

Defeat Looms For ERA Ratification In Senate

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - The attempt to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment in North Carolina this year lay near defeat today as its backers considered whether to deliberately scuttle it or watch allow it to be defeated on the floor of the Senate.

Supporters fought vainly this morning to block the Senate Judiciary I committee from amending another bill and make it an ERA-ratification bill.

"Once it gets to the floor, I want the world to know we've got 28 votes against it," said Sen. Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax, chairman of the judiciary committee.

His committee voted 4-3 to officially adopt an amendment creating a new ERA-ratification bill. But it postponed until this afternoon a vote on whether to send the new bill to the Senate floor.

Allsbrook said he was awaiting the action of the Senate Constitutional Amendments Committee, which is dominated by ERA supporters.

ERA supporters received a further blow today when Sen. Walter Cockerham, R-Guilford, announced he would vote against ERA, based on the results of a survey he conducted through newspaper advertisements.

That left opponents with at least 27 firm "no" votes in the 50-member Senate, most supporters acknowledged.

Meeting in a jammed committee room, Allsbrook's panel haggled - often bitterly over whether rules of the Senate allow them to push for a Senate vote by amending the other bill while the constitutional amendments committee was still holding the original ERA-ratification measure.

"I think it's a sham on the entire General Assembly to act in such a matter," said ERA supporter Sen. Carolyn Mathis, D-Mecklenburg. "I'm just amazed that you gentlemen have acted this way."

The maneuver by ERA foes left its supporters struggling to prevent their bill's passage to the Senate floor, where it faced a likely defeat. Opponents, ironically, were pushing for Senate action, confident of their votes.

Allsbrook's panel had gone through the same maneuver Wednesday, but attempted to repeat it today because of objections by one member, Sen. Robert Davis, D-Rowan. An ERA supporter, he said he was not notified of the emergency meeting Wednesday.

He and ERA opponents engaged in angry exchanges over the rules.

ERA has been ratified in 35 states but rejected three previous times in North Carolina. Three more states must ratify it before ERA becomes part of the U.S. Constitution.

"I don't think we can pass it, and it's a matter now of do we kill it in committee, or do we let the Senate kill it for us," said Sen. Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg, ERA's sponsor.

U.S. Embassy In Iran Preparing Evacuation Plan

By ROBERT H. REID Associated Press Writer

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - The U.S. Embassy admitted today it "cannot protect American lives in Tehran" and announced plans for emergency evacuation flights Saturday as heavy fighting was reported for the third day in the northwest city of Tabriz.

Iranian journalists reported hundreds killed in factional fighting Tuesday and Wednesday in Tabriz, Iran's fourth largest city. Radio Tehran said 42 more were killed in three southern cities Wednesday as the new government installed by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolution struggle to establish control over the country.

"We are in phase three of emergency evacuation," an embassy statement read to anxious U.S. citizens said. "We cannot protect American lives in Tehran. You are allowed one suitcase per person. Evacuation planes will begin flying 17 February."

"Phase three" appeared to refer to the recommended evacuation of virtually all Americans in the country. The embassy cannot order

Americans to leave unless they are employed by the U.S. government or are government dependents.

Ambassador William Sullivan, briefly held prisoner along with 101 other Americans by gunmen who stormed the embassy Wednesday, told one telephone caller: "We can't do anything until Saturday or Sunday. We're on an evacuation status if we can get people out. We can't get anyone out yet."

He advised the caller to stay indoors and off the streets. "I wouldn't go if I were you," he added.

Recreation-Parks Board Adopts 3 Priority Items

By JERRY RAYNOR Reflector Staff Writer A three-item priority listing of projects totaling $150,000 for possible funding with Community Development funds was approved by members of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission at the February meeting Wednesday night. This priority list will be forwarded to Ben Shivar, Coordinator for Community Development funds for the City of Greenville for his presentation to the Community Task Force determining city-wide allocation of available Community Development funds.

The priority list recommendation agreed on by commission members include (1) renovation of the lighting system at Guy Smith Stadium, $60,000; (2) purchase of additional recreation land at Greenfield Terrace, $20,000; and (3) improvements of a to-be-decided recreational area in the Meadowbrook area. In the approval motion, a stipulation was made that Recreation and Parks director Boyd Lee and his staff be given authority to adjust the estimated figures prior to presentation to the Community Development Task Force.

After the Task Force considers requests from all areas, they in turn will present a community-wide recommendation to the City Council for a final determination of requests to be submitted for this, the final year of guaranteed funding under the Community Development program.

In reaching a decision to recommend these three projects, commission members discussed six projects totaling an estimated $327,875 in requested funds. These were:

- The renovation of the lighting system at Guy Smith Stadium, $60,000;

- Renovation and staffing of existing community facility in East Meadowbrook, $26,975;

- Construction of a pre-fab recreation center in Greenfield Terrace, $20,000;

- Development of a neighborhood park and construction of a community building in West Meadowbrook, $190,900; and

- Playground equipment for Sadie Sautler School in Higgs Neighborhood, $10,000.

All the requests noted above except for the Guy Smith Stadium were project requests generated at two public hearings before the City Council and five separate neighborhood hearings to get public input on what neighborhoods qualifying for Community Development funds wanted for their neighborhoods.

Some of the factors considered relative to evaluating the offered requests included - agreement that East and West Meadowbrook should be combined for planning and

A HOTLINE APPEAL

SPECIAL FOSTER HOME NEEDED

The Pitt Co. Department of Social Services is looking for a very special foster home for a 15-year-old black male who is soon to be released from Cherry Hospital. In order to prepare to care for him, these foster parents will be required to undergo special training and make visits to Cherry Hospital prior to his placement in their home. The home will have to be specially licensed by the agency to care for this particular child. The agency desires to work closely with the foster family so that the child can make a smooth transition from Cherry Hospital back into a home and community setting.

Any couple or family who feels interested in this commitment is asked to contact Linda Shoffner at the Social Services Dept., 758-2167.

A HOTLINE TRIBUTE

Bill Oakley, Director of the Sanitation and Streets Department of Farmville, David Shackelford, an employee of the department, and several other employees whose names I do not know really went out of their way to help me yesterday. After I notified Oakley that my daughter had dropped an orthodontic retainer wrapped in a white paper napkin into the trash can at a Farmville school as she emptied her lunch tray, he and his men went through the contents of a packer truck by hand and found the tiny, yet expensive object for us. They could justifiably have said searching for it would be an impossible task, but they did not. They found it. We are grateful. Mrs. R. T.

'Very Angry' President Asks Russians Explain Role In Kabul Killing

WASHINGTON (AP) - The State Department, acting on the orders of a "very angry" President Carter, wants a full report from the Soviet Union on the "actions by the Soviet advisers involved in" the death of the U.S. ambassador to Afghanistan.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter disclosed Wednesday that Soviet advisers were at the scene of violence in Afghanistan earlier in the day which claimed the life of Ambassador Adolph "Spike" Dubs.

"We are angry and upset," said spokesman Carter. He added that the department was trying to find out exactly what happened before deciding how to proceed.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren M. Christopher, acting in the direction of the president, who is in Mexico, summoned Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin to the State Department to discuss the matter.

In Mexico City, officials with the president said he was "very angry" about the incident.

Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary, said, "The more you read about this, the more outrageous it becomes."

Spokesman Carter said Christopher expressed to Dobrynin "in the strongest terms the shock of the U.S. government" over Soviet actions during the incident.

According to witnesses, Dubs was shot and killed as Afghan police and their

Soviet advisers stormed the hotel room where he was being held by a group of Islamic terrorists.

'Lecture' From Pres. Portillo Surprises U.S.

MEXICO CITY (AP) - U.S. officials are reacting with surprise and even irritation to a no-nonsense public lecture directed at visiting President Carter by his Mexican host, President Jose Lopez Portillo.

Lopez Portillo's pointed call Wednesday that the United States accord his country "respectful, fair and worthy treatment" found U.S. Embassy officials privately expressing surprise. A high White House official expressed concern that the Mexicans do not get carried away with their tough talk.

The U.S. reaction cast at least a momentary question mark over today's talks between the two leaders on some of the thorniest issues that divide them: energy dealings, immigration and trade.

After the morning meeting, Carter and his wife, Rosalynn, were flying by helicopter to a remote pig farm village 100 miles south of the Mexican capital to tour a swine facility and irrigation plant.

Even stronger than the U.S. Embassy reaction to the host president's remarks at the outset of Carter's 48-hour visit was that of the White House official, who asked not to be identified.

His objections seemed directed less at Lopez Portillo's call for fair and equitable treatment and more to other sections of his toast at a luncheon for the Carters.

For example, Lopez Portillo seemed to refer to last year's Energy Department veto of a privately negotiated U.S. purchase of Mexican natural gas when he told Carter:

"Among permanent, not casual neighbors, surprise moves and sudden deceit or abuse are poisonous fruits that sooner or later have a reverse effect."

Given the often-stormy history of U.S.-Mexican relations, the White House official said: "I suppose a certain amount of this is permissible for home consumption. I would hope they don't get carried away with this. It would not serve anyone's cause."

DONATION PRESENTED—A check for $1,500 from members of the John Ivey Smith Council of the Knights of Columbus, Greenville, was presented to the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission Wednesday night. The funds are to be used to purchase canoeing and camping equipment for outdoor recreation activities for the handicapped, a program sponsored by the Recreation and Parks Dept. Those taking part in the presentation ceremony are (left to right), Thomas Hanifer, Past Grand

Knight, Mrs. Dorothy Woole, chairman of the Commission, Frank Doyle, Grand Knight, and Bill Twine, coordinator of programs for Special Populations of the Recreation and Parks Dept. Following the check presentation, Director Boyd Lee and Mrs. Woole jointly presented Doyle and Hanifer a certificate of appreciation for outstanding support given by Knights of Columbus to handicapped programs. Wellcome School Gym Scene Of Vocational Fair On Wednesday

by REBECCA BUFFALOE
Reflector Staff Writer

Vocational educational students from Bethel Elementary, Wellcome Middle School and Greenville Christian Academy met in the Wellcome school gym Wednesday for the annual Career Day Fair.

The fair was held in observation of National Vocational Week, and included representatives from county institutions, businesses and industries.

Seventh and eighth grade students from the three schools were able to stop at tables set up by individual businesses and ask questions of company representatives.

William Zadeits of Carolina Leaf Company of Greenville was pleased with the outcome of the fair and the interest of the children.

"I think it's one of the best things I've seen in a long time," Zadeits stated. "It lets kids see things outside of school. The children really asked good questions."

Lynne Olmsted of the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce was "delighted" at the chance to talk with the children about the Chamber and the different opportunities offered within the organization.

"The children were very interested in the Chamber and very inquisitive, which gave me a chance to go into depth about our functions," said Olmsted. "One little boy said 'I saw you on television and your phone number is 752-4101. I almost fell out of my chair.'"

Occupational teacher Rachel Welborn of Bethel Elementary reported that her children felt the time was "well-spent" at the Wellcome fair.

"They came back and wrote papers on the fair," Mrs. Welborn stated. "The children were impressed with the variety of jobs and the helpful, outgoing representatives."

Mrs. Melody Relford, an eighth grade teacher at Greenville Christian Academy, said that displays set up by the Pitt County Sheriff Department Crime Lab, the Greenville Rescue Squad and the JROTC unit from North Pitt High School seemed to impress her children the most.

"The children are more knowledgeable as a result of the fair," said Mrs. Relford. "They stayed busy for an hour and a half while they were at Wellcome. I was impressed with the variety of jobs offered at the fair."

Officers of Wellcome's vocational education club served as monitors for the events, aiding company representatives and serving as guides for visiting children.

After serving as hosts for the event, Wellcome children in Mrs. Delores Little's vocational classes toured Pitt Technical Institute Thursday as an extension of the week-long observation.

Participating businesses, industries and institutions are as follows: Carolina Telephone Company, Daily Reflector, Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce, Pitt County Community Schools Program, ECU Medical School, Prep Shirt, Pitt County Mental Health Department, Pitt County Health Department, Carolina Leaf Company, North Pitt JROTC, Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service, Burroughs Wellcome, Greenville Utilities Commission, Beaufort Technical Institute, Pitt Technical Institute, North Carolina Department of Transportation, Greenville Rescue Squad, N.C. Forestry Service, North Pitt Vocational Department, Pitt County Sheriff Department Crime Lab, Air Force, Jim Martin, attorney, Blue Bell, Wachovia Bank and Trust, Easter Seals, Job Service, Highway Patrol and George Laws, energy control officer, Pitt County Schools.

'Far-Reaching' Talks Described By Rountree

The president of the Pitt chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference said in a prepared statement that he had talked with city officials regarding the chapter's grievances against the local Sanitation Department and the "negotiations were very far reaching."

Rountree, in discussing his position "in relation to the present crisis in Greenville and the sanitation workers," pointed out in his statement that he wanted "to see good working conditions out there for the men who I consider a special group of workers."

The Pitt SCLC, in January, issued a list of demands to the city calling for improvement in a variety of areas for workers of the Sanitation Department, including wage increases for garbage pick-up men.

City Manager Ed Wyatt said at that time that the city welcomed the opportunity for Public Works Director Mayo Allen "to talk with local officials of the SCLC to determine if problems exist and if they do, how to eliminate them."

In his statement this week, Rountree noted, "Just recently I have talked with the mayor of Greenville, Mr. Percy Cox, and other city officials, who are directly the persons who supervise these departments, where the concerns are—so I will not label the point of how concerned S.C.L.C. and myself as president of this chapter is."

The spokesman added, "The negotiations were very far reaching and did discuss other areas of concern to the S.C.L.C. However, we will take a wait and see stance waiting for the improvements promised, without threats from S.C.L.C. at this time of our support for a strike at the Sanitation Department. This I have informed Mr. Mayo Allen and the Mayor, Mr. Cox."

Rountree said that, "I think I have taken the right position on this question, and until the S.C.L.C. board meets, I will not deal anymore with the grievances of the Sanitation Department. I do hope that they continue to do a days work for a days pay."

Wyatt said this morning that the "city looks forward to working with our employees and resolving with them, through the Public Works Department, any potential problems, complaints, suggestions, different points of view."

Wyatt added, "Good employee relations involve two-way communications between supervisors and personnel."

Knitting Appeals To German Males

BY EDELGARD SIMON
HAMBURG, West Germany (UPI) — The young man in a corner seat of Hamburg's subway ignored the rush hour jostling around him. He paid no attention to two giggling girls, the fascinated matron or two disdainful businessmen watching him.

He concentrated instead on the dark brown llama pattern he was knitting into a beige sweater.

Anyone with an eye for knitwear could see it was an example of superior workmanship by one of a growing number of German men who have discovered knitting as a hobby.

Until recently most German men ranked knitting with pushing a baby carriage. No real man would be caught dead doing either.

The only exceptions were shepherds who whiled away lonely hours with their flocks by knitting heavy woolen socks and shawls and some old farmers sitting out the evenings of their lives knitting socks for the rest of the family.

But today, German male knitters usually are between 20 and 30 years of age and have progressed beyond socks and shawls to sweaters with complicated patterns, vests and cardigans, not only for themselves but often for their girlfriends.

Michael Platow, 25, who likes to whiz around town on his motorcycle and majors in mathematics at Hamburg University, says the mathematical challenge of knitting a sweater with a difficult diagonal pattern first attracted him.

"My only problem was figuring out how to enlarge the small size given in the directions to fit me," he recalls.

Despite his mathematical skills, his first sweater "... was too big for me. But the pregnant wife of a friend was very happy with it."

He has since completed two more sweaters that fit perfectly.

Martin Eckes, a 21-year old truck driver, says his needles fly while watching evening television. He specializes in sport sweaters and cardigans in heavy wool.

"I never use a pattern or any directions," says Eckes. "I just knit and, from time to time, I fit the piece to myself. If it seems wrong, I just undo it and start over."

Manfred Brauer, 38, started several years ago after spending a weekend helping a farmer shear his sheep. The farmer paid Brauer with fleece from two sheep, prompting Brauer to study spinning and weaving, build his own spinning wheel and loom and teach himself to use natural dyes.

