

$2.19 Million For Sheltered Workshop

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
First District Congressman
Walter Jones this morning
announced a $2.19 million
grant for the East Carolina Sheltered Workshop — the third such grant in the United States — to help fund construction of a $3.71 million
residential and recreation
facility.

"I am extremely pleased to be able to announce this grant," Jones said, adding that, "the workshop has done
an outstanding job in training
people who would otherwise
not be trained."

The workshop was established through efforts of Pitt and Martin Counties to train handicapped individuals. The present building, in the industrial park North of Greenville was completed in 1969, with 14,000
square feet, with additions in 1971, 1975 and 1976 adding 36,000 square feet to the facility.

The recreational and
residential unit will include 89,300 square feet and provide bedrooms and baths for 40
male and 40 female clients,
apartments and suites for
staff personnel, a gymnasium
with a stage, a swimming pool, bowling lanes, locker
rooms, library, infirmary,
dining and food service and
other facilities.

Jones said an additional $1.15 million toward the project will be included in the 1978-1979 Department of Health, Education and Welfare budget.

"We have been assured by HEW, that the remainder will be in next year's requests,"

the congressman emphasized. "It is the third
such grant in the history of the United States." Jones
pointed out, with the first going to a facility at Warm Springs, Georgia, and the second
to a facility in West Virginia.

Howard Dawkins, executive director of the workshop said to complete
the project, "the Workshop
must raise approximately $600,000 to $700,000." He said the workshop's board of directors will seek $225,000
from the State, with "the remaining $450,000 contributed
by our friends in the counties of Martin and Pitt or wherever it is available."

Dawkins said, "We plan to use the recreational area during the middle of the day for our senior citizens in this geographic area. Also, we would be able to provide a nutrition program for the elderly."

All equipment in all areas
of the new facility will be designed and built for handicapped citizens, he pointed out.

Dawkins expressed the hope that all the needed funds
can be secured and bids
received for construction of the facility by October. He noted that the project has been in the planning stages
since 1974.

According to Dawkins, the facility was planned with the aid of a $40,000 study grant.
He added that Jones,
"presented a special bill," to the House, and, "guided it through...then secured the cooperation of Senators (Robert) Morgan and (Jessie) Helms and they guided it through the Senate."

Dawkins said the new
residential and recreation
building, "will allow us to increase the number of sheltered employees," and,
"to serve a larger number of handicapped of our area."

"There exists," Dawkins
said, "a definite need for a recreational and life adjustment program to meet the needs of the clients in preparing them for successful and independent living. We believe that teaching a handicapped person to effectively use his leisure time is a significant part of rehabilitation."

"The objective of the recreation and life adjustment program," Dawkins
continued, "is to add new dimensions to the rehabilitation program of the individual and to meet the total
person rehabilitation concept." He noted that the recreation program will proceed on Page 8)

Defers N-Bomb Decision As U.S. Bargaining Chip

WASHINGTON (AP) —
President Carter announced
today he is delaying a decision on whether to order
U.S. production of controversial neutron warheads.
The president said any future decision on whether to produce the weapons "will be influenced by the degree to which the Soviet Union shows

restraint in its conventional and nuclear arms programs
and force deployments affecting the security of the United States and Western Europe."

In a White House
statement, Carter added that he has ordered the Defense Department to proceed with modernization of nuclear warheads for the Lance missile and 8-inch artillery

but leave "open the option of installing the enhanced radiation (or neutron)
elements" at some future
time.

Critics of the weapon have said its limited blast and shock damage would make it
more tempting to use,

thereby adding to risk of a nuclear war.

Carter said in his statement that the United States will consult with NATO allies
about "appropriate arms control measures to be pursued with the Soviet Union."

Carter's announcement
follows several days of conflicting accounts of his intentions. He had been reported variously as deciding against production
of the weapon, deferring any decision, leaning against production and reevaluating
a decision not to produce.

But today Carter resolved
the conflicts by saying, "I have decided to defer
production of weapons with enhanced radiation effects."

"The ultimate decision
regarding the incorporation
of enhanced radiation
features into our modernized battlefield weapons will be made later."

Secretary of State Cyrus R.
Vance will discuss arms
concessions when he visits
Moscow in two weeks,
primarily to try to step up negotiations on limiting long-range bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles.

An Upward Trend In Jobless Rate

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —
The nation's unemployment rate edged slightly upward to 6.2 percent in March after four straight months of declines, and for black teenagers it rose to 39 percent,
the Labor Department said
today.

The overall jobless rate in February was 6.1 percent. A year ago it was 7.4 percent.

Officials are still worried
about the high unemployment rate among black youths.
There was no sign in March that new job-creating programs were helping the minority group.

The unemployment rate
among blacks between the ages of 16 and 19 rose from 38
percent in February to 39
percent last month.

Jobless rates were virtually unchanged for adult
men at 4.5 percent, adult women 5.8 percent and all
teen-agers 17.3 percent.
Unemployment among black
adult women rose from 10.1
to 11.4 percent.

The number of Americans
with jobs advanced by 260,000
to 93.3 million, the department said. The labor force —
the number of people holding jobs or seeking them — rose 320,000 to 99.4 million.

The department indicated

more women are looking for jobs and finding them. In both the labor force and employment, adult women outgained
adult men two to one.

Department analysts said
the coal strike, which ended March 26, apparently had little effect on unemployment
in other job sectors last month. The strike ended
before coal shortages could lead to extensive layoffs, they said. The striking coal miners are not included in the unemployment rate.

The department said
although unemployment
rose, the increase was only slight. Before it was rounded off, the unemployment rate
rose from 6.146 percent to 6.184 percent.

The report indicated that people who held jobs were getting in more hours of work in March. Average weekly
hours rose from 35.8 to 36.1
in March, and among factory
workers the rise was from 40
to 40.5 hours.

This gain represented a return to the levels that prevailed late last year
before severe weather forced shorter work weeks in some regions, the department said.

The unemployment rate
had hovered near 7 percent
most of last year, but declined in October to 6.8
percent, November 6.7
percent, December 6.4
percent, January 6.3 percent,
and February 6.1 percent.

The plan would:

—Reduce maximum class
size in all grades to 26
students. Under current law,
maximum class sizes in the
state now range from 26
students in grades 1-3 to 35
per class in junior and senior
high schools.

—Propose that the
legislature authorize a bond
issue for an unspecified
amount, to be held as early as 1979, for building new schools
and repairing old ones. The cost of the bond issue is not included in the $500 million
figure.

—Change the formula used
to distribute money to local school systems, which would make the formula simpler
and would increase such
school personnel as nurses,
psychiatrists and assistant principals.

Board members said they
were not deterred by the
steep cost of the program.

Endorse School Program

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —
The State Board of Education
Thursday endorsed a proposal to improve public education that carries an estimated price tag of at least $500 million a year.

The proposal, one of the most ambitious ever put forth
in this state, was described by state Rep. G. Malcolm Fulcher Jr., D-Carteret, as a
"blue print for the long-range
improvement in the quality of public education offered to the citizens and youth of North Carolina."

The plan would:

—Reduce maximum class
size in all grades to 26
students. Under current law,
maximum class sizes in the
state now range from 26
students in grades 1-3 to 35
per class in junior and senior
high schools.

—Propose that the
legislature authorize a bond
issue for an unspecified
amount, to be held as early as 1979, for building new schools
and repairing old ones. The
cost of the bond issue is not
included in the $500 million
figure.

