Seeking Assembly Repeal Of Higher Pay Voted In '78

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A flood of new legislation has been filed in the General Assembly in its first week of business, and among it is a measure that would repeal the pay raise legislators voted themselves last year.

Acknowledging "this probably makes me the most unpopular guy on the block," freshman state Rep. Howard Coble, R-Guilford, filed a bill Thursday that would roll back legislative pay to its 1977 level.

In the waning days of the 1978 General Assembly, a bill was approved that granted a 25 percent increase in pay and expense allowances for the legislators.

It upped standard legislative pay from $4,800 a year to $6,000; the daily expense allowance from $35 to $44; and the monthly expense account from $100 to $150.

"Nobody's going to be shortsighted on this thing, because I know everybody in here can live comfortably in Raleigh for this session without it," Coble said of the old pay raise.

"If this was New Orleans or Atlanta, maybe they'd need it. But not in Raleigh."

The daily expenses are paid seven days a week as long as the legislature is in session, while the salary and monthly expenses are paid over the year.

In addition to reducing the regular pay and expenses for legislators, Coble's bill would substantially reduce the higher salaries and expenses earned by legislative leaders. House Speaker Carl Stewart, for example, would see his pay drop $3,000, to $9,000.

Coble, who was secretary of revenue under Gov. Jim Holshouser, said the pay raises were highly unpopular and that he campaigned against them last year.

"I feel government squandering is contributing to inflation, and there's no better place to be prudent fiscally than in our own backyard," he said.

"This is not just a symbolic gesture. I'm thinking that it may well have a chance to pass," Coble added.

Report Unemployment Seeing But Slight Rise

By MICHAEL DOAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) —

The nation's unemployment rate edged up from 5.8 percent to 5.9 percent last month as the number of persons holding jobs increased by a relatively small 104,000, the Labor Department said today.

However, the department said both black and white workers and adult men and women scored strong gains for all of 1978, the third year of sharp expansion in jobs.

December's employment growth was much slower than that of previous months and was down sharply from November when 510,000 new jobs were created.

Some private economists say the Carter administration's success in bringing down the unemployment rate is clouded by the prospect of a business downturn.

Because of the emphasis on fighting inflation, these economists expect the jobless rate to rise later this year. They say new jobs must be created steadily to keep the unemployment rate from rising because of the increase in the working-age population.

In its year-end review, the Labor Department said the number of persons with jobs increased by 3.3 million in 1978, with 2.1 million of the new jobs going to women.

The department said the only group with a worse job situation for 1978 were teenagers. About one out of every four unemployed person was between ages 16 and 19.

The unemployment rates for most categories showed little change last month.

When President Carter took office in January 1977, 7.8 percent of the work force was unemployed and the administration spent several billion dollars to create more jobs.

Since then, the unemployment rate has dropped to nearly 6 percent and the government has described inflation as the nation's No. 1 problem. The administration plans to reduce some job programs in an attempt to balance the budget.

In fighting inflation, the government has also been trying to make money more scarce by driving up interest rates, and most economists believe this will lead to slower economic growth.

Two, Arthur Okun and Alan Greenspan, agreed Thursday that the chances of a recession are strong. Greenspan, chief economic adviser to former President Gerald Ford, said the predicted recession would be modest unless home prices decline.

City Council OKs Action For Funds

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The City Council, following a public hearing last night, authorized the submission of the city's Community Development Small Cities Block Grant preapplication for some $2.1 million over the next three years.

The Small Cities program, a new segment of the now familiar Community Development program, allows Greenville, if funded, to improve concentrated areas of deteriorated housing and public facilities.

Mayor Percy Cox invited citizens to offer their suggestions and requests regarding the use of the Small Cities Funds. Greenville, by having a population of less than 50,000, is eligible to apply for the Small Cities block grant participation.

During the public hearing, E. J. Waters Jr. of Chestnut Street asked that the city consider the improvement of lighting in the Higgs Neighborhood.

Mrs. Lillian Harris of McDowell Street also said that lights are needed in her neighborhood. She said that the area behind the neighborhood is grown up and residents are afraid to go out after dark.

Lights were also cited by Robert Lee Cherry of Greenville as being needed in the W. Fifth Street area near the old Eppes High School. Cherry said that lights have been promised for the area but they have never been installed.

Donovan Phillips of Colonial Avenue requested that funds be allocated from the grant to assist a group of young people who are trying to organize an effort to combat alcoholism. Phillips said that funds that are designated for the county out of the ABC store profits are not channeled to the grass roots level but usually go to programs such as the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center and Mental Health.

Phillips said there is a need for funds to support an ongoing program. He added that alcoholism has reached the middle school level here.

The Rev. B. B. Felder expressed concern about the posture of the Riverdale Neighborhood and he mentioned areas where funds could be used. He said that the lack of sidewalks and the poor condition of sidewalks that do exist in the Third Street School area pose a safety problem for small children walking to school. Felder also mentioned the lighting situation in the area and the need for improvement.

Felder said that the Moyewood Center has been "taken out of service to the community" and he asked that the facility be made available again for use by the citizens of Greenville. Churches are being overworked, he said, in trying to provide "this type of service." The building was constructed for community use, the spokesman asserted.

Donna Whitley of the Higgs Neighborhood Association pointed to the need for a better educational program to inform residents of the Higgs neighborhood as to what the Community Development program involves.

She said the neighborhood is ready for workshops on "what the program is all about." Saying there is a need to identify leadership in the neighborhood, she recommended that funds be designated for the hiring of a community organizer.

Specific areas of need in the Higgs section involve housing, recreation, crime prevention and sidewalks, Ms. Whitley added.

Rufus Huggins also mentioned the need for the Moyewood Center to be made available as a community facility. He said that "Never has a decision been made by so few that affects so many people." Told that the building was being used for a day care center, Huggins said that the facility was not being used for the purpose it was intended.

Cox told Felder and Huggins that he would be glad to discuss the Moyewood Center situation with them.

Mary Taft of the Greenfield Terrace area said that a recreation center is still needed there. She also asked when

Wintry Storm Strikes

By The Associated Press

A winter storm spread freezing rain and sleet through North Carolina this morning, prompting the National Weather Service forecasting office in Raleigh to issue an ice storm warning for this afternoon and tonight for the Piedmont, eastern mountain slopes and foothills.

Travelers advisories were in effect for the western two-thirds of the state as the precipitation, mostly freezing rain and sleet but also mixed with snow, spread into the southern tier of counties from Georgia and South Carolina.

The storm, developing from a low pressure system in the Gulf of Mexico and cold air flowing in from the northeast, glazed bridges and overpasses, causing numerous traffic accidents throughout the affected area.

Schools in some areas either did not open or classes were let out early.

Cleveland, Gaston, Lincoln and Surry counties were among those that called off classes because of dangerous driving conditions, and Forsyth and Union counties were among those planning early release of classes.

Travelers advisories were issued for a broad area of the state, ranging from the mountains through the foothills and Piedmont and on to the coast.

The Highway Patrol in Raleigh estimated more than 100 wrecks in Wake and surrounding counties, and in Charlotte police said there had been "dozens" of wrecks.

WANTS DISCARDS

I am a heart patient and have recently been certified for Social Security Disability, but the paper work hasn't gone through yet. My wife has had two cancer operations and is also unable to work. We have three children.

I don't want to be dependent on anybody. So I've come up with an idea: If anybody has anything they would normally discard — broken furniture, broken appliances, outgrown and castoff clothes, whatever, I would like to have it to fix it up and sell in a flea market-type operation. I live on Highway 33 toward Belvoir about a mile and a half past Belvoir Elementary School. There's a Barrus Construction sign in my front yard. Anyone having anything to share can either bring it to me, or let me know and I'll pick it up within two days after I get a note. (I don't have a telephone). My address is Ben Lynn, Rt. 4, Box 53, Greenville.

The 68 were greeted by a roar of welcome from more than 500 friends and relatives waiting outside the prison. The 68 are among a total of 266 to be released under the decree. (AP Laserphoto)

Reviewing Bids On Med School

Dr. William Laupus, Dean of the School of Medicine at East Carolina University said today that officials are still "working through" bids for construction of a building to house the medical school.

Bids for construction of the facility, to be located near Pitt Memorial Hospital, were taken December 13, and were 18 percent over the $25 million appropriated for the project.

"We're getting fairly close to a final decision," Laupus said, describing negotiations as a "tedious process."

Saying, "We asked for a 30 day extension this week," to allow more time to work in reducing the cost of the facility, Laupus emphasized, "It's to our advantage to do this as quickly as possible."

He pointed out that any decision school and University of North Carolina general administration officials make will then have to go to the State Property and Construction office for final approval.

Legislators Advised To Prepare For Recession

SOMETHING TO GIGGLE ABOUT!—Andrea Weitman laughs Thursday as family dog nuzzles her cheek in Wantagh, N.Y. home. The Long Island girl has something else to laugh about, too. It seems she spent two years in the Cub Scouts, rose to the highest rank and earned

By SHARON BOND
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Legislators who will be deciding what type of tax relief, if any, North Carolinians get, heard an economist predict the state will suffer from a national recession that is likely to be more severe than was first thought.

The joint House and Senate Appropriations Committee organized Thursday and the General Assembly's revenue forecaster told the members that North Carolina will feel the effects of the recession this fall. David Crofts said it is expected to last about six months.

Crofts said he drew his forecast from what is expected nationally since he had no reason to think North Carolina's economy would differ from that of the rest of the nation.

Although the recession is expected to be slightly more severe than first predicted, Crofts said economists don't expect it to be as severe as the 1975 recession or last as long.

He said tax collections for the first five months of 1978-79 fiscal year have been "impressive and consistent." The current growth rate of state revenues is 14 percent, far above the 9.4 percent projected in the current state budget.

Bills concerning taxes, liquor elections and government spending were among those filed in the Senate and House Thursday.

Taxes

A bill that would amend the state constitution to make it more difficult for the legislature to raise taxes was filed by Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston, the finance chairman. It would require a two-thirds vote by each chamber rather than a simple majority before any tax could be increased.

Liquor

Rep. Mary Nesbitt, D-Buncombe, filed a House bill to allow absentee ballots to be counted in local elections involving alcoholic beverage and beer and wine sales.

Government

Sen. I.C. Crawford, D-Buncombe, filed a resolution declaring that the policy of the General Assembly is to reduce the number of state employees. And Rep. John M. Jordan, D-Alamance, filed a bill that would tie the increase in the number of state employees each year to the rate of the state's population growth.

Toxic Waste

Rep. Dave DeRamus, D-Forsyth, filed a bill calling for regulation of the disposal of toxic substances. It would make it a felony to dispose of PCBs unless state and federal regulations were followed, and carry a fine of up to $100,000 per day and imprisonment for violations.

Traffic

North Carolina motorists will be able to turn left on a red light under certain conditions if a bill filed by Jordan is enacted. Drivers facing a red light at an intersection with a one-way street, after coming to a stop and yielding, would be permitted to turn left.

Drunk Drivers

A bill filed in the House by Rep. George Hux, D-Halifax, would make it a misdemeanor for a person "to cause or knowingly permit" another person who is under the influence of alcohol to drive.

Youthful Offenders

A bill filed by Rep. Parks Helms, D-Mecklenburg, would allow a court to expunge the Small craft advisories were records of anyone under 18 who was charged with a crime and found innocent, or in cases in which charges were dismissed.

Elderly

Two bills concerning older citizens in North Carolina were filed Thursday. Rep. Ernest B. Messer, D-Haywood, filed a bill that would allow an exemption from income on a one-time basis up to $100,000 from the sale of a residence for persons 55 or older.

Jordan filed a bill that would exempt persons age 75 or older from various kinds of taxes including those from income on property, business, trade, procession or occupation.

Others

Included in other bills filed Thursday was one by Jordan to reduce the size of school classrooms in North Carolina by one student each year for four years starting this fall.

Rep. Richard R. Grady, D-Wayne, filed a bill that would exempt documentary material concerning the disposition of property from consideration as public record until the transaction is completed.

Governor Agrees With UNC Position On No Interference

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Jim Hunt says he agrees "100 percent" with University of North Carolina President William Friday that the federal government should not interfere with decisions on the state's higher education institutions.

In a prepared statement before the UNC trustees on Thursday, Hunt said regardless of what the Department of Health, Education and Welfare requires, "we have an obligation to upgrade our predominantly black institutions." But he said he agrees "100 percent" with Friday and the Board of Governors that "education decisions affecting North Carolina should be made by duly constituted authorities in this state."

Meanwhile, a civil rights attorney has urged HEW to cut off federal funds to UNC, claiming that North Carolina is conducting "massive resistance to desegregation in higher education."

Joseph L. Rauh Jr., head of the firm handling the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund Inc.'s suit involving UNC, said in a letter to HEW Secretary Joseph Califano that the university's statement that no unnecessary duplication exists between neighboring black and white colleges in the system "is an incredible defiance of the law of the land."

"The time has long since come to quit negotiating with North Carolina and to defer federal funds," Rauh said in the letter.

Hunt said he agreed with two university studies that showed there was no unnecessary duplication of programs among predominantly black and predominantly white campuses.

The governor said all levels of education in North Carolina "are links in the same chain."

HEW has not taken formal action on the UNC duplication study filed last month, but a HEW source said earlier this week that HEW will reject the plan.

UNC agreed last spring to general desegregation guidelines, including an agreement to merge unnecessary duplicative programs, after HEW took steps to withhold any new federal funds from the 16-campus UNC system.

UNC began a study of duplicative programs on campuses in the Piedmont Triad and the Research Triangle. On Dec. 8, the UNC Board of Governors reported that it found no unnecessary duplication in the more than 100 programs studied.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST—Rain is expected in the forecast period until Saturday morning for most of the East. Rain is also forecast for the Pacific Northwest and snow in the northern Plains. Cold to very cold temperatures are indicated for most of the country. (AP Laser-photo Map)

By The Associated Press

Winter weather bore down on North Carolina today with a variety of freezing rain, snow and sleet, associated with a low pressure system developing in the Gulf of Mexico.

Moisture spread over the state from the Gulf and the Atlantic Ocean and this collided with cold air from the northeast. The combination sent rain mixed with sleet and freezing rain moving into southern and eastern portions of the state and snow and sleet over the north and west.

Freezing rain mixed with a little snow moved into the southwest and southern Piedmont around daybreak and travelers advisories were issued for a wide area including western mountains, Piedmont, southern Coastal Plain and Sandhills areas.

Temperatures hovered near or below freezing over much of the state as the precipitation began but they were expected to rise as the day progressed, changing the precipitation to rain.

Temperatures were expected to hover in the 30s over north and west portions of the state today, and climb to the 40s and 50s in the east and south. A warming trend will continue tonight with temperatures rising during the night as the wind swings around to the south and southeast.

This will push temperatures into the 40s and 50s over much of the state Saturday, along with some more rain. Small craft advisories were in effect this morning along the coast and over Pamlico and Albemarle sounds for gusty north-east winds.

John Wayne Faces Another Operation

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John Wayne, the battling giant of Hollywood films for half a century, has fought off cancer and an ailing heart. His new adversary is his gall bladder.

