Mr. and Mrs. Lewis W. Gregory of Java, Va. accepted the "Best Tobacco Leaf Award" Wednesday during the agriculture commissioners' luncheon sponsored by the First Annual Southern Flue-Cured Tobacco Festival and the Tobacco Farmer Show.

The Gregorys represented S. Mason Carbaugh, Agriculture Commissioner of Virginia, who was present at the meeting.

Second place honors went to James W. Barnes of Wilson, representing North Carolina Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Graham, Wendell and Tommy Rice of Ray City, Ga. won third place, representing Thomas T. Irvin, Agriculture Commissioner of Georgia.

Each of the winners were awarded cash prizes and plaques. Winning agriculture commissioners also received plaques.

Approximately 140 persons representing all facets of Pitt County and agriculture were present for the luncheon.

Kelly Barnhill, chairman of the board for the Festival, B. Alton Gardner, Pitt County Commissioners Chairman, and Greenville Mayor Percy Cox welcomed guests, with Ed Warren, chairman of the luncheon, serving as master of ceremonies.

S. Mason Carbaugh, Agriculture Commissioner of Virginia, and G. Bryan Patrick Jr., Agriculture Commissioner of South Carolina, spoke of the fine work of the Tobacco Farmer Show and commended the public for its emphasis on tobacco.

Thomas T. Irvin, Georgia Agriculture Commissioner, and Doyle Connor, Florida Agriculture Commissioner, were unable to attend the luncheon.

Horace Kornegay of the Tobacco Institute, challenged the group to fight for tobacco and commended U. S. Congressman Walter B. Jones for being what he called a "stand up man."

"You're used to people standing up for what they believe in around here, but it's a rare commodity in Washington," said Kornegay.

Kornegay and Commissioner Graham entertained the group with a short rendition of "What A Friend We Have In Walter."

"Tobacco is a people's issue," said Billy Yeargin of the Tobacco Growers' Information Committee.

Yeargin informed the group that Thursday is designated as "The Second Annual Great American Smoke Out" by the American Cancer Society.

According to Yeargin, he had learned that an interoffice memo concerning the smoke out had been circulated in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

"Do you realize the importance of this?" Yeargin asked. "I think it's ridiculous."

Joseph Williams of Tobacco Associates commended Graham and Congressman Jones on their support of the tobacco industry and remembered past tobacco leaders in Pitt County such as Jasper Winslow, and Bruce Sugg.

Williams, who will retire as of this year, told the group he was leaving them with a united tobacco organization.

"By the year 2000, the demand for flue-cured tobacco will have doubled," Williams stated. "I'm leaving you with a perfect tobacco world, for God's sake, don't you kids mess it up."

Hugh Kiger of the Leaf Exporters Association and the Tobacco Association of United States explained the work of the two associations.

"Over 50 percent of our tobacco moves to foreign markets," said Kiger. "In exporting, it's a two-way street, where you have to buy in order to sell."

Fred Bond of the Flue Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Cooperation thanked Congressman Jones for his support of the

Fear Near 200 Die In Airliner's Crash

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — Nearly 200 Indonesian pilgrims en route home from Mecca were believed killed in the crash of a chartered Icelandic airliner while landing at the Colombo airport in a severe thunderstorm.

Hospital spokesmen said there were more than 60 survivors. The DC-8 jetliner was to refuel and then fly on to Surabaya, the capital of East Java. It crashed about a mile short of the airport runway just before midnight Wednesday, plowed up 400 yards of coconut plantation, broke into three sections and burst into flames.

Icelandic Airlines said there were 246 passengers and 13 crew members aboard.

"It passes all understanding how anybody at all could have come out alive after a wreck like that," said one official, surveying the quarter-acre of charred and twisted debris.

Many of the survivors walked from the crash site to the airport on this island nation off the tip of India. Ambulances took them to a nearby air force hospital or to the Ngumbo Hospital, about 20 miles to the north.

One of the survivors, newspaper editor Mas Athi Karsa said the pilot was being guided down by the airport's control tower and apparently miscalculated and missed the landing strip.

Investigators were searching for the plane's flight recorder, the "black box" in hopes of getting clues to what caused the crash.

The plane broke into three sections. Rescue workers cut through the wreckage to free bodies. Many were still strapped in the seats.

Two of the plane's four engines were torn off and hurled far from the impact site. Brightly colored Moslem prayer rugs, other belongings and bodies littered the area.

The plane was chartered by Garuda Indonesian Airlines in October to carry Moslems from East Java to Saudi Arabia for a month's pilgrimage to Mecca and Medina, Islam's holiest shrines. Some 70,000 Indonesians are making the pilgrimage this year.

Four years ago, 194 Indonesian pilgrims returning from Mecca were killed when their chartered plane crashed in Sri Lanka.

Merger?

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Directors of the Chesapeake System and the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad met here this morning and were likely to announce later today a merger of the two companies, an industry source said.

The source asked not to be identified.

Trading in the companies' stocks was halted this morning on the New York Stock Exchange at the companies' request.

Planning-Zoning Decisions Made

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Six rezoning requests and a variety of preliminary and final plats were considered by the Joint City-County and Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissions in a three-hour session last night.

The city board voted unanimously to recommend to the City Council that approximately 5.75 acres on W. Gum Road between US 13-NC 11 and Fred Webb's grain elevators be rezoned from Unoffensive Industry to R-6.

The request, brought up initially when Mt. Calvary Baptist Church sought to build a gymnasium in the area, was made by the city Inspections Department. The city suggested that R-6 be considered as an alternative zoning to the existing Unoffensive Industry designation.

Staff Planner Skip Browder explained last night that none of the present uses in the area relate to industry and under the zoning format, the existing dwellings are not permitted uses in the Unoffensive Industry zone.

Chief Building Inspector Alton Warren said that a petition has been signed representing nine families who reside in the area. The families petitioned the board to rezone the acreage to R-6, a residential classification.

Warren said that under the industrial designation, residents are not able to secure a building permit to add on to their homes or rebuild. Only repairs and home maintenance can be performed, he added.

Mayor Percy Cox noted that if the property is rezoned to R-6, the city plans to pave Gum Road under the Community Development program.

In a related request in reference to location, a motion to recommend that the Council approve a petition

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

I read in HOTLINE recently about people not going around a wreck. I was in Roanoke Rapids about eight months ago. About 10 of us stopped at the scene of an accident and raised a car off a little girl and saved her life. So things can work both ways. F. B.

BLUE LAW

I would like to know when the Greenville Blue Law will be voted on by the citizens. It seems that this was to be voted on some time ago. RB Hotline contacted City Manager Ed Wyatt who said that the city has no plans to have a referendum on the Blue Law ordinance, which regulates Sunday business activity and sales.

Wyatt recalled that the City Council amended the Blue Law following a public hearing in June of 1976 to permit the sale of some items, include those of personal hygiene and those of medicinal and therapeutic necessity, that were formerly banned on Sunday. The Council discussed the matter at length in 1976, he said, but no plans were made to schedule a referendum.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Young people nowadays are resisting marriage because they want guarantees. They want to know that before they say, "I do," he "will" and she'll "try."

I don't blame 'em. Marriage is not a commitment to be taken lightly. I've always felt there are several ways a couple can test themselves to see if they could survive a term as husband and wife.

1. Nurse him through a simple cold.
2. Have him give you directions anywhere.
3. Have a meaningful conversation.
4. See one another with your hair wet.
5. Hang a picture together.

These are all "stress situations," but if you really want to test compatibility, you can go for the big one by playing Monopoly with your future spouse.

If I had played Monopoly with my husband just once before we were married, there is no doubt in my mind that today I would be on the arm of Duane Farquardt. If I saw my present husband across a crowded room, I'd say, "Let's get out of here, Duane, he's the turkey I was telling you about who once charged me $3,020 for landing on Park Place."

Something happens to a man when he sits down to play Monopoly.

His eyes become cold and impersonal, his jaw is set. He coolly surveys the entire board with the intensity of a hostess who has just found something moving in her raisin pudding.

As you throw the dice, he meets your gaze across the board and pronounces sharply, "I own the Boardwalk. If you want to stay in the game, you'll have to sell me all your utilities. I'll give you $150 for all three."

ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOLLARS FOR ALL THREE! Is this the man talking for whom you have borne three children, picked lint off his socks, hand-washed his elastic stockings, trimmed his hair over the ears when he couldn't get to the barber, burnt your fingers on his three-minute eggs, kissed good night when he had a hip full of Novocaine.

I told him one night, "There are winners and there are winners, but Lord, I hate a winner who smiles when he wins!"

So all of you people out there contemplating marriage (and you all know who you are), sit down at the Monopoly board and play a game. Better to know now that a man will not give you fake funny money when it's just lying there in a box than to find out after you're married.

Those members attending from the Winterville Jaycettes included Debbie Cobb, Debbie Avery, Lana Tew and Ellen Avery, president.

In trying this recipe, we used one of the electric churn-freezers that calls for regular salt and ice cubes.

1-3rd cup sugar
1 1/2 cups light corn syrup
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1 cup lemon juice
Four 8-ounce containers plain yogurt

In a large bowl stir together the sugar, corn syrup, lemon rind and lemon juice; add the yogurt and stir until smooth. Freeze in a 2-quart electric ice-cream freezer, following manufacturer's directions. (Do not try to freeze this dessert in ice-cube trays in a food freezer — it becomes icy by this method.) Makes about 2 quarts.

Dr. Mead, An Advocate Of Tolerance

By KEVIN MCKEAN
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The walking staff which supported her tireless, inquisitive march between the world's simplest societies and its most complex lay propped near the hospital bed when Margaret Mead died.

"It was in a corner, waiting for her to get up and use it," said Dr. Rhoda Metraux, a friend and associate for 36 years.

The famous American anthropologist and outspoken advocate of human tolerance died Wednesday after a year-long struggle against cancer of the pancreas. She was 76.

A memorial service was scheduled Friday at Columbia University with private funeral and burial at an undisclosed time in Buckingham, Pa.

Miss Mead's black, lacquered staff, which was often mistaken for a tribal token, was a traditional British walking stick known as a thumb-stick. She began carrying one in 1960, when a doctor advised her to use a cane after an ankle injury. She said she adopted the stick rather than be forced to stoop.

The injury healed but the staff remained, giving Miss Mead's short, rotund, often robed figure a Biblical air. Sometimes, she would wave it at meetings to gain the floor.

It was Oct. 2 when Miss Mead abandoned the tower office she had occupied for 52 years at the American Museum of Natural History here to enter New York Hospital.

A niece, Madeline Lee, said she talked, wrote and read avidly until only a few days before her death.

Miss Mead was unconscious on the morning of her death, said Dr. Metraux, a research associate at the museum and among those at her deathbed. But at the moment of death, she smiled, she said.

"It was as if she knew where she was going and it was where she wanted to go," said Dr. Metraux, who, as an anthropology student during World War II, belonged to the first of three generations of young people to come under Miss Mead's influence.

"It was a very gentle and quiet smile so that you felt very sad. But also — I'm sorry this seems a little sentimental — as if she had at the end of the illness returned to us from a far country and said goodbye," she said in a telephone interview.

At the White House, President Carter issued a statement saying Miss Mead's life was "impressively full and productive."

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim called it a "great human loss" and Edward Lehman, executive director of the American Anthropological Society, a group she once headed, called Miss Mead "irreplaceable."

Her scientific and popular reputations were established in a single stroke when, at the age of 26, she published "Coming of Age in Samoa."

The book, an account of living for eight months in three small coastal villages on the island of Tau, delighted young people and shocked their elders.

It compared the easy-going Samoan attitude towards teenage sex with the vexation of being a teen-ager in the more repressive West.

In 1970, 11 field trips and more than a score of books later, "Coming of Age" was still selling 100,000 copies a year.

"People used to think they could go somewhere else and find a congenial society and now they know they can't," she told an interviewer that year. "It's all one world, there are no islands anymore."

She married three anthropologists and divorced them all, joking later that her marriages were "endogamous," an anthropological term meaning sticking to one's own clan.

But Miss Mead, a devout Episcopalian, was an ardent supporter of family life and kept touch with her family. She was especially close to her only child, Mary Catherine Bateson Kassarian, born in 1939, the daughter of her third husband, British anthropologist Gregory Bateson.

Mrs. Kassarian, dean of social science at Rexa Shah Kabir University in Iran, visited her mother in the hospital several weeks ago but could not return for her last days because of the unrest in Iran, Ms. Lee said.

Other survivors include Mrs. Kassarian's daughter, Sevanne, and a sister, Elizabeth, of Cambridge, Mass.

At her death, Miss Mead was working on an article "scolding" the United States for being one of only four countries in the world which have not converted to the metric system, Dr. Metraux said.

She also was talking about setting up small research centers where information and articles on a single culture could be collected.

"It grew out of her perception that the field materials on very small societies could be important to the problems one faces in a very large society," Dr. Metraux said.

Two Sentenced

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Two men were convicted in federal court Wednesday of promoting prostitution through interstate travel in Wilson County.

Judge Franklin T. Dupree Jr. sentenced Rudolph Baker of Dudley to two years in prison on each count, a total of 10 years, and fined him $25,000.

Dupree sentenced Ronald Pennell of Dudley to 18 months in prison on each count, or a total of 7 1/2 years.

Dupree also said that Baker's sentence is to run concurrently with a six-year sentence he received Oct. 25 for conviction in federal court on two charges of jury tampering.

A jury in the trial deliberated about 1 1/2 hours before reaching a verdict. The men have 10 days to appeal.

Pennell did not comment in court on the verdicts or his sentence.

But Baker told Dupree, "Judge, I don't really understand this case... It just don't seem fair."

Baker and Pennell were indicted last May on charges that they caused two out-of-state women to come to the Bel Air truck stop five times in 1977 and 1978 to work as prostitutes.

Edward Charles "Red" Crumpler of Lucama also was indicted, but charges against him were dropped after he testified about working for Baker at the Bel Air. Baker was manager of the truck stop and Pennell worked there, according to testimony at the trial.

Defends His SBA Loan

TOM BROKAW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Tom Brokaw who delivers the news is making some of his own.

The host of NBC's "Today" show defended on Wednesday his obtaining a $345,000 loan guarantee from the Small Business Administration to help him buy a South Dakota radio station.

"I am not taking any money away from any deserving people," Brokaw said. "The government is not out a nickel by this transaction."

The loan was obtained under a program intended to encourage broadcast ownership by minorities.

Brokaw said he and a friend, owners of Tom Tom Communications, Inc. decided to buy a radio station for $400,000 in Rapid City. The local bank in Yankton had a loan limit of $225,000 and suggested they go to the SBA for the guarantee, said Brokaw, a South Dakota native.

Researching South Dakota's Bombing

MADISON S.D. (AP) — If you remember when the Japanese bombed South Dakota in World War II, John Peterson wants to talk to you.

Peterson is a University of Minnesota student researching the bombings, which occurred in 1945.

The Japanese launched balloons with fire bombs attached, hoping air currents would bring them over U.S. airspace and they would explode in western forests. The plan was partially successful.

Only one of the bombs which floated into the country actually killed anyone. That was in Oregon where a bomb stuck in a tree. It exploded and killed six persons who were wondering what it was.

On May 26, 1945, one fire bomb exploded at Wolsey, S.D.

Others dropped down near Madison, Red Elm, Marcus, Ree Heights, Nowling, Kadoka and Buffalo. Almost 200 were found across the nation, according to Peterson's studies.

One bomb which fell at Madison was identified as a 5-KG candle-type incendiary bomb.

The information was kept quiet by defense officials at the time, and only in the last few years has the information been released. Robert Mickesh, an Air Force major, wrote an article for the Smithsonian Institute listing the locations of the fallen bombs.

"It was kept pretty hush-hush in 1945, because the armed forces didn't want to start a panic," Peterson explained.

Complain Racial Slurs Involved

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)

Rocky Mount Police Chief A.C. Butler met Wednesday with black members of the city police force to talk about a leaflet circulating in the department which the officers say contains racial slurs.

Black officers complained Monday to Butler that the document, a take-off on the state competency test, contains racial slurs and has no place in the department. They asked that the persons found responsible for the document be fired.

"It (the circular) has obviously affected the morale of the black officers because of the ugliness of the paper being passed around," Butler said. "I plan to do something about it and plan to keep it from happening again."

