First Of Cuban Political Prisoners Arrive In U.S.

By VALERIE STRAUSS

MIAMI (UPI) — Cuban President Fidel Castro allowed the first 47 of the more than 12,000 political prisoners he claims to have freed to leave his Communist country Saturday and fly to the United States where they were welcomed by thousands of weeping, clapping and cheering Cubans.

Castro told a short news conference in Havana before the freedom flight departed that he hopes to have all such political prisoners free by the year's end.

The 47 political prisoners and their families — numbering about 81 people — landed aboard a chartered Boeing 727 at Miami International Airport at 6:12 p.m. EDT, nearly two hours behind schedule.

After clearing customs and immigration, they were whisked to the Dade County Auditorium in two buses where the scene was sheer pandemonium. Shouts of joy and cheers were sounded as each political prisoner stepped off the bus.

The loudest reaction was heard for Tony Cuesta, the best-known of the group.

Cuesta, 52, spent 12 years in Castro's prisons after being caught in an attempted commando raid in 1966, where he was blinded and lost an arm. He was guided off the bus and into the crowd by his new wife, Carmen.

"The most important thing for me to do now that I am free," Cuesta said, "is to work for the release of the people we left behind. I will dedicate all my resources to getting their release."

In his Havana news conference, Castro said, "I do this for humanitarian reasons and as a gesture of good will. I hope all the prisoners will be free by the end of the year. I have already liberated 12,000 to 14,000 political prisoners."

Asked how the 47 were selected for the first freedom flight, Castro said, "Those who had difficulty in getting jobs were given priority to leave first."

"This dialogue is strictly between Cuba and the Cuban community abroad, not the U.S. government," said Castro. "If the U.S. objects, it would go against Carter's human rights campaign."

But he admitted one reason he took the initiative on the prisoner release was because the U.S., under the Carter administration, has changed its policies toward Cuba. "They've stopped sending spy planes over Cuba and lifted a ban on travel to Cuba," he said.

Castro also had kind words for the Cuban exiles who fled the Communist regime. "I have a good opinion of most of the Cuban community in Miami," he said. "There is no war between the Cuban community and us. We are not only Marxists-Leninists, but are also nationalists and patriots."

Cuesta said he will speak throughout the Miami Cuban exile community in support of a dialogue between community leaders and the Castro government over the release of the remainder of the political prisoners.

Enrique Fernandez — one of the men who fought in the Bay of Pigs invasion — returned to Miami after being imprisoned 15 years, on the birthday of his wife and 18-year-old daughter, both named Celia.

The three, along with his 16-year-old daughter, Linnette, emerged from the auditorium clutching each other and weeping.

"What do I want to do?" said Fernandez. "I want to help get the other prisoners out. And I want to live quietly."

Saturday's contingent was just the first trickle in what is expected to be a long stream of political prisoners from the Communist island. Castro, in a major shift in policy apparently aimed at easing tensions with the United States, has turned over five more lists of former political prisoners to U.S. officials for screening, and indicated he may turn still more of them loose.

The first contingent of political prisoners was to undergo quick U.S. processing in an off-limits area of Miami International Airport, then be bussed to the Dade County Auditorium, about two miles away, for press interviews and a reunion with Miami friends and relatives..

The "freedom flight" passenger list included 46 persons convicted and imprisoned for "crimes against the state" by the communist Castro regime.

All were screened extensively beforehand by U.S. authorities in Cuba and Washington. Officials said they wanted to make sure that terrorists, potential Cuban spies or "common criminals" were not admitted to the United States.

A group of about 40 representatives of U.S. news media, including a sizeable group of Cuban-born reporters and photographers who had fled the island after Castro seized power in 1959, were flown to Havana Friday night, to accompany the prisoners to Miami. They were kept in the dark Saturday about preparations for the return flight until departure time.

The issue of whether Cuban exile leaders should engage directly in talks with Castro over release of the political prisoners has sharply divided Miami's colony of a half million Cuban exiles.

Treaty Talk Contacts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. mediators met with Israeli and Egyptian officials Saturday, breathing new life into the faltering treaty talks hours before the Jewish state's top negotiators headed home for consultations.

Israeli and Egyptian diplomats held informal contacts at the Hotel Madison during the day in what appeared to be a significant departure from Israel's usual refusal to negotiate on the Jewish Sabbath.

President Carter held an unannounced meeting with the Egyptian delegation Saturday morning after a similar session with the Israelis late Friday.

Dole Interested In 1980

Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., campaigning in North Carolina Saturday, said he would not run for president in 1980 if former President Gerald Ford decides to seek the Republican nomination.

Dole, who appeared in Wilmington on behalf of GOP Congressional candidate Raymond Schrump, said a race against Ford would be "the height of ingratitude." Dole was Ford's running mate in 1976.

During stops in Wilmington and Fayetteville, Dole said he was interested in running for the presidency.

Disregarded Papal Protocol

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II told a gathering of journalists today that "this is God's moment" in the world, and then he cast aside centuries of papal protocol and mingled and chatted informally with the reporters for 40 minutes in what amounted to an impromptu news conference.

More than 1,000 representatives of the international news media were in the ornate Hall of Benedictions for their first formal audience with the new pontiff. All popes since John XXIII in 1958 have called in journalists and photographers, sometimes before their formal investiture, for a special audience.

Four Denied Exit Permits

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Four leading Roman Catholic intellectuals sympathetic to the Polish dissident movement have been denied exit permits to attend the installation of Pope John Paul II, history's first Polish pontiff, one of the four said today.

John Paul, who will be inaugurated Sunday in front of St. Peter's Basilica, has spoken out for religious freedom and social justice but maintains it is "not our business" to judge the actions of governments, so the four apparently can expect little help from him.

Coast Guard Ship Sinks; 11 Missing

REEDVILLE, Va. (AP) — Navy divers are scheduled to enter the sunken Coast Guard cutter Cuyahoga off Smith Point in the Chesapeake Bay this morning to search for missing personnel, the Coast Guard said.

Coast Guard spokesman Fred Maldonado at district headquarters in Portsmouth said Saturday night that some 17,000 pounds of special diving equipment were flown from Norfolk to Patuxent River Naval Air Station in Maryland.

That equipment was loaded aboard the cutter Red Cedar, which will be used as a diving platform for the search, Maldonado said.

The 125-foot Cuyahoga sank about three or four minutes after it collided with the 52 foot Argentine collier Santa Cruz II.

Coast Guard divers using lighter scuba gear located the vessel at 9 a.m. Saturday in about 57 feet of water about four miles from Reedville.

But, Maldonado said, the divers weren't authorized to enter the Cuyahoga to look for the missing 11 crewmen because of military regulations that specify the type of equipment a diver must have to enter a submerged vessel.

Eighteen of the 29 personnel aboard the cutter, which was on a three-day training cruise out of the Reserve Training Center at Yorktown, were rescued Friday night by the Santa Cruz II.

Seventeen of those crewmen, including one of the two Indonesian navy lieutenants on the cruise, have been returned to Yorktown. One remains in the hospital at Patuxent River Naval Air Station, the Coast Guard said.

Eleven crewmen are listed as missing, including the other Indonesian navy officer, but the Coast Guard has not reported finding any bodies.

Three vessels will remain on the scene through the night to conduct organized sweeps of the area, Maldonado said.

"I know for a fact that they plan to enter the vessel in the morning," he added.

The survivors returned at 3:36 p.m. aboard a Coast Guard C-130 aircraft to Patrick Henry International Airport at Newport News, Va., on the final leg of their journey to their home port at Yorktown, Va.

"It may sound a little trite, but we'd like to welcome you home," Capt. Charles Blaha, commander of the Yorktown Reserve Training Center, told the bewildered survivors as they filed into an airport lounge.

Mrs. Roger Wild greeted her husband with a kiss and a hug as he got off the plane. She appeared to be the only woman on hand to greet the crew at the airport.

The survivors were put on a bus and taken to Yorktown, about 24 hours after their cruise began and about two days before it had been scheduled to end.

One of two Indonesian Navy lieutenants aboard the Cuyahoga was among the survivors; the other was presumed missing. Blaha said there were no other foreigners aboard the vessel.

Blaha said he thought the 52-year-old steel-hulled vessel was seaworthy, adding that he has skippered two of that class "in pretty good blows...they handle well."

The Cuyahoga originally was used as a patrol vessel during Prohibition, he added.

As many as 6,000 students, both commissioned officers and enlisted personnel, annually take seamanship and navigation courses at the center's eight schools. The center, located on the York River, trains both active duty and reserve personnel and has about 440 personnel permanently assigned to it.

Death Toll 'Into The Hundreds'

Zambian Base Attacked

By NICHOLAS HANKS

LUSAKA, Zambia (UPI) — Rhodesian warplanes, backed by helicopter-borne troops, destroyed two more black guerrilla bases, killing "hundreds" in the deepest strike yet by Rhodesian forces in the 5-year-old war, government and black nationalist sources said Saturday.

The government sources said the death toll ran "into the hundreds" at the bases — Mkushi, 150 miles northeast of Lusaka and only 30 miles from the Zambian border with Zaire, and Rufunsa, 140 miles east of the Zambian capital.

(In Salisbury, Rhodesian military sources said there were raids in Zambia beyond the Thursday strike outside Lusaka. However, no official communique was issued immediately.)

Patriotic Front guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo told reporters at his Lusaka home Saturday that Rhodesian attacks were continuing.

"Their aggression is continuing. They have since Thursday been violating Zambian territory to destroy our forces," Nkomo said.

The Patriotic Front — led jointly by Nkomo and Robert Mugabe — is engaged in an all-out guerilla war against Rhodesian government forces in an effort to seize power in Salisbury.

Nkomo's bases are in Zambia while Mugabe's forces infiltrate Rhodesia from Mozambique.

The attacks, which government sources said took place Thursday and Friday, followed a major Rhodesian strike against the Front's Chikumbi camp, 12 miles north of Lusaka that left 226 dead and more than 600 wounded.

Nkomo did not specify where the new attacks were centered but he claimed "vicious" fighting had raged almost continuously since the initial attack Thursday.

Nkomo claimed his soldiers have downed seven Rhodesian aircraft altogether and had suffered five injuries and no fatalities.

The Patriotic Front leader againt scoffed at prospects for a Western-sponsored all-party conference to end the war that has raged in the Rhodesian bush since late 1972.

"We lost 226 boys in one armed strike and then we are told to come and talk to the people who are responsible," Nkomo said. "We will shoot it out. There can be no all-party conference in a war."

$40,000 Grant For ECU Medical Project

ECU News Bureau

A grant of $40,000 has been awarded East Carolina University's School of Allied Health and Social Professions to develop a project plan for a Family Development Center in southeastern North Carolina.

The funds originate from the N. C. Department of Human Resources' Developmental Disabilities Council.

To be located in the Wilmington area, the proposed center would serve Brunswick, Columbus, New Hanover and Pender Counties.

According to Dr. Ronald Thiele, dean of the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions, the center's primary goal is "to provide services, otherwise unavailable, to developmentally disabled children" from infancy through the age of 21, and their families.

Purpose of the center's work would be to help disabled youth "develop their full potential and lead the most useful, productive lives possible in their home communities," said Thiele.

He is to direct the planning project, with the assistance of Susan Keys, assistant clinical professor of community health at ECU.

Carter Signs Farm Bill, Campaigns In 2 States

By LAURENCE McQUILLAN

WICHITA, Kan. (UPI) — President Carter opened a day's campaigning for Democrats in the farm states of Kansas and Minnesota Saturday by signing a bill allowing China to buy U.S. farm products under American-guaranteed loan programs.

He signed the farm bill and stumped for local candidates in Kansas before heading for Minneapolis to campaign and sign a waterway toll bill levying upkeep taxes on commercial users of navigable rivers.

The president listed the gains he said his administration has provided farmers in a Wichita campaign speech on behalf of former Rep. Bill Roy, a Democrat seeking a seat in the Senate, and state House Speaker John Carlin, who is challenging Republican Gov. Robert Bennett.

Saying "the farm people of this country were in trouble" when he took office, Carter signed the Agricultural Trade Act of 1978, designed to increase foreign sales of American farm products.

But since his term began, he said, "There have been substantial improvements for farmers."

He told the Kansas farm leaders assembled for the signing ceremony that he favors the trade bill because "even greater emphasis ought to be placed on exports."

"We can give short-term loans . . . not give-away programs," he said.

Stressing the importance of opening trade doors to China, Carter said, "In the past we have lost this tremendous market ...One out of four people in the world live in China."

The bill contains three major elements, the most significant of which grants China "most-favored nation" status — meaning Peking is eligible for up to $12 billion in guaranteed loans for agricultural purchases from U.S. producers.

The bill also allows the Commodity Credit Corp. to provide three-to-10-year loans to foreign nations for particular types of farm purchases, including American breeding livestock and for the creation of grain reserves through purchase of American products.

The bill also permits the establishment of six to 20 agricultural trade offices in foreign nations, although no list of these nations has been made final.

Carter was warmly received during most of his Wichita visit, although several hundred farmers rallied outside the city's Civil Center to complain about what they feel is a lack of federal help.

"Go home, Turkey," read one protester's sign, and the protesters added boos to the cheers of the crowds outside the Civic Center.

But the protest was overshadowed by the large turnout of friendly Kansans who shouted their greeting to the president at the airport and the Civic Center.

The waterway bill imposes a federal tax on diesel fuel burned by barges, beginning in 1980 and reaching a maximum of 10 cents per gallon by 1985.

It reverses waterway policy policies going back to the Northwest Ordinance of 1787.

Upgrade Or Close Schools

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A top state official says it's time to significantly upgrade the five predominanatly black state-operated universities or shut them down.

"I don't think it's fair to continue to put money into these schools and let them die at the same time," said Eddie Knox of Charlotte, chairman of the Advisory Budget Commission, as the University of North Carolina presented a $1.1 billion budget request for the 1979-81 biennium to the commission. The commission is hearing requests of state agencies in preparation for preparing a budget to be recommended to the 1979 General Assembly.

After hearing the presentation by UNC President William C. Friday, Knox asked what specific requests had been made for Winston-Salem State University, one of the five predominantly black universities in the 16-campus state university system.

Knox said that he "came away a little depressed" after a recent visit to the WSSU campus. He said he felt WSSU students should be able to attend classes in buildings comparable to those at other UNC branches and "the chancellor should have a decent house to live in which he doesn't."

Raymond Dawson, the vice president of academic affairs of the UNC system, told the commission "the largest recent allocation" for WSSU was a $3 million appropriation last July to build a new nursing building.

For the 1979-81 biennium, UNC is seeking $1.6 million for further desegregation and enhancement of its traditionally black schools. For program improvement and development at the five predominantly black schools $850,000 is being asked for the biennium.

WSSU stands to get approximately $12.1 million for its continuing operations in the biennium.

"I don't think we can close a traditionally black institution in North Carolina for a long time," Friday told the commission. "Our only choice is how fast we can upgrade these schools and I think that's what we're trying to do."

Controversy Growing Over Use Of Defoliant

By JANE SEE WHITE
Associated Press Writer

When scientists warned that Agent Orange might — just might — be the reason for a rash of birth defects in Vietnam, the U.S. halted its use of the withering defoliant on the Vietnamese jungle.

But at home, things were different.

Now, as then, the two compounds that comprised Agent Orange are sprayed on thousands of acres across the United States annually.

And now, as then, groups across the nation say one of the compounds is hazardous and should be banned.

Agent Orange use in Vietnam was halted in 1969 after South Vietnamese doctors reported an increase in miscarriages and deformed infants. Scientists suspected the cause was 2,4,5Trichlorophenoxyacetic acid, which contains a contaminant that causes birth defects and miscarriages in laboratory animals.

At home, foresters and farmers resisted the environmentalists' push for a ban. They said they needed 2,4,5-T to clear brush, weeds and hardwoods. The option, they claimed, was to do the work by hand. Used properly, they said, 2,4,5-T was safe.

They prevailed in 1969 largely because no scientist, anywhere, could prove conclusively otherwise. None can now. But the debate continues.

The Veterans Administration says 500 Vietnam veterans are seeking disability for problems ranging from nervous disorders to deformed children. The veterans believe the problems stem from exposure 10 years ago to Agent Orange. To date, eight claims have been approved.

In Beaver, Wash., Joe Pavel retired early from the county road crew after repeated bouts with double vision, exhaustion and skin rashes. Pavel drove a herbicide spray truck, clearing rights of way. He blamed the sprays.

In Alsea, Ore., a teacher named Bonnie Hill miscarried in the spring. So, she realized, had seven neighoring women. In April, Mrs. Hill wrote the Environmental Protection Agency:

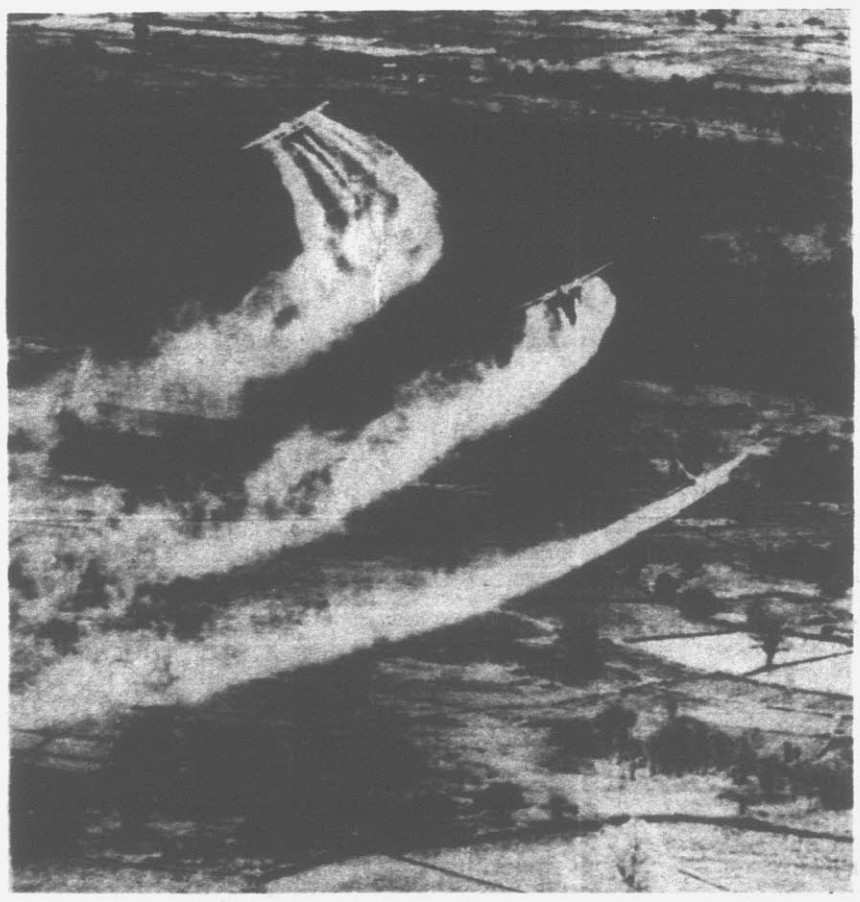
"We have charted the dates of our miscarriages with the dates that these ... industries have sprayed dioxin-containing herbicides, and an incredibly close correlation exists."

The protest has snowballed across the nation. In Minnesota, California, Tennessee and Missouri angry citizens believe their exposure to 2,4,5-T caused nausea, exhaustion, miscarriages, skin rashes and deformed infants and farm animals.

But many who use 2,4,5-T say their experience belies such claims.

"We have been really upset with people who are depicting it as a dangerous chemical. It simply is not," says Farrell Higbee, executive director of the National Agricultural Aviation Association, whose members operate the aircraft that dust with 2,4,5-T.

Higbee is not alone. Dow Chemical, a major manufacturer of 2,4,5-T, is also upset. So are Texas ranchers, southern rice growers, foresters and timber companies, with good reason.



SAFE OR HARMFUL?— U. S. Air Force planes spray the defoliant chemical Agent Orange over dense vegetation in South Vietnam in 1966 as part of a program to seek out Viet Cong. One of the compounds in Agent Orange, 2,4,5-T, is still being used extensively today in the United States, causing a fury of arguments whether the chemical should be banned. (AP Laserphoto)

No Injuries In Hospital Fire

MEMBERS OF THE . . . Greenville Fire Department survey the situation after a fire in the North 2 unit of Pitt County Memorial Hospital early Saturday morning. No injuries resulted in the fire which was caused by a patient smoking in bed. Damages are estimated between $3,000 and $5,000.

A fire in the room of a patient at Pitt County Memorial Hospital early Saturday morning caused no injuries and and estimated $3,000 to $5,000 worth of damages before it was brought under control by hospital staff and members of the Greenville Fire Department.

According to Jack Richardson, administrator of the hospital, the fire occurred some-where between 4 and 4:15 a.m. Saturday as a result of a patient in the North 2 unit smoking in bed. The bed caught on fire and the patient was moved by nurses in the unit who then called the fire department.

The 43 patients on the North 2 unit were evacuated until the smoke was cleared at about 6:15 a.m., said Richardson.

"We have had to take six rooms out of service temporarily," said Richardson. "We ask the patients not to smoke in bed, but we can't have someone standing over them all the time to enforce this and keep things like this from happening."

Marchers Protest Competency Test

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — About 100 people shouting slogans marched Saturday in opposition to the state's new high school competency tests.

The group marched by the Governor's Mansion and gathered outside the Capitol, where speakers told them that the tests would deny high school diplomas to thousands of poor and minority students and force them to accept low-paying jobs.

Beginning this year, high school juniors will have to pass reading and mathematics tests before they can get high school diplomas.

Phillip Thompson of New York, chairman of the Revolutionary Youth League, said similar tests are being established in other states.

"This is not an accident," he said. "It's a concious attack on poor, black and minority youth."

Lisa Deberry, a Greensboro high school junior, told the marchers that job-hunting youths without diplomas will to told to "go sweep our floors for $2 an hour."

"We students are going to boycott the test," she said.

The march and rally was sponsored by the N.C. Coalition for Quality Education, which has led opposition to the tests.

Elsewhere, the state's highest-ranking black official told a meeting of the state NAACP in Charlotte that blacks should support the tests and help give students remedial help so they can pass them.

Howard Lee, secretary of Natural Resources and Community Development, urged the NAACP, other black community groups and churches to get students prepared to take and pass the tests.

Suit Against Day-Care Centers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state filed suit Friday against 11 Christian schools that operate day-care centers without state licenses in an attempt to make the schools get operating licenses or close.

The state claims it is obligated to license the centers to ensure that the children receive proper care.

A hearing was set for Nov. 10 in Wake Superior Court.

Andrew A. Vanore, a deputy attorney general, filed the suit, which contends that the 11 schools failed to apply to the Child Day-Care Licensing Commission to renew their operating licenses.

Asks For Cancellation

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) — Howard N. Lee, North Carolina secretary of natural resources and community development, has asked the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to cancel a preliminary planning permit for a Virginia electric power complex on the Roanoke River above Kerr Lake.

"Our staff review of the proposed project indicates that its implementation would have severe and widespread adverse effects on North Carolina," Lee said in his letter to the commission.

The Southside Electric Cooperative of Crewe, Va., has requested additional time to complete preliminary studies for the Randolph Electric Complex.

A Different Approach

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — While black leaders elsewhere denounced North Carolina competency test plans, those in Fayetteville chose to take steps to get black children prepared for the tests which all high school juniors must take next month.

Elmer Floyd and W.T. Brown told what Fayetteville is doing at a hearing Thursday on the competency tests which all high school seniors must pass beginning next year to graduate. They will get four chances.

Concerned about the potentially high number of failures among black students, Floyd and Brown have organized possibly the first volunteer organization to tutor students who may be in danger of flunking the competency test.

Vance In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI) — Secretary of State Cyrus Vance arrived in Moscow Saturday for talks he hopes will produce a new strategic arms treaty with the Soviet Union and said such an agreement is of "the utmost importance."

On arrival, Vance gave a generally optimistic appraisal of the forthcoming talks Sunday and Monday aimed at negotiating a new U.S.-Soviet Strategic Arms Limitations Treaty by the end of the year.

"Both of us know," he said, standing next to Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, "this is a task of the utmost importance which demands the full measure of our perseverance and dedication.

Rescue Called Off

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — Rescuers called off an air and sea search Friday for a cabin cruiser missing since last Saturday with six North Carolina men aboard.

D.A. Maldonado, a spokesman for Coast Guard search headquarters in Portsmouth, said that an active search for the men is off, but the Coast Guard was asking all vessels and aircraft in the 25,000 square mile search area to be on the lookout for signs of the Buddy II and the six men.

"If transmitting aircraft or vessels find debris that we determine is linked to the missing ship, the search will be reopened," he said.

The men aboard the cruiser were John C. Wilson of Raleigh and five Charlotte men: Baron R. Howard, Isaiah Aikens, John Colvin Jr., Thomas Cureton and James Buford.

Editors Named

DETROIT (AP) — David Lawrence Jr., editor and a vice president of the Charlotte Observer, was named Saturday the executive editor of The Detroit Free Press to fill a position left vacant by the resignation of Kurtrt Luedtke two weeks ago. Lawrence,36, will assume his new duties Dec. 1. Free Press publisher Lee Hills said Saturday.

Lawrence has been editor of the Observer since 1976. He will be replaced as editor by Richard Oppel, 35, executive editor of the Tallahassee (Fla.) Democrat. The Observer, the Free Press and the Democrat are part of the Knight-Ridder group of 32 daily newspapers.

Six Teenagers Die In Wreck

TRAVELERS REST, S.C. (UPI) — Two carloads of teenagers — one headed for the county fair and the other en route home from a football game in a new car — collided on a secondary road near Travelers Rest Friday night, killing all six of them.

Joe Major, 18; his 15-year-old sister, Rena; and Rhonda Dockins, 15, of Marietta were returning from a Berea High School football game when their car — a new 1978 Pontiac Sunbird that was Major's prize possession — was struck by a 1971 Ford Mustang carrying three youths who were heading for the Greenvile County Fair.

The victims in the Mustang were identified as Dean William Gilstrap, 16, of Slater, the driver; and Danny Payne, 16, and Eddie Blevins, 16, both of Marietta.

The Gilstrap car was headed south at high speed on Old White Horse Road about 10 p.m. about four miles west of Travelers Rest when it apparently crossed the center line and struck the Major vehicle in the left front, sending it into a ditch, Greenville County Cornoner Claude McKinney Jr. said.

Two area residents were able pull the bodies of Gilstrap and Payne out the rear window of the Mustang before the intense heat prevented further recovery operations, witnesses said.

Emergency Medical Service technicians had to cut out the top of the Sunbird to remove the bodies of the Major and the two girls.

Keith Barnes, who lived nearby, said he heard the crash followed by an explosion a few seconds later and ran to the scene.

"I heard one person screaming in the Mustang when I got there," he said. "He said 'Help me, please help me.'

"It's an awful noise, someone burning up like that, and you can't get to them."

Singer Mel Street Commits Suicide

HENDERSONVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Country music singer Mel Street shot and killed himself at his suburban Hendersonville home Saturday — his 45th birthday and the 53th birthday of the Grand Ole Opry.

Street, best known for his hit "Borrowed Angels," died minutes after arriving at Nashville Memorial Hospital.

Jim Prater, Street's personal manager, said the singer had been talking with his wife and brother just before the shooting.

He said that Street had been "in a state of depression for three or four days because of a heavy work load."

Street's other major hit was "Living on the Front Street and Loving on the Back Street."

His death came just hours before the 53th birthday celebration for the Grand Ole Opry went on the air climaxing a week-long convention of country music executives, disc jockeys and others involved in the music industry.

Three Died In Wreck

ENFIELD, N.C. (AP) — Three Roanoke Rapids residents died Friday when a runaway empty peanut trailer collided with their car on U.S. 301 about 5 miles north of Enfield.

The Highway Patrol identified the three as Connie Harrison, 62, John Dowden, 62, and his 51-year-old wife, Anna. Harrison was taking the Dowdens to their doctor when the accident occured early Friday, the patrol said.

The peanut trailer had hitched to a pickup trick drivien by Donald Ray Viverette, 43, of Enfield, the patrol said. The trailer apparently broke free from the truck, and it veered into the path of the Harrison car. The impact tore the top off the car, the patrol said.

The accident was the second this week involving a loose peanut trailer and a passenger vehicle, and patrol toopers in Halifax and Northampton counties increased their checks of trailer coupling devices.

Attending Investiture

ROME (UPI) — A U.S. delegation led by national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and house Speaker Thomas O'Neill and including a cousin of Pope John Paul II from Detroit arrived Saturday to attend the new pope's investiture in St. Peter's Square.

"We are extremely proud to be here in this moment of great joy and happiness," said O'Neill.

"We are very pleased with the choice of the new pope, who is a man of great strength noted for his work to further social justice," O'Neill said. "We bring greetings from President Carter and all Americans in this time of joy."

Also in the delegation was John Wojtylo, 60, an auto worker and cousin of former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla who was elected pope six days ago.

Reversal In A Good Crop Year

Gov. Hunt reported recently that industrial investment for the first three quarters of the year totals $1.36 billion.

He saw this as leading to a record industrial development for this year, surpassing the $1.45 billion total of last year.

The new industry figures are impressive, but they come in face of a drop for North Carolina in per capita income. The state fell from 37th to 40th among the states in per capita income in 1977.

The governor said an analysis of the income figures shows that it was the result of a bad farming year in 1977, with farm incomes down over 20 percent.

He cited South Dakota, which had an excellent corn crop in 1977 and moved up ten places in per capita income rankings.

Of course with the greatly improved farm situation in North Carolina this year state officials are hoping for a favorable impact on the per capita income.

We hope that is the case. Improved per capita incomes will mean our citizens are living better, and both business and government will benefit.

Despite Data, Population Still Grows

In recent years there have been predictions that world over population would lead to dire circumstances, but two professors now predict that the population rise has been curbed.

Contrary to predictions of world starvation and possible war, the two Chicago sociologists say recent trends indicate that the overpopulation problem can be resolved.

They saw a birth rate decline in heavily populated countries due to new emphasis on family planning.

The predictions are hopeful, but it must be remembered that world population is still growing, even though at a slowed rate. Much of this growth is still in areas which can ill afford to feed and clothe more people.

"Really, sweeetheart . . . we can't go on meeting this way!"

THIS AFTERNOON

Going Up In Smoke

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The sight is familiar to anyone who travels in North Carolina: towering mounds of trees burning as smoke rises high into the sky.

That is energy being produced ... and wasted. At highway construction sites, building projects, farm clearings, and several dam-building and lake development locations, untold cords of wood are being destroyed.

Meanwhile, state forestry experts are looking into means of increasing the use of wood as a fuel, and Gov. Jim Hunt has instructed state officials to come up with some proposals for burning wood in state-owned buildings including hospitals and schools.

Many citizens are complaining about the waste of wood at building sites. At least it could be used in home fireplaces, or by the many families who still depend upon wood-burning stoves as their primary heat source.

Why, the question goes, can't people take the wood and use it? Many construction firms sell the good timber and burn only the scrub and roots. But when a deadline is at hand, the builders find it better to burn even good wood than to delay and face possible penalties.

At several places, people have been told they could not have the wood even if they cut it and hauled it off themselves. Such would interfere with construction work.

Gov. Hunt has asked for an investigation to determine if a way can be found to make the wood available to the public, perhaps even writing into state construction contracts that procedure.

Long Lines

A Waynesville reader sends along a note which reflects the insight and understanding of governmental bureaucracies which a number of lay citizens possess.

"Do you believe as I do that extending sale of car license plates or stickers throughout the year to keep people from standing in long lines is an unjustifiable expense and waste of tax money?" she wonders.

The Department of Trasportation proposes this plan rather than issuing the licenses all in the first three and one-half months of the year. It would cost about a million dollars, say DOT officials, to hire the full-time year-round people to handle the job rather than the part-time people now used during the rush period.

Beginning

"Of course, that is just the beginning," Esther Leach observes.

Only those who wait till time is nearly up have to wait in line anyhow, and "I can afford to wait a few minutes much easier than I can pay taxes," Mrs. Leach feels.

Her comments go right to the heart of the problem in determining the usefulness of governmental programs. New programs or expansions of existing ones are invariably supported by governmental officials who explain that citizens demand the services, and the dollars are being spent only to satisfy those public demands.

Seldom do the legislative halls ring from those millions of voices who indeed demand the government increases.

Sunday Morning Notes

"In those dark moments when I fear that the Republic has trotted before these weary eyes every carnival act in its repertoire, I cheer myself with the thought that some day we will have a president from the Deep South . . .The president's brother will . . . gather his loutish companions on the porch of the White House to swill beer from the bottle . . . The president's cousin, LaVerne, will travel the Hallelujah circuit as one of Mrs. McPherson's soldiers in Christ, praying for the conversion of some Northern Sodom's most Satanic pornographer as she waves his work — well thumbed — for all the yokels to gasp at . . . The president's daughter will record these events with her box camera . . . The incumbant himself, cleansed of his bumpkin ways by some of Grady's New South hucksters, will have a charm comparable to that of the leading undertaker of Dothan, Alabama."

Was the above from the 1976 Democratic Party campaign manual? Hardly.

It was printed in last Sunday's edition of "The Washington Post Magazine" and the head the magazine editors put on it was "How Did He Know?"

It was authored by H. L. Mencken in 1928.

Your columnist was driving on a narrow winding rural paved road one day recently.

An oil delivery truck was moving along slowly ahead.

It was a helpful driver, however, and soon a hand appeared through the driver's window, motioning that it was clear to pass.

Thankful for the help, I revved up the motor preparing to move around the big truck.

But suddenly the hand reappeared motioning me back. An instant later a big truck shot by. I decided to be content to remain behind the oil truck

A news story the other day reported that some UNC-Chapel Hill diplomas are being recalled. It seems some bad ink was used and the letters are peeling off the sheep skins. The company which printed them offered to do them over if graduates will return them.

Many East Carolina University football fans know how the Chapel Hill graduates who got the defective diplomas feel.

Those bumper stickers with the 1975 football score East Carolina 38, UNC, 17 are beginning to peel, too.

English As It's Spoken

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — What do you call a hand tool for cutting underbrush and digging out roots?

If you said "mattock," you matched the most common answer given by Americans. If you said "briar snath," you're probably from Tennessee. "Hedge knife" betrays an Illinois background, while "hand sy" is used in Nebraska.

And those are but a few of the 185 answers to that single question by three million Americans in a questionnaire for the first "Dictionary of American Regional English."

Other Editors Say Replace Congress?

(The Wilson Times)

Are you proud of that "personal letter" received from your U.S. senator or congressman in response to a complaint or suggestion about a national issue? We hope the revelation that chances are good the communication was spouted from a computer will not be too disillusioning.

Computers now handle 80 percent of all letters in some congressional offices. Forty of the 100 Senate offices are wired into a $3 million-per-year computer system and 250 of the 435 House members rent private computer equipment at a cost to taxpayers of another $3 million.

There is some justification for computerized congressional mail handling. Between 1970 and 1976, the annual volume of mail received by Congress nearly quadrupled, from 14 million to 53 million pieces.

The use of computers by congressmen has resulted in one amusing development. Organized special interest groups often use computerized mailings in promoting their point of view. Such corespondence is ideally suited for computerized replies. The result? Computers write to computers about various congressional issues.

U.S. senators and congressmen are a bit touchy about computerized correspondence. The House committee in charge of computers refuses to disclose which offices have them and the Senate prohibits photographs of its computer center a few blocks from the Capitol.

Let's indulge in a big of science fantasy and envision a computerized Congress. Why not allow each state a House computer and a Senate computer? Citizens could be polled on issues and then program their "computer congressmen and senators" to weigh the issues and give a read-out based on a scientific conclusion as to what is best for the nation.

Assuming the programmers are honest, waste, fraud and inefficiency could be curtailed or eliminated; sessions of Congress would be shorter, special interest groups would be deprived of clout, expensive junkets abroad would be halted, and the money saved could be used in attempting solve some of the nation's pressing problems.

We offer such suggestions with tongue in cheek, but the sobering thought occurs that the 21st Century will bring drastic — even revolutionary — changes in society. Not computers, but elected representatives with the courage to make necessary but unpopular decisions offer the nation's best hope.

40 Years Ago Today

October 22, 1938

With the 1938 edition of the Pitt County Fair practically over—although many are expected to visit the exposition tonight—officials are already looking forward to another year.

A large number of children, and many adults, were on the grounds today. All children were admitted free today until 4 p.m.

The exposition was declared a success from every standpoint. Attendance exceeded that of either of the two previous fairs held here by the two American Legion posts of Pitt County, Farmville and Greenville.

The exhibits were superior, both in quantity and quality, to any displayed at a Pitt County Fair. The various communities put up real competition for the best booth featuring life-at-home. Several noncompeting exhibits added much to the fair. Included in this were the NYA highway safety division, Sheppard Memorial Library and the high school exhibits.

THE INSIDE REPORT

That Old Brown Magic

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

SAN DIEGO — Gov. Edmund G. Brown demonstrated his current delicate relationship with Jimmy Carter when he telephoned the president Oct. 12 to inform him he was meeting in Tijuana the next day with Mexico's President Jose Lopez Portillo and intended to propose U.S.-Mexican cabinet-level discussions to resolve an impasse over Mexican natural gas.

President Carter's response was icy. Would the governor please not take any action that could interfere with U.S. policy? Brown shelved his proposal. Nevertheless, after meeting the Mexican president, he left no doubt that he feels Mr. Carter's policy toward Mexico is one of malignant neglect.

That typifies Jerry Brown's mixture of contempt and caution in dealing with the president. Brown has solved the political problems that menaced him this year and may well score a substantial reelection victory strengthening his credentials for a 1980 challenge against Mr. Carter. Privately, he has little admiration for the president as a man or a public official.

But Brown and his closest advisers are realists who appreciate that Mr. Carter will be impregnable if he keeps his post-Camp David popularity. "Jerry is not about to make a quixotic move that will destroy him," one member of his inner circle told us. Consequently, Brown shields private contempt with public praise and, as in the Mexican episode, avoids direct confrontation.

Caution stems from appreciation of the Carter revival, not self-doubts by Brown. Rather, Brown has managed a political tour de force in not only catching up with the tax revolt but in generally solving problems of incumbency. Alone among the many Democratic governors elected in the Watergate year of 1974, Brown seems well ahead for reelection and conceivably could be the only one of the lot to survive.

That is significantly attributable to the atrociously inept campaign run by Brown's Republican foe, state Atty. Gen. Evelle Younger. But Brown himself has evolved from merely charismatic candidate to master politician.

Brown's justly famed leap from foe to ardent supporter of tax-slashing Proposition 13 climaxed a series of adjustments. These began in early 1977 when Dow Chemical canceled a California plant, triggering a revulsion against the anti-business, anti-growth tone of the Brown administration.

He then began systematically mending fences on academic growth, big government, law-and-order and agriculture. His campaign brochure takes credit for state spending limits and tough sentencing laws. "Jobs are going up, taxes are going down," he tells every rally.

Brown has no time today for liberal doctrine. Addressing the militantly liberal California Democratic Council (CDC), Brown delivered a 15-minute Chamber of Commerce booster speech. While the liberals looked on in utter amazement, Brown boasted about the state's rising corporate profits. The CDC has no place else to go, and Brown knows it. Brown's faintly disguised contempt for the liberals betrays his cavalier treatment of supporters and nonsupporters alike that is his underlying weakness as a politician. His CDC performance concluded 24 hours of intermittent rudeness, beginning with a testimonial dinner for state AFL-CIO leader John Henning; in a self-congratulatory speech, Brown did not even mention Henning's name. On the next day, he outraged a national meeting of UPI editors by keeping them waiting for 1½ hours.

But the editors who waited were rewarded with a taste of some of the nation's most innovative political thinking. While Proposition 13 obviously reacted to inflation and taxation, Brown told them, it also protested "runaway growth" and "very rapid change." It was, he added, a demand "to slow things down" — a quest for stability.

Strength For Today

AWAKE AND LISTEN

The air around us is constantly filled with messages, music and pictures sent out by radio and television stations. Yet we are completely unaware of this world of communication unless we have receiving sets and turn them on. The minute we do, we are suddenly aware of a new and completely unseen world in all its variety.

Today there are thousands of people who scoff at the religious concept of an unseen world. They claim that the very idea is completely contrary to natural laws. Yet one hundred years ago everyone would have scoffed at the idea that song, message and picture could be sent through the atmosphere.

But for thousands of years the great teachers, prophets and religious leaders have been telling us about this unseen world. To communicate with it we need no sophisticated electronic equipment. All we need to do is to trust, read the Bible, pray and meditate.

Encouraged To Put Prices Up

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — George Meany might be right. When you talk about an upcoming anti-inflation program you encourage business to get its price increases in before any penalties are attached.

"Every time some government official talks about controls or guidelines or restraints, business takes it as a signal to raise prices," Meany, the AFLCIO chief, told a union meeting this week.

It has happened before. When President Nixon was considering them earlier in this decade some companies did raise their prices. Better to do it while you can, they figured.

And so they changed their catalogs, listing prices they felt certain would keep them ahead of the game.

The beauty of high list prices, they felt, was that you could give discounts from them, maybe even leaving the customer with the feeling he was getting a break when he was really obtaining nothing special.

While it was a gimmick, the high list price was "official" also, and thus a company had room to raise its real selling prices later without violating whatever restrictive guidelines or controls might be imposed.

Anticipatory pricing is inflationary, and there might be a good deal of it going on right now, especially since the Carter administration repeatedly has promised but postponed its anti-inflation program.

Warned so many times that price limits of some sort can be expected, businessmen would be poor businessmen if they did not seek to protect their businesses and their shareholders. It is a primary responsibility.

But even with price restrictions, business finds ways. In the past, for example, when prices remained within limitations quality might be sacrificed, and service and freight charges might be added.

The Carter program, when it comes, might demonstrate that the old loopholes have been knotted up, leaving some businesses with the option of violating limitations and accepting whatever is the penalty.

Under Carter the penalty might be the loss of some tax benefit. Under President John Kennedy the penalty was a public scolding. President Richard Nixon had stockpiles of goods he could sell to undermine markets.

Whatever techniques are used, and no matter how effective they are, the evidence seems to indicate that restraints or controls might have little permanent effect on underlying inflationary factors.

When Nixon's wage-prize freeze came off, so did restraint, as current conditions attest to. And Nixon ran budget deficits—generally acknowledged to be inflationary—and so does Carter.

Over short periods the evidence of a positive effect seem clearer. Some believe Nixon controls were good for a year or so and Kennedy-Johnson guideposts for a longer time. But the experience here and abroad shows that unless adjusted to changing conditions they eventually bend under the strain of elemental market forces and become unneeded or un enforced or even unenforceable.

Observations From Editorial Columns

In The Minor Leagues

Governor Hunt has proudly called attention to the fact that bank robberies in North Carolina during the past year dropped by 45 percent when compared to the previous year. At the same time bank robberies over the nation as a whole have been on the upswing.

This big plus for North Carolina is attributed to a new robbery reward program, one which guarantees a cash payment of up to $2,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a bank robber. The encouraging report indicates the reward program works both directly and indirectly. It has resulted in 15 cases being solved and apparently has discouraged some would-be bank bandits from carrying out their plans.

