Palestinians Said Agreed To Hit U.S. Targets

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press Writer

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The main Palestinian guerrilla groups have decided to escalate their guerrilla operations and attack American and other Western targets because of the Camp David agreements, a senior Palestinian source said today.

"The United States and the West have been stabbing us in the back long enough, the time has come for us to strike back," the source said.

He gave no hint of anti-American attacks that might be planned. Yasser Arafat, the chief of the Palestine Liberation Organization made a similar threat Tuesday.

The PLO and other guerrilla groups have been operating independently of each other, frequently at odds, dissipating their strength through the maintenance of separate logistic and planning structures.

Their leaders are here for the "Rejection Front" summit meeting of Arab hard-liners opposed to President Anwar Sadat's dealings with Israel and the Camp David accords. The summit, which opened Wednesday, is being attended by the presidents of Syria, Algeria, Libya and South Yemen.

George Habash of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine is also attending, along with Arafat. It is his first visit to Damascus since 1968 when the Syrian government jailed him for his radical activities and he broke out of prison. Arafat in a speech to the summit Wednesday night referred to Camp David as "David's Stable" and said it AS PART OF A CONTINUING U.S. imperialist-Zionist plot to ensure American domination of the Middle East.

He mocked Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's frequent assertion that the United States holds 99 per cent of the cards for a Middle East settlement.

"We hold 100 per cent of the cards and will soon prove it," he declared, raising his arm and slicing through the air to emphasize his point.

Vance Fails Win Jordan Support; On To Saudis

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance failed to win Jordan's backing for the Camp David accords and fled to Saudi Arabia today to seek that powerful kingdom's help in the U.S.-mediated peace plan.

In seeking their support, Vance will remind Saudi officials of the deal the Carter administration pushed through Congress to sell F-15 fighter planes to their country.

Jordanian Foreign Minister Hassain Ibrahim, standing with Vance at Amman airport, said Jordan still has reservations about the Camp David plan's failure to deal with the question of the ultimate status of the Israeli-occupied West Bank and the Palestinian people.

But in his meetings with King Hussein the American received a commitment for a continuing dialogue with Jordan on its critical role in the peace process as envisaged by the Camp David agreements. America diplomats found it encouraging that Jordan was willing to continue consideration of the plan.

Vance's stop in Riyadh,

Saudi Arabia, was the second and perhaps the most critical on his three-nation tour to sell the peace framework worked out by President Carter, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin. The diplomatic drive is aimed at preventing the formation of a unified Arab front against the plan.

In the West Bank today, Israeli soldiers began dragging ultra-nationalist Jews from a mountaintop where they were trying to set up an outpost in defiance of the Begin government's agreement to suspend establishment of settlements for three months under the Camp David plan.

Meanwhile, Syria's foreign minister said Vance's visit to Damascus Saturday would have no effect on President Hafez Assad's unequivocal rejection of the Sadat-Begin agreements and all Sadat's dealings with the Israelis.

Carter spokesmen insisted during the administration's bitter fight last spring to sell the Saudis 60 F-15s that the sale was part of a plan to bolster American influence with the conservative Arab government in an effort to achieve a peace settlement for Israel.

Copter Service

ECU News Bureau

The East Carolina University School of Medicine will hold an inauguration ceremony for the Eastern North Carolina Helicopter Program Thursday, Sept. 28 at 10 a.m. at Pitt County Memorial Hospital. The public is invited to attend.

The program was developed by the medical school in cooperation with Dare County and the Department of Human Resources' Office of Emergency Medical Services.

Designed to improve the quality of emergency health care delivery in the region, the program will provide emergency helicopter transportation for patients requiring specialized care. It will serve 19 counties in the northeast section of the state and link hospitals and seven clinics.

Participating in the morning ceremony will be Dr. Walter Pories, medical director for the program and chairman of the ECU Department of Surgery; Charles Speed, EMS chief; and Frank Cahoon, Dare County sheriff.

Somoza Claims Control

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Only isolated resistance in and around the northern city of Esteli was reported following the defeat of the widespread uprising against President Anastasio Somoza, but rebel leaders outside the country vowed to fight on.

The national guard announced Tuesday night that it had regained control of Esteli, the last rebel stronghold in the 12-day uprising. But AP photographer Hal Moore entered the city briefly Wednesday and found heavy firing from rebel holdouts as the government troops advanced, clearing barricades and returning sniper fire.

The Nicaraguan Red Cross estimated at least 1,000 persons were killed in the fighting in Masaya, Leon and Chinandega. There was no report yet of casualties in Esteli and three other towns where fighting on a smaller scale was reported.

The national guard, Somoza's 7,500-man army and police force, did not allow the Red Cross to enter Esteli until late Wednesday.

Red Cross President Ismael Reyes said most of the dead counted so far were civilians killed in air and artillery attacks to soften up rebel positions in the towns before the troops moved in.

Nat'l Health Ins. Coming: Morgan

Senator Robert Morgan and Representative Walter B. Jones discussed national health insurance, natural gas pricing, CETA and welfare reform legislation with 21 members of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce at a reception in Washington, D.C. Tuesday.

"The National Health Insurance bill is Senator Kennedy's bill," said Senator Morgan. "Senator Kennedy has been working on it for a long time and in one form or another we will probably have national health insurance in the future."

"We are the only large nation that does not have national health care," continued Morgan, who did not commit his support or non-support for the proposed legislation.

Senator Morgan encouraged the chamber members to get involved with the legislative process, to contact their representatives and to become more aware of the political process of the representatives' campaigns.

Discussing welfare reform, Congressman Jones said that eliminating the federal control of the welfare funding and allowing the state and local governments to control the funding is not a solution for reform.

"When you take the matter out of the hands of the federal government and put it into the hands of the state government, it is no different," Congressman Jones said. "The government which provides the funds will keep its hands on the money."

Both Senator Morgan and Congressman Jones encouraged the chamber members to become more aware of the funding of state and local governments.

"Our country has a $50 billion deficit, and it continues to grow," said Morgan. "I suggest that you go to your local government and state government and find out exactly how much federal funding is involved in their budgets, and then ask them to discontinue asking for any more federally funded projects."

The reception was held by the chamber members for Senator Jesse Helms, Senator Morgan, Congressman Jones and their staff members. Senator Helms was unable to attend due to his convalescence from back surgery.

Prior to the reception, chamber members attended a session at the U. S. Chamber of Commerce Briefing Center.

According to Howard Wilson, chairman of the one day bus trip, and Dr. David White, co-chairman of the Congressional Action Committee of the chamber, the trip was beneficial in improving contacts with the representatives.

REFUND

I ordered $38.71 worth of merchandise from United States Purchasing Exchange in North Hollywood, Calif. in November of last year. These were supposed to be Christmas gifts and I never received them. Since then I have had untold correspondence with the company and even had the Post Office send an inquiry on my behalf, with no results. Would you try to get me a refund? Mrs. L. H.

Hotline called the company to find out the cause of the holdup on your refund. Jean Ray in the Customer Service Department found your file and told us that, in order to release a refund of more than $25, she must have in your file a copy of the money order or canceled check itself. She said she'd received only copies of the money order receipt from you. We sent her a photostat of the money order and you report that you soon received your refund.

Cholera Cases

ABBEVILLE, La. (AP) — Despite reports of one confirmed and two suspected cases of epidemic cholera in the Cajun country of south Louisiana, health officials say a large outbreak of the disease is highly improbable.

"We're not looking for an epidemic or a major outbreak" Dr. William Cherry, head of the Louisiana health department, said Wednesday. However, he conceded officials did not know the source of the disease, although cholera bacteria was found in raw sewage in nearby Kaplan.

Cholera bacteria was also found in raw sewage in Abbeville recently after officials confirmed a 44-year-old resident contracted the disease. He has since recovered.

The latest cases were a 52-year-old Abbeville woman and an adult male in Kaplan. Both were recovering, officials said.

Contempt Conviction Is Upheld By N.J. Justices

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — The New Jersey Supreme Court upheld the criminal contempt conviction of The New York Times and its reporter Myron A. Farber today for withholding notes in a murder case.

The high court ordered Farber to report back to jail on Sept. 26.

The case has attracted national attention, and its outcome could set a precedent on freedom of the press.

Farber and The Times were expected to appeal today's ruling.

The court disagreed with Farber's argument that he is protected by the First Amendment and New Jersey's shield law for reporters.

Farber was jailed for 27 days after he refused to give his notes to the judge presiding over the murder trial of Dr. Mario Jascavevich, who Farber dubbed Dr. X in a series of articles for The Times.

The Supreme Court ordered Farber released while it considered his claim that the First Amendment and the state's shield law protect him from divulging his sources or turning over his notes to a court.

Farber, meanwhile, was served Wednesday with yet another subpoena for the notes he took while investigating a series of patient deaths at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell in the mid-1960s.

The subpoena, which seeks his notes on any interviews conducted with three physicians at the hospital, was the third served on the reporter since the Jascavevich trial began in February.

Eugene Scheiman, Farber's attorney, said the reporter would not surrender the files.

After The Times published Farber's articles, Jascavevich, the hospital's former chief surgeon, was charged with murder in connection with five deaths at the hospital. He was acquitted of two of the murders.

Farber completed his third day of testimony Wednesday as defense attorney Raymond Brown worked to support his contention that the reporter conspired with former Bergen County Prosecutor Joseph Woodcock Jr. and the New York City medical examiner, Dr. Michael Baden, to frame Jascavevich for the murders.

The defense says it needs access to Farber's notes to insure Jascavevich has all evidence that might benefit him.

Farber and The Times say surrendering reporter's notes, even for only a judge's inspection, would compromise the confidentiality of news sources and harm the reporter's ability to gather news.

Ford Doubts Change In JFK Death Conclusions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Gerald R. Ford told Congress today that the Warren Commission would have broadened its inquiry into the murder of President John F. Kennedy had it known of CIA plots to assassinate Cuban leader Fidel Castro.

But he said he doubts that such an inquiry would have altered the commission's conclusion that Lee Harvey Oswald killed Kennedy and that he acted alone.

Ford, one of the three still living members of the commission, testified before the House assassinations committee. The other two, former Kentucky Sen. John Sherman Cooper and former Kennedy adviser John J.

McCloy, were to appear later in the day.

Ford said the commission knew nothing about CIA plots to assassinate Castro and CIA contacts with organized crime figures as part of those.

"Had the Warren Commission known of assassination plots directed against Castro, this might have affected the extent of the commission's inquiry," he said. "It certainly would have required the commission to extend its inquiry into those operations. But I don't think they, in and of themselves, would have changed the conclusions."

In general, the former president defended the commission's work as thorough.

Ford, who was House Republican leader at the time he served on the commission, acknowledged that he relayed information about the commission's organizational affairs to the FBI.

But he said he had no agreement with the FBI to slip information to it secretly during the commission's investigative phase.

FBI files made public last year suggested that bureau officials viewed Ford as their friend and pipeline to information about the commission's work.

Ford acknowledged that he met twice in December 1963 with Cartha DeLoach, a top aide to then-FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, and told DeLoach of the commission's internal battle over the hiring of a staff director. Ford said he and DeLoach also discussed one piece of information the commission had received but that nothing in his personal records show any contacts with DeLoach after Dec. 19, 1963.

Reading from a carefully worded statement, the former president said DeLoach's memos of those meetings "appear to be accurate, but the relationship mentioned by Mr. DeLoach did not continue during the commission's investigative phase."

The Warren Commission, headed by the late Chief Justice Earl Warren, was created a week after Kennedy was slain in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963. It was assigned to get to the root of the assassination and the murder of Oswald by Jack Ruby.

Leslie Accepts Pitt UF Role

Burroughs Wellcome Co. plant manager G. Henry (Harry) Leslie has accepted the chairmanship of the important Industrial Division of this year's United Way campaign in Pitt County.

The announcement that Leslie has agreed to head the largest of the Pitt United Way's divisions was made by Jerry Fulford, campaign chairman for 1978-79.

"The success of the Industrial Division is critical to the overall campaign and we are very fortunate to have Harry Leslie in the role of division chairman," Fulford pointed out. "I know we can count on him for an enthusiastic industrial drive."

CANDIDATE'S WIFE. Mrs. Jesse Helms, center, was visiting here yesterday.

U.S. Senator's Wife Visits Here Yesterday

"I don't make speeches, I am a talker," said Mrs. Dorothy Coble Helms, wife of U. S. Senator Jesse A. Helms, who is seeking reelection.

Mrs. Helms was in this area yesterday for receptions in Washington and Greenville and luncheon in Ayden. She has been traveling throughout the state, three days per week, since Labor Day and will continue until the election.

"I'm not trying to fill in for Jesse since his surgery — I have my schedule meeting workers and supporters, thanking and encouraging them and letting them become acquainted with me. I enjoy meeting people and going to many towns that I would otherwise not have an opportunity to visit," she said.

Mrs. Helms' chief interest is her volunteer work for the deaf. "I'm interested in doing anything I can to help the deaf assume the place in a hearing world to which they are entitled," she continued. She speaks occasionally to groups about deafness and about her project for Gallaudet College, Washington, D.C.

Through a church youth group project of her daughter's, Mrs. Helms attended classes and learned the sign language of the deaf. In addition to using sign language to communicate with deaf friends, she has taken her concern and knowledge further by working for the deaf at Gallaudet College.

Mrs. Helms was contacted by the staff at Gallaudet after they learned of her interest and she began her work there by visiting the North Carolina students who were attending the college.

She was asked if she would consider writing a series of articles for deaf children by Jack Gannon, director of alumni and public relations at the college.

The purpose of the series of articles is to update stories about interesting deaf Americans and to expand the list to include more distinguished Americans said Mrs. Helms.

She used the research facilities of the college to compile the 40 stories already written. "Deaf children don't have any heroes of their own," says Mrs. Helms. "I've tried to select different occupations and the most outstanding individuals from among the many deaf Americans who are leaders in their respective fields." There are plans for the stories to be published in book form when all 100 are finished.

Pianos Require Careful Shopping

By ELAINE Q. BARROW
AP Newsfeatures

Whether Rock or Rachmaninoff is the prevailing beat in your home, you may have decided to buy your children a piano.

It's a practical choice. Like several instruments combined into one, a piano offers a nearly complete dimension of music, classical or contemporary.

Across the nation, 259,000 pianos were bought during 1977, and the volume is expected to increase this year by 10 percent. If this figure includes you, you may welcome some pointers on how to get the most for your investment.

Costing between $1,500 and $15,000, a piano is an investment. Probably your first decision is whether you want a grand piano, the type with horizontal strings, or the upright type, which occupies less space because its strings are mounted vertically.

The grand piano is the choice of professional musicians because of its responsive touch and pure, resonant tone.

However, progressive manufacturing techniques are producing upright pianos — professional-quality consoles and studio pianos — possessing better tone quality than many small grands on the market. In recent years, nine out of 10 pianos sold were uprights.

A singular appeal of the upright piano is the styling possibilities of its cabinet and legs. Early American, French provincial, Italian provincial, Mediterranean and traditional are a few of the available styles rendered in combinations of mahogany, oak, cherry, maple, walnut and pecan.

You may ponder the advisability of buying a used piano.

