

Trade Deficit Dips, But Record Is Bleak

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
The nation's trade deficit dropped to the lowest level in eight months during May but still continued at the record pace of last year, the Commerce Department said today.
Americans bought $2.23 billion more than they sold to foreigners last month for the 24th monthly trade deficit in a row. The continuing trade imbalance has contributed to inflation in this country, the decline of the dollar overseas and can threaten economic growth.
In May, however, exports reached a record $11.75 billion, a slight increase from the $11.6 billion in exports the month before. Imports declined sharply from $14.49 billion to $13.99 billion, mainly because of less demand for overseas steel.

The $2.23 billion trade deficit for May was the smallest since a $1.90 billion deficit in September 1977.
However, if the May deficit continued for 12 months it would still lead to a trade deficit similar to last year's $26.5 billion deficit.
The Carter administration has predicted the trade deficit would start trailing off after a big surge of imports at the start of the year. In February, for instance, imports exceeded exports by $4.51 billion, the worst month on record. In March, the deficit declined to $2.79 billion, and in April the monthly deficit was $2.86 billion.

Most of the trade deficit has been attributed to rising oil imports from OPEC countries.
Oil imports increased in May by $183.2 million to $3.32
billion.
However, imports of steel dropped sharply by $332.1 million to $419.4 million.
Auto imports also fell off sharply by $260.1 million to $1.02 billion.

Much of the decline for steel and autos was attributed to a return to normal after a big surge in imports in April.
The biggest increase in exports continued to be in corn, which rose $168.3 million, and soybeans, $222.3 million. Some of the increase could be attributed to inflation.
Coal exports continued to rise by $81.4 million to $200.3 million, as shipments got larger with the end of the coal strike in March.
However, exports of machinery such as aircraft, cars and parts declined $82.8 million to $4.7 billion.

Net Increase Of One Pitt Deputy Voted By Board

Pitt County Commissioners, meeting yesterday to discuss the proposed 1978-1979 budget, centered their attention to the Sheriff's Department and the schools for the most part.
The board, which last week gave tentative approval to adding two new deputies to the Sheriff's Department yesterday tentatively okayed an additional two men — resulting in a net increase of one deputy over the current fiscal year.
In approving the first two deputies last week, commissioners agreed to follow a long-standing policy of not picking up federal grant programs when federal funds stop coming in. That resulted in a loss of the department's juvenile and crime prevention officers and an evidence technician.

The sheriff had requested nine new deputies and continued county funding of the three federal grant programs.
As for the schools, the board yesterday gave tentative approval for a $600 per year supplement for 16 elementary school principals in the county school system.
Those principals are the only ones among county principals and teachers not now receiving supplements from the county.

The board also discussed, but took no action on, the possibility of giving the Greenville City system an additional $10,000 in capital outlay money to finance installation of zoning valves and equipment for the Rose High School heating system as well as an additional amount to the county system to repay part of a "debt" to the county schools.
The "debt" was incurred two years ago when commissioners — with the full understanding of both boards of education — cut the county's pro rata share of capital outlay funds and boosted the city's budget so Third Street and other city buildings could be renovated and repaired.

City building inspectors had ordered Third Street School closed because it was in such poor condition, and had indicated other city buildings might face the same fate unless needed repairs were made.
Commissioners scheduled a 3 p.m. meeting today in an effort to finalize the new budget.

Veteran Fireman Prepares Retire

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Fire Department Capt.
Claude Christopher, a veteran of 32 years service with the City of Greenville, will retire Wednesday.
The 24-hour shift which began at 8 a.m. Monday, was the last work-day for the firefighting veteran.
Christopher, a World War

II Army Air Corps officer, joined the Police Department here in 1946. He transferred to the Fire Department in 1953, after serving as a patrolman, identification officer and sergeant as a policeman.
"I thought I'd like the work better," Christopher said.
Christopher became a fireman when the city's first sub-station was opened on Chestnut Street, and was among the first firefighters to man the new facility.
The biggest changes over the years "in methods and equipment," Christopher noted, "have been for the better." Through "better knowledge in technology," firefighting methods have been improved, making fire combat, "easier and more proficient."
"We've always had good equipment," the captain noted, adding that Greenville firemen have always been among the first in the state to use new products and methods.
Christopher became a lieutenant in 1962, and was promoted to captain in 1969.
Assistant Fire Chief Jennis

Allen said the retiring officer is, "a rare breed," highly competent at his trade and dedicated to his work — the saving of life and property — always encouraging and inspiring younger men to do their best.
Christopher's personnel records testify to his skill with lists of special schools and training programs, such as officer training, firemanship, arson, fire problems with atomic energy, compressed gas and LP gas, management development, elevator and grain elevator and pump schools, among others.
A graduate of the N.C. Fire College, Christopher has also served as a fire college staff instructor.
His activities with the department have not been limited only to firefighting.
Christopher, in his early years with the department, was heavily involved in rescue work.
In 1956, he attended the two-week U.S. Civil Defense rescue school at Onley, Md., then served four weeks with a New York City Fire Department rescue unit in Manhattan, to gain experience.

Belt To Open On July 19

MACON, Ga. (AP) —
Commissioner of Agriculture
Tommy Irvin today set Wednesday, July 19, as the opening date of flue-cured tobacco auction sales in the Georgia-Florida belt, contingent on approval of the secretary of agriculture.
Irvin acted on recommendation of the Georgia Tobacco Advisory Committee, which met at the offices of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation.
This year's opening date is five days later than that of last year, but the harvest is slightly behind by comparison, according to the Georgia Crop Reporting Service.
Irvin said crop prospects appear excellent, although dry, hot weather is beginning to be felt in some growing areas.
Last year, Type 14 tobacco, used mostly in the manufacture of cigarettes, brought a record average of $115.80 per hundred pounds in the Georgia-Florida belt.
Volume last year was 6.4 million pounds over that of 1976, with an increased value of $16.5 million.
Irvin said Florida markets, as usual, agreed to the dates accepted in Georgia.
Irvin said he would request
Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland to supply graders for the three days of opening week's sales, as was approved last year. Usually,
Friday is not an auction day.

When Trucks Collide

AFTERNOON FATALITY — A collision of two trucks yesterday afternoon resulted in the death of a Parmelee man. Trooper A. G.
Wright identified the man as Ernest Worsley. Wright said Worsley was slowing for traffic, heading west on N. C. 33, when his state owned dump truck skidded into the path of another dump truck driven by Jerry Midyette, of Arapahoe. Midyette, according to Wright, was seriously injured and transported to Pitt Memorial Hospital by members of the Greenville Rescue Squad. Worsley was dead at the scene. The accident occurred about one mile east of Greenville at the Shady Knoll Mobile Home Park entrance. There were no other injuries reported, and the trucks were listed as a total loss. Members of the Staton-House Fire department also responded to the call when gas from one of the trucks spilled.

ABUSIVE?

Recently I was subjected to the abusiveness of Greenville Collection Services. I was subjected to cold and demanding personal questions without any identification as to whom I was talking to. I refused to answer further questions unless my caller identified herself and the nature of her business. As I was informed of the nature of the call, I found it was pertaining to a bill I was not aware I still owed. I work in collections myself at times as part of my job and I know how a client should be treated. I wish someone would make the Greenville Collections Services employees aware that their present tactics are very offensive and probably do more harm than good. A. L.

Jo-Ann White, manager of Greenville Collection Services, said a call is made to the debtor only after a mailed form requesting payment has been sent.
This form indicates the name of the creditor and the amount owed and advises the individual of certain consumer rights under the Fair Debt Collection Practices Act. If there is no response to the requests for payment by mail, the collector may begin to contact the debtor by phone. "It is mandatory that the collector identify the debtor and then himself and our office," Mrs. White said.
Mrs. White said she appreciates this opportunity to respond. "We attempt to recover money for our customer and rehabilitate the debtor so that he (or she) can once again enjoy the benefits of purchasing on credit. It is our sincere desire to make every effort to comply with both the letter and spirit of the law and to see that both debtors and the credit-granting public are treated fairly."

Suspect 'Retaliation' In Firebomb, Shooting

ASHEBORO, N.C. (AP) — A 14-year-old Asheboro girl may have died last week in a shooting incident as a result of an earlier shooting incident in which three black people were wounded by whites. However, police say Vickie Clark was in no way connected to the earlier incident.

Asheboro police now believe last week's firebombing and fatal shooting were triggered by the earlier incident and that Miss Clark's house was picked at random for the retaliation.
Miss Clark was killed
Wednesday and Tammy Hur-ey, 16, was wounded when they went outside the house to put out a firebomb that had been tossed into the yard. Asheboro police arrested five Asheboro youths Friday and charged them with murder and assault with a deadly weapon. They were being held Monday without bond until court appearances later this week.

They were identified as Ronnie Hoover, 21, his brother Joe, 14, Tony Barnes, 20, Michael J.
Mabry, 18, and Hubert Lee Miller, 19. All five are black.
Police detective Dexter Trogdon said the trigger for the firebombing and shooting appeared to be a previous shooting incident on Cedar Falls Road in which a pickup truck drove past a nightclub three times and fired a gun at bystanders. On the first two passes, blanks apparently were used, but the third time real bullets were used and three black people were wounded.
Trogdon said those three were acquaintances of the five youths arrested in the firebomb shooting. But he added that the two girls had nothing to do with the earlier shooting, and their house wasn't singled out for any reason.
"In fact, as I understand it,
they had planned to go on past that house and on to the end of Vance Street," Trogdon said.
He said the firebombing may have begun after the youths believed they had been seen by a car pulling into a driveway.

Now Hold Two In Trail Attack

ELIZABETHTON, Tenn.
(AP) — Officials now have in custody two of the five men accused of raping four Raleigh, N.C., teen-agers while the girls were camped June 15 on the Appalachian Trail.
Canton, Ohio, police said they arrested Billy Ray Johnson, 20, of Roan Mountain, Tenn., Monday on a warrant from Eliza-bethton charging him with rape and armed robbery.
Carter County Sheriff George Papantonou said Johnson's arrest in Canton was the result of information obtained by Tennessee officials. Johnson also is wanted in Indiana on felonious assault charges, the sheriff said.
Johnson is the second of the five men to be captured following the attack on the four girls at their camp atop Buck Mountain near the North Carolina-Tennessee border.

The four girls, ages 16 and 17, told authorities they were raped by five men wearing handkerchiefs over their faces and armed with a shotgun. All four returned to their homes in Raleigh after leaving an Eliza-bethton hospital June 18.
David Jones, 22, of Roan Mountain, was arrested the day after the girls were assaulted.
He is still being held in the Carter County Jail at Eliza-bethton under a $125,000 bond.
Three brothers, Gregory,
John and Jerry Oaks, all of Roan Mountain, are still being sought on warrants charging them with rape.
Papantonou refused to say if officials believe the Oaks brothers are still in the Roan Mountain area or have left the state.

Riot By Some 4,000 Students Put Down By Mexican Troops

MATAMOROS, Mexico
(AP) — Machine-gun wielding federal troops patrolled Matamoros streets today after quelling a riot by some 4,000 students that left several buildings destroyed and at least one person killed and 30 others injured, authorities said.

City Hall, police headquarters and the city jail were burned by the demonstrators. At least 30 businesses and five banks were reported to have been looted or burned and police and private cars were also set afire by the students,
authorities said.
The federal troops moved into the city after police reportedly fled from the rampaging students.
Angered by the death of a teen-ager in police custody last week, the youths gathered Monday afternoon at the town square of this border city in Northern Mexico, across the Rio Grande River from Brownsville, Texas.
They demanded the firing of Matamoros Police Chief Emiliano Del Toro and an investigation into the death of the 15-year-old student. The youth was held by police for 24 hours and was taken to a hospital where he died of internal injuries allegedly suffered in a beating. Two Matamoros policemen have been jailed in connection with the death.

When Matamoros Mayor Antonio Cavazos Garza appeared and refused to fire Del Toro, the mayor was bombarded with rocks and tomatoes and was chased into a nearby cafe which was pelted with rocks and set afire. The mayor managed to escape through a rear exit.
The demonstrators forced their way into public buildings, scattering police records in the town square.
The looting and torchings spread quickly throughout the downtown area.
There were conflicting casualty reports following the disturbance.