Now if Governor Hunt and the state's bankers could find a similar key to solve their biggest loss problem, that would make news too.

Bank robbers who take money from tellers under threat of bodily harm don't account for the biggest loss of money by North Carolina banks. The total taken by holdup artists during any recent year is small when compared to the hundreds of thousands of dollars that are embezzled annually by insiders.

Maybe the Hunt administration and the N.C. Bankers Association have something left up their sleeve that will in time see a decline in the amount of cash lost in the big league of the embezzlers.

—The Laurinburg Exchange

Amidst Excellence

Researchers at North Carolina University and the Research Triangle Institute have taken a giant step in the development of solar cells.

They have built the world's first working "monolithic cascade" solar cell, seen as a means of doubling the efficiencies attained by conventional solar cells.

Scientists term this a major advance toward making solar cells an economically viable large-scale energy source.

This is a dramatic example of the work which is under way constantly in the Research Triangle area.

Some of the outstanding scientists and researchers in the country pursue always elusive, often tenuous ideas which can shape and change the way we live.

It's easy to grow so accustomed to the excellence within our midst that it's taken for granted.

Residents of the Triangle area should never fall into this trap, but should be aware always of the debt of gratitude we owe to these brilliant and determined minds.

A Conservative View

Dazzled And Beguiled By Trickery With Words

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan, the most literate fellow on the national political scene, delivered himself of a little essay the other day on the political use of words. He made some thoughtful points.

Writing in Policy Review, a quarterly published by the Heritage Foundation, Moynihan cited the current conflict in Rhodesia by way of example.

"For some time," he wrote, "the Secretary of State, who is a distinguished and capable American statesman, in referring to the parties to the dispute in Rhodesia, has spoken of 'the Patriotic Front' on the one hand, and 'the Salisbury group' on the other. Now, 'the Patriotic Front' is made up of forces supplied by and backed by the totalitarian powers, the Soviet Union and China. The self-styled 'Patriotic Front' represents the armed component of totalitarianism, a philosophy which they openly espouse.

"However, who would not wish to be with 'the Patriotic Front'? Is there a man whose heart is not stirred by the prospect of joining by the Patriots? Who, by contrast, would wish to be with 'the Salisbury group'? It sounds like a mining concession put together by investment bankers in London."

Moynihan's point is well taken. Disraeli remarked in one of his novels upon the difficulties of identifying correct ideas, "but it is with words we govern men." Precisely so. The Communists long ago discovered how sweet are the uses of semanticism. They invented "People's Republics". In these totalitarian states, the people have no power and the states are not republics. But the names have stuck.

We have witnessed the same sort of verbal razzle-dazzle on the domestic scene. The Humphrey-Hawkins bill bore a fulsome title, the "Full Employment and Balanced Growth Act of 1978". Who could oppose such laudable aims? Who could oppose a "Clean Air Act"? Who could oppose a tax on "Gas Guzzlers"? Our nation is deeply commited to the program of "Social Security", which we support by "contributions." But the reassuring word "security" is misplaced and the contributions are not contributions; they are taxes, taken from workers by law.

Those of us who know better have surrendered too easily to the euphemisms of "Federal funds" and "State funds". We use the phrases all the time, and a patina of familiarity conceals the hard truth. These are not Federal funds, they are tax funds. The states and localities have no wealth of their own; they have only what the people pay in taxes.

Beyond the realms of Government, we have seen how words can be kidnapped and corrupted. These are Patty Hearst words, taken from us and returned as damaged goods. "Gay" is such a word. Once it meant merry, bright, lively, brilliant; now it means something else. The very word "adult" has become suspect. New connotations hang like dirty cobwebs on "mature". A Gresham's Law is at work; bad usages driving out the good.

But it is in the realm of foreign affairs, as Moynihan remarks, that the greatest damage is done. In Africa, the most vicious terrorists, guilty of the most abominable atrocities, win a kind of semantic absolution: They are "Freedom Fighters" or "Liberation Forces". To accept such terminology uncritically, says Moynihan, is fatal to clear thinking.

"I do not believe this is a trivial matter," Moynihan writes. "For some years I have been arguing that the West's political culture is endangered by the fact that the vocabulary and the symbols of political progress are being expropriated by the opponents of our values ... We persist in dignifying these enemies of freedom with the terminology of freedom — so that we persistently misdescribe the political forces arrayed against us."

Regrettably, there is no way to bite into those nickel words to see if they are made of lead. What we can do — and the admonition applies especially to columnists, editors, politicians and teachers—is to expose counterfeit usages wherever we find them. The currency of ideas ought never to be thoughtlessley debased.

This Is The Season For Pumpkin King's Display

By GAIL MICHAELS

PILOT, N.C. — The phone rang, and the sprightly grey-haired man checked his notebook like a presidential appointments secretary.

"Yes, I can take your group that day, but it will have to be late in the afternoon. I have a Scout troop and a school class coming earlier," he explained to the garden club director.

Beside him was a large jar of pumpkin butter, in the container over the refrigerator were some pumpkin pies, in the breadbox was some pumpkin bread, and outside in a festive autumn setting were 2,000 king-size pumpkins.

Elmo Tant is something of a legend around this eastern North Carolina community, especially in September and October. His pumpkin farm, located on Old Highway 64, eight miles north of Zebulon in Wake County, is the scene of intense activity during these months.

Just how did Tant get into pumpkins?

Well, a few years back, in 1967, my wife bought four pumpkins from a roadside stand that some kids were running. We planted the seeds and the next year we had ourselves some pretty nice pumpkins. We tried to sell them on consignment to the local grocery stores, but they wouldn't buy them," said Tant.

So they took their wares and made an attractive display in their front yard. People commented on this, and a few even bought pumpkins. The next year the couple grew a few more pumpkins, got an old wagon, some corn husks, and added gourds and squash to their arrangement. Well, people really began to buy and Tant was "in the business."

He plants his pumpkins in May in the acres of fields he owns. In July and August, the orange colors appear, and in the middle of September Tant begins to set the pumpkins out for display.

This is quite an undertaking. On the rolling acreage in front of his large pond, he carts thousands of pumpkins and arranges them in groups. During the years, he has acquired numerous rustic wagons, which he loads up with pumpkins, corn husks and other autumn decor. Driving in from the Spring Hope road, one can view the word "welcome" spelled out in — what else?

Tant offers several varieties of pumpkins: Mammoth Gold, Indian Yellow, New England (used for pies), Butternut Squash and King Mammoth. His biggest product weighed 210 pounds, and he has grown green, grey and even a solid black pumpkin. His pride is one shaped like a wash bowl.

"We used it as a container for fruits and kept it on the table. Not one person ever walked by without saying something about it," laughed Tant.

Pumpkins at Elmo Tant's range from 50 cents to four dollars. He also sells gourds, corn husks, sweet potatoes, apples, watermelons and bales of hay.

The October Pumpkin Festival held in Spring Hope each year puts Tant in the spotlight. He's the Pumpkin King, of course.

"They crowned me that a few years back, you know," said Tant. "I supply a large portion of the pumpkins used in the festival. Each year I ride in the parade and reign over the whole thing. I kind of want to pass on my crown, but I don't think they want me to give it up." Tant is also in charge of keeping the Wendell Harvest Festival well supplied with his renowned crop.

He gets letters from his customers, as well as from congressmen, State agriculture officials, magazine editors and tourists from everywhere. They thank him for his hospitality, or want to know more about his unusual crop. Tant's farm has been featured in regional publications, newspapers and TV news spots.

Probably what he enjoys the most, he says, is showing bus-loads of visiting children around his farm. (He's a "regular" farmer the rest of the year.)

"Whew, you should just see them; all asking a million questions. And when those buses drive away, they've got pumpkins coming out the windows."

Today In History

Today in History
By The Associated Press

Today is Sunday, Oct. 22, the 295th day of 1978. There are 70 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1962, President John Kennedy ordered U.S. air and naval forces to quarantine Cuba after concluding that Soviet missile bases were being built on the island.

On this date:

In 1721, Peter the Great took the title of Czar of all Russia.

In 1859, Spain declared war against Moors in Morocco.

In 1907, a run on a New York bank set off a financial crisis known as the Panic of 1907.

In 1942, during World War II, the British air force pounded the Italian port of Genoa.

In 1954, West Germany joined the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Ten years ago: The U.S. Apollo 7 spacecraft splashed down safely in the Atlantic after 11 days in space.

Five years ago: World-renowned cellist Pablo Casals died at the age of 96 in Puerto Rico.

One year ago: Forty-two nations asked the United Nations General Assembly to take up the problem of airplane hijackings.

Today's birthdays: Songwriter and singer Dory Previn is 49 years old. Actress Catherine Deneuve is 35. Pitcher Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox is 37.

Thought for today: Among famous traitors of history one might mention the weather — Actress Ilka Chase.

Thus, behind his current applause of growth, Brown still believes this is "an era of limits." To sophisticated audiences such as the UPI editors, he talks about low growth being essential to reduced inflation. In private, he contends the government's appetite for regulation has overreached itself and contributes to inflation.

Brown specifically feels President Carter blundered in approaching the energy problem with more, not less, regulation. Moreover, he doubts that Mr. Carter can fulfill what Brown now talks of as the Democratic party's historic mission: to stop inflation.

There is no doubt by Jerry Brown that he can fulfill this mission better than Jimmy Carter. Furthermore the excitement he has generated this fall on the campaign trail has convinced his handlers that there is still the old Brown magic that bested Mr. Carter in seven out of seven 1976 primaries. The present Brown caution in confronting the president merely connotes respect for Mr. Carter's present popularity, which shall be measured very carefully from California in the coming weeks.

publication in 1981 and backed by federal funds, is headed by University of Wisconsin Professor Fred Cassidy.

Cassidy and his staff of 14 plan a four-volume, 60,000-entry work on American slang. "It's a huge mass of material," says Cassidy. "Nobody has a collection like that anywhere."

"It's not just written sources," Cassidy says of his research. "We have gone to the speakers of American English."

Researchers also have assembled data from 200 regional novels and word lists released by the American Dialect Society since it was founded with the idea of publishing such a dictionary 80 years ago.

"The last several years have been spent processing and editing," Cassidy says. "It's very slow work."

In fact, only A is done.

Sample sheets show that each entry in the dictionary, to be published by the Harvard Press, will include what the word or phrase means and who says it, broken down both by geographic region and by the size of the community and age, race, sex and education of its inhabitants.

Cassidy acknowledges some colloquialisms will be missed, but says words or phrases that are out of date will still be included.

The white-haired professor says there is little difference between speech patterns for men and women except for a few words which men rarely use, such as "darling" as an adjective.

"But there are a lot of expressions that blacks use that whites don't know at all," he says, citing such phrases as "main man," for best friend.

Cassidy says the dictionary will indicate what expressions are becoming more popular and which are dying out. As an example, he cites a description of a rural or isolated spot which older people might call "out in the sticks" or "the back and beyond."

The young more often say "the boondocks" or simply "the boonies," from a term brought back to the U.S. from the Phillipines by World War II servicemen.

The dictionary shows that American, or rather the strange brand of English spoken in the U.S., is constantly growing and shifting, with new words and sayings and meanings every day.

"People compete to say something a little bit better," Cassidy says. "They try to outdo each other, even if it's unconsciously. That's how we've come up with expressions for a heavy rainstorm such as duck drownder, frog walloper and chunk floater."

Thanks to you it works. . . FOR ALL OF US

Never Enough Pictures Of A Favorite Subject

My husband, Phillip, and I could easily wallpaper our bedroom with the pictures we've taken of our two-year-old daughter. We have eight shots of Meg taking a bath. We have ten shots of Meg eating a shoelace. We have 14 shots of her reading the comics, and we have a total of 27 shots of her smearing ice cream between her ears. We even have several shots of her on the potty chair—the kind she'll be willing to kill for when she's 15.

So, naturally, we're suckers for these $.88 eight-by-ten color portraits and the club plans routinely offered by the various photography studios.

Of course, we are not unaware of the chief pitfall of these offers...or what is commonly called in photographic circles the "viewing appointment". Ostensibly, you go in to choose your favorite pose for your eight-by-ten. But what you are actually confronted with is five fabulous proofs of your little one and a charming saleswomen who says, "Now if you just can't make up your mind, I can show you a you a very reasonable package deal."

I have never passed up a package deal.

But I assured Phillip that I could when I joined a club plan this year.

He was skeptical. "Showing those pictures to you is like offering a bag of peanuts to a hungry elephant," he said. "You have absolutely no self-control. If they showed you a picture of Meg having a muscle spasm, you'd buy it."

Now, I didn't think that his comments were justified, especially considering that he had never been put in the miserable position of having to choose. Still, I was determined to show him that I could pick out just one picture, and to bolster my conviction, the next time I went for a viewing appointment I left my checkbook at home.

Sure enough, the saleslady put down five adorable pictures of my daughter mugging for the camera. I bit my lip and immediately eliminated two from consideration.

"She is one of the best subjects I've ever seen," cooed the lady. "I would hate to have to choose from those three lovely poses."

I gulped and nodded.

"Won't the grandparents go crazy over one that one with her hands tucked under her chin?" she continued. "You know, we have a terrific Christmas plan. A photo makes a cherished gift."

As she outlined the plan, I tried valiantly to remember that Meg's photos had made cherished gifts for the past two years, birthdays and Christmas, and that it was time for a change.

"And where did you find that darling brown dress?" the lady said. "You couldn't have picked a better color to highlight her beautiful blond hair."

I ground my teeth, sat on one hand, pointed to the one with her head resting on her hands and choked out, "I...guess...I'll...take...just...one."

I fought the urge to cry all the way home. "You wouldn't believe Meg's pictures." I told Phillip when I got there. "They were the best she's ever made."

"Really?"

"Yes, they were fabulous. You should have seen the one of her laughing up at the camera."

"Well, I hope you ordered some," he said.

I just stood there and looked at him. And he thinks I have no self-control.

Carter Gained Strength In Race Against Ford

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — If a repeat of the 1976 presidential election were being held today, survey evidence indicates that President Jimmy Carter would defeat former President Gerald Ford by a substantially greater margin.

In the first test of Carter's strength against a possible Republican opponent since the Camp David summit, the president leads Ford by a 53-40 percent margin. Before the summit, Carter and Ford were evenly matched — 47 to 46 percent. Carter, it will be recalled, won a narrow 51-49 percent win over Ford in the 1976 presidential election.

As reported Thursday in the Gallup Poll, the president has also made significant strides among Democrats since the summit in their choices for the 1980 nomination.

Although Sen. Edward Kennedy remains the first choice of party members for the nomination with 39 percent of the vote, Carter is now a close second with 34 percent. In July, Carter trailed Kennedy by a 44-20 percent margin.

In the same July survey, Republicans named Ford as their first choice for the nomination. He obtained 37 percent of their vote while former California Gov. Ronald Reagan was second with 31 percent. A heavy speaking schedule and campaign appearances in behalf of Republican congressional candidates across the nation have fueled speculation that Ford will again seek the GOP presidential nomination.

Carter Leads In All Regions

In the current survey, the president holds a commanding lead over Ford in his native South — 58-42 percent — as well as outside the South — 56-44 percent.

And despite his well publicized troubles with the congressional Black Caucus, Carter maintains a huge following among black voters. Indications are that Carter would win more than 80 percent of the black vote if the election were being held today.

Following is the question asked in the survey:

"Suppose the presidential election were being held TODAY. If President Jimmy Carter were the Democratic candidate and Gerald Ford were the Republican candidate, which would you like to see win?" (Those who named another person or who were undecided were asked: "As of today, do you lean more to Carter, the Democrat, or to Ford, the Republican?")

And here are the latest results compared with those recorded earlier in the year:

	Carter vs. Ford
	Carter	Ford	Other	Undecided
LATEST	53%	40%	2%	5%
July	47	46	2	5
March-April	51	45	1	3

On a two-way basis — with the undecided vote allocated between the two candidates — the results are as follows:

	Carter	Ford
LATEST	57%	43%
July	51	49
March-April	53	47

The results reported today are based on personal interviews with 1,110 registered voters out of a total sample of 1,581 adults, 18 and older. Interviews were conducted in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation during the period Sept. 22-25.

GACOC Reports On Objectives For Greenville

Traffic problems caused by railroads, the need for a civic center in Greenville, the need for a farmers' market, and electrical rate increases were a few of the community objectives discussed at the Third Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce Out of Town Planning Conference in Myrtle Beach.

According to Jerry Powell, 1979 GACOC Chairman of the Board of Directors, many community problems and possible solutions were discussed at the three-day meeting by 115 members and volunteers.

At a banquet meeting, Powell described Greenville's Chamber work as dynamic.

"1979 will be a year of growth for Greenville and the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce," Powell added.

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce will operate on a council and task force structure during 1979, rather than a division and committee structure.

Serving as council leaders for 1979 are as follows: Doug Starr, Vice Chairman of the Economic and Industrial Development Council; Dr. Jon Tingelstad, Vice Chairman of the Community Development Council; Ray Rogers, Vice Chairman of the Membership and Organization Council; and Robert Griffin, Vice Chairman of the Public and Governmental Affairs Council.

According to the Chamber, the purpose of the conference is to allow chamber members and community leaders to discuss community problems and to develop a program of action to improve the area and resolve the problems.

Objectives of the councils and task forces during 1979 are listed as follows:

ECONOMIC AND INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT: Plan and promote a Farmers' Market in the Greenville Area, support the agribusiness industry and support the Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival, to continue to study the need for a civic center for the Greenville-Pitt County area, to continue to support economic education in the schools in Pitt County, to place more of an emphasis on internal expansion of existing industry, analyze the possible repeal of the Blue Law, and to conduct shopping surveys and promote the Greenville area as the major shopping center of the East.

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT: Promote law enforcement and to encourage the City officials to study the salaries and standard operation codes of the officers, promote beautification, human relations, and proper and orderly growth of the area, study the feasibility of constructing a public golf course, continue to support the U. S. 264 highway efforts, seek ways to eliminate traffic problems at railroad crossings and studying the needs for a trucking center in Greenville.

ORGANIZATION AND MEMBERSHIP: Seek accreditation for the GACOC, sponsor the Chamber's Annual Meeting, establish a building fund, develop a Greenville slogan, provide membership services such as coffee hours, seminars and publish a newsletter.

PUBLIC AND GOVERNMENTAL AFFAIRS: Take positions on federal legislation and continue to strengthen relationships with U. S. representatives, continue to study the city-county school merger issue, study the long range capital needs of Greenville Utilities and support those funding programs found proper for the continued growth of the area, study local city and County issues, attend the regular meetings and establish positions on local government issues, study annexation and the consolidation of city-county services, study regional issues such as Mid East Commission grants, Highway 264, a regional airport service and medical services, and study legislative issues and take positions on them.

The complete 1979 Program of Work will be published and distributed in January, 1979 to chamber members.

NEW SALT NEGOTIATOR—Lt. Gen. George M. Seignious II, president of the Citadel Military College, was named by President Carter as the new chief Strategic Arms Limitation Treat (SALT) negotiator. Seignious will replace Paul Warnke as the U. S. Chief negotiator. (AP Laserphoto)

New Negotiator

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The retired army general named to replace Paul C. Warnke as the nation's top strategic arms negotiator is, like Warnke, an enthusiastic seeker of a SALT II agreement.

Lt. Gen. George M. Seignious said in a telephone interview Friday that he will support a SALT II treaty for which the final stage of negotiations resumes Sunday in Moscow.

Seignious, a part-time delegate to earlier strategic arms limitation treaty negotiations, said in the interview that he thinks "in recent months great progress has been made toward making it a treaty of equity and equality."

President Carter picked Seignious, commandant of The Citadel, a military college in Charleston, S.C., to head the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency amid speculation that he wanted Warnke's successor to have an image of toughness with the Soviets.

Some conservative senators criticized Warnke for what they considered soft military-defense views, and 40 voted against his confirmation in March 1977.

But a check with several staunch arms-control advocates in the agency Seignious will head found little fear that he would be an over-zealous advocate of military strength and hostility toward the Soviets.

"I'm delighted," said Adam Yarmolinsky, the agency's counsel. "He has been a tremendous asset to the SALT delegation. He has done his homework, which some of the part-timers did not do."

Seignious, a former deputy assistant secretary of defense and director of the Defense Security Assistance Agency, was military adviser to the Paris peace negotiations on Vietnam in 1968.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, who is in Moscow with Warnke for the talks Sunday and Monday, has already said he will retain Warnke as a special consultant on arms control issues.

Seignious indicated that one of his major jobs will be to end the acrimony that has often flared between the military men at the Pentagon and the arms-control advocates in the control and disarmament agency.

No Rerun On Alaskan Primary

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The Alaska Supreme Court says the state's gubernatorial primary won't have to be rerun, but the court has ordered a ballot tabulation that has an outside chance of changing the name of the Republican nominee for governor.

The high court, in a unanimous ruling issued late Friday, overturned a lower court judge's order that called for a rerun of the photo-finish gubernatorial primary because of "malconduct" by elections officials.

But the court stopped short of confirming Republican Gov. Jay Hammond's narrow victory over former Gov. and one-time U.S. Interior Secretary Walter Hickel.

Mystery Man Identified, Held

NEW YORK (AP) — A 63- year-old Manhattan man who was a passenger on a TWA flight to Geneva, last August 25, is being held on $50,000 bail accused of being the mystery man who threatened to blow up the aircraft.

Rudi Siegfried Kuno Kreitlow was arrested Friday in a mid-Manhattan chess club, FBI officials said. He was arraigned before a federal magistrate in Brooklyn later Friday on charges of intimidating the crew and interfering with the flight.

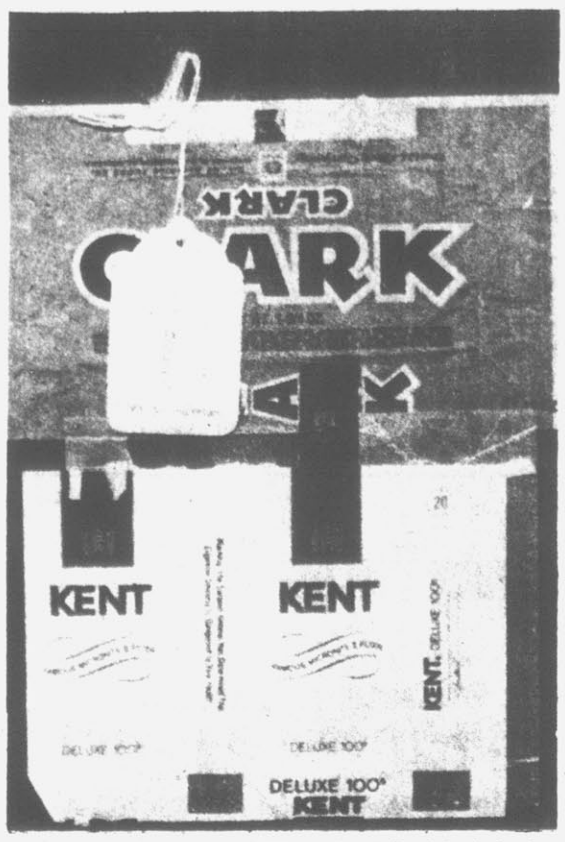
Contemporary Art Represented In Local Exhibits



RICHARD CRAVEN'S FORTE . . . is small, whimsical collages that tell their own story. One from the "Friends of the Faculty" show is composed of wrappers spelling out "Clark" and "Kent" and is entitled "Ode To Superman."

October traditionally brings the yearly renewal of good art shows to gallery walls around town in Greenville. It is true again this year in a joint show at the Greenville Art Center, and a group show and a one-man show at Gray Gallery on the East Carolina University campus.

Ray Elmore and Paul Hartley are sharing dual honors at the art center. Having these artists — both faculty members at the School of Art, ECU — show together is a happy choice. Elmore is a draftsman who works most often in black and white; and Hartley is essentially oriented to vivid colors.

Both are endowed with a sensitive imagination that works in highly different veins. Elmore visualizes details of ordinary subjects and scenes in a manner that transforms the commonplace into statements of exceptional beauty and power.

Hartley's is a talent for correlating the ambience of Renaissance times with contemporary techniques achieved in vibrant colors. Often, he employs a grid of lines beneath or superimposed on the subject of a painting.

Elmore's contribution to the joint show include a number of fine portraits — a young Indian, a proud older Indian, an elderly widow with strong character written in the lines of her face, a tender family group, and a hog killing scene in which two panels offer a powerful contrast in the portrait of a dead hog and a study of three faces: the victim and the slaughterers.

Strawberries and a bright yellow flower, a cross between a daffodil and an orchid, appear in several of Hartley's painting. Renaissance personages and 20th century entertainers — Bogart, Bergman, Disney, a chorus girl — all appear to fascinate Hartley.

The Elmore-Hartley exhibit will be on view at the Art Center until mid-November. Center hours are 9-5 Monday through Friday.

"Friends Of" Show

Aaron Karp, director of Gray Gallery, used the word "smattering" in describing the "Friends of the Faculty" exhibition on view in the campus gallery. But it is "smattering" in the best connotation of the word, as the show brings into play a rare chance to see a broad cross-section of examples of more than two dozen artists from all parts of the country.

"Friend of the Faculty" is the result of faculty artists being invited to show a limited number of works by an individual they would like to see invited to show at Gray Gallery.

Among artists chosen by the faculty are two or three Greenville based artists— Myra Sexauer with a splendid wall hanging of mica and pheasant feathers; George Brett in minimum art, pieces of cellophane tape on squares of white paper.

The works exhibited represent a sizeable range of media — tapestry, prints, watercolors, jewelry, collages, plastic, folded xerox images, sculpted canvas, and a few paintings.

Space does not permit more than a brief indication of individual selections. Among these are E. Jessie Shifrin's folded Xerox drawings with solvents applied. These have kinship to origami, the Japanese art of folded paper.

A SMALL PENCIL DRAWING . . . by Ray Elmore of the Indian "Two Dog," is typical of the detailed attention Elmore devotes to faces and figures. Many of the faces he draws are of aged and wrinkled people.

PROTECTION OF ARNAULD D'ANDILBY . . . is the title of Paul Hartley's painting featuring a cluster of brilliant green flies. The division of the painting's surface into small grids is a device Hartley uses frequently.

Today's Art Seen In Three Greenville Shows...

NATURAL ABSTRACTIONS . . . are achieved by Dick Dayvault in his show of rock crystals magnified many times with the use of a petrographic microscope in making the photographs. The one here is of chlorite.

ball players with shaggy buffalo heads are full of motion and power, and Davy Davenport's collage and mixed media work, "Song of Myself," is handsomely conceived.

The most whimsical works — and an excellent demonstration of turning waste products into art — are the small constructions by Richard Craven, such as the "Ode to Superman" illustrated in this article.

Highlighting the collection, and alone worth paying to visit to the gallery, are the pieces of jewelry by K. H. Kallenberger and Hal Hasselschwert. These are outstanding examples of contemporary hand crafted jewelry in silver, copper, gold and semi-precious stones. They are pieces worthy of the admiration they will surely arouse among viewers.

Mineral Photographs

The second show at Gray Gallery is Dick Dayvault's collection of photographs of mineral inclusions in muscovite from the Spruce Pine District of North Carolina.

Dayvault notes of the minerals shown in these color photographs: "Their spacial arrangements, especially their two-dimensional geometrics are crystallographically consistent with they mineral they include."

The photographs, many of them taken with the aid of a petrographic microscope, abundantly bear out Dayvault's scientific assertion.

From the viewpoint of art, the photographs prove that artists pioneering in abstract forms were in advance of scientific proof that nature does have its own abstractions hidden to the naked eye.

Time to see these two shows at Gray Gallery is short. They will be on view only through Sunday, October 29. Regular viewing hours are 9-4 daily, and 2-5 on Saturdays and Sundays. In conjunction with the installation of the new chancellor, hours on Saturday, Oct. 28 will be from noon until 5 p.m.

Maki Named

WINSTON-SALEM — Robert Maki, sculptor from Seattle, Washington, has been named as the first artist-in-residence for the Wake Forest University/Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art/North Carolina School of the Arts Artist-in-Residence Program funded by the Rockefeller Foundation.

Maki's selection was made by the Steering Committee of five representing each of the two schools and the gallery comprising the trio within the program.

The program, funded by a three-year $200,000 grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, is designed to bring national and regional artists of exceptional talent to Winston-Salem to live, work, and interact with the three sponsoring institutions and the public.

Maki, known for his large outdoor sculpture of cor-ten, steel, aluminum and wood — primarily on the West Coast, is represented in many public and private collections. He has had more than a dozen one-man shows and has taken part in 30 group shows.

Maki's Winston-Salem residency begins Monday, Oct. 23 and an exhibition of his work will open at the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art on Sunday, Oct. 27.

Margaret Clark

In her new novel, Taylor Caldwell turns her skillful eye to the contemporary scene in a story about power and the struggle for power. BRIGHT FLOWS THE RIVER is about Guy Jerald, who at age fifty-five, seems to have everything to live for until he tries to kill himself. Confined to a sanitorium, he refuses to speak to anyone, not even close friend, James Meyer, a psychiatrist. As his wife, his family, and his friend all try to break through the barrier of his silence, Guy Jerald struggles with himself to resolve his inner torment. At the same time in his attempts to uncover the source of his friend's agony, James Meyer is forced to come to terms with his own unfilfilled hopes and meet the greatest challenge of his life.

A SPARROW FALLS by Wilbur Smith, another dramatic novel of passion, betrayal, and power, is set in South Africa in the early part of the century. The protagonist, Sean Courtney, returns from World War I a hero, only to discover his battles have just begun. In his absence the vast wildlands of his country, including his own homestead, have fallen into the hands of unscrupulous developers. Sean's fight against the powerful forces set against him, his narrow escape from death are but a few of the elements in his stirring tale of one man's vision of love, honor, and duty in a world that has forever changed.

Two new biographies included a portrait of one of the world's most photographed women. In JACQUELINE BOUVIER KENNEDY ONASSIS, Stephen Birmingham examines the childhood of Jackie Kennedy, her reign as First Lady, her marriage to Aristotle Onassis, her life today as a working woman in New York, and her intense desire for privacy.

Interviews with friends and acquaintances underlie another biography of a former First Lady. Lester David's THE LONELY LADY OF SAN CLEMENTE is a compassionate study of Pat Nixon, now leading a semi-reclusive life behind of the walls of her San Clemente estate. Seeking the very private woman behind the public mask, the author describes her struggles, her tragedies, and her triumphs. Her views as a classic example of a wife subordinating her own identity to her husband's ambitions.

Fayetteville Exhibition

FAYETTEVILLE — The Arts Council of Fayetteville is sponsoring a juried exhibition featuring the works of art teachers in the Fayetteville-Fort Bragg-Cumberland County public and private schools.

An opening reception honoring the artists will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 5 at the Arsenal House Gallery, 822 Arsenal Avenue.

The exhibit will be on view through November 29. Gallery hours are 9-5 Monday-Friday, and 1-5 on Saturday and Sunday.

The public is invited to the reception and to view the show during the exhibit period.

Correction

The name of a senior art student appearing in an article on Page A-8 of this paper, Sunday, Oct. 15, was in error. The correct name of the student-artist is Ann Cameron Hepler.

Travel Film Oct. 24

"Hawaiin Adventure" is the title of Doug Jones' illustrated film-lecture to be shown as the first of the 1978-79 film series at East Carolina University.

The event will take place at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, October 24 in the Hendrix Theater at Mendenhall Student Center.

Although now a part of the U.S., Hawaii is so different from the other 49 states that mainlanders still look on the islands as a place of eternal spring, a fascinating land of exotic traditions and history.

Jones' film begins with the birth of Hawaii, which was a violent explosion from within the depths of the earth. The film next focuses on life in Hawaii — from the first birds, trees, and flowers, to man as he arrived from Tahiti a thousand years ago to inhabit the unpeopled islands.

The Tahitians brought with them their Polynesian culture, which remains an integral part of the island's culture. It was in 1778 that Captain James Cook brought to the Western World word of this new paradise.

From that time until today the film encompasses the time of sugar plantations, missionaries, the power dynasties, the fight for annexation, World War II and Pearl Harbor, and finally, the role of the islands as America's 50th state.

Tickets for the film-lecture are priced at $1.50 and ar available from the E.C.U. Central Ticket Office.

Chamber Concert Wednesday

CHAMBER CONCERT — Six East Carolina University School of Music performers will present a concert of chamber music at 8:15 p.m., Wednesday, October 25 in the A. J. Fletcher Music Center Recital Hall. The program will include Mozart's "Sinfonia Concertante," and Hindemith's "Quartet for Wind Instruments." Performers are (left to right): George Knight, clarinet; Fred McLean, bassoon; Ellen Nagode, piano; Victoria Iannotta, flute; David Hawkins, oboe; and James Parnell, French horn. The public is invited and there is no charge. (ECU News Bureau Photo)

Installation Concert Saturday Night

The "Installation Concert," the final event of three-day long activities in conjunction with the installation of Dr. Thomas Brewer as the new ECU Chancellor, will be held at 8:15 p.m. Saturday, October 28 in Wright Auditorium.

The concert by the East Carolina University Symphony Orchestra will be conducted by Robert Hause and will feature two student soloists, violinists Glenn Davis and Linda Hanson.

Two major works are to be performed — J. S. Bach's "Concerto for Two Violins and Orchestra" in three movements; and Antonin Dvorak's "Symphony No. 8 in G Major, Opus 88," a composition in four movements. The orchestra will open the program with Otto Nicolai's Overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Soloists David and Hanson will play in the Bach double concerto. Both are students of Dr. Paul Topper of the ECU string faculty, and both are seniors at ECU.

Davis, a native of Norfolk, Va., is a past member of the Norfolk Symphony and past concertmaster of the Tidewater Youth Symphony. He is a recipient of an A. J. Fletcher Scholarship and winner of the Walter C. Fulford Award presented by Norfolk Mission College.

Ms. Hanson, of Fairfax, Virginia, was selected in 1974-75 as a member of American Youth Performs in Washington, D. C. and also was a member of the Fairfax Symphony.

Following the October 28 performance here, the ECU Symphony and feature soloists will present the same program at two other locations — at Bayboro (Pamlico County) on November 6 and in Norfolk on November 8.

There is no admission for the installation concert on Saturday evening and the public is invited to attend.

Workshops Being Given By Hauser Dance Group

The full schedule has been announced of the Nancy Hauser Dance Company of Minneapolis, Minnesota during its residency at East Carolina University on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 23-25.

The three workshops being given by the company on Monday are open to the public and there is no charge for attending. All are scheduled to be held in Wright Auditorium.

The first, a Master Class, will begin at 9:30 and continue until 11 a.m. The second workshop, an afternoon one on improvisations, will be held from 4 to 5 p.m., and in the evening, from 8 to 9:30 p.m., the dancers will stage an informal improvisational performance.

Two dance performances are scheduled by the company. At 1 p.m. on Tuesday, October 24, there will be matinee ; and the evening performance will be at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, October 25. Both performances will be in McGinnis Theater.

Tickets for the matinee are priced at $3 ($2 for groups of 20 or more); and tickets for the evening performance are $4 ($3 for groups of 20 ormore).

Reservations can be made by calling 757-6611 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

A SCENE FROM DREAMS . . . Choreographed by Nancy Hauser. The dance company bearing her name will be at East Carolina University for a three day residency on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 23-25.

Ferguson, Flaherty Recital On Tuesday

Trombonist Benny Ferguson of Marietta, Ga., and percussionist Patrick Flaherty of Boise, Idaho, both graduate students in the School of Music, East Carolina University, will present a joint recital on Tuesday, October 24.

The recital will take place at 8:15 p.m. in the A. J. Fletcher Recital Hall. There is no admission fee and the public is invited to attend.

The two are candidates for Master of Music degrees in performance and hold teaching assistantships at ECU.

Flaherty, a 1977 graduate of Boise State University, will perform Murray Houllif's "Four Verses for Timpani," the Aldred Finninger "Suite for Marimba," and "Diversion" by Carl Della Peruti.

Ferguson will be featured in a Handel concerto and in the Barta "Concertino," assisted by pianist Julie Gilbert.

Two Grants Awarded

RALEIGH — The N. C. Museum of Art and the N. C. Museum of History have both been awarded grants from the Institute of Museum Services.

The Museum of Art has received $15,408, and the Museum of History, $9,523. With these funds, the Museum of Art will be able to employ an additional art handler, whose services will aid the 12 affiliate galleries in North Carolina. The Museum of History will use its funds to hire a field representative for the Tar Heel Junior Historians.

Hunt To Answer

RALEIGH — Governor Jim Hunt will answer questions on the new minimum competency and annual testing programs during an hour-long program on the UNC TV network at 9 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 26.

Viewers will be able to ask their questions directly of Gov. Hunt during the broadcast.

Scenes From Nine Operas On October 27 And 28

Opera scenes from nine operas will be presented by The Opera Theater of East Carolina University on two dates, Friday and Saturday, October 27 and 28.

The productions will be at the A. J. Fletcher Recital Hall, with curtain time at 8:15 p.m. each evening.

Dr. Clyde Hiss directs the program, and accompanists are Susan Bell and Teresa Watkins. Costumes are by Patricia Hiss, with lighting by Stephanie Scoville and several assistants.

Tickets for "A Carnival of Scenes From Opera" are priced at $1.50 each and can be purchased in advance by calling 757-6331 or purchased at the hall prior to performance.

DONIZETTI'S "ELIXIR OF LOVE" . . . Soloists and chorus members are seen in a work clothes rehearsal of one of nine opera scenes to be given Oct. 27 and 28 at the A. J. Fletcher Recital Hall. The quartet of principals downstage are (left to right): Julia Moore (in white dress), Adina; Steve Walence (seated), Nemorino; Venessa Malloy, Gianetta; and H. Eliot Stone, Dr. Dulcamara. Tickets are priced at $1.50, available by calling 757-6331 or can be purchased at the door prior to performance. (Reflector Photo By Jerry Raynor)

Engelbert Humperdinck's children's favorite, "Hansel und Gretel" opens the program with Alysa Smith and Valerie Segraves as Gretal and Hansel in a scene from Act I.

Singers in a scene from Act I of Beethoven's "Fidelio" are Ira Jacobs, Margaret Brooks, H. Elliot Stone, and Sheila Brooks.

Steve Walence and Dianne Pickett will sing the roles of Manrico and Azucena from an Act II scene of Verdi's "Il Trovatore;" and Teresa Leggett and Donald B. Greene, Jr. sing a selection from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana."

Rounding out the first half of the program is a scene from Act II of Meyerbeer's "Les Huguenots." The quartet appearing in this scene are Belinda Bryant, Tree Guion, Emily Bennett, and Carolyn Greene.

Following a brief intermission, scenes will be presented from four more operas. These are:

A scene from Act II of Rossini's "La Cenerentola" features six singers — Gerald E. Murphy, Jr., Donald B. Greene, Jr., Douglas Newell, Margaret Brooks, Beth Auman, and Ann Gunn.

Bizet's "Carmen" has a scene from Act III with Julia Moore, Teresa Leggett and Carolyn Green in singing roles.

A Prokofief opera, "Voina I Mir" features Belind Bryant, Gerald E. Murphy, Jr., and Sheila Brooks in a scene from Act I.

The final of the nine opera scenes is one from Act II of "L'Elisir D'Amore" by Donizetti. Singers are Venessa Malloy, Steve Walence, Julia Moore, H. Elliot Stone, and for the chorus part of this scene, the entire membership of the ECU Opera Theater.

Ceremonial Music Set

Brass fanfares and suites from four centuries of music will herald East Carolina University's installation of its seventh chief administrator, Chancellor Thomas Bowman Brewer on October 28.

Taped renditions of rousing brass music by Lassus, Susato, des Pres, Kugelmann, Gabrieli, Lully, Purcell, Corrette and Beethoven will be played through the loudspeakers of ECU's electronic carillon system during the hour before the North Lawn ceremony formally begins at 10:15 a.m.

The fanfares, selected and recorded by James Rees, director of radio services at ECU, include musical compositions used in various celebrations and ceremonies during the Renaissance, baroque and classical eras.

The ECU Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Robert Hause, will accompany the procession of ceremony participants onto the lawn with three selections: the "Cortege" from Rimsky-Korsakov's "Mlada;" Sir Edward Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" March No. 4; and "Orb and Sceptre," composed by William Walton for the 1953 coronation of Queen Elizabeth II.

After the invocation, the 40-voice ECU Concert Choir, under the direction of Brett Watson, will sing "Once to Every Man and Nation," by Thomas J. Williams, arranged by Watson.

Immediately before the recessional, the choir will perform "I Vow to Thee, My Country," by Gustav Holst.

Recessional music will consist of Robert Hause's arrangements of the John Stanley "Voluntary" and the J. S. Bach choral prelude, "Now Thank We All Our God."

On Saturday evening, the ECU Symphony Orchestra will present a special installation concert at 8:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium.

Admission to the installation ceremony is by reservation, which can be made by telephoning 757-6537 (until available spaces are reserved). The evening concert at Wright is free and open to the public without reservation.

Playhouse Auditions

Auditions for June Havoc's "Marathon '33," the second major production in the current season of the East Carolina Playhouse, will be held at 7:30 p.m. on two dates, Monday and Tuesday, October 23 and 24, in Room 206 of the Drama Building on campus.

Edgar R. Loessin will direct the play about the dance marathons of the 1930's, which has been hailed as one of the most singular and brilliantly theatrical works of our time. "It does not fall into any pat category, for it is not a comedy or a drama or a musical or a vaudeville show, even though it makes brilliant use of each," said critic John Chapman of the original New York production.

"Marathon 33" has an enormous cast — at least 50 actors, singers, musicians, acrobats, jugglers and other talents.

Loessin is looking for a wide range of performing abilities, and he especially wants to see people who do "specialty acts" of any sort. "I can probably use nearly everyone who comes to auditions," he commented.

Scripts are on reserve in Joyner Library for prior study. It is suggested that persons auditioning read a scene of their choice with someone else who is trying out. Auditions are open to all who wish to try out.

Auditions In Ayden

AYDEN — The Ayden Theater Workshop will hold auditions for its winter production, "Dark of the Moon," on Monday and Tuesday, October 23 and 24, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Ayden Grammar School Auditorium, located on South Lee Street.

A folk play set in the Smokey Mountains of North Carolina, "Dark of the Moon" is the story of a witch boy whose love for mountain girl Barbara Allen is thwarted by the meddling of townspeople. The play had a long-running success on Broadway and in London.

A cast of 25 — mountain people and witches of varying ages are needed for the production. There are roles for singers, dancers and for those who can play a guitar, banjo, fiddle, etc. Also, technical and backstage help is needed.

No experience is necessary, and some of the roles are relatively minor, so that people with a busy schedule could take part without obligating a great deal of time for rehearsals.

For fuller details on auditioning, call Joel McLawhorn at 756-7209 or Kim Dale at 746-6603.

Children's Poems About War

By JUDY YABLONKY
Associated Press Writer

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — For six years, Rhodesia has been in a war where life goes on amid the battles and the land mines.

Men go to work and return. If white, they must spend seven months each year in the military. Children are born, go to school, grow up. Everyone faces the fear that a father or brother or son may be killed in the fighting between black nationalist guerrillas and the goverment. Women and children, too, have been among the 11,000 victims of random bullets and mines.

