

Unemployment Rate Remains Unchanged

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The unemployment rate remained unchanged at 5.8 percent in November as adult men gained most of the 540,000 new jobs that were created, the Labor Department said today.

Women and teen-agers had made most of the employment gains during the summer, but the new report showed employment among men rising from 51.4 million to 51.9 million last month.

The proportion of the entire adult and child population holding jobs rose to a record 59.1 percent last month, the department said.

The improved unemployment picture this year has been a bright spot in an economy that has otherwise been torn by surging prices and a ballooning foreign trade deficit.

But many private economists are predicting higher unemployment next year as the Carter administration tries to drive down the inflation rate.

The jobless rate has plummeted from 9.1 percent of the labor force in May 1975 to around 6 percent most of this year, as the growing economy has created millions of new jobs. The unemployment rate also stood at 5.8 percent in October.

Unemployment had been 6 percent in September before declining to 5.8 percent in both October and November.

Although more men gained jobs in November, their unemployment rate remained at 4 percent because more of them last month had also begun looking for jobs than previously.

Following is the unemployment rate for other categories:

—Adult women 5.8 percent, up from 5.6 percent in October.

—Teen-agers 16.2 percent, down from 16.3 percent.

—White population 5 percent, down from 5.1 percent.

—Black and other minorities 11.8 percent, up from 11.4 percent.

—Full-time workers 5.2 percent, down from 5.3 percent.

—Black teen-agers, 36.2 percent, up from 34.3 percent.

The report also showed the duration of individual unemployment has declined sharply in the past year. The average unemployed person spent 7 weeks without a job in November 1977, but 6.1 weeks in October and 5.5 weeks last month.

In the past year, total employment has risen by 3.3 million to 95.7 million jobs, with adult women accounting for more than half the increase, the department said.

Last month the average work week for production workers rose 0.1 hours to 35.9 hours. Their average hourly earnings increased 0.7 percent in November and 8.7 percent for the year.

The average production worker earned $5.87 per hour in November, or $210.15 per week. All the figures are adjusted to account for seasonal variations.

Since the start of his term, President Carter has been trying to create jobs by keeping the economy growing steadily. But Barry Bosworth, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, says unemployment prospects probably will worsen in coming months.

"We are going to have to have a pause in our economic expansion" to fight inflation, he said.

Panel Studies Impact

WASHINGTON (AP) — An interagency task force is taking a close look at the inflationary impact of a possible administration move to lift controls on gasoline prices, the White House said today.

Claudia Townsend, associate press secretary, said the study has not been completed. She emphasized the task force had not made any recommendation to President Carter on whether to back decontrol of gasoline prices.

In announcing his original energy program in April 1977, Carter made decontrol of gasoline prices a prime objective, but Congress did not approve the plan. Carter told the economic summit meeting in Bonn, West Germany, in July that U.S. oil prices will rise to world levels by 1980.

Ms. Townsend indicated that the issue of the inflationary impact of decontrol was looming large in a larger study of how to move toward Carter's long-range goal of higher prices to discourage consumption and promote conservation of oil supplies.

The press spokeswoman gave no target date for completion of the study. She stressed that Carter has made no decision to move toward decontrol.

LOOKING WEST ... The westbound lanes of the U.S. 264 freeway, a fully controlled access route between Wilson and Zebulon, were officially opened at dedication ceremonies yesterday at the Sims interchange. The 16.4 mile long, $26.6 million project was completed a year ahead of schedule.

New 16.4-Mile Segment Of U.S. 264 Is Opened

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

SIMS — Gov. Jim Hunt and mayors from towns along the 16.4 miles of the U.S. 264 freeway West of Wilson, yesterday cut the ribbon officially opening the westbound lanes of the relocated fully controlled access route.

The eastbound lanes of U.S. 264 from Zebulon to Bailey were opened to traffic last year, while the Bailey to Wilson eastbound segment was completed last June. The final segment of the westbound lanes dedicated yesterday, were completed nearly a year ahead of schedule.

The freeway project from Zebulon to Wilson was begun in 1974 and completed at a cost of about $26.6 million. "Today is another milestone as we build the good life," Hunt said. "Five years ago," according to the Governor said the freeway, "was just a dream. Today, it's finished...a year ahead of schedule."

The eastbound lanes of the freeway were authorized by Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser's administration. Hunt said shortly after he took office and named Tom Bradshaw Secretary of Transportation, he called Bradshaw to the Governor's mansion and said, "I'm going to come as close to giving an order," as he ever would. "Those other two lanes are going to be paved just as soon as we can get the asphalt down," he told Bradshaw.

In dedicating the westbound lanes, Hunt emphasized that, "balanced economic growth for North Carolina... jobs for people where they want to work...depends altogether on having a good transportation system."

Improved transportation means growth, Hunt indicated, adding, "I see an emerging prosperity," in Eastern North Carolina.

Saying, "we don't build Eastern North Carolina highways or mountain highways, we build North Carolina highways...to join us together," and he emphasized again, good highways bring with them, "great economic benefits."

One of his dreams, according to Hunt, was to, "have this road four-laned to Raleigh." Now that the Zebulon to Wilson freeway has been implemented, Hunt noted, "it is to have 264 four-laned to Greenville," and on to the coast.

With North Carolina now the 11th largest state in population, and, "soon to pass Massachusetts and become the tenth largest state in America," according to Hunt, "we're bringing our people closer together. We're working more closely together that we ever have in our history. The days ahead will be the most exciting we have ever known."

The Governor said when projects such as the U.S. 264 freeway are completed, we

Charlie Holliday Plans Retire On December 31

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Two Belhaven men were charged today with the holdup Thursday of a bank in the town of Bath, the FBI said.

A spokesman for the FBI's Charlotte office said George Edward Hogan and Keith Ward, both 20, were being held in the Beaufort County jail in Washington on bank robbery charges. He said they would appear before a U.S. magistrate in New Bern later today.

Two armed men held up the Southern Bank and Trust Co. at Bath Thursday morning and fled with an undisclosed amount of money.

Authorities said one of the bandits had a sawed-off shotgun and the other carried a small-caliber pistol. No one was hurt in the holdup.

day has been the right arm to the mayor's office and City Council in all of our programs such as the Central Business District, urban renewal and Community Development programs."

The mayor said that Holliday "has built our Engineering Department from nothing to the best of any I know of. I am grateful he has agreed to work a couple of days a week on programs now in progress such as Southside, 14th Street and the annexation study. We all wish him many happy retirement years."

Holliday, who became the city's first full-time engineer, was instrumental in setting up the Engineering Department and an orderly system of filing and maintaining city, subdivision, and zoning maps.

Golda Meir, 80, Dies In Jerusalem

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — Golda Meir, the Milwaukee schoolteacher who led Israel through one of the most trying periods of its turbulent history, died today.

The 80-year-old former prime minister died at 4:28 p.m. (9:28 a.m. EST), said Azaria Rapoport, spokesman for Hadassah

Hospital, where she was admitted Oct. 28 and was under treatment for jaundice.

He said details of her final illness would not be discussed until after the end of the Jewish sabbath Saturday.

Earlier today, a hospital statement said she remained in unsatisfactory condition, "giving grounds for anxiety."

"It is very sad, but it is true," said Israeli Embassy spokesman Avi Pazner in Washington.

Mrs. Meir originally was hospitalized for treatment of back pains caused by a slipped disc. She later developed a viral infection.

Three days ago, the hospital announced she had developed jaundice — a liver condition in which bile pigments enter the blood and cause yellowing of body parts — and that her condition, then listed as fair, had worsened.

Mrs. Meir had been in and out of the hospital for months.

As prime minister and head of the Labor Party in 1969-74, she was the most prominent woman in Israel's public life. She led the country through the Yom Kippur War of 1973 and peace moves afterward with Egypt and Syria that involved partial Israeli withdrawals in Sinai and on the Golden Heights.

The strong-willed Mrs. Meir's affirmative manner belied an occasionally sentimental nature. She was one of the most popular Israelis among the American people.

During her hospitalization, she had received hundreds of calls and letters from around the world, including a 10-foot-long scroll from Tokyo signed by Japanese well-wishers.

SIDEWALKS ON TENTH STREET

When are sidewalks going to be put on Tenth Street along the university property? This is one of the most heavily travelled routes by pedestrians and certainly needs some sidewalks.

Hotline talked with officials of the city, state and university concerning your inquiry.

Greenville City Manager Ed Wyatt said his office would take the need under review and added that a pedestrian safety study had recently been made and plans were being developed to eliminate such conditions.

Charles Clark, division accountant for the N. C. Department of Transportation, said that the DOT normally doesn't install sidewalks unless it is part of a contracted project.

Cliff Moore, vice-chancellor for business affairs at East Carolina University, said cost negotiations between the city and the university for installation of side walks are underway.

None of the three would speculate on when the sidewalks you asked about might be a reality.

Ring Won't End Thoughts

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married a short time to a man who was married before, and I resent the fact that he still has the gold wedding band from his first marriage. He insists that it means nothing to him, yet he refuses to get rid of it. He asks, "What do you expect me to do with it? Throw it away?"

Abby, I can't understand his reluctance to part with a reminder of a miserable relationship that ended in a painful and unfriendly divorce.

He wears MY wedding ring now. Am I being unfair to insist that he dispose of his first wedding ring? Just knowing that he has it bugs me so.

FORT WORTH

DEAR FORT: If you're wise, you'll say no more about it. The ring is not important; your husband's private thoughts are. And he'll have them whether he has the ring or not.

DEAR ABBY: Mom and Dad were happily married for 38 years. Then Dad died. Before his death he and Mom bought two cemetery lots so they could be buried side by side. Mom even bought a headstone to match Dad's and had her name engraved on it.

Mom made her home with my husband and me for 22 years and never expressed any interest in men. Then at age 79 she met Jess, a man age my (53) who could sell ice to the Eskimos! She invited him to move in with her (in my house!) and the whole town started talking.

I told them they'd either have to get married or move, so they got married. Meanwhile, Jess was spending Mom's money faster than she could draw it out of the bank.

Four months later Jess dropped dead while jogging. Mom went to pieces. She bought a double plot and buried Jess in one and had a matching headstone made for herself so she could be buried next to him when her time came.

Abby, she already had a plot and headstone for herself beside Dad. Who needs two plots?

When Mom dies should we bury her with her first love with whom she lived for 38 years? Or with that free-loader who married her for a meal ticket?

HER DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Your mother is still living, so you need not make that decision yet. When the time comes, everything will fall into its proper place. Including Mom.

DEAR ABBY: My sister separated from her husband a few months ago. She wants a divorce. He did not hurt or misuse her in any way.

I gave my son a graduation party and invited my sister's husband. I have a large yard and thought there would be plenty of room for both of them.

When my sister arrived and saw her husband there, she left immediately. In a few minutes she called me, crying and telling me how upset she was. She asked why I invited him if I wanted her there. I tried to tell her I thought he had the right to attend his nephew's graduation party. I tried to calm her down, but she screamed at me and hung up the phone.

Was I wrong to ask him? My sister is not talking to me. Should I try to make amends?

HAVING REGRETS

DEAR HAVING: You should not have surprised your sister by having her estranged husband there. You should have asked her in advance if she would be comfortable in his company. Try to make amends. You were in the wrong.

DEAR ABBY: This is in reference to the woman from Joliet, Ill. about obscene phone calls. I also was bothered by a man who called periodically for this reason. It made me very nervous and upset so I contacted the police, and you wouldn't believe their suggestion.

They told me to make a date with the caller, let them know where he was meeting me, and they would be there to arrest him. I refused to endanger my life this way.

Then by chance I mentioned my problem to the minister's wife who gave me the best tip of all—one she had used. She said, "The next time he calls, say hello as usual, listen for a moment, then while he's still talking, say, 'Are you there, operator?' This is the call I asked you to trace... he's on the phone now!"

I did as she suggested, and the caller got rattled and hung up. And that's the last obscene phone call I ever received.

N. HALEDON, N.J.

DEAR N.J.: Thanks for the tip.

Christmas Program Given Service League Members

The December meeting of the Greenville Service League was opened with a Christmas program of music and story presented by Mrs. Frank Layne, Mrs. H. Boyd Lee and Mrs. Eddie Smith.

President Mrs. Jack Whichard conducted the business meeting. Membership Chairman Mrs. Robert VanVeld introduced the following as provisional members of the organizations:

Mrs. James H. Bailey; Mrs. William R. Frelove; Mrs. Eugene D. Furth; Mrs. J. Richard Gavigan; Mrs. Laurence S. Graham; Mrs. John A. Lang; and Mrs. William L. Tripp.

Committee reports followed. Mrs. Herbert Carter reported disbursements from the Emergency Charity Fund in November and asked for donations from members in order that 25 Christmas food baskets could be provided for families as requested by the Social Services Department. Mrs. Thomas Mallison explained the function of the Laughinghouse Hospital Fund to provisional members and reported the receipt of five memorials and one disbursement. The Lending Chest had calls for a walker and crutches and two layettes were furnished.

Mrs. John Guy asked for volunteers to help with Operation Santa Claus and Hospital Activities Chairman Mrs. Robert K. Barnhill requested help in decorating a new, permanent Christmas tree for the lobby of Pitty Memorial Hospital. The league provided the Christmas tree. Placement Chairman Mrs. Donald Bailey reminded members to have lab work completed before reporting for work at the hospital.

Mrs. Charles Stevens reported Sustaining Members had created holiday gift items to be sold in the Hospital Gift Shop. Mrs. Raymond MacKenzie asked for additional volunteers to staff the Bloodmobile visit at Union Carbide. A fellowship hour following the meeting.

Fashionetta Program Planned

Fashionetta '78, an evening of fashions and talent, will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. at Sadie Saulter School.

The program will feature 10 young ladies from Pitt County and Greenville City Schools. They will also be competing for the title "Miss Fashionetta." Scholarships and gifts will be awarded each contestant.

The event is being sponsored by the Iota Kappa Omega Chapter of the Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority.

The public is invited to attend.

My sister Frances evolved this sweet-and-sour dish.

Tomato Sauce, see below
4 large, very fresh, very firm green peppers (with as few crevices as possible)

1 pound ground sirloin beef
1 large egg
1 cup fine soft bread crumbs

1 small onion, minced (1/4 cup)

1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup water

2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce

Turn all the Tomato Sauce except about 1/2 cup into a 13 by 9 by 2-inch pan. With a swivel-blade vegetable peeler, pare as much of the skin from the peppers as you can. Cut each pepper in half lengthwise and remove seeds and white membranes. Mix together the remaining ingredients and stuff into the pepper halves; spoon the remaining Tomato Sauce over them. Bake, uncovered, in a preheated 350-degree oven for 30 minutes; stir the sauce and baste the peppers with it; bake 30 minutes longer; stir and baste again. Makes 4 servings.

