Israel's Cabinet Is Pondering Parleys

By ARTHUR MAX
Associated Press Writer

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel's Cabinet was meeting in special session today to discuss resuming the stalled talks with Egypt after President Anwar Sadat accused radical Arabs of helping the Israelis "abort" Mideast peace.

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan briefed Prime Minister Menachem Begin Monday on his discussions with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil in Brussels, Belgium over the weekend.

Dayan gave no details but said he would recommend the Cabinet approve the Brussels framework for resuming the talks, which broke down in mid-November over Egypt's demand for a timetable linking Palestinian autonomy to the treaty worked out at Camp David.

The newspaper Maariv said Khalil also suggested in Brussels that Israel's military administration in the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip be replaced with a "Palestinian government," going beyond the autonomous local councils approved at Camp David.

Sadat and Begin agreed at Camp David to sign a peace treaty Dec. 17 ending 30 years of war, but in a taped TV interview marking his 60th birthday Monday the Egyptian leader accused Begin of wanting to extend "Israel's territory to the river Euphrates in the east and the river Nile in the southwest."

Sadat vowed "never to permit conditions to return to the phase of no peace-no war in the region," and put the blame for the stalemate in the peace talks on radical Arabs who reject all negotiations with Israel.

"...I can't help wondering, when we managed to push Israel into the tight corner of peace, we were surprised to see some Arb regimes trying to refuel Israel's intransigence and give it reason to procrastinate and pursue expansionist dreams," he said.

Sadat said some Arab leaders still use "outdated, spurious slogans of 'throw Israel into the sea, no negotiations and no peace with Israel' when they are fully aware that this will never be done."

Sadat said, "What we really want is normal relations between Israel and the Arbs. Without this there can never be any peace. This includes a formal termination of the state of war, exchange of diplomatic relations, cultural and economic ties and open borders."

Like Santa Clauses In Reverse, Thieves Slip In Through A Skylight

By DAVID N. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Like Santa Clauses in reverse, thieves slipped through a skylight in the roof of the M.H. de Young Memorial Museum and made off with a million-dollar Rembrandt and three other Dutch Renaissance paintings.

Rembrandt's "Portrait of The Rabbi," and the other 17th century paintings were taken sometime before dawn Christmas Day while a pair of security guards patrolled elsewhere in the one-story city museum, officials said.

Police speculated that at least two thieves took part in the burglary.

Museum director Ian White said the pieces "were not insured individually, but were self-insured by the city. That means the city stands behind the loss. But I don't know how that works — we're never had to collect on a loss like this."

He said there was no indication that a ransom demand is involved.

The 83-year-old museum is next in line to house the King Tut exhibit when it leaves New York in June. White said major security modifications were being made for that exhibit, but declined to say if they included skylight alarms or more guards.

Two of the paintings were in one room and two in another. Each was taken in its frame. Several other works, including Rembrandt's "Portrait of Juris De Caullery," were removed from the wall but were not taken, apparently because they were too big for the skylight.

The thefts were discovered about 9 a.m. when the guards changed shifts at the popular museum in Golden Gate Park, which is open every day of the year from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

White said a piece of the outer skylight was removed and a 600-pound walnut chest placed underneath in the museum, perhaps for use as a ladder. He said the museum has burglar alarms, but not at the skylight or behind individual paintings.

Museum officials said the other stolen paintings were a night river scene by Aert Van der Neer, valued at $2,000; a harbor scene by Willem Van der Velde, worth $5,000; and an interior of a Rotterdam church by Anthonie Delorme, valued at $55,000.

The museum was bequeathed to the city by M.H. de Young, founder of the San Francisco Chronicle.

SORRY FOR US — Eugene Ionesco, one of the world's greatest living playwrights, says in an article published Monday in the Paris daily Le Figaro, that the United States is "masochistic" because Americans blame themselves "for all that is wrong with the world" He said that on a recent trip he found 'Anti-American Americans" obsessed with guilt about such things as Vietnam, Indian rights, and Watergate." Disorders Spread In Iran; Oil Output Sharply Down

By THOMAS KENT
Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Police and army troops clashed with anti-shah demonstrators in more than 20 places in the Iranian capital today as demonstrators set fire to at least two dozen vehicles and paralyzed the downtown business district, martial law authorities said.

The authorities said the rioting appeared to be the biggest in three months, and that troops responded by firing into the air and lobbing tear gas at the crowds. Reporers said one instance of heavy shooting lasted at least 20 minutes and that troops were out in force.

Martial law authorities said they had no reports of casualties in the clashes, and spokesmen for the anti-shah opposition said they were still collecting their own statistics.

Authorities said groups of demonstrators reached 1,000 people in some areas. Office workers gathered at windows to shower leaflets into the streets supporting Ayatullah Khomaini, the shah's leading religious opgonent, and some of them pelted soldiers below with rocks.

At least 300 troops sealed off Amir Abad Hospital, where spokesmen for the opposition National Front had planned to hold a rally. The troops pushed away people who came to attend the rally as police helicopters hovered overhead.

The disorders broke out as Iraf's oil supplies headed toward critically low levels and informed sources reported that Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi had agreed in principle to trim his power but not meet opposition demands he step down.

Some Tehran gas stations ran out of fuel today and government sources said almost no gasoline may be available within 24 hours if production continues declining. They said supplies of kerosene for public sale also were short, as well as fuel oil for public utilities.

The sources said Iranian oil production was down to a daily rate of 900,000 barrels, compared to 1.7 million barrels Monday. Normal daily production in Iran is 6 million barrels, with 5.4 million usually exported. Some 20 percent of Iran's oil exports goes to Western Europe and 15 to 18 percent to the United States.

The sources said more than 70 oil tankers were lying at anchor off the main export terminal of Khargh Island, unable to load up with oil because of limited supplies. Available oil in the country is being directed almost entirely into domestic needs, the sources said.

Summit Is Postponed

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President Carter is ending his downhome Christmas holiday after acknowledging that a hoped-for summit meeting with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev will be postponed.

The president, nevertheless, continues to be optimistic about achieving a strategic arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union as well as Middle East peace settlement.

Carter told reporters Christmas Day that both he and Secretary of State Cyrus Vance remain optimistic that the complexities delaying a SALT treaty with Russia and a treaty between Israel and Egypt will be overcome.

The first family flies back to Washington today, but the president will continue his vacation at Camp David, the presidential retreat in the mountains of Maryland.

Carter has been taking it easy after a painful flareup of hemorrhoids last week and passed up an afternoon of quail hunting, saying that bouncing around on a jeep over rough roads and fields might prove too much.

Instead, he and first lady Rosalynn Carter went fishing in a pond at a farm the president owns. The results were good. The Carters took in 25 or more bream, known elsewhere in the country as bluegills or sunfish.

The Carters celebrated the rituals of Christmas with their children and other close relatives and the president reported receiving many books, a jogging outfit to use when his recuperation is more complete and a small camera similar to the one he used on his raft trip last summer on Idaho's Salmon River.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

BUMPS FEEDBACK

On Oct. 12, Hotline quoted a spokesman for the N. C. Division of Highways as saying the bumps in the pavement of the 264 Bypass near Pitt Plaza would be smoothed out as soon as the weather was cooler. He explained that a heaterplaner was to be used and, out of consideration for the workers, the work was being delayed till cooler weather.

Hotline asked again this past week why the work hasn't been completed. We were told that the local Division office is seeking to cooperate with other divisions of the state in retaining the services of a private contractor to use a grinder on the bumps that is more efficient than the heater-planer. If this cannot be arranged soon, however, he said, the heater-planer will be used, as the work very much needs to be completed.

TOLL-FREE NUMBER

Some time ago, we had a request for a toll-free number for use in subscription problems with The Reader's Digest. We checked with WATS information at the time and were told there was no such listing, so we conveyed this information to our reader. We recently had dealings with The Reader's Digest, however, and were given this number, which may be helpful to others of our readers: 800-431-1246.

Replica Burns

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A replica of the Wrights' Flyer was destroyed Monday night in a fire that totaled a Charlotte warehouse.

The plane was owned by the Charlotte Aircraft Corp. and had been shipped to Kitty Hawk earlier in the year for filming of a commercial for a television production, "The Winds of Kitty Hawk."

The company purchased the replica of Orville and Wilbur Wright's Flyer on the West Coast in 1974. A spokesman said the plane was being stored in the warehouse while company officials were negotiating a sale with several prospective buyers, and said a $50,000 purchase price had been discussed.

The company had also talked with local officials about the possibility of putting the plane on exhibit in Charlotte.

Deadly Lights

By the Associated Press

Christmas trees, symbols of the holiday season, were responsible for nearly a third of the 50 fire deaths that occurred during the holiday weekend.

A short-circuit in a string of Christmas tree lights apparently touched off a New Orleans blaze on Christmas Eve in which five children of Ida Perkins and three of her grandchildren were killed. She escaped with two other children. The victims ranged in age from 1 to 18.

In Dallas, a family of four — the parents, an infant, and an older child — died Christmas morning in a fire blamed on faulty Christmas tree lights. The charred bodies of the parents and an infant were huddled near the front door of their wood-frame home.

Avers Five Tar Heels In Bootlegging Ring

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Five men from Davidson, Forsyth and Surry counties are involved in an East Coast ring that has manufactured and sold bootleg stereo tapes and records, an undercover FBI agent said in an affidavit filed with a federal magistrate earlier this month.

Agent Robert B. Levey said in the affidavit the men duplicated and sold recordings by several performers — including the Bee Gees, Linda Ronstadt and Chicago — without the consent of their recording companies. Unauthorized reproduction of recorded material violates national copyright laws.

Named in the affadavit filed with federal magistrate Russell Eliason were Owen T. Morton of Midway, D.C. Houston of Mount Airy, Randall W. Bryant of White Plains and Richard S. Webster and Benny M. Church, both of Rural Hall. Also named was Roger Swain, whose address could not be obtained.

The FBI submitted the affadavit in order to obtain search warrants for H&W Supply, a Midway business owned by Horton, and for Bryant's home. The searches were carried out Dec. 6 and evidence receipts listed numerous pieces of sophisticated recording equipment as having been taken from Bryant's residence. Photographic negatives suitable for reproducing the cover of a record album and several baskets of business files were seized from H&W Supply, according to he receipts.

Officials declined to estimate the worth of the sezied property.

The searches were among 18 carried out by FBI agents in North Carolina, Georgia, Connecticut, New Jersey and New York in connection with investigations of alleged bootleg tape operations.

FBI officials estimated that tapes and equipment worth as much as $100 million were seized.

No criminal charges have been filed to date in connection with any of the raids, according to John H. Jacobs, executive assistant of the organized crime strike force in the Eastern District of New York. He said evidence will be presented to a grand jury in New York some time in the near future.

Gather Sanity Evidence In Suspected Killings

DES PLAINES, Ill. (AP) — Police gathered evidence aimed at proving the sanity of a convicted sex offender, while investigators continued a search that has already unearthed five skeletons at the man's home.

Investigators planned to resume digging today at the suburban home of John Gacy after a two-day break for the Christmas holidays.

Gacy, 36, is being held without bond on a charge of murder in the death of a teen-age boy. The remains of five bodies were found at his home Friday and Saturday. The bodies have not been identified.

Papers seized from the home include records of Gacy's contracting business, pornographic material and Democratic campaign literature, investigators for State's Attorney Bernard Carey said.

The investigators said business cards indicated Gacy may have been a Democratic precinct captain. A spokesman for the Cook County state's attorney's office said prosecutors will cite the Democratic campaign work in trying to show Gacy's rationality. The spokesman said Gacy's attorneys are likely to enter a defense of insanity.

"We will determine for certain whether Gacy was a precinct captain, and if he was, we will use that fact as part of a long chain of evidence showing that Gacy is a rational human being," the spokesman said.

Twice divorced, Gacy had lived in the house for six years, the last two years alone. He served a prison term in Iowa for sodomy and was paroled in 1971.

He is charged with killing Robert J. Piest, 15, of Des Plaines. The youth was reported missing Dec. 11. Investigators said Gacy told them he threw Piest's body and the bodies of four other youths into the Des Plaines R[illegible] have been found in the river.

Bridegroom's Dad Heard Vows

Miss Sandra Denise Barnes and Andre Lee Perry, both of Greenville, were married Saturday at 1 p.m. at Holly Hill Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Joseph N. Perry officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Barnes of Rt. 4, Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Joseph N. Perry of Rt. 4, Greenville.

