

ECU Trustees Honor Jenkins

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Retiring East Carolina University Chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins was recognized by the ECU Board of Trustees yesterday with a plaque given in appreciation for his service and leadership to the university.

Jenkins, who was attending his last regular board meeting as chancellor, received the framed remembrance during the session from Mrs. J. G. (Mebane) Burgwyn, board secretary. The chancellor, who will relinquish his post here on June 30, pointed out to the board members and guests attending the regular spring meeting that the session marked his 107th since joining the institution. He has been the top ECU official for the past 18 years.

Jenkins, who has been associated with East Carolina for 31 years, recalled that the board meeting dealing with controversial dormitory visitation was perhaps the most difficult he attended while the meeting that he was most proud of was one that involved the decision to admit minority students "without a court order."

He noted that in fairness to the new chancellor, Dr. Thomas Brewer, he planned to move his family from Greenville following retirement. Jenkins said that his new home would probably be at Atlantic Beach.

"If I can ever be of assistance," Jenkins added.

"I will be...ready and willing...to help."

Jenkins will be the commencement speaker at the May 12 graduation ceremonies, it was pointed out, with Gov. Jim Hunt, Senators Robert Morgan and Jesse Helms, and University of North Carolina President Dr. William Friday scheduled to be on hand.

The trustees voted to increase dormitory room rental rates by $44, bringing the total double-occupancy fee for students per academic year to $476. The new rent schedule, proposed by C. G. Moore, vice chancellor for business affairs, will go into effect at the first session of summer school.

Revenue from the rent increase will help meet increasing operating costs, Moore reported, and also provide for funding to employ three new personnel to serve as full-time dispatchers with the campus security force.

The board authorized the hiring of the three new employees after discussing a suggestion that around-the-clock dispatchers be hired at an overall cost of some $30,000 in order to expand the security communications system on campus.

It was explained that currently there is a gap in security communications on campus from 5 p.m. until 8 a.m. and without full-time dispatchers there is a time lag in the reporting of an incident and security response.

In response to a question regarding the use of rent charges as the source of funding, Moore said that the other alternative would be to ask for the $30,000 in the 1979-80 biennium.

Security chief Joe Calder told the trustees that city police, while willing to respond to a crime incident call, viewed administrative calls that it received from campus residents as irritating.

Calder asserted that the city was interested in "the city first" and East Carolina second.

Trustee A. Louis Singleton of Greenville said that Calder's statement regarding the city's position deserved "challenging just a little." Singleton contended that if a crime occurs on campus, it is a crime in the city of Greenville.

Board chairman Troy Pate suggested that the problem was one of students or others distinguishing which call was an emergency and which was not.

William L. Powell Jr., board member from Goldsboro, said that he did not think that dormitory students should bear all of the expense of adding the dispatchers and he noted that he would like to see the matter handled as a separate line item in the budget as soon as possible.

Trustee Dr. John Bridgers said that he felt the consensus of the board was that the communication improvement be implemented as soon as possible.

In other business, the board members approved an increase in the parking permit fee schedule from $5 per sticker per 12 months to $10 for the first sticker and $2 for each additional permit. Members also discussed the improvement to some of the

A Lot Of Rainfall For Pitt County

By CAROL TYER

Pitt County continued to be drenched yesterday and problems were experienced throughout the area as a result.

Greenville Utilities employee, Royce Harris, said 1.63 inches of precipitation were recorded between yesterday at 8 a.m. and the same hour today. He said the Tar River level here is rising about a half foot an hour. At 12 noon the river stood at 10.1 feet.

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon reported that his department has been busy assisting motorists and that high water was experienced on Evans, Charles, Dickinson and 14th Streets. Barricading and cleaning up were the order of the day yesterday.

Public Works Director Mayo Allen said, and the cleanup is continuing.

State Department of Transportation Maintenance Engineer Les Haislip reported a washout of fill near the bridge over Juniper Run on Road 1766 east of Simpson. Crews are working there, he said. Water is still across roads in various parts of the county, he said, and warning signs remain in place. His crews, who just went on a four-day work week, will be busy through Friday and Saturday with repairs and cleanups, he indicated.

It was reported that the Pitt County Schools closed during early afternoon yesterday in order for buses to take their time getting children home.

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Area Manager Don Collier said a major interruption of service was experienced by Stokes area residents. A major underground switching terminal was flooded, he said. Crews worked till 11 p.m. last night trying to pump out the terminal, but were unsuccessful. They went back to work at 7 a.m. today and had service restored by 9 a.m., he said.

"We regret this big loss of service," Collier said, "but it seemed that circumstances were against us. This is the first time we've ever had such a problem with our underground facilities. We've already raised this terminal a foot and hope it won't happen again."

Scaffold Fall Killed Many

By BOB ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer
ST. MARYS, W.Va. (AP) — A metal construction scaffold on a power company cooling tower collapsed and plunged about 150 feet to the ground today, killing at least 45 workers, state police said.

"They just fell like dominoes," a witness said. "I looked up and men were screaming and hollering."

A short time after the disaster, 21 bodies wrapped in khaki blankets were lined up on plastic sheets at the site near this town on the Ohio River in northwestern West Virginia.

Harry Morgan, chief of the volunteer fire department at Belmont, confirmed that the station was being used as a temporary morgue, but refused to say how many bodies were there.

Asked whether there were any survivors of the fall, Morgan said, "I don't think so."

Witnesses said the scaffold wrapped around the circular water tower and started peeling away at one end before it fell.

State police said it had not been determined how many men were on the scaffold, but they said some of the victims were trapped beneath the debris.

Phillip Coco, director of corporate communications for Research Cottrell Inc. of Bound Brook, N.J., the subcontracting firm erecting the tower, said there "could have been 45 or 50 people at the site, but we're pretty sure there weren't more than 40 on the scaffold."

Cunningham said authorities "called for all the emergency equipment we have in the county."

The cooling tower was being built for Monongahela Power Co.

Drug Abuse Grows

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Saying the use of hard drugs among U.S. servicemen "is increasing at a serious rate," the White House urged Congress today to reinstate a currently prohibited program of random testing of military personnel for heroin addiction.

White House drug abuse official Lee Dogoloff made the request in testimony prepared for delivery to the House Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, which is holding a hearing on military drug abuse.

Dogoloff told the committee that the White House considers random sampling of military personnel as a reliable tool in the fight against drug abuse.

"We are convinced of the efficacy of random urinalysis as a deterrent based on the overwhelming experience" of military and civilian law enforcement personnel, he said.

Involuntary urine tests for evidence of drug abuse was common in the early 1970s, but was challenged in military courts on grounds it violated the constitutional rights of soldiers. Congress ordered the random tests stopped in 1976.

Dogoloff said surveys of enlisted personnel in Europe showed they had no objection to random testing as long as everyone participated. And supervisors said they would welcome the tests, he added, because it relieved them of the responsibility for selecting — and thereby possibly prejudging — servicemen for drug tests.

In a White House memo released today, Dogoloff's boss criticized the Defense Department for doing too little to discourage drug abuse among American GIs, especially those in overseas assignments.

The memo from President Carter's chief adviser on drug abuse, Dr. Peter Bourne, to Defense Secretary Harold Brown cites a series of indicators of worldwide increases in drug use among American servicemen and women.

Rezoning Plan Endorsed For South Evans Project

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission, in a meeting that lasted past midnight, gave its endorsement to a rezoning plan suggested by the Planning Department for the South Evans Redevelopment Project.

The South Evans item was one of several time-consuming matters on the city and joint city-county agendas as the planning boards conducted one of their busiest sessions.

In offering its endorsement of the rezoning proposal, the city commission recommended that the South Evans plan be approved by the City Council.

City Planner John Schofield pointed out that one of the major objectives of the rezoning package was to convert the residential uses in the South Evans section, which are mostly non-conforming now, to conform with zoning.

He said that the staff, in preparing the plan, tried to ensure that no use became non-conforming under the proposal.

Basically, the South Evans rezoning calls in part for an R-6 residential district extending from Pitt Street over to Glenn Arthur Street and including property on Washington, Evans and Forbes Streets up to Tenth. The southern residential zoning line runs to the mid-block between 13th and 14th Streets.

Property along Charles Boulevard would remain Office and Institutional from 12th and Glenn Arthur north and east, while the one-block depth north of 11th Street and west from Cotanche to Green would remain zoned as Downtown Commercial Fringe.

Under the plan, property in the western section of the South Evans district will be zoned for Unoffensive Industry use. Schofield said that a warehouse at the corner of 12th and Green will be included in the IU zone since an inspection of the structure

Reports Effort To Speed Up U.S. 264 Preliminary Work

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
WASHINGTON — Department of Transportation Secretary Tom Bradshaw told the Highway 264 Association meeting here last night that efforts are being made to speed up design, right of way acquisition and construction of U.S. 264 between Wilson and Greenville.

Speaking at the "Spring Celebration" meeting of the association, Bradshaw said a new consulting firm has been hired for the project in an effort to "improve that schedule," set by the Board of Transportation January 13 when it included four-laning U.S. 264 in its highway improvement program. At that time, right-of-way acquisition was scheduled to begin in 1980 and construction set for 1982.

Bradshaw noted that two lanes of U.S. 264 between Zebulon and Wilson are scheduled to open in June, with the other two lanes of the relocated roadway set for opening a year later.

The transportation official said the Highway 264 Association and residents along the Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

LATER CLINICS?

I would like to ask the Pitt County Health Department if it would be possible to start and end the hours of the satellite clinics later in the day so as to make it possible for working parents who have the kinds of jobs that they can't ask off to take the children for checkups to use these clinics. I, for one, a Farmville resident, would appreciate this. Mrs. M. K.

Hotline presented your question to Health Director Roger Barnaby, who said he appreciates input like this, and would talk to the Personal Health Division Director and the Board of Health about it soon. Tentative plans are being made for additional days at some of the larger clinics and it's possible some after-five hours could be worked out, he indicated.

AN AGRICULTURE DEGREE... will be received by Jane Elizabeth Smith in December when she graduates from the University of Nebraska. (UPI Telephoto)

Why More Women Major In Agriculture In College

By MAUREEN CALLAN
LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Jane Elizabeth Smith graduates from University of Nebraska in December with an agriculture degree, a man to marry and farm with, and a dream.

"Our ultimate dream," she said, "is to have our own farm, and have our children grow up on it."

Miss Smith was reared on a farm near Blair in northeast Nebraska near the Iowa line. One of five children, and all but one girls, Miss Smith said, "My dad had to rely on us girls."

Lucina Lampila, an upstate New Yorker and 23-year-old Ph.D. candidate, has never lived on a farm and doesn't intend to. She is planning a career as a food consultant.

Both are typical of the women who are enrolling in the university's college of agriculture in record numbers.

In four years, said ag college dean Ted E. Hartung, the number of women majoring in agriculture has jumped 40 percent. In 1974, there were 56 women. The total has now reached 212.

Some plan to marry and return to the farm. Others want a big company, a city's fast pace, a career.

"The women in graduate school are here for a purpose," Miss Lampila said, "and it's not to find a husband, but to get an education, to fulfill a goal, to get a good job. The ones I've met are not stupid. They're very intelligent."

Miss Lampila said the women's movement changed the way women think. She sees a growing interest in science among women.

"Not that many women are unhappy with getting married, having kids," she said. "Sure a family counts, if women want it, but we want security too. I see security as a career."

"Women are very much into science. Even out on the East Coast, Cornell has a big veterinary school with women in it. It's very competitive."

Hartung said most women major in animal science, horticulture, natural resources and pre-veterinary studies. From there, he said, they land jobs with companies like Ralston Purina, Nebraska Bankers' Association, Federal Land Bank, Monsanto and Elanco which come to the university to recruit.

"There is certainly an effort on the part of recruiters to identify qualified girls in this area. I don't say it's easy. These are male-dominated areas. They'll (the women) be making comparable salaries with any of the guys."

City girls comprise 40 percent of the female enrollment, said Hartung, who foresees the ratio reversing itself in a few years, with 60 percent city women and 40 percent coming from the farm.

Presbytery Women Name Officers

TARBORO — Mrs. V. Herman Creech Jr. of Tarboro was named president of the Women of the Church, Albemarle Presbytery at a meeting held last week at Howard Memorial Presbyterian Church here.

Other officers are: Mrs. Franklin Winslow, Tarboro, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Joseph L. Rouse, Greenville, treasurer; Mrs. Emmitt Hubbard, Wilson, chairman, Personal Faith and Family Life; Mrs. Donald Deichmann, New Bern, chairman, Leadership and Resources; Mrs. Alton Barnes, Wilson, chairman, Ecumenical Missions and Relations; Mrs. Dan K. Snyder, Rocky Mount, District I chairman; and Mrs. John F. Harris, Goldsboro, District III chairman.

The Rev. Joe Cochran, general secretary of Greenville, and the Rev. W. Marshall Tredway, Falkland, brought greetings from Presbytery. Speakers included Mrs. John McQueens, Statesville, and Dr. Nancy J. Ramsey, associate pastor, Rocky Mount First Church.