Tomato Sauce: Stir together a 16-ounce can tomatoes (cut up and undrained), a 6-ounce can tomato paste, 1/2 cup water, 2 tablespoons each light brown sugar, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce.

Mrs. Johnson At First Unaware She Fired Gun

By ELISSA McCRARY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Betty Lou Johnson, under cross examination Thursday, testified she did not realize she had shot her husband, prominent pediatrician Dr. Archie T. Johnson Jr., until her daughter told her several minutes after the shooting.

Testifying for the third day before a Wake County Superior Court jury, Mrs. Johnson said she did not remember firing the gun and that the last thing she recalled was Johnson coming toward her.

Mrs. Johnson, 38, is charged with the shooting death of Johnson, who was prominent in North Carolina medical and political circles. He was shot to death in the couple's Raleigh home July 10.

Under questioning by special prosecutor Russell W. DeMent Jr., Mrs. Johnson repeated her earlier testimony that her husband had come to their house on the night of July 10 to discuss a separation agreement. The Johnsons had been separated for about a month.

Mrs. Johnson said her husband had several drinks while they were discussing the separation, and that he became angry when she told him that she thought they should leave the agreement up to the courts. She said he beat her and threatened to kill her and their three children.

She repeated her testimony that Johnson knocked her to the floor when she attempted to make a telephone call for help, and that he shoved her away from the front door when she tried to escape. She said as she ran back toward the kitchen to go out the back door, she stopped and got a gun from the dining room closet.

"Didn't you call to Dr. Johnson to come back to the kitchen when you got the gun?" DeMent asked.

"No, I told Dr. Johnson to leave," Mrs. Johnson replied. "Is that the truth?" DeMent asked.

"Yes sir, that's the truth. I told Archie to leave," she said.

"As I entered the kitchen, I told Archie to leave, and he was coming toward me with his arms outstretched, and he said, 'You bitch,'" Mrs. Johnson added.

DeMent asked her if it were true that Johnson had his car keys in his hand. She said she did not see anything in his hand.

"What was the last thing you recall?" he asked.

"The last thing I remember is that the gun went off and I heard a dull, whirring sound in my head," Mrs. Johnson said.

Mrs. Johnson testified that the next thing she saw was her daughter, Celeste, holding the gun. She said she didn't know Johnson's body was lying on the kitchen floor.

"Celeste said, 'Mother, he's hurt, we have to help him.' I couldn't look at him. I couldn't go over to him," Mrs. Johnson said.

3,000-Mile Calls To Saint Nick

SEATTLE (AP) — Young Danny Scherer talked to Santa Claus on the telephone five times before his mother discovered he was chatting with a Santa 3,000 miles away.

The 8-year-old found the telephone number in a Seattle area newspaper ad, but Santa was in New York.

The number Danny was dialing appeared in a Pacific Northwest Bell telephone company ad proclaiming "Hear from Santa" and listing the telephone number 1-212-936-3636.

Callers hear a one-minute recording in which a deep voice describes Christmas customs in a foreign nation — words punctuated by "Ho, Ho, Ho."

"My Danny came home with the number in his hand and said he was going to call Santa because his little friends were," said Danny's mother, Charlotte Scherer, of suburban Issaquah.

"At first, I thought it was a good idea. I practically encouraged him to do it. I was busy making supper and he got busy on the phone. I looked over at him and thought he was dialing an awful lot of numbers, but didn't think too much about it," Mrs. Scherer said.

Once she realized what was going on, Mrs. Scherer listened to "Santa" herself. "He was saying something like, 'Ho, Ho, Ho, this is Santa and today I'm in Finland. Tomorrow, I'll be...in Guam or someplace. Who knows? I thought, ye Gods, where will this all end? This could go on forever.

"Now, it might seem funny, but isn't it a little odd for the phone company to be promoting long distance calls by kids?" Mrs. Scherer wanted to know. "We can afford it, but what about families that can't?"

The ads, which are part of a nationwide campaign, advise the cheapest rates for calling Santa are available on weekends and after 11 p.m. But the ads won't be appearing in the Seattle area any longer.

Barbara Smith, a Pacific Northwest Bell spokeswoman, said "apparently there are some concerns" by customers about the telephone promotion. She said the PNB advertising was being withdrawn in the Seattle area this week.

Arrested For Having Pistol

A 21-year-old East Carolina University student was arrested on charges of possession of a firearm on a university campus, possession of dexedrine, and possession of Valium, following a search of his 267 Jones Dorm room last night, Chief Glenn Cannon said.

Cannon said the charges were brought after Greenville Police and ECU officers searched Collier's room about 9:50 p.m. and found the drugs, the .45 caliber pistol, and a small quantity of marijuana.

Bond for Collier was set at $1,000 pending hearing of the case in court.

Symbol Of Realized Dream

For many years an unfinished overpass on U. S. 64 west of Wendell stood as a symbol of the unmet highway needs of Eastern North Carolina.

While major highways were being built elsewhere, the good roads stopped east of Raleigh. The overpass was built leading into U. S. 64 and U. S. 264, but there progress stopped for many years.

Things in the east have changed, though. That unfinished overpass has been joined to a freeway around Zebulon, and U. S. 64 has been extended beyond that.

Of highest importance to our area, U.S. 264 has been extended fully controlled access from Zebulon to Wilson and Thursday Gov. Hunt symbolized the realization of a dream at a ribbon-cutting west of Wilson.

The 16.4 mile segment of the highway is magnificent by eastern standards. It has widely separated travel lanes, no access except at interchanges and beautiful landscaping.

Thanks to a big push by the Hunt administration to improve the highway situation in the East, the freeway was completed nearly a year ahead of schedule.

It was expensive to build at $26.6 million, but it is designed to serve the needs of the area well into the next century.

For those of us further east the highway serves as a model of things to come.

Even now improvements of U. S. 264 from Wilson to Greenville are in the planning stages. Unless sound highway planning is completely abandoned, the Wilson-Farmville-Greenville fully controlled access freeway should be a reality in a few years and the people of these and other communities will reap the benefits.

As Practical Matter: No Interfering

President Carter defended his human rights policy as the "soul of our foreign policy" in a recent talk.

He said no force on earth can change that as long as he is president.

In our nation, few can argue with that. As a practical matter, however, we still must deal with nations which don't place such high value on human rights. Some of the worst offenders are the communist nations.

While we can persuade and lead in this area, we have no right to interfere internally, and we will have to continue to deal with an imperfect world.

THIS AFTERNOON

Junior College System

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Is North Carolina ready for a statewide system of public junior colleges?

That is the bigger question lurking beneath a proposal in the works in the General Assembly to "allow" technical institutes to call themselves technical colleges if they so desire.

More than a simple change in name is at stake, judging from public comments and private conversations of some lawmakers, community college officials, and trustees of the 57-campus community college system.

For at the same time the legislative study committee on community colleges suggested the name flexibility, members endorsed another proposal which would mandate that "college grade" technical courses offered in the institutes could be transferred to a four-year college.

This maneuver blurs the distinction between community colleges and technical institutes, even more than a name change would, and hints at the larger aim: to move toward college preparatory programs at all campuses.

A Review

A brief review of what the General Assembly intended and the public accepted when the statewide community college and technical institute system was inaugurated is in order. The program was built upon the framework of the several vocational schools already operating in North Carolina.

It was plainly spelled out in the law that the primary mission was training students for jobs—technical and vocational training. Some institutions to be labeled community colleges would provide transfer liberal arts courses at junior college level preparatory to entrance to a four-year senior college. Twenty-one facilities are so designated, but the stipulation is repeatedly made that even at community colleges the primary mission is vocational and technical offerings.

Despite the impression that only the community colleges are junior colleges, 25 of the 36 technical institutes offer some transferable courses both in liberal arts and technical subjects.

Here is where the nut of the problem begins to be seen: many senior colleges and universities refuse to accept those transfer credits because they are labeled "technical" and identified with a T on the records. A name change to college instead of institution would allow the record to show the work subject to transfer was performed at a college.

BILL NOBLITT

Is that bad for North Carolina's system of education? There is widespread opposition, naturally, from private junior colleges which would face tremendous competition as students could get the same credits for the extremely low cost of $137 per year in tuition and fees compared to the cost of $1,607 at private junior colleges.

Opposed
The University of North Carolina system opposes the move because the community colleges and technical institutes are operated by the State Board of Education. Entrance and performance requirements are low. If the campuses are colleges and are part of the higher education system they should be under the university system, goes the argument.

Opposition aside, there is considerable sentiment for upgrading the programs. A vote in Pitt County recently endorsed changing that technical institute into a community college. It is known that others would like to do the same, but are being discouraged.

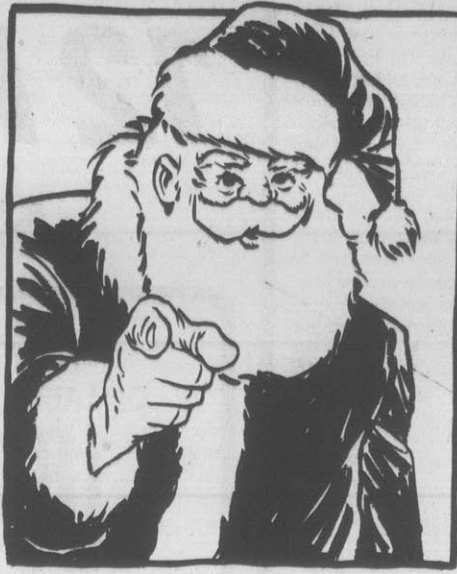

State Senator Ed Renfrow, D-Johnston, a member of the community college study group and chairman of another legislative committee re-writing public school law, sums up the feeling of those who favor upgrading when he points out that many farmers and textile employees in this state have a lifelong ambition to see their kids in college.

Because of cost, poor high school performance, or inability to score well on entrance exams, numerous kids never get that chance. Yet given another route, says Renfrow, those kids could become good students and build a better life.

This issue doubtless will simmer politically for some time before policy leaders determine when and in which direction to push.

Will He Ever Forgive

WASHINGTON — "When do you think he'll forgive us?" my wife asked. "Who?" I inquired. "Nixon" she said, pointing to the television set where he was telling the kids at Oxford how he screwed up on Watergate.

"He's not supposed to forgive us!" I yelled. "We're supposed to forgive him. And I'm not ready to yet."

"You're wrong," she replied. "We never forgive Nixon. He always forgives us. Remember back in 1952 how mad we were at him and he went on television with Checkers and told us that if he was in our place he'd feel the same way? He forgave us for feeling the way we did, and sure enough we made him Vice President of the United States."

"I remember, but that wasn't Watergate. Why should I have Nixon forgive me, after what he did in the White House?"

ART BUCHWALD

"Because that's the way it's always been with Nixon. No matter what he's ever done, we wind up asking him to forgive us, instead of the other way around. Frankly, I'd rather ask his forgiveness now than string out the agony over the next few years. I don't think I can stand watching him take the blame for all the mistakes he made while he was President."

"You can't ask his forgiveness," I told her angrily. "This is one time I don't see how he can get off the hook. He blew it, and if it hadn't been for Gerry Ford's pardon he'd be taking the Fifth Amendment right now. Instead, he's running around Europe telling everyone he's guilty, but he forgives the American people anyway."

My wife watched as the Oxford students beat up on Nixon's automobile. She said, "He loves it. To him the eggs they're throwing at him are roses."

"How can you say that? Those kids haven't forgotten what he did."

"They'll forgive him," she assured me. "In his heart he may think they're bums, but he'll say that although he doesn't like to have eggs thrown at him — nobody likes to have eggs thrown at them — he can understand why they would throw eggs at him, and perhaps, if he was going to Oxford instead of being the disgraced President of the United States,

Vance Tests Option

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance's trip to the Middle East beginning this weekend could develop into a diplomatic shuttle between Cairo and Jerusalem to try to break the deadlock in Egyptian-Israeli peace talks.

Vance's job is to persuade Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin to compromise their differences over the Palestinians and other obstacles to a treaty.

Administration spokesmen said Vance expects to return home by mid-week, but privately U.S. officials are not ruling out an extended stay in the region.

This, they say, is one of a number of options remaining open.

Another is setting up a second summit with President Carter — although "that's not the plan at this point," one high-level official said.

"We're down to pretty well defined issues and explored them a number of ways," said the official, who asked that he not be identified.

"We've tried negotiations, special emissaries, letters, presidential-telephone calls. We're at the point the decisions that have to be made to complete the treaty cannot be made by negotiators here."

Vance will fly from London to Cairo Sunday to see Sadat. He will move on to Jerusalem Monday or Tuesday.

If these two conversations indicate he can complete a treaty, he will consider extending his stay in the Middle East, the officials said.

And, even though Vance is not partial to shuttle diplomacy, he may find himself flying back and forth between Sadat in Cairo and Begin in Jerusalem to nail down the "political decisions" required for a settlement.

"There has to be some shaking loose of their positions if the treaty is to be completed," one official said.

Could Vance stay on?

THE GALLUP POLL

Revise Population Trend?

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N.J. — Recent forecasts of a reduced rate of population growth in the U.S. during the next few decades may have to be revised.

One of the most important factors in projecting population trends are the public's views on the desirability of large families. Since 1936, the Gallup Poll has regularly charted these views.

The percentage of persons favoring large families, after having declined dramatically from 41 percent in 1968 to 13 percent in 1977 has leveled off in the latest survey. Currently, 17 percent say four or more is the ideal number of children for a family to have.

The 1977 figure was the lowest percentage favoring large families since the Gallup Poll began asking this question in 1936.

At that time, 34 percent said that four or more children represented the ideal family size. The figure rose dramatically during the war years to a high of 49 percent in 1945, anticipating the "baby boom." As late as 1968, as indicated, 41 percent of the public felt the model family would include four or more children. By 1971, however, the figure dropped to 23 percent and has continued to decline steadily to 13 percent in 1977.

This is the question asked to determine what people believe to be the ideal family size:

"What do you think is the ideal number of children for a family to have?"

The following table shows what the representative sample of U.S. citizens believes to be the ideal number of children:

Ideal Number Of Children (1978)	Percentage
None	2%
One	1
Two	49
Three	23
Four	13

Strength For Today

AUTOMATIC RETRIBUTION

If we try to inflict evil upon anyone, we can be sure that in the end we will inflict upon ourselves that same evil or something worse. A bee, inflicting a sting, leaves its barbed weapon in the wound. And, thus mutilated, it dies. So it is with us if we try to hurt others. We find in the end that we have inflicted an irreparable injury upon ourselves.