Board members said they
were not deterred by the
steep cost of the program.

Illegal Punchboards And Tapes Are Confiscated

Area agents of the Alcohol
Law Enforcement Agency arrested a Rt. 5, Goldsboro man Thursday and charged him with possession of illegal punch-
boards and illegally reproduced tapes.

Pitt ALEA agent Danny Dilda
reported that he and agent Warren Hopkins arrested Danny Paul Sasser, 22, at 10:30 a.m. at Ballards Crossroads on US 264
west of Greenville.

Dilda reported that Sasser,
who listed employment with Sasser Distributing Co. of Goldsboro in the sale of various merchandise to rural stores, was charged with possession of punch-boards used for gambling and possession of illegally reproduced
eight-track cassette tapes not bearing the original manufacturer's name.

According to the agent, officers confiscated 63 punch-boards and 161 tapes in the incident.

Bond for each of the possession counts was set at $200, it was noted, with a hearing
scheduled for April 18 in District Court here.

Dilda said that the district attorney's office also issued a restraining order for seven 33
millimeter films, a projector,
pornographic books, and various pornographic paraphernalia in Sasser's possession.

Dilda explained that a summons has been served on Sasser
and he is to appear in Superior Court here on April 10 at 10 a.m.
for the purpose of determining if
the material is illegal according to current state pornography

law. If the presiding judge finds the items to be illegal, he said, a subpoena would be issued for the items and Sasser would be charged on possession counts.

Under the restraining order, Sasser is not allowed to remove any of the itemized paraphernalia from his possession until the Superior Court hearing.

Dilda said that the value of all of the items involved in the incident, including the confiscated
items, was some $700.

Also on hand for the arrest was Edmond Edwards, Edgecombe
County ALE agent. Donnie
Davis is supervisor for the eight-
county District Two, which includes Pitt.

Research Report Given At Meet In Houston

ECU News Bureau
A child's view of art was the subject of a presentation by Phil E. Phillips of the East Carolina University art education faculty at the recent convention of the National Art Education Association in Houston.

Phillips' report was based on research done with a group of Chicago area schoolchildren who were shown color slides of realistic paintings—a selection of individual and group portraits and landscapes.

Purpose of the study was to identify what children find interesting in paintings, Phillips said.

A doctoral candidate at the University of Illinois, Phillips joined the ECU art faculty last fall. He is an alumnus of Appalachian State University and received the master's degree in art education from the University of Illinois in 1973.

He Wants To Unglue Son From The TV

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have been divorced for 12 years. For business reasons, I have lived in another city, so my three sons have been raised by their mother. I have always provided more than the court required and have tried to maintain a good relationship with my sons over the years.

The problem is my oldest son. He graduated from high school two years ago and he is still sitting at home, watching television all day, sleeping late and staying up until all hours. He has no desire to do anything else; no need to get a job because I am required to pay him an allowance until he's 21. This provides cigarette and pocket money. His mother isn't concerned about his idleness because if and when he becomes financially independent, her child support payments will drop, and she doesn't want her income reduced.

I don't think I should support this 19-year-old as I did when he was 12. It encourages his inactivity, but I can't kick him out of his mother's house. Don't recommend psychological help. His mother wouldn't permit it. It would mean that she isn't perfect. I can't cut off the money and force him to get a job. He's not interested in college or trade school. All he wants to do is watch television. He knows every program that comes on between noon and sign-off time.

How can I wake this guy up to the fact that he can't sit on his can forever? Besides, it's a poor example for his two younger brothers, who are still in high school.

CONCERNED BUT HELPLESS

DEAR C AND H: You can't "force" him to do anything. Your only hope is to spend more time with him and inspire him to lead a more productive life. Otherwise he may watch television for another two years, then circumstances may force him to get off his can and be a man.

DEAR ABBY: Have you or any of your readers ever heard of tipping a waitress before she even takes your order?

I have a friend who invariably slips money into the waitress's hand when she first approaches our table.

I asked this friend where he got the idea of tipping first, and he said it was just common sense. A tip in advance usually insures good service.

I would appreciate any light you can shed on this subject.

CURIOUS IN LOWELL, ARK.

DEAR CURIOUS: Tipping generously in advance seems more like a bribe than a tip, but it makes sense. The word "tips" (I am told) is an abbreviation for "to insure prompt service."

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago I divorced my husband because he beat me up several times. He never showed any signs of being violent before we were married. There were times when he beat me so brutally I was afraid he would kill me.

I heard that he is going to be married again. I don't know the lady, but I know how to get in touch with her.

I am debating as to whether I should warn her. What do you say?

DEBATING

DEAR DEBATING: On the chance that she'll bring out the best in him while you brought out the beast in him, let mum be the word.

DEAR ABBY: After 14 years of marriage and two children, I found out that my husband had a girlfriend. She was a young divorcee, and nothing special by anybody's standards. He admitted that he had been seeing her for two years. Abby, we had a good marriage and a very active sex life, so that wasn't it.

I divorced him, loving and hating him at the same time. He has been a free man for six months now and he hasn't married the other woman. What's stopping him?

My question: Why would a married man fool around and risk losing a wife who loved him, and children who idolized him, and then not jump at the chance to marry the woman who caused it all?

PALM SPRINGS, CALIF.

DEAR SPRINGS: Because some married people are fascinated with "playing house" on the side. They are dreaming, fantasizing, and verbalizing with a lover, secure in the knowledge that nothing can materialize because they're safely married. But after the circumstances change, and they realize that the fantasies can become a reality, the "dream" suddenly loses its appeal.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Approximately 150 guests attended and were greeted by the family.

ACS Opens Annual Pitt Campaign

Dr. Emmett Walsh presided last night at the annual American Cancer Society Crusade "Kick-off" dinner at the Three Steers Restaurant.

Dr. Spencer Raub, oncologist with the East Carolina University School of Medicine, spoke to the 55 volunteers about the progress made in the last 40 years in the treatment of leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, Wilheim's tumor in children, and lymphoma with chemotherapy.

The speaker emphasized that even though much progress has been made in the treatment of cancer, there is still a great need for research especially in the area of lung cancer and cancer of the colon.

Township chairmen recognized by Mrs. Mary Ann Gray, crusade co-chairman, included: Ayden, Mrs. James Nelson; Bethel, Mrs. Frances Young; Bell Arthur, Glenn Strickland; Belvoir, Hugh Carroll; Carolina, Mrs. Hazel Cherry; Chicod, Miss Debby Travis; Farmville, Miss Linda Proctor; Fountain, Mrs. Marshall Treadway and the Fountain Woman's Club; Greenville, Mrs. Allen Hahn; Grifton, Ed Bright and Don Watson; Simpson, John McDonald; and Winterville, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Waters.

Crusade volunteers are still needed to help with the Pactolus and Falkland townships, it was noted, and with several areas in Greenville.

Special guests last night were Dr. Walter Pories, of the ECU Medical School and member of the N.C. board of directors of the American Cancer Society; and Mrs. Mary Higginbaute, Area Seven director for the ACS.

Crusade co-chairman Cliff Frelke announced that the Pitt County Automobile Dealer's Association is donating 15 automobiles to be sold at an auction in May with all proceeds going to the American Cancer Society.

Arrest Student On 2 Counts

An East Carolina University student was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of a stolen vehicle in connection with a 5 a.m. incident here Thursday, Chief Glenn Cannon said.

