

Paratroopers In Kolwezi

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — Belgium said today it had reports French Foreign Legion paratroopers had gone into action in the rebel-held city of Kolwezi in Shaba Province. Rebel spokesmen claimed the French intend to help the Zaire government defeat the week-old insurgency.

As hundreds of airborne legionnaires shuttled through Kinshasa's airport bound for the southern province, French officials in Paris said only that their mission was to help rescue more than 2,500 Belgians and other Europeans and a handful of Americans trapped in the rebel area.

But Belgian Premier Leo Tindemans said after an emergency government meeting in Brussels that he had reports the paratroopers had been in action at Kolwezi earlier Friday.

Six Belgian airplanes loaded with supplies for Belgian paratroopers have already flown to Kamina, staging base for the planned rescue operation, Belgian diplomats here said. They said 1,000 to 1,200 Belgian soldiers would take part but that the Belgian government had not decided yet whether to go ahead with the rescue.

"The nature of the French intervention in Zaire is quite different from ours," said Tindemans. "Our purpose is uniquely humanitarian."

He said he had discussed the Shaba situation with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing twice today.

Jean Baptiste Mpondo, a Brussels spokesman for the rebel Congolese National Liberation Front, repeated a charge that French paratroopers had joined in the fighting on the side of the Zaire government earlier this week, an allegation already denied by Paris.

There had been earlier reports today in Brussels that French paratroopers had dropped on the airport at Kolwezi, a copper-mining city where most of the foreigners were trapped.

Belgian government spokesman Michel van Ussel told reporters in Brussels the French Embassy notified his government of a paratroop drop after it had taken place.

French Foreign Minister Louis de Guiringaud had announced in Paris that a military operation was already "in progress."

"You will know more in a few hours... No parachutist has jumped up to the present time," he said on French television.

The French paratroopers arrived at Kinshasa's international airport Thursday night and Friday aboard at least six aircraft — four camouflaged C130 transports and two civilian planes. The exact number of troops was not known.

Green Commission Criticized By Hunt

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt today strongly criticized the proposals of a legislative commission headed by Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, saying they would erode the powers of the governor and violate the state's separation of powers doctrine.

Hunt said the recommendations of Green's Joint Legislative Commission on Governmental Operations would be "a serious intrusion on the governor's power," cost taxpayers money and in at least one case, violate federal law.

"I don't know what the intent of it is. All I know is the legislature can't be the executive branch, and it shouldn't try to be," Hunt said.

"I don't know whether the people of this commission understand what they were doing," he added.

Hunt's statements came in emphatic response to a question at his weekly news conference.

The commission's report has not yet been made public, but copies of it have circulated around the Capitol in recent days. Hunt said he had obtained a copy and read it.

The report recommends legislation giving review powers to the commission and the General Assembly over certain programs in departments of the executive branch of state government, and over the use of federal funds.

Hunt expressed objection to one proposal that would give the commission authority to approve or reject continuation of newly begun programs in the executive branch.

He also objected strongly to proposals that would take away from the Governor's Crime Commission the review power concerning the use of federal law enforcement assistance funds.

The commission drew up its recommendations in a series of meetings this year, many of them held in executive session.

Hunt said he talked with Green recently and "expressed my strong concern about anything that would erode the powers of the governor," Hunt said. Green, who is chairman of the commission, told him he was not totally familiar with the report.

The recommended change in review of federal funds for law enforcement may violate federal law, Hunt said.

"This would just really duplicate what is already being done," Hunt said. "That's what we have a governor for — to evaluate administrative programs."

Wm. Friday Asserts Method, Not Goals, Basis Of Dispute

AT ALUMNI MEETING ... UNC president William C. Friday talks with Board of Governors member David J. Whitchard, Pitt alumni chapter president Jasper

Lewis, and director of alumni affairs Clarence Whitefield.

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The score last night was the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill 135, Duke University 99.

No. It wasn't an out-of-season basketball contest. It was UNC-CH alumni meeting at the American Legion building listening to UNC president William Friday, while Duke alumni met across St. Andrews Street at the Beef Barn.

Dr. Jasper Lewis, president of the local UNC-CH alumni chapter told the UNC graduates attending the pig-picking. "Duke's getting full of bull while we're over here eating high on the hog."

Friday, who earned a degree in textile engineering from N.C. State and a law degree from UNC-CH, was president of the old Greater University before becoming president of the 16-campus UNC system — which now boasts 106,000 students at 40 locations throughout the state — in 1972.

Opening his talk last night, Friday said he had visited retiring East Carolina University chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins before coming to the alumni meeting. "He's made a fine contribution to this section of the state and to the university," Friday emphasized.

Then turning to the alumni's alma mater, Friday said, "a lot of important things are happening at the university."

He cited the opening soon of the National Humanities Center at the Research Triangle, which he described as, "an international recognition of the quality and distinction we have in this state," and in the three universities — UNC, N.C. State and Duke — that form the triangle area.

Saying the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill is, "still one of America's premier institutions," Friday discussed the desegregation plan outlined by the UNC Board of Governors and accepted by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare last week, after months of negotiations.

"In the first place," Friday emphasized, "there has never been at any time, any disagreement between the Federal government and our objectives," indicating that the problems encountered in reaching an agreement centered on the methods to be used.

"There has never been any anger, just very strong disagreement," Friday added.

"I believe the agreement we've reached is a vindication of what the Board of Governors..." position has been, that of maintaining an educationally sound program under state control.

At question, according to Friday, was the movement of more black students to predominately white institutions and more whites to traditionally black campuses.

The solution, Friday added, was not as simple as in public (Continued on page 6)

Count Resumed In Dominican Voting

By LEW WHEATON
Associated Press Writer

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The counting of votes resumed in the Dominican presidential election, and Antonio Guzman's Dominican Revolutionary Party said it would fight if President Joaquin Balaguer was proclaimed the winner.

Balaguer told the nation in a televised speech Thursday night he would hand over his office if one of his seven opponents in the presidential election Tuesday was declared the winner by the Central Electoral Board.

"What matter the destiny of a political party or my name before the destiny of 5 million Dominican citizens," said the 70-year-old president, who was trailing Guzman more than 100,000 votes when the national police suspended the vote count early Wednesday. "As president of the republic and of the Reform Party I want to exhort my compatriots to accept calmly the decision of the Electoral Board."

Earlier Thursday his party claimed Balaguer, seeking his fourth four-year term, had won re-election by a margin of 180,000 votes.

Guzman's running mate, vice presidential candidate Jacobo Majluta, said the PRD would oppose "force with force" if its "victory" was threatened.

"We will not tolerate force being imposed over right," he said. "We will oppose force with force. We are going to fight to defend the rights of the Dominican people."

The vote count resumed at noon Thursday, but electoral board president Manuel Joaquin Castillo told reporters it might be two weeks before the final results are known. He would not say why.

When the national police intervened, a fourth of the estimated 2.2 million votes had been counted and Guzman, a 67-year-old landowner and businessman, led Balaguer 326,027 votes to 218,073.

The president cabled Secretary of State Cyrus Vance that the military stopped the count because of rumors of a coup. His party's press office said the tally was suspended because of "monstrous errors" in counting. Spokesmen for Guzman's party said seals on some ballot boxes were broken during the interruption and that an attempt to steal the election might be in the works.

In a clear reference to the United States, Balaguer criticized foreign governments that implied when the vote count was stopped that "they may threaten to interrupt their supposed assistance to us."

The State Department expressed concern about the police intervention, and Vance told Balaguer in a message failure to complete the electoral process could have a serious effect on U.S.-Dominican relations.

U.S. Prepares To Ship Zaire Vital Supplies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Emergency shipments of U.S. equipment and supplies to embattled Zaire are expected to begin in the next few days under a declaration by President Carter that they are "in the national security interests of the United States."

At least two C-141 jet transports already have left for Zaire, Pentagon sources said on Thursday. They carried aircraft fuel for use by Belgian paratroops trying to rescue hundreds of Europeans and an estimated 14 Americans trapped in the fighting in Zaire's disputed and copper-rich Shaba province.

Lt. Col. Leslie Denend of the president's National Security Council staff said shipments of medical supplies, communications equipment, petroleum and spare plane parts urgently requested by Zaire would begin within a week.

A State Department official, who asked not to be named, said the shipments could start moving as early as today.

Carter on Thursday issued a memorandum effectively releasing up to $17.5 million in military sales credits to Zaire, which will finance the emergency shipments. In declaring the aid to be in the national interest, the president complied with a congressional condition for shipping the aid.

White House press secretary Jody Powell, speaking for Carter, said the aid was justified because it was urgently requested by Zaire after a rebel invasion from neighboring Angola. Furthermore, he said, Zaire has a moderate, pro-Western government.

Denend said the supplies being readied for shipment will fulfill all present aid requests from Zaire, although it was not known how much of the $17.5 million in sales credits would be used in meeting the request.

Powell gave no indication whether there would be any direct U.S. involvement in a joint Western rescue operation for the Europeans and Americans trapped in the Zairean fighting.

Two More

MOSCOW (AP) — Two more Soviet dissidents drew stiff sentences today, family sources said, one day after the sentencing of Yuri Orlov.

