Tobacco Festival Plans Presented To Gov. Hunt

Five members of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce met with Governor Jim Hunt and Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham Monday in Raleigh to present information concerning the First Annual Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival.

The festival, which will be held in Greenville Nov. 12-18, will salute the tobacco farmers and tobacco industry of the five southern flue-cured tobacco growing states, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

Governor Hunt said that he is glad that the festival will be held in Pitt County because tobacco means so much to the economy of North Carolina.

Hunt signed a proclamation proclaiming the week of Nov. 12-18 as Tobacco Appreciation Week in North Carolina.

Attending the meeting from the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce were the following: Kelly Barnhill, chairman of the Board of Directors for the festival; Charles Burnette, GACOC president; C. J. Harris of Farmville, vice chairman of the festival's Budget Committee; Mrs. Beverley Reid, Secretary Treasurer of the festival; and Susan Nobles, Manager of Public Relations for the Chamber.

Senate Votes No Tax Cuts Ahead Until Federal Spending Curbed

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Senate has its way, there'll be no tax cuts in future years unless Congress holds down the growth of federal spending.

On the other hand, a successful fight against rapid spending increases would reward Americans with new tax cuts totaling $164.5 billion between 1980 and 1983. That would mean a tax reduction of about $453 over those four years for a typical four-member family earning $20,000.

There is no assurance that the tie between future tax cuts and reductions in federal spending growth will be accepted by the House.

But the fact the amendment won such broad support, 65-20, in the Senate Monday night indicates the election-year concern about inflation.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., a sponsor of the proposal, said that while there is little doubt Americans want tax relief, "I do not believe that they would welcome tax reductions at the expense of increased inflation, continued deficits and profligate government spending."

With final action on the overall bill expected tonight, some of the biggest battles on the measure were still to come.

The Senate was faced with efforts to scale back the capital gains tax cut recommended by the Finance Committee and attempts to include some of President Carter's tax-revision proposals that were rejected by the panel.

A big roadblock to final Senate passage of the bill — and to congressional adjournment for the year on Saturday — was removed Monday when the Senate voted, 62-28, to bar non-tax amendments from the bill.

That vote could end any chance of enacting this year either the Humphrey-Hawkins full-employment bill or legislation to control hospital costs.

Resigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul C. Warnke has resigned as chief negotiator for a strategic arms limitation agreement, the White House announced today.

The resignation will take effect later this month and is for personal reasons, a statement from the presidential press office said.

Warnke will accompany Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance to Moscow for strategic arms talks later this month and will leave his post shortly thereafter.

Court To Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to decide whether government employers who give hiring preference to military veterans are discriminating against women.

The justices said they will review a decision by a three-judge federal court in Massachusetts which in 1976 outlawed such preferential treatment as unconstitutional sex discrimination.

The court's eventual decision will carry broad impact. Every state but four — Arkansas, Mississippi, New Mexico and South Carolina — has a form of veterans' preference in hiring for public jobs.

A veterans' preference is fostered by law in the federal government's hiring practices.

The Massachusetts law first reached the Supreme Court a year ago.

Food Stamp Rules Changing January 1

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — New federal food stamp regulations ordered by Congress last year will take effect by Jan. 1 and will include elimination of a current requirement that poor families spend part of their incomes to get benefits, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland said today.

Meanwhile, the rising cost of groceries will mean a further increase in government food stamp benefits on Jan. 1, Agriculture Department officials said.

Bergland told a news conference that the theme of the new law and the regulations "is to eliminate those who should not be receiving food stamps, while assuring that we do get food stamps to those who are truly in need."

In July, the most recent month tabulated, about 15.3 million persons benefited from food stamps, he said.

Bergland said an estimated 3 million persons not now getting food stamps will be added to the program as the new rules take effect, mostly low-income working people and elderly persons.

But the tighter restrictions will probably eliminate a million higher-income persons from getting stamps, he said. That means a net of about 2 million persons may be added to food stamp rolls because of the new regulations.

A Bergland aide, Bob Greenstein, said the food stamp program for the new fiscal year that began Oct. 1 probably will cost about $6 billion, compared with approximately $5.5 billion in 1977-78.

Greenstein said part of the expected increase will be due to a boost in food stamp allocations that will take effect Jan. 1.

Although the increases will not be announced until next month, preliminary calculations by the Agriculture Department indicate they will go up at least 5 percent.

The law requires adjustments in food stamp allocations twice a year, based on the cost of a "thrifty food plan" compiled by the department.

The monthly food stamp allocation for a four-member household was raised July 1 from $174 to $182, a 4.6 percent increase.

At present, a family has to pay for some food stamps and then gets bonus coupons free, depending on family size and its monthly income.

For example, a four-member family with an adjusted monthly income of $250 to $270 a month now buys $71 worth of stamps and gets $111 worth of stamps free to spend like cash at grocery stores, a total of $182 a month.

When the new regulations are put into effect, the qualified family can get just the bonus coupons and not have to buy any with its own money.

Thus, using current rates, the same four-member family would get $111 of free food stamps without having to buy any.

On the average nationally, food stamp recipients now pay about $4 of their own money to get $10 worth of coupons. The entire program costs the government about $5.5 billion a year.

By law, the thrifty food plan for September will be used in setting the food stamp allocation beginning Jan. 1, 1979. It will be calculated after the Labor Department reports September consumer prices on Oct. 26.

But the cost of the August thrifty food plan as reported by USDA was about $192 a month for a four-member family, including two adults and two elementary school-age children.

Thus, the August food plan cost about $10 a month more than the July 1 food stamp allocation for a four-member household, a raise of about 5.5 percent.

Last week the Labor Department reported a rise in wholesale food prices for September after declining for two months this summer. That signalled a possible new round of grocery store increases — and another boost in the cost of the thrifty food plan used to figure food stamps.

Heavy Gunfire In Beirut Threatens Fragile Ceasefire

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Heavy gunfire broke out today at the main crossroad between Beirut's Moslem and Christian sectors, imperiling a three-day-old cease-fire between Lebanon's Christian militias and Syrian peacekeeping troops.

All roads between the two sectors were closed as machine guns blazed and rocket propelled grenades exploded, sending vehicles and pedestrians fleeing in panic. Witnesses said other crossing points between the two sectors came under heavy sniper fire.

Reporters near the scene described the outbreak as the worst violation of the truce since it began Saturday night.

Beirut's Christian radio station reported that Israeli gunboats shelled Palestinian guerrilla camps in southern Lebanon during the night.

The Voice of Lebanon said the guerrillas returned the Israeli gunboat fire. No other details were given, there was no confirmation of the report, and the Israeli military command in Tel Aviv refused to confirm or deny the report.

Israeli gunboats shelled Moslem West Beirut, some 50 miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese border, last Thursday night to warn the Syrians to call off their war against Israel's Christian allies in East Beirut.

A cease-fire took effect in Beirut on Saturday after 10 days of fighting that left 1,300 dead and 2,000 wounded by Lebanese police count.

The Christian radio said although the truce was holding Syrian snipers were still active, particularly in the Quarantine bridge area on the northeast side of the city.

The bridge is on the supply highway from Jounieh, the Christian port 15 miles north of Beirut, to the Christian half of the city. The broadcast said because of the sniping, the bridge remained closed to traffic.

The Christian radio also charged that the Syrians were maintaining their "food blockade" of East Beirut.

Ayden Board Adopting New Retail Electrical Rates From VEPCO

by REBECCA BUFFALO
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board of Commissioners adopted the new retail electrical rates from VEPCO last evening hoping to offset the wholesale increase from the Greenville Utilities Commission, which became effective Oct. 1.

The approximate 15.62 percent increase in wholesale rates has caused the Town of Ayden to adopt the VEPCO retail rates, which is expected to average out to be a 13-18 percent increase to local retail customers, depending on their power usage.

However, Mayor Ross Persinger explained that Ayden is in the process of switching to wholesale electrical power supplied by Carolina Power and Light Company, contingent upon the passage of a bond referendum set last night for Jan. 9, 1979.

"We're going to have public hearings, for every citizen needs to be informed of this," Persinger stated. The town board issued a prepared news release following adoption of the service agreement with CP&L during a special session Sept. 25. The statement reads as follows:

"The Town of Ayden announces that Carolina Power & Light Company has agreed to supply the municipality wholesale electrical service.

Town officials said a final agreement between Ayden and CP&L depends on Ayden's acceptance of terms and conditions for service and a successful bond referendum which would enable Ayden to finance the project.

The town made its initial request for electric service from CP&L in 1977.

CP&L officials said the agreement comes after a thorough study indicating that providing service to the Town of Ayden would have negligible impact on projected generation reserves.

They added that serving Ayden will not affect the service nor increase the cost of electric service to its existing customers."

According to an article published in the "Ayden News Leader" Sept. 28, the board's primary objective in seeking service from CP&L's is to receive power from a regulated power utility. The Town of Ayden presently receives its wholesale power from the Greenville Utilities Commission, an unregulated utility serviced by Virginia Electric and Power Company.

The Ayden Town Board also adopted three resolutions setting three bond referendums for Jan. 9, 1979.

The first resolution will in-

Two Bids Approved By Redevelopment Board

By TOM BAINES

Two bids submitted by a Greenville firm for the purchase of two disposal parcels owned by the Redevelopment Commission were approved by the board last night, subject to city and Department of Housing and Urban Development concurrence.

Commission real estate officer, Kirby Boyd, reported that the Evans Co. of Greenville offered the only bid on disposal parcel W-1a, located at the corner of Perkins and Norris Streets, in the Southside area. The Evans bid amounted to $1,619.

Boyd said that bids were received from the Evans Co. and from Taylor-Payton Co. of Greenville on disposal parcel C-2, located on Howell Street. He noted that the Evans proposal was $20,119 while the Taylor-Payton offer was $17,719.58.

Both companies qualified at last month's meeting to bid on the 5,185 square foot W-1a tract and the 89,200 square foot C-2 parcel.

The Evans Co. indicated when qualifying as a bidder that it planned to develop the parcels with residential structures.

In accepting the two

Evans Co. bids, the Commission stipulated that approval was subject to the receipt of development plans from the bidder.

Joe Laney, commission executive director, said that the staff hopes to be able to market a large parcel on McClellan in the near future, as well as scattered lots that could be developed for residential purposes.

Boyd said that one acquisition was made in the Meadowbrook section since last month and one structure was demolished in Southside.

No relocation activity took place in Meadowbrook or Southside since the September meeting, according to Southside project manager Faye Brewington. Mrs. Brewington said that relocations are at a standstill now due to the large family sizes in the areas that require multi-bedroom relocation units.

One rehabilitation project was completed since the last meeting, according to staff rehabilitation officer, Ed Cobb. He added that six Section 312 loans were approved totaling $60,000 and work on new rehabilitation activity should be underway by the

Planning Put Billions In Negev Desert Projects

By DAN GREBLER
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Development authorities are working on plans to invest more than $2 billion in new towns and development projects in Israel's Negev desert, officials say.

The new communities will be home to some 4,000 Israelis now living in the controversial Jewish settlements in the Sinai Peninsula, which is to revert to Egypt during the next three years following the signing of an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

A spokesman for the Jewish Agency, Israel's semi-governmental authority for Jewish immigration and settlement, said the agency is preparing plans for 20 new settlements in the western Negev along the Israeli-Egyptian border.