Consider this: A well-made piano has an average life of 35 to 50 years. If, for example, you buy a new piano for $1,500 and it lasts 40 years, its amortized investment cost runs $37.50 a year.

By comparison, you might buy a good 10-year-old piano and save, at most, only a couple of hundred dollars — and wonder if the piano is really in good condition.

It might be prudent to consider, not the initial cost, but the cost per year.

As with all major investments, a reputable dealer is your safest source. He will help you compare piano quality so you can select the piano best suited to your needs. He can also arrange a financing plan accommodating your means.

Financing becomes a different matter, of course, if you are buying the piano for a church, club or school. Budgetary limits may be set in advance, and many decisions concerning the type and styling of the piano may await "committee decision."

As the agent of purchase, you can serve best by checking out several pianos within the specifications set by the organization.

What's in a brand name? Very little, apparently. There are about a dozen manufacturers making pianos under hundreds of brand names. Here again, the dealer can advise you with a selection.

The manufacturer's warranty is extremely important.

The law requires that the warranty be attached to the piano or be on file with the dealer. If you don't understand all of its wording, ask questions.

The warranty covers only an instrument which has been properly cared for. Ordinarily, maintenance involves having the piano tuned regularly by a qualified technician. And most manufacturers' warranties apply only so long as the original purchaser owns the instrument.

This advice and data for buying a piano come from a 32-page booklet, "Buyer's Guide for Professional Quality Pianos," prepared by the Professional Quality Institute, Elkhart, Ind., for Everett Piano Co., South Haven, Mich., 49090.

The booklet also provides technical information such as structural details, tuning and how to judge tone. Diagrams and a glossary of 60 terms are included.

Utensils Have Personalities

BLAUVELT, N.Y. (UPI) — Two new cooking utensils designed to save fuel energy have split personalities.

One consists of two identical half saucepans, total capacity, 3 pints, that set side by side on one burner. One can be used alone for cooking small amounts of food.

The other consists of three identical saucepans, total capacity, 3 quarts, shaped like pie wedges to fit together on a burner the same way. One detachable handle locks onto the pans.

Both sets are part of a new line of heavy gauge aluminum cookware with flat heat retaining bases and DuPont Silverstone non-stick interiors.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

The world is divided into two groups: those who aren't crazy about cats and those who think cats are the greatest thing to hit this country since sliced bread.

I personally cannot relate to anything that licks its feet while I'm talking to it, but I have to say since seeing cats on television, I have never seen a more impressive animal.

I used to think cats wandered from room to room looking for a velvet sofa to shed on, but since watching them on television I have gained a new respect for them. They type, answer the phone, play the piano, take baths and do the cha-chacha. In one commercial, there were 18 of them nudging one another out of a bowl of their favorite food.

If anyone out there has a cat out of work, it's their own fault.

As Mary Worth once said, "I don't mean to meddle," but it's my observation that dogs had better shape up. Just tipping over a 50-pound bag of dog food and panting isn't going to do it anymore. How much longer can they slide in on the coattails of Benji?

If dogs don't get an image-maker pretty soon, their popularity will go right down the tube.

Do dogs have a big poster going for them? Cats do. The picture of a cat hanging from a parallel bar saying, "HANG IN THERE, BABY" is a classic.

Have dogs made an impact on Washington? If so, then how come the words "fat cat" dominate the political scene.

And who can quarrel with cats' association with sex symbols. A starlet can purr like a sex kitten, but where is she if someone calls her a bow-wow?

I don't think I'm being dramatic when I say it's only a matter of time before cats hit Broadway in "CHORUS FELINE," take over movies with a thriller called, "CLAWS," and have their own TV series, "LITTER HOUSE ON THE PRAIRIE."

The other night as I was watching TV, my dog was lying on my foot snoring when I saw a cat dancing and singing on television.

That tore it. I got up and headed for the door.

"Are you going out to buy cat food?" asked my son.

"Are you kidding? I'm going out to buy a cat."

Good Results From 'Telling' Advice

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Over the years I've read many letters in your column from people complaining that a friend, relative or neighbor habitually imposes on them. Then they ask, "What should I do?" And you always trot out your stock answer, "TELL THEM HOW YOU FEEL!"

Then I'd say to myself, "What a cop-out. Everybody knows that, but they're hoping Abby can offer some magic words that will make it easier for them."

Then I was faced with a very irritating situation. A couple I'd known for years made a habit of dropping by our lake cottage uninformed every Sunday morning. They'd even bring some of their friends and spend the entire day eating our food, drinking our beer, and using our towels which we'd find wet all over the place.

I finally got fed up and told this couple in no uncertain terms that they are not to come over unless invited!

At first they were hurt, but they got over it, and when we invited them they came gladly. We're still good friends, and now I'm sorry I didn't tell them sooner.

I just want to say that what appears to be a stock answer, "TELL THEM HOW YOU FEEL," shouldn't be dismissed as a cop-out. It's really the only workable solution to many a tough problem.

NEW YORK POST READER

DEAR READER: Thanks, I needed that. Telling someone how you feel doesn't necessarily mean telling them off.

DEAR ABBY: Is divorce contagious? I'm beginning to think it is. It seems to break out in large numbers in certain communities, and even in certain families.

If divorce is contagious, some smart scientist could make a fortune if he came up with a vaccine to prevent it. What are your thoughts on the subject?

YOUNG PROFESSOR

DEAR PROF: Divorce is not contagious, but it breaks out in certain communities because some people who have only considered it have gathered the courage to go through with it after friends and relatives have made the daring plunge. The only way to prevent divorce is to eliminate marriage.

DEAR ABBY: What do you do when people ask to borrow your comb?

New Bank Branch Is Formally Opened In Farmville Yesterday

FARMVILLE — A dollar-bill covered ribbon was cut asunder yesterday afternoon to officially open a branch of Edgecombe Bank and Trust Company here.

The office is located in Farmville Square Shopping Center here. It has been operating in the new building, constructed by the local Farrior and Sons construction firm, since mid-July. A mobile unit was used from Aug. 17, 1977 until the building was occupied.

C. J. Harris, a Greenville native, is manager of the Farmville office and a vice president of the bank which has offices in Tarboro, Fountain and Oak City, also.

Members of the local board of managers are John B. Lewis Jr., chairman; Sara H. Albritton, James B. Hockaday, Linwood E. Mercer, Donald R. Parker and Dr. Thomas A. Paterson.

Bank staff members besides Harris are Joy B. Murphrey, administrative assistant and operations supervisor; Cynthia J. Corbett, customer service representative; Christie Albritton, teller operations supervisor; and Karen Avery, accounting services supervisor.

Edgecombe Bank has operated since 1942 and has assets of $60 million, with stockholders in Pitt, Edgecombe, Greene, Martin and Nash counties, Harris said.

Mayor Albritton, who cut the ribbon, was invited to give the 25 dollar bills attached to it to her favorite charity. She chose the Farmville Rescue Squad.

Seeing More Quality Leaf Removed After Prison Knifing

FARMVILLE — Demand continued Wednesday on the Farmville Tobacco Market for practically all grades of tobacco, according to Louis N. Williams, sales supervisor, Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Williams noted an increase in marketing of quality leaf grades that has brought averages far above last year.

Top practical price paid Wednesday was $1.60, with a top price of $1.70 paid by companies. Stabilization receipts accounted for 33 percent of gross sales yesterday.

The Farmville Tobacco Market sold 616,543 pounds Wednesday for $922,879, an average of $149.69 per hundredweight. To date, the Farmville market has sold 18,335,229 pounds for 25,063,529, an average of $136.70 per hundredweight, compared with $116.90 last year.

Rescued After Liferaft Ordeal

BOSTON (AP) — Two Massachusetts men were rescued after spending four days in a liferaft following the burning and sinking of their lobster boat, the Coast Guard reported.

Lt. Cmdr. Ned Lofton said David Burke, 35, of Marblehead and James Ridgeway, 35, of Beverly were reported in good condition at Montauk Point, N.Y. They were picked up Wednesday by a rescue craft 30 miles south of Block Island, R.I.

Lofton said Burke's 45-foot boat caught fire and sank Saturday before the pair could radio for help.

Removed After Prison Knifing

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Fifteen prisoners have been transferred from the Adult Correctional Institution in Cranston to the federal prison in Danbury, Conn., following the stabbing of a state prison guard, authorities say.

The transfer Wednesday night followed the stabbing of rookie guard Dana K. Lassy, 24, at the maximum security unit of the Cranston prison Monday. Lassy is still in critical condition at Rhode Island Hospital, and a general lockup remains in effect at the prison.

Authorities refused to say whether any of the 15 inmates were suspects in the stabbing.

Solicitation Permits OK'd

Workers will wear identification badges while conducting the solicitation.

Betty Opines Nixon Pardon Defeated Ford In '76 Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Betty Ford says she and former President Gerald Ford believe his pardon of Richard Nixon after the Watergate affair was the main reason Ford was not reelected in 1976.

In her new autobiography, excerpted in the October issue of Ladies Home Journal, the former first lady said that when Ford pardoned Nixon in September 1974 her husband told her it was "the right thing to do."

"And he's never changed his mind" she writes, "though we both believe the pardon, more than anything else cost him the 1976 election."

Explaining the reason for the pardon, Mrs. Ford quotes Hugh Sidey's book "Portrait of a President," as saying "it rested upon the simple convictions of a plain person that the nation needed to put Watergate behind it and that a sick and burdened man needed now to be left alone."

She contends that "it was the plain truth, but the public didn't buy it."

And even though the new president's popularity "plummeted almost overnight," Mrs. Ford said her husband "was not resentful."

It was just 18 days after the Nixon pardon that her doctors discovered she had cancer.

Mrs. Ford, who has suffered for years with a pinched nerve and arthritis, also tried to put an end to "public conjecture about my health" that has stemmed from her 1974 breast cancer operation.

After two years of chemotherapy, she now has "a bone scan every six months, and that's about it."

"Apart from the arthritis and the pinched nerve, I'm fine," she said. "My cancer checkups show I'm clean."

The book also reveals that while Ford was vice president, their daughter, Susan, was put under Secret Service guard because she had apparently been selected as a target by the same terrorist group that kidnapped Patty Hearst.

The Secret Service, which had previously protected only Ford, telephoned one Friday and told Mrs. Ford: "Don't let Susan out this weekend; she's not to leave the house."

The authorities had turned up a list with three names on it written by the Symbionese Liberation Army, she said.

"One of the people, a college professor, had already been shot and killed, the second person was Patty Hearst, who'd been kidnapped. And Susan, because she was the daughter of the new vice president, was the third," Mrs. Ford said, describing the previously undisclosed threat.

Miss Hearst, daughter of newspaper publisher Randolph Hearst, is serving a prison term for taking part in an SLA-staged bank robbery.

Mrs. Ford also gave details of her nervous breakdown in the mid-1960s and reveals in the book that her recent drinking problem was not her first.

She blamed her bouts with alcohol on a common Washington ailment — the loneliness of the political wife.

Police List 3 Accidents

An estimated $2,400 property damage resulted from three traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police here yesterday afternoon.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 3:40 p.m. collision on 14th Street, 20 feet East of the Charles Street intersection involving a car driven by Ricky Level Walthall of Lynchburg, Va., and a truck operated by Steven Craig Lawrence of Fayetteville.

Investigators, who charged Lawrence with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, set damage to the vehicles at $500 each.

Cars driven by Rosalind Tucker Branch of 1812 Rosewood Dr. and Elizabeth Alexa Hill of 203 West Martins Dr. collided about 5:10 p.m., police said, on Greenville Boulevard, 150 feet West of the Charles Street intersection, causing an estimated $300 damage to the Branch car and $500 damage to the Hill auto.

Officers said a 4:30 p.m. collision on Washington Street, 150 feet North of the 14th Street intersection involved a car driven by Larry Luther Averette of 88 Barnes St. and a trailer.

According to officers, the trailer, being pulled by a car driven by Stephen Dixon of Route 1, Winterville, came loose from the car and struck the Averette car, causing an estimated $600 damage to the car. No damage resulted to the trailer.

Dixon was charged by investigators with failing to secure his load.

A New Industry Is Welcomed

Ajax Magnethermic Corp. of Warren, Ohio will soon be manufacturing steel induction furnaces and assembling electric controls in the building which was owned by Sonoco Products Co. in Winterville.

The transaction means a new heavy industry will soon be operating in our county, with 50 persons employed with a year and in excess of 150 employees by the third year of operation.

The corporation will add a bay area of around 21,000 square feet to the building to accommodate 25-ton cranes for the assembling process. The present building has 45,808 square feet of space.

Ajax has worldwide sales of over $38 million and employs around 800 persons.

The announcement of the industrial development was made by Bruce Beasley, Jr., chairman of the Pitt County Development Commission.

The building was originally built for Sonoco to produce composite cans for "Pringles" potato chips.

The addition of Ajax Magnethermic Corp. to the Pitt County industrial base is welcomed. Thanks to the availability of an adequate building and the use of bond financing through the Pitt Revenue Bond Authority an outstanding industry has been attracted to our county.

Lack Of Rain Makes Big Difference

Farming is a tough business.

Eastern North Carolina farmers got pretty good weather through the summer for tobacco and corn crops. Now, however, peanut growers are anxiously awaiting rain to save their crop.

Rain softens the fields so that the mechanical harvesters can operate most efficiently. Lack of rain could mean a $5 million drop in the predicted value of the crop — and that could be the difference between profit and loss for the peanut growers.

No Statewide Land Policy

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — It is now evident that there will be no push for a statewide land management act in the 1979 General Assembly.

It has been widely expected that such a statewide counterpart to the Coastal Area Management Act (now in effect in 20 coastal counties) would be forthcoming.

The land Policy Council has devoted numerous hours over many months to development of a proposal, and as the coastal law was the center of bitter political fights in the Legislature over the years it has been both widely assumed and flatly stated by various officials that a statewide program would follow.

Howard Lee, secretary of the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, signaled the major change in plans to the Advisory Committee on Land Policy at its recent organizational meeting.

"We are committed to making wise use of our land ... but not to statewide planning, rather to local land use planning — statewide," Lee said in outlining for the committee its task in advising him and Gov. Jim Hunt on what land use policy should be put forth in the upcoming General Assembly session.

No Center

Lee added bluntly: "We don't believe that we are capable of sitting here in Raleigh and making decisions as to what is to be done in your communities."

The advisory committee is chaired by Jonathan B. Howes, a professional planner and director of regional studies at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He, as are most of the others on the 26-member committee, is active in local politics.

The Coastal Management Act reflects the state's "traditional caution" in dealing with land ownership. Howes observed. But as for the question of extending that approach to the remainder of the state, "Many feel strongly that this would be inappropriate. That is not on the agenda of this department, nor of this committee," the chairman said.

Howes characterized the advisory committee as composed of community leaders having "an economic, political, and social interest in land development."

BILL NOBLITT

The coastal law requires each county to develop a plan for land use to be approved by state officials. The Coastal Resources Commission comprises a policy board which oversees the program. Certain areas are designated for various uses, and particularly vulnerable regions (marshes, beaches, etc.) are identified as Areas of Environmental Concern in which development is limited.

The proposed statewide program as developed by the Land Policy Council called for a mountain area and a Piedmont area counterpart of the Coastal Resources Commission, and a statewide commission as well.

State-mandated land use plans would have been required of each county.