Zviad Gamsakhurdia and Merab Kostava were sentenced to three years in a labor camp followed by two years internal exile on a charge of "anti-soviet agitation and propaganda."

Orlov was sentenced on the same charge Thursday and received the maximum sentence of seven years in a labor camp plus five years' internal exile, or banishment from Moscow.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Gamsakhurdia and Kostava pleaded guilty to the charge, which Orlov did and that Gamsakhurdia said he repented.

Orlov helped set up a civil rights group in Moscow that exposed Soviet violations of the 1975 Helsinki accords. Gamsakhurdia and Kostava founded the Soviet Georgian branch of the group and were tried there.

Target Price For Wheat Now Raised

Acting Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman Monday raised the target price for wheat from $3 to $3.40 per bushel and the loan rate for upland cotton from 44 cents to 48 cents per pound. Authority to raise these rates was granted in the Emergency Agricultural Act of 1978 signed by President Carter.

Ms. Foreman said that the higher target price for wheat should encourage more wheat producers to sign up for the 1978 wheat program, while the higher upland cotton loan rate will provide producers needed added support but will not bring the minimum U. S. price for cotton to a level that would interfere with U. S. exports.

The Acting Secretary also announced that the sign-up period for 1978 crop programs will be extended from May 15 to May 31. This will allow producers additional time to assess the implications of the new target and loan rates and decide on their participation in the 1978 program, she said.

The target price is a key factor in determining income support levels for farmers. This program is administered by the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) through its county offices.

Child Custody Helps Dad As Well As The Children

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

A divorced or separated father who has even partial custody of his children brings up a sense of his own adequacy as a parent and person.

"Creating a comfortable and secure environment for his children means creating one for himself," say two Brandeis University sociologists in an exploratory study.

"Respecting his children's emotional and physical needs means respecting his own needs, too," said Kristine M. Rosenthal and Harry Finkelstein Keshet in what is thought to be among the few, if not the only study dealing with custody from the father's point of view.

With Rockefeller Foundation funding, the researchers questioned 127 mostly upper middle-class professionals in the Waltham, Mass. area.

"The few who worked as craftsmen or skilled workers did so by choice," they wrote in a recent issue of "Social Work," the monthly journal of the National Association of Social Workers.

They said many fathers developed a stronger self-image. Some fathers said they understood women better.

Some said women tend to see fathers who are committed to parenting as more emotionally available, even heroic.

Many fathers said they began to view their careers as less important than their relationship with the children.

In telephone interviews, the sociologists said a custody-seeking trend is growing among young fathers.

Ms. Rosenthal is an assistant professor of sociology. Keshet is a research associate in the sociology department and director of the Divorce Resource and Mediation Center in nearby Cambridge, Mass.

Keshet said he changed his dissertation topic to joint custody fathers when his own marriage broke up several years ago. He has since remarried and has joint custody of his 9-year-old son.

He said separated or divorced fathers "feel isolated from their families. They are emotionally upset, socially isolated in a world of couples. Like widowhood, it's a sharing experience."

Ms. Rosenthal said half-time fathers appear the most content with their roles: full-time fathers tend to be more lonely because of the time commitment.

It lessens conflict over money when fathers pay in time instead, she said, but:

"Fathers with joint custody get socially punished for it. They make less money than other fathers. I'm guessing they may make job choices that leave them more time but less money."

She said they met one father who went on welfare because it was the only way he could care for his child.

She thinks full-time fathers want to recreate the family.

So do some children. One father said his son "was particularly horrid at the beginning. He put a lot of energy into wanting us to get back together and wanting me to move back into the house."

Each man in the study had been separated for at least two years and cared for his child or children at least two days a week.

Analyzing their findings, Ms. Rosenthal said she was amazed at the continued cooperation and good will that developed between biological and step-parents who shared decisions about their children's schooling, health and financial matters.

"It's a new form of extended family," she said. "It's really important for the child to have a family network he can depend on."

She speculated that the new cooperation may result from earlier break-ups of bad marriages.

Holidays and vacations remain major problems.

"My wife felt it was important for the children to be at her home with her during Christmas," said one father. "I agreed because my apartment didn't feel like home... I felt stripped and rootless."

The researchers found most fathers adjusted faster to the physical care aspect of parenting than to meeting emotional needs.

Yet, they also found the more fathers took care of their children, the more they wanted to do so, even if it meant changing work schedules.

The fathers also developed more sympathy and respect for the woman's role in child-rearing and the need for day care and other social welfare needs.

Fathers who tried to compensate with a steady round of entertainment said they often found the children unappreciative.

"Dan was often angry and difficult..." said one father. "He wanted something I couldn't give him: a family back together."

Better A Broken Engagement Than Broken Marriage

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I recently became engaged to a very pretty girl. She's from a good family and so am I. All our friends and relatives think we are just right for each other, but the more I see of her, the more doubts I have about how this marriage would work out.

She can be sweet as honey one minute and very sullen and pouty the next. She has at times revealed a side of herself that I never saw before. She's spoiled, demanding and selfish. And stubborn, too. I'm not saying I'm perfect, but I don't think I could take this girl's unpredictable moodiness for a lifetime.

What I am trying to ask, my Dear Abigail, is this: How does a gentleman break an engagement?

IN DEEP IN INDIANA

DEAR IN: The same way a lady breaks one. He simply tells his intended in the kindest manner possible that he's decided to keep his bachelor button and forgo the orange blossoms. You may be in for a few unpleasant moments, but you'll both survive it. Better a broken engagement than a broken marriage.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, who is in a home for unwed mothers, has decided to put her baby up for adoption. She's not even sure who the baby's father is, so I think she's doing the right thing. (She's only 14.) She doesn't even want to see the baby after it's born. She says it will be easier to forget if she doesn't.

Abby, even though it would be a lie, what harm would there be in telling her that her baby died at birth? I wouldn't ask the doctor to tell the lie—I will take all the responsibility myself. I just want the doctor and the people at the hospital where she will have the baby to back me up on my story.

My daughter has suffered enough already, and it will be much easier for her if she thinks that her baby died. Then she won't have to go through life wondering where her child is. I can see only good in this lie, but if you think I'm wrong, please tell me why and I'll do as you say. Thank you.

HEARTSICK IN SEATTLE

DEAR HEARTSICK: Although your intentions are good, you can't accomplish good through evil acts. Please, dear, abandon this dishonest scheme. Regardless of how well-intentioned it is, it's wrong.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am bragging, but my problem is that I am too attractive. When I was in high school I never had any girlfriends because they were all afraid I'd take their boyfriends away from them. When I went to work I had to quit one job after another because my bosses were forever making passes at me. Now that I am married, I have the same problem.

All of my husband's friends proposition me, and I have to tell them off. And we don't have any married couples to go around with because the wives are afraid of the competition. Sometimes I wish I were born ugly. What's the solution?

"RED" IN REDWOOD CITY

DEAR "RED": Face it, dear, if you aren't consciously inviting the attentions of the opposite sex, you must be doing so unconsciously. No man in his right mind makes a pass at a statue. He needs some encouragement. A woman who has to beat off every man she meets should find out why.

Ever try brushing the top crust of a fruit pie with slightly beaten egg white and sprinkling with sugar? An extra egg white may be kept in a baby-food jar in the freezer and thawed before using.

Energy-Saving By Customers

Workmen have installed a transmitter which will control switches on hot water heaters and air conditioning for electric load management.

The radio signal will switch off the heaters and air conditioners for brief periods at peak load times. By leveling the load Greenville Utilities costs for purchasing power will be reduced and construction of additional generating equipment will be delayed.

Signing up for the program is voluntary on the part of the individual customer. There will, however, be a direct savings to the customer in the summer electric bills.

Most important, those who sign up for the program will be helping to conserve energy by reducing the need for expensive generation of electricity at times of peak demand.

Wallace Era Appears Ended

Probably more than any other southern politician George C. Wallace represented defiance of the civil rights movement during the 1960s.

From governor of Alabama he became a serious presidential candidate, and later made strong inroads in areas outside the south when court rulings began to be applied elsewhere.

In a national political tragedy he joined a number of well known politicians who were cut down by gunmen's bullets, leaving him paralyzed.

This week his career seemed ended as Wallace withdrew from the senatorial race in Alabama. With his announcement, it seemed, and era also ended.

How To Use The Schools

By BILL NOBLITT

HIGH FALLS — There was this bunch of fellows up around North Moore County who figured it would be a good idea to learn how to fix their lawnmowers and tillers and well pumps when they break down.

So there's a class underway at North Moore High School. Then they figured it would be a good idea to bring the kids along to class. They might learn something useful. And besides, if they saw dad going down to the schoolhouse then they might find out that learning really means something.

And it isn't all just farmers who want to keep things up around the place, though there is some of that. The school's bandmaster enrolled. And one man who thinks he can start a shop later on.

Sure, whispered one reliable source. It breaks state regulations to have the kids here ... but ain't it worth it?

Even Gov. James B. Hunt agrees that it is indeed worth it.