According to the chief, Michael Arthur Martin, 23 of 316 Jones Dorm, was taken into custody about 6 a.m. by officers searching for a car reported stolen from the Jones Dorm parking lot, an hour earlier.

Cannon said Martin was found asleep in the car, parked on Pine Street, with a pipe containing marijuana in his hand.

Strongest Of Farm Programs

Whatever other problems the tobacco industry has, the price support program for the crop still seems to be the strongest of the farm programs.

Congressman Walter B. Jones, speaking at a Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce meeting recently, declared the program "as we know it, in excellent shape."

The congressman is chairman of the House Agriculture Committee's subcommittee on tobacco. He said three bills have been introduced to phase out the tobacco price support program.

Rep. Jones left no doubt that the bills will not progress in Congress.

"I can't find time to hold hearings on them," he said with a twinkle.

The tactics are exasperating to those who attack tobacco at every turn, but stalling the bills in committee is a valid response.

If the tobacco program were thoughtlessly abolished by Congress, it would only harm small farm operators . . . and it wouldn't have the least bit of effect on world tobacco usage.

Sure Sign Of The Political Season

Secretary of Commerce Juanita M. Kreps, a former Duke University vice president, was the main speaker at the Democratic Jefferson-Jackson Day event.

During the course of her talk she mentioned her support for Luther H. Hodges, Jr. as candidate for U. S. Senate.

Predictably, there was an uproar from opposition candidates and Dr. Kreps subsequently apologized in a letter to state Democratic chairman Betty R. McCain. She explained that she and her husband had enjoyed a long and close relationship with Hodges.

Which all means that the political season, indeed is in full swing.

Computers In Social Aid

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Computers are not necessarily cold-hearted business machines spewing out indecipherable demographic data and endless reams of statistics.

They can be quite concerned with human beings. Take, for example, the computer program worked up by the Center for Urban Affairs at North Carolina State University.

It can tell you who needs help, and what kind.

Local communities wrestling with the dilemma of how to help the truly needy — who they are, where they are, how many of them, how much a particular program would cost — can now plug into that computer for some answers.

More than half of the state's 100 counties are already involved in training programs and learning to make use of the sophisticated approach to welfare.

Other counties, particularly the smaller, rural ones, will find somebody soon at the various regional headquarters who can work with the computer system.

Interviews

Specialists at N.C. State have quietly gone about their homework of preparing the computer system so that local Social Services departments and state-level welfare officials can begin to answer some of the nettlesome questions.

A statewide survey was conducted with trained interviewers actually going into the homes and talking with people about their income levels, constraints to self-sufficiency, their goals in life, the problems they encounter on a day-to-day basis, their basic needs, and a host of additional information.

Using census tract information and proven statistical techniques for applying samples to larger populations on a scientific basis, the data has been compiled for each county across the state.

At its simplest, the technique is like that used by the television network computers in determining election outcomes.

Given known population data on ages, income levels,

and educational levels in given communities, the interview results can be matched to larger communities.

NOBLITT

In the end, say the experts, you can plug into the computer and find out, for instance, how many elderly people in need of transportation services to shop, get health care, and go to recreational events, are likely to be found in any given geographical area of the state.

Louis G. Christian, chief of the operations section in the division of plans and operations at the Department of Human Resources, believes the system will have tremendous impact on local boards of county commissioners. The service is particularly designed for aid in planning special social services programs under Title XX federal

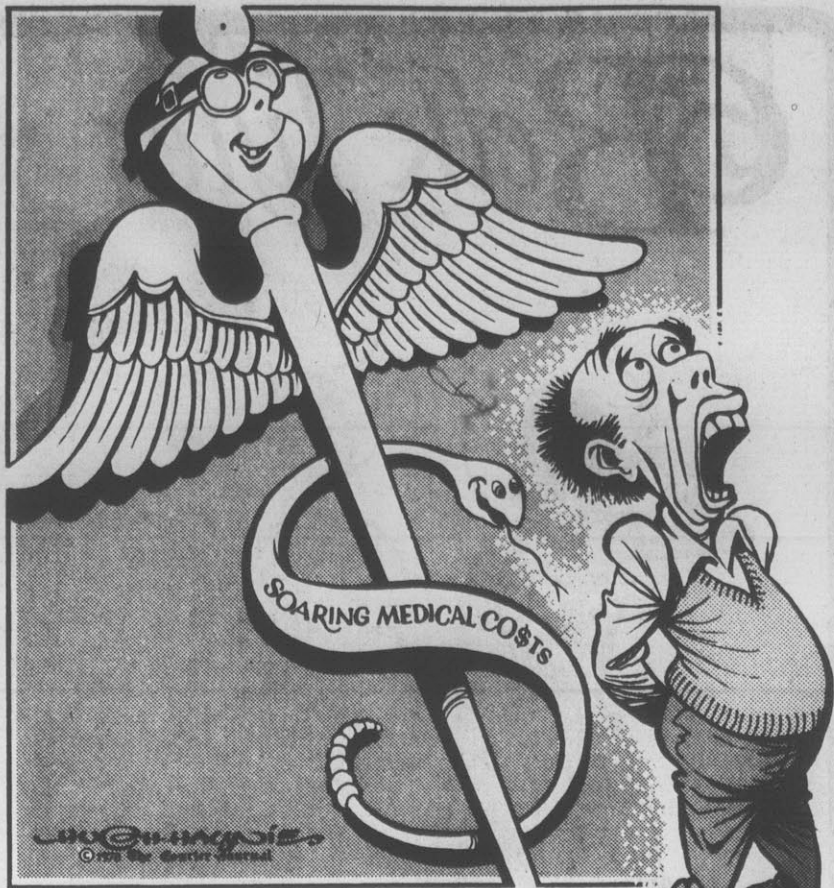

Specifics

Local social services people can study the information to help determine specifically what kinds of services are needed — day care, meals on wheels, home care for the sick or elderly, rehabilitation, etc. — and can plan the cost and size of the programs ahead of time. Essential services can be pinpointed, and unneeded efforts scratched.

Also, says Christian, "You can document your needs, and you can show local citizens and governing officials what those needs are and how the money will benefit people."

As this computer system comes on line, state and local officials are also entering into a more cooperative planning effort on how to divide up the $64 million in federal funds available under Title XX.

A statewide planning and coordinating council with members representing local governments, welfare clients, and state agencies will develop into a clearinghouse for information and programs.

A Post-Watergate Story

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — In the film classic, "On the Waterfront," there is a very poignant scene in the back of a taxi between Marion Brando and Rod Steiger, who plays his brother. Brando, a longshoreman, was a boxer, and he blames Steiger, who is mixed up with the mob, for ruining his chances to be a contender by making him throw a fight.

I was reminded of this scene the other day when I was sharing a taxi with two gentlemen I didn't know.

They were in the back seat and I was in the front, and they didn't think I was listening to what they were saying. I was.

Apparently, one of the men had worked for Nixon in the White House, though now he looked quite scruffy. His leather jacket was torn, he wore no tie and there were holes in his shoes.

The other man, who I found out later was his brother, was well dressed and wore a camel's-hair coat and an expensive hat. His name was Charley.

"What's bugging you, kid?" Charley said.

"You know da well what's bugging me. You kept me out of the Watergate scandal and now I don't have a nickel to my name."

ART BUCHWALD

"I did it for your own good, Terry," Charley said. "I didn't want you to lose your moral compass."

"I could have had a million dollars by now. I knew there was something fishy going on in the White House with Nixon and his crowd, but when I told you about it you said 'Stay away from it, kid. They're up to their necks in trouble and they're going to pay for it.'"