Areas

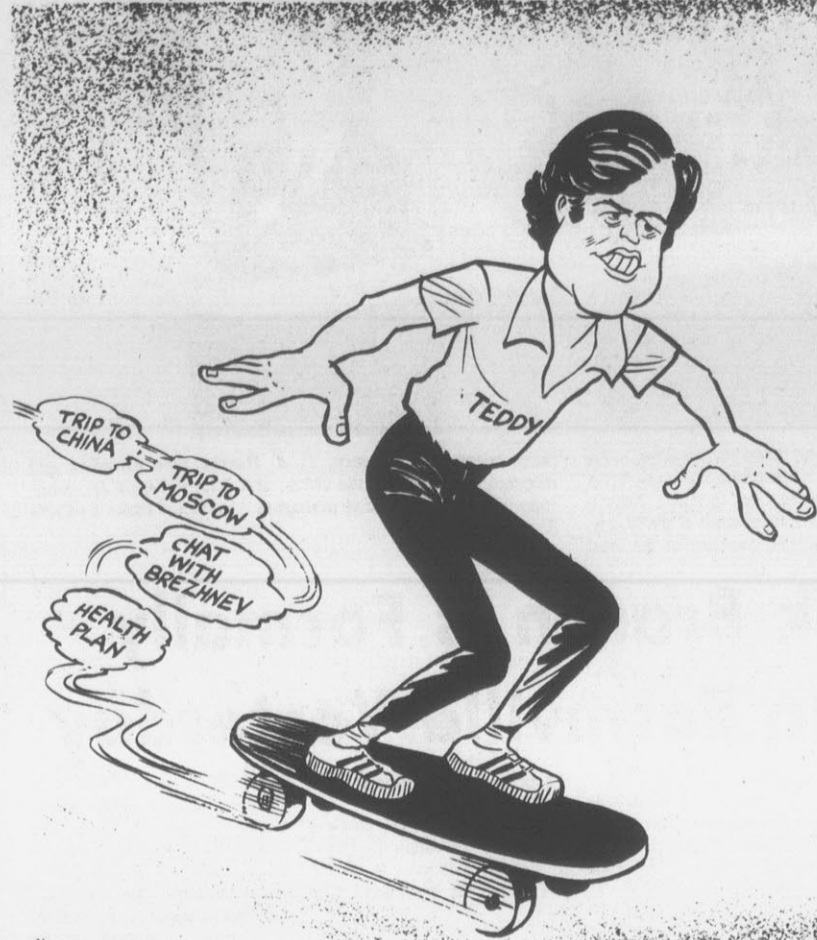

Those plans would essentially establish areas of urban growth, developing urban growth, limited growth, and restricted growth within each county. Local ordinances and zoning regulations would have implemented the plans on the ground.

Lee made it clear in his comments that neither he nor Gov. Hunt are any less committed to the need for land use management techniques to provide "wide use of land as well as an atmosphere of livability for our people."

But the big change is that rather than attempting to push a statewide law, the administration will push a Balanced Growth Policy with development guidelines as part of that package.

One of the reasons for the shift is that about 71 counties are now doing their own planning, in addition to numerous municipalities. This growing local desire to guide and control development has convinced state officials that in the long run state assistance to local governments in such activity will work more effectively.

NO, OF COURSE HE'S NOT RUNNING!

Flying Spirit Soars

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press Writer

To swim in an ocean of air. To drift above the earth with clouds as companions. To glide. To soar. To fly.

America is flying. In single-engine propeller planes and noiseless gliders and sail planes. In bright colored hot air balloons and hang gliders — just a pair of wings strapped to the shoulders.

Aviation isn't just being discovered. After all, Leonardo da Vinci designed a flying machine as early as the 15th century. And who can forget the jerky films of the comic and often tragic misadventures of those who tried to master nature at the turn of this century?

But interest today is greater than ever, air enthusiasts around the nation say. "We're no longer a minority," says Bill Ziminsky, owner of Technical Aerosevices Inc. in Bedford, Mass. "In the last couple of years, more and more people have taken an interest in it."

Ziminsky, also a flight instructor, teaches about 100 students a year at his school, which opened in 1969. They range in age from 16 to 50. And although 90 percent of the students are male, there is an increasing number of women coming in for pilot's licenses.

The number of licenses issued by the Federal Aviation Administration has increased steadily over the past four years. In 1974, the agency issued 48,501; last year, there were 54,657.

"It's just something I always wanted to do," says Michael Smart, a 25-year-old bank worker, who is studying flying. "As a child, I always had model airplanes and spaceships. I always had a feeling in me that I wanted to be up there."

"When I fly, I feel like I'm in a whole different world. It's a feeling of freedom, independence — of knowing you have the ability to leave terra firma."

Robert Dalin, marketing vice president for Teterboro Aircraft, says sales of Cessnas and Pipers have increased since 1976. Cessnas range in price from about $20,000 to $1.8 million, he says, although most private owners can buy planes

Now Institutionalized

WASHINGTON—Let me reminisce for a moment, if I may, about how things were 30-odd years ago, because it ties in with how things are in Washington today and it all leads up to a rhetorical question: How did we ever get along without Sam?

Sam is Sam Brown, the one-time hot-eyed radical activist who cooled off a bit, became state treasurer of Colorado, and landed in Congress is about to give Sam three lovely little new bureaucracies. The prospect takes me back, it truly does, to a time before Sam Brown was born.

I came to Richmond, Va.,

as a cub reporter for the News Leader in the spring of 1941. Before long, I inherited what was known as the Main Street beat, a collection of banks, brokerage houses, miscellaneous federal agencies, the post office, and the federal courts — and the Community Chest. It was an experience worth remembering.

The Community Chest was housed in an old building down around Seventh and Main, with a rickety open ironwork elevator that ground majestically up and down. The offices were shabby, but they radiated a kind of joy. Except for a small paid staff, volunteers ran everything. Richmond was still a totally segregated city, but the Chest offices provided a cheerful exception. Blacks and whites worked together and together they got things done. The first families of Richmond accepted the fund-raising burden out of a sense of noblesse oblige, and for years Richmond ranked among the leading cities of the nation in per capita giving.

This was a totally voluntary operation. There was nothing institutional about it. No tax funds ever were involved anywhere. The people of Richmond, through their Community Chest, looked after the people of Richmond.

Well, the world spins around. This month, Congress will to establish three new programs, under the spreading wings of ACTION. These are the Urban Volunteer Corps, the Good Neighbor Fund and the Urban Crime Prevention Program. These are three little bureaucratic seeds. Given a year or so to get their roots established, they will grow like crabgrass and pokeweed.

This is now Sam Brown explains it: "The Urban Volunteer Corps would mobilize professionals to share their managerial and technical services on a part-time basis with fledgling community associations...The Good Neighbor Fund would bring seed money, quickly and without the usual bureaucratic red tape, to local non-profit groups that are seeking to start a food co-op for the poor or a mobile health clinic for the aged...The Urban Crime Prevention Program would seek to involve everyone in the community in reducing street crimes..."

For openers, the first year, the three programs would cost $50 million.

How in the world did these

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

Your editorial of Sept. 13, entitled "Apparently Over-Stated Case," was quite a smoke screen. But then, smokers in general have become quite adept at rationalizing their practice.

It is quite a convoluted to go from the statement, "there is a lack of scientific information incriminating atmospheric tobacco smoke as a health hazard" to your conclusion "the lack of evidence refutes the claims that cigarette smoke adversely affects non-smokers."

I'm sure we could get some "scientists" to testify "there is a lack of scientific information incriminating atmospheric flatulence as a health hazard." Would it then be reasonable to assume "the lack of evidence refutes the claims that flatulence relief on elevators adversely affects the non-flatulent individuals occupying the same elevators?"

A great many non-smokers are definitely adversely affected by cigarette smoke. Whether or not "scientific information" shows "atmospheric tobacco smoke" to be long term or significant health hazard, many non-smokers suffer itching and burning eyes, throats and lungs when exposed to tobacco smoke for relatively short periods of time. When they are able to leave the contaminated areas, they often find it necessary to bathe and change clothes to evade the stench which has permeated their clothing and hair and which clings to their skin.

Just as fishermen acclimatize to the constant odor of fish, perhaps smokers have acclimatized to their habits to the point they just don't understand how really offensive their smoke is to non-smokers.

It is encouraging to see your statement "Any individual has the right to choose not to smoke..." Unfortunately, it is a choice frequently not available, due to the intentional or ignorant inconsideration of many smokers in public places.

HUMANS RIGHTS SURVEY

The Bonn White Paper

By EDITH KERMIT ROOSEVELT

When President Carter visited Bonn in July, German legislators were circulating a White Paper concerning the increased violations of the human rights of Germans in Communist countries since the Helsinki agreements were signed.

The document produced by the Joint Bundestag Group of the Christian Democratic Union and the Christian Social Union stated: "Since the signing of the Conference on Security and Co-operation (the Helsinki agreements), the situation of more than three and a half million persons of German nationality or ethnic origin has not improved; in some cases it has deteriorated."

The eminent legal and political experts who worked on the White Paper found that not only have the rights of Germans been violated on a massive scale since the Helsinki agreement was signed in 1975, but also the rights of Germans as a national group.

The 3.5 million Germans referred to by the CDU and CSU comprise 1.2 million German nationals in the territories east of Oder and Neisse, about 200,000 persons of Germanic origin in Poland, about 2 million people of German origin in the Soviet Union (including the remainder of the German nationals who were forcibly taken from their homeland after World War II), between 85,000 and 130,000 Sudetan Germans in Czechoslovakia and about 360,000 persons of German origin in Rumania.

The West German parliamentarians focused especially on the plight of the 16,790,000 Germans in the German Democratic Republic (GDR). According to the White Paper, entitled "On Human Rights Situation in Germany and of the Germans in Eastern Europe": "People are still having to die or suffer simply because they exercise the human right of free movement in their own country. Some 17 million Germans in the GDR and East Berlin are denied elementary human rights."

Over the past 16 years, the legislators said, a total of 3,000 people have been arrested trying to escape over the Berlin Wall. In addition, there have been 182 people killed along the German border by mines, shot by guards, or firing devices, or killed by other means.

"Since the Helsinki agreements," the document went on to say: "these barriers and devices and the various other measures have not been removed; on the contrary, they have been increased and made more efficient."

For instance, the White Paper reproduced a photograph of refugee Hans Friedrich Franck, 31, of Meissen (GDR), an engineer, as he lay dying of fatal wounds inflicted by the SM 70 automatic shooting devices that are attached to every fourth concrete post of the metal trellis fence at dif-

Strength For Today

Someone has called the period in which we live, "The Paper Age". We read more books, magazines and newspapers in a day than our forebears two hundred years ago did in a year. All this paper contains manifold theories explaining what is the matter with the world, how we can avoid trouble and gain yappiness, how we can develop scintillating personalities, how we can rise from mediocrity to wealth.

Of course, people have been achieving these goals for a long time by a combination of hard work, imagination, experience and religious faith. And it would appear that the actual experience they got from moving ahead on their projects was much more valuable than the vicarious experience people get today by reading "how to do it" publications.

Despite all our paper solutions, our real problems remain with us. "The Paper Age" will solve little, because life is both too complex and too simple to admit of paper solutions.

Why Bother To Save Anymore?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Why should you buy U.S. Savings Bonds — or, in fact, save at all?

In view of a government-induced inflation rate that exceeds the return on savings bonds — 6 percent if held for at least five years, less if sold before then — the question was asked here recently.

Prompting it was the realization that 10 percent inflation for five years, for instance, would reduce today's $75 bond to pretax buying power of $61.16 rather than the $100 indicated by Uncle Sam.

That costly possibility didn't seem to fit the tone of Uncle Sam's recent promotional message that owning Savings Bonds was "no war of nerves" but "all peace of mind."

While losing money and being taxed for it? While saving for retirement, as suggested by Uncle Sam, and then finding there aren't nearly enough funds? While Sam's deficits fuel further inflation?

Uncle Sam was upset by the criticism. His spokesman, Jesse L. Adams, deputy director of the bonds division, didn't dispute the inflation facts, but he felt reasons remained for buying U.S. Savings Bonds.

He was asked, therefore, to prepare a response, much of which is relayed without editorial comment.

"Surveys indicate the three main reasons (for buying U.S. Savings Bonds) are: safety of the bond, interest rate and tax deferral, and it's good for the country.

"Savings Bonds, backed by the full faith and credit of the U.S. Government, are the ultimate in safety. There are no defaults, and lost, stolen or destroyed bonds are replaced free by the government.

"In addition, since Savings Bonds are immune from market fluctuations, their value can never be less than the amount paid for them.

"Savings Bonds pay 6 percent, compounded semi-annually, when held to their 5-year maturity. Six percent — in tandem with tax exemption and tax deferral features — can provide even higher effective yields.

"No state or local income taxes are ever due on the bonds, and federal income tax can be deferred until cash-in time or final maturity.

"The third reason — patriotism and the country's good — is also important ...

"Also ... they provide needed stability to the debt repayment process.

"... another major reason why people buy bonds is their ease of purchase. Almost 40,000 banks or savings institutions sell them. In addition, 9.5 million Americans buy them at work through a payroll savings plan.

"The plan 'freezes' the saver into regular savings and provides for a painless kind of fiscal discipline ...

"As for inflation, that eats holes in everyone's billfold, and affects all forms of savings and investments. Probably no form of liquid saving can 'keep up' with today's inflation.

"But not saving is not the answer!"

—Lynn Caverly

fering heights facing the GDR & devices which the White Paper said have been extended an additional 60 km along the intra-German border after the Helsinki Pact was signed. Franck's medical report reads in part: "The irregular shaped, jagged metal splinters, which have the same effect as a dum-dum bullet, if not worse, has shredded Franck's vascular structure below the groin."

In another section of the report, the Bundestag members found that "free speech and freedom of information, as well as freedom of conscience and religion, are still not respected in the GDR."

For instance, the White Paper said that anti-church activities in the Communist GDR and East Berlin have been "noticeably stepped up." Teachers in the state-controlled schools and government propaganda are pointing out "the advantage to be gained by early withdrawal from the church will be better occupational opportunities and preferential treatment in the allocation of flats for young married people."

Among many examples listed of artists and intellectuals who are persecuted is that of Prof. Robert Havemann, the well-known scholar, who remains under strict house arrest in East Berlin since November 1976 for expressing critical views in the West German press about conditions in the GDR.

According to the White Paper, there are about 4,000 and 5,000 political prisoners in the GDR alone and "prison treatment in the GDR, even after the (Helsinki) signing ... falls short of even the minimum guarantees endorsed."

pleasant and desirable ventures get to be a responsibility of the federal government? Surely it must be possible in the 145 major cities of Sam Brown's domain for local people to take care of local problems. Brother Brown has examples of what his salaried functionaries would do: If a neighborhood group wanted to paint a wall mural, federal taxes would provide the paint and brushes. If a neighborhood group wanted to plant a garden, Sam would provide the tools, fertilizer and seed.

These simply are not federal functions. These are local responsibilities. And to the extent that Washington intrudes, with professional advice, tax subsidies and forms to be filled in, self-reliance diminished and true voluntarism seeps away.