Pressure Affects The System

The United States' system of justice is far from perfect, but it is all we have — and we also might add that it is the best around.

The so-called Wilmington 10 were tried by the State of North Carolina, and, in the absence of any actual photo of somebody throwing a fire bomb, the best evidence available was presented and convictions obtained.

It is rare, of course, that evidence can be presented which provides proof beyond the shadow of a doubt that a crime has been committed, so the courts accept evidence that proves beyond reasonable doubt a defendant's guilt.

Now, years later along comes the U.S. Department of Justice to intervene in the case and ask a federal judge to set the convictions aside. In the meantime there has been a worldwide campaign waged for the Wilmington 10 to pressure the federal government into obtaining their freedom.

The truth about the Wilmington situation was far more likely to have come out in an orderly North Carolina court room back in 1972 than it is today, and, in fact, if the federal courts free the Wilmington 10 now, it is almost certain that there will be no attempts to re-try them.

The U. S. Justice Department intervention says more for bending to worldwide pressures than it does for maintaining fair system of justice.

Farm Operators First Conservationists

R. M. (Mel) Davis, administrator of the USDA-Soil Conservation Service, has properly praised participants in conservation projects as the "real and first environmentalists."

Owners and tillers of farm land got into conservation projects years ago, long before it was fashionable.

Mistakes were made, of course, but the idea was to protect the soil and equally the environment. The farm operators had to be interested in protecting the land. It was their livelihood.

THIS AFTERNOON N.C. Needs Skilled Labor

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Educators, manpower specialists and some other high governmental officials were irritated a couple of months ago when North Carolina Labor Commissioner John Brooks lashed out at what he considered a less-than-effective skills-training effort for Tar Heel industries.

There are in some places about 400 jobs — requiring highly skilled individuals in which qualified people are so scarce that employers bid for them much like football team owners seeking quarterbacks, Brooks stated.

Leveling his sharpest blast at the technical institutes and community colleges across the state, Brooks said it is "time to deflate the myth. Two years in a technical school is not enough time to truly master a craft such as tool-and-die making, machinery repair, plumbing, electrical work or scores of other critical jobs in which labor supply is scarce."

There are some 20,000 skill jobs available in the state, yet 90 percent go to people from outside North Carolina because young Tar Heels aren't trained well enough to land the positions, Brooks complained.

Hunt Agrees
 Naturally, the system came to its own defense, and even Gov. Jim Hunt reacted defensively to the broadside. But it now develops that the governor has changed his mind.

There is a crying need, he says, for the state not only to take stock of the various training programs already in existence with an eye to making them more effective, but also to seek some order from the fragmented and uncoordinated approach to jobs training.

The shift in Hunt's thinking was not entirely influenced by Brooks. "It was 50-50", says a close aide. "Brooks got his attention ... that was 50 percent. But he has also been hearing the same complaint from important corporate people both in the state, and when he travels outside the state to talk with industrial prospects."

Is North Carolina perhaps losing some economic growth prospects because we lack the trained people needed to operate the sophisticated equipment? That is the most serious part of the problem, Brooks complains. Before "space-age" industries in electronics or machinery-making will locate in a community, it must be assured of a work force already capable of handling the advanced techniques.

There are manpower programs in the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development, including federal jobs programs. The Employment Security Commission provides training efforts. The high schools offer vocational courses.

But the missing ingredient is coordination: the various programs operate independently, often competing with one another for funds and students. There is no clearing house for kinds of skills training needed to serve existing or future industries; no coordination of training programs to where the students might live and the industries locate; no orderly continuity in training so that a high school student might move along a carefully charted course from beginner to apprentice to journeyman to craftsman.

The state, Brooks charges, is "training people for semi-skilled work" rather than putting them on track for jobs as craftsmen and supervisors. A legislative study commission will likely have an opportunity to explore this area next year.

THE INSIDE REPORT The Soviet 'Dirty Tricks'

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The conniving hand of the Kremlin is privately blamed by U.S. intelligence analysts as the probable cause of a damaging news report out of communist Indochina portraying a top U.S. policymaker as privately expressing disenchantment with President Carter's China policy.

VNA, the Vietnamese official news agency, reported from Vientiane, Laos, Oct. 31, on what purported to be the views of Richard Holbrooke, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs. During a tour of Southeast Asia, Holbrooke was depicted as severely critical of both national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski and communist China, Vietnam's enemy.

Holbrooke flatly denies making any such comments, and it is inconceivable that he would. How in the world, then, did the Vietnamese produce such a fabrication? While lacking proof positive, the intelligence estimate here is that this is a classic case of Soviet "disinformation" — generating lies for political purposes. If the purpose was to create rancor between U.S. policymakers, it was partially successful.

There is no internal dispute over the U.S. intention to recognize communist China, a policy laid down by the president himself. The question of recognizing communist Vietnam is not yet determined, with Holbrooke and the State Department decidedly more enthusiastic over that prospect than Brzezinski and the National Security Council staff.

This difference was inadvertently underlined, during Holbrooke's Southeast Asian tour. A news account out of Bangkok quoted him as predicting rapid recognition of Vietnam with precedence over China. The State Department in Washington denied any such policy, and Holbrooke contends he was misquoted. The confusion is attributed to sharp concern in Thailand and the new Soviet-Vietnamese treaty.

What seemed an honest error in Bangkok was followed by intentional mischief in Vientiane; Holbrooke's next spot. At a concert given by an American pianist at the residence of the U.S. charge d'affaires, Holbrooke chatted with a Vietnamese en-

Strength For Today

WITHIN THE CHURCH and WITHOUT
 One night at a meeting in London, the great evangelist Dwight L. Moody arose and said, "I see too many Christian people here. I know you — you are converted already. Now, I want you to get up and go out and leave room for hundreds of those sinners who are waiting outside for a chance to come in and hear the gospel."

We should never minimize the importance of ministering to people who are already sincere Christians, but the fact remains that

Other Editors Say Laudable Policy

(The Raleigh Times)
 Not many marriages are made in prison, but in North Carolina more of them will be occurring in the future. A policy change effected recently by the Department of Corrections opens the prospect of marriage to all prisoners regardless of the length of sentence or of time served. Under the old policy, only minimum security prisoners within six months of release could marry. Exceptions were granted only in cases where marriage served the needs of children involved.

The change occurred after Craggy Prison inmate Clarence Capps on August 8 petitioned the N.C. Inmate Grievance Commission for the right to marry Deanna Walker.

To some prison critics, allowing inmates to marry comes under the classification of coddling — along with paroles, allowing prisoners to work in public or attend outside schools during the day and sleep in prison at night and weekends. We disagree.

These are incentives that can help rehabilitate prisoners and enable them to return to society as useful, wage-earning citizens rather than remain lifetime burdens on the people of North Carolina. Marriage which gives prisoners identity, a sense of belonging to the world outside the walls and provides a legal tie to a living and caring person, is additional therapy purchased at no cost to the public.

North Carolina is far from instituting a policy of conjugal prison visits of the sort which focused nationwide attention on Mississippi several years ago. Corrections Director Amos Reed said conjugal visitation opens a Pandora's box of complications such as providing prostitutes for single men and sexual companions for homosexuals. Reed said the state is more likely to move eventually toward a family life visitation policy whereby an inmate's entire family would be allowed to spend a day, or perhaps a night, at the prison.

Prison marriages, a less complex concession, are a compassionate innovation which should reap some positive benefits for both the prison inmate and the administration. The Corrections Department deserves praise for this policy change.

Pope A Crowd Pleaser

By SAMUEL KOO
Associated Press Writer
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II in his first month in office has become Italy's No. 1 crowd pleaser. His utterances indicate he will adhere to the policies of Pope Paul VI.

"He turns on," says a young Vatican priest of the robust, urbane Pole who likes to mingle with crowds, kiss babies and prefers to address the faithful as "brothers and sisters" rather than "children."

"He reaches the people. It is very, very evident that he has direct communication with them," says the Rev. James Long of the Vatican Secretariat for Christian Unity.

The Italians receive their first foreign pontiff in 455 years with enthusiasm and reverence. The traditional bursts of "Viva il Papa!" — "Long Live the Pope!" — greet him wherever he appears. Many say he displays personal qualities that could make him one of the most popular popes in memory.

The pope has been busy since his election Oct. 16 trying to become part of his "second homeland." This has endeared him to the Italians.

"Since I was not born on this soil, I feel all the more need here for a spiritual 'birth,'" the former Karol Wojtyla said, paying homage to St. Francis of Assisi, a patron saint of Italy.

In audience after audience and in visits outside the Vatican, he struck the Italian theme. In a typical tribute to Italy, he said in fluent and only slightly accented Italian:

"All the more do I feel the need to insert myself in this new land that Peter chose... This land has always been near to me; now it has become my second homeland. I desire to be part of Italy in all its historical richness, and at the same time in all its current reality."

Vatican sources say it may be some time before the pontiff begins issuing concrete policy statements, elaborating on his early declaration that his primary duty will be to complete with "prudent but stimulating actions" reforms introduced into the Roman Catholic Church by the Second Vatican Council. They point out that the pope hardly has had time to think out a policy and put it into execution.

I know, I know. It is a universal tendency of man, as Gibbon reminded us, to exalt the past and to deprecate the present. Doubtless, the child who was born in Oklahoma City in 1970 has some advantages that were unknown to the child of 1920. Offhand, no such advantages spring to mind, but surely a few could be cited.

I am here for ceremonies having to do with the Oklahoma Hall of Fame. The occasion naturally lends itself to a spate of "remember whens." My own dim collection of remembrances could be matched by others who grew up in the secondary cities of America at about the same time. It was a time of great innocence, and at least until the country fell into the agony of depression, it was a time of large contentment.

The doctors brought me into this world on Nov. 1, 1920, at St. Anthony's Hospital in Oklahoma City. On inquiry, I found that the sovereign state of Oklahoma — it had then been a sovereign state for almost 13 years — had a population of 2,028,283. The capital city numbered 91,295 inhabitants, among them 8,241 Negroes and 56 Indians. Of these latter, a white child knew very few. Oklahoma in those days was as rigidly segregated as the darkest precincts of Mississippi. Now and then, one encountered a boy of Indian descent who had come to town on a reservation bus — I remember losing a prized agate to a Choctaw boy in a marble tournament — but we lived in separate worlds.

My mother's people ranked among the first families of Oklahoma. They had been there since the run of 1889. The distinction produces a superior smile from friends in my adopted Virginia, where the first families have been lordling it over everybody else since the days of John Smith and Pocahontas, but to be identified with the 89'ers meant something in Oklahoma. My grandfather, a doctor from Iowa, made the run from Kansas that April day and staked a claim on what is

 A new system for keeping jail records, whereby the status of each prisoner will be available immediately and the status of the disposition of each, with the fees due and paid, is to be installed in Pitt County.

The record book will be similar to the old type of jail book, with several significant additions.

Under the new system, complete information on the defendant is available from the time he enters the jail until he is dismissed and fees paid or marked off.

A 40-gallon copper still, not in operation, was located and destroyed by officers yesterday afternoon. The still was found in Swift Creek township, about 200 yards from the ACL railroad and about a mile and a half from Hanrahan.

The still was believed by the officers to have been run early yesterday morning. The still was destroyed by dynamite.

Some 'Sweeteners' In Outlook

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK AP — It isn't all bad. Blended faintly through the new consensus recipe, which calls for a weakening economy through the next few months, are a few sweeteners to keep the taste buds alive.

Whether they are simply the pleasant after taste of four years of economic expansion or, instead, ingredients that could indeed sweeten the economic pie, is debatable. But they cannot be ignored.

One survey of purchasing managers, the people who buy the commodities that are processed into products of greater value, leads to the conclusion the "economy looks like it's been pumping iron."

That is the opinion of Purchasing Magazine, reached after interviewing buyers. "It the economy is putting on more muscle without serious supply disruptions," it states in the current issue.

Like so many surveys, however, this one was completed just prior to the combined anti-inflation, save-the-dollar program announced simultaneously by the White House and the Federal Reserve Board.

The program's effect, in the form of a new business psychology and higher interest rates, will not be determined for weeks. Even so, it is not likely to totally demolish the purchasing agents' confidence.

The magazine study is buttressed by one released Nov. 6 by the National Association of Purchasing Management. It found 43 percent of respondents expect fourth-quarter business to improve over the third.

The study does include evidence of a slowing of economic activity. Inventories are being tightened, for example. But the overall verdict of a strong economy was termed "unexpectedly good."

While declaring that business confidence was declined, Faculty Associates, a surveyor of percent of respondents still expected sales increases in the fourth quarter.

Based on random sampling of the 500,000 member firms of National Federation of Independent Business, based in San Mateo, Calif., Faculty Associates said only 24 percent expected sales declines.

 is that despite fears, business has been able to retain a degree of faith and in some instances very strong faith, despite rising personal debt, interest rates and prices.

Nobody can say at this point whether the administration's commitment to fighting inflation, and the Fed's determination to risk recession in order to slow economic activity, has poleaxed that faith.

It seems to have done that to economists, who generally are raising the odds on a recession, although as usual they are hedging bets.

But business people are different. For one thing, they cannot so easily hedge, because they often deal in hard goods and cash rather than opinions. Besides, by their nature they are risk-takers.

It is, in fact, this very tendency that might account for the persistence of the current expansion, now well into its fourth year.

And it could be that grit and persistence through all sorts of obstacles that might permit the economy to correct itself short of the recession foreseen by a growing number of economists.

U.S. Dollar Strengthens

LONDON (AP) — The dollar continued improving on the world's money markets today as gold dropped back toward the $200 level.

The U.S. currency closed on the Tokyo foreign exchange at 191.35 Japanese yen, up from 190.05 yen Wednesday. At one point during the day the dollar reached 192.40 yen, its highest level in two months.

"intransigent Chinese pressure on the United States and its allies."

If any doubt remained about the identity of "the above dignitary," the VNA report concluded by naming Holbrooke. It reported that he "warmly received" the Vietnamese envoy and claimed to be "very optimistic" about U.S.-Vietnamese normalization. "The above event can be interpreted as a kind of message the U.S. assistant secretary of state wanted to express as a friendly gesture to Hanoi," it added.

"The one thing I'm sure about is that Dick Holbrooke never said any of this," one White House aide told us. What's more, the report's repetitive talk about "the China card," its criticism of Brzezinski and its assault on Chinese intransigence are all out of character for the Vietnamese regime.

But not for the Soviets. That is why U.S. intelligence analysts, while lacking absolute proof, see the report as a probable exercise in Soviet "disinformation" to disrupt U.S.-Chinese relations and sow seeds of discord in the Carter administration.

The VNA report was neither broadcast by Radio Hanoi nor published in the Vietnamese press, lending credence to the theory that its source was in Moscow rather than Hanoi. Nevertheless, the point-to-point broadcast from Vientiane was monitored in Washington and probably Peking. Consequently, it raised suspicions about Holbrooke among some very high placed colleagues, precisely as intended. Although now exposed as the fraud it was, this maneuver by the Kremlin shows how the high stakes, game of power politics is really played in East Asia.

now Reno Street in downtown Oklahoma City. Alas, the claim slipped from his hands before it gained any particular value, and it was a standing rife joke in our household that none of our forebears had the wit to stake a claim on potential oil wells.

My earliest boyhood recollections go to our large brick home on 18th Street in the northwest part of the city. There was a trolley line a few blocks to the west. Classen Boulevard marked the permissible boundary to the east. In this territorial strip, between 16th and 23rd Streets, a boy could find all the adventure he needed.

These were adventures of the imagination. We played cowboys and Indians, taking turns in dying gloriously by the trashcans behind the garage. We played Robin Hood and His Merry Men. We played Ulysses outwitting the Cyclops. We played G-Men and Gangsters. This was during the long dark night of Prohibition, and we played Speakeasy. From scrap lumber and clothespins and old inner tubes, we made rubber guns. We played roller-skate hockey with pieces of lath and a smashed tin can; the wonder is that we all survived. Mostly we played baseball. I was terrible both at bat and in the field, but the older boys couldn't ignore me; I owned the ball.

