Civilian Iran Govm't Selected

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer
TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Prime Minister-designate Shahpour Bakhtiar has completed his selections for a new civilian Cabinet to replace the military regime installed two months ago to deal with the riots against the shah, an aide to the former opposition leader said today.

The aide, who asked not to be named, did not say when the proposed Cabinet list would be announced, but it presumably will be made public Wednesday or Thursday.

The state radio said the Iranian Senate would meet Wednesday, and sources said the session likely would result in a resolution backing Bakhtiar's proposed government. The lower house would then have to take similar action before the list would go to the shah for his approval.

The Iranian military took over operations at the Tehran airport control tower today and restored limited commercial service after a strike by airport workers brought air traffic to a near standstill. The move allowed hundreds of foreigners and Iranians to leave the country.

Diplomatic sources said commercial planes began landing at the airport after a U.S. Air Force transport came in safely on a "test run." The transport was to take out families of American military personnel. But the U.S. Embassy said there had been no decision yet to use government planes for American civilians.

Pan American and Lufthansa flights landed and took off for Frankfurt and Istanbul. A Pan American flight to Frankfurt was due later in the day.

Several private firms were organizing charter flights for employees and their families because of the uncertainty of scheduled service.

Canadian Ambassador Kenneth Taylor said two Canadian military planes and one commercial plane should begin flying out Canadians Wednesday and were expected to take out some American, British and West German citizens also.

Pan American cancelled flights to the Iranian capital Monday after airport employees announced they were boycotting American and Israeli airlines because of their governments' support of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. The landing of an El Al jetliner triggered the walkout.

The French Embassy said commercial transport had been sufficient so far for those of the 4,000 French desiring to leave. The British Embassy said its government was helping to arrange charter flights for Britons stranded in provincial cities and might do this for Britons in Tehran if the demand warranted it.

The continuing violence prompted the U.S. Embassy to advise American wives and children on Sunday to leave the country, and about half the 30,000 remaining Americans are expected to go.

Several thousand opponents of the shah marched in protest through central Tehran today after authorities prohibited a speech by opposition leader Karim Sanjaby. Gunfire, presumably from army guns, was heard from three other

Red China Invites Barry Goldwater

By JOHN RODERICK
AP Special Correspondent
PEKING (AP) — Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-peng sent an invitation today to Sen. Barry Goldwater, chief congressional supporter of the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan, to come to Peking to discuss reunification of the offshore island with the mainland.

Teng extended the invitation today through Rep. Thomas L. Ashley, D-Ohio, chairman of the House Banking Committee, in a two-hour meeting. Ashley said he would be delighted to convey the invitation to the Arizona Republican, who has filed suit in Washington to block President Carter's abrogation of the U.S.-Taiwan Mutual Defense Treaty.

Goldwater is the leading congressional critic of the establishment of diplomatic relations between China and the United States Monday. He regards the move as a sellout of the Nationalist government which the United States continued to support and protect after the communists drove it from the Chinese mainland in 1949 and with which the United States broke diplomatic relations on New Year's Day.

Teng told Ashley and seven other members of the Banking Committee he hopes Taiwan could be returned to the mainland in a peaceful manner. He said he was aware of Goldwater's unhappiness and the controversy between the United States and Taiwan as a result of the recognition of the Peking government. But he said he hoped to convince the senator reunification is in Taiwan's best interest.

The Peking government offered Sunday to negotiate a reunification of the mainland and Taiwan that would preserve the status quo of the capitalist island. But Nationalist President Chiang Ching-kuo rejected the overture and in his annual New Year's address in Taipei repeated the standard Nationalist vow that "our anticommunist struggle will never cease until the Chinese communist regime has been destroyed."

Rep. Doug Barnard, D-Ga., another member of the Banking Committee, said Teng emphasized his government's desire to get most-favored-nation tariff status from the United States to aid China's modernization drive.

Barnard said he believed this could be arranged and added: "The human rights issue doesn't seem to be a problem here." He added that he believed the question would among those raised during Teng's visit to Washington beginning Jan. 29.

The establishment of diplomatic relations between Washington and Peking after nearly 30 years of enmity was accompanied by an exchange of messages between Chairman Hua Kuo-feng and Carter and by parties Monday night at the homes of the chief American representative in Peking and the chief Chinese representative in Washington.

Teng exchanged toasts in California champagne with Leonard Woodcock, chief of the U.S. Liaison Mission in Peking who Carter is expected to name ambassador.

Cold Heads East

By The Associated Press

An intense cold front that socked the Rocky Mountain states and Midwest over the weekend appeared to be moving slowly eastward today hinting that the near-balmy East may yet get a taste of the icy blast that knocked out power, stranded thousands and left at least 10 dead.

Weather contrasted sharply across the nation as early morning readings in the 50s and 60s along the East Coast felt more like April than January, while the Great Plains and Southwest still shivered in sub-zero cold.

The mercury hit 64 degrees at midnight in Baltimore, breaking the 24-year-old record for Jan. 2, according to the National Weather Service.

Meanwhile, a foot of snow still covered the ground in much of Kansas and Missouri. And thousands of residents in the Dallas and St. Louis areas were without electricity late Monday and early today as ice-laden power lines snapped under the weight.

At one point Sunday, more than 130,000 in the two cities were without electricity. Power company officials in Dallas were calling it the worst ice storm in 30 years. Many of the 10,000 Texans without power Monday were told they could expect to stay in the dark until sometime today.

Weather-related traffic deaths in Wisconsin, Missouri and Kansas accounted for at least three deaths. Others were reported by police in Chicago and Milwaukee where three men collapsed and died while shoveling snow.

Some of the coldest readings were felt in Colorado, Idaho, and Utah where the mercury dipped to lows ranging from minus 45 to minus 60 pushed by high winds. However, forecasters predicted more moderate temperatures as the storm moved on.

Travelers advisories were issued early today for the eastern half of Michigan, most of the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, northwest Arkansas, and the Gulf Coast states from Texas to Georgia.

An ice storm watch for portions of Georgia was extended until early today as the front moved through the state, trailing freezing rain and sleet. The freeze was an abrupt change from the New Year's Day readings that soared into the 50s and 60s.

VEPCO Pays Its Tax Bills

Greenville and Pitt County were among the cities and counties in North Carolina receiving checks from Virginia Electric and Power Co. in payment of 1978 real estate and personal property taxes.

Veeco announced that Greenville received a check for $7,049, while Pitt County's check amounted to $37,534.

The local checks, Veeco reported, were part of the $1,011,232 in payments made by the supplier in the 22 counties that Veeco serves in North Carolina.

Martin County received $69,850, while Edgecombe received $27,259. Beaufort received a $11,138 check, according to Veeco, with Halifax County receiving the largest check of $150,203.

The largest town check went to Williamston in the amount of $19,189. Other checks to area towns included $1,682 to Bethel and $1,203 to Robersonville.

Said Planning China Project

ATLANTA (AP) — Architect John Portman Jr., whose firm designed the Peachtree Plaza and Hyatt Regency Hotel in Atlanta, reportedly is planning a major architectural project in China.

The Atlanta Constitution on Monday quoted unidentified sources as saying the Portman organization is putting together a deal to build hotels and commercial structures in China. His son, Jack Portman III, said he has been "laying the groundwork" for a Chinese project for six months, but its final form has not been determined.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — Experts pooh-poohed a TV crew's claim that it filmed UFOs but the New Zealand air force put a plane on the alert to chase any more suspicious sky travelers that show up.

David Mabin, head of New Zealand's Mount John Observatory, said the unidentified flying objects the Australian TV men said they filmed over the weekend and another sighting reported on the east coast of Australia early today almost certainly were the planet Venus.

Mabin said Venus is currently at its brightest and can be seen for about 12 hours a day. "From a moving aircraft or from a car, it could appear to be moving at the same speed because of the great distance," he said.

The leading British astronomer Sir Bernard Lovell told London newspapers the sightings probably were meteorites that failed to burn up on entering the atmosphere, that it was "depressing and deplorable" that bright objects in the heavens could be imagined as visitors from outer space, and that such suggestions were science fiction.

The Australian TV films were shown in the United States Monday on CBS Evening News, and afterward UFO expert Allen Hynek of Northwestern University told CBS: "This is certainly one of the best if not the best, purported UFO films I've seen...I'm cautioning us to be wary of it simply because it doesn't fit a general pattern. It is a nocturnal light, and light seen in the night sky can be caused by a great many things."

Another UFO expert, Phillip Klass, avionics editor of Aviation Week and Space Technology magazine, said on the same broadcast: "My preliminary conclusion at this point is that probably the object they photographed was a celestial body, perhaps Venus, that the numerous radar echoes, which were reported to be behind them, which we see no images of, were probably the familiar radar angels that are so prevalent in the Southern Hemisphere at this time of year."

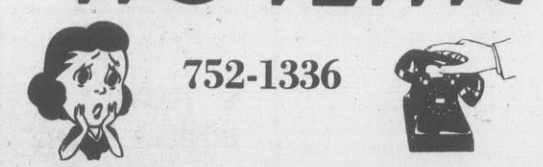

Quentin Fogarty, a reporter for a Melbourne, Australia, TV station, said his crew filmed the UFOs for seven minutes Saturday night from a plane over Kalkoura, in the eastern region of New Zealand's South Island.

