

Most Hunt Spending Plans Approved

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Joint Legislative Appropriations Committee has approved all but $685,943 of Gov. Jim Hunt's supplemental spending recommendations and is moving toward consideration of possible increases in some budget items.

The 97-member panel approved with surprising ease Wednesday the three most controversial items in the budget — state funding of abortions and construction of an office building and veterinary school.

Before sending the supplemental budget for fiscal 1978-79 to the House and Senate, the committee will decide how to spend an anticipated general fund surplus and the money cut from the bill as it was recommended by Hunt and the Advisory Budget Commission.

The state Revenue Department is expected to have figures soon, possibly by today, on how far tax receipts are running ahead of projections. Based on the report, lawmakers will know how much money is available for inclusion in the budget.

After considerable debate, the joint committee voted down attempts to delete appropriations of $1 million for Medicaid funding of abortions, $8.5 for construction of a building to provide office space for state agencies and the General Assembly and $7.3 million to build a veterinary school at North Carolina State University.

Sen. Ollie Harris, D-Cleveland, unsuccessfully moved to strike the abortion item from the bill, maintaining that it represents an unnecessary expenditure.

Noting that Congress ended funding of elective abortions last year, Harris said, "The state of North Carolina is becoming more liberal than the Congress of the United States.

"I'm not one of those who say this is murder," said Harris, a funeral director from Kings Mountain. "It's not murder when there's no life. Life is when you breathe, death is when you quit."

Those favoring state-funding of abortions said that poor women should have the same opportunities as the affluent to end unwanted pregnancies. They also pointed to the amount it costs the state to care for pregnant women on welfare who give birth to children.

The vote was 46-30 to leave the abortion item in the budget.

The proposed state office building, accepted by a 48-30 vote, would provide 150,000 square feet of office space in Raleigh.

Two budget leaders, Sen. Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir, and Rep. Ed Holmes, D-Chatham, said the state should take advantage of available funds and proceed with plans to construct the building.

Hardison acknowledged that many voters have expressed their opposition to plans for the building but said rising costs of rent and construction make the building an attractive investment.

Although the veterinary school had been the subject of widespread controversy, it drew surprisingly little opposition during the committee meeting.

Rep. Kathy Sebo, D-Forsyth, said it would be wise to study a report by the Southern Regional Education Board before approving the $7.3-million expenditure. The board, a clearinghouse for vet students in the South, said another vet school is not needed.

Rep. Richard Grady, D-Wayne, maintained that the school would provide more veterinarians to help farmers to protect their investments in crops and livestock and would provide valuable services through research programs.

The committee approved the item on a voice vote.

Only three items were eliminated or reduced by the panel.

The joint committee deleted $200,000 for implementation of a health screening program for state employees in the Raleigh-

Durham-Chapel Hill area and reduced by $135,943 a proposed appropriation for purchase of equipment by the Alcohol Law Enforcement Division of the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety.

It also reduced, from $850,000 to $500,000, the appropriation for providing defense attorneys for indigents charged with capital crimes.

ILA Union Presidents Arrested

MIAMI (AP) — Five local presidents of the dockworkers union were among 17 persons arrested early today after a three-year probe centering on alleged payoffs of union officers in nine cities.

Others arrested included business and professional people in the shipping industry.

The FBI in Atlanta said at least two of the men were charged with racketeering, rackets conspiracy and violations of the Taft-Hartley Act.

In addition, The Miami Herald quoted sources as saying the sealed indictment specified extortion, racketeering and tax law violations. Investigators told the newspaper that in many cases payments were made to protect shipments and prevent slowdowns in loading or unloading freight.

The probe centered on alleged payoffs or kickbacks in Miami, Tampa, Jacksonville, New Orleans, Houston, Charleston, Baltimore, Cleveland and New York City.

The FBI identified those arrested as:

In the union, Landon

Williams, president of International Longshoremen's Association Local 1408 in Jacksonville, and an international vice president of the union; Robert Bateman, president of ILA Local 1422A in Charleston, S.C.; George Barone, president of ILA Local 1922 in Miami; Cleveland Turner, president of ILA Local 1416 in Miami; Elizah Jackson, president of ILA Local 1414 in Savannah, Ga.; two Local 1922 employees, office manager James Vanderwyde and clerk Cornelius Vanderwyde, and Isom Clemon, 62, a former president of an ILA local in Mobile, Ala.

Besides the union people, those arrested included Max Forman, a Miami accountant; Oscar Morales, vice president of Florida Welding Service, a Miami company that repairs shipping containers; Raymond and Dorot y Kopituk, both of Miami, co-owners of Florida Welding; Fred Field, a national ILA official; Neil Harrington of Miami-based Harrington Shipping Co.; Jeremy Chester of Miami, and Joseph, Laura and Fran Cotrone, all of Miami.

The investigation had started in Miami three years ago, but spread along the Atlantic and Gulf coasts as it proceeded.

The Herald said it was the testimony of a government informant — Joseph Teitelbaum, who headed Eagle Shipping Co. of Miami — that tipped investigators to the magnitude of the scandal.

'Local Option' Faces Big Odds

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Backers of liquor-by-the-drink, their bill defeated by five votes Wednesday, faced long odds today as they tried to change the minds of three representatives and revive the measure.

"There's nothing to report really. We're still working on it," Rep. Parks Helms, D-Mecklenburg, said this morning as he continued lobbying for the bill.

But another representative who voted for the measure, asking not to be named, was more pessimistic about the last gasp effort. "I don't think there's a whisper of a chance left," he said.

After Wednesday's voting, Helms said a few votes went against the bill that he had counted on going in favor.

"We honestly felt even up to today that there were enough votes uncommitted that we could win it," he said.

Helms, who led supporters of the measure since in cleared the Senate last year and was delayed in hopes of gaining more votes this year, conceded chances of resurrecting the bill were not good. But, he said, "it's a realistic opportunity."

"Frankly, I don't know what the chances are," he said. "I don't want to hold out a whole lot of hope."

The maneuver, which involves making a motion to reconsider the vote, then tabling that motion, would have meant supporters needed a two-thirds vote to revive it.

Helms and other key backers spoke in favor of each amendment in hopes the changes would win over some votes. Helms said afterward he believed at least four votes changed as a result.

Other amendments would have doubled, to $10 a gallon, the tax on liquor sold through mixed drinks, and allocated 10 percent of state profits on sales through ABC stores to rehabilitation of alcoholics.

Bear Growls

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union, in an unusually speedy response to President Carter's foreign policy speech, attacked U.S. policies in Africa and accused Washington and NATO of trying to be "global policemen."

The first Soviet answer to Carter was given in a Washington dispatch by Tass, the Soviet news agency, a few hours after the president spoke Wednesday at the U.S. Naval Academy.

Speaking of Soviet and Cuban military support for revolutionary forces in Africa, Carter said: "All too often they seem ready to exploit any ... opportunity" to promote instability. Tass said this "put the blame at the wrong door" for Africa's current conflicts.

"The USA, jointly with some other NATO countries, is intervening in Zaire by using the services of the ruling circles of those African states which follow in the wake of neocolonialist policy," the Soviet dispatch continued.

This was a reference to the troops from Morocco, Senegal and Gabon which the U.S. Air Force is flying to Zaire to bolster the army of President Mobutu Sese Seko.

Tass also accused Carter of giving a false picture of the situation in Angola when he charged that the Soviet Union was using Cuban "proxy forces" there.

"The president assured that Washington wanted a peaceful settlement in Angola although it was precisely the USA that is known to have supported and supplied disruptive groupings in that country," Tass said.

Congress voted two years ago to cut off covert CIA support for guerrillas fighting the Marxist government which the Soviet Union and Cuba support. But Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko is still supplying the rebels, and much of what he gives them comes from the United States.

Helms, who led supporters of the measure since in cleared the Senate last year and was delayed in hopes of gaining more votes this year, conceded chances of resurrecting the bill were not good. But, he said, "it's a realistic opportunity."

"Frankly, I don't know what the chances are," he said. "I don't want to hold out a whole lot of hope."

The bill, a local option measure that would have allowed counties and cities with Alcoholic Beverage Control systems to hold referendums on legalizing mixed drinks sales, was defeated 61-36. The vote came after two hours of debate, carried live on statewide public television, and after supporters accepted three amendments to the bill.

Opponents of the bill sought to invoke a parliamentary maneuver called "the clincher" after the vote, but Helms successfully moved that the House adjourn. Without it, the bill can be reconsidered by a majority vote of the House today, if someone who voted against it Wednesday makes a motion for reconsideration.

Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Lenoir, floor leader for the opponents, tried unsuccessfully to be recognized after the vote to apply the clincher.

Helms, who led supporters of the measure since in cleared the Senate last year and was delayed in hopes of gaining more votes this year, conceded chances of resurrecting the bill were not good. But, he said, "it's a realistic opportunity."

"Frankly, I don't know what the chances are," he said. "I don't want to hold out a whole lot of hope."

Pitt Blood Quota Met

The Pitt County Blood program ended the current fiscal year on a successful note this week as a three-day Bloodmobile effort here resulted in the collection of 517 units of blood.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt Red Cross, said that Monday's visit at the Moose Lodge saw 181 pints of blood donated and six persons deferred. The Moose visit was sponsored by the county-wide Gallon Donors Club, it was noted.

Tuesday's Bloodmobile visit at Union Carbide Corp. resulted in the collection of 124 units of blood and four deferrals. Mrs. Taylor reported, while Wednesday's visit at Burroughs Wellcome netted 212 pints of blood with seven persons deferred.

Mrs. Taylor said that the three good Bloodmobile days "enabled us to go over our quota for the fiscal year" and get off to a good start in the new fiscal period.

She offered her appreciation to the Moose Lodge, Union Carbide and Burroughs Wellcome for making their facilities available and she also thanked the women of the Greenville Service League and volunteer nurses who assisted in the blood drives. Special thanks were extended to the nursing staffs at Union Carbide and Burroughs Wellcome.

The Red Cross official also commended the efforts of the new county blood committee, under the direction of chairman Ott Alford, in coordinating and promoting the visits.

According to Mrs. Taylor, the first Bloodmobile visit of the new fiscal year is scheduled for July 5 at East Carolina University.

To Fill Vacancy

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace today appointed Marjory Pittman Allen, the widow of the late Alabama Sen. James B. Allen, to temporarily fill the Senate seat left vacant by Allen's death last Thursday.

Wallace press secretary Billy Joe Camp said the governor was expected to issue a proclamation later in the day for a special election to choose a permanent replacement for Allen. Camp said the special election would be held on Nov. 7, the day of state's general election.

It would be up to the state Democratic and Republican execution committees to decide how party nominees for the Senate seat will be selected.

Split Pitt Vote On Local Option

Pitt County's two representatives in the North Carolina House split in their voting preferences on Wednesday's defeat of local-option mixed-drink legislation.

H. Horton Rountree of Greenville was one of 56 state representatives to vote in favor of the liquor-by-the-drink bill, while Sam Bundy of Farmville joined 60 other House colleagues in voting against the legislation.

Wednesday's House vote leaves North Carolina and Oklahoma as the only two states where the serving of mixed beverages in public is permitted by law.

BLACK PARTICIPATION?

Why isn't there more black participation encouraged in the Sunday in the Park program? We have talent enough here in Greenville at least to be extended an invitation. J. W.

Charles Vincent of the Recreation and Parks staff said that almost every group that is appearing in the Sunday afternoon programs this summer has some black members. The Monitors, who will appear soon, is a predominantly black soul, rock and rhythm and blues group, he said. In years past, virtually the same thing has been true.

He said this year's roster of programs is complete, but suggested that anyone interested in performing in future summers contact Sunday in the Park director Stuart Aronson or the Recreation and Parks Department.

Hunt Sympathetic To Anger Stirred Over Property Taxes

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt said Wednesday that a lot of states have gone wild on property taxes and said he understands why people are outraged by them.

Hunt said he sympathizes with California taxpayers, who expressed their outrage over high property taxes by approving an amendment that will roll property taxes back to 1975 levels and place a one percent annual ceiling on them.

Hunt said at a news conference that North Carolina's property taxes are about one-third of those in California.

Asked what he thought about having such initiative referendums in the state upon petition by the people, Hunt said, "I think that is one of the things we need to study."

"I don't think you need to make it too easy" to hold such votes, Hunt warned. He noted that holding such referendums would reduce the power of the General Assembly.

In other matters, Hunt:

—Explained his support of a bill to limit public access to certain records compiled by the state Banking Commission in making examinations.

—Expressed regret at action by the General Assembly in reducing by $350,000 his recommended appropriation of $850,000 to pay for defense of indigents involved in capital cases.

—Said he was willing to follow the recent recommendation by several senators that in future years, the Advisory Budget Commission consider reducing state taxes when it is making budget recommendations.

Hunt had expressed support of bills filed in the state House and Senate Tuesday that would keep records compiled during an examination of any bank, information about borrowers and certain other documents confidential.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

My best friend, Mayva, is a grandmother.

She called me yesterday to tell me the news. "I'm not going to be one of those grandmothers who bore you to death, but honestly, she does not look like a newborn baby."

(I got a mental picture of a baby with a full set of teeth sitting under a hair dryer drinking milk from an old-fashioned glass.)

"And she's alert! You would not believe how she follows you around the room with her eyes." (Probably saying in perfect English, "You seem restless. Could I offer you a drink?")

"And good! You have never seen a child so respectful with such regard for people's feelings." (I could imagine a phone ringing and the baby saying, "I'll get it.")

Just when I thought I had taken all the happiness my system could absorb, she paused and said, "I'm old."

"Nonsense," I said. "You're not old, you're just getting more adept at lying."