Active

The small motors class isn't all that's going on. In fact, it's one of the smaller groups. A stroll around the sprawling campus at sunset was inspiring:

— A high school sophomore, last year's Tennessee gymnastics champ, was teaching clogging to a prissy five-year-old, a bearded old gent, and an assortment of males and females spanning the years in between.

— Another sophomore was teaching cake decorating to a large group of women, some old enough to be her grandma.

— A bearded young man hovered over an art class; a typing class pecked out letter-perfect documents; a dozen youngsters were learning tennis on courts which double for parking space when overflow crowds show up; the gymnasium held two basketball games simultaneously; and at nearby High Falls Elementary School there were women in slimmastics, a midget baseball game, a tee ball league event; at Elise Middle School at Robbins there was an avid crowd of furniture refinishers at work, a first aid class; and an adult basic education course where a 73-year-old man got a promise from the governor that he would personally award the certificate when he qualifies for a high school equivalency award.

BILL NOBLITT

That was just one night. The Community Schools Program has been underway less than three months. Moore County is one of 71 local school units participating.

So far, in the program in north Moore, 601 people have attended various classes; 7,341 people have participated in some activity or another.

Cooperation

The general objective is to bring together the schools, community college extension classes, and parks and recreation people among other activity groups to provide a wide array of things for communities to do at their schools. In Moore County, it was a natural. The spirit was already there.

In come other counties there was early resistance. Some community college people didn't like the idea of extension courses, or resisted the liaison with the public schools. That attitude has all but disappeared. In some places, there are still remnants of resistance.

But when you see the program at work as it is in Moore, it's hard to understand how bureaucratic attitudes or turf-fighting or even obscure regulations can stand in the way.

Moore County School Supt. R.E. Lee puts it simply: "We are literally saving taxpayers millions of dollars. We have the recreation facilities right here in our schools ... the community college has the extension programs. Why duplicate these things? They already belong to the people. We are saving taxpayers millions, and in the process enriching our lives," Lee says.

With such success, Lee says, he doesn't see how any community would ever spend tax dollars to spend separate recreational facilities when community schools provide the answer.

Percival Living It Up

WASHINGTON — If inflation keeps rising the way it is now, this is the kind of story we can expect to read on our society pages by 1981:

"Percival Flagstone, scion of the Flagstone chewing gum fortune and noted playboy, checked into Peppermint Hospital yesterday for a gall bladder operation. In keeping with his reputation for free-spending Percival demanded a private room. He told reporters laughingly, 'I'm going to stay for two weeks and I may blow half my trust fund, but what the hell, I might as well go first class.' When asked what his operation would cost, Percival just chuckled and said, 'If you have to ask what an operation will cost, you can't afford one.'

"The young millionaire has been noted for spending money like water. Last month he took a movie actress to dinner and they both had T-bone steaks. When the papers got wind of it, Percival was indignant and said, 'It's my money and I can do anything I want with it. Just because most people can't afford T-bone steaks is no reason why I can't eat one if I feel like it.'

"Percival was left a fortune of $20 million which his bankers estimate is now down to five. One of the trustees told this reporter, 'The man has no idea that if he keeps spending at the present rate he won't have anything left in two years. He had strawberries for dessert three nights in a row, and he bought two pairs of shoes this year. No matter how much a person has, he can't keep up that pace and not use up all his principal.'

"But Percival has no intention of slowing down. He told this reporter, 'There are no strings attached to my inheritance and I'm even thinking of buying a new tuxedo this year. My theory about money is that if you've got it, flaunt it.'

"I was terribly criticized when I bought a new azalea bush for my house last year,' Percival told this reporter, 'but I happen to like azaleas, and although there are only about 100 people in this country who can still afford them we are giving work to greenhouses and florists, and it angers me when the papers make such a big deal of it.'

"Percival just bought a two-bedroom split-level brick house on a quarter-acre of land in Washington, D.C., that is estimated to have cost him $5 million. The estate, which once was owned by a conductor on the Penn Central Railroad, has two bathrooms, one on the top floor and one in the basement. It also has a dining room. 'They say I went wild when I bought it. But I consider it a very good investment. In two years the house will be worth $7 million, and then I wonder how many people will say I threw away my money.'

ART BUCHWALD

"Is it true you're buying a four-door Toyota?' I asked him.

"I haven't made up my mind yet, but someone has offered me one at a very good price and I might get it. Ever since I was a kid I've wanted a car, and I may sell the AT&T bonds my grandmother left me if I can break the trust. No one said anything when the Rockefeller's bought a VW last summer for $2 million, yet when they hear I put in a bid for a Toyota it's a front-page story.'

"Perhaps, I said, 'it's because you do everything with a flair. Is it true that after your operation you are thinking of going to London on Laker Airways?'

"Yes, I am. But it's not just for pleasure. I hope to visit our plant in Manchester while I'm there. Everyone thinks I fly Laker just for pleasure, but many times I use it for business.'

"Percival is known for the lavish gifts he gives the women he is seen with around town. Just the other day he bought a 14-carat gold necklace from J.C. Penney for $800,000, and last month he gave a well-known model a rhinestone-covered compact from Montgomery Ward's worth $600,000. 'To me they're just trinkets, but to most of the women I date they're a month's salary.'

"My final question to Percival before he was wheeled into his private room was, 'Percival, you seem to have done it all. You've eaten a T-bone steak, bought an azalea

Applies Reform Tactic

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citizen Jimmy Carter once said the way to reform government is to be bold, take your case to the public and make allies among those who might be your enemies.

That strategy seems to be working for President Jimmy Carter as he presses for fundamental changes in the federal government's rigid personnel system.

He has proposed far-reaching changes. He has drawn unexpected support from organized labor. And he has missed few opportunities in recent weeks to stump for his proposals.

His remarks at a "town meeting" in Spokane, Wash., on May 5 were typical.

"It's become impossible to reward good service, to give promotions and salary increases to those who really do an outstanding job," Carter said. "It's almost impossible to discharge or demote someone who occupies a position in the federal Greenville and other Pitt County towns were practically deserted by their politicians today due to the State Democratic Convention in Raleigh which attracted a large number.

A metal front is being constructed at the home office of the Guaranty Bank and Trust Company and large windows will be installed.

The remodeling will provide more room for office space and additional balcony space.

Business is going on as usual.

Greenville's one-day air mail service ran some four hours late, the plane arriving here about 1:20 p.m. It was scheduled to arrive at 9:20 a.m. but was delayed in Wilson because of a broken axle.

Post office attaches said 103 pieces of mail, weighing three pounds, were sent from here.

Farmville posted nine pounds to lead both Wilson, which had four pounds, and Greenville.

THE GALLUP POLL...

Major Concern: Inflation

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J. — Concern with inflation has taken a dramatic upward surge among Americans. Today more than half the public, 54 percent, say inflation is the top problem facing the nation.

In the previous survey, in early February, far fewer — 33 percent — name the high cost of living. The current figure closely parallels the percentage recorded last October, 35 percent.

Unemployment is the problem named second most often in the current survey, by 18 percent — virtually unchanged since the previous survey.

Third on the list is the energy situation, cited by 8 percent as the top problem today. This is a significant decline since February, when 23 percent named the energy problem as America's chief concern.

The current survey also shows a continuing decline in the percentage of Americans who believe the Democratic party is better able than the GOP to handle the problem they consider most important.

At the present time, 32 percent of the sample say the Democratic party can better handle the problem they consider uppermost, while 22 percent look to the GOP. Another 46 percent either see no difference between the two or do not express an opinion.

The Democratic party support on this question in the current survey is 6 percentage points lower than in an October survey. This question has proved to be an accurate barometer of the political mood of the electorate in both congressional and presidential election years.

Following is the question which has been asked by the Gallup Poll at regular intervals over the last four decades:

"What do you think is the most important problem facing this country today?"

Here is the current list, compared with February's, showing an increase in the percentage saying the high cost of living, and the decline in those naming the energy situation:

Most Important Problem?	Latest			February			October
	54%	33%	35%	18	17	24	8	23	18
High cost of living — inflation	54%	33%	35%	18	17	24	8	23	18
Unemployment
Energy situation
International problems,
foreign policy	8	9	7
Crime and lawlessness	3	4	5
Moral decline/lack of religion	3	3	4
Dissatisfaction with government	3	3	2
Drug abuse	2	2	2
Race relations	2	*	2
All others	15	20	19
Can't say	3	4	3
Total	119%	118%	121%

*Less than 1 percent

**Totals add to more than 100 percent because of multiple responses.

All persons who named a problem were then asked, "Which political party do you think could do a better job of handling the problem you have just mentioned — the Republican party or the Democratic party?"

Following is the trend:

PARTY BETTER ABLE TO HANDLE MOST IMPORTANT PROBLEM	No		Opinion
	Democratic	Republican	Difference
TODAY	32%	22%	34%	12%
February 1978	35	19	34	12
October 1977	38	14	36	12

The findings reported today are based on in-person interviews with 1,546 adults, 18 and older, taken in more than 300 scientifically selected localities during the period April 14-17.

Strength For Today

JUDGE NOT...

