Jobless Rate Seen Settling At 6 Percent

By
MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The unemployment rate edged up from 5.9 percent to 6 percent in September, but the number of adult women with jobs increased sharply, the Labor Department said today.

The report indicated that the jobless rate is stabilizing at the 6 percent level, a big improvement from the 6.8 percent rate a year earlier.

Most of the gain in unemployment last month was caused by persons new to the labor force looking for work. The number of Americans with jobs advanced by 290,000 in September to 94.9 million, the department said.

"A substantial increase in the number of adult women with jobs accounted for the bulk of the increase," the department said.

"And, for the first time ever, more than half of their population were working or seeking work," it said.

The report showed that 37.95 million women over age 20 either had jobs or were looking for work out of a population group of 75.87 million.

The number of adult women holding jobs rose from 35.2 million to 35.7 million, an increase of about 500,000.

The only group experiencing a decline in employment was teen-agers, whose unemployment rate rose from 15.6 percent to 16.6 percent.

"An unusually large number of specially created summer jobs ended coincident with the beginning of the new school year," the report said.

In the past year, the Carter administration has tried to create new jobs with its economic programs.

However, the administration is become more worried about inflation as rising wholesale food prices threaten a new round of grocery price increases.

While inflation has run at a rate of about 10 percent so far this year, the unemployment situation has improved. The administration expects a 5.7 percent joblessness rate in the last three months of 1978.

The Labor Department said its September survey also showed:

—Unemployment for adult men dropped from 4.1 percent to 4 percent.

—The black unemployment rate declined from 11.7 to 11.2 percent.

—Unemployment for black teen-agers rose from 32.4 to 34.6 percent.

—The number of discouraged workers — those who want jobs but are not actively seeking them — totaled 900,000 in the third quarter, about the same as the second quarter.

—Average hourly earnings of workers rose 0.5 percent in September. Average hourly earnings rose 10 cents to $5.80.

The figures are adjusted to account for seasonal variations.

Despite improvement in the unemployment rate over the past year, the department reported Thursday that wholesale prices rose 0.9 percent in September, threatening to make inflation worse.

Labor leaders and some economists are worried that inflation may bring on another recession and lead to layoffs.

Senate Gives More Time To ERA Forces

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate breathed new life into the Equal Rights Amendment today, voting to add 39 months to the original seven-year period for states to ratify the women's equality measure.

The extension was approved by a vote of 60 to 36.

The action completed congressional approval of the extension, which was approved by the House in August. Still unresolved is the question of whether the resolution requires the signature of President Carter who lobbied in favor of the extension.

House Parliamentarian William H. Brown Jr. said he is studying the matter and would discuss it with Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. "We've never had this situation before," said Brown. Congressional action on constitutional amendments does not require the president's signature.

The vote marked the first time Congress has extended the deadline for ratification of a constitutional amendment since it began setting seven-year time limits in 1917.

Phyllis Schlafly national chairman of Stop ERA, an organization formed to fight the amendment, said the extension "is a fraud and will have no legal effect when tested in the courts."

At a news conference shortly before the vote, Mrs. Schlafly said: "Regardless of what the Senate purports to do today, ERA will expire on March 22, 1979, if it does not receive the ratifications of 38 states."

The extension resolution sets a deadline of June 30, 1982.

Thirty-five state legislatures have ratified the ERA, but four of these have voted to rescind their action. The validity of the votes to rescind has not been determined.

Mrs. Schlafly predicted that more states will vote to rescind and "the 15 states that have rejected it will continue to do so."

She said federal court lawsuits challenging the extension would be filed .

Beirut Continues A Battleground

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Deadly artillery duels between Syrian and Christian forces raged on unabated today despite the sudden intervention of Israeli gunboats off Beirut, and shells were reported to have hit near the U.S. Embassy, injuring several persons.

In New York, meanwhile, the United States asked that the U.N. Security Council quickly hold private talks aimed at setting up a public meeting on the Lebanon crisis. A Western diplomat at the United Nations who asked not to be named said action for a cease-fire "certainly is the first thing to be done, to stop all the fighting."

Three Israeli gunboats shelled Moslem west Beirut during the night in an apparent warning to the Syrians to call off their nonstop bombardment of the city's Christian sector. But the fighting continued today.

The Syrians repulsed a tankled Christian assault on the Syrian-held Qarantina bridge on the northern outskirts of Beirut, and kept up relentless pounding of the eastern sector and Christian positions in the mountains 20 miles north of the capital.

The rightist Christian "Voice of Lebanon" radio said three separate attempts by the Syrians to advance into the Christian quarters of Ashrafiyeh, Ein Rumaneh and Hadath in east Beirut were driven back.

Police sources estimated today some 100 Lebanese had been killed and 170 wounded since Thursday, bringing the total to about 400 dead and 600 wounded since the latest round of heavy fighting erupted before dawn Monday. Syrian casualties have not been reported, though the Christians claim they are "very heavy."

In Washington, sources confirmed the incident, saying a shell landed in a courtyard of the U.S. Embassy and two others hit nearby. But there was no immediate word there on injuries or damage.

The Christian broadcast said the West German Embassy nearby also was hit but no one was injured.

Carter May Try Additional Vetoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, victorious in his veto of a $10.2 billion public works bill, appears ready to take on Congress again over other legislation he considers inflationary.

Carter is looking at possible vetoes of a tuition tax credit bill and a $60.9 billion transportation authorization bill, both still pending in Congress, a White House aide said Thursday.

The aide, who asked not to be identified, said the president might also veto the tax-cut bill if its final version reduces the capital gains tax to a level he finds unacceptable.

Carter won a stunning victory Thursday when the House upheld his public works veto despite opposition from the entire Democratic leadership in the House and Senate. Carter has now had two vetoes sustained, and four others have gone unchallenged.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and Majority Leader Jim Wright even made impassioned appeals from the House floor, urging members to override the veto and protect congressional authority over appropriations.

A majority of the House sided with the leaders, but the 223-190 vote fell 53 votes short of the two-thirds margin required to overturn a veto.

After the vote, Carter described the victory as "a long step in the battle against inflation" and praised Congress "for its wise and responsible action."

To win, the White House waged a fierce lobbying campaign that attacked most of the water projects as "pork-barrel," budget-busting and inflationary.

Carter, his aides and members of his Cabinet spent much of Wednesday and the hours before the showdown House vote Thursday soliciting support by telephone and in person.

The Carter forces also got an unexpected boost from Howard Jarvis when the Californian associated with the tax-cutting Proposition 13 put a full-page ad in The Washington Post endorsing the president's position.

Powell Named Chairman Of C-of-C Board

By REBECCA BUFFALOE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors approved Jerry Powell as 1979 Chairman of the Board as elected by the chamber Nominating Committee, Don McGlohon, chairman.

Other elected officials were Executive Vice Chairman, Tommy Edwards, and Vice Chairman of Budget and Finance, Larkin Little.

According to Ed Walker, chamber Executive Vice President, as of Jan. 1, 1979, the title of chamber president will change to chairman of the board and the title of president-elect will be renamed executive vice chairman.

"It is more of a corporate structure," Walker noted.

The Board of Directors voted to support the passage of the Public Works Bond Referendum Issue after hearing a report made by Mac Howard, vice president, Public Issues committee.

Howard explained that his committee, chaired by Robert S. Griffin, had carefully studied the issue over a two-month period.

Much discussion was heard from board members concerning the Chamber's stand on the Pitt Technical Institute-Community College status.

A.G. Whitaker Named To Fill Jewett's Post

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said today that Lt. A. G. Whitaker has been designated to replace Capt. Paul Jewet as captain in charge of uniformed personnel when Jewett retires December 31.

Jewett has been with the police department 24 years. An Oregon native, the captain joined the department in 1947 after serving nine years with the U.S. Marine Corps. He left the department in 1955 and served for five years with the North Carolina National Guard, before returning in 1960.

Whitaker, with 18 years service, has been promoted up through the various police ranks, Cannon said, serving in both the Uniform Division, as well as the Detective and Narcotics Division.

A Beaufort County native, Whitaker graduated from Bath High School in 1953 and entered the U.S. Army for five years, serving with the Army Security Agency.

Prior to joining the Greenville Police Department in 1960, Whitaker worked with the North Carolina Prison Department for 1½ years and with the Ayden Police Department for six months.

He left the police depart-

PRIMARILY EDUCATIONAL FACILITY

Why is it that the Family Practice Center no longer accepts new Medicaid patient? M. B.

Dr. James G. Jones, professor and chairman of the Department of Family Practice of the ECU Medical School, said the center is accepting Medicaid patients, but on a selective basis.

"Ours is primarily an educational facility," he said, "here to train physicians. And in order to train future doctors, we require patients who facilitate situations as closely resembling as possible the actual environment that these medical students will be in later on. So we choose those patients that suit our training purposes.

"If a Medicaid patient provides us the opportunity to examine an unusual and interesting case, we would probably consider treating that patient.

"We try to do our fair share," he went on, "and hopefully by training more doctors, the shortage of medical help in the area will alleviate itself in the near future."

C-of-C Directors Hear Overview On Accreditation From Official

The Board of Directors of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce met Thursday to hear an accreditation overview from Ralph Shelton, director, accreditation department, Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Shelton explained to board members that accreditation of area chambers is not a new idea, but will be celebrating its 15th anniversary this January. Accreditation is a voluntary action taken by chambers, according to Shelton.

A total of 882 chambers have applied for accreditation this year and out of that figure, probably 150 to 180 will never be accredited, according to Shelton.

Twenty-two chambers in North Carolina are accredited. The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce will be come before the accreditation board Nov. 16.

"If you look at the chamber on a broad scale, you'll find it can be your strongest selling point," said Shelton.

Shelton held eight conferences Thursday morning with various community persons to ascertain the community's feelings on the Greenville chamber.

"I tried not to have board members or persons affiliated with the Chamber," Shelton explained. " I want the views of the community."

Shelton asked three questions of each person on his feelings of how the Greenville chamber is servicing the community, what else or how else the Chamber might better serve its people and what issues the Chamber needs to take a stand on in the future.

Shelton shared the responses with board members, noting the excellent returns given from the interviewees.

"I was highly impressed with the people I met," said Shelton. "There is an enthusiasm going on around here."

Shelton pointed out how the Chamber has grown within the past five years, commending the Chamber staff for bringing in more than $60,000 in membership income above the previous one.

However, Shelton noted that the Chamber is in need of new offices, saying that an attractive chamber building can be a big drawing card for area citizens.

"You've come a long

Record Numbers To Take Winter Vacation Cruises

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

Smooth sailing is forecast for Americans planning to vacation at sea, with the 1978-79 winter cruise season offering an even wider horizon of ships and itineraries.

Fares will be higher — about 10 percent — but travel industry sources expect record numbers of American vacationers to go down to the sea in (cruise) ships again this season.

Bookings are reported heavy. An indication of which way the wind is blowing is Norwegian America's report that the Sagafjord's annual Great World Cruise departing from New York next Jan. 20 was sold out long before Labor Day.

A recent survey by the Institute of Shipping Economics in Bremen reported a world total of 140 cruise ships in 1978. Topping the list was Greece with 32, followed by the Soviet Union and Italy with 18 each, Britain 13, Norway 12 and Panama 11.

The United States ranks a sad seventh, with only four ocean-going passenger-carrying ships — the Delta Steamship Lines' Santa Mercedes, Santa Maria, Santa Mariana and Santa Magdalena — sailing under the American flag.

Retired from service earlier this year — because of economic reasons — were Pacific Far East Lines' Marisposa and Monterey, signaling the end of regular cruise services between the West Coast and Hawaii by Americanflag ships with American crews. The Aloha state, which welcomed millions of visitors by sea, now is just another port-of-call for some cruise ships on longer Pacific voyages.

More than 70 foreign-flag ships — including four flying the Soviet hammer-and-sickle — compete for the lucrative U.S. cruise market. They offer hundreds of itineraries, from one-port three-day cruises between the Bahamas and Florida to leisurely three-month roundthe-world voyages with a score of exotic ports.

They sail from ports on the East, West and Gulf coasts and the islands of the West Indies to the Caribbean and Mediterranean, Bahamas and Bermuda, Alaska and Mexico, Central and South America, Africa and the Middle East, Baltic and Black Seas, Asia and Australia, and the South Seas and Antarctic.

Listings include specially tailored cruises for passengers with special interests in archaeology, art, cards, films, food and wines, literature, classical and contemporary music, photography, theater and other pursuits and pastimes. At least one prominent authority is usually aboard to teach, lecture and hold seminars.

For those who prefer cruising down or up — a lazy river close to home, the Delta Queen Steamboat Co. offers regular cruises on the Mississippi and other mid-America rivers aboard the paddle-wheel riverboats Delta Queen and Mississippi Queen.

The Mississippi Queen, which wet its bottom for the first time only two years ago, steams between New Orleans and Vicksburg on regular weeklong cruises, with stops at other river ports along the way. Special cruises this year includes two "Author's Adventure Cruises," on Dec. 2 hosted by Stephen Birmingham and featuring, among others, Lowell Thomas, George Plimpton, Emily Kimbrough, and, on Dec. 16 with Leland Miles as host, Arlene Francis, Robin Moore and Irene Kampen.

The Delta Queen, after a series of cruises lasting from two to 19 nights on the upper Mississippi, Ohio, Cumberland and Tennessee rivers from its home base at Cincinnati steams downriver to New Orleans on Nov. 22 for a five-night Thanksgiving cruise and a series of three-and four-day trips, including some over Christmas and New Year's. The Delta Queen, built in 1926, is the last of the real old-time stern-wheel riverboats and has been listed by the Department of the Interior in the National Register of Historic Places.

There are cruises also on the Rhine in Europe, the Volga in Russia, the Nile in Egypt and the Orinoco in South America, among others.

Americans with the time and money can also pick and choose this season from cruise ships sailing from the United States which offer optional shore excursions in China. The Chinese recently eased limitations on visa allotments for Americans traveling in groups and opened more ports to nonCommunist passenger liners.

Holland America's Rotterdam, departing New York Jan. 16 on its 85-day 22-port world cruise, offers passengers a sixday Tokyo-Peking trip starting Feb. 15, or a three-day visit to Canton or Kweilin from Hong Kong beginning Feb. 19. The price of the excursions is not included in the cruise fare, which starts at $8,615 per person double occupancy.

Cunard's Queen Elizabeth 2, which sails from New York Jan. 18 on an "Around the World in 80 days" cruise with 22 ports of call, was granted permission by Chinese authorities to dock in Dairen for the first time. Previously, the QE2 anchored

Bride's Mom Opens The Wedding Gifts

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: From the moment we announced our wedding plans, my mother kept harping, "DON'T open your gifts at the reception—it's so boring to the guests!"

After four months of hearing this, we decided to go along with her—just to keep her quiet.

We went on a brief honeymoon and returned to find that mother had opened all our gifts!