Mild Tremor In California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An earthquake rumbled through southern California about half-way through the Rose Bowl game.

The quake, which hit at 3:14 p.m. Monday, lasted about 40 seconds and was centered in the ocean about four miles south of Malibu. No one was reported injured and there was only minor damage. The quake measured 4.6 on the Richter scale, and scientists at the California Institute of Technology seismology laboratory said there were a number of aftershocks. About 37,000 customers in the San Fernando Valley were without power for a few minutes because the quake jarred equipment out of alignment, authorities said.

Diplomat Sees New Front Against Hegemony

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — China has launched new relations with the United States with a blast at Soviet "expansion and aggression" and an invitation to Taiwan to "go with the tide" and reunite with the mainland.

China's double message was brought home by Ambassador Chai Tse-min in receptions Monday on the first day of what Vice President Walter F. Mondale called "the dawn of a new and bountiful era."

The Chinese diplomat said by establishing ties, his government and the United States were broadening a common front against "hegemony" and serving a warning "to those countries and groupings that seek hegemony."

Mondale, in an exchange of champagne toasts at a reception hosted by Chai, said the establishment of full relations reflects a realistic sense of U.S. and Chinese interests and a mutually beneficial relationship.

"What has brought us together is an awareness of our parallel interests in creating a world of economic progress, stability and peace," he said.

Behind Mondale and Chai, as they stood side by side in a crowded room in the renovated hotel the Chinese use as their headquarters, were flags of the United States and the People's Republic. The American flag was pinned on the wall backwards, its stripes pointing leftward.

Smiling Chinese diplomats mingled with past and present U.S. officials, exchanging New Year's greetings and expressions of friendship. With Mondale on the dais were Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Zbigniew Brzezinski, the U.S. national security assistant.

Expressionless and following his prepared text closely, Chai declared:

"The normalization of Sino-U.S. relations is not only in conformity with the aspiration and interests of the Chinese and American peoples, but also will certainly play an active role in combating the expansion and aggression of hegemonism and upholding peace and stability in Asia and the world."

Thrill Seekers Can Cause Trouble

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I was personally involved in that nightmarish fire that left so many people homeless in Pacific Palisades in California recently. We didn't lose our home, thank God, but some of our friends did.

One couple watched their home go up in flames while five fire trucks were tied up in traffic by thrill seekers who drove from miles around to see what was going on.

Abby, please remind your readers that fires are tragic events, not entertainment, and people who rush to the scene of a fire to satisfy their curiosity could be preventing firemen and paramedics from saving lives and property.

If these sightseers want to "see all," tell them to buy a newspaper or stay home and watch television. But stay away from fires!

FIREMAN'S DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Curiosity seekers often find what they're not looking for—trouble.

DEAR ABBY: I've been living common-law with a man for 12 years. We have seven kids. He pays all the bills and my kids call him "Papa."

I just found out that he has another common-law wife and six kids living 95 miles from here.

For years, he has left every Sunday night and come back on Thursday morning, but with the job he's on I thought it was necessary.

If I can prove that he spends more time with me than he spends with the other woman, is he my common-law husband or hers?

Can a common-law husband be a bigamist? And if he can, where would that leave me if he were to suddenly fall over dead?

PUZZLED IN GA.

DEAR PUZZLED: It would leave you with a lot of questions that only a lawyer could answer. I advise you to see one. It's a lot easier to get information out of a live common-law husband than a dead one.

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago, you listed the number of calories a person would burn while engaging in specific physical activities. (You even included sexual relations.) Can you dig it up?

ROGER M. IN EAST ORLEANS, MASS.

DEAR ROGER: Consider it dug:

DEAR ABBY: I would like to lose 10 pounds and my husband would like to lose 20. I have heard that every time a person has sex he burns up 300 calories. Do you recommend this method of losing weight? How many calories would a person have to burn to lose a pound?

NOPUT ON

DEAR NO: Here is the estimated number of calories burned per hour for several types of measured physical activity:

Slow walking—115 to 200
Dancing—275 to 350
Skating or swimming—300 to 600
Tennis—350 to 700
Gardening—250 to 300
Golfing (18 holes)—150 to 225

Since the amount of physical exertion varies with the individual, there can be no reliable figures on the number of calories burned during sex. In losing weight, you'd be wise to supplement mattressromony with more (or less) strenuous physical exercise, using the above table as a guide.

shoulder seams and promised to give you an alternate method for making shoulder seams.

This involves two techniques which may not be familiar to you. First, you make "short rows" instead of binding off stitches. Perhaps the easiest way to explain this is to give an example. Suppose, for one shoulder section, you were instructed to bind off 10 stitches at the beginning of each of the next three row rows.

Instead of following these instructions, on your next knit (or right side) row, work to within ten stitches of the end of the row. Do not complete the row, but turn to the wrong side and work back to the neck edge. On the next knit row, work to within ten stitches of the end and again turn to other side and work to other end of row. Repeat this a third time, working to within 30 stitches of end on the knit row, again turning and working back to other end.

On the next knit row, work across all stitches. You have now achieved a sloping shoulder without binding off any stitches. When shaping the shoulder on the opposite side (which normally would have bind-offs made on knit rows), you would work your short rows on the purl side.

You do not bind off any stitches. Instead, you join them by weaving the stitches together in a method known as the Kitchener stitch. To do this, place the stitches of each piece on a separate needle. Hold the two needles close together, with wrong sides of knitted fabric facing each other.

Thread yarn which comes from first stitch on the back needle into a tapestry needle. Insert tapestry needle into first stitch of front needle as if to knit. Pull yarn through and drop stitch off of needle. Then pass tapestry needle and yarn through next stitch on front needle as if to purl. Leave this stitch on front needle. Insert tapestry needle into first stitch on back needle as if to purl; pull yarn through and drop stitch from needle. Pass tapestry needle and yarn through next stitch on back needle as if to knit and leave this stitch on knitting needle.

Keep repeating the steps between asterisks until all stitches are joined, taking care to keep the weaving stitches at the same tension as your knitting stitches.

When you are done, I think you will be delighted with the smooth seamless shoulder joining.

Because of the large volume of mail she receives, Pat is unable to answer your letters personally. However, she welcomes all questions and hints, and will use those of general interest in the column whenever possible.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

If you like your knitting pure and simple, you will delight in making either of these classic sweaters. Both the V-neck cardigan and the turtleneck pullover are knitted from the neck down on circular needles eliminating most seaming.

Directions for the cardigan are written in teen sizes, small, medium and large with finished chest measurements of 30, 34 and 38 inches. This sweater is designed to be made with a gauge of five stitches per inch. The pullover directions are for misses sizes 8 through 16 with finished measurements of 32 to 40 inches. Gauge for the pullover in sports weight yarn is six stitches per inch.

To obtain directions for making both raglan sweaters, send your request for Leaflet No. BU-1106 with 60 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector," P. O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

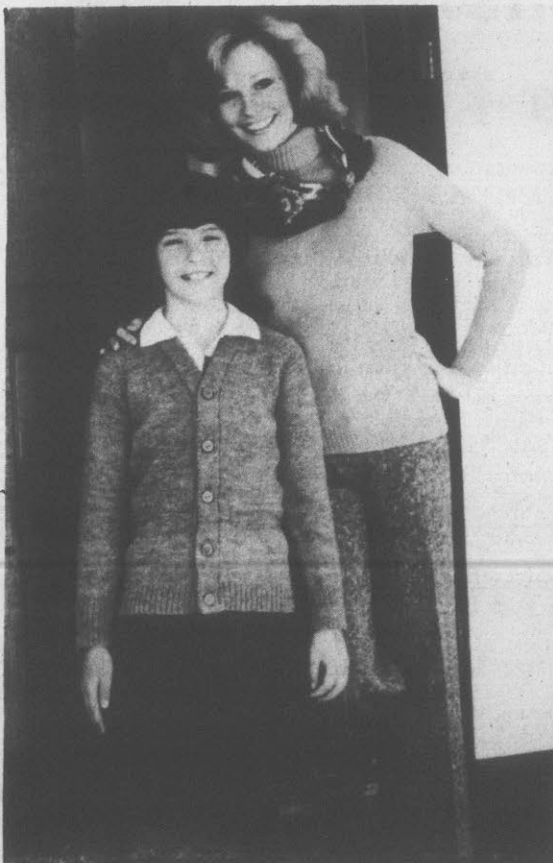

Or you may order a kit containing yarn and instruction leaflet from Pat Trexler at the same address. Kit No. 1106 for the cardigan containing Bucilla Winsom yarn is priced at $8.50 for small size; $10.00 for medium size; $11.50 for large size. Kit No. 1102 for the pullover containing Bucilla Spectator yarn is priced at $10.25 for sizes 8, 10 and 12; $11.75 for sizes 14 and 16. For either kit, specify your choice of white, scarlet, medium blue, light green, sunny yellow. Prices include shipping charges.

Why is it that knitters are always on the lookout for good knit-from-the-neck-down sweater patterns? Quite simply, it is because so little finishing is needed for this type of garment. There are no shoulder seams, no side seams and no sleeves to be set in.