Hatred hurts nobody but the hater. Jealousy burns out the heart of the person who cherishes it, but in no way harms the person against whom it is directed. The scandal monger may kill the reputation of some innocent person, but he comes at last to the abyssal desperation which people experience when they are left completely and utterly alone in the world.

We may choose to injure people if we want to, but when we bring pain to someone else, we bring death to an area of our lives which until then was promising and fine.

Where Children Shouldn't Go

By GAIL MICHAELS

There are public places no child should ever go.

For instance, no one under 12 should be allowed in the supermarket. The eight to twelve play demolition derby with the shopping carts.

The four to eight whine for everything they see. And the toddlers poke holes in everything packaged in plastic.

Then there's church. No child under six has ever been able to resist kicking the pew in front of him at some point during the service. Usually it's after he's clapped for the choir and before he decides to jazz up the ostles Creed with a chorus of "Little Bunny Foo-Foo."

But tops on my list is the restaurant. The last time I supervised Meg in a restaurant my blood pressure shot up to 180/100 and I didn't get out of bed for the next three days.

So I let Phillip do it. After all, I look after her all day. He can put in dinner duty.

Now he's the nervous wreck.

"Calm down," I told him the other night as I watched him reach for Meg's glass for the third time.

We were seated in a booth, which is the pits for parents of small children. Meg had already rocked her booster chair over the edge of the seat and had stuck a chicken leg in the hair of the lady behind her.

"How can I calm down? She has knocked her glass over the last four times which were at this restaurant, and two of which were with this waitress. If she spills any more, they may ask us to replace the carpet."

"You're overreacting. She has been reasonably well-behaved this evening. Meg, quit beating your plate with your spoon."

"You call this well-behaved?"

"Everything is relative." He caught the spoon just before it hit the floor. "At times like these, I wish she weren't," he hissed. "Next time we go out, we're leaving her at home."

She reached up and patted his cheek, and I took my napkin and wiped the green bean off.

"Quit shaking, dear. There is nothing to get so upset about. Meg, it is not nice to spit food in your plate." Meg wiped her mouth on her sleeve, and Phillip grabbed for her milk.

"Please, honey, I mean it," I said. You're beginning to drive me bananas. There is no reason to be so jumpy. Her arm wasn't anywhere near the milk that time. Meg, would you stop kicking the bottom of the table?"

She leaned over to look at her foot, and Phillip's arm shot out once again. But this time he missed her milk. He did not miss his ice tea.

"Ow-w-w-w-w!" Meg howled as the cold tea saturated her pants and dripped to the rug below. "Ow-w-w-w-w!" you wet me, Daddy!

Everyone in the restaurant turned to look at Phillip. I turned to look at the wall. "Meg," I said. "The next time we go out, we're leaving 'Daddy' at home."

Private Colleges Face State Dominance With Aid

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —
Many church-supported colleges are slowly becoming dominated by the state and face increasing state regulation. University of North Carolina officials who hope to block further aid to the private schools have warned.

Preparing for an upcoming legislative battle over education money, university officials plan to fight efforts by the 38 private colleges and universities in North Carolina to establish a formula for steady increases in state assistance to students at their schools.

UNC officials told a study commission looking into the requests Thursday that already, many colleges receive more money from the state — earmarked for student aid — than they do from the religious denominations with which they are affiliated.

"How are you going to face the dilemma of regulating public universities to the 'nth' degree, and giving private colleges half as much as the public universities but not regulating them at all," said A.K. King, special assistant to UNC President William Friday.

"You're proposing giving enormous amounts of money to the institutions without any watching of it at all," he added.

The state currently has two programs giving a total of $600 to the colleges for each North Carolina undergraduate student they enroll, at a total cost of $14 million a year.

Of that, the schools pool $200 per student and redistribute it to those considered needy. The remaining $400 is deducted from the tuition charged to each student, regardless of need.

The private colleges have asked for a $200 increase in the second program — to help offset the high cost of private school tuitions — over the next two years.

James Oliver, executive director of the N.C. Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, told the legislative study commission the second grant has reduced the gap between public and private college tuition and made the private colleges more attractive to students.

But the commission is also studying the private colleges' proposal to, within the next seven years, set the level of state aid per private college student at one-half the amount the state spends educating undergraduates in the university system.

UNC officials plan to fiercely fight that plan. They calculate it costs $2,800 to educate a student in the public universities, and that amount is increasing each year.

"As they get more and more state money, these private colleges are becoming state institutions," Art Padilla, an assistant vice president of the 16-campus UNC system, said in an interview.

A paper prepared for the commission by Padilla and other UNC officials says the university system opposes increased regulation of the private colleges, but says it will be inevitable with increased aid.

"It would defy experience if the General Assembly were to continue to spend increasing amounts of state dollars on aid to students attending private institutions — and thus on indirect aid to those institutions — without notice of the results being obtained," it said.

The commission has made no recommendation on the question, but will do so later this month. Sen. Bob Wynn, D-Wake, chairman of the commission, said in an interview he expects it to endorse compromise legislation setting a lower ratio — perhaps 40 percent of public university support — to be reached by 1985.

The university is certain to fight even that, and favors a program giving money only to needy private college students. Wynn, however, said legislators see the tuition aid program as benefitting a largely-ignored middle income college student. "There are plenty of other programs providing help for the needy," Wynn said. "But basically, this is the only financial assistance program for the middle class."

Oliver, in an interview, did not dispute the UNC contention that a majority of private colleges with religious affiliations receive more money from the state than their church. But he said the private schools do not fear strings would be attached to future state money.

"Regulation is not a matter of money," he said. "The colleges are already swamped in state and federal regulations."

he'd be throwing eggs at himself.

"And he'll come back here and tell us that although he had eggs thrown at him at Oxford he doesn't hold any ill feelings toward the students, because only a small percentage of them actually threw the eggs, and it isn't the first time people have thrown eggs at him. Then he'll say it was nothing compared to what they did to him and Pat in Venezuela. And you know something? We'll ask him to forgive us because we enjoyed watching the Oxford kids throw eggs at him."

"That's the most ridiculous thing I've ever heard. Nixon lied to us, he obstructed justice, he plotted to 'cover up' all sorts of crimes, and he was responsible for dozens of people going to jail to protect him. And you say we're going to ask him to forgive us?"

"You got it. You thought he was going to sit it out in San Clemente looking out at the sea. I told you it would just be a matter of time before he'd be out in the streets having eggs thrown at him. I wouldn't be surprised if Nixon paid for the eggs out of his English royalties. Dick has done it to us again."

"Woman," I cried, "have you taken leave of your senses? Do you think this country is ready to forgive and forget in less than five years?"

"You can scream and yell all you want," she said, "but in a few years there won't be a man, woman or child in the United States who won't ask Nixon to forgive them for forcing him to resign from office. And the beauty of it is that he will forgive us. Because he knows that we didn't know all the facts, and even if we did know all the facts we still weren't in a position to judge him, because only history should judge a President and not the people who were there at the time."

"You really think it's going to happen?" I asked nervously.

She pointed at the TV set and replied, "It's happening already."

Significant differences emerge when the results are analyzed by major population groups. Those who have had only a grade school education are far more likely than are the better educated to prefer larger families.

Attitudes of Roman Catholics on the question of family size have shown a marked change in the last decade. In 1968, a total of 50 percent of Catholics interviewed thought the ideal family consisted of four or more children. Only 21 percent hold that view today.

Officers Named By Shrine

The Rofelt Pasha Shrine Temple, Prince Hall Affiliation, held its annual election of officers recently.

Noble Fraeger R. Sanders of Greenville was elected Illustrious Potentate of the Temple for 1979. He now holds the highest position of the Temple.

Other elected officers in the area include Floyd Speight of Williamston, Chief Rabbani; James Ebron of Greenville, Assistant Rabbani; S. A. Outerbridge of Williamston, Oriental Guide; Annimas C. Smith of Greenville, Captain of the Guard; Cornelius Williams of Greenville, Outer Guard; and Simon Hemby, Greenville, Marshall.

Outgoing potentate James A. Cobb was honored for his work in the organization.

Sunday Demonstrations Banned By Iran Govm't

By PHILIP DOPOULOS
Associated Press Writer
TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Tehran's martial law administrator banned demonstrations Sunday by religious and political foes of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi as more foreigners and well-to-do Iranians fled the country.

Gen. Gholamali Oveisi said a mass meeting called by the religious leader Ayatollah Teleghani outside his Tehran home Sunday and religious processions Sunday and Monday that are the high point of the Shiite Moslem holy month of Moharram would violate martial law. He said the army would do everything necessary to break them up.

Informed sources said the army was expecting demonstrations in at least 10 cities, including the holy cities of Mashhad and Qum.

Religious leaders demanding the shah's abdication had promised a "bloodbath in the streets" if the government interfered with the marches Sunday and Monday. The processions are a traditional expression of mourning for Imam Hossein, the grandson of the prophet Mohammed and the founder of the Shiite sect, but it was apparent that the leader of the anti-shah movement, exiled Ayatollah Khomeini, was planning for them to be turned into a demonstration of opposition to the ruler.

Opposition political leader Karim Sanjaby of the National Front, who was freed from jail Wednesday, urged his supporters to join the demonstration outside Teleghani's home. But there were signs of opposition to the militants from within their ranks.

Ayatollah Sharietmadari, a religious leader in Qum, called for protesters to abstain from the use of arms and give the government a chance to carry out promised reforms. Shapour Bakhtiari, a leading member of the National Front, was reported to have split with Sanjaby and to be willing to join the coalition government the shah wants to form.

Foreigners and Iranians flooded Tehran airport trying to escape before the threatened weekend violence. Thousands scrambled for plane seats after airlines cancelled runs in and out of the city Sunday and Monday, expecting trouble.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington said President Carter decided more than 2,000 dependents of U.S. military and civilian personnel in Iran could leave at government expense, but they had to arrange their own commercial flights. There are no plans for a mass evacuation or for special charter flights, the spokesman said.

Carter also gave his first public expression of pessimism regarding the future of the shah, saying he does not know whether the monarch can survive the fight against him by religious leaders opposed to his attempts to Westernize the country and by political factions opposed to his authoritarian rule.

There were no reports of disturbances in Tehran today as the faithful flocked to mosques for morning prayers on the Moslem day of rest. But informed sources said three persons were killed and an undetermined number wounded Thursday night in a clash between troops and curfew breakers in Ahwaz, in the heart of the Khuzestan oil fields.

Rees Host For Dinners

Franceine Perry, pictured with James Rees in the photograph (and in the text) of the Wednesday article about the Madrigal Christmas Dinners at ECU, is not the hostess for this year's series of dinners at Mendenhall Student Center.

The 1978 hostess is Carolyn Smith, a senior and in the School of Music, East Carolina University, majoring in music education and music therapy.

James Rees is again the host for the dinners.

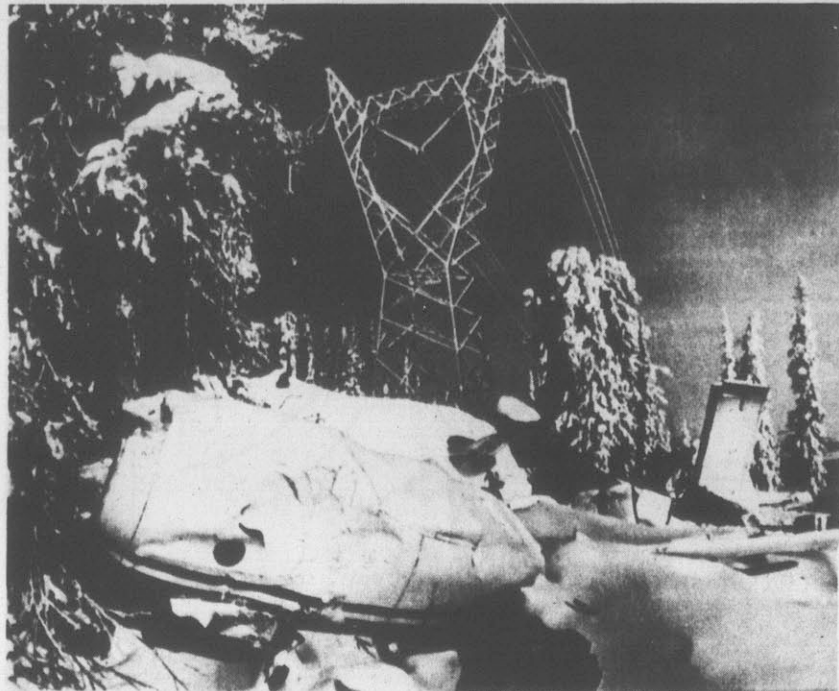

Attention is also invited to the fact that the limited number of tickets have been sold out, and no more spaces are available for the dinners tonight and tomorrow night.

N.C. Investment Rate Climbing

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State Director of Economic Development Larry D. Cohick said Thursday industrial development in North Carolina stands at $1.9 billion and may reach $2 billion within the month.

Cohick said in a report to the state Economic Development Board that investment in new and expanded plants is now about $1.9 billion.

He said he hoped Gov. Jim Hunt would make an announcement of an investment later in the month that would push the total over $2 billion.

Minister Speaks To Safety Council

The Rev. Davie Brinson of the Free Will Baptist Church addressed the Pitt County Safety Council Christmas meeting Thursday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The Rev. Brinson referred to a "positive attitude" as the best approach to solving safety problems.

"If we face reality, things can be different and accidents prevented," Brinson said. "However, skilled people must be available to help us cope with the unexpected."

Brinson spoke the effect of emergency situations on people, admonishing safety members to "look before leading" in crisis events.

Donations were collected from council members with a matching amount from the treasury to be given to the Salvation Army. The next meeting will be held Thursday, Jan. 4. Visitors are welcome.

Jonestown Survivors To Grand Jury

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Surviving members of the Peoples Temple cult begin testimony today behind the closed doors of a federal grand jury room, as prosecutors probe the deaths of Rep. Leo Ryan and four other Americans at a jungle airstrip in Guyana.

Eleven of the 17 subpoenaed survivors arrived here by plane Thursday night. One called reports the cult may have conspired to kill Ryan "completely out of the question," predicting the grand jury investigation would fail.

"Ryan was discouraged from coming from the beginning," said Laura Johnston, 31. "We went to the jungle so we would be away from any harassment. We were not looking for trouble. We had a community that was flourishing."

The grand jury, which meets in secret, is expected to continue its inquiry for several days.

"Basically, we're trying to confirm the identity of the shooters of Congressman Ryan," said one investigator, who asked to be unnamed.

Still in Georgetown, Guyana, are 36 of the 80 persons known to have been in the South American nation at the time of the cult's mass murder-suicide. Many of the survivors were in Georgetown — 150 miles away — when Jim Jones led more than 900 followers in a death ritual at their compound in Jonestown.

