

Defense Budget Survives House Reduction Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $119.4 billion defense spending bill appears headed for final approval in the House after surviving efforts to cut money for a giant, nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

The bill, the largest federal appropriation ever, also withstood efforts to slash $1.4 billion in spending to force Pentagon belt-tightening.

Final action on the measure was expected today.

Rep. Harold Volkmer, D-Mo., said taxpayers feel the government has been wasting money. He tried unsuccessfully to cut 2 percent from military personnel costs and operation and maintenance expenses.

"We should be able to find 2 percent fat in any program," he argued Monday.

Rep. Jack Edwards of Alabama, a ranking Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, argued, "We didn't come to the floor with any padding in this bill."

Economy arguments also were cited in a losing campaign to kill a $2.1 billion nuclear carrier that the Carter administration does not want built. By a 218-156 vote, the House defeated an amendment to delete the carrier appropriation.

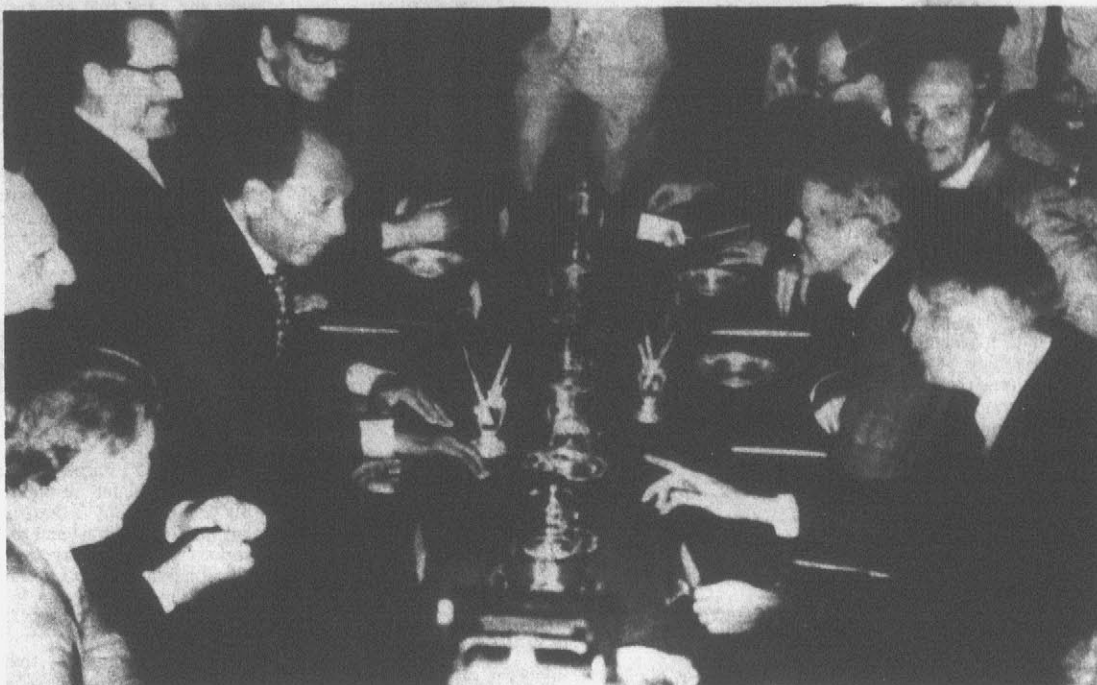

Rep. Robert Giaino, D-Conn., budget committee chairman, said a nuclear carrier "puts all our eggs in one basket that makes such an inviting target for missiles and other instruments of war."

Opponents also argued that predictable cost overruns will drive the price tag as high as $3 billion.

The Carter administration said it did not want to build a carrier until next year, and that next year's ship should be fueled by oil rather than atomic power, and should be smaller than the giant flattops.

Construction of a nuclear carrier already has been authorized by both houses of Congress. The last foreseeable hurdle for the ship on Capitol Hill is its inclusion in the Senate appropriations bill that is still being drafted.

Vatican Prepares Burial Of Paul VI On Saturday

By EDWARD MAGRI
Associated Press Writer
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul's closest aides and other prelates knelt and prayed in silence around his body through the night at the summer papal palace in Castel Gandolfo as the Vatican made preparations for his burial Saturday and the election of his successor.

Some 10,000 pilgrims passed through the Renaissance palace in the Alban Hills south of Rome Monday to pay homage to the 262nd Roman Catholic pontiff who died there Sunday night after a heart attack.

The pope's body lay on a catafalque, dressed in the red robes that he usually wore for funeral rites. Alongside was a crucifix on a long shaft, his favorite religious object. A tall candle burned as a symbol of eternal life.

Thousands more were expected to make the pilgrimage to Castel Gandolfo Tuesday and Wednesday. Bigger crowds will flock to St. Peter's Basilica after the body is transferred there Wednesday night, to lie in state until the funeral Saturday attended by religious and political leaders from many countries. Burial will be in the crypt beneath St. Peter's.

A nine-day mourning period will follow, with a cardinal or other high-ranking prelate saying a special Mass in St. Peter's daily.

Gunfire During House Raid In Philadelphia

By ELLIOT MINOR
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Gunfire erupted today and one policeman was killed as authorities using a bulldozer and a cherry-picker began demolishing the headquarters of the radical group MOVE. Officials said at least seven persons were injured.

The more than 100 police on the scene refused to discuss the situation. MOVE members in the house took turns cursing over a loudspeaker at Mayor Frank Rizzo, Police Commissioner Joseph O'Neill and Common Pleas Court Judge G. Fred DiBona as police set up what appeared to be the final blockade of the West Philadelphia house.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter will meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin at Camp David on Sept. 5 to resume direct Middle East peace negotiations.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the three leaders will meet "to seek a framework for peace in the Middle East."

Powell said all were agreed there is "no task more important than the search for a permanent settlement."

The meeting is the first major breakthrough in Middle East peace efforts since Sadat suspended negotiations last January. It will be the first meeting between Sadat and Begin since last December.

The meeting was arranged by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, who went to the Middle East over the weekend to try to resume negotiations at the foreign minister level. Vance is in Alexandria, Egypt, today.

The peace efforts had broken down over an Egyptian demand for an Israeli commitment to surrender sovereignty over the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

The Israeli position has been that it would discuss the sovereignty question after a five-year period of limited self-rule by Palestinian Arabs in the area. Carter briefed congressional leaders on the new development this morning.

Contracts Awarded For Hauling County's Trash

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners yesterday awarded contracts for hauling the large 40-cubic yard trash containers — to be located at points throughout the county as part of the board's solid waste disposal plan — to the landfill, and approved bids for a compactor unit for the Farmville transfer station.

The hauling contract was awarded to Seaboard Container Service, which bid $34.34 per haul. An estimated 881 hauls are expected from rural areas during the coming fiscal year, while 440 hauls are estimated from the Farmville transfer station, making the price for the first year total more than $48,000.

Seaboard's bid for clean-up crews to remove spills at the disposal sites, was $15.60 per hour.

Waste Industries bid, the second lowest, would have totaled $51,582 for the projected 1,321 hauls and $16.50 per hour for clean-up crews.

Under the contract, each of the containers will be emptied at least two times a week.

The first of the container sites — located at the old County Home — will be placed in service this afternoon, when Seaboard delivers the first of the containers to the site.

The hauling contract is for a three-year period.

Waste Industries submitted the low bid for the compactor at the Farmville transfer station — where Farmville waste collection trucks will dump their loads for hauling to the landfill — totaling $23,773.

In other business yesterday, the board approved an application for $84,400 in federal funds as a 50 per cent match for local money to improve facilities for recreation at several county school sites.

The federal money would be used to match $42,200 in county money and $42,200 in funds raised by the various communities to support the development of Pitt County Community Parks under the Community School program for recreation.

"It's going to be first class or not at all," Alice Keene, director of the Community Schools program said of the community parks effort.

The board yesterday also approved payment of $21,901 for the deficit operation of the Pitt Ambulance Service for the fiscal year which ended April 30.

Authorities said two police officers and one fireman were among those wounded when helmeted police stormed the ramshackle three-story house to remove mop-haired anarchists holed up inside.

At least six members of the group called MOVE, a name with no known significance, were arrested.

"I heard a lot of gunfire and what sounded like a bomb going off," said Paul Lazorko, who lives nearby. "I saw a police officer lying in the street. They put him in a van. Police were running around telling everybody to get off the streets."

Parents Reverse Their Home Roles

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for 10 years and have two children, 6 and 8.

My wife works outside the home, and I am in charge of the household duties. It has worked out very well for us, but our children's friends think we are a weird family and they tease our kids, and therein lies our problem.

We have explained to our kids that we are a normal family except that Mother works and Dad takes care of the house. They understand it, but their friends don't, and they keep ridiculing our kids mercilessly. We have even asked the parents to explain the situation to their children, but it seems that the parents themselves have a prejudice against us and consider us oddballs.

Any suggestions?

HOUSEHUSBAND

DEAR HOUSEHUSBAND: If others aren't able to understand your lifestyle, that's their problem. Don't worry about your children. They'll survive. In time, when they see how well your arrangement has worked out, they'll become impervious to the taunting. Never apologize for being "different."

DEAR ABBY: Ralph and I are both 23 and we've been happily married for 18 months.

