Index Indicates No Economic Downturn

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government measure of future economic trends rose a moderate 0.4 percent in June, the fifth increase in a row, the Commerce Department said today.

The increase in the Index of Leading Economic Indicators, about average for the past year, gave out no signals of a strong downturn in the next six months. Government economists are expecting slower growth in the second half of the year after an unusually strong spring. However, they are uncertain whether economic growth will be so slow that it will create more unemployment. The government is more worried about consumer prices, which were rising at an average rate of about 10.4 percent per year in the first half of 1978. The Consumer Price Index released Friday showed that prices rose 0.9 percent in June for the third month in a row.

The 0.4 percent increase in the economic indicators followed increases of 0.5 percent in February, 0.1 percent in March, 0.9 percent in April and 0.1 percent in May.

The index is composed of a series of economic indicators that are intended to give the first signs of an impending slowdown or boom in economic growth.

Contributing to the increase in June were a longer average work week, faster deliveries, more liquid assets, higher prices for selected products, rising stock prices and more building permits.

On the negative side were increased contracts for plant and equipment spending, a smaller money supply and more factory orders. The layoff rate was unchanged.

Rhodesians Strike Guerrilla Centers

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian troops, jet fighters and bombers attacked guerrilla bases in Mozambique, claiming the guerrillas were planning a new terrorist campaign, and military sources said today the troops were still inside Mozambique more than 24 hours after crossing the border. There was no immediate report on casualties and no reaction from the government of Mozambique.

Heightened activity at the Sarum airbase, 10 miles from Salisbury, continued today and witnesses reported fighters taking off again shortly after dawn.

The Rhodesian military command said the targets of the "self-defense operations" begun Sunday were "selected terrorist bases" of Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Union.

The military command claimed it had evidence the guerrillas were planning to infiltrate Rhodesia to try to overthrow the four-month-old biracial government "by murder, intimidation and other acts of terrorism." It said Mugabe had called guerrilla leaders in Rhodesia back to Mozambique to give them orders for the campaign.

Raids against the foreign bases of the guerrillas who oppose the interim government and its stated promise of a true democratic future will be mounted, and continue to be mounted," the communiqué said.

Gunmen In Iraqi Embassy

PARIS (AP) — Three Arabic-speaking men armed with submachine guns shot their way into the Iraqi Embassy today, and two of them barricaded themselves inside with several embassy employees as hostages, witnesses said.

Two members of the embassy staff were injured, said an employee who fled. The third gunman fled the scene when the shooting began, police said.

Heavily armed Paris police, some wearing flak jackets, cordoned off the area and surrounded the embassy building. Sirens wailed through the area.

The gunmen's motives were not known.

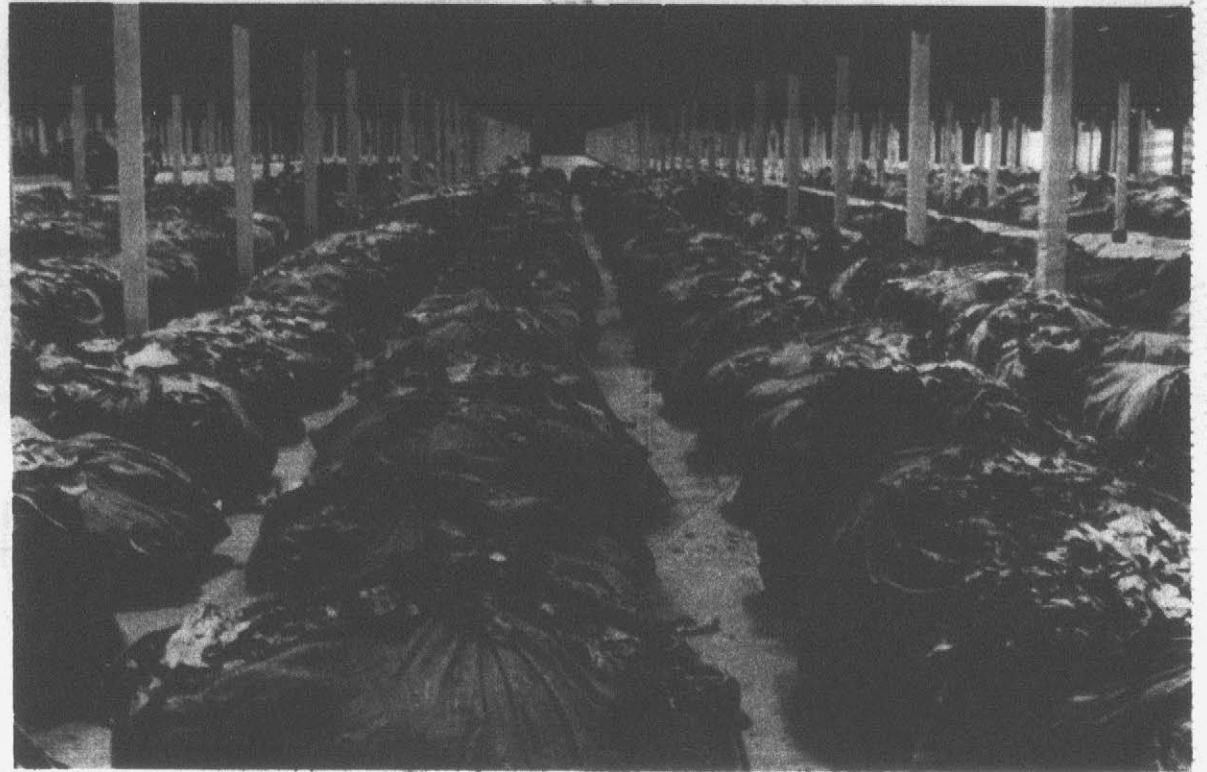

"I don't know who committed this attack," said Iraqi Ambassador Mundhir Tawfik alWandawi after a previously scheduled meeting with President Valery Giscard d'Estaing at the presidential palace.

Wandawi, who was not at the embassy when it was attacked, said he would authorize French police to storm the building if they decided to and "if it's necessary."

The attack began shortly before 10 a.m. when the three men first claimed they had an appointment, then, when queried by embassy guards, drew weapons and opened up with a wild barrage, witnesses said.

"One of them shot like a madman," said an embassy employee who escaped.

One of the three fled during the shooting — which apparently came only from the terrorists — and left a submachine gun and a pistol on the sidewalk outside, police said. Witnesses said the raiders also spoke French.

READY FOR OPENING ... Row after row of tobacco lines warehouse floors, ready for the opening sales on the Greenville market Tuesday. The sale tomorrow will mark the 88th season for the auctioning of tobacco on the Greenville market. Thirteen of Eastern Belt's 17 markets will open Tuesday, with three other markets opening Wednesday. Officials expect improved prices over last year's opening sales.

Greenville Leaf Market Opening Its 88th Season

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Tobacco Market will open for its 88th season Tuesday amid prospects for improved prices over last year's opening sales as a result of the production of what leaf spokesmen have termed one of the best crops in recent years.

With area farmers and warehousemen keeping an ear tuned to the pleasing prices being paid on the neighboring Border Belt, expectations are high that the apparent improvement in overall quality of this year's product will be reflected in the auction results.

While last year's July 25th opening was marked by frustration following severe growing conditions, tomorrow's first sales will follow a growing season that offered more favorable development conditions and less extremes in drought and moisture levels.

A degree of uncertainty does exist, however, as a result of the over-supply status of lower stalk grades in the inventory of the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp. Farmers have been encouraged not to market their bottom four leaves and while some growers have indicated their cooperation, others have expressed reluctance at leaving what they consider potential money in the fields.

Thirteen of the belt's 17 markets will open Tuesday with three of the remaining four following suit on Wednesday.