Usually, the only seam you will have to make is one from the underarm to the bottom of the sleeve and even that can be eliminated if you don't mind working in rounds on double pointed needles. The sleeve sections are usually worked back and forth on straight needles as circular needles are usually too large for the smaller number of stitches used on the sleeves.

While I do know a few knitters who refuse to make anything but raglans, most of us will from time to time make garments which need to be joined at the shoulders and elsewhere. Last week, I discussed the usual method of setting in sleeves and seaming side and

N.C. Holiday Traffic Saw Eight Killed

By The Associated Press
The Highway Patrol reports that at least eight persons were killed in North Carolina traffic accidents during the long New Year holiday weekend, including the first fatality for 1979.

The patrol counted 1,468 deaths for 1978, compared with 1,441 traffic deaths during the comparable period last year.

The holiday traffic count was kept from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Monday.

The first death of the New Year occurred Monday in Halifax County near Scotland Neck. Franklin Cotton Jr., 22, of Scotland Neck, was killed when his car ran off the road and overturned.

Charles Hardin Turvyfill, 24, of Elk Park, was killed Sunday when his car crossed the center line of N.C. 181 in Burke County 20 miles north of Morganton and struck another vehicle head-on.

Kerry Eugene Yarborough, 14, of Charlotte, was killed Saturday when the bicycle he was riding on was struck by a car on a Charlotte street. The patrol said Yarborough was heading south in a northbound lane.

Media Vess Owenby, 64, of Asheville, was killed Saturday when a car made a left turn in front of the vehicle in which she was a passenger on a street in Charlotte and the two vehicles collided.

Two persons were killed early Saturday in a head-on collision on U.S. 17 on the southern outskirts of New Bern. The victims were identified as Wayne Grasmehr, 24, of North Wilkesboro, and Verona Silverth Godwin, 30, of Merritt.

The patrol said Hubert Cozart Walston Jr., 28, of Wilson, was killed Friday night when his car ran off the road on a curve and struck a utility pole eight miles south of Durham.

Philip Wayne Kearney, 19, of Franklin, was killed Friday when the car in which he was riding ran off the road on N.C. 56 eight miles east of Creedmore in Granville County, the patrol said.

Billy Carter An Audience Judge

NEW YORK (AP) — Billy Carter says his brother Jimmy is "probably the most brilliant man I've ever known" but that he himself is more popular — and makes more money.

"I get along with folks," the president's brother said in a Penthouse magazine interview. "My audience is not the real high-class crowd, not the middle class, but more the working class."

"I hate to say it," he said, "but I guess I'm one of the best judges of audiences in the world, and whatever they want to hear is what I talk about."

The president's younger brother also said he believes he'll still draw crowds after Jimmy leaves office.

"One of the best things that is happening now," he said, "is that when we come into a town, they don't say, 'Jimmy Carter's brother's coming.' They say, 'Billy Carter's coming.' It's a big step."

Optimism In Farming Picture

As we begin a New Year there is every reason to be optimistic about the potential of farming in Eastern North Carolina.

That extends from tobacco to grains and livestock products.

Last year was a positive one for the farm economy. Thanks to good growing conditions and strong efforts by the farmers we had a good tobacco crop. Other crops turned out well.

Now, however, we face a new growing season and whether American tobacco continues to be desired by the world market will depend on the extra effort growers give in developing a quality product . . . and how well the tobacco sells in the world market will depend on the shrewdness of those who market it.

We can, too, produce other farm products which should sell well domestically and abroad. Corn, peanuts, soybeans, pork and poultry are desirable products. Timber, which is abundant in Eastern North Carolina, is needed for lumber throughout the world.

We already have customers for our farm products in Europe and the Far East, but many farm experts see new markets opening up in emerging nations.

Africa is seen as a potential customer for U. S. grown commodities. The oil producing nations of the Middle East are now rich in dollars and may look to spending some of those dollars for American grown food and other farm supplies.

Of course, all of this won't take place in 1979. Nevertheless the basis for a good year is there for our area farmers. The growers have shown they will take extra care with their crops. With reasonably good weather conditions our farm economy could prosper.

Other Events To See Greater Effect

It's a chilling fact that the murder-suicides of the Peoples Temple in Guyana was the Associated Press top news story of 1978.

As a participating newspaper we, too, named the story number one.

There were other events which are certain to affect the course of history in far greater ways.

Seldom, however, has an event galvanized the attention of the world like the one in Guyana. From the standpoint of its horrifying captivation of the public the story had to be number one.

THIS AFTERNOON

Court Program Debatable

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Serious questions, constitutional and otherwise, set the stage for consideration of a proposal to place various state programs serving juveniles in trouble in a consolidated agency operated by the court system.

That maneuver is seen by members of the Juvenile Code Revision Commission as the key to reform of juvenile justice in North Carolina.

Wake County Judge George Bason, chairman of the group which is preparing recommendations for review by Gov. Jim Hunt and the 1979 General Assembly, realizes that a hard struggle will accompany the suggestion, but considers it of paramount importance.

Essentially affected by such a shift would be the Department of Human Resources which currently operates the juvenile training schools and several child-counseling and welfare programs. Obviously Human Resources will oppose a move since it would hit hard at budget items and personnel, as well as create problems in how to divide some programs which serve children in addition to those who run sufficiently afoul of the law to come into contact with the courts.

Central

But the juvenile commission found a lack of continuity or cooperation between the various programs — some in Human Resources and some elsewhere including the court counseling and probation services — and felt that a central location is essential.

Bason also feels that moving the operation into the courts as the Office of Juvenile Justice with the administrators answering to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court would accomplish several things: it would provide central coordination; it would insulate the effort from political pressures while keeping it answerable to an elected official; it would reinforce present court programs already in place, such as counseling and rehabilitation; and it would give the program for children high public visibility and identity while also allowing it to compete for funds in the General Assembly on its own merits without being secondary to other departmental priorities.

"They really see this process of bringing together in one place all the programs as critical," Gov. Jim Hunt agrees. "But there will certainly be opposition."

BILL NOBLITT

"I will give that proposal very serious attention, but there are some questions . . . including the constitutional one."

Gov. Hunt added that former Judge Phil Carlton, recently chief of the state's crime control agency and now moving to the Appeals Court, favors the proposal. He expects Secretary Sarah Morrow of Human Resources to be against it.

From the viewpoint of the state's administration, the constitutional question will likely be the over-riding one.

State government is established in three divisions: the legislative to write law and fund programs; the executive to carry them out; and the judicial to settle disputes.

Constitution

A drastic departure from this would occur should the judicial get into the business of operating programs; delivering services such as the halfway houses, community treatment facilities, training schools; and even though the courts already operate diagnostic centers, counseling services and rehabilitation programs.

As for political insulation, it is the view of key state leaders that our system is built upon exposure of programs to political pressures rather than insulation, with elected administrators held accountable to the public for performance.

Additionally, there would no doubt arise the problem of a citizen suit against a child-serving program in which case the arguments would be heard by the very agency providing the program under attack.

The Hoax And A Tale

WASHINGTON — The shade of H.L. Mencken, wherever that shade may be, must be chortling these days in positive delight. The Sage of Baltimore, who loved nothing more than a good hoax, recently has become the subject of a first-rate hoax himself. And thereby hangs a tale.

Six or seven months ago a reader sent along an unidentified clipping that offered a marvelous example of Mencken's wit and foresight. From this clipping it appeared that long ago, in an essay on "The New South", Mencken had delivered himself of this piece of gorgeous prophecy:

"On those dark moments when I fear that the Republic has trotted before these weary eyes every carnival act in its repertoire, I cheer myself with the thought that some day we will have a President from the Deep South.

"The president's brother, a prime specimen of Boobus Collumnus Rubericus, will gather his loutish companions on the porch of the White House to swill beer from the bottle and snigger over whispered barnyard jokes about the darkies.

"The President's cousin, LaVerne, will travel the hallelujah circuit as one of Mrs. McPherson's soldiers in Christ, praying for the conversion of some Northern Sodom's most satanic pornographer as she waves his work, well-thumbed, for the yokels to gasp at.

"The President's daughter will record these events with her box camera. The incumbent himself, cleansed of his bumpkin ways by some of Henry Grady's New York hucksters, will have a charm comparable to that of the leading undertaker of Dothan, Ala."

Now, that was high octane gas. It bubbled splendidly, of the old curmudgeon at his best. Everything was there — the dog Latin, the loutish companions, the hallelujah circuit, the undertaker from Alabama. It was good; it was indeed a shade too good. I kept the clipping on my desk, sniffing it warily now and then, and by the third day the fishy smell could not be mistaken.

It was not that Mencken couldn't have uttered these blasphemies about a Southern President. He revealed in assailing the South. He once remarked, back in 1917, that if the whole of the late Confederacy were to be engulfed by a tidal wave, "the effect upon the civilized minority of men in the world would be but little greater than that of a flood in the Yang-tse-kiang." Mencken incessantly belabored Southern politicians as a gang of barbarians, yahoos, and yokels.

But my memory could not call up an essay entitled "The New South", and the reference to Northern Sodom's "most satanic pornographer" fell like a lead nickel on the ear. There weren't any Larry Flynts 50 years ago; Mencken's crusades supported such writers as Dreiser, Cabell and Lawrence. Hard-core "pornography" never figured in his fields of combat.

