

Pope John Paul I Dies During Night

By DENNIS REDMONT Associated Press Writer VATICAN CITY (AP) - Pope John Paul I, the humble "little man" elected pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church just 34 days ago, died of a heart attack during the night, the Vatican announced today. The 65-year-old pope's reign was one of the briefest in history but his warmth and good humor had nonetheless endeared him to millions.

An official Vatican announcement said John Paul, who had a history of health problems, died at about 11 p.m. Thursday (5 p.m. EDT) while reading the 15th-century book of meditations "The Imitation of Christ."

In death he still had his usual smile, said a senior cardinal.

The body was discovered this morning at about 5:30 by his private secretary, the Rev. John Magee of Ireland, who went to the bedroom after noticing the pontiff was not in his private chapel at the usual time, the announcement said. The bed light was still on.

A doctor was immediately summoned, and he attributed death to "acute myocardial infarction." Monsignor Canisio Van Lierde, the pope's vicar for Vatican City, blessed the body.

"Providence took him away from us so suddenly," said Carlo Confalonieri, the 85-year-old dean of the College of Cardinals. "We are all with our eyes turned upward wondering about the inscrutable designs of God."

By noon, the body of the church's 263rd pontiff lay in state beneath a fresco of angels in the Vatican's Clementine Hall, just a few rooms away from the bedroom where he died. A stream of people, from cardinals and political leaders to foreign tourists and housewives, filed past.

The body lay on a velvet-draped bier, dressed in a white embroidered ankle-length robe and a red chasuble, a white mitre on his head and a pastoral staff placed alongside the body. His hands, the fingernails blackened, were clasped together holding a rosary. His mouth was slightly open. Behind the bier stood a tall crucifix.

The bells of the churches of Rome tolled in unison at noon in mourning. Some faithful knelt in St. Peter's Square and prayed. Messages of condolence began flowing in almost immediately from around the world. The Italian government declared national mourning.

In the north Italian mountain hamlet where the pope was born, the 30 villagers attending morning Mass burst into tears when the parish priest interrupted the service to announce the news.

Confalonieri said in an interview: "He lay in his bed, with the face slightly reclined on the right, with his usual smile. I prayed, kissed his hand, then went to the papal chapel to say Mass."

Vatican sources said that before retiring to his bedroom Thursday night, John Paul learned about the fatal shooting of a Communist youth earlier that evening in a right-wing ambush in Rome. "They kill each other even among young people," he reportedly commented in what may have been his last words.

Smooth Peace Pact Path Seen By Egyptian Official

By ELIAS ANTAR Associated Press Writer CAIRO, Egypt (AP) -

Egypt's acting foreign minister, Butros B. Ghali, says Israel may voluntarily end its military government in the West Bank of the Jordan River in the next three months. But failure to do so isn't expected to affect the signing of a peace treaty.

concluded, you can have the end of military administration in the West Bank and Gaza," Ghali told The Associated Press in an interview Thursday.

He said the two sets of negotiations were not dependent upon each other, but had to move in parallel.

A senior Egyptian official, who declined use of his name, said lack of progress on the West Bank issue would not impede the actual signing of a treaty between Israel and Egypt.

But the official said Egypt's participation in the West Bank talks meant that any problems in these talks would in practice affect smooth implementation of the Egyptian-Israeli treaty.

"You can have lots of accidents in the middle," the official said. "Disagreement on the West Bank and Gaza Strip will not help implementation of the Sinai agreement."

Egyptian officials said that Israeli and Egyptian military negotiators were to meet in Ismailia, on the Suez Canal, next Wednesday to begin talks on the bilateral treaty. Even though the two countries agreed on the main elements of the two-stage Israel withdrawal from Sinai, actually drawing lines on maps would take some time, officials said. The talks will be held under a United Nations flag with an American representative present, the officials said.

Meanwhile, Egypt's semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram said the United States has tied its promise to pay for two new airbases for Israel to the Israeli position on West Bank settlements. But President Carter told a Washington news conference Thursday that his disagreement with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin over the settlements would not affect his decision to build the air bases. "I have already directed letters be sent to Israel," Carter said.

Carter also said that Begin and Sadat had assured him that there were "no remaining obstacles" to a rapid conclusion of a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel.

Price Change

Home delivery and Sunday edition prices for "The Daily Reflector" will increase October 1, according to Circulation Manager B. R. Hardee. The new home delivery rate will be $3.50 per month, while the single copy Sunday price will increase to 35-cents.

The single copy daily price of 15-cents will remain unchanged, Hardee said. The October 1 price change is the first increase since the 15-cents daily price, the 30-cents Sunday edition, and the $3 per month home delivery charge were set in July 1975.

Hardee said the rate increase is the result of rising costs of newsprint and other materials used in the publication of the newspaper.

The 44-year-old Wilson suffered an apparent heart attack and brain damage while performing in a Dick Clark rock 'n' roll revival show at the now defunct Latin Casino on Sept. 29, 1975.

CHAIN LETTERS ILLEGAL?

My sons have been approached about buying a letter bearing the names and addresses of 10 persons for $75. Then they are to make and sell copies of the letter and send a $25 savings bond to each of persons named on the list. They're told they can then sit back and wait for their bonds to flow in. Their profits could amount to as much as $51,000, they're told. I contend the whole thing is illegal and a fraud.

Indeed, it is illegal and a fraud, says Rosemary Pittman of the Consumer Protection Division of the N. C. Department of the Attorney General. This sounds like the "Spirit of '76" scheme, with which the division is very familiar, she commented.

She said chain letters that involve money or goods violate the North Carolina criminal code (G. S. 291.2). Anyone who would like to may send a complaint about being approached about one of these pyramid deals to the Consumer Protection Division, N. C. Attorney General's Office, Box 629, Raleigh 27602. The information will be passed on to the District Attorney in the area in question and also to the U. S. Postal Inspector's office if anything appears to have been sent through the mails. Usually the savings bonds, if not some of the letters are mailed, she said.

Greenville Postmaster Lloyd Mills said that any evidence or complaints brought to the Post Office will be turned over to the Postal Inspector.

Miss Keeping, Mr. Haddock Wed Bills Dentist For Making Her Wait

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday I had a 2:30 p.m. dental appointment for a routine cleaning and checking. The dentist's office phoned me at noon to ask if I could possibly make it 1:30 p.m. instead, so I broke my neck to get there an hour earlier. Would you believe I sat in the waiting room cooling my heels until 3:30 p.m.! I was fit to be tied.

When I finally got in to see the dentist he didn't even apologize for keeping me waiting, and nobody thanked me for coming early. His nurse mumbled something about an emergency which was supposed to make everything all right.

Today I sent my dentist a bill for $30, explaining that my time was worth at least $15 an hour.

Care to comment?

STEAMED IN CONN.

DEAR STEAMED: Had you been the emergency, you would have been much more understanding. But they did owe you a "thank you" for coming early, as well as a "sorry" for the delay.

Billing the dentist for your time was an appropriate protest, but getting the money will be like pulling teeth.

Miss Peggy Ann Keeping and Grover Cleveland Haddock Jr. were united in marriage in a candlelight ceremony Sunday at 4:00 p.m. at the Red Oak Christian Church. Dr. Harold Deitch officiated at the double ring ceremony.

A rush tea will be held Sunday in the social room of Fletcher Dormitory on the university campus from 2-4 p.m. Interested university girls will be acquainted with the sorority, its ideals and goals.

A slide presentation will highlight the tea with chapter scrapbooks and yearbooks on display. Mrs. Audrey Ward of Winston-Salem, ESA state president, Mrs. Jean Long of Charlotte, state membership director, and Mrs. Carolyn Smith of Wilmington, Alpha Omega chapter advisor, will be present.

All female ECU students interested in the sorority are invited to attend the tea. Information and transportation are available by contacting Mrs. Barbara Zicherman, 756-4004, and Mrs. Shirley Westbrook, 756-7098.

Bonanza For N.C. Piedmont

North Carolina has spent several thousand dollars on a legislative study committee to make recommendations on a 20,000 to 30,000 seat indoor sports arena.

The committee is expected to recommend that such a facility be developed. It would be used for basketball games, sports tournaments conventions and shows.

