Earthquake Rocks Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — An undersea earthquake stronger than any recorded in the world so far this year rocked central and northern Japan today, killing 10 persons and injuring 69 others, the national police reported.

The quake originated off Japan's Pacific Coast and hit hardest at Miyagi Prefecture, about 180 miles north of Tokyo. All of the deaths occurred there, including two persons killed by falling telephone poles and two crushed in a house under construction in Sendai, the prefectural capital, police said.

Also in Miyagi, the quake destroyed seven houses, started fires in two others, cut roads in seven places and set off seven landslides, the police said.

Seismologists registered the strongest tremor at 7.5 or 8 on the Richter scale — devastating power if it had been centered in a populated area.

A tidal wave warning was issued for the northeast coast, but the first wave to hit the coast, about 30 minutes after the first late-afternoon tremor, measured less than seven inches. It was followed by other small waves causing no damage. The Central Meteorological Agency later lifted the warning.

In Tokyo, telephone service was disrupted in some areas and officials said some water mains may have been broken. Bottles and cans fell from shelves in stores and homes.

The meteorological agency said the epicenter of the quake was beneath the Pacific Ocean off northern Japan's Miyagi Prefecture. It reported a weakish tremor at 5:06 p.m. and a much stronger shock nine minutes later that registered about 7.5 on the Richter scale at the epicenter, 5 on the Japanese scale of 7 at Sendai, Ohfunato and Mito, 150 to 200 miles north of Tokyo, and 4 on the Japanese scale in Tokyo and Yokohama.

Local Option Bill's Supporters Confident Over Vote In Senate

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Although local-option liquor-by-the-drink legislation has not yet finished its journey through the North Carolina General Assembly, business leaders and elections officials are confident it will soon become law.

One sign of that is growing speculation over just when voters will go to the polls to decide the fate of liquor-by-the-drink in their own communities.

The state Senate convenes tonight to consider amendments that were tacked on to its mixed-drink bill when it was approved last week by the House.

The legislation allows communities with state liquor-store (ABC) systems to hold referendums on whether to allow the sale of mixed drinks restaurants and clubs that have more than 50 percent of their sales in food.

Among the amendments is one that would prohibit the current practice of "brown-bagging" in any locality that approves the sale of mixed drinks.

Assuming the two chambers settle on a final version of the bill, local referendums on liquor-by-the-drink would probably be held in August or September, elections officials and supporters of the bill said in interviews Sunday.

It has been reported that such referendums might be held to coincide with the November general election, but according to state law, the referendums could not be held on that day or within 45 days before or after the general election.

And Martha McLaughlin, supervisor of the Wake County Board of Elections, said other election laws make a referendum impossible before about Aug. 22.

She said a realistic time span for a referendum this year would therefore be between Aug. 22 and Sept. 19. A referendum could also be held Dec. 26, but Mrs.

McLaughlin said that was unlikely.

Rep. H. Parks Helms D-Mecklenburg, the floor leader of the liquor bill, noted that the state Alcoholic Beverage Board would have to adopt regulations governing mixed beverages before any sales could be made.

He said a call for referendums in the next few months would be premature.

Mrs. McLaughlin said a special referendum election in Wake County would cost about $22,000. But County Commissioner Robert B. Heater said he would push to have the liquor question decided this year, regardless of the cost.

"We would just take the money we would earn from it to pay for it," he said. "Wake County voters want liquor-by-the-drink and it is needed to revitalize the downtown area."

That sentiment echoed previous statements by public officials and business leaders in Raleigh and elsewhere, who predict growing tax revenues as well as new restaurants and hotels to handle an influx of conventioners.

"In the past, people with many convention bids have drawn the line at North Carolina cities when trying to select a location because the state did not have liquor-by-the-drink," said J.D. Dennis, chairman of the N.C. Council of Convention and Visitors Bureaus.

Berkowitz Given 25 Years To Life

"I Want Him Dead"

NEW YORK (AP) — As a friend of his last victim screamed, "You're gonna burn in hell," "Son of Sam" slayer David Berkowitz was sentenced to a maximum 25 years to life today for the murder of Stacy Moskowitz.

Daniel Carrique, a friend of the Moskowitz family, tried to attack Berkowitz in the heavily guarded courtroom as the 25-year-old former postal clerk appeared for sentencing for the six Son of Sam murders that terrorized this city for a year.

Berkowitz appeared somber and docile as he entered the courtroom manacled and wearing a blue suit and open shirt. He did not break into the wild outbursts that forced postponement of a similar session last month.

Justice Joseph Corso, sitting in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn, informed the court that a psychiatric examination filed last Thursday found Berkowitz competent to be sentenced.

Twice, Corso asked Berkowitz if he wanted to address the court. Berkowitz answered, "No," and "No, sir."

Then, Corso imposed sentence for the July 31, 1977, murder of Miss Moskowitz, 20, ordering Berkowitz to serve "25 years behind bars" for her murder.

Then, Corso sentenced Berkowitz to another 25-year sentence for the wounding of Robert Violante, Miss Moskowitz date, who lost one eye and most of his sight in the other eye when Berkowitz opened fire as they sat parked on a Brooklyn lovers' lane.

It was after both sentences had been imposed that Carrique, a family friend who has accompanied Miss Moskowitz mother, Neysa, to the hearings, leaped to his feet and charged toward Berkowitz.

"You're gonna burn in hell, Berkowitz!" the burly Carrique screamed as a group of armed court guards grabbed him.

Worker Sabotage Proviso Left Intact By Supreme Court Ruling

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today left intact a decision giving an employer authority to replace all union-represented workers when its operations are sabotaged during contract negotiations.

The justices refused to review a ruling by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that such employer action is justified because worker sabotage is the same as "an in-plant strike."

Today's denial does not preclude the chance that the justices at some future date will study the same issue as presented in another case and eventually disagree with the 5th Circuit court.

But until that time, the lower court's ruling will stand as a precedent for all states within its jurisdiction — Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas.

The labor dispute sparking today's action began in late 1973 in New Orleans.

The Johns-Mansville Products Corp. and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union were stalled in negotiating a contract for some 110 maintenance and production workers at the firm's roofing materials plant there.

While negotiations were under way, equipment breakdowns increased sharply at the plant. Attributing the breakdowns to employee sabotage, Johns-Mansville locked out all its union workers and closed down operations on Oct. 31, 1973.

Two weeks later, it resumed partial operation of the plant with employees from other plants and temporary help. By March 1974, plant management had permanently replaced all its regular workers.

The union appealed to the National Labor Relations Board, which ruled that although the company acted legally in locking out its employees, it could not permanently replace all its regular workers.

The board ruled that the lockout and temporary replacement was based on "a legitimate and substantial business purpose without anti-union motivation."

Ed Wyatt, new city manager designate here, was in Greenville today for a familiarization visit and meetings with various city officials.

Wyatt, who will assume the city manager's position here around the middle of July, met this morning with Charlie Holliday, who has been serving as interim city manager, Mayor Percy Cox, and other city hall representatives.

The new manager, who currently holds a similar post in Morganton, said that he was familiar with Greenville "by having been in Washington for some three and a half years" as city manager.

"I've been continually impressed with the growth of Greenville," he mentioned, "but by the same token I have been impressed with what appears to be a reasonable approach to growth here."

He pointed to local "efforts made to provide for a planned approach to growth" in the community.

Wyatt, 36, said that the city manager's job here offered a "real opportunity for me, professionally. Just as much so, it offers the opportunity to be closer to our folks." Wyatt's father resides in Petersburg, Va., while his wife's family lives in

MORE SITTINGS

In the fall of 1977, my wife and I were contacted by the Olan Mills Photography people with their "special offer" of three 8 by 10 portraits to be taken at three different times for about $8 in advance. We went for the first sittings and got the 8 by 10. We were told the next sitting would be in February, '78 and that we would be contacted. Neither our address nor our phone number has changed, but we haven't been contacted. I called the office in Raleigh and they were no help. J. R.