The chancel of the church was decorated with a brass 15-branch candelabra, flanked by baskets filled with white chrysanthemums, white gladioli, red carnations and white cushion pom pons. The couple lighted the unity candelabra during the ceremony. Honor pews were marked with Christmas red bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length gown of white imported chantilly lace over white peau de soie, designed with a high ruffled neckline of cluny lace with a trim of silk Venise lace. The empire bodice was styled with a sheer yoke of organza overlaid with appliques of silk Venise lace and outlined in ruffled cluny lace. The lantern sleeves of lace and organza featured cuffs of cluny lace and a trim of miniature silk floral lace with scattered lace appliques. The attached chapel length train was enhanced by tiers of ruffled organza edged in cluny lace and outlined in ruffled lace. The bride selected a fingertip length veil of illusion edged in cluny lace, held in place by a Camelot cap. She carried a bouquet of red roses, white cushion pom pons, greenery and baby's breath, tied with white bridal lace and streamers.

Matron of honor was Sally Cogdell of Greenville, with Lula Barnes of Greenville, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lisa and Vickie Barnes of Greenville, sisters of the bride, Dorothy Tripp of Bethel, cousin of the bride, Cheryle Davis of Baltimore, Md., cousin of the bride, and Michell Crandle of Greenville, cousin of the bridegroom. Sheila Perry of Greenville served as flower girl. Katina Tyson of Greenville served as train bearer.

The honor attendants carried white chrysanthemum arm bouquets, accented with baby's breath and Christmas red ribbon. The bridesmaids carried identical arrangements tied with green ribbon. The flower girl carried a white wicker basket filled with red and white cushion pom pons, red carnations and holly tied with red and white ribbon.

Ernest Brown of Alexandria, Va., uncle of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers included James Tripp of Bethel, William Barnes, brother of the bride, Ray Wooten, Ervin Hooks, uncle of the bride, Donald Hunter, all of Greenville, cousin of the bridegroom, William Gorham of Falkland, uncle of the bridegroom, and David Godley of Greenville. Charles Monte Hooks of Greenville served as ring bearer.

The mothers of the bridal couple selected white carnation corsages. Grandmothers of the couple were remembered with white carnation corsages.

Jasper Suggs, organist, provided a program of nuptial music.

A reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Tyson of Greenville, given by the parents and relatives of the bride. The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth over organdy, centered with a mixed arrangement of daisies, baby's breath and various flowers.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride attended Winston-Salem State University. She is presently employed by Rose's Department Store. The bridegroom attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. He is employed by Lowe's.

Cooking Is Fun

In many families Christmas isn't Christmas without popcorn balls on the tree and sweet, crunchy, homemade popcorn candy to munch. Well, it was bound to come. This year, the year of the health-food snack, there's a recipe for the popcorn candy sprinkled with granola-style "natural" cereal ready to go the rounds.

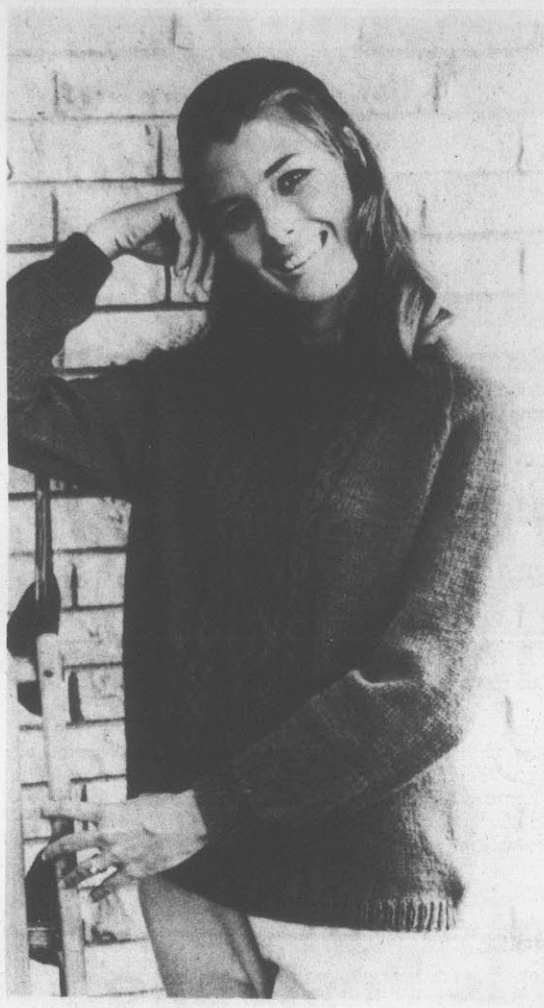

POPCORN CRUNCH

1 cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
3 cups popped popcorn
½ cup granola-style "natural" ready-to-eat cereal

In a heavy 3-quart saucepan over low heat, melt the butter; off heat, stir in the sugar. Return to low heat and cook, stirring constantly, until sugar dissolves and the mixture reaches a full boil. Stir in the water and the corn syrup; continue cooking and stirring over low heat until the mixture reaches 270 degrees on a candy thermometer or a teaspoonful of the syrup dropped into a large bowl of very cold water separates into threads that are hard but not brittle — the soft crack stage. Remove from heat and stir in the popped popcorn. At once spread the mixture over a buttered 15 by 10 by 1-inch jellyroll pan and immediately sprinkle with the cereal. Cool until hard; break into large pieces. Makes about 1 pound.

CLASSIC RAGLAN PULLOVER. . .features cable panels against a stockinette stitch background.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

It was a mistake, but I had to try.

I bought my husband one of those sexy mood lights for Christmas.

It was like buying Lady Godiva a pocket comb. He didn't know what to do with it.

He opened the package, stared at it, picked it up, shook it, and finally said, "I give up. What is it?"

"It's a mood light. You've seen those commercials, haven't you, of the couple who whisper, 'When we feel peaceful and serene, we turn on our WAVE light.' And you see this container of water on a seesaw that flows gently back and forth . . . back and forth . . ."

"I never saw it," he said.

"When they feel devil-may-care and sparkling they turn on their GEM lite with an illumination of sparkling crystals that moves up and down. And this, of course, is the LAVA light."

"Which is supposed to do what?"

"Turn you on."

"To what?"

"To me."

"It looks like an underwater Rorschach test."

"It's too late for us, isn't it? We're beyond help."

"That depends. What do you want it to do for us?"

"Wouldn't you want to bring back the wonderful, exciting, unbridled passion of our younger years?" I said.

"How much energy does it take?"

"You have to get out of your chair first."

"Not me! The lamp!"

"Just forget it," I said, sulking.

"You're sore, aren't you?" he said. "Look, I didn't know it meant so much to you. We'll turn it on and give it a chance to do the same thing."

We set the lamp on the TV set and both of us focused intently on it for nearly ten minutes.

"Anything?" I asked.

He smiled wickedly. "Do you know what those little particles of block moving ever so slowly in that subtle light remind me of?"

I shook my head.

"Anchovies."

"I would have said sausage with maybe just a hint of sage."

"How about . . . pepperoni?" he whispered.

"How about EVERYTHING!"

He bounded out of his chair and dialed the number at the pizza parlor. I turned off the mood light. Until they made one that delivered, we'd rely on our own resources.

Deeply sculptured cable panels are set against a stockinette stitch background in this handsome, classic, raglan pullover, designed to be made in knitting worsted weight yarn.

Easy-to-follow directions for sizes 34 to 40 are written without the usual abbreviations. The size denotes the finished chest measurements in inches; that is, size 40 has a finished chest measurement of 40 inches.

To obtain directions for knitting the cabled pullover, send your request for Leaflet No. N-29 with 60 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector", P.O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or, you may order Kit. No. KN-29 by sending check or money order for $9.50 for sizes 34 and 36 or $11.50 for sizes 38 and 40 to Pat Trexler at the same address. The kit contains the instruction leaflet plus 4-ply Wintuk yarn in your choice of the following colors: ecru, medium blue, kelly green, cherry pink, faded denim, dark gold, scarlet or persimmon (light orange). Price includes shipping charges.

DEAR PAT: Can you give some tips for joining seams on knitted garments? I am never sure how to do this and my hit-or-miss attempts usually look sloppy. — SALLY H., CINCINNATI.

DEAR SALLY: I prefer to use a weaving stitch for long straight seams and a crocheted slip stitch or a backstitch for setting in sleeves and for other shaped or curved edges.

To weave a straight seam, you lay the two pieces to be joined, right side up, with edges touching one another. Thread a tapestry (blunt pointed) needle with yarn. If your yarn is thick, separate the strands for a finer sewing thread.

Insert the needle through the center of the first stitch on the knitted piece to your right and draw the yarn up through the stitch above it. Then, insert the needle through the center of the first stitch of the piece on your left and draw the yarn up through the stitch above it. After the first set of stitches is completed, repeat the same process, but pass under two rows of knitting each time.

Just be sure that you don't pull the yarn too tight, for you want your seam to have the same elasticity as your knitting. If you do this weaving in

Hold Motorist For Killing 6 In Speeding, Careening Car

NEW YORK (AP) — Sylvia Soto and her 18-year-old daughter Patricia stopped to put on their boots and hats before following the other six family members and friends out the door into a wind-whipped downpour.

The delay in leaving the Christmas Eve party may have saved their lives.

The other six — huddled under a couple of umbrellas to escape the driving rain — were crossing the street when a rusty tan station wagon emerged and bowled them over like tenpins.

"My baby! My baby! Take it from the car," screamed Mrs. Soto when she saw the lifeless body of her 3-year-old daughter, not far from the bodies of her husband of 18 years, her son and three of the family's friends.

The bodies were strewn about on two blocks of Brooklyn's New Utrecht Avenue. Police estimated the car had been going "at least 60 mph" when it hit the group.

Police arrested a 24-year-old auto mechanic and charged him with drunken driving and criminally negligent homicide in connection with the hit-and-run.

Mrs. Soto sat numb and trembling in a police car after the accident.

EDUARDO COBAR
Questioned

"When I came in the street, I saw my daughter lying there and I started screaming," she said. "Then I looked for my son, and I saw everyone was dead."

Antonio Soto, a 36-year-old shoemaker, his son, Boanerges David, 13, and daughter, Xyomara, 3, left the party at 2:30 a.m.

Also in the group were Carlos Molina, 19, a high school senior, Jose Lopez Marmol, 17, of Los Angeles, and Rigoberto Mejia, 16, a friend of the Sotos. Molina and Lopez Marmol were cousins; both families had recently arrived from San Salvador.

It was a five-block walk from the party to the Soto home. As the six crossed under a subway platform, a car careemed toward them and cut them down.

"There were bodies all over the roadway," said Robert I. Karp, who was at the scene. "They were all knocked out of their shoes; a guy's foot was torn off; the little girl was decapitated; there was a Mickey Mouse doll on the ground. It was a really horrible scene, I'm telling you.

"The cops said the guy ran them down, drove around the corner, parked the car — the front was all smashed in and the passenger's window was shattered — and walked upstairs like nothing had happened.

"When they brought the guy downstairs, he said, 'What's going on here. I don't know anything.' Then the cops pulled him away from the press."

"You see this in war," said Police Officer Leonard Spector, who with other officers discovered a 1970 gold Chevrolet stationwagon two blocks from the scene of the accident.

The car's hood and grille were smashed and splattered with blood and bits of flesh and bone, police said.

Arrested was Eduardo Cobar, brother-in-law of the owner of the car. In addition to criminally negligent homicide and drunken driving, he was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and speeding.

Social Policies To Be Bishops' Topic

By ISAAC LEVI
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church's position on burning social, political and economic issues in Latin America will be the main topic of the bishops' conference Pope John Paul II will attend next month.

Over 250 bishops will join the pontiff at Puebla, 90 miles south of Mexico City, on Jan. 27 to discuss the role of the church in the present and future of the region where 300 million of the world's 700 million Roman Catholics live.

The late Pope Paul VI inaugurated a similar conclave in Medellin, Colombia in 1968 that put the church on a dramatic new course in Latin America.

The bishops broke the traditional alliance with governments and the ruling class — a legacy of the continent's Spanish and Portuguese colonization. Instead, they made it the duty of the clergy to help Roman Catholics struggle against poverty and social injustice.

"Before Medellin the church looked out only for the church. Now the church looks out for the people," said Genaro Maria Gonzalez, a Mexican who has been writing on church affairs for 40 years.

The doctrine adopted at Medellin paved the way for churchmen to take an almost revolutionary role as defender of the poor and the politically or socially oppressed.

The religious revolution has led some of Latin America's more conservative prelates to complain the clergy is neglecting its primary task of preaching of the gospel.

