To Plead For Arab Oil Price Restraint

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal is heading for the Middle East, where he is expected to appeal to oil-exporting nations to keep price increases next year to a minimum.

The Carter administration hopes its new measures to support the dollar and control inflation will convince oil-exporting nations to be moderate in their price demands.

U.S. officials fear a big increase in the price of oil could add to inflationary pressures and also increase the risk of a new recession.

The administration already is resigned to an increase in the world price of oil of at least 5 percent, and one official said Monday that a 10 percent increase would not be surprising.

"People are now talking about 10 percent as being more likely," Van Doorn Ooms, assistant director of the Office of Management and Budget for economic policy, told reporters.

An increase of 10 percent, $1.27 on top of the current price of $12.70 per barrel, could bring an increase in gasoline and home heating oil prices of between 1 cent and 2 cents per gallon.

Meanwhile, the Agriculture Department said today consumers can expect retail food prices to rise at least 6 percent next year and maybe by as much as 10 percent if farmers get bad weather and inflation causes their production costs to rise more than expected. Retail food costs have been rising this year at a rate of about 10 percent.

Blumenthal, who leaves Thursday, will spend three days in Saudi Arabia, from Friday to Sunday, and also will visit Iran, Kuwait and Abu Dhabi, three other key oil-exporting nations. The trip will take place just a few weeks before members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries meet in Abu Dhabi in mid-December to set prices for 1979.

There were these economic developments Monday:

—The stock market had a bad day in response to a variety of adverse economic news, with the Dow Jones industrial average giving up 15 points to close at 792.01.

—The dollar was little changed against other major currencies, gaining slightly in value against the Japanese yen and German mark, while losing slightly against the Swiss franc.

—Some major banks increased their prime lending rate again — from 10.75 percent to 11 percent. The increase reflects the steady upward rise in interest rates that has resulted from government efforts to slow inflation.

—Director Barry Bosworth of the Council on Wage an Price Stability said the least painful way to control inflation may be to tolerate a slow-down in the economy next year.

—Transportation Secetary Brock Adams said an 8.3 percent rate increase sought by the nation's railroads is too high, and revealed the administration's will seek an end to economic regulation of the railroad and trucking industries.

—The Commerce Department said retail sales declined 0.5 percent in October, reflecting sluggish consumer spending during the month.

—The nation's trade deficit could decline to $25 billion next year from the record $35 billion deficit this year, the result of a better all-around economic performance in the industrial world, said Assistant Treasury Secretary C. Fred Bergsten.

—U.S. Steel President David M. Roderick said in Cleveland his firm should be able to live within President Carter's voluntary pricing guidelines if the corporation's suppliers do the same. "Fifty percent of our costs come from things purchased from others," said Roderick. "If they all stay down, we will have a chance."

Iranian Oil Workers End Strike; Tehran Gunfire

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iranian oil workers ended their strike against Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi today, but troops opened fire on two demonstrations against the monarch, killing at least three persons and wounding 19, the official Pars news agency reported.

The casualties were reported in Sonqor, west of Tehran, where Pars said demonstrators set fire to the provincial governor's office and his home. Troops also opened fire to disperse demonstrators in the Tehran bazaar, but there was no immediate report of casualties.

The government oil company announced that its 37,000 workers were flocking back to their jobs after a two-week walkout that cut production more than half, cost the treasury an estimated $750 million in oil revenues and bolstered the shah's foes. The end of the strike increased belief that the ruler had weathered the recent serious challenge to his 37-year reign.

The strike leaders agreed to call off the walkout after meeting with officials of the state oil monopoly, the National Iranian Oil Co., company spokesman Nezammuddin Mezayeni said.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Some 37,000 striking oil workers were reported flocking back to Iran's oilfield and refineries today, ending a two-week walkout that cut production more than half, cost the treasury an estimated $750 million in oil revenues and bolstered the foes of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

The strike leaders agreed to call off the walkout after meeting with officials of the state oil monopoly, the National Iranian Oil Co., company spokesman Nezammuddin Mezayeni said. The end of the strike bolstered a belief that the shah had weathered the recent serious challenge to his 37-year reign.

The strikers' committee claimed in a statement that "the shah has pledged to meet our political demands," but there was no confirmation of this. The demands included an end to martial law, declared Sept. 8 amid nationwide turmoil; restoration of civilian government and the release of all political prisoners.

The ruler approved a 22.5 percent pay increase for the workers last week.

The oil company reported strikers thronging back to work all over the southwestern Kuzestan oil fields and at the giant refinery complex at Abadan, on the Persian Gulf.

"We expect a 100 percent turnout," Mezayeni said.

He said production at Abadan, the world's biggest refinery, should return to the prestrike level of 500,000 barrels a day by midnight. But he said it would take five or six days for production of crude from the oil fields to be brought up to the normal 6 million barrels a day from production Monday of 2.7 million barrels. Well-head output was cut back during the strike and has to be phased back slowly to avoid damaging equipment.

Iran is the world's second biggest exporter of oil, after Saudi Arabia. Half a million barrels a day is used domestically, and the rest is exported, including 900,000 barrels to the United States.

As the workers streamed back, George Link, a key American oil executive, narrowly escaped an attempt to blow him up. A bomb planted in his car exploded as Link, the American director of Oil Services Co., was getting into the vehicle in Ahwaz, in the heart of the southwest oil fields, officials reported. The driver was seriously injured.

Oil Services Co. operates the oil fields on contract for the national oil company. It is a consortium composed of Exxon, British Petroleum, Royal Dutch Shell, the French petroleum company and seven smaller U.S. firms.

Scores of Americans have received death threats in the past two weeks of heightened opposition to the shah's rule and foreign support of his government. About 250 U.S. nationals, most of them women and children, left Ahwaz, but most Americans interviewed said they would ignore the threats.

SHOW OPENED TODAY — The doors of the third annual Tobacco Farmer Show swung open at 9 a.m. Tuesday with five and a half acres of agricultural displays. Approximately 35-40,000 persons were expected to attend the first of the three-day show, according to Jim Swindell, manager of the show. (Reflector photo by Tommy Forrest)

Tobacco Show Opens At Warehouse; Big Display

The third annual Tobacco Farmer Show opened this morning at Farmers Warehouse, featuring five and a half acres of the latest farm equipment displays.

According to Jim Swindell, manager of the show, approximately 198 contracts were signed with businesses for exhibition in the show.

"Almost five and a half million dollars of equipment is represented at this show," Swindell stated. "We're expecting about 35-40,000 people today."

Funnyman Jerry Clower was scheduled to appear at the show at 1:30 p.m., returning to Greenville for the third time. The exhibition closes at 5 p.m. to re-open Wednesday and Thursday at 9 a.m.

Swindell said that businesses were "fairly pleased" with the condition of the show as exhibitors prepared for the crowds this morning.

"It's a good compliment (to the show) when exhibitors come and say 'please can you fit me in?'," said Swindell. Exhibitors began setting up the displays last Thursday.

GET RICH QUICK

I have sent away and received information about making extra money in my spare time addressing envelopes and inserting circulars into them. They require a $12 membership fee. Before I send in the fee I would like to make sure this is a legitimate business and not just a gimmick to get people's money. AB

You are taking a chance. Nancy L. Leonard, consumer protection specialist with the state Attorney General's office, says "Our primary concern with envelope stuffing schemes is that their initial advertisements involve misrepresentation. The initial contact implies the buyer will be stuffing envelopes for big businesses. In fact, no money is paid for merely addressing and mailing the circulars."

Ms. Leonard said "work at home schemes" have one thing in common: they require that you buy something before you can begin work. "Most work at home schemes usually require that you send anywhere from $7 to $15 in order to receive instructions or 'success kits'," she said. The kits generally consist of instructions similar to the following:

— You are given the chance to buy unstamped postcards which offer some product or service. You mail the cards to people you pick, and if any of the cards are filled in with an order you receive the commission. But your expenses in mailing out the cards will usually exceed the amount made on commission.

— For the cost of the application fee, you are given instructions on how to set up your own mail order business, or you can become a commissioned mailer for the company. The booklet will tell you how to place ads in magazines and newspapers, and these ads are similar to the ad you answered. The company merely gives you the opportunity to purchase the right to reproduce and resale the same opportunity to others.

The consumer specialist said that "in most cases you are not going to make any money" because of expenses in purchasing envelopes and stamps, an application fee, reproduction of the materials and the cost of advertising.

Promotion For Two Firemen

Capt. ELMO McKINNEY

LT. RAYMOND CARNEY

Acting Greenville Fire Chief Jenness Allen today announced the promotion of two Greenville firemen — Lt. Elmo McKinney to the rank of captain, and Firefighter Raymond Carney to the rank of lieutenant.

McKinney joined the Greenville Fire Department in March 1965 after working for 14 years with the Greenville Coca-Cola Bottling Company. He was promoted to the rank of lieutenant in November 1969.

Since joining the department, McKinney has attended a variety of fire-related schools on such subjects as pumps, sprinkler systems, LP gas, compressed gas, arson, grain elevators, pre-fire planning, management development, and first aid.

A Greenville native, McKinney graduated from Venice-Nokonis High School in Florida in 1950.

Carney, a 1963 graduate of Bethel Union, served in the U.S. Army from 1966 to 1970. He joined the fire department here in March, 1970.

Carney has attended such fire-related schools as basic firefighting, pumps, compressed and LP gas, pre-fire planning, aircraft rescue, first aid, and diesel locomotive and train tank car fire schools.

Rename Laughinghouse Commission Chairman

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Billy Laughinghouse, veteran member and longtime chairman of the Redevelopment Commission, was re-elected to another tenure as head of the board Monday night.

Laughinghouse was renamed chairman during the Commission's annual elections meeting, held prior to the regular November meeting.

A Commission member since April of 1967 when he was named to fill an unexpired term, Laughinghouse has chaired the five-member board since April of 1968.

David Gordon was named by the commissioners to serve as vice chairman for the coming year, while Joe Laney, the executive director, was reappointed secretary-treasurer.

Gordon succeeds Jack Whichard as vice chairman. Whichard, who completed the maximum of two successive five-year terms on the Commission, has left the board and Robert S. Griffin has been named by the City Council to serve a five-year tenure.

Griffin is plant manager of the Procter & Gamble facility here, having been named manager in May of 1976. Griffin assumed his new duties here in June of 1976, transferring to Greenville from P&G's Jackson, Tenn. plant where he served as assistant plant manager.

A Texas native, he is a 1958 graduate of Rice University with a B.S. degree in chemical engineering. He and his wife, Ann, have three children.

Unemployment Is Low

The Unemployment rate in Pitt County was the lowest of the year in September of 1978 with a 3.2 percent figure, according to the Employment Security Commission.

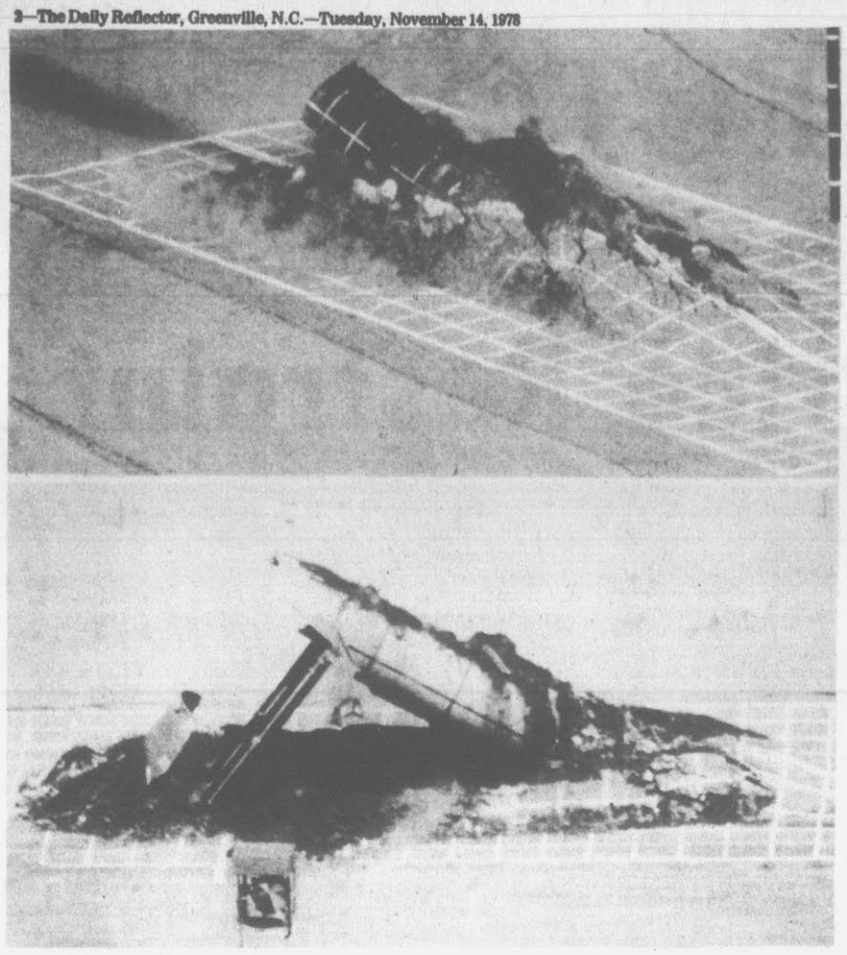
A total of 44,630 out of 46,120 persons in the civilian labor force in Pitt County were employed during September. Unemployed persons totaled 1,490 in the county in September.

According to the Employment Security Commission, total employment in the county increased from July to September, gaining 1,840 people.

The tobacco processing industry added 270 workers, with an increase of 480 persons in the trade industry, mainly the result of tobacco selling.

The government sector, which is the largest employing unit in Pitt County, gained 1,450 persons due to school personnel returning to work.

According to the Commission, employment is expected to remain stable in the majority of county industries in the upcoming months. Those who were employed in seasonal and tobacco processing industries will be out of work, however, and thus will increase the unemployment number.



PROPOSED MISSILE STORAGE — The U.S. Air Force recently tested one method of storage for the proposed intercontinental ballastic missile. In less that one minute the Boeing Aerospace Co. prototype breakout mechanism punched through ten inches of concrete and five feet of dirt, proving the buried trench concept of missile protection is feasible. The test took place at Luke Air Force Base, near Yuma. (AP Laserphoto)

Bulk Trash Bins Called 'Traps'

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly half the nation's bulk trash bins are unstable traps that have crushed three children to death since they were declared illegal last summer, a federal agency says.

The death toll over the past seven years: at least 21 children.

Cost to make them safe: about $25 to $75 each.

Armed with those facts from a report by the Consumer Product Safety Commission, government investigators said today they will be tramping through alleys and parking lots looking for illegal trash bins in a crackdown on collection firms still using them.

A nationwide survey by the commission found that about 40 percent of the country's half-million refuse bins "appear to be dangerously unstable and illegally in use."

The problem is especially acute in innercity neighborhoods, where many children swing from the handles of trash bins while playing.

The June 13 ban covers certain types of bins with slanted sides that can allow the center of gravity to shift under the weight of a child and possibly pin him or her underneath.

As opposed to the truck-sized bins often used around demolition or construction sites, the questionable containers are smaller types often found around apartment parking lots or small businesses.

Sometimes mounted on rollers, they normally range from waist-high to chest-high to an adult and frequently are no more than four feet to eight feet long and about half that deep.

The federal ban prohibits manufacture, sale, rental or other distribution in commerce of unstable bins having a volume of at least one cubic yard.

The commission said its investigators so far have found 2,700 unstable bins in the San Francisco area, 1,250 in Minneapolis and 1,000 in Miami. Inspections in the Seattle, Chicago, New York, Cleveland, Philadelphia, Dallas and Denver areas also have found violations and additional inspections are planned in other areas, officials said.

"Legal action is planned," a commission source said. Violators could be fined up to $2,000 per unsafe bin and further violation could lead to criminal penalties up to $50,000 and one year in jail, the commission said.

The commission says it knows of 21 deaths since 1971 from broken necks, crushed skulls and crushed chests as a result of tipsy trash bins.