Two survivors have been charged with murder and the others are being held as potential witnesses. The Guyanese government said Thursday it was moving to allow more survivors to return to the United States for Christmas.

Ryan, three newsmen and an unhappy cult member who had wanted to leave Guyana were killed in an ambush at an airstrip near the Jonestown camp Nov. 18. Hours later, Jones ordered the mass deaths.

Ms. Johnston, who was in Georgetown when the deaths occurred, said she was prepared to be asked "a thousand questions" in her appearance before the grand jury today. Others who said they were to testify today were Paul McCann, 27, and Chuck Kirkendole, 30.

The other six subpoenaed survivors, including Jones' two adopted sons, were expected to arrive in San Francisco today or during the weekend.

Meanwhile, federal authorities said they were aware that Social Security checks totaling $500,000 a year were being signed over to the Peoples Temple, but were powerless to stop the practice.

In Sacramento, it was reported that the manufacturers of Kool-Aid and Fla-Vor-Aid say they have no plans to counter the publicity resulting from the Peoples Temple deaths.

Kool-Aid was reported to have been used to flavor the cyanide poison consumed by many of the cult members. And some reporters on the scene said they found quantities of Fla-Vor-Aid in the camp, not far from the vat from which the poison drink was administered.

Spokesmen for General Foods, the maker of Kool-Aid, and Jel-Sert Inc. of Chicago, the maker of Fla-Vor-Aid, told The Sacramento Bee they do not anticipate any drop in sales.

'Tolerance' May Indicate Emptiness

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Church Women Elect Officers

Mrs. David J. Middleton, Jr., has been selected president of United Methodist Women of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, according to Mrs. Jack Koonz, chairman of the Nominating Committee.

Serving with Mrs. Middleton for the 1979-80 term will be Mrs. David J. Wichard II, vice-president; Mrs. Robert S. Griffin, second vice-president; Mrs. James N. Galloway, secretary; Mrs. Robert Harris Daniel, treasurer; and Mrs. H. A. Hendrix, assistant treasurer.

Elected mission coordinators are: Mrs. John F. Casey, Christian Personhood; Mrs. Larry M. Bolen, Mrs. John L. Hassell, Mrs. Pinkney B. Young III, Christian Supportive Community; Mrs. Richard Turner, Christian Social Involvement; Mrs. Thomas W. Parrish, Mrs. James H. Bailey, Christian Global Concerns.

Other new officers include: Nursery, Mrs. J. C. Whitehurst, Jr.; Nominations, Mrs. Donald H. Tucker, chairman, Mrs. Barney Barrett, Mrs. Charles Broome, Mrs. David Brown, Mrs. Jasper Lewis, Mrs. Tom Patterson; Membership, Mrs. Koonz, chairman, Mrs. John Clark; Fellowship, Mrs. Ed Davis; Telephone, Miss Irene Fleming, Mrs. Howard W. Mims; Program Resources, Miss Annie Turner; Kitchen,

Rice University in Houston and author of several books on demonism and cults, says the macabre events at Guyana showed various "earmarks of the demonic," including: "Preoccupation with pain and death, distortion and perversion of sex and family life, mind control, use of religion as a vehicle for power with the leader claiming to be God incarnate...deprivation of freedom and progression from something seemingly good to moral degeneracy."

Glasser said Fuller Seminary, an interdenominational institution now enrolling about 2,300 students in schools of missions, psychology and theology, has steadily challenged the relativistic trends.

"Our generation has produced more new religious cults than any generation in the total history of the human race," he said. "Many people are so jaded that they uncritically accept any idea that comes down the pipe."

"In all this tide of relativism, the flood of eastern cults and the assumptions that any religion is okay as long as it's sincere, we've tried to face the situation and say plainly that there is truth and there is error."

He said "tolerance, in its best sense, is a virtue" and "we must allow for a measure of differences, listening to one another and learning, a principle of the ecumenical movement." But we must not get trapped in self-absorbed, insulated groups or get shut off in a Guyanese corner of subservience to totalitarian control.

That view is widely advocated and echoed these days in the name of open-minded tolerance and intellectual sophistication. "Take your pick. It makes no difference. Do your own thing."

While the attitude parades as tolerance, it actually sums up the emptiness that leads to the indiscriminate acceptance which marked the tragedy in Guyana, according to the Rev. Dr. Arthur F. Glasser, a Presbyterian scholar.

"We've become so mushyheaded and tolerant in America that people say any religion is okay, but the fact is that they can be demonic," Glasser said in an interview. "Such relativism is the curse of Biblical faith."

Glasser, dean of the school of world mission at the Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, Calif., is among those who see the relativism and nihilism of the times as leaving many unable to distinguish between religious realities and fraud, between the divine and the demonic.

"Our highly secularized society...has created a dangerous spiritual vacuum," writes philosopher John E. Smith of Yale University, adding that the despair it engenders leads people to accept "the charismatic fanatic, because they believe he can deliver them from the nihilism of the times."

The Rev. John P. Newport, professor of religious studies at St. James Free Will Baptist Church will observe their pastor's third anniversary Sunday.

Regular services with the pastor, Rev. C. R. Parker, will be held at 11 a.m. At 3 p.m., the Rev. Willie Joyner and choir of Patrick Chapel Free Will Baptist Church of Greene County will conduct the service. The Rev. J. R. Person, pastor, and choir of St. John Missionary Baptist Church, Falkland, will be in charge of the 4 p.m. service.

The public is invited.

TOOLS and SKILL

Because I've never been a handyman I admire those who are.

The few times I've tried to repair anything I made a horrible discovery. People like me not only lack skill... we don't even have the tools. There's a ruthless logic in that. If you have no idea how to use a drill press, you're not likely to get one for Christmas.

Sometimes I see a parallel in the spiritual demands of life. Living constructively in our society requires faith in God and the ability to express one's convictions in meaningful relationships, in acts of kindness and love.

So we have become a church-going family. The children are benefiting from moral and religious training. We are devoting our Sundays to acquiring the tools and skill so needed in our time.

Testimonial Dinner For Dan Flood Proved Dud

PIONEER VENUS CRAFT RADIO CHECKED—A technician at Hughes Aircraft Company, El Segundo, Calif. checks parts of a radio transmitter from the Venus Pioneer spacecraft before its launch. The Venus probe which carries this transmitter is expected to enter the planet's atmosphere on Dec. 9 as part of a multi-probe exploration of Venus by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. (AP Laserphoto)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—It was billed as a testimonial for indicted Pennsylvania Congressman Daniel Flood, with booze and small talk. Flood said "never before has my heart been so warm" — even though only 300 people showed up instead of the expected 20,000.

"It's a heartwarming experience, heartwarming," said Flood, twisting his waxed handlebar mustache as he spoke at the cocktail party intended to raise $500,000 for his defense against federal perjury and bribery charges.

Others had a different opinion.

"What a bust," said waitress Peggy Scapalis, apparently wondering what would happen to piles of french fried mushrooms, cauliflower, chicken, egg rolls and meat balls nobody ate.

Because the crowd Thursday at the Treadway Inn was so small, each guest was allowed four drinks instead of the two they were promised.

Organizer William Reishstein, a retired obstetrician-turned-shopping mall developer, had reserved two ballrooms, each able to accommodate about 2,000 people.

So the 10 waitresses and eight bartenders could only joke as "Lefty and the Polka Chaps" and Lee Vincent's Orchestra played.

Reishstein said he sold 1,200 tickets in advance at $100 each. About 150 more went for $10 at the door, but five ticket sellers who waited all afternoon for a crush that never came were disappointed.

"You know where we can find some customers?" asked Kathryn Perry, shuffling a pile of tickets.

Two hours after the reception began, and just before Flood arrived, Reishstein went to the hotel bar and induced people to join his party, nearly doubling the crowd in a single ballroom.

"Everyone thinks he's a multi-millionaire, but he's got no money," Reishstein said of Flood. "If he did, do you think I'd be here?"

Flood ignored the thin crowd as he and his wife, Catherine, greeted neighbors and constituents.

"It is so wonderful to have so many friends do something like this," said the 74-year-old Democrat, whose trial is scheduled to begin Jan. 15 in Washington, D.C.

Urges Care In Address

Postmaster H. Lloyd Mills reminds customers that for the best service this Christmas season, they should use ZIP codes, place their return address in the upper left hand corner of the envelope and use proper postage.

Mills urges families to double check cards and envelopes to make sure proper postage is affixed. Envelopes without postage will be returned to senders, if possible, or delayed by postage-due procedures.

When the return address is placed on envelopes bearing holiday greetings, it also reminds friends of one's current address.

If the family to whom a holiday message is sent moved more than a year ago, it cannot be forwarded.

With a return address, such letters are returned to the sender with a notation that the following "order" has expired, according to Mills.

BEAT THE PEAK.

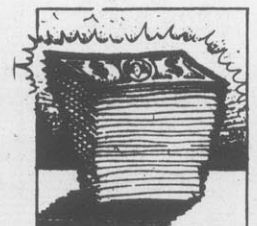

IT WORKED.

The temperature soared. It was August 29, 1978, and the thermometer pushed past 95 degrees. Air conditioners strained and the total amount of electricity being used throughout the Greenville area climbed toward a record-breaking peak. UNTIL our load management system, "BEAT THE PEAK," went to work.

Radio signals were sent out from Greenville Utilities' central control tower. Special switches installed on electric water heaters and central air conditioners in 2,700 Greenville area homes received the signals and briefly stopped the flow of electricity to these two appliances. But not long enough to tell the difference. Water stayed hot and air-conditioned homes stayed cool. Meanwhile, the amount of electric energy flowing through our lines and substations stayed at a lower, less costly level.

We "Beat the Peak" that day. Six megawatts of power that otherwise would have been consumed—perhaps needlessly—wasn't used during the "peak" period. Those six megawatts of power saved will yield a net savings to our community's electrical system of over $225,000. BEAT THE PEAK customer volunteers received nearly $70,000 in the form of monthly credits of up to $7.50 on their June through September utility bills. The rest of the savings will help pay for the $450,000 first-year investment in the load management equipment.

In January of 1979, we will begin installing more special switches in the homes of customers who volunteer to help BEAT THE PEAK. There is no charge for the installation, and no inconvenience. Just savings.

Approximately 1,500 applications will be accepted for 1979 installations. Nearly 500 applications are already on file, with additional ones being received every day. If you live in a house, apartment, duplex, or condominium and have either an electric water heater and/or a central air conditioning unit, you are eligible to participate in the program. You may apply by mailing in the attached application form, or by contacting the Energy Conservation Office at 752-7166, Extension 234.

There is one rather important, practically indisputable statement we can make about our load management program, BEAT THE PEAK:
It Works.

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are expected for the period until Saturday morning for most of the East. Rain is due for the Pacific Northwest coast. Snow flurries are due in the northern Plains and mild temperatures along the Atlantic coast. (AP Laserphoto)

By The Associated Press
A storm system over Tennessee tracked slowly eastward today behind a warm front that moved through North Carolina. Southwest winds brought warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico, spreading showers and drizzle through the state.

The forecast indicated showers would be most numerous in the mountains, possibly accompanied by thunderstorms, and brief downpours were possible tonight.

Temperatures were expected to be well above normal today and tonight ranging in the 60s west and 70s east. But cooler air will start getting into western sections Saturday behind a cold front. There will be a dramatic difference in temperatures, perhaps 30 to 40 degrees colder, on Sunday, as Canadian air pours in with brisk northwest winds.

east, but held to cooler levels in the west. Highs ranged from 58 at Hickory to 73 at Wilmington. Temperatures were quite mild this morning as the warm front passed. Overnight readings dropped no lower than the 60s in some places.

Pilot Dies Of Injuries

—STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — The pilot who guided a commuter plane to a crash landing in the Colorado Rockies that resulted in the death of only one of his 22 passengers died late Thursday.

The Rocky Mountain Airways pilot, Scott Klopfenstein, suffered head injuries in the crash Monday night, and had been in a coma much of the time since then, said Fritz Opel, an airline vice president.

He died in a Denver hospital, Opel said. Killed at the time of the crash was Mary Kay Hardin, 29, of Steamboat Springs.

Federal safety inspectors gathered in this ski resort town to investigate the crash had hoped to interview Klopfenstein about the flight. They did talk briefly Thursday with co-pilot, Gary Coleman, 34, who is in guarded condition at a hospital in Kremmling.

Fourteen other survivors remained hospitalized Thursday.

The twin-turboprop plane was headed to Denver from Steamboat Springs when Klopfenstein radioed he was turning back because of heavy icing. The plane crashed at the 10,000-foot level and rescue crews reached the site 11 hours later.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly today in an atmosphere of wariness over the unsettled political situation in Iran.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 3.11 at 812.98.

Losers held a 5-4 advantage over gainers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted some encouraging news in the Federal Reserve's report late Thursday that the basic measure of the money supply declined for the third consecutive week.

The news kept alive hopes that the Fed's effort to control inflation and support the dollar by curbing monetary growth might at last be taking hold.

But brokers said the market was also jittery over challenges to the regime of the shah of Iran. Fears have been expressed that a change in Iran's leadership might pose a threat to Middle East stability and supplies of oil from that region to the United States.

Rioters opposing the shah today burned down the Iranian headquarters of Grumman Corp.

Grumman shares dropped 1/4 to 17 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index lost .15 to 54.15. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index eased .01 to 151.48.

Volume on the Big Board set a slow pace, totaling 7.74 million shares by noon today. It gains 8.72 million at the same point Thursday.

Taped Final Agonies

JONESTOWN, Guyana (AP) — A tape recording has been found of part of the suicide-murder agony of more than 900 American cultists at Jonestown, a Guyanese police official reports.

Cecil A. Roberts, assistant police commissioner for crime, said the tape of the Nov. 18 horror was found at the Peoples Temple settlement 150 miles northwest of Georgetown the morning after Guyanese troops arrived at the death camp. But he said the tape was not turned over to the police until recently.

The police official said the recording has been heard by only a few persons and to his knowledge it has not been copied. He said he had not heard it and had no other details.

Roberts said a total of about $1 million of Jonestown funds, most of it in $100 bills, has been found. He said about $500,000 was found hidden in the settlement, and another $500,000 was found in a suitcase in the jungle where a survivor abandoned it as he was escaping.

Unconfirmed reports have said up to $3 million was in the settlement.

Hamilton Green, Guyana's minister of health, housing and labor, said the government is considering proposals for disposal of the Jonestown tract, which the Peoples Temple leased and farmed.

He said the most obvious one is to continue farming it.

 say, "this we have done. But where do we go from here?"

"We move ahead," Hunt emphasized. "...go on to the next achievement. We cut another ribbon," ask the same question, and "start it all over again."

