DR. LEO WARREN JENKINS

End Of The Jenkins' Era

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Dr. Leo Jenkins retires today as chancellor of East Carolina University.

What else can be said about the man as he ends his career? Editorial writers over the years have alternately praised and criticized him for fighting for what he believed in.

When Jenkins came to East Carolina in 1947 as dean— "a young ... brash ... curt ... sometimes rude Marine officer," as he describes himself — the school had 84 faculty members, 1,605 students, offered 20 major programs of instruction in 14 academic departments and included 18 buildings on 140 acres operating with a budget of $1.9 million.

Today, the university has 754 faculty members, more than 12,000 students, and offers 174 major programs in 17 academic departments, nine professional schools, a division of Continuing Education and a Regional Development Institute.

The campus now includes 74 buildings on 411 acres and operates on a budget of more than $35 million.

Seventy-five per cent of the students who have attended East Carolina — founded in 1907 — have attended the school during the Jenkins years, while 85 per cent of all graduates have received diplomas during his tenure.

But those figures don't tell the Jenkins story.

Even before his inauguration as president — while still dean of the school — Jenkins made speeches depicting Eastern North Carolina as a, "sleeping giant...one of the last places that typify the good America," and as a neglected area.

The day he was installed as president in 1960, he said, "I pledge...that I will do my best to maintain and to extend the responsibility which East Carolina College has to contribute to the enrichment and well-being of our state."

He also declared that East Carolina has, "an obligation beyond this campus..." and, "must grow in size with the growing demands. Any attempts to curtail the obligations of this college may be a disservice to the people of the state."

Jenkins concluded his address by saying, "If the citizens of North Carolina will define any new duties that they wish East Carolina College to fulfill and if they will support the college with money, confidence, and, most important, faith, this great college will assume them and justify this faith and support."

After he became president, people began referring to Jenkins as, "Leo the dynamo," and his speeches and personal conversations suggested the idea, "We must project Eastern North Carolina as an area."

He began talking of an unceasing string of specific ideas he considered valid bases for steps toward a brighter future for Eastern Tar Heels.

Jenkins talked of a Summer Theater to enhance the cultural opportunities in the East. In 1964 the theater opened, providing high-quality productions the people in the East could afford to attend.

That same year, during an interview with "The Daily Reflector," Jenkins commented on the East, and how the college might help in its growth and development.

"Competition among our communities is a good thing, but when competition restricts the development of our area as a whole," he said, "it is not wise. Try to present as many cities in Eastern North Carolina as possible," he suggested, so if a prospect does not like one area, it may locate in another.

Admitting that, "it is not reasonable to expect one city to be an active booster of another city," Jenkins suggested, "a need for a neutral facility or agent who has an interest in all of the communities. Such a facility — a regional institute building — would have readily available ... a complete inventory of the area as a whole and of each particular community in it."

In December of that year, Tom Willis was hired to direct the East Carolina University Regional Development Institute.

Eight years later, the director of the U. S. Commerce Department's Economic Development Administration's southeastern regional office would say, "Unquestionably yours is the finest university effort to assist the local economy in the Southeastern United States."

In 1975, Hal Williams, now Deputy Secretary for Economic Development, U.S. Department of Commerce — the nation's number one development man — said, "The institute has provided a remarkably comprehensive array of community development services...and it has a national reputation for the quality and range of its pro-

A HAIR-RAISING QUESTION

Recently the question came up why Pitt Tech did not offer a barbering school for our young men as it does for our ladies. Due to the growth of our city, we feel this service should be offered. We also would like information as to where the nearest Barbering School is located for our boys. Thanks, B. P.

Hotline talked with George S. McRorie, dean of students at Pitt Tech. He said that Pitt Tech tried eight years ago to start a barber school. The school plans were approved by the State Board of Education. However, the state licensing commission for barbers requested that the instructor had to have a master's degree plus nine years of experience in barbering. Pitt Tech, through the Employment Security Commission, searched nationwide for such an individual. Unable to find one, Pitt Tech has abandoned the idea until the restriction is lifted by the licensing commission, whenever that may be. McRorie stated that there are two barber schools in the state. These two schools are located in Charlotte and Durham.

$8.63 Million City Budget Is Approved

70-Cent Tax Rate

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville City Council this morning approved the 1978-1979 city budget, which totals $8.63 million, and a 70-cents per $100 valuation tax-rate — an increase of six cents over the present $64 cents per $100 valuation rate.

The council also approved the 1978-1978 Greenville Utilities Commission budget of $34.38 million, and the Community Development program budget which totals $1.55 million.

Mayor Percy Cox told other council members, "we have cut the budget to the bare minimum," describing it as a continuation budget, with no new programs included

As approved, according to Cox, the budget represents an increase in spending of about 9.6 per cent over the current year's budget.

City manager C. A. Holliday noted the list of expenditures for 1978-1979 is, "a just budget," with, "no department discriminated against," although the various departments didn't get all they wanted.

Only one additional employee is included, a supervisor for the Parks and Recreation Department, although three Police Department programs formerly funded with federal grant funds — crime prevention, the police legal advisor, and a juvenile officer position — are included for full city funding.

Also included in the budget are funds for a 5 per cent cost of living pay hike for all employees, as well as a 5 per cent merit pay increase for about half the city personnel.

Some $6.62 million of the $8.63 million budget is for General Fund items, while $495,000 is for debt service and $761,000 is for public transportation.

The parking authority will receive $50,300 while $702,300 is included in revenue sharing funds.

Under the general fund, the Police Department's uniform patrol division will receive $879,700, while the detective and narcotics division will get $192,600. The records and identification division is allocated $57,000.

The Fire Department will receive $760,100 for its combat division, while the rescue division will get $157,300.

The Planning Department budget totals $67,000, while $87,200 is included for the Engineering Department, $134,300 for inspections and animal control, $378,200 for the Public Works Department, and $590,500 for Recreation and Parks.

It was noted at the council session that no funds were appropriated for the Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop in the 1978-1979 budget. Cox pointed out that if the council wanted to include funds to help the workshop match a federal grant for a recreation and housing facility, taxes would have to be raised.

Under the Community Development program budget, $520,000 is included for land acquisition, $345,000 for public improvements (14th Street from Charles Street to railroad, tennis courts at Guy Smith and Evans parks, and Southside Project water and sewer improvements), and $423,000 for West Meadowbrook and South Evans relocation.

Under the Utilities Commission budget, the Electric Department will receive $1.23 million, Water $1.23 million, Sewer $1.05 million, and Gas $2.33 million for general operations, while $1.45 million is included for capital projects in the Electric, Water and Sewer Depart-

Living Is Costlier As Inflation Rise Keeps Momentum

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation continued at a rapid pace in May as the cost of food, housing and transportation drove consumer prices up 0.9 percent, the Labor Department said today.

The increase matched the 0.9 percent rise in April, which had been the largest jump in more than a year. In the past three months, consumer prices have gone up at a rate that would average 11.3 percent if spread out over the entire year.

Food and beverages rose 1.5 percent in May, after climbing 1.8 percent in April and about 1.2 percent in each the three previous months.

In a companion report, the Labor Department said the average worker's purchasing power declined 1.3 percent in May, the first drop since January. Employees increased their hourly earnings by 0.4 percent, but that was less than half of the 0.9 percent increase in prices.

More than one-third of the May food increase was attributed to a 6.3 percent rise in the price of fresh fruits and a 7.5 percent jump in the cost of fresh vegetables. Beef prices, which have moved up steadily since last August, increased 2.5 percent, well below the 6.6 percent gain in April.

Consumers spent 1 percent more in May on housing costs, about the same increase as in the previous two months. Charges for electricity rose 1.9 percent and natural-gas costs were up 1.5 percent.

The combined costs of homeowner taxes, financing and insurance rose 1.8 percent, slightly more than in previous months. The average tenant paid 0.7 percent more in rent.

Transportation costs climbed 0.7 percent after going up only 0.2 percent in each of the two previous months.

The Labor Department said the price of new automobiles went up 1.2 percent, the biggest rise this year. Many dealers increased their prices as the decline of the dollar made imported vehicles more expensive.

The cost of clothing rose 0.6 percent, a smaller increase than the 1 percent gains in March and April.

Medical care costs went up 0.6 percent in May, comparable to increases in other months. Entertainment costs rose 0.2 percent, an improvement over the 0.6 percent rise in April.

The back-to-back 0.9 percent increases were the largest since a 1 percent increase in February 1977 during severe winter weather. The inflation rate improved quickly later in 1977 but has continued at a high level into the summer this year.

In the past three months, food prices have gone up at an annual rate of 19.8 percent, while housing costs have climbed by 12 percent and transportation expenses have climbed by 4 percent.

Sales Begin On August 1

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The cold weather in early spring, which delayed tobacco planting, played a major role in decisions Thursday about the recommendations for opening dates for the flue-cured tobacco markets in the Southeast.

Georgia and Florida flue-cured tobacco markets will have a jump of nearly two weeks on the rest of the Southeast because of a federal advisory committee's action.

The Flue-Cured Tobacco Advisory Committee approved a motion to open the markets in Georgia and Florida, July 19. The committee set the opening for South Carolina and eastern North Carolina for Aug. 1.

But after a lengthy debate, the committee delayed a decision on opening the markets in Piedmont North Carolina and Virginia, until July 21.

After delays by the cold weather, which put farmers in most areas about two weeks behind schedule, the recent hot weather has helped most planters make up a week, the committee was told.

The opening date in each area is important to tobacco growers and warehousemen elsewhere, since it affects the allocation of buyers by tobacco companies.

"Every one of us is going to be affected by what the other belts do," one committee member said. We don't have to like that, but we have to live with it."

Warehousemen rejected an initial motion to open the Border Belt straddling the two Carolinas July 26 because they said the tobacco would not be ready for auction that soon.

After setting a date for eastern North Carolina, the committee delayed its decision for a recommendation on markets in the Piedmont and Virginia due to a dispute over when the tobacco will be ready in those areas.

A final decision on opening of all markets must be made by U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob S. Bergland. He is expected to accept the recommendations made by the committee.

Winterville Board OKs New $1,049,215 Budget

WINTERVILLE — The Board of Aldermen gave final approval to a budget of $1,049,215, the highest ever in Winterville history, at a special meeting last night.

The 70 cents tax rate, which has been the same for the past four years, was adopted.

The biggest item in the budget was a $490,000 payment to the Greenville Utilities Commission for electrical current purchases. A figure of $52,000 was estimated for sewer services from the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewer District.

The major change in the budget was a doubled rate in sewer service cost for those outside the city sewer system.

The general fund budget included a debt service sum of $31,335.

Other items were $580,000 for electrical services, $64,800 in water services and $75,500 in sewer costs.

Forty thousand dollars was allotted in the general budget for a proposed maintenance building.

In other business, the board established a new deposit schedule. When a new Winterville resident moves into his own home or trailer, he will no longer have to pay a deposit for utilities.

If the resident is renting a home, he must have established a good credit reference to be exempt from paying the deposit of $75.

Those who haven't or can't establish good credit must pay the deposit. If good credit is maintained for a twelve-month period with the utility department, the deposit will be refunded.

The regular town board hearing has been scheduled for Monday at 7 p.m. The town office will be closed Tuesday in observance of July Fourth.

'Too Early' For Conclusions

By LYNN CAVERLY
Reflector Staff Writer

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, retiring chancellor of East Carolina University, said that it is in the best interest of the university to avoid making a hasty comment on the Supreme Court ruling regarding the controversial Bakke case of California.

"I was with Dr. Friday (President of the UNC system)," said Jenkins, "and we were unable to get any copies of the decision. I feel it would be a mistake to make a comment based only on what I read in the newspaper."

The Bakke case was concerned with the usage of strict quotas in programs designed to aid minorities. The ruling in favor of Allan P. Bakke, a white man who had claimed he was denied admission to the University of California at Davis medical school in favor of less-qualified minority applicants, has been one of the most critical decisions in recent years concerning affirmative action policies.

Commenting on the many programs and services aimed at enhancing the involvement of minority students at ECU, Jenkins stated that university officials would have to read the decision fully and consult with attorneys before any statemment could be made as to how this decision would affect, if any, existing policies in the UNC system and at ECU in particular.

Dean William Laupus of the ECU School of Medicine, commented that he did not see any problems as a result of this decision.

"To my knowledge, we have never had a quota system here in our school of medicine," said Laupus.

"The Bakke case has been around a while and for this reason we purposefully avoided them in instituting our programs. There is a definite need of minority physicians in this area, as well as throughout the country, and this problem needs to be addressed.

Laupus noted that through the Center for Student Opportunities, there exist programs that assist academically qualified minority and disadvantaged students in pursuing health-related careers as doctors, nurses, therapists and others.

One such program is being conducted this summer through a Health Opportunities Grant awarded by HEW. This grant covers tuition and books for students enrolled in the program.

"We feel this is an interesting approach to the problems of being disadvantaged," said Laupus.

Landfill Closing

The Pitt County landfill on the Allen Road will close at 4 p.m. today and the county will begin operating the Greenville city landfill site Saturday.

The city landfill will be open Saturday from 7 a.m. until 12 noon. Monday through Friday, the landfill will open at 7 a.m. and close at 4 p.m.

Effective tomorrow, there will be no fee charged at the landfill to users.

The Greenville landfill site is located behind Greenwood Cemetery off East Fifth Street.

The county is taking over the operations of the Greenville city site and closing the Allen Road facility as part of the county's Solid Waste Disposal program which will include the installation of 40-cubic yard containers at sites throughout the county to provide residents outside municipalities a convenient place to dispose of their solid waste.