The three children the commission says were killed in trash bin accidents during the five months since the ban went into effect ranged in age from 5 to 8 and lived in Georgia, New Jersey and Ohio.

Trash collection firms and manufacturers had a one-year warning before the ban went into effect.

Most manufacturers now are making refuse bins that will not tip over, but many collection firms continue to use old bins that are unstable, the commission said.

The commission said it "urges trash collection firms to fix any unstable bins to eliminate safety problems before more children are killed or injured."

It also alerted parents to the danger and asked them to tell their children to keep away from the containers.

Construction Begins On Nichols Store Addition

Construction has begun on a 21,000 square foot addition to the Nichols Discount City department store on Greenville Boulevard.

Store manager Goerge Martin said that the new section will house a home improvement center featuring building materials and items aimed at the "do-it-yourself" customer who plans to add to a home or remodel.

Martin explained that Nichols hopes to open the new center, which will give the facility an overall area of 118,000 square feet, around March 1.

The addition is going up on the east end of the store with plans calling for the east wall to be removed after the first of the year. The front entrance will remain the same, he said, and customers entering the store will turn left into the new section.

According to the store manager, Nichols plans to stock the home improvement center with items ranging from paneling, plumbing accessories, and cabinets, to paint, carpet, floor tile, wall coverings, guttering, fire place accessories and stoves.

He said that the lamp department will be expanded and moved into the new section and some other items will be added and departments expanded to meet the home center needs.

As a result of the relocation of the lamp and hardware areas, Martin reported, Nichols will expand the sporting goods section/and domestics area in the main part of the store and possibly expand the toy department and automotive section.

Cost of the new addition is expected to be some $360,000, it was pointed out.

All of the existing stores in the Nichols chain will be adding home improvement centers in the future, Martin noted.

NoComment On Divorce

WASHINGTON (AP) — Neither White House officials nor relatives are saying whether President Carter's son Chip and his wife Caron are planning a divorce. But the couple has separated.

"I don't know if it's a divorce or legal separation or what," Rosalynn Carter's press secretary, Mary Hoyt, said Monday in announcing the separation.

She said Caron Carter and the couple's 20-month-old son, James Earl Carter IV, have returned to Georgia. Chip, 28, will continue to live in the White House and work at the Democratic National Committee.

The statement announcing the split added that the young couple "know that their friends respect their decision to make no further public comment."

In Hawinsville, Ga., Caron Carter's mother said, "We are making no comments. We just feel that is best."

The couple have been married for five years, and rumors about marital difficulties had circulated for months. Chip has often gone to Washington nightspots with friends but without Caron. His wife has attended White House receptions alone.

The two met in 1970 while both were working in Jimmy Carter's gubernatorial campaign. They married three years later.

Series Of 5 Collisions Reported Here Monday

An estimated $4,775 property damage resulted from a series of five traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported Edward Matthew Carter of 1505 Mills St. was injured when the bicycle he was riding collided with a car driven by Lilla Schroder Godwin of Route 1, Ahoskie, about 12:15 p.m. on Greene Street, a quarter mile South of the Moore Street intersection.

Carter was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries, according to police, who estimated damage at $100 to the bicycle and $75 to the car.

Carol B. Gordon of 222 Circle Dr. was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of a 3:20 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Charles Street and Redbanks Road.

Investigators reported the Gordon car collided with an auto driven by Paul R. McKune of Oak Park, Ill. causing an estimated $1,000 damage to the Gordon car and $600 damage to the McKune auto.

A truck driven by Dalton Dupree Bright of 2812 Jackson Dr. and a car operated by Jake Carl Adams of Route 7, Greenville, collided about 2:15 p.m. on Greenville Boulevard, 120 feet East of the 14th Street intersection, resulting in an estimated $400 damage to the Bright truck and $900 damage to the Adams car.

Edward Leroy Hackett of 207 Lewis St. was charged with following too close following investigation of an 4:35 p.m. collision at the intersection of Third Street and Memorial Drive.

Investigators reported the Hackett car collided with an auto driven by Lurether Taylor Newton of 112 Tyson St., causing an estimated $700 damage to the Hackett car and $200 damage to the Newton car.

A 3 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Elm Street involved cars driven by Christopher Eric Koonce of 400 South Library St., and John Thomas Woodley Jr. of Route 8, Greenville.

Damage was estimated at $500 to the Koonce car and $300 to the Woodley vehicle.

ACC-SGA President Missing Since Nov. 6

WILSON — Police Department officials said this morning that they are looking for the president of the Atlantic Christian College Student Government Association, who has been missing since November 6.

Officers said Donald Ray Berry, 20, of Rocky Mount, was reported missing at 9:15 a.m. Friday. He was last seen by his roommate in Hackney Hall of the ACC campus about 9:15 p.m. November 6.

Investigators reported Berry had no vehicle and very little money. Berry's roommate said he left the dormitory room on the night of November 6, and when he returned, Berry was gone.

Wilson police officials said Berry had been dating an East Carolina University student, but noted that the girl does not know where Berry is.

Berry is six feet tall, weighs 135 pounds and is of slender build. He has black hair, brown eyes and wears glasses.

When last seen, Berry was wearing faded bluejeans, a red and white stripped shirt, a fraternity jersey, and blue windbreaker.

Investigators said persons having information as to the location of Berry, an ACC senior, are requested to contact the Wilson Police Department.

Separate Plans On Car Defects

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's two biggest automakers have announced separate plans to repair defects found on recent models.

General Motors and one of its suppliers say water leaks that may occur from hatch roofs on some 100,000 1975-78 Buicks, Oldsmobiles and Pontiacs will be corrected.

The repair program, which follows a settlement reached last week with New York state officials, covers models in which lift-off hatch roofs were installed as original equipment by Hurst Performance Inc.

The models are 1975-77 Buick Century Custom Coupes and Regal Coupes, 1975-77 Oldsmobile Cutlasses, 1976-78 Pontiac Firebirds and 1976-77 Buick Gran Prix.

GM and Hurst said all owners who ordered the hatch roofs will be contacted within the next 30 days to see whether their vehicles leak. Where such problems exist, GM will inspect the cars and, where necessary, install new parts to stop the leaks.

Ford, the number-two carmaker, is recalling some 750 1979 model Rancheros to replace wheels that do not meet federal truck-rim labeling requirements.

Ford also said Monday that some 900 1979 Econoline vans and Club wagon which might have damaged seat belts are being recalled.

The Econolines and Club wagons all are equipped with optional reclining seat beds whose pivoting mechanisms may fray or cut seat belts if the seats are lowered while the belts are still buckled, Ford said.

Registering For Youth Crafts

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Dept. is continuing registration in crafts for youths ages 10-14. Classes are from 7 to 9 on Wednesday nights, and start Wed., Nov. 15.

Charge for the seven week session is $7. A minimum of four people is necessary for the class to be held. A variety of Christmas and seasonal crafts are planned. All classes are held at the Administration Building, 2000 Cedar Lane, Jaycee Park.

For further information and pre-registration call 752-4137, ext. 262.

New Director Of SGA Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigative lawyer from the Securities and Exchange Commission has been named to take over the General Services Administration's internal probe of allegedly widespread fraud.

A GSA spokesman said Monday that Irwin M. Borowski, 43, an associate director of the SEC's enforcement division, will take over the duties of Vincent Alto, who is resigning. Official announcement of Borowski's appointment is due today.

Disruptions In Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Scattered disruptions were reported in Pennsylvania in connection with a nationwide steel haulers strike, but the protest appeared to be less effective elsewhere.

The action by the Pittsburgh-based Fraternal Association of Steel Haulers entered its fourth day today. It is opposed vigorously by the Teamsters union.

In one of a dozen rock-throwing incidents, two large rocks smashed through the windows of a rig hauling pet food at an overpass along Interstate 90 near Erie, Pa., state police said.

Elsewhere, Pennsylvania state police also reported that two trucks were struck by bullets. No injuries were reported.

FASH's owner-operators began the job action Friday, demanding freedom from Teamsters union representation, higher rates and unification of a morass of state highway regulations.

An estimated 100 pickets turned back a convoy of tractor-trailers early Monday at U.S. Steel's Fairless Works near Philadelphia.

Picks Up Litter During Walks

NORTH COLLEGE HILL, Ohio (AP) — Jessie Frantz calls litter "paper weeds," and she's on a one-woman campaign to clean up her eighborhood.

Twice a day, the 60-year-old Mrs. Frantz walks a nine-block area in this Cincinnati suburb with her dog. While her 11year-old Boston terrier gets his exercise, Mrs. Frantz gets the litter.

"He's getting older and older," she said of the dog. "That gives me plenty of time to pick up things."

Every bottle, can, and discarded bit of paper winds up in Mrs. Franz' bag. "I even pick up cigarette butts sometimes," she says.

And she isn't bothered by young people who call her "the lady and her beer" or the neighbors who says it's not her job.

"It detracts from the neighborhood all over," she said.

Break-Ins, Vandalism In County Investigated

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department is investigating a series of break-ins and vandalism incidents reported Sunday and Monday nights.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that investigations are incomplete regarding break-ins at Pace Academy and Temple Free Will Baptist Church, both located on State Road 1708, Monday night.

He said that approximately $700 in property damage occurred at Pace as a result of four vending machines in the school gymnasium being entered. The principal's office at Pace was also entered but no damage was reported.

At Temple, no property was reported missing in the preliminary investigation, he said.

A third incident, reported at Ayden-Grifton High School last night, resulted in $900 in property damage. The sheriff said that glass doors were broken out in nine classrooms and the school concession stand was also entered.

Some 52 sheets of plywood and 150 pounds of nails were reported stolen from a construction site on State Road 1708 across from Temple Church last night, Sheriff Tyson reported.

In another incident, a mobile home owned by Mildred Peterson at 111 Charlie's Lane in Colonial Trailer Park was reported entered and an undetermined amount of money taken.

A break-in at the home of the Rev. Danny Nelson on Highway 33 near the Grimesland city limits Sunday night resulted in the theft of a rifle and two shotguns, the sheriff reported. He noted that details of the incident are incomplete.

Another Year For Troop 124

Boy Scout Troop 124, sponsored by Oakmont Baptist Church, has begun another year of operations, according to Scoutmaster Richard Cook.

Cook invited any boy from 11 to 18 years of age who would like to join the troop activities to contact him at 752-0501 or attend a troop meeting on Wednesday night, 7:30 p.m., at Oakmont Baptist Church.

He said that plans are being made for a full year of camping and scouting events for troop members.

Claim Millions In Illegal Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says millions of dollars in cash and other illegal gifts are being distributed to bars and wholesalers by beer, wine and liquor manufacturers and distributors.

The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms said Monday it is beginning a two-year investigation of major manufacturers and distributors suspected of violating alcohol marketing laws by giving payoffs to store operators who agree to stock their products.

Symphony Grant Is Announced

RALEIGH — A grant designed to provide an additional half million dollars for the North Carolina Symphony over the next three years has recently been awarded by the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation.

The initial grant of $125,000 from the Foundation will be met by $375,000 over the next three years of contributions from Symphony supporters. All funds, both Foundation and contributors', will be restricted for the Symphony's permanent endowment.

Designed to assist symphony orchestras in the U.S. in building endowment and in establishing financial practices to enhance the stability of the orchestras, the grant program is now in its second year.

The Symphony, the only major one between Atlanta and Washington, travels more than 19,000 miles each year and play to audiences totaling nearly 250,000 North Carolina citizens.

Trustee Voted To Raise Own Tuition

By Elisa Kaplan

DURHAM—At the ripe old age of 19, Jennifer Hillman was the youngest person ever to be a trustee of Duke University.

In her new post, she was soon rubbing elbows with heads of major corporations, some high ranking government officials and leaders in other fields.

She also was soon face to face with a quandary: As a student she had to decide on a proposal to raise student tuition fees. She voted for it.

Students don't like to pay more—nor do their parents—she said. But when the student board members considered the inflationary times and saw the effect on the university, she said they realized the hikes were necessary.

Jennifer, from South Bend, Inc., has been a member of the university trustees since her sophomore year. Now a senior, she hopes to go on to get a master's degree in educational administrative policy.

She is one of three students now serving on the Duke Board of Trustees.

Kevin Moore, a second-year graduate student in health administration from Atlanta, Ga., and a member of the board's newly formed medical center affairs committee, will finish his three-year term in June.

According to Moore his graduate studies "add significantly" to his participation on the committee.

The newest student board member, Rick Robinson, assumed his duties last July and is a member of the board's newly formed medical center affairs committee, will finish his three-year term in June.

Student trustees are elcted to serve three-year terms in contrast to the six-year terms of other trustees. They are nominated to the board by a committee of the student government.

Duke President Terry Sanford, in cooperation with the student government, worked out the arrangements for this system several years ago.

What do some of the other trustees think about it ?

Board Chairman J. Alexander McMahon says the board discussions have been "enhanced" by the students' younger perspectives. He said he thinks of them as "young trustees rather than student trustees."

"The Duke students have selected capable, bright young people to speak up at board and committee meeting," he said.

How do the students see their role?

"Our job is to make the board aware of student feeling on issues like tuition hikes, financial aid and scholarships, living conditions, and the yet to be built University Center."

"But we're not a mouthpiece for the student body. You might say we're representatives from the students, but not representative of the students," Robinson said.

Ms. Hillman said the student trustees must consider the interests of the university faculty, administrators, employees and the Durham community as well as students in making decisions.

She cited her opposition at the Sept. 30 board meeting to a proposed expressway to be built near the Duke campus as an example.

"Not only would the extension to run 100 feet behind campus housing, but it would destroy a small Durham community," she said.

Moore said the board shows a "keen interest and repsect for student opinions."

"Last year the board deferred the sale of Duke radio station WDBS because some students wanted time to investigate the alternative of student control of the station. Even though the financial justification or selling the station proved overwhelming, the students still had a fair chance to get WDBS. Their demands were listened to," he said.

According to Moore, the trustees were "receptive and surprised" at some of the conclusions in his 1977 "State of Student" address to the board, a narrated student slide show of campus living conditions.

"The report allowed them to see exactly what it's like to be a student at Duke. It showed the trustees the overcrowding in the dining halls and dormitories, and the imbalance of Duke's cultural life between its two campuses," Moore said.

So the system may not solve everyone's problems. But, says Robinson, "it's certainly a step in the right direction."

"The student trustees have always tried to work with the board, not against it," Ms. Hillman said. "Even though our immediate goals may not always coincide, everyone is very devoted to Duke and ultimately wants the best for our school."

While the student board members said their students studies and participation in student government helped them to handle board duties, they agreed that "just being a student was the best training" for presenting the younger perspective to the board.

Author Enjoys Music And Cooking

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: Have you ever seen in print or published a recipe for stuffed hog maw? I have a friend in Texas who has never heard of it, and she thinks I am pulling her leg when I tell her I occasionally prepare it for a meal. I've looked in all my own cookbooks and have even asked nearby friends to look in their locally published cookbooks, but we have been unable to find a recipe for it in print. Hog maw, in case you are unfamiliar with it, is a hog's stomach — a skinlike sack we stuff and bake. My family has passed down the recipe from generation to generation and I suppose other families in my area have, too. If you know of anything in print, I'd appreciate learning of it so I could send a copy to my Texas friend. Then she'll stop thinking I'm kidding her. — MARYLAND.

DEAR MARYLAND: Until your letter came, stuffed hog maw had escaped my notice. Then I found recipes for it in only three cookbooks. I decided to try the one in Nancy Albright's "Naturally Great Foods Cookbook," published in 1977 by Rodale Press. The dish was as new to my tasters as it was to me. I presented it to them without saying what it was. They enjoyed it and had fun trying to guess what they were eating. After that I asked Mrs. Albright, by phone, how she happened to include the recipe in her book. She told me her husband came from Allentown, Pa., and she first tasted stuffed hog maw at her motherin-law's. Pennsylvania-Dutch cooks are familiar with it.