She justified it by saying that many friends and relatives had stopped by wanting to see what we had received.

Naturally, we were furious. But to top it off, after I sent off all the handwritten "thank-you" notes, I heard from several people who said, "Your 'thank you' was lovely, but it was not the gift we sent you."

Obviously, Mother got the cards all mixed up.

Do I have the right to feel angry and cheated?

UNFORGIVING IN OHIO

DEAR UNFORGIVING: You have. But please don't be "unforgiving" forever. Mothers sometimes need to be forgiven, too.

DEAR ABBY: Our 18-year-old honor student son (I'll call him Bud) has just informed us that he doesn't want to accept the four-year scholarship offered him by a fine Eastern college. His reason is his 13-year-old girlfriend. He doesn't want to leave her!

Bud was a bright and sensible boy until he started going with this overdeveloped, aggressive little sexpot. You should see her, Abby. She could easily pass for 21.

The girl's parents don't seem to object, from the way they let Bud stay at her house at all hours of the night. In fact, they appear to encourage this relationship.

My husband and I are worried sick. Our son's entire future seems threatened. Should we talk to the girl's parents? I don't think they realize what a dangerous situation they could be pushing their daughter into.

CONCERNED IN IOWA CITY

DEAR CONCERNED: Don't expect the girl's parents to assume the entire responsibility. At 18, your son should know all the facts of life and a few about the law. (The girl is a minor. He is not.)

Bud may be academically bright, but he's socially immature. I urge you and your husband to communicate your love, understanding and concern to Bud. You can't force him to leave her, but you might rest more easily if you have an open and honest dialogue with him.

DEAR ABBY: A friend says I'm crazy, but I want to know what you think.

Five years ago, my husband and I became very close friends with another couple I'll call Ed and Mary. Two years later I found out that Mary was having an affair with my husband, and as a result our friendship broke up. The situation was heartbreaking for all concerned.

Mary has since begged my forgiveness for having let this happen. Our marriages are both stable now, and I believe I can truly forgive her and my husband, too.

We've missed these friends, Abby, and all of us have learned a lot from that terrible mess.

Do you think we can resume a healthy friendship once again?

FORGIVE AND FORGET IN IOWA

DEAR FORGIVE: If, as you say, your marriages are stable now, there is no reason why you can't resume your friendship. Your maturity and generosity are commendable. God bless you.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I found out about the current pop phenomenon that is taking college campuses by storm quite by accident.

I was vacuuming the family room last summer when my sweeper refused to pick up an object. It was one of my children sprawled in front of the TV set like a piece of sculpture.

"What are you watching?" I asked.

"Shhhh! It's All My Children."

"You're kidding."

"The guys at school wouldn't miss it. We schedule our classes around it. If we need the credit to graduate we run in and out of the lounge. After all, it's family."

I leaned on the sweeper and tried to relate to Erica receiving a call from Nick just before she married Tom and went off to St. Croix for her honeymoon. When Chuck left Donna at the reception in order to rendezvous with Tara, Chris and Jeff were headed for Tara for a surprise visit. Edna made inroads with Benny when Phil learned that Chuck and Tara were together when Charlie nearly drowned. Devon dropped hints to Wally they might marry but when Donna was injured in an accident Phoebe convinced Charles to escort her to the wedding.

"That's family?" I asked incredulously.

"It's home away from home," he explained. "All the guys follow at least one soap opera. We look at those families and their problems and suddenly we're not lonely anymore."

I began to watch the soaps after that and decided to give my son the soap opera home he had never had. When he dropped by a couple of days later and asked why he had no clean socks, I smiled and said, "Have you ever seen Erica on her knees shaking the static electricity out of two mismated socks? I also don't cook, make beds, take out garbage, sew or shop. I just touch up my wet lipstick and look worried."

"Where's the car?"

"Have you ever seen a car on a soap opera? Or a TV set? Or a roach? A washer repairman? A teacher? Or a child with lines?"

He sighed. "Okay, you've made your point. Now how about writing me a check for my housing and tuition next year?"

"Your father and I have been talking about that," I said, "and frankly you haven't been carrying your share of problems recently, so we're writing you out of the series."

"That sounds like something Tara would do," he said and stomped out of the room.

Chapters Hold Rush Tea

A rush tea, sponsored by Alpha Omega and Gamma Delta Chapters of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International Sorority, was held Sunday in the social room of Fletcher Dorm on the ECU campus.

The purpose of the tea was to introduce college girls to ESA. After giving the welcome, Shirley Westbrook, Alpha Omega chairperson, gave a slide presentation on various aspects of ESA. She introduced Mrs. Jean Long of Charlotte, ESA state membership director, who spoke on ESA.

Mrs. Audrey Ward, ESA state president, spoke on the closeness of ESA members and Mrs. Shirley Dryer, St. Jude Projects chairperson, told of the importance of supporting St. Jude Research Hospital, Memphis, Tenn. Mrs. Freda Rich, ESA state treasurer, was also present.

Gamma Delta held its model meeting Monday night and Alpha Omega will hold its meeting Oct. 9. A pledge ceremony was planned for Oct. 19.

Any ECU female student interested in joining a non-academic philanthropic sorority is invited to attend the model meeting Oct. 9. For information contact Mrs. Westbrook, 756-7098, or Barbara Zicherman, 756-4004.

Parents Weekend Held

RALEIGH — More than 400 parents of Peace College students attended annual parents weekend on campus Saturday and Sunday.

Navy Unruffled By Sub-Theft Arrests

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Three men arrested on charges of conspiring to steal a Navy submarine had the expertise to get the nuclear-powered vessel under way and into the Atlantic Ocean, a source close to the investigation says.

The source, in New London, Conn., where the USS Trepang — the target of the alleged plot — is based, said Thursday that one of those arrested, James Cosgrove, served aboard the submarine from September 1973 to November 1974.

The source, who requested anonymity, was quoted in Thursday's editions of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Bernard Feeney, an FBI agent based in New Haven, Conn., confirmed that Cosgrove had served in the Navy and attended submarine school in New London. He said Cosgrove, 26, of Ovid, N.Y., was probably the key man in the alleged scheme.

The FBI said the three, who were arrested Wednesday, planned to recruit a 12-man crew to slip through security at the submarine base, sink the sub tender USS Fulton, hijack the Trepang and kill its 100member crew. The three then planned to rendezvous at sea with agents of a foreign power and sell the Trepang, the FBI said.

The transaction "would have had to be" arranged through a foreign power, said John Devine, special FBI agent in charge of Connecticut.

"We could make some strong suppositions about who the prospective buyer might be, but I don't want to get into that," Devine said.

The trio planned to ask $200 million for the submarine, Feeney said.

A Navy spokesman said Thursday that it would take at least 33 men to get the 10-year-old Sturgeon-class sub under way. Rear Adm. David Cooney had said earlier that such an operation was impossible without a trained crew of 100.

Navy officials said they were so sure of security measures at the New London base and aboard the Fulton and Trepang that no extra security was called for after the FBI learned of the alleged plot.

But Feeney said Thursday that the FBI could not afford to take a chance. "We don't have that luxury to discount things out of hand," he said. "This is the age of terrorism. We're convinced they were serious."

U.S. Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., whose district includes New London, said Navy and FBI officials assured him at a private briefing Thursday that the base was secure.

"It's not like you have the keys, get in and drive down the Thames River," Dodd said.

Feeney said the plotters planned a dry run to test base security and planned to acquire weapons and plastic explosives to sink the Fulton.

Cosgrove and the two other men, Edward Mendenhall, 24, and Kurtis Schmidt, 22, both formerly of St. Louis, were arrested late Wednesday. All three are scheduled to appear in federal court Oct. 13, Cosgrove in Rochester, N.Y., and Mendenhall and Schmidt in St. Louis.

Mendenhall and Schmidt are being held in lieu of $100,000 bond each and Cosgrove in lieu of $50,000 bond.

The FBI said it learned of the alleged conspiracy two months ago when Special Agent Bruce Mouw of Washington, D.C., was introduced to the arrested men as an agent for an "anonymous buyer" for the stolen submarine. The FBI said planning for the strike began in August with the assault to occur in January.

in Hong Kong and a restricted number of passengers were allowed to visit Canton, Kweilin and Peking. Now, Cunard says, all passengers will have the opportunity of seeing Peking, the Great Wall of China and Canton as well as Dairen. The QE2 is scheduled to arrive at Dairen on March 10. Cruise rates from New York start at $8,900 per person double occupancy. The shore excursions are extra.

The Royal Viking Star's 87day 23-port world cruise also includes visits to China by passengers even though the ship does not stop there. The liner leaves Port Everglades on Jan. 8 (Los Angeles on Jan. 20) and passengers wishing to visit China will fly from Saipan on Feb. 6 to Peking via Tokyo and rejoin the ship when it arrives in Hong Kong on Feb. 12. Rates for the full cruise begin at $10,962, not including shore excursions.

Calls at Hong Kong on March 23 and Shanghai on March 28 are included in the itinerary of the 70-day Circle Pacific cruise by the Royal Viking Sea, also owned by the Royal Viking Line, which sails from Los Angeles on Feb. 7 and San Francisco on Feb. 8. An overland Canton-Peking-Shanghai trip will be offered passengers for an extra charge. Cruise fares begin at $8,820.

Incidentally, some cruise companies will book passengers on certain segments of longer voyages on a space-available basis.

A new entry in the Caribbean cruise competition is the Italian Line Cruises' S.S. Guglielmo Marconi, which will inaugurate a series of nine-to-10-day cruises from New York on Dec. 18. The 27,900-ton liner, which formerly cruised between Italy and South America, was recently refurbished and redecorated at a cost of more than $6 million.

Other cruise ships operating out of New York to Bermuda and the Bahamas, the Caribbean and elsewhere, in addition to the QE2 and the Rotterdam, include Holland America's Statendam and Volendam, and the Home Lines popular Oceanic and Doric. In January the Statendam and Volendam shift to Miami and the Doric to Port Everglades.

Withdrawn was the S.S. America, following its two disastrous cruises out of New York this summer.

Miami, which has replaced New York as the most popular winter cruise port, will be home base for nearly a score of cruise ships, offering regular cruises to nearby islands and longer voyages which should fit any sea-going traveler's time or money limitations.

Making its debut in late October will be Carnival Cruise Lines' 35,600-ton Festivale, refitted in Japan at a cost of about $20 million. The Cunard Princess and Sitmar's Fairwind sail out of Port Everglades year round and are joined during the winter months by Norwegian America's Vistafjord and the Doric.

There are scattered sailings from other ports, including New Orleans, Galveston, Norfolk, Boston, and Montreal and Vancouver in Canada. San Juan is home base for about a dozen cruise ships, including the Sun Princess and Island Princess on Caribbean and trans-Panama Canal cruises to Los Angeles, and the Stella Oceanis on a series of 14-day sailings which feature lectures by a Rand McNally geographer-naturalist. Cruise ships also operate out of other islands in the Caribbean, including Aruba and Barbados.

About 10 cruise ships sail from West Coast ports to Mexico, the West Indies, Latin America and the South Pacific. They include Delta's popular Santa fleet of passenger-cargo liners — formerly owned by Prudential Lines — which sail every two weeks from Vancouver, touching at Tacoma, San Francisco and Los Angeles on 63-day voyages to Mexico, Panama, and around South America, with transits of the Panama Canal and the Strait of Magellan. Shorter trips also are scheduled on the last of the U.S.-flag ships in cruise services. The Santas have accommodations for 100 passengers.

There also are scores of freighters which take paying passengers. The duration of the voyage and the itinerary depend on the cargo and are subject to change en route. The day of the "tramp steamer," however, is over and costs have gone up. Accommodations on most of the modern freighters often are on a par with cruise ships although menus are not as extensive and there are no bars, night clubs, games or entertainment. Passengers are on their own aboard ship and ashore.

Many cruise lines offer money-saving air-sea packages and other promotional programs. Some subsidize all or part of the economy airfare between certain U.S. cities and ports of embarkation and disembarkation here and abroad.

For example, all full-cruise passengers on the 49-day South America-Africa Cruise aboard Paquet French Cruises' S.S. Mermoz departing Oct. 27 from Marseille will be flown free from North America to the French port city and from Miami home at the end of the voyage.

On the other side of the world, Holland America offers free airfare between the West Coast and Singapore to passengers who book either of the M.S. Prinsendam's two OrientAlaska Trans-Pacific cruises in 1979. Passengers on the eastward cruise departing Singapore on April 30, or the westbound journey leaving Vancouver Oct. 2 will also have a choice of tours in China, with the option of visiting Peking, Canton, Soochow and Shanghai.

Also available are air-sealand packages, including hotel accommodations ashore, free rental cars and other extras.

Check with your travel agent or shipping lines. If and when you decide, book as early as possible — repeaters snap up the minimum rate cabins fast. Remember all cruise ships operate on a one-class basis, which means all passengers usually eat in the same dining rooms, drink in the same bars, and enjoy the same entertainment, public rooms and recreational facilities regardless of what they paid for their cabin.

Remember, too, the price you pay for the cruise includes not only accommodations, but all meals, entertainment and transportation at sea. Figure on an average of about $130 per person double per day. Not included are personal expenses, such as bar bills, laundry, shopping and tipping, on board ship or ashore.

Collected 776 Pints In 2-Day Campus Drive

The two-day Bloodmobile visit at East Carolina University this week saw the campus blood drive surpass its goal of 700 pints of blood.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt Red Cross, reported that the AFROTC sponsored campus visit resulted in a collection total of 776 units of blood or 76 over the established goal.

Wednesday's visit netted 352 units with 11 persons deferred while Thursday's collection activities resulted in 424 units and 23 deferrals.

Mrs. Taylor said that all members of the AFROTC and its affiliate, Angel Flight, helped to make the campus drive successful. Cadet Capt. Beth Kimball served as coordinator.

The Red Cross spokesman also offered her appreciation to the volunteer and student nurses, women of the Greenville Service League, and other volunteers who assisted.

Mrs. Taylor lauded the attitudes of the student donors and workers and thanked them for willingness to contribute to the blood program. She said "it was a real inspiration" to see the student participation.

Two mini-visits are scheduled in the county during November, she said, including one on Nov. 3 at Staton House Fire Department and one in Grifton on Nov. 13.

Club Holds Installation

WINTERVILLE — Jim Bussell was installed as president of the Winterville Kiwanis Club last night by outgoing Lt. Governor Jim Black. Bussell succeeds L. I. Rouse as president.

Other officers installed were James Cobb, vice president, Jim Mellon, secretary, and Abbott Hunsucker, treasurer.

New directors installed were Paul Braxton, Ken Moore, David Duffus and Burnice Harris.

Special guests at the meeting were Helena Cox, Doris Worthington, and Myrtle Black.

Perfect attendance pins were awarded and special recognition was given to Lt. Gov. Black. Club members were invited to a refreshment hour at Black's home following the meeting.

