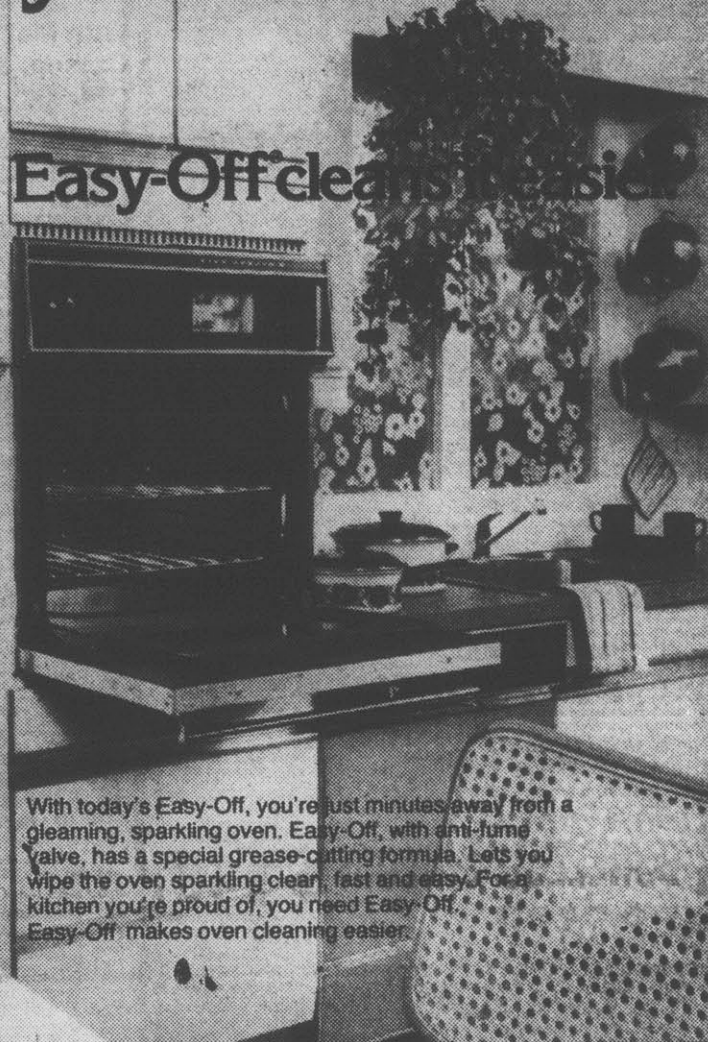

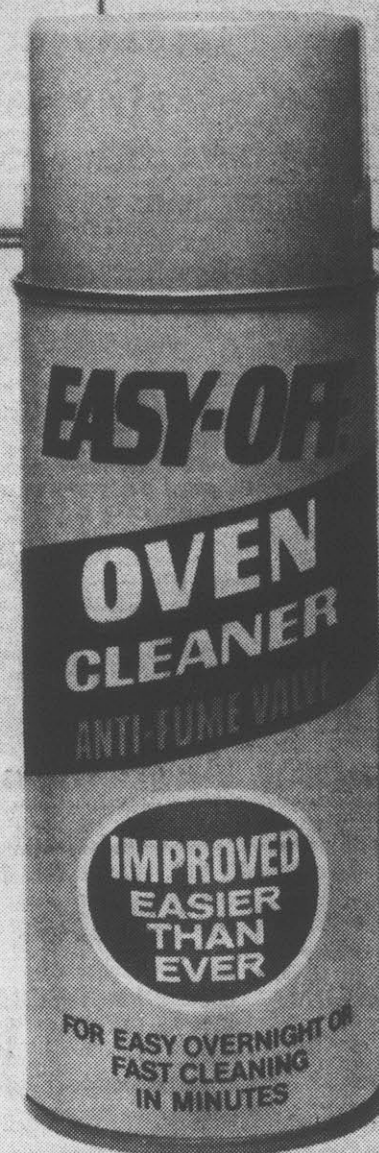

NEW YORK (UPI) — Trunk sales nationwide are expected to hit an all time high of $30-million (retail) this year, and not just because people are traveling more.

Luggage manufacturer Peter E. Dayton says singles and apartment dwellers buy trunks these days for household storage and decoration.

Dayton says they are used like old-style hope chests and as coffee tables, bookcases, card tables, seating and conversation pieces.

Dayton is president of Seward Luggage Co. the nation's oldest and largest trunk manufacturer.

Speed Risks On German Autobahn

By NICK STAUDINGER
 BONN, West Germany (AP) — A powerful lobby of speedy drivers and prestigious car makers combines to make the West German autobahn anybody's race track, with the prize going to the most belligerent.

The superhighway Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler fostered, to rush his Wehrmacht from one World War II attack to another, is the biggest modern road network in the world without a speed limit.

Small cars are forced to keep to the right as powerful sedans and sports cars barrel along in the left lane at 125 miles an hour or faster, furiously flashing headlights at anyone who dares get in their way.

About 1,000 persons are killed each year on the 4,100 miles of heavily traveled West German autobahns, nearly three times the U.S. rate. On the 36,200 miles of U.S. interstates there were 3,100 deaths in 1976.

The sharp drop in death rates on interstates in the United States after introduction of the 55 mph limit made little impression in West Germany.

The Bonn government proposed a token limit of 81 mph in 1974, then backed down and commissioned a 25-month study to determine whether an autobahn speed limit would save lives and gasoline.

