AT PITT FAIR OPENING ... Greenville Mayor Percy Cox and Alton Gardner, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners cut the ribbon officially opening the Pitt County

American Legion Agricultural Fair last night at a new location at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard NE and the Rams Horn Road, North of the U.S. 264-N.C. 33 intersection.

Pitt County Fair Opens Its Gates

The opening of the Pitt County Agricultural Fair last night — at a new location this year — was highlighted by ribbon cutting ceremonies attended by a number of Greenville, Pitt County and State officials.

Alton Gardner, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, and Greenville Mayor Percy Cox performed the symbolic ribbon cutting chores as fair manager Sam Winchester, fair president Les Turnage Jr., North Carolina State Fair manager Art Pitzer, Terry Peak, director of county agricultural fairs for the N.C. Department of Agriculture and other officials looked on.

The new 32 acre site replaces the old 14 acre lot on the Airport Road which served as the home of the American Legion-operated fair for the past 25 years. The new exhibition hall, with space for about 70 displays, will be joined in the future by a livestock building.

Fair president Les Turnage said the American Legion Posts in the county hope to make the Pitt fair a "model" agricultural fair, "not just a carnival."

Fair manager Sam Winchester said this morning that paid attendance for the opening night was 2,144. However, he noted that, "there must have been two or three times that many people on the grounds," explaining that women were admitted to the grounds free last night.

Winchester described the Monday night crowd as, "real good." Attendance should pick up before the fair closes its six-day run Saturday night, he noted.

In addition to the booths in the exhibit hall and the Corner Eagles Farm Homestead — an area within the fairgrounds featuring a log museum containing old farm equipment, and farm buildings — the 1978 fair features Amusements of America rides, shows and concessions on the midway.

Amusements of America, which plays state fairs in South Carolina, Georgia, Maryland, New Jersey and the Ottawa (Canada) exposition, has 25 rides and 50 concessions on the midway.

Paige, who has headed midway shows at the Pitt Fair since 1967, said the new location, "shows a lot of promise. I like it." Eventually this will be an outstanding fair.

Phil Vivona, one of the owners of Amusements of America, said about 300 persons are employed on the midway, and noted that the value of the rides on the midway is over $1 million. He added that the Swiss Bobs and the Himalaya alone cost about a half-million dollars.

The fair will feature special programs Wednesday for senior citizens, on Thursday for pre-school children, and on Friday for handicapped children. Admission is free for the special programs which begin at 9:30 a.m. and end at 11:30 a.m. and include special demonstrations, programs, rides and refreshments.

Aviation Disaster Poses Puzzle For Investigators

By STEPHEN FOX

Associated Press Writer
SAN DIEGO (AP) — Investigators want to know why two planes — a Boeing 727 passenger trijet and a tiny Cessna — collided in clear skies over San Diego after both pilots had radioed they could see the other plane.

The coroner said at least 150 persons died in what was the worst disaster in U.S. aviation history.

A Pacific Southwest Airlines jet with 135 persons aboard and a rented Cessna 172 carrying an instructor and a pilot taking advanced training collided at 9:03 a.m. Monday, killing everyone on both planes.

At least 13 more persons died on the ground when bits of bodies and burning wreckage tore into homes in the North Park neighborhood about three miles northeast of Lindbergh Airport.

At dawn today emergency crews fanned out through the devastated neighborhood. Authorities said they believed more bodies might still be in the rubble.

San Diego police said they booked at least 22 persons for investigation of looting and impeding authorities at the crash site Monday. Police spokesman Dan Hall said many of those arrested were juveniles and most were picking up pieces of wreckage as souvenirs.

Officials had no immediate explanation for the cause of the crash. Visibility at the time was 10 miles.

"Both planes were given air traffic advisories that they were in the same area and both aircraft acknowledged that they had the other plane in sight," said Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Bruce Chambers in Los Angeles.

Bond Issue Vote Likely

The City Council and Greenville Utilities Commission last night discussed the city's water, sewer and electrical needs in regard to providing services to accommodate growth.

Mayor Percy Cox said today it was agreed at the meeting that a bond issue in the $19-$24 million range would probably be necessary to finance the services required by the "growth we already have" and to handle future needs.

The mayor pointed out that the Council and GUCO decided to place the matter on the agenda of the November City Council meeting for consideration.

According to Cox, the director of GUCO, Charles Horne, explained his water, sewer and electrical needs and pointed to the importance of a bond issue in order to ensure that "Greenville will continue to grow" and be able to meet the service demands of growth.

Cox said that the avenues for financing the bonds have not been designated but he acknowledged the possibility of increases in service rates.

"We still have a lot to talk about," he added, noting that the city must consider the services that will be required to meet the impact of several residential areas "that need to be annexed."

Cox said that in addition to the Council members and GUCO personnel, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and a group of interested citizens were on hand for the workshop at the GUCO building.

Price Index Is Continuing A Gradual Rise

By MICHAEL DOAN

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Food prices barely increased in August, but housing and medical costs pushed consumer prices up 0.6 percent, the Labor Department said today.

The August increase was larger than the 0.5 percent gain in July, but fell short of the average 0.8 percent monthly increase in prices that have hit shoppers all year.

The department also said the average worker's earning power fell by 0.6 percent in August. Workers got pay increases averaging 0.2 percent, but were hit by price boosts that more than offset wage gains. The average work week also was shorter.

The August increase in consumer prices would translate into a 7.2 percent inflation rate if it continued for a full year. President Carter's economic advisers predict that consumer prices will be 8 percent higher this year than in 1977.

In August, food prices went up 0.2 percent, but most of the gains were at restaurants. Prices at grocery stores were unchanged.

Prices for fresh vegetables declined 6.7 percent, and chicken and turkey prices declined for the first time this year.

Beef prices, which turned down in July, declined again last month and pork prices fell for the third straight month. Coffee prices declined 4.8 percent.

However, egg prices rose sharply in August and fresh fruit suddenly became more expensive. Prices for cereal and bread continued to rise rapidly, as they have during most of the year.

Charges for medical care went up 0.9 percent in August, the largest increase this year. Hospital-room rates rose 1.5 percent, dental services 1 percent and doctors' fees 0.8 percent. Prices for drugs and medical supplies were 0.5 percent higher.

Overall housing costs rose by 0.7 percent, the smallest increase in six months, but were still a big contributor to the inflation rate.

The cost of buying a home continued to rise, as did mortgage interest rates, property taxes and household repairs.

Charges for electricity declined slightly, but natural-gas prices went up 1.4 percent.

The Labor Department said gasoline prices rose 1 percent in August after a 0.8 percent rise in July. However, the prices of new sedans eased in advance of the new model year.

Everett Kept As PTI Bd. Chairman

Clifton W. Everett Sr. of Bethel was reelected as chairman of the Pitt Technical Institute Board of Trustees for 1978-79 last night.

Mrs. Kay V. Whichard was reelected as vice chairman and Nancy Mewborn was reelected as secretary.

The board adopted a $2,754,354 budget from state funds and a $328,269 budget from county funds. A total of $276,210 was included in county funds for operating expenses and $52,059 for capital outlay.

The new completion date for the shop/classroom building has been set for March 23, 1979, according to George Shoe, architect. Shoe said that work was 68 percent completed, with plans for the new paved parking areas in the process of being cleared by the State Property and Construction Office.

Upon recommendations made by the Personnel Committee, chaired by Mrs. Whichard, the board approved the appointment of several staff and faculty members.

Approved persons include the following: Mary Outerbridge, coordinator of A. B. E. and Adult High School; Theresa Shank, coordinator of Human Resource Development; Connie Campbell, Social Science; Louise Cox, Radiologic Technology; James Harris, Masonry; Bryon Horton, Physics; Sylvia Smith and Thelma Turner, Nursing; Linda C. Sundwall, English; James Vines, Masonry.

A record curriculum enrollment at Pitt Technical Institute for the fall quarter was announced by PTI President Dr. William E. Fulford Jr. The fall enrollment this year was 1,898, as compared with 1,692 last fall.

Chairman Everett held board members that he had looked into liability in-

Insurance possibilities for the board and would report more at a later date.

In other business, the board accepted gifts to the Institute from Burroughs Wellcome Company, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Dowd and McMahon Food Service.

CAME CLOSE

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Lainhart, new residents of Greenville, have advertised for their lost calico (mostly black and orange) female cat. They said a local radio station received a call from a woman who precisely described their cat, down to her short tail and the bell suspended from a collar around her neck. However, when they called the station, the woman's identity and phone number had been lost. Subsequent appeals over the air have failed to locate the caller. So the Lainharts have asked Hotline to appeal for this woman to call them at 756-8343. They have owned Callie for about three years and would very much like to have her back.

WRONG AREA CODE

One digit of the area code given in the phone number of Dr. Ken Lewis, expert on male custody of children, was printed incorrectly in last Wednesday's Hotline column, a reader has pointed out. The correct phone number for Dr. Lewis, now working in New Haven, Conn., is 203-397-3111.

Assad Wooing Hussein

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Syrian President Hafez Assad flew into Amman today to try to enlist King Hussein's support for the anti-Camp David movement.

Hussein already has expressed major reservations to Secretary of State Cyrus Vance about the failure of the Camp David accords to guarantee total Israeli withdrawal from the West Bank of the Jordan River, but he has rebuffed the hardliners as well.

The hardliners, Syria, Libya, Algeria, South Yemen and the Palestine Liberation Organization, met in Damascus last week and endorsed establishment of a $1 billion Libyan-Algerian fund for the overthrow of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat because of his peace drive with Israel.

Jordanian government sources said Hussein would visit other Arab leaders this week to explain his stand on Camp David.

Community Classes Aid 'Closet Illiterates'

By GAIL GREGG
LONDON (UPI) — When retired tea-lady Winnie Walker took the first vacation of her life last summer, she encountered just one problem: she couldn't write postcards home to her friends.

Her seaside hotel supplied pens, paper and postage. But like an estimated two million other Britons, Mrs. Walker simply didn't know what to do with them.