Why is harsh judgment of others such an unlovely circumstance in human relations? Not because none of us merit judgment, but because none of us knows enough about any person — his background, motives, and capacity — to pass judgment on what he does or thinks.

Even though we think we know people well, in the last analysis we never know what leads them to act the way they do. Buried in their natures may be certain deplorable tendencies which, if they were in our own natures, would drive us to much more wicked actions than we condemn in them.

The moment we begin judging other people, we begin inviting judgment upon ourselves. We are supposed to be brother, neighbor and friend to those round about us, but never the judge of their actions and motives. As Jesus said, "Judge not that ye be not judged, for with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured unto you."

— Elisha Douglass

Housing Market Defying Logic

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — To the surprise of many, the market for housing continues to boom in defiance, they say, not only of the laws of finance but of gravity and logic too.

The annual rate of housing starts rose 31 percent in March and another 6 percent in April to a rate of 2.19 million units. Purchases of existing homes in March was at an annual rate of 3.77 million units.

It's often said that houses are priced beyond the means of the typical family. But families find the money somehow — by the wife going to work, or by borrowing from parents or by doing without in other ways.

In search of motives for this fate-defying skill, some housing analysts seem to overlook the desperation factor, the other side of which is the investment incentive.

Young families, that is, know that despite their financial problems, they cannot indefinitely postpone buying a house. The coming of children and the presence of inflation force them into the recognition.

They become convinced, more strongly than any real estate agent could convince them, when they also see a house as a way out of penury. And the numbers support them.

It is conceivable, in fact, that by postponing for just two years the purchase of a typical single-family home, already existing and advertised in the resale market, they could lose close to $28,000.

To illustrate: In March 1977 the median sales price of existing single-family homes was $41,000. A 20-year mortgage for 80 percent of the purchase price might have been obtained at 8.5 percent.

Under such terms, the purchaser would have had to pay $8,200 down and finance $32,800 at a cost per month of $285, or $3,420 per year, for a 20-year total of $68,400.

In March 1978 the median price had risen to $46,500, and some lenders charged around 9 percent interest. After a 20 percent downpayment, the buyer had a $37,200 mortgage, requiring payments of $335 per month or $4,020 per year, for a total of $80,400.

Costs could be higher next year. If trends persist, median prices would be about $52,000, and it is possible that interest rates might rise to 10 percent. Such rates already exist in a few areas.

It also might be more difficult to obtain a loan. If available, the down payment would be $10,400, the monthly payments $401, the yearly charges $4,812, and the total $96,240.

The difference between 1977 and 1979: $27,840.

Religious Views Share Satire

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A tongue-in-cheek streak shows up in the attitudes of college students toward religion. When classifying themselves religiously, they occasionally put some sharp satire into it. At least that is the case found in a check at one big campus. "East Indian Southern Baptist Jew," one student jotted on a religious preference card, perhaps indicating his international inclusiveness. Others listed themselves as devotees of these ideals: "Hermitism," "Accumulationism," "Porsche Fanatic," "Polytheistic-Hellene leanings with Albigensian overtones." The far-out, quirky and obviously invented classifications were reported on optional religious preference cards received from students by the Rev. Gus Schultz, Lutheran campus minister at the University of California at Berkeley. Other peculiar listings: "Hedonism," "Ticcado," "Llamarianism," "Frogonian of the Latter Day Saints," "Holy Roller Buddhist-Ordained," "Pagan," "Anti-Moone Existentialist," "Bokomonist," "Mithraist" and "Orthodox Hendrixianism." Several listed themselves as "agnostic," either of the plain kind or with curious variations such as "Judeo-Agnostic," "Protestant Agnostic," "Agnostic Satanist," "Seventh Day Agnostic" and a double doubler who termed himself a "Skeptical Agnostic." One student, verging on sacrilege, listed his affiliation as "First Fundamentalist Christian Church of the Prolonged Suffering and Goody Death." The Rev. Martin Marty, religious historian of the University of Chicago, summarized the odd designations in a recent issue of "Context," his weekly commentary on the interaction of religion and culture. He notes that mainline church denominations predominated as usual in the optional student listings, but that the off-beat, concocted categories were scattered among them. It mirrors a typically sardonic bent among the young, and perhaps a current anti-institutional mood. For many, Marty says, religion nowadays is "not a denominational game" in the traditional western sense.

At the University of California, for instance, the number listing themselves as Lutherans were equalled by the number terming themselves Buddhists, many of the latter with Western surnames. Regarding campus satire of religion, however, one outlet for it apparently is calling a halt. National Lampoon magazine said in a recent editorial it is discontinuing its ridicule of religion. The magazine attributed its decision to pressure from a group called Citizens Against Sacrilege in the Media "who have taken it upon themselves to protect your deity and theirs from libelous attacks."

New Effort For Women

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Another national conference is planned this fall to press for the opening of the Roman Catholic priesthood to women. The Women's Ordination Conference, an organization now numbering 1,500 lay women and nuns that was set up after a 1975 ordination conference in Detroit, has scheduled the second one Nov. 10-12 in Baltimore. It was announced by the National Sisters Communications Service.

"It is time to lay to rest the heresy that women cannot 'image' Jesus in the priesthood," said Sister Mary Luke Tobin of Denver, a leader in the movement.

Dolores Pomerleau of Washington, D.C., coordinator for the Baltimore gathering where up to 5,000 people are expected, said it would explore "a new kind of priestly ministry" for women.

"We are not talking about women assuming the traditional priest role," she said, but about a transformed priesthood offering women new forms of priestly ministry.

DEATH... AND THE STARS

These thoughts are from the pen of a man who recently lost his friend.

Every night I see a star that is many, many light years away. But I am not sure that the star exists. Had it exploded when Christ was born, we would be seeing its gleam for untold years. I will not prove existence by what I see.

Nor will I disprove existence by what I do not see. I see John no more. But each new telescope discloses stars we never knew were there.

Every night I see a star that is many, many light years away. But I am not sure that the star exists. Had it exploded when Christ was born, we would be seeing its gleam for untold years. I will not prove existence by what I see.

Pitt Planning Board On Tour To Better Understand Needs

ON PLANNING BOARD TOUR ... board members J. P. Sumrell and John Bailey, county planner Larry Hurlocker, and board member Austin Britt, look over subdivision plans.

The Pitt County Planning Board conducted a tour of selected sites Wednesday to give members a better understanding of various problems encountered in the planning and development of subdivisions and mobile home parks, and how the problems can be resolved.

Areas visited by the board members included the county's sanitary landfill, Horseshoe Acres and Green Farms subdivisions, Branch's Mobile Home Estates, Hardee Acres subdivision extension, and the sediment control basin at the East Carolina University medical school site.

Conducting the tour were district conservationist Roy Beck of the Soil Conservation Service, with assistance from county planner Larry Hurlocker and Pitt County Health Department chief sanitarian W. M. Pale.

The 15-member Planning Board was established in 1971 to assist the Board of County Commissioners in insuring that development and growth in the county is done in a safe and orderly manner.

Currently, the Planning Board is charged with the enforcement of the subdivision and mobile home park ordinances, advises the Board of Commissioners on matters such as the sanitary landfill and solid waste collection program, and is concerned with items such as longrange planning and the sediment control program.

He has preached that basic text, with variations, at two personal meetings with members of the House Civil Service Committee, the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee and the Congressional Hispanic Caucus; in telephone conversations with congressmen; at news conferences in Washington and Portland, Ore., and at the Spokane town meeting; and at an anti-inflation pep talk to representatives of the National Retail Federation in Washington. He has ordered his Cabinet members to lobby for his proposals, which he wants passed this year.

There are plentiful signs that Carter's personal lobbying is paying off. Senate and House subcommittees are expected to take up the proposals next week. Even the staunchest defenders of pay and job protections for civil servants have kind words for at least the principle of reform.

This is surprising, given the changes the plan would bring. It would make it easier for governmental bosses to fire employees for inefficiency. It would end job tenure and institute performance bonuses for the top 9,000 civil service ex-

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST - Bands of rain and showers are forecast today from west Texas and Florida into the Mississippi Valley and north to the Great Lakes. Cool weather, with mostly clear skies, is due for the Plains and the West. Temperatures are expected to be mild in the East. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press

A weak high pressure system was building over North Carolina today, promising some fair weather for at least the start of the weekend.

Today's forecast was for partly cloudy over the north-east part of the state and mostly sunny elsewhere. Saturday also is expected to be mostly sunny, except for the mountains where the forecast calls for partly cloudy.

There is a chance of thunder-showers late Sunday, otherwise the weekend will be generally fair.

Under partly cloudy skies Thursday, temperatures climbed into the 70s and low 80s around the state. Raleigh and Wilmington had high readings of 81 degrees.

Temperatures were expected to range from the mid 70s to the low 80s again today. Saturday may be just a little warmer with readings generally in the 80s.

Wm. Friday...

schools where busing and pupil and teacher assignment can be used. "In higher education, you can't order people to go." Students pay their money and choose where they want to go, he pointed out.

The three principal areas involved in the dispute, and resulting settlement, Friday said, included, "access...the rate of integration, and enhancement."