Hotline contacted the main Olan Mills studio in Chattanooga, Tenn. Customer Service promptly sent a letter to you, with a copy sent to us, also. It was promised that Olan Mills will have a photographer in Greenville within the next 90 days and that you will be contacted. If you are unable to take advantage of the next photography date, it was urged that you let the company know so it can continue scheduling your notices until your sittings are completed.

Anyone needing to inquire about Olan Mills scheduling should write Mrs. Sue Payne, Customer Service, Olan Mills Studio, 1101 Carter Street, Chattanooga, Tenn. 37402.

FBI Ordered Turn Over Files On Informants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today left intact an order that the FBI give to lawyers for the Socialist Workers Party files on 18 agency informants.

The justices refused to hear a government appeal seeking to avoid a showdown that Justice Department lawyers said could lead to Attorney General Griffin Bell being charged with contempt of court.

Judge Thomas P. Griesa of U.S. District Court in New York last year ordered that lawyers for the small political group be shown the confidential files to help in its $40-million lawsuit against the FBI.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Byron R. White and Lewis F. Powell Jr. voted to grant review to the government's appeal. The votes of four justices are needed, however.

The Socialist Workers filed their suit against the FBI in 1973.

They charged that, beginning in 1938, the agency committed numerous unlawful acts against the party — including breaking and entering, assault, wiretapping, mail tampering, blacklisting, disruption and harassment.

The suit has never gone to trial, but pre-trial proceedings have been lengthy. The FBI already has acknowledged that since 1960 some 1,300 informants have provided information about the Socialist Workers more than once.

In addition, some 70,000 documents have been turned over to the party — about 53,000 from the FBI.

As part of the pre-trial proceedings, Judge Griesa last May ordered the government to hand over to party lawyers the names and files of 18 of the 1,300 secret informants.

Griesa said the FBI might have to hand over the full 1,300 informant files before the legal case was over.

He refused to allow government lawyers to refuse to surrender the material and face judicial sanctions for their refusal — sanctions that could be appealed.

That left only two options — comply with the order or face being charged with contempt of court. Since the FBI is a branch of the Justice Department, the contempt citation would have to be entered against the department's top official — Bell.

Contending that disclosure of the informant files would severely damage its general law enforcement abilities, the government resisted Griesa's order and appealed it to the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The appeals court ruled last October that such "discovery" orders in pre-trial proceedings most often may not be appealed, unless the trial judge has abused his authority in some obvious way.

"The order appealed from does not therefore create an issue of first impression or extraordinary significance, nor was its issuance an abuse of discretion which warrants appellate review," the appeals court said.

Boy Tells Folks A Bedtime Story

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I went out of town for one night, leaving our 17-year-old son without supervision for the first time. With our approval, he had a friend stay with him. He asked us to trust him and we felt we could. All went well—as far as we know. The problem? Our 21-year-old son, who attends college near home, showed up unexpectedly with a young lady (a freshman in college), and they spent the night in our guest room!

After learning of this, my husband confronted our 21-year-old son, who apologized with tears in his eyes, saying he realized he shouldn't have done it, but nothing happened. He swears that they both slept on top of the covers with all their clothes on. (This is hard for me to believe.)

My husband believes the boy and tells me that "times have changed," and I am overreacting. I cannot accept this. I am disgusted with our son, and ashamed of the example he has set for his younger brother. Also, I can't imagine a decent girl putting herself in this position.

To top it off, a few days later our son brought this girl over, and I was expected to smile as though nothing had happened.

Must I go along with my husband's "times have changed" attitude? I feel bitter and betrayed.

UPSET MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: It's possible that you son was telling the truth when he said "nothing happened." Granted, he showed very poor judgement in bringing his date home for the night, but what will you gain by being bitter, suspicious and unforgiving?

Even "decent" girls have been known to do foolish things, so try not to hold it against her. Whether "times have changed" is not as important as maintaining a good relationship with your son. He obviously regrets the incident. Don't mention it again.

DEAR ABBY: My aunt brings her two kids (ages 5 and 7) over to our house whenever she feels like it, then she and my mom take off, leaving me to baby-sit with the kids for maybe half a day.

I never get paid a penny for this, and believe me, those brats are a handful.

I am sick of it, and I told my mom that I was going to ask my aunt for a dollar an hour for each kid, like I charge everybody else. Mom said if I opened my mouth she'd punch me out.

I am 14. Is this fair? What is your advice?

MAD

DEAR MAD: It isn't fair, but I wouldn't advise you to open your mouth—unless you want to get punched out.

DEAR ABBY: Please print my letter. It might keep some other girl from making the same mistake I made. I went with a boy all semester. The only place he ever took me was out to park. He told me he "loved" me, and I flipped for him, but when it came time to ask a girl to the prom, he asked someone else. I felt so hurt I wanted to die.

When my girlfriend asked him how come he didn't ask me, he said, "Oh, she's OK for a make-out, but a guy likes to be seen with a girl he respects."

Women's Press Club Organized

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The Women's Press Club of North Carolina was chartered here Saturday as the 44th affiliate of the National Federation of Press Women.

Eleven of the 30 charter members were on hand for the ceremonies.

They were joined by Charlotte Schexnayder, publisher of the Dumas, Ark., Clarion and president of the national federation, and by Mary Lou Webb of Meadville, Miss., the regional coordinator for the organization.

Inducted as officers of the North Carolina affiliate were Clara Cartrette, The News Observer of Whiteville, president; Gwen White, Coastland Times of Manteo, first vice president; Rosalie Trotman, Greenville Reflector, second vice president; and Barbara Fussell, Rocky Mount Evening Telegram, third vice president.

Also, Pat Alspaugh, Greensboro Daily News, secretary; Marica Elliott, Fayetteville Observer, treasurer; Pat Bailey, Durham Morning Herald, archivist; and Winnie McLoon, Pitt Publishing Co. of Grifton, parliamentarian.

The North Carolina club plans to hold annual meetings in the fall. Its objective, officers said, is to sponsor scholarships and seminars. Membership, while composed predominantly of newspaperwomen, is also open to women working in broadcasting, public relations, publishing and other communications fields.

Past members of the national federation, founded in 1938, include Eleanor Roosevelt and Clare Boothe Luce.

Two Grants For Rose High Grad

Miss Patricia L. Bullock, a 1978 graduate of Rose High School, is the recipient of two grants totaling $1,434 for the 1978-79 school year.

Miss Bullock will be attending Winston-Salem State University where she plans to major in business administration. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bullock, Sr. of Greenville.

On The Young Side

By Sharon Connolly

The past week was one of reflection, excitement and sadness for the senior class of 1978 at Rose High School. During this time the finality of their high school years quickly approached as the graduates prepared for exams and various ceremonies.

Among these ceremonies was a baccalaureate program held last Sunday. Rabbi Victor Mallenbaum delivered the invocation which was followed by a scripture lesson from the Rev. Luther Brown Sr. Musical selections during the program were provided by Mr. and Mrs. Billy Stinson. The sermon for the occasion was given by the Rev. J. H. Bailey who encouraged the seniors to keep their dreams as they travel in various directions. The ceremony was then concluded with a benediction by the Rev. Brown.

Friday night marked the ending of high school education as well as the beginning of the new challenges to come as the seniors received their diplomas. This year there were five valedictorians who delivered speeches during the commencement exercises.