They will replace the settlements Israel established in the Rafah Salient southwest of the Gaza Strip after it occupied the Sinai in 1967. The Knesset, Israel's parliament, has authorized the government to abandon the settlements in exchange for peace with Egypt.

The new settlements are to be built near Kerem Shalom, about 25 miles southwest of Gaza, spokesman Arnon Hadar said Monday. An Egyptian demilitarized zone will be to the west and the Negev's main town, Beersheba, will be to the east.

Planning of the new settlements will take about seven to eight months, then infrastructure work can be started, according to Hadar. He said the government would turn to foreign investors to finance part of the project, but he declined to say which countries might be approached.

Hadar said the cost of moving the nearly 1,200 Israeli families from the Sinai to the Negev is estimated at about $50,000 each.

Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon promised farmers in one Sinai settlement, Moshav Sadot, that they would enjoy the same conditions in the new settlements that they have in their present homes.

Moshav Sadot grows winter flowers and vegetables for export. Asher Kalush, a farmer who acts as spokesman for the settlement, said he couldn't estimate how much money has been invested in the settlement's farms.

"We don't do very much figuring in that area these days," said Kalush said. "The money doesn't matter."

The government has also announced plans to build five new towns in the Negev at an estimated cost of nearly $1.5 billion. One will be built opposite the Rafah Salient, three along the border farther south and the fifth in the Arava, along the Jordanian border.

Plans also are being drawn for new highways between the Negev and the Sinai and an international airport at Beersheba. The cost of these projects is estimated at about $500 million.

Bonds Endorsed By Pitt GOP

The Pitt County Republican Party, meeting Monday night, gave its unanimous endorsement to the passage of the city's Public Works bond referendum.

The bond vote will be decided by local citizens in the Nov. 7 general election balloting.

The GOP members also discussed the re-election campaign for Senator Jesse Helms on Nov. 7. The gathering concluded that Helms' major support will come from "grass roots" voters of both political parties.

Mac Howard presided at the Republican gathering.

Thoroughfare Resolution Is Adopted At Ayden Bd. Meet

by REBECCA BUFFALO
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board of Commissioners adopted a resolution Monday to forward the proposed Ayden Thoroughfare plan to the North Carolina Department of Transportation.

Town Clerk Ralph Ford explained the thoroughfare plan to the board members, saying that upon approval of the plan by the DOT, the plan will be ready for feasibility studies.

"If we don't approve this plan, areas will develop, leaving no room for building new roads," Ford stated. "This will create bottleneck situations."

A public hearing on the matter was held last night during the regular session for town input in the matter.

The board held a public hearing on improvements on West Ave., Power St., and W. Hart St. concerning street assessments.

Improvements on West Ave. run from Sixth St. to Mill St. and from N. Lee to N. Pitt St. for W. Hart St. Improvements will also be done on a portion of Power St., according to Ford.

The board adopted a resolution approving the assessments. A public hearing was set for Nov. 13, 7:30 p.m., in the Town Hall concerning the closing of the alley beside the Ayden Christian Church.

Dr. Elliott Dixon asked if the board could add to the resolution so that businesses or tenants of buildings from south of W. Second St. from Lee to Pitt Streets, north of W. Third St. from Lee to Pitt and west of Lee St. from Second to Third Streets could be notified of the board's intent to close the alley and the public hearing by first class mail. The board approved the amendment.

"This is an area where people may feel they need a specific invitation to speak," explained Dr. Dixon.

The board set another public hearing for Nov. 13, 7:30 p.m., in the Town Hall concerning the end of the month.

Loan funds are again available, Cox said, as the new fiscal year is underway.

Laney said that the Central Business District Project Advisory Committee held its annual meeting on Sept. 19 and voted to reelect its present officers to new terms. Re-elected were Bill Taft, chairman; W. I. Wooten, vice chairman; and Marie Cox, secretary-treasurer.

The director said that he brought the committee members up to date on the status of the CBD project and reported that lots at the corner of Fifth and Evans and at Fifth and Green Streets are being dedicated to the city.

The Fifth and Evans Street parcel was dedicated for use as a landscaped parking lot. The tract at the corner of Fifth and Green Streets is also being used by the city for parking and the dedication of the parcel will allow the city to continue its present use of the lot.

The original CBD plan had called for the Fifth and Evans parcel to be developed as a park but an amendment was endorsed changing the intended use to a landscaped parking area.

closing of the dedicated street located in the North Hills subdivision.

Town Manager Don Russell explained to board members a proposed policy concerning those electrical customers in Ayden who do not pay their electricity bills on time.

According to Russell, the customer will be given a copy of the policy when he enters into agreement for services. A second copy will be mailed to him after a second notice is sent on payment of rates.

A notice will also be printed on the monthly utility bills. However, according to Town Clerk Ford, the bills have not been printed as of yet because the paper company is on strike.

The board adopted the new policy to become effective when the new light bills arrive, possibly next month, according to Ford.

The board voted that Ralph Ford be permanently authorized to sign documents in the absence of Town Manager

Says Monitor Can Be Raised

HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) — The Civil War ironclad Monitor, sunk 116 years ago off Cape Hatteras, might be able to be raised intact, a New York salvage expert's study says.

The Monitor, the first ironclad warship, sank during a storm. It was discovered in 1973 beneath 220 feet of water by scientists from Duke University, and there has been considerable debate since over whether the vessel could be raised.

The Monitor Research and Recovery Foundation, a private group, has insisted that recovery is possible and should be carried out quickly, before the shifting seabed and tides push the ship out of reach.

But the underwater archeology branch of the state Division of Archives and History tentatively said earlier this year that the ship should be left where it is for the time being.

The new study by D'Angelo Schoenewald Associates of Queens, N.Y. tends to support the foundation's position.

"The indications from the study are that it will be possible to recover the ship, if, in fact, that is a desirable and economical feasible objective," said Gordon Watts, head of the underwater archeology branch.

The branch commissioned the study to help answer questions about recovery. The study used the Monitor's original engineering specifications, estimates of the effects of 116 years of immersion in salt water and information gleaned from recent examinations of the wreck site.

N.C. HELD BACK?

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina's heavy dependence on agriculture and on traditionally low-wage industries is holding the state's economy back in spite of new, higher-paying jobs, Gov. Jim Hunt said Monday.

Russell. Ford is also authorized to sign checks with the Mayor during Russell's absence.

The board approved a MICA work program for solid waste study, as authorized by the Mid East Commission. According to Russell, the board will hopefully have monthly reports on the progress from MICA.

Extension was granted by the Town Commissioners to allow members of the Ayden Recreation Commission to remain on the roll until January 1979 or until the new recreation policy is adopted so that members may complete work.

Town Manager Russell gave a report on a meeting with Rodney Schwink of the North Carolina Department of Forest Resources concerning proposed work on tree trimming in Ayden.

According to Russell, the department will give advice at no cost to town on general observations of trees. Schwink noted that perhaps the town might set up a Tree Board con-

Farber Ordered To Jail

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — New York Times reporter Myron A. Farber was ordered today to return to jail Thursday unless he surrenders his files in a murder case.

Superior Court Judge Theodore W. Trautwein said Farber, who is Jewish, would be given the extra time so that he could observe Yom Kippur, a holiday in the Jewish religion.

"I want this man to be able to observe his High Holy Day," Trautwein said. "Maybe there will be a change of mind Thursday morning. Think about it, Mr. Farber."

Trautwein asked Farber if he still insisted on withholding files subpoenaed by attorneys for Dr. Mario Jascavich, who is accused of three counts of murder in the deaths of patients at Riverdell Hospital in Oradell, N.J.

"Your honor, I respectfully decline to comply with that order in accordance with my rights under the Constitution and the New York and New Jersey shield laws," Farber said.

An attorney for The Times had said Monday he "would not be surprised" if Farber continued to withhold the files.

Watts said the study is not conclusive and more research is needed. Scientists plan to meet later this month at the Smithsonian Institute to discuss a proposed master plan for Monitor research that Watts' group prepared.

Police Chief Tommy Burney reported to the board concerning the state statute on public drunkenness, which became effective Oct. 1.

According to Burney, public drunkenness is no longer a criminal offense. If a person is not impeding traffic or engaged in disorderly conduct, he cannot be arrested on public drunk charges.

Police officers will also become civilly liable when apprehending a drunken person, according to Burney. He noted that drunken driving is still a criminal offense.

Dr. Elliott Dixon discussed with the Board a tentative plan for a parking lot to be located behind his office. He stated that a long term lease would have to be secured from Mildred Worthington, owner of the property.

Board members discussed the parking problem near the downtown area and decided to look further into the matter.

The board approved $932.07 in tax additions and released $468.73 in tax money.

Jerry Cox, Director of the Ayden Housing Authority, reported on low bids accepted by the Authority for fire and liability insurance.

volve the building of a new deep well and 500,000 gallon overhead water storage tank. Total cost of the project will be approximately $638,735, but a Clean Water Grant will pay $138,735, reducing the referendum to $500,000.

The second referendum, set for $288,180 will provide sewer lines to the Pines area, contingent upon its annexation. A Clean Water Grant for $66,158 will reduce the bond to $225,000.

Mayor Persinger explained that if the Pines is annexed as a subdivision, all services, including sewer, must be provided for by the Town of Ayden.

Ayden citizen Jimmy Williamson asked the Board whether Ayden citizens could "pay as we go" for the sewer additions.

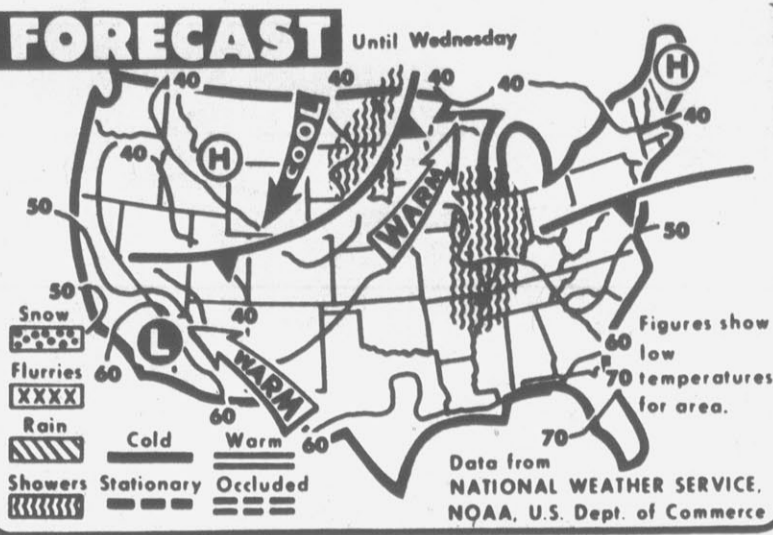

"The classic example is the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewer District," said Williamson. "The Pines is not going to generate enough taxes to pay for itself."

The third bond referendum involves electrical system improvements, broken down into $1,310,000 for construction of a new substation, transmission line and various distribution lines. A figure of $225,000 is set for such items as costs and engineering fees, land and right of way, and other needs to build the substation and set transmission line.

The Board noted that the bonds will be retired through electric, water and sewer rates, and not through property tax increases.

The board adopted a notice of intention to be published Oct. 12 concerning the proposed bond referendums and approved a calendar for public hearings and publications concerning the issues.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Seasonably mild temperatures are expected until Wednesday morning for most of the nation. Showers are expected from the upper Mississippi Valley to the Great Lakes and for the eastern Dakotas and Minnesota. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press

A chill lingered in the air over North Carolina this morning in the wake of a large high pressure system that moved out of Canada and across the eastern United States during the weekend.