Under the agreement, "access...more disadvantaged youth going to college," according to Friday, represents a goal, "not a quota," as HEW had suggested earlier.

Pointing out that HEW had suggested that the rate of integration could be speeded up by eliminating the duplication of programs at historically black and white campuses or through the possible merger of campuses located near each other (such as UNC-Greensboro and A and T State University), Friday noted "in public education, some duplication is necessary."

Under the HEW approved plan, Friday said, the Board of Governors agreed to launch a study to seek out any unnecessary program duplication.

"What we're going to insist upon," Friday emphasized, "is that the Board of Governors decide when programs are educationally unnecessary. I don't feel any particular discomfort at all," with such a position.

Enhancement, Friday explained, means, "what are you going to do to improve the quality of these five traditionally black institutions?"

Answering, Friday pointed out that since 1972, 18 new academic programs have been started at the five traditionally black campuses. He also said that if the General Assembly approves the budget requested by the Board of Governors, $900,000 a year will be spent on remedial education programs for disadvantaged students.

Friday also said since 1972, $28 million has been spent on new buildings for the five schools. "If this budget is approved," Friday explained, $11 million more will be appropriated.

"I think on all of these considerations, North Carolina has met the test," the UNC president said. "The argument has been over procedure."

Saying he believes that there is still the possibility of litigation over the desegregation plan, Friday noted that in such a case, HEW should now stand with the UNC Board of Governors, rather than opposing it.

Friday added, "I believe the Federal government has learned a lot about universities," through its negotiations with North Carolina. "I believe that a lot of this ex-posure...has established the principal that the right to govern...the right to decide what a university should do," should be left up to the Board of Governors.

Following Friday's talk, Clarence Whitefield, director of alumni affairs at UNC-CH, presented a 30-minute slide show on the Chapel Hill campus, narrated by television and screen star Andy Griffith, a 1949 UNC graduate.

Officers for the coming year, elected at the annual meeting, included president Dr. Dan Warren, vice-president Charles Carter, and secretary-treasurer Mrs. Carl Knott.

Railroad-Union Talks Dragging

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal mediators say talks between the nation's railroads and 11 unions are not making much progress, but "we have not reached a point where we would declare an impasse."

"The tempo has been slow, but then you have a large number of organizations involved and pretty complex talks," said one mediator, who asked not to be named. The unions, representing 415,000 railroad employees, are negotiating separate agreements with the National Railway Labor Conference, the industry's bargaining arm.

Attack Selling Term Papers

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The federal government wants to kill the mail-order term paper business that lets college students meet course requirements with their pocketbooks instead of their brains.

Ghost-written term papers have been around for years and many fraternity houses for decades have had file cabinets of old term papers.

But what is causing the government concern is the trend toward nationwide corporate operations selling research papers for profit. Postal authorities say at least six companies now are peddling term papers nationally through ads in campus newspapers and elsewhere.

The companies have research staffs compiling papers on hundreds of subjects and offer catalogs of papers available at about $3 per page. For a higher fee, the companies will write an original paper on a subject chosen by the student.

In what a government attorney said is a test case, postal authorities announced Thursday they have filed a complaint against the Academic Research Group, Inc., of Rutherford, N.J.

The complaint charges the company sells research reports that students then turn in for academic credit. The Postal Service position holds that selling canned term papers through the mail violates laws prohibiting using the mail for misrepresentation.

Academic Research, contacted Thursday, declined to comment on the case.

In a preliminary ruling in the case, U.S. District Court Judge H. Curtis Meanor denied the government's request for a temporary restraining order. A full hearing in the case is set for June 9.

Television Career Had Its Start By Accident

By ELIZABETH LATT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — In April 1973, Jayne Adair, a graduate student at Purdue University, was at home in Greenville, S.C., for a friend's wedding. At the wedding, she met the general manager of a local TV station, who said he was looking for a talk show hostess.

Ms. Adair, a former junior high school English teacher, had no experience or interest in a television career. But the station executive was impressed by her liberal arts background, personality and appearance, and was pleased that she came from the South but did not talk like a southerner.

He suggested she apply for the job. "I decided to give it a try," Ms. Adair recalled. "I was very nonchalant about it."

She not only got the job as the show host, but also one of producing that program as well as a regionally syndicated children's show.

Turns of events like that one are almost enough to make the 30-year-old producer of public television's award-winning "Studio See" — a video magazine for young people — believe in leprechauns and other make-believe things, she said in an interview in her office at South Carolina Educational Television Network headquarters.

"The breaks that I have gotten are the ones that I haven't had to work for," Ms. Adair said.

Before her first job in TV, Ms. Adair was undecided about a career. She had a bachelor's degree in literature and creative writing from Wheaton College in Illinois, and had just earned her master's degree in American studies. Between degrees, she had taught in Greenville's public schools.

She spent a year with the Greenville station, then worked for a time with the political campaign that led to the election as governor of her uncle, James B. Edwards.

After a few months out of work, she heard South Carolina Educational Television was interested in producing a children's program. She submitted a proposal and the state network bought it.

The show first aired in South

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, steadying after an early decline. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off more than 3 points in early trading, showed a .69 gain at 851.61 by noon-time.

Declines maintained a 3-2 lead over advances among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. The market turned downward Thursday as the dollar retreated in foreign exchange trading following a West German official's comment that the recent rally of the U.S. currency might have been "exaggerated."

Another apparent source of selling was evidence that the Federal Reserve was seeking to tighten credit a bit further by encouraging short-term interest rates to rise. But analysts said buyers anxious to catch up with the market's sharp rally this spring helped cushion the impact of those developments. K mart led the active list, down 1/4 at 25 1/4. On Thursday the company reported lower quarterly earnings.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks slipped .06 to 58.14. But the American Stock Exchange market value index rose .11 to 144.46. Volume on the Big Board came to 15.30 million shares at noon, against 17.46 million at the same point Thursday.

Abortion In Italy 'Free'

ROME (AP) — Abortion on demand fully paid for by the government will be available to women over 18 in a few days when Italy's new law is published in the official gazette.

It replaces a Mussolini-era ban on abortion as a crime against the purity of the Italian race. Pregnancy can now be terminated for physical, economic, social or psychological reasons.

A woman has to consult a doctor, but the final choice is hers in the first 90 days of pregnancy. After that, abortion is allowed if a doctor finds the pregnancy poses a serious health hazard to the woman.

The law was approved by the Senate Thursday 160-148 despite strong opposition from the Vatican and the Christian Democratic government. The Chamber of Deputies passed the measure 306-275 on April 14.

An alliance of Communists, Socialists and smaller parties carried the bill through both houses of Parliament. The Christian Democrats, the fascists and another rightist party opposed it. The Vatican had no immediate comment.

Rampants Top Eagles; Face Hoggard

Foster Visits Here
Bill Foster, head basketball coach at Duke University, spoke to the Pitt County Duke Alumni Association last night. Foster gave a review of the past season and talked of the upcoming year, saying that pressure would be on the Blue Devils. Reflector Sports Writer
ELIZABETH CITY — Rose High's baseball team did its job yesterday afternoon, beating Northeastern 4-2, but got no help from Wilson, so the Rampants will take to the road in the first round of the state 4-A playoffs. Rose's victory over the Eagles was their final game of the Division I season. The Rampants finished with a 10-5 record. Last night, Rocky Mount defeated Wilson 12-5 to also finish with a 10-5 mark.

The two schools are co-champions of Division I and both will go to the playoffs. But by virtue of Rocky Mount's two wins over the Rampants this season, the Gryphons will enter the playoffs as the top team from the league and play at home in the first round, while Rose must go on the road. The Rampants' first game will be at Wilmington Hoggard, a team which finished 20-1 this season, losing only its final game.

"I'm pleased with the season. I think we've got a good playoff-type team," Rose coach Ronald Vincent commented after yesterday's game. "We're getting good defense, timely hitting, and our baserunning is very good. We're ready to go to the playoffs."

Rose only won by two runs, but the Rampants were in control the entire seven innings against the Eagles. Greg Lee capped a two-run first inning when he raced home on an appeal play, and Rose scored runs in the fifth and sixth. Northeastern's two runs came across in the fifth.

The Rampants got a fine pitching game from Skip Topping, who limited the Eagles to four hits and finished up in championship fashion in the seventh, picking a runner off first for the frame's second out and striking out the final batter.

Rivers' Quick Climbs Out Of Tee Times For Doghouse, Leading Yanks To Win BVCC Tourney

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Mickey Rivers went from the doghouse to the penthouse in one quick jump.

Rivers, who feuded with New York Yankee Manager Billy

Martin made headlines last weekend and resulted in his consignment to the bench, made a more positive kind of headline Thursday night.

Thrust unexpectedly into the lineup when Roy White pulled up lame against the Cleveland Indians, Rivers responded with a tie-breaking triple and two runs scored.

His contribution resulted in a 5-3 victory for the Yankees and no doubt ingratiated him with Martin.

It was Rivers' first appearance in the lineup since last Sunday's 10-9 loss to the Kansas City Royals, a game which stirred up the controversy between Martin and Rivers. Martin was upset over what he considered Rivers' lack of hustle, although the outfielder claimed he was bothered by an injury.