Today he knits his own socks and sweaters and has woven several carpets. His most ambitious project was a suit he made himself with fabric woven on his hand-made loom.

Women who run shops selling yarns and knitting supplies report a marked increase in male customers. They say men generally ask for the best quality, pure wool yarns and prefer brown, grey and beige tones.

"I think men are far more courageous than my women customers in tackling a difficult project," said one shop owner. "The men know exactly what they want and if we don't have it they go elsewhere. They really do fantastic work."

Rarely do men ask the shopkeepers, most of them expert knitters, for help or advice.

"I did have one young man spend two days in my shop knitting a pair of mittens," says Karin Feddersen. "He did not know how to do the thumb."

Another storekeeper reports brisk business from male dancers and male staff at Hamburg's State Opera.

"I suppose they get bored when they have to wait during rehearsals and so they knit, mostly kneewarmers," she said. "But I know that some have done their own leotards."

ON YOUR SIDE IN CHICAGO

DEAR ABBY: Thanks, friend, but even a divinely inspired church can be somewhat less than divinely inspired in its use of language, according to John J. Henrietta of South Euclid, Ohio.

He, too, pointed out that although I was dead wrong, I was in good company.

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to I ALREADY BELIEVE, who wanted to know how to get rid of religious hucksters. But you were too gentle when you said, "Tell them you don't want to take up their valuable time."

Abby, their time is not wasted trying to get converts. It's part of their religious program to spend their time that way.

Why not say, "Please don't take up MY valuable time." It's more honest.

May I tell you how I got rid of a pair of religious salesmen? I got my Bible and turned to Luke 10:7, and read aloud that our Lord told His disciples: "Go not from house to house..."

I was never bothered again.

I ALREADY BELIEVE, TOO

DEAR ABBY: I have always admired you for admitting your errors and taking your lumps, but don't be so quick to knuckle under.

Having written "from whence" you apologized all over the place because the word "whence" means, "from what place, from what source, from what origin, etc." ... thus you have written, "from from what source."

No big mistake in my book. I have read "from whence" in the Roman Catholic Liturgy (Apostles' Creed): "He ascended into heaven, FROM WHENCE He shall come to judge the living and the dead."

DEAR ABBY: After 37 years of marriage, my husband walked out on me. I was a good and faithful wife, but he was not a good and faithful husband. In a way, I am relieved because I no longer have to put up with his lying, cheating and sadistic brutality.

Please tell young women to prepare themselves for some kind of job so they won't end up like me. I was trained for nothing, and have never worked outside my home.

I can't even draw Social Security on my own—only on my husband's earnings, and then not until he retires (which he doesn't plan to do until he's 70).

So here I am, 62, not able to work, trying to live on the $200 a month he has been giving me.

When he retires, he will get Social Security and a nice retirement from the university where he's been employed for many years.

I never thought this would happen to me. Sign me ...

WISED UP TOO LATE IN URBANA

DEAR ABBY: There is nothing you can do now about the shortsightedness of your past. But your experience might signal a warning to other women. (P.S. Don't quietly accept whatever your husband decides to give you. See a lawyer.)

I can't even draw Social Security on my own—only on my husband's earnings, and then not until he retires (which he doesn't plan to do until he's 70).

So here I am, 62, not able to work, trying to live on the $200 a month he has been giving me.

When he retires, he will get Social Security and a nice retirement from the university where he's been employed for many years.

I never thought this would happen to me. Sign me ...

WISED UP TOO LATE IN URBANA

DEAR ABBY: There is nothing you can do now about the shortsightedness of your past. But your experience might signal a warning to other women. (P.S. Don't quietly accept whatever your husband decides to give you. See a lawyer.)

DEAR ABBY: I have always admired you for admitting your errors and taking your lumps, but don't be so quick to knuckle under.

Having written "from whence" you apologized all over the place because the word "whence" means, "from what place, from what source, from what origin, etc." ... thus you have written, "from from what source."

No big mistake in my book. I have read "from whence" in the Roman Catholic Liturgy (Apostles' Creed): "He ascended into heaven, FROM WHENCE He shall come to judge the living and the dead."

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to I ALREADY BELIEVE, who wanted to know how to get rid of religious hucksters. But you were too gentle when you said, "Tell them you don't want to take up their valuable time."

Abby, their time is not wasted trying to get converts. It's part of their religious program to spend their time that way.

Why not say, "Please don't take up MY valuable time." It's more honest.

May I tell you how I got rid of a pair of religious salesmen? I got my Bible and turned to Luke 10:7, and read aloud that our Lord told His disciples: "Go not from house to house..."

I was never bothered again.

THIS WEEK'S DEM

Diplomatically, A Bad Week

In a shocking series of events, an ambassador from the United States has been murdered and another kidnapped.

Ambassador Adolph Dubs was kidnapped and killed in Afghanistan. In stormy Iran, where the religious leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini is apparently in control of the government, Ambassador William Sullivan and many others were reported taken hostage. They were later rescued by forces loyal to the Khomeini government.

It has been a tragic week for the United States' diplomatic corps. Danger has lurked for some time in Iran, dating back to the beginning of riots against the Shah which eventually drove him from the country. Since then, what government there was has attempted to protect Americans and other foreigners, and apparently the Khomeini government has been committed to protection.

Changing government by force invariably leads to a period of breakdown of authority, however, and it is rather obvious that Khomeini, with all his religious authority, does not have full control of the situation in Iran.

In Afghanistan the ambassador was apparently killed when police attacked the hotel where terrorists held him.

There seems to be little formal action the United States can take in either case. A break in diplomatic relations in either case would serve no purpose, since neither government initiated the original violence against our ambassadors.

American ambassadors and their staffs in troubled countries are never far from potential violence. Occasionally violence engulfs them, and every American ought to appreciate the risks they are taking.

Haggling Only Hampers Real Effort

There has been so much said and written about the competency tests administered North Carolina's eleventh graders that the subject itself begins to induce a nauseous effect.

What started out as a perfectly good idea of examining the results of the N.C. educational process on individual pupils, determining any weak points and then prescribing remedial steps, has been attacked, analyzed, rebutted, condemned, defended and derided from one end of the land to the other.

Let's now go back to the tests and follow through on the weak points they uncovered; bring our students' levels up so that the next competency test series makes the first one pay the dividends we wanted. Haggling will get us nowhere.

THIS AFTERNOON Advocate Of Merit Pay

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Measuring teacher performance, not continued blind acceptance that reduced classroom size, will solve educational problems, is one of the least discussed issues in North Carolina's public schools today.

"Professional educators, by and large, are going to fight this tooth and nail. They are going to insist that there is no fair and accurate way to measure a teacher's competence."

"I think they are wrong," says Larry Harding, a Charlotte television executive and member of the State Board of Education.

"Business and industry evaluate employees for pay purposes, and I believe education can do the same thing. On the face of it, it makes sense to limit the salary of the superior teacher to that of the marginal one," Harding believes. "It is, in fact, disgraceful to do so," he adds bluntly in a speech delivered recently at a district meeting of members of the N.C. School Boards Association.

Quiet Uproar

There has been scant public notice of Harding's outspoken criticism of the system, perhaps because the session took place in Albemarle; off the beaten track for news coverage. Perhaps Harding chose that setting for his remarks, rather than a more prominent forum, because he realizes full well—as he says in his own words—"Merit pay is so painfully controversial that some people won't even discuss it publicly. This is unfortunate — for people are never apt to decide an issue rightly as when they discuss it freely."

Zeroing in on lobbying now underway to further reduce classroom size, Harding pointed out that this is a priority of a study commission report to the State Board of Education. It is also high on the list of the N.C. Association of Educators who place that item as one of few educational suggestions on their list of legislative items which deal mostly with salary and fringe benefit improvements.

One legislative goal is to reduce pupil-teacher ratio at a cost of more than $100 million per year by 1983-85. "Where is the evidence that (this) will yield comparable educational benefits?," Harding wondered.

Push

That done, local school boards and the State Board should join to "summon public support for the implementation of a fair, equitable, workable system of competence pay for teachers across the state", Harding proposed.

Solving this critical pay problem for classroom teachers is the only way to weed out the bad and attract the good teachers, Harding insists. "We must pay ... for talent. And we need to find a way to recognize this talent and to reward it."

"In short, we are going to have to tread where we heretofore have dared not tread, and find a way to measure teacher competence," Harding said.

The day of reckoning on public accountability in the schools is at hand, Harding said. "We soon are going to have no choice but to evaluate for pay purposes. For we are well into an era of public accountability in all aspects of our society."

DR. IBRAHIM YAZDI The Quiet Revolutionary

By ROB WOOD

Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON, Texas (AP) — Two years ago Ibrahim Yazdi was a researcher at Baylor University in Texas, studying cancer and its causes. Now Ibrahim Yazdi is the man who told Americans huddling in the besieged U.S. Embassy in Iran that they were safe from attackers pounding at the door.

Yazdi, who for 10 years at the medical school here was known as a man of quiet mien, today holds the title deputy prime minister for revolutionary affairs in Iran's new government.

Much is uncertain in Iran today, and little could be learned about how Yazdi went from researcher and professor to leader in a movement — headed by the Moslem Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini — that managed to overthrow Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and his well-equipped army.

His daughter-in-law, Roya Yazdi, said simply: "He was asked to help the Ayatollah Khomeini and he accepted for the people. That is the kind of man he is."

Dr. Harris Busch, head of pharmacology at Baylor, said of the Iranian native: "He was a quiet, hardworking fellow. He was a person everyone liked. He broadened his knowledge in cancer research while here and held a Ph.D. in biochemistry. He was a good, laboratory colleague. He was sensitive and a man of integrity."

Yazdi held a bachelor of science degree and a doctorate of philosophy from the University of Tehran when he came to Baylor in August 1967.

He lived here until July 1977 and was an assistant research professor of pathology and a research instructor of pharmacology at the Baylor College of Medicine and was associated with the Veterans Administration Hospital in Houston. When he returned to

DUBIOUS BASE FOR A SOLID GOVERNMENT!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK How Not To Help Them

WASHINGTON — Somewhere within the mazes of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the little gnomes who write regulations are working up new guidelines for feeding the old folks. The effect, on down the line, could be the death of one of the most appealing social services in the nation — the voluntary effort known as meals on wheels.

This is a melancholy story, but it is so sadly typical of what goes on in Washington that it bears examination. You will find no villains here; you will find only people wanting to do good. You will also find a few little flaws of self-interest and perhaps some understandable desires to protect one's turf. It all adds up to the Washington disease.

The story goes back about 25 years, to the time when Meals-On-Wheels in America was established as a non-profit, all volunteer service to deliver hot meals to shut-ins. At the time of some 1977 Senate hearings, it was estimated that a thousand groups now are engaged in this humane work. Most of the groups are quite small, looking after no more than 25 or 30 recipients, but if the numbers are small, the loving care is large.

In the nature of things, it became impossible for professionals in health and welfare to pass up so fine an opportunity to get into the act. In 1972, Congress provided for a congregate nutrition program for low-income old persons. In hundreds of nutrition centers around the country, many thousands of recipients now gather for a hot meal five days a week.

In 1978, not content with the congregate program, Congress amended the Older Americans Act to provide tax funding for local meals on wheels. In a publication just

To the editor:

In regard to your editorial on the merger of the Greenville City Schools with the Pitt County Schools, I thought your readers might be interested in at least one reaction.

At the request of the two school boards, a feasibility study on consolidation was conducted during the spring of 1978 by the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction. The results of this survey were presented to a joint meeting of the boards in October. Since that time, both groups have discussed at length the effect that a merged system might have on the education of our children. A joint committee of the two boards will be appointed in the next few weeks to work out a formal plan of consolidation. What you refer to as "footdragging," I would call an essential study of something that will affect the students and taxpayers of Pitt County for generations to come.

You mention that the "proposed bond issue for school improvements is being held up by the failure of the two boards to develop a merger plan." The issues are in no way related, except in the minds of some of the commissioners. The current request would be spent the same way by a combined unit as it would by the separate boards. Consolidation would not change our needs. Both boards of education have passed a resolution in favor of a county-wide bond referendum, but the issue has been stalled by the County Commissioners. The citizens of Pitt County should be allowed to decide if the capital outlay portion of their school budget should come from current taxes or through a bond issue.

40 Years Ago Today

February 15, 1939

The question "What is a newspaper?" has never been legally answered in North Carolina. But a bill offered by Senator Tom Gold and now pending before his judiciary committee, is attempting to supply an answer.

This bill, if enacted into law, will void advertisements of legal notices in papers which have not been published at least once a week for 51 of the 52 weeks immediately preceding the first advertisement. Other requirements are that a paper must have second class mailing privilege and have a regular subscription list. No stated number of subscriptions and no fixed size of paper is required.

The bill is sponsored by the State Press Association and is designed to weed out the fly-by-night sheets that spring up just in time to work political pull and get publication of tax lists and other public printing and then fold up and quit.

Strength For Today

IS DEMOCRACY ALWAYS RIGHT?

"The voice of the people is the voice of God." In the past this statement has often been made by enthusiastic but unthinking advocates of democracy. Are the people always right?

It was the citizenship of Athens which condemned the great philosopher Socrates to death. It was the crowd which demanded the crucifixion of Jesus. Lynching has always been the work of a furious mob, and the community has usually agreed wholeheartedly with the mob.

Obviously the crowd is often as wrong as the individual. But a democratic government is one which operates under law, and this can at least stem if not stop unruly elements and disruptive policies in the community.

But like all human institutions, democracy is far from perfect. It often operates inefficiently and fails to offer practical solutions to problems. But even so, as one cynic, it is the least bad form of government.

Seers Peer At Coming Decade

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — With the immediate future of the 1979 economy hidden in confusion and uncertainty, you soon will find the seers turning their telescopes instead to the decade of the 1980s.

Some already have. A University of Pennsylvania group has published what it calls its "Ten-Year Economic Forecast: Less Optimistic." And Morgan Guaranty has issued "Decade of Promise — Or Problems?"

Why, you might ask, should we listen to a 10-year forecast when we can't seem to be able to deal with the remaining months of 1979?

For hope, perhaps. The Morgan analyses offers the "reasonable" expectation of median family income exceeding $21,000 by 1990, measured in today's dollar, or about 20 percent higher than now.

A more substantial explanation is that while none can say what the 1980s will bring, it still is possible to study the basic ingredients of growth, and thus determine the decade's potential.

Morgan is more optimistic than Wharton Economic Forecasting, the U. of Penn. group. Neither sees a boom, but neither foresees a bust. Both see the potential for a better decade than the 70s.

What constitutes better? More real takehome pay, less inflation, less unemployment, a stronger dollar.

Both see labor force quality improving. It should grow less than in the 70s, because of two decades of low birth rates, and it should be more mature, more experienced, more reliable, more productive.

George R. Schink of Wharton expects that unemployment will fall to a 4 percent to 5 percent range, roughly 1 to 2 percentage points lower than the current rate. But will that mean much greater productivity?

Both Morgan and Wharton tend to think so, both projecting annual rates of just under 2 percent, compared with only seven-tenths of 1 percent during the 1970s, but still below the 2.3 percent of the 1960s.

Restraining the improvement, says Schink, will be a continuation of sluggish research and development expenditures, uncertainty because of higher energy prices, and requirements of anti-pollution measures.

Real growth — expansion with inflation excluded — is expected by Wharton to range between 2.7 percent and 3.2 percent a year, and by Morgan to average 3.3 percent, compared with a bit over 3 percent in the 1970s.

Wharton sees inflation running at a 5 percent to 7 percent annual rate. Morgan doesn't specify a rate, but it's other assumptions tend to support an improvement from last year's 7.4 percent.

In all, the U.S. potential seems strong to the forecasters, especially if certain problems, such as reasonable energy costs, can be cleared up. And prospects for even stonger economic conditions seem to exist.

man he is."
Roya Yazdi, the daughter-in-law, said the family had spent the morning listening to radio reports from Iran. "Those who took over the U.S. Embassy must be communists," she said. "They are not Moslems and they're not supporters of Khomeini."

Later the family reached Yazdi in Tehran by telephone, she said, adding, "He is all right and very, very happy."