"I was a closet illiterate," says the 66-year-old retired waitress. "The only people who ever knew I couldn't read were my (late) husband and my son."

Her son, in fact, ghost-wrote the letters she finally sent to her cronies that summer. He also encouraged her to sign up for an adult literacy course at a community center near her home in London.

She quickly learned enough from her tutor and weekly group classes to write a selection for a school journal. Her tutor says she'll be able to pen her own postcards next summer.

She was lucky. Had she lived in a different London neighborhood or a provincial English village, she might not have had the opportunity to learn the reading and writing skills she missed during her short childhood education.

In many places illiteracy isn't recognized or classes are so large instructors can't handle individual problems.

To cope with these regional shortcomings and in response to a nationwide "Right to Read" campaign, Parliament in 1975 approved the formation of a temporary Adult Literacy Resource Agency.

For the past three years the agency has trained teachers, devised courses, funded classes and waged a major publicity campaign to reach the nation's "closet illiterates."

Helped by a major commitment of television time from the BBC, the agency has drawn 170,000 students to local reading and writing programs.

"I think the BBC literacy program has made a major impact together with local publicity," said Cathy Moorhouse, London Education Authority's adult literacy director.

"We've had 6,000 referrals from the BBC in the past three years," she said.

"But what is important to remember is that we could just as easily have had 60,000. We're still just reaching the tip of the iceberg."

Miss Moorhouse is among the many literacy experts concerned about the imminent death of ALRA. It is scheduled to be succeeded next March 31 by a literacy resource office with a budget only one-quarter the size of the original.

"Short-term projects are rather sad," Miss Moorhouse said. "I think it should have been funded indefinitely."

The agency's life has already been extended two years past the initial limit. Its officials feel the time has come to turn its responsibilities over to town councils.

"Most of the teachers we funded are continuing in their jobs, funded now by local agencies as we had always hoped," said Terry Riley of ALRA.

The agency also has attracted thousands of voluntary tutors to the adult literacy cause.

Many reading and writing programs such as Cambridge House in south London operate almost solely as "one-to-one schemes."

"A large number of people lack the confidence to meet in large groups," said Mal Hughes of Cambridge House. "We can provide a service a council institute can't."

Tutors at that privately funded project set individual goals for their students instead of class-wide requirements — goals such as filling out employment forms, writing letters, reading for entertainment or paying bills.

"One woman came in after her marriage broke up," he said. "I think she felt she had to stand up for herself."

But — like most adults who never learned to read or write — it took her many years to finally make the painful admission that she was illiterate.

"Some people are pretty embarrassed about it," Hughes said. "They even make elaborate excuses to their spouses about where they go on Tuesday nights."

Many experts now say that attitude has changed since the government began publicizing Britons' right to be able to read and write.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Next to the oarsman on a slave ship whose captain wanted to water ski, the most maligned person on the face of this earth is the teenager who has just landed his first full-time job.

No one suffers more and is appreciated less.

Many of these "slaves" have heard stories of men who got up each morning, were fully clothed by 7:00 and on the job by 8:30, but they discarded these as venomous rumors — the kind circulated in Berlin in the 1940s.

My son considers himself a "human sacrifice" on the altar of the Church of the Establishment. He was 15 before we could use the word "employment" in front of him. The word broke his face out and he preferred we spell it. The way he explained it to us on the eve of his marriage to a paycheck, "This is an exercise in group persecution, isn't it? All of you have run the course and now before I come of age, I have to prove that I can hack the 9-5 number, is that it? Okay, you win. If I have to prove that I'm mature, I'll get the dumb full-time J-O-B... jiji... jjoob... joob!"

Maybe a lot of you know my son — or at least have heard of him.

He's the only employed person who has to work all day and then come home and feed himself.

He's the only dedicated teenager in North America to work when the "gang" went tubing down the river one Wednesday afternoon.

He's the first person to ever have half of his paycheck withheld for some service which he has never requested (federal income tax, hospitalization, Social Security, etc.). As he stated, "Someone is going to hear about this!"

He stands alone as the only worker who is dominated by a senile boss (age 35) who engages in office brutality by insisting he arrive on time in the mornings, and after lunch.

He's the only full-time worker in the country who has not gained the respect of family and friends for his contribution to labor.

Last Saturday, I tapped him on the shoulder. "Hey, George Meany, out of the sack. It's the crack of noon."

My son rolled over. "I do not believe this is happening to a working person," he said. "All week long, I work five days a week, eight hours a day, and what do I get for it?"

"You get all your meals served like a sultan, your bedroom cleaned, your clothes washed and ironed and a full-time old family retainer — me!"

Something tells me I'll have the first kid to retire three years before he has anything to retire from.

It Cost To Be Dishonest

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I work at a motel, and I hear complaints daily about the high cost of accommodations.

Following is a partial explanation for the benefit of the innocent, who are unfairly penalized, and the guilty, who go unpunished. I speak on behalf of all motel and hotel owners who have no choice but to increase their rates.

I am convinced that honesty has become as out-dated as high button shoes and buggy whips.

Our motel has 170 rooms. When a guest checks out, it's not unusual for the room to be partially or wholly stripped of all towels, wash cloths, toilet tissue, Kleenex, light bulbs, and even bed spreads, sheets, pillows and cases!

On the average, we lose $2 per room per rental. This does not include the cost in time, labor and paper work to replace the stolen items.

Perhaps if the public were informed of these facts, they might think twice before collecting souvenirs and household supplies. If not, the next time they visit our fair city, they can expect the rates to be even higher than before.

DISGUSTED IN S.C.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Thanks for a good letter. Also for reviving some vivid memories of my high school days.

My twin and I learned a lesson in honesty after returning from a football game at Sioux Falls, S.D. (We made the trip with about 100 other Central High School students on a special train from Sioux City, Iowa.)

When our parents discovered that we had brought home several "souvenirs" from a hotel in Sioux Falls (ashtrays, silverware, bath mat, etc.), they ordered us to pack up all the loot and mail it back to the hotel manager with our apologies. (We had to pay the postage, too!)

We also got a long lecture on honesty, and we have never forgotten it.

DEAR ABBY: I was an only child. When I was growing up, my parents moved around a lot, so I was practically raised by my grandparents. I really think of their family home as my family home.

They are getting along in years, and even though I am now married with children of my own, when I go to visit my grandparents I notice a lot of household items that bring back wonderful memories of my childhood. For example, an old water pitcher that was always on their table. It's not particularly valuable, but I'm sentimental about it.

I wouldn't want my grandparents (or anyone else) to think I am grabby, but I would just love to have that pitcher one day. My problem is, I don't know how to go about asking for it.

Any ideas?

SENTIMENTAL

DEAR SENTIMENTAL: The next time you see your grandparents, let them know that you are sentimental about that old water pitcher, and if your grandparents are like most grandparents, you'll have it tomorrow!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO BUTTINSKY — YET": If your daughter-in-law doesn't want her husband to know that she gets weekly massages from a man in the nude (her, not him), that's her business. Butt out.

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote to ask what you would think of a woman who would take a job as a live-in housekeeper for a single man, and you replied, "I couldn't care less. But if I were to give it one moment's thought, I would assume that the housekeeper was KEEPING — not PLAYING — house."

God bless you, Abby, for keeping alive the supply of live-in housekeepers for the rectories of celibate clergymen! A man pays a housekeeper; he supports a wife.

Cooking Is Fun

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
DEAR-CECILY: My neighbors fish a lot and often give me some of their catch. They even fillet the fish for me so they'll be ready for the frying pan or broiler. Now I'd like to try a fancier way of cooking the fillets, something I could serve when my husband and I ask another couple for supper.

— GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL: Here's your recipe. If you like it, you can use it on occasion from now to the end of September. In other words, as long as fresh nectarines are in season.

When we first came on the recipe, we thought its Remoulade Sauce might not be quite authentic. But after looking into our New Orleans cookbooks, we realized there are many, many ways to make Remoulade. This version uses some of the ingredients preferred by the saucemaker at New Orleans' Hotel Pontchartrain. — C.B.

FISH FILLETS WITH FRESH NECTARINES AND REMOULADE SAUCE
Remoulade Sauce
4 large white-flesh skinless fish fillets
Salt and white pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1/4 cup dry white wine
2 large fresh nectarines, iced

Prepare the Remoulade Sauce. Roll up each fish fillet, sprinkling with salt and pepper; begin at the wide end and secure with wooden picks. In a deep 8-or 9-inch skillet, heat the butter and wine until the butter melts; stir well and add the fish rolls. Simmer, basting often with the liquid in the skillet and turning gently as necessary, until opaque all the way through — about 10 minutes. With a slotted spoon, remove the fish rolls and keep warm. Add the nectarines to the skillet and heat gently for a minute or two; remove with a slotted spoon. Arrange the fish rolls and nectarines on a serving platter or on individual plates and garnish as you like.

Changing Population In N.C.

The nature of North Carolina's — and the nation's — population make-up is changing, and that will affect all our lives.

J. B. Archer, chairman of the N. C. Employment Security Commission, said that the next decade will see larger numbers of people in the 25 to 44 age group. That will, in fact, be the primary labor force for the next ten years.

The group is the well-known product of the population explosion which followed World War II. The group made itself felt as it moved through the elementary grades, high schools and colleges of the nation. Now its members are out and in the labor force, and Archer sees this as positive.

"The experience, maturity and energy of this 25-44 age group will provide the labor force with the potential to be unusually productive," he said.

That will be in contrast to the work force of the late 1960s "when the same age group was at a record low point and jobs requiring their skill, experience and energy went begging."

The availability of this larger group of workers at peak productive years could be a boon to North Carolina, if we plan properly.

Productivity is the key to profits for business and prosperity for the populace in general. Having productive people, however, is not going to do us any good if we don't have challenging jobs for them.

Big Potential In New Pitt Fairgrounds

The Pitt County Agricultural Fair is underway this week at the new fairgrounds located on the Eastern bypass just north of the Pactolus Highway intersection.

