CHANGEOVER IN COMMAND — Outgoing chairman of the Greenville Board of Education Henry Dunn presents the gavel to new chairman Theresa (Terry) Shank on Monday night. The ceremony followed the installation of the new board and the election of Mrs. Shank as chairman.

Elected City School Bd. Sworn In Monday Night

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

School history was made Monday night when Greenville's first elected school board was sworn in during the regular June meeting of the city board of education.

In actuality, it is a mixed board, with two-thirds of the members — six of nine, elected, and the remaining one-third, three members, appointed by the Greenville City Council.

Following the swearing-in ceremony performed by Sandra Gaskins, Clerk of Court, the board elected Mrs. Theresa (Terry) Shank chairman and Edward Carter, vice-chairman. Shank and Carter are the only two members of the former board who ran for election and won. A third former board member, Miles Frost, did not seek election, but was one of three members appointed by the city council.

Under the election law governing the Greenville City Board of Education, terms of office for one of the appointed members and for the three elected members with the highest vote received is for four years — the other five members have two year terms.

Elected board members serving a four year term are Nancy Middleton, Theresa Shank, and Dr. Jon Tingelstad. The appointed member serving a four year term is Donovan Phillips.

Appointed members for two year terms are Miles Frost and Steven (Jack) Wall, and elected members serving two year terms are Lena Brown, Edward Carter and Sue Zadeits.

Following the taking of oath by new members, former chairman Henry

Dunn presided over the board in a monitor role to conduct election by ballot of the new chairman. Election of the vice-chairman was then conducted by a voice vote, with a motion the vote be by acclamation.

In addition to approving minutes, the only action taken by the former board prior to the changeover was the approval of a policy paper on "Policies and Procedures for Selection of Instructional Materials" for the Greenville City School Libraries.

The policy paper outlines the responsibilities of a Media Advisory Committee for each school to assist professional personnel in the selection of materials. It also endorses the concept of the School Library Bill of Rights for School Library Media programs — provides criteria for selecting material; procedures for maintaining a library collection; and details action to be followed in the event an individual or group challenges the inclusion of an item in the library collection.

Comments By Mayor

Mayor Percy Cox, a special guest at the installation of the new board, spoke briefly, touching on the long history of citizen expressions indicating a desire for an elected school board. Cox praised the outgoing board.

Working On Pitt Budget

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners met again yesterday afternoon to continue work on the 1978-1979 budget, and gave tentative approval to the budgets of Pitt Technical Institute, The Department of Social Services, the debt service fund, and the Mental Health Department.

The mental health budget given a tentative okay yesterday totals some $1.45 million, as compared with current appropriations of $1.6 million, while the Pitt Technical Institute budget of $328,269, allows $50,900 for capital outlay items.

For the Department of Social Services, where the board has very little control because of mandated programs, commissioners gave tentative approval to some $3.2 million. The department had requested $3.33 million for 1978-1979 as compared with a current budget totaling $2.91 million.

Probably the largest single items in the budget, as far as county funds are concerned, is some $950,099 for grants in areas such as Medicaid, aid to families with dependent children, AFDC foster care, and other special assistance grants.

AFDC grants alone as proposed in the new budget total more than $471,500 in county money, while Medicaid grants amount to some $265,700.

The board also reviewed requests from both the city and county school boards for funds over and above what has been recommended in the county's budget for the coming year, but took no action toward including the prioritized lists in the 1978-1979 funding.

The city and county schools had asked for $1.4 million more in current expense funds and $926,000 more in capital improvement money than they received this year — an amount equal to a 26.59 cents increase in the tax rate.

County manager Reginald Gray, in his budget message to the board, recommended an increase in school current expense spending for both school administrative units of 10.6 per cent or $490,700, and a 33.2 per cent reduction for capital outlay.

The items the school board asked commissioners to reconsider yesterday, if included in the final budget, would equal about 3 cents on the tax rate.

The tax rate for the current year is 92 cents per $100 valuation. In considering the new budget, commissioners have been looking at totals which would require a tax rate of from 94 to 96 cents to fund.

Commissioners are scheduled to meet again at 5 p.m. today to continue their deliberations.

Near No Growth In U.S. Economy

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy showed virtually no growth in the first three months this year but did not decline as economists thought it would, the Commerce Department said today.

It usually takes a growth in the Gross National Product of about 4 percent per year to keep the economy growing rapidly enough to create jobs and keep business active, economists say.

After adjustment for inflation, the nation's output of goods and services grew by less than one-tenth of one percent in the first quarter, the department said.

The department had estimated in April that first quarter growth declined 0.6 percent at an annual rate and in May it revised the decline to 0.4 percent. An annual rate means the growth for a period within a year is extrapolated to determine what the increase for the entire year would be if the growth continued at the same rate for 12 months.

Most forecasters say the economy is growing at an annual rate of about 8 percent to 10 percent in the second quarter, enough to make up for the sluggish winter.

Economic indicators show the economy should grow more slowly than that in the second half of the year, closer to the 4 percent to 4.5 percent predictions by the Carter administration.

However, Barry Bosworth, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, and others say the economy could go into a recession if inflation is not brought under control.

The report indicated prices rose at an annual rate of 7.1 percent in the first quarter.

Before removing the effects of inflation, the department found that total output grew at an annual rate of $33.5 billion, or 7 percent, to $1,995.3 billion.

The main reasons for the revisions, the department said, were $500 million in increased consumer spending, $1.4 billion more spent in inventories and a $900 million increase in exports.

However, money spent by businesses on fixed investments, a sign of business confidence, was revised downward by $900 million.

The department said the economy would have grown about 2.5 percent to 3 percent in the first quarter if it had not been for a coal strike and an unusually cold, wet winter.

Cleared Major Obstacle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said today that anyone who contracted a rare paralyzing disease after getting swine flu shots in 1976 will not have to prove negligence to collect federal compensation.

The action clears a major stumbling block in nearly one-third of the 1,483 claims that have been brought against the government for $775 million by persons or their survivors who claim they suffered injuries during the mass inoculation campaign.

Some 439 of these cases seeking $365 million in damages involve Guillain-Barre, a paralyzing disease that can be fatal. Some 535 of the estimated 45 million Americans who got swine flu shots contracted the disease, and 23 died, according to the U.S. Center for Disease Control.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., who announced the action on negligence, said, "We cannot estimate precisely how much the federal government will ultimately pay out in compensation. We expect, however, that the amounts awarded will be only a fraction of the amounts claimed."

The Justice Department still must review the claims, Califano said, and the decision not to make victims prove negligence will not apply to any non-Guillain-Barre cases.

Vance Airing Africa Role

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration has decided to work with the Marxist government of Angola "in more normal ways," Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance said today.

In a speech prepared for a Jaycees convention in Atlantic City, N.J., Vance said the administration has two goals: Reconcile the dispute between Angola and western-leaning Zaire; and achieve a peaceful settlement in South West Africa, or Namibia, which is under South Africa's control.

Angola has served as the staging ground for incursions by Katangan rebels into Zaire's Shaba province. It also supports guerrilla forces striking against Namibia.

A government official, backgrounding Vance's speech for reporters in Washington, said the administration does not plan to establish diplomatic relations with Angola.

However, the official, who barred use of his name, said there have been a number of exchanges between Washington and Luanda, the Angolan capital. These include a recent meeting in New York between Vance and the Angolan foreign minister and a visit to Luanda by Donald Easum, the U.S. ambassador to Nigeria.

In the 1975 Angolan civil war, the United States backed two factions that eventually lost out to the Marxist group now in power. One of the losing factions, Unita, is still waging guerrilla warfare against the central government.

According to U.S. estimates, some 20,000 Cuban troops remain in Angola, where they helped President Agostinho Neto take power.

Vance gave a preview of the administration's new focus on Africa in an appearance Monday before the House International Relations Committee in which he sought to dispel the idea that the administration had reverted to a Cold War approach in dealing with the Russians.

The basis of U.S. policy, he told the panel, continues to be a search for "areas of cooperation" with the Russians. He added that "we hope to see some reciprocal action on the other side."

In Africa, he said, U.S. actions will be founded on "the African perception that we see them and their problem in their own terms, and not as an arena for East-West differences."

In his appearance before the House committee, Vance said:

"There is no question that over the last several weeks there have been a number of events in Africa which ... raised questions as to what the Soviets and Cubans are trying to do."

Nazi March Ruling Due

CHICAGO (AP) — Under the pressure of a Sunday deadline, a court hearing will try to determine whether a tiny band of American Nazis marches in Skokie, a Chicago suburb that is home to thousands of Jewish survivors of Hitler's death camps.

Frank Collin, leader of the Nationalist Socialist Party of America, said again Monday that his group will call off Sunday's march in Skokie if it instead can demonstrate July 9 in Marquette Park, about a mile from Nazi headquarters on Chicago's southwest side.

The hearing scheduled today before U.S. District Judge George Leighton is to rule on a Nazi petition that seeks to eliminate the Chicago Park District's requirement of a $60,000 insurance bond as a condition for gatherings of 75 or more people.

The Nazis say the $60,000 figure — reduced from a $350,000 bond invalidated earlier by Leighton — is excessive and deprives them of their constitutional rights to speech and assembly.

Collin said he considered a favorable ruling before Sunday "unlikely."

Jewish groups have said they will stage counter-demonstrations if the Nazis march in Skokie, whose population of 69,000 is about 40 percent Jewish. The militant Jewish Defense League has vowed to use violence to block the march.

"The U.S. Supreme Court ruled June 12 that Skokie could not delay a demonstration while waiting for a decision on an appeal of three overturned ordinances that would have barred the Nazis."

In a related development, park district officials denied Monday that they had altered their policy to facilitate a Nazi demonstration at Marquette Park.

On Friday, a Justice Department official said the park district had agreed to count only uniformed Nazis — instead of all in attendance — toward the 75-person limit at the proposed Marquette Park rally.