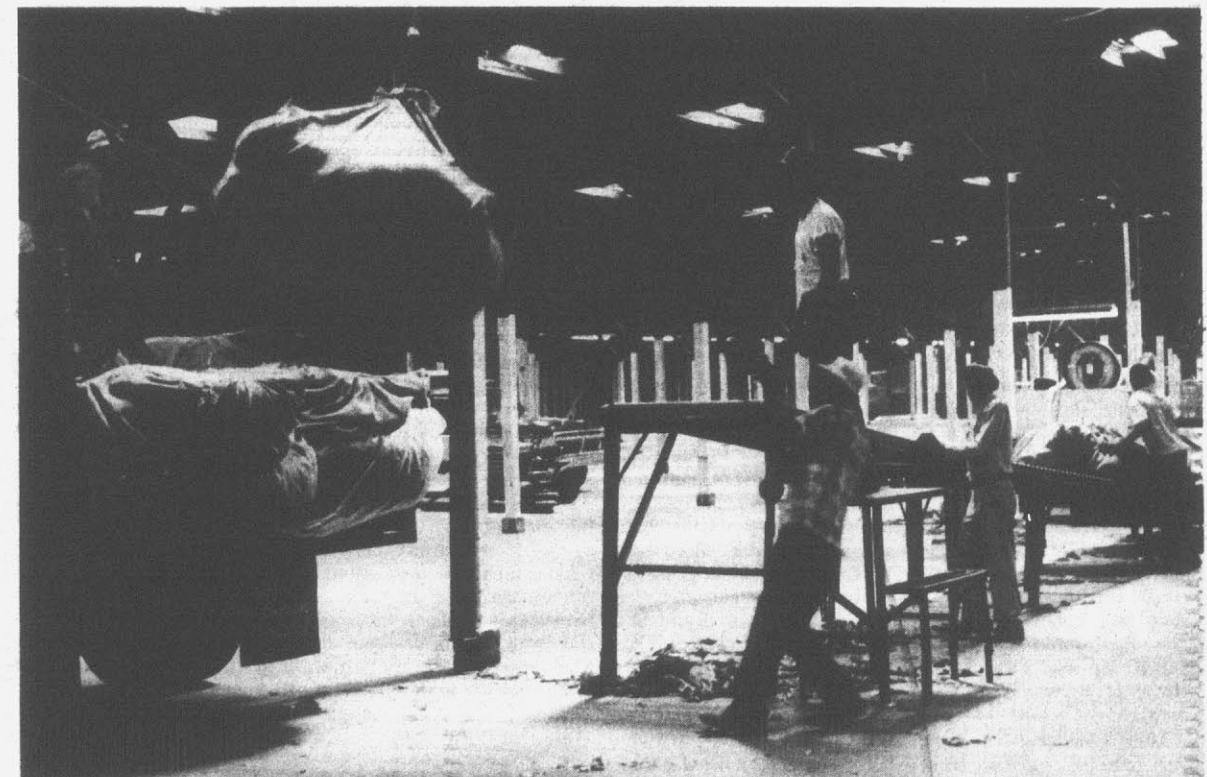

Sales here, which annually attract tobacco officials and other visiting dignitaries, will begin one half hour earlier at 8:30 a.m. this year, according to J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade, who noted that two sets of buyers will be on hand for the opening auction.

First sales, he said, will be at Cannon's Warehouse (Set I of buyers) and Farmers (Set II). The first set of buyers will be at Star-Planters for the second sale Tuesday, at New Carolina for the third sale, Hudson's for the fourth, and New Independent for the fifth sale. New Greenville will have the second sale for Set II. Bryan reported, with Keel's having the third sale, Grower's the fourth, and Raynor-Forbes & Clark the fifth auction.

Bryan explained that three sets of buyers will be on the Greenville market on Wednesday, Aug. 2, two sets on Aug. 3, three sets on Aug. 7, two on Aug. 8, three on Aug. 9, two on Aug. 10, and

WITNESS CHANGE?

My wife and I were not pleased with one of the two people who signed our marriage certificate as a witness. We wanted to have our maid of honor and our best man sign it. Our certificate's already registered with the state, but is it possible for us to just get a new form and start over getting signatures? Our best man lives some distance away and we plan to see him next week and would like to know if we could get the proper form and obtain his signature then.

The person with whom we talked in the Pitt County Register of Deeds office said you cannot make this change, that your witnesses' names are now a matter of public record and will have to stand as they are. She said, incidentally, that this is the first such request she has ever heard.

$2 BILL

A lady came to my house the other day and bought $3.10 worth of vegetables. She very carefully counted out her money so as not to have to use a $2 bill she had. She then went out the door and dropped it in my yard. I'd like to give it back to her if she'll contact me. Mrs. W. C. Harris, 752-2090

Urge Marking Farmville Market Will Start It's 74th Season

The city is encouraging Greenville residents to place house numbers on their residences which would be visible from the street.

City departments, especially Police and Fire, are experiencing increasing difficulty in responding to requests for services because of the inability to quickly locate an address, it was pointed out.

In cases of emergency, according to the city, the capability of easily identifying a house number could save a life.

Additionally, in an effort to help alleviate the difficulty in locating street addresses, the city Public Works Department has begun a program of placing block numbers on all new street signs. As existing signs are maintained, repaired, or replaced, block numbers are being included on the sign.

Greenville residents who desire assistance in determining the size and type of house numbers to erect should call the city Inspections Department at 752-4137, extension 221.

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Tobacco Market will begin its 74th season tomorrow.

Tobacco Board of Trade Sales Supervisor Louis N. Williams said this year's tobacco crop has been a good one and that the outlook for this marketing season is "excellent." This year's tobacco should be in strong demand by both domestic and export buyers, he said he believes.

The Farmville market has five million more pounds designated here this year than it had last year. This is the next to the largest designation since the program has been in force, he said.

A record number of buying companies will be on hand at the start of the season — 13.

There will be two sets of buyers the first day and on every other day for the first seven selling days. Then, beginning the eighth day, there will be two sets for the rest of the season, Williams said.

There are six warehouses in Farmville, with two major changes this year: a new Worthington Warehouse on Highway 264 owned by Chester and Chester Don Worthington and Mack Cunningham, and a merger of Lee's Warehouse with Pierce Warehouses. Others are Bell's, Farmers, New Blue and Planters.

Each firm will have a sale every other day. Farmers and Planters will have the first sales tomorrow.

May a Lady Take The Initiative?

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Things are changing so fast on the social scene, I'm not sure how far a woman can go these days and still be a lady. Some questions:

Should a woman ever call a man who has shown an interest in her, and ask to see him?

If a woman would like a physical relationship with a man (holding hands, kissing, etc.) should she ever make the first move?

How do you think a man would react to a woman's taking the initiative?

KAREN

DEAR KAREN: Men differ in their reactions to aggressive women, but my mail tells me that in most cases, a man would welcome a call from a woman telling him frankly that she would like to see him. There is nothing "unlady-like" about a woman's taking the initiative or telling a man she thinks he's attractive. Not only would most men feel flattered, it would save a lot of time and eliminate a lot of game-playing.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 26, single (by choice) and not a bad-looking woman. There's a man (also single) who works where I work. Solly and I kid around a lot, but he's more of a friend than a boyfriend.

At an office party last Christmas, I told Solly if he lost 30 pounds he'd be terrific looking. He said if I gave him an "incentive"—like spending the night with him—he'd lose 30 pounds.

Well, I couldn't see Solly losing 30 pounds, so I said it was a deal.

Much to my surprise, Solly went on a diet, and so far he's lost 26 pounds, and I know he'll lose the other four soon. I never planned on paying off. Now what do I do?

NERVOUS

DEAR NERVOUS: Pay off. And spend the night reading the Bible to Solly.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow, attempting to run a small motel. I must pay the mortgage, taxes, insurance, etc., and live on what's left.

I have no hired help and must do most of the repairs myself.

I keep my rates low to compete with the luxury credit-card trade.

My problem is that so many "guests" carry away my property that I am being driven out of business. Will you help me, Abby, and print the following for travelers:

"I don't mind your using my towels to wipe off your windshield—but please leave the towel; don't toss it into your car. Or if you take my washclothes to wipe off your kids' hands and faces en route, please leave a quarter to replace the cloth—that's what it costs me. And when you accidentally carry off a key, drop it into any mailbox. I'll gladly pay for its return, since it's a lot cheaper than having new keys made.

"And as for you gals who take blankets, pillows, coffee pots, dishes and silver—have a heart! I'm sure you have much better at home.

"I don't want to start charging deposits against the return of such items; neither do I want to turn your license number in to the motel blacklist.

"After you've gone, and I go to clean your cabin and check my loss, it makes me sick to realize that I've actually lost money on you."