Committee spokesmen say that there are no plans to recommend full state financing for the arena. However, the door is left open for land donation by the state and help in planning.

One of the main advocates of this hugely costly venture is Sen. Julian Allsbrook, who represents our senatorial district in the State Legislature. He is on to an extremely bad idea.

North Carolina is already involved in the multi-million dollar project by simply paying the cost of the Sports Facility Study Committee. We can be certain that the project will cost the taxpayers of North Carolina much more as it progresses.

We don't have any objection to the construction of a 30,000 seat indoor facility in the Triangle area — we don't, that is, if the people of Wake, Durham and Orange Counties want to pay for it.

The taxpayers of our state, however, have already spent too much on this project, particularly when our state has so many other pressing needs.

We would suggest that Sen. Allsbrook forget this Piedmont bonanza and devote his full energies to his home district.

THAT MIGHT PROP UP HIS RATING A BIT!

Camp David Mark

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Suddenly, people with a project to push are clamoring to get it the Camp David treatment.

It may point to a new way of doing political business. The latest request came from Rep. John Conyers Jr., a Michigan Democrat who walked out of a White House meeting between President Carter and the Congressional Black Caucus after saying the administration is not doing enough to promote full employment.

Conyers and his colleagues want the White House to push for swift adoption of a bill that would set as a national goal the reduction of unemployment to no more than 4 percent within four years.

White House officials say Conyers proposed a meeting at Camp David to put pressure on congressional leaders for action on several bills, particularly the jobs bill.

Conyers' associates say he wasn't necessarily seeking a return to the presidential retreat in the Maryland mountains, site of the 13-day summit on the Middle East but, rather, was suggesting a "Camp David style" meeting to give the legislation a push.

Carter said that would not be appropriate, and after some argument about the blame for inaction on the full employment bill, Conyers walked out.

It's stating to appear that Carter has done for Camp David what Lyndon B. Johnson did for the telephone as a tool — or weapon — of political persuasion. Johnson always was on the phone, cajoling, reasoning, arguing, instructing, ordering.

The habit dated from his days as Senate majority leader. By one account, probably apocryphal, Johnson boasted so much about his use of the mobile telephone in his limousine that Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen got envious.

So Dirksen had a phone installed in his car, too, and telephoned LBJ's limousine. They talked briefly, until

Gilmore Pulled One Plug

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Of all the high-handed bureaucratic nerve! Some high level state officials have cancelled some employee training sessions.

Will the meek, taxpaying citizen stand quietly by and allow such an imposition upon their rights to governmental services?

Three of the most important events were planned for late October, November and December.

On Oct. 31 it had been hoped that Gordon Burhaardt of the University of Tennessee would travel (at your expense) to North Carolina for a one-day seminar entitled "Neonatal Behavior in Reptiles".

We looked that up in Webster's dictionary, and as best it can be figured out it has to do with how newborn snakes act.

Next, Dr. Alan Gelperin of Princeton University was to be here for one and one-half days talking about "Behavioral and Neurophysiological Studies of Learning in a Terrestrial Mollusk."

Snails

That session Nov. 28 and Nov. 29 would have involved some 80 state employees who would spend a night (guess who pays for rooms, meals, travel and time?) catching up on this vital issue. The title sent us scurrying to the medical dictionary where as best can be learned it has to do with how nerves affect body activities in earth-bound creatures with soft, pulpy bodies such as oysters or snails. We presume snails, since oysters don't live in the earth. But ... now we'll never know.

December 12 was they day to learn about "Ultrasonic Communication in Rat Social Behavior" from Dr. Ronald Barfield of Rutgers University. Too bad.

There were others on the list of rejected seminars from just that one agency (the mental health and retardation services of the Department of Human Resources). Six in all. Each research seminar leader was to collect $150 for the day in North Carolina, plus expenses. The man who would have been here an extra half-day was to get $225, plus expenses. Some of the other rejected seminars include study of the relationship between nerve and behavior changes in the aged; a fellow from Australia who would discuss cell death during neural development; and something about consummatory behavior (no use even looking that one up in any dictionary).

BILL NOBLITT

Here is how the memorandum requesting approval of the contracts summed up the purpose: "The Division of Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services, Research Section, sponsors annually a series of research seminars.

"These seminars permit us to receive maximum use from trainers, comparing our research with that of other laboratories in the nation, give our researchers a chance to show their work, obtain advice" and interact with outstanding scientists in their field."

Wasted

Tom Gilmore, deputy secretary of the Department of Human Resources, disapproved the proposed seminars. He's the one to blame for depriving North Carolina of these opportunities. In a cover memorandum explaining his action, Gilmore used only 21 words — about which a book could be written:

"Enclosed is an example of the types of requests we are constantly turning down. What a waste of taxpayers' money."

Asked about such a bureaucratic attitude, Gov. Jim Hunt said he is interested in knowing more about the possibility of waste in training among state employees. Some of his department heads heads tell him it is a serious problem, and he is interested in looking into the matter further.

CAMPAIGN-GIVING

Ingram Insurance Friends

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Despite running battles with the insurance industry through 1 1/2 stormy terms as commissioner of insurance, John Ingram has still managed to attract the support of some agents and executives of that business in his race for the U.S. Senate.

At least 20 substantial contributions to Ingram's campaign against Sen. Jesse Helms, R.N.C., have been publicly listed from persons who earn their living in insurance, which Ingram has repeatedly blasted in campaign speeches as one of the "special interests" he wants to fight in Washington.

All have given $100 or more, and some as much as $1,000, according to the latest available federal campaign contribution reports for receipts through June.

They total nearly $5,000 for a period when Ingram raised and spent less than $80,000.

More agents could have been among the thousands of smaller, unitemized contributors included in that amount.

Helms, by contrast, reported raising nearly $5 million during the same period. Ingram has made an issue of Helms' money, and the large portion of out-of-state contributors.

"It's a real surprise why any agent would contribute money to Ingram," one agent who is active in a statewide insurance organization said privately when asked about the phenomenon. "Most of us feel he's favoring the consumer to the point he's not balancing that with a concern for the insurance providers."

"You could call 100 agents this afternoon, and 95 of them would give you that same response, that he has acted irresponsibly with his steadfast refusal to grant a rate increase," he said.

If so, then why would any want to contribute money?

One of Ingram's largest contributors is Bernard

Rapoport, chairman of American Income Life Insurance Co. of Waco, Texas, who gave $1,000 to his primary campaign. Rapoport told a reporter recently that he donates to candidates close to organized labor, and that the support was unrelated to a number of consumer complaints the department received about his company.

Most others who could be reached, however, cited friendship as the motivation. "John's been a real good friend of mine," said J.E. Ramey, a Mt. Airy agent.

Mike Davis, an agent in Randleman, in Ingram's home county, said it was friendship that prompted his contribution of $200. But, Davis said he knew another reason some might support Ingram.

"They might even want to vote for him to get him out of the insurance office," Davis said. "I have heard agents say that, but I think most of it is just joking."

Other contributors included five top executives of Home Security Life Insurance, of Durham, who each gave $100 on the same day in February. "I'm a Truman Democrat," explained company president A.W. Clark. "You've got to look past parochial interests."

"It was entirely voluntary," said M.C. Ernst, a company vice president. "He's our insurance commissioner, and it was for that reason."

Of about 10 insurance-related contributors contacted, all disclaimed any intent of gaining favor with the state insurance department. But, noted George Talbot, president of Charlotte Liberty Mutual and a $1,000 contributor, every commissioner is going to "ave his own set of friends."

J.E. Wooten, a Wake Forest agent, said any agent who helps Ingram does so at risk of angering his affiliated companies. "I have had some companies pull out of my agency because of it. They won't say so, of course, but I know that's why," he said.

"I hate to say it, but yes, that does sound reasonable. It could happen," an insurance expert who is no ally of Ingram's said, asking not to be identified. "If his (an Ingram supporter's) contract is not cancelled, an agent would at least receive some residual fallout, such as ostracism from his professional community."

"It's just an indication of the tremendous power of the commissioner, and of the companies," he said.

Strength For Today

A NEED FOR MORAL CHARACTER

Centuries ago the people of China built the great wall which still stands along the northern border of that country. The purpose was to keep out invaders, yet the wall was scarcely completed before a hostile king bribed some of the gatekeepers of the wall and marched into China unopposed.

