General Assembly Plans Adjourn Today

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The General Assembly set 2 p.m. today as the deadline for adjourning the session, but several legislative leaders predicted that only the clocks would stop working at that hour.

In its press to adjourn, the legislature took action on a long list of bills Thursday, defeating a proposed constitutional amendment that would eliminate the requirement for a grand jury hearing in all felony cases.

The proposed amendment, aprroved earlier by the Senate, needed a two-thirds vote to pass the House. Instead it was decisively defeated by a vote of 33-68.

The House and the Senate met well into the evvening in an effort to clear out remaining legislation.

Sen. McNeill Smith, D-Guilford, said he introduced the constitutional amendment to eliminate the duplication that now takes place in most felony cases. Smith said most defendants are arrested on a warrant and have a preliminary hearing before a judge, where it is determined whether there is enough evidence to send them to trial.

But he said the defendant is now required by North Carolina's constitution to undergo a hearing by a grand jury, which determines whether the case should go to trial. Smith said his amendment was designed to eliminate such duplication.

Under the proposed amendment, a defendant in a non-capital felony case could go to trial after the preliminary hearing and without a grand jury hearing. The idea, according to Smith, was to help get the defendant a speedy trial.

But opponents in the House said the amendment could destroy the grand jury system.

If the proposed amendment had passed the House, it would have had to be passed by the voters in a statewide referendum before it could take effect.

In other legislative action:

—The House approved a Senate-passed bill designating certain bank records as confidential. The bill was tentatively approved 105-7 and received final approval on a voice vote.

The bill designates records compiled as part of an audit or examination of a state bank as confidential, as well as records which include the names of those borrowing money and the collateral they gave.

—A bill tightening the state's open meetings law was enacted. The bill was passed 39-4 in the Senate after an amendment was added to exempt non-policy-making committees under the boards of 44 public hospitals across the state.

The House then voted to concur.

—The joint appropriations committee gave its approval to more than $3 million in special expenditures. Among them was the 25 percent pay raise for legislators. Added to that measure was a 6 percent pay raise for the governor, boosting his salary to $47,700. Total price of the pay raises is estimated at $566,000, based on a 24-week legislative session.

The special bills are to be acted on today. Among them is a $70,000 appropriation to settle the claim of Lisa Haney, a Burnsville school girl who was paralyzed in a 1976 school bus accident.

—The House put off until today final approval of a bill to allow county and city school districts to use their school buses to transport elderly people. The bill was approved 72-36 on second reading, but its sponsor, Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, said because of the plan to recess Friday, putting the bill off would effectively kill it. The Senate has not yet heard the bill.

He charged that Rep. Ed Davenport, D-Nash, who objected to the final reading, "used a political ploy to kill this bill." Messer asked for a two-thirds vote which would allow the bill to be read for a third time, but lost it, 61-49.

Opponents of the bill said they felt it would cost the state money for maintenance and upkeep of buses while they were being used by senior citizens, and said they feared further "hidden costs" in the bill.

—A bill making technical changes in the state's criminal code — and that would make it possible for Joan Little to be transferred to a federal prison — won final legislative approval. The measure was approved in the House and the Senate voted 35-0 to concur in 11 technical amendments. One provision allows state prisoners to be transferred to a federal facility outside the state.

—A bill reducing the intangibles tax on deposits in a stock-owned saving and loan was approved by the Senate on a 35-0 vote and sent to the House. It would reduce the tax rate from 25 cents per $100 to 10 cents and permit the institution, if it wished, to pay the tax for its depositors.

Bids On Renovating Old Hospital Far Over Budget

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Bids received yesterday by the Board of County Commissioners for renovation of the old hospital building as a county office complex totaled some $292,728 more than commissioners had budgeted for the work.

Added to the bid over-run some $104,000 in contingency funds and $145,700 for architects fees, the project would cost some $542,500 more than the $1,789,000 available.

Commissioners, who have 30 days in which to accept or reject the bids, agreed yesterday to study the feasibility of issuing bonds to complete financing of the renovation.

Low bids for the project totaled $2.08 million. The low bidders included Dominion Contractors for the general construction contract ($1.149 million), Campbell Electric Co for the electrical contract ($246,300), Southern Piping Co. for the heating and air conditioning ($578,400) and J. J. Barnes, Inc. for plumbing ($107,400).

Other general contractors bidding included Eastern Construction with a $1.84 million bid and R. N. Rouse and Co. with a bid of $1.42 million. Electrical bids ranged to a high of $312,800 while heating and air conditioning bids went to a high of $654,500. Plumbing bids reached a high of $434,500.

The renovation of the hospital building would provide new offices for the county manager, the Pitt Board of Education, the Department of Social Services and others.

They would be located in the main section of the facility, the oldest portion of the building.

Renovation would also provide facilities for the East Carolina University School of Medicine in the "A" wing, the newest portion of the old medical facility.

The medical school would use the rear wing of the building until the school's permanent home is completed near the new hospital

Pres. Carter On Way To Panama

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter left today for troubled Panama in a bid to translate the recently ratified Panama Canal treaties into improved relations with all of Latin America.

"We do not expect there will be difficulty," a U.S. official told reporters inquiring about possible violence following the deaths of at least two students in a bloody gunbattle Wednesday night half a block from the Panama City hotel where President and Mrs. Carter are staying.

The official, who asked not to be identified, said "normal security precautions" were being taken for the 22-hour presidential visit that ends Saturday afternoon.

The Pentagon plans no precautionary troop alerts in the Canal Zone, spokesman Thomas B. Ross said. But he added, "We are watching the situation closely." The United States maintains a 9,400-man military force in the Canal Zone.

The trip was scheduled so Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos could sign and exchange diplomatic documents indicating final acceptance by their countries of the two treaties ending U.S. control of the American-built canal by the year 2000. The treaties also guarantee the waterway's neutrality.

Torrijos Sets Big Security Precautions

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — The government of Gen. Omar Torrijos laid on extraordinary security precautions and declared a national holiday for President Carter's visit today to formalize the new Panama Canal treaties.

A cordon of soldiers was ordered to seal off Tocumen International Airport 12 hours before Carter's afternoon arrival. Troops with automatic weapons surrounded the hotel where the president was to stay, and no one was admitted without special credentials.

The route Carter was to take through the city and the places he was to visit were guarded by thousands of security men and troops of the national guard, Panama's army.

The government also moved quietly to silence opponents to the visit, who want the canal turned over earlier than the year 2000 and object to the provision for U.S. military intervention to keep the canal open.

Students who had been demonstrating against the treaties and Carter's visit said they were warned the government would tolerate no further attempts to interfere. They charged some of their leaders were secretly arrested by the National Guard. Anti-Torrijos politicians said they received similar warnings from government officials.

Both groups appeared to take the warnings seriously. Two anti-Carter rallies were canceled Thursday.

The University of Panama, where two students were killed Wednesday night in a gun battle between anti-treaty and pro-government students, was closed.

Italian Gov't Shaken

By EDWARD MAGRI
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — Italy's ruling Christian Democrats, still reeling from the murder of party chief Aldo Moro, have been hit by the resignation of Italy's president, Giovanni Leone, because of accusations of corruption. Urban violence continued, meanwhile.

Leone, one of the group of Christian Democratic leaders that has run the Italian government since World War II, denied the charges of tax evasion and involvement in the Lockheed payoff scandal. But he moved out of the Quirinal Palace with no ceremony Thursday night, six and a half months before his seven-year term was to expire.

A bomb exploded early today at a city-run dairy in Rome, and others were discovered unexploded at the city's main prison, a Communist Party office and three other sites in Rome. The dairy bombing caused an estimated $33,000 in damage. There were no injuries.

In a message to the news media, a group calling itself Armed Revolutionary Nucleus claimed responsibility and said the bombing was a protest against government-approved price increases. There was no apparent connection with the Leone scandal.

In Milan today, stock prices plunged an average 2 percent in what brokers agreed was a reaction to the fall of the Italian president.

Intercept Thirty Tons Of Drug

HENDERSON, La. (AP) — Federal and state authorities intercepted a truck carrying about 30 tons of high-grade Columbian marijuana worth an estimated $23 million today in St. Martin Parish and arrested seven men, a U.S. Customs spokesman said.

Richard Wright, spokesman for the Customs office at New Orleans, said officers also seized four trucks, including an 18-wheeler, and a Cadillac car.

It was not immediately determined how the marijuana was smuggled into this country, whether by ship or plane, but Wright said it was unlikely that such a large amount came by plane.

All were charged with possession with intent to distribute, said State Police Lt. Norris Deville.

Helicopter Pilot Dies Following Crash Of His Craft In Charlotte

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — As a crowd of onlookers watched in horror, 42-year-old Robert Barker was engulfed in a ball of flame after the small helicopter he was flying hit power lines and crashed Thursday.

"He was burning," said T.L. Odom, who was waiting for Barker to land so he could join him for an aerial photography session.

"Some guy brought down a fire extinguisher but we couldn't get that on him," Odom said. "We kept yelling, 'Please roll, please roll.'"

Barker miraculously was able to crawl from the twisted, flaming wreckage of the three-seat helicopter after it crashed in a vacant field almost in the shadow of Charlotte's downtown skyscrapers.

Barker, a veteran pilot who had recently moved to Charlotte from Charleston, S.C., suffered third degree burns over most of his body and was rushed to Charlotte Memorial Hospital where his condition was described as critical. He died in the hospital's burn unit at 4:10 a.m. today, a hospital spokesman said.

His wife, Kay, and two of their three children had moved to Charlotte only last Sunday.

"I saw it when it first hit. I thought it was lightning. And then all of a sudden I saw a big ball of fire," said Kathryn White, who lives near the crash site.

The helicopter, owned by Executive Helicopters Inc. of Atlanta, was leased to Charlotte radio station WSOC, which used it for daily traffic reports. Barker was flying for another party at the time of the crash and was to have picked up a WSOC reporter later in the afternoon. He was the only person aboard when the crash occurred about 3 p.m.

Odom was waiting at the edge of the field for Barker to land and pick him up when the crash occurred. Odom said he saw the helicopter approaching power lines and tried to warn Barker.

"I saw the lines between the helicopter and myself, and I realized that at his angle of descent, he was going to hit the damn things," Odom said.

"I started waving my hands and running at him and it looked like at the last second he realized it and nosed it down and tried to turn it on its side," Odom said. "Then the blades hit right in the middle of the four lines. Pieces fell off and it started plummeting to the ground. It hit and still wasn't on fire and I thought he'll make it. Then it blew up."

Damage to electrical lines temporarily cut off power to about 7,000 homes and businesses, according to Duke Power Co.

Almost Four Of Five Families Redeem Coupons

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Clipping coupons used to be synonymous with people who bought bonds. They cut coupons from their bonds to collect interest.

Today's clippers are people trying to save money on consumer goods. Nearly four out of every five American families now use coupons, most of them for food, according to a recent survey by A.C. Nielsen.

The face value of coupons issued last year exceeded $500 million. A substantial increase is forecast for this year, say Anthony Gallo and Thomas Stucker in an article in "National Food Review," a U.S. Department of Agriculture quarterly.

The number of manufacturers offering coupons has tripled since 1970, to more than 1,000, the authors wrote.

"Coupons have become a leading merchandising tool in food retailing. Coupons are used mostly with processed foods, household products, and health and beauty products.

"Since 1971, retail food prices have risen almost 55 percent. And to help lower food and household costs, consumers have made greater use of coupons."

The Nielsen survey showed the biggest coupon users are middle income households and families with higher grocery bills. But a USDA survey early last year also found more than one fourth of higher income consumers questioned had used coupons more often than in the previous year.

Just how effective this is as an economy for consumers is hard to assess. Gallo and Stucker wrote that coupons appear to be an effective tool for manufacturers for increasing sales and introducing new products, but:

"The aggregate impact of coupons on retail food prices appears to be minimal ... Coupon redemption is not much different from a regular sale, although the buyer does need access to the coupon, whether by cutting it from the newspaper or direct mail receipt."

They said manufacturers and retailers regard coupons as an advertising expense. It is unclear, they added, if the savings represented by coupon redemption would be passed on to consumers in the form of lower prices if couponing were not available, or if manufacturers and retailers would use the money for other promotions instead.

In another article, Effie H. Hacklander tried to determine if working wives shop differently for food from their stay-at-home sisters. The answer is, "not much," although almost half of all wives in the U.S. work force are there because their families need extra income.

Comparing food shopping behavior, Ms. Hacklander found virtually no difference in frequency of major food shopping. It is essentially a once-a-week, one-stop activity for most, and takes about an hour, excluding checkout time.