Fall Colors

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — Autumn leaves will drift down a little late this year, but scientists say the fall colors in the North Carolina mountains could be the most spectacular in years.

Dr. Bill Carpenter, chairman of the biology department at Appalachian State University, said data compiled by ASU scientists show that warm temperatures and the lack of rain in the mountains this year are similar to the weather patterns in the falls of 1938 and 1939.

If present weather conditions continue, the leaves at higher elevations should be at their color peak the weekend of Oct. 21-22, he said.

But if a predicted cold snap materializes this weekend, Carpenter said, "these leaves will go (change colors) pretty fast."

A Last-Resort School Tactic

Supt. of Pitt County Schools Ott Alford asked for, and got, Board of Education acquiesence for unnannouced searches of students for weapons during the school year.

While no board action was required for such searches, Alford said he wanted the board's support for the policy.

Our first reaction to the policy is one of great concern that searches for weapons among students would even be necessary. Yet there have been instances in North Carolina where weapons were used in school yard fights, and we are aware that possession of lethal weapons has been a problem in the schools.

Our next reaction would be that of board member Dr. Thomas Patterson who said he hoped searches would be conducted on a limited basis. It does not, after all, seem completely appropriate to the teaching of young people about personal freedom to subject them to mass searches.

But then we have to recognize that a few students carrying dangerous weapons are a threat to all other students. Too, there is precedent for detecting weapons on individuals in every American airport today. It would be far better if the weapon detecting devices were not necessary, but the safety of all passengers on the aircraft outweights the inconvenience.

So we hope that mass searching of students for weapons will be a last resort tactic for school authorities. When the possibility of weapons being in the schools and on the grounds is suspected, however, we suppose school authorities will have to resort to drastic measures to uncover them.

It will be essential, though, that any such methods be completely within constitutional bounds.

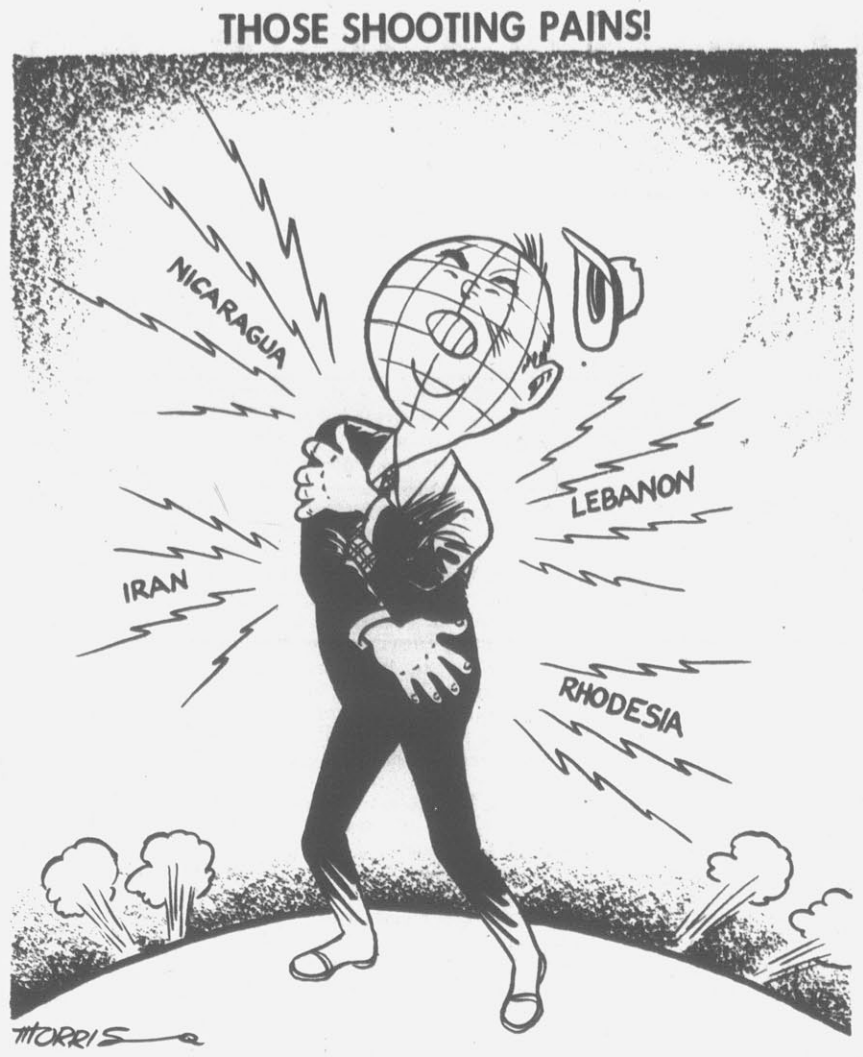
A Real Dream Job For ECU Graduates

The ECU Department of Environment Health presumably doesn't have any funds for advertising, but it couldn't have done better than a news item it sent out recently.

It noted that two graduates of the environmental health program have joined Holland-American Lines, Inc. as sanitarians aboard the firm's cruise ships.

A real dream job for a new college graduate.

THOSE SHOOTING PAINS!



THIS AFTERNOON

Law-Making By Citizens

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The idea of citizen initiative of legislation — a way by which we plain folk can get a proposed law up for action — is catching on elsewhere in the nation.

Is North Carolina ready for such a change?

Gov. Him Hunt says he is not nearly as strongly opposed to the notion as he once was, but sees pitfalls ahead.

Nonetheless, without much fanfare, a sort of citizen initiative approach is moving into operation in this state.

A number of advocacy councils are in operation and are being expanded in several different state agencies. The Governor's Office of Citizen Affairs is pushing this method of getting private groups and citizens involved in understanding problems and coming up with solutions.

There are already advocacy councils for local governments, exceptional children, the elderly.

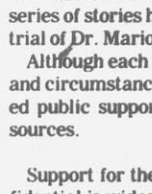
Involvement

Now there is some impetus to creating "involvement councils" in addition to the advocacy councils. The difference is clear: in advocacy, people who are often avid in their embrace of a particular subject band together to push their cause. Involvement councils, on the other hand, would cause to come together a number of people such as civic club members, church groups, community improvement organizations in efforts to grapple with issues and problems.

At a seminar for legislative candidates last month in Raleigh, the point was made that Gov. Hunt expects some of these groups to come forward with legislative proposals, and that he and his administration will not necessarily agree with them.

Does this mean North Carolina is already a small step toward citizen initiative now that loosely organized interest groups are expected to put forth matters for General Assembly consideration?

Wouldn't the next logical step be to allow any citizen to participate in a system to accomplish legislative consideration of a proposal? Under current law, such action can be gained, but only if a friendly legislator agrees to sponsor and introduce the measure, if not to actively support it and guide it through the legislative maze.



BILL NOBLITT

"I'm not sold on citizen initiative yet. That is comething we ought to fully consider," Hunt said. One problem is that such a program tends to polarize citizens and their representatives.

But on the other hand, it is sometimes essential that citizens be able to get the full attention of their elected representatives who either ignore something which the people want, or move in a direction which people don't like.

Disagreement

A major consideration in having advocacy groups at work comes when they do propose things which are simply not possible. "There is going to be some of that (disagreement) in a free society", Hunt says. I welcome people with ideas ... the boatrockers."

Hunt feels that because of the strong commitment of members, advocacy councils are likely to "propose things that just cost the world and theire's no way to pay. But the governor is charged with presenting a balanced budget and must make judgments."

Even so, he added, it is important to have attention called to inequities. "Our heart reaches out for the problems. But we can't do it all at once. It is important, however, to say that we see the need and make a commitment to move toward solutions."

As for himself as governor and members of the General Assembly who will face citizen demands, this is simply another part of making Democracy work, Hunt believes. "We must make it work even when it isn't convenient for us; even when it isn't comfortable."

Washington's Top Topic

WASHINGTON — Most people who live outside of Washington are under the impression that the only two topics of conversation in this town are politics and government. This may have been true at one time, but it isn't any more.

For a while the main topic was sex. But recently this subject has waned, and now all people talk about is the high cost of real estate.

I went to a party the other night and cornered an assistant secretary of state. "How did things go at Camp David?" I asked him.

"It was beautiful. My wife and I are thinking of buying a weekend retreat near Thurmont. It's 40 acres of farmland and they want $3,500 an acre."

"What about the talks? Do you think anything will come of them?" come of them?"

"Oh, we talked to the bankers. They'll give us a mortgage at 10 percent, however we have to put 30 percent down. But it has a stream running right through it, and I'm told if I hold on to it for five years I'll double my money."

"Did you speak to Sadat and Begin?"

"What for? They don't know anything about real estate in Maryland."

I wandered over to a couple who were whispering and giggling. I thought there was some hanky-panky going on since he was a congressman and she was from the typing pool in HEW.

I strained my ears to hear what they were saying.

"So I figured after my divorce, I'd keep the home in Washington and give my wife the house in Georgia. She agreed. I didn't want the house in Washington so I put it up on the market, thinking I'd get $90,000. The first offer came in and it was $120,000. I was about to agree when I got the second offer for $145,000. Do you know what I finally sold the house for? One hundred and sixty thousand dollars."

You could tell the secretary was impressed. "Now I know why the people from your district elected you."

"Why don't we go to your place for a drink after the party?" the congressman said.

"I'd love to, but I live with four other girls. We pay $250 each a month and that doesn't include utilities."

"Well, my kids are staying with me at the watergate in a two-bedroom flat which costs me $1,000 a month. As soon as I buy a condominium for $90,000 plus $450 maintenance, I'll give you a call."

I tried to get in on the conversation. "The house next to me just went on the market for $250,000 and it doesn't even have a finished basement."

The congressman took the girl by the arm and started to walk away. "I'm sorry," he said, "this is a private conversation."

I looked around the room and saw a Treasury official. "How far do you think the dollar will fall against the Japanese yen?" I asked him.

"It's hard to say. Frankly, I think it's bottomed out. A Japanese official with the World Bank looked at a house on our block in Cleveland Park which was

To the editor:

Did you know fire takes the lives of nearly 12,000 Americans each year, injures 300,000 others and destroys property worth more than $3 billion?

We live in the richest and most advanced country in the world. Yet we lead all the major industrialized nations in per capita deaths and property loss from fire. What's the reason for this miserable showing? There are several, but most come under the category of ignorance or indifference. In most cases, it takes the careless or unwise action of a human being to begin a destructive fire. The following are a few points to remember: 1. Be aware of all the fire hazards in your home. 2. Protect your children, as well as elderly people living in your home from fire. 3. Know what clothing materials are least flammable — Wool is among the best and cotton among the worst. 4. Know what to do if your clothing catches fire. Don't run for help or water. Get down on the ground and roll slowly back and forth to smother the flames. Demonstrate how to do this for your family. 5. Be prepared to handle a nighttime fire. A. Sleep with your bedroom door closed. B. Each person must know two ways out of each room. C. If you wake up and smell smoke, roll out of bed onto the floor. Don't stand up. Crawl to the bedroom door and feel it with the palm of your hand. If it is hot, don't open it. 6. Do not leave young children at home alone or with an inept babysitter. Many of the 4,000 children who die in home fires every year are victims of parental nonchalance, not neglect.

National Fire Prevention Week begins Oct. 9. Make it a 52-week project.

Farm Women Lobby

By SONJA HILLGREN
UPI Farm Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Add Rural American Women, Inc. to a long list of Washington lobbys.

Add Jane Threatt, president, to a list of thousands trying to push the right buttons in the nation's capital to help shape federal policy.

Place a question mark after "Will she succeed." It's too early to tell.

Ms. Threatt — with her own chutzpah, two low-paid assistants working in a tiny downtown Washington office and scores of volunteers — believes she has found a common denominator among farm, Chicano, black, Indian and Appalachian women who have joined the group.

Skeptics have asked how well-to-do farm women and poor fieldworkers can get along in the same coalition. They say the organization, founded last October, may be too broad-based to affect any single policy.

Ms. Threatt acknowledges the potential problem, but has a ready answer:

"They have the same problems, but the depth of their problems is different."

They all seek a better life for rural Americans in such areas as equal rights for women, education, health, transportation, jobs, energy, estate taxes, battered women, displaced homemakers and jobs.

Some rurally-oriented Washington-based groups did not have strong women's programs.

Traditional farm organizations — like National Farmers Union, Farm Bureau, National Farmers Organization and the Grange — had programs for farm women, but ignored other rural women.

When people she talked with said they thought a coalition for rural women was a good idea, Ms. Threatt set about organizing.

Now she sees Rural American Women, Inc. as providing the impetus for involvement of rural women who tend to be skeptical about the political process.

"They're not particularly joiners.' she said. "But when you come right down to it, they represent everything America stands for."

A major project will be a film to educate rural women on their political power.

Ms. Threatt tapped the "good old girl" network which is beginning to connect people with jobs and causes.

With just $2,000 in the group's treasury, she first approached Judy Carter, the president's daughter-in-law.

40 Years Ago Today

October 6, 1938

The local band, sponsored by the Greenville Fire Department, is preparing to resume its public concerts it was revealed today by George Gardner, chief of the fire department. Gardner said the band would be composed of Greenville musicians only when the public appearances resume.

Heretofore several musicians from other towns have been used. New additions to the personnel will eliminate this.

Plans are being made with the Kiwanis Club and county school heads whereby the band will present concerts at the various county schools.

THE GALLUP POLL...

Lean To Confidentiality

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J. — A growing number of Americans believe a reporter should not be required to reveal confidential sources used in gathering information for a news report..

By a three-to-one margin — 68-23 percent — the public feels reporters should be able to preserve the anonymity of news sources who provide material used in stories.

These figures represent a significant increase since 1973 and 1972 in the percentage who believe reporters should be able to shield the identity of their news sources.

When the Gallup Poll first asked Americans about their views on this subject, in 1972, 57 percent supported the right of reporters to keep sources confidential. One year later the figure had climbed to 62 percent.

Since 1972 when the Supreme Court decided there are times when a reporter can be required to reveal information about sources, there have been several cases involving the broad issue of confidentiality. The issue was most recently joined in the case of New York Times reporter Myron Farber and a series of stories he wrote leading to the indictment and murder trial of Dr. Mario Jascalevich.

Although each case is characterized by different sets of facts and circumstances, the survey results clearly point to increased public support for the right of reporters to protect news sources.

Widespread Support

Support for the right of reporters to keep their sources confidential is widespread, with majorities in every demographic group of the view that newsmen should not be forced to reveal this information. There are, however, significant differences of opinion on this question by education and geographic region.

College-educated Americans, for example, are among those most likely to back the reporters' right of confidentiality, with 76 percent holding this viewpoint. Among those whose formal education ended either at the high school or grade school level the comparable figures are 67 and 57 percent, respectively.

Regionally, people living in the far West (75 percent) and Midwest (70 percent) are more likely than Easterners (64 percent) or Southerners (65 percent) to side with reporters on this issue.

