LANDSLIDE — Homes in a section of fashionable resort community of Laguna Beach, Calif., lie in bottom of ravine after a landslide Monday sent them tumbling down a hillside. In all, 49 homes worth up to $300,000 were destroyed or damaged. Several people were injured and dozens of families were forced to flee their homes when the rumbling slide hit Blue Bird Canyon. Power, gas and water lines were ruptured in the area. (AP Laser photo)

Residential Area Ravaged By Slide

By ROBERT LOCKE
Associated Press Writer
LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Geologists and disaster workers in this exclusive seaside community kept cautious watch today over a still-shaky neighborhood devastated by mysterious landslides that shoved, shattered and ripped apart at least two dozen hillside homes.

About seven acres of the residential area of Bluebird Canyon with its homes valued between $150,000 and $300,000 were ravaged by the slow-moving landslides that began shortly before 6 a.m.

Monday. Red Cross workers reported only a handful of injuries, most of them cuts and scratches, as residents clad in nightclothes fled down the hill in the foggy darkness. One woman suffered a broken shoulder.

The earth — and the houses, patios, trees and flowers it carried — continued moving in fits and starts throughout the day and geologists warned that some movement might continue for several days. But they had no immediate explanation for the huge slide. There were no earthquakes, no rains.

"We've got about 24 homes that we're considering completely destroyed," said Laguna Beach Police Lt. Al Olson. "It looks like damage at this point is in excess of $3 million."

Olson said a half-dozen other homes were hanging precariously over crumbling cliffs and "they could go at any time." About 200 people were evacuated from endangered homes.

Residents who lived in the most heavily damaged area were not allowed in Monday to examine what remained of their homes. Authorities said they were concerned with possible health hazards posed by ruptured sewers and with the possibility of further landslides. It was not known when the residents could return.

Several hundred yards of roadway were destroyed, telephone and power lines dangled and sparked from uprooted poles that tilted at crazy angles and water, sewage and gas lines were ripped apart leaving the fetid smell of natural gas hanging over the neighborhood. There was no fire.

Two residential blocks dropped more than 30 feet below their normal level and the sliding earth tore out a half-mile-long chasm about 40 feet deep and at least as wide. Two shattered homes and pieces of another were smashed together on the chasm floor.

Two rooms of one home tumbled into the crevasse, while the second-story rooms remained in place, hanging jaggedly over the edge with beams, wires and pipes dangling.

Chimney Body

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Hollywood Hills resident troubled by the "foul odor" coming from his fireplace hired a chimney sweep — and discovered a dead man rotting in the chimney.

"We're speculating the guy was high on angel dust (the drug PCP) or something and climbed into the chimney and just got stuck," said Los Angeles police Sgt. Greg Smith. It was not known how long the body had been there.

Smith said city firefighters had to break part of the chimney to remove the decomposed body Monday. The unidentified man was nude, causing police to rule out burglary as a reason for his presence.

Sen. Byrd Plans Oppose Amending ERA Extension

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd said today he will vote against a move by opponents to weaken a proposed extension of the deadline for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Byrd made his announcement shortly before the Senate began debate on a proposal to give state legislatures another 39 months to decide whether to ratify the ERA. A final vote is set for Friday. A crucial test will come Wednesday, however, on an amendment that would allow legislatures that already have ratified the ERA to use the extra time to withdraw their approval.

It is this amendment which Byrd said he will oppose. He had previously said he was undecided.

"My reading of the Constitution is that once a state has acted to ratify an amendment, all power to act is exhausted," Byrd told reporters.

The sponsor of the amendment, Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, argues that if supporters are given more time, the same should apply to opponents.

ERA supporters say passage of the Garn amendment would cancel any ratification help the extension might provide because of current sentiment against ERA in some states which ratified it earlier.

A poll by The Associated Press showed 40 senators inclined or committed to vote for Garn's amendment, 35 senators against it and the rest undecided or unavailable.

The Senate is expected to vote Tuesday or Wednesday on an amendment to require a two-thirds majority for final passage of the extension, instead of the simple majority by which it passed the House.

The deadline for ratification of the ERA, which would prohibit sex discrimination, is next March 22. The House has voted to extend it to June 30, 1982.

A constitutional amendment must be ratified by three-fourths of the states — 38 of the 50 — to become part of the Constitution. The ERA has been ratified by 35 legislatures, but those of Idaho, Kentucky, Nebraska and Tennessee have voted to rescind their ratification.

The Justice Department has said it will be up to a later Congress to determine whether those reversal votes are valid. The Garn amendment would not affect those votes, but it would assure all state legislatures they could change their minds in the future.

New Name Voted For Development

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Housing Authority commissioners voted Monday night to name the new 111-unit housing development nearing completion off Evans Street as Hopkins Park, in honor of the late Nelson Hopkins, popular country cook and caterer for local gatherings.

The Authority's action followed a recommendation by the Batchelor Benedict Club of Greenville to honor the well-known black man. Letters of endorsement were also received from Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church and attorney Frank Wooten.

In addition to the new name, the commissioners voted to recommend to the City Council that when the city accepts the interior street in the new project, it be designated Hopkins Drive.

Joe Laney, executive director, said that letters will be written to the Department of Housing and Urban Development and to the city indicating the new name for the development, which has been referred to as Southside.

Laney told the commissioners that the project is now some 85 percent complete compared to the projected figure of 90 percent for this stage of development. The target period for completion had been set for this month but Laney said that it is doubtful the work will be finished on time.

The director estimated that while good progress has been made on the project, it will probably take from 30 to 60 days before the new units are ready for final inspections.

Laney reported that the Authority is still seeking a bond buyer for the proposed mid-rise project for the elderly off E. Third Street.

Noting that the Authority feels that it has some prospects, he said that it hopes to get a conditional commitment this week for the project bonds based on a set interest rate.

Bids have been opened on the project, which calls for 60 units, and Laney said that with the low bid coming in close to the allowable budget, the Authority is hopeful of being able to undertake the program.

The bids run out on Oct. 22 and the Authority would like to have a commitment from HUD in order to award the package. Bids were opened once before on the project but were substantially over budget allowances and rebidding was scheduled.

Laney said that the Authority has "gone the extra mile" in an effort to build the mid-rise project.

Beirut Said In Shambles

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Fighting between Syrian troops and Christian militiamen tapered off today, and police said 250 Lebanese had been killed and 502 wounded in Beirut since Wednesday.

The Syrians did not report their losses. Observers believed Christian claims of killing or wounding 400 Syrians were exaggerated.

A Christian radio station said the Christian sector of Beirut and the suburb of Hadath were without electricity and drinking water because the supply plants were wrecked by Syrian bombardment.

Sporadic exchanges of rockets and shellfire kept families in basement shelters in the Christian sector during the night. Traffic between the Christian and Moslem sectors remained paralyzed.

President Elias Sarkis, appearing worn and depressed in a TV broadcast from the presidential palace Monday, said the fighting in Christian East Beirut had pushed Lebanon to "the verge of collapse." "The situation that emerged from a provocation on one side and the mass violent retaliation on the other has inflicted many innocent casualties, which saddens us beyond description," he said.

"The latest events have left almost no family without a casualty and have ruined nearly every house. There is no hospital left in East Beirut that can extend adequate medical care to the wounded."

Sarkis promised to come up with a new government to replace Premier Selim el Hoss' caretaker cabinet and a new security plan within 10 days to stem the fighting.

Government sources said Sarkis needed the time to talk with Syrian President Hafez Assad, who returns to Damascus at the end of the week from East Germany and the Soviet Union.

Former President Camille Chamoun, one of the country's most influential Christian political leaders, rejected Sarkis' new security plan in advance and demanded that the Syrians leave Lebanon.

Four Battered Children Also Near Starvation

NEW YORK (AP) — Four Brooklyn children lie in Kings County Hospital suffering from cigarette burns, swollen eyes and near starvation.

Police say the youngsters are the victims of beatings by their mother, Deborah Crawford, 23, and her common-law husband, Arthur Turner, 20. The mother, police said, had starved the children as a disciplinary measure.

The four Crawford children, ranging in age from 3 months to 5 years old, are reported in fair to critical condition today.

Their plight, authorities said, is not unlike the 24,150 neglected and abuse incidents reported here in 1977, the 20,690 cases reported through June this year or the 15 percent increase since then.

Police said they found the Crawford children Saturday after their mother's 20-year-old common-law husband "dumped-off" 4-year-old Lesia Crawford at Lutheran Hospital in Brooklyn.

Hospital authorities allege that Turner dropped the child on the floor and fled when they began to question him. Lesia, doctors say, is in critical condition suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage, internal bleeding, numerous cigarette burns and possible brain damage.

A woman who refused to be identified led police to 180 Milford St. where they found Lesia's mother, her two daughters, aged 2 and 5, and her 3-month old son. They were hiding under the bedcovers, locked inside their home, police said.

"They looked like kids from Biafra," said officer Al Baum. "They had broken noses, their eyes were swollen, including the mother's. They were victims of extreme abuse." The children, listed in fair condition, have improved since they were rescued but still display burns, contusions, lacerations, fractures, swollen bellies, discolored faces and bony arms.

Their mother, treated and released from Cumberland Hospital, faces arraignment in Brooklyn Criminal Court on child abuse charges.

Police said she told them Turner beat the children "because they wouldn't behave and cried too much....I'm the mother. They don't listen so I don't feed them."

The refrigerator, according to Baum, "was more stocked than a police officer's the day after pay day."

Detectives from the 75th Precinct are still searching for Turner and expect the children, when released from the hospital, will be placed with relatives or a government agency.

Another 'John Doe' Is Moved To Pitt Hospital After Injury

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Almost a year to the day after Pitt County Memorial Hospital received a critically injured "John Doe" as a patient, it has another one.

The similarity in circumstances in the two cases is uncanny. Last year's "John Doe," who was identified posthumously as Carlos Smith, born in Alabama, was hit by a train in Wilson County Sept. 30 of last year and transferred here from Wilson Memorial Hospital. He lived until early 1978.

The new John Doe was transferred here this past Thursday, Sept. 28, from Wilson Memorial Hospital after having been hit by a truck in Wilson County. This is a young black man, as was the other John Doe.

