

Hunt Proposes Limiting Assembly Session Length

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The General Assembly should consider an amendment to the state constitution setting a limit on the length of its sessions each year, Gov. Jim Hunt said today.

Hunt, at his weekly news conference, said growth of the legislature in recent years "concerns me greatly." But, Hunt refused comment on plans for an $8.5 million office building for legislators, reportedly included in the proposed state budget scheduled for release next week.

"I think the sessions have been longer than they need to be," Hunt said, in response to a question about legislative power.

"I think that's something legislators have to look hard at," he said. "I've heard an awful lot of good legislators say they dropped out because they couldn't afford the long sessions."

Last year's legislative session began in January and lasted more than six months. Legislators reconvene later this month for a session expected to last two to six weeks.

Hunt said he had no specific recommendation for a time limit, except that "it ought to be brief." He said the limit would be "self-discipline" and noted that Virginia has such a constitutional limit.

On other questions, Hunt repeated his opposition to liquor-by-the-drink, but said the bill before the House would not be a top priority for him. Hunt listed higher priorities such as the state budget and economic growth. Opponents of the mixed drink bill have, in recent days, said they believed passage of the bill would be an "embarrassment" to Hunt and harm his political future. "I'll make that decision for myself," Hunt said when asked about those comments.

"I have never considered that to be a political issue," he said. "I consider it as a moral issue."

The governor also defended his administration's rehiring of former banking commissioner John Tropicman in light of a summary of an SBI report made public Wednesday which detailed possible improper actions by Tropicman.

Hunt declined to say whether he thought Tropicman had violated any state laws in accepting favors from the Northwestern Bank and withholding information from investigators, but said he made "serious mistakes of judgment."

Tropicman was given another job because he was less than a year from retirement and "nine-tenths of the people of the state... would have made the same decision to let him have that job," Hunt said.

Graduation Day

Retiring Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins will be the commencement speaker when East Carolina University graduates a record 2,828 persons Friday.

The ceremonies begin at 10 a. m. and will be held in Ficklen Stadium, weather permitting. If it were to rain, the event will take place in Minges Coliseum.

The audience will include Gov. James B. Hunt Jr., former governors, Robert W. Scott and Terry Sanford, U. S. Senators Jesse Helms and Robert B. Morgan, Rep. Walter B. Jones, legislative leaders, members of the UNC Board of Governors, ECU trustees, numerous and parents and relatives and friends of the graduates. A special guest will be Mrs. Warren Jenkins of Elizabeth, N. J., mother of Dr. Jenkins, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fachel of Colonia, N.J. his sister and brother-in-law. This will be Dr. Jenkins' 40th Commencement — for several years there were two commencements — since he came to East Carolina 31 years ago. He has served as president and chancellor since 1960. He will be succeeded as chancellor July 1 by Dr. Thomas B. Brewer, vice chancellor and dean of the university of Texas Christian University.

ECU officials emphasized that the public is encouraged to attend. It is suggested that entrance to the stadium area be made from Charles Street, turning left on Sanford Drive and entering the north parking lot. Joe Calder, Director of Security and Traffic, said there will be no direction signs on the south side of the stadium and that it will be difficult to enter from this direction. People are urged to arrive early.

Suspect Leaking Gas

EXPLOSION DESTROYS HOUSE — Members of the Winterville Fire Department battle a blaze that destroyed a house south of Winterville on highway 903. According to officials, the house exploded about 5:48 p. m. yesterday, sending fire into the yard, also destroying a car. Bobby Joyner, Pitt County Fire Marshal, said there was an apparent gas leak in the house when the explosion occurred. Two members of the Melton Carmon family were inside the house and ran outside just before the blast occurred. Two other persons in the yard also escaped injury. No other injuries were reported. Damages were estimated at $10,000. Investigation into the explosion is continuing. ## Strong Hints Of New Jenkins Role

There will be, "an announcement of significance" at East Carolina University's graduation exercises tomorrow morning, Chancellor Leo Jenkins said this morning.

That, and, "let the Governor speak for himself," is all that Dr. Jenkins, who will retire in June as the head of ECU, would say about reports that he will join the administration of Gov. Jim Hunt as an assistant for economic development.

The governor, apparently, is scheduled to make the announcement at tomorrow's commencement exercises.

Jenkins, who has headed ECU as president and chancellor for the past 18 years, and who supported Hunt in the 1976 campaign, has said many times in the past that he would like to work for Hunt after his retirement. Hunt has said that he would like to make use of Jenkins' abilities in his administration.

Gary Pierce, Hunt's press secretary told "The Daily Reflector" several weeks ago that the governor was trying to find a spot for Jenkins in State Government where his talents would be put to best use, and suggested that it might be in the area of economic development.

Pierce also suggested that the position would probably be on a part-time basis.

Sources today said Jenkins would work with the governor's program for Economic Development and Balanced Growth, particularly on development in small towns and rural areas.

There Will Be 540 Fewer Parking Meters In Downtown Greenville

Area residents motoring in to downtown Greenville, Monday, will find 540 fewer parking meters to contend with if they look for a place to park.

All but 79 of the 619 meters now in service are scheduled to be removed over the weekend, Police Chief Glenn Cannon said this morning.

The chief noted that only meters in the Hooker lot on Cotanche Street, and the Georgetowne Shoppes lot, along with meters around city hall and two at the intersection of Third and Evans Streets will remain in service.

He noted that the meters in the Hooker lot will be changed to provide eight hours parking for 25 cents, while the Georgetowne meters will give 30 minutes parking for a nickel and one-hour parking for 10 cents. The meters at City Hall and at the intersection of Third and Evans Streets, which formerly provided 12-minute parking, will be changed to allow 30-minute parking for five-cents.

At the other locations which formerly had meters, according to Cannon, free two-hour parking will be allowed.

He emphasized that police will enforce the two-hour parking limit by issuing tickets — just as in the past — for cars parked overtime.

Cannon pointed out that an increase in the fines for overtime parking will go into effect Monday, also.

He said the overtime parking fee, which has been $1, will increase to $2 per ticket Monday. Overtime parking tickets, he noted, are the same red tickets used in the past.

Other parking violations, such as parking left to curb, outside parking lines, too near a fire hydrant or sidewalk cross, double parking or parking in no parking or loading zones, will carry a $5 fine, according to Cannon. The $5 tickets, the chief noted, will be white.

Cannon pointed out that officers will keep check on overtime parking violations by marking the tires of parked vehicles with chalk, and ticket cars violating the new two-hour free parking city code.

Bitter Floor Fight Over Warplane Sales In Store

School Board To Reconvene

The City Board of Education will reconvene its Monday, May 8 meeting at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the board room of the City School Board office, 431 W. Fifth Street.

The principal agenda item is to be consideration of portions of the 1978-79 current expense budget for the Greenville City Schools.

WASHINGTON — Senior members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee say President Carter's promise to sell 20 extra warplanes to Israel will not stop a bruising floor fight by critics of his proposed Mideast jet plane sale. On the eve of today's committee vote on the issue, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and others said a divisive fight now is inevitable, in part because the Carter compromise did not produce the consensus once expected.

Church also said that a close reading of arms sale law shows that opponents of the sales can kill the deal on the Senate floor even if the committee refuses to adopt a disapproval resolution.

To kill the deal — which also includes sales to Egypt and Saudi Arabia — both the House and the Senate must adopt rejection resolutions by May 28.

Church said the assumption that the sale would go forward if the committee failed to adopt a resolution is incorrect because the law permits members to call for rejection on the floor despite committee inaction. Sens. William Proxmire,

Israeli requests for planes. It also issued a series of assurances to increase confidence that Saudi Arabia will never use the planes to attack Israel.

Two Appointed By Gov. Hunt

HOWARD DAWKINS

ROSS PERSINGER

Governor Jim Hunt announced Wednesday the appointment of two area residents to the Governor's Office of Citizen Affairs Advisory Council.

Named to the council are Ross Persinger, mayor of the town of Ayden, and Howard G. Dawkins, Director of the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Rehabilitation Center.

Persinger has been active in the North Carolina League of Municipalities, of which he is the vice-chairperson of the Legislative Committee. He has also served as Chairperson of the Mid-East Commission.

Chaired by Mrs. Jim Hunt, the 25 member Advisory Council will assist the Office of Citizen Affairs in accomplishing the objectives and goals as stated in the Executive Order establishing the office.

The Office of Citizen Affairs was established to promote greater citizen awareness and personal involvement in state and local government programs, services and activities; to facilitate citizen communication with the Governor and state government; and to promote and encourage the growth of volunteerism across North Carolina.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee today rejected by an 8-8 tie vote a resolution to block President Carter's proposed sale of warplanes to three Middle East nations.

DWis. and Robert Dole, R-Kan. say they are prepared to call for such resolutions.

In addition to the commitment to sell Israel the additional planes in the mid-1980s, the administration promised to give sympathetic consideration to future

Personnel of the U.S. Army Reserve's 398th Supply Co. here plan to turn their regular monthly training session this weekend into a civic action project that will benefit the community.

The commander of the heavy materials supply unit, Capt. Charles F. Smith, said that the company will undertake a clearance project involving the area north of the river designated by the city for future park use, and also a section in Meadowbrook that is in need of clearing.

Smith explained that the Saturday and Sunday project will afford the unit the opportunity to "do a service for the community while at the same time accomplish our training."

According to Smith, the unit is planning to use its heavy equipment to remove junk vehicles and debris from the ponds of Mumford Road that the city has designated for public fishing and that Reserve personnel will also remove several burned out structures from the area.

He pointed out that the weekend project will also involve the clearing of debris and growth from an area, located near the day care center in Meadowbrook, that is considered a health hazard. In addition to removing debris, several old buildings will be knocked down and cleared from the area.

All of the work has been coordinated with the city, Smith said, with Public Works director Mayo Allen, City Manager Charlie Holliday, and Recreation and Parks director Boyd Lee working with the unit in designating specific areas of need. The Meadowbrook Neighborhood Association has also been involved in the coordination, he mentioned.

Items removed from the clearance areas will be taken to the sanitary landfill for disposal, he added, with the exception of a structure that will be moved to the park area for use by the city as an (Continued on page 14)

DEAR ABBY: It all started eight months ago when Ron and I started running around with Lynn and Dave. Dave and I would sit in the front and Lynn and Ron would sit in back. It was all in fun. We'd hold hands and hug and kiss once in a while. I sort of liked it at first, then I noticed Ron was overdoing it with Lynn.

I said I thought the whole idea was silly and suggested we get back with our own mates, but Ron and Lynn didn't want to quit. What do I do now. I am sure Lynn and Ron haven't gone any further than hugging and kissing, but I'm worried about where it might lead. I love my husband and I know he loves me. There are 5 preschool children between the two families. What should I do?
RON'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I don't have to tell you how foolish you were to have started this dangerous game—now the fat is in the fire. Tell Ron that if you are going to continue the friendship with Lynn and Dave, there will be no more switches. Then gradually see less and less of them, and more of other couples who are content to stick with the mates they married.

DEAR ABBY: Golf is a great sport, but why do so many people who play the game cheat?

I have had the same sad experience with both men and women. They lie through their teeth about their scores.
HONEST GOLFER

DEAR HONEST: People lie about their golf scores for the same reason they lie about anything else. They lack the self-confidence and security to tell the truth. And since golf is a game involving an exclusive and confidential relationship between the player and the ball, the cheating player can usually get away with it.

DEAR ABBY: Please answer this soon as Mom and Dad are planning a trip and we kids will be alone.

We are both young adults. My parents have asked our married brother to "look in on us" while they're out of town. Does that give my brother the right to barge in whenever he feels like it without giving us any warning? Do you think he should have a key to our house just like he did when he lived here? Doesn't the fact that he is now married with a house of his own make him somewhat of an outsider here?

This is causing a terrible fight. We would like your opinion. We are two girls, 18 and 19.
US KIDS IN NEW CANAAN

DEAR KIDS: What "rights" your brother has, can (and should) be clearly defined by your parents. And to avoid any misunderstanding, your parents should tell you in your brother's presence exactly what "looking in on" entails.

Would Dock Refund If Money Is Owed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — People who look forward to receiving tax refunds every year better make sure they don't owe the state any money. The attorney general's office wants a state law that would allow refunds to be docked if the taxpayer owes any state agency money.

The law would be similar to a bank docking a customer's savings account when he defaults on a loan made by the bank.

The proposal was outlined Wednesday for members of the legislative study committee reviewing the state's revenue laws by R. James Lore, associate attorney general.

Lore cited a student loan as an area where the law might be used. He said if a student gets a state loan to finance his college education, doesn't repay it, and later earns a salary from which state income tax is withheld, the state agency making the loan could dock his state income tax refund for the amount owed. Lore urged the committee to adopt legislation that would tap "this virgin, yet fertile source of revenue." If adopted, he estimated the state could recover $750,000 alone collecting money from fathers who fail to support families that get public assistance.

The procedure is legal now under commonlaw principles and the state Administrative Procedures Act, Lore said. But a law would be needed to determine which agency could get part of an individual's refund check first.

Lore said procedures would also have to be established to protect the taxpayer's rights to due process and the agency's proof of debt.