The largest gains in support of the so-called "newsmen's privilege" in the past five years have occurred among Republicans (15 percentage points), Westerners (13 points), and the college-educated (10 points) — all in excess of the nationwide change of 6 percentage points.

Here is the question asked in the survey:

Strength For Today

LAY CHRISTIANITY

Sometimes we hear the charge that clergymen have always dominated Christianity. In response, we might recall that the Founder of our religion was a layman. The people who spread the Christian faith over the Roman world during the first century of the Church's history were practically all laymen

Throughout the history of the Christian church laymen have played such an important part in church work and leadership that it is safe to say that the Church would long since have perished had it not been for the dedication of Christian laymen.

Ministers are set aside for a certain type of spiritual work which they, because of their professional training, are best able to perform. But the greater part of the work of the church must be done by laymen and dedicated women who clearly see their duty and try with all fidelity to perform it.

Recision Votes Pose Question

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Arkansas' Dale Bumpers was explaining to a near-empty Senate chamber and to the folks back home why he opposes extending the time limit to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment when he let fly one heck of an understatement.

"Then," he said, "there is the question of recision."

Can a state that votes its approval of a proposed change in the U.S. Constitution later switch gears and, before the required number of states approve the proposal, rescind its support?

The yes-or-no answer to the above paragraph might turn out to be the exact opposite of the answer to the next one:

Will the ERA, which makes discrimination based on sex unconstitutional, become the 27th Amendment?

With Congress' vote today on extending for 39 months a March 22, 1978, deadline for states ratifying ERA, the "question of recision" looms as a doozy.

Four states — Kentucky, Tennessee, Idaho and Nebraska — already have voted to rescind their ERA support, although Kentucky's vote was vetoed.

If the pro-ERA vote includes those four states, ratification has been achieved in 35 of the required 38 states, but if the recisions are valid the pro-ERA tally is only 31.

And what happens if during a 39-month extension some more states ratify but some more rescind?

It could be a political "Who's on First?" routine. Congress this week voted down an amendment to the ERA extension that would have told states they were free to rescind, but lack of congressional authorization sure didn't stop Kentucky, Tennessee, Idaho and Nebraska.

It appears, members of Congress on both sides of the ERA debate agree, that most constitutional scholars believe that no state constitutionally may vote to rescind.

The Constitution's Article 5, in laying down the rules for amending the nation's supreme law, tells the states what they have to do to ratify. It doesn't mention recision.

Four noted constitutional scholars recently suggested, however, that "the issue is not free from doubt."

Law professors Thomas Emerson of Yale, Laurence Tribe of Harvard, Ruth BaderGinsburg of Columbia and Norman Dorsen of New York University said that while the Carter administration presents a good case for Article 5 recognizing only ratification, they added:

The nation's highest court has taken a couple of whacks at amendment ratification issues but has never spoken directly to the recision question.

It's possible, not probable, the recision issue could become irrelevant — if seven or more states vote ratification during the 39-month extension and all other states sit pat.

Three Added To Church's Staff

WINTERVILLE — Winterville Missionary Baptist Church has three new staff members.

Michael Williams has been called to serve as Director of Education for Children and Youth; Miss Denise Moore to work as Director of Children's and Youth Choirs; and Mrs. Audrey Felton as Church Secretary.

Williams is a Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary student. A Cleveland, Ohio native, he has served as associate pastor and minister of youth at Lyons Creek Baptist Church in Strawberry Plains, Tenn., while attending Carson-Newman College. There he earned a B. A. degree in religion and psychology. He will direct the youth ministry of the church and serve as resource person for other children's workers in the church.

Miss Moore, a music student at East Carolina University, will direct two children's and youth choirs. An Alton, Va. native, she has worked in her home church in a similar capacity.

Mrs. Felton, from Greenville, replaces Mrs. John Allen as secretary.

A reception to welcome these new staff members will be held Sunday at 8:30 p. m. in the church fellowship hall. The pastor, the Rev. Wayne Adkisson, invites the public.

NAACP To Hold Meet

The Pitt County Branch of the NAACP will have a reunion of old and new members at its monthly meeting Sunday at 7:45 p. m. at Holy Trinity Church, Douglas Avenue, Greenville.

The Rev. Kenneth Hammond will be the speaker.

Pres. D. D. Garrett has sent out a county-wide appeal for all citizens to come out and be a part of this fellowship and get a preview of the fall program of the group.

This will also be the kickoff of the 1978 Fall Membership Campaign, which has 2,000 new members as its goal.

Items to be discussed include the County Board of Education's recent student search and seizure program, housing and jobs. A nominating committee will be chosen, with elections planned for December.

110th Session Begins Monday

Elder W. L. Phillips, presiding bishop of the Northeast Conference "A" Division announces the setting of the 110th session beginning Monday, Warren Chapel Free Will Baptist Church, 7:30 p.m.

The deacons and trustees will sponsor a king's contest Monday night. The choirs and ushers, Mrs. Millie Johnson presiding, will feature a queen's contest Tuesday. Women's Day activities will be observed Wednesday with Eldress Lisa Edwards presiding. At 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, the youth will assemble to hold a musical program and select a junior queen and king. Mrs. Carrie Bess is chairperson.

Bishop Phillips invites the public.

Rev. Cogdell To Preach Sunday

STOKES — The Rev. Doug Cogdell will preach at St. John Baptist Church here Sunday at 7 p. m.

He will be accompanied by his choir of Holly Hill FWB Church. Everyone is invited, says the pastor, the Rev. John C. Chance.

Chapter To Hear Banker

Buff Chalk, assistant vice president of Planters National Bank, will talk with the Greenville Chapter of Parents Without Partners Inc. tonight about credit, savings programs, and banking services in general.

The meeting will be held at Jarvis United Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m.

Saturday morning the group will leave the Tenth Street McDonald's Store at 9 a.m. for either the Iron Steam Pier on Atlantic Beach or Cliffs of the Neuse near Goldsboro, depending on the coastal area weather conditions.

Family bowling will be held Sunday at 1 p. m. Children of chapter members' fees will be paid for by the organization.

Reservations still may be made for the Oct. 10 wine tasting to be led by Charlie Harrison of the Cheese and Wine House here.

For more information about PWP, one may call 752-4309.

YOUTH CRUSADE SATURDAY

There will be a Youth Crusade at Wells Chapel Church corner of Fifth and Hudson Streets. Services will begin at 7:45 p.m. Saturday.

Youth President Olivia Moore is sponsoring the service. Bishop L. B. Davenport, pastor, invites the public.

Gallup Poll...

"Suppose a newspaper reporter obtains information for a news article he is writing from a person who asks that his name be withheld. Do you think that the reporter should or should not be required to reveal the name of this man if he is taken to court to testify about the information in his news article?"

Following are the trend since 1972 and the latest findings by important demographic groups:

Should Reporters Be Required To Reveal Sources?

	Should	Should not	No opinion	Change in 'should not' since 1973
LATEST	23%	68%	9%
1973	27	62	11
1972	34	57	9
NATIONWIDE	23	68	9	+6
Men	26	65	9	+6
Women	20	71	9	+7
College background	18	76	6	+10
High school	24	67	9	+2

Mideast	23	70	7	+9
South	24	65	11	+9
West	18	75	7	+13

The results of the survey reported today are based on personal interviews with 1,598 adults, 18 and older, taken in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation during the period Aug. 18-21.

Four Traffic Mishaps Here

An estimated $3,025 property damage resulted from four traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville Police yesterday, officers reported.

Heaviest damage resulted from a three-vehicle collision about 4:20 p.m. on Greene Street, 70 feet North of the Fourth Street intersection.

Investigators identified the drivers involved as Laveta Hinson Weatherington of Shady Knoll Trailer Pk., Myrtle Griffin Harris of Greenville, and Joseph Lee Hyman of Riverview Estates.

Mrs. Weatherington was charged with following to close by officers who estimated damage from the mishap at $200 to the Hinson car, $800 to the Harris vehicle and $100 to the Hyman auto.

Lorraine Jaquish Kelly of 305 Lewis St. was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of a 6:50 p.m. collision at the intersection of First and Eastern Streets.

Police reported the Kelly car collided with an auto driven by Anthony Lane Williams of Rocky Mount, causing an estimated $400 damage to the Williams car and $500 damage to the Kelly vehicle.

A 5:20 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Memorial and Sylvan Drives involved cars driven by Rachel Cephus Cannon of 107A Howard Dr. and Barbara Maria Snuggs of Route 4, Greenville.

Damage was estimated at $400 to the Cannon car and $300 to the Snuggs vehicle.

Officers reported a car driven by Edna Cannon Harris of 206 Martinsborough Rd. and a truck operated by Kelly Barnhill of 1216 Battle St. collided about 12 noon at the intersection of Fifth and Jarvis Streets, causing an estimated $275 damage to the Harris car and $50 damage to the truck driven by Barnhill.

Unitarians Will Meet Sunday

The Unitarian-Universalist Fellowship of Greenville will join in meeting Sunday, 10:30 a.m., Planters Bank Bldg.

The service will feature the topic, "World Hunger and the Unitarian Concern." Interested persons are invited to attend. A covered dish dinner will be served at 12 noon for those who wish to participate.

Fabulous . . . that's the view from the Golden Gate. Linking Oakland and San Francisco, the majestic sight of this famous bridge has thrilled the hearts of weary travellers, inspiring all with its promise of new opportunity.

Catching the morning sun or the evening twilight, the Golden Gate whispers its own welcome to those who near its watch. "Welcome to my beautiful city," or "Come again, old friend," it sighs. It seems to know and understand the problems of each human heart, and like a true friend, it is always there for all to share its strength and beauty.

There is another bridge of inspiration and truth where burdens may be lightened and courage renewed. People everywhere have drawn from its stabilizing influence, and you, too, will always be welcome within the fellowship of the Church. Find out for yourself this week.

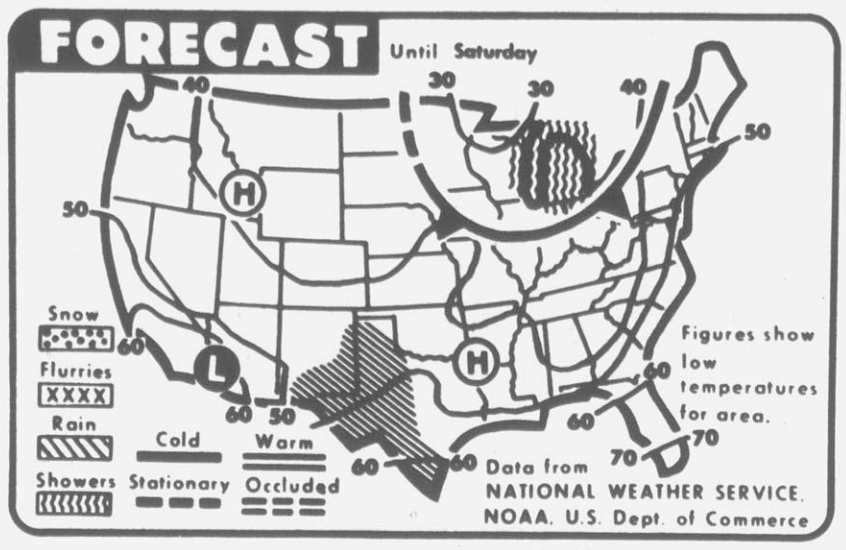
How's The Weather?



WEATHER FORECAST — Sunny, mild weather is expected into Saturday for most of the country. Rain is forecast for west Texas and part of New Mexico and showers are due in the Great Lakes area. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press

A strong cold front moved through North Carolina today, bringing cooler temperatures. The front moved through the Piedmont section of the state this morning and was expected to reach the coast by late afternoon or evening.

For the second day in a row heavy fog developed in wide areas, especially the Piedmont and in some coastal counties. Visibilities were reduced to zero in some areas and in at least two counties — Onslow and Carteret — a travelers advisory was put into effect until 8:30 a.m.

By this morning, only the mountains had felt the cooler air behind the front. But temperatures will be dropping tonight and a cool weekend is predicted with possibly some of the coldest temperatures so far this fall.

High readings today were expected to range from the middle and upper 50s in the northwest mountains to around 80 in the southeast. Tonight's lows, however, will drop to the mid and upper 30s in the northwest mountains and range to the low 50s on the coast.

Weekend high temperatures should range from the 50s in the mountains to the low 70s on the coast.

Accord For Shipbuilders, Navy

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — Newport News Shipbuilding Chairman John P. Diesel says the Navy's settlement of shipbuilding claims will allow his firm to continue building naval vessels, "even though we regret that the amount...does not fully reflect the costs of additional work performed."

The Navy announced Thursday it had reached a settlement with the shipyard, Virginia's largest private employer, in their 30-month dispute over a $742 million cost overruns for 12 nuclear-powered warships.

Newport News Shipbuilding had asked for $742 million because of what it said were added costs and delays in building seven nuclear attack submarines, three guided-missile cruisers and two aircraft carriers.

Assistant Navy Secretary Edward Hidalgo said the agreement, tentatively reached Sept. 8, concludes two years of negotiations with the shipyard and its parent company, Tenneco Inc.

Diesel said in a statement that the Navy had agreed to pay the $165 million, plus another $23.9 million in cost overruns that occurred after the claims were filed.

Hidalgo said that $45.3 million already has been paid to the company and another $24.7 million has been set aside within the Navy's budget. He said Congress will have to appropriate an additional $95 million.

The settlement involves claims dating back to 1975 and 1976. All but one of the 12 ships have already been delivered to the Navy.

The Navy Claims Settlement Board earlier had recommended payment of $142 million. Hidalgo said about $13 million, mutually agreed upon because of technical errors in the contracts, and another $10 million, were added during negotiations.

Hidalgo said that in return for the $10 million, Newport News agreed to forfeit any additional claims which might have been filed on the contracts between 1976 and the present. The claims under negotiation were filed in 1975-76 covering contracts made between 1969 and 1974.

The third overrun claims settlement in recent months, the action "virtually eliminates the Navy claims backlog, which stood as high as $2.7 billion only a few months ago," said Navy Secretary Graham Claytor Jr.

Hidalgo said that as part of the Newport News settlement the company agreed to set a firm base price of $896 million for its part in building the USS Carl Vinson, the country's third Nimitz-class nuclear aircraft carrier.

Under the agreement all cost overruns for building that carrier would be based on tte $896 million figure, he said.

The Navy this summer announced similar settlements to pay for cost overruns with General Dynamics' Electric Boat Division and the Ingalls Shipbuilding Division of Litton Systems Inc.

Diesel said the settlement will reduce the yard's 1978 income but will have no significant effect on Tenneco's earnings for the year.

An immediate payment of $60.4 million will go to the shipyard, Diesel said, adding that the shipyard is expected to be profitable this year.