At Puebla the bishops will attempt to chart a course between those among them who insist the fight against oppression should take precedence, and those who feel it should go hand-in-hand with preaching and a return to greater emphasis on spiritual values.

The announcement Friday that Pope John Paul will attend put a new light on the conference and his presence may heat up the arguments between the two religious camps.

Long Flight Due To Fog

LOS ANGELES (AP) — More than 300 passengers on a British Airways plane were supposed to fly from London to Los Angeles, arriving well before Christmas Eve. But they barely made it for Christmas Day dinner.

The odyssey of Flight 283 began at Heathrow Airport when the plane, scheduled to leave at 2:55 p.m. London time Friday, was delayed for more than seven hours "due to fog everywhere," according to a reservations clerk who asked anonymity.

The DC-10 finally got clearance and arrived in New York late Saturday. Because the plane had to be restocked and refueled, passengers ended up staying overnight, he said.

About 6:50 p.m. PST Sunday, the fligh got into Los Angeles air space, but "fog, fog and more fog" forced the plane to divert to San Francisco, the clerk said.

Once again, passengers had to be put up for the night. On Christmas morning, the airplane headed for Los Angeles and at 12:15 p.m. — more than 42 hours later than scheduled — it touched down at Los Angeles International Airport.

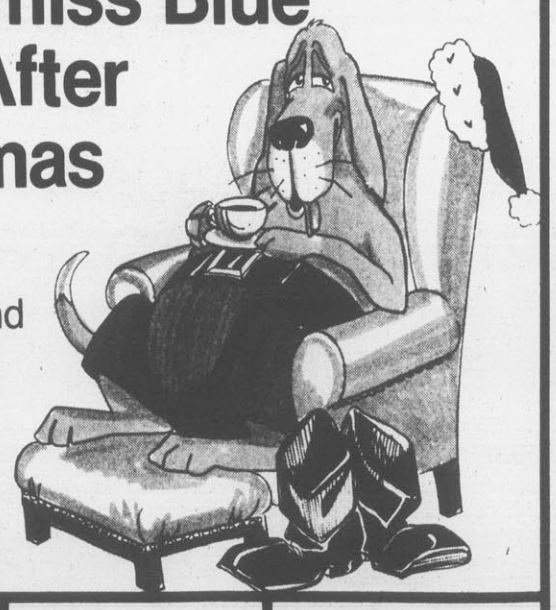

More Powerful Warhead Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — General Electric Co. has been awarded a $91.9 million contract by the Air Force for production of a new nuclear warhead twice as powerful as the one now on Minuteman III missiles.

The new warhead, the Mark 12-A, would unleash the equivalent explosive power of 350,000 tons of TNT. The Minuteman III carries three warheads, which can be aimed at widely separated targets.

Lesson From Past Experience

As the year draws to an end, ECU officials are wrestling with the problem of high bids for construction of the new medical school building.

Bids were taken on Dec. 13, and, when they were totalled up, they were found to be $8.91 million over the $25 million budget.

The higher-than-expected bids are an indication of how inflation is affecting new construction. The $25 million was thought to be adequate for the structure only a few years ago. Costs have risen rapidly, however, so that the planned building cannot now be built for the proposed amount.

Authorities are now studying the bids to determine if changes can be made so that the project can be awarded to contractors. There are really only two alternatives: reject the bids and try again, or find ways to meet the cost and let the contracts.

Previous experience has shown in these inflationary times that calling for new bids on a project only results in still higher costs.

Given the reality that a delay of the project will result in higher costs, we would hope that additional funding can be found and money saving modifications made so that contracts can be awarded for this important project.

Count On It; End Is Not In Sight

The "Golden Girls" of Boise, Idaho Capital High School, can keep their name, but if a Department of Health, Education and Welfare regional office had had its way that wouldn't be the case.

It took action by HEW Sec. Joseph A. Califano to overturn the ruling. And yet, those who spent government time and taxpayers money on such silliness will still be around to perpetrate similar useless rulings.

"But-but, I didn't think you'd do it so hard-d-d-d!"

Dams Hold Firm In N.C.

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The shock headlines from across the nation are familiar: dambursts, earthslides, quakes, floods.

Quietly and without news media attention North Carolina during the past 20 years has been unfolding a much quieter story.

Back in 1958, something new was launched in the Tar Heel state — the small watershed program.

One of the most visible aspects of this federal effort has been construction of large earthen dams to protect people and their property from floodwaters. This year marks the 20th anniversary of this program.

And during those 20 years not a single dam built under the program has washed out or had other serious problems. Over the 20 years, 56 of the dams — plus a large dike stretching nearly three miles near Lumberton — have been built in all parts of North Carolina.

All Right

In all cases the structures have lived up to expectations, says Jesse L. Hicks of Raleigh, head of the Soil Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. "We can credit high engineering standards for this record. These flood protection structures are designed by the Soil Conservation Service and are built under supervision of our professional employees", Hicks explains.

North Carolina has not been without problem weather during these 20 years; from hurricanes along the coast to mountain downpours. "The state has had severe weather during the period. And while we have had flooding and other problems our watershed projects have done the job for which they were planned without exception," Hicks said.

At present, three flood protection dams are under construction and another planned near Monroe as local interest in the program continues at a high level.

BILL NOBLITT

Dams are not the only aspect of watershed projects according to Conservation Engineer Robert G. Jessup. "When we're considering a program of protection, land treatment is the first possibility that we consider. Such conservation techniques as cover crops, grass field borders, tree plantings, contour planting and grassed waterways are considered before we even think of structural measures."

Structural projects including dams, channel modivications (such as clearing and snagging to improve water flow through established courses) are used only as a last resort. Dams are mostly used in Piedmont and Mountain sections.

Water

Watershed projects are normally created when local people have a simple problem — too much water without control. This can happen in agricultural areas (the Conetoe Creek in Edgecombe), or urban (the Crabtree program in Wake and Durham). Soil Conservation planning and design grants are available while local sponsors are responsible for obtaining land rights. Each watershed agreement commits the local sponsor to maintenance standards after completion.

The lakes — some quite large — behind the dams are used for sediment control, water supply, fishing, boating, swimming, etc.

The Decent American

WASHINGTON — The most decent man in America's public life came ambling into a dining room at the Sheraton Park one day last week, filling the doorway with his bulk and filling our hearts with his sheer good nature. Who could ever stay mad at Jerry Ford?

The former president had come to have breakfast with a few old-timers in the press corps. It wasn't much of a crowd — Hamilton Jordan or Jody Powell would have rolled out 20 reporters more — but Mr. Ford is no longer much of a source for news. He was preceded by a couple of Secret Service men, as ferociously silent as a pair of those ornamental China dogs that guard the doorways of Peking, but otherwise no trace of presidential aura could be perceived. When the press conference began, everyone was on his best behavior; the questions went to "Mr. President." By the time the conference ended, our senior reporter was thanking Jerry for dropping by.

He was just plain Jerry when he took over the Oval Office toward the end of the dreadful summer, and he was just plain Jerry when he left the office nearly two years ago. Few presidents, I suspect, have been so little affected by the pomp and panoply of power. Even Harry Truman, who entered the White House a humble man, emerged with the strut of a Rhode Island rooster. The presidency changes all men who hold it, and doubtless the presidency changed Jerry Ford — but it didn't change him much.

The first questions had to do with how Mr. Carter and his aides had handled the economy. "They've blown it," said Mr. Ford. "It's been a disaster." His normally ruddy face turned a little ruddier. "Their own uncertainties and mistakes have produced a crisis." He had the figures to prove it — his record on inflation compared to their record on inflation. The measures of performance would make him look pretty good.

"How about measuring your records on unemployment?" a pesky reporter asked. Mr Ford had some figures here, too. Yes, there were more people umemployed then than now, but his administration had taken a calculated risk of higher unemployment in order to fight the worse social evil of inflation. Mr. Carter was facing the same hard choice.

What would Mr. Ford do now? Well, said the former president affably, he'd do just about what Mr. Carter is doing now: He would impose a policy of stern fiscal restraint, and he would stick absolutely to the goal of holding the budget deficit for 1980 under $30 billion. "That's the key," he said, tapping a forefinger on the table for emphasis. "If he loses that, it's down the drain."

The talk drifted off to foreign affairs. The morning papers had led with a story leaked from the State Department on a high-level report urging that Mr. Carter dump the shah of Iran and try to gain a civilian government in his place. Mr. Ford knew a deliberate leak when he saw one. The story would have a "devastating impact" upon the beleaguered shah, and he was sorry to see it. For his own part, he supported the shah "absolutely.',

We turned to politics, and to the ritual sparring matches required by the rules of the game. As for his own presidential plans, Mr. Ford

Share Season Spirit

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Perhaps getting into the spirit of the season, a legislative panel has made some decisions that will come as good news for several highly select groups.

It's a tax break for people such as gypsies. And mule traders. And phrenologists.

Amazingly, North Carolina law still requires licenses and levies taxes — often steep — on people in those and a long list of other, equally antiquated trades and practices.

State government profits little from the license taxes. Often, say Revenue Department officials, the cost of collecting the ones they can are higher than the fees themselves.

And in many cases, such as with gypsies and newspaper dealers on trains, nobody has paid the tax since anyone can remember.

"These things are just old," says Paul Stock, a staff lawyer for the panel that has proposed the revisions. "Many date back to the post-Civil War era, the 1860's and 1870's."

That's why the Legislative Research Commission and its revenue laws study committee passed on to the General Assembly last week a bulky report recommending 45 separate pieces of legislation revising the tax laws.

"Many of these are clean-up kind of things. This is one of the oldest sources of revenue the state has, and there's no need to leave some of these things on the books," said Larry Rogers, state director of license taxes.

The recommendation that caught the headlines was a rewrite of the general inheritance tax law, sure to be controversial next year. But it was discovery of the ancient state laws that had legislators and observers chuckling.

One, taxing "automatic machines," used the terms "frigidaires" and "kelvinators."

Among the others:

THE INSIDE REPORT

Expert Ires Congressmen

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Marshall Shulman, the State Department's Soviet expert, has angered congressmen by advising them not to worry about Soviet influence in Iran because, he argues, Marxism and Islam will never mix.

Since there is clear evidence to the contrary in other Moslem states, Shulman's briefings have angered some of the shrewdest students of the political turmoil in Iran. Despite all the obvious contradictions between Marxism and Islam, Soviet influence managed deep penetrations into the Egypt of Gamal Abdel Nasser, a near takeover of power that would never have been possible without quiet help from the right-wing Moslem brotherhood

In Libya, Soviet influence is still pervasive although the Libyan strongman, Col. Muammar Qaddafi, is probably the world's purest Moslem leader. Administration officials other than Shulman believe that Soviet influence is definitely on the rise not only in Iran's major cities but also in its 55,000 villages. They see gradual enhancement, with Soviet power keeping a low profile at least through the possible second stage of the current turmoil: the shah's loss of control and succession.

Only after that second cycle has run its course, according to the anti-Shulman line, will Soviet influence surface with all its dangers for the West's access to Iranian oil.

Waxman's Bucks

In an ingenious use of the new campaign funding law that permits political action committees (PACs) to collect and disburse campaign money, two-term Democratic Rep. Henry Waxman of California contributed at least $21,000 to help members of the House Commerce Committee in their 1978 election campaigns.

What makes those contributions especially interesting is Waxman's candidacy to take over the panel's health subcommittee, which had been led by the now retired Rep. Paul Rogers of Florida. Under House reform laws, subcommittee chairmen are elected by members of the full committee.

Accordingly, Waxman's contributions of $1,000 to $4,000 to each of 11 members of the full committee seems aimed at soliciting their support for the health subcommittee chairmanship — an unexpected and probably unique use of a political action committee.

Originally designed as a vehicle for corporate contributions, the PACs have been set up by politicians to help finance their presidential campaigns or contribute to officeseekers. Now Waxman has turned this into a device to gain the chairmanship of the powerful health subcommittee at a time health legislation is paramount.

Ford & China

Gerald R. Ford's old cabinet members are still scratching their heads over their former chief's enthusiastic endorsement of recognizing Communist China scarcely one day after he gave them exactly the opposite impression.

The Ford cabinet and White House senior staff held one of its periodic meetings in Washington Dec. 14, presided over by the former president. After a review of bleak economic prospects, Ford turned to his former national security adviser-retired Lt. Gen. Brent Scowcroft for a briefing on international affairs. Ford expressed hope the foreign outlook would be more favorable, but Scowcroft shot back: "Mr. President, you've just had the good news."

