

Warrantless Inspections By Government Barred

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
The Supreme Court, voting 5-3, ruled today that the federal government may not make unannounced inspections of the nation's workplaces unless it first obtains a search warrant.

The court struck down as unconstitutional a portion of the Occupational Safety and Health Act that has allowed Labor Department inspectors to carry out some 400,000 spot checks of factories and other business places since 1971.

The Constitution's protection against unreasonable searches applies to commercial premises as well as homes, the court said in an opinion written by Justice Byron R. White.
Today's decision upheld a 1976 ruling by a three-judge federal court in Idaho that government inspectors must first prove to a judge or magistrate that they have "probable cause" to believe safety hazards exist at a certain workplace.

The court's ruling virtually guts the Labor Department's strategy of keeping private employers alert to safety needs by holding over them the possibility of a surprise visit by government inspectors.

Government lawyers had argued that "the effectiveness of the inspection system would be largely nullified if an employer could gain significant delay by refusing to permit an inspection without a warrant."

More than 6 million industry and business locations are subject to checks by the 1,300 field officers of the Labor Department's Occupational Safety and Health Administration.
There was no immediate comment on the ruling from the department or OSHA.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, in a statement by President Richard L. Leshner, praised the decision, saying: "The business community...and the 75 million people earning paychecks in the private sector should be delighted with this blow for freedom."

"The authority to make warrantless searches devolves almost unbridled discretion upon executive and administrative officers, particularly those in the field, as to when to search and whom to search," White's opinion said.

"A warrant, by contrast, would provide assurances from a neutral officer (a judge or magistrate) that the inspection is reasonable under the Constitution, is authorized by statute and is pursuant to the administrative plan containing specific neutral criteria," he said.

Joining White's opinion were Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Potter

Stewart, Thurgood Marshall and Lewis F. Powell Jr.
Justice John Paul Stevens wrote a dissenting opinion, in which Justices Harry A. Blackmun and William H. Rehnquist joined.
Justice William J. Brennan Jr., who missed arguments in the case because of illness, took no part in the decision.

N.C. Boycott?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The city council of the District of Columbia is considering a boycott of North Carolina's products to protest the state's treatment of the Wilmington 10.

District officials here say $300,000 is spent by the city in North Carolina each year, including more than $100,000 for cigarettes from R.J. Reynolds.

The boycott of North Carolina products was added Monday to a resolution that would prohibit district employees from traveling to states that have not ratified the Equal Rights Amendment on city business.

The boycott resolution will be voted on next Tuesday by the city council.
Rep. Stephen L. Neal, D-N.C., reacted angrily to news of the possible boycott Monday night.

Neal said the entire North Carolina delegation supported home rule for the District of Columbia, but North Carolina legislators might be put in the position of having to re-examine their support if the council "is going to exhibit this kind of irresponsibility."

The District of Columbia also buys sports equipment and granite from North Carolina.

The Wilmington 10 are nine men and a woman who were convicted in connection with the firebombing of a Wilmington store during riots in that city in 1972.

Earlier this year Gov. Jim Hunt reduced the sentences of the nine men still in prison but refused to grant them pardon.

Principal Of Rose High Is Resigning

Greenville City School Superintendent Glenn Cox has announced that the Greenville City Board of Education has accepted the resignation of Rose High principal Frank Davenport.

Acceptance action was taken in an executive session by the board at its regular meeting on Monday, May 15, and was announced by Cox this morning. The resignation is effective June 30.

Davenport, a native of Charlotte, is completing his first year as Rose High principal.

"I plan to continue in the field of education, and at this time my plans are incomplete," Davenport commented this morning. "At the moment, I'm in the process of making a decision about my next move."

Davenport added he feels "Rose High is an excellent school and it is not because of any problems at the school that I've made a decision to resign."

The school board has initiated a search for a replacement for Davenport for the coming school year.

Dedication Set

A time and date of 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 6, has been set for the official dedication ceremony of the new Middle School located on Arlington Blvd. off Hooker Road.

A tentative date of Sunday, May 28, had been announced earlier. The change of date, Superintendent Glenn Cox said, "was made after taking into consideration that May 28 is Memorial Weekend Sunday and the board and myself felt another date would be better."

The public is invited to attend the planned ceremony.

Pitt Tech Board Asking Vote On College Status

The Pitt Technical Institute Board of Trustees Monday night adopted a resolution requesting the Pitt County Board of Commissioners to call a referendum on the question of "for or against community college status for Pitt Tech" for the fall general elections.

Clifton W. Everett, board chairman, said the board selected the fall election date for two reasons: the referendum would not cost the comany additional expense in holding the referendum and a large voter turnout is expected in the fall elections.

The county commissioners were authorized to call a referendum on the question of Pitt Tech's possible community college status as a result of a local bill adopted by the 1977 General Assembly.

The bill states that the issue to be voted on is whether or not to convert Pitt Tech to a community college.

Upon the recommendations of the Board's Personnel Committee and Mrs. Kay Whichard, committee chairman, the trustees approved the reappointment and appointment of personnel at the Institute for 1978-79.

The board also authorized the Personnel Committee to approve recommendations for new positions or vacancies during the summer months and adopted a holiday calendar for 1978-79. The paving of two additional parking bays in front of the new shop and classroom building was approved as recommended by the Building Committee and presented by committee chairman A. B. Whitley, Jr.

The board adopted a motion requesting that unallocated funds from the 1976-77 budget be used for the paving.
Corey Stokes, chairman of the Program Committee, recommended that the Institute seek approval by the State Board of Education for programs in diesel mechanics, energy technology, parts countermeasures, and piano tuning and repair. The recommendation was adopted.
President Fulford announced

ed several gifts had been received by the Institute since the last meeting. Burroughs Wellcome donated $2,000, the Doris Phelps Memorial fund gave $2,000, and an anonymous donor sent $5,000.

Fulford also announced that graduation ceremonies would be held Friday, 8 p. m., in McGinnis Auditorium on the East Carolina University.

Seek To Trim Building Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifty construction companies and eight AFL-CIO trade unions have agreed to avoid strikes and to take other steps they say will cut building costs in 11 Southern states.

Labor Secretary Ray Marshall praised the agreement Monday, saying it "is a significant example of what can be achieved through labor-management cooperation to hold down costs."

He said the agreement could reduce construction costs on some industrial projects by 9 to 14 percent.

The pact was signed by the National Constructors Association, composed of 50 companies that build industrial plants, and the Asbestos Workers, Boilermakers, Carpenters, Operating Engineers, Iron Workers, Laborers, Cement Masons and Pipefitters.

The agreement will rule out "strikes, lockouts, picketing, work stoppages, slowdowns, and other disruptive activities," according to a joint announcement.

He was 55.

The cause of death was not immediately disclosed.

FEEDBACK

CONLEY STUDENTS RALLY

Some went door-to-door; some made and sold fudge candy; others produced a play; still others shared their part-time income — but all gave unselfishly to help someone they hardly know.

Students of D. H. Conley High School took it upon themselves to raise money for the aid of Billy Justice, a leukemia patient whose pending bone marrow transplant was publicized in the Hotline column Apr. 12. Coach Shelly Marsh, Athletic Director, instigated the drive because the 23-year-old Justice was once an outstanding wrestler for the Conley Vikings.

Individual donations, joint contributions produced by the Art Club, the Student Council and the Literary Club, as well as those of the cafeteria and maintenance staffs, the administration and the faculty were combined to provide a gift of $1,335.67 for Justice.

The check was presented to Herbert Travis, father of Debbie Travis, Justice's fiancée, by Conley Principal J. R. Carraway and Coach Marsh.

Justice is a patient at the Sloan-Kettering Institute in New York City, where he underwent a bone marrow transplant from his sister, Ann Cash, Apr. 25. Travis reports he appears to be recovering quite well.

Holliday was presented a life membership in the national organization during the public works session, held May 17, 18, and 19 in Southern Pines.

In becoming one of a small group of life members from North Carolina, Holliday was recognized for his longevity and service with the city and also his status as a registered professional engineer.

The recognition, made through the state chapter, was based on Holliday's service as city engineer for over 20 years and it was mentioned that he currently wears two hats for the city as engineer and manager.

Offer Matching Grant For Farmville CBD

FARMVILLE — The Town of Farmville has been offered a $9,000 matching grant for use in planning the historic preservation of the Central Business District.

The grant offer comes from the Survey and Planning Grant program of the Division of Archives and History, N. C. Dept. of Cultural Resources. If accepted, such a grant would have to be matched by the town. It would help fund a comprehensive inventory of the downtown area to identify historically significant structures, developing an appearance guidebook for use in restoring downtown buildings and producing facade renderings of all historic downtown structures.

The Town Commissioners will decide whether to accept the grant at their June 6 meeting.

A Downtown Architectural Advisory Committee, appointed by the Town Board, is now assisting downtown property owners in renovation of buildings in a manner which is "historically correct." One of the goals of the downtown revitalization project is to restore a "turn of the century" flavor to downtown to complement the beautification of the street and sidewalk improvement work now underway. An example of the sought-after effect is on display in the Town Hall — a block-long rendering.

A number of downtown property owners have contracted with Environmental Prospectives, an architectural firm experienced in historic preservation, to produce facade renderings for their buildings. The Downtown Architectural Advisory Committee will attempt to assist any downtown property owner in designing renovation efforts.