Most of my dearest memories involve my mother, a woman of great beauty and gentle spirit. Early on, she concluded that I was meant to be a writer. She raised me on Mother Goose and Aesop and the Brothers Grimm. She taught me the essentials of rhyme and meter and set me to trying my hand at verses of my own. These efforts were miles removed from Stevenson's "Child's Garden," but she lovingly typed them up on an old Corona portable and put them in a ringed notebook for posterity. We were always reading together.

My father, a timberman, sold bridge flooring, fence posts and railway ties. He used to take me on trips over to Arkansas, where he would contract for bodark logs; I was 30 years old before I realized the word had to be bois d'arc, but nobody in Van Buren or Fort Smith ever pronounced it that way.

Good years. A boy discovered necking parties and tea dances and senior prom; he learned to swim; he sold Collier's; one summer he worked as a copy boy for the Oklahoma City Times; he broke his heart on unrequited love affairs, and at 16 he went off to college. At 58, I have a way to go before I make the Old Geezers Society, but I have FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The state Board of Education needs to better define the goals of the state's high school competency tests, the chairman of the board said Wednesday.

In an interview with the Fayetteville Times, Dr. H. David Bruton said problems surrounding the tests when they were given earlier this month have prompted him to believe that the goals must be given clearer definition.

The newspaper also reported that a survey of board members showed strong differences of opinion on the use of practice tests, testing security and the true intent of the program.

Bruton said Wednesday that the December agenda for the board's meeting will include discussion of the weaknesses of the competency testing system and methods to better define the goals.

"I've already got my staff at work, looking at the various problems and options," Bruton said. "The staff is studying the questions and working with the options for the board's consideration."

All high school students, starting with the class of 1981, must pass the tests in reading and mathematics before they can receive high school diplomas. Those who do not pass will be given certificates saying they have completed high school but will not receive diplomas.

The state is spending more than $4 million on remedial programs.

Some board members admitted they accepted the competency test system developed by the N.C. Competency Testing Commission without closely considering the implications of the program.

"I have just accepted the competency testing program as something that was planned, legislated, had policies set, (was) developed by educators and implemented after the law was written," said Evelyn S. Tyler of Greensboro.

Li. Gov. Jimmy Green, an ex-officio member of the board, said giving detailed practice tests, might put teachers in the position of "teaching to the test."

"You defeat the purpose of any test if the teachers are put in the position of teaching the test. It's kind of like memorizing poetry," Green said.

J.A. Pritchett of Windsor and Larry M. Harding of Charlotte also said they were opposed to practice tests.

The practice tests have become something of an issue because of the similarity between practice tests given to students in Cumberland County and the real test.

Harding said the use of practice tests would be tragic for the competency test program.

"If there is an almost identical test developed and you have these kids learning by rote and knowing what's coming, then when they take the state test, how can we be at all confident that they really are possessing the basic skills?" Harding said. "I think you can get a misleading picture of what a kid really knows by using a practice test."

Other board members, including E.H. Oxendine of Raeford, said the practice tests were not a problem.

An estimated $2,425 property damage resulted from three traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

An estimated $600 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 4 p.m. collision at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Sixth Street, officers reported.

Drivers of the vehicles involved were identified as Gwen Sears Jarvis of Route 1, Swan Quarter, and Hervert Earl Godley of Winterville.

A 4:50 p.m. mishap involved cars driven by Kevin Mack Shannon of 200 Verdant St. and Debra A. Todd of Route 2, Farmville.

Police, who said the collision occurred on Tenth Street, 75 feet West of the Evans Street intersection, set damage at $400 to the Shannon car and $500 to the Todd vehicle.

A 12:15 p.m. collision on Evans Street, 150 feet North of the Arlington Boulevard intersection involved a car driven by Mary Jane Frye of New Bern and a truck operated by Billy Randolph Churchill of 208 Harmony St.

Damage was estimated at $200 to the Frye car and $125 to the Churchill truck.

Georgia-Pacific Plans Move HQ To Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia-Pacific, a billion-dollar wood products firm, will move its corporate headquarters from Portland, Ore., to a 48-story, $70 million downtown Atlanta office building to be completed by mid-1982, the company has announced.

Georgia-Pacific was established in Augusta, Ga., but moved west 25 years ago and became one of the nation's manufacturing giants. In 1977, it recorded revenues of $3.67 billion, earning the 56th spot in Fortune magazine's list of the country's top 500 corporations.

At a news conference Wednesday, company Chairman Robert Flowerree said the firm decided to move its main office to the Southeast because about 70 percent of its business was in the region. He added that the move would lower corporate travel costs.

Company spokesman John Maddocks of Augusta said Atlanta's airport, which is the second busiest in the United States, was "an important factor" in Georgia-Pacific's decision to relocate here.

The company's new headquarters will be erected on Peachtree Street at the site of the historic Loew's Grand Theater — where the movie "Gone With The Wind" premiered in 1939. The theater was destroyed by fire last January.

Flowerree said about 500 executives would move from Portland to Atlanta after the office tower is completed.

The move to a downtown location goes against the general national trend of companies moving from cities to suburbs.

Maddocks said he was not sure what specific economic elements led to Georgia-Pacific's choice of a downtown location, but he said Atlanta's developing rapid transit system was a factor.

Atlanta business leaders said the development would boost the entire downtown commercial district.

Georgia-Pacific makes a wide range of building, paper, gypsum, chemical and related products. Its 202 plants, 151 distribution centers and 129 sales offices around the world employ 37,000 persons.

When the move is completed, Georgia-Pacific could displace Coca-Cola, the international soft drink giant as the largest corporation headquartered in Atlanta.

Coca-Cola had revenues of $3.55 billion in 1977 and ranked 61st on the Fortune list.

Georgia-Pacific was founded in 1927 as the Georgia Hardwood Lumber Co., with sales of $200,000 its first year. By 1938 it ran five sawmills in the South.

The company bought a plywood plant in Bellingham, Wash., in 1947 and the following year changed its name to the Georgia-Pacific Plywood and Lumber Co.

It moved to Olympia, Wash., in 1953, transferred to Portland in 1954, and shortened its name to the present form in 1956. The company boomed in the 1960s and expanded its range of products.

Older Adults 'Susceptible'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Older adults exposed to temperatures as mild as 60 to 65 degrees Fahrenheit are susceptible to borderline hypothermia, a drop in body temperature that can be fatal if not detected and treated properly, according to a member of the Carolina Wilderness Institute.

"They're walking around inside their own homes very often when their body temperature drops," said Richard G. Rhode, director of the institute's environmental training program. "Then they are borderline hypothermic. If there is any exposure to cold at that point, they could become hypothermic and die."

Rhode was spreading the word about the possible disastrous effects of hypothermia Wednesday. He talked to health care and social service professionals about letting older adults know about hypothermia.

Find A Body

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Police said today that searchers have found a body in the rubble of the aging hotel that collapsed on three workers Saturday. One man was pulled alive from the ruins on Tuesday and a third was still missing.

Police Capt. Don McAfee said the body had not been removed and had not been identified.

When Alfred "Butch" Summers was found alive Tuesday, hopes mounted that his companions might also have survived.

The round-the-clock search for the missing workmen was proceeding early today amid temperatures in the upper 30s and a steady drizzle.

Police Chief Larry Tennis appeared discouraged Wednesday night after heavy equipment was silenced and sensitive microphones used for coal mine cave-ins probed several chasms uncovered at the site. No sign of life was detected.

Planning-Zoning...

by Fred Webb and Southmet, a recycling firm on N. Green Street, to rezone some 12 acres on the west side of Green Street from Unoffensive Industry to Industrial, was denied by a four to one vote.

Southmet is now a non-conforming use under the Unoffensive Industry designation, it was explained, and would still be non-conforming under the Industrial classification, but would qualify as a special use under the latter designation.

James Cheatham, representing the petitioners, had asked that the board waive the customary 30-day tabling period on the request so that the Council might consider both matters regarding the Webb and W. Gum Road property requests at the same meeting.

Warren said that if the Southmet property is rezoned Industrial, uses such as a slaughter house would be permitted. The city fought for years to remove a slaughter house operation from the area, it was mentioned.

Cheatham said that an existing canal between his client's property and the residential area proposed for R-6 served as a buffer and the proposed street for the area would also buffer the property.

In a third request, commissioners tabled for 30 days action on a request by Harvey D. Bradshaw for rezoning 14 acres on the west side of Hooker Road across from Wilson Rhodes and Beacon Piano Co. property. Bradshaw is seeking to rezone his property from R-15 to R-6 and Highway Commercial.

Commissioner Wes Hankins, recalling extensive discussions regarding the Hooker Road corridor study and related rezoning matters, said that he had previously stated his reservations regarding the trend of zoning for the area.

Hankins said that he would "definitely be opposed" to an extension of the commercial zoning on the north side of Hooker beyond the Beacon and Rhodes properties. He added, however, that on the south side of Hooker, he did not see how the property could be developed other than the way Bradshaw has indicated.

Commission member Clarence Tugwell said that he believed the board should go on record stating that, as a matter of policy, there should be no further commercial zoning on the north side of the road beyond the Haddock property line.

Bradshaw said that his property was boxed in as a result of the existing zoning and he was looking for compatible designations for his property.

Ken Smith, who resides on St. Andrews Drive, said that the main concern of the existing residents is the amount of traffic generated on the street as it is used as a cut-through to Memorial Drive. He said that due to the density of unit development allowed under R-6, he would rather see the property rezoned to R-9 which allows less unit development per acre.

Approval was given by the city board to the final plat of Section V of Lake Ellsworth Subdivision and to the revised final plat of Section IV of Stratford Subdivision, located south of Green Mill Run in Stratford.

The board also approved the final plat of Greenville East Convenience Center, located east of the Greenville Mall property on Highway 11. An access point to the center will also handle some mall traffic, it was noted.

In business on the joint city-county agenda, commissioners voted by a six to two margin to table a request by J. T. Manning Jr. to rezone approximately nine acres on the north side of 264 Bypass west of Laughinghouse Drive from RA-20 to Highway Commercial, Office and Institutional and R-6.

The tabling action followed the denial of a motion, by a five to three margin, to recommend to the City Council that the rezoning request be denied. Manning, who serves as planning commissioner on the joint board, was allowed to disqualify himself from the discussion and voting.

The request, it was explained, involved approximately three acres of each of the three proposed zones.

A petition containing the names of 17 families who reside in the area was submitted to the board, opposing the rezoning. Garland Beddard, a resident of Laughinghouse Drive, said that the opposition of the property owners in the section has not changed since the matter was first proposed several years ago. The residents, he said, would be satisfied with residential zoning.

Hankins said that he favored retaining as much of the residential acreage as possible and he mentioned that one item that was discussed in previous meetings regarded the detrimental impact that strip zoning would have on traffic.

The Highway Commercial rezoning would involve some 400 feet of frontage on the highway, it was pointed out. The commercial property would transition to Office and Institutional and continue back to R-6 on the rear of the property.

In offering a motion to deny the request, Tugwell said that he was "totally opposed" to automatically tabling the matter, noting that theoretically, the request could be discussed four different times. After the motion to recommend denial failed, commissioners voted to table action for 30 days.

In another rezoning matter, commissioners concurred in a request by Ed and Rosemond Tipton to rezone part of a tract located between Elizabeth Heights subdivision and the railroad from RA-20 to R-6. The petitioners had initially sought to rezone the entire 7.38 acres to R-6 but after concern was raised by the commission regarding traffic and access to the property, it was suggested that only part of the property be rezoned at this time.

Traffic is a major concern in the area and it was noted that by rezoning only 400 feet from the existing southern property line, the potential for increased traffic would be cut in half.

Tugwell said that he saw no problem with the R-6 zone if the traffic problem were solved. He said that the problem involved access rather than zoning.

The matter will be recommended to the Council for approval.

The board voted to recommend to the Council that a request by Wilcar Enterprises for rezoning 2.6 acres located 400 feet west of NC 11-US 13, just south of Greenfield Terrace, from R-6 to Highway Commercial, be approved.

The property, according to the petition is 100 feet wide and 1,100 feet deep. Greenfield Terrace residents are not opposed to the matter, it was noted.

The request of Leroy Cherry & Associates for rezoning 21.6 acres on the east side of 14th Street Extension just south of the railroad was not considered since it has not been six months from the time the matter was previously denied by the City Council. As a matter of policy, the planning board does not reconsider requests until the six months period has passed.

The Council denied a request by Cherry to rezone the property at the June meeting.

Other action taken by the joint board included:

— Approval of the preliminary plat of Quail Ridge Subdivision, located near Windy Ridge;

— Approval of the preliminary plat of the Tucker Farms development located north of US 264 and east of the Evangelistic Tabernacle property;

— Approval of the final plat of Greenville Rest Home, located in the Tucker Farms development, with the stipulation that adequate recreational areage be provided for the overall development and indicated in the final Tucker Farms plat;

— Approval of the preliminary plat of the Lewis W. Evans property located on the east and west side of Arlington Boulevard, if extended, and joining Courtney Square and other properties on the north; and

— Rescheduling the December meeting for Monday, Dec. 18, in order that action can be taken by the Council on a rezoning request submitted by Whichport Development

Corp., regarding property on Greenville Boulevard, prior to the planning board's consideration of a preliminary plat for the property.

Faculty Union Speaker Here

Dr. Sam Andrews, past president of the United Faculty of Florida, Local 1880 of the American Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, and a member of the AFT Commission on Higher Education, spoke to a group of faculty members and professional employees at East Carolina University yesterday on,

"Faculty Unionism and Collective Bargaining."

Andrews, a professor in the Department of Educational Foundations in the College of Education at the University of Florida said the United Faculty of Florida was formed in 1974 by AFT members in the 9-campus Florida State University system and was joined by groups from the National Education Association and the American Association of University Professors. He noted that the UFF was elected the bargaining agent for some 5,400 faculty and professional employees in the system and has bargained two contracts with the Board of Regents in Florida.

Unionization, Andrews said, "is a way to provide faculty and professional employees, 'equal rights', with their employers in deciding matters of policy which affect their professional lives, and their livelihood."

"The advisory system of the past which allows administrators to make the real decisions is past," Andrews said. "Collective bargaining is the best method to hammer our policies and practices on terms and conditions of employment, salaries, and fringe benefits."

Bob Hursey, president of the AFT at East Carolina said that the only group which has aggressively addressed the legislature on issues of importance to teachers at all levels in North Carolina has been the N.C. Federation of Teachers.

"Those of us in the NCFE are working to bring people together for this is the only way we shall be able to gain collective bargaining. We are working toward this and we will succeed," Hursey emphasized.

"AFT now represents 78,400 persons on 226 campuses in the country. This is 9,400 more than the other two organizations combined," he said, adding that collective bargaining is now carried out of 30 per cent of the college and university campuses in the country.

Gave Result Of Research

Robert S. Spence, coordinator of alcoholism and drug abuse services at Pitt County Mental Health Center, presented results of a research project in Goldsboro Tuesday.

Spence presented the research paper, "Attribution of Causality by Children With Alcoholic Parents," to a meeting of the Eastern Regional Research and Evaluation Committee.

The study was conducted by Dr. Michael J. Prewett, Mahuel Chaknis and Spence, funded by a grant from the North Carolina Department of Mental Health.

Dr. Stephen K. Creech serves as chairman of the regional committee. Pitt County Mental Health Center staff members Teresa Lucas and Nancy M. Middleton also attended the research presentation.

Spence also spoke Tuesday to Kappa Delta sorority concerning alcoholism and services offered by the county Mental Health Center.

Arrests Spark School Melee

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Three drug arrests sparked a rock-and-bottle melee involving 500 New Bedford High School students and more than 30 police officers, police said. No serious injuries were reported, but windows in police cruisers and cars in the school parking lot were smashed.

Police Capt. A. J. Correia said the battle outside the school Wednesday resulted in the arrests of 14 youths on disturbing the peace charges. All pleaded innocent and were released. Correia said the fracas broke out shortly before the school opened when undercover agents moved into a parking lot to make drug arrests.

"The downstake program had a five-state meeting in Raleigh this year which was very successful," said Bond. "Less than six million pounds of tobacco was slated for cooperative use this season."

Bond thanked farmers for the good quality crop this year, stating that they should receive credit for the success of the program.

Commissioner Graham thanked the Tobacco Farmer Show, the Southern Flue Cured Tobacco Festival and the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce for making the event possible.