The theme for this year, "A Long Winding Road," was divided into five different parts by the speakers. Tom Johnson introduced the theme in his speech while Miki Ito spoke on the first 11 years of school. The speech given by Sandra Atkins was one of reflections as she recalled many of the highlights of this year. Following Sandra was Suzanne McGee as she looked toward the many adventures that the long winding roads of the future would bring to the graduating class. Concluding all of these ideas was the speech delivered by Wendy Martin.

Now that school has ended,

Home improvements that can pay for themselves.

When you sink money into your home, you can be sure it won't go down the drain.

Because many improvements increase the value of your home by the amount of their cost. And in some cases, by substantially more than that.

For example, insulation, storm windows and a central heating/cooling unit increase property values and, at the same time, save you money on operating costs by making your home more energy efficient.

Making a new addition to your home, modernizing a kitchen and adding a bathroom can be sound investments, too.

You'll find many other home improvements that can substantially increase the value of your home in Branch Banking and Trust Company's booklet "Home improvements that can pay for themselves."

Doctors Advise All He Can Do Is Pray

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The doctors have told Bob Fox that all he can do for his comatose son is pray. So Fox prays all the time, he says. And he asks others to pray, too.

"There's nothing else to do for Brian except make him comfortable. So I put ads in the Green Township paper asking everyone to pray for him," Fox said.

Brian, 10, sustained a brain injury in an April 14 auto accident. The accident killed his mother, Marsha.

Fox, 32, said that at first he was at Brian's bedside at Akron Children's Hospital 24 hours a day.

"But I had to get back to work so I wouldn't lose the insurance coverage," he said.

Brian's hospital bills now exceed $30,000. Fox said insurance would pay 80 percent.

He still tries to spend as much time as possible with Brian.

"I'll be at work and it's time to get over to the hospital, and I think I just have to be there by six. If I don't get in here I go crazy. It affects me something bad," he said.

Brian's 6-year-old sister Terri also was in the accident but was not seriously injured. Fox said his parents have been caring for Terri so he can spend his time at the hospital.

Just before the accident, Fox said, "I was worried because Brian made catcher on his baseball team. I was worried he'd get hit in the head."

Now, he said, "I just want Brian to wake up."

CORNER OF GREENVILLE AND ARLINGTON BOULEVARDS

Couple Weds Sunday Afternoon

On Sunday at 3:30 p.m., Althea leRoux and Jeffrey Allen Finley were married in a double ring ceremony in the First Pentecostal Holiness Church. The Rev. Ethan Raath, uncle of the bride, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christiaan Henri leRoux of Greenville. She attended Lenoir Community College. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Finley Jr. of Sarvar, Pa. He was graduated from Georgia Tech with a degree in engineering. He is a first lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Dr. Wilson Luquire, organist, and Miss Debbie Harding, vocalist. Miss Harding sang "O Lord Most Holy" and "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee."

The bride was escorted by her father and presented in marriage by her parents. The bride wore a formal gown of giana knit designed with a Queen Anne neckline encircled with Venice lace beaded with pearls. The empire bodice was enhanced by a profusion of beaded appliques that extended over the empire waistline. The short cap sleeves were edged in the matching lace. The modified A-line accordin pleated skirt and attached chapel length train were edged at the hemline with sculptured scalloped silk Venice lace.

She wore a chapel length mantilla held in place by a Juliet cap overlaid in lace and featuring floral silk peppets at each side. She carried a semi-cascade bouquet of daisies, pom pons and baby's breath.

Mrs. Ethan Raath, aunt of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Terri McDaniel and Janet Boyd, both of Greenville, and Kathy Merritt of Kinston. Anna Elizabeth leRoux, cousin of the bride, was a junior bridesmaid.

The attendants carried long-stemmed yellow roses and wore formal length gowns of sea foam knit designed with an empire waist and an A-line skirt.

Keith Finley of Elkins, W. Va., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsman included Alvin leRoux, brother of the bride, David Finley of Corapolis, Pa., and Ron Finley of Richardson, Tex., brothers of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length yellow knit dress with lace appliques and a matching chiffon coat with bishop sleeves. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal gown of peach knit. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Rudolph Johannes Raath of Durban, South Africa, and the grandmothers of the bridegroom, Mrs. Lewis Finley Sr. and Mrs. Charles Rittman of Sarvar, Pa., wore carnation corsages complementing their formal gowns.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church fellowship hall. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Danel leRoux, aunt and uncle of the bride. Miss Wanda Gentry presided at the register.

After the bridal couple cut the first slice of wedding cake, Mrs. J. Melvin Moore of Greenville served guests. Punch was poured by Mrs. David Wiseman of Greenville.

MRS. JEFFREY ALLEN FINLEY

Good-byes were said by Dr. and Mrs. Will Wallace.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will live in Jacksonville.

An after-rehearsal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Danel leRoux and Mr. and Mrs. J. Melvin Moore honoring the bridal party.

Miss McLawhorn, Mr. Ozment Say Vows

The First Free Will Baptist Church was the scene for the 3 p.m. wedding ceremony of Deborah Marlene McLawhorn of Greenville and Timothy Harmon Ozment of Rocky Mount. The Rev. Davie Brinson officiated at the double ring ceremony Sunday.

The bride is the daughter of David Haddock of Chocowinity, and Mrs. Mary Williams of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack G. Ozment of Greensboro.

The church was decorated with tree candelabras decorated with flowers and greenery. The honor pews were marked with satin bows and baby's breath. A white prie-dieu was used for the couple during the ceremony. The couple also lighted candles as a symbol of their unity.

The bride wore a formal length gown of white organza over white peau de sole designed with a Queen Anne neckline outlined in scalloped chantilly lace beaded with pearls. The empire bodice was overlaid in French chantilly lace which extended over the waistline edged in beaded scalloped lace. The sheer lace sleeves featured cuffs of scalloped lace. The modified A-line skirt was enhanced with tiers of organza edged in scalloped, chantilly lace that extended around the attached chapel length train. She was given in marriage by her father.

The bride wore a walking length veil of illusion edged in scalloped chantilly lace to complement her gown, held in place by a Camelot cap overlaid in matching lace and beaded with pearls. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses, miniature carnations and baby's breath, cascading from a white cattleya orchid.

Connie Haddock, sister of the bride, of Greenville, served as maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown of maize sheer organza over maize taffeta designed with a portrait neckline styled with a double capelet collar and short flared sleeves. Miniature self-fabric bows centered the front of the empire bodice. An inset band enhanced the waistline. The modified A-line skirt, was enhanced at the hemline by a deep ruffled flounce that extended up the back of the gown to a silk rose at the center to form a bustle. She wore daisies and baby's breath in her hair.

The bridesmaids were Donna Bunch of Greenville, Michele Ozment, sister of the bridegroom from Greensboro, and Kathy Harrington, sister of the bride of Greenville. Their gowns were styled as the maid of honor's in Nile green. They wore daisies and baby's breath in their hair.

Denise Staniel of Greenville, niece of the bride, served as flower girl. She wore a maize dotted swiss dress embroidered with bouquets. The empire bodice, bell sleeves, and long skirt with a deep flounce were all

Couple Marries In Grimesland

Miss Debra Lynn Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Roberts of Greenville, and Robert Lee Kite Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kite of Grimesland, were united in marriage Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in a formal ceremony at the Grimesland Pentecostal Holiness Church.

The Rev. Danny Nelson, pastor of the bridal couple, officiated at the double ring ceremony. Wedding music was provided by Mrs. Judy Harding of Grimesland, organist, and Mrs. Jeanette Williams of Greenville, who sang "You Light Up My Life."

The chancel of the church was decorated with a basket of white gladioli, chrysanthemums, cushion poms and daisies. A seven branch brass candelabra and emerald palms were placed on each side. Pews were marked with bridal satin ribbons and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white maracaine over taffeta designed with a Queen Anne neckline outlined in silk floral Venice lace beaded with pearls. The waistline of the empire bodice was encircled with miniature silk Venice lace. The full sheer bishop sleeves were accented with panels of the matching lace with bands of miniature lace at the cuffs. The full A-line skirt flowed to an attached chapel length train.

