Carter Signs Civil Service Revisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today signed the first major revision of the federal civil service in nearly a century, saying it "puts incentives and rewards back into the federal system."

"Our nation was built on a system of rewards and incentives," the president said. "You get what you pay for" is a part of the American folk wisdom. Civil service reform will help taxpayers get what they have been paying for."

At ceremonies in the White House State Dining Room, Carter said the measure gives him the tools he needs to manage the federal government's 2.8 million civilian workers. He said it "takes a long step forward" toward fulfilling his campaign promise to make the government more efficient.

Signing the bill culminates one of the administration's most protracted and extensive lobbying efforts in Congress.

The measure:

- Makes it easier for bosses to fire rank-and-file federal workers on grounds of laziness or inefficiency.
- Allows the top 9,200 federal executives to compete for performance bonuses, if they agree to provisions that could also ease their transfer or demotion.

— Virtually ends automatic "merit" pay raises for 72,000 mid-level managers, pegging pay raises instead to performance.

Carter made the bill a top legislative priority and spent many hours lobbying for it personally.

He said he needed the bill to "inspire or fire" inefficient government workers, and that without it he could not fulfill his pledge to make the federal government more efficient and more responsive.

Congress approved most of what the president proposed last March. It defeated, however, his proposal to end the lifetime preference World War II and Korean conflict veterans now enjoy in gaining and keeping federal jobs.

The legislators greatly strengthened protections granted dissident employees, or "whistleblowers," who take their complaints to the public, the press or Congress. Carter originally proposed protections only for disclosure of government actions that violated law or regulation, but Congress included disclosure of waste.

Lengthy Meet On Minor Business By City Council

House, Senate Heavily Endorse Income Tax Slash

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Approval was given by the City Council last night for a special use permit requested by the Batchelor Club in order to operate a beer hall at 709 N. Green Street.

Garland Skinner, who said he was one of three partners in the proposed business venture, said that they planned to open a "beer tavern" at the site and have a game room for pool tables, as well as a juke box.

Skinner said that the partners did not wish to obtain a brown bag permit and he assured members of the Council that there would be "absolutely no gambling" activities at the tavern.

Council member Mrs. Mildred McGrath, who voted against issuance of the special use permit, asked Skinner if he would be willing to agree in writing that no gambling would be permitted and that law enforcement officers would be allowed to make an inspection of the premises at any time. Skinner said that he would agree to the stipulations.

The petitioner acknowledged that gambling activities have taken place at the site before. The building, it was noted, is located near the junk yard behind Farmer's Warehouse.

In approving the special use permit, the Council made issuance of the permit pursuant to the following conditions: dancing will be allowed; no films will be allowed; no live entertainment except for a band; no topless activity; no pornographic movies; no massage parlors; inspections of the premises may be made by the Sheriff's Department at any time; and no gambling or any other illegal acts will be permitted on the premises.

Councilman Clarence Gray asked Skinner if he was speaking for the other two partners and he indicated that he was.

The Council adopted two ordinances relating to the meetings of the various boards, commissions and authorities of the city and also relating to the meetings of the Council, in complying with the provisions of the Open Meetings Law.

The ordinances stipulate that the boards, commissions and authorities constitute "public bodies" and spell out procedures for notification of regular, special and emergency meetings.

The ordinance relating to the Council meetings also stipulates that the time, date and place for the regular sessions and indicate the agenda and notification procedures for special and emergency meetings.

City Manager Ed Wyatt said that while the law provides that the city may charge a fee to any organization requesting notification of the meetings, the city will not institute any charges.

Wyatt commended Mrs. Lois Worthington, city clerk,

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Backers of a plan to slash individual income taxes by an average 25 percent over the next five years are hoping to sell their idea to President Carter after picking up lopsided endorsement from the House and Senate.

Sens. Sam Nunn, D-Ga.; Lawton Chiles, D-Fla.; and Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., chief sponsors of the future tax cut, arranged a meeting today with Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal to outline their proposal. And they hoped to meet with Carter to seek his endorsement.

The Republican-backed plan to write tax reductions now for future years threatens to dominate a congressional conference that is attempting to reach a compromise on the bill, which was limited to a 1979 tax cut when it started out.

But differences between the House and Senate over how far to go with tuition tax credits for students in private schools — which Carter opposes — have given the conference another ticklish political problem to deal with as well.

Conference leaders Sen. Russell Long, D-La., and Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., wanted to send a separate bill for college tuition credits to Carter, let him veto it quickly and give Congress an opportunity to override the veto before quitting for the year.

But the House probably killed that strategy Thursday by rejecting the separate Senate-passed bill limited to college tuition credits and voting 207-185 to pass for similar aid to pupils in private secondary and elementary schools.

The Senate has refused to go along with the elementary and secondary aid, much of which would go to pupils in church schools, on grounds such credits would violate the Constitution's requirement for separation of church and state.

As insurance, the Senate has attached a college tuition credit of up to $250 a year to the main tax-cut bill.

Because of the House refusal to accept the separate college tuition bill, conferees may feel compelled to leave the popular item attached to the tax-cut bill and see if Carter was bluffing when he said flatly he would not sign any bill that carried a tuition credit.

The Nunn amendment on automatic tax cuts in future years contains a stipulation that they would take effect only if increases in federal spending are held to no more than 1 percent per year. If implemented each year, the cuts proposed by Nunn could mean an extra tax break of around $769 between 1980 and 1983 for a typical family of four with $20,000 annual income. Without the Nunn provision, the Senate-passed bill would cut the same family's income tax liability by $316 in 1979 only.

Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., called the Nunn proposal a dangerous one for Americans already frustrated by the inability of politicians to deliver on their promises. "Here is a whole new bag of expectations," he said.

BAGUIO CITY, Philippines (AP) — Challenger Viktor Korchnoi won the 31st game against chess champion Anatoly Karpov today, leaving the two players tied 5-5. The player who wins the next game takes the title and a record $350,000. The loser gets $200,000.

Left with only a rook and his beleaguered, helpless king, Karpov, a 27-year-old Soviet, resigned on the 71st move, two hours after his sealed move was opened and the adjourned game resumed. Korchnoi is a 47-year-old Russian defector.

Siamese Twins Survive Shock Of Separation

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Siamese twins Sonya and Tonya Bain survived the surgery to separate them, but doctors say they remain "seriously ill, and each has separate, serious heart problems."

After the separation surgery Thursday, the twins — born Oct. 3 in nearby Raleigh — each underwent another operation to repair their faulty hearts.

The girls weighed about 12 pounds together at birth. They were joined from the breastbone to the navel, and shared part of their hearts and livers before surgery.

"Their odds against going through this (successfully) were horrendous from the very beginning, and we're just one step down the way," said Dr. Howard Filston, head of pediatric surgery at Duke and one of four surgeons who operated on the twins.

"It's too early after surgery to give you a firm answer in terms of the direction in which they are headed," Dr. Steven Gross, a neonatologist, said Thursday night.

The twins were reported in guarded condition early today in the center's intensive care nursery, a regional center for babies with serious health problems.

They were moved to the nursery from the operating room about 6 p.m. and doctors maintained a cribside vigil throughout the night. The girls were still attached to mechanical respirators to aid their breathing.

"They did well considering what they've been through," said a spokeswoman for the hospital early today.

Issue Warrant Here After Shooting Call

A warrant was issued for Garland Mayhugh Lancaster, 40 of 1301 Cotten Rd. charging assault with a deadly weapon, following investigation of a 12:15 a.m. shooting incident at Nelson's Lounge at 415 Memorial Dr. today, Chief Glenn Cannon reported.

According to Cannon, Lancaster was allegedly involved in an affray with a woman when another woman attempted to intervene, and Lancaster started fighting with the second woman.

The chief said when Frank Issac of the Holiday Inn intervened with the second affray, Lancaster allegedly went to his car, got a pistol, fired one shot into the air and struck Issac in the lower left abdomen with a second shot.

Cannon said Lancaster then fled the scene and was being sought by officers late this morning.

Issac was listed in "guarded" condition at Pitt Memorial Hospital following surgery before dawn.

Cannon noted that a police car, responding to the shooting call, collided with another vehicle on West

Fifth Street, 25 feet East of the Hudson Street intersection.

Investigators reported a car driven by James Earl Carr of 622 Ford St. turned into the side of the police car, driven by John Edward Nichols of Highland Park Trailer Ct., causing an estimated $650 damage to the city-owned vehicle and $500 damage to the Carr auto.

Carr was charged with failing to give a signal following investigation of the collision.

Henry Thinks Pact Can Hold

FAIRBORN, Ohio (AP) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger thinks the Middle East accords reached at Camp David will stand up even without the immediate backing of some Arab nations.

"The other Arab nations are not united enough to oppose the accord," he said at a Republican fund-raising event Thursday. "But even the hard line opponents recognize progress has been made and (King) Hussein (of Jordan) and (Syrian President Hafez) Assad will join the negotiations at one time or another in the future."

Receives Calls From Friend's Dad

DEAR ABBY: I was the houseguest recently of a sorority sister in another state. Her father is a very handsome, gray-haired man with a lovely smile and a charming personality. While I was there, he told me that he travels a lot for business reasons, and would really enjoy meeting me—alone—sometimes. At first I thought he was joking, but I soon realized by other things he said and did that he meant it. I just laughed, pretending not to take him seriously, and stayed away from him as much as possible.

Now that I am back at college he has called me a few times wanting to know when we can arrange a meeting. What should I do? I am 20, and don't want to get involved with an old married man. He says he admires my mature mind and he wouldn't do anything I didn't want to do. Please help me.

PROBLEM IN PITTSBURGH

DEAR PROBLEM: If he calls you again, tell him that your mature mind is made up, you don't want to meet him anywhere, and if he ever calls again, you will tell your parents and his daughter. That should cool him off!

DEAR ABBY: There is a girl at our school who says she can't go to any of the school dances because it is against her religion. I think that is just about the dumbest thing I have ever heard.

I have told this to some other kids and they agreed that it must be a very stupid religion that won't let their people dance. I can't understand a religion like that, can you?

LOVES TO DANCE

DEAR LOVES: Some religions do disapprove of dancing. But it isn't necessary to understand the other person's religion—just respect it.

DEAR ABBY: I am supposed to be married right after Christmas, but I'm not sure I can go through with it. My fiancée, whom I'll call Gene, introduced me to Jack (also a made-up name) who will be the best man at our wedding.

You guessed it, Abby. The more I see of Jack, the more I like him.

Abby, I'm so mixed up I need some good sound advice from a wise outsider. Should I hope this thing with Jack will pass? Or should I break off with Gene? I could never tell Gene the real reason, but I get the shakes thinking about marrying one man and feeling so strongly attracted to another.

HARRISBURG HASSLE

DEAR HARRISBURG: A girl could be making the mistake of her life to marry a man while she feels strongly attracted to another. This attraction is a clear warning signal that means you are not ready for marriage yet.

Tell Gene you want to think about marriage a while longer. And keep thinking about it until NOBODY looks as good to you as the man you're going to marry.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LEE ON LONG ISLAND: "Chutzpah" is borrowing ice and glasses from a neighbor whom you have not invited to the party.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (25 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Ms. Pelose Visits Council

Ms. Pelose explained the work of the Degree of Pocahontas. She was remembered with a gift and corsage.

