Former Director Of FBI And 2 Top Aides Indicted

By LEE BYRD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department, concluding that responsibility for FBI excesses in the anti-radical campaign of the early 1970s rests at the top, has obtained the indictment of former FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III and two of his highest former aides.

In the culmination of a long and painful internal investigation, the department also dropped its prosecution of John J. Kearney, a former FBI supervisor in New York, who was indicted a year ago in connection with FBI break-ins, mail openings and wiretappings between 1970 and the summer of 1972.

"I am thoroughly delighted, pleased and vindicated," said Kearney, who was the first agent in FBI history to be charged with a felony involving his official duties. He resigned in 1972 to enter private business.

In a case personally guided by Attorney General Griffin B. Bell, a federal grand jury Monday indicted Gray, former Associate FBI Director W. Mark Felt and former Assistant Director Edward S. Miller on a charge of conspiring to violate the rights of citizens through unlawful break-ins.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a fine of $10,000.

Gray issued a statement through his lawyer saying he had "never participated in or knowingly authorized any illegal conduct during my tenure as acting director of the FBI."

Felt, who called the indictments a "tragic mistake," said that he, Gray and Miller had rejected a Justice Department offer last week to plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge.

Felt's statement was confirmed by Miller's attorney, who said his client "emphatically denies any wrongdoing."

Said Felt, formerly the No. 2 official in the FBI high command:

"Irrespective of my personal case, these indictments will have a chilling effect on all law enforcement and the intelligence community. These agencies have already been impaired in recent years, and this is just another push downhill.

"In my own career up against mobsters, criminals, spies and the mad bombers of the Weather Underground, I never approached a case with criminal intent and never got any personal gain from a case."

Bell, who announced the indictments at a news conference Monday, also said he was taking unspecified disciplinary action against J. Wallace LaPrade, an assistant FBI director and head of the bureau's New York office, "for his conduct in these matters."

Bell said 70 other persons — 68 in the FBI and two in the Justice Department — will be subjected to disciplinary action ranging from censure to dismissal. Most of them were members of the New York office, which conducted the anti-radical campaign under Kearney's supervision.

Consumer Group Protests Senate Farm Aid Action

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Passage of emergency one-year aid to grain and cotton farmers by the Senate brought organized consumers to the steps of the Capitol today and a stern letter from protesting farmers to President Carter.

Imitating the tactics of the American Agriculture protest group, which brought tractors and farm animals to the congressional doorsteps in its campaign for farm-aid legislation, the Consumer Federation of America organized a demonstration with shopping carts to protest the measure.

Supporters and opponents of the bill, meanwhile, gathered at the House Rules Committee, first of several hurdles for the legislation in the urban-dominated House, where the administration hopes it will be voted down. House debate is set for later this week.

The Senate passed the bill, drafted last week by House-Senate conferees, Monday by a 49-41 margin. A two-thirds majority of each house is needed to override a presidential veto, an event that has never occurred with a rejected farm bill.

Carter has promised to veto the bill as inflationary and a threat to the farm economy's stability, if it reaches him.

American Agriculture delegates wrote the president that their precarious financial status is a greater threat. They said Carter has "been led to believe some mistaken information" on the bill and they demanded an end to what they called contradictory statements and "bewildering logic" from the White House.

Farmers have been pressuring lawmakers for additional government action to raise prices they consider below production costs.

More than 200 supporters of the American Agriculture protest group were in the Senate gallery to watch Monday's vote.

The bill would increase the level of price supports in direct proportion to the amount of land a farmer took out of production.

According to the Congressional Budget Office, 5 percent of the nation's farmers would receive one-third of the benefits from the bill.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said the Senate vote was "never in doubt," but he declined to predict the House outcome.

The administration and the budget office estimate that the measure would add 58 cents to $2.14 to the weekly grocery bill of the three-person urban family. That family spent an estimated $49.61 on food last year and is expected to spend $53 to $54 for the same food this year.

Carter Unveils Inflation Program In Speech Today

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is looking to a concerted effort by the government and the private sector as one way to help solve the problem of rising inflation.

The president was unveiling his plan to fight spiraling prices in a speech an aide said had been written "to make it clear we can't deal effectively with these problems if we don't act together."

The aide, press secretary Jody Powell, called today's address to a convention of newspaper editors a "non-nonsense speech, devoid of comforting illusions."

The administration originally predicted prices would rise 6.1 percent this year. But some government economists say the increase could be closer to 7 percent.

Since returning from a trip to Africa and Latin America, the battle on inflation has been the No. 1 topic on the president's schedule.

He spent much of the weekend working on the speech after meeting earlier with congressional leaders, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and Charles Schultz, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

While White House aides said Carter wants to hold down military pay, a spokesman for the Council of Economic Advisers, Peter Gould, denied the administration was seeking wage constraints. He commented, "There will be no controls on pay. Period."

Aides said Carter is continuing to push for speedy passage of his energy program, sent to Congress nearly 12 months ago.

Carter has advocated raising federal taxes on gasoline to discourage use of the fuel, and cut to oil imports.

Busload Of Boys Wrecks

INAHA, Ga. (AP) — Three boys were killed and numerous others injured today when a school bus carrying children from the Ypsilanti, Mich. Boys Club overturned as it entered a rest area along Interstate 75, according to the state patrol.

A nurse reported that a "whole bus load" of injured children was taken to Turner County Hospital in nearby Ashburn. Details on the extent of injuries were not immediately available.

A state patrol spokesman said 25 to 30 people were injured.

The victims were not identified immediately. State Patrol spokesman Terry Bates at the nearby Cordele post said the children killed were "young boys."

Dentist Qualifies As Bidder On Southside Area Property

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Dr. Hazel Brown, a black Chapel Hill dentist, qualified Monday night as a bidder on a disposal parcel owned by the Redevelopment Commission in the Southside area.

Faye Brewington, Southside project manager, said that Dr. Brown indicated she planned to relocate her dental practice from Chapel Hill and was looking for a site on which to build a new office.

Mrs. Brewington noted that Dr. Brown, a native of Falkland, is interested in Disposal Parcel K-7, an interior lot on 16th Street some 200 feet off of Evans south of Export Leaf Tobacco Co. The dentist, according to Mrs. Brewington, proposed to build a facility with some 1,350 square feet of heated space on the parcel with 150 feet of frontage requested on 16th Street.

Joe Laney, executive director, pointed out that the property is currently zoned for R-6 (residential) use and Office and Institutional designation would be the highest rezoning level that could be sought.

Laney said that the development of the parcel on Office and Institutional zoning would offer a good buffer between the present R-6 housing on the south side of 16th and the industrial area to the north of the parcel. Commissioners agreed that the proposed use would offer a good development for the area.

Dr. Brown was qualified as a bidder on the parcel subject to rezoning of the tract by the city.

In other business, the commissioners accepted the bid of Reynolds May, subject to City Council approval, for the purchase of Disposal Parcel Q-4 on McClellan Street north of Elks Street.

May, according to real estate officer Kirby Boyd, plans to locate a house on the 5,000 square foot parcel for single family use.

Boyd reported that May, who has developed property adjoining the disposal parcel, submitted a bid of $1,375. Boyd noted that May offered the only bid at the March 22 bid opening.

The real estate officer reported that no acquisition activity took place since the last commission meeting.

Commissioners approved two minor changes in the Central Business District plan and a letter will be mailed to the mayor and council recommending implementation of the amended plan on May 1.

Under the amendment to the CBD plan, which is being handled as a proclaimer change, the commission is recommending that the disposal parcel at the corner of Fifth and Evans Streets that is currently being used as an unapproved parking lot be designated a public parking lot with appropriate landscaping. The present CBD plan calls for the parcel to be used as a park.

The board is also recommending that the landscaping be expanded to include the parking lot along Sixth Street that has already been paved.

It was noted last night that with the two-block mall area, pedestrian walkways and Town Common, parking would be more suitable to the overall objective of the program, but with appropriate landscaping.

The second change recommended by the commission involves the block between Pitt and Green Streets opposite the fire station, it was noted. The lot is currently being used for employee parking for city and Greenville Utilities personnel and the present plan calls for commercial use of the whole tract.

The commission is recommending that the parcel be divided into two sections with the northern portion bordering Fifth Street and containing roughly 40,000 square feet being retained for public parking by city and GUCO employees. The triangular section on the southern end would be developed for com-

Indicate Possible Arson

Investigation of a Sunday night fire at Vermont American Corp. north of Greenville has revealed the possibility of suspected arson.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson this morning confirmed that his department is assisting the office of the Pitt County Fire Marshal in the investigation, and that the investigation has revealed evidence that provides indications of suspected arson.

The two departments are continuing investigation of the fire.

Art Scheringer, controller at Vermont American Corp., said no estimate of damage had been made this morning. He added that the fire did not result in curtailment of the plant's operations except for the brief period when firefighters were on the scene.

Pullback

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The first stage in Israel's pullback in southern Lebanon was reported today as Syrian troops patrolled Beirut in an attempt to end a new outbreak of Moslem-Christian fighting in the Lebanese capital.

Both a U.N. spokesman in Beirut and an Israeli army spokesman in northern Israel reported no hitches as Israeli troops moved back 1.2 to 3 miles at eight points along the Litani River.

"Norwegian peacekeepers replaced Israeli forces in all vacated areas and by mid-morning we had no report of any violence," the U.N. spokesman said.

A second pullback Friday will remove the Israelis from a fourth of the 500 square miles of territory they occupied during their invasion last month to drive Palestinian guerrillas north of the Litani.

A Way To Heat Home For Almost Nothing

WELCOME, N.C. (AP) — Paul Hinkle has found a way to heat his 1,500-square-foot, three-bedroom house for almost nothing. He does it with the sun and an angular contraption that sits out behind his house.

The structure, a bank of solar energy collector panels, soaks up rays in rain or sunshine. And together with a wood stove in the basement and a heat circulation system, the gadget provided all the heat and hot water for the Hinkles' home this winter, with plenty of energy to spare.

With current oil prices, the Hinkles would have paid about $600 to heat their house this year.

The system Hinkle devised is a plumbers' and electricians' nightmare, with hundreds of feet of copper pipes and coils, dozens of valves and thermostats.

"But it works," Hinkle said. While it cost him "thousands of dollars" to build over a period of years, he hopes through experimentation to develop a product most people could afford. "Right now, I know this system would be too expensive for the average man to have built in his house," he said. "But I'm trying to get it to where something like it could be built for everybody."