Balk At Any Wage Restraints

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Steelworkers say they will be glad to support President Carter in a stepped-up fight against inflation, but not if it means restraining wage increases.

Carter went before a convention of the United Steelworkers union on Wednesday to seek organized labor's cooperation with a tougher anti-inflation program that he said would be announced soon.

"Sure, he'll get cooperation from us," said Domenick DiPilato, a delegate from North Adams, Mass. "That is, to the degree we can give it to him. But he's got to do something in regard to prices, especially in getting health costs down."

DiPilato, like several dozen other delegates interviewed after Carter's speech, would not pledge cooperation by voluntarily holding down large wage gains steelworkers have won in recent contracts.

"We feel we're not responsible for inflation," said James Baker, a delegate from Gary, Ind. "We feel our wages are just catching up with higher prices. We'll help on this inflation fight, but our wages have to keep pace."

That is not the kind of response Carter administration officials want to hear from organized labor, which thus far has balked at government pleas to show wage restraint at the bargaining table.

The administration is particularly concerned with large unions such as the 1.4 millionmember United Steelworkers, whose wage gains have been exceeding the rise in the cost of living.

Union members employed by major steel producers make an average of $9.80 an hour, up 6 percent from 1974.

"We must join together to fight this enemy, inflation," Carter told the 3,800 delegates attending the week-long convention.

"As both business and labor try to catch up with past inflation, they keep raising prices and wages just to protect themselves, and in the end, no one wins," he said.

Carter confirmed for the first time that his administration was preparing a new inflation program, which he said would strengthen "our limited arsenal of weapons against inflation."

He promised the program will be "fair" to labor. "At the same time, it will be tough. I will ask for restraint and some sacrifice from all," he said.

"I will ask you to consider what I will have to say with open minds and in a spirit of cooperation and patriotic concern."

The program reportedly centers on voluntary guidelines that would seek to limit wage increases to about 7 percent a year and price increases to less than 6 percent. Inflation currently is running at an annual rate of nearly 10 percent.

Labor leaders say such a program would be unfair to

Advise Courts Martial For 2 Drill Instructors

FORT JACKSON, S.C. (AP) — General courts-martial have been recommended for two drill instructors charged in the deaths of two recruits who collapsed from heat stroke last June, Army officials say.

Also, another drill instructor, Staff Sgt. David A. Phillips, 29, of Springdale, Ark., was charged with one count of dereliction of duty for failing to render first aid to Pvt. Wayne A. Krassow, according to Army officials.

The commander of the 1st Basic Training Brigade, Col. John W. Crancer, said he recommended Tuesday that Sgt. Willie L. Alexander, 24, of Timmonsville, S.C., and Staff Sgt. Lawrence Chapman Jr., 33, of Pickens, S.C., be tried on charges of involuntary manslaughter, dereliction of duty and maltreatment.

Alexander and Chapman were suspended with pay from their duties and charged shortly after Krassow, of Cygnet, Ohio, and Pvt. Lester T. Watts of York, S.C., died of heat strokes they suffered June 29.

The two 18-year-old recruits were stricken while undergoing nighttime physical training at the Army training base in temperatures of more than 90 degrees.

Krassow died that night. Watts died early the next day at a base hospital of heart failure brought on by heat stroke, Army doctors said.

The Army later said the trainees had undergone "excessively strenuous and prolonged physical exercise." Crancer said he sent his recommendations to Maj. Gen. John B. Blount, the base commander, who can take one of several actions ranging from dropping the charges to referring the case to trial.

Blount will obtain legal advice and will probably decide how to proceed with the case sometime next week, Crancer said.

If convicted, Chapman and Alexander could receive sentences of up to 8½ years each in Army prisons.

Phillips was referred to trial on a special court-martial by Lt. Col. A.M. Holder Jr., commander of the 3rd Battalion, 1st Basic Training Brigade.

Lois Duke, a spokeswoman at Fort Jackson, said a special court-martial deals with less serious charges than a general court-martial, which has been recommended for Alexander and Chapman.

Phillips could receive a maximum sentence, if convicted, of six months at hard labor, forfeiture of two-thirds of pay for six months, reduction to the lowest enlisted grade and a bad conduct discharge, she said.

Fought Against Her Disability

MIAMI (AP) — Barbara Freund was always one of the brightest in her class at Brooklyn.

By the time she was 12, she had skipped two grades and was busy helping slower classmates when she was not breezing through her own ninthgrade work. She prayed she could pursue a career of helping the handicapped.

But an automobile accident in 1966, as her family drove north from a Florida holiday, left her paralyzed and speechless. Her doctors said she would always be that way. They were wrong.

While her brain had been badly damaged and her thought and movement suppressed, she and her family drew from deeper resources.

"I felt in some way the accident was God's answer to my prayers," she says today.

Aching all over, Barbara learned to move her arms, to pull herself along, eventually to walk on legs that hung useless before. She learned to speak again, laboriously trying to make words over and over.

"My mother simply wouldn't let me give up," she said. "She kept saying to me, 'You can do it, you can do it.' I heard those words even in my sleep."

Returning to school, she was told she would have to start at the level of a 5-year-old. Some teachers had little sympathy.

"Can you imagine," she said, "I'd never made a grade lower than a 97. Now I was making zeros. It was heartbreaking. At night, I'd try to study and the next day I couldn't remember a thing."

Her family moved to Miami in 1967, and Barbara finished high school and Miami-Dade Community College. At Florida International University she majored in special education.

"I felt that there would be no problem in getting a job," she said. "I am a living example that people with disabilities can be helped."

However, when she looked for work she found her disabilities stood in her way. Her speech is still slow and her handwriting awkward.

"At first, this frustrated me," she said. "Then I decided to do private tutoring and sometimes I'm called to substitute teach. Now I'm not sure that I want to teach in a regular classroom setting. I have had so much success with the one-to-one tutoring I do."

There is more to Barbara's story. There is Sandy Levy, the commercial photographer she wed three months ago.

"I knew right away he was the one," she recalls of their meeting at a party.

Sandy ignored her that first night, but both turned up at another party. "This time, I plopped myself down next to him, and talked his head off," she said. Levy noticed.

"I saw the real Barbara," he says. "She was beautiful. I didn't see her handicap."

Grant Approved For ECU Dept.

WASHINGTON D.C. — Congressman Walter Jones announced the approval by the Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, of a $43,489 grant to the Department of Chemistry, East Carolina University.

Jones said that the purpose of the grant is to maintain a free loan service of captioned film and instructional media for the educational, cultural, and vocational enrichment of the deaf.

He added that the grant will provide for acquisition and distribution of media materials and equipment, provide contracts and grants for research into the use of media, and train teachers, parents and others in media utilization.

New Shorthand Course Okayed

The Greenville School of Commerce has received approval from the State Board of Education to offer a Medical Shorthand Course, which will include terminology and transcription.

Four months will be required for the day class and eight months for the night class. For more information, call 752-3177.

Lawmen To Be Honored

Dr. Charles McDowell, professor and chairman of the Administration of Justice Department of Guilford College, will be the guest speaker at the Law Enforcement Appreciation Dinner tonight, 7 p.m., at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The dinner, sponsored by the Law Enforcement Committee of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce, will allow chamber members an opportunity to show their appreciation for law enforcement officers in the Greenville-Pitt County. Approximately 240 law enforcement officers and chamber members are expected to attend.

Dr. McDowell has over 25 years of experience in the field of law enforcement, including instructional experience in the area of police science. Dr. McDowell has published several articles on law enforcement.

According to Ian Smith, chairman of the dinner, Dr. McDowell will salute the dedicated services of the local law enforcement officers and encourage improved relationships between the citizens of the area and officers.

For more information about the dinner, contact the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce, 752-4101.

Health Service Corps Turns To Urban Areas

By MALCOLM N. CARTER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — She is in the front line of the federal government's attack on a problem in cities, and her weapon is a stethoscope.

Dr. Patricia Salomon works for the burgeoning National Health Service Corps, which expanded its medical care this year beyond rural areas to some 100 urban neighborhoods from New Orleans to Seattle.

For next year, the 5-year-old agency has requested $62.9 million for its programs, more than double its budget when it served only rural areas. Its rolls also have more than doubled, to 1,350 doctors, physicians' assistants, nurse practitioners and dentists.

Where only a handful of these were offering the urban poor an alternative to traditional health care two years ago, the number this year has increased to one in five. Typical is Mrs. Salomon, a pediatrician in a community program in Manhattan's Lower East Side.

"We help our patients take a more active role in their health care," says the jeans-clad Mrs. Salomon, who greets the parents of some patients with an affectionate buss. "We know who they are."

A physician's assistant and a nurse practitioner, both paid by the corps, work with her in the gaily painted townhouse operated by the Betances Health Unit for roughly 800 patients so far. Complex cases are referred to a visiting internist or elsewhere.

Unhurriedly and sympathetically, in Spanish or in English, the team extracts medical histories, performs tests that have been neglected or feared over the years and examines white, black and Hispanic patients long used to shutting from one nameless face to the next.

They are billed what they can afford, $2-$34 a visit. Most are charged less than $6, and no one is ever dunned.

"It is much more convenient for all of us," Miladros Huth observes as her three boys are examined. "I would get very upset when I went to Bellevue hospital. It was just too much. It was a big hassle."

Besides, Mrs. Huth continues, the city's huge Bellevue hospital charged her $10 a visit, compared with $6 at Betances. And there was no one like Mrs. Salomon at the hospital, "someone I could ask questions."

Mrs. Salomon, a 38-year-old mother of two children, remembers not only the names of Mrs. Huth's children but their ailments as well.

She looks with special care, for example, at Daniel's ear drum because of his history of infections. And she decides against another blood test because, she says, "once a year is more than enough." Then she asks the mother when she plans to have her own physical.

"We sort of involve patients in a much more active way in controlling health care," Mrs. Salomon says, maintaining that the community facility can provide understanding and education and inspire confidence unlike anywhere else her patients might go.

"I think patients like to come here because it's friendlier," remarks Patricia Gleaton, a nurse practitioner. "It's the atmosphere and the time we can spend. A lot of patients don't like to wait for three hours and see a doctor for five minutes."

The third member of the corps medical team, Anna Paez, proves the point with a toothless Bowery derelict who could have tuberculosis.

When the 57-year-old man says he has sworn off alcohol since May, the physicians' assistant asks whether he has a job. When he replies that he doesn't, she offers to help him get into a training program.

Then she closely questions him about the numbness on one side of his face, the pains in his joints and a past hospitalization. Either he hadn't understood or no one troubled to explain it, but he didn't know whether he had been X-rayed or had surgery in that hospital.

Mrs. Paez takes the time to

And she takes the time to examine him thoroughly, recording his electrocardiogram and checking for a stroke. Noticing wax in his ears, she writes down the name of a cheap medicine, asks whether he can afford it and repeats the instructions to him — three times.

More than an hour passes, but it isn't enough. Come back in two weeks, she tells him, and don't forget.

Later, a woman with a possible tumor trusts Mrs. Paez to perform the first pelvic examination she has had in years.

On this typical afternoon at Betances — named for 19th century Puerto Rican physician Ramon Emeterio Betances — Mrs. Salomon does more than just see patients.

She walks 10 minutes to a daycare center to extend the health unit's practice and finds that the director wants the unit to examine his kids annually and set up emergency procedures.

Pleased, Mrs. Salomon returns to examine 5-year-old Malcolm Burns, who has a slight fever. The boy's teen-age brother, who brings him in, doesn't know any other of his symptoms. And although Malcolm seems fine, Mrs. Salomon is concerned.

She swabs his throat to take a culture, calls his working mother to ask about other symptoms and decides to telephone her again in the morning to discuss the advisability of his going to school. And after she pricks him to test for lead poisoning, the boy makes her laugh.

"When I come back here next time," he whimpers, "I'm staying home."

Indicators Are Turning

Interstate Securities Corporation

Some market sentiment indicators are approaching negative readings. Sentiment indicators attempt to measure the degree of optimism and pessimism prevalent in the market place. Throughout history it has been proven that market tops occur when the general consensus of opinion is very bullish. Market bottoms are more likely to occur when pessimism is rampant. The theory of contrary opinion is a useful tool in measuring the degree of market potential for advancing or declining. If there is a scientific method of predicting market direction, it is through use of such tools.

Sentiment indicators include a wide range of indices. Examples include the degree of public participation, mutual fund cash position, member firm trading, short interest and number of secondary offerings.

One of the best of these is considered to be the measurement of mutual fund liquidity. What the mutual fund industry is doing is usually a good indication of what other institutional market participants are doing. Since the SEC requires a monthly report by the mutual funds, their positions are more readily obtainable.

In recent years, a mutual fund cash ratio in the five to six percent range has indicated that the market was very near the top. Recent bear market bottoms in 1970 and 1974 occurred when the cash percentage reached the twelve to fourteen percent range. The current cash ratio is 8.5 percent after reaching twelve percent last winter.

Big Gasoline Leak Finally Cleaned Up

WILSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Hundreds of gallons of gasoline was sprayed over a construction site near this eastern Chatham County town Wednesday after a cross-country pipeline broke. But by afternoon officials had controlled the leak and said the danger of fire was over.

The leak was in a 107-mile pipeline from Greensboro to Selma being built by Green Construction Co. of Lubbock, Texas, for the Colonial Pipeline Co. It was the second rupture in that line in as many months.

On Aug. 29, 4,000 gallons of gasoline spilled from the pipeline into a Greensboro subdivision forcing the evacuation of 100 homes.

H.R. "Hal" Melendy, a Colonial official, said the break appeared to have been construction related. It occurred as construction crews were installing a new 16-inch pipeline parallel to two existing 8-inch lines that run from Greensboro to Selma.

Colonial officials said it would take several days for the spill to be cleaned up.

Vorster's Resignation Expected Result In Crises

By SERGE SCHMEMMANN
Associated Press Writer
PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Prime Minister John Vorster's resignation probably will plunge South Africa into new crises at home and abroad. But it means no major change in the government's racial policies.

Political observers expect a furious power struggle in the coming week among three powerful contenders for Vorster's job, and between the increasingly polarized liberal and conservative wings of the Afrikaner-dominated National Party.

Abroad, South Africa's decision to reject the U.N. independence plan for South-West Africa and to hold elections there before the black guerrillas of the South-West Africa People's Organization can do much more campaigning for political support could lead to new clamor for economic sanctions against the white regime.

The decision is also expected to renew and intensify the SWAPO guerrillas' attacks from their bases in Angola. Vorster announced Wednesday that he was resigning after 12 years in power because of his health. He said his government was retracting its acceptance of the Western U.N. plan for the independence of South West Africa because of "unacceptable" modifications: a 7,500-man U.N. force to be sent to the territory and postponement of the Dec. 31 independence date for nine months.

The preliminary wrestling to succeed Vorster at a party conference Sept. 28 has been so fierce that the influential Afrikaans newspaper Vaderland urged restraint and an end to "reprehensible methods."

The leading candidate is Defense Minister Pieter Willem Botha, 62, a life-long National Party faithful with a tough image as the man who sent troops into the Angolan civil war and then against SWAPO.

Botha has the added advantages of being leader of the Cape Province party organization and the senior member of the cabinet.