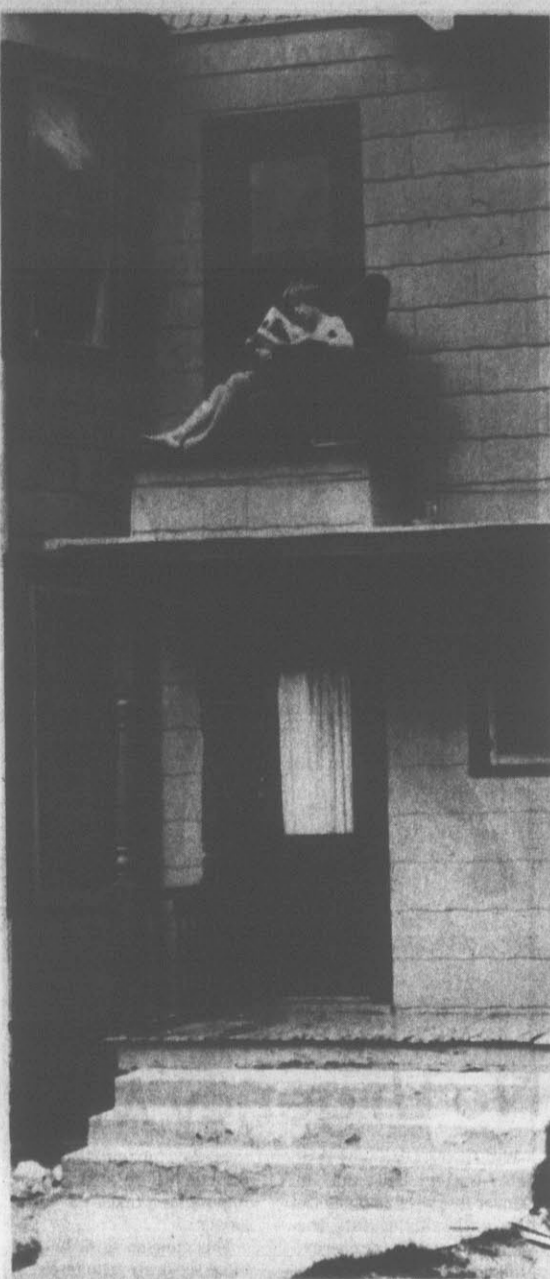

Secretary of Revenue Mark G. Lynch said such a law would be difficult to administer. He said the N.C. Department of Revenue, which is currently able to withhold refund checks of taxpayers who have tax debts from past years, would need more money to match defaulting taxpayers with their refund checks.

"It seems wonderful in many ways," he said, but the idea needs study to avoid "mammoth problems" in administrative areas.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

My son came home from college last week and gave me his usual greeting, "Hi, Mom."

I gave him mine: "Get a haircut."

He dropped in a chair and said, "Okay."

"Whatya mean, 'Okay'?" "I mean I've been meaning to get one. My hair is too long and hangs in my eyes and I'm always having to flip it back. Besides, it looks sleazy."

"And another thing," I said. "I hope you're going to shave off that ridiculous-looking beard. You look like Abe Lincoln with a case of the frizzies."

"You're right. Besides, it always smells like pizza. Tomorrow it goes."

"Don't fight me, but if your suitcase has those jeans with the hole in the crotch that is mended with white thread and the zipper has a pin connecting it, you can toss them out."

"I did that already. Bought a couple pair of new slacks."

"To wear with those diseased-looking tennis shoes, I suppose."

"Nah. Threw those out too. No one wears dirty gym shoes with a sports coat."

"A sports coat? The last time you wore a sports coat you dribbled milk on it from your Yogi Bear cup. I'm giving you fair warning, you aren't going to sleep every day until the crack of noon."

"No problem. I'm into jogging now and I go about five miles before breakfast."

"You are into jogging? You, who never took out the garbage until I organized a car pool?"

"I know, but it's really good for you."

"And stay out of my refrigerator and all my junk food. You're not having a chip dip orgy with the stuff I'm saving for Saturday night."

"All that rich stuff breaks out your face. I'm into milk and yogurt now."

The next morning, I opened his door and peeked into the room.

He was at his desk studying.

"I didn't know you were here," I said. "I didn't hear the stereo."

"I keep it low. After all, why should I inflict my taste in music on everyone else?"

As I started to leave I saw a gum wrapper on the floor.

I let it lay.

He was going to be home three more days and we had to leave something to talk about.

The Sane World Must Resist

Former Italian premier Aldo Moro should be viewed by the civilized world as a fallen hero in the continuing war against terrorists and murderers. One can understand the family's bitterness concerning Moro's death, but the Italian government acted responsibly in refusing to deal with a repulsive and thoroughly detestable band. If society will but allow it, there is no end to what such groups can demand and get through intimidation.

There is intense grief in Italy today because of this senseless killing, and certainly there should be. It is a grief that all civilized people should share. The killing of Aldo Moro should first and foremost strengthen the resolve of the sane world to resist the blackmail of a fanatical few. If we ever shrink from our civilized responsibilities then mankind is indeed lost.

Out Of Training Schools

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — All of the conflicts haven't been ironed out — many, in fact, promise some heated battles down the road — but state and local government officials are moving full speed ahead on getting status offenders out of the juvenile training schools. The deadline is July 1. Human Resources Secretary Sarah T. Morrow says that deadline will be met ... 100 per cent. Youth Services Division Director William Windley concurs. Those currently in the training schools on non-criminal charges will serve out their terms. But, says Windley, effective July 1, the system will accept no more status offenders, "not even for one day ... that is the law." Status offenses are non-criminal acts for which juveniles have been sent to a state institution, while an adult committing the same act would not be touched by the law. The offenses include school truancy, running away from home, generally undisciplined behavior.

At one time more than half the population in the training schools was made up of children sentenced for such offenses. But three years ago, the General Assembly passed a law requiring community-based counseling, treatment, training, or rehabilitation programs instead. Training school population has since dropped sharply from about 1,200 to a current population of 963. Two of the seven training schools were converted to other uses. In March, 38 per cent of those entering the training schools were status offenders. The number has fallen as low as 24 per cent, at times. Dr. Morrow says she does not foresee closing any other facilities, and that some are overcrowded at this time. Local boards of county commissioners, working with public or private agencies, are responsible for developing the community programs, and Dr. Morrow reports that 96 counties are already geared up, with one more (Gaston) to come on board within a year. Gradually, opposition to the community based program is fading. That opposition was based on a number of factors, depending upon the source of the opposition:

BILL NOBLITT

— Local governments protested that funds were not provided; a million-dollar appropriation and the promise of more to come has relieved that.
— Juvenile judges said they need training school commitment as a threat to bring some youngsters in line. Of the judges, Dr. Morrow says, "I'm sure they intend to comply with the law which says simply no more status offenders will be sent to the institutions."
Custody
— Court officials at local and state levels have argued that once a child comes into contact with the courts he "belongs" to them and they should run any subsequent treatment or counseling programs. Of that, Dr. Morrow says, "As we work closely together, we will see some changes in attitude."

— Other agencies have sought to get a claim on the money and personnel being channeled into the effort. "The opposition has not ended...but we are going ahead and getting down to the business of making sure that there are adequate resources to meet the needs of these children," says Dr. Morrow. Recommendations from the Juvenile Code Revision Commission will be to establish a system of intake counselors to work with juveniles and their parents, divert them from the courts where that is the best course, and to oversee placement in proper treatment programs. Where will that large, important, and well-funded program be lodged? Will the courts run the system, or will Youth Services? "That will be up to the General Assembly to determine. The essential thing is that we all work together," Dr. Morrow says.

LIMITED MEANS OF EXPRESSING ONE'S SELF!

No Urgency Manifest

WASHINGTON — President Carter flew out to Denver last week to publicize his enthusiasm for the development of solar energy. Millions of Americans who may oppose him in other ventures will support him in this one. They will wish the president's enthusiasm were even greater. Sad to say, we are nowhere near where we ought to be in the development of alternate forms of energy. Our country is supposed to be the most inventive country on earth; we are blessed with many of the world's finest scientists and engineers; ours is a land of

"can-do" imagination. The difficult we do at once; the impossible takes a little longer. This gung-ho spirit has yet to be seriously manifested in harnessing the inexhaustible energy of the sun. If our famed foresight had been working five or ten years ago, by this time a crash program would have brought the cost of solar installations down to competitive levels with other fuels. We would be deriving 10 or 15 or 20 percent of our energy needs from unconventional sources rather than the miserable fraction of 1 percent we are developing now.

Joining in last week's Sun Day fun, Mr. Carter appeared to have caught the solar spirit. High time. His pending energy package contains no more than a feeble lick and a promise for future tax credits and subsidies. His existing programs are scattered all over the bureaucratic landscape. Doubtless, these existing programs are better than nothing. The Department of Housing and Urban Development, in cooperation with the Department of Energy, has an active program of grants for demonstration solar heating and cooling projects in residential units. Under this program, applications are solicited from builders and developers for grants that will pay the difference in cost between conventional installations and solar installations. In the third round of grants, announced last August, 169 applicants got $6 million for installations in 3,468 housing units. The fourth round is now coming up.

Honor Patriot Of '75

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent
NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The day began chilly and wet, generally rotten, which some thought generally apt. Soon enough, though, the sun broke through, and under a bright spring sky, with pomp and pageantry, with bugles and banners, with fifes and drums and marching feet, with bands and booming cannon, this town paid honor to a long-remembered son, Benedict Arnold.

Honest. They do it every year. "Of course Benedict Arnold was a traitor," Capt. Bob Hunter said. "What we honor is this green in 1775 and the man who did it, who was Benedict Arnold." Capt. Hunter is a member of Benedict Arnold's old outfit, the Governor's Foot Guard of Connecticut. As other members here gathered for the celebration, the captain was all gotten up in white knee britches, black leggings, scarlet coat, sword, fur hat, a figure in a London travel poster.

The celebration was not, however, held on the anniversary of Benedict Arnold's 1775 exploit on the New Haven green. That happened April 22. What with April's unpredictable weather, the Foot Guard picks a weekend in May for its annual observance, in this case May 5. (May 5, incidentally, is the anniversary of the Sack of Rome, rarely celebrated, as in the Sack of New London, New London, Conn., just up the road, was Benedict Arnold's birthplace. In 1781, Arnold led the British sackers.)

Last Saturday, May 5, was also the day the Veterans of Foreign Wars in neighboring New York picked as Loyalty Day, but one festivity at a time. Back to Benedict Arnold. "What Benedict Arnold did late in the Revolution were acts of treason," Capt. Hunter said. "He was a traitor. There is no denying it, and we don't." "What he did here, though, was an act of patriotism and there's no denying that either. It might be difficult for some to separate the two, but we have no trouble. Powder House Day is a time-honored celebration in New Haven."

THE INSIDE REPORT

1976 Ploy Haunts Reagan

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Ronald Reagan's unsuccessful 1976 ploy in naming his vice presidential choice before the Republican convention met is coming back to haunt his plans for another presidential try in 1980. In 1976, underdog Reagan, attempting to force President Gerald R. Ford to reveal his choice for Vice President before the Kansas City convention, announced his own astonishing choice: liberal Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania. In 1980, would prospective front-runner Reagan have to prove his consistency by naming his running-mate in advance again? The tentative answer by Reagan advisers: yes. But that raises another question. Would the choice again have to be Schweiker? Schweiker is still distrusted by the Republican right, which blames Reagan's convention defeat by Ford on the Schweiker ploy, devised by campaign manager John Sears. But the friendship between Schweiker and Reagan has flourished: Schweiker has moved toward the right, lowering his liberal rating and even voting against the Panama Canal treaties. However, Reagan will be 69 years old in 1980. Fellow Republicans see him as a one-term possibility. Thus, his running-mate will be viewed as heir-apparent. Reagan insiders seriously doubt whether Schweiker is strong enough to fill that role. A footnote: An escape route might be Anne Armstrong, former ambassador to Great Britain, who as Vice President would not be considered heir-apparent. This option became more fascinating to Reagan insiders recently when poll results indicated a woman on the ticket is far more acceptable to the public today than in 1976. BLAST FROM BURNS Dr. Arthur Burns, still the weightiest economic voice in town a month after leaving his post as Federal Reserve chairman, had no malice in his heart when he bluntly advised President Carter to take a salary cut as a symbol of his inflation battle. In fact, Burns arrived at a Chamber of Commerce dinner here to pick up a distinguished service award (a crystal ball) with no speech. He had no intention of talking and no plan to criticize Jimmy Carter — who decided against his reapointment as chairman on the Fed last winter. But when he accepted his award, the 74-year-old Burns was moved to warn against rising inflation and the importance of Mr. Carter's anti-inflation effort. One Burnsism: "To emphasize federal leadership in unwinding the inflation, the President should cut his own salary ($200,000), say about 10 percent, and call upon all presidential appointees and members of Congress to do likewise." At that point, Burns was interrupted by cheers. He continued: "The President should call on top corporate executives to refrain entirely from any increase" in salaries for two years. Again, this time surprisingly, his audience of high-paid businessmen applauded. "Well, you see, I misjudged this audience," he quipped. In the old days, such explosive anti-inflation proposals might have been modified by political requirements. But now Burns, with his uncommon dignity, is a former government official, he can say what he wants—whatever Jimmy Carter, members of Congress and industry moguls think. TO GET, GIVE Rep. Ed Derwinski, senior Republican on the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, has struck a bargain in sorting with President Carter. Derwinski's help to pass the Civil Service reform bill but getting an administration go-slow on Hatch Act reform. Derwinski's move may mark the start of an overdue Republican effort to play tit-for-tat with the embattled Democratic President. When he and Republican members of the Civil Service Committee arrived at the Oval Office at the President's invitation on April 4, Mr. Carter said in effect, look, I can't get this bill (Civil Service reform) through without you; I need your help. Derwinski, who favors most parts of the reform bill, immediately asked for a slowdown on Hatch Act reform (which would weaken present political restrictions on government employees). The President was noncommittal. But White House aides say privately that since Civil Service reform is top priority on the President's legislative (Continued on page 6)