She said Yazdi "loves his family and his country. When things of this importance happen, he believes all people are important. He is a very devout Moslem and he is very devoted to his family."

Busch said that Yazdi spent much of his time at the laboratory doing research during his years at Baylor. Roya Yazdi said, "He never had time for what you would call a real hobby. He spend most of his spare time reading books or talking to students from foreign countries."

Texas, with its oil technology, has many Iranian students — federal immigration officials estimate about 5,600 this school year — but it could not be learned how much of Yazdi's discussions with students were on Iranian politics.

His daughter-in-law recalled that when the troubles began in Iran, set off by an anti-shah movement, Yazdi had said "he didn't know whether to cry or to laugh."

Roya is married to Yazdi's oldest son, Khalil, who recently graduated from the University of Houston with a degree in economics and plans to study international law.

Yazdi's wife could not talk to reporters because she had a fever and cold, Roya Yazdi said. She noted the family may go to Tehran to visit but the children — aged 6 to 23 — want to stay in the United States.

The daughter-in-law was evasive to specific questions about Yazdi's return to Iran last year but said: "He left because he wanted to help the people of Iran and he was with Khomeini."

day. About half that is produced domestically, including Alaska and offshore fields. About 45 percent comes from foreign countries other than Iran, mainly Saudi Arabia.

Experts say the cutoff of oil from Iran is potentially as serious as the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo, especially if the flow of crude oil from Iran does not resume within several months.

The loss of Iran as a source of oil means a lack of reserve oil that might be used in the case of an emergency — such as the oilfield fire in Saudi Arabia two years ago. Deputy Energy Secretary John O'Leary has likened the situation to "a dynamite train heading toward a fire down the tracks."

and nutritionally acceptable. In the general antiseptic, no germs of voluntarism could survive.

Yes, the volunteer groups could spurn the federal money. Some of them will spurn it. But the power and wealth of tax-funded programs are almost impossible to combat. In place of a great little volunteer program, we will get a great big federal program. This is doing good? Says who?

Soybean Has Future As 'Astrobean'

By WILLIAM O'BRIEN
PRINCESS ANNE, Md. (UPI) — The prospect of cultivating soybeans in space — "astrobeans," if you will — to feed future astronauts has researchers at the University of Maryland-Eastern Shore looking for a way to launch their project.

The researchers want to send their soybean experiment on the inaugural U.S. space shuttle flight, scheduled for later this year, but there's no room, according to Dr. William A. Lynk, head of the research team.

"We would like to be on the first flight if we could, but we don't have a reservation," Lynk said.

Nevertheless, experimentation with space-age soybeans is continuing at the UMES Soybean Institute. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is backing the project with an initial 18-month grant of $40,000.

The UMES researchers got NASA's attention by submitting a proposal for growing "astrobeans" in an artificial outer-space environment. Their hope is to get 25 plants, in an hydroponic (liquid) environment using artificial light, to grow to maturity in 70 days — about a little more than two-thirds the normal time needed.

Soybeans, according to Lynk, were chosen for the project because they contain substantial protein and some fat, two basic food items that will be needed for long-term nutrition in space. UMES also chose soybeans because of extensive research already done by the college's Soybean Institute.

The institute has started the hydroponic environment experiment at its facilities on Maryland's Eastern Shore. But a space experiment would be of immense help, said Lynk.

"One of the things we want to look at is how these experiments we're conducting on earth will behave under zero gravity. We want to see how weightlessness affects plant growth, shape and nutrient uptake," he said.

He noted the results of such a flight may prove there is no need for artificial gravity for future space agriculture.

Lynk has the soybeans' first flight all planned.

A small plastic container will house the soybean plants. The tank-like setup will provide a completely automatic and artificial environment for the plant growth, including simulated sunlight and liquid nutrients.

If soybeans can be successfully grown in space, researchers estimate that four more years would be needed to come up with a plant strain that would produce the highest food yield in the least amount of time.

A separate effort, under the direction of Dr. Jagmohan Joshi, is working with about three dozen varieties of fast-growing soybeans imported from Canada, Lynk said.

After the most suitable type of bean is selected, Joshi, a plant geneticist, and his team will manipulate the genetic traits to create the perfect "astrobean" strain.

"We're trying to develop a very early-maturing variety of soybean that can be grown in a space habitat," said Joshi. "We have found that six varieties can mature in 70 days on earth, although the normal growth time is 108 days."

Joshi said the institute is trying to develop a soybean plant that can provide food for both man and animals, as well as produce a great number of seeds for its size — possibly keys to feeding astronauts involved in protracted space exploration.

Main Worry Is About Selves

NEW YORK (UPI) — Who and what were Americans most concerned about this past year? Overwhelmingly about themselves.

Personal problems such as how to cope with skyrocketing prices, how to reduce their taxes, their heating bills, how to sell their houses without a broker and how to get scholarship aid for college costs were some of the things of high personal concern.

"Even a general subject such as women's liberation was personalized — the majority of the requests came from women themselves," says Virginia Stenberg, who heads Encyclopaedia Britannica Library Research Center.

Abortion-Funding Foes Appeal To Lawmakers

By SHARON BOND
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Opponents of state funding for abortions Wednesday urged legislators to stop funding mass murders and approve a bill that would end state support for the operation.

But proponents urged the legislators to kill the bill since it would deprive poor women of a choice with unwanted pregnancies.

Several hundred people spoke on both sides of the issue at a public hearing held by a joint appropriations committee.

In 1978 after Congress discontinued federal funds for abortions, the state began providing money to reimburse low income women for elective abortions. The proposed budget for the next biennium contains $2 million to continue the State Abortion Fund.

Opponents of the funding likened it to spending tax dollars on murder.

"I ask that you cut off funds for mass murder," said the Rev. Curtis Carrington of the New Calvary Baptist Church in Greensboro. "It's not just a religious or political or even racial issue. It's an issue of what is right and what is wrong. We all know murder is wrong."

But Dr. J.F. Hulka, a gynecologist at North Carolina Memorial Hospital, told legislators they should continue the funding in order to give indigent patients a choice about unwanted pregnancies. He said N.C. Memorial is a state referral hospital for all indigent patients, and that he performs abortions there regularly.

"I am here today on behalf of our patients asking that this legislature make the same sound decision today that they made in 1967 when abortions were made legal by this legislature, and again in 1978 when this legislature provided funds for poor patients."

The Citizens Against Tax Funded Abortions sought to strengthen the opposition argument by showing slides of developing fetuses and their remains discarded in a trash can after abortion. They likened abortion to the murder of Jews at Dachau during World War II.

Although proponents didn't have any visuals as graphic as the slide show, attorney Sharon Thompson of Raleigh said they felt their arguments were heeded.

Ms. Thompson, a member of the North Carolina Coalition for Choice, said pro forces counted enough members of the joint appropriations committee on their side to ensure the funds will be kept in the budget.

In other legislative developments Wednesday:

Legislative Sessions
A proposal to amend the state constitution to set up annual legislative sessions and limit their length faced strong opposition in a House committee. The Constitutional Amendments Committee sent the measure to a subcommittee for study.

Sponsored by Rep. Casper Holroyd, D-Wake, the proposal would write into the constitution a provision requiring annual sessions. It would limit sessions in odd-numbered years to 120 calendar days and those in even-numbered years to 60 days.

North Carolina now has no constitutional limit on its legislative session length.

Open Meetings
A subcommittee of the House Judiciary III Committee reached agreement on numerous amendments to the open meetings bill and has sent the bill back to the full committee for concurrence.

Some 13 amendments to the bill — which is largely a compromise between press demands and those of groups representing local governments — were either killed or rewritten to please both sides, according to Rep. Jim Morgan, D-Guilford.

Morgan said he hoped the bill would reach the House floor Friday.

Loans
A measure that would lift the 10 percent interest ceiling on home loans offered by stock-owned savings and loan associations, which have no limit on mortgage rates.

Sponsor Sen. Jim Garrison, D-Stanly, said the bill was needed to encourage more home loans.

Re-employment
A bill was filed in the House that would require employers to rehire employees who are members of the North Carolina National Guard and are called out for duty.

The bill, filed for introduction Thursday by Rep. John Hunt, D-Cleveland, would require the guard to be rehired if still qualified for his previous position.

If he is not qualified, the employer would be required to put him in a position with similar seniority, status and salary.

However, the bill contains a qualifier making it void if the employer's circumstances make it unreasonable to rehire the person.

Vehicle Forfeit
Rep. Aaron Plyler, D-Union, filed a bill in the House that would require vehicles, including boats and airplanes, that are used to transport stolen goods to be forfeited to the state.

Plyler, a contractor, also filed a bill that would exempt from state sales tax personal property purchased by a contractor for use in a foreign country.

Plyler said the purpose of the bill was to encourage commerce now moving through out-of-state ports to flow through North Carolina ports.

Catching Up

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (AP) — The consumer price index for Southern cities increased 66.4 percent over the last seven years, compared to a 55.6 percent rise for cities in the Northeast, the Southern Growth Policies Board said Wednesday.

"The fact that consumer prices in the South are catching up to those in the North is an inevitable, if unfortunate, consequence of the South's rapid economic growth," said Bernard L. Weinstein, who conducted a study of consumer price figures for the board. "Within a few years, cost-of-living differentials between regions will be virtually nonexistent."

The study of figures compiled by the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics since 1972 also showed higher price increases for the North-Central and Western regions than for the Northeast.

The study showed that all major cities in the Northeast except Pittsburgh have had below-average consumer-price increases since 1972.

The major city with the sharpest increase — 76 percent — was Houston, the study said. New York was the major city with the lowest rise, recording a 53.4 percent increase.

To Appeal Bank Robbery Conviction

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Two men who stole thousands of dollars by stuffing plastic bags into night deposit vaults at banks across the state have been sentenced to 15 years each for bank larceny and conspiracy.

But attorneys for Graham Franklin Anderson, 46, of Atlanta, and Claude F. Cooley, 47, of Youngville, said they would appeal the verdict. Both men have denied the charges, and their attorneys said there was no evidence to connect them to the crimes.

A federal court jury convicted the men Wednesday.

Prosecutors said the men weighted the plastic bags with rolls of pennies and attached them so they would not be noticed. The men were connected to the thefts after Anderson's fingerprint was found on two rolls of pennies in a night deposit vault in Mount Airy. One of Cooley's fingerprints was found on a night depository in Charlotte.

Investigators believe the two used the same method to steal at least $120,000 in cash and $250,000 in checks and securities from 22 banks in North Carolina, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama and Florida from the summer of 1976 through February 1977.

The men were indicted for the theft of $31,383 from the Northwestern Bank in Lenoir on Dec. 11, 1976. They were charged with conspiracy to use the trapping device to take money from banks in New Bern, Charlotte, Statesville, Mountain Airy, Shelby and Lenoir.

Sunday School

Honor Members

WINTERVILLE — The Winterville Free Will Baptist Church Sunday School celebrated heart Sunday by honoring several of its members.

Candy was presented to Mrs. Minnie Hines, W. J. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Tyree Stox, Randolph Harris and Mrs. Joyce Brooks.

Superintendent Ron Braxton and Bob Futrell, minister, noted the attendance was over the 100 percent goal.

We proudly salute

Robert A. Wicks

"Leading New Agent"

We congratulate Robert A. Wicks, Special Representative in our Greenville Regional Agency. As a result of his outstanding record of production during his first two calendar years with our Company, Bob Wicks has earned recognition as "Leading New Agent", 1978.

With sales of new life insurance protection totalling more than $2,610,200, Bob Wicks had the largest volume of sales among all new agents of Jefferson Standard Life in 32 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico. He ranked in 17th place among the Company's entire field force of more than 1100 agents, coast-to-coast. This outstanding record earned him membership in the Presidents Cabinet, the top honor club for our Company's multi-million dollar producers.

We know that Bob Wicks' many friends and policyholders will want to join with us in congratulating him on his excellent record of achievement.

HEW Plans UNC Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top officials in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare plan to visit North Carolina next week and tour eight of the University of North Carolina system's 16 campuses.

Roger D. Sharpe, a former N. C. state senator working at HEW on a fellowship, said Wednesday Mary Berry, assistant secretary of HEW for education, and David S. Tatel, director of the department's Office for Civil Rights, will spend several days in the state "to see first-hand what the situation is" in the continuing controversy over desegregation of the UNC system.

Sharpe said the visit is being made at the invitation of Dr. Charles Lyons Jr., chancellor of predominantly black Fayetteville State University. Lyons led a delegation of the UNC system's five black chancellors to Washington last week to meet with Tatel.

HEW Secretary Joseph Califano said last Friday that the latest in a series of desegregation plans submitted by UNC was unacceptable to HEW.

A court order gives both sides until March 14 to reach agreement on a plan. If agreement is not reached, HEW can begin withholding some $89 million it gives the UNC system annually.

The issue has boiled down to what HEW considers as unnecessary duplication of programs involving several campuses. HEW contends that white students would attend traditionally black schools, and black students would attend white schools, if the duplication were eliminated.

A UNC study of program duplication, submitted to HEW in December, concluded there was no unnecessary duplication. The black chancellors told HEW representatives last week they were in agreement with that conclusion.

Sharpe said next week's HEW visitors also will include public affairs director Colleen O'Conner of the Office of Civil Rights and two HEW lawyers.

The group's schedule calls for a visit to the North Carolina A&T State University campus in Greensboro Monday afternoon; the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, and Winston-Salem State University, on Tuesday; and N. C. State University in Raleigh, N. C. Central University in Durham, and UNC-Chapel Hill, on Wednesday.

On Thursday, the group is to meet in Chapel Hill with William Friday, president of the UNC system. Visits are to be made Friday to Elizabeth City State and Fayetteville State universities.

Police List 2 Collisions

An estimated $2,450 property damage resulted from two traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Heaviest damage, according to investigators, resulted from a 3:15 p.m. collision on Tenth Street near the College Hill Drive intersection involving vehicles driven by Kemp Roscoe Harris of Winterville and Jimmy Ray Dooley of 1711 Treemont Dr. Damage was estimated at $900 to the Harris truck and $700 to the Dooley car.

Sandra Carter Hazelwood of Route 1, Tarboro, was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 12:25 a.m. mishap on Memorial Drive, North of the Arlington Street intersection.

Officers reported the Hazelwood car collided with a vehicle driven by Linda Cale Nichols of Route 6, Greenville, resulting in an estimated $500 damage to the Nichols car and $350 damage to the Hazelwood auto.

County-Wide Poster Winner

Angela Paige, a fourth grader at Elmhurst Elementary School, Greenville, has been named county-wide winner of the Dental Health Week Poster Contest.

The contest was sponsored by the East Central Dental Society and was judged by a committee composed of school nurses and the dental hygienist from the Pitt County Health Department. Miss Paige will receive an engraved gold trophy and a tee shirt bearing the words, "Love Your Teeth."

Trophies and tee shirts went to first-place winners in each of the schools which had children to enter: Todd Sutton of H. B. Sugg; Tommy Kupec of A. G. Cox; Megan Huber of South Greenville; Trudy Coggins of G. R. Whitfield; and Christy Garrison of Elmhurst.

Alumni Sponsor Friday Dance

The Pitt Co. Chapter of the N. C. A & T State University Alumni Association will sponsor its annual "Sweetheart Disco" Friday from 8 p. m. to midnight in the West Greenville Center.

Admission is by ticket only. Tickets may be obtained from any Aggie. Proceeds will be forwarded to the A & T Alumni Association to be used for scholarships.

Tournament Is Rescheduled

The Greenville Recreation and Parks Department has rescheduled the Basketball One-On-One Tournament.

The tournament will be held on Friday, Feb. 16 at 7 p.m. at South Greenville and Elm Street Gyms. Finals are to be held Saturday, Feb. 17 at 9 a.m. at Elm Street Gym.

Rescheduling was necessitated by the inclement weather of last weekend.

Ervin Avers Deficits Dishonest

By DOUG WILLIS
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Former U.S. Sen. Sam Ervin says federal budget deficits are

"fundamentally dishonest," and it will take a constitutional convention to force Congress to balance the budget.