Non-working wives take a little more time to select food items, she found, but patronize about the same number of stores as stay-at-homes.

Households with working wives eat out somewhat more often but both groups eat more often in fast food establishments and least often in restaurants where entrees are priced over $5.

"Nonworking wives were almost as likely to be time-and-money-oriented shoppers as they were to be satisfaction-oriented food shoppers," Ms. Hackland wrote. "Regardless of whether wives were working or nonworking, the 'careful shopper' (... who plans in advance, checks weekly specials, compares prices, and checks labels) is not the most prevalent in the marketplace."

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

In anticipation of your question, it will take about a minute and 15 seconds to read. There will be no quiz and no big words.

Remember how your mother sat through a pouring rain to watch you play baseball and a high fly went right through your fingers and she said, "It could happen to Pete Rose"?

Remember that when she serves a birthday cake that has to be propped up with bread crusts and the crack in the middle with icing and the layers reinforced with toothpicks.

Remember how you borrowed her camera for the picnic and you dropped it into the duck pond and she said, "It was old and we needed a new one anyway"?

Remember that when she returns your brand new T-shirt hopelessly shrunk, permawrinkled and with terminal lint.

Remember when you were in the school play and you had one line, "I hear soldiers outside," and you blew it and said, "Does anyone hear anything?" and she said, "You were the only one we could hear."

Remember that when she's the only mother who shows up at the class picnic in a dress, white shoes and hose.

Remember when you were supposed to play "March of the Wee Folks" in the piano recital and all the others were girls and your mother said, "You look flushed. Maybe you have a fever and shouldn't go"?

Remember that when your mother is waiting for you in the car after scout meeting and the dog is clawing the seat and the baby is slobbering on the steering wheel and she is in a towaway zone and forgot to unplug the coffee pot.

Remember when you were selling peanut brittle for the band and your grandma was out of town and you didn't start selling until the night before you were to make your quota for the gang to go to Washington and your mother was on a diet and bought two dozen boxes for the freezer?

Remember that when they need volunteers to chaperone the fourth grade to a meat packing plant for class day and all the other mothers are allergic to children and your mother was due to deliver last week.

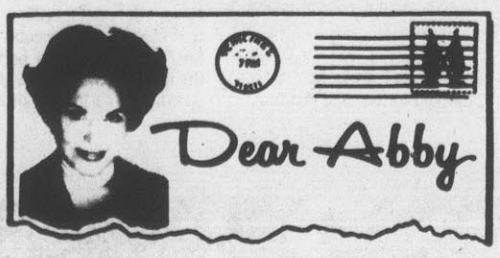

It's called "compassion" and I lied to you. Look it up!

Salesmanship? Or Junk Phone Calls

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I make an honest living soliciting new customers for a cleaning firm by telephoning people and advising them of our special introductory offers. But, Abby, I couldn't even repeat some of the names I've been called! Not only that, but I've had people hang up on me, telling me where to go and what I can do with my offer! You wouldn't believe some of the threats and curses I've been subjected to on this job!

It wouldn't take any longer to say, "Thank you very much, but I am not interested."

Please print this to remind people that telephone solicitors are human, too, and deserve a little courtesy and consideration. Thank you.

ABUSED BY THE PUBLIC

DEAR ABUSED: I do not condone rudeness for any reason, but judging from my mail, many more people resent telephone solicitation than appreciate it.

A businessman in Clackamas, Ore., wrote to the Public Utilities Commissioner in Salem, Ore., as follows:

"DEAR SIR:

I, as a very busy business executive, am writing to protest being called from my work to take unsolicited sales calls, and it is especially galling to find myself talking to a computer. We pay high telephone rates so we can use the phone in our business and have it available for legitimate calls. We very strongly resent the invasion of our premises via equipment we pay for by these sales, and especially computer calls. If I want to buy insurance and seek investment possibilities, I know how to contact the people I need.

While I would not want to restrict legitimate suppliers from being able to solicit our business via telephone, there must be some way to prohibit the invasion of our privacy by unwanted junk calls.

I am making it a practice not to buy anything from this type of call. Not only do these calls take my time and disturb my routine, but they take the secretary's time and tie up the line so that legitimate calls cannot get through.

Anything you can do to work toward the elimination of this annoyance will be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
GORDON S. GLEASON"

For more on the subject of telephone solicitation, read on:

DEAR ABBY: You told readers who resent being called on the telephone by someone soliciting business to say, "Because you've inconvenienced me, I'll not buy your product or service."

I, too, am a salesman (insurance) who solicits by phone for many reasons. Some salesmen are too lazy to do otherwise; however, there are also valid reasons for telephone solicitation. First, our government has asked that we conserve gasoline, and secondly, I think a phone call is less of an intrusion than ringing someone's doorbell.

Abby, people who don't want to be bothered by soliciting salesmen should request an unlisted telephone number.

INSURANCE SALESMAN

DEAR SALESMAN: It costs money to have an unlisted telephone number. Furthermore, most people have a telephone for their own convenience—not a salesman's. And why must a private citizen be forced to choose between being bothered by a salesman who rings his doorbell OR one who calls him on the phone?

Derek, 11, Took Chance And Lost

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two days before the open heart surgery, Dr. Linton Whitaker and his son sat down in the library of their home and studied medical diagrams and talked man-to-man about the operation.

The boy, who knew the odds, felt good about it all.

"I am confident," he wrote in his diary.

On Monday, Derek Whitaker died on the operating table, a victim of an illness of the heart called tetralogy of fallot.

He was 11 years old.

He had chanced death over the prospect of riding out life in a wheelchair, but his heart, damaged since birth, failed to carry on the gritty fight.

Whitaker, a plastic surgeon who practices at Children's Hospital and the University of Pennsylvania Hospital, said his son's defective heart had been shutting off blood to a lung.

Derek showed "extraordinary depth" in undertanding his illness and its implications, his father said in an interview Wednesday.

"He had tremendous drive," said his mother, Renata. "He wanted to excel athletically, as well as intellectually. He never had any sense of being incapacitated. In fact, his friends at school never knew about his problem."

School was prestigious Episcopal Academy where Derek was at the top of his accelerated class. He had wanted someday to be a cardiac surgeon and take care of those whose hearts, like his own, were not right.

But in the meantime, as if it were something important to be proved, he would play baseball. He practiced almost daily, drilling a ball against the bricks of the chimney attached to the large stone home in suburban Wynnewood.

Not long ago he wrote in his diary, "I didn't make the baseball team. So what! I'll show them yet!"

Monday's seven-hour operation took place at the cardiac center of the University of Alabama. It was the boy's third. The first came 30 hours after he was born; the second at age 6.

Doctors gave the boy a good chance of surviving surgery. But Derek's heart would not start again when the operation was over.

'Mad Anthony' Might Smile

NEW YORK (AP) — "Mad" Anthony Wayne might be smiling today if he knew the medal he won for his surprise attack of the British at Stony Point, N.Y., had commanded a world-record price.

A Philadelphia antiques dealer purchased the 4-ounce medal Thursday at auction for $50,000. The medal was awarded to the Revolutionary War general by the Continental Army. The previous record for a medal was set last year when a commemorative award to Queen Elizabeth I, circa 1615, brought $37,620 at a Sotheby's London house auction.

Measure Of Quality Service

Recently the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop was accredited for a three-year period by the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities.

Executive Director Alan H. Toppel said in a letter that the facility had "met high standards of performance and has been accredited for its programs of vocational development and work activity" for the three-year period.

"Everyone involved in your facility can rightfully be proud of the unique distinction of being accredited.

"We commend you for your performance which has resulted in accreditation, and your constant efforts to improve the quality of your program."

Executive Director of the workshop Howard Dawkins said the facility is the only non-profit workshop in the state to be accredited. It is also one of six rehabilitation facilities which is accredited by the state.

Accreditation is a measure of the standards which are being maintained at the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop. The services being offered by the facility are important to our community and those involved in bringing about the successful accreditation effort are to be commended.

Imcompetents Are Unwanted 'Luxury'

The U.S. Senate Governmental Affairs Committee approved a bill which would make it easier to release incompetent workers.

Hopefully this legislation will become law. It has reached the point in federal government where incompetence is not a consideration in retaining employment. A worker who shows up at the office and doesn't commit a crime has little to worry about, even if he doesn't do his work adequately.

It should not be that way, and mechanism for dealing with incompetence is badly needed.

THIS AFTERNOON

Special-Need Prisoners

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Almost all of the young prisoners in North Carolina's prison system are mentally, emotionally, or physically handicapped.

A survey of youthful offenders shows that 75 per cent of the population between ages 17 and 21 are categorized as handicapped, needing special psychological counseling and education services.

That figure is made even more disconcerning by the fact that all of the youthful offenderswere included in the statistics. When only those who are still in school are counted—leaving off those who have graduated from high school—more than 95 per cent are classified as having special educational needs.

Richard Urbanik, chief of program services for the prisons division of the State Department of Corrections, says the dilemma will only grow worse as time goes by.

Younger

"The average age of the prison population is falling dramatically. Where five years ago the average age was 32, that has dropped now to 25," says Urbanik.

The inmates are entering the system younger and remaining longer.

Law enforcement crackdowns on robberies and break-ins, better prosecution, and stiffer sentences are seen by Urbanik as thechief cause of a "blossoming of the 17-18-19-20 year olds in prison."

In just two year's time, he noted, there has been a 30 per cent increase in numbers of 17-year-olds committed to prison.

The present population of youthful offenders is approximately 4,000 throughout the system, says Urbanik, but trends cause officials to project that in just another three years, the total will reach 7,000. Worse yet, the population is made up of more felons than in the past. Recent law changes are causing those convicted of less serious crimes to all but disappear from the prison system, leaving only the "hard-core" cases in the system.

While taking a long look at the educational problems within the prisons, it was found that even though records indicated a higher level of learning, in practice, the inmates are far below average.

"The average claimed to have a tenth grade education," says Urbanik, "but tested to a performance at the fifth grade level."

BILL NOBLITT

A combination of these circumstances prompts prison officals to consider asking the General Assembly to creat a statewide district of the prison system. The state now has 145 school districts comprised chiefly of city or county units.

School District

Setting up the prison system as a legal school district would allow special access both state and federal funding sources, and cause the State Department of Public Instruction to take a stronger hand inproviding education within the prisons.

Talking with the Legislative Commission on Children With With Special Needs recently, Urbanik noted that the conditon of the inmates requires special efforts in the schools. He also reported that while the prisons are attemtping to meet all of the requirements of federal and state laws regarding the rights of school-age youngsters to a "free and appropriate" education, this is causing some unique problems behind the walls.

"One in particular — the removal of architectual barriers to the handicapped — is giving our engineers nightmares. How do you remove barriers in a prison?"

The law now requires, also, that education should take place in the least restrictive setting possible and with the handicapped not isolated-from the general school population.

It could develop that courts would interpret this to mean that if a prisoner is given home visitation rights, is atrusty, can be released from prison to go to work release or other outside activities, then he could qualify to attend an open public school rather than the prison classes.

No Reading For Johnny

WASHINGTON — If Johnny couldn't read before, he's really in trouble now that there is a taxpayer's revolt in this country.

In a couple of years this scene could be played all over the country.

"Hey, Johnny, what are you doing throwing that rock through the window?"

"Nothing."

"Why aren't you in school?"

"School's closed."

"Then why don't you go and play in the park?"

"Can't. The park's closed."

"Well, go to the library and read a book."

"No way. All the libraries are closed."

"Then go play in the streets."

"The streets are full of garbage. No one's picked it up for over a week."

"Surely you can find something constructive for an 11-year-old boy to do."

"I could set fire to a building. But that's no fun because the fire engines won't come any more."

"That's a bad bruise on your leg. Have you been to see a doctor?"

"I tried to but the emergency room at the hospital is closed. They said they don't have any money."

"Where's your mother?"

"Working."

"Then you should be in a day-care center." "I was until they closed it."

"Who gets your lunch for you?"

"Don't have lunch since they closed the school."

"I guess you're too young to get a job."

ART BUCHWALD

"Yup. Nobody wants to give me a job because they say I should be in school."

"What do you intend to do after you've broken all the windows?"

"I don't know. Maybe steal a bicycle, if I can find one."

"I don't like that kind of talk, Johnny. You should set your sights on higher goals than that."

"Like what?"

"Getting a good education for one."

"How can I do that if the schools are closed?"

"They won't be closed forever."

"They'll be closed long enough for me to steal a bike."

"Why don't you educate yourself?"

"Don't have no books."

"There has to be something you could do that isn't against the law. What do you want to be when you grow up?"