"I remember that's what you said and like a dummy I listened to you. I turned my back on Watergate and look at me now."

"But kid," said Charley, "I was just trying to keep you from going to jail."

"I could have done a year at Allenwood standing on my head if I knew what was waiting for me when I got out. If you'd have just let me be part of the coverup, Charley, I'd be a big man today. I could have erased the tapes or deep-sixed the stuff from Hunt's safe or been the bag man for the guys who were blackmailing the White House. Paperback houses would be fighting over me now. I'd be on talk shows and the lecture circuit. I might even have my own radio show. There was a goldmine in Watergate and you wouldn't let me get involved."

THE GALLUP POLL

'No' Vote On Arms Sale

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — A majority of informed Americans are opposed to supplying arms to either Israel or the Arab nations.

Among 83 per cent who have heard or read about the Middle East situation 54 per cent say the U.S. should not supply arms and materiel to Israel, while 28 per cent express support for such action. An even greater number, 68 per cent, say we should not send arms and materiel to the Arab nations. Fifteen per cent vote in favor.

While the average citizen cannot be expected to be aware of the diplomatic and military complexities of the situation, the current results are nevertheless another clear indication of the post-Vietnam mood of the U.S. public and the desire not to get involved militarily in developments overseas.

These findings are recorded at a time of intense debate in Washington over the Carter administration's plan to sell Israel, Egypt and Saudi Arabia a total of 200 fighter aircraft over the next five years. The issues under discussion include whether and how the $4.8 billion package will affect Israel's future military security, the course of diplomatic efforts to achieve a Middle East peace settlement and how the plan to sell arms squares with President Carter's overall policy of restraining arms sales.

This question was asked first:

"Have you heard or read about the situation in the Middle East?"

HAVE HEARD 83% /READ

All those who say they have heard or read about the situation in the Middle East were then asked these questions:

"Do you think the U.S. should supply arms and materiel to Israel?"

"Do you think the U.S. should supply arms and materiel to the Arabs?"

Following are the latest results based on the 83 per cent aware group:

Arms, Materiel To Israel?
Yes	28%
No	54
No opinion	18
Arms, Materiel To Arab Nations?
Yes	15%
No	68
No opinion	17

The results reported today are based on the views of 1,334 adults (from a total sample of 1,560), 18 and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected localities throughout the nation. Interviewing took place during the period March 5-6.

Strength For Today

THE FATTED CALF

One of the most famous stories in the Bible is Jesus's parable of the prodigal son. It was told to illustrate God's joy at the repentance of a sinner. But like many of the parables, it illustrates other things too.

Reading this story hastily, we may feel a resentment not unlike that of the elder brother. The younger brother, who got his part of the inheritance early and spent it on riotous living in a far country, seems to have gotten everything else also when he returned. And all this at the expense of the elder brother, who stayed on the farm and worked.

But notice the one quiet line of the father to the elder brother: "Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine." He was the heir to the farm; he still had his half of the property and was next in line to be head of the family. The patience, hard work, and loyalty of this brother paid real dividends. These qualities always do.

Other Editors Say Leo In Chapel Hill

The Raleigh Times

This year is the first time Leo Jenkins, the retiring chancellor of East Carolina University, could ever have been described as "retiring" in any sense at all.

Whatever you think of ECU — and the range of opinions still is remarkably wide — you have to give Jenkins credit for pushing and hollering and shoving his school onto the North Carolina map.

In fight after fight over 18 years, the Greenville upstart took on the proper, sometimes outraged, often stuffy legal, medical, journalistic and higher education establishments centered around Chapel Hill.

Never subtle, never bashful, no play in legislature or governing board was too bold and brassy for the scrappy Jenkins who didn't mind much if you called it "Easy U" as long as you knew its name.

In the process, Leo and Co. did what they set out to do. They turned a rinky-dink teachers college into a big university. It's hard to say which symbol of his victorious 18-year crusade Jenkins might value most, the budding medical school or the winning athletic teams. His stamp is indelible on both.

A student body has a shorter memory than any other living organism. So the latest footnote to the saga of Leo Jenkins against the world — the admiring tribute-display piously placed by Greenville friends in the lobby of the university system's administrative building at the edge of Chapel Hill — may baffle students on both campuses.

We'd like to tell them the display is entirely appropriate. Other campuses can celebrate, when it's their turn in the Chapel Hill lobby, their planetariums or their regional culture studies. For ECU, Leo Jenkins, the purple-jacketed pirate who raised a campus along with a lot of rumpus, is the wholly appropriate symbol.

'Cornered' On Inflation Issue

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wherever he turns on the problem of inflation, President Carter has himself cornered. He has ruled out the most drastic of remedies, and steps that might help economically will hurt politically.

So the administration is tinkering, with limited options.

The roots of this dilemma trace back to the campaign when, in simplest terms, Democrat Carter said jobs were his top economic priority and suggested that a mild case of inflation would be an acceptable price to pay for putting people back to work.

The trouble is that the case isn't mild any more. Carter administration officials acknowledge that the inflation rate this year is likely to be 7 percent, one point above their original estimate. Some independent economists say it could go higher.

The public — and in this election year that means the voters — are increasingly concerned about the rising cost of living.

An Associated Press-NBC News poll showed that 49 percent believe that inflation now is a bigger national problem than unemployment. Thirtynine percent said jobs were the more important.

That is a reversal of the priorities reflected in a similar poll three months ago.

Carter came to office with an economic game plan that included some of the elements of his current program. Among them: close monitoring of inflationary trends, an effort to reform government regulations that add to consumer costs, and strict antitrust and consumer protection measures.

He also came with a promise to balance the budget by the end of his four-year term, but that commitment has been amended into a goal to be sought some time in the future.

For some time, Carter said he would want standby authority to impose wage and price controls even though he said he would not invoke them. He said he would like to have them on leverage.

But before the inauguration, in a gesture to a jittery business community, Carter said he would not ask for that power even on a standby basis.

No recent president has been able to figure out what to do about inflation on more than a short-term basis.

The wage and price controls imposed by Richard M.

Upset By U.S. Policy

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — The Common Market summit is being overshadowed by unhappiness over President Carter's policy on the falling dollar and deliveries of nuclear fuel to Europe.

The Europeans want more action from the U.S. government to bolster the price of the dollar on world exchanges.

"It is part of the world problem which calls for more stable currencies," said Danish Prime Minister Anker Joergensen, chairman of the meeting, which opens today and ends Saturday.

Attending are the heads of state or heads of government of Britain, France, Italy, West Germany, Denmark, Ireland, Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands.

The fate of the dollar is tied to the main problem facing the nine Common Market countries: how to find jobs for 6.5 million unemployed, a third of them under the age of 25. If the dollar continues at its present low, or drops further, European unemployment is likely to rise.

This is because a cheap dollar makes American goods more attractive and takes business away from Europeans, who depend much more heavily on exports than the United States does.

Joergensen told reporters the Common Market leaders would discuss the possibility of bringing West European currencies closer together. A unified European currency could be a rival to the dollar in world trade. There would be no immediate effect on business and employment in Europe since no immediate action is expected.

But a stable West European currency, embracing the major countries in the area, would give business some of the confidence it needs to build more plants, buy more machinery and thus get more Europeans back to work.

The issue of nuclear fuel deliveries began coming to a head a month ago when Carter signed a new law to halt the spread of material that can be made into bombs. This law has no direct relation to the issue of building and deploying neutron weapons.