The 82-year-old Ervin, who served 20 years in the Senate and chaired the Watergate investigating committee before his retirement in 1974, endorsed the constitutional convention in a videotaped message today to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s political funds paid for the Ervin filming and telephone hookup. Jarvis was to appear later in person. He previously debated Brown, agreeing with the goal of a balanced budget but saying he would support a constitutional convention only if Congress failed to act.

He was to answer questions from committee members via a telephone hookup to his Morganton, N.C., law office. A resolution that could make California the 27th state calling for a constitutional convention is pending before the committee for a vote by the end of the month.

Congress must call such a convention if 34 states request one. Fees and supporters of the constitutional convention were rolling out their big guns today — Ervin in favor and Proposition 13 co-author Howard Jarvis in opposition.

"I think it's necessary for the state to call for a constitutional convention to submit an amendment to balance the budget" because there are too many pressures on Congress to continue deficit spending, Ervin said in the message recorded earlier this week.

"There are too many demands from too many constituents that enjoy deficit financing because it enables them to get a whole lot of money out of an empty federal treasury for nothing."

Ervin also said he is convinced that a constitutional convention can be limited to budget issues so it would not stray into amendments that might limit civil liberties.

"I think it is not only important but absolutely essential for the United States to have a balanced federal budget. Deficit financing is fundamentally dishonest," Ervin said.

At stake before the 21-member committee were two tightly intertwined issues. One was whether California should join in the formal request for a constitutional convention, and the other involved Brown's personal political fortunes.

The 40-year-old governor, who says he is thinking about challenging President Carter in the Democratic primaries next year, endorsed the proposed convention in his inaugural address last month, and has put a considerable part of his political reputation on the line pushing for approval by the California Legislature.

Brown has positioned himself as a leader of the campaign for a constitutional convention, which gives him a potentially powerful forum for his presidential ambitions, and a stance from which to criticize Carter's deficit budgets as a cause of inflation.

But failure to deliver his own state into the pro-convention column could damage Brown's credibility as a leader.

Regulation-Changes On Tobacco Are Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Changes in federal regulations governing tobacco farmers have been proposed to tighten marketing quota programs for flue-cured and burley tobacco and "discourage farmers from over-producing," the Agriculture Department said Wednesday.

Stewart N. Smith, associate administrator of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said one proposed amendment "would cancel the provision allowing storage of producer carryover tobacco through marketing agents" beginning with the 1979 crop.

"This carryover provision has stimulated the production of excess tobacco and has put a greater strain on the limited processing facilities during the marketing season," he said.

Under another proposed change, flue-cured producers would be limited to planting no more than 110 percent of their effective acreage allotments if they agree not to harvest the four lower leaves, which are of poorer quality. The current practice allows farmers to plant up to 120 percent of allotments under the four-leaf provision.

Smith said that in 1978, farmers "generally found that only 10 percent additional acreage was required to offset reduced yields resulting from not harvesting the four lower leaves." Another provision affecting flue-cured growers would set May 1 as the final date to file requests for lease and transfer of farm marketing quotas, except when late filing is beyond control of the producer.

Approvals for lease and transfer of quotas could be approved after June 14, provided "certain specified conditions" are met.

Also, flue-cured producers who plant tobacco in excess of their farm acreage allotment would not be eligible to lease and transfer quotas after June 14.

Proposed changes affect both burley and flue-cured producers. They would require farmers to file reports of tobacco on hand at the end of the marketing season and require supplemental reports from dealers and buyers to cover tobacco acquired by them that was not included in previous seasonal reports.

A proposal applying only to burley growers provides that "with some exceptions, a farm not be allowed to transfer a quota both to it and from it in the same year."

Officials said further information about the proposals can be obtained from state and county offices of ASCS.

Public comment on the proposals can be sent until Feb. 28 to: Acting Director, Production Adjustment Division, USDA-ASCS, Box 2415, Washington, D.C. 20013.

Kluxers Offer Patrol Streets

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Ku Klux Klansmen will patrol New Orleans streets for Mardi Gras if city policemen follow through on strike threats, a Klan leader has warned, although he said, "Most of our people will not be armed."

The 30 to 40 "citizen patrols" would not make arrests unless they see someone being physically attacked, said David Duke, leader of a small faction called the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. Otherwise, he said, patrols will call the police station if they spot lawbreakers. Policemen staged a 40-hour strike last weekend and have threatened to strike Friday if the city does not meet their contract demands.

Associated Press
If today felt like the first day of spring in North Carolina, there was good reason. Warmer air streamed into the state, borne by southerly breezes that were expected to send the day's high temperatures into the 60s.

Low readings during the night ranged in the 30s to around 40.

The warmup will be short-lived. Cold air will be flowing back into North Carolina by Friday. The renewed chill will be felt in most places Friday afternoon and temperatures will plunge into the teens and 20s by Saturday morning.

Wednesday was rather cloudy and cool over much of the state, although warmer air arrived during the afternoon in the southwest. The temperature at Asheville and Canton climbed to 54 and Charlotte recorded a high of 52 degrees. In the northeast part of the state high temperatures only reached into the middle and upper 30s.

A few snowflakes were seen in the northern counties and there were some snow flurries in the mountains.

Likely Choice As Chancellor

PEMBROKE, N.C. (AP) — A Pembroke native who is currently dean at Temple University in Philadelphia is apparently the top candidate for the post of chancellor of Pembroke State University, sources said Wednesday.

Sources at the university said Dr. Joseph B. Oxendine emerged as the number one choice Tuesday when a 13-member selection committee met in closed meeting to recommend candidates for the post.

The selection committee will present its recommendations to Pembroke State's board of trustees Friday. The board will then forward at least two names to William C. Friday, president of the University of North Carolina, who will make the final selection.

Oxendine, 48, is presently dean of the College of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance at Temple University.

Dr. English Jones announced last year he will retire from the chancellor's post this June.

Likes Insurance Plan From N.C.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A congressional attorney Wednesday said proposed changes in North Carolina's life insurance regulations are more acceptable to his subcommittee than model legislation recommended by the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

Jay Shaffer praised state Insurance Commissioner John Ingram and his staff for taking steps to strengthen North Carolina's regulations. Shaffer was one of three witnesses from the Federal Trade Commission who testified Wednesday in hearings to determine whether state regulations on life insurance solicitation and life insurance replacement should be strengthened.

"There is no question in my mind that the North Carolina-proposed regulation is better by far than the NAIC-proposed regulation," Shaffer said. Ingram and his staff favor strengthening the rules so people buying life insurance will have more information before deciding to make a purchase.

The staff proposal calls for a rate of return disclosure and a buyer's guide to draw attention to the importance of shopping around for the best policy.

Shaffer said during recent hearings in Washington that many consumers do not have adequate information before they buy life insurance, and that their decisions often depend on which agency calls them first.

Shaffer said his subcommittee will probably recommend federal regulations unless other states follow North Carolina and some 20 other states and develop tougher life insurance regulations.

Sales Gains By Big Automakers

DETROIT (AP) — Higher new car sales cars by General Motors and Ford offset a drop at Chrysler and enabled the Big Three U.S. automakers to post early February sales gains that were up 15.7 percent from a year ago, auto industry spokesmen say.

GM said 129,363 sales were made during the first 10 days of the month, up 22.6 percent from last year's 105,544. At Ford, sales of 56,294 were up 10 percent from 51,160 a year ago. Chrysler Corp. reported deliveries of 22,109, off 3.1 percent from 22,819 last year. For the Big Three, sales of 207,766 vehicles topped last year's 179,523, when heavy snows blocked deliveries to dealers.

Ashes Of Maria Callas 'Missing'

VERONA, Italy (AP) — An urn containing the ashes of opera star Maria Callas has disappeared from a Paris cemetery, says her ex-husband, Giovanni Battista Meneghini.

Meneghini said Wednesday that Jacqueline Loiseau, a close friend of the diva, told him the urn had been removed from the Pere Lachaise cemetery.

The city of Paris confirmed to Ms. Loiseau the urn was no longer there but explained it had been removed sometime in January 1978 at the request of the Callas family, Meneghini said.

"I find the whole thing mysterious," the 83-year-old Italian industrialist said. In Paris, cemetery officials referred all queries to the director, who was not immediately available.

The New York-born soprano died after a heart attack in Paris on Sept. 16, 1977, at the age of 53.

Stock And Market Reports

Hogs
RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The overall trend on the North Carolina hog market today was steady to .25 higher. Wilson, 55.50; Rocky Mount, unreported; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Chadbourne, Ayden, Pine Level, Laurinburg and Benson, closed; Salisbury, 51.00; Spivey's Corner, 53.50; and Kinston reported.

Poultry
RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina F.O.B. dock broiler market was firm, supplies moderate, demand good, weights desirable. The dock weighted average price for this week is 48.17 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,450,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated today on worries over higher oil prices and continued turmoil in Iran.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off by 3.64 at noon at 826.14. Losers led gainers by about 2-1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Big Board volume trailed off to 9.42 million shares in the first two hour of trading from 11.59 million shares by noon the day before.

In the day's economic news, Abu Dhabi and Qatar said they increased crude oil prices by about 7 percent in the wake of worldwide shortages of crude oil caused by the cessation of Iranian petroleum production.

The price move was not unexpected on Wall Street, said MKI Securities analyst Charles Jensen. But the increase "created some nervousness among investors who didn't quite expect it at this point," he said.

The Federal Reserve reported industrial production rose by .1 percent last month, a slowdown from December's .6 percent gain. Business inventories gained by .6 percent in December, the Commerce Department said, following a 1.1 percent gain a month earlier.

Northwest Airlines was off 3/4 in active trading at 17 1/2, and United Airlines owner UAL Inc. dropped 3/4 to 24 1/2. AT&T was up 1/4 at 64 1/2. Financial companies were lower, with Citicorp down 1/4 at 23 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, Tubos de Acero de Mexico, the producer of steel pipe, was off 1 to 17 1/2.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index dropped .19 to 55.23; at the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .15 at 162.01.

Taiwan Sets Up 'Agency'

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Taiwan announced today the establishment of an agency to handle future relations with the United States, and said those relations "will have the qualities of officiality."

Dr. James Soong, chief of the government information office, said Taiwan was creating the Coordination Council for North American Affairs to act as the "counterpart to the American Institute in Taiwan."

Washington established the Institute to handle American interests in Taiwan after it broke diplomatic relations with Nationalist China and established ties with Communist China on Jan. 1.

Taiwan balked for a while on setting up a counterpart agency, saying relations with Washington had to be on a government-to-government basis.

But the announcement today apparently sidestepped the government-to-government demand by insisting future relations still would be on the official level.

Soong also said all treaties and agreements with the United States "will remain in full force."

Washington has said it will continue all pacts except for the 1953 mutual defense treaty which will be terminated next year.

Shah, Empress Move To Rabat

MARRAKECH, Morocco (AP) — Deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi of Iran and Empress Farah left their temporary home in exile here today for the capital of Rabat where they will move into a new residence.

The shah and his wife arrived here Jan. 22, six days after they fled Iran, and have remained in virtual seclusion in a government guest house in the palm groves on the outskirts of the city 200 miles from Rabat.

Sources in the former Iranian ruler's entourage said the imperial couple planned to move into the Dar es Salaam (House of Peace) Palace reserved for visiting foreign chiefs of state in Rabat.

proposal purposes, as the two areas are near each other; the West Meadowbrook recreational area lies within the flood plain and upkeep of anything placed in that area would be expensive to maintain and subject to flood conditions; the present direction in tennis courts is toward tennis centers rather than scattered tennis courts in various neighborhoods; acquisition of additional land at Greenfield Terrace is a more pressing matter than additional facility construction at this time; extensive bus service now makes transportation to recreation sites across the river much more readily accessible to those living north of the river; and a belief that other sources of funds are available for placing playground equipment at school sites.

Also, Lee mentioned that development plans for the 338 acre River Park in the Meadowbrook area call for a building near the entrance which could double in evening hours as a meeting facility for the community.

One of the major considerations, Lee noted, is the rising costs of maintenance and operation of facilities, with the resultant need to think seriously about making wider use of existing facilities as opposed to constructing new facilities.

On the renovation of lights project at Guy Smith Stadium, the commissioners voted to authorize Lee to proceed with an alternative system of improvement prior to the opening of the baseball season in May. This would be done through the use of installing new type of light bulbs that can replace the old type without the expense of rewiring, replacing light fixtures or poles.

Lee explained that the lighting system, designed in 1937, is inadequate, and he estimates it will take about $4,000 to cover the cost of bulb replacing. Commissioners agreed to permit Lee to make an effort to locate this amount from within the current budget.

Furthermore, should the $60,000 renovation through Community Development funds receive approval, it would not be in time for the 1979 season. Lee added that money spent on the bulbs would not be wasted even if the renovation should become an eventuality, as the new bulbs could be taken out and used in other fixtures in a number of the city's recreational facilities.

Stearle Pittman, president of the Babe Ruth League, and Jerry Smith, president of the Junior Babe Ruth League, spoke of the safety hazards involved in ball play for youngsters at the stadium under the present quality of lighting.

U.S. Industrial Output Shrinks

By MICHAEL DOAN
 Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's industrial output rose by the smallest amount in a year last month as stormy weather interfered with production at the nation's utilities, mines and factories, the government said today.

It was unclear whether the 0.1 percent increase for January also reflected a slowing of economic activity. Economists have been watching government indicators to determine whether a business downturn is ahead.

The January increase was the smallest since a 0.6 percent drop in January 1978, during another harsh winter. Last month, heavy snowstorms covered the Midwest and kept workers home in some areas.

The government adjusts the figures for seasonal variations, but the last three winters have been more severe than usual in many regions.

In its report, the Federal Reserve Board said "January output was affected somewhat by weather conditions."

The production of new cars declined 4 percent and steel output declined sharply, the report said. Production of energy supplies, particularly coal, dropped 7 percent.

In an economic slowdown, it is usually the construction industry that is hit first, but the report showed no signs of that happening yet. Factories continued turning out large volumes of construction supplies, the report said.

The Carter administration and the Federal Reserve have been trying to keep the economy from expanding rapidly as the government tries to control inflation. Many private economists say that a recession is coming toward the end of the year.

However, last fall, economic growth grew more rapidly than expected.

The grim industrial production report coincided with another report last week showing that buying at retail stores tapered off in January. However, the unemployment rate declined from 5.9 to 5.8 percent last month as more jobs were created.

Cosmetologists

Heard Speaker

Mrs. Polly Troutman, local electrolysis operator, was the featured speaker at the Monday meeting of the area chapter of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

Mrs. Troutman gave a comprehensive lecture on the causes of superfluous hair and described methods of hair removal. Mrs. Troutman demonstrated the use of an Instanton single needle machine, while Mrs. Ruth Forrest demonstrated the painless tweezer method using the Kree Imperial and NuTrollysis equipment.

President Pat Tripp reported highlights of her recent trip to the state annual convention held in Winston-Salem. Other attending affiliate members included Debra Hardee, Joyce Robins, Theresa Sawyer and Torrie Hair.

The next meeting will be held March 12 at Mitchell's Hairstyling Academy. All licensed cosmetologists are invited to attend.

GRIFTON — The Grifton Town Board of Commissioners hired Richard Hill of Greenville Tuesday as a new police officer for Grifton. Hill and his family will reside in Grifton.

The board authorized Mayor Dave Bosley to accept a state Clean Water grant of $36,250 toward the installation of a new town water well.

Sue Singleton of the Mid-East Commission presented information concerning a food program for Grifton's "Friendship Club." The board authorized Ms. Singleton to go forward with the program.

The board changed the speed limit from Queen St. to Pitt St., eastward to Church St., so that the area would include another block in the present 20-mph zone.

Grifton resident Jimmy Maynard came before the board to ask about street numbering for Dogwood Lane, where he now resides. The board informed Maynard that Town Advisor Roger Stencil has been working on the problem and action will be taken at the March meeting.

The board appointed a committee comprised of the Grifton Police Chief, Fire Chief and Rescue Captain to study plans for a proposed building for the three organizations. Building Inspector Ralph Thaxton will chair the committee.

An area of Wall St. between St. David and St. Joseph Streets was rezoned to include a rest home on a permitted use permit. A lot located behind the Stop and Go on W. Queen St. was rezoned from -85 to RA-6 to include construction of a duplex apartment.