The driver of the small pickup truck which hit "Doe" in the Rock Ridge area west of Wilson on N. C. Highway 42 told the investigating officer, Trooper R. V. Davis, the man walked into the path of his truck. He cut the wheel to the left to miss the man, he reported, but the right front of the truck hit him. No charges were filed against the driver, identified as Thurston Odell Godwin of Rt. 2, Kenly, Trooper Davis said.

"Doe" has a brain stem injury and is unconscious with little hope of recovery, according to his doctors. Hospital Patient Representative Ed Hackett reports. He said Medicaid paperwork has already been filed on his behalf, as was finally done on behalf of last year's John Doe.

Greenville Police Department Identification Officer Pat Bundy said "Doe's" fingerprints have been sent to the State and Federal Bureaus of Investigation in hopes of identifying him.

Doe is five feet eight, large boned, but slim, weighing between 140 and 150 pounds. He has healed over scars all over his legs, as if he might have been in briary areas, Hackett said.

Bundy said reports from Wilson County indicate he may have been a migrant farm worker, but this is not confirmed, he said, by checks of migrant camps in the area so far.

Anyone recognizing the man after viewing the picture with this article is asked to contact Greenville Police or the Wilson County Sheriff Department.

Mayor Percy Cox, who joined County Commissioner chairman Alton Gardner and Pitt Development Commission officials Monday at the plant acquired by McGraw-Edison Co. on Industrial Boulevard, extended a welcome to the electrical products manufacturer.

"It is indeed my pleasure to welcome McGraw-Edison to the Greenville area and to extend congratulations for selecting this location," the mayor said. "I am extremely pleased that Greenville has many advantages to attract an industry like this," Cox related, "and am confident that they will find this area to be most progressive and filled with opportunities for their business, as well as for the prospective employees." Cox added, "We are also pleased that the Pitt County Development Commission has assisted McGraw-Edison and we extend our congratulations to them for their many efforts. Our city officials shall look forward to working with this fine industry."

McGraw-Edison, with corporate headquarters in Elgin, Ill., announced that it is purchasing the 55,063 square foot facility formerly occupied by Boise Cascade Corp. and will produce nickel-cadmium storage batteries.

North Carolina Lieutenant Governor Jimmy Green was the guest speaker at last night's Rotary Club meeting. Introduced by Carl Woxman, member of the special projects committee, Green, urged each and every citizen to contribute on a local level to providing service to society. "We in the government," said Green, "want to provide a service to the citizens of this state. But we need your input, through the use of your local, elected officials. "As an elected official, I see many problems and endeavors of the citizens of this state, over which they have no control. We spend a lot of time trying to find ways to solve these problems. Problems like the HEW and Social Security over which the state has no control." Green cited lack of communication as a cause of these problems. "Communication is needed more today than ever before," said Green. "The people from different parts of the state are not talking to one another." Voter turnout was one way Green mentioned to provide this service for the betterment of society. Greenville and the Rotary Club were a stop on the lieutenant governor's round trip from Southern Pines to Raleigh.

Blood Drive On Campus

A two-day Bloodmobile visit is scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday of this week at Wright Auditorium on the East Carolina University campus.

Hours for the blood drives each day are from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

This week's Bloodmobile activities are sponsored by the AFROTC at ECU with Beth Kimball heading up the campus drive as chairman.

The ROTC has established a two-day goal of 700 pints of blood, according to Mrs. Ruth Taylor of the Pitt Red Cross. She noted that the public is invited to take part in the campus drive, which is not restricted to university donors.

Mrs. Taylor said that a shortage of blood exists as the Blood Center is still recovering from the heavy summer usage period.

Pigeons Raced From Georgia

The Golden Leaf Pigeon Racing Club held a combined race with Wilson and Cove City pigeon clubs this weekend, with the birds racing from Augusta, Ga.

Tommy Fisher of Winterville carried the birds to Augusta. Paul Berry, Leslie Walston, and Skip Walston, all of Wilson, captured first, second and third places respectively in the race. The next race will be held this weekend, with the birds racing from Columbia, S. C.

One Injured In Collision

One person was reported injured and an estimated $2,500 property damage resulted from an 8:32 a.m. collision today on Tenth Street, 25 feet East of the Elm Street intersection.

Investigators reported cars driven by William Albert Dunn Jr. of 105 Valley Pl. and Jan Carol Pulley of 106 St. Andrews St. collided, causing an estimated $800 damage to the Dunn car and $1,500 damage to the Pulley vehicle.

Officers, who reported Miss Pulley was injured in the mishap, said a third car pulled into the path of the Dunn vehicle, forcing Dunn to stop to avoid a collision. The Pulley car was unable to stop and collided with the Dunn auto.

Police, who said the third car left the scene of the collision, reported investigation of the mishap is continuing.

VEPCO Hike Opposed By Williamston Board

WILLIAMSTON — Members of the Williamston Town Board Monday adopted a resolution opposing the recent rate increase granted to VEPCO by the State Utilities Commission. Members also are asking Governor Hunt to appoint a member to the State Utilities Commission from the area served by VEPCO. It is their understanding that no member of the commission is from the area served by VEPCO.

On a request made by Martin County Hospital, Inc. to pave a street that runs in front of the new doctor's office adjacent to Martin General Hospital, the board took action to ask the hospital board to request that the entire area be annexed into the town limits. At present, part of the property is within town limits, and part is outside. Board members expressed an unwillingness to consider undertaking the paving of any portion of a road outside the town limits. This matter will be considered at future meetings.

A public hearing at the regular November meeting will be held to consider a recommendation to abolish the Williamston Board of Adjustments, and to amend the zoning ordinance to include adjusting matters within the purview of the Planning Board. Such action is permitted under state legislation passed in 1977 applicable to small towns.

Another agenda item to be acted on at a later date is that of restricting heavy duty traffic in the downtown area.

Currently, heavy commercial trucks including those loaded with inflammable materials frequently utilize Main Street as a shortcut from N. C. 125 to U.S. 17 north.

The Division Traffic Engineer of the State Dept. of Transportation has recommended that Main Street, now designated as U.S. 13-17 business, be redesignated to a secondary road, which in turn would make it possible to restrict such traffic except for trucks making actual deliveries to downtown gas stations and other establishments.

Board members also approved a Dept. of Transportation recommendation widening to three lanes additional areas on West Main Street. This will provide for a three lane traffic thoroughfare all the way from downtown to the intersection of U.S. 64 and the by-pass at the western edge of town.

Employers Urged Hire Handicapped

Strong support of the objectives of National Employ the Handicapped Week was voiced here yesterday by James E. Hannan, manager of the Greenville office of the N. C. Employment Security Commission.

The observance, sponsored annually by the U. S. Labor Dept., is being held locally and nationally from Oct. 1 to Oct. 8.

"On a year-round basis, we urge employers to hire the handicapped because they can make capable and loyal employees," Hannan said.

"The special attention given to the special needs of the handicapped during the observance this week complements our year-round work and has our wholehearted support."

Miss Louise Jernigan, specialist in the Job Service (ESC) in Greenville who works with the handicapped, has had an active role in planning events for the observance in the Pitt County area.

Hannan stated that "we encourage employers this week, and in all weeks of the year, to hire handicapped workers because they are capable employees and are entitled to equal employment opportunity, not out of sympathy — which the handicapped don't want — or because employers are required by federal law to make such opportunities available."

ESC has had a program of job placement assistance to the handicapped for many years. Since 1954, public employment agencies have designated at least one staff member to help handicapped persons find jobs, training, and counseling services. "We have had some encouraging success stories from Greenville," Hannan added.

Adults' Free Education Grows In Kansas

By SCOTT KRAFT
Associated Press Writer
IDANA, Kan. (AP) — Three wooden pews were his classroom, a piano bench his lectern. The bare light bulbs flickered as a summer storm threatened.

But to the 13 inquisitive minds assembled in the tiny church basement in north central Kansas, there was no setting anywhere more fertile for learning. Because beekeeping was the subject, and John Schweitzer, a wiry 73-year-old in green work clothes, the teacher.

And from the two young women in the front to the middle-aged men in the back, his audience listened, questioned, shared and learned.

In church basements and living rooms and even on backyard patios across the country, a few people are talking and a lot of others are learning — without grades, homework or pressure. Nowhere is free education sprouting as in the Sunflower State, where the number of communities with some form of free university has jumped from four to 22 in less than four years.

That growth has its roots in people like Schweitzer, a service station operator by trade, and in places like Idana, where it's a half-minute walk from the center of town to acres and acres of Kansas wheat.

For his recent teaching debut, Schweitzer offered baby food jars of honey — "just enough for a flapjack," gave advice to a farmer with an ornery swarm of bees on his land; and recommended that beekeepers keep their swarms away from the honeysuckle — "it'll make your honey smell like dirty socks."

Then there was that downhome smile and an embarrassed gesture. "When a bee man gets to talking — why, he sometimes says too many things."

Free universities have made a full turn. Known variously as open education exchanges, communiversities and experimental colleges, they have moved from the activist and often underground university of the 1960s to the adult education wave of the 1970s.

In 1968, they offered an atmosphere in which students could spout their views on the Vietnam war, racial unrest and other topics sidestepped by traditional universities of the day. In 1978, they coordinate classes for all ages on sock-darning, biofeedback, Frisbee-throwing and homosexual lifestyles.

And it hasn't stopped there. There's a class on fantasy, "Dungeons and Dragons," for those with active imaginations. "How-to" classes on canoeing, climbing, skiing and bicycling as well as house wiring, stereo installing, refinishing and auto repair are offered in many cities. Or you can learn to make beef jerky, build sundials or play wargames.

In the self-help field, there is a course to help a divorcee cope with the problems of being single again. About 300,000 persons attended classes last year at 175 free universities in the United States. Class length ranged from one meeting to weekly meetings for a year or longer.

These free universities are coordinated nationally by the Free University Network, which has adopted the acronym, FUN. It is based near Kansas State University in Manhattan in a former scholarship house run by the local free university, University for Man.

Bill Draves, 29, who is on the paid staff of University for Man, coordinates the national organization in his spare time. A part-time secretary handles the paperwork.

