'Frank' Talk For Carter And Begin

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, frustrated, impatient and already supporting key Egyptian demands, opens new Mideast peace talks tonight with Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

The outlook for wrapping up a treaty did not appear bright as Carter prepared for what he says will be "a frank discussion of the issues."

Before flying here, Begin criticized the United States for supporting Egyptian proposals he said "were totally unacceptable to Israel."

He did not elaborate, but diplomatic sources in Washington told the Associated Press the specifics of U.S. support for Egypt's stand on the three major unresolved issues. The sources insisted on anonymity.

First, the sources said, the administration agrees to a one-year time-table for establishing Palestinian autonomy in Israeli-held territory should be included in the Egyptian-Israeli treaty.

The United States is proposing that Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat exchange letters providing that a Palestinian authority be set up on the west bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza district within a year of a treaty signing.

Begin has insisted that Palestinian autonomy be negotiated separately and that the treaty be completed on its own.

Sadat, not wanting to be accused by other Arab countries of making a separate peace with Israel or of forsaking the Palestinians, has long demanded a timetable.

Second, the sources said, the administration backs the Egyptian position that the treaty not take priority over Egypt's military ties with other Arab countries.

Sadat has insisted on revising a treaty provision that gives peace with Israel precedence over Egypt's promises to aid other Arab countries under an attack by Israel.

The U.S. formula, presented to the two sides by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance last week at Camp David, Md., provides that Egypt and Israel reserve their rights to act in collective self-defense.

Prospect Still Unclear

Economic Indicators Fall

WASHINGTON (AP)— A key government indicator of future economic trends plunged by the sharpest margin in four years last month, providing a strong sign of an economic slowdown, it was disclosed today.

A steep decline in building permits and the average work week caused the index of leading economic indicators to drop 1.2 percent in January, the Commerce Department said.

The dropoff followed declines of 0.4 percent in November and 0.1 percent in December.

In summer of 1977, however, the index also declined for three consecutive months but the economy kept on growing.

This time the government wants economic growth to slow somewhat as it tries to dampen inflationary pressures. It was not clear from the latest report whether the nation faces an orderly slowdown or a recession, as anticipated by some private economists.

Besides building permits and the work week, there were sharp declines in the money supply, which is considered bad for economic growth but an encouraging sign in fighting inflation.

Five of the indicators actually increased, including stock prices, factory orders, plant and equipment spending, vendor deliveries and a smaller layoff rate. The January decline was the biggest since a 3 percent drop in January 1975.

The figures are adjusted for seasonal variations. The index has declined in five of the last six months of January.

The decline in building permits was important because the housing industry often feels the brunt of a slowdown first. New housing construction already has begun to drop sharply.

The economic indicators were combined with two other reports Wednesday showing continued inflation and a mounting trade deficit.

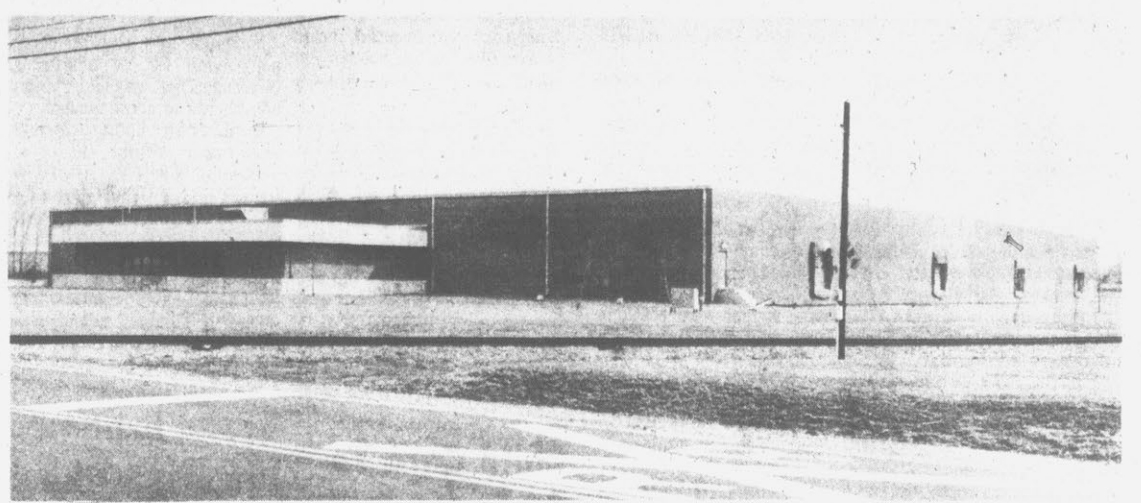

The Agriculture Department reported Wednesday that prices farmers received for all products rose by 3 percent in February. That followed jumps of 3 percent in December and 5 percent in January.

Overall, farm prices in February were 24 percent higher than a year ago.

Beef prices went up 7.2 percent in February alone and vegetable prices rose by 7 percent.

Higher prices for cattle, soybeans, hogs, calves, oranges and broiler chickens contributed most to the increase.

Manufacturer Acquiring Plant In Greenville Area

ACQUIRING BUILDING — The TRW Co. has announced it plans to acquire the Container Corporation of America facility for the manufacturing operations to begin this year. (Reflector Photo)

Gov. Jim Hunt announced today in conjunction with company officials, the location of a multimillion investment by TRW, Inc. in Greenville.

"I am pleased to invite this excellent company which manufactures automotive components to North Carolina," Gov. Hunt said. "This fine company is typical of the kind of corporate citizen which we are seeking to attract to our state."

The Michigan division of TRW, Inc., a leading supplier of steering and chassis components, has purchased an existing plant in Greenville where they plan to make power rack and pinion steering components, according to George E. Irvine, vice president and general manager. The plant is the fourth in the Michigan division.

Irvine said, "An additional plant was needed to satisfy customer orders and handle increased volume."

The building, located on N. Greene Street, is 85,000 square feet and is on a 15 acre tract of land. It was previously occupied by Container

Corp. of America. As many as 85 persons will be initially employed and further expansion is anticipated. The Michigan division of TRW has plants in Warren and Portland, Mich. and in Rogersville, Tenn. TRW is Cleveland based and is a diversified corporation. It

Subdivision Developers Told Assure Street Improvements

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Joint City-County Planning Commission voted last night to require that provisions of a section of the City Code relating to street improvements be satisfied by subdivision developers before final development plats will be approved by the board.

The board action, dealing specifically with Section 28-21 of the City Code, means that in the future, subdivision developers must either provide bond or some other satisfactory assurance that street improvements will be taken care of.

The procedural matter was addressed by board members following discussion on the final plat of the Lewis W. Evans Subdivision, located on Arlington Boulevard south of Courtney Square Apartments. In their discussion, commissioners questioned whether they should approve the final plat in view of the fact that an extension of Arlington Boulevard to serve the subdivision has not been completed.

Phil Dickerson, representing the developers, said that it was the intention of the developers to extend Arlington Boulevard to serve the new section but it was felt that since there is heavy truck usage of the unpaved corridor in and out of the development area, a final surface now would be damaged. City Engineer Ron Sewell said that the road has the first course down and the only thing lacking is the second or final course.

E. E. (Ed) Howell, commission chairman, pointed out that subdivision regulations require that access be provided to a development through a city maintained street.

Howell added that someone has to be bonded to assure that streets will be paved.

Commissioner Clarence Tugwell asserted that the situation involves a battle between property owners and the developers and it has to stop somewhere.

Dickerson said that numerous situations exist in Greenville such as his and he wondered why the commission picked his final plat to require bonding.

Commissioners voted to approve, with Mrs. Priscilla East voting no, the final plat for the Evans Subdivision, contingent upon satisfactory arrangements being made to assure that the Arlington extension be taken care of.

In the future the checklist regarding subdivision plats will include the bonding stipulation and approval will not be given until the checklist requirement is met.

In other business last night, the joint board commissioners voted to recommend to the City Council that the request by Owens & Roberts for rezoning 20.7 acres in the area of the N. Green Street-Pactolus Highway intersection from RA-20 to Unoffensive Industry be approved.

In addition, commissioners voted to recommend that some other property near the Owens & Roberts acreage also be rezoned. It was pointed out that since the initial request surfaced, several other property owners in the area had expressed an interest in rezoning.

Planner Skip Browder explained that the total area being considered now included property bounded on the north by State Road 1528, on the east by a lateral of Parker's Creek, on the south by the creek, and on the west by Seaboard Coast Line Railroad.

A small portion at the southeast intersection of N. Green Street and the Pactolus Highway would be

GUARANTEE IN FORCE

I have a Scheaffer pen that I know had a lifetime guarantee when I sent it back to the company for repair about 25 years ago. I wonder if this guarantee is still being honored and, if so, where I should send the pen. J. W.

Hotline learned by talking to a very helpful woman in the Customer Service Department of the Scheaffer-Eaton Corporation office in Pittsfield, Mass. that your guarantee is in force. You may send your pen to Scheaffer-Eaton, 301 Ave. H., Fort Madison, Iowa 52627, Attention: Service Department.

Models made between 1920 and 1947 have a lifetime guarantee, as do those "Anniversary Year" models made from 1963 to the present. The word "Lifetime" should be engraved on the nib of each pen which has a lifetime guarantee, the Customer Service person to whom we talked said.

HOTLINE FEEDBACK

THANK YOU

Ricky and Lois Hamill, whose home burned Tuesday, Feb. 20, have asked Hotline to thank the many people who responded to the appeal for them. The turnout for the pounding given them at the Falkland Presbyterian Church Sunday afternoon was "wonderful" according to an aunt, Mrs. Joyce Hamill. "There is no way we can even know of everyone who has come to our aid," they said, "so we want to take this opportunity to thank each person we can't contact in person."

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A

Republican proposal that would allow North Carolinians to initiate constitutional amendments and state laws by petition and referendum was killed in a House committee Wednesday.

The proposed amendment to the state constitution was defeated in the House Constitutional Amendments Committee after being attacked by Democratic opponents as irresponsible.

Killed by the amendment proposed by Rep. Mary Pegg, R-Forsyth, was a weaker version proposed by a subcommittee that spent three weeks studying the measure. The weaker version was killed on a 9-5 vote, and the Pegg version was overwhelmingly defeated on a voice vote.

As proposed by Mrs. Pegg, the amendment would have allowed citizens to hold a referendum on a proposed constitutional amendment if a petition gained the signatures of 8 percent of the state's registered voters. New laws would require signatures from 5 percent.

It was patterned after California's initiative system through which voters enacted the proposition 13 property tax reduction last year.

"This is a people bill. It affects people," said Rep. John Jordan, D-Alamance, who supported the measures. "If we've got some bad stuff, they can fix it."

The subcommittee proposal would have required 20 percent of the voters in two-thirds of the state's 100 counties to sign the petition, which then ordered the General Assembly to propose a constitutional amendment addressed in the petition.

It would have also given citizens 90 days to petition for a referendum to reject or affirm any new taxes levied by the General Assembly.

"I think this is dangerous. I think this is irresponsible, and I think it's impractical and unworkable," said Rep. Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson.

Joe Ferrell, a lawyer with the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill, told the committee the subcommittee's version was fraught with uncertainty. What would happen, panel members asked, if the people petitioned for a constitutional amendment and the General Assembly failed to follow those instructions and propose one?

"I envision there would be a number of questions that would have to be resolved by the courts," he said.

Bargains in Bachelors

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine whose divorce became final a few weeks ago has appointed me to head a search committee to find her a man. She's 40, attractive, not exactly destitute (her husband gave her a nice settlement), and good company.

She's told me (and others) not to fix her up with a man who's never been married. She insists that there is something seriously wrong with a man of 40 or older who's never been married.

She says, "They're either too set in their ways, closet gays, or they're selfish and stingy."

What is your opinion of her analysis?

LOOKING FOR MR. RIGHT

DEAR LOOKING: Your friend needs to open her mind and let out a few prejudices.

There are plenty of men 40 and over who are still single because they're never met anyone they wanted to marry who wanted to marry THEM. The same can be said for many women who've never been hitched.

DEAR ABBY: I went to a party the other evening where I saw a number of old friends. The wives hugged me and their husbands shook my hand. After the third handshake I let out a shriek.

Abby, don't men realize that some women wear costume rings that cut deeply into their flesh when their fingers are squeezed too tightly? Also, some of us older women have arthritis, and a firm handshake can be frightfully painful.

So, gentlemen, please remember when shaking hands with a lady that she doesn't want to sell you a railroad or an airline or even the Brooklyn Bridge. All she wants is a gentle little clasp.

73 YEARS OLD IN CINCINNATI

DEAR 73: Although it's not earth-shaking, it's a hand-shaking problem with which many women (including this one) will identify.

DEAR ABBY: I am a compulsive gambler. I almost destroyed my family and myself with 25 years of hard gambling, lying, stealing and whatever it took to support my vice. When I finally hit rock bottom and owed everybody I knew, I called GAMBLERS ANONYMOUS.

That was six months ago. I admit I did it only to get my wife off my back and keep her from divorcing me, but after going to a few meetings I realized that I really had an illness and could help myself.

I have been with Gamblers Anonymous only a short time but my life has already changed. It's as though a miracle has come over me.

I know of no one who can carry this message better than you, Abby, so please print this for anyone who has a gambling problem or lives with a gambler: Have them call GA. They're in the phone book.

A NEW MAN IN L.A.

DEAR NEW MAN: Nearly 20 years ago, having heard of Gamblers Anonymous, I slipped into one of their meetings (incognito) to see firsthand how they operated. I saw a miracle in action.

No dues, no lecturing—only gamblers being taught how to quit by gamblers who had already learned. I recommend them highly. The most a gambler can lose at GA is a bad habit.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple do-your-own-thing ceremony, get Abby's new booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Prayer 'Wounds'

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — One legislator didn't like it. Another chortled that maybe the House could amend it.