In other business, the board adopted appendices A, B, E, and F of the North Carolina Building Code.

Conley Teams Post Tournament Wins

By JIM KYLE
 Reflector Sports Writer
SPRING HOPE — D. H. Conley's basketball teams both worked their way into the semifinals of their respective Eastern Carolina Conference tournaments last night at Southern Nash High School. The sixth-seeded Vikings defeated number three North Pitt 41-40, while the third-seeded Valkyries downed number six Farmville Central 55-46.

In a semifinal game played in between the boys' and girls' contests last night, the top-ranked Southwest Edgecombe girls ousted fifth-place North Lenoir 55-45 to gain a spot in Friday night's finals. The Lady Cougars' opponent will be the winner of tonight's game between the number two Ayden-Grifton girls and Conley, to be played at 5:30.

In tonight's other games, Farmville Central's first-place boys take on C. B. Aycock, the number five seed, at 7:15 and Conley's boys play second-ranked North Lenoir at 9 to complete the semifinal round.

Vikes Rally Past NP

It was a strategy not normally used by Shelly Marsh, but it certainly worked for the Conley coach last night as his team nipped North Pitt 41-40.

Trailing by one point with 1:22 to play, the Vikings ran the clock down to just one second before reserve O'Hara Parker fired in a shot from the free throw line to give the Vikes a slight upset win.

Conley, which trailed in the game from the opening moments, fought back from a five-point deficit in the final period and went ahead on a baseline jumper by Sammy Tucker with 3:37 on the clock.

After an exchange of baskets, Neal Carr put the Panthers in the lead by hitting both ends of a one-and-one. That made it 40-39 with 1:22 showing.

The Vikes brought the ball back downcourt and passed it around outside the North Pitt zone. Marsh called for a timeout with 23 seconds left and after still not shooting, the Vikes took another timeout with nine seconds on the clock.

Daryl Thompson took the ball inbound near midcourt and dribbled to the left of the key. Parker then broke to the foul line and got the ball for an open shot that gave Conley the ballgame.

"Normally, with 28 seconds to go, I don't wait for one shot if I'm behind," Marsh said after the game. "But something told me to go for one. We had plenty of timeouts to see what they (North Pitt) were doing. It just happened to work out against a real good defensive team."

Marsh said the Vikes' last-second play went as planned. "We wanted him (Parker) to get the shot. We figured they would be on Shawn (Little). He got to his spot, and of course when he gets his shot, he can shoot."

The play was no surprise to the Panthers, North Pitt coach Cobb Deans said later. "We knew they would try to go to (Parker) or Little." Deans said his team had the play defended well, but made a mistake in coverage.

The Panthers, who shot a frigid 35.7 per cent from the field, were led by Reginald Knight with 16 and Henry Knight with 10. Deans said the Conley pressure didn't bother his team in the fourth quarter: "what pressure was on, we put on ourselves," he commented.

"We just didn't play. They did a real good job and they had a good game plan. We got the ball where we wanted it, we just missed some easy shots inside."

Marsh said he got good play from his bench in the game, especially Parker and Carnell Burney, who was a key in the Viking defense.

"We won a close one tonight. Since Christmas, we've been losing the close ones. Daryl and Shawn, our two starting seniors, came through in the clutch. They came through like seniors are supposed to."

Little was the leading Viking scorer with 11 points, while Sammy Tucker had 10. The Vikes hit 50.0 per cent of their shots, but were outrebounded 30-20.

Valkyries Hold Off FC

D. H. Conley's girls broke away from Farmville Central at the end of the second quarter, but had to fight the Lady Jaguars off in the final period for a 55-46 win.

Farmville Central, down by six points at the half, fought back to tie the game in the third quarter and was only two points behind with over four minutes left when a shooting drought struck.

The Lady Jags failed to score for the last 4:12 of the ballgame and that allowed the Valkyries to build up their comfortable final margin.

"I'm real proud of my girls for keeping a cool head," Conley coach Norma Respass said. "It's a little rough out there sometimes."

She said the Lady Jaguars have "a good ballteam. They were up for the tournament."

Conley held a 13-12 lead at the end of the first quarter, but the Valkyrie pressure defense began to play off late in the second period and the steals, along with some key rebounds, allowed Conley to pull out to a 27-21 margin at intermission.

But Farmville quickly tied the game at 33-33 in the third period and trailed by four, 39-35 at the end of the quarter.

Driving shots by Diana Gordon and Pam Moye to start the final quarter tied the game at 39-39 for Farmville. Conley's Annie Hardy put her team back in front with two baseline shots and a pair of free throws, but Rose Edmond's follow of a missed foul shot for Farmville made it 48-46 Conley with 4:13 on the clock.

From then on, the Lady

Jaguars didn't hit another shot from the field and missed three one-and-one attempts from the foul line as the Valkyries pulled away.

Gordon, Moye and Kathy Hart each had 12 points for Farmville. Cassandra Tyson had 19, Hardy 13 and Glenda Green 12 for Conley.

Scramble For The Ball

Players from Conley and North Pitt hit the floor in a scramble for a loose ball during last night's first round Eastern Carolina Tournament game at Southern Nash. Identifiable players include Reginald Knight (32) and Henry Knight (54) of North Pitt, and Shawn Little (24), Sammy Tucker (40) and Ben Daniels (55) of Conley. The Vikings upset the number three seeded Panthers, 41-40. (Reflector Photo by Tom Baines)

Mocs Invade Minges; Tech Here Saturday

By WOODY PEELE
 Reflector Sports Editor
 East Carolina University's Pirates open their final home stand of the 1978-79 basketball season tonight, playing host to the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga. Game time is 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

The Pirates then close out the home season on Saturday night, entertaining Georgia Tech, the newest member of the Atlantic Coast Conference, in an 8:30 p.m. game that will be the second half of a doubleheader. At 6:30 p.m., the Pirate women's basketball team will play host to Appalachian State.

There is a revenge factor in each of the two men's games, although from opposite sides. In road meetings with the two, the Pirates split. They lost to Chattanooga, 91-67, in their worst loss since their disastrous Florida trip in December. But in an overtime game in Atlanta, the Pirates knocked off Georgia Tech, 66-64. That game was the start of four straight overtime games played by the Pirates.

"We've got a lot to prove against Chattanooga," Coach Larry Gillman said. "There were a lot of factors in that game that didn't really give a true picture of our team. We had depth problems, and we were just not ready for the game. We were tired both mentally and physically."

The Pirates led only once in that game, at 16-15, and after that, were quickly put away by the Moccasins, who led the rest of the night in the easy victory. Two members of the Pirate team didn't make the trip, Al Tyson, who missed the bus, and Frank Hobson, away because of the death of his father.

"Not having them hurt our depth situation, and left us really short for that game," Gillman said. Georgia Tech, meanwhile, fell behind the Pirates early when the Bucs shot away to a 13-0 lead, then saw the Yellow Jackets rally to force an overtime game. That contest was won when George Maynor tossed in a 16-footer at the horn in the overtime.

Both teams come into Minges with 13-9 records on the year. Chattanooga lost a close game to Davidson in the Southern Conference its last time out, while Georgia Tech bowed to Georgia, 56-55.

Tech, which bowed at home to the first time this year to the Pirates, has not been beaten at home since then.

Oliver Mack continues to pace the Pirates in scoring with a 17.8 average, and has passed Billy Brogden (1961-65) for eighth place in the 1,000-point club. Mack now has a total of 1,108 points for his two-year career, and is just three behind Lacy West, who scored 1,111 between 1959 and 1963. Next up the list is Jim Modlin (1967-70), who scored 1,174.

Two other Pirates are also in double figures for the year, George Maynor at 12.9 and Greg Cornelius at 10.2.

Herb Krusen, who has been in double figures since he became a starter near the year's half-way mark, is up to 8.7 now, while David Underwood is next at 8.5. Those five are expected to get the starting nod for tonight's game.

Petty Says Baker Fastest Of Field

By JERRY GARRETT
 AP Motorsports Writer
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — One of the entrants in a Speed Weeks race here this month is sponsored by U-Haul. It isn't Buddy Baker, but it probably should be. Baker will probably be hauling the competition around behind him all day Sunday in the Daytona 500.

Five-time Daytona 500 winner Richard Petty says Baker, the pole position winner, is running so much faster than anyone else, their only hope is to hang on his rear bumper and hope to be sucked along in his wake.

"Buddy's running about a second quicker than I am, and everybody else is running about the same as me," Petty said on the eve of today's twin 125-mile qualifying races for Sunday's $600,000 classic. "He's running faster now than he was last Sunday in the Busch race," when he and Darrell Waltrip were drafting together.

Petty added gloomily, "Meanwhile, everybody else has got slower this week." It's usually the other way around — the competition uses the week of practice to catch up on the pole winner's secrets.

Barring mechanical trouble or a mishap on the track, Baker was a cinch to win his qualifying race. By the race itself, though, Waltrip at least expects some relief.

"Buddy's still got the same engine in his car he used in the Busch race and I believe he'll slow down some when they change it after today's races," explained Waltrip, who managed to finish second to Baker in the Busch event by drafting closely behind the entire race.

"I know Buddy's running faster than everybody else right now, but that's really the way it's always been. There's always somebody running a little bit faster, and everybody else is complaining."

Cale Yarborough, whose once-unbeatable 1970 track record was shattered by Baker last Sunday, said he wondered if Baker hadn't shown "too much too early."

He said, "Maybe he's already got all his cards on the table, even though the hand ain't played out yet."

Yarborough qualified nearly 2 mph slower than Baker, but that didn't seem to worry him. "We ran over 194 mph on a blown up motor, so we can't be all that bad off," said the three-time national champion. Yarborough's engine started smoking midway through his first qualifying lap. It appeared to break as he started his second circuit around the Daytona International Speedway banking.

"It didn't just break," Yarborough said. "It destroyed itself. It blew up."

To blow an engine doesn't always mean to explode it. Did something actually blow out of it?

"Yeah, fire," he said with mock terror.

On the track Wednesday, qualifying was completed for Friday's NASCAR 200 for modifieds. Johnny Anderson has the pole position with a speed of 195.202 mph.

Duke Whips Wolfpack, Cavs Ease By Clemson

By GARY SEASE
Associated Press Writer

The scenario was perfect for an exciting, heart-thumping shuffling of the Atlantic Coast Conference standings: ACC doormat North Carolina State whips league-leading and fifth-ranked Duke, and the Wolfpack's Norm Sloan is voted Coach of the Year as the author of the dazzling comeback.

But Mike Gminski rewrote the script Wednesday night, penning in a happier, if less spine-tingling finish for Duke, as he poured in 21 points and the Blue Devils defeated N.C. State 66-48. Senior Jim Spanarkel scored 12 points and became the second all-time leading scorer in Duke history with 1,891 points.

Duke improved to 18-4 overall and 8-1 in the ACC, while N.C. State fell to 15-10 and 1-8.

Virginia's Lee Raker pumped in 24 points, including seven within a 23-second span, to pace the third-place Cavaliers (16-7, 6-4) to a 72-68 triumph over Clemson (16-7, 4-6) in the only other ACC battle.

Fourth-ranked North Carolina (19-4) rolled to an 85-60 victory over outmanned William & Mary (8-15) in a non-conference game.

Tonight's schedule has Wake Forest entertaining Georgia Southern.

Duke Coach Bill Foster is fast becoming one of Gminski's biggest fans.

"Mike was great, just kicking the ball in and out like that," Foster said. "Mike is a tower of strength."

N.C. State kept the game close until the final five minutes when the Blue Devils drilled in 12 unanswered points.

"It just shows you the kind of league this is, when the lastand first-place teams can come up with a game like this," Foster said. "If we can stay injury-free and forget about Sunday and concentrate on Friday we'll be okay."

Duke travels to Maryland on Friday and hosts ninth-ranked Louisville in Charlotte in a nationally televised game on Sunday.

Sloan characterized Duke as "very impressive. They are a fine basketball team, but of course it didn't take this game to find that out."

Raker's offensive outburst included a three-point play, two technical foul shots and hitting both ends of a one-and-one as he helped to spoiled Clemson's bid for a third-place tie with Virginia.

Jeff Lamp, the ACC's leading scorer, contributed 17 points for Virginia and Bobby Stokes chipped in 10. Clemson boasted a balanced scoring attack as Derrick Johnson fired in 16 points, Marvin Dickerson added 14 and Larry Nance tossed in 14.

North Carolina, which humiliated Providence over the weekend, enjoyed another outing against a non-conference foe. But Coach Dean Smith ruefully admitted the days of wine and roses are over.

"We're happy with the win," Smith said. "But it's the last win we're going to have like that."

The Tar Heels, the ACC's second-place team, travel to Virginia on Saturday to mark a return to conference play.

Up For Two

Jamesville Advances, Bears Are Knocked Out

Jamesville, which tied for first place in the regular season standings, and Chocowinity, the fourth seeded team, advanced to the semifinals of the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference basketball tournament last night with victories.

Jamesville, playing at home, downed Mattamuskeet, 44-41, while Chocowinity, also at home, nipped Bear Grass, 52-44.

The Bullets appeared to be headed for an easy victory when Mattamuskeet suddenly decided to make a contest out of it, and pulled back within three by the horn.

Jamesville held only an 11-10 lead after one period, but was able to jump away after that, thanks to a 13-4 margin in the second quarter. That gave the Bullets a 24-14 lead.

ASU Nips Dogs, Holds To First

By The Associated Press

Appalachian State, which only last week vaulted into the lead of the Southern Conference race, nearly had its reign as league leader trimmed by Rick Swing.

Swing, The Citadel's prolific center, poured in 20 points Wednesday night but it wasn't enough as the Bulldogs were defeated 68-64 by Appalachian State. The Mountaineers, who improved to 18-5 overall and 10-3 in the conference, can clinch top seeding in the league tournament with a victory over Tennessee-Chattanooga on Saturday.

possession of the ball and the Mountaineers trimmed The Citadel at the charity line.

In another conference game, Marshall whipped VMI 88-66. South Carolina defeated Furman 66-61 as the Paladins ventured outside the league.

Tonight's schedule has East Tennessee State at Robert Morris and Tennessee-Chattanooga at East Carolina.

George Washington scored 20 points and Bunny Gibson added 18 to pace Marshall, which improved to 11-13 and 5-6. VMI, which won at Marshall last week, fell to 12-12 and 2-7.

In the third period, the Bullets moved out to a 14-point lead before stumbling and seeing the Lakers cut the lead back to 34-26 by the end of the period. The Lakers outhit Jamesville, 15-10, in the final period, but fell short.

Tommy DiNardo led Jamesville with 20 points, while Trent Ange added 13. Michael Topping led Mattamuskeet with 12.

At Chocowinity, Bear Grass moved out to an 11-8 lead in the first period, but Chocowinity came back to take a 27-22 halftime margin.

The Bears kept it close, and moved ahead as the final period got underway, 39-38. But they ran out of gas, and Chocowinity outhit the Bears, 14-5, in the final quarter, to take the win and advance.

Henry McCuller led the Chocowinity five with 11, while Watson Rogers had 20 to lead the Bears.

Bear Grass, although out of the tournament, will still continue play in the District One 1-A Tournament next week.

In the other games in the tournament last night, third-seeded Belhaven downed Aurora, 68-60, and top-seeded Pantego downed Bath, 83-54.

"What a great game for the spectators," said Appalachian State Coach Bobby Cremins. "We have great ball handlers and gummy kids and we have a lot of confidence in those traits."

The Citadel's season-long home court winning streak was snapped at 12 games. The Bulldogs fell to third place with a record of 16-6 on the season and 8-4 in the conference.

Appalachian State led 60-55, the Mountaineers' biggest lead of the tight game, with 1:49 remaining. The Citadel closed to within one point, 60-59, on an 18-foot jumper by Chris Davis with 38 seconds to go.

But Appalachian State forced the Bulldogs to resort to fouls in a last-ditch effort to regain

A conference record for the most free throws attempted in a single game was established. Marshall cashed in on 28 of 44 attempts and the Keydets hit 16 of 28.

The previous record of 68 free throws attempted was set in 1955 in a game between Furman and NYU.