Edmund Kelly, park district general superintendent, said his agency had made no concessions to Collin's group. "A permit without bond to march in Marquette Park" has not been offered, he said.

Also on Monday, Louis Black, a Skokie resident, filed a suit in Circuit Court to block the demonstration. He said the Nazis were not legally registered with the state and thus not entitled to a permit. A Wednesday hearing was set.

Collects Degree 50 Years Later

CUMMING, Ga. (AP) — Samford V. Wagoner, 75, finally got around to collecting his college degree after a 50-year break from the academic world.

Wagoner, a retired hardware store owner, left Ball State University in Muncie, Ind., in 1925 to take a high school teaching job. At the time he was 12 credit hours short of receiving a bachelor's degree in business administration.

When he contacted college officials last fall, they said his experience as an accountant could be substituted for the needed school work and they allowed him to graduate with the class of '78. He received his diploma on May 20.

Bolt Injured Dozen Women

OLD LYME, Conn. (AP) — A dozen women softball players were injured when lightning struck a nearby oak tree, officials said.

The women, members of the Old Lyme and Madison YWCA softball teams, suffered second- and third-degree burns, officials said.

Rain had delayed the game at the Mile Creek School when the lightning struck Monday night, throwing most of the women to the ground.

farm in the area but were released the next morning before officials knew of the rapes.

The women, all from Raleigh, N.C., hiked 12 to 15 miles Friday to Hampton, where they spent the night. On Saturday morning they flagged down a deputy's patrol car and were taken to a hospital at Elizabethton.

The women had left Raleigh by car on Tuesday and began hiking Wednesday from Banner Elk, N.C., to Damascus, Va. They were released from the hospital Sunday after their parents picked them up.

Crockett said Johnson was convicted two weeks ago of assaulting a man with a baseball bat but was placed on probation for one year. Charges of stealing pigs also are pending against Gregory and Jerry Oaks, he said.

Cites High Risks Walking Appalachian Trail

the arraignment Monday of one of five men accused of raping four teen-age hikers Thursday night near Buck Mountain on the Appalachian Trail in extreme East Tennessee.

David Jones, 22, was being held in the Carter County jail after General Sessions Court Judge Stewart Hampton set his bond at $125,000. Officials said a preliminary hearing will be scheduled after the court appoints an attorney for Jones.

Sheriff's deputies late Monday were reported still searching for the four other men, all from the Roane Mountain community on the edge of the Cherokee National Forest.

The women, two aged 16 and two 17, said they were raped by five to eight men wearing handkerchiefs over their faces and armed with a shotgun, Crockett said.

"This is about the third or fourth time in the past seven years that girls have been assaulted or injured up there," he said.

The other four men named in warrants after deputies arrested Jones Friday night are identified as Gregory, Jerry and John Oaks, all brothers, and Billy Johnson.

Crockett said Jones and Jerry Oaks were arrested Thursday night for trespassing on a landowner's farm in the area but were released the next morning before officials knew of the rapes.

Matching Funds

RALEIGH — State Sen. Vernon White announced a grant of $225,000 to the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop and Vocational Rehabilitation Center for its construction program.

The money will be used as a ten percent matching fund for the recreational and housing unit for the handicapped and senior citizens.

The proposed housing and dining area will accommodate 84 persons. It will include a crafts and arts unit, a center for adult basic education, personal and social adjustment, as well as a recreation area and lounge, gymnasium, swimming pool for the handicapped, and bowling alley.

Chance To Speak For Saccharin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proponents of continued use of saccharin are getting another chance to argue that the benefits of the artificial sweetener outweigh the risks.

Trade associations, medical groups and those concerned with obesity and diabetes testified Monday before the National Academy of Sciences, which is working on a detailed study of saccharin for Congress. Speakers attacked a Canadian study linking saccharin to bladder cancer in male rats, as well as several other studies that indicated there may be a link to human cancer as well.

Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., who announced the action on negligence, said, "We cannot estimate precisely how much the federal government will ultimately pay out in compensation. She Wonders How Boyfriend Got It

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Can a person get poison oak through his clothes? My boyfriend got the most terrible case you ever saw. (I don't even want to mention where he got it the worst.)

Answer right away, Abby, because if he couldn't have gotten it through his pants, it is all over between him and me. Thank you.

MISSY

DEAR MISSY: My medical experts tell me it's not easy to get poison oak through one's clothing, but it's possible. Don't scratch him off your list.

DEAR ABBY: I am married and have two small children. I also have a loving and devoted husband. What more could a wife want, right?

Well, for the last year I have had a secret desire for another man. I know he's married and has a family, so nothing could ever come of this, but I can't help how I feel.

The Good Book says that to lust after someone is the same as committing adultery. I feel so ashamed and guilty. What's wrong with me?

LUSTING IN MY HEART

DEAR LUSTING: There is nothing "wrong" with you that isn't wrong with the rest of humanity. You are indulging in fantasy, which is normal—and harmless. The guilt feelings over your daydreams are doing you more harm than the daydreams. Don't dwell on them.

Now, go scrub the kitchen floor and take a cold shower—you'll feel better.

DEAR ABBY: I have preschool children and a large home to care for, but I schedule my time so that everything gets done. When the children nap, I read, write letters, watch TV or just relax.

However, lately nearly every afternoon a certain neighbor barges in on me. She helps herself to refreshments, then settles down for an endless outpouring of gossip, unasked-for advice and a monologue of opinions on various subjects. She is tiresome, boring and a vicious gossip.

I would pretend not to be home, but she can see my car in the carport. At first I found her entertaining, but she comes so often, I've taken a dislike to her. What should I do? No names or location, please. She has a sharp tongue and would make a better friend than an enemy.

NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: People who open their doors to bores and tolerate their company day after day have only themselves to blame. By your failure to discourage her, you encourage her.

If I had to make a choice between having a vicious, gossiping, gutsy pest for a friend or an enemy, I'd opt for the latter.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MEL TORME: I seldom read novels, but I picked up "WYNNER"—written by you—and I couldn't put it down until I finished it. What a fascinating experience! I was truly sorry when it ended. You are a gifted writer as well as a talented musician, and your "Wynner" deserves to be a winner.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST—Showers are forecast today from the central Mississippi to the lower Great Lakes, for west Texas, New Mexico, southern Florida and the central northern Plains. Temperatures are expected to be cool for the eastern Plains and parts of the Midwest but warm in most areas. (AP Laserphoto)

A weak cool front passed through the North Carolina mountains, reaching the Piedmont during the night, and it dissipated today before reaching the coast.

Its effect will be slight, helping only to increase the chance of an afternoon or evening thundershower.

Little weather change is seen on into the weekend. Afternoon temperatures will be climbing into the 80s and dropping at night to the 60s.

The advancing cool front touching off some showers in the mountains Monday but they were generally light. West Jefferson, however, measured rainfall of nearly two inches.

Temperatures Monday ranged as high as 90 degrees, which was the reading at Raleigh, Rocky Mount, Wilson and Goldsboro had 89, while Elizabeth City and Fayetteville had 88. In the mountains, Boone's high was 75.

All Her Time To Unfinished Task

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Anne Morrow Lindbergh spends all her time working on her book, "Diaries and Letters," because, she says, "After 70, one does not know how much time one will have left to complete one's unfinished tasks."

Mrs. Lindbergh, 72, sent that message as her reason for missing a luncheon here Monday to mark issuance of an envelope recalling the pioneer 1927 trans-Atlantic flight by her late husband, Charles Lindbergh. The first-day cover was meant for stamp collectors to use with new U.N. commemorative stamps honoring the International Civil Aviation Organization.

Most of the 128 unit members taking part in the annual training are from Greenville.

Mercy Ship For Boat Refugees

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A mercy ship to help Vietnamese boat refugees fleeing Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam is being launched by World Vision International, a Christian aid agency.

Its president, Stanley Mooneyham, says the 345-ton, 188-foot, LST-type landing ship will cruise the South China Sea and Gulf of Thailand, providing refugees with food, water, medicine, clothing and personal hygiene items.

On board will be a medical doctor and two nurses, and also two mechanics to repair the makeshift boats of the fleeing refugees. Reports indicate about 5,000 refugees are on the sea at any given time, the boats overcrowded, with scanty water, food and fuel.

Governing Boards Are Calling For Referendum

By The Associated Press

Taking advantage of North Carolina's new liquor-by-the-drink law, the Mecklenburg and New Hanover county boards of commissioners called Monday for local referendums on the sale of mixed drinks.

The resort town of Southern Pines got in line for a local-option referendum Sept. 12, and Wake County commissioners decided to delay a call for a vote pending adoption of liquor-by-the-drink regulations by the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board.

The town board of Southern Pines moved last Wednesday, the same day the Senate gave final approval to the local-option bill, to seek a referendum. It is the first locality to schedule a vote under the new law.

Mecklenburg County commissioners asked the county Election Board to schedule a vote on mixed-drink sales between Labor day and Sept. 20, specifying Sept. 15 as its first choice. However, officials of the Election Board said Sept. 8 likely will be the date of the referendum, which was scheduled for discussion at a board meeting today.

The New Hanover County Board of Commissioners voted 3-2 to recommend an election in January. Backers of the issue said they thought it would be wise to wait until early next year in hopes that voters in nearby Brunswick County will approve liquor sales by then, putting pressure on New Hanover County to keep up with the adjoining resort areas.

County commissioners in Durham and Guilford counties met Monday without bringing up the liquor-by-the-drink issue, and the Orange County board is expected to approve a call for a mixed-drink referendum during a meeting tonight.

The only mention of liquor at the meeting of Durham County commissioners came as the board voted to remove funds for a referendum from the election board's proposed budget. An election would have to be financed from contingency funds.

Three of the five Guilford County commissioners said in interviews that they will not take the initiative in asking for a referendum, but lame duck Commissioner Bob Landreth said he may place a motion for a vote before the board.