Couple Weds In Garden Rite

In a garden setting Saturday at 1 p.m., Deborah Joanne Mayo, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Harper, and Michael Gregory Braye, son of Mr. and Mrs. Idell Dixon of Greensboro, were united in marriage.

Elder Christopher Williams, associate minister of the Church of God and Christ, performed the double ring ceremony. Johnny A. Wooten, organist, Miss Dorothy Barnes, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Wyna Clark Payton soloists, presented a program of nuptial music.

The bride, escorted and given in marriage by her grandfather, wore a formal gown of ivory organza over peau de soie styled with a Nehru neckline—long fitted sleeves and a cathedral length train. An overlay of imported net embellished with re-embroidered lace and pearls adorned the A-line bodice. Lace appliques highlighted the train and skirt, which were bordered with matching lace.

She carried a Bible with a cascading bouquet of white miniature carnations, red roses, white cushion poms, baby's breath and springerita fern.

Mrs. Brenda Carter of Greensboro was matron of honor and Miss Linda Windborne of Greensboro was maid of honor. They wore formal length gowns of burgundy polyknit styled with capelike short sleeves, neckline streamers and an A-line skirt. They carried arm bouquets of red roses and baby's breath with rose bows and streamers. They wore baby's breath in their hair.

Other attendants included Jackie Braye sister of the bridegroom of Wilmington, Delores Harris of Greenville, Madie White and Cora Mitchell of Lenoir. Their dresses, of rose and burgundy, were identical to those of the honor attendants.

Miss Lisa Mayo was flower girl and wore a long dress of rose and burgundy floral voile designed with a high ruffled neckline, long sleeves and a full skirt with a ruffled hem. She carried a white basket of pink carnations and white daisies tied with white and pink bows. Her headpiece was streamers of satin burgundy.

Harrell Carter was best man and head groomsman was Olivia Carson both of Greensboro. Other groomsman were Dallas Mayo, brother of the bride of Greenville, Ronald Topper and John Minton of Greensboro. Wilson Lewis of Greenville was ring bearer.

Mrs. Harper wore a formal length two-piece dress of floral print in pink shades of chiffon over taffeta. She wore a corsage of white carnations. The bride couple presented red roses to their mothers after the ceremony.

The bride's parents entertained at a reception after the ceremony.

MRS. MICHAEL GREGORY BRAYE

The garden was decorated with an arch covered with ivy and white miniature poms flanked by arrangements of greenery. The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth trimmed in lace and centered with an arrangement of pink carnations, white and pink cushion poms and greenery. Miss Jennifer Thompson poured punch.

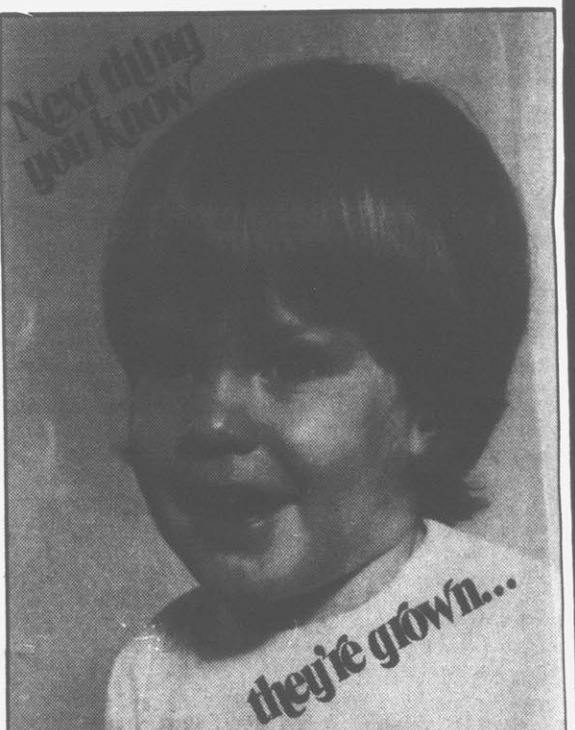

The bride's table held the tiered wedding cake encircled with greenery. Mrs. Dorothy Salisbury, sister of the bride, served wedding cake. Mrs. Sandra Carol Moore received guests and Wanda Carmon presided at the guest register.

The bride's aunts, Mrs. Maggie Hyman, Mrs. Susie Green Mayo and Mrs. Gladys Davis, entertained the bridal party Friday evening at the home of the bride. The bride is employed by the Greensboro City Schools and is a graduate of N. C. A & T State University, Greensboro. The bridegroom is also a graduate of A & T and is employed by Howard Johnson. The couple will live in Greensboro.

Cleveland School Strike Ends

By STEVEN P. ROSENFELD
Associated Press Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) — A

36-day strike by Cleveland school employees has ended, but the ailing 100,000-pupil system still has plenty of problems.

Six unions representing 10,000 teaching and non-academic employees ratified a new contract Thursday by a 146-vote margin, ending the walkout that had closed schools since Sept. 7.

Non-teaching employees were to report to work today, with teachers returning Monday and most pupils directed to begin the school year on Tuesday.

A labor dispute involving some 3,500 Seattle teachers also came to an end Thursday night, when union members voted 210-1 to accept a new contract. Teachers voted Sept. 26 to obey a court order and return to work after their walkout delayed the start of the school year by 17 days.

However, a strike by about half of the 6,200 teachers in Memphis, Tenn., continued today. Schools remained closed, and union leaders were due in court to argue against contempt citations for teachers who have defied a judge's back-to-work order.

Student carrying signs reading, "Let us learn," and "Back to school" were on hand as Cleveland union members voted 2,358 to 2,212 to accept the new contract, reversing an earlier vote to reject it.

"We've been waiting," said Janet Brown, a 16-year-old senior whose mother is an elementary school teacher. "We can't eat and I can't learn."

The end of the strike does not, however, resolve other problems facing the Cleveland school district.

The walkout kept school officials from meeting a deadline for certifying its enrollment to the state, jeopardizing $34.5 million in state aid. Superintendent Peter Carlin said school officials would ask the Ohio General Assembly to free the funds.

The school board also is in the midst of contempt proceedings before a federal judge for allegedly defying desegregation orders.

And uncertainty continues over whether U.S. District Judge Frank Battisti, who is supervising desegregation of the city's public school system, will require the district to proceed this fall with a plan calling for limited cross-town busing and the closing of some schools.

Testimony before Battisti this week indicated the 11,000 pupils affected by the school closing plan might have to miss another 21 days of class before the plan can be implemented.

In addition, the state Controlling Board, which placed restrictions on spending by the debt-ridden school system in August, must lift the prohibitions so that the 8 percent salary increase negotiated with the unions can be honored. The board meets Monday.

Under the old contract, the starting salary of a Cleveland teacher was $9,100, while the average salary was $14,873 a year.

Students will make up days lost to the strike by giving up Christmas and spring recesses, but no Saturday classes will be necessary, Carlin said.

The contract promises an additional 6 percent raise if Cleveland voters approve an $11.1 million school tax increase in November. But earlier this year, voters twice rejected proposals calling for a $30 million annual increase in education taxes.

Special homecoming services will be held Sunday at Red Oak Christian Church.

A covered-dish dinner will be served at noon in the fellowship hall followed by a singsgiving at 2 p.m.

for her work on the two ordinances.

In other business on a relatively routine agenda, Council members unanimously approved a request by Ferrell Blount for rezoning 1.7 acres at the northeast corner of 14th Street and Charles Street from Office and Institutional and Neighborhood Commercial to Downtown Commercial Fringe.

The board also voted to refer back to the Planning and Zoning Commission the matter of allowing mobile home parks in a zoning designation. The planning board had recommended that the City Code be amended to allow mobile home parks as permitted uses in the R6-Mobile Home zone.

Bobby Roberson, the city's new director of planning, discussed the mobile home situation in the city and noted that Greenville has a unique situation in that it does allow mobile homes to be placed in town in a specific zone.

The problem of mobile home parks in a zoning designation is not unique, he added.

Wyatt said that he feels the modification of the zoning ordinance would constitute a substantial change in regard to mobile home parks and he indicated that the matter "needs a great deal of deliberate study."

Mayor Percy Cox said that the planning board members felt that a need existed for some zone to cover mobile home park use but he noted that the members were not particularly sold on the R6-Mobile Home zone as the vehicle for the parks.

Mrs. McGrath said that housing is so expensive that there is a "real need" for mobile housing. She said the trend seems to be for more and more modular units and mobile homes.

Cox said that he could not think of many areas in the city that could be zoned specifically for mobile home parks.

A revised list of street improvements to be undertaken with Community Development funds was approved. The list includes: Wyatt Street, 28 foot section, curb and gutter; Railroad from 14th to Howell, 36 foot section, curb and gutter;

Garland, 20 foot section, curb and gutter; Henry, 20 foot section, curb and gutter; Skinner, 36 foot section, curb and gutter; Stutz, 22 foot section, paving only; Gum from Memorial to the ditch, 22 foot section, paving only; Holbert, 22 foot section, paving only; Elks, 36 foot section, curb and gutter; Arthur, 36 foot section, curb and gutter; and Brown, 32 foot section, curb and gutter.

Wyatt said that he hoped work on the streets will commence as soon as possible and that it will be completed before the end of the current fiscal year.

Other Council action included:

— Appointment of Dr. Malene Irons to her first full term on the Human Relations Council; — Appointment of Eugene (Rocky) Fallon to the HRC replacing the Rev. James Bailey who resigned his term, expiring next September;

— Approval of Wade Stokes and Quentin Eaton as the student representatives from Rose High School on the HRC and Bob Barber and Jay Purdie as the ECU student representatives on the Council;

— Appointment of Robert S. Griffin to his first five-year term on the Redevelopment Commission, replacing John S. Whichard who served the maximum of two consecutive terms;

— Reappointment of Dr. J. E. Clement to the Sheppard Memorial Library Board and appointment of Dr. Louis Zincon to the library board succeeding Lawrence Graham who served two terms;

— Granting of a renewal permit to the Pitt County Health Department for the mobile home located behind the Health Department and used for office space and storage;

Opposing Disparity In Rates

Various Chamber representatives from Eastern North Carolina communities met in Washington this week to begin a program for obtaining relief from electric rate increases instituted by Virginia Electric and Power Co. The leaders came from six area cities and they agreed to work with 22 counties served by Vepco. A petition will also be prepared challenging a recent 17.8 percent rate increase granted to Vepco. The action is a follow-up on the governor's recent request of the Utilities Commission for a study of Vepco North Carolina rates which are said to be higher than Duke or Carolina Power and Light. The group chose as a name for the effort "Operation Overcharge." The participating Chambers couldn't take on a better project that the one outlined. Their area is at a clear disadvantage in economic development because of the rate disparity. It is a situation that needs to be corrected.

Spurring Conservation Through Taxes

House and Senate negotiators have agreed on an energy tax bill compromise which should get this measure through Congress. It provides credits for home insulation, and for non-traditional forms of energy in homes. There are also business investment credits for energy conservation equipment, and tax credits for production of oil or gas from shale and underground brine. Finally there is the "gas guzzler" tax on 1980 cars and after which fail to obtain 15 miles per gallon of gas. The measures could nudge the nation away from excessive use of oil, which has to be imported.