Television Suit May Affect Programming

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The outcome of an $11 million negligence suit, charging that an NBC television movie inspired the rape of a 9-year-old girl on a San Francisco beach, could pose a huge question for the future of TV programming.

The trial begins today in San Francisco Superior Court. Seeking $1 million in compensatory damages and $10 million in punitive damages, Valeria Niemi of San Francisco claims in her suit against NBC-TV and its local affiliate, KRON, that the three girls who raped her 9-year-old daughter with a beer bottle were imitating a scene from the television movie "Born Innocent."

The film profiled the life of a runaway teen-ager, portrayed by actress Linda Blair, who was sexually assaulted with the wooden handle of a plumber's plunger during her stay in a reformatory.

Mrs. Niemi's daughter was attacked four days after the film was aired on Sept. 10, 1974. At a pretrial news conference, NBC attorney Floyd Abrams said there are conflicting statements about whether the girls, and the boy who stood lookout for them, actually saw "Born Innocent." The four youngsters, aged 10 to 15 at the time of the attack, were charged in juvenile proceedings and put on probation.

Abrams said he would argue the film did not spawn the attack. He said a defeat in the case could have wide-reaching effects on television by intimidating future portrayals of "life as-it-is."

Defense attorney Marvin Lewis said, "It's merely our contention that the particular scene, which was graphic and unnecessary for the telling of the plot, caused harm to an innocent victim."

Lewis contended that "there is no question that children and young people learn by imitation," saying that studies back him up.

The two-hour film, aired at 7:30 p.m. in some areas and 8 p.m. in others, helped force creation of "family-hour" programming, in which the FCC banned sex and violence in the early evening.

Last fall, 15-year-old Ronald Zamora was convicted in Miami of murdering an elderly woman neighbor, despite his lawyer's argument of insanity brought on by violence on television.

The judge in that case refused to allow the defense to present expert testimony on the effect of TV violence. Zamora is serving a life sentence in a juvenile facility.

Mrs. Niemi's suit was initially dismissed in 1976 by a state trial judge who ruled the litigation was barred by constitutional guarantees of free speech and free press.

But the state Court of Appeals overturned that decision, saying that dismissal of the suit violated the Niemi girl's right to a trial on the question of whether the movie provoked the rape. NBC then went to the U.S. Supreme Court, which refused to hear the appeal.

Abrams said the case poses a threat not only to the broadcast media but also to the printed word. He said the American Library Association feared a defeat in the case would make it impossible to determine what books to place in libraries that might not lead to imitative acts.

Legalized Bingo Is Spreading In N.C.

TARBORO, N.C. (AP) — Legalization of bingo, a game popular among some church and senior citizen groups, is spreading in North Carolina.

The 1978 General Assembly enacted legislation exempting Edgecombe, Cumberland, Lenoir and Onslow counties from state gaming laws that prohibit playing of bingo for money. That made bingo playing legal in 32 of the state's 100 counties. It also is legal in two cities located in counties that restrict playing.

"I haven't had anyone jump up and say, 'Hey, that's gambling,'" said Edgecombe County Sheriff Phil Elis. "There haven't been any complaints, and I don't foresee any."

Bingo had been played legally in Edgecombe County for 30 years until, in 1975, the legislature inadvertently deleted the county from the list of exempted areas as it was amending the bingo law. The legislature restored Edgecombe to the list of exempted counties last month.

Counties have various regulations governing the operation of bingo games. There are limitations on operating hours, prizes and, in some cases, rules prohibiting operators from having safaried help.

In Edgecombe County, for instance, operators must represent non-profit organizations, only one session a week is allowed and prizes may not exceed $500.

Robert Rawls, manager of the Moose Lodge in Tarboro, said the $500 limitation on prizes has limited the popularity of Tuesday night bingo games. He said about 60 people used to show up on a typical bingo night but attendance is now about 30.

Plane Crash In Bladen County

WHITE LAKE, N.C. (AP) — A single-engine plane crashed while taking off from an airstrip in this Bladen County town Sunday, causing minor injuries to four members of a Goldsboro family.

Police said pilot David Lewis Fulkeron of Fayetteville told them the plane was caught in a cross-wind and forced down and to the left shortly after it took off from the strip. He said he tried to land after unsuccessfully attempting to pull out of a descent.

The nose gear broke on impact and the plane flipped over, authorities said.

Emma and Carlyle Waters of Goldsboro and their children, Malcolm and Lisa, were treated at Bladen County Hospital for minor injuries. Fulkeron was not hurt.

Klan Rally In Yadkin County

COURTNEY, N.C. (AP) — A Ku Klux Klan rally in this southern Yadkin County town Saturday night drew about 100 people.

Joseph Grady of Winston-Salem, one of the Klan leaders, said the meeting, which featured a cross burning and men dressed in white robes, was held to recruit members.

Speakers talked about gun control, white supremacy, school busing and government regulations.

Re-Enacting An Old Pageantry

An age old pageantry is being re-enacted in Eastern North Carolina towns this week. Golden flue-cured tobacco is being hauled into the auction warehouse and placed in neat piles on the floor. Tomorrow morning the colorful auctioneer's chant will be heard once again, as it has in so many years past. Following a growing cycle which began for the tobacco farmer in the dead of winter the cash returns will at long last begin coming in. There may be a little more excitement than usual for the area tobacco industry this year. Most observers believe we have the best crop in years. Ideal rains helped make it so. And farmers are also encouraged by the reports of high prices for tobacco which has been sold on the Georgia and Florida belts. Tobacco producers year-in-and-year-out are bombarded with the advice to grow a superior product. It is only in this way that American tobacco can compete on the world markets. It appears that area growers have taken that advice to heart this year, and a real quality product will be placed on the warehouse floors. The farmers should be able to expect a good return for their careful efforts.

Some Hope For A Bad Deficit Record

It was billed as good news that the U. S. trade deficit for June was the smallest in over a year. Some $12.1 billion was sold to other countries, with foreign purchases amounting to $13.7 billion. The deficit was $1.6 billion.

The administration says it expects the monthly deficits to be smaller in the future. The trade deficit is one of the ailments of our economy, but hopefully it is on the way toward being reduced.

THIS AFTERNOON

Opening New Markets

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Large new industries are moving to North Carolina at a record rate.

This means something to Tar Heels other than just those involved in seeking new jobs. It means a tremendous boost to the entire economy of a community: homes, retail sales, suppliers of services. But the economic boom could mean even more to even larger numbers of people... if smart businessmen get into the action early.

"We want to encourage our industries to buy North Carolina products and services whenever it is economically possible," says Commerce Secretary D. M. (Lauch) Faircloth.

Those large, new industries buy a lot of things to keep their daily operations going, from raw materials to be processed, to manufactured components of the finished goods to routine supplies and equipment.

A key to getting into that lucrative, growing market for North Carolina businessmen is knowing what kinds of industries are getting into operation, and what they will require.

Show-And-Tell
Two show-and-tell meetings are being held for that purpose: one in Raleigh this week, and another in Winston-Salem on August 8.

The sessions follow a unique system. Industries which buy goods will set up displays and conversation nooks at which company officials will talk with potential suppliers about specific needs.

David Hinton of the Department of Commerce, working as a summer intern to put together the conferences, said about fifty major industrial representatives will be at each session.

Several hundred suppliers are being urged to attend, with concentrations in chemicals, rubber and plastics, primary and fabricated metals, electrical equipment and electronics, and paper products.

"But the invitations are just to get things started. All businessmen are invited, and we hope to see lines of people forming to do business with one another," Hinto commented.

Among the major industrial firms represented are Firestone, Abbott Laboratories, Burlington Industries, Burroughs Wellcome, R. J. Reynolds, and IBM.

BILL NOBLITT

"We have great resources for industry in North Carolina, in terms of regular supplies, in making intermediate products, and in raw materials," Hinton said. "These conferences will enable smaller firms to capitalize on the economic growth we are enjoying by expanding their markets, causing income to increase and jobs to increase as well. The benefits of industrial growth, then, can be even more important to communities," he said.

Exchange
The purpose also served by the conferences will be to acquaint new industries in the state with goods and products available in North Carolina as well as to bring existing manufacturers up to date on new products made in the state. Thus, the list of buyers includes not only newcomers, but long-established North Carolina firms.