But it wasn't a piece of legislation the lawmakers were talking about — it was a prayer.

During his prayer before the beginning of business in the House on Wednesday, the Rev. Milton Hunt intoned, "...and sometimes we have felt the pinch as we have traded votes for some bill which reflected narrow interests, rather than the good of all Alaskans..."

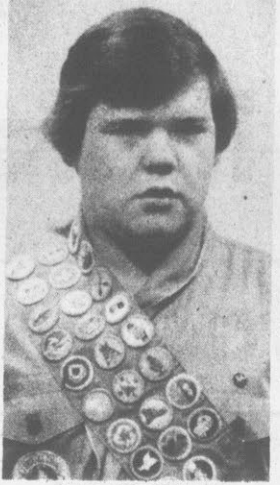

State Rep. Charlie Parr said: "I don't feel I've done this."

State Rep. Russ Meekins said voting to publish the prayer in the daily journal, a tradition, would suggest that legislators were seeking forgiveness for trading votes for narrow interests.

"Maybe we can amend it," joked one legislator. Hunt said: "Today is Ash Wednesday, so I had a short confession of sins in the prayer."

For his service project, Gurganus constructed communication lap boards for patients at the rehabilitation center.

Gurganus is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Gurganus and is a senior at Rose High School. He is a member of troop 452, which is sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church of Greenville.

Scoutmaster Heber Adams presided over the meeting with special guest Richard Kelley, Pitt District Scout Executive, attending.

Child Care To Be Radio Topic

"Mental Health Matters," the weekly Mental Health Center-sponsored program on WNCT-AM, Sunday at 1:06 p. m. will feature an interview with Dianne Kerr, speech pathologist at the Pitt Co. Mental Health Center.

Ms. Kerr will discuss her work at the Winterville-Ayden-Grifton (WAG) Child Development Center, the Farmville Child Development Center and in the Remedial Education Activities Program (REAP). She also will talk about an early intervention workshop held for parents and/or caretakers of young children which was sponsored by the Pitt Co. Mental Health Center.

Undetermined

According to Pitt County Schools' Superintendent Ott Alford, the Pitt County Board of Education has not yet determined when snow days will be made up this school year.

"There's a possibility that we may be in school the week of June 11, or that the snow days will be made up during the Easter vacation," said Alford.

In "The Daily Reflector" Wednesday, Alford was reported as saying that county schools would still be in session after June 8 to make up the lost days.

Scrap Aluminum Pickup Fridays

The Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company mobile unit will visit Pitt Plaza every Friday in March, from 12 noon to 1 p. m., according to information released by the company.

Reynolds now pays 20 cents per pound for all aluminum beverage cans and other clean household aluminum products.

Certain other items, including aluminum siding, gutters, aluminum storm doors, window frames and lawn furniture tubing are also worth 20 cents per pound if properly prepared.

This aluminum must be free of all foreign materials, cut to lengths not exceeding three feet and should not be mixed with aluminum cans.

Seeks Expand Lettuce Strike

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP) — With the winter lettuce season nearly over in the Imperial Valley, union leader Cesar Chavez is seeking support for the United Farm Workers' lettuce strike in other areas.

Chavez met with 500 sympathizers in San Luis, Ariz., Wednesday to discuss the union's strike against 11 growers who account for 40 percent of the nation's winter lettuce crop. The harvest will shift soon to other parts of California and Arizona, a Chavez aide said.

The union wants a 40 percent wage increase in a one-year contract. The growers have offered increases averaging 7 percent a year for three years.

New Community College Head Accepts His Present Salary

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The newly elected president of the North Carolina Community College System has agreed to accept the position at his current annual salary of $47,390, the chairman of the state Board of Education says.

The community college committee of the Board of Education voted unanimously Wednesday to offer Larry J. Blake the job at his current salary as president of Fraser Valley College in British Columbia, Canada.

H. David Bruton, chairman of the board, said that Blake has discussed the salary with Gov. Jim Hunt and has agreed to accept it.

Bruton said there were "no problems" with Blake's acceptance of the salary. There had been reports that Blake wanted $50,000.

The current salary of the president of the state's community college system is $41,000. Legislators who supported former Gov. Bob Scott for the community college presidency had hoped Blake would refuse the lower salary, leaving the position open for Scott.

Bruton said Blake, 48, will assume his new post in early June or July.

The Education Board was scheduled to meet today and consider a recommendation from the competency test policy committee on security surrounding the state's competency test.

In an effort to tighten security around the competency test, the policy committee recommended Wednesday that two more versions of the competency test be developed.

Bob Carlton, a spokesman for the Department of Public Instruction, said the committee acted after receiving recommendations from the Competency Test Commission.

The commission is concerned about security and wants the additional tests developed so there is less chance that the questions and answers could be known in advance, Carlton said.

The board was to meet Thursday to consider the committee's recommendation.

The committee recommended that the tests be developed to be administered this fall and next spring by Scholastic Testing Service Inc.

Members spent the first part of the day attending the following workshops: "Pitt County Memorial Hospital Neonatal Unit," led by Mrs. Ruth Bischoff; "Child Abuse and Neglect," led by Dr. James R. Markello; "Leadership Development," led by Mrs. Ronald Davis; and "Bits and Pieces," led by Mrs. J. S. Lilley.

Mrs. Maggie Brown of Greenville served as overall chairman for the day's events. Mrs. Brenda Wichard and Mrs. Mary Shearlin, Greenville, served as co-chairmen for the luncheon.

Mrs. Basnight reminded members the state NCFWC would sponsor its Arts Festival March 24 in Winston-Salem.

Henry Leslie Speaks To Secretaries

"A Century of Dedication to the Nation's Health" was the topic of the program Monday evening at the meeting of the National Secretaries Association, Greenville Chapter. The guest speaker was G. Henry Leslie, representing Burroughs Wellcome.

Leslie noted that Burroughs Wellcome, a worldwide commercial enterprise engaged in the discovery, development, manufacture, distribution and sale of products which promote the health of humans and animals, will celebrate its 100th anniversary in 1980.

It was reported Nila Bland, Yvonne Hardee, Helen Rollins and Margie Davis recently attended a leadership clinic in Sanford. The Secretaries Week Committee reported on plans for Secretaries Week and a recommendation was approved that Secretaries Week-Membership Tea be held Sunday, April 22, to officially begin the week's activities.

The local women will serve as hostesses at the hospitality room at the Divisional Meeting to be held at Atlantic Beach May 18-20. A donation will be given to the Pheresis Machine at the Tar River Blood Center.

Betty Thompson, chairman of the CPS, Education Committee, reported the final course in the series of the CPS Review Courses will be accounting and will begin March 13 at Pitt Tech. She reminded members that a shorthand review course is being held at 6:30 p.m. prior to the regular seven o'clock Tuesday night classes, at no charge.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

If I ever stage a telethon, it will be for one of the most underrated diseases of the 20th century—Cabin Fever.

Cabin Fever has been with us for as long as there has been children, but during snowstorms the disease reaches epidemic proportions.

A minister in Iowa recently noted that the city's Dial-a-Prayer number increased 125 calls a day due to the malady. "There's no doubt about it," he said, "Cabin Fever is a reality and people are depressed when they're shut in and unable to get around."

Back in Ohio when the kids were little, I used to crawl out of bed every morning during the winter, fall to my knees and pray, "Please God, let there be school." For my intentions, I would offer up 18 shirts to be ironed by the end of the day, 30 pounds of hand washables to be dunked, and a promise to return the bank's call.

Everything gets through to you when you have Cabin Fever. It's as if you have no control over your own actions. You find yourself sitting there watching a child force a button up his nostril and saying nothing. You see them coloring your marriage license and you mumble, "Stay in the lines." You observe the chandelier over the dining room shaking as they jump up and down on their beds above and you are numb.

You go to the window and for the life of you can't remember what color the lawn used to be . . . or what the downtown area looked like. To keep in touch with reality, you count by sevens backwards . . . recite the Greek alphabet . . . or name the

Fashion Show Scheduled

The Greenville Jaycettes and Downtown Greenville Merchants' Association will present their third annual fashion show, "at long last . . . Spring!"

Spring and summer fashions for the family and entertainment will be held in the Wahl-Coates School auditorium at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Preston Sisk will host the fashion show as emcee for the Jaycettes. Sisk is general manager of the East Carolina Playhouse and instructor of drama at ECU. Musical accompaniment will be provided by John Clark, leader of the group Three Easy Pieces and manager of The Music Shop.

An escape from chains will highlight an interlude of magic by John Williams, Pitt County teacher and former ECU athlete. Greenville chanteuse Susie Pair will present a selection of songs.

Children's costumes, sportswear, loungewear, formal attire and outfits for Easter will be shown. Fashions have been provided by downtown merchants.

Tickets are $1.50 (children under 12 free) and may be obtained from any participating downtown Greenville merchant, any Greenville Jaycette or at the door. Proceeds from the show will go toward Jaycette community service projects including aiding people handicapped physically, mentally or by their environment.

Citizen Involvement Essential

A local group, with representatives on its steering committee from various organizations, is organizing a court observing program.

Elaine Warshauer, League of Women Voters representative, was named chairman of the committee. She said speakers will be provided to various clubs in the area in an effort to involve more citizens in the project.

Court watching groups have been formed around the nation as populations and crime rates rose and eventually the court dockets became heavier.

Purpose of the organization is to express the citizens' interest in the courts and their problems and progress. As informed observers the group will be able to point out possible reforms and improvements in the courts.

It would be difficult to quarrel with the group's purposes. The openness of the American courts is inviolate, with the right of public trial guaranteed by the Constitution.

In addition, involvement of the citizenry in the judicial system is essential to the seeking of truth and justice. Every week numbers of our citizens are summoned to participate as potential jurors.

If the court observing group looks constructively at the many problems facing the judiciary in our complex society it can be helpful in bringing about more efficient ways to dispense justice.

Forced Into Necessary Conservation

It's strange that it takes an Arab oil cut-off, or an Iranian revolution to push us into action on energy conservation.

Right now, the administration is toying with all kinds of plans for handling a shortage of oil products due to the Iranian oil strike.

Some of the things proposed we should have been doing for years. It has been obvious for some time that the United States is at the mercy of other nations in the cost and availability of oil. Our long range plan should be to become self-sufficient in energy, and the quicker we move in that direction, the better.

Power To School Boards

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — The State Board of Education, and local school boards, would gain considerable flexibility and responsibility under a proposal being studied in the North Carolina General Assembly.

The significant side effect of a complicated change in formal budgeting procedures would be to place decision-making on educational matters more clearly in the hands of public school agencies rather than in the General Assembly.

This, says State Rep. J.P. Huskins, D-Iredell, would give the agencies both flexibility and responsibility to make educational decisions and stop much of the end-run lobbying of special interest groups in the Legislature.

Legislative lobbying has been a tradition in the public schools, with special interest groups seeking law to back up their positions on anything from raises for certain groups to required curricula changes such as the hotly debated Free Enterprise requirement.

Complicated
A complicated system has been designed for the proposed change as part of the work by the Governor's Study Commission on Public School Finance on which Huskins served. And it is complicated; taking 18 months to evolve.

But essentially, Huskins likens it to the present system in funding the university system. A lump sum appropriation rather than a line item budget is appropriated to the governing board, which then parcels the money out to the individual units.

In the public schools, the State Board of Education would be appropriated a lump sum; then local school systems would be allotted funding on the basis of "teacher units."

Presently, funds are allotted on attendance formulas and law on classroom size. Then, other formulas are used to figure funds for administrative, supervisory, and support personnel.

It is well known that many local units cheat on how those dollars are used, with money which is supposed to be used for classroom teachers going instead to pay support people such as librarians and counselors or assistant principals.

BILL NOBLITT

The proposal, at its simplest, would set up three funding categories: classroom teachers, administration, and support. Money sent for each purpose would have to be spent for that purpose, and the controller's office would audit to see that it is. Likewise, money for materials and programs would be sent in lump sums, and the educational agencies would decide on programs and equipment within broad guidelines.

No Position
"This would help the General Assembly as much as anybody else. As it is, we are being asked to make decisions on things in which we are in no position to judge," Huskins said.

Elimination of the line-item budgeting procedure would effectively eliminate the power of the General Assembly to require funds for pet projects, putting this ability in the hands of the State Board of Education.

The North Carolina Association of Educators is the chief lobbying body in this field, and has been successful in the General Assembly.

Lloyd Isaacs, chief executive of that group, endorsed the proposed change as good for education, and suggesting a link between his organization and the State Board of Education to "work together for good education" while diminishing the power of special interest groups in lobbying the Legislature.

Cheers Remain Muted

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Consumers got a break at the grocery store last month, but shoppers who've been keeping track of prices over the long haul will find little to cheer about, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1979 and has rechecked on or about the start of each succeeding month. One item, chocolate chip cookies, was dropped from the list at the end of November 1977 because the manufacturer discontinued the package size used in the survey.

The latest check produced a mixture of good and bad news.

On the plus side for shoppers: The marketbasket bill at the checklist store declined in eight cities, rose in four and was unchanged in one. On an overall basis, the marketbasket bill dropped an average of 1 percent during the month. The drop compared with a 2.7 percent boost in January.

On the minus side, however: Comparing prices today with those a year earlier, the AP found the marketbasket bill increased by an average of 8.3 percent. And a look at current costs versus prices when the marketbasket survey was started showed that the average bill at the checklist store has risen 71 percent. The Consumer Price Index of all items has gone up about 55 percent in roughly the same period.

The February decreases were due mainly to declines in the price of coffee and eggs. The price of a pound of coffee dropped at the checklist store in eight cities last month, reflecting, in part, cuts at the wholesale level which, in turn, reflected increased supplies of beans from Brazil and other

A Child Care Disaster

WASHINGTON — Washington so immersed in its own miseries last week that few persons paid much attention to some legislative hearings conducted by Sen. Alan Cranston of California. The senator was busily greasing the skids for his Child Care Act of 1979. Very soon now, if all goes well, his subcommittee will launch this darling little disaster.