In other American League action, the Texas Rangers beat the Oakland A's 6-4; the Minnesota Twins defeated the Kansas City Royals 8-6; the Milwaukee Brewers turned back the Detroit Tigers 8-7; the Baltimore Orioles outscored the Toronto Blue Jays 5-3 and the California Angels trimmed the Chicago White Sox 9-5.

Undefeated Ron Guidry won his fifth straight game with ninth-inning relief help from Rich Gossage, who posted his fifth save of the year. Guidry gave up six hits, including Andre Thornton's two-run homer in the fourth inning. It was the first homer off Guidry in 121-3 innings.

Rangers 6, A's 4
Juan Beniquez drove in four runs and had four hits as Texas beat Oakland. Texas catcher Jim Sundberg ran his consecutive game hitting streak to 17 with a fifth-inning single. The streak, longest in the American League this season, tied a club record.

Twins 8, Royals 6
Mike Cabbage, Butch Wynegar and Jose Morales knocked in two runs apiece to lead Minnesota over Kansas City. The Twins scored five runs in the third inning on a two-out rally keyed by a two-run single by Cabbage and Morales' two-run pinch double.

Brewers 6, Tigers 7
Sal Bando's eighth-inning sacrifice fly scored Paul Molitor as Milwaukee, after squandering a five-run lead, struck back and snapped Detroit's four-game winning streak.

Molitor led off the eighth with a bunt single and reached second on the play on a wild throw by third baseman Aurelio Rodriguez. After Cecil Cooper sacrificed Molitor to third, Bando lofted his fly to right, breaking a 7-7 tie.

Orioles 5, Blue Jays 3
Doug DeCinces drove in three runs with two homers and Pat Kelly smashed a two-run double to pace Baltimore over Toronto.

DeCinces, who has driven in all eight of his runs this season on homers, connected in the fourth following a walk to Eddie Murray to tie the score at 2-2. His solo blast in the eighth, hit fifth home run of the season, provided the Orioles with their final run.

Angels 9, White Sox 5
Don Baylor smashed a grand slam home run and right-hander Chris Knapp won his fifth game as California defeated Chicago.

Time Changes, Too

Several City Bus Route Changes Begin Monday

Several significant route and time changes will be implemented by the Greenville Area Transit (GREAT) system, effective Monday, May 22.

Linda Hix, transit marketer here, said that the changes are part of an effort to streamline the operation, specifically the bus routes, and to eliminate areas where ridership is very small.

She explained that most riders will be affected by the changes in the time schedule and she urged GREAT patrons to secure schedules in order to be fully informed as to the new bus times.

In discussing the time changes, Ms. Hix noted that the early morning schedule differs from the rest of the day. The early schedule will remain near to its present time and still get workers to the hospital and other areas on time for early morning shift changes, she said.

Pointing out that the schedule remains staggered until 7:30 a.m., she mentioned that from 7:30 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. all buses will leave the Mall at Fourth and Evans at 30 minutes after the hour, every hour. Bus One will also leave the Mall at 55 minutes after every hour headed north of the river.

On Route One, transit officials have decided to discontinue service to several areas, including: the Tar River Estates section; E. Tenth Street between Elm and W. Wright Road; W. Wright Road; the Eastwood area; and E. Fourth Street between Beech and Hickory Streets.

Several areas are being added on Route One, she explained, including service to: W. Fifth Street between Green and Nash Streets; Nash between Fifth and Third Streets; W. Third between Nash and Green Streets; Elm between Tenth and 14th Streets; and 14th between Elm and Ragsdale.

Ms. Hix said that the only change that is planned for Route Two involves a discontinuance of service to Oakmont Plaza.

Route Three changes involve discontinuing service to: E. Fifth between Colanche and Meade; Meade between Fifth and First Streets; E. First from Meade to Reade Streets; Reade from Fifth to Fourth Streets; and to Kroger's.

She said that service will be added on Route Three to the Kearney Park development.

