Pleased By Leaf Prices

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Robeson County tobacco farmer George Pate was pleased with the way things were going at the opening of the North Carolina Border Belt tobacco sales here Wednesday.

"Things look pretty good," he said as he stood with his foot propped up on a bale of the lemon-gold leaf. He was watching 12 buyers following the singsong chant of the auctioneer up and down the rows at the Star Warehouse here.

"It's selling pretty good," he said. "Most people are going to be pleased. I hope we'll make some money."

Pate, who has a 1,200-acre farm with 30 acres of tobacco near Lumberton, wasn't the only one who was pleased with the way sales were going Wednesday. Warehousemen, agriculture and tobacco officials alike were in high spirits as the opening sales brought anywhere from $10 to $35 per hundred pounds higher than last year.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham said it was the best opening day he had seen on the Border Belt in his 14

Pioneer Test-Tube-Baby Doctors Caution Women Against Too-High Hopes

By JEFF BRADLEY
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Britain's two pioneer test-tube-baby doctors are cautioning infertile women not to raise their hopes too high yet and advising foreigners seeking their treatment that they and Britain can't take care of them.

The birth of 5-pound, 12-ounce Louise Brown, the first authenticated case of a baby born after conception outside the womb was the end of the beginning, not the beginning of the end," Dr. Robert Edwards told a news conference. "We wish to be very modest about what we have done. We have a lot to learn."

"It is obvious this is not immediately available to everybody," said Dr. Patrick Steptoe, his colleague in the 12 years of research and experimentation that culminated in the birth of the baby Tuesday to 30-year-old Lesley Brown.

The London Daily Express reported that doctors at London's St. Thomas's Hospital also are experimenting with testtube fertilization and that a woman underwent an egg-extraction operation there Wednesday.

Mrs. Brown came to Steptoe and Edwards two years ago for help because a blockage in her fallopian tubes that prevented conception could not be corrected. The two doctors took an egg from one of her ovaries, fertilized it with her husband's sperm in a laboratory dish and implanted the dividing cell into her uterus, where it developed normally. Mother and daughter are reported in fine condition.

An estimated 40 percent of infertile women have the same problem as Mrs. Brown. But research on test-tube conception in the United States has been curtailed since 1975, when the Department of Health, Education and Welfare barred federal funding for it unless the projects were approved by the Federal Ethics Advisory Board.

The board, which has been marking time on the issue, announced after the British success that it would begin gathering information next month on such controversial related matters as the discard of fertilized eggs, donor eggs and using surrogate mothers to carry fetuses.

"I think we're going to be very cautious about this," said the board's vice chairman, David Hamburg.

U.S. doctors are also likely to be extremely hesitant about laboratory conception because of the $1.5 million damage suit a woman has brought against New York's Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center because one of its doctors destroyed a culture she claims was to have been implanted in her womb.

Opine No Problem In Voter Inquiries

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

"I don't think we're going to have any problem," Clifton W. Everett Jr., chairman of the Pitt County Board of Elections said this morning about an FBI investigation of alleged unfair registration practices involving college students in eight North Carolina Counties.

Federal officials confirmed Tuesday that the FBI is investigating allegations that some elections boards may have denied college students the right to vote through unfair registration practices. In addition to Pitt, other counties in which student voter registration practices are being looked at include: Wake, Orange, Durham, Mecklenburg, Guilford, Jackson and Watauga.

Everett said, "I don't know too much about it," but added that the "practices that have been brought to my attention, we don't do here. I don't think we're going to have any problem."

Pitt Registrar Margaret

Register said she talked with the FBI Tuesday.

"It appears that allegations have been made that college students that came in to register to vote were treated differently and given different forms than the regular local citizens," she said.

"When persons come in to register to vote," in Pitt County, Miss Register emphasized, "we do not know whether it is a college student or not. They are all treated alike...no discrimination."

"The FBI agent seemed to be satisfied with the situation," here, she explained. "If a residence is in question, we leave it up to him (the person registering) to make the decision."

"All forms," used in Pitt, "are consistent. There is no difference in treatment. All forms that are used are prescribed by the State Board (of Elections)," Miss Register said.

She explained that, most college students, are considered temporary residents and thus are not eligible to vote here. "They are not eligible to vote except at their regular domicile," Miss Register said.

"We discuss this with the person and try to determine what that person should do with reference to voter registration...as to where and how he should register and vote."

The FBI investigation resulted from a complaint by H. M. Michaux, U.S. attorney for the middle district of North Carolina over registration practices in Orange County.

Michaux said the complaints against the elections boards have to do with special questions asked of students, but not of non-students, about county residency.

A HOTLINE TRIBUTE "SOME NICE PEOPLE"

A very nice person sent my wallet that was lost in the Pitt Theater in Greenville to me by mail. I didn't have any money in it, but I had my fishing license which I really needed the day it was sent to me. The postage was 60 cents. I am 13 years old and am happy to know there are still some nice people and honest people left. Ricky Harper, Farmville

A HOTLINE FEEDBACK CORRECTION

A few weeks ago there was published in Hotline an item concerning the inability of Pitt Technical Institute to locate an instructor barber. We quoted a Pitt Tech official saying that, at the time guidance was sought eight years ago, the state licensing commission for barbers requested that an instructor have a master's degree plus nine years of experience in barbering. A Hotline reader, through Sen. Robert Morgan, has corresponded with the N. C. Board of Barber Examiners Chairman G. Cecil Clark. He stated that the information published by us is not correct. The requirements are, he said, that a person be an up-to-date licensed Registered Barber and have passed the required instructor's examination and have been issued an instructor's certificate in North Carolina. He also said that our source's allusion to two barber schools in North Carolina is also incorrect. There are four, he said.

Ga.-Fla. Prices Steady

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP) — Grade prices were holding generally firm on the Georgia-Florida flue-cured tobacco market after the first six days of auctions, the Federal-State Market News Service reported.

Tobacco sold in the two states Wednesday — the sixth day of sales — totaled 3,608,882 pounds at an average of $136.49 per hundred pounds, raising season totals to 27,192,966 pounds at $133.16 per hundred, according to preliminary reports from the news service.

Sales in Georgia totaled 3,078,318 pounds at $136.63 per hundredweight Wednesday, raising the season total to 23,097,457 pounds at $133.01 per hundred, the service said.

In Florida, sales Wednesday totaled 530,564 pounds at $135.73 per hundred, for a season total of 4,095,509 pounds at $134.02 per hundredweight, according to the preliminary reports.

The service said price variations were mostly $1 to $5 per hundred pounds Wednesday. The practical top price remained $155.

Tobacco quality improved slightly as more leaf grades appeared on warehouse floors, the news service said. Volume was light to moderate at most auction points.

Weigh Massive Recall Of Cars

WASHINGTON (AP) — In what would be the largest action of its kind, the government expects to decide soon whether to order the recall of virtually every Ford car and truck manufactured with an automatic transmission between 1973 and 1978 — a total of 9 million vehicles.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration began an investigation last November after the independent Center for Auto Safety said 100 accidents and 12 deaths were caused by the transmissions in those cars jumping from park into reverse by themselves.

Agency spokesman Hal Parris, responding to a Washington Post report that a decision on the recall is expected next week, said today: "We're trying to get some conclusion as soon as possible, but I don't expect any preliminary finding for at least two or three weeks."

"We haven't made a determination yet one way or another on what should be done," he added.

In a letter sent Wednesday to safety agency administrator Joan Claybrook, the center's director, Clarence Ditlow, criticized the agency for taking so long to decide on a recall.

The Fords involved were manufactured with either the C-6 or FMX automatic transmission and include practically all cars with engine displacements of 300 cubic inches or more and light trucks with engines of 350 cubic inches or more.

Walked Out, 36 Fired

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — Rocky Mount officials were hiring replacements Wednesday for 36 sanitation workers who were fired Tuesday after they walked off the job for the third time in a month, according to City Manager William H. Batchelor.

But Batchelor said hiring and training a new force could take until September. In the meantime, Batchelor said weekly garbage pickups for city residents would be provided by about 20 trash collectors who had not walked out, and garbage receptacles had been placed around the city for residents to use between collections.

The fired workers have 10 days to reapply for their jobs or appeal their dismissal, he said.

The city had received more than 20 applications for sanitation jobs by Wednesday, and hired four new workers.

Nab Juvenile For Hold-Up

A 15-year-old juvenile was arrested and charged with the armed robbery Wednesday of Peaden's Grill about five miles from Greenville.

According to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson, department deputies took the youth into custody about 20 minutes after the robbery occurred. He was arrested at his Rt. 1, Greenville home located about a half mile from the scene.

Sheriff Tyson said a clerk told deputies a youth entered the store shortly after 2 p.m. brandishing a handgun, wearing a stocking mask and a hat. Tyson said the youth motioned, without speaking, to the clerk, identified as Bobby Forbes, to move from behind the counter. He then went to the cash register and removed the cash, putting it in his pockets.

Tyson said the youth fled through the rear door of the store on foot.

Tyson added that at the time of the arrest about $150 allegedly taken in the robbery was recovered.

No one was injured during the robbery, the sheriff noted. Bloodhounds from the Department of Corrections were used to aid in the search for the youth.

A first appearance hearing was scheduled for this morning.

Call Meeting

A special call meeting of the Greenville Board of Education has been set for Monday, July 31 at 8 p.m. in the board room of the Central Office, 431 West Fifth St.

Items to be considered by the board include personnel, the budget, and the purchase of additional property for the Sadie Sauter Elementary School.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that Gulf Oil Corp. will pay the U.S. Treasury $42.2 million in a compromise settlement of federal claims that it overstated its crude oil costs by $79.6 million.

Still Falling

TOKYO (AP) — The dollar plunged to new lows in hectic trading on the Tokyo foreign exchange market today, hitting 192.10 yen and then closing at 193.475 despite massive buying by the Bank of Japan.

The spot trading volume was a near-record $1.123 billion as the slumping state of the U.S. currency kept traders jumping and tourists and others in a continuing state of apprehension.

"What's going on?" asked one American resident. "Is it going down to 100 to one?"

The fall of the dollar was reducing the purchasing power of Americans in Japan almost daily. Since last Friday, the dollar has dropped 4 percent, and since August 1971 the onemighty U.S. currency has lost nearly half its value in yen.

Preliminary Plat Given Tentative Approval

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Approval was given last night in a split vote by the Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission to a preliminary plat for a lot near the eastern boundary of Lyndale Subdivision, subject to an opinion by the city attorney regarding two items.

Commissioners, after discussing the preliminary plat submitted by Dr. Barry A. Moore, voted by a six to four margin to approve the plat, contingent upon the attorney's opinion as to whether the lot development constitutes a subdivision and whether an easement constitutes legal access.

The subdivision and access questions generated lengthy discussion as commission members differed in their views of the plat.

Moore indicated that he planned to build a house on a 3.1 acre lot at the extreme eastern end of Martinsborough Road. The lot has access to Martinsborough Road across the corner of property owned by Dan Morgan, it was explained.

Phil Dickerson of the local firm of Dickerson-Adams and Associates, speaking for Moore, said that Morgan has agreed to allow Moore an easement across his lot for access and it has been agreed by the property owners that if the city ever requires the continued development of Martinsborough Road, Moore would pay for half of Morgan's share of the assessment.

Martinsborough Road currently ends at Queen Anne's Road, it was noted, although a short, unpaved section continues. Only one point of Moore's lot touches Martinsborough Road.

City Engineer Charlie Holliday said that he wondered if the matter constituted a subdivision. He added that the property was divided into lots years ago.

Commission member Mrs.

Ruth Trevathan contended that the land at the eastern boundary would be developed at some time in the future and she noted that the "total picture" should be considered in discussing the plat.

Mrs. Trevathan and Commissioner E. E. (Ed) Howell questioned the access situation to the Moore property and suggested that if the

Wife Of Justice Seeks Own Claim To Fame

WASHINGTON (AP) — Things have changed a lot in the past dozen years for the pert and pretty sociology student from Oregon who came to the nation's capital as the fourth wife of a controversial Supreme Court justice.

There is no fanfare by her listing in the yellow pages as one of 7,800 attorneys in the District of Columbia.

"Douglas, Cathleen H. 298-8020," the listing says.

But Mrs. William O. Douglas' small, cluttered office is part of a prominent law firm.

And it is just two blocks from the White House.

She moves easily in the social and business circles of Washington and says you would have to pay "a lot of money" to buy her services for an hour.

"For now, I'd like to be the best lawyer in Washington, D.C.," she says. She is on the way.

"Because I am married to who I am, I have had a lot of doors open to me that would not be open otherwise, particularly to someone at the age of 35 — and I relish that," she says.

"But it works two ways. When you go into a courtroom for the first time and you are known for a name, you are bound to make your share of mistakes.

"And you do it in the spotlight of that name. But I have accepted both sides of it."

Mrs. Douglas was interviewed in Washington recently by The Seattle Times. The justice has been confined to a wheelchair since a massive stroke three years ago.

She and Justice Douglas are legal residents of Goose Prairie, Wash., a tiny hamlet in the Cascade Mountains. She says she wants to return someday to the Washington she refers to as "my state."

But she doesn't know when that will be.

"You want to be close to good medical help, and there's not much of it in Goose Prairie," she said with a grin.

The Douglases have frequent visitors, and he still goes to his office at the Supreme Court every day to finish the second volume of his autobiography.

It was in July 1966 that the 23-year-old Portland, Ore., student sent eyebrows arching when she married Douglas, then 67.

She now works for the Washington, D.C., law firm of Leva-hawes, Symington, Martin and Openheimer, for whom she represents many clients before federal agencies.