Hinkle may apply for patents on parts of the system. The use of paraffin to store solar heat, for example, is new and has some advantages over conventional methods, he said. The way he uses the stove to heat hot water is also an innovation, and could be the easiest part of his system for the average person to duplicate.

Hinkle, a mechanic at R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. in Winston-Salem, has asked the federal Energy Research and Development Administration for a grant to further develop the heat-bearing contraption. One of the things he will do if he gets the grant is add air conditioning to his system.

RAY CATCHER — Paul Hinkle tinkers with his angular contraption that soaks up energy from the sun. Last winter the gadget heated and provided hot water for the Hinkles' three-bedroom house, saving the family an estimated $600 in fuel costs. (AP Laserphoto)

Airplane Crash Killed Former Pitt Resident

EDENTON — A former Pitt County assistant Agricultural Extension Service agent was killed in the crash of a single-engine private plane four miles north of here Sunday.

Chowan County Sheriff's deputies found the body of William H. "Bill" Pruden, 59 of Plymouth, in the wreckage of his plane yesterday afternoon, after the wreckage was spotted by a Coast Guard plane.

Officials at the Elizabeth City Coast Guard Air Station diverted a transport plane on a training mission to search the area when a private plane reported an electronic distress signal North of Edenton Monday afternoon. Pruden's body was taken by helicopter to Chowan County Hospital.

Chowan deputy Melvin Evans said Pruden died from multiple injuries. He had been flying alone from Norfolk, Va., to his Plymouth home at the time of the crash.

Pruden's family notified the Elizabeth City Flight Service Station Monday when he did not arrive Sunday night after leaving Norfolk at 4 p.m.

Pruden, a Northampton County native, was a World War II Army Air Force veteran. He served as an assistant Agricultural Extension Service agent in Pitt County from 1946 until 1949 when he moved to Washington County extension agent for three years.

He then entered the seed and fertilizer business. At the time of his death, Pruden was owner and operator of the Roanoke

Farmers Exchange in Plymouth.

Pruden was a member of the North Carolina State University Educational Foundation, a Mason, a member of the Plymouth Lions Club, and past president of the North Carolina and Virginia Grain Dealers Association.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Annie Webb Pruden; two sons, Tom and John Pruden of Plymouth; two brothers, Booker Vick Pruden of Muscogee, Oklahoma and J. A. Pruden Jr. of Bacliff, Texas; and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at the First Baptist Church of Plymouth, with the Rev. Dennis Burton officiating. Burial will follow in Hillside Memorial Gardens.

HOTLINE APPEALS
FOLDABLE WHEELCHAIR NEEDED
Carson Memorial Pentecostal Holiness Church is cooperating with Hotline in appealing for a foldable wheelchair for Mrs. Myrtle Coburn. The Greenville woman is bedridden with a heart and lung condition and her family could make good use of this chair, especially when they need to take her to Chapel Hill and to local medical facilities during the duration of her illness. Anyone having such a chair to donate could make it a tax-exempt gift through this church, of which Mrs. Coburn is a member, the pastor, the Rev. Jesse Blalock, has agreed. Mrs. Coburn's phone number is 758-6026; Rev. Blalock's, 758-7680.

GARDEN BREAKING NEEDED
The Women's Correctional Facility, located near the intersection of Highway 33 and Eastern Bypass, has asked Hotline to appeal for someone willing to donate his or her time and tractor or tiller to break ground for a garden plot. The women living at the facility wish to tend a garden this summer. It's a small area, Facility Director Shelby Gorham said, and would take only a small amount of time to plow for someone living nearby. Her phone number is 758-7498.

Ayden Board Tables Action On Drainage Problem

By DEBBIE JACKSON
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board last night tabled action concerning a drainage problem behind Edgewood Street.

Local residents have registered complaints about water standing in their backyards and have requested that action be taken as soon as possible.

Last night, Phil Dickerson of Dickerson and Adams Associates, Greenville, delivered a report on what he views as the most expedient means of dealing with the drainage problem.

Dickerson suggested that the 15-inch pipe under Edgewood Street be changed to an 18-inch pipe and be lowered two feet, that the present ditch in the area be cleaned out, that a two-foot deep well be constructed, and that a drain constructed of perforated tile be placed under the well.

The engineer stated that at present the water level off Edgewood Street is almost even with the ground. The purpose of the well and the perforated tile drain would be to bring the water level down as much as possible. He added that residents that wished to do so could build a perforated tile drain around their homes and connect them to the main drain.

There is a 10-foot easement at the location where the well would be constructed, and Dickerson said that with a two foot depth, the width of the well would be approximately 16 feet across. Board members noted problems with several large trees in the proposed well area that would be too large to relocate.

It was also noted that because the tile is perforated to allow water to drain easier, within about ten years problems could arise with roots blocking the perforations. Estimated cost of the project would be approximately $10,000.

Board members voted to hold a special meeting on Monday, April 17, in order to give area residents a chance to voice their opinions, and in order to acquire more information on Dickerson's suggestion and any other options they might have.

In other business, the Board heard a complaint from a resident concerning people ignoring the town Leash Law. He said that town officials should either repeal the law or enforce it. Commissioner Elliott Dixon suggested that a "stake-out" for dogs running loose be conducted by the police department. The Police Department will be advised of this suggestion.

The Board also voted to acquire five-year aluminum city license plates from the North Carolina League of Municipalities. A sticker would be placed on the tag each year, as is the policy with state tags. Firemen's tags will, however, be replaced each year as has been done in the past.

In further business, the Board voted:

To accept a Housing Assistance Plan presented by Bill Shelly of the Mid-East Commission. Plans must be submitted by April 15.

To accept a Land Development Plan, also presented by Shelly. The purpose of the plan is to update the town's present plan.

To accept a low bid of $9,309 from J.H. Cuthrell, Washington, N.C., to build a garage for city vehicles. The proposed storage unit would be metal and be 30 feet by 100 feet. Funds for the unit will come out of excess in monies revenue sharing.

To request that no parking be allowed on the west side of

truck drivers have complained about having difficulty maneuvering through the street with vehicles parked on both sides of the street. The west side of High Street was chosen because less residents park on that side.

— To place a stop sign on West Avenue.

— To reappoint Burt Tripp to a new three-year term on the Planning Board.

— To participate in the Governor's Highway Safety Program for street sign replacement. The state will pay 70 percent of the cost, and the city will pay 30 percent. Approximately 90 signs in Ayden need replacing. The town's share of the cost would be approximately $600 and the state's share $1,400.

Recreation, Parks Seminar Here

A seminar for Commission Board members of Recreation and Parks Departments of eastern North Carolina will be held beginning at 5:30 p.m. today. The seminar will take place in the new Joint Recreation-Parks/Library Building, 2000 Cedar Lane.

Registration will be at 5:30, followed by dinner at 6, with the seminar to open at 7. The first session will include two topics — Methods of Financing Parks and Recreation Services, with Dr. Leonard Roberts, assistant professor of Parks and Recreation and Conservation, East Carolina University; and Federal and State Assistance, to be discussed by Stephen Moler, Park and Recreation Consultant of Washington.

The second session, to begin at 8:15 p.m., will cover two topics — N. C. Recreation and Parks Society and Its Relationship to You; and The Role of Laymen in Financing Parks and Recreation Services, with Dr. Edgar Hooks, chairman of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission.

Seniors Plan Bus Outing

Town and Country Senior Citizen's Club held its regular monthly meeting at St. Paul's Episcopal Church Fellowship Hall Thursday with 83 members and three guests attending.

Members planning to go to the Chinqua-Penn Plantation House on April 12 are to be at the St. Paul's Church parking lot at 7 a.m. The bus is full with 46 members signed up to go.

The club will have a booth April 29 at the Spring Craft Fair to be held on Evans Mall. All members are asked to contribute to either the Fancy Work table or the Bake Goods table.

New members welcomed into the club included: Mrs. Eva Spain, Mrs. Lindie Bybee, Mrs. Hilda Garmenton, and Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Thompson.

Dr. L. Brewster introduced Keith Knox, of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department who showed a film, entitled, "Safety for Senior Citizens." He also displayed many types of locks and lights.

The members were reminded that the club will hold a luncheon at Bonanza on April 27.

Bullet Wound Said Accidental

A 33-year-old Greenville man was wounded in an accidental shooting incident here early this morning, according to Police Chief Glenn Cannon.

Cannon said Melvin Lee Hoot of 300 South Library St. was shot by a .22 caliber rifle about 2 a.m. as he attempted to remove a cartridge from the chamber of the weapon.

Cannon said officers and members of the Greenville Rescue Squad found Hoot on the floor of a bedroom when they arrived at the home about 2:07 a.m.

Hoot was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of the wound.

Vote Sponsoring State Meeting

Members of ESA Gamma Delta Chapter met at the home of Mrs. Ruth G. Forrest on Thursday night.

They voted to assist the Alpha Omega Chapter in sponsoring a State Council meeting for the 1978-79 year. Plans were made to attend the 26th annual N.C. Convention in Wilmington on May 26, 27, and 28.

Announcement was made that Mrs. Rubelle Goin and Frances Cassick are due their 20-year pens. Both are charter members.

Nominations of officers were made and elections will be held at the next meeting in May. Mrs. Rubelle Goin, president, handed out two survey forms; one in regard to awards at the State Convention; and the other concerning "Needs for Pitt County Women."

Pitt GOP Maps Helms Campaign

Pitt County Republicans met last night to formulate plans for the upcoming Senatorial campaign of Sen. Jesse Helms.

Mrs. John East said indications are that the strongest support for the incumbent Senator will come from the grassroots voter of both parties. Strategy for mobilizing this support is underway, she said.

Persons interested in helping with the Helms campaign may call the Pitt County campaign chairman at 756-1623.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Mild weather is forecast Tuesday from the Southeast to the South west but temperatures will be cool in most northern states. Showers are forecast from the central Gulf to the mid-Atlantic and for northern California and western Plains. Rain is expected for the Minnesota-Dakotas area. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Scattered light rain showers occurred this morning over some western North Carolina areas and in the north central portion in advance of more scattered showers and thunderstorms forecast for this afternoon and tonight.

The rain, first for some time around the state, was associated with a cold front that was to move across the state tonight.