High Price For 2 Strawberries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jacqueline Datcher says she never ate the two strawberries, but she still must face sentencing on a petty shoplifting charge that may cost her more than $300 in legal fees and possible fines.

Ms. Datcher was convicted this week of petty shoplifting because a jury said she ate two strawberries at a suburban Washington market.

"I was shocked. I thought it was crazy," she said, recalling her arrest in February. At the time strawberries were 59 cents a pint. So far, she says, she has paid $300 in legal fees and has yet to be sentenced.

Jenkins Era...

Williams added, "It has undoubtedly had a profound effect on regional development."

Another idea voiced by Jenkins in that 1964 interview was, "the desirability of offering at least the first two years of medicine for people who are interested in general practice in rural North Carolina'"

East Carolina had started its School of Nursing in 1960, and Jenkins said, "now that the East has its own program in nursing, and the various medical specialities are present here, it seems to be logical to give serious study toward interesting some of our Eastern students in medical careers here." A medical school program, he suggested, "would create much greater interest in the study of medicine than exists at the present time."

And Jenkins talked of East Carolina becoming a university.

These things became reality.

East Carolina gained university status in 1967.

Jenkins said earlier this week that he rated that event, "near the top," in the memorable events during his years at the school.

However, he emphasized, "It was something that wasn't a great gift. It was something we deserved. Every measure used showed that we were a university."

Then, following a series of legislative battles, the first medical students at ECU began a one-year program in 1972. More General Assembly battles resulted in the first four-year School of Medicine students beginning their studies in 1977.

"It's been a great team effort," Jenkins said.

"Almost every single achievement resulted because we chose the right people...gave them a boost, then let them alone. We didn't supervise them constantly."

Jenkins noted that, "the rural community sort of embraced us," and the people of Greenville have supported the university, "very faithfully," never turning their backs, "on any of our real needs."

In the past few weeks, editorial writers and reporters across the state have said many things about Jenkins in articles about his retirement.

One called him a man, "impatient to get things done," while another termed him, "a spokesman for a region." A third said Jenkins, "helped to direct a tide, rather than fashion one single-handedly. People in the East felt neglected. He voiced their frustrations. He infused enthusiasm and a spirit of 'can do' in some unlikely places."

"He raised peoples' consciousness about Eastern North Carolina," another wrote.

"We gave our people a sense of pride," Jenkins himself said.

And "The Charlotte Observer", one of Jenkins' most avid opponents over the years last month said, "Jenkins evokes strong reactions from his detractors, who include some of North Carolina's most prominent and influential people. But for every person who tells him where to go, there are one or more who would be willing to go with him — their admiration is that strong."

Jenkins, commenting on the unfriendly press during the fight for university status and for the medical school, said such "punksterism... helped our cause. It drove us into the role as under-dog. The people supported us because of that."

Sitting in an almost bare office, five days before his retirement, Jenkins said, "there are always things we should have pushed harder...women's athletic programs. And we should should do more for our senior citizens than we've done in the past."

Many want a second career or want to "enhance their lives. We've dragged our feet on that. People will insist on it," in the future, he noted.

"I predict that within 10 years, there will be as many senior citizens as the typical young-adult," on the campus.

"I plead guilty to emphasizing athletics," Jenkins said.

"It's the American ideal...trying to win...trying to excel. The whole thing ties together — a strong mind, a strong back.

"We have 5,500 students participating in athletics here. I'm very proud of our program."

What has meant most to him over the years?

"Seeing an area blossom, beginning with Kerr Scott's roads...the medical program...this institution.

"The young people...they've been nice over the years," according to Jenkins. Mentioning the troubled years of the 1960's when protests and riots were common, he said, "they taught us that isn't the way things are done," adding, however, that, "debate, protest and argument are all part of the American way of life.

"It was good for higher education. It brought us (students and administration) closer together...broke down the rigidness that historically existed on many campuses."

Retirement for Jenkins is a concession to age. He was 65 in May, the mandatory retirement age.

"In every society there is a time when people ought to move on," he said, "let new, fresh ideas come in. I'm in favor of it. It's healthy for a person."

But even in retirement, Jenkins will be working.

"I'm looking forward to working with Gov. Hunt," he said. "It will be a new ball game," being an economic development advisor.

"I'll be responsible just to him...over nobody, looking for answers where-in North Carolina can be helped."

But Jenkins is still partial to the East.

"This is where the action is going to happen," he said, calling the East, "an oasis," with, "pure water, clean air, hunting and fishing...the area of the future."

He will move to his home in Carteret County tomorrow, and have an office and secretary at Carteret Technical Institute.

His successor, Thomas Brewer will arrive in Greenville, Sunday.

"It's better to have just one chancellor in a town at a time," Jenkins said.

Medals For Marksmen

Gov. Hunt recently awarded two Greenville youths with ribboned medallions for their first-place participation in the Governor's Trophy Match in marksmanship held early last month.

Charles Littleton, 17, of 107 Wilkshire Dr. and Duncan Whitehead, 16, of 1906 E. Fifth St. comprised the junior complement of a four-man team which rifled the highest scores in competition at the Military Center of North Carolina in Raleigh.

In the contest, which attracted shooters from the across the state, teams consisted of two National Guard members and two junior members. The senior half of the winning team included Sgt. 1st Class James H. Parham and Sgt. William M. Sykes, both representing the 696th Maintenance unit in Kinston.

The program is designed to interest young people in the marksmanship program of the National Guard and is sanctioned by the director of Civilian Marksmanship and the National Rifle Association. Membership is open to all members of the community.

Littleton and Whitehead both received their experience in marksmanship with the Cardinal Rod and Gun Club here.

SENIOR CITIZENS CHOIR ANNIVERSARY

The Popular Hill Senior Citizen Choir will observe its second anniversary Sunday, beginning at 5 p.m. Several spiritual singing groups and choirs have been invited.

Mrs. Mary Bell Forbes is president of the group. Anninias Smith serves as volunteer director and pianist. The public is invited to attend.

Seek A Lower Speed Limit

BRINNON, Wash. (AP) — The residents of this rural Washington town are ready to go to "war" with the state in order to get the speed limit within their city limits lowered.

They want the 55 mph speed limit on the mile-and-a-half of Highway 101 going through town cut to 35 mph.

Some 26 residents, including 13 businesses, have signed a formal declaration of war and prepared a formal surrender document in a secession move to take effect Saturday.

The documents were sent to Gov. Dixy Lee Ray and legislators representing the Brinnon area.

"After July 1, 1978, any vehicles or agents belonging to the state of Washington that are found on the sovereign soil of Brinnon will be treated according to the rules of the Geneva Convention as either aggressors or agents of espionage," says the war declaration.

There have been no deaths on this stretch of the scenic highway so far, the residents say. But they say accidents are plentiful. Things get particularly perilous during extreme low tides when oyster pickers and clam diggers crowd the beach at nearby Dosewallips State Park.

So far there are no battle plans in the secessionist war.

"We haven't gotten together to decide what we'll do, but we've got to do something," said Mel Herod, one of the organizers. "You can't declare war and then ignore it."

"I think it's funny," said Anna Peterson, assistant press secretary to Ms. Ray. But she promised to look into the matter.

"I kind of look at it in a non-serious vein," agreed Dale Myers, owner of the Brinnon General Store. But the rebels plan to fly their flag — a white volcano erupting against a black field — from Myers' store.

Vance, Gromyko Meeting In July

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will meet next month to try to break the deadlock in arms limitation talks between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The meeting to be held July 12-13 could be pivotal in the SALT talks with hopes, according to American sources, that a treaty could be agreed upon before the end of the year.

The strategic arms limitation talks have bogged down in recent months as have U.S.-Soviet relations.

Prime Target Of Unscrupulous

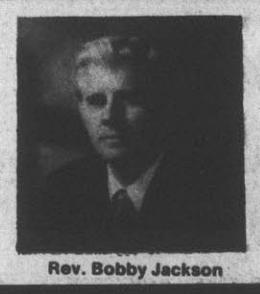

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women between the ages of 65 and 95, living alone, are the prime targets of unscrupulous insurance agents, a postal inspector says.

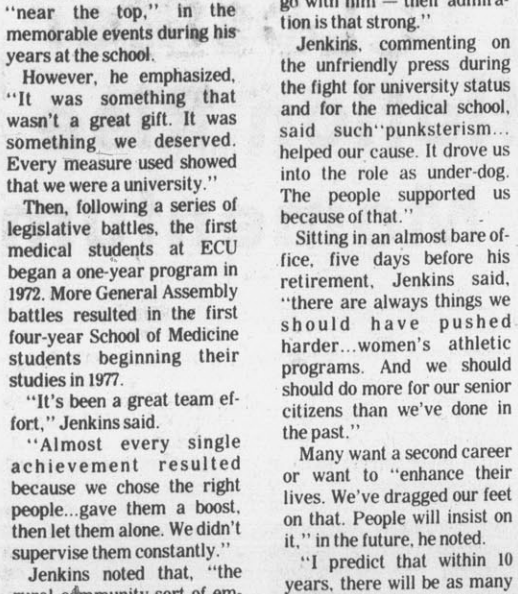

Curtis L. Woodard, a U.S. postal inspecctor in Houstn, Texas, told a Senate committee Thursday that such insurance agents often put together a "goose list" of persons that may be susceptible to fraudulent sales pitches. And he says elderly women are a prime target.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Listen to what an adviser has to say but check facts and figures accurately. Duties should be handled during the day and then you can make the evening romantic, charming.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to pacify an angry friend, then get busy with your own affairs. Go to an adviser for suggestions with regard to some important project you have in mind.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy on a civic duty you have to perform. You need to handle an important debt early also before you handle personal matters.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't follow through on those impractical ideas you have. Forget about going off on tangents and keep rooted to important matters.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Pay bills early even if you have to cut down on pleasure. Don't argue with loved ones and everything goes smoothly. Make necessary calls.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Postpone serious talks with partners which could result in arguments. A situation arises that does not please you, but you can handle it easily, intelligently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Although work may be slow, if you keep at it you are soon back in stride. Don't argue with others. Keep your eyes open for some new associates who can make life easier.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't make those expensive arrangements for pleasure early or you will later regret it. Enjoy the inexpensive in the evening. Plan time to come to a better understanding with loved one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) The situation at home is not as you wish, so busy yourself with outside affairs and make real progress. Relieve family tension so that all becomes more pleasant.

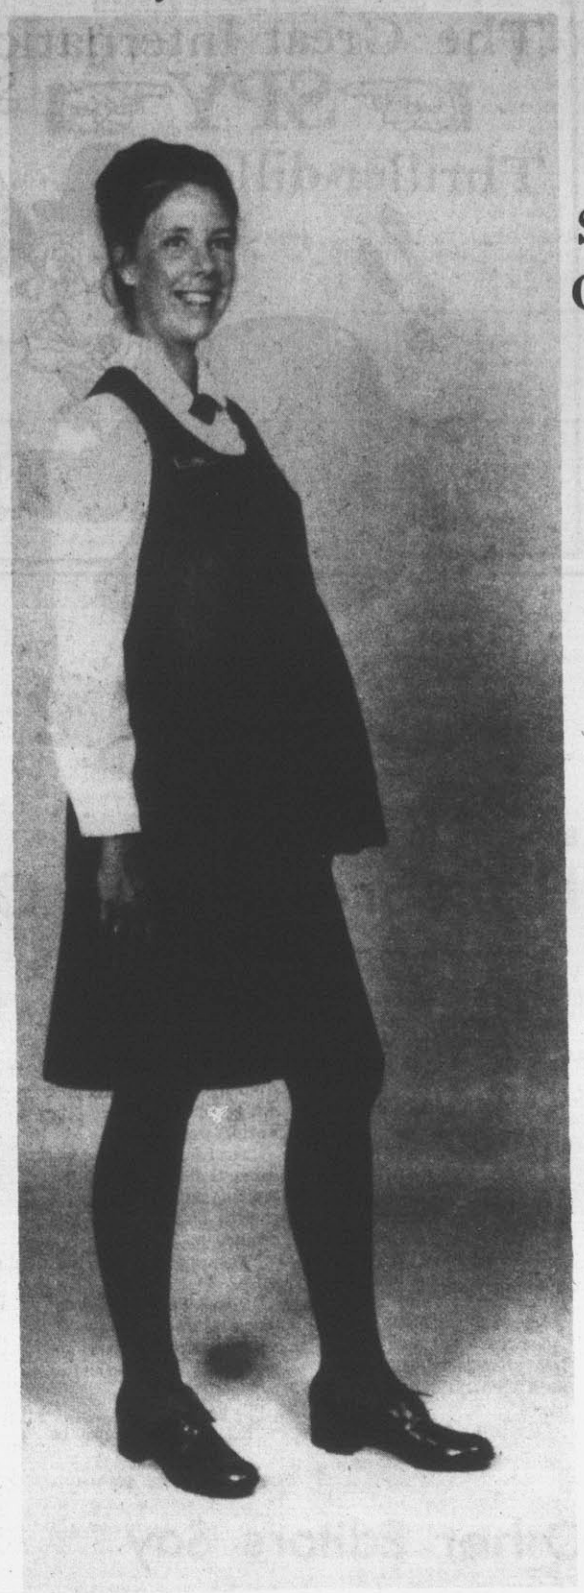

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to use care in motion today or you could suffer a serious accident. Put in economy measures so that you can enjoy greater security in the future. Be cheerful.

Handicapped Have Dental Needs, Too

By CHUCK BABINGTON
UNC-CH News Bureau

Because Mike has cerebral palsy, his health is watched closely. But he also has a child's typical dental needs that often are overlooked.