"Don't care."

"Why not?"

"Nobody cares about me."

"That's a terrible thing to say. What makes this country great is that you can be anything you want to be when you grow up, including President of the United States."

"What's the President of the United States?"

"You mean to say you're 11 years old and you don't even know about the President of the United States."

"I guess they closed the schools before I had a chance to find out."

"Well, if you don't stop breaking those windows I'm going to have to call the police."

"Won't do no good. Those windows is the police station. They closed it eight months ago."

Other Editors Say Over-Regulated

(Jacksonville Daily News)

There is a hazard which is the major cause of the 300,000 cases of skin cancer a year in the nation. From these, there is a rate of more than 6,500 deaths.

The sun is the culprit and it is doubtful that any of our government's "protective" agencies will be able to force the sun to change its rays.

Too much sunlight destroys cells in the upper layer of the skin. It is thus left vulnerable to cancer. No laboratory rats were involved in this discovery, and the cause was discernable and clear-cut.

Because of the zeal to protect everybody from every possible hazard, it must be a terrible frustration for the boys in Washington to consider such a great hazard without being able to find a proper scapegoat.

There is not much the regulators can do to make old Sol behave, but perhaps we should be careful in presenting them a challenge. Thinking about the air bag for cars and other dandy innovations, it is probably not beyond their reach to dream up some sort of mandatory protective cover for us.

They might even envision automatic equipment which would need just a few hundred thousand inspectors to see that everybody who stayed out of doors would be protected from possible skin cancer.

If this all seems farfetched, ask yourself, if you're 50 or more, (or ask someone who is) what they would have thought 20 years ago of some of the silly regulations we tolerate today.

Can you imagine the reaction of a butcher back then if he was told he would have to wear a hard hat to cut meat? Or imagine the reaction of a dignitary about to turn the first shovel of dirt for a new building being told he too must first top himself off with a headpiece.

Some of the ideas advanced by government agency people in the quest for career enhancement border on pure genius. It's too bad their ingenuity is lost to the private sector. For if they were forced out of their sinecures into productive efforts they would become a double barrelled asset to all who foot the bills of bureaucratic prolifiration.

Life is full of hazards and we are all faced daily with calculated risks. Our best protection will always be ourselves and a bit of determiniation to act in a prudent manner.

Report Hints Threat

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government study hinting that the compromise natural gas deregulation plan could cost residential users far more than expected is generating threats of a new Senate filibuster against President Carter's energy program.

As the report began circulating Thursday on Capitol Hill three deregulation foes — Sens. James Abourezk, D-S.D., Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, and Wendell Anderson, D-Minn. — announced plans for the talkathon.

The Department of Energy study suggests the painstakingly crafted congressional compromise might cost residential users more by 1985 than the Senate-passed and industry-backed bill which called for quicker deregulation.

The administration had fought a strenuous battled against the Senate deregulation bill. The study is the first to suggest the Senate bill might have cost less than the House-Senate compromise accepted by Carter.

The compromise, recently approved by a conference committee after 6½ months, would lift federal price controls in January 1985, permitting a steady increase in the regulated price between now and then.

The report was called misleading by several congressional energy committee aides and by an energy department spokesman.

Jim Bishop, the department spokesman, said one problem is the study "doesn't show what would happen to prices between now and the year 1985."

Other parts of the report give conflicting and sometimes contradictory estimates of what the compromise would cost residential users by 1985, he said, claiming the Senate bill still is "much more expensive."

But the study says:

"Although the compromise proposal results in the smallest increase in industrial prices, residential prices are projected to increase while the House and Senate bills show a decrease."

40 Years Ago Today

June 16, 1938

The Berlin government today decreed more severe restrictions on Jewish commerce and finance in Nazi Germany.

A decree published in an official newspaper defined more closely than ever before what shops, businesses or other commercial undertakings are to be regarded as Jewish.

The decree aims to make certain that bans against Jewish or part Jewish stores or concerns shall be observed to the fullest extent as far as members of the Naxi party and the entire German civil service are concerned. Uncertainty as to whether an establishment es Jewish or not is to be eliminated.

Boy Scouts of troop number 30 will entertain Scouts from all county troops at the cabin here next Friday.

Each city troop will be host to the county troops at events set for June, July and August. The entertainments will start at 5 p.m. and last until 8 p.m., during which time games and contests will be played.

THE GALLUP POLL

Believers In 'Paranormal'

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — A surprisingly large number of Americans — particularly among the younger and better educated — believe in paranormal phenomena such as the occult and supernatural beings.

This conclusion is based on a recent survey of the nation's adults, who were asked to indicate whether they believe in a wide variety of phenomena, ranging from such everyday topics as astrology to such esoterica as deja vu, the feeling that you have been someplace or done something you haven't.

Here are the main findings:

*A solid majority (57 percent) of those aware of UFOs believe they are real and not imaginary. In Great Britain, where there have been far fewer "sightings," many more skeptics are found: 27 percent say they believe in flying saucers.

*A majority of 54 percent believe in angels. The percentage increases to 68 percent among persons surveyed who say their religious beliefs are very important in their lives.

*About half of those interviewed (51 percent) believe in ESP (extra sensory perception). Two-thirds of persons with a college background (64 percent) do so.

*About four in 10 (39 percent) of the sample say they believe in devils (50 percent of those who say their religious beliefs are very important in their lives).

*Precognition (the feeling that something is going to happen that hasn't actually happened) and deja vu (the feeling you have been someplace you haven't been before, or have done something you haven't done before) are common beliefs. Four in 10 (37 percent) Americans believe in precognition, while three in 10 (30 percent) believe in deja vu.

*Twenty-nine percent of Americans say they believe in astrology and think their lives are governed by the position of the stars. Attesting to the popularity of astrology in the U.S. today is the fact that astrology columns are carried by 1,200 of the nation's 1,750 daily newspapers.

Interestingly, those who say their religious beliefs are "very important" in their lives are as likely to believe in astrology as those who say their religious beliefs are "fairly" or "not at all" important.

*About one person (13 percent), in eight and one person in four in the West, believes in Sasquatch, or Bigfoot, a purported 8-foot, 900-pound Pacific Northwest humanoid.

*A like proportion believe in the Loch Ness Monster, a creature that supposedly lives in a 24-mile long, mile wide stretch of water in Scotland called Loch Ness. Although there have been an estimated 2,000 reported sightings of "Nessie," little agreement is found on what the creature looks like.

*One American in nine (11 percent) believes in ghosts. As many as 20 percent of the British, however, say they believe in ghosts. And 7 percent report that they have actually seen a ghost.

*One American in 10 (10 percent) believes in witches, with younger adults far more likely to believe in witches than older persons.

Respondents were handed a card and asked this question:

"Which of the following do you believe in?"

Here are the percentages saying yes, ranked from highest percentages to lowest:

•UFO's (Unidentified Flying Objects)	57%
• Angels	54
• ESP (Extra Sensory Perception)	51
• Devils	39
• Precognition (the feeling that something is going to happen that hasn't actually happened)	37
• Deja Vu (the feeling you have been someplace you never have been before — or done something you have not done before)	30
• Astrology	29
• Sasquatch (Bigfoot)	13

Strength For Today

COULD BE WORSE

An ancient Greek philosopher remarked that if everyone could take his troubles, cast them into a closet, and then go and examine the troubles of everyone else, he would come back at last and eagerly rummage around in the closet to get his own troubles back.

Whenever we feel that our own burdens are insupportable, it is wise to look around and study the troubles of other people. Certainly we will find people with burdens lighter than our own, but much more important are the people who have troubles which would be crushing if placed on our own backs.

Often people are broken down by the burden of trouble. More often, however, their happiness and relationships with others are destroyed by worrying about troubles that never happen or regretting things which cannot be undone.

It sounds very trite to say, "Things could be worse", but this often points to a very healthy way to regard life.

Few Uproars On Housing Cost

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — You can be certain of periodic uproars about the rising cost of taxes, beef, steel, rents and kitty litter, but it's far less common for protesters to raise the roof over the cost of houses.

And yet the prices of singlefamily houses seem trapped in a perpetual updraft, one that blew the median price of existing homes some $1,700 higher in April alone, to a new market value of $48,200.

In just one year, says the National Association of Realtors, the median price of existing single-family dwellings jumped 14.8 percent. Statistically speaking, today's $48,200 home cost only $26,300 in 1972.

The frustrations of buyers are considerably muted when compared with their angry reactions to increases in nearly any of the 10,000 or so items in their supermarket.

Why do people go right on buying houses no matter what the price, and despite recurring and woeful claims that the American dream has been priced beyond the typical family?

For some, there is no choice. There are many substitutes for red meat. There is but one substitute for those who choose not to buy a house: they can rent. But rents too have been rising fast.

How do buyers afford to buy at today's prices? A study by the U.S.League of Savings Associations gives several clues. Most importantly, it found, new buyers shop hard for good buys.

While the median price of homes financed by savings associations last year—new and used—was $44,000, the study found as many homes purchased for less than $30,000 as were bought for more than $70,000.

Where do buyers find them? Take your choice of theories.

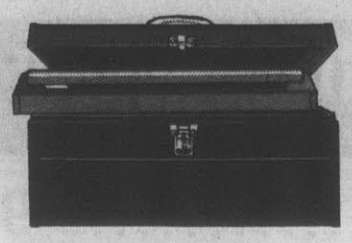

Joseph Benedict, vice president of the U.S. League, contends that high cost housing "is a phenomenon of the large urban center." He maintains "the steady movement of people to smaller cities suggests a growing opportunity for less expensive housing."

Joseph Timilty, chairman of the National Commission on Neighborhoods, which reports to President Carter, is encouraged to find young couples buying inexpensive housing in rundown urban areas, and then proceeding to rehabilitate both home and neighborhood.

Whatever, home buyers are hard workers. The U.S. League claims 45 percent of all homebuying families last year had more than one wage-earner, with the second income sometimes contributing half the total.

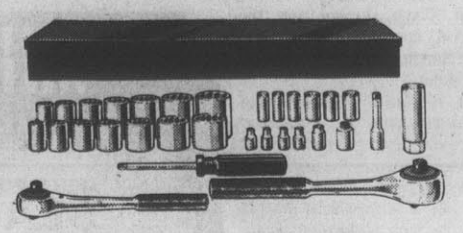

Having worked hard to raise the cash, potential buyers look long and hard and creatively to find a home within their means. And then they invest, and they don't complain because they are riding the crest.

Charlotte Paper Claims Pornography-Crime Ties

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's thriving pornography business has links to organized crime, according to the Charlotte News.

In a five-part series this week on pornography, the newspaper said it had found evidence that many of the pornographic books, magazines and sexual devices sold in the state are shipped in by out-of-state distributors with ties to organized crime.

In Charlotte, two pornography outlets are owned by coporations whose principal officers have been identified by law enforcement agencies as having ties to Mafia families, the paper said.

In the series, the News also said:

—Pornographic films and books are often shipped secretly into the state on commercial airlines or buses, with boxes carrying such labels as "machine parts" and showing no return address.

—Mike Thevis, an Atlanta distributor who has been described as one of the nation's biggest pornographers, operates a chain of bookstores in North Carolina. The News said police intelligence agents in the eastern part of the state say Thevis has ties with a Mafia family based in New Jersey. Thevis was in prison in Indiana on arson and obscenity convictions when he escaped April 28.

—Law enforcement officials regard John K. Atkinson, 32, of Linden as the biggest pornography dealer in the state. The News added that Atkinson describes himself as a close friend of Thevis and used to buy books, magazines and movies from a Thevis company until he set up his own distribution outfit.

The paper quoted an unidentified FBI agent as saying, "Between Washington, D.C., and Miami, Fla., John is the man. There's nobody on the East Coast, except for the Thevis operation in Atlanta, who handles the hardcore stuff but John."

In response, Atkinson said from his home near Fayetteville that he is merely a small business man. "I own four bookstores in North Carolina. It's not a big operation — I have nothing to do with organized crime," Atkinson said.

He said his stores carry a range of books from westerns to novels to Hustler magazine. But he admitted he also sells hardcore sex magazines, adding "but how can you define what's hardcore?"

The News said law enforcement and judicial officials in the state believe they are hindered by vague state laws in trying to clamp down on obscenity.

One unnamed source in the state attorney general's office told the paper "North Carolina's obscenity law is one huge mess."

The state has three obscenity statutes but two have been ruled unconstitutional by federal courts. The one law that has not faced a constitutional test prohibits selling obscenity to minors.

And to put a dealer out of business with obscenity statutes, it would have to be proven that every separate piece of material the dealer sells is obscene.