The system currently is drifting off the coast leaving behind increasing cloudiness and upper level disturbances approaching from Alabama and Florida.

These upper level systems should produce mostly high thin cloudiness in western and central sections, and thicker clouds over southeast coastal sections.

Some light showers may develop in the mountains late Wednesday from another weather system approaching from the west.

Temperatures this morning again were chilly, but not as cold as Monday's lows. Lows this morning generally were in the 40s, with Cape Hatteras setting a record low for the date of 44, breaking the old mark of 49 degrees.

High temperatures Monday averaged about 10 degrees cooler than normal for this time of year, ranging from 53 at Boone to 70 at Wilmington and New Bern.

Bit Lawn Mower

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — He lost four teeth and suffered a nine-inch gash on the chin, but Charlie didn't shed a tear.

It happened when Charlie tried to take a bite out of a lawn mower—not a usual thing for even an alligator like Charlie to do.

Charlie, the eight-foot alligator, is the unofficial mascot of the U.S. Army Depot in North Charleston. He lives in a pond next to the main gate.

"He stopped that four-horsepower mower cold," said James O. Drawdy, a depot employee. "Of course, the guy running that thing was way around the corner by then — gone."

Charlie came to the depot about 26 years ago with a companion alligator that he has since eaten.

A fence was put up around Charlie's pond after a flood washed him out on Remount Road. Depot employees had to fetch him back with a crane.

But Charlie seems to find life in the depot pond comfortable enough as long as he gets his daily food ration. His chow is provided by employees and is not government issue. Years ago the Army brass concluded the Army could feed horses, mules and dogs, but there's nothing in the regulations about alligators.

Haunt Thrift Shops For Halloween Clothing

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor
Donna Lawson is full of ideas for making Halloween clothing and other apparel for children for practically nothing. She haunts thrift shops for materials ranging from cast-off garments and accessories to junk jewelry.

costumes: Hobo Hal and Spanish Rose, a girl's outfit with a fan and a lace mantilla. Ms. Lawson was a dress design major at college. She has spent much of her career as a magazine fashion editor and fashion consultant. The Spanish Rose costume pictured in her book was cut down from a red taffeta cocktail dress bought at a thrift shop. The mantilla and rose were also thrift shop purchases, but could also be bought cheaply at variety stores, she writes. The hobo costume was made from a jacket and pants bought at a school clothing exchange. But you need not stop there, Ms. Lawson said in an interview. "Never think of anything as unusable. If I had an old black sweater, I'd probably make a spider costume to wear with black leotards." Here's how: —For legs, dye sleeves from other cast-off sweaters black or use pantyhose legs dyed black. Stuff them with cotton batting or more worn-out pantyhose and stitch them to the sides of the sweater.

—For antennae, dye pipe stem cleaners with a felt-tip black marker and either fasten them to the child's hair with bobby pins or attach them to a black stocking cap. —Make the spider costume a black widow by stitching or painting a big red spot on the stomach of the sweater or leotards.

For a boy's pirate costume: —Paint a skull and crossbones on a black T-shirt, tie a bandana on the head with the knot at one side, make striped pants, add a wide red sash at the waist and fasten an earring to one ear. "You can get wonderful junk jewelry at thrift shops — beads, bangles and earrings to use for gypsy and pirate costumes," she said.

Ms. Lawson doesn't restrict her clothes recycling to children. Her own favorite garments currently include a Norwegian sweater she bought for $1 at a Salvation Army store and a gray and gold linen damask kimono she made from an inherited tablecloth.

"So much of the garment is already made for you," she said of recycling clothing. "The zippers are there and buttons." She usually manages to make garments over without moving fasteners or closures. In shopping for materials, "you don't want to get anything that smells or is badly stained," she said — although her book does contain a page of tips on stain removal.

People buy furniture secondhand, so why not clothes? she asked. Besides the fun of the hunt, she said, there's the satisfaction of getting something for almost nothing and "very often getting things that are not available anymore. Lace now isn't as good (as the old kind.)"

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

At 54, Kylene Barker of Virginia has become the shortest Miss America since 1926.

I can't tell you all the ramifications yet, but for someone who walks under coffee tables, this has to be the most exciting news since the secret sauce stains came out of my upholstery.

Hopefully, it will mean the end of discrimination for women 55 or under. The long-legged beauties who can braid their legs and still have them touch the floor are out of style. We've lived in a tall world too long. Maybe some of it will change.

Are you listening, Ann Landers? There may be a day when we don't have to go on an elevator and be sick with worry about what we'll do if we have to push the button for the 14th floor.

Rejoice, Rona (Barrett)! This could mean a breakthrough in ready-made clothes where we don't have to chop 14 inches of material off every dress, skirt or coat we buy. (Which if sewn together would be enough to put a band-aid on the world.)

Think about it, Bette Midler. We can get a drink of water without a reach 'n seat, and hold onto straps on the bus without looking like we're being strung up for horse stealing.

And you, Helen Hayes, who has long fought the war of short people. Imagine being able to climb into the driver's seat of a car and not have to dig your heels into the floor and scoot your way to the steering wheel.

Tracy Austin, can you appreciate what it will be not to have to jog alongside a companion who is "walking or skipping" in order to keep up? Imagine, Bonnie Franklin, no more treading water in the wading pool, or dancing and getting your hair caught in a belt buckle.

Ah, Nancy Walker, can you imagine driving through a drive-in bank and not having to swing on the car door to the box with your deposit slip?

Think about it, Sally Struthers. Pay phones you can reach. Shoes that don't give you a nosebleed. It's a new day, gang. Let's stand up and hear it out there for short. I said stand up. Oh, you are standing...

The Pumpkin: All-American Taste Treat

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer
The golden pumpkin evokes thoughts of a rural America going back to Indian days. For many of us it conjures up memories of a childhood Halloween brightened by grinning jack-o'-lanterns, of family gatherings, especially at Thanksgiving with the meal topped off by a creamy, orange-hued pie.

Actually, this famous member of the squash family has a far older history than that. Pumpkins were grown in the highlands of Mexico at least 9,000 years ago. And long before the settlers arrived in North America, pumpkins adorned the fields each fall. Most Indian tribes, from the Zunis of the Southeast to the Wampanoags of New England, planted pumpkins in their fields and made them an integral part of their daily fare.

Later, when the English settlers came, pumpkins helped stave off famine for the colonists of Jamestown and Plymouth. The English noted that nothing growing in Europe in those days could equal them for taste and quality. True, some colonists, after a daily diet of pumpkins, began to complain, but as one of their colleagues, Edward Johnson, said, "Let no man make jest of pumpkin, a fruit which the Lord fed his people with till corn and cattle increased."

The monotony was eased somewhat when friendly Indians, who knew their pumpkins, taught the colonists how to bake, boil and fry them, and how to stew pumpkin chunks with beans, peas and corn. A palatable bread could be made with pumpkin and corn meal. It is to the settlers themselves that the credit belongs for creating pumpkin pie, but in the early days without flour the crusts were pumpkin shells.

The housewives sliced off the top of the pumpkin, scooped out seeds and fibers, filled the cavity with milk, spices and honey. They baked the pumpkin over hot ashes in the days before brick ovens. Then the family sat around the pumpkin and ate from the shell with spoons.

This year for a change, why not celebrate Halloween with a fancy dessert made from pumpkin, like a soufflé. Here's a recipe.

1 cup canned or thick, mashed cooked fresh pumpkin ½ teaspoon ground nutmeg ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar

3 egg whites ¼ teaspoon salt
Combine pumpkin with nutmeg, lemon rind and sugar and mix well. Beat egg whites till stiff, add salt and fold into pumpkin mixture. Fill greased, 1-quart baking dish or individual molds two-thirds full and set in pan of hot water. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven about 40 minutes for large mold, 25 to 30 minutes for individual molds. Serves 4-6 people.

Paintings Are Letter-Perfect

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Horace Clark's paintings speak louder than words. In fact, they are words: names, phrases, even sentences, created as part of the paintings themselves and invisible to the unaware eye.

Now professor emeritus of Syracuse University's College of Visual and Performing Arts, the 67-year-old artist says he has never been more active as a painter than since he retired eight years ago.

Since then, he has created more than 70 paintings that use as their formal structure large intertwined words, often names of friends, but often expressing simply "love" or "black and white."

"I am not painting puzzles," he says. "What intrigues me is the esthetic value of the form of letters in and of themselves. That the forms also 'speak' — not only through color, line and mass, but as literal symbols as well — is simply an added dimension."

His paintings are large; three or four easily fill one wall of his studio, a bright, white room lined on one side with shelves of tools and a potter's wheel, garden supplies and paints; overhead are a skylight and hanging neon lights.

Everything in the studio that he shares with his wife, sculptor and artist Mary Anderson Clark, is neatly ordered, as are Clark's paintings themselves.

Clark enjoys challenging guests to decipher his word paintings, delighting in the difficulties some experience in tracing out the large, cleverly camouflaged words as the letters emerge from the flowing abstract form.

"My wife loved a painting I had hanging at the Everson Museum here in Syracuse, but it was sold. This was the second or third time that a painting she wanted had been sold, so I decided to do one for her with her name," he said, pointing to a canvas spelling "Mary." "She didn't see me doing it and it was a great surprise."

That was in 1969, and that first name painting led to the next, and Clark felt he had developed a new approach.

"I went ahead for several years with these word-pictures. They gave me new elements to work with — not still lifes or landscapes, but letters," he says.

His later works turned from all-capital letters to all lower case, which, he felt, allowed him greater freedom.

Of an especially complex painting of intense hues Clark says, "It's a sentence of 71 or so letters," and he traces each word: "While timorous knowledge stands considering, audacious ignorance hath done the deed."

"It is at least 200 years old," he says. "This is the first painting I ever took from a book, and with all those letters it was a great challenge. I decided to do it like a ransom note, with separate cut-out letters. I started it as a collage, using letters from magazines and newspapers, and later I did the painting."

Clark is often commissioned to do name paintings. "Some people want them to be legible, some do not," he says. "I sent a painting to friends with their names written in ordinary script on the back. After they received it, I asked them if they had recognized their names, and they said they had seen the writing on the back. Well, I told them, the same thing is on the front! I want people to appreciate the name paintings as design, rather than for the words themselves."

Another friend received a painting with the word "night" and hung it over his bed. "After some time, he asked me to do a small 'good' to hang over it," Clark recalls with a smile.

The artist usually works from sketches, then goes directly to the canvas, using tape to form the outlines for his letters. He has been using acrylics for the past 20 years, although in some of his most recent work he has returned to oils.

Clark was born in Peoria, Ill., and studied at Duke University, Designers Art School in Boston, the Art Institute of Chicago, where he met his wife, and the University of Arizona, where he received his bachelor of fine arts degree. His paintings have been shown all over the country and his works are in many museums and collections.

No Middleman In Some States

NEW YORK (UPI) — Twenty-two states and Puerto Rico, helped by federal grants, are currently exploring alternate ways to move fresh produce directly from farmer to consumer. These programs and private efforts have already led to the establishment of many open-air markets, roadside stands, pick-your-own farms and food co-ops throughout the United States, says Focus on the Food Markets, a newsletter from the Cornell University Cooperative Extension Service.