Other program participants during the meeting included Dr. Edward Conner, minister of Cobb Memorial and Johnson Memorial Churches, Tarboro, the Rev. Robert Burns III, minister of the host church, and the Rev. Jerry D. Bron, Washington First Church.

An offering of $515.58 was received for the Scholarship Fund. An honorary life membership was awarded to Mrs. E. J. Pitt Jr., Rocky Mount.

Mrs. Creech announced the new theme for the year is "Courage for Commitment."

Homemakers Hold Meeting

The Sweet Gum Grove Extension Homemakers met at the home of Mrs. Mayo J. Rogers last week.

Reports given included Mrs. Mae Briley, family life leader, "Alphabet to Success," Mrs. Margaret Tetterton, home furnishings, "Decorating With House Plants," Mrs. Sam Alexander food and nutrition, "What's New in the Market Place," and Mrs. Eric Wichard, cultural arts leader, reported on "Educational Opportunities for the Handicap" and "True Beauty."

Mrs. Whichard, president, conducted the business session and the devotional was given by Mrs. Rogers.

Mrs. Jack Roper of Greenville was a special guest.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

My friends say I go on guided tours for the same reason monks inflict pain on themselves by flogging their bodies with chains. Penance.

"Stay together, folks." "Remember your bus number, 1537731." "There are 45,387,326 bricks in this altar and 373 gallons of mortar." "You have 20 minutes to tour the Louvre. That puts us back at the bus by 5:40." "Restrooms to the right and gift shops to the left."

I don't go on tours for penance. I go because I not only enjoy people's reactions to what they are seeing, but it's interesting to me to see how they relate to the phenomenon they're viewing. Once in New Brunswick as we lined up in rain gear to see the great tidal bore in the Bay of Fundy and a small trickle barely moved the water, a man next to me snarled, "I've seen bigger tides when I flush."

Never have I enjoyed a tour more than the San Simeon estate of the late William Randolph Hearst, just south of San Francisco. There are 240,000 acres of land (50 miles along the ocean), and four castles. In 1958, the state of California acquired 120 acres of it, including a couple of castles and his priceless art collection for viewing by the public.

As the bus winds up from the harbor that was created to import his fabulous furnishings and passes through herds of zebra and cattle grazing together, I sensed we would all suffer from an identification crisis.

How do you relate to a man who hired two full-time servants to take care of the fireplaces. Had ice flown daily for the comfort of his polar bears? Played tennis with Charlie Chaplin. Finally, one woman on the bus broke the silence. "I wouldn't wanta come up this road with one too many." From then on, it was Hearst vs. the plat dwellers... Tiffany vs. Tupperware... Roman baths vs. the YMCA. It was as if they had to justify their worth against his.

The guide was fantastic. He kept trying to assure the set faces that this wasn't a museum, it was a man's home. No one bought it. Their comments on seeing 100 rooms in the main castle: "I'd NEVER find Harold to take out the garbage." On the announcement that "guests sometimes stayed a weekend. One even stayed for five years": "It was probably HIS mother!" When it was learned that "all the rooms were built to accommodate the ceiling which was imported from Europe," a woman remarked, "We had a builder like that once."

It was more affluence than a person could handle. I passed by a room where a woman had hung back to have one last look at the million-dollar tapestry and oriental rugs. She mumbled to herself, "Looks like early attic to me!"

Dear Abby

Husband Involved In 'Fun Stealing'

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Tom and I have been married for two years. (No kids.) Another young couple moved in near us, and we liked them at first. But once I got to know the fellow (I'll call him Frank), my feelings changed.

Frank is the type who never stays home. Of course, it was none of my business, except when he started coming over here and getting Tom to go with him. I finally found out where they went when the two of them took off—they would steal, just for the fun of it. Or rather Frank would do the actual stealing and my husband would "help" him. Frank sells this stuff, and he and Tom split the profit.

Tom never stole a thing before he met Frank. I told my husband if he got caught, he would be as guilty as Frank, but he doesn't believe me. I also told him I hate Frank, but he said Frank is his friend, not mine. I worry all the time, but there is nothing I can do. Please help me.

TOM'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Tell your husband to choose between his friendship with Frank and his marriage to you. And if he chooses Frank, consider yourself lucky to be rid of a bad deal before there are children to consider.

DEAR ABBY: I am a normal 16-year-old girl with very strict parents. The only time I get away from home is to spend the weekend with my girlfriend, and then I run with a pretty wild crowd. I've never been busted for pot or gone all the way with a guy, but most of my girlfriends have, and I know that a girl is judged by the company she keeps, and I acted as nice as I knew how. All he got from me was a good-night kiss. After two dates, he stopped calling me. He must have heard about my reputation and it scared him off.

Abby, how can I let him know that I'm really not that bad and that I have a bad reputation only because of my friends? I like him very much and wonder if you can help me get him back?

BROWN EYES BLUE

DEAR BLUE: Unfortunately, a reputation can be damaged overnight, but it can't be repaired that fast. You earned your reputation, so now you'd better set about living it down and building up a new one.

Only by consistent good behavior and strictly staying away from "bad" company can you prove to people that you aren't the kind of girl they thought you were.

DEAR ABBY: We were given a dog as a gift, and everything is just fine, except for one matter. After we have dinner, my husband gives the dog his plate to lick clean.

I think this is a disgusting practice that could be dangerous to our health. My husband says that as long as all the dishes go into the automatic dishwasher and are rinsed in boiling water, it doesn't make any difference. What do you think about this?

SQUEAMISH

DEAR SQUEAMISH: Tell your husband that if "it doesn't make any difference," you'd just as soon have your own dishes and let the dog have his.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Child-Snatching Discussed At Meet

By FRANCINE PERRY
ECU News Bureau

When "Mr. X," custodial father of two girls, saw his daughters off to school in Delaware one March morning, he hardly suspected he would have to hundreds of miles to bring them home again.

But during the day, his ex-wife took the girls out of school and set off with them to her new residence in Florida.

An unusual case? Hardly, according to East Carolina University social work professor Ken Lewis. About 300,000 similar "child-snatching" incidents occurred during 1977.

Dr. Lewis, an associate professor at ECU, was one of the North Carolina representatives invited to speak in Atlanta at the recent Southeast Regional Hearings sponsored by the National Commission for Children in Need of Parents.

"The child-snatching phenomenon is not limited to any social class or racial group, but cuts across all strata of society," he said.

Recently, 22 states have passed the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction Act in an attempt to curb child-snatching. The act provides that a state honor custody decrees in other state, thus avoiding interstate jurisdictional disputes between parents.

Of the southeastern states, only Florida has yet passed the U.C.J.A. Lewis noted.

"A child who is snatched by a separated parent and brought to Florida may be returned to the custodial parent with minimal time delays and therefore significantly fewer psychological scars," he said.

"Passage of the UCCJA in every state will not guarantee an end to child-snatching, but it is a move in the right direction to reduce this psychological crime against our children," Lewis said. The National Commission for Children in Need of Parents is empowered by Congress to study and make recommendations on adoption, foster care, legal and legislative issues, and social work problems regarding children.

Its southeastern hearings were held in the Georgia State Capitol, with eight southeastern states represented. North Carolina's delegation was chaired by Ruth McCracken, executive director of the Children's Home Society of N.C., and Robin Peacock, supervisor of adoption services for the N.C. Department of Human Resources.

Exhibit Of Thoroughfare Need

If one needed proof of how vital any thoroughfare is to a city, one only had to travel southeast from downtown Greenville at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, recently.

Fortunately we are looking at a temporary situation, but for several days Cotanche Street has been closed or limited to traffic while improvements were made from Reade Circle to Ninth Street.

Some afternoons the barricaded Cotanche meant that rush hour traffic had to detour to Evans, which quickly became clogged.

Some resourceful motorists turned east on Seventh only to become stalled in the parking areas around Mendenhall Student Center.

There is nothing to criticize about the inconvenience which was caused to motorists. The work is being done as quickly as possible, it is necessary and we will have a far better thoroughfare once it is completed.

It does illustrate, though how important a few streets are to adequate and safe movement of traffic.

Even though we have come far in Greenville in opening up thoroughfares, there are still problem areas. There is no adequate thoroughfare leading to the west from central Greenville, for instance. And Dickinson Avenue from Reade Circle to Tenth is a horrible bottleneck.

Cotanche will soon be completed and able to handle traffic, which is well and good, but there appear to be no near solutions to traffic problems to the west and on Dickinson Avenue.

It is time we were coming up with some concrete plans.

For Italy, A Time Of National Agony

There must be a national agony in Italy as the nation awaits word on the fate of kidnapped former premier Aldo Moro.

It no doubt would be easy to give in to demands of the fanatical Red Brigade to obtain the former premier's release. To do so would only encourage more such senselessness.

The Red Brigade is as fascist as the regime which controlled Italy in World War II. To give its members any power through recognition would be a serious mistake.

No Quick Inflation Cure

By BILL NOBLITT

Raleigh — Do No Harm. That admonition undergirds the vows of people who enter the health profession.

The sense of it is plain and simple: Do all you can to help, and while everybody makes a mistake sometimes, don't hurt people through stupidity, neglect, or intent.

A number of people in state hospitals and other health-oriented institutions have been harmed, some over a long period of time, and several quite recently. At least three have died.

An angry Governor James B. Hunt, Jr. has told his chief aides and advisors he wants that situation cleared up... at once.

In one emotional exchange, sources report that the governor slammed his palm loudly on the desk top as he lamented: "My God, if we can't run a hospital without killing people, then we had better just close it down." It is flat wrong, the governor stated, for the state to operate institutions, have the power to put people in them against their will, then hurt them.

Firings

A major shakeup is on the way, according to top officials in Hunt's office, and at the Department of Human Resources.

Within the next two or three weeks, Human Resources Secretary Sarah Morrow and her mental health director Ben Aiken will publicly announce the results of investigations into the deaths and mistreatment allegations.

Present plans call for that public session to be held in Goldsboro at O'Berry Center, the scene of some of the problems prompting the crisis. O'Berry is one of four mental retardation centers in the state.

It is not known at this time how far-reaching the shakeup will be, but sources say a number of heads will roll — from top echelon jobs and low.

"There is a great deal wrong, and you can look for a widespread housecleaning. The governor has told them, 'We must do no harm' and whatever is required to meet that demand will be done," one insider commented.

BILL NOBLITT

"If, under the guise of helping people, we kill them, or hurt them... there's just no excuse," he added.

What has gone wrong? Plenty of neglect and willful harm, says a source. Supervision has been sloppy, with some physicians supposed to be on duty actually performing private services in some other location. Medication supposed to be administered has not been given, wrong doses given, or wrong medication given. Attention to routine duties has been lax. Are there any signs that deliberate — even sadistic — behavior has resulted in people hurt or killed?

Full Report

On that question is where sources clam up. Will the public know? Yes, top state officials are now saying. Plans call for the Department of Human Resources to provide a full, open, and candid report on its investigation; discuss thoroughly the problems and recommended solutions; and spell out completely the goals and directions which state institutions will follow.

Personnel and policy angles will be immediately announced and it is fully expected that this will be followed by protests and complaints from the people directly affected.

In recent months, whenever any change was suggested or actually made, the action has been portrayed to the public as political gamesmanship. Officials are now intent on seeing to it that the desired results are achieved without concern for reactions from those affected.

Truth And Mr. Carter

WASHINGTON — During the course of his long campaign, Jimmy Carter repeatedly pledged that he would never lie to the American people. We could depend upon that. Now the president increasingly is running into fire on this issue of veracity. At a time when he has plenty of other troubles, this could be the most serious trouble of them all.

One attack comes from a Washington journalist, Craig S. Karpel, writing in Penthouse magazine. The magazine may not be greatly respected, but it is widely read. Karpel begins by charging that "Jimmy Carter is a liar" and goes on to assail him as an "habitual, compulsive teller of untruths who... has woven a tangled web of false and misleading statements." To buttress his argument, Karpel marshals "the first hundred lies of Jimmy Carter."

A second assault comes in the April issue of First Monday, an understandably partisan journal published by the Republican National Committee. By the RNC's scorecard, Mr. Carter has made 636 promises to the people. Of these he has broken 20 percent, kept almost the same percentage, and held 60 percent for possible future action one way or another.

To be thus pilloried in journals of pornography and Republican politics might not keep Mr. Carter awake at night. Heavier burdens could be imagined. But the charges cannot be altogether brushed aside with airy dismissals of the forums in which they appear. Mr. Carter's problem is that the charges, in substantial part, are true.

It is not necessary to accept the Penthouse formulation of 100 "lies." Karpel's piece is a farrago of fact, opinion, differing interpretations and immaterial dispute. It scarcely qualifies as a "lie" that Mr. Carter said arms sales in 1977 amounted to $9.9 billion, while the Pentagon said arms sales amounted to $11.3 billion.

But when half or two-thirds of the counts in the two indictments have been tossed out, a considerable body of embarrassing accusation remains.

After all, Mr. Carter did make an unequivocal commitment that "all federal judges and prosecutors should be appointed strictly on the basis of merit, without any consideration of political aspects or influence."

Mr. Carter did in fact cause gas producers in Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana to believe that he favored deregulation of natural gas.

There is no question that Mr. Carter promised Catholic voters that he would support some form of tuition grants or credits for elementary and secondary schools.

