

Small Decline In Wholesale Prices Seen Last Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — An across-the-board easing of price pressures occurred in the economy in August as wholesale prices declined 0.1 percent, the first drop in this key measure of inflation in two years, the government reported today.

It was the most encouraging development yet in the government's fight to control inflation. Prices of consumer foods fell 1.5 percent, the biggest decline in two years.

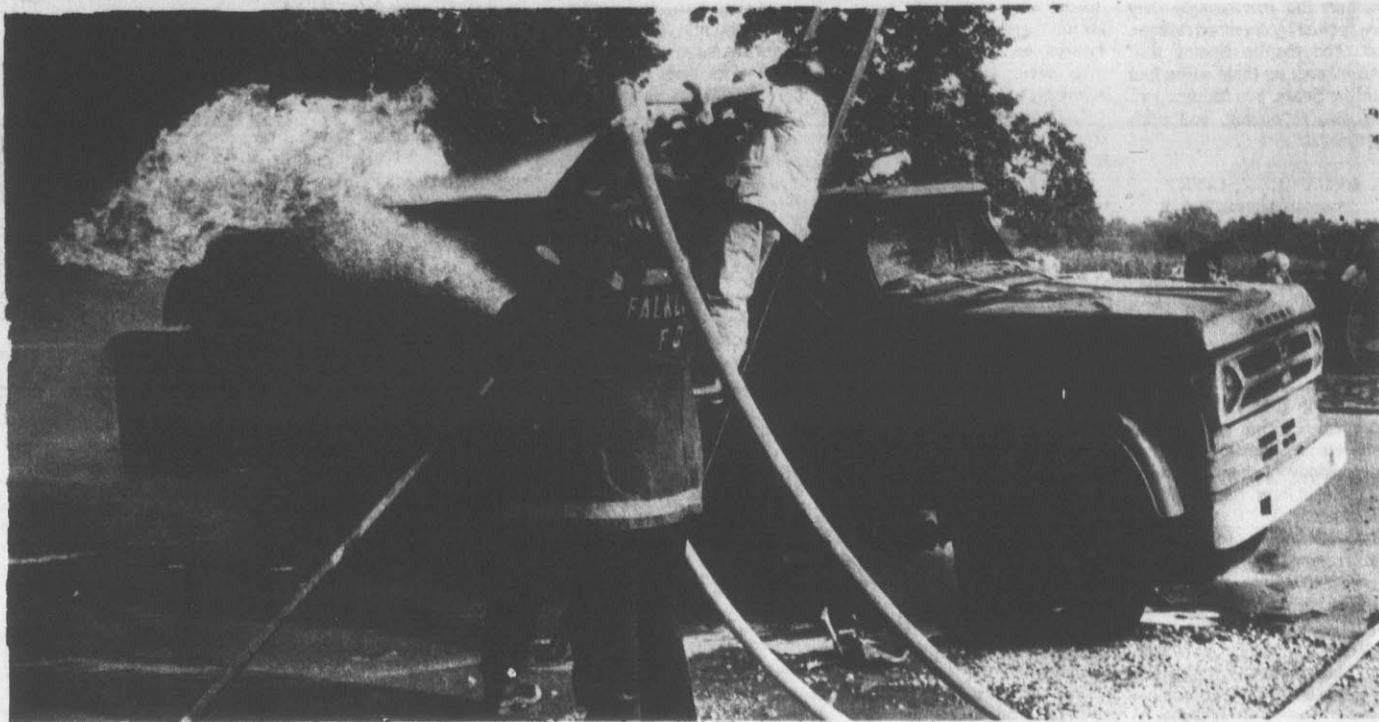

Wholesale prices had increased 0.5 percent in July and were up 7.7 percent for the 12-month period ending in August. The August decline was the first since August of 1976, when prices fell 0.2 percent.

If continued for a year, the August decline of 0.1 percent would result in a 12-month drop in wholesale prices of 1.2 percent. However, not even the most optimistic economists expect that to happen.

The decline in consumer food prices was the major factor in the break in the upward price spiral in August, but there also was a slowdown in price increases for goods other than foods, which rose only 0.4 percent, just half of the July increase.

The Labor Department said its producer price index for finished goods, as the wholesale price report is now called, stood in August at 195.3 of the 1967 average of 100, meaning that goods priced at $100 then had increased to $195.30 last month.

Government economists were pleasantly surprised by the decline, which was not expected. It seemed likely it would result in a strengthening of the U.S. dollar on world money markets and take some of the pressure off President Carter to resort to tough new measures to battle inflation.

Council Approves Bond Issue Vote

By TOM BAINES

A resolution providing for the adoption of an "order authorizing $1.9 million Public Works facilities bonds" was approved last night by the City Council following a public hearing on the bond order.

The Council, meeting in a special call session, gave its endorsement of the bond program which is aimed at providing new and improved quarters for Public Works.

Council members also adopted a resolution calling for a special referendum on the Public Works bond to be held on Tuesday, Nov. 7, the date of the general election.

Greenville voters will be asked to approve or disapprove the bond order which would provide funds "for constructing a building to house the Public Works Department...including offices, an assembly hall, storage rooms, vehicular painting and repair bays, sheltered vehicular parking bays, open parking bays for automobiles and equipment and open storage areas, and the acquisition of necessary land and rights of way."

The referendum also poses the question of authorization for the "levy of taxes in an amount sufficient to pay the principal and the interest" on the facilities bonds.

Mayo Allen, director of Public Works here, pointed out last night that the department has operated at its present site off Third Street for some 45 years.

Allen said that the department operates a two-bay garage for the maintenance of 153 city vehicles, while the proposed facility would be suitable to maintain from 200 to 250 vehicles. No facilities are available now for staff meetings, the director added, noting that a meeting room would be included at the new quarters.

According to Allen, the city is looking for a site of 11-18 acres for the construction of the facilities.

Jim Galloway of 2716 Shawnee Place asked the Council for the proposed location for the new facilities. He said that he had heard that a site near Arlington Boulevard and Hooker Road was under consideration.

Mayor Percy Cox told Galloway that the location was "not boiled down" yet. He said that the city hopes "very shortly" to be able to announce the location.

Council member Mrs. Mildred McGrath noted that the city is looking for a site as near the central part of town as possible. She said that Public Works vehicles could better serve the city from a central location.

Cox said that the city is "looking at" three possible sites but he declined to reveal the specific areas under consideration.

Bob Griffin of 305 Greenville Drive said that he is a member of a Chamber of Commerce committee that is looking at the situation and he visited the present Public Works facilities recently with the committee. Griffin said that he was "exceptionally impressed" with that Allen is doing with the facilities he has.

Housing Units Okayed

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Congressman Walter Jones announced the approval by the Department of Housing and Urban Development of funds requested by the N.C. Association for Retarded Citizens for 180 units of housing for handicapped persons to be built around the state.

Jones said that of the 180 units to be built, 50 are designated for the First Congressional District, including ten each in Greenville, Washington, New Bern and Kinston, and five units each in Elizabeth City and Sunbury.

The congressman reported that the housing units will consist mainly of small apartments, equipped for use by handicapped persons.

The total amount approved for the statewide program, Jones said, is $5,197,710.

Gasoline Truck Fire At School Soon Controlled

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FALKLAND — Potential for disaster existed, but it was averted as firemen from throughout the county brought under control a fire which enveloped a county schools' gasoline truck in the front driveway of Falkland Elementary School near here this morning.

The "Condition 3 — major fire" alarm went into the County Fire Marshal's office at 8:59 a. m. The Falkland Fire Department was assisted by fellow volunteer units from Belvoir, Farmville, Station House and Winterville in fighting the blaze.

"Light water — foam" was used to smother it and water served to continue cooling the charred tanker.

School Principal Judy Budacz said evacuation of children from the building began only a minute or two after the blaze was simultaneously reported to her office by a school employee and the driver of the truck, Bobby Joyner of Farmville. Mrs. Budacz and the teachers praised the children's orderly "fire drill" behavior, 180 or so children and their teachers and teachers' aides missed the action as they stationed themselves a good 300 yards behind the school building against the woods.

The fuel truck driver who has the same name and town of residence as the Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner, also on the scene, said the fire seemed to have started in the meter box of the truck.

Fire Marshal Joyner said county fire units did an excellent job controlling the blaze. He noted that, because so many units were pulled away from their respective stations, the Bethel Department relocated itself at the Station House station and Bell Arthur and Fountain stood by at their stations.

Falkland Life Support Squad members were on the scene and members of the Sheriff Department and the Highway Patrol controlled traffic and kept spectators away from the potentially explosive truck. No injuries were reported.

The fire was declared out at 9:46 a. m., but firemen remained on the scene for some time later as a precaution.

McGovern Cites Added Illiteracy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., says illiteracy is increasing among Americans, and U.S. students nearing high school graduation regularly score more poorly on achievement tests than do students in Britain, Japan and West Germany.

In a speech prepared for delivery today, McGovern said the government is doing little to prevent what could become "an educational disaster and a national disgrace."

If Cats Could Talk, 'Sugar' Has Tale To Tell

By REBECCA BUFFALO
Reflector Staff Writer

If cats could talk, then Sugar, owned by Mrs. Alice Hedgepeth and her two daughters, Alicia and Natalie, would say "There's no place like home."

Sugar, a gray and white tabby cat, hopped in a moving van near home in Yorktown Square about a week ago when Mrs. Hedgepeth's neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Williams, were preparing to move to Arizona.

Sugar, along with Mr. and Mrs. Williams' furniture, rode to Cottonwood, Arizona, for five days before the van was opened and she was discovered.

"I couldn't believe it when Mr. Williams called me this past weekend," Mrs. Hedgepeth said. "We were so relieved."

Relief came all too soon, for when Sugar was put on a Delta Airlines morning plane out of Phoenix, she was mysteriously flown to Atlanta instead of Kinston.

Mrs. Hedgepeth and her two daughters waited anxiously at the Kinston Airport Wednesday for the 7:28 p.m. plane to arrive. When the plane was unloaded, no Sugar was to be found.

"Alicia said, 'I know something has happened to her.'" Mrs. Hedgepeth noted.

Mrs. Hedgepeth praised the Kinston airport crew for they held one of the flights up as a detailed search was made for the missing cat.

Two hours went by as phone calls were made in order to trace the problem. Sugar was finally found in the Atlanta airport.

"The Delta people said this was a very unusual situation," Mrs. Hedgepeth said. "They said that they don't usually lose live animals."

Sugar flew to Norfolk Wednesday night and back to Kinston yesterday morning, courtesy of Piedmont Airlines.

Yesterday afternoon was a happy time at the Hedgepeth home as Alicia and Natalie, both students at W.H. Robinson School in Winterville, were reunited with their pet.

Seeing Sugar was especially important to Alicia, age 9, who has had the cat since she was three. Sugar also shares the Hedgepeth's attention with two other kittens, Freckles, who is Natalie's pet, and Baby.

"She must have 18 lives," Mrs. Hedgepeth said as Sugar sat her lap.

And Sugar would probably agree if she could.

HOME AGAIN — Sugar, owned by Mrs. Alice Hedgepeth and her two daughters, Alicia and Natalie of Greenville, gets a fond nuzzle from Alicia as the pet was reunited with its family Thursday. (Reflector Photo by Rebecca Buffalo)

Crawford Will Leave Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Francis

J. Crawford, the American businessman convicted of violating Soviet currency laws and given a suspended sentence, said today he has received permission to leave the Soviet Union and will be on an evening flight to Frankfurt, West Germany.

"I'm sorry to leave," he said in a telephone interview. "I've liked doing business here. It was a real challenge."

Crawford received a five-year suspended sentence on Thursday after he was convicted on charges of black market currency dealings. He could have received eight years in a labor camp. Two Soviet co-defendants received labor camp penalties and a third received a suspended sentence.

Soviet officials had said it would take five working days for them to provide the 37-year-old Crawford with an exit visa, but he said he received the document today.

The court found Crawford guilty of buying 20,000 Soviet rubles at black market rates from a Russian seamstress and her husband. The husband allegedly was the ringleader of an international currency and contraband ring. Crawford denied the charges.

"I've been to three county fairs, an ostrich race and a public hanging, but nothing like this," said Crawford after the verdict was read.

The light sentence was seen as an attempt to ease U.S.-Soviet tensions. Crawford was dragged from his car and arrested June 12 in apparent retaliation for spying charges against two Soviet U.N. employees in New Jersey.

Single Fathers Coping With Raising Children

EDITOR'S NOTE—Perils of a single parent used to be lamented only to the divorced mother. But increasingly they are recited by divorced fathers, too. And they're finding that parenthood, as their wives had said for years, is a fulltime job. But they're coping, and even enjoying it.