Actually, FUN is little more than a telephone number, a mailing address and an annual convention — none of which bothers Draves.

"We don't want to be a big national organization that lobbies on the Hill and sells life insurance," Draves says. "We're an information clearing house and we'll always be promoting things at the local level."

Since 1974, FUN has published brochures for communities wanting to set up free universities. The educational concept born in Berkeley, Calif., during a free speech movement in 1964 has spread from college towns to other communities.

In Kansas, a program run by University for Man and supported by federal funds shows towns how to recruit teachers and set up classes.

The beekeeping class in Idana, for example, was arranged through the Clay County Education Program, which was started by VISTA volunteers three years ago.

The class was advertised in the county newspaper and a newsletter. Prospective participants were asked to sign up, but registration wasn't required. There was no fee, and there would be no grade or homework.

Clay County and most of the small communities of Kansas were once believed too tiny to support free universities. Draves remembers the doomsaying of one of his advisers, who said: "If you can get a Free U going in Clay County it'll be a miracle."

But today, population centers much smaller than Clay County's 10,000 support free universities.

"We used to think we'd have to hustle and promote these universities," Draves says. "But it's starting to snowball and I don't see any problems starting one anywhere in the country."

Women Don't Have More Hurts

By LOTTE SEIDLER
MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Woman athletes usually manage to keep their heads intact better than their male counterparts but have a tendency to hurt their knees and develop anemia, say University of Minnesota experts. A century ago, doctors warned women against certain forms of strenuous exercise. Although an additional 10,000 women now take part in college athletics each year, many old attitudes persist.

Roger Hallin, UM team physician for women's athletics, said there is nothing particularly delicate about a woman athlete's body; it's just different.

For many years, doctors perpetuated the notion that a blow to the breast can cause cancer. Yet, no studies support this theory, he said.

In an interview, Hallin said he sees fewer head and neck injuries among women athletes than among men. "They just don't bang their heads at each other like the men do," he said.

He said knee injuries are more common among women athletes because of the width of the female pelvis and the resulting oblique angle of the thigh bone. The female knee has a painful tendency to slip out of place under stress.

Leah Wollenburg, UM's women's trainer, said women no longer do deep-knee squats.

"It was discovered a few years ago that they were really tough on the female knee," she said, adding that they had already caused a lot of damage.

Miss Wollenburg said anemia is a serious and common hidden problem. "Women in general have a tendency to be anemic," she said. "The demands a woman athlete puts on her body make the problem worse."

This fall for the first time UM is requiring blood tests of all female athletes to check for anemia.

Hallin says menstruation and its effects on women are another myth.

Generations of mothers have warned their daughters not to swim, ride a horse, or undertake other strenuous exercise during menstruation.

Most doctors now believe exercise actually helps relieve

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

There's one thing I've always said about fishermen. They may not always catch fish, but they at least know why. It's too late in the day. It's too early in the day. The water level is down. They're spawning. The rain stirred 'em up. The atom bomb screwed up the lakes.

You need a boat. You need waders. They aren't biting on worms (avocados, sauteed shrimp or peach melba). It's too hot. It's too near an Army base. They're too small to take the bait. They're too large to bit.

They haven't bitten since the Democrats took office. Without a doubt, fishermen are the most imaginative sportsmen who ever sat on a bank and tried to outsmart a fish that has 1/1000 their size, 1/1500 their weight and 1/50,000 their brain.

Probably the best reason I've heard to date was when my husband straggled home a few weeks ago from a day at the lake. The only fish he caught were on his hands. "What happened?" I asked.

"The lake is polluted with Kimberlys," he said.

"What are Kimberlys?" "Kimberlys are three-year-old children who run around the lake screaming, 'I got one! I got one!' They trip over the worms and the entire can falls in the water — enough to feed every fish through a nuclear attack.

"Kimberlys throw rocks into the water when they get bored. Not little pebbles, but rocks that are five times their size and you wonder how they can lift them. Sometimes they fall in the lake and you lose your pole assisting in the rescue.

"The payoff is when Kimberlys throw in sticks and the dog swims over your line to retrieve them."

"That's terrible," I said. "Why didn't you just move on to another spot?"

"I couldn't. Kimberly caught her limit and I hung around trying to see what kind of bait she was using."

State Tough On Teen Marriges

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the 15-year-old girl who is begging her mother to let her get married:

In some states, the decision to allow teenagers to marry does not lie with the parents. For example, in the state of Washington, no child under the age of 17 may marry with or without parental consent without a court's permission. Kids between 17 and 18 require permission. After 18, they require only a witness.

In one case, a 15-year-old girl was pregnant by a 17-year-old boy. Both his family and hers tried to get the judge to let them get married. At first he refused because he talked to the kids and didn't think they were sufficiently "sincere." Only after they attended several months of counseling did the judge feel they were ready for marriage, after which he gave his consent.

Another case: A 16-year-old girl asked for permission to get married because she was pregnant. The judge refused, saying that wasn't a good enough reason. The girl had her baby, waited until her 18th birthday, and then got married. Many parents feel it is their right to give or withhold permission to marry, but the state of Washington says differently.

B. IN SNOHOMISH, WASH.

DEAR B: At first I thought someone was giving me a "Snoho" job, but a call to a Washington lawyer confirmed your facts. Thanks for the information.

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for people who would like to leave their worldly goods to favorite relatives and special friends.

DO NOT write: "I want Sister Diane to have the gold brooch I got from Aunt Sophie." DO WRITE: "I want my sister Diane to have my 14 kt. gold brooch in the shape of an owl with diamond eyes." (If you have more than one gold brooch, no one may remember which one your Aunt Sophie gave you for your 16th birthday 55 years ago.)

Or, better still, if you don't have one of those instant cameras, borrow one and take a picture of every valuable item you own — and write the name of the person you want to have it on the back of the picture.

That way there will be no misunderstanding.
MRS. M. IN L.A.

DEAR MRS. M.: Good idea, but very few people are prepared to accept the fact that they can't take it with them — or indeed, that they are even going!

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago we wanted a third child. We joyously welcomed a 3-year-old child into our existing family. My husband, our social worker and I were certain the adoption would be a happy one. It wasn't.

I still feel the pain of the six months that child was with us. So much had happened in her little life that the adjustment could not be made. At the time of our anguish, I read every book and article I could find about adoption. No one mentioned the pitfalls or even the possibility of an unsuccessful adoption — only the glowing accounts of the "happily-ever-after" successful adoptions.

I have been tempted to publish the story of our failure, but I hesitate because I don't want to discourage others from adopting children who desperately need a loving home.

One of the most difficult things we had to deal with was a problem no one mentioned — the sexually abused child. As I write this I can still hear the child's screams as my loving husband tried to hold her. We finally understood when she told us in detail how "that bad man" had hurt her.

We had hoped that our patience, kindness and love would help. Perhaps it did — but not enough.

Changing Supplier Isn't Simple

It has become evident that electric rates for Carolina Power and Light customers and those of Virginia Electric and Power Co. customers in this area are different with CP&L customers paying less.

Since the territories served by the two companies converge in our area the matter is of concern. Greenville owns its own electric system, but purchases power wholesale from Veeco and consequently must charge Veeco's retail rates to make ends meet.

Other municipalities in the area are in the same position and they are looking hungrily to the CP&L system for possible relief.

Ayden is trying to make the change (Ayden is served through GUC by Veeco).

Last week the Tarboro Town Council passed a resolution indicating interest in switching from Veeco to CP&L.

Unfortunately moving from one private electric supplier's area to another is extremely difficult to do.

It requires approval by the regulatory agencies and involves upsetting the investment which the companies have made to serve their areas.

The possibilities for switching are not bright, but since it involves more favorable electric rates, it ought to be looked into. It is, after all, a matter of nothing ventured, nothing gained.

Now The Course Will Never Be Known

Pope John Paul was obviously looking forward to is term with considerable hope and enthusiasm.

He took the names of his two predecessors apparently to show continuity during his time.

Tragically, death cut short his reign and whatever directions he would have taken the Catholic Church will never be known.

Instead the cardinals will gather to choose a new pope only a few weeks after they completed a comparable task.

Hazy Future On Report

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — What's to come from that monumental study of North Carolina's courthouses?

Probably not very much — at least not right away, judging from comments of the various principals involved.

There is no dollar figure available on what it would take to accomplish the recommendations put forth in the report resulting from a project by the School of Design at N. C. State University.

But it's plain to see that if all the 100 counties in the state did all of the things suggested, the price tag would be high: more than $100 million, but less than a billion, suggest sources close to the study.

How badly needed is the work? In some cases, desperately, the study finds. The two volumes of descriptions, survey findings, photographs, and rankings of courthouses promise to become collectors' items, and provide reference data for years to come.

Framework

And they easily provide the framework for future planning as various county governments survey their present and coming needs.

As the report points out: "In realistic terms, preparation for the future means being prepared for the present — when the present arrives. Otherwise, the present is too often consumed with an overwhelming, debilitating crisis of one sort or another."

"Thus, for the effective conduct of public affairs, it is necessary to look ahead and anticipate what the future is likely to hold."

What it most likely holds is no overwhelming rush by already over-burdened boards of county commissioners to push bond votes or tax hikes to finance major work on the courthouses. The work will come in due course, as it has in the past.

One major complaint being heard from county officials is that courthouses already provide space for a number of state activities including the courts themselves, and yet no suggestion is put forth that increased state funding be provided to do the work.

BILL NOBLITT

Gov. Jim Hunt had some kind words to say about the study and the needs outlined, but when asked what role the state will play in setting up statewide minimum standards and design criteria, or in financing the work, he hedges:

"There has to be," he commented, "minimum quality, adequacy, and design standards... whether those need to be written down, or just understood, I just don't know."

Will he push for action in the General Assembly? Not very likely. "Each county can look at its needs, and respond to them in the best way possible," Hunt says.

Unclear

Robert P. Burns of the School of Design was project director in the $193,000 study and report. He also is unclear on what now lies ahead. At first there was some talk of setting up a review panel of county officials, courts people, and state leaders. That doesn't appear to be happening, however.