My problem is my father-in-law. He's a golf nut, and he keeps inviting my husband to go on these fabulous golfing vacations with him. They are always held at fancy resorts, and Ralph (who is also a golf nut) finds these trips hard to pass up. I'm glad he and his father have such a good rapport, but I hate being left alone for long weekends every few months.

Please don't suggest that I go somewhere with a girlfriend, or do something with my mother-in-law, because I'd rather not.

Ralph and I are usually very open and frank with each other, but I can't bring myself to tell him how unhappy I am when he takes off on those golfing vacations. Am I being selfish?

GOLF WIDOW

DEAR WIDOW: No. After only 18 months of marriage, you're still honeymooners. Tell Ralph AND his father that their frequent golfing vacations are handicapping your marriage. And drive your point home now before those golfing vacations become a habit!

DEAR ABBY: I think your response to RED IN REDWOOD CITY was 18th century. (Red said every man she met made a pass at her, and she was sick of it. Then you put the blame on her, saying she must be sending out signals. And you topped it off with, "No man in his right mind would make a pass at a statue.")

Abby, why should women have to go around acting like statues? You should have told Red not to feel guilty about being attractive—or even flirting a little.

So how about some helpful advice for a change, instead of trying to turn women into cold, unresponsive statues? ANIMATED IN L.A.

DEAR ANIMATED: I am NOT trying to turn women into cold, unresponsive statues. But I certainly would not advise a woman to "flirt a little" unless she was ready, willing and able to deal with the men who rise to the bait.

It's more 18th century to tease a guy into making a pass, and then to act insulted when he does.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Who Pays For Justice's Cost?

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Carter administration and the legal profession are pointing accusing fingers at each other in a debate over who should provide the cold cash to help millions of poor Americans get their fair share of justice.

The American Bar Association's national convention served as the arena Monday for the third round of a verbal bout that began last May when Carter threw the first jabs. Robert Lipshutz, Carter's White House counsel, told the influential trade group that individual lawyers should bear the cost of providing better legal care for poor people accused of serious crimes. "Overburdened" taxpayers, Lipshutz said, should not be asked to pay for improving such legal help. The nation's lawyers should dip into their pockets, perhaps paying an "additional fee" along with bar dues to help poor criminal defendants, he said. ABA president William Spann called the proposal "impractical" and "misguided." A quick recap of earlier action:

Round One in Los Angeles last May: Carter in a speech blasts the legal establishment for not providing proper leadership in combating deficiencies in the nation's system of justice. Americans have "too many lawyers" and "too little justice," he says.

Round Two in Washington last June: Incoming ABA president S. Shepherd Tate of Memphis, Tenn., tells a group of lawyers in the nation's capital that if Carter is so concerned with the legal needs of poor people, his administration should ask Congress to establish a "National Center for Defense Services."

The center would use federal money to supplement legal help given to poor people accused of crimes and in jeopardy of going to prison, Tate said.

The Supreme Court has ruled that all people accused of a crime and threatened with loss of freedom have a constitutional right to free legal help if they cannot afford to hire a lawyer.

After Carter declined an ABA invitation to attend its convention — even though he was to be in New York today to sign a federal loan guarantee for the city — Lipshutz carried the president's latest message.

Spann said the constitutional obligation to provide free legal help to poor criminal defendants "is a state obligation, not the legal profession's."

"Would they ask a plumber to pay a fee to provide the poor with free plumbing?" Spann

Winterville Asked Seek Single Purpose Grant

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Town Board was informed last night that the Department of Housing and Urban Development has requested Winterville to send in a full application for a single purpose grant totaling $496,556.

Winterville has been placed in a backup position, which means that the city was not initially scheduled for federal benefits, but will be able to receive monies as soon as they are made available, according to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles.

The proposed funding will be used for housing rehabilitation, code enforcement, demolition, and acquisition and relocation in a single target area. Public hearings on the program will be held Aug. 17 and 24, 8 p.m., at the Winterville Town Hall. In other matters, Thomas Randolph requested use of the town sewer to dispose of waste from Sunnyside Eggs. The board tabled the matter for further study.

The board approved a $3 charge to Winterville property owners for curbing and gutters, raising the original charge a dollar.

Police Chief G. I. Jones appeared before the board to request a change in the local dog ordinance to make it more enforceable. The board decided to look over the matter and report at a later date.

Bill Clark, a local contractor, asked for annexation of Weathington Heights. The board tabled the matter. Roger Stencil, the new town advisor, was introduced to the board.

A presentation of the Pitt County Community Watch Program was given by Keith Knox, director, Division of Crime Prevention, Pitt County Sheriff's Department.

The board approved an application for state aid for mosquito control and appointed Elwood Nobles to be the agent to sign and execute all papers. The program is controlled by the Division of Health Services, North Carolina Department of Human Resources.

The board approved Carlton Branch as new fire chief, as well as Thomas Hudson for secretary-treasurer and Tony Smart, training officer.

Martin Bd. Defers Step

WILLIAMSTON — The Martin County Board of Commissioners yesterday delayed action on a request by the Association of Classroom Teachers for a three per cent supplement for teachers in the Martin County Schools.

A large group of teachers attended the meeting, requesting a 3 per cent supplement.

Commissioners delayed action on the request until a 7:30 p.m. August 23 meeting.

Tax Collector Judy Critchard reported a 96.31 per cent collection of current years' taxes in Martin County.

In other business, the board heard a report from Wayne Harris of the Mid-East Commission on the commission's activities in the county during the past year, and approved petitions for improvements to two Martin County roads.

Commissioners named Paul Barber as the voting delegate to the annual county commissioners' convention in Asheville.

Zoning Action By Williamston

WILLIAMSTON — Following its fourth public hearing on zoning last night, the Williamston Town Board adopted a zoning ordinance and a new zoning map for the town.

The local Jaycees were given permission to hold an "International All-Star Circus" at Williamston Junior High School in September.

Citizen Heber Coltrain asked the Board to consider prohibiting large fuel tanker trucks and log trucks from using Main Street except when they are delivering to a specific place within the area. He said this measure should be taken in the interest of safety. Mayor Robert Cowen asked the town attorney to contact the State Department of Transportation to see if this action can be taken, since Williamston's Main Street is also U. S. 64 Business.

A resolution was passed accepting a grant from the N. C. Division of Environmental Management for $66,818 or 12 and a half percent of the increase in cost of the new sewage treatment plant. The federal Environmental Protection Agency has paid 75 percent of the cost and the town, in a separate action, passed a resolution issuing bond anticipation notes for $250,000 for the local share of the project's cost.

Authorized was the filing of an application for $1,600 in Law Enforcement Agency Funds through the MidEast Commission for schooling for police officers.

The Mayor appointed a committee to study the wisdom of installing humps in various parts of towns where citizens have requested them as a means of slowing traffic.

The Mayor has indicated he will appoint a Williamston Human Relations Council. This action was called for by a visit from representatives of the N. C. Human Relations Council.

Authorization was given to apply for an Urban Development Action Grant of $750,000, 100 percent of the cost of a new overhead water storage tank and deep well and some water lines for the town.

Blood Gifts

Some 110 pints of blood were given during the Red Cross Bloodmobile visit at the Moose Lodge here yesterday. The drive continues today.

Six persons were deferred for medical reasons, Red Cross Secretary Ruth Taylor said. She said yesterday's total topped the first day of the August visit a year ago, when 99 pints were given.

Blood was collected today, too, from 11 to 5 p.m. at the same place. Sponsors of the August visit are the Gallon Donors of the County, some 250-300 of whom have given eight or more pints in their lives.

Friendly Aura On Both Sides

President Carter paid his planned visit to Eastern North Carolina last Saturday and, with the exception of Wilmington 10 demonstrators, he was greeted by a friendly crowd.

Given the attack on tobacco by HEW Sec. Joseph Califano, it might have been understandable if easterners, who are dependent on tobacco for their livelihood, had been less enthusiastic when Califano's boss came.

But the purpose of the president's visit to Wilson, in addition to boosting the senatorial campaign of Democratic nominee John Ingram, was to reassure tobacco farmers of the administration's support of the tobacco price support program.

President Carter clearly gave his assurances of continued support for the program. He was careful not to undercut the HEW health campaign, but he emphasized that both programs can co-exist in the government.

"I think anyone knows there is no incompatibility between the two commitments," he declared.

"We will have a good loan program for tobacco in the federal government, you can depend on that," he said.

The president's words were reassuring to tobacco growers and from that standpoint the visit could be judged as a resounding success.

There are few who expect HEW to back off too much from the tobacco health issue. On the other hand what we really wanted to hear was a reaffirmation of the administration's commitment to the tobacco price support program. That, we got.

Farm Loan Bill Can Make A Difference

President Carter signed a $4 billion farm loan bill last week designed to help farmers who went in debt during a period of low farm prices.

It could mean the difference for many family farms in continuing or being forced off the land. Generally farmers would be able to consolidate and refinance their debts. Since farm incomes are now on the rise it is anticipated that farm borrowers will be able to pay back the loans.

Family farming has been the nation's backbone from the beginning. Anything the nation can do to help the farm family to survive should be positive.

Safety Step: Road Design

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Does it really do any good to put those widened shoulders on North Carolina's rural roads?

That was the question asked by members of the General Assembly when a study of that topic was directed to be made by the Department of Transportation.

The results are dramatic. Overall, rural two-lane highways with paved shoulders produced a better safety record. But it was also determined that it cost less to maintain the roads generally since paved shoulders kept the sides of roads from tearing up and breaking off as quickly.