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
WALTHAM, Mass. (AP) — There's a new kind of daddy around. He chauffeurs his kids to the dentist, plans their birthday parties, does diapers, dinners and dishes.

He is, in short, a mommy, too. Since the breakdown of the rules about who does what, divorced men have been winning custody of their children. Halftime, at least, they bring up kids alone.

Two Brandeis sociologists who studied the results conclude that fathers can cope quite nicely with the rigors of full parenthood.

Men are more than just substitute mothers, the experts say. They seem able to combine the best of both parents: Dad's strength and authority, Mom's love and understanding. And along the way, they master the traditional toils of motherhood — making beds, cooking breakfasts, tying shoelaces.

In joint custody settlements, divorced parents agree to take turns looking after the children. They give them a home on alternating weeks or for three or four days at a time.

Harry F. Keshet and Kristine M. Rosenthal, both divorced parents, interviewed 127 of these fathers to find how they were doing. They found that keeping the kids is okay for the children and downright good for the fathers. It gives men an excuse to settle down after the turmoil of separation.

"When men first separate, they often seem to take a deliberately uncomfortable room somewhere and say, 'See how deprived I am?'" Mrs. Rosenthal says. But the kids change that. The child is the person they are giving a decent place to live.

And fathers, it turns out, make good mothers. Being responsible for runny noses, torn dungarees, baths, bottles and bedtimes gives fathers an opportunity many men never experience: They really get to know their kids.

And discovering children's emotions is a joy of fatherhood. It's also a mystery. "One of the biggest problems men mention is temper tantrums, particularly when the kid seems irrational," Mrs. Rosenthal says. "Men have trouble dealing with things irrational."

"Packing lunches. Choosing clothes. Deciding what to put on the kid in the morning," says Mrs. Rosenthal. "How do you decide if he or she is going to be warm enough in this sweater?" Even though the young children are in day-care centers and the older ones at school, fathers learn early that caring for kids requires more time than they have to give. Something must be sacrificed.

"The guys who are fulltime fathers are making less money," says Keshet. "They work, but they aren't driven. They aren't moving from job to job, up the ladder. Some of them feel resentful, but there is an adjustment, a shift in priorities and values."

Grandmother Of 14 Wins Grandparents' Day Fight

OAK HILL, W.Va. (AP) — Designation of Sunday, Sept. 10, as the country's first Grandparents' Day was the result of the persistence of a 60-year-old grandmother.

Marian McQuade, who has 15 children and 14 grandchildren, decided in the early '70s that grandparents were being overlooked and should be honored each year with a day of their own.

Mrs. McQuade, of Oak Hill, first persuaded Gov. Arch Moore to proclaim a statewide Grandparents' Day in West Virginia. Then she began a massive letter-writing campaign to politicians and other state governors. As a result, 22 states proclaimed a Grandparents' Day in 1974.

Her campaign also had setbacks. Early legislation for a national Grandparents' Day by West Virginia senators Jennings Randolph and Robert Byrd passed the Senate but failed in the House. In 1975, the number of states proclaiming a Grandparents' Day fell to 19.

But Mrs. McQuade kept up the fight. In 1976 she wrote to President Ford about her idea.

Then she buttonholed him during the Republican Convention in Kansas City, and got his promise of support.

She kept writing and calling congressmen, senators, editors, businessmen and organizations for the elderly.

Finally, Mrs. McQuade's dream of a national Grandparents' Day came true this year. Legislation was passed in Congress, and on July 28 President Carter, a grandfather himself, signed a proclamation making the day official, and concluding: "... we salute our grandparents for their contribution to our lives."

Coincidentally, West Virginia was the birthplace of two other national family "days," according to researcher Sally Hopkins of Hallmark Cards.

Mother's Day originated in 1908 with a church service held in Grafton, W. Va., in memory of the mother of Anna M. Jarvis. And the first celebration of Father's Day was a service conducted the same year at the Central Church of Fairmont, W. Va., by Dr. Robert T. Webb at the request of Mrs. Charles Clayton.

Curiosity Could Cause Trouble

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know what possessed me to do it, but I examined the contents of my husband's footlocker, which had been stored in our basement for eight years—since our marriage. I became curious and took the key off his key ring while he was showering and opened his footlocker while he was at work.

I found a large bundle of love letters from a "Miss Somebody" I had never heard of. She described their affair in some detail, and in one letter she mentioned that she was expecting "their" child. (They apparently had an affair going for at least two years.)

Oddly enough, there was no subsequent mention of the birth of the child, losing it, an abortion, or anything to indicate what came of that pregnancy.

Although this happened several years before I met my husband, I am hurt and angry to think he kept this from me. I feel deceived. We have three children and I thought we had a good marriage.

Should I confess that I snooped and demand an explanation?

HAWAII

DEAR HAWAII: You say that until you snooped, you "thought" you had a good marriage. Well, if you "thought" you had a good marriage, you had one.

Your husband's affairs (literally) prior to your meeting are none of your business. For you to admit that you snooped and demand an explanation would surely damage your marriage. I advise against it.

DEAR ABBY: I recently moved to a rural area that has a small post office. Whenever I go there, I notice that one of the clerks (a dumb bunny if ever there was one) is busy reading all the postcards. In fact, before she hands over my mail, she tells me who it's from and what's on the card.

To whom should I report this brazen invasion of privacy? DISGUSTED IN PA.

DEAR DISGUSTED: You could send a postcard to your local postmaster (or postmistress) and report this "brazen invasion of privacy." But don't expect anything to change. People who send postcards rarely expect privacy.

DEAR ABBY: If you can stand one more letter about telephone solicitation, please consider this for publication:

One day last week I was late for work, and just after I had slammed the door and locked myself out, I heard my telephone ring. Having an elderly, chronically ill parent living out of town, I always answer my telephone. Well, I finally found my keys, opened the door and ran back to get the call, which turned out to be a sales pitch for some outfit selling cemetery lots!

I would tell you what I told him to do with his cemetery lots, but you'd never print it.

LOST MY COOL

DEAR ABBY: I answer the telephone in an office in a small Southern city, and my employers have instructed me to find out who is calling before they take any call.

Over the years I have been subjected to untold abuse when I ask, "Who is calling, please?" I've been told everything from, "It's none of your business," to "Andrew Jackson!"

Don't people realize that I couldn't care less who is calling—I'm only following instructions.

Then there are people who ask, "Is he there?" (There are three "he's" in this office.)

And there are those who call and say, "I'm the one who called yesterday." (At least 100 people called yesterday.)

Here's my favorite: "Didn't you give him my message?" (I just give messages, I can't make my employers return calls.)

Abby, this is just a sample of how dumb people can be on the phone. Please print this. It may make a few callers change their ways.

Mecklenburg To Polls For Option Test

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Voters in Mecklenburg County headed for the polls today in the first test of the state's new local-option mixed drink bill. Both pro-and anti-liquor forces predicted victory in the referendum, which comes nearly three months after the N.C. General Assembly approved a measure allowing localities to decide the mixed drink issue.

Bill Culp, Mecklenburg County elections supervisor, predicted about half of the county's 182,000 registered voters would cast their ballots before polls closed at 7:30 p.m. "That would certainly be the biggest turnout for a single issue in Mecklenburg county history," Culp said.

The mixed-drink issue already set a record in prompting unregistered voters to sign up for the referendum. During an eight-week period, 17,000 new voters registered.

"That far surpasses any similar period in the history of Mecklenburg, including presidential elections and previous liquor votes," Culp said. Most recent polls showed the majority of voters favoring mixed-drink sales by as much as 2-to-1. But the polls uncovered a sizeable portion of undecided voters, and leaders on both sides agreed voter turnout would be crucial. "We've used 1,500 volunteers on the telephone and we've discovered up to 75,000 people against liquor by the drink," the Rev. Coy Privette, strategist for the anti-liquor People Who Care organization, said Thursday.

Volunteers planned to use 200 cars and 25 church buses to get anti liquor voters to the polls, he said.

"We've done everything we know to do to get the people to the polls. If our telephone campaign works to get people out to vote, we're gonna see a victory," Privette said.

Jerry Green, a leader of the pro-mixed-drink Mecklenburg

Mixed Beverage Committee, contended his group was headed for a victory. Telephone volunteers worked for three weeks identifying voters who favor the measure, Green said, and volunteers were going back on the phone today to remind those voters to get to the polls. "Assuming that nothing changes and there are no surprises, I'm very confident," Green said Thursday. "But at the same time, I have an upset stomach. I do believe we've overcome voter apathy and I'd say the number one thing that has helped has been the campaign by the opposition," he said.

Both sides mounted media campaigns, with the dries arguing that mixed drinks would increase alcohol-related problems while the wets contended passage of the bill would mean an economic boost and greater control over liquor consumption than with brown bagging.

Issues during the campaign ranged from whether mixed drinks would bring more tourists and conventions to Charlotte to whether liquor supporters were risking the wrath of God.

During the campaign, each side tried to outdo the other with endorsements from prominent individuals and organizations, and both sides solicited money.

Privette estimated the dry forces will have drawn about $45,000 in contributions, with most of that going to advertising.

Green set the wets' contributions at about $38,000, also with most of it going for ads. Other localities will hold their own mixed-drink referendums within a few days of the Mecklenburg County vote.

Southern Pines, Orange County and Black Mountain will hold elections on Tuesday. Voters in Sanford and Louisburg will decide the issue on Sept. 20, with Dare County voters going to the polls on Sept. 22.

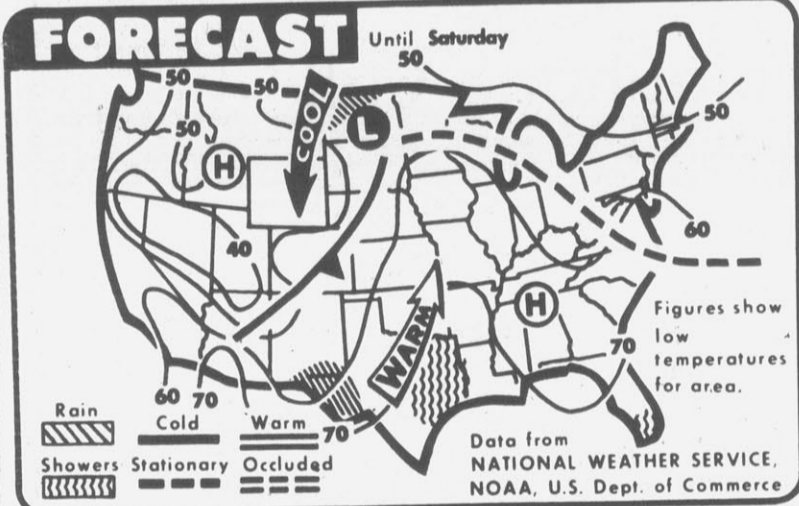

One of the few areas of agreement for wets and dries in Mecklenburg County is that the vote here may be a bellwether for other elections. "If Mecklenburg doesn't vote for it, there's no question in my mind that it would be the biggest boost for the opposition in future elections," Green said. "And if it lost everywhere, the General Assembly would probably move to overturn the law."

Privette agreed that a string of losses might lead to a repeal by the General Assembly.

"If we can link it here in Mecklenburg, I don't think it has a chance anywhere else in the state," he said.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is expected today for part of North Carolina as well as portions of Texas and New Mexico. Showers are forecast in eastern Texas as well as southern Florida. Cool temperatures are expected over the northern Plains states while warm air moves up from the south toward the southern Plains states. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
High pressure centered over the southern mountains will control North Carolina's weather through the weekend. A weak cool front will move into the extreme northeast section of the state tonight but will have little effect on the weather.

Skies were expected to be mostly sunny today and again Saturday, although there will be a little more cloudiness along the north coast Saturday.

High temperatures today and again Saturday were forecast to range in the upper 80s and low 90s except for the mountains where readings in the upper 70s to mid 80s were expected. Lows tonight will range in the 60s except for the 50s in the mountains.

Skies were sunny for the most part across North Carolina Thursday and afternoon temperatures ranged in the low to mid 80s along the south coast and in the mountains. Across the remainder of the state temperatures warmed into the upper 80s and low 90s.

Warmest readings included Raleigh-Durham and Elizabeth City with 93 followed by Hickory and Fayetteville with 92. Low temperatures this morning ranged from the 50s in the mountains to the mid 70s along the Outer Banks.

So Much Rests On Camp David

There will probably never be more important negotiations insofar as world peace is concerned, than those which have gone on this week at Camp David.

There, Anwar Sadat of Egypt and Menachem Begin of Israel have met with President Carter and with each other. Their mission is to find middle ground for the differences between Israel and the Arab world.