Meanwhile, Winston-Salem Alderman Robert S. Northington Jr. said he plans to inroduce a resolution at the Board of Aldermen's meeting next Monday night calling for a vote on liquor by the drink. There have been reports that a majority of the board favors a referendum.

Several of the localities have moved quickly to schedule referendums in order to avoid a possible wait until late this year or early next year. State law prohibits liquor referendums 45 days before or after the November general election. The resort town of Banner Elk decided to hold a referendum on the legal sale of beer. The town already has ABC stores and permits the sale of wine. Mayor Charles Von Cannon Sr. said there has been no apparent move toward a mixed-drink referendum.

Overeaters To Meet Thursday

No Profits In This Service

The City Council is looking for an Urban Mass Transportation Administration grant for upgrading and expanding the city transit system. Application has been made for a total grant of $630,130, which would include $504,104 federal funds, $63,013 state funds and $63,013 in city participation.

The funds would be used to acquire six 17 to 25 passenger transit vehicles, a ten passenger modified van with lift, a service vehicle, radio equipment and various other equipment.

Operation of the city transit system is done without any profit and virtually no hope of ever realizing a profit. It is a service to the citizens of the community and a possible way of reducing auto traffic on municipal streets.

Thus any funds which the city can obtain from the federal and state governments to help with the costs of obtaining equipment for the transit system will be welcome.

We hope that the transit grant application will be viewed favorably.

Local Requests Based On Real Need

Far more than on the federal level, services offered by local governments are of direct benefit to the citizens.

Thus most request for additional funds from various departments of the city and county are based on real need.

Even if they are, however the additional costs must be accounted for.

Mayor Percy Cox reminded citizens of this last week. He said when requests for program increases are made "you are increasing your own taxes as well."

Like our personal budgets it boils down to what are we willing to pay for.

Managing Water Supply

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — There is plenty of water in North Carolina to meet future needs. The problem is simply one of management, a report to the state's Environmental Management Commission concludes.

"If we are willing to pay the price both in dollars and in some constraints in terms of subjecting ourselves to management, there is no reason why there should be any shortage of water in this state to meet all reasonable social, environmental, and economic needs."

The guiding philosophy of planning water use is spelled out in the policy paper: "We should think first not of water but of people and their aspirations and needs in which water plays an important role."

Following that guideline, the proposed policy charts specific directions for economic development, environmental protection, and combinations of those two interests in all of the state's various "hydrological study areas" of one or more river basins.

The year-long project resulted in a 332-page book which catalogs specific areas which have problems of flooding, drought, erosion, or uneven distribution of water. Some 1,000 proposed water resource projects of various sorts are listed, including projects under study for flood control, reservoirs, water and sewer lines, parks, greenways and wilderness areas, access to public water recreation and land for future needs, and harbor or navigation proposals.

A statewide policy has become essential, the policy guide suggests, because water is a "multi-use but finite resource and its allocation must meet a diversity of demands.... important tradeoffs must be considered...."

BILL NOBLITT

One-Sided

"Many special-interest groups propose solutions which reflect the singular mission of the group rather than the overall scope of problems.... Once simplistic solution has been proposed, its proponents are faced with the task of supporting it.... The public doesn't know whom to believe."

Thus, the running battle between economic growth and development, environmentalists who oppose growth at any cost, and the public which is caught in the middle can only be resolved through a political process.

Policy recommendations listed follow the principle of water for people, with much emphasis on expanded recreational use of water, flood control through building restrictions rather than artificial controls, concern for wildlife in future water use decisions, and stringent anti-pollution measures.

The proposals get deeply into future industrial growth in recommending that the state "encourage large water-using industries to locate in water-rich areas, namely: the lower reach of Yadkin-Pee Dee, Roanoke, Cape Fear, Catawba, French Broad, Neuse, and Tar-Pamlico."

Likewise, future power plants should be in those water rich areas, and should be restricted in water withdrawals during drought periods.

Flooding comes in for major attention, with the growing problem of heavy water runoff from developed areas blamed for downstream flooding in many cases. More emphasis should be given to restricting building in floodplain lands, and to computing the effects of buildings and parking lots on nearby streams.

Thank You, Bro. Jarvis

WASHINGTON — Two weeks have passed since the California earthquake, and the tremors have at last crossed the Potomac. The House of Representatives last week voted to cut the Labor-Welfare budget by $800 million. In terms of a $500 billion budget, it wasn't much, but it was a start. Thank you, Howard Jarvis.

Mr. Jarvis, of course, is the cantankerous apostle of the new political religion known as tax limitation. Since California's landslide vote of June 6 for his Proposition 13, his voice no longer cries alone in the wilderness. All kinds of politicians have got religion, as an examination of the 220-181 vote in the House will suggest. Some of the 220 had never cast a vote for economy in their lives.

Here, as there, cries were raised that to reduce public spending, especially in areas of health, education and welfare, amounts to grinding the faces of the poor. In times past, such cries have proved marvelously effective; and as a consequence, the federal budget for welfare has become bloated beyond recognition. Until Brother Jarvis came along, there seemed no possibility that the Labor-HEW appropriation ever would be touched by fiscal sanity. Now the boys are running scared.

Some other things have been happening in these two weeks. The news that reaches us from California is mostly maddening news. Daily we are deluged by pitiful stories of libraries closing, of firetrucks immobilized, of police laid off, of school teachers dismissed, all as a result of that dreadful Jarvis man. On examination, it appears that most of these doomsday tidings have to do with possible closings and possible cutbacks and possible reductions in services, depending upon what the California legislature does to save the day.

If I were a California voter, witnessing this defeatist reaction from officialdom, I would start making lists — lists of those elected officials who have responded with vindictiveness or ineptitude, or both, to the results on Proposition 13. At the first opportunity, I would move heaven and earth to vote them out of office and to replace them with new officials dedicated to making the proposition work.

California's highly paid state legislators have the first responsibility for a sensitive, intelligent response to the situation, but local imagination and local leadership could count for vastly more. A dispatch from Corona, Calif., informs us dolefully that "the sleek new library on Main Street probably will close." Well, nonsense! The library won't close if Friends of the Corona Library will stop sniffing and raise the money voluntarily to take up the slack.

The inference one draws from the post-referendum news is that Californians have become so absolutely dependent upon government, so weak and enfeebled, so pathetically gutless, that they are unable to lift a finger in their own behalf. I do not believe it for an instant.

In every community affected by Proposition 13, there are local industries, stores, banks, factories and well-heeled individuals who will benefit from substantial tax reduction. In many cases, these taxpayers can be persuaded to give large chunks of their savings back to their communities for parks, libraries, fire companies or the like. Under federal income tax laws, such voluntary contributions would cost them nothing.

We hear lamentations about the cancellation of summer schools and adult education classes. So what? Generations of Americans grew up to a reasonable literacy without free summer school and free adult education. Charge a fee or let it go! What if Corona's Little

Also A Light Side

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Today's question is: Who is Patricia Roberts Harris? And would you know her if you saw her?

Mrs. Harris is secretary of housing and urban development and one of two women in President Carter's Cabinet.

She had reason to think she was a big cheese in the governmental scheme of things the day she settled into her seat on an airplane and started to read a magazine.

"I know you," said the stewardess. Mrs. Harris smiled modestly.

"You're Juanita Kreps," the stewardess added. Mrs. Kreps is secretary of commerce in the Carter administration.

Mrs. Harris' smile faded. "No," she said. "I'm not Juanita Kreps."

The stewardess was certain her passenger was in the Carter Cabinet. Later, she figured out who it must be and went up to Mrs. Harris again.

"You're Brock Adams," she said, referring to the secretary of transportation, one of 10 men in the Cabinet.

"I decided Brock Adams has a gender identification problem," said Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. Harris told that story to a group of Massachusetts local officials who came to Washington for a series of meetings with administration officials.

She told the group she has problems with Massachusetts because officials there "want 50 percent of all the money we have."

"Fair share," quipped Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts. After a long pause, he added: "The other half goes to Georgia."

Robert Strauss is fast becoming the jack-of-all-trades of the Carter administration. The former Democratic National Chairman joined the administration as the president's special trade representative and recently took on added duties as chief inflation fighter.

As a result, Strauss keeps reading about himself in the newspapers. And he loves it.

THE INSIDE REPORT

'Bait' For Cloture Vote

By ROWLAND EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — While still shy of enough votes to end the filibuster against the labor law revision bill, the White House dangled succulent offers to get the magic 60 votes, including an ambassadorship for 78-year-old Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama.

Sparkman, who retires in January after four years as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has neither encouraged nor discouraged speculation that he might like to top his career with an ambassadorial plum — possibly to Belgium. But intimates say he is definitely interested.

Sparkman's vote for cloture would raise to 59 the number of senators willing to forcibly end debate on the Senate's most bitter economic battle in years: the Carter administration's effort to make it much easier for labor unions to become legal bargaining agents for employees, particularly affecting such less unionized Southern states as Sparkman's Alabama.

Giving a senator a juicy inducement to rescue a stalled bill is as old as politics, although Mr. Carter did not understand the tactic until he used it with some success in the Panama Canal treaties. Deals on the labor bill abound Republican Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska switched and voted to end the filibuster on June 14 after being warned by the Senate Democratic leadership the Alaska land bill might never reach the floor.

The White House also has been toying with the idea of slowing cheap sugar imports into the U.S., long demanded by sugar-state senators, to get over the top on cloture. But that game will not succeed. Sen. Russell Long of Louisiana, a sugarbloc leader, has privately informed the administration that the sugar problem transcends the labor bill; in any event, he will not switch his vote on the cloture issue.

A footnote: Despite the administration's inability to break the filibuster in repeated cloture efforts, AFL-CIO president George Meany gives Mr. Carter good marks for trying. That indicated Meany rejects earlier speculation that the president is not fully committed to the bill.

Tax Revolt Converts

The tax revolt is enlisting Democratic senators even if it means opposing President Carter, with Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York the most notable convert to a Republican tax-cutting scheme.