40 Years Ago Today

April 7, 1938

The Greenville High School band yesterday took part in the musical festival in Kinston, and from all reports made, it was a good showing.

The band, one of the most popular in the state, is in great demand throughout this section. It has been invited to participate in the Tulip Festival in Washington, but the fete comes at the same time as the musical contests in Greensboro, and the Washington invitation will have to be refused.

Two convicts picked the lock on their compartment door, bolted the door of assistant jailer C. A. Boiling across the hall, and made their escape from the Pitt County jail between midnight and dawn this morning.

The two were taken into custody about noon today on the banks of the canal between Greenville and Ayden.

Lutheran Church Leader Steps Aside

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Right when things were looking up in his church and running smoothly, the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Marshall is stepping aside as head of the nation's largest Lutheran denomination, a post that had made him a key figure on the American and international religious scenes.

My job's been done he says after 10 years in it. "It's time for someone else to take over."

His decision not to continue as president of the 3.1-million-member Lutheran Church in America evoked surprise, regrets and puzzlement through ecclesiastical offices in this country and abroad.

"Is this an April Fool's joke?" asked a trans-Atlantic telephone inquirer from the Lutheran World Federation in Geneva, Switzerland last Saturday, April 1, when it got word of Marshall's decision.

Although pulling out of high-pressure top jobs seems to be in season these days, from congressmen to college presidents, disenchanted with anti-institutional hostility, that didn't seem to apply to Marshall.

"I looked out over what was going on in the church and things seemed pretty good," he says. "Most of my particular efforts have been attained or are reaching maturity." He says such a period of promise and equilibrium seemed right for choosing a new leader and setting new goals.

Marshall, 59, a keenly efficient, decisive man, steeped in theological scholarship as well as managerial skills, has virtually lived out of a suitcase in recent years, carrying out tasks in ecumenical affairs involving most of the world's Christians.

In a new job he's taking this fall as second-ranking executive of Lutheran World Ministries, the U.S. arm of the Lutheran World Federation, he'll continue active in global inter-Lutheran affairs. "I'll be glad to have a secondary responsibility for a while," he said.

Marshall has brought his own denomination through some rough readjustments, including a business-style restructuring of its organization, instituting of new priorities on teaching the faith and evangelism, adoption of a new worship book and building long-range planning and financial support that had put the church on a stable, healthy footing.

Marshall, a former pastor, seminary professor, head of Muhlenberg College's religion department and past head of his denomination's Illinois Synod, became the church's president in 1968.

Among those regarded as likely possibilities as Marshall's successor were:

The church's secretary, the Rev. Dr. James R. Crumley, formerly a Savannah, Ga., pastor; the Rev. Dr. William A. Lazareth, a departmental executive and former dean of Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia and the Rev. Dr. H. George Anderson, president of Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary, Columbia, S.C.

ECU Chemistry Dept. Honored Dr. Everett

ECU News Bureau
Dr. Grover Everett Sr., retiring member of the East Carolina University chemistry faculty, was honored at a two-day program sponsored by the Department of Chemistry April 6-7.

Activities included two seminars and a dinner.

Seminars were conducted on Thursday and Friday by Everett's son, Dr. Grover Everett Jr. and by Dr. Charles Reilley, Kenan Professor of Chemistry at UNC-Chapel Hill.

The senior Everett was Reilley's first graduate student during his studies leading to the PhD degree in 1955.

Dr. Everett Jr., an alumnus of UNC-Chapel Hill, received the PhD degree from Harvard University in 1966. The author of 40 research publications, he is now professor of chemistry at the University of Kansas.

On Friday evening, the ECU Department of Chemistry was host at a dinner in honor of Dr. Everett. Other guests of honor were Dr. Everett's wife and son; Dr. Reilley; and Sherbourne Everett McGrath, Dr. Everett's daughter, and her husband, James C. McGrath.

During the evening, Mrs.

Everett announced the family's establishment of the Grover Woodrow Everett Chemistry Award, to be given annually to a junior chemistry major at ECU.

A member of the ECU chemistry faculty for 23 years, Dr. Everett chaired the department from 1955 to 1966. He has also been active in professional organizations, serving as chairman of the Eastern N.C. Section of the American Chemical Society and the N. C. Academy of Science.

He has also been chairman of the local chapter of Sigma Xi honor society in scientific research. Earlier in the academic year he was nominated by the chemistry department for the Manufacturing Chemists Association College Chemistry Teacher Award.

MTM Alumni Begin Own Comedies

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Saturday night, two alumni of the Mary Tyler Moore works — Ted Knight, her ex-anchorman, and David Groh, ex-husband of "Rhoda" — will start their own comedies on CBS.

Knight now runs a six-lady escort service in New York. Groh's "Another Day" concerns the effect on his two-child family when the mother (Joan Hackett) decides to rejoin the job market.

"The Ted Knight Show" is decidedly the better effort, if only because it features the same sharp timing and gently exaggerated brand of humor

that made the MTM show such fun to watch.

It also has welcome echoes of the bumbling character Knight once played as he now essays Roger Dennis, whose escort-service motto is: "Wherever you go, we want to go with you."

Saturday's opener revolves around a strike by his lovely employees. They seek extra battle pay for hostessing the annual, all-male "Wolves Convention," full of noise, strong drink and worse.

Last year, as one hostess recalls with a shudder, "They made us get up on the roof and bay at the moon."

Pshaw, Knight says: "I once had to jump out of a cake at a lady Teamsters' convention ... wearing nothing but whipped cream and a hard hat." He rejects their plea for more bucks.

A strike ensues, the chief Wolf, called "The Leader of the Pack," warns of dire consequences if Knight doesn't provide the hostesses, and Knight is forced to audition apprentice escorts.

One, a gum-chewing cookie, informs him that "if some slob makes a pass at me, I'm gonna hit him in the chops." If the guy's rich, though, "I'm gonna pick him clean as a whistle," she adds.

And so it goes, with a negotiator for the strikers (Cissy Colpitts) at one point claiming

she needs the extra money because her dog "has mono."

Alas, the plot by Barry Rubinowitz thins at this point and the humor suffers a mild case of the feebleness.

But the cast is first-rate, with deft support work by Miss Colpitts, by another escort played by Janice Kent, and by Iris Adrian, cast as Knight's peppery old secretary.

In short, the potential for a hit is there, despite the script flaws.

In "Another Day," Groh plays an advertising executive beset with much suspicion as his wife (Miss Hackett), who recently has begun work at an insurance company, comes home drunk after a "baby shower."

Prior to this, you get a look at the rest of the tribe and their woes. Hope Summers plays Groh's widowed mother, Lisa Lindgren his teen-age daughter and Al Eisenmann II his 12-year-old son.

They do their best, but the plot is labored, likewise the dialogue.

In the finale, the show erupts in a long barrage of shouts between Groh and Miss Hackett. When a comedy has to shout, you know it's in trouble.

Many Cooperating For Big Telerama

All of Eastern North Carolina is cooperating to prepare for the 18-and-a-half-hour March of Dimes Telerama to be broadcast on WITN-TV beginning Saturday at 11:30 p. m., says Telerama Chairman Roland Modlin.