The mind rolls back to the fall of 1971, when Congress attempted to write some child development amendments into the Economic Opportunity Act. In December of that year, President Nixon vetoed the bill; he termed it "the most radical piece of legislation to emerge from the 92nd Congress." The then Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota, chief sponsor of the amendments, denounced Nixon's veto as one of the most irresponsible statements he had ever seen, "cruel, hysterical and false," thus raising a good question about who was hysterical.

The Nixon veto stuck, but Mondale's forces came back in the summer with a slightly diluted version known as S. 3617. It passed the Senate in June of 1972, but languished in the House. Nothing more was heard of the idea in the Nixon-Ford years.

But behold! Now comes Senator Cranston's brand-new bouncing baby, S. 4, the son of S. 3617. What a lovely child! Here the word "development" no longer intrudes. The old references to providing "comprehensive physical and mental health" have disappeared. Nothing is said of psychological services to overcome emotional barriers. But let us not be deceived. Cranston's bill, as a veteran Virginia legislator used to say, is the same old 'coon with another ring around his tail.

This is not to suggest that no social problem exists in the area of untended children of working mothers. Of course the problem exists. The situation is especially difficult for children of preschool age. It would be pleasant (and probably would save society much money and anguish later on) if every child in these formative years were assured loving, intelligent care.

But what we have here, despite the hearings that were concluded last week, is a leap in the dark. The senator tosses around some figures, but the figures are meaningless. He speaks of 6.4 million children under six whose mothers are working, but we actually know very little about these children, their family incomes, familial resources, or anything else.

In any event, his purpose is to subsidize child-care services for all children up to the age of 15. His bill runs on to 26 pages, but you will find only two sentences — two sentences! — that toss a bone to the idea of parenthood. The bill recognizes "that the parent is and must continue to be the primary influence in the life of the child and that the parent must have ultimate responsibility for decisions on how the child will be raised." The bill also says that nothing in it shall be construed "to authorize any public agency or private organization...to interfere with, or to intervene in, any child-rearing decision of parents."

We would have consultants, advisers, experts and technicians; we would have data banks, innovations, demonstrations, pilot pro-

40 Years Ago Today

March 1, 1939
F. M. Wooten, former mayor of Greenville, served notice today that he would appear before the Board of Aldermen tomorrow night and make several suggestions involving changes in the city government.

He outlined his proposals and said he would welcome a discussion pro and con, both by members of the board and others.

Wooten said he recommended that the mayor be made chairman ex-officio of the Board of Aldermen, the Water and Light Commission and of the Board of Trustees of the schools and be invested with authority to vote on each case of a tie.

Checks totaling $10,967.50, representing interest payments on Pitt County road and bridge bonds, were sent to New York banks today by J. Vance Perkins, county treasurer.

The checks are in payment of interest on the following bonds: Road and bridge, four and one-half percent bonds dated March 1, 1925' $3,352; road and bridge, five percent bonds dated September 1, 1923, $5,665; five percent bridge bonds dated March 1, 1917, $1,225; and Winterville township road bonds, five percent interest, $725.

Letters submitted for Public Forum must be limited to 300 words.

To the editor:
Elective abortion is legal in our country for only one reason — because we the people have accepted a number of myths.

Myth 1: Abortion is safer for women than live childbirth. This is simply not true. According to statistics of every country with accurate records, legal abortion is significantly more fatal to women than live childbirth.

Myth 2: Abortion helps women emotionally. In a study by two English researchers, only the most immature or sociopathic women did not have strong feelings of guilt and grief after their abortions.

Myth 3: Abortion helps children. Child abuse has consistently risen since abortion has been legalized. In a recent California study of 600 battered children, 91 percent were found to be planned pregnancies. Abortion itself is the worst form of child abuse imaginable. For example, with saline abortions, the babies kick and struggle for at least an hour before they die.

Myth 4: Abortion solves the problem of unwanted babies. What unwanted babies? In 1978 one adoption agency in North Carolina had 2,200 requests for children. The agency placed 135 babies and 65 older children. When agencies make public the information about children in their care, no child goes unadopted.

Myth 5: Abortion helps someone. No. Certainly the abortion doctors are taking in a lot of money, included $1 million of our North Carolina tax money last year. But do even they benefit? Dr. Bernard Nathanson resigned as director of a New York abortion clinic, saying, "I came to believe that I had presided over 60,000 deaths." Who would want to face that kind of fact?

As our legislators debate whether to pay for the destruction of innocent human life, remember that we can be fined up to $5,000 for destroying a golden eagle egg.

Worse Than Statistics Show?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — If, as you've been told repeatedly, the statistical indicators show the economy is expanding and you're living within your means and you haven't exceeded credit limits, why do you feel so badly?

Inflation, of course, is part of the reason why. It has to be when prices are rising at double-digit rates that, if continued, would reduce your dollars to 50 cents before 1986.

But you may indeed be worse off than the statistics show.

When, for example, you are told that household income is keeping pace with rising prices you must avoid applying the findings to a particular situation, such as your own household or that of your neighbor.

Averages distort. Among the reasons why: Two-income families, rapid pay increases in the age group 24 to 44 years, number of children, geographical price differences, size and condition of house. And more.

Sindlinger & Co., which conducts daily telephone surveys of household finances, estimates the current expansion is fed entirely by 3 of every 10 households. In earlier expansions, 6 of 10 households participated.

Moreover, says Albert Sindlinger, a pioneer in consumer surveying, most of those 3 in 10 households have multiple income producers.

And the preponderance of them is in the upwardly mobile 25-44 age group.

Thus, he reports, 6 of every 10 households "are simply expending for maintenance of living standards, and 25 percent to 30 percent of all U.S. households have lowered their expenditures and standard of living."

Never before, says Sindlinger, has he seen such a low percentage of households participating in an economic expansion. Or to phrase it the other way, never has he seen so many excluded from economic growth.

Some of the excluded households, he finds, are among those responsible for the high level of consumer credit — call it debt — which now amounts to a record high of close to $1.15 trillion.

A debate continues over the potential dangers of such household red ink. In 1978, for example, repayment of installment debt amounted to more than 34 percent of disposable (after-tax) income. Too much?

As in all matters economic, the opinions are divided. Based on national averages of various sorts, some argue that households are able to repay the debt and continue living up to their usual standards.

In fact, while some analysts express horror at household debt, Citibank, second largest commercial bank, announced recently that "The overextended consumer exists only on economic myth."

Remote Intelligence Job

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Lacking observers anywhere near the battlefield, the United States is relying on a complicated mosaic of intercepted radio messages and satellite photographs to keep track of the Chinese-Vietnamese war.

The process of patching together the products of such remote intelligence means that assessments available to senior U.S. officials lag at least 12 hours behind actual events on the battlefield.

This is a far cry from what intelligence officials are used to. In the 1973 Mideast war, for example, U.S. military attaches and diplomats were present in the capitals of the warring nations.

At least in the case of Israel, American military officers attached to the embassy were given detailed briefings and access to the fighting fronts. As a result, U.S. officials in Washington received a steady stream of timely tables reflecting the ebb and flow of the battles.

The United States has no diplomatic relations with Vietnam and, therefore, has no official representatives in Hanoi in touch with the government there. There is a U.S. diplomatic mission in Peking, but no American military officers are stationed there.

While some information reaches U.S. officials from friendly countries with diplomatic missions in Hanoi, intelligence from such sources is generally of a dubious quality.

Therefore, U.S. intelligence agencies depend principally on what their electronic ears and photographic eyes detect.

The detailed methods by which U.S. intelligence information is gathered are closely guarded secrets.

But it is known that the United States keeps aloft several kinds of reconnaissance satellites traveling in orbits at different altitudes. Some observation satellites are as far out as about 25,000 miles, others pass over the earth in orbits as low as about 135 miles from the surface.

High-resolution cameras, particularly in low-orbit satellites, can easily pick out objects such as tanks, artillery batteries and trucks. Some satellites are able to pierce the cover of night with radar and infra-red heat-detecting sensors.

Photographs are ejected in capsules that parachute toward earth and are plucked out of the air by specially equipped Air Force planes.

Television links are used to transmit pictures in black and white, color and infra-red patterns to ground and ship stations.

But a veteran intelligence specialist said "this kind of military action in that kind of territory is hard to keep track of by photography" from satellites. Vietnam-Chinese fighting so far has been mostly in mountainous terrain.

A specialist said the difficulties stem from a "combination of weather and ambiguities on the ground."

Asked what he meant by ambiguities, he said, "You really can't see an infantry line on the ground, but you can see a mass of tanks."

It takes analysis of many photographs, snapped during successive satellite orbits, to determine changes in the battle area, experts said.

They indicated that some of the most valuable information is obtained from constant listening-in on Vietnamese and Chinese military radio com-

Strength For Today

MARKS OF A TRUE CHRISTIAN
What are the marks of a true Christian?
The first, of course, is faith; for all religious life begins in faith. But it must not end only in faith; it must end also in love. If faith marks the beginning of the Christian life, love is its goal and climax.

Between this beginning and end there are qualities which which all Christians must have. They must possess courage, patience, loyalty, humility, generosity, penitence, and zeal for high and noble living. Christians do not belong to themselves; they belong first to God and then to their fellows. When they became Christians, the center of life ceased to be within the circle of their own interests and was placed at the center of the neighbor's interests.

Best of all, the life of a Christian abides in the will and love and presence of God. When a person becomes a Christian he or she moves out of the hovel of himself and into the heaven of his creator.

Business Booms At Ski Resorts

BANNER ELK, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina ski resorts continued to do a booming business during the 1977-1978 winter season, with visits to the state's ski slopes up 50 percent over the previous season, an economic impact study shows.

The study was released Wednesday by the North Carolina Ski Area Association. During the 1977-78 winter season, 508,000 skiing enthusiasts visited the slopes, compared with 338,000 in 1976-77 and 184,000 in 1975-76.

The 270 percent increase over the last two seasons has made the South the fastest growing ski region in the nation.

The continuing boom in Southern skiing is attributed to four basic developments: Improved snow-making capabilities, snow grooming, area improvements and management; and ski promotions. Weather was not the dominant factor in the increase.

North Carolina's ski slopes are comprised of Appalachian, Beech Mountain, Cataloochee, Hound Ears, Mill Ridge, Seven Devils, Sugar Mountain and Wolf Laurel. They make up the N.C. Ski Area Association. The association's study also discovered that the North Carolina skier spends slightly more each day than the national skier, $59.50 as opposed to $53.29. The study showed that 85 percent of all skiers are either beginner or intermediate in ability, and that a majority - 62 percent - of all skiers take to the slopes on weekends.

The ski industry's economic impact on the state is described as tremendous, on the basis of tourist dollars and employment. The survey showed that $30.3 million was spent by skiers in North Carolina, which can be measured as $150 million in tourist dollar activity, the association said.

More than 1,000 people were employed in the industry in 1977-78 with a payroll of $1.7 million.

The ski study involved extensive sampling of those skiing at North Carolina slopes and a detailed financial questionnaire from the ski areas.

Weather conditions for the current ski season were described as rather poor, with little cold weather for snow making until late December. Skiable natural snowfall did not appear until mid-January.

Worst of all, many North Carolina ski areas suffered through seven weekends of rain, which might lead to speculation that ski visits this winter would be drastically below last season.

Egg prices, which had been going up with the cold weather, started down again. The price of a dozen eggs dropped during February at the checklists store in 11 cities; by the beginning of March, the average price was 84 cents a dozen, compared to 91 cents a month earlier.

There is no sign, meanwhile, of any real break in the steady increase in meat prices, although there are some scattered, temporary sales. Declining supplies of beef are responsible for most of the price hikes. "There will be short-term ups and downs in the price of beef, but the trend for the next three years is toward higher prices," says the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

No attempt was made to weight the AP survey results according to population density or in terms of what percent of a family's actual grocery outlay each item represents. The AP did not try to compare actual prices from city to city. The only comparisons were made in terms of percentages of increase or decrease.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, milk, frankfurters and granulated sugar. The cities checked were: Albuquerque, N.M., Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Salt Lake City and Seattle.

GOP Sessions

The Pitt County Republican Party will hold its biennial precinct and county conventions March 8.

The 7:30 p.m. session, to be held in the Pitt County District Courtroom, will include the election of precinct and county officers for the next two years.

Delegates to the First Congressional District convention and to the State GOP convention will also be elected at the March 8 meeting.

The First Congressional District convention will be held at the Pitt County Court House at 2 p.m. April 21, while the State GOP convention is scheduled for May 18 and 19 at the Civic Center in Raleigh.

Gets Prison For Bribery

ROME (AP) — Italy's highest court convicted former Defense Minister Mario Tanassi of taking Lockheed bribe money, sentenced him to 28 months imprisonment and order him removed from Parliament.

The Constitutional Court also found the former air force chief of staff, Gen. Luigi Fanali, and three others guilty of corruption in the $1.6-million Lockheed bribery scandal but acquitted former Defense Minister Luigi Gui and four others.

Fanali was sentenced to 21 months in prison. The trial lasted nearly five months, the 28-judge court deliberated for 33 days, and the session today was televised live throughout the country.

Tanassi, a 63-year-old member of the Democratic Socialist Party, and Gui, a 64-year-old Christian Democrat, were ordered to trial nearly two years ago by Parliament. Only Parliament can order a present or former cabinet minister to stand trial.

munications. This is called signal intelligence.

One expert said forward combat elements probably are using low-power radios that cannot be monitored effectively, "so we can't keep up with the battle hour by hour."

But, he said, "We can intercept communications with higher headquarters when higher-powered radios are used. That's how the U.S. has identified 17 Chinese divisions deployed in the Vietnamese border area."

