Estimated Greenville Population: 33,590

A report released by the N.C. Department of Administration, containing 1977 population estimates for North Carolina, indicated a 1977 figure of 33,590 for Greenville.

The report, developed by the department's Division of State Budget and Management, indicated that the 1977 estimate for Greenville represented an increase of 15.6 percent over the 1970 census figure of 29,063.

A provisional estimate for Pitt County for 1977 was listed in the report as 79,800, up some eight percent over 73,900 recorded in the 1970 census. According to the report, the county totals will be revised this year when more complete data are available.

In addition to Greenville, other Pitt towns and their 1977 and 1970 figures, as well as percentage increase, included: Farmville, 5,090, 4,424, 15.1 percent; Ayden, 3,890, 3,450, 12.8 percent;

Grifton (Pitt portion), 2,190, 1,548, 41.5 percent; Winterville, 2,130, 1,437, 48.2 percent; Bethel, 1,900, 1,514, 25.5 percent; Simpson, 530, 383, 38.4 percent; Fountain, 450, 434, 3.7 percent; Grimesland, 420, 394, 6.6 percent; and Falkland, 130, 130, no increase.

Grifton was one of 18 multi-county municipalities listed in the report and its combined Pitt-Lenoir County population for 1977 was estimated at 2,530. The figure reflected an increase of 36 percent over the 1970 census report of 1,860.

Greenville dropped a notch in its ranking among the state's 25 largest municipalities, according to the report, as it fell from 14th place in 1970 to 15th.

In 1970, Greenville's population estimate of 29,063 ranked it ahead of Goldsboro (26,960), Kinston (23,020), and Jacksonville (16,289) in the eastern section and just behind Wilson (29,347). The 1977 figure placed Greenville ahead of Wilson (33,580), Kinston (27,120), and Jacksonville (22,520) and just behind Goldsboro (36,690). Rocky Mount, which ranked 12th among the 25 cities in 1970 with 34,284 citizens, improved its ranking in 1977 to 11th position with 41,350.

Charlotte held its place as the state's largest city with a 1977 population estimate of 306,230, compared with 241,420 in 1970.

Greene County, according to the report, experienced a slight decline in population as 1977 estimates placed the total at 14,900, compared to 14,967 in 1970.

Martin County recorded an increase since the last census of 3.5 percent as 1977 figures placed the population at 25,600, up from 24,730.

Beaufort County also had an increase with population climbing from 35,980 in 1970 to 39,500, a jump of 9.8 percent.

ERA Ratification Vote In Senate Will Be Close

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment, hoping for a Senate vote as early as next week, defeated an effort to hold a statewide referendum on ERA but apparently lost one Senate supporter.

Lobbying over ratification of ERA remained intense in the Senate today, where a leading opponent, Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston, said he counted 24 firm "no" votes. But Rauch later said he believed there could be as many as 27 "no" votes.

Supporters said they were certain of at least 22 votes, and believed they could pick up a majority from four senators now considered uncommitted. The Senate has 50 members.

Sen. R.C. Soles, D-Columbus, who said last week he was undecided, said Wednesday he now expects to vote against ratification of ERA. Soles voted against ERA in 1977 but said last week he was re-evaluating that position because of contact from supporters and indicated he was leaning toward voting for it.

"I went home last weekend," Soles said, explaining his decision. "There's just a real groundswell of opposition to it. It's overwhelmingly 'no' down there."

Another undecided senator, Walter Cockerham, D-Guilford, is conducting a poll by having voters mail in a survey form printed in newspapers last week. But because of supporters' plans for speedy Senate action, Cockerham said Wednesday he might not have the results back from his accountant in time for the Senate vote.

In the House, Rep. Patricia Hunt, D-Orange, a supporter, said her side had 58 certain votes if ERA reaches the lower chamber. That is shy of a majority in the 120-member chamber, but Mrs. Hunt said there were enough uncommitted legislators to make supporters confident the measure could pass the House.

A public hearing is set for next Tuesday, and supporters hope for a Senate vote later in the week.

Supporters of the Equal Rights Amendment won a victory in committee Wednesday, stopping an attempt to block ratification of the ERA in this General Assembly session. The supporters postponed a bill calling for a statewide referendum on the ratification question.

On a motion by ERA supporter Rep. Ted Kaplan, D-Forsyth, the House Constitutional Amendments Committee, postponed action on the referendum until the General Assembly decides the fate of ERA ratification bills introduced in both chambers.

The bill calling for the referendum was sponsored by Rep. John Jordan, D-Alamance, an ERA opponent.

He contends ERA supporters oppose the referendum because they fear voters would reject the proposed constitutional amendment.

The referendum's outcome would not be binding on the General Assembly.

"I take my title 'representative' seriously," Jordan told the committee. "I think it means representing the majority. This is the only

Referendum Is Weighed

By STUART SAVAGE

A referendum on whether liquor should be sold by the drink in Pitt County may be held in the Spring, or next Fall.

R. L. "Bob" Martin, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, said, "at this time, we've had absolutely no interest at all professed," for holding a referendum on the liquor-by-the-drink question. He said, however, "if people in the county show an interest and want a referendum, we would act on it."

Martin explained that board members have talked informally with representatives of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce about the possibility of calling for a vote on the issue.

"We've had talks with the Chamber of Commerce at their request," Martin explained. The Chamber, "will come back and tell us what they found...if the people want it (a vote)," Martin said. "Commissioners will then determine whether or not to hold a referendum." There is no opposition on the part of the board," Martin said. "We just want to know there is some interest before we call a $15,000 referendum. It seems everyone is waiting for someone else to act."

Although no definite date has been discussed, Martin said if a vote is held, it will probably come in late Spring or next Fall.

Under legislation allowing local option liquor-by-the-drink sales, if a vote is held, and the proposal defeated, another referendum cannot be held within three years.

Estimate Million People Turned Out For Khomeini

By THOMAS KENT
Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — An estimated one million people, including hundreds of uniformed soldiers, marched through Tehran today in support of Holy man Ruhollah Khomeini's revolution.

The turnout of military men was the biggest yet seen in an anti-government demonstration here, giving Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar further cause to question whether lower-ranking soldiers would back his government in a showdown with Khomeini.

Bakhtiar remained defiant, however, vowing not to surrender to the Moslem religious leader and accusing him depending on the "mob" rather than democracy.

New political violence was reported in the Caspian Sea town of Gorgan, where state radio said four anti-government demonstrators were killed and 21 injured. The broadcast said security forces opened fire when protesters set fire to shops, banks and other buildings.

Khomeini had called for a massive turnout in the streets today to keep up the pressure on the prime minister to give way to Mehdi Bazargan, a longtime political foe of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi named by the ayatollah on Monday to head a new provisional government.

A stream of Iranians two miles long flowed through central Tehran, waving pictures of Khomeini and Bazargan, chanting "Bazargan, Bazargan, you are our prime minister," and "Bakhtiar, Bakhtiar, you take orders from the U.S.A."

Organizers had mustered thousands of volunteer marshals to control the crowds. The demonstrators marched from Tehran University to Shadyad Square, which they have renamed Liberty Square.

State radio said more than one million people marched.

The organizers claimed that 1,000 air force and army men joined the march, many with their families, to show their loyalty to Khomeini and their defiance of their commanders' pledge that the 430,000 men of the armed forces would defend Bakhtiar's government. Journalists reported seeing as many as 200 soldiers in the march.

SECOND OPINION?

I understand that there is a toll-free telephone number that a person can call to get information about where to go for a second opinion before having non-emergency surgery. B. R.

Hotline talked to the person in the High Point Office of the federal Health, Education and Welfare Department who developed the Second Opinion Program for this state.

A nurse and a costs analyst, she said that the toll-free Second Opinion number may be used by anyone being confronted with a recommendation for non-emergency surgery. It's 1-800-672-3071.

Nurses on duty will take information about the proposed surgery and consult a list of 1,300 participating doctors (12 in Pitt County at the present time) for one in the right location with the right specialty. For those having Medicare coverage, the second opinion consultation will be paid for at the same rate as other office visits and laboratory costs. Those covered by private insurance should contact the company or agent to find out if second-opinion consultation is covered.

The spokesperson said this program has been in effect only since October, 1978, and that no data has been developed yet about how much money is being saved by this method of encouraging second-opinion consultations.

She said the toll-free number is being used more and more as more North Carolinians are becoming aware of the service.

Egyptians Accept Offer Of Ministerial Talks

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt today accepted an American invitation to three-way ministerial-level talks aimed at breaking the impasse in Mideast peace talks with Israel.

The invitation was given to President Anwar Sadat by American Ambassador Hermann Eilts during a 40-minute meeting at the presidential palace.

A similar invitation was given to Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin on Wednesday. The Israeli Cabinet met today to consider the invitation but postponed a decision until its regular meeting on Sunday.

Israeli officials said the Cabinet almost certainly would agree to send Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan to the talks with Egyptian Foreign Minister Mustafa Khalil and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance. The talks are expected to be at Camp David, Md., later this month.

Eilts said the date and place of the meeting would not be announced until Israel had been heard from.

President Carter issued the invitations even though roving Ambassador Alfred Atherton was unable to bring the two sides together on the unresolved issues on his Mideast shuttle last month.

Stumbling blocks include the question of whether the treaty should be linked to progress toward Palestinian autonomy in the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

City Council To Weigh Separate Rescue System

The City Council has scheduled a workshop session for tonight at 6:30 p.m. to meet with a group of concerned citizens who wish to offer their views on why there should be separate fire and rescue systems here.

Mayor Percy Cox said this morning that Dr. Herbert Hadley, who is serving as chairman of the citizens committee, requested the meeting with the Council. Cox said the workshop in the Council chambers at city hall will take place prior to the regular February meeting at 8 p.m.

According to the mayor, the city requested and has received from the N.C. League of Municipalities a study on fire and rescue operations in the state and the "facts and figures on what it would cost us" to separate the systems or fully integrate the two programs.

Cox said that the study is being distributed to members of the Council for review. He added that "we are in the process now of seeing what they (the League) came up with." Cox, noting that no action on the fire and rescue matter will be taken at tonight's meeting, mentioned that the city was "trying to get all of the information" together in order to consider the situation and make a decision on which direction to take.

"From my conversations with the chief and his assistants," the mayor noted, "it is evident we will not be able to continue with the present system. There will have to be some changes."

Cox, saying that the integrated system of fire and rescue operations functioning under one roof is used by the majority of cities in the state, contended that it would "cost the taxpayers dearly" to separate the two systems.

The mayor said that the study, which he termed "organizational," does not make any recommendations but points out the way other systems operate throughout the state.

Under a fully integrated system, Cox said that "firemen would be rescue men and rescue men would be firemen." The study, he said, points out that one fire and rescue chief would be feasible under the integrated system with three assistants serving under the chief.

"The key is not the money involved in building a new facility for a separate operation," he continued, "because the Rescue Department says it can come up with the money to build, but the additional operational costs that would be involved."

Another thing to consider, he said, is that if the city went with the integrated format, rescue squad capability would be available at the fire department and sub-stations. Under a separate system, all of the city would be served from one building.

Most of the towns in the state with separate facilities are county operated, Cox reported, and the rescue jurisdiction of the local squad would have to be a consideration in studying the matter.

Cox said that the fire and rescue matter is not scheduled for consideration at the 8 p.m. Council session.

Charity Ball Theme Is Announced

"Over The Rainbow" was announced as the theme for the 16th annual Greenville Service League Charity Ball scheduled for Feb. 23.

The ball will take place at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

At the meeting of the league Monday, Mrs. A. L. Ferguson entertained members by mentally leading them on Dorothy's journey down the yellow brick road to the Emerald City, describing how areas of the club would be decorated in sequence to reflect segments of "The Wizard of Oz."

Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Frank Layne are serving as co-chairmen of the event. Proceeds from the ball go to the league's Laughinghouse Hospital Fund and are used to improve the physical facilities of Pitt County Memorial Hospital and to help patients in need.

President Mrs. Jack Whichard conducted the meeting which included the following reports: Bloodmobile Chairman Mrs. Raymond MacKenzie reported the collection of 520 pints of blood from a two-day visit to ECU with 58 members giving 176 hours. She requested additional volunteers for a visit to the Greenville Moose Lodge Feb. 6.

Hospital Activities Chairman Mrs. R. K. Barnhill told of plans for a workshop to make Valentine favors to place on patients' trays Feb. 14 and Mrs. Charles Snell requested additional volunteers for cleaning the hospital chapel. Two lavettes were furnished in January while five calls were answered from the Laughinghouse Fund and five from the Emergency Charity Fund. The Lending Chest received a donation of a wheel chair and a pair of crutches.

Placement Director Mrs. Donald Bailey reminded members the spring term for volunteer workers at the hospital began this week and everyone was requested to have a hospital I.D. and medical test results before reporting for work.