"What happens now? I can't answer that. Our involvement ends with production of the report," said Burns. The panel was supposed to recommend what action should be taken, and means of financing the work. Sources say the panel will likely not be formed.

Action will result, then, only from an outpouring of public interest, Burns believes. Judging from preliminary returns from county officials, such an outpouring is unlikely locally.

Burns feels the project stands on its own merits in "defining more what ought to be as an ideal for North Carolina's courthouses rather than just an in-depth look at today's problems."

RESURRECTION ISSUE

THE L.A. TIMES SYNDICATE

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Needed At Bottom-Rung

A stupid little incident the other day in Norfolk, Va., prompts a few observations on an old theme. My thought is that when it comes to the judiciary, prestige and salary scales are upside down. We aren't getting the greatest judges where they are needed most—down at the bottom rung of the ladder.

It appears that Norfolk is afflicted with a thin-skinned fellow in the city's traffic court, Vernon D. Hitchings, Jr., by name. Judge Hitchings has been around for almost 25 years. He boasts that in this period he has run his court "like a railroad," disposing of 200 to 300 cases a day. To judge from press reports, his brusque manner on the bench has dismayed many members of the Norfolk bar.

A couple of weeks ago a retired bookkeeper, Mrs. Frances Savage, 58, appeared in Judge Hitchings' court. Her husband had been charged with a minor traffic offense; he had brought two witnesses in his own defense. The judge gave them no chance to present their case. After hearing from a police officer, he abruptly dismissed the charges and called the next case.

Mrs. Savage was burned up at this cavalier treatment. She took pen in hand and wrote a zinger of a letter to the Norfolk papers. She said Judge Hitchings was "too busy" to listen to evidence; the innocent have no voice or chance to state their case; his court was like a three-ring circus, and he had "sided with a pretty young thing" in the accident case at hand.

The letter appeared on a Sunday morning. On Monday Mrs. Savage received a big fat summons for contempt of court, an offense that carries a $50 fine and/or 10 days in jail. The judge was quoted as saying that while judges are subject to criticism, "they do not have to endure misrepresentations of fact or character misrepresentations." When word of the judge's action spread around Norfolk, the newspapers raised such cain that Judge Hitchings dismissed his own citation. End of story.

That was the end of that

Other Editors Say New Chancellors

(The Charlotte Observer)

Quietly a new generation of chancellors is rising to oversee day-to-day operations of North Carolina's 16-campus university system. Last month, Dr. James S. Ferguson, chancellor of UNC-Greensboro for 11 years, became the ninth chancellor to announce plans to resign since the statewide university was created in 1972. Dr. Ferguson plans to return to teaching next July.

Most of the resignations are attributable to state policies requiring chancellors to retire at age 65. Dr. Dean W. Colvard, chancellor at UNC-Charlotte, will retire at the end of the year for that reason. Dr. Leo Jenkins, a former chancellor at East Carolina University, retired in July for the same reason. Two of the three men resigning next year — Dr. Herbert Wey at Appalachian and English Jones at Pembroke — will also retire.

The appointment of new chancellors ought to strengthen and improve the system's statewide coordination. Unlike their predecessors, who once headed independent campuses, many of the new chancellors come from states with university systems similar to North Carolina's. Dr. E. K. Fretwell, who succeeds Dr. Colvard at UNC-C in January, comes from the Buffalo College campus of the State University of New York. Dr. Joab Thomas, who succeeded Chancellor John Caldwell at N. C. State, came from the University of Alabama system.

The infusion of newcomers also ought to help reduce inter-institutional jealousies left over from when each campus was independent and vied with all others for money from the legislature. That competition, and the bitterness and duplication it aroused, brought about the reorganization of all campuses under the university umbrella.

The change in leadership also should be helpful in the university's quest to further desegregate the 16 campuses. The new leaders come in fully aware of the university's commitment to educational equality. Unburdened by the past, they should be able to work with great flexibility toward the accomplishment of that goal.

A Loophole For Kennedy

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy sponsored a human rights amendment last year to cut off all munitions exports to Argentina as of last Saturday (Sept. 30), but several months later voted for an unpublicized loophole permitting a Massachusetts company to continue selling periscopes for Argentine submarines.

When the Massachusetts company — Kollmorgen, of Northampton — went to Kennedy to ask for the exemption, Kennedy's office told us the senator replied that he felt so strongly about human rights he would have trouble supporting any exemption.

But Kennedy's colleague, Republican Sen. Edward Brooke who is in a tough reelection contest, quietly went to bat for Kollmorgen. He slipped the exemption into a Defense Department supplemental appropriation bill. When that bill reached the floor of the Senate, Kennedy voted yes, and the bill, which allows Kollmorgen to continue selling periscopes destined for the Argentine navy, passed 90 to 0.

Kennedy's aides told us the senator did not know the exemption was in the bill when he voted for it, a disclaimer that raises eyebrows among senators who recognize Kennedy's staff as one of the most alert and best-informed on Capitol Hill.

The munitions cutoff in Kennedy's 1977 bill — aimed specifically and solely at Argentina for its human rights violations — did not take effect until Sept. 30, 1978. Under the exemption that Kennedy staffers insist slipped by him without his knowledge, Kollmorgen will continue making periscopes for Argentina, with no trace of Kennedy having opened a loophole for a Massachusetts company.

Ford In '80?

Two top Republicans who haven't joined the "Ford won't run" pack are House minority leader John Rhodes and Rep. Guy Vanderjagt of Michigan, chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee.

In a private chat in the House cloakroom recently, Vanderjagt told Rhodes that it looked to him as though fellow Michigander Ford was truly eager to make another run for the presidency in 1980. Rhodes replied to this effect: Yes, I agree, and if he goes all out he can be nominated.

That is not consistent with conventional party wisdom. Most Republicans, including some close to the former president, feel he is far more likely to back a moderate like George Bush against Ronald Reagan, rather than running himself.

Good Money After Bad

On the insistence of Sen. Robert Byrd, the Senate majority leader, Sen. Maryon Allen of Alabama got a third $5,000 contribution from the Senate Democratic campaign fund just before the crucial Senate vote on President Carter's hotly-contested gas deregulation bill.

Strength For Today

A DISTINGUISHED PROFESSOR

The president of a small church college has written this interesting account of a campus workman:

"One of the valuable members of our own campus community was an Italian bricklayer who for thirty-five years was a living embodiment of joy in one's work. He was employed by the college in 1943, after working as watchman for a construction company on a campus building project. Under strict orders to let no one pass, he refused one evening to let the president and some guests inspect the building project. The president was so impressed that he hired the watchman on the spot.

"Over the years, the joy and enthusiasm with which this man carried out every job entrusted to him, gradually endeared him to everybody. In one way or another, everybody in the academic community is dedicated to service, but I don't think we really knew what it meant until we saw it exhibited by this distinguished colleague. He became one of our outstanding professors." —Elisha Douglass

The Via Veneto Lives

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

ROME, Italy (AP) — As they were telling each other in the days of Keats, Shelley and Browning, and for all I know, Julius Caesar and the Borgias, too, the Via Veneto isn't what it used to be. If it ever was.

Rome's bawdy boulevard of strolling film stars, exiled royalty, grounded jet setters and occasional pinched bottoms has fallen on crass commercial times. The Japanese have taken over, or the Germans, or the Arabs or the beastly Americans, depending on who is doing the decrying.

The action has moved elsewhere, they tell you.

Rumors are always flying about the Via Veneto, especially of its imminent downfall. Don't heed them. It's still the place to see and be seen in Rome. Sipping a Cappuccino at an outdoor cafe there in the morning or an aperative after dark, one still has a front row seat at a passing parade of unrivaled camp, kink and kitch.

True, the swarthy Latin lover in the hand-stitched Gucci pointed-toe shoes with the four inch built-up heel might turn out to be a son of the desert from Bahrain, and the New Wave film director type with the African beads and fringed shirt open to the navel might own a delicatessen in Scarsdale, but why complain?

So what if the only writers you see are all writing postcards, and the only movie makers are all grinding away at 8 mm cameras and shouting directions like, "Walk past that horse buggy again, Gloria, and smile, will you. At 90 bucks a day without breakfast all we can afford to do here is smile."

For the price of a cup of coffee — not exactly a steal at $1.60 — you can sit there all day and all night in one of those

Five states were represented on the Greenville tobacco market today as sales were resumed following a week-end holiday.

Farmers from Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia sold tobacco on the local market today.

Prices were stronger today and the official average was expected to exceed $25 per hundredweight.

Letters were read at the meeting of the County Board of Commissioners today from the division of institutions and corrections of the state welfare department in which the county jail and home were commended.

The report said that both institutions were found in good shape and clean.

Many Pitt County sportsmen took to the fields and woods Saturday as the hunting season opened for squirrel and certain other game. But judging from reports reaching here no one had any real good luck.

The opinion was expressed that the woods were so crowded that no one was able to get but a few shots.

Lacking A Productivity Policy

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the name of efficiency, many areas of the federal bureaucracy might be laid to rest, but that which was buried this past weekend hardly was the proper one.

So far as is known, the National Center for Productivity and Quality of Work Life didn't even list its vital organs to another agency.

All it left was its studies, and the warning it referred to constantly throughout its three-year life: Production efficiency, which helped build and support the American way of life, is deteriorating.

Everyone piously acknowledges the dangers.

In its 1978 report to the president, for example, the Council of Economic Advisers called it "one of the most significant economic problems of recent years."

But it's almost ignored. In its final report, the Center commented that "although this slowdown affects almost every major economic issue, policymakers have paid inadequate attention to it."

Unforgivable, you might conclude, when you consider that the issues policymakers sometimes build so large are mere anthills against the smoky volcano that the issue of lagging productivity really is.

Consider first, in the Center's final words to the president and Congress, what productivity increases have meant to the country:

"Americans, throughout history, have enjoyed a steadily rising standard of living. The economy has expanded, new jobs have been created, choices have been broadened, and rewards have increased.

"The average American today consumes greater amounts and varieties of goods and services, performs less backbreaking work, and has more leisure time than the generations before.

"This better life was made possible by sustained productivity improvement — a continuing ability to produce more in less time and with fewer resources."

