Shot Self, Wants Taxpayers Provide Plastic Surgery

By CARL DIORIO
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A thick gauze bandage covers the lower portion of what was Gary Hastings' face. He cannot speak and breathes and eats through tubes. He requires heavy doses of pain killers and the attention of a team of paramedics and nurses at a suburban prison.

Hastings, 33, a former bank vice president, killed his wife then tried to take his own life by turning a shotgun on his throat, but he survived.

Now he wants the taxpayers of Chester County to pay for plastic surgery, an operation he hopes would allow him to feed himself and breathe normally, although it could not make him look normal.

Recently, through hand-printed notes, he told a reporter why he wants the county to pay for the plastic surgery.

"I paid over $1,500 in taxes to Chester County while I lived here five years, in addition to donations to charities," wrote Hastings, who added that all his assets were transferred to his wife's estate after the guilty verdict for her murder.

He also noted he owes the Wilmington Medical Center more than $65,000 for medical care and surgery following his suicide attempt.

"I feel I have already served enough punishment. It was an accidental shooting, not a crime of passion or an intentional act. I feel that I am guilty of involuntary manslaughter," he said.

But a Chester County jury felt he was guilty of third-degree murder in the slaying of his wife, Margaret, in her suburban Chadds Ford home. Hastings was convicted last November.

Hastings testified at the trial, again by writing, that the shotgun had gone off accidentally when his wife pushed him. But his 10-year-old twin sons and 12-year-old daughter, who witnessed the shooting, testified they had tried to restrain him.

Hastings told jurors he became obsessed with retaining custody of the children because his estranged wife was having an affair.

Local Option Bill Cleared

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The House Alcoholic Beverage Control Committee approved the local option liquor-by-the-drink bill this morning, sending the measure to the full House where a tentative vote could come Wednesday.

The ABC panel met briefly and voted 9-0 on a show of hands to give the controversial measure a favorable report. The bill was explained briefly and Rep. Claude DeBruhl, D-Buncombe, moved for a favorable report without debate.

The action means the Senate passed bill will be reported to the House today, and it is expected to be scheduled for second reading and a vote Wednesday. If the bill was approved Wednesday, a final vote could come Thursday.

Rep. Benjamin Schwartz, D-New Hanover, originally announced the vote as 8-to-6, but changed the count after the meeting to reflect what he said was the correct vote.

Marse Grant, editor of the Biblical Recorder, the publication of the Baptist State Convention, spoke with reporters outside the meeting and said that if approved, the bill would "negate" a 1973 statewide referendum that went against mixed drink sales.

"I predict the bill will be defeated. It could be a close vote, but it could be larger than some have predicted," he said.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Sen. William Smith, D-New Hanover, who says he isn't seeking reelection because the legislative pay of $400 a month is too low, is trying to raise salaries as a parting gesture.

Smith, completing his second term in the General Assembly, said Monday night he fears that only the wealthy will be able to afford to serve unless the pay is raised.

He introduced a bill that would raise the an-

Referendum On Pitt Tech Status-Change Approved

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday voted to hold a referendum in November on the question of whether or not Pitt Technical Institute should become a community college.

The action calling for the vote was taken at the request of PTI's Board of Trustees.

PTI board chairman Clifton Everett said PTI was asking for the referendum to be held at the time of the general election in November for two reasons. First, he said, it would be, "less expensive" and secondly, "a substantial vote should take place," and involve a good cross section of county voters.

Everett noted a referendum would, "dispose of this matter once and for all."

PTI has for some time been interested in obtaining community college status. Voters several years ago rejected the idea. Since the idea was first rejected by a vote of the people, commissioners have been reluctant to endorse the plan unless another referendum is held.

Howard Wilson, who failed in his bid to unseat commissioner Ed Warren in the May primary, spoke in opposition to the change in status for PTI yesterday.

Wilson maintained that a college transfer program at PTI is not needed. He said of the 116 Pitt residents attending Lenoir Community College, only 32 are college transfer program students while only one of the seven Pitt residents attending Martin County Community College is a college transfer student.

"I want to go on record," Wilson said, "requesting this referendum not be held."

In other business yesterday, commissioners appropriated $39,000 in surplus and unallocated interest in PTI's budget to pave two additional parking bays at the school. The two parking areas will provide space for an additional 80 cars. PTI president Bill Fulford said.

Commissioners also met with Bill Shelby of the Mid East Commission, who reviewed Mid East activities in Pitt over the past year and discussed a transportation study and area-wide housing opportunity plan with the board. The board scheduled a 2 p.m. meeting this afternoon to take their first look at the proposed 1978-1979 budget.

Pitt Commissioners Study Budget Today

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners will meet this afternoon to take their first look at the proposed 1978-1979 budget — those sums requested by the various county departments and agencies, and the amounts recommended by county manager Reginald Gray.

Some $25.41 million has been requested, although Gray has recommended a budget totaling $22.76 million.

Even if Gray's recommendations are followed, county tax payers may face a tax hike of about 2.5 cents per $100 valuation.

In his budget message to the board, Gray said, "in preparing the budget recommendations, I have taken into consideration revenue projections which are disappointing," in that growth has not kept pace with inflation. "Therefore," Gray continued, "I am recommending a tax rate of 94.5 cents per one hundred dollar assessed valuation," which compares to a 92-cent rate in effect for the past two years.

The 92-cent tax rate in effect this year funded a current appropriations totaling some $21.4 million. However, Gray pointed out that the anticipated growth in property valuation this year is 6.66 per cent as compared with a 7.13 per cent increase last year, while the growth in sales taxes for the coming year is estimated at 8 per cent, as compared with a 10 per cent increase this year.

"The overall growth in revenue," Gray noted, "is approximately seven per cent, which is 3.6 per cent less than last year."

In his budget message, Gray recommended a six per cent cost of living raise for county employees, as well as,

"some merit increases, giving the Personnel Committee of the Board the authority to meet with the Department Heads and County Manager and approve the award of the merit increases."

According to the budget message, 20 new employees were recommended for funding, including seven new "Buildings and Grounds" employees, two new deputy sheriffs, four employees for the Department of Social Services and three dispatchers for the Fire Marshal's office.

Gray explained that the three dispatchers would provide central dispatch for all emergency services in the county, including fire, rescue and sheriff's department.

As has been the case for years, the largest items in the county's budget are salaries, and expenditures for education.

As far as the schools are concerned, Gray said in his budget message that the requests from the Pitt County and City of Greenville school systems total $1.47 million more than the systems received the current year for current expense items, while their requests for capital outlay funds amounted to $926,000 more than they received this year. "This is the equivalent to an increase of 26.59 cents on the tax rate," Gray emphasized. "To me, this is totally unrealistic."

Gray then noted he has recommended a 10.6 per cent increase for school current expense — some $490,000 — while at the same time, recommending a 33.2 per cent decrease in capital outlay funds.

Gray said his recommendation to reduce capital outlay funding, "was based on the letter the Board wrote to both Boards of Education on September 5, 1975, stating that the County could not meet the capital outlay needs of both systems on a 'Pay as you go' basis, and requesting that both Boards of Education...initiate and develop a plan for a bond issue for school construction..."

Gray continued, "as of this date, they have not been able to agree on the amount of the bond issue and adopt the proper resolution for the Board of Commissioner's consideration.

"The time for action by both Boards to resolve this issue and call for a Bond Referendum has come," Gray said, "in order that the needs of the schools for capital improvements can be met as quickly as possible, and yet not unduly burden the taxpayers beyond their ability to pay..." for the needs.

In the area of current expense, Pitt County Schools this year requested $5.11 million as compared with this year's appropriation of $4.56 million. Gray has recommended $4.67 million.

The city school system has requested $2.81 million as compared with the current appropriation of $2.46 million. Some $2.29 million has been recommended by Gray.

For capital improvements, Pitt schools requested for the coming year $1.24 million. as

Recover Drowned Victim

BETHEL — The body of a 45-year-old man was recovered from a farm pond near here Monday afternoon following his apparent accidental drowning earlier in the day.

Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that members of the Bethel Rescue Squad found the body of George Howell around 1:45 p.m. in a pond just off Rural Paved Road 1503.

Howell, according to the sheriff, was riding in a car with his sister, Mary Davis of Rt. 1, Bethel, on the unpaved rural road when the automobile broke down. Howell left the car and walked down near the pond, his sister told officers, and when he did not return she went to look for him.

Howell's glasses and billfold were found beside the pond, it was reported, and the rescue squad was summoned. The incident took place around 10:30 a.m., the sheriff said.

Sheriff Tyson, who reported that an autopsy has been ordered, said that officers found no evidence of foul play in connection with the incident.

The Problem: One Bathroom

DODGEVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Having an extra mouth to feed at the Zoellick home won't be much of a problem. The big question is whether the bathroom can take it.

"Things get a little crowded around here sometimes, especially because we just have the one bathroom," Helen Zoellick, 41, said Monday, a day after giving birth to her 18th child.

The baby is Beth Candace Zoellick, one of 13 daughters and one of three Zoellick children born at home. A fourth was born in a dentist's office.