The new grounds offer far more space and the potential for better facilities to put on an expanded fair. There is also much less of a traffic problem than was created when the grounds were on N. Memorial Drive.

The sponsoring American Legion posts have done well to acquire the new area.

Tax Change In Counties?

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — County governments in North Carolina are moving in a direction which would relieve the pressure on the highly visible and uniformly unpopular local property tax, but opens an unexplored can of worms for coming years.

The effort is to move much of the financial burden of the backs of local taxpayers and onto the backs of state taxpayers.

Obviously, the two are identical. The difference is that local government officials would be considerably relieved of the pressures surrounding evaluating, setting tax rates, and seeking to justify a variety of actions.

Clues to what is developing can be found among the voluminous resolutions adopted at the summer convention of the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners:

1. Commissioners want the state to pay the full cost of current operating expenses in the public schools;

2. They want the state to provide all funds for the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program, the major welfare spending effort;

3. Commissioners want the state to pick up the full Medicaid tab for people in state institutions;

4. County governments are seeking authority to levy other taxes and relieve the pressure on property taxes;

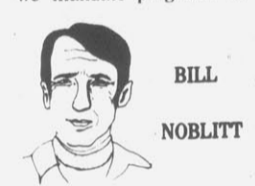

5. Chief among the resolutions, they want the state to pay fully for any program mandated by state government to be carried out by counties.

Overloaded
Buzzwords abound in the collection of resolutions, indicating the depth of concern among county commissioners about the property tax. Part of it, no doubt, is a result of the California Proposition 13 momentum spreading nationwide.

Already, county commissions in 51 counties held the line on tax rates this year and 20 lowered them. References to the overburdened, out-dated and uncontrollable property tax are numerous.

Commissioners found an ally in Gov. Jim Hunt who in his speech to them pledged his support for the notion that all state-mandated programs must be state-financed.

"And, probably, most important of all, we have established, as our operating principle in state government, that never again will we mandate programs for local governments without providing the money you need to pay for them", Hunt stated.

Commissioners know, however, that "it is the members of the General Assembly who hold the key to the successful implementation of the governor's pledge", as one resolution puts it, and they are calling on the 1979 General Assembly to "enact such legislation as is applicable to insure that all bills introduced which have a fiscal impact on counties shall have an accompanying appropriations bill to cover the full cost of implementing and operating such mandated programs."

Cost
Such action would have far-reaching impact. Judging the millions of dollars involved is impossible. As minor examples, consider that the state mandates minimum salaries for law enforcement officers, classroom sizes, pay for educators, local alternatives to juvenile training school for status offenders, jail and courtroom standards... among hundreds of others.

In public schools alone, state-mandated salaries for teachers and all other employees would soar into the millions. Legislative mandates are in the works on care for the elderly, treatment of the handicapped, screening of infants and other programs which normally would have required a local share.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Robert Strauss Is Tired

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — When Robert S. Strauss sat down for breakfast with Washington reporters at the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel Sept. 19, he was unusually subdued — a condition bearing some significance for President Carter.

Strauss explained that he had bumped his head when his limousine hit the curb in front of the hotel. His spirits rose as breakfast neared its end, but he never quite achieved his normal exuberance.

Friends explained it was not just a minor bump on the head but intimations of mortality feeding his present mood. Strauss frequently tells associates he is working harder and doing more things than any man his age (he will be 60 on Oct. 19) should be doing. He looks tired and is tired. His annual summer vacation in California lacked its usual therapeutic value.

In short, Strauss means it when he says he will leave government service once he finishes as special trade representative by buttoning up a new trade agreement. He will then help the Carter reelection effort, but not full-time.

That will leave a massive hole in the Carter administration, not likely to be filled. Besides being anti-inflation jawboner and trade negotiator, Strauss' unique talents of persuasion have been repeatedly called on for matters big and little — a reason for fatigue.

A footnote: Strauss' presence at White House sessions generating corporate support for the natural gas bill was felt by executives of companies suffering from import competition. "When I saw Bob Strauss standing there," one such executive told us, "I wondered about our chances for getting help on imports." Shortly thereafter, this company endorsed the gas bill reversing its previous position.

Passing The Gas Bill
The back was broken in the Senate drive to kill the natural gas bill days before the Camp David summit triumph when President Carter won support from the two venerable conservatives from Mississippi, Sens. James O. Eastland and John F. Stennis.

Neither liked regulatory aspects of the gas bill but were convinced by Mr. Carter that the measure's defeat would bring adverse international consequences for this country. When Eastland and Stennis committed themselves against the motion to recommit the bill, the strange coalition of consumer and oil interests opposing the president knew they were beaten. Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, a key figure in the coalition, could not talk his two old Mississippi friends into bucking the president.

A footnote: Oil state members of the coalition privately grumble that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, while opposing the bill himself, did not push hard enough to pick up other liberals against it.

Jesse's Plans
Polls taken for Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina show his reelection prospects this year so good that political advisers are looking forward to bigger things: running for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination.

Helms is not nearly so big a name in the party's conservative wing as Ronald Reagan or even Reps. Philip Crane and Jack Kemp. But he has something they do not: over 300,000 names, the biggest active list of potential voters in the party.

GUILT COMPLEX
One of the most common psychiatric disturbances is a sense of guilt. One gets the impression from psychiatric literature that feelings of guilt should always be avoided.

Actually, a sense of guilt is often the first step toward rehabilitation of a disordered personality. Guilt should lead toward repentance, and repentance is the purging of the soul which is necessary before anyone can live a full and purposeful life. Guilt is damaging only when it is unresolved.

So if any of us are filled with a sense of guilt about some particular matter, or about our lives in general, we should not ignore the guilt but should do something about it. We should acknowledge where we have erred and then make plans to avoid any such deviation in the future. And if making amends to some person we have wronged is called for, we should do it wholeheartedly.

Repentance is the cure for guilt, and this means action through faith.

The Old Virtues Thrive

TAMPA, Fla. — I flew down to Tampa the other day, on an engagement to talk to the Chamber of Commerce about the old virtues. As it turned out, I found the old virtues in a steak house. A story goes with it. What are the old virtues?

The ones I had in mind (there are many others) go to such traits as ambition, self-reliance, hard work, the willingness to take risks. Add to these a sense of personal devotion and family solidarity. One more virtue: The desire to excel — really to excel — in one particular field.

Now, if you will, meet Bernard H. Laxer and his wife, Gert. Ordinarily you will find them at Bern's Steak House at 1208 South Howard Avenue in Tampa. At other times you might encounter them in the vineyards of California, Germany or France. But such business holidays are infrequent, and the Bern that Tampa loves is a 53-year-old, sad-eyed, skinny fellow in an immaculate tee-shirt, black bermuda shorts, white socks and crepe-soled loafers. He never stops working — and he loves it.

The Laxers came to Tampa from New York in 1950. They wanted fewer tensions than one encounters in Manhattan. He was 27, and wasn't quite sure what he wanted to do. For a couple of years he tried the advertising game, but it failed to satisfy. He liked to cook. They talked constantly about a place of their own.

By June of 1953, they had saved $1,400. It was their whole stake, the painfully accumulated little nest egg of three hard years — and it wasn't quite enough to buy out a $1,500 diner. They went to a Tampa banker who heard their story, made a swift and lucrative character judgment, and loaned them the $100. The Laxers paid it back in four quarterly installments. They laugh about it now, but it was a big deal then.

They went into business as Bern and Gert's Little Midway on Cass Street in the downtown business area of Tampa. Bern was the cook, Gert the waitress. They thrived.

And the point is, they thrived because of the old virtues. The diner was small — eight feet wide, seating 26 customers only — but the proprietors brought to their tiny operation a large sense of service. They made sandwiches that were minor masterpieces; they kept their coffee at top quality. Gert met all the key business

LONDON (AP) — The great wave of European immigration is over, but still the gateways to America are thronged with the poor, the despised, the rejected, the accursed and the cheated. The tourists are coming home.

Perhaps the time has come to update Emma Lazarus' touching poem inscribed near the Statue of Liberty and multiply it in miniature at all the international airports receiving the homeward-bound wave of victimized humanity.

40 Years Ago Today

September 26, 1938
It was learned today from Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, Pitt County health officer, that the health department is re-doubling its efforts toward better sanitation for rural citizens of the county, especially for the rural farmer.

According to Dr. Ennett, J. H. Moore, county sanitary inspector, has made a large number of personal visits throughout the county in the interest of better sanitation. The health officer has also sought the co-operation of the medical profession in this matter.

The plan is to send letters to many of the landlords requesting that they provide sanitary privies for the tenants and offering supervision of sanitary inspection in the placement of these privies.

It was pointed out that it would be good business for the landlord to get privies now, since they will only have to pay for the cost of materials. The PWA will provide labor for construction and placement.

Advise Savings In 'Haggling'

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Haggling over price may seem more suited to a Mideast bazaar than to a Midwest boutique, but give-and-take bargaining can save you just as much money at home as it can abroad.

That is the advice from a group of economists at Citibank, the nation's second largest commercial bank. Experts quoted in the bank's latest newsletter say the trick, lies in knowing where, when and how to haggle. "You don't bargain in a big store or about groceries in your supermarket."

What about in a bank? "You can bargain with us," said April Klimley of the Citibank public affairs department. Ms. Klimley conceded, however, that most bank charges are fixed.

"It would vary from service to service," she said. "But there are certain kinds of branch loans where people do bargain." Branch loans are paid back all at once rather than in installments. They are often "secured" — backed by something like stocks or by large deposits.

The Citibank economists say that "for big-ticket items, a certain amount of haggling is not only expected, it's the accepted way of life." Prices for appliances and automobiles vary widely, for example, and dealers have a certain amount of freedom to negotiate. Bargaining could get you a better service contract or an extra accessory at no extra charge.