Mike's dental problems are much more likely to go untreated than are those of his non-handicapped brother or sister, said Dr. Thomas McIver of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

There are three main reasons why the dental health of Mike and other children with cerebral palsy, mental retardation, autism or seizure disorders is overlooked, says McIver, associate professor of pedodontics at the UNC-CH School of Dentistry and the Division for Disorders of Development and Learning.

For one thing, their families tend to focus on the handicaps themselves to the exclusion of some other health needs.

Second, many parents of handicapped children fail to realize that their child probably can receive treatment in a dentist's office with reasonable comfort and success.

And third, handicaps are expensive. Some families don't have enough money left over to pay for proper dental care.

"Too often," McIver says, "the combination of these factors results in the accumulation of painful, costly dental problems that present difficulties for the child, parent and dentist."

But costly dental problems need not occur if teeth are cleaned regularly and dental care begins early, he says. "Dental disease is almost entirely preventable. Handicapped children's preventive care needs seldom differ from those of other children—their teeth should be brushed and flossed at least once a day."

Although handicapped persons' dental needs generally are the same as those of the non-handicapped, some impairments present particular problems.

Children unable to drink from a cup, for example, are particularly susceptible to "nursing decay." If a child is allowed to sleep with a bottled filled with anything but water, the prolonged contact of sugar with his teeth may cause serious gum and tooth damage. Even milk has enough sugar to do harm.

Drugs administered for certain handicaps also may cause special dental problems, Dilantin, often prescribed for seizure disorders, may cause gums to grow abnormally. "To help prevent this unfortunate problem," McIver says, "the teeth of patients using Dilantin should be brushed and flossed thoroughly and frequently."

A handicapped child should be taught to care for himself as much as possible, he says. Until a child can properly clean his own teeth, however, his parents must learn to do this for him.

"Flossing is easier than most people think" McIver said. Many dentists, or their assistants, can show parents how to floss their child's teeth.

Having the child visit a dentist also may be easier than many parents think. Mike's cerebral palsy, for example, makes it impossible for him to hold his head still. His parents worry that the dentist will be unable to work without hurting him. McIver, however, says that many dentists, especially pedodontists, are trained and willing to work with such children.

Many parents of mentally retarded children feel their child will be unable to adjust to the strange sounds, lights and smells of a dentist office. McIver cautions them against underestimating their child's adatability. "If a child has a mental age of three years or more, he probably can learn to accept the dentist office environment and to cooperate with the dentist."

When a family seeks a dentist for their handicapped child, McIver suggests they first approach their own dentist. Although more and more dentists are receiving specific training for handicapped patients, some may be reluctant to work with severely impaired children. In that case, McIver says, the paretns could ask their dentist to refer them elsewhere, or they may contact their county health department for a recommendation.

Dear Abby

Sitting Among 'Babies' Offended New Teenager

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I and our four children (ages 7 to 13) were invited to a relative's home for supper recently. She had one large table set for the adults and another one for the children.

My daughter, age 13, came to me and said she wasn't going to sit with the "babies." (Two of her 12-year-old cousins were sitting at that table and they didn't complain.) I told her not to make a fuss and to go sit down and be quiet. Being a very headstrong child, she raised her voice a bit and said she would rather go home.

Well, I wasn't about to take her home, and I couldn't let her walk home alone at night, so in order to avoid a scene I told her to go get her chair and to sit by me, which she did.

I dislike scenes in public and I still think I did the right thing. My husband said I should have told the spoiled little stinker to either sit where she was put or to go into the bedroom and sulk. What is your opinion?

NAMELESS IN JERSEY

DEAR NAMELESS: With such a smart husband, why are you writing to Dear Abby?

DEAR ABBY: I am one of those who has accepted many invitations but never reciprocates. I, too, have talked of having a party, but it never materializes. Would you like to know why?

I'm frightened to death of having people in because when the conversation lags, I'm tongue-tied. I can never think of anything clever to say. I am not sure that what I cook will be good enough, and I'm not sure I'll serve it right.

In school I was the quiet type who earned the reputation of being "stuck up" because I was so shy. I know I should have people over, and I really want to, but I'm scared. How does one overcome such fears? I am almost 35.

INEPT IN INGLEWOOD

DEAR INEPT: Many people don't entertain because they're afraid they won't do it to perfection. Nonsense! Perfection isn't expected of anyone. There are any number of good cookbooks with suggested menus and full instructions on serving.

And get over the idea that everyone in the room is waiting for pearls of wisdom to drop from your mouth. Say anything. If it's audible, kind and honest, you'll get by. The longest march in the world started with one step. Forward—march!

DEAR ABBY: I need your opinion on something. My mother tells me it is not right for a girl to go to her boyfriend's apartment when there are just the two of them there alone. She says it will ruin the girl's reputation for good, even if nothing happens.

Mom says that even nice girls can get into trouble by going to their boyfriends' apartments—that being together all alone too much is just tempting fate and pressing your luck.

Miss Abby, I've been brought up to obey my parents, but lately I'm confused. My friends at college say "everybody does it," and they laugh at me for my old-fashioned ideas. Can you help me?

LISTENS TO MOM AT 18

DEAR LISTENS: I don't know who's luckier, you or your mother. You, to have a mother who cares enough to warn you against the seemingly harmless temptations to which so many girls yield. Or your mother, who has a sensible 18-year-old daughter who still listens. Keep listening. You'll never regret it.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters For All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

In Cinderella Competition

CHARLOTTE — Debbie and Karie Seykora of Greenville were delegates at large to the N. C. State Cinderella Girl Pageant held on the UNC-C campus here last week.

Debbie competed in the Miniature Miss (seven-nine) Division in sportswear, party dress and talent.

Karie competed in the Miss (10-12) Division in talent, sportswear and party dress. She won a trophy for overall talent.

The girls are the daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Edward Seykora of Greenville.

Shower Held

A bridal shower was given Saturday night in honor of Barbara Stox, bride-to-be of Bruce Wade.

The shower was given by Shirley Daughtridge and Janice Tripp, cousin of the bride. The refreshment table was decorated with a white lace cloth and centered with white carnations, mums and baby's breath. Cake squares were decorated with yellow and white gold wedding bands.

The gift table was decorated with a hurricane lamp containing a bride and bridegroom and pink flowers with white doves. The honoree was presented a white corsage.

Closing The Leo Jenkins Era

Today marks the close of the Leo Jenkins era at East Carolina University.

The chancellor, whose efforts will be felt far into the future, steps down this weekend, to be succeeded by Thomas B. Brewer on Monday.

Leo Jenkins was the center of controversy almost from the day he took office as president of ECU, succeeding John D. Messick, in 1960.

It soon became evident that the New Jersey native had a deep committment to North Carolina and Eastern North Carolina in particular.

All his energies in those intervening years have been devoted to development of a pride among Eastern North Carolinians, and indeed, Tar Heels in general.

He completely reorganized ECU to serve the needs and expand the horizons of the East. The results included strong programs in the arts, a major sports program and multiple programs involved in health care.

Jenkins faced strong opposition to much of this as these programs developed. In his final year, however, the opposition has mellowed. As he neared the end of his time as chancellor, his accomplishments have been recognized by most of the media of our state.

What Jenkins has done for North Carolina is well known, but those of us in Greenville, Pitt and adjoining counties should never forget the impact he has had on our own particular area.

Jenkins, as involved as he was in developing a major institution of higher learning, was never too busy to participate in local affairs. And, of course, in developing programs involving the arts, entertainment and sports here, he made them available to we who live in close proximity to the ECU campus.

All of us in this area are living better, more complete lives because of what Jenkins did here in the community.

We hope that Leo Jenkins won't ever get too far away from our area. Even though he will no longer be connected with ECU, we think that we will see him continuing to be of service to Eastern North Carolina.

Helpful Area Programs Given Support

Weyerhaeuser, Co. has established a fund in honor of Leo Jenkins, retiring chancellor, to improve the ECU Medical School.

Keith L. Lamb, vice president of the N. C. region of Weyerhaeuser announced a $110,000 grant to the Medical Foundation to institute the "Leo W. Jenkins Start-Up Fund". The money will be used for recruitment of full-time clinical faculty for the Medical School.

The Weyerhaeuser grant is most welcomed by the ECU Medical School. It is another example of how Eastern North Carolina industries are supporting programs which are helpful to our people.

THIS AFTERNOON

Fears Economic Conflict

By Bill Noblitt

RALEIGH—The South, once pushed down as a region and on the brink of making a comeback, is about to be done in again. This time there is more political heat than light of clarity in the assault, a Tar Heel state senator thinks.

"If we are moving toward regional economic conflict, no one can truly be the victor," say Willis P. Whichard, D-Durham, of the currently popular attack on the South because of the economic growth taking place.

It has been the practice for some to "describe the nation's geographic regions as operating like a huge seesaw, with the economic fortunes of one area rising only at the fall of those of another."

Federal Role

"The fulcrum of the seesaw, according to this tide theory, is the nation's Capital; and the Federal government is accused of making decisions that add weight to one or the other end of the balance," Whichard is saying.

Given the economic and population growth now taking place in the Sun Belt region, some northern and midwestern leaders are suggesting that federal dollars should be pumped into those "declining" areas—at the penalty of Sun Belt residents who would necessarily see a reversal of aid.

"Any talk of the North and South having swapped place in terms of economic development...overlooks the facts," Whichard said. The Congress is currently mulling an increase in aid to cities which lag behind the rest of the nation in population growth..." as more citizens turn their backs on a city, more money is channeled in. The purpose, clearly is to prevent further decline.

"But what of the future? Where does it all end? When tumbleweed blows along the curbs on main street, presumably the allocation is then at its highest point," the senator noted.

The arguments are largely based on myth, Whichard believes. They are "rhetorical smoke" producing "national blindness at a time when we need exceptionally good vision to find our way out of recession and into economic stability and prosperity."

He argued that figures purporting to show that the South now gets more than its share of federal dollars are not accurate. They are based on salaries paid defense personnel stationed in the South—while lucrative defense contracts which provide high-skill, high-pay jobs go to more technologically advanced northern regions.

BILL NOBLITT

Population

Population growth in the South is not due entirely to people moving out of the North, he noted, but due to a traditionally higher birth rate coupled with a lower death rate.

"A second significant fact in this regard is that a growing part of our in-migration is made up of Black people...as clear a signal of increasing opportunity as can be conceived...who once has to leave the region to find economic opportunity."

There is confusion, also, on industrial growth as some depict a scene of "Sun Belt industry recruiters, moving stealthily and under cover of darkness, and quietly but in massive proportions stealing away industry from the North," Whichard said. Figures do not prove growth in the South at the expense of the North.

Another myth, he noted, is that when adjusted for cost-of-living differences, the "states once considered wealthy will be seen as poor, and the poor as wealthy.

"This view is apparently based on the idea that if you look behind a Southerner's house and find a turnip garden, that means the family is not affected by the rampaging consumer price index the way other people are."

Finally, Whichard dismissed the notion that "the South is receiving more than a fair share of Federal funds; and that these funds are financing the region's new surge of economic growth." When per capita federal spending is compared to per capita income levels, "it is clear that the South does not receive a disproportionate share," he said. The percentage of income paid in federal taxes is quite similar between North and South.

THE GALLUP POLL

'No' To Casino Gambling

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N..J. — Legalized casino gambling, similar to that now in full swing in Atlantic City, N.J., would not necessarily be welcome in other states.

By a 52-39 percent vote, a nationwide sample of adults opposes having casino gambling in their [illegible]. Strongest opposition comes from women, older people, and Southerners.

Despite these negative findings, American[s] evidence considerable interest in having either of the nation's two gambling Mecc[as] down casino Vegas, Nev., or Atlantic City.

As many as one American in four, 23 percent — a projected 36 million people — says he or she is interested in going to Las Vegas to gamble in a casino while 14 percent or a projected 21 million people are interested in visiting Atlantic City.

Furthermore, one American adult in three, 36 percent, has, at one point in his or her life, gone to a casino.

Opposition Reasoning

Additional survey results show why Americans, nationwide, own casino gambling in their own state:

*77 percent think organized crime would get involved in the operation of the casinos;

*58 percent think the overall crime rate would increase;

*53 percent think there would be increased incidences of family break-ups and divorces;

*50 percent feel there would be no real improvement in standard of living for state residents.

On the positive side however, 78 percent believe opening casinos would increase tourism in their state.

Differences

While a majority of Americans stand opposed to the opening of casinos in their own state, the overall findings reveal some interesting differences by demographic background.

For example, women are considerably more opposed to having casinos in their state (61 percent) than are men (43 percent). At the same time, however, equal percentages of men and women express an interest in visiting either Las Vegas or Atlantic City.

Similarly, older people (50 years of age and more) are more opposed to casinos — 62 percent — than those between 30 and 49 years old (46 percent) or less than 30 years old (49 percent).

Regionally, Southerners are most opposed to casinos. In the South, 61 percent say they would oppose the opening of casinos in their state. The comparable figure drops to 53 percent in the Midwest, 50 percent in the West and 46 percent in the East.

This question was asked first in the survey:

"As you may know, some states have legalized casino gambling. That is, there are

Strength For Today

FANATICS

The word "fanatic" has very unfavorable connotations today, and most people would go to great lengths to avoid having this label attached to them. Yet the word has a very respectable background. It comes from the Latin word meaning "temple". A fanatic in the original sense, therefore, is a person who has religious zeal — the zeal of the temple — in whatever he does.

Most of the great religious movements in history have been started and carried on by fanatics. The prophet Elijah was a fanatic, as was Amos, and Isaiah. The people of St. Paul's day probably regarded him as such. Even Jesus was considered by the members of his family and some of his friends to be temporarily unbalanced.

Unfortunately there are many fanatics for evil as well as for good, and they have done much harm to the world. But if we are fanatical for what is right, we can pride ourselves that we walk arm in arm with some of the most glorious figures of history.