Nancy Albright comes from St. Louis, Mo., and studied music at the Peabody Institute in Baltimore. For many years she directed choruses and sang solo. Through an international organization, she traveled widely in Europe and became involved in cooking for large groups, working with well trained chefs. "Cooking is so interesting," she said, "because there's never an end to what you can learn. Now I enjoy both music and cooking."

In 1970 she went to work for the Rodale Press people in Emmaus, Pa., to create and supervise a kitchen and dining room serving about 50 employees at lunchtime. "My job," she told me, "was to make 'healthy' food taste delicious and look attractive." Judging from the recipes we've tried in "Naturally Great Foods," she certainly succeeded. Although recently she gave up the Rodale job, she is planning to continue working in the food field as a consultant. We hope she does; she has a lot to offer. — C.B.

DUTCH HOG MAW

1 fresh pig's stomach
Salt and freshly ground pepper
1 pound fresh pork sausage links, cut in 1½-inch lengths
4 to 6 cups diced pared potatoes
1 onion, chopped
½ cup chopped celery with tops
2 tablespoons minced parsley

Wash the stomach thoroughly, removing any remaining membranes and excess fat. Rub inside and outside with salt and pepper. Mix the remaining ingredients — the amount of potato used will depend on the size of the stomach. Stuff this mixture into the stomach as tightly as possible; sew up. Place in a Dutch oven with 2 cups water; cover and bake in a preheated 325-degree oven about 3 hours. With a wide spatula, scraping the bottom in case of sticking, turn over the stuffed stomach. Continue baking uncovered about 30 minutes. To serve, cut into 1½ to 2-inch thick slices, removing string. Makes 6 to 8 servings. Adapted from "Naturally Great Foods Cookbook" by Nancy Albright (Rodale Press).

Demote Friend To Acquaintance

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago a man we employed for many years in our retail business left us to open his own store—in competition with us. No particular ill will was involved, but we were not overjoyed since we had taught him the business from the ground up.

We continue to do well, but this man has done even better because he has a better location.

A friend of ours seems to take a perverse pleasure in constantly pointing out our competitor's ads in the newspaper, and talking endlessly about what a fantastic success he has made in such a short time. We are bewildered and somewhat hurt.

Are we overly sensitive? We feel very uncomfortable having to listen to this subtle form of needling every time we're in this person's company.

Any suggestions?

DEAR READER: One who makes a habit of bringing up an irritating subject is bad news. The Chinese put it this way: "Never speak of a rope in the home of one whose relative has been hanged."

If I were you, I would demote this "friend" to a nodding acquaintance.

DEAR ABBY: While flying from Los Angeles to Chicago recently, I was rudely awakened from a much-needed nap by a booming voice that came over the loudspeaker with: "THIS IS YOUR CAPTAIN SPEAKING! We are now flying over the Grand Canyon . . . etc."

Abby, this was not a chartered flight carrying a load of sight-seeing hicks who had never flown before. I'm sure most of the passengers had already seen the Grand Canyon from 39,000 feet.

Be a friend to those of us who fly the friendly skies frequently and print this. It might help.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Every home has its last bastion . . . that retreat away from the rest of the family where, for a few hours, one may enjoy diplomatic immunity from discipline, chores, and conversation.

They're called bathrooms. Some homes have two of them. From the first day a child is introduced to one, he learns how to use it to his advantage. They know instinctively that once they are entrenched behind those doors there is nothing that can touch them. Nothing that can question them. Nothing that can speed along their reentrance into the family atmosphere.

For example, never, in my entire life, have I walked into a house from the grocery store and yelled, "Will someone help me unload the groceries from the car?" without a muffled sound shouting back, "I'm in the bathroom."

In 20 years, you would think that just once, I would catch someone in the kitchen or even in flight.

Never, in my entire life, have I ever announced, "Whose turn is it to do dishes?" that I have not heard a plaintive, "As soon as I'm out of the bathroom."

It's positively weird how a child can know that the phone is for him and make a hasty retreat just in time to yell out to you, "Can you get the phone and take a number? I'm in the you-know-where."

Sometimes it seems that children grow up in there among the plumbing and the tile.

"Are you in bed?" ("No, I'm in the bathroom.")

"Are you doing your homework?" ("I'm in the bathroom.")

"Come in here and meet these nice people." ("I'm in the bathroom.")

"Could you let the dog out?" ("I'm in the bathroom.")

"Come to dinner!" ("I'm in the bathroom.")

Throughout the years I've had great respect for the exclusivity of this room, but recently I couldn't stand it. We were all in the car waiting for Brucie who was guess where.

I ran into the house, pounded on the bathroom door and yelled, "Why is this door shut."

"You always said, 'Shut the door.'"

"What are you doing?"

"You always said, 'Go before you leave home.'"

"Why is this door locked?"

"You always said, 'Lock the door.'"

"Now what are you doing?"

"You always said, 'Wash your hands.'"

The trouble with mothers is they talk too much.

Mrs. McKeel Gives WOTM Program

Greenville Chapter No. 1308, Women of the Moose, held its November chapter night meeting at the Moose Temple Thursday with Mrs. Linda McKeel in charge of the program.

Chairman of the chapter's Library Committee, Mrs. McKeel outlined the services and activities offered children by Sheppard Memorial Library and its branches.

Mrs. Shirley Daughtridge, senior regent, reminded coworkers this month's business meeting will be held Nov. 16 to avoid conflict with the Thanksgiving holidays. She also announced Mrs. Betty Griffin of Elizabeth City, deputy grand regent for North Carolina, will visit the chapter Dec. 14. A special enrollment class is planned in her honor.

Mrs. Marjorie Bailey, chairman of the Social Services Committee, urged support of the knife sale being conducted by the committee and it was announced fruit cakes, being sold by chapter officers, are still available.

The group's annual bake sale will be held at the lodge Nov. 22 and members wishing to bake a cake or pie for the project are asked to contact Mrs. Nettie Williams, Mrs. Mary Beddard or Mrs. Daughtridge.

Mrs. Betty Diehl, chairman of the Food Services Committee, asked support of chapter members and Mrs. Wilma Turner, project chairman, reminded co-workers of a trash and treasure sale planned April 21.

Mrs. Peggy White, Mrs. Joan Logsden, Mrs. Shirley Jarrell, Mrs. Ann Aldridge, Mrs. Ann Lewis and Mrs. Janet Roberts were enrolled as new members.

RAYON-ACETATE COUNCIL FORMED

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rayon-Acetate Advisory Council has been formed to present information on rayon and acetate fibers to faculty and students of leading textile engineering and design schools.

A lecture series at the participating schools will promote better understanding of the new generations of rayon and acetate, including the areas of finishing, blending, dyeing, application, performance and cost. Dr. Robert Barker, Clemson University textile professor, is chairman of the council.

Voting Machines Prove Value

If any reminder was needed, Tuesday night's election tabulation proved once again how outmoded Pitt County's method of voting is.

Counties with voting machines had reported their totals shortly after the polls closed and many hours ahead of Pitt County.

Thus most races of interest were settled long before any significant number of Pitt County totals were included.

All the vote tabulations on election night are unofficial, but nationwide the unofficial tallies are accurate, and the public is made aware of the winners in a few hours after the polls close.

Pitt County votes count, of course, but on election night the results come in so slowly that the winners are known long before our votes are reported.

Should React To Tobacco Oversupply

There were mixed opinions at a U. S. Department of Agriculture hearing here last week on reducing flue-cured tobacco marketing quotas for next year.

There are signs that an oversupply of tobacco is building up, including a year-end drop in tobacco prices which indicated tobacco companies were stocked up.

It would be better to take a modest cut in quotas next year than to face a serious build-up in tobacco supplies which could seriously depress prices.

THIS AFTERNOON

May See Local Influence

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Superlatives abounded as North Carolina became "the first" to enter "historic" agreements of "partnership" between local-state-and federal governments recently.

The governor, a couple of cabinet people, the assistant secretary for rural development of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, two U.S. Senators, the administrator of the Farmers Home Administration and a bevy of local governmental officials from counties and towns across the state were on hand.

Each participant tried to outdo the other in glowing descriptions of the "Rural Development Cooperation Agreement Between the Farmers Home Administration of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture and the State of North Carolina."

An important day for "people who live in the small communities of North Carolina," Gov. Jim Hunt proclaimed.

Even a telegram from President Jimmy Carter got into the show as he expressed regret at not being present, but pleasure at "the beginning of a new federal-state partnership with North Carolina".

A Model

The "historic" agreement, said Carter, provides a "model for translating the balanced national growth concept into practice. For the first time, we will have a formal framework for focusing federal resources on the problems of distressed communities and other locally determined priorities."

After all the political posturing and high-sounding phrases were finished, the question remains: what does all of this mean to the people who live in North Carolina's small towns and rural areas?

Alex Mercure, assistant secretary in the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, tackled that.

"The most important thing it means is that you can now go to one source for help in getting any number of federal grant programs for community development" says Mercure.

There have been Farmers Home Administration programs, as well as numerous others, which provide either outright grants or loans for housing, water and sewer lines, job training programs, planning efforts, etc. A potpourri of federalese exists in each, causing confusion, complications, contradictions, conflicts and duplication.

Efforts have been made over the years to iron out these bureaucratic hurdles. Thousands of federal programs in dozens of agencies with alphabet soup designations require a computer to provide a charted course through them. Small communities generally don't have such equipment, nor savvy experts to target potential resources in the federal catalog.

BILL NOBLITT

Agriculture — in the form of the Farmers Home Administration — becomes the first federal agency to formally commit itself to a cooperative, coordinated approach in helping local and state officials wade through the red tape.

The Future

Mercure says this is possible because the agency is small and programs relatively limited. It is still doubtful that such monstrous agencies as Health, Education and Welfare, or Housing and URBAN Development can ever produce such a reform, Mercure feels, even though the present experiment is supposed to pave the way for that development.

Here, in brief, is how North Carolina's agreement will work:

Gov. Hunt will appoint state and federal agency people along with local officials and competent laymen to a State Rural Development Coordinating Committee which will set up goals and plans consistent with the state's Balanced Growth Policy. The Secretary of Natural Resources and Community Development will coordinate those actions, and the Farmers Home Administration will work with the committee to help fit grants and loans into the plans. Federal officials will guide local applications through the maze and cause previously separate agencies to come together in meeting the programs which local communities have drawn up.

Not all applicants will get all their needs met at once, Mercure confesses, but at least decisions will be made openly in an orderly way....and priorities set which can be understood in coming years.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Looking To 1980 Election

By ROWLAND EVANS and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — While modestly impressive Republican gains last Tuesday pose a threat to President Carter in 1980, they also guarantee two years of intensified Republican civil war leading to the presidential nomination.

The party's conquest of four major governor's chairs (most spectacularly Texas) undermines the presumption of Ronald Reagan as the party's nominee. Beyond personalities, it sets up this debate: does the Republican path out of the wilderness lie in the tax revolt or in stressing a new, well-scrubbed Republican image?

Ammunition for both sides is being drawn from this year's Republican victories by leading proponents of the two tactical schools: Rep. Jack Kemp of New York and the Washington-based campaign consulting firm of Bailey and Deardourff.

In a possible preview of 1980, Kemp clashed with John Deardourff in Perry Duryea's losing race against Gov. Hugh Carey of New York. The author of the Kemp-Roth tax-reduction bill believes Duryea failed because Deardourff stressed image while campaign mastermind David Garth stressed issues for Carey.

The Bailey-Deardourff firm cannot be blamed for Duryea's maladroit performance, particularly his refusal to heed their pleas to publish his tax returns. Bailey-Deardourff, making no secret of their contempt for Kemp-Roth tax reduction as a campaign device, were involved in highly successful media-oriented campaigns in Pennsylvania, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois and Tennessee.

Their formula was at its best in Pennsylvania where a brilliantly crafted media campaign brought former U.S. Assistant Atty. Gen. Richard Thornburgh from oblivion to snatch the governorship from ex-Pittsburgh Mayor Peter Flaherty. The formula: stress Thornburgh's qualities, undermine Flaherty's credibility and play down ideology or issues.

Thornburgh is the newest and one of the most impressive of a group of moderate Republican governors in a central and politically centrist belt running from Pennsylvania to Iowa, whose success last Tuesday endangers the inevitability of Reagan. There has been private discussion of these governors pooling their power to pick a 1980 candidate — a process complicated by the presidential ambitions of Illinois' James Thompson and possibly Iowa's Robert Ray.

But also joining the Republican governors is a different breed: multimillionaire Dallas industrialist William Clements, who surprised even his own advisers by being elected governor of Texas. Clements, tough-talking and tough-looking, is the antithesis of the image candidate. His lavish media campaign stressed pro-tax cut, anti-government, anti-liberal ideology.

Envisioning Bill Clements at a Republican governors' conference delights his friends. "Imagine him with those candybleeps like Ray and Milliken (Gov. Wm. Millikin of Michigan)", one insider told us. "Clements will roll'em over."

But not in Reagan's behalf. Clements, a Ford man in 1976, felt Reagan was not helpful in the early stages of his race for governor. He still burns over the

Strength For Today

IDOL WORSHIP

A story is told of Mahmoud, the Muslim conqueror of a portion of India, who was known as "The Idol Breaker". He came one day to a huge idol at Somnat and was about to destroy it. The priests of the temple cast themselves down before Mahmoud and offered him a large ransom if he would spare the idol. Being a devout follower of Mohammed, however, Mahmoud spurned the offer and told his soldiers to demolish the idol with hammers. When they broke it open, a treasure of diamonds and other precious stones spilled out, much in excess of the proffered ransom.

Life today has just as many idols as the ancient world, but they are in the form of wealth, power, sensual enjoyment, and other such temptations. When we spurn idolatry, we find much reward, but not of the kind that Mahmoud found. Instead we receive the peace of a quiet conscience, the approbation of friends and loved ones, and the increase of our own powers. These are much more to be valued than a hoard of diamonds.

Controls If Guidelines Fail?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Time will show if the administration's anti-inflation program was a giant step toward price moderation, but some professional observers already think we should view it as the end of the rope.

As they see it, President Carter has lassoed those he thinks are the troublemakers, labor and management, but now he can't be sure the rope won't break. If it does snap, then controls would be the next step.

This, according to the argument — one held by various economists, business people and union leaders — would be part of a natural progression that begins with jawboning and proceeds to guidelines.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, disgruntled with Carter's guidelines, would even like to proceed directly to controls. And surveys indicate a good many Americans share his sympathies.

But if you believe in natural progression, as expressed in scores of bank letters, speeches, economist warnings and the like, controls would come only as guidelines fail.

The reasoning is twofold:

1. The economy is too large and diverse to surround with voluntary guidelines. Enterprising organizations, labor or management, inevitably will wriggle out of the noose, claiming or finding exceptions.

2. If the first step occurs, the administration might concede defeat. More likely, it would seek temporary authority from Congress to impose controls, with legal penalties assessed against transgressors.

The possibilities that the voluntary guidelines won't work is already considered high by opponents, who term them overly rigid. Nobody likes to say it, but many feel that guidelines must permit some slippage.

But still another factor, the political, enters the equation. Will the Carter administration ease up on the guidelines or perhaps abolish controls if it appears the economy is tipping into recession?