An early report from a spokeswoman for Social Security Hospital said two high school students had been killed.
But hospital administrator Guadalupe Garza Rudeas said early today that one of the two students reported dead was still alive but "with little chance for survival." Jail officials said six prisoners apparently escaped during the confusion that followed the burning of the jail and at least four were injured as jailers tried to keep them inside the burning building.
Firefighters from the Texas side of the border were turned back by a barrage of rocks tossed by the demonstrators.
The leader of a local detachment of federal police said he received orders from Mexico City to restore order.

Public Employees Seeks 'Tax Reform' Solution

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) —
Thousands of public employees, worried that a national reaction against taxes could cost their jobs, applauded their union leader's call for quick federal action on tax reform.
Jerry Wurf, president of the 1 million-member American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, told the group's annual convention Monday that California's Proposition 13 may be an omen of more tax cuts.
"What has happened in California could spread," Wurf said in the keynote address at the convention of the largest AFL-CIO union in the nation. "It is not a tax rebellion. It is a public outcry for fair play. Only tax reform can answer it."

Wurf denounced the California initiative — Proposition 13 — as "a deception" and said it would cost the state billions in federal tax writeoffs and aid.
He said the boon would go to business and industry, and the losers would be government employees.
In Los Angeles, Howard Jarvis, co-author of Proposition 13, called a news conference Monday to urge landlords to pass on savings from the tax cut to their tenants. He also said he planned to continue working to prevent the federal government from gaining a windfall as a result of tax rollbacks.

"Not only in California, but all over America the taxpayer feels he is paying too much," Wurf told the delegates. "As taxpayers, we share the public's anger.
But as government employees, we suffer the most severe consequences."
Wurf said the only fair way to finance government services is the graduated income tax. He urged President Carter to keep his campaign promise to reform the tax system.
He suggested that rewards be given in federal funds to states that adopt "progressive" local tax systems.

Sharon Hackett Is Married

Sharon Elaine Hackett and Wilbur Adam Ballenger III were married Monday at 2 p.m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church. The Rev. Lawrence P. Houston officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Hackett of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. Wilbur A. Ballenger Jr. of Lakeland, Fla., and Mrs. Kermit H. Woodruff of Jackson, Tenn. He is employed with Efirids Pest Control.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white formal length gown of bridal mist and sculptured Venise lace flower designs. The gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline and an empire bodice overlaid with lace featuring a satin belt. The lace details were repeated on the long, cuffed Gibson girl sleeves and on the A-line skirt. A flounced double ruffle formed the hemline and circled the built-in chapel length train. She wore her grandmother's pearl necklace. Her face framer of matching lace flowers was attached to a mantilla of silk illusion and flowed into a semi-cathedral length veil. She carried a bouquet of white daisies, baby's breath, pink roses and ivy.

Wanda Sandeford of Greenville was maid of honor. She wore a pastel pink gown fashioned with an empire waistline, V-neckline and an A-line skirt. The dress was worn with a pointed tunic of gauze fabric over taffeta with flared sleeves. The tunic, sleeves and hemline were edged in white lace. She carried a pink rose with greenery and baby's breath tied with a pink bow and streamers.

Bridesmaids were Kathryn B. Anderson and Marilyn Rabey, both of Greenville. Their attire was identical to the honor attendant and they carried similar flowers.

Heather Anderson of Greenville was flower girl. She wore a white gown of dotted swiss with rounded neckline. The sleeves were of eyelette lace. She carried a basket of white daisies.

Anthony Riggs of Greenville was best man. Ushers were Michael Hackett and Charles Jones, both of Greenville.

Wedding music was provided by organist Dr. Robert Irwin.

A reception was given immediately following the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. Blanche Forbes poured the punch and Charlotte Flanagan served the cake.

After a wedding trip to Atlantic Beach, the couple will reside in Greenville.

Heel's Check Bounced Can She Recover Cash?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I became pregnant by a man (whom I shall refer to as "The Heel") after dating him for less than six months. (I'm 28, no babe in the woods and accept half the responsibility.) We agreed that an abortion would be the best solution, and he insisted on paying for it. (I wanted to pay half, but he wouldn't hear of it.)

The Heel escorted me to the doctor's office and everything went very well. No problems. He wrote out a check for $300 and gave it to the nurse.

Two weeks later I received a call from the doctor's office. The Heel's check bounced! I got in touch with him, and he assured me there was a "misunderstanding" and he would take care of it.

Within a week, I was being badgered by the doctor for the money. After many fruitless phone conversations and promises from The Heel, I paid the doctor and urged him to prosecute The Heel. (Writing bum checks is a crime.) The doctor refused to go after The Heel, so guess who's stuck?

Is there any way I can get my money back? I don't want a messy legal suit, but I'd like to teach The Heel a lesson.

HAD IN HOUSTON

DEAR HAD: Time heals all wounds, but doesn't necessarily wound all heels. If there should be another time, get half the fee in advance.

DEAR ABBY: We have a 7-month-old son and a big problem. My husband's father gives our baby dog biscuits, saying it is good for the baby's new teeth. I say a baby should not be eating dog biscuits, but my father-in-law says his kids were raised on them! And my husband says he remembers eating them and it never did him any harm. Are dog biscuits OK for children? Let me know fast so I can get both my husband and his father off my back.

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: If you have any question concerning what to feed your baby, ask your pediatrician. But common sense should tell you that products made specifically for animals usually are not fit for human consumption.

DEAR ABBY: We have a nice backyard and I make good use of it on warm summer nights. I like to relax in a reclining chair with a cool drink, enjoying the evening breezes. The scenery is nice, too. Our neighbor has a beautiful 17-year-old daughter whose bedroom has a picture window that is easily visible through the trees. This girl has a habit of walking around nude in her bedroom.

I make no special effort to see, I simply lie back in my chair with my eyes open.

My wife says I am no better than a common Peeping Tom. I say I am just taking advantage of the lovely scenery, and I don't think I should be required to look in the other direction.

What do you think?

NATURE LOVER

DEAR LOVER: I think your wife should wise up the neighbor girl about the "lovely view" she's providing.

CONFIDENTIAL TO M. J. IN PEORIA: Here's a good rule to follow: If you don't know a person well enough to borrow money from him, don't lend him any.

Miss Manning-Wed In Black Jack

BLACK JACK — Vickie Ann Manning of Grimesland and Johnny Allen Jones of Greenville were married Sunday, at 3 p.m. in the Black Jack Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Nathan Hanchey performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vivian Jones of Grimesland and Mr. Henry E. Manning Sr. of Kinston. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Shirley Baines of Ayden and Mr. Thomas Jones of Tarboro.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, Harold E. Jones, the bride chose a formal length white organza gown designed with a V-neckline trimmed in sculptured Venise lace and edged in ruffled pleated organza. Matching lace encircled the waistline and trimmed the full bishop sleeves. The modified A-line skirt and attached chapel length train featured appliques of Venise lace. Sculptured lace bordered the hemline and train. The bride wore a chapel length mantilla edged in matching lace and held in place by a profile headpiece featuring sculptured lace. She carried a mixture of blue miniature pom poms, pink daisies and centered with yellow rosebuds and baby's breath, tied with white streamers.

Darlene McRoy of Greenville served as maid of honor. She selected a yellow formal length knit gown with a floral jacket and long flowing sleeves. She wore a headpiece of yellow tulle with matching ribbons and daisies. She carried a long-stemmed yellow mum with baby's breath and streamers.

Christy Jones of Grimesland, sister of the bride, Tammy Manning of Grimesland and Paula Pressley of Grifton served as bridesmaids. Their pink gowns were styled to match that of the honor attendant.

Terry Craft of Winterville, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a miniature wedding gown and headpiece and carried a basket of daisy petals and streamers.

Mrs. Nancy Lancaster of Greenville, pianist, and Donnie Harris, soloist, presented the wedding music. "More," "His Wondrous Love" and "The Wedding Prayer" were sung.

James Jones of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen included William Mobley of Burlington, N.D., uncle of the bride, Henry Manning Jr., brother of the bride; and Mike Jones of Jacksonville. Timothy Mobley, cousin of the bride of Grimesland, served as ring bearer.

Mrs. Johnny Allen Jones

Mrs. David Bunting of Black Jack directed the wedding. Mrs. William Mobley of Burlington, N.D., aunt of the bride presided at the register.

The bride's mother wore a formal length dress of blue with a matching lace coat. The bridegroom's mother selected a formal length dress of mint green. The mother of the bride wore a corsage of blue and white carnations and the mother of the bridegroom selected a corsage of green and white carnations.

A long-stemmed red rose was presented to each mother after the ceremony.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The bridal table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with a four-tier wedding cake adorned with greenery. Yellow candles in crystal holders decorated the table. After the first slice of cake was cut by the bride and groom, Mrs. Rochelle Taylor of Greenville served. Mrs. Sandra Powell of Washington poured punch. Goodbyes were said by Mr. and Mrs. William Floyd Bullock Sr. of Greenville.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a student at D. H. Conley High School and is employed by Clark's Department Store, Greenville. The bridegroom is a graduate of D. H. Conley and is manager of B & B Food Lane, Greenville.

An after rehearsal dinner was given by the bridegroom's family Friday in the church fellowship hall.

Cooking Is Fun

This Spicy Oat Cake has several things going for it. It can travel to a picnic right in the pan in which it was baked and frosted.

The recipe's use of oats along with flour makes a welcome change in texture and flavor.

The cake's texture stays moist and its topping crisp even after an overnight stay. Cooks who like honey will favor its addition.

- SPICY OAT CAKE
- 1 cup boiling water
 - 1 cup quick-cooking oats
 - 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
 - 1 teaspoon baking soda
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/2 teaspoon ginger
 - 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 1/2 teaspoon cloves
 - 3/4 cup butter or margarine, at room temperature
 - 1/2 cup firmly packed light or dark brown sugar
 - 1/2 cup honey
 - 2 large eggs

Topping, see below

In a small bowl pour the water over the oats and let stand for 20 minutes. On wax paper stir together the flour, soda, salt and spices. In a large bowl beat together the butter, sugar and honey until blended; add the oat mixture and the eggs; beat well; add the flour mixture and beat gently but well. Turn into a greased and floured 9 by 9 by 1 1/4-inch cake pan. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 50 to 55 minutes. Spread the Topping over the hot cake in the pan; broil about 5 inches from high heat until golden brown — 2 or 3 minutes. Place on wire rack to cool completely before cutting in squares and removing from pan. Or loosen edges of completely cooled cake, turn out on wire rack and turn right-side up; topping will stay intact.

Topping: Stir together 1/4 cup softened butter or margarine, 1-3rd cup honey, 1/4 cup loosely packed shredded canned coconut and 1/4 cup coarsely chopped walnuts or pecans.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

A couple of weeks ago, a housewife from Parma Heights, Ohio, who had never in her life had a "clean oven wish," for no apparent reason set to work and cleaned her oven.

She wrote, "I don't suppose Hallmark has a card for this occasion, but could you say something wonderful to me?"

She got me to thinking. There are so many wonderful special occasions for which there are no commercial cards to cover. Those wonderful, warm, meaningful times of your life when just the right words would have said it all for you. I visualize cards for "CONGRATULATIONS ON BALANCING YOUR CHECKBOOK" or "BON VOYAGE TO YOUR SON WITH THE DRUMS." And how about: "BEST WISHES ON YOUR HAIRCUT," which I visualize as a sentimental card with a prodigal son trudging down a road flanked by blue cornflowers: "No more traumas, dirty looks. You've returned to the state of grace. No more nagging to 'get rid of that fuzz'."

Now would you please go wash your face? Or how about a card "WELCOME HOME FOOTBALL FREAK" to be sent at the end of a season to your husband, what's-his-name.