Barking Marvin Confuses Owner

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor lady has a peculiar sense of humor. Last Christmas she went to the animal shelter and got a dog which she named Marvin, knowing perfectly well that is my husband's name.

In the evening when she calls her dog, my Marvin goes to the window and barks like a dog just to confuse her. There have been times when I've called my husband when he's outdoors, and that dog comes running.

Everyone in the neighborhood thinks it's hilarious, but I can't see anything funny about it.

Aren't there laws to protect people against being publicly humiliated? If I thought I could win, I'd haul this neighbor into court. What are my chances?

MARVIN'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Better pick this bone out of court. A grown man who tries to confuse his neighbor by "barking" when she's calling her dog is in no position to criticize a practical joker.

DEAR ABBY: Today is my 15th birthday and I feel like 40. I developed early and thought that because I looked mature I could handle any situation. Well, I was wrong. I started dating when I was 12, and before I was 13 I was going steady with a 17-year-old dude. I gave in to him and that's when my troubles began. He dropped me and I started going with a friend of his. I gave in to him, too (on the first date), and from then on it was one guy after another. I never used anything, and it was a miracle I didn't get pregnant.

I'm not writing for advice, Abby. It's too late for that. Now I have to live down a bad reputation. (Guys talk afterwards, I found that out.) I just hope you will print this for girls who beg their mothers to let them date and go steady before they know how to handle guys. No matter how mature a girl thinks she is at 13, she's only a kid. Sign me . . .

"NO GOOD AT 15"

DEAR "15": There is a lot of good in you or you wouldn't have written to offer your experience as a warning to others. With consistent good behavior you can build your self-respect. Tomorrow is the first day of the rest of your life. Good luck, dear.

DEAR ABBY: I have studied the Bible and am convinced that everything that happens to us is the result of God's plan. When we become ill, it is God's will—that's why I never take any medicine. Why try to reverse God's decision? Also, when we fall victim to an illness or an accident, that is God's way of punishing us for our sins.

If you can refute this, you are a genius.

GOD'S HUMBLE SERVANT

DEAR SERVANT: I am no genius, but consider this: If your theory is correct, why then did God endow man with the knowledge to conquer so many diseases?

And if you believe that victims of illnesses and accidents are being punished for their sins, you need more enlightenment than I can give you in a letter.

Gimmicks Appeal To Buyers

By Nanci C. Albritton
ATLANTA (UPI) — If your spouse's snuggle has lost its warmth, if that "headache" grabs you all too often, Joel Grossbart has just the gift to put pizzazz back into your love life.

It's a Bedroom Angel, a pillow-plump doll that dangles from the bedroom ceiling, supposedly creating special come-hither magic.

"The room that has a Bedroom Angel in it becomes the most amorous room a woman has ever been in," Grossbart cooed to gift shop buyers in a showroom at the Atlanta National Gift Market in January.

They ordered thousands of the dolls — and sister Kitchen Witches, little dolls on broomsticks — hoping consumers will part with $14 or so for such whimsies.

If the dolls don't catch on as 1979's gift gimmick, maybe orchid seedlings in test tubes will. For about $10, you get five tiny orchids from Taiwan that are supposed to grow and bloom in their vials.

Impulse items aside, most of the exhibit's offerings were high quality and tasteful.

"The public wants better-taste merchandise," Grossbart said, as his staff wrote orders for elegant Takahashi porcelain pieces, sleek brass candlesticks and other home decorating items.

Bill Yee of New York, an importer of intricate, handmade goods from the People's Republic of China, agreed. Yee sees heightened interest in Chinese items since the recent breakthrough in U.S. relations with the communist nation.

"The American consumer is really educated and wants quality, color, style and fine value for the money," Yee said. He expects 50 percent more orders this year for his limited line of boxes, picture frames, tissue box covers and suspended ornaments that sparkle with colorful wheat straw appliques.

"Anything from mainland China will be a novelty for awhile, as long as they don't overdo it and glut the market with junk," said Jill Nation of Columbus, Miss., a furniture store buyer for the bridal and fine gifts departments.

"The oriental influence in decorating is very strong," she said. "Oriental pieces blend with just about everything."

Lee Y. Hung of Eaton International in New York took several orders for a $2-piece set of porcelain dinnerware in a blue and white rice pattern that retails for $450. To make the translucent designs, Chinese artisans press tiny rice grains into the porcelain, then burn away the rice in the firing process.

Hung's company also showed huge porcelain vases for $250 and a surprisingly comfortable bamboo slat folding sling chair expected to retail for about $55. He said the vases are used on home altars to hold cherry blossoms for good luck in the Chinese New Year.

Among Eaton's less expensive items were palm frond hearth brooms to sell for $1 or $2, small whisk brooms of Chinese mountain straw for cleaning woks and mushroom-shaped coolie hats woven of sea grass or bamboo leaves.

Many buyers said their customers are eager for good quality foreign and domestic handmade articles.

Lucile M. Voghel of Germantown, Tenn., is among those who believe living rooms in her region will sprout more and more bouquets of elegant handmade silk flowers.

Imported mostly from China and Europe, the blossoms include chrysanthemums that retail for $50 a dozen and daffodils for $27 a dozen. A new line of realistic silk houseplants, from begonias to dracaenas, caught Mrs. Voghel's eye for her flower and gift shop.

"I think silks will eventually take over fresh flowers," she said. She said her wedding business gets more and more requests for lasting blooms.

Other popular handmade items included throw pillows as lacy and romantic as a bride's handkerchief and tiny Victorian sachets to wear on a silk cord or slip under a bed pillow.

Kay Brandon was quick to snap up "anything Superman" for her Myrtle Beach, S.C., gift shop. The much-promoted "Superman" movie is expected to launch a spin-off bonanza in gift items much like the "Star Wars" craze of 1978.

RESTAURANT OFFERS CINEMA WITH COFFEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Movies are on the menu at a New York City restaurant, where foreign films are now being shown two nights a week along with coffee, dessert and unlimited popcorn.

"I loved the movie business and wanted to keep my finger in it despite the fact that I'm a restaurateur now," said Irv Stimler, who for 20 years was an executive of MGM and 20th Century Fox and now is co-owner of the Caracalla Restaurant.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

My son came home from college on semester break this week and asked me for a road map of the state.

I went to our safety deposit box, took out a worn copy, and cautioned, "Be careful with this. It's the only map we have."

He handled it with reverence as he placed it on the table. "Tell me how you got it again?" he asked.

"Well," I said setting down to recite a familiar story that I had told and he had heard many times before, "Once upon a time, businessmen in the country used to court consumers. They wanted their business, and to remind them of this they would give them presents. Not big ones, but little reminders you could use."

"For example, this road map was on a rack in a service station and you could take as many as you liked."

"Dry cleaners used to give out hangers and sewing kits, banks gave out rain bonnets and candy, and there wasn't a year we didn't get hundreds of calendars free from insurance companies, stores and garages. I used to have a whole drawer of keyrings and address books and fans . . . the funeral homes always passed out fans."

"Tell me again about the phone books," he chided.

"Well, there was a time when you got a phone book for each of the phones in your house. You didn't have to call or anything. I know you're too young to remember, but you used to go into a restaurant and not have to ask for water or a toothpick."

"You're kidding," he said. "I asked for a toothpick the other night and the cashier asked, 'How many do you need?'"

"What did you tell her?" I asked.

"I told her I had 28 teeth, but I could double up."

"All that is new," I sighed. "Do you know that your father once bought a pair of boots and they came with a penknife in the side?"

"Aw c'mon," he said.

"Yes, it's goodbye loafers with pennies in them, goodbye free catalogues from mail-order houses, and so long cardboard in shirts. We're living in a time of inflation."

"Speaking of inflation, Mom, I used your car and you owe me $2 for gas. Cheer up! You can have the frez balloon."

Key Timing To Revenue Data

Is it possible for a state legislature to please everybody? Of course not. Is it possible for leadership in the state legislature to please everyone? No way! Columnist Bill Noblitt has reviewed dissatisfaction among legislators, particularly dealing with the rush to finish work and pack it up within 4 months. Some of the quibbling bears a stamp of self-serving motivation rather than the idealistic notion of better-serving North Carolina. However, Noblitt reminds that the session's prime role will be to hammer out a budget based on revenue figures which will not be available until early May; giving precious little time to reach consensus on future spending if they are to close up shop by month's end. It makes a strong arguing point supporting a later date for the start of Assembly labors, as well as a later date for adjournment....and still keep within the abbreviated session-span which remains a desirable goal of the 1979 Legislature. Achieving that does appear a more difficult accomplishment than just putting it into words.

Our Airways Filled With Traffic

At certain times of a day when atmospheric conditions are right, an observer has reason for surprise at evidence of so much air traffic over Pitt County. Vapor trails of unseen aircraft can be seen at heights so great the sources of those short white lines across the blue of the sky are not visible. Presumably, the over-flights are a year-around thing; but they are more noticeable in the fall and in the spring. Our attention is often drawn to the passage of small aircraft at low-to-moderate altitudes; but miles above them, and well out of sight, there is more aerial traffic across this quiet out-of-the-way segment of America than meets the eye.

THIS AFTERNOON No Home For Youth Care

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Just like the troubled youngsters whom they claim to serve, state agencies dedicated to helping children in trouble with the law are themselves combative, filled with petty fears and jealousies, continually fighting over their "turf", and out to get all they can while doing the least they can for it.

be classified as neglected, undisciplined, or delinquent.

Confusion

"Court officials cannot understand why local mental health cannot see a child for psychological evaluation without the delay being currently encountered. "Often public schools, county departments of social services, court counselor programs, and private delinquency prevention agencies including group homes hire professionals and establish entire treatment programs within their separate organizations. "...A child can be receiving services from as many as five or six agencies at the same time."

Hardly a more scathing indictment of the non-working non-system of juvenile justice in North Carolina can be imagined. The situation has been going on for years. At one time a legislative commission in desperation proposed a single Department for Children in order to force cooperation, fill the gaps, and bring services to bear on the "whole child" instead of fragmented pieces.

To overcome this condition, the study commission chaired by Wake County Judge George Bason proposed a single agency: the Office of Juvenile Justice housed in the state's court system.

BILL NOBLITT

How can citizens expect a troubled youngster to get help? The Juvenile Code Revision Committee summed it up this way: "Testimony before the Juvenile Code Revision Committee revealed frequent conflicts and misunderstandings among the agencies serving juveniles at the local level. "For example, school officials feel that they are not being supported when they refer a truant to court only to find that the juvenile has been diverted from court at intake. In many instances there is a question as to whether court counselors or protective service workers should take responsibility for a juvenile who has been referred to the court and who could Rationale was that court intake counselors under other revisions will become the most critical function of the system, determining which youngsters need what sorts of aids, and which ought to be diverted to community treatment alternatives and which should face court trial and possible sentencing to juvenile training schools. But that proposal runs afoul of constitutional separation of powers concepts, and the Supreme Court has informed Gov. Jim Hunt they don't want to run the program ... it should be an Executive Department function, not judicial.

THE GALLUP POLL

Public Backs 'Workfare'

By George Gallup
PRINCETON, N.J. — A large majority of Americans (79 percent) support a proposal that would require all able-bodied mothers on the welfare rolls who have children 13 and older to register with state employment offices and accept any full-time work that is available. The same survey shows 68 percent of persons in favor of a proposal that would require mothers of younger children, between 6 and 13, to register and accept any part-time work available. The questions posed in the survey reflect legislation recently proposed by the Carter administration. How Many On Welfare Are 'Chiselers'? The survey also sought to determine perceptions of the proportion of persons believed to be welfare "chiselers." The results show 36 percent believing that one-half or more of persons on welfare fall into this category. In view of these perceptions, it is not surprising that federal outlays for welfare are frequently criticized by certain segments of society. Often overlooked in discussions of welfare however, is the fact that 90 percent of welfare recipients are unable to support themselves — that is, are aged or infirm or are women with small children.

Give Local Communities More Say In Relief Plans

The survey also shows a large majority (67 percent) in favor of giving local communities more authority, both as to which persons should get relief and the amount they should receive. At present, most of the regulatory powers dealing with persons on relief emanate from the state governments or from Washington. This view arises from the belief that communities are more familiar with the local scene and are therefore in a better position to investigate and screen welfare applicants. Support for greater localizing of welfare efforts has grown since 1961 when 55 percent said local communities should have greater say. Following are the questions asked about the welfare proposals and the national results. Little difference is found on either question on the basis of race, sex, income level, age, political affiliation or region. "It has been proposed that all able-bodied mothers of children 13 and older who are on welfare be required to register with state employment offices and to take any full-time work available. Would you favor or oppose such a plan?"