With an election year coming up, that possibility

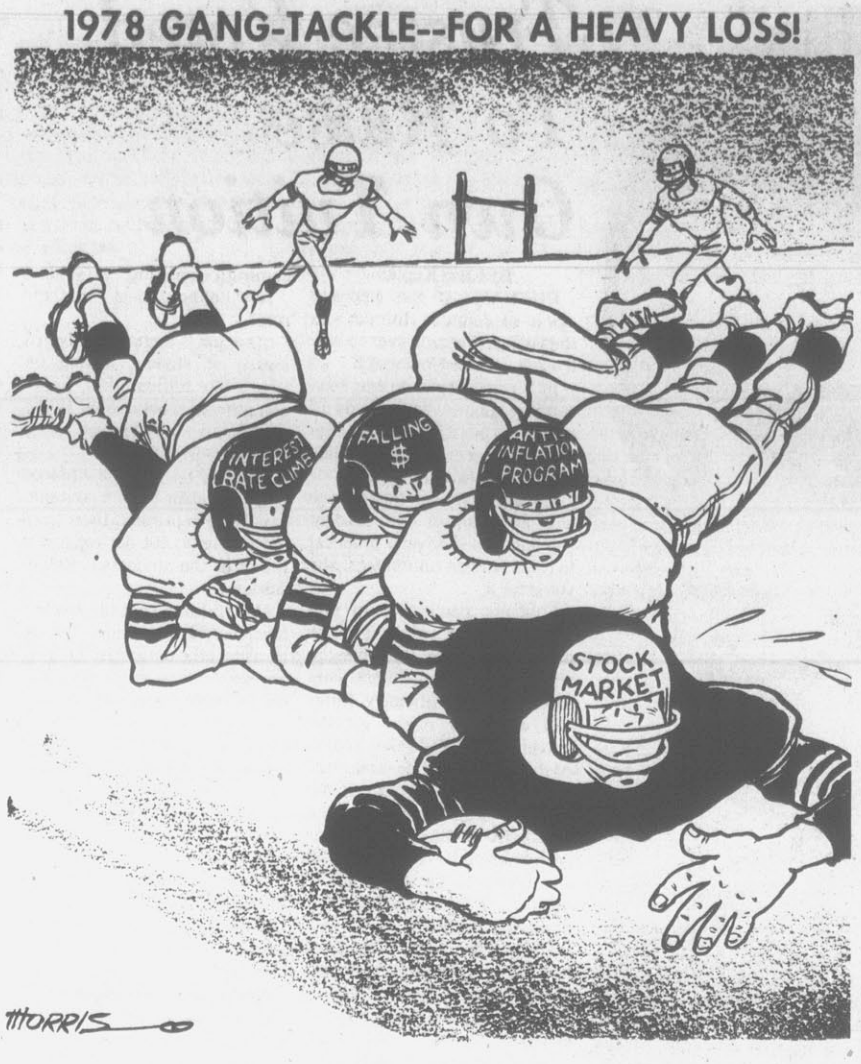
1978 GANG-TACKLE--FOR A HEAVY LOSS!



A Path To The Capitol

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — More and more, it looks as though a good way to become a member of Congress is to work for one.

At least eight of the 97 congressional candidates elected for the first time on Nov. 7 had worked on the Capitol Hill staffs of senators or representatives.

Another Sen.-elect Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., started out as a congressional intern. Still another, Rep.-elect Mike Barnes, D-Md., worked on the presidential campaign staff of Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine.

And Democrat Tom Daschle, involved in a still-undecided House race in South Dakota, formerly worked for Democratic Sen. James Abourezk of that state.

Because 28 of the 30 former Capitol Hill staff members already in Congress will be back, this means there will be at least 38 lawmakers who have worked in some capacity for a member of Congress or a congressional committee when the next session begins in January.

In 1963, according to biographical sketches in the Congressional Directory, there were 22. That's an increase of nearly 75 percent in 15 years.

With the election of Democrat Al Swift to succeed his former boss, Rep. Lloyd Meeds, four of the seven House members from the state of Washington will be former staff members.

In Swift's opinion, however, the disadvantages of Capitol Hill staff experience outweigh the advantages for a candidate.

"In my judgment the advantage you have comes in savvy and know-how, but the connection is a disadvantage you have to overcome," he said.

The other former congressional staffers in the Washington delegation are Rep. Don Bonker, who was a research assistant to former Sen. Maurine Neuberger, D-Ore.; Rep. Tom Foley, who was assistant chief clerk and special counsel of the Senate Interior Committee, and Rep. Norm Dicks, who was a legislative assistant to Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash.

All are Democrats. Altogether, 29 of the ex-staffer lawmakers are Democrats and nine are Republicans.

Apparently the only senatorelect with Capitol Hill staff experience is Nancy Landon Kassebaum, R-Kan., who spent one year on the staff of the man she succeeds, Republican Sen. James B. Pearson.

Besides Swift, the representatives-elect who worked as regular staff members in congressional offices are: Tony Coelho, a Democrat who succeeds his old boss, Rep. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif; Marvin Leath, D-Texas, succeeding Democratic Rep. W.R. Poage, on whose staff he served; Dan Mica, a Democrat who succeeds Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Fla., for whom he worked; Pat Williams, D-Mont., who was administative assistant to Montana Democratic Sen. John Melcher when Melcher was in the House; Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., who worked for Michigan Sen. Donald Riegle, a Democrat; John Hinson, R-Miss., administrative assistant to Republican Rep. Thad Cochran, whom he succeeds.

A Conservative Trend

DETROIT — All night long the television screen kept giving us the score, and the screen kept getting it wrong. A score that is kept simply in terms of Democrats and Republicans is grossly misleading. Tuesday's elections, on balance, added up to a narrow victory for political conservatism. Depending on your point of view, that's the best or the worst that can be said.

I happened to end the campaign trail in Detroit. Conflicting political winds were blowing everywhere.

Michigan voters went liberal: They dumped Republican Senator Robert Griffin; they approved collective bargaining for state police; they rejected drastic proposals for tax cuts and school vouchers; and here in Detroit they cheerfully voted bond issues for firehouses, urban renewal and improvements at the zoo.

Michigan voters went conservative: They stuck with their moderate Republican governor; they prohibited parole for certain crimes of violence; they raised the minimum age for drinking from 18 to 21; they voted to permit denial of bail in major crimes; and they voted for a "Proposition E" that soberly echoes the Tennessee plan for restraining state expenditures.

The same indecisive winds were blowing across the nation. In Missouri, liberals defeated right-to-work. In Virginia, New Jersey and Florida, conservatives successfully resisted new efforts to legalize gambling. Californians enlarged the number of crimes carrying a death penalty — a conservative view. . . Colorado said no to tax limitation — a liberal view; but Arizona, Nevada, Hawaii, Illinois, Texas and Idaho liked the conservative idea of putting reins upon taxing and spending, and Florida turned down a liberal state move toward equal rights for women.

When it is possible to analyze the ups or downs of nearly 200 propositions that appeared on state ballots, we will have an idea of where the ideological momentum is going — if anywhere.

Meanwhile, the House and Senate selections indicate that liberals are in for another hard time in the 96th Congress.

It is immaterial that Democrats will retain virtually two-to-one margins in both House and Senate. The old, conventional tabulations have lost their meaning. Political analysts who continue to mouth the ritual phrases — such as, "the party out of power gains and average of 33 seats in the off-year elections" — had better turn in their tripods and crystal balls. For all practical purposes, in terms of

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the Editor:

Please note, this is the first letter I have ever written to any newspaper. However, considering my feelings in this matter, plus my personal friendship and knowledge of this man, I feel compelled in this case.

A couple of months ago, Jack Edwards, assistant superintendent of the Pitt County Schools, resigned his position, and went into retirement. Little was noted of this event, except the usual inclusion in the minutes of the County Board meeting. He was quietly honored in the county office, and some of the teachers in many of the schools did likewise.

It is my considered opinion that one so qualified, so dedicated, so honorable, and having given 30 years of service to our Pitt County Schools and its children, should in some way, receive at least one note of public recognition. Maybe this letter will at least clear my conscience.

Jack was a quiet man in every respect, until the occasion arose on some important point concerning the welfare of the children, and our teachers in the schools. He was always their champion. Considering the issues involving our schools, I would rate him one of the most informed educators in the entire state. Never has he failed to stand up and be counted. He would fight before compromising a principle.

Much else can and should be said about this great public servant. However, space shall limit this small note of tribute, with a simple word of thanks, for your great contribution to our County, and wishes of God Speed in whatever you decide to undertake during your retirement.

To the Editor:

Twice within the last few days, statements in your paper have claimed that the extension of time for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment is unconstitutional — once in a paid advertisement and once in a story quoting former Senator Sam Ervin.

I was not surprised at the adversisement, but I was amazed that a constitutional expert like Mr. Ervin would put the label of unconstitutional on something which is not mentioned at all in the Constitution. Article V sets forth the method by which the Constitution is to be amended, and it does not mention a limit on the time during which the states may consider an amendment. Congress has chosen to set a time limit for ratification of the last few amendments and Congress had chosen to extend that time period for the Equal Rights Amendment.

Such action on the part of the Congress cannot be unconstitutional when the Constitution does not mention a time limit on ratification.

intervention by the Reaganite Citizens for the Republic in a Republican congressional primary in Texas against Clements' advice. Texas state Republican chairman Ray Barnhart, a faithful and ardent Reaganite, now is eclipsed by a Republican governor who obviously would prefer George Bush over Reagan for president.

Ironically for Reagan, Tuesday's ideological tone was slightly rightward, with the mass slaughter of all incumbent liberal Democratic senators (especially Sen. Dick Clark of Iowa) who were supported by the National Committee for an Effective Congress. What's more, the president's own advisers concede that victories of the three Republican senators — Jesse Helms, Strom Thurmond and John Tower — stigmatized as "radical rightists" confirms the futility of unadorned anti-conservative assaults.

Furthermore, Kemp insists on the validity of Kemp-Roth, which is derogated by both the White House and Bailey-Deardourff. Rep. Bill Armstrong's Senate triumph in Colorado and Newton Gingrich's for the House from Georgia were squarely based on unswerving advocacy of massive tax cuts. Kemp must soon decide whether this merits his own presidential bid, long urged by close advisers. But whether he, Reagan or anybody else opposes Carter with a national tax-reduction crusade, Tuesday's results assure an internal Republican struggle for 1980.

has to be considered. Recessions shake incumbents and their party, as Richard Nixon learned when he sought to succeed President Eisenhower.

However, the only indication of what recession would mean to the guidelines policy is that given by Alfred Khan, the anti-inflation czar, who has been quoted as preferring controls to recession.

While that choice is not the one foreseen by current critics of the guidelines, it suggests still another way in which they could lead to even harsher techniques in the alleged search for economic moderation.

Conceivably, the administration could be lucky because, entirely apart from the Washington efforts, the economy has shown indications of cooling. After four years of expansion, it was to be expected.

Meanwhile, even those opposed to guidelines as unworkable and controls as un-American concede that some good might yet come from them. Fear of them, it is said, can do wonders to undermine inflation psychology.

That psychology, almost everyone knows, assumes that prices will continue to rise, and that to beat the rise you get your pay raises in advance and you buy your house and appliances now instead of later.

That psychology quickly dissipates under the threat of controls and, in fact, its opposite takes over — that is, the notion that it might pay to wait.

We shouldn't have to wait long. By spring the verdicts will be in.

Field Borders Restrain Soil, Farm Chemicals

According to the Pitt County division of the Soil Conservation Service, soil and farm chemicals can be held in place in the field by using field borders.

Foy Hendrix of Raleigh, conservation agronomist with the USDA-Soil Conservation Service, says that the field border is a strip of perennial vegetation between cropland and any other kind of land, including woods, drainage ditches or even a passing road. The width may vary, depending upon the decision of the farm operator.

The grassed strip catches and holds topsoil and chemicals that might tend to wash out of the field during heavy rains.

Landowners can create field borders with various plantings. Such grasses and other vegetation as coastal Bermuda, common Bermuda, tall fescue, Bahia grass, weeping lovegrass, shrub lespedza, bush honeysuckle, Autumn olive and other plantings are most practical in most North Carolina areas.

Soil Conservation Service technical assistance is readily available in each county to help persons decide on dimensions and plant materials for field borders.

There are many advantages to field borders. Game birds and wildlife often consider field borders "home" for a place to nest and feed. Care in mowing should be used if wildlife choose to nest in field borders.

Tractor operators find the borders a handy place to turn heavy equipment around in before making another pass across the field. The border oan also serve as a travel way for farmers to inspect fields for insect and weed control.

Some of the wider field borders are grazed or mowed for hay. The grass is ususally excellent of r for this purpose, according to the SCS.

"There is probably not a field in North Carolina that would not benefit from a field border," said Hendrix. "Autumn is a good time to make plans for the growing season next year."

SCS technical assistance with conservation practices, like all programs and services of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is available to all without regard to race, color, creed, sex or national origin.

Cites 'Every Right' To Protest Rate Charges

WASHINGTON — Consumers who purchase their electric power from the Virginia Electric and Power Company (VEPCO), have every right to oppose the utility for its high rates, Richard S. Coiner, Washington Chairman of Operation Overcharge says.

"VEPCO, it appears to us, is very poorly managed, Coiner said.

William H. Page, Washington Chairman of the Strategy Committee for Operation Overcharge — a citizens protest group formed in 22 Eastern North Carolina Counties served by VEPCO — also claimed VEPCO's problems stem from poor management decisions made at the top level.

"There have been a number of poor decisions over the last several years. VEPCO stuck with oil and the other didn't," Page explained. "Now, the others have rates that range from 10 to 50 per cent lower than the rates charged by VEPCO."

That decision, according to Page, was VEPCO's poorest decision.

Chairman of the Petition Committee of Operation Overcharge Stanley W. Hege of Edenton, a VEPCO stockholder, said the utility's stockholders should be the ones most concerned. "VEPCO is charging the highest rates and making the least money," he pointed out.

Saying VEPCO may need to clean house, Hege said the company needs better short and long range planning, more productive employees, and some good vision for the future.

Coiner, also a stockholder, said several VEPCO stockholders are in the forefront of the protest movement.

He noted that Operation Overcharge is attempting to collect at least 25,000 signatures on the petitions which ask Gov. Jim Hunt and the North Carolina Utilities Commission, along with Federal regulatory agencies, to act to rollback VEPCO electric rates.

bills passed or bills killed, party labels are now as hollow as pingpong balls.

Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, Jr., acknowledged as much in an interview on election night. The Democratic Party isn't really one party, he said. It's five parties under one tent — ultra liberals, liberals, middle-roaders, conservatives and the ultra conservatives. The Republican Party exhibits a similar but narrower range. None of these phantom "parties" imposes any consistent discipline, though such factions as the Black Caucus and the Hatch-Helms Republicans often vote as one. If politics were an orderly, rational profession, we would tidy up the confusion by removing the old labels and gluing on some new ones. But nobody ever said that American politics makes sense, so we muddle along as best we can.

What counts is the prospect for substantive issues. In this regard, it is only mildly interesting that Oklahoma has replaced a Republican senator with A Democratic senator, or that Mississippi has done the reverse. It is a fair assumption, looking at Mississippi, that Republican That Cochran will vote pretty much in the future as Democrat James Eastland has voted in the past. Oklahoma's new senator, David Boren (D.), is not far removed philosophically from Oklahoma's outgoing senator, Dewey Bartlett (R.).

Conservatives can take heart from results in half a dozen Senate contests in which the victors, regardless of label, are putatively more conservative than their predecessors: New Jersey, New Hampshire, Iowa, Minnesota, Colorado and South Dakota. In a few other states, such as Maine, Massachusetts and Nebraska, little change can be anticipated. Here and there, as in Arkansas, the incoming senator predictably will be more liberal than the senator he replaces.

On balance, as I see it, conservative candidates and causes narrowly prevailed. We aren't likely to get national health insurance, a consumer protection agency or a lopsided "labor reform" act from the 96th Congress. So the Democrats hold the House by roughly 275 to 160? So what?

Will Lecture Here On Genetics Study

Dr. William S. Pollitzer will present a lecture, "What Racial Isolates Can Teach Us About Medicine, Genetics, History and Society" to the East Carolina University chapter of Sigma Xi, Wednesday, Nov. 15, 7:30 p.m.

The lecture will be held in the auditorium (Room 103) of the campus Biology building.

Dr. Pollitzer, a professor of anatomy and anthropology at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, has conducted extensive research on racial hybrid populations in North Carolina and the southeastern United States.

His talk will summarize much of the information he has gathered in the past two decades. He currently serves on the Genetics Training Committee and is a member of the Carolina Population Center at UNC-Chapel Hill, emphasizing his continuing research interest in human genetics.

This will be the first meeting of Sigma Xi this fall. All members are urged to attend. Dr. Pollitzer's address will be preceded by a brief greeting from Dr. Thomas Brewer, Chancellor of ECU.