Health Fair Is Held For 4th Graders

Some 425 city fourth graders were indoctrinated into various areas of medicine this week during the two-day, South Annual Health Fair sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Pitt County Medical Society. The fair was held at St. Peter's School.

The purpose of the fair was to explain some of the procedures carried out in the doctor's office and good health practices.

The students were instructed by means of displays which demonstrated practical aspects of such areas of medicine as the operating room, the lab, ear, nose and throat, and the teeth.

The Greenville Rescue Squad also donated time by giving the children a first-hand look at a rescue truck.

Ms. Laura Walsh, chairman of the fair, said "They thoroughly enjoyed it. They were very interested and receptive because they had had some preparation before coming to the Health Fair, and hopefully this is what they are discussing in school."

The chairman said the program has received "very positive support from teachers, principals and school administrators."

The theme of the fair is the same each year and is geared towards fourth graders only so that a different group of children is exposed to the information each year.

Some 40-50 auxiliary members were active in preparing the program.

Political Impact Of Justice Dept. Move May Be Greater

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The U.S. Justice Department's friend-of-the-court filing for the Wilmington 10 may have more political relations impact than legal significance.

In Washington, Justice Department spokesman Terry Adamson said the government originally considered "possible criminal violations" of the defendants' civil rights. He said lawyers began preparing the brief early last summer, and dropped consideration of any new charges.

The Justice Department asked U.S. District Judge Franklin Dupree Jr. to overturn the 1972 convictions, which stemmed from the firebombing of a grocery store during racial unrest in Wilmington.

In announcing the brief, Drew S. Days III, head of the department's civil rights division, called it a precedent-shattering move which was the result of new evidence uncovered by its investigation. But on Wednesday the department acknowledged there was little new information in the 89-page legal document.

"The importance of it is primarily in its newsworthiness. Strictly on a legal basis, it's just another piece of evidence," Richard N. League, an assistant North Carolina attorney general who has argued the case on appeal, said of the brief.

"It's another point of view on something that's already been hashed out," he said. "It's a boost to supporters, of course."

Supporters of the 10 defendants in the civil rights case praised the ruling, and James Fuller, a Charlotte lawyer who has represented them, predicted that it would have "substantial impact."

"An independent review by an independent agency whose job it is to protect justice reached the same conclusions as we have, that basically the trial was not fair," Fuller said.

But Fuller also said the Justice Department discovered no new evidence. "I don't think so," he said. "I don't think there is anything new left to be discovered."

The brief refers to an "amended statement" by key prosecution witness Allen Hall, which the Justice Department contends reveals several inconsistencies in Hall's original statements and his testimony.

Defense lawyers have sought to see the statement but have never been given a copy. A sealed version has been part of the court record during the appeals, lawyers said, and the Justice Department apparently received a copy during its investigation.

The timing of the filing was questioned privately by some in the state Attorney General's office who noted that the federal probe began early last year and that the Justice Department convened a special grand jury in the case in March, 1977.

"Obviously, it was viewed that this would be an unpopular thing for President Carter in the South," said one source. "Surely one week to the day after the election does look like Drew Days and U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell were pawns in some political process."

Ann Sheppard Turner, one of the 10, said Wednesday at a news conference that she believed action did not come earlier because President Carter did not want to act before the elections.

Mrs. Turner was in Durham to meet with the press before the premiere showing of a movie about the 10. She was the only white and only woman in the group and the first to be paroled. Gov. Jim Hunt reduced their sentences last year.

Leon White, head of the Commission for Racial Justice, said he was ashamed that North Carolina officials have failed to act on requests for pardons for the 10.

He added that he felt the U.S. Justice Department was reacting to world pressure about the case when it filed the court brief.

A Corrections Department spokesman said Ben Chavis, the only remaining member of the 10 still in prison, would not be permitted to talk to reporters.

James "Jay" Stroud, the prosecutor at the original trial, said Wednesday he believed the federal brief was "totally misconceived." He has denied contentions by the defense that deals were made with prosecution witnesses in exchange for their testimony.

He discounted the value of the "amended statement," saying it contained only his personal notations on any already public transcript of his interview with Hall.

Interpreted Differently

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Persons involved with the Baptist State Convention's decision to continue studying a proposal to change the ties between the convention and Wake Forest University interpret the decision differently.

Leaders of the convention say the proposal amounted to severance of ties so it can't be approved until November, 1980.

But Wake Forest University president J. Ralph Scales says, "I don't think we'll have to wait another two years. Any decision short of splitting off from the convention would take one year or less and we do not interpret our proposal as splitting off."

The proposal calls for university trustees to pick their successors and allows them to include among their choices non-Baptists and persons from out-of-state. It would also strike from the charter language that describes the school as an agency of the convention.

The trustees have not asked for an end to the financial relationship between the two institutions. The convention gave the school about $815,000, or 6 percent of the school's budget, this year.

Scales said he and the trustees plan to concentrate on persuading the convention's council on Christian Higher Education, the panel that is to study the matter, that the proposal is not a plan for severance of ties.

The chairman of the council, the Rev. Frank Campbell of Statesville, said he was already convinced that the proposal does not involve severance and therefore would not need two convention votes.

Manson To Get Parole Hearing

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Mass murderer Charles Manson gets his first parole hearing today, but authorities were not sure if he would be there.

"He indicated at first that he wasn't going to appear," says Heise. "He may get to the board room and he may not."

Prison officials have said that Manson spends most of his time alone in his cell, drawing on the walls.

Manson, who was 44 last Sunday, was convicted of nine murders including the seven notorious Tate-LaBianca killings of 1969.

The judge who sentenced him to life in prison in two of the murders said that Manson should never be released. State law requires that prisoners sentenced to life in prison be granted a hearing after serving seven years of a sentence.

The short, dark-haired Manson, who often displayed a hypnotic stare, traveled across

Claims Near-Crisis In Classroom Discipline

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Classroom discipline problems are reaching "crisis proportions" an attorney told the North Carolina Association of Educators this week.

And this is coming at a time when teachers are under increasing criticism for "padding" students, Jim Fuller, an attorney with Chambers, Stein, Ferguson and Becton of Charlotte said Monday at a District 10 meeting of the association.

Criminal charges against teachers for corporal punishment are increasing rapidly, he told the 200 teachers.

Classroom discipline is a "crisis because it is really erupting all over the state," said Fuller, whose primary caseload is defending teachers accused of assault because they paddled students.

Criminal proceedings against teachers have had "a mushrooming, exploding effect" over the past two years.

"Part of the problem is increased parental awareness, racial awareness... and teachers who don't know their rights and responsibilities," Fuller said.

"Teachers as a group are committed to the good things in society as any other group in the state," Fuller said. "I wish teachers knew their rights as well. They're a walking timebomb for lawsuits."

Fuller said the root of the problem is teachers not being informed of their rights and their students' rights.

He indicated many lawsuits might be avoided if teachers properly carried out due process for their students. But the majority of suits brought against teachers, Fuller said, are criminal and not civil.

Civil proceedings, he said, can cost an average of $2,000, "and parents tend to cool down quickly when a lawyer asks for $2,000."

Criminal suits are increasing, Fuller said, because lawyers enjoy the publicity the suits create, teachers are subject to wider criticism and it costs nothing for the parents bringing the charges.

"Wait until you get busted," he said. "You're a lead headline and probably a picture in the papers. There's nothing a lawyer can do to protect you from that."

Record Budget, No Tax Boost

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Michael Bilandic has proposed a record $1.35 billion city budget that provides pay raises for city employees without increasing taxes.

His proposal would cut property taxes by $1 million, even though it represents a $47.5 million increase over the current budget. The mayor said he hopes to achieve this partly by selling some city land and by reducing the city work force of 42,500 by 400 employees through attrition. He said inflation also will increase revenues from some sources other than property taxes.

British Post Office Hunts Business; No Red Ink

GOING AFTER BUSINESS — This is one of Britain's travelling post offices. The office in a truck is sent to major sporting events to handle letters and telegrams from the site. Pushing service and going after business keeps the British postal service operating in the black. (AP Laserphoto)

By RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — What? A postal service that WANTS to handle magazines, delivers first-class mail in a single day and still turns a profit?

Britain has one — and has this advice for its money-losing cousin in America: Kick the habit of government support, trim off the fat, and get out and sell your service.

Oh, and don't pay your employees too much.

That dose of old-fashioned capitalism is credited with turning the money-losing mail service into the pride of Britain's score of nationalized industries — from a $242 million loss in 1975 to a $77 million profit last year.

Service isn't what it used to be. The Post Office admits that the day is gone forever when a Briton could get up from lunch, mail a penny postcard and be sure it would reach a hostess in time to count him in for 4 o'clock tea.

But 93 percent of first-class letters are delivered the first working day after mailing, and the service takes seriously its failure by 1 percent to get 95.5 percent of second-class mail to its destination by the third day.

Though distances are obviously not as great in Britain, even across-town deliveries have been a problem in the United States.

And while British Post Office spokesman Robert Hannah says his country's postal profit is not one "that a private sector company of comparable size would be happy with," it looks pretty good next to the $1,686 a minute lost by state-owned British Steel or the U.S. Postal Service's $688 million loss in 1977.

Counting its other activities, such as telephone and telegraph services, data processing and National Giro postal banking, the British Post Office's profit — including the $77 million from mail services — came to $708 million last year.

"The major difference between us and most other postal services is that we have a financial target set by the government, and we are allowed to manage commercially without detailed control from government," says Denis E. Roberts, postal system managing director.

Three years ago the government told us they weren't going to make up our losses any longer. It was the best thing that could have happened to us."

Hannah says that produced "a massive exercise in good housekeeping. It meant virtually no promotions for anybody for a couple of years. The staff was reduced by several thousand, but it saved us literally millions and millions of pounds. And we used to expect that people would just come to us because we are the Post Office. Now we're going out and marketing postal business."

Magazines and parcels, those pariahs of the postal profession, are not despised in Britain. Mailers are actually courted with discounts. The average magazine of 2.8 ounces goes for 15 cents — about 4 cents less than the regular charge.

Parcel services lost $32.4 million two years ago and $11 million last year, but with the business being built up by sales itches and cut rates, Hannah says: "We hope in the coming year for a profit."

The theory is that the facilities are there anyway and it costs little more to expand volume, so why not share the benefits and attract more business.

Two new special parcel services — which charge premium prices and are promoted by brightly-painted mini-vans, advertising campaigns and even a nude calendar — are actually making money.

The U.S. postal service claims underpriced postage is the main reason for its losses. Americans, it points out, pay less for the first weight unit of postage: 15 cents compared to 18 cents for Britain and as much as 27 cents for France and Switzerland.

But the Briton can get more than twice as much weight — 2.1 ounces compared to 1 ounce — for his first-class stamp than the American.

The U.S. service counters that Americans work less time to buy that stamp — 1.1 minute compared to 3.2 minutes in Britain, 1.5 minutes in Switzerland and 2.7 minutes in France.

And it says it is much more efficient — with nearly 140,000 letters handled for each of its 655,000 employees annually, compared to fewer than 57,000 for each of the British service's 168,000 people.

A big advantage for Britain — so far — has been low pay scales.

British mailmen average $7,602 a year for an average 52-hour week that includes nine hours of overtime. That compares to average national earnings of more than $9,000. And it's less than two-thirds the base pay of a beginner in the U.S. Postal Service, who in time can move up as high as $14,983 even without overtime.

Low pay — coupled with a 5 a.m. starting time in a country that gets moving around 10 — have made it harder and harder to attract postmen. There are 2,500 jobs vacant in London alone. And postal union leaders won't settle for less forever. They have shown militant muscle before, blacklisting a photo processing plant that wouldn't unionize and forcing abandonment of plans for a cheap Christmas stamp.

Hannah admits too that postal officials and unionists have been slow to modernize and automate. Typically of Britain, a 51-year-old device is still key to London's quick delivery service — a robot railroad that zips letters 6½ miles across the city underground.

Another lifesaver the British will never give up: cats. Hundreds of them, official and unofficial, guard the mail from rodents. Regulars are eligible for a 1.70 pound ($3.40) food allowance each week.

Uncover Myths, Realities In The U.S. Over-65 Population

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — True or false? People over the age of 65:

- (a) often feel physically miserable;
- (b) have more auto accidents;
- (c) are often bored, isolated and lonely;
- (d) are more religious.

All the answers are false, according to Professor Fred Lengfeld, chairman of the University of Wisconsin-Extension program on aging.

Lengfeld says scientific studies he did with other researchers turned up repeated popular myths about old people.

For instance, he says, younger people tend to think their lives and interests will change in later life.

One study showed that UW-Madison undergraduates favorite activities are things like horseback riding or sailing or basketball. But when listing what leisure activities they actually pursued most often, UW-Madison undergraduates listed napping, walking, eating and conversation, in that order.

A similar survey among the elderly, Lengfeld says, showed their most common leisure activities were napping, walking, eating and conversation. In that order.

"Our educational institutions have spent too much time on the present and the past but not enough time has been spent on the future," says Lengfeld, himself a spry 62-year-old whose career spans four decades of physical education and coaching.

Here are some of Lengfeld's examples of "myths and realities" about the nation's more than 20 million persons aged 65 or above:

—Besides vision and hearing, touch is the other of the five senses which most often diminishes as a person ages.

—Only 15 percent of the elderly live below federal poverty levels.

—Physical strength often declines in old age, but many authorities believe that stems primarily from reduced exercise.

—Only 4.8 percent of the nation's aged — 65 or older — live in long-stay institutions such as nursing homes.

—Older people may take longer to learn something new, but given adequate time they learn it at least as efficiently as the young.

—Twelve percent of the elderly hold paying jobs. Nineteen percent are involved in volunteer work.

—Older workers are more dependable and have fewer accidents.

Lengfeld relates a favorite story, about attending a recent senior citizens' group dance where an elderly woman dropped dead of a heart attack in the midst of a vigorous polka.

Instead of widespread horror, he says, most of the elderly dancers simply nodded to each other, saying, "Wasn't that a nice way for her to go?"

"The anecdote, Lengfeld says, sums up a lot of what it means to be old.

"Death is very common and it's just part of the performance," he says. "It's indicative, again, of how tough old people really are."

Holding Two Days Of Volunteer Workshops

A two-day workshop, "How to Work with Volunteers," is being held today and tomorrow in the auditorium of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Administration Building, 2000 Cedar Lane.

The workshop is sponsored by Volunteer Greenville, a public agency under the auspices of the Recreation and Parks Dept., Pitt Technical Institute, and the Office of Volunteer Services, Dept. of Human Resources, Raleigh.

Nancy Harrington, coordinator of Volunteer Greenville, has announced that two speakers will be here for the workshop — Judy Lund, director of the state Volunteer Service office; and Esther Hall, program director in that office. Both will be here for the two days, Ms. Harrington noted.

The program begins today and tomorrow at 9 a.m. and continues each day until 4 p.m. Among topics to be discussed are — "Advantages and Disadvantages of Working with Volunteers;" "Planning for Volunteers;" "Supervision;" and "How to Work with an Advisory Board."

Workers in various volunteer agencies from several locations throughout the state have registered for attendance. Most are from the Greenville and New Bern areas, but some are as far away as Concord. Other towns to be represented include Kinston, Tarboro, Roanoke Rapids, Wilmington, Goldsboro, Jacksonville, and Swan Quarter.

Pitt Tech will be giving continuing education credits for their students attending the workshop.

NEW YORK (AP) — Encouraged by a renewed pledge from President Carter to help the economy, the stock market rose sharply today.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up 5.20 to 790.80 at noon. A similar early increase Wednesday was followed by an afternoon selloff that left the Dow with a .34 increase.

Advancing issues held a more than 2-1 edge over declines on the New York Stock Exchange.

Carter, in a breakfast meeting with reporters today, said, "I meant and do mean business" in fighting inflation and defending the dollar. He added that failure of that effort could raise the threat of a recession or even a depression.

The Carter statements followed by a day chief administration inflation-fighter Alfred Kahn's warning that the nation could face depression without considerable belt-tightening.

Bankamerica topped the active list, up 1/4 to 24 1/2 after a 200,000-share block moved at that price.

The NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stock rose .38 to 51.90. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index gained 1.16 to 140.85.