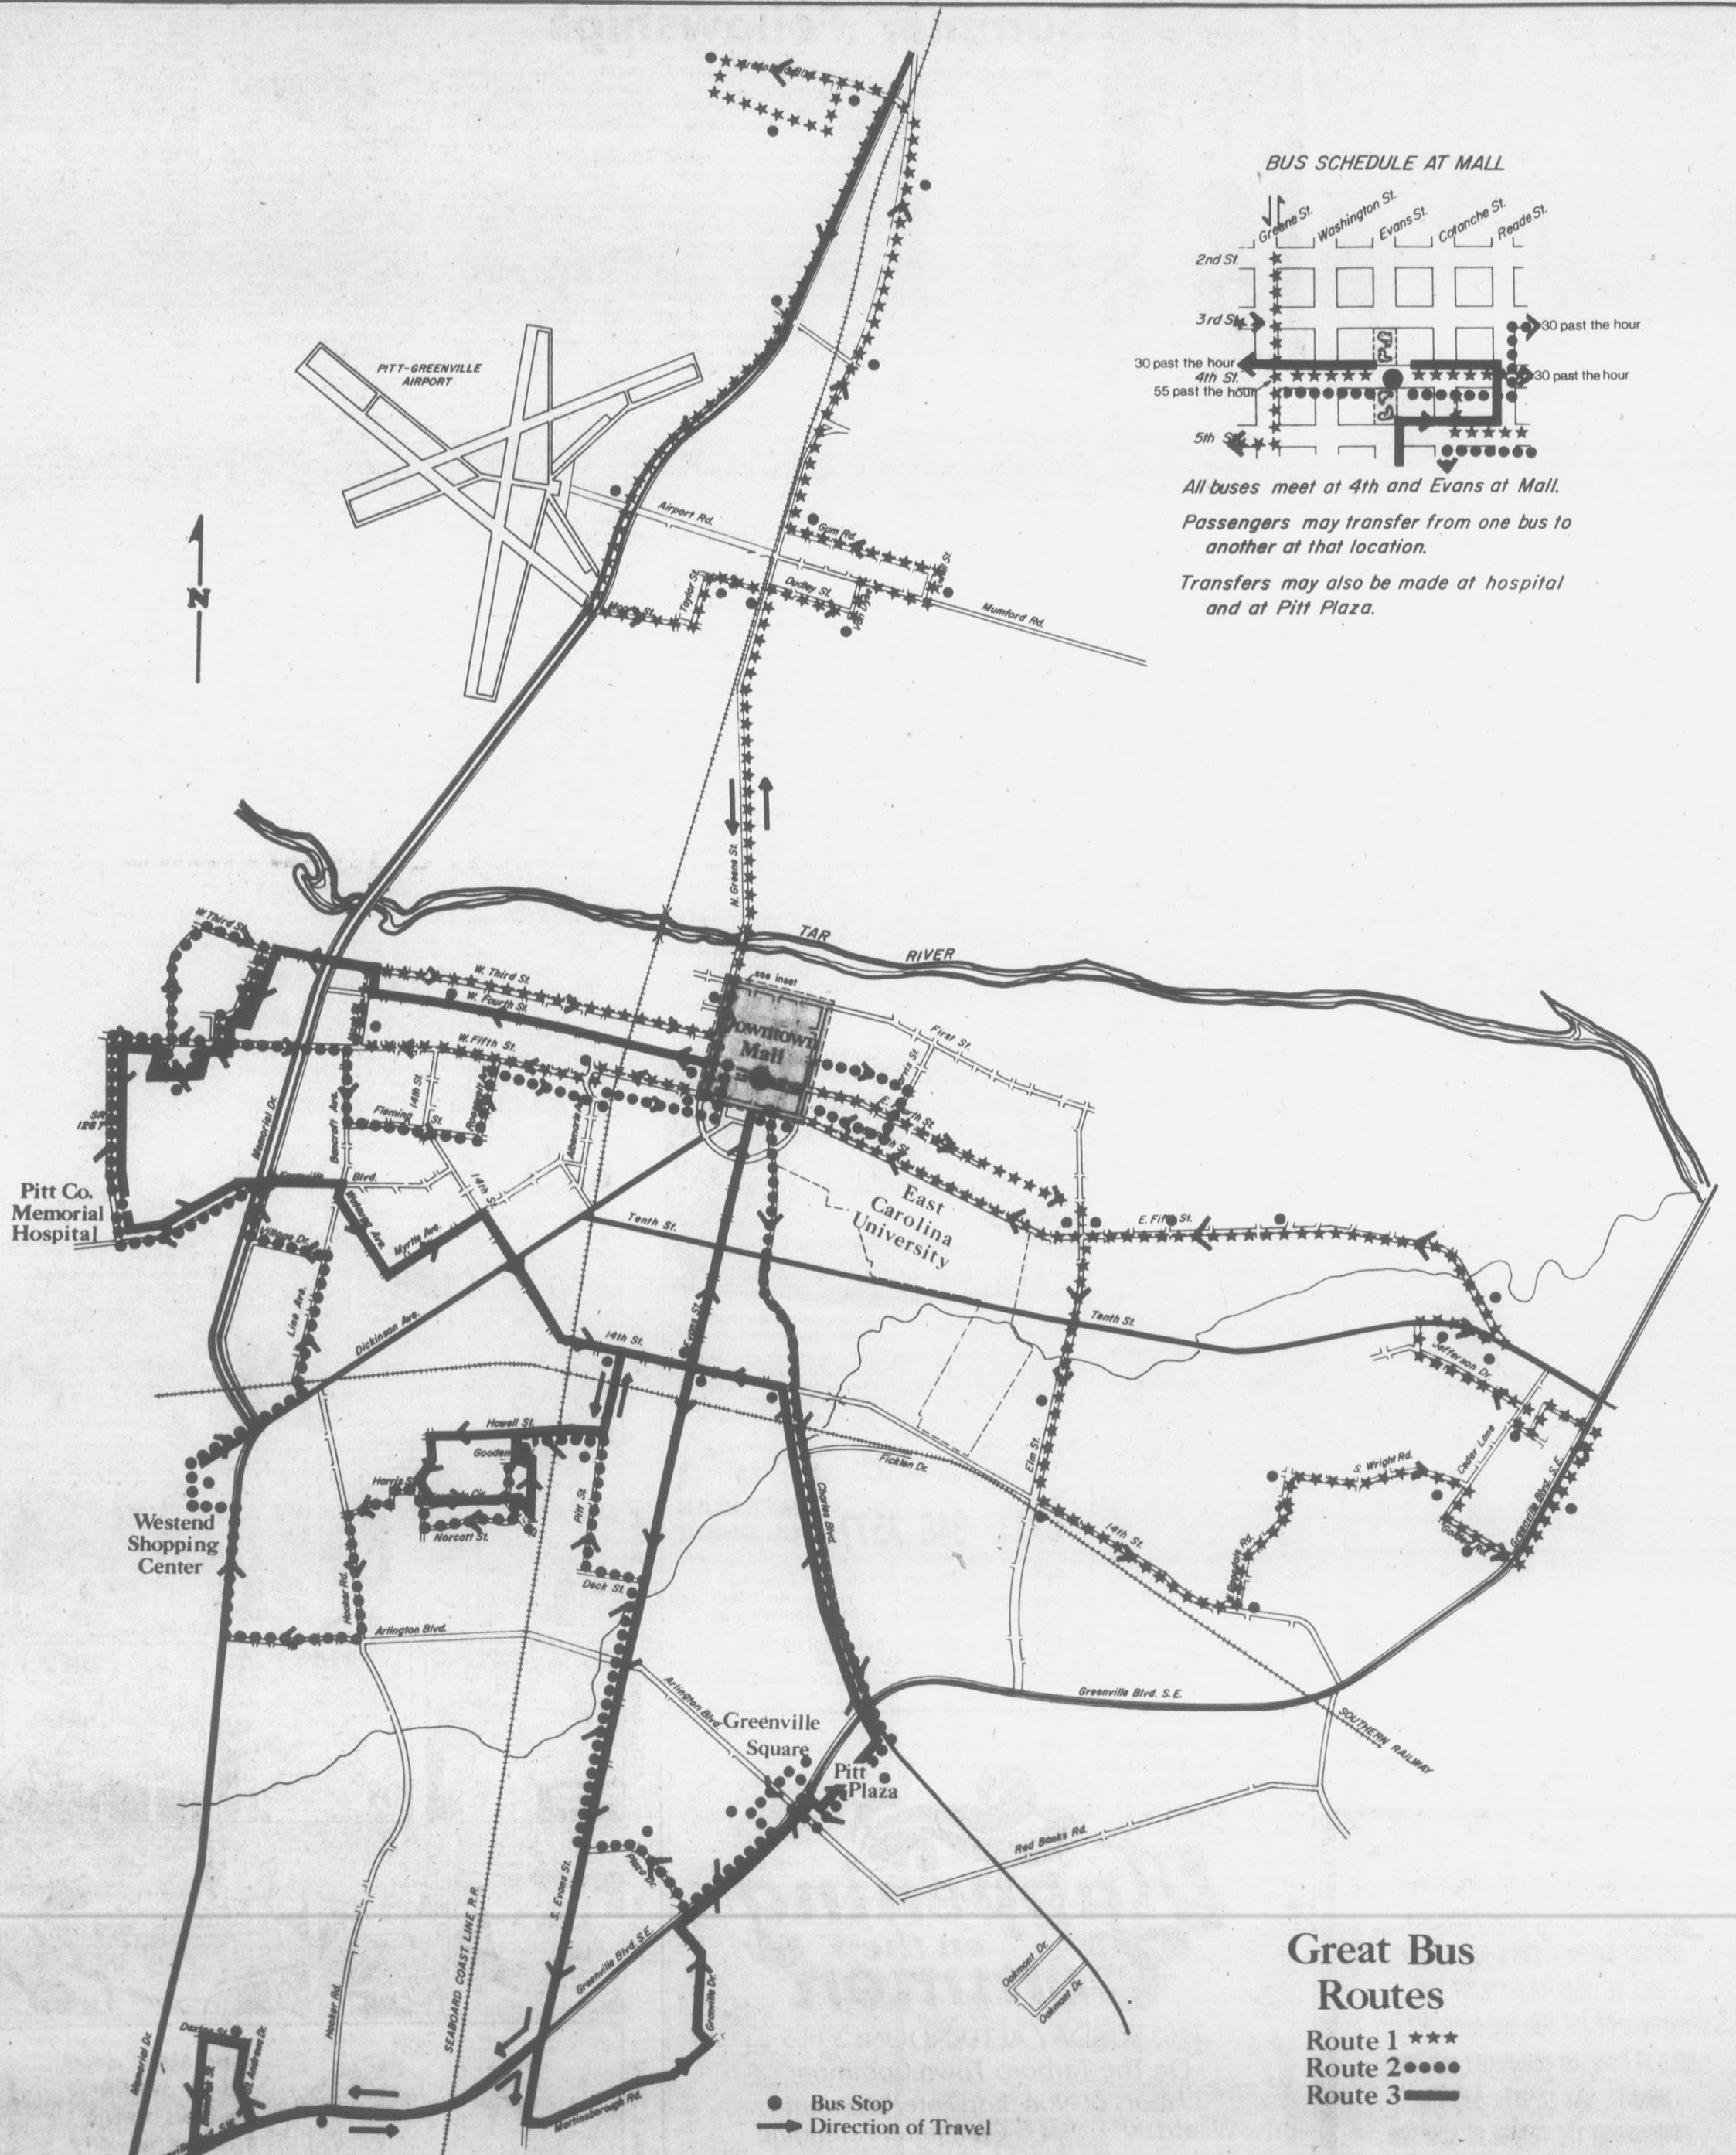

According to Ms. Hix, the transit vehicles are experiencing excessive wear and tear under the present schedule as drivers are pushing their vehicles to meet designations on time. By cutting out areas of low ridership and streamlining the routes, bus speeds will be reduced and contribute to a more efficient operation, she said.

A new bus has been purchased and will be placed in service within the next few weeks, it was mentioned. The transit system will still have three buses in daily operation but will have two back-up vehicles.

The transit system, which began operations in late July of 1976, has served over a quarter of a million riders, she reported.

Ms. Hix said that persons with inquiries regarding the transit system should contact GREAT at 752-4137, Ext. 238.

BUS SCHEDULE AT MALL

All buses meet at 4th and Evans at Mall.
 Passengers may transfer from one bus to another at that location.
 Transfers may also be made at hospital and at Pitt Plaza.

Mining Mushrooms Daily By The Ton

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent
WORTHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — The workers wear the hard hats of miners, complete with headlamps, and from the dark, dank tunnels where they toil they haul 60 tons a day.

Sixty tons of mushrooms. That is correct, mushrooms. Here beneath the rolling Allegheny Mountains of western Pennsylvania lies the mother lode of the American mushroom business, the nation's largest producer.

It is called the Butler County Mushroom Farm, Inc., but any resemblance to a farm of the garden variety stops after you pass the huge compost pile, which is above ground, which has the distinct smell of a stable, which is not surprising.

"Just think" said Margo Yoder, whiffing, "there might be a little bit of Secretariat in there. We buy our compost from Kentucky's bluegrass farms." Thoroughbred compost.

Ms. Yoder is the grand-niece of the two brothers, Ira and M.S. Yoder, who had the bright idea 41 years ago of growing mushrooms underground.

Mushrooms, lowly though they may rank among the earth's flora, leafless and sexless, described in classical verse as "pale, fleshy, as the decaying dead," nevertheless are most finicky about where they deign to grow.

They require a 50 to 62 degree temperature, humidity about 70 percent, conditions they find at times under a fallen tree or pile of dead leaves but which make growing them commercially more difficult.

The accepted way among commercial growers is a cinderblock house with controlled atmosphere.

The Yoder brothers, a pair of Barberton, Ohio, nurserymen who had experimented with mushrooms, growing them under benches in their greenhouse, figured a cave might answer.

Instead of a cave they found an abandoned limestone mine, more than 100 miles of corridors stretched like a subterranean cobweb beneath 500 acres of countryside.