The 71-year-old veteran of Westerns and war movies—known to his fans as "The Duke"—checked into UCLA Medical Center on Wednesday for gall bladder surgery, a spokesman for his film company said.

Wayne reportedly has had a gall bladder problem for some time. A hospital spokeswoman described the Academy Award-winning actor's condition as good Thursday following preliminary tests.

"Everything is going now," said Tom Kane, a spokesman for Wayne's Batjac Productions. Wayne's he counted his blessings in an interview.

enough now, so they're going ahead with it."

Officials at the medical center could not say if Wayne's bladder or just gall stones would be removed, but described the procedure as "significant."

A doctor, who is not treating the star, said the operation generally would be regarded as a serious procedure due to Wayne's age and medical history. Wayne will be 72 years old May 26.

Hollywood's box office king overcame lung cancer in 1964. He has been recuperating from open heart surgery since April.

"The man upstairs has been pretty good to old Duke," Wayne said last August when he counted his blessings in an interview.

There is a good reason to lead partner's suit on defense. It builds partnership confidence. After all, if partner has taken the trouble to enter the auction, the least you can do is to give him a vote of confidence rather than branch out on your own by leading some other suit without any really good reason. There can be subsidiary benefits too, as this hand shows.

At any vulnerability, South has an eminently sound two heart overcall. North, however, had a difficult decision to make, and there might be some sound argument advanced for probing for a no trump contract. But we will not quibble with his decision to raise to four hearts.

West led the queen of diamonds. Declarer made a clever play by refusing to cover, and East was on the spot. What would you do?

If your partner is the type who leads the card nearest to his thumb whether you have entered the auction or not, you don't know what to do. If you elect to signal with the ten of diamonds to request a diamond continuation, declarer will make the hand easily. He will ruff the second diamond, draw trumps and, by leading clubs twice to the king-queen, lose only a trick in each black suit in addition to the diamond.

Fortunately, East knew that his partner was trustworthy. If he did not lead a spade, but chose instead to lead from a broken diamond suit, it could be for one reason only—because he was void in spades.

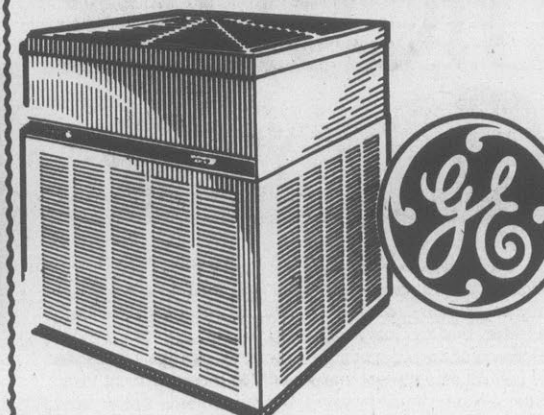

Therefore, East rose with the ace of diamonds and returned his lowest spade—a suit preference signal for clubs. West ruffed and dutifully returned a club to East's ace. A second spade ruff meant that the defenders had collected the first four tricks, so declarer was down one before he even started.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? # At Wit's Sicilian Spread Is Versatile

By ERMA BOMBECK

The Kiss and Tell books have been with us for several years now. They're the exposes usually written by a discarded mistress of a general, a silver-ware polisher at the White House, or someone whose dog once had a hysterectomy and occupied a bed next to Jackie O's dog in the recovery room.

A group of us in the neighborhood were talking the other day about the current best-seller, "Mommie Dearest," in which Joan Crawford's daughter revealed her bizarre childhood.

"You don't suppose this is going to start a trend, do you?" asked Jeanne.

"A trend for what?" asked Pat.

"For kids writing about their mothers."

"C'mon," I said. "We're all wonderful mothers, I mean, what could our kids possibly say about us that we wouldn't want anyone to know?"

"That's right," said June. "Everything we've done, we've done out of pure love for our children, right?"

During the next 10 minutes, the silence was deafening.

Pat was the first to break the sound barrier. "I'll bet everyone here has at one time or another put her child out to play and locked the door afterward."

Jeanne's head shot up. "Not during the '78 blizzard we didn't."

"You should talk," countered Pat. "At least I didn't use my kid's own money to buy back her teeth and tell her it was from the tooth fairy."

"I will never tell you anything again in the utmost confidence," said Jeanne. "Besides, I know of someone sitting here in this room who took along tranquilizers on a family vacation and was going to tell the kids they were vitamins."

"I never used them!" shouted June.

"We do the best we can," said Pat. "Like the time I didn't take Mark to the doctor until after the 15th billing. How was I to know he had a broken arm? He always complained at bedtime."

"We've surely made our share of mistakes," said Jeanne. "How about you, Erma? I suppose your children are so perfect you'll come out in book form somewhere between St. Joan and Mary Poppins."

"Last Mother's Day," I said. "I got a homemade card from my son. It showed a Mommie smiling with a large bunch of roses in her arms. On the inside, the message said, 'HOPE THIS SCENTS YOU INTO ORBIT FOR A LONG TIME.'"

Your food budget will benefit if you make your own Sicilian eggplant spread — Caponata.

At this writing, in New York City, a small can (about one-half cup) of the spread costs about 59 cents. We made almost a quart of it for about $1.50. Quite a saving!

The spread keeps perfectly in the refrigerator for a week or so and in the freezer for a couple of months. One of my sisters freezes it in small containers so she can thaw just what she needs when she has only a few guests.

This Sicilian Spread is wonderfully versatile. It may be used in various delicious ways: It gives a lift to tuna (or other fish) on a salad platter.

Served with scrambled eggs or spread on an omelet as a filling, it makes a savory main dish.

You might like to spoon it into peeled avocado halves to serve, along with salad greens and crusty rolls, as a main course for luncheon guests. Or you might enjoy serving the caponata-stuffed avocados on-the-half-shell as a first course for a company dinner.

For a party we have used the Sicilian Spread as some of our Virginia friends use their sweet red pepper relish. We cover a block of cream cheese with it and offer it with crackers. As guests dig in, they get the savory with the bland and enjoy the combination.

THE EGGPLANT—Turn of the century print from the culinary picture collection of AP Food Editor Cecily Brownstone.

SICILIAN SPREAD

- 1/2 cup olive oil
- 1 pound eggplant, unpeeled and diced (1/2 inch)
- 1 medium onion, coarsely chopped
- 1/2 cup celery, thinly sliced
- 3/4 cup tomato puree, from a 16-ounce can
- 3/4 cup water
- 1/4 cup tomato paste, from a 6-ounce can
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar
- 1/2 cup thinly sliced pimiento-stuffed green olives

In a 10-inch skillet in the hot oil stirring often, cook the eggplant over moderate heat until almost tender — 10 to 15 minutes. With a slotted spoon remove the eggplant and reserve. In the oil remaining in the skillet gently cook the onion until golden. Add the eggplant, celery, tomato puree, water, tomato paste, salt, pepper, sugar and olives; stir well. Simmer, covered, until the eggplant is very tender and the sauce has thickened — about 35 minutes. Serve warm, at room temperature or cold as a spread with crackers. Store in the refrigerator. Makes about 3 3/4 cups.

Attorney Needs Asking Advise

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I'm actually writing a Dear Abby letter, but here I am, a man of 62, and an attorney at that. (If you use my name or town, I'll sue you!)

I've been single for several years, and until four months ago I never met a woman I wanted to marry. This doll who has me talking to myself is 55, widowed, and has a married son who is 29.

When I proposed to her she acted thrilled, said she loved me and wanted to marry me, but said I would have to ask her son for her hand in marriage!

I've met her son and like him very much and think he likes me, too. But how does a 62-year-old man ask a 29-year-old kid for his mother's hand in marriage?

SPEECHLESS

DEAR SPEECHLESS: At 29, he's a man — not a kid. And you have three options: Write him a letter, call him on the phone or ask him in person.

DEAR ABBY: I've got mother-in-law trouble — but not the kind you usually hear about.

I'm 31 and my mother-in-law is 44, and a real swinging divorcee. She's the kissy type, always kissing me hello and goodbye, even when I'm only going into the next room.

If I sit down, Laura (that's her name) is on my lap in two seconds. She's always wanting me to dance with her, and when she cuddles up, her instincts are anything but maternal.

My wife doesn't even notice, and she thinks it's great that her mother likes me so much. Abby, it's gotten so I dread being left alone with Laura. How can I chill her without making an issue of it?

KEN IN TORONTO

DEAR KEN: First, start calling her "Mother" instead of Laura. Then tell her you don't feel like dancing, and she's too heavy to hold on your lap. If she's still in your hair, you must be doing something wrong. I've yet to meet a 31-year-old man who couldn't run faster than his mother-in-law.

DEAR ABBY: When a kid goes wrong, would you say it was due to his environment or heredity?

D.J. IN CAMDEN, N.J.

DEAR D.J.: It's a toss-up. But one thing is certain. His parents will get blamed for both.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LEFT OUT": As a rule, people do not get "left out." They leave themselves out because they are too lazy to do what is necessary to keep up.

Many adults have gone back to school. The solution to your problem could be as near to you as the school that offers classes in adult education. Look into it.

If you need help in writing letters of sympathy, congratulations or thank-you letters, get Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (23 cents), self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212

New Look For Spring: Alter And Accessorize

NEW YORK (UPI) — Take some tips from a professional in updating your spring wardrobe without ruining your budget.

"With a few simple alterations and the right accessories, you can turn some of last year's garments into today's fashion look," says Lily Kimmel, chairwoman of the Association of Stylists and Fashion Coordinators of New York.

For spring, she suggests shortening skirts, taking in widths for slim silhouettes, adding a small hat to be worn on the side of the head, plus colorful gloves and belts. For evening, spruce up last spring's outfit with glittering jewelry.

She also suggests taking in the side seams of pants to make them slimmer and shortening the legs to ankle length or just above the ankle.

Jackets, she says, should either be shortened or cinched them with a belt to make them look shorter.

Coordinators and stylists work behind the scenes with print and broadcast media, photographers and filmmakers to make sure clothing shown in advertisements and commercials is up-to-date, well matched, accessorized and fitted.

Marriage

Announced

Judge and Mrs. Ronald F. Adams of Brunswick, Ga., announce the marriage of his sister, Wilma Adams Brown, to Larry Edward Brown of Greenville on Wednesday. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. James H. Bailey of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, Greenville, N. C. The couple will live in Greenville and Brunswick.

Hats And Hair Hark Back To Past

LOOKING BACK—Fashionable heads return to the 1940s this spring as longer hair twists and rolls beneath perky and petite hats. Instead of the time-consuming pin-curls of the '40s, today's nostalgia seeker can tame wisps and curl ends with a modern curling iron. At left, for a glamorous mood, free-falling curls are topped by a twist reminiscent of the movie queens of yesteryear. At right, a sophisticated look with sleekly knotted styling softened by wispy tendrils. (Hairstyles by Gillette Super Curl.)

"That's sweet, said Jeanne. "What's the matter with that?"

"If the kid ever learns to spell, I'm dead!"

Bridal Policy

A black and white glossy five by seven photograph is requested for engagement announcements. For publication in a Sunday edition, the information must be submitted by 12 noon on the preceding Wednesday. Engagement pictures must be released at least three weeks prior to the wedding date. After three weeks, only an announcement will be printed.

Wedding write-ups will be printed through the first week with a five by seven picture. During the second week with a wallet size picture and write-up giving less description and after the second week, just as an announcement. Wedding forms and pictures should be returned to "The Daily Reflector" one week prior to the date of the wedding. All information should be typed or written neatly.

The least expensive styles of vegetables are diced, short cuts or pieces. Whole vegetables usually cost more than cut styles because it is hard to keep these fragile products whole during processing.

Birth

Garris

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Wilbur Garris, Grifton, a daughter, Elizabeth Kaye, on Jan. 8, 1979, in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Correction

In the wedding writeup of Meredith Sue Foltz and Garry Brooks Davis printed in "The Daily Reflector" Jan. 2, the information should have stated the bride is retaining her surname.

WOMEN SAID TO HAVE GREATER STAMINA

NEW YORK (AP) — Over a lifetime, women have more stamina than men, according to a recent Medical World News magazine article.

This finding was reported by an Alabama cardiologist, Dr. L. Thomas Sheffield, who conducted treadmill testing of 95 women of various ages. He found their endurance fell only 2 percent each decade from a peak capacity at age 20. Men's endurance, on the other hand, declined 10 percent each decade, he found.

Some Old-Fashioned Lobbying

We see that the usual round of receptions, social functions and a Democratic "gala" have preceded the opening of the State Legislature.

That's all part of the scene and it's all right with us since members of the Legislature will soon have to get down to some hard work on the budget, revenues and other pressing matters.

We hope, though, that senators and representatives who include Pitt and surrounding counties in their districts will take time from their early schedules to drop by the governor's office and the Department of Transportation to do some old fashion lobbying for the people back home.

Our legislators should be going over to make it very clear that the area is in critical need of a fully controlled access U. S. 264. The legislative members are, after all the tax paying, and voting, public's direct link with state government. Consequently they bear a very heavy responsibility to see that the needs of their districts are met.

All logic of highway planning and all principles of economic development call for extension of the fully controlled access U. S. 264, and we think it will be done. If we were elected to represent Pitt County in Raleigh, though, we think we would want to have a high profile on the side of public interest on this issue.

Working to pull the state into the development of a multi-million dollar sports palace in the Piedmont might carry much personal satisfaction, but for both our politicians and the public the economic bread gets buttered right here in Pitt County.

Building Code Confusion

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — The purpose of the law is simple: to protect the public's health, safety and welfare when people are in a building.

But developing over the years with the General Assembly acting under pressures from various interest groups, that law has become so fouled up as to be practically useless.

In essence, says the staff of the Governmental Evaluation Commission, "The legislative intent in creating the licensing functions is negated by the exclusion of existing statutes, insufficient statutory authority, lack of knowledge of violations and confused areas of action."

"Of particular importance is the exclusion from the protection of this law of those who construct buildings and houses on their own property."

North Carolina has ended up with so many different licensing and regulating bodies, and with enforcement and inspection activities so split up in different places that there are "major voids in the protection of the public."

"Specifically, in the area of residential housing where the public is a direct consumer, the protection to the public is pitifully weak," says the staff report.

Here, in brief, is what Sunset Commission staffers learned:

A general contractors licensing board is separate from the licensing of electrical contractors, plumbing and heating contractors and refrigeration contractors. Each has its own testing and licensing procedure; records-keeping system; method of handling consumer complaints.

Further, there is a Building Code Council and an Engineering Division in the Department of Insurance where enforcement and inspection take place.

All of this fragmentation makes it often impossible to determine who did what, when, and where - when anything is wrong with a building.

BILL NOBLITT

More complications arise when general contractors are automatically licensed under the other building trades boards; when one individual in a firm can hold a license which covers everybody else; when a building for private occupancy, sale or lease, can be built on the owner's property without supervision; when houses under $30,000 can be built without use of licensed contractors or supervision; when there is no communication between inspectors who find a licensed tradesman consistently doing things wrong, and the board which licenses him; and when in one board the records are different from another - even to the point where one unit keeps no records of consumer complaints.