GIVING AWAY THE EYES

Some years ago a sailor was injured on a ship in New York harbor and was admitted as a patient at the Marine Hospital. In the bed next to him was a young boxer whose cornea in the right eye had been so severely injured that he was being forced to retire from his athletic career. When the injured sailor heard of the young boxer's predicament, he offered to donate the cornea of his own eye. His eye had been injured in some respects, but not the cornea. The offer was accepted and the cornea transplanted.

When the letters of congratulation and praise from the hospital staff began pouring in on him, the self-sacrificing man's only comment was, "I am very happy that my good friend can see again, and I am glad I was in a position to help him." This incident was one of the events that led to the formation of a cornea bank. We wonder sometimes at the spiritual resourcefulness and power of undistinguished people. In this world as in the next, many that are first are last, and many that are last will be first. Elisha Douglas

FACING LIVE AMMUNITION!

Same Gap In Soviet

By NIKKI FINKE
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — A generation gap of sorts has come to the Soviets.

This is apparent from the complaints of journalists, teachers and sociologists who are blaming it not on the youngsters but on parents — who they say are spoiling their teenagers with rock albums or jeans and not teaching them about work and the value of the ruble.

The problem — which seems to echo what's been going on in the United States for years — could intensify as the Soviets become more affluent and parents keep trying to make their children's lives easier than their own.

"There are families in which parents renounce everything for themselves, yet try to dress their children in the latest fashions and buy them new radios and tape recorders," said the newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda.

"Don't these parents ever think about the fact that their children are growing up like parasites?" the newspaper asked. "We must show more concern about the younger generation so it won't put material things ahead of life's real values."

An example listed in another paper was a farm family whose breadwinner walked seven miles each way as a lad just to find enough good grass to feed his animals. But his granddaughter wouldn't dream of soiling her hands with farm work.

"She cannot milk a cow and has never held a shovel piled with manure or carried a bucket of water from a well," the Literaturnaya Gazeta said. "Why? Because her parents protected her from hard work. And her hardest task is to wash the dishes."

One journalist wrote about another household where the father was forced to look after his brothers and sisters at age 14 after his own father was killed in World War II and mother fell ill.

"But now, he can't cope with his own children," the writer noted. His 23-year-old son jumps from job to job. His daughter, already divorced.

40 Years Ago Today

February 8, 1939

J.J. White, prominent Greenville business man who has an application on file for the establishment of a radio station here, today said the matter still rests in the hands of the Radio Commission and no decision has been made.

White made the statement after getting in touch with officials this morning and following reports that the Greenville application had been denied and one by New Bern accepted.

He explained that the misunderstanding arose from action taken by the Radio Commission in July when an examiner recommended the station be awarded to New Bern. A board now has to pass the examiner's recommendations.

He further explained that a representative of a press association, in checking up on the status of the radio station, mistakenly took that action made in July to have been a recent development and reported New Bern would get the station.

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK Public TV-Let It Go

WASHINGTON — The Carnegie Commission on the Future of Public Broadcasting delivered itself last week of a massive report recommending reorganization and expansion of the present system. The report says public broadcasting is an "absolutely indispensable" institution. To that I say, nonsense.

The recommendations of this "distinguished" commission — that is their own complacent adjective — never address the fundamental questions of public broadcasting in a free society. Does government have any proper role at all in areas of editorial opinion and cultural propagation? If so, how is that role to be safeguarded against abuse?

These inquiries go to the very heart of the matter. Under the existing arrangement for public broadcasting, nobody — virtually nobody — is effectively responsible for anything. The recommendations of the commission would do nothing to remedy the situation, nothing to provide a point at which one could say: The buck stops here.

This is an infuriating report in many ways. Public broadcasting is financed in large part by public funds — by money taken from the people under the compulsion of taxation. The commission would greatly increase this public subsidy, from the present level of $119 million a year to about $630 million in 1985. But a fairly close reading of the 300-page report turns up no reference to taxpayers and taxation. The money should be provided "by the federal government." It is not tax money, it is "federal money." It is not the taxpayers, it is the Corporation for Public Broadcasting that "finances" the programs.

Well, the people — all the people — are in fact taxed to support this enterprise, and the people have every right to question the authority of Congress in dishing out their money so that America's creative artists may "shape and define" society. Who are these shapers and definers? What form of "strong editorial purpose" are we talking about?

The authors of this report would create a new Public Telecommunications Trust to replace the existing Corporation for Public Broadcasting. This appears to be a change without a material difference. The trust would have no more editorial responsibility than the CPB has now. It would disburse money; it would protect the system from "inappropriate interference in the sensitive area of program making," most notably from "the book burners and dogmatists among us."

As a second line of defense against the common herd, the authors would provide a Program Services Endowment.

There are laws and regulations already enacted that protect women's rights for equal opportunities, equal pay, and all other facets of living.

The following are a few of the "goodies" ERA will do for women:

1. It will wipe out husband's obligation to pay hospital and medical bills for his wife.
2. It will wipe out women's rights to get widow's property tax exemptions.
3. Women will be drafted equally with men, plus combat duty.
4. It will allow homosexuals to marry.
5. It will allow homosexuals to adopt children.

The radical feminists and women's libbers are primarily interested in using ERA as a lever to force on society drastic changes such as abolishment of marriages and the family. They believe children should be the responsibility of the government — community raising of children.

Socialism to replace capitalism — complete government control over our lives.

Greenville will get $200,000 per quarter, which amounts to a total of $1,400,000 to train young people for 21 months.

Recreation Director says, "It won't cost the city a penny. That's why we are tickled about it." It will cost all of us very dearly in taxes. He also says it is like a WPA project in the 1930's. WPA was started when we had 25 to 50 percent unemployment. I was there!

It is disgusting to read that the youth must be housed in the Epkes High School Gym, now being renovated. They can't live at home. Why? At home they could contribute financially to their families and help to keep the family together. Also, to train the 20 working youths, they need a project director, two foremen and a counselor. Too many chiefs?

Are you satisfied?

Soviet Trade Prospects Eyed

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. exports to the Soviet Union might reach $10 billion within five years if the United States made a dedicated effort, says an authority on Soviet trade.

In the process, said James V. Forrestal, president of the US-USSR Trade and Economic Council, this country could reduce its foreign trade imbalance and lessen tensions between the two great powers.

Trade between the two countries has deteriorated, however. U.S. non-grain exports that jumped from $100 million in 1972 to $800 million in 1976, dropped to less than $600 million in each of the past two years.

And the United States, Forrestal indicates, is at least as much to blame as the Soviets, and perhaps more so. The Soviets are anxious to trade, he said, but have been frustrated by U.S. politics.

The trade council, of which Forrestal was named president last summer, is a product of the trade detente that appeared to be the goal of both nations beginning with the Nixon administration.

In pursuit of it, the countries established a non-profit organization of 270 American companies and 114 Soviet trade groups.

Operating from jointly staffed offices here and in Moscow, the council effectively built trade until Congress denied "most favored nation" status to the Soviets unless their emigration policy was liberalized.

In response, the Soviets rejected a trade agreement already initiated. The stalemate left them without U.S. credits and U.S. tariffs so high as to make impractical any exports to the United States.

Forrestal agrees it is important for the United States to be sensitive to human rights and to influence world opinion so as to make human values "more real to the world and the Soviet Union."

But even in America, he continued, "you cannot change your neighbor's behavior in his own house. It boomerangs."

"Trade as pressure to get other countries to do what we want is not wise," said Forrestal, 51, an early Marshall Plan staffer, former White House aide, and still a partner in a Wall Street law firm.

The Soviet reasons for being disturbed are logical, he said. They have a planned economy. Decisions take a long time to make and once they are made they depend very much on the stability of an agreement.

The American delegation for the council came away from the council's annual Moscow meeting last December convinced the Soviets want normal trade relations.

"Potentially they could become one of our largest trading partners, as big as Europe and Japan in the next 10 or 15 years," he said. "If we could normalize relations, I believe those who say we could go as high as $10 billion of exports, say in five years,"

Public Hearing Will Be Held On Community Development

Among the items scheduled for tonight's City Council meeting is a public hearing on the city's Community Development entitlement grant.

City officials encouraged citizen participation in the public hearing, which is the last one scheduled for the current grant application period.

Some of the items requested at previous public hearings on this year's grant include funding for:

construction of two tennis courts and a recreation center in Greenfield Terrace; a neighborhood park and community building for West Meadowbrook;

Playground equipment for Sadie Sautler School and paving of portions of Spruce and Higgs Streets; improvements to street lighting in the Lincoln Park area; additional sidewalks on Fourth Street from Tyson to the end of Fourth in Riverdale;

More lights in the area between Dickinson Avenue and Chestnut Street; additional lights on McDowell Street and on Fifth Street near the old Eppes High School; funds to provide for alcoholism education in the city; sidewalks in the Third Street School area and additional lights; and reopening of the Moyewood Center as a community center rather than for day care.

The city Engineering Department has suggested funding for storm drainage work on Chestnut from Columbia to 14th Street; and construction of sidewalks within the CD area. Additional utilities improvements have also been requested in the Southside project area.

The city is applying for some $620,000 in funds under the CD entitlement grant program.

Tonight's public hearing will be held at 8 p.m. at city hall.

spends the winter in Leningrad and summers in the country, knowing her "daddy" will take care of her.

"But daddy has never had a vacation in his life and works very hard to break his back for his children even though they are already adults," the journalist said.

"There is a widespread delusion that because we suffered very much and worked very hard, let's make it easier for our children. But easier from what? From worry? From work? For adults, this is the normal condition of life — to work and to worry."

Authorities note there are other young people rejecting life on the farm or at the factory in favor of cushy jobs requiring little mental or manual strain. But they say parents, not children, are to blame.

"Only the family in today's times can instill in children and teenagers the proper ideas about the material world and teach them to orient themselves to it," a sociologist was quoted as saying.

This would be a "highly insulated, semi-autonomous" outfit. It would underwrite various programs, but it would not really be responsible for their content. Its purpose would be to provide "a safe place for nurturing creative activity," a kind of intellectual playpen protected from the filthy contaminations of sordid commerce. Public broadcasting, the authors say, "must create and maintain distance between its funders and the content of its programs — particularly when matters of journalistic and artistic judgment are at stake."

I don't like it. If public broadcasting could be strictly limited to deadpan coverage of national public affairs — to committee hearings, floor debates and the like — that would be one thing. If educational TV could be held to such ideologically neutral areas as trigonometry and physics, maybe such instruction could be tenuously justified in the name of national defense. But I see no reason on God's green earth — and certainly none in the Constitution — for taking the taxpayers' money in order to nurture those happy hotdogs of the intellectual left who would love to get on the air and read their ga-ga poems at public expense.

Peking Reports

4 Executions

HONG KONG (AP) — Four former Red Guards were executed in Peking last month for raping, torturing and killing victims during the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution, Radio Peking reported. It said their trial was witnessed by 37,000 persons.

A transcript of a Feb. 1 broadcast over Radio Peking's domestic network, seen in Hong Kong today, said four other Red Guards were found guilty of similar offenses by a Peking court at the same trial Jan. 16 but that their lives were spared.

Two of them were given suspended death sentences and sent to labor camps and the two others were sentenced to life imprisonment.

Let it go. Commercial television may be largely a wasteland, a barren plain of sitcoms, old movies and min-numbering sports, but at least it avoids the self-conscious elitism these distinguished commissioners would provide at largely public expense. Public radio may carry fewer perils of "shaping" and "defining" than public TV, but with 7,300 existing radio stations, it's hard to justify 200 more to carry somebody's editorial message. My argument in brief is the the federal government has no business in the broadcasting business. Tune it out!

Farmville Bd. Votes Not To Realign Street Intersection

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

By a three to two vote, Farmville Commissioners decided Tuesday night not to realign the intersection of Belcher and Main streets here.

Whether to realign Belcher to curve it into Grimmsburg Street by the side of the Farmville municipal property where the old Farmville High School once stood has been debated here for several months. Part of the argument has been whether it was worth sacrificing some large oaks and whether the expense was justified, plus which way makes for a safer intersection at the north end of the downtown business district. Commissioners W. R. Duke, LeRoy Redden and David Stowe voted to leave the intersection as it is. Commissioners John T. Walston and Jack Farrior voted to change it.

The vote was also not unanimous on whether to give a sewer charge break to water customers who use more than 20,000 gallons per billing period. Those who use more than 20,000, only seven to 10 households per month. Town Administrator Patrick Thomas pointed out, are those who are "heavy lawn waterers." Water used for lawns is, of course, not discharged into the sewer system. Any smaller cutoff point in gallons per billing period would significantly affect the residential customer's obligation to pay his fair share of system costs. Walston, Duke and Redden voted for this measure and Farrior and Stowe's votes were opposed.

A tax lien sale was set for April 9. The amount of 1978 taxes still owed the town is $10,354.18, Thomas said.