Next is Cornelius Petrus "Connie" Mulder, 53, the former minister of information who now handles relations with the non-whites. His standing was badly tarnished by a scandal in the Information Ministry earlier this year. But he has the firm backing of the Transvaal provincial party machine, which has by far the most members in Parliament. He is an ideological hard-liner who vows no blacks will ever get South African citizenship or the vote.

The third man man is Roelof Frederik "Pik" Botha, the 46-year-old foreign minister. Dapper, debonair and eloquent, he draws big crowds when he speaks and is regarded as the favorite of the liberal members of the party caucus.

But whether a liberal or hard-liner is chosen, political observers say there is no likelihood that the National Party will abandon its fundamental apartheid policy, assigning the 19 million blacks to independent tribal homelands and allowing them in the rest of the country only as non-voting labor for white-controlled industries — will be abandoned.

David Curry, leader of the colored or mixed-race Labor Party, said Vorster's resignation was irrelevant to his people "because the policy of separate development will remain."

VICTIMS BURIED — Victims of last Saturday's devastating earthquake in Tabas, Iran, are buried in mass graves in Tabas Wednesday. Public health teams and soldiers sprayed disinfectant over collapsed buildings as thousands of bodies still remain buried in the rubble. An estimated 11,000 persons died or were injured in the earthquake. (AP Laserphoto)

Block Test Of PCB Removal

WARRENTON, N.C. (AP) — Warrenton town officials succeeded in an 11th hour effort in blocking a state test of PCB cleanup equipment scheduled for this morning by getting a temporary restraining order Wednesday night.

The restraining order was signed by District Judge Claude Allen of Oxford Wednesday night. Allen scheduled a hearing for Sept. 28 to determine if the temporary restraining order would be made permanent.

Warrenton officials met in executive session Wednesday afternoon to decide what steps to take in their fight against the PCB pickup and storage. They had complained that the planned temporary storage site near Warrenton was close to the town's water supply.

David Kelly, assistant state secretary for public safety and coordinator of the cleanup, met briefly with Gov. Jim Hunt Wednesday afternoon. Warrenton citizens had asked him to relay their concerns to Hunt. But Kelly said Hunt planned to go through with the test.

"Every precaution for safety had been taken at the cleanup site and the storage location," said Kelly Wednesday night. "But we feel that we must allow the citizens to air their concerns through the courts."

Kelly said the soil would have been placed between two sheets of four-ply plastic anchored with railroad ties.

Thousands of gallons of toxic PCBs, polychlorinated biphenyls, were dumped along about 270 miles of North Carolina roadway last month. The state has been trying to find a way to dispose of the contaminated soil.

Today's test along N.C. 58 near Inez was to determine whether the state's cleanup method for scraping up the soil would create problems for plant and animal life in the area.

State officials have not found a suitable dumping site for the contaminated soil.

N.C. Corrections Dept. Hired Muslim Chaplain

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State Corrections Secretary Amos E. Reed says he believes the state is meeting the needs of prison inmates by hiring the penal system's first Black Muslim chaplain.

The hiring of Imam Matthew B. Hamidullah of Durham has drawn criticism from some religious leaders, who say the state normally does not hire chaplains to serve specific religious sects or denominations.

"I personally support what is being done," Reed said. "Because of the number of prisoners who are members of this faith, to me it entirely appropriate." A spokesman said an estimated 250 to 850 of the more than 14,000 state prisoners are Muslims.

The Rev. Burke Holland, director of chaplaincy and language ministries for the Baptist State Convention, said he believes prison officials are "playing a game" in hiring Hamidullah, a graduate of North Carolina A&T University and the N.C. Central Law School.

"I think it's a political thing more than meeting a need," Holland said Wednesday. "If we're hiring a Muslim chaplain for the Muslim prisoners, why don't we hire a woman for the woman prisoners or a Catholic for the Catholics. I think we're setting a bad precedent, opening an avenue I don't think we'll be willing to follow up later."

Hamidullah, 29, the resident imam at Muhammad's Masjid in Durham, will work where there are large concentrations of Islamic inmates, chiefly at Central, Caledonia and Odum prisons.

Several Muslim inmates at Odum Prison in Jackson have complained to the state Inmate Grievance Commission that they have no Muslim services. However, Muslim services are conducted by volunteers in 18 other state prisons.

"There has been an extraordinary interest in the Islamic faith, particularly in the prisons," said R.A.L. Walker, state director of chaplaincy services and religious ministry. "We have an obligation to make it possible for Muslims to practice and grow in their faith."

Re-Warn Of Faulty Bike

The J.C. Penney Co., in cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, rewarned bicycle riders that some 33,500 bicycles marketed under the "JCPenney" brand name have a defective pedal crank that could break.

The company said the bicycles are derailure-type, 24-inch, 26-inch, and 27-inch, ten-speed models in light tan and dark grey color and were marketed in Penney's retail and catalog stores in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

Consumers can tell if they have one of the bicycles if it has the number 2131A2, 2141A2, 2180A1 or 2181A1 attached on the outside of the left, rear metal axle plate, it was noted.

Owners who spot one of the bikes are urged by J.C. Penney to contact a company store for free inspection and, if necessary, replacement of the pedal crank.

Bank Chairman's Role Raised

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The chairman of the Bank of North Carolina apparently violated federal election laws a year ago when he guaranteed a $25,000 loan from his bank to the campaign of Senate Democratic hopeful Luther Hodges Jr.

When campaign officials learned of the error, they notified the Federal Elections Commission, the Charlotte Observer reported in its Thursday editions.

Federal law forbids an individual to guarantee a loan for any amount greater than $1,000 per candidate, the amount an individual can legally contribute.

Hodges said the bank chairman, C.D. "Dick" Spangler Jr. of Charlotte, had made an honest mistake, which was corrected as soon as it was discovered.

It was not clear whether that loan was among aspects of Hodges campaign financing now under investigation by a federal grand jury in Asheville and the U.S. Department of Justice.

The bank denied again Wednesday that it was a target of the investigation of Hodges' losing primary campaign against Insurance Commissioner John Ingram.

Bank President James G. Lindley said Wednesday that the Charlotte office of the Justice Department had confirmed again that the bank was not the object of the investigation.

The Observer had reported in its Wednesday editions that investigators were looking into the possibility that bank board chairman Spangler was voted a $36,000 salary by bank directors last spring with the understanding that the money would go to the Hodges campaign.

The paper said Thursday a Justice Department spokesman had said the investigation had no specific target yet, but that the bank had not been excluded.

And in that report, Hodges was quoted as saying that "so far as I know the bank is the only one being investigated."

Charles Webb, campaign manager for Hodges' primary opponent John Ingram, said Wednesday that an anonymous tipster provided the Ingram camp with information about Hodges' campaign finances shortly before the May 30 runoff.

However, he said the Ingram campaign was not responsible for tipping federal investigators to allegations about how money from the Bank of North Carolina might have wound up in the Hodges campaign, according to the Charlotte News.

Webb said the only use he made of the information was to raise questions with reporters about loans to Hodges' campaign.

Webb said he received the information before the runoff in two telephone conversations with an anonymous caller. The tipster accused the Bank of North Carolina of giving Hodges preferential treatment in approving three campaign loans totaling $175,000, Webb said.

According to Webb, the caller also talked about two loans totaling $85,000 to Charlotte allegations that the loans to Kaplan were funneled illegally into the Hodges campaign through Kaplan's business associates. But Kaplan has denied the allegations.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed lower again today after its second abortive rally attempt in the past two days.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up more than 3 points in early trading, was down 1.91 at 855.25 by noon. The average fell more than 50 points from early last week through Wednesday's close.

Losers held a 5-3 edge on gainers in the over-all tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market made an early bid to rally Wednesday, but failed to hold its gains.

Most of the gambling stocks bounced upward after a three-day slide. Caesars World, down 26 1/2 since the start of the week, regained 2 1/2 to 39 1/2. Bally Manufacturing, off 15 1/2 from Monday through Wednesday, gained 1 to 48 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .22 to 57.10, and the American Stock Exchange market value index fell .74 at 165.58.

Volume on the Big Board came to 14.59 million shares by noon, against 14.04 million at the same point Wednesday.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are expected in the forecast period Thursday until Friday, from New Mexico and Texas to southern New York and the mid-Atlantic region. Warm weather is forecast for Gulf and south Atlantic coast states but most of the country will be cool. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
 A breath of cool air continued today to give North Carolinians relief from unseasonably warm temperatures of the past week, but warmer conditions are expected to return to some areas on Friday.

After readings in the 90s across the eastern two-thirds of the state early in the week, highs reached only the upper 70s and 80s on Wednesday — in some locations nearly 20 degrees cooler than Tuesday's highest readings. Jacksonville and Rocky Mount-Wilson recorded 77s while Asheville and Hickory were the warm spots with 85s.

With clear skies returning Wednesday night, early morning lows were in the 50s in the north-central and northeast counties to the 60s in the south. Highs today were expected to be in the 80s.

A cold front that is expected to reach the mountains of western North Carolina by Friday morning will be preceded by an increase in cloudiness tonight, bringing with it the possibility of a few showers in the western and northern sections by Friday afternoon.

Cloudiness is expected to remain over the state Friday, allowing temperatures to remain moderate in the west. However, highs are expected to rise to near 90 degrees Friday in the southeastern part of the state.

Leslie, who was born in Guelph, Ontario, Canada, graduated from the University of Toronto in 1941 with honors and received the Frank R. Lorrman Medal for proficiency in organic chemistry.

In 1942, he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force and in 1943 he was commissioned as pilot officer and presented his wings. In 1945, he was discharged from the Royal Canadian Air Force with the rank of flying officer.

Leslie joined Burroughs Wellcome in 1952 as assistant to the production manager and served in various capacities, including production manager, until July of 1970 when the company relocated from Tuckahoe, N.Y. to Greenville. At that time, he was promoted to plant manager of the new facility here and relocated his family from his residence in Greenwich, Conn. to Greenville.

He is currently chairman of the board of trustees of Pitt Memorial Hospital and serves on the board of trustees of Pitt Technical Institute.

He is a communicant member of the Presbyterian Church and served a three and a half year term as an active deacon, a three-year term as an active ruling elder, and is presently serving his second four-year term as ruling elder.

Leslie is married to the former Myrtle Laura Hattin of Ontario, Canada and they have three children.

Peace Prize For Carter Urged

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — The Southern Governor's Conference has recommended President Jimmy Carter for the Nobel Peace Prize by a 12-0 vote for his efforts at the Middle East summit — but it really wasn't that unanimous.

With announced reluctance Wednesday, Republican Govs. John N. Dalton of Virginia and James B. Edwards of South Carolina supported the resolution. They had argued that it was too early to tell if Carter's meeting with the leaders of Egypt and Israel at Camp David would bring peace to the Middle East.

"One robin doesn't make a spring, and one framework doesn't make lasting peace," Edwards said.

Democratic Gov. Ray Blanton of Tennessee, who sponsored the resolution, said later: "It almost went into partisanship, but fortunately that was avoided."

7th Birthday For 'Bubble Boy'

HOUSTON (AP) — Today was a special one for David the "bubble boy." It was his seventh birthday.

David was born with no immunity to disease, and he has spent all of his years enclosed in plastic walls or a special suit.

Among today's festivities was a birthday party at his home with his classmates.

The first graders can't hug David, give him a traditional birthday spanking, or invite him outside for a game of baseball. But it will be a celebration all the same.

David's last name and home address have never been revealed, at his parents' request.

CRAVANT, France (AP) — Medieval philosopher Etienne Gilson, the oldest member of the French Academy, is dead, friends said today. He died Tuesday at the age of 94.

Gilson was one of France's leading authorities on medieval philosophy though in later life his academic interests broadened to encompass medieval art, culture and society.

Fears Credit Squeezes Can Ruin Housing Boom

By MICHAEL DOAN
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The booming housing market could collapse if the government squeezes credit any tighter, warns a top federal regulator.

In a rare breach of the normally united front presented by government banking and monetary agencies to the public, Robert H. McKinney, chairman of Federal Home Loan Bank Board, criticized the latest interest increase set in motion by the Federal Reserve Board.

"For the moment, the bank board will do all in its power to counterbalance today's action by the Fed," McKinney said in a statement Wednesday. "I sincerely hope that still further tightening by the Fed will not be necessary, as it may well be at the risk of a housing collapse."

McKinney's agency regulates savings and loans while the Federal Reserve Board — known in financial circles as the Fed — regulates many of the nation's larger banks.

McKinney contends the Fed's actions in tightening credit throughout the economy may divert money from savings and loans and will make mortgage money more expensive and harder to get.

A bank board spokesman, Robert Marshall, said the board can blunt the impact of higher interest rates on the housing industry by advancing funds to savings and loan associations and by reducing the amount of cash they have to keep on hand. But he indicated no decision has been made on exactly what the board might do.

The Fed controls the nation's money supply by the purchase and sale of government securities to those large banks and thereby sets the federal funds rate — the interest charged by banks on short-term loans to each other. When the Fed drives up interest rates for banks, it also indirectly influences other interest rates in the country.

Although the Fed never makes public its decisions until about a month after they are made, McKinney said he was told Wednesday by Fed Chairman G. William Miller that the Fed has set a new interest target of 8 1/2 percent, up from 8 1/4. The last time the interest rate was as high as 8 1/2 percent was December 1974.

Miller later denied telling McKinney the Fed was pushing the rate to 8 1/2 percent, but did not deny it is buying securities in New York to drive up the federal rate.

The Fed has been trying to tighten the money supply by driving up interest rates in an effort to slow inflation and to prop up the U.S. dollar on world money markets.

President Carter is also preparing an anti-inflation program, which he describes as tougher than the one he announced in April.

In a speech to the United Steelworkers union Wednesday, Carter said the program "will not penalize labor or any other group in our society. At the same time, it will be tough. I will ask for restraint and some sacrifice from all."

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reconfirmed in a report Wednesday that the inflation rate was 10.7 percent in the second quarter, the highest in three years. However, the report indicated the economy is growing rapidly enough to prevent extensive layoffs.

Penguin On The Highway

(AP) — Most motorists apparently didn't believe their eyes.

But Doug Lewis, who drives a soft drink truck, was more practical.

When he saw the penguin walking along the road, he stopped and shooed it into a service station.

There, Lewis and Jerry Duvelius captured it, and Lewis took it home.

A flurry of telephone calls disclosed the penguin's identity — it was one of two South African penguins that had escaped from Kings Island Family Entertainment Center 10 miles away last Friday.

The other penguin was hit by a car and killed.

"It couldn't have walked that far," said Lewis of the non-flying bird. "It had to come down by the Little Miami River."

The penguin is valued at about $1,500.

"I think Jerry negotiated some passes for next year," said Lewis.

Man Strangled By Pet Python

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) —

Doug Martin, 33, was strangled after a pet python more than 12 feet long overpowered him at his home during a feeding.

Boone County authorities said: Martin's wife told state police she found him unconscious in the basement late Tuesday, with a python coiled around his neck. Efforts to revive Martin failed, said state trooper Hobart Strange, a next-door neighbor summoned by Martin's wife.

In addition to three pythons and a boa constrictor, Martin also owned alligators, lizards, tarantulas, turtles and other snakes, authorities said.

The purpose of the committee, it was noted, is to gain citizen leadership and input in the bond issue proposal.