"Don't kid around," she snapped. "I never realized how having a baby has changed. I couldn't relate to anything. I never realized how out-of-touch I am."

"Like how?"
"They breathe them out now. Everything is natural and your husband is with you throughout the birth, helping. Remember how it was with us?"

"Do I ever!" I said. "I became hysterical, frightened, and begged for sedation!"

"And that was at your initial pre-natal visit."

"Be fair," I said. "You'd have been upset too if your doctor had just completed a pelvic examination and wandered around mumbling. 'Has anyone seen my fountain pen?'"

"It's still a new ballgame," she signed. "Super-absorbent throwaways, shoulder slings to carry them around, no bottles to fiddle with and it's a new relaxed atmosphere that babies are born into."

"You're overreacting," I giggled. "Surely women having babies today still have their hair done on the way to the labor room. I mean who would deliver with greasy hair?"

"I don't think she thought one minute about her hair."

"Next thing you know you'll tell me she isn't going to stay in bed 30 days to get her strength back! Mayva! Mayva! You there?"

The Chinese discovered that a silk cocoon could be unwound and the fine, long threads could be combined and twisted into yarn for weaving or short lengths could be spun much like cotton is produced today.

Couple Marries In Ceremony Recently

CARY — The First United Methodist Church was the scene for the wedding of Miss Kimberly Ann Tyner and Matthew Robert Oleson. The Rev. P. C. Mooney Jr. officiated at the 12 noon double ring ceremony Saturday, May 27. The ceremony included the lighting of the unity candle.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan R. Tyner and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Oleson, all of Cary, are parents of the bride and bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a formal gown of white silk organza with a contoured V-neckline and long fitted sleeves. Peau d'ange lace appliques were on the neckline, bodice, sleeves and the front of the skirt. Small pearls and sequins accented the appliques. A cascade of deep lace trimmed ruffles, flowing into a chapel length train, completed the back of the gown.

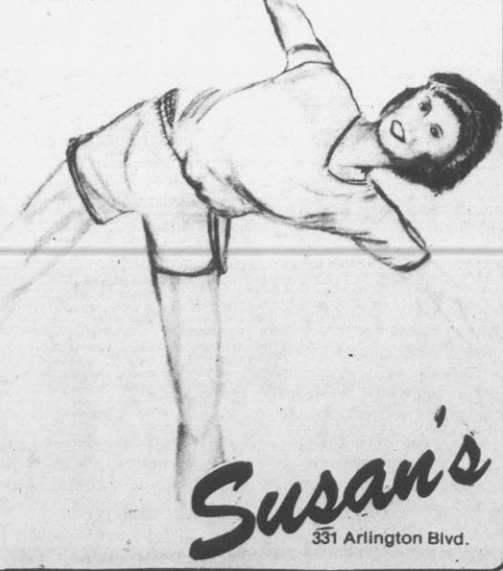

The bride's headpiece was a picture hat, made by her mother. It was covered with white silk organza and trimmed with matching peau d'ange lace, lace appliques, sequins and pearls. A natural straw basket of miniature white carnations, sweetheart cancan roses, baby's breath and greenery was carried by the bride.

Maids of honor were Sheila, Sandra and Trisha Tyner of Cary, sisters of the bride. Bridesmaids were Brenda Lewis, Carla Carlie, Pennie Gibson, Robin Oleson, the bridegroom's sister, all of Cary. Jane Henderson of Charlotte, Ann Henderson of Apex, and Kim Steele of Raleigh.

Look And Tug For Durability

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — A home furnishings specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln says it's easy to check the durability of drapery and upholstery fabrics before you buy. Extension specialist Magdalene Pfister recommends holding fabric samples up to the light to check for closeness of weave. The closer, the better, because loosely woven textiles tend to sag, snag and stretch. Pulling a sample length-and crosswise tests strength and firmness of weave and scratching the surface tells you if the threads-will catch or snag easily. Ms. Pfister said fabric grades are indicated on labels, with the first letters of the alphabet usually indicating less expensive quality.

Unhappy Lady Gets A Hearing

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Living in Los Angeles and being without a car, I often take the bus. I have met the nicest people at bus stops, but last week I struck up a conversation with a lady by saying, "Hello. Isn't it a lovely day?" She then proceeded to tell me that she had a steel peg in her knee because she had been hit by a car and dragged 50 feet, and how her family and friends couldn't care less that she had to walk with a cane, and how horrible and indifferent most people are in general. I was sorry I even spoke to her. Abby, I learned a long time ago that nobody likes to hear about your troubles. Why couldn't that woman just thank God that she was alive and tell people how lucky she is?
JIM IN HOLLYWOOD

DEAR JIM: Because that woman was full of anger. Look at it this way, Jim: You performed a real service by letting her vent some of her hostility. Thank God that you have your outlook on life—not hers.

DEAR ABBY: WONDERING asked, "Do doctors believe in sending a condolence message after a patient has died, or do they just send bills?"

I wonder if patients' families realize how much of a personal loss a doctor feels when one of his patients dies. During a prolonged illness, some physicians feel as close to their patients as the patients' own friends and relatives do.

Perhaps the doctor doesn't send a condolence message when a patient dies because he feels it has been his loss, too.

M.D. IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR M.D.: I know that what you say is true. Read on for another letter concerning physicians and their so-called "money-hungry" attitudes:

DEAR ABBY: I just want people to know that nice doctors do exist. My wife died 10 months ago, and after her death I received a beautiful letter of sympathy from her doctor and his staff. Not only that, but when the doctor found out that our health insurance covered only 80 percent of his bill, he told me to forget the other 20 percent.

GRATEFUL IN OHIO

DEAR ABBY: Do you know the origin of the Swiss yodel? Let me tell you:

In pre-yodel days, a very naive non-Swiss suggested to the Swiss that they tip for services rendered. In case you don't know it, the Swiss are reputed to be the world's most tightfisted people. Well, this disturbing and outrageous suggestion swiftly brought forth from the Swiss a loud, strange and new outcry.

Thus was born the yodel!

PORTLAND, MAINE

DEAR PORTLAND: You'd yodel, too, if you have been accustomed to having the "tip" included in the cost of the service, and then were told that an additional gratuity was expected.

1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts

On wax paper stir together the flour, soda and salt. In a medium bowl thoroughly beat together the butter, brown sugar and vanilla; beat in the egg yolks well. Gradually stir in the flour mixture until blended. Spread in a buttered 8 by 8 by 2-inch cake pan. Spread with the ginger marmalade. With a clean beater, beat the egg whites until they hold stiff peaks; gradually beat in the confectioners' sugar until very glossy; beat in the lemon juice. Spread this meringue over the ginger marmalade. Sprinkle with the nuts. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until golden — 30 to 35 minutes. Loosen edges and cool on a wire rack. Before entirely cold, but into bars. (No soda flavor will be detected when the bars are cold.)

The Supreme Court Fumbled

The Supreme Court ruled last week that unannounced court approved police searches of newspapers are legal.

The case grew out of a police search of the Stanford University college paper's office looking for photographs of a campus demonstration.

The Supreme court vote was 5 to 3 and reversed lower court rulings.

It is agonizing to us in the news field to see a majority of the Supreme Court of the land trampling on First Amendment protections.

There was strong dissent from the minority of the court which argued that the ruling would hamper the news media's ability to maintain confidentiality, and that it also interfered with Constitutional guarantees of press freedom.

The effect of the ruling is that any law enforcement agency aided by any judge can storm into any news department to seize photos or documents which they want. No crime need be involved on the part of the news people nor would the material have had to be published.

The chilling effect of this ruling on the free flow of information is all too clear. When totalitarian governments take over a country one of the first steps is to send police to the offices of dissenting newspapers. It isn't long before such papers are brought under control and an oppressive heel is placed on the necks of the populace.

It is shameful that the majority of the U. S. Supreme Court is not perceptive enough to recognize the potential effects of this short sighted ruling.

Making An Improved Ride To The West

A little good news developed last week when the Department of Transportation announced that a 4.7 mile portion of U. S. 264 between Baily and Wilson would open to traffic June 15 or 16.

Two-way traffic will be maintained on the fully controlled access highway but the second lane is under construction.

The opening of this portion of U. S. 264 will make for a much improved trip to Raleigh and westward for residents of this area.

Superior Quality Of Life

By Bill Noblitt

RALEIGH — It's time for Tar Heels to get rid of their inferiority complexes.

It continues to amaze North Carolinians that we already are — and the 1980 Census will confirm — the 10th largest state in the nation, edging Massachusetts from that position.

But comparing the two states physically demonstrates why this one keeps on growing. North Carolina has vastly more land area; mile upon mile of open space; mountains and seashore; clean air and water; and climate.

It all adds up to "quality of life" which those who specialize in probing people's motives and moods try to define as whether or not a certain place is a good place in which to live.

Merle Black, a political science professor at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, ran some surveys in 13 states, including five in the South.

The key question: "All things considered, would you say that your state is the best state in which to live?"

The Best

The best of all states was North Carolina where 90 per cent of the natives are convinced that this is the very best.

That response held true right across the social and cultural lines: white or black, rich or poor — we like, as the song says, calling North Carolina home.

Alabama was second, followed by Texas, Louisiana, then Florida.

Why, one is forced to ponder, don't North Carolinians and other Southerners know how bad off we are? The experts keep telling us there's no justice here, the wages are too low, the working man is exploited, the schools aren't up to snuff, and on and on and on.

A steady stream of data pours from the think tanks of the nation depicting this state among others in the South as economically deprived, underfed, overworked, ill-educated, uncultured, and lagging behind our Yankee cousins in most all things.

John Shelton Reed, a professor in the department of sociology at the University of North Carolina set to puzzling on that dilemma.

How come, he wondered whimsically, do Northeasterners fail to appreciate just how well off they supposedly are, and just how terrible things are down here?

He hears from fellow Tar Heels that the best thing about this state is the out-of-doors: "the benign climate, the clean air, the forests and wildlife, the easy pleasures of a life lived largely outdoors."

After thorough study, Reed concludes that people like "safe, warm places," and that data on temperature and robberies for 100,000 population does a "fantastically good job of predicting which states are lovable and which aren't."

Why is climate missing from most quality of life indexes? Because such scales are usually constructed by practical and political people and "there's not a whole lot the government can do about the weather," Reed says.

On crime, he notes: "what people are scared of is being robbed, mugged, raped, or burgled by a stranger...North Carolina's robbery rate is only one-tenth of New York's."

ment at Chapel Hill, Reed concludes, "Without fear and without research...that there are things that everybody wants (or almost everybody) and that Southerners have more of."

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE Carter's Representative

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jack Brinkley can make a statement no other House member can: The Georgia Democrat is President Carter's congressman.

Early last year, three friends made an all-in-fun presentation to the 47-year-old Brinkley. Their gift was a pad of "Carter's Ink" and a rubber stamp that reads: "Automatic 'Yes' Vote - Jack Brinkley - the President's Congressman."

Bestowing the unique gift were three men who had numbered earlier presidents among their constituents — Reps. J. J. "Jake" Pickle, D-Texas, (Lyndon B. Johnson); Elford A. Cederberg, R-Mich., (Gerald R. Ford), and former Rep. William Randall, D-Mo., (Harry Truman).

Adding a bit of spice to their joke, the trio told Brinkley they had waited 30 days after Carter's inauguration to make the presentation because it took Brinkley that long to cast a vote in the president's favor.

It's true that Brinkley, a former Columbus, Ga. lawyer, does not cast an automatic "yes" vote for administration legislation.

For example, he voted against scrapping the B-1 bomber, against creating a consumer protection agency, against last year's common situs picketing bill, and for building more nuclear-powered aircraft carriers.

Two of these votes may have been influenced by the fact that military activity looms large in Brinkley's district, the home of Fort Benning.

Brinkley said in an interview that his votes, which tend to be markedly more conservative than Carter's positions, are dictated by his conscience and by sentiment among "the people who sent me" to Congress.

At the same time, he said, "I try to cooperate with the president, whoever he is, because you'll have plenty of opportunities to do otherwise."

As evidence of his desire to help Carter, Brinkley noted he is due to become dean of Georgia's House delegation next year, upon the retirement of Democrat John J. Flynt, Jr.

Once that happens, Brinkley reported, he plans to convene regular delegation meetings in an effort to promote unity and "let Carter know we can be helpful."

He talked hopefully about Georgia's House Democrats gaining "input into the decision-making process."

Letters from people in other states asking for information about North Carolina are pouring into the offices of the advertising division of the Department of Conservation and Development at an average of almost 200 a day, as a result of the new spring and summer advertising schedule which started May 15, according to Director Bruce Etheridge of the department.

Strength For Today

The poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow has written: "Every guilty deed Holds within [itself] the seed Of retribution And undying pain".

Judas had a sore conscience and hanged himself — the worst possible way to handle a bad situation. St. Paul had a bad conscience, but when at the gates of Damascus he was suddenly overwhelmed by a great light, his humble question was, "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?"

There is always a cure for a guilty conscience. It is one of the things in the lives of all of us which needs to be faced. But never should we allow it to conquer us. The way to overcome it is by acknowledgement of guilt and repentance. Then we should cast ourselves upon the mercy of God and make whatever restitution for past wrongs we can. A guilty conscience is serious, but not hopeless.

A Hostility By Judges

SCRABBLE, VA. — The Supreme Court delivered its stunning opinion last Wednesday, authorizing search warrants for newspaper files, and on Thursday morning I made a symbolic little trip to the Scrabble dump. By this time, half of my Laetrile file is six feet deep in a sanitary landfill in back of Clifton Clark's barn, and nuts to you, Mr. Justice White.