The Committee cautions that any property owner desiring to be in harmony with the restoration efforts should avoid the following: general use of metal framing or coverings on doors, windows and building faces; plastic or flat aluminum canopies; and large illuminated or projecting signs. Property owners are especially encouraged to carefully restore original brickwork, leave in place plate glass store fronts, use colorful canvas canopies, and make all upper story signs of tasteful size mounted flat against the building or lettered on a canopy.

Embezzlement Charged By Federal Grand Jury

NEW BERN — Clay Stroud Jr., 60 of Ayden, former director of the Ayden Housing Authority, was indicted by a federal grand jury here yesterday on charges of embezzling $7,286 in federal funds.

Stroud, according to the two-count indictment, embezzled the funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development between April 1975 and November 10, 1977. If convicted, he could receive a maximum penalty of $15,000 and 15 years in prison.

The former Housing Authority director resigned his post December 1, 1977, after an audit uncovered the misappropriation of funds. Stroud allegedly admitted the shortage, supplied his computation of the misappropriated money, and repaid it.

Included in the audit report was a reply from Stroud which termed the shortages, "a very serious series of mistakes on my part."

Stroud continued, "as the auditor has confirmed, the figures on money due the Authority are just what were reported to him. And full restitution has been made."

"None of what I have said lessens the seriousness of my mistake and the seriousness of the effects it has brought about. Almost without realizing what was happening, I made a very serious mistake which I deeply regret."

Stroud is scheduled for arraignment on the charges June 1.

Ministry Opened To Non-Practicing Homosexuals

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
SAN DIEGO (AP) — Overwhelmingly rejecting the ordination of practicing homosexuals, the United Presbyterian Church has taken the historic step of welcoming to its ministry gay men and women who seek to become heterosexual or remain celibate.

It was the first such explicit policy on homosexual clergy to be spelled out by a major Christian body.

The action by the church's 190th governing assembly late Monday came after an impassioned day of floor debate, culminating two years of study and wide controversy for the 2.6 million-member denomination.

"For the church to ordain a self-affirming, practicing homosexual person to ministry would be to act in contradiction to its charter and calling in Scripture," the assembly declared.

The ordination of practicing homosexuals failed on a show of hands with estimated 600 of 650 votes against.

And while ordination of celibate homosexuals passed by about 600 to 50, some delegates objected to allowing any homosexual to become a Presbyterian minister.

It is "a perversion of the gospel of grace," the Rev. Laura Jervis of New York City told the assembly after its vote in the Convention Center, packed with observers and ablaze with television lights.

On the other side, Sandra Brawders, a Princeton theological seminary candidate for the ministry, had taken the floor to dramatically acknowledge her homosexuality and declare: "We can discover and find ways to share the delicate and lovely rainbow of acceptance under which God offers to meet us all."

Citing Scripture, the assembly said God intended "loving companionship" between male and female or celibacy, following Jesus' lifestyle, and that "the practice of homosexuality is sin."

Repentant homosexuals able to redirect their desires toward heterosexual marriage or who remain celibate "can certainly be ordained" if otherwise qualified, the assembly declared, adding: "Indeed, such candidates must be welcomed and must be free to share their full identity."

A major ecclesiastical body has never before openly taken that position, although homosexuals are generally assumed to have served as clergymen since ancient times.

MASSACRE VICTIMS — Bodies of murdered Europeans lay in small room in Kolwezi, Zaire, after their massacre during rebel occupation of the war-torn Shaba province mining town. An estimated 170 whites were killed in the seven days the rebels held the settlement, prompting one evacuee to tell newsmen on his arrival in Brussels "One thing is certain: no white will return to Kolwezi without a permanent European military force there." (AP Laserphoto)

Another 'Test' For Gay Rights

By LINDA KRAMER
Associated Press Writer

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Opponents of Eugene's gay rights ordinance are hoping residents of this university city will defy their liberal reputation and vote today to repeal the measure.

But supporters of gay rights are counting on this mid-sized urban area to buck the national trend and defeat the repeal drive.

Both sides believe the vote will be close.

Voters in Dade County, Fla., St. Paul, Minn., and Wichita, Kan., have repealed gay rights legislation by large margins.

"The result will depend on which side gets its voters out," said Larry Monical, a member of Eugene Citizens for Human Rights. "If we win it will show that discrimination has no place in Eugene and that Eugene citizens are not intimidated by the falsehood and scare tactics of the opposition."

The gay rights ordinance was approved by the City Council last November. However, it never took effect because 10,000 signatures were collected on petitions to refer it to a popular vote.

Gay rights opponents here have avoided the Bible-quoting approach of the successful repeal campaigns in other cities. Instead, VOICE (Volunteer Organization Involved in Community Enactments) has argued that homosexuality is a choice and does not require civil rights protection.

"If Eugene turns this thing around, it will show that a liberal and educated community will still find good reasons for supporting moral standards," said Lynn Greene, a VOICE campaigner.

"It also would show that people are not falling for the facade of a civil rights issue; that they recognize this type of legislation as endorsing homosexuality and are not willing to take that step, and I don't think ever will be," she added.

Another Theft, Break-In Is Charged Man

Linwood Earl Tyson, 19 of 507 Church St. was arrested by Greenville Police yesterday on breaking, entering and larceny charges in connection with a May 6 incident at 602 Church St.

Chief Glenn Cannon, who said Tyson has been charged with rape in connection with two incidents in the North Greenville area, was charged yesterday with taking a tape player and rifle from the 602 Church St. dwelling.

According to the Chief, Tyson has also been charged with burglary in connection with the two assault cases.

The first of the rape and burglary cases occurred March 29, while the second for which Tyson has been charged, occurred May 8.

Parachutist Is Fatality

GRIFFITH, Ind. (AP) — A parachutist was killed after he collided in the air with another skydiver during the filming of a television commercial and plummeted to the ground with an unopen chute, police said.

Lake County Coroner Albert T. Willard identified the victim as Kevin Shea, 28, of Chicago.

Sheriff's police said Shea, a professional photographer, was killed Monday when he collided with Joseph M. Wielgosz, 24, of Winnipeg, Manitoba. Wielgosz was injured and was taken to Broadway Methodist Hospital in Merrillville, police said. His condition was not released.

Police said Shea apparently was knocked unconscious when he and Wielgosz collided in the air about 20 miles east of Griffith, in northwest Indiana. Witnesses told authorities that Shea's parachute failed to open and that the other man's chute was partially open when the accident occurred.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Christopher Andersen has just written a book advancing a theory I've always believed — your name can make you a winner or a loser.

It's true. I never knew a "Ginger" who wasn't born with pom-pom hands, a "Ruth" who didn't iron tennis shoe tongues, or an "Elvira" who didn't smile without a piece of spinach wrapped around her front tooth.

Sure enough, in Andersen's book, "The Name Game," Ginger means "cute," Ruth means "earth mother" and Elvira translates to "drab and slow."

Most people hate their names. They're always pronouncing them, spelling them, explaining them, defending them, or changing them. When you think of it, it makes good sense. Can you imagine a man tall in the saddle with a patch over one eye holding reins in his teeth and guns blazing from both hands by the name of Marion Morrison? Which is probably why Marion Morrison became John (trustworthy, very manly) Wayne.

And there has to be something catchier than Salvatore Bono and Cheryl La Piere who opted for Sonny (athletic) and Cher (a legendary one-word name).

I always felt Erma was a fat name and rated in popularity right under Popeye and Iodine. It probably shaped my destiny loudest. Given a choice, I would have preferred to be named Astrid (Luscious). But I didn't have the thighs for it — not even at birth.

How different things might have been if I had been named Astrid. I would never have dated Ellis (lackluster), Melvin (wilted), Rollo (mama's boy) or Lou (yawn).

I would have hung out with Bart (very macho!), Kent (a big winner) and Hank (virile and active).

I would never have been intimidated by everyone else in my neighborhood with a nickname. Names like Wheezie, Bunny, Ducky, Happy and all those other cute dwarf's names. They could have called me... surely they would have thought of some thing better than what I got — "The Mound."

It was with some reluctance that I turned to find what connotation my name really had in Andersen's book. On page 151, there it was: Erma: sexy, but listless.

I'm not sure, but I think one cancels out the other.

Arrest Man In Shooting

Robert Cannon Jr., 33 of Route 4, Greenville was arrested yesterday by Greenville police on charges of assault with a deadly weapon, and shooting into an occupied dwelling in connection with a January 15 incident here.

Chief Glenn Cannon said a 20-year-old East Carolina University co-ed, Beth Elaine Praskac was shot in the back two times with a 22 caliber rifle at her 8 Playmeadows dwelling about 3:30 a.m.

The chief said the shooting apparently resulted from an argument between several persons earlier that day.

Witnesses said Cannon, who was allegedly involved in the earlier argument, returned to the dwelling and fired several shots into the house, then fled the scene in a car.

Lana Lynn Hardee of Ayden, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a formal-length gown of white lace over yellow silk organza. Her headpiece was encircled with yellow daisies and white baby's breath. The mother of the bride wore a formal-length gown of aqua knit with a gathered bodice and long chiffon sleeves. The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal gown of apricot knit designed with an embroidered lace jacket.