Isn't haggling an unusual subject for a big bank? No, said Sarah Wells, editor of the newsletter. Bargaining is simply "a money-saving device...It's 'buymanship,'" she said.

For places where you can haggle, there are some general guidelines to keep in mind. Among them:

—Bone up on the merchandise involved. If your purchase of a new car involves a trade-in, for example, ask the dealer exactly how much he is giving you on your old auto, then check a used-car price guide to see if the allowance seems fair.

—Bargain with dignity. Don't antagonize the seller or make disparaging remarks about the store or the goods.

—Be sure you deal with someone who has the power to make concessions. If a clerk says, "I'm sorry, but the manager sets the prices," ask to see the manager.

—Don't exaggerate or make unrealistic claims. Automobile dealers, for example, generally have a pretty good idea of what their competition is charging.

—Haggle in privacy. Don't put the seller in the position of having other customers demand why you are getting a better deal than they are.

—Don't limit bargaining to price alone. The seller may not be willing to cut the price, but he or she may be willing to provide things like free alterations or delivery.

—Try to negotiate discounts for buying in quantity or out of season. Be flexible. You may be able to get a better price if you accept an item that is in stock instead of one that has to be specially ordered.

—Ask if there are discounts for paying cash.

My ripped-off tourists burdened with duty free. The dollar-depressed refuse of your charter flights. Send these, the fleeced, tempers lost, humiliated, home to me.

I lift my dimmer, energy-saving lamp beside the golden door.

"Pigeon droppings," John Osborne, Britain's angry young man, called them. And the more he saw them lining up at the Royal Court Theater to boost the profits of his play "Inadmissible Evidence," the angrier he got, which is the approved manner of treating American tourists abroad, short of actually horn-swogging them.

The ever innovative Japanese have dreamed up a new way of gouging the tourists even before they get into town. They built the new Narita airport 45 miles outside Tokyo so the obsequiously smiling cabdriver can extract $60 plus tip — more if his meter is conveniently not working — before the visitor even sees the outstretched palm of the hotel doorman.

At docksides, rail terminals and airports all over Europe homeward-bound Americans all had said parting tales to tell. The usual things: $2.75 for a coke in Lucerne, 82 cents on the dollar for Traveler's Checks in Oslo, flights overbooked, reserved seats lost in the computer, handbag snatched by a motorbike thief in Florence, cabbie demanding 20 pounds ($40) for a trip to London's Heathrow, hidden $7 a night air conditioning charge at a Riviera fleabag, shoes stolen outside a hotel door in Belgrade, inedible food at plunderous prices, luggage lost in Moscow, pockets picked in Zurich, Lyon, Lake Como, Cardiff and Lisbon, penalty fee for declining dollar in Kabul (where local currency is worthless even locally) and an ingenious third collection "especially for the tourist friends" at the little baroque (what else?) parish church outside Ravenna.

And another tale not so usual, in fact downright diabolical in their larceny:

While we were waiting nine hours for a flight at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci airport, due to "late arrival of the aircraft" (actually the plane had been sold to another firm), a lady from Cleveland told of a packaged holiday to the sun-drenched Spanish isle of Ibiza that turned out to be more sun-drenched than she anticipated. The hotel hadn't been built yet. Well, the walls were up, but there was no furniture in the unpainted room and the toilets hadn't been installed yet. "We are a poor, simple people," the bowing manager begged her understanding.

and professional figures of the city. The Laxers came to be characters.

By 1956, their small success had paved the way to a larger plunge. Back to the bank they went, this time for a much greater loan. They bought out a place called "The Beer Haven" on Howard Street, and there they established Bern's Steak House. At about this time, Bern's fondness for good wine began to become an obsession. He studied the arts of enology incessantly. The enterprise began to grow.

A couple of decades can be summed up in a few sentences. The Laxers hired students from the University of Tampa and the University of Southern Florida. The jobs as Bern's waiters now are highly cherished. Bern wanted to specialize in beef, so he learned about beef as he was learning about wine. It was seven days a week, from early morning until after midnight, and the rule was quality, quality, quality.

Leap to the present. Today Bern's Steak House has expanded to a capacity of 350. It has the largest wine cellars of any restaurant in the world. Regularly on hand are something in the neighborhood of 140,000 bot-

FATAL PATH — The crash site of a Pacific Southwestern Airlines 727 and a small airplane is shown in San Diego. The 727 was headed in a westerly direction just beyond downtown San Diego towards the Lindbergh Field airport when the two planes collided, plummeting into ties of wine, ranging from inexpensive table wines to a number of collector's items priced at $500 a bottle and up. The operation employs 150 persons. It is obviously a million-dollar enterprise, and the end is not in sight.

The Laxers live on a small farm eight miles out of Tampa, where gardeners raise vegetables and salad greens for the restaurant. This is a completely organic undertaking; they will not permit a drop of pesticide on the place. They make no compromises. Every night's coffee beans, for example, are ground fresh at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Customers can choose between prime and choice beef, all aged. Every stalk of celery is cleaned of strings. And so on.

The old virtues! Not everyone is equipped to work as hard as Bern and Gert Laxer have been willing to work. Not everyone will save as they saved, accumulate a little equity capital, get some risk capital, build an enterprise by investing profits. But that's the story. It's an old-fashioned American story. I pass it along to other couples in their twenties with the determination to write it anew.

REDUCED COAL-USAGE? WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Coal Association revised its forecasts Saturday to predict that coal production and use will be lower this year than last.

Credit Union Barred To City, County Workers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — An injunction was issued Monday following a hearing in Wake Superior Court barring the State Employees Credit Union from accepting city and county employees, pending the outcome of a suit by bankers and savings and loan associations.

The N.C. Bankers Association, N.C. Savings and Loan League and Burke County Savings and Loan Association filed a suit earlier this year seeking to bar the credit union, which has 150,000 members, from signing city and county employees as members.

The credit union, one of the nation's fastest-growing institutions of its kind, was given permission by the state administrator of credit unions last September to enroll city and county workers covered by state-administered retirement systems and not eligible for membership in other credit unions.

The credit union, which has grown from assets of $18 million in 1967, has 28 branches around the state and is the third largest credit union in the nation.

The banks and savings and loan groups are seeking orders requiring the credit union to expel 8,717 city and county workers who are now members or to refuse to accept deposits or make loans to them. No date has been set for the trial of the suit. Credit unions, which are owned by members who elect a board of directors, are not designed to produce a profit and are not taxed.

Many in the banking industry say credit unions should be taxed. The industry has lobbied in Congress for a tax.

"There's been a feeling for some time among commercial banks that credit unions ought to be taxed," said Bob Thomson of North Carolina National Bank.

Credit unions have been growing at a rate of about 16 percent annually since the end of World War II, while bank assets have been increasing at a rate of 10 percent.

The State Employees Credit Union offers its members savings or "share" accounts, auto and other loans and checking accounts. Some credit unions also offer home mortgages and interest-bearing checking accounts.

Credit unions often have lower interest rates on loans and pay higher rates of interest on savings than other financial institutions.

lial conservative contributors in existence.

GOP Grumbles

Conservative Republicans are fuming at what they regard as unfair treatment by the Senate Republican Campaign Committee of conservative Roger Jepsen, Republican candidate against liberal Democratic Sen. Dick Clark in Iowa.

Jepsen has received only $15,000 so far from the committee, far less from the approximately $100,000 that he is legally entitled to receive in cash and political services under a formula partly based on population. Conservative Republicans, complain that moderate candidates have already received the maximum permitted by law. For instance, Rep. William Cohen, in the small state of Maine, has received the maximum $66,000.

The Senate campaign committee, headed by moderate Sen. Bob Packwood of Oregon, is parcelling out its funds on the basis of prospective winners who might be tipped over the victory line with extra help. Jepsen is not in that category today, Clark was regarded as highly vulnerable early this year but now appears to be running well ahead of Jepsen.

This explanation does not satisfy Republican conservatives, either nationally or in Iowa. They think they are being discriminated against.

Dropout Felt 'Unrewarded'

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — At 16, David Krol decided that he had outgrown high school courses, so he dropped out.

But unlike many other high school dropouts, Krol said he quit Ashbrook High School here because school officials didn't reward him for his hard work. Ashbrook wasn't the first school Krol walked away from in his 16 years.

Krol dropped out of kindergarten at age 5 after telling his mother, "It's boring. All they do is eat cookies and drink punch."

The Krols moved from Charlotte to Gastonia several weeks ago, and Krol enrolled at Ashbrook as a junior.

Krol, an accomplished piano player and swimmer, had taken extra courses to get ahead on requirements and leave fewer courses for his last two years of high school.

But the Gaston County Board of Education refused to allow him to take an abbreviated course load, ruling that only students with economic hardships requiring them to work to support themselves may qualify for a lighter course load.

"David is being discriminated against because he is not average," said his mother, Connie Krol. "He is being penalized because he worked extra hard his sophomore year, hoping he could have a light schedule his two remaining years of high school so he could work and swim and practice piano. In Charlotte, he would be allowed to take a short schedule."

"If David were dumb or ignorant, he would be given special help," Mrs. Krol said. "As it is, nobody knows what to do with him because he is well-adjusted, well-rounded and advanced for his age."

Krol said he plans to take a high school equivalency test at Gaston College and enroll in courses there. He said he believes his college entrance test scores will be high enough to get him into a university of his choice.

A Different Role For Actress In TV Movie

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Karen Grassie, the loving and loved frontier wife of Michael Landon on "Little House on the Prairie," is playing a different kind of wifely role on NBC tonight—a sad, tragic kind.

She co-stars in "Battered," a two-hour movie about wifebeating. It studies the violent lives of three couples from different levels of society. The film marks her debut as a screenwriter.

She wrote it with writer Cynthia Lovelace Sears, a friend with whom she has met periodically the past few years to discuss script ideas. Wifebeating was the one they chose for their first effort.

Ms. Grassie, who is unmarried, said the idea for "Battered" came from Katy Sherrod, a journalist in Fort Worth, Texas, she met while on a promotion tour for "Little House" several years ago.