One Agency

Commission Director Paul Jordan is convinced that the public needs a central office for information and complaints, and that construction tradesmen need accurate records kept on their job performance and even points assigned for violations so that slipshod and potentially dangerous work can be pinpointed.

The solution proposed would call for the General Assembly to eliminate the various boards and agencies and merge all into one Construction Council operating in the Department of Commerce. All enforcement, licensing and testing, and standards, would then be administratively centralized.

This could be done at a cost savings, Jordan said. Fees are sufficient to cover the operation and are already being charged for the various activities. This would save taxpayers more than $500,000 per year.

Tilt, But Which Way?

WASHINGTON — Americans are having a tough time deciding which way to tilt in Southeast Asia this week. Pro-Vietnamese Cambodian rebels marched into Phnom Penh, overthrew the tyrannical Communist Pol Pot government and gained control of most of Cambodia.

Ordinarily this action would require us to send American troops in to save Pol Pot. The problem is that Pol Pot is rumored to have killed more Cambodians when he took over from Lon Nol than the present Cambodian National United Front for National Salvation, which is now in power.

You can imagine the confusion at the State Department last week when the lightning invasion took place.

"I can't talk to you now," a veteran Pol Pot-watcher told me. "Phnom Penh is about to fall."

"Thank God," I said. "It's about time we had a victory in Southeast Asia."

"You don't understand. Hanoi is responsible for sending in the Cambodian rebels who have taken over the country."

"That sounds ominous," I said. "We better bomb Hanoi."

"It's not that simple. Pol Pot is not one of those benign despots we usually support. He is supposed to hold the modern genocide record in all of Southeast Asia."

"Then I think we should tilt towards the Pro-Vietnamese forces. They can't be any worse."

"On paper they aren't," he acknowledged. "But our major problem is that the Cambodian National United Front for National Salvation is not only backed, supported and armed by the Vietnamese but also by the Soviets."

"I don't like the sound of that," I admitted.

"Pol Pot's government on the other hand is supported by the People's Republic of China who, as you know, is our dearest friend in Asia."

"I see the problem," I said. "We're not really talking about Cambodia and Vietnam - we're facing up to the power struggle between the Kremlin and Peking."

"That's it. We have to tilt towards Pol Pot only because the Soviets are tilting towards Hanoi. Since the People's Republic of China was supporting Pol Pot's Cambodia, it will lose face if the Vietnamese aggression goes unpunished."

"Why don't we send the U.S. 7th Fleet to the Gulf of Tonkin and provoke an incident?" I suggested.

"It could come to that, but at the moment we're hoping Prince Sihanouk might create worldwide sympathy for Cambodia."

"Where the hell did Sihanouk come from?" I asked.

"He's been under house arrest in China. Pol Pot hates his guts as much as Lon Nol did, but he's the only non-Communist Cambodian we've got."

"Then let's by all means support Sihanouk," I said. "What's the next step if he fails?"

"We tell the Vietnamese that we will not stand for any incursions into Cambodia."

"I thought we once launched an incursion into Cambodia ourselves," I said.

"What we really intend to say is that we won't stand for any Communist incursions into Communist Cambodia."

"And if Vietnam ignores our protest?"

"We may have to go back to

THE GALLUP POLL

Reagan A GOP Favorite

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — With only a little more than one year to go before the first presidential primary, Ronald Reagan is easily the leading choice of Republicans across the nation to carry the GOP banner in 1980.

The former California governor and 1976 presidential aspirant wins 40 percent of the vote from rank-and-file Republicans while the second highest vote, 24 percent, goes to former President Gerald Ford.

Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee (9 percent), John Connally (6 percent), and Sen. Charles Percy (4 percent) round out the top five selections. Illinois Gov. James Thompson receives 3 percent of the vote while each of the other men on a list of 13 possible nominees presented to Republicans in all parts of the nation receives 1 percent of the vote. About one Republican in 14, 7 percent, remains undecided.

For any political candidate, and particularly one who seeks the presidency, a key goal is making his or her name a household word. And of the 13 potential candidates in the current survey, just six are known to at least a majority of party members.

Ford and Reagan are, of course, familiar to nearly all Republicans, with more than nine in 10 saying they have heard of each man. Connally, with an 84 percent name recognition factor, is third on the list. About seven in 10 Republicans have heard of either Percy (71 percent) or Dole (68 percent), and 63 percent say they have heard of Baker.

The remaining seven men on the list - a group that, interestingly, includes the only avowed candidate for the GOP nomination, Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois - are known to less than half of Republicans.

However, those men who are, as yet, not very well known can take some heart from the fact that two years before the 1976 primaries began then former Governor of Georgia Jimmy Carter was virtually unknown outside that state. In fact, it was not until mid-1975 that as many as one in four Democrats had heard about Carter. And even then he was the choice of just 1 percent for the 1976 Democratic nomination.

Encouragement

Those men who have presidential aspirations, declared or undeclared, but may now rank low on the list can also find encouragement in these facts - it is still early in the game, and a look at nomination campaigns during the last 40 years indicates that the Republican leading the pack at a roughly comparable time in the past has not necessarily gone on to become the eventual nominee.

For example, in November 1938 Gov. Thomas Dewey of New York was the favorite of Republicans across the nation for the 1940 nomination - a prize that eventually went to Wendell Willkie.

Similarly, in December 1962, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York was the front-runner among Republicans only to see the convention turn, overwhelmingly, to Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

And in November 1966 Gov. George Romney of Michigan led eventual nominee Richard Nixon. By January 1967, however, Nixon had taken over the lead and was never headed.

Still another consideration is the vote of independents. Although some states hold primaries in which only party members may vote, others maintain a system whereby independents may vote in either the GOP or Democratic primary. Of course, independents may also decide to simply change their registration to one party or the other to vote in a primary.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:

I feel compelled to reply to the letter from B. W. Tharp complaining about Cuban immigrants.

For two years I lived in Dade County, Fla., which has more Cubans than Havana by now, mostly likely. I am proud to call them my friends. They are the kind of folks our country needs. What jobs did they get? Only the jobs that were beneath the dignity of most U.S. citizens - washing dishes, mowing lawns, and other menial tasks. Most folks who could collect unemployment or welfare preferred that to such "lowly" jobs. To the Cuban, any honest work is honorable.

A family I know, who had once owned the largest department store in Havana until Castro's thugs stole it, rallied around each other and babysat, washed cars, did house cleaning, pumped gas, and everything else possible until all children were educated and able to earn a living - with no food stamps, no unemployment checks, no Aid to Dependent Children, no Medicaid - and their old folks do not get sent to a nursing home, either. They take care of their own and, by the taxes on their earnings are contributing to the upkeep of the less energetic U.S. citizens, and, in fact, to our own North Carolina farm subsidies.

We would be fortunate to attract some of these Cubans to North Carolina. They would be the first to help build up our state, our country and our freedom (and no identity cards, please), rather than letting it die from purely not caring.

Gourmet Dining Was Mistake

By GAIL MICHAELS

One of the biggest mistakes Phillip ever made was making my Christmas present dinner at a nice restaurant. It was like giving opera tickets to Laverne and Shirley. Not that I haven't eaten in nice restaurants. But only in the years B.C., or Before Childbirth on the conjugal calendar. After Meg was born, eating out became just one of the many simple pleasures I was forced to give up, like sleeping late, skipping washday once in awhile, and going to the bathroom without an audience.

I even began to equate eating out with fast food. My idea of a feast was an extra order of fries and a fried apple pie for dessert. So naturally, I was stunned by the elegance of the restaurant Phillip chose. It was the first time in three years that I had been to one where I couldn't eat with my fingers.

The longer we stayed, the more I was in awe. Not only did the place have fresh white tablecloths, but the waiters weren't wearing paper hats or sweatbands. And during the short period before our waiter appeared, I found that I could keep myself occupied by counting the silverware.

In spite of my long absence from gourmet dining, I behaved myself admirably until the food came. I didn't even ask if Boone's Farm was on the wine list. But when the French onion soup was brought out, I was in trouble. If there was ever a polite way to eat French onion soup, I had forgotten it. The entire bowl was covered with a thick gooey cheese that could have doubled for adhesive in a furniture factory. What I needed to get to the soup was a bulldozer.

First I tried to twirl the cheese around my spoon like Spaghetti, but it just kept getting thicker and thicker. By the time I realized that I would either have to give up the soup or find another path to it, the cocoon around my spoon was as big as an apple. And there was no chewing it. When I finally got up the courage to swallow, my front teeth almost went, too.

I was so frustrated that I just spooned up the next glob and stuck it in my mouth. Unfortunately, there were three thick strands still extending from my mouth to the bowl. I tried to cut the first one by catching it elegantly between the rim of the bowl and my spoon and sawing it off. I dumped four spoonfuls of soup on the tablecloth before I cut through.

The second strand I pinched off with my fingers, and I hacked through the third one with my knife.

I was hoping that the next course would be easier to eat, but it wasn't. Whole new potatoes accompanied the entrée. Every time I touched the plate, one rolled off.

"This is absolutely the most unwilling meal I have ever tried to eat," I said.

Phillip coughed. "I don't suppose it has a thing to do with all that wine you've been drinking?"

"What wine? I've only had one glass."

"You've had half a bottle, sweetheart. The waiter has been refilling your glass regularly."

"You mean to say that sneaky turkey has been putting it up behind my back?"

Phillip grimaced. "The waiter was standing beside us. 'Would you care for dessert?' he asked. 'We have chocolate mousse, cherries jubilee, and Bananas Flambe.'"

"It all sounds very good," I said, "but I can think of only one thing I want after that meal."

"And what is that?" the waiter asked.

"Do you have any fried apple pie?"

THE SLOW-DOWN

When a mother reproved a little girl for not doing what she was told, the little girl replied, "I don't disobey you, but sometimes when you tell me to do something I don't want to do, I go slow."

Industry is familiar with the slow-down. But actually all of us are familiar with it in our everyday lives. When we are confronted with something we should do, but don't want to do, often, like the little girl, we go slow.

We go to church and take pride in the fact that our names are inscribed on the church rolls, but as Christians we sometimes follow the slow-down. We are slow to give when charity is needed; slow to speak when some good cause is being assailed. Where there are thankless little tasks to do which bring us nothing but the realization we have helped somebody, our lack of enthusiasm is notable.

The slow-down is bad enough in industry. It's worse to use it against God and our fellows.

City Council Approves Alternative Project Plans

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Approval was given last night by the City Council to a revised alternative plan for the South Evans Redevelopment Project, calling for a combination of residential and commercial development of reuse parcels.

Skip Browder, senior planner for the city, discussed the revised plans and pointed out that the proposals for the South Evans area remain basically the same as submitted initially, with the exception of the property disposition in the area originally considered for use as a public works site.

Browder said that the site intended for the public works facility involved the area bounded by 11th Street on the north, Seaboard Coastline Railroad on the west, 14th Street on the south, and Pitt Street on the east.

He noted that although another site was chosen for the public works facility, the fact remains that most of the structures in the original area are dilapidated. The planning staff, Browder said, recommended a program of acquisition.

The planner discussed two types of parcel disposal once acquisition has taken place. One plan proposed a commercial and light industry reuse of the property, he said, while the second alternative recommended a combination of residential and commercial usage of disposal parcels.

Browder said that under the commercial plan, 30 parcels would be made available in the former public works site area for disposition and commercial reuse. The second plan would involve 25 lots aimed at single-family or duplex development and two larger parcels for multi-family development. He added that 11 parcels would be proposed for commercial use under the plan.

Council member Mrs. Mildred McGrath said that she would like to see lots placed back on the market for Residential sale following acquisition in the area that lower income residents could afford.

Joe Laney, Community Development task force director, said that the real estate market would determine how the lots would be sold but he suggested that the fair market value of the lots in the area would be close to the Southside property values.

Councilman John Howard asked if residents of the area had dilapidated houses and had to sell, would they be able to have first option on reacquiring property for new homes. Laney said that it would be hard to insure that property owners who sold could reacquire the same property but he said that they could probably purchase again in the same neighborhood.

Mrs. McGrath said that the intent of the Community Development program was to improve living conditions and she said she approved of the reuse of the property in the South Evans area for housing.

Browder said that the chances of the money being allocated for the South Evans project are based more on the needs of the project than on the amount of money applied for under the CD program.

Mayor Percy Cox noted that the only area of the project involving changes was the former public works site. He said that the plan for combination residential-commercial reuse seemed to be the best alternative, with more flexibility.

City Manager Ed Wyatt said that he felt the city's application would be funded but as to when, it was uncertain. He said that funding "might not be right away."

In voting to adopt the residential-commercial proposal for the area, Councilmen John Howard and Joe Taft Jr. abstained, citing ownership of property in or near the area under discussion.

In other business last night, the Council adopted a resolution of intent to consider an ordinance amending the charter to implement four-year staggered terms for members of the Council. A public hearing on the amendment was also set for Feb. 8.

The ordinance under consideration would stipulate that at the regular municipal election in 1979, the three candidates who receive the highest number of votes would be elected for four-year terms, while the three candidates with the next highest number of votes would be elected for two-year terms.

Beginning at the regular municipal election in 1981, and every two years thereafter, three members of Council would be elected to serve for four-year terms. Under the amendment, the mayor's term of office would remain as two years.

Councilman Clarence Gray voted against the resolution of intent regarding the staggered terms, saying that he had reservations as to what effect the method would have on minority representation on the Council.

Council members voted, with Mrs. McGrath opposing, to restrict trucks from operating on Arlington Boulevard, from Hooker Road to Memorial Drive, and to reduce the speed limit on the segment from 35 miles per hour to 25 miles per hour. The Traffic Commission had recommended disapproval of a petition submitted to the Council requesting that trucks be prohibited from using the corridor.

Cox said that until he drove out to the area yesterday and viewed the situation on Arlington, he had been of the opinion that since the Hooker to Memorial Drive corridor was part of the thoroughfare system, it should be open to truck traffic. He said that after getting a first hand look, he felt that the Arlington segment from Hooker Road to Memorial Drive was not intended or designed for truck usage.

Mrs. McGrath acknowledged the fact that the segment is residential but she said that it is part of the thoroughfare system. Recommendations by the Traffic Commission that parking be prohibited on the south side of W. Fourth Street from Nash Street to the dead end of Fourth Street, and to prohibit parking on the Pitt-Green Connector were approved.

Other action taken by the Council included:

— Reappointment of John Howard to the Mid-East Commission.

— Adoption of a resolution confirming the Stratford Subdivision assessment roll for street improvements.

— Approval of a request for rezoning 2.6 acres west of NC 11-US 13 just south of Greenfield Terrace from R-6 to Highway Commercial.

— Approval of a request for rezoning property located between Elizabeth Heights and Seaboard Coast Line Railroad from RA-20 to R-6.

— Approval of a request for rezoning 5.75 acres on W. Gum Road between US 13-NC 11 and Fred Webb's Grain Elevator from Unoffensive Industry to R-6.

— Introduction of a bond order for $14 million water bonds, $5 million sanitary sewer bonds, and $5 million electric light and power bonds, and scheduling of a public hearing on the bond order for Feb. 8.

— Authorization for the mayor and city clerk to enter into a right of entry agreement with Seaboard Coast Line Railroad for a 40-foot right-of-way on Railroad Street, and authorization for the purchase of a 40-foot right-of-way from the railroad for improvements on Railroad Street.