The failure of the Great Wall of China to accomplish its purpose illustrates that in the last analysis our only security in this world lies in moral character. — The greatest system of armament will never insure a nation against invasion as long as there are neighbors who recognize no moral restraint. Likewise, no system of force will ever hold families together if the members do not love and respect one another. The soundness of financial institutions is determined not so much by the law operating upon them as by the character of the men administering them.

There can be no security, progress, or happiness without moral character.

The Secret Is In Paint

WASHINGTON — It is not generally known, but one of the things the General Services Administration (GSA) does is train foreign bureaucrats in how to administer the housekeeping chores of their own governments. Now that the multimillion-dollar scandal is breaking in the agency, I keep wondering what some of these foreign government workers learned.

I take you to a GSA office where Amu Tiki has been assigned to study the latest methods used in servicing the U.S. government.

"Now Mr. Tiki, when you take charge of running the housekeeping of your government you will have to lease buildings, see that they are kept up through paint and repairs, purchase and dispense millions of dollars' worth of office equipment, run hundreds of supply stores, handle government transportation, and provide all the services that will keep the bureaucracy running smoothly and efficiently."

Other Editors Say Wrong Question

(Washington Daily News)

The big question today in schools is not that of whether or not to kick out of school a certain unruly boy or girl.

The big question instead is this: If so and so is kicked out of school because he or she is unruly and unmanageable, will the general public and particularly the parents or guardians support the school officials?

They will either support them, be indifferent, or condemn them. And in a practical sense neither indifference nor condemnation offers a sufficient reason.

The idea we are discussing right here concerns the youngster in school who is not interested in learning. He probably is there because the law forces him to be in school. When he becomes 16 years of age, he'll drop out anyway. He refuses to study, and he does not join in with other class members in discussion. His is most disrespectful toward the teachers, and on occasion he uses both profane and dirty words in "telling off" certain teachers.

In short, that pupil is tending to destroy educational opportunities for many other people. He cares little about others, and he seems to live in an unprincipled world all his own. Again, he is in school because he has to be and not because he wants to learn.

This type of pupil is today a heavy burden upon our school systems and a heavier anchor for ambitious students to have to bear.

And as we look ahead to the hope for better educational opportunities for our boys and girls, one great aspect of it all lies in past experience. From that past experience we can only feel and believe that our schools will be better, or educational opportunities better, and our general school demeanor better if those pupils bent on disruptions and destruction are not in school.

Therefore, we must conclude that if there are youngsters in our schools who deliberately seek to destroy and who very clearly do not want to learn, they should be expelled without delay.

We cannot look out there now and say what parents or guardians will say. We suspect they will not like such a move. We suspect there might even be court cases seeking to overturn some expulsions. After all, in today's world some parents expect school teachers to do for their children what the parents will not or cannot do at home. But we, the people, must be ready to carry forward with the highest degree of educational opportunity and preparation we are able to provide. To this generation as to every generation the greatest challenge lies in our children and their futures. Let us seek to answer the right question with the right reply.

ART BUCHWALD

"It sounds like a lot of work."

"But it pays well."

"It does."

"Yes, if you learn it right. Now let me give you an example. You walked through the halls of this building before you came here. Right? What did you notice?"

"They needed paint."

"Of course they did. Now your job would be to paint those walls. How many coats of paint would you say they needed?"

"At least three."

"Good. Now what you would do is give out a contract to paint the halls three times, but the contractor would only paint them once."

"What about the other two coats of paint?"

"They would go into the pockets of you and your contractor."

"I don't want paint in my pockets."

"Not paint, Mr. Tiki, the cost of the other two coats of paint."

"I see. One coat for the walls, one coat for the contractor and one coat for me."

"You learn fast. Now let's talk about furniture. You don't happen to have a Following announcement in Washington that a WPA project for matron service in the public schools of Pitt County to cost $11,394 had been approved. The Board of Education announced that Mrs. Frank Edmondson would have charge of the program.

Several schools in the county will benefit from the project, which will take women on the relief rolls and place them in the schools as matrons in charge of the rest rooms, wash rooms, taking care of the sick, etc.

Each year, early in the fall, Greenville becomes a bright and smiling city and well it should with the wealth and happiness portrayed in the bright leaf loads as they are being hauled into the "city of sunshine". Since this season brings to us a golden harvest would we not live a fuller satisfaction to have another such happiness at some time during the year.

And so, the Garden Club of Greenville is promoting an expressive slogan for one of the six most rapidly growing cities in America — Greenville, The City of Sunshine.

Findings That Might Surprise

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — For the liberal arts student, for the homemaker worrying about prices, and for the gloomy of heart who believe the American worker has become a goofoff, these items of interest:

FOR THE LIBERAL ARTS GRADUATE: Liberal arts students are prized by some business organizations.

True, many companies look for business or related majors, but others esteem the liberal arts for their reasoning and other abilities.

Cargill, Inc., a Minneapolis-based, privately owned, multibillion dollar, worldwide trader of commodities, traditionally hires liberal arts graduates among its management trainees.

"We feel they have a rounded education, are generally able to express themselves, and have an open mind," said W. B. "Barney" Saunders, a group vice president who interviews potential trainees.

FOR HOMEMAKERS: The message is less refreshing.

According to Howard Hjort, Agriculture Department chief economist, "a stable farm price situation in 1979 would likely result in food price increases on the order of 4 or 5 percent." Not bad, so far.

At that point Citibank economists began making their own projections. Hjort's prediction, they said, assumes an inflation rate of 6.5 percent to 7.5 percent.

"We expect 8 percent or more," they said.

Based on Hjort's statement, the grocery bill of a typical four-person family next year would rise by about $3.40 a week, if farm prices remain stable.

The calculations get even more foreboding. "Smaller meat and dairy supplies," the economists maintain, "could push that bill up by $6.15 a week." And the message continues to darken.

These increases, if realized, would be on top of the $6.21 weekly increase already foreseen for 1978 for the typical four-person family who spent $62.10 a week on groceries in 1977," the economists state.

FOR THE WORKER: And for those who think they no longer are interested in a good day's work for a good day's pay, it isn't so, says Prof. David Cherrington of Brigham Young University.

Cherrington surveyed 3,000 workers nationally and learned from them, he says, that pride in doing a job well is the highest priority of the American worker.

On a scale of one to 100, "pride in craftsmanship" placed 84, outranking "more money or larger pay increase" by two points.

Dedicating New Church Facility This Sunday

TO BE DEDICATED . . . The new addition to Pactolus Baptist Church to be dedicated Sunday is that part of the building to the right of the church. Owen Cooper will be guest speaker at the dedication.

A new building of 3,000 square feet has been added to the Pactolus Baptist Church and will be dedicated Sunday, Oct. 1 at the 11 a.m. service. The service will also be part of the annual homecoming.

The new facility provides for three departments for pre-school age children, and a fellowship hall and kitchen that will take care of 100 persons. Cost of the new addition is $70,000.

Organized in 1883 with three charter members, the Pactolus Church has served the Pactolus community for nearly 100 years. Since the first part of the church building was completed, three additions have been built.

It's A Small World

Ever run into a friend in Tokyo, or meet one of your neighbors in Amsterdam? Maybe not—but such things are happening every day!

It makes you stop and think—the way this world is shrinking. It makes you wish that the men and women who live on opposite sides of the globe had more things in common.

There can be no more unifying force in the world than a common belief in God. And toward that ideal we are rapidly progressing. Christians the world over are feeling and expressing their unity of faith and purpose.

Sunday is World-Wide Communion Sunday. On that day, within the space of a few short hours, Christians in every land will reverently participate in the Lord's Supper which has been a mark of Christian faith for almost two thousand years.

'The Long Search' Examines Religions

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — When British playwright Ronald Eyre went through a period of "asking endless questions: about God, belief, what I was here for, how things started, what goodness is, what evil is, what happens when you die," his relatives passed it off as "his religious phase."

"Well, it's 30 years later and I'm still going through my religious phase, if that's the right word for it," Eyre declares. "I still want to know who I am, what I'm here for, what's real, what isn't real, what I should worship, and I want somebody, some teacher, some teaching to tell me."

What better leader than Eyre for "The Long Search," a 13-part examination of the world's religions now being broadcast on Public Broadcasting Service stations.