The Commissioners approved both preliminary and final plats for division of the Davis Heirs subdivision on Highway 264 opposite the Field Street intersection. A new site for Farmville Motors is planned here, it is reported. A public hearing was set for the rezoning of this property from light industrial to highway business classification.

Also to be considered in a public hearing is the rezoning of W. R. Duke Jr. property, formerly occupied by a warehouse, from light industrial to general business. The property is located adjacent to the town's Community Development program target area and is, in the town administrator's opinion, in need of "positive zoning change."

There was no public input in the "early-bird" public hearing Tuesday night on the development of the Fiscal Year 1980 budget. Thomas said a tentative budget will be delivered by his office to the board by May 7.

The Commissioners agreed for the town to sponsor, without financial participation, a part-time senior services worker to help coordinate a variety of services for the town's older citizens.

The Board agreed to allow Scientific Products Company to withdraw its bid for the supplying of chemicals for the town's sewage treatment plant, since a $6,000 mathematical error was made by the company.

Industrial cost recovery rates were adopted to cover treatment costs of industrial sewage — $12.76 per pound BOD per day and $11.75 per pound suspended solids per day. These rates will continue in effect until July, 1980.

Approval was given for the installation of speed bumps in the Pine Grove Apartments area, following the submission of a petition with 106 out of 150 households in the area. Richard Dupree was recognized for his circulation of the petition to improve safety conditions in the area.

A planning retreat for the mayor and commissioners was set for Saturday, Mar. 7, at 9:30 a. m. at the Boy Scout Hut.

Acceptance by resolution was made for a 25 percent Clean Water Bond assistance from the state on the construction of the Mandarin Drive industrial sewer line.

Approval was given for a half-salary (part-time) for additional personnel in the finance department of the town office. Money ($2,909) will come from General Fund contingency.

The Board agreed to express to the N. C. legislature its liking for HB 22 which would increase property tax exemption for elderly and disabled from $7,500 to $12,000 and increase income qualification from $9,000 to $12,000 and for SB 37 and HB 193 which would increase formal bid limit for construction on repairs from $10,000 to $30,000 and allow award on two bids up to $50,000. They said they'd express their dislike for measures to do away with or decrease state tax on food and a measure that would require two-thirds vote by any unit of government to raise any tax, fee or charge.

A bid was awarded to Farmville Motors, low bidder, for the purchase of a compact police car, cost $5,302.43, including tax.

A bid for bleachers for a recreation area were awarded by Southern Bleacher Company of Graham, Tex.

The awarding of bids for masonry and miscellaneous metals and carpentry for landscaping the downtown improvement area were delayed because of insufficient given bidders recently.

The budget was amended to carry forward to FY79 $68,023 in Powell Bill funds for street improvements.

A special meeting to hear auditors review the FY78 budget was set for Monday, Feb. 19.

The town administrator was asked to draft an ordinance that would enact the Planning Board's recommendation that any member of the Planning

Town Needs A New Well

MONCURE, N.C. (AP) — A Chatham County water official plans to ask the Farmers Home Administration for an emergency loan to build a new well for Moncure's water system.

Lee Knight, manager of the East Chatham Water Corp., said a series of accidental breaks in Moncure's water line during the past 1 1/2 years has left the city's two wells almost dry. Knight said if the lack of water causes the pumps to burn out, the Moncure area will be out of water within a few days.

"At school, they are asking the children not to flush the toilets," said Ruth Johnson, a member of the corporation's directors. "The janitor goes around and flushes every four hours. We are afraid the children will get diarrhea and stomach problems if the situation gets much worse."

Water has already been cut off to some businesses and to customers who have not repaired leaks in their pipelines, Knight said.

The Chatham County commissioners have authorized their attorney to begin action on the loan, but Knight said it will be at least two weeks after the loan application is filed before it can be approved.

He said 161 families, the Moncure Elementary School and the town's health center depend on the water system, and if it fails, the school and center will have to be shut down.

The system has been plagued by accidents since it began operation in 1977, with the first line break occurring a few days after startup.

Report Venus A Hellish Planet

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — New data from Pioneer spacecraft show Venus is a hellish planet of hot clouds, sulphuric sleet, crashing lightning, swirling winds and strange, glowing fires, scientists say.

The nature of Earth's forbidding neighbor, never closer than 26 million miles away, became a little less mysterious Wednesday as scientists discussed the findings of Pioneer Venus I and II, which reached the bright planet last December.

"It's all pretty complicated," said Dr. Lawrence Colin of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. "There is no one spectacular result. But it all helps us understand more about Venus and its atmosphere. From that we learn about what causes the Earth's weather."

The Venus I orbiter detected lightning that apparently occurs as often as 100 times in five minutes. Scientists say similar flashes were recorded by Russian spacecraft that arrived at Venus after the U.S. craft.

The fiery glows were detected by two of Venus II's probes on one side of the planet facing away from the sun. Scientists called them mysterious and unexpected, saying they could come from "chemical fires" on the surface or in the very hot and dense lower atmosphere near the surface.

The wicked solar winds, with speeds up to a million miles an hour and temperatures up to 1.8 million degrees, swirl in Venus' ionosphere and the edges of its upper atmosphere. Below are three distinct layers of sulphuric clouds, 12 miles thick. Scientists say the temperature there ranges from 55 to 395 degrees.

Despite the new findings, scientists said they are still unable to explain why there are more argon and neon gases on Venus than on Earth. The presence of the gases could mean earlier theories that the sun and the planets were formed about the same time were incorrect.

Budget Includes Increased Fee

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The secretary of the state Human Resources Department has allocated in her budget a $25 increase in the fee paid to medical examiners for each case they handle.

Sarah T. Morrow put the increase in her budget at the request of Dr. Page Hudson, chief medical examiner, who said the current $25 fee per case doesn't approximate the cost to the examiners.

The General Assembly approved legislation last year that enabled the head of the human resources department to raise the fee to $50.

Hudson said he expects the increase will stem the tide of resignations during the past six months. He said 25 of the state's 700 medical examiners resigned to protest the low pay.

Hunt Tax Plan Coolly Received

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt's plan for a modest income tax break for families met a cool reception in its first legislative hearing Wednesday, while a proposal for a broader cut was widely praised.

The House Finance Committee heard explanations of both Hunt's permanent tax cut plan and an alternate proposed by Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Lenoir, who headed a tax study commission last year.

The meeting provided the first glimpse of legislative sentiment on the tax cut proposals, beyond initial comments when Hunt unveiled the plan last month. Afterwards, committee chairman Rep. John Gamble, D-Lenoir, who introduced Hunt's bill, said the committee seemed willing to go beyond the Hunt method.

The governor has proposed providing families a tax cut totaling $40 million a year, by raising from $600 to $1,000 the exemption for dependents.

Lilley's proposal, which analysts say would reduce anticipated state revenues by $70 million a year, would provide a 20 percent increase in the head of household, spouse and dependent exemptions. Its effect would be to provide at least some tax cut to every individual paying income tax.

"I believe from the expression today that there's sentiment for getting the head of household exemption in any tax relief," said Gamble. "I personally believe we can afford more tax relief than the governor has proposed."

After praising Lilley's plan, several members sought to have the committee approve it immediately and send it to the full House. But Gamble ruled them out of order.

"We've got too many tax cut proposals to buy this one right off the bat," he said, trying to cool sentiment for immediate action.

By contrast, there was no discussion of Hunt's plan by committee members, and it was sent to a subcommittee with the Lilley plan.

More than a dozen substantive tax cut proposals are before the committee, and Gamble said it would be about two months before subcommittees could settle on a single plan to recommend.

In addition to the permanent cut, Hunt also wants a one-time rebate of $10 to $25 per taxpayer.

Lilley's bill would raise the dependent exemption from $600 to $720, the head of household exemption from $2,000 to $2,400 and the spouse exemption from $1,000 to $1,200.

"I don't want to challenge anybody, especially not the governor," Lilley said. "But there is no sentiment in my district, four counties, for a rebate — none. They'd rather spend the money than give them $10."

"Under the governor's bill, there are hundreds of thousands of people that won't get a penny," he added. "They're being bled to death by taxes, and if we don't give them some relief, they're going to make us do it."

Hunt, in describing his plan in a speech last month, noted the dependent exemption has not been raised since 1967 when it went up from $300. Lilley told the committee that the other exemptions are at the same level as when they were begun in 1921.

Complaints To Bring Inquiry

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Two legislators who received letters Wednesday from a new organization of North Carolina prison inmates have promised to look into complaints about the powerlessness of the state Inmate Grievance Commission.

The inmates have formed an organization called the National Offenders' Movement on Repealing Enslavement (NOMORE) which claims 47 inmate supporters in its call to strengthen the grievance commission or abolish it.

Central prison inmates wrote to Rep. Edward Holmes, D-Caldwell, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, and Sen. Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir, who heads the Senate Appropriations Committee, and also to the Associated Press, complaining that the grievance commission is a waste of taxpayers' money.

The letters say the commission exists solely as a safety valve for inmate grievances, and has no power beyond making recommendations to prison officials.

"As I understand it," said Holmes, "they want the law to be revised to make it mandatory that the recommendations of the grievance commission be followed."

"They want it (the commission's ability to enforce its recommendations) to have more teeth in it."

Holmes said he had written to the inmates thanking them for their interest and promising to look into state laws which would apply to their appeal for a stronger commission.

Hardison said he would "try to find out exactly what the cost of the commission is. If it's not a justifiable expenditure I'll try to curtail the expense."

Hardison said if the inmates want an organization which has the teeth to enforce their recommendations for redress of grievances, they should look to the state Criminal Justice Commission. "Or maybe we should make the grievance commission part of the Criminal Justice Commission," he said.

The Criminal Justice Commission makes recommendations to the legislature about possible legislation in areas including crime and prisons.

By The Associated Press

The low pressure system that brought North Carolina's mountains up to 16 inches of snow and spread the white mantle all the way to the coast has moved on up the Atlantic, but a new weather system headed toward the state today.

Wednesday's storm moved up from the Gulf of Mexico and before departing by way of Virginia it had left snow that ranged in amounts from 6 to 8 inches in the mountains, 4 to 7 inches in the Piedmont and 1 to 3 inches over the coastal plain. Boone, in the northwest mountains, reported 14 to 16 inches of snow.

The next weather producer will move into the state from the west tonight. As it tracks across the state it will again leave snow in its wake. However, as the system moves over the mountains it will weaken and there is no indication of much accumulation outside the mountains.

The northwest mountains can expect an additional 4 inches or more of snow, while the central and southwest mountains mainly at the higher elevations will receive 1 to 3 more inches. A winter storm watch will go into effect tonight for the northwest mountains.

As this system continues to the coast temperatures will be rather cold with highs ranging mostly in the 30s and lows in the 20s.

Looking toward the weekend, Saturday is expected to be clear, windy and very cold with lows mostly in the teens and highs in the 30s. It's expected to be cloudy Sunday with a chance of snow in the mountains and mostly rain elsewhere.

Warn Alcohol Pregnancy Risk

By CLIFF HAAS

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is telling pregnant women who drink that they run the risk of having deformed offspring. If that message doesn't take, it may require warning labels on bottles of beer, wine and liquor, sources say.

A program to warn women of childbearing age about the potential dangers of drinking was to be unveiled today at a news conference scheduled by the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said sources who asked not to be identified.

The effort by the Treasury Department agency is intended to include government, the alcoholic beverage industry and the public in an education program that will involve classroom instruction, public service broadcast announcements and brochures.

"This is really a strong, positive move," said one source. "We're convinced that there is a problem that has to be dealt with."

Details of the program have not yet been worked out.

In June 1977, the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism, a division of the Public Health Service, reported that pregnant women who take more than two drinks a day face the risk of fetal alcohol syndrome — giving birth to babies who have physical or mental impairments.

The institute also said the risk exists even for occasional "binge drinking."

In the wake of that study, Donald Kennedy, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, asked the bureau to require warning labels on alcoholic beverages.

Kennedy said in a letter to the bureau, "Quite frankly, if the FDA retained jurisdiction over the labeling of alcoholic beverages, it would waste no time in commencing proceedings to require label warnings directed to pregnant women."

But a Treasury Department source said the bureau decided to refrain from ordering labels in a "desire to avoid a new government regulation and to allow for industry participation."

WINTERVILLE — "The Daily Reflector" reported Monday that Dr. Steven Cohen, Winterville chiropractic physician, was attending a seminar in Florida from Feb. 1-14. The seminar, however, ended the 4th, and Dr. Cohen has resumed his regular practice on Mill St., Winterville.

Arrested 10 At Exchange

CHICAGO (AP) — Six options brokers were among 10 people arrested by federal agents after a year-long investigation into alleged cocaine dealing on the floor of the Chicago Board of Options Exchange, authorities said.