They discussed the then little publicized problem of battered wives. Upon returning here, she said, she called Ms. Sears and began researching the problem and interviewing wife-beating victims.

The script was finished a year ago. NBC didn't hesitate to accept it.

"They wanted to do something on the subject right away," said the actress, who last week showed the film in Washington, D.C., in support of a bill to provide federal funds to help battered wives.

In working on the movie, she said, "our concern was that the subject not be sensationalized and not misused. As things turned out, we had a great deal of freedom from the network."

Karen, a slender woman with a gentle voice, was asked if she and her partner, in their research, found that drinking most often was the cause of wife-beating. She shook her head.

"No," she said. "Unfortunately, it's not that simple. When we started, we thought that was it, that 90 percent of the cases were alcohol-related. But they're not."

"The syndrome of 'battering' is similar to that associated with alcoholism only in the sense that it gets progressively worse."

Indeed, according to NBC's description of "Battered," booze is involved only in the case of one couple (played by Chip Fields and LeVar Burton).

For another (Ms. Grassie and Mike Farrell), sex and money woes prompt the beatings, while frustration causes it for a middle-age couple played by Joan Blondell and Howard Duff.

The movie's aim, she said, is to encourage battered wives—and their husbands, if possible—to seek help, whether from psychologists or local groups specifically established to aid them.

It also urges compassion for battered wives, their husbands and their families, she added.

"We want people to understand the problem, those who've never experienced this," she said. "We'd like them to stop judging it so harshly, stop saying, 'If she stays, she's asking for it,' or, 'I have nothing but contempt for any man who'd hit a woman.'"

"We really want to say: 'Let's not just call these people sick and write them off. Let's investigate it thoroughly.'"

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled in 1953 that restaurants in Washington, D.C., could not refuse to serve blacks.

City Merchants Organize To Combat Shoplifting

New Fairground Section Named To Honor Eagles

The Pitt County Fair Committee has named the section at the new fairgrounds containing the log museum and other farm-related buildings and equipment as the Conner Eagles Farm Homestead.

Les Turnage, president of the Pitt County Fair, said that the committee chose to honor Eagles by naming the area for him in view of his role in spearheading the project, coordinating the construction and acquiring of equipment for display.

"Conner is the one who built this," Turnage said.

Eagles, who retired from the Soil Conservation Service, is presently serving as a member of the Pitt County American Legion and as secretary of the fair.

Turnage pointed out that the "homestead" section, which is in an enclosed area within the fairgrounds, currently involves five buildings, including a structure containing horse and mule drawn equipment, a log smoke house, log chicken house, log mule and cow pen, and museum.

He added that in addition to viewing the log structures and equipment, visitors will enjoy seeing the variety of items used in past years on the farm that have been placed in the museum.

An interesting note, Turnage said, is the presence of a sewing machine used by the late Dr. Robert Humber's mother and a bicycle used by Dr. Humber in his travels over Europe. Dr. Humber was a noted advocate of the arts and prominent international attorney and businessman.

According to Turnage, the fair plans to add a log cabin and log tobacco barn in the future at the Eagles site.

The Merchants Committee of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce have pledged to organize a city-wide educational shoplifting program entitled "Shoplifting Takes Everybody's Money" (STEM).

The committee decided to organize the program in the area after discussing the present and potential losses of businesses due to shoplifting.

Doug Jackson of the Greenville Police Department reported that of the 8,242 total arrests made in Greenville last year, 355 of the arrests were shoplifting cases with a total of $6,085.77 of merchandise stolen.

Employees, schools and civic clubs.

Committee members pointed out that much of the shoplifting problem is an in-house problem with employees who are involved in shoplifting.

According to George Martin of a local business, there is not only a concern with the shoplifting, but with the prosecution of offenders. The committee has agreed to meet with the Family Court Counselors to stress the importance of following through with prosecution in shoplifting cases.

Members of the Merchants Committee are launching a massive educational program prior to the Christmas season by contacting all of the merchants in the Greenville area to ask them to participate on a fair share basis for supporting the program.

For more information on the STEM program, contact the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce, 752-4101.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Pleasant, sunny weather is expected for most of the nation during the period through Wednesday morning.

Rain is forecast for the Northwest, the upper Great Lakes and the Mississippi Valley. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press

A large high pressure area over the northeastern part of the country will dominate North Carolina's weather for the next day or two. Cool air from this high will keep temperatures near normal for this time of year.

Partly cloudy weather is forecast across the state today with the most cloudiness occurring in the west. High temperatures were expected to range from the upper 60s in the mountains to around 80 near the coast.

A weather system in the Gulf of Mexico is expected to spread cloudiness northeastward over the state later tonight and there is a chance for some rain to reach the southwest mountains late in the day Wednesday.

Monday began as a cloudy day across the entire state but skies slowly cleared over central and northeastern portions during the afternoon while the cloudiness persisted most of the day in the west and southeast.

High temperatures across the state Monday ranged from the mid 70s to low 80s. The warmest reporting spot was Hickory with 82 degrees. Low readings this morning generally were in the 50s to mid 60s. Wednesday's highs are expected to be mainly in the 70s.

Leaf Prices Up At Farmville

FARMVILLE — Grade for grade, prices on the Farmville tobacco market yesterday were higher than those of Thursday, the last sale day of last week.

Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade Sales Supervisor Louis Williams says.

Quality grades of leaf accounted for highest price on yesterday's sale, he said. Top practical price continues at $1.60 a pound. Quality as a whole was not as good yesterday as on last Monday, but was better than Thursday of last week. Stabilization receipts accounted for .11 percent of gross sales.

The market has sold 621,176 for $935,391, for an average of $150.58 per hundred pounds. To date, the market has sold 19,564,445 pounds for $26,891,461, for a season's average of $137.45. This compares with $117.66 last year on the same sale day.

A Hefty Tip After Long Taxicab Ride

KADOKA, S.D. (AP) — Two Alabama men have a hefty tip to reckon after taking what they claim is the world's longest taxicab ride to try to set a new Guinness record.

Driver Freddie Hamby and passengers Charles Dailey and Herbert Sedinger, all of Lanett, Ala., reached the mark of 6,752 miles early Monday in the city limits of Kadoka, located between Rapid City and Sioux Falls.

They were scheduled to go on to West Point, Neb., today.

The Nebraska town is the second of eight West Point-named towns they will visit to bring greetings from Mayor Johnny Barrow of West Point, Ga.

The taxi left West Point Dam on the Alabama-Georgia state line Sept. 9 after Dailey paid a $3,800 fare in advance. They also are scheduled to visit 41 states and parts of Mexico and Canada on a trip of more than 12,000 miles.

The 1977 edition of the Guinness Book of World Records lists the longest taxi journey on record as having begun from the Tarabya Hotel in Istanbul, Turkey, by Joseph Murphy. On Oct. 18, 1969, he wanted to get to 13 Hasebury Road in London, England. The mileage driven was 2,098 1/2.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices staged a moderate rally today despite a generally negative news background. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 4.33 at 866.68.

Gainers took a 5-3 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said there was nothing particular in the economic news to stimulate buying interest. In fact, they noted, the market has had to absorb several negative developments of late.

The government reported this morning that consumer prices rose 0.6 percent last month, after seasonal adjustment, or the equivalent of a 7.2 percent annual rate.

That represented a continued moderation since mid-summer of what had been a two-digit annual rate in April, May and June. But analysts said it represented no big break in the battle against inflation.

Brokers noted that the market also was faced with a continued rise in interest rates. Two banks raised their prime lending rates Monday from 9 1/2 to 9 3/4 percent.

Del Monte, which accepted a takeover offer from R.J. Reynolds Industries, jumped 4 1/4 to 43 1/4.

The NYSE's composite index gained .32 to 57.70, and the American Stock Exchange market value index rose .88 to 167.67.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 10.70 million shares by noontime, against 8.48 million at the same point Monday.

Rail Strike Not Yet Felt

By The Associated Press

The striking railway clerks union set up picket lines early this morning at major railroad centers in North Carolina, but most trains were reported operating normally.

A group of 125 workers began picketing the Seaboard Coast Line's terminal at Hamlet, and more pickets were reported at the line's Wilmington operations. A union official in Hamlet said train traffic was not expected to be halted immediately.

A Seaboard official said there was no picketing at its Fayetteville terminal and all operations were normal.

On the Amtrak system, a lone picket showed up at the Raleigh terminal.

Officials of Amtrak have said the strike could halt most service by the national rail passenger service, but a spokesman in Raleigh said it has not affected operations so far.

The railway clerks union has been striking the Norfolk and Western Railway for 76 days, and was expanded to 43 other railroads in an effort to halt operations that interconnect with Norfolk and Western.

Williams

Mrs. Lucy Cox Williams, 72, died Monday in Maria Parham Hospital, Henderson.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3 p.m. in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by her pastor, the Rev. N. D. Beaman. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park.

Mrs. Williams, a Pitt County native, spent all her life in the Cox's Mill community and was a member of Rose Hill Free Will Baptist Church. She was the widow of H. C. "Tobe" Williams.

Surviving her are three sons, Clayton Williams of Silver Spring, Md., Jimmy Williams of Henderson, and Douglas Williams of Greenville; two daughters, Mrs. Gladys Williams and Mrs. Otis Corey, both of Greenville; three brothers, Uran, Walter and Johnny Cox, all of Greenville; a sister, Mrs. Clyde Stanley of Greenville; and seven grandchildren.

opening a series of hearings by a Government Operations subcommittee into airline safety.

In written testimony prepared before the collision, John O'Donnell, president of the Air Line Pilots Association, had criticized the FAA for not pushing development of such warning equipment. He said the technology has been available for many years.

He said ALPA wants a collision avoidance system, known as CAS, installed in aircraft to give pilots direct, immediate knowledge of any impending threat.

"There were pieces of body everywhere," said W.T. Bradbury, a police officer at the crash site. "Parts of bodies were sticking into a wall. I hope I never see anything like it again."