The series, which began in September with installments on the Protestant spirit in this country and Buddhism in India, continues this weekend with an examination of orthodox Christianity.

"The Long Search" took the articulate and witty Eyre, a self-described "lapsed Methodist," on a 150,000-mile journey that included visits to 14 countries.

"The usual way of doing a program like this is to invite somebody we call an expert to discuss these weighty subjects," Eyre says. "The trouble is, it's difficult to find anybody who can be regarded as an authority on even one of the religions, much less them all.

"This assignment required somebody like me who was prepared to be experimented on."

"The Long Search," in succeeding weeks, examines religion in Indonesia, Judaism, Hinduism, Islam, Catholicism, Buddhism in Japan, African religions, Taoism in China, and alternative lifestyles in California.

"Based on your travels," Eyre was asked by a friend on his return to London, "what religion that you studied impressed you most?"

"Come now, you know I'm not going to answer that," was the reply. "One of the main points I try to make in the series is that there are no pat answers to such questions. There are just more questions."

The 13th chapter, called "Loose Ends," is a series of "between you and me" questions posed by Eyre. An example, says Eyre, is question suggested in a slightly conspiratorial tone: "Look, I know you had to be discreet before the cameras, but between you and me, what is the best religion?"

"I just took a few of these 'between you and me' questions," he says, "and tried, as best I could, to explain that the answers lie not with me but in the mind of each viewer."

And to the television audience he says in parting, "I wish you well of course, but say nothing conclusive, deliberately nothing conclusive, not even say goodbye."

Voted President Of Association

CHICAGO — Eddie Smith of Greenville was elected and installed as president of the Boat Manufacturers Association here this week during the organization's annual convention.

Smith is president of Grady-White Boats Inc., located on Greenville Boulevard, Northeast.

Smith's election as president of the national boat dealers association took place Wednesday night. The meeting of the BMA, which is comprised of approximately 240 members, was held in conjunction with the annual International Marine Trades Exhibit and Convention.

brother-in-law in the office furniture business, do you?"

"No, he grows rice in his paddy."

"Well, put him in the furniture business fast."

"But where would I get the money?"

"From your coat of paint, dummy."

"Hee hee. I forgot about that."

"Now, once he's in the furniture business you will contract him for all your desks and chairs."

"My brother-in-law doesn't know how to make furniture."

"All the better. When it falls apart you'll have to order more."

"Why should I make my brother-in-law rich?"

"Because you'll be a silent partner in the furniture company."

"Hee hee. I'm going to like this job."

"All right, Tiki. The next thing you have to do is open office-supply stores in your government buildings. If your government is like ours, nobody knows how much paper it uses. You order twice the amount of paper that you think you'll need. Then you sell what isn't used to the private sector."

"Wait, suppose somebody finds out?"

"Then you give him some money from your furniture company to keep his mouth shut."

"This is getting complicated. Can I take notes?"

"NO NOTES! Never take any notes. If you want to be in your government's GSA you have to keep everything in your head."

"Please forgive me for wanting to take notes."

"Okay, that's enough for today. We'll talk about leasing space from private landlords tomorrow. Are there any questions?"

"If my President wants his palace painted, do I only use one coat?"

"No, dammit. Presidential palaces always get three coats of paint. The one thing you have to learn in this business is not to be greedy."

Johnson said he had to hang up because his other phone was ringing.

Now, it seems, Camp David, or at least the Camp David style, offers new options for the Carter treatment.

Unless there's something in the water or the mountain air that leads people to come to terms, the key to Camp Davidstyle success may be the duration of the encampment.

But the president can hardly fly off to Camp David for a week or two every time there's an issue to be resolved.

Perhaps he could blend the Johnson treatment with his own, send opposing factions to Camp David, get them started, and then telephone every now and then to push for an agreement.

Telling people to go and work out their differences is one thing. Inviting them to a summit conference is another.

All the White House has to do is label every meeting a summit meeting.

"It (success) gets hard to handle every once in a while. I actually can't put a handle on it. Sometimes I feel trapped by success."

He granted a brief interview to a news service reporter three years ago to talk about singer Steve Young, whom Jennings admires.

Jennings chatted with the reporter about Young for about 10 minutes, then began discussing other subjects, and recalled how Nashville musicians used to get together and play informally in the mid 1960s.

'Outlaw' Jennings Appears Mellow

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Is brash, swaggering, macho Waylon Jennings getting mellow?

There are signs that Jennings has softened his anti-Nashville establishment stance. And he's become slightly more accessible to the media, relaxing a tacks-tough barrier that has guarded his privacy.

In the past month, Jennings made two rare public appearances in Nashville.

On Sept. 9, he and close friend Johnny Cash gave a surprise performance on the Grand Ole Opry. Jennings, best known for progressive country hits like "Luckenbach, Texas," "Good Hearted Woman" and "Mammas, Don't Let Your Babies Grow Up To Be Cowboys," had not appeared on the Opry for about 10 years.

He had shunned the Opry because he was not permitted to use a full set of drums — an Opry regulation that was dropped a few years ago.

In late August, he taped a concert at the Grand Ole Opry House, but not on the regular Opry show.

Besides disagreements with the revered Grand Ole Opry, Jennings also has shunned the Country Music Association awards show the past few years because he objects to musicians competing against each other.

And he was the subject of considerable publicity a year ago when he was arrested on a cocaine charge, though the charge was dropped.

But friends and acquaintances say he's not the brash type. He once gave a needy employee $400. An acquaintance described Jennings as "shy and modest" and another said he is "a wonderful person."

In July, Jennings granted a rare interview to a Minneapolis Star reporter before a concert

Freight Trains Move, Some Delays Involved

Freight trains are moving through Greenville, according to spokesmen for Southern Railway and the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad, although there may be some delays.

Norfolk and Western clerks who walked off the job July 10, were joined Tuesday by workers on a number of other railroads who either walked off the job, or refused to cross picket lines, causing a major interruption in rail service in the nation.

Seaboard spokesmen this morning said their operations in the Greenville area were "back to normal yesterday," and are "going along normally here," today. "We don't anticipate any changes," the spokesman noted.

Seaboard, according to the spokesman, moves an average of about 150 freight cars through Greenville each day.

Conditions on the Southern line through Greenville, are somewhat different, according to spokesmen for that railroad.

Southern spokesmen in Washington, D. C. said this morning that, "pickets are up all over the railroad," and that Southern is, "moving freight with supervisory personnel. We're hoping one way or another that they'll get the clerks back to work," so traffic on the line will get back to normal.

The spokesman said that, "we're moving most of the freight," but emphasized, "there are some delays."

However, a local Southern source said at mid-morning that traffic on Southern rails in the Greenville area was, "completely stopped right now."

Rosalynn Today Is A Campaigner

By MAUREEN SANTINI Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — As a campaigner, she is a feminine version of Jimmy Carter, often repeating his words verbatim, echoing his campaign themes and referring to the administration as "we."

Rosalynn Carter, on the campaign trail for the first time as First Lady, is above all her husband's cheerleader, even as she stumps for Democratic congressional candidates.

Except for the soft lilt to her voice and her unabashed praise of the president, Mrs. Carter's speeches were remarkably similar to his as she campaigned Thursday in North Carolina and Florida on the first leg of a three-day political trip.

At separate fund-raisers for Rep. Lamar Gudger, D-N.C., and Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., the First Lady spoke first of the administration's "great successes," then asked the audience to re-elect the congressmen so they could continue to help her husband.

Mrs. Carter travels to Iowa today for more campaigning.

"I am very proud of Jimmy and the job he's done. We have had some great successes," she said at a $25-a-person luncheon for Gudger in Asheville, N.C. The First Lady listed the litany: peace in the country, a drop in unemployment that was "not an accident," economic growth, streamlining the bureaucracy, a reduction in the federal deficit.

The girlish-looking woman they called the steel magnolia in 1976 always recites President Carter's accomplishments before audiences. But in this congressional campaign year, she is following Carter's example and carefully including Congress in her credit lines. Sometimes it sounds like an afterthought.