Moynihan, who has a growing number of both foreign and domestic policy differences with the president, now backs the Republican Steiger amendment that would sharply cut capital in the Senate, Frank Church of Idaho.

Moynihan still opposes the Republican Kemp-Roth bill to cut personal income taxes by 30 percent spread over three years, but it has picked up its first Democratic backer: Jimmy Carter's own senator.

One week after the tax revolt erupted in California, Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia endorses Kemp-Roth.

Nunn soon may have some company from Democratic senators up for reelection. Likely prospects to endorse Kemp-Roth are Sens. Walter D. Huddleston of Kentucky and Jennings Randolph of West Virginia.

A footnote: Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, a liberal Republican running for reelection, ended previous opposition to Kemp-Roth and embraced it the same day as Nunn. That was one week after the stunning primary election defeat in New Jersey of fellow liberal Republican Sen. Clifford Case, who opposed Kemp-Roth. "I think Chuck's hearing footsteps," a Senate Republican told us.

Brooke's Woes

Even before the personal difficulties of his divorce settlement broke into the open, Sen. Edward Brooke was shown by a private poll to be in deep trouble for renomination by the Massachusetts Republican primary.

A survey by pollster Arthur Finkelstein taken for radio-TV talk show host Avi Nelson, Brooke's conservative challenger, showed a 2-to-1

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

I have the permission of the writer of a letter to the editor of the Columbia, S. C. "State" newspaper, Henry B. Martin of Columbia, to share his letter with "Daily Reflector" readers:

"Webster's dictionary defines a patriot as 'one who loves his country and zealously supports its authority and interests,' and patriotism as 'a love for or devotion to one's country.'"

"What is love for one's country? It certainly should be apparent that it is courtesy to our flag, our national anthem, our police authority, and our allies who respect us. It should be evident in the pride we have in ourselves, our homes, and our public buildings and parks. It should be promoted by our schools and churches.

"A willingness to fight and die for our country or to send away, with pride, our very best to fight is an expected action when one loves his country.

"Those who would really love our country would certainly register to vote, study the issues, and vote the decision best for the country.

"Those who love our country would be proud to serve on its juries, to testify against a wrongdoer, to vote out of office bums and thieves, and to pay taxes (Taxes would be lower if we had more statesmen patriots.)

"Patriots would quit feeding their faces and consider feeding, instead, their minds and hearts to insure a mental and physical readiness against the enemy from within and without this country.

"Wave your flag! Say the pledge! Sing the anthem of the greatest country for the free. Do your duty plus 10 percent so that we will have a country and a flag. Patriotism costs. We must pay the full price and ask for no discounts."

The guide lists 25 job characteristics, including educational requirements and such things as how competitive the field is, whether overtime or shift work is usual and opportunities available for self-expression. If you have your heart set on a given career but dislike one or two aspects of work in the field, the department guide may be able to help you find a similar vocation.

Some jobs require special training and a growing number of people are turning to vocational schools for the extra education. In New York State alone, about 125,000 people a year enroll in licensed business and technical schools.

The most frequent complaint about the schools, according to New York officials, is that they promise jobs they don't deliver. The second most common complaint is that the schools are not providing the training or education they promised.

You can help protect yourself and avoid problems by shopping carefully, says the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. "It makes sense to be aware of common rip-offs, to understand the current job market, to recognize advertising gimmicks, to ask the right questions and to talk to the right people," writes William D. Green, of HEW's Office of Education.

Beware of schools that try to attract students by placing ads in the help-wanted section of the newspaper. An ad reading, "Trainees Wanted for Immediate Openings" may make you think that jobs are available. In fact, the "openings" are at the school — not in the workplace.

You should also be wary of ads promising job placement after training. Get the names and addresses of three former students who have been placed by the school and check them out.

Read contracts carefully for refund policies. State and local laws vary, but schools usually are not required to give refunds unless they promise to do so in writing. Study the fine print to see what conditions you must fulfill to get your money back. Verbal promises — of refunds or of jobs after graduation — are not binding.

Strength For Today

TREASURE

Every human being at last becomes a pauper. At death, even the millionaire goes from riches to poverty. We brought nothing into the world, and we will take nothing out.

Why, then, should we put so much stock in the things we cannot retain? What fools men and women are who sell their eternal souls for money, and then in the twinkling of an eye find themselves owning nothing! We attach great importance to the things money can buy. We long for a larger income. Yet achieving these goals seldom brings happiness. And the most devastating aspect of the whole situation is that at last we must let go of everything we own and pass on into another life.

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth where moth and rust corrupt and where thieves break through and steal, but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven where moth and rust do not corrupt....For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

Prison Funds

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt and Corrections Secretary Amos Reed say North Carolina will use $3.2 million in reinstated federal funds to build single-cell prison accommodations at eight field units.

The state was initially awarded the money in 1974 and 1975 as a block grant to the old Governor's Law and Order Commission under the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Act. When the commission failed to meet a two-year deadline for spending the money, it was returned to Washington.

"It was money reverted from North Carolina, and we took the position that it was a shame to let it go back when our needs here are so great," Hunt said Monday. He said he urged the state Department of Crime Control and Public Safety to seek reinstatement of the money.

The state will use inmate labor to build 28 single cells at each of the field units in Davie, Iredell, Rockingham, Warren, Greene, Guilford, Washington and Randolph Counties.

The work is expected to take about two years.

Difficult To Handle 'Explosive Dirt'

By DAVID GREEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — The ground erupts like a miniature volcano when a bulldozer scrapes it. Turning the soil with a shovel sends sparks flying.

The dirt is radioactive, and both federal officials and the L.B. Foster Co., whose pipe-making plant is over the patch of ground, want to get rid of it. But how?

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission says the soil is laced with thorium — plus zirconium, a non-radioactive but highly combustible substance.

"If this was just radioactive thorium, you could just dig in and move it," NRC spokesman Ken Clark said Monday from Atlanta.

Workmen experienced the combustibility when they tried to install a machine in the Foster building. They were digging a hole when there was an explosion followed by a flash fire. Sparks shot up 30 feet, singeing the ceiling, said Walter Pavlo, plant manager.

"It's a spewing effect — throwing out rocks or anything in its path. How would you describe lava from a volcano? The ground around it is blazing hot for two hours," Pavlo said.

Several weeks later another explosion boomed when workers tried to dig up some of the radioactive soil.

According to Wood County emergency services director George Fox, once "they had a bulldozer in there and it was doing some grading and it got into it and it melted the tracks right off of it."

The NRC says the level of radiation presents no immediate health hazard to the 70 workers at the plant. But "it is high enough that it can't be allowed to stay in there for long," Clark said.

Foster also wants the contaminated soil removed. The company has been forced to suspend a $2 million construction project while investigators try to find a way to remove the dirt.

The investigators also want to know how the thorium got there.

Since 1957, three companies have owned the property just south of Parkersburg on the Ohio River, and all three — Foster, Amax Inc., and Carborundum Co. — disclaim responsibility for the dumping.

The property was a farm before Carborundum built a factory in 1957. Amax bought half interest in 1965 and took over ownership in 1967. Amax stopped production in 1974 and sold out to Foster in 1977.

Both Carborundum and Amax used zirconium to manufacture casings for nuclear fuel rods. Clark said the thorium was contained in Nigerian sand used to manufacture the zirconium alloy rods but was not used in the process itself.

He added it appears that "at some time" someone illegally buried the sand. Clark said the NRC wants to know who did the burying and is trying to determine if federal regulations were broken.

Carborundum said it made no burials and does not know how the contamination could have occurred.

Amx said it made no burials. In a prepared statement, Amx said the radiation resulted from leaks from barrels of sand which Carborundum stored at the plant beginning in 1961. Louis Kasdan, a spokesman for Amx, said his company would be willing to help remove the material.

A Foster official, who asked not to be identified, said: "You can draw your own conclusions as to how it got there. The farmer who was planting his corn there certainly didn't bury it."

Crumbling Even During Repairs

WHITEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Department of Transportation officials say that even as repairs are being made to a damaged section of U.S. 74-76 between Whiteville and Chadbourne, the cracking, buckling and caving in of the road is spreading.

However, officials expressed confidence that the repaving now being done will solve the problems of the dual-lane highway that was completed about a year ago.

District Engineer B. Andrew Mills said the damaged section of the road now extends for 12 miles but the most serious damage is in a section about four miles long.

Crowell Constructors Inc. of Fayetteville is scheduled to complete in September a million-dollar repaving project on the 12-mile stretch. It began the job in April.

Berry G. Jenkins Jr., assistant head of construction for the department, said resurfacing was chosen over complete reconstruction because it is cheaper.

"We feel from an engineering standpoint new construction is not necessary and patching and paving will be adequate," he said. "We feel like it will solve the problem and we don't anticipate any more settling." But he said the only way to guarantee that the road does not buckle again would be to rebuild it.

Failure of a six-mile section of the four-lane highway became evident last August when portions of the road began buckling. After tree stumps and substandard fill material were found in the road, the Department of Transportation and the State Bureau of Investigation conducted an investigation.

The SBI found no evidence of criminal wrongdoing by the contractor and no negligence by state officials who accepted the highway.

Pitt-Greene PCA Officials Attended Annual Conference

Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association officials have returned from Florida where they attended the annual conference for directors and presidents of Production Credit Associations and Federal Land Bank Associations in the Carolinas, Florida and Georgia.

F. L. Little Jr., president of the local association, said that the conference, held at Lake Buena Vista, was sponsored by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia, S.C., and the Federal Land Bank of Columbia.

Program topics presented included highlights of service and operations of the associations, farm credit of the future, the southern economic situation, and monetary outlook and interest rates. Theme of the conference was "The Future — Farm Credit and Agriculture."

According to Little, the Credit

Bank provides leadership, supervision and agricultural loan funds for the PCAs and the Land Bank makes loans through Land Bank Associations in the Carolinas, Florida and Georgia. Over 127,000 farmers, growers, ranchers and rural homeowners are being served with nearly $4.6 billion in outstanding loans, he said.