Very well. Thanks to the researches of Theo Lippman, Jr., of the Baltimore Sun-papers, supported by the expert opinion of Kenneth W. Amrine, secretary of the Mencken Society, the presidential prophecy may now be pronounced a hoax. It was the work — the beautiful work — of Calvin Trillin in the Nation. The Sage himself would be pleased.

Like Mencken's unforgettable essay on the first bathtub in the White House, Trillin's clairvoyant piece on

Quiet, Simple Life

By SETH MYDANS
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Christina Onassis has found in Moscow the privacy, simplicity, peace and quiet the Greek shipping millionairess said she could never have in the capitals of the West.

Five months after her third marriage to an out-of-work Soviet bureaucrat, Miss Onassis succeeds in keeping out of sight and out of the headlines.

She refuses all requests for interviews and has changed her telephone number. Foreign reporters in Moscow have stopped pursuing her.

"If this were Paris or London, I wouldn't be able to walk down the street without being pestered," she once remarked.

Now, friends say, she is learning to be the housewife she always wanted to be and staying home most nights with her husband, Sergei Kauzov, whom she met in Paris when he worked there for the Soviet freight company Sovfrakht.

The marriage of one of the world's richest women to an obscure Communist Party member last Aug. 1 caused a stir around the world and much speculative comment about her motives and the future of the $500-million shipping empire she inherited from her father, Aristotle Onassis.

"The world knows I haven't had much happiness up to now," said the 27-year-old bride, whose earlier life included two brief marriages of her own, the death of her brother in a plane crash, the divorce of her parents because of her father's affair with opera star Maria Callas, the death of her mother after two more marriages, her father's marriage to Jacqueline Onassis, whom Christina reportedly loathed, her father's death and a wrangle with his widow over her share of the estate.

Miss Onassis told friends that all she wanted in her new life was to cook for her husband, have a baby and find the "peace and quiet" she had never known.

After the wedding, the bride and her 37-year-old husband moved into his mother's 2½-room apartment, but that experience in spartan living didn't last long. The couple got two apartments which they combined into a seven-room suite. A designer friend came

CAPITOL IDEAS

Senate Building's Critic

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate's uncompleted third office building — television anchor booths and all — is going to continue to be a bone of contention in the 96th Congress.

"When the fat comes along, I and several others will be ready to bite it away," Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., said last week in releasing a letter to Architect of the Capitol John White.

Chafee, a consistent critic of the structure, asked White for a current estimate of the building's cost, a timetable for its completion and a report on what he calls "hidden" costs.

The new building is supposed to house 50 of the 100 senators. Chafee specifically wanted to know how much it will cost to enlarge the offices of the 50 who will remain behind in the existing buildings.

White's office said Chafee's letter had not been received, but Deputy Architect Elliott Carroll told a reporter he thought Chafee was the cause of "the biggest hidden cost." He argued that Chafee's efforts have delayed the building, causing its cost to rise because of inflation.

Carroll said the building might have been finished by June 1981 under the original timetable, but he now has "no idea" when it will be completed.

The architect's latest cost estimate is $122 million, compared with an estimate of $48 million when the building was first authorized in 1972. Carroll conceded the renovations of existing buildings will be in addition to this, but said he didn't know how much they would cost.

Chafee contends $200 million is a more realistic total estimate, counting furnishings, renovation of the existing buildings and other items.

He tried unsuccessfully in August to get the Senate to call a halt to the building and convert the site into an underground public parking garage and a street-level park. The Senate did agree to cut funds for the building, but the architect is expected to try to have the money restored this year.

Supporters of the building say it is needed because, with the growth of Senate staffs in recent years, the present office space is overcrowded.

Opponents challenge the need for the building in the first place and charge that, in any event, it is far too grand. Present plans call for a rooftop restaurant for senators only, a marble atrium and a hearing room equipped with booths for TV anchormen.

Other Editors Say Talmadge Probe

(Richmond Times-Dispatch)

The list of persons charged with using public office for illegal personal gain continues to lengthen. The latest addition is the name of Democratic Sen. Herman E. Talmadge.

Since June the Senate Select Committee on Ethics has been looking into allegations against the Georgian, but it was not until last Tuesday that the committee formally reported finding "substantial credible evidence of possible improprieties."

A principal allegation is that Sen. Talmadge collected $50,000 from the Senate for non-existent expenses and that he put some of that money, as well as campaign contributions, into a secret account for personal use.

The senator has repaid $37,000 of the $50,000, saying it was drawn through "clerical errors". He contends the other $13,000, as well as $26,000 in campaign funds, was put into a secret account without his approval, by a former aide. The aide says the senator approved the setting up of the account.

Curiously, Mr. Talmadge is the second senator to come under a cloud recently as the result of financial disclosures in divorce proceedings. The other was Republican Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts.

Mr. Talmadge insists that during his more than 22 years on Capitol Hill, and as governor of Georgia before that, he has "always been faithful" to the public trust placed in him by the people of his state.

Possibly the forthcoming probe will tend to prove him right. But from what has been made public about the whole matter thus far, the full-scale investigation seems definitely justified, and it is in the country's best interest that the Senate Ethics Committee be planning to conduct such an inquiry.

40 Years Ago Today

January 2, 1939

Water and Light Commission workmen today completed the task of removing Christmas decorations and lights over the streets in the downtown area of the city.

The decorations were put into use a number of days before Christmas. Most of them were on Evans Street, Fifth Streets and Dickinson Avenue.

Marvin L. Westmoreland, former accountant for the city of Charlotte, arrived here today and began his new duties as finance officer, and purchasing agent for the city.

Westmoreland is a comparatively young man, being only 35 years of age. He is well experienced in municipal affairs however, having been connected with the city of Charlotte for 12 years, eight of which were served under the city manager form of government.

Strength For Today

QUICK KEYS

"Keys while you wait." We have all seen this sign in hardware stores. In a larger sense, it has a meaning that goes far beyond the announcement that we can have an extra door key made in a few minutes.

We are all seeking keys which will unlock for us the treasures of satisfaction, happiness, and wealth. One of these keys is called "pull" — getting to know people who are in a position to help their friends in a material way. Another key is "getting the breaks" — relying on good fortune to do for us what only diligence and dedication can achieve. Then there is the money key, the pleasure key. All of these, by standards of the world, will open doors to happiness, affluence, and social standing.

But it takes much more than these flimsy keys to open the doors, to the things which really count. "Keys while you wait" might seem to be a quick way to get what we want. The trouble is, that after we have opened the door, we often find that there is nothing on the other side.

Some Pay Generous Dividends

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — If you look down the yield column on any list of major stocks, you will find some percentages that might surprise you, such as dividends of 8 percent or more.

In fact, much more. General Motors, the world's largest manufacturer, is the outstanding example, paying 11 percent. But it is not alone; others too are paying in double numbers, or close to them.

In the estimation of some analysts, the situation has been overlooked by those investors who rate stock performance in terms of price growth rather than dividend yield, a measurement traditionally used for bonds.

But as more than a few analysts have pointed out recently, some of the highyielding stocks offer returns that even the corporate bond market cannot supply — and the potential for price appreciation as well.

The situation results from a rather sharp increase in the rate of dividend return in the past few years, combined with stock prices that measure relatively low when compared with prices of earlier years.

As a consequence, stocks in the Dow Jones index of blue chip stocks now pay an average 6 percent dividend, compared with a 50-year average of only 4.2 percent, according to Wright Investors Service.

John Wright calculates that stocks in the index, now in the area of 800 points, return dividends of 49.50. He estimates that by 1983 the same stocks will be paying dividends of 67.50.

During this time stock prices might rise considerably, thus tending to lower the dividend return from the existing high rates.

But not for those who buy at today's prices; for them, the high yield would be locked in. Their return would be based on today's prices rather than the higher prices that might prevail in the future.