True to his word, Scowcroft detailed a gloomy global picture, particularly in the U.S.-Soviet power balance. He then predicted that President Carter would press for relations with

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

We are among a group of people that are disgusted with the tremendous amount of over-commercialization existing on television stations. Ten years ago we would see about three spots every 20 minutes. Now, it must be about 40 spots. We watched a noon news program recently, not network. By actual count, 18 of the 30 minutes were commercial spots.

People do not have to listen to this and put up with it. We have public tv in our area. This is a station on Channel 25, UHF, in Farmville. They are listed in the phone book here in Greenville. For only $3 a year, they will send you a complete year's schedule. They have no commercials on their programs.

So far as we are concerned, commercial TV has about ruined itself with its terrible amount of over-commercialization. It is a good argument for nationalizing TV.

The organization that backs radio and TV is the National Association of Broadcasters. Doubtless, they think that 29 out of the 30 minutes should be commercial!

Television stations use huge amounts of power. Why do they need to be on such long hours? To reduce this amount of wasted energy, I would think that operating hours of 8 a. m. to 11 p. m. would be sufficient.

Write to local advertisers and tell them that their messages are lost among so many other messages. So many spots become just a blur.

The Federal Communications Commission should be able to control this nuisance, but it is better to contact the advertisers. The free speech provision in the First Amendment has been so twisted around by broadcast interests that they scream that their rights are being violated if the government tries to do anything about their program content.

IMPORTANCE OF CREEDS

There is an old saying common among Christians of past generations, "Deeds must be rooted in creeds." Of course, sometimes it was expressed differently, that creeds must be rooted in deeds, or that creeds must be judged by the fruit of the deeds. There is certainly some truth in these qualifying statements, but at the same time, if our conduct is to be consistently upright and pleasing to God, it must be rooted in religious faith.

The churches of this country keep our moral life wholesome, and no other influence or combination of influences in our national life, could take the place of the church in reaching this objective. The church sets forth creeds, and on the basis of these creeds, preaches and tries to promote morality.

Whatever our creed might be, it is important, because it is the basis for action. And all of us have creeds even though these might not conform to generally accepted theological propositions.

The Fundamentals Of Survival

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Because inflation will continue in 1979, perhaps accompanied by a recession, almost anyone can benefit from reviewing some of the fundamentals of survival in an unstable economic society.

Best known of these is the maxim that money borrowed during times of inflation is paid back in cheaper dollars. Almost everyone has heard it. Millions practice it; the debt statistics document it.

There is little reason to quibble with the concept. It is true: so long as inflation persists, the buying power of money decreases. The 1967 dollar now gets you 50 cents worth of goods and services.

But be concerned about the application. Millions of Americans are now heavily in debt for cars, appliances, homes and the like. Installment debt consumes about 16 percent of takehome pay, close to a record. What happens to the ability to repay during a recession? A recession that, should it come, would undoubtedly result in rising unemployment, and almost certainly in a slowing of personal income growth.

The message for 1979, therefore, is to be wary of overloading oneself with debt. Again, it is true that you might repay in cheaper dollars. But any sensible person must also ask in 1979: Will I be able to repay?

Two other inflation maxims also should be reviewed in the interests of common sense and financial security.

The first: You cannot win by saving money at interest rates less than the inflation rate. Second: You can save by spending. There is truth in both assertions. For 1979, there could be danger also.

During this current year, many holders of bank or savings association passbook accounts actually lost money. They earned interest, but at a maximum of 5.25 percent. Inflation raged at about 7.25 percent.

The net effect, of course, was a 2 perent loss of buying power on such savings accounts, a perfect example of how inflation distorts incentives and rewards. Better, it was said, to spend rather save.

By spending, the individual in effect decides to ride with inflation rather than battle it. Because of inflation, the purchased item rises in price. It's happened with houses, used cars and certain other items.

Many people have actively practiced this tactic, and you don't have to search hard for the evidence. Cars sales have boomed. The homebuying market now includes singles and two-home owners. Art objects are in.

But will it all continue? The year 1979 could be a watershed, marking te turn toward more stable economics and values. By 1980, prices could be stabilizing, some even falling, rather than rising relentlessly.

If that condition comes to pass, the rewards will go to those with cash. True, they might have lost money on those savings accounts, but as stability returns they have the money to buy.

mainland China but added he could see no useful purpose in that for the U.S. This seemed to be the consensus of everybody around the table — including Jerry Ford.

Accordingly, all present were perplexed by Ford's unqualified support for Carter's sudden move the next day, Dec. 15, shifting recognition from Taipei to Peking.

A footnote: Ronald Reagan's advisers are recommending that he not agree to a plea from conservative Republican senators promising to restore relations with the Nationalist regime on Taiwan if elected president.

Non-Liberal Cohen

Sen.-elect William Cohen of Maine, who as a congressman was the first Republican member of the House Judiciary Committee to advocate impeachment of Richard Nixon, is being incorrectly put into a liberal pigeonhole.

For instance, the White House — without contacting Cohen — lists him in the "leaning favorable" column on the forthcoming strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT II) with the Soviet Union. Wrong. Cohen is undecided, and if he leans at all it is slightly to the "unfavorable" side.

Similarly, Cohen has been counted as a sure vote for moderate Sen. John Heinz of Pennsylvania in the hot race for Senate Republican campaign committee chairman. Wrong again. Cohen is undecided and personally prefers Heinz's opponent, conservative Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah. However, he worries about some of Hatch's right-wing allies, who opposed Cohen for the Senate.

—Phrenology. In case you can't remember, that's the obscure practice of projecting one's intelligence on the basis of his skull's shape and size. Phrenologists have to buy a $200 license for every county they practice in.

—Shoeshine Parlors. At a dollar per stool, the state received $619 from this tax last year, not enough to make it worth collecting.

—Gypsies. "Every company of gypsies or strolling band of persons living in wagons, tents or otherwise," and who tell fortunes or trade "things of value," needs a license. It costs $500 for every county they travel in, and Stock said it was once aimed at regulating — or practically prohibiting — such people.

—News dealers on trains. The tax ranges up to $1,000, depending on how long the train line is. Railroad companies are exempt and with passenger trains nearly extinct in North Carolina, no taxes have been collected lately.

—Cotton compresses. The tax is $300 a compress, if you use them. What is a cotton compress?

"That's the problem with these things," said Stock. "Nobody knows what in the hell some of them are."

The list goes on, and the committee would repeal license taxes for traveling theatrical companies, tose selling patent rights, horse and mule dealers, newspaper sales contests, sellers of "certain oils," and official seals.

The changes would raise a few taxes too, such as on barber shops and beauty parlors. The committee found that tax brought in $11,453 last year, but cost more than that to collect.

If all the changes are made, Stock figures the state will lose only about $10,000 in revenue.

"On most of them," he said, "there just isn't any such beast anymore."

wouldn't say yes and he wouldn't say no. He really had not had time to think about 1980, but he could tell us this: The odds were heavy that he would not get involved in the New Hampshire primary early in 1980. He would become a candidate only if he were certain he could do something constructive for his country and his party. He didn't have any "insatiable, scheming ambition" to be president again. It was the old baloney.

After a while, Mr. Ford lit his pipe. He kidded about his golf game. He talked about his family. The questions began to run down and finally they ran all the way out. Nobody badgers Jerry Ford. It would be like badgering the Christmas mother.

They say that nice guys finish last. That's where he finished in 1976, and at this distance there's little to suggest he would do much better in 1980. But Jerry Ford has the satisfaction of knowing that virtually no one in Washington ever says a really mean thing about him. Is there another politician who can make the same claim?

First F-16 To Join AF Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first Air Force F-16 fighter will join a combat unit Jan. 6. The $10 million jet will be turned over to the 388th Tactical Fighter Wing at Hill Air Force Base, Utah.

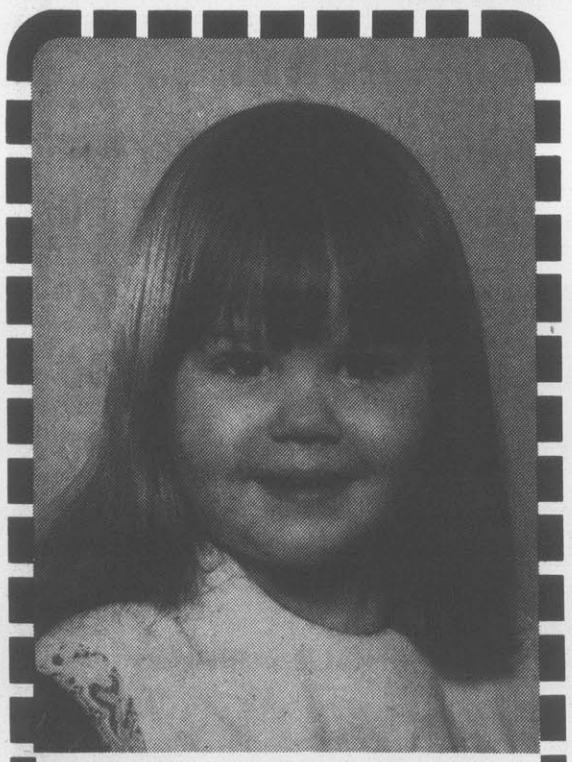

Eventually, the Air Force plans to buy 1,388 F-16s for its own squadrons, officials said Friday. In addition, Belgium, Denmark, the Netherlands, Norway, Israel and Iran will buy the airplanes, which are designed for air-to-air combat and for attack against ground targets.

CETA Program In N.C. Has Had Deep Problems

By WILLIAM M. WELCH

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) – The federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, plagued nationally by waste and abuse, has not escaped problems in North Carolina and is currently bedeviled here by accounting failures.

But state officials say North Carolina's CETA programs, which annually receive $200 million in federal grants, are on the road to recovery and have some proven accomplishments.

"Obviously, we're going to be in right good shape when you compare us to the programs nationally," says Howard Lee, secretary of Natural Resources and Community Development, the state department which oversees CETA programs. "I think we've run a good program."

For examples, Lee and other state officials point to a program that hired 577 teachers' aides in public schools last year. This year, 92 per cent of them were transferred to the state payroll under a primary grade reading program financed by the General Assembly.

Other North Carolina programs pay for artists, poets and musicians to work and teach in a number of small towns; train women to re-enter the job market; help marine archeologists find artifacts and train women for construction jobs.

But the North Carolina programs have had deep management problems, prompting Lee in August to order a massive audit of local spending in the program as far back as 1974, replace the state CETA director and move fiscal control directly under his office.

"How many people did we train last year? How many stayed on permanent jobs. How many are back on the street again?" Lee remarked to a reporter last summer. "I can't tell you that and it seems to me that we ought to be able to."

The internal audit is half complete now, Lee said, and separate reviews are being prepared by the state Labor Department and state auditor.

Lee still can't do more than guess at how many people have been trained or given jobs. But so far 95 percent of the "questionable costs," or possible abuses, have been satisfactorily resolved, he said.

"What we're finding is that there is not a whole lot of abuse," Lee said in an interview last week. "Mainly the problems are errors in bookkeeping."

CETA programs are operated in 86 of North Carolina's 100 counties, and Lee says sloppy local operations have often been the fault of the federal government. It tried to do too much too fast, he said, and began the massive programs without any practical management training for the local people who ran them.

"It's unfortunate that there was a lack of understanding of rules and regulations," he said. "Most of our problems have come from the lack of guidance from the federal government."

One local CETA program that drew criticism was in Wake County, where ROOTS — for Reaching Open Opportunities Toward Success — paid 14 and 15-year-olds $68.90 a week to attend school for 26 hours a week in the summer.

It drew fire from local citizens because many of the kids wanted to work, not go to school. But the Wake County program was praised nationally as one of the Southeast's most innovative programs.

And in a snafu at the state level, energy department officials blamed CETA and the U.S. Labor Department for failing to cooperate and thus dooming a program to insulate the homes of poor. More than $100,000 worth of insulation is backed up in North Carolina warehouses as a result.

Abuses Riddle CETA System

By LEE MITGANG
Associated Press Writer

The federal job and training system known as CETA, which has spent $37 billion since 1973 to help the nation's unemployed, is squandering hundreds of millions of dollars annually through slipshod management and fraud.

CETA's economic impact is unquestionable: in the recent period of high jobless rates, CETA jobs reduced U.S. unemployment — currently 5.8 percent — by about 1 percent, according to administration estimates. It has trained or put to work more than 10 million people in the past five years.

But a two-month study by The Associated Press reveals a system so riddled with abuse that even Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, who runs the program, has no idea of the total stolen or wasted.