"I will reduce the White House staff by 30 percent," Mr. Carter promised. "And you can depend on it."

Mr. Carter also promised flatly to submit a balanced budget before the end of his four-year term. He did promise that he would "never increase taxes for the working people of our country." He did tell Iowa farmers that if he were elected, "we will have our support prices at least equal to production costs."

These were specific promises. Many of them, such as his statement on natural gas, contributed significantly to his election. And every one of these promises has been broken or abandoned.

Now, I have said it before, and would repeat it here, that Mr. Carter ought not to be held to promises that were manifestly unkeepable. It was not duplicity, it was ig-

Move Clocks Ahead

By LEE BYRD

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Question, fair reader, which government department gives us the time of day?

Answer: The Department of Transportation.

Ah, but we get ahead of ourselves. As most of us must, by exactly one hour.

The government programs its own version of 60 Minutes on two Sundays each year, one to give and one to take away.

This coming Sunday, it takes away. Maybe you lose an hour's sleep, get to church late, things like that.

Here's the official release from the Department of Transportation:

"Daylight saving time is returning. At 2 a.m. Sunday, April 30, clocks should be moved forward one hour to begin six months of daylight saving time..."

"Under the Uniform Time Act, which DOT administers, daylight saving time is observed in the United States and its territories from the last Sunday in April until the last Sunday in October, which this year is Oct. 29.

"That is, unless you live in Arizona, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, American Samoa or that portion of Indiana within the Eastern Time Zone. These areas don't observe daylight saving time during any period of the year."

So there you have it. Time marches on. Spring forward, fall back.

Daylight saving time began in the United States, Britain and Canada during World War I to make more efficient use of daytime. But it fell into disuse after the Armistice, only to return in World War II.

After the war, summer time in the United States became a hodgepodge, as some states retained the plan and others did away with it. In 1966, Congress passed the Uniform Time Act to standardize daylight savings from the last Sunday in April to the first Sunday in October.

Then, in January 1974, under the energy strain of the Arab oil embargo, Congress mandated year-round DST in an at-

THE INSIDE REPORT

Retains Much Good Will

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

SPRINGFIELD, Neb. — Voters of both parties in this farm hamlet have diagnosed what they think ails Jimmy Carter's presidency as follows: incompetence and indecision.

Whether this diagnosis points to terminal political illness, however, is an open question. The President retains a large measure of good will. Thus, although only 16 of our 55 voters rate his presidential performance "good" or "excellent," and 39 say "fair" or "poor," fully one-half say they still have a "favorable" opinion of him as a person.

But the down-to-earth criticism of one retired farmer, a Democrat, hints that time may be running out. "I don't think Carter is big enough for the job." One of 17 Carter voters in our survey of political sentiment here (25 backed Jerry Ford and 13 don't recall or would not say how they voted in 1976), this farmer says he now wishes he had voted for Ford.

Four additional voters who backed the President in 1976 now say they wish they had not, an unusually high defection rate. Only one Ford voter who answered our questionnaire, prepared by Pat Caddell's Cambridge Survey Research, wishes he had voted for Mr. Carter.

On one major issue after another — inflation, farm policy, handling the Soviet Union, defense spending — our scouting expedition produced failing marks for the President on general grounds of incompetence and waffling. The sole exception: his efforts to settle the Arab-Israeli struggle in the Middle East, which gained solid 2-to-1 support.

Behind that praise for Mr. Carter's dealing with the Middle East may lie a lesson for the President: the political importance of follow-through. Ringing doorbells with three Caddell field representatives on a day of rain, snow and frigid winds on the bleak Nebraska prairie, we found high praise for Mr. Carter's consistency in trying to mediate between Arab and Jew. On other issues, he is charged with lacking conviction, receiving less than 50 per cent approval even for "trying" to solve the energy crisis.

The dominant theme was struck by an attractive, 36-year-old waitress. "If the man would just say something and stick to it!" she blurted out. "That would make a difference." She backed Ford in 1976, but only "as the lesser of two evils." A 35-year-old computer maintenance man, whose job is 30 miles east of here in Omaha, agreed. He voted for Mr. Carter and would vote for him again today but called him "too hesitant" on decisions. "There are so many things he said he would do and he hasn't shown that he can do any of them."

By far the major worry here is inflation, along with other economic problems. Thirty-one of our voters listed inflation as the "most important" issue. Indeed, the prevailing lack of confidence in Mr. Carter bodes ill for his new anti-inflation program and might turn Ambassador Robert Strauss's silvery hair gray. Only 19 voters "generally approve of the way Mr. Carter is trying to handle" the inflation disease (against 31 who disapprove and 5 who do not know). But the President's new anti-inflation program, using Strauss's virtuoso jawbone as his principal weapon, appears singularly unconvincing in Springfield: only 4 voters think it will work, 22 say it will not work and 29 are dubious.

Neither Springfield nor Nebraska as a whole represents majority opinion in the U.S. This is hawkish country, built on a farm economy. Thus, by almost 2-to-1, our respondents "generally disapprove" of Mr. Carter's handling of Moscow. On questions whether he is "too tough" or "too weak" on the Soviets, and whether he is spending "too much" or "too little" on defense, an identical 31 voters say "too weak" and "too little."

As for the farm issue, there was some solace for the President in taking a hard-line position against the "emergency" farm bill (Continued on page 5)

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

The League of Women Voters has sponsored forums in which County Commissioner and Greenville City Board of Education candidates can meet the public and answer questions put to them.

A similar forum for Pitt County Board of Education candidates would be useful. For 19 months Ayden and Grifton citizens have asked the present Board their reasons for voting an educationally unnecessary and financially wasteful consolidated school for our middle school-aged children.

We would welcome an opportunity to have our questions answered. We have failed to get any response from the present Board, in spite of hundreds of names on petitions, many public meetings, reams of research, consultations with education experts and comparison of curriculum offerings at all the schools in the county.

Our research shows that our children are now getting as high-quality teaching as any in the county; that nothing financial, educational, emotional or social would be gained by taking away a community identity from children of this age; and in fact, much would be lost.

ECU Education Department Chairman Dr. Douglas Jones (not running for reelection) is the only Board member with an education background. He has studied our research objectively and endorses our position. The others refuse to even discuss the matter.

We have repeatedly asked questions, and are always told, "Thank you. Next item on the agenda, please."

Pitt County deserves representatives who will at least talk to the people. Voters have a responsibility to cast informed votes. Be sure you know how each County School Board candidate stands on the issues.

40 Years Ago Today

April 27, 1938

Pitt County farmers have been taking advantage of the good weather this week to set out their tobacco plants and it is estimated that approximately 90 percent of the plants have been set.

If fair weather continues, it is believed that the entire crop will have been set out by the middle of next week, the earliest crop in the history of the county. A mild winter and an early spring was given as the cause of the early crop.

The Board of Aldermen in special session last night took definite action leading to the starting of work on the athletic field and stadium for Greenville.

The board adopted a motion by J. D. Simpson that the committee's recommendation for the erection of a concrete and steel stadium with a seating capacity of 1,500 be accepted.

Frustration Over Govm't Role

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The Justice Department antitrust division "wants IBM to bring fewer new products to market and charge higher prices," says Frank Cary, the computer company's chairman.

This position, Cary said at IBM's annual meeting this week, is inherently inflationary and thus in direct opposition to President Carter's goal of greater production and price stability.

Cary's remarks are hardly isolated, fitting instead into a matrix of increased frustration over attempts by the Justice Department, the courts and the Federal Trade Commission to refashion the marketplace.

Eastman Kodak Co. is appealing a federal court verdict involving a claim that Kodak's introduction of new products made obsolete those of smaller companies. It should give warning, the court ruled.

Borden Co. has been told by a Federal Trade Commission judge that it should license other companies to make its highly successful RealLemon product, because that product has such a large share of the market.

The same agency has been arguing that the big cerealmakers share an oligopoly because they unfairly compete through a proliferation of brands — sometimes called consumer options — that shut out competitors.

Cary's ire is aroused over the government's antitrust suit, now nine years old, a suit that "has outlasted six attorneys general in three past administrations," a suit in which IBM has yet to begin a defense.

"When you look at the record," he said, "I believe you can come to only one conclusion: 'It's the Antitrust Division, not IBM, that has turned U.S. vs. IBM into the Methusalem of antitrust trials.'"

The government filed its case January 17, 1969. "For nearly three years they did nothing, until late 1971 — when they fielded a new team of lawyers," said Cary.

IBM insists it isn't a monopoly, a contention that may be debated in view of the fact that monopoly is not clearly established solely by percentages or dollars amounts. But it does seem to have a defense.

"Thirty years ago it (the industry) didn't even exist," Cary said. "Today in the United States it includes more than 4,000 companies," although many are active in only limited segments of the market.

Perhaps more impressive is what Cary next called attention to — that of more than 800 computer companies deposited in the suit, more than 200 entered the so-called monopolized industry since the suit began.

Legal authorities believe monopoly can be demonstrated by proof of retarded technological change, but "Not one computer system IBM manufacturers today was on the market when the suit began," said Cary.

The question that arises, he suggested, is whether the Justice Department would prefer the company make it easier on competitors by limiting technological change and charging higher prices.

"That is what The Division's lawyers and economists are saying," he told shareholders. And then he added the defendant's observation: "We think they are turning the antitrust laws on their head."

Strength For Today

IN GOD'S HANDS

When most people think about God, it is in the context of what God can do for them, not what God can do with them. They are beggars seeking alms, not comrades seeking fellowship, or workers anxious to follow a demanding and resourceful leader.

But when we look over the world, we may well wonder how God is ever going to make anything out of this sorry mess unless some of us get to work and are used as part of His divine plan. Jesus told his followers that unless they became bondservants they were of little use in his kingdom. He built all his hopes on the disposition and efforts of humble men.

These were men whom God could use. They were not always thinking of what God could do for them; they were willing that God should do something with them and through them.

In every generation there are not many who have this willingness. But though small in numbers, they constitute the world's best hope.

unpaved parking lots on campus and possible avenues for additional parking facilities.

A request by the admission office of the School of Medicine for an increase in the application fee for admission from $10 to $15 was also approved.

The governing board voted unanimously to name the theater in Mendenhall Student Center as the Curtis Hendrix Theater in honor of the late Greenville banker and active ECU alumnus.

The Afro-American Cultural Center on campus was renamed the Ledonia S. Wright Afro-American Cultural Center in recognition of the late faculty member.

The trustees gave their endorsement to a plan of naming streets on campus.

Pate noted that the original problem arose from trying to pinpoint specific areas as in the case of a campus accident.

Approval was given to the potential graduating list subject to the completion by the eligible students of all academic requirements. Vice chancellor Robert Holt reported that 1,944 undergraduates were candidates for degrees this year while 884 graduate students were on the commencement list.

Holt suggested and the board concurred in the appointment of the new chancellor, Dr. Brewer, as a professor of history with permanent tenure. Jenkins has held a similar professorship with permanent tenure, it was explained.

Dr. Ed Monroe, vice chancellor for health affairs, reported that the state Legislature will meet at the end of May to consider the budget for the upcoming fiscal year and funds for the additional bed tower for the Medical School at the new hospital here appear to be in no particular jeopardy. He added that funds for the operating budget of the Medical School also appear to be in no danger.

Monroe reported that seven residents are in training in the Family Practice program this year and the medical school plans to have residencies in Internal Medicine, Pediatrics, Obstetrics and Gynecology, Surgery and Psychiatry soon.

According to Monroe, applicants for the medical school continue to run at approximately ten to 12 per seat available with some 32 expected to be admitted this year out of 420 state applicants.

Athletic Director Bill Cain said that additions and other construction at Ficklen Stadium are on schedule and the facility will be ready for the Sept. 2 home football opener.

Pate announced that the work of the chancellor's selection committee was "officially over." Bridgers offered his personal commendation to Pate for the "superb way he handled the norance, that produced his fatuous promise of non-political appointments of United States attorneys. By the same token, he was not being sly, but merely naive, in promising a kind of participatory democracy in shaping foreign policy. The president is a perfect fountain of good intentions. His problem lies in the elevation of intentions to promises — promises we can depend on. Well, we all live and learn. Such liberal senators as Metzbaum of Ohio and Abourezk of South Dakota have learned they cannot "depend" on the president. He pulled the rug from under them in the energy debate. Farm spokesmen were crying last week that they couldn't depend on him, either. Black spokesmen charge him with "callous neglect" of his pledges. Jews believe he broke his word on arms sales to Arab enemies. Many Catholics are infuriated by his failure to support tuition tax credits. All these issues are issues of credibility. It was Mr. Carter's political capital. Like the sand of an hourglass, it drains away.

Candidate Davis Sees Self A Strong Second

Lawrence Davis, campaigning here yesterday at a reception and at a meeting of the North Tar River Fellowship Club for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate, said a Long Marketing poll places him strongly in second place in the eight-way race.

Davis said the poll, "indicates there will be a runoff," but noted, "it is hard to gauge a trend," in a runoff.

The poll, according to Davis, gives Luther Hodges 36.5 per cent of the vote with Davis receiving 23.6 per cent. John Ingram was third, with 12.5 per cent and McNeill Smith in fourth place with 8.9 per cent. The other four candidates were ranked with less than one per cent of the vote.