Wisconsin Noted For Fine Cheeses

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

About once a year, business has taken me to Wisconsin, and I have been struck by the variety of cheeses made in the nation's leading dairy state.

Years ago, Swiss, German and Danish settlers, reproducing the famous cheeses of their native lands, established and fostered Wisconsin's cheese industry. Today, I'm told, the state puts out nearly half of all the cheese produced in this country.

Wisconsin is famous for its Cheddar, but the dairymen are even prouder of their Swiss. They will tell you without batting an eye that their product is better than that of Switzerland.

There are many other foreign cheeses duplicated in Wisconsin. I consider the Provolone more delicate and tastier than the Italian original. The spiced Gouda is superb and Wisconsin Fondutta bears a close resemblance to Munster. It differs only in being softer and more buttery.

There is also Wisconsin Brick, a creamy yellow cheese which is midway between Cheddar and Limburger. When new, Brick is quite mild, but it gains strength as it ages. It is delicious with beer or ale.

Wisconsin is also noted for its blue cheese, that veined, crumbly delicacy with such a piquant flavor. There are other varieties I have never heard of back East; cheeses like Longhorn and Boccini.

One thing I learned sampling Wisconsin's Parmesan. When fresh it is good eaten in chunks. It is grated on pasta and dressings after it ages.

There is a fascination about this universal food which is one of the oldest known to humanity. Cheese has appeared in one form or another wherever man has grazed animals and used their milk.

Cheese is an adequate substitute for meat and in countries where the cost of meat is prohibitive people get much of their protein from cheese. Americans are rapidly finding this out, with the soaring costs in our butcher shops.

Here's a simple recipe for cheese pie that makes a nice luncheon or supper dish.

Pastry for 1 crust
9-inch pie, unbaked
1½ ounces grated Wisconsin Swiss
8 slices crisp bacon, crumbled
3 eggs
1 cup heavy cream
2 ounces light cream
1 ounce dry white wine
1 dash Tabasco
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon powdered mustard

Roll pastry to ¼-inch thickness and line 9-inch pie plate, fluting edges. Sprinkle cheese and bacon into pan. Beat remaining ingredients together and pour into lined pan. Bake in preheated 375-degree oven for 45 minutes. Serves 4-6. Good with chilled, dry white wine.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

We are living in an age of temperance.

You can't go to a gathering anymore without coming face to face with a group of reformed smokers, sanctimonious joggers, committed dieters, or born-again drinkers.

I sit through entire evenings with people who have given up watching TV and want to tell me why, who no longer baste themselves in the sun and give me their reasons for abstinence, who have made a decision not to have children and insist on stating their case.

Everyone listens. After all, people have their own personal reasons for doing things. No one gets too uptight about a stand.

Until the other night.

The conversation around the dinner table was about 86 decibels when the hostess placed on my plate a meringue shell, filled with ice cream, topped with butterscotch sauce, whipped cream, and a maraschino cherry on top.

"No thank you," I whispered as she placed the dish in front of me. "I don't eat dessert."

The entire room fell into silence. The host gasped. Forks poised in midair. Jaws stopped chewing. The hostess stopped breathing. Every eye in the room was on me.

"What do you mean you don't eat dessert?" asked my table partner.

"Do you mean to tell me you are going to pass up Helen's dessert — Future Blimp — which she has worked on all day long?"

"It's stubborn and it's spiteful."

"I suppose you're too big for desserts anymore."

"Are you saying that just this once you couldn't make an exception?" asked a woman across from me.

"How can you resist? Just a bite of it wouldn't kill you."

"I've never seen anything so rude," came a muffled voice at the end of the table.

Dinner continued, but a pall had settled over the entire group as I sipped at my coffee.

Yesterday, I was shopping in the supermarket when I met a couple who had been at the party. "You remember her, George. She's the one who refused Helen's dessert."

It's funny. I could discover a cure for boredom, run for governor, or give birth while running the Boston Marathon, but I will always be remembered for refusing to succumb to meringue and butterscotch.

Wives Worry About Husbands' Weekend

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: This year, as in previous years, my husband has invited his sales team to our mountain cabin for a weekend of fishing.

This year, unlike previous years, his sales team now includes a young, unmarried woman who happens to be very attractive. (All the men are married and middle-aged.)

Abby, would you believe that some of the wives are making a big fuss because they feel that it is improper for a single girl to sleep under the same roof with their husbands?

Our cabin is a six-room chalet with sleeping accommodations for 12, and this trip involves five men and one girl.

All the wives respect your opinion, so please tell us what you think.

D.M.'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: The woman member of the sales team is entitled to the same benefits as the men. If your husband excludes her in deference to nervous wives, he'll be guilty of sexist discrimination. So relax. It's a new, new world, Ma'am.

DEAR ABBY: I have a sister-in-law who really turns me on. I know it's not love, it's just a physical attraction. Every time she touches me unintentionally, I go up the wall.

My problem is I don't know if I should go ahead and try something or just lay back. If I lay back I'll go crazy, and if I go ahead, I run the risk of having her refuse and then telling my brother, and I sure don't want that.

What should I do? I am 16.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Lay back. Lay WAY back. And in self-defense, do your best to remain untouchable.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for six years and it seems like 60. We have three beautiful children, 6, 3 and 13 months old. My husband is a steady worker, he makes a good salary, and he doesn't drink or run around. Those are his good qualities. But when he comes home, he always greets our children with a slap in the mouth. He always finds some excuse to hit one of them. He uses me as a punching bag if he feels like it, too.

He tells the kids, "Don't touch the car. It's MINE!" (Everything is HIS.) He doesn't talk, he yells.

The kids are scared to death of him and so am I. He hasn't taken me anywhere in two years. I begged him to go to the priest with me, but he refuses. He says if the priest comes here he'll throw him out. He won't take me to church so I pray at home, but I have to hide when I pray or he'll say I'm cracking up. Maybe I am. Am I?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: A physician can tell you if you're "cracking up." See one immediately. Tell him what's bothering you, and if he prescribes counseling, by all means go. If your community doesn't offer a refuge for battered wives and abused children, they should have one.

You don't need your husband's permission to see a priest. And if you continue to live with this abusive man, who is probably sick, you are sicker than he is.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "RUNNING TO LOSE WEIGHT IN SANTA MONICA": Running alone won't do it. Diet is the most important factor. You will have to run three miles to "burn up" 100 calories. In other words, for every hot fudge sundae you consume, you will have to run 15 miles to stay even.

Research-On-Wheels Tour Held In County Yesterday

Pitt County agriculture was spotlighted yesterday as the 20th annual Extension-Research On Wheels Tour rolled through to visit an area farm and a seed production center.

Tobacco growers, chemical and tobacco company representatives, county extension agents, members of research and extension staff at North Carolina State University and foreign guests made their first county stop at Ralph C. "Chap" Tucker's farm near Kings Crossroad.

According to Gaylon Ambrose, Pitt County associate agricultural extension agent, visitors examined a tobacco disease control test being made on Black Shank, but the main thrust of the farm tour was mechanization.

"Two different in-field harvesters were exhibited," Ambrose noted. "Rupert Watkins, associate professor of biological and agricultural engineering at NCSU, was on hand to lead discussions on different types of mechanization."

"Different types of mechanization were shown for every cycle of tobacco production," Ambrose continued.

Wednesday night, a "twilight tour" was conducted at the Speight Seed Farm, Winterville.

Mark Grimsley, plant breeder at Speight led visitors around the farm for explanations on seed production.

"The seed farm tour purpose was two-fold," Ambrose said. "We looked at advanced breeding lines and candidates for release for the 1980 crop, as well as the production of Speight's basic seed line, G-28."

Approximately 400 persons attended a pig picking held on the farm after the tour. Agricultural Commissioner Jim Graham joined the group for the festivities.

Ambrose said response to the tour has been favorable.

"By and large, we've had very good response," Ambrose noted. "There's been a variety of information presented, from the historical notes from the Duke Homestead to protein extraction from tobacco at the Oxford Research Station."

"Twenty years ago, only 24 people went on this farm tour," said Ambrose. "Crowds this year have ranged from 150 to 400."

Duplication Of Programs On UNC Campuses Under Study

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The University of North Carolina has begun a study to determine whether there is unnecessary program duplication on its 16 campuses, but the problem of duplication may once more embroil the university in difficulties with the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

UNC is required to make the study under the terms of a desegregation agreement reached in May with HEW.

Although UNC has agreed to conduct the study, there is disagreement between the university and HEW over what constitutes unnecessary program duplication. That disagreement delayed the desegregation agreement for several months last spring.

They reached a settlement after agreeing not to define duplication for a time.

"It is clear that we had a very serious disagreement with HEW this spring," said Raymond H. Dawson, UNC's vice president for academic affairs. "It is quite possible we will have a serious disagreement in December," when the study is due.

The disagreement centers around HEW's wish to realign some academic programs as a tool for attracting blacks to white campuses and vice versa. UNC officials say they disagree with that concept, but are willing to consider eliminating duplicative course offerings that are economically wasteful.

The study will look at the black and white campuses located in the Raleigh-Durham-Chapel Hill area and the Greensboro-Winston-Salem metropolitan area.

It will examine whether some academic programs should be eliminated, shifted or realigned to further desegregate the six state university campuses located in those two areas.

The study will concentrate on duplication of graduate level programs in teacher education and business administration and undergraduate programs in nursing and engineering, Dawson said.

The campuses that will be affected most are predominately white UNC-Chapel Hill, N.C. State University in Raleigh and UNC-Greensboro, and the historically black N.C. Central University in Durham, and Winston-Salem State University and N.C. A&T University in Greensboro.

The study must be completed by Dec. 1 and then UNC must submit a plan outlining how it proposes to end any unnecessary duplication that is found.

"They (federal officials) have assumed that you can use program reassignment, termination or realignment as a quick Norway's coastline — including the fjords and the largest of its 150,000 islands — is 17,000 miles long.

effective substitute for pupil assignment," Dawson said.

"They assume that you can in fact induce students to move as you want them to move in order to change the racial mix of an institution by manipulation of its programs.

"They have no proof and no data to suggest that if you close the school of education at N.C. Central, those students would go to school at N.C. State or Chapel Hill."

Felts Is Named Associate Dean

WINSTON SALEM — Dr. John H. Felts has been named associate dean of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine. He will direct the medical student admissions program.

Felts, a nephrologist, joined the Bowman Gray faculty in 1955. He is also editor of the "North Carolina Medical Journal." He said he and his staff will begin immediately to process applications for positions in the 1979 entering class. Some 4,722 applications were received for the 108 places in the 1978 entering class, he said.

In addition to his duties as associate dean for admissions, he will continue to have some teaching and patient care responsibilities, particularly as they relate to kidney disease.

Youth Group To Visit Atlanta

The Echoes of Calvary Youth Choir, its advisors and counselors, will visit Atlanta, Ga. this weekend.

The group will travel by chartered bus to Atlanta, where they will tour, visiting, among other places, Martin Luther King's birthplace and grave and his widow's home and also Ebenezer Baptist Church, where his father preached. They will also spend a day at Six Flags Over Georgia amusement park.

Story Of Corruption Unfolds

In Washington a sordid story is unfolding of corruption in the General Services Administration. There are allegations of crime and fraud within the GSA which controls properties and supplies for the nation's government. Investigators believe that kickbacks, fraud and other illegal acts are costing the tax payers more than $100 million annually. Included are allegations of false contract specifications, illegal use of credit cards and paying for work which was never done. And investigators said they ran into incredible arrogance from the people under investigation. If the administration ever wants to show that it is truly in control of the federal government now is the time to do it.

Where adequate evidence is gathered of wrongdoing, indictments should be brought and there should be immediate dismissal of employees who have clearly broken the law. The no-firing atmosphere which has predominated in Washington for many years has done its part to make some unscrupulous individuals feel that they can do anything with tax money and get away with it. There are plenty of honest federal employees and they shouldn't be required to share the stigma of dishonesty which a few have brought on our government. No doubt this kind of thing has been building up through several administrations, but the present administration can quickly end it by taking swift and stern action.

Not Too Much To Ask Public Servants

In the wake of the Dr. Peter Bourne resignation, Pres. Carter has warned the White House staff to obey the laws concerning use of illegal drugs. "You will obey it or you will seek employment elsewhere," he said in a memo. It surely doesn't seem to us to be too much to ask for those who serve at the very top in our nation's government.

THIS AFTERNOON

The Cultural Awakening

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Shakespeare in High Point; art on the sides of buildings; thousands jamming festivals; the symphony selling out at Kennedy Center and Carnegie Hall; international focus on dancing in Durham; outdoor drama thriving; and more. Is North Carolina becoming a major cultural center for the nation? Numerous indications point that way, and while the impetus behind this strong awakening of interest in things artistic might well be a realization in the political and commercial community that it's good for business, the end result nonetheless will be good for everybody. Even certain members of the General Assembly who once disdainfully dismissed the N.C. School of the Arts in Winston-Salem as that "To-dancing School", and snorted at legislation backing the symphony as a "horn-tooting bill", are now solidly behind state efforts to support the awakening. The School of the Arts, the first state-operated college in the nation dedicated to training students in the performing arts, has grown to 434 students now; up from fewer than 200 just 10 years ago. Museum The N.C. Museum of Art, first state-supported art museum in the nation, will shortly occupy one of the nation's outstanding buildings at Raleigh. Sara W. Hodgkins, secretary of the state's Department of Cultural Resources, was among a select group invited recently to testify before a committee of the U.S. Senate considering the proposed "Livable Cities Act of 1978". She was invited by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wisconsin. Her support of the measure, she commented, was "born of a conviction that such things as the arts and the creatively planned and built environment are not luxuries but necessities in making our urban areas livable, productive places. The presence of active, artistic programs and institutions is an indication of general vitality and energy in a local community," she said. "The arts create an environment in which redevelopment efforts are more likely to take root and flourish."