The committee is expected to have 17 members, appointed by the mayor.

Rose Seeks To Bounce Back On Road

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
 Rose High School's Rampants travel down to Jacksonville Friday night, and the thing that galls Rose Coach Dave Bumgarner the most is that the Rampants should be taking a 3-0 record into the game. Instead, they travel in with a 1-2 mark. Jacksonville, meanwhile, is the team with the 3-0 mark.

"Basically, we are just not executing," Bumgarner said in reference to the games to date. He was especially talking about last week's 12-0 loss to unbeaten, unscored on Kinston.

"They (the Rampants) are not doing the things they are taught during the week. They are not blocking and tackling like they are capable of. I know that we can play better than this. Sure, Kinston has a good football team. They've won their last seven in a row and they haven't been scored on.

"But we didn't block, tackle or run against them. We had three potential pass interceptions, one of which might have gone for a touchdown, dropped. We just didn't think like winners," Bumgarner said.

The coach was also unhappy that the defense had to stay on the field as much as it had to. Kinston controlled the ball almost two-thirds of the ball game. "You can't let them run that many plays without getting your defense get awfully tired."

"So what do you do?" he said. "We are not a disciplined club. Our players know what to do, but are not listening to the coaches. And until we solve this problem, we're going to have trouble."

The coach added that he knew the Rampants could do the job. "You see us run a play and pick up a lot of yards on it. You know that we've executed it well. But then later we'll run the same play and get nowhere. It's because of missed assignments and the lack of concentration. We just didn't execute."

The Rampants now will face perhaps the toughest opponent so far in the Cardinals of Jacksonville. "They are 3-0, and a very strong 3-0 at that," Bumgarner said.

The Cardinals opened the season with a 21-0 beating over White Oak, then came back to blast Jones Senior, 50-8. After a week off, they played Wilmington New Hanover last week, gaining a 23-20 double overtime decision.

In that game, the Cards found it hard to move the ball, but let their defense make the breaks for them.

Prior to last Friday's game, the Cards had rushed for nearly 700 yards, while passing for just 42. Fullback Eddie Colson was the leading rusher with 223 yards, and he added less than 35 to that against New Hanover (where he was still the leading Card rusher). Tailback Mike Bradley had 212 yards after the first two contests.

"They are big and strong—a typical Jacksonville team," Bumgarner said. "They run from the I formation and don't do a lot of passing."

"They have some skilled people who can do lots of things well. Defensively, they run from a pro-40 type defense, and I look for them to put six, seven or eight people right up on the line against us."

Bumgarner did not call the Jacksonville game a "crucial" one for the Rampants. "Last week's game was a crucial one for us, but I don't think this one is."

"We've got a lot of injuries and that won't help us," Bumgarner said. Expected to be out or limited are Reggie Selby, halfback, out for several weeks with a knee injury; Calvin Whichard, halfback, out for the rest of the year with shoulder injury; and Mike Williams, defensive back, who may miss because of an ankle injury.

The teams meet Friday at 8 p.m. at Jacksonville.

Streck Starts New Golf Life

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
 NAPA, Calif. (AP) — For Ron Streck, life on the right side of the pro golf tour's tracks begins today in Napa's $200,000 event.

Before last week's Texas Open, which he won by shooting the best back-to-back rounds in Professional Golfers Association history, the 24-year-old player had won $6,932 this year — $150,000 less than another former Tulsa University golfer, Nancy Lopez of the women's tour.

Streck was 156th on the money-winning list and in danger of losing his PGA tournament player's card when the Texas Open began in San Antonio, and he barely made the cut with opening rounds of 73 and 67. Then came the sensational 63-62 finish which earned him $40,000.

Streck is now 65th among the year's money winners but in at least one important respect he's the equal of leader Tom Watson, one of the many tour headliners in the Napa starting field. He's exempt from the pretournament qualifying rounds he had come to know so well.

Streck is assured of keeping his exempt status for at least one year and of playing in next year's Masters and Tournament of Champions.

Streck won in Texas over a strong field, beating Hubert Green by one stroke, and the opposition also will be formidable this week over Silverado Country Club's par-72 courses.

Lee Trevino, Masters champion Gary Player, PGA winner John Mahaffey and U.S. Open champ Andy North are here along with last year's Napa winner Miller Barber. The tournament is sponsored by Anheuser-Busch.

Sox Eye Scoreboard, Forget Own Contest

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The Boston Red Sox were so busy playing scoreboard baseball they forgot about the game on the field.

Before the Red Sox came to bat in Detroit, they were delighted to see that New York Yankee ace Ron Guidry had lost to lowly Toronto.

"We couldn't wait to get on the field when we knew Guidry got beat in the first game," said Jerry Remy, who had four of Boston's six hits in a 12-2 clobbering by Detroit Wednesday night. "Then we saw Toronto ahead 2-0 in the second game and we were really psyched up."

Meanwhile, Toronto handed Guidry only his third loss in 25 decisions, 8-1, in the opener, but the Yankees rallied for three runs in the ninth to win the nightcap 3-2.

With both Boston and New York having 10 games left, the Yankees lead the Red Sox by two games in the American League East.

Elsewhere, Milwaukee moved to within 5½ games of the Yankees with a 5-4 victory over Kansas City, which now leads California by five games in the AL West. Minnesota beat Texas 5-3.

Rusty Staub and Lou Whitaker each belted three-run homers for Detroit. Boston's Jim Rice, the major league home run leader, belted his 42nd, a two-run shot in the ninth.

Blue Jays 8-2, Yanks 1-3
Guidry, who entered the game with a 21-inning scoreless streak and seven straight victories, gave up a pair of unearned runs in the first, then gave up more than two runs in one inning for only the second time all season.

"I thought I had good stuff," said Guidry, who allowed six hits and five runs in 12-3 innings. "They just hit the ball and found the holes. I thought I made good pitches on a couple of guys, but they fought them off and came back to get some good hits."

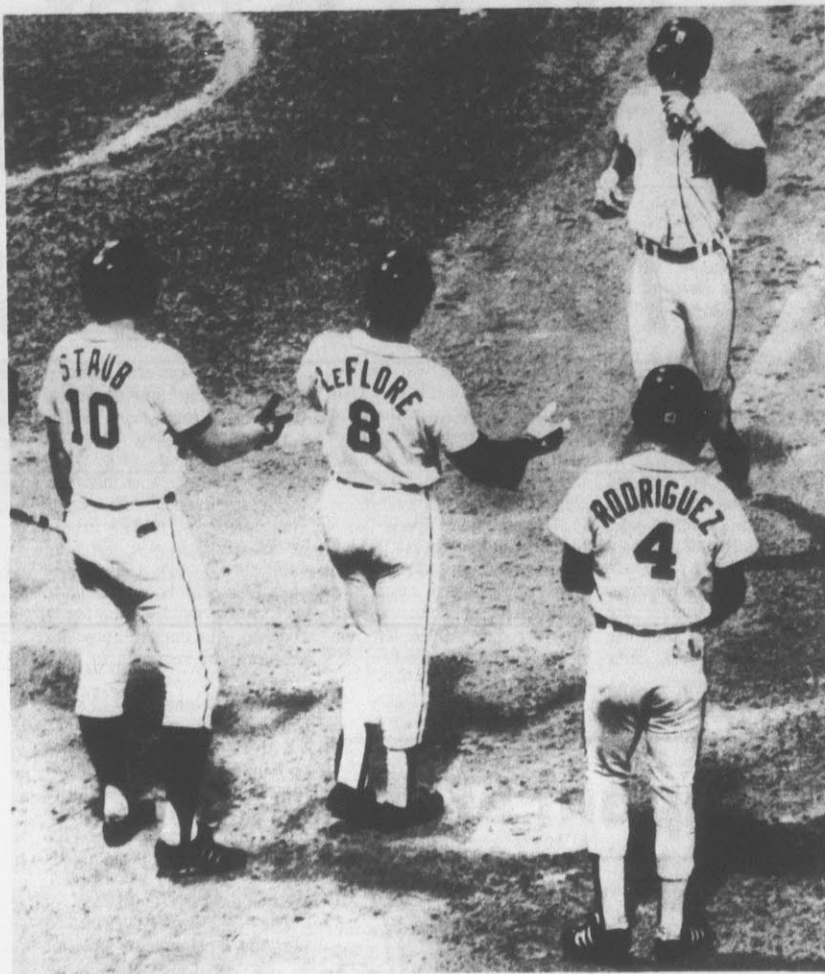

Chris Chambliss and Graig Nettles also singled in runs in the Yankee ninth. The Blue Jays rapped out 13 hits in support of Mike Willis' six-hitter in the first game.

Brewers 5, Royals 4
Paul Molitor drilled a two-out single in the eighth, capping a two-run rally that pulled Milwaukee over Kansas City. Larry Hise singled and came home on Sal Bando's two-out triple.

Jerry Augustine, 13-12, picked up the victory, retiring all seven batters he faced.

Twins 5, Rangers 3
Dave Goltz tossed an eighth-inning and Minnesota scratched for four runs in the fourth without getting the ball out of the infield to defeat Texas.

The freak rally consisted of two walks and a hit batsman to load the bases. Then Dave Edwards and Roy Smalley drew bases-loaded walks and Rod Carew and Dan Ford each had run-producing infield hits.

Montreal Mayor Is Back On The Hotseat

MONTREAL (AP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau was back on the hotseat Wednesday, as the Quebec government inquiry into the 1976 Olympics examined the huge cost overruns for construction of the Games cycling velodrome.

The cycling hall was built by teams of workers laboring 24 hours a day, seven days a week, in an effort to complete it two years before the Olympics, in time for the 1974 world cycling championships. With a final bill of $74.5 million, it ended up costing 1,000 percent more than originally projected.

Drapeau, however, maintained that he couldn't say if the rush to finish the structure contributed to the inflated cost.

The mayor was testifying for the second day at public hearings chaired by Quebec Superior Court Justice Albert Malouf, who is investigating how the overall cost of the Games spiraled from an early estimate of $120 million to an eventual $1.27 billion.

Builders failed in the attempt to finish the velodrome two years early. An additional $1 million had to be spent on a temporary velodrome for the 1974 competition.

Drapeau also testified that bids for construction of the velodrome were called before engineering plans were complete.

The city knew when construction started that weak rock formations under the site would cause problems, but it was too late to switch locations, Drapeau said.

Earlier testimony has shown that it cost $8 million to fill vertical cracks in the rock with cement to make a solid foundation for the structure.

On the touchy topic of his relations with the federal government, Drapeau told the hearing that until late 1972 he communicated only verbally with Prime Minister Elliott Trudeau about possible Olympic fundraising programs because he feared anything he wrote might be tabled in the Commons.

"The period was much too troubled for the Olympics to be discussed publicly," he said.

The federal government passed legislation in July 1973 establishing lottery, coin and stamp programs to help fund the Games, and Drapeau said Ottawa had been reluctant to introduce the legislation before the October 1972 election.

Ford Is No-Show

Former North Carolina All America Phil Ford is still waiting for the Kansas City Kings, who made him their No. 1 choice in the 1978 NBA draft.

But Ford was the lone holdout among the players who were expected to join the Kings for a pre-season practice last Sunday.

"We'd like very much to sign him," said Kings general manager Joe Axelson.

Women In Second Win

Greenville gained a 6-3 victory over Goldsboro in a women's East Carolina Tennis Association match yesterday.

The Greenville women split the singles with Goldsboro, but then came back to take the doubles without a loss to win the match.

Sxm The match left Greenville with a 2-0 record so far this season.

CONSISTENT PUNTING HAS been a problem for East Carolina University's football teams over the past few years, but the Pirates seemed to have solved the problem this year with junior kicker Rodney Allen.

Allen, from Henderson, has booted the ball 20 times this season with an average of 42.6 yards per kick. The Pirate opposition this year has averaged 38 yards per punt, so the Bucs have gained over four yards in each exchange of kicks this season.

Nearly all coaches stress the kicking game as one of the keys to a successful football team and the Pirates have in the past been at a disadvantage in this phase of the game. Allen has turned that around this season.

Punting played an important part in UNC's 14-10 victory over East Carolina Saturday afternoon in Chapel Hill. Tar Heel punter Jeff Hayes was able to hit the coffin corner on several occasions, forcing the Pirates to take over possession deep in their own territory. He also boomed a 56-yarder to the ECU five, which Gerald Hall returned to the 10.

In all, East Carolina was forced to start drives from the Pirate 10 three times and once from the 14. That puts a lot of pressure on the offense to sustain a long drive, which is difficult against a tough defensive team.

PIRATE LINEBACKER Mike Brewington, who was a standout for Rose High a few years ago, has really come into his own as a defensive stalwart this season.

Brewington, a highly-recruited 6-4, 230-pounder, did not progress as rapidly as the ECU coaches would have liked during his freshman and sophomore years. But he has blossomed in this, his junior season. He had what Pirate coach Pat Dye termed "his finest hour" Saturday.

Brewington currently holds a substantial lead over the other Buc defenders in tackles with 34. His eight assists give him a total of 42, 17 more than his nearest competitor, Jeffrey Warren with 25.

Brewington received praise from Dye for his play in the UNC game and almost single-handedly directed a goal line stand that very nearly prevented the Tar Heels from scoring after they had made a first down at the ECU two.

JEFFREY WARREN'S STORY is also an interesting one. Warren was a standout at Greene Central High School, but at 5-11, 198 was overlooked by most colleges. He was set to go to Elon after graduation.

Warren was chosen to play in the Jaycee Boys Home game in Ficklen Stadium two summers ago and his head-up performance earned him the defensive player of the game award. The ECU coaches were impressed with Warren's enthusiastic style and signed him not long after that.

Warren has gained a little weight and rapidly moved up on the depth charts. Now he is listed as the top backup to Brewington. He is second on the team in tackles with 20 individual stops and five assists, including one tackle for minus yardage.

TARBORO NATIVE MIKE Caldwell, a pitcher for the Milwaukee Brewers, has been one of the biggest comeback stories this year.

Four years ago, Caldwell underwent elbow surgery and the 29-year-old left-hander has been struggling since then. But this season things came together for Caldwell and he became the second pitcher in the majors to win 20 games Tuesday night with a four-hit, 10-strikeout 2-0 victory over the Yankees.

Caldwell said he never gave up on himself and that has been the key to his 20-9 record so far this year. His win Tuesday tightened up the American League East race, giving the Boston Red Sox a good shot at catching the Yankees.

Greene Central 2, North Pitt 0
SNOW HILL — Greene Central evened its overall record at 2-2 with a 2-0 victory over North Pitt yesterday.

The loss was the first of the season for the Pant-HERS, and left them at 1-1 in league play. Greene Central is 1-2 in the Eastern Carolina Conference.

Greene Central won the first game 15-4, with Cindy Creech serving up ten straight points. The Lady Rams came back with a 15-13 game in the second contest.

Conley 2, Belhaven 0
HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley swept to a 2-0 victory over Belhaven yesterday to remain unbeaten in volleyball competition.

Conley took the first game by a 15-8 score and came back with a 15-6 win in the second. In "B" team match that followed Conley also came away with a 2-0 win, winning both games by 15-0 scores.

The wins left Conley with a 3-0 conference mark and a 4-0 overall record.