The Pitt-Greene PCA is currently serving 1,250 farmers and rural homeowners with loans totaling $50,964,000 in Pitt and Greene Counties.

Local PCA officials attending, in addition to Little, include David Harold Smith, Rt. 2, Ayden, chairman of the board;

James E. Manning, Rt. 2, Walstonburg, vice chairman; Wayne K. Stokes, Rt. 3, Greenville, director; T. Weldon Shingleton, Rt. 2, Stantonburg, director; and Alton Gardner, Rt. 2, Ayden, director emeritus.

The association's home office is located here and a branch office is located in Snow Hill, managed by Arnold B. Parris.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned downward today, with analysts attributing the drop to worries about interest rates, inflation and the value of the U.S. dollar.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 4.68 points at 833.94, after a 1.65-point gain Monday.

Losers held a 7-4 edge over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market, which in recent months had been indifferent to higher interest rates, now appeared concerned. The Federal Reserve met in Washington today, and most experts believed the board would tighten credit in an attempt to rein the growth of money supply.

Although the board rarely announces its decision, money-market specialists usually can spot changes of policy within a day or two.

In addition, analysts said traders were exhibiting renewed concern over the perceived failure of the Carter administration to make major gains against inflation. There also were worries about the dollar, which fell earlier in the day to another record low in Tokyo.

The NYSE composite index of all listed common stocks declined 32 to 54.44. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped .38 to 149.19.

Volume on the Big Board came to 11.86 million shares over the first two hours, up from the 10.99 million in the comparable period Monday.

Ramada Inn, up 1/4 to 7 1/4, led the NYSE most-active list, followed by Bally Manufacturing, up 1/4 to 38 1/2 after an increase of 3 points Monday. Trading in other gambling stocks also was heavy, with Caesars World up 1 1/2 to 30 1/2 on the NYSE, and Resorts International Class A stock leading the Amex most-active list at 69 1/4, up 5 1/4.

Approved By Peer Review

Greenville Villa, a local nursing home, has been approved by the N. C. Health Care Facilities Association Peer Review Task Force.

Peer review is a self-regulating effort of member nursing homes to continually improve the quality of care provided by professional nursing home administrators and staff, the manager, Jack Wood said.

Greenville Villa's approval came after an on-site inspection by a team of trained professionals knowledgeable in all aspects of long-term health care delivery.

"The concept of peer review and critique is a self-improvement tool which benefits member homes and their residents," said J. Craig Souza, executive director of the N. C. Association. Associates are often the most beneficial critics because they not only can help define a problem, but can suggest a solution.

Peer review does not take the place of the state and federal regulations governing nursing homes. What it does is add a credible and professional mechanism developed by knowledgeable people whose first concern is quality long-term care in safe and comfortable surroundings.

Church Broken Into, Robbed

Greenville Police are looking for the thief or thieves that took $30 in offering money from Oakmont Baptist Church sometime Sunday night or Monday morning.

Chief Glenn Cannon said entrance to the church was gained by breaking a window at the rear of the building, located on Red Banks Road.

In addition to the $30, an estimated $35 damage resulted to windows and $175 damage done to a closet door.

School Board...

noting their dedicated work in long hours spent in meetings, and referring to the fact the outgoing board had served in "some very trying times in our city schools."

Cox then challenged the new board to "look into the possibility of a merger."

"It is our feeling that once we had an elected board, one of the first things you need to do is to get together with the county board to consider merger of the two school systems."

Cox added he was neither for or against merger, but that the time had come when the issue must be considered.

Cox also noted that one of the reasons he felt good about having an elected board is "that as an elected body, you are answerable to the people, who elected you. This takes some of the pressure off the city council in school matters."

Agenda Items
The first matter considered by the new board was a non-agenda item, a public expression by D. D. Garrett, president of the Pitt County Chapter of the NAACP. (Details on this presentation are contained in a separate story in today's paper).

Approval was given to the resignation of ten teachers—four career teachers and six probationary—and the election of two new teacher personnel.

Four amendments to the school budget for the current (1977-78) school year were approved. These were all for increases in budget allocations that were the result of more funds appropriated than were originally estimated. Superintendent Glenn Cox noted the increases represent funds that had been or would be in the majority amount expended before the end of the current fiscal year.

The amendments, the category of each, and amounts are:

— Federal grants funds — $83,643.60;
— State Public School Fund — $272,504.33;
— Local Current Expense Fund — $11,030.25; and — School Food Service — $82,165.83.

Together, the four amendments represent increased funding of $449,344.01.

In a review of the budget as of May 31, Cox noted that in the current expense category of funds, an unencumbered balance of $400,579.48 remained as of the end of May; and PITTSBURGH (AP) — Before steel mills, before coal barges, before deer hunting licenses, they were here.

Now the American Indians are back.

About 500 strong, their campfires flicker north of here in a woodland park as they pause on their "Longest Walk" from California to Washington, D.C.

It is a walk against federal bills they say would strip them of land, minerals and wildlife and push them into oblivion with the Indians who named Pittsburgh's rivers — the Monongahela, Allegheny and Ohio.

"This is a fight for the very survival of the red man," says Ernie Peters, designated chief of the group.

"The genocide has failed. We are still here in live, human form, and we are marching across the country," added Peters, whose South Dakota Sioux Indian name is Ojon-jon-wakon or Holy Light.

The Indians, from many tribes, carry a sacred pipe. It was used in a unity ceremony on Alcatraz Island before the walk began Feb. 11 in Sacramento.

"We follow the pipe and we pray," said Sidney Bearshield, 14, from the Rosebud reservation in South Dakota.

When a blizzard hit Donner Pass in the Sierra Nevada Mountains of California, young runners carried the pipe relay-style while the others traveled in cars and trucks. It snowed in the Colorado Rockies. Kansas tornadoes sent them into armories several nights.

"But nothing can stop us," said Peters.

The aim of it all is to attract public attention. The leaders have mixed feelings about how that has gone.

"Some of the media kind of joke about the situation. We see headlines like, 'Indians on the Warpath' or 'Indians

George Scott Couldn't Be Fooled Four Times As He Keys BoSox

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

You can fool all of the sluggers some of the time, but not all of the sluggers all of the time.

George Scott, for instance. The Boston Red Sox first baseman had gone down on strikes his first three times up against New York Yankee pitching Monday night. Then came the fateful eighth inning.

"When you strike out three times in a row," said Scott, "the law of averages is in your favor. Sooner or later, you're going to make contact."

The meeting was the first of the 1978 season for the fierce rivals of the American League East Division and was typical of past battles at colorful Fenway Park. Along with rain that delayed things at the start for a while, it had all the thunder expected.

"It's a good win for us," said Boston second baseman Jerry Remy, "because now we can't be swept in this three-game series."

He added: "I don't think there's a game in which we can be counted out, not with our lineup."

In other American League games, the Oakland A's edged the Texas Rangers 2-1; the Kansas City Royals nipped the Cleveland Indians 6-5 and the Seattle Mariners beat the Chicago White Sox 7-4. In the only National League game, the Chicago Cubs trimmed the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-4 in 10 innings.

Carlton Fisk, who keyed a three-run fourth inning with a single, started Boston's game-breaking eighth with a double off the famous "Green Monster" wall in left center against reliever Rick Gossage. Fred Lynn was walked intentionally to bring up Scott. The big slugger fouled off a bunt attempt and then singled to center, scoring Fisk to snap a 4-4 tie.

Dwight Evans sacrificed and Butch Hobson walked, filling the bases. Rick Burleson singled, scoring Lynn, with Scott also coming around as right fielder Reggie Jackson bobbled the ball for an error. Remy knocked in Burleson with a double and Jim Rice, the AL RBI leader, brought in Remy with the sixth run of the inning with a single.

The victory, Boston's 20th in its last 25 games, improved its East lead to seven games over Baltimore and dropped the defending world champion Yankees into a tie for third place, eight games back.

"We have 90-odd games to go so we can't be overconfident," said Burleson, who had a double and a single, scored two runs and drove in one. "Last year we beat them a lot here and they still won the world championship."

Said New York Manager Billy Martin: "We had hoped to take three straight but now we're going to have to try to win two of three. But even if they win all three here, it's a long season. It's a long way to go."

A's 2, Rangers 1

Steve Renko and two relievers combined on a three-hitter and Jeff Newman hit a tie-breaking homer in the eighth to lead Oakland over Texas and end the A's 11-game losing streak. The blast broke up a pitching duel between Renko and Texas' Jon Matlack.

Renko went seven innings before yielding to Bob Lacey, who required relief help himself in the ninth from Elias Sosa. Sosa recorded his 10th save of the season after pitching out of a bases-loaded jam in the ninth. "My fastball was going good for me tonight," noted Renko. "I threw a lot of fastballs. I got in trouble (in the third when he walked three Rangers to load the bases), but I threw a couple of balls that were close and could have gone either way. But Campaneris hit the ball hard to Mario (Guerrero, shortstop), and he turned it over for two. That's what you've got to have, good defense and picking each other up when you get in trouble."

Royals 6, Indians 5

Clint Hurdle drove in one run and scored two more to pace Kansas City over Cleveland. Hurdle helped the Royals overcome a 2-0 deficit with a run-scoring double in the third inning and came home moments later on George Brett's single as the Royals scored four runs. The performance improved

Haglan To Wake Post

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Dennis Haglan, offensive line coach at Duke the past two years, has been named linebacker coach at Wake Forest.

The Deacons' new football coach, John Mackovic, announced the appointment of Haglan Monday.

A 1966 graduate of the College of William and Mary, Haglan is a native of Conway, Pa. He was a three-year starter at William and Mary.

After coaching at the high school level in Virginia and Pennsylvania for five years, he became an assistant coach and later head coach at Guilford College near Greensboro, compiling a 14-5-2 record and leading the Quakers to an appearance in the Poultry Bowl.

Hurdle's current hitting streak to eight games, something he attributed to "being more comfortable at the plate."