Harvard's Class Of '78

WASHINGTON—Of all the graduation speakers who presided this year, none has had a more powerful effect than Alexander Solzhenitsyn, who spoke to the Harvard class of '78. His forceful message about the decline of the West sent most of the students into a depression.

I know this because I got a call the other day from a friend of mine. She asked me if I would talk to her son, who had been part of this year's graduating class and unfortunately had heard Solzhenitsyn's address.

Gerard was sitting on the front steps of the house drinking a beer and staring out into space.

"Gerard," I said, "you've got to pull yourself together."

"What's the use? Modern American society is doomed."

"How can you say that, Gerard? You just graduated from Harvard, the most elite school in the nation. The world is your oyster."

"You can say that, but you weren't at my graduation. We're suffering from a psychic disease of the 20th century."

"We are?" I said in surprise.

"Yes. We're cowards. We've all lost our courage."

"That's true, but you've got to rise above it," I told him.

"How?"

"By getting a job."

"If I get a job I'll only be contributing to the state of spiritual exhaustion that is part of the West's malaise."

"But if you do find a job you might get us out of the fix we're in. It cost your parents $50,000 to put you through school, not counting the Pinto they bought you that had to be recalled. Surely you owe them something."

ART BUCHWALD

"All I have to show for my education is TV stupor and a penchant for intolerable music. I have a licentious press and the fad media to blame for all my problems"

"Gerard, eyerything you say may be true, but you're still master of your own soul.

The Gravy Train

(Jacksonville Daily News)

As the taxpayer's revolution rolls across the United States, it will become more evident with each day that there has been a lot of official snookering going on.

In the days and weeks ahead, we predict that hundreds of groups interested in the preservation of the American way of life will spring up to perplex and bewilder that element of officialdom that, with no meaningful purpose for being, sucks at the lifeblood of this country.

They probably won't come with a long list of credentials and they might stumble and fumble as they look, but they will be strong in numbers and they will be pushed by determination and the knowledge that they are on the right track.

We aren't just talking about California, we cite a group in North Carolina call itself the Concerned Citizens for Justice. They had a feeling that there was something out of whack with our courts system, and they were determined to find out if it couldn't be made better. No experts, these, only housewives who has spent most of the time with baking soda, as one court official put it, and men and women who figure that the courts belong to the people and not to those who run it who are merely servants of those footing the bill.

The courtwatchers spent thousands of hours watching, and they reported on what they saw. By and large, they got little response from those in positions of authority. But the watchers know that they are on the right track, and they have indicated that they will not be satisfied until the system is better than it is.

A similar citizens' group operating in Washington might die a fast death of frustration. Finding out the true state of affairs in that forest has taken its toll on the lives of many good men and women.

There are enough figures on hand, however, to give one permanent perplexity. Did you know, for instance, that your hard-earned dollars are being used to pay nearly one in five federal employees $30,000 a year or more and that there are 32,000 bureaucrats who get more than $40,000 a year? A recent probe by the U.S. Civil Service Commission revealed that the government is overpaying 136,500 federal workers whose salaries are greater than the work they do justifies.

The commission says that these monumental overpayments are now costing you, the taxpayer, a mindboggling $280 million a year.

This is a gravy train that has been running long enough. It is fueled by the sweat of the brow of millions of workers, and it is time for it to come to a rapid halt.

All those who agree may get aboard at the next junction.

40 Years Ago Today

June 30, 1938

President Roosevelt, gazing into the future, predicted that history would say his "long-ranged budget" had been balanced.

This calculation, the President declared, would be based on "survival values for our population and for our democratic way of living, balanced against what we paid for them", in addition to the usual items of government income and outgo. Roosevelt was addressing the teachers of the National Educational Association.

About 300 tobacconists, heartened by excellent market prospects and good growing conditions, went into committee sessions today preparatory to formal meetings at the annual convention of the Tobacco Association of the United States, being held in White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia.

President E. J. O'Brien of Louisville, Kentucky, said the announcement of dates for tobacco markets would be announced tonight or Friday evening. The committee is scheduled for tonight.

Sacred Cows Gored

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, CONN. (AP) — To Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the bearded Russian exile who rarely ventures beyond the security fence of his Vermont dacha, goes the golden mortarboard for delivering this year's most memorable commencement address, a seasonal brand of oratory usually characterized by more pomp than circumstance.

Editorial writers, columnists and broadcast pundits are still gnashing their metaphors over the megaton blast the Nobel laureate delivered against Western morals, materialism, mass living habits, "TV stupor and intolerable music" on the sanctified ground of Harvard Yard, the mother house of U.S. culture.

Somewhere along the way, as the 18,000 assembled dons, parents, graduates and guests sat in awed silence in the fallout of his fury and through intermittent showers, the 59-year-old novelist also gored the sacred cow of a free press, which is one sure way of reserving space for yourself on both the ed and op-ed pages.

The right to know everything "is a false slogan, characteristic of a false era," maintained the man who risked his life to let the world know in detail the horrors of the Soviet slave labor camps in his three-volume "Gulag Archipelago."

Numbers Not All They Appear

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Numbers aren't always what they seem, especially when dealing with record-high automobile sales figures.

General Motors reported record May automobile sales. So did Ford. Though not achieving an alltime May high, Chrysler showed a year-to-year increase of 3.6 percent.

It was the best May ever for U.S. automakers. Sales rose 11.1 percent over the same month in 1977. Some 962,985 cars were sold by domestic manufacturers, 129,592 more than in May a year ago.

Soon after these figures were reported, the Commerce Department stated that May retail sales were off slightly, mainly, it said, because of a decline in automobile sales. How's that again? What's up is down?

Precisely. Those May auto sales were indeed huge, compared with sales for May 1977.

But, partly because of seasonal adjusting, they were said to be down slightly, very slightly, from April's figures.

Seasonally adjusted figures are processed, or as statisticians sometimes say, "corrected" by the elimination of strictly seasonal or temporary factors.

What the statisticians try to uncover is the demand for cars based n the desire for cars, rather than the suitability of the weather or that an income tax refund might have put money into consumer pockets.

Car sales, for example, are expected to rise in May; it's a seasonal phenomenon, and increases are adjusted downward. April usually isn't so strong a month, and a different seasonal factor is used in adjusting.

However, this year's pattern was upset by the severe winter, which caused purchases to be delayed until April, swelling that month's raw and adjusted figures, and making a strong May seem weak by comparison.

—It is sometimes argued that Americans are as frugal and saving as they ever were, and figures are used to underscore the theme.

For example, individual savings are said to have risen steadily from $35 billion in 1960 to $158 billion in 1977, without regard to the fact that the dollar's buying power ws cut in half during that time.

But John Wright of Wright Investors' Service, a securities advisory and portfolio management firm, suggests that a major change has occurred that isn't clearly revealed by those numbers.

He observes that the the increase was "forced" rather than voluntary. Exclude pension and insurance plans, he says, and we find that consumers in 1977 spent $3.1 billion more than they earned.

Car Rentals Spoiled A Plan For Economizing

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Last February, S. David Freeman stood up to Tennessee Valley Authority Chairman Aubrey Wagner who favored the purchase of 185 new compact cars for the agency's motor pool.

President Carter's former energy adviser, who won that fight, called the decision a symbol of cost cutting and energy conservation.

But figures released by TVA accountants this week show Freeman's victory may cost the agency $180,000 to $200,000 in extra travel expenses in 1978.

The figures show TVA has more than doubled its use of rental cars, many of them intermediate sized cars such as large Oldsmobiles, because the government-owned utility's own fleet cannot handle its travel needs.

Jack Rozek, head of TVA's property division, said Thursday the agency had counted on the new cars for the spring and summer periods of heavy travel by TVA employees.

TVA figures show the older models to have been sold at the government-recommended 60,000 miles are costing from 2½ cents to 9 cents per mile more to operate than the proposed new Ford Fairmonts.

The accountants' figures show TVA leased 345 cars in May 1977, logging 69,471 miles at a cost of $23,383. The same month this year, TVA leased 773 cars for 161,300 miles at a cost of $49,380.

Freeman, the new TVA chairman and only person now serving on its three-member board, defended Thursday his decision not to approve the purchase of the 185 Fairmonts at a cost of $675,000.

"No," he said when asked if he regrets not buying the cars.

"They represent an insensitivity to the fact that the problem is we're importing more and more oil in this country."

Freeman, who drives a 1973 Opel with about 75,000 miles on it, said the older TVA cars dating back to 1973 models would still be on the highway and consuming just as much fuel if they were in the hands of other owners.

"The nation may be asleep at the switch but TVA is not," he said. "The way to reduce travel costs is not to buy new cars; it's to quit traveling so much."

Freeman announced he has ordered all TVA divisions to reduce their travel by 10 percent between now and October. A 25 percent cutback in the agency's largest division, power, was ordered earlier in June.

None of the officials who publicly challenged Freeman's arguments in February now work for TVA. William Jenkins, a Republican appointee to the TVA board, resigned last month, saying he felt frustrated over the weak voice he had. Wagner resigned two weeks later after 40 years with the agency.

R. Lynn Seeber, TVA's former chief executive officer who showed his first public frustration with Freeman's views over the proposed car purchase, took early retirement in March.

TALKING NAVAL BASE

BRIDGTOWN, Barbados (AP) — Barbados and the United States resume negotiations July 26 on the future of the U.S. Naval base on the northern tip of the island. The lease on the base expires in December.

Buchwald...

If the Harvard class of '78 drops out, who will our leaders be 20 years from now? Who will take over the Mobil Oil Corp., or AT. T, or the Ford Foundation? Where will we get our Cabinet officers or our economists from? Are you going to leave it to the Yale class of '78 to solve the problems that the West must face?"

"It's no use, Uncle Arthur," he said, sipping his beer. "We have put our freedom first, before our responsibility. We're sick because we've lost our national will. We don't know who we are."

"Right," I said. "So it's up to you to tell us who we are. This country listens to people who went to Harvard. It's not like Princeton or Stanford where they don't know what they're talking about. You owe it to us to pass on what you have learned at Harvard so that our civilization can be saved."

"It's not that simple," Gerard said. "You're asking me to join a free society where everyone marches to a different drummer. I prefer to sit on this stoop and not be part of the rabble that has as its goal moral mediocrity."

"That's your privilege in a free country, Gerard. But sitting on this stoop is not going to get us out of our spiritual dilemma.

"The only thing to do is to raise our sights and search our hearts and overcome our readiness to accept material well-being. I can't do it, Gerard, because I went to the University of Southern California. But you can, because you were educated in Cambridge."

Just then Gerard's father drove up. He got out of his car and stomped up. He said angrily to his son, "Are you still sitting on this stoop?"

Gerard didn't say anything.

His father grabbed him by the shirt and pulled him up.

"Solzhenitsyn or no Solzhenitsyn," he said, flinging Gerard toward the car. "You get your butt out of here and don't come back until you've got a job."

Gerard, fear in his eyes, picked up the car keys from the sidewalk and said, "Sure, Pop, you don't have to get mad."

Second Wife Sues Don Adams

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Comedian Don Adams' 26-year-old wife is suing him for divorce because, she says, he is a "chronic gambler" who loses up to $8,000 a month.

Judy Luciano Adams was granted a restraining order in Superior Court on Thursday that bars Adams, 52, from disposing of any of their community property. This was necessary, according to the divorce suit, because Adams "gambles six days each week, Tuesday at poker and Wednesday through Sunday at the racetrack," and loses an average of $4,000 to $8,000 a month.

Mrs. Adams was also awarded exclusive use of the couple's residence in Beverly Hills.

The couple was married in 1977 after living together for five years. They have no children.

beyond the banks of the Volga, and lately the Connecticut, was reaching for a higher truth:

"People also have the right not to know, and it is a much more valuable one. The right not to have their divine souls stuffed with gossip, nonsense, vain talk. A person who works and leads a meaningful life does not need the excessive burdening flow of information."

Somewhere in this favored land the sun was probably shining bright that very day on a commencement platform adorned by Liz Smith, Earl Wilson, Rona Barrett, Russell Baker, Art Buchwald, Dear Abby or a similar syndicated soul stuffer of gossip and nonsense, plus occasional vain talk when the muse does a cop out.

Were their ears burning bright red as they inclined the head to receive the cowl for the honorary degree that serves in lieu of an honorarium on occasions like these?

I know Erma Bombeck was delivering a graduation speech somewhere in the hinterland that week because she salvaged most of it later for a column, which is about as good as you can hope for these days on the parchment and chicken salad circuit.

I would like to assure Alexander Solzhenitsyn, whom I greatly admire as a man and a literary giant, that the fanatical followers of this column, most of them close relations, need never fear that their right not to know is being trampled upon.

From these random paragraphs emanates no excessive burdening flow of information that would keep them from leading meaningful life, if the notion to do so ever struck any of them.

The speaker's scorn cannot fall on this arid acre of journalism for restorting "to guesswork, rumors and suppositions to fill the voids." The voids are there daily, flaring, unadorned, unfilfilled.

THE STARS AND THE STRIPES

Fifty bright stars suggest a nation conscious of and dedicated to a divinely-inspired destiny. It is no poetic accident that one of the stanzas of "America" is addressed:

Our fathers' God, to Thee,
Author of liberty.

The churches in the United States and Canada, and in all liberty-loving lands, believe that freedom has spiritual roots.

And THE STRIPES. They remind us of furrows stretching across the plains. Man toiling season after season . . . carving a nation out of wilderness . . . with faith in the providence of God.

And the future will always require faith and hard work . . . the partnership of God and man!

Celebrate freedom with us Sunday!