She wore a fingertip length veil edged in miniature Venice lace attached to a Camelot cap overlaid in floral lace beaded with pearls. Appliques of lace were scattered over the veil. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, carnations, poms and yellow baby's breath with streamers and love knots of daisies.

Miss Kelly Kite of Grimesland, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown of maize organza over maize taffeta designed with an open squared neckline featuring miniature rolled straps, fitted bodice and full skirt. The sleeveless gown was complemented by a long sleeved organza jacket with a fitted waistline. She carried a pastel nasegay of pom pons with a yellow bow and streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Beverly Roberts, sister of the bride, Miss Sherre Campbell, cousin of the bride, Miss Susan Meeks, all of Greenville, Miss Donna Manning and Mrs. Tammy Manning, both of Grimesland. They wore formal length gowns of maize and white taffeta designed with an open portrait neckline featuring a ruffled berth collar and short capelet sleeves. The fitted empire bodice was encircled at the waistline with maize satin ribbon centered in front by a Dior bow with long streamers. The modified A-line skirt was enhanced by a deep ruffled flounce at the hemline. They wore imported maize garden hats and carried nasegays similar to the maid of honor with streamers of pink and yellow.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were James Coward, cousin of the bridegroom of Grimesland, Cecil Adams, Wayne Bryant and Jay Kite, cousin of the bridegroom, both of Greenville, and Billy Hedgepeth of Newport News, Va.

Gail Mills Is BPW Speaker

The June meeting of the Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club was held Thursday night at the Ramada Inn. Sarah Lassiter introduced the speaker for the evening, Gail Meeks, assistant to the city manager.

Her program topic was "The Role of Women in City Government."

She stated that in the past, the most responsible positions had been held by men, but now with the Equal Opportunity Act, more women and minorities are being employed in governmental positions.

She noted two of the City Council members are women and that Mrs. Mildred McGrath in 1975 received the highest number of votes, thus making her mayor

The St. Peter's Women's Club held its meeting Wednesday in the school hall. Betty Boland, a registered nurse from Raleigh, showed slides and spoke on the Billings Method of natural family planning.

The meeting was conducted by President Bobbie Parsons. She thanked club members for their help with the dinner and reception held for Bob Lloyd, who was ordained in the parish last month.

Projects which the club will sponsor in the upcoming months were discussed including a trash and treasure sale in September, a card party in October and a craft show in November.

The group will send a check for $15 to Operation Sunshine in Greenville.

They Know We Value Them All

Over the weekend thousands of young people completed their high schools careers in Pitt, Greenville and surrounding county schools.

It was a capstone day in the lives of these students as they received their diplomas and became high school graduates.

They will go in diverse ways. Many will go on to further education in universities, colleges or technical institutes. Others will seek jobs or join the armed services.

Wherever they go and whatever they do we hope that these young adults know that the older people of the community value them, and are proud of them for successfully completing high school.

Each year new high school graduates go out into a world which invariably looks as if it is awash with problems. The problems are there, all right, but many of them will be solved by some of those who are finishing high school this month.

Opportunities for service abound for our new high school graduates as they move out into the mainstream of life. We wish all of them the very best throughout life.

Jointly Tackling Common Problems

The Greenville City Council and the Pitt commissioners held a joint meeting last week, something that is planned quarterly.

Among the items discussed were increased county participation in rescue squad costs and increases for Sheppard library.

The city and county have many common problems. Most can be worked out, and the joint meetings are a good way to proceed.

Local Power Plants Seen

By Bill Noblitt

RALEIGH — Small may be not only prettier, but more effective as well.

The future for electrical power in North Carolina might well reside in the state's numerous rivers and streams — the very elements which first attracted industries to Piedmont locations.

"Appropriate technology" is the label which Dr. James C. Bresee attaches to his approach to energy solutions. In a nutshell: "local solutions to local problems on a limited basis...not massive projects on a national scope," he says.

In that context, the future may be seen in the past: small hydroelectric generating plants nestled alongside streams and ponds all along the fall-line which covers the central portion of the state.

Cheaper to build and operate, certainly not vulnerable to the rapidly escalating fuel costs whether petroleum, coal, or nuclear, and making no environmental threats, such power generators could serve smaller communities well. North Carolina, still a largely rural state, is well suited to such potential solutions.

Beautiful

"As we look at hydroelectric capabilities, we are starting to rediscover the small-is-beautiful approach to life," says Bresee. And he likes that potential in this state.

A variety of small-but-beautiful workable technologies offer themselves for study, and that is a prime reason the former director of the federal Geothermal Energy Division decided to become North Carolina's first director of the Energy Institute.

Eastern counties, Bresee feels, may be located above workable geothermal spots. Such sites can generate electricity in at least two ways: direct steam heat if such is close enough to the surface to be tapped; or water can be piped into the earth to be superheated and returned to the surface for steam generation.

Study is already underway on the peat bogs as a potential supplier of a burnable fuel, and the first tentative steps are underway on wood as fuel — whether burned directly, or to yield a fuel substitute.

In the mountains above Boone, a federal windmill project is going into operation. In dozens of research labs and inventors' shops, work is proceeding on solar and wind projects.

Another North Carolina factor which prompted Bresee to take a two-year tour of duty as state energy institute director is the concentration of brain-power at universities and the Research

BILL NOBLITT

Triangle Park. "Our greatest contribution may be in drawing these people together.

Many are internationally known, and major contributions can develop from applying their capabilities to the new frontiers of energy. We just may be able to make some significant contributions, but I can't say just what right not," Bresee says.

Together

"I have a feeling that enhanced use of many sources is still possible. A major goal is to identify, research the potentials, and apply solutions to problems...our approach has been piecemeal in the past, and might be enhanced by taking advantage of opportunities in combining capabilities."

Bresee brings to his work degrees from the University of Illinois and Massachusetts Institute of Technology in chemical engineering, and a law degree from the University of Tennessee. He has taught at Illinois and MIT, and spent a number of years at Oak Ridge. Of nuclear potentials, he finds reason for caution in use and transporting and disposing of waste.

He is a member of the "extreme center" on the nuclear question, feeling we "need all we can lay our hands on...safely."

Bresee defines his role as having two responsibilities: to work with people in exploring technologies, handling problems, and reducing difficulties in the field of energy; and to understand the capabilities in North Carolina for solutions to energy problems. North Carolina has among the highest capabilities of any state in research potentials, Bresee said.

Let's Change The Name

WASHINGTON — While all the publicity in the past few weeks has been devoted to the new National Gallery East Building, there is another structure in this town deserving our attention.

It's the J. Edgar Hoover FBI Building just down the street. Each day a new revelation comes out that alleges another crime the former FBI director committed. Some of the charges made against him have been blackmail, illegal wire tapping, using public money for private gain, feeding confidential information to help politicians win elections, okaying dirty tricks, condoning forgery, break-ins etc., etc. In sum, we are discovering that J. Edgar Hoover was not a very nice man.

Therefore it behooves us to admit that we may have acted too fast when we named a building after him on one of Washington's main thoroughfares. J. Edgar Hoover, when alive, had enough power to see that no one could tarnish his image. But now that he has gone to that big FBI in the sky we have to ask ourselves, "Do we want our tax dollars to honor a man who didn't give a hoot about protecting everyone's freedom in this country?"

I don't mind, but Turblain, a colleague who was a victim of Mr. Hoover's dirty tricks, does, and he believes, the FBI will never have a new image until they chip J. Edgar's name off the building.

"I know the conservatives will scream bloody murder, but how can you have a building in Washington bear the name of a man who committed so many crimes in the name of law and order?" he asked.