This intercepted information is recorded, translated and coordinated with satellite-gathered photography to develop assessments of the war situation.

The location of U.S.-manned land listening stations in the Asian area is one of the most sensitive secrets, partly because of possible diplomatic complications which could lead to their shutdown if a host nation was embarrassed by disclosure of their presence.

U.S. patrol planes and Navy ships operating in international waters also carry on radio intercepts that fit into the mosaic constructed by the intelligence analysts.

U.S. Embassy Opens In Peking

By R. GREGORY NOKES Associated Press Writer
PEKING (AP) — Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal hoisted the American flag above the first U.S. Embassy on the Chinese mainland since 1949, today as the Chinese and American governments completed the process of establishing normal diplomatic relations.

China was to raise its liaison office in Washington to embassy status with a similar ceremony later in the day. The U.S. Embassy in Taiwan was closed simultaneously with the Peking ceremony.

But there was little fanfare in either Peking or Washington, reflecting the strains that have developed because of the Carter administration's outspoken opposition to the Chinese invasion of Vietnam on Feb. 17.

Blumenthal, representing President Carter, told a crowd of 300 in front of the building that has housed the U.S. Liaison Office since it opened in 1973:

"For too long our peoples and our governments have been separated. That separation has ended. Our histories and our political and economic systems are different yet we can trade together and we can work together for a better world."

A phonograph played "The Star-Spangled Banner," a dozen American children sang "America the Beautiful" and the noise of firecrackers added a Chinese touch.

The crowd included American and Chinese employees of the embassy and their families and about 100 American businessmen. About 200 other Chinese stood across the street watching quietly.

Chinese officials were not invited to the ceremony, reportedly because the Chinese did not invite American officials to their ceremony in Washington. But Vice Premier Yu Chiu-li headed a group of about 25 officials who attended a reception afterward.

Reporters were not invited to the reception and were not told why.

Ambassador Leonard Woodcock, confirmed Monday by the Senate, was still in Washington, where the U.S. Senate confirmed his appointment Monday.

When he was sworn in at the State Department Wednesday, he said he hoped the new relationship would help the nations "build a stable East Asia" and establish "peace in the entire world."

T. Stapleton Roy, Woodcock's deputy, said the ceremony had special significance for him because he was present at the Fourth of July ceremony at the U.S. Embassy in Nanking in 1949, a few months before it moved with the Nationalist government to Taiwan.

The United States severed diplomatic ties with the Nationalists on Jan. 1 and established them with the Communist regime. But the United States will continue trade, economic and cultural relations with Taiwan through so-called private agencies in Washington and Taipei.

The American Institute on Taiwan was to open today simultaneously with its Taiwanese counterpart, the Coordination Council for North American Affairs, but opening of the American branch was postponed because Congress has not voted legislation to finance it.

U.S. Setback

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. ability to monitor Soviet missile tests apparently has suffered a significant setback after a guerrilla attack on a second major intelligence-gathering station in Iran.

American sources indicated Wednesday that U.S. technicians destroyed sensitive equipment at the station in northeast Iran before fleeing to Tehran. The sources asked not to be identified.

U.S. officials insisted there had been "no compromise of classified equipment, documents or materials" — none of the secret technology had fallen in a usable form into hostile hands.

The station at Kapcan was considered the more important of the two major electronic monitoring operations in Iran. The United States reportedly closed the other station weeks ago because of the political upheaval in that country.

U.S. officials said the station attacked Wednesday by a guerrilla band was "back in friendly hands." But it seemed unlikely that the government of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini would permit the United States to restore it and resume monitoring operations.

There was no official estimate on the value of the station's equipment, although there have been reports that the sophisticated electronic devices were valued at about $500 million.

N.C. Businessmen Urge Liability Limit In Suits

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Manufacturers and businessmen, saying their product-liability insurance costs have increased as much as 1,000 percent in the last few years, told legislators Wednesday they favor legislation limiting their liability in suits.

Because of the broad immunity it would provide, manufacturers hope it will solve what they contend is a product-liability crisis in North Carolina. But the same legislation has trial lawyers and consumer advocates saying consumers won't be able to sue for injury caused by defective products if it is enacted.

Both sides spoke to the issue at a public hearing Wednesday called by the Senate and House committees that are considering the companion product-liability bills.

Supporters of the bill said their liability-insurance costs have skyrocketed and that they are having trouble finding companies that will sell insurance to them.

"Our insurance premiums went from $525 for $1 million in coverage to $13,000 for the same amount in one year," said B.E. Combs of Interstate Equipment Co. from Statesville.

Consumer advocate Lillian Woo said enacting the legislation would encourage manufacturers to produce inferior products. "Are we to have no proper redress if manufacturers choose not to build safe products," she asked.

The Senate panel was scheduled to consider the bill today. Observers say it stands a better chance of being approved in the more conservative Senate than the House.

In other legislative action:
Credit Union
A bill that would give the state credit union commission power to remove any officer, director, committeeman or employee of a state-chartered credit union was approved by the House.

District Meet Held In Kinston
District F of the Southeast Region of the North Carolina Jaycees recently held its district meeting in Kinston. Members attended from New Bern, Winterville, Fountain, Greene County, Macclesfield and Kinston.

Vic Corey of Winterville won the speak-up competition in the open division. He will represent District F in regional competition to be held March 2-4 at Atlantic Beach.

McFarland, of Bahama, was found guilty of falsely identifying and marketing 48,854 pounds of tobacco on his government-issued marketing cards.

Hill pleaded guilty last Thursday to false identification and marketing of 1,699 pounds of tobacco. Two other charges against him in the three-count indictment were dropped.

Government witnesses testified that McFarland had certified to the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service that two of his tenants had planted 60 acres of tobacco when an official measurement of the field later shows only 27 acres actually planted in tobacco.

The measure now goes to the Senate.

Drunk Driving
The Senate approved and sent to the House a bill that would change provisions by which the Division of Motor Vehicles may restore drivers' licenses to motorists considered habitual offenders.

The bill would allow a person who has lost his driver's license for five years because of three convictions of driving under the influence to get his license back after three years if he shows satisfactory proof of no further violation.

Highways
A bill that would transfer any surplus of state money left at the end of the current fiscal year to the state highway fund for maintenance and completion of the highway system was filed in the House by Rep. John Brown, R-Wilkes.

Under the measure, the highway fund would get any money that would otherwise be available for a tax rebate, as proposed by Gov. Jim Hunt.

Check Off
Rep. John Gamble, D-Lincoln, filed a bill that would require an audit of state tax money contributed to political parties through the income-tax form check-off provision.

Scalping
Rep. Mary Seymour, D-Guilford, filed a bill that would broaden the state's law against ticket-scalping by making it illegal to sell tickets to any event above the printed price.

State law now bans scalping tickets to athletic contests. However, the bill would allow authorized ticket agencies to charge a service fee.

New Bills
Rep. Ted Kaplan, D-Forsyth, filed a bill that would require child-passenger restraints to be used in cars transporting children under the age of 4. The measure would be effective in 1980.

Law enforcement officers will get a raise if a bill filed by Rep. David Parnell, D-Robeson, becomes law. It would raise the minimum salary from $8,800 to $9,600 a year.

A bill filed by Rep. Richard Wright, D-Columbus, would appropriate $286,000 over the next two years for hospital care for migrant farm workers.

Marketing Conviction

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — William A. McFarland, a Durham County farmer, was found guilty in U.S. District Court Wednesday of illegal use of his tobacco-marketing card.

J. Isaac Hill, a Durham tobacco warehouse official, pleaded guilty earlier to a similar charge for his involvement in the case.

U.S. District Court Judge Hiram Ward delayed sentencing of the two men.

The two, along with Morris W. Currin, another warehouse official, had been indicted earlier this year by a federal grand jury on a charge that they falsely identified and marketed a quantity of tobacco through the Star Brick Warehouse in Durham in 1976.

Currin was cleared of the charge last week after the government dropped its case against him.

McFarland, of Bahama, was found guilty of falsely identifying and marketing 48,854 pounds of tobacco on his government-issued marketing cards.

Hill pleaded guilty last Thursday to false identification and marketing of 1,699 pounds of tobacco. Two other charges against him in the three-count indictment were dropped.

Government witnesses testified that McFarland had certified to the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service that two of his tenants had planted 60 acres of tobacco when an official measurement of the field later shows only 27 acres actually planted in tobacco.

Deciding On Inmates Ask Sentences Union Label Limited To Nine Years

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The board of directors of the North Carolina Association of Educators is to decide Saturday whether the organization of teachers and school administrators is to be considered a labor union.

Lloyd Isaacs, executive director of the association, says the decision could be a milestone in the history of the organization.

The decision hinges on a request by educators at Barber-Scotia College, a small predominantly black school in Concord, that the NCAE assist them in salary negotiations.

Isaacs said the NCAE board must decide whether the association should come under the federal Labor Management Reporting and Disclosure Act so as to help the private school employees.

Such a move would make the state organization a labor union, Isaacs said.

The National Education Association, with which the state group is affiliated, already is regarded as a union under the labor-management act.

Isaacs said a small percentage of the NCAE's members are from private institutions, but the organization has never intervened in labor-management bargaining.

Public employees are barred by state law from collective bargaining, but the NCAE is lobbying now to obtain that right.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A group of inmates at Central Prison has mailed letters to all the state's legislators asking that prison sentences be limited to nine years — retroactively.

The National Offender's Movement on Repelling Enslavement, or NO MORE, led by President Wayne Brooks, wrote a letter to The Associated Press saying the group had mailed letters to the legislature asking that the sentence limit be enacted into law.

In the letter to legislators, Brooks and Howard E. Safrit, another inmate and the group's secretary, say the legislature should consider that a North Carolina general statute calls for humane treatment of prisoners.

But, the letter continues, "Also, a British study found that nine years is the maximum amount of time a prisoner can be kept incarcerated without causing permanent psychological or physical harm to the individual."

It could not be determined where the study cited was done.

CHOIR UNION
The United Choir Union will be held at St. Matthew's FWB Church Sunday, March 4, at 7 p.m.

Brooks, of Gastonia, is serving three sentences totaling up to 30 years and is awaiting trial on an armed robbery charge that carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, according to prison officials.

The group has its own letterhead carrying the address 835 W. Morgan Street. That's Central Prison.

But Warden Sam Garrison said he's never heard of the group and that if it does exist, it's illegal.

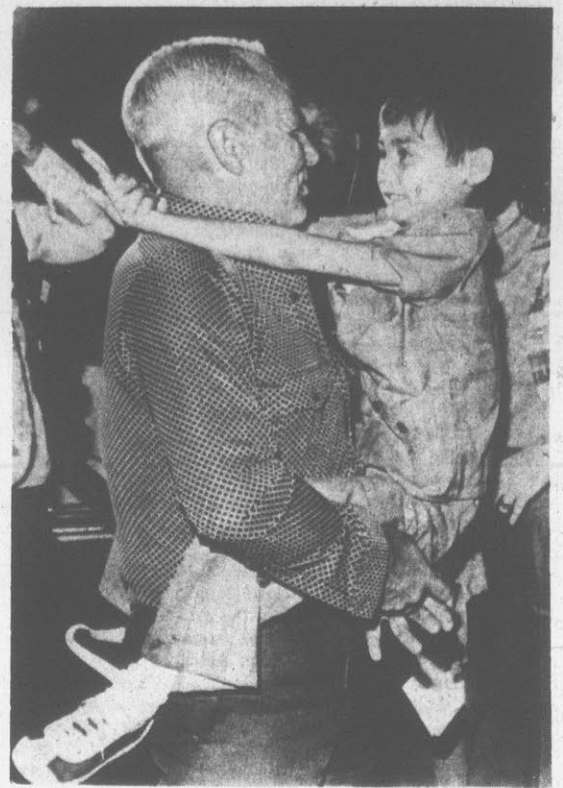

"It's not sanctioned by the Department of Corrections," Garrison said.

He said Brooks was at one time involved with an attempt at the prison to form a prisoners' union. The union idea was declared illegal by the North Carolina Supreme Court, Garrison said, and he considers NO MORE an attempt to get around that ruling.

Enclosed with the letter was a petition signed by 446 inmates at the prison supporting the nine-year maximum sentence idea. About 1,500 inmates are in the prison.

Brooks could not be reached for comment. Garrison said it is against prison policy to allow inmates to use the telephone, and he declined to make an exception.

Confirm SALT II Calls For U.S. Destroying Sixty Big B-52s

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States would have to destroy 60 mothballed B-52 bombers to comply with the terms of the proposed SALT II treaty, according to State Department officials.

The treaty, if finally negotiated and approved by the Senate, would limit the number of strategic weapons that either the United States or the Soviet Union could deploy.

Administration treaty advocates, including President Carter, have emphasized the fact that the treaty would require the Soviets to dismantle several hundred missiles. The Soviets would undoubtedly choose their oldest and least effective missiles for destruction.

But they have always said the treaty would not require the United States to dismantle any of its "current" weapons. Though not technically deceptive, that statement "was a little bit of fancy footwork," one official said Wednesday.

The B-52s that would have to be destroyed are currently in storage and it would require more than a year to make them ready for combat, said the officials who insisted on remaining anonymous. There are no current plans to take the planes out of storage and deploy them. Thus, they are not considered "current" weapons by the administration.

The SALT pact would require each side to limit itself to a total of 2,400 strategic weapons initially and to reduce that number to 2,250 early in the 1980s.

In addition, there would be lower limits on the number of multiple warhead missiles and bombers equipped with long-range cruise missiles each side could deploy. The Pentagon currently plans to equip its B-52s with the long-range cruise missiles.

The officials said further reductions in the B-52 force might become necessary in 1985, depending on how quickly the United States adds new Trident submarines to its strategic forces. Under the SALT definitions, each launch tube on a Trident sub counts the same as a B-52 equipped with cruise missiles. The tube will be able to launch a missile with as many as 14 warheads.