"I do have a very strong sense that fraud and abuse in the program has not been as pervasive as publicity has indicated. But I don't know that. It's very important for us to find that out," he said in a recent interview.

The abuse runs a remarkable gamut. Thousands of CETA workers don't qualify for the program, but they get money anyway. Millions of CETA dollars go down the drain because of thievery or mismanagement. Nepotism has cropped up in dozens of cities, including Pontiac, Mich., Springfield, Mass., and Great Falls, Mont. Political patronage has marred CETA systems in Los Angeles, Seattle, Chicago, among many.

Fraud and abuse have undercut CETA's impact, and deep budget cuts are threatened in 1979. Marshall must grapple with budget officials who want to cut in half CETA's public service program of 660,000 job slots. He says he has assurances from President Carter that "the main contours of the system will essentially be the same."

To improve CETA's position, the Department of Labor has launched a well-publicized campaign to root out abuse.

A Labor Department audit, obtained by The AP through the Freedom of Information Act, estimates that more than 11 percent of CETA's public service jobholders were "either ineligible or there was insufficient information available to allow determination of their eligibility."

The audit estimates that between $389 million and $842 million is being wasted on ineligible CETA jobholders.

Millions more are being misspent because local governments — New York City, Boston and Minneapolis, for example — use federal jobs money to pay regular city employee salaries rather than to create jobs for the hard-core unemployed. Studies estimate that this drains between 16 percent to 35 percent of all CETA hirings.

To combat the problem, Labor has a staff of 250 auditors and investigators — a tiny force by Washington standards.

Hardly a week goes by without new revelations somewhere among the nation's 475 locally-administered CETA programs.

Early this month, the District of Columbia was told to reimburse the federal government for 34 CETA salaries illegally paid to city council employees, which reportedly may cost the city $250,000. In November, a CETA supervisor in Fargo, N.D. was indicted for doctoring payrolls and receiving kickbacks from CETA employees. A CETA subcontractor in Seattle was charged with writing "ghost checks" to nonexistent people and double billing of charges to several agencies.

The acting inspector general of the Labor Department, Rocco DeMarco, said in a recent interview that his Office of Special Investigations has resulted in 25 persons indicted for CETA fraud in Atlanta, Miami, Harlingen, Texas, Indianapolis, Oklahoma and Ohio; 14 have been convicted. A total of 150 investigations are underway nationwide.

Scores of audits and program assessments obtained by the AP show that CETA fraud gets a big assist from inept or nonexistent bookkeeping and sloppy management among many of the cities, counties, states — the so-called prime sponsors — that administer the federally funded program, and from the approximately 25,000 subcontractors who also run local CETA programs.

The Labor Department's 1978 evaluation of the 475 prime sponsors shows that 51 have "serious problems" managing and accounting for funds and meeting CETA's goals and 224 with "problems identified." Only 200 — mostly smaller programs — got good reports.

The best big-city programs, like one in Milwaukee, prove the CETA system can achieve its goals — relatively free of abuse.

But, most CETA adminstrators agree the 1977 doubling of the public service jobs program is partly to blame for mismanagement. The program was increased from 300,000 jobs to 725,000 jobs by the Carter administration to help stimulate the economy and controls.

Some CETA administrations are simply inept.

According to Labor Department evaluations, Bridgeport, Conn., "lacked any basis for internal management," Springfield, Mass., exhibited "repeated violations of CETA regulations," including nepotism and fraud. Nassau County, N.Y.'s management was judged "extremely poor."

Labor officials admit that Washington hasn't done enough to address mismanagement.

"Our role in Washington under CETA was to be benevolent deliverers of technical service to prime sponsors. But we don't have any experts in this. We've never done it before," says Bob Jones who heads the Labor Department's community employment programs.

Despite the degree of local abuse, Labor time and time again has failed to penalize prime sponsors who mishandle CETA funds.

Labor's ultimate weapon is to take control of CETA away from a local sponsor. Marshall insisted in the interview that he wouldn't hesitate to use the weapon, but local administrators view it as an empty threat. East St. Louis, Ill., with corruption too pervasive to ignore, is the only prime sponsor ever to lose its CETA charter.

Organizing 4-H Teams Thursday

Organizational meetings for the Pitt County 4-H Livestock Judging Team and the 4-H Horse Bowl Team will be held Thursday, Dec. 28, at the Agricultural Extension office, 203 W. Third St.

The livestock team will meet at 1:30 p.m., followed by the Horse Bowl Team at 2:30 p.m.

According to Mike Regans, associate agricultural extension agent, both livestock judging and Horse Bowl competition are projects which do not require ownership of an animal and provide the opportunity to learn more about livestock and horses.

Regans noted that both activities do require time and effort, but can be rewarding experiences. Youths between the ages of nine and 19 are eligible to participate.

For more information, call Mike Regans at the Agricultural Extension office, 758-1196.

Accidents Marred Holidays For Some

A Christmas Day collision, two Christmas Eve mishaps, and a Saturday wreck, resulted in an estimated $9,900 property damage, Greenville Police Department investigators reported.

Officers said vehicles driven by Gregory Lawson Jones of Clarksville, Va., and Johnny Benjamin Denton of Route 1, Selma, collided about 1:40 a.m. yesterday on Memorial Drive, 1,600 feet North of the Chestmut Street intersection, resulting in an estimated $3,000 damage to the Jones car and $1,500 damage to the truck driven by Denton.

An estimated $1,500 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 5:45 p.m. collision Saturday on Memorial Drive, 100 feet South of the Millbrook Street intersection.

Police identified the drivers involved as Henry Maryland Williams Jr. of 2608 Dunn St., and William Henry Joyner Jr. of Route 1, Ayden.

An estimated $800 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 1:45 p.m. Sunday collision at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Elm Street.

Investigators listed drivers of the vehicles involved as Charles Ferguson Harper of Route 3, Greenville, and Merrell Glenn Jones of Route 2, Grifton.

Officers reported cars driven by Ellen Jones Harrell of Route 4, Greenville and Willie Augusta Jenkins of Route 1, Bethel collided about 8:10 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of Sixth Street and Memorial Drive, resulting in an estimated $300 damage to the Harrell car and $500 damage to the Jenkins vehicle.

Aliens Required To File Their Reports

ATLANTA, GA. — Tyrus E. Minnix, district director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service here, urges all aliens who have not yet filled out alien adddress report forms to do so before Jan. 31 at the nearest Immigration and Naturalization Service office of local Post Office.

According to Minnix, the law requires all non-citizens, except persons in diplomatic status, foreign representatives to certain international organizations, such as the United Nations and aliens here temporarily as agricultural contract laborers, to report their addresses to the government each January.

Minnix added that the parent or legal guardian of an alien child under age 14 must fill out the alien address form for him or her as well.

"We have tried to make it as convenient as possible for non-citizens to meet the report requirements," said Minnix, who noted that serious penalties are in order for those who do not comply with the law.

Minnix stated that the forms may be obtained from the Post Office or an Immigration and Naturalization office. Any non-citizen who is ill may send a friend or relative to obtain the form and return it to the office after completion.

Pat's Pointers...

the edge stitches, your seam will be perfectly flat with no bulk.

Some people, however, have a problem with their edge stitches being loose and "loopy." If you have this problem, I would suggest that you take the weaving stitches in one stitch from the edge. Your seam will have a little ridge on the wrong side but the more important right side will look better.

In making the crocheted slip stitch seam, the two pieces are pinned with right sides facing each other. Many readers have suggested using plastic picks that are for use with hair rollers instead of sewing pins. This is an excellent idea, for their blunt points do not split the yarn, and they are more easily removed than pins.

Join a ball of yarn and, with a crochet hook, pull up a loop of yarn through both thicknesses. Insert the hook through the row of stitches above and draw through another loop of yarn. You will now have two loops on the hook. Draw the loop nearest the hook end through the other loop on the hook, completing one slip stitch. Repeat this procedure until your seam is complete.

As you know, the cap of a sleeve usually has squared edges where bind-offs were made. Unless you round off these edges, you cannot achieve a smooth, even appearance. Use contrasting color yarn to outline the correct curve of the sleeve cap. This will be your stitching line.

Shoulders, too, often have stair-step edges where bind-offs were made. Work your slip-stitches or back-stitches along a straight slanting line and not along the exact edges.

In next week's column, I'll discuss an alternate method for joining shoulder seams.

Because of the large volume of mail she receives, Pat is unable to answer your letters personally. However, she welcomes all questions and hints, and will use those of general interest in the column whenever possible.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, losing the momentum of last week's rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up nearly 21 points in the four sessions before the Christmas holiday, dropped back 1.21 to 807.26 by noontime today.

Gainers held a 7-5 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

News that the consumer price index rose 0.5 percent in November, for its smallest increase since July, helped give the market a lift late last week. But today some analysts were warning that any easing in the pace of inflation would probably prove to be only temporary.

And the latest increase in the prime lending rate, as expected, began to spread in the banking industry.

Several banks across the country raised their basic rates on blue-chip loans from 11½ to 11¾ percent, following a similar action last week by New York's Chemical Bank.

Burlington Industries led the active list, up ⅛ at 17. A 260,500-share block traded at that price.

International Business Machines climbed ¾ to 295¾ in active trading. The stock stood at 271 a week ago, before the company announced a dividend increase and plans for a 4-for-1 stock split.

The NYSE's composite index rose .08 to 53.83, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was unchanged at 150.85.

Volume on the Big Board came to 9.15 million shares as of noontime.

See Rise In Tetanus Toll

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — An increase in the incidence of deadly tetanus in North Carolina has been recorded by the epidemiology section of the Department of Human Resources.

Of the six reported cases so far in 1978, four of the victims died. Since 1975, the state has recorded 14 tetanus cases and seven deaths from the disease, commonly known as lockjaw.

In the period 1956-1975, North Carolina had 147 cases of tetanus and 103 deaths for a case-fatality ratio of 70 percent.

"Tetanus fatalities are agerelated," according to Dr. J.N. MacCormack, director of the epidemiology section. "During the 1956-75 period, 55 cases were in the 20-59 age group with 69 percent mortality; 55 were 60 and over with 84 mortality."

MacCormack said women face more of a risk of contracting the disease than men "because of the male's greater involvement in the military where the use of tetanus vaccine is routine."

As well as one of the most painful and deadly diseases, MacCormack said tetanus is costly to treat. For the 1978 cases, the average cost per patient was more than $7,000 and one totaled more than $35,000.

The recommended schedule for the administration of the tetanus vaccine calls for four injections beginning at two months of age and ending at 18 months. Boosters shots every 10 years are encouraged.

Had A Quiet Christmas

The Christmas holiday weekend went by smoothly as no problems were reported to the Greenville Utilities Commission.

"It's been one of the quietest Christmases we've had, to my knowledge," said Malcolm Green from the GUC.

A spokesman for the Greenville Public Works Department reported that things were going "beautifully" as sanitation workers picked up garbage, trash and container routes for Monday on Tuesday, making up for the lost day.

The Water Department of the GUC stated that no measurable rain fell Saturday, with .075 inches falling Sunday. The river was measured at 4.4 feet Tuesday on the national scale, compared to the 3.6 reading Monday.

'Glycerin' Label Part Of Story

LITTLE COMPTON, R.I. (UPI) — The brown quart bottle sitting on the shelf looked innocent enough.

When Joseph and Anne Vouchard bought their house 16 years ago, they saw the bottle marked "Glycerin" on the basement workbench and ignored it.

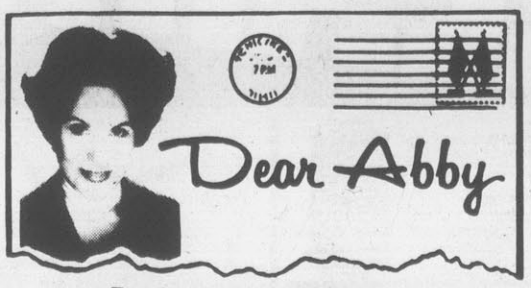

Then last week Bouchard casually mentioned it to fellow volunteer firemen. They suggested it might be explosive nitroglycerin. State fire marshals agreed.

They carried it outside and detonated it. The result was a deafening boom and a hole in the pavement.

Deputy Marshal William McVey said the 20 ounces of nitroglycerin was enough to the blow the Bouchard's house off its foundation.