MRS. MICHAEL JOE HARDEE

George Ray Hardee of Ayden was best man. Ushers were William Sterling Manning of Greenville, David Alan Manning of Ayden, both brothers of the bride, Tony Evans of Ayden, cousin of the bride, Robbie Hardee of Ayden, cousin of the bridegroom and Tommy Bundy of Ayden, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. Ty Little of Ayden was ring bearer.

Wedding music was provided by Tommy Manning, organist, uncle of the bride. Soloist was Bryant Hines.

A reception was given at the home of Mrs. Betty Lou Evans, aunt of the bride. The three-tiered wedding cake was on a table covered with a white linen cloth trimmed in lace. An arrangement of yellow daisies, white carnations and baby's breath in a silver bowl decorated the table. The house was decorated with spring flowers and greenery. Mrs. Becky McLawhorn and Susan Sutton served the cake, while Mrs. Vivian Dail, sister of the bridegroom, and Jennie Hardee, cousin of the bride, poured the punch. Mrs. Debbie Little greeted the guests.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will live at Rt. 2, Ayden.

Dear Abby

Teens, Here's How To Apply For A Job

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am enclosing a newspaper clipping that appeared in a section of the paper that very few teenagers read.

I think it should be in YOUR column—or maybe in the comics, where teenagers would be sure to see it.

If you agree with me, please reprint it. Thank you.

MRS. E. B. CLINGER, COVINGTON, KY.

DEAR MRS. C.: The piece appeared in the Cincinnati Enquirer, in William Raspberry's column. It was written by Karen Rak, who teaches English to students at the Center Junior High School in Strongsville, Ohio.

Ms. Rak composed a letter (ostensibly from an employer) designed to let her youthful job seekers see themselves as they are seen. With so many young people looking for jobs now, I think this piece deserves all the exposure it can get.

"DEAR KID: Today you came to me for a job. From the look of your shoulders as you walked out, I suspect you've been turned down before, and maybe you believe by now that kids your age can't find jobs.

"But I hired a teenager today. You saw him. What was so special about him? Not experience; neither of you had any. Attitude, son. A-T-T-I-T-U-D-E. He did his best to impress me. That is where he edged you out.

"He wasn't dressed like Easter Sunday, but then that wasn't necessary. His clothes were clean, and he had gotten a haircut. He filled out the application form neatly and completely. He did not ask to borrow a pen. He carried his Social Security card, had basic identification, and did not ask, 'What's a reference?'

"He didn't have two friends waiting for him by the pop machine. He didn't start to chew gum or smoke while interviewing. He didn't keep looking at his watch, giving me the impression that he had something more important to do.

"He took the time to find out how we 'operate' here, and what his day-to-day tasks would be. I think he'll keep his eyes open and work for me like he'd work for himself.

"He was willing to start at that point where I could afford to pay. Someday, perhaps, he'll get to the point where he'll have more authority over others and a better paycheck.

"You know, kid, men have always had to get a job like you get a girl: Case the situation, wear a clean shirt, and try to appear reasonably willing.

"Maybe jobs aren't as plentiful right now, but there are jobs. You may not believe it, but all around you employers are looking for young men and women smart enough to go after a job in the old-fashioned way.

"If you have even the vaguest idea of what I'm trying to say, let it show the next time you ask for a job. You will be head and shoulders above the rest.

"For both our sakes, get eager, will you?—THE BOSS"

DEAR ABBY: I just had a difference of opinion with my wife as to when it is proper for a man to start wearing white shoes.

I say that a man can start wearing white shoes on Easter Sunday. My wife insists that the well-dressed man does not wear white shoes until Memorial Day, or May 30. Can you settle this for us?

J.A. IN BINGHAMTON, N.Y.

DEAR J.A.: My fashion experts tell me that in your part of the country, the white shoes don't come out of the closet until Memorial Day, or May 30.

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby, Box 69766, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Better Career Opportunities

Recently there was a news report out that construction companies would be looking to employ more women, as equal opportunity laws continue to take effect.

Another news story said that the number of women enrolling in agriculture schools had increased by over 3,600 percent in the past eight years. Again equal opportunity programs are having effect on large agri-business encouraging the hiring of more women.

Women in the agricultural field are not really all that new, at least not in this area. Women have always worked in the fields along with the men. Nor have they been limited to that, for many women have become successful farm managers upon the deaths of their husbands.

Women are moving into many new occupations once considered reserved for men. Sometimes they are helped by equal opportunity laws and other times the moves would have come without the laws.

The important thing is that better opportunities are opening up for women who wish to establish careers. It is a desirable trend.

The Rest Of The World Just Watches

The horror stories are coming out now from Kolwezi in Zaire. . . helpless civilians being gunned down . . . survivors who made it only by hiding out for days.

Blame for the massacres is still not clear, with some survivors saying it was Communist rebels and others blaming government troops.

If it is like most such situations in recent years, the bloodshed is Communist inspired. And while the western world stands by, still another segment of the world's population will be swallowed by Communism.

No Surprises On Budget

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Budget changes recommended to the 1978 session of the General Assembly contain no real surprises for North Carolinians. It does not contain new initiatives, says Gov. James B. Hunt, Jr., of the updated set of proposals. He will wait until 1979 and the regular session of a new Legislature for those.

The state has about $278.9 million in additional funds to budget for fiscal year 1978-79. That is over and above the regular budget already endorsed by the General Assembly for the same period, pushing the year's spending past the $4.3 billion mark for the year.

The governor has already cautioned legislators that spending the surplus money must be carefully handled so that commitments to on-going "operational" programs which must be funded again next year don't cause a fiscal bind later.

In a budget briefing for the press before delivering the proposed changes to the General Assembly, Hunt re-emphasized that point.

Slow Down

"We can't responsibly expand operating expenses which require a continuing commitment . . ." since economic experts foresee a "cooling off or moderation" of the present business boom. It is that boom recovery from the recession which has produced the present surplus . . . a recovery which is stronger than originally anticipated by budget planners.

The "economic assumptions" on which the proposals are based are spelled out in the document: continued good business growth through the middle of this year, but declining in the later months; slightly slower expansion next year; inflation is expected to gradually decline from late 1978 into 1979.

For these reasons, the budget changes call for most attention to building programs rather than expanded state services. Buildings require a one-time commitment, says Hunt.

BILL NOBLITT

No Roads

The governor says he is opposed to using General Fund money for highway repairs or construction, despite the situation which finds general revenue increasing while gas tax revenue remains stagnant.

A host of small building projects scattered through the budget strongly indicate that the governor has managed to strike some compromises with key legislators which will help move the proposals quickly through the General Assembly. Hunt continues to "hope . . . but not predict" that the assembly session opening May 31 can be concluded in two weeks.

Two key measures are funds for Lenoir County Farmer's Market where State Senator Harold Hardison resides. He is chairman of the appropriations committee which will handle the budget. There are also funds for animal disease diagnostic laboratories at Rose Hill and in Union county.

THE INSIDE REPORT

The Lively Fossil In Ohio

By ROWLAND EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio — Rising at 6 a.m., Gov. James A. Rhodes took a private plane from the state capital to this languishing steel center to pursue the newest twist in his 35-year struggle for political survival: an assault against the federal government.

He blamed hard times in Youngstown on federal regulations imposed by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). "Somewhere, somebody has to stand up to the federal EPA," Rhodes declared in his high-pitched Buckeye twang. "If they had not set five years for cleaning up the Mahoning Valley, we would not have lost steel in Youngstown."

That is how Rhodes, up to now always the candidate of good times, handles the spotty business decline under his administration. He attacks Uncle Sam, never liked much by Ohioans anyway. Showing such dexterity, Republican Rhodes is narrowly favored to win an unprecedented fourth term as governor of this increasingly Democratic state.

Rhodes is sole survivor of the 1964 Cleveland death dance of the elephants when Republican governors tried to stop Barry Goldwater's presidential nomination. Scranton, Romney, Rockefeller — all the rest — are gone. Rhodes at age 68 survives, a highly invigorated fossil. By virtue of this feat, Jim Rhodes may have a lesson for the Republican party nationally.

Unlike conservative Republicans, he avoids such succulent social issues as busing, abortion, school prayer and gun control. "Jim would rather choke than give a straight opinion on gun control," one state party leader told us. Unlike liberal Republicans, he avoids high-tax governmental problem-solving.

What he does is ingratiate himself with the non-Republican majority — labor, the aged and blacks. Besides naming two blacks to his cabinet (including all-time Ohio State football great Bill Willis), Rhodes plays footsy with key black Democrats. He has a warm relationship, for instance, with Cleveland city council president George Forbes. He aims this year for 25 percent of the black vote.

His fertile imagination conceived a non-partisan Golden Buckeye Club for senior citizens under state government auspices. The 637,826 oldsters have free club membership cards (each signed by James A. Rhodes) qualifying them for discounts in 20,632 Ohio stores.

This throwback to the famed Tammany Hall Christmas basket reflects his non-ideological, non-programmatic approach. Within minutes of scanning the morning's headlines for the latest fire, factory closing or natural disaster, he is flying to the scene for televised condolences and promises of help.