The new Tridents are scheduled to be launched in 1984 and 1985, the last year of the treaty. Their deployment would require reductions in some other sector of the American forces.

The officials said they are unsure whether the Trident will proceed on schedule. But if it does, they will be forced to choose between retiring older submarines or deploying fewer bombers to stay within the SALT II limits, they said.

Storms Damage Carolina Shore

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Two winter storms in the past two weeks caused extensive damage along much of North Carolina's already-eroding shoreline, and officials say the problem is at the critical stage. State, federal and local officials said Wednesday that the coast has eroded to the point that beachfront houses are in jeopardy. An area of the Cape Hatteras National Seashore was also damaged in the storms.

The coast's deterioration from northeasterly winds and raging tides during the past two weeks has stirred fears of even worse storms, such as hurricanes. Some local officials say they will seek state and federal financial aid to shore up their beaches.

"Everybody experienced beach erosion, from the South Carolina line right up through Kitty Hawk," said Topsail Beach Mayor Michael A. Borik. "We've lost at least five feet of sand for miles."

The hardest-hit areas were Carolina Beach and Wrightsville Beach, where officials say eight to 12 feet of sand was washed out to sea during the storms.

"The storm accelerated erosion here to the point that it is now quite severe," said Mayor Robert W. Sawyer of Wrightsville Beach. "Two houses are in jeopardy and we have taken temporary measures to keep two shoreline roads from falling into the water."

Carolina Beach Mayor Ted Seawell said the problem had reached the critical stage in his town and that many areas were no longer adequately protected from the ocean.

"We would be in severe trouble in the event of a hurricane and could possibly lose houses and utility connections," he said.

S. M. Newby, a spokesman for the U.S. Coast Guard, said the storms wiped out the beach near the Cape Hatteras Inlet.

"The beach now drops off right from the dune into the water," Newby said.

Officials from the coastal communities said getting state and federal assistance to combat beach erosion may be difficult.

The state has been reluctant to supply assistance in the past. In November, the state Department of Human Resources and Community Development denied a request from Topsail Beach for emergency state funds to help control erosion. Human Resources officials said the aid would benefit private, rather than public, interests.

Lawrence Roush of the National Park Service at Cape Hatteras said it was normal for beaches to lose some sand during the winter because of winds and changing currents. He said much of the sand would be replaced in the summer by southerly winds.

But Seawell said his town has been fighting a losing battle with the sea for a long time.

"More sand has been taken out in the winter than has been replaced in the summer," he said. "It's not getting any better."

Local Physician A Diplomat

Dr. William Sidney Dawson, Greenville family physician, has been named a diplomate of the American Board of Family Practice as a result of passing a certification examination offered by the ABFP.

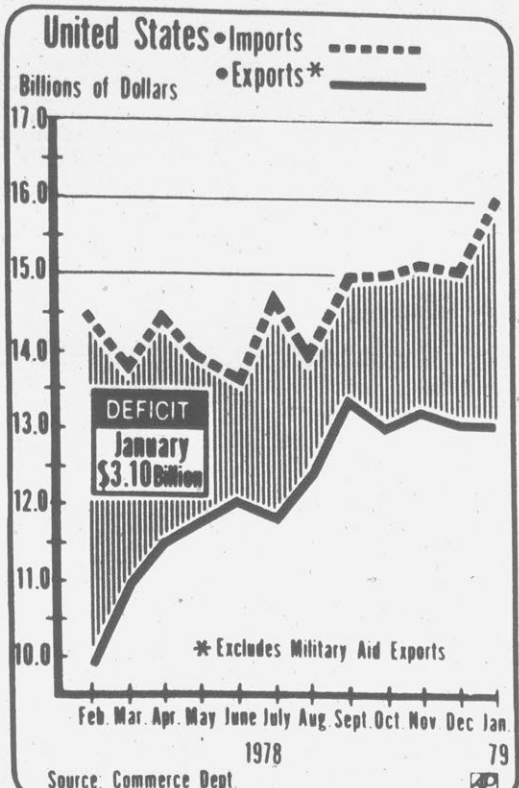

The intensive two-day written exam is designed to prove the physician's ability in internal medicine, surgery, obstetrics, gynecology, pediatrics, psychiatry and community medicine. To qualify to take the exam, a doctor must have either completed a three-year family practice residency or have been in family practice at least six years and have successfully completed 300 hours of approved continuing medical education.

Planning-Zoning...

recommended for rezoning from RA-20 to Highway Commercial, while a small residential section south of State Road 1528 would be recommended for R6-Mobile Home from RA-20. The remaining portion would be rezoned from RA-20 to Unoffensive Industry.

Browder explained that the planning staff had studied the uses in the area and no set development pattern was evident. The RA-20 zoning designation had resulted in numerous special use permit requests, he said. He said that RA-20 is "definitely" not the proper designation for the area.

Chief Building Inspector Alton Warren endorsed the rezoning, noting that the Board of Adjustments hesitated to continue issuing special use permits for the Old Creek Road area.

The property that will be recommended for rezoning includes acreage on both sides of the Pactolus Highway and also both sides of Green Street.

Commissioners voted unanimously to recommend that the City Council deny a request by Harry H. Hardee to rezone some 6.25 acres on the west side of NC 43 at Bell's Fork Crossroads from RA-20 to Highway Commercial.

Planning Director Bobby Roberson explained that the property is located just within the extraterritorial boundary jurisdiction of the city. He indicated that the property requested for rezoning involves some 1,200 feet of frontage on the highway with a depth of some 250 feet.

Roberson said that if the rezoning is recommended, it could open the door on NC 43 to additional commercial development. He said the commissioners should decide if the commercial designation is the direction they wish development to take in the area.

Commissioner Lyman Ormond said that he felt that if the property was going to be highway commercial, the requested depth was not enough. He said that if the highway is four-laned in the future, the situation with access points would pose a safety hazard.

Bill Williams, who said that he represented an adjacent property owner, stated the opposition of the property owner to the Hardee request.

Ginger Hackett, representing Hardee, said that the property depth could be moved back beyond 250 feet. She said that the depth figure was chosen because it had been indicated that 250 feet was adequate.

Commissioner Wes Hankins said that he was opposed to commercial rezoning in this particular area and he acknowledged that a precedent would be set as to future use of property in the area.

Other action included:

— Recommendation that the Council approve a request by J. T. Manning Jr. for rezoning 9.45 acres on the north side of Greenville Boulevard, southwest, just west of Baker Heights Subdivision from RA-20 to R-6;

— Recommendation to the Council that the western extraterritorial limits be extended approximately 1,000 feet from NC 43 to just south of the 264 Bypass at the Red Oak intersection in order to accommodate water line extensions (the action would place residents on both the east and west side of the highway inside the jurisdiction);

— Approval of the preliminary plan of Section II of the Wilcar Division, located west of NC 11-US 13, just south of Greenfield Terrace; and

The Greenville Planning Commission gave its approval to the preliminary plat of Fairlane Farms, located on the west side of Hooker Road across from Cambridge Subdivision.

Tom Anthony, who said that he resided on St. Andrews Drive, questioned what drainage provisions would be made in the new development. Anthony said that he was losing land because of erosion.

Anthony was informed that all internal drainage in the subdivision would be piped.

Approval was also given to the preliminary plat of Carolina East Mall, Tract Two, located on the west side of NC 11 across from Club Pines Drive.

Under the development plan, three lots would be created for development on the road frontage. Access to the lots would be from an internal corridor and not from the highway, it was pointed out. The state highway authorities have already approved four controlled access points for the development on NC 11.

Approval of The final plat of Section V of Twin Oaks Subdivision, located on the west side of Greenville Boulevard north of 14th Street, was approved, as were the preliminary and final plats of Section V of Village Grove Subdivision, located on the southeast corner of Memorial Drive and Farmville Boulevard.

The board adopted the semi-annual report involving commission activities.

ters of regional concern. We believe this new organization will fill that role," Harrison emphasized.

The president said members will be recruited from businesses in the East, and noted that chamber executives from local chambers of commerce in the region will be asked to serve on a Staff Advisory Council for the new organization.

Powell, commenting on the newly formed chamber, said the ENCCC will be "financed by firms and individuals who have an interest in the whole of Eastern North Carolina."

A program of work for the chamber will be considered at the next meeting, Powell noted.

"What really brought this about," he explained, was the effectiveness demonstrated by the counties and municipalities working together for the U.S. 264 project.

Twenty of the counties involved in the ENCCC, "don't even have a chamber of commerce," Powell explained. "They see this as a way to become involved."

An office will be established in Greenville, with a part-time person to do the clerical work to start with, Powell theorized. Ultimately a director and staff could be hired on a full-time basis.

It is, "not unrealistic," Powell commented, that the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce could provide interim support for the new area organization until it is firmly established.

The temporary mailing address of the Eastern North Carolina Chamber of Commerce is: P. O. Box 274, Wilson, N.C. 27893.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt today proposed creation of New Generation Intergovernmental Committees at the state and county level to coordinate the work of agencies involved in improving the welfare of children.

Flanked by Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston, and Rep. Edward Holmes, D-Chatham, Hunt outlined legislation to coordinate the many programs designed to assist families. Rauch and Holmes are chief sponsors of the bill.

The bill, titled the New Generation Act, would set up a state committee chaired by the governor and committees in each county that would include representatives from the public schools, social service agencies, mental health and health departments, developmental evaluation centers, libraries and agricultural extension units.

"We've got to commit ourselves to working with young children at the earliest ages," Hunt said. "We have to start with expectant mothers. Then after children are born, we have to see they are well fed and they get the kind of medical care they need."

"We find a lot of children, especially out in rural areas, that we just aren't reaching," Hunt said.

The legislation would save money for the state, according to Holmes. "Many agencies are overlapping their services. This is an effort to get them to coordinate," he said.

Hunt said no additional staff would be required to implement the bill. "We'll use the staff we already have. There's plenty of staff," he said.

Hunt, who returned from a national governors' meeting in Washington this week where energy was a main topic, said he hoped states will be given some opportunity to have input into a national energy policy if the loss of oil from Iran continues.

"The federal government must realize that in rural states, some people have to drive a long way to work," Hunt said.

Asked what effect closing gas stations on weekends might have on the state's tourist industry, which his administration has been encouraging, Hunt said weekend closings would probably be detrimental and he hoped if gas stations are closed, it could be at other times.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is speeding up shipment of arms to the Arabian Peninsula nation of North Yemen following renewed hostilities with Marxist neighbor South Yemen.

"Our national interest in the security and the national integrity in the Arabian Peninsula is clear," State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said in announcing the shipment of anti-tank and anti-aircraft weapons to North Yemen.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnamese troops repulsed Chinese forces near Lang Son, a key provincial capital, but the Chinese battled back successfully at some points, intelligence sources in Bangkok reported today.

Vietnam claimed its forces had killed or wounded 27,000 Chinese in 12 days of fighting. The Hanoi report said Vietnamese troops also had destroyed 200 tanks and 30 other military vehicles but the claims could not be verified.

Beasley said the TRW decision to purchase the facility culminates a three and a half month search for a suitable buyer.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — A Salisbury psychiatrist has pleaded innocent to charges of illicit distribution of prescription drugs.

Dr. Edward Spicer, who was formerly associated with the Tri-County Mental Health Complex, entered the plea Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Winston-Salem.

A jury of five men and seven women was selected Tuesday for the trial.

The government Tuesday dropped a charge of conspiracy to distribute drugs against Spicer and Billy Coward, owner of Landis Drug Co. in Landis. The charges against Spicer involve the drugs Percodan, Tuinal and Quaalude. Percodan is a synthetic narcotic, Quaalude is an anti-depressant and Tuinal is a sedative.

David Smith, an assistant U.S. Attorney, told Judge Hiram Ward that the government may call a number of witnesses in the cases, including Coward, Coward's wife and Robert Coffey, owner of Baxter's Pharmacy in Kannapolis.

Coward and Coffey were convicted last week of conspiring to distribute prescription drugs. Dr. Gerald Shingleton, formerly of Landis, has been accused of conspiring with them and is undergoing psychiatric observation. A date has not been set for his trial.

Sentencing of Coward and Coffey was delayed. Indictments were issued last December against the men after an State Bureau of Investigation probe.

At Coward's and Coffey's trial, agents testified that they were able to obtain the drugs easily and in some cases without any examination by the doctors. The indictments said the doctors issued prescriptions without medical basis and steered the prescription business to either Coffey or Coward.

Japan's Kyodo news service reported that Chinese Vice Premier Li Hsien-nien told reporters in Peking today that the Chinese invasion force had critically damaged "two or three" regular Vietnamese divisions.

"We will pull out once our objective is achieved," Li was quoted as telling the reporters.

In the fighting, the Vietnamese pushed back Chinese troops near the city of Lang Son, 80 miles northeast of Hanoi, and at nearby Loc Binh, the sources said.

They said tank-led Chinese counter-attacks later scored some successes against the Vietnamese in both areas, but still had not taken the city.

Earlier today, Kyodo quoted sources in Hanoi as saying fierce fighting was going on in the Lang Son area, and the Chinese were launching human-wave assaults urged on by bugles.

China said today it would withdraw from Vietnam if the Vietnamese would leave Cambodia. But the Chinese said they were sure the Vietnamese would not accept the challenge.

"The main trend of world public opinion is that Vietnam should withdraw from Kampuchea (Cambodia) and China from Vietnam," Peking's Hsinhua news agency said.

"Although the Chinese frontier troops' counter-attack in self-defense against the Vietnamese aggressors is entirely different in nature from Vietnam's aggression against Kampuchea by armed force," it continued, the concept of a mutual withdrawal "is fair and is also a key to resolving the current tension in Southeast Asia."

But Hsinhua told Hanoi: "We do not think you dare." It said if the Vietnamese left Cambodia, "the puppet regime they have just propped up in Phnom Penh would swiftly collapse...and their ambition to dominate Southeast Asia with Soviet backing would not materialize."