April showers have been conspicuous by their absence and with above normal temperatures and drying winds conditions have become very dry around the state.

A few thunderstorms developed Monday in the south coastal area and rain was heavy in some localities. Some hail was reported in Columbus County from one of the thunderstorms.

Temperatures climbed into the 80s over much of the state Monday, reaching 86 at Raleigh and Charlotte, 85 at Wilmington, 84 at Greensboro and 83 at Asheville. Lows this morning were in the mid and high 60s in many places.

The low of 67 this morning at Raleigh was the warmest on record for April 11.

Faculty Active In Mainstreaming Her Portrait's Seen Often As Emblem

Research Projects For Students

Schools have been mandated by law to provide an integrated educational setting for all types of handicapped students. Faculty in the School of Home Economics at East Carolina University have been active in research projects relative to mainstreaming — a development in which handicapped students benefit educationally and socially from a "normal" classroom setting.

Mrs. Phyllis Spruiell is the author of a publication in "The Journal of Home Economics," which reports a research project where teaching materials were developed for consumer and homemaking teachers to be utilized in teaching clothing construction skills to visually handicapped students. Teaching materials were developed through three modules on hand sewing skills.

They included construction of a blouse or skirt and the construction of a shirt. The classroom environment was rearranged so that certain equipment could be adapted for use by these students. Small equipment that is frequently used in garment construction such as garment gauges, scissors and seam rippers may require special modification. When adapting sewing equipment for visually handicapped students, teachers need to work closely with the students and be receptive to their suggestions for modification.

Tips for teaching visually handicapped were identified by Mrs. Spruiell:

"Be organized, subject matter is best introduced systematically. Use the words 'look' and 'see' as you would when teaching sighted students. Constant use of the word 'feel' will irritate them because it is a continual reminder of their limited vision. 'Emphasize the need for sighted and visually handicapped students to work in teams when appropriate, such as when taking measurements or marking an even hem from the floor. They will feel satisfaction in knowing that sighted peers are marking the same methods of marking, for example, as they are:

"Expect the same competencies from handicapped students and the sighted. The work is either well done or it is not. Blindness should not affect the final evaluation," she said.

Mrs. Marilyn Casto, instructor in the Department of Housing and Management, has developed guidelines for adapting housing for the elderly and handicapped. A complete report on this research was published in the "Housing Educators Journal." She states that "considerable progress has been made in removing architectural barriers from public buildings, but much private and public housing remains inaccessible or inconvenient to the handicapped and elderly."

Her research reveals that adaptive housing may be planned for varying degrees of physical disability, incorporating features which enable individuals to perform certain household tasks and personal living activities. The ability to live independently enhances an individual's self concept and promotes mental and physical stimulation through increased mobility.

The research conducted by Ms. Casto related to the design of housing which includes recommendations for the kitchen, bathroom and general structural components — doors, floors, grab bars and storage. "Many adaptations are neither difficult or expensive to install. Yet, the design of the housing facility determines accessibility and ease of use by handicapped individuals and elderly persons suffering from impaired health. Lack of accessibility hampers independence, restricts living space and may contribute to psychological repercussions," according to Ms. Casto. Therefore, it is important that dwellings be planned for maximum safety and efficiency.

Home economists have historically been involved in promoting research relative to improving family living for all individuals. Research projects conducted by Mrs. Spruiell and Miss Casto contribute to providing independent living for persons physically handicapped.

A native of Mobile, Ala., Mrs. Spruiell received a B.S. in home economics education from the University of Montevallo, Montevallo, Ala. She received her M.S. in clothing and textiles from Florida State University, Tallahassee, Fla. This is her second year at ECU as an assistant professor in the School of Home Economics, teaching in the department of clothing and textiles.

Ms. Casto, from Ripley, W. Va., received her B.S. in home economics education from West Virginia University and her M.S. in home and family life-housing at Florida State University. This is her second year as a lecturer in the School of Home Economics.

The School of Home Economics has been involved in offering special programs relative to the mutual needs and child development services in this area, according to Miriam B. Moore, dean, School of Home Economics.

Dean Moore is currently serving as chairman of a subcommittee on special programs concerning the university's compliances with the Rehabilitation Act.

"Mealtime Manual for People with Disabilities and the Aging" has been revised and is available by mail order.

Revision was done by the Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine of New York University Medical Center and the Campbell Soup Co. Judith L. Klingler, an occupational therapist, is the editor.

The book has more than 100 illustrations and specific information on food preparation for people in wheelchairs, those using crutches, canes or walkers, those with arthritis or use of only one hand, those with visual difficulties and those with limited strength and energy. Basic kitchen design, serving, entertaining, shopping and managing alone are dealt with and sources of additional information are included.

The cost is $3.25 and the address for ordering is Mealtime Manual, Box 38, Rons, Pa., 17572. One should allow six to eight weeks for delivery.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — It was the sun shining on her auburn hair and red sunbonnet that caught the eye of Leroy Payne that April day in 1915.

Payne, a Sun-Maid Raisin Co. executive, saw Lorraine Collett and knew she was the image he wanted for his product.

The result was the picture of a smiling girl wearing a bonnet and holding a basket of raisins, with the sun at her back. It became familiar to millions of Americans and gave Miss Collett a second identity, as the "Sun-Maid Girl."

The auburn hair of Lorraine Collett Petersen, now in her 70s, has grayed, her face has aged and she walks with a cane. But she remembers the day more than 60 years when it all began.

She recalls sitting for three hours a day for almost a month while her portrait was painted. The first effort was rejected because Payne wanted the sun in the background. Miss Collett's hair hanging over her shoulder and her head tilting to one side.

Her association with the raisin industry had begun with a summer job at a Fresno packing plant in 1914, while she was in high school.

The next year, she and two other girls were asked to work in the raisin booth at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition in San Francisco.

In April she returned home to participate in the first Raisin Day Parade. It was while she was drying her hair in the sun on the day of the parade that Payne got the idea for the Sun-Maid symbol.

She was paid $16 a week for working at the fair but says she got nothing to pose for the portrait.

Most people visiting the exposition failed to realize she was the girl on the raisin boxes. A few Fresnoans did recognize her because "my dad had told them," she says.

Workers at the fair were aware of the connection, however, and "the guys from the orchestra said they wanted to dance with the Sun-Maid girl."

When the exposition closed, she studied nursing and continued to work for Sun-Maid, appearing in Raisin Day Parades for a couple of years. Later, she did some modeling, appeared in a few movies and operated a convalescent home for many years.

It wasn't until 1964 that Mrs. Petersen heard from Sun-Maid again. The cooperative invited her to take part in the dedication of a new processing plant at nearby Kingsburg.

Ten years later, Sun-Maid President Frank Light presented Mrs. Petersen with a bronze replica of the Sun-Maid emblem.

In return, the "Sun-Maid Girl" turned over to the company the original portrait she had kept since 1915.

That time, the company paid her $1,700.

FAMILIAR FACE—Lorraine Collett Petersen, now in her 70s, poses in Fresno, Calif., with a bonnet and a basket of raisins, just as she did in 1915 when her portrait became the Sun-Maid Raisins emblem, inset.

Trust This Teen To Behave Herself

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl, and my dad and I disagree on something I hope you will be able to help us settle. He says he will abide by your decision.

My friend Sue's mother works all day and she thinks it's OK for Sue to have friends (both boys and girls) over to the house from 3:30 to 5. At Sue's, we play pool, cards and just talk. My dad has forbidden me to go to Sue's after school anymore. He says he trusts me, but doesn't think that girls my age should be in a house with boys unsupervised. I've tried to tell him that nothing goes on there (it doesn't). He thinks a boy might try to get something off me and I'm not mature enough to say no.

How do you feel about this?
FOURTEEN AND DECENT

DEAR FOURTEEN: If you have proven yourself to be a decent, honest, obedient and sensible girl, I see no reason why you shouldn't be allowed to go to Sue's after school—a few days a week. (Not every day, however. Playing pool and cards and "just talking" is fun, but it doesn't get your homework done.) I think teenagers should be allowed a reasonable amount of freedom to socialize, providing they are always where they say they will be, and always come home when they say they will.

DEAR ABBY: NOT MEDDLING was upset with her daughter-in-law for failing to acknowledge her wedding gifts three months past the wedding. This brings up an important issue: Why wasn't the mother-in-law equally upset with her son? Half the gifts were probably from his friends and relatives. Why didn't he write?

My husband and I both wrote our thank-you notes—he to those he knew, and I to those I knew.

As long as women accept the full burden for these time-consuming tasks, they will be made to feel guilty if the tasks aren't performed.

LUCKY AND KNOWS IT

DEAR LUCKY: You're on target. A surprising number of readers wrote to express the same sensible view.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are getting along in years. He made out a will, but I have none. My husband tells me that if he dies first, everything will go to me.

But what if I die first? Everything I own will go to him, and there are a few personal things I would like members of my family to have. My husband is not the kind of person who would carry out my wishes, even knowing what they were.

I don't want to cause a row, but I would feel better knowing that if I went first, my few personal things would go to those I want to have them. How can this be arranged? I'll be watching for your answer.

OVER 70 IN MISSOURI

DEAR OVER: It's as easy for you to draw up a will as it was for your husband. See your lawyer.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Riddle-Stapleton Vows Solemnized Recently

The First Presbyterian Church here was the scene of the Saturday, April 1, wedding ceremony of Christine Antoinette Stapleton and Robert Gregory Riddle.

The double ring ceremony was performed at 7:00 p.m. by the Rev. Richard R. Gammon.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Hazel F. Stapleton of Greenville, and Mr. Kenneth Stapleton of Portland, Ore. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Riddle of Greenville.

Candlelight Installation Ceremony Held

The St. Peter's Women's Club held its meeting Wednesday in the school hall. Father Paul Byron conducted a candlelight installation ceremony for the officers.

Officers are Bobbie Parsons, president; Linda Thompson, vice president; Shirley Westbrook, secretary; and Kathy Frelke, treasurer.

The meeting was conducted by Ms. Parsons and Dina Dorney, chairman of the St. Patrick's Day party, gave a report on the event held March 18.

Ms. Parsons reported 14 dozen cupcakes were made by new women of the parish for the Special Olympics held April 5. It was announced that the club's annual card party would be postponed until September.

Sister Chris Gellings announced a day of retreat to be held for the women of the parish May 12 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., and the topic will be "Women and Mary."