Mrs. Zoellick's husband, Herman, 50, had wanted the latest addition to the family to be born in a hospital.

But the mother said, "I would have never made it to the hospital, it came too fast."

Construction progress continues on the new Southside housing development off Evans Street with the project some 60 percent complete, it was reported at Monday night's Housing Authority meeting.

Joe Laney, the Authority's executive director, said that the 60 percent completion status compares to the scheduled completion rate of 75 percent at this point of development. The project was 52 percent complete this time last month.

Laney reported that all 62 foundations have now been installed and 58 out of 62 slabs poured. Grading is some 95 percent complete, the director said, while 40 buildings in the project have been roofed and 44 bricked.

Target date for completion of the 111-unit project, situated south of 16th Street, is still set for October or November, it was mentioned.

Laney pointed out that minor problems are being experienced at the housing site with water as developers have encountered more underground water than expected. He said that the water problem is under control with the exception of the Arthur Street section where sub-surface drainage will be extended.

Architect Cameron Dudley of the Greenville firm of Dudley & Shoe discussed with commissioners the redesigning of the proposed mid-rise housing development for the elderly here. Dudley presented plans indicating several changes in the development that are necessary in order to cut costs and bring the project within budget allowances.

Five floors containing 12 units each are indicated in the redesigned preliminary plans. The mid-rise would have a basement area that would contain a multipurpose room for various activities for residents.

Redesigning of the project was necessary after the initial bids on the mid-rise structure came in well over the budget. The Authority has applied for ten additional units to bring the total up to 60 and increase revenue for the project.

All units operated by the Authority were occupied during May, according to Sallye Streeter, director of tenant affairs, who reported that average rents included: N.C. 22-1 (Meadowbrook), $62.71; N.C. 22-2 (Kearney Park), $75.51; N.C. 22-3 (Moyewood), $76.23; N.C. 22-4 (Moyewood), $73.28; and N.C. 22-6 (Newtown), $66.43. Overall rent averaged $72.70, she said.

In a final matter, commissioners approved a resolution endorsing the concept of a Comprehensive Community Energy Management Program being developed for the city by Greenville Utilities Commission.

The resolution pointed out that "the City Council intends to designate the Greenville Utilities Commission through its office of energy conservation and management as the agency to file with the U.S. Department of Energy for a grant to establish a Comprehensive Community Energy Management Program" for the city including its extraterritorial limits.

"The Housing Authority...is responsible for the operation and management of 642 units of low rent public housing," the resolution mentioned.

It was also pointed out, "The cost of energy for utility services has increased over 250 percent in the last five years, which affects the Housing Authority financial solvency as well as producing a financial burden for the low income residents."

Final Gesture: A Move To Double Salaries

By GLENN STEPHENS

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Sen. William Smith, D-New Hanover, who says he isn't seeking reelection because the legislative pay of $400 a month is too low, is trying to raise salaries as a parting gesture.

Smith, completing his second term in the General Assembly, said Monday night he fears that only the wealthy will be able to afford to serve unless the pay is raised.

He introduced a bill that would raise the annual pay of legislators from $4,800 to $8,400 and double the current expense allowance of $1,200 a year.

"This is designed to let more ordinary people come here so we don't have a legislature of only the wealthy," the Wilmington attorney said. "I don't want to see a legislature made up only of people from the boardrooms of big corporations."

Smith said his service in the Senate has cost him about $25,000 to $30,000 a year in salary from his law practice.

"I couldn't afford to come back," he said. "I think North Carolina is losing a lot of talent because a lot of people can't afford to serve in the legislature for $400 a month."

Smith said he wrote each member of the Senate before drawing up the bill and the majority indicated they would vote for it, although he hasn't surveyed support in the House. The bill was assigned Monday night to the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Smith said the number of lawyers serving in the legislature is dropping steadily, largely because attorneys cannot afford to serve so little. He said there will be only eight lawyers in the 50-member Senate if all those seeking reelection in November win.

It is important to have lawyers participate in the legislative process, Smith said, because of their familiarity with the statutes, the constitution and such matters as federal laws that affect state operations.

The showers developed Monday afternoon over the eastern part of the state and some carried heavy rain. One death was attributed to the weather as a teen-ager was killed by lightning at his home near Raleigh. The youth reportedly was struck as he stood at the entrance of his garage watching the rain.

Today's forecast called for partly cloudy skies with an increasing chance of mainly afternoon and evening thundershowers. These are expected to continue through Wednesday. High temperatures are expected to range in the 80s with lows at night in the 60s for the next several days.

Vote New Park Discussion But Little Action By Martin Bd.

WILLIAMSTON — The proposed new city recreation park for Williamston was approved Monday by members of the Williamston Town Board at its June meeting on Monday.

Approval followed a presentation by Rev. Jim Horton, chairman of the Recreation Advisory Committee. The proposal calls for a $243,000 construction program, with Community Development funds and a state grant. The firm of James B. Godwin and Associates, a landscape architectural firm of Raleigh, has been authorized to develop plans and specifications so that bids may be let.

Public hearings for several issues have been set for June 26. One hearing will deal with another attempt to wind up amendments and revisions for city's zoning ordinance, and will be on the budget. Another public hearing will deal with a request to rezone property for the purpose of constructing a Zip Mart on the 264-17 bypass. The request has been recommended for approval by the town planning board.

A petition from citizens of Martin, Broad and White Streets, asking that traffic control humps be placed on these streets, will be considered by the town board.

A contract, not to exceed $3,000, has been awarded to the CPA firm of Pittard and Perry for the audit of the 1977-78 budget.

Also being considered is a projected rate project drawn up by Equitable Life Assurance Co. that reportedly would save $21,000 in premiums on fringe benefits.

Fire Strikes Mobile Home

A mobile home near Winterville was heavily damaged by fire early this morning.

According to Winterville fire officials, a call was received at 12:43 to the home of Mrs. Gladys Baker, of Rt. 1, Winterville.

Firemen arriving at the scene found the kitchen area of the mobile home fully involved with fire.

Investigators said there was no one home at the time of the blaze and there were no injuries reported.

Cause of the fire, which was quickly brought under control, was said by officials to have apparently started in the kitchen.

Damage was placed at approximately $9,000. Other parts of the home received heavy smoke and water damage.

The residence is located on rural paved road 1127 about two miles west of Winterville.

WILLIAMSTON — The June meeting of the Martin County Board of Commissioners had several items on the agenda discussed with little approval action taken.

A report by Mid-East Commission representative Mary Tankard and a request for county funds for two projects — one a proposed loop into the county's transportation needs; another on public housing — were considered. The board will study fund requests for the two projects, amounting to about $500 each, as soon as the Mid-East Commission provides a formula under which funds requested can be appropriated.

Earl Moore, Department of Transportation representative, reported that with good weather conditions, work crews will be able soon to complete paving of two county roads.

Also being studied is a request from the fire department of Williamston. The request is for funds for a 330-watt base station, a telecommunications equipment that would improve the quality of communications. A new board member for the Dept. of Social Services Board of Directors, Mrs. Lula Brown, was approved. She replaces Mrs. Emelyne Manson. Another board member approved was Mrs. Ben Selby, for the Mental Health Board, to replace Mrs. Shirley Spence. Approval was given to letting out bids to demolish the old Biggs home at the corner of Ray and Biggs Street. This is not the historic house of the same name.

School Policy Set In Martin

WILLIAMSTON — A community schools policy was adopted Monday by members of the Martin County School Board. The policy sets forth regulations that will govern free use of county school facilities for non-profit groups, and a fee rate for groups conducting fund raising activities.

Further regulations on means of implementing the community schools use program will be considered at the board's July meeting.

Concern was expressed over a report from the State Department of Public Instruction that reveals a total loss of 14 teaching positions in Martin County for the coming school year, based on state formula for teacher allotment. Superintendent Eugene Rogers was instructed to submit a letter stating these concerns and to seek any means of assistance possible due to the heavy allotment cut.

A committee reported on ways that are being studied to increase the minority black representation in the Williamston High School band. The board is to study the report with a view to increasing the number of blacks active in the band.

Board members were also told that to date no report has been received from the County Commissioners on budget action on the request submitted by the school board.

Graduation ceremonies for the county's four high schools — Williamston, Roanoke, Bear Grass and Jamesville — were announced. All will be at 8 p.m. Friday, June 9.

Registering For Tennis Lessons

Dear Charlie:
As you know, one of my favorite tournaments is the Philip Morris European Cup event held annually at Crans-sur-Sierre in Switzerland. I rather liked this hand I played there.

The four spade contract was reached at most tables. The bidding was straightforward. Once South showed game aspirations, North cannot be blamed for contracting for four spades. As you can see, however, the contract is by no means lay-down.

The diamond nine was a popular lead. Most declarers won the queen with the ace, then led a spade to the king and finessed the jack. West won the queen, and the defenders took three tricks in the minor suits to defeat the contract one trick.

I played it simply. After winning the ace of diamonds I cashed the ace and king of spades, trying to drop the queen. When the good lady failed to appear, I went after the hearts. With the suit breaking 3-3, I was able to discard two clubs before West could ruff, so the contract came home.