The Vietnamese invaded Cambodia Dec. 25, ousted the pro-Peking government of Premier Pol Pot Jan. 7 and replaced it with a pro-Hanoi regime of Cambodian Communists who opposed Pol Pot. Cambodian army units loyal to Pol Pot have been waging guerrilla war against the Vietnamese ever since.

The Chinese invaded Vietnam Feb. 17 with the declared aim of punishing Hanoi for border provocations, but analysts believe Peking also wanted to draw Vietnamese troops away from the Cambodian fighting to relieve the pressure on Pol Pot's guerrillas.

Hanoi Radio claimed Wednesday that Vietnamese forces wiped out 1,600 Chinese troops in Lang Son province, where analysts believe the major battle of the Vietnam-China war is shaping up.

Japan's Kyodo news service quoted sources in Hanoi as saying fierce fighting was going on in the Lang Son area, just below the border some 80 miles northeast of Hanoi, with the Chinese launching human-wave assaults urged on by bugles. But analysts in Bangkok said the Chinese had not taken the city of Lang Son.

Hanoi Radio also reported battles in coastal Quang Ninh province and north-central Cao Bang province and claimed more than 700 Chinese casualties.

The claims are impossible to verify. Western correspondents have been barred by China and Vietnam from the war front except for one brief visit to Lang Son during a recent U.S. congressional visit to Hanoi.

Most of the reports about the hostilities comes from official Chinese and Vietnamese broadcasts, intelligence analysts in Bangkok, Tokyo, Hong Kong and Washington, or from officials in Peking and Hanoi.

Some successes against the Vietnamese in both areas, but still had not taken the city.

Japan's Kyodo news service reported that Chinese Vice Premier Li Hsien-nien told reporters in Peking today that the Chinese invasion force had critically damaged "two or three" regular Vietnamese divisions.

"We will pull out once our objective is achieved," Li was quoted as telling the reporters.

In the fighting, the Vietnamese pushed back Chinese troops near the city of Lang Son, 80 miles northeast of Hanoi, and at nearby Loc Binh, the sources said.

They said tank-led Chinese counter-attacks later scored some successes against the Vietnamese in both areas, but still had not taken the city.

Earlier today, Kyodo quoted sources in Hanoi as saying fierce fighting was going on in the Lang Son area, and the Chinese were launching human-wave assaults urged on by bugles.

China said today it would withdraw from Vietnam if the Vietnamese would leave Cambodia. But the Chinese said they were sure the Vietnamese would not accept the challenge.

"The main trend of world public opinion is that Vietnam should withdraw from Kampuchea (Cambodia) and China from Vietnam," Peking's Hsinhua news agency said.

"Although the Chinese frontier troops' counter-attack in self-defense against the Vietnamese aggressors is entirely different in nature from Vietnam's aggression against Kampuchea by armed force," it continued, the concept of a mutual withdrawal "is fair and is also a key to resolving the current tension in Southeast Asia."

But Hsinhua told Hanoi: "We do not think you dare." It said if the Vietnamese left Cambodia, "the puppet regime they have just propped up in Phnom Penh would swiftly collapse...and their ambition to dominate Southeast Asia with Soviet backing would not materialize."

The Vietnamese invaded Cambodia Dec. 25, ousted the pro-Peking government of Premier Pol Pot Jan. 7 and replaced it with a pro-Hanoi regime of Cambodian Communists who opposed Pol Pot. Cambodian army units loyal to Pol Pot have been waging guerrilla war against the Vietnamese ever since.

The Chinese invaded Vietnam Feb. 17 with the declared aim of punishing Hanoi for border provocations, but analysts believe Peking also wanted to draw Vietnamese troops away from the Cambodian fighting to relieve the pressure on Pol Pot's guerrillas.

Hanoi Radio claimed Wednesday that Vietnamese forces wiped out 1,600 Chinese troops in Lang Son province, where analysts believe the major battle of the Vietnam-China war is shaping up.

TAKE 2 YEARS OF ARMY BEFORE COLLEGE.

If you think you could get more out of college two years from now, consider the benefits of the Army's new 2-year enlistment.

A CHANCE TO LEARN. Joining for 2 years does limit your choice of Army specialties. But there are still many challenging choices available that will test your skill, strength and stamina. Plus, we guarantee duty assignment in Europe. You'll learn discipline, responsibility and leadership. Qualities that can make you a better person.

A CHANCE TO SAVE. Starting pay is now up to $419.40 a month (before deductions). In addition, the Veterans' Educational Assistance Program (VEAP, for short) will help you accumulate as much as $7,400 for college. (Ask your Army Recruiter for details.)

A CHANCE TO SERVE. Our country has always counted on the soldier. It still does. And you'll be a prouder person for having served your 2 years in the Army. You'll gain experience. Maturity. And a clearer idea of what you want.

For more information, call your local Army Representative. The address and phone number are in the Yellow Pages under "Recruiting." Or call the number below toll-free.

Call your Army Representative at 800-431-1976.

NEW YORK (AP)

The stock market advanced a bit in moderate trading today showing little reaction to a report of a steep decline in an index designed to foreshadow future economic trends.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose more than a point in the first half hour of trading and held near that level throughout the morning.

The noon Dow industrial index was up 1.90 at 810.72. And the New York Stock Exchange composite index of all listed stock posted a .12 gain at 54.05.

Big Board volume came to 10.09 million shares by midday, down from 12.47 million in the previous session.

Before trading opened the Commerce Department reported a 1.2 percent drop in the leading index of economic indicators for January, which was the largest one-month decline in four years. It was also the third consecutive monthly decline in the index which is designed to forecast economic trends.

Although the January report showed a larger drop than some private economists had predicted, government analysts said it could signal a economic slowdown the government wants to dampen inflationary pressures.

Texas Utilities rose 1/2 to 20 1/2 as the most actively traded NYSE issue.

Retail chain stores showed mixed results as their February reports on sales came out. J.C. Penney fell 3/4 to 29 1/4, K Mart slipped 1/4 to 23 1/2; and Sears rose 1/2 to 20 1/2. Penney said its sales rose 8.4 percent from a strong February a year ago but Sear's, the nation's largest retailer, reported a 9.1 percent sales decline. It has been reporting sales declines since last fall in the face of a change in its marketing approach.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index added .58 to 161.32.

Chain Letter Probe Asked

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) - The State Bureau of Investigation was asked today to investigate a possible illegal chain letter scheme, the Buncombe County district attorney said this morning.

Ron Brown, the district attorney, said he called for the investigation after hearing a report of the chain letter on WLOS, an Asheville television station, Wednesday night.

Brown said it was alleged that at least one court official and other prominent persons in the community may have been involved with the letter scheme.

The letter under investigation is called the Executive Circle of Gold, and each participant is required to put up $1,000.

The letter is similar to a chain letter that circulated in the Piedmont late last year called the Circle of Gold in which the participants put up $100 each. Chain letters are illegal under North Carolina law.

In the Asheville letter, a prospect gives $500 to the person who recruited him for the letter and also mails $500 to the person whose name is at the top of the list, the television station reported.

ISLAND FOR SALE

LONDON (AP) - The Scottish island of Iona, once the center of Celtic Christianity in the British Isles, is up for sale. The owner, the 12th Duke of Argyll, says he needs the money to pay inheritance taxes.

Practical Nurse Caps Presented 45 Students

Forty-five first year students in Pitt Technical Institute's Career Option Nursing Education program received their practical nurse caps Tuesday at St. James United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Judith Kuykendall, director of Nursing Education at Pitt Tech, discussed two aspects of nurses' responsibilities to their patients. She stressed the importance of each student nurse in acquiring as much knowledge as possible.

"Knowledge, in and of itself, will not enable you to reach the success you desire; you must learn to take the knowledge and adapt it and expand upon it," Kuykendall told students.

Mrs. Sally A. Barnaby and Ms. Patricia S. Earmhardt, nursing education instructors at PTI, presented practical nurses' caps to the students.

Mrs. Debbie Emmanuel, PTI class president, gave the welcome and introduced Mrs. Kuykendall. The Rev. Dan Earmhardt, director of the Wesley Foundation, gave the invocation and benediction.

Students receiving caps were: Peggy Bond, Lori Chamberlain, Carrie L. Cooley, Lynne Cox, Teresa Gargis, Betty Jean Johnson, Mary Anne Kruger, Carol Lappin, Tammy Lockhart, Pam Messner, Sherry Morris, Barbara Murray, Connie Palmer, Marilyn Rabey, Vickie Sautter, Marsha Smith, S. Neil Sykes, Gwyn Tavasso, Robertha F. Tilley, Lucie Tucker and Linda Whitehurst, all of Greenville.

More students: Louise Boseman of Grimesland; Doris Boyd, Liz Hunt, Debra Lyle, Audrey Perry and Sally Wolinsky, all of Winterville; Ethel Carraway, Sherry Harris and Larry Morton, all of Ayden; Diane Casper, Barbara Morning, Ann Purvis and Jacqui Ragland, all of Bethel; Carol Garris of Falkland; Mary T.

Mercer of Farmville; Deborah Roberson of Robersonville; Cami Clark, Debra Cunningham, LaVerne Howard and Jeanette Thompson, all of Kinston; Debbie Emanuel and Sherry Glover of Washington; and Winnie Heath of Deep Run.

By-The-Drink Impact Talked

The Citizens Committee for Mixed Beverages sponsored a fund raising dinner Tuesday to further inform Greenville citizens about the liquor by the drink issue.

Jerry Williams, executive vice president of the N. C. Restaurant Association, served as main speaker for the event. His talk centered on the economic benefits of the passage of the mixed drink referendum.

Williams' statistics showed that approximately 160 new jobs would be created in Pitt County with the passage, resulting in $1.68 million in additional payroll.

Williams pointed out that every aspect of the business community would be affected by the passage of the referendum. Not only restaurants, but construction companies, realtors and many others would feel the change, according to Williams.

Dr. Jim Mathis of the East Carolina University Psychiatry Department discussed the effect of mixed beverages on alcoholism at the dinner.

According to Mathis, states such as Ohio and Texas have proven that the more liberal the drinking laws, the lower the incidence of problem drinking.

Dr. Mathis agreed that the availability of mixed drinks would cause more people to take a drink, but fewer of those persons would turn into problem drinkers.

"This should be a social and economic issue, not a moral one," said Floyd Kite, chairman of the citizens' mixed drink committee.

Approved

The Redevelopment Commission, meeting in a special session Wednesday, approved the qualification of a local partnership as a bidder on a parcel in the Southside urban renewal area.

Commissioners qualified the Taylor-Payton partnership to submit a bid on Disposal Parcel P-1, located between McClellan Street and Seaboard Coast Line Railroad.

In qualifying to bid on the parcel, John Taylor indicated that the four-acre tract would be developed with ten single-family structures.

Reynolds May qualified at the board's February meeting recently to bid on the 171,974 square foot parcel.

WARD TO SPEAK

Donkey Basketball Games March 14

The D. H. Conley High School JROTC will sponsor a donkey basketball game Wednesday, March 14, 7:30 p.m., in the Conley gymnasium.

Funds raised from the event will be used to purchase equipment and pay traveling expenses for the organization's drill, color guard and drum and bugle, teams participation in local parades and competitions.

A "mechanical" donkey race will begin the activities, featuring Pitt County Schools Superintendent Ott Alford, Pitt County Board of Education member Robert Halstead, and D. H. Conley assistant principal Mrs. Jimmy Dunn.

The first game will be held between American Legion Post No. 39, Greenville and the JROTC Department. The second game will feature the Alumni, sponsored by the Ritter-Evans Realty Company of Greenville, against the school Athletic Department.

"Live Donkey" cracker races and performances by the "Trick Mule" act will also be held.

Valentine Paces Award Winners At Annual ECU Football Banquet

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Defensive end Zack Valentine walked away with a cart-load of honors and trophies last night at the annual East Carolina University Football Banquet.

Valentine received two major trophies and was named one of the permanent captains of the team.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, former chancellor of the university, was the main speaker for the occasion, and urged the university to make sure that its athletes received a first-grade education to go along with their athletic career.

"We must move forward to guarantee our people a first-class education and a career opportunity when their playing careers are over," Jenkins said.

"But we must also realize that it is tough to play sports and study at the same time."

Jenkins asked how a university can expect a student-athlete to spend time in practice or traveling or playing a game, and come through with the same study habits of the student who has the time to spend in the library all afternoon.

But at the same time, he decried those who schedule conveniently easy classes for the athletes, or give them special favors in the classroom.

"Athletes should be treated just as any other student in the classroom," he said. He urged, however, that athletes be given a fifth year of study, under scholarship, to complete their education. During their season, the athletes would take reduced course loads of a third or half the normal, except for those who desired a full load. Or other types of study programs could be used.

"It's unworthy of a university to treat an athlete as an employee. He should have the same chances that any other student has for a good education. But at the same time, he must be given the dignity that goes with it."

Jenkins also said that universities must not be naive about their athletic program. "It's not just for exercise. It's there for entertainment. But it's more than that. It involves school spirit, the school reputation, and the recruitment of other students. 'Who ever heard of Notre Dame before Knute Rockne came on the scene?'" Jenkins asked.

He added that Governor Jim Hunt pointed out to him that a successful athletic program, such as East Carolina had, was a boon to North Carolina's economic growth. "I didn't understand how at first, but it came to me. When an industry looks for a place to locate, it looks for several things, like good medical care, and the like. And one of the things is a good athletic program at nearby universities. East Carolina is therefore helping the growth of the state with its program."

Jenkins, who retired last spring as chancellor, was presented with a plaque by Coach Pat Dye in behalf of the football team for the support he gave to the sport over the years.

Valentine walked away with the Outstanding Defensive Player Award and the Lansche Outstanding Senior Award, as well as being named one of the defensive co-captains for the year as a recognition for his play and leadership.