Dick Dale and Sandi Griffiths of "The Lawrence Welk Show" and veteran entertainers, Lee Kirk and Bob Newkirk, will headline the program. They will be joined by many people from this area, birth defect patients and area doctors. The Washington Jaycettes are acting as hostesses, with Mrs. Deborah Jetter as chairman. The Washington National Secretaries Association is providing telephone operators, with Yvonne Moore as chairman. The 167th Military Police Battalion of Washington is providing security, under the direction of Sgt. Dave Toler, and assisted by the Beaufort County Sheriff Department.

Hubert Oliphant and Perri Morgan, both of Greenville, are volunteer pledge card chairmen.

Pay $35 Million To Show GWTW

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS has paid $35 million for the rights to show the Civil War saga "Gone With the Wind" 20 times in the next 20 years, the largest fee ever paid for the television rights to a movie.

Under the terms of the agreement with MGM, the film will be shown next fall, and then every year until 1997.

The movie was shown in November 1976 on NBC. NBC paid $5 million for that showing, which garnered the largest audience ever to view a televised movie.

Evel Down To His Last Yacht

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Evel Knievel says his time in jail has cut so deeply into his earning capacity that he's down to his last yacht.

"Last year at this time I had 16 boats, three of them yachts, with a value of about $5 million," Knievel said in a letter to his press agent, Stan Rosenfield. "I've had to sell them all with the exception of three speed boats and one 80-foot yacht."

Rosenfield released the letter to the media Thursday.

"I have only two houses left," Knievel complained, and he added that he had sold all but the largest of his jeweled rings.

"Things are tough, but I think I can make it," Knievel wrote.

By CHET CURRIER

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices gained more ground today as traders looked ahead to President Carter's inflation message next week.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.99 at 765.94, on top of a 12.91-point rise over the past three days.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 4-3 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Brokers said traders continued to look ahead hopefully to President Carter's scheduled speech next Tuesday on inflation and other economic problems. The President has promised to propose a new plan designed to combat the recent acceleration in the inflation rate.

Otherwise, the news background was mixed. The government reported this morning that the unemployment rate rose from 6.1 to 6.2 percent in March, interrupting a steady decline from the 7 percent level that began last September.

On the positive side, the Federal Reserve's weekly report issued late Thursday showed a smaller-than-expected $600 million rise in the basic measure of the money supply.

Brokers said the data tended to relieve some of investors' recent fears of an impending move by the Fed to tighten credit in its efforts to curb inflation.

Airco jumped 5 1/2 to 49. The company accepted a sweetened $50-a-share takeover offer from BOC International Ltd. of London, ending a battle among the two companies and Martin Marietta.

The NYSE's composite index rose .09 to 50.28, and the American Stock Exchange market value index climbed .54 to 131.39, once again reaching a 4 1/2-year high.

Volume on the Big Board dropped off to 10.47 million shares as of noontime from 12.98 million at the same point Thursday.

Carlie Smith Talks Azalea Queen Highway Program

Carlie Smith, chief of the local programs unit of the Governor's Highway Safety Program Office, addressed the Pitt County Safety Council during a noon meeting, Thursday, at Parker's Barbecue.

Smith reviewed the beginning of the N.C. Governor's Highway Safety Program office in Raleigh which opened in 1968 following federal enabling legislation within the Highway Safety Act of 1966. The office is under the Division of Motor Vehicles in the North Carolina Department of Transportation.

In all 50 states and some U.S. territories, similar GHSP offices have also been established for the purpose of reducing injuries and fatalities on the highways. Eighteen standards dealing with problems that affect highway safety were promulgated in the Highway Safety Act of 1966 and are used as guidelines for the improvement of highway safety by their offices.

Smith said that the GHSP acts primarily as a funding agency to assist local agencies in highway safety programs. Working with an annual budget of $3.5 to $3.7

Car Ran Into Parked Vehicles

A collision at 9:40 p.m. Wednesday on First Street, 75 feet West of the Meade Street intersection involved a car driven by Jesse Woodford Tetterton of Route 1, Bethel, and parked vehicles owned by Robert Foreman Smith of Kinston and Howard Dixie Smith of 1305 East First St.

Officers, who charged Tetterton with driving under the influence, careless and reckless driving, and driving left of center, estimated damage at $2,500 to the Smith car, $2,000 to the Tetterton auto and $50 to the Smith vehicle.

Tetterton was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for injuries he received in the collision.

million, the GHSP helps devise countermeasures which can subsequently be used by local units to solve their traffic safety problems.

Smith noted that "the new funding method which allocates monies according to problem areas rather than doling out a specified percent of funds for each federal standard is being tried this year."

In other council business, the Emergency Medical Services Chairman Edward Hackett, reported that ambulance, fire, and rescue squads in Pitt County made over 4,000 calls during 1977.

Azalea Queen Is Welcomed

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Soap opera star Nancy Addison, the 31st Azalea Festival Queen, raised some eyebrows Wednesday by saying "hell" twice when arriving at Wilmington's airport.

The 28-year-old television performer, who said she doesn't drink or smoke, earlier said she doesn't normally curse, either.

"It just slipped out, because I was so excited," she said.

Miss Addison officially arrived at Wilmington's downtown Coast Guard dock by yacht at 11 a.m. Thursday to open the festival and was greeted by local officials, a bevy of beauty queens and about 300 spectators.

"Anything that I do wrong just tell me, because I'm here for you," she said. "Let's all have fun. I hope that this is the best festival and the most fun that we'll all ever have."

About 20 beauty queens attended the queen's dockside arrival. About 10 were from colleges across the state. Another 10 served as a princess' court for Miss Teen Age Princess Dee Dee Ward.

Miss Addison was greeted at the dock by Wilmington Mayor Ben Halterman, who met the disembarking queen with the words, "You are so beautiful, I wish I was king."

The crowd was entertained

before her arrival by fireworks, a fireboat spraying water, two airplanes flying low over the Cape Fear River, the Grandfather Mountain Cloggers, a Wilmington musical group and Hoggard High School singing groups.

Arrested On Four Counts Of Fraud

Greenville Police yesterday arrested 25-year-old David Alexander Kelley Jr. of 109 Martha's La. on fraud charges—four counts of obtaining money under false pretenses.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the charges stemmed from incidents in Greenville, Ayden and Farmville, on March 30 and 31 and April 4 and 5.

He said the alleged violations included purchasing travelers checks with worthless checks, and making deposits with worthless checks then withdrawing money from the accounts at First Federal Savings and Loan Association offices.

Kelley, according to the chief, was placed under a $4,000 bond pending hearing of the cases in court.

Volume on the Big Board dropped off to 10.47 million shares as of noontime from 12.98 million at the same point Thursday.

Pirates Capture 8-2 Win Over Elon

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina's Pirates spotted Elon College a 2-0 lead in the first inning, then stormed back to claim an 8-2 win over the Fighting Christians last night.

The victory was the third straight for the Pirates raising their record to 13-11. Elon dropped off to a 13-12 mark.

Tim Stiller went all the way in his first collegiate start. The freshman righthander, who has seen relief work in earlier games, gave up just five hits, walked one and struck out eight.

He was tagged for a home run in the first inning, however, that accounted for both of the Christian runs.

"I knew someone would hit a homer off me some time," he said. "I just knew I had to come back and work a little harder after that."

That was what he did, allowing four more hits in the remaining eight innings. Only once did he really get in trouble after that, when Elon loaded the bases on two singles, a fielder's choice and the lone walk. But with two away, Stiller struck out the number three batter in the order to end the threat.

Only one other Elon runner reached second base, and that came after two were away.