BILL NOBLITT

In the same week, Mrs. Hodgkins was a key figure in a special two-page "Close-Up of America" report in the weekly newsmagazine U.S. News and World Report. That altogether glowing and positive account of North Carolina's progress in reversing outmigration and building with progress toward the future was written by Associate Editor Lewis J. Lord. The arts took center-stage in that report, as Lord keyed "progressive, productive" forces which seate apart in the South and are now "pushing a tide of cultural endeavors across the state." What Happened Why, the magazine pondered, such an interest in culture? "It's just part of the good life. We don't consider music and art as luxuries. In order to be a whole person you need to experience these things," Mrs. Hodgkins responded. And of those legislators who once ridiculed culture, Mrs. Hodgkins reports: "Legislative backing for the arts is now solid. Some members even call and ask whether I'm sure a certain appropriation is big enough." Meanwhile, back in Washington, Mrs. Hodgkins was telling senators of arts programs in North Carolina cities which are helping to stabilize declining neighborhoods and awaken an interest in creativity among residents. In Durham's historic St. Joseph's Church art programs rich in variety are flourishing; in Charlotte's Spirit Square, facilities and programs are available to many low-income families; and Muralist Cynthia Arthur, working under a federal jobs program grant, has completed a painting on the side of a deteriorating building in Asheville and plans another in Salisbury.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Neither Ford Nor Reagan

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
DETROIT — The underlying tone of last week's Republican National Committee meeting was set when Bernard Shanley, veteran committeeman from New Jersey, arrived here with a resolution asking both Ronald Reagan and Gerald Ford not to run for president in 1980. Shanley abandoned the idea, preferring not to inject discord into one of the national committee's most tranquil meetings in memory. But a solid majority of the committee shares Shanley's views. It sees Reagan's last-hurry try for the presidency as inevitably drawing in Ford to stop him, resurrecting the Ford-vs.-Reagan nightmare of 1976. If these two old warriors renewed in combat is the worst thing that can happen to the party, the second worst in the opinion of national committee members would be Reagan at age 69 winning it by himself. There is overriding sentiment, shared by many Reaganites, for a new face. Surprisingly, the new face likely to finish first in a secret ballot of the committee is Rep. Jack Kemp of New York, a leader of the national tax revolt as sponsor of the Kemp-Roth tax-reduction bill. In the age of primaries, what national committee members say and do counts for much less than in bygone days. But abhorrence of a Ford-Reagan clash is pervasive among all Republicans. When national chairman William Brock met with the party's big money men here, their message was unmistakable: we want neither Reagan nor Ford. This was the discordant note of a gathering free of controversy and approaching euphoria. Committeeman Clarke Reed of Mississippi, usually embroiled in contentious rules disputes, did not even show up for the first day of rules committee meetings. Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa, lost in the labyrinthine Detroit Plaza Hotel, missed the entire executive committee meeting; it adjourned after 20 minutes, discussing whether a mid-January national committee meeting would interfere with winter vacations. Accompanying the harmony was delight over Jimmy Carter's discomfiture. But when considering which Republican could beat the president in 1980, the smiles faded. There is no support for a Ford comeback. Even the former president's ardent supporters flinch at word from his advisers that he will run if necessary to stop Reagan's nomination — perhaps entering presidential primaries. The old pro-Ford majority on the national committee is now mainly anti-Reagan.

A diehard fraction of Reaganites remains. Louisiana state chairman John Cade typifies this hard core who have no doubts about Reagan's age or electability. But there are more doubters among the faithful than the Reagan camp realizes. "I love Ronald Reagan," said Massachusetts chairman Gordon Nelson, a 1976 Reagan backer. "but I ask myself: should a 69-year-old man be running for president?" Nelson wants a younger man: Kemp, 43, or preferably Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, 47. What Nelson blasts out on the record, others whisper in private. "I'll back Reagan, of course, if he runs," one Midwestern committeewoman told us, "but I wonder what we're telling the young people of the country if all we have is Reagan, Ford and John Connally — three old men." Her choice: Kemp. Kemp's undercover admirers are not limited to old-time Reaganites. He is admired by liberal leaders of Michigan's Republican party, who pray that favorite son Jerry Ford will not try again. Apart from his primacy in the tax revolt, Kemp transcends ideological splits. With Mississippi's Republican wounds from the brutal Ford-Reagan struggle still not healed, Rep. Ted Cochran has asked only Kemp — not Ford or Reagan — to come

Strength For Today

RUSSIA & THE U.S.
Writing in 1831, the astute French commentator on the American scene, Alexis de Tocqueville, had some prophetic words to say about the future of Russia and the United States which deserve to be summarized and quoted at length. Both nations, he asserted, grew up almost unnoticed while the attention of mankind was directed elsewhere. Both have great resources and have advanced by struggle. But, "The conquests of the Americans have been gained by the sians by the sword. The American relies on free enterprise to accomplish his purposes, while the Russian centers all authority in a single arm. The principal instrument of the American is liberty; of the Russian, servitude. Each seems marked by destiny to sway half the globe." De Tocqueville's analysis was remarkably accurate. It remains to us to demonstrate that liberty will finally conquer the principles of despotism that have characterized the whole of Russian history.

Hefty Price Applied

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Togetherness among President Carter's official family sometimes carries a hefty price tag — to the private chagrin of some of Carter's key advisers. In question is the price exacted by Carter economists each time someone flies to the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., without enjoying official-business status. That means, for example, that if the president invites assistant Frank Moore to bring his family to Camp David for a weekend with the Carters, Moore can expect to get a bill for the 30-minute helicopter flight from Washington. Moore won't be billed for himself, because even the hard-nosed chief economist, presidential cousin Hugh Carter, assumes Moore was invited because of his official position as the chief White House lobbyist with Congress. But Moore can count on getting dunned for a transportation charge for his wife, Nancy, and their four children. With a family of that size, accepting a presidential invitation to relax in the beautiful Catoctin Mountains can be an expensive proposition. Hugh Carter figures a Camp David trip by helicopter is worth close to $50 a head. In the Moore example cited, multiply that by five. Moore and other members of the White House senior staff actually were invited last year to spend an autumn weekend at Camp David with their families and the Carters. But Hugh Carter wasn't about to confer official status on wives and children. So helicopter bills were sent to Moore, press secretary Jody Powell and such other key Carter aides as Stuart Eizenstat, Hamilton Jordan and Tim Kraft because they were accompanied by kinfolk. It's a fairly well kept secret that some of the bill recipients were outraged and stalled for weeks before paying up. Some of the aggrieved aides doubt the president knew they were billed for the journey. But each one questioned said he

For Heather At Eight

(Mr. Kilpatrick's column for today is cast in the form of his annual birthday letter to his granddaughter.)

SCRABBLE. Va. — Heather my love — You know what you remind me of? You remind me of the wild chichory that every summer grows along our Blue Ridge mountain roads. It grows tall and leggy and exuberantly, and it is topped by blue flowers that almost match the color of your eyes. Chichory is irreplaceable, my love, and so are you. This has been quite a year for you, the year between seven and eight. You have learned to read — really, truly read — and now you can read almost anything that comes along. You will read

"exuberantly" in the first paragraph, sounding out the syllables one at a time, and when you have the word licked you will ask someone what it means. You have had an inquisitive cast of mind ever since you were in the two-year-old stage of "why?", and you seem to get more inquisitive all the time. You also have learned to write, really to write, in whole sentences that are spelled correctly even if the penmanship is still a little wobbly. This summer, as part of your second-grade homework, you are keeping a journal of two sentences a day. I like some of your sentences better than some of mine. "We brought our dog Bess to a picnic. At the picnic everybody got wet." That tells the whole story. "I counted 30 strikes of lightning. Mike got bored." A strike of lightning is far Superior to a stroke of lightning or a bolt of lightning. For the record, I note that much of your summer journal deals with food. Are eight-year-old girls always hungry? I expect so. On the last day of camp, "we won the watermelon." On June 28, "I had a bubblegum ice cream." That is positively the most appalling thought your grandfather has had all day. "I made cookies with Linda." That is better. "We went blackberry picking." You did indeed, and you came home chigger-bit all over. I saw nothing in your journal about the accident in June, when you cut your foot so badly on the backyard carousel, and maybe this was because you knew you were wrong and were ashamed to record the facts. You tried to stand in the middle of the turning mechanism, and you were lucky not to lose a foot. On July 6, "I got my stitches out." Okay. But it was a dumb thing you did. Otherwise it was a happy year for you. You acquire a black Lab puppy, name of Bess. You found a snakeskin just after the snake had shed it — a perfect skin, head and eyes, still warm — and you and your father measured it with a carpenter's rule: Five feet, 10 inches. Some snake! You did your chores at the farm, and you did them happily. You got along better with younger brother Douglas, and you began to get little-girl conscious of how your hair looks and whether your dress is okay for church. One evening a week or so ago, you came bursting into the kitchen, all flying legs and arms, to tell us about the canoe trip. You and Douglas and your father had gone up near Harpers Ferry, and stayed in a big orange tent full of chiggers, mosquitoes and spiders, and Saturday morning you took your position in the bow of the canoe, with Douglas in the middle and your father in the stern.

Other Editors Say It's All Uphill

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
There is good news of a sort for North Carolina natural gas users following a federal Appeals Court ruling which says the state was treated unfairly in gas allocations of previous winters. Morton L. Simons, a Washington attorney who represented the state and the state Utilities Commission, said recently North Carolina could get as much as a third more natural gas, with supplies increasing around November. However, an appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court by several parties to the case could delay implementation of a new allocation formula. In addition, the state must wait for final action on President Carter's energy plan before the picture on natural gas pricing clears up. The Senate has already approved the first part of the energy bill, designed to conserve dwindling petroleum and natural gas supplies by forcing industries to use more coal. The bill now awaits action in the House, where it has broad support. But other, more controversial parts of Carter's plan remain in serious trouble — raising doubts that Congress will supply much help in meeting the energy conservation goals Carter promised in Bonn recently. Both Carter's proposal for a domestic crude oil tax and a proposed compromise on natural gas pricing — the two major parts of the energy package — still face major opposition in Congress. House leaders say they don't plan to call a vote on the measure immediately. They will await the arrival of at least three other parts of the energy package, dealing with natural gas pricing, energy conservation and electric rates, before acting. "Natural gas will be a tough fight," says Sen. Henry Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee. "And if you knock out natural gas, you've knocked out half of the president's program." Carter's proposed energy plan is already 15 months old; it may grow older before final action is taken on it in Congress.

Growers were filling warehouses in South Georgia and North Florida with a new crop of blue-cured tobacco today in preparation for tomorrow's first auction sales as the Bureau of Agricultural Economics forecast lower prices than were paid last year. The Washington report said unless improvements in general economic conditions is "more rapid" than now anticipated, the blue-cured tobacco market will be "rather favorable" but not as good as in 1937. The Tar River here rose nearly three feet in the 24 hours ended at 8 a.m. today as a result of continued heavy rains for the past three days. At 8 a.m. today, the stream was standing at 11 feet and three inches, having risen from eight feet and five inches in the past 24 hours. The present level compares with the level Sunday morning of five feet, three inches.

The U.S. Productivity Decline

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Sometimes a little says a lot, and clearly too, such as these three items currently in the news: —In 1948, Japan was still clearing away the industrial and psychic debris of World War II, and was just beginning to rebuild its economy. To do so, it borrowed heavily from the United States supply of technological know-how, which had played so important a role in the defeat of Japan. It would be the basis for economic recovery. Technological innovation and its application is one of the foundations of industrial might, making it possible to produce more goods at less cost. The Japanese borrowed and applied well. Now, 30 years later, a group of American industrial authorities and government policy makers has just returned from a tour of Japanese plants, where they studied advanced manufacturing technology. The National Center for Productivity and Quality of Working Life, a U.S. agency that helped put the tour together, explained: "While in absolute terms the United States still holds the productivity lead, other nations have been challenging that position, and the rate of productivity growth, especially in the manufacturing sector, does not measure up well against the competition." It certainly does not. Since 1967 the productivity growth rate in Japan has increased by 105 percent compared to only 24 percent for the United States. Even that might not describe the full extent of the American decline. In the years 1962 through 1977, Japanese productivity grew an average of 8.4 percent. U.S. growth averaged 2.7 percent. How did some of the other competitors do? France rose an average of 5.7 percent a year, the Netherlands and Belgium 6.9, and Germany 5.5. Much of the U.S. decline, explained George Kuper, executive director of the center, follows a fall in the real volume of investment, as a proportion of GNP, in new technologies, research and development. —From about $8 billion in 1948, installment credit — the kind you pay back in monthly increments — rose to more than $215 billion by the end of 1977, and not all of it was caused by our inflated prices. Over that period, says Morgan Guaranty Trust, the debt-to-income ratio climbed from 4 percent to nearly 15 percent. Unavailable before the war, credit flowed freely after it. It became a way of life. In the first postwar decade, consumers financed about 60 percent of big ticket items, such as appliances, television sets and home improvements. On average, that is, they put 40 percent down. Between 1958 and 1967, such credit financed more than 80 percent of big ticket items. Still it grew. Over the latest decade, consumers have been financing about 90 percent of such purchases. —Never before in the 30-year history of the Survey Research Center's consumer sentiment studies have they seen anything like it. Confidence in the future of business usually correlates with willingness to buy. But for more than a year, the center has measured strong buying but growing pessimism about business expectations.