Patrick O'Neal of St. Gabriel's Parish spoke on a "Walk for Humanity," sponsored by the Greenville Hunger Coalition.

The club will sponsor a dinner and reception for Bob Lloyd, who is to be ordained in the parish, May 19.

A gift was presented to outgoing President Lud Sherwood.

Bible Study To Be Completed

The Patient Circle of The King's Daughters will meet Wednesday at the home of Mrs. R. C. Henry and Miss Martha Lee Cowell.

The Rev. Adrian Brown will complete the Bible study. The meeting will begin at 3 p.m.

There is no conversation in this world as absolute... as unquestioning... as joyous as that of the women on candid television commercials.

Within seconds after being confronted by a pitchman with a microphone in his hand, they drop a product they've been using for 35 years like a bad habit and become instant disciples of a new detergent, a pain remedy, or a bucket of chicken.

I watched a supermarket interview with a woman the other night who, when asked which her husband would prefer with his chicken — potatoes or stuffing — replied confidently, "Potatoes, of course."

When they got that turkey on the phone, he said, "Stuffing." I'd give him stuffing — right up his nose. That poor woman

Freshness, Speed, Heat Are Important

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Harry Fries's newsletter-cookbook for wok owners provides, among other things, bi-monthly menus using such dishes as spicy shredded beef and vegetables, and chicken balls with lychee fruit.

In a recent issue, "Wok Talk" quoted three rules to successful stir-frying in the bowl-shaped oriental pans:

— Use the freshest vegetables around: changing your menu is preferable to compromising on the freshness of leafy vegetables or the crispness of carrots, turnips and other roots.

— Cook with high heat. This can be unnerving for beginners because the hot fat will sizzle and smoke before food is

Lift For Sheltered Workshop

Congressman Walter B. Jones Friday announced a $2.19 million grant for the East Carolina Sheltered Workshop.

The grant, only the third of its kind in the nation, will provide funds for a $3.71 million residential and recreational facility for the workshop.

The new unit will have 89,300 square feet of space. It will provide living area for 40 male and 40 female clients and apartments and suites for staff. There will also be a gym, swimming pool, bowling lanes, locker rooms, library, infirmary, food service and other facilities.

It is anticipated that another $1.15 million for the project will come from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Howard Dawkins, director of the workshop, said, and the workshop hopes to get $225,000 from the state with the remaining $450,000 to be obtained by contributions.

The Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop has done an outstanding job of serving as a training facility for handicapped people since its inception. It now serves a 17 county area and has 60 staff members.

There have been several expansion of facilities over the years. The one currently being financed and planned will give the workshop a structure which will greatly improve its ability to be of service to its clients. We hope there will be no delay in getting construction underway.

Training Ground For Future Leadership

It has been 17 years since the North Carolina Student Legislature met in the state Capitol, but the group returned there last week.

And why not? Among those active in the group in the 1960s is our now governor, Jim Hunt.

The Student Legislature, which includes representatives from 25 N. C. colleges, was put out of the Capitol building in 1957 after debating racial issues, which were inflammatory at the time. Since then, many of the matters debated have come to pass and are no longer even issues.

The historic Capitol building is used for ceremonial occasions now. The N. C. Student Legislature should be as welcome there as any group.

A Grand Old Grammar

SCRABBLE, Va. — Those of us who write for a living should be indulged a little shop talk now and then. That is what I have in mind today in paying tribute to the late George Oliver Curme, and in pushing a new edition of his grammar of the English language. If the writing art doesn't interest you, you might want to turn to something else.

Curme (rhymes with firm) was one of the greatest language scholars of this century. He is still vividly remembered at Northwestern University in Evanston, where he served as professor of Germanic philology from 1897 to 1933. As professor emeritus, he taught for a few years at the University of Southern California. He did 30 years ago this month at 88.

The old gentleman is recalled in just those words — an old gentleman, white-haired, wire-rimmed glasses, small goatee. It was said that he almost literally lived in the old Orrington Lum library, where he could be found in his cubicle seven days and seven nights a week. His passion was grammar. He loved the forms of speech as men love stamps, or coins, or works of art, but he was a good professor: He usually kept his passion at arm's length.

In 1931 Curme published a volume titled, with admirable brevity, "Syntax." Four years later he produced a companion volume, "Parts of Speech." They summed up his life's work. First published by D.C. Heath, the books have been out of print for 15 years. Now they have been handsomely revived by the editors of Verbatim, the most charming of all linguistic publications, in a two-volume set at $35. The address is Essex, Conn. 06426.

Curme was a meticulous scholar, but never a hide-bound one. He took the English language as he found it, warts and all. "Good English," he wrote, "varies according to the occasion, just as our dress varies according to the occasion. Evening dress would be out of place in playing a football game. Loose colloquial English, as often described in this book, is frequently as appropriate as a loose-fitting garment in moments of relaxation."

Curme had nothing but scorn for "conservative grammarians" or "lesser grammarians who not only show their bad taste, but do a great deal of harm in that they impart erroneous ideas of language." The conservative grammarian, he sneered, regards all change as decay, mourns the present slovelly use of the indicative, and hasn't "the slightest insight into the fine constructive work of the last centuries in rebuilding the subjunctive."

So much for the old guard. Curme had a large tolerance for the split infinitive: "It cannot even in the strictest scientific sense be considered ungrammatical." He provided an example: "He failed to entirely comprehend it." If the adverb is moved forward, it becomes a modifier for "failed" instead of for "comprehend," and the meaning of the sentence becomes ambiguous.

Curme provided a few strictures on the placement of "only." The careful writer will watch where he puts this innocent little adverb, for its position is vital to meaning: "Only John passed in Latin." "John passed only in Latin." It is a word to keep one's eye on.

Failed Deaf Needs

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal office charged with protecting the civil rights of the handicapped is under investigation for possibly discriminating against deaf people.

Chuck Goldman, general counsel of the federal Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board, confirmed Monday his office is checking a complaint against the Office for Civil Rights in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The complaint charges that HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. and civil rights director David Tadel have failed to provide equipment for the deaf to communicate with the civil rights office by telephone.

The complaint was filed by the National Association of the Deaf and Charles Crowe, a Morganton, N.C., deaf man.

Crowe went to the Office for Civil Rights more than a year ago to complain about a school for the deaf in North Carolina.

The civil rights office wrote Crowe, asking him "to call collect on the telephone to talk about his case," the complaint said. "However, OCR had no telecommunication device for deaf people to receive the deaf man's call."

Deaf people can hook up a teletype machine to a standard telephone line and send printed messages to an office with similar equipment. The office can send return messages.

Lou Mathis, a spokesman for the Office for Civil Rights, said the office has been trying for "almost a year" to purchase the teletypes for its Washington and 10 regional offices. But he said procedural problems within HEW have held up the order.

Marc P. Charnatz, attorney for the National Association of the Deaf Legal Defense Fund, said the lack of such equipment was a barrier to communication that prevented deaf people from using federal facilities.

The Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board was established to ensure that federally financed facilities built or remodeled since 1968 are accessible to the handicapped.

Califano is chairman of the board, but Goldman said he will not be permitted to participate in the case because he and his agency are subjects of the complaint. The board includes eight other department heads.

40 Years Ago Today

April 11, 1938

Although not rising as rapidly as on Saturday, the Tar River continued to rise today and at 8 a.m. was standing at 12 feet, 2 inches, a foot higher than on Sunday morning.

B. T. Clark, in charge of the local weather bureau, has warned that this stream would reach flood stage this week. Fourteen feet is regarded as flood stage for the river here.

State Highway patrolmen who heretofore have been on duty seven days a week, and on call at all hours of the day, will get one day off a week, effective immediately.

Specific days have been set for the patrolmen. Lieut. Lester Jones, head of Troop A of the force, declared in making the announcement.

State Slow To Adopt 911

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — It has now been 10 years since AT&T made use of a simple telephone number possible nationwide for emergency use.

Some 600 communities across the nation now have the 911 system in operation.

Only four North Carolina communities are in that list: Durham, Winston-Salem, Lincoln County and Avery County.

And while some others in this state are currently talking about offering the central call service, implementation is far away from most — it takes about 18 months to iron out all the wrinkles.

According to specialists in the state's Division of Crime Control, benefits are many: a simple, three-digit number to remember for any problem from ambulance to police to fire; travelers and newcomers can get help even when they don't know who to ask; the blind can dial the easy number in the dark; response time can be trimmed dramatically.

Closer Work
Experience with the system has demonstrated that participating agencies often draw closer together as they establish communications to make the program work.

And another plus has been that the mere process of planning installation of the 911 system causes a community to take stock of what services it has to offer, what others might be needed, and where unnecessary duplication exists.

State officials are pushing the system and are offering technical advice and information on where state or federal funds may be found to help.

So what is the holdup?
There appears to be two principal ones: money and politics. The politics come in when service agencies begin fretting over their turf and autonomy and see central dispatch as damaging to their identity and image. The money problem is obvious, depending on the size of the community and the complexity of the system, the cost varies, but can be sizable.

Essential to the operation is a central dispatch office manned around the clock with trained people to take calls and trigger the proper responses. Obviously, the size of the community will dictate the size of that operation.

State experts identify five key issues which must be tackled: service area; agencies and their resources and jurisdictions; scope of services to be included; location of the answering center; and telephone company service areas.

Local Matter
Critical to success are local determination and planning. A planning committee is needed with representatives of the participating agencies, citizens, and elected officials. The goals should be to provide as broad and effective a service as possible for the citizens, say state experts.

The system can work on essentially three levels: a simple telephone answering and transfer station; a telephone answering and unit dispatch service; or a complete response center with all agencies communicating with one another and the central office through the center.

State officials say the fear of local agencies that they become subordinate to central control is unfounded. The agencies continue to operate their own program, and while greater cooperation generally results, department heads do not surrender their authority.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Carter On An Urban Limb

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — A clue to where Jimmy Carter has gone wrong is found in the rejection of four-month-old advice that he would be "out on a limb" if new spending programs for the cities were proposed without the bureaucratic streamlining promised in the Carter campaign.

A Dec. 5 staff memorandum containing that warning is consigned to limbo. President Carter's urban plan unveiled March 27 contains not a word about reorganizing the inefficient, sprawling bureaucracy which sprays tax money into the cities. No such plan will be offered this year. Nor is there any firm commitment for the future.