The game pitting intrastate opponents South Carolina and Furman showcased the talent of Cedrick Hordges, who poured in 21 points for the Gamecocks, now 13-8. Furman, dropping to 16-8, was led by Ronald White's 18 points.

Jim Strickland, a former Furman player who transferred to South Carolina last year, bombarded the Paladins with 16 points, collected 15 rebounds and blocked four shots.

South Carolina was trailing by 10 points, 24-14, but battled back to take a 32-28 lead at halftime on a controversial shot by Strickland at the buzzer. Over a protest from Furman Coach Eddie Holbrook, the officials ruled the shot was released before the buzzer sounded.

King Says Pay 'Em All

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — College football players should get 40 percent of the ticket sales and amateur athletes should be paid for their performances just like other entertainers, tennis pro Billie Jean King says.

"I think we should throw the word 'amateur' out," Ms. King told a group of University of Tennessee students Wednesday night. "If a music student cuts a record and gets $1 million for it in addition to his scholarship, the music department is delighted."

Arguing that sports scholarships should be eliminated, Ms. King said the National Collegiate Athletic Association takes no risks with athletes.

"If that $8 or $10 that was put out for each football ticket is divided into a 40 percent payment for the football players, then that would bring about $300,000 to be divided between the two teams," she said.

Ms. King said she was "paid under the table" before women's tennis turned professional in 1971.

Roanoke Gains Tournery Finals

ROANOKESVILLE — Roanoke High School won its way into the finals of the Northeastern Conference tournament last night with a 45-44 victory over Williamston.

In the other game, played in Washington, the regular season champion Washington Pam Pack ripped Plymouth, 103-65.

Roanoke will meet Washington Friday in Ahoskie for the tournament championship. Both teams, along with Williamston and Tarboro will advance into next week's District Tournament in Williamston.

The Redskins and Tigers played it close all the way. Roanoke slipped ahead, 10-9, in the first period, and managed to stay ahead at the half, but only by 19-17.

In the third period, Williamston took control, outscoring the Redskins, 15-10, to inch ahead, 32-29. But the Redskins regained control in the final period, gaining a three-point lead late in the game and allowing the Tigers to score the final basket uncontested as time ran out.

Chris Morning led Roanoke with 17 points, while Jasper Martin added 11. James Woolard led Williamston with 14, while Joe Peele had 13.

No Upsets As Six Top Teams On Court

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The old gag used to go that there were only two sports at the University of Texas — football and spring football. Well, it's time to make room for basketball...and Texas may be playing that spring.

The 12th-ranked Longhorns, led by Tyrone Branyan's career-high 41 points, played the game the way it was meant to be played Wednesday night, thrashing Baylor 102-83. Texas captured the National Invitation Tournament last spring but Baylor Coach Jim Haller sees bigger and better things in the Longhorns' future.

"If they keep playing this well, they will win the national championship," he raved. Well, perhaps, but if they beat Texas Tech and Southern Methodist in their next two outings they will at least win the Southwest Conference crown.

Texas was one of six members of The Associated Press Top Twenty in action Wednesday night and all six came through unscathed.

Fourth-ranked North Carolina crushed William & Mary 85-60 as Al Wood scored 16 points and Dave Colescott added 14; No. 5 Duke got 21 points from Mike Gminski and walloped North Carolina State 66-48 in an Atlantic Coast Conference game; No. 11 Arkansas trounced SMU 71-55 in an SWC contest behind U.S. Reed's 18 points; No. 16 Georgetown used Craig Shelton's 21 points and John Duren's 18 to defeat Stonehill 69-59; and Earl Cureton scored 32 points and grabbed 23 rebounds to pace No. 18 Detroit past St. Bonaventure 106-101 in overtime.

"Well, he tried a little," Lemons joked. "He jumped from the waist up. But then he did get some rebounds. Any guy who gets 41 points is a friend of mine."

While Texas was boosting its SWC record to 12-2, Arkansas kept pace at 11-3 by trimming SMU for its eighth consecutive victory. The Razorbacks scored the last 11 points of the first half while holding SMU scoreless for 4½ minutes to take a 34-22 lead and coasted home.

North Carolina breezed to a 45-27 halftime bulge over W&M as Wood scored 14 of his 16 points and Mike O'Koren got all 13 of his in the first 20 minutes. The Tar Heels pulled out of sight by scoring the first 10 points of the second half.

Duke's Gminski had help against N.C. State from Gene Banks with 13 points and Jim Spanarkel with 12. Spanarkel becoming the second leading scorer in Duke history with 1,891 points. The game was tied at 38 with 11½ minutes left but a 12-point run helped the Blue Devils pull away.

"Mike was great, just kicking the ball in and out like that," Coach Bill Foster said of the 6-10 Gminski, who had 10 rebounds to go with his 21 points. "Mike is a tower of strength."

Sluggish Georgetown led Stonehill by only 54-51 with 5:58 left but went on a 10-2 spurt to put the game away. The Hoyas shot 61 percent in the second half after leading 30-27 at the intermission.

Detroit's Cureton, a 6-9 junior, hit on 14 of 18 shots against St. Bonaventure, posting season highs in points and rebounds. The Bonnies held a 76-58 bulge seven minutes into the second half but Detroit got close with a 14-2 burst.

Detroit still trailed 89-81 with three minutes remaining but tied it with an 11-3 spurt, including Wilbert McCormick's driving layup with seven seconds to go.

"Coach (Dave) Gaines told us during halftime that we weren't getting the second shots and that hurt us," Cureton said. "It has hurt us all season. The coach said we had to give it to the big man, so I put it in my mind that I was him and went in and did it."

Elsewhere:

—Virginia cemented its hold on third place in the ACC by defeating Clemson, 72-68, as Lee Raker scored 24 points, including seven in a 23-second span.

—Iona, 18-5, won for the 11th time in 12 games, edging Army 55-53, while 18-5 Wagner made it 13 in a row, nipping Boston University 73-72 on Jamie Ciampaglio's jump shot — the last two of his 25 points — with 15 seconds left.

—DePaul, 17-4, defeated Ball State 85-76 behind freshman Mark Aguirre's 23 points while Dayton, 17-6, survived Boston University 73-72 on Jamie Ciampaglio's jump shot — the last two of his 25 points — with 15 seconds left.

McAdoo Felt Lost; Knicks Just Lost

By The Associated Press
Who got the best of the big trade between the New York Knicks and Boston Celtics? The Indiana Pacers and San Antonio

Spurs, that's who. The outmanned Knicks, minus high-scoring Bob McAdoo, were no match for the Pacers, dropping a 106-97 decision after trailing by as many as 25 points. And the Boston Celtics, despite McAdoo's 21 points, were blown away by the San Antonio Spurs 149-119.

"From the psychological standpoint, you know guys like McAdoo and (Spencer) Hayward are gone," said Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard, "but you've still got to go out and do it."

McAdoo didn't. "I don't know what I'm doing on offense right now," the league's third leading scorer admitted after getting 19 of his 21 points in the final period. "I felt lost out there. It's a feeling I've never had before." In other National Basketball Association games, Kansas City nipped Philadelphia 108-106, Detroit shaded Denver 111-107, Seattle drubbed Atlanta 116-104, Milwaukee trimmed New Jersey 115-94 and Golden State whipped New Orleans 113-101.

Pacers 106, Knicks 97
Ricky Sobers, held scoreless in the first half, scored 10 third-quarter points within six minutes, sparking Indiana over the sagging Knicks. Billy Knight and Mike Bantom with 21 points apiece led a balanced Indiana attack. Spurs 149, Celtics 119

San Antonio rode a 32-point performance by George Gervin to its rout of Boston. Gervin was supported by Larry Kenon's 22 points while Allan Bristow contributed a career-high 11 assists.

Joe Morgan of the Cincinnati Reds played 91 straight games without an error in 1978 for a major league record.

Kings 108, 76ers 106
Otis Birdsong's 26 points and Bob Nash's season-high 24 helped Kansas City snap Philadelphia's three-game winning streak. It was the Kings' first triumph in Philadelphia since 1973, 11 games ago.

Julius Erving, who missed the 76ers' last game with a sprained ankle, returned to the lineup but was held to nine points. Teammate Darryl Dawkins was high with 27.

Pistons 111, Nuggets 107
Rookie John Long scored 27 points and veteran M.L. Carr added 24 as Detroit snapped a five-game losing streak. The Pistons, despite the absence of star center Bob Lanier with an injured toe, led all the way. Denver's George McGinnis got 33 points and David Thompson 28.

SuperSonics 116, Hawks 104
Gus Williams and Dennis Johnson each scored 22 points as Seattle snapped a four-game losing streak. The Sonics' defense took over in the last 14 minutes, limiting the Hawks to 21 points.

Bucks 115, Nets 94
Junior Bridgeman scored 19 of his 29 points and Marques

Johnson 15 of his 23 in the second half as Milwaukee rallied from a 14-point first-quarter deficit. The Nets, who had a four-game winning streak broken, were led by Winford Boynes with 17 points.

Warriors 113, Jazz 101
Phil Smith scored 34 points, including 12 in the first quarter and 14 in the third, as Golden State broke a four-game losing streak. The fourth quarter started with the Warriors ahead 83-71 but they broke it open with a 14-7 run. The loss was the Jazz' 27th in 30 road games, worst in the league.

No Change In AP Prep Poll

By AL CARSON
The Durham Sun
Gastonia Ashbrook gathered all 14 first-place votes to remain rated No. 1 in the 4-A division of The Associated Press high school poll as the prep teams begin preparations for the state district playoffs next week.

Washington garnered the 14 first-place ballots in the 3-A division.

The biggest jump in the 3-A poll was made by Concord, which moved to No. 5 from an unranked position. In the 4-A rankings, West Charlotte and North Forsyth moved into the top 10 as Kinston and Fayetteville Terry Sanford slipped.

West Charlotte, tied for first place in Division 9 with South Mecklenberg, is also tied for sixth place in the 4-A poll with the Sabres.

Greensboro Page lost one game last week, but managed to hold its 10th spot in the poll. Page took second-ranked Greensboro Grimsley into four overtimes before losing 76-69. Raleigh Enloe posted one of the more impressive 4-A victories last week by overwhelming Raleigh Athens Drive 107-88.

The state playoffs will find the top eight 3-A teams in Durham and the top eight 4-A teams in Greensboro. Gastonia Ashbrook and Washington are favored to take the state titles.

Here are the top ten teams in The Associated Press North Carolina high school basketball poll for classifications 3-A and 4-A, with first-place votes in parentheses.

Pressurized Oxygen Tried In Treating Of Senility

By ROSALIND ROSSI
CHICAGO (UPI) — Dr. Edwin Levine placed the oxygen mask back in its stand near the four-inch thick steel wall and said, "We're not going to make any wild claims. We don't believe it can do the impossible."

For hundreds of patients at Edgewater Hospital, high levels of oxygen administered under pressure in a hyperbaric oxygen chamber appears to have achieved the seemingly impossible. Levine said it helped restore their past and offer them a future.

Levine reports treating 200 patients for acute senility, many of whom he described as "living vegetables," with an 83 percent effective rate.

"People who were not able to walk or talk or even write their name have had complete recovery," said Levine, chief of respiratory diseases at Edgewater since 1966.

But whether breathing oxygen under pressure actually affects symptoms of senility such as memory loss is a matter of dispute. A recent study by the National Institute of Mental Health and the New York University Medical Center failed to confirm the results reported by Levine and other researchers.

"Simply put, the results of this study failed to sustain the view that oxygen treatment, under either hyperbaric or normobaric (normal) conditions, has beneficial effects of cognitive impairment in the elderly," said the report published in Archives of General Psychiatry.

Dr. Allen Raskin, the NIMH research psychologist who directed the study, said the positive responses that have been reported may have been caused by what scientists call "a placebo response," that is, a psychological effect produced by a treatment that the patient believes is going to help.

HBO therapy, dating back to the 1800s, recently was revived for a wide range of health problems, including carbon monoxide poisoning, burns and gangrene. Dr. Eleanor Jacobs of the Veterans Administration hospital at Buffalo, N. Y., was first to report, in 1969, that the oxygen treatment appeared to improve brain function in the elderly.

Since then, five published reports confirmed her findings. But two others, which compared treated groups with those not treated, did not find any difference.

Levine says some of his elderly patients report beneficial effects in addition to improvement of mental ability. For some patients, he said, the therapy appears to reverse the aging process by reducing wrinkles and darkening and thickening hair. Many reported improved eyesight and restoration of sexual functioning.

The late Greek shipping tycoon, Aristotle Onassis, used the treatment twice a year to enliven his sexual performance, medical sources said. If the therapy does affect senility, Levine said it has been suggested that it revitalizes brain cells, improving memory and thinking. Levine said patients appear to show greater improvement once they return home, possibly because the environment stimulates memories.

"We treated one woman who was bedridden for two years," said Levine, who is collecting data for publication. "She didn't walk or talk, and she wouldn't eat unless force fed. We gave her several treatments in the chamber with no apparent effect."

"One day, her daughter and I were talking at her bedside about terminating the treatments, and the woman suddenly turned to her daughter and said, 'You must cooperate with this doctor. He's trying to help me.' The daughter fainted on the spot. Those were the first words she had heard from her mother in two years."

Levine said, however, that HBO therapy has not proven effective in treating premature senility, and although some initial therapy has been successful there is too little data on which to judge the value of subsequent treatments.

Edgewater's senility patients usually receive 15 treatments at $60 a session. They inhale pure oxygen for about two hours while pressure within the chamber gradually is increased to the equivalent of what a diver would feel about 100 feet under water.

The effects usually last six months, Levine said, but some treatments have been successful for as long as three years.

Levine said about 100 one-person HBO chambers are in use in the United States. The units are expensive to operate and require specially trained personnel.

Edgewater's chamber is larger and more expensive than most and has held up to 18 patients. The unit cost $250,000 in 1966 and would carry a $1 million price tag today.

Levine said many physicians prefer to concentrate on more conventional uses of HBO therapy, which also offers hope for brain-damaged stroke victims and someday may be used in conjunction with chemotherapy for cancer patients.

"The more you get into this, the more it sounds like a never-never land where everything works," he said. "That's why research is so important."

Lottery Holds Place In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Contending that "if you win once you have a second chance," 49-year-old Javier Ortega Garcia has been playing the Mexican National Lottery for close to two decades.

The portly, silver-haired and dark-skinned clerk has won three times in the past four years — once the equivalent of $5,000, then $2,500 and later a $62,500 first prize. "I play for the tradition now. Of course you hope one hits, but it's the tradition."

John Uribe, a government pensioner, has also been playing the numbers during 40 of his 64 years but winning only little prizes. He continues to play, however.

"It's like eating bread," he says. "If you don't eat bread you feel bad. If I don't play the lottery I feel bad, like something is missing. It lifts me up if I'm irritable, because I have hopes. Someday I'll be rich."

Ortega and Uribe are among the hundreds of thousands who regularly or occasionally play the Mexican lottery, an activity that many sociologists describe as actually not a vice but a very old Mexican tradition — in fact, older than modern Mexico itself.

The lottery was brought over to "New Spain" in 1796 — more than 40 years before Mexico gained its independence as a colony from Spain.

And in a country where the minimum wage is close to only $180 a month and where more than one half of the working population is without work or under-employed, even a "small" prize like $1,500 at the lottery can be a lifesaver.

The price of tickets varies every week between 20 and 25 pesos, and the special drawings, such as those at Christmas and New Year's when the prizes are better, can be as high as 100 pesos. A peso currently is worth between 22.50 and 23 per U.S. dollar, depending on the daily quotation.

Drawings are usually held twice weekly — on Tuesdays and Fridays — in the national lottery's auditorium. There are also nine "big" drawings on the nine holidays in the year, each paying as much as 40 million pesos in first-prize money.

For Tuesday drawings, 212,000 pages of tickets are printed and distributed — four series of 53,000 numbers each. There are 20 tickets to a page, each with the same number.

Some 16 million pesos are paid out in first-prize money on Tuesdays — four million pesos to each series or 200,000 pesos for a 20-peso ticket that is actually one-twentieth of a page.