THIS AFTERNOON Rules Mean Higher Costs

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Who knows best: Mom and Dad, or Uncle Sam? Especially when the government way costs twice as much, and is provided for those who can't pay without drawing on public funds?

child for one month in a public day care center — or a privately operated one which qualifies to receive public funds — averages $168 per month. In privately owned day care facilities the cost averages $86 per month. The big difference is that in the public day cares, welfare money pays most or all the bill. In private centers, mom or dad pays the bill.

work, more inspection, higher wages for employees, more equipment — and so on.

That situation, conclude researchers, leads to this: "The mandate to promote the development of children in federally subsidized day care can, and does, come into conflict with the desire to serve the greatest number of children and parents at a reasonable cost." In short, there is a waiting list for children to be in day care centers subsidized by the $17 million aid program in this state.

That is the nettlesome dilemma beneath the running controversy over day care in North Carolina. The situation has drawn little attention from citizens other than those who operate private day care facilities.

Here are the bare facts: More than 50,000 children are in day care while mom or dad work. The industry takes in some $60 million per year. A total of 36,404 children are paid for entirely by their parents; while 12,134 are publicly subsidized. At private profit or non-profit centers, the parents pay and no government funds are involved; at public centers, all except just over 2,000 children are publicly subsidized.

The question is not whether day care should be provided but rather why it costs twice as much in a public center as in a private one?

To relieve the presence of dual, unequal systems — one higher class for welfare recipients and one lower class for private citizens — is explored in the study. Several alternatives are put forth.

But parents who pay for their own children's day care service, and taxpayers who shoulder the burden for children in public day care, ought to study the consultant's report on "Center-Based Day Care in North Carolina."

The result is that 60 percent of the enrollment in public day care centers is non-white compared to 22 percent non-white in private centers. In public centers nearly three out of four children come from families with annual incomes below

The consultants looked long and hard at that very question. They found a dual system of day care, one for subsidized people and another for the average citizen.

The Governor's Advocacy Council on Children and Youth has picked one alternative and is pushing hard for a change in the rules. The change would simply require privately operated day care centers to raise their standards higher, in line with federal regulations. Of course, the cost of private day care will sharply escalate.

The recurring theme in that document delivered this summer to the North Carolina Department of Human Resources is simply this: "The cost of public care, on average, is approximately double that of private care." That message is repeated time and again in numerous ways throughout.

Nov. 7 Voter Impact

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Whether he's up or down, President Carter's standing with the voters is not likely to have a major impact on the congressional elections next month. Nor are the Republicans exerting much influence with their campaign for a big income tax cut, according to a political scientist and polling consultant.

Thomas E. Mann argues that national trends do little to shape the outcome of midterm elections. Since there is nothing politicians like better than a handy way to find the prevailing winds, that makes Mann something of a spoilsport.

"In deciding how to cast their ballots, voters are primarily influenced not by the president, the national parties or the state of the economy, but by the local candidates," Mann says.

His theory notwithstanding there will, as always, be attempts to interpret the Nov. 7 returns as a barometer of attitudes toward the Democratic White House and the Republican opposition.

By the traditional yardsticks, the odds are that the Democrats will fare reasonably well in those assessments.

The party that holds the White House has lost House seats in every midterm election but one in the last 100 years. The average 20th Century gain for the opposition party has been 34 seats in the House and four in the Senate.

However, the swing has been much smaller in the elections immediately following a change in White House control. The opposition gain in those elections has been only a half-dozen House seats, a figure Republican National Chairman Bill Brock likes to cite in discussing GOP prospects this year.

The lower the expectation of Republican gains, the better the chance that they can be met.

There's no other system for national scorekeeping in off-year elections, but Mann suggests that party loyalties and lineups don't really have that much to do with the outcome.

"The forces for change in congressional elections, which

The Christmas Tree Bill

WASHINGTON — You've probably heard of a Christmas tree bill but you are not sure exactly what it is. This is how it works.

Traditionally, Congress celebrates Christmas two months before the rest of the country, by passing out presents to its constituents in the closing weeks of its fall session. This is a time when everyone is anxious to get home, and no one is paying too much attention to what someone wants to add on to a bill. The wiser senators and congressmen always wait until the last minute before they add their own decorations, hoping no one will challenge them in debate. Let us say Cong. Goodfeeling proposes a bill to make Columbus an honorary citizen of this country because he discovered America.

ART BUCHWALD

Cong. Glucose rises to his feet and says, "I am in full agreement with this bill which honors one of the greatest men in history, and I wish to propose just an amendment. To show our appreciation for everything Columbus has done, we vote $6 billion for the building of a new nuclear aircraft carrier to be called the 'Santa Maria.'"

Cong. Hogtiddle says, "I will accept the amendment, but it seems to me that we could do this explorer greater honor if we lowered the present capital gains tax to 25 percent, so business will have an incentive to invest in this great continent that Columbus opened up to Western civilization."

"Are you proposing this in the form of amendment?" "I am."

"Mr. Speaker," a congressman from Texas says, "when we speak of Columbus, we must not forget some other great explorers. I am talking of the men who drill for oil and gas and who are risking their lives and fortunes to find new sources of energy. I would like to add an amendment to the Columbus bill, taking all restrictions of the price of crude oil and gas, so that our modern-day explorers can make this country the great industrial empire Columbus dreamed it would someday be."

"Are there any other amendments?" "Mr. Speaker, as you know I come from the state of Ohio. Our capital is named after this great man. The Ohio State football team

Other Editors Say Vet School Glut

(Greensboro Daily News)

Those Tar Heel educators and legislators who insisted that North Carolina needs a veterinary school — and put money on the line to anchor a multi-million dollar facility at North Carolina State University — have some sad morning-after news to face: That well publicized shortage of veterinarians has vanished and the profession now faces a glut.

A recent Wall Street Journal article set forth the facts in no uncertain terms. Here are some of them:

1. The number of vets has more than doubled in the last two decades, to 30,000. Within two years the profession will have a surplus of practitioners.

2. Five years ago each grad had a half dozen jobs to choose from; today he has only one or two.

3. Government surveys in the 1960s and early 1970s predicted shortages of as many as 4,000 vets by 1980. But all the nation's vet schools have expanded in the past decade. In addition, their number has risen from 17 to 22 over ten years, and four or five more (including North Carolina's) are in the works.

During the same period there was an enormous upsurge of interest in the veterinary profession. It was seen as one of those get-out-of-doors, away-from-the-old-routine sort of jobs. Today, however, the woods are full of vets and about the only field still feeling a shortage is the producer of food animals.

What does that say about North Carolina's plans to sink millions of dollars into a new vet school at Raleigh? It says that, despite planning funds already allocated, the 1979 General Assembly must take a fresh work at its handiwork. Proposition 13 weather is no time to give the burdened taxpayers even more reason to lose confidence in the judgment of their representatives.

To many of its ardent supporters the Social Security System rests on this very pillar of social living. But unfortunately they are confusing charity with politics, benevolence with power, and sharing with taking. In all the Social Security systems that have come into existence since the 1880's, the thought of charity probably never occurred to their founders. The German system, which pointed the Charity, which is love in action, gives of oneself, in person and substance. The politician who votes for Social Security improvements is liberal with other men's income and substance. He is talking about his great concern for the poor and needy, always pointing at his own generosity.

For old retirees the System provides windfall benefits that will generally exceed by far the amounts previously contributed. Ever since the System's beginning in 1937, politicians have been bidding for their votes through frequent improvements in benefits. Retirees even receive automatic increases in benefit payments as the consumer price index rises. Such increases obviously are not taken from the retirees, but are covered by new tax levies imposed on the working population which is carrying the growing burden of transfer.

Strength For Today

WHY ARE WE HERE?
From the dawn of history philosophers have been asking the question, why are we in this world, and being here, what are we supposed to do? The Biblical answer to these questions is comparatively simple. Taken as a whole, the Bible teaches that we are here in the world to grow souls. We are given a set of circumstances and told by the great master to go to work and see what we can do with them. Can we handle poverty?

Can we endure the spiritual erosion of wealth? Can we submit to pain without becoming bitter? Can we face disappointment and keep up our courage? The poet puts it: "I go to prove my soul! I shall arrive! What time, what circuit first I ask not. In some time, His good time, I shall arrive; He guides me and the birds; In his good time!" In his good time!" —Elisha Douglas

In the nearly 100-year history of European-type Social Security experience, during the final stage of maturity expenses may stabilize, but the revenues decline as a result of the growing opposition. Budgetary deficits must then be covered by subsidies from the general budget. That is, the system draws on all federal revenues to help bear the expenses of the giant transfer process. But the federal government itself may suffer huge deficits and therefore resort to inflation as a convenient supplementary source of revenue. Social Security thus becomes a powerful inflation force that destroys the currency, extirpates monetary savings and depreciates incomes. Its benefits, which grew to the most rushing burden of the political transfer order, are finally washed away in the flood of hyperinflation.

The Better To See You

When Grandma wants to get a good look at you, she takes off her glasses. She needs them for reading and for needlepoint, but not for distance. Her sister, however, wears glasses for distance, but takes them off when she reads or sews.

Our physical vision spells out the way we see, yet it is our mental vision that determines the way we look at things. We form opinions, we judge, according to our background, education, experience, the way we were taught when we were young. Like our eyesight, the way we think becomes a part of us.

Sometimes we are wrong. Sometimes we judge too quickly. In our humanness we need help, guidance, particularly when the going gets rough.

The Church, remember, is there for all times—good and bad. Have you visited it recently?

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are expected until Saturday morning from the Ohio and Tennessee valleys to the Great Lakes and western half of the Northeast. Sunny skies are forecast from the Mississippi to the Pacific. Cool weather is due for the northern Plains, warm in the Southwest and mild weather elsewhere. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
Colder air heading toward North Carolina from the west will be moving into the mountains tonight, and a cool and breezy weekend is indicated. The colder air will overspread the state toward the coast during Saturday.

The forecast also carries the prospect of some precipitation, which should fall in the form of rain and thundershowers, occurring over the mountains tonight and over the state Saturday.

Thursday was an ideal early autumn day with temperatures slightly above normal. Under mostly sunny skies temperatures rose into the 60s and 70s over the mountains and to the upper 70s and low 80s elsewhere. Some scattered high level loudness overnight kept temperatures mostly in the 50s.

The weekend will be cooler and breezy by day and noticeably colder at night.

Hunt Sees One-Shot Tax Rebate

Parents Warned Girl Of Dangers In World

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — Mary Vincent's parents say they warned their young daughter of the dangers that lurked outside her comfortable home, but that she left anyway "to see the world."

Now she is recovering from a rape and ax mutilation and they wonder if they're to blame.

"She just wanted to be an adult before her time," Herbert Vincent said softly Thursday. "We did what we could. But you can't chain a person down."

Mary was found Sept. 30, nude and bleeding, on a country road near here after walking almost two miles from where the attack occurred. Her forearms had been hacked off below the elbows. Larry Singleton, a 51-year-old merchant seaman from Sparks, Nev., was arraigned Thursday on four felony counts in the case.