Items Affecting Pitt County

Several items were approved by the Legislature in its recent session which will affect Eastern North Carolina and Pitt County in particular. The Legislature approved funds for a $3.8 million bed tower at Pitt Memorial Hospital. The new bed tower will be constructed as a part of the ECU medical school affiliation with the hospital. It will provide additional space to take care of patients being referred here, as the hospital becomes a regional facility. Then some $1.9 million was appropriated for renovations of the old Wahl-Coates school, located on the ECU campus. The structure is used by the speech and drama departments, which took it over after the Wahl-Coates Elementary School moved into new facilities on Fifth Street. Little has been done to the building to adapt it for university instructional use and the renovation funds were badly needed. It might also be noted that this is the first major capital improvements project on the main campus to be funded in several years. The budget allocates $225,000 for the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop. It will be the state's part of federal state and local funds to build a recreation and housing facility at the workshop. Also appropriated was $5.5 million in operating funds for the ECU School of Medicine. The fundings approved by the Legislature will be important to ECU and to the Sheltered Workshop.

Moscow Obviously Views With Alarm

Leonid I. Brezhnev, president of the Soviet Union, has warned President Carter about using the "Chinese card."

Playing China against Russia would be "short-sighted and dangerous policy," Brezhnev declared. It is obvious that the Soviets are watching U.S.-Chinese relations closely. Any alliance between the two would be viewed as a grave threat to the Soviet Union.

THIS AFTERNOON

Mobile Home Immobilized

By Bill Noblitt
RALEIGH — From 12-wide, to 14-wide, to double-wide, and now to triple-wide, mobile homes continue to gain a commanding position on the North Carolina landscape.

Once considered a home on wheels which the owner could hitch up and haul away to a new job in a new town, today's mobile homes are seldom moved more than once—from the sales lot to a parking place.

The growth in size of the modern units to rival that of many standard three-bedroom stick houses is reason enough for that change.

But the lack of portability is one of the prime reasons those in the business are now pushing for another name change: from mobile homes to manufactured homes. The campaign to change the public image is similar to that which accompanied the name change from trailers to mobile homes.

Matter of Money
Economics are obviously the foundation of the mobile home boom. In the under-$20,000 housing market, 96 per cent of the units sold are now mobile homes. Under-$30,000, mobile homes make up 69 per cent of the new units occupied.

Overall, fully half of the new single-family housing units occupied in North Carolina in recent years are manufactured homes.

The reason is obvious in these times of inflation when costs of transportation, electricity, heat, and other essentials have increased more rapidly than paychecks. So has the costs of housing.

The average stick-built house in North Carolina today runs somewhere over $38,000, and for most newly built homes, even at that price, some of the trimmings have been cut.

The average price of a mobile home is somewhat above $8,000 including furnishings, carpet, appliances, and draperies.

Financing a manufactured home has become easier, too, as popularity increased and the image of "drifters" living in trailer parks changed to that of clean-cut young couples trying to make ends meet.

Between 1970 and 1975,

there were 112,073 mobile homes sold in North Carolina by over 500 dealers.

That volume of business puts this state third in the nation in citizens living in mobile homes; second nationally in annual sales of mobile homes; and eighth in the Southeast in the manufacture of mobile homes.

BILL NOBLITT

Currently, more than six per cent of North Carolina's population live in mobile homes (over 300,000 people in a population of five million).

Problems, Too

The boom in manufactured home living is not without accompanying problems in North Carolina. The lightweight, metal structures are particularly vulnerable to high winds or tornadoes, and to fire.

Codes have been enacted to require better fireproofing, and tiedown anchors, but many units still exist which were set up prior to such law. New federal safety and livability laws took effect last year, and manufacturers continue to make design changes to meet the demands of a better educated and more sophisticated buyer.

And the growing popularity is likely to challenge—and probably shatter—the attitudes of people in communities all across the state. Traditionally, zoning ordinances in cities have been used to keep the "trailers" out of "nice communities," consigning them to industrial sections or more rural settings.

Most property owners fear declining land values in areas where mobile homes are allowed, but with the growing numbers of people who must depend on manufactured housing for affordable shelter, the pressure will mount for permission to locate the units in more desirable locations.

As North Carolina's predominately rural and small town characteristics change in the next several years to more urban, the conflict between traditional homeowners and trailer-dwellers is likely to sharpen.

Zealots In Bureaucracy

Edmund Burke once remarked, thinking upon the Lords Spiritual, the Lords Temporal and the Commons, that Parliament was composed of three estates. But there in the Reporters' Gallery, he added, "sat a Fourth Estate more important by far than they all." Burke accorded too much power to the press, and none at all to a Fifth Estate he did not even mention—the bureaucracy.

Members of the press and members of the bureaucracy share a common characteristic. Like the cockroach, we go on forever. Presidents may come and go; senators may rise and fall; cabinet ministers appear and disappear. The Fourth and Fifth Estates outlive them all. But there is this difference: Those of the Fifth Estate have substantive powers: we of the Fourth have none.

All this came to mind the other day in reading a blast by Republican John Ashbrook, of the 17th District of Ohio, against a part of the bureaucracy in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. As blasts go, his was a fair-to-middlin blast, but it will have no more effect in HEW than a shovel of sand on the shell of a snapping turtle. Especially in a Democratic administration, and especially under the protective wings of Secretary Joe Califano, HEW's people fear no blows from Ohio Republicans.

Ashbrook's complaint had a familiar ring. HEW's administrators, he said, were flouting the civil rights laws:

they were exhibiting a "brazen contempt" for the clear language of a statute; and they were persisting in their contemptuous conduct despite repeated rebukes from the courts. And Ashbrook was right on every point.

Ashbrook was speaking of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972. This is the operative sentence: "No person shall on the basis of sex be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program or activity receiving federal financial assistance."

Now, that is not an especially difficult sentence. It required no formal training in law, it required only a minimal ability to read the English language, to understand the reach of the statute. It applies to discrimination "Under any education program or activity" receiving federal aid.

But within the cockroach ranks of the HEW there exists a hard core of zealots whose obsession is women's liberation, or equal rights for women, or whatever. These bureaucrats, while pursuing their own doctrinaire ends, have deliberately perverted, distorted and misapplied the plain language of the statute. Instead of applying the law to "programs and activities," they have applied it to whole institutions instead.

As a consequence, the papers regularly report upon bureaucratic outrages. An institution that maintains a boys' choir or a girls' choir is threatened with suspension of all federal aid for every purpose. In secondary schools, father-and-son dinners are forbidden. Men's and women's athletics must be made equal in financial support. Dormitories must be sexually mixed. It is immaterial to the cockroach ranks that none of these is a "program or activity" receiving federal aid.

Neither is it material, or so it seems, that in every test case in which the point has been raised, the HEW bureaucracy has lost. Ashbrook documented his argument in the House the other day. In Taylor County, Florida; in Macomb County,

Bakke Ruling Soon

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)

Someday soon, maybe this week, you will see headlines reading "Bakke Wins" or "Bakke Loses." Below them will be a story that may encompass the future role minority races play in American society.

The Supreme Court's long-awaited decision on the Bakke case also could spell out the future of billions of dollars worth of programs in government, education and private business aimed at atoning for past racial injustice.

Perhaps, however, the real story will be what the nation's highest court chooses not to say in this highly publicized case.

Bakke, now a 38-year-old civil engineer from Sunnyvale, Calif., sued the University of California in 1974 after twice being

40 Years Ago Today

June 27, 1938

The Greenville Firemen's Band presented its second public concert on the court house lawn yesterday afternoon, attended by a large and appreciative audience.

The rain halted in time for the concert to go on as scheduled under the direction of Norman Hanley, conductor.

The band played both classical and popular numbers. It is composed of 17 men and one woman.

Ernest Brown of Greenville evidently is making a bid for a reputation as a horticulturist.

The headache powder manufacturer today was busy displaying a turnip with two tops growing from a single root. The turnip, which was a good size, was grown at Brown's home.

The Greenville High School Band has been invited to play again at Belhaven in the annual Fourth of July celebration, one of the biggest events held in that town.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Carter's Counter-Revolt

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Agreement by the president's policymakers and key House supporters on June 12 began a chain reaction that could conclude just before the election with this fateful event: a Jimmy Carter veto of major federal tax reduction in the midst of the tax revolt.

The agreement, reached behind closed doors of Vice President Walter F. Mondale's ceremonial office just off the Senate floor, was to oppose the tax package sponsored by Democratic Rep. James R. Jones of Oklahoma. Since the Jones package may be the very best tax bill President Carter can hope for from Congress, the decision to oppose it suggests a veto ending the long process this fall. That is precisely what the loyalist Democratic congressmen recommended.

This raises a prospect but dimly grasped so far at the White House: Democratic congressmen campaigning under the banner of vetoed tax reduction, with federal income tax rates scheduled to rise in January. Mr. Carter and his party would become counter-revolutionists fighting the tax revolt, bearing the burden of those who resist popular movements.

The president's problems originated in his failure to appreciate that taxpayers are more interested in how much they pay rather than how little their neighbor pays — reduction, not reform. That permitted congressional support to snowball for massive capital gains tax relief sponsored by Republican Rep. William Steiger of Wisconsin.

When the Steiger amendment deadlocked the House Ways and Means Committee, conservative Democrat Jones unveiled a "mid-ground" tax package — considered the handiwork of Dr. Charles Walker, former Republican deputy treasury secretary and now a Washington super-lobbyist. The Jones package slightly reduces Steiger's capital gains reductions, cuts both individual and corporate tax rates and throws out nearly all Carter tax reforms.

Would the president accept Jimmy Jones' bitter medicine to get election-year tax reductions? The administration's lips said no, but its eyes — at least those of some officials — seemed to say yes, yes. In some alarm, liberal Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee — led by Reps. James Corman of California and Abner Mikva of Illinois — asked for a high-level meeting.

It convened June 12 in the vice president's office, six days after Californians voted themselves huge property tax relief to open the tax revolt. Besides Mondale and the congressmen, those present included Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, presidential economic adviser Charles Schultze and White House aide Stuart Eizenstat.

During the half-hour meeting, the congressmen advised it was too late to compromise tax reforms since the president's reforms were dead anyway. More important, they urged a firm presidential stand against the Jones package as welfare to the rich. Without dissent, the administration officials agreed.

But more and more Democrats are joining Jones (once a White House aide to Lyndon B. Johnson) in abandoning the president. Rep. Dan Rostenkowski of Illinois, third-ranking Ways and Means Democrat and chief deputy whip of the House, likes the Jones package. Other Democrats are embracing Steiger-style capital gains tax relief, including Senate notables Frank Church and Pat Moynihan. Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia recently became the first Democrat to sponsor the Kemp-Roth 30 percent income tax cut, and others will follow.

That means an uphill, apparently hopeless battle in the House against the Jones package. In the Senate, the bill is likely to become even worse for the administration by addition of the Steiger amendment and possibly Kemp-Roth (with a chance that those provisions might be added earlier on the House floor).

If such a bill is vetoed this fall, taxes would return in

Strength For Today

A CONTINUING HOPE
"Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept."

These words from the fifteenth chapter of I Corinthians, constitute the earliest account we have of the Resurrection. Paul wrote them less than 20 years after the event. Many people were living at that time who remembered the Resurrection and many testified continually that they had witnessed it.

We never understand the spirit of the New Testament until we realize the part which the Resurrection played in the lives of early believers. They lived in the power and gladness of this belief every day. This Jesus who had been crucified had won a victory over death, and was now in their midst.

It was because they believed this so fully that their pagan neighbors marveled over the purity of life practiced by the Christian disciples and spoke often of the joy and moral composure of these humble people.

—Elisha Douglass

(Greensboro Daily News)

Since most of the serious kinks couldn't be removed, it's probably best for all concerned that the storm-tossed labor bill has been, not so quietly, sent back to Senate committee for redrafting.

The bill has flaws a plenty, in our opinion. But it's been blown up all out of proportion to its real importance. Besides, at a time when the Seante had other vital business, it consumed 19 days of filibuster and six attempts to shut off debate. After the final attempt, when it became clear cloture supporters couldn't get the requisite 60 votes, Senate Majority Leader Robert Byrd moved that the bill be returned to the Human Resources Committee; and with a sense of relief that motion unanimously carried.