Bradshaw, who presided at the ceremony, held at the Sims interchange about eight miles west of Wilson, said following the program that the final corridor for improvements to U.S. 264 East of Wilson will be selected in from two to four months.

Public hearings were held last week in Saratoga and in Greenville, on whether to improve the present route between Wilson and Greenville by adding two additional lanes, or whether to construct a fully controlled access freeway on a new location, similar to the Zebulon-Wilson freeway.

55 MPH Plea

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Crime Control Secretary J. Phil Carlton, disturbed by an increase in the number of traffic fatalities on North Carolina highways, pleaded with motorists today to comply with the 55 mph speed limit.

Carlton said a jump in traffic deaths during recent weeks apparently stems from an increase in the number of drivers who are speeding and driving under the influence of alcohol.

The Highway Patrol is already doing all it can to control the number of traffic-law violations, he said, and the Advisory Budget Commission will be asked to recommend appropriation of funds for 25 additional patrolmen.

The patrol reported 20 traffic deaths during the Thanksgiving weekend and 24 fatalities last weekend. The death toll for the average weekend is 10 or fewer, Carlton said, and the count for the last two weekends represents an "alarming setback" in the patrol's efforts.

Carlton also said he plans to ask Gov. Jim Hunt to propose legislation outlawing radar-detection devices and to strengthen laws against driving under the influence of alcohol.

Would Bar 'Nova Univ.' Tenement Rubble Yields 11 Dead

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The planning committee of the University of North Carolina Board of Governors has recommended that Nova University, a Florida-based school offering doctoral and masters degree programs, be denied a license to operate in the state.

Nova has off-campus degree programs, usually held on weekends in rented buildings and featuring part-time guest lecturers, for educators, law enforcement officers and government officials.

The committee said Thursday that the programs lack academic depth and the school does not have libraries and does not offer enough student-faculty contact.

Some educators have defended the programs of Nova, which is based in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., as an innovative approach to providing education for mid-career professionals who cannot afford to leave their jobs to attend college on a full-time basis.

Nova had asked the Board of Governors for a license to operate the programs in several cities. The board was expected to vote on the committee's recommendation today.

By CAROL FELDMAN Associated Press Writer
NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Firemen found 11 charred bodies in the blackened rubble of a tenement and looked for a 3-year-old boy also believed to have perished in a blaze described as "a roaring inferno."

Fire Director John Caufield said Thursday authorities had no hope of finding the child alive after what Fire Chief James O'Bierne said was the city's worst blaze in 25 years.

"The bodies were burned beyond recognition, right down to the rib cage" said Eric Langemeier, an investigator for the Essex County Medical Examiner.

Eighteen persons escaped. They were placed with relatives or in nearby hotels by the American Red Cross.

A mother and her five children were found huddled together in the burned-out building, and authorities said intense heat cut off escape from the third floor before the roof collapsed.

"I've been driving ambulances for 20 years and I've never seen anything like this," said rescue worker LeRoy Smith, who described the fire as a "roaring inferno" when firemen arrived.

The cause of the morning fire was under investigation. Security guards at a nearby city building said they saw a man run from the scene shortly after the fire broke out.

Francell Scott, who escaped with his wife and five children, lost two sisters, three nieces and a brother-in-law in the fire. His efforts to save his older sister failed.

"That's what hurts me so much," he said. "I tried to save my sister, but there was nothing I could do. I tried — I heard her scream for help, but couldn't help her."

Title 1 Day Is Marked

The Wellcome Middle School's PAC sponsored Title I Day, Wednesday, December 6, from 9:30-11:30 a.m.

Parents gathered for coffee, cakes and nuts. Mrs. Selma Cherry, PAC advisor, held a short business meeting. Mrs. Cherry introduced Bernard Haselrig, Pitt County's Title I Co-ordinator, who spoke to the parents and guests attending about the real purposes of the Title I reading program.

He pointed out research that indicates higher achievement for students whose parents are supportive and interested in their children.

A play entitled "Miss Louisa and the Outlaws" was presented by a group of Title I sixth graders. The players were Patricia Ebron, Jimmy Daniels, Gentry Sneed, Anne Langley, Connie Braxton, Trina Wilder, Micky Wynne, Danny Ownes, Linwood Harris, Jeff Daniels, Jeff Kinsey, Tony Johnson, Lisa Adams, Patricia Johnson, Angie Simpson and Allen Hudson.

Pirates Seek To Bounce Back Against Unbeaten Indiana State

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

DELAND, Fla. — East Carolina's basketball team will be trying to rebound from two straight losses when it takes on Indiana State here tonight in the first round of the Hatter Classic.

The Pirates face the Sycamores in tonight's first game, beginning at 7 p.m., while the other two teams in the tournament, Cleveland State and host Stetson, play at 9 p.m. A consolation game is scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday, followed by the championship game at 9 p.m.

Pirate coach Larry Gillman blames youth and inconsistency, as well as tougher opposition, for the Bucs two consecutive losses. Both games, a 60-54 loss to William & Mary, and an 89-71 loss to Tennessee, came on the road. They followed home victories in the teams' first two games to leave ECU at 2-2.

"The two we lost were on the road, and they were against better basketball teams," Gillman commented.

"We're young and we're inconsistent. And I think the inconsistency is probably because of our youth."

Only two players who have started all four games for the Pirates this season were starters last year, guard Oliver Mack and center Greg Cornelius. "Everyone is learning about each other—that's why it looks a little awkward out there. But they're working real hard in practice, and I think it's gonna come."

"We're not discouraged—there are not many teams that are going to beat Tennessee in Knoxville," Gillman said. The Pirates played well against the Volunteers for the first 30 minutes of the game until Tennessee began to build a slight lead. "Then we lost our composure and patience. We tried to get it back too quickly—that's what a young team does."

The result was that the Vols quickly built a margin of 15 points to end the ECU hopes of an upset. "We've got to learn to be more patient," Gillman said.

Following the loss to William & Mary, Gillman tried to put "a little more fire" in his lineup by starting two freshmen against the Vols. So he inserted forwards Clarence Miles and Al Tyson for Herb Gray and Frank Hobson. The other starters include junior college transfer George Maynor, the point guard.

The experiment seemed to work, the coach reflected, as Miles stayed in the game for 37 minutes. Tyson played 11, and another freshman, Mark McLaurin, played 22. Miles had 11 points, and led the team in rebounding with seven.

"Tonight is a little different situation," Gillman said. "We're going to start Miles again, and put Herb Gray in for his quickness. We're going to try to keep the ball away from (Larry) Bird, and Herb plays pretty good denial."

Bird, Indiana State's stellar 6-9 forward, is considered by many to be the best player in the college game. He was one of the leading scorers in the nation last season with an even 30.0 average and was drafted in the first round by the NBA Boston Celtics, but chose to return to ISU for his senior season.

The Sycamores come into the tournament as the only undefeated team with a 4-0 record, including victories over Purdue and Illinois State. "They should be high in the national rankings when they come out next week," Gillman said.

"They have one of the top players in the country in Larry Bird, and he's not alone. They have two returning starters and two jocos (junior college transfers). Whatever they've got, they're doing it right."

Besides Bird, Indiana State is expected to start 6-2 Steve Reed and 6-2 Carl Nicks at the guard spots, 6-8 Brad Miley at the other forward and 6-7 Alex Gilbert at center.

Bird and Mack are the two returning scorers in the NCAA this season, and that fact is not lost on the tournament promoters who are featuring the Mack vs. Bird matchup in their ads.

So far, Mack is averaging nearly 10 points less than his 28.0 points per game production of a year ago. "Our team has a lot more overall balance," Gillman said of Mack's lower average. "We have had four or five players in double figures in three of our first four games."

Gillman also said Mack is shooting a bit less than the ECU coach would like. The senior guard is taking about 16 shots per game, while Gillman said he needs to be taking about 20.

"We know it's going to be a tough situation anytime you go against somebody as good as Bird is," Gillman said. "I think we will start out man-to-man and see how the game progresses. Then we will go to any of our specialty defenses."

"I don't think he (Bird) can score 80 and I think it will take 80 to beat us, so we will concentrate on other kids."

Gillman stresses that Bird is a well-rounded player, and can help his team many different ways. "Against Purdue, I think he had 22 points and 12 assists, so he can hurt you in so many different ways, and might not necessarily be scoring."

The other two teams in the Hatter Classic are both fairly strong, but nothing to compare with the Sycamores. "Cleveland State is 3-1 and Stetson played Colorado and Las Vegas on the road and is 1-4. But they are the host team and you can never count the host team out."

Gillman concluded, "Our road is going to be a difficult one, and I hope the team matures well enough to get the job done."

ATLANTA (AP) — All-American safety Jeff Nixon of Richmond and Eddie Lee Ivery, a second team All-American who shattered Georgia Tech's one-year rushing standard, head The Associated Press 1978 All-South Independent football team announced today.

Nixon ranked among the nation's leaders in pass interceptions, returning seven for 171 yards and two touchdowns.

Ivery, who set an NCAA record when he ran for 356 yards against the Air Force Academy, rambled for 1,562 yards during his senior season at Tech and pulled in passes for another 238 yards.

Pepper Rodgers, who steered Georgia Tech to a 7-4 record and a berth opposite Purdue in the Peach Bowl, was named the Southern Independent Coach of the Year by the panel of sports writers and broadcasters that chose the team.

Rodgers edged out John David Crow of Northeast Louisiana for the award. Other coaches drawing support were Vince Gibson of Louisville, Bobby Bowden of Florida State, Pat Dye of East Carolina and Bobby Collins of Southern Mississippi.

Joining Ivery in the All-South backfield were quarterback Roch Hontas of Tulane and running backs Otis Anderson of Miami, Fla., and Nathan Poole of Louisville.

The offensive line consisted of ends Drew Hill of Georgia Tech, Jackie Flowers of Florida State and Ernest Gray of Memphis State; tackles Nate Henderson of Florida State and Randy Butler of Southern Mississippi; guards Jimmy Carter of Tennessee State and Mike Good of Florida State, and center Dee Methvin of Tulane.

Named to the defensive line were ends Zack Valentine of East Carolina and Willie Jones of FSU, tackles Don Smith of Miami and Stoney Parker of Southern Mississippi and middle guard Ron Simmons of FSU.

Linebacking spots went to Ron Taylor of Southern Mississippi, Otis Wilson of Louisville and Mackel Harris of Georgia Tech. Joining Nixon in the secondary were Gerald Hall of East Carolina and Roy Binion of Northeast Louisiana.

Tulane's Ed Murray won the place kicking spot and Max Runager of South Carolina earned the punting berth on the team.

Anderson hammered out more than 1,250 yards for Miami and Poole had just under 1,400 yards at Louisville.

The closest battle came at the receiver spots among five players. Hill had 34 catches for 706 yards and also returned 19 kickoffs for 570 yards and two touchdowns. Flowers caught 43 for 757 yards and Gray 34 for 677.

The trio barely outpolled John Floyd of Northeast Louisiana, who had 29 catches for 649 yards before missing the final three games with a broken leg, and Tennessee State's John Smith, who had 45 receptions for 770 yards.

Dye Pleased With Workouts

East Carolina University's Pirates begin their final week of drills for next Saturday's Independence Bowl game in Shreveport, La., against Southland Conference champ Louisiana Tech.

"We hit for the first time (since the end of the regular season) on Wednesday," Coach Pat Dye said. "And we are going to hit again today (Thursday afternoon). We had an excellent practice on Wednesday, and I hope that it will continue."

"From a conditioning standpoint, we are in fine shape," he added. Dye said the team would hit again on Monday, then taper off for the bowl game.

"Louisiana Tech is a fine football team. They have one of the best defensive teams that we've played. They are along the same lines as N.C. State and Southern Mississippi. And they have some excellent people, too. Their nose guard, Ardis McCann, was just selected to the AP All-America team. They also have people like (tackle) Ronnie Padgett, (linebacker) Jimmy Blackshire and (end) Johnny Robinson. They also have an excellent secondary. They have great team speed, too."

Coupled with that, the Tech team also has an outstanding passing game behind quarterback Keith Thibodeaux. "They can throw the ball. They threw for 287 yards against Louisville last year in the Independence Bowl," Dye noted.

While the Pirates have been working, the coaching staff has been trying to give some time too, to recruiting.

"It hasn't been easy from a time point of view," Dye said. "It hasn't hurt us in prestige, however. I think that in the long run, it will help us and the long-range effects will be positive." Saturday is the first signing day for high school seniors for non-binding grants-in-aid. The NCAA letters of intent won't be signed until mid-February.

The Pirates, who will skip practice today, then workout on Saturday morning, will again put on pads for a heavy drill on Monday. Tuesday through Thursday, they will taper off, working Thursday morning and then flying to Shreveport on Thursday afternoon. "We'll practice Friday on the game field to get the feel of it," Dye

Pistons Were Less Worse

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Pistons and Cleveland Cavaliers are still the two worst teams in the Central Division of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Conference.

But the Pistons were a lot less worse Thursday night, blowing the Cavaliers out of the Pontiac Silverdome 121-105 in the only game played in the NBA.

The game wasn't as close as the score indicates. Detroit outscored Cleveland 18-3 in the first four minutes of the third quarter to take a 30-point lead and cruised the rest of the way.

Cleveland, a loser for the third straight time, dropped to a 7-18 record, worst in the NBA. Detroit takes a 10-16 mark into tonight's game at Indiana. The Cavaliers are idle.

Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch took the blame for Thursday's loss, calling it "the worst game I have ever coached."

"The game was so bad I'm not going to talk about guards, centers, forwards," Fitch said. "I just coached a bad game."

Detroit Coach Dick Vitale was, as usual, eager to talk, oozing praise for the Pistons' young players.

"I can't believe believe how our young kids are playing," Vitale said, singling out rookie guard John Long, who scored 28 points, and frontcourt men Ben Poquette, Terry Tyler and Leon Douglas.

All have been doing extra duty while superstar center Bob Lanier, acknowledged by Vitale as "the franchise," recovers from minor knee surgery. He's due back about Dec. 20, and Vitale says the Pistons will be a much improved club by then.

But he's realistic. Thursday night, "everything we did was right...it was a great performance. We're still not a playoff team...but just wait till next year when we can take the best of this team and our three first-round draft choices."

Green sat out "for disciplinary reasons," Vitale explained. "He has been shooting only about 15 percent the last few games and has been the last man on the floor for practice."

"I've been trying for three weeks to get the team out of this (slump)," moaned Fitch as Cleveland lost for the 18th time in its last 21 games. His own worst critic, the frustrated coach said: "Tonight, I just looked at it from the bottom up."

East Carolina University officials seem satisfied, at first glance, with the new rulings over Title IX.

The new rules came out Wednesday afternoon, and say that colleges must give equal financial treatment to women's sports, on a per capita basis, with the exception of football, and in some cases, basketball.