State Rep. Charles Kurfess, making a long-shot challenge against Rhodes in the June 6 Republican primary, is campaigning on the fact that Plain Jim is also Rich Jim. A millionaire thanks to fortuitous investments in Wendy's International hamburger chain, Rhodes has a posh condominium in Florida where he shoots golf in the 70s. But Democrats know from experience there is nothing to be gained from anti-Rhodes campaigns alleging either corruption or conspicuous consumption. Instead, strategists for his Democratic foe, Lt. Gov. Richard Celeste, plan to attack Rhodes' emphasis on new heavy industry for Ohio (most recently Ford and Honda plants) as out of date. When Youngstown Sheet and Tube announced last Sept. 19 it was closing down, Rhodes was in Youngstown for the next plant shift, promising workers to do everything he could. Celeste, 40, a suave (Cecil) Rhodes scholar, will tell Ohio that the governor failed. But will Ohioans blame the governor or the feds? Addressing a recent breakfast fund-raiser in Youngstown, Rhodes said Washington is purifying the Mahoning River by closing down steel, adding: "Who will there be to buy the fishing poles and the canoes?"

"We have more people drunk on the Ohio Turnpike Saturday night than they have in the whole state of Wyoming," he went on. "But the two senators from Wyoming say to clean up the Mahoning River." Contending the federal government "spends more money on the Washington Zoo" than extracting natural gas from Ohio's Devonian shale, he pledged to "stand up to the federal government."

Meeting later with building trades union leaders, he was asked about rumored higher taxes. "Let me tell you, there are taxpayers and there are (Continued on page 5)

Strength For Today

COURAGE

St. Chrysostom, Archbishop of Constantinople during the early years of the Church, has left us a splendid example of moral courage in a controversy he had with the profligate imperial court.

In some of his sermons he denounced the dissipation of the court, and thereby aroused the hatred of the empress. She ordered a high official to make plain to the fearless priest that unless he ended his criticisms of the court she would remove him from office and have him cast into prison. If he continued his condemnations, he would be put to death.

But the official who was to carry out this persecution of Chrysostom made a notable reply to the empress. "Of what use will it be to say all that to a man who is afraid of nothing save sin?" he asked.

People of high moral purpose fear nothing but to do wrong. The prospect of a damaged conscience is the only thing which strikes terror to their souls.

Seek A Postal Career

WASHINGTON — A bargaining team for the U.S. Postal Service went to the table last week with the four major postal unions. They will keep at it until an agreement is reached on a contract to become effective in late July. Meanwhile, the postage rate on a first-class letter will go up from 13 to 15 cents.

The two-cent boost in the first-class rate represents an increase of 15 percent since the basic rate last was raised in 1976. The higher level thus tracks the inflationary spiral of the past two years, and perhaps users of the mail ought not to complain.

But within the Postal Service, the largest expense is represented by the cost of labor — and the cost of postal labor, already shockingly high, is likely to go soaring out of sight with the new contract. It is only a matter of time before a first-class stamp will cost 20 cents; other postal rates will go up accordingly, and the clamor will grow for tougher management and better service.

Under the present three-year contract, expiring July 20, a clerk or letter carrier starts at an annual salary of $13,916. The job requires no more than simple literacy, a high school education, and reasonable but not remarkable stamina. After eight years, through step increases, the base pay goes to $16,501.

Those plump pay scales, far beyond comparable jobs in private industry, were fixed by the 1975 bargaining. The package added up to a boost of 22.7 percent over the contract period. If a similar raise were offered and accepted this time around, amounting to 7.5 percent a year, our 18-year-old high school graduate would start at $14,698 and reach $19,471 by the time of his 26th birthday. That projection assumes no further contract raises in 1981 and 1984, a doubtful assumption if there ever was one.

An Ohio University professor of economics, Douglas Adie, recently completed a study of the postal system for the American Enterprise Institute. He started with postal wages in 1970. Over the next five years, by his calculations, payments to postal workers increased by 51 percent, compared to 40 percent for non-farm workers in the private sector. Adie figures the postal workers already are overpaid by as much as one-third.

How did things get this way? Adie doesn't put it so bluntly, but the direct cause can be summed up in a few words: Strong unions, weak management. Indirect causes are rooted in the monopoly enjoyed by the Postal Service on first-class mail. There simply is no effective incentive for the Postal Service to provide better service at lower unit costs. Congress, which is to say the taxpayers, will always make up the deficit. Adie's idea is to cut the (Continued on page 5)

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

While I choose not to respond to criticism submitted through a public forum as a general rule, I, nevertheless, feel the need to do so by this letter which I share with the readers of "The Ayden News-Leader," "The Gritton Times," and "The Daily Reflector." Neither wishing to debate nor argue the point with Mrs. Haseley, for no good purpose would be served, in behalf of the Board of Education and the secretary (the position I hold by virtue of serving as superintendent), I feel the need to respond in this fashion.

The Apr. 4 board meeting was postponed and this information was shared with Ms. Debbie Jackson, reporter for "The Daily Reflector." Whether or not it was printed is unknown to me, for as Mrs. Haseley pointed out, I was attending the National School Boards Assn. Conference in California.

The Apr. 11 meeting, which began with an executive session, was also given to Ms. Jackson, with a request that she announce the board meeting to begin with an executive session to be held at 2 p. m., and the open session to begin at approximately 3:30. On several occasions the board has been criticized for holding the executive session at the end of the meeting, with those present who want to remain until all business has been concluded having to wait many times an hour or more. It was for this reason that the executive session was planned for the first part of the afternoon.

As to the May 2 meeting, for those readers who saw the May 5 edition of "The Daily Reflector," a note written by the editor acknowledged that it was "The Daily Reflector's" error. I advised "The Reflector" that a quorum was not expected and that the meeting would be postponed. Unlike the other two occasions, someone other than Ms. Jackson handled (or failed to do so) the matter, for Ms. Jackson has since resigned her position.

When attempting to plan board meetings with the chairman, every effort is made to set the meeting at a time and date most convenient for the majority of the board members. Two are doctors, one an attorney, one a college professor, one a farm manager for Wachovia, one a tobacco buyer, and the other three earn their livelihood primarily as farmers. Getting such a diverse group together is not always easy. For that reason, Tom Craft could not advise Mrs. Haseley as to when the meeting postponed on May 2 would be held.

I offer sincere apologies to all who were inconvenienced, for it is not the intent of this office, nor the Board of Education, to "discourage public awareness of their proceedings."

Talk, Talk, Talk

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's filibuster time in the Senate again and thank goodness. How else would we find out about the Tiger Rag, the origins of jazz and the 1906 riot in Vancouver, British Columbia?

And the attempt to talk to death the so-called labor reform bill has only begun. Before it ends, millions upon millions of irrelevant words will fill the Senate record.

Opponents of the bill are assigned speaking time to fill and it was Sen. S. I. Hayakawa, R-Calif., who offered the little known facts about the Tiger Rag, jazz and Vancouver.

"I should like to explain how jazz was born," said the California senator. "This is a very strange subject to bring up in this context, but it really is a fact."

According to Hayakawa, "Before and during the Civil War, and thereafter, there existed in the South, especially in New Orleans, a large class of Negro workmen, skilled workmen, craftsmen, people who were literate, people who could read music and belonged to fraternal societies and burial societies and played band music . . ."

"After the Civil War and as the union movement grew and grew in the South what happened was this: The illiterate lower-class Negro drifting in from the fields, learning to play band instruments and getting jobs in nightclubs and at houses of ill repute and so on, constituted part of the entertainment life of New Orleans."

"As the trade unions became stronger and stronger, what happened next was that the white trade unions drove out of their occupations the Negro plasterers, cigar makers, hat makers, masons and so on," said Hayakawa.

The next step was that "these literate, moderately well-educated amateur musicians, who could read French classical band music, were thrown together with the illiterate musicians" and, according to Hayakawa, the result was jazz. (Continued On Page 5)

40 Years Ago Today

May 23, 1938

Greenville business houses will begin closing for a half day the first Wednesday in June, it was announced by Mrs. Cora S. Powell, executive secretary of the Merchants Association.

A petition is being circulated among the business houses and Mrs. Powell said that approximately 100 had signed, and added she had heard no opposition to the bill.

Superintendent J. H. Rose and eight members of the faculty of Greenville schools attended a regional meeting in Raleigh yesterday in the educational research project to be conducted in the south.

Greenville was one of three North Carolina schools chosen for the project. The other two were Goldsboro and Asheville.

Those from here who attended the Raleigh meeting were: Principal M. V. Mulholland, Mrs. Nettie B. Herring, Mrs. Clem B. Utley, Miss Estelle Greene, Miss Deane Boone Haskett, E. R. Robinson, Robert S. Fleming, Herman Daily and Mr. Rose.

Five of these will be selected to go to Vanderbilt University for a workshop this summer. — Lynn Covert

A Study Of The Mutual Funds

By JOHN CUNIFF

(AP Business Analyst)

NEW YORK (AP) — The prices of all 10 stocks in which mutual funds invested most heavily during the first quarter of the year have risen in the seven weeks since then. But so have 8 of the 10 stocks they sold most heavily. One of them, General Motors, fell only 50 cents, from $61.50 on March 31 to $61 at the close of trading last Friday.