Now children's feelings about the war have begun showing up in their poetry in school magazines. There is this poem, for instance, by a 12-year-old.

Can anyone play
The war game today?
When there is no front line
It's an attack on the weak.
A minute to bury a mine.

The mine explodes
On dusty roads
The vehicle is thrown into the air
The child's lost his arm
He was doing no harm
He just shouldn't be there.

Can anyone play
The war game today?
When the enemy is hard to define
Who is friend? Who is foe?
He really can't know
As a soldier he's only part-time.

In another poem, entitled "Memories," a 14-year-old sees her brother's death through the eyes of her father.

Can you remember the words,
It's a beautiful baby boy?
Can you remember your feelings
Of immense happiness and joy?
Now all you have is memories
Of your son so brave and bold
He never did return
To watch the day grow old.

In the poem "But You Didn't," a 15-year-old remembers her high school sweetheart.

Remember the time you lent me your car and I dented the Fender?
I thought you'd kill me but you didn't.
Remember the time I spilt Coke on your new rug?
I thought you'd kill me but you didn't.
Remember the time I forgot to tell you the dance was formal —And you came in jeans?
I thought you'd hate me but you didn't.
Remember the countless times you tried to be serious and I giggled?
I thought you'd drop me but you didn't.
There were plenty of things you did to put up with me
To keep me happy, to love me, and there were so many things
I wanted to tell you after you returned from the bush
But you didn't ...

All the poems here are by white children, but the war affects all. Death is final — for the whites or blacks fighting for the current government, for the black guerrillas fighting to topple it. Here is one more poem that might have been written in any war, on any side, about the dread announcement from military headquarters:

Combined operations regret to announce ...
Combined operations regret to announce ... regret?
What shallow condolence betray the lips of the unconcerned.
The gesture does not suffice the loss.
What new flesh can replace the innocence of the fine heart
When the world returns to its own affairs.

"The graveyards are full of people the world could not do without." — Elbert Hubbard.

Hospitality House

WASHINGTON — Mireille Paige heads the list of guests on Kay Currie's "Hospitality House," airing from 11 to 11:30 a.m. today over WITN-TV, Channel 7.

Ms. Paige, vice president of Dermetics of New York, a cosmetics firm, was recently awarded the Cosmetics Woman Achiever of 1978 Award given by Cosmetic Career Women, Inc. Ms. Paige will discuss the latest in eye makeup procedures and materials.

Another guest is young Ronee Blakley, who stars in the NBC film "Desperate Women" to be shown October 25 over Channel 7 as the night movie.

Dianne Scoggins Rathbone, artist-in-residence at Wayne Community College, talks about graphic arts; and in the kitchen, a butcher shows money saving ways to trim meats.

For next week's show, Ms. Currie will present a film she made at Disneyworld, with an interview of Henry Kissinger.

ECU Dumps Richmond In Oyster Bowl

Terry Gallaher drops a pass from Leander Green as Reuben Turner defends

Green Shines As Bucs Win, 21-14

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

NORFOLK, Va. — It was billed as the Oyster Bowl, but for a while it looked like Mulligan stew before Leander Green turned it into duck soup, guiding the Pirates to two fourth-quarter touchdowns and a 21-14 victory over the University of Richmond.

The victory avenged a loss to William & Mary in last year's Oyster Bowl and made it three in a row over the Spiders for East Carolina.

Green, who was spurned for the Most Valuable Player Award in favor of Richmond's Jesse Williams, led the Pirates with 102 yards rushing and 64 passing, a total of 166. Williams had 120 yards rushing to pace the Spiders.

Green scored two of the Pirate touchdowns, the first and last, on a nine-yard run and a six-yard trip into the end zone. Eddie Hicks added the other on a one-yard plunge, and Bill Lamm kicked all three PAT's.

Demitri Kornegay got both of the Spider touchdowns on one-yard runs, and Steve Adams kicked both extra points.

It was a struggle, however, as the Pirates twice took leads, only to see the Spiders come back and tie it up. A fumble gave them one of the scores, while they drove for the other against the Bucs.

"There is no question that Richmond was ready to play," a relieved Pat Dye said outside the Pirate locker room. "And they played well. They moved the football on us as well as anyone has all year long. They did a good job inside, and in getting the ball to Williams outside. They deserve better than their record this year."

But Dye said the Pirates vindicated themselves by sticking with their offense and not giving up on what the Bucs are trying to do on offense. "Our offensive team did the best job it's done this year, particularly in coming back to score twice in the fourth quarter.

"The biggest thing about it was Green at quarterback. He came up with the big play time after time. We put ourselves in a hole several times in the first half, and we were lucky they came away with only seven points."

Perhaps the key play of the last drive was a 39-yard pass from Green to Billy Ray Washington that set up the final touchdown by giving the Pirates a first down at the four. "We had him (Washington) open on that same play last week against Southern Mississippi, and it might could have won the ballgame for us then."

Dye didn't feel that the defense played its best game, however. "We usually have a lot of people around the ball, but we had a lot of solo tackles out there today," he said, "and that's not good."

"But the real difference in the game...it was Leander."

Green easily had his best outing of the year.

"I don't think there was any particular reason for it," Green said. "We've just cut down on trying to do so many things and are trying to do less things, but get them right. I tried to keep it (the ball) more, too. I feel better now, and I'm more comfortable. I'm just trying to do the right thing at the right time. They were just giving me the chance to keep the ball instead of pitch."

East Carolina ended up with 312 total yards, led by Green's 166. Hicks rushed for 56 on ten carries. Richmond had 239 yards, paced by Williams.

East Carolina proved to be its own worst enemy in the first half, fumbling the ball away several times, including a bobble which set up Richmond's first-half touchdown.

The Pirates lost four fumbles

Brown Sets ACC Mark As State Routs Heels

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Ted Brown set an Atlantic Coast Conference career rushing record as he ran for 189 yards and three touchdowns, but North Carolina State Coach Bo Rein gave credit to his blockers after the Wolfpack throttled arch-rival North Carolina 34-7 Saturday.

"Credit our offensive line," Rein said. "They came off the ball extremely well. It was a team victory."

Borwn, a senior running back, romped over North Carolina's porous defense and scored on runs of 1, 33 and 9 yards in the first half. The Wolfpack jumped to a 24-0 lead at the end of the first half and held the Tar Heels at bay in the second.

"Our offensive line played its best, and when Brown is healthy, you see what happens," Rein said. "Nothing broke down. With the kind of people we have, when that happens, we can play very well."

Rein said he was pleased with his entire offense, which for the third straight game did not have a turnover.

First year North Carolina coach Dick Crum, stung by his fourth loss in six games, was disappointed with the Tar Heel offense, which was unable to move the ball until the third quarter. And penalties on defense hurt Carolina in the first half.

"In a game that is as emotional as this one, you can't make the mistakes we made today," Crum said. "We kept drives alive for them with penalties. They played well and didn't make any mistakes.

"The one positive thing about this game is that we gave a good, honest effort in the second half. We could have laid down at the half and let them beat us 60-0," Crum said.

N.C. State's Nathan Ritter booted field goals of 37 and 27 yards, and the Wolfpack's Billy Ray Vickers added a fourth Wolfpack touchdown on a four yard run in the third quarter.

The conference win boosted N.C. State's record 5-1 overall and 2-1 in the league, while the Tar Heels fell to 2-4 and 1-2 in the ACC under first year head coach Dick Crum.

North Carolina's offense was inept in the first half, failing to push the ball past midfield, and freshman quarterback Chuck Sharpe was intercepted twice.

The Tar Heels found an offensive attack in the third quarter when one-time starting quarterback Mac Kupec entered. Kupec completed a 34 yard touchdown pass to end Bob Loomis in the third quarter for the only North Carolina score.

Brown carried the ball 36 times and ran his career rushing mark to 4,135 yards. It broke the old conference record of 3,971 held by North Carolina's Mike Voight.

For State, Vickers carried 14 times for 63 yards and quarterback Scott Smith completed 7 of 9 passes for 114 yards.

Atkins Paces Terps

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Steve Atkins, held to minus three yards on his first eight carries, scored two touchdowns and rushed for 104 yards while leading Maryland's unbeaten and sixth-ranked Terps to a 39-0 victory over mistake-prone Wake Forest Saturday.

Atkins, who has topped 100 yards in each of Maryland's seven victories this season, needed 28 carries to reach that mark against the sometimes unyielding Demon Deacons.

But the 220-pound senior tailback scored from the one after gaining 39 yards on eight consecutive carries in the second quarter, and from the two after returning the second half kickoff 58 yards. He now has 28 career touchdowns, a school record.

Alvin Maddox, Atkins' replacement, scored three touchdowns while rushing for 90 yards. He scored on two one-yard runs and on a 31-yard pass from Mike Tice, all in the second half.

Ed Loncar booted field goals of 30 and 32 yards for the Terps, who ran their Atlantic Coast Conference record to 3-0 while beating Wake Forest for the seventh consecutive time.

Maryland recovered five Wake Forest fumbles and intercepted two passes, with the turnovers leading to three touchdowns and two field goals.

The Deacons, now 1-6 and 1-3 in the ACC, also were penalized 80 yards in the first half. They were charged with infractions or turned the ball over on each of their first nine possessions.

Maryland, which has won 11 in a row dating back to last season, gained 412 net yards, including 268 on the ground.

Tigers Roll Past Duke

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP) — Led by tailback Lester Brown, Clemson turned two second half Duke turnovers into touchdowns to defeat the Blue Devils 28-8 in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game Saturday afternoon.

Brown scored touchdowns of 1 yard in the second quarter and 3 yards early in the second half as Clemson, 5-1, cruised to its second ACC victory without a loss.

Duke, 3-3, could not move on the ground against the Clemson defense and saw several second half drives ended by turnovers. The Blue Devils fell to 1-1 in league play.

Duke's only offense was supplied by flanker Derrick Lewis and running back Cedric Jones. Lewis caught five passes for 73 yards in the first half.

Jones scored Duke's only touchdown late in the game on a 7-yard pass from reserve quarterback Stanley Driskell. Starting quarterback Mike Dunn, who has been bothered by a sore thumb, carried for a two-point conversion.

Tiger linebacker Randy Scott recovered two fumbles and intercepted a pass.

Clemson quarterback Steve Fuller scored on a 1-yard keeper in the first period and Obed Ariri's kick gave the Tigers a 7-0 lead.

Early in the second quarter, Clemson got the ball at midfield on a Scott fumble recovery, setting up Brown's first TD.

Ariri missed field goal attempts of 44, 43 and 38 yards.

On the game's first play from scrimmage, split end Jerry Butler caught a 3-yard pass from Fuller to become Clemson's career reception leader. He topped the record of 106 set by the late Phil Rogers, who played from 1965 to 1967.

Butler caught five passes to bring his career total to 111.

Clemson, which had been plagued by turnovers in recent games, did not give up a fumble or interception in the first half. Both teams played sloppily in the final two quarters.

Clemson intercepted twice and recovered two fumbles, but Tiger runners coughed up the ball twice themselves.

Clemson Coach Charley Pell praised Brown, who gained 71 yards. He said the tailback "ran the ball well, although he had a charley horse." Clemson fullback Marvin Sims was the game's leading rusher with 95 yards.

American 500 Is Today

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Veteran Ferrel Harris paced the final round of qualifying Saturday, and drivers who previously had qualified made final adjustments for Sunday's $150,000 American 500 Grand National stock car race.

Harris topped the final group of six with a speed of 137.709 miles per hour in a Chevrolet, completing the 36-car lineup. Cale Yarborough has the pole position with a track record speed of 142.067 mph.

Rounding out the final group of qualifiers were Johnny Halford, Junior Miller, Charlie Blanton, Bill Hollar and Bobby Wawak.

Meanwhile, some of the top drivers who weren't satisfied with their qualification runs Thursday and Friday tried to sort the kinks out of their cars.

Richard Petty, the all-time leader in victories at the North Carolina Motor Speedway, but winless since July 1977, improved considerably on his qualifying time of 26.37 seconds, or 138.845 mph.

Petty, who will start 11th, lowered his best time to 26.05 seconds Saturday, making his Chevrolet among the fastest cars in the field.

Petty dominated the recent National 500 until a mechanical failure, but he discounted any advantage here because of that.

"I know we ran good there but that was two weeks ago," Petty said. "It'll be a whole new deal when they drop the flag Sunday."

Less concerned about the race-readiness of his car was Donnie Allison, the defending American 500 champion, who starts alongside Yarborough in the front row.

Allison said he had spent most of his time since qualifying Thursday playing golf and relaxing.

"All we have to do is scuff in four or five sets of tires and that's it," Allison said. "I don't plan on doing anything else to the car. I might mess it up. You know, when you got a good thing going, don't play around with it.

"I feel just as good about the race Sunday as I did a year ago."

The race is scheduled for a noon EDT start.

Cavaliers Rally Past Va. Tech

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Sophomore running backs Greg Taylor and Tommy Vigorito scored a pair of fourth-quarter touchdowns as Virginia's Cavaliers came from behind Saturday for a 17-7 football victory over Virginia Tech's Gobblers.

Vigorito's 2-yard touchdown run with 3:35 left gave the Cavaliers their second victory in seven games. The Gobblers, beset by turnovers and penalties, fell to 3-4.

Taylor's 4-yard touchdown run on the third play of the fourth quarter erased a 7-3 Gobbler lead and put the Cavaliers ahead for the first time and for good.

Russ Henderson's 23-yard field goal in the second quarter rounded out the Cavaliers' scoring. Tech's only score came on Scott Dovel's 1-yard run that capped a 96-yard drive in the first period.

Taylor's go-ahead touchdown capped a 61-yard drive. It was eyed by Mike Newhall's 13-yard reception of a pass that had been tipped by Cavalier wide receiver Ted Marchibroda to give the Cavaliers a first down on Tech 14.

Vigorito's score came after cornerback Bryan Shumock intercepted a Steve Casey pass at midfield and returned it 10 yards. Highlighting the scoring drive was Chip Mark's 17-yard pass to Jim Theiling.

Henderson's field goal came following a 71-yard Cavalier drive that was aided by 41 yards in penalities against the Gobblers.

Sooners Get Win

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Billy Sims devastated Iowa State with a career-high 231 yards rushing as top-ranked Oklahoma buried the Cyclones 34-6 in Big Eight football Saturday.

Sims, who entered the game as the nation's fifth-leading rusher, had breakaway runs of 64 and 52 yards to set up a pair of second-quarter field goals for the Sooners. He scored a thirdperiod touchdown on a 20-yard sprint.

Running from the wishbone formation, Sims had 178 yards on 12 carries in the first half and had eight more attempts for 53 yards. Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer put in a reserve backfield in the third quarter.

Tech Tops Auburn

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Drew Hill sped 97 yards with a second half kick off to pace Georgia Tech to a 24-10 victory over Auburn Saturday in one of Dixie's oldest football rivalries.

The Engineers held a 14-7 lead when Hill took the kick.

Texas Stuns Hogs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senior quarterback Randy McEachern winged three touchdown passes, including two scoring shots, to Olympian Johnny "Lam" Jones Saturday, lifting the eighth-ranked Texas Longhorns to a 28-21 upset Southwest Conference victory over the third-ranked Arkansas Razorbacks.

McEachern flipped a four-yard scoring pass to the swift Lam Jones with 6:15 to play, and Texas safety Johnnie Johnson short-circuited Arkansas' comeback attempt to give the Longhorns the victory.

Johnson intercepted a pas with 4:16 to play and then batted away a desperation fourth-down pass in the Longhorn end zone with 2:05 to go to preserve the victory before 78,000 fans in Memorial Stadium and a regional television audience.

USC In Thriller

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Quarterback Garry Harper hit Horace Smith with an 80-yard touchdown pass with nine seconds to go, then passed to flanker Zion McKinney for a 2-point conversion Saturday as South Carolina escaped with a breathtaking 18-17 college football victory over Mississippi.

The desperation drive by South Carolina came after Mississippi quarterback Roy Coleman had moved his team 56 yards for a touchdown. That enabled the Rebels to take a 17-10 lead with just over six minutes to play.

Coleman, who scored on a 24-yard scamper in the first quarter, capped the 56-yard march by spreading over from the 3.

Buckeyes In Romp

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Freshman quarterback Art Schlichter teamed with Doug Donley on a 78-yard bomb, one of three touchdowns Ohio State scored in a little over two minutes Saturday in thrashing Iowa 31-7 in Big Ten college football.

Lehigh Pulls Rally

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP) — Quarterback Rich Andres threw a pair of touchdown passes to split end Steve Kreider to give Lehigh's Engineers a 14-10 come-from-behind football victory Saturday over Virginia Military's Keydets.

Navy Sinks Tribe

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Bob Tata kicked a 27-yard field goal and fullback Larry Klawinski burst through the middle for a 33-yard touchdown to lift 17th-ranked Navy to a 9-0 victory Saturday over William & Mary.

and had one pass intercepted, giving Richmond good field position several times and stopping a few ECU drives.

Early on, the two teams exchanged fumbles near midfield. The Bucs turned it over at their own 49, then got it back two plays later at their own 40.

That started the Pirates on a five-play, 60-yard scoring drive. Green kept the ball around the right side for eight yards, then Eddie Hicks added six. On a perfectly executed option, Green kept the ball around the right side, then pitched to Harrell who raced down the sideline to the Spider nine, a 37-yard gain.

After one play gained nothing, Green kept to the right again, faked a pitch, cut in, broke a tackle and danced into the end zone. Lamm added the PAT, making it 7-0 with 7:41 left in the quarter.

The Pirates got put into a hole later in the period when a Spider punt hit on the 33, bounced and rolled its way down to the one and was downed.

ECU got a first down, but then fumbled and Jeff Nixon fell on it at the two. Kornegay got a yard up the middle, then went the final yard from a power-I setup, putting Richmond on the scoreboard. Adams added the PAT for a 7-7 tie with 3:07 left in the quarter.

A later fumble, just before the period ended, gave Richmond good field position at the ECU 49, but the Spiders failed to get a first down.

In the first play following the punt, however, Green fumbled and Glenn Cook recoverd at the 34. Two plays later, quarterback James Short hit Ian Beckstead inside the five, but Gerald Hall knocked the ball loose from him after the catch and Charlie Carter recovered at the 10.

The Spiders had another chance later in the half, moving from their own 20 to the ECU 27 before failing to pick up a first down. Williams streaked 27 yards on an option for the key play. In the closing seconds, the two teams traded interceptions. A personal foul call against the Bucs put the ball on the ECU 47, giving Richmond one more chance, but the Spiders were thrown back. The third quarter turned into a punting contest most of the way. Richmond had the only drive of the period, immediately following the kickoff. The Spiders moved from their own 31 to the ECU 33 before failing to pick up a first down. ECU made only one first down in the frame, while Richmond made no more after that drive.

But just as the quarter ended, the Pirates got it back at their own 43, driving in nine plays to regain the lead. On a key third and nine play from the Spider 44, Green hit Terry Gallaher at the 29. Green then ran for 18 more to the 11. Sutton added five to the six, but Steve Greer fumbled the ball on the next play. Center Jeff Hagans alertly recovered for ECU at the one and Hicks went over left tackle on the next play for the score. Lamm added the PAT for a 14-7 lead with 11:50 left.

The Spiders came back strong, however, moving from their own 27 following the kickoff. Short hit Beckstead for 21 yards to the ECU 49, and one play later, the Bucs were called for unsportsmanlike conduct, putting the ball on the 30.

On fourth and three from the 24, Short again connected with Beckstead at the 18, keeping the drive alive. Once again, it came to a fourth and four from the 12. This time, Short faked a pitch to Williams then cut through the right side of the line down to the two. On second down from there, Kornegay again pitched over the middle for the score. Adams' kick tied it at 14-14 with 6:04 left.

The Pirates then got fired up and drove right back down the field to move ahead for good. Green hit Collins for 11 yards for the first first down after the drive started at the 23. Hicks added 12 yards on two carries to the 43, and then Green added nine more to the Spider 43.

The Pirate quarterback then hit Washington for 39 yards to the four.

From there, two plays lost two yards before Green moved right, cut in and pushed past two tacklers at the one to fall into the end zone with 1:02 left. Lamm booted it to 21-14.

Richmond, attempting to pass on second down, fumbled and the Bucs took over on the 21. But they fumbled it back at the 28 on their first play, keeping the Spider hopes alive. Carter ended them quickly, however, picking of an interception, and one play ran out the clock.

The Pirates, now 5-3, will take the coming week off, before opening a three-game home stand against Appalachian State on Nov. 4.

Lopez Retains Featherweight Title

PESARO, Italy (AP) — Danny "Little Red" Lopez of Los Angeles retained his World Boxing Council featherweight title Saturday night when Philippine challenger Fel Clemente was disqualified for butting in the fourth round of a wild, unruly bout.

Mexican referee Gujelmo Ajon stopped the fight 2:15 into the fourth round. The decision was roundly booed by a capacity crowd in the 5,000-seat major Hall of the Fair Premises.

Clemente had been warned officially once earlier in the round for butting. The 26-year-old Filipino opened cuts over both of Lopez' eyebrows, both in the fourth round.

It was the fifth title defense for the 26-year-old Lopez who won the championship in 1976. It was a closely fought fight. Lopez attacked Clemente with precise punching, and the challenger answered with fast footwork and powerful jabs.

Clemente darted out of his corner for an immediate attack on the champion, known to be a bit slow in the early rounds.

Rampants Defeat Northern Nash, 20-8

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Rose High School's Rampants completely shut down Northern Nash's offense Friday night except for one play late in the game, and took advantage of Knight errors to pound out a 20-8 victory.

The win was Rose's first against Division I competition and moved the Rampants to a 1-2 league mark and a 3-4-1 overall record.

Rose had several scoring opportunities, but could cash in on only three of them. One of those came off a fake field goal attempt, another was set up on a bad snap in a punting situation, and the third came after another bad snap on a punt.

Ron Butler, who sat out most of the game with a leg injury, scored the first TD on a five-yard pass from Mark Shank, and Robert Morehead got the second on a 25-yard run. Shank scored the third on an eight-yard run.

Northern's lone touchdown came with just under a minute left in the game when Jeff Collins pulled in a 70-yard pass from David Wells off a double reverse.

Ted King kicked two extra points for Rose, while Kenneth Richardson ran over the two-point PAT for Northern.

"I was really surprised by the game," Rose Coach Dave Bumgarner said afterwards. "I didn't think it would be that type game.

"We were able to move the ball pretty well. We opened up the offense, throwing the ball more." Rose connected on five of 15 passes.

Rose had several players injured. Butler left the game early with a leg injury, and King, Bill Cobb and Reggie Selby followed them to the bench, all with knee injuries. Selby's appeared to be the more serious, but it was not known whether his services would be lost for next week's Wilson Fike game. The others are expected to be ready to play.

"I really thought that their defense would be tougher," Bumgarner said. "And I thought that they'd be able to move the ball better than they were."

Rose held Northern to just 45 yards rushing, and gave up 93 through the air, with 70 of that coming on their final play of the game. Aside from that play, Northern had only 68 yards in total offense.

"I was disappointed that we weren't able to score more," Bumgarner said. "We had several other chances, and we should have gotten the ball in there."

Both teams gambled early. Rose went for a first down on fourth and one at the Northern 49 on the first series of the game, making it, but fumbling the ball away on the next play. Northern went for a first on fourth and one at the Rose 40 four plays later and was thrown for a loss.

The Rampants got their first big chance then. After Morehead gained nine yards on the first play, Derwin Clemons took an option pitch from Shank around the left end and scooted down to the Knight six before being chased out of bounds. But from there, Rose could get only to the one on four plays.

A fumble recovery by Don McGlohon on the 14 four plays later set up the first Rose score. After three rushes, the Rampants got a first down at the three, but in three more plays lost two yards and appeared ready to settle for a field goal. But Shank, on the hold, snapped the ball up, rolled out to his right and found Butler in a crowd in the end zone for the score with 12 seconds left in the first period. King's PAT made it 7-0.

Northern got a bad snap from center on a punting situation four plays after the kickoff and turned the ball over on its own 43. Rose picked up a first down at the 32 on two plays, but then was hit with a 15-yard offensive pass interference call when King stumbled and knocked down a defender. From the 45, Shank hit Butler at the 25, gaining much of it back. It was on that play that Butler was injured. Then, on fourth and three from the 25, Morehead went over right tackle, got enough for the first down before being hit. But he broke loose, and found no one ahead of him as he raced to the end zone. King again kicked, and with 8:05 left in the half, Rose led, 14-0.

Rose got the ball back with just over six minutes left and ran out nearly all the clock, driving from its own 32 to the Northern 15 before penalties and a loss forced them back and a 43-yard field goal attempt by King was short. Earlier, in the drive, a 29-yard pass from Joey Mattheis to Tyrone Tucker was dropped in the end zone.

Rose got another early break in the third period. After holding the Knights on the kickoff, another bad snap from center cost Northern the ball on the Knight eight.

On first down, Shank kept the ball on the option around right end, scoring easily. King's kick was wide, and Rose led, 20-0 with 10:01 left in the quarter.

Starting from their own 45 after the kickoff, Northern moved it to the Rose 21 before a clipping penalty threw them back and force another punt. Later, after holding Rose at its own 44 on downs, Northern moved down to the 26 before Bryant Smith broke through on third down to toss Rossie Arrington for a ten-yard loss.

Early in the final period, Rose go the ball at the Knight 24 after a fumble recovery by Smith, and then moved for a first and goal at the eight, but then again failed to score, losing the ball on downs at the two.

In the closing minute of the game, Rose appeared to be getting the ball back on a punt, but roughed the kicker, and that gave Northern a first down at the 27. After a three yard gain on first down, the Knights pulled off a razzle-dazzle play.

Arrington dropped back and rolled to his right, then handed off to Richardson, who then handed off to Wells on the double reverse. Wells had Collins wide open about the Rose 30, and hit him perfectly. Two Rose defenders were able to get back and nearly make the tackle, but Collins shook them off and raced the rest of the way for the score.

Richardson made the two-point run with 36 seconds left to close out the scoring.

The Rampants seek their second straight league victory next Friday when they observe Homecoming against Wilson Fike.

Facemask?

Northern Nash's David Schinedehette (43) appears to be guilty of a facemask penalty after sacking Rose High quarterback Joey Mattheis (13) in Friday night's game. No penalty was called on the play and Mattheis was unhurt. The Rampants won 20-8. (Reflector photo by Tommy Forrest)

Wolfpack Romps, 34-7

For North Carolina, Doug Paschal was the leading rusher with 74 yards on 14 carries, and Amos Lawrence got just 12 yards on five attempts.

Lawrence attempted one halfback pass in the second half that was intercepted by NC State's Ronnie Lee at the Wolfpack 10-yard line.

After a scoreless first quarter, N.C. State's scoring explosion began with an 80-yard drive in 17 plays, ending with Brown's 1-yard run for a score with 10:29 left in the first half.

North Carolina was forced to punt on the next possession, and on State's first play Smith connected with Mike Quick for a 33-yard pass. On the next snap Borown ripped up the middle for a 33 yard scoring romp, giving State its second touchdown in 76 seconds.

North Carolina was unable to move the ball, and N.C. State took over at the 50. A slow drive ended with Ritter's first field goal, making it 17-0 with 2:45 left the half.

On its nect possession, North Carolina made it nearly mid-field before Bubba Green, State 259 pound tackle, intercepted Sharpe's pass at the North Carolina 44. Six plays later, Brown took a pitch 9 yards for his third touchdown.

Brown gathered 135 yards rushing in the first half, and his 189 total moved him up two places to sixth place on the NCAA's all-time rushing list.

Trevino Leading

PARIS (AP) — American Lee Trevino, in fine putting form, took sole control of the lead Saturday in the third round of the Lancome Open Golf Tournament, one stroke ahead of Gary Player of South Africa and America's Tom Watson.

Trevino, who had shared the second-round lead with Watson, fired a five-under-par 67 in the third round for a 54-hole total of 206, 10 shots below par over the St. Nom la Breteche course.

Player had the day's best round, a six-under 66, while Watson shot a 68. They were deadlocked at 207.

Andy North, the U.S. Open champion, carded a 67 for 211.

Rampettes Are Topped

Raleigh Sanderson edged Rose High's girls' tennis team 5-4 here yesterday.

The visitors won four singles matches and the top doubles event to hand the local team its sixth loss of the season. The Rampettes are now 5-6 overall and 5-4 in Division I play.

Rose's next match is Monday at Northeastern.

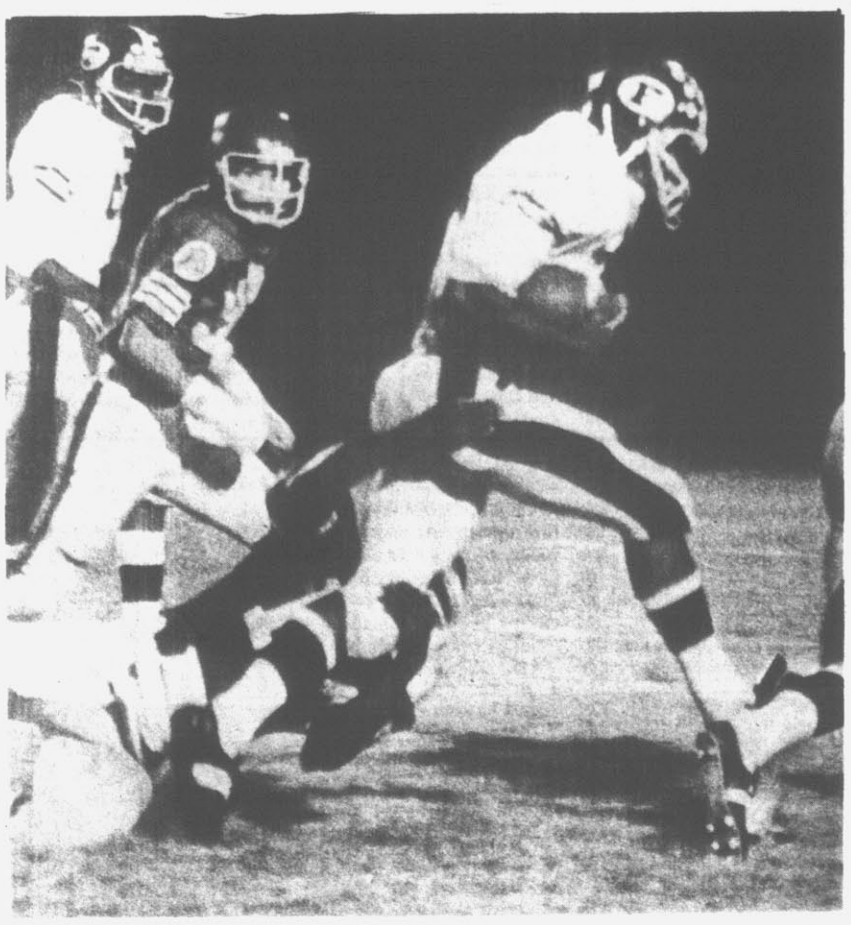
Jaguars Claim ECC Lead With Victory



Reid Rambles

Farmville Central running back Donald Reid is grabbed by a falling Donnie Jackson of Ayden-Grifton after a long pick-up against the Chargers Friday night. Reid ran for 196 yards and three touchdowns as the Jaguars rolled to a 41-0 victory. (Reflector photo)

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

LITTLEFIELD — Farmville Central's hard-hitting defense and specialty teams sparked a 27-point, second-quarter scoring outburst Friday night as the Jaguars routed Ayden-Grifton 41-0 to take command of the Eastern Carolina Conference championship race.

The two teams came into the contest with identical 4-0 league records. The victory puts Farmville Central in clear control of the loop race and a victory this Friday night against North Pitt will sew up a spot in the state 3-A playoffs for the Jags.

After a somewhat slow start, Farmville Central began take command of the action Friday night in the second quarter. Counting a touchdown late in the opening period, the Jaguars scored on their last five possessions of the first half for a 34-0 lead at intermission.

The Jaguars' final two scores of the first half were set up by the specialty teams, which blocked a punt at the Charger 11 and then returned another punt to the 11. Those two touchdowns sent the team into the dressing room with an almost insurmountable margin.

"We started off kind of slowly, but got it straightened out and our kids really went after them," Jaguar coach Gene Brewer said. Brewer praised his team's defensive effort and said, "We feel like we've got a pretty strong defense and thought we could shut them out if we had a real good night."

The Jaguars held the Chargers to 86 yards rushing and 43 yards passing, much of it in the second half as the team's regulars took a rest.

The play of the specialty teams also brought a smile to the winning coach's face. "If we catch a punt, we usually do a pretty good job with it," he said.

Charger coach Dixon Sauls had little explanation for his team's performance. "Farmville played very aggressively. They stuck it to us and they stuck it to us early. They were a better football team than we were tonight."

Sauls said the Jaguars' ability to capitalize on early breaks was a big blow to the Charger hopes.

Offensively, the night belonged to Jaguar running back Donald Reid. The hard-nosed ball-carrier carried 16 times for 196 yards and scored three of the team's first four touchdowns. He also caught one pass for nine more yards. Counterpart Roger Joyner scored twice, while James Tyson also added a TD.

Defensively, Calvin Horne took the spotlight with three pass interceptions, returning one 18 yards.

Neither team could gain much offensive momentum in the first quarter until Reid broke loose on a 56-yard run from the Jaguar 32 to set up the team's first score. Two plays later, he took the ball in from four yards away and added the PAT kick to put the Jags out in front.

On their next possession, early in the second quarter, the Jaguars started from their own 31 after a clipping penalty on a punt return. They moved the ball into Charger territory with the help of a personal foul penalty and quarterback Donald Freeman hit Tyson with a scoring strike for the final 39 yards on a perfectly timed down-out-down pattern. The PAT kick was wide.

It took Farmville only two plays to score the next time the Jaguars got the ball. Reid ran both times, picking up 11 yards on the first carry and then breaking through the line, gaining his balance and sprinting 47 yards for the score. David Dunn's kick made it 20-0 with 4:47 left in the half.

The Jaguar defense held Ayden-Grifton after the kickoff and David Smith dropped back to punt. But, Walter Blow broke through the line, blocked the punt and returned the ball to the 11.

It took Reid only one play to score through a big hole on the right side of the line. Dunn again added the PAT.

Four plays later, Farmville got the ball back at the Charger 11 when James Tyson broke loose on a 32-yard punt return. He took the ball on the left sideline, but came back to the right behind a wall of blockers to set up the team's final score of the half.

Reid got the ball down to the two, taking a screen pass from Freeman, and Joyner scored from there on the next play. Dunn's kick made it 34-0.

Smith threw a desperation pass early in the third quarter as he was about to get sacked and Allen Moore picked it off for Farmville. Two unsportsmanlike conduct calls against the frustrated Chargers gave the Jaguars the ball at the Ayden-Grifton 28.

Freeman almost scored on a first-down quarterback sneak to the 16, but Donnie Jackson made a saving tackle.

Two plays later, the Jaguars did get in, however, as Joyner went over the left side from the five and waltzed in untouched. Dunn converted.

That made it six TD's in six straight possessions for the Jaguars and the Chargers never crossed midfield after that.

Next week, the Jaguars travel to North Pitt, while Ayden-Grifton is at D. H. Conley.

School Mourns Death Of JV Football Player

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Green and yellow bunting hung from the main hall at White Oak School where students had put up posters and drawings dedicating a wall wall to Reginald Montford.

The display stood as a memorial to Montford, 15, who died Wednesday after being paralyzed in a football game Oct. 12.

A funeral will be held Sunday at the school gymnasium.

"His death was a tremendous shock," E.R. Mason, assistant pricipal and director of athletics, said Friday. "We were hoping and hoping until the last."

Montford was a sophomore at the school, and he quarterbacked the junior varsity squad to a 6-1 record.

The injury occured during a game in which Montford scored two touchdowns to lead White Oak to a 14-12 win over the previously unbeaten West Carteret high School Jayvees.

ECU Defeated

CHAPEL HILL — North Carolina defeated East Carolina University's field hockey team 5-0 Friday.

The Tar Heels are now 8-3, while the Lady Pirates are 1-6.

Johnson Activated

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Running back Sammy Johnson, who has been on the injured list since training camp, was activated Saturday by the Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League.

To make room for him on the roster, the Vikings placed offensive tackle Steve Riley on the injured reserve list, making him ineligible for the remainder of the season.

Johnson was the third leading rusher for the Vikings in 1977 with 217 yards, despite carrying only 55 times.

Radio Shack®
The biggest name in little computers™

Here's a $599 Christmas gift that just possibly makes more sense than anything you've ever given anyone (at any price)!

Never, EVER until now could you have dared to dream of walking into a store to buy a computer "off the shelf". To take anywhere. To put to work (or play) immediately. Never, EVER at the price of a camera, a moped, an electric guitar, a quality watch. Never, EVER. Until now. Until the advent of Radio Shack's breakthrough "personal" computer, the fabulous TRS-80™. So start dreaming . . . of the student, the teacher, the businessman, the person on your gift list who has a NEED TO KNOW about today's complex electronic world. Or the NEED TO IMPROVE in aptitude, in information handling, in numbers manipulation, in time saving, in personal achievement. TRS-80 is the dream come true, the "mind-blowing" gift of a lifetime that couldn't have happened until Christmas, 1978.

For those who think ahead . . .

TRS-80 is a complete made-by-Radio Shack system, not an attachment to a TV set. Complete means: including 12" video monitor, 53-key professional keyboard, microprocessor computer, cassette tape recorder, 232-page owner's manual and a couple of games on a cassette for practice and fun. Best of all, TRS-80 is e-x-p-a-n-d-a-b-l-e in power, memory, computer language; in the ready acceptance of printers and other add-ons. Don't dream of anything less!

For those who care enough . . .

An educator thanks us for "making possible the tapping of human innovation and creativity on an unprecedented scale". A parent says his TRS-80 "investment is one of the most significant in value to our family and to the future education of our child that we have ever seen". We have kid customers and grownup customers. And professional customers and amateur customers. Each with a dream. Think it over. Christmas is a few tomorrows away. Radio Shack is ready TODAY!

COOPERATIVE SURVEYS DONE by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Canadian Wildlife Service offer some good news for duck hunters. Due to favorable weather conditions in the major breeding areas, waterfowl populations are eight per cent higher than last year's overall average.

This survey coincides with reports from Ducks Unlimited researchers in Canada. Waterfowl populations are up.

The ducks and geese that winter in North Carolina are dependent upon weather conditions on the major breeding grounds. If the conditions on the breeding grounds are favorable, the state will have healthy duck populations.

Managing waterfowl in North America is truly an international affair. The western prairies acts as a "waterfowl factory" for the entire North American continent. Studies have shown that the prairie states and provinces of North and South Dakota, Montana, Minnesota, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba furnish from 50 to 75 per cent of the continent's annual duck crop.

A drought in the west last year hurt duck populations considerably. In May of 1977, there were only two million sloughs, marshes and small ponds available for breeding, compared to an annual average of four million. Of course, the decline in breeding areas is not solely due to the drought. With "clean farming" and new agricultural practices, a lot of these boggy areas are being drained and put into agricultural production.

The service said the rate of population recovery varies with different species of ducks. Some species have recovered rapidly, while the comeback of others will be slow. For instance, green-winged teal are up 53 per cent, while pintails are up only 14 per cent and redheads 21 per cent. Most of the birds showing dramatic increases nest not only in the prairies, but in the arctic as well. Biologists figure many of these birds bred in the arctic last year and were missed in aerial surveys of the prairies.

Mallards and canvasbacks, which breed primarily on the western prairies, did not fare as well. The breeding population of mallards, traditionally this continent's most numerous waterfowl species, is down seven per cent from last year and 19 per cent from the 1955-77 average. Canvasbacks are down 40 per cent from last year due to a bad breeding season followed by an extremely harsh winter.

Goose populations are up. Most Canada geese found in the South breed along the shores of James Bay in Canada, which forms the southern tip of the Hudson Bay. The dramatic increase in Canada goose populations is due to changes in farming practices which leave more grain in the fields after harvest.

Snow goose have also done well due to favorable conditions on their breeding grounds in Greenland and in the Canadian arctic islands.

Upcoming Fishing Tournaments

Two fishing tournaments will be held in the southeastern corner of the state this coming week.

A fishing rodeo, sponsored by the fishing pier operators at Holden, Sunset and Ocean Isle Beaches will run from Thursday through Sunday as part of the South Brunswick Islands Oyster Festival.

Fishing will be from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day and prizes will be awarded for the biggest fish caught at each pier in ten different classifications.

In addition, a big oyster roast will be held at Ocean Isle Beach all day Saturday. For more information, contact the South Brunswick Islands Chamber of Commerce, P. O. Box 784, Shallotte, N. C. 28459, or call 919-754-6644.

THE SECOND ANNUAL Emerald Isle Fall Fishing Jamboree will be held from Oct. 27-29 at the Bogue Inlet Pier and Island Harbor Marina.

Entry fees will be $3 at the pier and $25 at the marina. Prizes will be awarded in a variety of species categories with top prizes for the largest king mackerel taken at the pier and from a boat.

For more information, contact chairman Bill Holz of Cape Carteret.

A TROUT TOURNAMENT will be held at Fairfield Harbor in New Bern on Saturday, Oct. 28. Fairfield Harbour, Inc., Union 76 and Carolina Oil and Distributing Co. are the tournament sponsors.

The tournament will culminate in a fish fry and awards ceremony at 6 p.m. Saturday. Registration forms may be obtained by writing or calling Fairfield Harbour Marina, New Bern, N. C., 28560, 919-638-8011.

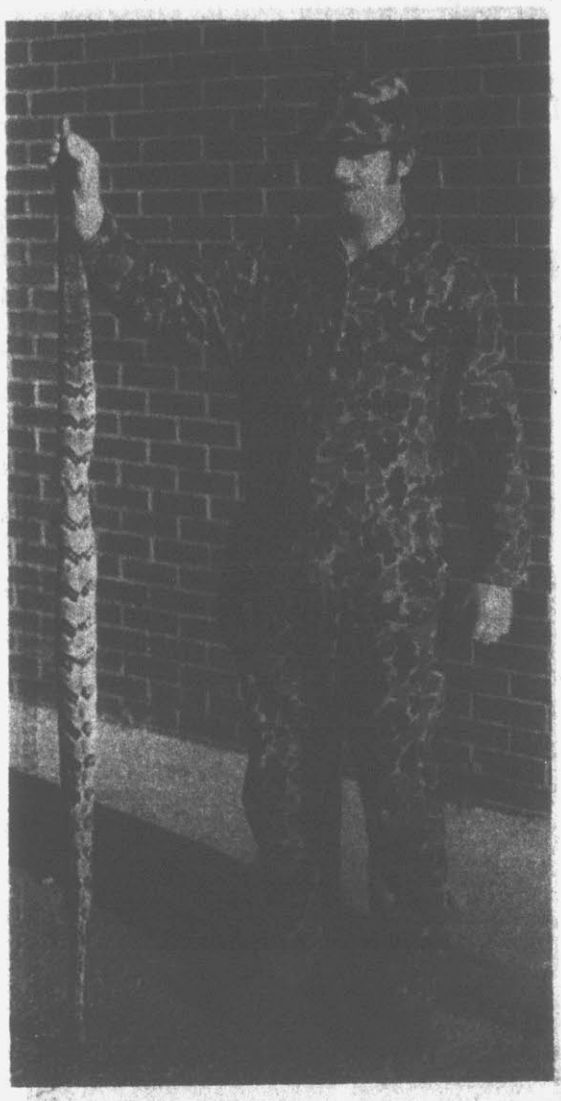
Hot Run On Kings

Mrs. D. E. Jones of 203 Lewis St. made her first fishing trip to the Gulf Stream area two weeks ago and hit on a hot string of king mackerel.