Putting material in place to keep road edges from dropping off is costing about $11 million a year. Paved shoulders reduce cost of that work by 75 percent.

But the most pressing question is safety, and the analysis proves that road-way design and construction play an important part in safety of travelers.

One Example

In 1973, paved shoulders were constructed along a 21 and one-half mile section of N.C. State Highway 50 between Garner and Benson. No additional grading or design changes were installed. Total cost of the project was $275,000.

Accidents on that road for two years before this work and two years afterward "showed a significant reduction in the rates of all types of accidents," engineers determined.

The non-fatal injury rate went down 40 percent; the fatal rate was reduced by 67 percent. Accidents caused by "running off the road" were cut from 70 to 32; a 54 percent reduction. Night accidents were cut 44 percent, and wet-road accidents were cut 51 percent.

For more than 10 years, the state has installed paved shoulders four feet wide when new two-lane highways are built, if traffic projections warrant it. There are now 844 miles of rural two-lane road with paved shoulders, and 1,280 miles of paved shoulders on four-lane roads.

BILL NOBLITT

But that leaves an awful lot of older roads which still drop sharply away from beneath the wheels of passing autos: over 3,208 miles of rural two-lane roads with traffic volume in excess of 3,000 vehicles per day.

The Transportation Department study led to this conclusion: "Based on a potential for reduction in accident costs, paved shoulders are justified on rural two-lane highways having a traffic volume in excess of 3,000 vehicles per day."

Proved Better

A previous research project by North Carolina State University proved that the construction cost of paved shoulders is justified on the basis of safety benefits.

So, if such roadwork can be proven to save lives, dollars and hurt, and at the same time sharply reduce maintenance costs, why do so many North Carolina roads remain narrow?

The estimated cost of providing paved shoulders four feet wide on roads which need them is $80.2 million.

In his comments to legislators, Transportation Secretary Tom Bradshaw summed it up this way: "In developing our highway improvement program (we) consider many different types of needs... paving unpaved roads, strengthening of existing roadway pavements, replacement of structurally deficient bridges, widening or relocation of heavily traveled rural and urban roads, safety improvements at high accident locations, and construction of new urban and rural freeways.

"The paved shoulder needs are considered within the context of our overall highway needs..."

The Biggest Boondoggle

WASHINGTON — Sometime this week, if everything goes on schedule, the House will take up the CETA Reauthorization Bill. The bill ought to be shouted down and stomped on. Instead the bill is likely to be waffled toward the Senate on waves of hot air and good intentions. Barring a full-scale revolt, another $10 billion to $12 billion of your money is about to gurgle down the drain.

"CETA" is the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973. It is now set to expire September 30. The pending bill would rewrite portions of the original act, in an effort to prevent multiple abuses, and would extend the program for four more years.

The authors of this grotesque imposition on the taxpayer could not prevent abuses if they kept at the rewriting job till Christmas. Nothing in my experience — not food stamps, nor foreign aid, nor the old Job Corps, nor the follies of the arts and humanities people — nothing has approached the sheer mind-boggling boondoggling waste and corruption of the CETA billions.

That is not even the worst that can be said of the program. The original idea was to train the hardcore unemployed for productive jobs in the private sector. The original idea was to rely upon public service jobs in local government only as temporary expedients. Those original ideas have been reduced to imbecility. The act has done virtually nothing toward solving the problems of the hardcore unemployed — their plight is as pathetic as ever — but the act has provided some glorious new revenue-sharing for the municipalities.

What CETA has accomplished — about all it has accomplished — is to transfer a few hundred thousand jobs from the private sector of our economy to the public sector. This is marvelous, is it not? In Massachusetts, newsman Warren T. Broyles has reported, between July 1974 and January 1978, government employment rose by 23,500 jobs (mostly CETA), while the state's private sector actually lost 26,700 jobs. The effect of the program is to damage the very private employers who in the past have supplied the most employment to marginal workers.

Brookes has some figures on CETA employment in public service. In May 1977, for example, Boston had 1,221 CETA jobs under the city government. By March 1978, the number had grown to 3,207. In New Bedford-Fall River, city jobs under CETA swelled from 402 to 2,106 in the same period. The jobs pay an average salary of $10,000 far above what an untrained 18-year-old could get in private employment, but the jobs have no permanence and few of them provide serious training.

Doubtless, the CETA outlays have helped some jobless men and women. It would be incredible, con-

40 Years Ago Today

August 8, 1938

An apparent building boom for the month of August came into view last week when two building permits and a repair permit amounted to $2,100.

One of the building permits was for the construction of a two-story frame dwelling at an estimated cost of $1,600. The other was for making an additional room to a home here at an estimated cost of $400. The repair permit amounted to $100. Building has shown a decided increase this year over previous years.

The Spanish Insurgents reported today that the Government's entire northern flank on Catalan front had been wiped out in one of the most powerful single assaults of the war.

Dispatches from Zaragoza said 4,000 Government militiamen had been killed and an equal number captured. Four thousand others would be unable to fight their way out of a trap, the dispatches said.

THE INSIDE REPORT

A Human Rights Conflict

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The conflict over President Carter's human rights program broke into an embarrassing boil on Aug. 3 when one of this nation's best Asian friends, Philippine Foreign Minister Carlos P. Romulo, boycotted Assistant Secretary of State Patt Derian's brief appearance at a meeting here of U.S. Asian allies.

As Mr. Carter's human rights spearpoint, Miss Derian wields a sharp weapon which drew blood on her visit to Manila last year.

"She was rude to President Marcos," one ranking diplomat told us. "Romulo was boycotting her here as an individual, not as a U.S. government official."

Allies of Derian insist she was only doing her duty in Manila. They insist, too, that the wave of new congressional laws requiring strict human rights accountability before U.S. arms, police equipment or ordinary commercial goods can be approved for export are making her job more complex than it used to be.

True or not, Miss Derian and her rapidly expanding

Office of Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs are under attack — still largely subterranean — from the administration's political and economic specialists, from trade experts in the Commerce Department and from U.S. manufacturers. Thus far, the effect on the dauntless Miss Derian, a veteran of the Mississippi civil rights wars, is not noticeable.

On July 17 she hired liberal arms specialist Stephen Cohen from the State Department's policy-planning staff to supervise all security-assistance exports (arms and police equipment) from the human rights standpoint. Cohen was the 10th top professional named to Miss Derian's staff. At least two more are wanted.

Human rights activists at State argue that new laws linking arms sales to human rights made the hiring of Cohen mandatory. But the Pentagon, jealous about its arms-control powers, is angered. Cohen's new role is also resented by some officials in the office of Lucy Benson, undersecretary of state for security assistance.

More to the point is Miss Derian's zeal as a political activist. High-ranking diplomats report that to push human rights goals of Jimmy Carter, Miss Derian is blunt. She informed the highest leaders of at least one foreign country with a poor human rights record that, as the only assistant secretary of state sworn in by Mr. Carter himself, she possesses special clout. Insiders say she is the only assistant secretary who rates a regularly-scheduled private weekly session with

Other Editors Say Missed The Spot

Washington Daily News

Some of the world's best advice represents merely wasted words. So often those of us who need good advice the most are also the most reluctant to accept it.

And then so often the very ones so much in need of good advice, because of their ability to remain anonymous, feel too secure to believe that the advice "was ever meant for me."

President Carter just gave some good firm advice. He just told his senior staff members who have untold numbers of workers under their supervision "tell them to avoid drugs or seek employment elsewhere." This "leave it alone or leave" edict might have some impact upon a very few, but for the most part the ones on the White House staff engaging in drug use of any type, be it marijuana, cocaine, heroin, or something else, can still remain rather secure in their anonymity. If the president and his top aides do not know to whom the admonition is addressed, there is so little that can really be done anyway.

So what we would see ahead is a situation where what the president said has fallen on deaf ears. There will hardly be any resignations from the White House staff among the drug users. There hardly will be any way of separating the drug users there from the non drug users. So President Carter, try as hard as he might, cannot reach the very guilty ones he so badly needs to fire outright.

We must admire President Carter for doing about all he can do. If a fellow is in the dark and that darkness continues to surround him, there is hardly any way in which light can come in. President Carter made the statement. The top aides and department heads will relay the message to those under them. Through government channels the message will filter down to the very bottom level. But the very good admonition contained in that message of advice is rather meaningless, and perhaps some of the fellows guilty of the infractions are actually laughing now.

It is shocking to hear that some of the people working at the White House are using such drugs. But from the practical standpoint, it will be most surprising if we have any resignations announced publicly. In fact, by this time next week we suspect that the government operatives will have forgotten the president's message completely.

Good advice so often just does not hit the spot.

Statistics Proven Unreliable

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It has taken two successive months of obviously suspect unemployment figures to dramatize the story, but at least it is getting told. It's the story of the official monthly jobless numbers which, though stated to precise percentages, simply are not reliable as indicators of current economic conditions.

But they are used for that purpose. Not by those who fear the defects of the numbers, but by others who wish to make political hay of them. And they are used also as determinants of some revenue sharing.

But the numbers are estimates, not counts. They are not raw numbers but processed ones — weighted, adjusted, and "corrected." And always they are subject to revision, sometimes almost a year later.

And yet they influence not just economic and political thinking and revenue sharing, but perhaps even presidential elections. Poor numbers just before voting time can cost candidates votes, and maybe even jobs.