"Tim did a good job for us in his first start," Coach Monte Little said. "He retained his poise real well after a shaky start."

Little said the Pirates are still playing relaxed.

"We had a couple of physical errors out there, but no mental ones. I know that we're going to have our ups and downs the rest of the way, but I think I can say that the Pirates are back now. We look more like we did last year, and we certainly have some power."

The power showed as the Bucs got ten hits in the game, four of them doubles and another a homer.

Elon's only runs came in the first inning. Paul Judy opened up by reaching on an error. Billy Freeman then launched the next pitch out of the park in left for an early 2-0 Christian lead.

The Pirates came back with their first run in the second inning. Butch Davis singled to left, and moved up when the ball was errored on the relay back to the infield. Bobby Supel walked and with one down, Tim Hardison was hit by a pitch, loading the bases. Robert Brinkley hit a sacrifice fly to score Davis.

The Pirates got two more and took the lead, 3-2, in the third. Eddie Gates opened the inning with his fourth home run of the season, tying the score.

Billy Best beat out a drag bunt, but was thrown out on Pete Paradossi's grounder back to the mound. With two away, Supel singled and Raymie Styons reached on an error, allowing Paradossi to score.

The Pirates added another in the fourth. Brinkley doubled and took third on a wild pitch. Gates reached on an infield hit that Brinkley was unable to advance on, but he did score when Best grounded to second.

Three doubles, one of them a freak, helped score four more runs in the fifth.

Davis led off, hitting sharply to first base. The ball took a bad hop, however, and struck the fielder in the head, bouncing off into foul territory. By the time it was chased down, Davis had reached second. Elon first baseman Frank Williams was forced to leave the game by the hard knock, but was not seriously injured.

With one out, Styons doubled to left center, scoring Davis. Chip Giannettino ran for Styons, and Hardison walked. Brinkley reached on an error, loading the bases. Jerry Carraway followed with the third double of the frame, scoring Giannettino and Hardison, and Brinkley scored

when Gates grounded out.

Gates and Davis each had two hits to lead the Pirates at the plate, while Freeman and Larry Colson each had two for Elon.

East Carolina travels to Richmond today for a game against Virginia Commonwealth. They return home on Saturday for a 7:30 p.m. game against Virginia Tech, and the two meet again Sunday afternoon at 1:30 p.m.

Knights Rally For 9-7 Win Over Rose

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

Rose's baseball team staged a comeback in the fifth and sixth innings, but then watched as Northern Nash came up with a three-run homer in the seventh to take a 9-7 victory over the Rampants.

Rose, which fell behind by a 5-2 score in the fourth inning, scored a single run in the bottom of the fourth, two in the fifth and two more in the sixth for a 7-6 lead. But Rampant pitcher Jeff Aldridge put two men on in the top of the seventh and Tim Willis put one over the left field fence off reliever Joey Mattheis.

Rose was able to get a man on in the ninth with one out. He got to third on a steal and a wild pitch, but was left there by the last two batters.

"You can't give up nine runs and win," a disappointed Rose coach Ronald Vincent said after the contest. "They just hit the ball; that's all there was to it." Vincent said he didn't think his pitchers, who allowed a total of 11 Knight hits, did a bad job. Northern Nash just had a good day at the plate.

Aldridge, who came in relief of starter Skip Topping in the fifth with Rose behind 5-3, was charged with the loss. His record is now 0-1. Knight starter Carl Payne went the distance in gaining his third win in three tries.

The Rampants got only six hits in the game, two by Mattheis, who started the day at third. Catcher Bobby Woronoff was credited with two RBI's on a single in the sixth.

The first six batters in the contest were put out, but Northern Nash put a runner on in the second when Willis singled. He stole second and went to third on Willie Lucas' base hit. David Wells cracked a double to left field to score Willis and Wells went to second as Lucas was thrown out at the plate.

Mike Thomas layed a sacrifice

bunt down the first base line and was safe when the throw pulled Rose second baseman Ronnie Chapman off the bag. Wells came home on the fielder's choice.

Rose came back with a pair of runs in the bottom of the frame. Aldridge and Mattheis both singled; Mattheis' hit was a bunt. The runners advanced on Woronoff's sacrifice. Topping reached on an error to plate Aldridge and Mattheis came in on a fielder's choice.

The Knight's went back ahead with two runs in the top of the third. Leadoff man Raford Long singled and Steve Proctor reached on a Rampant misplay to send Long to third. Randy Shackleford knocked them both in with a single up the middle.

Knight Dwayne Pridgen reached on a bloop single in the fourth and scored when Long slapped a double to right center. The Rampants got a solo run in the bottom of the frame as Greg Lee led off with a double, went to third when Aldridge reached on an error and scored on Mattheis' infield out to make it 5-3.

Aldridge went to the mound in the top of the fifth and retired the Knights with three straight outs. Rose tied the game at 5-5 in the bottom of the inning.

Mike Williams made it safely to second on an error and went to third on Will Sanderson's infield out. Robert Morehead brought him in with a squeeze bunt sacrifice to third.

That brought up Chapman, who hit a grounder between the second baseman's legs and made it to third on a throwing error by the Northern Nash right fielder. Shank reached on an error to bring in Chapman.

In the top of the sixth, Aldridge put two more down and the third batter hit a foul fly to the catcher, but it was dropped. The batter, Pridgen, then knocked a home run over the center field fence.

Rose catcher Woronoff got his redemption in the sixth, however. Aldridge got on via an error and was doubled to third by Mattheis. Woronoff knocked them both in, and gave the Rampants a 7-6 lead, with a single to left field.

But the Knight's wouldn't lie down in the seventh. Long led off with a single up the middle and was sacrificed to second by Proctor. Shackleford walked, and after the Rampants changed pitchers, Willis cranked out his three-run homer.

The loss drops the Rose record to 5-3 for the season and 1-2 in Division I play. The Knights, now 5-4 overall, are also 1-2 in the conference. Rose will host

Wilson in its next outing next Tuesday.

Wreck Killed Daughter, Father Billed By N.C.

KING, N.C. (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Lisa Dawn Jones was fatally injured on the morning of Dec. 15 as she was driving along a rural road to South Stokes High School.

The Highway Patrol said the car apparently hit a slick spot and ran out of control, crashed into a wooden rail on a bridge and plunged into a creek.

The state presented Lisa Dawn's father with a bill for $434.29 for repairs to the bridge.

Charles W. Jones, an electrical supervisor at a brewery in nearby Winston-Salem, told his insurance company not to pay it and launched a crusade to have the bridge replaced and other conditions he considers to be unsafe corrected.

He said he is giving officials until June 16 to improve the bridge before erecting a sign on Lisa Dawn's tombstone saying, "Died Dec. 15, 1977, because of the bureaucracy of the state Highway Commission and the county commissioners." In addition, he said he will list the names of the governor, highway officials, the district highway engineer and county officials on a bronze plaque.

W.P. Garriss, controller of the state Transportation Department, said the agency normally bills motorists for damage they do to state property. Another highway official said even in the case of unavoidable accidents, such as a car skidding on ice and knocking down a sign, the motorist is usually billed for the damage.

Transportation Department officials met Thursday to review the policy of requiring payment in such accidents and they received several inquiries from the news media about the Jones case.

Information director Cy Lynn said Jones should write to Garriss if he feels his daughter was not negligent in the accident. He said the case would then be referred to the attorney general's office for a determination of whether Jones must pay the bill.