Expansion of North Carolina businesses to supply the major industries represents a further step toward the goal of some planners who envision a number of industrial clusters across the state in which compatible operations serving a major central firm create a number of new businesses.

Such steps have already been taken: the can factory serving Miller Brewing's facility at Eden; ground-work for expanded tomato and vegetable gardening to serve a Campbell Soup facility at Maxton; several firms making trucking equipment in the Gaston-Lincoln county areas.

Playing God With Cars

WASHINGTON — This year more and more people are faced with a terrible decision: whether to prolong the lives of their used cars, knowing they're terminal, or pull the plug and let them die in dignity and peace.

I was faced with this dilemma last week when the AAA towed my car to the nearest emergency repair station.

The head mechanic, a member of The American Mechanics Assn. (AMA), came out and opened the hood as I stood nervously by. He hit the engine a few times with a wrench. Then he took me aside, out of hearing range of the car. "I'll be honest with you. I don't know how long I can keep it alive. It's been through a lot. My mechanics will do everything in their power to keep the motor running, but it will cost you."

I bit my knuckles. "Maybe it would be better if you just took it out in back and shot it," I said.

"I can't do that. When I became a mechanic I took an oath that no matter what condition an automobile was in I would repair it. We can't decide which cars will live and which will die. That would be playing God."

"But it seems to be in such pain," I said. "The battery is half dead, the engine sputters and the doors keep falling off. Keeping it alive would wipe me out financially. I'm sure it would be happier in a junkyard."

"You're talking about me getting involved in a mercy killing, and that is forbidden by the AMA," he said.

"If mercy killings of used cars were permitted, many people would take advantage of them just so they could buy a new one. Our profession demands that if there is the slightest sign of life in a vehicle we have to keep it on the road even if it's just for a few hours."

Other Editors Say Potential Killers

(Goldsboro News-Argus)

It judges across the state would follow the example of District Court Judge Kenneth Honeycutt of Union County we would soon rid the highways of drag racers and other hotrodders.

Two boys, ages 16 and 17, came before the judge recently on a drag racing charge.

They had been caught "dragging" side by side down a rural road at 9 miles per hour.

Strangely, some 16 and 17 year olds, despite a void of driving experience, somehow get the idea that they are the best drivers in the world and that their cars are potentially the fastest.

They never consider what would happen were they to meet some innocent driver coming from the other direction. That innocent driver could be you or a member of your family.

Judge Honeycutt, after finding the draggers guilty, slapped the two teenagers in jail overnight so that he and they could think about it.

The next day he gave each a two-year sentence. He agreed to suspend the sentences for five years on a condition that they pay $1,500 fines — which they must earn. They also will be on probation for five years.

But the very best thing the judge did was to relieve each of the boys of their drivers' licenses for three years!

Pretty tough on a couple of teenagers? Sure was. But when people, regardless of their age, get in automobiles and race each other down the public highways at speeds of approaching or exceeding 100 miles per hour, they forfeit their right to any sympathy from the people whose lives they place in jeopardy.

If judges across the state, in district courts and superior courts, recognized such drivers as the potential killers they are, and followed Judge Honeycutt's example, many lives would be spared and untold sufferings would be avoided.

"But surely you have seen many automobiles that would be better off if they were put away forever. Why give hope to the owner when you know in your heart there is no way to save it?" I asked.

"There's always hope," he said, putting his arm around me. "I've seen cars in even worse shape than yours, and their owners have pleaded with me to dump them in the Potomac River. But hours later the drivers were sitting behind the wheel whistling 'Dixie' and tooting their horns. When you're dealing with the life and death of a car you have to believe in miracles."

"But there are some unscrupulous mechanics who will pretend they can save your car when in fact they know the engine will die as soon as it leaves the repair shop," I said.

"Admittedly, there are a few. But a majority of those in our profession are

Global Tactic Likely

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the Carter administration pictures Soviet-Cuban intervention in Africa as imperialism on the loose, a voice from the recent Republican past advances another theory.

John O. Marsh Jr., a Washington attorney who was a member of President Ford's senior staff until 18 months ago, gave his alternative view in a address at Lori Fairfax Community College in Middletown, Va. "The Soviet Union," Marsh asserted, "is waging an undeclared war which is a 'resources war.' Africa is the battleground because from this land come many of the resources and raw materials essential to Western society and especially the United States."

Noting the United States is not self-sufficient in many vital minerals, Marsh went on:

"If the riches of the African continent, which has been a sleeping giant, are denied to us, not only industry but our entire society will suffer."

Then broadening the geographical horizons of his assessment, Marsh concluded:

"We cannot ignore the possibility that Soviet designs on Africa, together with recent developments in Afghanistan and pressure on Iran, are part of a giant pincer movement aimed at imposing an energy and resources stranglehold on the West."

Marsh, a former Democratic House member from Virginia who became a Republican convert after serving as assistant secretary of defense for congressional liaison, had no national security role in the Ford administration.

However, a man who held a key foreign policy position at the time said privately he agrees with Marsh's view of Soviet intentions.

Publicly, the Carter administration views Soviet and Cuban moves in Africa as a communist version of 19th century colonialism. A number of important black nationalist leaders voice agreement.

So the president and his men are relatively free from any suggestion that the United States is motivated by narrow nationalist concerns in denouncing Russian and Cuban involvement.

National Security Council experts reject Marsh's thesis and say they see no persuasive evidence that the Soviet Union and Cuba have been drawn to Africa by its resources or because of dreams of economic exploitation.

Broadening the geographic horizons to include Afghanistan and Iran, as Marsh did, is another matter. The former Ford aide and the NSC draw closer together as the frame of reference is expanded.

Without question, President Carter and his foreign policy advisers agree that every Soviet move that could threaten the West's Middle East oil supplies, and the tanker routes out of the Persian Gulf and Arabian peninsula,

THE INSIDE REPORT

Mideast 'Soviet Factor'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

AMMAN, Jordan — Although Israel's foot-dragging on a West Bank political settlement gets all the headlines; quiet political moves in Syria, Jordan and the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) will soon pose new obstacles in the form of rising Soviet influence.

On the surface, Moscow has been ominously silent ever since last October when the Carter administration unveiled the U.S.-Soviet "joint statement" of cooperation in pursuing Mideast peace. That statement aroused a firestorm of political resistance in Washington. In Israel, it was regarded as something not far from treachery.

But just a month later:

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who yields to no one in fear and loathing of the Soviets — set out on his dramatic "sacred mission" to Jerusalem, Moscow, not a party to Sadat's bold adventure, has been publicly silent ever since.

The key word is "publicly." Privately, the Russians have been playing hardball behind the scenes to sustain and enhance their influence in Syria, most militant of the Arab states on Israel's border, and within the PLO. Since the October war of 1973, Soviet military aid has restored the Syrian military machine at least to its pre-1973 war strength, and probably somewhat beyond it. Moscow is principal purveyor of weapons; food and medical supplies for the PLO.

In addition, at least 150 PLO militants are brought to Moscow each year for full-time scholarships; that doesn't mean reading, writing and arithmetic. These youthful Palestinian refugees, zealous advocates of a separate Palestine state, are taught the rudiments of guerrilla warfare, subversion and sabotage. They are the future hard core for Palestinian statehood.

Beyond Syria and the PLO, the Soviet offensive in more peripheral areas is taking a traditional path: overthrow of the Marxist military regime in South Yemen and its replacement by a strong pro-Soviet government, together with massive intervention in Ethiopia and the Horn of Africa on Egypt's southern flank.

Jordan represents a special case. Syria, the PLO, Libya and South Yemen have been attacking both Sadat's peace mission and the U.S. for supporting it; Jordan's King Hussein is Washington's oldest and best Arab friend in the Middle East.

But Hussein cannot risk taking the Sadat-U.S. side in the current peace games because of his huge Palestinian population. Still worse, Hussein was dealt out of any role in attempting to negotiate a West Bank settlement when the Arab summit conference in Rabat, shortly after the 1973 war, designated the PLO as "sole representative" of the Palestinian West Bankers.

The king of Jordan is compelled to play his few cards with great discrimination. If he backed a U.S.-Egyptian-Israeli deal on the West Bank, he would be charged with selling out the Palestinians and the PLO. It was made clear to us in Amman that nobody here can accurately predict what Jordan's massive Palestinian population really wants on the West Bank: an independent state or a semi-independent "entity" linked to Jordan.