Surveyors Seek Learn If White House Is Sinking

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — On his bad days, Jimmy Carter probably thinks for sure the White House is sinking. Surveyors are trying to find out if it is.

On his good days, it might seem to the president that the White House is rising above the swamp on which much of the nation's capital is built. The surveyors are looking at that possibility too.

Using stainless steel rods, tape measures and computers, a team from the national geodetic survey branch of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration is trying to determine whether the White House is actually on its way up or down or just holding steady. The five surveyors are in the midst of making precise measurements and calculations to determine if the four-story, 132-room executive mansion, with 150 other rooms in two wings, is being moved ever so minutely by shifts in the earth that could crack the walls and weaken the structure.

It's too early to tell whether the White House is rising, falling or staying put, said NOAA officials. Significant shifts are not expected. None was discovered when a similar survey was made four years ago.

But there have been some shifts since the last extensive White House renovation, done during the Harry S. Truman administration. A survey shortly after the work was completed in 1952 turned up a subsidence of four-hundredths of an inch.

During that renovation, wooden timbers were replaced with steel and a concrete foundation was sunk 24 feet below the basement.

The soil on which the White House is built "is not the most stable earth in the metropolitan area," said Rex Scouten, the chief White House usher, who requested the survey.

The only structure between the White House and the Potomac River one-half mile to the south is the 81,120-ton Washington Monument, built on swampland. Using the monument as a guide, the White House could be sinking.

If the obelisk keeps dropping at the current rate of 0.47 feet a century, all 6,666 inches of the monument will be gone from view in 113,000 years, "give or take a few thousand years," said Jack Stringer, a spokesman for the geodetic survey.

Stringer said that when the team of five government surveyors placed a new marker on the White House South Lawn, near the tennis court, they drilled 26 feet into the soil and hit only one rock. The marker will be used in future examinations as a reference point.

The current survey began Wednesday and was due to be completed today. Then, at least 10 days of computations will be needed to compare the new figures with previous measurements to determine whether a shift is taking place.

The surveyors use "benchmarks" placed in the White House over the last 26 years.

wouldn't think about raising the issue in the Oval Office.

Hugh Carter told a reporter he simply applied guidelines drafted at the start of the administration to carry out Carter's insistent demand that no one in his White House be accused of joy-riding at the taxpayer's expense.

In fact, the presidential cousin said Carter himself is billed regularly when daughter Amy takes a playmate with her to Camp David.

"I think Rosalynn writes the checks," said Hugh Carter.

The bills are sent out, at Hugh Carter's direction, by the White House Military Office, which helps arrange military transportation for the president.

Checks are payable to the U.S. Treasury and the monies collected are added to the general fund, Hugh Carter said. He reported there is no means of directly reimbursing the military units that provide the helicopters.

"For a long time it was all flat water, all dull and plain and yucky, but it was clean and we went swimming. Then about 2 o'clock we got to the White Horse Rapids, and that was great. One boat flipped over. Fourteen canoes gave up, but we kept on going. It was a little scary, but not much. Then we ran the Devil's Staircase. About 5 o'clock we pulled out of the river, and we ate hot dogs, spaghetti and baked beans. We slept in the big orange tent and Sunday morning we ran the Shenandoah — a mile of flat water and then Bull Falls! Whee!"

You told us all about it, with your eyes shining and your hands making white-water rapids in the air, and then you saw lightning bugs outside and ran out to catch a few in order to make a lantern from a Mason jar. Reagan operatives Lyn Nofziger and Dave Keene were in Detroit last week but maintained a low profile. They feel the problem will solve itself. Kemp has promised not to run against Reagan, and other prospects attract only scattered interest.

Yet the mood here must concern Reagan. Several conservative committee members gathered over drinks one night to confront the age problem frankly. What about Charles de Gaulle? Winston Churchill? Konrad Adenauer? "But none of them had to run for president in America," replied one committeeman counted on by the Reagan camp. That sounded a sobering note for the party's runaway front-runner.

'No Atheists In Life Jackets'

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — "There are no atheists in life jackets," says Larry Coyle, one of four survivors of a pleasure boat explosion who spent a night in the sea as sharks tore at the nearby body of a female companion.

"Certainly we prayed," said Coyle, 65, of Charleston Heights, when questioned today about the ordeal. He agreed to a brief telephone interview with the Associated Press but declined to meet with reporters and photographers.

Coyle, a retired radiographics engineer, said Barbara Ann Woodham, 58, of Charleston, was killed in the explosion and fire which destroyed the 28-foot boat late Tuesday afternoon five miles off Edisto Beach south of Charleston.

Her body drifted off from Coyle and the other three survivors who tied themselves together with lifejackets and floating cushions. A Coast Guard helicopter crew recovered her mutilated body early Wednesday morning about 250 yards from where the survivors were picked up.

Coyle said he and the others could see at least one shark near them as lightning illuminated the ocean, but they were not attacked.

As darkness closed in, Coyle said they could also see the lights of helicopters and surface vessels that were searching for them, but were unable to signal.

"Visibility was down to about zero," Coast Guard Chief Boatswain's Mate John Langhorn said Wednesday, hours after the four survivors were brought to Edisto Beach.

An Edisto Beach resident had reported seeing the explosion Tuesday night at 8 p.m. The survivors were rescued about 12 hours later.

The lightning may have saved the survivors from the sharks.

"It surprised me these four stayed together and didn't get attacked by sharks," said Deputy Sheriff James Craven. "Maybe the only thing that saved them was the sharp lightning we had." Lightning struck the water near the survivors several times during the night, Coast Guard officials said.

The crew of a 41-foot search boat found the survivors still tied together and floating about 5-to-8 miles off Edisto Island.

A Coast Guard helicopter crew spotted the woman's body later. Lt. Cmdr. Michael Lovett, the copilot, said at least two sharks, estimated at 10 feet long, were near the body. A crewman fought off the sharks with a boathook and pulled in the body.

Charleston County Coroner Ray Shokes said the woman's body was severely mutilated. Petty Officer 2nd Class David Giza said he was told by one of the survivors that the woman had died when a gas line on the "Miss Anne" exploded and the vessel caught fire.

Besides Coyle, the survivors were identified as Sam Boger, 39, of Summerville, owner of the boat; his son, Earl Boger, 15, and Jay Johnson, 12, of Summerville. The Bogers and the other were close friends.

Nude Bathing Hurt Business

OCRACOKE, N.C. (AP) — You might think that reports of nude bathing on Ocracoke Island would have brought hordes of eager sightseers to the picturesque island.

But instead they've had the opposite effect.

"The effect has been strange," observed a village resident in an interview with columnist Dennis Rogers of the News and Observer of Raleigh.

"You would expect that kind of publicity to draw a lot of people, but it hasn't. It has been the opposite.

"The families have been staying away and business here has fallen off, although there hasn't been a nude swimmer seen in two weeks," he continued. "It's over, plain and simple. Who wants to get arrested on their vacation? The word has spread. It's over."

He was referring to the local law enforcement crackdown that resulted after news reports that Ocracoke had become an important East Coast mecca for skinnydippers.

Village magistrate David Snell said the reports were actually exaggerated.

"After that newspaper story, people got upset," he said. "They believed naked people were everywhere. The study said it was a hundred. It wasn't. There were never more than 20 or 30, and they were spread out.

"It has never been a problem," Snell said, adding that "half of the people here have done it at one time or another, but they wouldn't admit it now."

The nude bathers arrested and brought before him, Snell said, were "just like anyone else, the kind of people you'd have in your house for dinner. They just liked to swim nude — and it is fun — so they went off by themselves and did so."

Scholarship Fund Begun By Retired Professor

ECU News Bureau
A $5,000 gift to the East Carolina University Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures has been given by Prof. Emeritus James Lawson Fleming Jr., former chairman of the department, in honor of Dr. Leo Jenkins, who recently retired as chancellor or ECU.

The funds are to be used to establish a scholarship program for ECU students who are foreign language majors.

Annual awards will be made each spring, on the basis recommendations by special committee of faculty members in the ECU foreign language department.

Purpose of the award, Prof. Fleming said, is "to encourage students majoring in a foreign language to achieve the highest standards of academic and personal growth of which they are capable."

Criteria for selection of award recipients will include academic achievement, character, personality and participation in departmental activities, he said.

The first award will be made in May, 1979.

A specialist in French literature, Prof. Fleming retired from ECU in 1970. He joined the East Carolina faculty in 1945 after completing a term of service as an interpreter for the U.S. Army.

He studied at Wake Forest, Emory, Columbia, and Harvard Universities, and at the Alliance F Institut de Phonétique and the Université de Paris. Before coming to East Carolina he taught at the Ecole Normale de Valence in France and at Randolph Macon Academy and Guilford College.

Prof. Fleming is the son of the late Lula White and State Sen. James Lawson Fleming, who sponsored the bill in the N.C. General Assembly to create the East Carolina Teachers Training School, now ECU. One of the ECU campus dormitories was named for Sen. Fleming.

Prof. Fleming's wife, the former Ellen Rion Caldwell, is professor emerita of mathematics at ECU.

Madison County Board Members Face Charges

MARSHALL, N.C. (AP) — The state Board of Elections has decided that all three Madison County Board of Elections members face charges of misconduct and may be removed from office. The three are Chairman Marvin Ball, Harold Ammons and Roger Swann. It is the second time in 14 years that a similar proceeding has been held in Madison County.

Fourteen years ago, the state board uncovered widespread irregularities in the Democratic primary voting for a state Senate seat which Zero Ponder, Madison County Democratic kingpin, apparently had won. The board refused to certify Ponder's election, declaring his opponent the winner and removing all three members of the local elections board.

State Bureau of Investigation agents were in Madison County from mid-April until mid-May investigating allegations that fraudulent votes were recorded on primary election day, that poll workers improperly "assisted" many voters by accompanying them into voting booths, that one voter received a paper ballot that had already been marked for five candidates, and that the wife of a candidate for sheriff was told she would lose her county job unless her husband withdrew from the race. Ponder was present for Tuesday's hearing. He said he was surprised and disappointed by the board's action. County board members Ball and Ammons are Ponder allies, while the third member, Swann, is a Republican. "This is a slap in the face to the Democratic Party," Ponder said, adding that there had been no irregularities. State Elections Board chairman Ken Babb said formal charges would be drawn up within the next few weeks, and an additional hearing will be convened to determine if the three officers will be ousted. Under state law, the state board may remove members of a local board on grounds of incompetence, fraud or neglect of official duties. Babb did not say whether the board's findings would be turned over to the district attorney's office for criminal prosecution, nor did he indicate what the specific charges against the Madison officials would be. "We think we found enough evidence to warrant a hearing for their removal," Babb said.

Once Known As 'Land Of The Shining Mountain'

By JONATHAN WOLMAN
Associated Press Writer
HELENA, Mont. (AP) — The Indians, in a different age, called Montana "the land of the shining mountain." That was before the copper companies came and leveled Butte, before the coal companies came.

State officials were thinking about those pristine days before copper, and about the threat from the new miners, when they devised a hefty 30 percent tax on coal taken from Montana's hills.

The tax has brought controversy, a law suit, fears by coal companies that the large tax will be copied in other states, and higher electric bills in many areas where costs are passed on by utilities.

"It is the highest tax on coal in the nation, so high that no other state comes close," says James Mockler of the Montana Coal Council, an industry group. Coal companies are paying the tax under protest and have joined a number of out-of-state utilities to challenge it in a state court as an unconstitutional burden on interstate commerce.

"We don't mind paying the costs of impact for our developments, but this tax is double or triple the reasonable rate," says Mockler.

State officials do not see the tax on coal that way but as part of a blueprint for developing a vast, and now strategic, coal reserve.

A severance tax is a levy on the extraction of mineral resources. In traditional, eastern coal states, the tax is nominal or non-existent.

Montana's tax approach is a hot issue not only because of industry fears of its spread — Wyoming and North Dakota already have raised such taxes — but because of the state's plans for the tax revenue.

A quarter of the funds are being banked in a permanent trust fund for future generations who may not benefit when coal runs out. Starting in 1980, fully half the revenues will go into this "future fund," and the coal companies are not happy about having to pay such a high tax for budget demands in the 21st century.

Montana will collect about $40 million from the coal tax this year, a revenue base that will continue to rise with coal production. By the year 2000, the fund could hold as much as $1 billion.

Of this year's revenue, the bulk will cover "infrastructure" costs of quick coal development — schools, roads, hospitals, sewers and the like. Some money is for three coal counties where development is especially rampant; $1.5 million is earmarked to develop alternative energy supplies and to bolster use of renewable resources.

It is the fact that coal is a non-renewable resource — here today, gone tomorrow — that prompted Montana lawmakers to set up the fund.

Westerners see eastern coal areas and shudder. Says Dorgan: "The scarring of the Appalachia region by careless strip mining has left that area and its people with scars of un-planned coal development that will last forever."

Moreover, Montana has its own history to look at. "It is a story of corporate domination, a story of rape, ruin and run," says Lt. Gov. Ted Schindler. "The most lurid parts of our history involve mining."

"Look at the copper experience in Butte. They call it the richest hill on Earth, and the city has nothing to show for it except substantial distress and a mile-wide pit in the middle of town."

"So when the price of oil quadrupled, and our low-grade coal became attractive, people thought of the copper barons and they wanted to make certain lightning wasn't going to strike twice."

Coal companies, meanwhile, see the past in a different perspective.

"Anaconda gets a bum rap," Mockler says of the copper company that ran Montana. "The company provided a century worth of payrolls. The people here had high incomes and lifetime jobs. I hardly think that's adverse impact."

It is the fear that coal will run Montana as copper did that led to creation of the trust fund. And it is the trust fund, essentially, that pushed the Montana tax so high.