To be sure, nobody in law enforcement gives a hoot about my Laetrile file, but it provides an example of the kind of mischief this decision will produce. Some months ago, after I had been defending the principle of free choice in the Laetrile controversy, some people of the West Coast wrote me in lively detail about their smuggling operations. They sent a sample of Laetrile. Their letters were evidence of a criminal conspiracy and the sample was plainly "contraband," the fruits of crime.

Federal prosecutors are so sick of the Laetrile business that they have little inclination to look for evidence anywhere, but let me pursue the matter for purposes of illustration. If in the course of a smuggling investigation, customs agents and postal inspectors got wind of a Laetrile sample sent to me through the mails, they could now get a search warrant from some amiable federal judge. They could arrive at my office without warning, present the warrant, and start rummaging through the files. At that point, there would be nothing — quite literally nothing — that could effectively be done to stop them.

Mr. Justice White's opinion for the Court's 5-3 majority is one more manifestation of that regrettable hostility held by so many judges toward the press in general. Only Mr. Justice Stewart indicated any real understanding of what this case was all about. His dissenting opinion clearly, starkly delineated the dangerous situation his colleagues have created.

These were the facts: Back in 1971, students rioted at Stanford University. Several police officers were hurt in the ensuing violence. In the belief that a photographer for the Stanford Daily had taken some pictures from which the assailants might be identified, the infuriated cops obtained a search warrant, entered the newspaper offices, and searched everywhere for evidentiary photographs. They found nothing, and departed. The newspaper sued for violation of civil rights, and two lower courts held that the Fourth Amendment bars such third-party search warrants, especially of newspaper property, when there is no intimation that the third party may be accused of crime.

The Supreme Court reversed. Mr. Justice White's opinion curiously combined tartness and decisiveness with an astonishing ignorance of the real-world nature of the news-gathering process. He and his four colleagues had no conception of what they were doing.

Until the Stanford case came along, the virtually invariable rule among law enforcement officials had been to rely upon subpoenas in third-party matters. If police have reason to believe that the "fruits, instrumentalities, or evidence" of a crime is in possession of some third party not personally involved, there ordinarily is no problem. A bank president, for example, can be served with a subpoena directing him to produce certain canceled checks. He produces them and that's that.

This is of course, the procedure that should be employed if local police or federal agents believe a newspaper has material in its possession that bears directly upon criminal action. A subpoena can be complied with; or it can be resisted by a motion to quash. Through the orderly safeguards of a full court hearing, the necessity of the subpoena can be explored, and the privacy of newspaper files can be preserved.

The Court's opinion in the Stanford case brushes all that aside. With astounding naivete, the majority ex-

Demise Of The Penny

By Hugh A. Mulligan
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — The new 15-cent stamp for first-class letters may soon make this country penniless.

The old bronze Lincoln penny can scarcely withstand another snub. The rarer Indian head, if any are still in circulation, awaits its final scalping. No more pennies pushed across the post office counter to send a letter by what used to be called the penny post. Now a dime and a nickel will do the job. And a dime will send a postcard. No pennies need apply. Sad. It was such a bright, promising coin.

"A penny for your thoughts," offered Dean Swift, the satirical sage, when pennies and thoughts were worth more.

In my youth, only yesterday, you could buy a stick of gum or a tiny slab of chocolate on a subway platform for a penny, or, an even sounder investment, get yourself weighed and your fortune told.

The dentist reminded you to show for an annual checkup with a penny postcard. A penny could get you an all-day sucker, bubble gum with baseball cards showing Goose Goslin, Babe Herman, Mickey Cochrane and other heroic figures in pin striped battle regalia; an eraser and pencil if you were intellectually inclined, a penny whistle if you were musical, a two-cent plain at the fountain if you had two of them, a visit to a pay toilet, and a penny candle to have on hand in case you couldn't find a penny to complete the circuit when a fuse blew.

Ten penny nails cost 10 cents per hundred. Penny-ante poker was a serious game, even in my college days. On rainy days at the beach, you broke open your piggy banks to visit a marvelous institution called the penny arcade. For a penny you could play pinball machines, see a risqué card-flip film, pop away in a shooting gallery, visit the flea circus, excavate gum balls and valuable prizes like a comb and fountain pen from the scoop derrick machine, race simulated racing cars, test your muscles and have your handwriting analyzed.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

It's a shame the public isn't more informed on the role of EMT's and emergency personnel in rescue squads.

After reading a recent publication, I feel it is quite a blow to all the rescue personnel in Pitt County, as well as the state office of EMS. The rules and regulations developed pursuant to Article 26, Chapter 130 and Article 56, Chapter 43 of the General Statutes of North Carolina apply to all ambulance providers and rescue squads: The minimum requirements list is too long for publication in this letter, but if you had a glove compartment the size of a van, the size used for rescue vehicles, you could very well carry all that is required. No more equipment is necessary than the personnel have received training to use properly.

The State of N. C. Office of EMS has course outlines and guidelines to go into EMTIC and Mobile Intensive Care Technician (MICT) paramedic status. The programs, which are operating in other parts of the state where they have medical facility backing and 100 percent cooperation, have succeeded. These courses entail extensive training and clinical experience administered by licensed or otherwise qualified medical personnel.

The volunteer squads in this county are just as good, if not better, than any other in the State of North Carolina. These people need a great deal more praise than they have ever received. They are supported and financed by their local communities and municipalities and are assisted with a funding formula used by the County Commissioners. This applies to every squad in this county. According to this formula, Greenville Rescue will receive nearly three times the amount of any other squad in the county. Greenville Rescue receives money, also, from the City of Greenville, in addition to the county allocation.

Eye Action In Scaffold Deaths

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government plans to cite at least two contractors for "willful violations" of federal safety rules in connection with the collapse of a scaffold that sent 51 men to their deaths at a West Virginia power plant in April, administration sources say.

By issuing a citation of willful violation, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration can turn the matter over to the Justice Department for possible criminal prosecution.

OSHA called a news conference today to issue citations and announce the results of its investigation into the April 27 disaster.

The 51 construction workers plunged 168 feet to their deaths when the scaffold peeled away from a concrete cooling tower being built for the Monongahela Power Co. at Willow Island.

It was the worst industrial accident since the Labor Department's safety agency was created seven years ago.

OSHA officials refused to discuss details of the investigation before the news conference, but sources said the agency planned to cite several employers for violations at the site. The names of the companies were not revealed in advance.

A willful violation, one source said, is a determination that an employer "knew there was a problem and should have done something about it but didn't."

In addition to possible criminal prosecution, a company cited for a willful safety violation can be fined up to $10,000.

Sources familiar with the two-month investigation said OSHA would ask the Justice Department to review the case, although a decision whether to recommend criminal prosecution was still under consideration.

A negligent employer could be jailed for up to six months on a criminal conviction if a willful or repeated violation leads to an employee's death.

The sources said OSHA had uncovered "several factors that contributed" to the disaster, but the agency still could not pinpoint the precise cause of the scaffold collapse.

"We can say that 'this,' 'this' and 'this' all contributed to the collapse. But as to what exactly triggered the collapse, we don't know," said one source who declined to be identified.

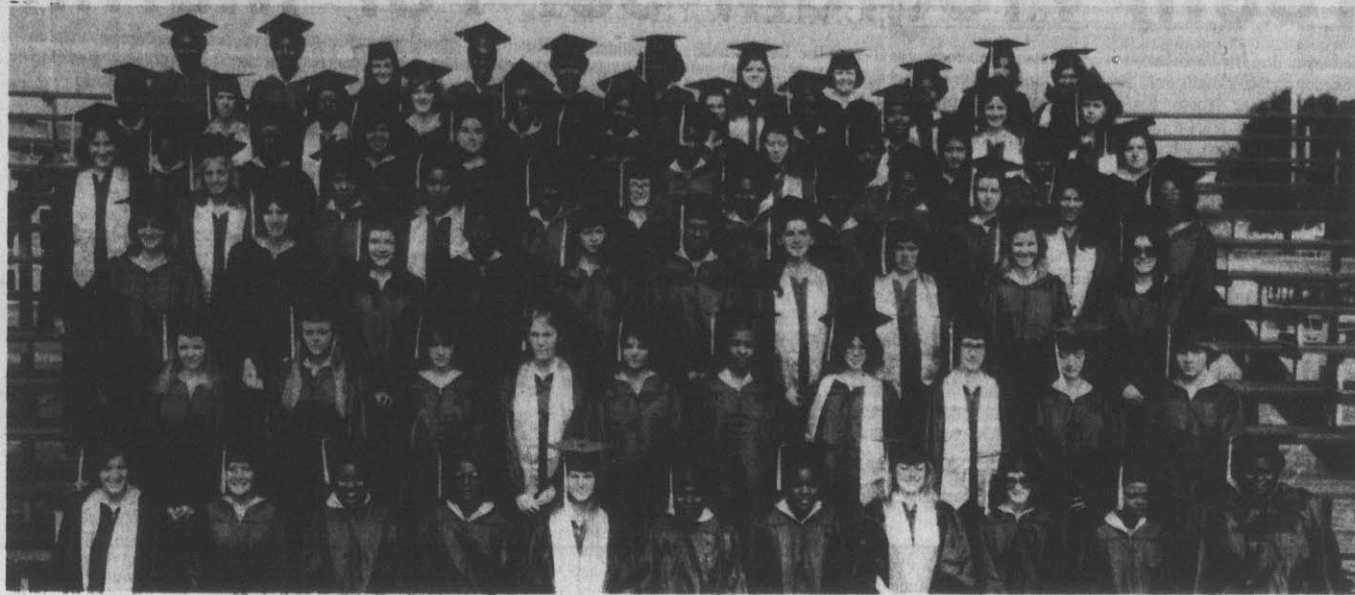

The source said the structural integrity of the scaffold itself was not a factor in the accident, but the way the scaffold was repositioned each day did contribute to the collapse.

A ring of concrete several feet high was poured onto the cooling tower each day, and the scaffold, attached to the top of the tower, was raised to the top of the new ring the next day.

The source noted that the firm building the tower, Research-Cottrell of Bound Brook, N.J., had used the same scaffold to build an identical cooling tower on the same site.

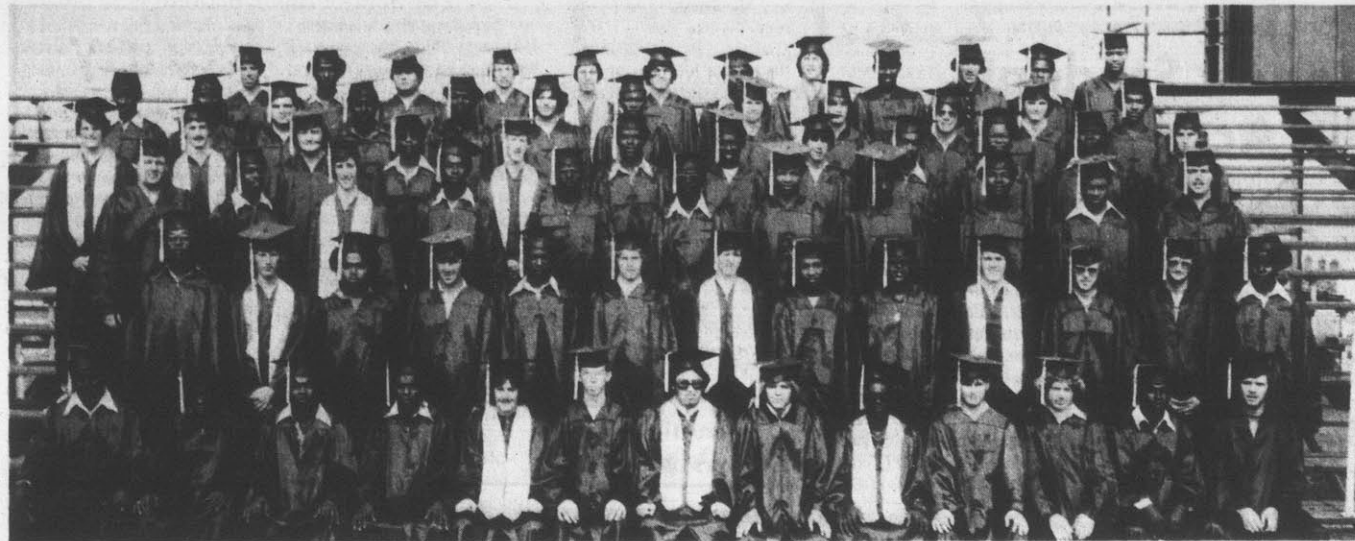

Federal investigators also believe there were problems with hoisting cables used to carry concrete to the top of the tower and to help stabilize the scaffold.

The penny tabloid, before it went up to two cents, was the bed rock of our free (in ideas) Western press.

"The penny-papers of New York do more to govern this country than the White House in Washington," thundered the reformer Wendell Phillips more than a century ago. About the same time, across the pond where the penny got its start, Lord Cecil asked on the floor of the House of Commons:

"Can it be maintained that a person can learn anything worth knowing from a penny paper? It may be said that people may learn what is said in Parliament. Well, will that contribute to their education?"

It is not noted in Hansard's, the British Congressional Record, whether his audience nodded, shook their heads or cared a pennyweight for his speech, which wouldn't have been all bad since a pennyweight then was the actual weight of a silver penny, 1-12th of an ounce or 24 grams of silver.

power to harass newspapers and to rummage through their files. Mr. Justice White innocently supposes that considerations of reasonableness and specificity will be observed. His Eminence perhaps was born yesterday.

Editors, publishers and investigative reporters everywhere must now consider the peril of the peremptory knock and the hobbled boot. There is no need to panic; it will take time for cases to develop. Meanwhile, let us look to our files. Metaphorically speaking, we can always run down to the Scrabble dump.