Under the motion the committee may, (but isn't required to) send the bill back to the floor any time after July 15. Labor supporters insist that will happen. They are putting on an optimistic front. But opponents believe the major fight is over. They say they will again virously oppose any legislation drafted along lines of the present bill.

Supporters will continue to believe unions need more clout in the law to help revive sagging fortunes. Some 20 years ago one-third of American workers in non-farm jobs belonged to unions; now that's dropped below one-fourth. The AFL-CIO itself has lost some 500,000 members in the last two years. Its total membership is down to about 13.5 million.

For that reason Big Labor concentrated on getting government to help revive its lagging vitality. The main trouble with these efforts was that most of them would tilt things in labor's favor without providing compensating provisions for management. The bill's main flaws—those which probably led to its deferment—lay in the area of making it easier for unions to organize small businesses without giving employers an equal chance to defend themselves.

The National Labor Relations Act was designed to provide a fair arena for settlement of labor-management differences. Unless the Senate can produce legislation which clearly makes the contest fairer and eliminates inequities, it's best that changes not be made. Certainly government's power shouldn't be unfairly tilted simply to offset a current sag in the popularity of labor unions.

Big Noise By Gambling Stocks

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The big noise in the market these days is coming from gambling stocks, which even conservative investors seem to be saying are the only sure things invented since loaded dice.

Class A shares of Resorts International, operator of an Atlantic City, N.J., casino, have doubled in the past two weeks, and now sell for more than $80, or 80 times their price of just a few years ago.

Bally Manufacturing, which plans to equip the Atlantic City casinos, has more than doubled in 1978, and Atlantic City Electric, which keeps the lights burning, has gained more than 20 percent in the same time.

But while the stocks associated with Atlantic City gambling are soaring like Fourth of July rockets, one of the major purveyors of market information reminds us that other stocks also can crackle.

Standard & Poor's, the old standby, a service that never can be accused of sounding shrill, has come up with a list of more than 100 stocks that should show a 1978 profit gain of at least 20 percent.

While 20 percent would be more than double the expectations for corporate profits in general, more than one-third of the companies are expected to lift earnings at least 30 percent. About 20 percent might boost earnings 40 percent, and several should do even better.

Much better, in fact. Acme-Cleveland, a machine tool manufacturer, is expected by S&P to report a gain for the year of about 108 percent. Prime Computer is seen boosting earnings 99 percent over those of 1977.

S&P doesn't suggest that you run out and buy stocks such as those it has on the list, but it does recommend them for your study. Some of them, it observes, still have lower than average price-earnings ratios.

P-E ratios, as you might need to be reminded, are the number of times earnings at which shares are selling, and based on estimated 1978 earnings, the P-E for the S&P 500 index is now 8.3.

However, more than one-half the issues S&P believes will have earnings gains of at least 20 percent are selling for less than that ratio. In other words, their potential conceivably may not be appreciated.

Whittaker Corp., for example, is believed heading for an earnings gain of 71 percent, based on earnings per share rising from $1.05 to $1.80 for the year ending Oct. 31. But it currently has a P-E ratio of 7.8.

Among the larger earnings gainers, it lists Amdahl Corp., Bally Manufacturing, Boeing Co., Ennis Business Forms, Falcon Seaboard, GCA Corp., Gardner-Denver, Itel Corp., Pueblo International, RapidAmerican, Southeast Banking, Standard Oil (Ohio), Storage Technology and United Inns.

Some of these stocks already have had sizable runups.

Anyone seeking the entire list might find it at a nearby brokerage house. If you are in an expansive mood, you can subscribe for $34.50 a quarter.

Cohabitation Still Unlawful

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A superior court judge thinks the state is shirking its responsibility by not enforcing a 19th century law against unmarried cohabitation in North Carolina.

Judge Philston A. Godwin Jr. of Wake County called on the state to enforce the law against unmarried cohabitation, saying it leads to more serious crimes.

"There are numerous vicious crimes arising directly out of unlawful cohabitation," Godwin said from a bench in Cumberland County Monday. "The state should recognize its responsibility and resume prosecutions for unlawful cohabitation."

Godwin made the comments after ordering a 10-year prison term for a man convicted of manslaughter in the death of a woman with whom he was living out of wedlock.

Henry McNeill, 44, was sentenced after pleading guilty in the shooting death of Ada Lucille Baldwin, 30, whose body was found in a burning dumpster last June.

Witnesses had testified that

McNeill told them he shot Ms. Baldwin during a struggle over a shotgun she had pointed at him. The witnesses said McNeill believed Ms. Baldwin was spending his money on another man.

And Godwin thinks that proves his point.

"All of that fuss arose out of the intimacies arising out of unlawful cohabitation," Godwin said later during a court recess.

A seldom-enforced state law banning fornication and adultery has been on the books since at least 1805. The offense was once punishable by 10 years in prison, but it has since been reduced to a misdemeanor and is punishable by a $500 fine, imprisonment for six months, or both.

Asked why the law was not enforced, Godwin said the reason "could be the fact that people who enjoy good reputations feel there is no crime in unlawful cohabitation."

Concerning prosecution of persons accused of unlawful cohabitation, Cumberland County District Attorney Ed Grannis Jr. said, "I have enough things on my mind today without worrying about unlawful cohabitation."

rejected as an applicant to its medical school at Davis.

His lawsuit charged that he would have been accepted if 16 of the school's 100 positions for entering students each year had not been reserved for minorities.

"Reverse discrimination" is what Bakke called the school's affirmative action admissions policy. He said it denied him his constitutional right to equal treatment because he is white.

Ironically, the 14th Amendment that insures equal protection of the law to "any person" of any race was passed following the Civil War to hold out the promise of full citizenship to recently freed slaves.

The California Supreme Court agreed with Bakke, striking down the university's admissions policy for its medical school as unconstitutional racial discrimination.

Surely, the university argued in its appeal, the constitution does not stand in the way of giving a special preference to those minorities officially held back from competing on an even footing in the past.

The law, Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, was interpreted in Bakke's favor by a state trial court. The California Supreme Court, however, ignored the legal issue and decided in favor of Bakke on constitutional grounds.

Thus, it is not inconceivable that the case could be returned to California for more study, with instructions to the state's highest court to determine if the 1964 law should provide Bakke with a narrow victory.

It will be the wording of the Supreme Court's decision — not only the final outcome of Bakke's legal fight — that will determine the decision's impact nationwide.

But the attention the case has attracted could carry shock waves for the minority civil rights movement, even if Bakke wins in a narrowly worded ruling.

January to pre-1976 levels, in effect a $9 billion increase.

"Impossible," one administration official told us. "It would hurt like the dickens to sign the Jones bill, but the president would have to do it." However, other administration officials are seriously pushing a veto.

So are such Carter loyalists in Congress as Abner Mikva, an experienced candidate perpetually facing defeat in his Chicago suburban district. He wants Mr. Carter to call the vetoed bill a rich man's device that discriminates against the middle class and call Congress back into session after the election to pass decent tax relief.

The wily Mikva is plotting a substitute on the House floor throwing all Jones tax reduction into the $15,000-$50,000 brackets. While unlikely to pass, it would provide a campaign talking point for him and other loyalist Democrats.

Republicans are more than willing to accept Mikva's challenge. They would hoist high the vetoed tax bill, campaigning as warriors in the tax revolt fighting the counterrevolutionary Carter. While he can yet shed that label, the June 12 meeting was a long step toward stamping it on the president.

Two Die In Ax Attack

MOSCOW (AP) — A de-ranked 24-year-old Soviet man attacked three foreign tourists with an ax in central Moscow today, killing two of them and seriously injuring a third, officials at the Intourist Hotel said.

All of the tourists were believed to be from Sweden, the officials said.

The dead, a man and a woman, and the injured, a man, were waiting outside the Intourist Hotel on Gorky street within walking distance of the Kremlin when the Soviet, tall and weighing about 220 pounds rushed up to them and for no apparent reason began striking them.

Witnesses said it appeared there was an ax embedded in the side of the dead man because the handle was visible.

The hotel officials declined to identify the Soviet, who was led away in handcuffs after the incident, but said he was mentally ill.

An American doctor, who did not want to give his name, said he was returning from the Kremlin when he saw the two bodies on the ground and a third person with something wrapped around his head kneeling over the body of the woman. The man then fell back on the ground and was taken away in an ambulance.

"I couldn't do anything for the two people on the ground. They were dead," the doctor said.

The bodies lay in front of the hotel for 10 minutes until they were taken away. Hotel employees tried to hose away one big pool of blood on the steps in front of the building and covered the others with dirt.

Michigan, and most recently in Brunswick, Maine, federal courts have ruled without exception that the law plainly applies to specific programs and not to whole institutions.

None of these judicial rebuffs has had the slightest effect. HEW's people are the Don Rickles of the Fifth Estate; they are immune to insult. Ashbrook denounced them for "reckless disregard for the law." He described their perversion of Title IX as "a textbook example of legislation by regulation." He cried out against "dangerous federal intrusion into education at all levels."

And at HEW, we may be certain, if Ashbrook's speech drew any response at all, it drew no more than a snicker, no more than a yawn.

UNEMPLOYMENT DIPS

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The number of unemployed in the nine nations of the European Common Market dropped 214,000 in May, to total 5,552,000 at the end of the month, the Common Market Executive reports. The unemployment rate was 5.3 percent of the working population.

Hard-Nosed Policy By Schools

By KATHRYN WHITE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Following a trend toward accountability, the Whiteville school board has adopted a hard-nosed policy of refusing to pass below-par students, flunking one out of four students — 24.9 percent — this year.

"Most people, on first thought, think that's a good idea. But a year or two down the road, they will see that some of the things that got us in this box are valid things to have happen in school," Bruton said.

While emphasizing that schools must do better in teaching basic skills, Bruton advocates an approach that is tailored to the needs of individual students. He and other officials point to the state's new annual testing program as a tool for detecting and correcting weaknesses of individual students early.

Beginning in the 1978-79 school year, annual tests will be given to North Carolina students in grades one, two, three, six and nine.

"We've got to be careful about discouraging children by establishing an arbitrary set of hurdles for children to clear," Bruton said. "I worry that if we get to be too rigid and arbitrary, we will eliminate some children...that they'll quit trying to compete and learn."

Under state law, school principles and teachers are given the authority to decide who is promoted, with the guidance of local school boards. Whiteville is apparently the first of the state's 145 school systems to abandon the practice of social promotions, although several other boards have discussed it.

Proponents say the strict pass-by-merit policy will be good medicine for lazy students and apathetic parents. In Greensville County, Va., where social promotions were ended five years ago, school officials claim the policy has increased literacy, lowered the dropout rate, and improved classroom discipline.

But other educators question whether retaining students helps them acquire the skills they missed.

Research indicates that simply giving students "more of the same" does not increase their mastery of basic skills, according to guidelines issued by the state Department of Public Instruction. The guidelines ask local officials to consider whether there is "something new and different for the students who are retained" in setting policies governing promotion and retention.

With the emphasis on individual needs, state officials say levels of skills may also be blurred across grades.

"There is a range of skills in any classroom anyway," said H.T. Conner, assistant state superintendent for research and development. "Regardless of whether a student is at grade four or five, we need to teach at his level and correct his deficiencies."

In addition to teaching basic skills, Bruton says education should "teach students to be good citizens, to be kind and understanding and to learn how to live in the world," goals which he said are often overlooked by "knee-jerk back-to-basics" advocates.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Warm to hot weather is forecast today for most of the nation. Showers are expected in the Southwest and central Plains. Rain is expected for the Northeast coast. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Thunderstorms with vivid lightning shook north central sections of North Carolina this morning and moved on toward the southeastern section before diminishing.
Heavy rains were reported in Person and Granville counties and some power failures and flooding of streets occurred in Roxboro and Oxford.
The storms were attributed to an upper level disturbance that moved off the coast this morning. Southwesterly winds brought hot and hazy weather in the wake of the disturbance.

High temperatures were in the 80s over much of the state Monday, although Asheville, Charlotte, Hickory and Wilmington all recorded a high of 90 degrees. Readings were expected to be mostly in the 90s today and the hot and hazy weather will continue Wednesday with readings again in the 90s.