Davis, emphasizing that the main issue in the campaign is inflation, said the only way it can be curbed is to "stop deficit spending by the federal government...." make the government, "live within its means."

The candidate also outlined his energy policy, saying a "transition to renewable energy sources is needed."

The use of America's ample coal reserves has many drawbacks, while heavy dependance on nuclear technology brings with it possible hazards dependance on nuclear technology brings with it possible hazards in transporting nuclear fuels and disposing of radioactive wastes, he said.

"I favor a program to make solar energy a major energy source in this country," Davis emphasized. "Congress should support the move to renewable sources of energy through increased sponsorship of technological research and development," he continued, and, "let the prices of domestic oil and natural gas rise to a more natural market level," to promote conservation of these fuels.

defeated in the House 10 days ago under threat of presidential veto. A surprising 24 voters commend him for that, against only 27 who condemn him (the balance unsure). That is a far better mark than he gets on his efforts to cope with the farm situation, and serves to highlight the fact that even here the intractable problem of inflation is overtaking farm prices as an issue. That shift can scarcely be called a political plus for a President who still has not proved his fitness to govern, at least as judged in this small farm community.

Cite Losses In Shutdown

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N.C. (AP) — The Pentagon's proposal to close the Roanoke Rapids Air Force site would mean the elimination of more than 120 military and civilian jobs, authorities said Wednesday.

The Roanoke Rapids site is one of 10 bases in the South and among 40 major radar sites in the United States that may be shut down by 1980 as part of an economy move by the Defense Department.

Lt. Jose Acosta of the Roanoke Rapids base said phasing out the local facility would mean the loss of 96 military and 17 civilian jobs.

"We really don't know how the closing will work right now," Acosta said. "All we know is that the projected closing date is fall of 1980. But it will be a gradual phasing out operation. And we won't be taking any action until we get further orders."

Air Force Secretary John Stetson said in a recorded message played by Acosta that the decision to close the facilities was made in order to improve the combat readiness of the Air Force and reduce costs so improvements can be made in technological operations.

He said the closings would bring about a saving of $160 million annually. All personnel whose jobs would be eliminated will be assisted by the Air Force in getting transfers to other bases, Stetson said.

Cites Big Share For Education

ATLANTIC BEACH—The fact that two-thirds of every tax dollar in North Carolina is allocated to education shows "a great sense of understanding that education is a worthy investment for our future," Dr. Leo W. Jenkins said today.

"We must protect this confidence and make the best use possible of our people and other resources," the East Carolina University chancellor told the N.C. Higher Education Personnel Assn. here.

He told the assembled personnel managers and directors that their work is "vital" because it deals with "our most important resource—people." He noted that most major institutions in North Carolina and the nation spend 65 to 70 percent of their budgets on personnel related needs.

The ECU chancellor said East Carolina is credited "with the best utilization rate of any four-year college or university—state-supported or private—in North Carolina" and that this "really boils down to what our people do."

"We are proud that our record shows we place top priority on being good custodians for the resources provided by the taxpayers of North Carolina," Jenkins said.

Church Trustees Meet Tonight

Trustees of Mount Clavary Free Will Baptist Church are asked to meet in the Education Department of the Church tonight at 7:30.

Saturday at 5:45 p.m. all members of the Junior Choir and Echoes of Calvary are asked to meet at the church to be ready for a trip to Rocky Mount at 6 p.m. They will participate in the Youth Service of a Union Meeting there at 7:30 p.m.

McNeil Smith Regards Energy Problem 'Vital'

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Energy is the issue that U.S. Senate candidate McNeil Smith feels deserves especial attention by the public in this 1978 election year.

In Greenville on Wednesday afternoon, Smith talked briefly about the multi-faceted and complex problems that are summed up in America's contemporary energy needs and supplies.

"I'm the only candidate with the legislative experience in coping with energy that North Carolina has," Smith commented. "I was instrumental in doing most of the work in the state on the whole problem, legislation on insulation, changes in utility rate structures, customers options on peak demand."

Smith said he was certain people would take advantage of all the breaks available to them, both from the viewpoint of saving money on light and heating bills, and on possible tax breaks.

"There's so many aspects of the total energy picture," Smith remarked, "our dependence on foreign oil, the inflation costs of the OPEC oil boycott from which we're still feeling the effects. All these are continuing problems the government has to deal with."

One development Smith spoke of with pride is that in work on a national energy bill, President Carter incorporated "at least five ideas from my legislative work in North Carolina into the national bill."

Other concerns Smith touched on included the elimination of duplication in hospital facilities and expensive medical equipment; a reasonable prison reform program under federal auspices if it is based on work such as that for rehabilitation carried out at Camp Butner; and federal funds for education.

On the latter issue, Smith said in order for the South to get an equitable share of money for education, "will require revamping the distribution formula. For years the South has never been able to invest as much as the North and West in education, because the formula for national distribution of resources has not taken into account certain economic factors." A revised formula, Smith contends, would change this situation to the advantage of southern school children.

Smith this morning spoke to the Alpha Delta Pi sorority at East Carolina University, discussing taxes and health care.

Smith indicated the sorority sisters shared many of his views on a more equitable tax program and improved health care.

While in Greenville, Smith met with members of the Steering Committee for his campaign in Pitt County. These are Dr. John Ball of East Carolina University, chairman; Robert White, vice-chairman; and Miriam Moeller, secretary.

Planning Bd....

had revealed that it was in sound condition.

Property along the northern side of 14th Street would be zoned Downtown Commercial Fringe under the proposal with the section on the south side of 14th from Evans over to the Seaboard Coast Line project boundary also designated CDF.

Schofield reported that property on the south side of 14th from Evans east to Glenn Arthur would be zoned for Highway Commercial use with property east of Glenn Arthur zoned for Neighborhood Commercial.

Several property owners in the Charles Street area again appeared before the planning board and requested that their property designations not be changed to R-6.

Attorney Fred Mattox, representing one of the property owners, said that his client felt that the nature of the area "lends itself...to non-residential usage."

Under the South Evans plan, residential properties may be eligible for loans or grants to fund rehabilitation efforts. Mattox said that people who live in the area say they do not want the funds to update their houses and feel that the residential value potential of the area is limited.

Phil Dixon, local attorney representing another property owner, asserted that some of the property in the area was not suitable for rehabilitation and he noted that it was "inexcusable" to ignore the feelings of many property owners and restrict the use of their property.

Board member Mrs. Ruth Trevathan said that she saw an obvious need for residential property to serve the university. She said that she was aware of the opposition to the plan but she added that, "I feel...good planning must come in to play."

Mrs. Trevathan pointed out that no rezoning plans are "locked in" and each request for a change would have to be judged on its own merits.

The South Evans area, it was mentioned at earlier meetings, represents the last section involving sub-standard housing in the city.

In other business on the lengthy agenda, the commissioners, after receiving a letter from city attorney Louis Singleton regarding a ruling on a development matter, voted to deny the preliminary plat of Wilson Acres Multi-Family Dwelling Complex.

Singleton, who was asked to rule on whether the complex constituted a subdivision or not, ruled that the development did constitute a subdivision.

Commissioner E. E. Howell offered the motion to disapprove the preliminary plat on the grounds that streets in the development do not meet checklist requirements under subdivision regulations.

Attorney Frank Wooten, representing the developer, contended that the Wilson Acres complex was not a subdivision. Wooten said that he felt Singleton did not consider all of the facts in making his ruling and he expressed concern that the city attorney was not on hand for the meeting.

Commission chairman Lyman Ormond noted that the only action that the board could take would be to follow the ruling of the city attorney. He said that the board had no alternative but to act on the matter as a subdivision.

Mayor Percy Cox said that "you've got laymen being challenged by two attorneys and that's not fair."

Commissioners voted not to act on a request for rezoning 10 acres of the Woodrow Hadcock property west of Union Carbide since the planning board has already forwarded a rezoning plan for the area to the City Council for consideration. The matter is scheduled for a hearing by the Council, it was noted.

The preliminary plat of Section I of the Fleming-Brody property, located west of Arlington Boulevard, east of Kroger's property and south of the Exxon service station was approved by the board. Commissioners voted to waive the customary 30-day waiting period for consideration of final plats and approved the final documents for the development.

Approval was also given for the final plat of Section Five of Club Pines Subdivision. Dr. Edward Davis, who resides on Club Pines Drive, voiced his opposition to the drainage situation in the subdivision and also noted that he objected to the open canal that existed in a section of the development. Edwards said that the canal posed a hazard to the residents and he saw "no excuse for it."

East Mall and also approved the preliminary plat of Section 1 of Wildwood Village, located west of and adjacent to the city landfill, north of Third Street. The Wildwood property is located in the floodway area as designated by the Corps of Engineers and in order to build on the property, the developers must either fill or construct finished floor levels at or above the expected 100-year flood level.

The Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission voted six to two to recommend to the City Council that the request of Leroy Cherry and Associates for rezoning 21.6 acres at the intersection of North Southern Railroad and 14th Street Extension be approved. Cherry sought rezoning from R-9 and RA-20 to R-6 and R-9.

Melvin Buck of 1411 Red Banks Road objected to the rezoning and pointed out that with the exception of Cherry he did not know of anyone who was in favor of the rezoning.

Buck said that if the Cherry property is rezoned, it would be difficult to maintain the overall neighborhood as RA-20. Rezoning to R-6 or R-9, he added, would allow duplex development. Buck said that he hated to see a "suburb" to multiple family housing downgrading of the community in the area and he cited traffic problems on Red Banks Road.

Luther Hodges Pushes His Campaign In East

Luther Hodges, seeking the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate, campaigned in Greenville, at the North Tar River Fellowship Club meeting, and in Williamston, yesterday.

During his visit to Greenville, Hodges said his campaign is going well, and emphasized he has "been talking about the issues, tobacco, health care, energy."

Campaigning for the past 10½ months, Hodges said, has been "an amazingly demanding process," but, "a wonderful one" adding that, "Pitt (County) has always been a major part of my campaign."

Commenting on charges by other candidates that he represents special interests, Hodges said, "People are interested in issues. I've been talking about the issues. Let them (the other candidates) run their own campaigns."

During his Greenville visit, and earlier in the day at Kinston, Hodges and Gini Ingram, the wife of Insurance Commissioner and Senate candidate John Ingram crossed paths while campaigning.

Mrs. Ingram and Hodges crossed paths at the offices of "The Daily Reflector" about 3:30 p.m. There was no hint at either of the meetings of charges made by Ingram recently that Hodges had made "mud slinging" attacks on his wife, during an Associated Press interview about Mrs. Ingram's financial worth.

Ingram has said Hodges was critical of his wife when Hodges told the AP that Ingram failed to report Mrs. Ingram's financial holdings when he disclosed his financial holdings, as other candidates have done.

Hodges, calling his encounters with Mrs. Ingram yesterday, "warm and charming," said he told Mrs. Ingram, "I had sent her a personal letter telling her ... that I have never said anything negative about her and that I think she is a gracious lady and a nice person."

"This is unreal," Mrs. Ingram said at their Greenville encounter. "Have you got my schedule?"

Hodges replied, "No, have you got mine?"

Farmville Adds A Parking Lot

FARMVILLE — The Town of Farmville has added another temporary parking lot to the areas available for downtown shoppers and workers during the downtown improvements construction.

The Farmville United Methodist Church has granted the town the temporary use of its property at the corner of Church and Walnut Streets for public parking. The town has recently developed temporary parking off Belcher Street. The Board also removed parking restrictions on the north side of Belcher Street.

Rees To Speak At PWP Meet

James Rees, Associate Professor in the ECU Speech and Drama Department, will lead a discussion on "Interpersonal Communication" during the Parents Without Partners meeting here Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Greenville Chapter No. 1058 of PWP meets at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church for this meeting. Members and courtesy card holders are invited.

Saturday at 2 p.m. the group will have a family outing at Elm Street Park. Following an afternoon of games and sports, a picnic will be held, with the chapter providing meats for charcoaling and members and courtesy card holders bringing side dishes and beverages.

Occupational Therapist Ass'n Is Meeting Here

Greenville is the site of the semi-annual convention of the North Carolina Occupational Therapy Association, when therapists from across the state will meet here Friday and Saturday, April 28 and 29 at the Holiday Inn.

The convention opens at 8:15 a.m. Friday. The keynote speaker for the morning session will be Gail Fiddler, director of Practice Education and Resources of the American Occupational Therapy Association. Author of a book, "Occupational Therapy," Ms. Fiddler will speak on the changes in the mental health career system and its effect on occupational therapy.

The afternoon sessions Friday will be given over to business meetings. At 7 p.m. a banquet will be held, and the speaker is to be Mike Hennike, Assistant Deputy Director, Mental Retardation Services, N.C. Dept. of Human Resources.

Two awards are to be presented — the Suzanne Schullin Award for the person designated as the outstanding therapist in North Carolina; and the Nova Award for the most outstanding work by a therapist with less than five years service. Registration on Saturday is at 8:30 a.m. At 1 p.m., a slide presentation on occupational therapy as it complements special education will be given.