George Kuper, the Center's executive director, isn't totally pessimistic. "We can, he said, vigorously pursue a program that gives top priority to the problem.

Involved would be an effort to enhance technological innovation, stimulate capital investment and human resources development, and encourage labor-business and business-government cooperation.

But that was what the National Center was designed to set the stage for, and under Public Law 94-136, enacted in November 1975, the Center self-destructed on September 30, 1978.

Meanwhile, prospects for productivity, whose growth began slowing in the late 1960s, are no better for the 1980s. The country still has no productivity policy. And the volcano smokes, as it did at Pompeii.

Saving Of Tuition Tax Credits Project Weighed

Find No Such Thing As Average U.S. Taxpayer

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If there were such a thing as an average American taxpayer, he or she or they would have earned $13,263 last year and paid 13.7 percent of it in federal income taxes. That meant working the first seven weeks of the year just to come up with the $1,814 due Uncle Sam. Those who earned less had to work a shorter time to pay their federal taxes and those who earned more had to work longer, sometimes a lot longer. For example a person with an income of $50,000 or more a year probably owed at least 31.1 percent of it in federal taxes and was still working for the government when May 1 rolled around.

But there is no "average" taxpayer — just millions and millions of ordinary people lumped into categories by Internal Revenue Service computers.

The IRS said Monday that on 85.2 million 1977 returns processed so far, taxpayers reported $1.13 trillion in adjusted gross income. Of that, $154.6 billion went for federal income taxes.

The income and tax of the "average" taxpayer — which could be a couple filing a joint return — is found by dividing the total income and total taxes paid by the total number of returns processed.

But since the report includes so many individuals with so many different factors affecting their lives and tax returns, the mythical average taxpayer does not fit precisely into some of these further breakdowns provided by the IRS report:

—Those 42 million taxpayers making under $10,000, by far the largest group, accounted for less than two-tenths percent of the total adjusted gross income reported and paid 5.9 percent of the taxes, or $9.2 billion. Paying 4.7 percent of their income in federal income taxes, they had to work about 2½ weeks to get the money.

—The 14.1 million taxpayers reporting from $10,000-$15,000 income accounted for 15.4 percent of total income and paid 10.6 percent of the taxes, or $16.5 billion. In a 9.4 percent bracket, it took them about five weeks to work out their taxes.

wicker chairs watching the world of posture and pretense go by in a splendid setting of luxury hotels, tourist glove shops with signs in Japanese and the centuries old walls of the Borgia gardens, sun-gilded by day and floodlit at evening.

"Senta, senta," I called the waiter in the bored, Italian, worldly wise way of the Dolce Vita, and moved on to Harry's Bar, where all the men look like George Raft in an old Warner Bros. spy thriller and all the girls seem to favor silver-haired Romeos in loud plaid suits. Gunter Sachs had just gone in with his new wife.

Or was it Emerson Fittipaldi? I never did find out because the guy in the rock star rhinestone sunglasses and John Travolta satin overalls at the bar turned out to be a vacationing tree surgeon from my hometown of Ridgefield, Conn. His wife, if it really was his wife, was looking properly bored in a see-through Indian tunic and leather hot pants.

On the Via Veneto, best you don't ask.

—The second largest group of returns, 27.7 million, was from taxpayers reporting $15,000 to $50,000 income. That broad and varied group loosely referred to as the middle-income level accounted for 57.5 percent of the income and paid 60.2 percent of the taxes, or $93.2 billion. In a 14.3 percent bracket, they had to work 7½ weeks or more to earn their federal taxes.

—Those 1.3 billion reporting income of $50,000 and over accounted for 15.4 percent of the income and paid 23 percent of the taxes, or $35.7 billion. In a 31.1 percent bracket, they had to work about 16 weeks to pay their taxes.

story, but there probably is not a major city in the country that has not heard similar stories a thousand times before. All too often, our court system manages to place the worst judges at the very point where the best judges should be sitting.

As a young reporter, in Richmond, I used to cover police and traffic courts. The city's principal police court had three terrible judges in a row. The first of them became a legend for his abuse of Negro defendants. The second, a spider-legged, sour-mouthed fellow, was no better. The third retired under a cloud and subsequently was censured by the state's Judicial Commission.

But I also covered a great "bottom rung" judge, Harold F. Snead. As trial justice of neighboring Henrico County, he kept witnesses gently but firmly in line; he listened attentively to both sides in an accident case; he could be courteous, compassionate and severe in the same hour. He knew law, and he understood justice; these are not the same thing. When he later became chief justice of the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, a great trial judge was lost.

Judges like Snead are all too rare. Ordinarily the pay isn't must a the police court level. The work is hard and demanding. After so long a time, the squalor, the sordidness and the lies tend to numb even the good men. Drunk-driving defendants are all alike; none of them ever had more than two beers. In speeding cases, speedometers are always broken. The other guy swung his fist first. It is no wonder that the serene chambers of an appellate court have greater appeal.

Yet for 99 percent of our people, the bottom rung of justice is all they will ever see. Their impressions of our judicial system, for good or ill, will be formed just as Mrs. Savage in Norfolk formed her impression of Judge Hitchings. The judge who is testy, impatient or sarcastic does harm not only to the litigants in his courtroom, but by extension to the image of justice as a whole.

By EDMOND Le BRETON

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of tax credits for college tuition, facing a mounting veto threat, may try to save their proposal by imbedding it in the general tax cut bill.

This strategy was being discussed as Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, told reporters at the White House Monday he would advise President Carter to veto the $1 billion program.

In a compromise version worked out by Senate and House conferees, the bill would allow tax credits against tuition paid to institutions above high school. The credit, to be subtracted directly from taxes owed, could be up to 35 percent of tuition. The maximum would be $100 this year, $150 in 1979 and $250 in 1980.

The conference dropped provisions for tax credits for tuition to private elementary and secondary schools, proposals which had drawn Carter's strongest fire.

But Califano made it clear the measure, which he called ineffective and inequitable, is still unacceptable to the administration. It would not do as much for middle-income families as the administration alternative, he contended.

However, if backers succeed in attaching the tuition credits to the main tax cut bill, which the Senate is scheduled to begin debating this week, Carter would be presented with a dilemma: Let the credits stand or veto the tax relief voters have been promised.

Instead of giving tuition tax credits, Carter favors expanding the present federal programs of grants and loans for college tuition and making families earning up to $25,000 eligible. The program Carter favors also would cost about $1 billion.

The Senate has passed the bill that Carter wants but House leaders have held it up, waiting to see how the dispute would be solved. The budget adopted by Congress for 1979 has room for either tax credits or the Carter plan, but not both.

Sen. William V. Roth, R-Del., chief Senate sponsor of the college credits, said in a statement: "The Califano approach of expanded loans and grants will lead to expanded fraud, red tape and inefficiency."

Since the conferees have agreed on a bill, it could be changed now only if it were rejected by one house or the other and a new compromise worked out. This would be a time-consuming process unlikely in the pre-adjournment crush.

Califano said the measure produced by the conference committee would provide significantly less help to middle-income families than the Carter plan.

"A family of four earning $20,000 a year, with one child in college, would receive $666 in a grant from HEW under its grant program," he said. "It would receive only, at a maximum, the $250 tax credit under the tuition tax credit legislation."

$1 Million Gift To College

ALLENTON, Mich. (AP) — Russel Kirkhoff, a 82-year-old retired industrialist who never got beyond the seventh grade, has given Grand Valley State College $1 million.

College President Arend Lubbers said the donation is the largest in the 15-year history of the Michigan school. Lubbers said the liberal arts professional studies building, and the corresponding academic program, will be renamed after Kirkhoff.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices added a little more to their recent gains in another quiet session today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had risen 11.17 points in the past three sessions, was up another .69 at 872.05 a noontime today.

Gainers held a 7-5 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said there was nothing special in the news to explain the advance.

The rally by the dollar in foreign exchange that seemed to give stock prices a boost on Monday faded today, and many analysts were still talking about the prospect of continued upward pressure on interest rates.

Federal Reserve Chairman G. William Miller said in a speech to a conference on productivity in New York today, however, that he expected interest rates to peak before year-end.

Lucky Stores led the active list, off 3/4 at 16 1/2. A 234,000 share block traded at that price.

Food Fair, which filed Monday for protection under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy law, fell 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 in active trading.

NYSE's composite index rose .06 to 58.04. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained .11 to 169.65.

Volume on the Big Board came to 9.26 million shares at noontime, against 8.32 million at the same point Monday.

Annual Event For Chapter Complains Over Pro-Helms Ads

Zeta Eta Lambda Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity Inc. celebrated its annual social event Friday at the Moose Lodge here.

Activities at the event included a luncheon, a fashionista, dance and the presentation of chapter awards.

The fraternity presented a citation to Mrs. Lucille Gorham of Greenville for her "many years of devoted service to the cause of education as a member of the Greenville City Schools Board."

Mayor Lee Morgan of New Bern was presented the chapter's Community Service Award in recognition of his handling of the recent police strike activities in New Bern.

Luncheon speaker was Judge Richard C. Ervin of Winston-Salem, a member of the N.C. Court of Appeals. Ervin, the first black named to the Court of Appeals, was presented a plaque recognizing his service in the North Carolina Legislature before receiving his court appointment.

Mrs. Mary Kilpatrick and Mrs. Kathy Nobles directed the fashion show.

Tim Sullivan, former president of the Student Government Association at East Carolina University, has filed a complaint to the Federal Elections Commission about three advertisements published in the student newspaper promoting meetings of students supporting U.S. Senator Jesse Helms.

Sullivan's complaint charged that the Helms campaign failed to pay for the ads published in "The Fountainhead" on June 7, June 14 and August 26.

Carter Wrenn, Helms' campaign treasurer, said he learned of the problem last week and asked the newspaper to bill the campaign for the advertisements.

Wrenn said a student supporter had made a mistake in placing the ads without paying for them, and without the campaign committee's authorization.

Wrenn said when he learned of the complaint, he talked with FEC officials who told him to pay the bill and get a letter from the student who placed the ads explaining the situation.

"Everything's taken care of," Wrenn noted.

He added that the "Fountainhead" apparently never asked for payment of the ads.