"I could go on with the things that we have done — that Jimmy has accomplished with the help of the Congress," she said in Asheville. "Now we have an administration and a Congress that is tackling very difficult problems every day. So

Navy Pilots Suspect Maine Base Is 'Jinxed'

By ANDREW SCHNEIDER
Associated Press Writer
BRUNSWICK, Maine (AP)—
The Navy fliers who patrol the waters of the Atlantic out of Brunswick Naval Air Station are scared. They think their base may be jinxed.

can kill the jinx theory once and for all."
Hedges, who flies the P-3s himself occasionally, agrees the unanswered questions fuel
the anxiety of his men.
"It's the fear of not knowing that's driving everyone up a wall," he said. "We're professionals and professionals tend to expect an answer to every question."

"If I could tell my men that the P-3 is an unsafe aircraft or that the crews were bad, that would give them an answer, but it wouldn't be the truth."

It's not the plane the fliers fear. The Orion flies more hours per year than any other Navy aircraft and has had the least accidents, the Navy says.
Although the crews have difficulty articulating their fear, many wonder if it's something to do with the old base, situated amid the picturesque coves of the Maine coast.

"Why does it happen here?"
asked one pilot. "Why should a bird somehow connected with

Brunswick wipe out every five months when it's not happening
at other bases?"
The Orion is the backbone of the anti-submarine defense system. Crammed within its thin metal skin is about $15 million in computerized surveillance equipment. The Navy has 30 squadrons — based from Maine to Hawaii.

Investigators hope a clue may be located inside a cavernous hanger here where the wreckage of a P-3 is being studied.

GET READY FOR SOUTH SEAS

In the past nine months, 28 colleagues have died in three separate, puzzling crashes of the propeller-driven P-3 Orion
— a top-secret, submarine-hunting aircraft.

"There's a feeling that the wing has been hexed, jinxed or is under some supernatural spell, and it's almost impossible to fight because we don't know why our planes have crashed," says Rear Adm. Ralph Hedges, commander of all P-3s on the Atlantic Coast.

A list of the most recent Brunswick crashes:
—Dec. 11, 1977. An Orion hits a fog-shrouded mountain in the Canary Islands, killing 13.

—April 26, 1978. An Orion goes down in waters off the Azores, killing seven.

—Sept. 22, 1978. An Orion
explodes over Poland, Maine, killing eight.

"We have no choice but to list the cause of (two of the) accidents as undetermined," says Lt. Cmdr. Stewart Hopewell, safety officer for the Brunswick wing. "There were no
eyewitnesses, no emergency communications and the sparse wreckage we recovered told us very little."

Adds Hedges, "The mystery that still shrouds the two earlier crashes resurfaced immediately when the third plane went down. If we can somehow determine the reason for Friday's (Sept. 22) crash, we

Solid Waste Fuel Raised

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The State Energy Council learned Thursday that it may be economically feasible in the North Carolina Piedmont in the next two years for development of solid waste as a fuel for electric generation.

Alan Rimer, on the civil engineering faculty at the Duke Environmental Center, told the council that the use of refuse in energy production was becoming more feasible as the price of coal — and of waste disposal — increased.

"The system would use organic wastes, collected with garbage and separated from nonorganic materials, Rimer said. The substance would be processed and burned with either coal, oil or gas.

"A Duke engineering
feasibility study of the possible use of refuse derived fuel, or RDF, was endorsed by the council. Duke is now seeking federal funding for its study, and will use the state panel's support in that attempt.

"The state Utilities Commission public staff director, Hugh Wells, and the state's largest electric producer also endorsed the plan.

"Our company feels this is promising and we'd like to be a part of it," said council member Bill Lee, of Duke Power Co.

"A feasibility study for use of waste in Charlotte is expected shortly, but Rimer said the Duke study would be the first for a major region of the state.

"He said projections show enough solid waste is available daily in Charlotte, Winston-Salem, Greensboro, High Point, Raleigh and Durham areas to keep a refuse-run plant operating.

HOUSE TOTAL LOSS — Winterville and Ayden firemen battle a blaze that destroyed a house about six miles west of Winterville and Ayden last night. According to Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner the house was fully involved in flames when first fire units arrived at the 8:29 alarm. The house was reportedly not occupied at the time of the blaze that started in the rear of the wood frame dwelling. According to officials, the house was owned by Jack and Harry Dall. In a related accident, a Winterville policeman, Keith Gardner, enroute to the fire, rounded a sharp curve and his police cruiser skidded on a patch of sand, and into the ditch. Gardner, according to Trooper W. A. Basnight, received only minor cuts. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest) sday, gained another 1.48 to 862.79 by noontime today. Gainers held a 3-2 advantage over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts traced the advance primarily to technical forces, with some traders looking for "bargains" among stocks that have declined lately.

In the economic news, the government said its index of leading economic indicators climbed 0.8 percent in August.

But the jump came after a downward-revised 1.3 percent drop in July. The preliminary July report for the index, which is designed as a kind of economic crystal ball, had shown a 0.7 percent decline.

Simmons Co. jumped 4 to 18. On Thursday Gulf & Western Industries said it was going ahead with an $18-a-share tender offer for the company, although Simmons management had not yet taken a position for or against the bid.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .11 to 57.58. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .79 at 168.37.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 10.30 million shares as of noontime.

Pirates Host Offensive-Minded Mavs

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Normally, when a team comes to town with an 0-4 record, the coaching staff takes a deep breath and secretly thanks the schedule makers for a "breather."

But Saturday night in Ficklen Stadium, the Pirates of East Carolina, now 2-2, entertain the University of Texas-Arlington, 0-4, but no one is heaving any sighs of gratitude.

The Movin' Mavs might just be one of the better winless teams in the country according to coach Pat Dye. Their statistics would seem to prove it.

They are ranked 14th in the nation in rushing offense, grinding out 264.5 yards a game.

Overall, they're gaining 368.0 per game, as they pass for just over 100 more.

The contest will be almost unique in the country too. It is one of two meetings of wishbone offense teams this year. The other, appropriately enough, will also be in Ficklen later this fall when Appalachian State comes to town.

The Mavs had shown that they have the ability to put points on the board. They've scored just over 19 points a game, with a high of 23 and a low of 10.

On the opposite side of the coin, their defense has been a little suspect, allowing 242.8 yards a game on the ground, 132.3 through the air, and nearly 25 points a game allowed.

None of their losses has been a walkaway, however. They lost 25-23, to Drake in their opener, then bowed 18-10 to West Texas State. North Texas edged them, 28-23, and this past week, Louisiana Tech rallied from a 21-14 deficit to win, 28-21, with the winning score coming on a pass interception.

"They have talented people," Dye said of the Mavs. "They move the ball all over the field. They have a great quarterback in Roy Dewart, and outstanding running backs. They're averaging 4.9 yards a carry offensively, so you can see that they can move the ball. They'll definitely present some problems for us."

Dye added that the Mavs have a big, strong offensive line.

"They run from a wishbone, but they run a lot of veers and occasionally will shift into an I and use motion," the coach said.

Their defensive coaches believe that they have the three best linebackers working together in the state of Texas, and that's saying a lot. They play a 6-1, and they are big here too. They've had some problem in their secondary, but they are a very good team overall."

Dye added that he really didn't know what to expect from the UTA defense, but since they run the wishbone, they ought to know how to stop it."

Dewart is the leading Mav when it comes to rushing, with 302 yards in four games, and average of 4.7 yards a carry. Halfback Phillip Jesse has 173 yards, with a 6.9 per lug average, while fullback Bill McClesky has rushed for 163 yards, or 4.3 per carry. The other halfback, Tony Felder has 121, with 6.1 per trip.

In the aerial department, Dewart has hit for 27 of 61 passes with four picked off. He throws both to his backs and his ends, with Jesse and right end Jerry Woodard each having six receptions, split end Scott Burt grabbing five, and split end Gary Lewis and Felder each pulling in four.

Dewart is also the leading scorer. Place kicker Tom Skoruppa has hit all nine of his PAT kicks and two of three field goals.

Linebacker Cliff Odom is the leading tackler with 54, while linebacker Rob Michelsen is next with 40.

The punting game is suspect, however, as two of 20 punts have been blocked, and their average otherwise is just under 32 per kick. However, only five kicks have been returned.

"Playing another wishbone team is a lot like looking at yourself in a mirror," Dye said.

"But even twins have different fingerprints, you know."