Vice Chairman Of Dept. Named

ECU News Bureau

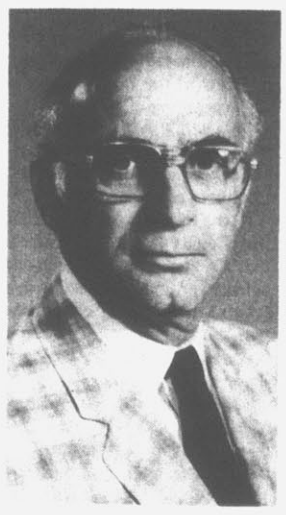
Dr. C. Lewis Ravaris has been appointed professor and vice chairman in the Department of Psychiatry at the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

In addition to directing the residency training program in psychiatry Ravaris will coordinate the department's research activities, primarily in the area of diagnosis and treatment of depression, his special field of interest. He will also be psychiatric consultant to other clinical departments in the medical school, particularly family practice.

The author of numerous professional publications, he is responsible for the development of prolixin enanthate and decanoate, long-acting drugs used in the treatment of psychotic conditions.

Prior to joining ECU, Ravaris was associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Vermont College of Medicine where is developed a family practice consultation service and served as consultant to the school's neurology service.

He has been attending psychiatrist at the Medcal Center Hospital of Vermont and psychiatric consultant at Lamoille County Mental Health Clinic, Morrisville, Vt., and Brandon Training School, Brandon, Vt. He has also been associate medical director of clinical psychopharmoacology at the Squibb Institute for Medical Research, New Brunswick, NJ.



DR. C. LEWIS RAVARIS

A native of Massachusetts, Ravaris earned his undergraduate degree from Boston University. He received his PhD in physiology from McGill University, Montreal, and his MD from the University of British Columbia, Vancouver.

He completed postgraduate training at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit, Mich., and the University of Vermont.

Ravaris is board certified in psychiatry and is a fellow of the American Psychiatric Association.

Reducing Bus Standee Ranks

RALEIGH — In a report recently released by the State Department of Public Instruction, figures reveal that the number of students having to stand on school buses has been reduced from 30,377 in Oct. 1973 to 18,653 in May 1978.

As applicable to the local schools systems, the report shows that in Pitt County the number of standees on buses in May 1978 was much higher than in Oct. 1973, while in the Greenville City Schools, the 1978 number was much lower.

The figures reported are:

Pitt County Schools — Oct. 1973, 113; Dec. 1974, 13; Jan. 1976, 155; and May 1978, 225.

Greenville City Schools — Oct. 1973, 180; Dec. 1974, 130; Jan. 1976, 43; and May 1978, 58.

The criteria used is based on students who live one and one-half miles or more from the school.

BAKE SALE SATURDAY

Adult Dance Courses Are Offered This Fall

ECU News Bureau

Courses in beginning and intermediate jazz dance exercise and beginning ballet for adults will be offered by East Carolina University this fall.

The jazz dance exercise courses (Beginning: Thursdays, Oct. 12-Dec. 7; Intermediate: Mondays, Oct. 9-Nov. 27) are designed for persons who wish to take part in a variety of enjoyable physical conditioning exercises for muscle tone, flexibility and coordination.

Dolly Mitchum, local instructor of dance who has studied in New York, Mexico and Spain, will teach the beginning jazz dance course, and Michele Mennett, former member of the ECU dance faculty with extensive training and performance experience in New York and Florida, will instruct the intermediate course.

The beginning ballet course, scheduled to meet on Tuesdays, Oct. 10-Nov 28, will stress elements of correct posture, placement, turn-out and energy flow in connecting movements.

Instructor of the ballet course will be Judy Cramer Pascale, a dance instructor at ECU, who previously taught at the National Dance School in El Salvador, Central America.

Further information about the dance courses and other fall evening classes is available from the Office of Non-C redit Programs, Division of Continuing Education, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. telephone 757-6143.

Bids Accepted By Martin Bd.

WILLIAMSTON — At the October meeting of the Martin County Board of Education , board members accepted bids for Phase II of the athletic facility at Roanoke High School.

General contract at $166,624 was awarded to Gardner Construction Company. Other bids awarded were: plumbing, $14,865 to Thompson Plumbing Company; electrical, JAC Electric Co., $18,000; and floodlighting also went to JAC at $27,000.

An extra appropriation from the Martin County Commissioners in the sum of $48,630, plus a reduction of items in the general contract at $19,250, resulted in a total cost for Phase II at $246,160.

The original amount budgeted for the project was $197,530. Included in the total figure was $19,660 in architect and engineer fees.

On the state's current out-of-state attendance laws, a delegation of students and parents from the Jamesville School District appeared before the board with questions.

Superintendent Eugene Rogers explained the policy, and the board allowed local out-of-state students to attend county schools through the end of the semester. The board also noted that if deemed necessary, an investigation of the legal status of such students will be made.

Two persons, Wanda Caldwell and Johnsie Perkins, appeared before the board relative to drawing up a community drama program.

If such a program is approved by the state, there is a possibility Martin County could receive a four-year state grant amounting to between $30,000 and $90,000 to finance drama efforts in the county.

The board gave its approval for this concept.

Church Schools Say They Will Not Give 'Competency Tests'

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Christian academy officials say they won't give state competency tests to their students, setting the stage for another confrontation between the schools and state school officials.

All private school students will be required to take the tests, which are to be given to high school juniors in November and which they must pass before they can get a high school diploma. The state Board of Education made the decision earier this week when it met in Charlotte.

Sixty-three Christian academies are appealing one court ruling that said the state has a right to review the academies curricula and teacher's credentials.

"This is just another form of telling us what to do," said Robert Nordlander, principal of South Park Christian School in Winston-Salem, of the testing requirement.

"This is another infringement on church liberties," he said.

Nordlander and others contend that church schools should be free from any form of state control, saying the U.S. Constitution guarantees freedom of religion and the separation of church and state.

"We will fight this order just like we have fought other state orders," said the Rev. Kent Kelly, administrator of the Calvary Christian School in Southern Pines.

He said that church leaders had not decided what kind of strategy they will take, except "we will fight it when they subpoena us to appear in court."

Nordlander said the Christian schools "are accountable to the parents, and the parents are well-satisfied" with the education their children get in the academies.

The academies give standardized tests to their students, he said, and the children perform well. Sixty percent to 70 percent of the students at his school go on to college, he said, most to church-related schools.

Tom I. Davis, spokesman for the state Deparatment of Instruction, said he wasn't sure what the school board will do if the church schools defy the testing order.

Award Recipient For Industry Study

ECU News Bureau

Elaine Rivenbark of Wallace, a graduate student in the East Carolina University Department of Psychology, is the recipient of a $1,500 scholarship from Blue Bell, Inc. of Greensboro.

She is the third ECU graduate student to receive such an award, designed to support research in industrial and organizational psychology.

The awards have been arranged by Dr. William Grossnickle of the ECU psychology faculty and L. Kimsey Mann, president of Blue Bell, Inc.

Ms. Rivenbark will spend several months at Blue Bell's Greensboro facility, gathering research data and becoming familiar with the organization and operation of one of the largest textile companies in the nation.

Dr. Charles Mitchell, chairperson of the ECU Department of Psychology, commented that the Blue Bell-ECU scholarship program is "an excellent example of the support and interest" shown by some North Carolina business and industry leaders in education.

"We feel that our cooperative efforts will be very beneficial to both ECU and Blue Bell."

Ms. Rivenbark is the daughter of Grace Rivenbark of 212 Pine St., Wallace.

Conference To Begin Oct. 9

The Old Original Free Will Baptist Conference of America will be held here Oct. 9-11.

Greenville participants include Mayor Percy Cox, Elder C. B. Gray and Eldress Lucy Jones.

Out-of-town guests planning to attend are Bishop Henry McClain from the Cape Fear and Southwestern Conference, Dunn, and Dr. John Fleming, president of Shaw University. Elder J. O. Randolph, Elder R. E. Worrell and Dr. A. H. Heartfield are presiding elders.

PCB-Removal Tested By State Work Crews

WARRENTON, N.C. (AP) — State crews removed 25 to 50 truckloads of PCB-contaminated soil along N.C. 58 in Warren County Thursday morning.

The work was done to test the effectiveness of the state's removal equipment and the environmental impact of the project.

Crews began the removal work by wetting the soil along a one-mile strip with a chemical designed to prevent excess dust. A grader scraped one to three inchees of soil up and loaded it onto dump trucks that took the soil to a temporary storrage site near Inez in Warren County.

The workmen wore white coveralls and gas masks to avoid any contamination by the polychlorinated biphenyls.

After the removal, workmen reshaped and reseeded the roadside.

The soil will be packed in four layers of polyethylene until it is moved to a permanent disposal site, said David Kelly, project coordinator and an assistant secretary in the Department of Crime Control.

The temporary storage site will be fenced and marked with a sign, and Warren County deputies and state transportation maintenance officials will regularly monitor and inspect it, Kelly said. Air monitoring stations were set up at the test site, and results will be released by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in about a month.

Thursday's test was part of the state's efforts to determine how to dispose of 270 miles of contaminated soil along North Carolina's highways. The spills of the toxic chemical were discovered in August in 15 counties.

Warren County officials tried to stop the state from storing the soil in the county after residents protested that the original storage site was too close to Warrenton's water supply. But state and local officials agreed last week that another site on 1.5 acres near Inez could be used instead.

Abortions In N.C. Double

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — More than twice as many abortions were performed last year in North Carolina as were performed in 1973, according to a state report.

And a state health official says more women are using abortions as a form of birth control.

The state Department of Human Resources recently complied a five-year report on abortions showing they have increased 110 percent since 1973.

That year, 11,935 abortions were done. Last year, the number had increased to 25,020. A U.S. Supreme Court ruling in 1973 made it easier for women to get abortions.

"Our abortion statistics show us that people are chosing this as a major form of birth control," said Dr. Lewis L. Bock, head of the personal health section for the State Division of Health Services.

"That to me, as a physician, is barbaric. The major tragedy is that it is the affluent and middle-class people who are looking to abortion as a birth control method," he said.

In 1973, an estimated 10 women out of 1,000 between the ages of 15 and 44 underwent abortions. By last year, that number had grown to 19.5 women out of every 1,000 of childbearing age.

ECU Folklorist Speaks In Utah

ECU News Bureau

Dr. William Bloodworth of the East Carolina University English faculty spoke on Native American autobiographic writings at a recent gathering in Park City, Utah.

The event, the annual meeting of the Western Literature Association, drew more than 100 scholars, teachers and writers working in the area of Western American literature.

Dr. Bloodworth's presentation, "Varieties of American Indian Autobiography," dealt with depiction of Native American Cultures in both ethnological life histories and self-expressive autobiographies written by Indians . themselves.

The text of his address will be published later this year in MELUS, the journal of the Scoeity for the Study of the Multi-Ethnic Literature of the U.S.

Services begin at 7:30 each evening and the public is invited, says the pastor, Elder Lacy Artis.

Cay Cross Speaks To Safety Council

The evolution of the emergency medical service program in North Carolina over the past 10 years was described at yesterday's meeting of the Pitt County Safety Council by Cay Cross, Eastern Area Supervisor for the North Carolina Office of Emergency Medical Services.

The speaker emphasized the necessity of being prepared to face emergency situations, citing the fact that the leading cause of death for persons one to 30 years old is accidents.

The most obvious changes in the EMS field, Mrs. Cross said, have been in the areas of training, the availability of service, and patient treatment prior to reaching a hospital.

Training of emergency medical technicians is a continuous process, while services of trained EMS personnel are available in Eastern North Carolina to the extent that even helicopter service has been incorporated into the program.

In Pitt County alone, there are a half-dozen rescue squads available to respond to emergency situations at all times, Mrs. Cross pointed out.

Emergency treatment at the scene of accidents and enroute to a hospital has increased, she said, from the point where only swift transporation was provided, to today's service which provides for stabilizing treatment of all patients by highly trained technicians.

Post Office To Mark Holiday

The Greenville Post Office and the ECU station will close in observance of Columbus Day, Monday. The following services will be provided:

— No deliveries will be made by rural or city carriers.

— No window services will be provided.

— Mail will be delivered to post office boxes.

— Special delivery mail will be delivered within the city.

— A special 3 p.m. holiday collection will be made from all collection boxes that have any specified time indicated on side of box. This collection of mail will be dispatched at 5:30 p.m.

— The self service postal unit located in the lobby of the Main Post Office will supply customers with most parcel supplies, and also permit them to mail parcels, according to H. Lloyd Mills, Greenville Postmaster.

AT BOOK CEREMONY . . . The five men attending a brief ceremony unveiling Dr. C. Sylvester Green's book on the history of the Blount family are (left to right): Connor Eagles, Dr. Joseph W. Congleton, Jr., Dr. Laurence F. Brewster, Marvin K. Blount, Sr., and Dr. Green.

Dr. C. Sylvester Green Has Compiled Blount Family Book

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The newest literary effort of Dr. C. Sylvester Green, a longtime resident of Greenville now living in Statesville, was unveiled in an informal ceremony Thursday morning.

Dr. Green's new book, "Blounts of Pitt County, North Carolina," is a history of the Blount family, prominent in this county and in eastern North Carolina for several generations.

The book, commissioned by Marvin K. Blount, Sr. and printed by the National Printing Company of Greenville, was made public in Blount's office on Third Street.

"All of us," Dr. Green commented, "are appreciative of the fact that Marvin Blount not only sponsored this book which has a public interest beyond that of the immediate family, but also for the fact that whatever proceeds are realized will go to the Pitt County Historical Society."

"I've always had an inclination to gather information," Blount said. "Some of the information in this book is information I found in various courthouses, here and in other towns. Many of the courthouses, you know, have burned, so it's lucky I dug it out when I did."

Also present were three local men associated with the Pitt County Historical Society — Dr. Laurence F. Brewster, current president of the society; Dr. Joseph W. Congleton, Jr., past-president; and Connor Eagles, treasurer.

"Mr. Blount has set an example that ought to be followed by many families," Eagles remarked. "I think all of us and our children appreciate knowing where our families come from, who they were and what they did."

Brewster noted that copies of the book will be available at meetings of the Pitt County Historical Society. "We encourage our members and others interested in historical material of our area to purchase a copy," he said.

A total of 500 copies were printed, and Blount said courtesy copies were being provided to "libraries in eastern North Carolina towns and to other libraries with an interest in a book of this kind."

Locally, the book will be available from The Book Barn, 117 East Fifth Street. The book, comprising 147 pages in hard cover, has several photographs and is priced at $5.95 ($6.95 if ordered by mail).

While living in Greenville, Dr. Green was for several years Executive Director of the Pitt County Development Commission.

Formerly a journalist, he has also written extensively for magazines and journals, and continues to be a free lance writer.

"My current project, and one I'm excited about," he revealed, "is a biography on the life and works of Harold Bell Wright. He was a successful early 19th century novelist, author of 19 books. From all I can gather, there has been no definitive biography written on him, so this is new ground."