"He's swinging now," said Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog, "just letting it all hang out and swinging."

Mariners 7, White Sox 4

Designated hitter Bob Robertson's three-run homer capped a five-run third inning and paced Seattle over Chicago. Mike Parrott allowed only three hits and worked the first five innings to gain his first major league victory, while Jack Kucek took the loss.

Dan Meyer launched the third inning with a one-out single off Kucek. After a pair of walks loaded the bases, Bill Stein singled in two runs. Robertson, former Pittsburgh slugger who sat out the 1977 season because of back surgery, then followed with his second homer of the year.

"There's some question if I can play first base consistently," said Robertson, "but I believe I can DH forever."

Cubs 6, Pirates 4

Manny Trillo's two-run double capped a three-run rally in the 10th inning and led Chicago over Pittsburgh. Two Pirate errors opened the door for the Cubs' rally. Pinch-hitter Mike Vail reached first when third baseman Mario Mendoza misplayed his grounder. Pinch-runner Rudy Meoli moved to second as first baseman John Milner made an error on a sacrifice play and eventually came around to score the tie-breaking run on Larry Bittner's double.

After Dave Kingman was walked to fill the bases, Trillo doubled to score Gene Cline and Bittner.

The Pittsburgh Pirates have led the National League in stealing bases a record 14 times.

Pitt County Rallies, Then Holds Off Rocky Mount For 8-7 Victory

ROCKY MOUNT — Pitt County's American Legion baseball team didn't get its offense cranked up until the late innings and had to hold off a Rocky Mount rally to gain its 11th victory against no defeats, an 8-7 win.

Rocky Mount scored one run in each of the first three innings for a 3-0 lead. Pitt County was unable to get a run across until the sixth when the visitors scored four times. Rocky Mount regained the lead in the bottom of the frame when two runs made it 5-4, but Pitt County scored three in the seventh and one more in the eighth.

Rocky Mount, down 8-5 in the ninth, scored two runs and had two men on base when the game ended.

Both teams had 12 hits in the ballgame. Kevin Adams and Jeff Aldridge were both 2-4 for Pitt County, while Mike Shank was 2-5. Rocky Mount was led by Alan Gay and Bill Murrifield, who were 2-4, and Greg Clark, who was 2-5.

The winning pitcher was Billy Mitchell, who went the distance for the winners, giving up five earned runs, while walking three and striking out two. Rocky Mount used two hurlers. Starter John Kennedy pitched the first seven innings and picked up the loss. He gave up seven runs, four earned, while reliever Carl Payne was charged with one run, earned.

Clark doubled with one away in the first to provide the home team with its first run. He went to third on an infield out and scored on Gay's single.

Murrifield scored in the Rocky Mount second. He tripled and came home on a wild pitch. The following inning, Linwood Silver provided the hosts with a 3-0 margin. He singled, stole second and scored on Clark's second consecutive double.

Pitt County finally broke the ice in the sixth. Adams led off with a base hit and Greg Lee followed with a single. Both runners scored when Will Sanderson's sacrifice bunt was erred.

Sanderson moved to third on the play and scored on Aldridge's fielder's choice. Mitchell sacrificed Aldridge to second and he went to third when Skip Topping got a base hit. Nuggie Worthington reached on a fielder's choice to score Aldridge.

Ronnie Chapman then hit a line shot to second base and the second baseman threw to the shortstop to try to make a double play on Worthington. The throw was wild as Worthington slid back to the bag and he and Topping both sprinted home. But Worthington was called out on appeal to end the frame.

In the bottom of the inning, Wells led off with a walk and Gay sacrificed him to second. He scored on a double by Merrifield and Merrifield followed when Timmy Tucker hit a two-bagger.

Three Pitt County runs scored in the seventh. With one away, Adams got a walk and Lee singled. Sanderson got a base hit, but Adams was thrown out at the plate. Aldridge plated Lee with a safety and Mitchell doubled to score Sanderson and Aldridge.

Ronnie Chapman scored for the winners in the eighth. He singled, moved up on Shank's infield out and scored on Adams' base hit for what proved to be the winning run.

In the bottom of the ninth, Shackleford led off for Rocky Mount, reaching on an error. Pinch hitter Bruce Ellis followed with a base hit. Silver reached on a fielder's choice, and after one out, Wells singled in Shackleford. Gay hit a fielder's choice and Ellis scored as Silver was thrown out at third. The game ended when the next batter hit an infield fly.

The win leaves Pitt County with an 11-0 overall record and 9-0 Eastern Area I mark. The team will host Goldsboro on Wednesday night.

Lopez Newest Super Star

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Nancy Lopez, the hottest item in professional golf in the last 33 years, is trailing sparks with her meteoric success this year.

The entire Ladies Professional Golf Association is benefitting from the 21-year-old record shattering rookie, already the richest rookie player — male or female — to use a set of golf clubs.

Lopez, fresh off her fifth triumph in a row, a two-stroke victory over Jane Blalock and Debbie Massey at Rochester's Locust Hill Country Club, leads the field for this week's LPGA event.

"It's given us a superstar, a real celebrity," said Betsy Rawls, a Hall of Famer and now the LPGA tournament director who is setting up this week's Lady Keystone Open.

"The women's tour has been growing by leaps and bounds without her. But she's really given us a boost. People come out just to see her. She's got a quality that attracts people. They like to watch her play," said Rawls, winner of 54 tournaments in her 25 years as a touring pro.

With Arnold Palmer-like flair, Lopez has won five straight tournaments, more than any other woman in the 28-year history of the LPGA. Only Byron Nelson, who won 11 straight events in 1945 on the men's tour, has won more in succession.

Lopez, who's been at par or better in 16 of her last 17 rounds, has won a total of seven tournaments and earned $153,336 since turning pro last July. That's $234 more than previous record holder Jerry Pate, who won two tournaments as a rookie on the men's tour in 1976.

By comparison, no other woman has won more than one LPGA event this year.

"I never thought one person could dominate the tour like that again because we have so many good players," said Rawls, who pocketed a personal high of $24,000 when she won 10 tournaments in 1959.

"It's phenomenal for a first-year player. She's got everything going for her. If she doesn't win another tournament, she's had a spectacular year already," she added.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose, the Cincinnati Reds' all-star third baseman, and his wife of 14 years, Karolyn, have separated, an attorney for Rose has confirmed.

"They hope it's temporary and that they'll get back together again," attorney Reuven Katz said Monday.

No legal proceedings have been started, the attorney said. Rose and his wife were married in January 1964. They have two children: a 12-year-old daughter and an 8-year-old son, Pete Jr.

Neither Rose nor his wife were available for comment.

Game Switch Could Set History In World Cup Soccer Competition

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The Polish soccer team, claiming to speak in the interest of fair play, wants Argentina to play a vital World Cup game Wednesday in the afternoon instead of at night.

If the request is granted it could cause revolution. The national team plays its matches at night, unlike the other competing squads, so that the whole nation can watch on television without closing down shops and factories.

While Argentina's games are in progress, the streets of Buenos Aires are empty. You don't see a car, or anyone on the sidewalks. Everyone is at home in front of their screens.

There is some logic behind the Polish protest, which has been sent to the International Soccer Federation (FIFA). Argentina and Brazil are racing neck and neck for top place in Group B, and Wednesday's games will decide which team wins the group and gets a place in the final.

Brazil is set to play Poland Wednesday afternoon, and Argentina faces Peru in the evening. If Brazil and Argentina are still even on points, the team with the better goals record goes into the final.

The argument is that Argentina will go on the field knowing the result of Brazil's game and knowing exactly how many goals it must score.

Brazil was the first to object. But Poland is involved too because theoretically it could still reach the final or more likely, the play-off for third place.

"Both games should start at the same time," said Claudio Coutinho, coach of Brazil, "otherwise it will give a decided advantage to Argentina."

Brazil thought of filing a protest but dropped the idea after consulting an FIFA official. The Poles decided to go ahead. FIFA was not expected to do anything about it. Arrangements for the World Cup were made months ago.

Wednesday's games in Group A, involving all European teams, both start in the early afternoon. The main clash is at Buenos Aires' River Plate Stadium between Holland and Italy, joint leaders with three points each.

Holland, which has a much better goals record than its rivals, needs only a draw to reach the final. But Dutch Coach Ernesto Happel promised his team will continue to use attacking tactics, as it has done throughout the tournament.

West Germany, the defending champion, has two points and plays Austria. The Germans could still get to the final, but they would need to beat the Austrians by five goals or more and it would be necessary for Holland and Italy to tie.

Cubs' Garner An Out

Chicago Cubs catcher Larry Cox tags Phil Garner of the Pirates in first inning action in Pittsburgh Monday night. Garner was attempting to score from third on an infield grounder by teammate Manny Sanguillen. Cubs first baseman Larry Bittner fielded the ball, touched first to retire Sanguillen and threw to the plate to get Garner.

The Kiwanis got their other run in the third.

Evans and Rand each had two hits for the Lions, while the Kiwanis got only one hit off Jester.

Pepsi-Cola 7, Graniteers 4

Pepsi-Cola inched back into the lead in the Tar Heel Little League by a half-game over its idle rivals with a 7-4 win over the Graniteers yesterday.

An Implied 'Boo' By Michener

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) —

James Michener, whose war-time "Tales of the South Pacific" won a Pulitzer, has taken another look there and come up with a public TV show. "The South Pacific: End of Eden?"

It's being sent PBS stations tonight. In it, he studies such locales as Pitcairn Island, New Guinea, Tahiti and tiny Eniwetok, the last site of America's first H-bomb test in 1952. "This look at the South Pacific is not intended as a guide for travel, nor is it in any way intended to be comprehensive," he says. "It is simply a brief, personal impression."

Most of the impression is an implied boo at civilization, a quiet lament for the old ways of the Pacific that are endangered or dying out, thanks to what some call 20th century progress.

Sad to say, a lot of this one-hour show is very predictable, offers little more in thought and view than what you've already perused in National Geographic at the dentist's office.