I. FINAL AMENDMENT TO THE FINAL COMPREHENSIVE ANNUAL SERVICES PLAN:
PROGRAM YEAR OCTOBER 1, 1977-SEPTEMBER 30, 1978

The final plan is amended as follows:

(3) responsibility for the public portion of the Family Planning Program has been shifted to the Division of Health Services.

EFFECTIVE DATE of these changes is July 1, 1978
As a result of public comment, service delivery plans were revised to reflect the projected use of reallocated funds.

PROGRAM YEAR OCTOBER 1, 1978-SEPTEMBER 30, 1979

In the social services program funded under Title XX, ten services are required to be available in all 100 counties, i.e., adoption, day care for children, family planning, foster care for adults and children, health support, interstate/intercounty services to children, protective services for adults and children, and caseworker services to enable individuals to remain in or return to their own homes. The remaining services are considered optional and are provided based on identified need and the availability of funds.

INDIVIDUALS TO BE SERVED include all persons residing in the State who are:
(1) current recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) payments, and those persons whose needs are taken into account in determining the needs of AFDC recipients,

(3) individuals whose family's yearly gross income is less than the adjusted established income for a family of four, and
(4) individuals in need of Information and Referral, Protective Services for Adults and Children and services provided in conjunction with Protective Services (no income requirements).

WRITTEN COMMENTS on the proposed plan will be accepted during the public comment period beginning July 1, 1978, and ending August 15, 1978, at the address listed below.

Gary Owens' Thoughts On Network TV

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Each year, we try to learn what Gary Owens is up to by phoning him at his office. This year, his office said he was out reviving "an injured hamster on Sunset Boulevard."

Later, the famed hand-on-the-ear announcer from the halcyon "Laugh-In" days called. Inquiries were made. He said he's currently writing a TV comedy idea with Bill "Jose Jimenez" Dana.

Asked if it involves persiflage, he intoned, "Yes, Percy Flage and his Orchestra." He said he's also doing voices in two Saturday kid shows on TV, "Space Race" and "Laff-a-Lympics."

And Owens, who began in radio at 16 in his hometown of Mitchell, S.D., recently signed a new contract with station KMPC here, where he's been a top disc jockey, or "josh dickey," nearly 17 years.

He was asked to what he attributes this unusually long run.

"I guess it's because of the blackmail photos of the manager we took at the Hot Pillow Motel," he confided.

The talk turned to TV, which he broke into in the 1960s as a voice on "Bullwinkle." He was asked what kind of network schedule he'd post next fall were he in charge of TV programming.

(This is a very hot item now, what with programs whiz Fred Silverman, late of CBS and ABC, now loose at NBC.)

Gary thought a minute, then unveiled his fall schedule to end all fall schedules. It was different, all right. For starters, he said, "I'd have Shirley Temple star as a sumo wrestler."

He outlined these other types of new, innovative shows:

Pop music: "Olivia Newton-John and John Travolta as the Ma and Pa Kettle of disco. Also, Rod Stewart for an hour each week with no sound devices other than his nasal hair."

Wildlife: "We'd have a giant condor get a hernia each week carrying Kate Smith or Victor Buono to its nest."

Church music: "Mormon Tabernacle Choir-O-Mania, not the real choir, but a simulated one, like the 'Beatlemania' show, and with an undercover Presbyterian."

Sports: "A new sport called krelbing. One side has five hearties, the other side five old ladies. In between is an 800-pound gorilla on speed. They toss around a 1,200-pound ball. The team that's alive at the end is declared the winner."

The Mighty Owens Primetime Program Plan also would end gripes about bounding-bosom "jiggle shows" like "Charlie's Angels."

"We'd get a lot of very skinny girls," he vowed. "Or have one big show with Dolly Parton."

The typical viewer of all this: "It's a family living in Beverly Hills with an income of less than $300 a year, with a white piano in the back of their '33 Pierce Arrow.

"They collect dead beavers as a hobby and regard Jim Fregosi as a religious idol."

How long would Gary Owens last as a network mogul?

"Twenty-four hours," he said.

Singspiration Slated Sunday

The Junior Choir of Antioch Holy Church, Bell Arthur, will sponsor a singspiration Sunday at 3:30 p. m.

Area choirs are invited, according to the president, Pattie Barrett.

Las Vegas, Nev., was founded in 1905.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

Continued hot Sunday through Tuesday with widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers. Highs in the 80s and 90s during the period with overnight lows in the mid-60s to mid-70s.

Donna Fargo Sidelined

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — An affliction diagnosed as peripheral neuritis could keep country music singer Donna Fargo out of action for three months, her doctor says in a statement.

Warner Brothers Records, Miss Fargo's recording company, released the statement Thursday from her doctor, Larry F. Smith. Miss Fargo is in Cottage Hospital at Santa Barbara, Calif.

In the statement, Smith said the singer's illness "has resulted in weakness and instability which makes it unsafe for her to perform on stage. It is expected that she may be disabled as a result of this illness for approximately three months."

Miss Fargo, 33, entered Cottage Hospital last Saturday after complaining of numbness throughout her body.

Bonnie Rasmussen, spokeswoman for Warner Brothers Records, said the singer is not seeing visitors or taking phone calls.

Miss Fargo's biggest hit was "Happiest Girl in the Whole U.S.A." in 1972.

For the second time in recent years, a prominent jurist has been elected to the presidency of the American Contract Bridge League. In November, Judge Leo Spivack of Chicago will assume the office, succeeding Louis Gurvich of New Orleans. In 1971 Judge Carl Rubin of Cincinnati served as the ACBL president.

Spivack has been active in bridge administration for many years, so much so that many have forgotten that he was a shrewd player of the game before he began to devote much of his time to organizational work. On this hand from a rubber bridge game, he found a devastating lead to sink a seemingly secure no trump game.

Since he held only three cards in each major suit, Spivack chose to overcall one diamond rather than make a takeout double at his first turn. When the auction came back round to him, his opponents were in three no trump, and he had to find an opening lead.

From the auction, it seemed certain that he would be lucky to find so much as a jack in his partner's hand. Also, he reasoned that once his ace of spades was dislodged, declarer almost surely would be able to take nine tricks. Therefore, it was imperative that the defenders establish a running suit at the opening gun.

At first glance it might seem that the best chance to accomplish this would be to lead the king of diamonds, in the hope of finding a singleton queen with either North or East. But the auction made that unlikely—declarer rated to have both missing diamond honors. Therefore, Spivack decided to turn his attention to the unbid suit.

If declarer held a doubleton heart king, just five hearts to the jack in the East hand would be enough to defeat the contract. So West lead the queen of hearts!

East did not have the jack, but the lead was still enough to defeat the hand because declarer held the king-jack doubleton. Declarer ran his clubs, but East held on to his hearts while West reduced himself to the ace of spades, king third of diamonds and ace and one heart. When West gained the lead with the ace of spades, he cashed the ace of hearts, felling declarer's jack, and East took three more heart tricks to set the contract.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. ONE MORE TIME — Country music singer Tammy Wynette, 36, is in Utah this week getting ready for an upcoming marriage — her fifth— to record producer-song-writer George Richey, 42. They plan to be wed in Jupiter, Fla. on July 6. Miss Wynette, who has four children, said she and Richey have known each other for 11 years, which she said should help make their marriage a success. Joan Little Pleads Innocent To Charge Of Prison Escape

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Joan Little pleaded innocent Thursday to a felony charge of escape from a state prison last year, and her attorney said he hoped state officials would transfer her to a federal penitentiary.

Miss Little, smiling as she sat in the same Wake County Superior courtroom where she was acquitted of murder three years ago, entered the plea through attorney Jerry Paul.

Paul told Judge Edwin S. Preston that he was preparing a number of motions, including one asking for dismissal, and Preston set a hearing for those arguments next Thursday. Her trial will be the following Monday, July 10.

Security was tight as Miss Little, 24, was brought to the court from the N.C. Correctional Center for Women, where she escaped last October 15. About 30 spectators, as well as her attorney, had to walk through a metal detector and be searched by a sheriff's deputy before entering the courtroom.

Miss Little, who was recaptured in New York last Dec. 7 and later said she would rather die than return to North Carolina, appeared cheerful but said nothing as she was brought by prison security guards to and from the courtroom.

Paul, however, said outside the courtroom that she was under "severe restrictions" at the women's prison and was afraid for her own safety.

"She's scared of the guards," he said. "We have two separate sources who overheard guards saying they planned to do harm to her, physical harm."

Paul said Miss Little should be transferred to a federal prison to serve the remainder of her original seven-to-10 year sentence for breaking and entering. A bill passed by the state General Assembly this month allows the Department of Correction to transfer a prisoner to a federal prison outside the state.

"If any person is eligible for that and should be sent to a federal prison, it's her. I can't imagine anyone being more eligible for that than her," he said.

Paul repeated his contention that a state prison official "has testimony regarding harassment she has received," and was prepared to testify in her defense. Paul said the official was in the paroles division of the prison system.

Bill Noblitt, spokesman for the Department of Correction, said he had no comment on Paul's remarks.

If convicted of the escape charge, another six months to two years could be added to her term.

The arraignment was delayed for 2½ hours Thursday when Paul failed to show up for the scheduled 9:30 session.

Before his arrival, Preston asked Miss Little who her attorney was, and she said both Paul and former Attorney General Ramsey Clark. Paul said later that Clark was only her attorney when she was fighting extradition, but that William Kunstler would also defend her.

Miss Little, who is black, was acquitted in 1975 of a murdering a white Beaufort County jailer who said she tried to rape her.

Interested In Education Role

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Former Gov. Robert W. Scott has indicated he may be interested in becoming president of the state community college system.

Although Scott said he has not "formally or informally" applied for the job, he added:

"My name is in the pot. I want to keep those options open."

Scott is federal co-chairman of the Appalachian Regional Commission but has expressed a desire to return to North Carolina.

"I'm not real excited about being in Washington, although I'm happy with my work and staff here," he said in a telephone interview. "If the office were in Haw River, it'd be the greatest job in the world."

The presidency of the community college system has been open since the recent resignation of Dr. Benjamin Fountain, who left to become president of Isothermal Community College in Spindale.

Gov. Jim Hunt's press secretary, Gary Pearce, said Scott "mentioned to the governor several weeks ago that he was interested in" the position.

Several others have been mentioned as possible candidates for the job. Among them are Dr. Raymond Stone, president of Sandhills Community College, and Luther Hodges Jr., who was defeated in last month's Democratic U.S. Senate primary.

N.C. Tourism Predictions Up

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The increased advertising the state has been doing is one of the reasons officials are predicting that North Carolina's travel and tourism industrys will bring in $2 billon this year.

The industry grossed $1 billion for the first time three years ago.

This year for the first time, the state will spend more than $1 million to advertise North Carolina's vacation attractions. Before 1977, the state travel-tourism advertising budget was only about $427,000 annually.

"If trends continue, we definitely are likely to hit $2 billion this year," said William V. Arnold, chief of the state's tourism and travel division.

The state Department of Revenue's latest figures on travel and tourism this year deal only with the first 90 days, but the first three months of this year "are up $72 million over the same period last year," Arnold said.

"January through March aren't considered prime travel times in North Carolina, but about $4 million a day was being spent by travelers in those three months."

The state's tourism industry grossed nearly $1.8 billion in 1977.

Not only is revenue from travelers way up this year, but all other indicators are up too, Arnold said. He said his office already has had 242,209 inquiries because of advertisements this year, compared to only 245,816 for all 12 months of 1977.

Arnold said he isn't expecting a record July 4 weekend crowd, but he said the weekend looks like "a very good one" for the state.

Hot Water In Big Daddy Role

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — George Ochs, who tried to protect county workers and visitors from dental cavities found himself in a real hole after announcing that he was going to remove a soda pop machine from the Pitkin County Courthouse.

The county manager received a petition from soft drink fans who wanted the machine to stay.

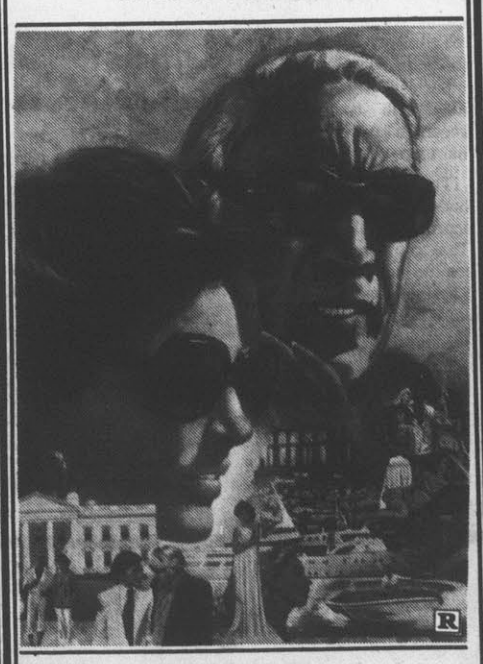

Signers of the petition included a district judge, a county judge, six sheriff's deputies, the building inspector, the court clerk, a county commissioner, a deputy district attorney, the acting district attorney, county attorney, the city attorney, the county housing director — who freely admitted addiction to soft drinks — and 84 others.

"We respect your right to choose not to consume sugar in the form of soft drinks yourself, but we wish that you'll respect our right to make that decision for ourselves," the petition read in part.

"Unlike smoking, we are affecting only the well-being of ourselves."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market lapsed into a slow decline today against a background of adverse news on inflation and interest rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 3.29 at 818.35.

Losers held a 6-5 lead over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was slow on the eve of what for many Americans will be a four-day Independence Day weekend. The markets will be open on Monday, with only light trading activity expected, and will be closed Tuesday.

The government reported this morning that the consumer price index climbed at a 10.8 percent annual rate in May, setting a two-digit pace for the second straight month.