HOUSE DESTROYED — Eastern Pines firemen were called to this house in the Cox Crossing section about 7:05 p.m. Saturday. Fire Chief Lyman Hardee reported the small frame dwelling was a total loss. Hardee said it took firemen about 10 minutes to knock down the blaze, adding that firefighters were at the scene for about two hours because even after the blaze was knocked down, heavy smoke hampered mop-up efforts. Hardee, who said the elderly couple living in the home were not injured, theorized the fire started from a television set in the livingroom. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter was married recently in an all-white church wedding, one of the most beautiful ever held in this town. It was a dream come true. To say she looked like an angel is not just a mother's pride. I can't described the joy that was in her father's heart and mine.

When the newlyweds returned from their honeymoon, they calmly told us to expect a grandchild in about four or five months! That means our daughter was at least three months pregnant when she walked down the aisle. She must have known it at the time. How could she have done this to us? We loved this child more than life itself.

HURT AND DISAPPOINTED

DEAR HURT: The real test of love is to love our children when they need our love the most. It's easy to love them when they do everything right and make us proud of their accomplishments. But when they disappoint us (as children sometimes do) we can demonstrate our love by showing compassion, understanding, and forgiveness. Try it. You'll have fewer regrets.

DEAR ABBY: I don't go along with your advice to quietly wash the sheets and say nothing to a 7-year-old child who continues to wet the bed when doctors can find nothing wrong.

I cured my 8-year-old son of constant bed-wetting by making him sleep in a diaper every night. If the diaper was wet, I hung it out on the line where all his friends could see it. That cured him fast!

MISSOURI MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: I object to your type of "cure." Humiliating a child creates resentment which can be far more damaging to the parent-child relationship than bed-wetting.

P.S. Another writer wrote that she "cured" her daughter of bed-wetting by forcing her to sleep on the bare bed springs! I think such "cures" for bed-wetting are clearly child abuse.

DEAR ABBY: What can I do about a husband and father of three boys who refuses to use a deodorant? He claims that the odor of perspiration is "masculine" and only sissies and women use underarm deodorants. You can imagine the imbarrassment he causes the boys and me.

He works in a factory and plays softball every evening. To make matters worse, he now refuses to bathe daily. He bathes only once a week, and sometime it's two weeks between baths! He claims too much bathing is bad for the skin.

I have run out of ideas. He sweats like a horse and I can smell him 20 feet away. He reads your column every day and thinks you're smart. Maybe you can help me. Thank you.

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: I'm stumped, too. A person who refuses to bathe or use deodorant deserves to be shunned. So if he refuses to clean up his act, let him do a single.

HOW MANY HOUSES IN YOUR FUTURE?

Sometimes a look into the past will give you an educated guess as to your future homeowning status. So it goes with a recently completed survey of homeowners by a major Mortgage Insurance Company.

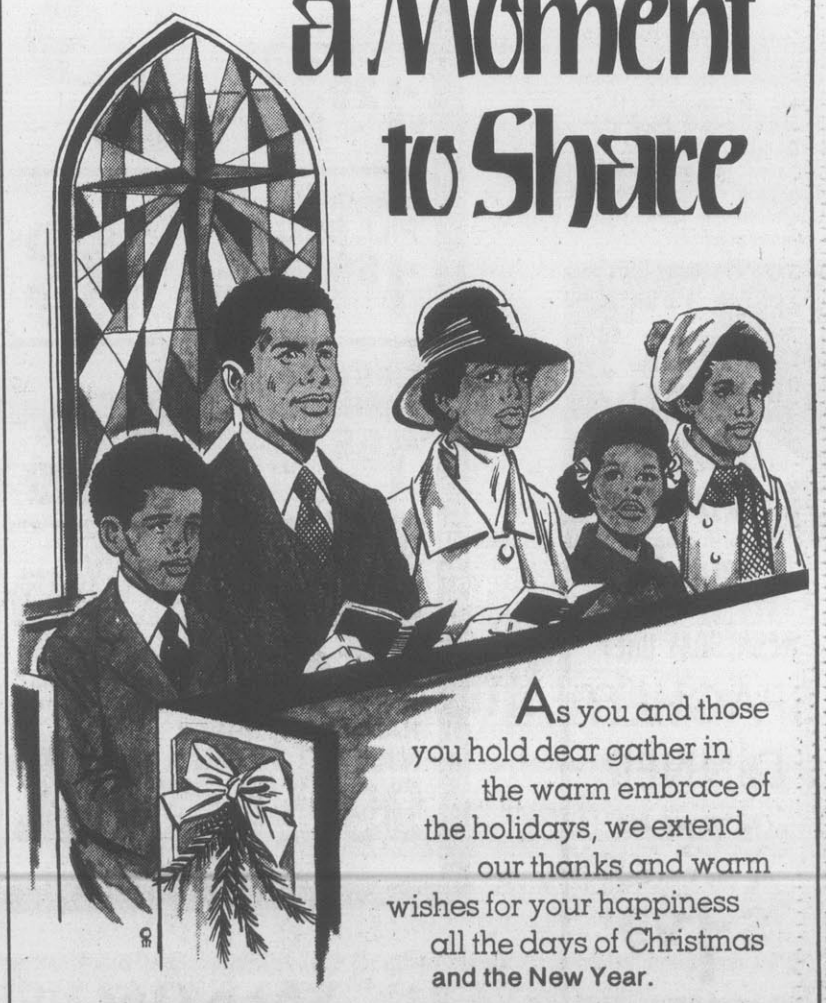

If you are an average statistic, you can expect to own three or four homes in your lifetime. The survey found that 76% of all newly-married couples start out by living in rental housing-primarily apartments. It then progresses to the purchase of the first home with the advent of children. Sixty eight percent of couples owning their first home have at least one child.

Although 31% reported their home adequate, 55% reported they were actively looking for a larger house. Although larger quarters was a major reason for moving, 63% said a more expensive home in a better neighborhood was a better investment in light of their experiences in the first two homes.

Purdue Destroys Tech

By The Associated Press

Perennial Big Ten Conference powerhouses like Ohio State and Michigan may have to move over and make some room for Purdue next year.

The Boilermakers gave notice to the rest of the conference Monday, romping to a 41-21 Peach Bowl victory over Georgia Tech at Atlanta with sophomore Mark Herrmann throwing two touchdown passes and scoring a third TD himself.

In Monday's other game, UCLA played a 10-10 tie against Arkansas in the Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz.

In Saturday's games, Texas mauled Maryland 42-0 in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Texas; Missouri downed Louisiana State 20-15 in the Liberty Bowl at Memphis, and North Carolina State defeated Pittsburgh 30-17 at the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla.

"I can't wait to get started on next year," said Herrmann. "We've got a lot of young guys coming back. Purdue is going to be a national power."

Herrmann hit Raymond Smith for a 10-yard TD, found Bart Burrell for a 12-yarder and scored on a 2-yard run himself for the first TD of his career as Purdue wore down Tech, which played without its leading rusher, injured Eddie Lee Ivery. Freshman Wally Jones also scored a pair of TDs for Purdue on runs of 3 and 8 yards.

The Boilermakers, 17th ranked going into the game, finished the season at 9-2-1. Tech ended at 7-5.

In the Fiesta Bowl, Arkansas built a 10-0 lead in the first half against UCLA on a 4-yard run by Roland Sales and a 37-yard field goal by Ismael Ordonez. But the Bruins came back to tie the score behind surprise starter Steve Bukich, a senior quarterback who had thrown only three passes all season.

Peter Boermeester, who missed a 25-yard field goal in the first period, kicked a 41yarder to get UCLA on the scoreboard in the third quarter. Then, with 8:32 left to play, Bukich ran 15 yards for the tying touchdown. The score was set up on Bukich's 36-yard pass to Severn Reece.

UCLA Coach Terry Donohue said Bukich replaced junior Rick Bashore, a two-year starter, because "he (Bukich) is a five-year player and has had a lot of disappointments at UCLA. I felt I owed it to him to start."

UCLA finished its season with an 8-3-1 record, while Arkansas wound up 9-2-1.

The two Christmas Day games set the stage for a busy college bowl week. The action continues Friday with the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, Ala., and the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., with Clemson facing Ohio State. On Sunday, the Bluebonnet Bowl matches Stanford and Georgia at Houston.

Then, next Monday, on New Year's Day, the four glamour bowls will be played. Penn State and Alabama tangle in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans; Michigan plays Southern California in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.; Nebraska faces Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl at Miami, and Notre Dame meets Houston in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas.

Jones Adds Dimension

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Bobby Jones has added another dimension to the Philadelphia 76ers, a team that always had the offensive fire-power but occasionally approached defense as an afterthought.

"We've got some defensive-minded people now," says guard Doug Collins of the 76ers. "We're playing both ends of the court. It makes a difference."

Jones, who came to Philadelphia in the big off-season trade that sent George McGinnis to Denver, harassed New York's Bob McAdoo into 5-for-14 shooting as the 76ers trounced the New York Knicks 109-94 Monday before a capacity crowd of 19,571 at Madison Square Garden and a national television audience.

Jones' aggressive defense has rubbed off on his new teammates. The swarming Sixers limited New York to 30 percent shooting in the first half on 13-for-43 as they established a 45-32 lead and New York never recovered. Philadelphia led by as many as 23 points in the third period and the Knicks came no closer than 10 after that.

"We know we can win," said forward Julius Erving, Philadelphia's offensive leader with 22 points including dazzling dunks to open each half. "Our defense is much more effective. Last year we were more explosive offensively, but this year we are more solid all-around."

And the reason is Jones, a member of the NBA's all-defensive team who also excels at passing and moving without the ball. While McGinnis is averaging 24.6 points and 11.6 rebounds for Denver, Jones' contributions have been vital to Philadelphia's success.

"It's a trade that has worked well for both teams," said Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham. "Denver seems pleased with George, and we're certainly happy to have Bobby. He's fit in beautifully. We're a whole new club this season."

"We've got the confidence now," said Jones. "We came out a little more organized than they were, we worked hard on defense and that was it."

Collins added 16 points for Philadelphia and Joe Bryant, Jones and Darryl Dawkins had 14 points each. Ray Williams topped New York with 14 while McAdoo managed scored only 11, 14 below his season average.

Clippers 123, SuperSonics 118

San Diego's Randy Smith scored 12 of his game-high 29 points in the fourth quarter as the Clippers sent injury-riddled Seattle to its sixth straight loss, trimming Seattle's Pacific Division lead to just seven percentage points over Los Angeles and Phoenix.

Blazers 115, Warriors 102

Portland won its fifth in a row, tying its longest winning streak of the season, as rookie guard Ron Brewer scored 19 of his 23 points in the second half. Lionel Hollins led Portland with 27 points while Golden State guard Phil Smith took game honors with 28.

Two-On-One Defense

Three Rematches In NFL Playoffs

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

Rematches form the pairings in three of the four games scheduled this weekend as the National Football League playoffs move to the conference semifinal stage.

On Saturday, Pittsburgh hosts Denver in an American Conference game exactly two weeks after stopping the Broncos at the 1-yard line on the final play of the game for a 21-17 victory. On Sunday, Houston's wild-card Oilers travel to New England to take on the Patriots. Earlier this season, Houston topped the Pats 26-23.

In the National Conference, the wild-card Atlanta Falcons play the defending champion Dallas Cowboys on Saturday while Minnesota is at Los Angeles on Sunday. The Falcons have not played Dallas this season but Minnesota dropped a 34-17 decision to the Rams.

The LA-Minnesota pairing marks the fifth time these two teams have collided in the playoffs. The Vikings have won the first four contests, the most recent one 14-7 a year ago in a California rainstorm.

The NFL playoffs began on Saturday when Houston and Atlanta advanced in wild-card games. The Oilers stung Miami 17-9 while the Falcons rallied for two touchdowns in the final five minutes to defeat Philadelphia 14-13.

Oilers quarterback Dan Pastorini, wearing a flak jacket to protect sore ribs and a brace on his knee, completed 20 of 29 passes for 306 yards in Houston's victory over Miami. Running backs Tim Wilson and Earl Campbell, both also nursing banged-up ribs, combined for 160 yards and scored one touchdown each. Toni Fritsch kicked a 35-yard field goal that snapped a 7-7 tie in the fourth quarter.

"There was never any doubt in my mind that I'd play," said Pastorini. The flak jacket, similiar to a bullet-proof vest, was the idea of a friend, who demonstrated its effectiveness by putting it on and then absorbing several body blows with a baseball bat.

The Eagles led Atlanta 13-0 with five minutes to play when Steve Bartkowski manufactured another hair-breadth finish for the Falcons. The difference in the game was a missed extra point by Mike Michel, the Eagles' punter, who handled the place kicking duties in place of injured Nick MikeMayer. Michel also missed a 34-yard field goal try with 13 seconds left which would have won the game for Philadelphia.