On Fridays, four series of 50,000 numbers are printed and 20 million pesos are awarded in first-prize money.

Just 1 percent of the printed tickets are returned to the lottery unsold.

The money the national lottery earns goes to support the lottery itself, to the federal treasury where it is used for "public assistance," to build schools, roads and hospitals, to aid poor rural villages and to fund disaster relief projects, according to a lottery spokesman.

Ortega, Uribe and many other players interviewed say they believe the lottery drawings are "not crooked nor corrupt, they are honest."

The lottery spokesman interviewed claimed: "There has never been a case of falsification of lottery tickets and never a case where the lottery was unable to pay."

Dentists Slowly Move To Advertising Prices

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Dentures $129 each. Free consultation. All insurance programs accepted."

The price quoted in the advertisement by a Silver Spring, Md., dentist is hundreds of dollars lower than is usually charged by suburban Washington dentists for dentures.

The newspaper ad is one of a growing number across the country quoting prices for dental work. Dentists, under pressure by the federal government, are slowly moving to competition over prices, and the result is that consumers can shop for low-cost dental work.

The American Dental Association, slapped in 1977 with a Federal Trade Commission price-fixing charge, has been moving to lower its restrictions against advertising by dentists.

The association, which represents most of the nation's dentists, first removed a bar on membership to anyone who advertised his prices. Then, last fall, the ADA changed its code of ethics to say it was acceptable for dentists to advertise their fees.

Local dental boards in many areas have joined the movement by ending legal prohibitions on dental advertising.

Now the FTC and the ADA are ready to settle the two-year-old case. The government and dental association lawyers have agreed in principle to settle out of court, sources on both sides say. The terms, which have not been revealed, are still subject to approval by the five-member commission.

The original FTC complaint said the ADA restricted competition among dentists by declaring price advertising to be unethical.

ADA officials feel the change in the ethical code makes the case moot. FTC lawyers don't agree with this, indicating that the settlement in the case may make the dental association go still further in encouraging advertising.

Price advertising by dentists is one of a variety of areas where the government is trying to promote competition among professionals. In 1975, the Supreme Court prohibited bar associations from setting minimum fees. The same year the FTC brought a case against the American Medical Association on price advertising. The FTC won a victory in the AMA case last year but the decision is on appeal.

Since the 1975 Supreme Court decision and another in 1977 on price advertising by lawyers, low-cost legal clinics have proliferated. In these clinics, relatively simple cases such as uncontested divorces have been handled at a fraction of what they used to cost.

While almost all physicians still resist price advertising, dentists are seen by some observers as more likely to advertise prices. Most dental work is elective, meaning consumers will probably compare shop for it than in the case of a medical emergency.

However, there remains strong resistance in dental groups, as with other professions. They fear misleading salesmanship that may be in poor taste.

Dr. Montague Cashman, secretary of the District of Columbia Board of Dental Examiners, said most dentists resent advertising. "It's against tradition. It's unprofessional. It's unbecoming to the conduct of a professional man," he said. "We just don't feel you should get your patients by advertising your fees."

Consumer groups disagree, saying professionals should compete, a step they feel will lead to lower fees. Price advertising will allow consumers to shop for professional services just as they do for specials at grocery stores, consumer advocates argue.

A small number of professionals agree, including Dr. Daniel Lee Maloof, the Silver Spring, Md., dentist who advertised his prices for dentures and other services.

"I used to charge $300 for those dentures that I now advertise for $129. I make more money by charging less and seeing more people. I don't sit around as much as I used to," he said.

"Some dentists will charge $200 for some work and then sit around for a while. I might charge $100 and see one patient after another," Dr. Maloof said. "I make almost twice as much as I used to but I work harder, too."

Dr. Maloof, who said he was the first dentist to advertise prices in Maryland, has had his problems with dentists that he undersells. "A case against me was taken to the (state) attorney general, but he found in my favor," he said.

He said he also cuts costs by buying his supplies in greater bulk and by running a no-frills office. "We don't have 10 girls running around or any fancy waiting room."

In Chicago, Pete Goulding, spokesman for the ADA, said price advertising "has broken out in pockets, mainly on the East Coast and the West Coast." He said dentist advertising is most frequent in California because it has been legal there for years.

"We now are seeing more clinics and group practice. Dentists are forming group practices in places like Sears stores and discount stores," Goulding said. "The movement toward advertising is leading to changes in the way dentists practice."

McKinleys, Grants, Jacksons, even Lincolns and Washingtons. To your local arts council, they're all "valuable portraits".

You see, insufficient funding is a fact of life for all the arts. Business contributions and government grants cover only a small portion of an arts council's financial needs. And ticket sales to concerts and plays don't begin to cover the actual costs involved.

That's where you come in. When you contribute to the arts, you're making an investment that will pay you back for years and years to come. How so? Because the arts do quite a lot for you and your com-

So, give generously to your local arts fund. Donate a few Jacksons or Lincolns, or sign your John Hancock on a check. It's all tax deductible. And it's all very, very valuable.

Soviet Preparing Great Theatrical Performance

By CHARLES M. MADIGAN
MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union is gearing up for a theatrical performance unparalleled in the world of politics.

On March 4, the people will elect 1,500 deputies to the Supreme Soviet — the nation's rubber-stamp parliament. The figures alone, when tabulated, will be enough to bring tears to the eyes of the most hardened American ward heeler.

The turnout will approach — and perhaps exceed — 99.9 percent. All of the party-endorsed candidates probably will win.

Leonid Brezhnev will be returned to parliament by a mind-boggling margin the same way Nikita Khrushchev was returned in the parliamentary elections of 1962, two years before it was decided by ouster that his mandate was somewhat overstated.

All across the Soviet Union, candidates will walk off with mandates exceeding 99 percent. Most go into the elections assured of victories by such margins. That's the way elections — officially proclaimed as the most democratic in the world — have always been in the Soviet Union.

From the selection and nomination of candidates to the casting of votes, it is all calm and procedural, almost as though the Communist party controlled it all, which is not technically true.

Nor will all of the victors be members of the Communist party. In the current Supreme Soviet only 72.2 percent, or 1,096 members, are party members.

There are also 475 women in the current Supreme Soviet, and 279 members under age 30. There are 174 members of the Young Communist League in the body.

Candidates do not run against one another in the 750 voting districts where delegates to the Soviet of the Union and Soviet of Nationalities will be elected.

However, there are provisions for challenges at the nominating level before the name reaches the ballot. It is possible for two or more candidates to be in contention for a nomination, although this rarely happens. Such challenges are settled before nominating time.

When it comes to voting, a citizen votes for a candidate, crosses out candidate's name in protest, or writes in another name. Crossouts and write-ins are rare, but it happens.

In the 1974 parliamentary election, there were 332,644 votes against candidates for the Soviet of the Union and 245,750 votes against candidates for the Soviet of Nationalities. These figures represent, respectively, 00.21 percent and 00.15 percent of the votes cast.

At the parliamentary level such negativism has no impact. But in elections to local Soviets, candidates have been defeated. In 1967, 2 million delegates to local Soviets were elected, but 122 faced the unique infamy of being so disliked they actually lost.

In that rare instance — the defeat of a candidate who fails to draw 50 percent "yes" votes — the election machinery must reorganize itself for special contests to fill the seat. The upcoming elections will take place under an updated election law ratified when the new Soviet constitution was rubber-stamped in 1977. It has some interesting twists.

For example, the age for holding office has been cut from 23 to 21 years, apparently a move to get younger people involved.

Full government funding of elections has also come of age. A candidate retains his salary although he is excused from work, and all his transportation within the district is free.

Previously, a candidate had to get more than half of the ballots cast to win — an easy mark when there is only one name on the ballot. Now he must get a majority of the registered voters — a similarly easy mark because voter turnout always exceeds 99 percent.

Finally, the Supreme Soviet increased the term of office from four to five years. The decision, at the end of 1977, gave the old Supreme Soviet an extra year in office without facing election.

On paper, the Soviet system does look democratic. In practice it is so predictable, controlled and suppressed as to be meaningless.

The Supreme Soviet, despite the complex mechanics of party election and the claim it is the most democratically-selected body in the world, has never cast a negative vote.

It has met only five times in the past year and a half, and in each case did little more than okay regime proposals without hesitation.

Which, judging from a Tass item on the importance of the election, is just the point.

"During these days the Soviet people demonstrate again their unity and cohesion round the Communist party, their undivided support for the foreign and home policies of the party and government," the article said.

Wells Giving Hot Water

STUMPY POINT, N.C. (AP) — Water heated to as much as 190 degrees fahrenheit has been discovered during drilling in northeastern North Carolina, and federal officials hope the superheated water may be used for energy.

A test well drilled near Stumpy Point in Dare County last fall is one of 50 wells drilled to depths of 1,000 feet on the East Coast from New Jersey to northeastern North Carolina.

The Stumpy Point well has the greatest potential in the state for heating and cooling buildings, and providing energy, because the water is the hottest discovered so far, federal officials say. The well was drilled on industrial property near the mainland community.

Other wells drilled in North Carolina include one on the campus of Elizabeth City State University, one in Currituck County and another on the Hyde County sanitary landfill site.

Federal officials are hoping to harness the energy for practical uses, according to Robert Gray, a spokesman for the reservoir-assessment section of the U.S. Department of Energy.

Gray said geysers near San Francisco, Calif., are currently used to generate electricity.

Scientists believe the hot water results from a formation called pluton, which contains natural radiation from uranium, thorium and radioactive potassium. The pluton is lodged in granite and covered with a layer of sedimentary material that traps the heat from the radioactive material.

The sedimentary layer also prevents the water from becoming contaminated by the radioactive material.

Service Series Begins Friday

Services at St. Matthew F.W.B. Church, corner of Perkins and Norris Streets, for Friday, Sunday and Monday have been announced by the pastor, Rev. Hattie M. Cobb. These are:

Friday, 7 p.m., board meeting, Sunday: 11 a.m. Morning worship; 3 p.m., the Senior Choir and ushers will accompany the pastor to Bethel Chapel in Washington; and 7:30 p.m. Rev. Fred Teel will preach at St. Matthew.

Witnesses Paint Dark Picture Of Wilson Sheriff

CHINESE MILKSMEN — Peking dairy workers joke with the photographer as they prepare to drive away in a truck laden with bottles of milk. Refrigeration was no problem. Peking winter temperatures go below freezing. But the mercury soars in the summer. (AP Laserphoto)

By LORI COOKE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Witnesses who worked at truck stops and motels in the Wilson area painted a picture of prostitution, payoffs and income tax evasion Wednesday in the corruption trial of Wilson County Sheriff Robin Pridgen.

The trial will resume today in Federal District Court. Sula O'Barr, who testified for about an hour Wednesday, said she acted as the madam of the Forest Inn Motel for Gerald Frazier while her daughter Billie and Frazier were living together. She said during that time, she made payoffs of $100 a month to Pridgen, who was chief deputy then.

Pridgen is charged with violating a federal anti-racketeering law by accepting bribes, trips, money and sexual favors to protect prostitution and gambling operations in Wilson County. He is also charged with submitting false income tax returns. Both he and Rudolph Baker are charged with violating the federal anti-racketeering law.

Pridgen's attorney, John Clark of Wilson, asked Mrs. O'Barr if she had told an FBI agent the payments to Pridgen amounted to $100 a week. Mrs. O'Barr said she had, but said Billie later told her the payments were only $100 a month. Mrs. O'Barr, 71, said she didn't remember details too well, but "I still believe it was once a week."

"Well anyway," she said, "I paid him."

Mrs. O'Barr said she filed no income tax for her work at the Forest Inn, even though at one point Frazier was paying her $100 a day. Several women who testified Wednesday that they worked as prostitutes at the motel also said they did not report their earnings. Two women took the Fifth Amendment on the question.

Mrs. O'Barr testified that the Forest Inn was open from 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. daily. She said there was a range of prices for sexual services, beginning at $25 for a basic "date."

Several prostitutes testified they could make between $1,800 to $2,500 per 10-day stint at the Forest Inn. Mrs. O'Barr said "after 10 days they'd done made a lot of money and they wasn't no good, so I'd let 'em go and get some new ones in."

A good portion of the customers came from Raleigh and many came more than once, Mrs. O'Barr testified.

Mrs. O'Barr said one regular customer from the Wilson area was Pridgen's son Butch. She said he came to the motel about once a week but did not pay for his dates and she had to pay the women herself. Several of the women who worked as prostitutes confirmed that "Granny," as they called Mrs. O'Barr, paid them for Butch's visits.

Cecilia Coffey of Lima, Ohio, said, "Granny paid because he was the sheriff's son." Miss Coffey said she is now a bartender at a club in Lima.

Carol Taylor, who said she now works as a steelworker in Florida, testified that Butch Pridgen "let it be well-known he was getting a free date." She said Butch also "said he was Robin's son."

Prosecutor Jack Crawley asked Mrs. O'Barr what she thought of Frazier, who testified Tuesday. She replied, he was "the biggest liar in Virginia or North Carolina, either one. He wouldn't tell the truth, no way."

Mrs. O'Barr testified that on one occasion she shot Frazier in the leg because he was beating her daughter, Billie. She said Frazier had removed the muzzlepiece from their telephone during the argument, and nearly bled to death because he couldn't remember where he put it and Billie couldn't use the phone to summon help.

FBI Agent Roger Schweickert testified that in a raid on the Bel-Air Truck Stop near Wilson on Feb. 15, 1978 he found two prostitutes on duty and two sleeping in the truck stop.

One of the women, Verna Haymore of Providence, said she saw Baker at the Bel-Air "once or twice a day" during her stints there. She said the day after the raid, Baker and Roger Ponnell, who ran the front desk at the Bel-Air, showed up at a motel in Rocky Mount where she and Evelyn Watson were staying. Schweickert testified that Miss Watson was the other prostitute on duty during the raid.

Mrs. Haymore said in the confusion after the raid, Ponnell gave the two women all the day's take instead of splitting it with them. She testified that Ponnell and Baker demanded their share of the money, but the women refused to give it to them "after what we'd been through."

Several witnesses who worked as prostitutes identified Judy Bollinger as the madam at the Bel-Air.

Mrs. Bollinger's daughter, Sheila Smith, 17, of Asheville, testified she worked at the Bel-Air as a fuel clerk when she was 16.

Miss Smith, who testified she did not work in the prostitution operation, said women would sometimes give her payments from their customers, which she placed in a large coffee can. She said her mother or Baker would later get the money.

Miss Smith said she was receiving methadone to help her withdraw from tranquilizers and had left Wake County Memorial Hospital, where she was being treated for an infection, Wednesday morning. She denied that she was taking additional medication or was "high" while she testified.

The final witness was Maxie P. Tsioumas of Myrtle Beach, S.C. Mrs. Tsioumas said she owned the Bel-Air for 18 or 20 years when it was known as the Bon-Air, before it was sold to Baker in March, 1977. Mrs. Tsioumas testified that Pridgen warned her in 1959 not to allow prostitutes to be active on the premises.

But she testified that around New Year's of 1977, Pridgen "had a few drinks and danced around a little bit." She said he danced through several rooms and eventually she saw him in one of the bedrooms "talking with the girls" who were in evening dress at the time.

Skippering His Boat Alone Is Elusive Dream For Amputee

INDIALANTIC, Fla. (AP) — Keith Heuer, an accomplished seaman and diver, is co-owner of a passenger boat, the "Impossible Dream." But one dream eludes him — skippering his boat alone. The government won't give him a license because he has no legs.

The 35-year-old Heuer stands only 4-foot-5 in a shortened pair of artificial legs he designed called "stubbies."

He lost his legs in a car accident in 1967. For a career U.S. Navy man, the loss appeared to end his life on the high seas. But he wouldn't give up.

"It was hard at first," said Heuer, who said he fell in love with the sea at age 9. "But I realized that I, not somebody else, was going to have to get up and walk."

He found he couldn't maneuver on the deck of a rolling ship with conventional artificial legs. He designed his "stubbies," which reduced his height but increased his mobility. They have soles made of tire treads for a better grip.

The muscular Heuer learned to climb ladders, hoist himself effortlessly into high helmets' seats, even to dance.