"Fountainhead" editor Doug White said this morning that the newspaper has received, "a letter to send the ads," to the elections commission and, "turned it over to our lawyers."

White added, "We're going to meet sometime today and make sure we are in compliance with the law. As far as I know, we are."

White said he did not know if the Helms campaign had been billed for the advertisements. "Our advertising manager handles that," White explained.

Robert Swain, advertising manager for the student newspaper said, "the ads were billed and the ads were paid for. We got the check last week."

"There's nothing to his allegations," Swain said of Sullivan's complaint.

Wrenn said when he learned of the complaint, he talked with FEC officials who told him to pay the bill and get a letter from the student who placed the ads explaining the situation.

"Everything's taken care of," Wrenn noted.

AT NCNB, WE'RE OFFERING A YIELD OF 8.17%* ON 7 3/4%, 8-YEAR CERTIFICATES. MOST BANKS AREN'T.

In June, the Federal Government allowed banks to pay a new higher annual rate of interest (7 3/4%) on Savings Certificates. The Government said a bank could. They didn't say a bank had to. So, many banks in North Carolina aren't offering the new rate. Which makes an interesting point: While every bank talks about wanting your business, all of them aren't acting like it. The banks here and there that offer the rate still have an option: The way they compound the interest. Depending on how they do it, your money will earn as little as 7 3/4% a year, or as much as 8.17% a year. One other thing: A bank can set any minimum amount from $1000 up on these Certificates. At NCNB, our policy is simple. For the lowest possible minimum ($1000), we compound interest daily for the highest possible yield: 8.17% a year.* If you can't get that from your bank's savings certificates, you should find out about ours. So come see us. Soon. We'll be happy to show you how a bank operates when it really wants your business.

 Federal law and regulation prohibit the payment of a time deposit prior to maturity unless three months of the interest thereon is forfeited and interest on the amount withdrawn is reduced to the Regular Savings rate.

Redskins Corral Cowboys For 9-5 Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was, according to Washington defensive captain Diron Talbert, a matter of shutting down the National Football League's No. 1 offense, and especially the NFC's leading rusher, Tony Dorsett.

"We stopped them rushing, we stopped their passing," said Talbert after the Redskins' 9-5 victory over the Dallas Cowboys Monday night. Talbert remembered, when reminded, that the Cowboys were the top scoring team in the NFL. "But basically, we pursued Dorsett and we tackled him. We stopped his long runs." The Washington defense stopped the Cowboys when it was necessary, including six plays from the 7-yard line and four from the 2 in the third quarter and also late in the fourth quarter on a controversial play. "It was kind of sloppy," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "We have no excuses. We just didn't put it in there." The Redskins won their fifth straight game against no losses this season before a sellout crowd, including President Carter, taking a two-game lead in the NFC East on Mark Moseley's field goals of 52, 42 and 27 yards. Dallas, the defending Super Bowl champion, is now 3-2.

"Last year, I missed three field goals against Dallas here and it cost us a game," said Moseley. "As Texans, neither me nor my dad ever heard the end of it."

"I'm just now coming around," said Moseley, a native of Livingston, Texas. "I had a slow training camp and the leg is finally beginning to feel strong."

The Cowboys' only offensive score came on a 19-yard field goal by Rafael Septien after the Washington goalline stand in the third quarter. The got a safety when Redskin quarterback Joe Theismann voluntarily ran into the end zone on the final play of the game.

Pirate Winners

Fifteen defensive standouts were included among 25 East Carolina players who earned grades sufficiently high to receive winners awards from Pirate coaches after viewing the film of Saturday's 23-17 win over Texas-Arlington at Ficklen Stadium.

Linebacker Mike Brewington, the team's top tackler with 14 for the game and 66 for the season, and running mate Tommy Summer, linemen D.T. Joyner, Oliver Felton, Vance Tingle, Noah Clark, Nate Wigfall, Zack Valentine, John Morris, Fred Chavis, and Cliff Williams, along with backs Ruffin McNeill, Willie Holley, Charlie Carter and James Freer were the defenders named for the honor.

On offense, backs Eddie Hicks, Theodore Sutton, Leander Green and Sam Harrell, receivers Joe Godette and Terry Gallaher, along with linemen Matt Mulholland, Nelson Smith, Wayne Inman and Mitchell Johnston all graded as winners according to their coaches.

The Pirates return to action Saturday afternoon, traveling to Lexington, Va., to face Virginia Military Institute.

Contest Winners

Chuck Brackenhoff of 112B Cherry Court Apartments, Greenville, is the winner of this past week's "Daily Reflector" Football Contest.

Brackenhoff correctly picked the winners in 27 of the 32 games listed in last Tuesday's paper.

Second place went to Jay Smith of Box 936, Bethel, who finished with 26 right. Seven other people also had 26 correct picks, but were further off the point total score. Smith's guess of 72 was the closest to the total of 86 scored in Furman's 52-34 win over Appalachian State and in Nebraska's 69-17 win over Indiana.

The next of the weekly contests appears on the following pages.

Kuhn Asked To Investigate Remarks Made By Twins Owner

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has been asked to investigate allegedly racist remarks made by Minnesota Twins owner Calvin Griffith in Waseca, Minn., last week.

The 66-year-old Griffith triggered a storm of protest with his off-the-cuff comments on blacks, sex and salaries at a meeting of the Waseca Lion's club.

The Minneapolis and St. Paul Urban League chapters Monday asked Kuhn to investigate the remarks. The chapters suggested that "maybe next season the Minnesota Twins play in an appropriate place where Calvin Griffith will be appreciated, which could be called the Johannesburg Twins. We would suggest that he and South Africa were made for each other."

In his talk at Waseca, Griffith reportedly said that Twins slugger Rod Carew was a "damn fool" for signing a contract for $170,000, that catcher Butch Wynegar's performance suffered because he got married and that he moved the Twins from Washington, D.C. to Minnesota in 1971 when he found "you only have 15,000 blacks here."

After learning of the comments, which were published in the Minneapolis Tribune Sunday, Carew vowed never again to play for the Twins. Griffith said he would try to explain his remarks to Carew and other players who were offended. He said his comments were misinterpreted and made in jest. Griffith added he is confident he can "get the people's minds straightened out" about the statements.

One of the two black members of the Minnesota Legislature, Rep. Ray Pleasant of Bloomington, has demanded that organized baseball reprimand Griffith and apologize to the area.

Pleasant mailed a clipping of the news story to Kuhn and American League President Lee MacPhail.

Assuming Griffith's quoted comments are true, Pleasant said, Griffith and his baseball organization "are no longer welcome in Minnesota."

"It goes without saying that we anticipate some kind of reprimand from the baseball industry," Pleasant wrote to Kuhn and MacPhail.

Pleasant also suggested that the people of the area "deserve a replacement franchise."

The Twins office was swamped with phone calls complaining about Griffith's remarks Monday.

However, Griffith received support in Waseca from Lion's president Ken Lenz.

Lenz said the comments were taken out of context. "It was said in jest, without malice and certainly not bigoted," Lenz said. "I wasn't offended by it and don't know anyone who was."

The price of your building is one thing.

The cost is another.

You know it's true.

The cost of owning a building doesn't stop the day the building is completed. It actually costs more to maintain some structures over the years than it does to put them up.

That's why we build with total projected performance in mind. Uppermost among these factors is energy-efficiency. We offer certified insulation values for our installed roof and wall systems, and provide the data for true building requirements, instead of overdesigning for calculated requirements.

We can do this because our company, working with a leading research institute, has developed a unique method to measure heat penetration of complete roof and wall assemblies, as opposed to prior industry measurements of small, single-piece samples of insulation materials.

Stated simply, we know how much energy it will take to heat and cool your building before we begin to build.

Because we design with certified energy information, we are precise about requirements for heating and cooling systems. Frequently this means a smaller, more efficient system.

It all adds up to this: We build buildings that are economical to put up. And economical to keep. Call us for the facts.

DUNKEL INDEX

GAMES OF
WEEK ENDING
OCT. 8, 1978

EXPLANATION — The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Higher Rating Team Rating Diff. Opposing Team

Railroad Cites 'Unreasonable' Demand By Clerks

Rural Health Care

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., and Dr. Sarah Morrow, state secretary of Human Resources, met with White House officials Monday to hear Vice President Mondale announce a national rural health care program.

About 300 rural health centers around the country are to be built or renovated during the next four years under a cooperative program by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The Farmers Home Community Facilities Loan Program will provide the funds.

HEW and the federal Department of Labor will jointly train health paraprofessionals, Mondale said.

"It is good to see this kind of interagency cooperation at the federal level," said Dr. Morrow. "They are really putting it all together."

North Carolina has opened 17 rural health centers in the past two years and the state is a model "for training and delivery of rural health services and could serve as a demonstration for other states," she said.

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — The president of the Norfolk & Western Railway says what he called an unreasonable final proposal of the clerks' union during an 81-day strike required the equivalent of lifetime job protection for employees.

John P. Fishwick said Monday the railroad offered a package that would have protected 90 percent of the members of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, who walked out July 10 in a dispute that spread to 42 other states before it was halted last Friday night.

In a letter to N&W employees, Fishwick said the clerks' job protection proposal "would rob us of any adequate ability to react to changes in business conditions."

The clerks wanted one year of protection for each year of seniority up to five years, renewable after each furlough.

Some 4,600 clerks and 15,000 other employees returned to work Monday in the wake of a federal court order that directed a 60-day cooling-off period.

Company spokesman Lew Phelps said train crews made runs to all the approximately 220 coal mines served by the N&W, and he added that merchandise traffic is close to normal.

But the railroad said the N&W coal export docks at Lamberts Point in Norfolk were idle and would remain shut down until the newly loaded coal cars arrive, along with ships to be loaded.

Some of the thousands of furloughed coal miners also were back at work in southwest Virginia, but coal companies said recalls will depend on how fast the N&W returns cars and how long it takes to move the huge reserves of coal mined during the early part of the strike.

At Lebanon, Susan Conete of the Pittston Coal Groups said

350 miners were back at two Jewell Ridge mines in the Tazewell-Buchanan County area, but six other mines still were closed.