Referring to Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin, one of Hussein's top advisers told us: "Mr. Begin has left us no room for maneuver. We are not in the present

Strength For Today

CREEDS

Many people in the Christian community love creeds too much, and many more outside that community hate creeds unreasonably.

Creeds have their place in religious life. They are a faltering attempt to explain the inexplicable. They are never infallible. All of the creeds of Christendom have truth in them, yet every one of them is an imperfect expression of truth. Creeds are man-made, and because of this they are no more perfect than the people who made them.

Some believe that the Holy Spirit has led them to a perfect knowledge of the truth. But the Bible does not show the Holy Spirit operating in this way. The Holy Spirit leads people to the best use of the capacities they have, but it never changes personality to such an extent that it makes anyone perfect.

The Word of God is our only standard of truth, but unfortunately none of us can ever quite measure up to that standard.

Lessons In An 8-Year Battle

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Phil and Sue Long of Bellevue, Washington, received a welcome check for $1,511.82 on July 17, but the symbolic value was worth many times the numbers on the face.

The check, for court expenses, not only was the final document in a victorious 8-year battle with the Internal Revenue Service, but it will help finance still another effort to interpret and enforce the law.

The second battle is over the Freedom of Information Act, about which the Longs became authorities while seeking IRS data to help in their defense against accusations of egregiously underpaying income taxes.

The Longs, Sue, 34, and Phil, 61, control 50 heavily mortgaged rental houses in the Seattle area, operating the properties, which they inherited, through the medium of two privately held corporations.

In 1969 the IRS claimed the corporations were dummies, rather than business operations, into which the Longs loaded personal expenses. The law frowns upon such practices.

In their case, the Longs claim, the IRS sought taxes of nearly 100 percent. Such an interpretation, and penalties, they say, would have destroyed them and other legitimate family corporations. They sued.

They finally won their suit on March 10, 1977 in the Appellate Court at San Francisco, but only after filing 11 other suits to obtain information under the Freedom of Information Act. They won them too.

In doing so, they became authorities on the IRS and the act. "We have more information on the operations of the IRS in our living room than there is in the Library of Congress and all Capitol Hill," Phil said.

"The biggest financial institution in the world," and here in a private home reposed more information on its operations than in the U.S. Congress. He expressed astonishment: it shouldn't be that way.

To obtain it required 18 trips to Washington. They spoke with IRS officials at least 150 times. They spent $30,000 out of pocket. They advertised their plight 15 times in the Washington Post.

bargaining game and there is no way for us to get in." Accordingly, Hussein is quietly stepping up his contacts with a strange assortment of militant Arab states in hopes of enlarging his maneuver area as insurance against the unpredictable future. Jordan is moving closer to Syria — and has opened a new connection with the extremist regime of Libya's strongman president, Col. Muammar Qaddafi. Indirectly, this gives Moscow a view into Amman it has not had before.

If President Carter's support for Sadat's comprehensive peace plan fails to move Begin in the right direction fast enough, the Soviet Union will find itself in an enviable position. That is precisely what Moscow is bargaining for: waiting out the Sadat mission in hopes of its total failure, in which case the militant Arab states backed by the Russians will re-enter the game. If Sadat should somehow ever agree to a separate settlement with Israel, Moscow would use its growing influence to line up the rest of the Arab world against Sadat and his American sponsors.

This explains why President Carter has courageously allowed himself out on such a long political limb in the U.S., alienating major power sources within the American Jewish community, to pressure Israel for concessions on the West Bank before it is too late. But not even the optimists here, if any are left, would bet much on his success.

are of strategic concern. In that broader context, no one seems inclined to discount the potential for an East-West resources struggle.

Major N.C. Power Companies Are Turning To Nuclear Energy

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's two major power companies are turning to nuclear power for generation of electricity more rapidly than the nation as a whole.

Officials of Duke Power Co. and Carolina Power & Light Co. say the switch to nuclear generation of electricity is due to a variety of reasons, including costs, the availability of other fuels and other considerations.

"If we and other companies in the Southeast had not gone to nuclear when we did, not only would coal cost twice as much as it does today ... I don't know if we would be able to get that much coal," said Sherwood Smith Jr., president of CP&L. "I think you'd be replacing it with oil."

Duke is spending $10 billion to build 10 nuclear plants between now and 1993. By that time, 60 percent of the utility's generating capacity will be nuclear. CP&L will have 44 percent of its generating capacity from nuclear energy when its Shearon Harris plant in Wake County is completed in 1990. The company is planning to build two large plants at undesignated sites in 1989 and 1991, and if those are nuclear plants CP&L would have 52 percent of its generating capacity in nuclear facilities.

The U.S. Department of Energy reports that 26 percent of the nation's power generating capacity will be nuclear in 1990.

Hugh A. Wells, executive director of the consumer-advocate Public Staff of the state Utilities Commission said the staff favors nuclear generation and is disappointed over indecisiveness on the part of the federal government.

"I've been debating this thing for five years now," Wells said. "And I've simply come down on the side of nuclear basically because it is, in the first place, safe and environmentally very clean; and, in the second place, it's absolutely necessary for an adequate supply of energy and electric power in this country for the next three or four decades."

Carl Horn Jr., chairman of the board of Duke, said there are three problems yet to be solved in the nuclear field: disposal of permanent wastes, reprocessing of spent fuel and development the breeder reactor.

"The real unknown is the breeder reactor," Horn said. "If that process is perfected, we're going to have nuclear power forever, because it will be too cheap to deny politically."

Stock And Market Reports

Hogs.
RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The overall trend on the North Carolina hog market today was steady to .75 lower. Wilson 47.50; Rocky Mount unreported; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Chadbourne, Ayden, Pine Level, Laurinburg and Benson, 48.00; Tarboro and Bethel 44.45-45.00; Salisbury 47.00; Sobeys' Corner 45.50-46.50.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices edged upward today in response to favorable news on the economic outlook.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had climbed 22.87 points last week, gained another 26 to 856.55 by noon today.

Gainers outpaced losers by a 3-2 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow would have shown a gain of close to 2 points had it not been for ex-dividends, or dividend-payment adjustments, involving four of the average's component stocks.

The government reported this morning that the index of leading economic indicators, which is designed to function as a kind of crystal ball for business activity, climbed 0.4 percent in June after an upward-revised 0.1 percent advance in May.

Separately, a trade association of machine-tool producers reported that orders received by the industry jumped 54 percent in June.

In addition, analysts noted continuing hopes that interest rates might be at or near a peak after their steady rise over the last several months.

Citicorp topped the active list, unchanged at 24 1/4. A 500,000-share block traded at that price.

The NYSE's composite index gained .07 to 56.25. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .43 at 154.58.

Volume on the Big Board came to 13.49 million shares at noontime, against 13.84 million at the same point Friday.

Big Refund To Pitt-Greene

Pitt and Greene Electric Membership Corporation, along with 17 other corporations in the state, will get refunds this fall totaling $8 million from Carolina Power and Light Company because they were charged too much during parts of 1976 and 1977.

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission ruled recently that a 34.7 percent rate increase collected over a 20-month period from May 1, 1976 to Dec. 29, 1977 was too high from CP&L.

"We're very pleased," said James M. Hubbard, executive vice president and general manager of the state Electric Membership Corporation, which represents the local cooperatives. "We fought hard to get this ruling. It's good news for us."

"This is the largest refund ever made by CP&L, and we feel it is completely justified," he continued. "We also feel this ruling will help us fight the most recent rate hike by CP&L which took effect last December."

The FERC is expected to begin hearings on the December increase in August.

The ruling, although assuring refunds for the overpayments, will not mean an immediate reduction in rates for the cooperatives. The dispute over the December, 1977 increase must first be settled.

According to the state EMC, refunds may be delayed if CP&L decides to appeal the recent ruling. The company has indicated it may appeal, but no official decision has been announced.

thereafter three sets each sales day for the remainder of the season.

For the first seven sales days, the official added, the total allocation for Greenville is 6,077,347 pounds.

Last year, the market averaged $86.33 per hundred pounds on opening day. For the season, local warehouses sold 41,238,566 pounds for $48,128,989, an average of $116.71 per hundred pounds.