Since the mess in urban programs generally (and in the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) specifically) is not disputed at the White House, the reason for not reorganizing it this year is wholly political. Administration officials privately admit they dare not anger big city mayors and black leaders in an election year.

That shows Mr. Carter following the conventional wisdom in politics that he defied in his spectacular climb from nowhere. Preoccupied with global diplomacy, he now relies for domestic strategy on the judgment of conventional politicians. So the pledge to reorganize government that helped win the presidency sinks to low priority.

This was not so clear last Dec. 5 when a staffer named Lester M. Salamon drafted a seven-page memo to his boss Harrison Wellford, head of the President's Reorganization Project. He warned that the evolving urban plan "lacks a coherent focus and consists basically of proposals for expanded funding of existing programs capped by a highly dubious, free-standing development bank that will do as much to contribute to the fragmentation of federal efforts as it will to promote economic growth in the cities."

This "leaves the President out on a limb with respect to his campaign pledge to simplify and rationalize existing programs before adding new dollars or new programs to them," Salamon's memo continued. "As the institutional embodiment of those pledges, our failure to protect the President vigorously on this point could be costly."

It was too late, said Salamon, for reorganization schemes if the urban plan were released before Christmas. But they could be ready by March. Certainly there was no disputing the need: "All parties seem to agree that the fragmented, disjointed character of federal programs in this area is a big part of the problem."

"All parties" did not include HUD. The attitude there was epitomized by Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris on NBC's "Meet the Press" April 2 when asked why not one existing program was eliminated: "There were no programs that we felt at this moment should be eliminated because each was meeting a very real need."

HUD's resistance coincided with the program review presided over by Vice President Walter Mondale to establish priorities for 1978. Mondale, a more conventional politician than the President, was scarcely the one to place reorganization above spending. "When we talked to Mondale about reorganization," one reorganizer told us, "we heard doubts about how much political freight the President can carry."

"We lost urban reorganization in the politics of 1978," one insider told us. Voluntemous option papers presented Mr. Carter for determining his urban plan did not mention reorganization. Nor did reorganizer Wellford succeed in efforts to set a date in 1979 for reorganization.

Although Salamon's memo expressed fear that issuing the urban plan "could foreclose important reorganization options," it is not too late. Salamon argued then that the urban development bank "would run counter to the President's reorganization commitments by establishing a new entity that duplicates functions already performed elsewhere." Now, Congress may save Mr. Carter from himself by delaying action on the bank this year.

Even so, who will effectively promote this and other (Continued on page 5)

CALL UP RESERVES
Having power and resources in reserve is an indispensable element for success in life.

We wind up a clock which runs for a number of days. The energy we put into the winding is held in reserve by the spring and is gradually released as the operation of the machinery requires. This is one way of keeping power in reserve.

The businessman who cannot throw money into his business to keep it afloat through a financial crisis joins the long line of business failures. The man or woman who enters upon illness with no stored-up reserve of health or determination will find recovery doubtful, or at best find convalescence protracted.

The great message of religion is that the resources of God are placed at the command of humble people if they will but have faith enough to lay hold on the divine promises. God has the reserves laid up for us, and they are ours for the asking.

Study Utility Rate-Setting

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Steadily rising electric bills have focused new attention on the way utility rates are calculated and on possible changes in the traditional system under which big customers pay proportionately less money.

Proposals pending in Congress would require state utility commissions to consider new and controversial ways of setting rates and distributing power. Among the alternatives are "lifeline" systems to provide a minimum amount of electricity at rock-bottom prices for the poor and variable rates keyed to the time of day or season of the year.

A recent report by the Cooperative Extension Service of New York State showed that electricity costs have increased by 78 percent over the past 10 years. The recent coal strike and settlement boosted prices still further.

More and more of the fuel used to produce energy in the United States goes to generate electricity. The National Conference of State Legislatures says 15 percent of all energy consumed in 1950 was used to generate electricity; by 1976, 29 percent of all energy wound up as electricity.

High consumption can be traced to the days when fuel was abundant. People were encouraged to use lots of electricity. "The more electricity demanded, the lower the per kilowatt costs of production," said the Cooperative Extension Service.

This situation led most utilities to establish what is known as a declining block rate structure — the more electricity you use, the less you pay per kilowatt hour (kwh).

Supporters of the declining rate structure, including large industrial users, note that it still costs less to deliver 1,000 kwh to one large user than to deliver 100 kwh to 10 small customers. "Rates must reflect cost of service," said Jay B. Kennedy, executive director of the Electricity Consumers Resource Council, an organization of industrial users.

Here are some alternatives to the declining block rate structure:

LIFELINE RATES — Provide minimum service to all customers at low prices. Charges are set just below the cost of production. The utility makes up for lost revenues by billing customers who use more than the minimum at a rate slightly above the cost of production.

TIME USE RATES — Designed to reduce peak demand. Utilities often must build facilities which are used only during certain periods; this adds to costs. To spread out demand, utilities charge a higher rate per kwh for electricity used during peak periods.

INVERTED RATES — The opposite of the declining block rate; the more you use, the more you pay per kwh.

FLAT RATES — All customers pay the same amount per kwh, no matter how much they use.

ECU Official Directs Program At Conference

ECU News Bureau
ATLANTIC BEACH — About 40 personnel managers from North Carolina institutions of higher education are expected here April 27-28 for the annual spring conference of the N.C. Higher Education Personnel Association.

The program is directed by Michael Bowman of East Carolina University's Department of Personnel, one of the association's two vice presidents. All sessions will be held at the Ramada Inn on Salter Path Road, and keynote speaker at the event will be Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU chancellor. Other speakers and their topics are:

• Modern Management Techniques for Employee Relations. Sam Badgett, Director of Employee Relations, Office of State Personnel; "Employment Discrimination," Elizabeth Bunting, Ass't Attorney General; and "Four Dimensions of Communication," James Rees, associate professor of speech at ECU.

Overall theme for the conference is "Personnel Management in Higher Education Is for Real," said Bowman.

Other current officers in the association are Donald Currie of UNC-Charlotte, president; Aletha Rease of N.C. Central University, vice president - information; C.B. Lyman of N.C. State University, secretary; and Richard Howe of Appalachian State Univ., treasurer.

Regional delegates are Roy Jones of Appalachian State University (western), Mazie Bullard of UNC-Greensboro

then got carried away. One of his fascinations was the verb form known professionally as the "copula." These are verbs that carry some extra, unseen weight. When we say that "the book is on the table," we are saying that the book is lying on the table. When we say that "the door blew open," we mean that the wind blew the door open. To Curme, every such copula was an occasion of real excitement. But, then, he could get wrought up about the optative subjunctive. Not many persons ever truly loved the optative subjunctive. Curme did.

Browsing through the two volumes, one is bound to be impressed by the complexity and richness of English speech. Such is our awe of foreign tongues that we tend to believe Italian, or French, or Russian surpasses our own language in nuances of expression. Curme, the careful collector, made it evident in ten thousand examples that English is capable of serving purposes both subtle and precise. He was a professor who left a lovely legacy behind.

Arrest Man On Two Charges

William T. Atkinson, 32 of 1805B Norcott Cir. was arrested on disorderly conduct and possession of marijuana charges following an incident at Anthony's Dollar Store on West Fifth Street about 4:35 p.m. yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Atkinson was arrested on disorderly conduct charges. When officers searched him, they found a small amount of marijuana in his possession, according to the chief.

reorganization schemes now that Bert Lance is gone? The logical answer is the man who claimed national credit for modernizing the Georgia state government: Jimmy Carter. But even Carter aides say the President, entranced by his role of world leader, has no time for such tedium.

Filling in blank spaces on multiple-choice option papers five days before the urban plan was released, the President instinctively rejected new spending programs and then characteristically was talked into accepting them after all (the final, chaotic meeting lasting to 2 a.m.). But there is no evidence he felt "out on a limb" without a reorganization plan. That supports those presidential aides who fear Mr. Carter has forgotten a major force behind his ascent and his brief enjoyment of national popularity.

Health Board Gets 5-Year Plan

A draft of the Five-Year Plan for the Pitt County Community Health Department was presented at a recent Board of Health meeting.

Making the presentation was Health Director Roger Barnaby. The major emphasis of the plan is to respond to the expected growth in the county and to expand prevention-oriented services, Barnaby said. Early detection has been much of the Health Department activity in the past, he said, and this will continue, but with added programs of outreach and education proposed in such areas as maternal and child health, nutrition, family planning, health education, rural housing, and children's health. All health care and health-related agencies and communities have assisted in development of the plan, he said. He praised the officials of the ECU Health Affairs Division, School of Medicine, School of Nursing and School of Allied Health for continued assistance and support.

Board Chairman Ed Warren

commended the Health for its work on this plan.

Warren also commended the Department and County and Grifton officials for the development of the new Satellite Clinic of the Town of Grifton, which opened Monday, Apr. 3. He praised the local veterinarians for their assistance during the recent very successful community rabies clinic program.

A new committee structure for the Board of Health has been developed, Warren announced. He said it will assist Board members in promoting the Health Department activities.

The Board approved further extension of contracts to provide laboratory and diagnostic services to patients at the Health Department.

Reports were heard from the Health Director, the Medical Consultant, Dr. Earl Trevathan, and the Division Chiefs of the Health Department.

Spring Meet On April 22

The spring meeting of the Free Will Baptist Historical Society will be held Saturday, April 22 at the Ayden FWB Church. Following the meeting, lunch will be served by the Woman's Auxiliary of the church.

The focus of the program will be on the history of the Ayden Seminary and Eureka College. Included will be biographical remarks on Thomas E. Peden, the first superintendent of the Seminary and other notable pioneer Free Will Baptist educators. Several alumni of the institutions are expected to be present and share their experiences while enrolled at these institutions.

All members of the Society and other interested persons are invited to attend the meeting. Membership is open to all interested in preserving materials on the history of Free Will Baptists and their heritage. Miss Louise Edgerton, Route 2, Pikeville, N.C. is treasurer. Dr. Michael Pelt, Mount Olive, N.C. is current President of the Society.

How your old car can get you the best deal on a new car.

When you buy a car, there's more to consider than just the price of the car and the amount of money you're going to have to borrow.

There's also the amount of money that you put into your old car to get it ready for trade-in.

Some people spend too much; some spend too little.

Either way, it can make as much as a $500 difference in the total amount of money you spend.