— Adoption of a resolution approving the issuance of $500,000 Public Works bond anticipation notes.

— Scheduling of a public hearing for Feb. 8 on an UMTA operating subsidy assistance grant.

— Adoption of a resolution approving the issuance of $500,000 Public Works bond anticipation notes.

to Elysian Fields, where the streetcar named "Desire" used to run.

Soon John Paul II will hold his first consistory and award red hats to new princes of the church.

The United States already has 10 cardinals, an all-time high, and other parts of the world with large Catholic populations, especially in South America, would seem to have a higher claim to the honor of a red hat.

But there is more to this jewel of a city than its mapmakers' lulling litany of saints. New Orleans, with the adjoining dioceses of Lafayette, Alexandria, Baton Rouge and Biloxi, embraces one of the largest concentrations of Catholics anywhere.

Her famed St. Louis Cathedral, named for the sainted King Louis IX of France, is the second oldest in the United States. The original plan for the city, founded in 1718, called for a church and presbytery exactly as they are located today.

The original diocese, split off from Havana in 1793, stretched from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada and from the Rockies to the border of the diocese of Baltimore, where the United States had its first bishop.

If nominations are in order, the incumbent archbishop Rev. Philip Matthew Hannan would look great in a red hat.

As an auxiliary bishop of Washington, Hannan preached the eulogy at the funeral of John F. Kennedy. He touched millions of hearts with his opening quote from Ecclesiastes: "There is an appointed time for everything: a time to be born and a time to die."

A cardinal in New Orleans would serve a city hooked on death and redemption. Jazz began here with the brass bands wailing "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" for funerals heading out to St. Louis Cemeteries 1, 2 and 3. Mardi Gras, the sinner's last fling before Lenten reform, is still the city's biggest tourist draw.

So please, Your Holiness, crown this city of Jazz and Superdome, of pralines and prelates, of sin and sainted streets, of heavenly food and earthly temptations with a cardinal, a prince of the church, to save its syncope sinners.

Old Knowledge Said Confirmed

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The surgeon general's report on smoking and health confirms what was already known about the health effects of smoking, a past president of the American Cancer Society said Thursday.

Dr. Wayne Rundles, the immediate past president of the society and a professor of medicine at Duke Medical School, said medical experts agree that smoking is harmful.

"There isn't any medical controversy in this area any more," he said. "There is serious evidence that it (the report) makes the tobacco industry an endangered species."

Rundles also said that the tobacco lobby has said "the same boring things so often that people aren't going to listen."

The Tobacco Institute, the lobbying group that represents the tobacco industry, contends that more research is needed to establish a link between smoking and cancer and other diseases.

Rundles said that he thinks the report will increase awareness of the potential dangers of smoking for women, especially pregnant women or those taking birth control pills.

He also said he hopes the society will have more programs to discourage younger people from smoking.

Meanwhile, Dr. Diane McGrath, head of cancer con-

Killings Left Six Orphans

BEECH ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — The parents of a woman who was found shot to death with her husband in a convenience store last week are providing a home for the couple's six orphaned boys.

Mary Walden, 58, and her husband, Albert, 57, are enlarging their home to take in their six grandsons, the children of Charles and Elizabeth Holaway. The boys range in age from 6 to 19.

"We're going to see that these children are well taken care of," said Mrs. Walden.

"It won't take much, just a little time and the neighbors will help," Walden said.

Already the Waldens have received donations of money and clothing from individuals totaling more than $2,000.

Although Walden, a Du Pont employee, planned to retire at the end of the year, he said now he would probably stay on the job.

The boys returned to school Monday, he said, adding, "I think they have adjusted well."

He noted that the children had spent many summers and weekends with them and that the change in lifestyles would not be drastic.

A deputy at the Aiken County Sheriff's Department said Thursday no arrests had been made in the Jan. 4 murders.

The Holaways were in a convenience store which she managed when one or more persons entered about 3 a.m. Their bodies were found in a storeroom a short time later.

An audit showed $700 was taken from the store.

30 Years Of Service Ends

Melbern Carl Bailey, rural route carrier, retired from the Greenville Post Office recently after 30 years of Postal Service.

Mr. Bailey graduated from Stokes High School. He was employed by the State Highway and Public Works Commission prior to his employment by the Greenville Post Office as a special delivery messenger. Bailey had been serving as the Rural Route One Carrier since August, 1972.

Bailey served in the U. S. Army from February, 1943, until October, 1945.

Bailey is married to the former Frances Mills and they have two children, Melvin Carl Jr., an employee of the State Department of Natural Resources and a daughter, Mrs. Gloria J. Williams of Ormond Beach, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey attend Immanuel Baptist Church.

Fire Blamed On Installation

EAST LONGMEADOW, Mass. (AP) — Improper installation of a steam pipe decades ago caused a house fire that killed five persons on New Year's Eve, the state fire marshal's office says.

The office reported Thursday that its investigation showed the fire at the William A. Hately family's 75-year-old wood frame house started when a steam-heat pipe in the basement was in direct contact with a wood joist. "The heat from the pipe over the years gradually charred the wood, lowering its ignition temperature. The fire went up through the wall into the kitchen," said Lt. Edward Smith.

TOYOTA TOTAL DEAL

POLYGLYCOAT LUSTERIZING SEALANT

Polyglycoat is not just a polish, glaze, or wax. It is a liquid sealant providing a lustre surpassing that applied to your Toyota at the factory. When Polyglycoat is applied to the surface of an automobile, it penetrates the pores of both the paint and chrome to seal out the damaging effects of sun, wind, rain, salt and road abrasives that can make your car look old before its time. And it even makes your Toyota easier to wash. The best sealant available, Polyglycoat is guaranteed for 3 years.

6, 12, 18 MONTHS POLYGLYCOAT SEALANT RENEWAL

At intervals of 6, 12, and 18 months, customers should bring their Toyotas back to the dealer for a first-class, professionally applied Polyglycoat renewer at no extra cost. This renews surface silicones that are lost due to normal (exposure) wearing process.

POLYGLYCOAT RUST PROOFING SHIELD

To protect your investment in your new Toyota we rustproof your car in all places where rust can get a start such as seams, cracks and crevices, boxed-in areas and enclosed support sections, where water and moisture collect. What's more, if damaged, it heals itself by flowing over and shielding the exposed metal area. Polyglycoat Rustproofing Shield, rated no. 1 by independent laboratories in a comparison of 7 leading rust preventatives, is guaranteed for 7 long years with the best guarantee in the business.

POLYGLYCOAT INTERIOR PROTECTION

This quality stain repellent offers complete protection for vinyl and cloth as well as carpeting in your car against any spills such as cola, ice cream, chocolate, etc. This product maintains the beauty of your car's interior and keeps vinyl soft, leather like and new looking.

POLYGLYCOAT UNDERCOATING

This process not only is an undercoating but a sound deadener against road noise. It is also an undersealant offering superb protection against road salt, chemicals and stone bruises. Your car runs and rides quieter.

Tobacco Has Assurances

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt is predicting North Carolina's tobacco-heavy economy will continue to grow, despite the Surgeon General's latest report on the health hazards of cigarette smoking.

"I have heard nothing that would interfere with our strong tobacco price support program," Hunt said Thursday at a news conference.

The state's tobacco farmers are heavily dependent on the federal price-support program for leaf bought from the growers. The governor said he has received assurances from the White House that President Carter still supports that loan program.

On Wednesday night, Carter Press Secretary Jody Powell gave Hunt that assurance during Powell's visit to Raleigh for a Democratic fundraiser.

"Most of our farms are small and there's no alternative crop for them," Hunt said. "But we're going to continue to grow tobacco and we're going to have a strong economy."

The report released Thursday said there is "overwhelming" evidence that cigarette smoking causes lung cancer and is linked to a long list of other, often deadly diseases.

Tobacco is North Carolina's largest export product and most profitable cash crop for farmers. Hunt said while the state is trying to diversify its agricultural products, there still is "absolutely no replacement for tobacco."

Container Sites Ready

Pitt County officials today reminded county residents that three containers sites for disposal of solid waste are now in operation.

First of the three sites opened is located on the County Home Road near Bells Fork, while the second site is located West of Greenville on the Stantonsburg Road.

The third container is located at the Pitt County Landfill off East Fifth Street (behind Greenwood Cemetery) and is available for disposal of solid waste even when the landfill itself is closed.

The 40-cubic yard containers located at the three sites are designed to give residents of areas outside municipalities a place to dispose of their waste.

A total of 21 sites are scheduled for construction throughout the county by the end of 1979.

Seven of the remaining sites are scheduled to be completed before July 1, while the remaining container locations are to be built during the first six months of the coming fiscal year.

No Settlement

Seen In Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Prospects for a settlement in a strike by two unions against television and radio commercial makers appear dim, federal mediators say.

Picketing resumed Thursday at studios where advertisers sought to shoot commercials using non-union performers. A meeting at the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service in Washington, broke down, without prospects of a resumption of negotiations to end the strike that began on Dec. 19, federal officials said. The unions are seeking higher commercial fees.

Opposed 'Closed Shop' Among Clergy

By GRAHAM HEATHCOTE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Agitation for women priests in the Church of England, mother church of the world-wide Anglican Communion which combines both catholic and Protestant qualities, is being pushed in a new book. It was written by a vicar's wife who died nearly a year ago. Her posthumously issued work, "Sharing a Vision," asserts that the tradition of a male-only priesthood stems from Old Testament times and Jewish revulsion at Canaanite pagan rites involving sexual orgies. Canaan, which became Palestine, was the promised land of the Israelites.

The prohibition of women priests "has continued to this day when all but the historians have forgotten that Canaanites existed," wrote Deaconess Phoebe Willetts, a lifelong campaigner for women's rights who completed her manuscript shortly before her death from cancer last February at the age of 61.

Her book appeared a week before a scheduled meeting of a Church of England leadership committee to discuss what to do next about the controversial women priests question. The church's general synod last November rejected a move to ordain women when a majority of clergy voted against it, although most bishops and laity voted for it.

The Church of England cradled the world-wide Anglican Communion of 65 million members in 24 national branches. Only the U. S. Episcopalians and Anglican Catholics of Canada, New Zealand and Hong Kong recently have begun ordaining women. The innovation has caused strains and much debate in various national branches of the church.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Donald Coggan, has said he favors ordination of women, but he rebuked his male priests by breaking current church law by encouraging women to lead services. However, Mrs. Willetts' husband told a news conference launching her book in Manchester this week that continued rejection of women priests will lead to more "so-called illegal acts." "The clergy want a closed shop," he said. "I am not interested in the sort of church which is a male chauvinist piggy."

Identified As Both Sexes

NEW YORK (AP) — An Episcopal woman priest says that the sexual identity of God is both male and female. "We can't know what God looks like, but we know at least that God is fully male and fully female," the Rev. Ann Coburn writes in McCall's magazine. She says that the Book of Genesis offers the "single most important description of the image of God" and that image is "male and female" as specified in the passage reading: "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female he created them."

Will Speak At Services

The Rev. Jack Cox of Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church, Hookerton, is scheduled to speak at Grace Free Will Baptist Church, 400 Watauga Ave., Greenville, Jan. 14-17.

REV. JACK COX

Services will begin Sunday at 7 p.m., with weekly services at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Cox is the president of the Mount Calvary Christian School and has been in demand as a Bible conference and revival speaker. The Rev. Roger Tripp, pastor of Grace Church, invites the public to attend these services.

Fellowship Will Gather Sunday

The Unitarian-Universalists Fellowship will meet Sunday at 10:30 a.m. in the downtown Planters Bank building. "Origins of Christian Symbolism" will be discussed by Bee and John Behr. Sunday School will be held for children eight or older. The public is invited to take part in the meeting and the optional covered-dish luncheon, which follows at noon.

An Invitation Most Effective

TOKYO (AP) — A study by four Japanese Lutheran bodies and the Lutheran World Federation finds that by far the most often cited immediate cause of a person's attending a church is a "personal invitation." About 52 percent of the newcomers to church services cited that reason, with the next most important reasons in this order: Connections with a church school or organization, 14.3 percent; nearness of a church, 13.2 percent; curiosity or interest, 10.3 percent; worries and troubles, 8.3 percent.

Caring for One Another

The Christian religion and the English language have one great thing in common. They let us grow at our own pace.

Take the word CARE in our language. If you want, it simply means being aware of another person's problems. Or it can mean devoting one's skill and concern to the well-being of another. Or it can mean feeling and understanding for another with whom we share life's opportunities and frustrations.

Our religion, like our language, allows time for us all to grow. It recognizes that caring for one another is just one of the areas in which it takes folks a while to appreciate our dependence on each other—and on God.

One thing is sure. At every level of human experience we learn to care for one another because God cares for us.

Convicted Maryland Governor Wins New Trial

By DAVID GOELLER
Associated Press Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — With five days left in his term, Gov. Marvin Mandel has won a new trial on federal racketeering and mail fraud charges, but he hasn't decided if he'll reclaim the office he left 18 months ago in disgrace.

The ruling "cleared my good name," the 58-year-old Democrat said Thursday after the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled 2-1 to upset the 1977 conviction of Mandel and five others in an alleged race track bribery scheme.

"As I said many, many months ago, my good name was more important to me than anything," said Mandel, who was suspended as governor in October 1977 when he was sentenced to four years in prison.

Mandel can reclaim the governorship simply by revoking a letter he wrote on June 4, 1977, when he voluntarily stepped aside, said Dave Feldman, chief of litigation in the state attorney general's office.

However, Mandel said he was uncertain whether he would return to the post — now held by Lt. Gov. Blair Lee III — to complete a second four-year term, which is to end on Wednesday.

Mandel, who has been free pending the appeal, said he and his wife, Jeanne, will have to "sit down and think about it." Gov.-elect Harry R. Hughes, a Democrat who ran on an honest government platform, had not invited Mandel to his inauguration.

The ruling also set aside the convictions of co-defendants W. Dale Hess, Irvin Kovens, Ernest N. Cory Jr. and brothers William A. and Harry W. Rodgers III.

They were accused of participating in a scheme in which Mandel allegedly received favors, gifts and business interests for trying to get the 1972 General Assembly to enact legislation beneficial to their then-secret holdings in the race track.

The convictions followed a second trial on the federal charges. The first trial ended in mistrial in December 1976.

Russell T. Baker Jr., U.S. attorney for Maryland, had no comment on the ruling or whether he would seek a retrial. Mandel said he is willing to face a new trial — if necessary. "I don't have any money," Mandel said. "I don't have financial resources for another trial. But I'll go through it if I have to."

The appellate court ruled that U.S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor of Knoxville, Tenn., erred in permitting hearsay evidence from "long-time political enemies of the governor."

Further, the statements were made on and around the Senate floor in the heat of political battle, where rumors, opinion and gossip abound," it said.

In addition, the court said, Taylor failed to instruct jurors of the need to establish a direct link between Mandel and the owners of the Marlboro Race Track.

The court also said "the jury may have easily been misled" by Taylor's failure to instruct it about bribery in relation to the 17 mail fraud counts on which the co-defendants were convicted.