It took them a while, about 15 years, to work out all the problems, such as air circulation, but when they did they had a farm where it is always springtime and always nighttime and where, today, underground cafeterias and piped-in music help banish the Stygian gloom for the working miners.

No, not really miners. But watching them at work by the light of their headlamps, crews of fireflies standing around a long tray of compost, they hardly resembled farm workers.

Besides, their working conditions come under the same state and federal regulations as hardrock miners, and the farm is subject to periodic visits of mine inspectors.

Margo Yoder, whose job it is to publicize the company, said she was tempted during the long coal mine strike to put out the news that at least some workers were still underground, the 750 pickers at the Butler County Mushroom Farm.

"I guess that would have been stretching it," she said.

There have, by the way, she explained, been several strikes at the mushroom farm by the union representing the pickers.

The agricultural workers? "No, the steelworkers."

May 22-27 Observed As Mailbox Week

Greenville postmaster Lloyd Mills announced Wednesday that May 22-27 will be observed as "Mailbox Improvement Week."

Greenville residents are urged to repair, repaint, and make other improvements to all mailboxes, especially to those located along rural, city delivery curb-line and highway contract routes.

"Customers should be sure their boxes provide adequate protection to the mail and are easily reached by carriers. That helps speed collection and delivery of mail," Postmaster Mills said.

"Attractive mail boxes also add to the general appearances of our community," according to Mills.

Further Disturbed By Teacher, Boy Shot Him

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Classmates say a 13-year-old A-student, the son of a former presidential press secretary, killed his English teacher because of growing distress in a class where he was criticized, laughed at and given a failing grade.

John Daniel Christian took a .22-caliber rifle from his home Thursday morning, walked into his eighth grade English class several minutes late and, in front of horrified students, pumped three bullets into his teacher, Wilbur Rodney Grayson Jr., 29.

Grayson was struck in the head, right arm and side. "There's not any question but he shot him," said Roy Minton, the boy's lawyer.

The Men's Board-a-Match Team Championship at the recent Spring North American Championships held in Houston was won by Steve Robinson-Kit Woolsey, both of Arlington, Va., John Schermer-Neil Chambers, both of Seattle, Wash., and Peter Nagy-Eric Kokish, both of Montreal. They simply ran away from a star-studded field and this hand played a part in their victory.

North-South were employing negative doubles. Therefore, a double by South of two clubs would have been for takeout, so South passed in the hope that North would reopen the bidding with a double. South would then convert to penalties by passing. When North rebid his diamonds, South bid what he expected to make.

Against three no trump Woolsey led his fourth-best spade. Dummy's jack won and declarer led a diamond to his jack. Woolsey ducked smoothly!

Declarer continued with a diamond towards dummy. When West produced a low diamond, declarer became convinced that East had ducked the first diamond holding a doubleton king. Therefore, he rose with dummy's ace of diamonds, fully expecting to drop the king. He was aghast when East discarded on this trick. Dummy was now dead, and in the fullness of time, declarer ended up down two tricks.

At the other table the Robinson team reached six diamonds on the North-South cards. East led the ace of hearts and shifted to a spade, won by dummy's king. After declarer first cashed the ace of clubs for a heart discard, he finessed diamonds to pick up the trump suit.

Declarer ran all his trumps, and West could not withstand the pressure. He was squeezed in the major suits, and he unguarded his jack of hearts in the hope that partner held the ten. So declarer made his slam with two spades, two hearts, seven trumps and the ace of clubs on a hand that failed in game at the other table.

Your play to the first trick could decide the fate of the contract! A writer once remarked: "There's no such thing as a blind opening lead, only deal opening leads!" By SUSAN GUFFEY
Associated Press Writer
FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — Women have increased their numbers at the nation's agriculture schools by more than 3,600 percent over the last eight years.

The phenomenon follows a trend toward larger agriculture school enrollments, which school officials attribute to a swelling interest in "getting back to the land."

For women, specifically, job opportunities are better, in part because of federal equal-opportunity programs affecting large agri-businesses.

But career prospects are not the only reason women are turning to agriculture colleges. Many say they are there for the same reason that has always attracted men: an intangible feeling that success in farming provides the best life.

Diane Fraser, 34, is one of the new wave. With a master's degree in sociology, she needed only to write her dissertation when she abandoned her doctoral studies and enrolled at the College of Agriculture at the University of Minnesota.

She said she had wanted to be a farmer "ever since I was a kid."

The National Association of Land Grant Colleges, whose 72 members comprise the bulk of the nation's farming schools, reports its schools had only 854 female agriculture majors in 1970.

By 1975, the figure was 23,654. This year, 30,989 women are working for agriculture degrees at the 72 schools — a 3,628 percent increase.

These figures are reflected at two of the largest land grant schools of agriculture, at the University of Wisconsin and the University of Minnesota.

At Wisconsin's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences in Madison, the number of women has quadrupled since 1972, said Richard Daluge, assistant dean and placement director.

At Minnesota's St. Paul campus, the number of women in agriculture majors went from 128 in 1971, 11 percent of total enrollment, to 612 this year, 33 percent of total enrollment.

Here at Colorado State University, the figure jumped from 94 in 1970 to 546 by 1975 — an increase of about 750 percent. Today, more than half of the first-year agriculture students are women.

At Colorado State's College of Agriculture, two courses have been added to the curriculum because of the enrollment shift toward women, both "designed to give women the chance to catch up with a male counterpart who may have come from a farm background and just know a backlog of things from 'osmosis,'" said Dr. Jack Law, an associated professor of agriculture who helped develop the courses.

One teaches basic skills in construction, electricity, power mechanics and welding.

The second is a sort of image- and confidence-building workshop, where students meet women who have succeeded in agriculture. Several Colorado State women said they transferred into agriculture from other majors after taking that course.

"When we were finished, we all felt 'Well, no, I don't have to be a secretary; I can go out and plant trees if I want to,'" said Jana McMahon, a 21-year-old Ridgewood, N.J., horticulture major who once studied journalism.

Myra Hottinger, 22, a senior from Colorado Springs, transferred into landscape design after starting out as a botany major.

"I wanted a more practical aspect of botany," she said.

With the number of women growing, Colorado State developed a course for its faculty on what Law described as "the subtle discrimination that goes on against women all the time."

Wisconsin's Daluge said career prospects are best in areas such as agricultural economics and agricultural engineering — fields that still do not attract many women.

These jobs involve making crop projections and planning the most effective use of technology in agriculture and may put women in air-conditioned offices as well as on farms.

Many of the jobs are under federally required affirmative-action plans, Daluge said. As Law put it, "It certainly doesn't hurt to have the government saying, 'You must hire women.'"

Farmville Is Interested

FARMVILLE — A Workshop on Historic Properties and Historic Districts will be held at the Archives and History Building in Raleigh Monday.

The workshop, sponsored by the Division of Archives and History of the Dept. of Cultural Resources, is designed to assist communities interested in designating specific properties or areas as historic and protecting these historic sites through the use of historic commissions.

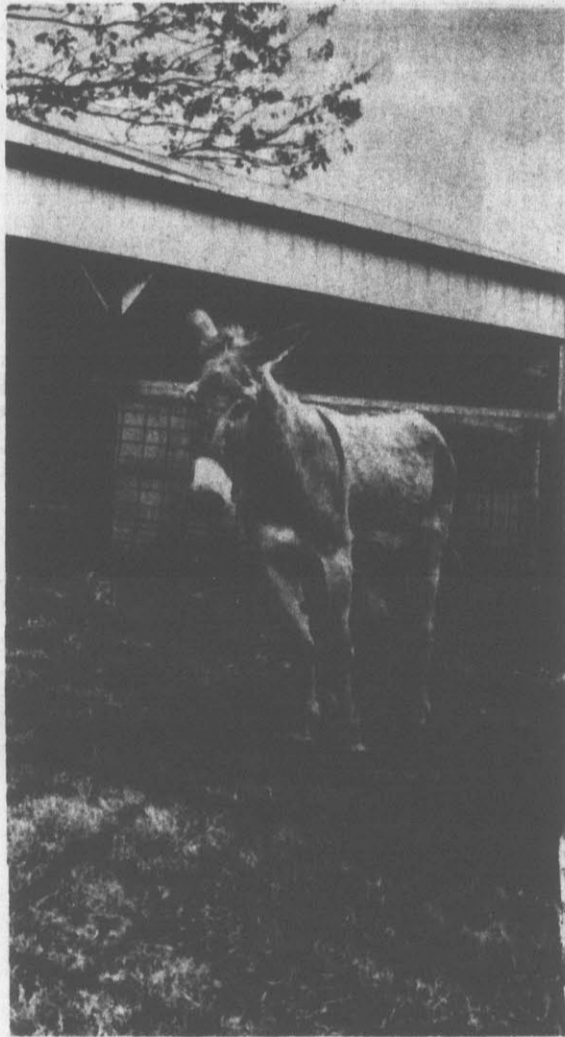

Interested residents of Farmville are asked to contact Town Administrator Patrick Thomas for program and registration information.

The Farmville Town Board has discussed the possibility of designating the downtown business district as a historic district. At least one town representative is expected to attend the workshop.