Volume on the NYSE was a moderate 9.93 million shares, compared to 11.6 million shares at noon Wednesday.

Among the early gainers were Mallory, up 2 1/2 to 45 1/2; Standard Oil of Indiana, up 1 to 52; Polaroid, up 1 1/2 to 46 1/2; and Boeing, up 1 1/2 to 61 1/2. Boeing sold $2.3 billion worth of aircraft to Delta and American airlines Wednesday.

Gulf & Western rose 3/4 to 12 1/2 after saying it would buy up to 5 million of its common shares in the open market.

Varied Charges Against Grifton Man

A 19-year-old Grifton man has been arrested and charged by county authorities on a variety of counts, including the theft of a Grifton Police vehicle.

Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Linwood Earl Jones has been charged with breaking, entering and larceny at the Dixie Queen Restaurant in Winterville and also safecracking in connection with the theft of the restaurant's safe.

Sheriff Tyson, who said the incident took place on Oct. 26, reported that the safe was recovered from a pond north of the Tar River here and has been returned to the owners. The safe contained no money at the time of the theft, he added.

Bond for Jones on the breaking and entering and safecracking charges has been set for $5,000, it was mentioned.

Grifton Police Chief Linwood Outlaw said this morning that Jones has been charged with two automobile larceny incidents, including the theft of a police car on Nov. 12, as well as two breaking, entering and larceny counts and an attempted safecracking.

Chief Outlaw noted that both the police vehicle and a second automobile, reported stolen on Nov. 7, were recovered.

The break-in charges resulted from investigation of an incident early Monday morning, Nov. 13 at the Grifton Grammar School in which several rooms were ransacked, desks damaged and glass sections broken in several doors. In addition, Jones is charged with the Nov. 8 break-in of a mobile home at Hardee's Trailer Park, the chief said.

In the grammar school break-in, he added, a safe in the secretary's office adjoining the principal's office was damaged. Jones was charged with attempted safecracking in that incident, Chief Outlaw reported.

Total bond for Jones on the Grifton charges has been set at $20,000. Jones has been placed in Pitt County Jail.

Investigations of the Winterville and Grifton incidents are continuing.

Would Fight Used Car Disclosures

HIGH POINT, N. C. (AP) — The head of the Carolina Independent Automobile Dealers Association says his organization is ready to go to court over proposed Federal Trade Commission regulations that would require certain disclosures on used cars.

John Ellis, executive director of the association, said Wednesday the FTC is misleading the public portraying used car dealers as crooks. He also scoffed at the FTC's contention that the new regulations would be simple, inexpensive and easy for dealers to obey.

In a report Monday, the FTC said the sale of defective used cars is "a major consumer abuse... affecting the basic safety or utility of the most expensive item many consumers will ever buy."

Saying it wanted to reduce the number of "lemons" found among used cars, the FTC has proposed that dealers be required to inspect the cars they sell and disclose their findings in forms posted on car windows.

A car's brakes, steering, engine and transmission would be described in writing as "OK" or "not OK." If "not OK," a written estimate of repair costs would be required.

Some used car dealers have expressed concern that the FTC proposal, if carried out, would create massive paperwork, and that dealers might unfairly be held liable for some defects. Ellis said if his organization should file a lawsuit, it would challenge the FTC's authority to institute the regulations.

Wiener King To Reorganize

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Wiener King Corp. of Charlotte has gone to federal bankruptcy court to seek protection from its creditors.

The Charlotte News said today that the company filed a petition Monday with the U.S. Bankruptcy Office in federal district court here, claiming debts of $3.3 million. The company said it was unable to pay its debts because of severe cash flow problems.

Under the type of petition filed by Wiener King, a company can continue operating while it is reorganizing its affairs under court supervision. Creditors cannot refuse to do business with the company while it is reorganizing.

Wiener King Corp., founded five years ago by Ronald W. Howard of Charlotte, operates a chain of fast-food restaurants specializing in hot dogs. Wiener King owns 22 restaurants in North Carolina and South Carolina, including eight in Charlotte.

An additional 120 restaurants that operate under the Wiener King name have been sold to individuals who pay the company a fee for the right to operate the restaurant.

Warnings Said Ignored

ECU News Bureau
 The failure of U. S. economic policies should not be blamed on post-Depression government intervention as advocated by British economist John Maynard Keynes, according to an East Carolina University economics expert.

Dr. Umesh C. Gulati of the East Carolina University School of Business was a speaker at the Nov. 8-10 conference of the Southern Economic Association, Washington, D. C.

In his presentation, "Is Keynes No Longer Relevant?" Gulati defended Keynes, on the basis that Keynes, who influenced several Western nations to sponsor public works programs as a means to alleviate unemployment, "never claimed that our private enterprise economy could ever be fine-tuned."

"Instead, the failure can be attributed to misunderstanding and misinterpretation of the Keynesian theory," Gulati said.

"In particular, the policy makers have ignored Keynes' warning that freedom of collective bargaining and our commitment to achieving full employment are not compatible. Unless unions' freedom for collective bargaining is curbed, our commitment to full employment will lead to inflation."

"That is what has happened."

Caravan Taking Area Petitions

WASHINGTON — A caravan of leaders from 22 Northeastern North Carolina counties will travel to Raleigh, November 22, to deliver petitions signed by thousands of area residents protesting rates for electric service to Gov. Jim Hunt.

The petitions call on Hunt, the State Utilities Commission, and Federal regulatory agencies to roll back rates granted to Virginia Electric and Power Co., the electric power supplier for the region.

The petitions maintain that residents of the region are being discriminated against because VEPCO's rates are higher than those charged by other major power companies in the State.

The petitions — circulated as part of an Operation Overcharge campaign to effect a rate reduction — will be presented to the Governor in a 10 a.m. meeting, according to Stanley W. Hege, chairman of the Operation Overcharge petition committee.

Operation Overcharge was formed by Chambers of Commerce in the 22-county area to work toward lower electric rates.

"The petitions are our first step," Richard S. Coiner of Washington, said. The Operation Overcharge chairman added "we will continue our efforts until electric rates in our region are like those in the remainder of North Carolina."

Spokesmen said the goal of 25,000 signatures has already been surpassed, and a much larger number will be turned over to the Governor.

NCAA Has New Questions About ECU

The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has requested additional information from Carolina University in regards to an investigation into the school's men's basketball program.

Dick Blake, assistant to the chancellor, issued a statement this morning stating that the school internal investigation was preparing responses to recent NCAA questions about the program and expected to meet with the NCAA sometime in December.

"An internal committee is conducting a review of East Carolina University's men's basketball program," the statement issued by Blake's office said. "As part of its activities, the committee will prepare responses to NCAA inquiries concerning the basketball program. Members of the ECU administration expect to meet with NCAA officials in December regarding the inquiry."

The investigation into the ECU program came to light during the summer when an NCAA investigator was in Greenville, questioning several people, including the ECU cage staff, about the recruitment of freshman Al Tyson. Among those questioned at the time were Shelly Marsh, Conley High School basketball coach, who coached Tyson in high school, and ECU head coach Larry Gillman along with assistant Herb Dillon. It was not known whether other people in the area were questioned by the NCAA at the time.

The NCAA has refused all comment on the investigation, stating that it would announce its findings only if an infraction were to be uncovered. The NCAA said that if no infractions were found, the university would be informed, and it would be up to the school to make an announcement after that.

Blake told "The Daily Reflector" this morning that additional questions about the ECU basketball program had been forwarded to the school several days ago, and that these questions would be turned over to the internal investigation committee. Blake said it would not be in the best interest of the investigation to make any comment on what these questions were.

He added that this was the first correspondence the school had had with the NCAA since it was informed that the investigation was underway.

"Chancellor (Thomas) Brewer wants to be thorough in the investigation and wants to provide a program that is competitive but still meets all NCAA guidelines and rule rules," Blake said.

Brewer, who became chancellor just days before the investigation was revealed, set the wheels in motion for the internal investigation shortly thereafter.

Gillman, whose Pirates begin their second year under him next Saturday, was reportedly on the ropes last year after his team won only nine games and lost 17. Attempts were made to have him fired with two years remaining on his three year contract, but Dr. Leo Jenkins, then chancellor, refused to break the coach's contract.

ECU officials did not say when they would be meeting with the NCAA during December.

Jaguars Battle Old Enemy Friday

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

For the past two seasons, Farmville Central's football team has taken to the road with high hopes in the state 3-A playoffs only to run up against a tough Clinton team a team that proved to be stronger on both occasions and knock the Jaguars right out of the playoff picture.

Two years ago, a powerhouse Farmville team, with the likes of running backs Keno Farrow and Ted Dunn leading the way, dropped a bitterly disappointing 41-40 overtime decision to the Dark Horses in the eastern finals at Southern Wayne High School. The game was supposed to be played at Clinton, but moved due to a problem with the stadium lighting system.

Last season, coach Gene Brewer took a group of talented, but inexperienced ballplayers to Clinton for an eastern semifinal game and Gary Whitted scored four touchdowns to lead the Dark Horses to a 41-21 victory.

Tomorrow night the two teams clash again, this time on Farmville's home turf, and that suits Brewer and the Jaguars a whole lot better.

Most of the players on this year's team, which reached Friday night's game with a stunning 56-12 win over top-ranked Tarboro, played against Clinton last season and are anxious to make a better showing than they did in that game, Brewer said.

"Most of the kids are looking forward to getting a chance to play them again. We didn't show them much last year, and we're looking forward to the chance to show them how we can play football."

The team is also anxious to face the Dark Horses with the home crowd behind them.

Brewer said Clinton is a "good-sized football team." The Dark Horses have always been a fundamentally sound club that sticks to basics. "They run right at you," Brewer said. "They throw enough to keep you honest, they have a pretty good throwing attack, but mostly they just run right at you."

Whitted, a senior now, is the team's offensive leader. He is the tailback in Clinton's I-formation and has over 900 yards in the team's 11 games this season.

"We saw plenty of him last year. We hope we're going to be able to contain him a little better this time," Brewer commented. Whitted has good speed and "if you let him get outside, he's going to be gone."

Defensively, the Dark Horses also boast good size, as well as good quickness, Brewer said. They usually put six men up front and the four down linemen are all over 200 pounds.

The linebackers are fairly small, Brewer said, but all of the secondary men are over six feet tall.

After their opening win over Tarboro, Brewer said the Jaguars are taking the games one at a time. "With Clinton coming in here, it makes it kind of tough to look ahead," he commented.

Brewer said the surprisingly easy win over Tarboro was a case of everything going the Jaguars' way in the second quarter. "Everything sort of fell into place for us there for a few minutes. It was a matter of everything going our way and nothing going their way."

Four Tarboro turnovers in the second quarter helped the Jaguars score 35 points and put the game away before halftime with a 42-6 lead.

Brewer said it would be impossible to single out just a few players in that contest. "I can't think of anybody that didn't play above average."

Quarterback Donald Freeman teamed up with flanker James Tyson for four touchdown passes and threw for a total of 150 yards against the Vikings, while running back Donald Reid had 143 yards rushing, outgaining Tarboro's highly touted running back, Kelvin Bryant.

Defensively, linebacker Ronald Reid was credited with 17 tackles, while Calvin Horne intercepted two passes. David Dunn and Jeff Tyson picked off one each, and Allen Moore, Billy McLawhorn and Charles Sutton each recovered a fumble.

Brewer will be hoping for another outstanding performance from the Jaguars Friday night to make amends for two years of frustration at the hands of Clinton.

Women Plan Purple-Gold

The East Carolina women's basketball team will hold its annual Purple-Gold game in Minges Coliseum on Sunday at 1 p.m.

In addition, head coach Cathy Andruzzi and assistant Marcia Richards will conduct a free clinic for high school and junior high school coaches and players, starting at 12 noon.

The Pirates, 19-11 last winter, count the state's leading scorer, Rosie Thompson, among the top returnees. The 5-9 Thompson started every game at forward and averaged 20.7 points a year ago.

Other top returnees include 5-6 guard Lydia Rountree who averaged 8.2 points per game in 1978, and last year's top shot blocker, 6-0 Marcia Girven, who slapped away 100 attempts.

The Pirates open the season at Campbell on November 28 and play at N.C. State on the 30th before opening at home on December 2 against Duke.

Bowl To Cut List

Members of the Independence Bowl selection committee were to meet early this afternoon to pare the list of potential invitees to the December 16 game down to three to five teams, it has been learned.

The committee is believed to be operating with a list of about ten teams going into today, East Carolina University is among those ten.

At the same time, a Raleigh television station said last night that it had learned that East Carolina would be extended an invitation should it beat Marshall University on Saturday.

Reports of other potential bowl game prospects for the Pirates were also surfacing, including the Hall of Fame in Birmingham, Ala., the Garden State Bowl in East Rutherford, N. J., and the Peach Bowl in Atlanta, Ga.

Gymnasts In Meet

Swimmers Open New Season

East Carolina and Alabama are likely to have a fast meet when the two tangle Saturday in the Pirates' pool.

Alabama, the nation's number seven team, brings a speedy corps of sprint freestylers into the fray, set to start at 11 a.m.

The meet will be the first of eight dual meets on a 13-event schedule for the Pirates in men's swimming.

The home meet includes five other meets, including Old Dominion, Maine, Richmond, UNC-Wilmington, and Duke.

"Alabama is one of the most exciting swimming teams in the country," said Pirate coach Ray Scharf. "They only started the sport a few years ago and have rapidly build a national powerhouse."

"They don't have a dead spot in their lineup and figure to turn in another great performance in the NCAA at the end of the season. They were second in the nationals in 1977. I expect a number of pool records and individual best times will be broken Saturday."

For the Pirates, freestylers John Tudor, Ted Nieman, Bill Fehling and Joe Kusky will carry the load along with Jack Clowar in the individual medley.

Other meets on the Pirate schedule include:

Dec. 12 at Penn State Relays, 6 at North Carolina, 8-9 at South Carolina Invitational, 16 Old Dominion.
Jan. 13 Maine, 20, Richmond, 27 UNC-Wilmington, 30 at N.C. State.
Feb. 3 Duke, 22-24 at UNC Wilmington Invitational.
March 13 at Eastern Intercollegiate Championships, University Park, Pa.; 22-24 at NCAA Championships, Cleveland, Ohio.

Lost Control

THE ONCE-NOISY crowd of Tarboro fans shook their heads in silent disbelief. The same fans that had cheered their team to an overpowering 10-0 record and the number one ranking in the East now stood helpless as their team trailed Farmville Central 42-6 at halftime.

What happened? Well, a number of factors were responsible for turning what was supposed to have been the best football game of the season into a rout before intermission.

For one thing, Farmville Central has one of the hardest-hitting defenses around and it quickly became apparent that the Vikings had not been up against the likes of twin linebackers Ronald and Donald Reid.

The Jaguars forced seven Tarboro turnovers and capitalized on four consecutive bobbles in the second quarter. The Jags scored a stunning 35 points in the second period, and four of their five TD drives started deep in Viking territory.

The high-powered Tarboro team was held to 236 total yards, with 98 of them coming on one play, a first-quarter TD run by halfback Kelvin Bryant. Bryant, a 1,000-yard rusher this season, was held to 39 yards for the rest of the game.

Offensively, the Jaguars, helped out by the numerous turnovers, were able to roll up more than three times as many points as any team scored against Tarboro this season. In fact, Farmville's 56 points equalled the total scored against Tarboro this year in 10 regular season games.

IN ADDITION, IT is not entirely unlikely that the Vikings might have been just a little overconfident going into last Friday night's contest. At least that's the feeling one got from watching the players and fans before the game.

After all, they were undefeated and had only been threatened once. They also had a victory over Rocky Mount, the defending 4-A champion. They had been ranked number one all season long and some people said they were the best team in the state in any classification.

This attitude became even more apparent when on the Vikes' first offensive play Bryant went over the right side on a counter play and raced 98 yards for the first score of the game. That play probably hurt the Vikings more than it helped them.

Tarboro had not been behind the entire season, but the team soon found itself in that position as Farmville drove the length of the field with the ensuing kickoff and after a Donald Freeman to James Tyson TD pass. David Dunn kicked the PAT for a 7-6 Jaguar lead.