Vernon Meyer, regional director of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, said nine of the suspects were arrested on the floor of the exchange at closing time Wednesday.

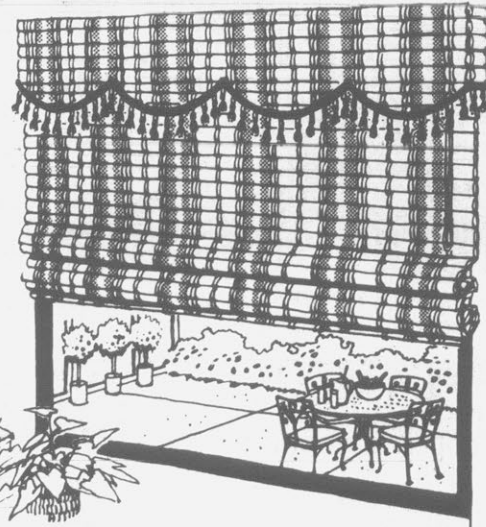

A special federal grand jury handed down indictments earlier in the day charging eight people with sale and distribution of cocaine on the floor of the options exchange. Six of the 10 arrested Wednesday were among those named in the indictments and two others were being sought, Meyer said. All 10 were released on their own recognizance, he said.

"We assume there is a lot more going on than we know about," said Meyer.

The indictment names clerks, brokers, runners and market makers for the exchange.

Youth Work Program Is Scheduled

RALEIGH — Tar Heel youths between the ages of 15 and 18 will have an opportunity to combine environmental education with practical work this summer through a program announced by Secretary of Natural Resources and Community Development Howard N. Lee.

The Youth Conservation Corps program will offer 1,500 jobs at various federal, state and local facilities throughout the state.

March 15 is the deadline for youths to file applications, and these can be obtained through high school counselors, by contacting local recreation departments, or by writing to N. C. Dept. of Natural Resources and Community Development, P. O. Box 27687, Raleigh, N. C. 27611.

All applications are to be sent to: YCC Selection Office, P. O. Box 800, Falls Church, Va., 22046. Slots for North Carolina will be filled randomly by computer.

Most projects will be eight weeks long, and workers chosen will be paid $2.90 per hour. Project sites where students will live number five, and these are at Stone Mountain State Park, Mejooc Mountain State Park, Camp Lejeune, Blowing Rock, Cherokee, and Western Carolina University.

Sites where work will be performed but without student living facilities are recreation and parks facilities in Lenoir County, Greene County, Marine Resources Center, Morehead City, among several others — also at U.S. Forest Service sites to include New Bern and Swan Quarter.

Gold Jumps, Dollar Falls

LONDON (AP) — Gold jumped to a new record price today for the second day in succession as the dollar dropped in Tokyo, rose slightly on some European markets and dropped slightly on others.

London's five major bullion dealers fixed the price of gold at midmorning at $254 an ounce, $3.50 above the previous closing price in London and $2.25 above the previous record, set in Zurich Wednesday.

The price at midmorning in Zurich was $251.875, up only 12 1/2 cents.

The dollar closed in Tokyo after hectic trading at 196.70 yen, compared to 197.625 yen at Wednesday's close. It was the fourth day of decline for the U.S. currency on the Japanese market, and Energy Secretary James Schlesinger's statement that the Iranian upheaval may turn out to have a more serious effect on the oil situation than the 1973 Arab embargo was blamed.

Hunter Safety Course Feb. 10

The Pitt County Wildlife Club and the Pitt County 4-H Clubs will co-sponsor a Hunter Safety Course, with the first session to be held Saturday, Feb. 10, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Pitt County Wildlife Club near Falkland.

Members of the Cardinal Rod and Gun Club will conduct the course. Participants are requested to bring a bag lunch and drink.

Those completing the course will be awarded a Hunter's Safety Certificate, a wildlife emblem patch and a certificate of achievement from the 4-H office.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices turned upward today in a mild technical rally after the broad decline of the past week and a half.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had fallen 43.74 points over the last eight sessions, managed a 1.56 gain to 817.57 by noontime today.

Gainers opened up a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said the sharp decline of prices in recent days had reached the point where it was attracting buyers looking for "bargains" and covering previous short sales.

But they said the advance was limited by continued concern over the political upheaval in Iran.

Energy Secretary James Schlesinger said Wednesday the shutdown of oil supplies from Iran could have more serious effects than did the Arab oil embargo five years ago.

Also confronting the market was the prospect of unpleasant inflation news Friday when the government makes its monthly report on the trend of producer prices.

Analysts, in fact, said a rise in the producer price index at anything less than a two-digit annual rate for January would be surprising.

Gulf Oil led the active list, up 1/4 at 23 3/4. A 174,300-share block traded at 24.

The NYSE's composite index rose .16 to 54.63. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .72 at 157.71.

Volume on the Big Board slowed to 10.18 million shares as of noontime from 12.86 million at the same point Wednesday.

Association's Charter OK'd

RALEIGH — The Savings and Loan Commission of the North Carolina Department of Commerce, meeting here today, granted a charter to North State Savings and Loan Association of Greenville.

By virtue of the charter issuance, the new Greenville association becomes the 19th stock-owned savings and loan to be chartered since the N.C. General Assembly authorized stock ownership some 18 months ago.

J. J. Edwards Jr., chairman of group of 16 local incorporators of North State, said the association's office will be located at 100 Arlington Boulevard.

According to Edwards, the effort to create North State Savings and Loan began a year ago by the group of incorporators, who subscribed the stock to 239 local residents. He pointed out that a moratorium imposed by the Savings and Loan Commission and a formal protest filed by two Greenville savings and loan associations resulted in delays in the chartering.

Edwards said that the firm is pointing toward an opening in late May or early June.

Bill Flunks Pupil Test
TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — A bill that would require tougher graduation standards in New Jersey high schools flunked a test at the hands of students.

Juniors and seniors from two East Orange high schools voted overwhelmingly to reject the bill, which would require seniors to prove they can read, write and do math.

Fortunately for the bill's sponsor, state Sen. Matthew Feldman, the vote carries no weight.

The students met with Feldman in the Assembly chamber Wednesday. After a question-and-answer period, the voting machine was opened to allow students to "vote" on the bill. The measure has passed the state Senate, 32-3.

Nineteen green lights flashed, and 32 red lights. The bill was defeated.

"I don't know why," said Bebe Sellers, acting East Orange school superintendent. "We had a workshop before we came down here and I thought they were for it."

Said Feldman: "I just hope the Assembly doesn't vote this way."

Suggest Sending Soil To Alabama
PITTSBORO, N.C. (AP) — A citizens group says the state should ship PCB-contaminated soil to a federally approved dump in Alabama.

Chatham County Citizens for a Better Environment said they oppose treating the soil where it lies along 210 miles of North Carolina roadways, or dumping it at a Warren County site.

The group said removal of the soil to Alabama is the only alternative because of the proximity of ponds and streams to the roadways, and the fear of depreciation of property values.

The group has asked Gov. Jim Hunt to apply for federal disaster aid to help pay for the removal.

Williamston Bd. Votes Against Bids On Park

WILLIAMSTON — By a vote of 3 to 2, members of the Williamston Board of Commissioners opted against awarding bids to begin construction of a long-planned new recreation park in the northwest section of Williamston.

EMT Group Is Organized

WINTERVILLE — The Pitt County Chapter of the North Carolina Association of Emergency Medical Technicians held an organizational meeting here Tuesday.

The new chapter, with 28 members, is open to all EMT's in Pitt County. Associate membership in the organization is open to all health care affiliated people.

John Conway was elected chairman of the Pitt group, while Gary Roberson was elected vice-chairman. Skip Eure was named secretary-treasurer.

Membership in the Pitt chapter of the NCAEMT includes membership in the state association and the National Association of Emergency Medical Technicians. Malpractice insurance for EMT's is available through the organization.

The chapter will meet the first Tuesday in each month at 7:30 p. m. at the Winterville Rescue Squad building.

The purpose of the local chapter and the state association is to promote and advance the quality of emergency medical care (pre-hospital) to victims of sudden illness and injury through the promotion of high professional standards, continuing education, and community and civic involvement.

The program will start at 7:30 p. m. The public is invited to attend.

As a result of the non-award vote, Williamston Recreation Advisory Committee Chairman Jim Horton informed the town board he was resigning his position.

Horton called the board's action "a bunch of foolishness" and noted that the board was apparently not interested in the future needs of the town.

He also pointed out that the board was destroying the effect of work already accomplished.

The vote followed a request by Horton for the board to award a base bid contract to Barris Construction Company amounting to $187,336, and a light system bid of $26,085 to E and R Inc.

Commissioner Taylor Slade made a motion to accept the bids, with a second from commissioner William Honeyblue, but the motion was defeated with "no" votes from commissioners Thurman Perry, Jack Haden and David Tripp.

Other Recreation Advisory Committee members joined Horton in questioning the decision to stop work on the project in light of the fact a great deal of work and planning has already been carried out.

Recreation Director Eddie Beach was another who observed that the commissioners have supported the recreation project for the past year, and wondered why they were now stopping work at the time it was becoming a reality.

Commissioner Perry stated he had opposed the project on six different occasions and that his vote at the February meeting was based on the fact that the project would force the town to increase upkeep funding.

The non-award decision, according to Town Administrative Assistant John Boykin, will require an amendment to the fourth year plan of the HUD grant to Williamston and that funds originally allocated for the park must now be reallocated to some other eligible project or the town could lose HUD funding.

The board agreed to hold public hearings on the subject at two dates in the future at 4 p. m. on Friday, Feb. 16 and again on Monday, Feb. 19.

Per-Pupil Spending Adopted By Board

WILLIAMSTON — The Martin County Board of Education this week voted to set the per pupil expenditures of district funds at $90. This rate is based on a valuation of ten cents for every $100 value of property in the county. This amount, it was stressed, has been established for planning purposes only, and may vary depending on a decision by county commissioners later this year on the exact amount applicable.

Approval was given to placing a trophy case in Williamston High School; and Supt. of Martin County Schools Eugene Rogers reported that all cases of out-of-state enrollment have now been resolved.

VCU Claims 2nd Overtime Win Over ECU

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
 RICHMOND, Va. — Luck again ran out on the East Carolina Pirates in overtime last night, as Virginia Commonwealth nipped the Bucs, 86-84, in the Richmond Coliseum.

It was the fourth straight overtime game for the Pirates, their fifth of the season, and their second with the VCU Rams, who won both games by two-point scores in the closing seconds.

This time, it was a tap-in by Ren Watson just two seconds before the final horn in the overtime period that provided the winning margin. Earlier, the Rams had dropped the Pirates, 85-83.

The victory was the tenth straight for VCU, now 18-3, on the year. In that ten-game streak, both of the top scorers against the Ram record came against the Pirates.

The winning basket was set up with 24 seconds left, when Pirate forward Greg Cornelius was called for charging as he tried to take the ball to the basket to break an 84-84 tie.

That turned the ball over, and with 17 seconds left, VCU called time out to set up its final strategy. The plan called for Danny Kottak, one of the Ram heroes in the first game to put up a baseline jumper from inside ten feet. His shot was off-target, but Watson, who dominated the middle most of the night, was able to go up and make the fateful tap.

Watson finished the game with 14 rebounds, one less than Cornelius' career and season high of 15, but most of Watson's came off the offensive boards, and that kept the Rams in the game throughout an ice-cold first half offensive attack. VCU shot only 28.2 per cent in the first half, yet trailed by only six at intermission.

Twice during the final half, technicals were called against

East Carolina players, and ECU Coach Larry Gillman was at a loss to explain why one of them resulted in VCU getting two shots at the basket.

That came with 8:42 left, as David Underwood drove for the basket. He went to try and stuff it, but was fouled in the act of shooting. He hung from the rim on the play, getting an automatic technical. Underwood made both of his free throws, cutting the VCU lead at the time to 61-56. But VCU was then awarded two free throws instead of the usual one.

The same type of play occurred in the first two games between the two teams, with Oliver Mack the offended and off-fending player, but only one shot was awarded at that time.

"I don't know why they got two shots. I just don't think the referees in this game were very good. They took the game away from the kids. And I think our kids played their hearts out. Underwood took the ball in and got low-bridged, just like Mack did in the first game between us and VCU. It was exactly the same type play, so I don't know why it was ruled differently."

Gillman said that playing four straight overtime games must be some kind of a record. "It takes a lot out of the kids," he said. "I can't fault the effort of some of our players, but I can't say too that all of our players gave great efforts. Still, it's unfortunate that when we're playing good ball against good ball clubs that the officials take the game away from the players. Apparently they didn't see the same game we saw tonight."