"With price support up 6.3 cents for 1978," Bryan said, "buying companies will be more conscious of tobacco presented for sale." He urged farmers to "be sure to take the necessary steps to provide a product free of sand, dirt and other foreign matter."

Price support this year, according to Bryan, is $121 per hundred pounds.

The sales supervisor added, "Every warehouse firm in Greenville will have a sale every day during the season. Under the designation program, farmers have designated the warehouse of their choice on the Greenville Market. I would like to urge any farmers who have not already scheduled their sales to please contact the warehouse where their tobacco is designated for sale in order to set up a schedule of sales for the 1978 season."

Pitt Extension Chairman Leroy James said that "things are looking awfully good" for the leaf crop this season and he added, "We've got a good crop of tobacco if things continue as they are now."

James urged farmers to "do a good job of letting the tobacco ripen in the field" and he cautioned them to "not get in a rush and harvest before it's ready." He also mentioned the importance of keeping grades separated in marketing this season's crop.

The Extension spokesman said that he felt the percentage of farmers leaving their bottom leaves in the field would be low in Pitt County but he indicated that farmers should have no problem in meeting their poundage quotas.

James added that this year's growing season offered some uncertain moments with the rains coming "at the right time."

A. A. Forbes Jr. is serving as president of the local Tobacco Board of Trade this year and J. B. Belcher is vice president. Bryan is secretary-treasurer in addition to his duties as sales

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — City Manager William H. Batchelor says at least nine of 36 sanitation workers who were fired by the city last week for walking off the job have been rehired.

Batchelor also said Sunday that seven others involved in the dispute have applied for reinstatement.

Many of the remaining workers attended a rally at a park Sunday. A spokesman said the rehiring of some of the group had weakened the cause of those still out but that the protest would continue.

The walkout was staged after larceny charges were filed against Alexander Evans, a worker who was accused of stealing a suit of clothing in early July. Evans said he thought the clothes were left outside the home of Ervin H. Pinnell as a gift, a frequent practice in some areas.

At Least Seven Die In Traffic

By The Associated Press
 Traffic accidents around North Carolina during the weekend claimed the lives of at least seven persons, including a 19-year-old woman who was fatally injured when a van carrying a load of children from a church home in Greenville, S.C., collided head-on with a car in Gaston County.

The deaths boosted the state's traffic fatality toll to 756 for the year. It was 824 for the corresponding period a year ago.

Authorities said Ardith Irene Belgado, a member of the staff of the Tabernacle Baptist Church Children's home in Greenville, S.C., was killed instantly Saturday in the head-on crash near Dallas.

Thirteen other passengers in the van and the driver of the car were injured but only four required hospitalization. George Franklin West, 27, driver of the van, and Betty Pick, 10, were reported in serious condition. Emily Reynolds, 14, and Margaret Simms, 13, were in satisfactory condition.

The Highway Patrol said the van was taking the children from Greenville to Maiden, where they planned to sing at a church camp, when it apparently crossed the center line and collided with the car. The van overturned several times and its top was ripped off.

Others weekend traffic victims were:

—Donald Wayne McCarter, 32, of Gastonia, whose car was hit by a train Friday.

—Timothy Lee McCoy, 17, of Charlotte, who was killed Saturday when his car struck a utility pole about 10 miles south of Charlotte.

—Don Ewing, 19, of Mount Gilead, who was killed early Sunday when he ran into the path of an oncoming vehicle. The patrol said.

—Timothy Wayne Fishel, 30, of Advance, who was fatally injured Saturday when the motorcycle he was riding flipped over in a field near Mocksville.

—Clyde Torsten Young, 18, of Laurel Hill and Carl Seth Andrews, 19, of Rockingham, who were fatally injured Friday in a one-car accident near Rockingham.

Waltrip Gets Win

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip says a purring stock car and hustling pit crew helped him to his first-ever win in the 500-mile Grand National stock car race at Pocono International Raceway.

"The car ran super good all day," Waltrip said Sunday after grabbing his fifth victory in 15 starts this season. "We had fantastic pit stops and that made a difference."

Waltrip didn't sound as happy, however, about his relationship with his Digard racing team. Rumored to be leaving Digard, Waltrip said he'll finish out the year with the team but after that he's not sure.

"There's 12 more races left in 1978 and I'll be driving all of them for Digard," he said. "I don't know what 1979 will hold. Yes, I do have a contract through 1982. I can't debate that."

"But I'm getting paid now as if I was just starting. It's the same agreement we've had since 1976," Waltrip said. "I never have gotten a cost of living increase."

David Pearson, who finished second and played cat-and-mouse with him for nearly four hours, traded glares as well as the lead with Waltrip.

"David is a lot of fun to race with," said Waltrip, who dueled with Pearson before pulling away at the end to win the race in track record speed.

"He'd pull up along side me and look over as if to say, 'Hey kid, you ain't foolin' me.' Then I'd pull up beside him and give him a look to say, 'Hey old man, you ain't gonna fool me, either.'"

Waltrip, 31, of Franklin, Tenn., edged Pearson by half a second, his Chevrolet covering the 200 laps around the 2 1/2-mile Pocono tri-oval in 3:30:38. His average speed of 142.540 mph surpassed the 132.781 mph mark set by Richard Petty in 1973.

Taking the lead for the final time on the 188th lap, Waltrip won $20,890 in first-prize money in the $154,000 event. He pulled away to almost a two-second lead with just over three laps remaining, then held on as Pearson made a dramatic dash in the last few laps.

Little more than a car length behind at the finish, Pearson's Mercury was trailing smoke at the end of the race as his engine succumbed to the frantic pace.

Waltrip and Pearson were the only drivers to lead the race after the 61st lap and traded first place 19 times over the final 139 laps.

Waltrip and Pearson were within striking distance of each other most of the afternoon. Except for late pit stops with about 40 laps remaining, they were glued to each other for the final 160 miles, exchanging the lead several times.

Funseth Takes Hartford

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Rod Funseth has constructed a victory in the Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open that is as solid as the barn he constructed last month near his home in Napa, Calif.

And the $42,000 first prize money Funseth earned will be used to pay bills for the barn that houses his two Arabian horses and to repay his daughter, from whose bank account Funseth had to borrow money for the building.

"Like my wife said the other day, we had some bills building the barn and we had to borrow some money," he said after tying a GHO record with a 72-hole total of 264, or 20-under-par. "This just pays for the barn."

Funseth also tied the record for the lowest score on the front nine on Thursday when he shot a 6-under-par 29. He ended the first round with a 65, and then fell back to fifth with a 67. The curly-haired golfer's 68 on Saturday gave him a 54-hole total of 200.

Funseth was 1 stroke behind the leaders going into Sunday's final round at the 6,534-yard, par-71 Wethersfield Country Club course. He recorded five birdies on the front nine, including a 25-foot putt and a 20-foot chip-in. The 45-year-old Funseth was never headed from that point on.

It was his third victory since joining the PGA tour in 1961 and the first-place money more than doubled his 1978 winnings to a total of $80,672.

Three golfers were tied for second place, earning $16,240 each. Shooting 16-under-par 268 were Dale Douglass, defending champion Bill Kratzert and Lee Elder.

Kratzert made a determined bid to be the first GHO champion to repeat. But his concern about his wife, Cheryl, who was at home in Fort Wayne, Ind., expecting their first child, proved to be too much of a distraction.

"It's difficult to play out there when it's on your mind," the 26-year-old University of Georgia graduate said. "You look at all the message boards and see if there's one that says, 'Bill Kratzert, you have a new baby boy.'"

In a tie for fifth was Rex Caldwell and the co-leader after 54 holes, Howard Twitty.

The last round was a disappointment for Phil Hancock, who either led or was tied for the lead for the first three rounds. After scoring back-to-back 64s on Thursday and Friday — a GHO record — and adding a 71 Saturday, Hancock soared to a 4-over-par 75 Sunday. Instead of taking home the $42,000 first prize, he earned $1,715 in a tie for 22nd place.

Of the 78 golfers in the field, only two ended the tourney over par.

Once-Strong Boston Bats Now In Slump

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Those booming Boston bats are silent, having produced just three runs in the last 46 innings, and Manager Don Zimmer is baffled as to how to solve the problem.

"When you're in a slump, you're in one," said Zimmer, sounding a bit like Yogi Berra after the Red Sox were beaten by the Kansas City Royals 2-1 Sunday for their 10th loss in the last 12 games.