Athletic Director Bill Cain said that the current plan under which the university is operating under falls in line with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's guidelines.

"I haven't had a chance to look over the actual guidelines yet," Cain told us, "but from what I have read in the newspapers and heard, we are okay."

The Pirates went through a grievance hearing this summer when five students claimed that the university was not in compliance with the Title IX rules for women's athletics, and a plan was devised at that time and approved by new chancellor Dr. Thomas Brewer.

The plan calls for each of the eight women's sports to be matched up with a men's sport, again excepting football, and money to be spent accordingly.

Of course, to make all of the sports solid, much more money will need to be raised by the educational foundation, The Pirate Club.

And the Pirate Club must attract women into its fold too. Now, the biggest part of the funds that run athletics come from men.

And despite any rulings from HEW, most men want to see their money going into men's sports.

The women have to carry their financial load too.

Dye On The Move

Greenville beats about any town I've ever seen. Seems like every time a job opening comes around in the football ranks, the talk streaks all over town that Pat Dye is going to take the job.

Dye has been going just about every place under the sun the past few years, but as of right now, he's still here.

Greenville, along with several of the big city newspapers in the state, and the Carolina Sports Network, had Dye all set to go to Clemson earlier this week. People were still saying Dye was "positively" headed for Death Valley, even after Clemson had already named its new coach, assistant Danny Ford.

He's also been mentioned, locally and in the state, at least, for the Florida job taken by Pell, and for some jobs that aren't even open.

Yesterday we were asked if Dye was going to Army (to replace fired coach Homer Smith, who once coached at Davidson).

Success, apparently, breeds rumor.

Rampants In Easy Victory

WILSON — Rose High School rolled to its second straight wrestling victory last night, downing Wilson Fike High School, 54-12.

The Rampants took every weight class but two, losing one by a pin and the other on a forfeit. Of the 11 Rose wins, four came on pins and one via a default.

The Rampants, now 2-2, play host to Rocky Mount on Monday.

Summary:
98. Tom Brown (R) won by forfeit.
105. Ricky Warron (R) won by forfeit.
112. David Purvis (R) decisively Chuck Volter, 10-3.
119. James Stator (R) pinned Danny Moore, 1-40.
126. J.B. Bobbit (F) pinned Wayne Joyner, 1-54.
132. Jeff Atkinson (R) decisively Phillip Moore, 5-0.

138. Mark Johnson (R) decisively Ken Clark, 8-2.
145. Alan Best (R) won by default over Charles Clark.
155. Alfred O'Neal (R) pinned George Crawley, 0-16.
167. Reggie Eaton (R) decisively Robert Gooding, 13-7.
185. Stuart Ward (R) pinned Michael Faison, 2-43.
195. Larry Rich (F) won by forfeit.
Heavyweight: Ron Butler (R) pinned George Richardson, 0-26.

Pace Gets Two Wins

GOLDSBORO — Pace Academy took a pair of games from St. Mary's in Goldsboro yesterday.

Pace won the girls' game, 30-14. Sue Ellen Allen led Pace with 12 points.

In the boys' game, Pace took a 48-11 win. Fred Pollard led Pace with 12, while Toran Braxton had 11 and Crowell Pope had 10.

The Pace girls are now 2-2, while the boys are 3-1.

Coupled with the problems of practice and transportation and recruiting come final exams for the first semester. "It's not helping us any in getting ready, but it's something you have to work around. Just about everyone who is going to a bowl game is having to work around exams like us. But no one else (except for the two Garden State Bowl teams, Arizona State and Rutgers) are having to go to the game right in the middle of exams."

Dye said he also had not had time to check into the fan situation. "I know we'll have some fans down there. There are a number who are flying and a number who will get down there in other ways."

"I know one thing, we need to sell tickets badly. Even if people aren't going, they can show their support for the program by buying tickets."

According to reports, East Carolina had to guarantee 10,000 tickets to the Independence Bowl officials, and the university will have to cover these whether sold or not.

The pitcher's plate in baseball is required to be 10 inches above the level of home plate.

Free Throw Style

Kansas City Kings' top draft pick Phil Ford sticks out his tongue as he prepares to shoot a free throw during Wednesday's game against the Philadelphia 76ers. Ford originally wanted to play for the 76ers but signed with the Kings after lengthy negotiations. He is one of the top rookies in the NBA. (AP Laserphoto)

Vikings Slip By White Oak

JACKSONVILLE — D.H. Conley's wrestling Vikings pulled out a 41-27 victory over White Oak last night for their third straight win of the year.

The Vikings had to struggle, however, as White Oak gave them a run early. "We underestimated their strength," coach Mike Waller said. "But we'll be ready for the next one."

That next one is Wednesday, when Conley plays host to Farmville Central.

Summary:

98. Greg Toler (C) decisively David Parker, 12-6.
105. Gary Harris (C) pinned Steve Urbanczyk, 1-28.
112. Raymond Samil (C) decisively Mike Rosato, 18-7.
119. Bernie Rosage (WO) decisively Donald Hardy, 37-7.
126. Alexander Crandall (C) pinned Bob Cotton, 4-28.
132. Robert Carney (C) pinned Steve Aman, 1-53.
138. Wayne Haza (WO) pinned Dennis Carney, 3-15.
145. Greg Garwood (WO) pinned Curtis Bridges, 4-39.
155. William Small (C) decisively Ricky Friend, 5-2.
167. Earl Paige (C) pinned Billy DiPietro, 3-33.
185. Ricky Goodson (WO) pinned Ernest Bridges, 2-20.
195. James Carter (C) pinned Chris Barnes, 3-09.
Heavyweight: Mike Aarhelko (WO) won by forfeit.

Jaguars Romp Over Hunt

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central romped to a 66-12 victory over Wilson Hunt in a wrestling match last night.

Hunt managed only two wins during the evening, one coming on a forfeit and the other on a disqualification.

Farmville took the other 11 matches, winning eight of them on pins, and the other three by forfeits.

Now 2-1, the Jaguars travel to Conley on Wednesday.

Summary:

98. Tom King (FC) won by forfeit.
105. Bryan White (FC) won by forfeit.
112. David Hunt (H) won by forfeit.
119. Jeff Ebron (FC) pinned Mike Hooks, 1-14.
126. David Newton (FC) pinned Barry Cunningham, 0-37.
132. Elmer Ebron (FC) won by forfeit.
138. Roger Joyner (FC) pinned Dan Smith, 0-43.
145. Dennis Brown (FC) pinned Johnny Coleman, 0-37.
155. Mike King (FC) pinned Paul Ivey, 3-33.
167. Reggie Quintavalle (H) won by disqualification over Ronnie Shackelford.
185. Johnny Grimsley (FC) pinned Wayne Edmondson, 2-48.
195. Philip Gordon (FC) pinned George Allen, 3-17.
Heavyweight: Ronnie Locust (FC) pinned Mike Allen, 1-18.

Jayhawks Post Impressive Win; Maryland Rolls Past Penn State

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

The Kansas Jayhawks looked like a bunch of sick birds in the first three games of the season, according to Coach Ted Owens.

"A lack of execution," was the way he described it. He could find nothing wrong with the way they executed Oral Roberts Thursday night, however.

Playing with a new-found togetherness that Owens applauded from his seat on the bench, the nation's fifth-ranked college basketball team posted an impressive 90-77 decision over the team from Oklahoma.

"I thought we grew as a team tonight," Owens said. "We needed this kind of game. I thought our lack of execution in the first three games was largely due to the fact that we weren't challenged."

For a change, Owens pointed out, everyone made a contribution on the Kansas team.

"I think we had to grow in confidence tonight," he noted. "We played a good team and we were behind a number of times in the game."

The lead changed hands 12 times in the contest before the Jayhawks put the game away with a late rally.

Maryland was the only other ranked team in action Thursday night and the 19th-ranked Terrapins didn't waste the opportunity, beating Penn State 69-61.

Tony Guy, a freshman forward, sparked the Jayhawks' rally with five straight baskets that helped Kansas build a 17-point lead with 3:19 left. Johnny Crawford led the Kansas attack with 23 points.

"We really took it to them tonight," said Crawford. "Instead of us waiting for them to make mistakes, we went out and forced the mistakes; that's one thing that Coach Owens stresses."

Freshman Buck Williams scored 15 points to lead Maryland's balanced attack. Also scoring in double figures for the Terps were Greg Manning with 16 points, Larry Gibson with 14 and Ernest

Tar Heel Top Rookie

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina linebacker Darrell Nicholson broke a three-year tradition of offensive stars with his selection Thursday as the Atlantic Coast Conference football rookie of the year.

In its four-year history, three running backs have laid claim to the award.

Behind Nicholson in the balloting was another linebacker, Bryan Holoman of Virginia. Nicholson received 39 of the 104 votes cast by the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association. Holoman collected 27 and North Carolina quarterback Chuck Sharpe was third with 15.

"Darrell had a great freshman season," said North Carolina Coach Dick Crum, who signed Nicholson as one of his first jobs after taking over the Tar Heels last spring. The Winston-Salem prep standout was widely recruited.

"The great thing about him is that he is going to get better," Crum said. "He has a chance to become a truly great, great college player. He already is a very good one."

Graham with 10.

Elsewhere, Andrew Parker scored 26 points to lead Iowa State over San Jose State 91-73; Wayne McKay's career-high 31 points helped St. John's beat Baylor 83-82; Charles Davis and Mike Rhodes teamed for 55 points to power Vanderbilt over Tennessee Tech 99-78; Ralph Brewster's 15 points led Texas Tech to a 79-67 decision over Colorado State; Trigger Perry scored 24 points to rattle Holy Cross past Boston University 72-66 and Darryl Gladden's 27 points helped La Salle defeat Delaware 102-98.

Also, Navy whipped Lebanon Valley 88-60 behind Kevin Sinnett's 22 points; Lloyd Terry scored 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds as New Orleans whipped Murray State 76-65; Virginia Commonwealth defeated Richmond 84-71 behind a 17-point performance by Ren Watson; Donnie Seale's 14-foot shot with three seconds left in overtime gave Wayland Baptist a 70-68 victory over TCU and Michael Wiley scored 29 points as Long Beach edged Weber State 69-67.

Carew Given Chance To Be A Giant

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Rod Carew, the unhappy seven-time American League batting champion, has a chance to escape from the Minnesota Twins today if he wants to play for the San Francisco Giants.

"It's up to Mr. Carew," said Twins owner Calvin Griffith. Carew has told Griffith he will not sign with Minnesota after the 1979 season, the first baseman's contract option year.

Carew appeared on WCCO-TV in Minneapolis Thursday night and indicated he would wait to see what the Giants had to offer before he made a decision on the trade.

"I didn't want to go to San Francisco," Carew said. "I don't know how it's going to turn out." Carew said he and his agent would meet with Giants' officials today in Minneapolis.

Griffith has no choice but to trade Carew and get some value for one of the game's best hitters, or lose him for nothing in the free-agent re-entry market.

Carew objected to alleged racist remarks made by Griffith in a speech in Waukegan, Minn., proclaiming: "I'll never play for the Twins again." Griffith said the remarks were misinterpreted, but that didn't pacify Carew.

Griffith spent this week at the annual major league winter baseball meeting attempting to oblige his dissatisfied star and came up with a deal with the Giants.

"We are getting three players for Carew," Griffith said after attending a meeting in which baseball owners postponed until January a plan for three divisions in each league and double-tiered playoffs.

The deal between the Twins and Giants, if Carew approves, will send first baseman Mike Ivie, center fielder Larry Henderson and rookie pitcher Phil Nastu to Minnesota. The Twins also may get $400,000, the dollar limit allowed in a trade by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Carew, 33, who has spent his 10-year major league career with the Twins, has the right to approve or disapprove the trade. Carew's agent, Jerry Simon, an attorney and relative of the player's wife, was unavailable for comment.

San Francisco owner Bob Lurie reportedly has offered Carew a five-year contract worth $3.5 million, the same deal Carew was asking from the Twins.

While Carew considered the San Francisco offer, the world champion New York Yankees lurked in the background. The Yankees also bid for Carew, and President Al Rosen said the odds that his team would wind up with baseball's most consistent hitter were about 2-5.

"The Giants and Twins have a deal if Carew approves," Rosen said resignedly, not knowing that Carew had told WCCO listeners the Yankees were not on his list. Carew said he preferred Los Angeles, Kansas City, Milwaukee or Philadelphia over San Francisco, but not New York.

Spec Richardson, general manager of the Giants, also volunteered in reference to Carew. "I think we can sign him."

The trade was the second blockbuster at the otherwise trade-quiet week-long meetings. The Philadelphia Phillies on Tuesday signed free agent Pete Rose to a reported four-year, $3.2 million contract.

In the only other trade Thursday, the Boston Red Sox dealt pitcher Bill Lee to the Montreal Expos for infielder Stan Papi.

Red Sox front office and field manager Don Zimmer, was 10-10 for the Sox last year, but he didn't pitch at all last month of the 1978 season. Lee won 94 games for Boston in eight years, second to the 123 all-time record for Sox lefthanders, held by Mel Parnell.

Papi, 27, batted .230 in 67 games with the Expos last season. He played 22 games at shortstop, 15 at third base and five at second. Lee joins catcher Duffy Dyer, infielder Ken Macha, and first baseman Tony Solaita as additions to the Expos' roster since the end of last season.

The American and National League held their separate and joint meetings Thursday and, as expected, asked for specific television money figures.

precise schedules and discussion with the players before taking any action on the revolutionary proposal to create three division leagues and double-tiered playoffs.

Kuhn said the full 18-man committee would meet on the subject in January. The commissioner said he felt the three divisional concept was feasible but needed further study. Both league presidents reported that the committee on umpires had finalized uniformity on technique. They said the strike zone would be the same. Players have often complained that the strike zone in the National League differed from that in the American League.

"The zone will be from midbreast to mid-knee," said Lee MacPhail, AL president.

John McHale in the National League, and Griffith in the American, were re-elected vice presidents.

while Bennett is a good player, but has a lot of maturing to do.

Walrond is unfamiliar with the Northeastern Conference, except for defending state champion Washington. He said it is "the toughest 3-A conference from top to bottom in all sports in the state."

The Tigers will be rebuilding, and it will take time. "We hope to have a team with a positive attitude and a lot of hustle and desire. By the end of the year, we should be coming around."

well as their court abilities.

At center is senior Victor Rogers (6-4, 175). He is also in his first year and is going to have to learn some moves around the basket, but is a good jumper, Walrond said.

Two sophomores serve as the team's backups right now, although Walrond said he is going to recruit some more players soon. They are Chris Peele (6-3, 160) and Tom Bennett (6-0, 155). Peele's ability is just catching up with his size and he should improve greatly.