And several of the country's largest banks raised their prime lending rates from 8¾ to 9 percent.

The basic charge banks impose on blue-chip loans has been in a steady uptrend lately with borrowing demand reported strong and the Federal Reserve acting to tighten credit.

Inland Container climbed 1⅞ to 32⅛ in active trading. The company and Time Inc. approved a definitive merger agreement.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks lost .13 to 53.56. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .49 at 145.20.

Volume on the Big Board totaled only 6.83 million shares by noontime, down from 9.90 million at the same point Thursday.

Fired From N.C. Post

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Joseph S. Lennon was fired Thursday as director of specialty hospitals for the state, effective July 14.

The dismissal was announced by Dr. Jacob Koomen, director of the Health Services Division of the Human Resources Department.

"The dismissal of Mr. Lennon is based on poor management practices in the operation of our specialty hospitals," Koomen said. A recent audit and cost review of state orthopedic hospitals turned up several irregularities, he said.

Lennon was unavailable for comment.

Kooman said the review disclosed an overpayment to the Charlotte Rehabilitation Hospital for services it provided, state property being turned over to the Gaston-Lincoln Area Mental Health Center without prior authorization and undue delay in collecting payment for the equipment.

There was no leased signed or rent collected from the Gaston-Lincoln Area Mental Health Center even through it has occupied three state-owned facilities for the last several months, Koomen said.

Lennon is in charge of three orthopedic hospitals and three tuberculosis hospitals.

Human Resources Secretary Sarah T. Morrow said she reviewed the audit and concurred with Koomen's decision to fire him.

Security here was tight following a bomb explosion in a Jerusalem market Thursday that killed two persons and wounded 47. Mayor Teddy Kollek said he believed the bombing, which the Palestine Liberation Organization said it was responsible for, was linked to the vice president's visit.

Utilities employees under the budget will also receive a 5 per cent cost of living pay hike and about half will receive a 5 per cent merit pay increase.

The city and utilities budgets, as approved this morning, total $43.01 million. That compares with a total for the current fiscal year of $37.01 million.

One cent on the tax rate for the coming fiscal year is expected to bring in about $34,000.

The budget for 1978-1979 is based on a valuation of $348 million, while the budget for the current year was based on a valuation of $321 million.

Report Five Play Father

HAMBURG, West Germany (AP) — Five insurance executives who had sexual intercourse with the same secretary at a company conference are chipping in $20 a month each to support the baby boy she had as long as she keeps their names secret, the tabloid Bild-Zeitung reported today.

"The five married gentlemen attended a conference for their insurance company in Moenchengladbach ... during which they took turns in their respective hotel rooms in having sexual relations with the fun-loving conference secretary," the paper said.

Nine months later, one of the executives received a note saying the conference had achieved results and would the five come and see what they had done.

"They then decided on a sort of father's day excursion: Loaded with presents (rompers and baby rattles), they visited the mother of the child," the newspaper continued.

The five agreed on a monthly allowance, and the mother agreed to have the registrar of births enter "father unknown" on the baby's birth certificate.

"On his birthday he gets presents from all of us, only our families must not find out about it," the five told the paper.

Offer Canada Interim Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United State has made the first move in the fishing war with Canada and now hopes that the Canadians will respond.

The Senate on Thursday approved by a voice vote an interim agreement that would allow Canadian fishermen to fish in U.S. coastal waters through the end of this year as long as Canada agrees to let U.S. fishermen to resume operations off its shores.

So far there has been no reply from the Canadians.

Office In Cuba Said Necessary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says the U.S. diplomatic office in Cuba is necessary to protect American interests in the communist nation.

The department issued a statement Thursday supporting the continuation of the "U.S. interest section" in Havana after the Senate on Wednesday approved a resolution for the United States to break diplomatic relations with Cuba.

The United States and Cuba established "interest sections" in each other's capitals last year.

Morgan's Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., says he will introduce a measure calling for resumption of registration of 18-year-old males in a partial revival of the Selective Service System.

Morgan emphasized that the proposal is not for a resumption of the draft. "It will merely furnish the country with a list of physically and mentally fit men who can be called up if the need arises," the senator said.

Morgan's proposal is in the form of an amendment to a 1979 apropriations bill. Specifically it calls for:

—Reinstatement of a portion of the Selective Service System at the state level.

—Registration of each 18-year-old and providing him with a lottery number.

—A study of the cost of requiring mental and physical examinations of all male citizens on their 18th birthday, beginning in March 1979.

—Limiting all Selective Service processes to the preparation for a national emergency and wartime mobilization.

Morgan said the United States today does not know what its reservoir of manpower is. He said in the event of an emergency it would take at least six months just to get the machinery working.

Entire Village Being Evicted

HOOKSETT, N.H. (AP) — Forty-one families who lost a two-year battle to save their mobile home park are leaving behind little more than memories as they rush to move in the face of a court-ordered eviction deadline.

"We've lost and there's nothing we can do about it but cry a little, get out and try to salvage what we can of our lives," said Linda LaLiberte, manager of what next week will no longer be Joyland Trailer Park.

Eviction of the 200 residents followed a lengthy but unsuccessful attempt to obtain a sewer connection for the park. The nearby towns of Manchester and Hookset, which the park straddles, both refused to extend sewer lines to the four-acre park, which opened in 1954.

That rejection was the end for the park. Because the park's overloaded septic tank system frequently backed up and sewage seeped up through the ground, health officials asked Merrimack County Sheriff Ronald Daniels to evict park residents.

Those who could afford to move found few nearby places to relocate their homes. Zoning for mobile home parks has become more restricted in recent years, requiring large tracts as well as modern sanitary facilities.

"The court has ruled that these people must be out of here next week and it's my job to see they do it. But they're human beings with problems and feelings and that can't be forgotten," Daniels said Thursday as he walked among the cracked concrete pads and disconnected electrical outlets that are about the only reminders of what once was a neighborhood.

The sherriff said he has made hundreds of telephone calls and spent weeks of his own time trying to find places for the people to live.

Clair Lowman, a 67-year-old retired Salvation Army brigadier and his wife, Ella, were dismantling a white picket fence that had surrounded their property.

Pointing to a towering maple tree he had planted when he moved in 15 years ago, Lowman said, "We can take the fence but there's no way to move the tree."

"This is a very sad place now. Most all of them took with them were their memories and for some that may not be enough," he said.

Mrs. LaLiberte sat in front of her home and made no attempt to brush away tears rolling down her cheeks. "I cry a lot these days," she said. "I just can't help it.

"We still haven't found any place to move the mobile so all we can do is store it somewhere and live in a tent for a while."

She said many park residents were forced to sell their homes at low prices so they could obtain other housing.

"As soon as the newspapers reported we were evicted, these fast-talking salesman rushed in and started offering everyone peanuts for their homes," Mrs. LaLiberte said.

"They knew that most of us had no place to to turn, so they offered us a few hundred dollars for a home worth thousands. And many people took their offers. I'd burn my home before letting one of those vultures get it."

Now, she just waits for the last handful of people to leave.

"I'll leave next week and without a struggle, but a good captain doesn't leave her sinking ship until all the crew has left. So I'll be the last to leave," she said.

Boston Widens Its Lead

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

While the Boston Red Sox are making a shambles of the American League East pennant race, the Western Division is getting tighter each night.

The Red Sox extended their AL East lead over idle Milwaukee to nine games with a come-from-behind 4-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Thursday. It was Baltimore's eighth loss in a row, dropping them 12½ games behind the rampaging Bostonians, who have won 16 of their last 19 games.

In the West, six teams are closer to the top than the second-place Brewers are in the East, with Texas holding a one-game lead over Kansas City and California. The Rangers remained in first place despite an 8-7, 10-inning defeat at Oakland, while the Angels stopped the Royals 3-1 to move within .001 of second-place Kansas City.

Fifth-place Chicago blew a chance to move closer in the Wild West when Bob Stinson's grand slam homer in the eighth inning boosted Seattle past the White Sox 9-7. Idle Minnesota, although 11 games below .500 at 30-41, is just eight games back.

In the only AL game with no divisional race significance, Cleveland defeated Detroit 6-3.

Red Sox 4, Orioles 3

Dennis Martinez breezed into the ninth inning with a three-hitter and a 3-1 lead before Fred Lynn singled, George Scott tied the game with a two-run homer down the right field line and Dwight Evans followed with a game-winning homer.

A's 8, Rangers 7, 10 innings

Oakland, at 37-38, moved within three games of Texas when Mitchell Page's sacrifice fly scored the decisive run in the 10th inning. The victory was the second straight in extra innings over Texas for the A's, who rallied from a 6-3 deficit for the triumph.

Joe Wallis got most of the big hits for Oakland with a homer, double and two singles.

Angels 3, Royals 1

Ron Fairly singled off first baseman Pete LaCock's glove for two runs to lead the Angels past Kansas City.

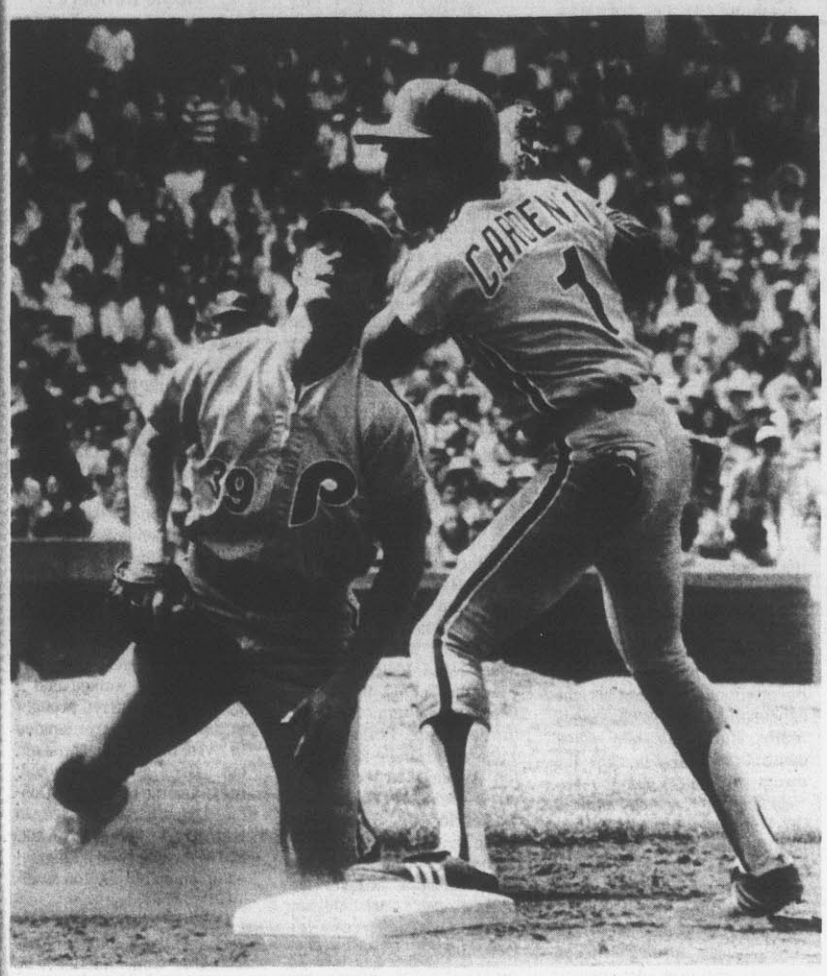

"Whichever team gets healthy first will win the division," said California Manager Jim Fregosi. "If we win all the rest of our games, we'll win it."

Mariners 9, White Sox 7

Stinson's grand slam offset Chicago homers by Jorge Orta, Bill Nahorodny and Lamar Johnson. Bill Stein also homered for Seattle.

Indians 6, Tigers 3

Gary Alexander hit his third three-run homer of the week against Detroit. Alexander has hit five homers and has 17 RBI since joining the Indians June 15.

Checking Out First Base

Philadelphia Phillies pitcher Jim Kaat (39) appears to be keeping a watchful eye on first baseman Jose Cardenal in the fifth inning of Thursday's game against the Cubs in Chicago. Kaat had actually fielded a bunt by Rodney Scott of the Cubs and thrown the ball to Cardenal, but too late to make the out. The Phillies won, 9-3. (AP Wirephoto)

Sutton Passes Another Dodger Career Record

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Don Sutton certainly doesn't have modest goals.

"I want to hold all the Dodger pitching records," says the Los Angeles right-hander. He's getting there.

Starting the season, Sutton already had more victories (190) and more shutouts (47) than any Dodger pitcher in Los Angeles history. And Thursday night, he set a Los Angeles career strikeout record while pitching the Dodgers to a 7-3 triumph over the Atlanta Braves.

"Until last Saturday," said Sutton, "the strikeout record was just another step to where I wanted to go — that is, break all the Dodger records. But last Saturday against the Reds, when I tied the record, the fans in Los Angeles gave me a standing ovation.

"Then it became very important for me to get the record."

He got it in the first inning Thursday night when he struck Gary Matthews for his 2,284th career strikeout surpassing Don Drysdale's previous record for the Dodgers since they moved to Los Angeles in 1958. Sutton finished with four more strikeouts to put his career mark at 2,288.

The victory, incidentally, was the 198th of his career, just two from another milestone and a stone's throw from Drysdale's all-time Dodger record of 209 victories, which were fashioned in Brooklyn and Los Angeles.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Chicago Cubs 9-3; the Houston Astros blanked the Cincinnati Reds 5-0 and the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the New York Mets 4-3.

Phillies 9, Cubs 3

Jose Cardenal's three-run double in the first inning, Bob Boone's two-run double in the eighth and Greg Luzinski's three-run homer in the ninth led Philadelphia over Chicago. Jim Kaat pitched six innings to boost his record to 5-1 and gain the 258th victory of his career. Dave Roberts, 3-3, took the loss.