The general public and university community are invited to attend the lecture.

Grant Hikes Arrest List

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — J. Phil Carlton, state Secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety, credits a federal grant of more than $1.4 million for overtime pay for patrolmen for boosting arrests for drunken driving this year.

Carlton said drunken driving arrests during the first nine months of 1978 totaled 31,919, 15.6 pecent more than the number arrested during the same period last year.

This year's arrests for driving under the influence of alcohol number 366 more than during the same period in 1972, the record year for drunken driving arrests when troopers charged 41,241 drivers during a 12-month period.

"In effect, this grant pays for an extra 70 troopers a week," Carlton said. "We've had renewed emphasis on speeders and DUI cases and additional manpower."

Officials said the increased arrest statistics do not mean there are more drunken drivers, but that more troopers are available to catch them.

Carlton said the grant, from the U.S. Department of Transportation, has been renewed for 1978-79.

"This grant is connected with a national effort to enforce the 55 mile per hour speed limit," Carlton said. "It's the kind of thing we would lose in the state if we did not vigorously enforce the limit."

Winners In Decorations

D. G. Nichols Agency, J. C. Penneys and the Greenville Holiday Inn were named the winners in the First Annual Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival Store, Restaurant and Motel Decorating Contest.

The winners will receive $300 each and display plaques. The theme for all decorations was centered around some segment of the tobacco industry or tobacco farm life.

D. G. Nichols placed first in the Division One segment, which consisted of retail stores and businesses with 10 or less employees. Second and third place winners were NCNB East End Branch and Greenville Collection Services respectively. Duffus Realty was cited with an honorable mention certificate.

J. C. Penney of Greenville won Division Two first place honors' with Belk Tyler Company and Sears Roebuck placing second and third. First Union National Bank of Farmville won honorable mention. Division Two was limited to retail stores and businesses with 11 or more employees.

The Holiday Inn of Greenville captured first place honors in the Division Three competition with Tom's Restaurant named as second place. Division three was for motels and restaurants.

Second place winners were awarded $150 and plaques, with third place winners receiving $100 and plaques.

Judges considered attractiveness and all-around appeal, as well as originality. All retail stores, businesses, restaurants and motels in Pitt County were eligible, according to contest chairperson Trish Byrum.

Participants in the contest were as follows: School's Out, Inc., Jim's Serv-A-Set, Happy Talk, Robinson's Jewelers, Cox Florist, D. A. Kelly's, NCNB West End Branch, Gift Gallery of Ayden and Horton Engineering of Grifton, Division One; NCNB Main Office, Division Two.

Ayden Board OKs Resolution Closing Alley Beside Church

by REBECCA BUFFALOE
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board of Commissioners adopted a resolution to close the alley beside the Ayden Christian Church Monday night after hearing discussion presented in a public hearing prior to the vote.

Corey Stokes and Jeff McAllister came before the board to state their feelings that the alley should be closed. J. D. Allen was also selected to speak for the closing of the alley.

Stokes explained that the closing of the alley would allow the church to build walkways between the two existing buildings and beautify the area.

Stokes also commented that the alley closing would eliminate traffic hazards, citing four bicycle accidents in the alley vicinity.

McAllister said the alley closing would increase the value of the church property and beautify the downtown area.

Frances Stillman read from a prepared statement, saying that she was not at the meeting to oppose any action that the board may have felt best for the Town of Ayden, but to point out that there were businesses in the downtown area that use the alley.

Ms. Stillman commended the Christian Church for its efforts and asked the board to be unbiased in its ruling.

A spokesman for the opposition group stated that downtown Ayden needed to be strong and if the alley were closed, customers would be further "alienated" from shopping downtown Ayden.

Russell Stokes pointed out that he had had an office building at one end of the alley with an apartment building at the other at one time. He did not recall using the alley and had no real objections to its closing.

Considerable discussion was heard on loss of parking spaces, as well as exactly what plans were going to be made by the church on the alley's use.

It was pointed out that the church would be happy to let persons use church parking space, except on Thursday nights set aside for interdominational meetings.

J. D. Allen called for the commissioners' vote, stating that the Commissioners should grant what the Ayden Christian Church had petitioned for in the first place.

Board member J. J. Brown stated that he would "reluctantly accept the petition."

The board members voted on the matter, with Dr. Elliott Dixon casting a single "no" vote. Commissioner Robert Harris was not present due to illness.

The board also adopted a resolution to close a dedicated street in the North Hills subdivision after holding a public hearing. The street will be equally distributed between the two land owners whose properties are adjacent to the street.

The board accepted the bids of $100 apiece for two town owned lots from Mrs. Evelena Mewborn.

The board approved a joint use contract with Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. The contract establishes joint ownership of existing poles, with Carolina Telephone to negotiate any differences in cost with the town as to replacements.

The wiring code for the Primary Fire District, which includes part of downtown Ayden was amended to comply with the state electrical code.

Utilities Director Mike Finney explained that the code would keep downtown from becoming a fire hazard. The code would affect only new construction or renovation of existing buildings, Finney said.

Board member Harry Mumford queried Finney as to how the new code would affect existing wiring, with Finney answering that the code would have to be followed when renovation is made in an existing building and affecting the existing wiring.

Finney also discussed with board members the proposed ordinance concerning working with the Greenville Cable TV franchise to bring cable television to Ayden.

Finney stated that the ordinance as set by the company seemed to be in good order. He stated that the term of the ordinance, 10-15 years with an additional 10 year option, was debatable with the Board and said he was looking further into the matter.

Finnney stated that according to other utilities, Greenville Cable TV was a good, workable firm. He commented that he was satisfied with the conditions as set by the company.

Finney stated that he would develop a presentation of the ordinance and pole agreement for the board to study at the next workshop session.

Jerry Cox, Director of the Ayden Housing Authority, presented material from HUD concerning establishing rent ranges for the housing authority.

According to Cox, the rent ranges would be changed each year in tandem with changes in the operating budget. The rent ranges allow the Authority to find a "happy medium" in order to maintain solvency. The board adopted the rent range resolution.

The board accepted estimates for Metalwood, Inc. of Greenville for replacement of 20 windows in the Ayden Community Building, noting that the low bid from Ernest and Knott Glass for $2,489 was not accepted since Metalwood offered guarantees on the window equipment. An estimate of $3,540 from Star Glass was also rejected.

Town Clerk Ralph Ford reported that a total of $927.55 was to be added to the 1978 tax levy, which the board approved. The board also released $89.64 from the levy.

Town Manager Don Russell explained to board members that the net bond indebtedness totaled $435,000 and should not be confused with the gross indebtedness of almost two million dollars in the three bond issues.

The board discussed adopting an ordinance to the existing Social Security rulings for town employees. The board also discussed purchasing a Christmas tree, with Utilities Director Finney stating that someone was willing to donate a living tree for the town's use.

Finney also told board members that the Chamber of Commerce was going to provide fact sheets on the three bond issues.

SAYS RAY LIED — Houston lawyer Percy Foreman told the House assassinations committee Monday that James Earl Ray lied when he denied recruiting Foreman to defend him on charges of assassinating Martin Luther King Jr. Foreman also testified that while in jail, Ray confided he had faked the conspiracy story, and thought the killing would make him "a hero to the white race." Ray has waged a battle of accusations against Foreman. (AP Laserphoto)

Prince Charles 30 Years Old

By JEFF BRADLEY
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles, the bachelor heir to Britain's throne, is 30 years old today, but the birthday party won't be until Wednesday night.

The prince's calendar today was too crammed with official duties for much celebrating. After receiving gifts from his family at breakfast, he was to sit for a portrait, welcome visiting President Antonio Ramalho Eanes of Portugal, turn on the Christmas lights in Regent Street and attend a state banquet for Eanes.

But Wednesday night will be Charles' night at Buckingham Palace. His parents, Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh, invited 20 for dinner and 350 to a birthday ball afterward.

"Tiaras will not be worn," said the invitations.

Charles, whose taste in music usually runs to Berlioz and similar composers, invited his favorite American pop group, The Three Degrees, and a West Indian steel band to entertain.

The guest list for the dinner included the former king and queen of Greece, Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia, Prince and Princess George of Hanover and Crown Princess Beatrix of Holland and Prince Claus.

Dancing into the night with his latest girlfriends, including Lady Sarah Spencer and Lady Camilla Fane, polishes the prince's image as a dashing jet-setter and the world's most eligible bachelor.

Whether doing the samba into the early hours in Rio, skiing the Swiss Alps or charging about on a polo pony, the Prince of Wales is known as a fun-loving, man of action.

Planning Commissions Meet Wednesday Night

The Joint City-County and Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissions will consider a total of 14 items whey they meet Wednesday night for the November session.

The meeting was moved up to Nov. 15 from the regular fourth Wednesday date of Nov. 22 due to Thanksgiving on Nov. 23.

Items scheduled on the city-county agenda include: request of Wilcar Enterprises for rezoning 2.6 acres west of NC 11-US 13 and south of Greenfield Terrace from R-6 to Highway Commercial; request of Leroy Cherry & Associates for rezoning 21.6 acres on the east side of 14th Street Extension just south of the railroad from RA-20 to R-6 and R-9;

Request of Ed and Rosemond Tipton for rezoning 7.38 acres between Elizabeth Heights subdivision and the railroad from RA-20 to R-6; request of J. T. Manning Jr. for rezoning some nine acres on the north side of 264 Bypass just west of Laughinghouse Drive from RA-20 to Highway Commercial, Office and Institutional and R-6;

Preliminary plat of Tucker Farms Development east of the Evangelistic Tabernacle property; final plat of Greenville Rest Home in the Tucker Farms development area; final plat of the Lewis W. Evans property on the east and west side of Arlington Boulevard, if extended; and preliminary plat of Whichport Development Corp. between Club Pines Subdivision and the railroad.

Business on the city agenda includes: request of city Inspections Department for rezoning 5.75 acres on W. Gum Road from Unoffensive Industry to R-6; request of Fred Webb and Southmet for rezoning 12 acres on the west side of Greene Street from Unoffensive Industry to Industrial;

Request of Harvey D. Bradshaw for rezoning 14 acres on the west side of Hooker Road from R-15 to R-6 and Highway Commercial; final plat of Lake Ellsworth Subdivision, Section V; revised final plat of Section IV of Stratford Subdivision; and final plat of Greenville East Convenience Center east of the Greenville Mall property.

O'Berry Center Parade Dec. 8

GOLDSBORO — O'Berry Center here will host its annual Christmas parade December 8, beginning at 1:15 p.m.

The parade, which included 78 entries last year, has become the highlight of the Christmas season for O'Berry's residents.

The 1½ mile parade route will circle the O'Berry campus, then proceed to Cherry Hospital so that Cherry residents can participate in the special yuletide celebration.

Any group interested in having an entry in the parade—float, band, marching unit, car, etc. — should contact Frank Farrell at 731-3502.

Farrell, parade committee chairman, said the public is urged to attend the parade as spectators.

Accountants To Hear Speakers

The Eastern Carolina Chapter of the National Association of Accountants will hold its November meeting Wednesday, Nov. 15, at the Beef Barn, St. Andrews Dr., Greenville, 6:15 p.m.

Speakers for the evening will be Thomas G. Horne, partner, A. M. Pullen & Company, New Bern, and William Alexander, manager of the company. The topic will be "Income Tax Planning for Individuals."

The technical meetings are actually training dinners with professional speakers covering subjects related to accounting.

Anyone interested in joining the association or desiring further information, call Mickey Dry at Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, 757-7362.

Mixed Drinks Seen Nearer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — About 75 restaurants and hotels may be able to legally sell mixed drinks by next Tuesday — if they can get the liquor.

Marvin Speight, chairman of the state Alcoholic Control Board, said the board plans to issue the first licenses next Monday.

Speight said as many as 75 Charlotte-area restaurants and hotels, along with a few private clubs, will get their licenses as Charlotte becomes the first North Carolina city to sell mixed drinks legally in 70 years.

Charlotte voters overwhelmingly approved mixed drinks in a September referendum, following approval by the General Assembly of a local-option liquor-by-the-drink bill this summer. Orange County, Southern Pines, Sanford and Louisburg also approved mixed-drink sales.

Getting liquor to sell by next Tuesday may pose problems.

Under state law, all liquor for commercially sold mixed drinks must bear a special $10 per gallon tax stamp, and those bottles may only be purchased through the local ABC warehouse. The liquor may not be bought until the license is obtained.

Mecklenburg County ABC warehouse manager Henry Sever said he has arranged for all initial orders to be delivered in five state-owned trucks, in order to avoid a mob at the warehouse on Tuesday.

"If the licenses comt out Monday afternoon, we'll have the trucks rolling at 8 a.m. Tuesday," Sever said.

Sever said he expects orders for more than 3,000 cases, between 6,000 and 8,000 gallons of liquor.

Hernia May Need Surgery

For years I've been wearing a truss for a hernia. I was told years ago to have an operation, but I've been avoiding it. Now the truss doesn't seem to be working as well as it used to. At the age of 62 I worry that it is too late for me to have an operation. Is there any other type of apparatus that I can wear? — Mr. S.G.R., Neb.

Dear Mr. R.:

There are many different types of hernias. I gather that yours is an inguinal hernia.

Any hernia is a weakness or an enlargement of one of the normal openings of the body. Sometimes another organ protrudes into this opening and must be pushed back. With inguinal hernias, there is always a possibility that a small loop of intestine may become trapped in the opening. If the tissue becomes swollen, replacement of the intestine becomes difficult and sometimes impossible. When this occurs, it is a serious complication that usually necessitates immediate surgery.

A truss can often effectively, by pressure, prevent the intestine from entering into the hernial ring. Sometimes obesity or lifting a heavy object can cause pressure within the abdomen and the intestinal complication arises.

You say that the truss is not as effective as it was. It is unwise to put off an operation if one has been recommended. The advances in modern anesthesia and the refinement of the surgical procedure are so great that you can be sure you will come through the operation with flying colors.

Do people with astigmatism have a greater chance of developing cataracts or glaucoma? — Mr. M.B., N.M.

Dear Mr. B.:

As you know, proper corrective glasses and exercises begun at an early age are extremely helpful for astigmatism. The condition is related mostly to the curvature of the eyeball rather than to any disease or disorder within it.

If glaucoma or cataracts do occur in someone who has had astigmatism, it is purely coincidental. There does not seem to be any relationship between astigmatism and either of these two eye problems.

I enjoy taking a sauna bath at the club, and am thinking of installing one in my home. My husband questions the wisdom of this because he thinks too much of it might be harmful. — Mrs. E.J., Wis.

Dear Mrs. J.:

Many people find that sauna baths are exceedingly relaxing and soothing. Originally they were used in the bath houses of Finland where water was poured over heated stones or hot coals to create steam.

Unless there is some medical reason that would forbid you to use it, it probably will be beneficial. Remember, however, that too concentrated steam and too high temperatures can be fatiguing and devitalizing. This would diminish the beneficial values of the sauna.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Reports of new oil discoveries along Mexico's Gulf Coast have increased the prospect that the southern neighbor of the United States will supplant Saudi Arabia as the world's premier producer.

The national oil company, PEMEX, said Monday if the finds along the "Golden Belt" are proven they could increase the country's potential reserves from some 200 billion barrels to more than 300 billion — double the amount of Saudi Arabia's known reserves.

Miguel Tomasini, PEMEX's press chief, said preliminary reports indicate the new field has 110 billion barrels of oil and 40 trillion feet of natural gas. He said the deposits are between Veracruz and Tampico at a depth of 270 to 6,000 feet in an area 75 miles long and 17 miles wide.

He said the field will be developed over 13 years with 30 wells drilled during each of the first four years. He also said about 1,800 miles of roads and railroads will have to be built to handle the oil.

PEMEX President Jose Diaz Serrano, breaking the find Sunday to the Latin American Petrochemical Congress in Cancun, said experts were being called in to confirm the size of the discovery and help revise estimates of Mexico's reserves.