On a different layout, the trump finesse might have been the winning play. However, I felt that the combination of dropping the doubleton queen of spades or finding the hearts 3-3 offered a better chance than banking everything on the trump finesse.

I'm not convinced my line was the best, but in the final analysis, I have one strong argument in my favor—I made four spades while those who took the trump finesse did not. "Nothing succeeds like success" is one of the world's oldest cliches.

Miles-Powers Vows Said On Sunday Afternoon

The Salvation Army Citadel was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Sandra Lynn Powers and James Wayne Miles Sunday at 3 p.m. Major Arnold Willford performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Inez M. Powers of Greenville, and James F. Powers of Pennsylvania. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lorenda Miles of Washington, D. C., and Levon Miles of Greenville.

The chancel of the church held a 15 branched candelabra with jade greenery. Tree candelabras filled with flowers were on each side. Standards of jade greenery were used for accent. The couple knelt for the benediction on a white prie-dieu and lighted a taper together as a symbol of their union. Honor pews were marked with white satin bows.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Edward Hobgood, pianist. Kathy Hobgood, soloist, sang "If," "You Light Up My Life," "The Wedding Prayer" and "Follow Me." The wedding was directed by Mrs. Judy Jennings.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Carl Manning, the bride wore a formal gown of white silk organza over peau de soie. A high neck of cluny lace and a sheer yoke of English net was featured on the bodice. The empire waistline was encircled by cluny lace. The bishop sleeves of organza were cuffed at the wrist by a band of lace. The full A-line skirt and chapel length train were finished by a double flounce falling from a band of cluny lace. The bride chose a chapel length veil of silk illusion edged in cluny lace attached to a pillbox of lace. The bride's bouquet was of baby's breath, white daisies and yellow miniature carnations.

Mrs. Barbara Corey, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a formal length gown of floral organza print in apricot, gold, green, nectarine and white over apricot taffeta designed with a halter neckline fitted at the bodice with a full circular skirt. The sleeveless gown was complemented by a short bolero type jacket featuring a collar. She wore an imported braid garden hat encircled with apricot tulle.

Bridesmaids were Lynne Marshall, Kim Robinson and Lori Powers, sister of the bride, all of Greenville. They wore gowns styled identical to the honor attendant's and wore garden hats and carried nosegays of yellow daisies and baby's breath.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were John Miles of Washington, Jeff Miles, Jay Miles, both of Greenville, all brothers of the bridegroom, and Jimmy Powers of Greenville, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Powers wore a formal length gown of peach knit designed with a high split collar overlaid in peach Venice lace. The dress featured a gathered empire bodice and full circular skirt.

Mrs. Miles selected a multi-colored formal length gown with long sleeves and a low gathered neckline. The skirt was cream-colored A-line. Both mothers were presented corsages of white carnations.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table held an arrangement of white carnations and yellow daisies in a silver bowl. Cynthia Braxton poured punch and Nannette Wyszowski served the cake.

After a wedding trip to Morehead City and New York, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The wedding party and guests were entertained at an after-rehearsal party Saturday night in the fellowship hall.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Do you know why so many parents are fouled up these days?

Because their children are out working when they should be home helping their parents get in touch with their feelings.

I'm here to tell you I'm a walking casualty of the working child. There was a time when every afternoon when I came home from a hard day shopping, my children would be home to sit and rap with me, find out what kind of a day I had, and hear my problems.

Then they started to get too busy for me. First, it was basketball practice, then a meeting of the student government committee, then one got involved in cheerleading and another in scouting.

One night as I sat in front of the TV watching Gilligan's Island reruns, one of them popped in and yelled, "Hi, Mom!"

"Well, it's about time," I said sullenly. "Where have you been? I've been home since 3 o'clock. There's no snacks and nothing decent on television and all my friends are too busy to play."

"If you have a problem, let's talk about it," said my daughter. "I don't have a problem!" I snapped. "Is it too much for you kids to come home right after school?"

"You're behaving like a baby," she said. "Besides, you'd better get used to it because I just got a job after school at the dry cleaner's at the shopping center."

"But why?" I whined. "You don't have to work. You'll never be home now."

"Mom, it's not the quantity of time we spend together, but the quality."

"That old chestnut. What'll I do between three and six o'clock each night?"

"You could start dinner."

"How dare you use that tone with your mother? If you don't want a mother just say so. I didn't ask to be a mother, you know."

"Get hold of yourself, Mom. Being on your own will be good for you. It'll teach you self-reliance, independence, and confidence."

"Also, how to cook."

I've been trying. Heaven knows I've been trying. I haven't had a Tupperware orgy while she's at work, or let the dog run loose, or forgotten to set the table for dinner, but the other night, a gang of my friends came by and said, "Wanta whip up a batch of Brownies and eat the entire pan before dinner?"

I don't know how much longer I can stay strong.

Increased Tax Is Unwelcome

The City Council last week received a proposed budget of $42,624,173 for the 1978-79 fiscal year. The budget proposed by Acting City Manager Charlie Holiday is large by any standards. A big percentage of it, however, involves the Greenville Utilities budget, which is now consolidated into the city budget. The proposed utilities budget is $34,382,400. Much of the utilities budget is fixed expense since GUC purchases power from Virginia Electric and Power Co. and must pay the private company for the power used.

The remainder of the budget — $8,241,773 — is for city operations and the proposed budget for city government is increased from the $7,642,277 of the present fiscal year.

Funds for operating the city government come from various sources including federal revenue sharing, state Powell Bill funds for streets and other sources. An important revenue for the city is property taxes and, in order to meet the increased budget it has been proposed that the property tax rate be increased from 64 cents per $100 valuation to 74 cents.

That is an increase of around 15 percent and it would affect home owners, commercial firms, auto owners and most people who rent but own their furniture.

We think the proposed property tax increase is too large to hit our taxpayers with this year. We recognize that city expenses are increased by inflation just like the individuals. Still, the city council should comb through the proposed budget with all the care they can muster to eliminate some expenses and bring down the proposed tax increase.

Recognized For What Didn't Happen

Fifty-nine local firms received safety awards at a Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce sponsored banquet last week.

The awards were presented by John Brooks, N. C. labor commissioner.

These awards represent what didn't happen—and that doesn't always attract attention. Nevertheless the awards represent the efforts of thousands of people to work safely, and this is something that all these workers can be proud of.

May Help Cut Cost Spiral

By Bill Noblitt
RALEIGH — While members of the North Carolina General Assembly now in session must come to grips with some important questions regarding health care costs, the biggest question must wait until next year for study.

Every knowledgeable official in state government concedes that the spiraling cost of health care for the poor and elderly is leading the state budget into precarious situations down the road.

Last year legislators tried to cut that Medicaid cost by trimming dental care. The reaction was such that this year that service will be restored.

It is now clear that Medicaid has its constituency. The political lobby of the recipients, social workers who deal with those needy, and providers who collect for services ranging from drug stores to hospitals to physicians to nursing homes are not in a humor to let the money be turned off.

No Way
 It is equally clear to legislators who have been studying this entire dilemma as members of the Medical Cost Containment Commission that controlling the cost of Medicaid can't be done without somehow bringing under control the runaway increase in health care costs generally.

Thus, the 1978 General Assembly will once more wrestle with some bits and pieces of the health care cost scene, with particular attention to the controversial proposal to amend the State Constitution so as to allow a state law regulating both public and private spending for new and expanded health care facilities and equipment (the Certificate of Need).

After this summer, there will be growing public discussion and debate about Health Maintenance Organizations, currently seen by state and national experts as one of the best hopes for reining in health costs.

Federal officials see great promise in the group approach popularly labeled HMO. A group of members pay a set fee each year, and get virtually all health-care needs from a central hospital or clinic, and a staff of physicians and others whom the group employs.

patient nor the provider benefit from any savings. The cost is paid by a "third party" either governmental or an insurance firm. So, the tendency is to err on the side of expensive caution. If there is any doubt, more tests, exotic treatment, and hospitalization is the present standard.

Cost is no object presently. With an HMO, the physician and the hospital have a guaranteed budget. Money spent for unnecessary tests or hospitalization comes straight out of the budget, so all parties are encouraged to be reasonable and provide services with the boundaries of cost and potential success.

Some health care professionals find this program to their liking, being relieved of bookkeeping, bad bills, collecting, patient hustling and such. They also get more time off and less patient demand for tests and hospitalization. Patients gain unlimited access to consultation and examinations, along with advice on how to stay well.

BILL NOBLITT

This system sets up a strong incentive to cut costs while providing more sensible health care, including more emphasis on preventive health approaches. Costs in HMO systems have run at least 25 or 30 per cent less than the conventional delivery system, and hospitalization is 50 per cent lower because both the client and the professional have an incentive to save.

Why is there such a saving? Specialist explain that in the present system neither the

Crudity Needs Refining

The word "lobbyist," like the word "politician," long ago became a dirty word; and if a bill now languishing in the Senate should become law, the business of lobbying will become more invidious still. The prospect is troublesome. Let me kick it around.