Recluse Carolyn Wyeth Steps Out Of Shadows

HATES FAME — Artist Carolyn Wyeth says the fame of others has not made her jealous. "I don't like it myself. I hate fame," she claims. (AP Laserphoto)

By CHRIS ROBERTS
Associated Press Writer
CHADDS FORD, Pa. (AP) — Carolyn Wyeth, the recluse of America's most famous clan of artists, is stepping from the shadows.

"...If I didn't have a bad heart I'd go out and get drunk as hell," the feisty 69-year-old says of the exhibit of her work that opens Saturday a stone's throw from the weather-beaten house that has been her lifelong home.

The house was built for her father, the late illustrator N.C. Wyeth, and was the birthplace of her brother, Andrew, one of the nation's most celebrated artists. Her nephew, Jamie, a noted portraitist, lives nearby.

"It isn't a myth I'm a recluse. It's the truth," she said in a rare interview this week.

The exhibit, the largest ever of her paintings, will feature 53 of her about 100 works. Her paintings — she averages two or three a year — are brooding, often stark, capturing the browns and greens of the earth she explores with her animals.

"The fame of the others? It hasn't made me jealous," Miss Wyeth said, sitting in a faded burgundy and gold wing chair, smoking constantly. "I don't like it myself. I hate fame."

As she spoke, sunlight splashed through the deep-silled windows of the red brick and white clapboard house perched high on a hill. N.C. Wyeth built the house in 1911 with money earned illustrating "Treasure Island."

The room, the one in which Andrew Wyeth was born, is filled with books — among them "Kidnapped" by Robert Louis Stevenson and "The Mysterious Island" by Jules Verne, both illustrated by N.C. A portrait of the family patriarch, who died in a car-train accident in 1945, is on the mantel.

"He was a wonderful teacher," Miss Wyeth said of her father. "I had 19 years with him starting when I was 11, but we didn't get along, and it's a shame because we loved the same things, the trees, the vegetable garden. We could have had such a good time together."

Of her famous family, Miss Wyeth said: "...we weren't the wonderful, sweet-living, Santa Claus-loving family everyone believes. Now, I'm giving the other side, the real thing."

The exhibit, entitled "Carolyn Wyeth, Artist," will be at the Brandywine River Museum in Chadds Ford until May 20.

Hamburger Fate Avoided

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — After surviving a head-on — or, rather, horn-on — collision with a car, tranquilizer darts fired by police, and a leap from a bridge, "Bonnie the Bionic Cow" finally convinced somebody she shouldn't end up as 800 pounds of hamburger.

J.B. Tucker was taking the black Angus to a slaughterhouse Nov. 14 when she escaped. After eluding police, who said they shot her with tranquilizing darts, the cow showed up on Interstate 85 near Greensboro, damaged a car and later jumped over the side of a bridge when cornered by police. Authorities immediately dubbed her the "bionic cow."

She showed back up in S. Clyde Dixon's herd Dec. 18. Tucker, who said he still wanted the animal slaughtered, finally gave in to pleas from his neighbors, and said he would spare her.

On Wednesday, Mary Hill and 22 others who heard of Bonnie's plight bought her and trucked her back to Dixon's herd. She now will be used for breeding purposes. It was Dixon, who called her Bonnie because "it's similar to bionic."

New Recruiter Assigned Here

Laverl H. Holcomb, a second class petty officer, has been assigned to the Navy recruiting station here, according to Petty Officer Ken Hagen, recruiter in charge.

Hagen said that Holcomb will be working in Pitt, Martin, Bertie, Washington, Tyrrell, Dare, Hyde and Beaufort Counties.

An El Paso, Texas native, Holcomb graduated from Crossville High School in Alabama. He is a second class engineman and is coming to Greenville from the USS Charleston, a light cargo amphibious landing craft, homeported in Norfolk. Holcomb served aboard the USS Charleston for three and a half years, it was noted.

The new recruiter served as a member of the Coast Guard Auxiliary in Elizabeth City.

He is married to the former June Taylor of Elizabeth City.

Chamber Choir Will Perform On Sunday

A concert featuring 18 singers and the added attraction of two faculty pianists will be performed by the Greenville Chamber Choir under the direction of Dr. Brett Watson at 4 p.m. Sunday, January 14.

The concert, presented by the Mendenhall Student Center, will be held in the Hendrix Theater at Mendenhall. Tickets for the concert are priced at $1 and will be available only at the door prior to performance.

The Sunday concert is the first this year for the Greenville Chamber Choir, a group formed a year ago. The eighteen singers include several with professional experience on Broadway, summer stock, and touring groups, as well as six students from the School of Music.

Sunday's program will include two Italian madrigals — "Tu M'uccidi, O Crudele" by Carlo Gesualdo, and "Festa," from "The Sacred Representation of the Soul and Body" by Emilio del Cavalieri; two English madrigals — "To Shorten Winter's Sadness," by Thomas Weelkes, and "The Silver Swan," by Orlando Gibbons.

Faculty pianists Paul Tardif and Henry Doskey will be featured in the four-hand piano part of Johannes Brahms' "Love Song Waltzes."

Singers of the group are: — sopranos Belinda Bryant, Melissa Faber, Melanie Foushee, Jill Galloway, and Patricia Hiss; altos Rhonda Fleming, Susan Jones, Marilyn Lucht, and Susie Pair; tenors Max Galloway, Ira Jacobs, Ben Leaptrott, and David Weaver; and basses Ed Clement, David Faber, Ed Glenn, Alan Jones, and Del Lewis.

Has A Bible, Will Travel

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Chaplain David Chenoweth of the Jefferson County sheriff's department was assisting a deputy in returning a fugitive to the county jail from another county.

The prisoner, noticing the chaplain's collar and his holstered pistol, asked Chenoweth, "If I took off running, would you shoot me?"

Chenoweth, a pistol marksman, replied with a straight face: "Well, I'll pray with you. I'll pray for you. Or I'll pray over you."

The prisoner said no more on the subject, Chenoweth reported.

NEW YORK (AP) —

The stock market rang up a broad gain in heavy trading today, inspired by strength in the dollar and more evidence of a slowing in monetary growth.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 8.58 at 836.63.

The mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues showed more than five gainers for every loser.

Late Thursday the Federal Reserve reported that the basic measure of the money supply was unchanged in the latest week.

That unexpected news represented further evidence of a slowing since late last year in the growth rate of the money supply. Many — although not all — economists consider reducing monetary growth a basic requirement if inflation is to be restrained.

Analysts also noted that a slower pace of monetary growth would substantially ease pressures on the Fed to push interest rates higher.

The dollar, meanwhile, chalked up more gains against leading foreign currencies today. It rose Thursday on word of the government's plans to sell notes denominated in Swiss francs beginning next week as part of a continuing U.S. effort to support the dollar.

Glamor stocks leading the market higher included Xerox, up 1/2 at 60 1/2; Merck, ahead 1 at 71; Boeing, up 1/2 at 78; and Eastman Kodak, 1/2 higher at 63.

The NYSE's composite index rose .54 to 55.96, and the American Stock Exchange market value index gained 1.45 to 160.31.

Volume on the Big Board reached 19.24 million shares in the first two hours, almost doubling the 9.85 million that changed hands in the like period Thursday.

Refugee Count Swells

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnamese forces were reported hammering the last three major areas of resistance in northwestern Cambodia today as almost 400 defeated troops or suspected ex-officials fled the fighting into Thailand for transit to China.

Informed sources said Siem Reap, Battambang and Sisophon were either under attack or had fallen. Thai intelligence sources said earlier that Sisophon had been taken and that Vietnamese tanks were in pursuit on a 31-mile stretch of Highway 6 to the Thai border.

The Cambodian refugees crossed at three points along the length of the frontier — 145 navy men of the toppled regime in the southeast, 180 persons in Surin province in the north and 45 near the key border crossing point at Aranyaprathet, 124 miles east of Bangkok.

One soldier who escaped said he saw many dead Chinese during his escape. Up to 20,000 Chinese advisers had been inside Cambodia and there is growing evidence that a number might still be trapped in the country.

Wilkinson

BETHEL — Mr. Sam Wilkinson Jr. died Wednesday in Pitt Memorial Hospital. Funeral services will be held Saturday, 3 p.m., at Conetoe Baptist Church, Conetoe, by the Rev. T. R. Vines. Burial will follow in the church cemetery.

Survivors: his wife, Mrs. Bertha Carney Wilkinson of the home; three daughters, Mrs. Dottie Howell and Mrs. Louise Howell, both of Tarboro, Mrs. Mildred Dickens of Newport News, Va.; five sons, Alonza Wilkinson of Conetoe, Samuel Wilkinson III of Highland, Calif., Henry and Milton Wilkinson, both of Washington, D. C., Curtis Wilkinson of Newport News, Va.; 42 grandchildren; 20 great-grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Addie Sherrod and Mrs. Lottie Gorham, both of Bethel, and Mrs. Claudie Wilson of Washington, D. C.; three brothers, Claude Wilkinson of Collins, Va., Ethan and Turner Wilkinson, both of California.

The body will be at the Hemby-Willoughby Mortuary, Tarboro after 6 p.m. Friday until one hour prior to services. Family visitation will be tonight from 7-9 p.m. at the chapel.

Bombing Killer Granted Parole

WASHINGTON (AP) — A young man sentenced to seven years in prison in connection with a Wisconsin bombing that claimed one life is due to be released Aug. 15 after serving less than three years.

The U.S. Parole Commission said Thursday that David Sylvan Fine, 26, has been granted parole for his part in the 1970 bombing of the U.S. Army Mathematics Research Center at the University of Wisconsin. Robert Fassnacht was killed in the blast. Fine eluded police until his arrest in January 1976.

RETIREMENT ORDERED

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — President Antonio Guzman has ordered the retirement of five generals and 12 colonels in his drive to take the military out of politics, the government has announced.

Herman Melville's "Moby Dick" was published in 1851.

Refugee City Council... Count Swells

The Council also conducted a public hearing on the fifth and final year of the city's participation in the CD entitlement grant program. Greenville, which has been funded under the program for the past four years, is eligible to receive $620,000 in the final year of funding, according to City Manager Ed Wyatt.

Wyatt emphasized the importance of citizen input into the project possibilities, noting that the fifth year money is the last designated for use in general areas. He said there will be very little latitude with future money under the discretionary procedures.

Margaret Wirth, representing the League of Women Voters, said that the League endorsed several requests, including: curb, gutter and paving of Spruce Street and Higgs Street in the unpaved areas of the Higgs neighborhood; the purchase of playground equipment for Sadie Sautter School; and funding for a neighborhood park and community building for West Meadowbrook.

Ms. Wirth also cited a need for the city to publicize and make available a list of proposed projects prior to Council public hearings. The League, she added, also questioned the timing of neighborhood meetings in December near the Christmas holidays.

Phillips suggested that CD funds be allocated for the resurfacing of Third and Fourth Streets in the west Greenville area.

The city's Community Development coordinator, Ben Shivar, discussed the neighborhood project requests, departmental requests and staff recommendations for 1979-80 and also reviewed some of the projects undertaken in the past under the program.

It was pointed out that a second hearing on the final year of the CD entitlement grant participation would be held on Feb. 8.

Wood Fuel Is Popular Again

According to Soil Conservation Service Forester Edwin J. Young of Raleigh, daily advertisements show that the pendulum may again be swinging back to wood.

"Fireplaces have always been a good sales point with real estate people, and many ultra-modern houses have one or two," said Young. "But now we read about fireplace devices, free-standing heaters and even big burners that can be connected to central heating systems — and they're all burning wood."

According to Young, cutting trees for firewood can improve the quality and rate of growth of remaining trees if one owns a woodlot.

It generally takes about four to ten hours of work to cut a standard cord (128 cubic feet). Many woodlots grow from one to two cords per acre per year. It is suggested to cut the poor and cut trees to give more room for growth of the best trees.

In the past, an owner often cut the straight and clear trees for firewood because they split easier than the crooked, limby trees. However, the objective is to improve the woods by cutting defective trees for firewood and later get top dollar by selling the best trees for sawlogs, according to Young.

Some 80,000 jobs in North Carolina are related to forest products. Wood products help make North Carolina first in the nation in furniture, saw timber, veneer and pulpwood are all major industries in the state.

Young pointed out that there is still plenty of wood for energy, with use of wood for fuel as a factor in increasing the value of North Carolina's farm woodland.

Young also said that many North Carolinians will be able to save money by heating with wood, either as a supplemental or main source.

"Another point for people nowadays is that the new furnaces, circulators and special fireplace installations are much more efficient than the old-time fireplaces," said Young. "So even though wood may cost more today, you're going to get more heat out of every stick you burn."

Illinois Nips MSU, Aims For Number One

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
The No. 1 college basketball ranking is up for grabs again...and come Saturday, Illinois just might claim it.
In a clash of Big Ten powers, the unbeaten and fourth-ranked Fighting Illini upended No. 1-rated Michigan State 57-55 at Champaign, Ill., Thursday night when sophomore Eddie Johnson popped in a 20-foot jump shot from the right corner, with three seconds left.
"If we can beat Ohio State Saturday, we should be No. 1," said Johnson.
"I know we are not No. 1," conceded Michigan State Coach Jud Heathcote.
Meanwhile, 16th-ranked Michigan also hit the road, only to find the road hitting back. The Wolverines dropped a 77-67 Big Ten decision to Purdue at West Lafayette, Ind.

"I just knew I had to take the shot and it went up and I felt good," said Johnson. "I've got confidence in my shot and I took it."
Johnson also pulled down 13 rebounds to help the Illini to an overwhelming 50-22 advantage in that department.
"The fellows did a lot better on the boards than I thought they could," said Coach Lou Henson. "The rebounds and defense won the game for us."
Michigan State had a 24-13 lead midway through the first half but trailed 32-28 at the intermission, managing only six points in the final 11½ minutes of the half.
"There was a lack of movement," said Spartan ace Earvin Johnson. "Somebody would drive and stop and then nobody else would move." Greg Kelsner of the Spartans took game honors with 23 points.
Michigan and Purdue were tied for the 14th time 52-52 with eight minutes left when Arnette Hallman of the Boilermakers made a three-point play that started a string of eight consecutive points. Jerry Sichtung led the winners with 24 points, including 10-of-10 free throws in the second half.
Joe Barry Carroll, Purdue's 7-foot-1 center, scored 14 points, grabbed 13 rebounds and got Michigan's Phil Hubbard in foul trouble. Hubbard picked up his fourth foul with 14:39 remaining.
"Our game plan included getting the ball to Carroll underneath and to get Hubbard in foul trouble," Purdue Coach Lee Rose said.
Rickey Williams scored 20 points and Francois Wise added 16 to pace Long Beach State's romp over UC-Irvine. The 49ers led 34-23 at halftime and poured it on in the second half.
Elsewhere:
—In other Big Ten games, 6-11 Kevin McHale's 26 points led Minnesota over Indiana 80-63. Kelvin Ransey's 24 points sparked Ohio State over Iowa 72-67 and Wisconsin scored 12 straight points in the second half to beat Northwestern 95-82.
—Auburn made it seven victories in a row over Georgia, downing the Bulldogs 84-77 in a Southeastern Conference game behind Bobby Cabbage's 27 points and Bubba Price's 25. In another SEC contest, Reggie Johnson and Howard Wood split 50 points to lead Tennessee past Florida 116-73. It was the most points ever against the Gators. Also, Ray White's 27 points led Mississippi State over Mississippi 101-92 in double overtime, despite 42 points by the losers' John Stroud.