"I never thought I'd see a period like this one with this ball club," added Zimmer, whose team's .277 season batting average is the second-best in the major leagues. "Our pitching hasn't been all that bad, we're just not getting a hit when we need one."

Boston's lead, a comfortable nine games as recently as July 19, is now down to 4 1/2 games over the Milwaukee Brewers, who beat the Toronto Blue Jays 10-5 Sunday.

Baltimore and New York are in the running, too, both 7 1/2 games out even though they missed chances to pull even closer on Sunday. The Orioles lost to the California Angels 4-2 while the Yankees split a doubleheader with the Minnesota Twins, winning 4-3 and then losing 2-0.

In other American League games, the Detroit Tigers edged the Seattle Mariners 5-4, the Oakland A's trimmed the Cleveland Indians 5-4 and the Chicago White Sox swept a doubleheader from the Minnesota Twins 5-4 and 4-2.

Paul Splittorff raised his record to 12-9 by beating the Red Sox with relief help from Al Hrabosky, who notched his 14th save. Hrabosky put down rallies in the last two innings to help the Royals to their 14th victory in their last 16 games.

Brewers 10, Blue Jays 5
The Brewers collected 10 extra-base hits in beating Toronto.

Dick Davis homered to break a 5-5 tie in the eighth inning. Tony Muser added a bases-loaded triple with two out in the eighth and Jim Wohlford had an RBI single in the ninth.

Yankees 4-0, Twins 3-2
Jim Spencer's pinch-hit double in the eighth inning drove in Graig Nettles with the winning run in the opener. Ron Guidry struck out 10 in 62-3 innings, the seventh time he's fanned 10 or more this season, although the Yankee starter failed in his bid for his 16th victory.

In the second game, pinch-hitter Jose Morales' run-scoring single in the ninth inning broke up a scoreless tie and a throwing error by New York reliever Sparky Lyle let in another run.

Angels 4, Orioles 2
Brian Downing hit two run-scoring singles and Joe Rudi and Lyman Bostock had one apiece as California beat Baltimore.

Dave Frost, 3-4, got the victory with relief help from Dave LaRoche, who recorded his 15th save.

A's 5, Indians 4
Cleveland blew a 4-3 lead as Oakland scored twice in the ninth. Dave Revering doubled and scored on a single by Taylor Duncan, who came around to score on a two-out single by Jeff Newman.

Elias Sosa, who pitched the final 11-3 innings, got the win to raise his record to 8-2.

Tigers 5, Mariners 4
Steve Kemp hit a pair of run-scoring singles and Milt Wilcox won for the fourth time in his last six starts as Detroit defeated Seattle. It was the fifth victory in the last six games for the Tigers, who are just 9 1/2 games behind first-place Boston in the AL East despite being in fifth place.

Wilcox, 8-8, needed relief help from Bob Sykes in the sixth inning. Sykes worked the final 32-3 innings for his second save.

White Sox 5-4, Rangers 4-2
Chicago scored three runs in the eighth inning to erase a 4-2 deficit in the opener. Lamar Johnson drove in the tying runs with a bases-loaded single and Claudell Washington scored the winning run all the way from first when Texas center fielder Juan Beniquez misplayed the ball for an error.

Rose Eyes Sid's Record

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

Sydney who? Don't bother with the record books or Baseball Encyclopedia. He's Pete Rose's imaginary playmate.

The goal-oriented Cincinnati Reds third baseman already is looking past the all-time National League mark of 44 consecutive games in which Wee Willie Keeler hit in 1897. After that, all he can see is the magic mark of 56 by Joe DiMaggio — until he conjured up another target.

"Right now, I'm going after Sidney Stonestreet's 48-game streak," Rose told a puzzled group of sports writers who had just watched the Reds captain hit in his 43rd consecutive game. "You probably never heard of him. I just made him up."

Rose went 2-for-5 Sunday, getting both hits off Philadelphia starter Larry Christenson, as the Reds downed the Phils 5-3.

Tonight, Cincinnati begins a three-game set in Atlanta against the Braves, whose pitchers had a lot of trouble Sunday against Montreal. Tom Boggs, Craig Skok and Mickey Mahler combined on a 28-hitter, giving up a National League record 58 total bases, eight home runs (tying the major league record) and 19 runs to the Expos.

George Foster smacked his 25th homer of the year, tying him with Greg Luzinski of Philadelphia for the league lead, and Dan Driessen hit his 13th for Cincinnati. Tom Hume, 5-10, got the win with relief help from Manny Sarmiento and Doug Bair, who got his 19th save by getting the final two outs.

Expos 19, Braves 0
Montreal's offensive explosion tied two major league records, broke a league mark and broke a club record. The Expos' eight home runs — three by Larry Parrish — tied a major league record previously held by six clubs, three in each league. Andre Dawson tied another major league record held by 18 others by hitting two home runs in one inning.

Giants 4-1, Cubs 2-0
San Francisco's doubleheader sweep gave the club sole possession of first place in the West after falling into a tie with Los Angeles Saturday.

Pirates 5, Dodgers 3
Dave Parker singled and homered, breaking out of an 0-for-24 slump, to help the Pirates snap a seven-game losing streak and end LA's string of victories at five.

Padres 3, Cards 2
San Diego extended its winning streak to six games when Gene Richards doubled home Derrell Thomas with the winning run in the seventh inning. Gaylord Perry, 12-4, needed two innings of relief help from Rolie Fingers to get the win. Fingers got his 23rd save.

Astros 4, Mets 3
Wilbur Howard's pinch-hit ninth inning single gave Houston its sixth straight victory as the Astros rallied to beat New York.

Williamston Loses Two

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston lost two American Legion Eastern playoff series ballgames over the weekend, 11-7 and 9-4 to Richmond County.

The best-of-seven series moves to Hamlet tonight for three games before it returns to Williamston, if necessary. The winner of the series will face the Western champions for the state title.

Details of the games were not available.

Greenville Ties Match

ROCKY MOUNT — Greenville and Rocky Mount played to a 3-3 tie yesterday in the final Roanoke Tennis League match of the season for Greenville.

The local team, which needed wins in both doubles matches to gain the tie, finished the season with a 6-2-1 record.

'Billy The Kid' Returns; Will Wear Pinstripes In '80

NEW YORK (AP) — Saturday was Old-Timers' Day at Yankee Stadium, a day for nostalgia and the fond remembrance of old heroes. The crowd began to chant: "We want Billy, we want Billy." Then, the public address system invited that Hall of Famer, Billy Martin, who replaced Leron as Tuesday's manager. He would continue as manager of the Yankees through the 1979 and 1980 seasons. Leron came out and the boogie grew louder. But P.A. announcer Bob Sheppard finally drowned out the hecklers. "And the Yankees would like to announce at this time, introduce and announce at the same moment that the manager for the 1980 season and hopefully for many years after that will be No. 1, Billy Martin." The crowd went wild. "Unbelievable!" said former Yankee great Joe DiMaggio. "Billy the Kid was back. In a stunning, shocking turn of events that overshadowed all the Yankee looniness of the past two years, owner George Steinbrenner welcomed Batting Billy back as manager, beginning with the 1980 season after 1 1/2 years of rest and recuperation to correct a liver condition. During that stretch, Martin will work as a consultant, evaluating talent in the organization. He also must give up drinking, except for beer. It was a bizarre but fitting end to a grotesque week that began with Martin verbally blasting outfielder Reggie Jackson and Steinbrenner at a

Chicago airport last Sunday — "They deserve each other," he said. "One's a born liar and the other's convicted" — and then submitting his resignation a day later at a tearful news conference in Kansas City. The Yankees also announced that Leron, who took over as manager last Tuesday, would become general manager in 1980. "I am probably going to be ripped a little for being soft maybe or being stupid," said Steinbrenner, "but let me tell you this — there are times in life when you should be tough and times when you have to be rigid, and there are times when you have to be understanding and have compassion. "And I am not trying to sound corny. I am trying to tell you exactly what happened. Al and I discussed this at length and I told him my feelings. I told him that in my gut, as much had gone on both ways, that I didn't feel what had happened was right. "Well, I've always thought better with my gut than my heart, and if being compassionate toward a man who has the courage to admit that he has a concern for his health and emotional well-being, and who came to me after his resignation when he had nothing really to gain and said he was sorry for what he had said and admitted that he committed an indiscretion in denying it — if caring about wanting to work with and help that man is a sign of softness, then I'd a helluva rather be called soft and stupid than a rock and brilliant." Noting that his conviction for making illegal contributions to the campaign of former President Richard M. Nixon was a matter of public record, Steinbrenner called Martin's airport remarks "a small mistake...in the total picture."