Federal officials said they investigate cases when they get them, but proving a piece of material is obscene and getting a conviction in federal court is both expensive and difficult.

"Priorities must be set everywhere, and you cannot set everything as a priority," said Harold Edwards, U.S. attorney in Charlotte. "You also must have public opinion with you. And the public will just not enforce a law it doesn't agree with."

Investigating Bank And Suspected Heroin Links

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — State and federal officials are investigating a link between a Caribbean bank and the operation of a large heroin ring with North Carolina connections, according to the Winston-Salem Sentinel.

The newspaper said in its Thursday editions that the Southern Bank and Trust Co. of Grand Cayman Island was used to "launder" large sums of money generated by the heroin ring.

A Wayne County grand jury has indicted 16 people so far this year in connection with the drug ring, described by state Attorney General Rufus Edmisten as "the biggest drug case in the country."

The Sentinel said some of the money produced by the drug operation is believed to have been used to buy a 540-acre farm in Granville County after being sent through Southern Bank and Trust Co. The report said the farm was once thought to have been a stopping point for some heroin en route from Thailand to New York and New Jersey for distribution.

Paradise Valley Inc., which was then a New York corporation owned and controlled by Frank Lucas and his wife Julie, bought the farm in December 1974. The purchase was handled for the company by John D. McConnell, a former Raleigh attorney.

McConnell, who has been disbarred and served a prison sentence for perjury in connection with testimony about Lucas, was among those indicted in Wayne County earlier this year on charges of conspiring in a drug operation.

Lucas, thought to have been a major figure in the distribution of heroin in New York and New Jersey, is serving a 70-year prison sentence for drug dealings and faces trial on other charges.

The newspaper quoted Jack T. Hamilton of Charlotte, a former attorney for The Northwestern Bank, as saying Odell Wilson told him McConnell deposited about $400,000 in Southern Bank and Trust in 1974 and used the deposit as collateral for a loan of about $400,000. Wilson was then manager of Northwestern's island branch.

Federal agents have decided the deposit-loan procedure was clearly a laundering of money generated by Lucas' drug operation, the newspaper said. After going through the transactions, it said, the money was safe for domestic use because it could not be traced.

The Sentinel said a state prosecutor who asked that his name not be used said investigators are trying to determine whether there were any links between current or former officals of The Northwestern Bank and the drug operation.

Officials of Northwestern have said that connections existed at the time between their institution and Southern Bank and Trust in the Cayman Islands.

Hardees Merger Hurdle Cleared

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Hardee's Food Systems Inc., which is planning a merger with Pet Inc., has been granted a federal restraining order temporarily blocking an attempt to prevent the merger.

The order was granted here Wednesday by U.S. District Court Judge Franklin T. Dupree Jr. It temporarily prohibits IC Industries Inc., an Illinois-based holding company, from offering to buy Pet stock on the condition that shareholders of Pet and Hardee's reject the planned merger.

Dupree set June 23 for a full hearing on Hardee's request for an injunction barring the Illinois company from interfering with or inducing a breach of the Hardee's-Pet merger agreement.

Hardee's complaint contended that IC Industries violated federal proxy regulations, unlawfully interfered with the merger contract between Hardee's and Pet and intentionally interfered with Hardee's business relations with Georgeson & Co. and the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York.

IC Industries, which owns the Illinois Central Ralilroad, said in a statement Thursday that it would "vigorously oppose" Hardee's "attempt ... to interfere with IC Industries' proposed offer to purchase" Pet shares.

Hardee's, based in Rocky Mount, operates a chain of fast-food restaurants. It signed a merger agreement May 10 that would make Hardee's a wholly owned subsidiary of Pet.

The legal procedures for a vote by the shareholders of both firms have been started, but no dates for the votes have been announced.

IC Industries announced last week a proposed tender offer of $54 per share for all 7.26 million outstanding shares of Pet stock. The offer was scheduled to begin June 27 and last at least 20 days.

The offer could be withdrawn if shareholders of either Pet or Hardee's approved the merger, IC Industries officials said.

Pet management has announced it does not endorse the offer and has recommended its shareholders not sell to IC Industries. Pet also filed suit in federal court in St. Louis and in Delaware Chancery Court to block the tender offer.

It projected a price of $3.09 per thousand under continued regulation.

Wants Shield On Interference

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz, says he wants manufacturers of television sets to voluntarily build into their products a shield against interference from citizens band radios.

Otherwise, Goldwater told a Senate subcommittee Wednesday, he will push for passage of his bill authorizing the Federal Communications Commission to require such action.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another 25,000 Vietnamese refugees will be admitted to the United States in the next 11 months.

In making the announcement Wednesday, Attorney General Griffin B. Bell also authorized admission of 12,000 East European refugees by next May 1 and 500 South Americans over a two-year period.

ABC Leader In Network Profits

'Nancy Drew' Aiming At Older Acting Roles

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the July "Playboy," there's a four-page photo look at Pamela Sue Martin. She used to play ABC's sweet, teen-age "Nancy Drew." Not all the photos concern that.

One, showing her in wet hair and see-through blouse, sort of suggests someone stole her blue jeans.

So the brown-haired, gray-eyed actress, 25, was asked if all this is part of a Hollywood cliche, trying to change an image, in this case the Nancy Drew one. She grinned.

"Yeah, that's exactly how I feel, the same old 'image' cliche," she said. "Obviously, nothing is my 'image.' But people do tend to stereotype you here.

"And it ("Playboy") has helped me age-wise. Before, all the offers I got were Nancy Drew types of teen-age roles. But I feel I'm past that. It doesn't interest me so much anymore."

Miss Martin, born in Westport, Conn., daughter of a businessman, began her career at 16 as a model. Her first TV job was as a teen-ager whose mother praised her hair in a shampoo commercial.

The commercials led to acting work in four films, among them "Poseidon Adventure," and to PBS "The Hemingway Play" and ABC's "Nancy Drew," which she left this winter after two seasons.

That same winter, she went to Newfoundland with the Greenpeace animal activists to protest the slaughter of baby seals. It may have cost her jobs here, but she feels that was more important.

Still, she recently did "Human Feelings," an as-yet unscheduled NBC film, playing a Las Vegas showgirl who falls in love with an angel sent to destroy that wicked gambling spa.

Interestingly, Miss Martin, who says the movie was made before her celebrated "Playboy" came out, had never acted even in a high school play before acting in her first film, "To Find a Man."

After "Man," she said, she did study a year with New York emoting coach Warren Robertson, "but I don't like studying at all. I don't. I've learned much more simply by doing it."

Much of this knowledge, she adds, came in 15-hour workdays during her "Nancy Drew" tenure. She declines to knock the series: "I really liked doing it. I learned a lot from it."

Miss Martin, whose spare time is spent scuba-diving, riding horse and studying art and music at UCLA, greatly admires such actresses as Anne Bancroft and Faye Dunaway and their films.

And she'd now like to get the kind of roles they get, particularly in movies. Has the "Playboy" appearance — which includes an interview — greatly aided her pursuit of this goal?

She nodded and held her hands about a foot apart: "I've gotten a pile of scripts for older roles. That's the most significant difference. Now, they're the kind of parts I really want to play."

What about another television series?

"Once you do a series it's very easy to pop into another one," Pamela Sue Martin said. "But that's the last thing I want to do."

"AND AWAY-Y-Y WE GO!" — Comedian Jackie Gleason and his wife, Marilyn, respond to newsmen's questions in Chicago Thursday. Moved Mock-Up Shark

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Someone apparently thought the mock-up of a shark would be more realistic near water than sitting in front of a movie theater.

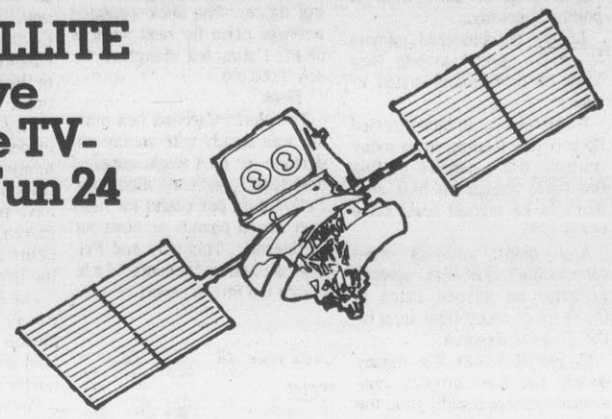

A 15-foot, 225-pound wooden version of the shark seen in the movie "Jaws 2" was stolen from the front of a Mobile theater June 7. The shark was discovered Wednesday near a ditch behind the moviehouse.