Success at Camp David could end the threat of war in the Middle East, a war which could spread throughout the world and could even mean the destruction of modern civilization.

The leaders are well aware of the importance of success. Begin who has met before with Carter and Sadat, called this meeting "the most important, the most momentous of them all."

Sadat said, "The challenge is tremendous, but we have no choice but to accept the challenge. We cannot afford to fail..."

There will be no quick solutions to the ancient problems of the Middle East, but perhaps the participants will find the thread which will lead to the ultimate unravelling of the problems involved.

We think the leaders recognized that the burden of maintaining world peace rests on their shoulders. With methods of modern warfare a world war is now unthinkable. Consequently solutions must be found and when the stakes are high enough solutions usually are found.

Hopefully, The Best School Year Ever

Some 11,200 Pitt County school students and over 700 teachers returned to school Tuesday.

They joined city school pupils and ECU students who began classes a little earlier.

It takes a little time for the county schools to get all of the student population back to classes, because many of them are still involved in farm work.

The school year is underway, however, and we hope it is the best ever for the school system.

THIS AFTERNOON

'Failing Mark' By Brooks

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — There are in North Carolina at any given time about 20,000 jobs available which pay high wages for skilled craftsmanship, says Labor Commissioner John Brooks.

Yet 90 percent of those jobs go to people from out of state simply because Tar Heel hopefuls aren't trained enough to land the positions.

In a ripping indictment of the state's approach to technical and vocational preparation, Brooks came down hardest on the 57-campus Community College and Technical Institute system, and the General Assembly.

"Our technical institutes are teaching the use of tools—not the application of a craft. Our Community Colleges and technical institutes are training people for semi-skilled work," Brooks complained in a recent interview.

Legislators and the public often wonder why graduates of those institutions can't land the extremely technical, high skill jobs, Brooks said. "The system simply was not set up to do this. Overseer "We oversold the schools to the public and to the General Assembly", Brooks believes. He thinks it is time, now, to deflate the myth. Two years in a technical school is not enough time to truly master a craft such as tool-and-die making, machinery repair, plumbing, electrical work or scores of other critical jobs in which labor supply is scarce.

There are, he said, about 400 such jobs in which people properly trained are so scarce that employers bid for them much like football team owners seek quarterbacks. Salaries are now at $20,000 annually. By 1983 they will top $45,000.

"Our high school vocational program is one of the best in the country, in strong contrast to our post-secondary effort," Brooks said. "What is needed are hands-on courses longer than two years with a lot of on-the-job skills training.

The scattered nature of the technical institute campuses, the emphasis on large classes with budgets pegged to enrollment, and the short-term program all are contrary to the needs of an industry in one section of the state which is hunting perhaps a handful of high skilled people.

BILL NOBLITT

"We oversold the system 17 years ago... we left the impression they would have the capacity, the goal, and the design to train highly skilled people. They just were not intended to do that."

"The kind of training I am talking of goes way beyond what is included in a two-year associate degree level course which in reality leaves the individual only partially trained.

"The schools still fill a great need in training semi-skilled workers who can get some good jobs... but we import from other states 90 percent of the people with skills who get the best jobs as foremen and supervisors."

Ripples

All of which has a ripple effect across the state's economy, Brooks believes: savvy industries which need highly skilled people avoid coming here because no skilled labor pool exists; a few such industries come to the state anyway, then North Carolinians are frustrated because "outsiders" get the best jobs; residents continue to train for lower paying jobs.

Providing highly skilled training moves the payoff further down the road, making that approach less attractive to politicians and planners seeking more immediate successes. In addition, Brooks said, legislators have organized teachers and state employees, business associations, and other lobbyists pressing them for funds and programs. Nobody pushes for the average workers.

Brooks thinks one solution to the dilemma would be to install at each technical institute one or two intensive apprenticeship programs of four years' duration drawing students from across the state who are interested in a particular skill.

PRACTICING THAT NEW TOUGH IMAGE!

Energy Policy Gamble

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is going to bat for its energy bill with the claim that the future of the U.S. dollar may depend on it.

It's a potentially dangerous claim, because it seems to invite future attacks on the dollar by currency speculators if the energy program is not enacted.

Carter, of course, is gambling that Congress will enact the bill, and his warnings about the dollar are intended to bring additional pressure on the lawmakers.

The administration is particularly eager to dispel concerns over the portion of the legislation that would deregulate natural gas prices, which eventually will mean higher prices to consumers and industry.

During meetings with governors and businessmen at the White House last week, Carter and his advisers asserted the deregulation plan would provide sufficient incentives for producers to develop new sources of gas, which could be substituted for imported oil.

The White House argued persuasively that greater use of domestic natural gas would reduce the demand for imported oil by 1.4 million barrels a day by 1985, a savings of $6.75 billion yearly at current world oil prices.

Few would argue that such a savings would be welcome to the economy, and that reduced reliance on foreign oil would be beneficial for several reasons, including the country's security.

However, the White House emphasis on what could happen if the energy bill isn't enacted took on the appearance of scare tactics.

Carter said congressional rejection of the bill would be "a devastating blow to the character and esteem with which our government is held throughout the world" and

The Junk Telephone Call

WASHINGTON — When the history of the 20th century is written a special place must be set aside for the invention of the junk telephone call. Many people have claimed credit for this great boon to mankind including Vladimir Gluck, with whom I visited in his spacious offices. Gluck, who likes to call himself the "King of Junk Telephone Calls," believes that as the postal service gets worse the telephone will replace the junk letter as a means of reaching every reluctant consumer in the country.

Other Editors Say Funeral Home Regs

(Birmingham News)

Ever so often, some hungry free lance writer casting about for an idea that will result in a best seller lets his eye fall on funeral homes. After a bit of research which takes at least a week, he sits down and writes a fantasy about the high cost of dying.

Usually the intrepid investigator skips over the cost of a terminal illness, hospital costs, etc., and rushes directly to the funeral parlors. From that point on, the fantasy alternates between outrage and sodden sadness at the terrorism practiced by funeral home directors in separating the survivors from their money.

The books usually end with a chapter outlining what the government ought to do in order to protect the idiot public from these monsters. Then comes some federal agency with equal outrage, but exuding certainty that only federal regulations can save the idiot public — which has sense enough, it seems, only to earn money to pay the bureaucrats' salaries, but not enough sense to handle a funeral or other such chores.

This time around, the agency is the Federal Trade Commission. And it is simply outraged at the manner in which the public is taken. The FTC has a long list of abuses which it lays at the doorstep of the nation's 20,000 funeral homes. But it is safe to bet that funeral costs have not gone up as fast, as high or in as great a percentage as the salaries of those investigators at the FTC. It well could be that today's $2,000 funeral is not as costly as the Great Depression's $200 funeral, in terms of real dollars.

As for misrepresenting and refusing to itemize prices, who is more guilty than the government of this kind of practice? By way of inflationary spending, our government increases our taxes every year by about 1.6 times the inflationary rate. It misrepresents spending programs by billions of dollars each year, and it bilthely "loses" $7 billion dollars in welfare funding and hasn't even the grace to apologize to the public.

As most government technocrats, the FTC people seem to have no understanding at all about the ancient mystical and emotional overtones connected to death. All sorts of conflicts, guilts and penance are resolved, perhaps, with a casket that requires sacrificial use of one's resources. Have you ever heard anyone complain about what he or she spent for a funeral? Of course, this human frailty does not give a license to gouge or deceive. But actually today's perfunctory ceremonies are about as plain and simple as at any time in the history of humankind.

Too bad that the FTC was not around when Egyptians built giant pyramids to house their dead and enclosed millions in treasure in their tombs. Now there was a time when funeral directors really had it big.

"I'm not knocking junk mail," Gluck told me. "It served its purpose for a long time and we're all grateful to it. But you have to keep up with the times. If anyone is to blame for us going to junk telephone calls it's the consumer."

"How's that?" I asked. "The consumer did not treat our junk mail with enough respect. Many threw it in the wastepaper basket without even reading it. It was an outrage. We put on the envelopes that if they opened our letters they could win $1 million in prizes, trips to Europe and Hawaii, $150,000 homes, but people still kept throwing away our sales pitches. They treated us very shabbily considering all the time and effort we put into attracting their attention. We had to figure out a way of getting into people's homes without being ignored."

"And so you came up with the junk telephone call?"

"The consumer left us no choice. The direct mail people decided that if people were going to throw away junk mail, our only option was to call them on the phone and speak to them directly."

"That was good thinking," I said.

"We used to have 100 people manning phones out there in the main room, but it was too expensive and many of us were getting

U.S. And RUSSIA

Old Pattern Is Repeated

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The chain of events is familiar.

In Russia, there is a crackdown against Jews. In the United States, American Jews bring pressure on the White House to do something.

The president publicly protests, condemning the Russians for human rights violations. The Russian leadership responds that it's no business of the United States. The crackdown continues.

Finally, Congress passes legislation revoking trade benefits previously negotiated with the Russians. The hope is that economic leverage can be brought to bear where moral protests were unavailing.

It could be a summary of the past year in U.S.-Soviet relations.

But all of the incidents above occurred between 1870 and 1911.

The president who defended human rights was Theodore Roosevelt, not Jimmy Carter. The Russian leader who told him to mind his own business was Czar Nicholas II, not Leonid Brezhnev. And the trade agreement Congress revoked was not a product of the detente of the early 1970s. It dated from 1832.

This example from history illustrates the fact that this summer's chill in relations between Moscow and Washington was not unique.

Periods of cooperation and agreement between the two countries have been rare, particularly since the Russian Revolution of 1917.

But the historical pattern also indicates the United States and the Soviet Union may have a fleeting opportunity to improve relations in the next few months, an opportunity that could soon be lost.

The Soviets may have signaled they want to seize the opportunity by their decisions to drop a slander case against two American reporters and to seek only a suspended sentence for Frank Crawford, a U.S. businessman accused of currency violations.

Since the Russian Revolution, there have been several periods of detente between the two powers -- with one notable example the joint fight against Nazism in World War II. That evaporated as soon as the Germans were crushed, and was quickly followed by the Cold War.

Another occurred after the Cuban missile crisis. President John F. Kennedy, having stood at the abyss with Nikita Khrushchev, made a dramatic 1963 commencement speech at American University.

"No government or social system is so evil that its people must be considered as lacking in virtue," he said, adding that both superpowers "have a mutually deep interest in a just and genuine peace and in halting the arms race."

That summer saw agreement on a nuclear test ban treaty, a Washington-Moscow "hot line," a ban on nuclear weapons in space, a $250 million grain sale to Russia.

But the brief flowering of (Continued on page 9)

Mutual Fund Industry Changed

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The cocktail party is going strong, and a group has gathered at the far side of the room talking investments.

A chic working mother just in from tennis describes the old building she and her husband are renovating into condominium apartments, while a bearded man sipping white wine and soda extols his collection of antique guns.

The subject of minivarehouses as tax shelters has just been broached when a stranger breaks in. "I'm looking at an interesting mutual fund," he says.

A painful silence falls over the group. Two lawyers who have been debating the merits of out-of-the-money options suddenly look at their digital watches and leave, and the bearded gun collector says "ahem" and changes the subject to test-tube babies.

A decade ago the stranger's remark in this imaginary scene wouldn't have been such a gaffe. But then, a lot has changed for the mutual fund industry in the last 10 years.

In 1968, the industry was caught up in a "go-go" frenzy, with millions of dollars flooding into whatever funds could lead the pack in the stock-market performance race.

A handful of "hot" young money managers became the gurus of Wall Street, including one famed for his refusal to buy stocks of companies whose chief executives looked overweight. Their physiques betrayed a lack of self-discipline, he said.

But the go-go era collapsed when the stock market turned sour. The funds, battered by bear markets, began to lose more investors than they were gaining for the first time in their history. That net outflow of money, which began in 1972, has continued ever since for the funds that invest in stocks.

In its response to this setback, fund officials claim that the industry has undergone a remarkable transformation. With stocks out of favor in 1973-74, it introduced money-market funds investing in short term interest-bearing securities.

In the last few years fund organizations have continued to branch out, adding tax-exempt municipal-bond funds, funds using the options market to increase the income on their investments, and other types of products.

By 1977 the business added by these funds had pushed industry sales up to their highest level since 1969. And David Silver, president of the Investment Company Institute, the industry trade group, asserted, "There is now a mutual fund to meet virtually every need."

At the same time, more and more funds have dropped sales charges, or "loads," which can range up to 8.5 percent. The Wiesenberger Investment Companies Service reports that no-load funds accounted for 43.7 percent of industry sales last year, against just 4.7 percent 15 years ago.