Farmville Cen. 2, SW Edgecombe 0
FARMVILLE — Farmville Central gained a 2-0 victory over Southwest Edgecombe yesterday.

Farmville won the opening game 15-7, then came back with a 15-5 victory in the second. Lisa Satterthwaite had six serves in a row for points in the second game, while Lynette Harris added seven straight.

In a "B" team game, Farmville won 2-1, winning the first game 15-5, losing the second, 15-4, then finishing up with a 15-3 victory.

Farmville Central, now 3-1 overall and 2-1 in the conference, travels to Belhaven today.

Ayden-Grifton 2, Southern Nash 1
SPRING HOPE — Ayden-Grifton remained unbeaten in volleyball yesterday with a 2-1 victory over Southern Nash.

Ayden-Grifton won the first game, 15-8, but Southern Nash came back to take the second, 15-11. Ayden-Grifton then won the finale by a 15-1 margin.

Irene Lewis led the Chargerette offense, serving up 12 straight points at one stint. Sandy Fulford served seven straight, while Debra Ellis added six in a row.

Patsy Potter and Zhonda Brock led the net play.

Boys Club

The Colts came away with a victory and the 49ers and Cowboys played to a tie in Boys' Club Football yesterday.

In the first game, the Colts took a 13-0 victory over the Lions. Swindell Mayo hit Scott Brick for a 25-yard touchdown, while Randy Warren hit Jerry Mayo for 55 yards on the other scoring play.

The 49ers and Cowboys played to a 0-0 tie. Mike Sasser caught two 49er passes for 50 yards.

...the radar detector that looks like a fog light

convey CITIZEN BAND PRODUCTS

It's the most sophisticated radar detector you can buy... disguised as a fog light that mounts on the front of your car

No other radar detector offers such sensitivity and range... plus maximum concealment and protection from theft. The exclusive aerospace parabolic antenna is hidden in an actual fog light housing that mounts on your bumper or grille. Compact control unit mounts under your dash.

Secret Scout is so sensitive, it detects radar as much as two miles ahead of other units. And the exclusive "beep/flash" alert emits a beeping tone and flashing light that increase in frequency as you get closer to the radar source. A continuous tone and light let you know you're close enough for your speed to be recorded. Detects both standard X-band and newer K-band radar from hand-held "guns." Less false triggering, too.

Comes with power cable and mounting hardware. Matching fog light available as an accessory.

Phillies Move Out By Two By Beating Expos

By KEN RAPPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies got a diet of fastballs from Dan Schatzeder.

That's the kind of stuff big league hitters fatten up on. Especially hitters like Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt.

"If they throw you enough of them and keep coming after you with fastballs, you can make an adjustment and maybe find your stroke," says Schmidt, who found his Wednesday night while helping the Phillies beat the Montreal Expos 4-2.

Schmidt belted his 21st homer following Luzinski's 32nd in a game-breaking, three-run sixth inning at Montreal's Olympic Stadium.

The power show by Philadelphia's two sluggers and a strong performance by pitcher Randy Lerch came at a most opportune time. Coupled with Pittsburgh's 5-1 loss to Chicago earlier in the day, it improved the Phillies' lead over the Pirates to two games in the National League East.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3; the San Francisco Giants defeated the San Diego Padres 6-3; the New York Mets nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 7-6 and the Atlanta Braves beat the Houston Astros 3-2.

Lerch, 10-8, scattered eight hits, including a two-run homer by Tony Perez, before getting relief help in the ninth from Ron Reed.

Cubs 6, Pirates 1

Mike Krukow upped his record to 8-2 with a four-hitter and Bill Buckner drove in two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly to lead Chicago over Pittsburgh.

Reds 4, Dodgers 3

George Foster slugged his 34th home run and pitcher Tom Seaver drilled a two-run single as Cincinnati defeated Los Angeles and prevented the Dodgers from clinching a tie for the National League West championship. The Dodgers' lead is 7½ games with nine remaining. Their magic number for winning the division remained at three.

Giants 6, Padres 3

Vida Blue ended a personal five-game losing streak and Jack Clark and Mike Ivie each rapped two hits and drove in a run as San Francisco defeated San Diego.

Blue, 17-9, had not won since he beat the Dodgers Aug. 4 and had made eight previous starts in search of his 17th victory. Blue got relief help in the eighth from Randy Moffitt. Padre starter Eric Rasmussen, 14-14, lost his fourth straight game.

Blue, 17-9, had not won since he beat the Dodgers Aug. 4 and had made eight previous starts in search of his 17th victory. Blue got relief help in the eighth from Randy Moffitt. Padre starter Eric Rasmussen, 14-14, lost his fourth straight game.

Mets 7, Cardinals 6

Willie Montanez delivered a two-run, bases-loaded single to snap a 3-3 tie, then John Stearns and Elliott Maddox followed with sacrifice flies for a four-run seventh inning as New York beat St. Louis.

Winner Kevin Kobel, 4-5, allowed eight hits before getting relief help from Jerry Koonsman with two out in the seventh. George Frazier, 0-3, the second of five St. Louis pitchers, took the loss.

Braves 3, Astros 2

Glenn Hubbard's two-out, ninth-inning single scored pinch-runner Ed Miller from second with the winning run as Atlanta beat Houston.

With one out in the Braves' ninth, Joe Nolan singled and was replaced by Miller, who stole second while appearing in his first major league game. Hubbard then delivered his hit to left for the winning run.

Trojans, Heels Seen In Wins

By WILL GRIMSLEY

The lady in the optometrist's office was going through the routine eye examination.

"Look at the chart," the doctor said, "can you read the top line?" "Read it!" the lady exclaimed. "I know the guy — he plays guard for Notre Dame."

The Fighting Irish — Masztak, Horansky, Martinovich and Co. — have shaken off the Missouri setback and, as in the two previous years, hope to make a bid for No. 1.

Our score last week: 42-9, .823, with Penn State over Ohio State the piece de resistance. This week's upset special: USC over Bama.

Southern California 21, Alabama 17: The Tide has had two toughies. The Trojans are young, fresh, eager and away from home.

Notre Dame 27, Michigan 19: The Irish don't get aroused until they've blown one — Georgia Tech in 1976, Mississippi in 1977. Ohio State 25, Minnesota 14: Woody's gamble with the passing game backfired, now it's back to the infantry.

North Carolina 18, Maryland 10: The Tar Heels and their new coach, Dick Crum, are both defense minded, give ground grudgingly.

Army 20, Virginia 7: The Cavaliers averaged half a touchdown per game in 1977. Not enough against improved Army.

Tennessee 32, Oregon 7: Coach Johnny Majors takes the wraps off his quarterback, Jimmy Streater.

Brigham Young 27, Colorado State 14: BYU's quarterback Marc Wilson, 6-4, sights his TD throws over heads of defenders.

Penn State 22, Southern Methodist 17: The Mustangs' Mike Ford-Emmanuel Tolbert combination can be troublesome.

Texas 30, Wyoming 7: The Longhorns field a team that rhymes — players named Ham, Jam and Lam. How about Slam?

Memphis State 22, Mississippi State 10: Scampering Lloyd Patterson could provide the needed edge.

Arizona 24, Texas Tech 7: When Arizona joined the Pac 10, Coast pundits warned that Coach Tony Mason was "a builder."

Arkansas 35, Oklahoma State 14: The Razorbacks' Lou Holtz has become king of the one liners: "The right angle is tryangle."

Oklahoma 37, Rice 7: Who let all those race horses out of the corral?

Duke 22, South Carolina 14: The Gamecocks are so young there's not a razor in the locker room.

Dye: Bucs Own Worst Enemy

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

"We're our own worst enemy," East Carolina coach Pat Dye asserted yesterday at his weekly press conference.

Reviewing the 14-10 loss to the University of North Carolina, Dye said the Pirates should have come out on top in the situation.

"I still don't think we've played a good game. We played a hard one, but our kicking game was terrible. We didn't cover punts well, our kickoff coverage was poor; the missed field goal could have meant the game for us; and we didn't return the ball on punts against them."

Dye termed the long return of the kickoff following the Pirates' score in the second half a critical one since it put the Pirates in poor field position again. And the missed field goal, combined with a later one that was made could have put the Pirates in a position of being able to kick at the end to win, rather than having to go for a last-second touchdown.

The coach said he went with Steve Greer at the start because regular first-stringer Leander Green was still getting over an injury. "I just didn't want Leander to get hurt right away and then have to pull Steve off the bench. The ball was mis-handled on that first play, so maybe it looked like I made a mistake at the time, but the way we fumbled the rest of the way, I don't think it really made any difference."

Dye said the Pirates moved the ball when they had it in the first half. "But just when we'd get into good field position, we'd fumble it away. One of those fumbles came on a play that had touchdown written all over it."

The coach also said that if the Pirates had played defense in the first half like they did in the second, it would have been a different story. "In the second half this year, in all three games, we've given up only eight first downs."

Dye listed split end Terry Gallaher, linemen Mitchell Smith, Nelson Smith, Wayne Inman and Matt Mulholland as offensive winners. "None of the backs were winners because they didn't block well."

Dye was disturbed over the 17 turnovers in three games. "That must be some kind of record for East Carolina. We had only 28 turnovers all year last year." Dye said most of the fumbles were caused by poor coaching. "They are just not handling the ball properly, and that's a coaching mistake."

Defensively, Dye listed ends Zack Valentine, Fred Chavis, and John Morris; linemen Vance Tingler, Noah Clark and Nate Wigfall; nose guards Oliver Felton and John Hallow; linebackers Mike Brewington, Jeffrey Warren and Tommy Summer; and secondary men Charlie Carter, Ruffin McNeill and Willie Holley as winners in the game.

"Clark had a great game, except for when he lost containment of (Matt) Kupec when he threw the touchdown pass. And the game may have been Mike Brewington's finest hour. He was the most physical I've ever seen him."

Dye said he didn't feel any different about the football game. "We can still be the best team here. We're playing the kind of defense we want to, and when we start hitting on all 11 cylinders on offense, we can be there. I saw a lot of promise in the hard play on Saturday, but it's not just a matter of effort. We've got to quit mishandling the ball and missing some blocks."

Asked if the record 51,000-plus crowd at Chapel Hill might have changed Carolina's mind about dropping the Pirates after 1981, Dye commented: "If we ever get our mess together, we'll be the best show in the state. We already have the best defense. And we have all the ingredients to have a super team."

"But right now, we're like a powder keg without a fuse and waiting for someone to light it."

Stram Working From The Booth

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Hank Stram, long a recognizable figure plotting strategy and prowling the sidelines at National Football League games, is confined to the broadcast booth this season. But he's brought his enthusiasm and passion for organization with him.

"When I got involved with broadcasting I sat down and analyzed the situation," says Stram. "What can I contribute to the broadcast? Some guys want to be comedians. Some want talk about the past all the time, things that are not really relevant."

"I became determined to talk about the game that people are seeing right now. Let someone else talk about past history. I'm very careful to talk about the game as it unfolds."

Stram will have plenty of opportunity this season. On Sundays he works as a football analyst on CBS Television and on Monday nights he joins veteran Jack Buck to call the game for CBS Radio. Few broadcasters will see more football than Stram this season and that's just fine with him.

"I'll see more games this year than ever before," says Stram, who attended one game a week as coach of the Kansas City Chiefs for 15 years and the New Orleans Saints for two. "This job provides me the opportunity to stay abreast artistically and keeps me current as far personnel is concerned. And I love the game."

Stram is no stranger to the microphone. During his tenure in Kansas City and New Orleans he had his own radio and TV shows.

"I enjoy this because it gives me the opportunity to watch football games just like I'd do at home," he says. "Only at home I'd just sit and watch. Now I can make observations."

Bertie Tops Aycock, 8-6

Bertie Junior High School converted on a two-point conversion try in the first period, then took advantage of E.B. Aycock mistakes the rest of the way to claim an 8-6 victory over the Jaguars yesterday.

The loss was the first in two starts for Aycock.

Aycock scored first, with Roderick Harrell scoring on an eight-yard run. The PAT kick missed however, holding the lead at 6-0.

Aycock offered several other threats in the game, but coughed up the ball on fumbles four times inside the Bertie ten yard line, to stall their offense.

Bertie scored late in the first period, on a nine-yard run, and made the two-point running conversion for the 8-6 lead that held the rest of the way.

Aycock travels to Rocky Mount next Thursday.

ECU Opens Net Year

First year head tennis coach Barbara Olschner faces a giant rebuilding task as her 1978 East Carolina tennis team is to be equal to the tough schedule that it must face.

Olschner remains optimistic however and feels that the young Pirate team has the potential to be one of the best in the state within two years.

A trio of returnees, Debbie Spinnazzola, Diane Keough and Claire Baker will be important in guiding their younger teammates through a rigorous schedule.

The team's greatest strength may lie in the doubles play where the young players can be paired and gain experience rapidly. There is only one junior and one senior on the entire squad.

Olschner feels the team has the attitude and temperament to improve with that experience.

The Pirates open the fall schedule today at home against N.C. State at 2 p.m. on the courts adjacent to Minges Coliseum.

Cavernous Salt Mine To Become Oil Reservoir

WEEKS ISLAND, La. (AP) — The Morton Salt Co. mine is a beehive of activity as tractors and bulldozers navigate the 20 miles of roads that connect the vast subterranean caverns. But if all goes as planned, those salt-lined vaults will be awash in 76 million barrels of crude oil early next year as the mine is transformed into a gigantic oil storage facility under the federal government's Strategic Petroleum Reserve program. The bi-level mine was purchased from Morton for $30 million. The company plans to begin work on a new salt mine a few hundred feet away in the Iberia Parish salt dome.

It will take about five months to pump the viscous oil into the underground salt caverns, said Elmer Thiele of the Department of Energy. The oil will move to the mine from the St. James Terminal in St. James Parish. Before the pumping begins, however, salt drifts and other debris will be cleared away. But the bulldozers and tractors will remain, anchored to the floor, to be submerged in oil. Thiele explained that it is not economically feasible to disassemble the huge machines, especially since they become corroded by the salt.

Savings From Nuclear Plants

PARSIPPANY, N.J. (UPI) — Two nuclear-powered electric generating plants saved four million residents of New Jersey and Pennsylvania between $55 and $200 million last year on their electric bills, says Robert C. Arnold. Arnold is vice president of the utilities company that owns the plants. He says the savings represent the difference between the fuel cost of generating electricity with nuclear energy on the one hand and coal or oil on the other. If the output of the two nuclear plants, owned by General Public Utilities Corp., had been replaced by electricity generated with coal, Arnold said, customer electric bills would have increased about $60 million during 1977. If oil had been used instead of nuclear power, he added, customer bills would have been up about $200 million for the year.

School Officials Prepare To End Speeding Buses

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — school principals will be required to revoke the bus-driving permit of any driver caught tampering with the speed governing device on public school buses.

This is in conjunction with a state crackdown on speeding by school bus drivers.

Officials say the problem has been growing in recent years. Motorists have complained that buses have passed them at speeds up to 55 mph.

Under state law, school bus speed is limited to 35 mph by speed governing devices installed in the buses. But a small number of drivers have been tampering with those devices, officials said.

Education officials plan to meet Friday with the state

IRAQI CONTRACT
TOKYO (AP) — Three Japanese electronic companies have won a $42.7-million contract from the Iraq government to build a radio-television center in Baghdad.