At Ease On Soviet Relations

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Dismissing recent conflicts with the Soviet Union as "temporary disharmonies," President Carter says he feels "quite at ease" about the long-term U.S. relationship with Russia.
"Our relationship with the Soviet Union overall is stable. It is not in danger. There is no threat to peace," Carter said during a news conference Monday.

Carter's remarks represented perhaps his most optimistic appraisal to date of the recent state of Soviet-American relations.
That optimistic view is in sharp contrast to recent administration admonitions of the Soviet Union to curb its involvement in Africa.
And just last Friday during a Texas speech when mentioning an arms agreement, Carter said:

"We are determined to stay strong, we are not going to let the Soviet Union push us around. We are not going to be second."
Touching only lightly on the areas of conflict, Carter said the two countries have made progress toward agreements to limit strategic arms, to reduce forces in Central Europe and to ban all nuclear tests and attacks on each other's satellites.

He also had kind words for Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev, calling him a man of peace, expressing hope he soon will visit Washington.
"We won't let any temporary disharmonies or disputes about transient circumstances delay our pursuit of peace with the Soviet Union," Carter said.
Responding to an allegation by Brezhnev, Carter also asserted that the United States is "not trying, nor will we ever try, to play the Soviets against the People's Republic of China."

Carter was most optimistic about the prospects for agreement between the superpowers on a mutual and balanced reduction of forces in Central Europe.
He said the Soviets replied recently in a "very affirmative way" to an American proposal. But the Soviet news agency Tass on Monday disputed U.S. claims that the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact has considerable numerical supremacy over NATO in ground forces and accused the alliance of seeking "unilateral advantages" in the talks.
Meanwhile, it was disclosed on Monday that two Soviet officials facing spying charges in the United States are being released to the custody of Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrinin in a trade that will temporarily free U.S. businessman Francis J. Crawford from a Moscow prison.
The two Russians will still have to stand trial on spy charges and Crawford, detained for alleged currency violations, faces the same prospect.
At his news conference, Carter criticized Israel for rejecting an Egyptian peace proposal before it was fully drafted.
In addition, Carter denied reports that his administration had planned to provide covert military aid to an anti-Communist rebel group in Angola.

Chicagoans Fight New Nazi March Prospect

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Park District said it is appealing a federal court order allowing a small band of Nazis to march in Marquette Park, and the Nazis threatened to reschedule a march in Skokie if the district is successful.
Edmund Kelly, park district superintendent, said Monday the district would file an appeal today of U.S. District Judge George L. Leighton's ruling that the Nazis could demonstrate in the park July 9 without posting an insurance bond.
The park district had instituted a requirement that would have required the National Socialist Party of America to post a $60,000 bond before any rally in the park.

The request for a stay to be heard Wednesday.
Collin could not be reached for comment Monday, but James Karl, a spokesman for the Nazis, said the group would reschedule the Skokie rally if it lost the right to demonstrate in Chicago parks.
"I seriously doubt if they can do anything as rash as to take away our First Amendment rights again," said Karl. "But if they do abridge our rights, then we'll go right back to

After Leighton signed the order last Thursday, Nazi leader Frank Collin canceled a widely publicized demonstration planned for heavily Jewish Skokie.
"We think our insurance requirement is a legal and fair requirement and we do not believe that an exception should be made for the Nazis," Kelly said at a news conference.
"We have a definite legal and moral obligation to preserve and protect the property and the lives which are entrusted to us," Kelly said. "If our property, which after all is the property of the taxpayers of Chicago, is damaged, who will pay for it?"
Kelly said the district expects

Moon Cultists Fight Barrier To Soliciting

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Devotees of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon have sued the city of West Palm Beach in federal court, claiming they were stripped of their rights by local officials who wouldn't let them solicit donations.
The suit, identical to those filed in three other Southern states, names as defendants the West Palm Beach city manager and the city's five commissioners. It was filed Monday by Chris Westfall, a follower of the Rev. Moon and fund raising coordinator for the Holy Spirit Association for the Unification of World Christianity.

At issue is a city ordinance which forbids "any solicitor or canvasser to engage in such business within the city without first obtaining a license therefor."
The suit, filed on behalf of the church, claims that the so-called "Moonies" didn't need a license because the ordinance exempts solicitors for "all nonprofit corporations, associations and organizations" from having to obtain a license.
The city manager in February denied the Moonies permission to solicit "in disregard of the rights secured to plaintiff by the first and Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution," the suit contends.
The church appealed the rejection to the city commission, but commissioners unanimously upheld the denial.

patient beyond reason with selective and biased treatment afforded by West Palm Beach and other communities throughout southern Florida," Troyer said as the suit was being filed.
"Therefore, I want to proclaim in response to these flagrant First Amendment violations: our policy of tolerance has terminated."
He added that the South Florida cities of Lake Worth, Boynton Beach, Pahokee, Lantana and Tequesta are likely targets for similar suits.

Heard Plea Not To Go On Strike

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Heeding a plea from Police Chief Joe Casey not to strike, Nashville patrol officers have accepted Mayor Richard Fulton's 6 percent pay boost offer.
The vote by nearly 600 Fraternal Order of Police members came Monday after about three hours of debate and pleas that officers who decided to strike would be throwing away their careers. The FOP had threatened to walkout at midnight tonight unless the Metropolitan Council met their demands of a 10 percent raise and full payment of medical insurance premiums.

Blue Jays Peck Orioles, Rolling To 24-10 Victory Over Baltimore

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Toronto has had a team in the American League for less than two years, but as far as Earl Weaver is concerned he's already spent a lifetime in the Canadian city.

The Baltimore manager has been the center of controversy in two wild affairs involving the Orioles and Blue Jays. Last Sept. 15, the Orioles forfeited a game in Toronto because Weaver objected to the position of a tarpaulin in the team's bullpen. The next time the Orioles visited Toronto was Monday night and all Weaver really could object to was the quality of Baltimore's pitching. The Orioles were shellacked 24-10 by the Blue Jays.

With Baltimore behind 19-6 in the fifth inning, Weaver decided to give his beleaguered pitching corps some rest by inserting outfielder Larry Harlow to pitch. Harlow, who pitched two games in the Florida League in 1971, got out the first two men he faced, then surrendered two walks, a wild pitch, Rico Carty's two-run single, another walk and John Mayberry's three-run homer, his second of the game, giving him seven RBI for the night.

When the next batter walked, Weaver replaced Harlow with player-coach Elrod Hendricks, normally a catcher. Hendricks, 37, just lobbed the ball over the plate. He walked his first batter, then got rookie Brian Miller to fly out and didn't allow a run before being replaced in the eighth.

"It's tough pitching with seven years between starts," quipped Harlow, who was told to warm up while Weaver determined if the move was legal. The Blue Jays protested but withdrew the protest when informed by the American League office that the move was not against the rules. "I was doing OK, getting those first two guys out, but ran into trouble when (Bob) Bailor walked. Then I had to go into my stretch. My stretch killed me."

"My pitchers weren't doing the job so I had to go somewhere else," said Weaver, who probably preferred to be someplace else as the Blue Jays scored nine times in the second inning, including two doubles each for Otto Velez and Dave McKay in the inning. "Take a look at the record. They got 19 runs off my pitchers and five off the others. My only mistake was not bringing in Elrod first."

Elsewhere in the AL, Kansas City blanked California 4-0 before a crowd that included former President Richard Nixon. Boston beat New York 4-1. Milwaukee stopped Minnesota 8-2. Cleveland nipped Detroit 5-4 and Seattle was an 8-3 victor over Chicago.

The 24 runs were the most the Blue Jays have scored in a game. It was also the most runs ever scored against Baltimore.

The modern major league record for runs by one team in a game is 29, set by Boston on June 8, 1950, in a 29-4 pounding of the St. Louis Browns and tied by the Chicago White Sox in a 29-6 beating of the Kansas City A's on April 23, 1955.

The 34 runs scored in the game were two short of the AL record set in a 22-14 Boston victory over the Philadelphia A's on June 29, 1950. The major league mark is 49, established by the Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies in a 26-23 Cubs' win on Aug. 25, 1922.

Royals 4, Angels 0
The Angels were shut out for the third straight game and fourth in their last five. Kansas City rookie Rich Gale, 7-2, pitched a seven-hitter and Art Kunsyner hit his first major league homer in six years. Former President Richard Nixon, attending his first major league game since leaving the White House in 1974, sat in Angels' owner Gene Autry's private box. He declined to talk to reporters but did appear on the Angels' pregame show.

Red Sox 4, Yankees 1
Boston continued making a shambles of the AL East race, moving 9½ games ahead of the Yankees as Jim Rice and Carlton Fisk homered and Dennis Ekersley combined with Bill Campbell to silence the Yankees and a sellout crowd of 52,194. The victory was Boston's 15th in its last 17 games, a pace that doesn't surprise Rice a bit. New York Manager Billy Martin was told before the game he would remain the team's field boss for the remainder of the season.

Brewers 8, Twins 2
Lary Sorensen won his 10th game of the season and Dick Davis and Ben Oglivie slammed two-run homers for Milwaukee.

"I'm halfway to 20 but the important thing is we're halfway to 80 wins with 40 now," said Sorensen, 10-4.

Indians 5, Tigers 4
Gary Alexander blasted a three-run homer to power the Indians' triumph, their fifth in the last six games. Reliever Dan Spillner saved the victory for Don Hood, 4-3, by striking out five of the seven men he faced.

Mariners 8, White Sox 3
Bob Stinson lashed a three-run homer in a five-run first inning as Seattle won its seventh game in the last eight and its fifth straight against the White Sox.

Borg Slips Past Tall American To Win First Round Net Match

LONDON (AP) — If you want to equal a 40-year-old record and win Wimbledon for three years running, you have to play a 6-foot-7 giant with a reach like an octopus and a service like a cannonball. Bjorn Borg, the young Swede who won here last year and in 1976, had to do that, anyway.

Borg beat towering American Vic Amaya by the narrowest of margins in five sets after at one time looking set for defeat. "Of course I want to win Wimbledon three times in succession," said Borg. "I'm glad I've got that match off my chest. It can't get much more difficult."

Borg admitted he was lucky to come away with a pulsating 8-9, 6-1, 1-6, 6-3, 6-3 victory, adding that there were stages in the match when he believed he was going to lose.

Borg's worst moment came when he trailed two sets to one, 1-3 and 30-40. A superb service pulled him out of trouble and from then on his game grew in stature against a 23-year-old opponent blessed with a booming left-handed serve. But he said: "I thought maybe I was going out in the first round this year. It was his match. When you survive matches like that, it gives you confidence."

The ice cool Borg had plenty of praise for his opponent, who is ranked No. 47 in the world according to the computer rankings.

"He was playing very well today," Borg said. "He had me worried. He never gave me a chance to play."

Amaya, whose giant frame makes him almost impossible to pass, said: "I will kick myself later. I had a good chance and I felt that I played well enough to win — but maybe I'm a little inexperienced."

"I learned today that I am a good enough player to beat the Wimbledon champion," Amaya said.

Borg was not the only seed to have a rough ride into the second round.

Jimmy Connors, seeded second and favored by many experts to be the man to take Borg's crown, was under a lot of pressure in his match against lanky young New Zealander Russell Simpson.

But, Connors prevailed 7-5, 9-8, 6-1.

One seed to make a rapid departure was the American Dick Stockton, seeded 10th, was suffering from back trouble and lost to Australian John Marks in straight sets, 6-2, 9-8, 7-5.

The traditional "Ladies Day" today sees the reigning champion Virginia Wade kick off her title defense with a first-round match against Elisabeth Ekblom of Sweden. Wade's biggest rivals are likely to be Chris Evert, Martina Navratilova and Evonne Goolagong. Evert will not play until Wednesday, while Navratilova plays American Julie Anthony and Goolagong meets Canadian Wendy Barlow today.

Mantle Leaves The Hospital

DALLAS (AP) — Former New York Yankees superstar and Hall of Fame member Mickey Mantle has been discharged from a hospital here after a serious bout with a bleeding ulcer.