The pending bill is S. 2971, sponsored chiefly by Senator Abe Ribicoff of Connecticut. In some ways it goes farther than a regulatory bill that passed the House in late April. Ribicoff's "Lobbying Reform Act of 1978" is predicated upon the dubious theory that a lobbyist should be regarded as a crook until proven otherwise. The senator is against sin. So are most of us. But even in the snowwhite morality of the post-Watergate era, sin ought to be better defined.

Lobbying, it says here, means "an oral or written communication directed to a federal officer or employee to influence the content or disposition of any issue before Congress." Fair enough. The bill exempts such communications by an individual expressing his own personal opinion; it also exempts newspaper editorials, public speeches and the like. The senator is really after the hired lobbyists and the organizations that hire them.

This is where the trouble comes in. The First Amendment says flatly that Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of speech or of the right of the people "to petition the Government for the redress of grievances." As the senator recognizes, it would be an unthinkable abridgment to enact a law saying, for example, that an individual doctor could not telephone his congressman to oppose a bill on national health insurance. What constitutional distinction is created, I wonder, if ten doctors, or ten thousand, band together to employ professional counsel to make the pitch for them?

The Ribicoff bill amounts to 37 pages of abridgements. The bill would impose new requirements upon thousands of corporations, foundations, unions and groups of individuals. In one section that seems ludicrously unenforceable, registration and reporting provisions would cover those who engage "in fifteen or more oral lobbying communications in any quarterly period."

The bill is finicky to a fault. It applies to any paid employee who spends 24 hours or more in any quarterly filing period in lobbying activities. It also applies to "two or more such individuals, each of whom spends twelve hours or more." The bill lays down formidable requirements for registration, for reporting,

Back To The Farm

By SYD COURSON
Associated Press Writer
RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — It's back to the farm for John Warner after his near miss at grabbing the Republican nomination for U.S. senator from Virginia in his first foray into elective politics.

But it will be a welcome rest after more than seven years on the road, first as a federal official and in the last 18 months campaigning for the Senate with his glamorous wife, actress Elizabeth Taylor.

On Monday, Warner was cutting alfalfa on his northern Virginia farm, but he also was laying plans to do some GOP fundraising and hoping to enjoy a bit more time with his wife.

"We're a team in politics and everything we do," he said.

But Warner added that "we'll cut the tempo of travel down."

"I stopped to calculate that I've been traveling and campaigning for 7 1/2 years, counting my time as secretary of the Navy, as administrator of the Bicentennial Administration and the last 18 months as a candidate," he said.

"We'd like to relax a little and sort of resume our honeymoon."

In his campaign to succeed retiring Sen. William Scott, R-Va., Warner was edged out for the GOP senatorial nomination by Richard Obenshain, a former co-chairman of the Republican National Committee.

But it took Obenshain, a well-entrenched figure in the state party, six ballots to turn back

 The Greenville Firemen's Band will present the first public concert on Sunday at 4 p.m. in front of the Pitt County Court House.

The program will be dedicated to the late Eugene Robeson who taught several members of the present band. Mr. Robeson died nearly a year ago.

The band was organized in January through the efforts of Fire Chief George Gardner and a former student of Mr. Robeson. At present there are about 18 in the organization. Three or four out-of-town musicians will take part in the concert Sunday.

H. A. McDougle coached the band for the first few months. Norman Hanley, a full-time director, is conducting the band at the present time.

Rehearsals are being held twice a week. Plans call for a concert every other Sunday during the summer.

During the next few days, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, in cooperation with state and local authorities, will place 200 green and white metal traps in Greenville to ascertain whether the Japanese beetle is present. Should infestation be found, the information will be used to guide possible activities.

These traps will be placed chiefly in residential sections, and those doing the work will have credentials which will be produced on request. State officials ask residents to cooperate by allowing traps to be placed on their property for a period of about 30 days.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Knows He's Been Lied To

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Intercepted coded messages to Fidel Castro's Africa Corps in Angola "covering a period of several days" before the invasion of Zaire's Shaba province comprise part of the evidence to support President Carter's charge of Cuban complicity in the invasion.

In addition, the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) has possession of "human intelligence" reports — possibly from Cuba, possibly from Angolan sources — that corroborate the intercepts.

That background explains Jimmy Carter's cold anger in totally disregarding Fidel Castro's personal protestation of innocence in a Carter-Castro confrontation that may have wide-ranging international impact.

Challenged by Sen. George McGovern to prove his accusation against Castro, President Carter ordered

Adm. Stansfield Turner, CIA director, to begin testimony on Capitol Hill on June 7 before the House Intelligence Committee. Turner is due for similar testimony before the Senate Intelligence Committee next week.

Turner labors under a heavy burden of responsibility to protect American intelligence agents and sources. A leak from a member of Congress could destroy sources and cost lives.

The necessity for protecting sources, then, could leave the president open to renewed challenges from McGovern and other congressmen: supply proof positive that Castro was lying when he denied any Cuban role. That does not disturb Mr. Carter. He is certain that Congress will take his word over Castro's or Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, who infuriated the president with his May 27 statement on the White House lawn that Mr. Carter's information was faulty.

Indeed, evidence now being collected to prove the complicity of Moscow, Havana and other Soviet satellites in the murderous rampage of the Angola-based Shaba invasion force leaves no possibility of doubt. A central element has been Soviet use of Communist East Germany.

In his hard-hitting "Meet the Press" appearance on May 28, Zbigniew Brzezinski fingered the East Germans, but only obliquely. In fact, the record of East Germany as a chief Soviet agent in Africa is just now becoming clear.

Moscow assigned East Germany the principal Communist coordinating role for intelligence and "security matters" in Ethiopia, Mozambique, Angola and several other states targeted by the Soviet Union. A special secretariat to handle this task, and oversee supplies of arms, was created in the early 1970s under East Germany's deputy foreign trade minister. In these Soviet-targeted countries, East Germany is credited with having more on-the-scene agents than any single country except the Soviet Union itself.

Special targets are the "liberation" armies now poised outside Rhodesia's frontiers under Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo and the "national peoples' armies" of Angola, Ethiopia and Mozambique.

Early this month, in a speech in Addis Ababa, Lt. Col. Haile-Mariam Mengistu, the Ethiopian strongman, boasted that "progressive comrades" from East Germany "live with us, fight with us and die with us." When the speech was broadcast later in English, that phrase was deleted. One year earlier, a Western European intelligence service reported the capture of three East German soldiers in the Zairian town of Mutshatsha during the first (1977) Angola-based incursion into Zaire.

With such a wealth of evidence at his disposal, President Carter's charge of non-African Communist complicity in the 1978 invasion of Zaire is beyond dispute. But adding to the White House use of harsh rhetoric is the president's anger at the Cuban denials that led McGovern to demand that the president, in effect, "prove it."

Mr. Carter was made to look ridiculous when he volunteered on Feb. 16, 1977, Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:
 June 1-6 has been designated as "Safe Boating Week." This is a time in which all of us who enjoy boating, fishing, swimming and other water sports can evaluate our own safety procedures.

There are many aspects of boat safety we could talk about — being sure our boat is in good running order, that we have adequate life preservers, a way to communicate, plenty of gas for our motor and the right attitude while operating a boat.

There is one part of boat safety which is sometimes forgotten. What is it? — how to fish safely. Fish safely? Yes, hundreds of fishermen die each year in accidents.

In 1975, for instance, 344 fishermen died in boating-related accidents. Why is this true? Fishing leads to standing or moving about in the boat. We get all excited about a big catch and forget to use good boating practices. How can we avoid some of the hazards of fishing? 1. Don't stand up in the boat. 2. Wear PDD's. 3. Look ahead to avoid rocks, logs and people in the water. 4. Hooks hurt — Be careful where you cast your line; 5. Don't smoke when fueling; 6. Use pliers to remove hooks from jaws of fish to avoid getting caught in your hand. 7. Never fish alone.

The Pitt County Association of Insurance Women urges you to use good safe boating practices during this Safe Boating Week and every other week of the year.

be attracted mainly by "safety and stability" and by higher dividend returns.

It need not be emphasized that this is hardly the mood that built America — that pushed back the geographical and technological frontiers because the potential rewards made the risks worth it.

But what applies to the nation applies to the individual, too. While the risks are minimal in savings accounts and U.S. Savings Bonds, and also in insurance, the rewards are commensurate.

In short: You will not make any money. In fact, you will lose. But your losses will be less than if you stashed your money in the mattress or in a shoebox.

While there is no assurance that riskier investments will grow at a rate faster than inflation, the potential at least is there.

You Lose In A 'No-Risk' Refuge

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Futility is revealed between the lines of the New York Stock Exchange study of American investment attitudes, and it could lead to extreme anger against the nation's political leadership.

It is a sad story of people worried about the decay of their capital and buying power, and who then seek to preserve it through investments in passbook savings, U.S. Savings Bonds and life insurance.

Since such repositories cannot possibly prevent erosion of capital and buying power during inflation of the 1978 variety, the "no risk" refuge that is sought offers little protection at all.