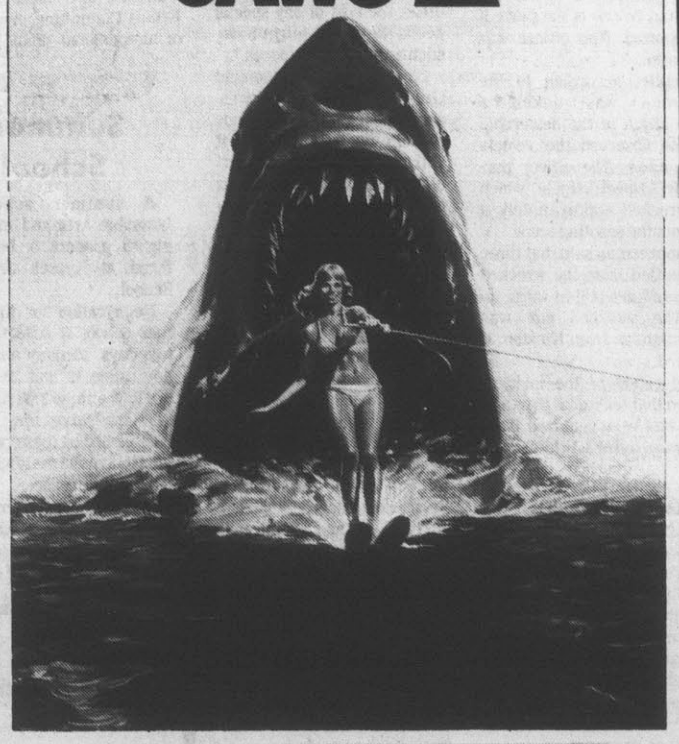

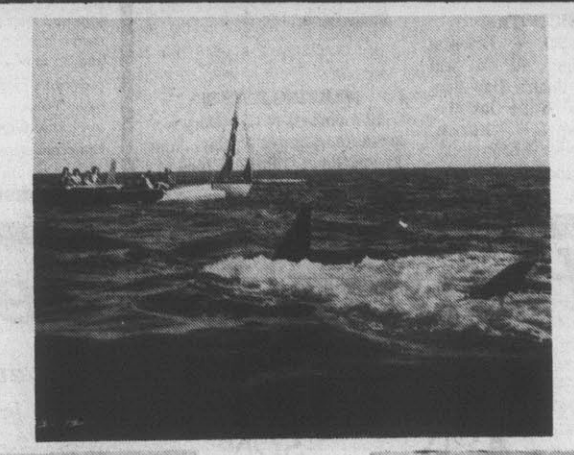

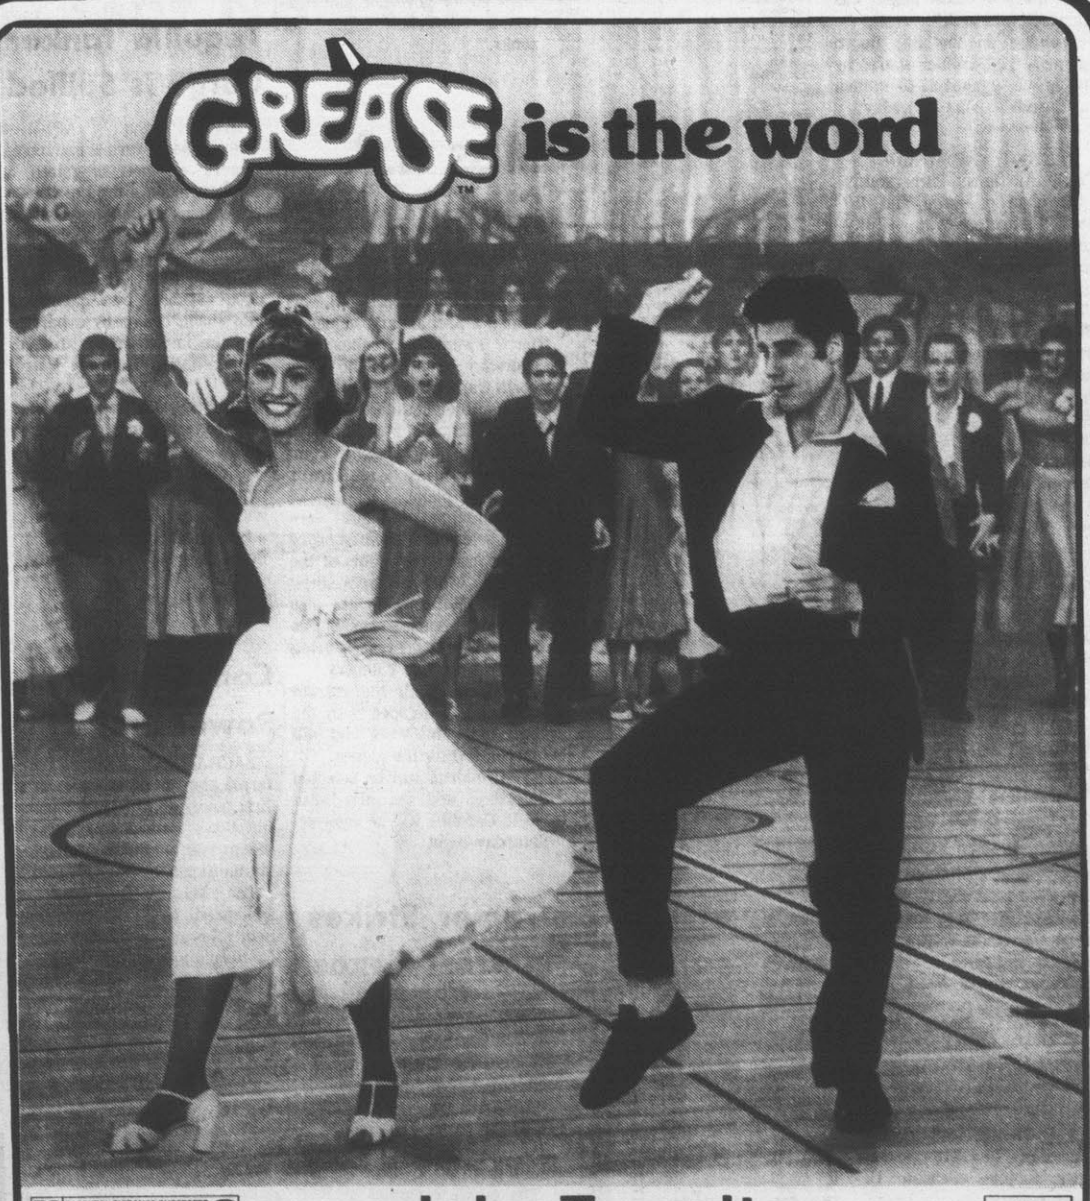

The $400 display was returned to the front of the theater.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, faced with a continued rise in interest rates, slipped a bit further in moderate trading today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down .44 at 843.81 as of noontime, after taking a drop of more than 10 points Thursday.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a 2-1 spread among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Numerous large banks raised their prime lending rates today from 8½ to 8¾ percent, putting the basic charge on blue chip loans at its highest level since early 1975.

And many analysts were forecasting additional upward pressure on interest rates in the form of credit-tightening by the Federal Reserve.

In recent weeks the money supply has been growing considerably more rapidly than the Fed wants it to as it seeks to curb inflation by limiting monetary growth.

Ramada Inns led the active list, off ⅞ at 6¼. The company issued a statement saying it had "given no consideration presently to entering the casino business."

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks dropped .11 to 55.20. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .16 at 150.58.

Volume on the Big Board came to 12.37 million shares by noontime, against 12.60 million at the same point Thursday.

Drawing Curbs On Disability Claims

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Concerned that some Americans find it more attractive to draw a disability check than to work, a House panel is attempting to cut benefits under the $14 billion annual Social Security disability program.

If approved by Congress, the change would reduce the maximum benefits for the family of a disabled worker from about $900 a month to about $775. The reduction would become effective next Jan. 1 and would not affect those who were on the disability rolls before that date.

The change was approved tentatively Thursday by the House Ways and Means subcommitee on Social Security. There is considerable doubt that the revisions, intended to save about $1.5 billion a year, can be enacted this year.

The Carter administration and members of Congress have expressed concern about the size of disability benefits and the rapid increase in the number of recipients.

While the number of recipients of retirement and survivor benefits under Social Security has doubled since 1960, beneficiaries of disability benfits have increased seven times. About 5 million disabled workers or dependents will receive disability payments this year at a cost of $13.7 billion.

Like the retirement portion of Social Security, the disability benefits are financed by a payroll tax on workers and their employers.

Some economists contend that in many cases, the generous disability benefits make it unattractive for previously disabled workers to return to their jobs.

Joseph A. Califano Jr., the secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, noted that in 6 percent of the disability cases last year, the recipient's after-tax income as a result of the benefits was higher than if he had been working. And about one-fifth of the cases resulted in the disabled worker's receiving more than 80 percent of his regular income.

Under current law the maximum disability payment to a family ranges from 150 percent of a set formula for low-paid workers to 188 percent for middle-income families.

The subcommittee voted to scale down the maximum benefit to a flat 150 percent of the formula or 80 percent of the worker's average monthly earnings, whichever is lower.

The second major change approved by the subcommittee would affect the way a disabled worker's earnings record is considered in setting his benefits. Current law bases benefits on the worker's average pay over the years, but the worker is allowed to drop from that average the five years of lowest pay.

N.C. Nazis Plan March

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — About a dozen Nazis from the Raleigh area are planning to take part if Nazis stage a march through Skokie, Ill., later this month.

Harold A. Covington, leader of the local Nazi unit, said he plans to head a group of men who will pay their own way for the trip to the heavily Jewish suburb of Chicago June 25.

He said the decision to make the trip was made following a visit here last weekend by Frank Collin, leader of the National Socialist Party of America and organizer of the march on Skokie.

"He gave us a pep talk on Skokie and gave an inspection, so to speak, of the Raleigh unit," Covington said Thursday. Covington was an unsuccessful candidate for the state Senate in last month's primary elections.

City officials and Jewish leaders in Skokie, the home of many survivors of Nazi concentration camps in World War II, have tried to halt plans for the march. The U.S. Supreme Court refused Monday to block the demonstration.

The Nazis have said they will cancel plans to marach through Skokie if they are allowed to hold a rally in Chicago's Marquette Park.

Covington said Collin, who visited Raleigh as part of a national tour to enlist members, held a meeting with local supporters.

"It was nothing to shout about," Covington said. "We had 25 people or so, almost all of them from Raleigh, and we discussed Skokie and our six-year plan for winning statewide elections by 1984.

"Our first goal is to get on the ballot," he said. "Then we'll go for governor and lieutenant governor, the big zonks."

Tequilla Tanker Cargo Is Spilled

IRVINE, Calif. (AP) — Thirsty homeward-bound commuters on hot Interstate 5 couldn't touch a drop of the 6,200 gallons of liquor served up on when a tequila tanker truck collided with two cars.

The spilled liquor, worth about $17,000, was channeled into storm drains by a barrier of foam laid down by firemen, the California Highway Patrol said.

Rush-hour traffic was backed up three miles in each direction for two hours, spokesmen said.

The tanker jackknifed after changing lanes then collided with the cars while en route to a Los Angeles bottling plant, officers said. No one was injured.

Combination In Power Project

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California plans to build the world's first power plant run by a combination of natural underground steam and burned wood waste, state officials have announced.

The $45 million plant is scheduled to start operating near Susanville in northeast California in 1984, officials said. It would produce enough power for a city of 73,000 people, but most of it would be used to run pumps for a state water project.

Hunting Trio In Shooting

AYDEN — Three persons are being sought by local police and Pitt County deputies in connection with an incident early today during which shots were fired at an Ayden police officer.

A spokesman for the Police Department reported that shots were fired at Sgt. Bill Callicutte after he spotted a station wagon at M & W Chevrolet on Highway 11 around 2:45 a.m.

A window on the passenger side of Callicutte's patrol car was struck by one of the shots, it was reported. The officer was not injured.

Callicutte, according to the spokesman, was making a routine check of the dealership when he observed the vehicle pulling away. The officer pursued the suspect vehicle, which then wrecked approximately a mile from the shooting scene.

The spokesman said that three subjects fled from the wrecked vehicle and are still at large today. The wrecked car was reported stolen from Kinston, it was noted.

Investigation of the incident revealed that ten radial tires and wheels had been removed from new cars on the M & W lot.

Brooke's Future Up To Old Rival

By SHELLY COHEN
Associated Press Writer

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A decision on whether Sen. Edward Brooke will face perjury charges is in the hands of the district attorney who was defeated by the Massachusetts Republican six years ago in his bid for the Senate seat.

The case was turned over to the district attorney's office Thursday by a probate court judge who found Brooke did not make "a true and complete disclosure" on sworn statements filed in connection with his divorce action.

Middlesex Probate Judge Lawrence Perera in that same order gave Remigia Brooke the right to reopen the divorce case.

Brooke and his wife, both 58, have been married for 31 years. He filed for divorce in 1976.

Assistant Middlesex County District Attorney John Kerry said he and District Attorney John Droney would meet today to discuss whether to pursue the question of whether Brooke committed perjury. Droney, a Democrat, was defeated in his 1972 Senate bid when Brooke polled more than 60 percent of the vote.

During a two-day hearing before Perera last week, Brooke admitted making "misstatements" in depositions filed in his divorce case.

The senator, who is seeking his third term in office, said Thursday: "I have not seen the decision. I have not read it. I have only been told about it. I'm just going to keep working and keep campaigning. As to what happens next, I just don't know."

Perera, in his ruling, found that Brooke failed to make a true and complete financial disclosure, but "contempt of court would not be an appropriate remedy" in the case.

He found that Brooke had made a false statement when the senator said in the deposition that he owed Boston liquor dealer A. Raymond Tye $49,000, when in fact he owed Tye only $2,000.

Brooke also faces a Senate Ethics Committee investigation of his personal finances.

Rental paid by the medical school will include charges to offset the cost of any special needs the school might have, such as laboratory spaces.

County manager Reginald Gray noted that if commissioners decide to issue bonds to help fund the project, it will, "not be a long-range sort of thing. It would just get us over the hump," possibly with revenue sharing funds for 1979-1980 being used to repay the bonds.

In addition to accepting bids on the renovation of the old hospital, commissioners yesterday accepted bids for three 40-cubic yard containers to be used with the county's solid waste disposal program, with an option to purchase up to 20 of the containers at the same price before September 1.

The low bidder for the containers was Simpson Equipment Corp. with a bid of $2,314 each.

Other bidders included: Waste Industries, $2,349 each; Quality Equipment and Supply Co., $2,676 each; Consolidated Energy Products, $2,340 each; and Sanco Corp., $2,760 each.

The Winner On The First Day: Players Agree It Was Course

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — Ben Crenshaw's 8 on the par-4 16th hole was testimony to it. So were Tom Kite's 7 on the par-4 18th, and the pair of double-bogeys that stung defending champion Hubert Green.

"I thought the golf course certainly had the upper hand on most of the fellows today," said Jack Nicklaus, whose 2-over-par 73 put him 4 strokes back of first-round leader Hale Irwin at the 78th U.S. Open Championship.

Difficult pin placements, a swirling wind and Cherry Hills' deep rough caused scores to soar Thursday.

"If these conditions continue, 290 might win," said Nicklaus, who earlier in the week had predicted the winner would need a four-round total of less than 280.

Only four players bettered par, led by Irwin's conservatively played 69. Andy North, J. C. Snead and 18-year-old amateur Bob Clampett carded 1-under 70s.

"This country club golf course that I heard someone call it earlier in the week has turned into something more than that," said Arnold Palmer, who was commissioned to toughen up the layout for this year's event. "This course is playing very difficult."

Palmer, whose only Open title came at Cherry Hills in 1960, suffered a double-bogey 5 in a bout with the rough at No. 15 and finished at 76.

It could have been worse. PGA titlist Lanny Wadkins had a 77, as did Tom Weiskopf. Crenshaw, 1973 Open winner Johnny Miller and 1975 champion Lou Graham took 78s. Carding 79s were Steve Melnyk, Rik Massengale and Gil Morgan. Fuzzy Zoeller took an 80.

Then there was Bob Impaglia, a 25-year-old from Auburn, N.Y., who qualified for his tour card just last week. Impaglia's problems weren't as directly related to the course as to officials of the U.S. Golf Association.

He had been cruising along with a 1-over 36 on the front nine when the USGA socked him with a 2-stroke penalty for slow play — the first such penalty ever leveled against a player in an Open. Impaglia promptly came apart, ballooning to a 47 on the back side for an 83.