To the editor: Attempts by the Federal Government (NHTSA) and N. C.'s Dept. of Crime Control and Public Safety to concentrate so much effort and money on drivers doing over 55 m. p. h. is a waste and a disservice. It may end up doing more harm than good because it tends to draw attention from the real killers on our highways, drunks and inexperienced drivers. Speeding ranks very low as the "primary collision factor", way behind DUI's and driver inattention. Laws requiring the use of seat belts in Quebec and Sweden and dramatically cut highway deaths there. Does the NHTSA or N. C. -CCPS care about these statistics? Apparently those in authority in Washington had rather scream at Col. Jenkins for N. C.'s 64 percent speeding record than push for a real lifesaver, mandatory buckle-up. So if driving over 55 m. p. h. is not such a big killer, perhaps we're saving gas? Hardly! Domestic demand for gas has actually risen from 6.674 billion barrels a day in 1973 to 6.978 billion a day in 1976. According to Dr. John Eberhart of the Dept. of Transportation, the most accurate government study shows a maximum fuel savings of one percent directly attributable to the 55 mph limit. The same savings could be had by simply properly inflating every tire in this country! If anyone is serious about saving gas, he will buy an economy car, drive less — or both. Most economy cars get better gas mileage at 70 mph than full-sized ones get at 35 mph. Yet have they been outlawed? Slowly, but surely, yes (by 1985-CAFE Law.) There is such a variance in our highway system that to try and fix any one speed as a national limit is unrealistic, 55 on an interstate in most situations is ridiculous. So is 55 on some of our twisty county roads, for the opposite reason. I thank the N. C. Highway Patrol for the excellent job it is trying to do, even though it is now little more than a branch of the federal government. Ownership of a Fuzzbuster II doesn't make me blind to the great service they daily provide.

To the editor: Your May 5 editorial on solar energy was certainly timely. Solar energy will be an important part of our future. However, if people are not to be "turned off" by solar energy in the future, it is important not to oversell it in the present. It is essential that those who support the development of solar energy be accurate in the claims they make for it. For example, contrary to your editorial claim, the sun is not the source of all our energy. For one example, geothermal energy also supplies energy to the earth's surface. This form of energy has its origins in nuclear decay occurring within the earth. In addition, it is unlikely that "it" (the sun) can solve our present energy problems. Solar energy, for the foreseeable future, will have little overall impact on the industrial and transportation sector of our energy mix. In-depth studies have indicated that, with maximum effort, 25 percent contribution to our energy needs from solar energy would be possible in about fifty (50) years. We will need much more than this to fill the gap left by our diminishing fossil fuel reserves.

Finally, it should be noted that it is not true that "since the sun is already part of our environment, harnessing its rays will not upset the balance of nature." All forms of solar energy have an environmental impact which must be carefully evaluated. Solar thermal electrical power generation presents environmental problems similar to those produced by conventional power plants. Even local applications such as solar panels for home heating present problems. For example, three-dimensional forcing to prevent shading of a homeowner's solar panels may force the cutting of trees used by a neighbor for cooling shade during the summer. Solar energy is a beautiful energy source which should be utilized to the fullest. We should not be disappointed to find out that it is not perfect.

To the editor: Now that the greatest of all blunders is over (one that makes Watergate look like a Sunday School picnic) and the Treaties of the Panama Canal scheme all packed in a neat package ready to be handed over to the little Commie dictator Torrijos, what next? Is it just possible the State of Alaska would be on the agenda for the next great give-away? Why not? I'm sure if the Government of Soviet Russia complained loud enough about the U.S. took advantage of her when we bought the good state from the Republic—not too many years ago—this same Give-Away Administration would try to make amends, and those Senators that voted our Canal down the river would do the same of the State of Alaska. God forbid! Surely we, the people, have seen enough! We have stood in the bleachers while our public servants, sent to Washington in good faith, turned their backs upon the greater majority of us and voted to give billions of U. S. taxpayers' dollars away, as well as one of the greatest engineering feats of all times — Our Canal. We the voters, surely will not forget on future election dates.

Strength For Today

CONSEQUENCES
Everyone knows that we live in a physical universe governed by natural laws. Drop a stone, and it falls to earth according to a certain mathematical formula. Fewer people are aware that we live in a moral and spiritual universe also. This universe likewise has its own laws, and when these are broken, certain consequences follow as surely as do the consequences of breaking the laws of the physical universe. It has been said that everyone at last sits down to a banquet of consequences. St. Paul expressed it by saying, "Be not deceived. God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." If we do wrong and repent, the guilt of our wrong-doing is always removed. But as for the consequences, we know only that these are in the hands of God and that He will act in accordance with His will. Sometimes He sets the consequences aside; sometimes He does not. But we can be sure that whatever His decision, it is for our ultimate welfare.

Lt. Gov. Green Hunting Funds

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green says there is no better way for him to make an intelligent decision about his political future than with the help of his friends throughout the state.

So several thousand of those friends have been asked to help finance his political future through membership in "The Jimmy Green Cabinet." Letters were mailed recently asking Green backers to contribute $240 each to become members of the group, according to Dr. Archie T. Johnson Jr., a Raleigh physician who serves as treasurer of the Green cabinet.

Johnson said the letters were mailed to known supporters of Green throughout the state and the initial response by mail and telephone had been good.

The formation of the cabinet was announced in early March by State Sen. Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, who described it as an "advisory group" that would be organized in each of the state's 100 counties. Lawing is chairman of the group.

"The purpose of this venture is manifold," Green wrote in the May 5 letter, "but first and foremost, it is to keep me, as your lieutenant governor better informed as to your needs and wishes.

"Further down the road, at the proper time, a decision will be made regarding my future in North Carolina government. I can think of no better way to make an intelligent decision than to have input from all of my friends throughout the state."

The May 5 letter said that newsletters, surveys and public opinion polls would be used to keep Green in contact with cabinet members.

"You will be furnished with a very attractive Jimmy Green Cabinet member decal for your automobile, a pocket card designating you as a cabinet member with the state toast on the reverse side, and a very impressive certificate, suitable for framing, which I will present to you personally at a meeting to be held in your area," the letter concluded.

Water Camping Trips Are Being Sponsored

ARAPAHOE — A series of one and two-week summer water camping trips, headquartered in the Pamlico County town of Arapahoe, are being sponsored by the North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church.

The camping expeditions get underway on Sunday May 14, with the last time period the week of September 10-16.

Called the "Outer Banks Adventure," the camping periods will involve youth in two age groups — the "youth" group for those 16-18; and the "young adult" group, for those 19 to 35-years old.

A complete schedule of the two groups and the time periods available to each are:

— Youth Group — June 11-17, one week; June 18-July 1, two weeks; July 23-Aug. 5, two weeks; Aug. 6-12, one week; and Aug. 13-26, two weeks.

— Young Adult Group — May 14-20, one week; May 21-27, one week; May 28-June 3, two weeks; July 2-8, one week; July 9-22, two weeks; Aug. 12-26, two weeks; Aug. 27-Sept. 2, one week; Sept. 3-9, one week (married couples); and Sept. 10-16, one week.

The organization of the program will be set up in small groups of ten campers and two leaders.

The sailing phase of the camp will be carried out with the use of the Hobie Cat (Catamaran), a sailing vessel designed for utmost safety and dependability. The grand finale will be a sailing adventure along the Outer Banks of North Carolina.

The fee for the camp is $100 per week. This covers all meals, camping gear, the use of boats and all incidentals except clothing, a sleeping bag, and personal needs.

For more information interested persons can contact Rev. John A. Farmer, Manager-Director, Camp Don Lee, Rt. 2, Box 80-A, Arapahoe, N. C., 28510 (tel number 249-2106); or Hugh H. Cameron, 1307 Glenwood Avenue, Box 10955, Raleigh, N. C., 27605 (tel number 828-0568).

A footnote: One major reason for Mr. Carter's problem with Civil Service reform is harsh opposition to it among federal workers. If the necessary commitment to solar development is to be made, a number of supporting decisions ought to be made, also. For example: Residential subdivisions ought to be planned, and roads laid out, to take maximum advantage of sunlight. Certain solar collectors may require large areas of land; we ought to be planning for these needs.

A hundred such areas of development invite the attention of our brightest minds. We ought to be working actively on wood, on wind, on tidal energy. Certain dry plant material, according to Dennis Hayes in a recent Worldwatch Paper, contains about as much energy per ton as low-quality coal. Not nearly enough experimental work is being done on alcohol and methane as substitutes for gasoline and natural gas. What we are talking about is a race for survival—and thus far we're only jogging along.

When Arnold, who was captain of the Foot Guard, the local militia, got news of the Battle of Lexington three days after the event, he asked for the keys to the town's powder house so he could arm his men and rush to the Massachusetts patriots' aid.

The town fathers, however, had voted to stay neutral and refused to give up the keys.

Arnold marched his 65 men up and down the green menacingly, demanded the keys and said he would break in the door unless he got them. The town fathers gave up the keys. Arnold took the powder and shot and marched off to Lexington.

The Governor's Foot Guard has been in continuous service ever since, each year re-enacting that drama on the green. Except that instead of marching to Lexington they march to their armory for a big bash.

Futurist Likes Idea Of Industrial World's Fall

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — F.M. Esfandiary is upon us — a visionary optimist, philosopher and futurist. He agrees with the proponents of gloom in some ways but it simply cheers him up.

"The feudal industrial world is collapsing around us and I rejoice and marvel in it," says Esfandiary.

He believes that anyone alive 20 years from now will be immortal, there will be limitless energy and food, we will reproduce — if we choose to — by cloning and test tube babies, we will all speak the same language, will be linked by instant communication and will have no permanent homes or families.

His only fear of his projections — "not predictions, I have no crystal ball" — are that they might be a little conservative.

"Ten years ago when I said these things people were ready to throw tomatoes at me, but that was all right since I'm a vegetarian and love tomatoes. But now when I am on panels or talk shows, the questions are not if, but when."

Who is Esfandiary and where do his futuristic theories come from? From his self-description on his three books, "Up-Wingers," "Telespheres," and "Optimism One."

"I am Universal. I transpire all over the planet ... Am born and reborn every day. I intend to live forever ..."

This Iranian-born philosopher had lived in 10 to 15 countries by the time he was 15. A global diplomatic brat, as it were, Daddy being in the corps.

He says he had no feelings of being uprooted. "Far from feeling burdened, I felt very uplifted. The new has never awed me."

He says he's never been married, lives in Greenwich Village above a restaurant that emits wonderful smells at 3 o'clock in the morning and spends his summers at a mobilia in the fashionable Hamptons on Long Island.

Mobilia, as one finds in the glossary of made-up words in the back of Esfandiary's works, is "The stage beyond family and commune. A mobilia is a fluid commune — a trans-commune. People linkup for a few days or weeks or months — then linkout."

"I have several degrees from the finest kindergartens in Asia. Degrees would be useless. Books that I recommended two years ago are now out of date. What I would have learned 20 years ago would be completely out of date. I take courses constantly and read volumes of scientific journals."

Honor Lists At Middle School

FARMVILLE — The honor roll and principal's list for the fifth marking period have been announced at Farmville Middle School.

Honor roll students are: Michelle Allen, Martha Britt, Junior Everett, Sara Beth Fulford, Kelly Hobgood, Kelly Johnson, and Angela Liverman, sixth grade; Gary Hobgood, seventh grade; Lynn Pollard, eighth grade.

The principal's list is as follows: Charlie Blow, Wanda Gorham, R. D. Johnson, Anita Joyner, Robby Joyner, Phil Lewis, Tommy Mayo, Kirkie McGaughey, Sandra McLawhorn, Wanda Suggs, and Gina Windham, sixth grade; Sylvia Allen, Caroline Gay, Suzanne Moye, Melissa Owens, Michael Owens, Ray Peaden, Vanessa Shackelford, Jennifer Walston, Wade Corbett, Donna Costner, and Karen Dunn, seventh grade; Linda Fortenberry, Anita Collins, Jeff Joyner, Jamie Futrell, Karen Liverman, Julia Smith, and Mark Strickland, eighth grade.