According to Schwinden, the tax was set at 30 percent to reimburse state and local governments for mining's impact, while providing a safety net for future generations that may not get coal revenues.

"We don't see the trust fund being tapped in the foreseeable future," says state deputy budget chief David Lewis. By the year 2000, the annual income from investing the fund's principal should reach $70 million to $90 million, enough "to make a hell of a dent."

In Wyoming, the total tax amounts to 17 percent, with 2.5 percent going into a trust fund. North Dakota also is building a trust fund and has a tax totaling about 20 percent.

"With taxation at such levels, the emerging pattern of state coal tax policy in the northern Great Plains is one of OPEC-like revenue maximization," concludes a Rand Corp. report. One utility executive characterized state officials as "blue-eyed Arabs."

Montana officials say such talk is nonsense. A leading Helena businessman says, "If the tax is too high, they'll stop mining our coal. Obviously the tax isn't that high."

In fact, production has tripled to 27 million tons over the past five years. Industry officials expect a 10 percent boost in 1979.

"The severance tax is the most popular tax in the state of Montana," says Keith Colbo, top aide to the governor. Mockler rebuts. "Of course it's popular. People believe the only fair tax is the one that somebody else pays."

Indiana Library Is Big Boon To Genealogists

By LISA LEVITT
Associated Press Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —

Some people take summer vacations to visit their relatives; others would rather visit their ancestors.

To the uninformed, it might not seem like much of a vacation — sitting in a book-lined room in the State Library here, leafing through weighty county histories under subdued fluorescent lights while the sun shines outside.

But to the devotees, the people who travel hundreds and sometimes thousands of miles to get here, this library's genealogy division is as close as mortals get to paradise.

"Honey, even if you were in pain, you'd forget it doing this," Helen Orndorff said as she studied a census record. The 71-year-old Douglas, Ariz., woman said she began tracing family histories 15 years ago, and today it is an obsession.

"I had people to take care of, and I had to have something to take my mind off that, I'd get so frustrated," she said. "This is one of the most fascinating hobbies. It's just like putting together a jigsaw puzzle — you could work on it for days without stopping, you get so frantic about it."

Mrs. Orndorff has tracked down her roots, and those of five other families, in Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky and Illinois, but she claims Indiana has "the most astounding genealogy place I've ever seen."

"That's because while most state libraries just carry genealogical material from that state, this library has material from all states," professional genealogist Reba Fraustein explained. "Indiana is a different kind of state. When this area opened up, it attracted colonial settlers looking for land. People came here from everywhere."

And they are still coming — especially during the summer months, when many make vacations out of their search for their elusive precursors, assistant head librarian Diane Sharp said.

In the past decade, Mrs. Sharp has seen thousands of amateur genealogists pass through the library's doors, and they all have at least one thing in common.

"They are very determined," she said. "They are usually prepared, with their papers and their briefcases, and they know what they want."

But she says they have a multitude of motivations. Some hope to join societies that have hereditary requirements, like the Daughters of the American Revolution. Others, like Mormons, have religious reasons. Persons with certain diseases might want to know if their illnesses were inherited. Orphans might be searching for their real parents.

"Most people don't realize that it takes a lot of time, a lot of patience," Mrs. Sharp said. "They think they can come in here and find the answer. Well, it's not that easy."

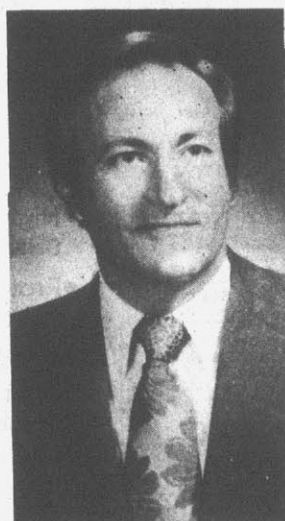

So Frances Allen found out. The Monroeville, Pa., woman was on her way back from California when she decided to look up one of her ancestors, Henry Wolf, who is said to have built some of the oldest bridges in Indiana.

She called her husband to say she would be a day or two late, "and three years later, I'm still at it. I've picked up a lot of

Emphasizes Campaign For Pride In Tobacco

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Renewed efforts are being made by R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company to acquaint area people with their recently instigated "Pride in Tobacco" campaign. On Wednesday, Mark Gutsche, a representative of the company, was in Greenville making preparations for a campaign timed to coincide with the opening of the market in Greenville next Tuesday, August 1. "One thing that has been encouraging," Gutsche said, "is the extent of the response we've had since we first announced our 'Pride in Tobacco' program. We've had people from as far away as Los Angeles to write and tell us they've heard about it. Letters from just about every state in the union have indicated there are many people tired of seeing tobacco cast in an undesirable role. "Our responses," Gutsche added, "have come from farmers, judges, industrial leaders, a whole cross-section of people who have expressed support for the program."

As part of the continuing campaign to familiarize people with the program, Gutsche said that through the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade that Reynolds is distributing four basic brochures plus bumper stickers, windshield stickers and similar promotional material.

The brochures cover various phases of tobacco and its relationship to individuals and the community in studies entitled "Smoking and Health," "Tobacco and the Economy," "Public Smoking," and "What is R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Doing for the Tobacco Grower?"

Also, in an informational release about tobacco's role in the Greenville area, a Reynolds study states "If tobacco weren't grown in North Carolina, over $48 million in trade would disappear from Greenville..." and "Greenville is the fifth largest North Carolina flue-cured market in tobacco producers' sales... In 1977, 39.2 million pounds of tobacco were sold in Greenville alone."

THE LOGO... for the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company program, "Pride in Tobacco" shows a hand holding three stylized tobacco leaves.

The "Pride in Tobacco" program being sponsored by Reynolds is, according to Corporate Public Relations writer Elsa M. Freeman, "designed to unite people of North Carolina behind their state's most important agricultural commodity."

Avers Churches Cannot Comply

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The administrator of a church-operated Christian school testified Wednesday that church members would rather close the school and move than comply with the state and file annual reports.

The Rev. Kent Kelly of Southern Pines, pastor of Calvary Memorial Church and administrator of church-operated Calvary Christian School, testified during the third day of the court case between the state and 11 church-affiliated schools which have refused to file the reports required by the state.

"The fundamentalist Christian schools cannot comply with the state's laws as they now stand," Kelly said in testimony. "And if we were forced to comply with these laws, we would close down the church and school and move to another state or another country."

Under questioning, Kelly said he believed the Christian schools' stand on their religious beliefs could be compared to the Amish. He said fundamentalist Christians believe in a common faith, in separation from the world and a distinct religious community.

The Christian schools are being represented by attorney William Ball of Harrisburg, Pa., who successfully defended the Amish in Wisconsin in their battle to keep their children out of public schools.

Kelly said he objects to requirements by the state Department of Public Instruction that Christian schools be "substantially the same" as state public schools.

He said he cannot accept state requirements on teacher certification, school curricula and textbooks.

Kelly testified that fundamentalist Christians have adopted their own dress codes and have their own specific beliefs on the use of alcohol and tobacco, dancing, modern music and television and movies.

Kelly said Calvary Christian

School receives no state or federal funds, adding, "Calvary is completely independent, completely autonomous. We maintain our school."

Kelly said 175 pupils are enrolled in the school in grades kindergarten through 12, and said all but three of the teachers in the school are college graduates. He said some of the teachers have been certified in the past by the state, and he said he believed all of the teachers are eligible for state certification, if they sought it.

Kelly said the same members serve on the church and school boards, and only church members are allowed to teach in the schools. He said he felt it was an "absolute necessity" that the school be a part of the church.

Attorneys for the state attempted to weaken his testimony by asking if his church members voted in elections, paid county and state taxes and generally complied with state laws. Kelly responded that the church members tried to be good citizens in the community by obeying laws they did not feel violated their religious freedom.

Set Course On Boating

Greenville Flotilla 16-05 of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will offer a three lesson Basic Boating Course during the first three weeks in August.

The classes will be held on three successive Tuesday nights from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. — on August 1, 8 and 15. Site of the classes will be the auditorium in the Greenville Recreation Dept. Building, 2000 Cedar Lane.

This is a comprehensive course of instruction, with a text and workbook being used to train persons in boat operation and safety.

Fee for the course is $3 per family, to cover cost of the textbook and other materials. There is no charge for the instruction, given by trained Auxiliary instructors.

For additional information, call Flotilla Commander J. A. Hecker at 756-0500 or Vice Captain R. A. Stephenson at 756-1916.

May Shift Next Week

North Carolina counties will be accepting regular redesignations beginning next week, according to Stacy J. Evans of the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

A redesignation, defined as a change in warehouses designated or in pounds designated to the warehouse, or initial designation for an under-designated farm, is limited to any one day during the redesignation period.

The redesignation will become effective on the second Monday following the end of the redesignation period for pounds added to a previously designated or newly designated warehouse.

Redesignation periods are the five work days which end on the first Friday in each month after any flue-cured market opens, according to Evans.

Decree Change In Gas Pricing

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Public Service Co. of North Carolina, a major supplier of natural gas, has been ordered by the state Utilities Commission to implement flat rates for residential customers.

Officials said it was apparently the first use of flat rates for a utility in North Carolina.

In the past, natural gas suppliers have charged customers a higher rate for a minimum of gas, with prices decreasing as the amount of gas use increased.

"The commission concludes that the rates should be flat, thereby eliminating declining blocks and encouraging conservation," the order said. It also rejected the idea of a summer-winter differential in rates, saying it was "undesirable in that such rates would be less effective than average flat rates in encouraging consumer conservation."

Public Service had sought to continue use of declining block rates, with rates per cubic foot declining as usage increased.

The order to implement flat rates came as part of the commission's approval of an annual rate increase of $4,023,956 for Public Service.

The company had sought an increase of $5.9 million a year, which officials said it needed to cover dividends owed to stockholders.

The commission's consumer-advocate Public Staff argued during hearings held in Raleigh, Asheville and Gastonia during April that the company needed only half the amount it was seeking. While the company sought permission to raise residential natural gas rates by 14.8 percent, which would increase the average annual bill from $317 to $364, the Public Staff called for an increase of slightly more than 7 percent.

The order allows Public Service an 8.69 percent rate of return on fair value common equity and a 14 percent rate of return on book common equity. The firm had sought a return of 16 percent on common equity.

Will Review Operations

CONCORD, N.C. (AP) — State officials have announced the appointment of a special task force to study the operations of the Stonewall Jackson Training Center here.

Two staff members at the school for delinquent teenagers have been dismissed and may face criminal charges in the wake of an investigation of reports that they took part in a sex and drinking spree with students at the camp Sunday night.

State Human Resources Secretary Sarah T. Morrow and William R. Windley, head of the Division of Youth Services, said the dismissal of the two staff members followed an investigation of the Sunday night incident allegedly involving male and female students and two male staff members. The staff members were dismissed Tuesday.

Mrs. Morrow and Windley also said facts uncovered in an investigation have been turned over to the district attorney's office in Concord for a determination of whether legal action should be taken.

Robert Everett, director of the school, said the two male "house parents" were dismissed for "conduct unbecoming a state employee."

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned mixed today, pausing after the rally of the past two sessions. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had climbed 15.59 points Tuesday and Wednesday, slipped back .08 to 847.11 by noon today. Gainers maintained a 5-3 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts have attributed the market's recent strength in large measure to enthusiasm over the exceptionally strong second quarter earnings being reported by many companies. But brokers noted some hesitancy today as traders awaited the weekly money supply statistics from the Federal Reserve at today's close, and the government's monthly report Friday on consumer price trends.

Pan American World Airways led the active list, up 1/4 at 8 1/2. On Wednesday the company reported sharply higher second-quarter earnings.

Vornado climbed 1 1/2 to 15 1/2 on word that Interstate Properties, one of two concerns that have recently acquired Vornado shares, had increased its holdings of the stock.

The NYSE's composite index rose .06 to 55.67. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .30 at 153.18.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 13.74 million shares as of noon, down from 16.72 million at the same point on Wednesday.

Interviewer Assigned

A special interviewer has been assigned to the Greenville office of the Employment Security Commission to help young people in the work force to find employment.

The assignment of a person to deal with those under the age of 22 in finding work was necessitated by the influx of this age group into the Pitt County job market.

The influx is best shown by figures — during the past quarter, April to June, a total of 361 youth were placed in jobs. This contrasts with 85 placed during the same quarter in 1977.

Placement in general is on the rise, with the Employment Security Commission having placed 896 persons on jobs in the same (April to June) quarter this year, as contrasted with 661 placed during the similar quarter in 1977.

In the field of veteran placement, 184 received employment through the commission in the second quarter of 1978.

Figures compiled show that during this period a total of 1,033 job openings with Pitt County employers were listed with the Employment Security Commission.

MOMEYER, N.C. (AP) — A propane gas tanker collided with a car on busy U.S. 64 today, killing at least one person and forcing evacuation of the entire town of Momeyer.

The accident sparked a fire around the truck, and authorities feared a large explosion. Several injuries were reported.

The truck was owned by Eagle Transport Co. of Rocky Mount. Momeyer is about 15 miles west of Rocky Mount in Nash County. Further details were not available.

(Continued from page 1) years as commissioner. He was on hand for auctions at several of the eight warehouses in Lumberton, where top-quality tobacco was selling for $155 per 100 pounds. Prices ranged anywhere from $85 per hundred pounds to the $155 high. Markets in Whiteville, Fairmont and Chadburn also opened Wednesday.

Gov. Jim Hunt had words of praise for sales action Wednesday. "These prices are a sign of the good-quality leaf being offered," he said. "Both our North Carolina belts have had good growing seasons and our farmers have really tried to prepare a clean crop that deserves a high price."