Pictures Cause Mate Mutiny

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am Wife No. 2. My husband's previous marriage ended in divorce seven years ago. (They had three children.)

My husband's ex-in-laws recently invited him (and me) to their 50th wedding anniversary party. He accepted even though he has not been part of their family for seven years.

Of course, his ex-wife and their children were at this party. When Wife No. 1 asked my husband if he would mind posing for some "family" pictures with her, their children and the grandparents, my husband agreed willingly, as though they were still one big happy family!

I think I did well to attend this party without having to sit on the sidelines while my husband posed for "family photographs" of a family he is no longer a member of.

Was I, Wife No. 2, out of line to object to the picture taking bit under the circumstances?

WIFE NO. 2

DEAR WIFE NO. 2: Yes. Even though your husband is no longer married to the mother of his children, perhaps the golden wedding couple (and conceivably your husband's children) would treasure a picture of the three generations (of which you are not a part).

DEAR ABBY: I have many comments in mind when I read various letters in your column, but I must write about the newly coined word, "clergyman" in lieu of "clergymen," — in order to avoid offending women.

I think the funniest feminist term I ever saw was in a college newspaper that referred to a freshman as "freshperson."

MARION F. IN PHILLY

DEAR MARION: Thanks for another for my collection. I still think replacing "manhole" with "personhole" takes the prize.

DEAR ABBY: Never in my life have I been so miserable. I am writing this as I sit in a hospital corridor where I have been for six hours, waiting, waiting, waiting until a 12-year-old boy comes out of surgery.

Last night I was driving my car when I suddenly struck something. It was this boy on a bicycle. He was directly in front of me without a light anywhere on his bicycle. He was wearing a dark shirt and dark trousers. I had no idea that he was there until I hit him. I wasn't going fast, but this poor kid was badly injured, and I was told that his chances for survival were slim. And if he does live, what his mental condition will be is anybody's guess.

You can't help me — or this boy — but maybe if you print this, parents will see it and make sure their kids have the proper lights on their bikes so that accidents like this can be avoided.

Thanks, Abby.

Social Security: Big Business

Pitt County residents are receiving social security benefits at the rate of $2,039.612 per month, as of the first of this year.

Mary Cain, social security manager, reported that 12,229 beneficiaries live in Pitt County. Of these, 5,407 are retired workers and 1,256 are disabled. Wives and husbands of retired and disabled workers receiving benefits number 1,141. Widows, widowers and dependent parents of deceased workers categories include 1,931. Some 2,564 children receive benefits.

It clearly adds up to big business for social security in Pitt County. The amount being paid out monthly is as large as any major industry which could come to our county. While some of the checks go to people who could afford to live without the extra income, most of the social security payments are sorely needed by the recipients to meet basic living costs.

Critics, including this newspaper, find much to say about the social security system. The criticism, however, is aimed at making the system better and saving it from bankruptcy. There are few today who would advocate totally abolishing the social security program.

Reminds Need For Constant Security

It was a wild and impossible plot — the one to steal the nuclear submarine USS Trepang.

The plot happened, however, and who knows how far it might have gone if an FBI undercover agent hadn't stumbled on to it?

The Navy says it would have been impossible for the planned 12-man crew to steal the vessel and take it to sea.

We hope that's correct, but it shows the need for constant security around the nation's defense equipment.

Can One Judge Effort?

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — North Carolina's law covering repayment by a criminal to his victim is now one year old.

Is it a success, or a failure?

Reaching a conclusion on that demonstrates the difficulty which the public faces in attempting to measure a governmental effort.

There are, invariably, two or three sets of figures kept within the bureaucracies: one for internal use by the agency so the people who work there can know to some degree what is going on; another for convincing superiors up to and including legislators that things are working well and the budget ought to be increased or expanded; and often another to answer public inquiry.

"The program is popular with the judges, the public and participating inmates. North Carolina appears to lead the country as the only state with a statewide Restitution Program and comprehensive law or incarcerated offenders, demonstrating how a simple, practical concept can calve lives, save dollars and impact on the state's continuing battle against crime," a recent press release from the Department of Correction stated.

Popular

The idea of having the criminal pay his victim for losses suffered, hurt inflicted, or damage done is a popular one with citizens and lawmakers.

The popular conception is that the people hurt will get the money. Do they? The law says funds can go to individuals, firms, corporations, or government agencies. Usually, local court clerks collect and distribute the money.

Also, money collected from inmates on work release is earmarked for departmental expenses, work expenses, and support of dependents in that particular order.

In the first year, according to Department of Correction figures, 474 inmates have been committed to the restitution program; 155 have participated on work release and have been making restitution payments. So far, 46 have completed their court-imposed obligations.

Total money paid by criminals for restitution: $36,000. Did victims get that money?

BILL NOBLITT

The figures don't show an answer to that critical question. Referring to the elements of the law outlined above on who gets the money and in what order: police departments have been paid back money spent to buy drugs from suspects (governmental agency); defense lawyers have gotten their fees (individuals); court costs and fines are given priority.

Then the inmate pays for his room and board at the prison unit, pays for transportation to and from work, and pays some family support.

That leaves precious little for actual victims, but since the records are scattered throughout the state in 100 court clerks' offices, no definite figures are available.

Money

Well, if the victims aren't benefitting, is the public at least gaining something? The program has collected some $36,000 regardless of how it was distributed.

There is a Restitution Program director and six counselors at work under a federal grant totalling $190,000 for salaries, fringes, supplies and equipment, transportation, etc. The grant expires in 1979 and the state will be expected to pick up the tab. Either way, the taxpayer is funding the program which at even casual glance is spending some six dollars for each dollar collected and distributed.

In proven bureaucratic tradition, as the restitution program grows and more inmates are added to the list, the directors and counselors must have more help and restitution will eventually become an entrenched agency of government.

How much will the victims of crime get out of it?

Airport 'Mix' Control

Some good may yet emerge from last month's tragedy at San Diego. The midair collision that left 150 dead may compel a sober re-examination of the "mix" at major airports, and it probably will accelerate technology to prevent a recurrence.

At the moment, the best advice is to keep San Diego in perspective. Statistically speaking, it is still 33 times safer to fly in a scheduled airliner than it is to ride into town in a taxi. The major carriers will haul 280 million passengers this year, and all but a tiny fraction of them will land with nothing more serious than an occasional hiccup.

It is a good time, also, for keeping "general aviation" in perspective. The term identifies the 178,304 aircraft now registered with the Federal Aviation Administration as privately or corporately owned. Of these, about 12,000 are pure jets or prop jets. The number of privately owned aircraft increases by 8 to 10 percent a year, and many of these planes are superbly equipped with safety and communications equipment.

The planes in general aviation have every right to fly. Emotional demands to ban them altogether from every airport used by a commercial carrier cannot be sustained. But just as trucks are banned from Washington's beautiful George Washington Parkway, it is altogether reasonable to impose sensible restrictions upon the private aircraft owners. The safety of those 280 million passengers has to come ahead of the convenience of the private pilots. On that point there can be no doubt whatever.

It is the "mix" that matters. Even at so busy an airport as Washington National, controlled private planes can be fed into the pattern of commercial takeoffs and landings without great risk. The danger arises when the 144,000 single-engine planes, often flying without ground control, flutter into the airspace of the giant airliners.

Near misses are constantly reported. The FAA acknowledged 296 mistakes last year that almost resulted in collisions. Another 160 were reported through June of this year. As both private and commercial traffic, increases the risks are bound to mount also.

Congress and the FAA can take a number of steps to make flying safer for everyone.

First off, at a number of major airports — and San Diego's Lindbergh Field tops the list — much tighter restrictions must be imposed upon training flights and upon private aviation generally. It is sheer lunacy, as last month's fatal collision demonstrated, to let students practice instrument touch-and-goes at a time when scheduled carriers are using an airport.

Second, tax funds will have to be appropriated to develop reliever airports and to beef up computer technology at major fields. One of the problems is that the number of fields accessible to private aircraft is declining. U.S. News reports that many small airports are being sold to land developers. Over the past 30 years, Los Angeles County has lost 37 of the 55 fields that once served general aviation. We are talking about a lot of money to buy land, to build runways, and to manage operations, but we are also talking in terms of life or death.

Third, it is imperative that FAA redouble its efforts to get improved technology into operation. Collision avoidance systems, operating electronically according to split-second decisions fed through computers, can be developed and installed. Engineers already know how to construct an automatic traffic resolution system coupled to sophisticated ground radar. What is needed is leadership — leadership and money.

The San Diego collision never should have happened. It is immaterial whether the student pilot and his instructor were at fault, or

Crane Rating 'Flaw'

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Could the American Conservative Union think its own chairman, Rep. Philip Crane, is less than perfect?

Apparently so. The ACU recently looked at the voting records of members of Congress. It found that on 20 key votes during the first six months of the session, five House members voted correctly 100 percent of the time. Crane wasn't one of them.

It was as if an occult hand had writ "shame" across Crane's dream of supplanting Ronald Reagan as leader of the conservative wing of the Republican Party.

The Illinois congressman jumped ahead of Reagan and everybody else last August by declaring his candidacy for the 1980 presidential nomination.

"I don't mind getting a 96," said Crane with the smile of man who's just taken a knife

THE INSIDE REPORT

The Covert Collaboration

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The Republican Senate staffer was fired for supposedly offending ex-Sen. Mike Mansfield; U.S. Ambassador to Japan, in fact made the mistake of disrupting cozy arrangements within the congressional bureaucracy that approach political incest.

Just why Dr. Michael Pillsbury was sacked from the minority (Republican) staff of the Senate Budget Committee is shrouded in contradictions, denials and even neo-McCarthyism. But Pillsbury might still be on the job had he not run afoul of hand-holding between staffers of the two parties.

While minority staffers in Congress be multiplied dramatically, they are all too often collaborators with their majority brethren rather than adversaries. Nowhere is this more true than on the Senate Budget Committee where the Democratic chairman, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, and the senior Republican, Sen. Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma, work as one.

To defense-oriented senators of both parties, the Muskie-Bellmon entente results in restrictions on defense ending in the name of economy without benefit of Republican opposition. It surprised nobody that David Shilling, the minority staff member of the Budget Committee supposedly representing Republican defense views, this year received a Carter administration political appointment in the Pentagon.

His successor was Mike Pillsbury, a Chinese linguist and Far Eastern specialist who most recently was a research fellow at Harvard. After Shilling endorsed him, Pillsbury was picked by Bellmon's minority staff director, ex-Kansas City stockbroker and investment banker Robert Boyd. A partisan Republican (unlike his predecessor), Pillsbury immediately raised hackles by cooperating with defense-oriented Republicans, led by Sen. John Tower of Texas, on the Armed Services Committee.

How long Pillsbury would have lasted with such behavior is debatable, but his fate was sealed when he went on a previously planned Far Eastern trip a few weeks after starting his new job. His conversations with Japanese officials, with a U.S. embassy escort sitting in, aroused the ire of Ambassador Mansfield, the longtime Senate majority leader.

Mansfield wrote a "Dear Ed" letter to old friend Muskie which was cabled to the State Department with a "confidential" security classification. The ambassador criticized Pillsbury's "free-wheeling approach" in Japan, accused him of "A strong pro-PRC (Communist China), anti-Soviet bias" and bridled at alleged statements by Pillsbury that Mansfield was out of touch with Congress. Nowhere in the three-page, single-spaced letter did he ask that Pillsbury be sacked.