Strength For Today

SILVER: STERLING OR PLATED?

Anyone who has bought silverware and silver cutlery knows that there are two grades — sterling and plated. Sterling silverware is solid silver all the way through. Plated silver has a thin layer of silver over copper or some other metal. After hard use, the silver sometimes wears off and the copper shows through. But plated silver is of course much less expensive than sterling.

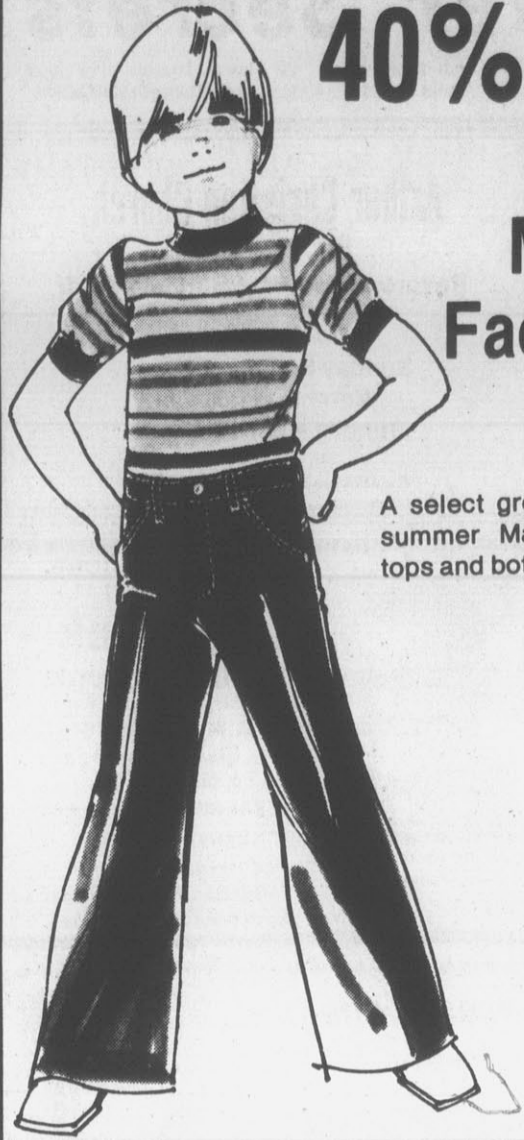

Human beings come in both solid and plated varieties too. Unfortunately their quality is not stamped on their backs, as with silver, so we can tell at a glance which is which.

It takes longer to recognize the sterling person. When you have known him well and seen him in success, failure, disappointment, and hope, if the copper doesn't show through, you begin to know his quality.

Like silver, it costs more to be a sterling person in terms of honesty, integrity, and patience. But in the end, there is no comparison with the cheaper product.

Youngsters Find 'Encounter' Secrets

By EDGAR MILLER
Associated Press Writer
SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — "Out there I felt peace, joy and love. I felt that God and I were talking about beautiful things. He told me what I should and shouldn't do, what I should and shouldn't be. Now I feel very happy for having talked with God..."

This was 10-year-old Claudia's reaction to a 10-minute "Listen to God" encounter at the Our Lady of the Cenacle Convent.

Claudia was one of 35 fifth-grade girls from the Sao Jose school in nearby Sao Paulo spending the afternoon at the convent to take part in the program run by Sisters Carmen Soares and Maria Leitao.
The girls had been given a brief orientation by Sister Carmen before spending the 10 minutes on the convent's flower-filled green lawn.
"God speaks to us inside — in our minds, in our intelligence, in our hearts," she told them. "God wants to talk to you today. God talks in many different ways. We must be attentive and listen to hear him. You go outside and choose your place and there you will find so many things to remind you of God, the flowers, the grass the sky."

Many obviously have very deep religious experiences in their few minutes in the garden. Almost all of them write later about the sensations of "peace and love" they felt.
"I felt that God gave me peace, love, tranquility and much more faith and he told me he would always be with me," wrote 10-year-old Cibele.
"When I was there in the garden, I saw the pine trees shining and I felt that God was with me. Why did God make the pine trees? For whom? I know how to answer these questions: because he loves me...fooy'sis! For me," wrote Monica, 11.
The children all from the noisy dirty and polluted city of Sao Paulo are always impressed with the rural silence and natural beauty of the trees, flowers, birds and other natural life around them.

The sisters do not attempt to influence what the children write.
"It comes from within them," said Sister Carmen. "They write things we didn't even touch on."
The same experiment has been done with adults and teenagers but Sister Carmen says the best results come from the pre-teen children.
"They don't have the same blocks that adults have," she said. "Adults sometimes sit for hours because they have so many things in their heads."

Youth Club To Begin Sessions On Wednesday

Youth Club, a regular weekday Christian education program for young people of school age, will begin Wednesday at First Presbyterian Church. Sessions will be held every Wednesday from 3:30 p.m. to 6:50 p.m., and each will include a Bible study segment, a choir program, dinner and recreation.
Judy Coulter and Lynne Marks, along with the Rev. Richard R. Gammon, will lead the program. They have attended a special training school in preparation for use of the curriculum materials developed by Youth Club Program, Inc.

Holding One Day Revival

Dr. Joe Ange will hold a one-day revival at the Temple Free Will Baptist Church Sunday, at the 10 a.m., 10:50 a.m., and 6 p.m. services.
A typical reaction came from 10-year-old Fatima who wrote: "I feel an immense peace in myself...it was as if I were talking to a friend who listened and understood so I was peaceful and a light was shining in my heart. My greatest desire was that the moment would never end and that I could keep listening to the voice of the Lord in my heart."

Rev. Yarrell To Preach Sunday

The Rev. James Yarrell will preach at St. Matthew Free Will Baptist Church Sunday, 11 a.m., sponsored by Sister Janice Sheppard. At 3 p.m., the Rev. Tyrone Turnage will give the sermon, sponsored by Sister Rena Grimes. At 7:30 p.m., the Rev. Staton will be the guest speaker, sponsored by Sister Susie Moore. Eldress Hattie Maye Cobb, pastor, invites the public to attend.

Church Sponsor Lobster Fair

St. Timothy's Episcopal Church is sponsoring its first annual Lobster Fair. Tickets for lobsters, $7 live, $8 boiled, are sold at the Book Barn and the Kitchen Cupboard, and may be obtained by calling 752-3482. Tickets will be sold until Oct. 1 to allow time for ordering.
The fair will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, E. Third St. entrance, Oct. 14, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Free puppet shows, Christmas crafts, country store/bake sale and pony rides will be offered during the fair. The public is invited to attend. More information is available by calling the number listed above.

Sponsor 'Joy Night' Saturday

BELL ARTHUR — The Young People's Christian League of Arthur's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church will sponsor Joy Night, Saturday, 7:30 p.m. President Bettie Rhinehardt of the Young People's Christian League will serve as special speaker.
The Joy Temple Church of Deliverance choir will present a program of music. The public is invited.

COME EXPECTING GOD TO DO SOMETHING IN YOUR LIFE.

HIDDEN STRENGTH

It looks like something Don Quixote might have tilted at. Fragile, teetering, like a ludicrous, oversized toy. Yet this scarecrowish windmill can harness energy. Among other things, it can cause water to spill into your kitchen sink.

Things are not always what they seem. The outer package can be a deceiver with people, as well as with objects. Funny, isn't it, that although we know better we respond so readily to the things, the people that look best—the sparkling diamond that turns out to be a rhinestone, the phony with the wonderful, flashing smile?

No one ever makes it through life without stumbling occasionally. So be not ashamed. The thing is to learn by such experiences, to progress and not retreat. In case you've forgotten, the Church is a wonderful teacher.

Busbee Is Head Of Committee

ECU News Bureau University Department of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Safety, has been appointed chairman of the N.C. Trails Committee.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Howard Lee, secretary of the N.C. Dept. of Natural Resources and Community Development. The committee was created in 1973 by the N.C. General Assembly to serve as an advisory body on the development of recreational trails in the state.

Among the trails already proposed are a "mountains to the sea" trail for bikers, hikers, canoeists, horseback riders and off-road vehicle users.

This proposed trail would begin in the mountain region and continue through the central part of the state into the Raleigh area, to the Wilmington area, up the Outer Banks to Manteo, and westward to Merchant's Mill Pond State Park in Gates County.

The committee previously recommended two canoe trails: the Lumber River Canoe Trail in Scotland County, dedicated by Secretary Lee in May, and

GSA Investigation Said To Be Stalled

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of the people who are supposed to be looking for corruption in the General Services Administration are spending more time wrangling among themselves than investigating, Sen. Lawton Chiles says.

As a result, the Florida Democrat says the investigation has stalled.

"Several rapidly progressing and very promising investigations have become bogged down in a three-sided name calling contest among the FBI agents, GSA investigators and Justice Department personnel," he said in a statement inserted Thursday in the Congressional Record.

In another development Thursday, Charles Kirbo of Atlanta, a close friend and trusted confidant of President Carter, said the president had asked him to keep an eye on the GSA investigations while Carter is tied up with Mideast peace negotiations at Camp David.

Kirbo met earlier this week with key investigators in the GSA case and, according to sources who asked not to be identified, strongly urged the various agencies involved to cooperate with each other.

Kirbo emphasized in a telephone interview Thursday in Atlanta that he was acting in a temporary and unofficial capacity and would bow out when Carter winds up the Camp David summit meeting.

Chiles, who has headed the major congressional inquiry into GSA irregularities, asked the top GSA investigator, Vincent Alto, and Assistant Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti to meet with him next week to try to stop the "interagency warfare between competing bureaucracies."

He commended Alto and Civiletti for their personal efforts to improve cooperation, but blamed their "squabbling subordinates" for the problems.

"Out on the street, various charges of ineptitude and incompetence are traded among the investigatory staffs involved," Chiles said.

"As public interest in the GSA scandals rises, the race for glory becomes more intense. Unfortunately, this race is working to the detriment of the investigation itself."

Efforts to reach Alto and Civiletti for comment were unsuccessful.

Wide-ranging investigations by U.S. attorneys in several cities, federal grand juries and a GSA task force headed by Alto have turned up evidence of corruption in many areas of the agency. Allegations of fraud, extortion and theft are being investigated.

GSA Administrator Jay Solomon said last week he expects 50 indictments in the near future.

Some sources, who asked not to be identified, have said indictments originally were expected last month, but now are not expected before October. They cited friction among the agencies as one reason for the slowed pace.

Chiles refused to identify which agency he thought was most responsible for the problems. But he promised to cite specific instances of "squabbling and time wasting" if the interagency conflicts are not resolved.

Firefighting equipment will be featured and other entries are welcome. Any business or civic group interested in participating is asked to contact Terry Payne at 752-5137.

The parade will start at Ninth Street in Greenville, go down Dickinson Avenue to Washington Street, down Washington to Fifth, down Fifth to Reade, and from Reade to First, where it will end.

Prices High On Greenville Mart

Prices remained high Thursday on the Greenville Tobacco Market as 1,069,027 pounds sold for $1,487,405, an average of $139.14 per hundred pounds.

J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor of the local Tobacco Board of Trade, said that Stabilization receipts accounted for 4.46 percent of total sales.

Top practical price paid by the buying companies was $1.55 per pound, he said, as leaf and cutters increased in volume. Primings and lugs were also on the warehouse floors with a decrease noted in non-descript offerings.

For the season, the market has sold 22,730,282 pounds for $29,389,120, an average of $129.30 per hundred pounds.

QUARTERLY MEETING
WINTERVILLE — Quarterly meeting and homecoming services will be held at the Mt. Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church Sunday, 11 a.m. The Rev. E. McNair and the Spring Garden Missionary Baptist Church, Washington, will be in charge of services. Dinner will be served at 2 p.m. The public is invited.

Three Accidents Here Yesterday

More than $6,700 property damage resulted from three collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 1:40 p.m. mishap on Memorial Drive, north of the Arlington Street intersection in which a car driven by Ada Powers Williams of Route 1, Tarboro, ran off the road and collided with a utility pole.

Police estimated damage to the car at $2,500 and set damage to the pole and wires at $650.

Utilities officials who noted the pole carried transmission lines to Winterville, Ayden and the sub-station on N.C. 43 South of Greenville, as well as distribution lines, said electrical service on the transmission line was interrupted momentarily, while electric power along Memorial Drive and Hooker Road was disturbed for about 20 minutes. Electric service to an area on Memorial Drive in the immediate area of the collision was out for about two hours.

An estimated $1,500 damage resulted to each of two vehicles involved in a 5:55 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard, 150 feet East of the Memorial Drive intersection.

Investigators reported a car driven by Patricia Williamson Padley of Route 1, Winterville collided with a truck operated by Rufus Brock of Winterville.