"But," I protested, "you can't just chip the twofoot name of a man off a concrete building."

"There is precedent for it," Turblain said. "They did it to Stalin when they discovered what a no-goodnik he was. Whole towns obliterated his name. All I want to do is take J. Edgar's name off one lousy edifice."

"But it would be so expensive."

"I knew that's what you'd say," Turblain told me. "I have a solution which will not only save money but will also keep the conservatives from jumping on Congress' back. We change the J. Edgar Hoover Building to the Herbert Hoover Building. Then we'd only have to drop the J. and the Edgar and substitute Herbert. The name Herbert would fit perfectly and no one in future generations would ever know that J. Edgar had ever been there."

"Herbert Hoover?"

"Why not Herbert? He was an honest man, a good man.

He just had a little bad luck to be serving during a depression. It could have happened to anyone. There's nothing in Washington of value named after Herbert Hoover, and it's about time we did something about it."

Turbain continued, "Don't you see what a snap it would be? All the secretaries would have to do is type out J. Edgar's name on the stationery and substitute Herbert's name."

"It would still be known to FBI agents as the Hoover Building, but they wouldn't

As long as the buyers of groceries in the household can go to the store and find a loaf of bread, at any reasonable price, they don't seem to have any sympathy toward a threatened strike by the farmers who produce the grain that goes into that bread.

Many farmers who were already facing bankruptcy spent several million dollars over the winter months to let the country know that they were in dire financial trouble. They drove their tractors to Washington and other cities, got a little sympathy along the way, but no noticeable help. They returned to their farms poorer but wiser. That will never happen again. The next time around the farmers will be better organized, and they will come up with enough political clout to be heard. They have been kicked around long enough.

Being realistic about the matter, it would not surprise us to see the Teamsters' union represent them in the future. The Teamsters have a reputation for getting results instead of sympathy.

A wire story recently reported that the baker's union will receive a 45 percent wage increase later this year. A new contract with the Teamsters' union, scheduled to take place immediately, will bring about that inflationary increase. At a time when the price of American wheat is driving the farmer to ruin, the cost of a loaf of bread will probably be going up another 10 or 12 cents. The wheat that goes into that bread still accounts for just a few pennies.

The bakers get their 45 percent wage increase, the Teamster truckers that deliver the bread get more wages, the gasoline that is being used costs more, and so do the utilities. Machinery to produce the bread becomes more and more expensive, and so does the machinery that helps the farmer to produce the wheat. However, the one person in the whole setup that is needed for a loaf of bread to be produced seems to have no protection. He is still struggling to pay off the bank loans and other mortgages on his land and equipment.

The Teamsters and other unions got a stranglehold on America because the poor people were being treated like the farmers. The farmers now operate their farms at the mercy of the government and the buyers of wheat, plus God and the weather. It is no wonder that they are disturbed. We are surprised and thankful that they have been able to hold their cool for this long.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the House already having agreed and the Senate expected to, Hungary soon may enjoy "most favored nation" status in its trade with the United States.

Q. Does that mean Hungary, called by Rep. Richard Schultz, R-Pa., during the House hearings as "the jolliest cell in the Soviet concentration camp," is likely to enjoy unusual trade benefits?

A. Not at all. If the proposal passes, it means Hungary won't be penalized by higher duties that apply to most Communist nations. The United States would, in return, have similar status in Hungary.

But Hungary wouldn't be getting a thing that most nations now enjoy.

Q. Where does the term come from?

A. The current usage evolves from a long history in which diplomatic shadings, bureaucratic vernacular and legalese have enhanced the natural mutations of language.

Americans have used the term at least since 1923, when bilateral treaties were common and nations sought to obtain the best rate existing, that is the rate given to the nation most favored.

Q. What does "most favored nation" or MFN mean these days?

A. That when a country is granted that status it has been upgraded from statutory duties, under which its goods pay the highest rates of all.

Q. Are MFN rates much lower?

Yes, very much lower, usually just a fraction of other rates. The MFN tariff on nitrate, for example, is 1.8 cents a pound, but for nation's not granted that status the levy is 4.5 cents.

Q. It is, then, the best tariff status available for an exporter to the United States?

A. No. Not nearly.

Q. What status is better than it?

A. GSP status. GSP stands for Generalized System of Preferences, a category so designated in the Trade Act of 1974, and which applies to

Words Versus A Tide

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — In a war of words, the smart money goes on Robert S. Strauss. He uses them as well as anybody in town.

But when it's words on one side and the forces of inflation on the other, even President Carter's negotiator in chief faces difficult odds.

Still, Strauss says he can and will make Carter's voluntary inflation-fighting program work, and promises evidence of that in 60 days to 90 days. "We don't need any speeches right now, we need some performance," said Strauss.

He can't order anybody to do anything. All he has is persuasion.

"What I'm concerned about," said Strauss, "is a tremendous cynicism, that nothing voluntary will work, and those people in the business community and in the labor community who are the loudest voices when they talk to you in saying, 'We need less government, we want fewer regulations; we don't want the government interfering in our lives and get 'em off our back.' ... they're the very same people who say, 'Oh, this program won't work, it's voluntary.'"

Promising restraint in government spending, Carter has asked business and labor to hold price and wage increases to levels below the average of the last two years. Strauss has the task of talking them into it.

Carter has ruled out wage and price controls, and has carefully avoided any suggestion that if this doesn't work, he will seek mandatory measures to restrain inflation.

Strauss comes on stronger when he encounters the argument that voluntary restraints cannot succeed.

"Now somewhere, there's got to be an answer," he said. "And when you confront them with it in meetings of 10 or 1,000, they hang their heads like sheep killing dogs ... The very sonofabitch who tells you there's too much government and too much this and too much that says, 'It's voluntary and it won't work.'"

"And I answer, 'Oh, well then, we can sure get the government into your business, pal. It's easy. I'll just yell and point at you. They'll get over there and do anything you want 'em to do. We got people that want to do every single thing for you.'"

Strauss goes on, playing both parts. First the businessman, then Bob Strauss.

"Well, I don't mean that," the businessman says.

"Well, then, what do you mean?"

"Well, I mean — you know what I mean."

"No, I don't know what in the hell you mean, tell me what you mean Mr. So and So, you're chairman of the board of a big company. What do you want us to do, voluntary or involuntary?"

"Well, I believe in private industry we can do this if we get some help from labor and government."

"That's fine, now let's get on with it."

Strength For Today

WORTH WHAT IT COSTS
"When the fight begins with himself, A man's worth something."

Thus declared Robert Browning. And anyone with real insight into his own problems and into the character of others knows that this is true. The people who yield to every temptation, who are fascinated by everything that dazzles, who are always swayed by the current opinion of the day, seldom have much character or personal attractiveness.

There is always a crowd in every age preaching the doctrine of the easy way. But the people who appear to have light in their faces, tolerance for others, and love for all mankind, are those who have had a hard struggle within themselves to achieve life's triumphs. Jesus said that the straight gate and the narrow way lead to life, "and few there are that find it."

Shadings In Diplomatic Use

99 developing countries and 39 dependencies.

GSP nations pay no duties at all on some products. Assuming they had it to export, for example, their nitrate would come in duty-free.

Q. Which developing countries have that status?

A. Perhaps a more direct answer is to say which do not. Members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and most Communist nations are ineligible. African and Latin American countries, including Brazil, a developing giant, generally are eligible, as are scores of others, including Israel, India, Hong Kong, Cyprus, and South Korea.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab has a temporary new lease on life. Now it's up to Congress to decide whether astronauts should try to save it from a potentially dangerous plunge back to Earth.

Ground controllers added months to the unmanned space station's life Sunday by shifting its position to minimize the atmospheric drag that slowly has been pulling it out of orbit.