Other award winners included: John Hallow, Outstanding Freshman; Dennis Mulholland, Rick Bankston Memorial Award (to the player contributing the most to the scout team); Mitchel Smith and Wayne Inman, co-winners of the Blocking Trophy; Steve Greer, E.E. Rawl Memorial Award (for character, scholarship and athletic ability); Terry Gallaher, Swindell Memorial Award (team before self); Oliver Felton, Coaches Award (for the player who gets the most from his abilities); Eddie Hicks, Outstanding Offensive Player; Fred Chavis and Bill Lamm, co-winners of Outstanding Specialty Team Player Award.

Tommy Summer was named the other defensive co-captain, while Hicks and Gallaher were named offensive co-captains.

Search Starts For New Coach

The search begins today for a replacement for Larry Gillman, who resigned yesterday as basketball coach at East Carolina University.

Terry Kunze, who came to East Carolina this year as an assistant, has been put forward as one of the top candidates for the job.

Gillman resigned yesterday, citing the university's refusal to issue him a long-term contract as his reason for leaving. Reportedly, he will receive his $22,000 salary for the third year of his three-year contract, which would have expired in 1980. Gillman also was reported to have wanted additional monies for television and radio lost receipts. A source said that negotiations were continuing with Gillman and the athletic department. None of the funds which might be paid to Gillman, come from state money, but from athletic funds.

The coach completed two of the three years of his initial contract, after surviving an attempt to fire him at the end of his first year.

At that time, it was reported that Athletic Director Bill Cain and the athletic council recommended Gillman's firing to then chancellor Leo Jenkins, who refused to fire him.

Gillman's first team compiled a 9-17 record, while this year's team improved to 12-15, and tied a national record for overtime games.

According to reports, Kunze did much of the actual coaching during the final two months of the season. Cain said this morning that no decisions had been made on the method of finding the new coach, although they were to be finalized today. When Gillman was hired, a search committee was formed to make recommendations.

Cain said that he hoped the new coach could be hired as quickly as possible, but that the university would not be hurried into any decision.

WILLIAMSTON — The defending state 3-A champion Washington Pam-Pack found itself fighting for its life in the finals of the District I tournament at jam-packed Williamston High School last night.

Farmville Central's Jaguars, the reigning Eastern Carolina Conference champions, couldn't match the Pam-Pack in basketball skills, but their athletic ability and winning attitude was almost enough to offset that fact. They lost a bitterly disappointing 50-47 decision.

Farmville coach Mike Terrell's face showed the strain of the hard-fought battle as he talked to the press after the game. The underdog Jaguars, who had led by as many as 11 points, were struck hard by the loss.

"Our guys played their hearts out and we deserved to win the game," Terrell said. "We felt we had it won; we had things going our way."

The Jags had things going their way for over half the game. They were leading by five points in the first quarter before Washington All-American Dominique Wilkins slammed through an alley-oop pass to make it 11-8 going into the second period.

Center Earl Harris, who had one of his better games, along with forward Donald Reid, helped Farmville go up by as many as 11 points in the second quarter as the Jaguars repeatedly broke the Washington press for fast break baskets.

Donald Freeman's shot from the right corner with just three seconds left in the half gave Farmville a 29-20 lead at intermission.

The Jaguars did the worst possible thing in the third quarter. After building such a big lead, they got sloppy. They committed four straight turnovers to start the second half and the Pam-Pack almost instantly cut the Farmville lead to three.

The Jags never led by more than five after that and Washington tied it for the first time early in the fourth quarter on a pair of foul shots by Ralph Holley.

A total of 13 of Washington's 17 fourth-quarter points came at the free throw line and the Pam-Pack got the lead for good with 4:39 left on a foul shot by Shawn Williams.

Farmville then turned the ball over, and after getting it back on a Pam-Pack turnover, missed a shot that Washington rebounded. The Pack held the ball until Wilkins was fouled with 42 seconds left. He made both ends of the one-and-one to give his team a 46-43 edge.

James Barnes put Washington up by five when he completed a fast break with a dunk after the Jags missed a shot. A desperation shot from near midcourt by Calvin Horne made the final margin three.

"They took it on free throws," Terrell said. The Jaguars had five more field goals in the game, but were outscored at the

Southwest Tops A-G For District Crown

WILLIAMSTON — Alphia Jenkins scored 23 of her team's 47 points last night and dominated the board play as Southwest Edgecombe defeated Ayden-Grifton 47-41 to capture the championship of the District I-3-A girls' tournament.

The Chargerettes, coming off an upset victory over defending district champion Williamston Tuesday night, rallied from 12 points down in the fourth quarter and got within three, but couldn't pull ahead.

The Cougars had a 40-28 lead going into the fourth quarter, but the Ayden-Grifton press helped the Chargerettes cut it down to three, 42-39, on a pair of foul shots by Mary Rowe with 2:27 left.

At that point, Ayden-Grifton coach Kathy Purvis said she wasn't as concerned with her offense as her defense. "We just ran our normal offense. Personally, my opinion is that the strongest part of our team is defense, and we can cause a lot of turnovers," Purvis said she felt her team could get the ball back if it missed a shot.

But Chargerettes missed six shots in the final two minutes and turned the ball over twice. That cold spell killed Ayden-Grifton's hopes of a district championship, despite the fact that the Lady Cougars missed four foul shots in the final minute.

Going into the game, the Chargerettes were faced with the difficult task of preparing for a team they had played three times before this season. The two split during the regular season and Ayden-Grifton defeated Southwest in the Eastern Carolina Conference tournament finals.

"We had, I would say, a few bad moments in the ballgame," Purvis commented. "But, overall, I was pleased with it."

She said of the comeback, "The girls just started hustling more on the press, the offense started working a little better and Southwest may have gone through a little cold streak." The Chargerettes were at a disadvantage rebounding against the taller Cougars and that was a definite factor in the game, Purvis said. She said Lady Cougar forward Alphia Jenkins did a good job on the boards. She was also the game's leading scorer with 23 points.

Aretha Cannon paced the Chargerette attack with 18 ppoints and was the only Ayden-Grifton scorer in double figures. Jenkins was the only Southwest player to hit 10 or better.

Purvis used only five players the entire game. Those five came close, but couldn't quite pull it out in the fourth quarter. "I was playing the five I thought could go out there and do it," she said.

Fairly Will Quit Baseball

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — California Angels veteran Ron Fairly, who had hoped to become the eighth player in modern major league history to have his career span four decades, has announced his retirement.

He was the Angels' regular first baseman in 1978, but the arrival of Rod Carew would have relegated him to a reserve spot.

Fairly said in announcing his retirement Tuesday that he was going to join Los Angeles television station KTLA as a sportscaster, working on the nightly news show and as a color commentator on the Angels' televised games.

The station is owned by Gene Autry, the Angels' owner.

Fairly, a veteran of 21 major league seasons, began his career with the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1958. He played with the Dodgers for 12 years, then was with Montreal, St. Louis, Oakland and Toronto before coming to the Angels prior to the 1978 season.

His career batting average is .266, and he hit 217 with 10 home runs and 40 runs batted in last year.

A veteran of four World Series with a batting average of .300 in the baseball classic, Fairly said: "All my life I've liked nothing better than playing baseball. In what other way could you make money having as much fun?"

It would have taken him one more season and one game in 1980 to reach his four-decade goal.

Georgetown, Syracuse Vie For Berth

Jim Kyle

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

With all due respect to Temple, Penn and the rest, Georgetown and Syracuse will settle eastern college basketball supremacy this Saturday in College Park, Md.

"I'm looking forward to it," says Georgetown Coach John Thompson, referring to his meeting this weekend with Syracuse. "They've been ranked high in the East and we've been ranked high in the East and it would have been a shame if we hadn't gotten a chance to play them." That situation was established as a result of Syracuse's 83-71 victory over St. Bonaventure in the Upstate New York title game of the Eastern College Athletic Conference playoffs and Georgetown's 73-52 triumph over Old Dominion in the Southern Division Wednesday night.

The winner of the Syracuse-Georgetown game will gain an automatic berth in the NCAA playoffs.

"I think it will be a good spectator game," says Thompson of the impending battle. Georgetown, the nation's 16th-ranked team, counts Ivy League champion Penn among its victims this season. Syracuse has already beaten Temple, an eastern powerhouse currently ranked No. 12.

The Owls, meanwhile, were successful in their East Coast Conference playoffs by beating Drexel 61-57 in a quarter-final game and advanced to a semi-final meeting with Lafayette

Friday at Philadelphia's Palestra. Lafayette earned a semi-final berth with a 90-71 decision over Delaware. In other ECC playoff games, St. Joseph's defeated La Salle 68-63 in overtime and Bucknell trimmed West Chester 75-61.

In the opening of the Southeastern Conference playoffs Wednesday night, Auburn eliminated Vanderbilt 59-53; Alabama trimmed Florida 81-64; Kentucky edged Mississippi 82-77 and Georgia stopped Mississippi State 75-72.

Elsewhere, 18th-ranked Detroit defeated Xavier of Ohio 88-69. A tough zone defense and balanced scoring led by Roosevelt Bouie's 16 points featured the Syracuse victory. These same two teams met last year in the Upstate New York playoffs, with the reverse results.

"I'll tell you this," said Syracuse Coach Jim Boehm, "there are only two or three teams on our schedule that aren't afraid of us, and the Bonnies are one of them."

which ironically beat the Hoyas in the Southern Division playoffs last year. "I'm glad to have this game under our belts," said Thompson, who added that he was nervous at the start of the game because "we hadn't had too much success against Old Dominion."

Neal Robinson scored 15 points, including two key baskets late in the second half, to lead Temple over Drexel. The Owls took a 37-28 lead at the half, then survived two flurries by Drexel.

EAST CAROLINA'S BASKETBALL team had its first taste of international competition Tuesday night and the experience apparently agreed with the Pirates, who played some of their best ball of the season in a 95-76 loss to the Soviet National team, considered one of the top three amateur teams in the world.

Admittedly, the margin of victory could have been much greater had Russian coach Alexandr Gomelski wanted to go all out, but the Pirates were impressive much of the season-ending game, playing for fun and without pressure, a rare occasion this season.

Coming off an 89-72 loss to second-ranked Notre Dame Monday night and having spent much of Tuesday on planes and in airports between South Bend, Ind. and Greensboro, the Pirates were understandably tired going into the game. Especially when you consider it was the final game of a 27-game season.

They were able to stay with the Russians for over half the contest, trailing by only three points with 17 minutes left, but were outscored 32-8 over the next 10 minutes. That put them out of the game, but they didn't throw in the towel, cutting the lead to 15 points before the Soviets pulled back out to their final 19-point edge.

Guard George Maynor was the leading player for the Pirates, tallying 18 points and getting a game-high eight rebounds, despite being the shortest player on the Pirate squad. He, along with Oliver Mack and center Greg Cornelius, drew praise from Gomelski after the game.

"All the boys which (played) tonight," the Russian coach said of the Bucs through an interpreter, "(have) certain abilities and (in the future), they could be a very interesting and good team."

He added, however, that East Carolina needs more height on the front line. Speaking himself, Gomelski said, "No big players, no good team."

SURPRISINGLY ENOUGH, THE Pirates had little trouble adjusting to international rules, although they have never played under them before and had no practice time before the game. Only once was an ECU player called for three seconds in the larger lane area and the 30-second clock came into play only twice.

East Carolina was beaten a couple of times by the Soviet fast break under the rule that allows a team to take the ball out of bounds in the backcourt without the referee's assistance. But overall, the adjustments were made admirably.

Former head coach Larry Gillman, who submitted his resignation yesterday, said the game was a big boost for the ECU basketball program and a good experience for the players. He said plans are in the making for an ECU tour in Europe either this summer or next summer.

Gomelski, wearing a "Commonwealth of Kentucky" necktie he presumably got when in Louisville for a game last Sunday, said he enjoyed the game with East Carolina, which has "a great future in basketball."

IT WAS A fun game for the Pirate players. Those interviewed after the contest unanimously agreed that it was an enjoyable affair. The players and coaches exchanged momentos in a pre-game ceremony which featured the national anthems of both nations. Several had their pictures taken after the game with 7-3 Russian center Vladimir Tkachenko who gives new meaning to the phrase "Red Terror."

In contrast to the East Carolina players, the Russians were expressionless and emotionless for the most part going through their warmups and during the ballgame.

It was interesting to watch the two teams during the pre-game warmup period. The Russians were all white, most sandy-haired with a few moustaches sprinkled around. They were big and deceptively slow and clumsy looking.

The Pirates, on the other hand, had only three of nine white players and were very much enjoying warmups because they were able to dunk the ball during the practice period under international rules.

The disappointingly sparse crowd of about 1,000 didn't take its eyes off the Russian end of the court until the Soviets returned to the locker room prior to the pre-game ceremonies.

Award Winners

Pirates Open Baseball Season On Road Against South Carolina

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

East Carolina University's baseball Pirates open the 1979 season Saturday in the first of five road games in Columbia, S.C., against the Gamecocks of the University of South Carolina.

The Pirates play the Gamecocks in single games on Saturday and Sunday, then travel to Clemson for two days of play against the Tigers on Tuesday and Wednesday. They face UNC-Charlotte on Thursday, then return home for their home opener against Connecticut on Saturday, March 10.

Coming off a 28-16 year, their first as an independent, the Pirates have a 46 game schedule, plus three exhibition contests, one that could, with a good record, put them into contention for a berth in the NCAA Regionals at season's end.

Only three starters return from last year's team, not counting pitchers, and one of them will be in a new position.

"That doesn't mean we don't have experience," Coach Monte Little said. "We do. We have very good experience because we played a lot of people. A lot of the people who will start for us started at times, but not on a regular basis."

The only three true "regulars" back are outfielder Billy Best, shortstop Jerry Carraway, and catcher Raymie Styons. And Styons won't be behind the plate, but at third base.