He piloted boats for other owners and served as mate aboard a succession of ocean-going vessels before obtaining his own boat and obtaining a Panamanian captain's license for 500-ton vessels in 1976.

But the Coast Guard wouldn't recognize the license. So Heuer and a friend, scuba diver Dan Wagner, succeeded in getting a loan from the Small Business Administration to buy an all-wood vessel with international certification for carrying 32 passengers.

But Heuer was turned down for a license, so he went to Washington to argue the issue and said he was told, "You're not mobile."

Heuer said the Coast Guard offered a compromise license that would require a second captain aboard, which the Impossible Dream carries anyway. The license also stipulated the use of a hearing aid for a hearing disability and required that Heuer pilot only his own or a corporation-owned vessel.

Three months later, he said, further word came from the Coast Guard — Heuer would have no authority, could operate the ship only in the daytime and only with two other licensed operators aboard.

Wagner became enraged, telephoned Washington and shouted, "Keep your word!" The Coast Guard agreed to a test. Officials watched as Heuer operated the ship, climbed ladders and moved an inert woman from an upper to a lower bunk without assistance.

He passed and appeared headed for his written exam but his supporting documents filed in Washington "turned up missing," Heuer said.

Proof of some of his required two years of experience at sea depended upon the verification of men who had since died or moved. The Coast Guard rejected time spent on other vessels, including six months aboard a 1,000-ton Navy ship.

"The Coast Guard has no vendetta against Mr. Heuer," says Comdr. D.A. Calicchio of the Miami District. "But it would be very unfair to every other person who applies if we waived for him the regulations that date back to 1958."

Seek Hosts In Carolina

GARDEN GROVE, CALIF. — The American Host Foundation, the only non-profit, non-governmental program designed to show the American way of life to European teachers by pairing them with American families, is seeking North Carolina families to host English-speaking European teachers as guests in their homes for a seven to ten day period this summer.

Host families are required to provide a private room and meals for their guests and to give their guest the opportunity to meet friends, neighbors, and to see local sights.

Hold 2 Men In Shooting

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — Fingerprints of two men held in connection with a shooting in which one of the men and a policeman were wounded have been sent to the SBI in Raleigh and the FBI in Washington for identification.

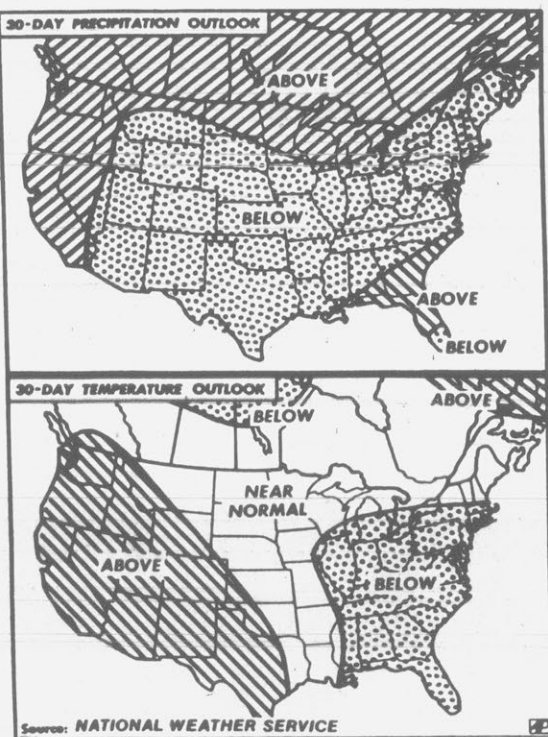

Detective Benson Phillips said the men initially gave the same name, but later they were tentatively identified as Herman Bentley Stewart, 25, and Thomas Eugene Solbert, 22, both of Iowa.

The man identified as Stewart was reported in stable condition at Southeast General Hospital, where he was under guard while being treated for an arm wound received in an exchange of gunfire with a police officer. The two men were being held under $25,000 bond on charges of assault on a police officer with a firearm.

Officer Glenn Rogers, who was grazed across the forehead by a bullet, was treated and released, Phillips said.

Rogers and officer James Strickland were responding about 3 a.m. to a call about a disturbance in a restaurant when the shooting occurred. When the officers told the two men to step outside, one ran and the other fired, grazing Rogers' forehead.

Stewart was wounded by a return shot, the detective said.

Connally Blames Weakened CIA

ATLANTA (AP) — John Connally says the United States was caught off guard by the Iranian revolution because of a weakening of the CIA's international spy network.

A candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, Connally told reporters Wednesday the United States "should have been aware" of the impending revolution as early as 18 months ago.

The revolution came as a surprise to the administration, Connally said, "because, once again, we have destroyed the counter-intelligence capabilities of the CIA, and this is one of the prices we pay for foolhardy treatment of our intelligence capabilities throughout the world."

OTTAWA (AP) — Inflation has hit the cost of making money. Supply Minister Pierre De Bane said Tuesday the government may reduce the size of pennies and nickels because they cost too much.

Solicitation Permits OK'd

City Manager Ed Wyatt announced the approval of four requests for solicitation permits in Greenville.

Wyatt said the requests were submitted by: the Winterville Jaycees for permission to conduct a merchant solicitation from Feb. 13 to March 31 to sponsor a senior citizens bingo; Gamma Sigma Sigma national service sorority of East Carolina University to sell tickets to taste the "world's largest doughnut" from Feb. 14-24 with proceeds going to the Eastern Lung Association;

The Winterville Jaycees for permission to conduct a merchant solicitation from Feb. 13 to April 31 for advertisements for a Jaycees' program; and by St. Gabriel's Catholic Church for permission to conduct a merchant solicitation from March 1-17 for gifts for a St. Patrick's Day fund raising card party.

New ABC-TV Offerings Still Strong

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC used to be like a gaudy Christmas necktie; it was there, but you never used it.

The other networks loved ABC; they could demolish the "1/2 network" without even having to show their best punch. And then they would joke about it.

Which brings us to this new TV season, the midterm season. Times have changed, the last is first. ABC has lots of favorite shows now. In fact, they own the Nielsen ratings. CBS and NBC, which used to consider American TV a two-member private club, are the ones doing the scrambling and shuffling.

NBC, viewing the parade from the cheap seats formerly occupied by ABC, is trying 11 new shows in its new schedule of regular programming. CBS has had to come up with seven, eight if you count "Coed-Fever," which made its debut a couple of weeks ago and then vanished from the schedule.

ABC is introducing only four new shows.

This further dims any hopes the other networks had that ABC's surge in the last three seasons was a flash-in-the-pan. A look at ABC's midseason schedule suggests the network is as strong as it was in the fall, perhaps stronger.

On Mondays, ABC is going with "Salvage 1," a pretty dumb show about a junkman with big ideas, and "How the West Was Won," which ABC hopes will hold on to some of the men who were used tuning in ABC for Monday Night Football. This is one of ABC's few weak spots, but it may still fare better than CBS, which

Ride Ends When Cart Smokes

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rosalynn Carter commanded a surrey-topped golf cart for a spin around the estate of Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, but stopped her ride when the cart began to smoke.

Mrs. Carter and Lopez Portillo's wife, Carmen, met at the Los Pinos residence Wednesday while their husbands discussed world affairs at the National Palace.

They climbed into the cart for a short trip around the hilly estate.

"I drove it until it started smoking and I had to quit," Mrs. Carter said later.

The two first ladies exchanged gifts, with Mrs. Carter presenting her host with a Steuben heart for Valentine's Day and an antique knife and fork from the Emperor Maximilian.

Mrs. Lopez Portillo gave Mrs. Carter a silver necklace with a tiger-eye jewel.

leads into the evening with two weak newcomers sitcoms ("Flatbush" and "Billy") likely to hurt the strong "M-A-S-H."

Tuesday night has been ABC's foothold in its climb up ratings mountain, with "Happy Days," "Laverne and Shirley," "Three's Company," "Taxi" and "Starsky and Hutch."

Wednesday is another night likely to keep ABC executives happy. The popular "Eight is Enough" leads into "Charlie's Angels," and enough viewers usually hang around to watch "Vegas" to make it another good evening at ABC.

Thursday might be ABC's strongest night. "Mork and Minky," one of the most popular shows on TV, leads into a new show, "Angie," which is the best way of giving a new series a shot at sustained life.

After that comes "Barney Miller," "Soap" and "Family," all big hits.

Friday is ABC's other weak spot, with the new (and awful) "Makin' It" starting the evening, followed by the old (and equally awful) "What's Happening?" and a movie. The network concedes here.

Saturday, it's back to ABC with the new "Delta House," which is faltering, but followed by "Welcome Back, Kotter," "Love Boat" and "Fantasy Island."

On Sunday, ABC has at least as good a shot as anybody with "The Osmond Family Hour" and "Battlestar Galactica," followed by a movie.

Dr. Nenno To Speak On Radio

Dr. Robert P. Nenno, Pitt Co. Mental Health Center Associate Medical Director, will be the program interviewer Nancy Middleton, Center Coordinator of Consultation and Education.

Dr. Nenno will talk about the expanded services begun Monday at the Bethel Resource Center. The clinic is now offering mental health clinical services, including both treatment and counseling for adults, children, alcoholics, drug abusers and mentally retarded. Mental health consultation and education services are also being provided. He also will explain the role of the Bethel advisory board, according to the program interviewer Nancy Middleton, Center Coordinator of Consultation and Education.

Seek Teacher In Tagalog

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The Duval County school system is advertising for a teacher who can speak Tagalog, a language used by some natives of the Philippines, because a number of youngsters who speak the language are enrolled in schools here.

There is one Tagalog-speaking teacher in the school system. She teaches 12 pupils in a West Jacksonville school. But another is needed, language specialist Ernest Velazquez said, to teach 20 pupils in another school. Schools are required by federal law to offer bilingual education to foreign students or those who come from homes where English isn't the predominant language.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, FEB. 16, 1979

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you can meet interesting persons and work out an advanced plan of action under which you and they are able to make rapid headway in the near future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Try to understand the ideas of associates and give them the backing they need. Make the evening a very happy one.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can work in a most cooperative way with fellow workers and produce a great deal today. Follow the advice of experts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find new ways and means to have increased abundance in the days ahead. Plan to make your property more valuable.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to please family members more and increased harmony at home. Make sure business affairs are in good order.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show more cooperation with regular allies and get better results. Make plans to engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

VRIGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are able to handle money matters very well by yourself, so don't become involved with profiteers. Be careful of strangers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can get much accomplished today, especially where personal matters are concerned. Be sure to keep promises you have made.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Investigate a puzzling matter and come up with the right answers. Show your love one that you are truly devoted.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure to handle business matters early in the day so you will have time for personal affairs later. Use common sense.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contact the most influential persons you know and gain the backing and advice you need from them. Show that you have poise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you use a direct approach now, you can gain your most cherished aims. Adopt a new attitude and get good results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure that you keep promises made and show others that you are trustworthy. Be sure to handle your money wisely.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who can make a big success of life because of the love of people in this nature and the willingness to do something to be of help to them. There is much marital happiness in this chart.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Experiment: Job For All Who Need Or Want One

By DONALD H. MAY
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lowell, Mass., is a fairly typical small New England city, suffering from the decline of textile and leather goods industries and shifting its economy to services and electronics.

Wilson County in eastern North Carolina is rural, tobacco country with heavy seasonal unemployment. Twenty percent of its families live in poverty.

Pittsburgh, Pa., has suffered the loss of manufacturing jobs common to many older industrial cities, and two recent severe winters and fuel shortages caused further layoffs.

In Corpus Christi, Texas, and rural counties surrounding it there are many poor Spanish-speaking families including migrant workers.

In Long Beach, Calif., with a population of 360,000, an estimated 40,000 persons are living in poverty; 6,700 are on welfare.

One thing all these areas have in common is that they are among 15 sites selected to take part in a potentially far-reaching federal government experiment in reducing unemployment.

It is designed to try out a long-discussed concept: that the government might — at least within limits — provide employment training and a "last resort" job to all who need and want them. It is the most ambitious test ever conducted of methods of moving people into useful jobs who otherwise would be on welfare.

Provided Congress comes up with the money, the Labor Department plans, in each selected area during a two-year period, to offer job training and if necessary a job to every eligible person who applies.

Those eligible will in general be adult members of low-income families with children, but only one per family.

The government isn't calling it a "guaranteed" job program, because it doesn't want to lay itself open to suits by individuals for employment. Officials speak of "ensuring" job opportunities for those eligible.

The supervisor of the project, Jodie Allen, special assistant to the secretary of labor for welfare reform, said in an interview that computer studies indicate that if such a program were run nationally about a million people would take part during the course of a year.

The 15 "demonstration" sites were chosen to represent a cross section of the nation. Mrs. Allen estimates that in these areas 32,000 to 33,000 persons would participate in a year.

The project is designed to answer many questions: How many people will in fact apply?

If the number is more than expected, how could eligibility be restricted? What kinds of people will apply? What administrative problems will there be?

Localities are being encouraged to develop new ways of providing people with jobs, which might be incorporated into the existing programs of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, called CETA.

Many of the applicants are expected to be persons currently on welfare, such as women with children to support and in some states unemployed fathers. For others the program may be an alternative to welfare.

"In either case," Mrs. Allen said, "we think it is preferable to have people employed producing useful goods rather than living at home on a welfare dole."

The work opportunities will be voluntary, at wages intended to be high enough to provide an incentive to get off welfare but not so high as to attract people out of present jobs.

Each applicant will be required to spend five weeks searching, with assistance, for work in the regular job markets.

If this is unsuccessful, the program then would provide the individual with a public service job, subsidized on-the-job training in private industry or classroom employment training or perhaps a combination.

"We want to make absolutely sure that we are essentially an employer of last resort, not an employer of first preference," Mrs. Allen said.

There is one big "if." Congress approved the project in principle last year as part of the CETA extension, but the appropriation got lost in the discord of adjournment. Existing CETA programs survive under a "continuing resolution," but it contains no money for new programs.

So the experiment, estimated to cost about $400 million over two years, cannot actually begin unless Congress comes up with a supplemental appropriation. The selected localities have been given a total of $3.9 million in planning grants to get ready.

"Everything that we know about the patterns of low income people," Mrs. Allen said, "suggests that most want to work more and are frustrated in their attempts to do so by their own lack of skills and by the lack of demand for those skills in the labor market."

A poll taken for the Labor Department recently by Public

Research showed that the vast majority of the public regards opportunities to work as a more essential part of "welfare reform" than cash assistance.

"So we think the concepts we're testing in these demonstration programs are ones that are very popular," Mrs. Allen said.

The Humphrey-Hawkins "full employment" bill calls on the government — subject to approval by the president and Congress — to become an employer of last resort if, after two years, other means of reducing unemployment aren't working.

Mrs. Allen said that if current estimates that a million persons would sign up for a national program are correct, the gross cost would be about $6 billion a year; the net cost might be half that because of savings in welfare, Medicaid and unemployment insurance. Even that cost, Mrs. Allen said, might diminish over time: "If you really could make a dent in the skill levels of the disadvantaged population and catch them early, help them early, over time, the program would grow smaller because you would have fewer structurally unemployed people."

Would Congress buy such a national program?

"I think that if we could demonstrate that this program worked in the 15 sites, and the sites are credible," Mrs. Allen said, "you would have an irresistible program, because it accords so well with what the American people think welfare reform is all about."

"The American people think that welfare reform is making welfare smaller in the long run. That's what they prefer and that's what the recipient groups prefer.

"If you could answer these questions in a credible fashion, I think you would have a program which would be not only programatically sound but politically extremely attractive and legislatively very feasible."

Other sites selected for the program:

Union County and Elizabeth City, N.J.; Mobile, Ala.; Pike County, Ky.; Columbus, Ohio; Marathon County, Wis.; Baton Rouge, La.; Corpus Christi, Texas; Carroll, Chariton, Saline, Lafayette, Johnson and Pettis counties, Mo.; Weld County, Colo.; Grays Harbor, Cowlitz, Wahkiakum and Pacific counties, Wash.; and Philadelphia, Pa. Philadelphia is the only one of these where there will be a fixed ceiling on the number of jobs offered, about 600.