Solicit Endorsement

Five local citizens have volunteered to solicit signatures from individuals on a resolution endorsing the concept of a Comprehensive Community Energy Management Program being developed here by the Greenville Utilities Commission.

The signatures, according to Patsy Moore, a spokesman for the volunteers, will be submitted as an indication of endorsement of Greenville's application to the U.S. Department of Energy for one of 15 federal grants to participate in a two-year pilot study on Comprehensive Community Energy Management planning.

The GUC office of Energy Conservation and Management, which is preparing a proposal for local participation, is seeking indications of endorsement from all segments of the community.

Mrs. Moore explained that the volunteers planned to man a location today, beginning at 11 a.m., at Pitt Plaza where citizens could sign the resolution of endorsement.

She reported that a table, with appropriate identifying poster, will also be set up Friday at Pitt Plaza with two volunteers on hand to take signatures. The Pitt Plaza effort will begin at 11:30 a.m., she said, and will continue as long as it is productive.

Mrs. Moore added that while the energy program will have the endorsement from various local organizations and citizens groups, it was felt that a show of individual citizen support would strengthen the grant application.

In addition to Mrs. Moore, other citizens volunteering for the signature drive include Mrs. Michael Weaver, Mrs. Rufus Knott, Mrs. Dan Morgan, and Mrs. Ramona Hutton.

Reese Helms, manager of GUC's Energy Conservation office, pointed out that the bottom line in Greenville's effort to be one of the cities selected for the program participation is support from the community.

Mentioning the volunteer efforts of the five women, Helms said that "there is no better indication (of support) than their willingness to do this type of thing."

Greenville will be in competition with from 150 to 200 cities for the grants, he said. Helms will personally deliver the local proposal to Chicago on June 16.

Youth Program Set For Martin

Governor Jim Hunt announced Wednesday the details of a $605,709 Summer Youth Program operated by Martin County Community Action, Inc., for 700 young people in Beaufort, Pitt and Martin counties.

The Summer Youth Program offers participants work experience in nursing assistance, beautification, recreation, carpentry, nutrition and secretarial duties. Classroom training is available in labor market orientation and remedial education.

Participants will be paid the federal minimum wage of $2.65 an hour to attend classes and work in community-sponsored jobs. Young people can apply through the local Manpower unit, the Employment Security Commission and local high schools in areas with the program.

Any person whose family income qualifies him as poor is eligible for the Summer Youth Program. Families receiving welfare automatically qualify.

The $12-million summer program, funded under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) and administered by the state's Division of Community Employment, will reach over 10,000 North Carolina young people.

Thirty-seven local government and non-profit agencies will operate the programs. All agencies will provide vocational and remedial education and both public and private sector jobs depending on their individual community needs.

Classes are planned to help young people with learning problems, and introduce them to job opportunities. In some areas, students will be awarded academic credit for the summer courses.

The major goal of the program is to help in-school young people stay in school by earning money and improving learning job skills. Through counseling and educational opportunity, high school drop-outs will be encouraged to return to school.

The Summer Youth Program also employs college students as assistants to help supervise work sites and classrooms.

CETA has provided the Summer Youth Program since its adoption in 1973. Last year the program cost $10 million and included 10,570 young people.

The administering agency, the Division of Community Employment, was formed by the General Assembly in 1977 to succeed the old Office of Education and Training which was part of the Department of Administration. Division of Community Employment, a division of the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, administers CETA funds in 86 counties and is responsible for Manpower planning and policy development throughout the state.

Malpractice Suits Are Seen As Tip Of Iceberg

By ROBERT LOCKE
Associated Press Writer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Many more patients are injured by negligent doctors than ever file medical malpractice claims, despite complaints by physicians that such claims are excessive, says a study released today.

The Rand Corp. report also says "a clear subgroup of physicians" is repeatedly careless and accounts for the bulk of the claims.

"Many more incidents of malpractice occur, it appears, than result in a claim for damages," said the study. "At most only one out of every six or seven incidents can be expected to result in a claim."

The study was co-authored by Dr. William Schwartz, a Tufts University professor of medicine who says he is bracing himself for reaction from fellow physicians.

"I am not looking forward to the possible wrath of some of my colleagues. This report challenges the conventional views and that is always painful. That always stirs up a reaction," Schwartz said in a telephone interview from Boston. The study, published in the New England Journal of Medicine, rejects most arguments used by physicians against the malpractice system.

The study said that despite occasional million-dollar settlements, the average malpractice award during 1974 did not even cover the patient's losses in medical expenses and lost earnings.

It also challenged the argument "that 'good' physicians are sued as often as the 'bad.'"

The report said a four-year study of 8,000 Los Angeles-area doctors showed that fewer than 1 percent of them "accounted for 10 percent of all claims and 30 percent of all payments made by the (malpractice) insurance plan."

"There seems to be a clear subgroup of physicians who are repeatedly negligent," Schwartz said. "A very small percentage of doctors were responsible for a disproportionate number of claims."

The report suggests that a primary value of malpractice claims is to deter future negligence. But, it said, "the signal to the physician, as determined by the number of claims and size of awards, appears to be insufficient for ideal deterrence."

Schwartz said the signal is weakened because most victims of malpractice do not go to court.

"It may not be clear to the patient that a bad outcome was due to the doctor," he said. "But also, many patients are reluctant to sue their doctor because he's been kind to them during their illness. And then, of course, suing is just a very unpleasant activity."

Schedule For City Schools

Greenville City Schools Superintendent Glenn Cox has announced the Friday, June 9 last day of school abbreviated schedule and details on the Rose High graduation exercise.

On Friday, students in grades kindergarten through the seventh grade will be let out at 12:15, with lunch to be served before dismissal.

Eight and ninth grade students at Aycock Junior High will be dismissed at 11:30 a.m., and lunch will not be served to these students.

Rose High students are to get out at 12:15 p.m., and as at Aycock, lunches will not be served.

Cox said the staggered schedule has been arranged to provide for the most effective use of transportation on the final day of school.

The Rose High graduation exercise is set for 6:45 p.m., an hour and 15 minutes earlier than the traditional 8 p.m. graduation time. This has been done, Cox explained, due to the construction work underway at Ficken Stadium resulting in no lights being available. The early hour will make it possible to conclude the graduation exercise prior to the hour of darkness.

Alternative: Grass-Skiing

BANNER ELK, N.C. (AP) — For skiing fans who just can't wait for winter to roll around again, Beech Mountain has the answer — grass skiing.

And the new summertime skiing will get under way at Beech this month.

The new sport, which uses rollers similar to tractor treads, started in Europe about 10 years ago and has spread its popularity throughout Europe to the U.S. Dennis Brobst, director of skiing at Beech Mountain, says grass skiing has been catching on in the U.S. for the past five years.

According to Brobst, grass skiing is very similar to snow skiing. He said the treads fasten onto standard snow ski boots and the skier uses standard ski poles.

Brobst said grass skiing is not as quick as snow skiing, but he said "the sensation and the speed is pretty close." He said grass skiing is not as quick because it takes more effort to cut and turn on the grass ski treads. It's also more tiring, which makes a good conditioner for snow skiing, he said.

Brobst said the average grass skier will move at about 15 miles per hour, while the average recreational snow-skier moves at about 20 miles per hour.

But he said there is really no limit to speed, pointing out that grass skiers have been clocked at up to 55 miles per hour on steep slopes.

"You're really not limited in any way as far as these skis are concerned," Brobst said. The real limit will be the same as for snow skiing — "intestinal fortitude."

Brobst said Beech Mountain will have 100 sets of grass skis available for use on opening day. Costs for use of equipment and slopes will be about the same as for snow skiing, but there will be special rates for those who want to go out and give it a quick try.

Brobst said grass skiing this summer will be limited to the beginner to intermediate slopes, with slopes all the way to the top of the mountain possibly being opened next summer.

Legislation To Cut U.S. Income Tax Badly Bogged

By EDMOND Le BRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — While California's overwhelming approval of a tax-limiting referendum is being read as a sign of national demand for tax relief, legislation that would cut federal income taxes is bogged down once again in Congress.

P. "Tip" O'Neill, D-Mass., the House speaker, told reporters there certainly would be a bill providing a tax cut of about $20 billion, and that the House Ways and Means Committee would be back at work on it today.

But the meeting was never called. Committee sources said behind-scenes discussions among Democrats produced nothing even close to an agreement that could be written into legislation.

With Congress pressing to adjourn by early October for the election campaign, and with energy and other priority legislation still hanging fire, questions have been raised whether any tax cut bill has a chance of passing this year.

There is speculation that if none is enacted by adjournment, President Carter might call a postelection "lame duck" session to press for a tax cut.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the Ways and Means chairman, confirmed in an interview there is no meeting of minds on the committee.

"I think we'll work something out," he said, but refused to say how long it might take.

Although Carter has agreed to scale down his tax cut proposal from $25 billion to about $20 billion, roughly the level favored by committee members, Ways and Means tax writers are divided over a number of proposals, none of which apparently commands majority support.

Some members don't favor any new tax cuts this year, but prefer only to continue the reductions approved last year. Those cuts are to expire Dec. 31 unless Congress reapproves them.

If Congress does nothing, not only will there be no tax cut in 1979 but taxes actually will increase by about $9 billion, as previously scheduled. Besides dismaying voters whose hopes have been raised, this would deal a double blow to Carter's economy-stimulating program.

The tax-writing committee thus is back where it has been most of the time since Carter made his tax cut proposals in January — projecting much of through informal discussions to the president's plan and trying to forge substitutes.

Greenville Man Receives Award

SUMMERVILLE, S. C. — Forbess, has been awarded the Service to Mankind Award by the Summerville Sertoma Club.

Forbes, who was known as Bob in Greenville, has come to be known as "Pappy" in Summerville, where he has been a volunteer coach in youth football and baseball for several years.

Forbes, 72, has been involved in coaching and athletics for over 50 years, beginning with ball-playing at East Carolina College and Duke University and later in semi-pro baseball. He has coached at many levels in amateur athletics.

The retired maintenance superintendent of Charleston Air Force Base now devotes himself almost full-time to his activities as coach, chauffeur, and party and picnic-organizer for "his boys." He discounts the fact that he has had arthritis for the past 25 years and has had to have both hip joints replaced with stainless steel ones. It was the year after this major operation that he first involved himself in the Sertoma-Club sponsored athletic program in Summerville.

Jerry Blackwell, Summerville Parks and Recreation Director, during the awards ceremony described Forbes as "a grand old man with a big, big heart."

"I just like kids and want to help if I can," Forbes says. He is the brother of Mrs. Clara (Bruce) Clark of Greenville.

Utilities Bill To Be Cheaper

Local residents will notice a welcome omission on their June bills from Greenville Utilities and some 2,600 customers will receive an added break on their GUC charges this month.

Reese Helms, manager of GUC's Office of Energy Conservation and Management, reported that Greenville Utilities has found itself to be in a situation where the fuel adjustments charge normally indicated on monthly bills can be left off this month.

Helms, explaining that the billing without the fuel adjustment charge will apply on June bills only, said that Greenville Utilities was happy to be in a position this month to leave off the charge that is passed down to the agency by its supplier, Virginia Electric Power Co.

According to Helms, customers who are participating in the local Beat-the-Peak energy conservation program initiated by Greenville Utilities will also receive their first $7.50 deduction on the June bill.

He noted that the credit will be in effect during the high demand months of June, July, August and September. Some 4,500 energy saving switches were installed in the program's first year, he said.

Helms reported that GUC has reached its quota for Beat-the-Peak program participation this year but applications are being accepted for next year's energy program.

Migrant Workers For '78 Arrive In County

WAINRIGHT CONST. CO.

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
The Rafael de La Rosa family of Pharr, Texas is the first contingent of migrant workers to arrive in Pitt County for the summer of 1978. Pharr is about 20 miles north of the U.S.-Mexican border.

The de La Rosa's — father Rafael; mother Ernestina; a 15-year old son, Abelardo; a 16-year old daughter, Sylvia; and the eldest of the children, 21-year old Alma de La Rosa Rios, with her two-year old daughter Erica — arrived in Greenville Tuesday afternoon from the tomato fields of Florida.

Sylvia is proficient in English, speaks it with a slight liltting trace of her native Spanish tongue; and Abelardo is almost as fluent as his sister. The two interpreted for the older members of the family.

"The tomato crop was not too good this year," Sylvia commented, "so we came north early." Through her, it was discovered this will be the family's first experience working in tobacco. Traditionally, migrant workers specialize in the harvest of truck crops, but the family feels they will have no problem working in a crop new to them.

They have settled in on a farm operated by Wilber Harris. "Mr. Harris was very generous in offering the family a place to stay and a chance to work," James Cox, Rural Manpower Representative of the Employment Security Commission stated. "He's one of several farmers we can always call on to come to the rescue in a situation of early or unexpected arrivals."

Harris had praise for migrant workers he has employed in past summers. "I have had workers from different parts of the country, from Mississippi, Alabama as well as Mexicans at several times," he stated. "I've had very good success with their work, and have gotten along very good with these people, who seem pleased to work for me."

Harris added that "the employment (ESC) people have been helpful and cooperative in providing good workers and in helping these people out while they're here."

Cox is one of two men working in the Rural Manpower field. The other representative assigned to work with migrants and other classes of farm labor is Robert Stringfield.

"The de La Rosa family is what we refer to as free-wheelers," Cox stated. "That is, they came in not under contract, but to find work on their own."

Stringfield noted that the family reported to the ESC office immediately after arriving in Greenville. He added this indicated the family was familiar with the best procedures for such workers to follow.