PLAYING HURT

CANTON, O. (AP) — Lance Alworth, a new member of the Pro Football Hall of Fame, was perhaps the first superstar of the old American Football League. One reason was the wide receiver's ability to play while injured.

In 1966, playing for the San Diego Chargers, Lance suffered a fractured right hand in a pre-season game and then broke the left wrist a week later. Keeping the injuries secret, Alworth played the first seven games with both hands heavily taped and crippled. Yet he caught 37 passes in that time for 694 yards and went on to win the AFL pass-receiving crown.

"I don't know if I'm well or not but I feel good and I'm not hurting," said Mantle upon his release Monday.

He was at Preston Trail Golf Club last Wednesday when golf companion Dr. Frank J. Altick noticed the 47-year-old slugger's face was ashen and apparently in need of blood. He was listed in critical condition later that day.

Mantle, who hit 536 home runs during his career, said he suspected his rigorous nationwide appearance schedule contributed greatly to his ulcer.

"I've been doing a lot of traveling," he said. "It seems like wherever I go, there's always a cocktail party. Maybe I was drinking little too much."

The New York Mets have retired two uniform numbers. Casey Stengel's 37 and Gil Hodges' 14.

Dietzel Gets Nod At LSU

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Paul Dietzel, cursed here just a few years ago for resigning as Louisiana State's football coach, has been recommended for the job as LSU athletic director.

Dietzel, now athletic director at Indiana University, was unavailable for comment on the recommendation Monday by a special selection committee.

However, LSU Chancellor Dr. Paul Murrill said he telephoned Dietzel in Fort Wayne, Indiana, and that Dietzel "is quite pleased."

The committee's recommendation will be acted on by the LSU Board of Supervisors on July 14.

Murrill said Dr. John Ryan, president of Indiana University, told him he would not object if Dietzel wanted to return to LSU, where he coached from 1955 to 1961.

Those years were highlighted by an 11-0 record and national championship in 1958. Tiger halfback Billy Cannon won the Heisman Trophy in 1959, and LSU's stadium was filled every time the lights went on.

"I'll never leave LSU," Dietzel said as rumors circulated that he was to take first one coaching job, then another.

After the 1961 season, he left to take the coaching job at Army, having compiled a 46-23-3 record at LSU, including a 35-7-1 mark for his last five seasons.

"When I said it, I meant it, because I never dreamed I'd have the opportunity to coach the Cadets," Dietzel said after taking the Army job. "I realize I should never have made such statements. It was a mistake."

He was 21-18-2 in four seasons at Army, then took the job as athletic director and coach at South Carolina, where he was 42-53-1 before being replaced after his ninth season.

He was commissioner of the Ohio Valley Conference for just under nine months, then took the job as athletic director at Indiana 15 months ago.

Dietzel's name has been mentioned prominently since the current LSU athletic director, Carl Maddox, announced his plans to retire. Dietzel has told reporters in Indiana that he doesn't "intend to leave."

Seven men were interviewed by the LSU selection committee, but Dietzel was not among them.

Two of the seven—Hootie Ingram of the Southeastern Conference and Athletic Director Dave Maggard of the University of California—withdraw their names hours before the announcement that the committee wanted Dietzel.

Bowie Kuhn Has Slaved Rocky Wars With Baseball's Owners

Seaver Battles His Way To Win Over Houston; Giants Are Beaten

By NORM CLARKE
AP Sports Writer

"I am no stooge, never was a stooge and never will be a stooge for anybody." — Bowie Kuhn, 1969, after being named Baseball Commissioner.

In baseball parlance, Bowie Kuhn figured to be a quick out. His predecessor, Gen. William Eckert, was sacked three years into his seven-year term, miscast and browbeaten by the Lords of Baseball.

Kuhn's reign started out like it might be even shorter.

"In six weeks, Kuhn has done more to destroy baseball than all its enemies in 100 years," charged Judge Roy Hofheinz, owner of the Houston Astros, when Kuhn let stand a Montreal-Houston trade after Donn Clendenon threatened to retire rather than join the Astros.

But Kuhn, now in his 10th year, has kept his cool and his job despite one of baseball's stormiest periods, an era punctuated by player strikes, the advent of free agency and skyrocketing salaries.

How did he survive?

Through sound judgment, according to 82-year-old Warren Giles, one of baseball's "old guard," a man who served 18 years as National League president.

"I question whether Judge (Kenesaw) Landis would be as effective under the conditions which exist today," said Giles, referring to baseball's legendary iron-fisted czar.

"Landis assumed authority and nobody questioned it. The players' association has changed a lot of things.

"They had some rights due them for a long time and now they are going too far the other way," said Giles, who lives in retirement in Cincinnati.

"He has been a good commissioner. He has made some unpopular decisions and sometimes he has used a poor selection of words, but he has handled the issues well. He is trying to prevent money from becoming the dominating factor in deals. Otherwise, the rich get richer and the poor get poorer and the game suffers."

Giles, who was almost named commissioner in 1951, thinks baseball was wise "not to take a member of the lodge and give him power."

"Even then I felt it was not good judgment to take some inside the ranks. The commissioner has to have great authority because baseball is a partnership of competitors. And that's a pretty tough body to rule."

He feels the job demands good judgment — and wrist slapping when necessary. He believes Kuhn, a longtime legal adviser for the National League before replacing Eckert, has acted firmly, but fairly.

During his tenure, Kuhn has riled ownership by nullifying deals which some contend is an abuse of his power. A movement was afoot last spring to oust Kuhn, primarily because his critics felt he has entered areas the owners consider their private domain.

Giles supports Kuhn's stand of nullifying deals "that are not in the best interests of baseball."

Kuhn's loudest detractor over the years has been Charlie Finley, the Oakland As' maverick owner who has hauled Kuhn and baseball's hierarchy into court on several occasions.

"Finley wouldn't think God could make a good commissioner," said Giles.

On days when Tom Seaver feels he doesn't have it, baseball is a like a chess game for him.

And Monday night, he helped checkmate the Houston Astros.

"Games like this can be rewarding," said the Cincinnati ace after a 4-3 victory over the Astros. "Sometimes you have to win mentally instead of physically."

Seaver found out early in the game that his "fastball wasn't there." That resulted in three Houston hits and two runs in the first inning.

"In this type of situation," he said, "you just have to battle and find something along the way."

What he found was a "good slider and a good curveball." That resulted in just three more hits off Seaver in the next seven innings. He departed after the eighth, and later had the good fortune to be credited with the victory as pinch-hitter Dave Collins delivered a sacrifice fly in the ninth.

Elsewhere in the National League, the San Diego Padres edged the San Francisco Giants

2-1 in 10 innings; the Atlanta Braves turned back the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2; the Montreal Expos downed the Philadelphia Phillies 5-1; the Chicago Cubs outscored the New York Mets 10-9 and the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4 in the completion of a suspended game before winning the regularly scheduled contest 11-8.

Collins' ninth-inning fly ball scored Dave Concepcion from third to preserve Seaver's ninth victory in 14 decisions. Concepcion led off with a single, took second on Cesar Geronimo's sacrifice and went to third on pitcher Mark Lemongello's throwing error.

Padres 2, Giants 1

Tucker Ashford drew a bases-loaded walk from Gary Lavelle in the bottom of the 10th to force home the winning run in San Diego's victory over San Francisco.

Braves 5, Dodgers 2

Rowland Office, Gary Matthews and Bob Horner powered home runs and right-hander Adrian Devine scattered five hits over seven innings to lead Atlanta over Los Angeles. Devine also drove in what turned out to be the Braves' winning run with a single in the fifth inning.

Expos 5, Phillies 1

Steve Rogers scattered six hits and finally got some offensive support from his teammates as Montreal whipped Philadelphia. Rogers, 9-7, got almost as much help from the Phillies as from his own team, which has rarely produced runs for him this season. The Phillies made two errors in the fourth inning, resulting in three runs and another error in the seventh that cost one more run.

Cubs 10, Mets 9

Dave Rader's pinch grand slam homer highlighted a six-run fifth inning to help Chicago beat New York. The Mets had scored six times themselves in the top of the inning to take a 7-4 lead before the Cubs rallied.

The decision snapped a six-game losing streak for Chicago and was the Mets' 19th defeat in 27 games.

Pirates 5-11, Cardinals 4-8

Rookie Don Robinson pitched three scoreless innings of relief to preserve Pittsburgh's 5-4 victory over St. Louis in the completion of a suspended game begun April 23.

Dave Parker and Ed Ott rapped home runs as the Pirates rallied from five runs behind to beat St. Louis in the regularly scheduled game.

Winterville Takes Win

Winterville gained a 5-4 victory over Wellcome yesterday in the Pitt County Babe Ruth League.

Kevin Pound was the winning pitcher for Winterville. Pound also led the Winterville hitting with two, while Jeff Gould also had two hits, one a double.

Leggett led the Wellcome hitting with two, one a double.

Southern Pitt Little League

Bethel romped to a 12-1 victory over the Hornets yesterday in the Southern Pitt Little League.

Chris Ayers was the winning pitcher.

Bill Blount led Bethel with three hits, while Junior Huber added two. No one had more than one for the Hornets.

Another Yankee Crisis Passes; Billy Okayed

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — George Steinbrenner, owner of the New York Yankees wears two hats — a white hat and a black hat.

After donning a black hat a week ago to dangle an axe over the head of his manager, Billy Martin, he swapped it for a white hat prior to Monday night's vital game with the Boston Red Sox at the Stadium.

"Don't fret yourself, Billy Boy," he said in effect. "Nobody's going to take your toys away from you - not now, anyhow. So relax. Go out and win another pennant and World Series."

"Thanks, boss," Martin replied with a sigh of relief.

Thus another Yankee crisis has passed, just as at least five such crises went up in smoke a year ago before Martin led the Yankees to baseball's highest pinnacle and got a new limousine as a bonus.

The Yankees aren't happy unless they're fighting. They thrive on controversy. They gouge each other's eyes out, then kiss and make up.

It's happened again. The Boston Red Sox, even with their tremendous lead, had better watch out. History may repeat.

Reggie Jackson, the team's premier performer, put it in the best perspective after being told that Steinbrenner and Martin, constantly at odds, had staged a 21-2 hour eyeball-to-eyeball session which cleared the atmosphere.

It never really concerned me," Jackson said, pulling on his long white socks in front of his locker. "Whether Billy was fired or stayed never affected my playing. I don't play for management. I play for myself.

"But I'm happy it's all over. If Boston wasn't playing .700 ball nobody would be talking about a new manager. It's Boston — nobody else — that put Billy's job on the line. Now we gotta slow this Boston train down so Billy the Kid and his gang can derail it and get the loot."

Meanwhile, Steinbrenner came forth to acknowledge that he had triggered the latest storm in order to snap his million-dollar babies out of their lethargy.

In throwing down the gauntlet to his manager, Steinbrenner said only two members of the team — first baseman Chris Chambliss and third baseman Graig Nettles — were playing up to their potential and intimated that the rest of the team was dogging it.

Hairs stiffened on the back of many a Yankee neck.

"I could tell that the guys were preoccupied with themselves and their problems," Steinbrenner said. "I had to take their minds off their own troubles and channel it somewhere else. It was a psychological move, intended to shake them up.

Martin, who has another year after this to go on his $100,000-a-year contract, is not completely out of the woods yet. He must harness his arrogance and combativeness, polish up his back alley behavior and try to be a good boy.

"There were no threats or demands," said Billy, who is thought to have a self-destruct complex. "I made no promises."

Grace In Tournament

STATESVILLE — A pair of softball teams sponsored by Grace Free Will Baptist Church captured second place honors in the state Word Of Life Club Softball Tournament this past weekend in Statesville.

Allen Hudson coached the junior high level team which lost to Shelby in the finals, 10-2. Jim Hardee of the team was presented with the "Best Sportsmanship" trophy for the tournament.

Tony Godley coached the senior high level team, and it lost in the finals to Statesville, 6-1. Jerome Ross was awarded the "Most Valuable Player" trophy.