It wasn't the highest score of the day, however. That honor went to Jeff Coston, who shot 89.

Billy Casper, a two-time Open winner who was given a special exemption to play here, summed up the difficulty of the course as well as anyone. "I feel shell-shocked," he said. "It was difficult to get the ball close to the hole. It was even difficult to get the ball close to the hole. It was difficult to chip it."

The portly Casper finished with a respectable 71, thanks to a miracle shot on the 17th hole when his wedge to the green was short and landed in water — but hit a rock and bounced up beside the green. He sank the 18-foot putt for a birdie. "I feel very fortunate," he said.

It seemed only Irwin had the secret to playing Cherry Hills, and even he started out with a bogey.

"I played away from the temptation to go for the flag," Irwin said. "This is the U. S. Open. You can't afford the foolish mistakes."

Pitt Tops Wilson

WILSON — Ronnie Chapman continued his magic with the bat last night, going 4-4 and leading Pitt County to a 12-9 victory over Wilson in an Eastern Area I American Legion baseball game last night.

Chapman scored three runs in the ballgame and batted in four in raising his season batting average to .607.

Pitt County got its first two runs in the first inning as Nuggie Worthington, who scored four times, tripled and Chapman was hit by a pitch. Two wild pitches and a passed ball allowed both runners to score.

Wilson scored a run in the bottom of the inning. Leadoff batter Robert Wells got a base on balls and was sacrificed to second by Joe McCullen. He scored on Donnie Prince's base hit.

Each team scored three runs in the second with Jeff Aldridge, Worthington and Chapman tallying for Pitt County and Larry Deans, Alan Sharp and David Hinnnat getting across for Wilson.

Chapman scored again in the fourth, along with Skip Topping, who got three runs in the game. Aldridge and Topping and Worthington made it 10-4 in the fifth. Aldridge and Topping both singled and Worthington walked. Chapman doubled in Aldridge and Topping, while Worthington followed on Mike Shank's sacrifice fly.

Pitt County added two more runs in the seventh as Worthington and Topping came across. Wilson scored one in the sixth, two in the seventh and one each in the eighth and ninth.

Billy Mitchell pitched the victory for Pitt County, now 7-0 in the league. Wilson is 2-6. Pitt County's next game will be Saturday night when the team hosts Rocky Mount.

In the tenth, Brann singled and moved to third on an error and a wild pitch. Collyn Beamon walked and stole second and Allen Moore got a base hit. Brann scored on the hit, but Beamon was thrown out at the plate.

Moore was 3-5 for Snow Hill, while Jay Carraway was 2-5. No Goldsboro batter had more than one hit.

In the Snow Hill first, Mike Chase walked and stole second, scoring on Jay Carraway's single. Brann got a base on balls and Al Murray singled in Carraway.

The run scored when Keith Meekins walked and scored from first on Eric McDaniels' single.

Brown Feels He Got No Chance

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — As far as Skip Brown is concerned, he was a victim of circumstances in getting drummed out of the National Basketball Association.

The two-time All-Atlantic Coast Conference guard from Wake Forest went to the Boston Celtics with impressive credentials after his senior season in 1977. The Celtics expected him to relieve Charlie Scott and Jo Jo White, but he was cut during tryouts.

"Dave Bing became available, and Boston decided they wanted someone with experience," said Brown, whose fans around Asheboro still seem surprised when they see him back home.

"If Washington hadn't cut him (Bing), I'd probably be with the Celtics now."

And he said he doesn't believe he was particularly hurt by his performance in tryouts.

"I played the best I ever played," the 6-foot, 165-pound guard said. "I didn't score that much, but I was playing great defense and making good passes. I'd say I was playing as good as any guard there with the exception of Jo Jo."

One thing critics have said Brown lacks is a killer instinct, and he agrees with them to a certain extent.

"I am easy-going and that may be my biggest weakness," he conceded. "I don't get mad. I think if I got mad or held grudges, I wouldn't be able to perform as well."

As far as size is concerned, Brown doesn't view that as a problem. "I never had any problem getting my jump shot off," he said. "I see plenty of short guys playing in the pros."

He played briefly for the Carolina Lightning from Winston-Salem in the All-America Basketball Alliance before it folded, and he's currently an employee of a pharmaceutical company

He said he is getting in shape for another tryout in the NBA.

KICKING HELPS

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Fred Cox, the retired field goal kicker of the Minnesota Vikings, wound up in second place on the all-time list of place-kicking specialists. Cox made good on 282 of 455 attempts for three-pointers. Only the incredible George Blanda made more.

Cox always felt that he contributed to the emotional makeup of his teammates, as well as putting points on the scoreboard.

"If you're not a kicker," Fred said, "you can't realize how making a long kick can lift a team emotionally and how much missing a short one can depress the squad."

Grimsley Confident Expos Are Winners

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Ross Grimsley, John Montefusco and Rick Rhoden all pitched strongly Thursday in leading their teams to National League victories on the West Coast. Surprisingly, Montefusco was not the most outspoken of the trio.

Despite pitching a complete game and striking out 11 in San Francisco's 6-1 victory over Philadelphia, the Giants' "Count" was out-talked by Grimsley several hundred miles down the California coast. The Montreal left-hander beat San Diego 3-1 for his 11th triumph of the year, tops in the majors, then spoke his piece regarding the club he signed with as a free agent last winter.

"Even though our hitters have been in a slump lately," said Grimsley, 11-3, "I still had confidence they would get me enough runs to win just like they've been doing all season.

"This team is better than the Orioles," he added, referring to his team last year. "If we had this outfield in Baltimore last year, we could have won the pennant."

That outfield consists of Andre Dawson, Warren Cromartie and Ellis Valentine, who smashed his eighth homer of the season to support Grimsley Thursday.

In the only other National League contest, the Dodgers' Rhoden and Charlie Hough combined on a five-hit 3-0 shutout of the New York Mets.

Giants 6, Phillies 1

Montefusco likewise credited his mates for making him successful.

"I shouldn't have won five in a row," said Montefusco, 6-2. "The other guys carried me for a while, they were saving me. I was giving up five runs a game and still winning or getting no decision.

"Maybe I can carry them for awhile."

Larry Herndon's two-run triple in a four-run first inning and Jack Clark's two-run double in the second carried the Giants to the triumph and a 2½ game lead in the NL West over idle Cincinnati.

Dodgers 3, Mets 0

Rhoden, who pitched with soreness in his arm and had to come out in the eighth inning, had been having problems on the mound recently and was rumored to be on the trading block.

"I tried to make jokes about it," said Rhoden of his shaky stature with the Dodgers. "This is my home now. I'm playing for one of the best teams, and I'm playing in the best city in baseball. I tried not to think about it, but, yes, it was on my mind."

Steve Garvey knocked in two runs with a single in the fifth for the Dodgers.

Lopez Goes For Fifth

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth fully expects Nancy Lopez to charge after one of her most cherished Ladies Professional Golf Association records.

"I'm betting on her not to fold," Whitworth said of Lopez' bid for a fifth straight victory this week, unparalleled in the LPGA's 28 years.

If she wins the $75,000 tournament that began today at Locust Hill Country Club, Lopez would break the tie with Mickey Wright, Shirley Englehorn and Whitworth as winners of four in a row.

Whitworth is the only one of the record holders who will witness Lopez' bid firsthand. Wright and Englehorn are not entered.

Pat Bradley was risking her championship in a field of 90 pros and six amateurs in the 54-hole event, which is sponsored by the Bankers Trust Co. of Western New York.

HARD WORK DID IT

OTTAWA (AP) — The coach of the men's world figure skating champion, Charles Tickner, says he always had the raw talent but needed discipline and confidence. That's what Norma Sahlin gave him.

She began coaching him when he was 19. She could see the native skill but it needed polishing. Tickner worked hard, and the 1978 world title was the result.

The victory gave Dr Pepper the lead in the league by one game with three left to play.

The Graniteers took the lead in the first inning, getting a pair of runs. Wilson tripled and scored when Langley reached on an error. Langley advanced on the play, took third on a passed ball and scored on an out.

Lemon Thinks Mound Staff Doing The Job

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Chicago White Sox Manager Bob Lemon thinks maybe his pitchers are finally thawing out, or drying out or something. He knows they aren't giving up too many runs and the team is winning.

"Everybody keeps asking me that," said Lemon, who for the umpteenth time was questioned about the White Sox' current fortunes — 17 wins in 19 games and five in a row, including a 3-1 victory Thursday night over the Texas Rangers.

"I don't know. The pitchers are pitching. We've got good defense," he said.

In the past 19 games, the White Sox have yielded 48 runs, giving up more than three runs in only four games. Thursday night, right-hander Steve Stone, 6-4, went eight innings and gave up three hits before Lerrin LaGrow came on in the ninth for his seventh save.

"Maybe it's getting in rotation," Lemon said. "At the beginning of the season, it was cold. We'd have rainouts and guys would go five, six or seven days without a start."

Ron Blomberg drove in two of Chicago's runs with a homer, his fourth of the season, and a single. The other White Sox run scored on Bill Nahorodny's single.

Elsewhere in the American League, California downed Baltimore 5-1, Boston defeated Oakland 7-3, New York beat Seattle 5-2 and Kansas City clobbered Detroit 7-2. Cleveland at Minnesota was rained out.

Angels 5, Orioles 1

Joe Rudi, who came into the game with a .185 batting average and 13 RBI, finally broke out of his slump, driving in two runs with a single in the first to help Frank Tanana to his 10th victory against three losses. The victory broke the Orioles' 13-game winning streak.

Red Sox 7, A's 3

Jim Rice slammed a two-run homer in the seventh that tied it up, then drove in the winning runs with a triple in the eighth, making right-hander Mike Torrez a 10-game winner. Torrez, who has lost twice, joined New York's Ron Guidry and Tanana as American League pitchers at that plateau despite allowing 12 hits.

Yankees 5, Mariners 2

Mickey Rivers and Graig Nettles homered, providing enough runs to give sore-shouldered Don Gullett his first victory of the season. Gullett, who had gone only 51-3 innings in his first two starts this season, pitched six scoreless innings, giving up four singles. He was relieved by Rich Gossage in the seventh and Sparky Lyle pitched the ninth for his seventh save.

Royals 7, Tigers 2

Kansas City completed a sweep of its two-game series with Detroit as Frank White drove in two runs and scored once. Dennis Leonard, 6-9, scattered 10 hits for the win.

Detroit forged a 2-2 tie in the fourth on RBI singles by Milt May and Mickey Stanley, but the Royals went back ahead in the bottom of the inning when White doubled home Fred Patek.

Carr Is Tired Of Comments

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Kenny Carr is tired of hearing people say his potential as a National Basketball Association star was ruined by his decision to end his collegiate career early.

"Oh yeah, I hear it all the time," the former North Carolina state standout said. "Fact is, I've become a little immune to it by now."

But he says he has no regrets about leaving the Wolfpack after his junior season, even though he was hampered by a foot injury during his first season in the NBA.

Picked by the Los Angeles Lakers in the opening round of last year's NBA draft, Carr decided to pass up the senior year at N.C. State. But a foot injury in the last exhibition game limited his effectiveness and he wound up averaging 6.2 points a game.

Some critics have said he'd have been better off spending another year under Coach Norm Sloan at N.C. State.

"Heck, I could have broken my foot in college," is his response. "Then where would I have been? It certainly wouldn't have helped me in the (NBA) draft last week. I feel I did the right thing."

Carr said it was difficult for him to get in enough practice to make up for the five weeks he was sidelined with the foot injury. He was averaging just over 14 minutes playing time per game by the end of the season.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Warm weather is forecast today for most of the nation. Cool weather is expected from the northern Rockies to the Upper Great Lakes. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press

High pressure centered along the mid-Atlantic coast is slowly drifting eastward, bringing a more southerly wind flow into North Carolina. The result will be gradually warming temperatures and a rise in humidity.

Temperatures ranged in the upper 70s and low 80s Thursday and it was expected to be just a little warmer today under partly cloudy skies. Saturday's high readings are expected to range mostly in the 80s.

Temperatures probably will remain rather high through the weekend with some upper 80s and low 90s Sunday. However, no rain is expected.

Tellicoe Dam Action Studied

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Officials are pondering what to do with a nearly completed $119 million dam the Supreme Court says cannot be finished because it would destroy the home of a three-inch fish.

In a 6-3 decision, the court ruled Thursday that the Endangered Species Act prohibits the Tennessee Valley Authority from closing the gates of its Tellico Dam 25 miles southwest of Knoxville and turning the river habitat of the snail darter into a reservoir.