So here are some tips on getting your old car ready.

1. Wash and polish the car; touch up paint and chrome.

2. Clean the upholstery, vacuum carpet, wash mats, clean out glove compartment and trunk.

3. Check gas, water, oil, brake and transmission fluids; make sure tires have the right pressure.

4. Replace burned-out light bulbs. You can do all this yourself for no more than $25.

Now here are some expenses you should avoid:

1. A new paint job. It can make it appear that you're trying to "cover up" some major problem.

2. Major repairs. It'll cost you a lot more than you'll get out of it. So settle for a lower trade-in, if there's a big problem with the car.

All told, this should give you a "better deal" on a new car.

And, if you'd like an idea of the amount you can borrow before you look for a new car, come see us.

We'll give you a fast, direct answer, not a runaround. We'll work out the payment plan that works best for you. (If you like, we can even arrange automatic payments from your NCNB Checking Account.)

In short, we'll do all we can to make things easier for you. Which is probably why, in one way or another, more people borrow money from us than any other bank in North Carolina.

Soviet Diplomat Refuses Return Home

By SAMUEL KOO
 Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The highest-ranking Soviet employee of the United Nations, Arkady N. Shevchenko, is in hiding after apparently defecting. An application to the United States for asylum is expected.

But in Moscow, a woman who said she was his wife today accused U.S. authorities of a "crude provocation," claimed her husband "never had any intention" of staying in the United States and said the Americans must be holding him forcibly.

Shevchenko, the $76,000-a-year undersecretary-general for political and Security Council affairs, left his job six days ago because of "differences with his government," a U.N. statement said.

Associated Press reporters calling "Shevchenko" entries in the Moscow telephone directory spoke with a woman who identified herself as Leongina Shevchenko, the diplomat's wife.

She said she had returned from New York for fear the Americans would seize her and other family members as well as her husband.

"What they are saying about him is a provocation," she said. "He is a marvelous father and husband. He cannot live without his work and his family. I am 100 percent sure he will be returning. I know, and am certain. I have lived with him for 27 years ..."

In Washington, the State Department said it had been contacted by Ernest Gross, Shevchenko's American lawyer, who indicated that the 47-year-old Russian would not return to the Soviet Union.

State Department spokesman Tom Reston said Shevchenko had not asked for asylum. But he said Soviet officials had requested a meeting with Shevchenko and that Gross, a former assistant secretary of state and ex-delegate to the United Nations, arranged the meeting, a formality that often precedes granting of asylum.

Reston did not disclose the place or time of the meeting. Gross was reported in Washington Monday night, and there was speculation that Shevchenko was with him to meet with representatives of the Soviet Embassy there.

An authoritative diplomatic source at the United Nations, who asked not to be identified, said Shevchenko was in the process of seeking asylum, the first U.N. employee ever to do so anywhere.

Unconfirmed reports said Shevchenko refused an order from the Soviet government to return home and that his wife and daughter left for Moscow over the weekend after "a violent quarrel."

10-Year-Old Recognized

Rudy Mills Jr., 10, of Raleigh has been named a North Carolina Amateur Athletics Association All Star in recognition of his outstanding athletic performance in 1977.

At the North Carolina Junior Olympics, Boy's under-10 division, last June, Rudy won first place in long jump (13 feet, nine and a half inches) and first place in high jump (breaking the N. C. record of four feet).

At the Regional Junior Olympics, held in Alabama with participants from seven states, he won first in the long jump (14 feet, one inch) and high jump (four feet, six and three-fourths inches), setting new fourth records.

He also placed first in the long jump at an invitational athletic meet in Maryland.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Mills Sr. of Raleigh and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mills of Greenville.

Continue Probe Murder Case

Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning that investigation is continuing in the murder of Marvin Earl Stepps, 33 of 1407 Mills St. here early Saturday morning.

The chief said Stepps was shot two times with a .410 gauge shotgun.

Stepps' wife, Lois Ann Stepps, told officers a black man entered their home, shot her husband, and abducted and assaulted her, the chief said.

Cannon said another couple, Mr. and Mrs. Thad Franklin Anderson of Route 5, Greenville, were in another bedroom of the dwelling at the time of the shooting.

The incident occurred about 5 a.m.

Lt. Gov. Speaker For Halifax Day

HALIFAX — Lt. Governor Jimmy Green will be the featured speaker at the annual Halifax Day celebration on Wednesday, April 12.

This year Halifax Day marks the 202nd anniversary of the signing of the Halifax Resolves — the document instructing North Carolina's delegates to the Continental Congress "to concur with the delegates of the other colonies in declaring independence."

North Carolina's was the first such official action made by any of the American colonial provinces.

Ceremonies will be at 2 p.m. at the Joseph Montfort Amphitheater in the Historic Halifax District. The event will include the presentation of Halifax Resolves Awards, given annually for outstanding work in the field of restoration.

Costumed guides will conduct tours through the various restored buildings beginning at 9 a.m. until noon, and again from 1 to 2 p.m. and from 3 to 5 p.m. Visitors can receive a map of Halifax showing points of historic interest by asking for the map at the Visitor Center.

An 18th century craft house featuring approximately 30 working craftsmen will be held in the downtown business district. Two art exhibits will be held at the Halifax County Library, and drill formations will be conducted by members of the Second N. C. Regiment of Foot, Revolutionary War.

All of the day-long activities are free, and the public is invited to attend.

mercial use under the recommendation by the board.

The commercial use on the southern section corresponds with the scheduled development, it was explained, while the parking on the Fifth Street end does not conform with the present plan.

Laney noted that Carolina Office and Equipment Co. has already purchased the triangular section and construction of their new facility is expected soon.

The commission is asking for city concurrence in the proposed change and following Council consideration, the matter would be forwarded to the Department of Housing and Urban Development as a proclaimer change for implementation and concurrence.

Ed Cobb, staff rehabilitation officer, reported that a Section 115 grant was completed in the Southside area since the last meeting and a 313 loan will be closed this week in the Riverdale section. The staff, he said, is working on three more loans now.

Mrs. Brewington told the commissioners that two tenants were relocated from the West Meadowbrook area since the March meeting.

Obituary Column

Fulcher
VANCEBORO — The Rev. Davis "Dave" F. Fulcher, 77, retired Pentecostal Holiness minister, died Monday at his home here.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 3 p.m. in the Vanceboro Pentecostal Holiness Church. Burial will be in Celestial Memorial Gardens, Vanceboro. The body will be taken from the Wilkerson Funeral Home to the church one hour before the services.

The Rev. Fulcher, a Craven County native, spent all his life in the Vanceboro community. For more than 45 years he was an active Pentecostal Holiness minister and held pastorates in Craven, Pamlico, Beaufort, Onslow, Halifax and Pitt Counties.

In 1950 he organized and was a charter member of the Vanceboro Pentecostal Holiness Church, the fellowship hall of which was named in his honor.

Surviving Rev. Fulcher are his wife, Mrs. Nora T. Fulcher; two daughters, Mrs. Juanita Hartley and Mrs. Jeanette Boyd, both of Rt. 1, Erul; a brother, John B. Fulcher of Vanceboro; a sister, Mrs. Vivian Willis of Vanceboro; four grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the Wilkerson Funeral Home tonight from 7 to 9 o'clock and will be at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Juanita Hartley, near Askins.

Manning
BURGAU — Clywood Ashley Manning Jr., 54, died Sunday.

Memorial services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday in King's Chapel Community Church conducted by the Rev. Victor Brice.

Mr. Manning had been manager of Holly Shelter Game Refuge for the past 29 years under the Wildlife Resources Commission. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. He was a member of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Moose Lodge.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mildred Nelson Manning of the home; two sons, Clywood Ashley (Cam) Manning III of the home, and Ashley Nelson Manning of Wallace; one daughter, Mrs. Lisa M. Wells of Burgaw; three brothers, Kirk Manning of Clemson, S.C., R.D. Manning of Charlotte, and Bobby Gene Manning of Lexington.

Arrested For Store Break-In

Herbert Williams, 18, of Rt. 4, Greenville, was arrested Saturday by Pitt deputies and charged with the breaking, entering and larceny and attempted safe robbery at a store on the Belvoir Highway.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson reported that deputies charged Williams with breaking into the Convenient World grocery around 3 a.m. Saturday, taking a quantity of cigarettes and other items valued at $175, and attempting to force open to a safe.

Sheriff Tyson said that entrance to the store was gained through a back door.

Williams, he said, was arrested at 5:30 p.m. at his Rt. 4 residence. Bond was set at $500 with investigation of the incident continuing.

Paxton Learns Quickly, Then Gives Bosox Lesson Of His Own

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer Mike Paxton quickly learned what he already knew about the Boston Red Sox ... and then he taught them a little something about Mike Paxton. If any of the Red Sox care to peruse the team's media guide

AL Roundup or listen to Manager Don Zimmer, they will learn that the descriptions for Paxton include "aggressiveness" and "competitor." But for a while Monday it appeared as though the word for the 24-year-old right-hander would be "showers." Paxton, one of four players sent from Boston to Cleveland late last month in the Dennis Eckersley deal, inherited a 4-3 lead in the sixth inning of a game the Indians went on to win 5-4 on Ron Pruitt's ninth-inning single.

Paxton immediately surrendered a game-tying home run to Boston catcher Carlton Fisk, his former batterymate, and then watched his outfielders flag down shots off the bats of Fred Lynn and George Scott.

But from that point on he yielded only a fluke single before giving way to Jim Kern in the ninth.

In other American League action, the Kansas City Royals extended the Baltimore Orioles' winless streak to four games with a 4-2 victory, the Texas Rangers downed the New York Yankees 5-2, the Oakland A's nipped the Seattle Mariners 1-0 and the California Angels blanked the Minnesota Twins 3-0.

A's 1, Mariners 0 Rookie John Johnson and reliever Dave Heaverlo combined on a three-hitter in the A's home opener that drew an unexpectedly good turnout of 17,283. The A's, who seemed destined for a move to Denver until a week ago, were cheered enthusiastically by the crowd, which was 5,000 more than last year's home opener. Gary Alexander drove in the run with a first-inning single off Glenn Abbott after Miguel Dilone doubled and moved to third on a groundout.

Royals 4, Orioles 2 Al Cowens drove in three runs with a pair of triples and Paul Splittorff checked Baltimore on seven hits through 8-13 innings. Cowens tagged Nelson Briles for a two-run triple in the third inning and tripled again in the eighth.