The Farmville defense then held Tarboro in four plays on the Vikes' second possession of the game and drove for a 14-6 lead after a punt. Finding themselves in an unfamiliar situation, the Vikings panicked.

Tarboro fumbled the ball away on its next possession, and two plays later the Jaguars had a 21-6 lead as Tyson scored his second touchdown. He ended up with four, all on passes from Freeman.

With six minutes left in the second quarter, the Vikings were still very much in the game, however. It was the next play that really killed them.

They got a good kickoff return, getting the ball well into Jaguar territory at the 40. But on first down, quarterback Tim Crisp was greatly pressured by the Farmville rush and heaved a desperation toss over the middle that was picked off by Dunn. When the Jaguars scored in two plays for a 28-6 lead, the Tarboro hopes all but ended.

It would have taken an outstanding offensive performance in the third quarter for Vikings to get back in the contest. When the team finally scored again in the fourth quarter most of its fans had left in bitter disappointment and Farmville was on its way to the eastern semifinal game.

Lakers Have Talent And Use It Very Well

By The Associated Press

It isn't the kind of talent you have, says Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, it's the way you use it.

And the Los Angeles Lakers are in the enviable position of having both the talent and the ability to use it wisely. That was evident Wednesday night after the Lakers posted their 11th straight National Basketball Association victory with a 133-126 triumph over the Detroit Pistons.

Coach Jerry West has certainly seen the dramatic difference from last season, when the Lakers finished fourth in the Pacific Division. Currently, they're just a half-game off Seattle's division-leading pace with a solid 12-4 record.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Denver Nuggets 109-103 in overtime; the Seattle SuperSonics routed the New Orleans Jazz 135-118; the Washington Bullets hammered the Milwaukee Bucks 138-111; the Chicago Bulls turned back the Houston Rockets 117-103; the Phoenix Suns stopped the San Antonio Spurs 125-119 and the Kansas City Kings turned back the Atlanta Hawks 109-100.

Adrian Dantley's early scoring and Abdul-Jabbar's late flurry provided the Lakers with their victory. Dantley, who finished with 33 points, had 17 in the second period when the Lakers outscored Detroit 43-20 and added eight more early in the third to help Los Angeles roar in front 86-71.

At that point, Abdul-Jabbar was sidelined with his fifth personal foul and Detroit countered with a 25-10 uprising of its own, led by rookie John Long's five baskets to even the score at 96. But Abdul-Jabbar returned and hit four straight baskets to put the Lakers in

Julius Erving scored 10 of his game-high 33 points in a five-minute overtime period as Philadelphia defeated Denver.

The 76ers scored their 10th victory in the last 11 games despite a 29-point performance by Denver's George McGinnis, who returned to Philadelphia for the first time since being traded to the Nuggets last summer for Bobby Jones. McGinnis fouled out with 4:17 remaining in the overtime period.

Sonics 135, Jazz 118
Fred Brown led seven Seattle scorers in double figures with 20 points as the SuperSonics defeated New Orleans.

Seattle trailed 26-22 with 2:39 left in the first period, but took control with a 16-5 spurt that carried into the second period. Wally Walker, who scored 14 points, capped the rally with a basket that gave Seattle a 38-31 lead with 9:36 left in the half.

Bullets 138, Bucks 111
Kevin Grevey's 24 points led Washington over listless Milwaukee. The Bullets jumped to a 31-14 lead midway through the first quarter and never were threatened while coasting past the slumping Bucks, who now have lost nine straight road games.

Elvin Hayes and Bob Dandridge scored 21 points each while playing about half the game for the Bullets.

Bulls 117, Rockets 103

Reggie Theus scored a career-high 27 points and Mickey Johnson added 25 more as Chicago raced past Houston. Artis Gilmore added 20 points and pulled down 11 rebounds as the Bulls spurred to a 12-point halftime lead and never were headed.

Suns 125, Spurs 119
Paul Westphal hit six key points in the final 46 seconds and finished with 39 to propel Phoenix past San Antonio.

San Antonio's Larry Kenon had tied the game at 117 with a pair of free throws with less than a minute remaining. But then Westphal tossed in two free throws with 46 seconds remaining to put the Suns ahead by two points and added two consecutive baskets in the next 29 seconds to ice the game.

Kings 109, Hawks 100
Otis Birdsong scored 26 points and Sam Lacey added 22 to lead Kansas City over Atlanta and move the Kings into a first-place tie with Denver in the Midwest Division.

Kansas City, which had not been in first since early in the 1974-75 season, took the lead early in the first quarter and held it the rest of the way.

Victory Over Indians Was Sweet For Bucs

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

William & Mary apparently brought out the best in East Carolina this year.

For the past two years, the Pirates had played less than their best against the Indians, who physically beat them both times, and took them on the scoreboard in 1977.

But this time, the Pirates did just about everything right, according to Coach Pat Dye. The 20-3 win over the Indians was one of the happiest for Dye and his crew and "our finest game of the year throughout."

Dye, speaking at his weekly press conference, said things went well with the kicking game, the defense and the offense against the Indians in the regionally televised game.

"We did well in our coverage, except for one time, and while we didn't return many punts, we had good kickoff returns, and we didn't miss any kicks, getting two field goals and both extra points."

When it came to defense, Dye said he thought that the Pirates were ready for the game, but "I didn't think that we would dominate the game the way we did."

"The way we defended them, we took them out of their offense. About the only thing they could do was to go up the middle, and they didn't come off the ball well enough to do that."

"I still have a lot of respect for (quarterback Tom) Rozantz, but he had to run for his life all night. We only got to him once, but we kept a lot of pressure on him and covered his receivers quite well."

Dye added that the Pirates have "a heck of a good defensive football team," adding that the reason for this is that the Pirates have been able to play a lot of people in this phase of the game and keep fresh people in the game at all times.

"There is no question that we moved the ball as well as we have at any time during the season," he said turning to the other side of the coin. "And we did it against a real good defensive team. But for a couple of plays, however, we'd probably would have had over 400 yards in total offense. I was only disappointed in that we didn't score when we had the ball down there." The Bucs twice failed to score touchdowns and settled for field goals.

Dye heaped praise on a number of individuals, not only for their play against William & Mary, but all season.

"Eddie Hicks is a great running back. He's a tremendous individual to coach and he's meant a lot to our program. He's an unselfish player...a team player...and a complete player."

Dye said that defensive end Zack Valentine is the same type player. "He won't make the crushing tackles that say Danny Kopley might make, but he consistently grades out 90 per cent. Fundamentally, he's the best defensive end I've ever seen."

Mike Brewington drew praise as a linebacker. "He's come along and played the way we expected him to. He takes the lead in our defense and has had a great year. He's a constant winner and he has gotten stronger during the year. He's an outstanding linebacker and should be as good as anyone in the country next year. He has speed, size and agility."

Safety Gerald Hall, a three-year starter, also got laurels. "He's been a tremendously exciting player, the way he's run back punts and interceptions. He also leads our secondary in tackles, despite the fact that we've handicapped him by having him play both the free and strong safety positions."

Wide receiver Terry Gallaher is "a great player winding up a four-year career. He's a great competitor who is an unselfish team player. He always does his job."

Guard Wayne Inman, Dye said, has become an outstanding offensive lineman, and is well on the way to being an all-star performer next season.

"We've got other players who have done outstanding jobs, too," Dye added. "Like Oliver Felton (middle guard) who had 30 pluses and only one minus against William & Mary. That's amazing when you consider the field conditions. Tommy Summer has had a great year, consistent all year long. He's just been in the shadow of Brewington. He well deserved the Defensive Player Award for Saturday's game. Charlie Carter has done an outstanding job in the secondary. He gives you 110 per cent all the time."

Dye went on to say that if the offense has shown improvement in the last three weeks, it has been due to the play of Leander Green, the quarterback.

"He's healthy now and that's made a tremendous difference in our offense. He makes everyone else grade higher when he plays well."

"Take that touchdown pass to Billy Ray Washington Saturday. They (W&M) had a strong safety blitz on. We were making a play-action fake to the fullback. Now ordinarily, we would have been thrown for a loss in a situation like that. But Leander dodged the safety, and got the ball to Billy Ray. It was a great play on his part and a great one on Billy Ray's part. It just shows his ability."

The Pirates close out their regular season Saturday night at 7 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium against Marshall University.

NLRB Rejects Grid Complaint

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National Labor Relations Board, reluctant to overturn a negotiated contract between the National Football League and the NFL Players Association, has rejected a complaint by a St. Louis lawyer.

The Cincinnati regional office of the NLRB cited the uniqueness of professional athletics Wednesday in its dismissal of a challenge to the contract's union security clause.

Gerald Tockman, the lawyer, had named 29 members of the 1977 Cincinnati Bengals team in the complaint.

Tockman had filed a similar action on behalf of Baltimore Colts players with the NLRB office in Baltimore.

Mike Brown, assistant general manager of the Bengals, said that if the NLRB had issued the complaint throwing out the contract, there would be "800 players going on the free agent market."

Tockman had attacked the clause that requires players to either join the players association or begin paying the equivalent of union dues to the association.

He said failure by any player to either join or pay dues would require the teams to suspend or fire that player.

The NLRB decision cited a decision by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals dealing with professional sports contracts.

"While some freedom of movement after playing out a contract is in order, complete freedom of movement would result in the best franchises acquiring most of the top players," the appeals court said.

The NLRB also said that the union security clause had been agreed upon by the union and the league and that it is the policy of the board "not to disturb the compromises hammered out in the give-and-take of free and fair collective bargaining."

Tackle Football
The Cardinals and Bills advanced to the finals of the Greenville Recreation & Parks Department's Tackle Football League championship playoffs with wins yesterday.

The regular season champion Cardinals took a 28-0 win over the Jets. After a scoreless first period, Donnell Lee scored on a 17-yard run in the second period. Jon Catlett added a second touchdown on a four-yard run with Traye Fuqua scoring the conversion for a 14-0 lead.

Frank Corey scored from the four in the third period and also added the conversion. Jody Forbes then took a 37-yard pass from John Catlett in the final period to close out the scoring.

LaMonte Duffie had an interception to pace the Jets, while Andy Holloman, Lee and Marvin Barrett each intercepted passes for the Cardinals.

The third place Bills upset number two Pirates, 8-0, in the other game. The two teams played scoreless ball until the final quarter when Chip Little scored on a six-yard run and added the PAT.

Troy Hudson and Kevir Williams recovered fumbles for the Bills, while Bill Johnson picked off an interception. Stephen Bath recovered a fumble for the Pirates.

The Cardinals and Bills meet for the title on Friday at 4:15 p.m. at Guy Smith Stadium.

Flag Football
The Cowboys gained a 6-0 victory over the Eagles in the first round of the Flag Football League playoffs yesterday.

The lone score came in the third period when Jordy Smith passed 26 yards to Clark Stallings for the Cowboy touchdown.

Doyle Kirkland and Dale Hudson both intercepted passes for the Eagles, while Todd Jordan led the Cowboy defense.

The Cowboys now play the regular season champs, the Jets, today at 3 p.m., while the Redskins and the Steelers meet at 4 p.m. The championship game is Friday at 3 p.m. at Elm Street Park.

Soccer
The Capitals closed out the Soccer League season with a 2-0 victory over the Aztecs, while the Rowdies and Strikers played to a 2-2 tie.

Chris Sams scored the first Cap goal, assisted by David Tingelstad in the third period. Bobby Orr came back with the other score off a double assist by Sams and Tingelstad.

Ralphie Harper scored on a breakaway in the second period for the first Striker goal, but Tim West, with an assist from Philippe Aaranson tied it up in the third period.

Harper again scored, off a throwin from Kelly Barnhill in the fourth period to return the Strikers to the lead, but Hutton Cobb tied it up before the game ended.

The Hot Shots won the league title with a 7-0-1 record. The Capitals were second at 4-4-0, followed by the Rowdies at 3-4-1, the Strikers at 2-3-3 and the Aztecs at 1-6-1.

Pirates Expect To Okay Parker's Pact

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Dave Parker, whose line drives helped make him the National League's Most Valuable Player, apparently isn't driving too hard a bargain for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Right now, I'm going to say that we will sign Dave Parker," Pirates General Manager Pete Peterson said Wednesday after Parker was named MVP.

With one year left on a three-year contract, Parker could become a free agent after next season. But talks are underway on a new pact.

"I'm very optimistic that Dave is going to spend the rest of his career with Pittsburgh," said Peterson.

Parker, winner of two straight NL batting titles, took the same positive stance, but he put his thoughts to rhyme.

"I said last season, 'When the leaves turn brown, I'll be wearing my second batting crown,'" he said.

"At this time, I'll say that when the leaves turn green, I'll be playing for the same team."

That brought grins from Peterson and Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner, who flanked Parker at a press conference.

"Dave's the best ballplayer in the game today. Nobody can do it better," said Tanner, who watched the 6-foot-5, 225-pound right fielder lead a stretch drive last season despite a cracked cheekbone.

"The amazing thing about it is that he hasn't even begun to hit his peak yet. Dave Parker is going to have his good years starting now," Tanner added.

While Tanner rates Parker the best in baseball, Parker apparently isn't insisting on the top salary.

"I don't think it's necessary that I show prestige by saying, 'Hey, I'm going to be the highest paid player in the game,'" Parker said.

"I'm publicized as the best, so I think it's only right that I receive one of the better salaries. But it doesn't have to be anything larger than Reggie Jackson or whoever. It's just getting the security I need for later years."

Parker said he also doesn't crave the heightened public attention that playing in a larger city would afford.

"Recognition matters to me," he said, "but I think I can accomplish that just by having productive years. People can't shrug their shoulders when they look at the statistics."

Parker currently does no product endorsements on television or in print. He said doesn't crave them either.

"I live simple. It doesn't bother me at all," he said.

"When the season starts, I get all the television time I need displaying my product — my own talents. I like my product. I like making people happy."

The Pirates say they hope to have a tentative agreement with Parker by Thanksgiving. "We may not have a signed contract at that time, but we'll have things wrapped up," said Peterson.

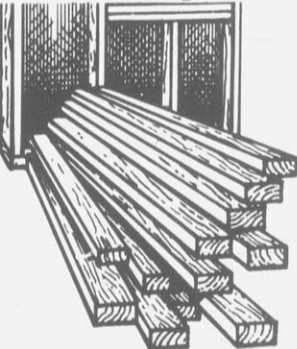

"I'm optimistic," said Parker's agent, Tom Reich. "I think the situation will be resolved by next week."

"I would like to stay in Pittsburgh," said Parker. "I feel that I will be in Pittsburgh."

Football Coach Admits Illegal Scout

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — In an attempt to defeat Northern Arizona and win the Big Sky Conference football title, Boise State University football Coach Jim Criner says he financed an illegal scouting attempt by a California teacher against the Lumberjack football team.

Criner, after having denied for the past week any involvement in a scouting venture, said Wednesday night he paid a "close friend" — Cal State-Hayward physical education teacher Bob Rodrigo — for an attempt to scout a NAU football practice prior to last Saturday's Big Sky Conference championship game. BSU officials reacted to Criner's statements with caution. "The first time I talked to Jim was today and he told me what I feel to be the complete story, but I'm going to investigate it further," said university President John Keiser. He refused to say whether Criner's job was in danger. Athletic Director Lyle Smith said Criner had made a "grave error." But he didn't know what the coach's future would be. Criner may face sanctions from the conference, said Commissioner Steve Belko, but that will be up to a violations committee. "Jim has admitted he made mistakes and from there it's in their hands," Belko said. One possible sanction, Belko said, is that Criner might be prohibited from recruiting for some period of time. But to predict what the violations committee would do "would be a guess on my part," Belko said.

Rodrigo told Northern Arizona Coach Joe Salem he was a scout for the Pittsburgh Steelers. When NAU officials checked with the Steelers, they determined Rodrigo had never been employed by the team. Salem then accused Boise State of spying on NAU and filed a protest with conference officials.

"At my request, Rodrigo scouted, or at least was in the locker room and watched the films of Northern Arizona," Criner told a news conference. "I paid for the plane ticket with my own personal funds."

Rodrigo refused comment on Criner's statement. Salem said Criner called him Wednesday and apologized for the incident.

"He called me today and said he would accept full responsibility and I accepted his apology," Salem said.