According to Cox, contracted workers are soon due to arrive in Greenville. "This will be about three or more weeks from now," Cox said. "Most likely the next group will be single men from Mississippi who come to help with the tobacco harvest. Later, we expect more family units to come in on a contractual basis."

By contacting the Employment Security Commission, the de La Rosa's will have the benefit of being put in contact with service agencies — such as the Social Services Department and the Migrant Seasonal Farm Workers Association. "Not only that, but we'll be able to put them in touch with church groups and other social groups they may want to get in touch with," Cox said.

The de La Rosa's are wasting no time in getting settled in. At mid-morning Wednesday following their Tuesday arrival, the father and son were diligently cutting grass in the yard of the house assigned to them. The women of the family watched the men working. Sylvia explained "we are encouraging them."

Questioned about some of their teen-age likes and dislikes, Sylvia and Abelardo expressed a strong preference for rock and roll music. "My mother and father still like Spanish music best," she commented, "but they let us listen to rock and roll."

FIRST ARRIVALS . . . The de La Rosa family is the first migrant family to arrive in the area for the summer of 1978. Seated are Mr. and Mrs. de La Rosa, and behind them are two of their

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Jesse Helms has added his name as co-sponsor of a bill designed to give farmers a tax break by sharply increasing the allowable deduction for the cost of clearing land for farming operations.

The bill was introduced Jan. 26 by Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich. Helms became its first co-sponsor Tuesday. The bill has been referred to the Senate Finance Committee, which is expected to begin consideration late this summer.

No comparable legislation has been introduced in the House.

Find Loot In Rotten Log

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — More than $8,000 stolen in the May 25 robbery of a James City bank was found Monday stuffed in a rotting log in the Croatan National Forest.

Officers have arrested three men on charges growing out of the robbery of the James City branch of First-Citizens Bank and Trust Co., in which two women employees were wounded.

Arrested early Saturday and charged with the robbery was William Aubrey McKay Jr., 29, of New Bern. Officers later arrested Willie Albert Champion, 28, a Fort Bragg enlisted man, and his roommate Johnny Clark Oats, 28, of Fayetteville.

Officers said a brown paper bag containing the money was found by Philip Kromer, a U.S. Forest Service resource assistant. He said he and an FBI agent had searched an area about two miles inside the forest area most of Saturday without finding the money.

Billy Graham Cites A Bargin

TORONTO (AP) — For a tenth as much as you would pay to watch Muhammad Ali fight, you can hear Billy Graham preach the gospel. And that, the evangelist says, is a good deal.

At a news conference Wednesday, Graham defended the $600,000 cost of his seven-day crusade here by saying it will cost about $3 for every person who sees him at Maple Leaf Gardens, whereas it would cost $30 to $40 to see Ali fight.

"Of course I'm not Muhammad Ali, but certainly we can spend $3 to hear the gospel of good news," Graham said.

He said about half the $600,000 already has been raised and donations at the crusade, for which there is no admission charge, are expected to make up the difference. The crusade starts Sunday.

Sunday Music Program Set

A music program will be held at Fleming Chapel Church Sunday at noon.

On the program will be the Gospel Jubilees of Philadelphia, Pa., the Sons and Daughters of Baltimore, and a youth choir of Baltimore. The public is invited.

RETURNING CREWMEN PANMUNJOM, South Korea (AP) — The United Nations Command told North Korea today it is returning eight crewmen of a North Korean boat sunk by the South Korean navy off the east coast on May 19.

MIAMI, Fla. — The U.S. Attorney's office here said today that an investigation is continuing in a case in which five persons were arrested on charges of conspiracy to import marijuana, after a boat owned by a Greenville, N.C. man was seized with 36,000 pounds of marijuana on board in January.

U.S. Customs spokesmen said the "Lady B", a 65 foot shrimp trawler owned by Marvin C. Buck Jr. of Greenville, was boarded and seized about 6:12 p.m. January 5, after being intercepted by the Coast Guard cutter Cape Fox. The boarding occurred near Carysfort Reef Light, some 22 miles East of Travernier in the Florida Keys.

Chileans Await Delayed Reforms

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — One of the measures announced by Pres. Augusto Pinochet to return Chile to democratic government has been slightly delayed but should go into effect in early 1979.

On April 15, Pinochet said a new constitution that is being drafted should be ready by May 21 of this year. But the drafting commission sought a delay of three months to finish the new body of laws.

The interior ministry then announced that the commission should finish the its work before the end of the first six months of 1979.

The ruling four-man military junta will then give final approval to the new constitution and it will be submitted to a national plebiscite at an unspecified date next year.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market resumed its post-Memorial Day rally today, overcoming some profit-taking pressure, in fairly active trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which fell more than 4 points in profit-taking on Wednesday, rose 4.24 points to 866.16 by noon today.

Trading volume came to 17.19 million shares in the first two hours, up from 14.34 million in the previous session.

Overall, gainers outnumbered losers by a margin of more than 2-1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. The NYSE composite index gained .24 to 56.35.

Analysts cited no single factor or news development today in describing the market's movements. Optimism about a slowing in inflation and a leveling off of interest rates have added underlying strength to the market in recent sessions.

Kaufman & Broad, a Los Angeles-based housing developer, continued to move higher in active trading following a vote Tuesday which would limit property taxes in California. The builder gained 3/4 to 8 1/2 to day after rising 1 1/2 points on Wednesday.

ICN Pharmaceuticals topped the noon NYSE most active list and fell 1 1/2 to 5 1/2 after it announced that a dissident shareholder group abandoned its plans for a proxy fight and instead sold their shares in the company.

On the American Stock Exchange, Research Cottrell fell 4 1/2 to 21 1/2 in active trading. The New Jersey contractor was cited by the Justice Department today for 10 "willful violations" of safety rules at a West Virginia construction project where a scaffolding collapsed killing 51 persons.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose 1.03 to 148.62.

Bullets Dump Sonics

SEATTLE (AP) — Finally, Wes Unseld can look in the mirror and see the face of a champion.

"I don't know how I'm supposed to act," Washington's veteran center said with a sideburn-to-sideburn smile and a shrug of his massive shoulders following the Bullets' thrilling 105-99 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics Wednesday night in the deciding game of the National Basketball Association championship series.

The triumph before a disappointed capacity crowd of 14,068 at the Seattle Center Coliseum ended 10 years of playoff frustration for the Bullets, the only team to make the NBA playoffs every year in the past decade.

And Unseld has been a Bullet each of those 10 years.

"This is the first time for me on this side," said the 6-foot-7, 245-pound Unseld, who was voted the Most Valuable Player in the championship series that went the limit, creating a winner-take-all situation in the seventh game to determine the league champion.

Unseld, who scored 15 points and sank two big free throws in the final two minutes, twice before had been to the finals with Washington only to lose in four straight games — to Milwaukee in 1971 and to Golden State in 1975.

The loss put a damper on an incredible season for the Sonics, who got off to a disastrous 5-17 start but turned around under the guidance of Coach Lenny Wilkens and came within one game of the coveted championship.

Guard Charles Johnson and forward Bobby Dandridge led the Bullets' victory in the title game with 19 points apiece. But it was a three-point play by second-year reserve forward Mitch Kupchak and Unseld's free throws that cooled a Seattle rally in the final, frantic minutes.

The Sonics, who shot just 39 percent for the game to Washington's 45 percent, trailed 79-66 after three periods. Seattle closed to within 98-94 in the final two minutes before Mike Kupchak hit a three-point play with 1:30 to go.

Fred Brown sank a free throw and hit a bank shot and Paul Silas hit a layup to bring the Sonics to within 101-99 with 18 seconds on the clock. But six seconds later, Unseld sank two free throws to clinch the victory that ended, once and for all, the Bullets' status as the NBA's perennial bridesmaid.

"That was a big play for Washington," said Wilkens. "It was a super play on Kupchak's part. Things were going well until then."

Then, with 12 seconds left and the Bullets ahead by two points, Unseld was fouled intentionally and had three chances to make two at the free throw line. He missed the first but made the next two.

"I just stand up there and shoot and hope they go in," said Unseld.

"The Fat Lady is singing for us tonight," said Bullets Coach Dick Motta in the noisy Washington locker room.

Throughout the playoffs, the Bullets' battle cry has been, "The Opera Ain't Over 'til the Fat Lady Sings." Motta picked up the slogan from a San Antonio sportscaster because he felt its never-say-die sentiment fit his team perfectly.

The Bullets had avoided elimination on Sunday when they routed the Sonics 117-82 at Landover, Md., to even the series at three victories apiece. And then they won the biggest game of all — on the road Wednesday night.

"This team never gave up," said Motta. "I'm so proud of them. Nobody expected us to go this far, but here we are — NBA champions."

Motta also praised the losing Sonics.

"These are two very fine basketball team," he said. "It's too bad one had to lose, but I'm glad we were not the ones."

"No one except those involved knew how far we came," said Wilkens. "A lot of people around the country looked past us, even when we were winning. We proved to them we are a good ball club."

"Washington was a better team tonight and you have to give them credit for the championship."

Norton, Holmes Meeting Friday

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Brash and confident, Larry Holmes hasn't sparred since last Monday because his handlers feel he might be too sharp too early for Friday night's World Boxing Council heavyweight championship fight against titlist Ken Norton.

"On Monday, he nearly knocked out two sparring partners," said Holmes' manager, Richie Giachetti, "so we decided he wouldn't box the rest of this week. He was sharp enough."

Odds that opened at 8-5 favoring Norton had dropped to 6-5 as the two heavyweights wound up their training on Wednesday.

Holmes merely went through some exercises, while Norton included a sparring session in his final drill.

"He don't respect me," said Holmes. "I know he's going to force the fight, but just until I lay a punch on him. He drags his feet and shuffles and that's why I call him 'the mummy.'"

The 28-year-old Holmes said he was still maturing and would win the title a year before he reaches his full potential.

Holmes said he has fought the top fighters either in the professional ring or in gymnasiums and. "I had it tough coming up. I fought everybody they wanted me to fight. I went home a lot of times when I was a youngster with my jaw twisted, but I came back."

Philadelphia Rally Keeps String Alive

By BERT ROSENTHAL
 AP Sports Writer

The sizzling Philadelphia Phillies extended their winning streak to six games, overcoming the San Francisco Giants 5-4 Wednesday night with two runs in the ninth inning.

It was the third time in the past five games Philadelphia has rallied to win in the ninth inning.

"I feel like we ran into a buzz-saw," said Joe Altobelli, the Giants' shell-shocked manager who had seen his team lose three straight one-run games to the Phillies and fall to second place in the National League West, one-half game behind the Cincinnati Reds.

On the other hand, the victory kept alive the recent winning streak of Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark. Just before his team's victory string, which began with three wins over the Los Angeles Dodgers, Ozark had visited Atlantic City's new gambling casino last Thursday and left with a winning bundle. Then that night, he went to the race track — and again he was a winner.

The Houston at Pittsburgh game was rained out.

The Giants tied the score in the fifth on Willie McCovey's three-run double and went ahead 4-3 in the eighth on pinch hitter Mike Ivie's RBI single. But the Phils were ready with their ninth-inning lightning. They tied the score on singles by Bake McBride, Bowa and Schmidt, and won it on pinch hitter Jose Cardenal's single.

Reds 9, Cubs 6
 Undefeated Bill Bonham of Cincinnati, making his first start against his former teammates, gained his seventh victory, although pitching only six innings as the Reds ended the Cubs' five-game winning streak and broke their 10-game victory string at Wrigley Field.

The big hits for the Reds were Mike Lum's two-run single that capped a four-run first inning and a two-run double by Bonham in the fifth. Dave Kingman hit a two-run homer, his 12th, for Chicago.

Expos 4-8, Padres 0-3
 Wayne Twitchell and Bill Atkinson collaborated on a four-hitter and Tony Perez hit his 301st career homer in Montreal's opening victory, the completion of Tuesday night's suspended game.

In the nightcap, Ross Grimsley became the first 10-game winner in the major leagues and Larry Parrish rapped a three-run homer as the Expos pulled within 1½ games of the NL East lead. Grimsley, who has lost twice, checked the Padres on six hits.

Braves 6, Cardinals 0
 Knuckleballer Phil Niekro tantalized and frustrated St. Louis on four singles, and Biff Pocoroba ripped a grand slam homer, leading Atlanta past the stumbling Cardinals, who have lost 20 of their past 27 games. The 39-year-old Niekro, 6-6, struck out two and walked two in hurling his 32nd career shut-out.

Mets 3, Dodgers 2
 Pat Zachry, 7-1, tossed a three-hitter and struck out six in winning his fourth consecutive game for New York.

The Mets broke a 2-2 tie in the eighth when Steve Henderson scored on Ron Hodges' slow grounder to second base with runners at first and third and one out. Second baseman Dave Lopes, whose homer accounted for both Dodgers' runs, said he had no play at the plate on Hodges' bouncer because it was hit too slow.

Bold Ruler was fourth in the 1957 Kentucky Derby but his descendants won that race five straight years, 1973 through 1977.

Gymnastics Camp Set For July

East Carolina University and the National Gymnastics Institute, a division of the National Cheerleaders Association, will hold a gymnastics camp at East Carolina this summer.

The camp will be held July 17 through 21, and all male and female gymnasts, 8 and over, are invited to take part.

The camp will be under the technical direction of Paul Ziert, one of the nation's foremost gymnastic authorities, and coach of the 1977 NCAA Co-Champions. He was selected by the United States Gymnastics Federation as assistant coordinator for the Junior Olympic Development Program and was selected to coach the United States Men's American Cup Gymnastics team.

The camp staff will include former competitors, former Olympians, and national coaches from this and other countries. An instructor ratio of no more than 1 to 10 will be observed in the camp.