"There are alternatives other than scrapping the project, alternatives which may even produce better benefits for the people than the original project," TVA Chairman S. David Freeman said.

The alternatives mentioned thus far by TVA and other government officials include allowing the structure to stand as a "dry dam," knocking a hole in it or tearing it down altogether.

All of them would abandon the 16,500-acre lake the dam would have created and the envisioned shoreline industrial parks for easing high unemployment in the rural counties surrounding the project.

In an opinion dissenting from the court's majority, Justice Lewis F. Powell said he has little doubt that Congress will amend the Endangered Species Act.

"There will be little sentiment to leave this dam standing before an empty reservoir, serving no purpose other than a conversation piece for incredulous tourists," Powell said.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger wrote, however, in the majority opinion that Congress' intent "was to halt and reverse the trend toward species extinction, whatever the costs."

"I guess if all else fails," said Gov. Ray Blanton, "I'll have our Department of Tourism look into putting together a campaign of private solicitations to buy the dam for a tourist attraction. We'll promote it as the world's largest monument to the world's smallest fish."

A bill to establish a seven-member, Cabinet-level panel to review federal projects which would harm or destroy endangered species was reported out of committee and to the Senate floor last month.

The panel would have the authority to exempt such projects from the 1973 Endangered Species Act if it determined they were more beneficial than preserving the species involved.

The Interior Department says there are 11 projects either under construction or being planned where there is such a potential conflict.

One of them is TVA's $142 million Columbia Dam being built on the Duck River 40 miles south of Nashville. The Fish and Wildlife Service says it threatens the habitat of two endangered shellfish, the Cumberland monkey-face mussell and the birdwing pearly mussel.

"There's no need for an amendment," said Zygmund Plater, a Wayne State University law professor who argued the court case against TVA.

"There's no need for a solution to a problem that doesn't exist."

Plater has made the three-year-old David vs. Goliath court battle between the darter and the giant government utility a cause celebre for conservationists in their fight against industrial development.

Seven Years Later, 'Pockets Of Excellence' Report Is Published

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

It began back in 1971. Dr. Leo Jenkins, Chancellor of East Carolina University, hit upon the idea of examining achievements in other places that could have relevance to upgrading life styles of the people of eastern North Carolina.

To put the thought into action, Dr. Jenkins submitted a proposal to Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation of Winston-Salem, seeking funds to provide for the expenses of several specialists to visit other areas, collect data, ideas and impressions, and to report on their findings. In turn, these reports would lay the groundwork for a broad, general reference source for others to draw on.

Seven years later, the final phase has been reached with the recent publication of "Implementation Reports of Project Investigators of the Pockets of Excellence Project."

Eight people were involved in seven separate fields in the worldwide search for excellence. Dr. John D. Ebbs served as director and is the one responsible for compiling the implementation document.

Researchers involved, their subject matter, and places visited are:

— Dr. James H. Bearden, Dean of the School of Business, ECU; "Industrial Training in England;" England.

— Dr. William H. Cobb, Department of History, ECU; "A History-Oriented Reading Program for Disabled Youth;" Elizabeth City and Edenton, N. C.

— Dr. John D. Ebbs, Department of English, ECU; "Programs of Community Drama in Europe;" Stoke-on-Trent and Birmingham, England, and Vienna, Austria.

— Dr. Vance E. Hamilton, School of Agriculture and Life Sciences, N. C. State University, Raleigh; "Innovative Programs in Health Care Education;" various places in Virginia, Maryland and Ohio; also Manitoba, Canada and Seattle, Washington.

— Ruth I. Lambie, School of Home Economics, ECU; "Lekoteket (Play Library) in Physical and Emotional Health in Sweden; Sweden.

— James A. McGee, Director, Sea Grant Program and Assistant Dean, Div. of Continuing Education, ECU; "The Oyster and Eel Culture in Japan;" Japan.

— Malcolm T. Simpson, Jr., Regional Development Institute, ECU; "Leisure Industry Patterns of Development in the Southeast;" various places in North and South Carolina, and Georgia. (This project was originally assigned to H. O. Edwards, Jr. Simpson took the project following Edwards' resignation from the Regional Development Institute.

Two other original investigators are not included in the implementation publication — Dr. Robert W. Williams, former ECU Provost; and James Houlik, former faculty member of the School of Music. Both men transferred to other schools.

The first phase of the overall project was that of visiting the selected locations for on the spot observation of successful programs relating to individual projects. With information and ideas gathered from these visits, the project researchers were in a position to analyze this data and extract ideas and concepts suited to needs in eastern North Carolina.

The implementation reports primarily deals with the practical application each researcher was able to make based on information and ideas assembled.

Their reports provide readers of the document with detailed surveys of efforts undertaken that range from in-depth studies to practical application to already existing programs. Programs affected included administering of tests to school children; training tutors to work in a history and reading program; providing guidelines to campgrounds and other recreational facilities; experimentation with oyster cultivation through the introduction of specialized equipment; a survey of health care indicators in four geographic areas of the state; recommendations for the creation and placement of a greater training capability in employment; and assistance in establishing a new outdoor drama in historic Bath.

County Ordered To Pay Plastic Surgery Cost

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Convicted murderer Gary Hastings, who blew off half his face in a suicide attempt, scribbled a message of joy to his jailer after a judge ordered county taxpayers to pay for his plastic surgery.

Chester County Court Judge John Wajert issued the ruling Thursday. The surgery will permit Hastings to breathe and eat normally, but doctors say he will never look normal. Attorneys for the county estimated the cost of corrective surgery at about $5,000.

Hastings, 33, a former Delaware bank executive, was convicted in the April 26, 1977, shotgun death of his wife, Margaret, in her Chadds Ford home.

Hastings turned the weapon on himself afterwards and the blast destroyed the lower half of his face, leaving him unable to speak.

He wears heavy bandages around his grotesquely disfigured face. He breathes and eats through tubes.

Wajert ordered Hastings transferred from Chester County Farm Prison to Chester County Hospital for the surgery, which will involve four operations.

The plastic surgery, to be performed by Dr. Roslyn Souser, is to include reconstruction of Hastings' nose, lower lip and parts of his mouth.

Hastings testified by handwritten notes that he owed $65,000 to Wilmington Medical Center for previous surgery. Furthermore, county liens on his assets after his conviction have left him unable to pay the debt or to finance additional surgery, according to Hastings.

Chester County Prison Farms warden Thomas Frame said Hastings scribbled on a note pad that he was "very happy" after the ruling.

According to Frame, the prison infirmary staff, comprised of a visiting physician, two registered nurses and two paramedics, has devoted about 40 percent of its time to Hastings' care since he became an inmate.

Hastings' attorney, John Lachall, said Wajert's ruling was based in part on a state statute requiring the transfer of an inmate from a prison to a hospital if adequate medical care cannot be obtained at the prison.

Hastings has maintained that he did not mean to shoot his wife, but brandished the weapon in the heat of an argument over a man he claims she was dating. The weapon accidentally discharged, he says.

However, a Chester County jury, which heard testimony from Hastings' young children that they tried to restrain their father, convicted him of third-degree murder.

He was sentenced to 10-to 20-years in prison.

Spivey's Corner Noisy Saturday

SPIVEY'S CORNER, N.C. (AP) — Contestants in the 10th annual National Hollerin' Contest Saturday will be heard all the way across the Atlantic Ocean.

The British Broadcasting Corp. will be on hand along with several national and regional news organizations to film the contest and give viewers in Great Britain a sample of hollerin', American style.

The BBC had cameras and sound equipment in Spivey's Corner all week to film a documentary on the American way of life.

The annual event, featuring competition for children, women and men, also will get regional and national exposure through representatives of television and radio stations and newspapers. Junior hollerers will be featured on a segment of "The Big Blue Marble," a national children's television program.

A full day of activity will began at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Midway High School athletic field with an arts and crafts exhibit and antique car show.

A greased pole climb, watermelon roll and other games will be held during the afternoon.

The serious business starts at 4 p.m. when the Junior Hollerin' Contest begins. It will be followed by whistling competition, open to all ages, and a conch shell and fox-horn blowing contest.

A new event, the frog croaking contest, commences at 5 p.m., with the women's hollerin' competition starting 15 minutes later.

After a performance by the "Buck Swamp Kickin' Cloggers," the big event — the National Hollerin' Contest — begins at 6 p.m.

All former hollerin' champions, including 1977 co-winners Dan McLamb and hiss dog Percy, will be on hand. Last year's women's champion, Iris Turner of Fayetteville, also plans to demonstrate her voice.

Winners of the women's and men's competition traditionally get a trip to Hollywood for an appearance on the Johnny Carson show, followed by a visit to the Mike Douglas Show.

State Agriculture Secretary Jim Graham will be master of ceremonies and the panel of judges will be headed by Secretary of State Thad Eure.

N.C. Shrimp Catch Is Expected To Be Poor

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — Officials of the state Division of Marine Fisheries say North Carolina's the 1978 harvest of shrimp, North Carolina's most valuable seafood crop, may be only one-third of last year's catch.

Edward G. McCoy, director of the agency, said Natural Resources Secretary Howard N. Lee may take action later this year to assist the shrimping industry.

The 1977 harvest amounted to 3.5 million pounds of shrimp, but researchers said this year's catch could be as low as 1.1 million to 1.3 million pounds.

They said a particularly harsh winter followed by an unusually wet spring are responsible for what could turn out to be one of the poorest harvests on record.

Kenneth Harris, a statistician for the National Marine Fisheries Service at Beaufort, said the smallest crop ever was 292,000 pounds in 1932. But he said shrimp were not as valuable at the time and reporting of catches was not as comprehensive.

The shrimp harvest includes the brown shrimp caught in the summer, pink shrimp taken in the spring and fall and white shrimp caught in the spring.

Officials said a poor harvest would mean higher prices for shrimp and would be a blow to commercial fishermen. While last year's harvest was worth $7.2 million, they said the economic benefits are several times that amount because of the processing, packing, transportation and retail segments of the business.

McCoy said catches of brown shrimp, which comprise the bulk of the harvest, are expected to be lower than the 703,000 harvested in 1975.

Projections now indicate a harvest of 563,000 pounds of brown shrimp, 200,000 to 300,000 pounds of pink shrimp and an insignificant amount of white shrimp.

The bleak situation resulted from freezing temperatures that wiped out nursery areas for white shrimp during the past two winters, said Michael W. Street, chief of the marine fisheries division's research and development section. He said studies have shown salinity and water temperatures to be major environmental factors affecting growth of brown shrimp.

In addition, extremely heavy rainfall dumped a large volume of frest water into bays and creeks where shrimp grow, Street said.

Relates Need For Additional Deputies

Larry D. Parker, Director of Juvenile Service for the Pitt County Sheriff's Office, spoke to the Winterville Ruritan Club Tuesday night on "Child Abuse—The Need for More Deputies".

In telling a fictionalized account of a true child abuse case, Parker stressed the fact that more enforcement personnel for the Pitt Count Sheriff's Office is needed if sufficient protection is to given to these children.

Speaking of the Pitt County situation, Parker said, "The sheriff has done an impossible job for many years. But he cannot provide proper protection to the citizens of this county without your full support. This year, the sheriff has asked for seven more men to help...The county saw fit to provide two men."

Parker said that the county now has one full-time juvenile officer, as well as two full-time liason officers. The responsibility in providing protective services to children is with the one juvenile officer.

Youth Killed As Gun Discharged

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — A teen-ager was accidentally shot to death when the speeding car he was riding in hit a police officer at a road block, causing the officer's gun to fire, police said.

The car, being pursued by police, hit the officer's hand after he had drawn his pistol, police said. The gun discharged, killing 17-year-old Perry Edwards Griggers of nearby Opelika. The car's 18-year-old-driver was charged with assaulting an officer.

Five Accidents Here Thursday

An estimated $3,625 property damage resulted from a series of five traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 5:35 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Evans and Deck Streets involving a car driven by Andrew Jefferson Jordan of Route 5, Greenville and a truck driven by George Earl Davis of Simpson.

Police, who charged Davis with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident, estimated damage at $1,500 to the Jordan car. No damage resulted to the truck.

Peter Earnest Tart of 2605 East Tenth St. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety after the truck he was driving collided with a car operated by Robert Lee Joyner Jr. of Route 3, Greenville, about 5 p.m. at the intersection of Tenth and Verdant Streets.

Damage from the collision was estimated at $400 to the Joyner car and $300 to the Tart truck.

An estimated $300 damage resulted to each of two vehicles involved in a 9:35 p.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard, 50 feet East of the Crestline Boulevard intersection.