East Carolina jumped away to an early lead, building up an early five-point margin at 6-1. VCU came back to take the lead at 11-10 on a fast break basket by Kottak, but George Maynor tapped in a missed shot for the Pirates to put them back up. Herb Krusen followed with a jumper and Cornelius made good on a three-point play to run the margin out to six, 17-11 before VCU scored again.

The Pirates upped their lead to seven at 25-18 on another basket by Maynor, and then, leading 29-25, the Bucs saw six straight points go through the hoop. Mack hit on both ends of a two-shot foul, then Frank Moseley, who played one of his better games of the year, hit two on a one-and-one. Mack scored off a fast break for a 35-25 lead with 1:46 left. But then, the momentum swung. The Pirates had the ball and the chance to go up by 12, but missed and VCU came back to score off a jumper by Monty Knight. Then, the Pirates turned the ball over in the closing seconds, and Edmund Sherod hit with two seconds left to cut the lead to 35-29. Ironically, Sherod had hit a basket with just two seconds left at the half in the first game, and they proved fateful both times.

The momentum carried over into the second half, as VCU came out and began to find the range they lacked in the first half. During the first five minutes of the half they outscored the Pirates, 16-5, and pulled ahead, 41-40, the lead coming on a corner shot by Knight. Kottak added a basket, then hit a free throw to run the lead to four, 44-40, and then Penny Elliott tossed in a backhanded layup to up the lead to 50-44 with 12:14 to go.

A three-pointer by Kottak ran it to seven, 57-50, and with 8:11 left, VCU spread it out and began to send Sherod on drives to the basket. One of those, with 4:53 left upped the margin to eight, 71-63.

The Pirates cut it back to two, 72-70 on turnovers, but then Kottak

Tar Heels, Tigers Take ACC Victories

By The Associated Press
 Despite a scare by Atlantic Coast Conference cellar dweller North Carolina State, Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps refuses to acknowledge the supremacy of any one basketball league in the country.

"I've been misquoted and misunderstood on my feelings toward the ACC," Phelps said Wednesday night after the Fighting Irish escaped with a 53-52 decision over N.C. State in Raleigh.

"I'm never going to say the ACC is the best league in the country," he said. "Every area and conference has good teams."

Kelly Tripucka calmly sank two clutch free throws with six seconds left to give Notre Dame, now 17-2, the distinction of being the first team outside the ACC to slap N.C. State with a loss at home since Georgia performed the feat in 1968.

In conference action, sixth-ranked North Carolina defeated Maryland 76-67 and Clemson cruised past Wake Forest 85-74. ACC teams are idle until Saturday when a full slate of games is on tap.

"We're having a hard time getting the right bounces," said N.C. State Coach Norm Sloan, who was hoping for an upset to restore some pride to the battered Wolfpack, now 15-8. "We just can't seem to get over the hump." Charles "Hawkeye" Whitney scored with three seconds remaining in the game, but it was too little too late.

Clyde Austin led the Wolfpack scorers with 16 points, 14 of them in the first half. But the Irish employed a steady and patient offense in the second half, drew N.C. State out of the zone defense and controlled the tempo down the stretch.

Al Wood poured in 23 points and Mike O'Koren added 19 to lead North Carolina in a game that was tied nine times. The Tar Heels hit 11 of 12 from the free throw line in the final six minutes to ice the game and improve their record to 17-4 on the season and 7-2 in the ACC.

Maryland, paced by Greg Manning's 19 po to 14-8 and 3-5. Coach Lefty Driesell blamed Maryland's 20 turnovers — 11 of them credited to North Carolina as steals — for the Terps' downfall.

Clemson Coach Bill Foster said the Tigers are becoming a more mature and poised team as the season progresses.

"A couple of times we had the chance to take the momentum and made mistakes," Foster said of Clemson's triumph over Wake Forest in which Bobby Conrad led the Tigers with 18 points. "Early in the year, that would have gotten us down, but we handled it tonight."

Clemson grabbed the lead 58-57 with 9:40 remaining and never trailed in bettering its mark to 11-5 and 4-4. Wake Forest fell to 10-12 and 2-7.

Thompson Still Leading Scorer

East Carolina's Rosie Thompson opens the final month of the regular season leading the state Division I women's basketball players in both scoring and rebounding, which leaves her with a strong opportunity to repeat as the state's leading scorer.

Thompson now holds a 23.8 point scoring average and a 12.5 rebounding mark through games of February 3, according to the weekly statistics released by the North Carolina Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women. Duke's Barb Krause is second in rebounding with an average of 11.8 and third is East Carolina's Marcia Girven with an average of 10.3.

Jayne Arledge of Western Carolina continues to rank second in scoring with a 22.2 point average, followed by UNC-Greensboro's Anna Parker at 20.6 and N.C. State's Genia Basley at 19.5.

N.C. State, still atop the standings with a 17.4 record, is the top scoring team with a 90.8 average. The Wolfpack also leads the state in field goal accuracy at .530, free throw accuracy at .715 and scoring margin at 25.8.

Duke has the second best overall record at 10-5 with East Carolina a close third at 11-8 prior to yesterday's win at North Carolina. The Pirates rank second in scoring at 81.2, field goal accuracy at .456, and hold the top spot in rebounding with an average of 49.6.

Carol Almond of Appalachian State still tops the state in assists with 6.5 per game, while June Doby of N.C. State is the top shooter with a .588 percentage, and East Carolina's Thompson is the free throw leader, shooting .764 percent, followed by Tara McCarthy of Duke at .750, and East Carolina's Gale Kerbaugh at .729.

In all, there are again 25 players at the eight schools in double figure scoring, including Kerbaugh (14.1), Lydia Rountree (12.9) and Marcia Girven (11.6) of the Pirates.

The Pirates meet the College of Charleston tonight at 8:30 p.m. in the first round of the Winthrop Invitational Tournament at Rock Hill, S.C.

Notre Dame Slips Past State, 53-52

By DICK JOYCE
AP Sports Writer
Digger Phelps' top-ranked Notre Dame basketball team has dug North Carolina State a little deeper. But it wasn't easy. Sophomore Kelly Tripucka's two free throws sealed the Fighting Irish's 53-52 victory over the Wolfpack Wednesday night, handing N.C. State's its first non-conference loss at home since 1968.

Employing a slowdown game in the second half, the Notre Dame coach patted himself on the back after ending the Wolfpack's 13-game streak against non-conference foes. "We played a smart game plan," Phelps said. "We didn't want to get in a running game with them." Tripucka went to the free throw line with the Irish leading 51-50 in six seconds remaining. He calmly sank the foul tosses, which put his point total at 16, tops for Notre Dame.

"Hitting the first free throw kind of took the pressure off," said Tripucka. "Once you hit the first one, you kind of feel like the second will go."

In other games involving Top Ten college teams, No. 6 North Carolina downed Maryland 76-67 and seventh-rated Syracuse topped South Carolina 71-64.

While Notre Dame boosted its record to 17-2, N.C. State dropped to 15-8 overall. The Wolfpack, last beaten by Georgia at home in a non-conference game, stand last in the Atlantic Coast Conference with a 1-6 mark.

After Tripucka hit his free throws, N.C. State's Hawkeye Whitney scored a field goal, but the Irish ran out the clock.

"We're having a hard time getting the right bounces," said N.C. State Coach Norm Sloan. "At the end, we had exactly the right shot with the right guy (Whitney). We just can't seem to get over the hump. I think we still will."

Clyde Austin paced N.C. State with 16 points, 14 in the first half when the Irish led 31-29.

Meantime, host North Carolina, getting 23 points from Al Wood and 19 from Mike O'Koren, increased its ACC record to 7-2 and 17-4 overall and dropped Maryland to 3-5 in league play, 14-8 overall. It marked the Terrapins' eighth straight loss to the Tar Heels.

North Carolina, leading 61-57 with 6:50 left, shifted into their four corners offense to withstand the Terps. Greg Manning's 19 points led Maryland.

In the nightcap of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader, Syracuse, which led South Carolina by 19 points late in the first half, hung on for its 19th triumph against two losses.

Jim Boehm, the Orangemen's coach, felt his team's 10-day layoff caused it to tire late in the second half when South Carolina reduced Syracuse's lead to four, 64-60, with six minutes remaining. Hal Cohen then scored four of his team-leading 18 points to clinch the victory. Louis Orr added 17 and Roosevelt Bouie 14 for the Orangemen while Mike Doyle's 15 points paced the Gamecocks, 11-8.

In the opening game of the Garden twinbill, Iowa, 16-5, edged Holy Cross 64-62 on Jeff Ruland's field goal with 21 seconds remaining. Ruland had 17 points while Ronnie Perry paced the Crusaders, 13-7, with 19 points.

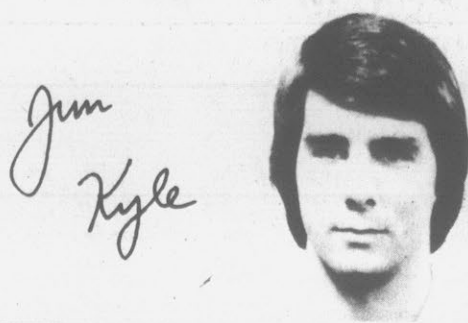

In other games involving the Top Twenty, No. 17 Vanderbilt dumped visiting Kentucky 68-58 in a Southeastern Conference game. No. 18 Georgetown nipped host St. Peter's 62-60 and 19th-rated Temple scored a 54-43 homecourt victory over Penn State.

Charles Davis' 31 points powered Vanderbilt, up by as much as 15 points in the first half, past Kentucky, 11-9. Kyle Macy scored 20 of his 24 points in the Wildcats' second-half comeback. It was Vandy's first success over Kentucky since the 1975-76 season and made the Commodores 16-5.

Eric Floyd's steal and dunk shot with 32 seconds remaining paced Georgetown's triumph over St. Peter's, 10-11, and made the Hoyas 17-4. Floyd finished with 21 points while Jim Brandon led the Peacocks with 23.

Neil Robinson, a reserve sophomore, scored 13 points and Rick Reed 12 as Temple raised its record to 18-3 and sent the Nittany Lions to their 16th loss in 24 games.

In other games, Reggie Johnson's 31 points led Tennessee over Auburn 73-62; Darnell Valentine scored 27 points to lead Kansas over Missouri 88-85; Kansas State topped Nebraska behind Rolando Blackman's 22 points; Providence, led by Rudy Williams' 21 points, defeated Long Island University 87-78 and Calvin Garrett's 20 points paced Oral Roberts past Denver 89-67.

SPORTS AND MONEY have been in the news so much lately it seems that the two go hand in hand. As a matter of fact, they usually do.

Nearly every sports fan knows that sports is big business, BIG business. This is true not only for the owners, but the players as well. Where else can a college graduate with barely passing grades become a multi-millionaire just by signing up for a five-year hitch?

The money aspect is not isolated to professional sports, either. Major college football and basketball programs are tremendous revenue-producers. For example, the final four teams in last year's NCAA basketball tournament each received nearly a quarter of a million dollars.

It seems that sports has left the world of recreation and settled in the world of high finance for good. Here are just three of the sports-money stories that have come out in less than a week's time:

A group of businessmen in Baltimore raised $12 million to buy the Baltimore Orioles, subject to the approval of the other American League owners.

Some 32 local businessmen contributed $6 million to the campaign, $4 million came in the form of a loan from Orioles Board Chairman Jerold C. Hoffberger and $2 million more in cash assets will be left in the team treasury by Hoffberger until the new owners can raise the money through the public sale of stock in the state of Maryland.

That's total of $12 million for a baseball team, and someone obviously hopes to make money on the deal.

The New England Patriots are suing the University of Colorado over that school's move to lure head coach Chuck Fairbanks from New England to Boulder.

Fairbanks, who submitted his resignation to the Pats last week, reportedly will receive $45,000 salary annually from Colorado, plus $105,000 more per year from the Flatirons Club.

This club, with assets of $1.4 million, is making up the difference between what Fairbanks will make at Colorado and what he was getting at New England.

In addition, Fairbanks is to receive a $10,000 bonus, a $90,000 annual contract for television and radio shows, a $250,000 paid-up life insurance policy and an arrangement for the coach to play golf with businessmen and then lecture them on motivation whenever his schedule will allow at $3,000 a shot.

Such cases certainly make suspect the "amateur" status of college athletics.

The Dallas Cowboys said recently they lost at least $100,000 in expenses by participating in last month's Super Bowl and the Pittsburgh Steelers made similar claims.

"Our expenses were well into six figures," said Steelers' publicist Joe Gordon. "The league gives you six figures for expenses, but it's not nearly enough."

Cowboys President Tex Schramm said, "As far as the bottom line of our profit and loss statement, it would have been more favorable if we hadn't entered the playoffs."

These financial setbacks occurred despite the fact that a record $6 million in television advertising revenue was divided among the league's 28 teams this year. The league said gate revenue went to NFL charities.