MARY VINCENT — The Nevada girl whose arms were cut off, in a 1977 family album photo. (AP Laserphoto)

One of seven children, Mary, 15, ran away from her Las Vegas home last April, her parents said. It was not the first time, but this time she stayed away longer, and the ending was tragic.

"We don't know if we're the ones who failed, or if it was something at school, or something with society," Vincent, a 38-year-old slot machine mechanic, said in an interview. "Perhaps we failed some ways, and if I knew how I would be glad to tell other people."

But if children want to leave home, he said, "you can't stop them. It's best if they go to another relative. Hitchhiking, that's the worst thing."

Lucy Vincent, 37, a casino worker, called her daughter "a sweet, good girl" who, "like all teen-agers, sometimes had tantrums." Before Mary left home the last time, the two bickered about whether or not she should be allowed to wear makeup, Mrs. Vincent said.

Mary didn't tell her parents she was leaving, but called later. "She said she was confused in a lot of ways, and wanted to find her own way," her father recalled.

"We tried everything to explain to Mary, to prove to Mary, that so many things could happen out in the world," said Vincent.

Mary is learning to use a prosthesis that has been fitted to the stump of her left arm. Her spirits are generally high, but she has brief, intense bouts with depression and anger, nurses say.

The Vincents said their daughter has vowed to become adept with artificial arms. "She's said that she won't be handicapped, that she'll be able to do anything she wants to do," including pursuing a career as a dancer, her mother said.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt said Thursday he is confident that the state will have enough money for a one-shot tax rebate next year.

Hunt also dismissed the results of a statewide survey taken recently that showed little support for the rebate.

Hunt said his administration has been working on what he called an "essential budget" for next year that is aimed at providing money for essential programs while leaving a surplus for the rebate.

But he said that revenue figures won't be certain until next spring, and an unexpected drop could change the plans.

Hunt has avoided mentioning how much the rebate might be.

"I am confident there will be money available. I really do think that," Hunt said at a news conference.

Hunt said the survey, released earlier this week by The News and Observer of Raleigh, showed a "bias."

"I think the poll was not constructed properly," he said. "When I looked at the question that poll asked, I would have voted for more education because it looked like it was an either-or proposition — were you for better education or more tax rebate."

The survey of 600 people across the state showed 76.2 percent favored the money going to education, while 15.1 percent said they favored a tax rebate.

"We're going to do both," Hunt said. "We're going to improve education... but I think we can also do the other."

The budget for education would include money for the primary grade reading program and more aid for exceptional children, Hunt said. He would not elaborate. Hunt also repeated his support for a rebate rather than a tax cut.

"I think it would be a mistake to cut taxes by a large amount, then have to come back and raise them the next year" if the economy got worse, he said.

A Joyless Marriage Is Set For Jas. Earl Ray

PETROS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray, the confessed killer of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., was to marry a 32-year-old divorcee today, but prison officials said the couple would not be allowed to consummate their marriage after the ceremony.

The 50-year-old Ray's wedding to Anna Sandhu was to be held at 4 p.m. EDT behind the walls of Brushy Mountain State Penitentiary, a maximum-security prison in a mountainous, isolated region of east Tennessee.

Warden Stonney Lane said only five guests would be allowed to attend the ceremony in the prison visitors' gallery.

No reporters or photographers would be present, he added.

He said four prison officers would be there, but no additional security precautions were planned.

"Of course, it's behind three locked doors," Lane said. "I'll allow them to have cake and coffee and socialize for about 30 minutes. Then he'll be taken back to his cell."

The Rev. James Lawson, once associated with King, plans to perform the ceremony. Now pastor of the Holman United Methodist Church in Los Angeles, Lawson once was minister at a black church in Memphis.

He helped persuade King to visit the city in 1968 to support striking city garbage men. The civil rights leader was slain during that trip.

Ray, a life-long bachelor, is serving a 99-year sentence for the assassination. He pleaded guilty in 1969 but since has recanted and demanded a new trial.

Mrs. Sandhu, a courtroom artist, met Ray a year ago while he was on trial for a June, 1977 prison escape. She said she gradually fell in love with him and does not believe he killed King.

Among invited guests are lawyer Mark Lane, a brother and a female neighbor of Mrs. Sandhu, the warden said.

Textiles Paced N.C. Investment

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State figures released Thursday show that the largest single category of new industrial investment in North Carolina during a recent three month period came in textiles — a low-wage paying industry often blamed for the state's low per capita income.

Gov. Jim Hunt released figures showing that total industrial investment in the state during the first nine months of the year was a record $1.36 billion. For the most recent three months, the investment was $237 million, of which more than 10 percent was in textiles.

Hunt said that when the new plants start producing in one to two years, the investment will help raise personal income in the state.

The nine month figure compares to $750 million invested during the first nine months of last year. Total investment for all of 1977 was $1.45 billion, which set a record for the state.

After textiles, the next leading categories were metal products, non-electrical machinery and rubber products, said Barlow Herget, assistant to the Secretary of Commerce.

Hunt acknowledged in his announcement that the state had slipped three places, from 37th to 40th, among the states in per capita income last year. He blamed the drop on the poor year the state's farmers had in 1977.

"Because of the size of our agricultural sector and the great number of jobs we have in industries such as textiles, apparel and furniture, it is going to be very, very hard to move up in those rankings," he said.

"But a good farm year and continued strong industrial development will go a long way toward helping us move up," Hunt said.

Two Booked For Probe Of Attempted Murder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two Synanon Foundation members, including the son of bandleader Stan Kenton, were booked today for investigation of assault with intent to commit murder in a rattlesnake attack on an attorney who won a $300,000 judgment against the group, police said.

Lance Kenton, 20, and Joseph Musico, 28, surrendered to Los Angeles Police detectives in Badger, Calif., about 150 miles from here, at a camp owned by Synanon, a drug rehabilitation organization.

Under California law, police can book someone for investigation but formal charges can be brought only at an arraignment before a judge.

Police Cmdr. William Booth said a car reportedly seen during the bizarre incident, a green Plymouth, was at the camp.

Kenton and Musico were accompanied by Phil Bourdette, an attorney for the organization, who said Synanon would not be representing the pair.

Lawyer Paul Morantz, 33, remained in stable but serious condition at County-USC Medical Center where he was taken after being bitten by a 4 1/2-foot rattlesnake that had been dropped into his mailbox.

Morantz was attacked by the snake Tuesday when he returned home and reached into the mailbox. The reptile's rattles had been removed, apparently to keep it from warning its victim, police said.

"It was like having my hand in a vice and it kept tightening," Morantz said. Fire Department paramedics came to his aid while firemen beheaded the snake.

Morantz, who has crusaded against various cults and alternative life-style groups and has been involved in a number of child custody battles with Synanon, recently won a $300,000 judgment for a couple who said the wife had been kidnapped and physically abused by Synanon last year.

Ship's Engine Room Explosion Kills 59 Persons; 18 Injured

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer
SINGAPORE (AP) — An engine room explosion that sent metal fragments flying like shrapnel through the bowels of a Greek oil tanker killed 59 persons, including two sisters, Singapore police said today. A third sister and 18 other persons were hospitalized with severe burns, and 71 others suffered less serious injuries, they said.

The blast occurred Thursday afternoon aboard the 35,676-ton Spyros, tied up for repairs and cleaning at the Jurong Shipyard. There was no official word on the cause of the explosion, but there was speculation it touched off by sparks from welding torches in the ship's boiler room or a leak in a gas cylinder. The tanker had no cargo aboard at the time of the blast.

Hospital sources said many of the victims were burned beyond recognition. Police said the dead included a least six of the ship's 33-member crew and two of the three sisters working as cleaners aboard the vessel. The crew included 27 Greeks, two Chileans, two Indonesians, an Englishman and a Filipino.

Paul Abraham, an employee of an electricity substation that supplied power to the ship, said he switched off electricity to the Spyros immediately after the blast and climbed aboard with portable lights.

"As I descended into the ship, I saw badly burned workers struggling to get to the top deck," he said. "One had all his hair singed, leaving only his bare scalp. From below I could hear screams of people in pain... I came across charred bodies, some piled on top of each other, while others were hidden behind pipes after being thrown by the explosion."

Search and rescue teams were hampered by oil, a residue from the ship's tanks, and water sloshing around in the darkened engine and boiler rooms. One firefighter said most of the victims were found in the oil-water mix in the bowels of the ship.

The Spyros is owned by the Ulysses Tanker Corp., of Greece and registered in Liberia, according to Lloyd's Register of Ships.

Opening lead: King of ♠.

Like a smart quarterback on a muddy field on a rainy day, South gave the ball to the opposition in order to gain his objective.

Once North could raise spades freely, South had the values to try for game. Just in case North held only three spades and had to suppress a four-card heart suit, South introduced his second suit. North had more than enough to accept his partner's invitation.

West led the king of clubs, and declarer saw that his only problem would be to avoid two diamond losers. That could be accomplished with a successful finesse for the jack. There was just one problem—the finesse could be taken either way. Declarer knew he had a 50 per cent chance of guessing right, but unfortunately, he also had a 50 per cent of going wrong. He found a way to avoid the guess by not taking the finesse at all!

Declarer won the opening lead with the ace of clubs and immediately ruffed a club in his hand. After drawing trumps in two rounds, declarer led the ace of hearts and another. It made no difference which defender won this trick—neither could afford to break diamonds, for that would eliminate declarer's problem in that suit, and a club return would allow declarer to ruff in dummy while discarding a diamond from his hand.

The best defenders could do was to continue hearts. When the suit broke 3-3, however, the defense was finished. No matter which minor suit was led, declarer would lose no more than one diamond trick in addition to the two hearts he had already lost.

What if the hearts broke 4-2? There was a possibility the suit might block, but if the defenders could arrange to exit with a fourth heart, declarer would be no worse off than if he hadn't touched hearts. He would ruff the fourth heart in dummy, and then he would have had to guess which defender held the jack of diamonds.

The event is co-sponsored by Iota Kappa Omega chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority and the ECU school of Home Economics, in cooperation with the N.C. Humanities Committee, which provided funds.

Topics of the four sessions are:
"The Afro-American Family: An Overview," Dr. Jasper Register of the ECU sociology faculty, speaker (7:30 p.m. Oct. 19);

"The Afro-American Family in the Education of Its Youth," Dr. Major E. Boyd, associate vice president, N.C. Dept. of Community Colleges (7:30 p.m. Oct. 20)

"The Family as Consumer: The Afro-American Family in the Marketplace," Mary Jo Nason, home economist, speaker (10 a.m. Oct 21);

"The Changing Black

Woman: Is She Affecting the Structure of the Afro-American Family?" Dr. Jacqueline Johnson Jackson, associate professor of medical sociology, Duke University Medical Center, speaker (2 p.m., Oct. 21.)

All sessions will be held in ECU's Willis Building and are free and open to interested persons.

Presiding at the four sessions will be Gracie Mebane Vines, Director of Social Services for the Pitt County Memorial Hospital; Joyce Pettis of the ECU English faculty; Dr. Lilla Holsey of the ECU home economics faculty; and Ella Harris, librarian at Rose High School, Greenville.