There's yet another look at how Pitcairn islanders, descendants of Fletcher Christian & Co., are faring nearly 200 years after Capt. Bligh lost a point of order on the "Bounty." Also, another look at naked New Guinea head-hunters, their lives, their traditions, and bare-breasted swamp Rockettes there doing tribal dances with their men as a prelude to tribal war.

And in Tahiti, we're again told Capt. Cook and other early arrivals helped ruin paradise with "three Western imports which began the destructive process — syphilis, iron and whiskey."

There's also a shot of a jetliner zipping by, but no Kodak-encrusted tourists are seen. Which seems odd. Such scenes would put the old and new into sharper contrast, heightened Michener's lament.

The hour picks up steam only when it shows New Guinea tribesmen fighting with spears as an example of "how much we have changed and how little we have changed."

This remarkable scene seizes into combat footage of World War II in the South Pacific, accompanied by such how-war-changed-paradise observations by Michener as: "Second lieutenants from NYU and UCLA told Solomon Islanders about radios, baseball and movies and, within the span of a single conversation, whole cultures stepped 50,000 years ahead."

It's followed by his moving re-telling of how the people of Eniwetok, uprooted to make way for the H-bomb, suffered, endured and, after 30 years in exile, finally returned to their land.

The segment is excellent. So is the film footage producer-writer Julian Krainin and Michael Hirsch took for the entire show. It's sad, though, that so much of Michener's script is so weak.

This show, the fourth he's made in as many corners of the world for KCET-TV here, should have been his strongest, considering it's about the area that gave him his best tales and greatest fame.

China Is Hearing Brahms, Berlioz

TOKYO (AP) — The sounds of Brahms and Berlioz once again are flowing across China, reports Boston Symphony conductor Seiji Ozawa, who has just returned from a visit to Peking.

After a decade of official government repression, Western classical music is alive and well on the mainland, Ozawa said Monday. The 42-year-old conductor was born in China.

One unidentified Chinese concert master, Ozawa said, recently was freed after serving almost 10 years in prison for criticizing his government's opposition to Western music.

Ozawa estimates Peking's Central Philharmonic Orchestra, which he conducted during his visit, should be on a level with Japanese orchestras within three to five years.

Queen-For-A-Day Host Is Not Yet Forgotten

By YARDENA ARAR
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) —

It's been more than a decade since Jack Bailey last dabbed away tears from the eyes of one of the 5,000 problem-plagued housewives he proclaimed "Queen for a Day." But to hear him talk, the show he emceed for 20 years could have ended just yesterday.

Bailey, who now spends most of his time painting and making an occasional foray onto the lecture circuit, reminisced fondly about the daily program he nursed from its World War II radio days until its demise from national television in the mid-1960s.

"There was a certain enthusiasm," he said, almost wistfully. "By God, you could never tell what they would say next. They didn't know, so how could you know?"

Contestants on "Queen for a Day" vied for the high rating on an applause meter by regaling the audience with hard-luck stories and materialistic dreams.

"We were eternally accused of having the saddest show in all the world," Bailey complains in mock seriousness. He likes to remember the funny contestants — like the bride of three weeks who asked for a new mattress because hers was worn out.

"I didn't usually break up, but I did that day, and she got mad," Bailey recalls. "She said, 'Wait a minute, you're laughing at the wrong thing. We didn't wear it out, it's our mother-in-law's and she wore it out.' And she won."

The five contestants on "Queen" were chosen from members of the day's audience, who would write their requests on their tickets.

Bailey's gift of gab, invaluable on a show that was broadcast live for half its lengthy existence, has taken him a long way from his home town of Hampton, Iowa, where he began his show business career.

Bailey, who says he's over 60 but won't give his exact age, started out in radio in San Diego as one of the original grumpy morning wake-up show hosts. "I wouldn't tell 'em the time, I'd say, 'You got a clock, look at it,'" he recalls.

In the late 1940s, "Queen" became one of the first programs telecast on Los Angeles' first experimental television station. Since it had been telecast live as a stage show on radio, the transition to television was simple, Bailey said. "A guy just came along and put a little powder on our face."

Eventually, the show was broadcast on NBC and later, ABC.

Jeff Rubens' winning Bols Bridge Tip was that you should make life easy for your partner. An interesting case in point was reported by Terence Reese from a recent tournament. Can you spot the correct defense?

North felt that his hand was too strong for a simple heart overcall, so he chose to double. When South bid no trump, North elected to suppress his heart suit in favor of contracting for a nine-trick contract at no trump. Since South had barely enough for his original response, he might have declined the invitation—except that the result justified his decision to go on to game.

West led a low spade and declarer won the ten. Declarer could now count eight tricks, and since West almost surely held one diamond honor, that suit was the obvious place to look for the ninth trick. A diamond to the jack lost to the ace, and now the jack of clubs returned would have set the contract.

Unfortunately, East had no reason to make that play. He simply continued a spade, and declarer had all the time in the world to set up dummy's high diamond to make his game.

The winning defense is not easy to spot. West must convey to his partner that he has no further interest in the spade suit, and that East should cast around for greener pastures.

When declarer leads a diamond toward dummy, it should be obvious to both defenders that declarer has neither the ace nor the king of diamonds. Thus, West should rise with the king and continue a diamond to partner's ace.

After East wins the ace of diamonds, he should realize that his partner has no further ambitions in the spade suit. Since East can now count declarer for nine tricks if he ever regains the lead, urgent measures are required.

Declarer must have the king of clubs for his bid, yet clubs offer the only chance of defeating the contract. East's only hope is that his partner started with specifically the A-Q-9 of clubs, so he must shift to the jack, neutralizing dummy's ten and enabling the defenders to collect three club tricks for down one.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. Yard Sales Become Source Of Concern

By SHARON BOND
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The yard sale may seem like a rather innocent way to make a few extra dollars while getting rid of some unwanted items around the house. But the increasing popularity of the private bargain basements has hurt some charitable organizations and is a source of concern to some merchants.

Estimates are that as many as 5,000 yard sales are under way in North Carolina on busy weekends in the yard sale season, from May to September.

Goodwill Industries has suffered from the rise in popularity of the yard sale and the executive vice president of that agency's outlet in Winston-Salem doesn't see any improvement in the future.

Nelson Kessell said the housewife has turned to the yard sale as a way to make extra money. And because of that, Kessell said, the quality of goods received by Goodwill now has declined.

"They're trying to make ends meet," he said. "I expect the situation to get worse and worse."

The Salvation Army has also been affected by the popularity of yard sales, according to Brigadier William A. Browning of Charlotte. Like Kessell, Browning said the quality of goods had been affected.

"I think people are evaluating what they have a lot more now," he said. "We don't get as many antiques as we used to."

Both spokesmen said their organizations sometimes benefited from yard sales by getting the leftovers from the sale.

Merchants don't know what to think of the yard sale phenomenon, according to Thompson Greenwood, executive vice president of the North Carolina Merchants Association.

"We have had a lot of calls about it from all sections of the state. Some consider yard sales serious competition and others don't seem to care about it," Greenwood said there were more complaints about yard sales — which he estimated number as high as 5,000 on a busy weekend — from merchants in small towns than from those in larger cities.

Since there is no state law governing yard sales, the regulation falls to cities. Some have strict regulations while others have none at all.

The City of Raleigh has no specific law governing yard sales. But in Charlotte, residents must pay $4.50 to the city for each day of the sale. If it rains on the chosen day, the $4.50 is lost.

Fayetteville residents must buy a $3 license for a yard sale and they are limited to two permits per year. But in the event of rain, another date within 30 days of the original can be chosen.

No permit is required in Winston-Salem, but a city ordinance limits the number of yard sales by an individual to two per year.

In Greensboro, there are no government regulations on yard sales. In Asheville the city inspections department must be notified before a yard sale can be held.

Mid-East Commission Approves Use Of Funds

The Mid-East Commission has approved recommendations for the use of Title III funds of the Older Americans Act.

Prior to the Thursday night Commission meeting, the Needs Assessment Committee had designated three primary areas for the funds — transportation, coordination and employment referral.

Local agencies in the Commission's five-county area have applied for $181,255. The funds available total $113,020. A proposal review subcommittee will study the priority needs and requests.

Exec. Dir. Bruce Beasley outlined a proposed policy affecting regional planning districts in N. C. The Board approved the plan, which would involve matching monies, dollar for dollar, by the state, not to exceed $50,000.

Also approved was the naming of all planning districts to be known as Area Planning and Development Commission, with its major role the planning and implementation in economic and community development.

Requirements were approved for boundary changes of the multi-county planning organizations. These proposals include a request by the county commissioners, 12 months notice before transfer, a review, and a five-year moratorium established after the review period.

Copies of the proposed policy will be distributed to the governor, local legislators and appropriate agency heads.

The areawide Housing Opportunity Program was presented to the Board by Bill Shelly, community development planner. He said the aims of the plan would serve three purposes: to decentralize the concentration of low-income families; to develop appropriate distribution of regional housing needs within localities, and to insure adequate housing in areas of equal opportunity.

The Board passed a resolution to apply for federal monies which would support such a proposal. A second resolution was passed, involving the cost of such a plan which would not exceed $350 per county. The funding would be equally divided by each county.

Wayne Harris, Local Government Coordinator, announced that 20 grants were approved recently, bringing a total of about $792,700 in grant funds and $6,085,974 in total funds.

The funds will be used for county and municipal projects. They were compiled by the Mid-East staff.

Mayor W. W. Cratch of Chocowinity and Chairman of the Older Adults Advisory Committee, asked the support of the Mid-East Board of the primary care program, which would increase the health services to older adults. The motion was passed.

Diagnosing Endometriosis

We have just learned that our young married daughter has endometriosis. She lives almost 2,000 miles away from us and we have no way of getting the assurance that we so desperately need. Can you explain it to us? Can this lead to something more serious like cancer? — Mrs. N.N.H.