Investigators reported a car driven by Kimberly Dawn Phillips of 222 Leon Dr. and a motorcycle operated by Terry Santos Taylor of Ayden were involved in the mishap, which resulted in Miss Phillips being charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

Cars driven by Valerie Goodson Branch of 1809 East Fifth St., and Gracie Althea Wells of Teachey, collided about 4:40 p.m. at the intersection of Tenth and Elm Streets, resulting in an estimated $300 damage to the Branch car and $200 damage to the Wells auto.

An 11:59 p.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard, 50 feet West of Arlington Boulevard involved vehicles driven by John Vidalish Young of Route 1, Council and Phillips Columbus Perkins of Route 5, Greenville.

Investigators set damage to the Young car at $250 and to the Perkins truck at $75.

Young was charged with following to a close.

Cloud-Seeding Effect Studied

MIAMI (AP) — New research indicates that cloud-seeding really does increase rainfall, maybe as much as 70 percent, scientists say. But they caution that more experiments are needed to confirm the findings.

Cloud-seeding studies over Florida in 1976, conducted under the auspices of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, appear to represent the strongest evidence yet that silver iodide seeding creates rain without necessarily suppressing precipitation nearby, an agency spokesman said.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study contracts and handle them intelligently. Situations arise that can help you in your work. Be most careful in driving.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handling duties wisely will help you get what you want now. Take exercise or treatments that will improve health.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can make headway via social affairs since you make interesting contacts that way. Creative ideas should be studied well and bugs ironed out. Take time for interesting reading.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) There are situations arising at home which if not curbed now could assume serious proportions. Find the point of tension and get rid of it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make use of data that will help you to work more harmoniously with associates. Enjoy family and friends and much goodwill comes of it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Put in economy measures now so that you build up a reserve quickly for possible need later. Study a new outlet that will help you to have a greater income, also. Drive carefully.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Go after personal goals quietly and gain them easily now. See friends who really understand you. Fine things can come of this.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are able to solve problems conveniently and confidentially today. Show true affection for mate to get right results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) If you have to be with good friends today, take care not to make any snide remarks. Try to please them more instead of yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care you do not risk your well-built reputation in any fashion now. Pay pressing bills and keep credit intact.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take a new attitude now and solve a problem that has been difficult to do in the past. Use more modern methods. You may have to take a trip soon, so make arrangements now.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will carefully study every phase of confusing conditions and emerge with the solution and truth of all. Slant education along investigative lines, whether in laboratories, research files for the government, medical reports, etc. Add philosophy to school curricula early.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♠.

Many years ago there was a kibitzer at one of the country's leading bridge clubs who, after a hand was over, would deliver solemn observations on the play of the hand, based on the outcome. Because of the pontifical nature of his comments, he became known as the Rabbi. Typical of his remarks was: "If the king is singleton, play the ace." This gem has become known to cognoscenti as the "Rabbi's Rule."

Simple mathematics led North-South to their optimum contract of three no trump. Note that South's hand qualifies for a no trump opening bid despite the fact that he has no heart stopper. You need stoppers in only three suits to open one no trump.

The play was soon over. West led the jack of spades and declarer won the queen. Since he needed club tricks to make his contract, declarer entered dummy with the queen of diamonds and ran the queen of clubs. West won the king and shifted to a heart, and East took five tricks in that suit for a two-trick set.

The Rabbi would have made the contract, but so should have declarer. Declarer needed only three club tricks to assure his contract. What he could not afford was to let West gain the lead because of the obvious threat of a heart through dummy's tenace.

Declarer could afford to be generous and allow East to win a trick if he held the king of clubs—nothing East could return would endanger the contract. But if West held the king of clubs, declarer was helpless to prevent the fatal heart shift unless the king was singleton. Therefore, the correct play at trick two was to lay down the ace of clubs. If West's king of clubs was guarded, he was bound to win the trick. If East held the king of clubs, the contract was safe. But if the cards were distributed as in the diagram, the contract would roll home with overtricks after the king fell under the ace.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. For a copy and a scorepad, send $1.60 to "Goren-Four Deal," c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J. 07648. Make checks payable to NEWSPAPERBOOKS.

Coretta Addresses Southern Baptists

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — The event symbolized a transformation. Before an audience that never wanted civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. on its stage in his lifetime, his widow stood in the glow of lights, praise and waves of applause from thousands of Southern Baptists.

It mirrored, in poignant personal terms, the swift march of history.

"I am grateful," said Coretta Scott King, a shimmering, regal figure before the hushed throng. She noted, reflectively, with no hint of rancor, the immense change that distinguished the recent past from the present moment.

The difference also was graphically demonstrated in the comparative declarations of Southern Baptists, back in the earlier days and now, including a new resolve Thursday to "purge ourselves and society" of all remaining traces of racism.

But it was the appearance in that same session of Mrs. King, introduced by Atlanta's black Mayor Maynard Jackson as the personification of a "dream," that dramatized the reform accomplished. It also accorded, in retrospect, a tribute to her husband who had been shunned in his own day.

"It was a salute to the spirit of a man by those who would have never saluted him in his own lifetime," said James Young of Denver, editor of the Rocky Mountain Baptist.

Mrs. King mentioned the opposition of "most white churches" to King's movement for racial integration, some of that opposition continuing into the mid 1960s. It was reflected in a 1965 Southern Baptist resolution condemning civil disobediance, a mark of King's non-violent tactics until he was fatally shot in 1968.

"But I am not here ... to criticize anyone or any group for what did or did not happen years ago...," Mrs. King said. "Many of those battles have been fought and won."

Signalling that achievement, representatives of the 13 million-member denomination — Southern born, but grown nationwide into the country's largest Protestant body — condemned "new expressions of racism" and vowed to root them out.

"New racism continues to deprive minority persons of practical means of advancement," the convention said. "Over 40 percent of black teen-agers are unemployed in some urban areas... Black persons experience discrimination three out of four times when seeking to rent housing."

Mrs. King also alluded to those problems, which Southern Baptists now pledged to help eradicate. But the new battle "rivals that of the '50s and '60s," she said.

"This campaign for equal economic opportunity ... will cost this country more than all the rest of the rights efforts combined because ... you are talking about those who 'have' sharing with the 'have-nots'... This is not going to be easy."

The vast Southern Baptist assembly, numbering a record-breaking 22,875 by its close Thursday night at the World Congress Center, stood, vigorously applauding her before and after her address.

Another notable, President Carter, was today's center of attention at a scheduled appearance before a post-convention national conference of Baptist men.

Ruth Graham, wife of evangelist Billy Graham, told a closing convention session Thursday night that "Christian parents must show the way" in reinforcing family life in an age threatening it.

Amid the "false standards" of modern "secularistic society," she said, "a happy Christian home is the nearest thing we have to heaven on earth" and can "help an unbelieving world understand the love of God."

On its final day, the convention voiced support for Anita Bryant, entertainer and anti-homosexual rights crusader, who surprisingly had lost out in a bid for a vice presidency of a body that had wholeheartedly acclaimed her early in the week.

The convention opposed any extension of time for ratifying the Equal Rights Amendment banning sexual discrimination. Efforts to pass the amendment are nearing a March 1979 deadline, and it is three states short of the 38 needed for ratification.

The convention also asserted "strong opposition to abortion on demand," urged Carter to veto any legislation providing tax credits for tuition to private schools, rejected moves to tighten restrictions on Bible interpretation and condemned a "reign of terror" in Uganda, "mass extermination" in Cambodia and "dictatorial regimes" in South Africa.

Reject The Label Of 'Definite Sin'

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Presbyterian leaders from around the country agree that homosexuality "falls short of God's plan," but refuse to classify it as definite sin.

The 412 voting delegates at the 118th General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States balked Thursday at any decision on whether homosexuals should be ordained.

"We cannot write serious theology this way. We can only embarrass ourselves," said Dr. John Leith, a professor at Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va.

Leith spoke to the delegates after a small, but vocal group called for an immediate vote on the question.

"We want a more positive statement on this issue. We don't want to wait another year," said Arnold Young, a delegate from Sparta, N.C.

But with a show of hands, the majority called for delaying that decision until next year when the assembly meets in Kansas City, Mo. In the meantime, the Church's Council on Theology and Culture will study the issue.

Although sidestepping the larger issue, the delegates approved a general statement saying that "homosexuality falls short of God's plan for sexual relationships."

Eleven of the Church's 59 local units, called presbyteries, had asked the General Assembly to affirm the "sinfulness" of homosexuality and formally ban ordination of homosexuals.

Delegates to the General Assembly have been meeting in Shreveport since last week. Today is the final day of the assembly.

No Figures On Effects

SOUTHERN PINES, N.C. (AP) — Southern Pines, a resort town that relies heavily on the trade of thousands of tourists and golfers each year, is wasting little time in taking advantage of North Carolina's new local-option liquor-by-the-drink law.

The General Assembly gave final approval to the measure Wednesday, and the town board held a special meeting Thursday morning to ask the Moore County Board of Elections to hold a referendum on sale of mixed drinks.

"There was just a desire to get moving on it," said Lamont Brown, the town attorney and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce. "Our council has been solidly behind it all along and they didn't see any necessity to wait."

Brown and area businessmen are overwhelmingly in favor of liquor by the drink but that no one has figured out how much the sale of mixed drinks would boost the area's economy.

"There's not much way to put a dollars-and-cents figure on it," he said. "We feel that this is a better way to control the dispensing of alcoholic beverages, far better than the brown-bagging system."

Although the liquor bill was not formally ratified by House Speaker Carl Stewart and Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green until about three hours after the action by the town board, Brown said the resolution took that into account and that there will be no legal problem.

The special meeting was called on Wednesday by Mayor Emanuel Douglas. One official said there were other issues that needed to be considered at the same time.

Officials expect the liquor referendum to be held in September.

Up, Up And Backwards

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — The first attempt to fly over the Continental Divide in a gas-filled balloon failed — the balloon went the wrong way.

Filled with $4,000 worth of helium, the balloon lifted off early Thursday from this mountain resort under the auspices of the Rocky Mountain Gas Balloon Society.

With favorable winds, it was to drift south and east, the society said, landing 12 hours later somewhere between Trinidad in southeastern Colorado or Raton, N.M.

It landed one hour and five minutes after takeoff in a wilderness meadow between Basalt and Thomasville, north of Aspen and definitely not on the other side of the divide.

Ballast problems, perhaps caused by air leaking into the balloon, had prevented the Columbine II from achieving the lifting power needed to get over the divide, said spokesman Bob Walsh.

N.C. Office For Atheist

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — To aid her struggle for "absolute separation of church and state," atheist leader Madalyn Murray O'Hair says she will open an office here later this month.

"You have more nuts per square inch up there (North Carolina) than anything else," said Mrs. O'Hair, whose American Atheists organization is based in Austin, Texas.

"The religious people feel you can ignore laws with impunity if it furthers the cause of Jesus Christ," she said.

Mrs. O'Hair wrote Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction, last week to complain about reports she said she had received from parents regarding alleged religious activities in eight North Carolina school systems. She would not identify those systems, saying she feared harassment of the parents or students.

Phillips said he has no idea which, if any, school systems she is talking about. He said the claims looked like part of a form letter.

"It's obvious that it's a copy and that a name has been attached at the top," Phillips said.

Clergymen, meanwhile, began reacting to news that Mrs. O'Hair would open a North Carolina office.

"I think God can take care of her," said the Rev. Thomas Stockton, chairman of the Charlotte Area Clergy Association. "He loves her, too, although she may not be showing the benefits of His love."

Thigpen Will Be Church Speaker

Deacon Toney Thigpen will be the speaker at Rook Spring F.W.B. Church at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, June 18.

The service will also include a Father-of-the-Year program to be presented by the Reserved Ushers. Presentations of Father's Day Awards will be made to the oldest, the youngest, the father with the most children, and the father with the youngest child. Fathers must be present to receive awards.

The pastor, Bishop W. L. Phillip, invites the public to attend.

On The Right Course

Here's a man who knows where he's going—and it's a good thing he does! Because even a small craft can flounder pretty badly if it gets too far off course.

How about you? Do you know where you're going? If you're like many of us, you probably have your moments of doubt.

That's where the Church comes in. The teachings of the Church give us the basic understanding and philosophy we need if we are to do a good job of navigating our way through life. In the Church we learn the meaning of faith—and we learn, too, why our Faith has endured through the centuries. We come to realize the wonder and beauty of wisdom, kindness and tolerance.

If you feel that you've gotten off your course somehow . . . don't try to find your way back alone. Remember that your church stands ever ready to welcome you.