Emergency crews worked through the night, separating corpses from the still smoldering wreckage in the streets.

"I think we have all the major portions of bodies picked up," said Warren Chambers of the San Diego County coroner's office. "I know the death toll is upwards of 150."

Priests worked alongside emergency crews as they put dozens of corpses into yellow body bags and stacked them in refrigerated vans in 100-degree heat.

"I anointed at least 50 bodies myself," said St. Rev. Thomas Bonica of St. Augustine High School.

'The Shadow' Is Dead At 66

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bret Morrison, whose sonorous voice as The Shadow thrilled millions of radio listeners in the 1930s and 1940s, has died of a heart attack in Hollywood. He was 66.

Morrison, who as Lamont Cranston portrayed The Shadow, was found dead Monday behind the steering wheel of his car parked on a Hollywood street. Friends said the heart attack may have been caused by searing 107-degree temperatures in Southern California's heat wave.

MEET IN FALKLAND

FALKLAND — There will be a meeting tonight, 8 p.m., at St. John's Missionary Baptist Church for all interested Pitt County parents, teachers and students to discuss the competency test, hiring, promotions and transfer of black teachers within the Pitt County School System.

New Stop Signs For Farmville

FARMVILLE — The town of Farmville cautioned local motorists to be aware that STOP sign controls have replaced traffic lights at several downtown intersections here.

Intersections changed to STOP sign controls include: Main at Wilson, Wilson at Contentnea, Wilson at Walnut, North Main at Horne, Horne at Walnut, and Belcher at Walnut Street, it was noted.

The intersections will remain under Stop sign controls until new signals are installed toward the end of the downtown revitalization project, the city reported.

Removal of the old utility poles and overhead wiring as part of the project necessitated discontinuance of the old traffic signals.

Crossing Work Said Delayed

Public Works director Mayo Allen said today that he has been notified that the scheduled repair work by Seaboard Coast Line Railroad on the Fourth Street crossing here has been delayed, apparently due to a strike by Seaboard workers.

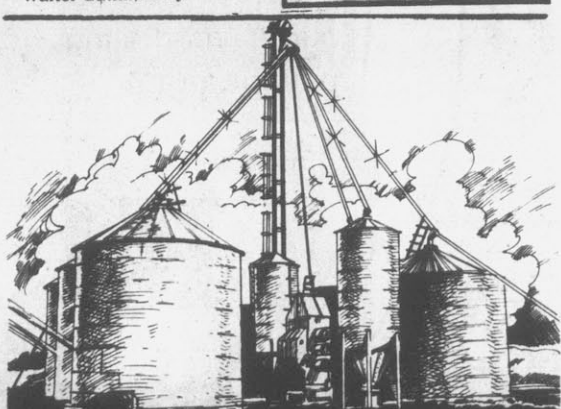

Allen noted that Seaboard informed him this morning that the repair work, slated to begin today, would be put off until the strike is resolved.

The strike involves the railway clerks union, it was pointed out.

AT NCNB, WE'RE OFFERING A YIELD OF 8.17%* ON 7 3/4%, 8-YEAR CERTIFICATES. MOST BANKS AREN'T.

In June, the Federal Government allowed banks to pay a new higher-annual rate of interest (7 3/4%) on Savings Certificates. The Government said a bank could. They didn't say a bank had to. So, many banks in North Carolina aren't offering the new rate. Which makes an interesting point: While every bank talks about wanting your business, all of them aren't acting like it. The banks here and there that offer the rate still have an option: The way they compound the interest. Depending on how they do it, your money will earn as little as 7 3/4% a year, or as much as 8.17% a year.

One other thing: A bank can set any minimum amount from $1000 up on these Certificates. At NCNB, our policy is simple. For the lowest possible minimum ($1000), we compound interest daily for the highest possible yield: 8.17% a year.* If you can't get that from your bank's savings certificates, you should find out about ours. So come see us. Soon. We'll be happy to show you how a bank operates when it really wants your business.

Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the Regular Savings rate.

Tarkenton Goes All The Way In Leading Vikings To Win

CHICAGO (AP) — For a long time, Fran Tarkenton has taken his knocks both on and off the football field, from fans and reporters as well as defensive linemen.

His latest lumps came after he was replaced by young Tommy Kramer at the end of two of the Minnesota Vikings' first three games this National Football League season.

A Viking defeat against Tampa Bay Sept. 17 spurred hometown boos and speculation that the 38-year-old Tarkenton might not start Monday night against the Chicago Bears.

Even Bears General Manager Jim Finks said, "I wouldn't be surprised to see Minnesota run Tommy Kramer out at quarterback, if not at the outset, then very early."

He was wrong.

Tarkenton completed 14 of 20 passes for 152 yards and a touchdown on the sixth play from scrimmage. Kramer did not play. The Vikings led all the way and won a big National Football Conference Central Division matchup 24-20.

"Next question," Tarkenton replied when a reporter asked in jest how it felt to have the starting job nailed down.

With the game just 2:49 old, Tarkenton hit Sammy White with a 33-yard scoring strike. Less than five minutes later it was 14-0 as Chicago quarterback Bob Avellini fumbled a center snap and Mark Mullaney recovered and lateraled to Matt Blair, who romped 49 yards to score.

With nine straight regular-season victories, including three this season, the Bears seemed ready to threaten the Vikings stranglehold on the Central Division.

But Monday night's victory evened the Vikings record at 22. The Bears are 3-1 and tied with Green Bay for the division lead.

The Bears closed to within 147 with 1:26 left in the opening period after Len Walterscheid blew up the middle without being blocked to bat down a punt by Mike Wood. The Bears started at the Minnesota 13 and, helped by an offside penalty that gave them a first down, scored on Walter Payton's 3-yard run.

Bob Thomas' 27-yard field goal in the second quarter and 32-yarder in the third made it 14-13.

Tarkenton then engineered a 69-yard drive capped by Chuck Foreman's 1-yard touchdown run. Tarkenton completed all five passes he threw in the series.

Rick Danmeier added a 29-yard field goal for the Vikings early in the fourth quarter before Payton scored from 1 yard out with 13 seconds left in the game.

"We were victims of the Vikings and our own mistakes tonight. Don't get me wrong, they made mistakes too in crucial situations," said Bears Coach Neil Armstrong. "But ours hurt us more. That's the first long pass (White's touchdown) that's been scored against us and then they got that cheap one on a bad exchange on a quick count."

Coryell, who gained prominence as head coach at San Diego State for 12 years, now is in familiar territory after being chosen by the Chargers to succeed Tommy Prothro.

Prothro resigned as the National Football League team's coach Monday, one day after a 24-3 loss to the Green Bay Packers.

"I'm pleased with the opportunity to coach again in San Diego," said the 53-year-old Coryell, who went from San Diego State to the NFL's St. Louis Cardinals in 1973, where he coached for five seasons. "It's like a dream come true."

Coryell became the Cardinals' coach after directing San Diego State to an outstanding 104-19-2 record from 1961-72. At St. Louis, where he coached through last season, his teams were 42-27-1 and qualified for the playoffs three times.

Coryell was not rehired after the Cardinals lost their last four games in 1977 and finished 7-7. But he still had two years remaining on his St. Louis contract. In order to obtain his services, the Chargers agreed to give the Cardinals their third-round draft choice in 1980.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A dream has come true for Don Coryell, the new head coach of the San Diego Chargers.

Grambling's Robinson Tiring Of The Chase

NEW YORK (AP) — When people talk about Amos Alonzo Stagg's record of 314 college football coaching victories, they also point out that Alabama's Bear Bryant has 275 and counting.

Bryant isn't the only one chasing Stagg, but he soon may be. Grambling State University's Eddie Robinson, six years younger than Bryant, has 266 victories — and thoughts about leaving the game.

"I feel like I'll get out of coaching in anywhere from one to five years," says Robinson, who has a 2-0 record following Saturday's 21-0 triumph over Morgan State at Yankee Stadium.

Robinson, who will be 60 years old in February, has been Grambling's coach since 1941. The list of players he has sent into pro ball includes such standouts as Tank Younger, Ernie Ladd, Willie Davis, Buck Buchanan, Willie Brown, Charlie Joiner, Essex Johnson, John Mendenhall and Doug Williams.

But after all those years, Robinson is tired — tired of fighting the never-ending battle of trying to upgrade Grambling's athletic facilities and keep the school in the public eye.

"I thought about Stagg's record at one time, but now that's not the case," he says. "I've been happy in football, but there's just so much I've got to do. Maybe I'm getting tired of coaching, I don't really know. It's going to take me some time to really decide what I want to do."

"I look with great admiration on the Pop Warners and Alonzo Staggs. I wake up and realize it's possible to achieve something like that and it's frightening sometimes to think about it."

Robinson doesn't have to think about retirement until the age of 65, and something is in the works so he can continue until 70.

"But I'd have to feel I'm productive and making a contribution," he says. "A winning season and a contribution to young men going to school and getting their degrees."

Robinson is Mr. Football at Grambling. He is one of the nation's best-known coaches and more than anyone else he changed the face of College Division football over the years.

Still, as Grambling's football and athletic director, he would like to do something about antiquated Tiger Stadium and the rest of the school's facilities.

"We're competing with a lot of schools and we don't have the best facilities in Louisiana," he says. "It's not fair to ask a kid to come here without the best. If there's any way possible to get them, I'd like to continue. That will help me make up my mind."

"Everyone in Louisiana has a new or adequate stadium except us. We don't have the latest athletic facilities. No kid is coming to Grambling just because of Eddie Robinson and the tradition."

"We're as much a part of the state as any other school. We need to receive the same recognition and facilities as any other school. Just Eddie Robinson getting publicity isn't going to do it."

Switzer Apprehensive About Sooner's New Place Atop Poll

By BOB BONEBRAKE
AP Sports Writer

University of Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer appears a little apprehensive about his team's new position at the top of The Associated Press college football poll.