Passbook savings pay a maximum of 5.25 percent interest. Savings Bonds yield 6 percent if held for five years. Interest paid on the cash value of life insurance varies, but falls far short of the inflation rate.

Besides, the face value — that is, the value of the policy on maturity or on death or disability — is defenseless against the assault of inflation, which cuts buying power into little fractions.

A major finding of the exchange study of financial decision-makers, begun after a decline in the number of individual stock buyers and released today, is that Americans have developed an aversion to risk.

The reason, it was found, is that inflation has shaken them so badly they have become defensive. They are not seeking big gains; they are settling for survival. There is no winning, they are saying.

Even those who have never owned stock but who are considering entering the market, it was found, would

Most of those interviewed — the decision-makers in 2,740 households with incomes of $10,000 or more — said they would consider only the "barest minimum" or "small" risks.

At the same time, 77 percent of them said they believed inflation would increase in the near future, and 36 percent felt the increase would be sharp. Conclusion: They are resigned to losses.

The resignation, however, is not total. The survey did confirm what less professional studies had many times hinted at, that many people were rejecting stocks but going into real estate.

Statistics compiled separately by the National Association of Realtors tend to confirm this trend, showing that purchases of existing homes rose sharply almost at the very time stock ownership was declining.

Strength For Today

BELLS STILL RING
 We seldom hear repeated sounds to which we have become accustomed over a long period of time. In this town church bells ring several times a day, yet most of the long-time residents are oblivious to them.

Familiarity is said to breed contempt. This is not always true, but familiarity often breeds indifference. Out of the word of God at all times is coming a message to which millions of nominal Christians are indifferent. When the gospel was first carried to the pagan world, people shouted and leaped for joy as they listened to the recital of the simple gospel story. The great promises are also coming to our ears every day, but often we are so busy or so preoccupied that we do not hear.

The bells are ringing, and forces more powerful than cosmic rays are being directed toward our needy lives. The command of the Almighty is: "Be still, and know that I am God."

 Today's Cryptoquip clue: Q equals D

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

 and for record-keeping.
 Affected organizations would have to report every gift, loan or honorarium in excess of $35 a quarter to any federal officer or employee. The bill would require an itemized listing of each expenditure made for a reception or dinner costing more than $500. The senator wants to know the issues every organization is concerned with. He wants a general description of the methods by which such organization arrives at its position with respect to those issues." In Section 7, the bill probes deeply into indirect lobbying through solicitation of grassroots opinion back home.
 It's too much. In its opinion of April 26 defending a corporation's rights of free speech, the Supreme Court indicated a large tolerance for political expression by corporations, associations, unions and individuals. The opinion came in a Massachusetts case involving a corporation's right publicly to oppose a state income tax, but the opinion appeared to apply generally to First Amendment rights in the field of public affairs.

 The last time the Court spoke directly to the constitutional issues of lobbying, if I am not mistaken, was in June of 1954. By a 5-3 decision at that time, the Court upheld the basic lobbying act of 1946, but Chief Justice Warren's opinion for the majority stopped short of sanctioning the broad provisions that Senator Ribicoff has in mind.
 I would not suggest that the First Amendment prevents Congress from enacting any legislation whatever as to professional lobbyists. Congress probably has power to demand what Warren referred to as "a modicum of information" from those who lobby for hire. But is a delicate operation to sever the acknowledged evils of covert lobbying from the precious right of free petition.

 that he had received "information from indirect sources" that Castro had "promised" to remove his Africa Corps from Angola (then numbering about 15,000). Instead of withdrawal, the force has been increased.
 That was a repeat of history. Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger informed the world on May 26, 1976, that Castro had told the Swedish Prime Minister Olaf Palme in a letter that he would withdraw 200 Cubans a week from Angola. The letter indicated that Castro would send no Cuban troops elsewhere in Africa, adding: "I do not wish to become the crusader of the 20th century."
 In May 1977, Castro told int-erviewer Barbara Walters he would send neither advisers nor troops to Ethiopia, where today some 17,000 Cuban troops are in residence.
 Against that record, President Carter and Dr. Brzezinski were not impressed on May 18 when Castro summoned U.S. diplomat Lyle F. Lane in Havana to deny any Cuban role in the invasion of Zaire. Castro's word is not highly regarded in the White House.
 How the CIA handles the evidence in supposedly confidential briefings on Capitol Hill is not yet known. Nor can it yet be known where the bold rhetoric from the White House about Communist marauders on the Dark Continent will finally lead. What is clear is one fact: Jimmy Carter knows he has been lied to.

the political newcomer. Obenshain won with 1,579 votes — 38 more than he needed for the nomination.
 At Warner's urging, the nomination was made unanimous, and at a Sunday reception he gave Obenshain a $500 contribution to show he was "putting my money where my mouth is."
 But, Warner reflected Monday, it was "so close, when you figure that if about 18 people had switched their votes, I would have been nominated."
 Warner said he does not know what his political future is, despite his strong showing at the convention.
 "Those opportunities — one doesn't sit down and plot them out. They develop or they don't develop," he said. "This was a particular time for me. I came off a long, if you will, on-the-job training course of public service."
 But on Monday, his mind was on cutting that alfalfa in the fields of his Atoka Farm in Fauquier County.
 "We've got the prettiest crop of alfalfa hay I've seen here in three years," he said.
 "Liz went out on the farm with me a little bit, but then came on back and started fussing around the house.... We haven't spent much time here since we got married. We've been traveling and campaigning."

Mystery 'Witness' Is Expected To Show Up

By DAVID TOMLIN
 Associated Press Writer
 RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The mysterious "highly placed prison official" who Joan Little's attorneys say is ready to testify that there is a plot to kill her in North Carolina may still make a public appearance. And state officials say they think they already know who he is.
 "Actually, the person I have in mind is not that highly placed," said Jack Cozort, legal counsel to Gov. Jim Hunt. "But of course it's one of those terms that's subject to differing interpretations."
 Miss Little has been fighting extradition since her capture in Brooklyn, N.Y., in December, contending that prison officials harassed her while she was serving time for breaking and entering and that her life would be in danger if she returned.
 North Carolina officials have denied Miss Little's claims of mistreatment at the North Carolina Correctional Center for Women, and Corrections Secretary Amos Reed has said that if she were actually to be in danger at the minimum security facility from which she escaped last October, it would be from fellow inmates and not prison staff.
 But Miss Little's attorney, William Kunstler, has said repeatedly that a high prison official was willing to back up her fears, if the courts would only grant a hearing in New York.
 No such hearing was granted, and the U.S. Supreme Court Monday refused to order one. Kunstler had said the official would not make himself known unless he could testify in court.
 But Cozort noted that Kunstler has promised to file a $2 million civil rights suit in federal court in North Carolina when Miss Little returns here, and he speculated that the anonymous official would step forward at that time.

 "I would assume if he (Kunstler) is going to attempt to show some deprivation of rights, he's going to have to produce witnesses to prove them, and this person he claims he has may be the one," Cozort said.
 Kunstler said the suit would allege that Miss Little had been deprived of the right to parole and other rights and privileges by North Carolina prison officials.
 "I have an educated guess as to who the official might be," Cozort added. "But we're convinced we can counter whatever allegations that person has to raise, because we're sure they have no merit."
 Cozort said Miss Little should have taken her claims to the Inmate Grievance Commission before she escaped.
 "If the secretary (of corrections) says that the persons rights and privileges were not deprived, then the person has

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rolled up another sharp gain today in what brokers described as a new stampede of buying by cash-rich investing institutions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had climbed more than 16 points on Monday to a nine-month high, picked up another 9.18 to 873.01 by noon today.

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than a 4-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market's steep rise Monday had stirred up additional enthusiasm for stocks.

They noted that investing institutions seemed particularly eager to increase their stock holdings before they make their mid-year reports on their portfolios at the end of June.

By a number of measures, many institutions had large percentages of their assets out of the market when stock prices began soaring this spring. Catch-up buying by these institutions has been widely cited as a primary reason for the market's recent gains.

"Institutions are committing cash that had been on the sidelines, and they're putting in the glamor issues, the high-technology stocks, and the blue chips," said William LeFevre at Granger & Co.

Among leading glamors, Burroughs rose 2 to 77 1/2; Philip Morris gained 2 to 71 1/2; McDonald's was up 1 1/2 to 58 1/2, and International Business Machines added 1 1/2 to 287 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index was up .55 at 56.52. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .97 to 147.46.

Volume on the Big Board accelerated to 26.70 million shares over the first two hours, against 15.76 million Monday.

Three Arrested Here For Drug Possession

Three persons were arrested early Sunday by area officers at a local mobile home park and charged on drug possession counts.

Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson reported that officers arrested Douglas Bright Strickland, 22, of 3108 Hilmer Drive, Raleigh, David Mitchell, 29, of 231 Churchill Drive, Brook Valley, and Kathy Crew, 21, of 620 Jefferson Street, Roanoke Rapids.