At any rate, the Pirate defense, which has allowed on 226.3 yards a game in total offense in four contests, and which has allowed only seven second half first downs in the last three games, will get a stiff test.

Hopefully, the new Ficklen scoreboard won't blow a fuse running up the totals.

Brewington Had To Fight For Right To Play Starting Role

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Week after week this year, Coach Pat Dye has commented on the continued growth of his linebacker Mike Brewington, a former Rose High School star.

Brewington, like another former Rose player Harold Randolph, is the leading tackler on the Pirate team this year with 52 in four games. He's knocked down two passes, caused one fumble and recovered another, and had two tackles for minus yardage.

"He's the most physical linebacker we've had here," Coach Pat Dye lauds.

And it almost didn't happen that way. When fall drills opened, it looked like Brewington might be in a reserve role rather than starting.

"I had to make a lot happen for myself," Mike admits. "I just had to decide to do the best I could."

And he's done just that so far. The big linebacker currently is walking around with a big knot on his forehead, sustained in the North Carolina game. His hard knocks in that game slammed his helmet against his forehead so many times in that contest, he worked up a good lump. "That was it," he said, "just hitting that dude hard did it. It wasn't so bad against Southwestern Louisiana. I started off hitting real hard, but I was able to let up later one (due to the way the game went)."

Brewington plays at about 228, the same as he weighed last year. "But I worked with weights in the off-season, and the weight is rearranged on my body now," he notes.

Brewington said that stopping the N.C. State and North Carolina offense was the toughest job he's had so far this year. "I really think State is the better team right now," he said. But as to who is the toughest running back to stop, Brewington said he really couldn't come up with any one name. "Everyone has a good one," he said.

Perhaps one of his favorites, however, is North Carolina's Doug Paschal, since the two played together on the 4-A State championship team at Rose in 1975.

"We went to a lot of the same places on recruiting trips, and we talked a lot. He tried to convince me to go to Carolina, and I tried to talk him into coming to East Carolina."

"I wanted to win the game real bad this year, to show him that I was right. I don't guess there are too many opportunities for ex-teammates to play against each other."

Paschal got off on several good runs against the ECU defense, and Brewington brought him down several times. "We didn't talk to each other before the game. During the game, we'd just say, 'Good hit,' or 'Good run' to each other."

While doing his thing for East Carolina, Mike is also watching a couple of his brothers. Derek is a starting tight end and kick specialist with Winston-Salem State University, while James is a starting defensive end and tight end with Rose High School's junior varsity. "James may end up being best at basketball," Brewington said. There are also a couple of other Brewingtons, both half-brothers: Neal Williams and Jamie Brewington. "Both of them show signs of being athletic, too," big brother said.

Brew admits that he has some personal goals, but doesn't want to talk about them. "I'm just going to do the best I can this year and see how many of them I can meet."

In the meantime, he'll be meeting some other things—opposing players who might not care for the kind of introduction he brings with him.

Bucs Pay Visit To The Hospital

Eight members of the East Carolina University football team visited various areas of Pitt Memorial Hospital yesterday, talking with patients and personnel.

One of the more popular places for their stops was the pediatrics section. Beth Bishop, RN in pediatrics, said the visit meant a lot to the children to have the players talk to them and sign autographs.

Warren McRory, financial officer at the hospital, gave the players a tour and introduced them to various staff members.

"I think it was great of these young men to spend some time out here with the patients. It speaks highly of them as individuals and as a team."

The players enjoyed their visit. "I liked doing this," Matt Mulholland, tackle, said. "It's nice to make someone smile."

Those making the tour were Mike Brewington, Perry Allred, Steve Greer, Jeff Hagans, Mitchell Johnston, Matt Jones, Tommy Summer and Warren McRory, financial officer at the hospital, along with Sports Information Director Walt Atkins.

The pack drew a little closer together after the results of last week's games, and the prospect of a little more togetherness is upon us this week.

Joe Jenkins climbed out of the cellar (sort of), with his "no more Mr. Nice Guy" approach. Instead, he's tied for fourth with Jim Kyle and Vickie Spivey with a 28-17-1 record.

Tom Baines, our guests and this writer continue tied for the lead with 30-15-1 marks. So just two games separate the top from the bottom.

At least one part of the tie won't be broken no matter what—the tie between myself and our guests.

Last week's guest, ECU women's coordinator of athletics, Laurie Arrants, did well, missing four of the 12 games. This week's guest, hopefully, will do a lot better.

The guest this week is Bill Tucker, Radio WOOW deejay, and broadcaster of the Rose High School football games. He studied it long and hard, made his selections and after I compared his to mine, we both went into heart failure. He's worried because he knows me, and I'm worried because I know him.

Oh, well. Our high school picks took a dip last week, as only two of the six games turned out as indicated here. That brings our record to 14-5 on the year. Hopefully, there will be a better week ahead.

We have six games to look at, including three Eastern Carolina Conference games.

Outside the ECC, Roanoke will be visiting Beddingfield in an Eastern Plains game. The Redskins took the night off last week, while Beddingfield evened its record at 2-2. The 'Skins are tough, and Hunt may be the only team to stand in their way later this year. We pick the Redskins.

Washington visits Williamston. Washington lost its first game last week, while Williamston won its first. It should be business as usual this week, however, with Washington on top.

Aurora visits Jamesville in the Tobacco Belt league. Both teams have lost three in a row but Aurora beat Bath, the team that beat Jamesville last week. 'Nuff said, Aurora is the winner here.

In the Eastern Carolina league, Southern Nash visits Farmville Central. The Jaguars keep rolling along in the league. Although it might be close, Farmville will win.

Conley goes to Greene Central. The Rams may still be dizzy from the beating given them by Farmville last week. Conley won a close one, and that might give the Vikes enough confidence. We'll go with Conley.

Finally, in the "biggie" Ayden-Grifton plays host to unbeaten North Pitt. The Panthers have been the surprise of the year. But the Chargers seem to be getting it together at last. Hate to say it, but it's midnight, and Cinderella has to leave the ball. Ayden-Grifton will stop the Panther streak.

Turning to our panel's picks: two weeks ago, after Rose lost to Kinston, Jenkins swore that he'd never pick Rose again, and we've ganged up on him and made him stick to that promise this week. So he's the lone holdout for West Craven (maybe not because he really feels that way). The rest of us see the Rampants getting in some good links before conference play starts.

The Pirates of East Carolina play host to strong, but winless Texas-Arlington. The Movin' Mavs are impressive, but the panel feels the Pirates finally have their "mess" together, as Coach Dye said a week ago. It's a 6-0 decision for the Pirates.

Our other consensus picks find Clemson over Villanova; Maryland and Kentucky, a toss-up; State over Wake Forest; Virginia Tech over William & Mary; Tennessee and Auburn, a toss-up; Michigan over Duke; Pitt over Carolina; Virginia over VMI; Georgia over South Carolina; and Appalachian over Furman.

Guidry Wins For Yankees; Rice Keeps Boston One Game Back

By ALEX SACHARE
A Sports Writer

It's status quo in the American League East — the New York Yankees are still one game ahead of the Boston Red Sox, and Ron Guidry and Jim Rice are still destroying the opposition.

Guidry fired a four-hitter and struck out nine to set a club record of 243 strikeouts for the season as the Yankees beat the Toronto Blue Jays 3-1 Thursday night.

"He's a remarkable young man," Yankees Manager Bob Lemon said of Guidry, 24-3 after posting his 11th victory in his last 13 starts. His winning percentage of .889 is the best of any 20-game winner in major league history. His earned run average of 1.72 is the lowest by a left-hander since Carl Hubbell's 1.66 in 1933.

Rice, meanwhile, belted his 45th home run of the season to back the three-hit pitching of Mike Torrez as the Red Sox stayed within one game of the first-place Yankees by defeating the Detroit Tigers 1-0.

Yankees 3, Blue Jays 1

Guidry was pitching with just three days rest instead of his normal four, but it didn't matter very much as he erased the team's strikeout record of 239 set by Jack Chesbro in 1904.

fielder Fred Lynn, who threw out Jason Thompson trying to score from second on Milt May's fourth-inning single.

Orioles 3, Indians 2

Jim Palmer raised his record to 21-12 by teaming with Don Stanhouse on a four-hitter as Baltimore edged Cleveland.