He also said off-shore exploration is just getting underway along a 1,000-mile stretch between Campeche and Tampico, and that engineers reported there were promising formations in or near recent oil discoveries on land.

Serrano said as a result of the recent discoveries that plans are being made to increase Mexico's daily production from 1.4 million barrels now to 2.2 million barrels by 1982.

Mexico's most recent oil boom began seven years ago when PEMEX engineers started drilling deeper in the Yucatan fieds where shallow wells had been producing less and less since they were first sunk in 1938. More deposits were found later farther north around Tampico.

PEMEX had said it was using new means of exploration that required almost monthly reassessments of known and probable reserves.

Only two months ago, Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo said Mexico's potential reserves topped 200 million barrels and that known reserves were 20 billion. But foreign experts called his estimate of known reserves very conservative and said the figure was closer to 120 billion.

The Petroleum Producers' Association of Japan said in Tokyo today a six-member oil research delegation will leave on a 20-day tour to Mexico, Argentina and Chile Nov. 20 to find out whether Japan can participate in oil development projects in the three nations.

The delegation is to visit Mexico City Nov. 21-26, Buenos Aires Nov. 27-Dec. 1 and Santiago Dec. 2-6. The association consists of 23 Japanese oil developing firms.

Asks Nonpartisan Body For Redistricting N.C.

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Rep. James Broyhill, R-N.C. has proposed that the state's congressional districts be redrawn after the 1980 census by an independent, bipartisan committee, instead of the Democratic-controlled General Assembly.

Broyhill, who was unopposed for re-election from the 10th District this year, said such a committee would reduce partisan politics in the redistricting process.

Broyhill, speaking Sunday to the non-partisan, public-interest group, Common Cause, at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, recommended that the governor select a redistricting committee by naming one person each from a list of names submitted by the lieutenant governor and speaker of the state House. The governor would also choose one name from a list submitted by the minority leaders of both houses of the General Assembly.

"I think it would get a fair assessment of what the district should be like and take it out of partisan politics," Broyhill said. "We have seen so often that in states where Democrats or Republicans hold an advantage, they try to redistrict to partisan advantage."

Broyhill has fought redistricting battles in the past, as the Republican Party has accused the Democratic-controlled legislature of trying to gerrymander minority party legislatures out of office.

Voting districts for Congress, state House and Senate are realigned after every census.

In the past, committees of the state House and Senate have drawn up redistricting plans that were voted on by the full chambers.

"I've represented two and a half districts in my period in Congress," said Broyhill, noting past redistricting since he was elected in 1962. "And the same thing happened with Charlie Jonas (former GOP congressman from Charlotte). He represented a large number of counties during his terms."

Broyhill said he expects strong opposition from North Carolina lawmakers to the change.

Roy Park Advocate Of Aid By Business

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Roy H. Park, a major U.S. communications entrepreneur, told delegates to a national education meeting Monday in St. Louis that American businesses should sharply increase their financial assistance to public higher education.

Park, a Surry County native who owns about 50 newspapers, radio and television stations in 12 states, spoke at a meeting of the University Relations Officers at the 92nd annual meeting of the National Association of State Universities and LandGrant Colleges.

Park said businesses should allocate 2 percent of their pretax profits through donations to help assure that big government does not take over public higher education.

Park said the allocation would produce more than $5 million a year in private contributions to state universities and land-grant colleges.

Park proposed an alliance of corporate businesses with the 140 land-grant colleges and state universities in the nation and called his plan a "natural alliance" because of their emphasis on scientific aand technological knowledge of productivity.

Park was introduced in the meeting along with N.C. State Chancellor Joab L. Thomas, who is a member of the Council of Presidents of the association.

The association is composed of 140 major state institutions, including N.C. State and the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Seek Certifying Of Watershed Job

The Pitt County Drainage District No. 3 has filed application to the North Carolina Division of Environmental Management for certification that the discharge of excavated material into wetland areas of the Swift Creek watershed will not violate applicable water quality standards.

The Pitt County Drainage District proposes to perform maintenace excavation of drainage canals and creek channels in the Swift Creek watershed near Ayden. The project will result in the excavation of approximately 150 miles of laterals and appoximately 35 miles on the main channels of Swift Creek, Fork Swamp, Indian Wells Swamp and Clayroot Swamps.

The purpose of the work is to provide drainage and flood protection for approximately 21,253 acres of cropland and pasture.

Further information concerning the project may be obtained at the offices of Environmental Operations Sections, Division of Environmental Management, 512 North Salisbury St., Archdale Building, Raleigh.

Authentic English Stoneware. Free. From BB&T.

English Stoneware is something special. Made the way it's been made for over 150 years. By hand. By craftsmen.

Potters take the clay from their native England and fashion it into distinctive shapes. Each piece is individually dipped in a glaze. Then hand decorated by a talented artist.

All this care does make an elegant difference, recognizable in subtle variations from piece to piece.

By saving at Branch Banking and Trust Company, you can get your first three-piece place setting free.

That's a hand-crafted cup, saucer and dinner plate free, just for depositing $25 or more, in a new or existing BB&T Regular Savings Account at any BB&T office.

12 piece snack set for four.

Each snack set consists of a coffee mug, soup/cereal bowl and a salad/luncheon plate. It's ideal for snacks, breakfasts and light lunches.

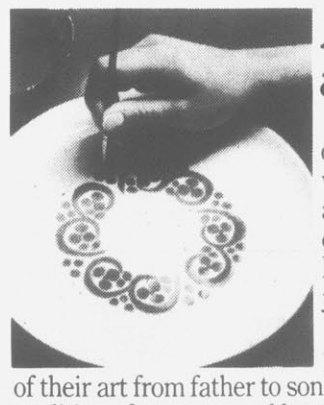
When you deposit $500.00 in a new or existing BB&T Savings Account, you may purchase this twelve-piece snack set for four for only $31.75.

26 piece service for four.

Entertain the idea of having enough Stoneware for a dinner party this evening: four dinner plates, four cups, four saucers, four bread and butter plates, four soup/cereal bowls, a 1.5 quart casserole dish with lid, an oval platter, a sugar bowl with lid, and a cream pitcher.

They can all be yours for only $65.00. Simply deposit $1,000 in a new or existing BB&T Savings Account. And entertain.

Limited to one free place setting per account.



Almost a lost art.

This Stoneware had its origin in Belper, England, which is near the origin of another famous story. That of Robin Hood. Sherwood Forest and Nottingham are just a short distance away.

Here, craftsmen have passed the secrets and skills of their art from father to son to grandson. Establishing a tradition of unsurpassed hand-craftsmanship.

Each piece of Authentic English Stoneware is hand-formed by craftsmen, glazed by hand, and the decorations are painted on by skillful artists.

The result is beautiful in an honest, natural way.

Beauty doesn't have to be fragile.

Authentic English Stoneware is as practical as it is pretty. You can do things with this Stoneware that you'd never think possible.

You can use it in a regular or microwave oven. You can freeze in it. You can put it in the dishwasher.

And yet, it will look like new after years of this kind of hard use.

This Stoneware is so strong that the supplier gives a limited two-year warranty. Which you can pick up at any BB&T office.

Matching completer pieces at special low prices.

When you make a savings deposit of $25 or more, you may purchase completer pieces at special low prices. For example, additional three-piece place settings are only $6.49 each. And you may pay for your purchases with cash, check or Master Charge. Whichever is most convenient.

If you've ever priced Authentic English Stoneware, and it's only available in the finest stores, you know that BB&T's offer is a remarkable value.

Start your collection today.

Stop by any BB&T office today and get your first place setting of Authentic English Stoneware free with a deposit of $25 or more in a new or existing savings account. And while you're at the bank, pick up a complimentary copy of our fully-detailed brochure.

Poultry,

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina f.o.b. dock broiler market was steady, supplies moderate, demand moderate to light, weights desirable. The dock weighted average price for this week is 41 12 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today, 1,382,000.

Hens,

The North Carolina hen market was higher, supplies and demand moderate. Prices paid per pounds for hens over seven pounds at farm for Monday and Tuesday slaughter 28 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rmained on the defensive today amid expectations of continuing upward pressure on interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which fell 15.08 Monday to its lowest closing level in seven months, slipped another 1.21 to 790.80 by noontime today.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a 4-1 margin in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the market was depressed by a widespread belief that interest rates will continue to rise.

A handful of banks in Chicago and Philadelphia raised their prime lending rates from 10½ to 11 percent Monday.

Brokers noted projections that recent rises in open-market money rates have virtually assured that the basic rate on blue-chip loans will go to at least 11½ by the end of the year.

The latest rise in rates, which is mainly the result of government moves aimed at helping the battered dollar in foreign exchange, has increased the likelihood of a recession, in the view of many economists. Administration officials maintain, however, that a recession can be avoided.

Borden led the active list, off ⅜ at 27⅛. A 383,600-share block changed hands at 27¼.

The NYSE's composite index lost .18 to 51.65. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 1.16 to 140.07.

Volume on the Big Board stepped up to 12.79 million shares as of noontime, against 8.23 million at the same point Monday.

Segregated

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — "Son of Sam" killer David Berkowitz was immediately segregated from the general inmate population after his arrival at maximum security Attica prison, prison officials said.

Berkowitz, who shot and killed six persons and terrorized New York City for a year, was transferred here Monday by van from the state's Central New York Psychiatric Center near Utica, officials said.

Following an hour-long interview with Berkowitz, Frances Mills, chief of the prison's psychiatric unit, said, "Right now, he's not psychotic, so he's just like any other inmate."

manager Faye Brewington reported that the first parcel in the South Evans Project was acquired since the October meeting, while seven parcels were purchased in the West Meadowbrook area.

Mrs. Brewington said that all but one Meadowbrook acquisition involved vacant tracts and only one family remains in the flood plain area.

No acquisition activity took place in Southside during the period, she pointed out.

Ed Cobb, staff rehabilitation officer, said that two rehabilitation grants, involving structures in Southside and Riverdale, were completed and work has begun on five new properties.

Commissioners approved amendments to title services contracts calling for an additional 18 parcels to be covered in the South Evans Project and eight new parcels in the West Greenville Thoroughfare Improvements Project.

Laney said that the parcel additions resulted from the new alignment designations for the two city projects.

In a final matter, a resolution was adopted authorizing Laney and assistant director J. C. Lamm as check signer and counter signer, respectively, and Laughinghouse and Gordon as co-signer and alternate, respectively. The resolution was necessary due to the election of a new vice chairman this year.

Tobacco Show...

Dix Harper, publisher of "The Flue-Cured Tobacco Farmer" which sponsors the show in cooperation with "Florida Grower and Rancher" and "The Peanut Farmer," spoke of the various officials attending the three-day show.

"Furney Todd of the North Carolina State University Agricultural Extension Service is expected to arrive today," Harper stated. "Wednesday, Commissioners Jim Graham, S. Mason Carbaugh of Virginia, and G. Bryan Patrick Jr. of South Carolina will definitely be at the show."

Tobacco leaves from each of the five southern fluecured tobacco states will be judged and displayed at the show Wednesday.

Thursday, North Carolina Lt. Governor Jimmy Green is scheduled to be on hand, as well as U. S. Congressman Walter B. Jones. Country singer Don Williams will perform at 2:30 p.m.

There is no admission charge for the show and the public is invited to attend. Parking is free.

The Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival sponsored a Tobacco Spitting and Tobacco Tying Contests Tuesday afternoon.

Gaylord Perry, pitcher for the San Diego Padres, was scheduled to participate in the spitting contest.

The Powell Manufacturing display at the show features poster drawn by Pitt County elementary students, with winners to be announced Thursday.

Vote-Buying Inquiry Set

HAYESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — An order has been issued by the state Board of Elections scheduling a public hearing and inquiry Dec. 4 into charges of vote-buying in Clay County.

The order, issued Friday to Clay County Board of Elections Chairman George Anderson, said anyone with information concerning the inquiry will be allowed to speak.

Following complaints of vote-buying with absentee ballots, six State Bureau of Investigation agents were sent to Clay County by the state Elections Board prior to last Tuesday's election.

The report on the probe has not been made public. But at least one sworn statement is on file in the Cherokee County Clerk of Court's office claiming that $30 was paid for a straight Republican vote.

The order said that following the hearing, a new election for county offices in Clay will be set.

Tight-Lipped Stabler Leads Oakland Past Cincinnati, 34-21

CINCINNATI (AP) — Oakland Raiders quarterback Ken Stabler could have called it vindication, but he wasn't talking after tossing three touchdown passes in a nationally televised 34-21 victory over the Cincinnati Bengals Monday night.

Embittered by media criticism after throwing 23 interceptions in his first 10 games this season, Stabler continued his cold war afterwards.

"Nothing personal, I just don't have any comment," said the bewhiskered 32-year-old National Football League veteran, dismissing reporters from his cubicle. He completed nine of 19 passes for 109 yards.

Taking advantage of seven Cincinnati turnovers, the Raiders, 7-4, withstood a 388-yard aerial barrage by Ken Anderson to move into a first-place tie with Denver in the American Football Conference Western Division.

The loss plunged the mistake-prone Bengals to 1-10.

"Our defense created the turnovers and our offense took advantage," said Raiders' Coach John Madden as Oakland boosted its record in Monday night games to 11-1-1 since 1970.

Stabler's teammates did the talking for him, saying he doesn't deserve the criticism for the Raiders' four losses.

"He might be having his worst year, but not to the extent the press is saying," said tight end Dave Casper, who caught a 25-yard touchdown pass as Oakland built a 27-7 lead going into the final quarter.

"The fault is always blamed on the quarterback," said Casper.

"He's got a lot of unnecessary publicity," said cornerback Neal Colzie, whose 32-yard fumble recovery return triggered a quick start. The problem, said Colzie, is "we're hurting, but nobody mentions it."

Linebacker Phil Villapiano said the victory puts Oakland in good position for a 10th playoff appearance in 12 years. The Raiders play four of their last five games at home.

"It's going to come down to that (Denver) game in Oakland (on Dec. 3)," said Villapiano, whose interception snuffed a Cincinnati drive with Oakland hanging onto a precarious 27-21 lead with 6:01 remaining.

Safety Charles Phillips victimized Anderson for a fourth interception with less than four minutes remaining, setting up an insurance touchdown by Mark van Eeghen.

With the score at 13-7, Stabler directed a 73-yard march, hitting Casper three times for gains of 21, 29 and 25 yards. Earlier, he had a 5-yard touchdown toss to Raymond Chester after safety Mike Davis pounced on a fumble he forced at Cincinnati's 33-yard line.

Stabler's third touchdown, an 11-yard pitch to Morris Bradshaw, came after Willie Hall recovereda fumble by Cincinnati rookie running back David Turner at the Bengals' 22 midway through the third quarter.

Anderson tied a club record with 30 completions in 50 pass attempts. He had touchdown tosses of 25 and 5 yards to Isaac Curtis and Archie Griffin.

Bridesmaid Penn State Finally Makes It To Alter—No. One

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Nittany Lions of Penn State, often a bridesmaid but never a bride, made it to the top of The Associated Press college football poll today for the first time ever.

Penn State's 19-10 victory over North Carolina State, coupled with previously unbeaten Oklahoma's 17-14 loss to Nebraska, vaulted the Nittany Lions from runnerup to Oklahoma the last four weeks past the Sooners into the top spot.

Meanwhile, Nebraska took over second place in a tight race with Alabama, setting up the possibility of an Orange Bowl showdown between the nation's 1-2 teams. Nebraska was named Monday to represent the Big Eight in the Orange Bowl, while Penn State is expected to receive an invitation when the formal bids go out Saturday.

"I don't feel any different now than I did when we were ranked No. 2," said Penn State Coach Joe Paterno. "We still have two tough games to play before we can stake a claim to being No. 1. I've always said the only poll that means anything is the final one."

Penn State, 10-0 and the nation's only unbeaten major college team, winds up its regular season Nov. 24 against No. 20 Pitt.