Participants are three symposium panels will include Norma Barrett of the Pitt Technical Institute Guidance and Counseling Service; Alice Faye Brewington, project manager of Greenville's Southside Urban Renewal Project; Ed Carter of Burroughs Wellcome Co. and member of the Greenville City School Board;

Mildred Council of the N.C. Dept. of Human Resources' health services division; Jean Darden, assistant principal at Rose High School; Quenton Eaton, Rose High School student; Jennifer King, ECU student;

Francis Mebane of the Beaufort Technical Institute Guidance and Counseling Service; Bobby Pettis, educational consultant; Donaldson Phillips of Phillips Brothers Mortuary, Greenville; Dr. Cedric Rodney of the Winston-Salem State University history faculty; and

Dr. Herman Thomas of the UNC-Charlotte faculty.

"Since the Afro-American family is a unique unit, many of the issues which involve such families are not the same as those confronting families of the dominant culture," said Ms. Pettis, symposium director.

"When the problems of the two family groups are similar, the solutions are frequently dissimilar," she said. Participation in the symposium by persons of all races is welcome.

The opening session will feature a film, "Claudine," after the speaker's presentation and before an audience interaction period. The other three sessions will include question and answer periods.

Persons who attend all symposium sessions may apply for continuing education units to be awarded through the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

Further information about the symposium is available from Dr. Holsey at the ECU School of Home Economics.

Vickie Lynn Loftis of River Bluff Apts. was charged with failing to stop at the scene of an accident, careless and reckless driving and driving under the influence, following investigation of an 11:24 p.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth Street and Greenville Boulevard, while Gary Winfield Williams of Atlantic Beach was charged with delaying and obstructing an officer in connection with the same mishap.

Investigators reported cars driven by Miss Loftis and Williams collided, causing an estimated $1,000 damage to the Loftis car and $1,200 damage to the Williams vehicle.

The Loftis car was found a short time following the mishap in the parking lot at River Bluff.

Public Invited Attend Chicamacomico Event

THE CHICAMACOMICO STATION . . . The main building of Rodanthe's Chicamacomico Lifesaving Station is shown in this painting by the artist, Don Bryan of Nags Head. A reception open to the public is being held by the Chicamacomico Historical Association at 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 14 at Ramada Inn Nags Head. (Photo by J. Foster Scott, Dare County Tourist Bureau.)

NAGS HEAD—The public is invited to a reception at 6 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 14 in the Old Tom's Parlor meeting room of Ramada Inn, sponsored by the Chicamacomico Historical Association. Several events are scheduled to take place during the reception period. These are:

— A performance of the original ballad, "Freedom Call," by Outer Banks musician Mojo Collins. The ballad tells the story of the struggle to preserve the Chicamacomico Lifesaving Station at Rodanthe.

— Display of a scale model of the station by a 14-year-old boy, Jimmy Wentz. His model includes 12,000 shingles and took 475 hours for him to complete.

— The official announcement of receipt by Chicamacomico Historical Association of the international "Connie" award, given for successful efforts to preserve the lifesaving station, and — Announcement of long-range plans for the restoration of Chicamacomico Lifesaving Station. The plans, to be discussed by Carolista Baum, president of the association's board of directors, are for the restoration of the buildings and the creation of a U.S. Lifesaving Service Museum.

"It has been a long battle so far," Ms. Baum admits, "and the bulk of the work toward restoring the buildings and opening an interpretive program has just begun." The goal set includes opening at least a part of the main station to the public by the summer of 1979, in order that the public will have an opportunity to get some idea of the scope of the restoration project.

Body Found In Apt. Freezer

JAMESTOWN, N.C. (AP)—Officers were trying to locate Movers followed a strange odor Wednesday in an uninhabited apartment and found the body of a woman in a freezer.

The unidentified corpse may have been in the freezer as long as six years, authorities said. The small freezer — 30 inches by 30 inches — opened from the top and the body was in a squatting position.

The apartment was rented by a tenant who apparently never moved in but paid the rent by mail, said Sheriff Paul Gibson of Guilford County. The rent stopped coming, and the apartment was being cleared out as part of an eviction proceeding.

Appliances in the apartment had never been used, and what appeared to be unopened boxes of personal possessions were there. It was unclear how long the woman had been there.

"It's hard to tell," said Deputy Sam Langford. "She's been frozen for a long, long time."

The body was sent to the state Medical Examiners Office in Chapel Hill, where an autopsy was set for today.

The body was so decomposed that it was impossible to tell immediately whether there were any wounds, Gibson said.

Gibson said the apartment was rented to Arthur C. Cline, who had been paying the rent and utility bills through the mail by money order. Cline apparently rented the apartment shortly after the complex was built in the early 1970s, and

Role In Rhodesia Is Unwelcome

By MAUREEN JOHNSON Associated Press Writer SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP)

Black guerrilla chief Robert Mugabe has told America to butt out of Rhodesian peace efforts, and Prime Minister Ian Smith says he opposes U.S. "preconditions" for talks.

Their positions, announced half a world apart Thursday, dampened U.S. and British efforts to get the communist-backed guerrillas to the negotiating table with Rhodesia's transition government.

"It is within our rights to demand that states who have no legal right or interest in the Rhodesian constitutional situation ought not to have any presence at any future constitutional conferences dealing with the matter. We now name the United States as one state which must never attend," Mugabe said in a statement from the Mozambique capital of Maputo.

Mugabe was incensed that the State Department had granted Smith a visa to visit the United States and said by doing so that Washington "exceeded its jurisdiction as mediator."

He also accused Washington of "supplying arms, money and technology to Rhodesia" and mercenaries as well, but he offered no evidence. An estimated 400 Americans are reported fighting in Rhodesia as members of the army but without U.S. government approval.

Mugabe and fellow guerrilla chief Joshua Nkomo head the Patriotic Front, which has been fighting a six-year bush war against Smith's government. Both rejected the internal settlement Smith reached earlier this year with three black moderates — promising elections leading to black majority rule early next year.

The United States and Britain have been seeking a Rhodesian settlement for more than a year in an effort to head off a possible expansion of Soviet and Cuban involvement in southern Africa.

Washington and most other U.N. members have complied with sanctions imposed against Rhodesia since 1965 when Smith severed colonial ties with Britain and declared independence to head off moves toward black majority rule.

Smith, in Washington at the invitation of a group of congressmen, said Thursday he was willing to attend a conference with the guerrillas, but tangled with the State Department over what he claimed were U.S. preconditions for the talks.

"My only precondition is that there be no preconditions," Smith told reporters after briefing the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on his bilateral government's plans to bring black majority rule to Rhodesia. "What we have been opposed to is the conditions the

School Bonds Issue Forecast

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A statewide vote may be coming up in the next two years on issuance of $500 million to $750 million in bonds for school construction.

A bond issue is necessary because most of the $300 million bond issue authorized in 1973 has been spent, said A. Craig Phillips, state superintendent of public instruction.

"We made a lot of progress, but we still have a lot left to reach a point where every youngster is in the right kind of building," Phillips said Thursday.

The General Assembly would have to approve a state bond issue before it could be submitted to the voters.

Lacy M. Presnell, head of the state school planning unit, listed these reasons for approving a bond issue:

— Schools, like other public facilities, must be made accessible to handicapped people.

— Many existing buildings are inadequate and must be replaced.

— Money is needed to make schools energy efficient.

— Many old schools need remodeling to make room for new programs.

"What I hear from the people is that they want us to responsibly spend more money for education," Phillips said.

"The bottom line in all of this is that we are trying to provide a full educational opportunity for every youngster, no matter where he lives in the state.

"Among our goals is to have the right kind of buildings, equipment and space for our school children," he added.

Phillips said officials decided to consider a bond issue after hearing reports from the governor's Commission on Public School Finance and the Fulcher Commission on school personnel.

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices were mixed today as a prime rate increase spread quickly through the banking industry.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had slipped 4.68 on Thursday, edged up .18 to 896.92 by noontime today.

But declines held a 3-2 edge on advances in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Numerous banks across the country joined today in a quarter-point increase in the prime lending rate to 10 percent, which had been initiated on Thursday by Chase Manhattan of New York.

Chase's decision to raise the basic charge on blue chip loans to the two-digit level for the first time since the 1974-75 recession seemed to take the steam out of a rally in stock prices that had begun Wednesday, when the Dow climbed nearly 10 points.

Brokers noted a general atmosphere of pessimism about the interest rate outlook, because the Federal Reserve's recent program of allowing money rates to rise gradually has yet to accomplish its stated objective of restraining the growth of the money supply.

Lockheed was down 1 at 29 1/4 after a 1 1/2-point drop Thursday, when the company estimated relatively flat 1978 earnings and said it didn't expect any big increase next year.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .10 to 58.96. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .35 at 171.80.

Volume on the Big Board slowed to 9.04 million shares as of noontime, against 14.04 million at the same point Thursday.

Child Abuser Guarded From Fellow Prisoners

By CARL MANNING
Associated Press Writer
 NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Two years after the beating death of 4-year-old Melisha Gibson, her stepfather, Ronald Maddux, spends nearly all his time alone in a maximum security cell at the state's main prison.

Maddux spends his days, according to prison officials, either reading or watching television on a small set inside his cell. The sparse cell protects him from other inmates.

Maddux, who refused to talk to reporters Thursday, is still harassed at times by fellow convicts who yell at him in the middle of the night, officials say.

"We keep him under close observation because of the nature of his offense," associate warden Robert Childress said Thursday. "It is the most odious thing a man can be charged with as far as the other prisoners are concerned."

Childress said Maddux, who does not have a prison job, is allowed out of his cell only to shower or exercise under close guard. Like other prisoners in maximum security, his meals are brought to his cell.

The beating death of Melisha two years ago today in Cleveland, a southeast Tennessee city, triggered demands for toughening the state's child abuse laws. The 1977 Legislature enacted a series of child abuse laws that experts say are among the nation's stiffest.

Maddux and his wife, Wanda Maddux, each were sentenced to 99 years in prison following their conviction last year on second-degree murder. Mrs. Maddux is confined at the Tennessee Women's Prison. They will not be eligible for parole until March 2007.

During the Madduxes' trial in Athens, Tenn., Melisha's two older sisters testified that Maddux beat Melisha with a metal tipped club, forced her to drink hot sauce though she vomited, and made her march through the house for a day while she wept. "Daddy, I've learned my lesson."

Gets Award From Court

ELIZABETHTOWN, N.C. (AP) - A Superior Court judge awarded $90,000 to a Bladen County woman Thursday who accused three Clinton doctors of performing needless surgery to remove her reproductive organs.

Judge Hamilton Hobgood found two of the three doctors, John A. Crowe and Bruce F. Caldwell, to be negligent. However, he held that a third doctor named in the suit filed by Ada Beatty, J. Cooper Howard, was not negligent.

The three doctors are associates in the Clinton Surgical Clinic.

Mrs. Beatty had asked for more than $1 million in damages. She contended that the doctors removed a 2-month-old fetus during a total abdominal hysterectomy performed in 1974. A second operation was performed in 1975.