Mind you, the owners insist they are not complaining about being in the Super Bowl, and the players certainly aren't. They each received $18,000 if they were on they winning Steeler team and $9,000 if they were on the Cowboy squad.

And they stand to make much more from personal appearances and product endorsements.

Apparently the big money aspect of sports is here to stay. It is just hoped that all the stories involved with the business aspect of the subject don't push the box scores completely off the sports pages.

Ashbrook, Washington Holding Poll Spots

By AL CARSON
The Durham Sun

State playoff time for high school basketball teams is only two weeks away, and it may take playoff competition to dislodge Washington and Gastonia Ashbrook from their lofty positions in The Associated Press North Carolina rankings.

Ashbrook and Washington have been the top teams in the state from the very first poll and unless there is a major upset next week, they will enter playoff competition as the odds-on favorites to take state titles. Ashbrook was number one in the 4-A poll this week, garnering 13 of 14 first-place votes.

In the 3-A rankings, Washington remains as the unanimous top pick.

By The Associated Press
Here are the top ten teams in The Associated Press North Carolina high school basketball poll for classifications 3A and 4A, with first place votes in parentheses, records and total points.

ECU Bows...

He missed, but a turnover gave it back to the Rams, and Kottak tapped in a missed shot with 1:41 to go, tying it once more, 84-84.

The Pirates controlled the ball until 24 seconds remained, and Cornelius was hit with the charging foul that led to VCU's winning basket.

Krusen led the Pirate scoring with 20 points, while Maynor had 15. Mack and Cornelius had 14 each and Underwood had 11.

VCU was led by Sherod with 25, while Kottak had 19, Watson had 17 and Knight had 11.

The loss dropped the Pirates to 9-12. They return home to face USC-Aiken on Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

With 12 seconds left, Sherod hit the second of two free throws for an 82-80 lead, but after Mack missed a baseline jumper, Moseley got the rebound and tossed it back in with four seconds left, tying it at 82-82, and a desperation shot by VCU was way off target.

In the overtime, the Pirates lost the tap, but got the ball back on a turnover, and Moseley put the Pirates ahead, 84-82, with a drive with 3:07 left.

East Carolina again got it back, following a missed shot, but Knight, trying to steal the ball from Mack, found himself sent to the line for being fouled.

Hayes Leads Hurt Bullets To Victory

By The Associated Press
The Washington Bullets bit the bullet Wednesday night and showed why they are the National Basketball Association's defending champs.

"We did tonight what you have to do when you're champions — adjust and utilize what you have," Elvin Hayes said after scoring 33 points and leading the banged-up Bullets to a 96-90 triumph over the Milwaukee Bucks.

The Bullets seemed primed for an infrequent defeat with top reserve Mitch Kupchak absent with a foot injury, ace rebounder Wes Unseld limited to 12 minutes because of a sprained ankle, guard Kevin Grevey slowed by a hamstring pull and high-scoring Bobby Dandridge held to five baskets in 19 attempts.

"We have poise and confidence we can win," said Hayes. "We're aware of our ability and it doesn't bother us whether we're behind or ahead with the other team coming back. We just believe we can beat you."

"We probably have the best five big man combination in basketball in Wes, Mitch, Greg Ballard, me and Dave Corzine and we have a player like Bobby Dandridge at small forward. Even when somebody is hurt we have so many offensive variations that we're really tough to stop."

So are the Kansas City Kings, who got 32 of their 65 first-half points from reserves and swamped the Atlanta Hawks 124-108.

Elsewhere, the San Antonio Spurs whipped the San Diego Clippers 126-113, the Boston Celtics downed the Seattle SuperSonics 107-100, the Los Angeles Lakers edged the Golden State Warriors 106-104, the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Detroit Pistons 114-103, the Denver Nuggets trounced the Cleveland Cavaliers 120-105, the New Jersey Nets turned back the Indiana Pacers 90-84 and the New Orleans Jazz outlasted the New York Knicks 125-123 in overtime.

Washington opened a 16-point first-quarter lead and held on to hand Milwaukee its fifth consecutive setback, the Bucks' longest of the season. The Bucks got within 87-84 with 3:36 left but Ballard made a layup and Hayes sank a 25-foot turnaround jump shot to regain the momentum for the Bullets. Hayes sank 14 of 28 shots, grabbed 16 rebounds and blocked four shots.

Kings 124, Hawks 108
Otis Birdsong scored 30 points as Kansas City posted its ninth consecutive homecourt triumph. Scott Wedman added 19 points and Phil Ford had 16 points and a season-high 16 assists.

The Kings, hitting 13 of 17 second-quarter shots, took a 65-52 halftime lead and boosted the margin to 17 points late in the third quarter.

Spurs 126, Clippers 113
George Gervin scored 20 of his 28 points in the third quarter as the Spurs snapped a three-game losing streak. San Antonio led 90-84 after three periods and held the game open by outscoring the Clippers 12-1 to start the fourth quarter. Lloyd Free played despite a sore back and scored 25 points to lead San Diego, which saw a three-game winning streak come to an end.

Celtics 107, SuperSonics 100
Chris Ford scored 20 of his 31 points in the second half and player-coach Dave Cowens connected for 24 as Boston defeated Seattle's Pacific Division leaders for the second time in three meetings. The victory was Boston's fourth in five games. Seattle was led by Gus Williams with 28 points.

Lakers 106, Warriors 104
Adrian Dantley grabbed a loose ball and scored from underneath the basket with six seconds remaining to give Los Angeles its victory. Norm Nixon scored 12 points in the final period and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar added eight as the Lakers came from behind to register their eighth straight victory over the Warriors, a streak which began almost two years ago. Nixon finished with 27 points, Jabbar 26 and Dantley 23. Phil Smith of the Warriors had a game-high 31 points.

76ers 114, Pistons 103
Julius Erving collected 37 points and Darryl Dawkins a career-high 25 as Philadelphia held off a final-period Detroit rally. Bob Lanier scored 31 for the Pistons, who haven't won in Philadelphia in nine games since Nov. 2, 1974. A crowd of 2,551 turned out in a snowstorm that dropped 10 inches on the city and prevented the 76ers' newest acquisitions, guards Eric Money and Al Skinner, from reporting.

Nuggets 120, Cavaliers 105
Dan Issel scored 25 points to help Denver give new Coach Donnie Walsh a victory in his first home game. The Nuggets got 24 points from George McGinnis and 21 from Charlie Scott. Cleveland also had three players with 20 or more points—Campy Russell with 21 and Mike Mitchell and Austin Carr with 20.

Nets 90, Pacers 84
Rookie Winford Boynes scored 10 points in the fourth quarter, including eight in a row, to help New Jersey end a five-game losing streak. With the score tied at 72, Boynes, who had just four points in the first three periods, made three field goals and two free throws in the next three minutes.

Jazz 125, Knicks 123
Ex-Knicks Spencer Haywood led a balanced New Orleans attack with 26 points to offset a 37-point output by New York's Bob McAdoo. McAdoo's hot shooting staked New York to a 119-114 advantage in the first 80 seconds of overtime but the Jazz ran off six points in a row to take the lead. Haywood got support from Rich Kelley and Jim McElroy, who had 22 apiece, and Pete Maravich, who added 20. Toby Knight added 27 for the Knicks.

Baseball Clinic Set

Afro-American Cultural Center To Be Formally Dedicated

ECU News Bureau
East Carolina University's Afro-American Cultural Center will be formally dedicated to the late Professor Ledonia Smith Wright in ceremonies scheduled for Sunday, Feb. 11, at 3 p.m. Until her death in June, 1976, a member of ECU's community health faculty, Prof. Wright was active in counseling and advising minority students on campus.

An oil portrait of Mrs. Wright will be unveiled by her son, Steven Wright, and formally accepted by Troy Pate Jr., chairman of the ECU Board of Trustees.

Also appearing on the dedication program will be ECU Chancellor Thomas Brewer; Faye Elliott, chairperson of the center's Advisory Board; and Rev. Kenneth Hammond.

Principal speaker will be Dr. Andrew Best, ECU trustee and Greenville physician. Special music will be performed by the ECU Gospel Ensemble.

The Afro-American Cultural Center was known for many years as the "Y-Hut," and was used for various social and religious activities. For the past two years, it has been used by ECU's black students as a center for lectures, performances and meetings.

Boston, Tufts and Harvard Universities and at Roxbury and Simmons Colleges.

From 1970 to 1973 she was Chief of Governmental and Private Sector Relations for the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity, New England Region. She had also been an administrator for Self-Help, Inc., Brockton, Mass., and served on a special committee appointed by Massachusetts Governor Peabody to evaluate the effectiveness of the State's Commission Against Discrimination. In addition, Mrs. Wright's career included staff positions and consultantships for the New York Medical Committee for Human Rights, Boston's United Community Services, Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y., and the Erie County, N.Y. health department.

She was a native of Hamlet, N.C. and held degrees from N.C. Central and Shaw Universities, with additional study at the UNC-Chapel Hill School of Public Health and at Boston and Yale Universities.

Dedication of the center coincides with ECU's annual Black Arts Festival, Feb. 11-17, which this year includes musical presentations, poetry readings, a film festival and a lecture by CBS television correspondent Ed Bradley.

Before she joined the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions faculty in 1974, Ledonia Wright taught at

Salvation Army Dinner Friday

The Salvation Army will hold its annual program report dinner Friday night.

Highlights of the affair, expected to be attended by about 150 persons, will be a talk by East Carolina University Chancellor Dr. Thomas Brewer, recognition of various clubs, organizations and individuals who helped with the annual Christmas program, and a report of the Salvation Army's activities in Greenville and Pitt County last year.

Some 73 transients were assisted with lodging and—meals during 1978, while 4,175 county residents were aided. The Army gave away 10,672 garments, 618 pairs of shoes, 162 food orders and 13 fuel orders during the year to those in need.

Some 589 families, including 1,355 children were assisted by the Army's Christmas program, which distributed 262 food baskets, and 2,710 toys.

Advisory Board officers — chairman Durward Harris, vice-chairman Lyman Ormond, secretary Julian Vainright, and treasurer James G. Sullivan —

Preregistering Ends Feb. 23

KINSTON — Preregistration will continue for spring classes at Lenoir Community College until Feb. 23.

Registration Day will be held March 6. General college placement tests will be given Monday, Feb. 12, 6:30 p.m. Allied Health placement tests will be administered Tuesday, Feb. 13, 6:30 p.m. A final test will be held March 5, 9 a.m., for general admission students.

According to Mrs. Joan Callaway, director of admissions and recruiting at LCC, placement tests are required for all technical and transfer programs, as well as teachers' aides and computer operators.

From 1951 to 1953 she supervised the Guilford County Health Department's public health education program for the area's black population.

Overshadowed The Productivity Rise

INTERSTATE SECURITIES CORP.

Real Gross National Product—the nation's total output of goods and services adjusted for inflation—rose at a surprisingly strong annual rate of 6.1 percent in the fourth quarter of 1978. This sharp gain followed a third quarter gain of 2.6 percent, and a second quarter increase of 8.7 percent. The weather—impacted first quarter gain was a slim 0.1 percent.

The enthusiasm over this strong growth was quieted somewhat by the news that inflation also rose strongly, reaching an 8.1 percent annual rate of growth in the fourth quarter. This followed increases of 6.9 percent in the third quarter, 8.7 percent in the second and a decline of 0.1 percent in the first.

For all of 1978, real GNP increased 3.9 percent, within Administration targets of 3.5 percent to 4 percent. The full year inflation rate was 7.4 percent compared with 1977's 5.9 percent and the 5.2 percent of 1976. Government officials continue to expect real GNP growth for 1979 of 3 percent. They also believe that Carter's anti-inflation program will result in a decline in the inflation rate.

Consumer spending was very strong in the fourth quarter, with spending on automobiles leading the way. Personal consumption spending was up 11 percent for the full year. The savings rate fell to 4.8 percent in the fourth quarter, continuing the erosion in the percent of disposable income saved that has been underway all year.

The growth in business inventories slowed and business spending for fixed investment increased. Imports exceeded exports for the full year, with the deficit reaching $6.9 billion (annualized) during the final quarter.

Home Builders Ass'n Had Meet

The Greenville Home Builders Association met this week at the Ramada Inn with a record turnout of 112 members and guests in attendance.

The president of the N. C. Home Builders Association, Sherrill Faw, was also on hand for the February meeting, according to local president, Conally Branch.

Contestant Unsure Over Winning Trip

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Ann Crumb, a game show contestant, is the winner of a one-week all-expense paid trip to Winston-Salem, and her neighbors in California aren't sure whether to congratulate her or commiserate.

"I don't know why I picked the trip," said the 30-year-old clothing merchandise specifier from Hayward, Cal. in a telephone interview. "People have been asking me that question ever since I won."