"Everything went the way we planned it," said flight controller Bill Peters after Skylab's nose had been tipped down 10 degrees so that the ship is now level in relation to Earth.

"We're going back to Congress and tell them we're successful and that they should proceed," said Skylab coordinator Robert Aller of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Last month a House Appropriations subcommittee rejected a $20.5 million NASA request. The NASA idea was to send aloft a team of space shuttle astronauts to rendezvous with Skylab and attach a rocket device either to raise it to a safer altitude or to propel it harmlessly out of orbit over an open area of the Pacific Ocean.

But the congressmen said they did not think Skylab would stay up long enough for a shuttle crew to reach it in time. Subcommittee members said they might reconsider if NASA succeeded in extending the spaceship's life.

That is what Sunday's exercise accomplished. Without the maneuver, the 85-ton station, the world's largest man-made satellite, could have plunged through the atmosphere as early as next spring. Space officials fear that on such an uncontrolled re-entry, there is a remote chance it could shower chunks of debris on inhabited areas.

If the project to save Skylab gets the go-ahead, NASA plans to make the attempt on the third flight of the new space shuttle in October 1979.

The shuttle would approach to within 1,000 feet of Skylab and eject the 8,000-pound rocket device, called a teleoperator. Inside the shuttle cabin, the astronauts would guide the device by remote control to a linkup with a docking port once used by Skylab crew members.

NASA favors pushing it into a higher orbit because it would like at some future date to reinhabit the spaceship, which in 1973 and 1974 was home for three separate three-man crews.

The teleoperator could boost the station 70 miles higher than the 200-mile high orbit it is expected to be in at that time.

That would keep it up another five years. Skylab is currently 242 miles high.

After the five-year period, the teleoperator could be used to again boost the station, or to achieve a controlled re-entry.

But Republican skepticism does not compare with the outraged opposition of Democrats, including President Carter's economic experts. They end up urging smaller tax cuts and higher capital gains taxation, opposing tuition tax credits and calling for painful tax reforms — the castor oil usually associated with Republicanism. Laffer, playing the role of a Republican Dr. Feel-Good, offers only sybaritic tax cuts.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Bell Arthur Water Corporation reports that they take one weekly bacteriological analysis of the water to aid in providing the safest water possible.

The sample submitted on April 10, 1978 at 4:30 P.M. at the water office and analyzed by the State Division of Health Services after April 11, 1978 which was reported on April 17, 1978 to have some coliform bacteria present. The "MOST PROBABLE NUMBER" of coliform bacteria per 100 milliliters of sample was reported to be 9.2. This was considered by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in Atlanta, Georgia to be a concentration above the maximum contaminant level listed in the National Interim Primary Drinking Water Regulations. Although there is no routine laboratory procedure for determining the presence of specific disease-producing bacteria in drinking water, coliform bacteria can be readily detected.

A repeat sample taken, as requested by the State from source on April 18, 1978 analyzed after April 19, 1978 and reported by the State Division of Health Services on April 21, 1978 revealed "COLIFORM NOT FOUND". Other samples taken after April 19, 1978 show the water to be free from coliform bacteria.

The April 10, 1978 sample was taken during other activities at the water office and was probably contaminated by bacteria in the air or by incorrect sampling procedures.

In order to provide you with the best water possible, the Bell Arthur Water Corporation has, in order to comply with EPA Regulations, and to attempt to prevent future problems of this nature instituted chlorination of this water coming from all three wells.

This notice is sent as dictated by the United States Environmental Protection Agency as a part of the implementation of the Safe Drinking Water Act in North Carolina.

If you have any questions concerning this notice, please call the Bell Arthur Water Corporation (a non-profit user owned corporation) at 752-6252 or write the Bell Arthur Water Corporation, P.O. Box 104, Bell Arthur, N.C. 27811. (Better yet, drop by and look at your new Water Office and Fire Department Facility downtown Bell Arthur.)

Bean Bends

Andy Bean bends and winces as he misses a birdie on the 16th hole of Sunday's final round of the Memphis Open.

Bean recovered and tied Lee Trevino on the 18th and went on to defeat him with a 35-foot birdie putt on the first hole of sudden death. (AP Laserphoto)

Oakland Rookie In Complete Game

By The Associated Press

It was a big surprise last week when Charles O. Finley named high school draft pick Mike Morgan to start a game for the Oakland A's.

It was a bigger surprise Sunday when he finished.

The 18-year-old right-hander, fresh from Tuesday's free agent baseball draft, was thrown right into the major league pool by the Oakland owner and managed to keep his head above water.

Morgan allowed only two earned runs during a complete-game performance, and even though he lost a 3-0 decision to the Baltimore Orioles, was given a standing ovation from many of the 17,157 fans at the Oakland Coliseum and some applause as well from the opposition.

"He did a good job but I really don't agree with what the A's are doing," said Baltimore left-hander Scott McGregor, who beat Morgan with a six-hitter. "It's just too tough to come right out of high school and pitch in the majors."

Morgan displayed a lively fastball, but gave up 10 hits and walked five Orioles. Four of the walks came in the first three innings.

McGregor recorded his seventh straight victory and improved his record to 7-3.

Red Sox 5, Mariners 3
Dennis Eckersley ran his winning streak over Seattle to four games with eighth-inning relief from Bill Campbell, and Rick Burleson and Dwight Evans hit home runs as Boston defeated the Mariners.

Angels 9, Yankees 6
Brian Downing drove in the go-ahead runs with a single in a four-run fifth inning to help California beat New York. Yankee shortstop Fred Stanley booted a grounder by Joe Rudi to open the Angels' fifth. Ron Jackson doubled off loser Ken Clay and Tony Solaita drew a walk to fill the bases.

Tigers 5, Royals 2
Rusty Staub blasted a three-run homer in the 10th to power Detroit over Kansas City. Ron LeFlore began the rally with a one-out double. Steve Kemp walked, then Staub hit a 1-0 Al Hrabosky pitch for his eighth homer.

Indians 2, Twins 1
Ted Cox's single over a drawn-in outfield brought home Buddy Bell with the winning run as Cleveland beat Minnesota. Bell led off the 10th with his third hit of the day, a triple to left.

Brewers 2-5, Blue Jays 1-4
Larry Hise hit a tie-breaking home run in the eighth inning to back Larry Sorensen's five-hit pitching and lead Milwaukee over Toronto in the first game of their doubleheader.

The Brewers completed their sweep as Robin Yount homered off Tom Murphy leading off the ninth inning of the second game.

White Sox 2, Rangers 1
Francisco Barrios and Lerrin LaGrow combined on an eight-hitter and Eric Soderholm knocked in one run and scored another to lead Chicago past Texas. Barrios needed help from LaGrow in the ninth after giving up two singles with none out.

Bean Wins In Playoff

MEMPHIS (AP) — Andy Bean looked up with an amazed expression on his face. "Are you going to change anything going into the Open?" someone had asked.

"I sure hope not," Andy replied. "Things seem to be going pretty good the way they are right now."

Indeed they are. The big guy called "Li'l Abner" by his fellow pros, had just bested Lee Trevino in a sudden death playoff for the title in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic. It sends him into this week's U.S. Open as a winner in his last two starts and the hottest item on the tour.

"This is definitely a boost in my confidence," the 25-year-old Bean said after a 35-foot birdie putt on the first playoff hole Sunday subdued Trevino.

"I'm really looking forward to the Open. I want to make it three in a row."

Bean, who won the Kemper Open a week earlier, had to birdie the 72nd hole with a 6-foot putt to tie Trevino, who watched from a golf cart by the 18th green on the Colonial Country Club course.