Earl Allred, Postmaster of Oxford and chairman of the selection committee, presented the award to Dunn. "Because of his knowledge and his energetic ability to motivate people and his willingness to help his fellow man... his leadership is well known..." Allred remarked, paying tribute to Dunn.

The citation pointed to the civic and community work carried out by Dunn, with emphasis placed on his services as a member and chairman of the Greenville City Board of Education.

By MIKE SILVERMAN Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Irving Berlin celebrates his 90th birthday today, still pecking out tunes with one finger on the special piano that gave the world "White Christmas," "God Bless America," and 1,000 or so other songs.

"I don't think there'll be much of a bash," Berlin told a recent caller. Although he says he's in "excellent shape," he rarely leaves his Manhattan townhouse overlooking the East River.

"A quiet family gathering," is how a close friend described the birthday observances. Berlin and his wife of 52 years, Ellen, have three daughters and nine grandchildren. "He'll probably spend his day reading, watching TV, or maybe doing some painting, which is his hobby."

He may venture into his den, where sits the latest in a series of trick pianos Berlin has owned through the years. Because he never learned to read music nor play in any key but F sharp, he uses a keyboard consisting mostly of sharps and flats, with a shift lever underneath that allows him to switch to whatever key he wants.

Although his last Broadway show, "Mr. President," opened 16 years ago, Berlin is still writing songs and says he has "an awful lot of unpublished stuff lying around."

The stuff that he has published yields some staggering statistics, such as "White Christmas" selling 113,067,354 records and — just in the United States and Canada — 5,588,845 copies of sheet music. A fund he set up in 1940 to benefit the Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts with royalties from "God Bless America" has netted $673,939.46.

This most American of all songwriters was born Israel Baline in Czarist Russia, son of a rabbi who fled a pogrom in 1892 and settled on New York's Lower East Side. In 1907, the younger Baline became Berlin when he published his first song, "Marie From Sunny Italy."

Four years later, "Alexander's Ragtime Band" with its novel syncopation became an international hit, and the boy who never made it past second grade was launched on a career that was to make him a multimillionaire.

He controls the rights to all his songs and draws royalties from revivals of shows like "Annie Get Your Gun" and "Call Me Madam" and from the films for which he wrote music — including several Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers classics.

If Berlin's life typifies the American dream, his songs also capture essential qualities of his adopted land — patriotism, vitality, even corniness. The very titles have a plainness that makes them sound deceptively as if anyone could have thought them up: "A Pretty Girl Is Like A Melody," "Oh, How I Hate To Get Up in the Morning."

NINETY TODAY — Composer Irving Berlin is still pecking out tunes with one finger on the piano as he marks his 90th birthday. "I don't think there'll be much of a bash," he told a recent caller. (AP Laserphoto)

Posing Fine For VEPCO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nuclear Regulatory Commission officials recommended in 1975 that Virginia Electric & Power Co. be fined $104,000 for failing to report a sinking pumphouse at its North Anna nuclear power plant, recently released documents show.

NRC officials in Atlanta recommended the civil penalty in May 1975, but officials at NRC headquarters turned it down and sent Veeco a violation notice instead, the Fredericksburg Free Lance-Star quoted the documents as saying.

The penalty against Veeco was proposed not because the pumphouse was settling, but because the company failed to report the fact, the NRC documents said.

The documents were prepared for the General Accounting Office, an investigative arm of Congress, which is studying the effectiveness of NRC enforcement of its regulations.

A Veeco spokesman said Wednesday that settling of the pumphouse, which supplies water for emergency cooling of a nuclear reactor, was expected and well within tolerance limits.

"The settlement...is a predicted construction-related matter. We do not consider it either acute or unusual," W. L. Proffitt, Veeco's senior vice president for power, said Wednesday.

Documents filed with the NRC by Veeco showed the pumphouse has settled an average of 1 1/2 inches since December 1975.

The NRC said the sinking has caused walls to crack in the pumphouse, which links a reservoir to reactor unit 1 at the Louisa County plant.

June Allen, head of the Charlottesville-based North Anna Environmental Coalition, said abnormal settling began in December 1972 but was not reported until April 1975.

The plant, which is now undergoing testing in preparation for commercial operation, theoretically could be shut down by the NRC if the settling goes on beyond the limit specified for the plant, less than an inch more.

However, the Free Lance-

Star quoted sources as saying it is more likely that the NRC would simply ask Veeco to take corrective action.

Veeco already has installed flexible joints in pipes leading from the pumphouse to the reactor at the plant.

The civil penalty was proposed at about the same time that the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board was considering what penalty to impose on Veeco for making 12 "material false statements" to the NRC about the geological fault under North Anna.

The NRC fined Veeco $32,500 for the false statements, the second largest fine in NRC history. The largest, $38,000, was also levied against Veeco for violating NRC regulations in 1973.

Against the background of those fines, the proposed $104,000 penalty on the pumphouse settling was considered serious by NRC observers, the Free Lance-Star said.

In a Nov. 14, 1975 letter to Veeco, the NRC said, "Having information involving excessive settlement of a seismic class one structure (the pumphouse) and failing to perform a meaningful evaluation is considered of major significance. In addition to the need for corrective action regarding the specific item of non-compliance, we are concerned about the adequacy of your management controls to properly identify, evaluate and report such occurrences in a timely manner."

A Veeco spokesman said the company is working on the settlement problem and will make a report to the NRC soon.

Thousands In Tehran Rioting

By PARVIS RAEIN, Associated Press Writer
TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Troops firing tear gas and bullets into the air routed thousands of demonstrators shouting "Down With The Shah!" on Tehran's main street today, the third day of anti-government protests in Iran.

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi postponed his visit to Hungary and Bulgaria four days, and an informed source said he took personal command of a special headquarters set up to prevent "unnecessary bloodshed."

There were no reports of casualties in the latest demonstration. But at least nine persons have been killed in riots in the holy city of Qum, Tabriz and 32 other cities and towns since Tuesday, scores have been injured, and millions of dollars worth of public property has been damaged.

The troops opened fire today when the mob defied orders to halt and began marching toward the telecommunications building on Nasser-Khosrow Street. There also were reports of shooting on Cyrus Street, east of the Tehran bazaar.

The demonstrators had listened to two hours of anti-government speeches in the Jome Mosque in the heart of the troop-ringed bazaar before taking to the streets.

The official reason for the postponement of the departure of the Shah and Empress Farah for Hungary and Bulgaria was that the Shah had a "cold." They were to have left Friday.

The government also postponed the presentation today of credentials by the Venezuelan, New Zealand and North Korean ambassadors to the monarch. Incited by ultra-conservative Moslem religious leaders, the mobs are demanding that the government return mosque lands leased to farmers under the Shah's land reform program, close liquor stores and movie theaters, and roll back reforms allowing women into colleges and to appear without veils in public.

The riots erupted in answer to a call by the religious leaders, or mullahs, for demonstrations in commemoration of persons killed in anti-government riots 40 days before. The 40th day after is a traditional day of mourning.

Southern Bell Official Cleared Of Embezzlement

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Three years after he publicly declared political slush funds were maintained by Southern Bell Telephone Co., former Southern Bell vice president John Ryan was acquitted Wednesday of charges that he stole company money for his own use.

Indictments against the 58-year-old Ryan stemmed from a state investigation of Southern Bell which was prompted by Ryan telling reporters in 1975 that he managed a corporated political fund in North Carolina. It took only an hour and eight minutes for a jury of nine men and three women to agree that Ryan, who headed Southern Bell operations in the state until he was fired in 1973, was innocent of 14 counts that he stole nearly $17,000 of company money.

The 58-year-old Ryan sat quietly at the defense table, shook his head and sighed as Superior Court Judge Sam Ervin III told him he was free to go. "I'm tired, very tired," he said outside the courtroom. Testimony stretched across seven days, with final arguments and the judge's instructions taking up most of Wednesday.

"We were up against a huge organization, but I wasn't nervous. I just felt confident we'd make a safe landing," Ryan said.

Although Ryan was on trial for allegedly ordering his subordinates to falsify company expense vouchers and using that money himself, much of his testimony concerned Southern Bell's political funds.

The company maintained a mandatory salary kickback plan, with money going to political candidates, he said. Both company officials and top executives of American Telephone & Telegraph, the parent corporation, approved it, he said.

The prosecution put several current or former Southern Bell executives on the stand, all testifying under a grant of immunity. While their testimony was primarily aimed at discrediting Ryan, several of them admitted they had taken falsified vouchers.

"When you put people on the witness stand and they've got their hands in the kitty, you've got to question their testimony," said prosecutor Joe Dozier, an assistant Mecklenburg County District Attorney. The local district attorney's office had indicted Ryan, 15 other Southern Bell executives and the company itself in the past two years on charges stemming from corporate political funds. Legal maneuvering by the company resulted in charges being dropped against all individuals except Ryan.

"If anything was accomplished in this trial, everything involving Southern Bell and its way of life in 1970-1973 was brought out," Dozier said. "Those men who falsified vouchers and took money got on the stand and testified to that."

Ryan's attorneys described him as innocent of stealing company money, and a corporate scapegoat because he revealed the existence of political funds.

"You know who the whistleblower is and I know who he is. There he sits," Allen Bailey, Ryan's chief attorney, told the jury as he pointed at Ryan.

Ryan could have been sentenced to up to 132 years in prison if convicted.

Ryan said he planned to write a book about Southern Bell and AT&T.

"There are a lot of things I didn't get into on the stand," he said, declining to elaborate.

"I'd also like to make a college lecture tour, talking about corporate mentality."

Ryan's life style has changed drastically from his days as head of Southern Bell in the state, with a $64,000-a-year salary and a sprawling home in Charlotte called Great Oaks.

He shares a duplex apartment in Charlotte with his three sons.

He and his wife, Jean, are divorced, but she testified at his trial as the only defense witness other than Ryan. Her recollections of when items such as rugs and furniture were bought contradicted prosecution witnesses, who testified they bought the items for Ryan with company money.

Dozier said her testimony may have been crucial to the acquittal.

Mrs. Ryan said she took the stand to clear up a "cloud of suspicion hanging over the family" and to end several "excruciating years."

When the jury returned with its verdict, several Southern Bell executives who testified against Ryan were in the courtroom. Ryan and those officers did not talk to each other during the trial or after the verdict.

Prosecution witnesses testified that Ryan was the mastermind of a scheme that diverted several thousand dollars of Southern Bell money into personal pockets.

J.B. Smith, the chief prosecution witness who was Ryan's aide, said Ryan directed him to set up a bogus trust fund in the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce in 1972, while Ryan was president of the organization.

Smith said he channeled Southern Bell money into the fund for purportedly legitimate chamber expenses but withdrew it himself and gave it to Ryan.

Ryan said he had no knowledge of the fund. He said he approved Smith's and other executives' requests for company money because he believed they were making legitimate expenses and the vouchers were "signed and sworn correct by subordinates I trusted."

Bailey hammered home to the jury that Ryan was the man who testified that executives were forced to donate to political funds.

"Watergate was a little creek...besides what we've had in this cesspool, and the cover-up is on," he said.

Dozier told the jury he agreed that wrongdoings had been committed with the political contribution schemes.

"If you could convict a lot of other people in this courtroom, I wish you could because a lot of people are just as guilty as Mr. Ryan," Dozier said.

Southern Bell in February admitted to violating a state law by misapplying corporate funds through political contributions. That guilty plea came in a plea-bargaining arrangement which gave Southern Bell executives immunity from future prosecution.

Outstanding Five Chosen

The board of advisors for the Outstanding Young Men of America awards program announced that five Greenville men and one from Ayden have been selected for inclusion in the 1978 edition of "Outstanding Young Men of America."

Greenville men selected for the 1978 edition were James G. Wilson, Robert J. Powell III, Ernest C. Adams Jr., John C. Dilday, and Dennis M. Langston, while Ernest C. Adams Jr. of Ayden was named.

According to Doug Blankenship, chairman of the board of advisors, the program recognizes the achievements and abilities of men between the ages of 21 and 38. The program has the endorsement of the U.S. Jaycees, he added.

Blankenship said that the men selected for the annual awards publication are being honored for their outstanding civic and professional contributions to their communities, their states, and their nation.

Children Are Introduced To Outdoors

By C.C. MINICLIER
Associated Press Writer
JAMESTOWN, Colo. (AP) — Standing knee deep in the glistening silence of new fallen snow, a group of bundled-up third graders listened intently as Jim Wright pointed out the telltale signs around the tree: A bird had eaten on the branch above them. A deer had walked by in the early morning stillness. A forest fire had burned nearby several years ago.

Down the trail another group of youngsters watched as James Bustos showed them how he used to make arrows from a particular type of dried bush. Bustos, proud of his Spanish and Apache Indian heritage, showed how to make a turkey call from a piece of dried reed and told of a soothing salve made of tree sap, mutton grease and sulphur.

Wright is a teacher and Bustos a bus driver for the Denver Public School System. Their classroom is a 650-acre preserve 8,100 feet above sea level in the Colorado Rockies. It was given to the school system by an anonymous donor.

Fifth graders have the opportunity to spend three days in Balarat, which means "a place to camp" in the language of the Australian aborigines. High school students earn summer credits, rising at 5:30 a.m. for conservation work.