William Nicholas Cherry of 330 East Mumford Rd. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 5:25 p.m. collision at the intersection of Greene Street and Gum Road.

Police said the truck driven by Cherry collided with a motorcycle operated by William Henry Clark of 109D Cherry Ct., resulting in an estimated $450 damage to the motorcycle and $125 damage to the truck.

New Collard Queen Voted

AYDEN — Donna Arnold, a senior at Ayden-Gritton High School, was crowned 1978 Ayden Collard Festival Queen last night in the Ayden Grammar School auditorium.

Lisa Hart was named first runner-up with Lori Daughtry as second runner-up. Patty Bowen and Marie Suggs were the remaining of the five finalists. Tammy Bowen was named "Miss Congeniality."

John Moore of WRQR-FM served as master of ceremonies for the event. The 15 contestants were judged on their appearance in casual and formal wear. The five finalists were asked questions to judge their characters. The contestants also performed a dance at the beginning of the contest. Mamie W. Smith served as chairperson for the event.

discouraged about it. But then someone invented a telephone-calling computer. It was programmed to talk to a consumer just like a human being, and many people thought they were talking to a live person. The beauty of it was that the computer could work day and night and had the ability to call back the person when his line was busy or he was out.

"With the breakthrough of the computer the telephone junk call was no longer a cottage industry."

"I'll bet Alexander Graham Bell had no idea when he invented the telephone that it would save the junk mail business."

"The beauty of the junk telephone call is that you can now get into somebody's home and he or she can't ignore you. People have to answer their telephone ring because they have no idea who is on the other end."

"Don't they get mad when the phone rings and some computer on the other end is trying to sell them an encyclopedia?"

"Some do, but the computer is programmed to expect rejection. It never loses its cool. It's even programmed to calm down those people who tell it off. But our research has revealed that many people with children, particularly teen-agers, have a great fear that when the phone rings it's going to bring bad news. So when they anxiously pick it up and discover it is only a company trying to sell them life insurance, they are so relieved that they'll order the policy without thinking twice about it. One survey we took showed that 87 percent of all telephone owners would rather get a junk telephone message than a call from one of their children after 10 o'clock at night."

"There's no way to determine that," Lineberry said Wednesday when asked who reported the "death." "It was somebody who had very technical information about the family who called it in. I don't know whether it was a member of the family or who."

The caller told Hanes-Lineberry personnel that Blake lived on Waco Way in Dallas County, Texas. The caller said Blake died in an auto accident and that the body was being prepared by a Grand Prairie, Tex., funeral home for shipment to Hanes-Lineberry.

After the obituary had been printed, Lineberry said, "a guy called and said he was Terry Blake. He said he'd been called two or three hours prior to that, that somebody was looking for him in Dallas. He said he thought there was a false obit notice of him."

The caller claiming to be Blake gave Lineberry a number where he could be reached in Texas. But the person who answered at that number said he had never heard of Blake or, for that matter, of Greensboro.

Lineberry said pranksters are usually caught, even on the phone. "This time everything was just right. It's mystical. It's really weird. Strange. The Grand Prairie, Texas, funeral home was the icing on the cake. Who's ever heard of Grand Prairie, Texas?"

A check with the Guilford sheriff's department showed that Blake, 28, is wanted here on six worthless check charges and for failing to appear in court.

would have "a devastating effect on our national image, on the value of the dollar, on our trade balance, on inflation."

He linked passage of the bill to the image abroad of the "effectiveness of the federal government, including my own office."

Stuart Eizenstat, the president's chief domestic adviser, said: "Frankly, there is no acceptable alternative to the bill. If it fails, it is highly unlikely there will be gas legislation in the foreseeable future."

Those probably were excessively stark terms to describe the consequences of failure to enact the bill.

After all, it was not until very recently that Carter even expressed concern over the decline in the dollar. And officials from Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal on down were saying the dollar was basically sound and that this would soon be recognized abroad.

Blumenthal also recently won an expression of support for the dollar from the Saudi Arabians.

telephone calls by claiming they are an invasion of privacy.

Gluck said angrily, "If the Avon lady can knock on your door, there is no reason why a junk telephone call can't get you out of the bathtub."

'Obituary' A Surprise

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—The obituary of Terry Copper Blake which appeared in the newspaper this week came as a shock to his relatives and friends. But they got over their grief quickly. Blake telephoned from Texas to say he was alive. His premature obituary was apparently the work of a prankster.

Family members in McLeansville and Al Lineberry Jr., spokesman for the Hanes-Lineberry Funeral Chapel here, don't know who to blame for the hoax. A Greensboro newspaper received the obituary information from the funeral home Tuesday.

"There's no way to determine that," Lineberry said Wednesday when asked who reported the "death." "It was somebody who had very technical information about the family who called it in. I don't know whether it was a member of the family or who."

The caller told Hanes-Lineberry personnel that Blake lived on Waco Way in Dallas County, Texas. The caller said Blake died in an auto accident and that the body was being prepared by a Grand Prairie, Tex., funeral home for shipment to Hanes-Lineberry.

ouster. New Soviet leaders, jockeying for power, adopted a cautious attitude toward the United States and embarked on a spending program to close a strategic weapons gap exposed in the Cuban crisis.

The most recent detente, during the Nixon Administration, brought the signing of a strategic arms limitation agreement, increased grain sales, and such joint efforts as the Apollo-Soyuz space flight.

That Nixon detente if the early 1970s is all but gone, the victim of tensions raised by Soviet actions in Africa, of Carter's human rights campaign and the Soviet crackdown on dissent, and of the inability, thus far, to come up with a second strategic arms agreement.

But relations have not deteriorated to the level of much of the post-World War II era, a period when confrontation and crisis snuffed out nearly every hopeful development.

The World War II era of cooperation ended with the Berlin crisis of 1948 and the atomic weapons race. The "Spirit of Geneva" in 1955 died when the Soviets crushed the Hungarian revolt in 1956. The 1960 summit was wrecked by the U-2 spy plane incident.

Then followed the Berlin Wall crisis in 1961 and the missile crisis. President Johnson's hopes for arms talks faded because of Vietnam and the Soviet crushing of the Czechoslovakian liberalization in 1968.

Nonetheless, Carter administration Soviet experts, speaking privately, find reason in this gloomy history to hope that relations can improve in the near future. They point out that past periods of detente have occurred when both sides had experienced leadership which was unafraid of political challenges from "hard-liners."

They feel leaders on both sides need at least a year or two to begin to feel comfortable about the game that one observer, Richard Barnet, has likened to "chess players in the dark, absorbed in a game they can barely see." And leaders must be confident that concessions in negotiations will not harm them politically.

Kennedy could not make his American University speech until he had shown toughness in the missile crisis. Nixon, who built his career as an anti-communist, was uniquely protected from a right-wing reaction.

President Carter, these experts feel, has now been "bloodied." But while he may have gained experience in his frustrated efforts to achieve a quick strategic arms limitation agreement and improve Soviet treatment of dissidents, he is still likely to be challenged for every concession he might make.

On the Soviet side, Brezhnev is experienced and politically secure, these experts feel. But his health is questionable, and he may soon be replaced by inexperienced, insecure new leaders.

Thus, the next few months offer a favorable set of circumstances that may soon change as the Soviets change leadership and Carter becomes embroiled in his re-election campaign.

"We've been through a series of difficult issues and incidents," an official said. "But I think there's a good possibility of moving forward."

NEW YORK (AP) — Word that wholesale prices and the money supply had dropped unexpectedly sent the stock market on a buying spree today.

The Dow Jones industrial average zoomed ahead 9.70 to 903.41 at noon.

Advances took an 11-3 lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Labor Department said today that wholesale prices had fallen 0.1 percent in August, the first drop since August 1976 and one that had not been anticipated by analysts.

The news followed on the heels of the announcement by the Federal Reserve late Thursday that the nation's basic money supply had fallen $1.8 billion in the latest reporting week.

Ramada Inns continued to trade heavily, leading the most active list and falling 1/4 to 10 1/4.

The NYSE composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks rose .53 to 60.03. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 2.26 to 174.24.

Volume on the Big Board was frantic at 19.88 million shares in the first two hours, compared to Thursday's 16.18 million at noon.

Petroleum issues were among the leaders of the rally. Marathon Oil jumped 2 1/2 to 174.24.

STAND DESTROYED — This concession stand and storage facility at East Carolina University's Harrington Field was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The Greenville Fire Department was called at 2:13 p.m. and when fire units arrived, they found the small wood-frame building totally engulfed. At the request of university officials, firemen let the structure burn to the ground. ECU spokesmen estimated value of the building at $300 to $400. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Tobacco Festival Plans To Be Aired

Formal plans for the First Annual Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival, to be held in Greenville Nov. 12-18, conference Tuesday, 9 a.m., at the Holiday Inn here.

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce chose to sponsor the festival in Pitt County because of the economic value of tobacco to the Pitt-Greenville area, as well to note the fact that Pitt County is the number one producer of flue-cured tobacco in the world.

The week-long festival will be held in conjunction with the Tobacco Farmers Show in Greenville. Scheduled events include a Commissioners Luncheon, golf tournament, essay contest, tobacco spitting contest, dinner and dance.

For more information, call the Chamber office, 752-4101.

ANNIVERSARY

The ushers of Simpson Chapel Church will celebrate their anniversary Sunday at 5 p.m. Everyone is invited, says the pastor, Rev. Matthew Best.

Banged-Up Bucs Invade Wolves' Lair

By WOODY PEELE, Reflector Sports Editor. It used to be, back when the series first started back in 1970, that when those kids from Down East found their way up to Raleigh, the Wolfpack fans slyly grinned, sat back and awaited the expected victory. Oh, there was that one sad occasion when those Pirates pulled out a victory, but, you know, things like that happen once in a while. "Once" was the key word there as far as the Wolfpack folks were concerned, and

"once" was all it had better be. But then, that master magician named Lou Holtz left town for the Big Apple. Those upstart Pirates came to town and came away with yet another win. Oh, well, give the guy a chance to get started, the fans muttered. "But never again."

Again came again quickly, just the next year—last year in fact. And this time, the faithful of the Red and White were in a mood to scalp someone. Things did get a lot better for the Wolfpack before the season was over, but that thorn in the side was still there.

Now another season has rolled around. The Down East boys are headed back up to Raleigh one more time. But this time, there are no sly grins from the Red-wearing faithful. There are no laughing jokes from those on the field.

It has suddenly become a serious thing, this game with East Carolina. No longer a fun opening, but a battle just as serious as the one with those blue-garbed fellows from over the way.

"It's a big game for both teams," Coach Pat Dye of East Carolina said. "It wasn't big for them until we won a couple of games. It got to be a slap in the face for them. For us, it's a big prestige game. It gives us a chance to play a "Name School" with a national reputation, one that's been to a bowl game, and an in-state school, too."

Dye said that game, too, while early in the season, is a very key one for the Pirates. "It could mean whether we will have a chance to go to a bowl game. It's kind of like our lives depend on it. If we win, our program can grow and get better and mean a lot to people who care about our football."

But it won't be easy, Dye noted. And it's been made even harder by the injury situation on the ECU team. Eddie Hicks, the eighth-leading rusher in ECU history, is in the hospital with a partially collapsed lung. Tony Collins, another running back, is hobbled by an ankle sprain. Sam Harrell, still another running back, is also limping around, as is Theodore Sutton, a fullback. John Hallow, the number two nose guard, broke a bone in his foot in practice.

"This is the worst physical condition we've ever been in," Dye said. "It's kind of frightening when you have to play a physical team like N.C. State."

Dye said he expects State to field a very strong and physical team. "They are very good on defense, with a lot of people back from last year. They got better and better last year. They are the biggest and best people they've ever had. So it's not so encouraging when you see how we're crippled."

Despite all the problems, Dye expects a good game from his players, beat up though they are. "We've been fortunate the past two years."

"Our players know a lot about State. They see how State recruits the big name players in the state. Their players get more publicity, their coaches get more pay. So if we can win, we get a little more publicity, and I can hit (Bill) Cain (ECU athletic director) for a pay raise for our staff. It's a chance for us to make something happen."

"I'll be surprised if we don't play well, but we still may not have enough people. We're just going to try and get the best we've got ready to play and go up there and have a good time." Kickoff in Carter Stadium is set for 7 p.m. Saturday with an overflow crowd of around 50,000 expected.