Among other books authored by Dr. Green have been a brochure on Dr. Robert Lee Humber; a "History of The Rotary Club in Greenville;" and earlier, a history of his own family, "The Greens of Westmoreland County, Virginia."

Saying he has no plans for retirement, Dr. Green added "I'm also in the business of operating a literary criticism society, working with manuscripts of biographical and historical materials."

Staying Open To Register

Pitt Board of Elections supervisor Margaret Register reminded area citizens that the Greenville elections office will be open Friday evening until 7 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. for registration for the Nov. 7 general election.

She said that the special extended hours are being scheduled in order to give everyone who has not registered for the upcoming election the opportunity to do so.

The deadline for registration in order to be eligible to vote on Nov. 7, she noted, is Monday at 5 p.m.

The elections office is located at 201 E. Second Street.

Receive $43,489 Grant To Aid Blind Students

ECU News Bureau

A U.S. Office of Education grant of $43,489 has been awarded the East Carolina University Department of Chemistry to support development of an instructional system for blind students.

Drs. David Lunney and Robert Morrison of the ECU Chemistry faculty will administer the project, which will involve use of a microcomputer-based system for use by blind and visually handicapped students in chemistry laboratories.

The system will be capable of collecting and analyzing data from a wide variety of scientific instruments, and will present results to the student in the form of spoken words, said Lunney.

"The blind student will communicate with the computer through a typewriter-like keyboard, and the computer will also be able to communicate with other computers," he said.

Coded alphabetic and numerical characters will be translated to spoken words understandable by the user.

"In its function as a talking computer terminal, the microcomputer will render accessible to the blind student a wealth of computer-assisted instructional material available at large computing centers," noted Dr. Lunney.

"In its function as a laboratory tool, this system will give blind students laboratory experiences which parallel those obtained by their sighted peers."

Lunney said the purpose of the microcomputer system is to lower some of the barriers which now discourage blind students from pursuing science careers.

Social Security Forum Oct. 11

The Greenville Social Security Office will conduct a forum on Wednesday, October 11, at the Willis Building, corner of First and Reade Streets.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. and is designed to promote public understanding of social security.

Representatives of public and private agences in Pitt, Martin, and Bertie Counties have been invited to take part in the forum.

The meeting is also open to the general public, and all persons interested in social security matters are invited to attend.

CRYPTOQUIP 10-6

NGUNYZX NAQYJCA NJVGUR; VYRN SEVEMOZ; OQJRAZX CEQXZM SZX

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — OPERATIC ARIAS SOOTHE PATIENT'S CHRONIC TENSION.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: G equals I

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West

Opening lead: Queen of ♡.

Revealing bids by both defenders in the auction allowed South the opportunity of displaying his virtuosity to bring home his contract of five spades.

Despite North's takeout bid of two clubs, which was the Landy Convention, showing interest in the major suits, East was not about to suppress his seven-card heart suit, and South's hand was eminently suited for a competitive bid of four spades. However, West's decision to double four spades is open to question — he had no sound reason to presume that he could defeat that contract. Had he simply passed the decision round to his partner, East would have known that the opponents had a tremendous spade fit. East pushed on to five hearts in spite of the double, but when North bid five spades, the consequences of West's action became apparent. East was afraid to bid again lest his partner held substantial values in spades which would have been wasted. Observe that six hearts goes down only if South elects to lead a club — not an easy lead to find even if North helps out with a Lightner Double.

West led the queen of hearts, ruffed by declarer. South was sure that trumps were going to break 3-0 and since he needed to ruff three hearts in his hand he could not afford to draw trumps. In addition, he had to establish the diamond suit before he ran out of trumps. Therefore, he ran the slight risk of a diamond ruff by leading that suit at trick two. West played low, and the queen lost to the ace.

East shifted to a club, ruffed in dummy. Declarer ruffed a heart and led the jack of diamonds. West took the king and forced dummy again with a club. Declarer then made the key play — he led dummy's last low heart and ruffed with the ace!

West discarded a diamond, but the contract was home. Declarer led the jack of spades, and ran it when West played low. When that held, declarer finessed again, drew the last trump and two high diamonds brought in the tenth and eleventh tricks.

East-West had only one consolation. At least neither of them doubled five spades!

National School Lunch Week Due

Pitt County and Greenville City Schools will join other schools across the state and nation in observing National School Lunch Week from Oct 8-14.

To call attention to the observance, all schools in the nation will be serving the same menu on October 11.

The Universal Menu on that date will feature oven fried chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, carrot-celery sticks, angel biscuit in honey butter, orange wedges, oatmeal-raisin cookies, and milk.

School Lunch Week '78 continues the theme of "Eat To Learn — Learn To Eat" with emphasis this year on nutrition for the energy and strength youngsters need to take part in physical activities and to learn.

Another goal of the week's activities is to alert the general public to the basic soundness of meals served in schools everyday.

Mini-Revival This Weekend

A mini revival will be held at Holy Trinity United Methodist Church Sunday and Monday. The Rev. Robert Lee Mangum will be the guest speaker.

The Rev. Mangum is former executive director of the Robeson County Church and Community Center, Lumberton. The center in Lumberton was an ecumenical social ministry with about 60 churches and 15 different denominations involved.

Since the beginning of September, the Rev. Mangum has served as pastor of Prospect United Methodist Church and is a consultant for the center. He received his academic degrees from Asbury College and Asbury Theological Seminary, Wilmore, Ky.

He will speak at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. On Monday, he will speak to a men's group at 7 a.m. at Tom's Restaurant and at the UMW's group at their covered-dish dinner at the church at 6:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend.

$143.09 Day For Market

FARMVILLE — Prices in quality leaf tobacco were down Thursday on the Farmville Tobacco Board compared with previous selling days, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor, Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

Williams noted that more low grades and non-descript tobacco were on the floor yesterday than any day this season.

Good grades of leaf brought as much as $1.65 per pound, with leaf grades accounting for most of the volume, according to Williams.

The Farmville Tobacco Board sold 608,426 pounds Thursday for $870,627, an average of $143.09. To date, the Farmville market has sold 23,868,947 pounds for $33,231,645, an average of $139.23 per hundredweight, compared with $117.88 a year ago with the same number of selling dates.

The board voted to have Chamber President Charles Burnette appoint a special committee for coordinating a public forum, possibly at the Pitt County Courthouse, concerning the status of Pitt Technical Institute as a community college no less than ten days prior to the election Nov. 9.

The forum must also be adequately publicized and be sponsored by the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce as stated by the motion.

Board members heard reports from Melvin Moore, chairman, Industrial Relations Committee; Mac Howard, vice president, Public Issues Committee; and Dr. Jon Tingelstad, Education Committee.

According to Moore, after studying the situation, his committee felt that if Pitt Technical Institute did obtain community college status, duplication would occur with the Continuing Education Department at East Carolina University.

Moore also stated that the committee felt that the switch to community college status would take away from the Institute's emphasis on training industrial workers.

Moore pointed out that trained workers have been brought into Greenville because of the lack of such in the immediate area, which costs money for the various industries.

Mac Howard, speaking for the Public Issues Committee, said that the committee could not reach a consensus, so it recommended that a public forum be held on the issue.

Mayor Percy Cox stated that he felt that the Chamber did not have to take a stand on every issue, but that the Chamber has responsibility to educate the public.

Dr. Jon Tingelstad stated that the committee had formed subcommittees to study the matter in depth. He gave a report, noting the advantages and disadvantages of the situation.

Tingelstad added that he felt the voters should be educated on the situation before voting Nov. 9.

John McConney, chairman of the Pitt Tech subcommittee expressed the feeling that community college status would enhance the status of Pitt Technical Institute.

Charge Man With Break-Ins, Thefts

A 22-year-old Robersonville man has been arrested by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department and charged in connection with two vehicle break-in incidents and four related larceny counts.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies charged Daryal Lee Burns with breaking into a pickup truck and station wagon at the residence of J. C. Kirkman, Rt. 1, Box 53, Robersonville, on Sept. 28.

Kirkman, according to the sheriff, reported the theft of a "Fuzz Buster" radar detection unit from the truck as well as a spare tire from the vehicle. In addition, a ladies handbag was reported stolen from the station wagon.

Total value of the Kirkman property amounted to $242, Sheriff Tyson said.

Burns was also charged with the theft of a spare tire from a pickup truck owned by Jerome Butler, P.O. Box 44, Stokes on Sept. 27, according to the sheriff.

Value of the tire was set at $100.

Total bond for Burns on the two break-in counts and four larceny charges was set at $4,000 with a hearing scheduled for today in District Court here.

Kicker Bill Lamm Out To Hold Job

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

At the start of the 1978 football season, there was some question about the East Carolina placekicking game. There was no one in the Pirate camp who had kicked a successful field goal.

And in the opening game, the questions grew to some extent. Bill Lamm, a sophomore in eligibility, tried two kicks, but both of them were blocked.

Since then, however, Lamm has come back to kick five of his next eight, including a perfect three-for-three night against Texas-Arlington last Saturday night. That tied a school record held by several other players. "I didn't know about it at the time," Lamm recalled. "Someone told me about it after the game."

It is his first ECU record, and before he completes his career with the Pirates, he'd like to have them all. He has a good chance to do it too.

Last year, in his first attempts, Lamm kicked twice, once against Duke and once against this week's foe, VMI, missing on both attempts. The start this year was bad when the two against Western were blocked, but Lamm feels it was just one of those things. "I just try to look at it that way, anyway."

Lamm started kicking during his midget football days, and continued through high school, where he was a quarterback at Satellite Beach, Fla. "I really enjoyed kicking the ball around instead of throwing it around. I was recruited as a kicker." Lamm has no thoughts about playing quarterback again. "I guess things have worked out for the best."

Lamm said that his father is his biggest booster and his severest critic. "He's tried to help me with my attitude and really, just everything about anything. I'd rather face the coaches after I miss one than my dad." Lamm's father has attended two games this fall, the Carolina game and the Texas-Arlington game. He may also get to the Southern Mississippi game. "Hattiesburg is a little closer to Florida than Greenville is," Lamm said.

While in high school, Lamm also was the second-baseman on the state's third place team as a senior. "I really love baseball," he said. But Lamm doesn't see himself going out for the Pirate team. "I'd kind of like to do it, but I need to concentrate on my kicking during the spring. 'I've got the kicking job now and I want to hold onto it."

Lamm said when he goes on the field, he just tries to concentrate on getting lined up, getting his tee set, think about keeping his head down, and following through. "I try not to think about what the situation in the game is," he said. "I'm getting to the point where I can put it out of my mind and just think about doing the job."

On the sidelines, he becomes a spectator much of the time. "If we've got a drive going, I loosen up by leg to get ready if I'm needed, but otherwise, I just watch to see how we're doing."

Lamm hasn't thought any about the far future when his college days are over. "I don't think I'm pro material now," he said. But he's got a few years left to build himself up to that level.

Pesky VMI Hosts Bucs

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Playing VMI in Lexington, Va., might not be the greatest thing in the world for a lot of football teams, Pat Dye said during his press conference Wednesday.

But when the Pirates of East Carolina come to town, it's a different situation. There is something about the Bucs that brings out the best in the Keydets, and Saturday's game should be no different.

If pattern follows, the game, set for 1:30 p.m. should be one that goes right down to the wire.

The Keydets have a lot going for them. They are coming off a fine 17-9 comeback victory over the University of Virginia. It's Homecoming for the alumni. The game counts for VMI in its Southern Conference play, since they don't play enough to qualify for the league title otherwise. The rules set up after ECU, Richmond and William & Mary left the league, allowed games that would have counted to do so when it means a chance at the title.

Add to that the fact that VMI has a seven game home winning streak going, and you have all the mixture you need. But on top of that, add that the last team to beat the Keydets in Lexington was the 1976 ECU team, and you've boiled the pot over.

"This is automatically a very tough game for us," Pat Dye said. "Ever since I've been here, it's been a struggle for us to beat them. Two years ago, it was 17-3, but that doesn't tell the story. It was something like 7-3 or 10-3 late in the game when we intercepted a pass and returned it for a touchdown to win it.

"And last year, they took us right down to the wire before we won, 14-13," he added.

A lot of the Keydets felt that they should have won that one too. "East Carolina will be tough," senior cornerback Tony Hamilton said, "but we've got them up here this time. We had them on the ropes last year, but just let it get away."

And Coach Bob Thalman echoed that. "It's our turn to get the most points."

Dye calls the Keydets a ball-control team that uses the tailback to great advantage. And Butch Hostetter has been doing the job. He's rushed for over a 100 yards a game for the past three games, and has 407 yards in the four games the Keydets have played.

"He's a big, strong inside runner who can go to the outside when he has to," Dye said.

"Their quarterback (Robby Clark) is excellent. He can pull it down and run with it when he has too also." Clark has hit 36 of 68 passes for 462 yards with only three interceptions. He's run for only 39 yards, however.

"They give you a lot of looks and cause a lot of problems for the defense," Dye added. "They don't make many mistakes and they don't beat themselves."

Defensively, the Keydets are sixth in the nation against the pass, allowing only 64.0 yards a game. Overall they've allowed just 250 a game.

"They probably have the best secondary we'll see," Dye said. "They have exceptional athletes back there. (Cornerback) Gary McNeil is a great player, and the rest are pretty good themselves.

"Up front they are strong despite the fact that they don't have a lot of great athletes. They just play great technique and are well-coached and aggressive"' Dye added.

Dye said that VMI's kicking game is exellent. "Their punter, Lou Darden, is averaging 40 yards a kick, and their kicker, Craig Jones, can score from anywhere inside the 40."

Dye said the Pirates would have to approach the game the same way the Keydets will—from an emotional level.

VMI brings a 2-2 record into the game, having lost its opener at William & Mary, 10-3; then beaten Bucknell at home, 25-14. They were upset at The Citadel, 14-3, and then bounced back to beat Virginia, 17-9.

Injuries could mean a lot in the game. Both teams have players coming off injuries from the past few weeks. How well they respond could be the key to the contest.

Rose In Meet Win

Rose High School snapped a three-meet losing streak with a double victory at home yesterday. The Rampants came out on top in a tri-meet with Rocky Mount and D.H. Conley.

Rose finished with 33 points, while Rocky Mount had 42 and Conley had 58.

David Jones of Rocky Mount led the pack with a time of 16:23, followed by Conley's Jeff Credle in 16:24. Til Jolly of Rose was third in 16:32, followed by Michael Davis of Rose in 16:49 and Blair Smith of Rose in 16:50.

The second five were Ray Green of Rocky Mount in 16:58; Reginald Mann of Rocky Mount in 16:59; Shawn Carson of Conley in 17:03; Joe Greene of Conley in 17:14; and Dan Mayo of Rose, 17:16.