The experience demonstrates several things, perhaps nothing more strongly than the pervasive strength of the rally that began near the end of February, and which analysts say continues into this week.

Do the funds have superior abilities in picking stocks?

In their defense is the selection of 10 winners out of 10 choices on the list of heaviest investments. But by far the greater dollar amount was involved in their sales' most of which subsequently rose in price.

For example, more than $60.6 million IBM shares were sold by the funds in the first quarter, a survey shows, but through May 19 those same shares rose $26.62, for a total of more than $6.85 million.

The funds also disposed of more than 400,000 shares of Exxon, valued at close to $18 million, thus dealing themselves out of more than $1 million of short-term gains, based on a $2.87 rise since March 31.

The survey was conducted among 466 mutual funds by Vickers Associates, Inc. as part of its regular surveillance of fund activities for other stock market analysts, including the funds themselves.

It found that by far the largest acquisitions, in dollar terms, were in Atlantic Richfield. More than 851,000 shares were acquired in the first quarter at a cost of more than $39 million.

On those transactions alone, the many funds involved showed a combined gain on paper of close to $4.5 million since the end of the first quarter. Windsor Fund, the biggest buyer, picked up 201,000 shares.

United Technologies, Motorola, Standard Oil Indiana, Hewlett-Packard, J.P. Morgan, Sperry Rand, J.C. Penney, Citicorp and Morton Norwich made up the remainder of the list of top buys.

Hewlett-Packard registered the biggest gain on the list, rising from $62.38 on March 31 to $70.25 on May 19, thus adding close to $2.87 million to the assets of the funds involved.

Viewing the figures, some investors might believe the huge trading power of the funds — the 466 funds have total assets of $42 billion — creates the market. Thus, they assert, the heavy buying or selling of certain stocks produces gains or losses in those stocks.

The experience of Becton Dickinson, however, suggests this isn't always so. With close to $61 million of its shares disposed of, the company was the most heavily sold of all stocks in the Vickers survey.

From the end of the first quarter to last Friday's close, however, shares of the health care products manufacturer rose $2.50 to $38.50, as individuals and other institutions viewed it as a good buy.

During the two and one-half hours in Youngstown, the lively fossil never mentioned Republicans or Democrats, Kurfess or Celeste, or election day. After Rhodes told of seeking new steel plants in Youngstown ("pinning them guys down is like pinning your wife down"), one labor leader told us: "He may not save the city, but he's at least showing he cares." That is Rhodes' lesson for fellow Republicans, a lesson worth studying.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., prides himself on his knowledge of the rules and procedure of the "World's Greatest Deliberative Body."

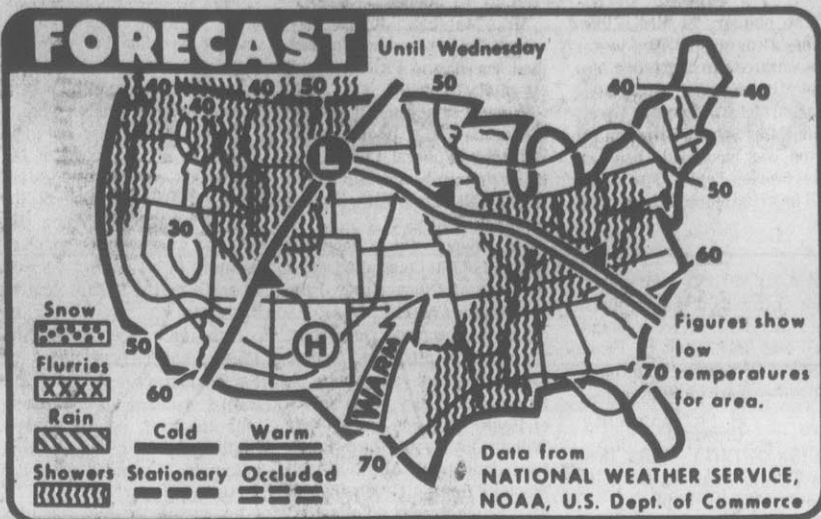

Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., is known more for breaking the rules.

Recently, Abourezk was taking a turn as presiding officer and he got into a dispute with Byrd over an esoteric section of the Senate rules. Abourezk finally admitted that Byrd was right and the majority leader, in turn, tried to place the blame on the assistant parliamentarian.

"I merely do this so that in the future the chair will not be advised wrongly by the assistant parliamentarian," began Byrd.

"The chair would advise the distinguished majority leader, that he appreciates the correction," interrupted Abourezk, "and would hope that in any future case, the majority leader would also abide by the rules."

High temperatures today were expected to range from the mid 70s to the mid 80s with readings Wednesday generally in the 80s.

She Died For Candy Bars

COLUMBIA, Tenn. (AP) — An 18-year-old woman who allegedly stole four candy bars worth 80 cents from an all-night grocery store died in a car wreck while trying to elude police, authorities said.

Brenda Goatz, a dispatcher with the Columbia Police Department, said the manager of an IGA store reported that a young woman took the candy bars without paying for them early Monday. He told police the woman fled the store when he approached her.

According to police reports, the woman, identified as Kathy Wimberly of Clarksville, pulled a friend from a car parked in front of the store and sped away, wrecking it two blocks away.

After abandoning the car, the woman ran to a nearby house, told the man living there she had been in an accident and that she needed his help, police said. After they got into the man's car, she told him she had a gun and forced him out of the vehicle, police said.

Four blocks from the store and with police in pursuit, Miss Wimberly drove the second car into a tree and was pinned inside. She died soon after at Maury County Hospital, Ms. Goatz said.

Speaking of Your Health...

Childhood Diseases Are Dangerous!

After an attack of mumps, my son became deaf in one ear. We have almost exhausted ourselves and our money resources trying to find someone who can help him. The newspapers have big ads with glowing reports of how acupuncture helps to restore hearing. The cost is high but I am willing to try it if you think that it will benefit him. — Mrs. M.J., Calif.

Dear Mrs. J.:

Before I write about your particular problem, I must take the liberty of telling you my reaction to the beginning of your letter, which I have not reprinted. It is shocking, in this day of wondrous vaccines, that your son was deprived of protection against mumps because your mother didn't "believe in vaccines." What a pity that your son was cheated of immunization!

Far too many people take mumps and measles and other childhood diseases too casually. Without the protection of a suitable vaccine, these diseases still occur and are fraught with potential danger.

You are particularly fortunate that the deafness is limited to only one side. Too many people become totally deaf as a brain complication of a disease that might have been avoided in the first place.

I wonder whether you are not deliberately devitalizing yourselves and your finances by taking your son from place to place, all as a penalty for the guilt you may feel for not vaccinating him. You must stop now because there is not a shred of evidence that acupuncture nerve deafness can be cured by acupuncture.

Hope springs eternal in the human breast and makes people candidates for all sorts of bizarre forms of treatment. Rather than get involved in acupuncture for nerve deafness, concentrate on your boy's physical and emotional growth. There is not at the present time any evidence that acupuncture serves any function for this condition.

My father is a highly nervous man. For the past 4 years (he is now 58) his eyes have begun to bulge, especially the left one. Could this be caused by his nervousness? — Miss B.B.R., R.I.

Dear Miss R.:

I doubt that the condition of your father's eyes is caused by a psychological disturbance or by his nervous state. If I had to speculate, I would give consideration to the possibility that the nervousness and the bulging eyes may all be related to overactivity of the thyroid gland. This can be readily determined by special blood studies known as P.D.I. (protein-bound iodine) and also by another test known as T.3 and T.4. If these tests show overactivity of the thyroid gland, treatment with special drugs can control the condition, reduce his nervousness, and even eventually alter the bulging eyes. You should discuss this with your doctor.

Another Vote Is Ordered

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Board of Elections has ordered Pamlico County to hold an election for a seat on the county board of education for a second time in one precinct.

The action was taken after complaints that the precinct closed a half hour early during the May 2 election, which was decided by one vote.

The vote will be taken again in the Mesic precinct, which has 242 votes. Registrar Shirley D. Morris told the Elections Board she forgot the correct closing time and closed the polls at 7 p.m. rather than the legal 7:30 p.m.

Annette Jones, a candidate who won one of three seats on the board of education by finishing in third place — one vote ahead of No. 4 candidate Booker T. Jones — said Monday that she plans to protest the Election Board's ruling.

"I wouldn't object to a new election countywide, but they shouldn't have one only in Mesic precinct," Mrs. Jones said. She added that the voters of the precinct will, in effect, elect a candidate.

State elections director Alex K. Brock said he doesn't blame Mrs. Jones for wanting to avoid a rerun of the election but that she will have to show "due cause" to persuade the board to change its mind.

"Anybody who won an election would protest having to campaign again," Brock said. "I would too if I were a candidate. But she'll have to show a good reason not to hold the election again."

"The evidence clearly shows that some voters in the precinct did not get to vote, and the one-vote difference between the candidates meant we had to have a new election."

Brock said the board will set a date for the new election in the precinct after it considers Mrs. Jones' argument.

ASKS OPEN DIALOGUE
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Argentine Army Chief of Staff Roberto Viola said Monday the United States and Argentina should hold a "frank and open dialogue" to "strengthen our capacity to defend a common way of life."

Five Injured During Fire

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Five firemen were injured Monday while trying to douse a fire of smoldering grease and oil-based ink in the pressroom of the old Greensboro Daily News and Record Building.