The Nittany Lions, who finished second in the final 1968 and 1969 polls and fifth in 1971, 1973 and last year, received 55 of 66 first-place votes and 1,296 of a possible 1,320 poinzs from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

Nebraska received six first-place votes and 1,209 points while Alabama, a 31-10 winner over Louisiana State, held onto third place with four first-place votes and 1,203 points.

Oklahoma slipped to fourth place with 1,092 points, while Southern California remained in fifth place. The Trojans, who whipped Washington 28-10 and knocked the Huskies out of the Top Twenty, received the other first-place ballot and 1,071 points.

Houston climbed from eighth to sixth with 975 points following a 10-7 triumph over Texas. The loss dropped the Longhorns from sixth to ninth place behind Michigan and Georgia.

Michigan held onto seventh place with 965 points for a 59-14 rout of Northwestern, while Georgia jumped from 11th to eighth with 803 points by defeating Florida 24-22.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Texas with 733 points and defending national champion Notre Dame, a 31-14 victor over Tennessee, with 662. The Fighting Irish had been out of the Top Ten since the first week of the season when they lost to Missouri.

The Second Ten consists of Maryland, Clemson, Arkansas, UCLA, Purdue, Michigan State, Louisiana State, Pittsburgh, Ohio State and Georgia Tech. Last week, it was Georgia, Purdue, Maryland, Notre Dame, Clemson, Arkansas, Michigan State, Navy, Washington and Pitt.

Navy dropped out by losing to Syracuse 20-17 while Washington bowed to Southern Cal. Meanwhile, Ohio State trounced Illinois 45-7 and returned to the Top Twenty for the first time in five weeks, while Georgia Tech made it for the first time this season by winning its seventh game in a row, a 42-21 triumph over Air Force.

Tobacco Golfing

FARMVILLE — Willard Wilson of Greenville took low gross honors yesterday in the Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival golf tournament at Farmville Country Club yesterday.

Carter Smith of Fountain was second and Gene Eason of Farmville third in the low gross category.

Jim Burk of Farmville was low net, followed by Lowell Liles of Farmville and Spencer Hill of Greenville.

Women In Swim Win

RALEIGH — East Carolina University's women's swim team gained their second victory of the season last night, downing St. Mary's, 77-52.

Cindy Sailer was a triple winner for the Pirates, capturing the 50 and 100-yard butterfly and the 50-yard freestyle.

Karen Davidsen won two events, the 50-yard backstroke and the 500-yard freestyle.

The Pirates had five others who won one event each.

The win gives the Lady Pirates a 2-0 record. Their next outing will be December 1-2 when they compete in the State AIAW meet in Wilmington. A dual meet against Alabama, set for this Saturday, has been cancelled.

Babe Ruth twice hit home runs in consecutive innings in World Series competition.

Marshall Coach Fired On Eve Of ECU Game

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — The latest victim of a decade and a half of football frustration at Marshall University, ousted coach Frank Ellwood admits the school is becoming "a coaches' graveyard."

"But it doesn't have to be that way," said Ellwood, who was told Sunday the contracts of he and his six-man assistants' staff would not be renewed. The firings were made public Monday in a statement issued by Marshall athletic director Joe McMullen.

"The losing at Marshall has resulted from a combination of things," said Ellwood, whose four Marshall teams won just nine of 43 games. "And it seems like all of the coaches had things going uphill ... but they just couldn't push it over."

Ellwood admitted that telling his players of the decision was the worst part of the ordeal.

"That was the toughest part," said Ellwood, 43, an assistant coach at Ohio State, the Air Force Academy and Ohio University before being named Marshall's coach in 1975.

"It was tough because I know the great effort and the sacrifices they've made ... and how close they came this season. We're 1-9 ... but we didn't lose very many games by 35-0. That's why I feel so bad about this season."

Making a difficult situation even more difficult for Ellwood — a former Ohio State quarterback — was that his son, Todd, is a wide receiver for the Herd.

"Todd knew before the team did ... it was because he was at home Sunday when I got home," said Ellwood. "He's a matter of fact guy like me. He just shrugged his shoulders. He's been around this evel of football long enough to know what goes on. I don't think he was shocked ...at least he didn't reflect it."

Ellwood made it clear that he did not resign and would have liked to have stayed at Marshall.

"I didn't resign," said Ellwood. "And they didn't tell me at the start of the season that I would have one year, or two years or five games to win. It's a simple fact that if you don't win ... the coach isn't asked to stay."

Asked if he thought he had been given enough time to do the job, Ellwood hesitated, then said:

"Because I wanted to stay and coach here ... no, I don't agree with the time. But if you don't win, you don't stay."

The Dover, Ohio, native also said that he would have preferred the decision be announced after his team's final game of the season Saturday at East Carolina.

"It would have been easier to tell my football team," he said. "But then, they didn't ask me for my advice. They obviously felt this was the best time to announce it."

McMullen said Marshall will begin searching immediately for Ellwood's replacement. He said the school hoped to find a coach " ... who can bring a winning program to Marshall University. Our loyal fans and supporters deserve no less."

Ellwood credited his lack of success to two factors: an inability to recruit the way he would have liked and Marshall's long string of losing seasons. Marshall hasn't had a football winner since 1965.

"We're not located in a densely populated area ... and that hurt recruiting," said Ellwood. "And there's also what I call a persuasive gloom concerning Marshall football. All you have to do is take a look at the record books ... and that's one of the things I regret, that we weren't able to turn that around."

Ellwood said he hasn't decided whether he will stay in coaching.

"I won't start thinking about it until after the East Carolina game," he said. "I'm leaving myself completely open ... I've got a lot of things to think about. I've got to readjust my personal goals."

Ellwood's firing came after Marshall's ninth straight loss, a 15-14 decision Saturday at Southern Illinois. The Thundering Herd has lost nine of its 10 games this season after losing the final eight games of the 1977 season.

"Frank Ellwood and his staff ... have represented our university well, despite their inability to improve the won-loss record," said McMullen.

"We have no timetable," McMullen said. "But we hope to fill the position as soon as possible ... because of of our need to recruit outstanding student-athletes."

Contest Winners

Sellers Lawrence of Box 27, Falkland, is the winner of this year's final "Daily Reflector" Football Contest.

Lawrence correctly picked the winners in 28 of the 31 games counted in the contest. One game, the Colorado-Kansas State game was not counted since it was incorrectly listed.

Second place went to Russ Roberson of Rt. 4, Box 398, Williamston, who picked the winners in 28 of the listed games.

He took second place on the basis of his point guess, with a listing of 72. The actual total was 73, scored in Michigan's 59-14 win over Northwestern.

Six other people also picked 28 games right, but were further off the total.

The tie between Purdue and Wisconsin was counted wrong since it was possible to pick a tie.

The contest ended the 1978 series.

Schism, Not Record, Caused Firing

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The sports world lost another hero when Willis Reed was fired as coach of the New York Knicks last weekend. It's a loss we can ill afford.

The sad thing is that when Reed retired as a player back in 1974, he had a reputation that was unparalleled.

He was a player of skill, intelligence, courage and old-fashioned guts, the ultimate team player who measured success in terms of victories, not points scored.

Now that reputation is tarnished by an unsuccessful stint as coach of the team for which he played for 10 years, leading it to its only two National Basketball Association championships. The players' player never quite became the players' coach, and the man who never made excuses as a player had a steady stream of them as a coach.

Reed's dismissal was no surprise. He had bitten off more than he could chew when he became coach of he Knicks without any prior coaching experience, and it was only a matter of time until he self-destructed.

His record was decent. But Reed was not fired because of his record. He was fired because his statements over the past 18 months had created a schism between himself and management which Madison Square Garden President Sonny Werblin would not tolerate.

No employee gives Werblin an ultimatum and survives. Reed did it twice, first threatening to quit last summer unless the team obtained a dominating center, then repeatedly demanding a vote of confidence. Werblin bit the bullet once, but not the second time.

It's sad Reed had to go out that way. But when you think of him some years from now, don't think of the coach.

Instead, think back to May 8, 1970, Madison Square Garden, the seventh game of the NBA playoff finals, the New York Knicks against the Los Angeles Lakers.

Reed had missed Game 6 because of an injury to his right leg and the Knicks had been blown out by the Lakers. He might miss the seventh game.

Suddenly, minutes before the start of the game, a cheer began to ripple through the crowd. All eyes turned to the tunnel that leads from the locker room area under the stands onto the court. There, walking slowly, dragging his right leg behind him, was Reed. By the time the mountain of a man stepped onto the court, the roar of the crowd was deafening.

When Reed sank his first two shots against the legendary Wilt Chamberlain, the crowd was in a frenzy. He didn't score another point all night, but it couldn't have mattered less. The Lakers were dead the moment Reed, his aching leg shot full of pain-killer, hobbled onto the court.

When it was over, the Knicks had a 113-99 victory and their first NBA championship ever.

One year later, Reed's chronic knee problems forced him to miss all but 11 games of the season. He managed to lead the Knicks to another title in 1973, but he was playing more on heart than anything else. A year later, his playing career was over.

Reed was not right for the coaching job. When you think of Reed, think of May 8, 1970 — the man deserves that much.

After 13 Years, Joe Takes News Stoically

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Penn State coach Joe Paterno has waited 13 years for his team to become No. 1 in college football and when it finally got there today he took the news rather stoically.

"We have two more games to play before we're really No. 1," Paterno said after learning the Nittany Lions had been voted the top team in the nation. "I feel the same way I did last week when we were No. 2."

In a telephone interview, Paterno said No. 1 or No. 2 doesn't make a lot of difference at this point as long as his team gets a chance to play for the national collegiate championship.

"I've never given much consideration to the poll until the end of the year," said the Penn State coach. "The last vote, that's the only important one."

Paterno admitted, however, that his team is thrilled by the accolade.

"I don't want to downplay the efforts of the players. I just want everyone to know that we still have some things to do," Paterno said. He referred, of course, to his team's course, to his team's season ending game against television Nov. 24 and a post-season bowl game.

Paterno said that when the bowl invitations are issued at 6 p.m. Saturday, Penn State will be ready with all its options. State is waiting to see whether second-ranked Nebraska beats tough Missouri and remains the poll runnerup.

The Lions also are awaiting the outcome of the Southeastern Conference championship race, which may end up in a tie between Alabama and Georgia.

In the event of such a deadlock, Georgia would host the Sugar Bowl because Alabama was there last year. Both teams have Auburn left on their schedules.

Alabama still could wind up ranked second, or possibly first, if Nebraska and Penn State lose their final games.

Penn State will go to the bowl where it can meet the highest ranked team available, Paterno said.

"I think the sentiment of our squad is certainly to play the team recognized as No. 2," he said. "Obviously in this case things are so close that you can't tell (who will wind up No. 1 and No. 2)."

He said because his team in the last two years went to the Gator and Fiesta bowls it probably will want something different, like a berth in the Cotton, Sugar or Orange bowls.

"But a lot of things can happen Saturday," Paterno added. "We can not make up our minds until the scores are in Saturday night."

If Nebraska, Alabama and Georgia all lose, he said, the Cotton Bowl, which will have Southwestern Conference champion Houston as the host, would be a strong possibility.

Paterno acknowledged he already has had a conversation with Alabama coach Paul "Bear" Bryant about a possible matchup in the Gator Bowl if the Lions and the Crimson Tide wind up 1-2.

But Paterno said the bottom line, as far as he is concerned, is where his players want to go and who they want to play.

Auerbach Expected To Take Celt Reins

BOSTON (AP) — Red Auerbach, who coached the Boston Celtics to nine National Basketball Association championships and was general manager for four more, will abandon the front office to coach the staggering franchise, it was reported today.

The Boston Herald American said Auerbach, president and general manager, will take over from Tom Sanders, who resigned Monday, dejected and disillusioned over the Celtics' horrendous start — two victories in 14 games.

The Celtics called a news conference for noon today. It was reported earlier that Sanders' resignation would be announced, but the newspaper said details of a major trade also would be made public.

Co-owner John Y. Brown said Monday night that he "couldn't comment on anything now," but added that everyone would be "very happy when it (news conference) is over."

"I'm sure everyone will be pleased with the moves we plan to make," said Brown. "We're going to turn this thing around. We want the Boston fans to be proud of this team and they will after we do the things we think are necessary."

Auerbach, the winningest coach in NBA history, had rejected efforts by others to get him back on the bench.

He said as late as last week that if he were younger, he wouldn't mind returning to coaching, but added, "at my age, I'd probably have a heart attack in a week."

Sanders, who took over the club in January, replacing Tom Heinsohn, reached his decision to resign late Monday after a long meeting with Brown and Auerbach, according to the Herald.

There was earlier speculation that either Bob Cousy or Bill Sharman, two former Boston greats, might be named to replace Sanders. Both have pro coaching experience.

Sanders, who starred with Boston for several years, coached four years at Harvard before becoming an assistant coach with the Celtics last year. He was promoted to head coach in January when Heinshn was fired by then owner Irv Levin, and compiled a 21-27 record.

Sanders was retained after Brown acquired the Celtics in a franchise swap with Levin. Levin acquired the old Buffalo Braves and moved the franchise to San Diego.

Dorsett Is Angry

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Cowboy running back Tony Dorsett says if the armchair quarterbacks in the press had their way he would carry the ball right out of town.

The Heisman Trophy winner dodged and sped his way for 149 yards Sunday as the Super Bowl champions thrashed the Green Bay Packers 42-14. And after the game, Dorsett did his stepping on the Dallas press.

"I feel like the press is trying to run me out of Dallas," Dorsett told reporters in the locker room. "It seems that when things aren't going to good for us, everyone is pointing the finger at me. When you're down, they want to talk about you and write bad things about you."

Dorsett and his million-dollar legs became the darling of Dallas sports writers when he galloped into the Cowboy record book last season as a 1,000-yard runner.

New York Yankees Add Ageless Luis Tiant To Pitching Staff

NEW YORK (AP) — For the next two years, and another season beyond that if they decide they want him, Luis Tiant will be pitching for the New York Yankees.

After that, at the age of 40 or 41, Tiant, who signed as a free agent Monday, will turn to more dignified pursuits as the Yankees Director of Latin American Affairs.

"Sounds like a State Department post, doesn't it?" said Paul George, the Boston attorney who negotiated the unique deal that delivered the veteran right-hander to the Yankees from the Boston Red Sox.

George said Tiant signed with New York because of the longterm security the Yankees offered. "It was a very attractive proposition," the attorney said.

New York was the only club to select negotiating rights to Tiant at the free agent re-entry draft 10 days ago. That's because he will celebrate his 38th birthday at the end of this month and pitchers hat age aren't in great demand, especially when they want multi-year contracts.

But the Yankees, who've been known to gamble in the free agent marketplace before, went after Tiant with an unusual offer that will keep him in their organization long after he's through pitching.

"We saw an opportunity to use a man who is as well known as anyone who has ever played this game," said Yankees President Al Rosen. "It was a natural marriage."

Tiant was 13-8 with a 3.31 earned run average for Boston last season, including a final game two-hit shutout over Toronto that gave the Red Sox a tie with New York for the American League East crown and forced a playoff. And he thinks he can help the Yankees on the mound before he switches to the front office.

"As long as I can throw the ball to home plate and do my job, that's more important than my age," he said. "Gaylord Perry's older than me and he won 21 games and the Cy Young Award. His age didn't make any difference."

Tiant was considered washed up when he was released by Minnesota following the 1970 season. But he signed with Boston and had three 20-victory seasons in eight years with the Red Sox and pushed his career victory total to 204 — 122 of them with the Bosox. But when he wanted a new multiyear contract Boston balked and Tiant went the free agent route.

Soccer

The Rowdies and the Hot Shots captured victories in the Greenville Recreation & Parks Department's Soccer League yesterday.

The Rowdies got a 1-0 victory over the Capitals in the first game. Tim West scored an unassisted goal in the first period for the lone score in the game.

Kimla Smith, Tom Moye and Kenny Smith were cited for their defensive efforts for the Rowdies, while Steve Peele, Trip Andrews and Greg Main led the Capital defense.

The Hot Shots gained a 2-1 win over the Strikers in the second game.