Highway Patrol, local police and the state Motor Vehicles Division to ask them to step up enforcement of speeding by school bus drivers.

"We are talking about 2 percent of the bus drivers, but they are the ones that give us the black eye," said Robert L. Andrews, assistant controller of the state Board of Education.

The 35 mph speed limit on school buses is lower than most other states because 9,600 of North Carolina's 12,000 school bus drivers are high school students with limited driving experience, according to officials. Most states use adult bus drivers.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT
SURABAYA, Indonesia (AP) — Haji Ismail Pranoto, a 59-year-old leader of the fanatic Moslem movement called Komando Jihad, has been sentenced to life imprisonment for trying to incite a rebellion against the government.

Tampering with governors is fairly easy for a driver with some mechanical knowledge, according to Louis Alexander, director of the state Division of School Bus Transportation.

Alexander said a recent laxity in supervision is another reason school bus speeding has increased. He speculated that administrators may now spend more time maintaining discipline in the schools rather than on the buses.

Despite the increase in speeding, Alexander said there has been only a slight rise in school bus accidents. And he said there had not been a school child killed in a traffic collision involving a school bus for six years.

Hopes To Bar Inside Deals

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — James S. Currie, the state's new banking commissioner, said Wednesday he is considering ways to limit what he calls insider deals between banks and bank officials.

Currie said his staff hopes to recommend new insider transaction regulations to the N.C. Banking Commission by the end of November. He said he is also studying the current commission budget system in which banks regulated by the state banking department pay for the operation of the department.

Currie, appointed to the post Aug. 1 by Gov. Jim Hunt, announced the plan at his first appearance before the state Banking Commission.

At the meeting, Currie also approved a resolution asking the state's congressional delegation to seek delay of pending legislation in Congress that would require state banks to deposit non-interest-bearing funds with the Federal Reserve.

"This in effect would make inroads into the profit structure of state-chartered banks and put them at a further disadvantage to nationally chartered banks," said state Treasurer Harlan E. Boyles, chairman of the commission.

Currie said certain kinds of insider transactions could be prohibited altogether. He said an example would be deals in which one bank makes deposits in another bank with the understanding that the recipient bank make a loan to an official of the depositor bank.

"This is no attempt whatsoever to cut off the normal flow

Mom Claims Twins Have Double Dads

By PETER J. BOYER
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The birth of twins, doctors say, is a rare event — an 80-1 longshot. But twins were born near here recently under circumstances virtually unchronicled in medical history — each child was fathered by a different man.

The bizarre case came to light because the twins' mother filed a paternity suit against one of the men. To prove he had fathered the twins, she consulted Dr. Paul I. Terasaki, a UCLA immunologist who uses an advanced tissue typing system to determine fatherhood.

Since developing his tissue typing method, Terasaki has used it to settle more than 2,500 paternity cases. This one seemed routine.

The doctor matched the alleged father's tissue "fingerprints," identifying keys called antigens found in the white blood cells, with one of the twins. But the antigens of the second twin did not match.

"This was the first time we've ever encountered it," Terasaki said in an interview Wednesday. "We hadn't been expecting that. I was surprised."

The odds against his system being wrong, he said, were 140,000-to-1.

The phenomenon of twins having different fathers, called superfecundity, required very special circumstances.

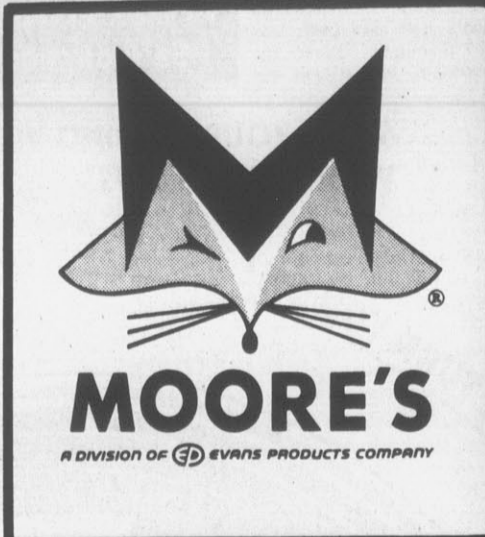

Non-identical twins are formed from two eggs released simultaneously from the ovary and fertilized by sperm released during the same sex act. But for twins to be sired by separate fathers requires the eggs be released hours apart during separate acts of intercourse.

There are only seven such cases known to medicine.

To test his evidence that two men had fathered the twins, Terasaki confronted the woman and asked if she had had intercourse with another man at about the time she conceived the twins.

She admitted she had. "She accepted the possibility (of double fatherhood) readily," Terasaki said.

He then tested the antigens of the second man to the antigens of the second twin, and they matched.

Pot-Disposal A Lot Of Trouble

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (AP) — It took a lot of time and trouble to dispose of 1,500 pounds of water-logged marijuana found floating in the sea. And Carteret County deputy Jimmy Morris said the next time such a mess turns up, he's calling the federal Drug Enforcement Administration to take care of it.

Dry it would have been worth about a half million dollars. But wet, the Columbian pot wasn't anything but a mess.

The dope was apparently lost or dumped at sea, apparently by dope smuggler. It had been in the water for several days and by the time the Carteret County authorities got to it, it smelled terrible.

Leroy Gould Jr., a charterboat skipper, found the first three 100-pound bales and turned it over to the Coast Guard at sea.

The Coast Guard was so eager to get rid of it that crewmen headed at full speed for shore, dumped the bales on the dock and scrubbed down their boat.

Carteret County authorities weren't any more impressed with the find than the Coast Guard. It took three and a half hours and several gallons of gasoline to burn the soggy mess.

"I almost wish they'd cut the plastic offshore and left it out there," said Morris, county narcotics agent.

More bales came in with other charter boat operators and one was brought ashore by researchers for the Duke University Marine Laboratory at Pivers Island.

A department store incinerator took care of nine bales and the rest went up in smoke at the Carteret General Hospital.

English explorer John Hanning Speke discovered Lake Victoria, head of the White Nile, in 1858.

TV Log Sanford And Louisburg Vote Mixed Drink Sale

By The Associated Press
Coy Privette, recognized leader of the anti-liquor forces in North Carolina, said Wednesday night that the approval of mixed-drink sales in Sanford and Louisburg would make it easier for approval of the measure in other areas of the state.

Approval of mixed-drink sales in those two areas came as a surprise. Voter turnout was about a third of the registered voters in both places.

Privette, an official of the Christian Action League, said he was surprised when he heard the results of the two elections, but then less surprised when he heard what the voter turnout was.

"In these type of campaigns, we have to turn out a significant number against the measure," he said. "A low voter turnout will always defeat us."

In Sanford, the vote was 1,426 for and 1,165 against. Louisburg voters passed the mixed-drink measure by an 11-vote margin, with 197 for and 186 against.

Supporters of the proposition in Sanford began a campaign Monday, saying they had purposely left it to the last minute. But in Louisburg, town officials had said there was little discussion about the referendum, and it was not expected to pass.

Sanford is a traditionally dry town, and voters were expected to overwhelmingly defeat the mixed-drink proposal Wednesday.

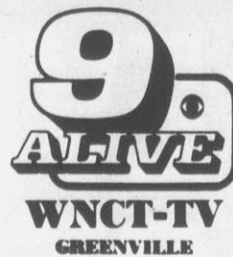

"It's wonderful, fantastic," said Dennis Womack of Sanford, a leader of the wets. "But I'm not surprised. I predicted that it would be 55 percent to 45. And I was right."

Lee County voted two-to-one in 1973 against mixed drinks, and some wet leaders had said the setting of the vote in Sanford meant certain defeat for the local-option bill which was passed by the General Assembly in June.

No public campaigns were staged for either side in Louisburg. Most of the town's 1,200 voters had been expected to ignore the measure.

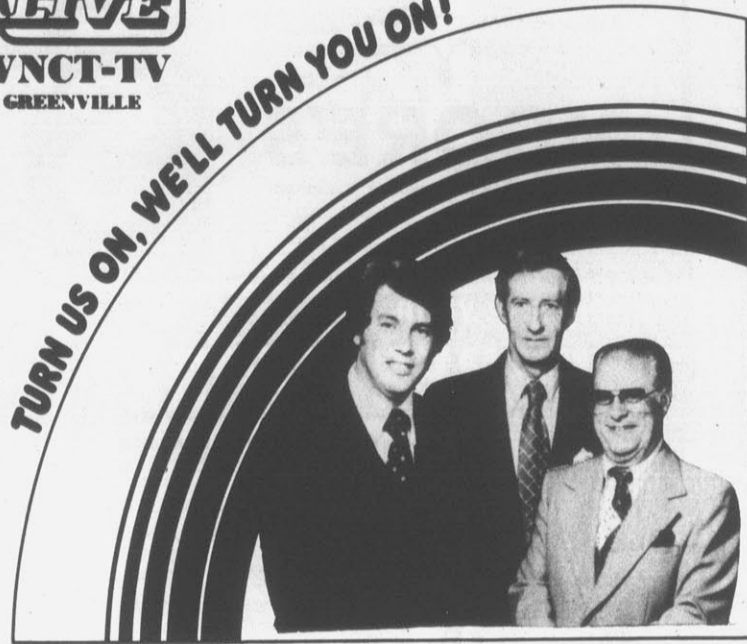

In the past two weeks, voters in Mecklenburg and Orange counties and the town of Southern Pines approved mixed-drink sales but voters in Black Mountain turned down the measure.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: F equals T
The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Collects Recipes Of The Famous

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Anwar Sadat favors lettuce leaves stuffed with rice and chicken, while Menachem Begin likes apple pancakes. Princess Grace of Monaco sent along a recipe for "Monegasque Tillans" — a meat and vegetable dish.
But Queen Elizabeth II just won't say.
Those responses, and others, were received by Jerry Faye Wilson, 43, an Enterprise, Ark., woman who collects recipes of the famous as a hobby.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you are logical in your reasoning, you will be able to make considerable headway toward success on a grand scale. So keep this in mind and develop a more comprehensive plan of action than you had originally considered.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Improve relations between yourself and partners and friends and you become more successful. Repay social obligations and retain important friends. Don't criticize others so much.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be meticulous about your work so that it attracts the attention of a bigwig and you gain fine benefits. Talk matters over with an official and get good advice.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Wind up the week's work efficiently and plan recreation later with good friends whose ideas are similar to your own.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Once you have completed your work, see to it that your home life is made more ideal, your house put in better order. Do some light entertaining at home, but invite congenials only.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You get the right information from a friend so that you can put a good plan to work in a most successful way. Take care of a community affair intelligently. Be practical.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show one who has power over your affairs that using good common sense will bring fine results. Try to spend more time in community activities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have some highly inspiring ideas that should be put across without delay. Show that you have character and get good results with everyone. Avoid temptation to overspend.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Investigate what you do not understand and get the right answers, particularly where basics are concerned. Build up ego of kin.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) State your views clearly to a partner and then you can operate more intelligently together. Handling civic matters well brings you more prestige.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Go to the most powerful individual you know and bring your talents to his attention. Show you are an excellent citizen and get fine results. Take no risks with your good name.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can reach a fine understanding with a new associate and accomplish a great deal today. Take that little trip with one you admire and get good results. Be careful of a gossip.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Talk problems over with kin and have a more harmonious relationship. Be more loving with mate and kin and get fine response.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will know what others expect and vice versa from the association and therefore will be able to communicate well with everyone. Plan now for a good education and make the road ahead easier and more pleasant.
"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Don't toss in the towel when things look hopeless. Search to see if there is any lie of the cards that will permit you to make your contract, then play on the premise that that distribution exists.

South took advantage of the favorable vulnerability to preempt above and beyond the call of duty—we would have been quite content with a bid of three hearts. West chose to compete and a double by North would have been most rewarding—best defense would have netted 1400 points. But we can't blame North for pushing on to five hearts. He expected a much longer and better suit from partner with fewer defensive values.

West started by cashing the ace and king of diamonds, then shifted to the queen of spades. Declarer was not happy with his prospects. Since the defenders had already completed their book, to make his contract he had to place the king of hearts with West. But, more important, he could not afford to lose a trump trick, so he would have to find West with

Balloon Adds No Pen Pals

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — It was a big deal when three adventurers crossed the Atlantic in a hot-air balloon. James Tuschling Jr.'s balloon made the same crossing, and it didn't even have a navigator.
Tuschling, 13, launched a pair of nine-inch, helium-filled balloons this summer.
Thinking the balloons might make it to another state, Tuschling attached his address, saying: "Send your name and address and we will be pen pals."
Last week, the answer came — from Hertfordshire, England.
"Dear James," wrote Elaine Whittaker. "Your balloon has really gone a long way. My boy friend and I found it last week...."

Offer Boat-Owners Tips Against Theft

By United Press International

United Boat Owners of America, Inc., which last year instituted Operation Search to reduce the number of boat thefts and to increase the chances of recovering stolen boats, suggests the following "dos and don'ts" for boat owners.

- Don't leave the engine ignition key on board where it would be readily accessible to anyone would-be thief.
- Don't moor with a single line that can easily be cut. Double up with chain or cable.
- Don't invite strangers aboard. In this day of drug trafficking, they could be "casing" your boat.
- Don't stow gear in the cockpit.
- Don't moor in a remote area.
- Don't leave hatches or ports open.
- Do keep an inventory.

listing all branded merchandise aboard. Etch your name or social security number in several locations throughout the boat and on all electronic gear and other valuable and removable gear.

— Do put warning decals and identifying devices on your boat. Registration numbers and warning decals inform all that "this vessel is protected."

— Do cooperate with authorities, it will be mutually beneficial.

Revival Series Begins Monday

WINTERTVILLE — The Winterville Pentecostal Holiness Church will hold revival services Monday through Friday, 7:30 each night.

The Rev. Tim B. Henry, pastor of Aulander Pentecostal Holiness Church, will serve as evangelist. He will also preach at the Homecoming services Sunday Oct. 1, 11 a.m.

After the Rev. Henry's sermon Sunday, dinner will be served at 12:45 p.m. A singspiration will follow at 2 p.m.

The Rev. J. R. Rawls, pastor, invites the public to attend.

Junk-Call Curbs For California

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — New restrictions on automatic dialing-answering devices for "junk" calls and other telephone solicitations have been adopted by the California Public Utilities Commission.

The rules, effective Nov. 4, provide that automatic equipment — which can funnel recorded messages to telephone numbers in sequence or work from a specific list of numbers — can be used only under certain conditions. It requires that the recorded message be preceded by an announcement made by a human operator stating the nature and length of the recorded message and identifying the organization calling.

National Smoker Study Hails Merit.

'Enriched Flavor'™ cigarette scores high marks in five key areas.

---

Can MERIT deliver the flavor of leading high tar brands?

Does MERIT satisfy smokers over a long period—or are MERIT smokers slipping back to old high tar favorites?

Read the bottom-line results of new research conducted with smokers like yourself.

MERIT Breakthrough Confirmed

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

And in detailed interviews conducted among current MERIT smokers:

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy.

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be: The first major alternative to high tar smoking.

Kings: 8 mg "tar," 0.6 mg nicotine—
100's: 11 mg "tar," 0.7 mg nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report May '78