Instruction will be offered in floor exercises, uneven bars, beam, vault, rings, pommel horse, parallel bars and high bars. In addition, the staff will provide dance and body movement incorporation, flexibility and strength exercise sessions, instruction on the care and prevention of injuries, and gymnastic spotting and skill techniques for attending coaches.

Further information can be obtained by writing the National Gymnastics Institute, P.O. Box 30674, Dallas, Texas, 75230.

Kunze Named ECU Cage Aide

East Carolina University basketball coach Larry Gillman has announced the appointment of Terry Kunze as an associate coach effective July 1.

Kunze joins the Pirate staff after serving as an assistant coach for the past three seasons at Minnesota to coordinate scouting and aid with coaching and administrative duties as well as recruiting.

The 6-5 Kunze, now 34, was an all-Big Ten performer while an undergraduate at Minnesota. Following his career with the Golden Gophers, he played a year and a half with the St. Louis Hawks and followed that with three and a half years of professional play in Belgium. His experience also includes one year of high school coaching in Minnesota.

Kunze and his wife, Kay, had two children, Kevin and Jeffrey. Kunze replaces Billy Lee on the Pirate staff. Lee was recently appointed head basketball coach at Pembroke State University.

Overall, Not A Good Day For Seattle

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

For Seattle sports fans, the New York Yankees were just adding insult to injury. It was bad enough that the Washington Bullets ended the miracle run of the SuperSonics Wednesday in the National Basketball Association. And the North American Soccer League Sounders were beaten by Rochester while the World Team Tennis Cascades were upended by Golden Gate.

Then the Yankees went out and pounded the Mariners 9-1 as Ron Guidry won his ninth consecutive game without a loss, making Seattle sports teams a dismal 0-4 on the evening. The Toronto Blue Jays' doubleheader at Cleveland and the Kansas City game at Texas were rained out. Reggie Jackson slammed a pair of home runs and Roy White and Bucky Dent also homered as the Yankees broke a four-game losing streak and won for just the second time in the Kingdom in the two years that the Mariners have been in the league. Guidry, who hurled a six-hitter, has won 19 of his last 20 decisions over two seasons, including a World Series and an

AL playoff victory in 1977. His 9-0 start is the fastest by a Yankee since Jim Coates went 9-0 to start the 1960 campaign. Tom Zachery was 12-0 at the outset of 1929.

Tigers 6, Brewers 1
Jim Slaton five-hit his former teammates and Rusty Staub knocked in four runs with a two-run homer, a double and a sacrifice fly. Slaton, who entered the game with a 4.81 earned run average, carried a two-hitter into the ninth.

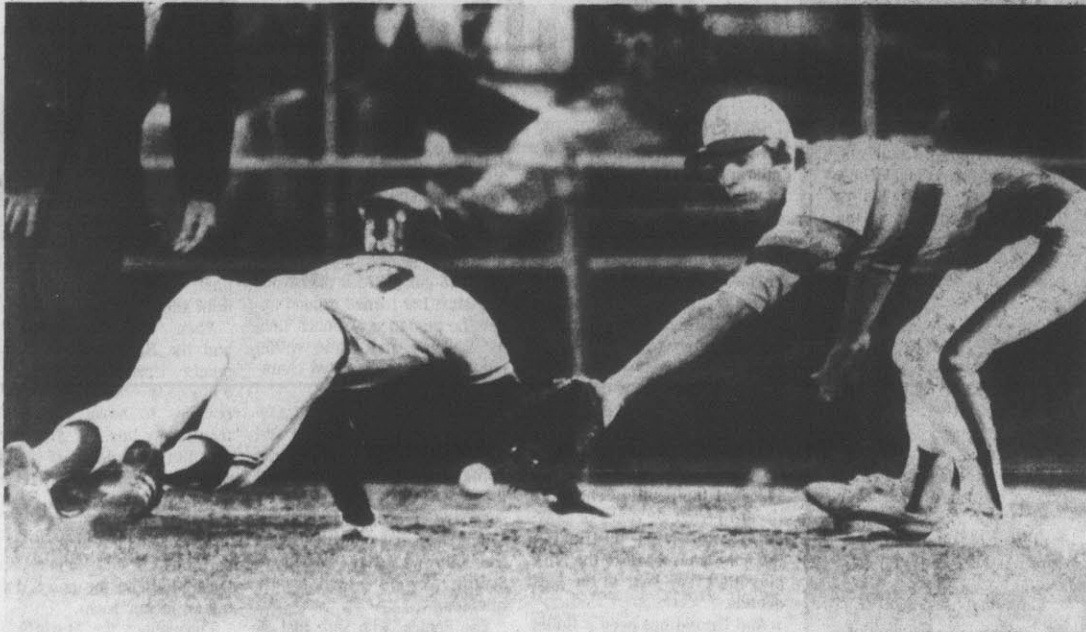

White Sox 6, Twins 3
A six-run second inning highlighted Chicago's 10th victory in its last 11 games. A two-run single by Henry Cruz and an error by Minnesota shortstop Roy Smalley keyed the inning. Ken Kravec, 4-4, who set a career-high with 12 strikeouts, and Jim Willoughby combined on an eight-hitter for the White Sox.

Angels 4-0, A's 1-1
California won the opener as Ken Brett and Paul Hartzell teamed up on a four-hitter and Ron Fairly hit his sixth homer of the season.

Brett, 2-3, was making his first start since May 20 and won for the first time since April 10.

"I was really up mentally," he said, "because this was a big game for me and the team. We've been having trouble on the road and the A's are in first place, so we thought it was important to win this first game." "I didn't want to come out," he added of his removal in the eighth inning. "I tried like hell to talk (Manager Jim) Fregosi out of it, but he wouldn't listen."

California returned to its losing ways away from home in the nightcap as Matt Keough, Bob Lacey and Elias Sosa combined on a five-hitter, Sosa picking up his ninth save.

Mad Dash Back

Southern California's John Wells dives back to first as North Carolina first baseman Jim Rouse reaches for the attempted pickoff throw in the third inning of

Wednesday night's NCAA College Baseball World Series game an Omaha. Rouse missed the throw and Wells moved to second. Southern Cal won, 3-2, eliminating the Tar Heels from the tournament. (AP Laserphoto)

Southern Cal Rally Sends Heels Home; Trojans Meet Sun Devils

By ELLEN HADDOW
Associated Press Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The top-ranked Southern California Trojans said they weren't scared by their near loss to North Carolina although Coach Rod Dedeaux admitted he was "hiding under the dugout."

"That's as close a call as we've had in any College World Series game," Dedeaux said. He ought to know. His Trojans have won 10 NCAA titles with him in the coaching box. North Carolina, on the other hand, was rated an underdog in the series but went home with a tie for third place after losing

3-2 to Southern Cal Wednesday night. The Trojans, 53-9, take on Arizona State tonight. It will be the championship game if the Trojans win. But if the Sun Devils, who suffered their only loss of the series to USC Tuesday night, can win, the title would be decided Friday night.

Arizona State got seven strong innings out of starter Casey Lindsey and erupted for four runs in the sixth inning and five in the ninth to hammer Miami out of the tournament, 11-3.

Gilbert Looking For That Break

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

MEMPHIS (AP) — Journeyman Gibby Gilbert, one of those accomplished but unspectacular laborers on the pro golf tournament trail, could be a decided threat in the $250,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic.

field over the hilly, 7,249-yard, par-72 Colonial Country Club course. Chief among them are Lee Trevino, a two-time winner here and South African Gary Player, who started a string of three consecutive victories in the Masters, and defending champion Al Geiberger, who shot that incredible 59 in the second round of the 1977 Memphis event.

"All I need is a break," Gilbert said before teeing off today in the first round of the chase for a $50,000 first prize.

The 37-year old veteran of 11 years on the tour has collected three titles. None have come this season. But, he said, he's playing the best golf of his life. "I've never played like this before," said the stocky, sturdy Gilbert, the 1976 Memphis champ. "Oh, for a round or two, maybe a whole tournament, but never for an extended period."

"I'm playing the best I know how, the best I can. Every shot is coming off just right."

"All I need is a break. You know, the difference between winning and a top 10 finish is just about this much," he said, and held thumb and forefinger about one-half inch apart. "Just that much. The difference is just one break, one shot at the key time. That's what makes you a winner instead of finishing fifth."

Gilbert has won $33,710 in his last five starts and $57,831 for the year. His big check came in a tie for second at New Orleans, won by Lon Hinkle's spectacular finish.

"That's as good as I can play," Gilbert said. "From the lead (at the end of 54 holes), I shoot 67 and that's not good enough. I can't play better than that."

Although many of the game's top names are taking this week off to prepare for the U.S. Open, Gilbert faces a strong field over the hilly, 7,249-yard, par-72 Colonial Country Club course. Chief among them are Lee Trevino, a two-time winner here and South African Gary Player, who started a string of three consecutive victories in the Masters, and defending champion Al Geiberger, who shot that incredible 59 in the second round of the 1977 Memphis event.

Portions of the final two rounds will be televised by CBS-TV.

OVERTIME KING

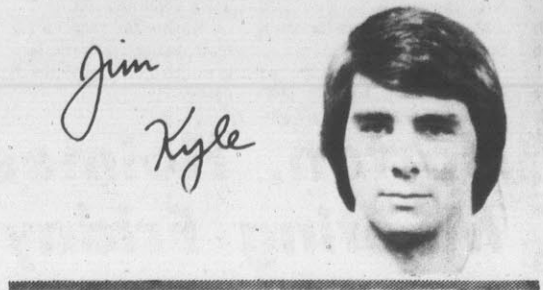

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Sudol, a retired National League umpire, rates as the longevity king of the men in blue. Sudol was the plate umpire in three baseball marathons, all involving the New York Mets.

Ed was calling the balls and strikes on May 31, 1964, when the Mets lost to the San Francisco Giants, 8-6, in 23 innings. The game ran on for a record seven hours and 23 minutes.

Sudol again was behind the plate on April 15, 1968, when the Mets dropped a 1-0 decision to the Astros in the Houston Astrodome. The game lasted 24 innings.

And Ed was the plate umpire on Sept. 11, 1974, when the Mets lost to the St. Louis Cardinals, 4-3, in 25 innings.

Movie actor Bruce Dern competed in track at the University of Pennsylvania and ran on the mile relay team.

THE TOP PICK in Friday's NBA draft is still uncertain as teams get in their last-minute dicker-

The Indiana Pacers have the first shot, but they might be persuaded to trade it away. A deal involving George McGinnis of Philadelphia has been mentioned. If that should come about, Philadelphia is expected to take Phil Ford of North Carolina as the first pick.

Should Indiana hold onto the top choice, it is expected to go after a big man, such as Kentucky's Rick Robey or Minnesota's Mychal Thompson. The Pacers would really like to have Indiana State's Larry Bird as a home draw, but Bird, who has a year of eligibility left if he wants it, has said he would turn pro to play only at Portland or Phoenix.

Kansas City has the second pick and needs a ball-handling guard and a forward. The Portland Trail Blazers pick three times in the first round, third, seventh and 22nd. The New York Nets have the fourth choice, but may trade it away to the Knicks, whom they owe $3.2 million in a settlement when they joined the NBA.

Six teams, Detroit, Los Angeles, Houston, Cleveland, Buffalo and Denver, don't even pick in the first round.

All of the teams will be trying to avoid a poor first pick, like Milwaukee's choice of Kent Benson last season, and to come up with a real "find" like Phoenix did in drafting Walter Davis from UNC, last season's rookie of the year.

PITT COUNTY'S AMERICAN Legion baseball team has gotten off to a blazing start this season, winning its first three regular-season games, as well as a pre-season contest.

The Post 39 team, made up mostly of Rose High players, gained a narrow 6-5 victory over Williamston in the first game of the regular season after downing the same team 15-2 in a game that didn't count in the Area 1 Eastern Division standings.

The team then gained a lop-sided 27-4 victory over Goldsboro Saturday night and defeated Washington 7-1 Tuesday night. It will host Wilson tonight at 8 p.m.

Post 39 starts around seven players from last season's Rose High School team that went to the state playoffs. Four infielders are Rampants, first baseman Will Sanderson, second baseman Ronnie Chapman, shortstop Greg Lee and catcher Skip Topping. Mike Shank from Rose starts in center field, while Robert Morehead is a sometimes starter in right.

D. H. Conley's Nuggie Worthington gets the nod in left, while another former Viking, Kevin Adams, starts at third. Marshall Heath from Greenville Christian has also started in right.

The pitching staff consists of only two starters, both right handers, and this could cause problems for the team. The pair is Rose's Mike Williams and Chocowinity's Billy Mitchell. Both are excellent hurlers, but coach Ed Hooks has little in the way of relief pitching.

WILLIAMS STARTED IN the league game against Williamston and barely escaped with the win after giving up five runs in the third inning. He struggled through the first few frames and threw a ton of pitches.

In the second game, Mitchell was on the mound and did a commendable job, but looked even better at the plate. He pitched an eight-hitter, giving up two earned runs, and was 5-6 in the hitting department, including a double and a three-run triple. He had seven runs batted in.

Williams fared much better in the third game of the season against Washington, throwing a two-hitter with nine strikeouts and no walks. He tossed a lot fewer pitches in the game, but was disappointed it was called after seven innings due to rain. He wanted to go a full nine frames without a walk.

Defense has been a plus for the squad thus far, and should continue to be. In the three league games, Pitt County has committed just five errors. The infield has shown up well, with Lee having turned in some sensational plays. The outfield has been responsible for only one of the team's errors.

Hitting has not been a problem, either. Post 39 turned in seven hits in the first game, 19 in the second and eight in the third. Besides Mitchell's 5-6 performance, Sanderson is 7-12 on the year and Chapman 5-9. Both Sanderson and Chapman have a pair of doubles to their credit, while Chapman slapped a home run in the team's Tuesday night outing.