Special education teachers in the area who might be interested are invited to attend.

Also, a report on occupational therapy in public schools in North Carolina will be given by

Scholarship To Grifton Student

GREENSBORO — A Grifton girl, a senior at Ayden-Grifton High School, has been awarded a Katharine Smith Reynolds Scholarship to attend the University of North Carolina at Greensboro this fall.

Patience Elizabeth Bosley, daughter of David E. Bosley of Grifton and Mrs. Ann Wheeler Bosley of Ayden, is one of 37 recipients selected for scholarships from a field of 80 finalists in the scholarship competition. Altogether, there were 360 applicants from throughout North Carolina.

Ms. Bosley is a member of the National Honor Society, and has served as secretary and representative to the society's convention. She was a Governor's School and a Morehead Scholarship nominee.

A Reynolds Scholarship ranges between $500 and the total amount of money needed by an individual student. This can go as high as $2,200 per year, and scholarships are renewable for three additional years of undergraduate study beyond the freshman year.

The Reynolds Scholarships were established by the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation of Winston-Salem in memory of Mrs. Katharine Smith Reynolds, a Woman's College (now UNC-G) alumna, wife of the founder of Reynolds Tobacco Co., and mother of the late R. J. Reynolds, Jr.

This year's winners come from 27 different counties in North Carolina. The scholarships are open to both males and females who are legal residents of the state.

Plan Seminar On Pain Control

ECU News Bureau

A seminar for physical therapists on pain control will be offered by the East Carolina University Department of Physical Therapy, and the Eastern Area Health Education Center and the N.C. Physical Therapy Association May 13-15.

Seminar sessions will be held at the Whaler Inn at Atlantic Beach.

Seminar leaders are Dennis Davis of the ECU physical therapy faculty and Dr. Victor Ng, a physician whose practice involves acupuncture.

Licensed physical therapists should register for the seminar with Dora Pashour, Eastern AHEC, P.O. Box 7224, Greenville, or telephone 757-4600, before May 1.

NASA Official To Visit Campus

ECU News Bureau

Phil Thibideau, a representative of NASA's International Affairs Division, Washington D.C., will visit the East Carolina University campus Friday, April 28, to interview students for available positions with NASA Headquarters.

Interested students should call the Office of Cooperative Education, (757-6979) to make an appointment. Thibideau will prefer students with at least a 2.5 grade point average.

SOS Endorses 3 Candidates

The Save Our Schools organization to promote community schools rather than consolidated ones has endorsed three Pitt County Board of Education candidates.

The three are Jim Black, Robert Halstead and Horace Lawrence.

George Saleeby, chairman of the Grifton chapter of SOS said, "We have met these three candidates and are impressed with their willingness to listen to the people. We believe each of them will approach any school problems with open minds."

Russian Diplomat Plans Live In U.S.; Looking For A Job

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Arkady N. Shevchenko, the Soviet U.N. official who broke with his government and refused to go home, has indicated that he's open to job offers after resigning from the United Nations with a year's severance pay in his pocket and a book contract to fulfill.

Shevchenko and Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim announced Wednesday they had agreed on the termination of his U.N. contract, which still had two years to run, and the payment of $76,116 in severance pay.

The 47-year-old former Soviet diplomat said in a statement issued through his attorney that he hoped "to lead a normal and productive life" in the United States and would make his address "publicly available" after several weeks arranging his affairs.

Observers interpreted this as a signal to publishers, the news media, the lecture circuit, universities and other possible employers.

Shevchenko has been under contract for several years to do a book on disarmament for the Alfred A. Knopf publishing house. After he broke with his government, a spokesman for Knopf indicated his personal story would be more marketable, and he is said to have had offers from four other publishers.

But Shevchenko in his statement said "public discussion at this time of my personal views would not be helpful to Soviet-United States relations or to my family in the Soviet Union." He added that he had assurances that his family — his wife, a grown son and a teenage daughter — would not suffer because of his break with his government. Shevchenko, the top-ranking Soviet citizen on the U.N. staff, went into hiding April 13 and hired Wall Street lawyer Ernest Gross to represent him after rejecting an order from his government to return home temporarily.

Suggested explanations for his action included thwarted professional ambitions, drinking and romantic problems, and espionage entanglements. But he said in his statement he had "serious differences of political philosophy and convictions with the present Soviet system," and he issued a blanket denial of "rumors and speculations about my personal life, past conduct or future intentions."

Gross told a reporter that Shevchenko was in the process of filing papers to establish residence in the United States and was already in contact with the State Department. However, the lawyer said earlier that his client was not a "defector" and wanted to retain his Soviet citizenship. Soviet sources said their government had already nominated Shevchenko's successor — Michail Sitenko, about 50, former ambassador to Ghana and Indonesia and since 1969 head of the Middle East section of the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST—Showers and rain are forecast today for much of the nation, according to the National Weather Service, including central and northern Rockies, parts of Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota. Precipitation is also expected along the Mississippi River Valley extending south into Texas. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
The late spring storm that swept North Carolina with drenching rains and mountain snows moved out to sea this morning and improving weather conditions were forecast in its wake.

Four to six inches of rain were reported over the Piedmont and eastern portion of the state, inundating city streets in some communities, including Raleigh where one main thoroughfare still was under water and impassable this morning.

Snow up to several inches fell in the mountains Wednesday as temperatures dropped under the influence of a cold front.

However, temperatures warmed to the 70s over the southeast portion of the state, setting off some severe thunderstorms in the coastal area.

Higher elevations in the mountains got the bulk of the snow with Mount Pisgah reporting an accumulation of 14 inches. The National Weather Service said most of the snow accumulation was at elevations of 4,000 feet and up.

At lower elevations, snow was widespread through the northern mountains but generally it melted as it fell, the weather service said.

The low pressure system associated with the storm moved to just off the Virginia coast early this morning, allowing winds to decrease somewhat, but light rain lingered over North Carolina's north central and north coastal sections. Northerly winds were bringing in cool but drier air to North Carolina today, with the chill spreading from the mountains eastward.

Western sections of the state were expected to begin clearing by this afternoon and eastern sections by tonight. The forecast called for temperatures to get no higher than the 40s in the mountains today, ranging upward to the lower 60s on the lower coast.

Low readings tonight will range from the 30s west to the 40s in the east. It will be sunny and warmer Friday with temperatures in the 60s to lower 70s. Saturday also is expected to be fair but a chance of showers or thundershowers will prevail over the west Sunday and over the entire state Monday.

Meadowlark Is Released

NEW YORK (AP) — Harlem Globetrotters star Meadowlark Lemon has been released from a hospital after being treated for a stab wound allegedly inflicted by his estranged wife.

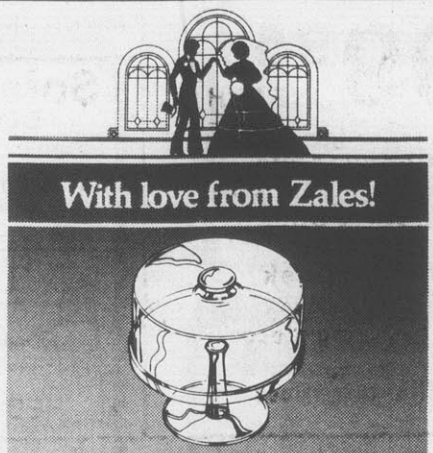

Lemon, 45, clown prince of the touring basketball team, suffered superficial wounds of the back and was released Wednesday, Bellevue Hospital spokesman James Walsh said.

Willye Lemon, 40, of Fairfield, Conn., pleaded innocent to assault charges at her arraignment in Manhattan's Criminal Court and was released in her own recognizance pending an appearance May 16.

The attack occurred about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in front of two police officers.

Lemon told police his wife had been driving behind him and ramming her auto into the rear of his car, so he pulled up to a patrol car parked at a corner to ask for help.

As he approached the patrol car, Mrs. Lemon got out of her car, ran up behind him and stabbed him with a five-inch steak knife, police said. The two officers subdued Mrs. Lemon.

Look at the Man With Experience

"I have enjoyed representing the good people of Pitt and Greene Counties. I have supported legislation which I thought was good and opposed legislation which I thought was not in the best interest of our people. This I will continue to do. I have supported appropriations for education, mental health, agriculture and in other areas which I thought were reasonable and in line with the resources at hand. This I will continue to do. I plan to continue to give my FULL TIME and BEST EFFORTS in representing ALL PEOPLE and ALL SEGMENTS of our society. The experience of serving on committees, commissions, and boards give me an insight and knowledge of state government that cannot be attained otherwise. I believe that my background and training, plus four terms in the General Assembly equip me to serve you EFFECTIVELY again in 1979."

Duke Power Co. Plans Test Peak-Load Pricing

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Duke Power Co. is planning to use about 1,000 computer-chosen customers in North Carolina and South Carolina for a year-long test of peak-load pricing.

Company officials say peak-load meters will be installed above existing power meters at residential and business sites so that the test won't interfere with house wiring.

One of the new meters will function as a clock, triggering measurement on the other meter of the maximum kilowatts recorded for 30 minutes during a month in the peak-load period — the time of day when Duke customers are using the most power.

The peak time of day for the Duke system is from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. Mondays through Fridays from June through September and from 7 a.m. to noon on weekdays from October through May.

A second dial will record the kilowatt hours used during peak-load periods.

Since the old meter shows all the kilowatt hours used during the month, the peak hours are subtracted from that reading to determine non-peak usage.

Billing of customers on the peak-load system will begin May 15.

"A Duke representative will be glad to sit down and explain all aspects of our new program with interested persons," said Bill Burton, vice president for corporate communications.

"But we want the volunteer to know before he begins the program that if he isn't willing to change his lifestyle and habits, the program may end up costing him more than he was paying for electricity on the regular system."

Burton said bills received by the participants will show several more figures than their current bills.

One figure will be a standard customer charge of $10.75. On-peak kilowatt hours will cost 1.8 cents each and off-peak kilowatts will be billed at 1.3 cents each. A demand charge will be made for the highest amount of electricity registered for 30 minutes in on-peak hours. That number will be multiplied by $3.20 during the summer months and $1.60 the rest of the year.

The present charge is 3.4 cents a kilowatt hour. The fuel charge on the present bills also will be shown on the peak-load bills.

There will be different rates for business and industrial customers participating in the experiment.

Besides those being billed on the peak-load basis, control groups will be established for comparisons between the peak-load and regular billing programs. Duke will gather information on use patterns from the control groups but continue billing them at the old rates.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market ran into some selling today and pulled back a bit after the explosive rally of the past two weeks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had risen more than 70 points over the last 10 sessions to its highest closing level in nearly five months, slipped 4.68 to 832.29 by noontime today.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a broad margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted that the market had begun to retreat at mid-day Wednesday, leaving prices well below their mid-day highs at the close.

The Dow Jones industrial average, up more than 9 points late in the morning, closed with a 3.38 gain.

That downturn seemed to encourage further selling today by traders who believed the market had reached at least a short-term peak.

Brokers also noted that the dollar declined in foreign-exchange trading today, helping to diminish buying interest among overseas investors.

British Petroleum topped the active list, up 1/4 at 14 1/2. A 105,500-share block traded at 14 1/2.

Blue chip issues losing ground in active trading included General Motors, down 3/4 at 65 1/2; Exxon, off 1/4 at 47 1/2, and Sears Roebuck, 1/2 lower at 25 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .22 to 53.66. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .50 at 136.15.

Volume on the Big Board came to 15.91 million shares by noontime, down from 20.21 million at the same point Wednesday.

Camporee Will Begin Friday

A three-day East Carolina Council Scout camporee will be held at Camp Bonner North in Beaufort County on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, April 28, 29 and 30.

About 4,000 scouts from 20 eastern North Carolina counties comprising the council are expected to be on hand. They will come in from as far north as Roanoke Rapids, south to Jacksonville, and Wilson County in the west.

From Pitt County, about 250 scouts from 15 troops are due to attend. Pitt County Scouts will be in the "gold area" of the council. Five areas in the council are designated by a different color for each area.

The overall camporee chief for the three-day event is Harold Flanagan of Farmville.

George Attmore of Greenville is the "gold area" chief. According to Attmore, a varied number of events are planned for the camporee.

Attmore said that one of the primary objectives during the three day camporee will be working for points in merit badges. Points earned at the camporee will supplement points already earned by scouts in a earlier project work. A total of 3,750 points are possible, and a patrol must earn 3,450 points to get a blue ribbon on the patrol level competition.

Dr. Herbert Hadley, council health and safety chairman, will be in charge of first aid at the

NCAIAW Track Meet Is Here Friday

The North Carolina AIAW state track championships will be held at East Carolina University Friday.

At least six of the 12 state schools in the AIAW will send representative to the meet, ac-ording to East Carolina women's track coach Laurie Arrants.

"Twelve teams have been invited, but as of Wednesday, I had only received entries from six. I'm pretty sure that some of the others will show up, however," she said.

Those who have already indicated that they will attend include the University of North Carolina, N.C. State University, East Carolina University, N.C.

A&T, St. Augustine's, and North Carolina Central University.

Others who may come include Winston-Salem State, Elizabeth City State, Lenoir Rhyne, Johnson C. Smith, Duke and Wake Forest.