Other Rose finishers were Bill DaVanzo, 11th in 17:20; Ted Gartman, 13th in 17:36; Steve Blackwell, 14th in 17:46; Alan Parks, 15th in 17:56; Starling Ashby, 19th in 18:50; and Michael Tucker, 20th in 19:03.

Other Conley finishers were Bobby Carmon, 18th in 18:51; Michael Joyner, 21st in 19:17; Melvin Baker, 24th in 23:37; and Lawrence Green, 25th in 23:39.

All Rose runners posted their best course times of the year.

Rose, now 7-4, is host to Northeastern on Monday.

In the 1970 All-Star game, pitcher Jim Perry, then with Minnesota, was on the American League squad and his brother, Gaylord, then with San Francisco, was on the National League roster.

There won't be a lot of movement among the six panel members as nearly everyone has picked the same slate. Among five of us, there is only one difference of opinion.

Only our distaff member, Vickie Spivey has gone out on a limb, somewhat, with two or three differences, depending on who she's matched up to.

After last week's games, Tom Baines moved into the sole lead with a 39-18-1 record. Two games back at 37-20-1 are this writer, the guests, and Joe Jenkins, who is making his comeback charge.

Jim Kyle is fifth at 36-21-1, with Vickie last at 35-22-1. But if all her differences come out right, she could move within one of the lead.

Our guest last week, Bill Tucker of WOOW Radio, came in with an 8-4 week, and this week we've asked Bill Cain, athletic director at East Carolina University to join us in the picks. Jenkins feels that Cain is in the know since the two picked identical cards. We'll see.

In the high school picks, our record last week was 5-1, which brought up to 19-6 on the year.

Seven games highlight the slate, including one that could decide one conference championship, Wilson Hunt at Roanoke.

In the Eastern Carolina Conference, Farmville Central goes to Conley. The Vikes will probably be up for the game against the league leaders and defending champs, but the Jaguars will probably have little trouble here. Another win for Farmville.

Revitalized Ayden-Grifton travels to North Lenoir. The Hawks have been struggling like the Chargers did earlier. But A-G is on track now, and will take this one.

Greene Central visits C.B. Aycock. The Rams, despite their youth, have surprised a couple of teams, and might be getting it all together. We're going to go with Greene Central to win this one.

Finally, in the ECC, Southern Nash visits North Pitt. The Panthers lost their first one last week, and will be wanting to get back on the winning side of the slate. This promises to be a tough one, but we'll go with Southern Nash.

In the Northeastern, Williamston visits Tarboro. The Tigers, another youthful team, has come on strong in the last two weeks, but this week they face one of the toughest teams in the state in Tarboro. A loss for the Tigers this week.

Mattamuskeet is at Jamesville for a Tobacco Belt game. The Bullets are at the bottom and the Lakers are at the top in the standings. This game won't chance anything for either team, except to add a win to Mattamuskeet and a loss to Jamesville.

Roanoke plays host to Wilson Hunt in a key Eastern Plains game. The winner is likely to take the conference title. The Skins have been rolling, but so has Hunt. It promises to be quite a contest, but we've got to give the edge to Hunt here.

Turning to our panel's picks, we find Rose traveling to Rocky Mount for its first conference game. The Rampants find only one faithful, Spivey, giving them the nod this week against the 4-1 Gryphons. The other five pick Rocky Mount.

East Carolina goes to VMI for a very tough game. The Associated Press earlier picked VMI to win this one, 15-10, but our panel disagrees. They go down the line with the Pirates, 6-0.

Other concensus picks see Clemson over Virginia Tech; Maryland over State; Purdue over Wake Forest; Georgia over Mississippi; Houston and Baylor, a toss-up; Duke over Virginia; Carolina over Miami; Citadel over Marshall; UCLA over Stanford and Tennessee over Army.

State, Maryland Clash In Key Contest; Duke, Virginia Meet

By The Associated Press

North Carolina State and Maryland, the Atlantic Coast Conference's two nationally ranked and undefeated teams, meet Saturday in a game that may go a long way toward deciding the ACC title race.

N.C. State, 4-0, ranked 20th in the nation, travels to Maryland, 4-0 and ranked 12th, for the 1:30 p.m. match that will also be a battle of the running backs.

N.C. State's Ted Brown, with a 154 yard per game average, is currently the fourth leading rushing in the NCAA, while Maryland's Steve Atkins has a 136 average, good enough for 10th place nationally.

"The key is whether we can get the ball away from their offense and give our own offense a chance to play with it," said Maryland Coach Jerry Claiborne. "If you give it to State enough times, they're going to get it into the end zone."

NC State-Maryland

Both N.C. State and Maryland have a conference win under their belt, with the Terps owners of a 21-20 defeat of defending ACC champion North Carolina. A win by either team would put it in the drivers seat in the conference race, although Duke and pre-season favorite Clemson have yet to meet a conference opponent.

Both have displayed effective passing, as Terp quarterback Tim O'Hare is averaging 10 completions a game and Wolfpack quarterback Scott Smith has passed for 454 yards.

"I'm most impressed with the finesse of passing game and the sophistication of their pass defense," N.C. State Coach Bo Rein said. "Anybody that beats Maryland earsn it."

Virginia-Duke

Duke, 2-1, will try to rebound from a humiliating 52-0 loss to Michigan, while Virginia, 1-3, is still trying to establish its offense. Duke quarterback Mike Dunn will have to shake off one of the worst games of his career, and Virginia will be depending on two quarterbacks, Chip Mark and Mickey Spady.

"I have a strong feeling this crowd will not let the defeat affect them adversely," Duke Coach Mike McGee said.

"We know they can move the football in spite of what happened to them up at Michigan," Virginia Coach Dick Bestwick said. "They met a great team playing a great game."

Va. Tech-Clemson

Clemson, 2-1, defeated Villanova at home last week, 31-0, and quarterback Steve Fuller is the conference leader in total offense, with a 192-yard average.

Virginia Tech, 2-2, is in its first year under Coach Bill Dooley, and defeated William & Mary by 22-19 last week.

"They have won two games and are only 15 points away from being 4-0," Clemson Coach Charley Pell said of the opposition. "We will have to improve drastically in every area to be successful."

Miami-N.Carolina

North Carolina Coach Dick Crum and his staff will be meeting the team they coached last year. North Carolina is 1-2 after a narrow defeat by Pittsburgh, while Miami is 1-2-1.

Crum said he was not discouraged with his team's effort at Pittsburgh, but because of an injury to quarterback Matt Kupec, freshman Chuck Sharpe may see action.

"I'm getting tired of saying we played a better football game because we lost. But we're making a lot of progress," Crum said.

Wake Forest-Purdue

Wake Coach John Mackovic will be facing the same team he was an assistant coach with last year, while Purdue is 2-1.

Mackovic will have to decide whether to stick with quarterback Ken Daly, or start freshman David Webber, who came off the bench to direct two quick scoring drives.

"We have shown at times that we can play strong football, but we are not playing consistently from week to week," Mackovic said.

Ayden-Grifton 2, Southern Nash 0

LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton High School gained a 2-0 victory over Southern Nash yesterday.

The Chargerettes won the first game, 15-13, then took the second by a 15-6 score.

Mary Rowe and Debra Ellis each had four straight serves for points, while Pam Fulford had five in a row for Ayden-Grifton during the evening.

Ayden-Grifton is now 10-1 overall and 8-1 in Eastern Carolina Conference play. The Chargerettes go to North Pitt on Monday.

Greene Central 2, North Pitt 1

BETHEL — Greene Central split the first two games with North Pitt, then came back to take the third for a 2-1 volleyball victory yesterday.

The Lady Rams took the first game, 15-3, but the Pant-HERS won the second by a 15-13 score. Greene Central then took the match-winner, 15-6.

Cathy Harris led North Pitt with 13 points, while Starla Singleton added six. Melody Ham had 14 and Iris Pridgen had nine for the Lady Rams.

Greene Central hosts Conley and North Pitt entertains Ayden-Grifton on Monday.

Farmville Central 2, SW Edgecombe, 0

PINETOPS — Gladys Ellis led Farmville Central to a victory over Southwest Edgecombe yesterday 15-9, 15-5.

Ellis served 11 consecutive points in the first game and then came back with five straight in the second.

The Lady Jaguars are now 8-3 overall and 6-3 in the Eastern Carolina Conference. Their next match is Monday when they host Belhaven.

D. H. Conley 2, Belhaven 0

BELHAVEN — D. H. Conley easily defeated Belhaven in a volleyball match yesterday by a score of 15-8, 15-3.

The victory gives the Valkyries an 11-0 record for the season. They are 9-0 against conference opponents.

Conley also won a "B" team match 15-3, 15-0.

North Pitt 12, Southern Nash 0

BETHEL — North Pitt's junior varsity football team evened its record at 1-1 with a 12-0 win over Southern Nash yesterday.

Derek Smith scored the first Panther Cub touchdown on a 20-yard run, while Keith Murphy scored on a 35-yard pass from Barry Warren.

Rose 20, Rocky Mount 12

Rose High School's junior varsity football team remained unbeaten yesterday, grabbing a 20-12 win over Rocky Mount.

Rose scored first in the opening period on a 45-yard pass from Kenny Barnes to Donald Johnson. Rocky Mount came back in the second period to tie it at 6-6.

Both teams scored again in the third period, with Alonza Taylor scoring from the four. In the final period, John Vestal scored on a two-yard run, with Barnes hitting Johnson for the two-point conversion.

Barnes led the rushing with 71 yards, while Taylor added 70. Curtis Spell was the defensive leader.

Vida Blue, the star southpaw of the San Francisco Giants, owns a 3,500-acre cattle ranch.

Phillies Phlop; LA Goes Two-Up On Foes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies, playoff flops at home for the third straight year, battle long odds and the Los Angeles Dodgers here tonight in what could be the final game of the National League title series.

"We want to end this as quickly as we possibly can," Dave Lopes said after he and pitcher Tommy John led Los Angeles to a 4-0 win Thursday in Philadelphia that left the Dodgers a step away from a three-game sweep in the best of-five set.

"Nobody in the athletic world right now thinks we have a chance — except us," said Phillies third baseman Mike Schmidt, whose team is now 1-8 in playoff games over the last three seasons and 0-6 at usually friendly Veterans Stadium.

Schmidt led off Thursday's game with a line drive single to right. Phillies partisans roared and John wondered on the mound.

"I thought it might be a long day — maybe a short one for Tommy," John said.

But he allowed only three more singles and two walks as his sinking deliveries were continually beaten into the turf for groundouts by the frustrated Phils.

It was Lopes, the Dodger team captain, second baseman and adrenal stimulator, who delivered the key hits — a home run, a single and a triple that each drove in single runs.

"Aggression is our key to success. We come out swinging," said Lopes, who the night before rapped a two-run homer, a double and a single in a 9-5 Dodger romp.

The Phillies began the day banking on starting pitcher Dick Ruthven, now 1-11 lifetime against the Dodgers.

Ruthven retired nine straight Dodgers before Lopes led off the fourth inning with a homer over the left field wall.

Of the 27 Philadelphia outs, 21 came on ground balls. John, idled more than two weeks in September with a leg injury, got a bit tired in the seventh. But even that didn't help the Phils.

By the ninth inning, John looked fresher than ever. Schmidt grounded out. Larry Bowa grounded out. Then Maddox flied out to Rich Monday in right and it was over.

Whether it's all over this season for the Phils will be determined tonight at Dodger Stadium.

The Dodgers tonight are counting on pitcher Don Sutton, who has a 6-0 record in three NL playoff games, two World Series game and one All-Star game.

The Phils will counter with Steve Carlton, 0-2 in the playoffs and 0-2 in the World Series when he was with the St. Louis Cardinals.

"We're in our own backyard," said LaSardo. "Things look good."

Royals In Must-Win Situation

NEW YORK (AP) — The best-of-five American League Championship Series resumes today with the Kansas City Royals and New York Yankees deadlocked at one game apiece. But KC Manager Whitey Herzog sounds as though his team is in a must-win situation.

"This is a big game for us with Guidry going for them Saturday," Herzog said Thursday after the Royals completed a one-hour workout at Yankee Stadium, site of Games 3 and 4 and, if necessary, Game 5.

But Herzog almost sounded as though he were conceding Saturday night's fourth game to the Yankees and pitching ace Ron Guidry.

"He's only lost three games, so he can be beaten," Herzog said, "but he's the best pitcher in baseball. I wish I had him going for me."

Herzog has Paul Splittorff, 19-13, going today (3:30 p.m., EDT) against New York's Catfish Hunter, 12-6, one of baseball's more inspiring comeback sagas.

The rest of the Royals didn't sound as though they were conceding an inch to Guidry. In fact, they couldn't understand what all the fuss was about.

"It's not only Guidry," griped pitcher Larry Gura, winner of Wednesday's second game that squared the series. "You talk to anyone and they make out like all the Yankees are gods. It's nice that Guidry's 25-3, but he gives up runs, doesn't he? That 25-3 record isn't going to help him Saturday."

"He'll be 25-4 Saturday, I guarantee you," said infielder Jerry Terrell.

"Didn't Toronto beat him a couple of weeks ago?" wondered shortstop Fred Patek.

Splittorff, at least, wasn't looking beyond today's game.

"In a five-game series, you can say that every game is a big one — and it's true," he said. "Every time you take the field in a best-of-five series it's a must-win situation."

Splittorff will be pitching for the first time in more than a week. He missed the Royals' final series of the regular season when he had to go to Chicago for his father's funeral. That forced Herzog to juggle his pitching rotation for the playoffs. He had planned to open with the veteran left-hander Tuesday night.

"I didn't get back from Chicago until late Monday night," Splittorff said. "Whitey did the right thing. It would have been tough getting ready for that game."

For most of his career, Splittorff has been something of a Yankee-killer with an 11-5 record prior to this year. But he was 0-2 against the Yankees in 1978 with a 6.08 earned run average, yielding 32 hits and 16 earned runs in 232-3 innings.

"I pitched a couple of decent games against them," he said, "but not like I used to. I don't know why. It's hard to explain anything that happens in this game."

Guthrie Seeks National Spot

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Janet Guthrie was among about 20 drivers battling today for the final 10 spots in the 40-car field for Sunday's National 500 stock car race.

But unlike most the drivers who failed to make the grade in qualifying Wednesday and Thursday, Guthrie was to make her first attempt to get in the pack for the $262,775 chase of 500 miles.

Her Buick smacked the wall of the Charlotte Motor Speedway in a practice run Wednesday, and the car had to be carted back to the shop for repairs. When the car was not back at the track in time for the required noon inspection Thursday, Guthrie was dropped from the list of qualifiers.

But NASCAR officials extended the deadline until 5 p.m. and the Buick made it back to the track in time.

"I really don't know what to say," Guthrie said. "I was in, then out and back in again."

Another 15 spots were filled in qualifying Thursday, with 21year old rookie Terry Labonte showing the way. He toured the 1.5-mile banked speedway at 158.307 mph in a Chevrolet to earn the 16th starting spot in the field.