Only one of the five, Capt. D.C. Burns, was seriously hurt. Burns fell half a story through an opening in the first floor of the pressroom extension of the building, apparently striking a live electrical wire as he fell and was treated for leg and back injuries at Moses Cone Hospital.

A spark from an electric welder being used in dismantling the old press apparently started the blaze, according to P.D. Honeycutt, assistant chief for operations of the Greensboro Fire Department.

Although it is not unusual for firemen to sustain minor injuries, such as bruised ribs, sprains and smoke inhalation, Honeycutt said, he did not remember a time when as many as five firemen had been injured in a single blaze.

He said only about six firemen a year suffer injuries serious enough to require entering a hospital or as serious as a broken bone.

"There was oil everywhere," said Honeycutt. "You had no traction unless you had something to hold on to. Any time you have a heated surface like this (covered with grease and the oil-based ink used on the oil-press) the oil expands."

The smoke, which filled all four levels of the building extension, was the biggest problem with the fire, both Honeycutt and Kent said. Because it was coming from old oil and the oil-based ink spread over the concrete floors, the fire was a lot like a skillet left unattended on a stove. The floor heated the oil, which smoked more than it burned.

tendance for Holliday's recognition and assisted in making the presentation.

Greenville Public Works director Mayo Allen was also on hand for the three-day session. Allen is currently vice president and a member of the board of directors of the state chapter.

Robert Bugher, executive director of the American Public Works Association, represented the national organization and made brief remarks during the presentation ceremonies.

As part of the local observance of Public Works Week, which is underway this week, Allen and the Public Works Department division heads prepared breakfast for all of the department's employees this morning.

Allen said that approximately 175 persons are employed at Public Works and the breakfast, held at the department facilities off Third Street, was a gesture of appreciation for the personnel "doing an outstanding job."

He cited the employees of the department's eight divisions (administrative; garage; sanitation; landfill; street; traffic, signs and paint; cemetery; and transit) for their service.

Steve Evans of the Winterville Jaycees was installed as a district director and won two state awards at the North Carolina Jaycee Convention held this past weekend in Raleigh.

Begin Masking Mining Scars

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The West Shade River Sand Abatement Project has kicked off Ohio's attempt to mask strip mining scars. An Akron contractor is shaping steep scars into gentle slopes so a covering of topsoil and trees can be applied in a few more weeks.

"This is an historic occasion," said Robert Teater, director of Ohio's natural resources department. The 86-acre site was picked from among 370,000 acres of unclaimed land to be the first project of the Land Reborn Program because it was considered to be in the worst shape of the 100,000 acres labeled critical.

Rampant Athletes Honored At Banquet

By WOODY PEELE

 Mike Joyner and Karen Jefferies were honored as the outstanding male and female athletes at Rose High School last night at the school's annual athletic banquet.

Pat Dye, head football coach at East Carolina University served as the main speaker for the occasion.
 Dye told the group that their generation of young people would be the greatest this country has ever known. "Your educational processes are so far advanced that you are so much better prepared to face the outside world than any previous generation," Dye said.
 "But, at the same time, your generation is going to be the most competitive this country has ever seen."
 Dye told them that there were important lessons to be learned through athletics, lessons that could not be learned elsewhere. "You learn about self-sacrifice. You may have to play somewhere you don't want to help the team. You learn how to win, what it takes to win, and how to deal with winning. You also learn how to accept defeat and to come back to fight again. You're not going to win every time, however."

 "In my 27 years of football, I've been involved in only two losing seasons, but only once have I been connected with an unbeaten team," Dye added.
 Dye said that he had lived by a point plan, which he outlined.
 "One, you set goals. You should have different goals, a lot of them. Some for five or ten years from now. Sometimes you don't reach them, but you'll benefit from trying to."

 "Second, you have good preparation. Regardless of how well you want to play on Friday night, you can't do well unless you practice the rest of the week. So get the best education possible so you will be prepared for the future."
 "Third, be disciplined. Make yourself do the little things you don't like to do. You're going to do the fun things anyway."

"Fourth, work hard. Hard work overcomes so many obstacles."
 "And fifth, have a true and sincere belief in God. It's He who keeps us humble in victory and who gives us strength in defeat."
 During the awards portion of the program, Athletic Director Bud Phillips announced that Rose had again won the All-Sports Trophy for Division I for the 1977-78 school year for boys sports.

Tarboro Rally Dumps Rams

TARBORO — Tarboro scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning last night to knock Greene Central out of the 3-A baseball playoffs by defeating the Rams 2-1.
 Greene Central had held the lead in the game since the fourth inning when the team scored its only run. The Rams loaded the bases in the sixth, but couldn't push a run across, according to coach Jim Fulghum.
 Tarboro's tying and winning runs were unearned, coming with two away in the last inning after the Rams had committed their only error of the night.
 Fulghum said losing pitcher Jerry Rouse hurled a good ballgame for the Rams. He was replaced in the seventh by Donald Wooten, who pitched to the final batter. "Rouse struck out 12 and they got a whole lot of infield hits, handle hits," Fulghum commented. The Vikings had a total of seven hits, while Greene Central had three.
 The Rams' lone run came in the top of the fourth. Jay Caraway led off and reached on an error. Russell Brann was then hit by a pitch. Al Murray knocked a fielder's choice and Caraway was thrown out at third. The next batter, Collyn Beaman, also hit a fielder's choice. The Vikes threw Murray out at second and missed on a double play at first. The first baseman then threw to third to try to pick off Brann, who had made a big turn, and threw it away, allowing Brann to score.

 Greene Central held on to its slim lead until the bottom of the seventh. Winning pitcher Billy Wilder, who went the distance, led off the fateful frame with a base hit. The next batter was put out and then Keith Batts reached on an error. The Rams got another out before Andy Kinlaw walked to load things up. That's when Fulghum brought in Wooten. The first batter he pitched to, Kelvin Bryant, got a hit up the middle to score Wilder and Batts and end the ballgame.
 Greg Holmes paced the Greene Central hitting, going 2-2 at the plate. Keith Parisher and Wilder were each 2-3 for Tarboro.
 Greene Central's season ended with last night's first round playoff game. The Rams finished up with a 16-8 overall record, including the Eastern Carolina Conference championship. Tarboro, the Northeastern Conference champion, will now move on in the playoffs to face White Oak.
 Tarboro: 000 000 2-2 7 4
 Rouse, Wooten (7) and Caraway, Wilder and Crisp.

Warren County Man Advertising For Tickets To Follow His Team

By GLENN STEPHENS
Associated Press Writer
 RALEIGH, N.C. AP — Although the opening of the college basketball season is still almost seven months away, at least one Duke fan is already making plans to follow the Blue Devils to next year's NCAA finals at Salt Lake City.
 The thought that Duke, runner-up to Kentucky for the national championship at St. Louis this spring, might not make it to the NCAA finals next year has hardly occurred to Amos Lee Capps Jr. of Arcola in Warren County.
 Capps has been running classified ads in the four daily newspapers in Raleigh and

Durham for more than a week soliciting tickets for the 1979 NCAA finals with the kicker, "Will pay double the price."
 "But Caps, 27, who works at his uncle's store in Arcola, says he may be willing to pay even more than twice the original price of $30 each for four tickets. "I've had only one call, from a guy in Indianapolis and he wanted $290 for four tickets," Capps said in a telephone interview. "So far, I haven't made up my mind yet whether to buy them. I may keep the ads running another week."
 Capps took several days off from his job earlier this year and flew to St. Louis — without having any tickets to the tournament — in hopes of getting to see the Blue Devils play. He paid a scalper's price of $40 for a ticket to the finals and spent about $600 on the four-day trip. Duke lost to Kentucky 94-88 in the finals.

 A Duke fan since childhood, Capps said he managed to get tickets to four or five Blue Devil games last season — all non-Atlantic Coast Conference contests — and figures it'll be about as easy to get tickets to the NCAA championships as it is for regular-season home games for the upcoming season. With its big guns returning next season, Duke is expected to be a favorite in the ACC race.

 What happens if he buys the tickets for $290 and Duke doesn't win the ACC regular season championship or post-season tournament title to land a berth in the national playoffs?
 "Don't talk like that," replied Capps, who didn't attend college. "I think their chances are better than nine out of 10."

Memphis State, Heels Collide

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — North Carolina meets Memphis State tonight to determine which represents the southern region in the College World Series.
 Memphis State defeated the Tar Heels, 8-6, in an NCAA Regional playoff game Monday night.
 Memphis State also beat Auburn, 6-5, earlier Monday to earn a berth against North Carolina.
 Carolina jumped to a 3-2 lead after two innings but a two-run homer by rightfielder Terry Pressgrove gave Memphis State a 5-3 lead.
 North Carolina came within one run, 6-5, in the top half of the eighth inning, but two Memphis state runs in the bottom of the eighth assured the rematch tonight.
 Charlie Lee won his ninth game of the year against only two losses. He pitched seven and two-thirds innings with five runs on six hits.