Sheriff Tyson, who said that all three are students at East Carolina University, reported that Strickland was charged with felonious possession of LSD, felonious possession of marijuana, and felonious possession of marijuana with intent to deliver. Mitchell was charged with felonious possession of marijuana and felonious possession of marijuana with intent to deliver. Miss Crew, he said, was charged with felonious possession of marijuana.

According to the sheriff, a small quantity of LSD and MDA was seized in the 3 a.m. raid at Lot 29, College Court Trailer Park on E. Fifth Street. In addition, approximately one pound of marijuana was confiscated along with scales, packaging materials and other items.

Bond for Strickland was set at $5,000 while Mitchell's bond was set at $3,000, the sheriff said. Bond for Miss Crew was set at $1,000. Hearings are scheduled for District Court here.

Investigation is continuing pending the results of laboratory tests on the drugs seized, Sheriff Tyson said. Taking part in the raid were Pitt deputies, Greenville Police officers and an officer of the Farmville Police Department.

compared with $752,300 received this year. Gray has recommended $329,000.

For the city, which has requested $393,800 for capital projects, Gray has recommended $173,100. The current year's appropriation is $1.35 million.

Funds raised through a county-wide levy for schools are allocated to the two school units on a pro-rata basis for current expense needs. Funds for capital projects can be allocated on a needs basis.

Commenting on the Greenville school current expense request, Gray said, "this was a most difficult budget for me to make recommendations on, with the limited funds that I considered available."

He noted that funds were limited because the school board amended the budget, without the approval of the Board of Commissioners, last year, "in the amount of $181,533."

Gray explained that the $181,500 balance on hand was used to fund pupil, staff and administrative support services for which state funds were reduced, "because of the reduction of their student average daily membership."

Conrail Falling Behind Schedule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Railway Association says the overall operating and financial performance of Conrail is falling behind Congress' schedule for rehabilitating Northeast rail service.

The report Sunday said Conrail's problems include service deterioration, locomotive reliability, car utilization, capital investment and labor productivity.

Car Collided With A Fence

Greenville police this morning reported a car driven by Billy Eugene Pittman of Route 1, Nicholson, Ga., collided with the Greenwood Cemetery fence on East Fifth Street.

Investigators, who said the mishap occurred about 1:55 a.m., estimated damage at $500 to the car and $200 to the fence.

Psychic Failed Solve Murders

BEVERLY HILLS, Mich. (AP) — A New York psychic and a university team specializing in cult murders were used last year in attempts to solve the slayings of four Oakland County youngsters, authorities have revealed.

None of the efforts was successful and the man thought to be responsible for the killings is still at large, said state police Lt. Robert Robertson, head of a task force probing the deaths.

Six Charged In Moro's Murder

ROME (AP) — In its first major breakthrough in the Aldo Moro case, the Italian government has charged five persons in custody and a sixth still at large with the kidnap-murder of the former premier.

Police are also still searching for nine other suspects.

Enrico Triaca, Teodoro Spadaccini, Giovanni Lugini, Antonio Marini and Gabriella Mariani, all in maximum security jails to guard against attempts to free them, and fugitive Mario Moretti were charged Monday with abducting and assassinating the president of the Christian Democratic Party and with killing his five police bodyguards during the kidnaping March 16.

All are believed to be members of the Red Brigades, the urban guerrilla army which boasted that it seized Moro in a Rome street ambush and killed him seven weeks later after the government refused to free 13 jailed terrorists.

Triaca, Spadaccini, Lugini, Marini and Miss Mariani were arrested three weeks ago in a raid on Triaca's print shop in northwest Rome. Investigators said they believed the Red Brigades' communiques while they were holding Moro were printed in the shop.

What they investigators learned after in questioning the five was not revealed.

Eduardo di Giovanni, an attorney for Lugini, said the charges were "ridiculous."

The investigators also disclosed that they deciphered a coded Red Brigades message found after Moro's body was found. Police sources said the message was intended to give information to members of the gang at large or in jail.

The Coastal Plains Chapter of the National Foundation-March of Dimes was officially expanded at a meeting held here last Thursday.

The Coastal Plains Chapter will now include eight counties—Bertie, Edgecombe, Halifax, Hertford, Martin, Nash, Northampton and Warren, all of which formerly comprised the Northeastern Chapter, in addition to the nine already in this chapter.

The purpose of the chapter expansion is to combine the volunteer and financial resources of the 17 counties to do a more effective job in preventing birth defects, according to Mrs. Carolina Craig of Kinston, chairman.

Other officers are Steve Carter of Rocky Mount, vice chairman; Ms. Noell Rollins of Greenville, treasurer; and Ms. Thelma Davis of Kinston, secretary.

Additional members of the executive committee are Roland Modlin and Mrs. Pan Swanner of Washington, N. C.; Gary Benton

Tom's Terrific Again

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Tom's terrific again. "I think he's the old Seaver with improvement," says Cincinnati pitching coach Larry Sheppard of Tom Seaver. "He's been coming on in the last five or six ballgames. He's just been fantastic."

The return to form of the Cincinnati ace has been marked by a five-game winning streak, including Monday night's six-hit, 2-1 beauty over the St. Louis Cardinals.

That improved Seaver's record to 6-4 after a horrendous start that took him until May 6 to gain his first victory.

"My timing was not very good," noted Seaver ever the perfectionist. "Up until the last two innings, I was struggling."

The classy right-hander finished in style, striking out five of the last six batters.

While Seaver continued to win, the Los Angeles Dodgers were going in an entirely different direction. The defending National League champions lost their fifth straight game, a 9-8 decision to the New York Mets.

The defeat was especially galling for the Dodgers, since they had the Mets by 8-2 at one time. The loss kept them 5 1/2 games behind front-running San Francisco in the NL West.

The Giants held onto first place by a half-game over the Reds after a 4-3 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Mets 9, Dodgers 8
Bill Russell's wild throw on Doug Flynn's grounder with two outs in the ninth inning enabled Tim Lincecum to score the winning run as New York beat Los Angeles.

The Mets scored three times in the ninth off the third Dodger pitcher, loser Terry Forster.

Phillies 4, Giants 3
Rookie Jim Morrison hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning and Bob Boone followed with a pinch-hit shot to rout Vida Blue and give Philadelphia its victory over San Francisco.

Blue had pitched a two-hitter until the eighth and led 2-1 in the nationally televised game before the Phillies scored three runs with no out and assumed a 4-2 lead en route to their fourth straight triumph.

Cubs 2, Astros 1
Ivan DeJesus' bases-loaded single in the ninth inning scored Steve Ontiveros from third base as Chicago beat Houston.

DeJesus' hit came off reliever Joe Sambito after home plate umpire Dutch Rennett had ejected starter Mark Lemongello from the game for arguing a fourth ball call.

Braves 4, Pirates 4
Rookie catcher Dale Murphy broke a tie in the ninth with a grand slam home run to boost Atlanta over Pittsburgh. Murphy's drive into the left field seats, his third homer this season, came with none out off reliever Kent Tekulve.

Expos 4, Padres 3
Andre Dawson hit a two-run homer in the second inning and later scored the go-ahead run in the seventh to pace Montreal over San Diego. Winner Rudy May scattered nine hits before needing last-inning relief help from Mike Garman.

No Sympathy By Stone For His Losing Foe

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

The pitching fraternity is supposed to be a close-knit group, with even opposing hurlers feeling sympathy for counterparts who are performing well but have little to show for it.

But don't tell that to Steve Stone of the Chicago White Sox. "I don't have a drop of sympathy," said Stone after he outdueled Rick Waits of Cleveland in Chicago's 2-0 victory over the Indians Monday night. Waits has lost his last four starts although he has hurled six-hitters in three of them, including Monday's loss to Stone, who surrendered just three singles.

"I've lost my share of well-pitched games, too, so I can't feel for what happened to him."

Chicago Manager Bob Lemon, a former star pitcher with the Cleveland Indians, was a bit kinder to Waits.

"They both had command of their stuff, they're good breaking ball pitchers and they showed it tonight."

Stone, 6-3, struck out six and walked six and never allowed an Indian runner past second base as the White Sox won for the eighth time in the last nine games.

"I had pretty good stuff after the early innings," said Stone.

"I struggled for awhile but suddenly it was there."

Waits was annoyed at giving up Bill Nahorodny's two-run double in the fourth inning.

"When I have stuff like that, I should throw a shutout," he noted. "The ball Nahorodny hit may have been a little up but it looked like he golfed it and it seemed to have overspin. Those are a little discouraging, but I'll just keep pitching and hope things turn around."

A's 9, Red Sox 7
Oakland built an 8-1 lead, then withstood Boston's furious rally behind homers by Jim Rice, Carlton Fisk and Butch Hobson before 36,463 fans on half-price night.

Wayne Gross contributed a double and two singles to a 13-hit attack for the A's while Rice, who had hit a homer in the last seven games, slammed his 19th, tops in the majors.

Mariners 7, Yankees 3
Seattle broke a seven-game winless skein and handed the Yankees their sixth loss in seven games. Ruppert Jones and Juan Bernhardt had three hits apiece and Lee Stanton homered for Seattle, while New York's Paul Blair and Thurman Munson slammed home runs.