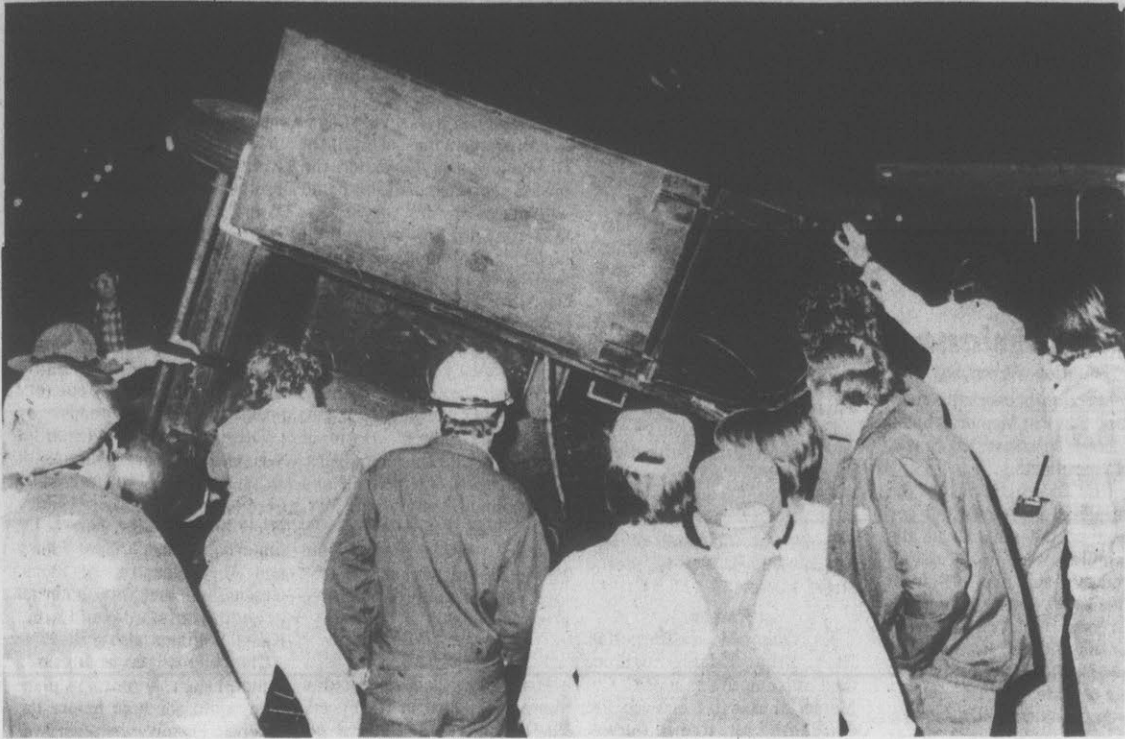

The question bothering many investors who are aware of the potential rewards is whether the market is currently a safe investment, even at what appears to be extremely low prices.

Wright, who's service handles many institutional portfolios from its base in Bridgeport, Conn., maintains that today's stock market represents one of three unusual buying opportunities of this century.

In 1932, he observes, the price of stocks was below book value, or the amount of capital invested plus retained earnings. The situation occurred again in 1974. And again this year.

What makes the current situation unique is that companies are earning good profits and paying solid dividends. Some companies in 1932 had no earnings. And dividends in 1974 were much lower than they are today.

HORSE TRAPPED IN TRAILER — A horse was trapped in a horse carrier, after it was involved in an accident last night on highway N.C. 33 east of Greenville. According to Trooper Donnie Taylor, a truck driven by Max Alfred Jones of Rt. 2, Chocowinity, was headed east on N. C. 33 when it ran off the left side of the road and struck a telephone booth. The truck, according to the investigator, was pulling the horse trailer. The trailer broke away from the truck and struck the self-service gas pumps at Elks'.

Grocery and Grill, completely demolishing the pumps. The horse was freed from the trailer after a vet was summoned to the scene. The horse was not reported injured, and no other injuries were reported. Trooper Taylor said Jones was charged with driving under the influence. Approximately $3,000 damage was caused by the accident. Members of the Eastern Pines fire department also responded to the 8:15 wreck. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Identify 3 Victims In Series Of Sex Slayings

CHICAGO (AP) — They were as young as 15 and as old as 20 when they died. Some worked or John Wayne Gacy Jr., others were their friends. And some still needed to be squirmed from place to place in the family car.

They are the victims so far identified in an apparent series of sex slayings that left bodies in the crawl space, bodies in the river.

Three of the bodies unearthed from the crawl space beneath Gacy's home were identified Monday, and police said the 36-year-old contractor had admitted killing two of the three.

In all, six of the 29 bodies linked to Gacy have been identified. He reportedly has told police he killed 32 boys and young men after having sexual relations with them.

The digging goes on today at Gacy's home near Des Plaines, just northwest of Chicago.

The three victims identified Monday by the Cook County Medical Examiner Dr. Robert Stein were:

—Gregory Godzik, 17, of Chicago, a former employee of Gacy's who had been missing since December 1976.

—John Szyk, 19, a friend of Godzik who also lived in Chicago.

—Richard Johnston, 17, of Bensenville, who was last seen in June 1976 when his mother dropped him off for a rock concert in Chicago.

Police said Gacy had previously confessed to killing Godzik and Szyk. They said Johnston's name had not been mentioned before, but they did not say whether that meant they expected the number of known dead to increase.

Stein said he may have difficulty identifying the rest of the skeletons without help from the relatives of missing persons.

Dental charts of the victims were completed over the weekend. But Stein said he has received only 12 dental charts from relatives of missing persons.

Gacy is officially charged with one murder, that of 15-year-old Robert Piest, of Des Plaines. Gacy reportedly told police he threw Piest's body in the Des Plaines River, but it has not been found.

Charge Five Men In Subway Stabbing

NEW YORK (AP) — Five New York-area men have been arrested and charged with murder in connection with the New Year's Day stabbing death of an unidentified man on a subway platform in Times Square, police said.

It was one of the most serious in a number of crime instances in the Times Square area during the traditional New Year's celebration.

The incident followed reports of gangs of youths robbing and assaulting their way through the crowd of 150,000 at Times Square on New Year's Eve.

Witnesses said the man was stabbed in the stomach and right shoulder during a noisy, bottle-throwing dispute on the subway platform at Times Square around 2:10 a.m., police said. It was not known what the dispute was about.

The victim, a male in his 20s, was taken to Bellevue Hospital where he died at around 5:30 p.m. Monday. Police said he carried no identification papers and the missing persons squad was investigating.

Arrested were: William O'Hanlon, 19, John Cannetti, 22, Ronald Thompson, 22, Carl Indinoli, 27, all of Long Island, and William Thompson, 23, of Brooklyn, police said.

They were to be arraigned today.

Despite reports of 37 robbery arrests and two attempted murders, police said this year's celebration was no worse than any other New Year's Eve, which one patrolman described as "just a nutty night all around."

NEW YORK (AP) — Blue chip and glamor issues declined slightly today as the stock market got a quiet start on 1979.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials slipped 3.12 to 801.89 by noon.

Gainers and losers were about evenly balanced in the over-all tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the political crisis in Iran was keeping investors on their guard.

In addition, they cited a wide range of worries about inflation, high interest rates and the dollar that kept the market on the defensive in the last few months of 1978.

The dollar opened the new year with a decline against some of the leading foreign currencies today.

Actively traded glamor issues included Boeing, down 1 at 70%, and International Business Machines, off 1/2 at 298.

IBM shares rose more than 10 percent in the waning days of last year after the company announced a dividend increase and plans for a 4-for-1 stock split.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index slipped .18 to 53.44. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .25 to 150.81.

Volume on the Big Board came to just 6.70 million shares as of noon, down from 11.30 million at the same point Friday.

Garrett Is Honored At Sunday Dinner

AN APPRECIATION PLAQUE... was presented to D. D. Garrett Sr. (left) Sunday night by Mrs. Betty V. Stith on behalf of "a committee of concerned friends" who held a "This Is Your Life" recognition dinner for him.

A "This Is Your Life" program was held for Greenville leader, Dennis Dover Garrett Sr., Sunday at 6 p.m. at the Ramada Inn here.

Speakers representing religions, ecumenical, fraternal, political, educational and civil rights organizations gathered to toast him.

The Rev. J. H. Taylor, pastor of White Oak Missionary Baptist Church, moderated the affair and portrayed Garrett as "a man who had to come to leadership for times like these."

Mrs. Mary P. Williams headed the committee which planned the recognition program.

Mrs. Willie Mae Carney, vice president of the Bethel Area NAACP, made the presentation for the organization.

F. R. Sanders of the Nu Alpha Chapter of Omega Psi Phi, told how Garrett "had exemplified the cardinal principles of the fraternity — manhood, uplift, scholarship and perseverance."

Miss Flora Keys told how the idea for the "This Is Your Life" was born and brought to fruition.

Miss Jacqueline Scott, a Livingstone College student, told "what an inspiration he has been to the youth of the area."

D. D. Garrett Jr. represented the honoree's family and said he "realizes there is great virtue in bearing the name." Members of the family seated at the head table were Garrett's wife, Clotey, his two sons, D. D. Jr. and Michael; his daughter-in-law, Thelma; and his two grandchildren.

A special presentation was made by Mrs. Betty V. Stith, president of the Lay Council of the A. M. E. Zion Church, with offices in New Rochelle, N. Y. She told of "the outstanding contribution made by Garrett in the ongoing of the second largest black Methodist body in the world."

Garrett said "he has been so busy working for the cause of people, he has at times lost sight of himself and his business and at times perhaps was the object of criticism on the part of his family." He thanked the committee, the participants and everyone for the kind consideration and said he "is rededicating himself to the cause of human concern."

Peace Prayer Welcomed 1979
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II welcomed the new year with a special "peace prayer" asking for an end to war and hatred.

Speaking on the Roman Catholic Church's "World Day of Peace," the 58-year-old pontiff Monday directed his Happy New Year wishes to the sick, imprisoned and those held by kidnappers in Italy.

The pontiff also issued a papal message for the day, entitled "To Reach Peace, Teach Peace." The message, released 10 days ago, asked "all of you who desire peace to make gestures of peace, even audacious ones, to break free from vicious cycles and from the deadweight of passions inherited from history."

Sooners Are Still Frustrated Despite 31-24 Orange Bowl Win

MIAMI (AP) — Oklahoma avenged its only defeat by winning this year's Orange Bowl, but the victory only added to the Sooners' frustration.

Oklahoma ran up a 31-10 lead then held off Nebraska for a 31-24 victory in the "Rematch Bowl." Nebraska won at Lincoln in November, 17-14.