Nevertheless, Pillsbury was ordered home immediately from South Korea and was fired by Boyd on arriving in Washington. In probing the reasons, the story became murky, but filled with overtones of covert bipartisan collaboration.

Mansfield's cable to Muskie was hand delivered

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

"Why is it," asked one Pitt County School Board member last Tuesday, "that no one ever gives us trouble but Grifton?"

I would like to answer the question, since it was aimed in my direction.

Because, Sir, the majority of people in Grifton have been awakened in the last two years to some very disheartening facts. Although you deal with teaching our children that we live in a democratic society of, by and for the people, in actuality that is a farce. In no way is our school system "of" or "by." "For?" Yes, if that means decisions are made on high and filtered downward. But that would be a benevolent dictatorship. Perhaps other school districts have not yet had reason to examine how their system works, or perhaps they have taken the "you-can't-fight-city-hall" attitude. It may have been accidental, but when they named our school teams "Bulldogs," it was prophetic. Until we are fairly represented in matters pertaining to the schooling of our children, we intend to hang in there just like the tenacious bulldog.

40 Years Ago Today

October 10, 1938

What was believed to have been a petty thief or thieves entered both the Sheppard Memorial and high school libraries some time Saturday night and took a small amount of cash from each place.

The same persons were believed to be responsible for both robberies.

About $8 was taken from the Sheppard Memorial Library, which was entered by removing a screen window.

It was estimated that $2 was taken from the high school library. Offices of the building also were entered and an ax used in an attempt to break open the vault. The intruders also rifled desk drawers in classrooms.

The high school was also entered by a window.

More Banking Services Ahead

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The maze of services confronting would-be bank depositors becomes even more tortuous next month with the addition of a new type of account allowing customers to move money automatically from savings to checking.

Commercial banks have been authorized to offer the transfer accounts starting Nov. 1 and some institutions are advertising them already.

The idea behind the new accounts is simple: Why not let people leave money in savings deposits, earning interest, until they actually need it? The execution is less simple: There are complicated strings attached and the service may not be worthwhile for the individual unless a hefty balance is involved. Individual banks are likely to set different fees and regulations, just as they do for existing types of accounts. The Federal Reserve Board considered imposing a minimum 50-cent fee for every transfer, but decided against the idea. In general, the transfer accounts will work like this:

Open two accounts — one savings, one checking — in a single bank. Decide how big a balance you want to keep in your checking account and let the bank know. When a check that would cause the balance to dip below the minimum reaches the bank, money will be transferred automatically from your savings account to cover the difference.

Compare costs carefully before opening a transfer account. Will you earn enough money in additional interest to offset charges for the transfer service? Is there some other combination of accounts that would cost less? Could you get the equivalent of an interest-bearing checking account at some facility other than a commercial bank? Do you want to tie up savings in a commercial bank when you could be earning more money elsewhere?

One of the first banks to announce the transfer accounts was Chemical Bank of New York. Under the Chemical plan, holders of transfer accounts will be required to maintain a minimum, combined balance of $500 in a checking account and in a "day-of-deposit, day-of-withdrawal," 5 percent savings account. If the combined balance dips below $500, the customer earns no interest. There will be a $3 monthly charge for the service, plus a fee of 25 cents for every day a transfer is made.

Citibank, the nation's second largest commercial bank, is announcing a similar service. It will charge a $5 monthly fee on accounts with balances of less than $1,000. As the balance increases, the fee will decrease and there will be no charge at all if the customer keeps over $5,000 in the accounts.

NOTE: Transfer accounts should not be confused with so-called overdraft accounts which let you write checks greater than your balance. When you write an overdraft, you are actually borrowing money from the bank and will have to repay it, with interest. With a transfer account, you are using your own money.

Strength For Today

A LIGHT AHEAD

As we drive a car at night, all we see is only the stretch of road immediately ahead of us. All we have to guide us is the little area of light ahead of the car.

In every life there are ideals towering like mountains in the distance. But these peaks are few in number. Life consists for the most part in taking the next step, and that is about all we can see clearly. Experience (the road we have traveled before) leads in a certain direction. We have maps

(the counsel of loved ones, our philosophy of life, the Word of God) to guide us. But the future is hidden from every living soul, and that is a merciful provision indeed.

Our light on the road ahead of us may be extended a bit by education, by increased experience, or by the deepening of our spiritual life. But as long as we have faith, it will always be there, and we can go our way with calmness and assurance.

Agrees Perform Prison Wedding

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A black minister once associated with Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. says he will perform the prison marriage ceremony of James Earl Ray, convicted assassin of the civil rights leader.

The Rev. James Lawson said Monday that the marriage of Ray to Anna Sandhu, a 32-year-old freelance artist, would take place either Thursday or Friday at the Brushy Mountain Penitentiary in Tennessee, where Ray is serving a 99-year term.

"The warden has approved. The day will be either Thursday or Friday," said Lawson, pastor of Holman United Methodist Church in Los Angeles. "Her family will be there but there will be no press."

Lawson said he and other black leaders have come to have doubts about whether Ray was King's assassin.

"But clearly, even if James Earl Ray were the killer beyond the shadow of a doubt and Dr. King could return to perform the marriage, he would do it," the minister said. "Anyone who couldn't understand that didn't favor of sending it back to committee. Supporters of loan guarantees — "bailouts" in the rhetoric of opponents — voted against sending the bill back to committee. They were joined by hard-line opponents of any aid to the city.

Among the hard-liners joining pro-aid congressmen on the issue were Crane, Robert Bauman, R-Md., and John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, all conservative Republicans accustomed to 100 percent ratings from ACU.

Crane expects ACU to reverse itself when it issues its ratings for the entire year.

"They'll almost have to go back and admit their mistake," he said. "After seeing all the good guys voting for the bailout, they should have called and checked."

But Fran Griffin, press aide for the ACU, said the chairman shouldn't complain about his 96.

"I think that Crane should be thrilled that he got a 96," she said. "It showed the ratings aren't fixed."

Credit for the latest congressional blow against the English language goes to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., who invented the word "berations."

After listening to Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd berate Republicans for delaying Senate action on pending bills, Goldwater suggested that "we might get a lot more done with sweetness than with the constant berations of our side."

before he showed the cable to Muskie because the senator might act in "an unrehearsed manner" — a reference to Muskie's fabled temper.

Boyd and McAvoy vigorously deny that, and State Department officials insist Mansfield did not cause Pillsbury's fall. Furthermore, Boyd told us there was nothing in his brief tenure on the committee staff to cause his dismissal.

What, then, caused the fuss? Boyd evoked Kafkaesque or McCarthyite overtones by saying he received (after Pillsbury left for the Orient) unspecified derogatory information about Pillsbury's past that revealed "a pattern of behavior that was unacceptable" and "poor interpersonal relations." Just what was wrong he would not say but suggested we ask about Pillsbury's record at the Rand Corp.

Checking with colleagues both in and out of Rand, this picture emerges: Pillsbury is brilliant, innovative but sometimes abrasive. His record was spotless before arriving at Rand's think tank in Santa Monica, Calif., in 1973. While there, according to one ex-associate, Pillsbury performed "some of the most interesting work on China" but proved "inadvertently threatening to jealous colleagues." In short, "his profile was just a little high."

That same grievous shortcoming in the age of the organization man plagued Dr. Pillsbury on the Budget Committee. Some Republican senators on the committee, who agree with the late Robert Taft's admonition that it is the business of the opposition to oppose, believe that Democrats dictated the dismissal of a Republican aide and are outraged.

Senatorial courtesy to Sen. Bellmon, however, prevents these senators from letting us use their names, just as it prevents their openly attacking the system. For that reason, the system that chewed up an innovative though prickly personality, and muffles the Republican voice of opposition is unlikely to change.

Drugs Taken In Friday Break-In

FARMVILLE — Farmville Police are investigating the larceny of an undisclosed quantity of drugs from Family Center Pharmacy here.

The break-in was discovered Friday by the store owner, Bill Deans, upon his arrival at 7:45 a. m. Officer Ken Godwin, who's leading the investigation, said entrance was gained through a utility room and a heat duct. The tool used to effect the break-in was left behind, he said.

Opening lead: Seven of ♣.

Sometimes your source of tricks is camouflaged. Study the North-South hands and determine how you would play four hearts after West leads a club.

You have bid well to reach a relatively sound contract. Since your two heart rebid virtually marked you with a six-card suit, partner was able to appreciate the added importance of his heart holding, so he went directly to game.

West leads the seven of clubs, and you see that you have two losers in the black suits. If you can avoid losing two diamond tricks, you should be able to get home. It would seem that you can afford to win, cash the ace and king of diamonds and give up a diamond, then ruff a diamond in dummy. However, that line runs two risks, admittedly both slight. One is that either defender might have a singleton diamond; the other is that East will be short in diamonds, forcing you to ruff high in dummy, which will promote a trump trick for the defenders if hearts happen to break 4-0.

However, you can avoid both these pitfalls with a loser-on-loser play. First, to prevent the defenders from shifting the attack to diamonds, you should win the first club, then immediately lead a spade to the ten. Assume East finds the best defense of rising with the ace of spades, cashing the king of clubs, and shifting to a diamond. Win the king of diamonds, cross to the jack of trumps and lead the queen of spades. On this trick you discard a diamond from your hand. West wins the king of spades, but that is the last trick for the defense. You win any return, cross to the king of trumps and discard your remaining low diamond on the jack of spades. Now you draw trumps and claim.

In all, you lose a club trick and two spades, but no diamonds!

Short Stay In Motel Lasted One Year

YEAR-LONG VISITOR — Alan Krauss, who checked into an Indiana Indianapolis motel for a short stay and stayed a year, opens a gift at a going-away party thrown for him by the motel staff. (AP Laserphoto)

By ANNE PERRY
Associated Press Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The maids, bellmen, housekeepers and manager held a party when Alan Krauss checked out of the Marriott Inn's room 524.

It wasn't that they were happy to see him go. Just the opposite. The 45-year-old Krauss had occupied the room so long he had become a permanent fixture.

Krauss, vice president and general manager of Electra Co., an electronics firm, moved here from Los Angeles in October, 1977 and checked into room 524 for a short stay, but the room ended up as his temporary home. He is moving into an apartment a short distance away.

In honor of Krauss' lengthy stay, the motel staff gave him a send-off party Monday, complete with a cake, two mugs from the coffee shop, a "Guest of the Year" plaque with his room key mounted on it and a quilted motel bedspread.

"To our knowledge no one has stayed longer," said Dolores Parker, the motel's resident manager. "He's your typical traveling executive. He's a nice man — we had no complaints about him. He passes the time and staff."

Living in a motel for a year hasn't been unpleasant, Krauss said.

"When you think about checking into a motel for a short stay and being there more than a year, it could be a traumatic experience, but actually it's been delightful," he said. "I have enjoyed the last year more than anyone believes. It's more fun for a bachelor away from home than a lonely apartment would have been. I'll miss the friendly people and the ease of things."

"I almost feel like asking if I can have a continuing 'carry out' package where they come to my apartment, wipe down the tiles and keep the bath spotless, turn down the bed and do all the little niceties I have become used to."

Krauss says his biggest challenge during the year was remembering where he'd parked his car the night before.

"It's not like putting your car in a garage or driveway every night," Ms. Parker said. "He admitted to me several times that he had lost his car in the parking lot."

The cost of a year's stay? About $8,470, says Ms. Parker, not counting meals.