Mrs. Jones, an avid fisherman, hooked four straight king mackerel, weighing a total of 53 pounds. She said she was the only person on the boat, trolling near the Gulf Stream, to make a catch.

Ducks Unlimited Banquet

The annual Pitt County Ducks Unlimited membership banquet will be held this Wednesday, beginning at 6:30 p.m. at the Greenville Country Club.



Big Rattler

Buddy Teel of Rt. 6, Greenville, killed this canebrake rattlesnake while deer hunting on Tuesday in the Saintsville section of Pitt County. The snake, approximately six feet long, had seven rattles. The canebrake rattler is a southern variety of the American timber rattlesnake. (Reflector Photo)

L.A. Gets Olympics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The City of Angels officially will stage the 1984 Summer Olympic Games, with the blessing of President Carter.

Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley and Lord Killanin of Ireland, president of the International Olympic Committee, formally signed the contract Friday in a short ceremony in the White House.

Even though Carter was unable to attend the get-together in the Roosevelt Room, Bradley said the president has given his support to the city's effort to stage the Games for the second time in 50 years.

"I would have liked to have the president there," said Bradley, "but I know how busy the chief executive of the United States can be.

"We know what a steadfast friend and supporter of amateur athletics the president is," he said.

Bradley said he could not foresee any difficulties in holding the Games in 1984, despite the year-long battle the city had with the IOC over financial responsibility.

Rose Available As Free Agent

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pete Rose a New York Yankee? A Los Angeles Dodger? The thought is no longer unthinkable.

Those are two of the eight teams to which Cincinnati's three-time batting champion said he would give "serious consideration" if they select him Nov. 3 in baseball's free agent re-entry draft.

In addition to the eight clubs he named in a statement Friday, Rose said he "would be happy to have further talks" with the Cincinnati Reds. The Reds have said they have made their final offer.

In trimming the list, Rose said, "There are only certain teams on which my full worth would be realized." He said wanted to go to a contending team and a offensive-minded team.

In addition to the Yankees and Dodgers, Rose named the Philadelphia Phillies, San Diego Padres, Boston Red Sox, California Angels, Kansas City Royals and the Texas Rangers.

Rose, who hit safely in 44 consecutive games this season for a National League record, listed the clubs in alphabetical order.

Rose, who has spent 16 years at Cincinnati, has said it would take "a miracle" for him to return to the Reds. Both sides have rejected salary proposals in their latest dispute.

The text of his statement read:

"I have been asked many times what teams I would consider joining now that I have become a free agent. Of course, those would depend on who obtains the right to negotiate with me in the draft on Nov. 3."

Junior Booters Defeat Kinston

Greenville gained a 4-3 victory over Kinston in a junior soccer match held Friday.

Jeff Stallings put Greenville on the board in the first quarter with on a corner kick from Lance Searle after four minutes of play.

Kinston came back to tie it up with 7:55 gone as Thad Leister scored on a direct kick.

Tray Akins scored Kinston's second goal with nine minutes left in the half, but Greenville came back to score twice more before the half ended.

Mike Livingston scored on an assist from Hunter Bost, and Robert White scored on a free kick.

Steve Holloman scored what proved to be the winning goal with three minutes gone in the third period for Greenville. Johnny Hill scored on a corner kick for Kinston with 15 minutes left to play.

Clark Stallings and Scott Berry had eight goalie saves for Greenville, while Billy Michel, Phillip Aaronson, Wendy Jones and Robert White led the defense.

Greenville is now 1-0 and travels to Kinston on November 3 for a rematch.

LaGarde Making Fans Forget About Webster

Tom LaGarde is doing his best to make Seattle fans forget Marvin Webster.

LaGarde, the second-year center who inherited Webster's starting spot with the SuperSonics, scored a career-high 32 points and grabbed 13 rebounds Friday night to lead unbeaten Seattle to its fifth victory of the National Basketball Association season, a 133-117 triumph over the San Antonio Spurs.

"He's a great jumper, he's got long arms and he's an aggressive rebounder," Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens said of the 6-foot-10 LaGarde. "The fans have seen him play and have accepted him already. His teammates know he can do what I know he can do, and the opposing teams are finding out."

The Sonics used a tight defense that forced San Antonio to take long-range, low-percentage shots. Seattle jumped on top 36-23 after the first period and stretched the lead to as many as 29 points in the third period to the delight of the Kingdome crowd of 20,172.

Scoring champion George Gervin paced San Antonio with 37 points.

Warriors 111, Blazers 108

John Lucas, who came to Golden State as compensation after Houston signed Rick Barry as a free agent, scored 19 of his career-high 35 points in the fourth quarter and clinched the victory by sinking two free throws with six seconds remaining. Golden State trailed 74-61 with 3½ minutes left before rallying behind Lucas.

76ers 126, Pistons 117

Detroit scored 15 points in a row to take a 78-65 lead early in the third period before reserve forward Joe Bryant got the 76ers untracked. Philadelphia closed to within 95-92 after three periods and then pulled away in the final quarter, during which Bryant scored 11 of his 27 points.

Clippers 110, Bulls 94

Nick Weatherspoon, who played briefly for Chicago last year, came off the bench to score 19 points for San Diego. The Clippers built a 54-42 halftime lead and Chicago came no closer than seven after that.

Knicks 115, Bucks 105

Ray Williams scored 26 points. Bob McAdoo 24 and Spencer Haywood 21 for New York, which pulled away in the fourth quarter by outscoring Milwaukee 22-12 at the end.

Nuggets 126, Nets 117

Denver made a sizzling 67 per cent of its field goal attempts and drew away from New Jersey in the fourth quarter by hitting 10 of its first 11 shots. David Thompson scored 34 points.

Treatment In USSR

LENINGRAD, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Former Texas Christian University football player Kent Waldrep arrived here late Friday night full of hope that Soviet doctors can help him move his limbs again.

The husky American has been confined to a wheelchair since 1974, when a spinal cord injury during a football game paralyzed him from the neck down. He has been accepted for treatment at this city's famed Polenovsky Neurological Institute, which focuses on paraplegics.

What attracted Waldrep to the institute is a radical new treatment it has developed for paraplegics using enzyme injections — a procedure not yet approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, Waldrep explained.

Vikes Defeat C.B. Aycock

HOLLYWOOD — Curtis Joyner rushed for 110 yards and scored two touchdowns Friday night to lead D. H. Conley to a 14-7 Eastern Carolina Conference victory over C. B. Aycock.

The win was the second in league play for the Vikings, who are now 3-5 overall and 2-3 in the conference.

All of the game's scoring came in the first half. Conley got on the scoreboard first when Joyner scored on a one-yard plunge. The PAT kick failed.

In the second quarter, the Falcons took the lead on a two-yard run by Don Jones and the conversion kick by Dave Thomas.

But the Vikings regained the lead before halftime as Joyner went in from two yards away and Anthony Carmon ran for the conversion.

The two teams battled defensively for the remainder of the game and Jeff Gould intercepted an Aycock pass with 49 seconds left to seal the win for the Vikings.

Jeff Adams and Stan McLawhorn keyed the Conley defense with 13 and 12 tackles, respectively.

Next week, the Vikings host Ayden-Grifton, while Aycock, now 2-6 and 1-4, entertains Southern Nash.

Panthers Gain Overtime Win

SNOW HILL — North Pitt High School assured itself of its first-ever non-losing season when it ground out a 6-0 overtime victory over Greene Central Friday night.

The game was a defensive struggle most of the way, with the Panthers three times stopping Greene Central threats. The Panther offense was unable to get on track during the game, but made it during the overtime.

Greene Central twice missed field goals, and saw another chance disolve when Carl Knight intercepted a pass at the one-yard line.

So after both had battled throughout 48 minutes, it went down to the overtime.

The Panthers took the ball first, and scored when Bob Hemingway hit Tony Pittman from the 11 yard line. A kick for the PAT was missed, but it turned out to be unimportant.

Greene Central, moving only to the eight on three plays, went to the air on fourth down, but Knight was again there to snap off the ball and present the win to the Panthers.

North Pitt is now 5-3 overall and 2-3 in the Eastern Carolina Conference. Greene Central falls to 3-5 overall and 2-3 in the league.

North Pitt plays host to powerful Farmville Central, while Greene Central travels to North Lenoir on Friday.

Redskins Romp By Panthers

ROBERSONVILLE — Charles Hines scored three touchdowns, two on long punt returns, to key Roanoke to a 30-0 shellacking of North Johnston Friday night.

Hines got the Redskins on the scoreboard in the first quarter with a 60-yard scoring punt return and Tony Whitfield added the conversion run to make it 8-0.

Later in the same period, quarterback Glen Cargile hit Jeffrey Gainer with a 30-yard scoring strike to make it 14-0.

Hines broke loose on another long punt return before halftime, this one for 62 yards and another Redskin TD. Cargile hit Sutton Edmondson for the PAT.

The final Redskin score came in the fourth quarter when Hines caught a 31-yard TD pass from Cargile. Cargile passed to Whitfield for the conversion.

The win gives Roanoke a 6-2 overall record and 3-1 Eastern Plains Conference mark. Friday night, the Redskins will travel to Southwest Edgecombe in another league encounter.

Tigers Down Aces

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School dominated play and rolled to a 15-6 over Edenton's Aces Friday night.

The win was the second Northeastern Conference win for the Tigers, against three losses. Edenton fell to 1-4 in the conference and 2-6 overall.

Williamston, after missing out on a chance when Edenton fumbled the kickoff, came back to block a punt and take over at the five-yard line. Larry Williams scored from there to put the Tigers ahead for good, 6-0.

The Tigers came back in the third period to score again. This time, Butch Griffin scored on a 19-yard run. That upped it to 12-0.

Williamston closed out the scoring in the final quarter with Victor Thomas kicking a 22-yard field goal.

Edenton finally scored in the last quarter, with Earthen Ward getting the TD on a 29-yard pass from Dean Jernigan.

Williamston had several other scoring opportunities but failed to cash in on them.

The Tigers travel to Plymouth on Friday to close out their conference season. Edenton will be at East Carteret for a non-conference game.

Even millions of dollars in advertising can't change the facts

Electric utilities are spending big money in advertising to convince you to buy a heat pump. This is Grandpa Jones. And if you're thinking about electricity, get ready for a shock.

- The heat pump's efficiency drops as temperatures fall below freezing. Thats why they have resistance heat backup systems. When they kick in, the hands on your meter really start to spin.
- If you turn your thermostat up or down, it takes a heat pump several hours to reach the desired temperature. This "recovery" speed is much faster with propane heating equipment.
- A heat pump must work four times as long to heat a home as to cool it. With electric rates what they are these days, that gets expensive in a hurry — summer or winter!
- When temperatures stay around freezing, air heating coils sometimes freeze. To defrost them, the heat pump air conditioning system comes on. It defrosts the coils while cooling your home — in the middle of winter!
- What about "hidden costs?" Complete ductwork insulation usually recommended in a heat pump heated home can be very expensive.

Students In ECU's SBI Counsel Small Area Business Firms

By WILLIAM SHIRES
ECU News Bureau Director

Three Greenville area students — Donald Allen of Hookerton, Gary Alford of Greenville, and Michael Gooding of Winterville — are among 22 students involved in counseling small business firms in eastern North Carolina this semester, through the ECU Small Business Institute.

The program, sponsored by the Small Business Administration, provides a valuable link between schools of business and small businesses in the community, usually ones with Small Business Administration loans.

Currently, the program involves 12 eastern North Carolina businesses, including retail, manufacturing, and service firms.

Teams consisting of two or three ECU seniors furnish management assistance and counseling to the participating firms— usually in recordkeeping, selling, and management areas.

Under the direction of Dr. R. B. Keusch of the ECU School of Business, the student counselors attempt to assist business owners in solving their problems by making suggestions to alleviate problems experienced by the businesses.

Five Years Old

Since the start of the program five years ago, East Carolina University students have worked with over 130 firms. Also, the ECU-SBI program has won two awards in the last three years.

One award was for the North Carolina SBA District and the other was for the entire Fourth Region, consisting of eight southeastern states. The ECU group competed with 54 other universities for this award.

"The businesses participate in the program voluntarily," Dr. Keusch said, "and of course, students may only advise. However, many of the recommendations of the student teams have been successfully implemented in some manner."

Dr. James H. Bearden, Dean of the ECU School of Business, stated that the Small Business Institute has proved to be an asset to the community and is beneficial to the student counselors who work in the program.

"It should be noted that the students participating in the program gain valuable practical knowledge from the businessmen and also have a unique opportunity to utilize what they have learned in the classroom," Dr. Bearden stated. "At the same time, business owners receive business expertise and counseling."

In addition to the three area students in the program, there are 15 other North Carolina students in the program, and four out-of-state students. These are:

— North Carolina students — Ann Arnold, Washington; Mark Brady, Durham; Brenda G. Carter, Havelock; Allen Edwards, Dunn; Melanie Evans, Raleigh; James M. King, Rocky Mount; Jeff Kluger, Enfield; William E. Mills, Thomasville; Desiree Murray, Greensboro; Steven M. Staley, Burlington; David C. Stokes, Jr., New Bern; Garrett Tharrington , Youngsville; Mark A. Vann, Fayetteville; James Westbrook, Jr., Four Oaks; and Jerry C. Worlds, Selma.

— Out-of-State Students — Robert Allen Clark and Alan W. Fergusson, both Virginia Beach, Va.; Scott McDonald, Surfside Beach, S.C.; and James Walsh, Ho-Ho-Kus, N. J.

Members Appointed To Mid-East Commission

WASHINGTON, N.C. — The Mid-East Commission Board reappointed Louis Smith, of Hertford County, to the Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency (ECHSA) at a meeting of the Board October 19. Smith's term had expired in September.

Blake Lewis, General Manager of WNCT-TV, was appointed to fill the expired term of Lucille Gorham of Pitt County. Lewis will represent Beaufort County, his residence, on the Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency Board for a three-year term.

The ECHSA was designed to implement health care planning in a 29-county area covering four regions in Eastern N. C.

Bruce Beasley III, Executive Director of the Mid-East Commission, announced the approval of a $7,500 Survey and Planning Grant-In-Aid funded through the N. C. Department of Cultural Resources.

The monies will be used to obtain a complete inventory of historic sites, buildings, and items of environmental value throughout Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford, Martin and Pitt Counties. The monies will also be utilized to publish a complete listing of historic areas to be made public, to assist local governments in eligibility for the National Register, and to provide technical assistance in grant writing to downtown and rural revitalization projects with focus on historic preservation.

Ted Shaw, Jr., Criminal Justice Director for the Mid-East Commission who wrote the application, said the Commission plans to request second-year funding for Survey and Planning Assistance Grants.

Other businesses included the Board approving a recommendation by the Criminal Justice Policy Committee to form a Juvenile Justice Planning Committeee to plan the allocation of juvenile justice planning funds. The committee will be composed of three persons in the juvenile justice field. Each board of the county commissioners will appoint the committee members to represent Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford, Martin and Pitt Counties.

John Robertson, Manpower Director, announced the approval of a $64,870 Manpower Administrative Contract Grant. The federal funds will be used for administrative costs under the Manpower Program.

Robertson also explained the reorganization of representatives to serve on the Region Q Employment and Training Committee consisting of one representative from the organized labor field, two elected officials, two clientele, five persons representing small businsses, five persons from industry and one veterans representative. "The reorganization is designed to include more persons from the public sector," Robertson said.

Robertson requested nominations from the Board for possible members to the committee.

Sue Singleton, Nutrition Director, reported on the progress of the Region Q Central Kitchen. Singleton commented, "We've had very good reports from all the site directors and I'm pleased that no complications have arisen."

Bruce Beasley, recognizing Bob Spivey's ten year membership and dedication to the Mid-East Commission, presented a resolution to the Board which was unanimously approved. Spivey was presented a certificate of appreciation for his outstanding service and diligent hard work.

Final business included a presentation to Ross Persinger, Mayor of Ayden and past board chairman of the Mid-East Commission, of a framed copy of the annual report for his leadership ability as chairman.

Elderly Declare War On Interest Rates

By JOHN C. EAGAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A group of elderly activists who eke out meager livings with tiny pensions and dwindling savings is declaring war on banks that pay interest below the inflation rate.

With picket signs and petitions, they're demanding interest rates equal to the inflation rate, or at least bank signs that warn: "Savings deposits may be dangerous to your wealth."

"It's caused me to lose money, and I'm just one of millions of people who lose by putting money into savings accounts," said Hilda Cloud, president of the San Francisco chapter of a senior citizens organization called the Gray Panthers.

Members of the Gray Panthers and California Legislative Counsel for Older Americans sent their petitions this week to Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal and the five federal agencies that regulate the nation's $1.6 trillion industy of banks and savings and loan associations.

While sign-toting seniors marched outside, a copy of the petition was delivered personally to the Federal Reserve

Gordon Smith, the bank's credit and consumer affairs officer, said Friday: "My reaction is quite sympathetic. The point they are making is valid. When they deposit money to a 5 percent savings account and inflation is 7 percent, the arithmetic shows they are losing real dollars."

Smith said the petition is expected to be studied by senior staff members of the Federal Reserve Bank in Washington, who would report to the board of governors.

Attorney Robert Gnaizda of Public Advocates, the nonprofit legal agency that prepared the petition, said consumers lose about $10 billion in spending power annually because of the system.

The current national inflation rate is slightly more than 10 percent. The common interest paid on passbook savings accounts is in the range of 5¼ percent.

Gnaizda said the system has had the most serious impact on the poor, especially the elderly, who cannot take advantage of 8 percent interest rates offered on deposits of $10,000.

Nearly Blind Photographer Also Teaches

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Covington loves to tell about the first time he took a picture of himself and studied it carefully, discovering what he looked like.

"I expected to see a young Robert Redford," he says. "Instead, I saw a young Groucho Marx."

Covington is almost blind. If he holds something up to his nose and looks at it through a magnifying glass, he can see it. The rest of the world is a blur.

Almost blind, but a photographer nonetheless.

And a teacher of photography.

He teaches the visually impaired to see a world they could not otherwise see, and one he could not see until he learned to photograph it.

He explains: A photograph makes time stand still. He can hold a picture and study it. A face he cannot see across a table becomes an image the size of a thumbnail which he can see. An action that escapes his eye need not escape his camera.

He always wears a tiny camera — a Rollei 35B — around his neck "like a crucifix."

"People's first reaction is, 'It can't be done,'" he says, when he tells them what he is up to. "Then their reaction is, 'Why hasn't this been done before?'"

Covington, 34, born on the Arkansas side of the border town of Texarkana, Tex., worked his way through the University of Texas at Austin, earning degrees in journalism and law.

He taught journalism at West Virginia University and tried practicing law in Texas, but didn't like it.

Now he is working as a consultant to the Association of Flight Attendants, writing and photographing a slide presentation on how airline stewardesses can best help blind passengers.

He is also teachng a free course on photography for the visually impaired at the National Park Service's Glen Echo Park in suburban Maryland, and that's closer to his life's ambition.

His wants to become a professional photography teacher so he can teach what he has learned to people who work with the visually impaired.

Next spring Addison House is to publish a book of his photographs, tentatively titled "Faces I've Seen." It is a collection of portraits of friends, usually not posing, caught in action, photographed so that Covington could see what they looked like.

The camera he uses allows him to focus by estimating his distance from his subject.

This method of "scale focusing" and a wide-angle lens give enough depth of field to produce sharply focused pictures. Depth of field is the distance in front of and behind the subject.

Photo houses often employ the blind to work in their darkrooms since the darkness poses no extra obstacle. Covington does his own darkroom work. He has developed techniques for bringing the most out of his negatives.

Working the enlarger, he frankly admits, is his biggest problem, but not an insurmountable one.

"In photography, they're always teaching you there's only one way to do something, but there isn't. There are dozens of ways," he says. "The medium is incredibly forgiving. It's not necessary to build up this mystique."

A girlfriend awoke his interest eight years ago. He started carrying her equipment while she took landscape photos.

When he looked at the results, he writes in his book, "I suddenly realized there was a great deal in those little pictures I had not seen at the time of the shooting. In some cases I did not even recognize the scene I had looked at for half an hour ...

"The first year I experimented almost daily with the camera. I discovered that old friends had familiar faces, while new friends sometimes did not look anything like I thought they did. At this point, the full impact of photography hit me. I had stopped seeing faces and begun to imagine them."

At Austin, he photographed every step of the way along the streets he had been walking for three years — and saw in the pictures things along his path he had never seen before. In that way, photography gave him sight.

He was born with 20-400 vision in both eyes. Over the last nine years, retina degeneration took most of what little vision he had. He sees with less than 10 percent of normal vision on the edge of his right eye.

But, he says, "As long as I can see to photograph, I'll never be blind."

$1,246,000 Loan For Pitt-Greene EMC

WASHINGTON, D. C. — First District Walter B. Jones announced Friday the approval by the Rural Electricfication Administration of a loan to the Pitt and Greene Electric Membership Corporation in the amount of $1,246,000.

This loan is repayable at five percent interest. The purpose of the loan is to finance service for 550 additional consumers, 17 miles of distribution lines, eight miles of transmission lines and system improvement.

The borrower will obtain supplemental financing from the National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corporation.

The corporation serves in Pitt, Greene, Lenoir, Edgecombe, Wilson and Wayne Counties.

September Fires Listed

Bobby Joyner, Pitt County Fire Marshal, has reported that during the month of September rural fire departments in Pitt County answered 75 alarms covering a total of 64 fires.

Grass or wood fires led the list, with 14 reported, followed by 12 buildings (other than houses). Other categories are: auto fires, 10; house fires, five; house trailers, one; false alarms, five; and miscellaneous fires, 17.

Property valued at $378,340 was directly involved in the fires, with an additional $1,120,600 in estimated property value exposed to the fires.

Staton House was the most active fire department, responding to 15 alarms during the month.

Sales Down

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Department of Revenue released figures Friday showing that cigarette sales in North Carolina dropped 5.43 percent in the last three months compared to the period last year.

That continues a slide that started in the summer of 1976.

To Speak Wednesday

ECU News Bureau

Dr. Jack McCall, director of human service and rehabilitation for the N. C. Department of Corrections, will speak at East Carolina University Wednesday, Oct. 25 at 7 p.m.

He is featured speaker at a program sponsored by the ECU chapter of Alpha Phi Sigma honor society in criminal justice. The event is scheduled for the Carol G. Belk Auditorium.

Dr. McCall's presentation will focus on careers in the human service profession, particularly in the corrections field.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

Adopt-A-Pet

This dog, mostly bassett hound, needs someone to adopt him. He's been a ward of the Humane Society at a local veterinarian's office several weeks now and will have to be "put to sleep" if he's not adopted this week.

He's grown and is recovered from gross neglect and abuse and will make an excellent pet.

Anyone wishing to adopt a pet or place one for adoption may call Mrs. Fiore at 758-0468 this afternoon. Other days she should be called only in emergencies. The 758-PETS phone has had to be discontinued because of lack of funds and other problems.

Halloween Characters To Come Out Friday

Text And Photos By Rosalie Trotman

Beware, beware. Cats shrieking and howling in the night. More strange sounds and sights can be seen and heard at 336 Glenn Court in Brook Valley this Halloween night.

Fourteen adult size "characters" will be decorating the front yard of the Edward O'Donnells' house including two witches two Indians (one hostile, one friendly), a family of four, executioner and beheaded lady, hanged man, caveman, Dracula in his coffin and Green Thing from outer space.

"Two years ago, an old man, called Grandpa, was something extra to decorate the front porch for Halloween. In years past, I had decorated the outside lamppost as a witch with the light shinning through the mask. The following year, to make the yard into a Halloween scene, we added on to the old man, giving him a wife and two daughters, an attacking Indian and a witch with some ghosts and Dracula included.

"This year, we wanted to make it better — so we added space monster and the execution scene," said Jim O'Donnell.

A pair of witches were described by Mrs. O'Donnell as being the most elaborate "because we created new faces for them from papier-mache. The number of hours we spent is hard to pin down because I spent every Saturday morning for nearly six months going to yard sales looking for gloves, scarves, jewelry, hats, wigs, clothes and old Christmas tree stands. I even found false eyelashes. Anything that would fit in our Halloween scene I would buy — such as candles and pastic pumpkins. Shirts, overalls, old masks and shoes are some of the things given to us for our characters," added Mrs. O'Donnell.

Jim started planning from last year what he wanted added this year. "He wanted to do one character per weekend until they were finished," said his mother.

The characters' bodies are constructed from a lot of newspapers, coat hangers, pins and masking tape.

The heads and faces are painted by Jim, who also selects the wigs he likes best for the characters. "Mother and I help each other out, giving each other ideas on how they should look, and how to pose them," Jim continued. "We both stuff them."

"Last Halloween, one couple didn't want to get out of their car and come up to the house 'because several people (our characters) were sitting around the yard'," said Mrs. O'Donnell.

"'Aren't you glad you don't have to feed all those people?' and 'They look like a wax museum are comments made by our friends when they see the "characters"'," Mrs. O'Donnell continued.

"Not too many people have seen what we have this year," said Jim, who is a junior at Rose High School. In commenting on the "family characters," Jim said, "It's not a hobby, it's something to do. My life's ambition is to become an archeologist and artist."

The O'Donnells plan to have the characters outside each evening beginning Friday, Oct. 27 through Halloween from six to 10 o'clock. The characters aren't out if it's raining.

Skeltons and ghosts flying around the yard, glowing pumpkins and sound effects will complete the Halloween scene at the O'Donnells'.

Young Irish Secretary Was 'Never A Teenager'

By DONAL P. O'HIGGINS

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Irene, a slim, pretty 21-year-old secretary, feels she has been cheated out of one of the most vital phases of her life.

"I was never a teenager," she said. "I was a baby, a young girl, then a woman, but I never lived the life of a teenager."

Irene, who declined to give her second name, "in case my family suffers," is like so many thousands in Northern Ireland who were just 11 or 12 when the violence erupted in 1969.

With the bombs and the bullets, the soldiers and the curfews came fear — the fear of going down the street to the disco or down the lane for a courting session.

"We virtually did nothing but sit at home and watch television," Irene said. "You sure could call us the telly teeners."

Like others she has only a vague recollection of the overall level of violence. Fear sits on her doorstep, Violence is at the end of her street. The bricks, the firebombs, the snipers.

Irene remembers the headline horrors: the Abercorn bombing in which two died and 130 were maimed beyond belief. She remembers how Dr. Frederik Bereen of the Royal Victoria Hospital handled the injured on a virtual conveyor belt system, doing critical operations for six hours. She remembers how before she left the hospital he pulled back the shroud covering the latest victims and stared down on the face of his only daughter.

Irene remembers, too, how young Gary Normen took a chance in order to marry and lost. He got a job as the sole Roman Catholic in a Protestant plant to earn enough to wed his childhood sweetheart. One day a bullet in the neck shattered his dream.

She also recalls the slaughter at Kelly's bar when barman Joe McElroy toasted his patrons with the words: "Here's to us. We could be worse, we could be dead." Three minutes later his head was smashed in by a high velocity rifle bullet.

Irene remembers the hosts of sad little stories that weave the horrible pattern of the Northern Ireland tragedy: the little grandmother who once — just once — plucked up enough courage to enter the city center to buy her grandson a little model yacht for his 15th birthday. She knew the shop and hurried inside. Outside someone planted a car bomb. Soldiers searching the debris found the twisted shape of the toy yacht clutched tightly in the old lady's dead hand.

She remembers how young Marion Brown kissed her boyfriend good night, then, ran back for a second kiss and was shot to death.

Irene read about the soldier who challenged a youth to halt. When the youth grinned and went to pull a gun, the soldier, instead of shooting, smashed his rifle butt into his face.

When he stepped over the prone youth he muttered "poor bleedin' sod." The gun was a toy, the youth, a mongoloid.

Then there was Lance Cpl. William Henry Creighton, the shy, young soldier who became the 500th prson to be killed, a

Miss Buck, Mr. James Marry Friday Evening

BLACK JACK — Karen Lou Buck and John Robert James were united in marriage Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Cedric D. Pierce Jr., pastor of Shady Grove Free Will Baptist Church, Dunn, officiated at the formal double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Noah J. Buck of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh M. James of Bethel.

Escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a formal gown of silkened organza over peau de soie fashioned with a high V-neckline and full bishop sleeves. The bodice and sleeves of the princess styled gown were designed with pearls, appliques and flowers of Venise lace. The A-line skirt fell into a chapel length train edged with scallops of Venise lace. The bride chose a chapel length candlelight silk illusion veil complemented by an elbow length veil edged in floral silk Venise lace attached to a Camelot cap featuring candlelight Venise lace flowers. She carried a full cascade of white miniature carnations, yellow sweetheart roses, orchids, and baby's breath with a spray of English ivy tied with ivory satin.

Miss Joni Joy Buck of Greenville, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She selected a formal length gown of melon knit designed with a draped neckline, long fitted sleeves, full circular crystal pleated skirt and a waistband of self-fabric. She carried a classic bouquet of spice, mauve and dusty rose fall flowers and baby's breath tied with a matching bow.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robin Stokes and Mrs. Eddie Ormsby, both of Greenville. They each wore gowns styled identically to the honor attendant's in spice knit. They carried bouquets similar to the honor attendant's tied with spice bows.

The church was decorated with traditional green and white decorations, including a background of gladioli, mums and pom pons flanked with candelabra and areca palms. A profile prie-dieu was decorated with white satin bows, greenery and red and yellow roses. Pews were marked with satin bows and greenery.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Milton James, brother of the bridegroom, Kenan Fleming, cousin of the bridegroom, Eddie Ormsby and Mike Lanier, all of Greenville.

Randy Buck, organist, and Mrs. Randy Dixon and Jimmy Page, soloists, presented the wedding music. Vocal selections included "Wedding Promise," "Three Times A Lady," "The Lord's Prayer," and "Wedding Song." Miss Joni Buck, honor attendant, sang "You Needed Me," accompanied by the organist. All are relatives of the bride.

MRS. JOHN ROBERT JAMES

The bride's mother wore a formal gown of blue silk chiffon over peau de soie, adorned at the waist with rhinestones and bugle beads. The gown featured a capelet of chiffon attached at the shoulder. The bridegroom's mother chose a floor length gown of salmon pink polyester with rhinestones at the waist. Mrs. Scott Buck, grandmother of the bride, wore a formal pink knit gown. Mrs. Alice James, grandmother of the bridegroom, selected a pink formal gown complemented by an over-jacket of rosebud lace. The aunt of the bride, Mrs. James S. Sanders, selected an apricot qiana silk gown with an empire bodice and full skirt. All wore white pixie carnation corsages.

After the ceremony, the bridal couple presented the mothers, grandmothers and aunt with red roses from the prie-dieu. The couple then received guests in the fellowship hall prior to a wedding trip to unannounced points.

The parents of the bride and friends entertained the wedding party, family and guests at a cake cutting Thursday, evening in the fellowship hall following the rehearsal. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Buck, uncle and aunt of the bride. The refreshment table was decorated with a white satin cloth, greenery, clusters of wedding bells and bows. A center arrangement of fall flowers accented by a four-branch candelabra of burning yellow tapers decorated the room. The three-tered wedding cake was served by Mrs. James S. Sanders, aunt of the bride, after the bridal couple had cut the first traditional slice. Mrs. Mayo Rogers, aunt of the bridegroom, poured punch.

Mrs. Rivers Goodall, cousin of the bride, presided at the register. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh T. Hardee Jr., aunt and uncle of the bride.

The bride, a graduate of J. H. Rose High School, attended East Carolina University and is employed by ECU in the Print Shop. The bridegroom, a graduate of North Pitt High School and Pitt Technical Institute, is employed by United Machine Works, Greenville, as a machinist.

Wedding Invitation

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smith request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, LaWanna K. Wardle, to Johnny V. Phelps on Sunday, Oct. 29, at 3 p.m. at the First Free Will Baptist Church, Greenville. Invitations were not mailed in town.

by Rosalie Trotman

A total of 114 craftsmen will be participating in the 13th annual Coastal Plain Arts and Crafts Fair Nov. 9-11 at Tarrytown Mall, Rocky Mount.

The fair has grown from a one-county event in 1966 in Nash County to a 21-county event in 1976. In 1977, participation to the the eight counties surrounding the immediate area became necessary with other counties participating as guests.

Fair hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday and Fridayand 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Some of the arts and crafts which will be shown include baskets, candles, Christmas decorations, decoupage, eggery, furniture reproductions, gourds, handpainted china, jewelry, leather goods, macrame, needlecrafts, paintings, quilting, scrimshaw, tole and decorative paintings, and weaving.

The country kitchen will include baked items, candies, jams, jellies, pickles and preserves.

The fair is sponsored by the Agriculture Extension Sercie in Edgecombe, Franklin, Halifax, Johnson, Nash, Northampton, Wake and Wilson Counties.

The fifth semi-annual Art and Craft Expo coordinated by Southeastern Art Shows will be held Oct. 28-29 at the Four Seasons Mall, Greensboro.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday and from 1-6 p.m. Sunday.

Artists and craftspeople from North and South Carolina, Georgia and Virginia will be on hand exhibiting oil and acrylic paintings, watercolors, collages, mixed media paintings, sculpture, woodcuts, prints, jewelry, batiks, macrame, dolls' pottery and clocks.

Southeastern Art Shows was organized to promote interest, appreciation and the collection of original art and fine crafted objects.

Mrs. Geoghegan Gives Program

"Care of Indoor Plants" was the program topic for the meeting of the Home Life Department of the Greenville Woman's Club held Tuesday.

Mrs. Pat Geoghegan gave the program. Mrs. Ed Ricks, department chairperson, introduced the speaker and gave the welcome.

Lighting, temperature, moisture and fertility were discussed by Mrs. Geoghegan.

The new department chairman for 1979-80 will be Mrs. Robert Murphy.

Mrs. Ricks announced volunteers are needed to dress dolls for the Salvation Army for Christmas. Mrs. Ernest Holt, Mrs. H. L. Andrews, Mrs. Thomas Cole, Mrs. C. M. Respess and Mrs. Fenner Allen were hostesses.

Couple Weds On Saturday

ROBERSONVILLE — The First Christian Church of Robersonville was the scene of the 2 p.m. wedding ceremony of Judith Carol Briley of Robersonville and Robert Hugh Brown of Washington. Dr. Donald Weaver conducted the double ring ceremony Saturday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Briley Sr. of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George N. Brown of Kinston.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of qiana Venise lace, featuring an empire bodice and Queen Anne neckline. Venise motifs accented the straight qiana sleeves. The brushed hemline swept to an attached chapel train. The bride wore a veil of bidal illusion attached to a caplet of Venise lace and carried a cascade of white roses with baby's breath.

Ms. Deborah Garris of Rocky Mount served as the honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Ms. Susan Singleton of Wilson, Miss Mary Ann Briley of Greenville, sister of the bride, Mrs. Kathi Roebuck of Stokes and Ms. Gene Leith of Williamston.

The attendants chose formal gowns of rust polyknit styled with an empire waist and spaghetti straps, as well as matching jackets, fitted at the waist. All carried nosegays of autumn colored daisies and pom pons tied with candlelight ribbons.

MRS. ROBERT HUGH BROWN

Mrs. Margaret Rogerson, organist, and Mrs. Sue Tingler, soloist, provided the nuptial music. Mrs. Tingler sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer." Mrs. Terry Musgrave of Greenville directed the wedding.

Best man was James Porreca of Washington. Ushers included Walter Briley Jr. of Greenville, brother of the bride, Joseph Brown of Kinston, nephew of the bridegroom, Oliver Roebuck of Stokes, and Hiram Gallop of Ayden.

The bride's parents entertained at a reception immediately following the wedding ceremony. The refreshment table featured an arrangement of autumn flowers and a three-tiered wedding cake. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Deborah Ingalls and Mrs. Nellie Taylor of Greenville.

After a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania, the couple will reside in Robersonville.

The bride graduated from East Carolina University with a degree in nursing. She is presently employed as a nursing instructor at the Lenoir Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, Kinston. The bridegroom, who graduated from ECU with a degree in psychology, is employed as a coordinator of the Alcohol and Drug Program at Tideland Mental Health Center, Washington.

Debbie Garris and Susan Singleton hosted a bridesmaids luncheon at the Colonial House, Farmville. Members of the wedding party entertained at a party following the rehearsal Friday.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Have you any idea what fear was rated No. 1 in a recent survey among adults?

Speaking before a group.

That's right, the anxiety of standing before an audience beat out fear of death, fear of failing, fear of heights, and fear of alienation. (Come to think of it, they all mean the same thing.)

It occurred to me that this year a virtual army of amateur speakers will, for the first time, take to the podiums to conduct club meetings, volunteer seminars and instructional classes.

How do the professionals handle it?

*Demand a podium capable of supporting a dead body (yours) up to 187 pounds. Throw yourself over it, being sure to hook your arm over the microphone so you won't slip away.

*Adhere to the old wive's tale, "Feed a cold crowd, starve a speaker." It cuts down on spitting up.

*Insist on a table near the restroom. For some unexplained reason, speakers have a kidney wish.

*Never read a speech. Use note cards which serve a double purpose. You can rearrange them to fit your audience and in the event the person who introduces you uses the jokes on your first eight cards, use the sharp cutting edges on your wrists.

Believe me, I know what you are going through. A couple of years ago, my son brought home a mimeographed memo from school announcing that the principal was having 12 parents in at a time to "engage in dialogue about the future of the school."

At the beginning of the meeting, he announced that before the session was over he wanted to hear from EVERYONE. If they didn't volunteer, he'd call on them. One by one, I watched them get it over with. Questions on what the administration was doing to raise standards of education . . . could he please interpret the test scores in relation to those given the previous year . . . did he feel that schools were becoming isolated or were they addressing themselves to alternatives, such as technical or vocational classes.

As a professional speaker, I waited until he called upon me. Then I casually poked myself in the eye with a green felt-tipped pen and stood up to reveal the back of my dress which was super-bonded to my body. I opened my mouth to discover my tongue had dried up, causing my lip to shrink. I cleared my throat, folded my arms over my chest (the green ink would never wash out) and sked, "Yes, do the nuns really shave their heads?"

Miss Everette, Mr. Manning Speak Vows

MRS. RONALD WAYNE MANNING

WINTERVILLE — The lawn of Mrs. Bobby Hudson Allen was the setting for the 3 p.m. garden ceremony of Miss Debra Elaine Everette and Ronald Wayne Manning. The Rev. Willie E. Bell officiated at the double ring ceremony Saturday.

A program of wedding music was provided by Mrs. George Garris, pianist, and George Garris, soloist, aunt and uncle of the bride from Hampton, Va. Garris sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "The Wedding Song."

The patio featured a white wrought iron wedding arch decorated with greenery, palms and bows of multi-colored autumn ribbons. A basket filled with gladioli, chrysanthemums, carnations and pom pons in harvest shades was placed in the background. The bridal path was marked with white wrought iron hurricane lamps and a three-branch candelabra was placed to the right of the minister. The couple lighted the middle taper as a symbol of their unity and knelt for the benediction on a brass profile prie-dieu. The family area was marked with multi-colored autumn ribbons. The bridal couple presented their mothers with red roses.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Everette of Rt. 6, Greenville, was given in marriage by her parents and escorted by her father. She wore a formal gown of white silkened organza, fashioned with an empire waist and Queen Anne neckline edged in petit point lace. The sleeves were fitted and closed with tiny buttons, ending in a point and edged with a ruffle. The skirt featured a ruffle bordering the hem and up the sides, extending down the back and around her chapel length train. The bride wore a two-tier fingertip veil of French silk illusion attached to a Juliet cap and edged in rows of seed pearls and alencon lace. Her bouquet was of apricot carnations, white pom pons and baby's breath, centered with a corsage of three tropicana roses and tied with apricot and white ribbons. She also wore a diamond necklace belonging to her mother.

Paula Stokes of Greenville served as maid of honor. She selected a formal length dress of nutmeg qiana, featuring spaghetti straps, empire waist, gathered skirt and matching cape. She carried a nosegay of tangerine, bronze and yellow daisies, pom pons and pixie carnations tied with autumn ribbons. She wore matching flowers in her hair.

Flower girls were Jacqueline and Bobbie Jo Everette of Greenville, nieces of the bride. Their dresses were of apricot and green floral voile, featuring rounded necklines edged in lace, gathered skirts with three cascades of ruffles and long sleeves. They carried white baskets with tangerine and yellow flowers and ribbons and wore matching flowers in their hair.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Manning of Greenville and Carl Manning of Vanceboro, selected Ray Manning of Grimesland, his brother, as best man. Ushers included Terry Manning of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, and Jeff Allen of Winterville, nephew of the bride.

Mrs. Everette selected a formal dress of apricot polyester knit and matching sheer chiffon elbow-length cape. She chose matching accessories and a corsage of white silk rose with autumn ribbons. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink polyester knit formal dress with a corsage of white silk roses. The grandmothers were remembered with silk rose corsages.

Mrs. Bobby Ray Everette of Farmville, sister-in-law of the bride, directed the wedding. Mrs. Cathy Harris Brown of Greenville presided at the register.

For a wedding trip to the North Carolina mountains, the bride wore a two-piece dress of nutmeg polyester and the corsage lifted from her bouquet. After the trip, the couple will reside at Rt. 4, Greenville.

A reception was hosted by the bride's parents following the ceremony on the lawn. The table was centered with an arrangement of talisman snapdragons, yellow fuji mums and bronze daisy pom pons. A water fountain topped by a four-tiered wedding cake was featured on the bride's tables. Mrs. W. C. Moore of Bethel served cake and Mrs. Roy Stancill of Greenville poured punch. Mrs. Bobby Allen, sister of the bride, said good-byes.

The bride is a graduate of North Pitt High School and Pitt Technical Institute. She is a member of Gamma Beta Phi Society and is employed at the Pitt County Courthouse. The bridegroom attended J. H. Rose High School and is employed by Roberson Beverage Company, Washington.

Following the rehearsal on Friday night, a party was given for the bridal couple, members of the wedding party and invited guests at the home of Mrs. Bobby Allen, sister of the bride.

Holiday Plans Discussed

The Potpourri Garden Club held its meeting Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ben Gardner with Mrs. Tom Harwell as cohostess. Plans for a Christmas progressive dinner for members and husbands were discussed.

Mrs. Harwell and Mrs. John Winstead announced final plans for planting bulbs at the Town Common. Mrs. Eddie Harrington gave horticulture tips for the month.

Miss Audrey Carter, guest speaker, showed how to design a basic flower arrangement using silk and dried flowers.

month before he was to wed.

And, of course, James Corbett, a different type, who liked to boast that one day his name would be in the papers and who achieved that measure of success when he became the 1,000th victim.