Before taking the day trip to Balarat students are shown movies and slide programs and are visited by one of the six mountain teachers.

Wright, who holds a doctorate in education and ecology, began teaching at Balarat when it opened in 1970. At first, he said, it may seem silly to take children who live within half an hour of the Rockies into the mountains. But he estimates that half of the students are only driven through the mountains — enroute to a ski resort, campground or hotel.

A girl named Marquita, who moved to Denver eight years ago from Chicago, said she had never walked in the woods before. Her classmate, Tommy, said the only time he ever got out of the car in the mountains was when his mother wanted to take a picture.

Wright begins sharpening students' powers of observation and perspective the moment the specially equipped mountain bus moves away from the school.

He roams the aisle, asking questions about everything from street signs to why buildings are not so tall in the mountain foothill community of Boulder. (Winds of 100 miles an hour are frequent there.)

Students without adequate boots for the deep snow, or mittens or hats, are given them from an emergency supply in the bus and each student receives a small back pack to carry his lunch — and free his hands.

The preserve includes pine forests, aspen groves, mountains, valleys, a pond and marshes, and is bordered by Roosevelt National Forest. Meadows, marshes and the pond delight youngsters when the snow is gone.

Moro Buried; No Let-Up In Terrorist Campaign

By EDWARD MAGRI
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — Terrorists wounded an Italian bank manager today as the Christian Democratic government's allies in Parliament demanded stronger police policies because of the government's failure to catch Aldo Moro's kidnapers and prevent his murder. Moro's family buried him at private village rites Wednesday, one day after his bullet-riddled body was found in a car in downtown Rome. But the government planned a state funeral without a body Saturday in defiance of the family's demand that there be no official rites. The family is angry because of the refusal of the Christian Democrats to negotiate with the terrorists of the Red Brigades for Moro's release.

Police in Milan said a man and a woman shot Marzio Astarita, the 37-year-old manager of a branch of the Chemical Bank of New York, as he left home for his office. Three bullets hit his legs, the target of "kneecapping" attacks by the Red Brigades, but one shot hit him in the stomach, and his condition was believed serious. It was the sixth such attack in six days. Police said the terrorists escaped in a waiting car driven by an accomplice.

Interior Minister Francesco Cossiga, whose ministry controls the police, resigned Wednesday because of the government's failure to save the former premier, and legislators from several political parties said Justice Minister Paolo Bonifacio should also quit.

Cossiga said he stepped down to create the proper climate for a government review of the handling of the Moro investigation.

The Republicans and the Democratic Socialists, two of the five parties supporting the Christian Democratic government, demanded that Premier Giulio Andreotti call a meeting of the five parties' leaders to discuss Cossiga's resignation and to plan more effective measures against terrorism. The Democratic Socialists denounced the "serious deficiencies of the security services" in the Moro investigation. The small but influential Republican Party called for "necessary and severe measures to fight terrorism."

The police seemed as baffled as ever. "Investigations are back to zero point," said a front-page headline in the conservative Rome newspaper Il Tempo. Some 50,000 police were mobilized for the hunt for Moro and his kidnapers after he was grabbed and his five police bodyguards were killed March 16 on a Rome street. But all their efforts were futile. Twenty-four of 26 suspects arrested early this week were released for lack of evidence.

The police said they were giving more protection to prominent politicians and other likely terrorist targets. But five bodyguards were not enough protection for Moro.

The Communists, Italy's second largest party, hoped the emergency would give them a stronger voice in the five-party alliance — forged by Moro — on which the government rests. But members of the Christian Democrats' conservative wing who are still not reconciled to alliances with the left accused the Communists of helping to foster leftist violence and said a "political clarification" is needed of their role in the government.

Moro was buried in a small hilltop cemetery in the village of Torrita Tiberina, 30 miles north of Rome, where he and his family had a country home. At the family's insistence, no government or party leaders were among the 400 persons who attended the simple Mass and the graveside rites.

Not All Endorse Cabinet Status

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Not all state education officials think the idea of establishing a cabinet level department of education separate from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is a good one.

One member of the State Board of Education thinks such a department would result in more federal control over schools.

Larry Harding of Charlotte said the establishment of such a department would be "a grievous mistake."

But most high-ranking North Carolina education officials agree with President Carter's idea of a separate federal education department. State Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips said he strongly supports it. And deputy superintendent Jerry Melton said the separate department was a good idea "because social services, health and education are vastly different in the ways they are administered."

Other board members have also expressed support for the idea.

But according to Harding, "We're drifting rapidly to too much federal money and federal involvement in education as it is. With a separate department out from under HEW, it's going to increase. There's no doubt about it."

State-to-state variety in education is one of the things that made this country great, according to Harding. And he said increased federal intervention scares him.

Harding predicted federal bureaucracy would increase, rather than decrease with the establishment of a new cabinet department. "It will grow 300-fold. There will be bodies, bodies and more bodies."

Harding said education already had a strong voice in Washington with the National Education Association. "With the tremendous lobbying efforts the NEA can bring to bear, they can increase by gobs the federal money allotted to education. Let's don't give education at the federal level any more clout than it already has."

State education officials say they favor the idea of a separate education department since there would be a cabinet-level secretary who could lobby more effectively with the President and Congress, better coordination of education programs from the federal level and a more responsive ear in Washington because state educators would be dealing with other educators.

STAMPS FOR RE-USE — Senator Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., and executive secretary Carolyn Andrade show off some of the uncanceled stamps they collect daily from their mail. The Postal Service says it is losing $25 million to $75 million a year because of the widespread practice of re-using uncanceled stamps. Ms. Andrade contends that since the stamps apparently miss the Postal Service cancellation machinery, they can legally be re-used. Not so, says the Postal Service, which brands the practice as illegal, but admits it is hard to enforce. (AP Laser-photo)

How's The Weather?

Revenue-Sharing Hearing Set

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are due today for the Northwest and from the central Gulf to the Great Lakes. Cool temperatures are forecast for the West, but most of the nation should have seasonably mild temperatures. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
High pressure was centered over North Carolina today, producing fine weather that should continue across the state for the next couple of days.

Sunny skies were the rule over the state this morning and afternoon temperatures, after a cool start, were expected to reach the 70s and low 80s. Overnight lows this morning, however, dropped to the 40s in some areas.

Low readings included Asheville 40, Greensboro 44, Rocky Mount 46 and Raleigh 47. The forecast calls for some increase in cloudiness Friday, although it still will be mostly sunny east of the mountains, and temperatures will warm into the 80s; with some readings in the 70s in the mountains and along the coast.

The city is inviting citizens interested in participating in the 1978-79 revenue sharing program to attend a proposed use hearing on the appropriation of the funds.

The hearing, according to C. A. Holliday, city manager, will be conducted by the manager at 8 p.m. on Monday, May 22 in the council chambers at city hall.

Holliday said that the two major objectives of the hearing are to provide citizens with information on the nature and purpose of revenue sharing and to give citizens an opportunity to present their suggestions on the use of the funds first hand.

General revenue sharing, he explained, is a federal program, first enacted in 1972, under which federal funds are distributed to state and local governments.

Revenue sharing funds may be used, obligated, or appropriated for any purpose for which a recipient government may spend its own funds, the city manager pointed out.

Holliday said that during the current fiscal year, revenue sharing funds were used to finance the improvements and upgrading of traffic signals, street paving, thoroughfares, purchase of park land, and capital outlay equipment for city departments. Funds were also used for maintenance and operating expenses for the city's public transportation system and the public library system.

As a participating city in the program, Holliday added, Greenville expects to receive the following revenues in the 1978-79 fiscal year: allocation payments, $597,843; interest on investments, $4,500; and fund balance, $100,000, for an overall revenue total of $702,343.

Interested persons attending the hearing will be afforded an opportunity to provide written and oral comments on the possible uses of the funds for 1978-79, Holliday reported.

Behr Speaks At Meeting

Lawrence Behr, communications consultant, as well as a member of the Brightleaf Amateur Radio Club, spoke before members of the BARC Tuesday evening.

An audio tape was played showing comparison of frequency modulation (FM) with single sideband (SSB) mode of operation on the VHF bands used by amateur radio operators and with amateur radio equipment. The tape was obtained from the Federal Communications Commission, and demonstrated superiority of the SSB mode as compared to FM in the way of bandwidth to accommodate more occupancy on the already crowded bands.

Also discussed was the coming "hamfest" for east North Carolina to be held at the New Bern fairgrounds and scheduled for October 15. It will be the first attempt of such an endeavor here and is sponsored by the Greenville club, New Bern Amateur Radio Club and the Onslow Amateur Radio Club in Jacksonville.

Goes Back To Life He Left

By DAVID HAWLEY
Associated Press Writer
GOODHUE, Minn. (AP) —

"It was time," said Chuck Schwartau, "to practice what I'd been preaching."

After an absence of nine years, Schwartau has quit his $18,700-a-year job as extension director for Winona County and "dropped back in."

For Schwartau the decision was not to switch careers. It was a decision to go home — back to the family farm bought by his grandfather more than a half-century ago, back to neighbors who are mostly cousins and uncles.

Back home. For a man familiar with all the vagaries of farming — the costs, the pitfalls, the marketing problems — Schwartau's words echo a familiar, idealistic strain:

"I want to be able to reap the profits from my work. If it's a loss, it's the result of my own work, my own fault — nobody to blame but myself."

Like many young farm boys of his generation, Schwartau, 28, grew up with the desire to get away from farming. "I think I was very typical of my generation," he said.

At college in St. Paul, attending the University of Minnesota, he started thinking again of a career in farming.

"There was always the feeling that I'd like to farm someday. The question was when," he recalled.

Swartau's entrance into farming is also typical: through inheritance. His father died of cancer eight years ago and the family sold the implements and tractors on the 160-acre homestead. His mother remained on the farm acreage, while the land was rented out.

Swartau and his two younger brothers went their separate ways.

Following graduation from the university with a bachelor's degree in animal science, Schwartau spent 1½ years as a Dakota County extension agent, then moved to Winona.

He married a woman who had been reared only a few miles from his family homestead.

This past summer, his mother remarried and moved off the farm. It was "now or never," Schwartau said.

"It's not easy getting into it now," he said, referring to the tremendous farm debts he has accumulated this year. "But it'll never get any easier."

Why the willingness to take the risk?

Part of the answer is confidence in farming as a way of life, Schwartau says. Part is a belief in the advantages of farm living for his two young daughters.

And part, perhaps a major portion, is because of a sense of heritage.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, inspired by a boost in retail sales figures and the dollar's continued strength, posted a moderate increase today despite a hike in the Federal Reserve's discount rate.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 3.20 to 825.36, after showing a slight gain Wednesday.

Gainers held a 5-3 edge over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said traders appeared encouraged by a 2 percent increase in April's retail sales and reports that the dollar was gaining strength in overseas foreign exchanges.

They said there was little negative reaction to an announcement today that the Federal Reserve had increased its discount rate to 7 percent from 6 1/2 percent. The move, amid increases in other short-term interest rates, was expected.

The NYSE composite index of all its listed common stocks edged up .15 to 53.87.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained .27 to 140.95.

Volume on the Big Board reached 14.42 million shares over the first two hours, up slightly from 14.28 million in the comparable period Wednesday.

Boeing, up sharply in recent sessions after receiving a large purchase order, was down 3/4 today to 48 1/4. Ramada Inn, involved in several large block trades, was the most heavily traded NYSE stock, up 3/4 to 6 1/4.

Oil firms were mixed, with Atlantic Richfield up 1/4 to 50 1/4, Texaco unchanged at 25 1/4, Getty off 1 to 169 and Mobil off 1/4 to 65 1/4.

Correspondence Schools Are Accused Of Fraud

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Two correspondence schools were accused in a 21-count federal indictment Wednesday of bilking Fort Bragg soldiers of educational benefits and cheating the Veterans Administration.

Named in the indictment were an Army captain, two sergeants and three salesmen for College of Political Science in Fairfield, Ala., and Security Training Institute in San Diego, Calif.

According to the indictment, both schools were connected with Coran Inc. of Tacoma, Wash., which owned the California school and was marketing agent for the Alabama school. Herbert J. Cohen and Alfred J. Kucklick of Tacoma, owners of Coran Inc., were named as unindicted co-conspirators.

The six defendants named in the indictment, which was returned sealed last month by a federal grand jury in New Bern, are to be arraigned before a federal magistrate in Raleigh next week.

They were identified by the indictments as:

—John S. Alexander, a salesman for the two schools who allegedly hired other defendants in the case.

—Douglas L. Hathaway, a salesman hired to market correspondence courses from April 1975 through May 1976.

—Charles E. Higdon, also a salesman for the same period.

—James E. Thompson, an Army captain employed by Alexander as a consultant and salesman from April 1976 to June 1976.

—Francis J. Wesley, an Army sergeant hired by Hathaway to promote and market the correspondence course at Fort Bragg from October 1975 to July 1976 in a role referred to as a "bird dog" and as a salesman from July 1976 to December 1976.

—Willie J. Sims, an Army sergeant hired by Wesley as a "bird dog" to market correspondence courses at Fort Bragg from April 1976 to November 1976.