Both teams, but finishing second, qualified for the national tournament to be held at Scroon Lake, N.Y., August 21-15.

Babe Ruth

Aaction Movers 11, Coca-Cola 3

Aaction Movers wound up the regular season with an 11-3 victory over Coca-Cola in the Babe Ruth League.

The game left Aaction with a 7-8 mark, while Coke finished at 6-9.

Aaction pushed over all it needed in the first inning, getting six runs. Ken Barnes led off with a walk and stole second. After moving to third on an out, he scored on Jamie Byrd's double. Arthur Fletcher walked and stole second, and both scored on Brian Dye's single. Greg Nowak tripled in Dye, and Keith Stancill walked. Daryl Joyner also walked, loading the bases. Barnes singled in both Nowak and Stancill.

Coke got two of its three in the second. Jim Jones walked and Vince Hankins singled. Both scored on a double by Elvy Forrest.

Aaction added three more in the fifth and two in the seventh. The other Coke run came in the sixth.

Barnes, Byrd and Billy Kitzrell each had two hits for Aaction, while Hankins had two for Coke.

Home Builders 5, Wachovia Bank 4

Home Builders scored two runs in the seventh inning to nip Wachovia Bank, 5-4, in the Babe Ruth League last night.

The game was the regular season finale for both. Home Builders finished with an 8-6 record, while Wachovia was 5-10. The Builders had one postponed game with Planters which will not be made up.

Wachovia pushed ahead with one in the first. Ed Frazier walked and was safe on an error on Scott Southerland's grounder. He scored on another error on a fielder's choice on John Dubber's grounder.

Wachovia got a second run in the second. Raynor Casey walked and stole second, scoring on Mark Sasser's single.

Wachovia got its third in the third, only to see Home Builders come up with three in the fifth to tie it up.

Then, in the seventh, Home Builders pushed over two to break the tie. Scott Galloway singled and Danny Woods reached on an error, allowing Galloway to score. Roger Williams tripled to score Woods.

Wachovia rallied for one in the bottom of the seventh, but couldn't catch up again.

No one on either team had more than one hit.

Little League

Pepsi-Cola 2, First Federal 1

Pepsi-Cola pushed over a run in the bottom of the sixth to gain a 2-1 victory over First Federal yesterday and kept alive their title hopes in the Tar Heel Little League.

Pepsi finished the regular season with a 10-5 record, while First Federal ended up at 6-9. Pepsi could win the title if the Moose bow Wednesday to the Graniteers. A Moose win, however would give the title to the Moose, even though the two would have an identical record, since Moose won two of three from Pepsi.

Pepsi got its first run in the second. Raju Singh singled and moved to third on passed balls. He scored on a sacrifice by Joey Hallow.

First Federal tied it up with one in the fourth. Leon Moore doubled and moved up when Greg Savage was hit by a pitch and Mont Brown singled. A passed ball scored Moore.

The winning run for Pepsi came in the sixth. Clark Stallings walked and was sacrificed up. Mike Kinley walked and both runners moved up on a wild pitch. Then, while attempting to give an intentional walk to Singh, the First Federal catcher was called for a balk, scoring Stallings.

The game was protested by First Federal.

Kiwanis 4, Union Carbide 3

The Kiwanis closed out the North State Little League season with a 4-3 victory over Union Carbide yesterday.

The Kiwanis finished up with an 8-7 record, while Union Carbide ended up with a 2-13 mark.

The Kiwanis pushed over a run in the first to take the lead. John Jordan reached on an error and Todd Jordan singled. An error let John score.

Union Carbide took the lead with two in the fourth. Steve Bath walked and moved up on a wild pitch. Ken Waters singled and stole second. A wild pitch scored Bath and a passed ball let Waters come in.

The Kiwanis came back with one in the fourth and another in the fifth, but Union Carbide tied it up with one in the sixth.

The Kiwanis then got the winning run in the seventh. Robert Evans doubled and took third on a passed ball. He scored the game-ending run on a sacrifice fly by John Jordan.

Union Carbide got only one hit off the combined pitching of Calvin Bradley and John Jordan, and no one on either team had more than one hit.

Caroline Of Monaco Not A Story Book Princess

years of age in 1960; at center in 1963 and at right in 1978. She will wed Philippe Junot in Monaco this week. (AP Laserphoto)

By MARCUS ELLIASON
Associated Press Writer
MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — This royal marriage will be remembered less for its pomp than for its circumstance.

Caroline is 21 years old and a princess. Philippe Junot, 38, is a commoner — a Parisian — with a playboy reputation.

Their wedding is set for Thursday, and he is not the royalty that Prince Rainier III and Princess Grace, the former Hollywood film star Grace Kelly, had in mind for their daughter.

But, then, neither has Caroline been the story-book princess.

She seems to prefer life in bustling Paris to the secluded calm of her palace room. She is a striking brunette tending to chubbiness, an avid waterskiier, a fixture on the Paris nightclub scene.

She and Junot plan to live in Paris while keeping a villa in Monaco.

Christina Says No To Rumors

MOSCOW (AP) — Business, not marriage is on her mind, insists Greek shipping heiress Christina Onassis.

The millionaire daughter of the late Aristotle Onassis calls "absolutely preposterous" reports she plans to marry a Soviet bureaucrat who shares with her an interest in tankers. "I never heard anything so stupid and I don't know what ... they're talking about. I'm here on tourism and business, and I'll be leaving in a few days," 27-year-old Christina said from the downtown Intourist Hotel.

Her rumored beau is Nikolai Kozov, identified as head of the tanker division of the Soviet freight firm, Sovfracht.

The London Daily Express quoted an Onassis friend as saying Christina had met Kozov in Paris, and the two were carrying on a quiet romance. Kozov, the Daily Express said, had obtained a divorce only a week ago.

BLAKELY TV DEBUT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Renee Blakely, best known for her role in Robert Altman's movie "Nashville," will make her television debut in "Desperate Women," a spoof on horse operas.

Tempers are on edge in the palace and jetsetters and notable citizens of Monaco are sulking about because they were refused invitations to the wedding.

Sources close to the palace say Princess Grace, 48, is "worn out and harassed" by the torrent of phone calls from friends and acquaintances demanding an invitation. Hot-tempered Rainier, sovereign of the 375-acre state on France's Mediterranean coast, "is on the verge of blowing up," sources say.

But the family is determined to keep the wedding discreet. It will be held in the presence of 100 guests in a small palace chapel — a civil marriage Wednesday followed by the more binding Catholic ceremony the next day.

Questions have arisen about Junot's background. He describes himself as a financier with offices in Montreal and Paris. But his most frequently trotted beat is the Paris society circuit.

The palace simply refuses to comment on the issue.

Many of the 4,500 Monegasques (citizens of Monaco) and expatriate celebrities who live in tiny, tax-clear Monaco are upset at being invited only to the regal ball that Rainier is throwing tonight.

They have dutifully inundated the palace with bouquets and gifts — a chest of silverware from the Monegasque community, a pair of 18th century armchairs from the bank of Monaco.

Lung Test For Infants

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — A test developed at North Carolina Memorial Hospital may save the lives of thousands of infants with major lung disorders.

Dr. Geoff Sher, who developed the test in collaboration with Dr. Bernard E. Stotland, said the test is simple and inexpensive, requires less time to administer and appears to be more reliable than existing tests.

If the test continues to prove out, "it will be a major breakthrough, both for infant health and holding down costs," Sher said.

The test is called the foam stability index. It measures the lung maturity of the unborn infant, which physicians may need to know for a number of reasons.

Sher explained that several physical conditions in the mother, particularly diabetes or the Rh-factor, may make it necessary for a doctor to deliver a baby early. The unborn infant also may have problems that indicate a need for being born early.

Because many women cannot tell a doctor how long they've been pregnant or do not see a doctor until late in their pregnancies, doctors need an accurate measure of how well the child will be able to breathe at the time of birth, Sher said.

He said that babies who suffer respiratory distress syndrome, the term used to describe several kinds of lung immaturity, but live in spite of it, may suffer brain damage or other disabling injury.

He said the purpose of the FSI test is to give the doctor as much information as possible so he can balance the child's chances against the factors that call for an early birth.

Mickey Mantle Isn't Hurting

DALLAS (AP) — "I don't know if I'm well or not but I feel good and I'm not hurting," says former baseball great Mickey Mantle.

The retired New York Yankee was discharged from a Dallas hospital Monday following treatment for a bleeding ulcer that was so severe it placed him on the critical list last Wednesday.

Mantle was at a golf club here when a companion, Dr. Frank J. Altick, noticed the 43-year-old slugger's face turn ashen. He was rushed to the hospital.

The former centerfielder suspects his rigorous schedule of nationwide appearances contributed greatly to the ulcer. "I've been doing a lot of traveling. It seems wherever I go, there's always a cocktail party. Maybe I was drinking a little too much," he said.

Church Schools Again Challenging The State

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — For the second time this year, church-schools in North Carolina are challenging the state's authority.

At least 62 church-related schools are refusing to pay their first-quarter unemployment insurance taxes to the state.

Many of these same schools are being sued by the State Board of Education for failure to file required annual reports which the schools claim constitute too much regulation by the state.

Now the schools are protesting a new federal government ruling that for the first time requires church-related schools to pay a state unemployment insurance tax like any other business or government employer.

Officials maintain their schools should receive the same tax-exempt status their churches do since the schools are part of the churches' ministry.

"We are not any different from Jews in Caesar's day. To yield to this would make the state head of the church, and not Christ," said the Rev. Daniel Carr of Winston-Salem, president of the Organized Christian Schools of North Carolina.

The schools' attorney, state Sen. Thomas E. Strickland of Goldsboro, informed the state Employment Security Commission of the protest by letter 10 days ago. The ESC said those taxes were due April 28, but enforcement action has been delayed until the ESC can hold administrative hearings on the schools' protest, according to ESC spokesman Ted Davis.

Davis said the two Roman Catholic dioceses in North Carolina paid the unemployment tax for their school employees under protest. And he said other schools besides the 62 represented by Strickland had refused to pay the tax, but exactly how many has not been determined.

State law requires an employer to pay 2.7 percent of the first $6,000 of each of his employees' salaries to the ESC as unemployment insurance tax. The money is used to pay unemployment benefits.

Most employers are required to send another .7 percent to the federal unemployment insurance program, but the church-related schools are exempt from this.

Boyles Wants Closer Regulation Of Banks

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State Treasurer Harlan Boyles, chairman of the state Banking Commission, says he thinks the board should be more aggressive in its scrutiny of banks.

Boyles, who issued a report

after last week's commission meeting calling for stricter banking regulations, said Monday the commission has given up too much responsibility to federal regulation by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Because of that, and because of the recent resignations of two top state banking commission officials amid allegations of improper activities, the public has little confidence in the board, Boyles said.

"We took a back seat to the FDIC for years," Boyles said. "We did that at a price we're now having to pay."

In his report, Boyles recommended adoption of two regulations calling for public disclosure of "insider" transactions and yearly examinations of state-chartered banks by independent auditors. Boyles also said the board does not need to hold up action on the regulations while a special study commission, appointed by the governor, makes recommendations on banking regulations.

"A large segment of the public does not believe the state Banking Commission is acting in the public interest to regulate banks in this state," Boyles said. "I intend to do everything that I can to change that mistaken belief."

"We must set our house to rights without waiting for others to do so," he added.

The proposed regulation of "insider" transactions — loans and overdrafts by bank officers, directors, employees or major stockholders and their families — was part of an agreement with the N.C. Press Association in a compromise over a bank records secrecy bill in the legislature this month.

Thomas Bradford, acting banking commissioner, said in an interview that he would not fight the recommendation for independent audits, but did not believe it was needed.

"I think it may be unnecessary because most banks are moving to it anyway," he said. "I'd have to ask an attorney whether it (the regulation) could be done."

Boyles, in his report, said the commission needs to be more active.

"In general, we have known only what the commissioner has elected to reveal to us," Boyles said. "I submit to you that this passive role does not conform with the duties that have been placed upon us by statute."

"I ask this commission to take a more positive stance toward, and a more active participation in, the regulation of state chartered banks," he added.