Sparky Wants Player Vote On Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — Sparky Anderson, who has managed the National League in four All-Star games, says the players, not ballot-box stuffing fans, should have the last word on who gets in the summer showpiece.

"I think it's good that fans get to vote. I don't think it should be taken very seriously for the simple reason that fans vote on popularity," the Cincinnati Reds' skipper said Wednesday.

"I would like to see the fans vote and the players vote and where they differ the players' vote should override," he added. "I think you'd have maybe one difference in the top eight men. But I think that decision should be righted because the players really do know."

Results of the first week of voting for the National League team were released this week and two Reds, second baseman Joe Morgan and third baseman Pete Rose, were tops at their positions.

But Los Angeles, beaten in the 1977 World Series by the New York Yankees, fared better. First baseman Steve Garvey and catcher Steve Yeager, who was batting .202 going into Wednesday night's game with the New York Mets, got more votes than anyone else at their positions. The Dodgers also picked up the second most votes at the other three infield positions and had three of the top six outfielders.

"Anybody that's been in the World Series the year before, I promise you, look at his ballots the next year. Television exposes them to 90 million people," Anderson said.

Television also affects the All-Star cast in another way, he said.

"The people sitting home watching television don't want to see Joe Doakes. You could bring Mickey Mantle back and Ted Williams back and they would get a lot of votes."

Anderson said his players are doing well in the voting, considering the Reds have played just three home games since it began.

"Watch when our ballots come in. They'll come in by the boxcar load," he said. In all cities, he added, holding his hands a foot apart, "you'll see some kids with a stack of ballots like that."

Is Anderson glad he's not managing in the July 11 All-Star Game at San Diego and picking the National League substitutes?

"No, because it means we didn't win (the National League title). But it is a headache," he said. "The toughest thing the manager has to do is he has to repay the people who got him there. I had to do it. (Dodger Manager Tom) LaSorda has to do it. Those guys get you there and they know it. They want a little payback and I don't blame them. Say Yeager finishes second or third. How do you think he'll feel if he's not picked?"

"The All-Star Game, to me, should be their best 28 against our best 28."

Babe Ruth

Planters Bank 12, Aaction Movers 6

Planters Bank rallied for six runs in the fifth inning and recorded a 12-6 victory over Aaction Movers last night in the Babe Ruth League.

A second game, between Wachovia Bank and Pepsi-Cola was postponed until this afternoon at 5 p.m. on the E.B. Aycock field.

Planters started the action in the first inning with two runs. Ted Gartman reached on a fielder's choice and with two away, Mike Pollard singled. Gordon Douglas singled to score Gartman, and Keith Phillips walked, loading the bases. Larry Talbert reached on an error, scoring Pollard.

Aaction came up with two in the fourth to tie it up. Ken Barnes walked and stole second. Jaime Byrd singled and Barnes scored on the play. Brian Dye reached on an error, scoring Byrd.

Planters then scored six in the fifth to run out to an 8-2 lead. Pollard walked and Douglas singled. Phillips walked, loading the bases. Talbert singled in Pollard, and Jim Whitehurst reached on an error, scoring Douglas. Bobby Gantt singled in Phillips, and Crowell Pope doubled to score Talbert, Whitehurst and Gantt.

Planters added three in the sixth and one in the seventh. Aaction added three more in the sixth and one in the seventh.

Planters got only two hits off Pollard. Pope led Planters with four hits, while Douglas had three and Pollard added two.

Little League

Coca-Cola 2, Jaycees 0

Coca-Cola got shutout pitching from Mike Smith as it gained a 2-0 victory over the Jaycees in the North State Little League yesterday.

Smith gave up four hits in getting the shutout.

Both of Coke's runs came in the third inning. Lee Allen led off with a walk and with two outs, Jimmy Smith doubled. Aaron Smith walked, loading the bases, and Darryl Pettis got a hit, scoring both Allen and Smith for the 2-0 score.

Coke got only four hits off Jordy Smith of the Jaycees, but made them count. Pettis picked up two of the four.

Moose 9, Exchange 3

The Moose came up with seven fourth-inning runs to gain a 9-3 victory over Tar Heel Little League-leading Exchange yesterday.

The win left the Moose, along with Pepsi-Cola, just a game behind the Exchange in the standings.

The Moose grabbed the initial lead with two runs in the first. Billy Godley walked and Eric Woodworth reached on a fielder's choice. Daryl Perkins walked, loading the bases. A walk to Kevin Baker forced in Godley, and Woodworth scored on a passed ball.

The Exchange came back to tie it up with two in the third. Joe Hobgood singled and Tim Clark walked. Tim Norris singled in Hobgood, and Clark scored on an error on the play.

Then, in the fourth, the Moose exploded for seven runs to put the game away. Will Pope led off with a walk, and Charlie Littleton and Greg Jones also walked, loading the bases. Scott Garris walked, forcing in Pope. Godley also walked, scoring Littleton. Woodworth singled to score Jones, and a hit by Perkins brought in Garris. Godley stole home, and an error allowed Woodworth and Perkins to score, giving the Moose a 9-2 lead.

The other Exchange run came in the sixth.

The Moose got only two hits, with no one getting more than one. Exchange had only three off Godley, with Norris having two of those.

Putters Win Again

Quincy Scarborough led the Greenville putters to a 13-stroke victory over runner-up Rocky Mount in Eastern Regional Putt-Putt competition. Wilson finished third, 36 strokes behind Greenville.

Greenville continues to lead the league with a 30-stroke advantage over Rocky Mount. They are 70 ahead of Wilson.

Scarborough shot a 54-hole total of 83, 25 under par. Ken Parmore had an 87, Junior Knox had 90, Bobby Ippock had 91, and Rob Ericson, 92.

The next match will be Monday night at Wilson.

Rose Baseball Winners

CARE THREE DECADES

Improved rice seedlings, donated by Care, are picked by women in Philippine rice seedlings nursery beds.

CARE is now 30 years old. And while "Care package" in its original sense of a box of relief supplies has become part of the language, it's no longer a part of what Care offers. For the kind of help the voluntary agency delivers has evolved into something different and more complex.

The first Care packages arrived in war-torn Europe in 1946, the last of them were sent off in 1967. By then well over 100 million had gone out. But by then, too, Care aid was already diversifying. It had come to include, as it does today, mass child feeding, emergency disaster relief, medical and development assistance of many kinds. That could mean help with schools, nutrition and health centers, farm-to-market roads, water systems, irrigation and other agricultural projects. Such programs, some of them shown in the pictures on this page, are now going on in 37 countries, in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East.

Through the generosity of millions of United States and Canadian citizens, in its three decades Care has provided $1.9 billion-worth of aid for families in 77 nations.

Did The Spaniards Beat Captain Cook To Hawaii?

By ROBERT C. MILLER
HONOLULU (UPI) — New historical research raises doubts that the British crews of the ships Resolution and Discovery, Capt. James Cook commanding, were the first Europeans to set eyes and feet on Hawaii 200 years ago.

Australian researcher Robert Langdon's probe of the dusty logs, ancient archives and thorough examination of a 16th century Spanish chart has convinced him that the Spaniards knew about and visited Hawaii years before the mainmast lookouts aboard Resolution raised the verdant Koolau Range on Oahu at dawn Jan. 18, 1778.

Robert Rothwell's research reveals an ancient Hawaiian legend which tells of two light-skinned persons — believed to be brother and sister — who survived a pre-Cook shipwreck and later married into a Hawaiian royal family. The legend says one of the descendants became king of Kauai.

Lawyer and amateur historian Wendell Carlsmith bases his theory of Spanish discovery on an ancient Spanish map showing a group of islands called "La Mesa" and "Los Monges" located at the same latitude as Hawaii.

A book based on Spanish sources by John W. Stalley credits the Spanish navigator

Juan Gaetano with Hawaii's discovery 60 years after Columbus landed in America.

To all the Spanish discovery theories Hawaii Pacific College historian Geoffrey Detmold and English professor emeritus A. Grove Day of the University of Hawaii say, "Kohu'ole." English translation: "Ridiculous."

The introduction of venereal disease into the islands is used by both camps to support their arguments. Dr. David Samwell, the ship's surgeon aboard the Resolution, blamed the Spaniards for introducing syphilis among the amoral Polynesians. But Detmold says Cook mentioned in his journal that his sailors were responsible, and noted in his journal that in the ten months between his first and second visits to Hawaii, the disease had spread from the islands of Niihau and Kauai to Oahu and Maui.

There is agreement by both sides that a chart probably prepared more than a century before Cook's landing on Kauai is authentic. The disagreement is whether it was made of the Hawaiian Islands or the northern Marianas.

Carlsmith said the island in the group named "La Mesa" (the table) most certainly could have been the forbidden island of Niihau, or possibly the island of Hawaii which, if approached from the south, resembles a high plateau.

The Spanish chart was captured in 1743 by British Commodore George Anson who intercepted the Manila-bound galleon Nuestra Senora de Cabadongo off Samar Island in the Philippines and forced its surrender after a brief battle. Included in the booty along with 1,313,843 pieces of eight and 35,682 ounces of pure silver from the mines of Mexico, was a chart marking the track of the Acapulco-Manila galleons across the Pacific.

The islands of La Mesa and Los Monges (the monk) are at the same latitude as the Hawaiian Islands, but the longitude given is about 70 degrees away.

But the point is made that although latitude could be accurately fixed by navigators at that time, longitude could only be reckoned as chronometers had not yet been invented. Thus, errors in longitude were to be expected. Carswell points out that the longitude of Singapore was 10 degrees off its actual location on the Spanish charts of the 16th and 17th centuries.

Rothwell's examination of the controversial chart has convinced him that the island of La Mesa was actually the island of Kahoolawe, not Niihau, and the island shown on the chart as lying to the southeast was the island of Hawaii, described on the map as "Gateway Rock." Rothwell says the crudely drawn chart has a striking resemblance to today's maps of Upolu Point, the Hamakua coast, the Kona coast and south point on the island of Hawaii.

But Day asks what resemblance the other islands on the chart have to Maui, Oahu, Molokai or Kauai. He says "absolutely none."

A thorough search of every Spanish museum has failed to locate one galleon log book that mentions the equivalent of the Hawaiian Islands. And there were plenty of logs.

For more than 250 years, starting early in the 16th century, the Spaniards sailed at least one, and often two or more galleons back and forth across the Pacific between Acapulco and Manila. Each followed a precisely laid out course which took them well south of the Hawaiian chain.

Day said it is incomprehensible that the galleons would not have logged and used the islands had they known of their existence. "The attraction of converting the Hawaiians to Christianity would have been reason enough," he said. "An opportunity to get fresh water, fruits and food would certainly have enticed the Spaniards to establish a foothold here."

Detmold said it was not until 1789 that a Spanish naval officer, E.J. Martinez, urged the viceroy of New Spain to lay claim to the islands, and the first Spanish ship to officially record a visit did not arrive until the spring of 1791.

Carlsmith said the discovery of Hawaii by the Spaniards could well have been kept secret for fear the Russians, who had moved into Alaska, would venture south and jeopardize the Acapulco-Manila trade route.

"The Spanish had a workable route from Acapulco to Manila via Guam," Goldsmith said. "It was a satisfactory route. Why change it? To have established and maintained a colony just for the comfort of the galleon crews made little sense to the Spaniards who fatalistically expected large percentages of the galleon crews to perish from scurvy and overmanned the ships to compensate for the expected losses."

The possibility that some ship-wrecked Spaniards reached Hawaii and ended their lives married to Polynesian royalty rests on circumstantial evidence and is vaguely mentioned in legend.

The old Spanish records show that between 1576 and 1705, five galleons were lost, all on the return trip from Manila to Acapulco. The route of the galleons was always well south of the islands. The National Weather Service in Honolulu said many of the storms spawned along this route today move from the south and southeast to the north and northwest. These so-called "Kona winds" could have blown a distressed ship or its survivors onto the islands.

Langdon pointed out that the Hawaiians who greeted Cook had bits and pieces of iron that most certainly came from a foreign source.

The Bishop Museum in Honolulu discovered two unusual items in the burial vault of chief Lono-a-ka-makahiki about 25 years ago. One was an 8-foot-long piece of cloth that resembled sailcloth, and the other was a wooden-handled iron chisel. Lono-a-ka-makahiki is believed to have died long before the Resolution and Discovery came to Hawaii.

Ninety-year-old William Meinecke, who was born and raised in the southern part of the island of Hawaii, told Carlsmith that there were two groups of Hawaiians in the Ka'u district who had always been considered aliens by the rest of the populace.

They were known as the "ehus" and the "ehukais." They had sandy, reddish hair and lighter colored skins than the other Hawaiians. Meinecke said all the Hawaiians knew about them was that they had been there for generations and were considered a race apart.

Carlsmith claimed the Hawaiian headdress, known as a "mahiole", is almost identical in shape to the Spanish helmets worn in the 16th and 17th centuries.

The legend of the light-skinned brother and sister was first published 55 years ago by W.D. Westervelt in his book, "Hawaiian Historic Legends."

Westervelt told how the couple — watched secretly by the Hawaiians — knelt in prayer for a long time after reaching shore. They said that henceforth the place was called "Kulou," which means kneeling in Hawaiian.

There is a valley on Oahu less than ten miles from Honolulu known today as "Kuioueu Valley". It's translation? "Kneeling."

Aim Ruling At 'Lemons'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Your chances of buying a lemon from a used car dealer would be reduced under a proposed rule expected to be made public next month by the Federal Trade Commission staff.