The two big problems with the numbers concerns the definition of unemployment that is used and the imperfections of the seasonal adjusting process.

George Meany is at his angriest when talking about the definition which, he says, excludes thousands of discouraged workers because they had not actively sought a job in the weeks before the survey was done.

But there is also an opposite view of the concept. Some critics maintain that thousands are counted as unemployed even though they are not regular members of the labor force.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics concedes that the seasonal adjusting technique is a can of worms, but it doesn't give up. The "official" unemployment rate remains a seasonally adjusted figure.

The goal of the process is to remove from the numbers all seasonal factors, such as the bulge in employment that takes place at Christmas and the bulge in unemployment around graduation time.

Questioning why we pay so much attention to the official jobless rate isn't new; professional users have been wondering about it for years.

Many, many academic papers have been written on the subject. The BLS itself has sometimes expressed reservations. A blue ribbon federal commission is studying it. So is a government agency.

But the number will continue to be used as a general indicator of economic conditions. For many people it is a quick summary, a capsule they believe contains a distillation that saves hours of study.

It fits headlines and news summaries. To a degree it is used like a photograph — you know, a picture says a thousand words. But camera photos can be processed and even doctored, and so can computer numbers.

HOUSES AND HOMES

All of us have seen how in the last ten or fifteen years tremendous improvements have been made in the design and equipment of houses. For examples, in the kitchen, dishwashers and garbage disposal units, improved stoves and refrigerators, all make preparing meals and cleaning up much easier. Comfort and economy are served throughout the house by better heating units, air conditioners, and insulation.

Thousands of engineers and manufacturers are working to produce better houses. But what we really need is millions of people working to produce better homes. The roof over our head is important, but not nearly so important as the people under it. Their characters and their relationships to each other are what transforms a house into a home.

Not everyone can improve houses, but everyone in a family can improve a home. No technical training is needed. Consideration, generosity, honesty, and reverence — among other qualities — can remodel the homes in which we live.

A flash flood watch continued in effect for today and tonight for the southern Piedmont, the mountains and the eastern slopes and foothills, where rains have been heavy the past couple of days.

Thundershower activity is not expected to be heavy today but the threat of a flash flood existed principally along small streams in the event a heavy thundershower occurred.

Meanwhile, a weak cold front in eastern Tennessee will be moving slowly eastward for the next couple of days and thundershowers are expected across the state Wednesday.

Following the pattern of the past couple of days there was a lot of thundershower activity Monday, developing into some severe storms in the northern Piedmont. Also, several weather stations in the southern mountains reported three to four inches of rain.

sidering the billions that have been spent, if some persons had not been constructively assisted. But the program is riddled with abuse. Here in Washington, a spendthrift District government used $480,000 in CETA funds (translation: your tax funds) to set up a massive bureaucracy staffed in large part by relatives and cronies of City Council members. The 56 CETA recipients on Council's payroll averaged $18,000 a year for jobs that paid only $8,571 in other government agencies.

Writing in Reader's Digest, Ralph Kinney Bennett chronicles other outlays of your money. There was the payment in Atlanta of $475 a month to a former leader of the Black Panthers just "to keep an eye on city, county and state governments and their jiving off the masses." There was the $640,000 turned over to the Gay Community Service of Los Angeles, "to provide education about gay people's problems." Another $34,000 went to the Gay Alliance of Rochester, N.Y., to provide speakers at local campuses so that students could learn about homosexual lifestyles. And then there was the grant in Miami for a "nude sculpting workshop" in which naked men and women "ran hands over one another's bodies ... to help them discover that they had 'both male and female qualities'."

There is no way — no way on earth — that this miserable boondoggle can be retrieved for socially useful purposes. The House amendments make some feeble gestures toward reform, but a close reading of the changes suggests that local sponsors will evade the tighter requirements with ease. The CETA program, launched with good intentions five years ago, has come to a woefully bad end. If the House has any regard for the people's taxes, the House will let CETA die right there.

So the hen did the work and the grain grew and ripened.

"Who will help me reap my wheat?" asked the hen.

In the Roth story, the answers are:

"Not I," said the duck on its way to get food stamps.

"I don't do harvesting or windows," said the pig.

"I'd lose my CETA job at the tennis court," said the cow.

"I'd lose my unemployment compensation," said the goose.

The story goes on to tell how the blue hen harvested the wheat, made flour, baked bread and then, if you hadn't already guessed, the government stepped in and took most of it in taxes.

Among the subway systems of the world, one of the shortest and least complicated runs between the United States Capitol and the two Senate office buildings.

The system has two lines, one to the Dirksen Building, the other to the Russell Building.

Anyone can ride the Senate subway, but senators are more equal than others. The cars wait for them and ordinary folk are apt to get bumped to make room for a lawmaker.

A gaggle of senators, having just responded to a roll call vote, was headed back to the Dirksen and Russell buildings the other day.

Among them was Sen. Howard Metzenbaum. A car to the Russell Building waited for the Ohio Democrat then sped down the track.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Some sins attributed to her may be exaggerated. For example, consider the notorious case of the $411 worth of steel "groin protectors" and helmets for riot police in Indonesia which has human rights problems but sells the U.S. 9 percent of all our imported oil. In fact, that deal was approved Aug. 4 after a delay of a mere two weeks. But Mark Schneider, Miss Derian's top aide and Sen. Edward Kennedy's former legislative assistant, apparently disapproved the deal. His initials "M.S." appear on a confidential bureaucratic memorandum on which a lower-ranking official had written "no go" for the "groin" gear. Indeed, the higher-up decision to Metzenbaum got off at the end of the line and started walking toward the elevators. Then he stopped, whirled around and started running back to the subway.

"Hold that car," he shouted to the guard. "They took me to the wrong building."

It doesn't matter what the issue is, what its merits or shortcomings might be. But no one who has been around the United States Congress for very long could be anything but wary upon hearing a member begin a speech by saying:

"I woke up this morning with my mind set on freedom."

override Schneider may have resulted from press inquiries, including our own, curious over the fate of Indonesia's request. These "protectors" are significant (except for those who wear them) only as a symbol of how encompassing the U.S. human rights role has become. The larger problem is agonizing delays in getting Miss Derian's approval for big, lucrative, commercial deals between U.S. manufacturers and foreign buyers in countries found guilty of human wrongs. More than $600 million worth of American exports to Argentina (including $270 million for Allis-Chalmers generators) have been held up more than four months. The dozen U.S. producers all need Export-Import Bank financing. An additional half-billion dollars in military sales is in the same "hold" category, with no assurance that export licenses will be granted.

"Argentina is looking to Europe and Japan, even to the Soviet Union, for other sources for this stuff," a State Department economic expert told us. "Once these trade patterns change they tend to stay changed."

Although both the military and commercial portions of these potential sales to Argentina are restricted by new human rights laws which limit Miss Derian's discretion, she and her mushrooming empire at State seem to want more, not less, restraints. That is clear from the initials "M.S." on the original decision to reject the "groin protectors."

Such zeal has led Miss Derian into deep trouble with the Philippines in the past. It could lead her into trouble with the White House in the near future.

The Demand for Electricity on a Hot Summer Weekday.

The chart shows you the problem. On a hot summer weekday, everybody uses a lot of electricity all at the same time. This means Vepco has to use all of its equipment to keep up with this big demand. As the demand grows, more power plants must be built to keep up.

This adds to your electric costs. What can you do to help level things off? Here's the plan. It's called Hot Watch 95. And it's simple. On hot summer weekdays when the temperature hits 95°F, we'll be asking you to put Hot Watch 95 into action. This means using your heavy appliances and hot water before 10 a.m. or after 10 p.m.—or on weekends. Be careful not to overcool your home. Make sure the inside temperature is no more than 15°F cooler than the outside temperature. By spreading out your use of electricity, you can help reduce the peak demand for power. That means reducing the need for new power plants. It's one way to help keep your future electric bills under control. And that's something we all want. That's the whole idea behind Hot Watch 95.

Probe Dumping Of Chemicals

SMITHFIELD, N.C. (AP) — A tanker truck may have disposed of poisonous chemicals in four separate incidents by simply dumping them along state highways, according to state anti-pollution officials, who are investigating the incidents.
Bob Carter, chief of the state's water quality operations, said there have been four such spills since July 27. Two occurred in Warren County, one in Johnston County and one in Alamance County.
The latest, on Aug. 2, involves a spill of chlorinated hydrocarbon along about 20 miles of North Carolina 210. Carter said dumping along highways has been reported in New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

No Evidence Of Drugs In Butner

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state director of youth services says an investigation has turned up no evidence of drugs being used at the Dillon School in Butner.

More Speeding Tickets Issued

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Over 9,000 more speeding citations were issued by the state Highway Patrol in June of this year than in June 1977, an increase of 49 percent, according to Commander John T. Jenkins.
Jenkins said there was a 66 percent increase in the number of trucks cited and a 39 percent increase in the number of bus drivers cited this June over June 1977. The number of speeding citations issued has increased each month since the patrol stepped up its enforcement of the 55 mph speed limit in August 1977.
Jenkins said there were 164 fewer deaths on the highways during the past 12 months when compared with the previous 12-month period.