Mrs. Beatty contended the doctors were negligent in performing the surgery while she was pregnant without performing a last-minute pelvic examination.

The defendants asserted that they made a necessary medical decision to relieve Mrs. Beatty's recurrent abdominal pain.

Crowe said he was disappointed in the verdict and he knew the verdict would be appealed. The surgeons have 10 days to file an appeal.

Hobgood heard the case without a jury at the request of attorneys in the case.

Campaign Role For Paul Davis

U.S. Senate candidate John Ingram announced the appointment of Paul Davis of Greenville as Pitt County coordinator for the Ingram campaign.

Ingram made the announcement here this week at the opening of his Democratic headquarters at the corner of 14th and Charles Streets.

Davis, a Greensboro native, is a practicing attorney with the local firm of Taft and Taft, having moved here in July.

He received his undergraduate degree and law degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and also earned his Masters degree in experimental pathology.

Davis served as a law clerk to District Court Judge Frank T. Dupree of Raleigh before moving to Norfolk where he maintained a private practice with the firm of Bangel, Bangel and Bangel.

Most recently, he served as an associate professor of law and assistant dean of the Cumberland School of Law in Birmingham, Ala.

The new Pitt campaign manager is married to Gay Rousseau Atkins of Gastonia, who is also an attorney.

Golden Eagles Seek Revenge Over Bucs

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Two years ago, East Carolina University opened its football season with a 48-0 romp past Southern Mississippi. At the time, it was thought that the Golden Eagles would have its best team ever.

That defeat kept the Eagles struggling throughout the season. Only late in the year did they finally manage to get things back on track.

Saturday night at 8:30 p.m. (EDT), the Pirates play the Eagles again, this time on Southern Mississippi's home turf in Hattiesburg, Miss., and although SM's coach Bobby Collins says revenge is not a factor in the game, you can be sure that every player on the team has been reminded of that game.

The meeting of the two teams will be their seventh, with the Eagles winning four of the previous ones. Several of the games have been lopsided shutouts. The Eagles won 40-0, in the first meeting in 1951, but then gained a 35-14 win in the second, 15 years later. In 1968, they rolled to a 65-0 win over the Pirates before getting a 14-7 win the following year in Greenville.

In 1973, Sonny Randle's second team, after being blown away by N.C. State, 57-8, the week before shut out the Eagles, 13-0, the following week. So in the last two meetings, the strong SM club has yet to score against the Pirates.

ECU Coach Pat Dye, however, is not looking for a shutout this weekend—or a repeat of the game two years ago—by either team.

"They have a very fine football team," he said of the Eagles. "They are good in every phase of the game, and are probably the best team we've faced since N.C. State."

Dye noted that SM has an outstanding kicking game, following a tradition of several years. "They've had a little trouble on the punt return coverage the last two weeks, but they have an excellent punter in the Ray Guy tradition. Three of their former punters are now in the NFL, by the way."

The Eagles run from the power-I, and are a ball-control team, Dye added. "Their offensive line is comparable to State's. Ricky Butler (left tackle) is a great offensive lineman, probably the next best to (N.C. State's Jim) Richter. They have three good tight ends, and run with two tight ends in formation a lot of times."

Dye praised running back

Tiko Beal as one of the top backs around. "They have good receivers, too, and a couple of good quarterbacks in Dane McDaniel and Jeff Hammond. Hammond has been hurt, and we're not sure how much he'll be able to play."

The coach said that while USM hasn't made a lot of yards, they play a conservative game, and that accounts for it. "They don't make mistakes," he pointed out. "They should have beaten Mississippi. They were driving for a score with the score tied at 13-13, and had a pass that would have scored picked off and run back late in the game. Mississippi got a field goal out of it and won the game, 16-13."

Dye also had special praise for USM's defense, calling nose guard Thad Dillard one of the best around. "All of their down linemen are mobile and use good technique. They have two fine linebackers in Clump Taylor and Freeman Horton, excellent defensive ends, and a great corner back in Hanford Dixon."

The game could turn into a defensive battle, since the Pirates are ranked 12th in total defense, allowing 221.0 yards a game, and Southern Miss is ranked 13th in rushing defense, giving up only 111.6 yards a game on the ground.

"We're going to play with great enthusiasm against Ole Miss and Mississippi State, and I have no doubt that they'll be ready to play us," Dye said.

"We're going to prepare to play them at their best, because that's the way we expect them to be: a wild-eyed group looking for revenge, on their own home field and with their own home fans. About the only thing going for us in the game will be the 11 guys on the field."

Safety Gerald Hall

Fame Of Hall Is Growing

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Gerald Hall didn't give a lot of time for thoughts about the VMI football game during the past week.

He was too busy trying to solve another problem. Sometime during the week, he discovered a snake in his bed, and he was trying to find the teammate who pulled the trick on him.

But Saturday, Hall was the snake himself, twisting and turning through the VMI defenses for 121 yards in punt returns, tying the school record, and adding 34 more yards in interception returns.

And it was the Keydets who were snake bit.

For it, Hall was honored as one of the runners-up for National AP Back of The Week this week.

"It was the best game of the season for me," Hall said. "but I don't think it was by best overall. I'd have to say The Citadel game two years ago was my best." Hall led the Pirates to six pickoffs against Bulldog passing in that game, as the Bucs got off six interceptions.

Hall didn't know he'd tied the punt return record until after the game. "Somebody told me then," he said. Late in the game, he had a chance to return another kick, but said he wouldn't have gone for it just for the yardage had he known. "It was late in the game, and they had it pretty well covered anyway."

Hall wasn't surprised when he was able to get away for the touchdown run on his second return. "The line has been getting good hold-ups and blocking well, so we knew that it was just a matter of time. And if it keeps up, I think I can get a good return about just about anyone."

Hall said he really didn't get a bigger thrill between getting an interception and a good punt return.

Hall nearly didn't get one of the interceptions against VMI. He and cornerback Charlie Carter went up together and both appeared to make the reception. "We both got hold of it, but I was able to come down with it," Hall said.

Asked if he thought people were throwing away from him in his senior year, he said he didn't really think so. "They are throwing more on the corners this year, but Charlie and Willie (Holley) are doing a real good job of coverage."

Hall doesn't remember much about the last time the Pirates played Southern Mississippi. "I was just a sophomore and it was my first starting game. I remember that they were big, but that's about all."

He added that he thought that game was probably the best overall game the Pirates have played in his career here, putting all phases of the game together.

Hall ripped off a 70-yard touchdown run in that game to help spark the first quarter pullaway that put the game on ice. He also had another fine run later in that game.

Saturday, down in Hattiesburg, he'd like to do the same thing.

And this time, make the Eagles the ones who are snake-bit.

Heels, Deacs Chasing Win

By The Associated Press

Both teams are tired of losing, but only one can break its streak Saturday when North Carolina squares off against Wake Forest at Groves Stadium in Winston-Salem.

Both The Tar Heels and the Deacons won their season openers, but since then it's been slow going. Carolina has dropped three straight and Wake, four.

"Every game we play from now on is a big one," said Carolina Coach Dick Crum who is in his first year at the school. "We're going to have to approach the Wake Forest game as if it's for the national championship if we hope to win."

Said Deacons Coach John Mackovic, "Both teams have been close to getting big wins, but we've let opportunities slip away. I guess you could say both teams are due for a big game."

Freshmen will play vital roles for both teams. Chuck Sharpe will start at quarterback for the Tar Heels for the second straight week, and another freshman quarterback, David Webber, will start for Wake, also for the second week in a row.

The Carolina-Wake Forest series is one of the longest in the South. The two teams have the distinction of having played the first football game in the state, in 1888.

Kickoff will be at 1:30 p.m.

VIRGINIA-CLEMSON

It would seem that the meeting between the Cavs and the Tigers at Virginia might be the easiest to call in the ACC this week.

Virginia has a record of 0-2 in the conference and 1-4 overall. Clemson, widely favored earlier this year as sure conference champs, is 3-1 overall.

As a college player at Louisiana State, Pete Maravich scored 50 points or more in a basketball game on 28 occasions.

and this will be the team's first ACC game.

The Cavs have been plagued by penalties, fumbles and pass interceptions this year.

Clemson is a big, strong team and is top-ranked in the league in both offense and defense.

The game starts at 1:30 p.m.

DUKE-NAVY

The Blue Devils will travel to Annapolis, Md. Saturday to meet Navy on its home turf. No one expects Duke, 3-1, to have an easy time of it against the Midshipmen, who are 4-0.

But the Middies haven't been tested this season. They haven't played a team with a winning record and they've never been behind.

Duke, in spite of its win against Virginia last week, is still smarting from a 52-0 loss at Michigan. Kickoff is at 2 p.m.

MARYLAND-SYRACUSE

The Terps are travelling North Saturday to meet Syracuse. Maryland is unbeaten this year and ranked in the top 20.

Syracuse got badly stomped by N.C. State earlier in the season.

N.C. STATE is idle this week.

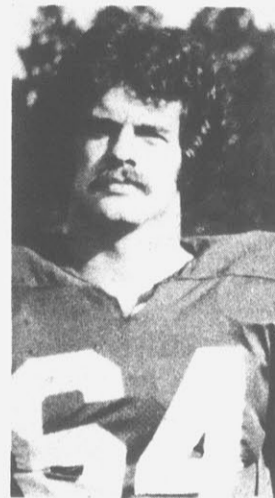

Lady Pirates Sweep Meeting

PEMBROKE — East Carolina University's women's volleyball team gained a pair of victories last night, defeating Elon College and hosting Pembroke State University.

The Lady Pirates started the evening with a 2-0 win over Elon, winning games by scores of 15-5 and 15-10.

They came back with a 2-1 win over Pembroke. The Lady Braves won the first game, 15-13, but ECU came back with 15-12 and 15-8 victories.

The Lady Pirates are now 13-7. ECU plays host to N.C. State Wednesday in Minges Coliseum.

Cubs Grab 7th Win

Rose High School's junior varsity football team maintained its unbeaten string with a 7-0 victory over Bertie yesterday.

The game was mostly a defensive struggle between the two. Rose held Bertie several times inside the 20 yard line to prevent scores.

The lone touchdown in the game came in the third period when Alonza Taylor broke away and raced 80 yards for the score. Mike Thurber added the PAT.

Taylor led the Rose attack with 101 yards rushing, while Rose had 206 yards in total offense.

Curtis Spell, Willie Short and Jeff Ferrell led the defensive play.

Rose, now 7-0, travels to Northern Nash next week.

Tom Baines continued to hold onto the lead in our picker's poll last week, while this writer moved into sole possession of second place.

But the chances for some movement in the standings is there this week with several differences. So we'll have to see how things come out on Saturday night.

Baines currently leads the field with a 50-19-1 mark on the season, while we are second with a 48-21-1 record. Joe Jenkins and our guests are tied for third place with 47-22-1 marks, followed by Jim Kyle at 46-23-1 and Vickie Spivey at 43-26-1.

Last week's guest, Bill Cain, the East Carolina athletic director, posted a 10-2 record on the week, but that wasn't good enough, as Baines and this writer hit on 11 of the 12 games. Only the Miami-North Carolina game tripped us up.