Greenville Pirates

Five members of the East Carolina University football team are former Rose High School players. Three have gained starting roles for the

Playing Connors Or Borg Can Be Very Frustrating Experience

NEW YORK (AP) — Playing tennis against Bjorn Borg or Jimmy Connors can be a very frustrating experience. "I hit short, long, everywhere and I can't beat him," Raul Ramirez said Thursday after bowing to the top-seeded Borg 6-7, 6-4, 6-0 in the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships. "Is there anything tougher than playing Jimmy Connors? Maybe fighting Muhammad Ali," said Brian Gottfried, the No. 6 seed who was eliminated by Connors 6-2, 7-6, 6-1 Thursday night. The victories moved Borg and Connors into Saturday's semifinals, where Borg will face his friend and practice partner Vitas Gerulaitis, the No. 4 seed, and Connors will meet 15th-seeded John McEnroe, the brash 19-year-old.

In women's action, 16-year-old Pam Shriver, the No. 16 seed, became the youngest semifinalist in U.S. Open history with a 6-2, 6-0 victory over Australian Lesley Hunt and fourth-seeded Wendy Turnbull of Australia struggled past 15th-seeded Kathy May 3-6, 7-6, 6-3.

The women's semifinals were scheduled today, with Shriver facing top-seeded Martina Navratilova and Turnbull opposing second-seeded Chris Evert in a rematch of last year's final. In that one, Evert won 7-6, 6-2.

A crowd of 19,433, including 17,862 paid, attended Thursday night's session, a U.S. Open record and the first sellout for the new National Tennis Center. According to a U.S. Tennis Association spokesman, it was the largest crowd ever to watch a tournament tennis match, surpassed only by two crowds in Australia for Davis Cup matches and the crowd of 30,472 that watched Billie Jean King beat Bobby Riggs in the Houston Astrodome Sept. 20, 1973.

Ramirez, the No. 8 seed, said that playing Borg creates special problems. "I have to do a lot of thinking out there because I know I can't overpower him," said the mustachioed Mexican. "He's volleying better, his serve is stronger and it's still not easy to pass him because he's so quick. There really isn't much you can do."

Borg, who has complained about the fast artificial playing surface being used in the tourney, said he was gradually getting accustomed to it.

"Still I think it might be too fast," he maintained. "I'm getting more used to it, but I'm still not comfortable."

It was Ramirez who looked uncomfortable Thursday, especially following the opening set, which he took by winning the tie-breaker 8-6. It was downhill from there.

Borg began to dominate play at the net in the second set and that turned around the match. It quickly developed into a rout, with Ramirez winning just seven games in the final set.

The second-seeded Connors used those same serve and volley tactics to rout Gottfried. Only the second set was a contest, Connors taking it with a 70 score in the tie-breaker. Connors declined to be interviewed after his match.

Banks Not Hot On Soviet Life

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Duke University basketball star Eugene Banks is not exactly enamored with the Soviet Union after a two-week basketball trip there this summer.

But he says everyone should make such a trip since it sends a person, especially a basketball player, back with a renewed appreciation of the way the game is played here.

Banks, last year's freshman sensation on the Duke basketball squad, was part of the United States team that competed in the Gagarin Cup series last month, losing to the Russians in the finals by five points. Banks started in the front court with Mike O'Koren of North Carolina and Cliff Robinson of Southern Cal. Darnell Valentine of Kansas and Earvin Johnson of Michigan State were the guards. Banks said he appreciated the chance to play with those men. "— got to know Mike O'Koren really well," he said. "I always knew he was a great athlete. Now I know he's a great human being. I learned a lot about what makes him tick." Because of his rebounding style, the Russians nicknamed Banks "Crazy Horse".

Our pickings got off to a pretty good start last week, but our guest of the week, Ott Alford, Pitt County Superintendent of Schools, outshone us all, coming in with a leading 8-2 record.

Tom Baines, Jim Kyle and this writer all posted 7-3 marks, while Vickie Spivey went 6-4, and last year's winner Joe Jenkins staggered home with a 5-5 record.

Joe says, however, that he's only giving us a head start so we won't complain about his winning—again. Well, we'll have to wait and see.

While no two picks this week are the same, and there is a lot of agreement, there are some games that see a difference, enough to change the standings in these early stages.

Before we get into the panel's choices in the Rose High and the college games, let's take a look at the other area high school games.

Farmville Central is off to another good start and will entertain Eastern Wayne. The Jags got away to an 18-0 victory over Williamston last week, but this week's foe is a different story. The Warriors are ranked as one of the state's best 4-A teams. Eastern has to be the pick in this one.

Tarboro visits Ayden-Grifton. The Chargers suffered through an opening loss to strong Roanoke last weekend, and this weekend things look no better. Tarboro is one of the 3-A powers around, and should come out on top here.

Peeler	Baines	Spivey	Kyle	Dye	Jenkins

Conley's Vikings entertain Washington. The Vikes split their first two games, and appear to be stronger than usual. But Washington is also a powerful team, and they must get our nod in this one.

Finally, as far as Pitt games are concerned, North Pitt, after winning its first opener ever, goes to Southwest Edgecombe. Southwest is winless in two starts, and the Panthers have a very good chance to win two in a row. We'll go with North Pitt.

Roanoke hosts Belhaven over in Robersonville. The Redskins look like winners this year, and are our choice in this game. Bertie will be in Williamston, where the Tigers are rebuilding. We go with Bertie. Beddingfield visits Greene Central. Both teams are inexperienced, and this could be a toss-up. We'll go with Beddingfield. Finally, Jamesville is at Chocowinity. Jamesville is unbeaten, and Chocowinity without a win, but this one is Chocowinity's win.

Turning to our panel, we find Rose High School opening its home season against New Bern. The Bears are 1-1, and are coming off a 20-0 win over West Craven. Rose comes in after losing late in the game to Goldsboro, 14-8.

Our panel is divided here, but still gives a solid 5-1 choice to Rose.

East Carolina takes off up the road for its annual visit to N.C. State. The Pirates have won the last two games between the two schools, but the Wolfpack is revenge-bent this year. Add to that the Pirates' many injuries from the first game, and things are not too bright. Again, the panel is split, but it gives a 4-2 nod to the Wolfpack.

Other consensus winners would be Wake Forest over Virginia; William & Mary over VMI; Maryland over Tulane; Notre Dame over Missouri; Toledo over Marshall; Duke and Georgia Tech a toss-up; West Virginia over Richmond; Mississippi State over North Texas State; Appalachian State over Wofford; and Texas-Arlington over West Texas State.

Our guest picker this week is East Carolina Coach Pat Dye, who takes over the ballot in first place. Naturally he picks the Pirates, and even though we picked the other way, we hope he comes out with a right pick here.

Yankees Drub Boston To Move Within Three Games Of Lead

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

A 15-3 shellacking of the Boston Red Sox caused different reactions from New York Yankee players Thursday. Whatever their opinions, however, one thing is crystal clear — New York is just three games back of first-place Boston in the American League East and coming fast.

"We wanted to get at them right away," said Willie Randolph, who helped by knocking in five runs, three on a basesloaded double in a five-run fourth. The Yankees scored twice in the first, three times in the second, two more runs in the third and made it 12-0 in the fourth.

"We wanted to be aggressive, put the pressure on them and keep it on."

Obviously, they did just that. Mickey Rivers thought the victory was just the start of big things for New York, which once trailed Boston by 14 games, but now is as close to first place as it's been since June 1.

"We want to think big and sweep this series," said Rivers. "Win all the games, that's what I want ... get serious with them."

Reggie Jackson, who was in a hospital earlier this week with a virus, drove in the first run for New York with a single. He spoke seriously of the Yankees chances of catching Boston.

"I'd still rather be three games ahead," noted Jackson. "When we were 14 games behind it looked tough and most of us asked if it was possible to catch them. But you have to go to the ball park, put on the uniform and play the games."

"They started to lose and here we are. There's still a lot of baseball to be played."

Elsewhere in the AL, Toronto edged Milwaukee 5-4, Seattle beat Chicago 5-3 and California nipped Texas 7-6.

The Yankees built their big lead with three hits apiece by Roy White, Thurman Munson and Randolph, who also had a two-run single. They knocked out former teammate Mike Torrez in the second and continued on their way to a 21-hit assault by shelling relievers Andy Hassler, Dick Drago and Bill Campbell.

New York received two scares in the game. Catfish Hunter, who started, had to leave in the fourth with a groin pull after Carl Yastrzemski tripled. Ken Clay came on, surrendered a homer to Carlton Fisk and then held Boston to one unearned run the rest of the way.

Munson was beamed on the forehead by a Drago pitch in the sixth. He did not lose consciousness and walked off the field by himself.

The Yankees expect the catcher in the lineup tonight.

Blue Jays 5, Brewers 4
Rick Cerone's two-run homer in the eighth put a dent in Milwaukee's pennant hopes. The Brewers remained 6½ games behind Boston.

Mariners 5, White Sox 3
Steve Stone carried a fourth hitter into the ninth, then gave up four runs to Seattle, including homers by Bob Stinson and Bruce Bochte.

Angels 7, Rangers 6
California scored all its runs in the sixth, with Don Baylor and Ron Fairly slamming two-run homers while the Angels sent 11 men to bat.

Dodgers Whip Astros; Giants Defeated; Lead Out To 4 Games

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers have stopped fighting among themselves. Now they're beating everyone else's brains out.

The notorious clubhouse battle between Steve Garvey and Don Sutton long behind them, the defending National League champions appear to be pulling together now in the September stretch drive.

And after Thursday night's 32 triumph over the Houston Astros, the Dodgers moved into a four-game advantage in the NL West race — their biggest lead since they took over first place for good on Aug. 15.

For this victory, the Dodgers' eighth in 10 games, the heroes were Burt Hooton and Dusty Baker. Hooton won his 17th game despite lacking his best stuff and Baker hit his 11th home run and later scored the winning run.

"I had trouble the whole game," said Hooton. "But I threw good pitches when I had to. That's the key to success. In the Houston Astrodome, you can get away with a few more things because it's so big."

Baker, meanwhile, clubbed his 11th homer in the fifth inning and scored the winning run in the eighth on a sacrifice fly by Vic Davalillo.

In the other National League games, the Atlanta Braves beat San Francisco 6-5; the Cincinnati Reds stopped the San Diego Padres 6-2; the Philadelphia Phillies stopped the Chicago Cubs 5-3; the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-4 and the New York Mets defeated the Montreal Expos 9-4.

Braves 6, Giants 5

Glenn Hubbard broke a tie with a run-scoring single in the eighth to lead Atlanta over San Francisco as Vida Blue failed for the sixth time to record his 17th victory. Craig Skok, the fourth Atlanta pitcher, picked up his third victory in four decisions.

Reds 6, Padres 2

Home runs by Ken Griffey, Johnny Bench and Pete Rose powered Cincinnati over San Diego. Griffey's homer, a three-run blast in the third inning, was the third hit off Padre starter Bob Ovwchinko. It was followed by a solo shot by Bench, his 21st of the season. Rose's fourth-inning shot was an inside-the-park home run.

Phillies 5, Cubs 3

Larry Bowa's run-scoring double capped a three-run rally in the seventh and Ted Sizemore's sacrifice fly in the eighth drove in the winning run as Philadelphia defeated Chicago. The Phillies completed a 15-game, five-city road trip during which they won nine games.

Cardinals 5, Pirates 4

Ted Simmons blasted a two-run homer with two out in the eighth to power St. Louis over Pittsburgh, stopping the majors' longest winning streak of the year at 11 games. Simmons' wallop off Pirate reliever Grant Jackson temporarily derailed Pittsburgh's surge in the National League East, dropping the Pirates 1½ games behind the Phillies.

Mets 9, Expos 4

Nino Espinosa scattered nine hits and Willie Montanez drove in four runs as New York hammered Montreal. Espinosa gave up one sacrifice fly and struck out two on the way to one of his easiest victories of the season. The Mets led 9-0 after the third inning.

girls tennis

Farmville 9, Beddingfield 0

Farmville Central gained a 9-0 victory over Wilson Beddingfield High School yesterday in a girls' tennis match.

Farmville had little trouble in the match, winning every set. Beddingfield won only 15 games, and only once took a Lady Jaguar past six games in a set.

The victory gave Farmville a 2-0 record.

Summary:

Diana Gordon (FC) defeated Pam Barnes, 6-2, 6-1.

Cutler Johnson (FC) defeated Boswell Hill, 8-2.
Mary Joyce Davis Ibarra (FC) defeated Jones Jeanine Richardson, 8-1.

Williamston 9, Roanoke 0

ROBERSONVILLE — Williamston High School's girls' tennis team opened the 1978 season with a 9-0 victory over Roanoke High School yesterday. It was also the season-opener for the Squaws.

Two of the six singles matches went to three sets before Williamston put them away.