"Unfortunately, our meet is the same weekend as the Penn Relays, and some of the teams will be taking some of their athletes to that meet," Ms. Arrants said. "Hopefully in the future, we will be able to avoid conflicts like this."

This year marks the first year the NCAIAW has held a state championship in track. "It would be quite an honor to win it this year, since it is the first year," Ms. Arrants said.

The Lady Pirates, according to the coach, should be favored to win the event. "We really had some good times last week at the South Carolina Invitational, but we've got a few injuries and this weather hasn't helped us either."

The meet is scheduled to get underway at Bunting Track and Field at 1 p.m. Friday with trials in several running events. Field events will begin at 1:30 p.m., with track finals at 3 p.m.

In the field events, Ms. Arrants listed the favorites in each. East Carolina's Maria Gudjohnsen and Cookie McPhatter will join UNC's Leslie Belsma as co-favorites in the long jump. Debbie Freeman of East Carolina will be favored in both the shot put and the discus. Betsy Hardaway of Carolina is the choice in the javelin. Michelle Langen of Carolina is the top qualifier in the high jump.

East Carolina is favored in the sprint medley relay event, and shares favorite honors in the 400-meter relay with St. Augustine's. The Lady Pirates are again favored in the mile relay.

"We've scheduled a two-mile relay, but that may be scratched. We also have a three-mile run scheduled, but we are not sure if we'll get any entries in that either," Arrants said. Valerie Ford of State is favored in the 1,500-meter run, while Gudjohnsen is the top choice in the 100-meter hurdles.

McPhatter is favored in the 400 meter, with Suezett Moulton of St. Augustine's, Vanessa Williams of A&T and Lydia Rountree of East Carolina as co-favorites in the 100-meter dash. Ford and ECU's Joy Forbes are co-favorites in the 800-meter run. Linda Mason of East Carolina is the 400-meter hurdles favorite, with Ford the choice again in the 3,000 meter run.

"About the only race where there are not one or two clear-cut favorites is the 200-meter dash," Arrants said. "That one is really up for grabs."

Pirates Delayed; Set Twin-Bill On Friday

East Carolina's baseball Pirates, on their final days of the 1978 season, lost another game to rain yesterday as Virginia Commonwealth was forced to cancel out because of the rains which flooded the area.

Coach Monte Little said efforts to reschedule the game were unsuccessful.

Little did announce that Friday night's game with Virginia Wesleyan had been changed from a single game to a double-header. That twin-bill will get underway at 6 p.m. instead of the previously announced 7:30 p.m. time.

The Pirates are then scheduled to close out their home slate on Saturday, playing host to Atlantic Christian at 7:30 p.m.

Little said that there was a possibility that another game with ACC might be scheduled for Monday in Wilson. The Bucs are slated to close out the year next weekend with a two-game series with Virginia Tech in Blacksburg, Va.

The Pirates enter the final week with a 25-15 record, having had most of their success at home, where they are 20-3. On the road, the Pirates have only a 5-12 record, including two games split in neutral sites.

Butch Davis, the designated hitter for the Bucs, leads the team hitting with a .353 average. He also leads the way in doubles with eight.

Billy Best is the team leader in several categories. The sophomore centerfielder has 47 hits, six sacrifices, 13 stolen bases, and has been hit by pitches six times. He also has only five strikeouts to his credit, least on the team among the regulars. Best is batting .331.

Eddie Gates, the senior rightfielder, leads the team in homers, with a record-setting nine, in total bases with 74, and in walks with 43. He is hitting .292.

Third baseman Bobby Supel leads the team in runs with 43, in triples with four, and in runs batted in with 30. He's hitting .285.

Two other regulars are hitting .300 or better. Catcher Raymi Styons is hitting .310 and first baseman Robert Brinkley has a .307 average.

In pitching, Bill Davis has the best ERA, at 1.56, but has pitched only 17 and a third innings. Tim Stiller, with 27 innings, has a 2.33 mark, while Mickey Britt, tops in innings with 86 and two-thirds, has a 2.91 mark.

Britt also tops the team in strikeouts with 69.

Overall, the Pirates are batted for eight hits and five earned runs in four innings as the Los Angeles Dodgers whipped the Reds 14-4.

Seaver has three no-decisions and two losses to show for his 1978 efforts, plus a nice round earned run average of 5.00.

When newsmen tried to ask him about his pitching problems in the clubhouse after the game, Seaver was nowhere to be found.

"He left before the game ended — and he left in a hurry," a team employee said.

Elsewhere in the National League, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Montreal Expos 12-2, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2, the Pittsburgh Pirates trimmed the New York Mets 1-0, the San Diego Padres edged the Houston Astros 2-1 and the Atlanta Braves beat the San Francisco Giants 6-1.

Dusty Baker had five hits, three of them doubles, and Bill Russell had four hits to lead Los Angeles' 19-hit barrage. Doug Rau, 3-0, was the winning pitcher.

It was the Dodgers' third win in a row over the Reds after Cincinnati had won the teams' first two meetings.

The Dodgers now lead second-place Cincinnati by 1 1/2 games in the National League West.

Cards 12, Expos 2

The Cards pounded 19 hits in their first game under interim Manager Jack Krol. Keith Hernandez had a double and three singles, driving in two runs and scoring three, while Ken Reitz belted his second home run of the season and a single and drove in three runs for the Cards. Jim Dwyer also homered for St. Louis while Lou Brock had three hits.

Cubs 4, Phils 2

Bobby Murcer's grand slam homer in the third inning lifted Chicago and Rick Reuschel past Philadelphia and Steve Carlton in a matchup of 1977 20-game winners. All four runs were unearned following a two-out error by the Phils' Dave Johnson. The other two runners had reached base on walks.

Pirates 1, Mets 0

Ed Ott's first home run of the season broke up a scoreless tie in the 11th inning and gave Pittsburgh's Bert Blyleven his first National League victory. Ott's homer leading off the 11th against reliever Bob Myrick was only the fourth hit of the game for the Pirates.

Braves 6, Giants 1

Dale Murphy led Atlanta past San Francisco with three runs batted in on a triple and a single. Jeff Burroughs had two hits to extend his hitting streak to eight straight times at bat.

MUCH OF WHAT is discussed in the recent articles on drug use among college athletes is not truly surprising, but there are some areas which should be of major concern, such as whether athletes are taking amphetamines before games and whether team physicians or trainers administer pain-killing drugs in potentially dangerous situations.

The reports of personal drug use by athletes in non-sports situations are no more alarming than other reports of drugs on college campuses. Many students use drugs, and surely all athletes are not exceptions. However, there is reason to believe that such "recreational" drug use is less prevalent among athletes than the student population in general.

According to officials at East Carolina University, athletes are supervised much more closely than other students. A full-time coach lives in the dormitory with the Pirate football team, head coach Pat Dye said, and the athletic department works closely with the campus police in its supervision of players.

What are alarming are the charges that athletes are taking "uppers" before ballgames, and that injured players are being given pain-killers to enable them to play, risking further, permanent, damage.

The potential dangers of these situations are obvious. A player on "speed" is certainly more prone to injury than one who is not. And of course, the use of any drug without proper supervision is dangerous.

The article quotes athletes from North Carolina colleges as saying they were given pain-killers and "pressured" to play, despite injuries which could have become much more severe. These drugs were administered by team trainers or physicians, the article says.

Medical ethics would appear to be involved here and all team physicians contacted denied administering pain killers to athletes if they risked further injury. "If any pain-killing drugs were administered to players, it was under a doctor's supervision where permanent damage was not even possible," Dye said.

Rod Compton, director of sports medicine at ECU, agreed. He said athletes are informed of all aspects of their case before pain killers are administered, and the drugs are never given if permanent damage is a possibility.

He added that "pep" pills or sedatives have never been ordered by his department.

The New Dr. J.

It was a new, or almost new, Julius Erving who led the Philadelphia 76ers to a four-game sweep of the New York Knicks in the NBA playoffs.

According to 76er observers, Dr. J. has altered his playing style somewhat, toning down some of his flashy, one-on-one play under new coach Billy Cunningham.

The 6-7 forward is also playing and scoring a bit less than in previous seasons, and the result has been greater team play and more production from Philadelphia's bench.

More team play is an obvious plus for the super-talented 76ers, who have so much individual ability.

More On The NBA

The broken bone in center Bill Walton's foot just about precludes any chance the Portland Trail Blazers have of winning a second consecutive NBA championship.

The break was discovered late last week and it was announced that Walton will sit out the rest of the season. Before last night's game, Portland trailed the Seattle SuperSonics 2-1 in a best-of-seven series.

Walton, whose career has been plagued with injuries, led his team to the league championship last year and to a 49-9 record through the first two-thirds of this season. But an injury to his right foot (his left is the one now broken) knocked him out of the lineup in February and Portland lost 14 of its last 22 games.

Three of the final eight teams in the playoffs are coached by former UNC players, and it's possible that all three could advance to the semifinals.

Doug Moe, UNC '61, coaches the San Antonio Spurs; Larry Brown, UNC '63, coaches the Denver Nuggets; and Billy Cunningham, UNC '65, coaches the Philadelphia 76ers. Both Brown and Cunningham played under Dean Smith, while Moe graduated in Frank McGuire's final season.

Through Tuesday night's games, San Antonio trailed the Washington Bullets 3-2, Denver led the Milwaukee Bucks 3-1, and Philadelphia had beaten the New York Knicks 4-0 in quarterfinal games.

Two of the game's biggest superstars may be on a collision course for the championship series.

Should Philadelphia win its semifinal series, and Denver win in the quarterfinals and semifinals, 76er Julius Erving and Nugget David Thompson would be on the same court in the championship series.

The rims may not be able to stand the punishment.

Twins Hero Is Suddenly Goat

AL Roundup

by KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Dan Ford did just about everything to win the game. Then he did something to lose it.

The hitting star for Minnesota with seven runs batted in, Ford certainly looked like the hero of the night — until the last of the 12th inning.

But he suddenly turned into the goat with a wild throw that allowed the Oakland A's to pull out a 9-8 decision Wednesday night.

With Tom Johnson pitching for the Twins, Mitchell Page — who had tied the game in the ninth with a two-out, two-run homer — opened the Oakland 12th with a single. Page moved to third on a single by Miguel Dilone and came home on a single by Dave Revering.

Jim Essian then singled to center to drive home Dilone with the tying run and pinch-runner Steve Skaggs scored the game-winner when Ford's throw went into the Oakland dugout.

Reliever Joe Coleman picked up his second victory of the season as the A's won their eighth straight game and solidified their hold on first place in the American League West.

In other American League games, the Toronto Blue Jays defeated the Kansas City Royals 3-1; the Chicago White Sox stopped the Detroit Tigers 7-2; the Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the Boston Red Sox 6-4; the Texas Rangers blanked the Cleveland Indians 3-0 and the Seattle Mariners defeated the California Angels 5-4.

Blue Jays 3, Royals 1
Roy Howell hit a two-run homer in the ninth as Toronto beat Kansas City. Paul Spittorff walked Willie Upshaw leading off the ninth and, one out later, served up Howell's blast, only the fourth Toronto hit.

White Sox 7, Tigers 2
Wilbur Wood scattered six hits and Chet Lemon highlighted a five-run eighth inning with a bases-loaded triple as Chicago beat Detroit. Wood struck out three and walked three en route to his first victory of the season after three losses. Lemon's three-run triple highlighted Chicago's game-breaking eighth, as the White Sox snapped a 2-2 tie. Lemon had entered the game with a respectable .321 batting average but found himself in a 1-for-18 slump.

Brewers 6, Red Sox 4
A two-run homer by Charlie Moore, a solo shot by Cecil Cooper and clutch relief pitching by Bob McClure helped Milwaukee beat Boston.

Ford's Jersey Is Retired In Ceremonies Honoring UNC Guard

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — All-America guard Phil Ford, the University of North Carolina's all-time leading scorer, has become the second basketball player in Tar Heel history to have his jersey retired.

Chancellor Ferebee Taylor announced during the UNC sports banquet Wednesday night that the number 12, which Ford wore during a stellar four-year career, will not be used again.

The only other North Carolina basketball player accorded such an honor was Lennie Rosenbluth, whose number 10 jersey was retired after he led the Tar Heels to the NCAA title in 1957 and was named national player of the year.

Ford, a senior from Rocky Mount who won the John Wooden Award as the best college player in the nation last season, walked off with most of the honors during the sports banquet. He was winner of the Carlington Smith Most Valuable Player Award, the Marth Jordan Award as top free throw shooter, the Coaches Award for most assists and the Educational Foundation watch as the top senior.

Leading North Carolina to the Atlantic Coast Conference regular-season championship, Ford eclipsed Rosenbluth's career scoring record during the 1977-78 season.

Sophomore forward Mike O'Koren of Jersey City, N.J., was presented the Oscar Vatz Award as the team's leading rebounder and the Mary Frances Andrews Award for having the best field goal percentage. He was also cited for being the team's overall statistical leader.

Dudley Bradley, a junior from Edgewood, Md., won the Carmichael-Cobb Award as the top defensive player. The Foy Roberson Award for most inspirational player went to junior Ged Doughton of Winston-Salem.