This week's guest is a former "Daily Reflector" part-timer, now affiliated with WCHL Radio in Chapel Hill. Tom Foreman Jr. Long a closet member of our panel, picking against us for the fun of it, we decided to give him a chance this week.

Turning to our high school games, our record is currently 26-0 after a 7-0 record last week.

The Eastern Carolina Conference race features four games. First off, C.B. Aycock visits Farmville Central. The Jaguars just keep rolling along, and this week will be no exception.

Greene Central, after getting its stuff together for the conference race, faces its second title contender this week in the Chargers of Ayden-Grifton. The Chargers are rolling now too, and should be able to handle the Rams.

Conley travels to Southern Nash. The Vikes seem to have fallen on hard times recently, while the Firebirds have begun to move. We have to go with Southern Nash in this one.

North Pitt, after two straight defeats, plays host to North Lenoir. This could be a key game for the Panthers as they decide the rest of the year. We're going to go with North Pitt.

Roanoke visits North Edgecombe in an Eastern Plains game. The Redskins will probably vent their frustrations at losing a playoff bid chance on the lowly Edgecombe team.

Williamston is at Ahoskie. The Ahoskie team is still in the race for the title. Williamston can only play on pride now, but that won't be enough. Ahoskie the pick here.

Finally, Jamesville plays host to Manteo. The Bullets are finding the going tough, and it will get no easier this week. Manteo will win this one.

Rose High School travels Bertie for what could be a key Division I game. If the Rampants are to have any chance at a playoff berth they must win this one. Bertie, meanwhile, is making noises like a possible title contender, having not lost a game. Our panel goes with the Falcons, giving them a 5-1 nod.

East Carolina travels down to Southern Mississippi in what could be another important game. If the Pirates hope to keep any hopes of a bowl game going, they must win this one to get some valuable prestige. But unless the offense gets on track, it could be a very difficult assignment. Still, the panel likes the Bucs, but only by a slim 4-2 margin.

Other consensus winners include: Clemson over Virginia; Maryland over Syracuse; Richmond over VMI; Virginia Tech over West Virginia; Louisiana State over Georgia; Navy over Duke; North Carolina over Wake Forest; Notre Dame over Pittsburgh; The Citadel over Western Carolina; and Miami, Fla., and Georgia Tech, a toss-up.

Miracle Needed

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose says it will take a miracle for him to be back in a Cincinnati Reds' uniform next season.

The Reds' third baseman Thursday rejected what the Cincinnati Reds called their final offer, and concluded that it was unlikely he would be with the National League team in 1979.

"I love this town, but evidently the people who run the ballclub don't love me," Rose said at a press conference. "I did everything they ask. I don't see why any other player should come into this city — my city — and make more money."

"Who in all of baseball has had a better record in the last 16 years?" Rose, who has a history of contract wrangles during his 16 years in Cincinnati, hit .302 last baseball season, the 13th time in 14 years he has reached the .300 plateau. He tied an all-time National League consecutive game-hitting streak of 44. He also got his 3,000th career hit earlier in the season, and by the end of the year, was in ninth place among all-time hitters.

the 1920s, the Fighting Irish and Panthers have supplied a goldmine of memories in one of the country's most glamorous inter-sectional rivalries.

As with all such traditional series, records can be misleading — and sometimes meaningless — at gametime. Thus though Pitt is ranked ninth in the country and undefeated in four games, the Panthers find themselves 5-10-6 point underdogs Saturday to Notre Dame, which is having a desultory 2-2 season.

Other than the obvious motivational factor and the homefield advantage for Notre Dame, Pitt Coach Jackie Sherrill thinks he has an explanation of sorts for Notre Dame's position as favorite.

"Notre Dame is an excellent football team," said Sherrill. "They've overcome early adversity and now we are catching them on the upswing." Favorite or not, Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine is certain that Pitt will be exceptionally tough to beat.

Meanwhile, top-ranked but injury-troubled Oklahoma plays Kansas in a Big Eight game after an impressive victory over Texas last weekend. The Sooners were without quarterback Thomas Lott and tight end Victor Hicks, while fullback Kenny King was listed as doubtful for Saturday's game.

"I don't think their injury situation will make a bit of difference," said Kansas Coach Bud Moore. "Their backup people are as good as most people's first stringers. And there's still that offensive line. It's healthy and you could gain yardage with four pompon girls running behind that line."

Second-ranked Southern Cal hopes to improve its 4-0 record against Pacific-10 colleague Arizona State. It's the first meeting between the heavily-favored Trojans and the Sun Devils, who joined the league this season.

Fifth-ranked Michigan hosts Michigan State in a renewal of one of the country's top intrastate rivalries. The Wolverines were uneasy winners last week over Arizona while the Spartans lost to Notre Dame.

Texas A&M, the country's No. 6 team, plays No. 17 Houston in a battle that matches two of the better quarterbacks in the Southwest Conference. A&M's Mike Mosley and Houston's Danny Davis.

In other Top Ten games, seventh-ranked Alabama meets Florida. No. 8 Nebraska tackles Kansas State and No. 10 Maryland plays at Syracuse.

Elsewhere, No. 11 LSU plays Georgia; No. 12 Texas meets North Texas State; No. 13 Colorado travels to Oklahoma State; No. 14 UCLA takes on Washington State; Mississippi State entertains No. 15 Florida State; No. 16 Ohio State is at Purdue; No. 18 Stanford meets Washington and No. 19 Missouri battles No. 20 Iowa State.

Penn State and Arkansas, tied for No. 3 in the rankings, are idle this weekend.

Yanks Pin Hopes On Guidry's Arm

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Yankees, down 2-0 and in desperate need of a victory tonight in the third game of the World Series, give the ball to ace Ron Guidry, who won nearly 90 percent of his decisions this season.

The Los Angeles Dodgers, winners of both games at Dodger Stadium, respond with their proven postseason pitcher, Don Sutton, 15-11 in the regular season.

The Yankees have been about to go down for the third time on several occasions during their uphill season, and each time the skinny Guidry's powerful left arm tossed them a life preserver. Fifteen times Guidry has stopped Yankee losing streaks, and he has been the winning pitcher in New York's one-game playoff victory over Boston and its American League pennant-clinching triumph over Kansas City.

Does he like being the net underneath the Yanks' tightrope act? "I've learned to live with it," said Guidry, still modest despite the flashiest pitching statistics in recent baseball history. The lean left-hander from Louisiana finished his remarkable season with a 25-3 record and a 1.73 earned run average, drawing admiration from another respected member of the pitching profession.

Watching him pitch a couple of times this year I thought he was Sandy Koufax reincarnated," said Sutton. "Accidentally you should lose at least five games. Having seen him, I'm not surprised he is 25-3, just that anybody could be 25-3."

Guidry seems almost embarrassed by the superlatives and comparisons his gaudy record prompts. "I don't feel like I'm the best pitcher," said the 28-year-old phenom. "When I sit alongside Jim (Catfish Hunter), I feel meek. Here's a guy who's won 20 games for so many years. All I can say right now is that I was one of the best pitchers, that I had one helluva year."

"For me to be No. 1 would take a lot of consistent years of winning," Guidry admits to tiring late in the season, but he was able to make the adjustment from an overpowering thrower to a pitcher who could win when he wasn't at his best. He gives catcher Thurman Munson credit for coaxing late-season wins out of a sleepy arm.

"He knows if I have good stuff, he doesn't worry about location," said Guidry. "When I have that extra foot on my fastball, he just puts down the glove."

"But when I don't have my best stuff, he moves the glove around a lot more." Guidry says a tip-off for when his fastball isn't overpowering is when the weaker hitters in the lineup, who normally can't handle the outside fastball, continue to foul that pitch off.

With five days rest since his playoff win over Kansas City, Guidry says he feels strong, setting up a classic confrontation between Guidry's power and fastball and the Dodgers' power and fastball hitting.

"They have tremendous talent but I'm a power pitcher and it will be my power versus their power. I just hope to have a little extra to get by."

Dodger power was the difference in the first two games, with Davey Lopes providing a pair of homers in the first game victory and Ron Cey smacking a three-run blast in Game 2. Five of the Dodger regulars have three hits or more, while starting pitchers Tommy John and Burt Hooton have pitched creditably and relievers Terry Forster and Bob Welch have nailed down the two wins.

Meanwhile, Reggie Jackson has hit the only Yankee homer and has been carrying the offensive load, knocking in half of New York's runs. The other major threats — Thurman Munson, Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss — each have one hit. Of the six Yankee pitchers used thus far, only relief ace Rich Gossage has been especially effective.

Yankee Manager Bob Lemon says he hopes to have Chambliss and center fielder Mickey Rivers, both sidelined with injuries in Game 2, back in action tonight. The travel day should help the Yanks, who were hobbling and tired after the long haul of rallying from 14 games back, defeating Boston in a dramatic one-game playoff and downing Kansas City in a tense pennant series.

"We've been down all year," said Nettles. "Coming back is nothing new for us." Playing in Yankee Stadium should be an additional edge for the Yankees because of the unique dimensions of the ballpark and the enthusiasm of their fans.

"Being the type of pitcher I am with breaking balls and pitching up, I have to be concerned about not hanging any pitches inside," said Sutton. "You don't have to hit the ball well down the lines. You have an airport in center field and I hope a lot of balls land there."

Last year, the New York fans gave the Dodgers a dose of eastern inhospitality, throwing bottles from the stands and at least one hard rubber ball, which beamed outfielder Reggie Smith.

"The New York fans are enthusiastic and try to make it tough on you," said Cey. "People are trying to disturb you and get nasty. We have to face up to them."

In 1974, Randy Morgan of the Samford basketball team hit on 23 consecutive field goals over a span of three games.

Will Again Try Life On Outside

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Convicted wife-slayer William Privette says he's ready for parole — this time.

Now 64, Privette spent 15 years behind bars before being paroled last year. He was back in prison, at his own request, a few months later; he couldn't make it on the outside. But with a $2,500 bankroll from Social Security payments, and guarantees of a temporary job and a place to live, Privette says this time he'll be out to stay.

"I didn't have a dime and no way in the world I could get work," he says of his parole in 1977, granted on the condition he live with relatives in Monroe, N.C.

"All I was thinking about was where I was going to eat. I want everyone to know I didn't come back because I like it or it's a good place." He says this time will be different.

"And I'm going to church the first Sunday after I get out. I've been born again," he said. "I know I took one of the most precious things of all — a life. But Paul (the apostle, who persecuted Christians before his conversion) did worse than that.

"God forgives me," Privette says. "I'm just hoping that other people will."

The state Parole Commission granted his parole, effective Oct. 31, after the Salvation Army at Jacksonville offered temporary work and housing.

"I couldn't believe it," said Privette, now at the Lawley

Correctional Institution 40 miles southwest of Jacksonville.

"I ran in the office and saw that the 31st was a Tuesday. That's when I kind of believed it. They always let you out on a Tuesday."

Privette plans a first dinner of shrimp and froglegs.

And he hopes for a part-time job as an umpire, a skill he picked up overseeing baseball and softball games in prison.

At a husky, 6-foot-6, he has no trouble enforcing his rulings on the diamond.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One of the questions frequently asked of newspaper TV editors is: Did I miss the episode of "Gilligan's Island" where the people are rescued?