Rate Hike For Piedmont Gas

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Piedmont Natural Gas Co. has been granted a $5,527,000 rate hike by the state Utilities Commission which also ordered that flat rates be implemented for all customers.
The rate hike fell short of the $7 million increase requested by the company, which would have represented a 14.37 percent return on stockholder equity. The public staff of the state Utilities Commission, representing consumers, argued that a 12.7 percent return would be adequate. But the commission allowed a return of 13.06 percent on stockholder equity for the company.

Housing Budgets Okayed

By LYNN CAVERLY, Reflector Staff Writer
The Greenville Housing Authority last night adopted a resolution approving the current year's budget and adopted the budget for fiscal year 1978-1979.

It was reported that there was a surplus of funds in this year's budget due to some changes made during the year which caused income to be a little higher than usual. Also it was reported by J. C. Lamm that utilities costs were less due to a lower surcharge on usage of gas.

It was noted that a need has arisen for a new copier for the Housing Authority and Redevelopment Commission and various makes and models are under consideration.

Bids for the elderly mid-rise project are going to be opened in the City Council chambers on August 22, it was reported by executive director Joe Laney. Laney said about five firms had shown an interest in asking for the project plans.

Laney also reported that Greenville Utilities had asked assistance by the Housing Authority with a 20-foot easement to lay a larger power line in the Newtown section. The authority members granted the easement prior to provisions that will be further discussed at the next meeting of the Housing Authority.

Sallye Streeter reported on average individual rent rates which ran: Meadowbrook (N. C. 22-1) $60.57; Kearny Park (N. C. 22-2) $71.46; Moyewood (N. C. 22-3) $73.05; Moyewood (N. C. 22-4) $70.21; Newtown (N. C. 22-6) $83.26. This made the the overall rent average $72.33.

She reported that there were four vacancies as of the end of July. She said her office has completed taking applications for continued occupancy and verifications have been mailed out. The

Tobacco Farmers Warned By Ingram

RALEIGH — With the opening of the tobacco market, North Carolina Insurance Commissioner John Ingram has issued a warning that tobacco farmers should be cautious about buying so-called tax shelter insurance programs.

Ingram, a candidate for the U.S. Senate, said since farmers are self-employed, they are usually one of the major sought after groups for tax sheltered KEOGH plans and individual retirement account plans.

"Generally, anyone considering the purchase of a tax sheltered annuity program should first check with their own accountant, lawyer, the Internal Revenue Service, or the N.C. Department of Insurance Consumer Information Division," he suggested.

According to Ingram, the Insurance Department has received several complaints recently, "about certain sales tactics used to sell insurance verifications are presently being returned which will enable her office to start figuring rent changes to be effective October 1.

Facing The Out

Cincinnati Reds' third baseman Pete Rose sticks his glove into the face of tumbling Atlanta Braves' runner Red Gilbreath for the out on a rundown play at third base in the seventh inning of a game in Cincinnati Monday. Gilbreath was caught breaking for the plate on a grounder to Rose by Braves' batter Jerry Royster. When he tried to get back on the base, Rose caught him as he dove for the bag. (AP Laserphoto)

Garber Gets Rose Again; Seaver Loses; Joe West Ejects Franks

By FRANK BROWN AP Sports Writer

It all seemed so familiar. Bits and pieces of the past, gathered and glued together — a souvenir package wrapped in memories. There was Gene Garber pitching to Pete Rose, as he had a week earlier when Rose's record 44-game hitting streak came to an end.

And there, the bitterest memory of all, was Tom Seaver pitching badly — the way he had in the beginning of this strange season.

"I did everything wrong I possibly could," said the puzzled veteran after the Atlanta Braves scored a 5-3 victory Monday night and handed Seaver his seventh loss in the nine decisions since he no-hit the St. Louis Cardinals on June 16.

Meanwhile, Los Angeles beat San Diego 3-1, St. Louis downed Philadelphia 6-3 and Chicago trimmed Pittsburgh 5-4.

The Rose-Garber matchup provoked an emotional response from the 33,215 Riverfront Stadium fans who remembered Garber's strikeout of Rose in the ninth inning last week; the one that nailed the coffin shut on the third baseman's streak.

The fans washed the field in boos as Garber replaced Mickey Mahler in the seventh with a runner on third and Rose at the plate. The booing, said Garber, "Didn't bother me. All I was thinking was, 'Get him out.'" That he did, ultimately nailing Rose on a fly ball to center.

Cubs 5, Pirates 4
Bill Buckner's two-run single highlighted Chicago's five-run fourth inning and carried Chicago to victory over Pittsburgh in a controversial contest.

Cubs Manager Herman Franks was ejected in the second inning for arguing with Joe West over a call the first base umpire made on the back end of a double play.

Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner didn't get heated, but he raged over a balk called by umpire John Kibler in the fourth.

Chicago trailed 3-0 but had the bases loaded when Kibler called Jerry Reuss for a balk that scored the first Cubs run and opened the floodgates on the five-run inning.

Cardinals 6, Phillies 3
St. Louis rode a five-run seventh inning — their biggest offensive outburst since June 23 — to victory over Philadelphia. Garry Templeton sparked the offensive with an RBI single and George Hendrick capped it with a two-run double.

Local Boy Is Champion

Chris McLawhorn, an E.B. Aycock Junior High School student, won nationals honors this past weekend in Huntington, W. Va., at the Hershey Chocolate National Track and Field Meet.

McLawhorn qualified for the national meet on July 7 in Greenville, winning the 220-yard dash in a time of 52.8 seconds. Then, in the national meet, he took first place in the event with a slightly slower time.

All fifty states participated in the meet, with the top regions receiving trophies. The Southeastern region won first place, followed by the Pacific Northwest, and the Pacific Southwest.

Chris also jumped 22.8 in the long jump during the summer. He was a participant in the track program sponsored by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department, and coached by Clem Williams.

Chris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. McLawhorn.

Bird's Return Is Shelved

DETROIT (AP) — The scheduled return of Mark "The Bird" Fidrych to the Detroit Tigers was still trying to decide today whether to sideline the ailing hurler for the remainder of the season.

"No decision has been made and won't be made until... (this) morning," Tiger General Manager Jim Campbell said Monday night. A news conference was scheduled for 10 a.m. today.

Campbell said he could neither confirm nor deny reports that Fidrych will not pitch again this year.

Fidrych had been scheduled to pitch Wednesday night against the Texas Rangers.

On Saturday, Fidrych pitched only one inning for the Tigers' farm team in Lakeland, Fla. Lakeland Manager Jim Leyland pulled him from the contest after Fidrych threw just eight pitches and complained that his shoulder was stiff.

Fidrych was 2-0 this season before his shoulder problem of a year ago — officially diagnosed as tendonitis — flared up again. He has been pitching his arm back in shape in Florida.

Fidrych returned to Detroit on Sunday and was examined Monday by Dr. Edwin Guise at Henry Ford Hospital. The Tigers team physician, Dr.

Dye Feels 1978 Pirate Team Could Be His Best Thus Far

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina University Football Coach Pat Dye believes that this year's version of the Pirates has a chance to be a great team if it gives a 100 per cent effort during the coming season.

Dye spoke last night to a gathering of news media from across the state at the annual ECU Media Day supper, and also noted that he was disappointed in some ways with last year's performance.

"Losing two of our last three games cost us a bowl game," he said. "We were an undisciplined team. We did a poor job of coaching. We set a new school record for penalties. But I still have to be proud of the senior class for some of the things they accomplished."

Dye pointed out that the graduating seniors won more ball games than any other senior class in the state that year. They helped bring East Carolina to the forefront in football in the state, and helped in the expansion of Ficklen Stadium.

"We have to overcome some of the shortcomings of last year," he said. "I'm going to have to do a better job of coaching and I expect the staff to do a better job, too."

We have to have an injury-free season in several positions. We don't have a lot of depth anywhere," Dye added.

"The character of this team will tell a lot about it. Last year, I was disappointed in our senior leadership. Things went on that we didn't know about that our seniors did," Dye said.

"They (the seniors) should have done something about it. I hope this year's senior class will do a better job of leadership."

Dye added that he felt the kicking game would be stronger. "We're going to emphasize it more," he said, pointing out that field goals beat the Pirates twice, and the kicking game in general contributed to another loss.

"Offensively, we have made some changes that will make us a better team. We hope to get the ball to our halfback runners more; we hope to throw more; and show a lot of looks. We're going to do more things to give the defense some problems. Our offensive line has the chance to be the best we've ever had. We have good speed in the skill positions. This could be a very exciting team."

But, he added, the offense can't score without the football, and it will be the duty of the defense to get it for them. "We have to play better than I expect them to be as good as the 1976 team on defense. But we lost only three or four starters from last year, so we should be better in experience. We're not going to be big, but we have speed and quickness and if we play as well as we are capable, we can be good."

Concerning the incoming freshmen, Dye said that decisions had to be made on redshirting them. "If someone can help us, he'll play. But we won't look for a place to play someone. Some of them will be physically ready, but I'm not sure they'll be ready mentally for the complicated schemes we run."

Dye also disagreed with some of his players on whether the team was in good physical condition last year. "Some of them have told you (in other interviews) that we won some games because of our condition, but the ones we lost, we lost in the last quarter. And in many games, we were outscored in the last quarter, so I don't think we were in that good a condition."

"I hope we'll be a better fourth quarter team this year." The Pirates begin returning to school for practice the latter part of the week, with picture day slated for Saturday, and the start of practice on Monday.