Runaway Girl's Arms Hacked Off By Assailant; Suspect Being Held

SPARKS, Nev. (AP) — A 51-year-old merchant seaman—described by a neighbor as "a peach of a fellow" — was being held today in connection with the rape-mutilation of a young girl who was found staggering naked along a California freeway, her arms hacked off below the elbows.

Sparks police on Monday booked Larry Singleton for investigation on charges of attempted homicide, sexual assault and mayhem — a term whose legal definition includes mutilation of a human body.

Police gave no details of the arrest, except to say that, acting on a tip, they picked up Singleton at the home of a former wife.

The 15-year-old victim, identified only as "Mary," had assisted Modesto, Calif., police from her hospital bed, submitting to hypnosis and working with a police artist to form a sketch of her attacker. She had said the man who chopped off her arms was named Larry.

The girl, a Las Vegas, Nev., runaway, was known as Maria Vargas in Sausalito, Calif., where she lived with her boyfriend in his car. Her real name has not been released because of her age and the nature of the crime.

Investigators say they believe she was attacked after accepting a ride at or near Richmond, Calif., on Sept. 29.

The next day, a couple who had stopped to rest at the side of Interstate 5 west of Modesto, found the girl wandering nude and in shock with her arms hacked off below the elbows. Her assailant had apparently left her for dead.

Doctors said the girl didn't bleed to death because the axblows had effectively "sealed" her truncated blood vessels. Her arms were never found.

Information pieced together from accounts by the girl enabled a police artist to draw a sketch of the attacker. It showed a heavy man in his 50s, with glasses and dark hair streaked with gray.

Of the suspect, Stanislaus County Sheriff Lynn Wood said, "I'll tell you this. Everything fits. One of our leads panned out."

Asked if the sketch was the basis for Singleton's arrest, Wood said, "I would have to say that's true. Our investigation was based on the sketch and subsequently led to the arrest."

When told of the arrest, a male neighbor of Singleton who requested anonymity said: "Oh, my God...Oh, my God...I don't believe it. He's a peach of a fellow."

Other neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lewis, said they didn't know Singleton very well but "he always said hello and was very pleasant."

Sparks police said others in Singleton's neighborhood described him as "a sea captain" who spent about half his time away from the house he had lived in for two years. They said he was away at sea for as long as six months at a time.

Singleton had been married at least twice and had a 15-year-old daughter, police said.

Chain Fighting Rumor Of McDonald's Devil

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — McDonald's officials have begun an effort in Southern cities to squelch rumors that the chain's founder, Ray Kroc, contributes part of the profits of the fast-food chain to devil worshippers.

Spokesman Doug Timberlake said he appeared Monday before the Birmingham (Ala.) Baptist Ministers Association. He said he has made similar presentations in two other Southern cities and is planning to make another appearance to "a few influential people" in Panama City, Fla.

Timberlake said the rumors that Kroc contributes Mc-Donald's profits to the Church of Satan began spreading after Kroc appeared on the Phil Donahue talk show in May 1977. Letters accusing Kroc of being a devil worshipper began arriving at McDonald's headquarters soon after the show was broadcast.

Officials of the television show and Kroc have denied that he made any reference to the devil on the broadcast.

Despite the denials, the rumor has continued to circulate through word-of-mouth and church bulletins, and some customers have begun to boycott the hamburger chain, Timberlake said.

McDonald's considered running a national advertising campaign to squelch the rumor.

But "we decided that a big national effort would bring the thing to the attention of millions of people who would never have heard of it otherwise," Timberlake said. "We're trying to fit the remedy to the severity of the situation."

Timberlake's presentation includes transcripts of the Donahue show and an offer to show a video tape of the program.

Timberlake said the persons he has talked to so far have been satisfied that Kroc is not a devil-worshipper.

Reminisces On 'Villa Vallee' Two Arrested For Possession, Assault

NEW YORK (AP) — Rudy Vallee crooned a few bars and reminisced about the days the Copacabana nightclub was the "Villa Vallee," as the famous nightspot reopened on its 50th anniversary as a showcase for recording artists.

The Copa, run as a discotheque since 1976, "is without a doubt the biggest name in show business," owner John Julian said Monday. "During the '40s, '50s and '60s if you didn't play the Copa you were nowhere."

Vallee, 77, played the Copa in 1929. As the Villa Vallee the nightclub served steak for $2.50 and "had an overflow so big you couldn't get in," he said.

FARMVILLE — Two Farmville men were arrested Sunday morning and charged with assault, damage to personal property, and misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

Officer James Satterthwaite on routine patrol, arrested Frank Moots Jr., 19, of 203 W. Pine Street, Farmville and Ed Hudson, 19, of Highland Trailer Park, Farmville. Both were charged in connection with the alleged assault and breaking of the glasses of Wade Dudley, manager of the Happy Store at the corner of Wilson and Walnut streets here. Each was alleged to have less than an ounce of marijuana in his possession at the time.

Hudson was released on bond in Farmville and Moots was transported to the Pitt County Jail.

Arrested in Greenville the same morning were three persons who reportedly went to provide bail for Moots. Charged with tampering with the Farmville police car, parked near the Pitt County Courthouse, were Hubert Hines, 24; Jerry Merritt, 19, and Marilyn Rogers, 25. The incident reportedly occurred about 6 a.m.

'Pail And Shovel' Party Rolls

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Jim Mallon figures his finger is firmly on the pulse of his 40,000 constituents.

"All the average student cares about is sex and drugs and rock 'n' roll. In that order," says the student body president at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Chairing student senate meetings with a huge plastic gavel or evorting on campus in clown suits, Mallon and his vice president, Leon Varjian, have brought new humor to this campus, a hotbed of anti-war radicalism in the 1960s.

Mallon, 22, a communications arts student, and Varjian, who at 27 is in his 10th year of college, founded the "Pail and Shovel" party last spring.

They proposed converting students funds into pennies and dumping them into a campus fountain, so students could dig in — with pails and shovels.

"Pail and Shovel is dedicated to the four-year-old in all of us," Mallon said in his disheveled student union office, which features a filing cabinet marked "Toys."

Mallon and Varjian began by building a giant campaign "platform" out of Popsicle sticks. Now, they're the dominant figures in student politics — 29 Pail and Shovel candidates won election to the 36-member student senate last week.

"We have two more than a two-thirds majority now and no one can stop us," Mallon gloated.

Stop them from what? Their campaign promises include:

Flooding the football stadium for mock naval battles, stuffing and mounting all deans, converting parking meters into gumball machines and running clocks backward so classes end before they start.

And they are apparently serious about some of their plans.

Last week, the student senate changed the school's name to the University of New Jersey.

"That way kids from Wisconsin can say they graduated from a prestigious Eastern school," Mallon said. "And we should be able to get the New York Times a lot cheaper."

Earlier, Mallon and Varjian helped plan and okayed funds for a wild "toga party," attended by about 12,000. And then there was the marijuana "smoke-in," which drew 5,000 to the state Capitol.

Paul Ginsburg, dean of students, said the rise of Mallon and Varjian means students are seeking a little light-hearted relief from academic and social pressures. "People are just looking for something less serious," he said.

But Mallon and Varjian, paid $150 each monthly from student funds, say students are just less concerned with the world nowadays.

"We're happy that students are apathetic," Mallon said. "If not, we'd be out of office."

Autry Says Feud Just A Game

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The cowboy feud between Gene Autry and Roy Rogers was just a Hollywood game, Autry says in his autobiography, "Back In The Saddle Again."

According to Autry, his old Republic Pictures boss, Herbert J. Yates, was angered when he enlisted in the Army Air Corps after Pearl Harbor.

"By the time you come back, you'll be forgotten," the studio boss said. "And it won't hurt us. No, sir. If we have to, we'll spend a million dollars to promote (Roy) Rogers. And we'll make him bigger than you ever were."

Autry returned from the war to find that Rogers indeed was a big star. But as for their feud:

"That was just a publicity thing. The Republic publicity department thought it would be a good idea... But there was no personal feud whatsoever."

Seniors Back Five Traffic Mishaps Bond Issue Reported Here Monday

The Town and Country Senior Citizens Club voted to endorse the public works bond issue Thursday after hearing talks made by Greenville City Manager Ed Wyatt and Public Works Director Mayo Allen.

Another senior citizens' club will be formed after January to meet every second and fourth Tuesday, according to Mrs. Sarah Ashton, club president. The meeting place location will be announced at a later date.

A business meeting will be held Oct. 19, 11 a.m., with a covered dish dinner at 12 noon.

Members voted to have a Christmas luncheon Dec. 14, with the Roanoke Rapids Senior Citizens Club as guests.

Members also recognized Mrs. Helen Weeden, who is moving to New Jersey.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. M. Maxwell, Mrs. Eva Corbett, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roper and Mrs. Alma Paramore.

Greenville Police reported an estimated $5,975 property damage resulted yesterday from a series of five traffic mishaps investigated here.

Heaviest damage, police said, resulted from a 3:10 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Third and Greene Streets involving cars driven by Melvin Strong and Clifton Reddick, both of Greenville.

Investigators, who charged

Damage was estimated at $1,500 to the Strong car and $1,000 to the Reddick vehicle.

A 3:55 p.m. collision on Tenth Street, 150 feet East of the Heath Street intersection involved cars driven by Rondel Glenn Hawley of 530 Crestline Ave. and Doris Hardee Boyd of Route 3, Greenville.

Investigators, who charged

Hawley with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident, estimated damage at $1,000 to the Hawley car and $400 to the Boyd vehicle.

Cars driven by Kelley Ann Hund of 707 East Fourth St., and Dana Sue Rayner of Clinton collided about 4:40 p.m. on Fifth Street, 25 feet East of the Brownlea Drive intersection, causing an estimated $600 damage to the Hund vehicle and $500 damage to the Rayner car, officers reported.

James Lee Perkins of Bethel was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, according to police, after the truck he was driving collided with a car operated by Eunice Fowler Ambrose of Elizabeth City, about 5:22 p.m. at the intersection of N.C. 11 and N.C. 33.

The fifth mishap, according to police, involved cars driven by Belva Hardee Stocks of Route 1, Winterville and Oliver Franklin Davenport Jr. of Mt. Olive.

Investigators reported the vehicles collided about 11:33 a.m. at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Dickinson Avenue, resulting in an estimated $250 damage to the Stocks car and $150 damage to the Davenport vehicle.

Money-Saving In Asphalt-Use

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state's transportation department lays it on a bit thick, transportation employee E.D. Walker says.

And his bosses agree. The subject is asphalt. Walker's idea is to use less of it on highway interchange ramps, a change that will save the state millions of dollars.

"It's one of the most brilliant ideas I've ever heard," said Gov. Jim Hunt, who gave Walker a check for $1,000

Monday for coming up with the moneysaving idea.

Walker's suggestion will save the state $3 million over the next seven years, officials in the Department of Transportation predict.

Until Walker's suggestion, it was standard practice to pave interchange ramps with 12 to 17 inches of asphalt. But transportation officials discovered that in some instances, that was more than enough for the actual traffic loads on the ramps.

On one ramp in particular, five inches less asphalt will be used for a savings of $60,000.

Walker said the idea "just sort of popped into my head" in July 1977 while he was working on a roadway design project.

The transportation department didn't adopt the plan until last month. "Not everyone thought it was such a good idea at first," Walker said.