And since prices were high and quality was generally good, a substantially smaller percentage of tobacco was going to the Flue-Cured Tobacco Co-Operative Stabilization Corp., thus giving some relief to the price support program and indicating the industry is in good health this year.

Officials are hoping the brisk sales at the opening markets would encourage tobacco farmers to continue leaving downstalk leaves in the field. Farmers have been urged to keep the lower-quality tobacco out of the market in hopes of reducing huge stockpiles of the downstalk leaf which the price support program has had to buy over the last several years.

(Continued from page 1) development constitutes a subdivision, the fact that Moore does not have the required frontage on a publicly maintained street would indicate a violation of the subdivision ordinance.

The possibility of a cul-de-sac being constructed at the end of Martinsborough Road to give Moore access to the street was mentioned.

Moore and Dickerson contended that the access provided by Morgan across his property met the requirements for access to a dedicated street.

Moore said that he did not see why anyone at the end of the road would benefit from a cul-de-sac.

Mrs. Trevathan offered a motion that the commission not consider the request until something is worked out regarding access to the property. Rules of procedure, she noted, say that property must have access to a dedicated street.

Commissioner Clarence Tugwell said that David Evans, who owns property at the end of the street, would have to contribute to the cost of the cul-de-sac when he would not benefit from it. Tugwell offered a substitute motion to approve the plat subject to the opinions sought from the city attorney.

Howell said that if the plat is deemed a subdivision, then it is in violation of the ordinance provision regarding frontage on a maintained street.

Commissioner Wes Hankins agreed that an opinion is needed from the city attorney and he said that the implications of the development in regard to future annexation into the city need to be considered.

In voting on Tugwell's substitute motion, he was joined by Commissioners Willie Wallace, Elbert Mills, J. T. Manning Jr., Bill Haymann and Mrs. Ann Worthington in favor of approval while Mrs. Trevathan, Howell, Hankins and William Gibbs opposed.

In other items on the joint board, commissioners elected Howell as chairman for the coming year and named Lyman Ormond, who has served during the past 12 months as chairman, as vice chairman.

Approval was given to the final plat of the James Moyer heirs property located south of the Stantonsburg Road opposite Medical Drive. The preliminary plat for the one-acre lot was approved at the June meeting.

Other business included: — Approval of the final plat of Section II of Whicport Development, located south of US 264 Bypass and east of Nichols Shopping Center;

— Approval of the revised preliminary plat for Section II of the Professional Center, located west of Pitt Memorial Hospital and north of Stantonsburg Road (revisions involved changes in the right-of-way, addition of sedimentation control basin, and addition of a street segment; and

— Adoption of the commission's semi-annual report.

Only three items of business were slated for consideration by the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission. Commissioners gave their approval to the final plat of a lot owned by Dallas McPherson east of River Bluff Road and north of the Putt Putt property.

Doc Medich Prescribes The Right Medication

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Doc Medich had just the right prescription for the ice-cold Texas Rangers Wednesday night, and Lou Piniella had a pretty good one for New York's feverish Yankee fans, too.

Medich handed the Boston Red Sox only their second shutout of the season, slamming the door with a two-hitter, and Bobby Bonds drilled a two-run homer in the eighth inning for the 2-0 victory that ended the Rangers' eight-game losing streak.

Piniella waited for an even more dramatic moment, the bottom of the ninth inning, before unloading a three-run homer that propelled the Yanks past Cleveland 3-1. That cheered up the fans who had been hollering for Billy Martin and booing his replacement, Bob Lemon.

In the rest of the American League, Kansas City shelled Seattle 12-3, California outlasted Milwaukee 11-9, Toronto trimmed Minnesota 5-1, Baltimore defeated Detroit 9-6 and Oakland beat Chicago 8-4.

Yanks 3, Indians 1

Piniella's homer off Rick Waits was his third of the year and came after Mickey Rivers and Thurman Munson had singled. The victory was the Yanks' seventh in their last eight games, Lemon's second in a row since he replaced Martin, and his first in Yankee Stadium.

Royals 12, Mariners 3

Kansas City had plenty of power — 14 hits — including Pete LaCock's homer and Fred Patek's two-run triple. But for the first six innings it was Doug Bird's power that had the fans cheering.

He had a no-hitter going. Then suddenly, Manager Whitey Herzog was on the mound and Bird was gone after a pair of walks and Tom Paciorek's two-run double in the seventh. Steve Mingori took over and allowed just one more hit, Paciorek's single in the ninth.

Angels 11, Brewers 9

Milwaukee had a chance to cut into Boston's 5-2 game lead in the AL East, but they ran into Joe Rudi. He drove in five runs, four with a grand-slam homer in the first inning. Gorman Thomas had a pair of homers and Robin Yount and Sal Bando had one apiece for the Brewers.

Blue Jays 5, Twins 1

Balor Moore scattered eight Minnesota hits and Toronto struck for five runs in the fourth inning, the final two on Luis Gomez's triple, to trim the Twins. Moore, who finished with eight strikeouts, lost his shutout in the eighth when Dan Ford tripled and Craig Kusick hit a sacrifice fly.

Orioles 9, Tigers 6

Jack Billingham, who pitched shutouts his last two times out, had to settle for a less-than-complete effort this time — nine hits allowed in 6 1/3 innings before Bob Sykes took over.

He got offensive support from Jason Thompson and Aurelio Rodriguez, who drove in two runs apiece.

A's 8, White Sox 4

Glenn Burke hit a two-run single in a three-run fourth inning and Dave Revering homered to highlight Oakland's 15th hit attack against Wilbur Wood and two White Sox relievers. Eric Soderholm had a homer for Chicago.

Clark's Streak Stopped

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

While Pete Rose contemplates what is, Jack Clark must be satisfied with might-beens.

Rose extended his National League record consecutive game hitting streak to 39 Wednesday with a fifth-inning double in the Cincinnati Reds' 12-3 loss to the New York Mets. Clark saw his 26-game streak end at the hands of Silvio Martinez and the St. Louis Cardinals, who edged the Western Division leaders 2-1.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Niekro brothers were winners, Joe pitching the Houston Astros over the Montreal Expos 5-0 and Phil topping the Philadelphia Phillies in the Atlanta Braves' 4-2 victory; the Los Angeles Dodgers eased past the Chicago Cubs 8-2 and the San Diego Padres were 6-5 winners over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Clark, meanwhile, twice thought his streak would continue.

"I thought my best shot for a hit was a ball I hit in the hole in the fourth," Clark said. Gary Templeton made a fine stop and threw him out on a close play.

Meanwhile, Rose's streak continues and the 37-year-old star is within one game of Ty Cobb's 40-game streak and two away from George Sisler's 41-gamer. In the distance is Joe DiMaggio's modern major league record of 56 games, set in 1941.

Rose tries to equal Cobb and then Sisler Friday night in a double-header against Philadelphia. Phillies left-hander Steve Carlton, off whom Rose is 0-for-11 this season, is expected to pitch the opener of that twinbill.

"I have my work cut out for me but I'm due against Carlton," said Rose.

Astros 5, Expos 0

The younger half of the knuckleballing Niekro act, Houston's Joe, tossed a four-hitter and drove in a pair of runs with a double and a single, while Bob Watson and Enos Cabell homered for the Astros.

Braves 4, Phillies 2

Big brother Phil went out and got the Phillies for the 20th time in 32 lifetime decisions against the NL East leaders.

Niekro, 12-10, pitched an eight-hitter in beating the Phillies for the fourth time this season. He also helped build a run with a fourth-inning single.

Dodgers 8, Cubs 0

Steve Garvey slammed a bases-loaded homer. Davey Lopes had a three-run, inside-the-park home run and Burt Hooton hauled an eight-hitter as the Dodgers moved into second place in the NL West, 1 1/2 games behind San Francisco and a half-game ahead of Cincinnati.

Chicago starter Dave Roberts walked Reggie Smith and Ron Cey with two out in the third before facing Garvey, who lined a 3-2 pitch into the left field stands.

Padres 6, Pirates 5

Rollie Fingers earned his 21st save in preserving Gaylord Perry's 11th victory of the season and 257th of his career.

Phil Garner's two-run homer and Frank Taveras' two-run double rallied the Pirates before Fingers shut the door in the ninth.

Fernando Gonzalez drove in three runs and Gene Richards tripled for his 18th hit in the last 19 games.

Veeck Plans Second Opening Day

CHICAGO (AP) — White Sox President Bill Veeck insists it's not a hustle to hype attendance, but he plans to "open" the team clubhouse and give a White Sox 1978 season for the second time Friday night.

"The whole idea is to get the players to forget about what's happened so far and get their minds on turning things around the rest of the year," Veeck said Wednesday. "We'll have bands and introduction of players — the whole bit. Just like on the regular opening day."

The White Sox, who have played well in streaks so far, were amid a nine-game losing streak Monday when Veeck made a rare appearance in the team clubhouse and gave a brief pep talk.

"I wasn't complaining. I told them to forget about the mistakes they've made. I told them that the mistakes have not been all their fault. I've made some too," said Veeck. "I told them that I'm starting over just like they are."

"I'm excited about it and I think the players will respond, too ... At least I hope so," he added.

The players may have already responded. After the clubhouse chat, the team swept a two-game series from the Milwaukee Brewers, who came to town with the second best record in baseball. The Sox will play two more games against the Oakland A's before the "second" season opens Friday night against Texas.

Hurt seriously by the loss of outfielders Richie Zisk and Oscar Gamble to the free agent market during the off-season, Chicago opened the 1978 campaign in April with a new look.

Barnes Asks For No-Cut Removal

MIAMI (AP) — Marvin Barnes, the enigmatic forward whose basketball career has been marked by chaos and unfulfilled promise, is putting his $950,000 contract on the line in an attempt at self-discipline.

In a telephone call from Austin, Texas, Barnes told The Associated Press he has asked Boston Celtics' owner John Y. Brown to remove the guarantee from his three-year contract. Barnes' move may be unprecedented in the National Basketball Association, and is even more notable considering he has walked out on three different teams because of contract problems.

"A man knows what he needs, and I need this challenge. I know I can be a great player, and I have no fear of losing my contract. This will make me work harder," he said.

Barnes averaged 24 points and 16 rebounds in his rookie season with the defunct St. Louis Spirits, but most of his headlines since have come from off-court activities.

Five years ago he said, "I'd rather work in a factory" when the Spirits balked at renegotiating his contract. He later went AWOL from the Detroit Pistons and Buffalo Braves for similar reasons, and spent three months in jail for violating probation set when he assaulted a Providence College teammate.

Barnes, acquired from the Braves when Brown swapped franchises with Celtics owner Irv Levin, blames his recent problems on complacency about his long-term contract.

He blames his past problems on confusing advice from his former agents.

Now, newly married, Barnes is ready "to show the American public the real Marvin Barnes."

"If I don't play well and get cut, there won't be any hard feelings. I think this will do it for me. This is what I want. I have confidence that I can play. I am determined to become a great player.

"I not only want to stay out of trouble, which has been hard in the past, but I want to earn my money. This way, my conscience is clear, and I feel this will make me a better player," he said.

Locals Finish Second

STATESVILLE — Wilmington scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to defeat Greenville 4-1 and win the state 14-15-year-old Babe Ruth baseball tournament yesterday.

Wilmington which swept through the tournament undefeated, had beaten the local team earlier in the double-elimination event and Greenville would have had to win twice over Wilmington yesterday to take the title.

Neither team was able to push a run across until the fifth inning when Wilmington broke the ice with a single run. Bud Nixon doubled and moved to third on a wild pitch. He scored when Barry Stevens reached on an error.

In the top of the sixth, Billy Dough got on by a fielder's choice for Greenville and moved up on an error. Emmett Walsh singled him in.

But that was the only run the local team was able to put across. Wilmington scored three in the bottom of the sixth to wrap up the victory. Kendall Lewis walked and advanced to second on a passed ball. Mike Helms singled and stole second. Jeff Fass walked to load the bases and Billy Wolfe got a base on balls to push Lewis in. Mitch Cook hit a sacrifice fly to score Helms and Nixon singled in Fass.

Cook was the winning pitcher in the game, while Nixon led all hitters with two.

Both players operated in the post position for Ike Walker, the East head coach from E. E. Smith in Fayetteville. Tyson started and got into some early foul trouble, picking up his fourth personal before halftime. Barnes got in a lot of playing time as Tyson was forced to ride the bench for much of the game.

"Those four fouls got me kind of depressed," Tyson said after the game. "I had to play it cool. I felt like they (the West defenders) were strapping me and holding me."

Tyson came alive in the second half, picking up most of his points late in the game. He said he forgot about the fouls later in the game and was able to settle down and play his ballgame.

Barnes said the game was about as tough as he had expected it to be. "We worked hard and learned a lot this week," he said.

Both players received the accolades of Walker. The coach said the tall East players "knocked each other around" in the team's practice sessions and that competition was tough. "You could have closed your eyes and picked a starting five," he said.

"Tyson's got his ballplaying in front of him," commented Walker. "He's going to be a fantastic ballplayer one day." He added that Tyson seemed a little impatient on his shots in the ballgame and that might have explained his 3-9 field goal shooting. Tyson has a full scholarship to East Carolina.

Of Barnes, Walker said, "William is a quiet, fine, strong young man. I watched him against Terry Sanford (in the first round of the state 4-A playoffs) and that's one of the reasons I picked him."

Barnes, who is headed to Chowan, should benefit from junior college play, Walker said. "I think he'll definitely benefit. It will give him time to settle down and work on his game," Walker explained.