Orioles Find Rough Sailing

By HERSCHEL NISSENON AP Sports Writer

Toronto is such a nice, clean, attractive city, so why do the Baltimore Orioles feel like jumping into Lake Ontario?

It's just that while sailboats are cavorting on the picturesque lake just a few hundred yards from Toronto's Exhibition Stadium, the Orioles usually find rough sailing against the hometown Blue Jays.

Monday was no exception. Jim Clancy fired a four-hitter and Alan Ashby's single past a diving Lee May at first base scored John Mayberry with the winning run in the seventh inning as the Blue Jays defeated the Orioles 2-1.

It was last Sept. 15, you remember, when Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver pulled his team off the field in an argument with the umpires over a bullpen tarpaulin and the subsequent forfeit prevented the Orioles from closing to within 1½ games of first place in the American League East.

And as recently as late June, the Birds dropped a four-game set in Toronto — including that infamous 24-10 debacle — and fell 11½ games off the pace. Monday's setback sent the Orioles reeling into fifth place, one-half game behind idle Detroit.

In Monday's only other AL games, the Chicago White Sox knocked off the Kansas City Royals 5-3, the Oakland A's edged the California Angels 1-0 and the Seattle Mariners nipped the Minnesota Twins 6-5 in 14 innings.

Toronto's John Mayberry walked to open the Blue Jays' seventh and was sacrificed to second. Ashby then sent a bouncer past May, playing first base for the first time since the opening series of the season after serving as the Orioles' designated hitter. That was Toronto's third and last hit off Dennis Martinez.

Mariners 6, Twins 5

Pinch runner Julio Cruz scored on a wild pitch by reliever Stan Perzanowski in the top of the 14th inning and Seattle's Jim Todd fired four scoreless innings of relief.

Cruz ran for pinch hitter Bruce Bochte, who led off the 14th with a walk. Cruz was sacrificed to second and took third on a fly ball before the decisive wild pitch.

Walton Starts Talks About His Own Trade

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A laughing, joking Bill Walton joined quickly animated New York Knicks Coach Willis Reed and General Manager Eddie Donovan for dinner in Portland Monday night.

The topic of conversation was the basketball center's intention to leave the Portland Trail Blazers and join another National Basketball Association team.

Reed has been quoted as saying that Walton is the leader the Knicks lack. "A guy like Walton makes the players around him unselfish and productive," Reed was quoted as saying before leaving for Portland.

Dressed casually in faded levis and a Grateful Dead T-shirt, Walton sat down to dinner at a Janzen Beach restaurant with Reed, Donovan, Walton's friend and agent, Jack Scott, and Walton's attorney, John Bassett.

As the four left the restaurant after more than two hours, a smiling Walton, walking with the aid of crutches because of the broken foot that led to his decision to leave Portland, thanked several persons who stopped to wish him well.

Representatives of the Knicks say they are using caution in their talks with the NBA's 1978 most valuable player.

Mike Burke, president of the Knicks, reportedly said Monday that Walton must produce convincing medical evidence that he will fully recover from a foot injury before they would accept him.

Burke said that any contract between the Knicks and Walton would be contingent on an examination by team physician Dr. James Nicholas.

He said the medical problems would be one of several hurdles in acquiring Walton, another being that the Knicks would give up in a deal with Portland.

He said he had already spoken with Trail Blazers officials including President Larry Weinberg and Executive Vice President Harry Glickman. Nothing concrete had come out of their talks, he said.

The Knicks might be able to come up with an acceptable deal, notably free agent Marvin Webster, Burke said.

Burke and Sonny Werblin, president of the Madison Square Garden Corp., were due in Portland today.

Scott said Walton also has talks lined up with Golden State Warriors Coach Al Attles and General Manager Scotty Sterling. Walton met for four hours Sunday with Gene Shue, new coach of the unnamed San Diego franchise, but has not been contacted by San Diego owner Irv Levin.

Scott said the Philadelphia 76ers have also expressed interest in Walton.

Storm Forces Halt To Game

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Lightning struck twice for the Atlanta Falcons Monday night and it paid off in a 20-17 victory over the New York Jets in a National Football League exhibition game.

First, it was rookie wide receiver Alfred Jackson, breaking loose to make three clutch catches on passes from substitute quarterback June Jones, including a 31-yarder for the winning touchdown.

Then it was Mother Nature, lighting up the skies with a frightening thunderburst that forced cancellation of the final 1:39 in the game after the Falcons had rallied on the Jones-Jackson battery.

Referee Gordon McCarter at first ordered the game delayed as the rain poured down. Then, after a six-minute wait, McCarter called it off.

"The lightning got progressively worse," McCarter said. "For awhile, it was just flash lightning, then it became jagged stuff. It just wasn't safe for the players in the middle of the field."

Ordinarily, NFL games are continued, regardless of weather conditions, although two years ago a violent storm forced the final game in the College All-Star series to be called.

and Jones had lit up the Falcons, who were listless in the first half and trailed 17-0 in the first minute of the third period. Jones, replacing starter Steve Bartkowski, opened fast with a 46-yard bomb to Jackson that positioned the ball for the first Falcon TD, a 1-yard plunge by the substitute quarterback.

On Atlanta's next possession, Jones hit Jackson for 18 yards and Ricky Patton for 29 more en route to another score, this time on a 10-yard pitch to rookie tight end James Wright. That made it 17-13 but Jones wasn't through.

He moved the Falcons downfield again early in the fourth quarter but the drive stalled at the Jets' 31. On fourth-and-nine, Jones dropped back and found Jackson for the winning touchdown to climax the comeback.

"I ran the post and he just hung it up there for me," said Jackson, a rookie from Texas, who accounted for 105 of the 14 yards Jones gained passing. "I think this game helped June and me very much."

Jones, who walked out of the Falcons' camp a year ago and had to be coaxed back, said the team was sagging when he came in with New York leading 17-0. "No one expected us to win at that point," he said. "I just told 'em in the huddle to keep coming and maybe ..."

When the thunder, lightning and rain came, McCarter halted play and the two teams gathered in the dressing room runway. There, Coaches Wal Michaels of New York and Leeman Bennett of Atlanta talked.

"He said he saw what he wanted and we saw what we wanted," said Michaels. "I don't like lightning."

And with that, the game was over.

Weekly Letter Aides Kicker

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego Chargers place-kicker Rolf Benirschke looks forward to Wednesdays, when he receives his weekly fan letter from 9-year-old Dean Maier of Fort Wayne, Ind.

It was last November, when his rookie season with the Chargers had dipped to a new low, that the 23-year-old Benirschke started receiving Dean's letters.

"After nine games," recalled Benirschke, "I was 5-for-11 kicking field goals."

His latest embarrassment had been a blocked 37-yard attempt in a game with Denver that the Chargers lost by the margin of a field goal, 17-14.

"Just before the Oakland game," he said, "I got my first fan letter from a 9-year-old kid in Fort Wayne, Ind., who wrote and said, 'I'm sorry about the situation against Denver. You should be the kicker for Oakland. Keep your head up. Things will work out.'"

Oakland released Benirschke, the Raiders' final draft choice in 1977, and the Chargers claimed him last Sept. 13.

"I laughed," Benirschke said, "and filed the letter. The next day I kicked two field goals and we won 12-7. The next Wednesday I got a letter from the same kid. He said, 'I told you so. Every game he wrote me and I didn't miss.'"

Benirschke finished the season with a club record 12 field goals in a row and he'll be shooting for the National Football League consecutive record of 16, shared by Jan Stenerud and Don Cockroft, when the regular season starts Sept. 3.

Maier has no doubts his hero will break the mark, even though Benirschke missed a 41-yarder last Friday in the Chargers' 17-9 exhibition loss at Seattle. Earlier, Benirschke connected on field goals of 35, 22 and 39 yards.

"I got a letter from him last week," said Benirschke. "He said he enjoyed writing to me last year. He said, 'I know I'll get to see you break the 16-field goal record on television. I'm looking forward to getting your bubble gum card.'"

Defensive Line Has Experience, But Question Marks Loom Ahead

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

There's good news and bad news in the defensive line department for East Carolina University's football team this fall.

The good news is that all three starters are back for the fall. The bad news is that one of them, Wayne Poole, may not be able to play.

"Poole is one of the big question marks," defensive line coach Wayne Hall said. "He dislocated a knee cap during the spring, and there is a definite possibility that we may have to red-shirt him."

Poole, a 6-0, 230-pound senior, has been a three-year starter for the Pirates, and his presence will be sorely missed by the Bucs.

Oliver Felton (5-9, 218, Senior) returns to the nose guard position, where he had to reprove himself this past spring, according to Hall. "We started the spring with Noah Clark (6-1, 225, Junior) at the nose guard, but we eventually switched him back to tackle."

According to Hall, Felton made a good comeback to retake his position.

With Poole sidelined, the most likely man to move into his tackle slot will be Nate Wigfall (6-4, 275, Sophomore). "He's probably been one of the biggest surprises," Hall said. "He's come a long way and could be the man to move in if Poole is not ready to play."

Wayne Hall

Another top prospect for the job is Vance Tingler (6-3, 225, Senior). "He made a lot of improvement during the spring, and is working on his strength," Hall said.

"We'd like to go into the season with three tackles and two nose guards," Hall said. "That way, one tackle can spell off the two starters, and the two nose guards can keep each other fresh. But right now, I can see us with only four men for the three positions, leaving us one short."