Rain Again Delays Games

Rain again played havoc with the area's sports schedule, postponing all activities set for yesterday.

At this time, most of the activities have not been rescheduled.

Those reset for today include Conley at Greene Central, with Conley also facing Farmville Central at the Greene Central field. The Jaguars and Vikings will complete a tie game starting at 2:30 p.m., then play their regular game. The game with Greene Central will start at 7:30 p.m.

The Division I girls track championships have been delayed until Friday.

A track meet between Conley and Farmville Central has been reset for Monday, while a baseball game between North Pitt and C.B. Aycock will be played May 13.

Ahoskie-Williamston tennis: North Pitt, North Lenoir and Southern Nash track: Albemarle-Martin baseball: Pantego-Bear Grass softball: Chocowinity-Jamesville softball: North Lenoir-Ayden-Grifton baseball: Southern Nash-Farmville Central baseball: Conley-Farmville Central softball: Rose-Northern Nash baseball: Rose-Northern Nash tennis, and Ahoskie-Williamston baseball have not been reset.

Roanoke-Rocky Mount tennis and Ayden-Grifton, Greene Central and C.B. Aycock track have been cancelled.

Pinkney Says Dye Halted Much Drug Use On East Carolina Team

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Marijuana apparently is the most abused drug by athletes at colleges around North Carolina, the Fayetteville Times reports.

After interviewing 35 athletes at Duke, East Carolina, North Carolina State and Wake Forest, the newspaper reported today that most agreed the abuse of other drugs such as amphetamines has diminished but still exists.

The Times, in the fourth installment of a six-part copyright series on drug abuse by athletes, said three of 10 current or former coaches interviewed at the four schools said they knew of drug abuse involving players on their teams.

Former N.C. State football player Ron Banther said he knew of one football player who used speed (amphetamines) "but that was the only guy I knew that did heavy stuff."

A 1977 graduate, Banther said he knew of two or three football players who regularly used marijuana and teammate Jeff Easter said some Wolfpack players were dismissed from the team for smoking marijuana.

Former N.C. State football coach Lou Holtz, who is now at Arkansas, and current coach Bo Rein said they knew of no drug abuse on their teams.

"I'm not saying there aren't drugs on our programs," Rein said. "There are probably some in all programs. But there have not been any violations that have warranted suspension."

Reggie Pinkney, who played defensive back for East Carolina before graduating last year, said drug abuse on the team diminished after coach Pat Dye called a squad meeting in 1975.

"He had this list of names he said came from the police, of players who were suspected of being involved with drugs and a couple of guys suspected of pushing drugs," Pinkney said. "He called out names and some were guys in the meeting. He said he wasn't going to have any of it."

Dye said he was aware of some cases of marijuana smoking in the off-season but he was "not aware of that taking place during the football season."

At Wake Forest, athletes said the only drug abuse they were aware of involved marijuana.

"There was plenty of marijuana, but that wasn't any big deal to me," said Bill Armstrong, an All-America defensive back for the Deacons who graduated in 1977. "I'd say that less than 50 percent of Wake athletes had smoked grass."

Former Duke basketball player Chris Redding said he knew of no teammates who used amphetamines during games but was told by other players that speed was used by athletes on some teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"From what I've heard, they would take some speed before a game or the morning of the game and that would last them the whole day," Redding said. "By game time, it was all in their system so you really couldn't tell by their eyes dilating."

The Times said it tried unsuccessfully to reach Duke basketball coach Bill Foster for comment.

Blue Devil football coach Mike McGee said there may have been a problem with drugs in early 1970s but he knows of none at Duke now.

There was disagreement among some team physicians about how easily drug abuse can be detected.

"You can easily tell if a player is on speed," said Dr. Steve Homer, the Wake Forest team doctor. "We had a player once that was from out of the conference and we could tell he was on speed during the game."

Homer said that "the good coaches can tell — those who are concerned with their players."

But Dr. Frank Bassett, sports medicine director and team physician at Duke, disagreed.

"I'd never know drug abuse if I saw it and I don't think any of the coaches would either," Bassett said.

Player Says Luck Will Be Big Factor

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Luck, said Gary Player, will be an important factor in his quest for a rare fourth consecutive pro golf tour victory.

In addition to having the ability, you also have to be very lucky to win four tournaments in a row, the tough little South African said before teeing off today in the first round of the $200,000 New Orleans Open.

He's had both ability and luck in a series of dramatic comebacks that has brought him the titles in the Masters, Tournament of Champions and Houston Open in his last three starts. He had the ability to shoot closing rounds of 64, 67 and 69. He had the ability to tie the 18-hole record at the Masters and set the 72-hole record at Houston. He had the ability to compile a stroke average of 69.0 in those three starts.

But he also had some luck. While he was performing his last-round heroics, the 54-hole leaders in those tournaments were shooting rounds of 72, 78 and 73.

In all, he made up 17 shots in the three last rounds and now is in position to become only the third man in history and the first in more than a quarter-century to win four consecutive tournaments.

Jack Burke was the last, in 1952. Byron Nelson, who achieved an unlikely string of 11 consecutive victories in 1945, is the only man to win more than four in a row.

"I think you have to be realistic about it," said Player, a 42-year old globe trotter who counts nine major titles among his 114 worldwide victories.

"You have to be very fortunate to win any tournament in the United States. The competition is so severe, there are so many good players. To win you have to do everything well. And you can't go on doing everything well indefinitely. Golf won't let you do much too humbling a game to allow you to go do everything well all the time."

"But it is possible to win four in a row. It is not impossible. But I have to go back to my original statement; you have to be a realist about it. You have to be awfully lucky to win four in a row."

He said he was taking a confident but a realistic outlook into the tournament on the 7,080-yard, par-72 Lakewood Country Club course.

Seattle Tightens Noose For Blazers

SEATTLE (AP) — The noose around the Portland Trail Blazers' neck was cinched a notch tighter Wednesday night.

One more slip by the proud but ailing Blazers and the Seattle SuperSonics will squeeze the defending National Basketball Association champions right out of the playoffs.

Rookie forward Jack Sikma, playing with the savvy and finesse of a veteran, scored Seattle's last seven points, including a baseline jumper with nine seconds left, lifting the Sonics to a wild 100-98 victory over the Blazers and a 3-1 lead in the Western Conference semifinal series.

The Sonics, who won their 16th straight game at home before a Coliseum sellout crowd of 14,098, can win the best-of-seven series with a victory in Game 5 Sunday in Portland.

It was the 6-foot-11 Sikma's fierce rebounding and velvet touch from the field in the final quarter that sent the Blazers tumbling to their second straight loss in Seattle.

"Jack has come through all year long, but this is probably one of his better performances," Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens said.

Sikma scored 11 of Seattle's final 12 points and 13 in the fourth period, which began with the Blazers ahead 81-73. The Sonics trailed by as many as 14 points on three occasions in the third period.

"I knew I was scoring a lot late," said Sikma, who finished with 28 points to tie his season high and grabbed 10 rebounds. "I just felt good. A couple of plays were set up distinctly for me. I was just locked in on getting open in the end."

Playing without regulars Bill Walton and Bob Gross and key reserve Lloyd Neal because of injuries, Portland ran off a 27-13 spurt at the outset of the second period for a 55-41 lead.

The Blazers led 57-45 at half-time on 56 percent shooting.

Following Sikma's go-ahead basket, the Blazers got the ball to Lionel Hollins, whose 25-foot-er over Dennis Johnson with five seconds left bounced off the rim and out of bounds to Portland.

After a time out, Willie Norwood passed inbounds again to Hollins, who launched a short jumper from the baseline at the buzzer that bounced over the rim.

While Seattle and Portland have until Sunday to ponder their fifth game, the Denver Nuggets and Washington Bullets both will have the home-court advantage as they attempt to win their quarter-final playoff series Friday night.

The Nuggets, leading 3-1, bounced back from a lopsided 143-112 loss on Sunday to beat the Milwaukee Bucks 118-104 Tuesday night to pull within one game of ending the series. It wasn't as close as the final score indicated, either, as Denver held Milwaukee scoreless for 5½ minutes in building a 90-61 lead after three periods.

The Bullets missed out in an attempt to eliminate the Spurs on Tuesday night when San Antonio won 116-105. "This puts a great deal of pressure on us now," said Washington Coach Dick Motta, because if the Spurs win Friday, the seventh game of the series would be played in San Antonio.

Even though they have never won at the Capital Centre in Landover, Md., the Spurs are confident.

"We've got to keep running," said NBA scoring champion George Gervin, the Spurs' 6-foot-7 guard, after Tuesday night's victory. "If we have an 11-man effort in Washington like we did tonight (Tuesday), the Bullets are in trouble."

Johnson Will Stay At MSU

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — It was a tough decision not to turn pro, and he's making no promises about next year, but freshman cage whiz Earvin Johnson is on board for another season at Michigan State.

Johnson, who led the dark-horse Spartans to the Big Ten title, turned down a chance to be a millionaire Tuesday when he told the Kansas City Kings their offer of $1.5 million to turn pro was too low.

The Kings wanted Johnson to apply for the National Basketball Association's college draft and offered him a $1.5 million multi-year contract.

"I came close to signing," Johnson said after the Tuesday midnight deadline for pleading hardship and turning professional. "But a lot of things I wanted didn't come through. And then, more than anything,

I didn't want to leave my teammates."

Johnson said he also had mouth-watering offers from "seven or eight" other teams.

"It was the hardest decision I had to make in my life," the 6-foot-8 star from Lansing Everett High School said. "Choosing a college was small stuff compared to what I've been going through the last couple of weeks. This decision concerns my future, my life and they were talking a lot of money."

But while MSU fans can breathe a sigh of relief, they shouldn't buy season tickets for the next three years in hopes of a Spartan dynasty.

"I'm not making any commitments as to next year," Johnson said. "It was hard not turning pro this time around, and I imagine it will be just as hard or harder next year."

From Behind

Seattle's Wally Walker (42) comes from behind to try for a rebound from Portland's Dave Twardzik (13) in the first quarter of Wednesday night's NBA playoff game in Seattle. Seattle has a 3-1 lead in the series after winning the game. Walker was called for a foul on the play. (AP Laserphoto)

Chiefs Kicker Traded

HOUSTON (AP) — A 15-year veteran punter who has been with the Kansas City Chiefs since they were the Dallas Texans has been acquired by the Houston Oilers for an undisclosed 1979 draft choice.

The deal is contingent on Jerrel Wilson's making the team. Oiler Coach O.A. "Bum" Phillips said Wilson would compete with last year's Oiler punter Cliff Parsley, a second-year man who punted 77 times last season for a 39.4 average. Wilson's career average is over 42 yards.

Today's Cryptiquip clue: T equals L.

The Cryptiquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

A Grinning Ehrlichman Leaves Federal Prison

SAFFORD, Ariz. (AP) — John Ehrlichman, grinning broadly, walked out of Swift Trail Federal Prison Camp after sunrise today, 18 months after he was imprisoned there for his role in the Watergate affair.

The former domestic affairs adviser to President Richard M. Nixon drove off for an unknown destination in a maroon Chevrolet with Phoenix (Ariz.) Gazette reporter Lois Boyles, driven by her son, Lance.

Ehrlichman, 53, dressed in casual slacks, a windbreaker and a baseball cap, was followed by nearly 50 reporters and photographers as he walked from the front door of the minimum-security facility. He posed for pictures, but declined to answer any questions.

Asked how he felt, Ehrlichman said: "Can't you see how I feel?"

Gazette City Editor Vic Thornton had said prior to Ehrlichman's release that Mrs. Boyles would be on hand at the prison.

"I don't know if we'll get a story or not," Thornton said. "She's got this personal involvement. She's very sympathetic toward him."

Ehrlichman is separated from his wife, Jeanne, who lives in Seattle where he formerly practiced law. Mrs. Boyles is reportedly separated from her husband.

Ehrlichman was convicted of conspiring to hide White House involvement in the Watergate burglary. He entered the prison in eastern Arizona on Oct. 28, 1976.

Ehrlichman is expected to return to Santa Fe, N.M., where he lived before beginning his sentence.

His original term of 20 months to eight years was for the Watergate cover-up and for violating the civil rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, a Beverly Hills, Calif., psychiatrist who treated Pentagon Papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

$12,875 Grant To Med School

ECU News Bureau
The East Carolina University School of Medicine has received a $12,875 grant from the American Medical Student Association for the development of an academic course designed to teach the team concept in health care.

Dr. Jon B. Tingelstad, project coordinator and chairman of the Department of Pediatrics, says the course will help ECU's medical, nursing and allied health students understand their individual roles as members of the health care team and will emphasize the importance of a close working relationship within the group.

Specialties represented in a health care team vary and may include a physician, nurse practitioner, social worker, nurse, health educator, physical and occupational therapists, and a speech and hearing specialist.

Representatives from each of ECU's health specialties will teach the three-hour course during the fall semester. The faculty includes Dr. Garret Hume, speech and hearing; Dr. John Ball, social work; Pat Garton, health education; Mary Susan Templeton, occupational and physical therapy; Dean Evelyn Perry, Carol Cox and Donna Schaefer, nursing; Dean William E. Laupus and Dr. James Markello, medicine; and Dean Ronald Thiele, allied health and social professions.