Rangers 4, Mariners 3

Bobby Bonds scored on Jim Sundberg's grounder in the eighth inning as Texas trimmed Seattle.

Angels 11, White Sox 7

Carney Lansford drove in four runs, three of them with his eighth home run of the season, as California defeated Chicago.

Ozark Would Like To End It All Tonight With Twin Sweep

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Philadelphia Phillies Manager Danny Ozark has a pragmatic view of his club's four-game showdown with the Pirates for the championship of the National League East. "My thinking is to win it as soon as possible," Ozark said Thursday night while his first-place team, one win away from their third consecutive division title, rested for tonight's two games. "I'd like to end it in the double-header. That way we can set up our pitching rotation for the playoff with the Dodgers," he said.

On the other hand, Pirate Manager Chuck Tanner believes relaxation is the key. "The only way you get results in any sport is to be relaxed," he said. "I know one thing, we're a relaxed group." In the only National League games played Thursday night, the Cincinnati Reds edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-7 and the Houston Astros trimmed the Atlanta Braves 4-3.

The Pirates, 3½ games back, will have to relax through four straight wins over the Phils to keep their playoff hopes alive. With that in mind, right fielder Dave Parker is one Pirate who can't relax.

"The adrenalin will flow," said Parker, the league's hottest batter at .332. "All the chips are on the table."

The Pirates, 11½ games back on Aug. 12, have since won 22 consecutive games at Three Rivers Stadium, four shy of the all-time major league record set by the New York Giants in 1916.

The Phils lead the season series with the Pirates 10-4, including four wins against one loss at Three Rivers Stadium.

"The thinking by some people that the law of averages is going to catch up with us," Ozark said.

"I can't buy that. The best club's going to win." Steve Carlton and Dick Ruthven will pitch for Philadelphia against Bert Blyleven and Bruce Kison.

Parker concedes one advantage to Philadelphia. "The Phillies have a little stronger bench than we do, but that's the only difference I can see. I don't look at their pitching staff as being any better, and I don't look at their lineup as any better."

Reds 8, Dodgers 7

Pete Rose opened the ninth inning with a single and capped it with a run-scoring single as Cincinnati rallied for six runs to nip the Dodgers.

Lance Rautzhan gave up successive singles to Rose, Dave Concepcion and Ken Griffey to load the bases in the ninth. George Foster walked to force in a run and then RBI grounders by Don Werner and Dan Driessen made it 7-5. Ken Henderson walked and Junior Kennedy singled to make it 7-6, then Rick Auerbach tied the game with a pinch single before Rose singled home the winning run reliever Bobby Castillo.

Astros 4, Braves 3

J.R. Richard gave up just one hit in five innings of work while striking out six to raise his season total to 303 as Houston beat Atlanta. Richard, 1811, left the game after developing a blister on the little finger of his pitching hand. He also hit a home run in the third inning.

Cubs Capture Fifth Straight

Rose High School's junior varsity football team romped to a 33-0 victory over Wilson's Hunt High School yesterday.

The win was the fifth straight for the Rampants Cubs in an any games this fall.

Rose scored twice in the first quarter to salt the game away. Alonzo Taylor scored the first Cub touchdown on a 45-yard run, with Mike Thurber kicking the extra point.

Dan Moore got the second score when he recovered a fumble in the end zone after the defense had sacked the Hunt quarterback. Thurber again kicked for a 14-0 lead.

Kenny Barnes tossed a 25-yard pass to Paul McMillan in the second period to up the lead to 20-0.

The Cubs scored single touchdowns in each of the second half quarters. Barnes scored in the third period on a six-yard run, with Thurber again kicking. Jimmy Jones scored in the final quarter on a four-yard run.

One other potential Rose score was called back because of a penalty.

Rocky Mount visits Rose next Thursday.

TV Film Turns Good Trash Into Something Less

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — It was as if an occult hand had taken "The Users," Joyce

Haber's spicy novel of tawdry Hollywood, made it a dull TV movie of tawdry Hollywood and turned good trash to bad. Be that as it may, ABC will air "Users" Sunday. Producers Aaron Spelling and Douglas S. Cramer claim it's intended as "a glamour movie in the grand Hollywood tradition." You have been warned.

The main players are Jaclyn Smith and Tony Curtis. She plays Elena, a pretty movie extra and part-time prostitute in Arizona who uses her part-time proceeds to aid her crippled mother.

Tony plays Randy Brent, a fading star whose wife committed suicide. He is making a movie in Arizona. He needs a hit film badly. But his acting is going badly. The producer (George Hamilton) gets an idea.

He hires Elena on the sly for $300 to bolster the star's ego and save the film, adding: "If Randy doesn't make it this time, he'll be deadlier than his wife — in Hollywood, at least."

Well, not only does she cheer up Randy that night, she even returns the $300 the next morning. Seems they've fallen in love. Lo, Randy whisks her by private jet to California.

He takes her on a quick tour of Beverly Hills — "land of the free and home of the movie stars" — and thence to his Spanish-style mansion that Tyrone Power built and in which Howard Hughes once lived.

You may suspect a downhill trend when she says: "I want to see the most important room in the house — our bedroom."

As the plot thins, other players check in, like his superstar daughter, Marina (Michelle Phillips); a social arbiter-for-hire (Joan Fontaine) and a superagent (Red Buttons), who does movie business and lady business in his home's big Jacuzzi whirlpool bath.

Marina likes Elena, who is her age and soon becomes her stepmother-in-law. Marina warns her, in speaking of Dad: "If this picture (he just made) is a bomb, he could go right off the deep end."

Well, upon learning the film is a bomb, Dad does get distraught. He vanishes into the night and takes up with a young male screenwriter. When Dad's new bride learns of the liaison, she gasps:

"So this is the deep end Marina told me about."

The best line, I submit, comes when a young studio mogul orders Randy's film cut to 97 minutes, put briefly in theatrical release and then dumped on television. On the latter, he has this to say: "Some cockamamey network executive will go for 800 Gs on Randy's name. They're starving for pretension."

As the trombone player said when he missed his bus, I rest my case.

Betty Ford To Attend Dinner

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Former first lady Betty Ford has scheduled her first public appearance since her cosmetic facelift earlier this month — an awards dinner honoring entertainer Fred Astaire in Los Angeles on Oct. 6.

Bob Barrett said Mrs. Ford has been "doing beautifully" since the surgery. "Everything is just great," he said.

Barrett said the former president will not accompany his wife to the dinner because of previous commitments to campaign for Republican candidates in Illinois and Indiana.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Security is tight at the Cleveland Clinic where Saudi Arabia's King Khaled has taken over an eighth-floor 32-room suite, while the rest of his 200-person entourage resides in two Cleveland hotels.

The 64-year-old monarch is expected to undergo a series of examinations at the hospital, where he underwent open heart surgery in 1972. No hospital statements have been issued as of late Thursday.

Khaled, king of the oil rich nation since 1975, and his party were guarded on their arrival Wednesday by Cleveland police, secret service agents and the king's bodyguard.

Pres. Somoza Reportedly Accepts Mediation Bid

By GORDON D. MOTT
Associated Press Writer
MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The United States and four Latin American countries reportedly have been accepted by President Anastasio Somoza and an opposition alliance to mediate efforts to find a peaceful solution to Nicaragua's bloody political crisis.

have been authorized to proceed with negotiations mediated by the United States, Guatemala, El Salvador, Colombia and the Dominican Republic. So far, only the United States has announced its willingness to participate in the peace effort.

A source at the U.S. Embassy in Managua said the United States was ready for "active participation" in the mediation, but he said it was "premature" to release the names of the other nations. The source, who asked not to be quoted by name, told reporters that even if Somoza and the opposition agree on the same five countries, the mediators must accept the invitation to participate. An opposition source, who also requested anonymity, said, "We are under the impression the government has already accepted the five countries and the only item pending was acceptance by the front. The informant said he was present Thursday when members of the opposition alliance meet secretly. The front is made up of 16 political parties and labor unions.

Government spokesmen had no immediate comment on the choice of possible mediators. Earlier Thursday, Presidential spokesman Rafael Cano said the government would be in communication with the opposition "probably by the end of this week" to begin the negotiating process. The United States has been locked in diplomatic efforts to bring Somoza to the negotiating table with his opponents. President Carter has sent in a special envoy, William Jorden, who has met with Somoza three times since last weekend.