Tingler, who could be the backup at one tackle slot, might also work in as a backup for the nose guard position.

"We'll have to wait and see whether any of the incoming freshmen can help us," he added.

There appear to be a couple of newcomers who just might help. They are Hiawatha (Fee) Griffin of Tabb, Va., a 6-0, 235-pounder, and John Hallow of Greenville, S.C., who is 5-10, 220. "We really could use some help from them in giving us some depth," Hall said. "Both of them are really nose guards, and this is probably the toughest job in the defensive line."

Hall said he expected to see good quickness, hustle and aggressiveness from his nose guards. "Once they get away from their blocks, they can make a lot of things happen," he added.

"Coach Dye said we didn't have an outstanding defense last year, and some things are being changed this year. To me, there is a lot of room for improvement," Hall said.

"We have a long way to go, but we've worked hard on pass rush, and I think we're coming along in this. We've also worked hard on reading blocks."

With Clark and Felton, the Pirates return good experience to the defensive line. "But after them, we drop off quickly in experience. I would guess that our quickness is our major strength. Even Wigfall is awfully quick for his size."

The biggest problem, obviously, is depth, and the biggest question mark is Poole's status. "If he's okay, I'll be happy with our depth. He's a great leader, with ability and experience—a fourth year starter. With him healthy, we're okay. But if he has to red-shirt, well, we'll have to work hard."

Ehrlich Returns Attorney 'Stunned' By Ruling To Soundstage In TV Movie Damage Suit

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's said you can't go home again. But you can visit. Which is how Ken Ehrlich happens to be back producing public TV's acclaimed "Soundstage." It starts Season No. 5 in October.

He created the pop-and-jazz music series and produced it for two years at station WTTW in Chicago. Then he moved to Hollywood to try his luck in the commercial end of television.

He toiled briefly on CBS' "Tony Orlando and Dawn," and, when that folded, produced NBC's "Midnight Special" for a year. Then he produced a Ringo Starr special this season for NBC.

When he was doing that show, he said, WTTW officials called and asked if he'd like to spend this summer back at his old post on "Soundstage." It didn't take long for him to say yes.

"I've always felt close to the show, obviously," he said by phone from Chicago. "No, you can't go home again, but it seemed a nice way to spend the summer."

He began work on the new season's 12-show "Soundstage" six weeks ago. As in past seasons, it will again offer a mix of famous and not-so-famous inmates of pop and jazz schools.

The first show, airing Oct. 10, features soft-rock Leo Sayer. Others will display guitarist Ry Cooder, singer Emmy Lou Harris and singer-composer Harry Chapin. Chapin, one of the series' first guests, will host a fifth-anniversary hour.

There'll also be a three-guitar hour. Ehrlich said, in which George Benson and Earl Klugh of jazzdom and Chet Atkins of Nashville take individual turns, then commence a jam session.

"It'll be a little like a fiddler show we did a few years ago," he said, meaning one that featured classical violinist Itzhak Pearlman, jazz violinist JonLuc Ponty and Cajun fiddler Doug Kershaw.

One coming show he thinks will be a biggie has such venerable rockers as The Coasters, The Drifters and Dion (sorry, no Belmonts) sharing the bill.

It'll be devoted to the music of Jerry Leiber and Mike Stoller, authors of golden oldies like "Love Potion No.9," "Black Denim Trousers," and a fairly successful ditty in which Elvis Presley declared: "You ain't nuthin' but a hound dog."

Last but not least: a teaming-up of Dr. Hook and cartoonist-composer Shel Silverstein. Uncle Shelly's works include the classic "A Boy Named Sue."

Ehrlich said he'll resume his commercial TV work here after he finishes the last "Soundstage" on Aug. 29. He considers his return to the series a "working vacation."

"It's fun, it really is," the 35-year-old producer said. "It's not really work. I'm having a good time here."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An attorney, stunned by a judge's first day ruling that he must prove the television movie "Born Innocent" was intended to incite rape, stuck to his original opening day statement that the film could have been X-rated and that NBC showed negligence by showing it.

Attorney Marvin Lewis is seeking $11 million for a 13-year-old girl who was raped four years ago shortly after the movie was aired on prime time television. He maintains the film prompted the assault.

"If it had been in the movies, it would have been an X-rated movie, not even an R," Lewis said Monday in his opening statement to a San Francisco Superior Court jury.

"It wasn't necessary to simulate a scene like this. It's some weirdo kind of sex that is unheard of even by sociologists."

Lewis was told Monday by Judge Robert Dossee that he must prove NBC willfully intended to incite the girl's rape by broadcasting "Born Innocent."

After the ruling, Lewis said he had "an impossible burden of proof" to show incitement and intent. He said he had no intention of arguing that "NBC ever intentionally abetted, coerced or incited people to go out and rape girls with artificial instruments."

Lewis said he would file an immediate appeal challenging the judge's order but would continue his opening statement today, trying to establish "negligent" and "irresponsible" behavior by the network.

If Lewis persists with that tact, ignoring Dossee's restrictions, NBC attorney Floyd Abrams said he would move to have the judge dismiss the case as soon as Lewis finishes his opening statement.

Lewis, who represents Valeria Niemi and her daughter, Olivia, told the jury that NBC "should have known that someone with high probability would go out and cause that scene of violence and harm on a young innocent victim."

He said the network violated its own moral and procedural standards in "handling the rape scene without care."

The network claims the movie was protected by the free speech provisions of the First Amendment to the Constitution.

The film, shown in 1974, contained a scene showing the sexual assault of a teen-age girl with the handle of a plumber's had to have started with five diamonds. The fate of the contract hinged on not losing a diamond trick, and both declarers reasoned that, since East had started with long diamonds, the odds favored his holding the queen. Therefore, they took the diamond finesse and both went down when West won the last two tricks with his queen of diamonds and long hearts.

Mathematically the odds were 5-2 for the diamond finesse, but not if the hand was considered in the whole. East was a passed hand, and he had already shown up with the ace and king of hearts, the king of clubs and a singleton. Had he started with a five-card diamond suit headed by the queen, he would certainly have opened the bidding. Therefore, West had to have the queen of diamonds, so declarer's only chance was to cash the ace and king. When that succeeds in dropping the queen, the contract would be made.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Indictments handed down in federal court here Monday charged a 34-year-old escapee from a mental hospital with threatening to assassinate President Jimmy Carter on three occasions in the last three weeks.

The indictments said Joseph F. Hurley last Tuesday called a Secret Service Special Agent Claude Davis in Charlotte from Winston-Salem and said, "Just want to let you know I am going to Washington. I am going to kill the President."

According to the indictments, Hurley made similar threats in two calls from Winston-Salem to the FBI in Charlotte about a week earlier.

Hurley was arrested Aug. 1 and sent to the Medical Center for Federal Prisoners in Springfield, Mo., to determine his mental competency at time the threats happened. The psychiatric examination, which will take at least 90 days, will also determine whether he is mentally capable of standing trial.

Hurley was transferred to Dorothea Dix Hospital in Raleigh last year after spending 14½ years in a state mental hospital in Georgia, according to an affidavit for a psychiatric examination filed by Hurley's attorney Michael Lewis of Winston-Salem.

Backs Off On Boy Genius Statements

NEW YORK (AP) — A University of Washington official backed off on Sunday from statements made earlier that an 8-year-old boy is about to become a student at the Seattle school.

Halbert Robinson, professor of psychology and director of the university's Child Development Research Group, said Sunday that Sayed Jalal, who holds a high school diploma from Afghanistan, will be "evaluated as to his abilities, and then put into a program suitable for him."

"That program, he said, will most likely consist of classes in a special 'K-12' program developed by the university together with the Seattle school system, but may include college courses "if Jalal is found to be advanced enough."

But when questioned Friday on the reported admission of the boy, Robinson responded, "Oh, yes, oh yes." It would make the 11th-grade work — hope to join them soon.

Robinson said he has heard that efforts are already under way in Seattle to find Karim a job.

In the meantime, a group of Americans interested in the boy have set up a special account to collect funds for Jalal's "college" education while in Seattle, Joan Murray of the Institute of International Education told the AP last week.

At the moment, the youngster is spending little time on math and physics — his "specialty" — according to Jay Stager, director of Camp Hidden Valley in Maine where his American friends sent him to learn English. Rather, his mind is fully occupied with horses, swimming, and other childhood games.

"I can't believe his English is as good as it is," said Stager after several weeks of observing Jalal. "But I think it would be insane to send him to college."

Jalal tested at 125 during intelligence testing at Columbia University's Teacher College.

Raleigh, N.C. (AP) — The director of Stonewall Jackson Training School in Concord, where a sex party among the teenage residents reportedly took place recently, has been reassigned to the state Division of Facility Services here.

William R. Windley, director of the state Division of Youth Services, announced Monday that Robert L. Everett had requested to be reassigned to another position closer to eastern North Carolina and the request had been granted.

Everett assumed the position of assistant head of jail and detention services with the state Division of Facility Services Monday.

"In light of the recent incidents that have occurred at the school, we feel that this action is in keeping with the best interest of the school, the community and Mr. Everett," Windley said.

According to reports, eight girls at Jackson School allegedly left their cottages to join 15 to 20 boys and two male staff members for a group sex party July 24.

Windley said a task force, which was recently appointed to investigate the operations at Jackson School, was analyzing the school's problems and needs. He said the recent "unfortunate sequence of events" was considered a mandate to improve services at Jackson and the training school system as a whole.