Orioles 6, Angels 2
Eddie Murray's tie-breaking homer in the 10th inning started a four-run uprising by the Orioles. A two-out error in the ninth inning by Billy Smith allowed California to tie the game.

Baltimore's Jim Palmer had his consecutive scoreless inning streak stopped at 30 when California scored in the third.

Situation Is Not New To Seattle's Sonics

SEATTLE (AP) — It's a situation the Seattle SuperSonics have faced before in National Basketball Association playoffs — being crushed by a foe on the road and needing a win at home to come back.

They were in a position to oust the 1977 NBA champion Portland Trail Blazers from the playoffs on April 30 in the Portland Coliseum, but lost by 24 points.

They could've finished off Denver in Game 5 of the semifinals in Denver on May 14 — but the Sonics were never in it and trailed by as much as 18 points in that game.

In the case of Portland and Denver, the Sonics returned home and played near-flawless ball to win the NBA Western Division crown.

On Sunday, the Sonics were beaten badly by Washington, 117-82, to tie the series. The best-of-seven championship series is down to the final game, Wednesday night.

The Sonics consider Sunday's embarrassment a temporary setback, like 24-hour flu, that will go away.

"We'll have the advantage playing at home," said Sonics Coach Lenny Wilkens. "And you can be sure we'll play better than we played Sunday. That was the worst game we've played in a long time and it's not going to happen again. We had nothing, but we were so bad, it's easy to snap out of a game like that."

"They've still got to win one more," said Sonics forward

Paul Silas. "And ain't no way in hell they're going to do that."

But Washington forward Elvin Hayes noted the Bullets' big win might have a lingering effect.

"Maybe we needed this to bring out what kind of team we are," Hayes said. "In any case, they'll have to think about it. They'll have to think about a lot of things."

Bullets Coach Dick Motta went into Sunday's game with a last-minute change that helped — a lineup of one guard and four front-courtmen. It was a move of necessity because guard Kevin Grady's sprained wrist.

The strategy confounded the Sonics, who shot 33.7 percent and were outscored 69-49.

"We had thought that alignment during the regular season," said Motta. "But we didn't practice it for this series. We decided to go with it at the last minute, because Grady had spent some time in the hospital and his arm was so stiff. We hadn't practiced it before, but we will on Tuesday — and will probably mess it up."

Motta could afford to joke. His Bullets were flying.

"That's the real Bullets," Motta said. "We played like that against San Antonio and Philadelphia (in earlier playoff rounds) and I was wondering when we'd get another good one."

Baseball Holds Summer Draft

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "Why play ball? It is truly the best of all possible worlds."

So says a promotional pamphlet distributed by major league baseball, which is fighting a constant battle against football and basketball for America's blue chip athletes.

Many of these scholastic sportsmen were to be selected today in the annual summer free agent baseball draft. And if they're talented enough, some other sport will also court them, driving up their financial value.

One such player is Kirk Gibson of Michigan State, who has scouts from two sports drooling for his services. A record-setting flanker at MSU, Gibson has avoided serious injury in three varsity seasons and has caught a school record 17 touchdown passes.

At 6-foot-2, 220 pounds with blazing 4.3 speed for the 40-yard dash, Gibson is the fastest man on the football team. He's also the fastest player and hardest hitter on the baseball team, a squad he joined as a junior this past season.

"If I had to compare him with anybody, he's like Mickey Mantle," said Paul Snyder, the Atlanta Braves' minor league administrator. "You don't see that combination of speed and power very often."

The Braves, who had the leadoff pick in today's draft, would love to see Gibson hitting 500-foot home runs and beating out choppers to second base for them, but were expected to pass on this top prospect.

Auburn Coach Dies In Blaze

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) — Paul Lambert, Auburn University's new head basketball coach, died in a fire early today that destroyed a section of the Airport Holiday Inn, fire officials said.

Fire Chief George Lamb said Lambert, 43, was found on the floor of his room face down.

"It looked like he had attempted to find his way out, apparently groping his way through heavy smoke," Lamb said.

Lambert, former basketball coach at Southern Illinois, was named Auburn coach in April. His wife and two daughters were to have moved to Auburn from Carbondale, Ill., this week.

He was in Columbus for a two-day clinic for all city high school and junior high coaches. Accompanying him from Auburn were assistant coaches Herbert Greene and Herman Williams.

Scotland's Star Ousted From World Cup

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Scotland's soccer team has saved itself from possible disqualification from the World Cup by sending home Willie Johnston, the star who took forbidden pep pills.

"I don't think we could take any action against Scotland now, since the Scottish football association itself has punished the player," said Helmut Kaeser, secretary general of the International Soccer Federation (FIFA).

"It was an exemplary decision by Scotland, and the most logical that we could have hoped for," Johnston was ordered home Monday and told he would never be allowed to play for Scotland again. He admitted taking two pills before his team lost to Peru 3-1 in Group 4 of the tournament at Cordoba last Saturday.

Doctors had reported traces of fencafamina, a forbidden drug, in a urine sample taken from Johnston after the match. The World Cup organizing committee had the power to disqualify Scotland. But the Scots jumped in quickly, conducted their own investigation and dismissed Johnston.

Kaeser said that if Scotland had defeated Peru, and the doping offense had been proven, Peru would have been awarded the game.

"Scotland has taken the right measures against a player who could have done much harm to his team," Kaeser said.

The doping discovery occurred after each of the 16 teams had completed one game. Already two Hungarian players had been ordered off the field at the end of a savage match against Argentina, so the image of the tournament is stained before it is one-quarter completed.

Soccer officials came to Argentina worried about possible disruption of the World Cup by terrorists. Instead, the trouble has come from inside the game itself.

The two teams concerned are the ones to suffer. Scotland will miss Johnston's brilliance in attack as it tries to recover from the upset by Peru. Hungary was to face Italy in Group 1 today without Tibor Nyilasi and Andras Torocsik, who were ordered to serve one-game suspensions after being expelled from the field against Argentina.

Meanwhile, some lively attacking soccer was expected today as France, Hungary and Mexico sought desperately to win and redeem their bad starts. All needed victories to have any chance of advancing to the second round.

In Group 1 today, Italy was to play Hungary at Mar del Plata, and Argentina was to meet France here.

In Group 2, Poland was scheduled against Tunisia at Rosario, and West Germany was to play Mexico at Cordoba.

North Carolina Rally Sends Michigan Home

By ELLEN HADDOW
Associated Press Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Top-ranked Southern California and defending champion Arizona State, the only two undefeated teams in the College World Series, meet in a showdown tonight, with the winner in good position to take the national baseball championship.

Southern Cal and Arizona State took the day off and watched two exciting loser's bracket games that sent Oral Roberts and Michigan packing.

Miami's Tony Vila dazzled Oral Roberts' heavy hitters to lead the Hurricanes to a 5-3 victory, while North Carolina's Greg Robinson blasted a three-run homer in the eighth to give the Tar Heels a 7-6 victory over Michigan.

North Carolina Coach Mike Roberts, a rookie at the helm who at 27 is the youngest coach in the series, had tears in his eyes during a post-game interview after his young club's come-from-behind victory.

"We were fortunate to win. We gave Michigan several runs and almost beat ourselves. But we came through," Roberts said.

The Wolverines, who dropped behind 4-0 in the early innings, got a solo home run from Vic Ray, his second of the series, and scored four runs in the sixth inning on key singles by Dave Chapman and Rick Leach. Michigan also capitalized on two North Carolina errors.

But when Robinson came to the plate, "I just knew I was going to get a hit."

He did, parking the ball over the left center field fence. "I worked hard today, lots of batting practice this morning, and it paid off," Robinson said.

"We're just so happy just to be in the final four," Roberts said, adding that he'll pitch his ace, Greg Norris, 14-1, against Southern Cal Wednesday night.

"We just got beat by a couple of very good teams," said Oral Roberts Coach Larry Cochell.

His Titans, coming into their first College World Series with an 18-game winning streak, were edged by Arizona State 7-6 in the second round.

Vila scattered seven Oral Roberts hits in defeating the Titans Monday night. Miami will face Arizona State on Wednesday.

Costello Bull Choice

CHICAGO (AP) — Larry Costello, whose total of 407 victories as a National Basketball Association coach ranks fifth on the all-time list, is returning to the game to coach the Chicago Bulls.

Costello compiled a 407-249 record in nine seasons with the Milwaukee Bucks before resigning early in the 1976-77 season. He has since served as a scout with the Houston Rockets.

The Bulls announced the selection of Costello Monday and said he would be presented to the press at a news conference today.

Costello, 47, replaces Ed Badger, who resigned before the final game of the 1977-78 National Basketball Association season to take the head coaching position at the University of Cincinnati.

Only Red Auerbach, Tom Heinsohn, Red Holtzman and ex-Bulls Coach Dick Motta have more victories than Costello as an NBA coach.

Costello's selection ended speculation that the Bulls had settled on the former Niagara University and NBA standout after deciding against hiring former Chicago player Jerry Sloan.