The United States and the opposition have also been pressuring Somoza to create an "open atmosphere" for mediation by eliminating the existing sunset-to-sunrise curfew, restoring constitutional guarantees and ending press censorship.

Suffered Same Ordeal

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — The "Little Boy St. Cloud" pageant drew some 50 contestants but some participants weren't too happy about the way things turned out. "Yeah, I felt just like a cow. Just like at the state fair," said one contestant. "I've never been so embarrassed in my life," said another in describing the contest, part of a role-reversal program held at St. Cloud State University Wednesday night. The contestants paraded before the cheering, jeering crowd in skimpy swimsuits. Then they tried to win the beauty contest by showing off their talents and answering questions aimed at discovering their "moral virtues." About 50 men participated in the beauty contest, moderated by men's liberation advocate Warren Farrell, while an audience of about 800 looked on. "Freedom of choice is quite meaningless in the face of social pressure," Farrell said after the program. "In a sense, every woman is in a beauty contest every day of her life, whether she's attractive or ugly."

Deputies Can Recoup Money

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — A jail trusty escaped from the Modesto Jail after stealing $9 from the coffee fund for sheriff's deputies. But he left a note telling officers how to get their money back. Bobby Wayne Bryant, 26, of Modesto, serving time for drunken driving, slipped a note under the shift commander's door before fleeing Wednesday, deputies said. The note said officers could recover their money from $10 in Bryant's jail account.

Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

There is no difficulty in setting up a suit when you have only one stopper to knock out. However, when the opponents have two stoppers in the suit you are trying to develop, you might have to exercise great care. South's technique on this hand is worthy of study.

There was nothing to the auction. South had a balanced hand of 16 points and stoppers in three suits. North also had a balanced hand and no four-card major or slam interest, so he settled for a raise to three no trump rather than investigate an 11-trick contract in diamonds.

West led the top of his club sequence, and declarer was pleased with his prospects. He had seven tricks in top cards, and diamonds offered a reasonable possibility for developing two additional tricks.

If the outstanding diamonds broke 3-3, there would be no problem. Declarer could simply play ace and another diamond to the ten, forcing an honor, and then concede another trick in the suit to the defenders. But the odds favored a 4-2 break. In that case, declarer realized that if the ten of diamonds lost to an honor, one of the defenders would be left with the other high honor and the nine, which would prevent the suit from being established.

Therefore, declarer adopted a line that would produce three tricks from diamonds if the suit divided 3-3 or if either defender held a doubleton diamond honor. He cashed the ace of diamonds and continued a diamond, following low from dummy (!) when West produced a low card.

East won the queen and continued clubs. Declarer won on the table, but dummy still had the jack-ten of diamonds. The jack forced the king, and when declarer got back to dummy with the high club, he could use the ten to draw the nine and cash the fifth diamond as the game-going trick.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. For a copy and a scorepad, send $1.75 to "Goren-Four Deal," c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J. 07048. Make checks payable to NEWS-PAPERBOOKS.

Cancer Screening At Farmville Plant

FARMVILLE — A Duke University Medical team begins voluntary cancer screening examinations at Collins and Aikman plant here on Wednesday.

The team, headed by Dr.

Seigfried Heyden, professor of community and family medicine at Duke Medical Center, will present the program in two parts.

All employees will attend an hour-long educational session, followed a week later by a ten to 15 minute medical screening.

The screening will consist of a medical check of six possible cancer sites and blood pressure and diabetes tests. Entire cost of the service will be assumed by the company.

Both the educational and screening programs are being conducted by May Morris, R. N., nurse trainer and coordinator for Duke Medical Center, utilizing company nurses and doctors from major regional hospitals.

Farmville is the fourth Collins and Aikman plant to participate in the program. Ultimately, more than 8,000 company employees in North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Tennessee will have access to the program.

Sorority Has A Male Pledge

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Theta Phi Alpha Sorority at Loyola University now has 19-year-old Alan Citron Jr. — its first male pledge.

So far, he has it easy. No mean pledge chores like pushing peanuts with his nose. He proves himself in better ways.

"What I have to do mostly is go to a lot of parties, sell raffle tickets," said Citron. "It's not bad."

"Like a few days back I had to attend a Hawaiian luau. Six of the 28 sorority girls brought dates to the luau. I had to make do with the rest."

The short happy life will last at least until the end of December. That's when 28 girls vote on whether this pledge would be a good sorority sister.

May Re-Raise Tax Portions Of Energy Proposals

By TOM RAUM
WASHINGTON (AP) — There's renewed talk in Congress about higher taxes on large luxury cars and lower taxes for people who upgrade the insulation in their homes. Those and some other tax portions of President Carter's energy program, once given up for dead, may be resurrected in the wake of several important legislative energy victories for the White House. House-Senate negotiators were to meet today to see what parts of the energy tax-and-incentive package they can salvage. Carter's unpopular proposal to raise U.S. oil prices to worldmarket levels through a crude oil tax was not expected to be among them.

But two other taxes — on fuel-inefficient autos and on industrial use of oil and natural gas — are given a good chance of being revived, as are the proposed energy-conservation tax credits.

The conference committee, which hasn't held a negotiating session since last December, was reconvened by leaders after other parts of Carter's long-stalled energy program were put back on the legislative track this week.

On Wednesday, the Senate passed the crucial natural-gas deregulation bill. Then late Thursday, House-Senate conferees resolved their last remaining dispute over non-tax aspects of the energy package.

The energy-conservation tax credit now facing a possible comeback would allow taxpayers to take a direct tax credit of 20 percent on the cost of home insulation, storm windows and other energy conservation devices — up to a total credit of $400. Even higher credits — amounting to just over $2,000 — would be available for solar-energy devices.

The Internal Revenue Service, expecting Carter's energy plan to pass sooner, prematurely put a line for these energy conservation credits on last year's income tax form — then had to tell taxpayers they couldn't use it.

Congress is expected to make the credits retroactive to April 20, 1977 — when Carter submitted his energy program — so taxpayers who have made energy-conservation improvements since then can still claim them.

The "gas-guzzler" tax would begin at $200 for 1980-models getting less than 15 m.p.g. and would rise to $3,850 by 1985 on cars getting less than 12.5 miles per gallon.

In a related field, the conferees meeting Thursday night on non-tax portions of the energy package agreed to double the existing penalty on automakers who can't meet specified fuel economy levels already on the books. Current models must average 18 m.p.g., a level that rises to 27.5 m.p.g. by 1985. This figure applies to the average gas-mileage of all the cars one manufacturer produces allowing it to keep producing big heavy cars as long as they're offset by an appropriate number of small, fuel-efficient models.

Four Traffic Mishaps Occurred On Thursday

An estimated $2,025 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 7:50 p.m. collision at the intersection of Arlington and Greenville Boulevards involving cars driven by Jeon Kim of 314 Windsor Rd. and Wanda Stewart Nobles of Route 4, Greenville.

Police, who charged Miss Nobles with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage from the collision at $400 to each of the two cars.

A 7:07 p.m. collision on Tenth Street, 25 feet East of the Hamilton Street intersection, involved cars driven by Judith Edwards McLawhorn of 120 Corbett St., and William Citron of Umstead Hall.

Mrs. McLawhorn was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety by police who set damage at $400 to the McLawhorn car and $100 to the Citron auto.

Police noted that a passenger in the Citron car was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries received in the mishap.

Officers reported cars driven by Roy Sadler Selby of 1304 Red Banks Road and Allen McCrary Adams of 204 Trey Dr. and a motorcycle operated by Edward Victor Thomas of Highland Trailer Pk. were involved in a 4:12 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard, 30 feet West of the Arlington Boulevard intersection.

Selby was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety by officers who estimated damage to the Thomas and Adams vehicles at $200 each. No damage resulted to the Selby car, police noted.

A car driven by Marc Laurin Muskovin of 206 Westhaven Dr. and a truck operated by William Van Stocks of Route 1, Greenville, collided about 10:55 a.m. at the intersection of Greenville and Crestline Boulevards, causing an estimated $300 damage to the car and $25 damage to the truck.