"There is a dual responsibility on our part," Lynn said. "We want to be as sensitive as we can to friends and families of accident victims while at the same time serving as custodians of the public property." Jones said he will write to Garriss to say there was no negligence and he doesn't intend to pay the bill.

"I think this points to the problem at all levels of government," he said. "The working people are considered to be just dumb jokers. I couldn't get any response until the story got into the news."

Jones recently placed an ad in a local newspaper listing conditions he considers to be hazardous and urging residents to push for improvements. He appeared at a public hearing to seek improvements to the bridge, a railroad crossing and an intersection he said are dangerous.

Strike Threat Hurting Port

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The threat of a dockworkers' strike is hurting business at the state port in Wilmington, and port authority officials predict more business losses if a new contract isn't signed soon.

The International Longshoremen's Association could go on strike April 29, putting about 2,000 dockworkers out of work statewide.

"We have lost business already," said ports authority trade development director Leo Lively. "Container cargo companies are diverting their container cargo ships to Charleston and Norfolk."

Lively said the number of diversions over the past two weeks were not a tremendous amount, but he said more business will send their ships elsewhere if a new contract is not approved.

"Everyone is real nervous right now," Lively said.

The likelihood of a strike increased last week when the National Mediation Board withdrew from stalled negotiations and announced a 30-day countdown before the ILA can strike.

The ILA's three-year contract expired December 31.

Union representatives say the State Ports Authority has refused to negotiate union demands for compulsory union membership, automatic union dues payments from paychecks and elimination of a no-strike clause now in the contract.

SPA officials say the state ports in Morehead City and Wilmington will suffer from an image of labor instability if a strike occurs. They say North Carolina ports are already at a competitive disadvantage with larger ports.

The Morehead City port has been plagued by wildcat strikes and has been losing about $500,000 a year. The Wilmington port has been profitable.

Area Hams At Charlotte Event

Regular meeting of the BARC will be held here on Tuesday, April 11, at 7:45 p.m. in the Planters National Bank conference room, Third and Washington Streets.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

"You'll never get rich sellin' wood to George Dickel"

Bear Ferguson, logger, 1873

"It's not that George doesn't use a lot of wood in the makin' of his Tennessee Sour Mash Whisky—he does. But he's so darned pernickity.

"Like only wantin' winter-cut sugar maple that's not all sappy for his charcoal mellowin'. Then he picks over the lot like a hen eyein' a corn morsel.

"Times like that I most always end up sittin' on a cord of wood he's turned down, sippin' his whisky."

At George Dickel, we still use only the winter maple to help make every sip of our Tennessee Sour Mash Whisky as smooth as moonbeams.

Ranked 5th In Building

Greenville ranked fifth in the state in building permits issued for January, according to a report by N.C. Commissioner of Labor John C. Brooks.

Brooks reported that Greenville, with permit valuations of $2,381,325, was one of 14 cities with January permits exceeding $1 million and ranked only behind Fayetteville, Charlotte, Raleigh and Winston-Salem.

The commissioner noted in the report that Greenville issued a total of 116 multi-family unit permits with a cost tag of $1,280,000 during the month.

Building permit totals for several neighboring cities during January included: Kinston, $372,875; Elizabeth City, $161,000; Jacksonville, $1,028,383; New Bern, $453,250; Roanoke Rapids, $171,600; Rocky Mount, $1,880,504; and Wilson, $1,957,743.

Statewide, permits totaling $51,341,903 were issued in January by 38 cities of more than 10,000 population, Brooks said. Permits issued by the cities were down 19.7 per cent from last January and were 4.2 per cent below the December of 1977 figure, he reported.

Monkey Making Life Miserable

GROVE CITY, Ohio (AP) — Charlie Brown, a pet monkey, is making life miserable for Madge Taynor.

The 5-year-old, 70-pound primate has even thrown a knife at her minister, Mrs. Taynor says.

Lately he has been escaping from the house and pestering the neighbors. One of them went to the Grove City council meeting earlier in the week seeking a solution to the problem.

Mrs. Taynor said she can't seem to find the monkey a good home.

"The Columbus Zoo doesn't want him. I don't want to sell him because he does bite and I don't want anyone to mistreat him, either," she said.

"He's learned how to slide the windows back and get out. He escaped again Tuesday morning but he came back when it started to rain. He doesn't like the rain."

Cheaha Mountain in Alabama's Cleburne County is 2,407 feet high.

Student Legislature Returns To Capitol After 17 Years

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — For the first time since it was banned 17 years ago, the North Carolina Student Legislature returned to the Capitol this week.

"They debated some wild subjects — subjects that flew right in the face of the sentiment of that time," Secretary of State Thad Eure recalled Wednesday as the 41st session of the student legislature opened.

"It was primarily race issues, such as intermarriage between whites and blacks."

Many of today's state leaders were active in that student group of the early 1960s. Among them were Gov. Jim Hunt; Kenneth Harris, now mayor of Charlotte; and John Brooks, now commissioner of Labor.

Tom Gilmore, a former state representative and now in the North Carolina Department of Human Resources, was a member of the student legislature that was ousted.

He recalls they debated integration of schools, a 75-cent-per-hour minimum wage, giving 18-year-olds the right to vote, a second term for governors and veto power for the governor. Many have since become law.

The group placed itself in jeopardy in 1957 when it passed a resolution calling for repeal of North Carolina's laws against interracial marriages.

The old Board of Public Buildings and Grounds, on advice of Governor Luther Hodges and the Council of State, was the agency that actually banned the student legislature, Gilmore said. The group continued meeting in Raleigh hotels.

Samuel P. Townsend, administrator of the Capitol and the Capitol Area Visitor Center, is the official who has allowed the students to use the Capitol again this year.

Since the General Assembly moved to the State Legislative Building, the Capitol is used primarily for ceremonial events.

Pitt Farm Bureau Women Hold Dinner

The Pitt County Farm Bureau Women held their annual covered dish luncheon yesterday at the Farm Bureau Conference Building on 264 Bypass.

Billy Upchurch from the state office in Raleigh showed slides emphasizing the importance of agriculture in Pitt County. He said the income of agriculture in this county was $86 million last year. Upchurch noted that the cost of production is increasing at a rapid rate, while the price farmers receive at the marketplace is decreasing.

Farmers cannot continue to grow the food and fiber necessary for the American way of life, unless he makes a profit out of his investment.

Mrs. Cordelia Deans of Farmville sang a special song and led the group in singing. Mrs. Mamie Smith of Ayden presided, and Mrs. Wilbur Worthington was in charge of the program. Mrs. Louise Louis and Mrs. Lois Briley assisted in the luncheon.

Special guests recognized for their long years of service to the Farm Bureau included: Mrs. Ben Louis and Mrs. Herman Baker of Farmville, Mrs. Mattie Hardee of Ayden, and Mrs. Thelma Hardee of Greenville.

The student legislature was founded in 1937 and is one of the oldest assemblies of its kind in the United States. In 1941 it was considered a conservative group, according to a history of the organization.

By 1945, its attitude was changing. The first major upheaval occurred when a measure to invite black colleges to the sessions passed by a vote of 110-48. There was a sharp decline in membership when the first black delegates attended the next session.

Some 250 students from 25 North Carolina colleges and universities are attending the current gathering, which will end Sunday.

And the group is still not shying away from controversial subjects.

The gun control bill will be introduced by the Duke University delegation, and a measure to allow workers inadvertently put out of work by a strike to collect unemployment compensation will be introduced by delegates from the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.