"We were very fortunate to have won this game," said Leeman Bennett, coach of the Falcons.

When Bartkowski hit Wallace Francis with a 37-yard touchdown pass with 1:39 to play, it continued Atlanta's string of last-minute victories. Four times this season, the Falcons have won games by scoring in the final seconds. This time, it seemed the Falcons had left too much time for the Eagles, and Philadelphia quickly moved in position for the field goal that could have won it. But Michel missed.

Earlier, a committee of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association picked Graham's teammate, freshman Buck Williams of Rocky Mount, N.C., as the league's rookie of the week for the second time this season.

Graham Player Of Week

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Maryland sophomore Ernest Graham, who scored a school record 44 points in an offensive burst that paced the Terps to a 124-110 upset win over fourth-ranked North Carolina State last week, has been selected as the Atlantic Coast Conference player of the week.

The 6-foot-7 Baltimore, Md., native enjoyed the highest scoring game by an ACC player in more than two years as he connected on 18 of 25 field goal attempts and eight of 10 free throws in only 25 minutes of playing time against the Wolfpack.

He set school records for most points scored in a single game as well as most field goals.

The scoring spree vaulted Graham to second place in the conference individual scoring race behind Jeff Lamp of Virginia. Graham now has 180 points for an average of 20 points per game while Lamp heads the list with a 21.4 points per game average.

Bucs Improving Despite Showing

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Despite the fact that East Carolina University's men's swimming team has come up with just one victory in three dual meets, Coach Ray Scharf is very pleased with the progress made so far this season.

"Our loss to North Carolina was a great disappointment, but the team did a tremdous job just to come as close to them as we did. We actually won nine of the 13 events. It was just a case of their having more depth than we did."

The swim season for the Pirates, counting practice is a long one that is about half over now. "We really look at it as two seasons, with our second one just about ready to begin," Scharf said as his team began preparations to leave for Florida for a winter training session over the holidays.

"Our goal, of course, is to qualify as many people as we can for the NCAA, and then to score in the meet for the first time (in University division). We've never qualified more than three before, but we've already done that, and I think we have a chance to get several more into the nationals."

The Pirates have already met national qualifying standards in the 400 and 800-yard freestyle relays, while John Tudor has qualified in the 200-yard freestyle.

"Ted Nieman just missed qualifying in the 200 freestyle, while Tudor just missed in both to 50 and 100-yard freestyles. Bill Fehling is also close in the 50, and Jack Clower could make it in the butterfly.

"We've already broken ten varsity records, so you can see that we are swimming real well. I just wish we had more depth."

Scharf isn't worried about the swimmers reaching their peak early, as happened to a few of them last year. "We just have to build to reach another peak later in the year. We didn't really swim that well collectively last year, but so far this year, things have been pleasing. Our freshmen are coming along too and beginning to help us."

While three have qualified in swimming events, the Pirates have also qualified a diver for the first time in several years. Tom Bell met national standards in the one-meter event, and Scharf finds this especially pleasing.

Scharf ran down the swimming events and listed the top swimmers in each.

In the 50 freestyle, Fehling has the top time so 21.09 seconds, while Tudor is next, but there is little depth behind them. In the 100, Tudor is up front with a 45.81 time, followed by Fehling and Ted Nieman.

Tudor at 1:39.2 leads the way in the 200, followed by Nieman at 1:39.6. Clower, Fehling and Joe Kushey all have turned in good times here too, and this helps to build a good relay unit.

In the 500 free, Nieman has the best time, 4:38.0, with Kevin Meisel and Doug Brindley adding depth.

The same three pace the longer distance freestyle events, with Meisel already turning in a 10:32 in the 1,000.

In the butterfly, Clower has the best 100-yard time of 51.2, while Tudor is close behind at 51.6. A sophomore Joe Murtaugh and a junior, Mark Lovett, could also help. In the 200, Clower has turned in a 1:55.4.

Tudor and David Moody have both surpassed the varsity record in the 100-yard backstroke, although Scharf feels that Tudor isn't likely to swim here very much. Freshman Doug Nieman, Ted's brother, and Scott Ross add to the depth here. In the 200, Tudor again has the best time, with Nieman and Moody and Ross behind him.

Nieman currently is sidelined following an operation, and is expected back in a few weeks. He also is one of the top hopes in the breaststroke, where Scharf admits that the team is weakest. Backing him up are Dan Newhaller and Bob Skurla, the latter of whom set a new freshman record last year.

Clower and Tudor are the tops in the individual medley. Clower had turned in a 1:55.6 in the 200, while Tudor has done a 1:55.9. Doug Nieman also is a factor here, and all three will perform in the 400-IM.

"Both of our freestyle relay team should be strong, but our medley relay won't be as good because of the lack of real strength in the breaststroke," Scharf said.

The Pirate coach looks for an improvement over the fourth place finish in the Easterns of last year, and is hopeful that the Pirates can score in the nationals this year.

"The kids have done a great job so far, but the national competition will be tougher than ever."

State Gives Boost To ACC's Reputation

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — North Carolina State's 30-17 upset of Pittsburgh in the Tangerine Bowl may redeem the football reputation of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

A loser to conference champion Maryland, 31-7 during the year, Coach Bo Rein's Wolfpack shocked the experts and the Pitt Panthers by completely dominating the Saturday night game following Maryland's 42-0 afternoon loss to Texas in El Paso's Sun Bowl.

ACC Commissioner Bob James saw Maryland's annihilaton earlier in the day and flew into Orlando by private jet just in time for the Tangerine Bowl kickoff.

James said NC State's victory shows the Tangerine Bowl and Southern teams have a bright future.

Despite a disappointing attendance of only 31,586, James told bowl officials, "If you put (NC) State or Clemson or North Carolina here on years that this bowl falls a couple of days earlier, selling tickets won't be the problem" in the 50,600-seat stadium.

The difficulty of returning home Christmas Eve was thought to be a major reason for the poor fan following for both Pitt and NC State. The two teams together had about 8,000 fans here.

Each team is expected to see a payoff of only about $130,000 — down significantly from last year's $178,000 — and about $50,000 less than Maryland's for its Sun Bowl appearance.

The Peach, Hall of Fame, Bluebonnet, Garden State and Holiday bowls also figured to pay off about $50,000 more per team than the Orlando bowl.

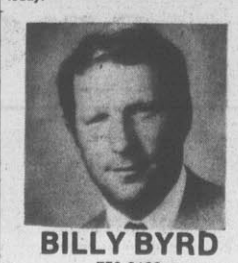

A one-touchdown underdog, the Wolfpack from Raleigh, N.C., utilitized the running of record-setting Ted Brown, unspectacular but steady quarterback Scott Smith, place kicker Nathan Ritter and an aggressive defense to prevent Pitt from coming anywhere near winning its fourth straight bowl game.

Besides the usual "what happened?" questions, Pitt Coach Jackie Sherrill was asked about some of his players' late-night antics, alleged lack of discipline and the splitting of his coaching staff.

A number of Pitt players reportedly had more fun than practice prior to the game, resulting in the allegations of lack of discipline.

Badgers Have Shot

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The thought of playing in the Louisville Holiday Tournament this Thursday against the nation's 12th-ranked team once terrified Bill Cofield. But not now.

"Instead of going against the Louisville Cardinals with a 25 percent chance of winning, we've definitely got a real chance," says the coach of the Wisconsin basketball team.

The reason for his sudden high optimism was a 65-52 victory over 13th-ranked Marquette Saturday — a triumph that Cofield called the biggest of his career.

"It's great to be the state champion," said Cofield after Wisconsin's first victory over the Milwaukee school since 1969. "The fans have been waiting nine years for this."

Cofield has been waiting some time, too, to establish a strong program in the Big Ten, which has long belonged to the Indianas, Michigans and Ohio States.

Illinois, another Big Ten surprise package this year, has been earning respect, too, with a 9-0 record. The Illini improved their undefeated string with two victories in the Kentucky Invitational Tournament over the weekend, including a smashing 71-57 triumph over a strong Texas A&M team in Saturday night's finals.

Kentucky, meanwhile, had to settle for third place this time in its home-grown tournament in Lexington.

Is Pro Grid Parity Now Out Of Control?

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

And now, for a holiday fable:

Once upon a time, there was a football league. And in this league there were 28 teams of assorted sizes and shapes. Some came from tiny, map-dot towns like Green Bay, Wis., and Tampa Bay, Fla. Some represented big cities like New York, Chicago and Los Angeles. And some carried the names of whole states or sections of the country like Minnesota and New England.

The one thing these 28 teams had in common was their level of efficiency. All of them were mediocre.

This was a result of something called parity, although some people insisted on calling it parody. The league loved parity because it meant that every week, every team had a chance to win. And that was a very nice situation for teams who had worked long and hard at developing a legacy of losing.

So, all through the 1978 football season, the people who operated the league chortled as the long-time losers scored upset after upset. "Look at that," said the league's proprietors. "On any given Sunday, any team can beat any other team."

Then it came time for the playoffs, and parity played a trick on the league. It refused to go away.

During the regular season, it was fine to have hopeless New Orleans beat powerful Los Angeles and bumbling Baltimore bop division champion New England. That, after all, is how parity works. But in the playoffs, it was time for the league's top teams to assert themselves in order to assure a first-rate matchup for the ultimate contest, that game of games, the one with the Roman numerals.

But they didn't. A strange turn of events occurred in the playoffs. Parity ruled and in every game, the underdog won. And so goes the fable ....

—During a typhoon that struck Los Angeles two minutes before kickoff and lasted until two minutes after the final gun, Minnesota edged the Rams 2-0. The winning points were scored when Jim Marshall, who celebrated his 41st birthday a day earlier, tackled Pat Haden in the end zone. The Golden Age Society, Marshall's guests at the game, cheered wildly.

—At Dallas, Steve Bartkowski threw a 95-yard touchdown pass on the final play of the game and ex-bartender Tim Mazzetti kicked the extra point with no time left on the clock as Atlanta edged the Cowboys 21-20 in yet another ho-hum finish for the Falcons.

Parity Bowl....

—Dan Pastorini threw away his crutches, cast and flak jacket and passed for 300 yards as Mouston defeated New England 14-10. There was considerable confusion on the Patriots' bench when Coach Chuck Fairbanks, waving a Colorado football brochure, left early to chase after a high school prospect.

—Denver advanced with a 24-21 victory over Pittsburgh when quarterback Norris Weese chased a messenger from the sidelines off the field and called his own play for the winning TD.

But that was only the start. Next came the championship games.

—It was 10 degrees below zero and there were two feet of snow on the field at Minnesota. The Falcons, wearing galoshes instead of cleats, simply wore down the Vikings, winning 3-0 on Mazzetti's field goal.

—In the other title game at Denver, Houston Coach Bum Phillips had a brilliant stroke of strategy. He dressed all the Oilers in orange and the Broncos couldn't pick them out from the fans, who all wore that same color. By the time Denver found them, the Oilers had scored a 21-17 victory.

And that's how it came to pass that, in this fable, Atlanta and Houston played for the championship of the entire world.

The contest was named Parity Bowl I.

Needless to say, it ended in a tie.

Farm Scene

Granville or bacterial wilt is a major problem in Pitt County. Losses in recent years have increased, making the disease the tobacco growers' Number One pest in 1978.

Both black shank and wilt are present on many farms in this area. Control methods are needed to provide protection for both diseases, not just one.

RECOGNIZING GRANVILLE WILT

Drooping of one or two leaves in the heat of the day followed by recovery in the evening is the first symptom of wilt. Quite often, only one-half of the leaf becomes wilted. This may be followed by several leaves and eventually the entire plant.

Stem examination reveals light tan to yellow discoloration of tissue just beneath the bark. Bacteria may move to the pith, and eventually the base at the stalk or stem becomes hollow. Pencil markings are quite often present in the woody tissue.

During the early stages, only a few roots will show signs of damage. Later, most of the roots decay, becoming dark brown or black in color.

Granville wilt is a bacterial disease caused by a microscopic organism, Pseudomonas solancerium. Infection usually occurs through the root system and a wound of some type is generally considered necessary for the pathogen to enter and initiate the disease.

The bacteria move into the water-conducting tissue and a slime-like substance is produced which tends to plug up the passageway. High temperatures (86-96 degrees F) and high soil moisture favor infection and development.

SELECTING CONTROL PRACTICES

Granville wilt is best controlled by use of a combination of practices including Operation R-9-P, resistant varieties, crop rotation and chemical soil treatments.