Man Outlived Execution Date 14 Times And Wins Freedom

CANON CITY, Colo. (AP) — Three times prisoner Lee Garrison "took the walk," headed for the gas chamber of the Colorado State Penitentiary.

Fourteen times he outlived dates set for his execution for what the Colorado Supreme Court called "a cold-blooded and revolting murder."

But after 20 years in prison, he walked through the gates Wednesday a free man, 45 years old, with $100 in his pocket and a new suit of clothes.

"First, I'm going to sit on the porch and watch the people for a little while," he said shortly before his release. "Watch the cars go by. I'll need a little time to put things behind me."

Garrison's death penalty was lifted in court several years ago and he was given a life sentence instead. He accumulated enough time in prison to qualify for parole, which he was granted in January.

Neighbors identified Garrison as one of two men who pistol-whipped Mort Frelander, 79, to death on the morning of April 25, 1958. The second assailant was never apprehended.

Although Denver police said Garrison confessed to the crime a number of times, he said in court that he was not guilty.

Behind the walls of Canon City, Garrison earned the nickname "The Godfather" for his work with younger inmates. Someday, he says, he would like to be a child counselor — maybe work with juvenile delinquents.

"I've sat in this hell-hole a long time — yeah, a long time," he said. "I've seen some intelligent kids come and go, and then come back again."

All he really learned inside, he said, was how to roll cigarettes well.

Garrison says he is not going back, that he wants a permanent job in his future.

"I hear these fools brag about having 200 jobs in 40 years. Big deal."

"It's the guy who works the same job for 40 years — yeah, that's something. A man can set his watch by the way he comes and goes. I like that idea. It means you can have something in this world, and leave something for someone else."

His stride was different as he walked out the gates. He was looking forward to going home to Denver and getting a chicken dinner at his mother's house.

Three times in the two decades before, he had chosen fried chicken as his last meal. Fried chicken — cooked "but not over-cooked" — onions, a side of fries and "real" — not prison-variety — coffee.

Three times he had eaten that chicken before the last-minute reprieves came. Three times.

This time, the meal would be different.

Notes Extension Of Job Insurance Tax

Some employers of domestic and agricultural workers owe unemployment insurance taxes for the first time this month, according to Jim Hannan, manager of the Greenville Employment Security Commission Office.

Heads of households and farmers are among employers who owe the taxes, based on action taken last year by the N. C. General Assembly in compliance with federal statutes extending unemployment insurance coverage to an additional 262,000 workers in the state. This number of workers includes some domestic and farm workers.

Payments for the first quarter of 1978 are due April 30. Reporting forms for paying these taxes are available from the ESC office.

The change affects any employer of domestic workers in private homes, college clubs, fraternities or sororities who paid $1,000 or more in wages in any calendar quarter last year. It applies to farmers who paid wages of $20,000 or more for agricultural labor during a calendar quarter last year or who employed ten or more workers for 20 weeks.

The tax is 2.7 per cent of the first $6,000 paid in wages to each worker. There is also a 0.7 per cent tax on wages due the federal government through the Internal Revenue Service.

State law assesses a six per cent annual interest penalty for late payments plus a ten per cent penalty rate on the amount due. Late reporting of taxes will result in a five per cent per month penalty.

Charge Driver In Car Mishap

Lori Margaret King of 1312 Red Banks Rd. was charged with following too close following investigation of a 5:15 p.m. mishap yesterday on 14th Street, 400 feet East of the Rock Springs Road intersection.

Investigators said the King car collided with an auto driven by Maycie Boyd Culbreth of 1007 Hillside Dr., causing an estimated $1,500 damage to the King car and $600 damage to the Culbreth vehicle.

Applicant For Anchorman Job

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — To whomever runs ABC and NBC: Now that Harry Reasoner is out as anchor of the evening news and John Chancellor wants to leave anchoring, I'd like to apply for either job.

My qualifications to anchor the news are these:

—My mom says I have a fine voice.

—My dad says anchormen make $500,000 a year, but I will only ask for $100,000.25. You can use the other $399,999.75 to cover the news. Or declare a stock dividend.

I know when you anchor at NBC there is worry about what to do with your legs because the Nightly News set shows your legs. I won't have that problem. I'll wear a lap robe.

If ABC is interested, I, as anchor, will deal with those rumors I can't get along with Barbara Walters. I'll anchor my part of the show from Tahiti, and tell the press we're still good friends.

As regards personal appearances, such as covering Middle East fighting or getting an exclusive interview with Geraldo Rivera, well, we should have no problem with that.

My agent, Everett "Swift" L'Doze, tells me that personal appearances by an anchorman where news is breaking is good public relations, almost as good as getting a TV Guide cover.

However, he says, almost reluctantly, he will be forced to charge a minimum of $29.95 for each personal appearance, the maximum of $50 to be assessed for coverage of World War III.

Acceptance Day For Art Entries

Friday, April 28 is the date of acceptance of entries for the Farmville Art Show to be held this weekend.

Entries are to be brought to the art center between the hours of 1 and 8 p.m. on Friday.

The annual Farmville Art Show is scheduled from 2 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and on Sunday, April 29 and 30.

Carter Singers Giving Program

The Carter Singers of Dale City, Virginia, will present a musical program at St. Matthews F.W.B. Church, on May 7, at 2:30 p.m.

Sponsors of the program are Mrs. Mary Clemons and Mrs. Audrey Lucas. The public is invited to attend.

Represent ECU At The Citadel

ECU News Bureau

Three members of the East Carolina University history faculty attended the April 20-22 "Conference on the 'New South'" at the Citadel, Charleston, S.C.

They were Clarence Cannon, Charles Cullop and Karl Rodabaugh. Dr. Cullop is an associate professor of history and associate dean of the ECU Graduate School, and Cannon and Rodabaugh are assistant professors in the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

One of the two conference coordinators was William Joseph Fraser Jr., an alumnus of ECU (MAEd, 1970) who is now a member of the Citadel history faculty.

As regards my duties prior to actually going on the air to anchor the news, I stand prepared to write my own copy. Here is a sample of some of my work:

—"There was more bad economic news from Washington today . . . Irving R. Levine has the story."

—"Meanwhile . . ."

—"Trading was light, with industrials mixed."

—"Barbara is on assignment."

I also am willing to talk with the executive producer of the evening news for up to four hours before the show and for two minutes afterwards.

When I am supposed to be away from New York, "in the field," I think they call it, the only thing I will not do is be interviewed by Charles Kuralt. We must draw the line somewhere.

I am told an anchorman's image is almost as important as his substance. So if ABC wants me to convey a hip, mod image, I've just bought a V-neck shirt that shows off my new chest toupee.

If NBC wants me to convey a hip, but responsible image, I will have the chest toupee trimmed to a crew cut and dyed grey.

Finally, please pay no attention to the rumor another network already has auditioned me to be an anchorman, and that the result was a two-minute telethon for lockjaw relief. That simply is not true.

partner's hand, and the only entry is the jack of diamonds.

Therefore, West must abandon diamonds after the first lead and shift to the queen of hearts. Declarer is helpless. He cannot try to discard a diamond on the fourth round of clubs—one defender or the other will surely ruff. His only chance is to hope that he can draw West's fangs.

At trick three declarer leads the ten of trumps, but West wastes no time. He grabs the ace of spades and underleads his ace of diamonds. East wins the trick with the jack, and the winning defense is obvious. He shifts back to hearts, and West's ruff defeats the contract by one trick.

A new bridge TV show is now being aired. Called "Master Bridge with Edwin Kantar," the show features a celebrity guest and three others playing a hand of bridge, with commentary by current world team champion, Eddie Kantar.

This is one of the hands featured on a show. After a normal auction South became declarer at four spades. The point of the hand is the importance of signalling on defense.

West leads the king of diamonds, and East must follow with the queen. This signal specifically states that the opening leader's partner has the jack as well. With a doubleton queen you should follow with your low card; this is the only occasion where you do not play high-low to signal a doubleton in the suit partner has led.

It is obvious to West that he cannot expect much more from his partner than the queen-jack of diamonds. However, that information should be all that West needs to defeat the contract.

West can count on two probable diamond tricks and the ace of spades to complete the defensive book. Where is the fourth trick going to come from?

Obviously, the only hope is a heart ruff—South must have the ace of clubs for his jump to three spades. To secure that ruff, West must be able to enter his

Refugee Family Lives In Two Worlds

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Halfway around the globe from their home in Vietnam, Tu V. Nguyen and his family live in two worlds.

Nguyen, his wife and their four children move easily in the English-speaking world outside their new suburban house here. But at home, they speak their native language and the family table is set with rice bowls and chopsticks.

"I want my children to know they are Vietnamese," said Nguyen, a 40-year-old case worker with the Cumberland County Department of Social Services. His family is among about 1,500 Vietnamese refugees living in North Carolina, with the largest concentration of Vietnamese in Fayetteville.

It has been three years since thousands of South Vietnamese fled their homeland as it fell to the Communists.

Most of them settled on the West Coast. But a sizeable number came to Fayetteville, a place most had never even heard of. They were not particularly drawn to Fayetteville; they were pulled to it because of nearby Fort Bragg.

"We had to have an American sponsor to get in the country," said Nguyen, who speaks flawless English. He was a sales manager with a firm in Saigon, and he left with his family 10 days before the fall.

"I had a very good friend who was a captain in the U.S. Army Special Forces."

Phung van Tran, a 24-year-old student at Methodist College in Fayetteville, recited a similar story — a Vietnamese sister-in-law was married to a soldier at Fort Bragg.

There were war brides who came with their soldier husbands, brothers, sisters and parents who came with the war brides.

Many of the refugees, such as Nguyen and Tran, have fared well in three years. Tran and his Vietnamese wife are working on college degrees and are planning careers in their new country.

Others have not seen such good times. Sue and Le, both 26, work as waitresses in the cluster of topless bars and nightclubs on Hay Street in Fayetteville.

"I no like it here. Maybe move Florida," said Sue, who after three years still has trouble with English.

"I work at sewing in Vietnam," said Le. "Here, all done by machine. No good jobs, just this and I no like this."

Where Le and Sue work, customers buy the girls a $1.50 glass of orange juice and get a few minutes of talk in return. "We make dollar an hour and tips," said Le.

State and federal officials who run programs to help Vietnamese and other aliens say most Vietnamese refugees have made the transition about as well as could be expected.

"I think we've seen in working with Vietnamese that the majority of those people who came over here came from high level posts," said Judy Poston, of the state Department of Human Resources.

"They have not been too proud to take manual-type jobs. Many of them have adjusted. They've found better jobs, they speak English well."

Ms. Poston's department, the income maintenance section of the division of social services, administers a federally-funded program with cash assistance for refugees who qualify.

Ms. Poston said the largest concentration of Vietnamese in the state is in Fayetteville, although exact figures are not kept on an area-by-area basis. Other metropolitan areas have drawn refugees and the Department of Human Resources has Vietnamese case workers in Fayetteville and Winston-Salem.

lem. The latest federal Immigration and Naturalization Service figures are for 1977 and they show that among eight South-eastern states, only Florida and Georgia have more refugees than North Carolina.

According to interviews with several refugees in the Fayetteville area, the Vietnamese community is not close-knit. The social distinctions that prevailed in Saigon were brought to the United States.

"Some of the people don't associate with, say, some of the girls who came over with soldiers or who work in bars. They did not associate with them in Vietnam," one refugee said.

Many Vietnamese are working toward American citizenship and they talk more of the future than of the past.

"Life is good here," said Tran, who is studying to be an accountant. "The political system is good. For many, there have been no real problems."

If there is one thread binding all Vietnamese, aside from their nationality, it is that practically all left relatives behind in Vietnam.

"My wife and I left on April 30, 1975 — the last day. My mother, father, left behind," Tran said. "I have had one letter from them since then."

Le, the waitress, left her parents and other relatives. Like other Vietnamese, she holds little hope of going back in the near future.

"I like so very much to go back," she said, her eyes misting. "But I don't think so. Not now."

Drainage Cuts Water Damage

Associate extension agent L. Gaylon Ambrose reminded tobacco growers that the rate and degree of recovery from the excess rainfall that occurred in late May of 1977 was better on those fields with good surface and subsurface drainage.

"However, just as importantly," he said, "one could easily recognize the fields that had plants on a high row ridge." Ambrose said, "It was easy to see the value of the high row ridge in guarding against water damage."

The agent suggested that a high row ridge should be maintained throughout the cultivation period and an even larger ridge should be built up at the last cultivation.

According to Ambrose, the row ridge serves at least two purposes in avoiding water damage: as a drainage aid and measure of reducing leaching or loss of nutrients as a result of large quantities of water percolating through the root zone; and in keeping a larger proportion of roots above the zone subject to waterlogging.

"High row ridges may be especially helpful on soils that have poor internal drainage and are subject to becoming waterlogged," he added.

Tobacco drowns because of free water accumulating in the root zone and filling the soil pores, he said. The rate and degree of recovery from drowning is dependent upon many factors, he noted, including severity of damage, freedom from diseases, and weather following drowning.