The award Hunt gave Walker Monday was given under a state employees program that rewards money-saving suggestions.

Advises Against Cocaine Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Peter Bourne, who resigned as President Carter's chief adviser on drug abuse, says that while cocaine should not be legalized, the government shouldn't fight it.

"I don't think we need a massive law enforcement crackdown," Bourne said. "We can't enforce the (drug) laws that we have on the books now. So that I don't think the interests of the American people would be served by having more stringent laws."

He spoke Monday in an interview taped for the Dick Cavett show to be aired on Public Broadcasting Service stations later this month.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, leveling off after Monday's sharp rally. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had climbed 13.17 points Monday for its biggest gain in more than a month, slipped back 1.73 to 891.46 by noontime today. Gainers held a very slight lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts had found little in the news to explain Monday's upsurge. For a while, it seemed to generate its own momentum, but today it apparently ran into some skepticism. President Carter was scheduled to hold a press conference at the close of the market this afternoon. And brokers noted that traders often tend to move cautiously in advance of such pending matters. Citicorp topped the active list, unchanged at 27 1/2. Most other issues showed only modest price changes.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dipped .05 to 58.85. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .06 at 171.55.

The trading pace picked up as many traders returned from a Columbus Day holiday. Volume on the Big Board totaled 11.17 million shares at noontime, up from 7.76 million at the same point Monday.

Tug Strike Is Resolved
NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Tugboat crewmen in Hampton Roads are back at work after a one-week strike in which they gained a contract calling for a pay increase of about 26 percent but failed to win their demand for a shorter work week.

About 100 members of the Seafarers' International Union returned to their jobs Sunday night after voting by a 2-to-1 margin earlier to accept a new three-year contract with the Curtis Bay Towing Co. and McAllister Bros. Inc., the area's two major tugboat firms.

Sixteen tugs and oil barges were idled during the week, but the walkout failed to stop shipping in Hampton Roads. Many vessels docked themselves without tugs during a spell of good weather.

But port officials said a few ships were rerouted to other ports or ramined in Hampton Roads until the end of the strike.

The new contract "is about the same as the old one, except for pay increases and improved fringe benefits," said Tarleton A. Schuyler, vice president of Curtis Bay Towing.

Diggs Planning To Step Aside
DETROIT (AP) — U.S. Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., convicted of defrauding the government of $66,000 in a payroll kickback scheme, said today he will give up his committee chairmanships and not vote for the rest of the congressional term.

Diggs, in a letter today to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, said he was taking the steps under a House rule which recommends that a member convicted of a crime and given at least a two-year sentence should refrain from participating in business and should not vote.

"I have made the necessary arrangement for the orderly continuance of committee and subcommittee business during this period," Diggs said in the letter released at a news conference.

Uncover False Entries On Durham Court Cases
DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — An investigation into false entries on court judgments in traffic cases here is reported to have uncovered at least 121 Durham District Court cases where judgments were secretly falsified by a Durham attorney.

Dan K. Edwards Jr., Durham district attorney, filed motions Monday in Durham Superior Court asking that the judgments for 121 cases be set aside and the cases tried.

All of the false judgments were reported to have been entered by Art Vann III, a Durham attorney, between 1975 and 1978.

YOUNG RIDERS FROM GREENVILLE — Kelley Maloney and Amanda Johnson of Greenville and Ramborn Stables captured the Reserve and Champion Awards respectively of the Short Stirrup Division in the Eastern Hunter Association all-hunt show held Saturday at the Griffon Stables, Griffon. The young ladies will continue competing in this circuit until it ends Dec. 2 in Kinston.

Uncover False Entries On Durham Court Cases

Dennard could not be reached for comment Monday. Shea said he received a speeding ticket and believed he had paid the fine but declined further comment.

Edwards said most of the cases involved drunk driving charges although other traffic violations are included. He said there is no indication that the defendants knew of the false entries.

Edwards asked the State Bureau of Investigation to go over entries in more than 100,000 court cases after a Durham police officer went to the district attorney's office with questions about a drunk driving arrest he had made.

Vann admitted to SBI agents that he had falsified eight judgments, according to the Durham Sun. Edwards said that the SBI investigation will continue until the agents "are satisfied they have uncovered all evidence of false judgments and misconduct."

Vann recently turned in his law license to the state Bar, which has set hearings on the case. Vann could lose his license permanently.

Order Reducing Of Gas Rates
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Utilities Commission ordered Public Service Co. of North Carolina Monday to reduce its rates by $596,000 a year.

The order will reduce the average residential natural gas bill by about 1 percent. Public Service operates in the eastern Piedmont and parts of western North Carolina.

The commission reduced the minimum bill for all residential customers to $3.50 a month. The previous minimum was $5.25 a month.

The order revised a July 26 order that allowed the company to increase its rates by $4,023,956 a year.

Strock Leads Miami To Romp By Bengals

MIAMI (AP) — Don Strock has hardly been a Cinderella story as the Miami Dolphins' quarterback, but he can take pride in his accomplishments as the clock nears midnight in his starting tenure.

Strock tossed two touchdowns Monday night and nose tackle Bob Baumhower returned a fumble 13 yards for a touchdown as the Dolphins blanked the winless Cincinnati Bengals 21-0. Strock, who has been booed each home game, yielded to Bob Griese in the fourth quarter.

The crowd greeted Griese, making his first appearance since a knee injury in the final exhibition game, with a thunderous ovation. Griese opened with a 17-yard pass completion, finished with two of four, and indicated he's ready to pick up where last season — the best of his career — ended.

"It felt great to be in there. I'm able to set up and throw, and the knee feels fine. It's hard to answer how much more time I need, but it's mainly just timing now," said Griese, who quarterbacked the Dolphins' final two possessions.

Coach Don Shula said he won't decide until Thursday whether Griese will start at San Diego Sunday, but added, "It goes without saying how good it was to see No. 12 back on the field."

Griese's return to the starting position will mean Strock's return to the bench, where he's languished most of his five-year career.

"I've made my share of mistakes, but the offense was moving tonight. Our goal has been to make the playoffs. As far as who's quarterback, that doesn't make any difference," Strock said.

He reflected, "We're 4-2 and we're tied for the lead. I kept us in the race. I've got to be happy about that."

Strock completed 12 of 20 passes for 154 yards against the Bengals. As he was being hit by Reggie Williams in the first quarter, he hit on a 4-yard scoring pass to Durliel Harris.

The Dolphins took a 14-0 lead in the second quarter on a 27-yard Pottstown-to-Pittston pass. Strock is from Pottstown, Pa., and the recipient, rookie Jimmy Cefalo, is from Pittston, Pa.

Strock has thrown nine touchdowns.

"I thought he made a lot of good plays overall. He missed a couple people and that kept him from an outstanding performance tonight," Shula said of Strock.

The victory kept Miami tied with New England, also 4-2, atop the AFC East. Shula was encouraged by his defense, sometimes inconsistent this season.

"It was a great defensive effort. I enjoyed it standing on the sidelines watching. It was the aggressive, swarming defense we felt we had all along, but it was a long time coming," he said.

Home Rice, Bengals' coach since Bill Johnson's resignation last week, said, "We were not embarrassed.

"This team has had a lot of things happen to it. Something happens and you say, 'There it goes again ...' We'll work on that," he said.

"It's the same old story," said quarterback Ken Anderson. "We're making mistakes and stopping ourselves."

Anderson, making his second start since recovering from a broken hand, completed 19 of 35 passes for 161 yards. He threw two interceptions, giving him six in two weeks.

"We've got some pretty good ballplayers on this team. You hope you can turn it around," he said.

Delvin Williams, whose 107 yards rushing gave him an AFC-leading 571 yards this year, said the Bengals' defense showed promise.

UVa Athletics: Change Or Quit

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — The president of the University of Virginia has called upon the entire university community to help solve the problems of an athletic program which for the most part appears mired as a lightweight on the major college level.

And the Roanoke Times & World-News says it has learned the university's board of visitors has been told the school should change its academic policies or get out of big-time athletics.

The matter came to a head Monday when President Frank L. Hereford Jr. sent a memorandum to the university's vice presidents in which he said the school should have a vigorous and healthy sports program, but "within the framework of our current academic standards."

In today's editions, the Times & World-News said a confidential report from Athletic Director Eugene Corrigan to Hereford, given over the weekend to members of the board of visitors, raised the question of a big-time athletic program.

The report was said to have called for more flexible admissions and curriculum requirements to enhance recruitment of student-athletes. Hereford and the board were said to have supported most of its particulars.

With the exception of basketball, wrestling and lacrosse, Virginia has been unable to compete in recent years on the same level with other members of the Atlantic Coast Conference, to which it belongs.

The Cavaliers, who won the ACC basketball title in 1975 and finished second in the championship tournament last spring, have had just one winning football season since 1952. They went 1-9-1 last year and have won just once in five games this season.

Past suggestions to alter academic requirements to enhance the athletic program have met with campus opposition.

Hereford said Monday he has asked 12 administration, faculty, alumni and student representatives to study proposals raised in the Corrigan report. But his announcement did not say what the specific proposals are.

"I'm very happy about this move. This recognizes the fact that we've had problems in athletics and it says we're going to do something about them," Corrigan told the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

"I think it's an opportunity to get everyone involved who should be involved," Corrigan added.

Corrigan declined to give out details of his report to Hereford and said he did not want to deal in specifics with the areas to be covered by the study group until he has had a chance to discuss them with members of that body.

The Times & World-News quoted sources close to the university as saying that Corrigan told Hereford if Virginia does not want to change its academic and other policies, it should withdraw from the ACC and perhaps adopt an Ivy League approach. If the university does not want to change its policies, it should at least drop out of the NCAA's top division of athletic competition, the paper said the report recommended.

In his memorandum, Hereford said the athletic program "is a fully integral part of the university" and added that "our failure to achieve a more successful athletic program is a failure on the part of the university."

Despite the successes in some men's sports and in the women's athletic program, Hereford admitted that "across the board we have not achieved the competitive position which we desire" in the ACC.

Hereford, who could not be reached for comment Monday night, noted that Corrigan in his report "sets forth a number of possible steps that could be taken which in his judgment would contribute significantly to our efforts in athletics."

Areas to be covered by the study committee include improved coordination of admissions and recruiting, academic scheduling, accommodation of transfer students, housing, food services, transportation services, student support and alumni support.

"I believe the athletic program at the university should be as vigorous and as healthy for its students as the academic program," Hereford said. "We should excel in both."

But to many observers the kicker in the charge to the study committee was the phrase, "within the framework of our current academic standards," which Hereford used in saying he, too, would put forth recommendations for the future.

Contest Winners

Donna Costner of 103 Cricket Drive, Greenville, is the winner of last week's "Daily Reflector" Football Contest.

She correctly picked the winners in 24 of the 32 games listed in the contest.

Second prize went to Dennis E. Warren of Rt. 2, Box 281, Robersonville. He picked the winners in 23 of the 32 games, winning the prize, however, on the basis of his point total. Warren had a guess of 82, while the actual total was 86, scored in UT-Chattanooga's 72-14 win over Appalachian State.

Three other people also picked 23 right but were further off the point total.

The next contest in the series appears on the following pages.

Kentucky won 129 consecutive basketball games on its home court from Jan. 4, 1943, to Jan. 8, 1955.

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

Dodgers, Yankees Renew Struggle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Right-hander Ed Figueroa, starting a World Series game one year later than he expected to, faces left-hander Tommy John, who was never supposed to pitch again, when the Fall Classic opens tonight between the New York Yankees and the Los Angeles Dodgers.