No, but stay tuned. Nostalgia may be put to the test for the next two Saturdays.

After an 11-year absence from the networks — but with plenty of exposure on reruns — the castaways are back in a two-part show called "Rescue from Gilligan's Island."

The first one-hour segment airs this Saturday on NBC. Yes, I know, the series ran for three years on CBS, which had first crack at the rescue version and turned it down. Be assured nothing has changed. It opens with Gilligan sawing logs in his upper hammock and the Skipper fuming down below. And when Gilligan tells Mrs. Howell, "Mum's the word," she replies, "I'm not your mum." That's as sophisticated as it gets.

"It was always intended to be broader than life," said Sherwood Schwartz, the creator and executive producer. "It's caricature comedy. It's one of the few series meant to be slapstick. They live in an open area. There's no living room to confine them."

The purpose of the original series was to create broad stereotypes and then demonstrate the characters could remain true to their outlook and values no matter what circumstances they encountered. Gilligan remained a simple and gentle soul, even castaway on a tropical island. The Skipper was still blustery, the Professor remained an intellectual, Ginger still thought her face and body would get her what she wanted, and Mr. Howell continued to believe that money was power — even if there was no place to spend it.

The original cast is back, with the exception of Tina Louise.

Bob Denver is Gilligan, Alan Hale Jr. is the Skipper, Jim Backus is Thurston Howell III, Natalie Schafer is Mrs. Howell, Russell Johnson is the Professor, Dawn Wells is Mary Ann and Judith Baldwin is Ginger, the role previously played by Tina Louise.

In the story, a capsule falls from a satellite from an Iron Curtain country and lands on the island. It allows the Professor to complete his barometer just in time to predict a tidal wave will inundate the island. They lash their huts together in a boat and the tidal wave carries them far out to sea, where they are rescued.

Schwartz said the program is not really a pilot for a new series. "What I really would like to do is 'Rescue II' next year and 'Rescue III' the next," he said.

City Counts Three Traffic Accidents

One person was reported injured and an estimated $2,400 property damage reported in three mishaps investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers said Tracie JoAnn Walend of 409 South Library St. was injured when struck by a car about 5:30 p.m. on Library Street, 78 feet North of the Fifth Street intersection.

Investigators reported Miss Walend stepped from between two parked cars into the side of a car driven by Owen Fimmel Dudley Jr. of 211 South Library St.

An estimated $900 damage resulted to each of two vehicles involved in a 9:45 a.m. collision at the intersection of Ridgeway Street and Dickinson Avenue.

Drivers were identified as John Patrick Chapman of 302 Elizabeth St. and Jerry Lee Cannon of Route 2, Ayden.

Cannon was charged with operating left of center in connection with the collision.

A car driven by Phyllis Johnson Rogers of Route 3, Washington and a truck operated by Richard Edward Warren of Route 1, Stokes collided about 9:45 a.m. at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Third Street, causing an estimated $350 damage to the Rogers car and $250 damage to the truck.

Police charged Warren with exceeding a safe speed.

Bob Hope Not One To Pass Up A Chance To Beat Drum For Show

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A drummer is defined by the dictionary as "one who actively publicizes or campaigns for something." Bob Hope is such a citizen and readily, cheerfully admits it.

He never hesitates to actively publicize or campaign for something, even a two-hour special with a three-hour title: "Bob Hope's All-Star Comedy Salute to the 75th Anniversary of the World Series."

"I take advantage of everything," he says. He isn't kidding.

He estimates by the time NBC airs that show this Sunday, he'll have done more than 40 print and broadcast interviews, all to drum up patrons for a program in which he starts his 29th year at NBC-TV.

The TV chats include "Today" today, "Tonight" tonight, and earlier, the Dinah Shore and Mike Douglas shows, he says. Oh, yes, also many plugs on NBC's World Series telecasts this week.

More than a few top TV stars feel three or four interviews are sufficient to inform the public they have a show coming to TV.

Not Hope. When he has a special afoot, he and a squad of press agents get busier — as Fred Allen once described busier — than a flute player's upper lip during the William Tell Overture.

He starts talking things up to most anyone with a pencil or microphone as early as a month before the show airs. He also plugs it in personal appearances he makes around America between shows.

Oddly, he says he didn't drumbeat much in his early vaudeville days. "I wasn't too publicity-minded back then," the 75-year-old comic claims. "I was too concerned with getting over with my act."

Nor, he says, did he do much tub-thumping for the radio series he had years ago on NBC: "We were on every week and actually built it up on the merits of the show."

But TV is different, particularly now, he says, because his specials face tougher competition and thus need considerable drumbeating.

"We never used to have any trouble finding a soft spot on TV," Hope said, meaning his shows were scheduled opposite programs that weren't doing well in the ratings.

"You look around today, it's hard to find a spot they don't have an attraction that's getting a 42 rating you have to buck. So you have to go out and really interest the people into turning them (competing shows) off and turning you on."

True, some stars make do with only a few show-touting interviews, but Hope suspects that can lead to being on TV for only a few years.

"You go back 28 years and look at the ratings. The fact this is my 29th year on television tells you a little bit of the story. That's the answer to the thing."

"Because I want people to know what I'm doing and I want them to watch."

He was asked if he considers this interview in any way a bit of drumbeating by him for Sunday's show.

"Oh, a little bit," is what he said. "A little teeny bit."

Every generation has had their own comedy duo: the 30's had Laurel and Hardy, Abbott & Costello broke up the 40's and Martin and Lewis really fractured the 50's.

CHEECH & CHONG have helped make the 70's go "UP IN SMOKE."

CHEECH & CHONG are the comedy team that gave birth to rock comedy and in the process of turning on a whole generation, sold ten million albums, picked up numerous awards, including Cash Box and Billboard's best comedy duo, and a Grammy for their album, "Los Cochinos."

Now it's time for a CHEECH & CHONG movie. C & C's "UP IN SMOKE" will make you feel very funny.

Garner Ted Armstrong Out; New Heir Is On Scene

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) —
Four months after the ouster of TV evangelist Garner Ted Armstrong, the troubled Worldwide Church of God has a new crown prince — a formerly Jewish lawyer-accountant who could inherit the rich religious empire of Armstrong's father.

Stanley Rader, smooth-talking adviser to ailing 86-year-old church patriarch Herbert Armstrong, has emerged as victor in an apparent power struggle that pitted father against son, with Rader in the middle.

The upshot was Garner Ted's "disfellowship" last June. Rader compares the father-son schism of Herbert and Garner Ted to the biblical story of David and Absalom.

"The son wanted to destroy everything the father had built."

Now, the mustachioed 48-year-old Rader occupies Garner Ted's former office, with its views of snowcapped mountains and the church's Ambassador College complex. He travels the world with Herbert and, by his own account, has taken Garner Ted's place in his father's heart.

"Mr. Armstrong has said publicly very often that I am a son in whom he is well pleased," says Rader. "The only other one he ever said that about was Ted Armstrong."

Rader, a convert, gave up a lucrative law practice in his rise to become general counsel and treasurer of the 75,000 member church.

In a four-hour interview, he lifted the secrecy surrounding the church, speaking of Garner Ted's alleged transgressions, his own conversion, the church's wealth and his role in its future.

He wore a pure white suit and dark glasses. There was only one question he declined to answer — the exact amount of his salary.

"My salary was always a little more than Ted Armstrong's," Rader says. It is known that the son received $85,000 a year plus such perquisites as private planes and trips abroad.

The Worldwide Church's lavish spending on its leaders has been a sore point with its ministers and members. Some have quit in protest.

"We're quite wealthy," Rader says. Last year, the fundamentalist sect grossed $68 million; this year it will be closer to $78 million.

Yet, the church spends more than it gets — last year $12 million more — but Rader insists it goes to the church's prime mission, to spread the word of a second coming of Christ.

Most money comes in tithes from members and "co-workers," non-members who contribute, as chess star Bobby Fischer did.

Outsiders are often shocked by the level of tithing — 10 percent of a member's yearly income for the church, 10 percent for religious festivals and another 10th every third year for the church's poor.

"Members can join the church without giving any money," says Rader. "But they are taught scripturally it would be a sin not to tithe. It would be stealing from God."

"What we generally find," he adds, "is that when they stop giving they stop believing."

Rader met Herbert Armstrong in 1956 when he came to California from White Plains, N.Y., as a young lawyer and began handling church legal matters. But he did not become a church member for nearly 20 years.

"My background was Jewish, but I was not in any religion," Rader says. "It wasn't something I thought about much."

By the middle 1960s he had become close with Armstrong, he recalls. "Mr. Armstrong asked me to give up all my commitments and devote my talent, energy and time to him. In 1969 I said yes."

At that time Garner Ted was the church's star, a radio and TV evangelist who drew millions in contributions. He was handsome, silken-voiced and the same age as Stanley Rader.

Two years later, there were murmurings of adultery and gambling involving Garner Ted. Rader says Herbert secretly cast his son out of the church in 1971 but then allowed him to return.

The "problems" never went away, however, and by this year excommunication was the only solution, Rader says. "We have never admitted the adultery allegation that was widespread. But his condition was contrary to the requirements of a minister."

Worse, Rader says, when

Herbert suffered a heart attack in 1977, Garner Ted tried to seize control by saying his father was senile and dying. "I think he believed his father was so sick and so weak he would never return to an active role," says Rader.

"Where Ted made his crucial mistake," he says, "was he tried to run me down in the eyes of his father and that tipped his hand."

Now, Rader is in the church, baptized "in a bathtub at the Mandarin Hotel in Hong Kong" while on a world tour. And Garner Ted is gone, seeking converts for his own Church of God International and, he says, glad to be out of his father's "fear-ridden organization."

"Mr. Rader is very clearly the victor in what was a power struggle," Garner Ted says. "He moved into my office, into my desk, his secretary sits where mine sat."

On Rader's desk is a portrait of the grandfatherly Herbert Armstrong with the inscription: "I was shooting the moon on you."

Many — including Garner Ted — think Herbert eventually will tap Rader as his successor, but Rader shrugs this off. "I don't feel that is my calling. I don't want to be a minister," Rader says, then adds: "Of course, several letters have come in recently telling me that Christ was not a minister. He was a carpenter."

Although Rader leaves the impression that a divine summons might change his mind, he insists he only wants to be the chief lieutenant. He is sure any new church leader would want him as right-hand man.

"Let me put it this way," he says. "There are no bodies buried. But if there were, I would know where they are buried."

The Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center had Rep. Horton Rountree as its keynote speaker during a reunion of more than 300 alumni and their families Sunday.

Rep. Rountree told those gathered there needs to be more public education about how successful the ARC program has been and how it can help others for whom alcohol or other drugs have become a problem.

Dan Moisele of Tarboro was master of ceremonies for the occasion and Don Hayes, director, welcomed those attending and urged them to spread the word about the services of ARC. Special guests, besides Rep. Rountree, were Congressman Walter B. Jones, N. C. ABC Board Chairman Marvin Speight, and Dr. Richard Williams and Dr. Henrietta Williams, consultants to the ARC.

Music therapy students from East Carolina University provided entertainment.