Both teams return to action on Tuesday, with Tarboro at Williamston and Roanoke at Washington.

Summary:

Joanna Litley (W) defeated Nancy Roberson, 6-3, 6-2.
Mary Grace Baker (W) defeated Sherri Stout, 6-2, 6-1.

Wake, Virginia Highlight ACC

By The Associated Press

The Virginia-Wake Forest game Saturday highlights the first weekend of Atlantic Coast Conference football action.

The seasons first conference game starts at 7:30 p.m. with a crowd of 25,000 expected for the 21st contest between the two teams. The Cavaliers hold a 128 edge.

Deacon coach John Mackovic is expected to put the ball in the air in this his first game at Wake, using the passing talents of junior Ken Daly and receivers Tom Smith and Eddie Wright.

"Ken has progressed this fall and I think we can have the kind of wide open attack we want," Mackovic says. "He worked hard on his own this summer and came into camp in great shape. He's been challenged by some of our younger quarterbacks but we think he can get the job done."

In other action Saturday, N.C. State will open against East Carolina and Georgia Tech will visit Duke. The State-ECU game is also a nighter.

State coach Bo Rein says he was impressed with the Pirates' defense in their 14-6 victory over Western Carolina last week, and he's a little worried, despite a host of Pirate injuries.

"Their defense showed a lot of quickness and was well-coached," Rein said. "Offensively, they made some mistakes, but there's no question that they have a lot of big-play people. They've had a big game to get their problems corrected, but we'll be under the gun for the first time."

The Wolfpack holds a 5-3 edge in the series between the two teams. An overflow crowd is expected in the 45,600-seat Carter stadium.

Duke will be at a disadvantage against Georgia Tech,

Joyner's Plans Changed After Call Puts Him Back On Gridiron

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Two and a half weeks before the 1978 fall practice sessions were due to open at East Carolina University, D.T. Joyner had no thought of the coming season.

"I was in Fairfax, Va., just taking it easy when the phone rang," Joyner related.

The caller was ECU Coach Pat Dye, and he had a special request for Joyner. The big (6-0, 240) defensive tackle had decided to sit out the season, concentrate on wrestling, then come back for his senior year in 1979.

"I had been ranked as high as fifth in the nation in the heavyweight classification in the NCAA," Joyner explained. "I felt that if I worked hard at wrestling, I would have a good chance at placing in this year's NCAA tournament." So he decided to give wrestling his full attention, then return to football a year later.

But, Dye explained in the call, there had been a couple of injuries to players expected to fill the gap left by Joyner this year. D.T. was needed, and he responded by coming back this year instead.

"I had wrestled in one tournament during the summer, and I like to run and do push-ups, so I was in pretty good shape," the Norfolk, Va., native said.

Joyner's first game resulted in his getting nine tackles, six of them primary, and six of them for losses by the Western Carolina ball-carriers.

"There is no doubt that it was my best ball game," Joyner said. "I'd almost have to say that I played beyond my potential."

Joyner credited the newest member of the ECU coaching staff, Wayne Hall, for his improvement. "I like his style. You get more movement in it. I have felt restricted in some of our older assignments."

Coach Hall works the defensive linemen hard, Joyner added. "No body is in love with him, but the results speak for themselves. He's a good coach."

In high school, Joyner was primarily a football player, playing four years, while wrestling only one. "My speed put me in the line. If I were faster I might have played linebacker. That's what I'd really like to do."

But he doesn't think of being a defensive tackle as being "down in the pits." "It's a job, but I enjoy it," he said.

Joyner, like most of the other seniors on the team, has a bowl game in mind. "We've come closer, and we definitely want one this year. Those rings are a nice thing (rings received by bowl game players), and they stay with you for the rest of your life."

When not on the field, Joyner enjoys music, jogging and meeting people—that is, when he's not on the wrestling mat.

"I kind of felt like this would be my year to be a national contender. I guess every wrestler would like to think he could win the national title. So would I, but I'll be happy if I can place."

Whether it will be this year still is uncertain, however. With the change of plans, and a thumb problem, Joyner admits that when wrestling season rolls around, he'll take a close look at his situation. "If I think I can do it, I'll go ahead this year. Otherwise, I might wait until the following year to wrestle."

Right now, however, his thoughts are on the football field.

Missouri Hopes To Prove Poll Forecast Is Right About Irish

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Missouri Coach Warren Powers admits that "Notre Dame still is national champion until someone proves differently." On Saturday, Powers' Tigers intend to do precisely that.

Both the coach and the team he leads into South Bend to take on the Irish, ranked fifth in The Associated Press preseason football poll, have a history of pulling big upsets. And beating the defending national champions in their backyard would be a very big upset indeed.

"I'm not afraid to take this team to Notre Dame or any other place in the country," said Powers, who guided Washington State to a stunning 19-10 victory over Nebraska to open last season. Powers moved to Missouri following the 1977 campaign.

"Notre Dame has a great football team every year and certainly this year is no exception. But they have to play us too."

Missouri knocked off Notre Dame 30-26 in 1972, probably the greatest upset in the Tigers' history. They also scored a remarkable triumph in the 1975 opener by stopping Alabama 20-7.

"If you look at our situation realistically," said Irish Coach Dan Devine, "no one can expect us to repeat as national champion or even be ranked very high. We lost some excellent players through graduation and several top people expected to fill in at key positions."

In other action involving the preseason Top 20, No. 3 Penn State hosts Rutgers, No. 4 Oklahoma is at Stanford, No. 9 Southern California entertains Texas Tech, No. 10 Nebraska plays California, No. 12 UCLA is at No. 11 Washington in a nationally televised Pac-10 battle, No. 16 Texas A&M visits Kansas, 17th-ranked Florida

State is at Syracuse and No. 20 Iowa State is at Rice in a night game.

The UCLA-Washington game is more than just a season opener. It will have significant impact on the conference race.

"There are a lot of advantages and a lot of disadvantages to playing them first," said UCLA Coach Terry Donahue. "If you win, you have an excellent start. If you lose, you have to fight out of a hole the rest of the season."

"No doubt, the winner is in the driver's seat," added Huskies Coach Don James, who led his club to a surprising conference title last year and a Rose Bowl upset of Michigan.

A Real 'Class Show' Lurks Amid Saturday Night's TV Offerings

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — This Saturday night, viewers will find a new CBS show, "Paper Chase," lurking amidst an ABC

"Love Boat" rerun and an NBC trashpot exercise, "Us Against the World."
Give "Paper Chase" a try. Based on the fine 1972 movie about a flinty old Harvard law professor and a young apprentice tort-monger, it is what TV rarely offers — a show that engages one's noodle.

This class act has John Houseman reprising the Prof. Kingsfield role that won him an Oscar. James Stephens, as James T. Hart, is in the student pew Timothy Bottoms occupied in the movie.

Written by James Bridges, author of the movie script, Saturday's opener centers on Kingsfield's custom of "shrouding" the first-year law student who is the first to displease him on opening day.

When this contract-law guru so adorns a student, the victim is dead all year and won't be called on to display his legal smarts
Hart, a Minnesota farm kid, oversleeps due to a faulty alarm clock. Late to class, he expects just a lecture. He's asked to recite an assigned malpractice case instead. Instant grief.

He bumbles and mumbles. The stern old prof orders: "Loud. Fill the classroom with your intelligence." Alas, the well is dry. Hart is duly enshrouded and given a new title: "The late Mr. Hart."

At the student dorm and the pizza parlor where he works evenings, he's constantly reminded of his death both by his fellow students and a friendly young waitress (Marilyn Henner).

In chatting with his next-door dorm neighbor, a genius type essayed by Tom Fitzsimmons, he stoutly vows: "I'm not going to take being dead lying down." Easier said than done, he soon learns.

But he's aided with an offer from his neighbor to join a study group, a tribe that contains a female student with no time for amour and a New Yorker one might call an upper-class twit.

And, after a nightmare induced by fear of failure, Hart starts his student's tour of relatively easy classes and the feared arena presided over by the autocratic Kingsfield.

The old man, who we later learn has a sound reason for his apparently cruel custom of shrouding, crisply warns his acolytes:

"You come in here with a head full of mush. I send you out thinking like a lawyer."

The rest of the hour involves the study group, a bit of woo from the pizza waitress and Hart's efforts to lift the dread shroud (unlike the movie, the effort doesn't involve calling the prof harsh names).

My sole fear for the series is that CBS may ask that Kingsfield be made more loveable, be given a shaggy dog or something. Hope not. The crusty old scholar is just fine as is.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, SEPT. 9, 1978

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: See understanding associates and work out a plan of action whereby you and they will be able to accomplish better results at joint projects. Evening is not a time to take strenuous exercise, but to build up vitality.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Planning for a whole new and improved set of conditions is wise. A new contact can be of great assistance to you. Meet with this person early.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be enthused about handling obligations and they are soon behind you. See a good friend and be happy. Make evening a quiet one and relax.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Do what will make your dealings with a partner more successful. Later, join forces with one who is most creative and get good results.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get to important tasks early since you are thinking clearly. You get unexpected results. Steer clear of one who opposes you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study home surroundings and see where you can make it more functional and more to your liking. Don't close your eyes to any of its drawbacks.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Have talks with interesting persons who can be helpful to you. Avoid a bigwig who has an axe to grind. Be very careful in motion, especially while out driving.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to get in touch with others and exchange views that can bring greater security. You are a fine salesperson and can use this quality to good advantage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) An early start on financial affairs sees you getting them done well in a short time. Be sure to make property repairs right away and save money.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Finish necessary shopping before you go out for fun. See what you can do to improve health. Be active.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get advice so that you can improve outside affairs and then carry through in a positive manner. Make plans now for future activities.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Daytime is best for seeing and being with good friends. Home is your best bet in the evening. Don't neglect marketing, shopping.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get involved in a community project that can enhance your position in the community. Improve credit matters also. Be careful you do not take any risks in the evening.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be able to study a project and know how to enlarge it so that it is more functional and profitable. Give as fine a comprehensive education as you can that will help your gifted child to make a success in life. Give piano lessons also, if possible.

When you signal, make your intentions as clear as possible. A half-hearted signal can be misinterpreted by partner. Watch how Ron Smith of St. Louis got his message across on this hand from the Spingold Team of Four event at the Summer North American Championships in Toronto.

East took advantage of the vulnerability to preempt with three spades despite the fact that he had only a six-card suit. However, nothing could keep South out of the auction, and West was content to defend since he had good trick-taking possibilities.

West led the king of clubs, then shifted to the two of spades. Dummy played low, East won the jack and had no trouble reading the position.

Since the deuce was the lowest spade out, his partner had to have a singleton. Therefore, he continued by cashing the ace of spades. The crucial point of the hand had been reached.

Ron Smith, sitting West, realized that there was a good chance that a second club would be ruffed by declarer. However, if his partner continued with another spade, the king of hearts would be a sure trick—and one more trick was all that was needed to sink the contract.

Smith still had to make a discard on the ace of spades. The "normal" way to discourage a club return by East would be to discard a low club, but that ran the risk of East shifting to a diamond.

Smith found a spectacular way to indicate to his partner that he would like spades continued. He discarded the ace of clubs!

East got the message. He continued with a third spade. Declarer could not ruff with the ace, for that would automatically promote the king of hearts, so he discarded a diamond, and West ruffed with the king to cap an excellent defense.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. Testify 'No Evidence' Non-Smokers Affected

First District Congressman Walter B. Jones, chairman of the House Tobacco Committee, yesterday heard recognized medical authorities testify that no valid scientific evidence exists to show that cigarette smoke poses any health hazards to non-smokers. Jones explained that the subcommittee was seeking factual information on whether non-smokers are subject to possible physical harm from cigarette smoke in their environment. He stated, "We have all seen sensational but unsubstantiated claims that non-smokers are placed in dire peril by smokers. This hearing's significance is that it deals with scientific facts, not emotions, and the facts refute such claims."

Jones added, "Those who push for unreasonable restrictions and bans on smoking in public places should take pause at the significant testimony we have just received. I am especially impressed with the quality, expertise and sincerity of our witnesses."

Dr. Suzanne Knoeble of the Indiana University Medical School noted that there is no evidence that atmospheric cigarette smoke under realistic conditions adversely affects non-smokers already suffering from heart disease. Dr. John Salvagio of the Tulane Medical Center said that tobacco smoke has not been shown to be a cause of human allergies, and Dr. Kenneth Moser of the University of California at San Diego, School of Medicine, asserted that current findings fail to show that public smoking poses a health hazard to the lungs of non-smokers.

Witnesses included a lung specialist, pathologist, allergist, pharmacologist, anthropologist, environmental expert, and public opinion expert.