The indictment alleged that between April 1975 and March 1977, the defendants conspired to use fraudulent pretenses to convince servicemen to enroll in the correspondence courses.

on-site facility.

The unit commander said that some 70 to 75 of the unit's 130 members will be directly involved in the clearance project with the remaining personnel indirectly involved through their normal duty assignments.

The emphasis on this week's project, Smith related, is in conjunction with the May observance of Armed Services Appreciation Month.

In addition to the northern project, the unit plans to assist the city schools by removing several unsafe playground items from three school sites, the captain reported.

The Reserve unit has undertaken community projects in the past, Smith said, including work with the Recreation Department here involving the clearing of an area in West Greenville for use as a football field.

Unit personnel and equipment were also involved in the initial recovery effort of the Civil War cannons from the Roanoke River near Hamilton.

Four Honored As Top Athletes; Holtz Tells Of Positive Views

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Lou Holtz made a big pitch for positive thinking in athletics last night as the featured speaker for the Third Annual Greenville Sports Club banquet, held at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

The banquet, which ends the 1977-78 season for the club, also honored area athletes, including the top high school athletes of the county.

Ayden-Grifton's Karen Haseley was selected as the top female high school athlete, while Horace Williams of Farmville Central captured the male award.

Miss Haseley was an all-conference performer in both basketball and volleyball for Ayden-Grifton, and also participates in softball. She is among the leaders in her class academically.

Williams, active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, is a four-year weight-class winner in wrestling and was second in the state this past season. He also is a member of the Jaguar track team.

Other high school athletes honored included Mike Teachey of Ayden-Grifton; Annie Wooten and Nuggie Worthington of D.H. Conley; Terri Lloyd of Farmville Central; Karen Jeffreys and Mike Joyner of Rose; and Sam Mayo and Cynthia Barnes of North Pitt.

Selected as the top collegiate athletes were Debbie Freeman and Terry Gallaher of East Carolina. Miss Freeman won the honor for the third straight year, and was a star in basketball, volleyball and track. Gallaher, a split end on the football team, set a number of school records for his catches and yardage.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, retiring chancellor at East Carolina University, was presented with a life membership in the club by president Joe Hallow.

Holtz, who coached at N.C. State prior to going to the New York Jets for a year, and then to the University of Arkansas last season, said he still felt that the Atlantic Coast Conference football was the most underrated in the country. "The big difference between the ACC and the Southwestern Conference is speed," he noted.

Holtz recounted his move to the Jets, saying that he had three times refused the Jets before finally accepting the job. "But one year was enough to show me that professional football wasn't for me. The big difference between college and pro football is that in the pros, coaching is all theory. You don't really get to coach in the pros."

Holtz said that there was also a difference in the fans in the pro ranks, and he missed the college feeling.

He then turned to this year's season at Arkansas where his team, picked to finish sixth in the conference, ended up second, and beat Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

"When we were in preparation for the Orange Bowl, I just knew that we could win it. Our practices were the best I'd ever seen anywhere. But nothing is as good as it seems, nor as bad as it seems, but somewhere in-between. Just then, we lost one of our All-American linemen to an injury, and three of our other players got into some trouble, and I had to make a decision to suspend them from the game."

Holtz said that it was a hard decision to make, but he had to make it for the good of the players, the rest of the team and himself. "It was not a happy decision, but you try and look at the ramifications down the road. My ability to control the team would have been over if I had let them play."

Holtz said he finally asked the squad, in a meeting, to say something positive about someone else on the team. Each team member had to say something. That turned things around and dispelled the negative feelings.

On game day, the team was held up in the dressing room for 25 minutes longer than expected

No-Hitter Stuns Rampants For Bertie As Falcons Take 3-1 Win

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

WINDSOR — Bertie pitcher Marty Evans shackled Rose High's offensive attack for a no-hitter and a 3-1 victory over the Rampants in a Division I baseball game last night.

The junior left-hander mystified the Rose batters with a screaming fastball that the Rampants couldn't come near hitting. The closest the visitors came to a hit was a foul ball; not a single Rose batter knocked the ball out of the infield.

Rampant coach Ronald Vincent was awed. "We were just overpowered. He just overpowered us. He's the best pitcher we've faced since Mickey Britt (now at East Carolina) three years ago."

When asked about his ace hurler, Falcon coach Ron Cooke just smiled and said, "He ain't bad."

Evans kept his control from start to finish, despite raring back and putting his all into every fast ball. He struck out 11 Rose batters and walked only two. He hit Mike Shank with a pitch in the first inning.

The game was the second no-hitter of the year for the moun-man, who raised his record to 3-2. The other game against Wilson, in which he struck out 16 batters. His third victory was a two-hitter against Northeastern.

Rose also got excellent pitching, from Lindsey Winstead, but it wasn't enough to match Evans' domination. Bertie scored all three of its runs in the first inning, each unearned. The Falcons were held to just four hits, the biggest being Joseph Holley's two-run double. Winstead didn't allow a Bertie safety after the second inning; he struck out five and didn't give up a walk.

But the silence of the Rampant bats was deafening. The harder Rose swung at the ball, the worse things got. Two Rampants fanned all three times at bat. The only thing the visitors could hit were the mosquitoes that converged on the Bertie ballpark.

Shank reached for Rose in the first when he was hit by a pitch with one out. But Evans quickly retired the side, leaving the Rose center fielder on first.

In the bottom of the inning, John Harrell reached when Rose's third baseman pulled Will Sanderson off first with his throw after fielding a ground ball. Jack Curlings beat out a bunt to move Harrell to second, but Winstead struck out the next two batters. That brought up Holley, who doubled to the wall in left field to bring in both runners. He followed them in when Marshall Bennett got a base hit up the middle.

Harrell singled with two away

Aycock In 10th Win

WASHINGTON — E.B. Aycock Junior High completed its regular season in track yesterday with a pair of victories.

Aycock downed Wilson and Washington in the tri-meet. Aycock finished with 83 points, while Wilson had 46 and Washington had eight. The win pushed the Aycock record to 10-0 on the year.

The Jaguars will host the conference track meet next Wednesday.

Triple jump: Abner Clark (A) 46.1; long jump: Chris McLawhorn (A) 18.2; high jump: Carlton Smith (A) 5.9; low hurdles: David Sherrod (A) 16.1; discus: Anthony Sheppard (A) 133.0; shot put: Stuart Ward (A) 43.6; 100: David Sherrod (A) 11.0; mile: Kenny Smith (A) 5:06; 800 relay: Wilson 1:41; 440: Emory (W) 55.4; 220: Alonza Taylor (A) 24.5; 800: Dew (W) 2:15; 440 relay: Aycock (McLawnhorn, Clark, Burney, Taylor) 47.0.

Falcons Sign Two

ATLANTA (AP) — Two free agents from North Carolina State have signed contracts with the Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League, the team announced.

They are defensive back Ralph Stringer, a 5-foot-11, 195-pounder who was a two-time All Atlantic Coast defensive back and defensive tackle Tom Prongay, a 6-foot-3, 245-pounder. Falcons officials said Wednesday.

in the second, but that was the last Bertie hit of the night. The Falcons went down in order for the rest of the way, except when Bill Eubanks reached on an error in the sixth. He was caught stealing by Rampant catcher Bobby Woronoff.

The lone Rose run came in the third. After a strikeout, Woronoff reached on an error. Courtesy runner Robert Morehead then stole second, and tried to take third when the Falcon catcher failed to handle the pitch. The catcher recovered in time to make the throw, but the third baseman dropped the ball after making the tag and Morehead was safe. He crossed home when Ronnie Chapman laid a square bunt down the first base line.

Rose had one other batter in scoring position. Sanderson walked in the fifth and moved to third on an error on a pickoff play, but Evans came up with another strikeout to close out the frame.

The loss dropped the Rose Division I record to 6-5, leaving the team in a bind, Vincent said. "We've put ourselves in a deep corner now," he commented.

The Falcons are now 5-6 in the league. Rose plays again this afternoon at North Nash, a game that has been postponed due to rain six times this season.

Two Wrestlers Receive Honor

Two freshmen wrestlers from East Carolina University have been accorded post-season honors by the wrestling publication "Amateur Wrestling News."

Solomon "Butch" Revis, a freshman from Norfolk, Va., was named to the AWN second team freshman all-American squad, and teammate Vic Northrup was accorded honorable mention freshman. Northrup is from Waverly, N.Y.

During the past season, Revis had an 18-5-1 record, capturing first place in both the Wilkes Open and the Monarch Open. He was a national qualifier and was also the Outstanding Wrestler in the Monarch Open. He was named to the "National Mat News" all-south team. His award came in the 177-pound class, although most of his matches were at 167.

Northrup was at the 177 level for the Pirates most of the year. He had an 18-9 mark, and the highlight came when he pulled off an upset victory in the Eastern championships, downing seeded opponents after coming in unseeded.

"These honors are a tribute to Butch and Vic." ECU wrestling coach Bill Hill said. "They stepped in as freshmen and did the job well, better than most people expected. I'm very proud of both of them."

by the runner of the Rose Bowl on television. "I had told them just to be respectable," Holtz said. "Then, we had to sit around, so we just told jokes and stories for 25 minutes. We were the looziest team that ever hit the field after that."

The Razorbacks went on to win, and Holtz said that "no one has been able to convince me that we weren't the top team in the country."

Holtz also favors a national playoff after the bowls, with four participants determined by a point system.

"The biggest mistake you can make is to under-estimate your children or your athletes. You can do anything you put your mind to and you can be anything you want to be. But it is difficult to do this because everyone wants to tell you you can't do it. Don't believe them."

THE FOURTH AREA high school basketball player to win a college scholarship this year is Ayden-Grifton's James Leggett. Leggett, a 6-6 center, signed last week with Atlantic Christian. He came on strong at the end of the year, leading the Chargers to an upset victory over North Lenoir in the Eastern Carolina Conference tournament finals.

A superb leaper, Leggett attracted a good deal of attention from college scouts with his play last season. Atlantic Christian officials said he was one of the most recruited players in the school's history.

Earlier, D. H. Conley's Al Tyson signed with East Carolina, while Roses's James Hawkins and William Barnes inked pacts with Chowan.

KENTUCKY DERBY WINNER Affirmed has a good shot at winning the Triple Crown this year, according to trainer Laz Barrera. In fact, he adds, Affirmed is the only horse that even has a shot at it. Ridden by 18-year-old jockey Steve Cauten, Affirmed galloped to victory in Saturday's Derby. Leading rival Alydar, a 6-5 favorite at Churchill Downs, came in second.

The next leg in the Triple Crown is the Preakness Stakes on May 20. Affirmed will undoubtedly be the favorite there, but Alydar will also run in the race, along with top contender Believe It and some non-Derby runners. It is the horses that didn't run at Churchill Downs that have Barrera worried, he said.

THE TEAM-PLAY ORIENTED Washington Bullets were bidding for the knockout punch last night in their NBA semifinal series with the individually strong Philadelphia 76ers.

The Bullets held a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series going into the game. The secret to their success? Team play, according to coach Dick Motta. "I've said all along that we're the better team because we play better together. This isn't over yet. We respect their talent, but we play the game better as a unit."

Former North Carolina star Mitch Kupchak has been playing a key role for Washington. He scored 19 points and got 11 rebounds in the fourth game filling in for the ailing Wes Unseld. The team's success has been the biggest surprise of the playoffs, but the Bullets insist that they are for real.

THE CONFUSION THAT existed in the ECC baseball race last week has been cleared up somewhat, a little earlier than expected. Southern Nash pulled an upset over C. B. Aycock Saturday night and Ayden-Grifton did the same thing to Farmville Central. The result is that Greene Central, which beat the Jags Tuesday, is now in sole possession of first place with a 10-1 record. Aycock is now 6-2 and Farmville 6-3.

BASEBALL QUIZ: Who was the last major league player to pitch a perfect game? Catfish Hunter. The Hertford native, now a New York Yankee, hurled pitching perfection on May 8, 1968, while playing for the Oakland A's against the Minnesota Twins. It is the only perfect game in the American League since 1922.

Hunter recently recalled that everything was working for him in the 4-0 victory, his curve, slider and fast ball. "You don't usually throw fast balls past Tony Oliva, Rod Carew and Harmon Killebrew, but that night I was doing it," he said. "I remember falling behind Oliva 3-0, but I came back and threw three fast balls past him for a strikeout."

Hunter said he wasn't even aware he had a perfect game going until it was over. "I was aware I had a no-hitter around the fourth or fifth inning, but even after I threw the last pitch, I still thought it was just a no-hitter, not a perfect game."

Blyleven Had Concentration As Pirates Top Giants By 5-1

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

They've been saying the same thing about Bert Blyleven for some time now: one of the best curve balls in baseball and one of the better fastballs.

So why doesn't his record reflect his talent?

"He gets lackadaisical sometimes," is the way Pittsburgh Pirate teammate Phil Garner explains Blyleven's relatively unimpressive career record.

Garner believes, as many others do, that better concentration will help fulfill Blyleven's promise of greatness. Like the type of concentration he had Wednesday while pitching the Pirates to a 5-1 decision over the San Francisco Giants.