Varieties with low, moderate and high resistance are available. Since black shank is present in most fields, growers with a severe wilt problem would be wise to select a variety that carries high resistance to both diseases.

Rotation of crops resistant to the major problem is a valuable method of disease control. All crops in North Carolina are considered resistant to the fungus that causes black shank. This means that growers with a wilt problem should select crops resistant to this disease in designing their cropping system.

Corn, fescue, red top grass and soybeans provide excellent wilt reduction; cotton, milo, sweet potatoes are fair; peanuts and weeds (especially ragweed) and most vegetable crops are considered susceptible and should be used in fields where wilt is a major problem.

Multi-purpose chemicals are also effective in reducing wilt; Terr-O-Cide 30 and Terr-O-Cide 54-45, fair. Vorlex provides little or no protection and should not be used in fields where wilt is a problem.

DETERMINING THE AMOUNT OF WILT PRESENT

Determining the amount of wilt present or the number of infected plants is necessary in selecting the correct combination of practices that will provide adequate protection and assure a healthy and profitable crop. The plan outlined for black shank is similar to the one used for Granville wilt.

Two methods are suggested. The most accurate involves actual count of the total stand and number of plants with Granville wilt in every tenth row across the field.

The percent diseased is obtained from this information by dividing the total stand count into number of plants infected for each row. For example, if there are 200 plants in row ten, and five percent of this number show symptoms of wilt, then the percent of wilt is 2.5 percent. The percent of wilt for the field is determined by averaging the percent for all rows checked.

A second method, ofter referred to as the eyeball method, is based on estimating the percent of plants with wilt by walking across the field. This plan requires only a few minutes for each field and is not as accurate as the first method, but provides useful information.

The disease level for either method is considered very low for fields where no plants show signs of wilt; low for those with a scattered plant but less than one percent; moderate is one percent but no more than five; and high for fields where more than six percent of the plants show wilt symptoms.

Selecting the control method is a simple job, if one knows the major problem and has some idea of the amount of damage. Growers with more than six percent loss should limit their choice to System A, which contains all of the more effective control practices. System B (which includes continuous culture) or System C provides adequate protection in fields where the disease levels are low to moderate. Systems D, E and F are for lighter cases of infection.

The system plan is beneficial in offering a combination of practices that fit both the disease and production situation.

WHO NEEDS SNOW? It's a shirt-sleeve 70-degrees in San Antonio Christmas Day, but that doesn't prevent 5-year-old Victoria Branton from using her plastic snow sled she got for Christmas. The steep, grassy berm (sloping embankment) around the Institute of Texan Cultures is a perfect sledding place. Other sledders who needed a place to have fun even thought it wasn't a white Christmas, needed only to find the Tower of the Americas (background) which presides over HemisFair Plaza in downtown San Antonio where the institute is located. Santa Claus On A Benefit Jog

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — Residents awoke Christmas morning to see Santa Claus running through the streets as though he were in hot pursuit of his sleigh and reindeer.

The Santa look-alike was merely a jogger in disguise, Gerard Robrecht, 21, of Hillside, said he ran 10 miles in a festive outfit Monday to raise money for the American Cancer Society. A couple of hundred dollars were pledged, he said.

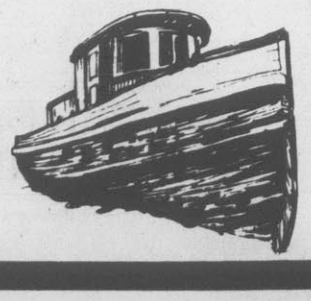

"Back when I started running, I bought a red suit," said the self-described occasional runner who had never covered more than three miles. "People kidded me, but then a friend suggested I wear a white beard for the holidays."

Robrecht, a warehouseman for a wine distributor, took less than two hours to run from St. Catherine's Church to city hall. Cars stopped and people leaned out of windows to see Santa run. "I was wearing a good-size pillow," he chuckled.

GUIDELINES IGNORED

MIAMI (AP) — National Airlines flight attendants have accepted a new 38-month contract that provides salary increases ranging from 46 to 56 percent for members. The contract is retroactive to December 1977.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, DEC. 27, 1978

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Matters from the past can cause you a considerable amount of problems through delays and obstacles. At the same time by being alert to changes and new ideas and modes of expression, you are able to make considerable progress and headway.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You get new ideas that can be helpful to you so forget the past and get busy working on them. Put away drab tasks and concentrate on the new, progressive.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are able to use more modern methods in your work so that you can advance more quickly. Put aside expensive pleasure that is not even worthwhile.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find new partners with whom you can relate well in the days ahead. Make your new projects more constructive. Avoid an old partner who is difficult to handle.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you open your mind to current ideas, you can become more enthused about your work, advance quickly. Forget old systems that are slow and nonproductive.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can enjoy pleasures you like provided you think along more modern lines. Forget that tiresome old activity and replace with something new, revitalizing.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find a better way of pleasing those who dwell with you and be more aware of their wishes. Get rid of whatever is outdated at home and replace with the new.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get the added data you need so that your life runs more smoothy. Be willing to replace the obsolete with something far better.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Improve your budget so that you can live with less worry and cut down on expenses. Find better ways of adding to your income.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Elevate your consciousness to the highest you can envision and make your life far better in the future. Don't hang on to personal relationships that have become jaded.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study your existence from every angle and know how to improve your lot in life. Being more affectionate with loved one brings good results. Control your temper and avoid trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You like group affairs and now you can add to your roster of friends by attending them. First make sure business affairs are in order.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get into community work that can bring you greater benefits in the near future. Find a more up-to-date way of handling career affairs.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have much ability at working with modern inventions, current trends and improving on them. Make sure the diet is good and sports are entered into that will build up the body. A naturally religious person in this chart, one who appreciates the artistic and the beautiful.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Constructing A New TV Tower

GRIFTON — Construction is underway on a new 2,000 foot tower and transmitter complex for WITN-TV (Channel 7) at a site adjacent to the present tower and transmitter just east of here off N.C. 118.

The new tower, nearly 500 feet taller than the current tower, which already provides the strongest signal of any station in Eastern North Carolina, will be topped by a revolutionary circular polarized antenna.

The circular polarization transmitting antenna essentially eliminates video signals that bounce off buildings or hills and show up on the home screen as "ghosts", and significantly reduces electronic noise that shows up as "snow".

The new tower and transmitter complex is expected to be operational by late summer 1979.

According to W. R. Roberson Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of North Carolina Television, Inc. (WITN-TV), the station — with studios and offices located South of Washington on U.S. 17 — plans to begin 24 hour a day programing when the new tower and transmitter complex is completed.

Being on the air around the clock will mean that viewers in Eastern North Carolina will have a ready source of information and entertainment at all times, he noted. Severe weather and important news bulletins will be broadcast on an up to the minute basis 24 hours a day.

The movie that won the Oscar in 1940 was "Rebecca."

CRYPTOQUIP 12-25

EITXO YADEZBIRG ZORNZKWDY KBG KNTXOWAY

Saturday's Cryptoquip — WONDROUS NORTHERN LIGHTS ILLUMINED WINTER MIDNIGHT.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: E equals C

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Sammy Enjoys 3 Celebrations

NEW YORK (AP) — Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. apparently doesn't believe in single celebrations.

On Monday Davis marked three events: his 53rd birthday, Hanukkah, and the 25th anniversary of his conversion to Judaism.

Davis made an appearance before 5,000 persons at Congregation B'nai Jeshurun on the city's West Side, and was praised by Rabbi William Berkowitz as "not afraid to stand up for what he believes in."

Opening lead: Three of ♣.

Don't always consider your opponents to be the enemy. Every now and then you will find them quite willing to help you out.

To our tastes, South was not only a trifle light for his jump to two no trump, but he also ran the risk of missing a superior major-suit contract. We would have preferred a simple one heart response. The final contract then might have been four spades, which would have had almost no play as the cards lie.

West led his fourth-best club, and declarer captured the queen with the king. It seemed that declarer would need the diamond finesse and a 3-2 spade split for his contract. However, he was in no hurry to take his tricks. At trick two he led back a club, and West could not wait to take his four club tricks.

That made life difficult for East. He discarded two diamonds and a heart, while dummy sluffed a spade and a diamond and declarer parted with a diamond and a heart. West exited with a diamond, won by dummy's queen. Declarer cashed the ace and queen of spades, then crossed to the ace of hearts. When he now cashed the ace of diamonds, East had no safe discard. Whichever major suit he let go would set up declarer's ninth trick — declarer would simply discard the other major.

West could have thwarted declarer's plan. If South wanted West to cash the clubs, it had to be right not to do so. After winning the second club, West should simply have exited with the jack of diamonds.

Assume the queen wins and declarer tries again by leading a third club. West wins and still refuses to cash the clubs. Instead, he continues with the king of diamonds. Now, try as he might, declarer can come to no more than eight tricks — try it!

In the trade, West's eagerness to run his suit is known as a "suicide squeeze." This is a very graphic term for how to throttle partner.

No Intent To 'Destroy' Haley

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Harold Courlander says that when he filed suit against "Roots" author Alex Haley he "wasn't interested in destroying the guy."

Courlander reportedly received a $500,000 out-of-court settlement from Haley, who admitted that some material from Courlander's novel "The African" found its way into "Roots," a Pulitzer Prize winner.

"I brought the suit because I wanted to protect my literary creation," said Courlander.

Asks For Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Customs Service, hoping to encourage increased use of foreign trade zones in the United States, is asking comment on proposed changes in costs the government tacks on to goods manufactured in the zones.

The service wants suggestions for changes in a regulation that requires Customs officers to include processing costs and certain other factors when calculating the dutiable value of some goods manufactured in such zones.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Sunny skies are expected for most of the nation in the period extending to Wednesday morning. Cold temperatures are expected across the country. Snow flurries are forecast for the northern Plains and the lower Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Valley. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press

Winter's chill is here to stay in North Carolina for a while.

A cold front in Kentucky and Tennessee was expected to pass through our state by late today. A few clouds will accompany this front and snow flurries may fall in the mountains.

Behind it, winds will turn to the northwest, bringing with them colder air from the northern mid-west.

High pressure building into the state tonight should mean mostly sunny skies but chilly temperatures on Wenesday.

Yesterday, Christmas Day, bright sunny skies and seasonable temperatures prevailed in the Tar Heel state. Highs ranged from the 40s in the mountains to the 50s elsewhere. Warmest readings occurred at Cape Hatteras with 59.

Skies have been clear across the state and temperatures range from 20s in the mountains and Piedmont to the 30s in most eastern sections.

Highs today should range from 30s in the mountains to the upper 50s near the coast. Winds will pick up from the northwest late today and tonight with temperatures falling to the 20s in most areas by sunrise tomorrow. Wednesday, expect mostly sunny skies with temperatures 4 to 8 degrees cooler than today.

Airborne General Says It's First-String Team

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP) — Maj. Gen. G.S. Meloy isn't a humble man, but one would hardly expect humility to dot the character of the commander of the Army's only paratroop division.

Meloy recently replaced Maj. Gen. Roscoe Robinson Jr. as commanding officer of the Army's 82nd Airborne Division. Robinson was named deputy chief of staff for operations, U.S. Army in Europe.

"The 82nd is the only force America has that can deploy strategically and get there and get there in a hurry," said the 48-year-old Meloy. "There are a lot of places in the world where (the 82nd) will go in and clean your house. It's nobody to take lightly."

The bravado of Meloy stems from his many associations with the 82nd. Previsously, the San Antonio, Texas, native served as brigade commander and in a number of other critical positions within the Fort Bragg unit before returning as the crack outfit's commanding officer.

"I have not been unhappy a minute since I came back," Meloy said.

Some of the 82nd's peacetime activities have included recovering bodies from the Jonestown, Guyana, mass murdersuicide; and digging out snowbound residents of Massachusetts and Ohio.

But if hostile activities should break out, Meloy's team is ready.

"We're pretty much first-string. We are the key to defense planning and defense decision makers."

Meloy said the 82nd can deploy a fully equipped company in less than 18 hours to any place in the world. He said he could have the entire 16,000member division deployed anywere in the world within five days.

He said the 82nd attracts "the kind of fellow who enjoys living a different life. He thrives on risk.

"Paratroopers are not afraid of anybody."

Fast-Growing Appliance Sale

NEWTON, Iowa (UPI) — Electric dishwashers were the major appliance industry's fastest growing sales item during the 1968-1977 period. Daniel J. Krumm, a manufacturing executive, says saturation rose from about 15 percent of the market in 1968 to the current estimated level of 40 percent. More than one out of every three United States households now has a dishwasher, he added.