The NAU coach said he planned no further action on the incident, but noted the matter is still before the conference ethics committee. "The reason I did it was because I wanted to win," Criner said.

He said he is sure he will be penalized by the university and assumed the football program at Boise State would be punished by the conference. "I illegally scouted someone," Criner said. "I'll receive a penalty from BSU, there's no question about it. And we'll probably also get one from the conference that will effect us as a football staff."

Following Phyllis George Is Not Easy Act For Jayne Kennedy

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

When Jayne Kennedy got the job as Phyllis George's replacement on CBS' "The NFL Today," a network official called her parents' home with the news.

Her 13-year-old brother Herb took the call.

"This is CBS calling and we thought you'd like to know that we've hired Jayne to replace Phyllis George on 'The NFL Today,'" said the caller.

Silence. "Is anything wrong?" asked the official. "You don't seem too excited."

"You mean Phyllis George isn't going to be on the show anymore?" cried Herb. "How am I going to watch Phyllis?"

It isn't easy to follow a legend and Jayne Kennedy isn't even trying. She wants to do it her own way. She hasn't watched any tapes of Phyllis and she hasn't asked her for any pointers.

Phyllis was a media phenomenon. Somehow she became a star by doing a series of soft interviews with football players and smiling to beat the band. She became a household name. People who don't know a football from an eggplant shouted greetings when they saw her on the street.

Kennedy is more reserved than Phyllis, less sure of herself. Less of a natural on camera. She is intelligent, has a genuine love of football, is eager to please but slightly confused by all the technology involved in the show.

She is friendly, honest, very religious, a bit shy, cooperative, very teachable and intent on making a substantial contribution to the show. "Jayne wants to say something every time she opens her mouth," says Mike Pearl, the show's producer. "If she has nothing to say, she won't talk."

She is an actress, having made occasional appearances in TV series and a handful of movies. She survived a tryout with 19 other women, started out on trial for six weeks but had her contract extended for one year with options after her first two shows.

And she resents inferences that (a) she got the job because she's gorgeous and a former Miss Ohio and (b) she doesn't know anything about football.

"I don't like to talk about that Miss Ohio thing," she says. "That was eight years ago. The fact that I was Miss Ohio didn't help me get this job. There were 19 girls at the audition and they were all beautiful."

"When I got the job everyone was saying I knew nothing about football without even talking to me about it. That hurt. I came into the show knowing football, how it's played. I've loved it since I was a kid."

Kennedy, 26, admits she is not an outright expert but, then, she doesn't have to be. Irv Cross is the show's expert. Jimmy The Greek contributes "analysis." Jack Whitaker does the essays and Brent Musburger pulls it all together. Kennedy does the personality pieces, the soft interviews designed to bring out someone's character rather than elicit hard information.

Irish Nix Fiesta Bowl

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Notre Dame has been eliminated from consideration for the Fiesta Bowl game because it will be played on Christmas Day.

Bill Shover, bowl president, said Wednesday Notre Dame decided its appearance in a postseason game on a religious holiday was not in keeping with the school's image.

"The decision was made by Father (T.M.) Hesburgh," Shover said of the Notre Dame president. "The team and athletic department were very interested in the bowl. But Father Hesburgh decided against it. He decided a Christmas Day game was not consistent with the university's image and status. Notre Dame is a Catholic university."

Notre Dame was a leading candidate for a Fiesta Bowl invitation. Because of the school's decision, Shover said bowl officials will not scout the Fighting Irish's game Saturday with Georgia Tech.

Six schools remain on the Fiesta list, with two expected to receive invitations Saturday afternoon, the first day bowls can extend bids.

The Fiesta candidates include Arkansas, Michigan, Oklahoma, Texas, UCLA and Southern California.

The loser of this week's UCLA-Southern Cal game will be eligible for the Fiesta Bowl. The winner will go to the Rose Bowl.

Arkansas has expressed a strong interest in the bowl game.

Stat Leaders In Grid Battle

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Six of the Atlantic Coast Conference's top offensive players will be in the lineup Saturday when Clemson and Maryland battle for the ACC football championship at College Park.

The six hold first place in the 11 major statistical categories kept by the ACC. The edge goes to Clemson, which has four players with first-place rankings. Maryland has two leaders.

The Tigers have the total offense leader, quarterback Steve Fuller; top receiver, Jerry Butler; the No. 1 scorer, Lester Brown, and the best punt returner, Willie Jordan. The Terps counter with quarterback Tim O'Hare, the passing leader, and Ed Loncar, the top field goal kicker.

ECU Economist Sees Good News In Farm Exports

By FRANCEINE PERRY
ECU News Bureau
 In these days of imminent recession, rising inflation and dollar devaluation, it's good to hear positive news about the economy, and according to an East Carolina University economist, the good news augurs especially well for North Carolina.

 Dr. Oscar Moore of the ECU School of Business faculty says the good news is the present situation and future prospects for farm exports—chiefly soybeans, corn, wheat and tobacco. "Export sales of U.S. farm commodities have increased from less than $7 billion in 1968 to more than $27 billion in 1978, and further increases in the major exports are projected for months ahead," he said.

"Without our farm export earnings, I hate to think what the value of the U.S. dollar might be today internationally!"
 The dollar's current low value abroad is not completely a disadvantage to our economy, however, Moore points out that the relative low value of the dollar to the value of the currencies of a number of the primary importers of our farm products has the effect of making our farm export prices lower to them, and the U.S. thereby gains sales.

"During the past five years our greatest gain in overseas farm product sales have been to Russia and the Eastern European communist countries."

Gospel Sing Is Set Saturday

FARMVILLE — A gospel sing, sponsored by the Farmville Central High School VICA Club, has been scheduled for Saturday at 7 p.m.
 The program will feature the Gospel Chargers, Melody Makers and Palms Quarter. The admission charge is $1.50. The program will be held in the school auditorium.

Evangelist Will Speak

A mini revival will be held Friday through Sunday at the University Church of Christ. David Thomas will be the evangelist.

DAVID THOMAS

A native of Youngstown, Ohio, Thomas graduated from Cincinnati Bible College. He did graduate work there and at Xavier University. He held ministries in Kentucky, Rural Hall and Greenville at Mt. Pleasant Christian Church. He is founder and director of Global Operations Ministry. Thomas and his wife, Nancy, live in Winston-Salem.

The revival kick-off will be held in the church fellowship hall Friday from 6-7 p.m. with a spaghetti supper. Friday night is youth night with young people, under 25, trying to bring more visitors than the adult group, over 25, brings Saturday night. After the Sunday evening service, the contest losers will serve cake and ice cream.

Services Friday and Saturday nights are at 7:30 with Sunday School at 10 a.m. followed by morning worship at 11 o'clock. Evening worship begins at seven o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

Radish Exceeds Expectations

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — As a backyard gardener, Gordon Henry is used to modest success. But his harvest of a 30-pound radish was an accomplishment that exceeded his wildest expectations.

A few years ago, a friend gave 61-year-old Henry a package of seeds for Chinese white radishes. Most have turned out small.

"This one just went hog wild for some reason," he said with the long, root-like radish resting on his lap.

"It looks like a butchered hog," a friend added.

Henry harvested the vegetable Wednesday. Leaves and all, it weighed 28 to 30 pounds when he measured the only way he could — standing on the bathroom scale, weighing himself, then picking it up.

The radish, which weighs 13 pounds without its leaves, isn't the biggest on record. The Guinness Book of World Records lists one grown in Australia weighing 25 pounds. It measured 25 1/2 inches.

Wants Back In Clown School

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — David Mayfield of Lake Worth wants a judge to order his reinstatement in school — a clown college.

Mayfield has mailed a petition to U.S. District Court in an attempt to sue Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Clown College in Venice, Fla., for alleged employment discrimination. He claims he wasn't allowed to finish clown college last year and wants the court to order the circus-affiliated school to take him back and assign him an apprentice clown position. Since he is attempting to file without paying the usual fees, a federal judge will have to decide first whether Mayfield is indigent before suit can be formally brought.

Huge Aquarium Offers Fish-Eye View For Visitors

HONG KONG (UPI) — The world's largest aquarium enables landlubbers to observe fish from different parts of the world normally only seen by the most experienced deep-sea divers.

It is among the $32.5 million Hong Kong Ocean Park's many features and sits 500 feet above sea level, commanding a panoramic view of the South China Sea.

The 443,000-gallon tank requires a staff of 26 to maintain the massive equipment needed to keep alive the 30,000 marine specimens in the collection.

Senior Aquarist John Chin has not taken a day off since he became involved in designing the tank in 1973.

"The aim is to give visitors an eyeball-to-eyeball experience with fish, normally the privilege of those who indulge in deep-sea diving," Chin said.

Although Ocean Park has what is believed to be the world's largest saltwater aquarium tank, the aquarist said the San Francisco

Aquarium has the largest collection of fish.

The tank, housed in a low, oval-shaped building, is surrounded at four different levels by glassed galleries.

The beginning is the top of the atoll, jutting out of the water, like the tip of an iceberg, but resplendent with tropical plants brought from the Philippines, Indonesia and South Pacific islands.

The shallow reef or lagoon of the atoll is the home of many brilliantly colored fish, such as the half-inch blue damsel, the smallest resident of the tank; grey and blue trigger fish; butterflies and angels.

The mid-level or fringing reef is large enough to allow many of the fish to form schools. Among the selection here are 150 silver pompanos, weighing 15 pounds each, multi-colored snappers and groupers.

The barrier reef at the bottom is the realm of the denizens of the deep: sharks, eels, rays and turtles.

Chin and his aides constructed the complex reef out of fiberglass, soaking it for two months in seawater, sterilizing it and finally decorating the outside so ingeniously with coral and flora its realism is startling.

"The key factor is making sure anything artificial is compatible with the fish," Chin said, "and fiberglass is one of the materials that doesn't bother them at all."

Inside the reef and invisible to the onlooker is a long, vertical pipe with several outlets providing continuous circulation at such a rate that the water is changed every 90 minutes.

The water is pumped from the South China Sea into a series of reservoirs which sterilize, filter and add essential chemicals and provide all the aeration needed before it flows into the aquarium.

A heating system keeps the temperature at 78-82 degrees F.

The warmer the water, the hungrier the fish get, Chin said.

Feeding is the responsibility of Judy Hu, the chief diver whose presence inside the tank has become so familiar the fish rub up against her affectionately. "That's because they associate me with their meals," she said.

Twice a day Miss Hu and an aide dive into the aquarium in full scuba gear and suits to protect them from some of the overzealous species that tend to nip for attention.

"In a single day, the fish consume about 70 pounds of food we carry in nets," she said. "Many are fed by hand, including the nine-foot-long sharks, to make sure each gets his fair share."

Meals consist of meat, shrimp, crabs, shellfish and sea urchins. The food that isn't handed out is distributed at the different levels so that no one is left out.

Gluttony could be a problem, Miss Hu said. "The small fish could starve if we didn't take such care in dispersing the food throughout the tank. All this takes at least 30 minutes per session."

Both Miss Hu and Chin, who occasionally has reason to enter the tank, regard the fish as friends.

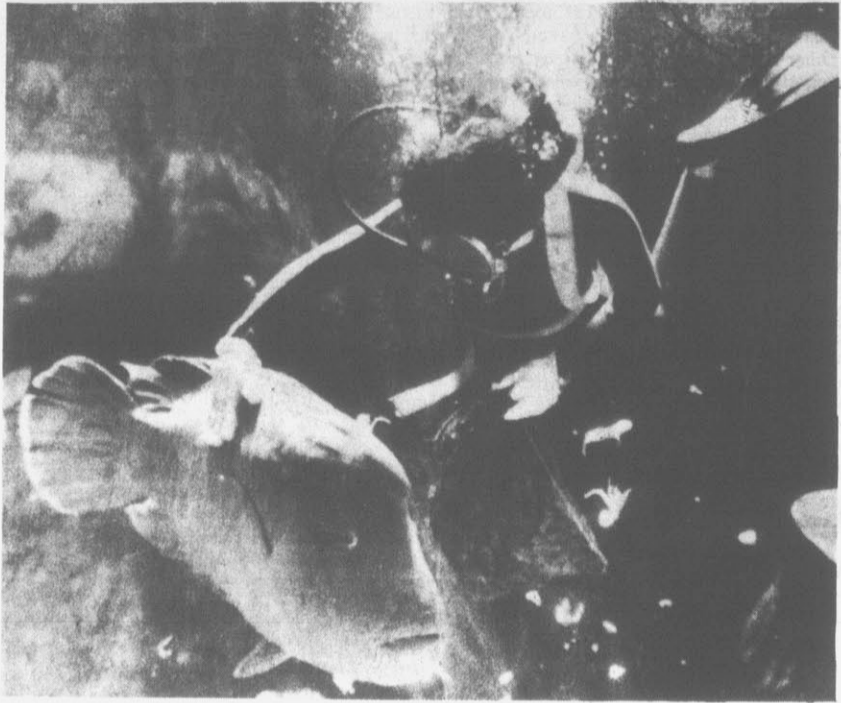

"There's nothing dull about this job," said Miss Hu, a diver for 10 years.

The biggest fear of any aquarist is that the fish will catch a contagious disease. The team at Ocean Park has been scrupulous in preventing any such calamity.

"Our mortality rate is less than one percent monthly," Chin said, adding that the figure is very low.

A dead fish is immediately removed and examined to determine the cause of death. Since the water contains medicines to ward off most common diseases, an occasional attack from another fish is the usual reason.

Women's Rights Not Issue To Solo Sailor

LONDON (UPI) — For a lady who survived a nine-month solo voyage around the world and a capsize 2,000 miles from land, women's rights are not an issue.

"I didn't sail around the world for women," said Naomi James, the 29-year-old rookie sailor who in June became the first woman to circumnavigate the globe alone via Cape Horn.

"It was not a case of women's rights, just that men had already done it and I saw no reason because I was a woman that I shouldn't be able to do it."

The tall, slim blonde set the record for solo sailing around the world, clipping two days off the 274-day record of Sir Frances Chichester, when she brought her "Express Crusader" triumphantly into Dartmouth harbor in the south of England on June 8.

"I really don't think I've done anything exceptional," she told a crowd of 600 women gathered by special invitation for the annual Women of the Year luncheon at London's Savoy Hotel. "I just took that possibility and carried it out."

Still, the chances she took would have daunted a less intrepid person. She left England with only two years' sailing experience, gained from husband Robert, a former British Merchant Navy officer and professional yachtsman. The 15-ton, 53-foot-long yacht she sailed single-handed was designed for a crew of eight to 10.

But the question of physical ability to handle the vessel didn't worry her.

"I've always been strong as a horse. And sailing doesn't depend on physical strength but on timing," she said.

What could have been demoralizing, but wasn't, was the loneliness.

"One's world is contained to such a small unit," she said. "Survival is what one is limited to." Her clear blue eyes were far away for a moment as she thought back on the experience.

"I guess you could say my solitude was similar to that experienced by prisoners. But I chose to be alone, and I could do what I liked," — mostly reading — biographies, antique books, novels.

There was the one terrible moment when, 2,000 miles off Cape Horn, her rigging damaged, out of radio contact for almost a week, and in threatening weather, she decided to turn back to New Zealand, 3,000 miles away for repairs.

"Then the boat capsized, but the mast, with my makeshift rigging, held up, and the boat, as it's designed to do, righted itself. That's when I lost my fear — because it had been fear that decided me to go back, seeing waves that could kill you cresting and breaking in the distance. From then on it was easy," she said.

There were moments of philosophical as well as physical confrontation, she admitted. "The trip pointed out fundamental realities. One doesn't often put oneself into a survival situation. If I'd had to go on much longer it would have gotten me down," she said. "It's not a very palatable way to live."

But she found a solution — writing her thoughts in journals she has used as the basis for a book, "At One with the Sea," scheduled for March publication. It follows "Woman Alone," a collection of pictures with text published only two months after she completed her voyage.

The next two or three years she expects to spend traveling, promoting her books, giving lectures, and preparing for the 1980 single-handed transatlantic race, limited to 100 participants, in which she plans to race against her husband.

"The only obstacle is money, since neither of us own our own boat, and I came back from the round-the-world trip 15,000 pounds ($30,000) in debt," she said.

But she has no doubt she will surmount the obstacles.