Top-ranked Penn State's Sugar Bowl loss to Alabama left the fourth-ranked Sooners, 11-1, with a longshot chance of moving ahead of two other unbeaten teams, Alabama and Southern Cal. in the Associated Press poll that will be announced Wednesday.

However, most of the Sooners are convinced they let a national championship slip through their fingers when they lost six of nine fumbles during the earlier Nebraska game.

"There's no way this game replaces the first one. There's no way to make up for losing the national championship," said quarterback Thomas Lott, who scored two touchdowns while directing the devastating Sooner Wishbone offense.

"How can you forget losing to them?" asked Lott, who fumbled five times at Lincoln. "Something like that affects your life so much."

The Sooners may have cost themselves a few first-place votes by getting outscored 14-0 in the final quarter. Lott lost a fumble in the quarter, and Nebraska scored a touchdown on the game's final play.

"We were thinking that if the other teams played close games, which they did, and we came in here and scored a lot of points and beat them bad, we could move in there," Sims said.

But nose guard Reggie Kinlaw, who led the Sooner defense with 11 tackles, said the team was drained by then.

"Both the offense and defense were very tired, because we played so hard. It's very hard to stop the No. 1 offense in the nation," he said.

Alabama Whips Penn State, Waits For Results Of Poll

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Alabama went home today to wait for the ballots to be counted. Penn State went home counted out.

Alabama's No. 2-ranked Crimson Tide beat No. 1-ranked Penn State, 14-7 New Year's day in the Sugar Bowl, and thus laid claim to college football's national championship.

There might be some argument from Southern California, which like Alabama finished an 11-1 season, including a win over the Tide, but legendary Coach Bear Bryant and his Alabama team most assuredly have the inside track to their fourth national crown.

Alabama accomplished the feat of kayoing Penn State with $ punishing defense that intercepted four passes thrown by the losers' quarterback, Chuck Fusina, and sacked the All-American five times.

The offense found a stubborn foe in Penn State's nation-leading defense, but scored on a 30-yard pass from quarterback Jeff Rutledge to split end Bruce Bolton in the second quarter for a 7-0 halftime lead.

After Penn State came back to tie on a 17-yard pass from Fusina to split end Scott Fitzkee in the third quarter, the Tide put the winning touchdown on the board with an 8-yard scoring run by Major Ogilvie in the same period.

The big plays, however, for the winners came in the fourth period with some six minutes left.

Penn State recovered a fumble at the Tide 19. The Lions moved to the 1 with two downs to score the tying touchdown. But Alabama's defense rose to turn back runs by Matt Suhey and Mike Guman, taking possession inches from their end zone.

But the Tide wasn't out of danger yet. They were forced to punt, and the ball shanked out-of-bounds on the Alabama 20. Penn State, however, had 12 men on the field at the time, and the penalty gave the ball back to the Tide with a first down.

Penn State Coach Joe Paterno refused to identify the 12th man.

"The kid just didn't come out," Paterno said. "We won one that way one time in a bowl game (15-14 against Kansas in 1968), and now we blew one the same way. That's the first time we've had 12 men on the field probably in five years."

All-American tackle Keith Dorney probably said it all for a Penn State team that didn't cry, make excuses, or blame anyone but themselves for the crushing loss.

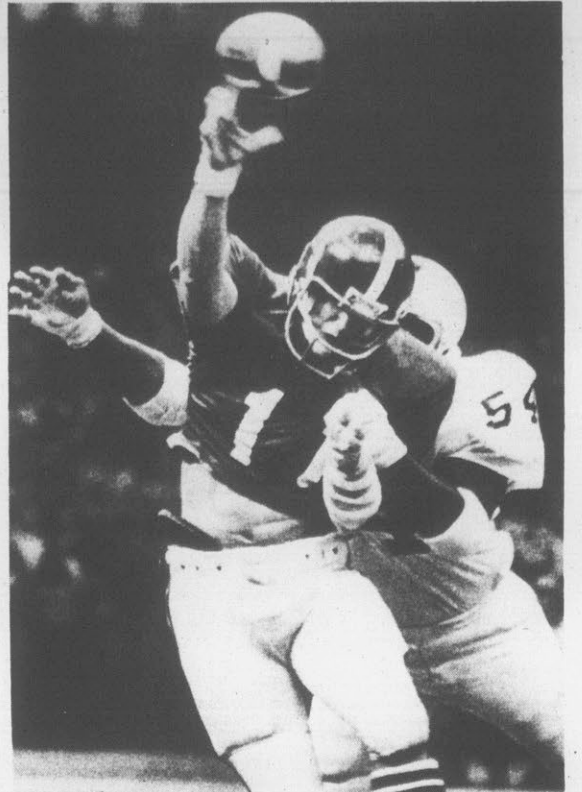

"We messed up. We blew it. It hurts real bad. At this point I'm not sure whether to cry or laugh. I've done plenty of the former, now it's time to forget it."

Penn State, from Paterno on down, conceded the national title to Alabama.

"We had to win and we didn't, so we're out of it," said Paterno, who tried to hide his feelings behind a face etched in disappointment.

Bryant said he hoped the voters would give Alabama the national crown when the ballots were counted Tuesday night and the result was announced by The Associated Press at 6 a.m. Wednesday.

As for a final word on Penn State. To add insult to injury, the loss ended the Lions' 19-game major college football winning streak, longest in the nation.

Pirates Face Strong Iona

East Carolina University's Pirates return to action tonight, continuing their current Northern road trip at New Rochelle, N.Y., against Iona College.

The Iona club comes into the game with a 7-2 record, fresh from its victory in its own New Rochelle Invitational Tournament. Iona's only defeats came at the hands of Syracuse and Auburn, the latter on the road.

East Carolina enters the game with a 4-6 record, having finished in second place in the Connecticut Mutual Tournament this past weekend. The Pirates beat Manhattan in the first round, but lost, 80-68, to hosting Connecticut in the finals.

Iona is led by Jeff Ruland, one of the country's top freshmen last year, who paced his team to a 96-74 win over the Bucs in Greenville. Ruland, who averaged 22.3 points a game last season, is not quite doing that well this season, but is among the national leaders in field goal percentage. Through the first six games, he had hit on 50 of 75 shots from the floor, a 66.7 percentage, tenth best in the country.

Following the game, the Pirates return home, and will next play host to the University of South Carolina on Wednesday, January 10.

No Shouts Of 'We're No. 1'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It was almost like part of the childhood ritual of wishing on a star — the part that says your wish won't come true if you say what you wished for.

The Alabama players were eager to talk about the exploits of their teammates in the 14-7 conquest of Penn State in the Sugar Bowl Monday, but there were no exuberant shouts of, "We're No. 1," as might be expected when the second-ranked team beats the top-ranked team.

They made more noise after beating lesser teams during the regular season.

"Well, we're pretty tired," said Barry Krause, the line-backer named most valuable player in the contest.

"I think that what you're seeing is satisfaction," said Jim Bunch, the offensive guard who drew the assignment of going headup with tough Penn State tackle Bruce Clark.

"We're sort of calm because of what happened last year. We have to wait and see what happens," said quarterback Jeff Rutledge, who mentioned the team's unanimous wish only in response to direct questions.

Last year, Alabama beat Ohio State in the Sugar Bowl and felt it should have moved up to first after Notre Dame upset Texas in the Cotton Bowl and Oklahoma fell to Arkansas in the Orange Bowl. But Notre Dame vaulted ahead of the Crimson Tide in the final poll.

The Penn State dressing room was also quiet, but theirs was the silence of disappointment. The school has never won a national college football championship.

But there were no alibis, no attempts to put the blame somewhere else. Others might claim that tight end Brad Scovill was interfered with in his efforts to catch a desperation pass in the waning seconds of the game, but the Penn State players didn't mention it.

Nor were they arguing that either Matt Suhey or Mike Guman had scored on dives from the 6-inch line. Both were stopped short by the Alabama defense.

"I didn't get a good jump," Suhey said. "I didn't really get the height."

"The linebackers just plugged the gap. They stopped me. That's all there is to it," said Guman. "I thought the play would go, but they just played excellent defense."

Causing The Fumble

Controversial Touchdown Lets Southern Cal Edge Wolverines

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Controversy undoubtedly will arise over the national college football championship since Southern Cal whipped Michigan in the Rose Bowl — in a game itself marked by controversy.

The third-ranked Trojans, 12-1, staked their final claim to the national title with a 17-10 victory over the Wolverines, who finished the season 11-2 and were fifth-ranked going into Monday's Rose Bowl.

The No. 1 spot became clouded when second-rated Alabama beat Top-ranked Penn State 14-7 in the Sugar Bowl. USC lists among its victories this year a 24-14 win over the Crimson Tide in Tuscaloosa.

Southern Cal got the help of a disputed touchdown in its victory over Michigan, making its third consecutive losing Rose Bowl appearance.

Trojan tailback Charles White dove three yards for USC's second touchdown, but fumbled on the play. A taped replay appeared to show White had fumbled before he made it to the end zone, but the officials ruled it a touchdown and wiped out Michigan's fumble recovery.