Reds 5, Astros 0

Floyd Bannister fired a four-hitter and Jose Cruz and Jesus Alou each drove in two runs as Houston notched its second straight shutout over Cincinnati. Bannister, 3-3, surrendered first-inning doubles to Pete Rose and Ken Griffey, but allowed only two hits over the final eight innings in gaining his second shutout of the year.

"I can't remember the last time we were shut out twice in one week, let alone back-to-back," said Cincinnati's Joe Morgan. "I think the last two games have been a combination of good pitching and untimely hitting."

Pirates 4, Mets 3

Pinch-hitter Rennie Stennett drove in the winning run with a bloop triple in the eighth inning to lead Pittsburgh over New York. With the score tied 3-3 going into the Pirate eighth, Phil Garner singled off loser Skip Lockwood, 7-6, and was sacrificed to second by Mario Mendoza. The victory went to reliever Grant Jackson, 3-3.

Fun Run Saturday

Not Even Wimbledon Can Stop The Weather

By WINSOR DOBBIN
Associated Press Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Wimbledon, the world's premier tennis tournament, usually runs like well-oiled machinery.

The tournament is famed for its disciplined operation and any deviation from the normal run of things is most unusual.

But not even the All-England Lawn Tennis Club can do anything about the English weather.

On Monday, only 19 matches were completed when 64 had been scheduled. And although things were back to normal Tuesday and Wednesday, no play was possible Thursday.

That meant a great number of players were one or two days behind schedule. Defending champion Bjorn Borg, originally scheduled to play Wednesday evening but forced to wait because of a long-lasting women's match, will have waited three days to play — that is, if it doesn't rain again today.

So the players will have shorter rests between matches — and fewer rest days during the last week of the tournament.

"It will put more strain on the players from now on," tournament referee Fred Hoyles said. "Some of the free days the singles players would have had will be gone, but that is the way we have to catch up."

The backlog of matches might also mean a deviation from the usual starting time of 2 p.m.

"If we don't get a good day tomorrow," Hoyles said Thursday, "we shall have to think seriously of starting at 12 instead of 2. Occasionally in the past we have brought the start forward to 1, but one extra hour doesn't make enough difference. Two extra hours would have a substantial effect."

For the players, the waiting around was annoying. All day Thursday, before a decision was made, players waited around with nothing to do — and that can be damaging to concentration.

But even worse is that they face an overcrowded program. Players, for instance in the men's singles, would have had a rest day Monday before the quarter-finals.

Now they have to forego that.

Among the players who waited fruitlessly Thursday at the All-England club were Borg, third seed Vitas Gerulaitis and fourth seed Guillermo Vilas.

Borg is to play Australian Peter McNamara. Vilas could have a tough clash with the experienced Dutchman, Tom Okker, while Gerulaitis plays fellow American Sherwood Stewart.

Several top women also spent an idle Thursday. Defending champion Virginia Wade should get to play Lesley Bowrey of Australia and Martina Navratilova is to meet Pam Whytcross of Australia.

Golfers Snap Par At Western

By FRED GOODALL
AP Sports Writer

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Many of the big names on the professional golf tour regularly pass the Western Open because of the tough Butler National golf course.

But the way some of the lesser-known members of the tour handled the 7,083-yard, par-72 links in the first round of the $225,000 Western on Thursday may prompt some of the game's big money winners to five playing the tournament extra consideration in the future.

In all, 28 golfers, led by Cesar Sanudo's 5-under 67, broke par on the course while 18 others were at even-par after 36 holes.

"There's no doubt the course isn't playing as difficult," said Allen Miller, who recorded a 4-under 68 to finish one stroke behind Sanudo. "I discovered it in practice and it gave me a little more confidence starting out."

Bob Gilder, whose only victory on the tour was in the 1976 Phoenix Open, joined Miller with a 68 while Rod Curl, John Schroeder and Craig Stadler were all two shots behind with 3-under 69s.

"I haven't been here in a few years because the course has just been too tough," said Curl, a 10-year veteran of the tour. "But the way it's set up now, it's a much more enjoyable course. Nobody wants to come to a tournament and see the golfers bogey every hole. They want to see birdies."

Sanudo, who is playing the tour regularly for the first time since 1975, was 1-over for the first five holes but went on to birdie six of the next 10 to go 5-under. He bogied the par-4 17th after landing in a bunker and finished with a birdie on the 18th where he used an eight-iron out of the rough to drop to within a foot of the hole.

"I was just looking for par on the 18th, but I hit the eight-iron just right and there I was," said Sanudo, who played in only eight tour tournaments in 1976 and four in 1977.

The 34-year-old native of Mexico said his failure to find a sponsor kept him off the tour for a prolonged time. He launched his comeback as a regular by paying his way to his first eight tournaments this year before finding a group of sponsors in San Diego.

So far, he has finished in the money in only two of his 13 tour appearances, winning just $189.38 for his 33rd-place tie in the Magnolia Classic and earned $320 for a 39th-place tie in the Tallahassee Open.

Seven golfers, among them Andy Bean, winner of the Kemper Open and Memphis Classic, finished with 2-under 70s. Bean was 6-under after 10 holes but bogied the next four.

"I played the first 10 holes about as well as they can be played," said Bean. "I made some mistakes on 11, 12 and 13 and I paid for them. That was enough to take me back to the field.

"But I can't be dissatisfied. If I get four 70s, I'd say I stand a good chance to win the tournament."

Tied with Bean were Bill Rogers, Tom Purtzer, Dan January, Jim Jamieson, Phil Hancock, Marty Fleckman, Lon Nielsen and John Adams.

Defending champion Tom Watson shot a 71 and U.S. Open champion Andy North was well back at 76.

Ford Picked As Top Athlete

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina basketball star Phil Ford has been chosen for the Anthony J. McKevlin Award as the outstanding athlete in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

He joins former N.C. State basketball star David Thompson as the only double winners of the coveted honor. Ford is the first to claim it in consecutive years. Thompson was chosen as a sophomore in 1973 and as a senior in 1975.

As he did last year, the All America and ACC Player of the Year, won decisively in the voting of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association. He was chosen by 71 of the 133 voters.

Jim Spanarkel, who led Duke to the runnerup honors in the NCAA basketball championships, was second with 22 votes. Steve Fuller, Clemson quarterback and football player of the year, and John Sadri of N.C. State, runnerup for the NCAA tennis championship, each got 14. The remaining ballots were shared by basketball standout Rod Griffin of Wake Forest; Greg Norris, North Carolina's baseball player of the year and Maryland freshman hurdling star, Renaldo Nehemiah.

Ford, a senior from Rocky Mount, is the all-time North Carolina scoring leader and holds the school records for assists. He is known equally well as the chief engineer of Coach Dean Smith's four-corner offense, which has been widely copied and criticized.

Ford was the first freshman to start the opening game of the season. In his freshman year he was chosen the outstanding player in the ACC's championship tournament. For the past three seasons he was chosen all-conference. He won several national player-of-theyear honors this past season.

Smith said Ford possesses "all of the qualities one looks for in an athlete. He has innate talent, is a great competitor, and is a team player in every sense of the word."

The award to Ford makes six times in the last seven years it has been won by a basketball player.

Traveling Tires Jan Stephenson

By HANK LOWENKRON
Associated Press Writer

NOBLESVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Australian native Jan Stephenson, one of the top 10 money-winners on this year's Ladies Professional Golf Association tour, is getting weary of the travel required by her profession.

"I feel like I'm going to reach my peak in about two years," said the attractive 26-year-old who has won three times since joining the U.S. tour in 1974. "I'd like to work at my game until then. After that, well, I'm really sick of traveling.

"I'd like to be able to pick my tournaments like Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson, although I'm not comparing myself to them. I'd go only to the tournaments where I like the money, like the course or like the people," said Stephenson Thursday.

"I'd like to not have to feel like I have to play every week. The girls tend to do that. I feel like it hurts their performance. If I want to play at a tournament by choice, I feel I'd play better than if I was just in it because I have nothing better to do," she said.

Stephenson is one of 10 women to win one LPGA tournament this year. The other seven tournaments have been won by 21-year-old rookie sensation Nancy Lopez, whose record streak of five consecutive victories ended last week in Hershey, Pa.

"Nancy has done a lot for all of women's golf," said Stephenson. "Her success has made things easier for someone like myself. I think she's just learning about the pressure that can come from the media with interviews. Her success has allowed myself and others to concentrate more on our game.

"It's not that we don't like the attention, but it can become exhausting. Last week, Nancy really started to talk about being tired and I'm sure the media was a part of it."

Stephenson's victory came in the Women's International last month. But, since then she's been out of the top 10 in all five of her tournaments. Last week she finished in a tie for 34th.

"I like this course here. I'm anticipating turning things around," she said after playing in the pro-am preliminary to this week's tour stop at the 6,044-yard, par 72 Harbour Trees Golf Course.

However, Lopez also said she liked the course after leading her team to a 15-under par 57 in the pro-am. Her team and one led by Jennie Smith shared first place in the event.

Lopez has earned more money in LPGA competition than any other two women on the tour. Her earnings of $131,128 more than doubles the amount earned by JoAnne Carner, the tour's second leading money-winner this year with $57,493. Lopez needs to earn approximately $19,600 to top Judy Rankin's record for single-year earnings on the tour.

Action in the 54-hole $75,000 tournament begins Saturday and concludes Monday. Rankin is defending the championship she won when the tour stopped here for the first time last year.

The tournament is sponsored by the Mayflower Corporation.

No Motive Found In Murder Of Actor

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Police said today they have not determined a motive in the murder of Bob Crane, the star of the television series "Hogan's Heroes" who was beaten to death in his sleep and then tied with an electrical cord.

The body of the 49-year-old Crane, clad in shorts and undershirt, was discovered Thursday afternoon curled beneath a sheet in the bedroom of an apartment he was using while appearing in the play "Beginner's Luck" at the Windmill Dinner Theater. Officials said he had been dead for several hours.

"It just looks like somebody walked in on him while he was in bed and smacked him in the head a couple of times," said Eloy Ysasi, investigator for the Maricopa County medical examiner's office. "He was covered up in a sheet, as though you would retire, with his knees drawn up in the position like people sleep."

A piece of electrical cord has been tied around Crane's neck, but "it didn't strangle him...." Ysasi said. "It was put on after he was dead, but was put on tight."

"So far no motive has been determined," said Lt. Ron Dean, who is heading the police investigation. "Nothing seems to be missing. There was no forced entry."

Crane had been appearing in the play here since June 6. He was killed in an apartment the theater leases for its headline performers.

Police said Crane was seen about 2 a.m. Thursday in a local coffee shop a short distance from the apartment.

Lilly Reder, the night supervisor, told the Arizona Republic that she saw Crane drinking coffee with a woman and a second couple. She said the group seemed "very congenial and there was no indication of anything negative."

Dr. Heinz Karnitschnig, county medical examiner, said Crane had been dead several hours before his body was found by actress Victoria Berry, who went to the apartment when Crane failed to appear for a noon cast party at the theater.

Police said there were no signs of a struggle in the two-bedroom apartment and that none of Crane's personal possessions was missing.

Crane, a glib, former disc jockey, was best known as Col. Hogan on "Hogan's Heroes," which appeared on CBS from September 1965 to July 1971 and is still being seen in reruns. Hogan led a wily group of World War II war prisoners who each week outwitted their German guards, Col. Klink and Sgt. Schultz.

He also had his own show, "The Bob Crane Show" on NBC in the 1974-75 season, and earlier played the next door neighbor on "The Donna Reed Show."

In recent years, Crane had appeared in guest roles on television and on the regional theater circuit.

Crane was born July 13, 1928, in Waterbury, Conn., where he studied music with ambitions to become a drummer. He was with the Connecticut Symphony Orchestra from 1944 to 1946, then with several dance bands traveling the East Coast.

Crane turned to radio announcing in 1956, working as a disc jockey at several eastern stations before going to Los Angeles, where he became morning disc jockey on KNX, the CBS radio station. Within a month, his clowning made the show a hit and landed him his first television part, on "The Dick Van Dyke Show."

His movies included "Return to Peyton Place," "Mantrap" and "Superdad." On television, he starred in "Arsenic and Old Lace" with Helen Hayes and Lillian Gish.

He married his childhood sweetheart, Anne Terzian, in 1949. They had three children — Robert David, 27, Deborah Ann, 19, and Karen Leslie, 17 — before they were divorced in 1970.

He married Patricia Olson four months after his divorce became final. Mrs. Crane, who received word of her husband's death while vacationing in Seattle, had a role in "Hogan's Heroes" under her stage name of Sigrid Valdis.

Housing Authority Is Ready To Assist Area

The Mideast Regional Housing Authority, located in office 17, 200 E. Greenville Blvd., is now open to assist 100 families in the Pitt County area, excluding those in Greenville and Farmville.

The authority, a rental assistance program funded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, is designed to aid low income families find suitable housing for their needs.

Those who are found eligible according to family size and income level by the authority are issued a certificate of eligibility, good for 60 days.

The applicant may then seek housing in the area of his choice. The rent must be within the fair market rent schedule as established by HUD.

A property owner may lease houses, apartments and anchored mobile homes under the program. Owners are guaranteed rent payments through the authority. All housing units must be inspected by the authority, owners and tenants prior to occupancy.

Property owners are responsible for maintenance and management. Mortgage payments and back rent are not covered by the authority program.

Speight Speech Taping Investigation Ordered

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt has ordered an investigation into the actions of state Alcohol Law Enforcement agents who taped a speech by state ABC Board Chairman Marvin Speight Jr.