"There are a lot of tough people out there waiting for us," he said Monday. "We're as good as anybody right now, but it is too early to really tell how anybody stands."

Switzer's Sooners replaced Alabama as the No. 1 team in the poll, while defending national champion Notre Dame took its second loss in as many outings and slipped out of the Top 20.

"I am a little surprised that we jumped up to No. 1. We haven't really been tested yet."

Oklahoma, 3-0, got 27 first-place votes and 1,235 of a possible 1,320 points from a nationwide panel of 66 sports writers and broadcasters. The Sooners moved up from a third-place tie last week with Penn State following a runaway 66-7 victory over Rice.

Oklahoma's effort was aided by Southern California's 24-14 upset of previously top-ranked Alabama and a fairly close 19-7 Arkansas win over Oklahoma State that kept the Razorbacks in second place.

Arkansas, 2-0, kept the race close by getting 17 first-place votes and 1,208 points.

Southern Cal's impressive triumph over Alabama lifted the 3-0 Trojans from seventh to third with 14 first-place votes and 1,189 points.

Michigan, 2-0, climbed from fifth to fourth with six first-place votes and 1,144 points by beating Notre Dame 28-14, sending the Fighting Irish reeling out of the rankings.

Penn State, 4-0, which came from nine points behind in the third period to edge Southern Methodist 26-21, slipped to fifth place. The Nittany Lions received the other two first-place ballots and 1,87 points.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Texas, Alabama, Texas A&M, Pittsburgh and Florida State.

Texas remained No. 6 with a 17-3 decision over Wyoming. Texas A&M edged from ninth to eighth with a 37-2 rout of Boston College, while Pitt and Florida State moved into the Top Ten from last week's 11th and 13th spots. Pitt defeated Temple 20-12, while Florida State downed Miami, Fla., 31-7.

UCLA and Louisiana State dropped to the Second Ten. UCLA, No. 8 last week, was upset by Kansas 28-24 and fell to 18th, while Louisiana State struggled past Wake Forest 13-11 and slipped from 10th to 11th.

The rest of the Second Ten consists of Nebraska, Ohio State, Missouri, Maryland, Colorado, Iowa State, UCLA, Georgia and Stanford.

Georgia and Stanford were ranked for the first time this season. Georgia blanked Clemson 12-0 while Stanford whipped Illinois 35-10. They replaced Notre Dame, which was 14th last week, and No. 15 Washington, which lost to Indiana 14-7.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Pitt, Nebraska, Florida State, Notre Dame, Washington, Ohio State, Missouri, Maryland, Colorado and Iowa State.

11. Louisiana State 2-0-0576
12. Nebraska 2-1-0508
13. Ohio State 1-1-0449
14. Missouri 2-1-0446
15. Maryland 3-0-0376
16. Colorado 3-0-0356
17. Iowa State 3-0-0312
18. UCLA 2-1-0229
19. Georgia 2-0-0117
20. Stanford 2-1-085

Contest Winners

Jackie Wilson of 204 Staffordshire Dr., Greenville, is the winner of last week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Wilson correctly picked the winners in 26 of the 32 games listed. His four misses included two ties which resulted in games this week. They were counted wrong, since it is possible to pick a tie.

Second place went to Steve Camp of 104 College Court Dr., Greenville, who had 25 correct picks. He won second place on the basis of his point total guess, which he hit right on the head, with a prediction of 67.

A total of 67 were scored in three games. Houston's 42-25 win over Utah; Texas Tech's 41-26 win over Arizona; and Utah State's 45-22 win over Fresno State.

Six other people also had 25 right, but were further off on their point total guess.

One contestant had picked 26 correct winners, but was disqualified for submitting two entries. Only one entry per person is allowed per week.

The next contest appears in the following pages.

Rampants Second In 3-Way Meet

ROCKY MOUNT — Northern Nash High School took first place in a three-way cross-country meet yesterday. The Knights finished the afternoon's run with 27 points, while Rose was second with 38, and hosting Rocky Mount finished third with 67.

Northern Nash started out with the first two finishers and put four of their top five in the first ten.

Frank Brown led the way over the 2.2-mile course with a time of 11:49. Tim Avent was second with a time of 12:00.

Rose High's Til Jolly was third in 12:15, followed by Tommy Smith of Rocky Mount in 12:17. Sam Pullen of Northern Nash completed the top five in 12:23.

Blair Smith was Rose led the second five over the line in 12:32. He was followed by Willie Alston of Northern in 12:37; Bill DeVanzo of Rose in 12:42; Ray Green of Rocky Mount in 12:46; and Michael Davis of Rose in 12:47.

Other Rose finishers included Dan Mayo, 11th in 12:48; Alan Parks, 14th in 12:51; Steve Blackwell, 15th in 12:52; Ted Gartman, 17th in 13:15; Sterling Ashby, 25th in 14:20; and Mike Tucker, 28th in 14:51.

Rose, now 5-1, travels to Wilson Hunt on Thursday.

CONTEST RULES

1. Thirty-two football games are placed on these pages. Pick the winner of each game (not the score) and write the team name opposite the advertiser's name on the entry blank. The entrant picking the most correct winners each week will be awarded $15.00. Second place $10.00.
2. Pick a number which you think will be the most number of points scored by both teams in any one of the week's games listed and write your answer in the space provided on the entry blank. This will be used to break ties. In the event of a further tie the money will be equally divided between the winning entrants.
3. Only one entry per person per week. The contest is open to all except employees of The Daily Reflector and their immediate families.
4. Entries must be in The Daily Reflector office not later than 5:00 p.m. Friday or post marked not later than Friday p.m. Address entries to: FOOTBALL CONTEST, P.O. Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. (Reasonable Facsimiles also accepted.)

Do You Remember?

The 1906 Columbia Electric Victoria Phaeton was a popular touring car.

New ideas are always welcome here, but there's a very old concept we try to keep in mind...that quality and pride be most important in business. Remember US when you need parts for your car.

EXPLANATION — The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 27, 1978

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You will have unusually good judgment today and you would be wise to utilize it your advantage in matters pertaining to agreements. Take time to make plans for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Consult with one who is most successful in your line of endeavor and get good pointers for your own advancement.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Know what family members desire and try to help them gain their aims. Be sure to maintain good health.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Ideal day to gain knowledge that is important to your welfare. Discuss with allies how to be more successful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find the right way to gain the cooperation of others in pursuits that can be mutually beneficial. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Go after your personal aims in a highly objective way and you get good results now. Not a good day to deal with higher-ups.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Quietly gain the support of influential persons that can be helpful to you in career matters. Relax at home tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to get together with friends during spare time and express ideas. Be careful in the handling of money.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Steer clear of a foe who is jealous of you. Contact an influential person who can be helpful in planning the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) A good time to put those inspired ideas to work and get fine results. Make sure you act with conviction.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care you follow through on promises made and don't permit a worrier to hold you back. Show that you have wisdom.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Praise your associates for any exceptional work done and gain their respect and loyalty. Strive for increased happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Listen to suggestions of a co-worker and you can improve environs considerably. Don't let others impose on you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can easily enlarge on intellectual matters, so be sure to send to college and encourage to express self. A generous and magnanimous person here. Even with religion your progeny will have own ideas.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — CHANGING LEAVES ENHANCED COOL SYLVAN HOLIDAY.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: K equals N

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Predicts Possible Rationing Of Power

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — A rural power association official says electric power will have to be rationed before 1990 unless the government eases its air and water pollution and mining laws.

"The public needs to know that legal contrivances and unreasonable interpretations of federal air, water and mining laws are being used to block or delay the construction of duly authorized power facilities," Robert D. Partridge said Monday.

"Unless the unnecessary and unreasonable impediments are removed," he said, "we face an assured shortage of electric power before 1990 which will make load shedding, allocation and rationing inevitable."

Partridge, vice president and general manager of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, made the remarks at the opening of a regional meeting of 800 rural electric cooperative officials from seven southern states.

The chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, S. David Freeman, has differed with the association's views in the past, saying the air, water and mining laws are needed to preserve the environment.

TVA provides electricity to 60 rural co-ops in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Kentucky, Georgia, North Carolina and Virginia.

We would not have wagered a plugged nickel on declarer's chances of bringing home ten tricks at his spade contract. But West could not resist a double and, armed with the information that trumps were breaking badly, declarer managed to sail safely into port.

Opposite a partner who had passed, East decided to make life as difficult as possible for his opponents by preempting at the four-level. But South was not to be denied. He overcalled four spades, and West felt that Christmas had arrived early this year.

West attacked with the queen of diamonds and continued the suit, which declarer ruffed. Without the double, declarer would certainly have drawn a couple of rounds of trumps, and gone down. But since West was marked with long trumps for his double (he certainly wasn't doubling on high cards), declarer was content with cashing only one high trump.

Next came the ace of hearts. When that fetched the jack from East, declarer applied the Principle of Restricted Choice and ran the ten. After that held, declarer cashed the ace and king of clubs and repeated the heart finesse. He then discarded his club loser on the king of hearts.

Both West and declarer were now down to nothing but trumps. Declarer led a club from dummy and ruffed low. West overruffed, but did not enjoy the prospect of being on lead. He tried to exit with the queen of trumps, but declarer countered by allowing him to hold that trick. Now West was forced to lead from his J-9 of trumps into declarer's K-10 tenace, and the defenders scored only one diamond and two trump tricks.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. Speaks To Pitt Ass'n Greenville attorney Charles L. (Sonny) McLawhorn Jr. addressed the Pitt County Association of Life Underwriters recently at the organization's first meeting of the fall.

McLawhorn discussed the flexibility required in structuring buy-sell agreements for closely held corporations, especially as such agreements relate to North Carolina law and to the Tax Reform Act of 1976.

The speaker, who received an A.B. degree from East Carolina University, graduated first in his class of 200 at the Oklahoma City University School of Law where he earned his Juris Doctor degree. He also holds a Master of Laws degree in taxation from the New York University School of Law.