Ronny McAdoo from Hillsborough Orange won the Most Valuable Player award in the game. He scored 17 points to pace the East. McAdoo is going to Old Dominion. The most polished player on the court was Washington's Alvis Rogers, who signed with Wake Forest. Rogers' smooth moves and great leaping ability were impressive, as was his soft touch, which undoubtedly pleased Wake coach Carl Tacy, who was in attendance. Rogers had 12 points.

East Carolina coach Larry Gillman was also at the ballgame. In addition to Tyson, Gillman has signed Clarence Miles of Burlington Cummings, who scored 13 points for the East. Miles also looked good in the ballgame, especially on a couple of drives to the basket.

Local Angle To Rose's Record

There's a Greenville footnote to the historic proceedings Cincinnati Red Pete Rose has been conducting in New York this week.

Rose, who tied Tommy Holmes' National League record for hits in 37 consecutive games Monday night against the New York Mets, broke the record on Tuesday night.

One of the umpires in the crew working both games was Joe West of Greenville. West, who broke into the majors full time this season after some short stints there last year, was working at first base the night Rose tied the record and was behind the plate when he broke it.

Kratzert Defends Title

By SCOTT M. BUSHNELL
Associated Press Writer
WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Bill Kratzert is trying to beat precedent — and maybe the stork.

Kratzert is the defending champion in the $210,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open. He captured the $42,000 first prize last year with a 19-under-par 265. It was the last victory on the Professional Golfers Association tour for Kratzert, who is now in ninth place on the 1978 money-winners list with $134,140.

Kratzert is confident he can repeat his GHO performance this year, but his mind may be on other things besides golf. His wife, Cheryl Ann, is home in Fort Wayne, Ind., expecting their first child "any day now," Kratzert said. The 26-year-old Kratzert said Wednesday he's "trying to get my game in shape. I hit the ball well today. I think I can repeat," he said after registering a 3-under-par 68 during the Celebrity Pro-Am.

The 1977 GHO victory gave Kratzert the confidence to play more aggressively. "A lot of guys keep from winning by being a little timid. After winning the first one, you have the confidence to go ahead," Kratzert said.

Only one golfer has ever repeated at the GHO. Billy Casper won the tournament in 1963, 1965, 1968 and 1973. No golfer has won the title in consecutive years.

There are nine former GHO champions in the field this year at the 6,354-yard Wethersfield Country Club course. In addition to Kratzert, they include George Archer, Don Bies, Gene Littler, Bob Lunn, Rik Massengale and Dave Stockton.

Williamston Wins Abbreviated Series

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston scored a 4-1 victory over Franklin County last night to win their rain-shortened American Legion baseball playoff series, three games to two.

The series was supposed to have been a best-of-seven affair, but after rain forced the postponement of several games, it was changed to a best-of-five.

Russell Holton pitched a two-hitter for Williamston in last night's ballgame. Bill Eubanks of Williamston was the leading hitter, going 2-4. Williamston scored its first run in the second inning when Trent Ange tripled and scored on Eubanks' single.

Franklin County got its only run in the top of the fifth. Stacy Overman walked and moved up on a wild pitch. Wilson Pierce singled him in.

Williamston scored in the bottom of the inning on a single by Ken Gurganus, a walk by Charlie Smith and another single by Cliff Keel.

The final Williamston runs were scored in the seventh and eighth innings. Charlie Smith singled and scored on an error in the seventh, while Toby Holliday walked and scored on a double steal with Anthony Latham in the eighth.

Williamston begins its next series Saturday night in Williamston against Hamlet.

Greenville Splits Pair

Greenville split a pair of games in the state 16-year-old Senior Babe Ruth baseball tournament yesterday at Guy Smith Stadium. The local team lost a make-up game forced by Tuesday's rain 9-3 to Clark-Griffith and then came back to defeat Albemarle 4-3 in 11 innings.

Clark-Griffith, a team from Charlotte, scored five runs in the first inning to take the win over Greenville. Johnny Hodge led off the first with a walk and Punch Luster got a single. Jeff Long hit to score Hodge and Mark Hanlin doubled home Luster and Long. Hanlin scored on a pair of errors, while Doug Muench reached on a fielder's choice and got in on a wild pitch.

Greenville's three runs came in the third. Mark Shank walked and Mike Campbell singled. Mike Edens reached on a fielder's choice as Shank was thrown out at third. Jeff Allen walked to load the bases and Will Barrett's base on balls pushed Campbell in. Micah Dixon doubled in Edens and Allen.

Clark-Griffith added three runs in the fourth and one more in the seventh for the win. Luster and Long each had two hits for C-G, while Campbell had a pair for Greenville.

Greenville came up with two runs in the bottom of the 11th to end a marathon contest with Albemarle by taking a 4-3 victory.

Greenville scored first in that ballgame when Clayton McLawhorn reached on an error in the second, went to second when Barrett was hit by a pitch and scored when Dixon reached on an error.

Albemarle gained the lead with a pair of runs in the top of the sixth. Mike Spear walked and William Harrell reached on a Greenville misplay. Phil Woodell got on via an error and Robbie Barber hit a fielder's choice with Spear getting thrown out at home. Harrell scored when Gary Hunter got on by an error and Woodell came in on a sacrifice fly by Jerry White.

Greenville tied the game on a run by Richard Smith in the bottom of the inning. He walked, stole second, moved to third on a single by Patrick Wilson and scored on Barrett's base hit.

Neither team scored again until the 11th. White hit a home run with two out in the top of the frame to put Albemarle ahead, but Greenville came up with a pair of runs in the bottom to win it. Smith led off with a single and stole second. After one out, Barrett tripled him in. Barrett

IT WILL BE INTERESTING to see if Bob Lemon, the new manager of the New York Yankees, can cope with the abundant array of fragile egos on the Yankee team and in the clubhouse any better than his predecessor, Billy Martin, did.

The feisty Martin announced his more-or-less forced resignation Monday after just under three years with the team. His action followed publication Monday morning of stories quoting him as saying slugger Reggie Jackson is "a born liar" and Yankee owner George Steinbrenner is "convicted."

It was, of course, inevitable that Martin would sooner or later lose the job he had looked forward to his entire career. And when his remarks about Steinbrenner were published, everyone knew the end had come.

In a tearful ceremony Monday, Martin quietly announced his intentions and denied making the statements. He thanked his players, coaches and the press before breaking down.

For Martin, who has medical problems as well as the mental problems stemming from the anguish of trying to manage as tumultuous a club as the Yankees, the resignation is probably for the best. His health has been in an obvious decline and with each photograph of him printed recently, the pain seemed more defined.

Martin was successful in his years with the Yankees. He led the team to two American League pennants and, last year, a World Series victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. He remained popular with the New York fans even as the Yankees slumped this season. More successful managers around the league marvelled at the support Martin received from Yankee Stadium crowds this season despite the team's problems.

Even as he resigned, Martin said his heart remains with the Yankees, who will honor his contract through 1979. It remains to be seen if he will accept another managerial post, but one would hope that, for his own sake, Billy Martin will take some time off before he decides.

Game A Learning Experience

Al Tyson and William Barnes from Greenville weren't the brightest of the stars in the East-West basketball game in Greensboro Tuesday night, but each said he learned a lot from the experience.

Tyson, a D. H. Conley product, and Barnes, from Rose High, played for the East, which won the game easily 114-93. Tyson scored nine points and hauled in seven rebounds for the East, while Barnes has six points and six rebounds.

Lemon Is Caught In Middle

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Bob Lemon looked around the home team manager's office at Yankee Stadium and wondered to himself how in the world he went from being so dumb to being so smart this fast.

Three weeks ago, on June 29, he was informed that the Chicago White Sox no longer required his help in their dugout, making up lineups, plotting strategies and doing all the other little things managers do to kill time.

Then, 26 days later, on Monday, July 24, he was informed that the New York Yankees now required his help in doing those very same little things.

Surprise.
"I didn't expect to get fired in Chicago and I didn't expect to get hired here," said Lemon. "The shocks balance out."

Lemon inherited the manager's job in New York when Billy Martin finally self-destructed in Chicago Sunday night with a marvellously constructed but ill-advised two-pronged attack on slugger Reggie Jackson and owner George Steinbrenner. "They deserve each other," Martin reportedly said of Jackson and Steinbrenner. "One's a born liar and the other's convicted."

Good-bye Billy.
To replace the volatile Martin, the Yankees chose a placid Lemon, who lost his job in Chicago to Larry Doby right around the time Steinbrenner was telling the world that Martin was safe in New York through the end of the season.

George, of course, didn't take into account the terminal attack of loose lips that would force an early departure for his manager.
The switch came so swiftly that there was no time to change the interior decoration in the manager's office. Still left from the Martin regime was the Charlie Brown poster that advises, "A smile makes a lousy umbrella," and the list of company regulations. Rule One says the boss is always right and the Rule Two advises that "If the boss is wrong, see Rule One."

Lemon settled comfortably behind his desk and admitted, "I never dreamed I'd be in this seat."

But now that he's there, the new manager intends to take charge. His first important decision was the return of controversial Reggie Jackson to right field in today's doubleheader against Cleveland. At the same time, Thurman Munson, the designated right fielder in the Steinbrenner-designed Yankee lineup shift that went into effect after the All Star break, will once again become the catcher.

"I talked to them and they both said they'd do anything I wanted," Lemon said. "That's got to make you feel good."

Was he aware that the owner had constructed the alignment that he was now shuffling?

"They hired me to run this club," said Lemon. "I can take advice and constructive criticism but when it comes to nut-cracking time, I'm the guy who's going to get hired or fired. He has the right to suggest things, but I've never been with anyone who demanded anything. I don't think I'd like that."

Lemon knows he is inheriting a hot seat. Martin was the hero's choice, everyman's people, who told the boss where to get off. Following him is no easy task and Lemon found that out Wednesday night in his first game at home.

There were signs supporting Martin and attacking Jackson, who has become the villain in this never-ending soap opera. Caught in the middle is Lemon, the innocent, who was booed for no other reason than having accepted the job Martin had held.

Twice in the Yankees' dramatic 3-1 victory over Cleveland, there were sudden "We Want Billy," chants from the crowd, probably prompted by a sudden case of sympathy for the popular ex-manager. Certainly nothing that had taken place on the field at those moments caused them.

"I figured I'd get that," Lemon said. "It wouldn't be natural with the years Billy had here if they didn't boo me."

If he knew Martin would be a tough act to follow, did Lemon think twice about accepting when the job was offered by Yankee President Al Rosen?

"Who'd have to think about an opportunity to manage in New York?" he said. "This is the hot spot in baseball."
But in the troubled world of the Yankees, it also can be the hottest one.

PATERNO TALKS
UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Penn State football coach Joe Paterno took time out from spring practice to discuss the Nittany Lion prospects for the 1978 season.

"I think we have the makings of an outstanding squad," Paterno said. "We have fine momentum from last year and we appear to have good leadership coming back. This could be the quickest squad we have ever had at Penn State."

Rose: Too Early

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Rose says it's too early to start talking about Joe DiMaggio but he doesn't mind one bit if you mention Ty Cobb.

Rose extended his modern National League consecutive game hitting streak to 39 Wednesday with a fifth-inning double in the Cincinnati Reds' 12-3 loss to the New York Mets. DiMaggio holds the major league record of 56 games, set in 1941, but looming just ahead is Ty Cobb, who hit in 40 straight contests in 1911.

"Maybe when I get up around 45 or so you might start talking about DiMaggio," said the 37-year-old third baseman. "But Cobb is next. People always have told me I play a lot like he did, although he was a base-stealer. For me to steal would be a disadvantage with all the good hitters behind me."

Benson Ford Died Today

DETROIT (AP) — Benson Ford, younger brother of Ford Motor Co. chairman Henry Ford II and a grandson of auto industry pioneer Henry Ford, died early today after suffering an apparent heart attack aboard his boat, a spokesman for the auto firm said.

Ford, 59, was stricken while the boat was docked in Cheboygan, a resort community at the northern tip of Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

Ford, second son of the late Edsel Ford, was a Ford Motor Co. vice president, chairman of the firm's dealer policy board, and a member of the board of directors.

BEINSON FORD

Benson Ford had cited ill health in explaining several years ago why he was not interested in succeeding Henry II as chairman of the company.

A third brother, William Clay Ford, 52, was recently named chairman of Ford's executive committee and joined a troika consisting of Henry II and deputy chief executive officer Philip Caldwell atop the firm.

The move was evidently aimed at clearing the way for William Clay to succeed Henry as chairman when the senior brother retires in 1982.

Benson Ford held nearly 1.5 million shares of a special Class B stock in the company. The stock, all of which is owned by family members, carries 4.55 votes per share, compared to one vote per common share.

Benson Ford joined the family firm in 1940, dropping out of Princeton University after two years.

New 'Paper Chase' TV Series Is Given Real Kamikaze Time Slot

AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's widely thought in TV that CBS's new "Paper Chase" series, facing ABC's hit "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley" next fall, has got itself a kamikaze time slot.

"I think that's an understatement," laughed executive producer Robert Thompson, who hopes his show at least proves a strong second in ratings to "The Fonz" and the ladies of Milwaukee.

His heart is in his work. He produced the original, acclaimed "Paper Chase" film drama about a young apprentice tort-monger at Harvard Law School and the lad's brilliant, flinty old professor.

Veteran actor John Houseman, who played the prof and got an Oscar, reprises his role in the series. James T. Hart has the student role first essayed by Timothy Bottoms.

About the top-rated ABC sitcoms his effort faces, producer Thompson had this to say: "I'm not being defeatist, but I don't know how you're going to beat them. They're so entrenched."

"But the audience for them is not the same kind that's going to be watching our show." He was asked what kind that may be.