"If one is determined enough, one can do anything," she said. "If the mind and the will power carry on, no matter what the circumstances, the body will usually follow suit."

Jenkins Is Chairman

ARLINGTON, Va. — Dr. Leo Jenkins, former chancellor of East Carolina University in Greenville, has been named chairman of the North Carolina State Committee for Employer Support for the Guard and Reserve by James M. Roche, national employer support committee chairman.

Jenkins, who served with the U.S. Marine Corps in the Pacific Theater during World War II and received a Bronze Star medal retired from the Marine Corps Reserve as a major.

As state chairman, he will work on increasing public understanding of the role of the Guard and reserves, and strengthening the employer support for guard and reserve members.

Selected because of his leadership and prominence in the state, Roche said Jenkins' committee will include state Adjutant General John J. Tolson III of Raleigh, Douglas B. Whitley of Wilson and representatives of the reserve components in North Carolina.

Presently serving as a special advisor to Gov. Jim Hunt, Jenkins was honored in 1977 as Man of the Year of North Carolina and in 1978 as State Citizen of the Year by the Civitan Club.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF © 1978 by Chicago Tribune

mond slam was masterful. North-South did well to brush aside West's barrage and get to a good slam. After South took out from three no trump to four diamonds, North realized the hand had slam potential. He cue-bid his ace of hearts, implying diamond support—if it was a real suit, he would have shown it over three spades rather than respond three no trump. In view of his tremendous playing strength, South needed no further encouragement to contract for slam.

West did well to refrain from leading the ace of spades. That would have handed declarer his contract on a platter. When dummy appeared, it seemed that the slam depended on the club finesse. However, the bidding and West's failure to lead a spade, which would have been a more likely choice if he did not have the ace, presented declarer with a virtually sure-fire line.

Declarer won the opening lead in dummy and ruffed a spade. He cashed the king of hearts, crossed to the queen and ruffed another spade. A heart to the ace stripped that suit from both his hand and dummy, and the king of spades was led from the table.

When East followed to this trick with the nine, the contract was guaranteed. Instead of ruffing, declarer simply discarded a club. West took his ace of spades, but he did not relish being on lead. If he returned a spade, declarer would ruff in dummy while discarding the queen of clubs from his hand. If he shifted to a club, it would be into declarer's ace-queen. Either way, the slam was sure to make.

Declarer's play is known in the trade as "loser-on-loser." By employing it, declarer telescoped two potential losers into one.

Last-Minute Editing May Save Show

By JAY SHARBUTT AP Television Writer LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC is remaking "From Here to Eternity," but hasn't scheduled it yet. But ABC has done its own "Eternity" and will air it tonight, Friday and Sunday as "Pearl."

Like its rival, "Pearl" has a military setting in Hawaii and its time is December 1941 just before Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor. It comes via Warner Bros., but Warners admits some of its Japanese-side prelims and attack scenes are from "Tora, Tora, Tora" by 20th Century-Fox. This is Hollywood's version of the Allies. The premiere depicts the prelude to war, the warning signs. And it offers one Eternity-like Army officer, one tough-but-fair sergeant and one sadistic NCO, one troubled private and, of course, The Women.

Dennis Weaver is a stern, bigoted colonel. Angie Dickenson is his tormented, wandering wife. Robert Wagner, not of "Eternity" issue, is his rich, nice aide and part-time lover of the colonel's wife.

The Navy, not represented much in "Eternity," is aboard here.

Gregg Henry is a young Navy-family officer planning to resign, thus dismaying his father, Cmdr. Richard Anderson. Leslie Ann Warren is a Navy doctor Wagner stops from committing suicide.

Meanwhile, back at the Army, Max Gail of "Barney Miller" is a tough but honest first sergeant even though his chevrons show three stripes, a diamond and two rockers (three rockers are customary).

His role is sort of mild Mill Warden. The Pvt. Prewitt part is given to Christian Vance, but instead of playing bugle and refusing to box, he's suspected by his pals and the colonel of being homosexual.

Assigned to drive for the colonel (much against the latter's wishes), he later will be seen getting seduced by someone's wife as the camera pans up to a full moon and French horns moan in ecstasy.

Darn, I revealed part of the ending. Well, part of the beginning has the Japanese carriers of "Tora" fame plowing through the stormy Pacific at night, heading for a rendezvous with destiny.

Amid the plowing, done often to remind you war is pending, are B-movie scenes, character studies and dialogue that may make you wish the carriers would go to flank speed pronto.

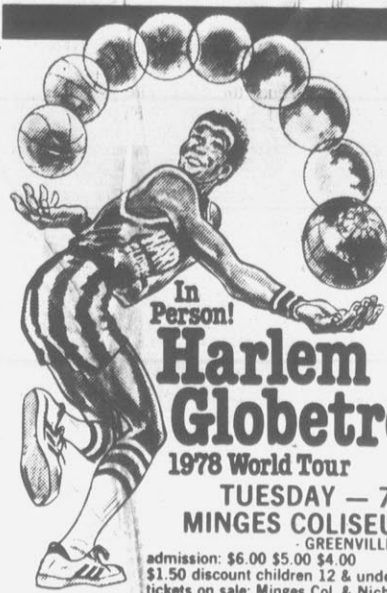

One hears lines like, "I'm looking for action, not a desk job." "You don't need a part-time lover...you need a fulltime friend," and this, as Capt.

Wagner tries to aid Lt. Warren, not seduce her:

"I have no intention of any overtures other than those of affection and support."

The whole caper is so stock and cliché-ridden it's hard to believe the fine TV veteran, Stirling Silliphant, wrote the show. But he did, and we only pray improvement arrives Friday and Sunday.

Cancel Your Order; Cronkite Files Suit

HOUSTON (AP) — Guess who's not coming to dinner?

Walter Cronkite has filed suit demanding the fashionable Sakowitz department store remove his name from a Christmas catalog as a possible dinner guest for a price — $94,125.

Cronkite filed the suit in state district court Tuesday, asking for a temporary injunction to keep Sakowitz from further distribution of the catalog.

Sakowitz attorney I. Mark Westheimer declined to say if the store has complied with Cronkite's demands but insists the store did not wrong.

The advertisement offers, for $94,125, a dinner party with "worldly friends like Walter Cronkite, Neil Armstrong, Sen. Henry Jackson, Uri Geller, Gloria Steinem, George Allen, Dr. Alan Greenspan, Mel Blanc, Dr. Joyce Brothers, Rosie Grier, Dr. Milton Friedman, Ruth Gordon, Minnesota Fats, Buckminster Fuller, Sander Vanocur and Liz Carpenter."

"We meant no ill to Mr. Cronkite," said store president

Robert T. Sakowitz. "It was simply a tongue-in-cheek 'Ultimate Gift.'"

Sakowitz said the names came from the Program Corporation of America, a speaker bureau, "and we were working in good faith that they represented these people."

TAR HEEL WINE IN THE MAKING—All the native grapes are harvested at the Duplin Wine Cellars in Rose Hill, and 43,000 gallons of Tar Heel wine is now in the making. The scene here is that of "beating the wires" to shake the final harvest of grapes into a conveyer system, following earlier hand-picking harvesting. A winery spokesman said the 1978 crop produced large and juicy grapes, with a sugar and acid content lower than the 1977 harvest.

Pitt Plaza Parking Changed

Changes have been made in the parking facilities at Pitt Plaza Shopping Center in an effort to improve traffic flow and make shopping more convenient and safe for customers.

John Cane of John M. Cane & Associates, the managing agent for the center, said that several changes have been made that alter the flow of traffic into and within the parking area.

Cane explained that the row of diagonal parking has been eliminated along the store fronts and two west to east lanes have been marked to carry traffic. The single east to west lane remains, he said.

The spokesman, noting that the diagonal marks designating the parking row have been painted out, said that arrows have been put down indicating the new travel lane.

Prior to eliminating the row of parking, he mentioned, stores had no way of loading and unloading merchandise and parking along the store fronts created a traffic hazard. In addition, a hazard was created since no travel lane existed for fire trucks or rescue vehicles.

"We are trying to protect the property owners and comply with fire regulations," Cane said. He added that customers will still be able to load and unload passengers in the right lane as long as cars do not park and block the traffic lane.

He urged motorists to observe the new travel corridors and not park in the right hand lane.

Cane said that a major change at Pitt Plaza involves the construction of medians in the parking area. The medians are being added in order to make traffic flow more orderly and effective, he said, and also in an effort to beautify the center. Plans call for trees and shrubs to be planted in the dirt portion of the new medians.

He noted that 13 medians have been installed, including one on the Arlington Boulevard side and three on the Highway 43 side. Cuts have been provided in the medians for the convenience of motorists, Cane said, but the density of traffic at a particular time of the day will probably dictate the use of the cut-through areas.

In a further move to improve traffic flow, one of the entrances to the center from the bypass will be relocated to a point opposite the east entrance to Greenville Square, it was pointed out, with a traffic light installed. Left and right turn lanes will be provided and motorists will also be able to drive straight across without creating a safety problem.

The light will allow people to get back on the bypass going west, Cane said, and also continue the traffic flow easterly as regulated by the new traffic signal.

Cane asked the public to cooperate in utilizing the new parking and travel lane system and "recognize that we are trying to improve the lot." He said that if "we can get the people to cooperate, I think they will find the situation will be more convenient."

Bad Report On Justice System

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The Institute for Southern Studies has released two reports charging that criminal justice systems in the South discriminate against blacks and the poor despite three decades of civil rights advocacy and reform.

The second study concluded that Southern prisons "discriminate against minorities and the poor, confine people in overcrowded and ill-equipped prisons, and do not educate or rehabilitate the incarcerated."

The reports, released in "Still Life" a book on the criminal justice system published as a special edition of the institute's quarterly journal, also maintain that the South may be setting the trend for future national prison policy by incarcerating more people and reinstating executions.

The institute is a labor-oriented organization that studies social and economic conditions in the South.

According to the report, 87 percent of the 395 prisoners now sentenced to death in the nation are in Southern prisons. Almost half of the condemned are black, although blacks make up less than 20 percent of the South's population, the report said.

It said that more than 80 percent of the victims in death penalty cases are white. But only 1 percent of the prisoners on death row in the South are whites convicted of crimes against blacks.

The criminal justice system, the study concludes, "invariably places a higher value on white lives than on black lives."

Poor people, regardless of race, are also more likely to be sentenced to death, partly because they are more often represented by court-appointed attorneys.

Georgia state Sen. Julian Bond, the Institute's president, commented, "America, led by the South, is on the verge of restoring state-sanctioned execution, not because it deters crime, but because frustrated criminal justice officials and opportunistic politicians seek simple solutions to the causes of our nation's crime."

Drunk Driving Arrests Approach Record Year

North Carolina Highway Patrolmen, if the present trend continues, will arrest more drunken drivers in 1978 than ever before, according to Patrol Commander, Col. John T. Jenkins.

During the first 9 months of 1978, the Highway Patrol has charged 31,919 motorists with driving under the influence (DUI), 15.6 per cent more than during the same period in 1977. Troop A commander Capt. Carl Gilchrist said from his Greenville office that troopers under his command in 23 Northeastern North Carolina counties have arrested 5,430 drivers on DUI charges from January through September this year, as compared with 3,916 for the same nine-month period in 1977.

Patrolmen in Pitt County last year charged 1,167 drivers with driving under the influence, as compared with 1,052 through November 13 of this year, he noted.

The total number of DUI arrests is fast approaching the record set in 1972, when troopers arrested 41,241 drivers, leading Jenkins to predict the new record for 1978.

"I doubt there is an increase in the number of drinking drivers on the highways," Jenkins noted. "It's more likely that the increase in DUI charges illustrates the fact that the more troopers there are on the highways, the safer the highways will be."

The Commander noted that the Patrol instituted an overtime pay program in May 1978 with funds from the Governor's Highway Safety Office, which places an additional 355 troopers who volunteer to work for overtime pay, on the highways each week.

"Making a record number of DUI arrests is not our concern," Jenkins emphasized. "But removing every drunken driver we possibly can from our streets and highways is an integral part of our total traffic safety program."

The arrests tallied by the Highway Patrol are not the only arrests for driving under the influence in the state. Local police departments arrest their share of alcohol-influenced drivers too.

Greenville Police officers last year arrested 288 drivers on DUI charges. Through October, local police had charged 303 motorists with driving under the influence, this year.

New National Smoker Study:

Merit Taste Impresses Toughest Critics.

'Enriched Flavor' tobacco proved satisfying even to high tar smokers in latest research.

What do smokers of high tar cigarettes—the toughest taste critics of low tar smoking—have to say about low tar MERIT?

Read what they thought in a new, nationwide research effort:

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

And current MERIT smokers reported:

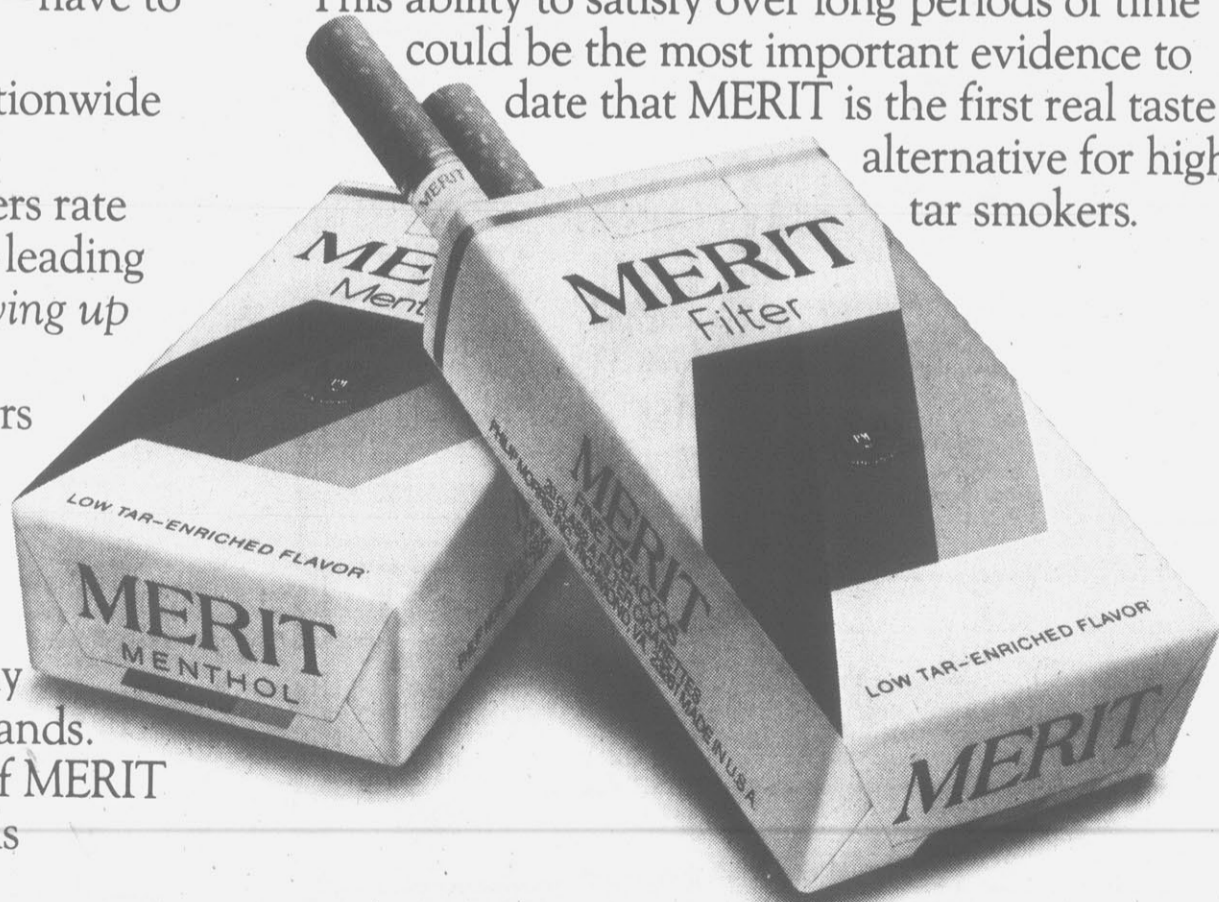

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.'

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is the first real taste alternative for high tar smokers.