Williamston Boys, After Some Problems, Look For Improvement

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

First-year basketball coach Rick Walrond inherited some problems at Williamston. In fact, a couple of weeks ago Walrond wasn't even sure the Tigers would field a team this season.

The problem, according to Walrond, has been discipline. Discipline problems caused Walrond to cut a couple of players before the season began, and some others said they were going to quit in protest.

Things aren't perfect now, but some of the differences have been settled and Walrond is setting in to a rebuilding year with the Tigers.

"We're rebuilding. It's going to be a long year. We're going to have to play a lot of young kids, start from the bottom and work up."

Walrond says conservatism on both offense and defense is part of his philosophy, so discipline is a key for his players. He said he would find players to fit that mold, or not have a team at all.

"We're going to have to build the program from the ground up. I didn't inherit a great deal of talent, which is no reflection on anybody else. It just runs in cycles."

Walrond said the strength of his team should be quickness. "I think our quickness could be a strength. Whether we utilize it or not is another story. It all boils down to whether those guys believe in what I am doing."

Only seven players were left on the roster for last Friday night's game against Ayden-Grifton. One the Tigers won, incidentally. A sophomore, Jim Lilley (6-0, 150), and a senior, Jerome Griffin (5-9, 155), start at the guard spots. Lilley is a very intelligent player, but should actually be playing junior varsity, Walrond said. Griffin is in his first season and is doing a "remarkable" job, considering his inexperience.

Seniors Jimmy Barnes (6-2, 160) and Walter Ham (6-2, 175) will get the nod at the forward positions. They are the team's co-captains and both are being counted on for leadership as well as their court abilities.

At center is senior Victor Rogers (6-4, 175). He is also in his first year and is going to have to learn some moves around the basket, but is a good jumper, Walrond said.

Two sophomores serve as the team's backups right now, although Walrond said he is going to recruit some more players soon. They are Chris Peele (6-3, 160) and Tom Bennett (6-0, 155). Peele's ability is just catching up with his size and he should improve greatly.

while Bennett is a good player, but has a lot of maturing to do.

Walrond is unfamiliar with the Northeastern Conference, except for defending state champion Washington. He said it is "the toughest 3-A conference from top to bottom in all sports in the state."

The Tigers will be rebuilding, and it will take time. "We hope to have a team with a positive attitude and a lot of hustle and desire. By the end of the year, we should be coming around."

TUBA TOO TOUGH

CINCINNATI (AP) — Offensive tackle Vern Holland of the Cincinnati Bengals recalls how he nearly became a musician instead of a football player.

"I went to high school in Sherman, Texas, and the coach invited me out for the team," Holland said. "On my first day, they were crushing me, throwing dirt in my eyes, and giving me a going-over. I wanted no part of it. The next day I went out for the band. I asked to play the clarinet and they handed me a tuba. That's when I went back to football."

WILKESBORO, N.C. — The Indians made good on their promise to beat the Pirates in the first game of the season. The Pirates never led in the first half, and then they were crushed by the Indians in the second half.

After being down by a 10-point deficit at the end of the first half, the Pirates were able to pull the ball never were able to pull the ball...

Finally, Greg Cornelius, who had been held in check by the Pirates, came out and scored 20 points and 11 rebounds in the first half. He was the key to the Indians' victory.

The Pirates' defense was unable to contain the Indians' offense, which was led by Greg Cornelius and Steve Williams. Cornelius scored 20 points and 11 rebounds, while Williams added 15 points and 12 rebounds.

The Pirates' offense was held in check by the Indians' defense, which was led by Steve Williams and Greg Cornelius. Williams scored 15 points and 12 rebounds, while Cornelius added 10 points and 8 rebounds.

The game was a close contest in the first half, but the Pirates were unable to maintain their lead in the second half. The Indians' defense was able to contain the Pirates' offense, and they were able to pull away in the final quarter.

The Pirates' coach, Jim Harrell, said that his team was disappointed in their loss. He said that his team had been out of sync in the second half, and that they had been unable to contain the Indians' offense.

Illegal Clubs Operate Almost Openly In Gaston

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer
GASTONIA, N.C. (AP) — His fingers flying in the subdued light, the dealer turned up his own cards — a king and a 10. In the same motion, he flipped over the player's cards and swept three white chips back into his tray.

With white chips costing $20 each, it was an expensive passtime. The game was blackjack, played openly and with money on the line. A few yards away, a bartender was pouring whisky into paper cups.

The scene was one of the illegal nightclubs that dot Gaston County, offering gambling, liquor and other diversions.

Local authorities say at least seven such establishments have flourished in recent years, drawing on both a local clientele and customers from neighboring Charlotte. On weekend nights, bar closings at 1 a.m. in Charlotte launch auto caravans across the Catawba River to the all-night clubs.

Authorities link the illegal clubs with drug traffic, prostitution and several murders. Efforts to close the clubs, which operate blatantly in this textile-mill city, have met with little success.

"You can't legislate morality. I know that," says the 47-year-old sheriff, who was recently elected to a second term. "But the law is on the books and Romans, Chapter 13, says obey the law."

"These places create anarchy. They're meeting places for drugs, they're good fencing places to get rid of stolen merchandise, we've had six murders directly or indirectly involved with 'em," Waldrep declared.

An Associated Press reporter witnessed some gambling at pool and blackjack. But most of the nearly 200 customers, including a large number of couples, spent their time drinking liquor or beer and dancing to a four-piece rock band in the shimmering glow of light reflected from a silver ball overhead.

The crowd ranged from teenagers in blue jeans to men in three-piece suits and two women in clingy, low-cut gowns.

Regular customers consider such a club a "poor-man's country club."

"There's damn few clubs around here we haven't raided at one time or another," said Sgt. Ralph Miller of the Gaston County Police Department vice squad. "But if we do get into a place and make a buy, it's usually just a misdemeanor."

Since local police are known on sight to club operators, it is difficult for authorities to conduct undercover operations.

In a paradox typical of the problems authorities have had with the clubs, state Alcohol Law Enforcement agents can legally get into any establishment with an alcohol license at any time, unannounced, to check on the place. But they can't do that at the illegal clubs because those places do not have liquor licenses.

Alcohol agents would need a search warrant to get in, they would need evidence of wrongdoing to get a search warrant, and they would have to get inside to get the evidence.

An October raid by alcohol agents produced charges against 10 persons. Charges are still pending against three alleged operators.

Two barmaids were convicted of liquor-law violations and given suspended sentences, but other charges resulting from the raid were dropped because of lack of evidence.

It was those dropped charges that upset Waldrep.

He said he aims to close the clubs, with help from state and perhaps federal authorities, by going after the owners of the buildings housing them.

"I'm not saying the operators and barmaids aren't guilty, they are. But there's no way the owners of these places can't know what's going on in there. The IRS ought to get in on it!" Waldrep hopes state authorities will "add their expertise" and get enough evidence of illegal activities to have the clubs padlocked as public nuisances.

"The way to close them is to hit those owners in the pocketbooks," he said. "If we can padlock those buildings for a year, they can't rent them to anybody for anything, not even a church."

Space Age Toy Sales Booming

By NAOMI KAUFMAN
Associated Press Writer
Many years ago in Kinston, a store owner filled her store with hundreds of dolls just before Christmas.

Her family thought she had lost all her business sense.

But by Christmas Day, the story goes, all the dolls were sold.

That story could apply to many toy store operators this year — when it comes to popular toys, they are selling all they can get.

"They can't make enough of that computer stuff," said William Starnes, owner of the Toy Castle in Charlotte.

"I bet we've gotten 50 calls about one electronic football game," said Herbert Fleishman, owner of Fleishman's Tiny Town in Fayetteville.

And the high price of the electronic and computer games, often more than $25, doesn't seem to be putting a damper on sales.

"As far as I can determine, people are buying toys like they do every year," said Fleishman.

"They're doing what it takes," Starnes commented, adding that about half his customers are using credit cards for purchases.

At K & K Toys in Wilson, manager Tim Wilson said all the electronic games are gone, and he isn't optimistic about Christmas. The same appears to be true for the rest of the state.

As for space toys, Wilson said, "They're going wild over that stuff."

Wilson said business is picking up as it gets closer to Christmas and that buying interest seems good.

Dolls continue to be a favorite, but, the store operators say, not all the popular dolls are in stock.

When asked about Madame Alexander dolls, Larry Gill, manager of Toy Parade in Asheville said his store sold out of them around the first of November.

One big selling doll is called Baby Wet Care, Gill said. Although it may seem improbable, the doll develops a rash. The rash disappears when treated, Gill said.

At Cotton Pickin' Toy Shop in Wilmington, stuffed animals and dolls are popular. Cart Sutter, the manager, said the store caters to younger children's tastes and does not sell computer or electronic games.

"We could sell them if we had them, though," he said. "It's my understanding that you can't find Mattel's electronic football game anywhere in Wilmington."

Fleishman said he believes that toy manufacturers underestimated the demand for higher-priced computer and electronic games.

PWP Plans Elections

Barry Humphries, Coordinator of Personal Growth Education of the Greenville City Schools, will speak to Parents Without Partners Inc. tonight at 7:30 at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

Following Humphries' talk, elections of members of the Board of Directors will be held. All chapter members are urged to attend. Babysitting will be available at 50 cents per family.

Saturday the group will have a December family picnic at Jarvis Church at 4 p. m. The chapter will provide hot dogs and "sloppy joes" and members are asked to bring salads, vegetables and desserts. Family-type parlor games will be played.

Sunday at 1 p. m. at Hillcrest Lanes, the chapter will treat the children of members to bowling. The adults will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. at Peaches for an evening of dancing. PWP members who show a current membership card will be admitted free.

For more information about PWP, one may call 752-4309.

A man apparently acting as a parking lot attendant directed the reporter to "a good spot, where you won't get blocked in, 'cause it'll be packed out here till dawn."

The only way to get into the clubs is to be known by the employees or to be recognized and cleared by a customer already inside.

At the club visited by the reporter, customers wait outside a locked, heavy steel door until an employee opens it from the inside. The door is shut and locked after entry, and customers wait in a foyer until a doorkeeper scrutinizes them and opens yet another locked door for them to get into the club itself.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early hours finds you with excellent judgment about a new interest, but the middle of the day could bring some unsatisfactory situations. Make plans for the weeks ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Go after what you most desire early in the day but take it easy during midday. Consult an expert for advice you need.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Know what your private affairs are and then talk with an adviser who can help you attain them. Be more cheerful in manner.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) The planets are favorable for enjoying yourself with persons you like and admire. Strive for increased happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Keep in close contact with influential persons and let them know of your talents. Take no risks with your reputation.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal day to get out to new places and looking into new outlets. Make plans to have more abundance in the days ahead.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be sure to keep promises that you have neglected of late and gain goodwill of others. Avoid one who is too talkative.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Now you comprehend better what is expected of you by others and can cooperate more with them. Show that you have wisdom.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Attend to routine chores early in the day so you'll have time for recreation later. But don't neglect your marketing.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Engage in those activities that will relieve tensions and clear your thinking. Showing more devotion for your mate is wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Strive for increased harmony in the home. Be sure not to take risks that could lower your income. Be logical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take time to solve those problems that are upsetting your daily routines so that all works well in the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Confer with a trusted adviser who can help you have more abundance in the future. Make the evening a happy one.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be able to study professions and businesses, and know how to improve on them, so be sure to give the finest education you can afford and the success here can be great during lifetime. A fine person in this chart.

The Trend Is To Sitcoms

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — You may find TV no laughing matter, but for better or for worse, you face 26 situation comedies, 10 of them new, when the networks' mid-season schedules start early next year.

A notable feature: The success of "Animal House" has left its mark on the minds of the program gurus. All three networks have collegiate sitcoms on tap for Professor Nielsen's mid-term exams. ABC has an as-yet untitled comedy it is based on "House." NBC has a sorority/fraternity caper, "Brothers and Sisters," while CBS has "Co-Ed Fever" in which a women's college goes coed.

(Wonder if there'll be a graduate series called "Carbon Copy.") ABC has the most sitcoms afoot for mid-season, 12, of which three are new. Next is CBS with 10, four of them newcomers. NBC, though gearing up for a run at top-rated ABC, has but four laughers, three of them new. All four will air Friday nights.

ABC's big comedy nights are on Tuesday and Thursday, each night to offer four sitcoms. You also will detect two more on Fridays, another two on Saturdays.

At CBS, Sunday and Monday are the big sitcom nights, with four airing on each night. Another two will appear Wednesday nights.

Variety won't be the mid-season spice of TV life. Only ABC has a variety series, "The Osmond Family Hour." But Mary Tyler Moore, whose new Sunday variety series flopped, has a variation planned.

CBS calls it "The Mary Tyler Moore Hour" (titles ending in "Hour" may be TV's newest trend). It'll have the comely star doing a situation comedy revolving around a variety show of hers.

No slot is set for it yet, though. If CBS decides to put the show on its mid-season roster, it'll have to bump another series now on the roster to make room for it.

Movies, both made-for-TV and the theatrical kind, will consume 12 hours of prime time each week at mid-season, at the rate of two hours a night per network.

ABC's movie nights are on Sunday and Friday. Those of NBC are on Monday and Tuesday. The latter night is when NBC's film will do Nielsen battle against a CBS flick. CBS also has a Saturday movie planned.

Theater Workshop Offering Pleases

Pleasant surprises are always nice, and one of the most pleasurable I've experienced in a long time was afforded by seeing the Ayden Theater Workshop production of "Dark of the Moon" at Ayden-Grifton High School Thursday night.

Aside from the usual awkwardness of group scenes encountered in amateur productions, the Ayden group gave its audience a delightful evening of theater that a far more professional cast could have taken pride in.

"Dark of the Moon" is an ideal choice for a fledgling theatrical group, rich in a heady mixture of folklore, colorful Appalachian "characters," witchcraft, romance, and fundamentalist religion. The play itself is a refreshing revelation that many of the standard chestnuts in the Samuel French Company's collections of plays have much to challenge a cast and entertain an audience.

Exuberance is the keynote to the contagious joy of this production — but it is a zest wisely held in check by the director, so that the pitfall of performances becoming caricatures of characters is avoided.

Patrick Riggs, a senior at Ayden-Grifton, successfully portrays the duality of John, the Witch Boy, a youth torn between the desire to be a human — and once that is granted — of the longing to return to the unbridled freedom of "riding his dark eagle" into star filled spaces of the firmament.

Rose High student Margaret Cain, in the role of the doomed heroine, Barbara Allen, comes across a shade too wistful for the willful, headstrong young lass she portrays.