Rangers 5, Yankees 2 Texas snapped Dick Tidrow's magic spell on Toby Harrah's RBI double, Claudell Washington's two-run single and Richie Zisk's two-run homer. It was the first time Texas had beaten Tidrow in eight career decisions. Meanwhile, Dock Ellis held the Yankees to one hit and an unearned run through five innings before his shoulder tightened.

Angels 3, Twins 0 Don Baylor's two-run homer in the seventh inning following Joe Rudi's double broke up a scoreless duel between Ken Brett and Dave Goltz. Brett scattered five hits, walked two and struck out the same number and was helped by a pair of brilliant fielding plays by second baseman Bobby Grich.

PEMBROKE — Pembroke State University capitalized on eight East Carolina errors for five unearned runs as the Braves took a 9-8 victory over the Bucs last night.

The Bucs, who fell behind when Pembroke scored four runs in the third inning, had the tying run at third in the top of the ninth. Bob Patterson, running for Max Raynor, was on third with two away. He tried to score on a partially blocked wild pitch and was put out at the plate.

East Carolina scored first in the game when Billy Best reached on a fielder's choice in the first and Pete Paradossi followed with a single. Bobby Supel brought them in with a base hit. Pembroke scored a single run in the bottom of the initial frame. Butch Gillis singled, advanced when Johnny Corbett reached on a fielder's choice, and scored on John Goette's hit.

Corbett and Mike Leonard led off the third with base hits for Pembroke and Kelvin Sampson followed with a home run. David McAllister then tripled for the Braves and came home when David Ellen reached on an error to make it 5-2.

The Bucs fought back to tie with a run in the fourth and two more in the top of the fifth. In the fourth, Supel got on via a Pembroke error and scored on Jerry Carraway's triple. Butch Davis homered for the Pirates in the fifth after Paradossi had reached on a double.

The Braves regained the lead in the bottom of the inning, however. Sampson got on by a Pirates misplay and McAllister walked. The runners advanced on a sacrifice and Sampson scored when ECU catcher Scott Layden tried a pickoff play and overthrew third. McAllister scored on a suicide squeeze by Ellen.

The Braves built an 8-5 lead in the seventh as Sampson singled and came in on McAllister's double.

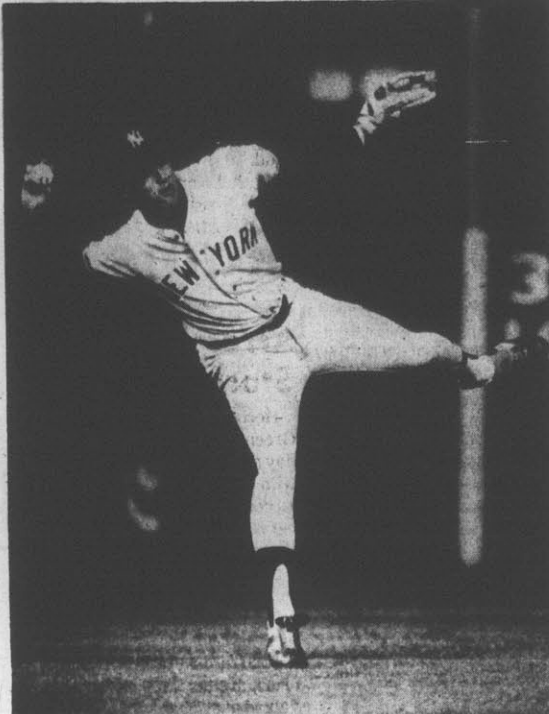

The Bucs got two back in the eighth. Raynor led off with a solo homer and Robert Brinkley, who reached on a single, scored on Eddie Gates' sacrifice fly.

The winning run came in the bottom of the inning when Pembroke's Gillis scored. Tommy Lowry led off the inning with a walk and Gillis, attempting to sacrifice him to second, reached on an error. Corbett got on by a fielder's choice and Lowry was thrown out. Leonard's single scored Gillis.

A Pirate rally in the ninth came up short. With two away, Supel singled and moved to second on Raynor's walk. Brinkley doubled in Supel before Patterson, running for Raynor, was put out.

The loss drops the Pirate record to 16-12 on the year, while Pembroke is now 5-14. The Pirates have another game tonight when they play host to UNC-Wilmington at 7:30.

Roanoke Wins Track Event

ROBERSONVILLE — Roanoke High School captured first place in a three-way Eastern Plains Conference meet yesterday.

The Redskins finished the afternoon with 91 points, while South Edgecombe had 64, and Saratoga had 15.

Roanoke won ten of the individual events, while South Edgecombe took four. Roanoke also won both of the relays.

Larry Williams won the high jump and both of the hurdles to be a triple winner for Roanoke, while Robert Coefield took the mile and the 800 runs.

Roanoke travels to South Edgecombe on Thursday.

Babe Ruth Registers

The Greenville Recreation Department will conduct registration April 12-14 for the summer Prep League (age 13) Babe Ruth League (age 14-15) and Senior Babe Ruth League (age 16-18) baseball programs.

Registration will be from 4-6 p.m. each day at the Elm Street Gym. Each participant will be required to register, including those who played last year. All first-year players must also bring their birth certificates. Players will be placed in the leagues according to their age on August 1, 1978.

Tryout dates for the three leagues will be conducted as follows: Prep League (April 17 and 18 from 4-6 p.m. at Jaycee Park); Babe Ruth League (April 19 and 20 from 4-6 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium); Sr. Babe Ruth League (April 21 from 6-8 p.m. at Guy Smith and April 22 from 10-12 a.m. at Guy Smith). For further information, call 752-4137, ext. 220.

Rampettes Top Wilson Runners

Elizabeth Johnson won three events to lead the Rose High girls' track team to a 67-56 victory over Wilson Fike yesterday afternoon.

Johnson was the only Rampette to win more than one event. She took first places in the long jump (15-1), the triple jump (33-4) and the 220 (:27.72).

Linksters Take Win

Rose High School's golf team added another victim to its growing list yesterday, downing Roanoke Rapids.

The Rampants finished the afternoon with 302 strokes, while Roanoke Rapids trailed far behind with 341.

Don White led the Rose golfers with a 74, while Sterling Ashby had a 75. Mike Moye carded a 76, while Greg House had a 77 and Pat Dye Jr. had a 77.

The Rampants return to action on Thursday, traveling to Kinston.

North Lenoir Takes Meet

DEEP RUN — North Lenoir captured first place in a three-way track meet held at South Lenoir, yesterday. The Hawks finished the day with 73 points.

Farmville Central was second with 53, while the hosting South Lenoir team finished with 44.

North Lenoir won nine events, while Farmville took four and South Lenoir won one. North Lenoir won both of the relays.

Amos Pearcill led the Hawks with four victories, taking the triple jump, the high jump, and the high and low hurdles. Wiggins added the 100 and 220 dashes.

Horace Williams took three of the wins for Farmville, winning the pole vault, the mile run and the 800.

Farmville returns to action on Wednesday, playing host to Greene Central and North Pitt.

L.A., Cincy Make Most Of Early Games

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Both the Cincinnati Reds and Los Angeles Dodgers know the value of a hot start in a pennant race and are making the most of their early games in the 1978 baseball season. They're also making a shambles of the Houston Astros. The Reds started off the season in high style by beating Houston four straight games. Then on Monday night, the Dodgers also pumped up their record to 4-0 by whipping the beleagued Astros 5-2. In other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals walloped the Pittsburgh Pirates 11-2. The Atlanta Braves edged the San Diego Padres 8-7 and the New York Mets blanked the Chicago Cubs 6-0.

NL Roundup

The victory was Atlanta's first of the season and snapped a three-game losing streak. Chaney's homer off reliever Bob Shirley followed Barry Bonnell's two-out single to center field. The Braves had trailed 5-0 in the third inning after San Diego's Dave Winfield drove in four runs with a two-run homer and a two-run single.

Heels Seeking Second Title

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The 25th annual Atlantic Coast Conference tournament opens today at the North Ridge Country Club, with North Carolina attempting to defend its team title and Wake Forest's Scott-Hoch eager to win a second straight individual crown.

The Tar Heels snapped Wake Forest's 10-year domination of the event last year, edging runner-up Maryland by two strokes with the Deacons finishing third. Hoch, meanwhile, tamed North Ridge's Lakes Course with a 54-hole total of 207, nine-under par and was two shots better than N.C. State's Tom Reynolds and UNC's Scott-Humrickhouse.

North Ridge is hosting the three day affair for the third consecutive year. In 1976, the same nine-under total was good enough for Clemson's Parker Moore to edge Wake Forest's Curtis Strange for medalist honors.

This year's field promises to be well balanced and both defending champs will be hard-pressed to repeat.

In the team race, North Carolina holds the edge in depth and experience and has played consistently while finishing second in three tournaments and third in another.

But Wake Forest has returned as a power this spring while capturing the Big Four and Palmetto titles. In addition, Clemson stunned the field in winning at Furman and Maryland. Duke and N.C. State have played well late in the season.

Individually, Hoch will face the challenge of four fellow all-ACC selections — teammate Gary Hallberg at the Tar Heel trio of Bill Butner, John McGough and Kevin King — along with a host of other standouts.

Washington Shears Rams

WASHINGTON — Washington High School almost swept a track meet from Greene Central yesterday, powering its way to a 111-15 victory.

The Pam Pack won all but one race during the afternoon, sweeping a number of them. The lone victory for the Rams came in the two-mile event, which Greene Central was able to sweep.

Alvis Rodgers won the high and low hurdles, while Thomas took the shot and discus for the Pam Pack.

Greene Central returns to action on Wednesday, traveling to Farmville Central.

Farmville Central Fielding Its First Girls' Softball Team

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central High School is fielding a girls' softball team for the first time this year, and Coach Kay White is hopeful that this will not be just an organizational year for the Lady Jaguars. "Inexperience is one of our main problems," she said. "But we have ability, right now we just don't have the composure. I expect that we'll start showing it by midseason, however."

While some of the team members have played softball in recreational leagues, most are playing for the first time. There are 15 girls out for the team, and all but two of them are freshmen and sophomores, giving White a lot to build for the future with. "We play just about everyone in every game, trying to get as much experience as possible. With just one senior and one junior on the team, we should have a lot of experience coming back for us in the next couple of years."