Dear Mrs. H.:

Let me immediately assure you that your concern that endometriosis may lead to cancer is completely without justification.

The endometrium is the delicate mucous membrane lining of the inner surface of the uterus. It contains specific types of cells. In some circumstances, these cells escape and lodge on some other organs in the lower abdomen. They are found sometimes on the ovaries, on the surfaces of the Fallopian tubes and even occasionally on the intestines.

These cells are not malignant, cancerous cells. The cause has never been definitely established, even though much is known about the symptoms and the treatment.

Treatment, of course, depends on the severity of the symptoms, the patient's age and on the extent of the cellular implants on other organs. For some reason, pregnancy seems to be beneficial to the condition. This has led students of this disease to investigate the possibility that hormone imbalance may be related to endometriosis. Unfortunately, the condition itself may be responsible for infertility.

The doctors who established the diagnosis of this condition are conversant with the many new methods for keeping it under control.

During the period of treatments your daughter should be given emotional support by you. If she feels that you are distressed, it will only magnify her own anxiety.

Is there any real proof that LSD can be harmful to the newborn baby if it is taken during pregnancy? — Mrs. A.R. Wis.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD) is a highly dangerous drug. It can cause severe emotional damage to the mother and most certainly can be responsible for producing birth defects in the unborn child. Far too many people who take this drug are playing with dynamite. Many are so caught up in this ridiculous fact that they refuse to acknowledge the statistics about its hazards.

Case reports from all over the country point out that men and women who take LSD also encourage the risk of a lifelong catastrophe.

Is it possible to become suddenly allergic to food that one has eaten all one's life? — Miss T.L., N.H.

Dear Miss L.:

The whole subject of allergies is complex. Recently, a patient came to the realization that she could no longer tolerate milk. It was found that she was sensitive to a particular type of grass that cows had recently been feeding on. It is possible to become sensitive to foods (and even drugs) that one has always taken without ill effect.

Lost Racing Pigeon Is Far Off Course

CAROLINA BEACH, N.C. (AP) — The navigation of a racing pigeon that landed at the home of C.F. and Marie King at Carolina Beach last week proved to be so bad that it was more than 1,000 miles off course.

The exhausted bird looked at first glance like an ordinary pigeon, but he turned out to be a racer from Fond du Lac, Wis.

Despite the poor navigation, the flight apparently earned the bird its freedom.

One of two bands on the bird's legs listed Bob King Jr. of Fond du Lac as its owner. He is no relation to the Kings of Carolina Beach.

"It was unusual enough for a bird to come all that distance and land in our back yard," Mrs. King said. "But it really is surprising that the bird belongs to another King."

She said her husband has heard nothing since notifying Bob King Jr. of the bird's arrival.

But the Wilmington Star-News managed to contact him by telephone in Wisconsin. It said King was surprised to learn that one of his birds was in North Carolina, especially since he didn't know any were missing. He said his hobby is racing pigeons.

He explained that some of the races are 1,000 miles long, from South Dakota to Wisconsin, and that with a good tail wind the birds, some traveling at 60 miles per hour, can make the journey in little more than a day.

Pigeons are raised and bred with the same dedication as race horses, King related, adding that he has paid as much as $1,000 for a single pigeon and has spent $10,000 on a batch in a single day.

King said he was not sure what had happened to the bird that landed at Carolina Beach. He said it may have been a bird he had given to a friend or sold.

"This kind of thing happens every day," he said. "You've got to expect a few losses with any race."

He said he is advising the North Carolina Kings to let the bird rest and then let it go.

"He's on his own now," he said.

School Complaints Aired Before Education Board

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
D. D. Garrett, president of the Pitt County Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) had the distinction of being the first person to appear before the newly installed Greenville Board of Education on Monday night.

Garrett, and later Rev. John Taylor, appeared for what Garrett termed "the purpose of setting forth what we consider to be discriminating practices in the Greenville school system, unjust treatments to students."

Explaining that these alleged practices are of particular concern to the education committee of the Pitt NAACP, Garrett added "we are asking that these injustices be resolved with all deliberate speed."

Citing figures which he said "some are estimated," Garrett delineated figures on the ratio of white and black in student enrollment — 43 per cent black, 57 per cent white; in the teaching staff of about 325, ten per cent black and 90 per cent white; the positions held by principals, ten per cent black and 90 per cent white; and at the administrative office, one black of a staff of 11.

Other areas labeled as problem areas by Garrett included what he termed "the leveling process" of students, and the "rippling effect" students graduating in the lower level of classes face after graduation.

Garrett further called for the board to see "that somewhere along the way teachers ought to be made to teach," suggesting that the board "check on whether a teacher teaches or not."

On the matter of students being suspended or expelled, Garrett said that in most instances a student carried home from school was taken to a home where "nobody is there but the student as the daddy and mother are usually both working. So the student goes into the street, gets into trouble."

First Colony Farms Is Selling Some Of Acreage

CRESWELL, N.C. (AP) — Officials of First Colony Farms Inc., the huge farming company with operations in four North Carolina counties, say the firm is selling off parcels of land in order to streamline operations.

Disposal of several tracts amounting to more than 20,000 acres will leave First Colony with 309,000 acres in the north-eastern North Carolina counties of Washington, Tyrrell, Hyde and Dare.

The largest transaction involves the sale of the company's hog operations and a grain elevator to Tyson Carolina, which also has headquarters in Creswell. Included in the sale, completed in March, is 10,000 acres of land, with Tyson getting title in 20 years.

Hobart Truesdell, president of First Colony, said another 11,000 acres has been sold in small parcels to local farmers and there is a "strong possibility" of more sales in the future.

Truesdell said the firm has just begun executing its plans for use of its land holdings, having converted about 30,000 acres of cleared timberland to pastures and row crops, mostly corn and soybeans.

"We bought raw assets with very diverse uses," he said. "We're sort of taking 'em one by one. One of our natural assets — the seashore — we haven't explored at all."

He said First Colony has about 100,000 acres of "merchantable timber" among its holdings.

Plans of First Colony to exploit an estimated 165,000 acres of peat, possibly for use as a power plant fuel, have drawn widespread attention.

The operation has been impaired by a dispute with the Air Force over use of 45,000 acres — not included in the 309,000-acre total that the firm owns — that has been leased for several years as a practice bombing range.

First Colony, which has imported peat harvesting equipment for feasibility tests, has tried to terminate the bombing lease in order to proceed with the harvest of peat. But the Air Force, seeking to buy the land, went to court in an effort to have the property condemned, and First Colony is contesting the suit.

Environmentalists and fishermen objected to First Colony's plans, announced in 1975, to drain and reclaim six swampy areas. They maintained that drainage from a smaller First Colony operation reduced the area's shrimp and shellfish population.

With critics also expressing concern over pollution from pesticides, fertilizer and animal wastes from expanded drainage operations, the firm withdrew the request in 1976 after deciding that peat mining and development of land that was already drained were higher priority matters.

WAREHOUSE BURNS
DUNN, N.C. (AP) — Lee's Planter Warehouse was lost to a fire and several businesses were threatened Monday night on the south side of Dunn late last night. No injuries were reported.

He followed this statement by calling on the board to "set up a policy to punish students on the grounds" — by such means as "keeping them isolated, denying them play privileges."

One statement made by Garrett, alleging that "quite often school people go around the chain of command to avoid dealing with a black person in the chain of command," was challenged by board member Miles Frost.

"That is a serious charge," Frost commented, "if it is a fact, it is one the board is unaware of. I would like to see documentation of this charge, and have it brought before the board."

The premise of the article and of Taylor's remark is "ten years after school desegregation, we aren't any better off. We are still the victim of invisible racist policies and practices," Taylor said. "The legal barriers no longer exist, but the practices continue."

Taylor called frustrating the possibility of "piling up of 11th graders as a result of the competency tests that have been thrust upon us," and said efforts "have not been designed to deal most effectively with kids, especially black kids" who have special needs.

Killer Satellite Ban Is Sought

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is warning the Soviet Union that it must agree to a ban on killer satellites or the United States will not hesitate to escalate the arms race in space.

"We're the world's most technically advanced nation," an administration official said on Monday. "We can achieve a system that is of higher quality and better than theirs."

He said he hoped the two countries would agree to curb anti-satellite systems before the superpowers engage in a new and "unhealthy" space arms race that could cost each nation billions of dollars.

The official, who asked not to be identified, briefed reporters on a new national space policy recently drawn up by President Carter. The policy is dedicated to continuing U.S. technological supremacy in space, with strong emphasis on military systems to counter possible Soviet threats.

Early in his administration, Carter made a public appeal to the Soviets to outlaw satellite-destroying systems. But that nation has staged five tests since then and has given no signs it intends to forgo the killer satellite system.

The two nations held the first round of talks on a possible ban last week in Helsinki, Finland. But the briefing official declined to discuss what transpired, nor would he say if the warning had been delivered to the Soviets during the talks.

He said the Russians "in one sense already have a capability" shown by tests in which they have knocked several of their own satellites out of the sky. He said he did not know how close the Soviet system was to becoming operational.

In response to the threat, the U.S. has started developing its own killer satellite system. But the official said "it will be a significant amount of time before we can test it."

Paid In Full

Pitt County Memorial Hospital has been paid in full for more than three and a half months of care given a patient who was anonymous until after his death.

"John Doe" was cared for here from Sept. 30, 1977 till Jan. 22, of this year after being hit by a train in Wilson County. His bill amounted to $19,788.65.

Some time after his death, the State Medical Examiner's Office determined the young man to be Carlos Smith, born in Alabama.

Medicaid funds were used for the bill and channeled through the Wilson County Department of Social Services.

Revival services began last night at Cedar Grove Missionary Baptist Church. The speaker is the Rev. C. A. Hammond of Elba, Ala.

The following services will be held throughout the remainder of the week: tonight, the Rev. O'Kelly Lawson and Cornerstone MB Church; Wednesday, the Rev. W. L. Jones and Mt.