It is the supporting players who give the play the ingredients that make it move and spark. William Tyson, a youngish Negro man in the role of Preacher Haggler, is a perfection of a preacher moved to praise the Lord in writhing outbursts of dance and gesture. Helen Hill, as Barbara Allen's mother, is gutsy, tender and puzzled in turn; Mitchell Riggs, as the young Floyd Allen, is a marvel of pre-adolescent impishness. His solo banjo-picking is a jubilant bit that brought him bravos from the surprised audience.

The two glamorous young witches — Dark and Fair — are wonderfully seductive and witty as played by Joellyn Cabral and Beth Bakerman; and Greenville's veteran actress Anita Brehm again proves her versatility as a Mother-Earth type of Conjurer Woman.

The mountain women — Elva Smith as Mrs. Summey, Evelyn Jenkins as Greeny Gorman, Kathryn Dixon as Miss Metcalf, and Tammy Tyson as Miss Lealy, are each trenchant examples of females endowed equally with the capacity to revel in matters sexual and religious. Alexander McLawhorn, is superb as the loose-jointed, bumbling boy Burt Dinwitty; and Marcus Carraway, the big, dumb, unsuccessful suitor of Barbara Allen, is excellent as a budding red neck type.

It is to the credit of all concerned that the play's one shocking scene — the rape of Barbara Allen by her rejected suitor, which takes place in church, urged on by the congregation, is discreetly handled. The rape, they were convinced, was the only means of exorcising the devilish hold that Barbara's witch husband, John, held over her and indirectly, over themselves.

Folk and church music is used liberally to underscore the regionalism of "Dark of the Moon." In addition to the beautiful ballad "Barbara Allen," there are familiar songs such as "In The World's Picture Gallery," "Going Back Home Alone," "The Old Time Religion," and "Amazing Grace."

Joel McLawhorn directed; Doug Mitchell is technical director; and Kim Dale is stage manager for this second venture of The Ayden Theater Workshop. Their ability to mould a diverse cast of non-professionals into players who can achieve the degree of excellence manifest in this production bodes well for the future of the community effort.

The second and final performance of "Dark of the Moon" will take place at Ayden-Grifton High School at 8 p.m. tonight. Try to catch it, it's the best entertainment you'll find anywhere for a single dollar.

Fellowship, Awards To ECU Scholars

ECU News Bureau
Karen Cobb Carroll of Wilson, a graduate student and outstanding scholar, is the recipient of the 1978 Lawrence H. Brewster Fellowship in History at East Carolina University.

Mrs. Carroll, a native of Burlington read a scholarly paper and received a plaque and the $1,000 fellowship at departmental ceremonies honoring students of history for scholarship and leadership in the field. A reception attended by the scholars, faculty members and ECU academic and foundations officials preceded the ceremonies.

Mrs. Carroll's paper was entitled, "Influences Affecting Furniture Production in the Carolinas Before 1800."

Two history majors, Edward Junior Tyer II of Kinston and Joyce Elaine Dunn of Warsaw, were named 1978 Richard Cecil Todd Scholars in History and received plaques and scholarship stipends. The Todd scholarships are derived from proceeds, in multiples of $500, from a fund established by retired ECU history professor Richard C. Todd and his wife, Claudia Pennock Todd. Tyer and Miss Dunn are seniors.

Bradford J. Lingg, Avalon, N.J., was named recipient of the Joseph and Catherine Hirsh Award established by ECU history professor Robert J. Gowen in honor of his parents'.

The Hirsch award is made to the student chosen the outstanding junior majoring in history and is a cash award for purchase of books.

The prestigious Brewster Fellowship was established by retired history professor Lawrence F. Brewster who presented the plaque to Mrs. Carroll.

Mrs. Carroll did her undergraduate work at the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill and received her B.A. degree from North Carolina State University in 1975. She has taught at Greenfield School and in the Wilson public schools.

Dr. and Mrs. Todd, who also attended the ceremonies, established the Todd fund five years ago. This was the first year in which proceeds, in multiples of $500, permitted the choosing of two Todd scholars.

Plaques bearing names of the award winners will be placed in the Department of History offices in Brewster Building at ECU.

Little's Extradition From N.Y. Held Lawful

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A Superior Court judge says Joan Little's extradition from New York was lawful and that she can be tried for any crime in North Carolina courts, including escape.

Judge James Bailey on Thursday dismissed a petition by attorneys for Miss Little, who asked that her escape conviction be set aside and she be released from the state correctional center.

Bailey said the petition by attorney Jerry Paul of Chapel Hill and New York attorney William M. Kunstler is "entirely without merit."

Paul had asked the conviction be set aside on grounds that Wake County Superior Court, where Miss Little was convicted, had no jurisdiction to try her for escape because the escape charge was not brought up during extradition proceedings.

But Bailey disagreed. He said Miss Little pleaded guilty, and "by her plea, she acknowledged the jurisdiction of the Superior Court of North Carolina. She cannot now assert that the Court lacked jurisdiction."

Miss Little escaped from the correctional center on Oct. 15, 1977, and was recaptured in Brooklyn, N.Y., after a high speed chase last December. She was returned to North Carolina last June to continue serving a term for breaking and entering.

In addition, Bailey said he found no validity in Paul's argument that Miss Little's case should be removed from Wake County Superior Court because the court had refused to allow Kunstler, who is not licensed in North Carolina, to appear as her counsel.

Paul said in his petition that Miss Little cannot begin serving her escape sentence until she is either paroled on her 7-to-10-year term for breaking and entering or completes the sentence.

He said she must serve six months of her six-month to two-year escape sentence before she is eligible for parole on that conviction. The escape sentence runs consecutive to the breaking and entering term.

Miss Little received national attention during her widely publicized murder trial in 1975.

The young black woman was acquitted of the icepick slaying of a white jailer in a Beaufort County Jail where she was being held pending an appeal of the breaking and entering conviction.

Promotions For Administrator's Campus Police Role Reviewed

ECU News Bureau
Six security officers in the East Carolina University Campus Police Department have received promotions in rank.

Sgt. Johnny Rose, training officer, and Sgt. Ernest Suggs, technical officer, were promoted to lieutenant.

Four patrol officers also received promotions. They are traffic officer Doc Cannon, key control officer Robert Gilbert and crime prevention officer Lynne Singleton, all of whom were promoted to the rank of sergeant, and assistant training officer Stanley Kittrell, who was promoted to corporal.

Announcement of the promotions was made by Francis Edgings, ECU assistant director of security.

ECU News Bureau
The school administrator's role in creating a stimulating learning climate for students of all economic, racial and ethnic backgrounds was discussed by Dr. Clinton Downing of the East Carolina University School of Education at a recent meeting in Philadelphia.

Dr. Downing was one of two principal speakers at the 1978 Eastern Pennsylvania Workshop for Secondary School Administrators, sponsored by the University of Pittsburgh's Race Desegregation Center.

His presentation, "Student Activities in a Desegregated Setting," summarized research on changes in development and structure of student activities during the past decade.

Answer to yesterday's puzzle.

Nixon And Old Friends Gather In Washington

HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hail, hail, the old gang was here when Richard Nixon came to call. It was the biggest gathering of Nixon loyalists since they all wept together at his farewell from the White House.

Few of the really big names of the Nixon era were at the party Thursday night. Haldeman and Mitchell are still in prison. Ehrlichman hasn't sounded too friendly lately. Next to Nixon's, the most recognizable face was that of Rose Mary Woods, the most faithful of them all.

It wasn't a formal affair; Nixon described it as "a meeting of a number of old friends, many of whom I haven't seen in four years." The applause he got was evidence that, indeed, these were friends.

when his wife is Christmas shopping. And to reporters, he said he wanted to take the occasion to wish the nation "the very best for the season" and "a happy, prosperous and — most importantly — a peaceful New Year."

It was the former president's second return to Washington since he bade his tearful, emotional goodbye as president in the East Room on Aug. 9, 1974. He was back briefly last January for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's funeral.

Waiting for Nixon at the Mayflower Hotel — less than a mile from that East Room — were Herb Stein, the economist, and Pat Buchanan, the speechwriter; Rose Woods, the confidential secretary, and Max Friedersdorf, the congressional liaison.

Only one of the 25 men who served prison terms as a result of Watergate was there: Former appointments secretary Dwight Chapin, looking heavier and more prosperous — his eight months jail time long behind him.

No hoos from the members of the February Group, an informal association of Nixon and Ford White House staff members who meet every three months or so to have a drink together and reminisce.

Nixon had been in New York, recently returned from a 7-day trip to France and Britain, and decided at the last minute to accept the organization's standing invitation.

It's called the February Group because on Feb. 10, 1975, 18 people got together over drinks and decided to meet again occasionally. At least that's the explanation by founder W. Dewey Clower.

To the crowd of more than 200, Nixon joked that "it's always good to get out of town"

Services will be held at 11 a.m. Sunday, with dinner at 2 p.m. At 3 p.m., the Rev. E. D. Bryant and his congregation from Warren Chapel F. W. B. Church, Chocowinity will be in charge of services. The Rev. J. B. Taylor, pastor, invites the public to attend.

Asks Site OK For PCB-Dump

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt has asked the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to approve a site in Chatham County for disposal of tons of soil contaminated with the toxic chemical PCB.

Hunt wrote John C. White, the EPA's regional administrator in Atlanta, asking for a prompt decision on an application for permission to use the six-acre site near Pittsboro for dumping of the soil.

State officials are planning to scrape up the contaminated material from the shoulders of more than 200 miles or highways in the state where oil laced with PCBs (polychlorinated biphenyls) was sprayed last summer.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF

Declarer cashed the king of spades, then the ace of clubs. Now he simply began to run his diamonds. East realized that it would be futile to ruff—he would win the queen of trumps, but then he would be forced to either lead a spade, allowing declarer to discard his losing heart while ruffing in dummy, or lead a heart into dummy's major tenace.

Instead of ruffing, East discarded two spades and a heart on the diamonds. However, he was simply delaying the inevitable. Declarer knew what he was doing. After running the diamonds, he simply exited with a club, giving East the lead at a time when the defender did not relish it.

East was left with a Hobson's choice of losing alternatives. Being a scholar and a gentleman, he simply threw his hand in and conceded the slam to declarer.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠.

Despite the fact that he misguessed trumps and that a key card was badly placed, South found a way to bring home his slam on this deal from a rubber bridge game.

Once South had opened the bidding with one club, the North hand became very powerful. Over three spades, South chose to show his spade stopper rather than introduce his second suit, but North could not be slowed down. He pressed on to an excellent slam that was endangered only by the 3-0 trump split.

West led the ace of spades and declarer ruffed in dummy. He led a low trump to the king—an unfortunate choice, for now it developed that he had a certain trump loser. It seemed that the fate of the contract hinged on the heart finesse, but one glance at the diagram suffices to show that, had declarer relied on that chance, he would have been defeated.

Fortunately, South was an accomplished technician. A 50 percent chance was not good enough for him. He showed that the contract was makeable without having to resort to a finesse.

Holiday Gasoline Prices Going Higher

By The Associated Press
 Holiday travellers can expect to pay more — a lot more — for gas this Christmas.
 A recent survey by the Carolina Motor Club shows the price for regular gas at a full service station ranges in cities surveyed showed average prices ranging from 66.4 cents per gallon in Greensboro to 70.6 cents per gallon in Rocky Mount.
 And, a spokesman for the club said, prices at the pumps will be going up even higher.
 "Most (service stations) anticipate higher prices — and very quickly," said Quentin Anderson, the spokesman.

 The motor club is a state group affiliated with the American Automobile Association. It has member clubs in most North Carolina cities.
 "Unlike previous years, prices didn't level off or dip after Labor Day," Anderson said. "Consumption is up 2 to 4 percent nationwide."

Last year, the price of full service regular gas averaged 62 cents for a gallon of regular and 67 cents for premium. Although the official averages haven't been computed yet, the average from the recent survey appears to be more than 68 cents for regular and about 74 cents for premium — an increase of at least six cents per gallon.

 For unleaded gas, this year's full service average price is a little more than 71 cents per gallon. Last year's figures were not available.
 Prices for self-service gas were four or more cents per gallon cheaper. Prices ranged from a low of 59.9 cents per gallon for regular in Greensboro to 64.5 cents for a gallon of customer-pumped gas in Rocky Mount.

For premium, prices ranged from 68.2 in Greensboro to 72.6 in Rocky Mount for self-service. The unleaded self-service low price was 64.1 in Wilmington to 69.2 in Rocky Mount.

The club asked operators of 104 service stations in nine cities for their prices for the survey, Anderson said. The operators were also asked about shortages, and Anderson said only one operator said he feared coming up short. Many said they anticipated that petroleum refiners would be producing enough gas to meet the demand but that the price would be up.
 "In the immediate future, it will be a matter of a few pennies," Anderson said.

 The club also reported that the cost of owning a car has increased. It said the driver of an intermediate-size car in the southeast could expect to pay $1,940, or 19.4 cents per mile for driving 10,000 miles a year. The estimate takes into account fixed and variable costs.
 Fixed costs include depreciation, taxes and insurance. Variable costs are those for gasoline, tires and other maintenance items. Anderson said the owner's cost increase has been highest in the Southeast and blamed rising fuel and insurance prices.

Party Given For Sunshine Girls

Operation Sunshine girls were guests of a Christmas party given by the Gamma Sigma Sigma sorority Thursday afternoon at Newtown Center.
 The program included a visit by Santa and distribution of gifts for the children, refreshments, caroling, and the telling of the story of the first Christmas.
 The Sunshine girls are planning a visit to the Pitt Memorial Hospital pediatrics ward before Christmas, and bringing gifts for the young patients.

Cannot Assign On Racial Basis

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — J. Phil Carlton, the secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety, says the Highway Patrol cannot assign troopers to any county purely on the basis of race.
 Carlton said Thursday that assigning troopers to a county on the basis of race would violate Title VI of the Civil Rights Act, which makes it unlawful to hire, refuse to hire or fire anyone because of race.
 His response was to a request by the Indian Affairs Commission. It was seeking to have highway patrolmen assigned to Robeson County reflect that county's racial composition.

Referendum Set By High Point

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — The High Point City Council voted Thursday to set a mixed drink referendum for Feb. 9.
 The city of Greensboro will also hold its referendum that day.
 The February date was chosen by the Graham City Council for a liquor-by-the-drink vote earlier in the week.
 A referendum will be held that day for Alamance County, and Burlington voters will also decide the issue at that time.

JROTC Units Plan Activities

The D. H. Conley JROTC Rangers are training for a "war" against the North Pitt chapter Dec. 15-17.
 An aerial assault has been scheduled for Jan. 13-14 between D. H. Conley and Farmville Central.
 The rangers, commanded by Maj. Donald Haislip, are training in skilled areas such as rappelling, traversing, night fighting, marksmanship and interrogation.