"I didn't see the controversial call, but obviously, what everyone says was that it wasn't a touchdown," said Wolverine Coach Bo Schembechler. "I don't want to talk about the officiating. It will just get me in trouble. But it's a shame that something like that has to take away from the effort of our kids."

"Heck, I didn't know what was going on, but I know there aren't a lot of errors made in those kind of calls," said USC Coach John Robinson.

Davis Gains For Cougars

quarter of the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas Monday. Randy Love (22) Houston fullback, puts a block on Pete Johnson, Notre Dame middle linebacker. (AP Laserphoto)

Irish Rescue Win From Houston

DALLAS (AP) — "They kept celebrating and we kept coming," said Dave Huffman. Notre Dame's center and team philosopher after a last-second touchdown gave the Irish a 35-34 Cotton Bowl victory over Houston.

Dallas had its worst ice storm in 30 years, the wind chill factor was minus-8 degrees, and 39,500 fans didn't show up. Only a handful of the 32,500 who braved the cold saw Joe Montana hit Kris Haines with an 8-yard touchdown pass as time ran out to tie the game.

Joe Unis was then pressed into twice kicking what proved to be the winning point, and the 10th-ranked Irish had culminated one of the best comebacks in Notre Dame history.

The Irish trailed the 9th-ranked Cougars 34-12 with less than eight minutes remaining, but a blocked-punt touchdown by Steve Cinchy and a two-point conversion cut Houston's lead to 34-20 with 7:25 remaining.

"When we were behind, 34-12, we weren't overconfident, but we were still very confident we could win the game," said Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine. "There was a feeling on the bench that we could do it."

With Joe Montana — who has been fighting a flu — on the field after an extended halftime absence, the Irish drove from their 39-yard line. With 4:15 left, Montana ran the final two yards; then hit Haines with a pass for two points to trim the lead to 34-28.

After a Houston punt and a Montana fumble at the Houston

16, an Irish offside penalty on a punt gave the Cougars a fourth-and-inches on their own 29 and the Southwest Conference champs opted to go for it.

"We had gained over 200 yards rushing, so I figured we could gouge out a yard and cinch the game," said Houston

Coach Bill Yeoman.

Notre Dame held Mike Calhoun, Steve Heimkreiter and Joe Gramke cut down Emmett King, Houston's 1,000-yard rusher, for no gain.

Montana gained 11 and then hit Haines for 10 more. With six seconds left, Montana threw to Haines for an incompletion, but with two seconds left, Montana and Haines worked the same play for a touchdown.

"It's a quick-out pattern," said Haines. "We ran it with six seconds left, but got a little mixed up. Joe then asked me if I could beat my man again and I said yes."

Houston, Dallas Get Their Wishes For Conference Finals

By BERT ROSENTHAL

The Houston Oilers and the Dallas Cowboys have gotten their wishes.

The Oilers have been made underdogs for Sunday's American Football Conference championship game against the Pittsburgh Steelers at Pittsburgh.

And the Cowboys have been assured that first-string quarterback Roger Staubach will be ready for Sunday's National Football Conference title contest against the Los Angeles Rams at Los Angeles.

The winners will advance to Super Bowl XIII Jan. 21 at the Orange Bowl in Miami.

Both the Cowboys and the Steelers have won two Super Bowls — no team ever has won more — whereas the Oilers and Rams never have participated in the National Football League's major postseason extravaganza.

Dallas, the defending champion, and Pittsburgh are favored to meet there again, just as they did in Super Bowl X, with the Steelers defeating the Cowboys 21-17, the last time the NFL championship was decided in Miami. Pittsburgh's other Super Bowl triumph was 16-6 over the Minnesota Vikings in Super Bowl IX.

Dallas' victories were 24-3 over the Miami Dolphins in Super VI and 27-10 over the Denver Broncos last season. The Cowboys lost to the Baltimore Colts 16-13 in Super Bowl V.

Houston quarterback Dan Pastorini directed the Oilers to a 31-14 romp over the favored New England Patriots last Sunday in the second round of the AFC playoffs. The Oilers also upset Miami 17-9 in the opening round of the playoffs Dec. 24.

In the other second-round games, Pittsburgh trounced Denver 33-10 last Saturday; Dallas, with the injured Staubach on the sidelines in the second half, overcame the Atlanta Falcons 27-20 Saturday, and Los Angeles whipped Minnesota 33-10 Sunday.

The Steelers got a solid blend of running and passing in their playoff game against Denver, as quarterback Terry Bradshaw clicked on 16 of 29 passes for 272 yards and fourth-period scoring strikes to John Stallworth and Lynn Swann, and big Franco Harris rushed 24 times for 105 yards and two first-half TDs.

Staubach was knocked cold

Elsewhere, fourth-ranked Michigan State won the Far West Classic with a 74-57 victory over Big Ten colleague Indiana; fifth-ranked North Carolina won the Rochester (N.Y.) Classic with a 121-69 rout of Niagara and No. 6 Illinois took the Glacier Classic in Anchorage, Alaska, with a 98-90 victory over Alaska-Anchorage.

For a while, the Duke Blue Devils were perfect. Then they were perfectly awful.

The nation's No. 1 college basketball team could do no wrong for the first six games of the season, then did nothing right while losing two games in the ECAC Holiday Festival Tournament in New York.

The Blue Devils first lost an opening-round game to Ohio State, 90-84 in overtime, on Friday night. Then they dropped a 69-66 decision to St. John's in the consolation game Saturday night before Rutgers won the title with a thrilling, triple-overtime 97-96 victory over the Buckeyes.

Notre Dame's second-ranked team also went through an unpleasant weekend, losing 81-76 to No. 13 Kentucky. Another Top Twenty team, 14th-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas, also went Down, losing an 89-79 decision to Temple in the finals of the Las Vegas Classic.

Indiana State, ranked No. 11, defeated Morris Harvey 99-63; 12th-ranked Texas A&M turned back Vermont 104-76 in the finals of the Vermont Classic; 15th-ranked Georgetown blasted the University of the District of Columbia 96-56; 16th-rated Marquette took the Milwaukee Classic with a 61-57 decision over

North Carolina-Charlotte; 17th-ranked Long Beach stopped Loyola of Chicago 84-73; No. 18 Kansas beat Colorado 72-66 in the finals of the Big Eight Tournament in Kansas City, and No. 20 Arkansas defeated Memphis State 82-69.

GRID EARRINGS

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) —

The defensive unit of the Utah football team, acting on a whim, decided to wear earrings at the start of the 1978 season. There were three holdouts, defensive end Jeff Lyall, defensive coordinator Tom Gadd and defensive line coach Sam Moore.

The three men promised the rest of the unit they would go along if Utah beat Brigham Young. So, when the final score was Utah 23, Brigham Young 22, they were inducted. The trio was surrounded at midfield after the game by the other defenders, who pierced their ears with needles right on the spot.

Bill Dineen, later an umpire, won three games for the Boston Red Sox against the Pittsburgh Pirates in the 1903 World Series, the first ever played.

Reigning world team champions Bob Hamman and

Bobby Wolff, both of Dallas, teamed up with former world champions Ira Rubin of

Paramus, N.J., and Fred

Hamilton of Hollywood,

Calif., and this quartet completely dominated the Board-

a-Match team championship

at the North American Fall

Nationals. They led from the start, and at the end of the grueling six-session event they were so far ahead of the field that you needed a telescope to see who finished second. Their victory earned them a play-off spot to determine who will represent the

United States in the 1980

Olympiad.

North-South's bidding

needs some explanation.

They were employing weak no trump opening bids and Jacoby transfers. Thus North's bid of two hearts was a request that his partner bid spades. This enables the stronger hand to be concealed, which makes the defense more difficult.

You would not have thought so if you watched Hamman-Wolff attack the hand. Wolff led the king, ace and another diamond, ruffed by Hamman. Even looking at all the hands, it is not easy to spot the best defense, but Hamman had no problem. He calmly returned a club into the teeth of dummy's ace-jack.

Declarer could have countered this clever shift, but he failed to do so. He won with dummy's jack and led a trump. East won and continued with a second club. Declarer led another trump, but East won again and persisted with a third club. West's ruff spelled a one-trick defeat.

Did you spot where declarer went wrong? After winning the second round of clubs with the ace, declarer should have led dummy's high diamond and pitched a club from his hand! The defenders are now helpless. Regardless of whether or not East ruffs the fourth diamond with his high trump, declarer ruffs a club with his queen of spades, crosses to dummy with a heart ruff, and leads the jack of spades. This will limit the defense to two diamond tricks, two high trumps and one ruff.

longest and most expensive miniseries ever tackled by a network, and I think executive producer John Wilder and his crew have done a remarkable job. Some of TV's old war horses suddenly found roles worthy of their often untapped talent. It was probably the first time Robert Conrad was ever really challenged to act, and his Pasquinel was memorable character.

Some episodes were better than others, and one or two limped along like Levi Zandt's wagon. My favorite was the one in which Levi and his bride, Elly, traveled west. Elly, played by Stephanie Zimbalist, was the most vibrant and appealing character of all, and her death at the end came like a blow.

NBC's "Holocaust," that magnificent, tragic soap opera played against the German atrocities of World War II, was another great achievement. It was an emotionally wrenching series where individual stories made the suffering intimate and more painful. It showed that the Jews didn't all march peacefully into the gas chambers, and that the Nazi monsters often as not were petty bureaucrats.