Blyleven virtually wound the Giants around his sweeping curve, striking out a National League season high of 12 batters and allowing but six hits. The performance was all the more dramatic, coming off a fierce pounding by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

In other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Houston Astros 3-1; the New York Mets trimmed the Montreal Expos 7-2; the San Diego Padres blanked the Chicago Cubs 1-0 and the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-5.

Winning his second game in five decisions this year, Blyleven was supported by a 10-hit attack that included four extra-base hits. The right-hander struck out at least one batter in each inning.

Phillies 3, Astros 1
Rookie second baseman Jim Morrison belted a two-run homer and Jim Lonborg hurled a five-hitter to lead Philadelphia over Houston. Morrison, called up from the Phillies' Oklahoma City farm team when regular second baseman Ted Sizemore was injured on April 28, connected off Houston starter Mark Lemongello in the second inning.

Mets 7, Expos 2
Elliott Maddox drove in three runs with a double and single and John Stearns walloped a home run to lead New York over Montreal. Maddox's RBI single highlighted a two-run first inning and the Mets' outfielder doubled home two more in the fifth to support the six-hit pitching of Nino Espinosa.

Padres 1, Cubs 0
George Hendrick hit a homer and Randy Jones hurled a six-hitter to lead San Diego over Chicago. Hendrick, who came into the game hitting just .192, connected for his third homer of the season off Cubs starter Dennis Lamp with one out in the fourth. The home run ended an 0-for-17 slump for Hendrick and provided Jones with the only run he needed.

Cardinals 6, Dodgers 5
Lou Brock delivered a tie-breaking sacrifice fly in the sixth inning and Mark Littell hurled six innings of strong relief as St. Louis rallied to beat Los Angeles.

Littell allowed the Dodgers just two hits in the final six innings in relief of John Denny to pick up his first National League victory. The former Kansas City right-hander struck out eight and walked one.

The late Adolph Rupp never had a losing season in his 41 seasons as basketball coach at Kentucky.

Martin Bows Out

ROCKY HOCK — Chowan upset Martin Academy yesterday in the independent tournament, 6-4.

Chowan scored twice in the first inning. Richard Bass reached on an error and Steve Perry walked. Art Lane then doubled in both runners.

Martin tied it with two in the third. Butch Bragg walked and stole second. He scored on Jeffrey James' single. Wiley Keel then singled in James.

Martin pushed ahead with one in the fifth, but both teams

Murray's Surprise Homer Gives Orioles 3-2 Win Over Red Sox

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Baltimore's Eddie Murray says he's a bad "guess" hitter, but it was Boston Manager Don Zimmer who made the bad guess.

"With the wind blowing in from left, I wanted all their switch-hitters to bat right so they couldn't hit the ball out," said Zimmer. "So Murray bats right and hits it over the right field fence."

Murray's fifth homer of the season, a two-run shot off reliever Tom Burgmeier with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning, gave the Orioles a 3-2 victory over Zimmer's Red Sox Wednesday night, and broke Boston's seven-game winning streak.

In the other American League baseball games Wednesday night, Toronto trimmed Oakland 3-1, Chicago downed Minnesota 7-2, Texas topped Milwaukee 4-3 and Cleveland drubbed Seattle 6-1.

Ken Singleton's home run had been Baltimore's offense before the ninth. Then pinch-hitter Carlos Lopez led off with a bloop single and took second on a Singleton sacrifice before Murray unloaded.

The Orioles' Mike Flanagan permitted just five other Red Sox hits while striking out 10 and evening his record at 3-3. One of the safeties was by Carl Yastrzemski, who became the 13th player in major league history to play in 2,600 games.

Blue Jays 3, A's 1
Oakland managed a third-inning unearned run to break its scoreless streak at 312-3 innings. Jim Essian scored from second when left fielder Willie Upshaw dropped Bill North's fly ball.

But four consecutive singles — including RBI hits by Rick Bosetti and Bob Bailor — and a groundout gave Toronto three runs in the bottom of the inning and backed a six-hitter by Rick Clancy.

White Sox 7, Twins 2
Chicago snapped a scoreless streak of its own, collecting three runs in the first after being shut out for 23 straight innings. Lamar Johnson and Bill Nahorodny hit two-run homers as the White Sox overpowered Minnesota. Chicago also made five double plays in support of rookie Rick Wortham, who worked eight innings and picked up his first victory.

Rangers 4, Brewers 3
A two-run homer by Bump Wills and a two-run double by Al Oliver helped Texas survive three Milwaukee home runs and beat the Brewers. "We've scored four runs in our last two games and we've had four home runs," said Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger. "It's really strange."

Indians 6, Mariners 1
Ted Cox had a two-run single and Ron Pruitt hit a solo home run to lead Cleveland past

Seattle. Rick Wise pitched six innings for only his second victory in seven decisions, then rookie Dennis Kinney added three innings of hitless relief to record his fourth save.

Craig Reynolds drove in the Mariners' run.

Conley In 7-1 Win

HOLLYWOOD — D. H. Conley's softball team gained a 7-1 victory over C. B. Aycock yesterday and pulled into a three-way tie for first place in the league.

The win left Conley with a 10-2 overall mark and an 8-2 conference record, tying them with Ayden-Grifton and Greene Central.

Lexanne Keeter was the winning pitcher.

Conley scored once in the second after Aycock had gotten a run in the first. Conley then came up with six in the third to win it.

Gail Cates and Joanne Franke each had three hits to lead Conley. Nancy Berg, Pam Manning and Tammy Streeter each had two.

Helen Jones had two for Aycock.

Conley entertains North Pitt today.

Matney Advances In Tournament

WILSON — One member of the Rose High School tennis team advanced to the quarterfinals of the sectional tennis tournament now underway in Wilson.

Fred Matney, seeded third in the field, won all three of his matches yesterday. He defeated Scott Herbin of Manteo by 6-0, and 6-1, then downed Eric Evans of Chowan, 6-0, 6-0.

Matney's third victim was Tony Joyner of Roanoke, 6-0, 6-0. Matney needs only one victory today to qualify for the regionals. Brian Kilcoyne of Rose lost in the first round to Harmon of Eastern Wayne, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4.

The doubles team of Jeff Quinn and David Daniel downed Bass-Copeland of Chowan, 6-0, 6-0, but then lost to Joe Armstrong-David McField of Tarboro, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5.

John Farley and Mike Hinsley defeated Hoggard-Phelps of Creswell in the first round, 6-0, 6-1, but also lost in the second round, falling to Mark Tayloe and Henry Matt Kidd of Washington, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3.

Williamston Tops Plymouth

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School's girls' softball team gained a 7-6 victory over Plymouth yesterday.

The win kept the Tigertettes atop the Northeastern Conference with a 5-0 league mark. Williamston is 8-2 overall.

Plymouth scored once in the first, but Williamston came back with four in its half of the frame. Both added a run in the third, and again in the fourth. Plymouth scored three in the top of the sixth to tie it at 6-6, but Williamston got one in the bottom of the frame to win it.

Sherri Singleton was the win-ing pitcher.

A Norman and L. Woods each had two hits to lead Plymouth. Valeria Barnhill and Sharon Speller each had two for Williamston.

The Tigertettes play again Friday at Tarboro.

The victory left Ayden-Grifton tied with Conley and Greene Central, all with two conference losses. Ayden-Grifton is now 8-2 in the league and 10-3 overall.

Greene Central scored once in the first, but A-G came back with two in its half of the frame. They added two more in the fourth, while the Lady Rams added one in the seventh.

Karen Haseley was the winning pitcher. Iris Pridgen of Greene Central was the game's only hitter with two.

Super-Sonics Grab Second Playoff Win

By TONY BAKER
AP Sports Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — Calm, cool, collected — and hungry. That's the Seattle Super-Sonics.

"This team shows it's a good team every time it gets out on the court," said a smiling Coach Lenny Wilkens after his Sonics rode the fourth-period shooting of Fred Brown and John Johnson and the intimidating defense of Marvin Webster to a 105-91 victory over the Denver Nuggets Wednesday night.

The triumph before a roaring Coliseum sellout crowd of 14,098 was the Sonics' second straight over the Nuggets and gave them a 2-1 lead in their National Basketball Association playoff series.

Game 4 of the best-of-seven Western Conference championship series is set for Friday night in Seattle.

The Sonics put a defensive collar on David Thompson, Denver's high-scoring guard, when the game was close in the third period, then easily shook off Nugget threats down the stretch for their 18th straight victory at home, including six in the playoffs.

"I felt we kept our poise very well," said Wilkens. "We lost it a couple of times, but we called time out and got it right back. Our poise comes from the whole season and every game having been a big game for us."

Denver, which trailed by as many as 13 points early in the third period, closed to 77-74 at the end of the quarter on a Mack Calvin jumper. But Johnson rammed home a 10-footer and Brown followed with a 25-footer for a seven-point Seattle lead.

Bobby Wilkerson and rookie Anthony Roberts courted with baskets for Denver to pull the Nuggets within three points again with 8:36 remaining. But that was as close as they got the rest of the way.

Brown pumped in 11 of his 17 points in the final period and Johnson scored 10 of his 20 points in the final 12 minutes.

"Freddie had a great game. He had some great shots," said Larry Brown, Denver's coach.

76ers Claim Win Over Bullets

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers talked about dreams and positive thinking and tempo and crowd encouragement, but they are still in the National Basketball Association playoffs today because of an unbending defense.

The 76ers, often referred to as the best team money can buy, stuck with their money players Wednesday night and it paid off with a 107-94 victory over the Washington Bullets.

Philadelphia got the job done with Julius "Dr. J" Erving, Doug Collins, Cladwell Jones and Henry Bibby, not only putting the ball in the hoop, but stripping the Bullets of their high-scoring offense.

The best-of-seven series is headed back to Landover, Md., for a sixth game Friday night with the Bullets leading 3-2 but the 76ers confidently are selling tickets for a seventh game here Sunday.

Washington Coach Dick Motta insists there won't be any seventh game, however.

"I still like our odds," said Motta. "I'd hate to be done 3-2 against them and coming up here for the sixth game. They ran us tonight, I still think we're the better team."

Collins and Erving led the 76ers' fast-break offense in staving off elimination from the playoffs. And 7-foot-1 center Caldwell Jones and Erving did the defensive jobs on the Bullets' two big guns, Elvin Hayes and Bob Dandridge.

Collins and Erving each scored 24 points, Jones shut down Hayes, who had averaged 26.3 in the first four games, with just four field goals. Hayes got by 13 shots. And Erving turned on his all his court magic to bottle Dandridge with just 12 points. Dandridge had been averaging 24.3 in the series.

Coach Billy Cunningham of the 76ers said the name of the victory was defense.

We communicated beautifully on defense and that's where it all stems from," Cunningham said. The offense was generated by the defense. And we're going to do the same thing Friday."

Bibby handed out 10 assists, scored 10 points, and held Kevin Grevey in check. Grevey wound up with 17, but most of those came in the final period when thegame already was out of hand.

Collins revealed the tem had undergone a 15-minute lecture Wednesday on the theory of positive thinking.

The lecture was delivered by Bill Glass, a former end for the National Football League's Cleveland Browns.

"He Glass talked to us about ... picturing ourselves being successful," Collins said.

"In my case I walked around picturing myself making my shots. The key is to think positive. So, all day I was dreaming just sat around and dreamed about the ball swishing, and it work..."

Horseback Riding Found Good Therapy For The Handicapped

By JACQUELINE HUARD
EAST HADDAM, Conn. (UPI) — A special education teacher is showing people with physical, emotional and social problems how to cope with their handicaps by riding horses.

In one joyful explosion aboard old Dobbin, a delighted boy made his first sound in 14 years. Until then, he had indicated yes by raising his thumb and no by covering it with his palm.

A young woman confined to a wheelchair because of the crippling effects of cerebral palsy took her first step in 22 years when she left the chair to walk to the horse she had learned to ride.

Both examples are the results of Project SIRE, Self-Improvement Through Riding Education. The program teaches the handicapped to ride horses. The goal: to strengthen their muscles and give them a psychological lift.

SIRE is the brainchild of Cindy Clarke, 27, a special education teacher in East Haddam and lifelong horse lover. She borrowed the idea from Europe and Scandinavia, where riding horses as therapy began during the polio epidemic of the 1950s.

"It's really something for these people to be able to control this big animal, to be out of a wheelchair and up on a horse looking down at people instead of always looking up from a wheelchair," she said.

"We see a tremendous psychological improvement, like kids with social or emotional problems who find it difficult to open up to an adult. They may not talk to a counselor, but some carry on conversations with the horse."

Ms. Clarke, a native of Covington, Va. now living in Lyme, decided in 1973 to take advantage of Connecticut's many horse farms. Ten provide horses one day a week for 200 handicapped riders in Avon, Hartford, Lyme, East Haddam and Norwich.

SIRE's enrollment ranges from an 18-month-old child with cerebral palsy to elderly riders who have suffered heart attacks or strokes. Volunteers walk beside the horses until the riders can manage on their own.

Ms. Clarke said a recent study showed cerebral palsy sufferers in the program achieved a greater range of motion in all major joints.