—In Southwest Conference action, Texas Tech erased an 11-point first-half deficit and overtook Baylor 80-76 to take over first place with a 3-0 record.
—Drake surged to a 15-point lead midway through the first half but trailed 32-28 at the intermission, managing only six points in the final 11½ minutes of the half.
—In Western Athletic Conference action, four players scored in double figures to help Brigham Young beat Texas-El Paso 80-56.

Bethel Run Set

BETHEL—The annual Bethel Marathon has gone national this year, and officials of the Coastal Carolina Track Club expect some 800 runners to toe the mark Saturday for the start of the 26.2 mile event.
The event is co-sponsored by Home Savings and Loan Association.
In addition to the marathon, a 1.1 mile mini-marathon will be run, along with a two-mile fun run.
The marathon, which has been nationally advertised this year, has drawn entrants from 25 states and two Canadian provinces. Over 500 entries have already been received, and around 800 runners are expected to start the event, which is a qualifying event for the annual Boston Marathon.
The marathon race will begin at 10 a.m., with the mini-marathon at 10:15 and the fun run at about 10:30.
Certificates will be awarded to all finishers, along with trophies and ribbons to top finishers.
The race starts just north of the railroad tracks in Bethel, and will go down N.C. 11 to Oak City and back.

Bucs Seeks Third Straight Win

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

There is an old saying that good things come in threes.
East Carolina University's basketball team is hoping that that old saying will prove true Saturday night, when the Bucs play host to Virginia Commonwealth University.
East Carolina goes into the game with a 6-6 record, and a two-game winning streak. The Pirates have won their last two games by one-point margins over teams that were favored over the Bucs.
Saturday night's game will probably be no exception in the Pirates' role as underdogs as they seek their third straight upset win.
Virginia Commonwealth comes into the game with an 11-3 record, including a 75-64 victory over Cincinnati on the Bearcats' home floor. "That was no mean feat," ECU Coach Larry Gillman said. "So they are coming off a big win, too."
Gillman called VCU a very quick, aggressive team that returns three starters from last year's 25-4 team that went to the National Invitational Tournament. "They've added an outstanding freshman and a junior college transfer to their starting lineup," he added.

The five starters include Lorenzo Watson, 6-9½, called by Gillman an outstanding shotblocker and rebounder; Greg McCray, a 6-7 forward who is a junior college transfer; Monty Knight, a 6-4 freshman guard; Ed Sherrod, a 6-2 guard; and Danny Kottack, a 6-5½ forward.
"They also like to bring in 6-7 Tim Harris and 6-8 Kenny Stancell, and then, they move Kottack to guard."
"David Underwood, (Greg) Cornelius and (Frank) Hobson will have the job of keeping them off the boards. Even though we didn't win the battle of the boards against South Carolina, we out-toughed them, and we're going to have to do that again," Gillman said.
The coach said he expected to see a mixed defense from VCU, not a strictly zone or man-to-man type defense. "I was really a little surprised to see South Carolina play us a zone with their three-guard lineup they had. But we ran out offense well, and it was better in the second half."

Gillman added that Al Tyson gave the Pirates 11 good minutes of play against the Gamecocks when Underwood came out of the game. "He was just too emotional about the South Carolina game. He should be back to his usual form against VCU."
Underwood is a transfer from the University of South Carolina. "Walter Moseley is playing well now, too," Gillman said. "Being able to have fresh guards in the game helps too. But everyone has to get more consistent."
Gillman said the Pirates had to get back down to earth and get ready for Saturday's game. "We are going in with the attitude that we will win if we execute," he said. "If we are the underdog, it doesn't matter."

Tipoff is set for 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Minges Coliseum. Following the game, the Pirates go on the road to face Tennessee-Chattanooga on Monday, then return home to face strong Detroit on Thursday.

Pirates Open Indoor Season

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn.—East Carolina opens its indoor track season here tonight and Saturday in the second annual East Tennessee State University Indoor Invitational meet.
The Pirates placed four entries into the feature sections of the meet, a first for the school.
"This is the best placing that we have ever received for a meet of this type," said Pirate coach Bill Carson. "I expect that all of the people in those special sections will be qualifying for the NCAA meet. The field is that strong."
The ECU mile relay team, coming off the fourth fastest indoor time in the country last winter, 3:12.8, will be running with five-sixths of the field which ran in the NCAA finals last March. NCAA champion Villanova, Kansas, Florida State, Oklahoma and ECU, a 3:14.5 clocking will qualify the team for the 1979 meet.
Sprinter Otis Melvin will be running the 60-yard dash against Auburn all-Americans Harvey Glance and Tony Easley in an event which requires a 6.22 second effort to compete in the NCAA championship.
Calvin Alston will be in the 400 meters against Auburn's Willie Smith, the top competitor in the country at that distance. A 40.2 second effort meets the NCAA qualifying standard in this race.

Herman McIntyre will be trying to eclipse the NCAA qualifying mark of 53.9½ in the special triple jump.
The Pirates placed men in four of the eight events where feature sections are being staged. All other entries will compete in the university trials on Friday and Saturday on a time basis.
Carson is taking a total of 19 athletes to the two-day affair involving 70 schools. Anthony Fields and Warren Days will run in the 60-yard dash, while Marvin Rankins, Bobby Phillips and Valentino Ribinson will be in the 60-yard hurdles.
James Fields, Carter Suggs, Antoine Holloman, Terry Perry and Carlton Bell will run the 400, while LaMont Byrd, James McCullough and Tony McKoy will enter the 600-yard run and Bill Miller will compete in the 1500 meters.
In the field events, Darryl McCoy, Days and Robinson will be in the long jump and Russell Parker is entered in the high jump.

CLEMSON, S.C.—East Carolina came within a final shot of winning the Clemson Invitational women's basketball tournament last night, but the host Tigers escaped with a 61-60 victory in a game in which the lead changed hands numerous times.
The Lady Pirates, now 8-5, scored the final four points of the game on baskets by Marcia Girven with 2:30 and 55 seconds left to play, but could not score following a steal by Lillion Barnes with 11 seconds left on the clock.
Forward Rosie Thompson of ECU was chosen to the all-tournament team after her game-high 27-point performance. She hit 12 of 19 attempts from the floor and added nine rebounds.
Girven was the second high scorer in last night's game with 14, while teammate Lynne Emerson added 11.
The largest Pirate lead was 21-13 with 11:16 remaining in the first half. Clemson scored eight straight points to knot the game, but Lydia Rountree, Gale Kerbaugh and Emerson boosted the Pirate edge back to six at 27-21. The Tigers closed to 33-30 at intermission.
The hosts took the lead for good with 11:44 to play at 44-43 on a basket by tournament MVP Cissy Bristol, and expanded their margin to seven twice. Clemson had not led since holding a 9-8 advantage early in the contest.
Thompson pulled the Pirates within four at 60-56 with 3:50 to play. Drima Greer hit the first of two free throws to boost the Tigers back to a 61-56 edge. Girven scored and Barnes made a steal to give ECU a chance to win it, but Thompson threw up an errant shot with four seconds left.
"We were in the game from beginning to end," said Pirate coach Cathy Andruzzi. "If we had more depth, we would have been able to rest our starters some more and that might have helped."
"I thought Lillian Barnes played well as a back-up at point guard. We got in foul trouble and she had to run the offense. She passed the ball to the right people and gave excellent defensive pressure as well," Andruzzi noted.

The coach said she was pleased with the way her team played and that the tournament was a good experience for the Lady Pirates. The team shot 43.5 percent from the floor against the Tigers, who shot only 34.2 percent. Kerbaugh had five assists, while Rountree and Barnes posted four each.
"Lydia Rountree and Lynne Emerson just played great on defense," Andruzzi said. "They held their opponents to half what they had scored the night before. We had to go zone part of the game with our short team in there and Rosie and Marcia on the bench in foul trouble. Except for that time, we matched up well with them in our man-to-man."

Alabama-Birmingham finished third in the tournament and placed Wanda Hightower on the all-tourney team along with Lynn Norenberg of William & Mary, which finished fourth. Clemson, winners for the second straight year, had Bristol and Debra Buford tapped for the elite five.
E. Carolina—Thompson 12 3 27, Emerson 3 0 6, Girven 3 1 7, Kerbaugh 5 0 10, Rountree 4 2 10, Barnes 0 0 0, Ross 0 0 0.
Clemson—Kims 6 0 12, Buford 3 0 6, Bristol 8 2 18, Greer 1 2 4, McMillan 3 2 8, Wise 2 3 7, Wilson 0 0 0, Kennedy 3 0 6.

Tar Heels Rip Buc Wrestlers

North Carolina romped to an impressive 39-8 wrestling win at East Carolina last night using four pins to mount the score against the Pirates.
C. D. Mock of UNC stopped Jim Osborn at 1:34 points at the 3:12 mark with a reverse nelson and a body press, the same technique used by teammate Mike Hensel against Marvin James at the 7:50 mark in the 177-pound bout.
UNC's Joe Galli cradled Tom Robinson at 1:42 of the 142-point match and 190-pounder Norman Walker worked a body press for six points against Pirate Brian Merrian.
Summary:
118 Dave Cooke (NC) won by forfeit.
126 Bob Monaghan (NC) dec. David Jeros, 13 0.
134 C. D. Mock (NC) pinned Jim Osborn, 3:12.

Pistons Survive Slow Beginning

By The Associated Press
It took M.L. Carr and Bob Lanier a while to warm up Thursday night — shucks, it took everyone a while to warm up in the frigid Pontiac Silverdome — but when they did the Detroit Pistons began cooking on all cylinders.
Carr scored 17 of his 23 points in the second half and Lanier got 12 of his 18 after the intermission in leading Detroit to a 104-101 triumph over the Portland Trail Blazers that snapped the Pistons' six-game losing streak.
The Silverdome was cold with the thermometer in the low 50s — it was near zero outside — because of a condensation problem under the dome.
Elsewhere, George Gervin pumped in 52 points as the San Antonio Spurs flogged the San Diego Clippers 140-111, the Seattle SuperSonics edged the Phoenix Suns 109-106 and the Kansas City Kings turned back the Golden State Warriors 94-89.

SuperSons 109, Suns 106
Gus Williams sank four free throws in the last 29 seconds to nail down Seattle's victory and put the Sonics a full game ahead of Los Angeles in the Pacific Division while Phoenix fell into third place, 1½ games behind the Sonics. Seattle upped a one-point lead to 101-94 in the closing minutes and Jack Sikma's 16-foot turnaround jumper kept the Sonics safely ahead.
Kings 94, Warriors 89
Otis Birdsong scored 24 points, including the last six of the game, to lead Kansas City. Golden State took an 89-86 lead with 4:50 remaining but the Warriors were blanked the rest of the way, missing their final eight shots. Phil Ford hit two free throws with 4:41 left to pull Kansas City within a point and Birdsong then scored the final three baskets.
Spurs 140, Clippers 111
Gervin, the NBA's leading scorer, broke his own point record for San Antonio's HemisFair Arena. Gervin hit 24 of 33 floor shots and all four of his

Jaguars Top Pack

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central romped to a 42-21 wrestling victory over Washington yesterday.
The Jaguars won eight weight classes, while Washington took two forfeits and four pins, while Washington got one pin and one match by default.
Farmville plays host to Conley on Wednesday.
Summary:
100 Tom King (FC) pinned James Snead, 0:12.
107 Brian White (FC) won by forfeit.
114 Tony Cooper (W) dec. Brady Nichols, 12:3.

Applauding His Birdie

Bruce Choice Of Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former Iowa State Coach Earle Bruce, after making what he called the hardest decision of his life, today becomes Ohio State's 20th football coach, following in the footsteps of the legendary Woody Hayes.

An Ohio State spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said the selection of Bruce, 47, Iowa State's mentor for six years, would be announced at a 2 p.m. EST news conference.

The Ohio State official said Bruce's resignation at Iowa State, announced Thursday by that school's president, Robert Parks, was a stepping stone toward the new job.

Bruce, because of a state law, can only be hired for one year as a state university employee. His salary will be between $35,000 and $45,000, plus an in-season weekly television show and other benefits.

Hugh Hindman, the Buckeyes' athletic director, neither confirmed nor denied the selection of Bruce. Both served as assistants on the same Hayes staffs for four seasons from 1966 through 1969.

Iowa State University assistant coaches and players also confirmed Bruce was leaving the Cyclones to return to Ohio to succeed his former boss.

Before Hayes was fired for hitting a Clemson player in the Gator Bowl Dec. 29, Hayes directed the Buckeyes to two national titles, 13 Big Ten cham-ionships or co-championships, 11 bowl trips and a record of 205-61-10 in 28 seasons.

Wayne Stanley, a current Iowa State assistant, said Bruce asked Jim Williams, Steve Szabo and himself to join the new Ohio State staff during a meeting Thursday.

Stanley told the Cedar Rapids (Iowa) Gazette that Bruce would not have left Iowa State if he did not have the right to hire all of his assistants at Ohio State.

The Cumberland, Md., native was recruited by Hayes as a Maryland all-state halfback, but an injury cut short Bruce's college playing career.

He is a 1953 Ohio State graduate and served as an assistant coach under Hayes from 1966 through 1971.

Bruce's first venture into college head coaching was a 10-2-0 performance at the University of Tampa, including a Tangerine Bowl victory over Kent State in 1972.

Then he lifted Iowa State to football respectability starting in 1973. His last three teams went 8-3 and the last two played in the Peach Bowl and Hall of Fame Bowls. The Cyclones were 36-32-0 under Bruce.

Bruce's 1976 Iowa State team finished second in the nation in total offense and the same season he was named The Associated Press' Big Eight Conference Coach of the Year.

Mahaffey Leads Two Shot Lead

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — John Mahaffey took a philosophical view of the situation. "For a long time," he said, "I had what they call the fear of winning. I thought I was good enough, but I wasn't sure I was ready."

There's little doubt of it now. He reeled off an improbable string of seven birdies — one short of the all-time PGA Tour record — on the way to another 6-under-par 66 that gave him a two-shot lead after 36 holes of the five-day, 90-hole Bob Hope Desert Classic.

"It must be something like what (Johnny) Miller had going a few years ago," Mahaffey said Thursday. "I could see the line. I was hitting the ball solid and the putts just kept going in the hole."

His spectacular effort at La Quinta gave him a two-round total of 132, a whopping 12 shots under par after playing the two toughest of the four desert courses used for the first four rounds of this event. The format calls for the pros to play one round on each of the four courses each day with a different team of amateurs before the final round Sunday at Indian Wells.

Art Wall, grinding away in his 31st year of tour activity, coaxed in a wide-breaking, uphill, 30-foot birdie putt on the final hole at Bermuda Dunes to complete a 67 that gave him a 134 and second place.

"Gee whiz," exuded the 55-year-old Wall, a Masters chamption 20 years ago. "What's going on?"

He thought a moment and continued: "This sort of thing could make me start thinking I can play again, and I'm not sure that's a good thing."