That tied them at 277, 11 under par. Trevino, who came from a tie for 19th with a 7-under-par 65 in the final round, played about 1½ hours in front of Bean, who had a last-round 70.

On the first playoff hole, a par-3, Trevino put his tee shot through the green in the fringe. Bean was to the left. "I don't know how long it was, but it looked like it rolled over an acre before it got there," Andy said.

"I was just trying to lag it up there and the dang thing went in."

Trevino missed on his birdie try and he was a runnerup for the fourth time this year.

But there were a number of positive factors for Lee, too. He and Bean both made it into the World Series of Golf. Andy collected $50,000 from the total purse of $250,000 and moved into second on the season's money-winning list at $187,509, including $110,000 in his last two starts.

Trevino won $28,500 and jumped past Arnold Palmer into second place on the all-time winning list. He has $1,783,893. Palmer, the game's first $1 million winner, now is third at $1,781,759.

Tom Kite missed the playoff by a single shot. He failed on a 7-foot eagle putt on the 16th hole that would have made it a three-way tie and settled for third at 66-278.

John Lister of New Zealand, Gary Koch and Tom Purtzer were next at 279. Koch shot a closing 68, Lister 69 and Purtzer 71.

Lopez Takes LPGA

MASON, Ohio (AP) — "She's Arnold Palmer and Lee Trevino rolled into one player," LPGA Commissioner Ray Volpe says of Nancy Lopez, the current rage of women's professional golf.

"She has the sex appeal of Palmer, the charisma of Trevino."

"Whether she becomes a Jack Nicklaus remains to be seen."

Whatever sport's newest superstar is, she seems to be too good to be true.

Lopez' latest accomplishment, a victory in the Ladies' Professional Golf Association Championship Sunday, brought her four more records. She tied another one.

Lopez' total of 275 and her 13-under-par display wiped out LPGA Championship standards for total score and strokes under par. She extended her own rookie record of six titles, and she pushed her earnings to more than $100,000 earlier in the season than anyone else.

The one she tied, four consecutive victories by a woman pro, may be the most important to her.

"Now that I've won four in a row, I'd really like to break that record," she said.

JoAnne Carner calls Lopez the greatest putter ever to come on the LPGA tour. The 21-year-old from Roswell, N.M., does not argue the point.

"I owe it to my putter," she said after playing her last 41 holes in one stretch without a bogey in this major championship.

Amy Alcott, the runnerup with 71-281, six shots behind, marvels at Lopez' disposition.

"I've never met a person who accepts what she does with such humility and class. She has excellent timing in her swing, she's a great putter and she's a helluva competitor.

"She's floating on a level of high. Right now she's the one to beat every week."

Lopez' $22,500 check pushed her earnings to more than $62,000 in her last four victories and past the $100,000 plateau, the earliest in history. Judy Rankin had reached the magic mark on July 12 two years ago.

Now she's within range of the rookie pro money winning record of $153,000 set by Jerry Pate on the men's tour in 1976.

Lopez, with almost $119,000, will play in five of the seven remaining tournaments in her bid to become the money champion. She's skipping Nobleville, Ind., and Wheeling, W.Va., in July.

Alcott had an eagle-3 and four bogeys for second, worth $14,650, a satisfying finish for her. "This was the only tournament where I missed the cut last year," she said.

Judy Rankin matched par-72 over the Nicklaus Center's 6,312 yards and finished third at 283 before a national television audience and one of the largest galleries of the tour this year — in excess of 20,000.

Carner, last week's victor at Toronto, settled for fourth place with 71-284.

Extra-Base Hits Pace Pitt County

By JIM KYLE

Reflector Sports Writer
Harrington Field reverberated with the loud cracking of bats yesterday as Pitt County's American Legion team slapped five extra-base hits, including two homers, in a 12-5 victory over Wilson.

Post 39 got both of its round-trippers in a five-run fifth inning. Marshall Heath hit a three-run blast and Mike Shank followed with a two-run shot. The team also got a pair of triples off the bat of Ronnie Chapman, who scored four times in the ballgame, and Shank added a double.

Pitt coach Ed Hooks seemed very pleased with his team's overall effort. He praised the pitching job of starter Billy Mitchell, who went the distance to pick up his second win against no losses. Chapman also received the accolades of his coach for his work at the plate, while catcher Skip Topping was credited with "digging a few out of the dirt."

Wilson scored two runs in the top of the first inning, but Pitt County quickly turned things around in the bottom of the frame to lead the rest of the way and this helped the team, Hooks said. "When you get a couple of runs ahead, it helps a whole lot. You can do some things you wouldn't ordinarily do."

The victory raised the Post 39 record to 4-0 on the season, while Wilson dropped to 2-3. The visitors used two hurlers, each going four innings. Robert Simpson was the starter and was credited with the loss. He was relieved by Mike Lamm. Simpson's record is now 2-1.

Pitt County had a total of 11 hits in the ballgame, led by Chapman, Shank and Will Sanderson with two apiece. Wilson touched Mitchell for eight hits, with Mike Nichols getting a pair. Carey Griffin had a home run for the visitors.

Leadoff batter Robert Wells singled up the middle in the first inning for Wilson and was sacrificed to second by Tony Pollock. Griffin followed with his homer slapping a 1-2 pitch over the right field fence to give Wilson a 2-0 lead.

In the bottom of the inning, Chapman walked with one away and Shank followed with a base on balls. Kevin Adams got a hit to right to load the bases and Greg Lee reached on a fielder's choice, plating Chapman. An error on the throw allowed Shank to score and Adams came in on a passed ball.

In the second, Topping waited out a walk, and after a pair of strikeouts, Chapman tripled to center field. He scored when Shank reached on an error.

Mitchell put Wilson down 1-2-3 in the second, third and fourth frames and threw only three pitches in the fourth, forcing three pop-ups.

Post 39 put two more runs on the scoreboard in the bottom of the fourth inning as Nuggie Worthington singled, Chapman tripled and Shank doubled.

Wilson scored a run in the fifth inning. Allen Sharp walked, but was thrown out at second on Greg Turnage's fielder's choice.

Turnage moved to third on singles by Nichols and pinch hitter Bert Ferrell and scored on Wells' infield out.

The fifth was the big inning for Pitt County. With one out, Sanderson singled to right and Topping reached second on an error. Heath then smashed a home run to left field, clearing the bases. After a second out, Chapman took a walk and then Shank knocked one out of the park for the final Post 39 run.

Wilson added two more tallies, one each in the eighth and ninth. Wells reached on a fielder's choice in the eighth and Pollock doubled him home. In the ninth, Sharp got an infield hit and scored on singles by Turnage and Nichols. Pitt County ended the game with a perfect short to second to first double play.

The local team plays again Tuesday at Snow Hill and returns home Wednesday to host Edenton.

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A1087 ♠KJ7 ♠AK87 ♠KJ6
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1NT Pass 4NT Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Pass. Partner's bid of four no trump is not Blackwood. It is a quantitative raise, asking you to bid a slam if you are at the top of your range. You have dead minimum—16 points and an absolutely flat hand—so you cannot take any action.

Q.2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠QJ83 ♠954 ♠82 ♠KJ72
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 2♦ Pass 3♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. Partner has made a game try, and in support of spades you are near the top of your range. In addition, your excellent support for partner's trial suit further enhances the value of your hand.

Q.3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠8 ♠Q1073 ♠AQ1082 ♠973
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ 2♥ ?
What action do you take?

A.—Double. You can reasonably expect to take four tricks on defense, and perhaps more if partner has the right hand. In addition, your double will alert partner to your spade shortness, which should deter him from rebidding his suit and placing your side in jeopardy.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠954 ♠AQ1072 ♠862 ♠74
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ 2♥ ?
What action do you take?