Then there was Bloody Sunday when British soldiers shot to death 13 Catholic civilians in what they said was a shootout with the outlawed Irish Republican Army. It triggered Bloody Friday in which 16 Protestants were bombed to death.

"Yes," said Irene, "I remember all these things, all the sad, the heartbreaking things.

"But will my twenties be better?"

Couple Weds Friday In Candlelight Ceremony

WILSON — A candlelight wedding ceremony performed Friday evening at 7:30 in the Salvation Army Church here united Jo Ann Elks and Edwin Randall Winstead in marriage.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie R. Elks and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Winstead, all of Wilson.

The double ring ceremony was conducted by Capt. Fred Carver. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Estelle Strickland of Wilson.

Judy Elks of Wilson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and bridesmaids included Jackie Elks of Wilson, sister of the bride, Jenny Harris and Janie Harris of Greenville, cousins of the bride. Junior bridesmaids were Tammy Winstead, sister of the bridegroom, and Dawn Ed wards, both of Wilson.

The flower girl was Jennifer Winstead of Wilson, niece of the bridegroom. James Winstead of Wilson, brother of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Greg Elks, brother of the bride, Chris Winstead, brother of the bridegroom, both of Wilson, and Larry Craft of Greenville.

Mrs. Susan Winstead of Wilson, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, presided at the register.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a formal gown in woven acetate with a crepe finish. Cluny lace trimmed the center front of the gown and the edges of the train. Lace also trimmed the empire waistline, V-neckline and edged the trumpet sleeves that flared from the elbow.

Her cluny lace headpiece was enhanced by seed pearls and matching lace trimmed the two-tier nylon veil which was finger-tip length. She carried a bouquet of miniature white pom pons, sonia roses, white cymbidiums and baby's breath with white lace ribbon streamers.

The honor attendant wore a formal length A-line, long sleeved rayon satin dress in apricot color. The high waisted bodice was accented with ribbon. She wore a rayon satin bow headpiece and carried a bouquet of white pom pons with streamers.

The bridesmaids and junior bridesmaids were dressed in gowns similar in color to that of the honor attendant fashioned with long puffed sleeves, ruffled hemlines and lace ribbon trimming the waistline. Their flowers and headpieces were identical and the junior bridesmaids wore lace ribbon in their hair.

The flower girl was dressed like the junior bridesmaids and carried a white basket accented with lace, ribbons and petals.

The couple will live in Wilson following a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va.

The bride, a graduate of Fike High School, is employed in the payroll department at Blue Bell. The bridegroom works at Genbearco, Wilson.

The bride's parents entertained at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church.

The refreshment table was covered with a white lace cloth over white centered with a waterfall wedding cake flanked by burning tapers.

Mrs. Myrtie Davis, Mrs. Virginia Harris and Mrs. Frankie Whitley assisted in serving. Mrs. Terry Watson presided at the register. Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Gay Winstead of Wilson.

Following the rehearsal party, the bridegroom's parents entertained at a party at their home. The serving table was covered with a gold lace edged linen cloth and centered with a miniature bridal couple flanked by burning candles in a circle of daisies.

The bride's grandmothers are Mrs. George Elks of Greenville and Mrs. Blanche Harris of Wilson.

Don't Be Ashamed Of Honest Emotion

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 59-year-old man and was a pretty good welterweight boxer in my younger days.

The place where I work has about 70 employees—men and women—and when you retire, they give you a big dinner and a gift. Then you have to give a little farewell speech.

I am only a common laborer and I'm not used to making speeches. Not only that, I'm afraid I might cry.

I considered getting drunk that night, but then I might really have a crying jag. Or maybe the best idea would be to just say I was sick and skip the whole thing. But at times I think I really would like to go through with the party and be honored.

I've got three years to prepare myself. What should I do?

ASHAMED IN TACOMA

DEAR ASHAMED: When your day comes, by all means, go! And don't worry about crying. If you shed a few sentimental tears—so what? Expressing honest emotions is nothing to be ashamed of. And as for the speech, bear in mind this simple formula: Be sincere. Be brief. And be seated.

DEAR ABBY: I noticed a letter in your column from LEARNED MY LESSON, which dealt with VD and it's consequences if untreated.

I am the mother of a fine son who was the last person in the world one would suspect of having VD—an honor student, outstanding athlete and popular kid. But he had it—when he was 16. I regret to say that he didn't come to his father or me when he suspected something was wrong. Instead he went to our family physician who treated him without our knowledge or consent. We learned about it years later when our son told us.

Abby, in my view, a doctor has no business treating a minor for anything without informing the parents, regardless of what the law says. I think parents have the right to know what is going on in the lives of their children, and if the law states that children can be treated for VD without the knowledge or consent of their parents, then the law should be changed!

If you have the courage to print this, please don't use my name.

CALIFORNIAN

DEAR CALIFORNIAN: Ideally, all children should confide in their parents, but, unfortunately, many do not. I shudder to think of how many minors with VD would go untreated if they had to tell their parents.

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby: Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

COVENT GARDEN FLEA

LONDON (AP) — Britain's first flea market has just opened in the old Convent Garden Market Place.

More than 100 stall holders display their wares in the Jubilee Market every Monday. As at the famous Paris flea market, items vary from children's toys and old photographs to silver, porcelain and antique furniture.

Clothing Road Show To Be Here Tuesday

The annual Clothing Road Show will be held in Greenville Tuesday from 1:30-3 p.m. and 7:30-9 p.m. at the American Legion Building.

Agricultural Extension Clothing Specialists Harriet Tutterow and Judy Walker, from N. C. State University, will conduct the program. Shortcut methods for sewing children's clothes and how to tailor today's fashions with the "unconstructed" look will be included with free lessons in both areas.

Each session will include demonstrations and time for questions and answers.

Ms. Walker will demonstrate construction techniques and shortcut methods for sewing children's clothes and seam finishes. She will explain what fabrics are good for children's wear and will demonstrate uses of trims, reinforcements and casings. Ms. Tutterow will show how to tailor today's fashions, fabric selection and collar construction and fusible interfacing.

Pre-register by calling the Extension Office, 758-1198.

Carry Extras For Emergency

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The chances of a car fuse blowing during hot weather driving are high, especially with trailers, says a St. Louis fuse manufacturer. He recommends carrying an extra box for emergency use. A spokesman for the Bussmann Manufacturing, a McGraw-Edison division, says replacing a car fuse is simple: turn off the ignition, pull the blown fuse with the tool that comes with the new fuses, and replace it with a fuse of the same amperage.

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a five by seven picture. During the second week with a wallet size picture and write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement. Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to "The Daily Reflector" one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — SHOWER SQUALL RUINED QUAINT OUTDOOR ART SHOW.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: Y equals O

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Desensitized To Bee Sting

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — A joint U.S.-South African research group claims to have made a major advance in treatment of bee-sting allergy.

The effects of bee stings, lethal to some persons, can be treated by injecting the victim with a small amount of bee venom.

The old method of desensitizing patients by injecting whole bee extract was undesirable.

Ohio Searching For Its Past

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A statewide search is under way fo, bits of pottery and flakes of flint that mark the locations they visited, hunted and lived, an inventory of Ohio's prehistoric sites and treasures is being compiled.

Archaeologist Ken Deaver is directing the work in 10 counties of central Ohio, one of 11 regions in the state. Deaver's regional Archaeological Preservation office, part of the Ohio Historic Preservation program, operates from Ohio State University's Anthropology Department.

Deaver, 30, who has taken part in many archaeological field projects in this and other countries, says Ohio "is considered probably the most spectacular in the country," for its archaeological treasures.

Prehistoric people were attracted for many reasons, he said, such as "rich agricultural land, exceptionally good river system."

There are traces of Ohio country inhabitants as early as 11,000 to 12,000 B.C., and they roamed this land for some 9,000 years.

The total of 81 known prehistoric sites in Franklin County is small in comparison to what Deaver believes is here. "There could be 800 or 8,000 or even more and I wouldn't be surprised," he said.

He has fewer documented sites in other counties of his region: Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Knox, Licking, Madison, Pickaway, Ross and Union.

"With people wandering around for at least 10,000 years, we've got to figure there is an enormous amount of sites," Deaver said. Walking is the primary means used to locate undiscovered sites.

"That's the only way it's done," he said. "There are no short cuts. We walk along the ground in a semi-systematic way and pick up stone material."

The procedure is fairly easy on flat, cleared land and plowed fields, but it's another matter in woodland or areas of heavy undergrowth.

Itching Skin Is Big Complaint

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The most common skin complaint among the elerly is itching, with or without a rash, according to an article in RN Magazine.

The article, written by Thelma Wells, assistant professor of nursing at the University of Rochester School of Nursing, says the itching can be touched off by a variety of causes, including drug reactions, disease, parasitic infestation or emotional strain.

The most frequent cause, however, is dry skin, it said.

Private Eye Not Pleased With Himself Or Work

By JULES LOH
AP Special Correspondent

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Chiappetta lives in a two-story brick and cedar house in the suburbs with a grotto to the Virgin in the back yard which he built himself. He's a bad guy.

At least he says he's a bad guy, always doing lousy things.

"My work doesn't make me feel good," he said. "I'm not proud of it. Sometimes I feel really crummy. I'm going to get out of it soon, try something else. Got to. I'd like to be a movie director."

Why not? He's already been a baker, a cabbie, a cop, a palm reader, hairdresser, Lord knows what all, in his 34 years of hustling the streets of Chicago.

Right now he is Mike Chiappetta, private eye.

He is a private eye in the Sam Spade tradition. No necktie. No nonsense. No questions asked. He'll bodyguard you, spy on your spouse, dig up dirt on your rival in the company.

The latter duty is called "employee evaluation."

"I'll get a call from a guy to do an employee evaluation on another guy in his company, another vice president. I'll say, 'Now look, you don't want to know if he's fooling around or anything that doesn't have to do with his work, do you?'

For his part, Mike says he'd rather work for the less "respectable" element, gamblers, shady characters, if for no other reason than they pay their bills on time.

"Doctors and lawyers are the hardest to collect from. The only thing they understand is intimidation.

"Well, I understand it too. I'll send over a friend, a street guy, carefully chosen. He will say, 'Mike says you have an envelope for him, sir.' There is something in the voice and the look that is genuine and evil and unmistakable. Scares hell out of 'em."

Chiappetta believes that private detectives, using their own methods, are far better investigators than their police counterparts who are burdened with subpoenas and warrants and such.

"I can get into any place I need to get into. I have a guy who can print me a business card or receipt book in two hours, whatever I need. I've been inside more fancy apartments on Lake Shore Drive than I can count.

"I usually pose as a plumber sent up by the superintendent. I'm good at it. I told one guy I had come to fix the leaky faucet and he gave me a $10 tip for fixing the toilet while I was there. Once inside, I get what I came for. Just give me a few minutes alone."

Chiappetta believes the future of private detectives is in public service, as it were.

"The government could be the best client of all. They're doing more investigations than anybody — the Kennedy and King assassinations, all those other investigations in Washington.

"Trouble is, their investigators are all rich college kids who don't know the streets and also have their own personal interests and politics."

Heart Study A Big Field

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Arthur J. Moss has been named to head a four-year, multi-institutional effort that is aimed at finding answers to some of the questions about the human heart.

Moss is clinical associate professor of medicine at the University of Rochester Medical Center and director of the Heart Research Followup Program of the Department of Preventive Medicine and Community Health.

"We expect to learn about the mechanical and electrical aspects of heart action in a detailed way," Moss says. "We plan to identify the high risk coronary patient and to elucidate the mechanisms responsible for fatal complications.

"This study should provide the foundation for developing specific preventive approaches to reduce mortality and to improve the ability to survive after a heart attack.

"Since this research is based on a number of locations, we will be able to study a broad spectrum of patients in university and community hospitals."

The program is funded by grants of $713,000 from the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute of the National Institutes of Health, and $150,000 from the Gebbie foundation, Jamestown, N.Y.

Inventions Overshadow 'Star Wars' Gadgetry

CHICAGO (UPI) — If you think the gadgetry in "Star Wars" is hard to believe, just take a loo at some of this year's inventions.

A technical magazine has announced its 1978 list of the top 100 inventions and some seem right out of a science fiction book.

There is a new device that can measure oxygen in the blood without puncturing the skin for samples, a new chemical to make weaker ice, and an electronic branding iron so modern-day cowboys can quickly identify and check the health of cattle.

The Chicago-based Industrial Research-Development magazine with the help of a panel of scientists judges new products and processes. It annually picks the top 100 based on importance, usefulness and singularity.

In the health field, an Ohio firm is marketing an oxygen blood-measuring device that uses an electrode to heat a small area of the skin. The heat causes blood vessels in the area to widen, leading to greater blood flow. Oxygen in the blood then permeates up through the skin and a sensor can measure its quantity without ever puncturing the skin.

The device, selling for $9,925, was originally developed for monitoring oxygen in premature babies who face the threat of brain damage caused by oxygen deficiency if they have underdeveloped lungs. But it can be used with other patients as well. Previously, blood samples were necessary to check oxygen content.

An Israeli firm has developed a $3,000 special footprint plate that allows doctors to measure the distribution of force between a patient's foot and the ground. It can be used to obtain specifications for orthopedic shoes or to gather data for surgery.

Another device — an ultrasonic scanner — gives a precise measurement of the depth of burns. Traditionally doctors have had to wait to perform surgery on burns until they were clearly demarcated. The device can give doctors a quicker assessment and allow for earlier surgery.

Also on the medical front, a new filter has been developed to purge wastes from kidney patients. The manufacturer says it works better than conventional dialysis machines.

On the chemical front, Dow Chemical Co. has come up with a new agent that it says can reduce the strength of ice structures by up to 80 percent. The chemical — if coated on coal in rail cars and conveyor belts before they freeze — can give workers an easier time of breaking up winter ice.

And Illinois researchers have come up with a starch-sulfur compound that causes heavy metals, like lead or silver, to bind together. Applied to wateways and streams, the chemical creates sludge from the heavy metals, making removal easier.

For the cattle industry, 20th-century cowboys can use electronic branders that are placed under the skin of cattle. When scanned, the branders give ready identification and can even give the cattle's temperature.

And, a new hand-held instrument has been devised to quickly treat eye tumors in cattle with short spurts of heat. The device can be used by a rancher and was successful in treating maligant eye tumors which are estimated to cost the U.S. cattle industry up to $20 million a year. The device also has registered some success in experiments on malignant human eye tumors.

Among other inventions honored by the magazine were:

A solar intensity gauge that gives read-outs in a computer voice; a lightning monitor device that enables utilities to map lightning in their area so they can better plan the installation of protective antilightning systems; special minibatteries for hearing aids with double the life of their older counterparts because they use air in making energy; two new systems that gather a commercial airliner's flight data to help compute an "optimum" fuel efficient flight plan; and a new method to process coal into natural gas.

The magazine, using statistics from 87 of the inventions, said it took an average of 29,687 man-hours and $1.1 million to develop each award-winner. The cheapest invention cost only $4,000 to develop and on the other extreme one winner cost $62 million to develop.

And just in case your not quite sure if these inventions will ever make it big, Industrial Research-Development magazine says its top 100 choices traditionally have a good track record.

Another device — an ultrasonic scanner — gives a precise measurement of the depth of burns. Traditionally doctors have had to wait to perform surgery on burns until they were clearly demarcated. The device can give doctors a quicker assessment and allow for earlier surgery.

Also on the medical front, a new filter has been developed to purge wastes from kidney patients. The manufacturer says it works better than conventional dialysis machines.

On the chemical front, Dow Chemical Co. has come up with a new agent that it says can reduce the strength of ice structures by up to 80 percent. The chemical — if coated on coal in rail cars and conveyor belts before they freeze — can give workers an easier time of breaking up winter ice.

And Illinois researchers have come up with a starch-sulfur compound that causes heavy metals, like lead or silver, to bind together. Applied to wateways and streams, the chemical creates sludge from the heavy metals, making removal easier.

For the cattle industry, 20th-century cowboys can use electronic branders that are placed under the skin of cattle. When scanned, the branders give ready identification and can even give the cattle's temperature.

And, a new hand-held instrument has been devised to quickly treat eye tumors in cattle with short spurts of heat. The device can be used by a rancher and was successful in treating maligant eye tumors which are estimated to cost the U.S. cattle industry up to $20 million a year. The device also has registered some success in experiments on malignant human eye tumors.

Among other inventions honored by the magazine were:

A solar intensity gauge that gives read-outs in a computer voice; a lightning monitor device that enables utilities to map lightning in their area so they can better plan the installation of protective antilightning systems; special minibatteries for hearing aids with double the life of their older counterparts because they use air in making energy; two new systems that gather a commercial airliner's flight data to help compute an "optimum" fuel efficient flight plan; and a new method to process coal into natural gas.

The magazine, using statistics from 87 of the inventions, said it took an average of 29,687 man-hours and $1.1 million to develop each award-winner. The cheapest invention cost only $4,000 to develop and on the other extreme one winner cost $62 million to develop.

And just in case your not quite sure if these inventions will ever make it big, Industrial Research-Development magazine says its top 100 choices traditionally have a good track record.

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, OCT. 22, 1978

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are able to accomplish much if you don't give in to hurt feelings. Give what help you can to those who are depressed because of emotional or financial limitations.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do what you can to please kin and have more harmony at home. Entertain good friends at home.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get into philosophical discussions that can elevate your consciousness today. Visit good friends, relatives and have a good time.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You can plan today how to increase your assets and be happier. Study home for needed repairs and plan to make them. Don't waste the day.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get yourself in good condition so that you can accomplish more in the future. Steer clear of those who would waste your time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Look to an expert in attaining some cherished personal aim. Don't underrate your potential as you do have plenty to offer.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get advice from an honest person on how best to improve yourself, but avoid one who is overly critical of you. Make your own final decisions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get into some charitable work today and show that you are a caring citizen. Dine out in the company of close friends. Take time for relaxation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Look to the wisest person you know for answers to some of your problems. Add to your present roster of friends. Take no risks in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Your hunches are good now but also use your finest judgment for best results. Use reason in dealing with loved ones and come to a better understanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make important decisions and then follow through with prompt action. Have discussions with experts. Don't neglect health and appearance.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Go out for recreation, but do not spend too much money. Iron out any errors in work ahead of you. Think along more optimistic lines.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Showing loved one that you are indeed devoted is important today and tonight. Don't be afraid of emotions. Good day to get your wardrobe in better order.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be fine at selling, whether it be ideas or merchandise. Slant education along such lines, and there can be a considerable success in this lifetime. There is musical and artistic talent here that should be trained also.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, OCT. 23, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An excellent day when you are able to organize properly whatever is of interest to you, making every move toward greater success possible. The use of tact can produce the right results.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle your most important affairs early in the day since later you could be pressed for time. Be alert at all times.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Think over what must be done so that relations with others can be improved. Go to the right sources for the data you need.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Morning is fine for solving problematical affairs. Your judgment is not so good later in the day. Use care in motion.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take steps to improve your health and appearance. Make plans now for needed recreation later in the week.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Start the day in a logical manner and bypass obstacles in th epath of your progress. An admirer brings you some pleasure.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Contact friends early in the day, but don't let it bother you if some of them are too busy to go along with your ideas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Fine day for expanding whre civic duties are concerned. You can also win the favor of a higher-up at this time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Look for new projects that will help you to express yourself better and give you added income in the days ahead.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Putting your business matters on a more sound basis is wise now. Steer clear of one who is a detriment to your progress.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show your willingness to cooperate more with associates and get good results. Be sure to keep promises made.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are now enthused to accomplish a great deal today, so schedule your time wisely. Come to a better understanding with mate.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Engage in profitable goals early in the day since later conditions are likely to be more difficult. Handle your money wisely.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one who likes to please others. But teach to be more objective in dealing with strangers or they could take advantage of a situation. Direct the education along lines of high finance for best results.

The Silent Majority Speak Out Against ERA

Many of us belong to groups such as North Carolinians Against ERA, Stop ERA, and Pro-family Groups, but actually the majority of us do not belong to any group. We are wives, mothers, and grandmothers who are striving to provide a home for our families which are conducive to growth and development of our children, and a haven of rest and peace for our husband and children. We cook, we clean, we car pool, we shop for food and clothing for our family. We are helpmates for our husband. We desire to maintain the family unit, with father and mother in authority over the children. We find fulfillment in the blessings we receive in this position. One of our concerns is that the ERA will disrupt the family unit as we know it. We are convinced that women stand nothing to gain if this amendment is ratified...we will lose protection we have hitherto enjoyed simply because we are women. Women are different both physically and emotionally, and no law will ever change that. ERA is a power grab for Washington. We do not want to see our domestic affairs have to be settled in Washington.

We are anxious for women, who for financial reasons must or by personal choice, compete with men on the job market, to receive equal pay for equal job performance. Labor laws already provide this protection.

There are many questions we need to have answered. Originally the ERA had a time limit of 7 years for ratification by 38 state legislatures (3/4 of them). As the pro-ERA forces saw that time was running out and the bill was about to die, they rushed to Congress and asked for a time extension in order to get enough states to ratify the ERA. We feel that this is unconstitutional and a federal power abuse of the democratic process. It is like changing the rules in the middle of a ball game to make sure the losing side wins. We commend those congressmen and senators who have the steadfast conviction that this is unfair and illegal tactics and voted against extension, especially our own Sentors Robert Morgan and Jesse Helms and Rep. Walter Jones. We also commend our N.C. Senators Vernon White and Julian Allsbrook and Reps. Sam Bundy and Horton Rountree for voting against the ERA in our N.C. legislature and we plead with them to continue to vote against it. We know N.C. is targeted for pressure from both Pres. & Mrs. Carter and Vice-Pres. & Mrs. Mondale for swaying the vote for ERA ratification in our next N.C. General Assembly when it convenes in Jan. 1979.

What we need explained more than anything else is how pro-ERA forces have obtained tax dollars to carry out their manipulation. We resent the fact that Congress gave $5,000,000 tax dollars to the International Women's Year which culminated in the way-out National Women's Conference held in Houston last Nov. Their main objective is to see that the ERA is ratified. We also resent the fact that Pres. Carter hired Sarah Weddington as Special Assistant to the Pres. with duties focusing on women's issues, and especially ratification of ERA...this at an annual salary of $51,000 tax dollars.

We know that it is no coincidence that Rep. Lamar Gudger, D-NC, who is a member of the House Judiciary Comm. and who was uncommitted on extension of the ERA until he was lobbied for extension by Mrs. Rosalynn Carter, to receive a $1.6 tax dollars grant for the Asheville airport. According to The Wall Street Journal's Capital Bureau report, this was a reward from the White House for Gudger's yes vote. We deplore the use of tax dollars to buy votes to get the ERA ratified.

There is another question that we need to have answered. Why does an affirmative vote on ERA ratification automatically nullify any further consideration of the issue, while states who have voted "no" (N.C. has voted "no" three times) are forced to bring it up again and again for a vote? We feel an overpowering force manipulating this piece of legislation. It gives us great cause for concern, and we agree with our beloved Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr. when he says "This is the most destructive piece of legislation to ever pass Congress."

Pheresis Machine Drive Underway

Greenville Jaycees are spearheading an effort to raise $17,000 to provide a pheresis (blood cell separator) machine that will serve the people of Eastern North Carolina at the Tar River Blood Center here.

Jim Wilson, project chairman, said the group will appeal for contributions from other Jaycee chapters throughout the 28-county area that the Blood Center serves, as well as to businesses and individuals in the area. The Kinston Jaycee chapter made the initial donation, $1,000, he said, and the Greenville chapter kicked off the campaign, which officially begins today, with a second $1,000. The Wilson Jaycees have already added another $500 and an individual who wishes to be anonymous has contributed $100. This $2,600 has already been placed in a savings accounts to collect interest as the overall fund grows.

The pheresis machine represents a major breakthrough in the treatment of leukemia and other forms of cancer and blood disorder, says Dick Carney, director of the local Blood Center. A donor can provide the blood components needed by the patient (usually white cells and/or platelets) with no detrimental effect on himself. The blood is drawn from an arm vein of the donor and circulated through the machine, where the designated cells are drawn off, and then the blood is channeled back into the donor's other arm.

Carney, who has been a regular pheresis donor at the Tidewater Blood Center in Norfolk, says the donor feels no ill effects and can read or watch television or carry on a conversation during the procedure which takes anywhere from two and a half to four hours. By the time the procedure is finished, the blood of a healthy person has already been replenished with white cells and platelets from the bone marrow, which is a reservoir, he said.

As the donor's blood is drawn into the machine, it spins at high speed in a bell-shaped bowl. The red cells, which are heaviest of the components, are pushed gently to the outer edge of the bowl. The white cells and platelets, which are lighter in weight, gravitate to the center, where they can be skimmed off into a special container. The red cells and plasma (liquid) are then given back to the donor.

During the time the donor is attached to the machine, all his blood — about 10 pints in the average-sized person — passes through the machine. A quantity of platelets and white cells that will make a very useful transfusion are collected.

Carney said pheresis permits 15 times the number of white blood cells to be withdrawn from one donor than could be taken from the same person in the pint-of-whole-blood withdrawal process; eight to 12 times the number of platelets and four times the amount of plasma.

The procedure was developed because, in the mid-1960's, a child died of leukemia and his father, an IBM executive, asked what might have prolonged his son's life. He was told that the technology needed to be developed to control hemorrhaging and infection that kill most leukemia patients before treatment has a chance to work.

IBM supplied the grant which enabled the National Cancer Institute to develop the pheresis machine, which works on the principle of an ordinary cream separator.

This machine has put blood banks throughout the world into the midst of cancer research and treatment, Carney pointed out. "We're no longer warehousemen for whole blood and supplies. Our effectiveness is greatly increased.

"As everyone in Eastern North Carolina knows, Greenville has become a mecca for people of our region seeking medical treatment," he went on. "And for this reason, a pheresis machine is badly needed here. We're feeling pressure every day, having to get blood components out of Norfolk that can be obtained here once we have this piece of equipment. This is why the Red Cross Blood Program staff is so grateful to the Greenville Jaycees for undertaking the raising of funds for this project."

For more information on how to take part in the project, individuals or groups may contact Jim Wilson at 756-5366 or the Tar River Blood Center, 758-1140.

Carney would also like to hear from potential pheresis donors.

Jane Huffman Has Leukemia; Pheresis Saved Her Life

The pheresis procedure and strangers who agreed to be pheresis donors for her are credited by Jane Huffman, a Greenville resident, with saving her life.

The blood cell separation procedure was fairly new in June of 1977 when granulocytes (white cells specializing in fighting infection) were desperately needed for Mrs. Huffman, a math resource teacher in the Pitt County Schools. Greenville Jaycees volunteered to recruit Greenville area people to travel to Duke and be donors for her. Ten persons, most of whom Jane and her husband, Bill, still do not know, made the trip and spent the several hours needed to share white cells with her. She has not needed such a donation since, but does not know when she might again.

"I have acute leukemia," Jane said. "But since the doctors got it under control summer before last, I've been in remission. We have no guarantees of how long this might last, but procedures like pheresis give me lots of hope.

"Bill and I are very much in favor of getting a pheresis machine here, because there are other people who need it. I'll continue to be an outpatient at Duke, but if I were to need granulocytes again, it would be easier for people I know to be able to donate them here and have them sent up , rather than obliging them to go all the way there."

Bill, a guidance counselor at Chicod Elementary School, and Jane have been married seven and a half years. They met at East Carolina University when both were students and have lived in Greenville all their married life. Jane is originally from Maryland; Bill's an "Army brat," he says.

The Huffmans were looking forward to the birth of the first child when it was discovered that Jane had leukemia. The pregnancy had to be terminated and Jane nearly died. "Bill bore the brunt of learning about the problem" Jane said. "He's the strong one. I was so out-of-it, I hardly knew what was going on."

She underwent extensive chemotherapy at Duke, a process which breaks down one's immunity. "That's why the white cells given to me were so important," she said. "They helped my body fight infection that, in pre-pheresis days probably would have killed me."

Bill remembers the weeks Jane was in the hospital vividly and jokes that he got his nursing degree from Duke during that time. He gives Jane weekly shots now and she continues to take medication. She goes for periodic checkups, too, but carries out the same routine of most working wives.

"Right after I was diagnosed I decided I wanted to quit work," she said.

"And I agreed that she should," Bill said. "We started trying to get our affairs arranged so she wouldn't need to work.

"But then," Jane said, "I realized that my work was important to me and I wanted to go ahead with it. I love it and I appreciate the way the Pitt County Board of Education has worked with me during times when I had to be out or work part-time.

"I love everything about my life. Having cancer helps you sort out what's important and what's not. You evaluate every day more thoroughly than you did before. You're forced to look at life as short-term and that's good.

"You realize more and more that your mind does have control over your body if you'll just exercise it. All the little things that you used to find so stressful just don't seem important any more. Everything comes into focus."

Jane said she doesn't fully understand it all, but that she's sure "There's a reason for it."

The atmosphere in the Huffman home is serene. The couple is happy and they communicate. "We always did communicate," Jane and Bill say. "We may be closer now, but we were close before. It may be the illness or it may just be that we've been married longer and love each other more as time goes on."

"We know we're fortunate," Bill said, "to have all today's knowledge about cancer on our side.

"Jane was the very first person at Duke to have her own bone marrow harvested, so that, if she comes out of remission, she can have the benefit of cells that aren't likely to be rejected. They're there frozen, waiting for her.

"Similar strides are being made all the time."

BILL AND JANE HUFFMAN. . .have benefitted from pheresis and are lending support to the Jaycee campaign to obtain a pheresis machine for the Tar River Blood Center here.

Monks Excited About Warmth Of Wood Stoves

By Tom Bryd, NCSU Agriculture Information

OXFORD — The old and the new are being combined to meet a modern problem at the Holy Mother of God Monastery near here in rural Granville County.

The old consists of two wood burning stoves which have replaced electric baseboard heat in the monastery's main building. The new consists of a plan to improve the monastery's woodland by cutting firewood.

The decision to convert from electricity to wood as a fuel source was made by Brother Jim, an energetic monk at the monastery. The plan to improve the monastery's woodland is being worked out by Brother Jim in cooperation with I. W. Murfree, Granville County extension agent, and Billy Lock, area extension forestry agent.

Brother Jim said the decision to switch from electricity to wood was based partly on economics and partly on his desire to be more self-reliant. The real catalyst for change, however, was an ice storm last year which knocked out electricity and prompted the monks to put an old wood stove into service.

"We had never really heated the house with electricity because of the expense," Brother Jim said. "We were so excited by the warmth provided by the wood stove that we decided to make the capital investment needed to heat the entire house (four rooms) with wood."

The capital investment came to slightly over $500, which included a second stove, two stainless steel chimneys and a carpenter to install the chimneys. With his two stoves, Brother Jim hopes to save about 1,000 kilowatts of electricity per month.

Backyard Fuel

Fuel for the two stoves is coming "from our own backyard," according to Brother Jim. The monastery has ten acres of hardwoods, six of which are within 200 yards of the house.

Brother Jim estimates that three cords of hardwood will heat the house each winter. Extension forestry agent Lock estimates that the woodland is producing three-fourths of a cord per acre per year. Thus the monastery has a continuous wood fuel supply.

However, it is not these factors alone that have Lock and extension agent Murfree excited. They see the monastery experience as an opportunity to demonstrate how a woodlot may be improved by cutting firewood.

Previously Logged

The monastery lands were logged about 20 years ago, and like most woodland owners, the monastery did nothing to improve the lands after the loggers left. As a result, the woodland is now covered by some good pines and hardwoods plus a lot of "green junk."

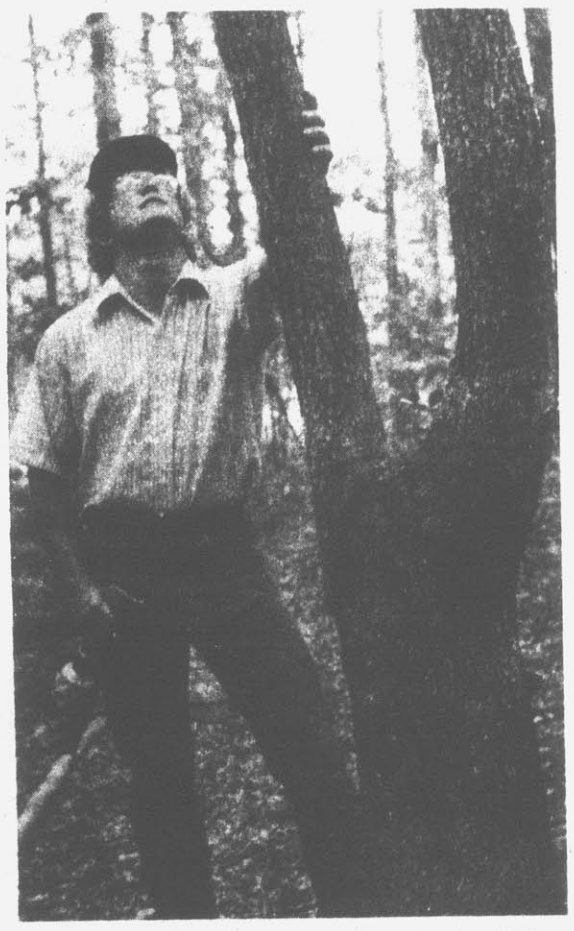
It's the green junk— crooked trees, forked trees, diseased trees and undesirable species— that is headed for the monastery stoves. Lock is marking the tall, straight red oaks, white oaks, poplars, pines and other desirable species for "crop trees."

"Practically no one in this part of North Carolina is managing hardwoods," Lock said. "Good hardware veneer logs, which the monastery crop trees are destined to become, are going to be so rare in the future that the owner can just about name his price," Lock predicted.

Trees from Stumps

Along with helping Brother Jim to decide which trees to cut for firewood, Lock and Murfree are offering other advice on hardwood management. For example, when a hardwood is cut, the stump will usually send out several new shoots. By selecting the stronger of these stump sprouts and removing the others, the landowner can get a new tree started much more quickly than he can by planting a seedling. This is because the sprouts are growing from a well-established root system.

The hardwood management work at the monastery fits in with a statewide effort being made by extension forestry specialists at North Carolina State University. They would like to see "green junk" from millions of acres of North Carolina woodland end up as fuel for both homes and industrial plants. The way would then be clear for growing more "crop trees" — both pine and hardwood.



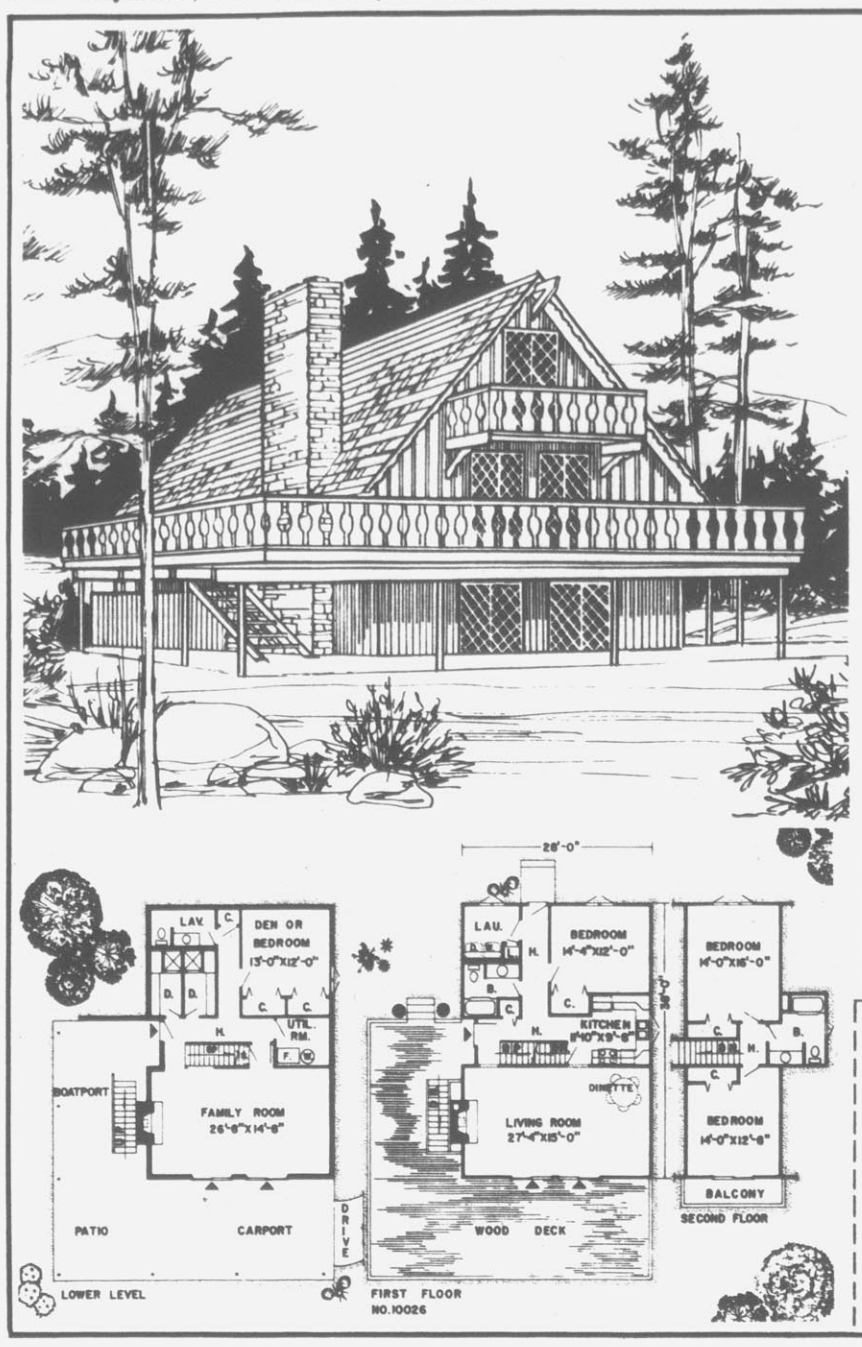
REMOVAL SELECTION . . . Extension Forestry Agent Billy Lock explains that when forked trees are removed for firewood, "crop trees" are given more room to grow.

READY FOR WINTER . . . Brother Jim has three cords of hardwood cut, stacked and drying, ready to heat the Holy Mother of God Monastery this winter.

PLAN YOUR HOME

CHARMING CHALET CAN BE ENJOYED NOW, FINISHED LATER

By Jerry Bishop



With the explosive rise in the cost of homes, it is more important than ever to choose the home that suits your needs and expresses your personality — and will continue to do so for years to come.

Such a home is the "Chateau," a Swiss chalet-inspired plan. This rich, rustic chalet can be partially finished and used as a vacation home, then completed later for a permanent home. A new design accented with diamond light windows and an ornamental porch railing, the chalet will be easy on the finances, since only the center floor need be completed to make it warm and comfortable.

Encircled by a large wooden sun deck, the center floor of the "Chateau" features a sizable living room brightened by a fireplace and housing a dining area. The U-shaped, kitchen is compact and functional, and a full bath is placed to serve both the bedroom and living area. The bedroom on this level is large and enjoys generous closet space, and the convenient laundry room with linen closet is a further advantage.

Two more bedrooms, one of which enjoys a balcony, are planned for the third floor. A compartmented bath and ample closet space is also outlined. The envisioned lower level can be finished to provide even more sleeping space, should it be needed. It includes a den or bedroom, a utility room, and a large family room with fireplace. Two dressing rooms with showers, and the large outdoor boatport suggest the adaptability of this home to a vacation setting, yet the design would be an excellent choice as a permanent home that the entire family would enjoy.

Staining wood to change its color can be fascinating, satisfying or frustrating — sometimes all three at the same time.

Fascinating because a stain can emphasize and enhance a grain pattern without hiding it; satisfying because it can change the character of a wood to make it resemble some other species; frustrating when you find it difficult to match exactly another piece of wood or furniture.

The fascination is always there. The satisfaction is not difficult to achieve. The frustration is there for a number of reasons.

For one thing, stains with the same names (maple, mahogany, walnut, etc.) sometimes produce different tones when made by different manufacturers.

For another, the same stain "takes" one way on one piece of wood and another way on a second piece.

And, possibly the most important, the user can get varying results by the manner in which he or she handles the stain, especially the amount of time allowed to elapse between the application and the wiping.

There are various kinds of stains. No matter which you choose, experiment with it first if you are a newcomer to staining. An oil stain can be made lighter by adding a little turpentine to it or by wiping it off within a minute or two after applying it. The longer it is left on before the wiping procedure, the darker it gets.

The same wiping principle holds true for penetrating resin finishes, which not only stain the wood but act as a final coat. It is well to follow the manfacturer's directions to the letter with these finishes until you have determined by experience which changes you can make to suit your purpose or to achieve a special effect. (The techniques of using stain, varnish, lacquer, shellac, bleach, sandpaper, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing," available by sending 35 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477 Hungtington, N.Y. 11743).

Water stains raise the grain of the wood and should not be used on veneers, since they can soften any glue they touch. There are non-grain-raising stains that do better on woods with closed pores than on those with open pores.

Applying a sealer to the wood before putting on the stain keeps the stain from sinking in too deeply and thus coloring the wood too much. Some professionals also seal the stain after applying it but only after it has dried for at least 24 hours and preferably longer. With a penetrating, resin stain-finish, a sealer is not usually recommended.

Again, read and follow the instructions on the container label.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG

Q. — The cold-water pipe under our kitchen sink sweats very badly and drips water onto the floor. This does not happen to the pipe that carries the hot water. Why does this happen and how can we correct the condition?

A. — The sweating is caused by condensation, the same thing that occurs to windows under certain conditions. Condensation is the result of warm, moist air settling on a cold surface. It usually happens in rooms where there is excessive humidity. You can prevent it by wrapping the exposed part of the pipe with insulation sold specifically for that purpose. It can be purchased at hardware stores, lumber yards and building-supply dealers. While wrapping the pipe will halt the condensation forming on the pipe, it will not correct the basic problem of too much humidity, which may cause sweating on some other cold surface. If you cannot provide some means of permitting the moist air to escape, you may have to get a dehumidifier, which captures the moisture.

Q. — I have read in your column and many others that, in having work done on the roof, a reliable roofer should be chosen. Fine, but how does one find out whether a roofer is reliable? We need our roof reshingled.

A. — The first and best way to obtain a reliable roofer — or other contractor — is to get one who has been recommended by a friend or relative. If you can't do that, ask the roofer for the names of some people who have used his services. Also, ask him for references. He should willingly give both. He can also be checked out with a local bank where he does business or even with your own bank, which handles home improvement loans and has a good idea of who the good contractors are. You might also try the Better Business Bureau, which does not make specific recommendations but will advise you if there have been excessive complaints about a particular roofer. Once you decide to do business with one man or company, be sure he or it is insured for on-the-job accidents. And get everything in writing — the details of the project; the types of materials that will be used; the completion date and penalties, if any; warranties and guarantees; the final price; the method of payment; and anything else relating to the job, including how and when the waste material will be removed.

Q. — Can aluminum oxide sandpaper be used in a power sander?

A. — Because it is so tough, that's where it does its best work.

(A guide to the intelligent selection of roofing and an asphalt shingle color chart are included in Andy Lang's booklet, "Roofing Guide," available by sending 35 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column, but individual correspondence cannot be undertaken.)