 Charlie Beverly took the loss with five runs on five hits in two and one-third innings.
 In the Monday opener, Dave Parks slammed a two-run homer in the sixth and Memphis State came back with two runs in the eighth to down Auburn.
 Pitcher John Thetford, now 4-0, went the distance for Memphis State.
 Consecutive infield errors by Dom Fucci and Steve Montgomery of Auburn with two out in the ninth inning pushed across winning runs for Memphis State.
 The errors and two runs in the eighth broke a 5-5 stalemate for Memphis State.
 Montgomery cracked a two-run homer in the sixth inning.
 Auburn's Scott Roney took the loss leaving his record 7-6.

STILL MOVES FAST
 LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Art Still, a defensive end for the Kentucky football team, is a senior majoring in law enforcement and plays that way. In the game against Louisiana State, Art scooped up a blocked field goal and returned it 52 yards for a touchdown. He has a vivid description of how it felt.
 "The ball took one bounce and then another," Still said. "I was praying it would come down in my hands. Then, my hands felt like magnets. There the ball was. I wasn't worried about anybody catching me. I didn't look back. When I went over the goal line, I was floating. It was like being in heaven."

Marshall Adds Fourth Save As Twins Gain 2-0 Win Over Texas

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

When the Minnesota Twins are in trouble these days, all they have to do is dial "M" for Marshall.

"His arm is indestructible," gleamed Minnesota Manager Gene Mauch after watching Mike Marshall save another game Monday night.

Marshall has truly been a subject for superlatives since his return to baseball just a week ago. In that period, the burly right-hander has won a game and saved four others, including Monday night's 2-0 victory over the Texas Rangers.

In five appearances in a Twins' uniform, Marshall is yet to give up an earned run. He has pitched a total of eight innings and allowed just one hit and one walk.

"I've seen the guy do so many wonderful things that it's hard for me to single out what he's doing now as any different," said Mauch, who once managed Marshall when both were with the Montreal Expos.

Marshall, winner of the Cy Young Award in 1974 with the Los Angeles Dodgers, made his last appearance in the majors with the Rangers last June. He appeared to be finished with baseball after injuring a knee, but the Twins took a chance on him, offering a contract on May 15.

The new life seems to have inspired Marshall to an intimacy he never had before with the press. Characteristically tight-lipped, Marshall appears to have opened a bit more in interviews. After his most recent success, he provided this bit of insight:

"The toughest situation in baseball is to come in and get one out at the end of an inning. You've got to be right, right now."

Fortunately, we accomplished that tonight.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Seattle Mariners routed the Kansas City Royals 10-1 and the Boston Red Sox edged the Toronto Blue Jays 5-4.

Marshall came to the rescue of Geoff Zahn, who needed help in the eighth inning. The Twins' reliever nailed down Zahn's fourth victory and the Twins' sixth in their last seven games.

The Twins scored their runs on a force-play grounder by Dan Ford in the first and another by Butch Wynegar in the second off loser Jon Matlack. Jim Sundberg continued his hot streak for Texas by hitting in his 22nd straight game.

Mariners 10, Royals 1

Tom House scattered nine hits and Seattle took advantage of a sloppy Kansas City defense to rout the Royals. House, who had been working primarily out of the bullpen in recent weeks, got the starting assignment because of a hectic schedule that has the Mariners playing nine games in seven days.

Red Sox 5, Blue Jays 4

Carl Yastrzemski belted a three-run homer in the eighth inning to lead Boston over Toronto and give rookie Alan Rippley his first major league victory. Yastrzemski's blast, overshadowed two home runs by Toronto's John Mayberry. Jim Rice hit his 14th homer for Boston, a two-run shot in the first.

In the 1977 National Football League season, Ray Wersching of San Francisco twice kicked a field goal in the closing seconds of a game to defeat the New Orleans Saints.

Manny Mota Challenging Burgess As King Of The Pinch Hitters

By BRUCE LOWITT AP Sports Writer

It's not that Manny Mota is consciously thinking about trying to oust Smokey Burgess as the king of the pinch hitters. It's just that it's going to work out that way anyway.

"I would like to play until I catch Smokey. I think it would be very important to be the greatest pinch hitter. But when I go to the plate I don't think about it too much," he said.

What he does is win games for the Los Angeles Dodgers... like on Monday night, for example.

With the bases loaded in the eighth inning and the Dodgers locked in a 1-1 tie with San Diego, Manager Tom Lasorda called pitcher Don Sutton back from the on-deck circle and sent up the 40-year-old Mota.

And Mota sent a Bob Ojchinko pitch down the left field line for three runs. Before the carnage ended, four more runs scored in the inning, two on Vic Davalillo's bases-loaded single, and the Dodgers had a tidy 8-1 victory that jammed them in with San Francisco and Cincinnati, all virtually deadlocked for the National League West lead.

In the NL's only other action, Cincinnati trampled Atlanta 10-0 and Montreal beat Pittsburgh 5-2.

"That Mota's amazing," exclaimed Lasorda, "an outstanding man to have on the team." And he's delighted to have Davalillo around, too.

Dusty Baker's single, Lee Lacy's double and an intentional walk to Steve Yeager preceded Mota's hit. Dave Lopes ran for Mota, Bill North walked, then reliever Mark Lee's pickoff throw hit Lopes, who raced home as the ball bounced into center field. North, who reached third on the error, scored on Bill Russell's bunt. Reggie Smith's single and a walk to Ron Cey loaded the bases again and Davalillo singled to center.

With the victory the Dodgers are 24-15 with a .615 winning percentage. The idle Giants are .622 and the Reds .610.

Reds 10, Braves 0
"I've seen articles that say that we can't hit," Ray Knight sneered. "And they always include me." Knight, included in the Reds' batting order as a late-replacement for Pete Rose, crashed a three-run homer in the rout of the Braves.

Ken Griffey hit a two-run homer and Bill Bonham won his fifth game without a loss by limiting Atlanta to five hits in eight innings.

Expos 5, Pirates 2

For 7-1/3 innings, Montreal's Steve Rogers flirted with a no-hitter. Then Rennie Stennett got the 1,000th hit of his career. Before the seventh inning was over Pittsburgh had three more singles, one by Frank Taveras driving in two runs, and Rogers was in the clubhouse.

But Darold Knowles limited the Bucs to one more hit the rest of the way as the Expos snapped their four-game losing streak.

Ellis Valentine had a two-run double and Chris Speier, Tony Perez and Warren Cromartie had RBI hits.

Miami Coach Is Surprised

MIAMI AP — Coach Ron Fraser says when he surveyed his Miami Hurricanes before this season, the thought his baseball team would be invited to NCAA post-season play never crossed his mind.

Today, Fraser begins preparing his team for its shot at the national championship.

"When the season started, nobody thought we would be here," Fraser said Monday night after Miami beat Marshall, 5-1, to capture the NCAA Atlantic Regional and qualify for the College World Series in Omaha, Neb., June 2-9.

Fraser, who has guided four other teams into the finals during his 15 years at Miami, said, "I've had a lot of teams with much talent, but these guys get more out of their ability than any of them."

"I'm so proud of this team. They showed what they were made of tonight. They scrapped here just like they have all year."

Wes Robbins went 4-for-4 and scored on each of Ron Brewer's three hits to lead Miami's offense against Marshall ace Albie DeYoung. DeYoung, 8-2 going into the game, had blanked Florida State on four hits in the double elimination tournament's opening round.

"Evidently, the game with Florida State took a lot more out of Albie than I thought," Marshall Coach Jack Cook said.

"We lost to a great team. You have to give them credit for winning two straight games against us. However, we don't feel we have anything to be ashamed of. We had a fantastic year," he added.

Cook's team, the Southern Conference champion, finished 27-13. Miami, after a first-round loss to Clemson, came back to beat Florida State, Clemson and Marshall twice. Fraser found his pitching depleted by the heavy schedule, but Jeff Morrison, a freshman making his third start of the season, came through Monday night.

Morrison, used as a reliever throughout the season, gave up a second-inning run on a Glen Lewis single following Larry Berkery's double, then breezed past the Thundering Herd until the seventh when durable Randy Guerra replaced him. Morrison gave up four hits, while Guerra fired three one-hit, shutout innings. Guerra, credited with victories both Saturday and Sunday, was making his fourth appearance of the tournament.

After catcher John Rulli allowed seven Miami stolen bases in Sunday night's 6-0 loss, Cook decided to use Joe Brunelli behind the plate. Brunelli didn't fare much better, allowing four steals and committing a passed ball that paved the way for Miami's first run in a two-run first inning.

Rogers took a 13-3 win over Chicod behind the pitching of A. Battle. Doug Coley led Rogers with a 2-3 night, including a home run. Stacy McCarter had a homer to pace Chicod.

Chris Phillips hurled the 7-4 win for Harris over Sunshine Garden Center. Teammates Jeffrey Moore and Scott Chase contributed two hits each. Kenny Credle and Harley Jackson each had two hits for Sunshine Garden Center, with Credle knocking a home run.

Pepsi scored first, getting a run in the first. Jeff Stallings reached on a fielder's choice and scored on Raju Singh's double.

First Federal came back with two in the sixth. Tyrone Barrett walked and moved up on a wild pitch and a passed ball. He scored when Mont Brown reached on an error. Brown moved up on another error and scored when Greg Savage reached on still another error.

The winning run came in the seventh. Clark Stallings walked, and stole second. He scored when Stallings reached on an error.