'Brutality' Plaintiff Aired

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — A weekend conference arranged by the local NAACP chapter with representatives of law enforcement agencies heard complaints of police brutality.

"White supremacy is sticking its ugly head up again in Durham and we're getting pretty tired of it," said Christine Strudwick, a member of several organizations including the East End Neighborhood Council and Carolina Action.

"Police brutality is happening everywhere, not just in my neighborhood, but in every black neighborhood in Durham," she told about 75 persons who attend the session.

Some of the speakers complained that police had been rude and disrespectful and that officers had used excessive force in making arrests.

Several speakers told of a recent disturbance at Oxford Manor where police arrested Frankie Ferrell on a public drunkenness charge. Residents reportedly threw rocks at police cars. Speakers said the residents were reacting to the "unnecessary force" used by police.

Proxmire Now Defends Version

WASHINGTON (AP) — Switching sides, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., now defends the Senate Banking Committee's version of an aid bill for New York City.

Proxmire, the committee chairman, was against any bill less than two weeks ago. But Monday he said the committee's $1.5 billion version of guaranteed long term bonds "is a tight ... tough ... bill ... designed to get New York City off the back of the federal government."

Compensation To Rosenbergs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sons of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg are getting $195,802 from the government to cover their legal fees in securing information on the spy case.

The settlement, agreed upon by the Justice Department, is the largest ever paid by the government in a Freedom of Information Act lawsuit. The sons, Michael and Robert Meeropol, filed suit four years ago hoping to prove their parents innocent. The elder Rosenbergs were executed in 1953 after they were convicted of conspiring to commit espionage.

James Jones' Story Is Updated By Television

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The New Congress Hotel was a bawdy house, not a dime-a-dance hall. Pvt. Robert E. Lee Prewitt's true love worked there, but rarely was she upright about it.

Yet such changes were in the movie version of James Jones' classic soldiering novel, "From Here to Eternity," lest the film be banned in Boston and other bastions of decency.

Well, 25 years later, Boston has a "combat zone" Prewitt might have liked. NBC has a TV version of "Eternity" afoot, and stuff changed for the 1953 model sure will be in original form for 1978.

"We're going back to the book," vows producer-director Buzz Kulik, who on July 17 gathers his 500-man prewar Army, their '03 Springfield rifles and starts filming for 11 weeks.

He sounded ready to roll, even though when interviewed last week he'd cast but one major role, 1st Sgt. Milt Warden, with William Devane in the part superbly played by Burt Lancaster in the movie.

Openings still existed for Pvt. Angelo Maggio (the role saved Frank Sinatra's career), Prewitt (the late Montgomery Clift) and the sadistic stockade tender, Sgt. Fats Judson (Ernest Borgnine).

"It's amazing how things have changed in 20 years," Kulik said of the fact he now can show, right on TV, the novel's original depiction of a bawdy house and Prewitt's fair lady.

And, because the TV version runs six hours, compared to 105 minutes for the movie, he said he's able to put in scenes the movie had to delete because of time limitations.

Such as the brutal beatings Fats Judson gave Maggio in the stockade. It was compressed in the movie to Maggio's arrival at the stockade and his death shortly after he escaped from the slammer.

Will there be the famous surf scene where Sgt. Warden and his mistress, an officer's wife

"Sure," Kulik laughed. "We'll do our variation of it. Still, with the whole movie, I know some will say, 'Geez, you screwed it up, the old picture was so much better.'"

"But there's so much in Jones' book that was left out of the film (for time and censor reasons). And with the six hours we've got, we'll be able to put it in. To a great extent, it'll be an altogether different story."

A big problem in his remake: Actors he auditioned tended to mimic the acting they saw in the 1953 "Eternity," particularly Clift's depiction of proud, sensitive Pvt. Prewitt.

"They kept imitating him," Kulik said. "His performance was extraordinary, to have you believe this born-and-bred New Yorker was from the coal mines of Kentucky and a boxer. "But his interpretation was only one, and there could be many, many others."

Rolling Stones Fans Have Own Reasons

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The fans who crowded into the Greensboro Coliseum Monday night for the Rolling Stones concert had other things to do for entertainment besides hearing the Stones.

Some of the fans from West Virginia, South Carolina and Washington, D.C. came to boast the brightest, or the oldest, or the most unique Rolling Stones

T-shirt. One finalist in such a contest would have been the shaggy-haired cynic whose shirt screamed in large block letters, "Who the (expletive) is Mike Jagger?"

Some came to scalp tickets, a few attempting to mask their capitalistic intentions by selling chewing gum or T-shirts for, say, $25, and offering to "give" purchasers a Stones ticket as a bonus.

Some scalpers were selling tickets by the handful to eager fans who had driven long distances on faith. They were raking in $15, $20 and in many cases, $25 apiece. Several claimed to have bagged $100 for a pair of top-notch reserved-seat tickets.

Then the show began. The market crashed. The same scalpers who had laughed arrogantly at profitable offers an hour earlier were desperately letting the $10 tickets go for $7, $6, and finally $5 apiece.

A couple of scalpers who came with no intention of watching the Stones ended up inside when they couldn't sell all their tickets.

And an unlucky 13 scalpers found themselves charged with misdemeanors.

Some fans came to drink and smoke marijuana, and some wound up in jail. But of the more than 16,000 Stones fanatics in attendance, only 15 had been brought before a magistrate near the end of the show, and only three were charged with felonies (LSD, MDA and cocaine).

Some came to be seen — to sit on the hoods of cars with their eight-track tape players blasting 10-year-old Stones ditties like, "Let's Spend the Night Together," and to wave beer cans triumphantly at passersby.

But most of all, they came to hear one of the last of the phenomenally popular British rock bands who stormed out of the North Atlantic in the 1960s.

The fans ranged in age from those who were 30 when "I Can't Get No Satisfaction" radiated from AM radios, to teen-agers who were babes in arms when the Stones followed the Beatles to fame and fortune in America.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 28, 1978

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you are very careful of your facts and figures, you will be able to put a plan of action in motion that can benefit you and have some long-time angles connected with it. Study all facets and expand.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact those who can assist you in advancing where career matters are concerned. Be with persons you admire and have a good time. Be a good conversationalist.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get into those private affairs that make it possible to have less confusing conditions around you. Making new, practical plans is wise now. Have a confidential talk with a loved one.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can reach a better understanding with persons in your age bracket. Keep an eye open for opportunities to advance more quickly in your career. Find a new outlet to add to present income.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Listening to ideas of others who are thinking more clearly than you now is wise. Take the links out of any present operations and they work better. Be careful of one who is a hypocrite.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find better ways of adding to present success and don't jump into any new projects without further study first. A trip you want to make is okay, but handle details wisely now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handling promises and obligations wisely and conscientiously is important now. Try to be of greater help to your mate. Avoid one who is bent on making trouble between you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can come to a better understanding with partners provided you do not hold on to a grudge. Increase goodwill of the public in general through more courtesy. Be fair with all.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into your work enthusiastically and ignore a co-worker who is upset. Use practical methods and improve health. Avoid the temptation to burn the candle at both ends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get out socially and enjoy yourself even if you feel your wardrobe is not adequate. Let your personality make you popular. Bring your finest talents to attention of those who can help you to make money with it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have some excellent ideas to put across at home, although one family tie may back you, but can be won over. Do some entertaining at home. Show more pride in your surroundings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Try to streamline daily tasks so they are easier to perform and you save yourself time and effort. Take some small trips to see contacts and get good results also. Avoid one who could ruin your way of life.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are postponing putting a new plan in motion which could be very good for you, so get busy now with it. See how you can add to the value of your property in some way. Count the costs first.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will catch on quickly to new ideas and trends and will have a fine pioneering spirit for improvement and betterment. Provide a good education. Teach to make comprehensive plans before tackling a project and then it will become successful since there is the ability to persevere here also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF
© 1978 by Chicago Tribune

East had a certain trump trick, but watch what happened.

Declarer led the eight of trumps from dummy, intending to run it if East played low. East split his honors and declarer captured the ten with the king. He crossed to dummy with the jack of hearts and led the six of clubs. If East covered, he would be giving up his trump trick, so he played low, and South remained in dummy as he followed with the four.

The ace-king of diamonds and a ruff set up dummy's diamonds while allowing declarer to sluff his remaining spades. Declarer got back to dummy with a low heart to the queen, and began to run the good diamonds. East was helpless. He could ruff at any time he chose, but declarer would overruff, draw the outstanding trump and claim the rest of the tricks for his slam.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced, action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. For a copy and a scorepad, send $1.00 to "Goren-Four Deal," c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J. 07648. Make checks payable to NEWS-PAPERBOOKS.

JONES JOINS HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Shirley Jones, who won an Oscar for her performance in "Elmer Gantry", has joined the cast of Irwin Shaw's "Evening in Byzantium", which also stars Glenn Ford and Eddie Albert.

Cast And Crew Honor Member

POMONA, Kan. (AP) — The cast and crew of the Whippoorwill have honored 17-year-old Tina Kramer, the one member of the company who died when a tornado capized the dinner showboat on Lake Pomona. Fifteen other persons were killed in the mishap June 17.

The company dedicated a performance of "Dames at Sea" to her. The musical was being performed on the boat when the tornado struck. Admission was free to the Monday night performance, but contributions were accepted to establish a memorial in Miss Kramer's name.

Magazine Buys Autobiography

NEW YORK (AP) — "The major women's story of our time" is the way Ladies' Home Journal editor Lenore Hersey describes her magazine's latest acquisition — the autobiography of former First Lady Betty Ford.

The popular periodical announced Monday it bought the exclusive North American serial rights to Mrs. Ford's "The Times of My Life," which will chronicle experiences from early childhood to her recent, harrowing fight to beat alcohol and drug addiction.

"I'm pleased to have my book in Ladies' Home Journal," beamed Mrs. Ford, as well she should. While the purchase price was undisclosed, the magazine's publicist used word's like "record-breaking."

"The Times of My Life" will be published in the October and November issues, Ladies' Home Journal publisher Robert Thomas said.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market turned in a mixed showing today, steadying on word that the nation's trade deficit narrowed last month.
The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which fell more than 10 points Monday, recovered 3.21 to 815.49 by noontime today.
But losers held a 7.5 edge on gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.
The government reported today that the nation's imports exceeded exports by a seasonally adjusted $2.24 billion in May, for the smallest monthly deficit since last September.
Brokers said investors' response to that news was restrained, however, by continuing expectations of a further rise in interest rates. Analysts have forecast an upward move soon in both the bank prime lending rate and the discount rate—the charge set by the Federal Reserve on loans to its member commercial banks.
Another subduing influence was President Carter's assertion late Monday of his strong opposition to proposals in Congress to reduce the tax on capital gains.
Gambling stocks were widely mixed after a sharp selloff just before the close on Monday. Caesars World and Playboy Enterprises each rose more than a point on the Big Board.
But Resorts International class A stock fell 5 1/4 to 75 and Resorts class B shares dropped 6 1/2 to 79 on the American Stock Exchange.

with 18 men per shift now," the captain said.
When he returned, Christopher worked with the department's rescue unit and trained competition teams which will have several honors on his off-duty time.
Then in 1962, he spent four weeks at the Canadian Civil Defense Rescue College in Annapolis, Ontario, for more heavy-duty rescue training.
That same year, Christopher was captain of the Greenville Rescue Squad team which took the international heavy-duty rescue championship - the first time a United States team had ever won that coveted prize.
Christopher was also one of the prime supporters in the formation of the North Carolina Rescue College.
In cooperation with the North Carolina Department of Insurance's Fire and Rescue Services Division, the first N.C. Rescue College session was held in Greenville in 1962. Greenville remained the home of the school for its first four years, until the program was moved to Raleigh because of its rapidly expanding class size, and because of the Capital City's more central location in the State.
"I'm going to get out while I've still got good health and can enjoy myself," the 55-year-old officer noted.
And Christopher shouldn't have any difficulty finding something to do to keep himself busy.
Christopher loves to hunt, fish, search for arrow heads, is a competitive shooter, and a gunsmith who turns out custom-made rifles and gunstocks.