Share In The Family Budgeting

By ELAINE Q. BARROW
AP Newsfeatures

A budget you can enjoy? One that fits your style of living? YES. Author Alice Priest has come up with some fresh ideas that advocate "happy saving and happy spending."

Too often the word "budget" carries the connotation of a stringent, rigid, rule-ridden way of dealing with money.

Mrs. Priest points out, however, that there are no right or wrong attitudes toward money. Each person has a choice in the way to spend or save money — which she explains in a book she has written.

"The book emphasizes strategies that you ought to — rather, might — adopt," she says. "It has no 'ought'to's'."

Mrs. Priest urges the reader to "find out about yourself; are you a hoarder or a spender?"

A test of 30 questions is included in her book. Once answered, you'll find out if you are a careful spender (sometimes over-cautious); a middlegrounder who achieves a reasonable balance between saving, spending and credit, or a high scorer who tends to "hold money very lightly."

Each is given specific advice on how to save, buy insurance and housing, pay college and transportation costs, and use of credit. There are also tips for combatting inflation.

Mrs. Priest, an editor of Business Week magazine who often writes the cover story, says tools for building a budget include four elements — insight, input, involvement and income.

The insight can be gained from the quiz and the input by a family brainstorming session to set goals. As for involvement, Mrs. Priest suggests that both husband and wife take turns at handling the family expenses, and that even a teenager might take a stint at keeping the books.

The family budget, she says, should include the combined income of husband and wife for the combined expenses of the family. If only one spouse works, she says, equal credit should be given for the other's labor in keeping the home.

Handling money is emotional, she observes. Once you understand your emotional approach to money — and that of other family members — you can plan strategies.

Money is said to be the No. 2 problem (after sex) in marital strife. If both partners understand how they respond psychologically to money, they can adjust to each other's goals — or shared goals.

Although Mrs. Priest professes no bias toward hoarders or spenders, she indicates in conversation that compulsive savers miss out on a lot of living.

"There is a risk for those who save (compulsively)," she says, "There's the risk that they won't enjoy the fruits of their labor.

"They may get to the point where they will be too old to spend their money and be able to enjoy it, or will have to spend it for things they didn't expect to."

She adds, "We've all seen parents who left their kids well fixed and then the kids went out on a spending spree, which is the last thing their parents would have wanted."

But Mrs. Priest does not knock impulse spending, either.

"If that's your want, you should have disposable income to spend," she said, bringing out a point of her book:

"A personal disposable income is the essential ingredient in every budget. It is the sum of money assigned each month to both partners to spend or save exactly as each sees fit ..."

She calls it "nag-free, happy" money and contends it is "the most important safety valve any marriage can have."

With the approaching holiday season, she has some advice for those who stick to their budgets throughout the year only to go on a Christmas shopping spree.

"Whatever you plan to spend, you should add a cushion to it," she says.

As for equating extravagant, monogrammed, designer purchases with status, Mrs. Priest says, "I don't believe buyers are saying, 'This is for status.' I believe they are thinking 'This shows I can afford it.'

"But why haven't they gone to the next step to ask themselves, 'Why do I have to show I can afford it?'"

Mrs. Priest and her husband, Richard, a financial executive, have a son and a daughter.

Asked if she handles her family finances, Mrs. Priest says, "To be perfectly honest, I must confess that for many, many years my husband handled the finances altogether.

"Then my mother became ill and I had to take over her finances." That event, she says, was her initiation into money handling.

Artist Uses Much Chalk

BOSTON (AP) — Bob Guillemin can go through more chalk on one work of art than most school teachers do in their entire blackboard careers.

When last seen in Boston, Guillemin was putting the finishing touches on a giant chalk copy of Renoir's "Shepherd's Boy," drawn on the sidewalk in front of a bank in the downtown Government Center area.

Recently, he finished what he calls the world's largest sidewalk chalk painting in Boston's Copley Square. He used 60 pounds of red, white and blue chalk, flown in from New York City, for the giant bull's eye and letters spelling out the word "Boston." He hopes the design will last several months. "It is probably going to come out to 3,600 square feet," said the 39-year-old artist before the painting was completed.

"I'm not sure of the exact size of the world's current largest sidewalk painting," he said, "but I'm sure it's around 300 square feet.

"This one will be about five times bigger, anyway."

Unlike the lonely lot of many artists — sung and unsung — Guillemin, the son of a retired Harvard University professor of biophysics, has plenty of company on the job. He says he had the "time of my life" working with 14 other people to complete his most recent chalk painting for "Awareness Day," which was sponsored by a recent convention in Boston.

The painting took 240 hours to complete. "That's either 10 straight days," he figured, "or 30 eight-hour days."

GARDEN CLINIC

N.C. State Univ. Answers Timely Garden Questions

Q. What was that huge apple on display at the 1978 State Fair? Did it really weigh two pounds? (H.W., Pittsboro)

A. It was a Wolf River, an old variety of cooking apples. It weighed two pounds and measured eight inches in diameter. Most Wolf Rivers in North Carolina are grown in Henderson and Haywood counties. (Mel Kolbe, extension horticulturist)

Q. Are the ashes from charcoal good for use around plants as fertilizer? (P.J., Sanford)

A. The ashes contain the plant nutrient potash. It is the same nutrient $^{7}_{8}$ potassium or K — that is supplied by muriate of potash, sulfate of potash, nitrate of potash or sulfate of potash — magnesia. Ashes also have a liming value, such as that of ground limestone. (Jack Baird, extensiion soil scientist)

Q. There is a white, cottony substance on the leaves and blooms of my African violets. What is it and what can I do about it? (E.S., Greensboro)

A. The white, cottony substance that you see is secreted by mealybugs, and mealybugs are difficult to control. Remove as many as possible with a cotton applicator (swab) dipped in alcohol. Then dip or spray the plant with a solution of malathion. Use the 50 or 57 percent liquid formulation at the rate of two teaspoons per gallon of warm water. Repeat in 10 days. (James R. Baker, extension entomologist)

Q. Stayman is my favorite apple variety, but I can't find any in the grocery store. (S.W., Winston-Salem)

A. Look for them at grower-owned roadside stands. Not many staymans are produced in North Carolina — only about 500,000 bushels out of a total North Carolina apple crop of 8 million bushels. It is an excellent apple for both cooking and eating, but unfortunately most Staymans crack at the stem end. Growers have a hard time getting back their cost of production from them. (Mel Kolbe, extension horticulturist)

Simulated Rock Is Like 'Real Thing'

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — "Rocks" are spilling out of the old Sherwood distillery complex here as workmen ready them for shipment to the Caribbean.

Rock and Waterscape Systems, Inc., is building the simulated rocks for a miniature mountain, complete with three waterfalls, to be built across two swimming pools in the Bahamas.

The process begins at the city dump here.

"We lift rock impressions off the cliffs by pressing latex skins into the rock, then painting them with a special substance so they'll retain that shape," said Ross Dietzel, the company's local plant-foreman.

"It's better to use God's own designs than to hand-sculpt our own, which is what we used to do," he said. "Obviously, using natural formations will produce more natural (simulated) rocks."

The skins are reinforced with polyurethane foam and sprayed with a combination of cement and fiberglass, using a process developed to produce a new type of building material in England.

The molds are then popped off the cement, leaving a tough rock-like formation about threequarters of an inch thick.

The simulated rock is then sprayed with acid and waterproofed. "Its life is estimated at around 300 years, just like regular cement," Dietzel said.

Sections of the simulated rocks are shipped to where they'll be used, fitted together and hand-sculptured by masons. The miniature mountains can "support the weight of 10 elephants, if necessary," Dietzel said.

Unprepared To Execute

By United Press International

Although more than 400 persons are on Death Row across the nation, many states are unprepared to actually carry out executions.

In Arkansas, where 10 face death sentences, an electrocution chamber is under construction and not due to be completed until December.

In Vermont, where a death penalty law is technically on the books but has been unused for years, the electric chair now gathers dust in the basement of the state historical society museum.

There are 13 prisoners presently on Death Row in Mississippi state prison, but officials say it could take them a year — and thousands of dollars — to get ready to carry out an execution. They say it would take between $45,000 and $50,000 just to fix up the old gas chamber, which has been unused since 1964.

The Pennsylvania electric chair, which was located at Rockview State Prison, has been dismantled and parts of it are traveling around with a mobile corrections museum. The furniture in the old execution chamber has been rearranged and turned into a prisoner counseling.

Texas and a number of other states have decided that any future executions they have will be by the injection methods.

Although a Florida inmate and one in Texas are nearing the end of the long appeals process for those sentenced to death, officials in other states note it may be many years before prisoners on their Death Rows reach that point.

"It will surprise me if there is anything in the next two years," said Illinois Corrections Director Charles Rowe.

But, he added, "I hope I'm wrong. I think that kind of delay can water down the effectiveness of the death penalty."

He said the more typical delay may be eight years or more, and it is bad to keep people confined to Death Row that long. A spokesman for the South Carolina Corrections Department said it is likely to be 18 to 24 months before the first execution there.

BALL MISSING

DALLAS (AP) — A ball is missing here. A 400-pound, cast-iron wrecking ball, that is.

Utility company officials are a little mystified as to how the ball disappeared.

After using the ball to tear down several power company structures, they said, foreman Jimmy Don Billman loaded it onto a flatbed truck with a crane. When he arrived at the company's headquarters the ball was gone.

Bill retraced the route and found a large crater in the middle of a street but no ball.

"We could conclude only that someone made off with it," said Jack Clifton, the company's office manager.

Torrijos Gradually Loosening His Panama Grip

By TOM FENTON

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — After a decade in Gen. Omar Torrijos' firm grip, Panama is taking some halting steps toward democracy. It is with Torrijos' blessing.

In recent days the government, which Torrijos turned over to a new president last week, has approved measures that provide for:

—A return to the direct election of the president beginning in 1984. The president was indirectly elected by an appointed National Assembly during the Torrijos years.

—The scrapping of the Torrijos-appointed Assembly and creation of a National Legislative Council consisting of four representatives from each of Panama's nine provinces and one from the San Blas Islands. The council remains appointed now, but would be elected in 1980 and expanded by two more representatives from each province.

—An active role for political parties in the 1980 elections. Parties have not been allowed to participate since the national guard coup that brought Torrijos to power in 1968.

Opponents say that while the changes are long overdue, they do not go far enough and are designed to minimize any threat to the government.

But the opponents concede the measures will give the opposition a voice in government, and some say that given time, the reforms could lead to a government that Torrijos could no longer control.

But even if the reforms are successful, some political experts say they won't bring Panama a U.S.-style democracy.

"For one thing, you will not have the separation of power that exists in the United States," said one U.S. source on the isthmus, who asked not to be identified.

"In most Latin American countries where there is some democracy you have a strong leader and a weak legislature.

"It appears Panama will continue in that tradition. The legislative reforms appear to be a dubious improvement. There's no chance the legislature will present any effective opposition."

Torrijos stepped down as chief of government Oct. 11 as his hand-picked successor, Aristides Royo, 38, was sworn in as president. Torrijos, 49, will continue to head the national guard and is expected to exert a strong influence on Royo.

"Torrijos was tired of being called a dictator, and that was no small factor in his decision to step down and move ahead with some constitutional reforms," said one well-placed Panamanian source, who requested anonymity.

Constitutional reforms calling for direct election of a president and the new Legislative Council were approved in a special session of the previous legislature, whose term ended on Oct. 11.

The special session was called by Torrijos to deal with the reforms, which were drawn by a commission he appointed.

Opponents say Torrijos hasn't given up much by creating the new council.

"The Legislative Council changes are a drop in the bucket to Torrijos," said an opposition leader who asked not to be named.

"Torrijos controls the (present council) so most of the 37 will be in his pocket, the government will lose the elected council positions in the populated areas, Panama City, Colon and David, but they'll win in the rest of the country.

"In the countryside the man in uniform still controls the votes. The peasants in this country are still frightened of the national guard. This is just a smoke screen that will allow Torrijos to continue ruling," the source said.

But some government sources appeared deeply offended when asked to comment on the charges.

"The general said he is retiring to the barracks and that is just what he is doing," said one official, who asked not to be named.

Royo, the new president, put it this way: "The step taken by Gen. Torrijos holds great political significance, not only for our history, for the continent.

"It is not easy to find in the history of the Americas or even of the world a ruler that voluntarily and spontaneously abandoned his title and powers," Royo said in his inaugural address.

Some political observers say Torrijos has accomplished what he wanted, which was to create a government free of the domination of a few wealthy families, and that he felt he could now bow out publicly while retaining a voice behind the throne.

He has formed the Revolutionary Democratic Party, which will compete in the August 1980 elections.

At Session In Raleigh

ECU News Bureau

Two members of the East Carolina University library science faculty led discussion groups on library personnel needs at the Governor's Conference on Library and Information Services in Raleigh Oct. 19-21.

Dr. Gene Lanier, chairman of library science at ECU, and Prof. Emily Boyce directed presentations on continuing education and training opportunities for library staff members, librarians' certification and other staff needs.

Resolutions from the conference will be taken to the White House Conference on Libraries next year by North Carolina's delegates.

Author Isaac Asimov was keynote speaker at the event. Also appearing on the program were State Librarian David McKay and Gov. James Hunt.

Pitt County's official representatives at the conference were Margaret Cain, Anne Frost, Glenn Jetter, Rhea Resnik, and Jane Tripp of Greenville and State Rep. Sam Bundy of Farmville.

Local alternate delegates were Joyce Buie, Leigh Ledbetter and Billie McDowell, all of Greenville.

County School Lunch Menu

Lunchroom menus for the coming week at the Pitt County schools have been announced as follow:

Monday — Teacher workday

Tuesday — Pizza, french fries, tossed salad' Jello with topping, milk;

Wednesday — Chicken and pastry, candied yams, garden peas, hushpuppies, peach crisp, milk;

Thursday — Cheeseburger on bun, baked beans, apple sauce, cake square, milk;

Friday — Seafood platter, french fries, cole slaw, hushpuppies, lemon pudding, milk.

Sponsoring Carnival

The D.H. Conley Literary Club is sponsoring a halloween carnival Monday from 7-10:30 p.m.

Among the activities are a ring toss, cake walk, fortune telling, candle shoot, sponge throw, and other events. A haunted house will also be set up.

Solicitation Permits OK'd

City Manager Ed Wyatt announced approval of two requests for solicitation permits in Greenville.

Wyatt said the requests were submitted by the Kiwanis Club of Greenville Inc. to sell raw peanuts on Nov. 3 and 4 at the local shopping centers, the ABC stores, and the post offices; and by the Greenville Host Lions Club to conduct a sidewalk solicitation at Pitt Plaza, Clarks, and Sears on Nov. 4.

ETERNITY'S LORAINE — Actress Kim Basinger poses as Loraine in a scene from Columbia Pictures Television's remake of the famed motion picture "From Here to Eternity". Miss Basinger plays the role previously done by actress Donna Reed in the original film version. The remake is to be shown on NBC-TV and stars Natalie Wood and William Devane. (AP Laserphoto)

Bugs Bunny's Roots Are Unearthed

Roots are something that everyone seems to be searching for nowadays, and David Stits, an assistant professor of zoology at Los Padres College in California, has done it for Bugs Bunny.

Bugs, the longtime star of animated films, is featured in "Bugs Bunny Howl-oween Special," an animated half-hour show to be rebroadcast Wednesday, Oct. 25 (8 to 8:30 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

"Bugs Bunny is not your traditional breed of timid rabbit," says Stits, emphasizing the obvious. "He's bold and aggressive. Whoever it was who invented the phrase that likens cowardice to running like a rabbit certainly wasn't thinking of Bugs."

In Stits' opinion, Bugs can have sprung from only one bloodline. "Lopic dictates that Bugs is a member of the only bold and aggressive rabbit breed on earth," says Stits. "He is a purebred Peruvian stone rabbit."

The Peruvian stone rabbit inhabits the barren Andean foothills of Peru, where a sparse supply of forage and harsh climate have produced a rabbit that is not merely hard but is, on occasion, actually belligerent.

"The stone rabbit, a large breed, has claws that are longer and sharper than those of other breeds, particularly on his hind feet," Stits notes. "And he knows how to use them.

"Stone rabbits have been known to kill predators, such as foxes, for which an ordinary rabbit is no match at all. The rabbit's tactic is to roll onto his back and then to disembowel his attacker by slashing upward with those dangerous rear claws.

"There is at least one fairly well-documented instance in Peru of a stone rabbit that attacked and disabled an Indian farmer.

"The report is that the rabbit attacked the victim so severly that he had to be hospitalized. Moreover, according to the farmer, the rabbit had to swim across an irrigation ditch to get to him.

Stits, who is a rabbit breeder in his leisure time, says that the Peruvian stone rabbit sometimes utters a soft, rattling noise when agitated.

"I suppose you could call it a growl," he says. "I've never heard it, but if I can prove that it sounds like 'What's up, Doc?' then the question of Bugs Bunny's ancestry will be answered conclusively."

Bugs Bunny throws a Halloween scare into Witch Hazel, who plans to make Bugs her holiday treat, in "Bugs Bunny's Howl- owe'en," animated special to be broadcast Wednesday, Oct. 25 (8-8:30 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Anniversary Marked

"Hee Haw 10th Anniversary Celebration," a two-hour "Big Event" special marking the first decade on television for "Hee Haw" — one of the most successful country-comedy-variety series — will be presented Sunday, Oct. 22 (8 to 10 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

The program, taped at Nashville's legendary Grand Ole Opry, will be hosted by two regular "Hee Haw" headliners, Roy Clark and Buck Owens.

Some of the biggest names in country entertainment are special guests on the program. They include: Chet Atkins, Tennessee Ernie Ford, Larry Gatlin, Crystal Gayle, Tom T. Hall, Loretta Lynn, Barbara Mandrell, Ronnie Milsap, Charley Pride, Kenny Rogers, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, Mel Tillis, Conway Twitty and Tammy Wynette.

Among the "Hee Haw" regulars set for the special is Minnie Pearl, one of the major stars of the Grand Ole Opry. The others include: Cathy Baker, Archie Campbell, John Henry Faulk, Marianne Gordon, The Hagers, Grandpa Jones, Don Harron, Gunilla Hutton, George "Goober" Lindsey, the Nashville Edition, Kenny Price, Riddle and Phelps, Lulu Roman, Misty Rowe, Junior Samples, Gailard Sartain, Roni Stoneman, Gordie Tapp, Linda Thompson, Lisa Todd, Buck Trent and Beauregard the dog.

Marianne Gordon, Roy Clark and Buck Owens will be seen on the "Hee Haw 10th Anniversary Special," Sunday evening, Oct. 22, taped at the Grand Ole Opry, Nashville. A dozen top country stars will join the "Hee Haw" regulars to present the two-hour special commemorating the popular country variety series beginning its 10th year on national television. The special will be presented on NBC-TV.

Musical Was A Family Endeavor

"Cotton Candy," a lighthearted musical drama — directed and co-written by Ron Howard of "Happy Days" — about a group of high school misfits who form a rock band, will be telecast Thursday, Oct. 26 (8 to 10 p.m.), as the "NBC Movie of the Week."

Charles Martin Smith and Clint Howard (who co-wrote the script with brother Ron) star as George and Corky, who organize the group to challenge a popular but overbearing band at the school led by Torbin Bequette (Mark Wheeler).

The film features eight original songs, two of them by Smith. He and the other band members — Leslie King, Dino Scofield, Kevin Miller and Manuel Padilla — all play their own instruments.

"Cotton Candy" was filmed on location in Dallas, Texas, and students of the Dallas high school were used as extras.

At 24, Ron Howard has already spent 22 years before cameras. He co-starred for two seasons with Henry Fonda on "The Smith Family" then played Andy Griffith's son Opie for eight years. He also co-starred with John Wayne in "The Shootist," and earned a Golden Globe nomination for best supporting actor for his excellent portrayal of the young gunfighter.

"Cotton Candy" is actually Ron's second directorial assignment. He directed "Grand Theft Auto," a feature film he and his father wrote. Released in 1975, the low-budget film has already grossed $15 million. The multi-talented young man has recently signed with NBC to star and direct films, and he also has negotiated with Paramount and Roger Corman for another project.

Ron is president of his own production company, Major H Productions. Strictly a family company, father Rance is vice president, brother Clint is secretary, and Ron's wife, Cheryl, his childhood sweetheart who became his wife in 1975, is treasurer.

'Walking Tall' Airs

Legendary Tennessee sheriff Buford Pusser stands alone as he explodes into action against the backwoods hoodlums and moonshiners who murdered his wife as they mount the vicious attack on him that may have been the real cause of his mysterious death in "Final Chapter — Walking Tall." This true story of a modern day hero makes its television premiere as "The ABC Sunday Night Movie," Oct. 22 (9-11 p.m.).

Bo Svenson, who also starred in "Part Two, Walking Tall," again stars as the incorruptible lawman who died in a mysterious car crash in 1974.

In 'Final Chapter,' Buford Pusser painfully relives (in flashbacks) the murder of his wife in an ambush set for him. The men who killed her — and who are not likely to rest easy until they have also killed him — are still at large.

In the community where Pusser has stood firmly as sheriff, sometime stretching the law in favor of order, a movement against him has also begun, and with an election coming up, many people are grumbling that his rough and unorthodox methods are no longer acceptable.

Although knowing that overstepping his bounds could cost him the election, the stubbornly unintimidated lawman goes ouside his jurisdiction to smash up a gambling and prostitution operation that has been functioning freely by staying just beyond his reach.

Tennessee lawman Buford Pusser (Bo Svenson) stands alone against the hoodlums who murdered his wife in the "ABC Sunday Night Movie," — "Final Chapter: Walking Tall," Oct. 22 (9-11 p.m.).

As the "pleasure palace" burns, so do Pusser's chances for re-election, but — ironically — just as he is rejected by his own people he is adopted as a hero by the nation when his movie biography, "Walking Tall," is released.

It is then, with his return to office, an immediate threat to the lawless forces that have tried in every way to destroy him, that Sheriff Buford Pusser — an excellent driver in a new car — is killed in a highway accident.

Eden starring in film

Barbara Eden is starring in "The Girls in the Office," a two-hour television movie currently in production in Houston, Texas. The feature will air on ABC-TV.

Kristy Is Glad To Be In The Swim

If Kristy McNichol had her way, she would have changed the location of a key scene in "Like Mom, Like Me" from a swimming pool to a tennis court.

"I love to swim," the teen-ager said, "but I love to play tennis more. And, at my age, I look better in tennis togs than I do in a bathing suit."

However, the scene in which Kristy, starring as Jennifer, meets her new boyfriend, remained set at a resort swimming pool. After spending three days filming the scene on location in sultry Scottsdale, Ariz., Kristy had to agree that the producers of "Like Mom, Like Me," a new motion picture-for-television to air Sunday, Oct. 22 (9 to 11 p.m.) on CBS-TV, knew what they were doing.

"The water felt marvelous. It would have been torture doing those scenes on a tennis court," Kristy finally concluded. It took very little acting on her part to project pleasure as she repeatedly dove into the cool waters of the swimming pool to meet Peter, a lifeguard at the pool, played by 16-year-old Michael LeClair.

In the film, Kristy stars as the daughter of college professor Althea Green, portrayed by Linda Lavin. The two women must make their own new life together when Jennifer's father deserts the family. Mother and daughter start out anew, facing new challenges and forming a new relationship with each other.

In real life, Kristy lives with her mother and her two brothers, Jimmy, and Tommy.

It's from her family that Kristy got the tennis bug. "We play tennis a lot," Kristy said. "My brothers are very good. I took some lessons, then decided to just go out and play. My mother and brothers have helped me a lot, but I'm still not as good as Jimmy."

Nevertheless, Kristy seems to do everything well, and that includes acting. She has a very matter-of-fact approach to facing the camera. "I don't get nervous very often when I'm acting," she explained. "I got the jitters on the first talk show I did, but otherwise I never get nervous on television. If you make a mistake, you can always do the scene over again. Even on live television I don't get the jitters anymore. I keep telling myself that most peoople watching me like me and are not going to hate me if I goof."

That enthusiasm and ease Kristy brings to her career is readily apparent, even as she dives off of the board of the Scottsdale swimming pool to meet her new beau — in the movie, that is.

'Lifeline'

"Like always, we're through the first stage, which is the most important." With these words, Dr. Paul Ebert meets the parents of a youngster following successful heart surgery.

Ebert, a college All-America athlete at Ohio State in 1954, now Surgeon-In-Chief at the University of California San Francisco Medical Center, is the subject of the fourth program in NBC-TV's "Lifeline" series, to be telecast Sunday, Oct. 22 (10 to 11 p.m.).

Each program in this reality series focuses on a real doctor. All of the incidents are true. No actors are used.

Model Stars In Film

Cover girl Kim Basinger, one of the most photographed model-actresses, will star in the title role of "Katie: Portrait of a Centerfold," a World Premiere Movie on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies," Oct. 23 (9 to 11 p.m.).

The 5-foot-7 honey blonde left the University of Georgia at age 18 to become an Eileen Ford model in New York City. Within a very short time, she was one of the highest paid and most sought after models. Her picture has appeared on the covers of such publications as Modern Bride and Cosmopolitan (twice on the latter, most recently July of 1978). She has frequently appeared in Vogue and Glamour and in television commercials.

The naive dreams of stardom of Katie Evers, a Texas beauty queen, are shattered when she arrives in Hollywood and encounters an unethical modeling school and a series of sleazy characters in the entertainment industry.

When hunger forces her to accept a job as a centerfold model in a girlie magazine, Katie finds herself frozen out of legitimate modeling assignments. An attempt to return home also proves disastrous. Then, her only friend in Hollywood discovers a compromise solution which may salvage the rest of Katie's life.

The movie also stars Vivian Blaine, Fabian, Tab Hunter, Don Johnson, Virginia Kaiser, Dorothy Malone, Nan Martin, Melanie Mayron, Terri Nunn, Don Stroud and Glynn Turman.

SHE DREAMS OF STARDOM — Cover girl Kim Basinger, one of the most photographed model-actresses today, portrays a naive Texas beauty queen and Tab Hunter is one of the men she meets in Hollywood, where she tries for stardom, in "Katie: Portrait of a Centerfold" a World Premiere drama on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies," Oct. 23 (9-11 p.m.).

Genius Plots Heist

The late Freddie Prinze stars in "The Million Dollar Rip-Off," airing as "The CBS Late Movie" Monday, Oct. 23 (12:30 a.m.). Prinze is cast as a young electronics genius who plots a complicated payroll heist with his gang of four women, all masters of disguise.

Despite numerous attempts by ambitious authority detective Ralph Fogherty to thwart the robbery, Muff Novak and his all-girl gang carry off the two-and-a-half million-dollar heist, then use the mass transit system's trains to get away.

After discovering that his girlfriend, Kitty (Brooke Mills), has tried to double-cross him, Muff engineers a double surprise ending to the already complicated caper.

'Gaynor Women'

The 'gothic' novel is the hottest literary genre in American publishing circles these days with thousands of paperbacks filled with romantic heroines and lusty, manor-born aristocrats torturing each others' spirits in huge old houses full of dark, unspeakable secrets. "The Gaynor Women," by Virginia Coffman, is set in the post-Civil War South and features a character named Varina, an ice-cold, arrogant dowager who manipulates other people like chess pieces. Viewers of ABC-TV's mystery-suspense serial, "The Edge of Night," who read "The Gaynor Women" might have noticed a marked similarity between the characters of Varina and Geraldine Whitney Saxon, a wealthy widow who keeps a tight grip on other people's lives in the show's fictional town of Monticello. Ms. Coffman admits they're almost one and the same.

An avid 'Edge' viewer for years, Virginia decided that the character of Geraldine, played by veteran actress Lois Kibbee, was just what was needed in the book she was writing, and she used all of Geraldine's unsavory characteristics in molding Varina.

After "The Gaynor Women" was published, an agent brought Virginia and Lois together and they became close friends. Virginia was so impressed with Lois as a person that a second book is now in the works. "Dinah Fare," a sequel to "The Gaynor Women," will have a heroine named Ellen, a granddaughter of Varina. Ellen will embody all of the characteristics Virginia found in Lois, a warm, articulate woman with a motherly touch.

The two books pay tribute to Lois both as a person and as an actress.

Unique Experience

When "Papillon," a giant film created from an incredible international best-seller, airs Tuesday, Oct. 24 (8 to 11 p.m.) on CBS-TV, viewers will be treated to a motion picture filmed in an unusual way — from beginning to end.

Most viewers would consider that the normal way to do things, but filming in continuity is rare — and a great boon to actors trying to delineate a character, according to Dustin Hoffman.

Hoffman stars with Steve McQueen in "Papillon," which is the adaptation of Henri Charriere's book about his unbelievable escapes from Devil's Island.

"For any actor, but especially for one from the stage," says Hoffman, "shooting in consecutive order is a great help in developing a character. The usual way, for economy, is to shoot all scenes in the same locale or on the same set at the same time, regardless of their order in the movie.

"So, frequently what happens is that one day during the second month of filming, you suddenly understand a certain aspect of your character. But by then, of course, it's too late to reshoot scenes you did before you had the insight."

Before shooting began, Hoffman became involved with Dalton Trumbo, co-author of the script, in creating the character of Papillon's closest friend, convicted counterfeiter Louis Dega.

Hoffman remembers how impressed he was when he first met Trumbo. He discovered that aspects of the writer's personality "were appropriate for the man I saw Dega to be," and suggested that Trumbo "write the character off himself."

In addition, Hoffman spent weeks in the New York Public Library reading about French penal colonies. "I studied about ten or twelve books on prison life there," he says. "One of the books was by a former inmate, an art forger whose life had great similarities with what I thought about Dega, who was a counterfeiter. I drew from this man's real-life experiences as a frame of reference for filling out my concept of Dega."

Another actor in the film had less difficulty creating her character — Hoffman's wife, Anne, who plays his wife in the film.

Steve McQueen, left, stars as Henri "Papillon" Charriere and Dustin Hoffman plays his friend, Dega, both prisoners planning to escape from the notorious Devil's Island, in "Papillon," to be rebroadcast on "The CBS Tuesday Night Movies," Tuesday, Oct. 24 (8-11 p.m.).

Realism Was Goal

Perhaps one of Hollywood's most ingenious skills is to take the commonplace, everyday, ordinary appearing items and transform them into exotic, foreign situations.

Such, for example, is the case in a scene in the episode of "Banacek" to be rebroadcast as the "CBS Late Movie" Tuesday, Oct. 24 (12:30 a.m.).

Titled "No Sign of the Cross" and starring George Peppard as the urbane insurance investigator, it guest stars Broderick Crawford, Victor Jury and Louise Sorel.

In one scene, the script called for a confrontation at the U.S.-Mexico border and director Daryl Duke opted for re-creating the Customs and Immigration checkpoint on the lot at Universal Studios, rather than filming on actual location, some 250 miles to the south.

Hollywood's finest craftsmen immediately went to work to give a section of the vast, 450-acre lot the look of an international border. The result was hauntingly effective.

"The actors came up to the set in a car," said Duke, "and one of them, born overseas, automatically reached for his passport before remembering that he was acting and didn't need one. That's when realism takes control."

Of course, the mystique of "Banacek" was not in the locales portrayed but in the unique genre of "Who done it." To that end, the producers stretched the imaginations of many writers and directors.

"We tried to take the most incredible, impossible events and then we worked backwards until we found a credible way — a secret until the end of each story — to explain how these events happened," explained Duke.

Talents Cause Problems

Charles Grodin is a multi-talented actor, writer, director and producer. Sometimes it's difficult for him to decide what to do next — accept an acting job, continue the play he's writing, produce the film in which he is to appear, or any combination thereof.

Grodin stars in the comedy special, "The Grass Is Always Greener Over the Septic Tank," with Carol Burnett, Wednesday, Oct. 25 (9 to 11 p.m.), on CBS-TV. In this particular production, however, Grodin confined his talents just to acting.

"I'm trying to focus on acting now," Grodin said. "But for every acting offer, there's a writing offer and a directing offer."

There's another reason Grodin appears in the comedy, and that reason is Carol Burnett. "I met Carol about 20 years ago, — just to say hello," Grodin explained. "I got to know her a little better a few years ago. When she called me to do this, I hoped I would like the script well enough to do it, and after reading it I did."

Grodin, who hasn't appeared on television very often, has received excellent notices for his acting in Warren Beatty's motion picture "Heaven Can Wait," and he's also appeared in the recent production of "King Kong," and TV film "Just Me and You," and the forthcoming motion picture "Real Life."

"Acting for me is the most enjoyable, and writing is the most creative," Grodin said. But he predicts that given a little time "the pendulum will swing back to writing."

Even now, Grodin isn't letting his writing talent go stale. He's currently working on a play, which he described as a comedy "about how things don't turn out the way we think they're going to turn out." Grodin doesn't want to direct his own play. "I've often done more than one thing in a single production," he explained. "It's hard."

Grodin has the uncanny knack of being able to look completely different from role to role. Many people who knew him from "The Heartbreak Kid" didn't recognize him in "Heaven Can Wait" — or wouldn't know who he was if they passed him on the street. He said his part in 'The Grass Is Always Greener' is the closest to the way he really looks.

"I just look different," he said. "It's confusing to people. When you hire Robert Redford, you know who you're going to get. When you hire Charles Grodin, you don't really know."

Grisly Tale Unfolds

Robert Fuller stars as a pioneering waging a desperate fight to save his family from a terrible fate, in "Donner Pass: The Road to Survival," a World Premiere movie based on an actual incident, to air on NBC-TV's "The Big Event," Tuesday, Oct. 24 (9 to 11 p.m.).

Andrew Prine, John Anderson, Diane McBain, Michael Callan and John Doucette co-star.

Fuller plays James Reed, head of a family that joins up with the ill-fated Donner party as it crosses the plains for California. After surviving sudden sandstorms stampedes, an attack by a wild bear and Indian raids, Reed is wrongly accused of murder and banned from the group. Rather than risk the safety of his wife and four children, he insists that they remain with the partywhile he goes on ahead alone. A sudden snowstorm in the high Sierras leaves the party stranded. Starving, they face a dreaful choice.

Prine stars as Keyser, a man whose greed endangers the entire party. Anderson plays Breen, a friend whose fear of starvation turns him into an enemy. McBain portrays Margaret Reed, who prays for her husband's return while trying to keep her children alive. Callan appears in the role of William Eddy, who tries to protect the Reed family when the normal rules of human behavior are abandoned. Doucette plays George Donner, the man picked to lead the wagon train — which lost more than half its members — in this grisly page from American history.

Although Robert Fuller is probably best known for his portrayal of Dr. Kelly Brackett in "Emergency!," his first stardom came with a series similar to 'Donner Pass' — "Laramie," back in 1959. This stint was followed by several seasons in "Wagon Train."

Actually, the rugged pioneer, the hard-riding cowboy, the saloon fighter with sagebrush hair, and the heart surgeon haven't depicted the real Bob Fuller. Off camera, although he loves to hunt and fish, Fuller is a devoted family man, active in his community and a dedicated worker for various charities — particularly those devoted to children and animals.

He lives in North Hollywood, Calif., with his wife, Patty, and their two children, Robert Jr. (14), Christine (13), and Patrick (3).

Trio in "Clones"

Robert Forster, Peter Graves and Ray Milland will star in the CBS-TV thriller, "The Clones."

The two-hour psychological horror story is an original script by John Shaner and Al Ramrus.

Suburban Living Saga

Carol Burnett, Charles Grodin and Alex Rocco star in the comedy-drama special "The Grass Is Always Greener Over the Septic Tank," based on Erma Bombeck's best-selling book of the same title, to be broadcast Wednesday, Oct. 25 (9 to 11 p.m.), on CBS-TV.

This is the story of Dorothy and Jim Benson (Burnett and Grodin), a New York City couple who, after spending years with the furious pace, dirt, noise and hassles of the city, decide to pack up their three kids and move to what they think is the easy life of the suburbs.

They are rudely awakened when they discover that suburban life presents a whole new set of problems and fierce competition. For the first time, they have to deal with crabgrass and fertilizer, the hazards of highway commuting, the ever-present house parties featuring plants and plastic goods, the gossip, backbiting, and pressures to conform to their neighbors.

Rocco portrays Ralph Corliss, a neighbor with unorthodox ideas. Happy at home while his wife works, Ralph coaches an after-school baseball team. His emphasis is on the healthy, physical enjoyment of the sport and away from the win-at-any-cost attitude that prevails around him. Corliss takes a personal interest in the Benson's young son, David (David Hollander), a non-achiever on the athletic field. He also takes a more than neighborly interest in Dorothy, whose wifely chauffeur duties include transporting her child to and from baseball practice. Linda Gray, star of "Dallas," portrays Ralph's wife, Leslie.

Carol Burnett and Charles Grodin star as Dorothy and Jim Benson, who, with their children, played by Eric Stoltz (with skateboard), David Hollander and Annrae Walterhouse, give up the city for life in the suburbs, in the comedy special, "The Grass Is Always Greener Over the Septic Tank," Wednesday, Oct. 25 (9-11 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Words Then Pictures

For many years Bill Cosby carried pictures in his head of youngsters who grew up with him in the tenement district of his native North Philadelphia. He has successfully translated those pictures into words for nightclub audiences and television viewers in his monologues about his boyhood experiences.

As Cosby explains, "When you're a stand-up comedian in a nightclub or on television, you're a talking cartoonist. You paint images in the audience's heads. Interpreting those diverse images into one standard concept is tricky."

Haggerty Stars

Dan Haggerty, as a laconic exhired gun in the old west who rescues three beautiful but scrappy female prisoners abandoned in the desert, stars with Susan Saint James, Ronee Blakley and Ann Dusenberry in "Desperate Womeen," a comedy-adventure on "NBC Wednesday Night at the Movies," Oct. 25 (9 to 11 p.m.).

When Ben Ward (Haggerty) stumbles upon the three Tucson-bound convicts (Saint James, Blakley, Dusenberry) — each sentenced despite extenuating circumstances surrounding her crime — he agrees to lead the stranded women out of the barren wilderness in their prison transport wagon. As they proceed, Ward adopts other misfits, including two orphaned children, a shaky Army deserter and a group of cantankerous animals.

Features New Talent

ABC-TV's "Mork and Mindy" (Thursdays, 8 to 8:30 p.m.) features the talents of two newcomers to the small screen — Robin Williams and Pam Dawber. Robin, a brilliant young comedian, plays Mork, an alien from the Planet Ork, and Pam is the effervescent Mindy. Mork first appeared on an episode of "Happy Days" last season and the response to this character was so great that he was given his own show.

Robin studied acting at The Julliard School in New York and was a professional mime in San Francisco. He brings to his portrayal of Mork the astonishing range of characters and voices used so successfully in his popular nightclub act.

A native of Edinburgh, Scotland, Robin was a year old when he moved to the United States with his family. He grew up in the San Francisco area where his parents still reside.

Actress-singer Pam Dawber, with a four-octave soprano voice, began performing in stock musical productions as a high school student in Farmington, Mich.

In 1971, she went to New York City to visit a friend and, as a 'lark,' went with her to a modeling agency and was promptly hired. While modeling and appearing in television commercials for a number of national products, she also was taking acting and voice lessons.

Pam went to the West Coast to screen test for the "Tabitha" series. Although she did not get the part, this led to other auditions, a contract in June, 1977, and the lead in an ABC comedy presentation, "Sister Terri."

Robin's character, Mork, is a highly-intelligent but confused visitor from outer space who lands in Boulder, Colo. Mindy, who works in a music store run by her father, Frederick McConnell (Conrad Janis) and grandmother (Elizabeth Kerr), befriends him.

Pike's Peek

HOLLYWOOD — Look for NBC to make some wholesale changes in its primetime lineup, alterations which possibly will suggest conceding Tuesday night to ABC. "GRANDPA GOES TO WASHINGTON" is having internal problems but is still a favorite with the network, so it no doubt will get a timeslot change and will be replaced by either specials and-or movies or shows that are obviously on their way out.

CAREN KAYE'S decision to leave "WHO'S WATCHING THE KIDS?" was one the network agreed to since the direction of the series doesn't really include her character. Of course, there are those who suggest the show won't make it to mid-season anyway, which would find Scott Baio returning to "HAPPY DAYS".

Meanwhile, CBS still believes, justifiably, in MARY TYLER MOORE and will no doubt move her out of the Sunday night slot opposite "BATTLESTAR GALACTICA."

KATHY WITT of "FLYING HIGH" is avoiding as many media interviews as possible, but not because she considers them unimportant. It's just that pretty Kathy's modeling career is keeping her just as busy as she was before the series, and she isn't about to turn job offers down until the show's future is somewhat determined.

GEECH COOK of "CARTER COUNTRY" and his wife of nearly 12 years were quietly divorced recently. Geech commutes almost every other weekend to his native Texas to see his sons from that marriage.

Sue Ane Langdon is more than a little disappointed that her character on "GRANDPA GOES TO WASHINGTON" has been softened and is no longer that health-nut wife she was in the series' pilot.

E.J. PEAKER is an actress who has always flirted with major stardom but never quite made it. However, she's known as one of the very best actresses in Hollywood, even though that's not what got her a role in an upcoming segment of "CHARLIE'S ANGELS." She got the guest starring role because she plays golf. After almost 100 other actresses had failed to get the job because they couldn't swing a club, E.J. did after displaying her golf form.

Insiders say it may be January before NBC decides what to use as a replacement for the early cancelled "W.E.B."

Intense negotiations are underway in an effort to convince JAIME LYN BAUER to remain on daytime's "THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS".

'Five-O' Mistaken

"Hawaii Five-O" seems to have so convinced its viewing audience of the competence of its detective force that the task now at hand might well be convincing to them.

When Jack Lord and James MacArthur, respectively seen as Steve McGarrett and Danny Williams, swing into action Thursday, Oct. 26 (9 to 10 p.m.), on CBS-TV, rest assured that there will be a convincing air of reality about them. In fact, the fictional 'Five-0' detective team has been mistaken sometimes for an authentic law enforcement agency.

Bob Sweeney, supervising producer of the series, reports that many petty crimes such as thefts of cameras, wallets and automobile accessories are reported to his office, which is listed in the Honolulu telephone directory under "Hawaii Five-0." The calls vary in number with the season, with the peak vacation months attracting the most calls.

One reason for the strong identification between the fictional television series and the actual Honolulu law-enforcement agencies may stem from their close cooperation.

Gilda Radner Is Witch

Gilda Radner, 1978 Emmy Award winner and a star of "NBC's Saturday Night Live," turns into a liberated but temporarily unemployed Halloween witch when she speaks for the Godmother, the central character in "Witch's Night Out," an animated special for believers in goblins, ghosts and fun which will be telecast Friday, Oct. 27 (8 to 8:30 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

Besides Gilda's Halloween Witch, there are other pivotal characters (and those who speak for them): Small (Tony Molesworth) and Tender (Naomi Leach), two youngsters who get more out of Halloween then they bargain for; Bazooey (Gerry Salsberg), a zany baby sitter; Rotten (Bob Church) and Malicious (Catherine O'Hara); Goodly (John Leach) and Nicely (Fiona Reid).

The story focuses on the Halloween experiences of the Witch, whose unemployment ends when she gets a call to transform the youngsters, Small and Tender, into their favorite trick or treat monsters (along with Bazooney). Complications arise when the Halloween witch loses her magic wand, which falls into the hands of Rotten and Malicious.