Singh had three hits to lead Pepsi, while First Federal had only two hits.

Kiwanis 9, Union Carbide 8

The Kiwanis rallied for three runs in the bottom of the sixth to pull out a 9-8 win over Union Carbide in the North State Little League yesterday.

The Kiwanis took the lead with two runs in the first inning. Van Alston singled and John Jordan got a hit. Both scored on a triple by Ed Farley.

Union Carbide came back with one in the second. Ken Waters singled and took second on a passed ball. After a wild pitch moved him to third, he scored on another wild pitch.

Union Carbide then added three in the third for a 4-2 lead. Devin Gatlin walked and moved to third on passed balls. Tim West walked and Steve Bath doubled both runners in. Waters then singled in Bath.

Union Carbide upped its lead to 7-2 with three in the fifth, but the Kiwanis came up with four in their half of the inning. Union Carbide then got another in the sixth for an 8-6 lead.

Then, in the bottom of the sixth, the Kiwanis rallied for three and the win. Todd Jordan singled and William Smith got a hit. Farley reached on a fielder's choice and a balk scored Jordan. Scott Davis walked and Robert Ehrman reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Farley with the game-ending run.

Waters had two hits for Union Carbide, while Todd Jordan had three, and John Jordan, Smith, Farley and Ehrman each had two for the Kiwanis.

he won the ace of diamonds and cashed the ace-queen of clubs, and West's spade discard was a grievous blow. Now declarer needed a considerable slice of luck.

He ran the ten of spades, and breathed a sigh of relief when that held the trick — had it lost he would have been down five. The spade finesse was repeated and the three top hearts and two remaining spades were cashed in that order.

Dummy was now down to two clubs and the nine of diamonds. Since the lead was in dummy, East had to hold two clubs and was forced down to a singleton diamond honor. Manhardt presented East with his diamond trick, and East had to lead away from his ten of clubs into dummy's king-nine tenace, so the slam rolled in.

Note that if West had led a low diamond originally, the slam could have been defeated. West must hold on to the ten of diamonds, and East can unblock his diamond honors. Now when declarer tries the throw-in, West can win the ten of diamonds and cash two hearts for down two.

Serious Actor Fulfills Taste For The Absurd

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — One director, Paul Rudd recalls, "told me I have a wonderful sense of the absurd. And that helps a lot, when you're not afraid to take a fool of yourself."

Particularly so, since Rudd, in actor very serious about his work, is in the mood these days to play "some wild, comedic kinds of characters."

He's enjoying fulfillment in "The Show-Off," which opened off-Broadway last week. And he's the role of Hank Morgan in Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" for public TV was a step in the right direction, too.

"I love character work," says the slender, 38-year-old actor from Boston, "and 'Hank' was great, thoroughly American, a lot of fun to do."

"Yankee," produced for the "Once Upon a Classic Series" by Pittsburgh's WQED, will air Tuesday evening on most Public Broadcasting Service stations. The production stars Richard Basehart as King Arthur, Roscoe Lee Browne as Merlin and Tovah Feldshuh as Sandy.

In "Yankee," Morgan, a 19th century factory boss, is knocked unconscious and wakes up in 6th century England, in the court of King Arthur. At once, he begins teaching the natives progress.

"The charm of the character is undeniable," says Rudd, who was Brian Mallory, the chauffeur, in CBS's "Beacon Hill" series, and John F. Kennedy in NBC's movie "Johnny We Hardly Knew Ye."

"He's headstrong, determined, smart and clever. He sizes up a situation very well and tries to use every point to his advantage."

All of which sounds made to order for Rudd — remember the man with "the wonderful sense of the absurd?"

"When you make people laugh," Rudd says, speaking now of the comedic role in general, "you stir in them a sympathy that makes everything else that much easier."

"The burden of attention and concentration on the part of the audience is, in a way, relieved," he says, "and the role for them becomes a pure joy to watch."

If Rudd sounds like a thoughtful man, a serious worker, he is. He traveled to Ireland to prepare for the "Beacon Hill" part, and the people at WQED say he didn't hesitate to suggest some Yankee expressions for Hank Morgan.

"One word I wanted Hank to use was 'weren't,'" the actor says. "That's a favorite Yankee expression. Another one I like is 'I should smile,' meaning

ROTC Trophy For Drill Teams

The Ayden-Grifton Charger ROTC Drill Teams captured the Sparky McCaskill Trophy in the annual Pitt County meet held at the Greenville National Guard Armory.

The drillers won in three of four events, placing second in the fourth event. Cadet LTC Ricky Harris commanded the LD-I team, Cadet LTC Willie Hawkins headed the Color Guards, and Cadet First Sergeant Shanda Brock, the ladies' fancy team. Cadet LTC Sherrill Malone commanded the second place team.

The Chargers have won the trophy twice since 1976.

Active duty army personnel from the Greenville Recruiting Center served as judges for the events.

Diseases May 'Awaken' Even Deadlier

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Forty years of "wonder drugs" have convinced Americans many deadly diseases are dead themselves. But they're only sleeping, say federal scientists. And sometimes waking up stronger.

Blood Pressure Month Noted

May is High Blood Pressure Month with many national and local organizations and medical groups involved in educating the public on the nature of the disease and its treatment.

This information is provided by Roger J. Barnaby, Health Director of the Pitt Co. Community Health Department. "If you know you have high blood pressure, follow your doctor's advice," he said. "If you do not know your blood pressure, then see your doctor or visit the Health Department. There is only one way to tell if you have high blood pressure — have it checked. It may save your life."

Inducted Into Honorary Soc.

CHAPEL HILL — Robert Joel Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy E. Dunn of Winterville, was inducted into Beta Gamma Sigma, national college honor society in business administration at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Bacteria that cause pneumonia, meningitis, tuberculosis and gonorrhea show increasing signs of resistance to antibiotics, says Dr. Joel Ward of the national Center for Disease Control. And the same problem is showing up in less-dangerous diseases.

That doesn't mean a killer germ with no cure is right around the corner, "but at the rate bacteria are developing resistance, I'm not sure our technology can keep up," Ward said.

Americans have grown accustomed to low incidence of such diseases as tuberculosis, "but the bacteria are not gone; they've just been under control," Ward said.

Keeping them under control "is a worsening problem," he said. "You can conjure up all sorts of nightmares, even a throwback to the pre-antibiotic era" before the 1930s.

Overuse, underuse and just plain careless use of antibiotics are probable culprits, he said. Strict control and common sense are the solution.

Ward got a close-up look at the problem last year when he represented the federal agency in working with the South African government on a particularly scary case in that nation.

"Children began coming down with serious ailments — meningitis, blood infections — and they'd treat them with the usual antibiotics and it didn't do any good; the children were dying," Ward said.

A South African strain of pneumococcus bacteria somehow "had become resistant to all the usual antibiotics," he said.

That was a discovery of global importance, he said, because those particular bacteria are the most common cause of bacterial pneumonia and the second most common cause of meningitis in children.

South African official threw money and manpower into a fight to stop the bacteria from spreading, tracking down carriers through thousands of blood tests and treating them with a barrage of unusual antibiotics in unusual combinations.

It worked, apparently. This time.

"They haven't reported any new cases since November," said Ward, who will return to South Africa in a few weeks to check the situation.

But he sees that outbreak — and isolated reports of penicillin-resistant pneumococcus bacteria in the United States — as "boding bad news" for the future.

Penicillin-resistant gonorrhea has shown up in many states, and Ward said drug-resistant tuberculosis also has been found.

The tuberculosis "is a small problem right now, but what a threat that is," Ward said. "It was the scourge of the earth." Scientists think disease bacteria build up resistance to drugs by exposure to the drugs in non-lethal doses.

That can be the doctor's fault for prescribing wrong drugs or wrong dosages.

GOOD WILL VISITOR

TOKYO (AP) — President Nicolae Ceausescu of Romania left the North Korean capital of Pyongyang today after a good will visit there, the North Korean News Agency reported.

How your old car can get you the best deal on a new car.

When you buy a car, there's more to consider than just the price of the car and the amount of money you're going to have to borrow.

There's also the amount of money that you put into your old car to get it ready for trade-in.

Some people spend too much; some spend too little.

Either way, it can make as much as a $500 difference in the total amount of money you spend.

So here are some tips on getting your old car ready.

1. Wash and polish the car; touch up paint and chrome.

2. Clean the upholstery, vacuum carpet, wash mats, clean out glove compartment and trunk.

3. Check gas, water, oil, brake and transmission fluids; make sure tires have the right pressure.

4. Replace burned-out light bulbs. You can do all this yourself for no more than $25.

Now here are some expenses you should avoid:

1. A new paint job. It can make it appear that you're trying to "cover up" some major problem.

2. Major repairs. It'll cost you a lot more than you'll get out of it. So settle for a lower trade-in, if there's a big problem with the car.

All told, this should give you a "better deal" on a new car.

And, if you'd like an idea of the amount you can borrow before you look for a new car, come see us.

We'll give you a fast, direct answer, not a runaround. We'll work out the payment plan that works best for you. (If you like, we can even arrange automatic payments from your NCNB Checking Account.)

In short, we'll do all we can to make things easier for you. Which is probably why, in one way or another, more people borrow money from us than any other bank in North Carolina.