State officials were conducting an internal review of policies governing training school operations and procedures for monitoring their implementation, he said.

Robert Atkinson, assistant director for Institutional Services for the division, will serve as interim director at Jackson School while a search is made for Everett's replacement.

Life Insurance Buyers Warned

By JEFFREY MILLS Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A yet-to-be released federal buyers' guide warns against signing up for the most common type of life insurance — death benefits plus a savings plan — unless you plan to keep the policy at least 10 years.

The Federal Trade Commission document gives consumer advice likely to anger much of the life insurance industry and its agents who sell whole life insurance.

The draft surfaced Monday as FTC officials told a House subcommittee of its two-year investigation into pricing policies of the life insurance industry.

The industry has traditionally concentrated on selling whole life policies, which combine death benefits with savings features. Usually given less of a selling push are term life policies, which provide only death benefits but at a much lower price.

Whole life brings greater profits to the companies and greater commissions to the salesmen, according to FTC testimony presented Monday.

One of the problems with whole life policies, the FTC draft notes, is consumers frequently let the policies lapse a short time after buying them. The lapse results in loss of virtually all of the savings feature in whole life policies, the FTC officials testified.

Albert H. Kramer, director of the FTC's bureau of consumer protection, told the House Commerce subcommittee that his organization estimates consumers lose $200 million each year because they allow whole life policies to lapse in the first year.

Kramer presented the panel with a draft of a proposed FTC buyer's guide on life insurance.

The draft says that about one new policyholder in five will drop whole life policies soon after buying them.

"The cash value of a whole life policy builds up very slowly during the policy's early years, making whole life insurance a very uneconomical way to save for short-term needs," the draft says.

Kramer said the FTC is not opposed to whole life policies, but that it wants consumers to be informed about what they are buying.

Insurance industry spokesmen, who are scheduled to testify when the hearin's resume next week, are expected to defend their practices.

After the hearing Monday, the American Council of Life Insurance issued a statement saying, "Companies are under considerable pressure to set prices at as low a level as they possibly can, consistent with the safety of funds they are responsible for...."

"The present variation in prices does result in some people paying more than others for a life insurance policy with given benefits. This is in large part inevitable because of differences in the mortality rates of policyholders, investment returns, expenses and certain other factors."

Farmville Mart Had Good Day

FARMVILLE — Volume of sales on yesterday's Farmville Tobacco Market consisted mostly of primings and lugs, according to Louis Williams, Tobacco Board of Trade Sales Supervisor.

Nondescript grades were off in volume, Williams said. Stabilization receipts were .23 percent of gross sales, in contrast to 12.64 percent a year ago.

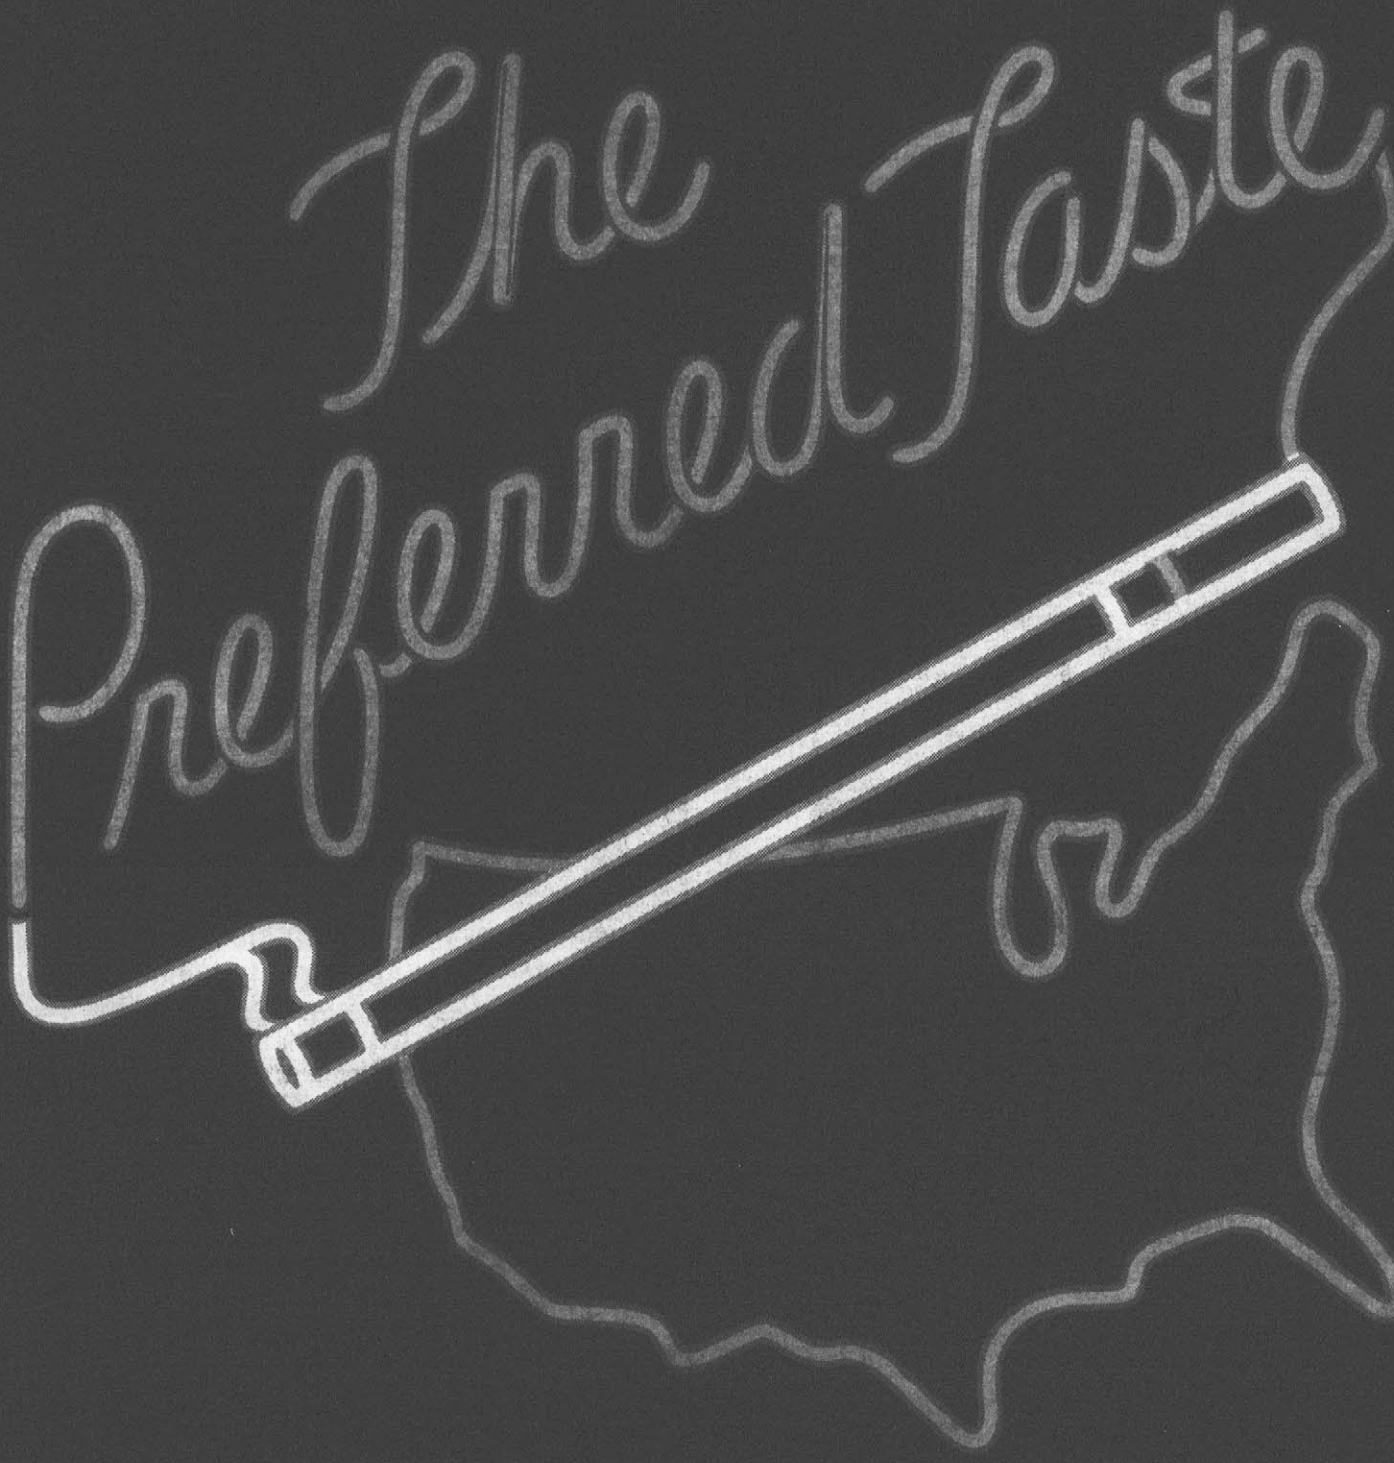

The market sold 399,208 pounds for an average of $128.08 per hundred pounds. The average a year ago was $86.99 a year ago. So far this season the Farmville market has sold 2,178,824 pounds for $2,647,633, for an average of $121.52.