The study, completed last fall, had predictable findings: the death rate dropped 18 percent where the 81 mph limit was tested, and mileage improved dramatically for the cars that had to slow down.

The government now says it may decide soon whether to renew the speed-limit proposal.

Government officials themselves are conspicuous speedsters. Chauffeur-driven convoys of politicians race between campaign stops at 136 mph with only a car length between vehicles.

Speed lobbyists argue that regardless of how high the autobahn death rate is, the superhighways without speed limits are still far safer than two-lane highways with a 62 mph maximum.

"We found arguments for and against introduction of a speed limit," Professor Karl-Heinz Lenz, who headed a panel of six scientists making the study, told The Associated Press.

"Those (arguments) for concern safety," he said. "Those against" were mainly influenced by economic considerations like auto-industry profits and jobs.

The West German auto industry has predicted that up to 70,000 jobs might be lost if a speed limit were introduced, but the government study said West German automobile sales would drop only one-half of one percent.

Another industry argument is that technical evolution would come to a halt.

"High-speed autobahns force our manufacturers to invest a little more in safety than those in countries where 60 or 65 mph is the limit," Richard Wuestenberg, an engineer with West Germany's quasi-official road safety agency TUFV, said in a telephone interview.

"A speed limit guarantees more safety," said Wuestenberg. "When the bulk of traffic moves along at 75 or 85 mph and someone darts by at 125 mph, it becomes difficult for most ... It is very dangerous when people drive that fast."

But safety appears of marginal concern to West Germans. New cars are still sold here with flimsy bumpers and without headrests or rear seat belts.

And compliance with a voluntary buckle-up law for front seats is low, even at the risk of losing insurance coverage in the event of a crash.

Report Utilities

Did Good Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says that recent audits indicate that electric utility companies "performed their jobs well and, through their efforts, substantially reduced the threat to the health and safety of their customers occasioned by the coal strike."

Charles B. Curtis, chairman of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, said the agency is beginning audits of the companies "to ensure that consumers are properly protected and that they shoulder only economic burdens associated with the coal strike that are truly necessary."

Some Camps Adjust To Handicapped

CHICAGO (AP) — Children with physical handicaps are no different from any others in the kinds of experiences they can have at summer camp. But they have special needs that must be met if those experiences are to be beneficial, says an authority on therapeutic camping and recreation.

"More and more, handicapped children are being integrated into regular camps with able-bodied children," adds Dr. Lois Hardt, Director of Program Services for the National Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults. "But special camps also exist — those accepting children with various types of handicaps, and others for children with one specified disability."

The first thing parents must do is determine what the needs of their handicapped child are, says Dr. Hardt. Is their child ready for a week or two away from home, for example, or should the child try weekend or short-term camping first?

"What is the level of the child's disability? If it is severe enough, the child just might be better off in a special camp because the program will be geared to his needs and abilities," she says.

If a special camp is advisable, a good starting point, she suggests, is a directory published by the National Easter Seal Society here that lists more than 225 camps with physical, mental, social and emotional disabilities served by each, or the American Camping Association directory.

Dr. Hardt offers other tips for investigating and choosing a camp for a child with a handicap:

—Is it accredited by the ACA and, if so, have standards applying to special campers been used?

—Talk with the camp director. Find out about his training and experience.

—Ask about the return rate of campers and get names of former handicapped campers to find out what their experiences have been.

—Check on camps' health and safety procedures and facilities. Is there a resident registered nurse and is emergency transportation available?

—Is there a wide age and disability range of campers? If so, it probably means the program will be too generalized to challenge your child to his maximum readiness.

—If the average age of counselors is 18 or less, they might not have the maturity to deal with handicapped youngsters. Check on their training or orientation in handling disabled campers' specialized needs. It's a good sign if the camp has a tie-in with a professional school, or if counselors can receive college credit.

—Visit the camp; look at the quality of maintenance; check on the accessibility of indoor and outdoor facilities. Eat a meal there and look over the menu for the week.

—Is activity highly structured? Many handicapped children have had little opportunity to make choices and they need it. Others may need to find that living with a group sometimes limits choices.

Would Review Water Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key members of the House say they want to review a nation's water policy program, and may substitute a congressional plan if they are not pleased with one now being drafted by the Carter administration.

Rep. Harold T. Johnson, D-Calif., chairman of the House Public Works Committee, and Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Texas, wrote President Carter March 14, citing a 1974 law that ensures congressional oversight of water policy. They want to block any administration attempt to implement its own plan piecemeal through executive agencies.

Raps Outings As Tax Deductible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy wants the government to stop businessmen from taking tax deductions for using corporate planes on "luxury sporting event trips" like the Masters Golf tournament and the Kentucky Derby.

The Massachusetts Democrat sent a letter Monday to Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Jerome Kurtz asking him to crack down on "highly visible abuses of the tax system ... (which) have highly adverse effects on the morale of ordinary taxpayers."

Kmart AUTOMOTIVE SERVICE POLICY
 Kmart's policy is to perform only bonded services. For your benefit, Kmart auto services are necessarily conditioned on Kmart's right to decline any service, whether advertised or not, where a car has related deteriorated or worn parts which create or continue an unsatisfactory or unsafe driving condition, unless the customer gives Kmart a written waiver of replacement of such needed parts. Roadbed brake system parts may not be worn by customer; Kmart may in its judgment refuse to perform any partial brake job where your safety is at stake.