The proposal, now being put into final form, would require dealers to inspect used cars before they sell them, and to post windshield stickers telling of mechanical or safety defects.

The idea is that used car dealers are likely to correct the defects before putting a car bearing such a sticker on the sales lot.

Dealers say the proposal would increase their costs, meaning higher prices for customers.

"We would require sellers to inspect their cars...and to disclose to the buyer the results of the inspection," says Albert Kramer, director of the FTC bureau of consumer protection.

The proposal still has to be cleared by Kramer before it goes to the commission for a final vote. If the FTC approves the proposed new rule, as expected, it would go into effect late this year.

The rule would apply only to the nation's estimated 35,000 used car dealers and not to individuals selling second-hand cars to each other.

The FTC says that while about 12.5 million used car sales are reported each year by dealers, estimates of the number of used cars bought and sold in private transactions range up to 39 million.

Used car dealers are expected to reaffirm their opposition when the staff proposal is published in July for public comment.

Order Bottling By The Liter

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — After a long debate, the state Assembly has given final legislative approval to a bill that orders liquor and wine to be bottled by the liter starting in 1980.

"Those lands where democracy is strongest use measuring systems related to the human body — the foot, the hand, the distance between thumb and forefinger," complained Assemblyman Mark Siegel, D-Manhattan, during Tuesday's debate.

"It shows in their measuring systems, which display an appreciation for human values, not just numbers."

"The metric system is a very, very bad idea." The measure, approved earlier by the state Senate, now goes to the governor.

Health Services Generate Jobs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The myriad of health services here generates more than 55,000 jobs for Kansas City area residents, according to a recent study by city officials.

Compared to the city's growing convention and tourism industry, which employs 12,700 persons, medical care is big business. Health-related jobs comprised 9.6 percent of regional employment during 1977, according to the study, compared to 2.2 percent in the convention industry.

May Bring Safeguards To Automatic Tellers

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — When the statement from Olive Koenig's savings and loan association said $1,350 had been withdrawn from her account, she thought it was a computer error that would be corrected.

But Mrs. Koenig never got back her money.

By using her stolen "debit card," which looks much like a credit card, and by knowing her identification number, someone withdrew the money without her knowledge through one of the Columbus, Ohio, institution's automatic teller machines.

Such devices allow bank and savings and loan customers to make withdrawals at any time by using an identification number plus the debit card.

Complaints to Congress from Mrs. Koenig and others may lead to the first federal safeguards on the 24-hour teller facilities.

The House Banking Committee is expected to report out this week a bill limiting to $50 a customer's liability for unauthorized withdrawals. The full Senate is expected to take up a similar bill late this month.

The estimated 8,000 "24-hour teller" machines across the country handle an average 2,000 transactions a month. Many machines are outside banks and savings and loan buildings; in some states they are in shopping centers and at other locations.

As most automatic tellers are used now, a customer has no way to prove he did not make every withdrawal charged to his account. Nor is a signature required, only an identification number. Financial institutions, courts have found, are not liable for unauthorized use of debit cards.

Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., sponsor of the House bill, said it would be the bank legislation "dealing with the so-called checkless, cashless society."

"There are no federal regulations protecting consumers from losing their life's savings in electronic funds transfers," Annunzio said.

He said that because the debit cards resemble credit cards, many consumers incorrectly assume they are protected by the same laws that guard against unauthorized credit card use.

Both Senate and House bills would limit a customer's liability for unauthorized debit card use to $50, the same as for credit cards.

The legislation also would require financial institutions to provide monthly statements.

The American Bankers Association, which had opposed the legislation, now generally supports the bills. Speaking of the Annunzio version, A. A. Milligan, president of the organization, said last week, "The bill recognizes and builds constructively upon the principles of customer protection which have matured through several decades of banking innovation."

Center Dedicated To Late Ledonia Wright

ECU News Bureau
The Afro-American Culture Center at East Carolina University has been dedicated to the late Ledonia Smith Wright, until her death in June, 1976, a member of the community health faculty in the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions.

The ECU Board of Trustees voted at its spring meeting to rename the center.

The action "recognized and honored a minority woman professor who was committed to students, the university community and community at large," said Dr. Donald Ensley, also of the ECU community health faculty.

"Her 'yeoman-like' drive in assisting ECU's Health Affairs Division in the establishment of the campus Center for Student Opportunities in indicative of her commitment to increase the number of minorities in the health services field," he added.

According to Dr. Donald Dancy, chairperson of the ECU Department of Community Health, Mrs. Wright was an active counselor of minority students during her tenure as a faculty member.

"She was most effective in motivating students to work hard, plan ahead and prepare themselves for careers in the health professions.

"The fact that ECU's degree program in community health now has a larger percentage of black students than any other on campus can be largely attributed to Mrs. Wright's efforts," he said.

Mrs. Wright has also been recognized by the establishment of the Lonia S. Wright Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Individuals or organizations who wish to contribute to the fund or desire further information about it may write to Mary L. Williams at ECU's Joyner Library or to Dr. Lilla Holsey of the ECU School of Home Economics.

Mrs. Wright held degrees from

N. C. Central and Shaw Universities, and did additional study at the UNC-Chapel Hill School of Public Health and at Boston and Yale Universities.
She was a native of Hamlet.

Two Workshops For Counselors

ECU News Bureau
Two recent workshops on the behavioral approach to marriage counseling were conducted by East Carolina University faculty member David Knox for the clinical staff of Barren River Comprehensive Care Center in Glasgow and Bowling Green, Kentucky.

Dr. Knox's presentations were based on his "Marital Exercise Book" (McKay, 1975), which emphasizes that happiness or unhappiness in marriage is a result of the behavior spouses engage in.

Emphasis On Suburban News Bureaus

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Some local TV news works in a city may have one, even two suburban bureaus. But KRON-TV here has four, located 13 to 55 miles outside the city by the bay. Why?

Simple, says Mitch Farris, KRON's news director. You've got to regularly report news from where the bulk of the population is. And San Francisco is a unique kind of market.

In most metropolitan areas, he says, most residents live in the central or "core" city. But here, only about 21 percent do. The rest live in suburban counties and towns outside San Francisco.

He says there's been a "widely known historical apathy to news programming in this market," the nation's sixth largest TV arena serving 1.8 million TV-equipped households.

Research shows, he adds, "that a primary reason for this apathy was the fact that nobody was really reporting on news of immediate concern to the folks where they live."

And so, after a trial run, KRON last fall went what the youthful Farris calls "full-tilt boogie" with a revamped news operation emphasizing reports from its four new out-of-town outposts.

The old heavy blast of news about the city was reduced — "San Francisco was being covered to death," he says — and the news output from the heavily populated hinterlands greatly increased.

The KRON outposts are in San Jose (Santa Clara County) and Redwood City (San Mateo County), respectively 55 and 25 miles to the south, and Oakland (Alameda County) and Walnut Creek (Contra Costa County), 13 and 25 miles to the east.

Farris, who joined KRON last May from Frank Magid Associates, the controversial news consulting firm, says 22 staffers in all, from newshawk to sound person, now regularly work the suburbs here.

Their four bureaus feed reports for KRON's newscasts on film, tape, and often live, but not as unrelated slices of suburbia.

What they try to do, he says, are "local-universal" stories

"that may originate in one city but have relevance, interest and sometimes great importance to other places."

An example of this, he says, is a recent story on how Santa Clara keeps reducing its property taxes each year; the yarn was followed by reports on property taxes in other Bay area cities.

Opening lead: Nine of ♠.

The two-way finesse can be a treacherous holding because either defender can be played for the missing honor. But the safest way to negotiate this finesse is to avoid taking it at all! Watch South's technique on this hand.

In view of his multitude of aces and kings, North's hand was worth more than 21 points. Therefore, we would have opened two no trump rather than one diamond. However, that would have had no bearing on the final contract, except that, with North as declarer, East might have led a heart (our choice would be the ten of clubs), which would have solved declarer's problem. Fortunately, South was a skillful dummy player.

West led his top spade, won in dummy. There was a multitude of chances for fulfilling the slam. Declarer had eleven tricks on top, and the twelfth would develop if either minor suit broke 3-3. In addition, there was the heart finesse, or a possibility of a squeeze or end play. Declarer managed to engineer a sure-lick line.

Declarer set about testing the minor suits. After winning the spade, declarer cashed three top diamonds. East discarded a heart on the third diamond, so that chance came to naught. Next declarer played off his top clubs, but again he was frustrated when West sluffed a spade on the third round.

It seemed that declarer's best chance was to rely on the heart finesse, but he did not yet know which way to take it. Before committing himself in hearts, he decided to play off his last two spade winners, ending in his hand, to see what he could learn about the distribution. On the last spade, East let go another heart.

By now declarer knew that East had started with two spades, two diamonds, four clubs and, therefore, five hearts. Thus it would seem that the chances were strong of finding East with the queen of hearts. A glance at the diagram is sufficient to show that, had declarer finessed East for the queen, he would have gone down.

Instead, declarer simply exited with a club. East won but was forced to lead a heart, and no matter who held the queen, the slam was guaranteed.

Judy Complains Of Brutality

CINCINNATI (AP) — Actress Judy Carne, taking the stand in her own defense, has charged that she was beaten and humiliated by police when arrested on drug charges last Nov. 11.

Miss Carne, who is on trial on charges of possession of heroin and obtaining a tranquilizer with a forged prescription, said Wednesday she was struck in her kidneys by two narcotics agents, handcuffed in an uncomfortable position during a five-hour interrogation and forced to undress in the presence of several officers.

"I felt they had a lot of animosity to me. I think they enjoyed the fact I was an entertainer. I found this police force here was particularly harsh on me," said Miss Carne, who denied she was in a Harrison, Ohio, drug store on Nov. 10, the day the forged prescription allegedly was passed. Miss Carne said she was alone in her room studying a script at the time.

The accusations were denied by four narcotics officers called as rebuttal witnesses.

Grifton's Recreation Program Is Announced

GRIFTON — The Grifton Summer Recreation Program will begin June 19 in the Grifton Town Park.

The eight-week program includes all children from age four and up. Activities will include badminton, races, singing, dodgeball, volleyball, softball, and dramatics, to name a few.

Park hours will be from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., with lunch from noon until 1 p.m. The park will be supervised at all times.

Co-directors for the program are Mrs. William Bollinger and Mrs. Michael Gentry. Misses Rex Anne Thorne and Cindy Potter will assist. All are experienced in crafts and sports and have worked with the recreation program in past summers.

A registration fee of $5 per child will be charged. Parents must also fill out an emergency information card. The fee allows each child to attend all Park activities throughout the summer.

Accident insurance is available under the Town of Grifton for $4 per child. Children who have already paid this fee under the Small Fry, Little League or Babe Ruth programs are covered. This insurance fee covers all under the Town of Grifton Recreation activities for one year such as the Small Fry and Little League football programs.

The Grifton Jaycees hope to have the new park building ready by June 19. If construction is not finished, activities will not be held on rainy days. However, upon completion, all activities will be held, rain or shine.

The Grifton Park is located on St. David St. The recreation program is sponsored by the Town of Grifton. For more information, contact one of the recreation program directors or Mrs. Janet Haseley, 524-4356.

Employers Asked Open Youth Jobs

James Hannan, manager of the local Job Service office, has called on local business and civic leaders in Pitt County to make special efforts to open up job opportunities for young people.

"Joblessness among the 16 to 21 year old age group is serious," Hannan commented. "No community can afford idleness among unsuccessful young job seekers."

Concerted emphasis is being placed on efforts by officials across North Carolina to provide work for the summer youth market, Governor James Hunt, Jr., has written chambers of commerce soliciting their cooperation in youth employment programs.

"Our office needs job orders before any success can be achieved in an effective summer youth job program," Hannan said.

Employers who have job opportunities of any nature or duration are encouraged to contact the Employment Security Commission, Job Service Office at 3101 Bismarck Street — telephone 756-2686. "For any job order, permanent or temporary, we'll send a sufficient number of applicants so that the employer will be able to make his own selection of the best applicants," Hannan said.

Water Exceeds Bacteria Limit

Graydon Jackson of Jackson's Mobile Home Park reports that analyses of samples taken during the April reporting period showed a coliform bacteria concentration above the maximum contaminant level listed in the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency's National Interim Primary Drinking Water Regulations.

Although there is no routine laboratory procedure for determining the presence of specific disease-producing bacteria in drinking water, coliform bacteria is normally found in the intestinal tract of man or other warm blooded animals and is readily detected. Therefore, the presence of this non-disease producing bacteria is used to indicate that some contamination has occurred.

The system has been disinfected and repeat samples show the water to be free from coliform bacteria.

If you have any questions concerning this notice, please call Mr. Graydon Jackson, Owner, at 758-2366, or write to Route 1, Box 527, Winter, N.C. 28590.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Hot weather is forecast today for the West and cool weather is expected for the upper Great Lakes and part of the northern Plains. Most of the country is going to be warm to mild. Clear skies are forecast for most areas but showers are due in the Southeast and north-central region. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms were widespread over North Carolina Wednesday and little change in this weather pattern was seen for today. In fact, increased moisture pointed to the probability of heavier rains today, especially in the mountains and foothills.

The National Weather Service cautioned that residents in the mountains and foothills should be on their guard against quickly rising water.

Some of Wednesday's thunderstorms were severe, especially in the south and east portions of the state. Tornado sightings were reported, one east of Windsor in Bertie County and the other in eastern Duplin County. Neither was confirmed.

Temperatures ranged in the 80s around the state Wednesday and were expected to reach about the same levels today. Wilmington was one of the warmest spots with a high of 88 degrees.

The warm, humid, showery weather is expected to continue for at least the next two days, with showers decreasing by the weekend.