The top 15 positions were decided Wednesday by average speeds over four laps. David Pearson clinched his 11th consecutive pole position in Charlotte Motor Speedway races by averaging 161.355 mph.

Drivers had to wait out a 1½-hour delay Thursday after a misting rain coated the track.

Lemon Is Quitting

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Meadowlark Lemon, who blended superb basketball skills and crazy antics to keep audiences laughing around the world, has retired from the Harlem Globetrotters.

Stan Greeson, president of the Globetrotter organization, said Thursday that Lemon requested to be released from his contract.

He said Lemon's outside interests would not permit him to join the club next season.

Lemon is completing his role in the motion picture "The Fish that Saved Pittsburgh" and has a record album due to be released in January.

Greeson said Nate Branch, an 11-year Globetrotter veteran, will take over as playercoach.

The Globetrotters, founded in 1927, have displayed their unique brand of basketball before audiences in 94 countries.

Bucs In Tourney

East Carolina meets five opponents in water polo this weekend at Washington and Lee in the first of two southern regional tournaments.

The Pirates, participating as a part of their pre-season swimming training, meet George Washington, North Carolina, Duke, VMI and the host Generals in this event and will face four others in Richmond in two weeks.

Forward Bill Fehling, a high school all-America and the team captain, along with Joe Kushy, will lead the Pirates this fall.

Women Set Tank Slate

Saturday's opener against UNC-Greensboro and a Nov. 18 home date with Alabama highlight a 13-event women's swimming schedule announced by East Carolina. The meet against the Spartans begins at 2 p.m.

The Pirate women, winless in six meets last fall, are bolstered by the return of Julie Shaffer, a butterflier and freestyler who holds most of the school records. She is among a group of four returning letter winners, including Sharon Burns, Lucy Weckerling and Cindy Sailer.

The complete schedule:

Oct. 7 UNC-Greensboro, 30 Intrasquad meet;
Nov. 4 at Randolph-Macon Relays, Nov. 10 at Pfeiffer Relays, v. 18 Alabama;
Dec. 1-2 at State AIAW Meet in Wilmington, Dec. 6 at North Carolina, 9 . 16 Old Dominion;
Jan. 27 UNC-Wilmington, Jan. 30 at N. C. State;
Feb. 3 Duke, b. 22-24 at UNC-Wilmington Invitational;
March 15-17 at National AIAW Meet in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Helmick Is Golf Coach

East Carolina University has announced the appointment of Bob Helmick as the school's golf coach, replacing Walt McLendon, who resigned.

Helmick, a native of West Virginia and the Pirate rifle coach for four seasons, also serves as the director of athletic facilities. He is a 24-year Army veteran.

McLendon is returning to school to complete a graduate degree.

Ayden Gets 24-0 Victory

MAURY — Ayden Middle School rolled to a 24-0 victory over Maury yesterday.

Jeff Walston scored twice, while Kenneth Randolph and Jarvis Koonce each scored once for Ayden.

Joey Kennedy, Kevin Craft, Mike Boykin and Chuck Smithwick led the Ayden defense.

Heather MacRae Had Dislike For Show Business

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Until I was 18, I hated show business," the attractive, blondehaired young lady grinned. "It always embarrassed me when people introduced us as their children."

The speaker: Heather MacRae, daughter of singers Gordon and Sheila MacRae, sister of actress Meredith MacRae and brothers Gar, a sound editor and writer, and Bruce, a tunesmith by trade.

That she changed her mind about show biz is indicated by her credits for such stage musicals as "Jesus Christ Superstar" and "Hair," such films as "Bang the Drum Slowly" and two TV films.

She recently finished playing a rock-band singer in a new Robert Altman movie, "A Perfect Couple," and next Monday will share the bill in a made for-NBC film, "Secrets of Three Hungry Wives."

In that, she plays one of three well-to-do housefraus suspected of doing in a handsome playboy who lusted after them all.

Ms. MacRae, a friendly, articulate woman who lives in nearby Pacific Palisades, began performing with her now divorced parents while still a tyke, in the best tradition of the performing arts.

"All four of us did," she said. "We appeared with them in 'Annie Get Your Gun' and did TV shows with them, including a Thanksgiving show with the families of Dinah Shore and Roy Rogers."

Still, she said, she never thought of entertaining as a career until she entered Colorado Women's College in Denver with no particular goal other than maybe to learn skiing and meet guys.

For fun and scholastic credit, she took up theater arts "and all of a sudden I just developed a strong love for it." And soon she was back in the business she professed to hate in her younger days.

She said she left college before graduation, headed to New York, commenced pounding on doors, worked in summer stock and finally got her first Broadway role in a musical, "Here's Where I Belong."

"It lasted one night," she laughed. "So I had great experience being in a Broadway flop."

Her life perked up, though, in November 1968 when she joined the hirsute cast of "Hair" and appeared in that long-running shaggy musicale both on Broadway and later in Miami.

She moved here two years ago to concentrate on TV and film work. In her spare time, she reads, scuba-dives, enjoys pop music and old movies and dates Jonathan Segal, an actor in CBS' "Paper Chase" series.

She shook her head when asked if either of her famed parents ever took her aside when she still was a kid and advised her show biz was okay for youthful kicks but no place for a sane grown-up.

"No, they never discouraged us or encouraged us," she said. "Our choice of career was entirely up to us. They did explain how difficult it would be, and, of course, we saw that as we grew up."

But Pop did give her three bits of sound advice, she added:

"He was always telling us that if we were going into show business to approach it as a professional, not to indulge in temper tantrums and always respect the people you work with."

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, OCT. 7, 1978

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to prepare a new plan of action. Study every phase of such a plan so that you understand it better and have a better chance of succeeding in it.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get out to new surroundings and gather the information you need so that you advance more quickly. Your intuition is good, so be sure to follow it. Avoid one who could give you trouble.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle debits and credits intelligently and improve your position in life. Combine efforts with those a loved one for a fine social evening.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take care of small tasks that will improve your operations in the days ahead. Fine benefits can soon be yours.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan your shopping so that you can do it quickly and precisely, and be careful of your purse. Visit with relatives you want to see and come to a fine understanding.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Perfect those arrangements for recreational purposes so that all will work out smoothly. Plan time to be alone with a loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Handle family affairs intelligently and stop procrastinating about them. Later invite friends you admire into your home.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take nearby trips to see persons for good reasons and show you are a capable talker, get your pleasing points across.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into the details of property and other possessions and make everything work like clockwork. Confer with a successful person and get ideas for your own benefit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study yourself well and know where you can make improvements and better your life. Make some casual visits with friends and get good results. Be careful of your bank account.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get into unpleasant tasks that have to be done sometime and clear the slate. Plan the future better. Consult an expert who can give you fine ideas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Go after personal aims that best motivate you. Meet with friends casually. Be sure to put that business deal over in clever manner.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get out early and take care of an important community matter. Handling correspondence is good, especially letters to foreign lands.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will appeal to bigwigs and will feel most comfortable with them and will consequently have many a favor extended to him or her. There can be fame in this chart, especially in the field of writing, art or politics.

Order Of The Rainbow Has Installation Ritual

Greenville Assembly No. 67 of the International Order of the Rainbow for Girls held installation ceremonies Sunday at the Greenville Masonic Temple.

Miss Rose Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Jackson Jr., was installed as Worthy Advisor.

Miss Paige Levey, Past Worthy Advisor, introduced other installing officers, Gigi Mosley, Phyllis Jones, Karen Wheeler, and Connie Briley.

Officers for the new term, in addition to Miss Jackson, are Loris King, Worthy Associate Advisor; Pam Hawkins, charity; Karen Kingsbury, hope, Kim Harrell, faith; Phyllis Jones, recorder; Lee Ellen Jenkins, treasurer; Chris Galya, chaplain; Lisa Topping, drill leader; Melody Hedges, love; Sarah Houston, religion; Connie Briley, nature; Joyce Riggan, immortality; Melanie West, fidelity; Kim Shiley, patriotism; Karen Wheeler, service; Myra Clark, confidential observer; Lisa Priestly, outer observer; Kathryn Kelley, musician; Gigi Mosely, choir director; Amy James, Dawn Perry, Paige Levey, Lori Jo Edwards Kathy Sue Parker, Denise Pope, Brenda Foley, Beth Heath and Tammy Levey, choir.

Miss Jackson recognized guests, Dr. and Mrs. Gene Piner; William Murray, Past Master of Crown Point Lodge which sponsors the assembly; and advisory board member, Mrs. Grace Hill, Mrs. Sarah Ashton, Mrs. Mary Freeland and Murray.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson presented the gavel to their daughter. Miss King presented the mascot. Miss Jackson paid tribute to Miss Briley, past worthy advisor, and Mrs. Leonard Briley, her mother, presented the P. W. A. pin. Miss Karen Wheeler, also a Past Worthy Advisor, was presented her P. W. A. pin, also.

Merit bars were presented by Dr. Betty Levey, Mother Advisor of the Assembly. Lori Jo Edwards received her starter bar; Chris Galya, her first and second bars; Sarah Houston and Karen Kingsbury, their fifth bars; Pam Hawkins and Lori King, their seventh bars; and Paige Levey and Phyllis Jones, officers' pins.

Following the officers' retiring march, a reception was held.

Install Oglesby As Club Prexy

Henry Oglesby of Grifton was installed as president of the Golden K Kiwanis Club of Greenville Tuesday. Lt. Gov. Guy Ross of Wilson, 7 N District of Kiwanis, presented Oglesby the gavel.

HENRY OGLESBY

Oglesby, who succeeds Earl Bynum as president, was born in Kinston and raised in Winterville. He graduated from the Winterville High School and attended Wake Forest University for two years.

He received his degree in science and mathematics from East Carolina University in 1932 and was the first male graduate.

Ogelsby served as principal at schools in Bell Arthur, Grifton and Ayden before joining the Army. He served overseas for two and a half years.

After serving as administrative assistant to Congress man Herbert Bonner for 20 years, Oglesby came back to Grifton to work as assistant to the president of sales Cox Trailers. He retired in 1971.

According to Oglesby, the Greenville chapter of the Golden K was the first such chartered chapter in the world, started by Les Garner of Greenville almost four years ago.

The foremost requirement for joining the Golden K is that the person be retired.

Oglesby is a member of the Masonic and Shriner Orders, as well as a member of the Moose Lodge. He is a member of Grifton United Methodist Church.

Oglesby is married to the former Frances Patrick. Their son, Pat, teaches business law at East Carolina University.

Other elected officials are Claude Goodman, vice president, George Fleming, secretary, and Dr. Laurence Brewster, treasurer.

The Golden K Kiwanis Club meets every Tuesday, 10 a.m., at the Moose Lodge.

Offer Scholarship For Next Summer

A $1,000 scholarship for study in one of four English universities will be offered for the summer of 1979 by the Greenville branch of the English-speaking Union, according to John H. McLean of Kinston, chairman of the Scholarship Comittee.

Dr. W. Keats Sparrow and Ms. Elizabeth Webb, both faculty member of the ECU Department of English, are also members of the E-SU Scholarship Committee.

Guidelines for the presentation of the scholarship will be discussed at the meeting of the local E-SU branch to be held Thrusday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. The cocktail hour will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Dr. Ralph Hardee Rives, president of the group, will speak on his impressions during a two-month visit to London this past summer. His address is titled, "Close Encounters with Another World."

About 12 members of the group will attend the National Council meeting of the English-Speaking Union of the U. S. in Richmond Oct. 20-22. Peter Jay, Ambassador from Great Britain to the U. S., will address the group. Mrs. Anne Armstrong, former American Ambassador to the Court of St. James, is president of the national group.

India Reports Birth Of Test Tube Baby

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — The world's second test-tube baby, a seven-pound, six-ounce girl whose birth was announced dramatically on a television program in India's most populous city, is normal and doing fine, her doctors reported today.

The baby's mother, who gave birth Tuesday by Caesarean section, was progressing "very satisfactorily," said Dr. Saroj K. Bhattacharya, one of a three-member team that carried out the laboratory conception last January.

The mother was identified only as a 31-year-old orthodox Hindu housewife from Calcutta.

The doctors told the Calcutta newspaper Amrita Bazar Patrika that delivery was carried out a week early to avoid possible complications. They did not elaborate.

They said a lack of sophisticated equipment here forced them to improvise a technique different than the one which led to the July 25 birth in Oldham, England, of Louise Brown, the world's first baby conceived outside the human body.

"The baby showed reflex movement 24 hours after birth," said Dr. Bhattacharya, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Calcutta Medical College. "She is completely normal."

The baby"s parents, married for 16 years, were unable to conceive because of the father"s low sperm count and blocked Fallopian tubes of the mother.

After two years of treatment, the father's sperm level became normal. His doctor, Subhash Mukherjee, decided to try fertilizing an ovum from the mother outside the uterus instead of opting for recanalization of one of her Fallopian tubes.

Mukherjee joined with Sunit Mukherjee, a professor of bioengineering at Jadavpur University, and Bhattacharya, to attempt this approach. The Mukherjees are not related.

An ovum was collected by a "new method," the Amrita Bazar Patrika quoted the doctors as saying, and kept in a controlled environment for 53 days. It was then exposed to sperm collected from the father.

"We were glad to see the mixed ovum and sperm fertilize after 75 hours of incubation," Bhattacharya told the United News of India.

Describing the subsequent transfer to the mother, he said: "We had to keep the fertilized embryo till the next menstrual cycle of the mother in a freeze ... For this, we developed an absolutely new technique." He did not elaborate.

The names of the parents and child were kept shielded, apparently because the stigma of laboratory conception might hamper the baby's future marriage prospects in India's conservative Hindu society.

First word of the birth, at a unidentified nuring home in this teeming city of 7 million on India's east coast, came Thursday in broadcasts by Calcutta's state radio. The three researchers later appeared on Calcutta television and made their announcement.

Space Plea By Martin Agency

WILLIAMSTON — Space shortage in the Martin County Social Services Board was one of the items presented to the Martin County Commissioners at their October meeting r this week.

Jean Biggs, Hugh Baker, Juanita Coltrain, Janet W. Jones, Ken Modlin, and Pearl Newborn, all staff members of the department, told commissioners of the seriousness of space shortage in the agency's offices.

One example cited was the use of a 19 by 23 foot room by six persons, with that room also containing a filing room used by a total of 37 persons on a regular basis.

The board took note of the information and agreed to give consideration to ideas which could alleviate the problem.

Robert Davis of the James Fire Department presented commissioners with a petition requesting that a referendum be conducted for the purpose of establishing a fire tax district for the Jamesville Fire Department.

Approval of the referendum was given, subject to the county attorney's approval of the request.

After hearing a report showing that bids for Phase II of the athletic facility at Roanoke High School were $67,880 higher than original funds allocated, the board approved adding $46,630 to the original appropriation.