Authorities said four agents were not formally invited to a meeting Monday night of the North Carolina County and Municipal ABC Law Enforcement Association at Nags Head but they attended anyway.

Thomas Parker, assistant director of the Law Enforcement Association, taped the remarks and left the meeting. Leaders of the assocaition later confronted Director John B. Brooks in his room and demanded the tape. Brooks ordered it given to them.

"We don't tape people without their knowledge in this administration," Hunt said in a statement issued Thursday. "I despise it and I won't tolerate it and I want to know why they were there."

State Crime Control Secretary J. Phil Carlton and Speight have disagreed in the past about alcohol law enforcement, and there was speculation the taping may have rekindled the feud.

Carlton said he did not know of the presence of the four at the meeting but added that it "sounds like a lot of excitement over something that doesn't look that significant."

Carlton said the taping was intended "for the sole purpose of having it to refer to later, but I would suggest that in the future they put the recorder up where everyone will know about it."

He said the four were invited by a member of the association and attended "simply to establish good rapport between the local ABC boards, discuss the possibility of providing more undercover assistance and see what he (Speight) was saying about liquor-by-the-drink since we will be called upon to enforce it. There was no attempt to do anything secretive."

Statistics In Discrimination Suit Not A One-Way Street

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The use of statistics in lawsuits over alleged-on-the job discrimination is not a one-way street, the Supreme Court says.

For years, persons charging that they were victimized by racial or sexual discrimination in employment have enjoyed the legal privilege of introducing statistics concerning an employer's record of treatment of minorities and women.

The high court said Thursday that an employer charged with illegal bias should not be barred from trying to prove its innocence by introducing evidence that its workforce is a well-balanced one.

In fact, the court said, employers must be given wide berth by federal courts when defending themselves against bias suits based on the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The court's decision, reached in a test case from Chicago involving black bricklayers, lacks the emotional charge of the Allan Bakke case decided by the court only a day before. But it may have a lasting impact for blacks, other minorities and women who seek employment equality through the courts.

Furnco Construction Corp. of Chicago was sued in 1971 by a group of black bricklayers who claimed they were not hired for a Furnco project, or were hired late in the game, because of their race.

A federal trial court dismissed the lawsuit but the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that three of the blacks had proven at least an initial case of discrimination.

The Appeals Court limited the defenses Furnco lawyers could employ in trying to defeat the charges.

In striking down the Appeals Court ruling, the Supreme Court said an employer does not have to prove that its practices necessarily are the best for insuring maximum consideration of minorities and women. The court said that employers have to prove only that their practices are not motivated by race — and they can utilize an array of defenses to prove that.

In other decisions Thursday, the court:

—Ruled that federal officials may be sued if they deliberately violate a person's constitutional rights.

That decision could have an immediate effect on a number of pending civil lawsuits against top-ranking officials of the FBI and CIA accused of violating constitutional rights by approving such unlawful acts as warrantless wiretaps and break-ins. The ruling presumably could be applied also to former President Richard M. Nixon and other Watergate figures, subjecting them to future civil lawsuits.

—Ruled in a Rhode Island case that consumers have a right to sue insurance companies on charges that the firms refused to sell them certain types of insurance. The justices said federal protection of insurance companies from antitrust lawsuits does not bar that kind of litigation.

No Parking

Police Chief Glenn Cannon said today that "No Parking" zones on Harding Street, North of Fifth Street, have been changed.

He noted that now there will be no parking allowed on the East Side of Harding Street, while no parking will be allowed on the West side of the street from 1 a.m. until 8 a.m., each day.

Violators of the parking regulations, he said, are subject to have their illegally parked cars towed away.

Arrest Man On Eight Charges

Greenville Police yesterday arrested Thomas James Arvis, 42 of Route 2, Windsor, on eight counts of fraud, stemming from a series of worthless check cases here in October 1977.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Arvis allegedly issued checks ranging from $4.88 to $93.59 to a half-dozen Greenville businesses between October 21 and October 31, using ficticious identification and a bank account opened under the ficticious name.

Free Vehicle Inspections Set

The second in a series of free courtesy vehicle inspections will be held on Red Banks Road, behind the Ramada Inn, Saturday from 1 p.m. until 6 o'clock.

Sponsored by the Greenville Police Department's Crime Prevention Bureau, the Mobile Crime Watch and the department's Junior Police Cadets, the inspections will include such items as tires, lights, radiator hoses, windshield wipers, brakes, fan belts and other which might give vacationers trouble.

In addition, officers will check the speed of the inspected cars with a radar unit, giving motorists an opportunity to see how speed-checking radar works, and giving them some indication how accurate their car's speedometer is.

Church Pageant Planned Sunday

Fifty contestants representing each of the United States will compete in the Fifty States Pageant Sunday, 7:30 p.m., at the Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church.

The Echoes of Calvary are sponsoring the event to increase the educational and cultural backgrounds of church youth.

According to John R. Moore, advisor, Miss U. S. A. will be crowned and runner-ups will be recognized.

After the program, refreshments will be served in the Educational Department of the church. The church is located at the intersection of Ward and Hudson Streets.

CHOIR REUNION

AYDEN — The interdenominational choir union will meet Saturday night, 7:30, at the Elm Grove Free Will Baptist Church here. The public is invited to attend.

Hopeful News in Medicine

Severe burns present life-threatening situations. Many patients who were destined not to survive are now being saved by the intensive treatment centers that are being established all over the world. Highly trained specialists and paramedical personnel are geared to all of the emergency techniques so necessary for survival.

At the University of Texas Health Science Center in Dallas, an emergency "hot line" service is being offered around the clock for doctors, nurses and other health workers who are involved in a treatment of severe burns. The telephone, manned by burn specialists, gives information and direction to callers when any burn emergency arises.

Dr. Charles R. Baxter, professor of surgery and director of the burn project, working in conjunction with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, expects that similar programs will soon be functioning in all areas of the United States.

Another well-organized, life-saving plan is now emerging. Large, 40-feet long buses are now being converted into mobile emergency rooms in several large cities in the United States. So well-equipped are these vans that they are virtually "hospitals-on-wheels," ready for emergencies of all kinds. They actually contain air-conditioned operating rooms and even a recovery room, completely equipped with the most exact surgical instruments and monitoring equipment.

Doctors and nurses who staff these units can be called into action by civil defense paging systems. When summoned, the van hospital can be set up and functioning within minutes.

At the Lutheran Hospital in Fort Wayne, Ind., such a van can transport burn victims, heart patients and newborn babies to the hospital within minutes. En route, all emergency care can be immediately instituted.

In New York City, there are five mobile emergency room vans which are staffed by two or three doctors and nurses. Victims are treated at the scene of an accident, thus offering them the greatest chance for survival.

Cystic fibrosis, a severe disease that usually begins in infancy, is a genetic disorder that affects the pancreas, the sweat glands and the respiratory system. Much information about this disease has been gathered in the past 25 years, but the puzzle is not complete.

Now, for the first time, research workers at the Emory University's Yerkes Primate Center have been able to reproduce cystic fibrosis in the rhesus monkey. This unusual occurrence is still being observed with cautious optimism. It is hoped that if the disease can be reproduced regularly in experimental animals, it may hold the clue to its eventual eradication.

National Holiday Message: Slow Down America

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Slow down America!

That's the message authorities are spreading on the eve of the July Fourth weekend, a four-day holiday during which an estimated 650 to 750 people will die in traffic accidents.

The plea is combined with a stepped up campaign to enforce the 55-mph speed limit. The efforts are heightened by the fact that the highway death toll for the three-day Memorial Day weekend — 528 — was the worst since the lower speed limit took effect in April 1974.

An Associated Press spot check showed special enforcement programs across the country, some geared to holiday periods, others in effect all year round. The AP survey also showed that average speeds are lower than they were before the nationwide 55-mph limit was imposed, but are creeping back up in a few states.

The most widespread special enforcement plan is CARE — Combined Accident Reduction Effort — to set uniform enforcement standards in participating states and put extra troopers on designated major roads during the Memorial Day, July Fourth and Labor Day weekends.

"By creating this presence we are creating an awareness among the drivers that the speed limit is 55," said Col. Richard M. Dawson, commander of the Tennessee Highway Patrol.

"We had no fatals on any of the CARE highways in the state on Memorial Day and hope to obtain the same level on the 4th of July," said Lt. Patrick Monaghan of the Idaho State Police.

Sgt. Jay D. Kennedy said Michigan state police will have 400 extra patrol cars on duty over the upcoming holiday weekend with one car every 10 miles on interstate roads. A similar program over the Memorial Day weekend resulted in more citations and fewer fatalities than during the same period of 1977.

Wayne Gregory of the National Safety Council, which is predicting the 650-to-750 death toll for July Fourth, said it is hard to compare year-to-year totals because of the steadily increasing population, the weather and the varying lengths of each holiday. The council has been unable to provide a firm explanation for the high Memorial Day death toll.

Gregory said the death toll during the last four-day July Fourth holiday — in 1974 — was 549, just under the council's maximum prediction of 550.

Why is this year's estimate so much higher? "People are just on the road more," he said, adding that Americans drove an estimated 15 billion miles during the 1974 holiday and are expected to drive 18.4 billion miles this year.

Enforcement policies for the 55-mph limit vary from state to state and even from trooper to trooper.

"We have told our troopers to enforce it just like they enforced the old 70 mph limit," said Al Newport, assistant chief of the Oklahoma Highway Patrol. "Each trooper decides when to issue a ticket and we told them if they strictly enforced the 70 limit, then they should strictly enforce the 55 limit. If they allowed a 5-mile violation under the old law, then they should allow the same under the new one." He said few tickets are issued to motorists driving between 55 and 60 miles an hour, "but again, that is up to the individual trooper."

"Sometime pulling the speeder over is more of a hazard than the speeder himself," said Sgt. Henry Sullivan of the highway patrol in Massachusetts, where speeds on good roads average just over 60 mph. "It's not worth it to stop a guy going 60 or 65 if it's going to cause an accident."

Massachusetts has special "55 Teams;" one member operates a radar unit, five others stop speeders. Sullivan said that in 1975, the year the teams were started, there were 884 highway fatalities, compared to 760 last year.

The number of violations has climbed sharply in most states. In Iowa, highway patrolmen issued 140,000 citations in 1977, almost four times the number issued in 1973. "It's been a helluva' task," said Col. Edward Dickinson. "What we want is voluntary compliance," he added. "We don't want to have to issue these citations."

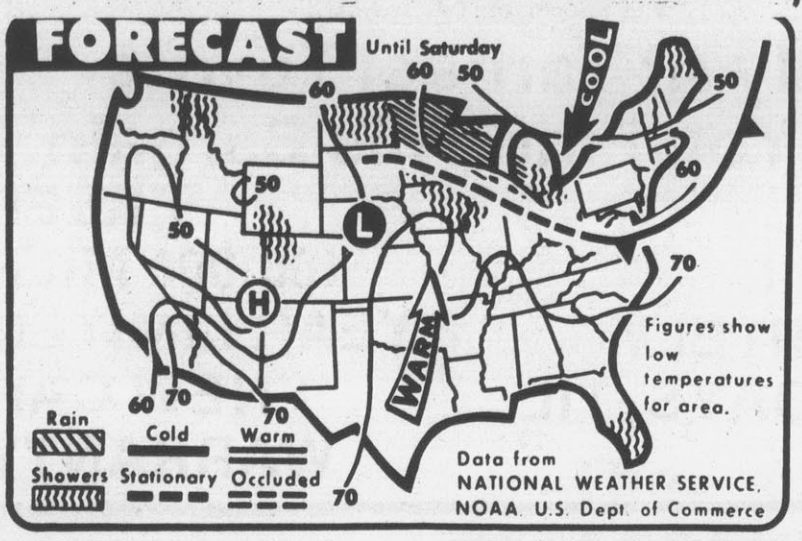

Bob Faas of the California Highway Patrol said troopers wrote 600,000 speeding tickets a year in 1973; today, they issue 1.1 to 1.2 million a year. He said 85 percent of the drivers go 62 mph or less. "People are violating the 55 mile limit, but most are not going as fast as they were when the limit was 65 or 70," Faas said.

The speed limit in Georgia, meanwhile, is creeping up; it was an average of 60 mph for the first six months of 1978, compared to 57.8 mph during the same period last year.

The authorities are unanimous in praise of the 55 mph limit. "You can see it on holiday weekends," said Capt. John Gilmartin of the Ohio Highway Patrol, adding that 18 persons died on state roads during the 1978 Memorial Day weekend, down from 32 in 1973. "There's no question about it," Gilmartin said, "55 miles an hour has saved lives."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Sunny skies are forecast today for most of the country. Temperatures are expected to be mild from the Pacific coast to the Plains, cool over the Great Lakes and warm to very warm conditions for the remainder of the country. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By THE Associated Press

It appears the weather will cooperate for the long Fourth of July weekend in North Carolina, with temperatures generally holding to seasonal levels and rain being confined to widely scattered afternoon and evening thunderstorms.

Thundershowers this afternoon and evening were indicated mainly for the southwest portion of the state and they will be widely scattered Saturday through Tuesday. A few thundershowers also were indicated tonight in the northeast portion.

High temperatures are expected to range from the upper 80s to the low 90s through the weekend, although it may be slightly cooler Saturday in the higher mountains and over the extreme northeast a portion.

Heavy thunderstorms developed early this morning over a southwest section of the state, centering mainly in Robeson, Columbus and Brunswick counties. The storms were accompanied by heavy rain and gusty winds, and possibly some hail.

Temperatures ranged in the low 90s over a wide area of the state Thursday, reaching 92 degrees at Asheville, Charlotte, Fayetteville and Raleigh. Hickory apparently was warmest with 94 degrees.