Leonard Thompson, with a 66 at Tamarisk in mild, cloudy weather, was next at 135. He was followed at 136 by Keith Ferguson, who had a 67 at Indian Wells.

The group at 137 included J.C. Snead, Tom Purtzer and former PGA champ Lanny Wadkins. Snead had a 69 at Indian Wells, Purtzer 68 at Tamarisk and Wadkins shot 66 at La Quinta.

Lee Trevino was 68-139 and Jack Nicklaus 69-140. Both played their second rounds at Tamarisk.

Mahaffey's "fear of winning" reference was to the struggles and near-misses of his earlier years on the tour. In his first seven seasons, he won once and had countless chances. Probably the most devastating were two consecutive U.S. Open titles which eluded him. He went into a deep decline, compounded by physical and personal problems.

But he came back in a dramatic example of personal courage. It was capped last fall by his playoff victory over Tom Watson and Jerry Pate in the PGA championship. He won again the following week and finished the season with the individual triumph in the prestigious World Cup competition.

Blister Ends Connors' Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Bjorn Borg and Guillermo Vilas refused to play in the Masters Grand Prix, but their ghosts spooked the tournament directors and wrecked Jimmy Connors' chance to defend his title in the $400,000 event.

The long-awaited match between the No. 1 ranked Connors and upstart John McEnroe was not the fight to the finish everyone anticipated Thursday night. Connors was forced to retire, with McEnroe leading 7-5, 3-0, because he had a painful blood blister at the beginning of the large toe of his left foot.

McEnroe now moves into Saturday's semifinals along with Arthur Ashe, Brian Gottfried and Eddie Dibbs.

The retirement is treated like a default, meaning Connors couldn't continue in the eight-man round-robin event, and that's where the specter of Borg and Vilas cast a shadow over this tournament.

In last year's Masters, with their inclusion into the semifinals already assured, Borg came down with the flu and Vilas came up with an ankle injury, both defaulting meaningless round-robin matches. The maladies, considered suspicious by fans and tournament officials, gave the two stars an extra day's rest before the semifinals.

The outcry convinced tournament officials to change the rules this time. Now, if any player does not begin and finish any match for any reason, he is automatically eliminated from the rest of the tournament.

"We feel we put in a totally objective rule," said Ray Benton, the tournament director.

"It's unfortunate when Jimmy Connors played hurt, played his heart out and is still forced out of the tournament. But we just didn't want to get into the business of making a medical judgment."

Connors said his foot had become soft because his last tournament match was Dec. 9. While practicing, he hurt the foot four or five days ago and aggravated it early in the

Win, Women And Money

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Charles M. Neinas, commissioner of the Big Eight Conference and one of the most respected men in collegiate athletics, has coined a light, breezy phrase that roars with truth.

"Win, women and money," he says with a grin. The grin disappears and he adds, "That's the best way I can think of to describe the state of college sports today ... win, women and money."

Collegiate sports, an integral part of the American educational system, was depicted at the 73rd convention of the National Collegiate Athletics Association as quickly reaching a crisis point. There will still be college athletics, but it may never be as vital and entertaining as it is today, the consensus seemed to be.

Practically everything said and done at the convention, this week bore out those gloomy thoughts. And it all seems to stem from win, women, and money.

First comes "Win," a reality that even the most casual readers of America's sports pages are familiar with as coaches keep getting fired with regularity. In the Big Eight, last year, for example, perennial doormat Kansas State beat Colorado, Kansas and Oklahoma State, all of which will have new coaches next year.

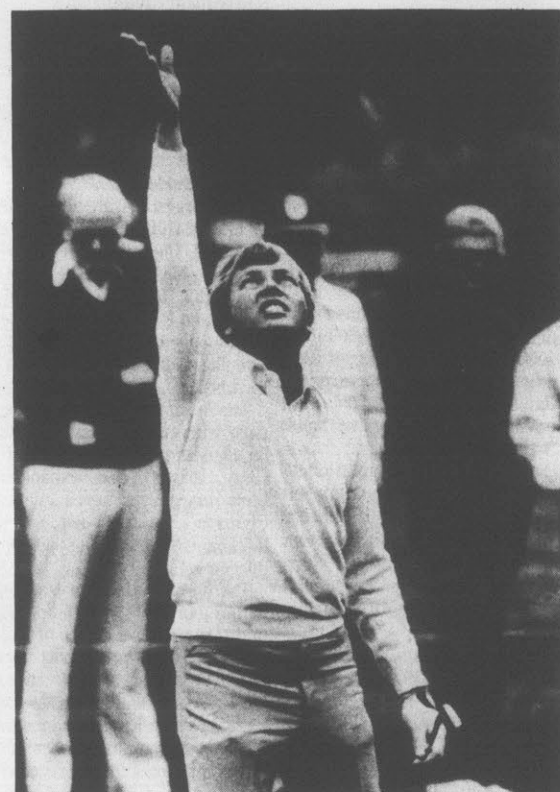

Coaches must win for one reason. Money. Winning means money, in the form of sold-out stadiums and fieldhouses, and alumni happily writing checks payable to the order of the athletic department.

The "money" syndrome was reflected in vote after vote on the convention floor as delegates decided upon 132 proposals. Inflation in college athletics is generally estimated at a cool 10 percent a year. Last year's athletic budget of $5.1 million will be $5.6 million this year, $6 million next year, and on and on.

But it's the "women" part that's really bringing college athletics to crisis. Or, more to the point, regulations written by what one delegate termed "a small cadre of young female attorneys" who wrote Title IX compliance guidelines for HEW. Title IX, federal legislation barring discrimination against women in the funding of college athletics, could sound the death knell of men's programs in virtually all sports but football and basketball.

HEW has said that by Sept. 1, schools must provide equal per capita expenditures for men's and women's programs.

Worried athletic administrators maintain they'd be happy to upgrade women's programs if only HEW would let them do it in a fiscally responsible manner. What will happen in many instances, they say, is that the revenue-producers, football and basketball, will be retained but there will no longer be men's track, baseball, etc. Funds that normally would go to those programs will have to be diverted to the budgets for women.

Checking The Desert Winds
Texan John Mahaffey looks upward as he tosses a leaf into the air to check the desert breeze in Palm Springs Thursday during the second round of play in the Bob Hope Desert Classic. Mahaffey shot a 66 to match his first round score and lead the tournament with a 12-under 132. (AP Laserphoto)

The NCAA's annual convention ended earlier this week, with no real earth-shaking votes.

Several items were expected to come up, but none of them garnered enough votes to pass except the rule to eliminate "special" dorms for athletes. These dorms, like those at Kentucky, Alabama, or other schools, must be open to all students, and not to just athletes.

The NCAA turned down moves to toughen academic requirements for entrance to colleges, a move to revise the enforcement program, another bid by the big-time football schools for a separate division; a try to increase football staffs; an attempt to limit non-football and basketball scholarships to "need," and dropped the three-visit contact rule for recruiting.

They also did away with the freshman red-shirt rule that had a brief one-year reign.

Perhaps the biggest howl in the entire meeting was the uproar over Title IX, which now says that equal spending must be made for women's programs, not counting football. NCAA members want basketball and football both exempted from any per capita ruling on money distribution with the women.

As one delegate was quoted as saying, "I've never been to (an NCAA meeting) where everybody was talking about what they don't want instead of what they do want."

Jr. High Results

GRIMESLAND — G.R. Whitfield and A.G. Cox split a pair of basketball games yesterday.

Cox won the girls' game, 31-17. Cheryl Thompson led Whitfield with nine points, while K. Barrett had 11 to lead Cox.

In the boys' game, Whitfield gained a 47-31 win. Keith Gatling led Whitfield with 21, while Artell Ruffin had 10. Otis Payton had 13 to lead Cox.

CHICOD — Bethel and Chicod split a pair of junior high school basketball games Thursday.

In the girls' game, Chicod gained a 21-18 victory. Diane Roach led Chicod, scoring 20 of the 21 points. Frances Barnhill had six to top Bethel.

In the boys' game, Bethel defeated Chicod, 61-51. Johnson had 19 and Roberson had 18 to lead Chicod, while Gregory Hines led Bethel with 19, with Gilbert Pettaway and Mitchell Whitfield each adding 11.

Wellcome and Ayden divided a pair of basketball games yesterday.

Ayden took the girls' game, 26-23. Linda Brown led Ayden with 12 points, while Tonya Harrison had nine to lead Wellcome.

Wellcome came back to win the boys' game, 58-33. David Langley and Charles Harris each had 10 to lead Wellcome, while Terry Anderson had 19 for Ayden.

FARMVILLE — Farmville and Snow Hill went into overtime yesterday before Snow Hill finally came away with a 43-40 junior high basketball victory. J. Thompson had 18 points for Snow Hill, while B. B. Joyner and Andrew Edwards each scored 12 for Farmville.

The good thoroughbred, Jatski, won, among other races, the Omaha Gold Cup, the President's Cup and the Governor's Cup.

Another Good Victory

East Carolina University's basketball victory over South Carolina on Wednesday night meant a lot to the program at the school.

Regardless of how well or how poorly either team played, it goes into the record books as a victory for East Carolina over South Carolina. And regardless of what the fortunes of South Carolina are, it remains that they are still largely associated with the Atlantic Coast Conference in name and reputation.

People associate the name South Carolina with a good basketball tradition since Frank McGuire took over there some 15 years ago.

That gives the Pirates two straight wins over good basketball schools. Saturday's opponent, Virginia Commonwealth, isn't as widely known as South Carolina, but is probably a tougher team. To add them to the list would be another feather in the Pirate warbonnet, but it might not be as illustrious.

There are tickets available for Saturday's game.

More Word On Perry

The backhanded slap in the face by the San Diego Padres at Gaylord Perry may be additional fuel on the fire to an upcoming trade.

Officials of the club were quoted yesterday as saying Perry didn't get a bonus or a contract renewal after winning the Cy Young Award because he was lucky.

The Padres said Perry didn't bring in the crowds like former Cy Young winner Randy Jones did the he won the award and received a fine bonus afterwards. Perry, the official said, was lucky enough to pitch on promotional days when big crowds naturally come.

Maybe so, but he did win 21 games, more than any other National League pitcher, and he did win the Cy Young Award.

Bye-bye San Diego.

Elegant Fakes: A Design To Defraud

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer
HONG KONG (AP) — It may say Gucci, Pierre Cardin or Christian Dior, but the odds are growing that if it's bought in Hong Kong, it's phony — an Italian, South Korean or local imitation.

Hong Kong's reputation as the shopping paradise of Asia has been tarnished lately by a spate of lawsuits involving elegant fakes.

Dr. Uldo Gucci, head of the Italian fashion house which bears his name, became so annoyed at the fake Gucci handbags, belts and other leather goods he saw in Hong Kong last month that he took out a newspaper advertisement warning that the company would take legal action against businessmen manufacturing or selling imitations.

"I think without hesitation, we are the most copied people in the world," Gucci said in an interview. "It's awful, just awful. But you have to fight it. The only thing is to keep changing designs and to take legal action wherever possible."

Dior's leading fake-fighter, Kenneth Boey, said the company sued eight retailers this year for selling imitation Dior purses and accessories. "We mean business because the public is being cheated and we're going to keep on suing until they take the hint," he said.

Gucci said the number of copies available here had grown enormously since he visited in 1976 but the situation wasn't "as scandalous" as he had been told. In some South American countries, he said, it is "very, very scandalous — worse than Hong Kong — because they actually open shops with the Gucci name and claim to be us."

Y.Y. Leung, chief industry officer of Hong Kong's trade investigation agency, said "just a small fraction" of the 50 criminal prosecutions over the last three years for making or selling counterfeit goods involved name designers.

He said in an interview that "the number is definitely increasing" along with the number of civil suits involving fashion designers.

"The main problem is that more people are getting involved in this kind of thing," Leung said. "But the consumers are also getting smarter and more are willing to come forward and lodge complaints with us. The trademark owners and agents are also more willing to press lawsuits."

Boey, manager of Dior's agent in Hong Kong, said the good leather copies are imported from Italy and sell for almost the same price as the real thing. "Some of the copies made in Hong Kong charge less than half of Dior but those and the ones from South Korea are not so good," he said.

Gucci said "90 per cent of the Gucci fakes here are made in Florence and Milan." The cheap plastic copies generally come from Asia, he said.

Last month, Gucci's local manager, Kerry Obonai, was walking through Kai Tak Airport here when he spotted a Gucci advertisement for handbags and belts — complete with Gucci's famed GG insignia.

Obonai said he went to the store, bought several "obvious fakes" and then filed a complaint. "I was so surprised — they were more expensive than a real Gucci and the quality was very poor," he said.

Leung said his office seized 500 handbags from a very large local manufacturer as a result of the complaint "and we believe they came from Italy."

It isn't only the international designers who are taking action.

Leung said Michel Rene, an expensive boutique, was convicted on several counts of making false trade descriptions for saying its clothes were manufactured in France when they were really produced here. The company was fined more than $26,000. Goldion ties paid a record $42,500 for putting Paris, France, on its Hong Kong-made ties.

The maximum penalty for a single count of selling or making imitations is a $21,250 and five years imprisonment.

How can a shopper be sure he's getting the real thing?

Gucci said his customers know the real thing.

Boey admitted even he has to send some Diors to Paris to check whether they're real and suggested a customer should check with the designer's authorized agent.

Said Leung: "We still advise shoppers to go to reputable or bigger shops although there have been some seizures from big shops. Most counterfeit goods come from side street stalls or smaller shops."

Honored By Center Staff

Donald H. Hayes, Director of the Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center, was honored recently by his staff.

At an awards dinner held at the American Legion Hall, Hayes received an award for 15 years of service as a state employee. Mrs. Audrey Joyner and Mrs. Ann Bennett, representing the employees of the center, presented him with a plaque honoring him for "leadership in providing excellent patient care." She noted that the W. B. Jones ARC was one of the first centers in the Southeast accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals and that it recently has received another two-year accreditation.

She noted that Hayes, a former East Carolina University professor and conductor of the Symphony Orchestra, is remembered as "the Music Man of Eastern North Carolina" for his role in helping organize and direct many of the school bands in this area.

Looking To More Non-Smokers

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The new surgeon general's report on smoking is stirring fierce criticism from tobacco states, but a major anti-smoking group gleefully predicts the report will help swell the ranks of America's 30 million ex-smokers.

Legislators from Kentucky and North Carolina led the criticism Thursday after HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. and Surgeon General Julius B. Richmond issued the 1,200-page report.

The report concluded that evidence linking cigarettes to heart diseases, lung cancer and other illnesses is "overwhelming."

Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., charged Califano with trying "to destroy the American tobacco industry" and further his own political ambitions. Rep. Walter B. Jones, D-N.C., said the report contains nothing new and does not justify government attempts to interfere with an "individual's choice to smoke." Sen. Walter D. Huddleston, D-Ky., said Califano "totally ignores, and the report barely acknowledges, progress that has been made toward producing a 'safer cigarette.'"

Sen. Wendell H. Ford, D-Ky., said there was "a continued absence of firm and conclusive scientific evidence" about the effects of smoking on health. The new report was issued on the 15th anniversary of the first surgeon general's smoking report, which linked cigarettes to lung cancer and led to warning labels on cigarette packages and advertising.