"Is there anything to do there?" Paul Gilbert, a spokesman for the producers of Wheel of Fortune, said in a telephone interview from California that the game show likes to offer trips to offbeat places.

"When the show was created the staff told the producers that it would be a good idea to give trips away that other shows don't ordinarily give," Gilbert said. "We've sent people to Richmond, Va., and Milwaukee, places people have to get out of the hotel room to find something to do."

"We've offered the trip to Winston-Salem several times on the show, but no one has ever taken it."

Gilbert said the trip to Winston-Salem was halted at one time. Then he visited the city on business and "I had a good time. I came back and told the producers to start offering the prize again."

Mrs. Crumb's trip to Winston-Salem, worth $1,350, is one of two excursions she chose as prizes. She passed up a violin and a Franklin stove for the North Carolina trip, but she received a trip to Guatemala.

"No one is asking me how I like the prizes," Mrs. Crumb said. "They just want to know what I am going to do in Winston-Salem."

Pupils Earned Honors Lists

Fourth graders Michael Brown, Kristie Carraway, Billy Carroll, John Linton, Alexis Smith and Robbie Windham were named to the Belvoir Elementary School's Honor Roll for the third marking period.

The following students were named to the Principal's List: Stanton Alleyne, Regina Eakes, Linda Grizzard, Renee Hathaway, Lydia Kerwin, Ron Linton, Trieste Newton, Marcia Stocks, Cathy Waters, Michelle Willis and Cheryl Wooten, fourth grade.

Fifth grade: Jimmy Blount, Bill Gorham, Mark Hicks, Lawanda Jones, Anita Little, Shelia Little, and Chris Winter.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You feel you are being limited, restricted in some way, but get at your routines and all works out fine. Try to help one who is in financial trouble.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Depend on yourself since friends have problems of their own to solve. Know what your true personal aims are and forget whatever holds you back. Improve your financial position.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A bigwig may seem demanding, but it is for your own good. Credit affairs should be handled carefully. Take no risks in driving.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) There are many projects that interest you, but don't jump into them without any study first. Your hunches are not good now. Rely only on your best judgment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) As much as you dislike carrying through with what you have promised, it is best to meet your obligations for best results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) One who is demanding could upset but you quietly state you will not be fooled and send packing. Not a good day for attempting to reconcile with others. Wait for a better day.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Clear the slate for more important things. Steer clear of one who has strange ideas and could get you into trouble of some sort.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Recreation could disappoint you, so indulge only in whatever is inexpensive, and little of that too. Be more generous with compliments.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do well in trouble-shooting professions, since there is a good understanding about handling problems, both in business and in private life. Teach early to save money.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This can be a very upsetting time and you would be wise not to try to force any situation. If you have benefits coming to you they come in an unexpected manner in which it is best not to do anything but accept them gratefully. But expect some tiresome problems.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Use tact at home so that no arguments start there. Not a good day to get involved in any new projects. Use your money wisely or you could get into big debt.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Look to a partner for help in advancing your career. Take no risks with your health. Be extra cautious in driving.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid being impulsive, especially where money is concerned. Think twice about money deals offered you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Count your blessings and don't let others impose on you in any way, or feel that they are. Take time to improve health, appearance. Romance is in the picture.

A classic lesson hand turned up during the Swiss Team Championships at the recent Winter Regional at the New York Hilton. Cover the South and East hands with your thumbs and see how you, as West, would defend against South's three no trump contract.

North's two no trump bid following a Stayman inquiry was invitational, showing a hand of 8-9 points. South decided that his excellent intermediates and prime controls made his hand worth somewhat more than 16 points, so he accepted.

West led his fourth-best heart. With a four-card suit headed by the queen-jack and missing the nine, this is technically correct, although on the actual hand the queen would have been better. Declarer won with the ten and led the king of clubs. How would you defend?

It was obvious to West that declarer held the ace of hearts, so there was no future in that suit. A glance at dummy was enough to convince even the most optimistic defender that a diamond shift would be futile; and the fact that declarer was prepared to lead clubs from his hand meant that that suit posed no threat. So if the defenders were going to collect tricks in a hurry, spades offered the only hope.

There was only one combination in spades which would permit the defenders to take four tricks in the suit—declarer would have to have started with precisely Q-3 or Q-6. Even then, it would not be good enough to shift to any spade—West had to lead the ten!

East went up with the ace of spades and returned a low spade. West captured declarer's queen with the king and now had a low spade to lead through dummy's nine-seven. East thus scored two more spade tricks with his jack-eight for a one-trick set to complete a perfectly defended hand.

John Travolta may also be in that category because of the success of "Saturday Night Fever" and "Grease," but his status has been tarnished by "Moment by Moment," a flop.

While McQueen's new contract may be the biggest ever, Brando's role actually paid better because it took just three weeks of work. McQueen is scheduled for six months of shooting.

Brando's salary evoked wonder from his fellow workers at the London studio where "Superman" was made. They calculated his fee at $245,000 per nine-hour day, or $27,000 an hour, or $450 a minute. That's $8 a second.

Part of that work will show up in a sequel to "Superman" already well under way.

Why do producers pay such high amounts for stars? Ilya Salkind, producer of "Superman," says, "There are certain actors and actresses we refer to as 'bankable'—just by signing them, you can put an entire picture together. They also give you the clout to talk with the majors—the principal distributors. A name can start the ball rolling—and keep the money flowing."

Huge salaries are nothing new in Hollywood. In 1918, superstars Charlie Chaplin and Mary Pickford were each paid $1 million a year by National Pictures.

CBS Beats Bushes For A Hit Series

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's tough on CBS, this matter of being second. The network that once smilingly accepted the tag "Tiffany Network" having to maul it out with NBC to stay out of the bottom of television's ratings.

That big CBS eye was on top of the ratings tussles for 20 years. "I Love Lucy," "Gunsmoke," "Dick Van Dyke Show," "Beverly Hillsblys," "All in the Family," "Mary Tyler Moore." CBS was always No. 1. Its New York executives, according to an old saw, used to walk on patrician Fifth Avenue to get to their offices on plebian Sixth.

That ABC surge three years ago, from television's discount basement to penthouse, hurt CBS in prestige and it hurt the network in dollars.

It's no fun not being able to do fall season promotions boasting of being No. 1. But it's worse watching affiliated stations jump ship to ABC—as 17 have done in the last three years.

For the first year or so of ABC's new dominance, mutterings of "It won't last" and "We'll be back" could be heard at CBS. But the kingdom-in-exile routine began to wear thin this year when it became apparent that ABC was no mere pretender, that it had found things quite comfortable at the top.

So, what is CBS doing about it?

"Our main job is to come up with new, successful hit series," says CBS programming executive Bud Grant. "That's the name of the game."

The network has begun an intense campaign in program development, an area CBS neglected before its fall. Its last few years at the front of the ratings race were years in which CBS depended on its strong series, "All in the Family" and "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," and the spinoff children of those shows, like "Maude" and "Rhoda."

In its effort to make gains this midseason, though, CBS seems to have a good shot with some of its new developments, such as the successful "Dallas" and "Incredible Hulk." And unlike NBC, CBS has enough strong shows to plant new or weaker shows in its schedule and win points on audience carryover.

For example, the successful "All in the Family" and "Alice," which used to air back-to-back on Sunday nights, will sandwich the new shows "Onward and Upward" and "The Stockard Channing Show." This lead-in tactic has made hits of mediocre series, which, if the ploy works, can be used as lead-in grabbers in their own right next season.

"For years, CBS had the strongest series and for years CBS was No. 1," Grant says. "For the last several years, ABC has had the strongest series, and now they're No. 1. We believe in the series form of television as being the backbone of a successful schedule."

Handful Of Superstars Can Draw Supersalaries

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In a single bound, Steve McQueen has overtaken Marlon Brando's "Superman" salary with a $3 million one-film contract that is probably the biggest in movie history.

"McQueen's salary will be bigger than Brando's," Arthur Canton, publicist for "Tai Pan," said Tuesday.

"Tai Pan" is a $40 million two-part epic based on James Clavell's best-selling novel about an adventurer who marries a Chinese woman in Hong Kong. Industry sources say McQueen's contract calls for $3 million plus a percentage of the profits.

Brando received $2.8 million for playing Jor-el, the father of Superman on the planet Krypton. Brando, too, will get a percentage of the profits.

McQueen and Brando are not the only Hollywood stars receiving seven-digit salaries these days. Paul Newman, Robert Redford, Jane Fonda, Dustin Hoffman, Clint Eastwood, Barbra Streisand, Al Pacino, Burt Reynolds and Robert De Niro all are able to command $1 million per picture.

John Travolta may also be in that category because of the success of "Saturday Night Fever" and "Grease," but his status has been tarnished by "Moment by Moment," a flop.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Warner Bros. was off to its biggest box-office year in studio history at this early date in 1979 with more than $104 million in the coffers thanks to only two of its movies.

"Superman" has earned $64 million in 821 theaters and the studio's "sleeper" surprise, "Every Which Way But Loose" — Clint Eastwood's new movie — has brought in $40 million.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "The Flintstones," first animated cartoon series to be aired in prime time, returns to the tube as a Saturday morning show for kiddies on NBC-TV. School In Underwater History Slated

A survey and assessment of submerged cultural resources at Bath, North Carolina's oldest incorporated town, will be the primary objective of a special-ized field school in maritime history and underwater research sponsored by the N.C. Division of Archives and History and East Carolina University. This spring, the five week program, scheduled to begin May 21, has been designed to provide students with an introduction to historical research, American maritime history, and scientific research methods and techniques employed in the recovery of data preserved at historic period submerged cultural resource sites.

In addition to permitting the history department of East Carolina University to offer students a unique educational opportunity, field school survey activities will collect valuable data for ongoing cultural resource management program administered by the Underwater Archaeology Branch of the Division of Archives and History.

With the town of Bath having been settled in 1660, its harbor potentially holds historic cultural material from the earliest periods of European settlement in North Carolina. Preliminary investigations have shown that the sediments of Bath harbor will have offered excellent protection for whatever submerged material they may contain.

Of particular interest is the possibility that shipwrecks and vessel remains, perhaps including unique and valuable local or regional vessel types, may be exceptionally well preserved beneath the mud and silt of the harbor bottom.

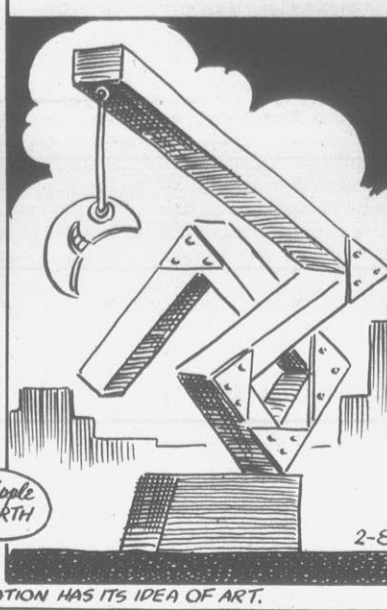

Dr. William Still, Jr., Naval Historian, co-director from ECU, will be primarily responsible for providing instruction in history and historical research. Co-director Gordon Watts, North Carolina State Underwater Archaeologist, and the staff of the Archives and History Underwater Archaeology Branch will be responsible for providing archaeological training and supervising the conduct of the survey activities.

For additional details, applications, and medical forms, interested individuals can contact Dr. William M. Still, Jr., Department of History, East Carolina University, Greenville, North Carolina 27834.

Will Ask Grand Jury To Probe Death Of Infant

NEW YORK (AP) — Queens District Attorney John J. Santucci says he will seek a grand jury investigation into the death of an 8-month-old baby who died in an unheated house.

A medical examiner says the child, Cynthia Feliceca, died from neglect.

The grand jury will decide if any charges are appropriate and whether any public agencies hold responsibility for the death.

The baby was found dead Tuesday in her family's South Ozone Park home. City officials have taken six of her brothers and sisters into protective custody.

Dr. Jacques Durosier said his autopsy of Cynthia, who was discovered dead in her crib in the basement of her home, showed she died of low body temperature due to no heat, malnutrition, dehydration and neglect.

The girl's 2-year-old brother, Thomas Jr., was hospitalized in fair condition and was being treated for exposure.

The house where Cynthia died was occupied by 18 men, women and children from at least three Feliceca family generations. It had been without heat for 18 months because the family did not pay a $1,397.30 gas bill.

Although the father, Frank Feliceca, insisted he had sought help from authorities and local churches, city welfare authorities maintain they never knew the family was without heat.

"We would have paid the bill or we would have relocated them to where there was heat," said Sam Elber, speaking for the Department of Social Services.

The Feliceca family had an income from welfare and Social Security of about $1,380 each month, according to Martin Burdick, assistant commissioner for income maintenance. Only one member of the family worked, Burdick said.