Gilda, an alumna of the Toronto company of the improvisational Second City troupe, rejoined members of that group for the program, which employs uniquely expressive characterizations via animation.

Music, Comedy, Magic

When 21-year-old David Copperfield gave up ventriloquism at age 5 "because no one could tell who was the dummy," it was a propitious decision, for this young man is now one of the world's most famous magicians.

Copperfield's magic will be admirably displayed on "The Magic of David Copperfield," airing Friday, Oct. 27 (8 to 9 p.m.), on CBS-TV. The young performer and a cast of celebrity guest magicians — Carl Ballantine, Valerie Bertinelli, Sherman Hemsley, Bernadette Peters, Orson Welles and Cindy Williams — will perform acts of the seemingly impossible in a music and comedy format.

When David was 10, he became interested in magic. Soon he was passing out cards in his neighborhood in Metuchen, New Jersey, proclaiming that "David, the Boy Magician" would entertain at parties for $5 and make 20 balloons animals at no extra charge.

Wolfman To Host

Wolfman Jack, the regular announcer since the program premiered Feb. 3, 1973, will host NBC-TV's "The Midnight Special" (1 to 2:30 a.m.) following the Friday, Oct. 27th presentation of "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson."

Wolfman's guests are Cheryl Ladd, Paul McCartney & Wings, Little River Band, Anne Murray, Exile, Evelyn "Champagne" King, Trammps, Linda Clifford and Stonebolt.

Songs to be sung by the guest performers are: "Think It Over," Cheryl Ladd; "Londontown," Paul McCartney & Wings; "Reminiscing" and "Help Is On Its Way"; "You Needed Me" and "You Won't See Me," Anne Murray; "Kiss You All Over," Exile.

Michele Will Tell

Q: What was Kate Jackson's part in "Dark Shadows"? I saw the entire program and never DID see her! J. ABERNATHY, LYNCHBURG, VA.

A: Kate had a small part in the series — she played a 'ghost' named Daphne Harridge. This was Kate's first professional acting job and she recreated her role in MGM's feature film version of 'Shadows.'

Q: I heard that Les McKeown of the Bay City Rollers was fired. Is this true? B.R.C., FAYETTEVILLE, N.C.

A: There have been many rumors concerning his departure, but all parties involved maintain that Les returned to his native Scotland in order to do some serious thinking about his future. The big question is . . . will he decide to 'go it alone'?

Q: My friend says Barry Manilow has a glass eye. I say he doesn't. Who's right? TERRY COX, FLORENCE, S.C.

A: Where in the world did your friend hear that? He's wrong . . . you're right!

Q: I would like to know Richard Hatch's (Apollo in "Battlestar Galactica") previous acting credits. Particularly roles in soap operas. K.L.C., APPOMATTOX, VA.

A: Hatch's first experience in television was a running role in ABC's "All My Children." Next came guest appearances in "Cannon," "Barnaby Jones," "The Waltons" and "Hawaii Five-0." He then replaced Michael Douglas in "Streets of San Francisco."

Q: Tell me where to write to Randolph Mantooth who is in "Operation Petticoat."

A: Write to Mantooth, who is portraying the unregimented, wheeling-dealing Lt. Mike Bender on 'Petticoat,' c-o the show, ABC-TV, 4151 Prospect Ave., Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Q: What happened to the "Poldark" series? Where do I write for information about the show? A READER IN LOYALL, KY.

A: The addiction of 12 million British viewers made "Poldark" the most successful BBC series since "The Forsyte Saga," and the 16-episode drama was well-received in the U.S. Don't worry. It will definitely be back. Send your letter to PBS, 475 L'Enfant Plaza, West, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20024.

Donny Most Stars In 'Special'

Donny Most expanded his singing and acting talents in a number of guest performances while vacationing from "Happy Days." Among his dramatic ventures included the filming of an "ABC Weekend Specials" presentation, "The $1,000 Bill," airing Saturday, Oct. 28 (12-noon to 12:30 p.m.).

In the feature, Donny plays a young man who begins to feel very independent after finding a $1,000 bill. His new-found independence enables him to tell his boss (played by Richard Deacon) what he really thinks of him, then quit his job.

Donny entered the entertainment field at the age of 15, singing and dancing with a specialty revue featuring youngsters on the Catskill's circuit in New York. There he was discovered by a New York agent, who saw his potential as an actor. He then began to study drama in New York and was soon potential in commercials.

After moving to Los Angeles in 1973, Donny played his first television roles in episodes of "Room 222" and "Emergency!"

Donny's other credits include the motion picture, "American Dream," in which he co-starred with Cloris Leachman. He also portrayed Tom Sawyer in the TV special, "Huckleberry Finn," in which "Happy Days" star Ron Howard played the title role.

Donny Most of ABC's "Happy Days" plays a young man who asserts his independence — which includes telling off his boss, Richard Deacon (r), and quitting his job— when he finds "The $1,000 Bill," on ABC-TV's "ABC Weekend Specials" series, Saturday, Oct. 28 (12-noon-12:30 p.m.).

'Black Beauty' Airs

"Black Beauty," an animated special based on the cherished tale by Anna Sewell, will be broadcast on "Famous Classic Tales," Saturday, Oct. 28 (1 to 2 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

Black Beauty is the name of a proud but gentle horse who learns the perils of life lived at the mercy of human masters. Happy as a colt gamboling in the meadow, Beauty first discovers sadness when his mother tells him he is sold.

His first masters turn out to be a kind and considerate family, but the other horses in the stable have tales to tell of different kinds of humans. Misfortune strikes the family that owns Beauty and once again he sets out to a new life — a life that proves to be hard one as he is passed from hand to hand, to people who abuse him through cruelty or simple stupidity. Slowly his spirit and body is broken.

The Teen Scene

LEIF GARRETT is back doing what he dislikes most — living out of a suitcase in strange hotels. Leif is currently on tour in Australia — his third visit there — but unlike in the past, he'll also stop over in the Phillipines and New Zealand. He's due back this week to be ready to make public appearances on behalf of his new album, "Feel the Need," which is being release this week.

OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN has every intent to continue combining her singing career with her acting career, but she's letting it be known that the actor's workshop she's attending is for the purpose of obtaining a straight dramatic acting job in the not too distant future.

DIRK BENEDICT is rapidly becoming a new TV favorite of the teens and it's not going unnoticed by several record labels. Dirk's been approached to record some of the original material he's written, but thus far he's politely declined, insisting he's an actor, period!

ROBIN WILLIAMS, meanwhile, is receiving more offers from more people for more projects than anyone can imagine, but all he might agree to do is an album in which he'd share Mork's ideas and thoughts.

The proposed TV spinoff for DONNY MOST and ANSON WILLIAMS is resurfacing again what with every indication that this is definitely the last year for "Happy Days." RON HOWARD and HENRY WINKLER simply don't plan to continue with the show after the current season.

Gymnastics Title

The world's best gymnasts are gathering this month in Strasbourg, France, for the World Gymnastics Championships, which "ABC's Wide World of Sports" will televise via satellite, Saturday, Oct. 28 (5 to 6:30 p.m.).

With the exception of the Olympics, there is no gymnastics competition throughout the world as important as the World Championships. Twenty-eight nations will be participating, including the United States, the Soviet Union, Rumania, East Germany, Japan, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, West Germany, Israel, Greece and Taiwan.

The World Gymnastics Championships are held once every four years, alternating in even-numbered years with the Olympics, which means that this competition in France is the most impressive assemblage of gymnastics talent since 1976 in Montreal. Beginning next year, the World Championships will be held annually, except in Olympic years.

Entered in the World Championships are Olympic champion Nadia Comaneci of Rumania, Olympic medalist Nelli Kim of the Soviet Union and Rumanian newcomer Emilia Eberle.

The United States will field its strongest men's team ever, led by Kurt Thomas of the University of Indiana and Bart Conner of the University of Oklahoma. The team also includes Jim Hartung of the University of Nebraska, Mike Wilson of Oklahoma, Peter Kormann of Southern California State and Phil Cahoy, an Omaha high school student.

The U.S. women are led by Kathy Johnson of Belcher, Louisiana, and other team members are Donna Turnbow of Bellflower, Calif.; Rhonda Schwandt of Los Alamitos, Calif.; Leslie Pyfer of Eugene, Oregon; Christa Canary of Northbrook, Ill., and Marcia Frederick of Milford, Conn.

Colts' New 'Garbage Runner'

Years ago, the Baltimore Colts had a running back by the name of Tom Matte. Those who remember the short, stocky halfback recall he had a nickname that described how he managed to pick up yardage where there didn't appear to be any: "the garbage runner."

It is now 1978, and a new Colt running back may very well be suited to taking over the dubious title of "garbage runner." that back is Don McCauley, who may be the most versatile player on a team that sports many talented players.

In a clutch third-down situation, you can count on McCauley being in there, catching a short pass in the flats or struggling for that extra yard to pick up the first down.

But still he doesn't start.

"Sure I want to start," he recently admitted. "I feel I can do the job. I have before. There isn't a man on this team who doesn't want to start, and it's even tougher when you have before. In addition, it's hard to get the feel of the game when you come in like that."

But the North Carolina graduate, who was Baltimore's first draft choice in 1971, still managed to contribute nine touchdowns and over 250 yards last season, boasting him above the 2,000-yard career total mark.

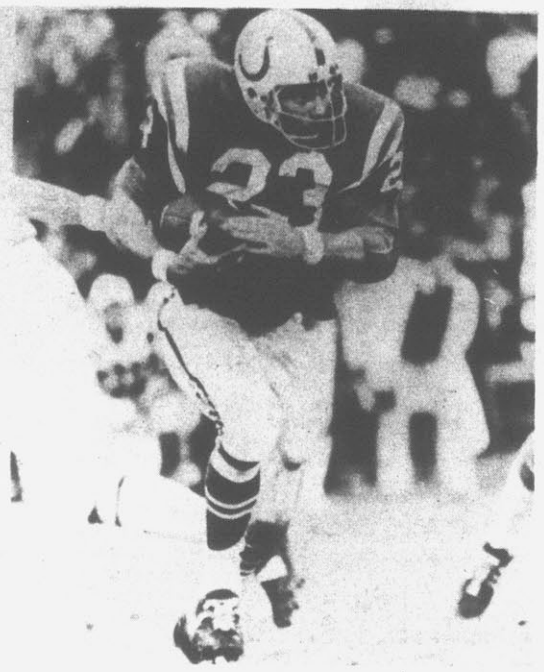
Despite his desire to regain the first team spot, Don is somewhat philosophical about his present playing position.

"It makes me feel good that I am counted on for the big play. In my present position, if I can contribute, fine, I will."

Don owns 26 ACC and North Carolina records in addition to a 4 NCAA marks. In 1970, he set the NCAA All-time season record for total yards with 1,720. O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills had 1,709 yards in his best season at Southern California.

But Don is best remembered for his unbelievable stamina. Time and time again, he is called on by coach Ted Marchibroda to pull the Colts out of a ticklish situation, and time and time again, he does it.

Now, if he could only earn that starting spot.



The Baltimore Colts' Don McCauley hopes to help his team regain their winning ways when they play the Denver Broncos Sunday, Oct. 22 (4 p.m.) on NBC-TV.

Pardee declares war

Coach Jack Pardee has declared war on the sexy Washington Redskin cheerleaders. After observing their bare backs, plunging necklines and diamond-shaped cutouts at the midrift, Pardee said: "Put 'em back in the bars where they belong — or on the other team's sideline."

A Dallas Mainstay

When the Dallas Cowboys drafted Randy White to take over for 12-year veteran Lee Roy Jordan at middle linebacker in 1975, few rookie defensive players in the history of the league were as highly touted.

After all, wasn't Randy chosen for the Outland Trophy in 1974 for the top lineman in the country? The University of Maryland All-American was the first collegian drafted in the NFL the next season.

But White didn't wilt under the pressure. To the contrary, the defensive end became a mainstay immediately for the Cowboys at the linebacker spot, and his terrorizing tackles helped the Cowboys capture the Super Bowl championship last year.

White will be executing more of those tackles when the Cowboys play the Minnesota Vikings Thursday, Oct. 26, and ABC will televise the game (8:30 p.m.).

The transition from defensive end in college to middle linebacker in the pros wasn't the easiest thing for White to do, however.

"At defensive end you know to a great degree where the plays are coming from, the type of players you must defend against," he says. "At middle linebacker, you must instantly recognize the play as it develops and get into the right position. You also see a lot more at middle linebacker then you do at defensive end.

"For example, when the quarterback would set up to pass, as a defensive end I was primarily concerned with getting to the quarterback. But under similar situations, as the quarterback indicates change during the play, you must be able to adjust immediately.

"Recognition is the key at middle linebacker: instant recognition."

Kiss: A Real Shocker

Rememer how shocked most Americans were when the Beatles and their long hair first appeared on TV? Well, wait until they get a look at the nation's top rock group — KISS. These four flamboyant and outlandish young musicians make the Beatles look like Vatican choirboys.

They wear lipstick and their fingernails are painted black, they are covered with chains, sequins, leather and hair — and their six-inch platform boots look like dragon's heads.

The group, which is headed by Gene Simmons, will make their movie debut Saturday, Oct. 28, in "KISS Meets the Phantom" (8 to 10 p.m.), on NBC-TV, and they know very well that their looks and their act is controversial.

"The fact that we upset older people with our looks doesn't bother us at all," says Simmons. "Nothing drives the kids to us faster than complaints from older people."

The four have never been photographed without their garish makeup, and Simmons plans to keep it that way. "We came up with this idea when we first started, back in 1973. We decided to create a mystique about our group. No one would ever know what we really looked like. We wanted to create an image, like the old-time movie stars did. You never saw a picture of Clark Gable or Humphrey Bogart sitting around drinking milk and eating cookies — that would be against their image. We live our image 24 hours a day."

Their act is as big an attraction as their music. It has flaming guitars, drumming that includes spectacular fireworks, smashed instruments which are thrown to the audience — and spitting fire!

Simmons refuses to tell how he manages to spit flames high into the air during his songs. "I'm afraid some little kid would try to copy it, and it can be very dangerous," he says.

Several national publications have offered high prices to photographers to get a picture of them without their makeup, but Simmons states that they'll never collect that bounty. The young men arrived on the set of "KISS Meets the Phantom" wearing makeup — and they still had it on when they left at the end of the day.

Asked about his mother's reaction to the Beatles, Simmons laughed. "She liked their music, but she was upset by the length of their hair."

'Trick 'N Treat'

Ghosts, skeletons, witches and gaily dressed performers effervesce this week on the "Lawrence Welk Show," airing Saturday, Oct. 28, in the maestro's annual Hallowe'en "Trick 'n' Treat" musicale.

Aptly, starting the celebration is Lawrence batoning his band to "That Old Black Magic," and Bobby & Cissy dancing as skeletons to "Satan Takes a Holiday." Anacani, dressed in queenly fashion, solos "Magic is the Moonlight," and Ken Delo, as magician Merlin, essays "Put on a Happy Face," Arthur Duncan "hot-foots" to "Dry Bones," and Ralna and Guy Hovis sing a beguiling "Old Devil Moon." Ava Barber offers "Wayward Wind," and clarinet-man Henry Cuesta plays "Misty."

The distinctive look of the

ASK THEM YOURSELF

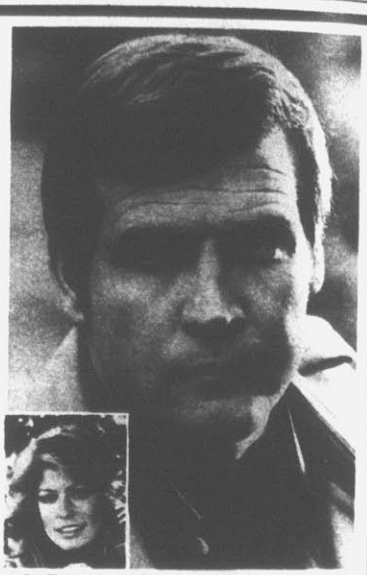
Send the question, on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

What's in a name? Danger may be.

FOR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS, psychologist

How important is a name to a child, and does it have any psychological effect? — A.R., Ridgefield, Ct.

● According to recent research, there may be more in a name than we realize. There is a kind of guilt by association when it comes to names. Children with unusual ones may actually suffer discrimination at the hands of teachers as well as fellow students. Elmers, Huberts and Berthas tend to be graded lower than Davids, Michaels, Lisas or Karens. Two different studies found that boys with unusual names suffered more emotional disturbances than boys with common ones. A person may learn to conform to his name, or he may unconsciously decide to live up to the image others have of him. Since the name is a symbol which most of us are stuck with for life, it's important for parents to discuss what a name means to them before tagging their child.



Is Farrah one more investment?

FOR THE "ASK" EDITOR

Did Lee Majors really mastermind Farrah's career? What else can you tell me about him? — J.H. Great Falls, Mont.

● There are many who believe Lee masterminded Farrah's career since he's taken credit for suggesting she'd outlived her usefulness on "Charlie's Angels," and it was time to move on to other things. Lee and Farrah were married in 1973. It's his second marriage; he has a 15-year-old son. Majors never gave acting a thought till his mid-20's when, rubbing shoulders with actors at the N. Hollywood Park gym (where he worked for $1.35 an hour), he learned about their fabulous salaries and decided to become one of them. Now, about 12 years later, his assets (oil wells, investments, earnings) run into the millions. Orphaned before he was three (his father died before his birth; his mother, killed in a street accident), Lee was raised by an aunt and uncle in Kentucky.

FOR HAL NEEDHAM, stuntman and director of movie Hooper

Are stuntmen masochistic? — K.B., Cheyenne, Wyo.

● Not in the least. Some of the guys are former race drivers or aerialists, but most of them come from the rodeo circuit. They've been around horses, race tracks, aloft most of their lives. I guess what sets stuntmen apart is that they like to lead a different life. They're a little bit macho and like to use their athletic prowess to tell the world they're the best athletes on earth.

FOR CHERYL TIEGS, model

Didn't you once say that you found cooking was therapeutic? — I.B., Las Vegas, Nev.

● I never said that. You must be mixing me up with Julia Child. Some people might find slaving over a hot stove a good way to unwind; for me, it's sheer frustration. I'd rather watch the news, read a book or just relax with my husband. I won't say that I'm the world's worst cook — I'll just say I have no interest in cooking. I'm much too tired at 8 o'clock, after a long day, to stand in the kitchen.

FOR LEE PURCELL, star of Almost Summer

You came off as a typical teenager in the movie, even though you're in your late 20's. Was it just a good makeup job? — M.P., Ventura, Calif.

● No. It was research. I enrolled in an L.A. high school as "Christine Alexander," the name of the character I play, so that I'd get used to hearing the name. I decided to do this to see what it was like in a school of 2,500 (my old one in the South had a hundred). I also wanted to see how the kids talked, ate, madeup and related to each other.

FOR DICK VERMEIL, head coach, Philadelphia Eagles

Can you spot a potential star the first time you meet him? — J.O., Eugene, Ore.

● Coaches often talk about a player that has the "look." Sometimes, as a coach, you can visit with a guy for 15 minutes and walk away with a very strong feeling that this guy is a player. It doesn't always work out that way, but usually you can rate a man's attitude toward the game in a short period of time. Once on the field, it doesn't take long to evaluate his quickness and agility.

FOR ROBERT E. CHASEN, Commissioner of Customs

What heads the list of items smuggled into this country? — Mrs. Clarice Horvath, Seattle, Wash.

● Jewelry. It packs the most value into the smallest space. With the price of gold and silver soaring, precious metals are very popular. We've found rubies in wads of chewing gum and diamonds stuffed in apples. Most macabre was a necklace stuffed in a dead cat "sleeping" in a basket on a grandmother's arm. But smugglers bring in everything — from beefsteaks (strapped around the waist) to whole cows.

FOR JANET DAILEY, author of Harlequin romances

All your books end up with the man and the woman getting married. Are you old-fashioned? Haven't you heard of feminism? — C.D., High Point, N.C.

● A vast majority of American women obviously consider marriage the only successful end to a love affair. Don't believe my research — just check the rising marriage rate. And our heroines do reflect the influence of feminism; they're not "submissive" females; they are depicted as independent, spunky, with definite minds of their own.

PRO AND CON

Should The President Have The Power To Wiretap In Foreign-Surveillance Cases?

PRO Sen. Orrin G. Hatch (R.) Utah, member, Judiciary Committee

The President is the ultimate defender of the Constitution of the U.S. Implicit in his role as Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces is the power to protect our national security. The President must have the capability to identify and prosecute those who seek to destroy our Government by surreptitious means. It's his responsibility to weigh the need for a wiretap against the individual's right to privacy which our Constitution guarantees. If that Constitution and the Government it represents are threatened, the President's first duty is to eliminate the threat and thus safeguard the documents he is sworn to "preserve, protect and defend."

CON Sen. Birch Bayh, (D.) Indiana, chairman, Senate Intelligence Committee

Wiretapping, even in foreign-surveillance cases, is a distasteful instrument of government power. It can inhibit the free and open exchange of ideas. It may cause people to refrain from political activity for fear that, if they express criticism, their private lives may be invaded by electronic "bugging." Sadly, in recent years, law-abiding citizens have been targeted for monitoring without adequate consideration of whether the information obtained about them was necessary to protect the security of the United States. The individual's right to privacy is a basic foundation of our society and should be respected by all people — including the President.

JIMMY STEWART HAS ANOTHER HIT AND A DOGGONE LEADING LADY

By Anita Summer

Nate Cutler / Globe Photos

The smiling Stewarts: The General is flanked by wife Gloria and daughter Judy.

James Maitland Stewart is puzzled as to how and why his career, kindled by chance rather than choice in 1932, has continued to burn so brightly all these years. He cannot fathom the reason for having stuck around so long, leaving a trail of finer actors in his wake.

"I asked John Wayne recently why some go on forever and others fade away, and he has no idea, either," Stewart said. "We came to the conclusion that the difference between us and them is that we were blessed with luck, not judgment."

Luck or not, at three-score-and-ten, Jimmy Stewart is still going strong. In fact, he's exceedingly proud that his 167-pound weight is about what it was in 1935 when he made After the Thin Man (the only time he played a villain and was laughed off the screen). His current and 79th movie, The Magic of Lassie, is a family favorite, and he is determined to keep grinding them out until the scripts stop coming. Stewart claims the role was tailor-made for him. It fit like a glove, without the help of fittings.

"There aren't too many good, grandfather parts around so when this came my way I grabbed it with both hands," said Stewart who believes a man of his age should act his age on screen.

In The Magic of Lassie, Stewart plays a grouchy old grandfather and shares the spotlight with the dog. "The dog is phenomenal," Jimmy says, "takes direction better than many humans and better still, doesn't ever get into a hassle over motivation."

The week following the movie's world premiere at New York's Radio City Music Hall set a record for the highest opening week ever (it grossed $309,746), along with establishing a new opening-day record ($40,673). By the first week in September, the film took in close to $2 million and gave a financial shot in the arm to Radio City, which has been plagued by financial troubles in recent months.

When Jimmy reviews his long, remarkable career, he picks his midyears as the time he would most like to relive. "That's when I was going from one picture to another and raising a family."

"In those days, as soon as you finished one you started on the next. We had no inkling if we were making hits or flops. Had anyone predicted that The Philadelphia Story would be a classic, getting me an Oscar in 1940, I'd have called him crazy!" Of all his films, the one which made an indelible impression was It's a Wonderful Life in 1946, with Donna Reed. "I feel sentimental about that because it's the first movie I made when I got back after the War." His toughest role was in Vertigo. He played a man suffering from acrophobia. "I was in love with Kim Novak. I thought she died, when she suddenly reappeared. Trying to make sense out of that confused plot was hard." The most challenging part of acting," said the veteran actor, "is not portraying a complex character but in making the role believable. That trick doesn't come overnight. It's a gradual accomplishment, like aging."

Away from the cameras, Jimmy, a conservative man, has never capitalized on his superstar status. "I dislike spouting details of my private life. It's my thing, and I have the right to protect it against invasion. However, part of the price of fame is seeing people and being at ease with one's following. I have never refused to sign autographs," he said, "and I am puzzled by those who do. In my opinion, they are in the wrong business."

How did Stewart come to be an actor in the first place? In 1932 he was studying architecture at Princeton when a chance meeting with Josh Logan (noted playwright-director) changed all that. He was invited to join Logan's touring University Players. Next, there was a bit part on Broadway and just one year later he starred in Yellowjack.

Hollywood beckoned in 1935. Murder Man marked his screen debut. By 1940, he'd made 24 movies. His most memorable characterizations, perhaps, was in Mary Chase's Pulitzer Prize comedy about an imaginary white rabbit, Harvey. Stewart has performed in Harvey on screen, TV, Broadway and abroad, "I've played in it so many times that the rabbit has become part of my life. If ever I feel blue, all I have to do is turn around and talk to him. I can always count on him being there."

Someone else he can always count on is his glamorous wife. James Stewart was introduced to Gloria Hatrick McLean at a party thrown by Gary Cooper and his wife Rocky in 1949. Eight months later they were married and never have they been touched by the long accusing fingers of gossip or scandal.

Shrugs Mr. Stewart, "All we do is follow the life-style we set for ourselves 30 years ago." He claims he's more in love with her now than he was the day they married: "She has given me a really marvelous life."

Gloria, a tall, elegant, slender blonde, whose passion is conservation, graciously returned her husband's glowing compliments by stating he was merely a hair's breadth away from perfection: "Jimmy's only fault is leaving his shoes around, and I trip over them."

Nor does she agree that her drawling, dawdling, head-scratching husband lives up to his reputation of "slow poke." She points out that whenever the Stewarts travel (their number-one luxury and priority), either to Africa on picture-taking safaris or to London to visit their daughter Kelly and their son-in-law, they're always at the airport an hour ahead of time.

It's a debatable point if the attraction is arriving early or feasting his eyes on anything aeronautic. Had Stewart not become a thespian, he most assuredly would have turned to flying, for which his love was conceived at 10. He was one of the first stars to volunteer for the armed services and was a private in the Army Air Force nine months prior to Pearl Harbor. Often-decorated, Stewart became a Brigadier General in the U.S.A.F. Reserve before his 1968 retirement and one of the two officers in its history to receive the Distinguished Service Medal. It's easy to make his eyes shine with pride — just call him, General.

But the apples of his eye are the twins, Kelly and Judy, born May 7, 1951. Ask him about them and you open the floodgates. "When they were babies there was a bus parked in front of our house, tipping over precariously. As I rushed closer, I could see why it was off-balance. All the passengers were on one side, hanging out the windows, listening to the babies' nurse deliver a lecture on the twins as she rocked the pram. She had made a deal with the driver. I heard her announce what the babies weighed, when they were born, what they ate. 'This one never cries,' she pointed 'This one never stops, Any questions?'" Today, although the twins live an ocean and a continent apart, they're both wild-life enthusiasts. Judy, after years as a jungle guide in Nepal, then Tanzania, where a cholera epidemic ruined the tourist trade, is back in Beverly Hills. While Kelly, living in England and married to Cambridge professor Alex Harcourt, is working on a doctorate based on her studies of the mountain gorilla in Central Africa.

His family may be first in his life and thoughts, but he also has strong ideas on what's going on in movies today. In spite of the fact Jimmy recently refused to do an X-rated film, he feels there's a place for that type of picture: "We certainly had enough sex and violence in our day. As well as X-rated stuff, we also need a choice of comedy, adventure, musicals, science fiction, drama."

James Maitland Stewart is puzzled when asked if he has thoughts of penning his autobiography: "I'm not a journalist, and I don't like the idea of hiring a 'ghost' or having a life story written by someone other than the person who lived it." He concedes: "I guess I have had an interesting life." Then he sighs, "But if I started to put it down on paper, it would all sound terribly dull."

A gentle reminder of last winter from the people who could help save you heating-money this winter.

Even if your house has been thoroughly insulated, you're probably still throwing away heating dollars by the bagful.

Dollars up your chimney.

Virtually every gas furnace has a chimney flue opening that can be as wasteful as an open window in letting expensively heated household air escape. (This was discussed on "60 Minutes.")

And your furnace probably has a continuously burning pilot light that burns 6000 cubic feet of gas a year—more dollars up your chimney.

How our furnaces save.

Carrier energy-saving furnaces are available with a Chimney-Lock flue damper, which automatically closes when the furnace is off and keeps heat inside your house instead of letting it escape up the chimney. And they have electronic ignition—no wasteful, continuously burning pilot light.

How our Year-round One heat pump saves.

Depending on your fuel prices and climate, the Carrier heat pump could also save you a lot. It burns no oil or gas, and at freezing (32°F), it puts out 2½ times more heat per dollar* than electric-resistance heating.

In summer, it reverses to give your family the comfort of high efficiency wholehouse air conditioning. And if you already have an aging central air conditioner, our heat pump could be a wise replacement now because of its higher efficiency.

Free Heat-Savings Analysis!

What's it costing you to have a stream of heated household air flowing out of your chimney flue, or having a pilot light that burns continuously? How much expensive energy are you consuming that could be saved by operating a heat pump instead? Don't guess and worry. Find out for sure by calling your Carrier dealer listed below. He'll run a Heat-Savings Analysis of your system at no obligation to you, and tell you how much you could save with a modern Carrier furnace or heat pump. But act now. The next reminder could be from Old Man Winter.

Carrier. We can't control the weather. But we can help you control its cost.

"Carrier's Free Heat-Savings Analysis. It showed me how much heating cost I could save. It can show you, too." Roger Staubach.

DECIPHERING DEEP SECRETS OF THE WOMB

By Dodi Schultz

The obstetrician turns to his patient and smiles. "Mrs. Shipley, I'm happy to tell you that your baby girl's heart, lungs and kidneys are all functioning beautifully, she's just the right size and weight for her age, and her nervous system appears to be perfectly normal. She's going to be a fine, healthy youngster, as far as we can tell."

With close to 100-percent accuracy, thousands of anxious parents-to-be now can be assured of a whole and healthy child or one free, at least, of some of the most feared congenital diseases. Others — and their physicians — can be forewarned of measures that may be needed to avert or cope with potential crises. Still others can be spared the tragedy of bearing an infant fated for early death or life that is less than normal.

How? Through two techniques that have revolutionized obstetric care — ultrasonography and amniocentesis.

Ultrasonography was introduced in the 1960's. Noninvasive and — so far as is known — completely devoid of risk to mother or child, it is based on principles of echolocation, much like sonar. Using ultrahigh frequency sound waves, far above the human hearing level, that can be translated to a visual image, ultrasound can literally "picture" the developing fetus, including soft tissues that could not be seen on an X ray.

After six weeks of pregnancy, ultrasonography can be used to visualize the amniotic sac. As the time of delivery draws near, it can pinpoint the precise position of the fetus, its size and probable birth weight — thus determining the need, for example, of a Caesarean delivery.

In amniocentesis (literally, "piercing of the amnion"), a slim, hollow needle is inserted through the mother's abdomen and the wall of the uterus into the amniotic sac; through it, a small sample of the fluid surrounding the fetus is withdrawn. The risk of mishap is extremely small, according to the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development who say that miscarriages are statistically no more prevalent among mothers who have had the procedure.

The concentration of certain urinary waste products in the amniotic fluid, for example, can suggest the developmental stage of the fetal kidneys, comparing that finding with the baby's size in order to calculate possible risk elements. A pigment analysis can spot such a condition as Rh incompatibility — and transfusion can be given to the child in the womb.

Another test can reveal fetal lung immaturity, a key factor in the newborn respiratory disorder called hyaline membrane disease; if premature birth appears imminent and impossible to avert, a team of specialists can be standing by to initiate lifesaving therapy. Certain proteins in the amniotic fluid may warn of a neural tube defect, a failure of the spinal canal to close properly; the most common such defect is spina bifida, with which 6,000 to 8,000 U.S. babies are born each year.

The amniotic fluid also contains actual cells sloughed from the fetal skin. Thus, karyotyping — chromosomal analysis — is possible. Karyotyping can establish not only the sex of the fetus and chromosomal irregularities but potentially lethal genetic conditions.

One of the least rare and most devastating is Down's syndrome, formerly called "mongolism," which includes irremediable mental retardation, stunted growth and a constellation of other disorders involving the eyes, heart and other organs. The risk of Down's syndrome rises markedly with the mother's age: one in 100 if over 40, one in 40 if over 45. It can now be detected by amniocentesis.

Among the critical, directly heritable, threats to unborn babies are insidious disorders genetically called recessive because the gene for the disorder "yields" to a "normal" gene.

More than 780 hereditary disorders are termed autosomal recessive. This means the genes for them are not carried on X or Y chromosomes but on one of the other 22 pairs of chromosomes in the fertilized egg cell, which are called autosomes; the lethal gene is not linked to one sex but may be invisibly "carried" by either.

Phenylketonuria (PKU), a defect of protein metabolism, is one autosomal recessive detectable in the "carrier" state; the one-in-10,000 children born with the defect, if untreated, will be severely mentally retarded.

Also among the autosomal recessives, several are disorders of lipid metabolism — conditions involving fat deposits that are almost invariably fatal or incapacitating. The most prominent, Tay-Sachs disease.

A number of major challenges remain.

One is detecting actual fetal disease in the X-linked recessive disorders.

A second is how to detect both "carrier" state and fetal affliction in major autosomal recessive conditions e.g., cystic fibrosis.

A third area is the autosomal recessives that cannot be detected by amniocentesis. Chief among these are the hereditary anemias: Cooley's anemia and sickle-cell anemia.

One hope, as such techniques as ultrasound and amniocentesis are further refined and additional techniques developed, is that prenatal therapy may be possible as well.

Thus, the future may offer expanded alternatives for expectant parents — not only the unhappy news that can spare them the heartbreak of bearing a child fated for a short and painful life or (as is true in most cases) reassurance, but the possibility of treatment for the unborn child. FW

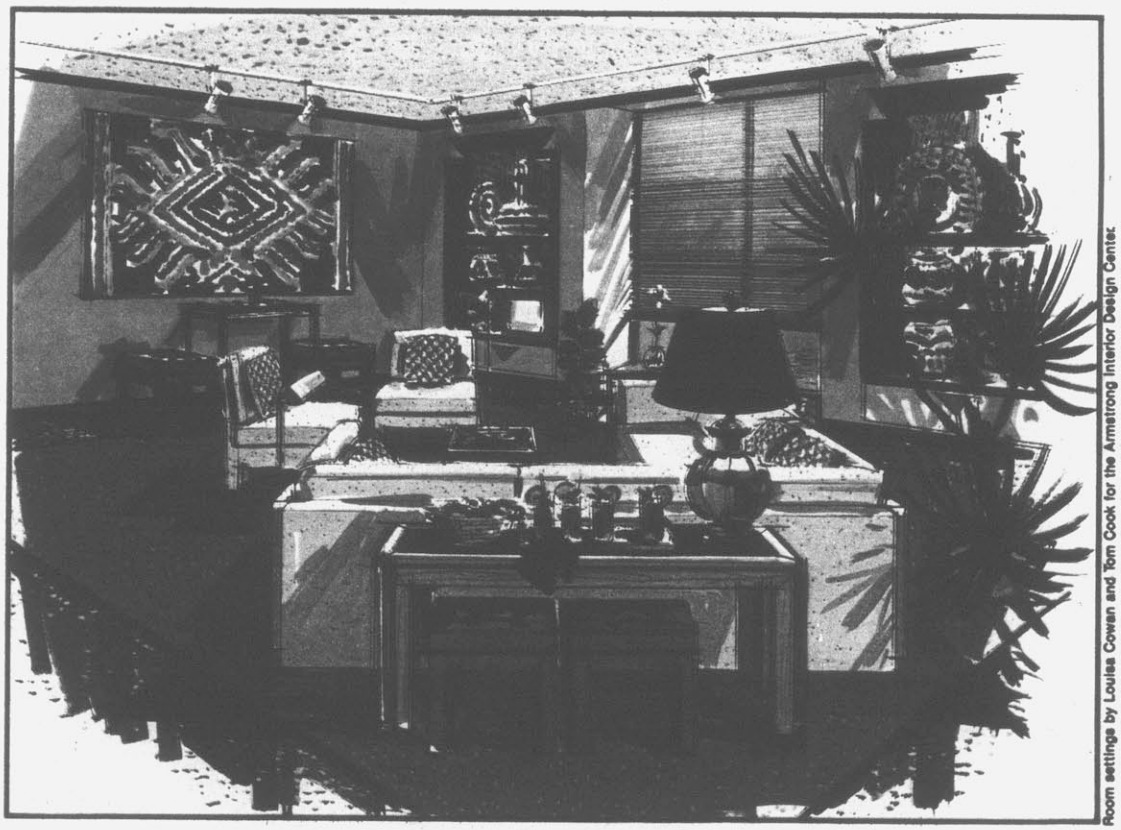
A Room for All Activities
This family room, designed for a couple and their two youngsters, serves everyone's needs. Paul and Dorothy Stratford compromised on color: he leans toward the "woodsy look," while she loves bright, happy colors.

DECORATING FROM THE FLOOR UP

Drama of the Southwest
A place for family recreation as well as a smart room to entertain business clients dictated this contemporary setting with sleek furnishings, desert accents and sunset colors.



Room settings by Louise Cowen and Tom Cook for the Armstrong Interior Design Center.

Every family, depending on its size, habits and budget, has different requirements for its living space. FAMILY WEEKLY asked a design team to take an average-size family room, 16′ × 16,′ and plan one for a family with two preschoolers and one for a couple with teenagers. Their budgets were $4,000 and $9,000, respectively. All the furnishings, from the floor up, were selected from "The Indoor World" of Armstrong.

The first assignment: To create a room that would double as an entertainment center and workroom for Dorothy and Paul Stratford and would also give their young girls some space and a sense of belonging.

The Stratfords basically wanted a room that would accommodate Paul's easy chair, stereo system and collection of stamps; Dorothy's wildflower bouquets, stitchery and butterfly collection; and have a special area for the children, both of whom collect kites.

Design Strategy. The room had no focal point or architectural interest. It was spacious, and the doors and windows were well placed. The idea was to get the Announcing: A Wondrous Scientific ANTI-FAT BREAKTHROUGH that...

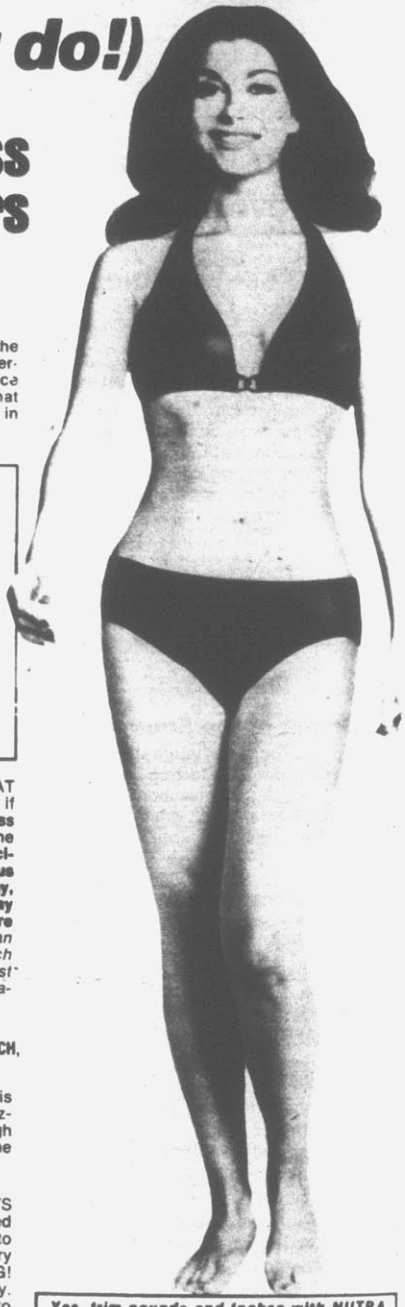
MELTS AWAY AS MUCH UGLY FAT AS IF YOU ACTUALLY STARVED FOR DAYS AND DAYS AT A TIME

(which, of course, you never, ever do!)



Medical University discovers the fastest weight loss system in the world. Burns away more fat in hours than other systems do in days or even weeks.

It's true! Medical Science has developed a super fast ANTI-FAT BREAKTHROUGH that melts away—burns away fat and fluid at the unbelievable rate of up to:

4 POUNDS GONE THE FIRST 24 HOURS

12 POUNDS GONE THE FIRST 48 HOURS

17 POUNDS GONE THE VERY FIRST WEEK and that's just the start to the fantastic weight-slashing results with this incredible anti-fat breakthrough that melts fat—destroys fat—completely obliterates fat and converts it into harmless water and energy in record breaking time!

MEANING:

In addition to losing up to 12 pounds in the first 48 hours—losing as much as 17 pounds the first 7 days—23 pounds in the first 2 weeks —you can continue to burn, continue to oxidize as much as 7 to 9 pounds more fat every two weeks thereafter. And depending upon how much you want to lose, and how fast, and, of course, how heavy you are to begin with . . . you can go on to lose 40—50—70—90 lbs. or even more in a mere fraction of the time it takes with any other system thanks to medical science's incredible weight loss discovery.

And in fact, and this is most significant, as you follow this total slimness program MEDICAL SCIENCE NOT ONLY GUARANTEES THAT YOU LOSE WEIGHT IN RECORD BREAKING TIME . . . MEDICAL SCIENCE EVEN PROMISES THAT YOU KEEP THAT FAT OFF FOREVER!!

WORKS SO EFFECTIVELY, WORKS SO EASILY, YIELDS SUCH QUICK POUND AND INCH LOSS RESULTS—DOCTOR DECLARES IT THE "ULTIMATE WEAPON IN THE WAR AGAINST FAT"

So effective is this anti-fat breakthrough in dissolving and evaporating bulging pockets of fat that Medical Science guarantees you the fastest, most spectacular weight losses ever! Just think of it! Slashing pounds! Trimming inches! . . . Now so simple, so easy, so fast with an amazing anti-fat weapon that helps you lose as much as 12 lbs. the first 48 hours alone . . . without ravenous hunger . . . without constant fasting . . . without a single moment of body-wracking exercise.

What is this incredible discovery that automatically melts away fat and fluid—in fact, destroys fat with such record breaking speed that you lose as much weight as if you actually starved and suffered for days and days at a time? Not a drug, not a fad diet, it's a remarkably ingenious concept first discovered at a leading medical university; and hailed in medical journals as the "weight loss breakthrough of the century." This wonder discovery features a remarkable ingenious fat burn aid (a natural substance) that works with scientific efficiency with a super-fast anti-fat program to convert your body's metabolism fast. In other words: step up its rate of fat burn-off so efficiently that your "inner-furnace" totally destroys pounds, evaporates inches and melts layers and layers of ugly fat just as if you starved for days and days at a time (which, of course, you never, ever do!)

IMPORTANT NOTICE: Before starting this or any high speed weight reducing diet program the Doctor suggests strongly that you check with your physician to make sure you are in normal health and your only problem is obesity. See if he, too, doesn't agree that this medical concept may be your weight loss answer. Not intended for those under 18, pregnant or lactating females, nor those suffering from diabetes, gout, high blood pressure, thyroid, heart disease, kidney and liver disease.