This 75th anniversary Series a rematch of last year's showdown won by the Yanks in six games, has its seeds in an ancient subway rivalry that often pitted the Bronx Bombers against the Brooklyn Bums.

On the eve of the Series, the Dodgers have lost one of their most beloved members, Jim Gilliam, who spanned the Brooklyn and Los Angeles eras as a player and a coach, died Sunday night of cardiac arrest. The Dodgers are dedicating the Series to Gilliam, whose funeral will be Wednesday.

Davey Lopes, the Dodgers' fiery second baseman, warned newsmen not to emphasize the team's memorial to Gilliam. "If they beat us, they beat us cause they're a better team," said Lopes, one of the heroes in the Dodgers' four-game National League playoff victory over Philadelphia. "The death of Jim Gilliam will have nothing to do with it."

Third baseman Graig Nettles, whose fourth-game homer and sparkling glove work sparked the Yanks to a third straight American League playoff triumph over Kansas City, suggested that the Dodgers' testament to Gilliam might work against them.

"They might have that on their minds so much, they might forget what they have to do on the field," said Nettles.

Victory is the only thing on the minds of tonight's starting pitchers.

Figueroa, a born-again pitcher since Bob Lemon replaced Billy Martin as the Yanks' manager at midseason, credits his new boss with turning his and the team's season around. Figueroa, 20-9, worked more regularly under Lemon, and he will be debuting in the World Series and facing the Dodgers in real competition for the first time.

"I was supposed to pitch the sixth game (last year)," said the first and only 20-game winner from Puerto Rico. "I walked away (left the team) because of the way Billy treated me. He told me I would pitch and I didn't."

"After Billy resigned, Bob Lemon came. Then we became a family."

John's head has always been squarely on his shoulders, it's his arm that has needed help. A unique tendon transplant turned a disabled pitcher into a scientific miracle.

"My arm is better and stronger than before the operation (in 1974)," said John, who was surprisingly tabbed by Los Angeles skipper Tom Lasorda to get the opening-game ball.

"I thought they would go with Burt Hooton," said John, 17-10 in the regular season and a shutout winner over Philadelphia last week.

John, a loser against the Yanks last October and a former American Leaguer with Chicago, says his record against New York over the years is around 500. "With the White Sox, how could it have been good?" he said with his usual smile.

Neither the Yankees nor the Dodgers look like the White Sox on the field. In fact, they look very much like the Yankees and Dodgers of 1977. The only major differences are the additions of a quality relief pitcher for each club.

Rich Gossage, AL leader in saves with 27, and Terry Foster, top Dodger fireman with 22 saves, are former teammates with the White Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates who were signed as free agents following the 1977 season.

"We're two evenly matched teams," said Nettles. "Both clubs went out and got a relief pitcher, that's all."

However, the Yanks may not be playing with their fine second baseman Willie Randolph, who suffered a pulled left hamstring 11 days ago. Lemon will make a decision before tonight's game whether Randolph or rookie second baseman Brian Doyle will be on the Yanks' 25-man roster.

"I'm hoping and praying for a quick recovery," said Randolph. "I busted my butt all year. I don't want to sit down now. I want to be there."

Reggie Jackson, Mr. October, whose three consecutive home runs on his only three swings in last year's dramatic Game 6, will be swinging a bat again but probably won't get to use his glove. He'll be the Yanks' designated hitter, the AL wrinkle which will be used in the Series this year.

"I'm not crazy about it," said Jackson. "But what Lemon says I go along with. Winning is the bottom line."

The Yanks appreciate Jackson's bat but aren't thrilled with his glove.

"We've got our best defense on the field now," said Nettles, referring to Lemon's use of Jackson as a DH.

Lee Lacy will be the Dodgers' DH tonight, and he's happy about the job.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCT. 11, 1978

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day for you to show interest in outside activities that could lead to greater success in your line of endeavor. Take time to make long-range plans for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact close friends and work out joint projects intelligently. Make the evening a happy one in the company of congenials.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study your position in your community and take steps to gain greater prestige. Be careful of strangers today.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go to the right sources to obtain the knowledge you need to improve your situation in life. Forget the social for now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Talking with persons who are modern-thinking can help you in career affairs. Avoid one who is a pessimist.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Conferring with a trusted adviser can help you gain your aims at this time. Evening is fine for the social side of life.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A day when you can get much cooperation from others and accomplish a great deal. Sidestep one who wants to waste your time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Bring your finest talents to the attention of higher-ups and get the results you want. Get out of that rut and be happier.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You now know best how to handle situations at home that have been difficult in the past. Make your work easier.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get busy communicating with others and accomplish a great deal today. Take no risks with money at this time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) By using more modern methods you can improve your monetary situation at this time. Don't procrastinate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get an early start on the day's activities and you can accomplish a great deal. Handle your affairs in a positive manner.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure you keep your side of the bargain in a promise you have made to an associate. Take needed health treatments.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who likes people a great deal, so permit to have many friends in the home early in life, but screen them well for best results throughout the lifetime. A great humanitarian in this chart.

Awards Given Best In Country Music

WINNING DUO — Kenny Rogers leans over to kiss Dottie West as the two singers accepted the Country Music Association award as the best singing duo of the year. (AP Laserphoto)

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dazzling Dolly Parton began her reign as country music's entertainer of the year by sewing up a dress she tore "all the way down the front" on live national television Monday night.

She ripped the low-cut, pink and white dress as she sat in the audience at the Grand Ole Opry House just moments before she was chosen top entertainer at the Country Music Association's 12th annual awards show.

The statuesque Miss Parton, whose big hit this year was the million-selling "Here You Come Again," held a black coat in front of her while millions of persons watched on CBS as she accepted country music's top award.

After the show, she dashed to her dressing room and an aide, Denise Patrick, sewed up what may become country music's most talked-about tear.

"I busted it all the way down the front — wide open," she told a gaggle of wide-eyed reporters later. "It was just a strain on it. It was real thin material."

Approximately 5,000 singers, songwriters, musicians and music industry officials chose Crystal Gayle female vocalist of the year for the second straight year and Don Williams top male vocalist, breaking a two-year hold on that award by blind pianist Ronnie Milsap.

Grandpa Jones, a veteran banjo player, guitarist, songwriter and comedian on the "Hee Haw" television show, was selected the 31st member of the Country Music Hall of Fame.

"I never thought it would come to this," he said. "Heaven's Just a Sin Away" by the Kendalls was picked single of the year and "It Was Almost Like a Song" by Milsap won top album. Songwriter Richard Leigh won song of the year for "Don't It Make My Brown Eyes Blue," recorded by Miss Gayle.

The Oak Ridge Boys won vocal group of the year, displacing The Statler Brothers, who had won it six straight years. The Oak Ridge Boys band was named top instrumental group or band.

Roy Clark, co-star on "Hee Haw" and who plays eight instruments, was named instrumentalist of the year and Kenny Rogers and Dottie West were named No. 1 vocal duo.

Tammy Wynette did not perform as scheduled because she was concerned about bruises on her face, show spokesman Carl Wolfson said. Miss Wynette has said she suffered the bruises when she was struck by a man she said abducted her last Wednesday in Nashville, then released her 80 miles south near Pulaski, Tenn. No arrests have been made.

AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — For 30 years, Harry Coyle has gone to ballparks where World Series games are played. But he's never sat outside in the fresh air, with beer, hot dogs and cheers, as do most patrons.

You see, he's always been NBC's TV director for World Series coverage. He sits in a smoke-filled truck, facing a bank of 36 monitors, and calls the shots you see at home on your television sets.

And he'll do it again tonight as NBC televises the start of the 75th annual World Series, working with a 70-member technical crew that tends nearly $5 million worth of electronic gear.

NBC says the gear includes nine stationary cameras, two minicameras on the field, four slow-mo replay machines and 2 1/2 miles of camera cable, all to dispatch the action to 200plus TV stations in America.

There wasn't quite that much gear in 1947, when Coyle and a co-director, Jack Murphy, pioneered NBC's World Series show beamed only to New York, Washington, Philadelphia and Schenectady, N.Y.

"Compared to now, it was very basic and crude," he said of those black-and-white pictures of New York Yankees jousting with the old Brooklyn Dodgers.

"There was no replay gear, no zoom lenses, no nothin'. Our biggest aim was really not covering the play as much as staying on the air. In those days, the equipment often failed.

"At any given time, something would blow and you would come a sign saying, 'Please stand by.' It didn't happen during that Series, but we were sweating all the way."

Coyle, born 55 years ago in Ridgewood, N.J., was asked in a phone chat from New York about his worst moment as a TV director at the World Series. Oddly, a missed shot or power failure wasn't it.

"It was when we converted from black and white to color, believe it was 1955," he said. "The color cameras then had great problems shooting the shadows in the sun. The contrast ratio was poor."

"We had a terrible time picking up pictures in the shade, then in the sun and back again."

Coyle, who's missed TV-directing at the World Series only once, last year, when ABC aired the series, was interviewed late last week when National and American league playoffs still were under way.

As a longtime Series observer, he was asked to predict which teams would be in this Series. He pondered a minute, then said: "I think it'll be the Yankees and Dodgers. But you know, anything can happen."

The veteran director, who broke in with the old Dumont network in 1946, vows that some day, when he retires, he'll watch a World Series at the park, in a box seat or the bleachers, though it'll feel odd.

"I've never seen a World Series in person," Harry Coyle sighed in mock despair. "I'm always outside the ballpark in a truck. It's kind of frustrating."

'Vantage. I just won't compromise on taste.'

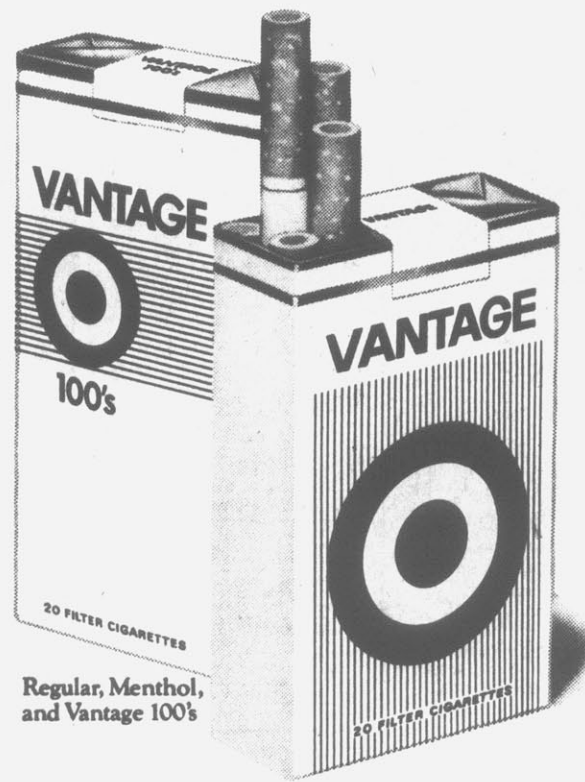

"I'm willing to make some concessions, but taste isn't one of them. Even though I've heard the tar stories, I still want a cigarette with good taste.

"That's why I'm glad I switched to Vantage.

"With Vantage, I get the taste I smoked for in the first place. And that wasn't easy to find in a low tar.

"For me, Vantage is the best tasting low tar cigarette there is."