Mont Carter sacrificed Harrell home and Troy Henderson was delivered a walk, stealing second when he got on. Rand doubled in Stalls and Henderson and Warren followed with a single and a steal. Fletcher loaded the bases with a walk and Kenny Kirkland got a base on balls to push Rand in. Roderick Harrell walked in Warren and Stalls singled to plate Fletcher and Kirkland. Q.1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AK965 ♥7 ♦J852 ♣962

The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♥ 2 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Your hand has excellent playing strength, but for the moment, you should be content to probe for a possible spade contract by bidding a mere two spades. Any response to an overall is a forward-going move, so partner will strive to make a rebid on the slightest pretext. If he shows disfavor for your suit, you can support diamonds at your next turn.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A ♥A6 ♦K109843 ♣AJ106

The bidding has proceeded:
East South

What action do you take?
A.—Bid four diamonds. Your point count is sufficient for a double. However, partner's likely response is four hearts and since he might have a bust, you would be awkwardly placed. Unless partner has a long suit, four hearts could be headed for a multi-trick set, and if you attempt to correct to five diamonds, that might be even a worse contract because your suit is too porous.

Q.3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K104 ♥J8752 ♦K8 ♣AJ6

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Since partner opened third-in-hand you don't want to hang him by unilaterally committing the hand to game. This is a close choice between a jump to three spades or two no trump. Since most of our values are prime, we prefer the jump raise in partner's suit even though we have only three-card support.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K963 ♥874 ♦AQ ♣AJ108

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Partner has issued an invitation to game, and you should be delighted to accept. A raise to four spades is the recommended choice because of your excellent trump support. It's true that three no trump might be a better contract, but you have no satisfactory way to explore that possibility.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A5 ♥KJ782 ♦AJ5 ♣AJ8

Partner opens the bidding with one spade. What do you respond?
A.—You almost have the values for a jump shift, but that would not be an advisable tactic on this hand because you are not sure where you want to play the hand. Either major suit or no trump could be the best spot.

New Chapter In A Rating Game

By JAY SHARBUTT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Each morning, networks have "overnight" ratings from New York, Los Angeles and Chicago to ponder while awaiting national returns that arrive 1 1/2 to two days after a night's broadcasting.

But come September, the overnight Nielsen tale of three cities will get a new chapter: San Francisco-Oakland. It's the nation's sixth-largest TV market, with 1,761,690 TV-equipped households.

The A.C. Nielsen Co. says 300 homes will get its Audimeters to provide morning-after ratings. The firm says it's the first time it has put in its fast-figures system in a city in eight years.

New York, the nation's top tube arena with nearly 6.5 million TV homes, 500 metered for overnight returns, was the first to get the system, says Nielsen spokesman Travis Whitlow.

That was in the early 1960s, he said. Then came the No. 3 market, Chicago, with 300 homes metered for swift returns, then the No. 2 market in size, Los Angeles, with 500 metered homes.

Why now San Francisco? Why not fourth-ranked Philadelphia, or No. 5, Boston? Simple. Bay Area stations were willing to buy the speedy service, but not those in Boston or Philadelphia, Whitlow said by phone from Nielsen headquarters near Chicago.

"Starting it up is very costly," he explained. "It involves a lot of field work, then wiring the homes. You need a certain number of stations in a market willing to buy it..."

"The key to setting up a sample like this is stations," he said. And, referring to San Francisco-area stations, he added:

"Apparently the (overnight rating) information is valuable enough to them in terms of advertisers that they're willing to support the initial costs of subsidizing it."

He said a national Nielsen estimate for a night's TV draws its raw data from 1,170 metered homes across the U.S.

It takes longer to calculate, he says, because Nielsen also must check station "clearance" for each rated show across the country before it can get a national ratings estimate for the opus.

Networks watch "overnights" as possible indicators of the coming national returns. But experts say it's not always true that as New York, Chicago and LA go, so goes the nation in viewing choices.

Networks also occasionally use "overnights" as a basis for predicting — loudly — an impending triumph in national Nielsen.

But the primary value of the morning-after report is to local users, says Whitlow. His opinion is echoed by Marvin Mord and Arnold Becker, research chiefs at ABC and CBS, respectively.

"The real reason for wiring San Francisco is to improve local ratings (measurement)," Becker says.

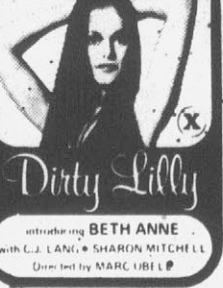

"The value of it isn't for national purposes," says Mord, whose network owns stations in all four "overnight" cities. "They (the stations) use the data to deal with programming and advertising in their own markets. It's basically a local tool."

Files Of Said 'Purged'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - State Attorney General Rufus Edmisten says he threw away thousands of pages of State Bureau of Investigation files when he took office in 1974.

Edmisten said Sunday he purged the files of information, much of it involving "rumor and hearsay," that included names of people who participated in such political demonstrations as supporting civil rights and opposing the Vietnam war.

"I have a pretty tight ship right now," he said. "We're not meddling into people's personal lives. Anybody (within the SBI) that does would be subject to severe disciplinary procedures."

Edmisten responded during a telephone interview to a private research organization's study critical of the confidentiality of SBI reports.

Files dating back 10 to 15 years were purged, Edmisten said, and the information is periodically reviewed for further purges.

The North Carolina Center for Public Policy and Research Inc. charged recently that the SBI is subject to abuses of power because its records are protected from public access.

The attorney general and SBI Director Haywood Starling both said they were not contacted by the N.C. Center for Public Policy prior to publication of the report.

"It's rather apparent to me that this organization doesn't know anything about law enforcement," Edmisten said. "I'm rather sensitive to this sort of thing."

He also said he would cooperate with anyone having questions about SBI investigations of themselves.

"If they'll contact my office,"

"I'll find a way to talk to them," he said. "There are ways for people to know whether they have been investigated by the SBI. They can call and ask us. It's very seldom that we would not tell that we are working on a case."

He added, "If we're investigating someone for breaking into safes or planning a murder, we would not tell them that we were investigating."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are forecast in three areas of the nation today through Tuesday, according to the National Weather Service, including a four-state area of the Great Plains, along the southern U.S. border from Arizona across to Florida, and in a band from Virginia northeast to Maine and east of the Great Lakes. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Following a fine summer weekend, the weather will turn a bit more unsettled Tuesday. It looks the month of July will go out rumbling.

A nearly stationary front is hovering close to the Virginia-North Carolina border. This front combined with a moist flow of air from the south and west should trigger showers and thunderstorms, especially during afternoon and evening hours.

Moisture laden air and high humidity is making the atmosphere very unstable. This means some of the rain showers could be heavy, particularly in western sections of the state.

Sunday, sunny skies and hot humid air covered most of the state. Isolated thunderstorms popped up in the mountains during the late afternoon hours. Both Asheville and Hickory had a trace of rain. Temperatures hit the upper 90s in the south-east. Fayetteville reached 98 and Wilmington 97 degrees. Elsewhere thermometers peaked in the low and middle 90s with 80s in the mountains and on the Outer Banks.

This morning skies were partly cloudy across the state with light fog and haze reported in many areas. Temperatures were mild, ranging from the upper 60s in the mountains to the upper 70s on the coast.

Heavy thunderstorms are expected over western North Carolina this afternoon and evening. A few may produce severe weather.

Warm sticky wet weather is expected for the next two or three days. Variable amounts of clouds will cover the sky and temperatures should range from near 80 in the mountains to around 90 down east. Thunderstorms are likely this afternoon and evening, especially in the mountains where they may be accompanied by heavy downpours.

The Kerr Lake level last reported at 199.6 feet.

"But there was all that talk about tar. Unfortunately, most low tar cigarettes tasted like nothing. Then I tried Vantage."