TESTED ON HUNDREDS OF PATIENTS: BURNS MORE FAT IN DAYS THAN OTHER SYSTEMS BURN IN WEEKS OR EVEN MONTHS

The Doctor's Anti-Fat Breakthrough is so effective, it's been proved on hundreds of his patients successfully. First testing this incredible concept on himself, a leading doctor, lost an amazing 50 LBS. OF FAT AND FLUID GONE IN JUST 70 DAYS . . . GONE QUICKLY . . . GONE FOREVER ! ! ! And just as amazing, this wondrously fast fat-burn total slimness diet program worked quickly, effectively on HUNDREDS OF ADDITIONAL TEST PATIENTS, WITH THE Doctor recording virtually THE FASTEST WEIGHT LOSS RESULTS IN THE HISTORY OF MEDICINE.

How effective has this breakthrough concept proven?? So effective that when tested on hundreds of other patients—some of whom have been hopelessly overweight for years—spectacular, even staggering weight losses were recorded.

To give you an exact idea, here are just a few recent cases that enjoyed exceptional pound and inch losses.

CASE #34—Robert G.
LOST: 36 POUNDS IN ONLY 35 DAYS
CASE #47—Ertrice C.
LOST: 22 POUNDS PLUS 9½ INCHES FROM HIPS AND WAIST
CASE #53—B. G.
LOST: 5 INCHES OFF WAIST—GONE FOREVER
CASE #126—Norma L.
DOWN 2 DRESS SIZES—22 POUNDS AT FASTEST SPEED KNOWN TO SCIENCE
CASE #137—Delores M.
LOST: 4¾ INCHES OFF WAIST, 2 INCHES OFF HIPS IN RECORD BREAKING TIME

Yes, patient after patient thrilled to incredible—even staggering—losses just by simply stepping up their metabolism and melting, evaporating, oxidizing 40 - 70 as much as 90 pounds of stubborn fat faster and easier than they ever dreamed possible.

What does all this mean? Simply this. If you've read our medical announcement up to this point then you know that science has finally perfected an amazingly fast anti-fat program for losing weight that's as easy as 1—2—3. Here's all you do: 1. EAT FROM A WIDE AND TASTY CHOICE OF FOODS (that help to accelerate fat burn-off); 2. TAKE MEDICAL SCIENCE'S SUPER AMINE SUPPLEMENT, (helps the fat-burn chain reaction keep going non-stop every hour of the day); and 3. YOU AUTOMATICALLY START LOSING WEIGHT, YOU AUTOMATICALLY START SHEDDING POUNDS, YOU AUTOMATICALLY SLASH INCHES IN RECORD BREAKING TIME.

And as we've noted before, just follow the simple directions on this breakthrough super-quick diet and lifetime slimness maintenance program and medical science guarantees that you enjoy the fastest, easiest weight losses in the history of medicine, meaning:

LOSE AS MUCH AS 4 POUNDS THE FIRST 24 HOURS and go on to
LOSE as much as 12 pounds the first 48 HOURS.
LOSE as much as 17 pounds the first 7 DAYS.
LOSE as much as 23 pounds in the first 2 WEEKS.
And even more up to 40—50—70—90 LBS. OF FAT GONE FOREVER.

Just think what this fantastic ANTI-FAT BREAKTHROUGH means to you, especially if all your life you've had to battle away excess pounds; agonize or suffer through even the slightest bit of weight loss. For medical science now guarantees that with it's wondrous Fat-Burn Breakthrough you can slash away, you can trim away, yes, you can melt away years and years of accumulated fat in mere weeks. And even better, melt fat at such an incredible rate you can actually see as much as 12 lbs. of fluid and fat gone the very first 48 hours without hunger, without total starvation, without agonizing, insane exercises.

PROVE EVERY LOST POUND, ENJOY EVERY LOST INCH, WITHOUT RISKING ONE SINGLE PENNY

Now the name of our Anti-Fat weapon is NUTRA SLIM/10 and comes with this amazing guarantee. Test this medical breakthrough concept that burns fat in record breaking time without any risk whatsoever.

Try NUTRA SLIM/10 FOR JUST TEN DAYS entirely at our risk. You must be totally thrilled with the results . . . in fact you must thrill to the fastest, easiest weight loss in the history of medicine or . . . IT COSTS YOU NOTHING! That's right, you don't risk one single penny. FAMILY ROOMS most use of the space, and this was accomplished by investing in multifunctional furniture, like the wall units that fold out to reveal a desk/bar, flexible shelving to accommodate collectibles and electronic equipment, and modular seating pieces that can be moved around as the family needs demand.

In an attempt to create a focal point in the room, the three wall units were positioned between the two small windows and the upholstered pieces arranged to face these case pieces. Now, as one enters the room, the eye is immediately drawn to the display area housing all the family collectibles.

The placement of the versatile seating units actually separates the room into a relaxing conversation area and an activities center used for dining, gaming, hobbies and homework. To extend the usefulness of this area, two 18″ × 48″ Parson's tables were used in place of a conventional console table. This gave the flexibility to use the tables against the sofa, as a buffet table, bunched together for dining or as an "L" for individual hobby work.

Right by Dad's armchair is a long wall-hung shelf. It can be used as a work surface when he's busy with his stamp collection. When the family gives parties, it's also where the punch bowl is placed. Otherwise, the shelf is used to show off favorite objects.

Color Scheme. With so many activities taking place in the room, it seemed sensible to keep the shell of the room one color. The natural-wood storage units contrast well against the orange background. To give the room some architectural interest, the door and window jambs were outlined in cobalt blue.

The second assignment: To design a sophisticated, comfortable retreat for Allen and Barbara Tyler, which would also be attractive and versatile for entertaining clients. And the children, who've just entered the teen stage, needed to have a place at home to start their own social lives. The Tylers like the decorative qualities of the Southwest and their new room reflects it.

Design Strategy. The Tyler's furnishings are arranged on the bias to provide easy access into the room and contribute to a good traffic flow. The angles these create play up the graphic quality found in Southwestern art, which is the focal point of this room.

With a larger budget to work with, it was decided to cover up the windows with built-in display cabinets, painted a dark accent color, and install a large sliding glass door to provide access to a new patio, "opening up" the room. The cabinets are lined with highly textured cork wallpaper and fitted with glass shelves to house Indian pottery baskets and entertainment equipment.

Tables in blond natural wood, with contrasting bronze glass insert tops, as well as a set of nesting tables in brass with glass, make a strong contemporary statement. A backgammon table is placed along one wall beneath a Navajo rug wall hanging. Two stylish benches, covered in chamois, complete the setting.

Color Scheme. The inspiration was a Southwestern sunset. A vivid gold ochre paint covers the walls in a high-gloss enamel, trimmed with a dark eggplant brown for high contrast. The sepia-tone flooring is also high-gloss for an up-to-date slick look. The shiny surfaces are counterbalanced with an area rug of brilliant orange but in a low pile to accentuate the contemporary feeling. Major furniture pieces are upholstered in light, natural canvas, making a nice contrast with the bold color scheme.

Track lighting adds the punch and necessary sense of theater to the Tyler room. Finishing touches are added with large-scale plants — a specimen cactus and an architectural yucca tree in large terra-cotta pots.

FASHIONS IN FLOOR COVERINGS

The new carpets, the new vinyls: what to look for, how to buy them

Today's floor coverings have more going for them than good looks and better value. Recent technical advances, responsible for improved durability and greater variety, now give the consumer a wider choice than ever.

Carpeting

The major style trend in carpeting for many years has been what is referred to as a "saxony." That's the velvety-looking low-to-medium cut pile that comes in a great many, often luscious, solid colors. Apart from its luxury look, it tends to coordinate easily with most furnishings.

The move today is toward carpets that have several subtle colors that blend into one another. The effect is handsome, more interesting than a plain solid and is just as easy to live with. What makes them so new is that the flow of color is applied by complex printing machines rather than woven in, usually on man-made fibers — usually nylon. The carpets have incredibly soft finishes and are soil-and-static-resistant.

When you're planning to buy carpeting, you can make the selection easier with some simple preplanning. For example, study traffic patterns. If the carpeting is going into a room that gets moderate use, lighter colors and soft textures are good choices. If it's going into an entrance hall, family room, dining room or kitchen — areas that get constant use or are frequented by children or pets, you should select a darker color or pattern and a tight weave.

Texture is important, too. If you tend to live formally, a plush saxony or softly sculptured carpet would probably be most suitable, while a lower-level surface or a shaggier pile would be more appropriate with casual furnishings.

An interesting idea comes from decorator June Gussin who suggests you create separate areas in your home by breaking them up with contrasting textures. "For example, you can create a foyer where one doesn't really exist," says June, "by using a hard surface material such as vinyl or ceramic tile or a tightly woven level-loop print carpet to outline an entry-way, then use a solid broadloom for the living-room area."

Be sure to ask the retailer how the fibers perform. Does the carpeting have a backing or is padding needed? Is there a protective finish if it's going into a much-used room?

Think about price in terms of the entire room, rather than in cost-per-yard. If you're hesitating between two styles, the cost difference of, say, $5.00 a yard may be only $100 for the entire room which, when you consider the life of the carpet, may, in the long run, make the cost differential far less important.

Resilient Flooring

Although there will always be some demand for linoleum, rubber or tile floors, the most popular way to cover floors today is with sheet vinyl.

"Sheet" floors come in wide, continuous rolls, usually 6- or 12-feet wide, as opposed to tiles, which are usually 12-inch squares. When installed, there are few seams, if any, so there's no place for dirt to become imbedded. The design flows from wall to wall without interruption. And you'll find an endless variety of patterns, colors and textures in "sheet" floors you're unlikely to find in other smooth-surface flooring.

Basically, there are two types of vinyl floors: inlaid vinyl (the design goes through the entire thickness of the material) and rotovinyl (the design is printed on and covered with clear vinyl). People who prefer the inlaid vinyls find the colors richer and deeper, while other people are attracted to the photographic realism of the rotovinyls.

Some inlaid vinyl floors have cushioning. Most do not. But these thick floors are not recommended for do-it-yourself installation. Inlaid vinyl floors do, however, come in a no-wax surface, which has a gleaming shine of its own. It's a substance even tougher than vinyl that's applied as a finish. And it keeps its shine, without waxing or buffing, far longer than ordinary vinyl.

Rotovinyl floors also are available in no-wax finishes and are suitable for do-it-yourself installation. A good rule of thumb to follow: if a floor is offered in a 6-foot or 12-foot width, the manufacturer approves it for do-it-yourselfers.

Using a Lawyer May Be Dangerous to your Wealth

I'm a lawyer myself—and I may be cutting my own throat—but I'm going to tell you the truth:

The bulk of what most lawyers do could be done by someone who had never seen the inside of a law school—and usually is.

Lawyer's secretaries do most of the work on wills, divorces (as well as annulments and legal separations), bankruptcies and creditor plans, simple contracts, real estate deals (buying, selling, and leasing), run-of-the-mill personal injury cases, adoptions, filing homesteads, insurance claims, minor criminal cases . . . and the list goes on and on.

And what do these Legal Secretaries do? They follow directions and fill in the blanks on forms. That's all. It's as simple as that.

That's why I think you may be ready to try being your own lawyer—and save a ton of money.

But before you decide, answer these two questions: (1) Can you follow simple directions—no more complicated than assembling a Christmas toy or reading a cook book? (2) Do you have the few cents necessary to buy the correct forms at a Legal Stationery Store?

If your answer to both of those questions is "yes," you're ready. Well, almost ready. There are just two more things you should know:

(1) You don't necessarily have to have "the few cents necessary to buy the correct form at a Legal Stationery Store." Because I'll tell you how and where to get many of these forms free.

(2) You'll need a book. It's called "Do Your Own Legal Work." And you can do your own legal work—no matter which State you live in. The book took more than a year to write. Based on what I've actually been earning in my law practice, that represents more than $100,000 worth of advice.

I mention that, not to brag, but so you'll know that I'm not some kid, fresh out of law school, and hungry for a few bucks. Along that line, you should know that I've been practicing for 13 years, and I've written the book about the legal problems I work with, day in and day out.

Some other things you might want to know: I've published technical legal articles that explain the law—to lawyers. I've served as a research assistant to a Judge of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

What will it cost you to "hire" a lawyer wtih those qualifications? Ten dollars. Just about what I—and lots of other lawyers—would charge you for 10 minutes of legal advice.

Why so cheap? Because I hope to sell a million copies—or at least enough so I can take some time off and enjoy life with my family.

That's what's in it for me.

And here's just a sample of what's in it for you (including complete directions and sample forms you can practice with):

How to find and use forms . . . page 7

How to draft your own will . . . page 36

How to handle your own criminal case . . . page 72

How to settle your own accident or personal injury case . . . page 82

How to handle an adoption . . . page 99

How to dissolve your marriage . . . page 113

How to solve debt problems—from consumer-credit counseling to bankruptcy . . . page 127

How to draft a contract . . . page 209

How to handle real estate transactions . . . page 216

How you can use a Law Library—free—to avoid probate! . . . save taxes! . . . form a corporation! . . . and handle hundreds of other matters! . . . page 25

Now I'm not saying that you're never going to need a lawyer. I am saying that if you do need to see one, you'll be ready and be able to handle a lot of the simple, clerical work yourself. You'll save his time.

Here's an example of how my book will cut down on those precious minutes: For an attorney to draw up a simple contract might cost you $400 if he had to start from scratch. It could cost you $30 if he had to take only a half hour to review the work you'd already done—and can do, using my book.

Lawyers get $60 for husband-wife wills; I'll show you how to do your own in less than an hour. Lawyers charge $450 for a simple divorce which may take less than two hours of their time. Lawyers get between $3,000 and $4,500 for obtaining a $9,000 personal injury settlement. I'll show you how to do as well, or better, by yourself. Lawyers get $150 for an adoption, but their secretaries do the work—and so can you.

Your best guarantee that my book is everything I say it is, is this: my fellow lawyers will be watching me like a hawk. I wouldn't dare mis-step or mislead you. It could cost me my license.

What's more, I'm so sure you'll find my book immediately profitable—that I'll let you read it before you pay for it!

Send me your check or money order today—and I promise not to deposit it for 30 days. That should give you enough time to look it over and decide whether to keep it or return it. If you do return it, I'll send back your uncashed check or money order.

At worst, you'll be out a few cents for postage. Seems like a pretty small risk for a book that I honestly believe could save you thousands of dollars in legal fees.

Why not fill out and mail the coupon now? Post-date your check if you want to. I won't cash it for 30 days anyway.

Prove it to me! Show me how I can hire a $100,000-a-year-lawyer for 10 dollars. I've enclosed my check or money order—but don't deposit it for 30 days. If I return your book within that time, send my payment back—uncashed. I understand my order will be processed the day it's received.

I enclose $10. Cash ☐ Check ☐ Money Order ☐

TREASURES UNDERFOOT— ORIENTAL RUGS

Despite rising values and prices — you can still find bargains.

Steve and Sue bought a new house last spring. "We wanted the finest for our home," commented Sue, an attractive young woman in her early 30's, "but we were on a budget."

First on their list of decorating needs was floor covering. "We thought a lot about broadloom," noted Steve, "and compared styles, prices and qualities. But we soon realized that, for us, fitted carpeting was not what we really wanted."

Instead, they chose two large Oriental scatter rugs that they got for a bargain. "Unlike wall-to-wall carpeting, we can move our Orientals with us from house to house. If our tastes or needs change, we can sell or exchange our rugs at the dealer from whom we purchased them," Steve told us.

Within the collectible category, Oriental rugs are gaining in value faster than other highly prized objects. Over the past 10 years, choice examples have appreciated as much as 30 percent a year.

"There are several reasons for this phenomenon," explained Doris Leslie Blau, an Oriental rug dealer. "Demand for fine Oriental rugs has grown dramatically among Europeans and the oil-rich of Iran and the Arab countries. Oriental rugs are enjoying great popularity in decorating plans, and Middle-Eastern supply sources of collectible rugs are disappearing as weavers turn to other trades. Despite this, good buys can still be found, if you know what to look for."

Oriental rugs are broadly classified into six groups: Persian (florals), Turcoman (tribal gul patterns), Caucasian (abstract geometric shapes), Turkish (symmetrical, ornamental motifs), Indian (tiny details in larger patterns), and Chinese (mystical motifs).

Today many types of Persian rugs in silk and wool are prime choices for investment, followed by rugs from the Caucasus, Turkey, China and India. One must, of course, take into account that they be in excellent condition. Fine antique and semiantique examples are eagerly sought as these are expected to appreciate considerably over the years.

"In marked contrast are the new rugs from Persia and Persian-style rugs from India and Pakistan," Mrs. Blau told us. "These will be considered the rugs of the future. Thus, one would expect that meticulous attention would be given to quality and richness of design. Unfortunately, this is often not the case. So buyers should shop carefully."

Buying Oriental rugs is, however, a complex art that requires extensive examination, study and reading. Happily, there is material on the subject readily available at practically every local library.

If Steve and Sue were interested in selling their rugs for a profit, Mrs. Blau pointed out that they would have to be prepared to hold them long-term, at least 10 years. "And, of course, it is axiomatic that the more valuable the rug, the greater its investment potential," Mrs. Blau added.

If you are thinking of buying an Oriental rug or carpet, consider the following caveats: Keep in mind that it is vital to buy only from a reputable source, never from a vendor with a policy of no exchanges. Before arriving at a decision, shop at several established dealers and compare what they have to say. No two dealers will offer exactly the same prices or advice. Above all, feel a genuine rapport with the dealer of your choice. Remember that name does not necessarily determine quality. Rugs by the same name may vary tremendously in quality, beauty and value. Therefore, properly selected, the dealer may be of invaluable assistance to you.

THE NEW VERSATILE FURNITURE

Pieces that can be regrouped or moved from one room to another.

A contemporary seating arrangment: sectionals that will rearrange according to mood or need. Upholstered pieces and furniture by Heritage.

Today the formal living-room arrangement of one sofa and two matching chairs is virtually dead.

Instead, it's the multifunctional living room that has become the norm.

What, exactly, does multifunctional mean? It means no more routine, inflexible room settings. No more stiffly formal rooms that are used only for guests. And no more elegant, but uncomfortable, rooms that say to kids "Look, but don't touch."

American living rooms are now dominated by the type of furnishings that create areas in which people actually live, eat, work, relax — areas that have become the center of almost all of the family's activities.

Yet, while today's very heavily used living room says "multi-

Utility Comes First

That storage space has become a vital necessity in the cramped quarters of most homes is an understatement. Above everything else, consumers demand answers to their "I-need-more-elbow-room" dilemmas and ask that their spatial problems be solved through the scale of furniture and its arrangement.

As a popular remedy for little or no storage space, many designers prescribe wall units that stack horizontally as well as vertically. (Yesterday's wall systems, for example, usually came in one inflexible piece.)

These stackables and bunchables — from a chest-on-chest to a row of bookcases or display cabinets — are only part of the current utilitarian design philosophy. Next to these storage pieces, which can move handily into bedrooms or foyers at will, come modulars and movables.

Modulars are just another name for interchangeable upholstery pieces — the ottomans, armless chairs and corner chairs — that can take on many different configurations. For example, two armless and two corner sectional chairs make up either two loveseats or a 10-foot long sofa. A sectional ottoman can easily be pushed up against its matching armless unit to create a chaise lounge.

Anything with casters counts as a "movable" and, because of this desirable feature, such pieces readily adapt to almost all family activities. A mobile server, for example, can glide from an intimate tête-à-tête dinner into a buffet party for a crowd. Or dining room chairs with casters can easily meet the need for making more room for company.

Styling Considerations

Choosing aesthetically pleasing, well-proportioned furniture is important but, after that, a sense of balancing pieces and creating at least one point of interest in a living area can make the difference between an attractive room and a dull one. Don't interpret balance to mean that every piece of furniture must have an identical twin. One set of matching chairs or tables is probably enough to create symmetry in a room.

Most interior designers agree that furniture can be grouped around three possible focal points: a fireplace, a large window or an important piece of furniture, but there are innumerable variations on them. And furniture can be arranged and rearranged to highlight these coversation centers.

Comfort Needs

Last, but not least, is comfort, an element including not only the physical comfort of individuals but making provisions for adequate traffic patterns and ample surface areas. Family and guests ideally should be able to walk around, not through, seating arrangements without tripping on exposed electrical cords or bumping into furniture. Plenty of table-top space, too, is a must that will help avoid accidents caused by spilled drinks, and such.

Now, when it's time to replace your furniture you can look for pieces that meet today's pace for living — and find them.

By Marilyn Hansen

CHILI CON CARNE

½ cup vegetable oil
2 cups chopped onion
2 cups chopped green pepper
5 lbs. ground beef chuck, lean
4 cans (1 lb., 13 ozs. each) tomatoes, drained
7 cans (1 lb. each) red kidney beans, drained. Reserve liquid
2 tablespoons chili powder
2 tablespoons salt
1 tablespoon cumin seed (optional)
2 teaspoons Tabasco sauce
2 teaspoons sugar
½ cup cornstarch
½ cup cold water
Crisp crackers
Finely chopped onion

1. Heat oil in large saucepot or kettle. Sauté onion and green pepper until tender, about 5 minutes.
2. Add meat and cook until lightly browned, stirring to break meat into small pieces. Add tomatoes, bean liquid, chili powder, salt, cumin, Tabasco sauce and sugar to meat mixture. Stir well. Cook slowly 1 hour over low heat.
3. Add kidney beans, stir lightly and continue to cook 15 minutes longer. Combine cornstarch and cold water in small bowl, stir into chili mixture. Cook until chili boils and thickens, about 10 minutes. Serve with crisp crackers and chopped onions. Recipe may be frozen.

Makes 24 servings

LETTUCE CON QUESO*

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ cup chopped onion
3 large tomatoes, peeled, seeded and chopped
1 bay leaf
2 tablespoons flour
¼ cup milk
2 green chilies, seeded and chopped
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Tabasco sauce
3 cups (¾ lb.) shredded Monterey Jack or mild Cheddar cheese
4 cups shredded iceberg lettuce

Cornbread squares

1. Melt butter in saucepan; add onion, tomatoes and bay leaf. Cook, stirring frequently, until onion is tender. Make a paste of the flour and milk; add to saucepan. Simmer 10 minutes. Remove bay leaf. Add green chilies, salt, Tabasco and 2¾ cups cheese. Stir until cheese melts. To serve, place shredded lettuce over split cornbread squares; top with cheese mixture and remaining shredded cheese.

Makes 4 servings

IF YOU NEED TO BUILD UP YOUR BLOOD DON'T COUNT ON VITAMINS

Iron poor blood is the most widespread nutritional ailment in America today. And taking vitamins can't help, because vitamins don't contain iron.

Take Geritol, every day. Geritol is so rich in iron, each tablet contains more iron than even a pound of calf's liver. Plus vitamins important to your health.

Geritol's iron will actually build your blood back to normal. That's what makes it different from just plain vitamins—and so important to you.

FIST BISCUITS

8 cups biscuit mix
2 cups water
½ teaspoon Tabasco sauce

1. Mix biscuit mix with water and Tabasco pepper sauce, according to package directions for rolled biscuits.
2. After kneading, shape dough into 4 balls of equal size. Divide each ball into 6 pieces.
3. With hands, shape each section into ball. Punch top of each biscuit with clenched fist, so that dough has imprint of fingers.
4. Place biscuits on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in 450°F. oven for 15 to 20 minutes, until golden brown.

Makes 24 large fist biscuits

PEP'RY CORNBREAD

3 packages (10 ozs. each) cornbread mix
3 eggs
1½ cups milk
¼ to 1 teaspoon Tabasco sauce
1 cup chopped red pepper

1. Preheat oven to 400°F. In large bowl, combine cornbread mix, eggs, milk and Tabasco sauce.
2. Beat until well blended; fold in peppers. Turn batter into greased 9" × 13" baking pan. Bake until golden brown, about 20 minutes. Cut into squares.

Makes 12 servings

SANGRIA ROJA

1 gallon Burgundy wine
2 large seedless oranges, sliced
2 lemons, sliced
2 limes, sliced
4 tablespoons sugar
Ice cubes

1. Fill three (2-qt. size) pitchers ⅓ full of ice cubes. Place an equal amount of fruit slices in each pitcher. Sprinkle with an equal amount of sugar.
2. Fill pitchers about ¾ full of wine. With a wooden spoon, pound fruit slices so that the juices are blended thoroughly with the wine and sugar is dissolved. Keep refrigerated until serving time.
3. Just before serving, press fruit slices again, add a few more ice cubes and stir Sangria before pouring.

FRENCH SILK CHOCOLATE PIE

1 cup butter
1½ cups sugar
4 ozs. (4 squares) unsweetened chocolate, melted and cooled
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
4 eggs
1 baked 9" pie shell, cooled
Whipped cream

1. Beat the butter with sugar until well blended. Mixture should be smooth and fluffy. Blend in chocolate and vanilla.
2. Using an electric mixer at medium speed, beat in eggs, one at a time, taking 5 minutes to incorporate each.
3. Turn mixture into pie shell and chill several hours. Garnish with whipped cream before serving. Refrigerate any leftover pie.

Makes 8 servings

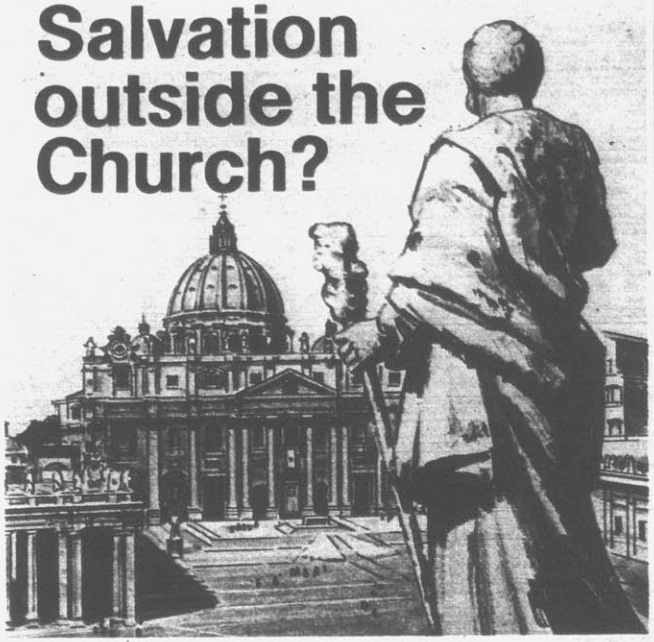
Salvation outside the Church?



There's an old axiom: "Outside the Church, no salvation!" It raises problems and tempers. It takes on all shades of meaning. It sounds like "join up or else!"

The assembled bishops in the Second Vatican Council took a fresh look at the old axiom when they came to make their self-portrait of the Catholic Church in the document: "On the Church." Who belongs to the Church of Christ? Who is outside? These and other questions were asked and answered from the Catholic viewpoint. Also treated were such matters as: In what sense is the Church holy? What is the place of the pope, bishops and laity in the Church? Where do priests, brothers and nuns fit in? What of devotion to the Blessed Virgin and the other saints?

The official text of this document on the Church is now available from many sources. But it makes heavy reading for many people. Hence, we have prepared a simplified version. It is yours for the asking. Send for our free pamphlet, Christ and His Church. No one will call on you.

HOW TO REPORT BAD DEBTS AND AVOID AN IRS STING

By Julian Block

How businesslike are you when loaning money to a relative or friend? And if the loan goes sour? Would you be prepared for Uncle Sam's questions? The tax rules on deductions for bad debts are very strict. So before staking anyone, it's a good idea to know how the Internal Revenue Service looks on such worthless loans.

The IRS says you can deduct a worthless loan if there is no likelihood of recovery in the future. But you cannot take a deduction for an outright gift. That's why the IRS looks closely at debt reductions where the lender and borrower are related and why it may insist on proof that the "loan" was not really a gift.

But there are steps you can take before making a loan that will help in case the IRS questions your write-off. The key is to set up the transaction with the same care you would a business loan.

For a starter, you should ask the borrower to sign a note. And make sure the note spells out the amount borrowed and the dates and amounts of repayments. Charge a realistic rate of interest — say, the going rate in a savings bank. Arrange for a witness to sign the note, if the law in your state requires it.

If this sounds like a rough way to deal with a friend or relative, remember that it is the only way if you want to deduct a bad debt later. The IRS routinely throws out deductions for handshake deals.

If you want to deduct the loss after the loan is past due, remember that the IRS will want good evidence that the loan is really worthless and will remain so in the future. That means you must take reasonable steps to collect it.

Say you loan money to your uncle for another of his "can't miss deals" and you never bother to press him for repayment. The IRS won't go along with a bad-debt deduction several years later when he becomes bankrupt. The fact that you could have collected it at an earlier date while he was financially solvent, yet made no effort to do so, is strong evidence that the transaction was really a gift.

On the other hand, the IRS does not require you to hound a debtor into court provided you can show that a judgment, if obtained, would be uncollectible. But you should at least send him a letter asking for repayment.

The rules for deducting a loss on a personal loan are the same as the rules for a short-term capital loss. So for the year the loan becomes uncollectible, you can use the loss to offset any capital gains and then use up to $3,000 of the remaining loss to offset "ordinary" income from, say, your salary. Any unused loss can then be carried forward and claimed in the same way on your returns for later years until the loss is used up.

Detailed information is contained in "Tax Information on Deductions for Bad Debts" (Publication 548) or "Your Federal Income Tax" (Publication 17), both free for the asking from IRS offices. FW

TO THE CONSUMER: CAUTION! Don't embarrass your dealer by asking him to redeem coupons without making the required purchase. He must redeem coupons properly to get his money back. REMEMBER, coupons are good only on the brands called for. Any other use constitutes fraud.
TO THE DEALER: You are authorized to act as our agent for the redemption of this coupon. We will reimburse you for the face value of this coupon, or, if coupon calls for free merchandise, we will reimburse you for such free goods, plus 5¢ for handling, provided that you and the consumer have complied with the terms of our coupon offer. By submitting this coupon for reimbursement you represent that you redeemed it pursuant to these terms. Any failure to enforce these terms shall not be deemed a waiver of any of the conditions. TERMS OF COUPON OFFER: This coupon must be redeemed by a consumer at the time of purchase of the brand size indicated with the face value of the coupon being deducted from the dealer's retail selling price. This coupon is non-assignable, and may not be reproduced. The consumer must pay any sales tax involved. Invoices proving purchase of sufficient stock of our brands to cover coupons presented must be shown upon request and failure to do so may, at our option, void all coupons submitted for reimbursement for which no proof of products purchased is shown. Properly redeemed coupons will be accepted for reimbursement if identified by the retail distributor of our merchandise who redeemed them in connection with sales to the consumer, or the supplier of the products on which the coupons have been redeemed who has by written agreement with Procter & Gamble agreed to accept financial responsibility, or to a holder of our Certificate of Authority acting for them. COUPONS SHOULD BE SHIPPED, AT OUR EXPENSE, TO: PROCTER & GAMBLE, 2150 SUNNYBROOK DRIVE, CINCINNATI, OHIO 45237. Cash redemption value 1/20 of 1¢.

WHAT IN THE WORLD

Reducing Lunchroom Waste

Elementary-school students at the Avenue School in Ventura, Calif., no longer eat and run — their recess and lunch periods have been reversed to help reduce food waste.

School principal Tom Smith says the simple schedule change of having the children play first and then eat their lunches during the noontime break has had an amazing effect.

Now, instead of cramming their food into their mouths as fast as possible and throwing some out in their rush to get to the playground, Smith says the students eat in a more relaxed atmosphere. And they also eat more because of the exercise.

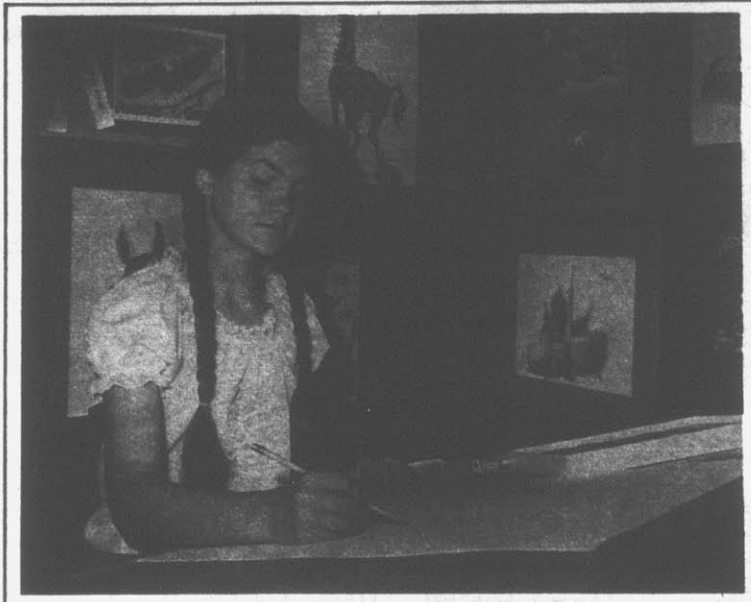
Smith adds that the schedule switch has had one unexpected bonus — improved school discipline: "Previously, some youngsters would be fighting when they returned to class because they were upset over playground arguments. Now they return in a relaxed mood."

The Pain Of Divorce

Divorce is more often a traumatic experience for women than men according to a recent study conducted by the Family Research Institute at Brigham Young University. "Divorce brings an economic crisis for the majority of women, even though they may receive alimony or child support," says Dr. Stan Albrecht, the BYU assoc. prof. of sociology who conducted the study. "It's often just not enough for the woman and her children to get by on."

"Social adjustment is harder for the woman, too," Albrecht continues. "She is usually left with the kids and doesn't fit in well with others socially. For a man, though, social participation usually accelerates."

Several factors contribute to the trauma involved in divorce, says Albrecht, often including the legal experience itself. But he says that the most common factor "is simply a feeling of personal failure."



Designing Woman

Thirteen-year-old Karen Hurd has a quetzal to thank for an $8,000 windfall. That's because the Ohio teenager's collage painting of this Guatemalan bird won her first prize in a contest judged by the Metropolitan Museum of New York.

Karen is no newcomer to the winner's circle. When she was 6, she won first prize in her hometown of Springfield, Ohio, for decorating a trash can in a Keep America Beautiful Contest and has had the winning touch ever since.

Despite her artistic successes, Karen doesn't know whether she'd like to pursue art as a career. Her other interests include theater and animals — she currently takes care of 1 dog, 3 cats, 9 gerbils, 1 bird and 1 raccoon. For now, Karen says she's keeping her options open — and entering more art contests.

Halloween Safety Hints

You can take the "trick" out of trick-or-treat time by following these simple Halloween safety suggestions.

- Halloween costumes should be light in color, short enough to prevent tripping and flame retardant. For greater visibility in dusk or darkness, decorate the costumes with reflective tape.
- Children should wear makeup or masks that do not obscure vision. Hats should be securely tied so they will not slip off.
- Provide children with a light-colored bag or sack. For added safety, attach a reflectorized design on both sides of the trick-or-treat bag.
- Pumpkins should be lighted with a flashlight, not a candle.
- Halloween visits should be confined to the neighborhood and made during the afternoon and early-evening hours. Young children should be accompanied by parents, older brothers and sisters or other responsible adults.
- Advise children to bring home their treats before eating. To make sure treats have not been tampered with, discard those that have not been commercially wrapped or sealed.
- If you want to welcome treaters, light your porch or exterior lights as a sign of hospitality. Children should call only at homes with lights on.

Quick Takes

Firefighters face a new occupational hazard — hearing loss. In addition to the familiar hazards of fire, exposure to toxic gases and heat stress, researchers at the Univ. of Calif. at Irvine discovered that firemen are exposed to very high levels of noise, which may be responsible for a permanent hearing loss. The noise results from a combination of motors, siren, air-horn and radio speakers.

General practitioners are still the most popular type of doctor in the country says a report by the National Center for Health Statistics. According to the center's latest figures, for every 100 persons, 113 visits were made in a year to general practitioners compared with 30 to internists, 23 to obstetricians and gynecologists, 22 to pediatricians and 7 to psychiatrists.

Women are flying high these days according to a study by a major airline. The study reports that 58% of the total business travelers surveyed were women.

Babies of vegetarian mothers may suffer from a severe and potentially fatal nutritional deficiency report physicians at the Univ. of Calif. at San Diego School of Medicine. The researchers say that the babies can develop a coma and die as a result of a maternal diet deficient in vitamin B-12. To prevent the disorder, the infants' diets should be supplemented with the needed vitamin or the mothers should take a supplement.

IF YOU CAN USE

up to $1,800.00 A MONTH

as much as $60.00 a day both IN & OUT of the hospital ...when a covered sickness or accident keeps you from working, MAIL THE POSTAGE-PAID REPLY CARD NOW for Free Book plus full facts.

Here is money you can use for every kind of bill. "Plus" funds over and above any benefits you receive for hospital-surgical-medical bills, paid to you both in and out of the hospital.

What's more, stay well and the premiums you invest in this plan come back to you 100% when your policy matures—guaranteed.

But the important thing is protection, both IN and OUT of the hospital. With this plan, the family income can be protected during and after hospitalization ... protected even if you never go to the hospital. And, in addition, if you never get sick, never get hurt, every cent you pay in premiums will be refunded when your policy matures at age 65.

Mutual of Omaha believes this premium refund feature is an important contribution to containing the costs of health care. Use your health care coverage wisely and still get the necessary protection you must have. When you do use your coverage, and benefits total less than you've paid in at age 65, you then collect the difference. If you've never received benefits, you get a 100% refund ... every penny you've paid in.

As a breadwinner, man or woman, married or single, you can select the amount you qualify for (from $100.00 to $1,800.00 a month ... up to $60.00 a day) to help replace your paycheeks when a covered sickness or accident keeps you from working. These benefits are payable over and above any benefit you receive for hospital and medical bills. They are yours to spend as you please for any purpose you choose ... yours to use for every kind of bill.

You deserve to know all the facts about the disability income plan available in your state that your work, health, income, etc., now qualify you for. Costs, for example, exclusions, rat[illegible] limitat[illegible] terms for continuing the policy in force. Money back plans are available through age 49. Other disability income plans are available through age 69.

"Guard It Wisely"

YOUR OWN PROUD FAMILY NAME!

YOU GOT IT FROM YOUR FATHER,
IT WAS ALL HE HAD TO GIVE.
SO IT'S YOURS TO USE AND CHERISH,
FOR AS LONG AS YOU MAY LIVE.
IF YOU LOSE THE WATCH HE GAVE YOU,
IT CAN ALWAYS BE REPLACED.
BUT A BLACK MARK ON YOUR NAME, SON,
CAN NEVER BE ERASED.
IT WAS CLEAN THE DAY YOU TOOK IT,
AND A WORTHY NAME TO BEAR.
WHEN HE GOT IT FROM HIS FATHER,
THERE WAS NO DISHONOR THERE.
SO MAKE SURE YOU GUARD IT WISELY,
AFTER ALL IS SAID AND DONE.
YOU'LL BE GLAD THE NAME IS SPOTLESS,
WHEN YOU GIVE IT TO YOUR SON.

Handsome Plaque has your family name engraved above an inspirational verse. Beautifully inscribed on rich antique-goldtone plate—then mounted on 8½" x 4½" walnut finish hardwood plaque . . . it's truly a meaningful gift for a worthy son! Twin hanging rings. Specify family name.

Our Story: TO PRINCE ARN AND LYDIA THE WORLD IS A BEAUTIFUL WHITE HEAVEN MADE FOR LOVERS TO WANDER IN. KING AGUAR OFTEN JOINS THEM ON A HUNT, FOR HE WISHES TO LEARN MORE OF THE MAID WHO MIGHT BECOME ONE OF THE ROYAL FAMILY.

WHEN THE HOUNDS BRING A FIERCE BOAR TO BAY· SHE HOLDS HER SPEAR STEADY AND FACES THE CHARGE LIKE A VETERAN HUNTER.

NOW THERE IS MUSIC AND DANCING IN VIKINGSHOLM AS THE KING INVITES THE SONS AND DAUGHTERS OF HIS VIKING CAPTAINS TO MAKE MERRY. BUT HIS EYES ARE EVER ON LYDIA, BEAUTIFUL, LITHE AND FULL OF LAUGHTER, BUT...PRINCE ARN IS SECOND IN LINE FOR THE CROWN OF THULE, AND IN THESE DAYS IT MIGHT BE NEXT YEAR OR EVEN NEXT MONTH!
AND HE THINKS OF HIS QUEEN FOR WHOM HE HAD WON THULE AND QUEEN ALETA, EVERY INCH A QUEEN! WOULD LYDIA MAKE A QUEEN?

HONEY, CAN I ASK YOU A QUESTION?

YEP

WHO WOULD YOU HAVE MARRIED IF YOU HADN'T MARRIED ME?

BOY, THAT'S A TOUGH ONE!

I GUESS HARRIET SPANGLES

OH, BOO-HOO··· OF ALL THE PEOPLE!! BOO-HOO-HOO·· HARRIET SPANGLES··· BOO-HOO-HOO

MY NEXT MOVE COULD BE CRUCIAL

HONEY, I WOULDN'T HAVE MARRIED HARRIET SPANGLES! I JUST WANTED TO SEE WHAT YOU'D SAY

YOU'RE THE ONLY WOMAN IN THE WORLD I COULD'VE LOVED AND MARRIED

AS PRESIDENT BENN OF MAUMEE STRIDES OUT ON THE LITTER-FILLED GRIDIRON — DETERMINED TO FORFEIT THE GAME TO SCIOTO STATE .....

— HE IS HIT ON THE HEAD BY A BIG BOTTLE THROWN FROM THE MAUMEE STANDS

THERE IS SUDDEN, COMPLETE SILENCE — THEN A RUSH TO THE SIDE OF THE STRICKEN MAN!

DR. BENN IS WHISKED AWAY IN THE ALWAYS-AVAILABLE AMBULANCE AND THE VICE-PRESIDENT OF MAUMEE CONSULTS WITH THE REFEREE...

MAUMEE OFFICIALS AGREE THAT THIS CONTEST SHOULD CONTINUE

AS THAT GREAT FOOTBALL FAN, PRESIDENT BENN, WOULD WISH! TOSS THE COIN!

NO! NO! IT-IT WAS SUPPOSED TO BE FORFEITED!

LEMME OUTA HERE!!

NO WHISTLE! — HOLD THE KICKOFF!

WE HAVE UNIVERSITY HOSPITAL ON THE PHONE! PRESIDENT BENN HAS REGAINED CONSCIOUSNESS!

HE SAYS TO TELL YOU THAT ANYONE WITH AN AIM LIKE THAT — TO HIT THE PRESIDENT AT 100 YARDS — SHOULD COME OUT FOR THE BASEBALL TEAM!

DOCTOR BENN! — SAY IT AGAIN — BENN! BENN! BENN!

NOT ANOTHER THING IS THROWN FROM THE STANDS — AND MAUMEE BEATS SCIOTO STATE BY 20 POINTS — AS DOWN THE BACK STREETS OF THE CAMPUS A FRIGHTENED KIDDO TRIES TO REACH THE INTER-CITY BUS STOP.... BUT ALREADY A LONG, BLACK LIMOUSINE HAS ARRIVED ON THE SCENE