Ralph Harper put the Strikers ahead with a second period goal. But the Hot Shots came back in the second half to score goals in each quarter, one by Jim Benedict and the other by Scott Kendrick.

Kelly Barnhill and Chris Meeks led the Striker defense, while Camille Cox, Catherine Land and Mike Kasperek led the Hot Shots.

Women's Golfing

WILSON — Three Greenville Golf and Country Club women were among winners at the Eastern Carolina Golf Association tournament in Wilson.

In the championship flight, Harriette White took low putts. Jane Joyner took both low gross and closest to the pin on the 11th hole in the third flight. Ann Evans won second low gross in the fifth flight.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, NOV. 15, 1978

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have considerably more life and force today and will be able to utilize it to advantage. Evening brings the need to sidestep arguments.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over with allies how best to put creative ideas across and how to trend your efforts. Forget the social for the time being.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Consult with a trusted adviser and improve monetary matters. Get as much information as you can regarding the value of art pieces, etc.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you get in touch with bigwigs you know, you can gain personal goals more easily now. Gain the backing you need.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Quietly study into ways to have more abundance in the future, but don't be overly generous with others. Know what your true position is with a loved one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have good judgment about how to gain personal goals so go after them early in the day. Stay within your budget.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make plans to travel with a good friend to some new place and you can gain an important wish. Keep an eye on your pocket.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Do what you can to improve business conditions. Make new contacts who can be of assistance to you in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get in touch with a bigwig you know and find out how to handle a difficult matter. A talk with your mate can also bring good results. Be careful of one with a jealous streak.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listen to a plan which partners have and it could prove to be worthwhile. Study a new proposal first before committing yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Concentrate on the work in front of you and gain more benefit from it. Inform associates of any part of plans that concerns them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Aspects are fine for accomplishing a good deal in business, but take a bigwig with you for best results. Don't squander money foolishly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you take time to organize your work far into the future you can then carry through on schedule profitably. Keep active and you are happy..

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have many talents so give an adequate education slanted toward the inventive, combinations of ideas, etc. Teach early to finish whatever is once started. Compliment your progeny for work well done.

Dyan Cannon's Acting Brilliant In Her Sally Stanford Portrayal

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sally Stanford is a grand old damsel who ran a famous, elegant San Francisco bawdyhouse in the 1930s and 1940s. Now they've gone and made a TV movie about her.

"Lady of the House" is the film's name. It airs tonight on NBC and stars Dyan Cannon, whose acting is brilliant even if her makeup in some scenes as the ancient Ms. Stanford isn't.

A preliminary note: if you are of bluenose persuasion, rest assured that taste and discretion run rampant in this two-hour film and that bordello capers are by no means the main event of the show.

The movie is a direct, if highly romantic, tale of her colorful life and times, heavily tinged with sadness. It starts with the lady, in her 80s, musing about her past.

Which starts the expected flashback to her childhood in Baker, Ore., where, at age 15, she falls for a gent who wants to whisk her off to Colorado for purposes of marriage. She wants no pre-marital romp, though, warning: "I just want everything to be respectable."

Alas, her true love is carted away on embezzlement charges and she gets two years in jail as his accomplice, despite her claims of innocence. These scenes aren't very convincing or effective.

Nor are those of a post-prison bit where she moves to Ventura, Calif., befriends an illegal alien (Jesse Don) and, to makes ends meet, becomes a bootlegger catering to oilfield workers.

But stick with the show. Just as you think NBC has foaled a turkey, a young, handsome, cultured San Francisco lawyer (Armand Assante) arrives at her door, seeking a lady who fleeced his client of $1,700.

This wealthy Prince Charming is promptly fleeced of his heart and, not knowing of her bootlegging past, woos and in time weds her.

Improbable, yes, and Ron Koslow's script contains such start-of-romance chat as "You one of those Italian smoothies?" and later: "He was a true gentleman. He treated me like a lady."

Still, Assante and Ms. Cannon somehow make all this work by spare, economical acting that is a prime example of how to turn verbal dross into droatic gold.

Their scenes are excellent, likewise Ms. Cannon's work as a lady proceeding down Rue Regret with an adopted infant son, John David, her marriage destroyed by a sister-in-law who learns of her past.

She's convincing at all times, whether fighting a police frame-up after her divorce or acting the gracious hostess at her fabled pleasure palace. And even the script seems convincing here.

But the last act — in which she gives up her wicked ways, opens a restaurant in Sausalito, Calif., and runs for mayor there — is a let-down, just padding in a project that started bad and became good.

Well, the bits of good are quite good, thanks primarily to Dyan Cannon, who could have played her part broad and raffish and instead did it with subtlety, taste and intelligence.

Summation: The lady is the reason to watch NBC's "Lady" tonight.

MICKEY'S A STAR AT 50 — Mickey Mouse, the cartoon character created by Walt Disney, Monday became the 1700th star, and first animated personality, to have his star placed on Hollywood Boulevard's Walk of Fame. Minnie Mouse joined Mickey in front of Mann's, formerly Grauman's Chinese Theater. Event was one of many that will kick off a nationwide tour for Mickey, marking his 50th birthday as well as the 75th anniversary of Hollywood. (AP Laserphoto)

Opening lead: King of ♡.

When this hand was played in a team match, the defense at the two tables followed similar lines. Yet one declarer succeeded while the other did not.

Having opened a minimum hand, South had only one story to tell. After showing both his suits and hearing his partner carefully refrain from bidding no trump, North raised on his doubleton spade and the best contract was reached.

At the first table West led the king of hearts and shifted to the queen of spades. Declarer won the king and led a heart. West won the ten and continued a second trump, removing dummy's last trump.

Now declarer went after diamonds. He discarded a heart on the third diamond, but West ruffed and cashed another heart to defeat the contract.

Declarer was unlucky to encounter accurate defense and then find West with only two diamonds and three trumps. Yet he had only himself to blame for going down, as the second declarer demonstrated.

He too received an opening lead of the king of hearts, followed by a shift to the queen of spades. But he came up with a simple counter-stroke—he allowed the queen of spades to win the second trick!

The defense was rendered helpless. If West continued a trump, declarer would win, draw the last trump and take the rest of the tricks by running dummy's diamonds. The best West could do was cash another high heart, but that was the defenders' last trick. There was still a trump in dummy to take care of the third round of hearts, whereafter declarer could return to his hand, draw trumps and then run dummy's diamonds.

The hold-up play in trumps was a simple but most effective maneuver.

Movie About Pinball Took A Minor Miracle

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For Rudy Durand, a man with an obsession to make a film about pinball machines, the lowest point came at Christmas 1976.

On Christmas eve, he was locked out of his New York hotel room, and a cop wanted to book him for writing checks without sufficient funds. Durand is a persuasive talker, and he managed to escape that jam.

"I'm not a religious person; I haven't been to mass in 10 years," he admits. "But as I watched the Pope say Christmas mass on television, I asked for God's help."

Aid came from two sources: Orson Welles, who extolled Durand's script of "TILT" on the Johnny Carson Show, inciting film industry attention; Mel Simon, the Indianapolis millionaire and film backer, who agreed to finance the film and let Durand produce and direct.

"TILT," starring Brooke Shields, Ken Marshall and Charles Durning, will reach the nation's theaters this Christmas, Durand hopes. He still faces the last hurdle in his 10year struggle to make the film: Finding a distributor who will love it as much as he does.

With financing assured by Simon, the shopping mall makerturned-film angel, Durand searched for a 12-year-old to play the pinball addict.

"I interviewed young actresses for six weeks; I even flew to Paris to talk to Jodie Foster," said Durand. "The casting of the girl was crucial, because she appears in 80 percent of the script.

"When I stopped over in New York, I heard rumors about 'Pretty Baby.' I arranged to have lunch with Brooke Shields and her mother, and I realized after 20 minutes that Brooke was the girl I'd had in mind for 10 years."

Filming began in Santa Cruz, Calif., last October with heavy pressure on Durand. He was directing his first film with a 12year-old in her second movie, and under California law she could work only four hours a day. And Simon had told him: "If you go one day over the 42day schedule, you're off the picture."

Durand remarked, "Everyone knew the pressure I was under and they responded magnificently. Especially Brooke. She is a spontaneous actress who gives a flawless performance in the first take — two at the most."

"TILT" will be rated PG — Durand admitted he purposely avoided a G rating. "Youth has no patience," he observed. "If young people see a G rating on a movie they automatically think it's religious or Disney. They won't take the trouble to find out what it's about."

Wedding Carried Live On The Radio

WYTHEVILLE, Va. (AP) — James "Coal Dust" Moore and Frances Duncan wanted the whole town to know about their wedding, and just about anybody who turned on the radio to the local station got the word.

The wedding broadcast was beamed live between 11:30 a.m. and noon Monday from the studios of radio station WYVE.

Townsfolk flocked to the station to watch and listen. The bride and groom were cheered as they were chauffeured through the streets in an antique car. The station gave the newlyweds a free meal at a place of their choosing — a drive-in restaurant.

Moore is known locally for his guitar playing and singing. He occasionally sings on WYVE and sang two songs during the wedding.

It was the second marriage for Moore and the fifth for his bride, both in their 40s. They met only three weeks ago.

After the wedding, Moore said: "Yeah, I want to say one thing. I sure, Lord, had a good time at this wedding."

Said the new Mrs. Moore, "I'm just glad I got him."

Many of the town's 6,000 residents got into the spirit of the wedding. A bakery named "Jake's Mistake" gave them a cake; a local loan company had a sign in its window saying "Coal Dust, best wishes."

Acquittal Said Likely Inspire New Incidents

By TERRY M. DEVINE
Associated Press Writer

BUFFALO, Minn. (AP) — Folksinger Dean Reed, one of 19 power line opponents acquitted of trespassing in a case that became an international affair, says the verdict will inspire others to protest social injustice.

"I think this was a very important verdict because of the international support we received here," said 40-year-old Reed. "Others will gain inspiration from what happened in this courtroom."

The six-member Wright County jury deliberated for nearly seven hours before acquitting Reed and 18 others late Monday of criminal trespass in an Oct. 29 protest at the Delano, Minn. terminal of a 427mile power line from North Dakota to central Minnesota.

The case gained international attention when Tass, the Soviet news agency, began covering the trial. In a counterattack on President Carter's human rights campaign, the news agency said Reed's only offense was his "active struggle" in defending the rights of political prisoners in the United States.

In a dispatch today reporting the verdict, Tass said: "The victory attained over American reaction will be a profound stimulus for many people in the United States to come out ever more resolutely for their rights, against oppression and lawlessness."

Reed, who now lives in Studio City, Calif., is popular in Soviet bloc nations, where he often performs.

After the trial, the folksinger said he joined the power line protest "to draw attention to the great problems of political prisoners in the United States.

"I don't believe President Jimmy Carter can talk about human rights being violated by other countries while at the same time turning his back on men like American Indian Movement leader Russell Means," said Reed. The Indian activist is serving a prison term in South Dakota.

The packed courtroom erupted with cheers after the verdicts were read, and Reed and the other defendants embraced.

Defendants said the acquittals will give the power line protest new impetus and draw support to their cause.

"This is a tremendous victory for the opposition to the power line," said Kathleen Randall, 25, of Minneapolis. "We grow. We get ever stronger. We'll be there every step of the way supporting the farmers."

The power line, which many farmers said invaded their property rights, was completed in September despite nearly three years of protests and vandalism, but will not be operational until spring. It was built by two power cooperatives for rural electric cooperatives in Minnesota.

Marijuana Bales Wash Ashore

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Seven bales of marijuana worth an estimated $100,000 in street sales washed up on Dare County, N. C., beaches or were fished from the Atlantic Ocean over the weekend.

U. S. Customs agents said Monday the marijuana may have been dumped by a coastal freighter that was boarded and seized by the Coast Guard in Chesapeake Bay Saturday.

"Unfortunately, there is no possible way to connect the two, no matter how much we'd like to," a highly placed federal source told the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot. "marijuana doesn't have any control stamps marking it."

The first bale turned up Saturday morning. A U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service agent found it washed up along the beach about four miles north of Rodanthe, N. C. Another bale was found eight miles north of Rodanthe.

The National Park Service found a bale about four miles south of Salco, N. C., and boaters found four bales drifting in the ocean near Oregon Inlet.

A Customs agent who was sent to collect the marijuana estimated it had been in the water no "more than a day or so."

The freighter Friendship IV was boarded and seized by federal agents Saturday after members of crew of the Coast Guard cutter Cherokee reported their suspicions that the vessel had been hauling marijuana in its holds.

The 200-foot Panamanian freighter was spotted by a patrol plane Nov. 2 some 60 miles off Cape Hatteras, and the Cherokee was sent to investigate.

Coast Guard spokesman Fred Maldonado said the Cherokee reached the vessel Nov. 4 and found the Friendship IV without power. The master said the ship's owner or agent was arranging repairs, but after standing by two days, the master of the ship requested aid and the Cherokee towed it into Chesapeake Bay Nov. 5.

Some Cherokee crew members had boarded the Friendshsip IV earlier, and when they returned they reportedly said they believed the ship had been hauling marijuana.

Coast Guardsmen, federal Drug Enforcement Agency investigators and Customs agents boarded the vessel Saturday.

The search turned up nothing more than marijuana residue, Coast Guard officials said.

"The fact that the residue was found in the ship's hold indicates they were loaded with marijuana and had unloaded it successfully," said Cmdr. Arnold Littelkin, chief of the Coast Guard's 5th District intelligence and law enforcement branch.

He estimated the ship could have carried 1,000 tons of marijuana.

The ship had 19 crew members, all Colombian. U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agent Gary Hale said 17 have been flown back to Colombia at federal expense.

He said the ship's master is in custody in Virginia Beach but the first mate has disappeared.

Hale added that no agency "has expressed any intentions of initiating a criminal investigation against any of the crew."

Fred Matteson of the Customs Service said there has been no decision whether the ship will remain in federal hands or handed back to the master.

Metro Will Add 5 New Stations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington area's Metro subway will add another five stations and 7.5 miles of track on Nov. 20. The new service will be from the District of Columbia into Maryland's Prince Georges County. The new line will put 31 miles of the planned 100-mile system in operation.

The system is not expected to be completed until at least 1984.

Six Question Sentencing

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A letter signed by six faculty members at North Carolina State University, saying there are "serious questions" about the sentences of the Charlotte Three and urging a pardon for the men, has been sent to Gov. Jim Hunt.

The letter is signed by professors from the schools of Humanties and Social Sciences, Education and Physical and Mathematical Sciences. It urges Hunt to grant the Charlotte Three a "pardon of innocence or at the very least a commutation of sentence to time already served."

The letter also declares that there are "serious questions whether the cause of justice, or the interests of North Carolinians, is served in any way by requiring the Charlotte Three to serve out their sentences."

The professors say in the letter that they are concerned that the jury in the trial was not informed of cash payments of $4,000 each made to key witnesses in the trial.

The letter points out that the sentences imposed on the men were "reportedly the longest ever given for an unlawful burning that did not involve injury or loss of human life."

The Charlotte Three — James Grant, T.J. Reddy and Charles Parker — were sentenced to 25, 15 and 10 years respectively for their alleged part in the 1967 burning of the Lazy B Stables in Charlotte.

The U.S. Supreme Court refused to review an appeal for a new trial, and the three returned to jail on Oct. 17.

Plan Reunion Of Class Of 1929

The Greenville High School class of 1929 is planning a reunion in June, 1979.

Organizers are interested in learning the location of class members. Those with information may call Bruce Sugg, Jimmy Brewer or Henrietta Hyde Johnson.

Local Student In Publication

NASHVILLE, TENN. — A Greenville student, Sterl Paramore, who is attending Free Will Baptist Bible College here, will be included in the 1978-79 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," according to Dean Charles A. Thigpen.

Paramore, son of the Rev. Jack Paramore, 103 Prince Road, is a 1975 graduate of Pearl High School in Nashville. While attending Free Will Baptist Bible College, he has served as president of the campus society, secretary of the Ministerial Fellowship and traveled with the school's drama team for four years.