A.—Pass. You simply do not have the strength to respond two hearts, and with only three low spades, you are too weak to raise partner's suit. Perhaps partner has the values to reopen the bidding.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠J982 ♠6 ♠Q752 ♠J653
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1♦ Pass 2♦ Pass 3♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. Despite the fit for partner's second suit and your singleton, you don't have enough to go to game. Partner would be entitled to expect more than a queen and two jacks for a jump to four spades.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠3 ♠A1087 ♠Q752 ♠KJ93
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1♦ Dble. 2♦ ?
What action do you take?

A.—Cue-bid three spades. Opposite a vulnerable takeout double you have a very fine hand, and not even a jump to four hearts will do it full justice. A cue-bid is a much better description of its value. If partner simply bids four hearts, you can now pass, secure in the knowledge that you have shown your strength.

Q.7—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A92 ♠10874 ♠852 ♠AK6
Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?

A.—Your hand falls in the in-between range—not quite strong enough for a jump raise, yet too strong for a single raise. Therefore, you have to employ a temporizing maneuver. Our suggestion is that you respond two clubs and then support hearts at your next turn. Don't worry about having to bid a three-card suit. You can always return to hearts if partner supports clubs.

Q.8—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AQ82 ♠AKQ7 ♠85 ♠AK10

What is your opening bid?
A.—Both your major suits are biddable, so the normal action would be to open one spade. However, we do not recommend that action—your hand is too strong. We suggest you open one club to allow partner the maximum opportunity to find a response.

The FARM SCENE

By L. Gaylon Ambrose,
Associate Agricultural Extension Agent

By the time tobacco reaches the flowering stage, the topping and sucker control program is the only major production practice that normally affects yield and quality before harvest begins. A poor topping and sucker control program can drastically reduce yield, quality and profits.

In view of the surplus of down-stalk, thin-bodied tobacco, there is considerable emphasis on producing good quality, medium-bodied tobacco in 1978. Foreign buyers are interested only in buying tobacco from the mid- and upper-stalk positions. These tobaccos contain more flavor, aroma and nicotine than the lower stalk tobaccos, which tend to be neutral. Low nicotine, filler-type tobaccos are available from other countries at a much lower price than from the U.S.

The flower stage at which tobacco is topped has a great effect on the body of the tobacco produced. Early topping forces most plant resources into developing leaves rather than seed. Well-developed leaves have more body and usually bring a higher price. Generally, the earlier a plant is topped, the higher the quantity of good-bodied tobacco. This type of tobacco might be produced all the way to the top of the plant when topping is delayed to the late flower stage. In addition, yields are usually reduced about one percent per acre per day for every day the floral part remains on the plant past the button stage. This is 20 to 25 pounds per acre per day on most farms.

Growers are encouraged to try to increase the degree of sucker control chemical. Some experimentation is in order. Here are several ideas worth trying:

(1) Apply your contact chemical on one to two acres of tobacco when you determine 50 percent of the plants have 18 to 20 leaves on them, but before the button comes out. This tobacco probably will be about waist to chest high. The contact may chemically top 10 to 20 percent of the plants at this stage. The damaged floral parts normally would be topped out later after considerable plant resources were used in their development. Some research shows chemically topped plants yield more than those topped later. Follow the first contact application with a second application in three to five days, then apply the MH about a week later when moisture conditions are suitable for MH absorption. (2) Increase the amount of contact solution applied on one to two acres of tobacco from about 50 gallons per acre to 60 to 70 gallons per acre. The concentration of the contact solution should be prepared the same as usual by mixing the recommended rate of any contact on the market in 50 gallons of water. For Off-Shoot-T-85 mix two gallons of this chemical in 50 gallons of water to make a four percent solution. For Royaltac mix 1.5 gallons of this chemical in 50 gallons of water to make a three percent solution. It is very important to maintain these concentrations to avoid having solutions that are too strong (hot) or too weak. The suggestion is to apply 60 to 70 gallons per acre of these solutions to increase the coverage, particularly in the upper leaf axils where sucker control is difficult to obtain with machine applied contacts. Do not apply more than 50 gallons per acre of the solution to tobacco with excessive rates of nitrogen. Application of more than 50 gallons per acre might encourage leaf drop on over-fertilized crops. (3) Apply your contact solution by hand on a limited acreage and you will see the high degree of sucker control possible. This should increase your confidence in what contact sucker control chemicals can do. The easiest way to do this is to rig lines (one per row) directly from the sprayer boom and install a hand operated cutoff at the end of each line.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: H equals D

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Cutworms Are Villains Of 1978 Tobacco Crop

By The Associated Press

After a couple of years of bad weather — first too much rain, then virtually none — and an oversupply of downstalk leaf, North Carolina tobacco growers have a new worry this planting season. This time the villains are cutworms.

"The biggest problem is in the Northern Piedmont," said John Crawford of the Guilford County office of the Agricultural Extension Service.

"Every year we have a few (cutworms), and apparently we have had ideal conditions this spring for them to multiply several times their normal population."

Extension officials in Rockingham County said they also face problems with cutworms, so called because their gnawing at tobacco plants cuts off the stalks.

The cutworms have forced some tobacco farmers to replant parts of their crops, a process that slows the coming of the harvest and could lower production.

In Eastern North Carolina, meanwhile, some tobacco growers are finding that their plants are blossoming or "buttoning out" prematurely, a problem that could reduce their crop yields if it is not corrected promptly, officials said.

John H. Cyrus, chief of the state Agriculture Department's field crop section, blamed the early buttoning on the extended cold, wet weather that delayed tobacco transplanting for weeks in many areas.

As a result, he said, many plants were too large by the time they were removed from plant beds, and some had poorly developed root systems.

"Tobacco is a hot-weather plant, and when you have cold weather it tends to harden, and it may go into flower," said Fumey A. Todd, a plant pathologist with the extension service.

Many plants are producing knee-high blossoms after only eight to 10 leaves have been formed on the stalk, rather than the desired 16 to 22 leaves.

"The early blooming doesn't mean a poor crop if it's handled right, but it's going to take a little more work," Todd said. Cyrus agreed. "The old-timers say early flowering is sign of a good crop," he said. "It's nothing to be discouraged about, but it does present a problem that has to be dealt with."

When suckers are your problem, Off-Shoot-T is your answer.

The reason? Off-Shoot-T works! It never gives suckers an even break. For almost a decade, Off-Shoot-T has knocked out more suckers in flue cured tobacco fields than any other chemical contact.

So don't get suckers. Get Off-Shoot-T. Two applications 3 to 5 days apart, plus maleic hydrazide, give you almost perfect sucker control.

Off-Shoot-T lets you top and spray early since it's a contact, not a systemic sucker control agent. And that means better tobacco yields and better leaf quality. An important factor in tobacco exports.

What's more, by practically eliminating suckers, Off-Shoot-T can save you costly hand suckering. And you know that means even more money in your pocket.

This season don't let suckers reduce the quality of your tobacco. Get the Tobacco Belt's best sucker control program with Off-Shoot-T. To help cure suckers in flue cured tobacco.

For more information, write: Agricultural Specialties Department, The Buckeye Cellulose Corporation, 1355 Lynnfield Road—Suite 210, Memphis, TN 38138. Off-Shoot-T 85.

Stay with the reliables.

Bargain basement sucker control is no bargain.

When you're raising a crop, that's worth up to $3600 an acre, you don't take chances on anything as basic as sucker control.

That's why most tobacco growers stay with the industry's two leading systemics, MH-30® or Royal MH-30® from Uniroyal Chemical.

Good tobacco growers know that you never sacrifice dependability for price. So go for all the reliability you can buy. Insist on original MH-30 or fast acting Royal MH-30 with Sorbatran®. It's just good business. Uniroyal Chemical, Division of Uniroyal, Inc., Naugatuck, CT 06770.