"The rocking motion of the horse is very important to the kids because their bones will calcify in one position unless they move," she said. "It also gets them out in the fresh air and sunshine. These kids need the stimulation."

Besides riding, the children or adults exercise while sitting in the saddle. They stretch across the horse's back or touch their toes with opposite hands.

"The traditional therapy mat is replaced by the horse's back, providing an exciting location to encourage stretching tight leg muscles," she said.

The program has other benefits. The young riders learn math by measuring their horses. They pick up a little history by studying the animals' origins.

The horses seem to sense their riders are special. "You can get a horse with a fiery temper in the show ring who will suddenly be calm and quiet," Ms. Clarke said. "They seem to know they have to calm down." The horses are exposed to crutches and wheelchairs before they ever see the riders.

For the riders, SIRE develops a change in attitude, something to look forward to, something to be proud of.

And for Ms. Clarke: "My greatest pleasure is seeing them enjoy it and watching the miles and miles of smiles on their faces."

I want to take this opportunity to thank the many people who supported and voted for me in my recent re-election to the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

As I said many times during the campaign—our important years are the ones ahead. So let us all resolve to work together to insure the kind of quality of life we've come to expect throughout Pitt County.

If I can be of assistance to you please feel free to call on me at any time. I look forward to the challenges ahead and I look forward to working with you.

Thank you,

The two honorees, Constance Rose of Portsmouth, Va. and Robert Gentry Brinkley of Greenville, were recognized at the chapter's annual Founder's Day banquet.

Ms. Rose is a business administration major, with a concentration in marketing. Brinkley is an accounting major. The two were selected among nominees from each academic department at ECU.

The banquet featured an address by alumnus member, Phillip Dixon, now an attorney practicing in Greenville. Dixon was presented a special chapter alumni award.

Recognition was given the chapter's 22 graduating senior members, and service keys were presented to three past officers and to the chapter's faculty sponsor, Dr. Jack Thornton of the ECU School of Business.

Much Dismay Stirred By Travel In Early Carolina

By Dr. H.G. JONES
For the Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Only a few years after the American Revolution, a 20-year-old Scotsman traveled through North Carolina. He did not like what he saw and experienced. The route of Robert Hunter Jr., son of a prominent Scottish merchant who wanted to restore his business contacts in America, led from Canada to Charleston, S.C. On June 9, 1786, he crossed into North Carolina from Virginia aboard a stagecoach loaded with rowdy passengers. The road was so rough that the travelers had to get out and walk behind the coach for several miles.

Taverns were many miles apart, and the rudeness of passengers increased between taverns such as Somner's and Copeland's. Hunter contemptuously described their behavior:

"They knocked up every house they came to and made men and women both jump out of bed to give them some grog or whatever they had. I fancy they thought us a parcel of madmen, but perhaps they are used to such treatment."

The residents of Edenton were awakened when, after midnight, the travelers arrived singing and shouting. In Edenton the Scotsman and his servant had meals with an Irishman, Robert Egan. He inspected a brig, recently arrived from the Indies, loaded with 100 young slaves "in the state of nature (women and men)."

Nathaniel Allan intended to employ the blacks in digging a canal seven miles long to drain company pays employees it has laid off a percentage of their salary. In both forms of compensation, the amount and duration of payment depends on why a given employee lost his or her job, the person's age, the size of the family and its financial status.

At Wilmington, Hunter vented his wrath on paper, complaining of the "most tiresome and disagreeable journey I ever in my life experienced," during which tavern owners "charge you extravagantly high and give you nothing for your money, as you know you can go no farther."

Throughout the trip, he wrote, he was threatened by snakes, bears, wolves, panthers, and wildcats, and one night was forced to sleep in "an old barn that swarmed with rats and mosquitoes and, by way of a little variety, my bed (if you could call it one) was full of bugs and fleas."

"All the livelong day you travel through pine woods of 50 and 60 miles without meeting a human being or passing a hut — I cannot call them houses."

Next came the ruins of Brunswick, "which was burned partly by the British in the time of the war, though some suppose the American General Howe's Negroes were concerned in it."

Passing General Howe's "country seat," then going ashore at the ruins of Fort Johnson near Southport, Robert Hunter was greatly relieved when the packet continued to Charleston, where the proper Scottish aristocrat found accommodations and associations more in keeping with his tastes.

At Wilmington on June 18 Hunter took a room at Mrs. Dawsey's lodging house where "the heat was so intense that we were all obliged to dine without our coats and waistcoats, and our shirt collars open."

French Musical Jobs Are Rare

By PAUL CHUTKOW
Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — Almost every Tuesday evening for the past 20 years, saxophonist Tony Garcia has traveled to the Place Pigalle, in the heart of Paris' cabaret and striptease district, to talk with fellow musicians looking for work.

The deputy director of a national agency in Paris that gives compensation to unemployed artists, actors and musicians says many young people who want to enter the arts just do something else because the job market is so difficult.

"A lot of talent is going to waste," she said. Tony Garcia's 18-year-old son, for example, has been playing the piano for the past eight years but has opted against making music his life.

"He's seen my life and has decided on a proper career," Garcia said. According to labor officials, about 75 percent of France's 1,026,000 unemployed workers, who represent about 4.8 percent of the active population, receive some form of unemployment compensation.

The national government compensates unemployed workers and there is also an unemployment insurance system whereby a specific industry or these days, and what jobs there are pay almost nothing." "I play the saxophone, the accordion and the clarinet, jazz or classical, but I haven't had much work since June," said the 45-year-old Garcia. "For me it's OK, my wife works part time. But for most musicians it's the worst it's been for 20 years."

In recent months a half dozen Paris clubs featuring live music have fallen victim to France's economic malaise, adding even more musicians to the country's approximately one million unemployed.

"For seven years I played right there," said Garcia, pointing to a Pigalle nightclub called "Aux Noctambules," which roughly translates as "To the Sleepwalkers."

"The owner ran into hard times and sold the place. The new owner plays records; it's cheaper," the Spanish-born musician said. Garcia's frustrations are echoed by unemployed French actors and actresses, dancers, artists, architects and young college graduates, all of whom are facing increased competition for a dwindling number of jobs in their chosen fields.

"It's awful," said one young woman who earns $60 a week helping manage a small theater company. "It's almost impossible to find work in the arts

A Real TV Special For Those Tired Of Fillers

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Tired of junk shows? An hour's relief is on CBS tonight. It's the third of CBS' fine "Body Human" medical specials. The show is "The Vital Connection," the subject is the brain.

Narrated by Alexander Scourby, written by Dr. Robert Fuisz, it's an absorbing, easily understood study not only of the brain but also of technological and surgical advances in treatment of same. As with "The Miracle Months" and "The Red River," "Connection" weaves the basic information on its subject around dramatic case histories, three of which are told tonight. They involve:

—Carol Culver, 25, a pretty Alabama schoolteacher who, after a car crash and eight weeks in a deep coma, has been left with an uncontrollable tremor in her left arm. —Barbra Lynn Roth, 10, of New York, victim of a small nodule in her brain that has caused her to stop growing, suffer gradual sight loss and put her young life in danger. —Patrick Riggs, 24, of Illinois, whose dream of being a pro golfer is shattered by violent convulsions caused by scars of a brain infection. With superb photography, the show tours the brain, notes that our noodles come in left and right halves topped by "thinking caps" that rule such arenas as speech, intuition, creativity and arithmetic. The cerebellum issues muscle orders, while the brain stem handles instinctive matters such as fear, rage and sexual desire. "The brain," Scourby observes, "has all the power to make daily living carefree. But the smallest misfire can bring tragic consequences." The observation signals the start of the show's three examples of what can go wrong in the circuitry of the brain, and how, with skill and luck, it might be fixed. Miss Culver is the first case. The fixing is done by freezing a tremor-causing relay point in her brain — while she lies awake. It ends happily when she murmurs something and her surgeon sighs in mock dismay: "God, I think we knocked out your Southern accent." The pattern of finding and fixing brain trouble with delicate surgery is repeated with the Roth girl — amid brief but deep despair — and then with Riggs. For sheer drama, nothing beats any of these stories. My sole gripe is that the show and the preceding "Red River" accentuate the positive, minimize the negative and leave the impression that doctors usually win. "T'aint always so.

Metrics Week Being Marked

The National Council of Teachers of Mathematics has proclaimed the week of May 8 as National Metric Week. In their second observance of the event, many Pitt County schools planned special activities related to metric education. Some highlights from the various activities are as follows:

- Chicod Elementary will hold a contest in certain rooms to see which student can find the most metric objects at home or in magazines and newspapers.
- Bethel Elementary students will learn and sing metric songs.
- Falkland Elementary kindergarten students will weigh various foods, using metric scales.
- Belvoir Elementary will have a display in the media center for students to explore the metric system. —Sam D. Bundy School students will weigh and measure themselves to take home the results in the form of a "metric me." —Ayden Elementary plans to display posters and bulletin boards for metric information. —A. G. Cox School sixth grade students will write plays concerning the metric system. —Ayden Middle School sixth grade students will have scavenger hunts for items to be metrically measured. —D. H. Conley High School math classes will participate in a Metric Field Day. —North Pitt High School will have daily announcements over the intercom concerning interesting metric facts. —Farmville Central High School will have the lunch menu read over the intercom in metric units.

Declarer seldom has to plan a hand in the dark. Usually, there are inferences that can be drawn from the bidding or the play to the first few tricks that can guide him.

North-South conducted a reasonably logical auction to get to six diamonds. When South discovered that two kings were missing, he decided that the suit contract might be somewhat safer than no trump.

West chose to lead the unbid suit (South's spade bid was control-showing, not natural), and that immediately removed one of declarer's options—he could no longer plan to establish the club suit. Therefore, declarer had to bring in four heart tricks if he wanted to make his contract, for he needed to discard one black card from his hand. The trouble was that he had a two-way finesse in hearts—he could play either defender for the queen.

Since there was no point in holding up, declarer won the ace of spades and led a trump to the ace. Declarer had no clue about the location of the heart queen, but when East showed out on the first round of trumps, the position had clarified somewhat.

Now that West was marked with length in diamonds, East rated to be longer in hearts. If East indeed had more hearts than West, then the chances of his holding the queen of hearts were proportionally greater.

The rest of the hand was simple. At trick three, declarer finessed the ten of hearts. When that held, he crossed back to dummy with the ten of trumps to finesse the jack of hearts. Declarer drew three more rounds of trumps to exhaust West's holding, then unlocked the ace of hearts.

The ace of clubs was still in dummy as an entry. Declarer crossed to it, discarded a loser on the king of hearts and cheerfully conceded a trick to the defenders at the end.

Alaskan Icebergs May Endanger Supertankers

By LEE GOULD
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Government scientists say thousands of icebergs may fall off an Alaskan glacier this summer, creating a floating minefield for 200,000-ton oil supertankers.

And if something isn't done to contain the ice, the alternative might be to close the sea route to oil-laden tankers leaving the Valdez terminal in Alaska for the West Coast.

One proposed solution would use nylon ropes 10-inches in diameter and 2½ miles long to hold the icebergs back from shipping lanes until the ice melted, according to a Coast Guard study. Or, it said, the icebergs could be roped and towed away by fleets of tugs.

The potential problem is the Columbia glacier, which lies north of the Valdez shipping lane.

The U.S. Geological Survey studied the glacier and found

"it is not in a very healthy position," said Capt. Ronald Kollmeyer, chief of the Ocean Science Section at the U.S. Coast Guard Academy.

"What they expect to have happen is the end of the glacier start to break off," creating icebergs, Kollmeyer said. "It could produce a cubic mile of ice a year if it does come apart."

The icebergs are formed when large chunks of ice fall from the 100-foot-high face of the Columbia glacier. "The Geological Survey has been studying this glacier with intensity for the last two years," Kollmeyer said.

He said there were indications movement of ice into the sea last year "was a little heavier than before."

Kollmeyer headed a team charged with finding a solution to the icebergs problem if it occurs. "We concluded that it was technically feasible," he said, "to hold them off with a big rope.

Kollmeyer said. He said it would cost $30 to $35 million to construct the barrier, but pointed out that $12 million in oil can move through the shipping lane each day in just one tanker.

If built, the 13-rope barrier would stretch — just below the surface — from the mainland to an island 2½ miles away, snaring the icebergs as they drifted south toward the shipping route. The ice chunks would be held out of the channel while melting.

"Icebergs deteriorate quite rapidly there — in about five days in summer and 10 days in winter," Kollmeyer said.

Volunteer Award Is Presented To Retired Nurse

Mrs. Frances Salle, retired Beaufort County nurse, received the 1977-78 Volunteer of the Year Award of the Eastern Lung Association at the association's annual banquet.

The banquet was held recently as part of the annual meeting in Wrightsville Beach. The award was presented to Mrs. Salle by Dr. C. E. Buckley, 1976-77 president of the North Carolina Lung Association.

Mrs. Salle was cited for over 20 years of dedicated voluntary service to the association on the local and state levels. Currently, she is vice-president and co-chairman of the respiratory disease committee.

Mrs. Salle is the mother of Dr. Judith Yongue of Greenville.