Farmville Mart Prices Steady

FARMVILLE — Grade for grade, prices for yesterday's tobacco sales were steady. With the marketing of more leaf grades, averages held up unusually well.

Primings and lugs accounted for only a small per cent of the volume. Stabilization receipts accounted for 2.09 per cent of gross sales.

The market on Thursday sold 631,597 pounds for $896,241, for an average of $140.90 per 100 pounds.

To date, the Farmville market this year has sold 13,967,395 pounds for $18,603,284, for a season average of $133.19 per hundred pounds. This compares with $112.44 per hundred pounds at this time last year.

Miss America Contestants Show Contrast

By PETER MATTIACE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — At Miss America, the contestants are sometimes created unequal — and not just by God's design.

Behind the smiles and songs that Americans see each year on television can be loads of cash for clothes and training designed to bring the crown home to Alabama or Texas or some other state where the pageant is popular, typically in the South or West.

By contrast, some young women — those from Northeastern states for instance — are supported by little more than their enthusiasm.

Take Miss Vermont, Lisa Volkert, for instance. "I am so pleased I'm in this pageant to begin with," she says.

Now listen to Sandi Miller, Miss Texas: "Why should they send someone who isn't trained? It's a job like everything else."

Here they are, two potential Miss Americas who will compete in the pageant Saturday night.

Lisa Volkert from Middlebury, Vt., seems more like a regular woman than do many Miss America contestants. She doesn't expect to win and isn't sure she wants to.

"The idea of winning really scares me," she said. "I don't know if I could change from being a simple girl to a girl on the go all the time."

Miss Volkert, 20, said she has had "no preparation whatsoever" for the contest. She will tell jokes during her talent performance Friday night. One of her favorites:

"What are things? That's what Frank Sinatra things."

"I know I wouldn't have even won a local pageant in Texas," said Miss Volkert.

A brown-haired, hazel-eyed senior at Castleton State College majoring in theater arts.

"No one from New England has ever won," she noted. "No one from Vermont has ever been in the top 10."

Miss Vermont — who is 5foot-11, with a 34-27-37 figure — expects to go home with the minimum $2,000 in scholarships and $1,000 in clothing money given to each contestant.

So far, as Miss Vermont, she has been in four parades, been promised use of a car that she has not yet seen and has earned $50 announcing the winners in a golf tournament. "And I wasn't even paid for two of the parades," she said.

Miss Vermont also says things that most Miss America contestants don't. For example, she says that homosexuals "are people as well as we are" and those she knows are "wonderful people."

She doesn't object to people living together before marriage and she "perhaps" might find herself doing it someday.

Contestants who give all-American answers on social issues are "guarding their real opinions to win this pageant," she said. When it was suggested her candor might hurt her chances, Miss Volkert paused.

"Maybe I should've kept my mouth shut from the very beginning," she said, "but then I'd be just like them."

There's a lot riding on Sandi Miller to win the Miss America Pageant because, partner, Texas plays for keeps.

Like a Dallas Cowboy primed for the Super Bowl, the 5-foot-10, 130-pound Miss Miller has been molded into a contender by six weeks of rigorous physical and mental training.

"It's a very professional program. It's a business," says Miss Miller, 20, from Mesquite. "If you're going to be Miss Texas, you've got to do it."

Miss Miller has a $13,000 wardrobe, funded by a high-powered state pageant organization which told her not to worry about price tags. She has different advisers for her clothes, hair, makeup, interviews with judges and piano playing.

Since she was crowned Miss Texas, a state pageant official has been at her every public

TWO DIFFERENT WORLDS — Miss Texas, Sandi Miller (left), has undergone six weeks of intensive training for the Miss America Pageant. In contrast, Miss Vermont, Lisa Volkert (right) has had no preparation whatsoever, does not expect to win the title, and is not even sure she would like to. (AP Laser-photo) appearance to critique her performance. She even listens to motivational tapes while she sleeps.

"You can't afford to think negative when you're up here," she said. "You can't worry."

The brown-haired, brown-eyed Miss Miller is in prime condition after a high-protein, low-carbohydrate diet built around steak and tuna fish and designed to perfect her 36-25-36 figure. She also lifted weights and did exercises for two hours a day, six days a week.

"It was six weeks of pain and torture," she said. "They wanted to build up the muscle and take off the fat."

They did, and she is happy

... Why should they send someone who isn't trained? It's a job like everything else."

Safety Role Is Reviewed

Harold D. Megredy, safety director of the North Carolina Industrial Commission, reviewed the functions of the Safety Division of the NCIC at the Thursday meeting of the Pitt County Safety Council.

"Our primary function is accident prevention," Megredy noted, "and we hope to achieve this goal by changing attitudes."

In other business, the group voted its approval of the "Vial of Life" program sponsored by the Association of Pitt County Insurance Women. Congratulations were given to the Greenville Rescue Squad for its World's Championship in heavy rescue competition held in Texas.

The next Safety Council meeting will be held Oct. 5, 12 noon, at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. Visitors are welcome.

NOTICE OF RESALE

Under and by virtue of an order of the Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina, made and entered in the action entitled "City of Greenville, North Carolina, versus Henrietta Bernard and Ann Jeffrey," the undersigned sheriff will on the 11th day of September, 1978 offer for resale and resell for cash, to the last highest bidder at public auction, at the courthouse door in Pitt County, North Carolina, in Greenville, the following described real estate lying and being in Greenville Township, State and County aforesaid, and more particularly described as follows:

Tract One: Lying on the West side of 14th Street beginning at a point of stake in the George Bernard eastern line 65' from 14th Street and running eastwardly 12', thence running north 12' to a stake, thence in a westerly course 12' to a stake, thence in a southerly course 21' to the point of beginning.

Tract Two: Being a parcel of land described to Henrietta Bernard and Ann Jeffrey in the will of Annie Edmond in Will Book 5 388 and being a lot in the rear of Jane Wright's lot 65' from 14th Street, having the dimensions of 21' x 44'.

This is a resale of the above described property, a previous sale having been held on the day of July 24, 1978, under and by virtue of an order of the Superior Court of Pitt County, North Carolina, made and entered in the above entitled action and an increased bid having been received in the above sale, and by law, bidding will start at $128.60, which is the amount of the increased bid.

The sale will be made subject to all outstanding city and county taxes and all local improvement assessments against the above described property not included in the execution in the above entitled cause.

This the 23rd day of August, 1978.

Ralph L. Tyson
Sheriff of Pitt County
August 28, September 8, 1978

NOTICE OF RESALE

By virtue of the power of sale contained in a Deed of Trust from Johnnie Milton Moore and wife, Annie Rec Moore, to William P. Mayo, Trustee, dated October 15, 1974 or record in Book 42 at Page 644 in the office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, and pursuant to Order on Foreclosure dated July 17, 1978, and Order of Resale dated September 1, 1978, the undersigned Sheriff of Pitt County in File Number 78 SP 197, the undersigned Trustee will on Thursday, September 14, 1978, at Noon at the Courthouse door of Pitt County, offer for sale at public auction, for cash to the highest bidder, the property described in said Deed of Trust as follows:

In the County of Pitt, State of North Carolina, in the Township of Township, more particularly described as follows:

In Grimesland Township, Pitt County, North Carolina and containing 4.35 acres as shown by plat of a more complete and detailed description and further being the identical tract of parcel of land described by deed of record in Book C-30 at Page 105, Pitt County Registry, to which reference is hereby referred to be the same as conveyed to Larry D. Lewis and wife, Josephine F. Lewis, by William P. Mayo, Trustee, by deed dated June 19, 1974 of record in Book R 42 at Page 267, Pitt County Registry and being the same as surveyed by Joe M. Dresbach, Registered Surveyor, by plat of record in Map Book 8 at Page 59, Pitt County Registry.

The sale shall commence at a raised bid price of $8,450.00 and be for cash, and the highest bidder shall be required at the time of resale to deposit with the Trustee ten per cent of the first $1,000.00 of the amount bid, plus five per cent of the excess above $1,000.00 of the amount bid as evidence of good faith in bidding. Sale shall be made subject to 1978 valorem taxes.

This the 1st day of September, 1978.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — BUILDING RENOVATIONS BEGUILLED CONSERVATIVE CUSS.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: M equals T

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Postal Service Will 'Compete'

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — In a two-pronged offensive aimed at relieving financial woes, the Postal Service is taking on its main competitor in the package business and staking out a share of the growing electronic mail trade.

The separate actions came Thursday when the Postal Service governing board decided to propose lower rates for parcels sent by high-volume shippers and approved plans for an electronic message service in which businesses use computers as mail clerks.

The lower parcel post rates are aimed at the same customers who have made United Parcel Service, a private firm based in Greenwich, Conn., the overwhelming leader in the field in recent years.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger predicted the rate changes would bring enough new volume to cover the money lost through the lower rates for high-volume shippers. Bolger said the electronic mail service is expected to be in operation by mid-December at a cost of between 30 and 55 cents per letter.

It is aimed at businesses that already use computers in their mailing operations, such as those which have billing information and addresses stored on computer tape.

Fired Into Crowds

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Troops fired into a crowd of several thousand anti-government demonstrators in Tehran today and unofficial reports said as many as 100 people were killed. The clash came just hours after the government imposed martial law in the capital and 11 other cities.

No official death count was available, but the government-owned radio Tehran said "many" died.

The martial law order, which bans gatherings by more than three persons and imposes a curfew from 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. daily, is an effort to end rioting by opponents of the Shah of Iran's liberalization program. An estimated 1,000 persons have died in the disturbances in the past eight months.

The angry protesters in Jaleh square, in the eastern section of the city, shouted down religious leader Ayatullah Noori who had appealed to them to disperse.

Led by teenagers and followed by women in their traditional Moslem veils, the demonstrators marched toward a line of soldiers and began throwing bricks and rocks, witnesses said. The soldiers fired submachine guns into the air and then into the crowd.

Witnesses said "many" blood-soaked demonstrators fell to the ground and were hauled away in trucks after the two-hour battle.

Teachers In At Least 14 States 'On Strike'

City Council...

manager of the Procter & Gamble plant here, contended that a good low-costs-per-hour job could not be done without good facilities and working conditions that are conducive to productivity.

Griffin, noting that the committee has no recommendations yet, acknowledged that "something has to be done." He said that the city is faced with the situation of either changing services or changing facilities.

Cox said that if the bond issue passes, the only way that the bonds can be paid off is through taxes and he noted that the situation would be unpopular. The city will not stop growing, he mentioned, adding that Allen "runs a good organization under extreme circumstances."

The mayor predicted that the bond program would require "maybe a nickle" in tax assessment but he explained that the city hopes to offset some of the costs "so we will not just be adding five cents to cover it."

J. W. Grimes of 1702 W. Fourth Street asked if the bond program would be enough to take care of all the needs of Public Works. Cox said that the city feels the funds would be more than ample.

By The Associated Press
Teachers in at least 14 states, some of their leaders working in jail cells and union offices instead of neat, chalkboard-lined classrooms, picketed and disrupted classes today for nearly a half-million pupils.

Higher salaries was the main issue in almost all the schools districts hit by walkouts.

Classes were scheduled to begin today in Cleveland, Ohio, where officials had to obtain $20.7 million in an emergency loan from the state just to be able to open this year.

But a coalition of school employee unions, representing 10,000 teachers and non-certified personnel, urged parents to keep their children home, saying no instruction would be available at schools.

All but 800 of Cleveland's 100,000 pupils were ordered to report to their classrooms.

Cleveland teachers, who say they will not be left without a pay raise for a third straight year, now receive between $9,100 and $18,650 a year. They are seeking a 20 percent increase.

Teachers are also striking in Dayton, Ohio.

In New Orleans, the first negotiating session since schools opened Aug. 30 was set for today between representatives of the 4,300-member United Teachers of New Orleans and school board representatives.

New Orleans teachers, who earn between $10,096 and $15,000 annually, have been seeking an 8 percent increase. The school board's best offer has been 4 percent.

The city's 140 schools have remained open with non-striking teachers, substitutes and parents in classrooms, but only a third of the district's 91,000 pupils have been in class.

In Marion, Ind., where seven union leaders had been jailed when teachers struck illegally 11 days ago, a tentative settlement was announced late Thursday night.

State mediator Jack Martyn said the 500 members of the Marion Teachers Association would vote on the proposed three-year contract today. School officials said if teachers approved the contract, the system's 9,900 pupils would return to classes Monday.

Justice Britt In Rex Hospital

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice David Britt remained in guarded condition today at Rex Hospital.

Britt, who was sworn in last week as a justice of the high court, was taken to the hospital Tuesday when he experienced a feeling of weakness and unease while at work in his office.