Califano said the report may prompt new efforts to require a stiffer warning label on cigarette packages and advertisements. And Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., called for Congress to hold hearings on that and other issues, including non-smokers' rights and higher cigarette taxes. The Tobacco Institute stuck with its earlier characterization of the report — a prediction that it would be a "rehash."

State's Press Of 1879 Had 3 Unusual Stories

By Dr. H. G. JONES
For the Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — A hundred years ago, the newspapers of the state carried three unusual stories.

The first story will warm the cockles of the hearts of those who relish the come-uppance of nosy bureaucrats. It has particular relevance at a time when tobacco smuggling is again a public issue.

In 1878, the attempt to avoid the payment of tobacco taxes was called "blockading." Up around Kittrell (in what was to become Vance County) a couple of "extra bright" revenue officers were following up a rumor of "blockade tobacco."

The strangers visited a local farmer (unidentified in the press) and insinuated that he must be hiding some untaxed tobacco. The local resident, not to be outdone, commented that they would have to "wade in deep water" if they expected to find any illicit tobacco.

The revenuers thought the farmer intentionally had given them a tip. They left, then doubled back to a stream on the man's farm. Picking out what appeared to be a place where water-tight boxes of tobacco might be submerged, they took off their shoes and for two hours probed up and down the stream with poles. The cold water soon got the best of them, and they gave up. But as they started back to their buggy, they met a young girl who, when asked if she knew where tobacco might be hidden, said that she had heard that the farmer had some boxes suspended on a rope in a certain well on the farm.

Rushing to the well, they looked down only to find that its walls had caved in. Certain that they had found the hiding place, one of the officers went into the neighborhood and hired five men at higher than customary wages.

Laboriously the men excavated the caved-in well. They worked all the next day, and just before nightfall they struck water at a depth of 40 feet. But all they found was water. No sign of tobacco.

According to the Raleigh News: "At this juncture the owner came to the scene and expressed surprise while he murmured his thanks for their thorough cleaning of the well. The joke now dawned on these quick wits, and they left for parts unknown."

The second story was about a quitting party held by the tenants on the Oliver McMath farm in Chatham County. A fight broke out and one of the men was stabbed.

The assailant was a black man, Dave Johnson, who was known locally as a "conjuring doctor."

The sheriff, upon searching Johnson, found a large hollow brass button in which was a smaller button wrapped in hair. Inside the second button was something resembling a bean — a "doctor's talisman" which supposedly put a hex on evil spirits.

Unfortunately for the "doctor" it did not protect him from his crime.

The third story concerned a tragedy. Isaac Poe was an aged black man who lived in the woods between Haywood and Moore's Mill on the Haw River. Editor Henry A. London Jr. of the Chatham Record wrote that Poe was "an odd character, having lived the life of a hermit" with two pet hogs under an open shelter that he had thrown together in the woods.

London continued: "He was an inoffensive creature, and the neighbors frequently tried to persuade him to give up his eccentric mode of living." But Poe spurned offers of housing; he wanted to remain in the woods.

He wore rags, and "his furniture consisted of a bread tray, a jug, and an old oven." He had no bed clothes and slept at night sitting over an open fire. He virtually lived off cornbread.

Then, in August 1878, Isaac Poe for some strange reason left his old shelter and began living in the open, with no covering whatever, still accompanied by his pet hogs.

During Christmas week, 1878, a local resident came upon his mutilated body, his rags burned off except for one old shoe.

An inquest concluded that Poe had dozed off, fallen into the fire, and then his beloved hogs had eaten the flesh off his legs.

Today's newspapers aren't much more cheerful than they were 100 years ago.

Voters In 4 Counties Holding A Referendum

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Voters in four North Carolina counties were faced today with deciding on whether to legalize the issue of liquor-by-the-drink, but predictions were for a light turnout on the referendums.

Opponents and proponents said they expect the contests in the counties of Wake, Durham, New Hanover and Onslow to hinge on a narrow margin.

A light turnout, which some observers feel would favor mixed drink opponents, could be caused by today's forecast. The forecast called for rain and freezing rain in the Raleigh-Durham area, and rain and slightly warmer temperatures along the coast.

Registered to vote are 250,000 people, the largest number eligible in one day since the legislature passed local option liquor legislation last year.

According to Alcoholic Beverage Control Administrator William Hester, if any of the four

Halt Sales Of Toy Spaceships

ATLANTA (AP) — The Mattel Corp. has stopped selling a toy spaceship after several children injured themselves — and a 3-year-old Atlanta boy died — by shooting missiles into their mouths.

Spencer Boise, vice president of corporate affairs for Mattel Corp., said the company is considering a "missile mail-in" campaign, urging children to send in the 1 1/4-inch soft plastic projectiles included with the "Battlestar Galactica" toy. "I want to emphasize that it is not the toy that is the problem," he said. "It is the little red missile that the children are shooting into their mouths."

counties approve mixed drink sales, the sales could begin by mid-February.

Hester said 82 establishments in Wake would qualify for licenses, 44 in New Hanover, 31 in Onslow, and 29 in Durham.

Supporters of mixed drinks have contended that having liquor-by-the-drink rather than lugging along a bottle of liquor in a brown bag would provide improved controls, boost tourism and upgrade restaurants.

Wake County's mixed drink supporters say defeat of the referendum could mean the loss of a major new downtown convention hotel.

On the other hand, opponents say that liquor-by-the-drink is a moral issue, claiming it will result in an increase in liquor outlets and a negative influence on the social values of young people.

Question Long Training Period

DENVER (AP) — The training United Methodist ministers receive often produces pastors who are at home in the intellectual environment of "academia" but not at home in the commonly small congregations they later serve, says the church's Board of Discipleship.

Its study, presented by Bishop Edward L. Tullis of Columbia, S. C., at a consultation on the ministry, questioned whether the church should spend a minimum of seven years in training of pastors in a denomination whose average congregation has a membership of 150, of whom an average 76 attend on Sunday morning.

Study Area Transport

A study of transportation services in Pitt, Beaufort and Martin Counties is underway through a $13,895 grant from the Department of Transportation.

The 18 month study is designed to identify the existing transportation and the extent of service now provided.

The study is also designed to estimate the specific areas in need of transportation, outline procedures, requirements and costs involved in implementing a local transit system, and identification of alternative transit choices available.

Goals of the program are to increase job opportunities, reduce the cost of providing transportation to the clients of health, education, recreation and other social services, and to conserve energy by providing an alternative to the private automobile.

The study is being conducted through the Mid-East Commission.

WOOD FOR A COZY FIRE — Mary Jane Williamson, 85, of Route 2, Bessemer City, N.C., knows it's a little bit harder to gather kindlingwood for a burning stove than it would be to have a convenient oil or gas burner; but she just doesn't "trust those things. I don't want them (the oil or gas burners) for any price", she says. "One day, they'll catch fire and burn my house and me right up!" Gathering kindling isn't too hard, she said, and the wood makes a cozy fire for her and her 10 dogs. (AP Laserphoto)

NOTICE OF SALE NORTH CAROLINA
 Under and by virtue of the power of sale contained in that certain deed of trust recorded in Book N-41, Page 165, Pitt County Registry, dated February 19, 1979, recorded under date of February 21, 1973 and executed by Lloyd C. Cannon and wife, Feola Cannon unto Mark W. Owens, Jr. Trustee to secure an original indebtedness of Four thousand ($4,000.00) due UNITY, INC.

The above described indebtedness has been made subject to the payment of the indebtedness secured by said Deed of Trust and the said Deed of Trust being by its terms there subject to foreclosure, and the holder of the indebtedness hereby having demanded a foreclosure thereof for the purpose of satisfying said indebtedness, the undersigned Trustee will offer for public auction to the highest bidder cash in hand at the Courthouse door in Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, at 12:00 o'clock noon on the 7th day of February, 1979, the lot or parcel of land conveyed in said Deed of Trust as is hereinafter described:

That certain lot or parcel of land lying and being in the Town of Grifton, County of Pitt, and State of North Carolina, bounded and described as follows: BEGINNING at the northeastern corner of the R. H. Healy lot on the northwestern edge of Pitt Street, said point being a stake in the line of a fence 164 feet from the apparent edge of Main Street; and runs thence with the line of R. H. Healy lot along an old wire fence North 42 degrees 43 minutes West 120 feet to a line in another old wire fence, said fence being the line of the Martha Hunter property and from thence running North 10 degrees 30 minutes East 30 minutes East 60.5 feet to an iron stake; runs thence South 42 degrees 20 minutes East 120 feet to an iron stake in the northwestern edge of Pitt Street; thence with the edge of said Pitt Street South 47 degrees 30 minutes West 60 feet to the point and place of beginning. Being a portion of that property conveyed to Sam E. Nelson on the 10th day of March, 1955, under a deed recorded in the Pitt County Registry in Book N-128, page 214.

This sale will be made subject to all valorem taxes or other assessments now due or which constitute a lien on the above described lot or parcel of land and the highest bidder at said sale will be required to deposit with said Trustee ten (10) percent of the amount of his bid to show his good faith.

After paying the costs of the sale, the proceeds of said sale will be applied to the indebtedness secured by that Deed of Trust of record in Book N-41, Page 165.

Rail Traffic Required Computerized Freight Yard

LAYING TRACKS — Southern Railway Co. plans to open its new computerized freight switching yard near Linwood in Davidson County in June. The yard, a $48 million project, can handle up to 3,000 freight cars a day. (AP Laserphoto)

VIEW FROM THE TOP — This scene, from the top of a seven-story control tower, shows construction underway at Southern Railway's $48 million switching facility in Davidson County, N.C. The freight yard will be handling as many as 3,000 cars a day on lines between Washington and Atlanta. (AP Laserphoto)

By MONTE PLOTT
Associated Press Writer

LINWOOD, N.C. (AP) — Southern Railway Co.'s new computerized freight yard in southern Davidson County is scheduled to begin operation in June, shuffling hundreds of railroad cars a day and rearranging trains to expedite freight delivery.

The $48 million yard, more than four miles from one end to the other, is spread across 374 acres of what used to be a dairy farm about 10 miles south of Lexington.

Southern's new yard will replace the ancient and crowded switching yard at Spencer, a few miles down the line near Salisbury.

"This new yard was urgently needed, particularly since we acquired the Norfolk-Southern Railway which served the port of Norfolk," said Charlie Morgret, a Southern spokesman in Washington. "The increased traffic was putting pressure on our other yard."

The Linwood facility will handle all freight traffic on the Southern line between Washington and Atlanta, up to 3,000 freight cars a day.

It is one of seven computerized switching yards operated by Southern, but its newness makes it the most modern.

A recently developed vehicle resembling a bulldozer mounted with television cameras uses beams of light to make certain flat track is absolutely flat.

When the yard is in operation, the yardmaster will look down from the seventh story of the control tower and take care of most of the switching chores by pushing buttons.

Gravity plays a part, along with computers. The yard is a "hump" yard, with an incline built near the control tower.

Individual freight cars are pulled up the gradual incline. Then the yardmaster throws switches to determine which tracks they will roll down on the other side of the hump.

Gravity does the work that engines used to do.

"The old yards we're replacing are called flat yards," said Dean Crawley, resident engineer for construction of the Linwood yard. "You had to have engines to push the cars where they were supposed to go."

A floor full of computer hardware will be used to keep track of the thousands of freight cars on the Southern line. And in addition to human eyes watching the cars as they shuttle in and out, television cameras will monitor trains and keep track of serial numbers on the side of cars.

About 200 employees will handle the round-the-clock operation of the yard, but their work will be eased by electronic technology.

"We learn something new with every yard we build," Crawley said.

"This is the newest, so it's the most modern. The whole idea is to expedite the handling of those cars."

Ground School Course At PTI

Pitt Technical Institute is offering a 60-hour course, "Aviation Ground School," designed to help students gain necessary knowledge for private pilot operations and certification, including comprehensive preparation for the Federal Aviation Agency Private Pilot Written Exam.

The course will begin Jan. 15, 7 p.m., room 28, Administration Building. The class will meet Monday and Wednesday nights, with a required $5 registration fee. Registration will be held at the first class session.

Call the Continuing Education Division of PTI, 7563130, extension 238, for more information.

Wreath Still Up For Real Nest

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Christmas is over, but the holiday wreath is still on the front door at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Phil McKown.

The wreath sports two artificial cardinals, two tiny fake eggs, and a real sparrow's nest.

"I couldn't take it down now, since the little sparrows have made the nest their home," said Mrs. McKown.

And she says she may leave the wreath up for weeks, if the sparrows are trying to hatch the artificial eggs. When they give up, so will Mrs. McKown.

The McKowns, so not to disturb the sparrows, are entering their home in suburban Henrico County by a side door.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, JAN. 13, 1979

Your HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The likelihood of accidents or arguments occurring under the influence of today's full moon is strong. Try to be temperate in every way and avoid confrontations during the daytime. Evening then is excellent for planning important events.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try not to argue at home. Change your attitude somewhat and avoid tensions. Evening can then be happy, worthwhile.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to reconcile with an associate by being reasonable, understanding. Be clever in handling any communications, also. Out to a fine place of amusement with kin.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't be belligerent where a monetary affair is concerned. Be careful in driving and avoid injury, expense.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Busy yourself early improving health and appearance and stop feeling so blue. A problem you are having requires more time to solve it wisely. Think constructively.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't take on more work than you can possibly do and then take it easy in the evening. An annoying gossip could cause delays, but take it in your stride.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Show others that you are a good friend even though you may not approve of something they may be doing. Get busy at work you have to do during daytime.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are socially minded and should contact those who have information you need and get it. Check that habit of saving the pennies while letting the dollars fly out the window.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Plan how to make your present philosophy of life work more advantageously for you. Any contacts made during day would not be good, but tonight others can be of real assistance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to run away from your obligations, but you would only lose out where it counts the most. Keep steadfast and all is fine.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Avoid any conference with associates during day when you could argue, but the evening is fine for such. Daytime is bound to be difficult but later you can make up for lost time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care you do not go off on any tangents and keep rooted to important work ahead of you. Co-workers are in a poor mood, so do not argue with them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Work on your particular talents early and relegate fun with friends until evening. Stay within your budget and be sensible.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have to be taught early not to hang on to the apron strings so much, or else there will be resentment over the fuss being made. Teach self-reliance so that life can be met bravely.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

USDA Public Meet Scheduled

ATLANTA, GA. — Nashville, Tenn. has been chosen as the site of one of three U.S. Dept. of Agriculture public meetings on competitive foods to be held across the country.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman has withdrawn an agriculture department proposal to restrict "competitive foods" in schools and announced that the meetings to be held in Nashville, Detroit and Seattle are to get public suggestions on what should go into a new proposal.

Competitive foods are defined as any foods sold in competition with the type A lunch required in the national school lunch program.

Last April, the agriculture department proposed to restrict (until after the last school lunch period) the sale of candy, soda water, frozen desserts and chewing gum sold in vending machines, on cafeteria lines or at snack stands.

Following the proposal of last April, a heavy public response led to the withdrawal of the proposal, with Ms. Foreman saying the responses "raised some