"Well," he replied, "I'd think they'd be more serious-minded people who are academically oriented, more serious in general about where their lives are going and what they're doing with their lives."

Ironically, after "Paper Chase" clicked as a movie, there were several inquiries about turning the proceeding into a half-hour comedy collection of zany students, Thompson said.

"But we always said we wouldn't do it," he added. "Because you cannot make law students idiots, shallow people without substance, because they aren't. Nobody would believe it."

"So finally, we came around to doing it this way (close to the film version), the way we'd always intended to do it."

Despite forecasts of quick doom for the series, CBS thought enough of the "Paper Chase" pilot to order 12 more episodes for a total of at least 13 this season, Thompson said.

"I thought, after the pilot, that if we're lucky, CBS will give us an order for perhaps five or six. When I heard 12," he said, laughing, "I felt, 'My God, those people are brave.'"

He was asked if he'd care to risk a prediction that "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley" have shot their bolt, that viewers now seek more in the way of mental sustenance from their TV sets.

"I would like to say yes," he sighed. "But I don't really think so." He cited as an example the success of the '50s movie, "Grease" now doing big business at theaters around America.

"There's a wide audience for that kind of show," he said. "The characters are a bit overdrawn, there are stereotypes of a certain kind, yet the kids enjoy that ..."

"But we're just going to do the best we can, maintain the quality of our show, and hope there are enough people out there who'll like it."

Bach's "Tocatta in G Major," scored by ECU conductor Robert Hause; Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite;" and two arias from Barber's "Vanessa," featuring soprano Belinda Bryant.

Ms. Bryant, a graduate student in the ECU School of Music, is the 1978 winner of the ECU Concerto Competition.

Driving Charge For Grace Slick

CORTE MADERA, Calif. (AP) — A motorist flagged down a patrolman telling him that a black pickup truck almost hit several cars parked in a shopping center lot.

The chase for the erratic vehicle led Tuesday to the arrest of Grace Slick, 38, lead singer of the rock group, Jefferson Starship. She was booked for investigation of drunken driving and will have to plead her case before a Marin Municipal Court judge Aug. 9, said Phillip Green, police chief of this small community north of San Francisco.

"But the audience for them is not the same kind that's going to be watching our show." He was asked what kind that may be.

"Well," he replied, "I'd think they'd be more serious-minded people who are academically oriented, more serious in gener-

Rowan-Martin Sue Producers

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) Dan Rowan and Dick Martin aren't laughing.

The stars of the old "Laugh-in" television show have filed a $15 million suit in Superior Court here against producers of a 1977 version of the program.

The suit filed Tuesday charges George Schlatter Productions with fraud, unfair competition, slander and breach of contract.

The suit states that five new "Laugh-in" productions were turned out by Schlatter beginning Sept. 5, 1977, without specific permission and approval of the two stars and their Romart Corp. The Schlatter firm also was producer of the original "Laugh-in" shows.

"Dear Charlie & Omar: Why all the fuss about percentage? I have been playing for years by the seat of my pants, and I would bet I could hold my own with most players.

Sincerely,
A Fan"

Dear Fan:
You might be right, but our experience has shown that anyone who plays by the seat of his pants will, from time to time, have a boot planted firmly thereon. Consider this hand where North-South have reached a reasonable three no trump contract.

The bidding has one point of interest. As a passed hand, South feared that his partner might pass a one diamond response, so he made the value response of two no trump. North had no difficulty in raising to game.

West led the queen of hearts, and declarer was faced with a relatively simple problem. He can afford to lose the lead only once. To come to nine tricks, he must develop one of the minor suits. If he tries clubs, he must find the queen with West. If he plays on diamonds, he has to rely on the suit splitting 3-2. Which is the right suit to tackle?

If you play by the seat of your pants, you will guess one or the other. About half the time you will guess right; the rest of the time you will end up wishing you had chosen the other suit.

If you know anything about the odds, you will have no problem deciding what to do. The chance of finding the queen of clubs with West is 50 percent. The percentage of a 3-2 diamond split is 68. Are you sure that the seat of your pants is a more reliable guide than the knowledge that a diamond lead to trick two gives you more than a third better odds than playing on clubs?

Have you been running into double trouble? Let Charles Goren help you find your way through the maze of DOUBLES for penalties and for takeout. # How's The Weather?

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are able to achieve a great deal where the practical aspects of everyday living are concerned, so being up early and taking care of assets and obligations is excellent. You may have some delays or obstacles in your progress, so accept philosophically.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle obligations well and gain the benefits from them that you want and need. Morning is best time to see bigwigs; avoid them later.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Improve appearance; be patient in handling your personal affairs. Get right results later in the day. Not a good evening to be with friends.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Think out how to improve your position in life and get good results. Don't argue with loved ones. Handle credit matters well.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good time to gain a favor from a good friend. Enjoy quiet pleasure. Not a good day or evening for group meetings.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be sure you handle outside affairs wisely and early or you could be the loser. Handle that credit affair wisely and better your position in life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Off early to the interests that appeal to you and get much done, even though later you may be tired and not feel so enthused.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An early start at your work and cooperating with others makes this a banner day for you. Make good plans with loved one early.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make that plan that will meet with the approval of partners and then carry through enthusiastically. A situation arises that does not please you, but take care of it enthusiastically.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Schedule activities early so that you accomplish the most in a minimum of time, and with less effort. Co-workers are not in a good mood. Ignore them and keep working.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make amusement plans early and then concentrate on work before you. Show loyalty for your closest tie.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Find the best way to have harmony with those at home and be kind and understanding. Not a good day for inviting outsiders into your home. Take it easy this evening and rest.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care of errands early. You can make improvements to daily routines tomorrow, but not now, when you cannot understand the errors.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will quickly understand anything that is of a practical nature, so make sure to send to the right schools. A good family person here, and one who will love children.

WEATHER FORECAST — Warm weather is forecast from today until Friday morning for most of the nation. Rain is expected in the northeast and for the eastern Dakotas and western Minnesota. Clear skies are forecast for most areas. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A cold front moving toward North Carolina today was on a collision course with warm moisture laden air, and the meeting spelled an increase in thunderstorm activity across the state.

There was a prospect of some isolated severe thunderstorms packing high winds, hail and heavy downpours. Temperatures were expected to range mainly in the 80s with some 70s in the mountains and low 90s in the southeast.

Temperatures and humidities were comparatively pleasant around the state Wednesday.

with temperatures mostly in the 80s. Charlotte was the hottest reporting point with 91 degrees.

A few widely scattered heavy thunderstorms also developed Wednesday with one of the worst occurring just north of Raleigh. This storm dropped 2.89 inches of rain in the Bayleaf community in a short time.

In the southwestern part of the state, the Lake Towax area received nearly two and a half inches of rain from a thunderstorm.

The scattered thunderstorms also are predicted for Friday and Saturday.

Jamaican Food Talk Is Unique

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — To understand talk about food here, you sometimes need a translator. Quick service take-out, as popular here as in the United States, is "nyam and scam."

If you're invited to a dinner of "stamp n'go," be prepared for salt fish batter-dipped fritters. "Run down" fish is mackerel, or salt fish, boiled in coconut milk with onions and peppers, and natives say it tastes better than its name implies.

"Solomon gundy" is the name for pickled herring, very spicy. An offer of "matrimony" toward the end of the meal can be accepted without serious thought. It is a dessert combining orange segments with star apple pulp in cream.

Curing Barn Wet Bulb Thermometer Saves

According to Gaylor Ambrose, Pitt County associate agricultural extension agent, a wet bulb thermometer in the tobacco barn can save the farmer valuable fuel.

A wet bulb thermometer is the same as a regular tobacco barn thermometer, except for a piece of wet string pushed up over its bottom.

Air moving through the bulb barn passes over the wet string and causes the moisture to evaporate. The water in the wet string is evaporating at the same rate as the moisture in the curing leaves, so the wet bulb reading will be the same as the temperature of the curing leaf.

Wet bulb readings should range from about 90 degrees (Fahrenheit) during the yellowing stage up to about 110 degrees in the stem-drying stage. Until the leaf itself is dry, one should never let the wet bulb reading go above 105 degrees, according to Ambrose.

Leaves that have not dried will begin to scald at about 113 degrees. However, if the wet bulb reading is kept too low, the humidity inside the barn will be low, causing the leaf to cure more slowly, which uses more fuel.

For best results, Ambrose suggests the wet bulb reading should be kept between 100-105 degrees until the leaf is dry.

Make sure that the wet bulb thermometer is placed in the barn where there is a steady stream of air. Ambrose advises farmers not to place the thermometer directly in the curling leaves.

Combinations of dry and wet bulb thermometers may be purchased from farm equipment suppliers. However, one can easily make his own wet bulb thermometer at no great expense.

The ideal air damper, according to Ambrose, should have an automatic damper control hooked into the wet bulb thermometer, so opening and closing may be adjusted automatically.

No matter what method is used, Ambrose urges farmers to cure tobacco the most efficient way to conserve energy, money and time.

Artist Sticks To Project, Wins Glue-Craft Prize

NEW YORK (AP) — Stuart Yetts has been making "incredible things with his magic fingers" ever since he was 3 years old, his mother reports, and his artistic talent recently paid off when the 11-year-old won top prize in a national glue-craft competition.

The Lynn, Mass., fifth-grader's prize-winning project, "Insects' World," depicts 19 insects molded in realistic detail from semi-dry glue and colorfully painted.

His specimen box included a wasp, crane fly, black ant, queen bee, borer, earwig, termite, waterbug, horsefly, housefly, red ant, Japanese beetle, spider, roach, ladybug, dragonfly, butterfly, June bug and aphid.

Stuart, who migrated to the United States with his parents in 1970 from Liverpool, England, got the idea for his entry from a series of insect illustrations he saw in an older brother's junior high school biology book.

"It wasn't too hard," he says, "because glue can be molded like clay and I like to sculpture things."

The youngster, who is considering a career as "an artist, an architect, or a surgeon" also likes to paint, draw, make model ships, design costumes, take photographs, play chess and soccer and listen to classical music.

As first prize winner, he will receive $1,500 in U.S. savings bonds from Elmer's Glue, which sponsors the annual contest, plus a five-day holiday in New York with his mother or father and his art teacher who supervised the project.

Theme of the competition was "See, Dream, Remember," and other entries among the 50 state finalists ranged from mobiles, dioramas and sculptured work to collages and dimensional posters.

The creations — made by youngsters in kindergarten through grade 8 in two divisions — included papier mache elephants, fantasy animals, ghost town and moonscape dioramas, miniature urban scenes, and even an intergalactical model.

The classroom craftsmen, responding to the free form of the contest, were particularly inventive in their choice of materials: everything from sawdust to rice, paper bags and metal shavings, with the only "must" some glue.

All of the crafts entries, from inspiration to completion, were solely the work of the students. An estimated 42,000 classrooms across the country became involved in the first phase of the competition as an in-school art activity.

Stuart was also named best in the grade 5-8 division of the contest among 50 state winners. Top national honors in the kindergarten through grade 4 division went to 7-year-old Annette Sabatka of Ceresco, Neb., who created a miniature bride doll out of a glue mixture and paint.

Keith Gomillion, 13, of Jamaica, N.Y., last year's grand prize winner, took one of 10 honorable mention spots this year with a mosaic triptych representing prehistoric times, the present, and the space age. Keith used over 30,000 colored grains of rice individually glued on a wood-framed poster board to create the effects.

The space age was also on the mind of honorable mention winner Brad Skaggs, another 13-year-old, from Casa Grande, Ariz., who fashioned a futuristic model of three views of the planet earth in different phases out of glue, food coloring, paper and cardboard.

Seven-year-old Susanne Siefert, an honorable mention winner from Monroe, Conn., created a miniature tennis court scene with strings, toothpicks, rubber bands, baked clay, wood, paint, cotton and glue.

"This is my dream," she wrote on her entry form, "to become a famous tennis player some day and beat Chris Evert!"

The other honorable mention winners were Susan Paucker, 13, of Los Angeles; Eugene Sargent, 11, of Pettigrew, Ark.; Lisa Meyer, 12, of St. Louis; Crista Lynn Vance, 5, of Bullhead, Ariz.; Christie Rodd, 7, of Colorado Springs, Colo.; Weston Green, 9, of Johnson City, Tenn.; and Shana La Trice Paul, 6, of Kansas City, Mo.

First Peanut For A First Elephant

ASHEBORO — Howard N. Lee, Secretary of the N. C. Dept. of Natural Resources and Community Development, was on hand this morning to throw out the first peanut in a ceremony welcoming "C'SaR," the first elephant acquired by the N. C. Zoological Park.

Also, a welcoming committee from Contractor Service and Rentals of Charlotte was on hand to greet the young male African elephant. The firm contributed $12,000 to the purchase of the elephant. Angus Mercer, vice-president and co-owner of the firm, will present "C'SaR" with a specially designed 18 inches yellow hard hat and a 50-pound bag of peanuts.

C'SaR is one of five African elephants recently purchased for the North Carolina Zoo. Four females will be coming from Africa this fall to join the newly acquired male. Total cost of the five animals was $56,650, with the funds being contributed to the Zoo through the statewide Zoo Telethon held in April. The North Carolina Zoological Park is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays; and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on weekends and holidays.

Packaging Lost By Poor Wrap

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most damaged packages damaged by the United States Postal Service result from poor packaging, says Hada de Slosser of Cornell University's Cooperative Extension service.

Mrs. De Slosser says the Postal Service estimates 6 million individual pieces of mail are found annually without wrappers or other identification. She said this figure does not include parcels the service rewraps and sends to the addressees.