Coach White feels that the Lady Jaguars can have a good year this season, despite their 2-5 start. "We're trying to learn, but we want to have a good time, too, and not drive anyone away."

Defensively, White admits that there are some problems, mostly caused by inexperience. "Right now, we're making the mistakes that I thought would come earlier in the season and would be solved by now."

Pitching so far has been good. "I'm quite pleased for it being a first year team," the coach said. Melba Willoughby and Courtney Lancaster have been splitting the mound duty so far.

As far as hitting goes, White said that the girls have had trouble adjusting to differing types of umpiring in their games. "Each one of the umps calls the strike zone a little differently, and that's caused us problems."

She rated Diana Gordon and Beth Massey as two of the better hitters, with good speed to go with it.

As far as positions go, White said that there was a lot of switching around. "We want to play everyone in several places to try and find out where they work the best."

Generally, Lynn Webb and Gus Hillyard will handle the catching duties, with Dianne Barrett at first.

Massey will play at second with Gordon at shortstop. Debbie Gowen is the third baseman, with an outfield of Lancaster in left, Lib Allen in center, Karen Findley in right and Michelle Parker in shortfield.

But these are not definite or permanent. Others who see action include Mary Hillyard in short field; Sheila Fulton at second center; Sherri Hargrove in any of three outfield positions, and Claire Mazingo, also in the outfield.

As to the conference race, White feels that while Conley is favored, the race is really wide open. "We can be involved in it if we settle down," she said. "And certainly I think we'll be a factor next year."

"We're going to win more games this year. People can't count us out, or feel that they've got a win since they're playing Farmville Central."

Conley, West Craven In Tie

VANCEBORO — West Craven High School won the mile relay, the final event of the afternoon yesterday, and pulled out a 68-68 tie with D.H. Conley's track team.

Conley actually won nine of the 14 individual events, but West Craven caught up by winning both of the relays, and having more seconds and thirds.

Bernard Hill won three events for the Vikings, taking the 100, the 220 and the 440. Jeff Crede won the 880 and the mile runs. Butler took the shot and discus for West Craven.

Conley travels to North Lenoir on Wednesday.

Bear Grass Tops Belhaven

BEAR GRASS — Bear Grass High School outlasted Belhaven in a girls' softball game yesterday, 16-14.

The Bears pushed over one in the first, only to see Belhaven come back with seven in the second. The Bears tied it up with six in their half of the second, then regained the lead with three in the third.

Belhaven tied it again with three in the top of the fourth, only to see the Bears push over six in the bottom of the fourth for a 16-10 lead. Belhaven added three more in the fifth and one in the seventh but never caught up again.

Vicki Holliday was the winning pitcher.

Martha Gibbs led Belhaven with five hits, while Mary Spencer and Cindy Midgette each had four.

The Bears were led by Lydia Hoell with five, including a triple; Patricia Taylor with four, including a double and a solo homer in the second; and Vicki Holliday with three, including a two-run homer in the second.

Bear Grass is now 3-2 overall and 2-1 in the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference. They play host to Bath on Wednesday.

New Soap Opera Not Network Show

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — There used to be 14 soap operas on the air. Now, this vast sonata of daily woe and worry is getting a 15th attraction, "High Hopes." It stands out in three ways.

It isn't a network show, as are the others. It's made in Toronto, not New York or Hollywood. And its lead character, played by Bruce Gray, is a family counselor — who happens to be divorced.

It premiered last week both on Canadian TV and in about 30 cities in the United States, including New York, Chicago and Los Angeles, says Dick Cox, executive producer of the 30-minute daytime series.

And, he says, "High Hopes" is the first-ever syndicated soap opera on American TV, excluding "Mary Hartman" and "Forever Fernwood," which spoofed the traditional soap opera form.

"There've been attempts to make them before, but this is the first to actually succeed," says Cox, whose show is distributed by a subsidiary of the New York-based Young and Rubicam advertising agency.

Cox, speaking by phone from Fun City, said "High Hopes" was launched even though 14 network soaps are at large mainly because of "a situation that came about in the last couple of years."

The situation, he said, was that "the networks were in a seller's market. The advertisers felt they were being overcharged. The prices for programs were going up, but not the ratings."

Advertisers thought, therefore, that network soap operas "were getting less efficient, to their way of thinking," he added.

At the same time, he said, stations trying to buy their own programs found the prices "absolutely astounding. It looked like a bit of a vacuum for both sides."

"So we decided to go in and offer the advertisers an alternative that would be less expensive and more efficient than the networks, and also give stations a way of acquiring a program with no cash outlay."

The latter was done, he said, in a "barter" deal: stations can sell four minutes of commercial time in each "High Hopes" if they air the three minutes of national advertising that comes with each program.

Cox said about a third of the 30 stations carrying the new show are network affiliates. All the stations air it between 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. in their markets, he added.

He was asked if he thought his show, if successful, will prompt production of more syndicated soap operas and cause a trend in which network affiliates start taking those shows instead of the network wares.

"Well, I know at the moment of three imitators of what we're doing," he said. "Their shows are in the planning stages."

"And I've read trade stories that suggest the networks are concerned with our activities. I'd like to think we are that important, although I'm not sure that's the case..."

He said he didn't know if "High Hopes" will provoke big changes in the world of daytime TV. "But I would think they (the networks) would be concerned about the reasons that spawned this activity."

N.Y. City Opera Prices Rising

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices are going up at the New York City Opera, which prides itself on how much less it costs than the Metropolitan Opera next door. John S. Samuels 3d, chairman of the board, said "constantly rising costs" have forced it to raise some prices.

Top prices will go up from $12.50 to $16. At the Met, they will be $35.

Usually, an end play is designed to snare a specific defender. Once in a while a hand turns up where declarer doesn't care who wins the key trick. Consider this example.

North had an awkward responding hand — too good for a simple heart raise, yet not strong enough to jump to three hearts. He solved his problem by temporizing with two diamonds. South contented himself with a raise to three diamonds because he did not want to go beyond three no trump. However, when North next raised hearts, South opted to make a slam try with a spade cue-bid. North had done all he could, so he decided to forgo a club cue-bid and simply converted to the heart game.

West led a club, and declarer was reasonably satisfied with the dummy. He played the jack of clubs in case West was leading from the queen. East covered and declarer won the king. The queen of hearts was run to the king, and the club return was taken by the ace. After cashing the ace of trumps to draw the outstanding cards in that suit, declarer made a vital play when he ruffed a club to eliminate that suit from dummy.

The ace and king of diamonds were cashed, and the fact that West showed out on the second round did not bother declarer at all. He simply cashed the ace of spades, exited with a spade and claimed his contract.

Since this was only declarer's second loser, he did not care who won the spade trick. If it was West, he would have to return a black suit; enabling declarer to ruff in one hand while discarding a diamond from the other, so that he would lose only one diamond. If East won the spade, he would either have to cash the queen of diamonds, or also yield a ruff-and-sluff. Either way, declarer could lose no more than one diamond trick.

Huge Greeting Card Is On Way

NEW YORK (AP) — The world's largest greeting card is on its way around the globe to help celebrate the centennial of the Berlitz Schools of Languages.

The birthday card, measuring 12 feet 4 inches by 8 feet 2 inches, contains 100 different congratulatory greetings representing languages spoken all over the world. Although both card and envelope together weigh some 60 pounds, when shipped in a specially-built crate, the total weight exceeds 300 pounds.

The itinerary of the giant greeting card after its unveiling here includes Mexico City, Tokyo, London, Paris and Frankfurt, Germany.

Proclaims Week Of Remembrance
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — To coincide with a nationally televised dramatization of the systematic slaughter of 6 million Jews during World War II, Gov. James R. Thompson has proclaimed the week of April 16 "Holocaust Remembrance Week" in Illinois.

The NBC telecast will run Sunday through April 19. It focuses on the lives of two families, one Jewish and one Nazi. Thompson noted that neo-Nazis are planning to march in Skokie, Ill., and in his proclamation called them "a band of bigots."

RECORD HIGHS

Record highs for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. in payments to policyholders, life insurance sales, premium and investment income were reported for 1977 by Richard R. Shinn, president and chief executive officer.

Shinn said that Metropolitan disbursed $4.62 billion to policyholders and beneficiaries last year while new life insurance sales totaled $27.14 billion, rising 14.6 per cent from last year.

Premium income and annuity considerations, combined with investment income, produced total income for the company of $7.89 billion, the executive pointed out, while investment income, excluding separate account business, amounted to $2.46 billion.

CREDIT JUMPED

According to weekly figures released by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, bank credit at 27 large commercial banks in the Fifth Federal Reserve District increased $41,399,000 in the week ended March 29, raising bank credit outstanding to $23,793,933,000.

Net loans, adjusted — total loans exclusive of loans to other banks and loan valuation reserves — increased $67,986,000, while total investments decreased $26,587,000.

Included in the Fifth District are North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, the District of Columbia, and most of West Virginia.

CHECK PRESENTED

A check for $2,500 was presented to Gov. Jim Hunt by Lawrence M. Cohen, president of Jewel Box Stores Corp. for the acquisition of animals for the state zoo in Asheboro.

Cohen noted that in addition to the contribution by Jewel Box Stores, all newspaper and radio advertising for the company stores in North Carolina this month will carry a message encouraging customers to back the zoo's new fund raising drive. The check presentation marked the first contribution to the new drive.

The Asheboro Zoo, when completed, will be the largest natural habitat zoo in the world, it was noted, covering nearly 1,400 acres.

Jewel Box Stores owns and operates 32 jewelry stores statewide, including a store at 410 S. Evans here, and a total of 91 stores from New Hampshire to Texas.

EARNINGS UP

Du Pont Company's earnings of $11.06 per share of common stock in 1977 were 19 per cent above 1976 per share earnings and second only to the $12.04 earned in 1973, according to the company's annual report.

Consolidated sales totaled $9,435 million, an increase of 13 per cent over the previous year, and net income for 1977 was $545 million.

'Why I choose to smoke'

"Why kid anyone? I smoke because I enjoy it. I'm the kind of guy who gets pleasure out of a cigarette. But I'm not deaf to what's being said about tar.

"So I searched out a cigarette that would give me taste with low tar. And two years ago I found it in Vantage. Vantage has all the taste I enjoy yet, surprisingly, much less tar than my old brand.

"Why did I choose Vantage? Because I like it."