Other best movies and miniseries, in no particular order, were:

"A Woman Called Moses," NBC — A vivid study of the little-known life of Harriet Tubman and her personal fight against slavery. Cicely Tyson proved once again she is one of the best actresses around.

"Mary White," ABC — A touching story fashioned from William Allen White's editorial about the untimely death of his young daughter, Kathleen Beller brought her convincingly to life.

"Roll of Thunder, Hear My Cry," ABC — This three-part story of the struggle of a black family to hold onto its farm during the Depression in Mississippi, started out as a children's show. Fortunately, ABC gave us all a chance to enjoy it.

"Ziegfeld: The Man and his Women," NBC — A film biography of the master showman done in the rich, old-fashioned way of the movies of the 1930s. "Rainbow," about the early life of Judy Garland, and "Bud and Lou," about Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, were also excellent Hollywood biographies.

"Verna, the USO Girl," PBS

Sissy Spacek tugged at our hearts as a lovable klutz of a song-and-dance girl with two left feet and a permanently off-key voice.

Ayden Annexation Step Calls For Town Services

By REBECCA BUFFALO
Reflector Staff Writer

AYDEN — In the past few years, an area west of Ayden known as "The Pines" has seen substantial residential growth.

At the present time, around 55 homes are located in the area. The Ayden Planning Board has approved a preliminary plat for an additional 42 homes. There is also other vacant land within the area that can be developed.

Ayden town officials feel that to insure orderly growth, "The Pines" should be annexed, along with three other areas near the present town limits: portions of Strawberry Banks, Section II, located east of Ayden on Sunnyside Road; the area located between Second and Third Streets east of Ayden; and the Skylight Inn area on S. Lee St.

The three named areas are presently served by town water and sewer services and would require very little or no expense at the time of annexation.

A study conducted by the North Carolina Department of Natural and Economic Resources in 1977, financed in part by a 701 Comprehensive Grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, was made to ascertain the cost revenue aspects of services needed by the Pines.

Since the Town Board of Commissioners have decided to undertake annexation of the area, state statutes require that extension of services should be basically the same as in the municipality.

Since monies are needed to be on hand before annexation, actually takes place, Ayden voters will decide on the issue in a bond referendum vote on Tuesday, Jan. 9.

The bond referendum for sewer improvements, at a cost of $225,000, will cover two 125 gallon per minute lift stations, main, and 10,000 feet of eight-inch sanitary sewer.

Although the estimated cost of the project is $291,158, the town has been approved for a North Carolina Clean Water Grant for $47,961. Request is pending approval in January for an additional $18,197.

If the bond referendum fails to pass, the Clean Water Grant will be withdrawn and given to another city in the state.

Using the $225,000 figure as the total debt, an estimated $13,000 annual payment of principal and interest will be made.

However, the town anticipates around $5,000 to be paid in sewer charges from the residents of "The Pines" upon annexation. This figure, along with other revenues received from the residents after annexation will be used to pay the debt.

The town officials have estimated that around $33,000 will be received through additional property taxes, sales taxes, alcoholic beverage control revenues, Powell Bill street funds, revenue sharing and utility fees upon annexation. Additional development would increase revenues and population.

Although the proposed project will not raise sewer rates, officials anticipate a six to ten cent per 1,000 gallon sewer increase during the July 79-June 1980 budget year to offset water revenues that were used to support the sewer in the past two years.

Residents of "The Pines" presently receive water, electric, fire protection and police protection in emergency situations. They also are able to use town recreation facilities and the town library.

If the area is annexed, sewer, garbage and trash collection will be provided as well as street maintenance, police protection and street lighting.

Residents in the annexed area will pay for sewer and garbage collection services as do other Ayden citizens.

The funds gained from the bond sale will be used for the sewer installation, except for the tap-on fees which will be paid by the residents. Police protection, street lighting and street maintenance will be provided by town employees.

Services such as the fire, police, garbage collection and street maintenance will be extended to "The Pines" residents effective the date of annexation.

According to Town Manager Don Russell, work on the sewer project will probably not begin until the summer, when the weather is more stable.

Benefits from the annexation will include an increased tax base, increased revenues and a larger population.

With an increased tax base, the town's total tax valuation will be larger. An increased population would support new levels of community services and possibly aid the town in applying and receiving federal and state funding. Also, larger shares of revenues would be received from such state and federal agencies as local sales tax distribution according to the size of the municipality.

If "The Pines" area is annexed, fire and homeowner insurance rates will decrease, as well as water rates, which are double the in-town charges.

If the bond issue passes, Ayden will elect to use a uniform legislative standard as set forth in the General Statutes to annex the area.

The standard requires that the governing body should use a notice of intent on consideration of annexation, a notice on a public hearing, an area description, plans for extending municipal services and a public hearing for all interested citizens to air their views on the matter.

After the public hearing, the Board of Commissioners would have 60 days to adopt an ordinance to extend the corporate limits.

Town Manager Russell has stated if the sewer bond passes, two or three courtesy hearings will be held before the required meeting so that citizens will have extended opportunity to learn about the project and to voice their opinions.

It has also been pointed out that the Board of Commissioners may make the annexation effective any date within 12 months of the adoption of the annexation ordinance. After the date of the effective annexation, the citizens and property will become subject to all debts, laws, ordinances, policies and regulations of Ayden.

Preyer Now Convinced Of Kennedy Conspiracy

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — U.S. Representative Richardson Preyer says he is now convinced there was a conspiracy to assassinate President John F. Kennedy.

But when Preyer first joined the House subcommittee investigating the assassination, he doubted whether more than one gunman was involved in the assassination.

In fact, Preyer did not initially think a congressional investigation was needed. But in time, he was convinced a congressional probe, in addition to the findings of the Warren Commission, could be useful.

And now, he says "acoustics evidence is very convincing" that a shot, in addition to the three allegedly fired by Lee Harvey Oswald, was fired at the presidential motorcade from behind a fence on a nearby grassy knoll.

"This is hard scientific evidence," Preyer said about the report from acoustics experts. "We know there was somebody there, but we don't know who he was or what calibre rifle he used."

Early in the subcommittee's investigation, members appeared to be moving toward conclusions similar to those of the Warren Commission — that Oswald, acting alone, shot the president from a sixth-floor window of the Texas School Book Depository in Dallas.

But three acoustics experts studied a tape recording of the gunfire directed at the motorcade and concluded there was a second gunman.

The committee's full report will be released in March and will conclude that Oswald fired the first shot and missed. The report will say he then fired a second shot, which struck Kennedy in the neck, exited his body and hit Texas Gov. John Connally, who was riding in the front seat of Kennedy's limousine.

A third shot was fired from behind a fence on the grassy knoll and missed, the committee concluded. Then Oswald fired the fourth and last shot, according to the committee.

"I think the laws of probability would say a conspiracy was involved," Preyer said. "It would be too startling a coincidence."

The report will state that the Soviets, the Cubans, the major anti-Castro and pro-Castro groups that were operating in the U.S. at the time, the FBI, the CIA and "organized crime" did not have any part in the conspiracy.

But Preyer emphasized that does not necessary mean individual members of anti-Castro groups or individual organized-crime figures did not participate in a conspiracy.

Home Violence A Real Problem

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Violence in the home is a serious problem in North Carolina, according to outgoing Secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety J. Phil Carlton.

Carlton described family violence as the "most important, the most serious and the most upsetting issue" addressed in a crime control report released last week.

"People don't enter marriage with the thought that it may be violent, but sometimes it works out that way," said Linda C. Lapp, a psychological social worker and director to the Women's Center of Raleigh.

Lapp said couples often fight, apologize and vow never to fight again. "But pretty soon it becomes more of a regular thing in the household," she said.

North Carolina officials report that during 1976 more than 25 percent of all murders in the state occurred between family members. Twenty-three percent of law enforcement officials assaulted in the line of duty in the same year were injured while answering domestic calls, officials say.

And in 1977, there were 15,511 reported cases of suspected child abuse, statistics from the state Department of Human Resources show. That is more than double the number of reported cases in 1971.

"The veneer of the family as a harmonious institution is cracking," Carlton wrote in the report. He leaves the crime control department today to take a seat on the state Court of Appeals.

"There is growing sentiment that it is altogether proper for society to intervene; indeed, that society must intervene, when violence occurs within the family," Carlton wrote.

In the report he suggested, among other things that a two-year task force be created to study family violence in the state, and that a special trespass law be instituted under which a separated spouse could be arrested and prosecuted for returning to the family home.

Held Workshop For Enrollees

The Martin County Community Action Program, which operates the Pitt County Manpower Program here recently held a workshop on careers for the in-school enrollees.

The Manpower Program employs in-school students and adults to provide them with work experience and to aid financial support.

The 65 students attending the workshop were from J. H. Rose, Agnes Fullilove, Farmville Central, D. H. Conley, North Pitt and Ayden-Grifton High Schools.

Counselors Joyce Daniels and Deborah Paul opened the session and announced the workshop schedule and contents. A filmstrip concerning choosing a career was shown followed by a question and answer period. Karate expert Calvin Nicholson entertained the group with a martial arts demonstration.

The group also discussed program events for the new year.