Twelve Clinchfield Coal Co. mines served by the N&W were idle, but 10 mines on the Clinchfield Railroad were working, she said. Ms. Conete said return of the miners is a day-to-day situation.

She said Pittston's strategy is to deplete the big stockpiles of coal as quickly as possible.

United Coal Co. has recalled many of its 500 employees, but its Buchanan County mines will not be back to normal for about 1½ weeks, said Charles Carter, executive vice president for sales.

Fishwick said the N&W offered the clerks' union five years of full pay and fringe benefits if a protected employee's job was abolished.

While the railroad spoke of employees being "back in place," Roanoke BRAC general chairman James J. Yoffie said union sources reported "you could cut the air with a knife" Monday. He said they told of hostile feelings toward union members who went back to work.

Phelps said, however, that N&W personnel "received specific instructions not to engage in any type of harassing activity." He said some returning clerks said they were glad to be back.

Commenting on Fishwick's letter, Yoffie said the union proposal was one of many that "passed back and forth. They are all down the drain now and we start from square one."

He said the proposal for a year of job protection for each year of seniority up to a maximum of five years was made to "accommodate a problem they (N&W) said they had."

Fishwick said he does not know of any industry which grants its employees "such an attractive package, and it certainly goes well beyond that provided by most employees."

He said the N&W felt it could not go any farther without giving up minimum flexibility needed to adjust the work force during changing business conditions.

Chief Wilson County Deputy Indicted By Federal Grand Jury

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A federal grand jury indicted Wilson County's chief deputy sheriff Monday on a charge of conspiring to obstruct state laws by accepting payoffs to protect a gambling house on U.S. 301.

Tony M. Owens, the chief deputy, was indicted along with four other men on the conspiracy charge. A sixth man was indicted on perjury charges.

A year-long investigation by the Internal Revenue Service and the FBI into gambling, prostitution and corruption in Wilson County led to the indictments. Four people were indicted earlier, this year by the grand jury in connection with the probe. More indictments may be returned if the grand jury meets again as expected.

Indicted on conspiracy charges with Owens were Gerald A. Frazier of Nash County, Russell J. Webb and Walon M. "Clyde" Inscow of Wilson and George Grady "Buster" Jackson Jr. of Sharpsburg. Frazier was indicted in June on three counts of tax fraud for not reporting income he is alleged to have obtained from prostitution and gambling.

William J. Moore of Wilson was indicted on three counts of perjury. He had been given immunity to force his testimony before the grand jury.

The charges center on the operations of an alleged illegal gambling business that was sometimes referred to as The Clubhouse and was located next to a restaurant just outside the Wilson city limits.

Frazier, Webb, Inscow and Jackson also were indicted Monday on a charge of owning and operating an illegal gambling business. The grand jury also said Moore worked there.

The conspiracy indictments said Owens and the other four men conspired "with each other and with other persons who are not named as defendants" to obstruct the enforcement of state gambling laws between September 1971 and February 1978.

The four and others not named made payments to Owens "in exchange for protection from enforcement of the criminal laws of the State of North Carolina," the indictment said.

The indictment alleges that Owens visited The Clubhouse while in uniform and received money there.

Owens testified before the grand jury about 45 minutes Monday. He was the last of about 15 witnesses heard.

Owens declined comment on the indictment, but Sheriff W. Robin Pridden defended his chief deputy.

"I don't believe he's ever done it (accepted bribes)," Pridden said in a telephone interview. "He will continue on his job until he is convicted by a jury in court, as far as I'm concerned, until somebody proves to me that he's done something other than what I know he's done."

Pridden said he knew nothing about the alleged gambling operation until federal officers started their investigation.

The investigation includes looking at attempts to evade federal taxes, making and subscribing false federal tax returns, obstruction of justice, racketeering and corruption in prostitution and gambling and other areas, one of the indictments said.

SBI Checking Infirmary Drugs

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The State Bureau of Investigation is investigating reports of improper tranquilizer dispensation at the University of North Carolina, but the head of the Student Health Service said he believes no laws were intentionally broken.

Two SBI agents examined service drug records in late August, said Keith Bulla, SBI narcotics chief. A report of the agents' findings was to be turned over to the district attorney in Pittsboro by the end of the month.

The probe is said to center on whether nurses at the campus infirmary dispensed drugs without doctors' orders to do so, a violation of state law.

The SBI investigation follows one by the state Department of Human Resources that was sparked by a report in the Fayetteville Times in April that there may have been violations of state and federal drug laws. The Times' report said the tranquilizer Valium may have been improperly dispensed to the sports medicine department.

The Human Resources investigation found discrepancies in drug dispensing methods and inventory procedures, but they were corrected before a second visit to the health services in June, said Roy Epps, assistant secretary of human resources.

Dr. James A. Taylor, director of the Student Health Service, said the human resources investigation showed problems in drug inventory methods and differences in opinion about how some drugs should be dispensed.

But, he said, "The last thing we want to do is breaking the law."

"Again, I think it goes back to how things are interpreted," he said. "To the best of our knowledge at the time, we were doing things correctly."

Rural Poverty Has Its Brighter Hour

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — After years of poverty, Vivian Rouse is suddenly the recipient of more help than she knows what to do with.
 And, she said, "It's restored my faith in humans."
 Mrs. Rouse and her children traded a life of urban poverty in New Jersey for a rural life just as poor in Bladen County. They live in a ramshackle house without running water or a bathroom, and the house was so run down that the landlord wouldn't accept any rent for it.
 But after an article on her appeared in a nationally-distributed newspaper series on blacks in the South, Mrs. Rouse's fortunes brightened.
 An Atkinson, N.C. builder, Pete Pridgen, offered to sell her a house on two acres near her present home for half the $13,000 Pridgen said he has invested in it.
 About $6,000 in contributions have been made to a fund set up by Mrs. Rouse's church, the Sacred Heart Catholic Church of Whiteville.
 A new wood stove was put in to heat the home, and Livingston College in Salisbury has promised a scholarship to Mrs. Rouse's 18-year-old daughter Rosilind, a senior honors student at Clarkton High School.
 Saying her faith has been restored, Mrs. Rouse added, "You hear so much about the white man hating the black man, and the black man tating the white man, but you never really see the white man and the black man emerging to do something out of love."

A Number Of New TV Shows To Bite The Dust, Says Reviewer

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
 LOS ANGELES (AP) — Okay, gang, time for the Fearless Forecast in which we predict which of this fall's 20 new entertainment series will prosper or join past victims on TV's treadmill to oblivion.
 As in previous years, all predictions are made purely on hunch, without reference to Nielsen ratings, or their equivalent, tea leaves. Without further adieu, here is the outlook:
SATURDAY: ABC's "Apple Pie," a Depression comedy, has a standout actor — Dabney Coleman — but a standstill premise. Out by December, earlier for CBS' "American Girls," a reporter series even Lou Grant would rap. No call for NBC's "Sword of Justice." It starts Oct. 7.
SUNDAY: ABC's "Battlestar Galactica" will go for light years unless it runs out of special-effects money or the Cylons go on strike. CBS' rival "Mary," with Mary Tyler Moore, has a hard struggle ahead, but it'll survive for at least two years, maybe more.
 But CBS' "Kaz," a legal matter, will lose its case by midseason.
MONDAY: CBS' "WKRP in Cincinnati" won't sign off for years. Not so the network's glossy "People." It'll poop out by November unless they get honest and change the title to "Piffle."
TUESDAY: ABC's "Taxi" will keep the meter running at least two years, in the manner of one trip in a real New York cab.
 A rash prediction for CBS' "Paper Chase" law school series: It'll give ABC's rival "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley" a stiff fight, if allowed to build an audience. We suspect those shows have had it, and "Chase" might last well beyond a year.
 Not so NBC's "Grandpa Goes to Washington," even with Jack Albertson. Grandpa will be out of office before you can spell recall.
WEDNESDAY: ABC's "Vegas" is not a good bet. We give 100 to one odds against it staying on past November. Sad to say, CBS' gentle "In the Beginning" is headed for a fast ending, too.
 But another rash prediction: "Dick Clark's Live Wednesday" on NBC may last one season, maybe two, once its mix of "You Asked For It" stunts and rock-version "Where Are They Now" catches on. This doesn't mean it's good. Goodness has nothing to do with it.
THURSDAY: ABC's "Mork and Mindy" gets at least two years, provided the new-star pressures Robin Williams is sure to face — like a blast of guest shots on other shows — doesn't grind him down.

 NBC's "W.E.B.," about the nice lady and nasty men who run a TV network, may feature the first TV network in history to get canceled. The ax will fall by the end of November.
FRIDAY: CBS' "Flying High," a stewardess show, will be permanently grounded in mid-November, although you may hear its laugh-track costarring elsewhere the rest of this season.

Forecast For Wednesday, Oct. 4, 1978

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Morning is best time to handle credit and business affairs since later you are apt to be confused. Have a good talk with one who is close to you. Come to a better understanding.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Talking affairs over with associates yields fine benefits now. A civic affair is working out to your benefit, but don't spoil it by wrong action.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Schedule your work early and get fine results. Be more cooperative with co-workers. Think along more constructive lines. Don't neglect health problems.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan recreation arrangements early so that all goes well later. You can take a chance during daytime hours that would not be advisable later in the evening.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be patient and tactful with those at home and get fine results. Avoid strife there, especially in the evening. Give your undivided attention to a business venture that interests you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Look to a clever friend for right answers to problems, then work on reports, statements. Being gregarious during the day is best, but enjoy solitude later in the evening.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Seek the approval of bigwigs and put your finest talents to work properly. Get involved in civic work that can be helpful to you and to others.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Look into a new outlet that can help you to grow and advance, but be sure it is one that has proved itself. Plan that trip you want to take, also. Contact local allies.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will easily get at the truth of any situation or matter and should have as fine an education as possible, particularly in fields of research, laboratory work and the like. Your progeny will make a plan and carry through with it to the letter, which is the key to success here.