Sloan, who served as an assistant to Badger the past two years, now reportedly is in the running for the head coaching job with the Buffalo Braves.

Before taking the Milwaukee coaching job in 1968 when that expansion franchise entered the league, Costello played 13 NBA seasons with Syracuse and Philadelphia.

In 1971, Costello coached the Bucks to the NBA championship.

Little League

Optimists 5, Kiwanis 1

The Optimists pushed over two runs in the third inning to break a 1-1 tie and went on to take a 5-1 win over the Kiwanis in the North State Little League yesterday.

The Kiwanis scored first, getting their lone run in the top of the first. Van Alston led off with a double and moved to third on an error. He scored when Todd Jordan grounded out.

The Optimists came back with one in their half of the frame. Doyle Kirkland opened the frame with a walk and moved up when Hutton Cobb walked. Both advanced on a wild pitch, and Andre Wooten hit a sacrifice fly to score Kirkland.

In the third, the Optimists added two runs for a 3-1 lead. Gary Scott walked and moved up on a passed ball. Another put him on third and he scored when Kirkland grounded out. Cobb also walked and Brett Dye followed with another walk. Both moved up on a passed ball, and Darrell Dunn singled in Cobb.

The other two runs scored in the fifth.

No one had more than one hit for either team.

Pepsi-Cola 6, Big Value Drugs 3

Pepsi-Cola pushed over four runs in the top of the first inning and went on to take a 6-3 victory over Big Value Drugs in the Tar Heel Little League yesterday.

Big Value came back with two in its half of the frame. Steve Wall reached on an error and Sterling Edwards singled. Les Turner also singled, loading the bases. An error let Wall in, and Edwards scored when Kevin Lang grounded out.

Big Value cut the lead to 4-3 with a run in the third, but Pepsi got a couple of insurance runs in the fifth to finish off the scoring. Kinley cracked a two-run homer to account for the two runs.

Kinley had two hits to lead Pepsi, while Turner had two for Big Value.

Free Ads For Art Attractions

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Division of the Arts has a good deal going with national magazines, and the best thing about the deal is that it is free. Time, Newsweek, Sports Illustrated, U.S. News and World Report, TV Guide and Southern Living are all running full-page advertisements for North Carolina art and cultural attractions, and the magazines aren't charging the state a cent.

"There's no hanky-panky," said Ted Cramer, director of marketing for the state Division of the Arts. "But we have such a deal going. We don't know of any other state in America that's doing this."

The ads are for the N.C. Museum of Art, Symphony Orchestra, Theater Arts Section and state Arts Council.

Cramer said the latest free ad is in the June 5 edition of Newsweek, a full-page spread about the state's theaters, with an offer of discounted tickets.

The ads began running in regional editions of the magazines in the fall of 1977 and will continue to run indefinitely, Cramer said. The ads also are running free of charge in 30 North Carolina magazines and in state newspapers. Cramer said four different ads have been produced so far, and he said there will probably be more in the future.

The ads were produced by Behrends and Co. in High Point and cost the state about $1,600 each, Cramer said.

Cramer said he got the idea for the ads in the winter of 1976 when he saw a full-page advertisement for New York's Metropolitan Opera in a girly magazine.

Cramer, who is responsible for building audience and support for the state symphony, learned from the president of Pioneer Electronics in New Jersey that the magazine had asked for the ad and offered to run it free.

"Little bells started ringing in my head," Cramer said. "I started calling old friends."

He said he also got the help of executives at R.J. Reynolds Industries Inc., a major supporter of the arts in the state.

Cramer said after Newsweek and other national magazines began running the ads, it was easy to get state publications to follow suit.

TV Station Allocates Big Time Slot To News

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (A) — On June 19, KNXT, the CBS-owned TV station here, starts the industry's longest single week-night block of local news programming — 2½ hours — from 4:30 to 7 p.m. We now ask why.

Two reasons, replies Van Gordon Sauter, KNXT boss. One is that Los Angeles "has an arrive-home pattern so staggered you have to spread your news over a broad period of time" early at night.

And, "if you have confidence in your news product, feel it has more community value than people jumping about on quiz shows, then you provide a news service that spans that drive time."

There's a third factor: Sauter, 42, a burly, bearded man, simply enjoys journalism. It's logical, since he's been in it most of his adult life, starting as a newspaper reporter in New Bedford, Mass.

He also newspapered in Detroit and Chicago, then went into broadcast news for CBS in Chicago in 1968. He wound up as CBS News' bureau chief in Paris before he left the Fourth Estate fold in 1976.

After a 1½-year stint as CBS' program practices chief, he became vice president and general manager of KNXT in November 1977, and commenced a heavy emphasis on local news almost immediately.

His predecessor, Chris Desmond, had dismayed KNXT newsmen the previous year by cutting the station's two-hour early evening local newscast to an hour and trying to lure viewers with talk and game shows.

But the change, a counter-programming ploy against the two-hour local newscasts of the major rivals — ABC-owned KABC and NBC-owned KNBC — didn't work. It didn't pull the hoped-for ratings.

And even today, Sauter candidly admits KNXT is "a distant third" in ratings against the early evening local newscasts of his main competitors in America's second-largest TV market.

He also admits it'll be a while before that changes. But he thinks that by competing again with news — and starting it a half-hour earlier than the others — "the new format will be a good competitor for second place by June next year, and a couple of years after that a competitor for first place."

Sauter, who says he's boosted his news staff from 125 to 175 folks because of his news expansion, declined to opine if his predecessor goofed in trying to compete with entertainments early at night.

"God knows, there's no assurance what we're doing will work," he added. "But I think it represents a better opportunity and, in the long run, a better service to the community."

Okay, but who's going to sit through 2½ hours of local news — done in one half-hour and two 60-minute programs — that is immediately followed by the half-hour CBS Evening News?

"No one will," he promptly replied. "Anybody who does is crazed. You could also ask who listens to three hours of all-news radio, or spends more than an hour a day reading a newspaper."

The audience will be constantly changing, he explained, with new viewers tuning in as others get the news and tune out.

Career Hurt By Drug Charges

CINCINNATI (AP) — Actress Judy Carne, on trial here for allegedly possessing heroin and a forged prescription for the drug Quaalude, says the charges have hurt her career.

"Everything has been canceled," says Miss Carne, the 39-year-old former star of television's "Laugh-In." "Films, television, dinner theater, commercial spots."

Jury selection in Miss Carne's trial in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court was completed Monday. It was delayed for several hours when Miss Carne, who was arrested last November after a performance in a suburban theater, became ill and asked to see a physician.

Testimony was scheduled to begin today.

Helms Opens Campaign With A Blast In Media

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., opened his reelection campaign against Insurance Commissioner John Ingram in earnest this week, setting off a media blast against Ingram's stands on education, tobacco exports and several other issues.

The $40,000 campaign included large display advertisements in 40 daily newspapers and spots on more than 100 radio and television stations, all designed to appeal to North Carolina Democrats with conservative sympathies.

Ingram partisans protested that the advertisements were laced with distortions of Ingram's positions, and Ingram campaign manager Charles Webb said Helms was trying to split the Democratic party.

"He's going to play this up because he's worried," Webb said.

The newspaper ads bear pictures of Helms and Ingram, and list Helms' versions of the positions of each on seven issues.

"It all seems to be predicated on half-truths," said Steve Glass, executive director of the state Democratic party.

Although the ads carry the label, "Democrats for Jesse," they were paid for by the North Carolina Congressional Club, a subsidiary of the Helms for Senate campaign committee. They also carry quotations from the Democratic primary campaign of three of Ingram's defeated opponents, including one that quotes Luther Hodges Jr. as saying Ingram has not talked substantively on any issues.

The Helms ad, under the heading of education, says that "Ingram wants to turn North Carolina education over to another new Washington bureaucracy — A Department of Education," and attributes it to a press release during the Ingram campaign.

Other Ingram positions are attributed to newspapers and television stations, but no issue or date is cited.

Helms campaign manager Tom Ellis of Raleigh acknowledged that the citations are not direct quotes from publications, but are paraphrased. On education, Ellis said they referred to Ingram's support for removing education from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and setting up a new department.

"Well, I guess that's a matter of interpretation," Ellis said of Ingram's education position.

"We see what HEW is doing with our schools now, and they would just be turning them over to a new bureaucracy."

"Was it fair? I say yes it was," Ellis said.

Glass called the education reference "an obvious dis-ortion of the truth," and said he believed the ads were the first indication of what can be expected from the campaign.

Lending money is more than saying "yes."

If you want a loan from BB&T, one of our loan officers will probably say "yes."

But he'll say a lot more first. He's been carefully trained to help you get exactly the loan you need: the right amount for the right length of time, with the right re-payment schedule.

You'll never get a "standard" loan from any of them. Because they realize each customer is an individual with very personal needs.

In fact, the only thing all BB&T loans have in common is the time in which you get your money — very fast.

If you think we seem to give you a loan just a little more quickly, just a little more efficiently — well, that's the way BB&T does business: the best way, the fastest way, the first time.