G. Philip Koonce, CLU, president of the PCALU, said that the association meets on the third Thursday each month from September through May.

He reported that the association was honored by the National Association of Life Underwriters with a "quota buster" award for its gain in membership under immediate past president, Billy C. Ellis. During Ellis' term of office, he said, the membership increased by approximately 40 percent.

Reynolds, Del Monte Agree To Merge

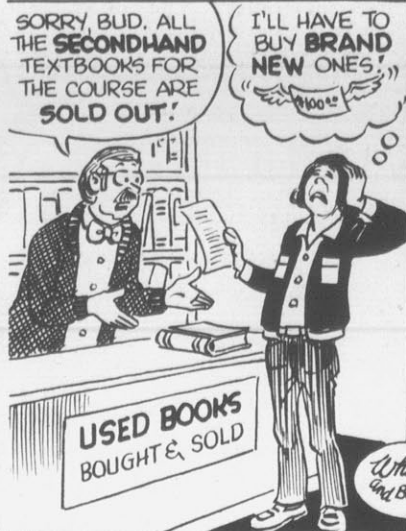

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) - R. J. Reynolds Industries Inc. and Del Monte Corp. officials announced Monday that their boards of directors had reached agreement in principle for a merger of the two companies.

R.G. Landis of Del Monte and J. Paul Sticht of Reynolds said the merger would take place through a merger of Del Monte with a subsidiary of R.J. Reynolds.

The agreement provides that at the election of shareholders, 45 percent of Del Monte's outstanding common stock will be purchased for cash for $48.50 per share and the remaining stock will be exchanged for share for a new RJR convertible voting cumulative preferred stock.

The new preferred stock is expected to have an annual dividend rate of 8 to 8.1 percent with mandatory and optional sinking fund payments beginning in the sixth year and maturity in 12 years. If holders of more than 45 percent of Del Monte's shares elect to receive cash, their shares will be acquired for cash on a pro rated basis. If holders of more than 55 percent of Del Monte's shares elect to receive preferred stock, their shares will be acquired for preferred stock on a pro rata basis. Del Monte will continue to operate as a separate entity under its present name, with its headquarters in San Francisco.

Planning-Zoning Commissions Will Meet Wednesday Night

The Joint City-County and Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissions will consider a total of 12 items at Wednesday's 8 p.m. meeting at city hall.

Business on the joint agenda includes: request of J. T. Williams for rezoning Azalea Gardens Mobile Home Park from RA-20 to R-6 Mobile Home; request of Kenneth Whichard for rezoning 42.7 acres south of Greenville Boulevard between Seaboard Coast Line Railroad and Belvedere from RA-20 to Highway Commercial, R-6 and R-9.

Consideration of a resolution establishing the regular meeting place and time of meetings; request of J. H. Blount for rezoning 50.6 acres located between the Tar Road and Seaboard Coast Line Railroad from RA-20 to R-6, R-9, Highway Commercial and Unoffensive Industry; Request of Cherry Oaks Inc.

for rezoning 17 acres on the east side of 14th Street Extension across from Windy Ridge from RA-20 to R-6; and preliminary plat of the Lewis Evans Subdivision on the southeast quadrant of the intersection of Red Banks Road and Arlington Boulevard. The city board will consider: request of A. J. Speight for rezoning 24,650 square feet on the south side of NC 43 between the Texaco station and Southern Hospital Supply from Medical Arts to Downtown Commercial Fringe.

Resolution establishing the regular meeting place and time of meetings; request of Louis Clark Agency Inc. for rezoning 21.8 acres at the southwest corner of the intersection of Red Banks Road and 14th Street Extension from R-20 and RA-20 to R-9.

Request of the City Inspections Department for rezoning 5.75 acres on W. Gum Road between US 13-NC 11 and Fred Webb's grain elevators as R-6 Mobile Home as an alternative zoning to the existing Unoffensive Industry;

Grant To PTI

Congressman Walter B. Jones announced Monday the approval by the Office of Education of HEW of a grant under the Basic Institutional Development Program to Pitt Technical Institute, Greenville, in the amount of $75,000.

According to Dr. Charles Russell of Pitt Technical Institute, the grant will help implement a comprehensive faculty and staff developmental program. The program will allow employees to pursue professional development in such areas as attending workshops and other institutions.

113th Annual Meet For Baptist Ass'n

The 113th Annual Session of the Old Eastern Missionary Baptist Association will convene at the Macedonia Mission Baptist Church of Farmville Sept. 28 through Oct. 1.

Rev. J. R. Person, moderator of the 56 church association, will preside. The theme of the session is "Working Together With God."

Representatives from state and national conventions will be in attendance.

Dr. W. C. Somerville, Executive Secretary-Treasurer of the Lott Carey Convention will address the association on Friday morning. Mrs. E. B. Turner, president of the Woman's Convention of North Carolina, will speak during the Friday afternoon session, and Dr. E. B. Turner of Lumberton will deliver the sermon Saturday morning after the business session.

The association will open at 10 a.m. Thursday with the Woman's Department in charge, and will close Sunday afternoon.

The public is invited to attend any or all of the sessions.

All-Day Session For Assistants

GOLDSBORO — The Fifth District Dental Assistants will hold an educational program at the Area Health Education Center building at Wayne Memorial Hospital here October 14.

Registration for the program will be from 9:30 to 10 a.m.

"Human Relations and Communications," will be an all-day program, while, "What You Have Always Wanted To Know About The New Medicaid Program, But Were Afraid To Ask" will be limited to a half-day session during the morning.

Fire Hydrants Camouflaged

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state fire prevention agency wants to extinguish Bicentennial fire hydrants.

Firefighters, it seems, can't tell if they're pulling up to a hydrant or a miniature statue of a Minuteman, comic strip character or W.C. Fields.

The state Division of Fire Prevention and Control says in the September issue of Newsview, a state publication, many hydrants have been accidentally camouflaged by the Bicentennial decorations. Thus, it's difficult for fire units to find hydrants in emergencies.

Raft Race

The First Annual Women's Residence Council Raft Race will be held Saturday, Oct. 7, beginning at noon.

The race on Tar River is sponsored by the Women's Residence Council of East Carolina University and is open to anyone who registers and pays a $10 entry fee. Half of the profits will be donated to the United Cerebral Palsy Developmental Center here. Entry deadline is Friday, Sept. 29.

For information and entry blanks, one may contact Liz Blum at 752-8021 or the ECU Dean of Women's office, 757-6671.

The captains' meeting for the race will begin at 11 a.m. on race day.

Cars Collided At Intersection

An estimated $1,600 property damage resulted from a 9:19 a.m. collision yesterday at the intersection of First and Greene Streets, according to Greenville Police Department investigators.

Officers identified drivers of the two cars involved as Melvin Lee Hoot of 300 South Library St. and Jesse James Harris of Bethel.

Damage was estimated at $1,500 to the Hoot car and $100 to the Harris vehicle.

Preliminary plat of Beacon Acres Subdivision on the east side of Hooker Road north of Greenville Boulevard; and preliminary plat of Lake Ellsworth Subdivision, Section V, on the northwest side of US 264 Business.

Authentic English Stoneware. Free. From BB&T.

English Stoneware is something special. Made the way it's been made for over 150 years. By hand. By craftsmen.

Potters take the clay from their native England and fashion it into distinctive shapes. Each piece is individually dipped in a glaze. Then hand decorated by a talented artist.

All this care does make an elegant difference, recognizable in subtle variations from piece to piece.

By saving at Branch Banking and Trust Company, you can get your first three-piece place setting free.

That's a hand-crafted cup, saucer and dinner plate free, just for depositing $25 or more, in a new or existing BB&T Regular Savings Account at any BB&T office.

12 piece snack set for four:

Each snack set consists of a coffee mug, soup/cereal bowl and a salad/luncheon plate. It's ideal for snacks, breakfasts and light lunches.

When you deposit $500.00 in a new or existing BB&T Savings Account, you may purchase this twelve-piece snack set for four for only $31.75.

26 piece service for four:

Entertain the idea of having enough Stoneware for a dinner party this evening: four dinner plates, four cups, four saucers, four bread and butter plates, four soup/cereal bowls, a 1.5 quart casserole dish with lid, an oval platter, a sugar bowl with lid, and a cream pitcher.

They can all be yours for only $65.00. Simply deposit $1,000 in a new or existing BB&T Savings Account. And entertain.

Limited to one free place setting per account.

Almost a lost art.

This Stoneware had its origin in Belper, England, which is near the origin of another famous story. That of Robin Hood. Sherwood Forest and Nottingham are just a short distance away.

Here, craftsmen have passed the secrets and skills of their art from father to son to grandson. Establishing a tradition of unsurpassed hand-craftsmanship.

Each piece of Authentic English Stoneware is hand-formed by craftsmen, glazed by hand, and the decorations are painted on by skillful artists.

The result is beautiful in an honest, natural way.

Matching completer pieces at special low prices.

When you make a savings deposit of $25 or more, you may purchase completer pieces at special low prices. For example, additional three-piece place settings are only $6.49 each. And you may pay for your purchases with cash, check or Master Charge. Whichever is most convenient.

If you've ever priced Authentic English Stoneware, and it's only available in the finest stores, you know that BB&T's offer is a remarkable value.

Beauty doesn't have to be fragile.

Authentic English Stoneware is as practical as it is pretty. You can do things with this Stoneware that you'd never think possible.

You can use it in a regular or microwave oven. You can freeze in it. You can put it in the dishwasher. And yet, it will look like new after years of this kind of hard use.

This Stoneware is so strong that the supplier gives a limited two-year warranty. Which you can pick up at any BB&T office.

Start your collection today.

Stop by any BB&T office today and get your first place setting of Authentic English Stoneware free with a deposit of $25 or more in a new or existing savings account. And while you're at the bank, pick up a complimentary copy of our fully-detailed brochure.

Authentic English Stoneware is something nice to have. And BB&T is offering you a nice way to get it.