Inmate Suit Is Cleared

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court rejected an appeal by the state Monday, clearing the way for further hearings on a lawsuit by North Carolina inmates that asks for a federal takeover of the state's overcrowded prisons.
 The court ruled that the U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals was correct in its reversal of U.S. District Judge Woodrow Wilson Jones' dismissal of the lawsuit brought by 21 inmates.
 The action by the court sends the case back to Jones' court in the Western District of North Carolina for further hearings. The action means that the court may decide to intervene in the operations of the state's 77-unit, 14,000-inmate system.
 The inmates aid in their suit that the prisons are severely overcrowded, that adequate health care is denied and that rehabilitation programs are limited. They ask that the state Division of Prisons be placed under federal court supervision, that no more inmates be committed until "minimum standards" were met and that the state Parole Board be ordered to release enough inmates to reduce prison population.
 Amos E. Reed, state secretary of corrections, said Monday he thinks that many of the inmates' grievances are no longer true because of "a massive effort" to build new cells, improve maintenance and upgrade conditions.
 The inmates filed suit in 1976, about the time the prison system reached its highest population of 14,600 inmates in prisons designed to hold about 10,000.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Mild, sunny weather is expected for most of the country until Wednesday morning. Showers are forecast for Florida, from the eastern Gulf to the lower Great Lakes and in the northern Plains. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A large area of high pressure covered the eastern part of the country today, giving North Carolina another sunny day with mild temperatures. However, a cold front was pushing this way from the midwest and cloudiness will be increasing in the west tonight with a chance of showers in the mountains.

Experimenting In New Crops

High temperatures today were expected to range from the 60s in the northwest mountains to the upper 70s and low 80s eastward. Low temperatures at night are ranging from the upper 40s in the mountains to the low 60s near the coast.

Skies were generally sunny Monday as the high pressure moved over the state. High temperatures during the day reached the 70s in most places although the northwest mountains reached only the 60s.

SILVER FISH
BEDFORD, England (AP) — When 12-year-old Gary Hollamby went fishing in the local river, he didn't have much luck catching fish. But he did hook a silver bowl that led him to a $6,000 haul of silver dumped in the river by thieves.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Researchers at North Carolina State University are experimenting with Christmas trees, grapes, sunflowers and other crops in their quest to bring about a better balance in North Carolina's farm production.

"A balanced agriculture, which for decades has been our goal, is just over the horizon," according to Dr. J.E. Legates, dean of the School of Agriculture and Life Sciences at North Carolina State University.

In 1978 for the first time, the state's tobacco crop is expected to bring in $1 billion, and five other commodities — broilers, corn, pork, eggs and soybeans — are expected to account for another $1 billion for farmers.

Besides that, Legates said, beef, forest products, milk and turkeys should contribute more than $100 million each to 1978 farm income.

Animals and animal products brought in only 18 percent.

Last year, farm sales of animals and animal products accounted for 40.5 percent of almost $3 billion in agricultural output last year.

"Tobacco brought in almost twice as many dollars in 1977 as in 1950, but its proportion of the total during this period dropped from 62 percent to only 28 percent," Legates said.

"The significance of these figures is obvious," he added. "While our income from tobacco has continued to grow, we have developed a number of strong alternative farming enterprises to give us a more stable and more balanced agricultural economy."

Tapes Resurrect Crash Theory

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Taped radio conversations between a doomed jetliner and flight controllers here have caused federal investigators to resurrect the theory that a third plane may have confused the pilot before his aircraft collided with a single-engine Cessna, causing the nation's worst air disaster.

A critical factor also could be imprecise language between controllers at Lindbergh Field and the jet's pilot, investigators said.

"I can't say that the third-plane theory is totally false," Bruce Chambers of the Federal Aviation Administration said Monday, one week after the crash killed at least 144 persons.

Officials earlier had discounted the theory.

The tapes show that both pilots were warned several times that their planes were nearing each other.

Tape transcripts also show that controllers at Lindbergh and Miramar Naval Air Station were under the impression the pilots of the Pacific Southwest Airlines jet and Cessna 172 were aware of each other.

The tapes also confirm that a second Cessna was being handled by Lindbergh controllers, but are unclear whether the PSA pilot, while acknowledging sighting a Cessna, saw the Cessna 172 with which he collided or the second Cessna.

It still is unclear how far away the second Cessna was at the time of the accident.

The tapes showed that Lindbergh controllers gave the descending PSA jet a traffic advisory, which is short of a warning, of the Cessna directly ahead.

The PSA pilot responded with language which seemed to indicate he did not know exactly where the smaller plane was.

Lindbergh: PSA 182 Lindbergh tower, traffic 12 o'clock one mile... a Cessna.

PSA: OK we had him there a minute ago.

Lindbergh: 182 roger. PSA: Think he's passing off to our right.

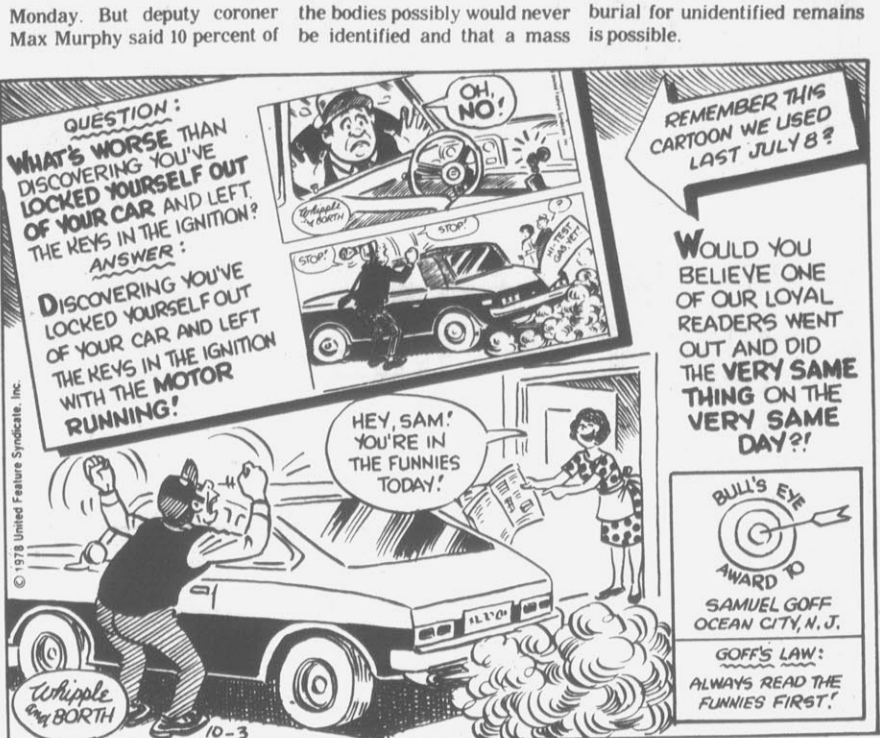

Lindbergh: Roger. Lloyd LaGrange, a National Transportation Safety Board investigator, said, "The matter of language is being looked into. It certainly is one of the key factors we're looking into. For all I know, that could be the whole thing."

Rudy Kapustin, the NTSB investigator in charge, said that normally "a pilot lets the controller know that he either has the traffic (another plane) in sight or he doesn't have it."

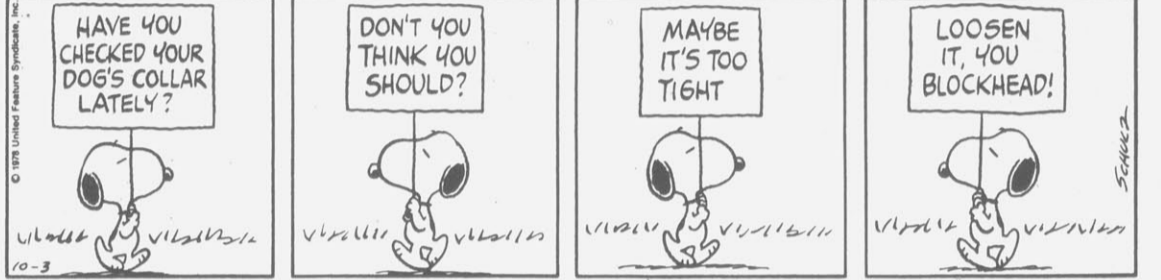

Investigators hope to complete their work here by mid-week, then continue the investigation in Washington. It is expected to be next year before any report is issued.

Another mystery is exactly how many died.

The coroner, aided by a team of FBI specialists in dealing with badly damaged bodies, had identified 84 victims by late Monday. But deputy coroner Max Murphy said 10 percent of the bodies possibly would never be identified and that a mass burial for unidentified remains is possible.

Hopeful News in Medicine

It has been only 10 years since the World Health Organization embarked on an all-out program to eradicate smallpox throughout the world. When the program was first initiated, millions of cases occurred annually. The last outbreak in the United States was reported in 1949. At the end of 1975, Asia, Europe and the rest of the Americas were almost free of the disease.

Vaccination, of course, is the answer. There is no greater evidence of the value of vaccination and continued immunization than these heartening statistics. Such a concentrated program can be duplicated in eradicating all the infectious diseases against which vaccines are now available.

Not a single child anywhere in the world should pay the penalty for carelessness in maintaining immunization, the greatest gift of modern medicine.

The treatment of schizophrenia is now being dramatically improved by a new approach. At the University of Florida at Gainesville, Dr. James R. Cade has been treating 25 schizophrenics with a method that seems to hold great promise.

He learned through his experiences with patients who had kidney disease that regular dialysis treatments cleansed their blood of a substance partially responsible for their disease. The assumption is that the abnormal behavior of schizophrenics is triggered off by an oversupply of beta endorphine. Dialysis, a life-saving technique that clears the blood of toxic substances accumulated in patients with severe kidney disease, also reduces the beta endorphine.

The initial work will be continued in a larger series of cases, and then duplicated in other hospitals in an effort to try to control this serious mental illness.

A new drug, known only as SQ 14225, is said to be more effective in the treatment of certain types of high blood pressure than some of the current methods available. Most important, however, is that there are almost no harmful side effects.

Dr. H. Gavras, of Boston University, recently reported a series of cases in the New England Journal of Medicine. It is believed that the new drug will be available in the next two years.

DR. COLEMAN welcomes letters from readers. Please write to him in care of this newspaper.