There are two candidates for first base, a position that is still somewhat unsettled. Sophomore Mike Sage and senior Max Raynor both saw action there last year.

Freshman Mike Sorrells has moved into second base, and Little says he "may have the best hands of anyone we've worked with at East Carolina. He's got a super attitude." Backing him up is junior college transfer Bob Neff, who will also be a backup at shortstop.

Carraway, who opened at third last year, then moved to short, where he played as a sophomore, returns for his senior year. "He seems to be settled in here. He's got three years experience and that helps," Little said.

Styons, a junior, appears to have adapted very well to playing third after moving from behind the plate. Freshman Greg Lee, who has been hampered by injuries, is his backup.

Rick Derechallo, a junior college transfer, is behind the plate in Styons' old position. "He has big league power and an arm. He needs a little more consistency, but he's a slugger," Jay Carraway, a freshman, and Jerry's brother, is the backup here.

The outfield has four people who could be playing. They include junior Billy Best, junior Macon Moye, junior Butch Davis and sophomore Tim Hardison. "All of them are going to play, and it's likely that the one not in the field will be our designated hitter." All of them started at times last year.

The pitching staff has ten the Pirates can choose from. They include senior lefthander Parker Davis, junior righty Mickey Britt, who was 10-2 last year and is 19-3 overall; sophomore righty Rick Ramey, sophomore lefty Bobby Patterson; sophomore lefty Earl Mobley; sophomore righthander Tim Stiller; junior righty Bill Davis; and three freshmen, Bill Wilder and Bob Kraj, both righthanders, and southpaw Alan Gay. "Right now, most of them already know their duties. We'll probably go with four starters, although we could go to five at times, or even drop back to three in rotation, depending on our schedule at the time. Two others will be basically long relievers, and the rest in short relief."

The starting four look to be Britt, Patterson, Parker Davis and Ramey, but both Bill Davis and Stiller could see spot action in starting roles.

"We hope that Mobley will be a big factor for us out of the bullpen, and we have a lot of confidence in our freshmen."

Overall, Little believes the Pirates have the type staff they needed for the schedule and caliber of opposition they have.

If there is a weakness, it is where the Pirates haven't lacked it in several years—speed. "We don't have the speed we've been having," Little admitted. "We are probably going to be hitting into a lot of double plays, but that doesn't mean we're not going to run."

"Defensively," we should be able to make 95 percent of the routine plays, but we won't make the high number of great plays we did the last couple of years. We still have the quickness and the intelligence to get the jump on the ball, however, and that will help us."

Countering that, however, will be the hitting, which Little believes could be "awesome." Last year's Pirate team hit 49 home runs, a school record. But this year's team may have more long-ball power. "We really have five or six true home run threats in the lineup. I can see us doing as well or better than last year."

Little admits, however, that toning that power down at times could be a problem. "We can't hit homers every time. We've got to gear down and not think homer on every pitch."

While Little said he would have preferred not to open with the strong Gamecocks and Tigers, he said that playing them then was the only option. "If we can get through the first couple of weeks and have a decent record, I really think that we can be a contender for post-season honors."

"But no team we play now looks on us as just another good team. They are holding their best pitchers for us now. This makes us a better team, but it also makes it harder to get the good record."

Little believes 33 victories in the 46 game schedule could bring the Pirates a post-season bid. "But we've got to beat some of the people that are strong in Division I."

The coach added that he hasn't discovered the personality of this year's team yet. "But they seem to be very dedicated and hard-nosed and I think that will make the difference."

Bird Leads All-America

NEW YORK (AP) — At Indiana State, the fans say that "Bird is the word" and Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics agrees. In fact, he feels that Larry Bird is the LAST word. "When he gets anywhere near the ball, it belongs to him," notes the general manager of the Celtics about Indiana State's forward. "He has a great concept of the game of basketball, and a great feel of what's going on between the foul lines."

For all these reasons, and many more, Bird was among those named Thursday to The Associated Press 1978-79 All-America college basketball team. The Sycamore superstar was joined for the second straight year by UCLA forward David Greenwood, along with San Francisco center Bill Cartwright and guards Sidney Moncrief of Arkansas and Earvin Johnson of Michigan State.

The AP's Second Team featured Duke center Mike Gminski, flanked by Alabama's Reggie King and Calvin Natt of Northeast Louisiana at forwards and Baylor's Vinnie Johnson and Iowa's Ronnie Lester at the guard positions.

The Third Team included Purdue's Joe Barry Carroll at center, Gregory Kelsor of Michigan State and Notre Dame's Kelly Tripucka at the forward positions and Sly Williams of Rhode Island and Roy Hamilton of UCLA at guards.

A nationwide panel of sports writers selected the team. The 6-foot-9, 220-pound Bird was a player with one of the highest profiles this season, leading the Sycamores from relative obscurity to the No. 1 ranking. With Bird averaging about 29 points and 15 rebounds, the Sycamores finished the regular season with a 26-0 record and the Missouri Valley Conference championship.

Auerbach hasn't stopped raving about Bird ever since drafting him for Boston. Says Auerbach: "He's a big (Bob) Cousy. I never thought I'd ever compare anyone with Cousy, but Larry has those great hands and great vision."

UCLA Coach Gary Cunningham calls the 6-9 Green "an outstanding basketball player in all aspects of the game — defense, rebounding, offense and teamwork. What makes him great is that he's highly motivated to excel and has a lot of God-given talent."

Greenwood was the tower of strength on a strong UCLA team, averaging nearly 19 points and 11 rebounds a game. Moncrief made the switch from forward to guard this year with the ease that he leaps above rims. The 6-4 Arkansas jumping jack averaged almost 10 rebounds a game this season, an extremely high figure for a guard, and contributed more than 22 points a game.

Johnson, a spectacular 6-8 player nicknamed "Magic," is recognized for his proficiency as a passer more than a scorer. He averaged over eight assists, nearly 16 points and seven rebounds a game.

The 7-1 Cartwright, who turned down big pro money last year to remain in college for his senior year, had his best season for the Dons — averaging 24 points and 16 rebounds. Cartwright's number has been retired, putting him in select company with Bill Russell and K.C. Jones.

CONCENTRATION

DE KALB, Ill. (AP) — Dave Petzke of Northern Illinois won the NCAA pass-receiving championship in 1978 with 91 catches, 29 better than the runner-up.

Petzke is a slow runner but insists the secret of catching a pass is concentration.

"Anybody can catch a football," he said, "if he concentrates and keeps telling himself that he has to catch that ball. You might as well catch it because you are going to be hit anyway and it doesn't hurt as much when you grab the ball."

Washington Survives Scare...

line 20-7. "I thought the official was standing behind (the play) each time. It was a perfect blocked shot.

"The calls they made turned the tide."

Terrell said his team was tight in the third quarter, but kept its poise after the Pam-Pack cut the lead to three. "They (Washington) started coming back and you would have thought, 'Well, they're going to blow it out now.' But these guys are winners' they are competitors."

Neither team shot particularly well in the game. The Jags hit 46.5 per cent of their attempts, while Washington connected on 34.9 per cent. "We didn't shoot the ball that well. I guess it was the intangible things, like hustle, that kept us in the game," Terrell explained.

Despite his disappointment, Terrell was able to be thankful for the Jaguars' season, one of the school's best ever in basketball. "It was a tremendous season," he said. "You couldn't ask for a better season, 24-5."

Harris, who drew praise from his coach, led the Farmville attack with 13 points, most on turn-arounds inside. Reid added 11. Wilkins paced Washington with 24, while Williams had 12.

"This is what our fans have been waiting for all year—a close ballgame," Washington coach Dave Smith said after the game. "They finally got it tonight."

Smith said the game was a good experience for his undefeated team, which was never behind by 11 points all season and won its closest game by eight. "This lets them know what can happen if they're not ready to play," he said.

That didn't mean the Pam-Pack was not ready to face the Jaguars, Smith emphasized. "My guys knew what the ballgame meant, but Farmville did a few things that kind of surprised them. It was a different feeling for them—being behind."

Smith said he told his team "to stay close and chip away at the lead. Fortunately enough, it worked out that way."

Fertile Soil In Mrs. Colombo

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you were a fan of NBC's "Colombo" series, you might remember the good lieutenant's fond and frequent references to his wife. You never saw her, but Mrs. Colombo was very much a part of the series.

The unseen Mrs. Colombo, you thought, must be some lady. Her brilliant, somewhat eccentric detective husband deftly handled the most dastardly criminals, yet always seemed a little reverential when speaking of his wife.

The lieutenant would fill a chess champion's perfect murder, but worry about getting his wife to her cooking class on time. "Colombo" was a cerebral entertainment, with all of Falk's intricate cigar-smoke deductions, and the often-evoked image of his wife served as nice counterpoint. It made the rumpled genius just plain folk.

Falk eventually got a little too expensive for NBC, and the network lost the popular series after last season. But it struck someone at NBC that the imaginary Mrs. Colombo might be much more reasonable. She didn't even have an agent. And she was available.

This was fertile soil for TV's favorite substitute for creativity, the spinoff — extracting a character from a popular show and building a new series around that character. With "Mrs. Colombo," NBC took the spinoff (or rip-off, as it's also known) a step further, creating a series around a popular show character that never existed.

The network should be congratulated for its ingenuity. "Mrs. Colombo," which premiered Monday night and debuts in its regular time slot tonight, has a certain built-in audience. Folks might quite pass on a new series called "Mrs. Bloforth," but many fans of the old "Colombo" show will tune in at least once to see what Colombo's wife looks like.

A nifty bit of instant promotion, deftly exercised by a network scarce in strong lead-in shows.

"Mrs. Colombo" is Kate Mulgrew, a 23-year-old Irish lass who will make you wonder why the lieutenant spends so much time away from home. She plays an intelligent suburban housewife (which, remember, she is) who keeps busy by taking French lessons and writing PTA stories for the local throw-away newspaper.

Her activities lead her into the paths of sundry crimes, which, naturally, she solves. Some of the storylines figure to be a little farfetched, of course, as not many housewives run into unsolved mysteries every Thursday. But this is TV.

The folks behind "Mrs. Colombo" are the ones who made "Colombo," and though Mrs. Colombo's adventures will lean more toward suspense than puzzle solving (her husband's forte), the stories promise to carry the Colombo quality viewers expect. And the show has Kate Mulgrew.

Miss Mulgrew succeeds in living up to the image created on the "Colombo" series. Her Kate Colombo is a pretty, independent, interested lady of strong character. Funny, but not wacky. Just the kind of woman the lieutenant said she was.

With no stopper in the unbid major, South should have raised to two spades rather than rebid one no trump. The "Moysian" contract of four spades would have been easy, despite the 4-2 trump split. But results vindicated South.

West led his fourth-best heart, East won the king and continued with the ace. When West followed to this trick with the five of hearts, the defenders could take only two more heart tricks and the contract could no longer be defeated.

West criticized East's defense. He maintained that East should have returned a low heart at trick two to make sure the suit would not block. East, had he made that play, would have looked like

from the CARROLL RIGTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when you should use much care and caution in the handling of money. Be sure to be as cheerful as possible when in the company of friends and relatives.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) It is wise to focus your attention on how better to take care of your property and money so that you can add to present security.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can improve your outlook on life if you take health treatments to build up your vitality. Be careful in handling money.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) A wise person gives you good ideas so that you can forget much of that worrying you are doing. Be calm, cool and collected.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study a new way of gaining your most desired aims. Meet with good friends but don't let one monopolize all of your time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan how to expand intelligently where your career is concerned. Show mate that you are generous and outgoing.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have good ideas on how to advance in your career, so don't hesitate in carrying through with them. Be alert in motion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have to keep commitments you have made if you want to hold the respect of others. Don't neglect your health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Forget about differences of opinion with an associate and cooperate more for greater success. Think objectively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study every phase of the work ahead of you and then do it accurately. Sidestep one who could lead you in the wrong direction.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy expressing a special talent you have. There may be delays in amusements you planned, but take them in stride.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If a situation becomes tense at home, keep quiet and all will soon right itself. Strive for increased happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't neglect to handle important correspondence that has been piling up. Contact persons who can be helpful to you at this time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have the ability at getting to the core of any situation and coming up with a practical solution. Give as fine an education as you can afford and include musical training. A fine sport in this chart.

BUM STEER? — Senator William Proxmire, D-Wisc., says "The bureaucrats gave the taxpayers a bum steer on this one," when he announced in Washington the Golden Fleece Award for February goes to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration for spending $120,126 to build a low-slung backward-steering motorcycle that no one could ride. Proxmire added, "This is the ultimate example of the taxpayer being taken for a ride." The Fleece of the Month Award is given for the biggest, most ironic or most ridiculous example of wasteful spending for the month. (AP Laserphoto)

Promoting Of Farmville Is Studied At Workshop

FARMVILLE — Specific suggestions and ideas for boosting Farmville's economic base and promoting community commerce were offered during a "Marketing Our Community" workshop held here last week.

Among the problems targeted for action by local participants at the conclusion of the conference were coordination of store hours (uniform or nearly uniform scheduling and selected evening openings), improving the variety of stores and the variety of merchandise within stores, generating more commercial space in the downtown area, improving entertainment opportunities to help support evening shopping, and organizing better for achievement of strong and unified action by the business community.

Robert Leary supplied an only partially intended theme for the workshop with his presentation of a slide of a "Repent or Perish" sign covered with kudzu on the outskirts of a declining community. He pointed out that a community's image is communicated by many things and that an abundance of plastic and cheap metal in a commercial area definitely projects an image of shallowness and impermanence. He observed that one of Farmville's greatest assets is its substantial and attractive residential areas close to downtown.

Marketing consultant Winnie Petty explained how good market information could help local businesspeople to protect and enhance their share of the area economy. She reviewed a list of key factors that influence shopping habits and suggested that Farmville's retail future lies in emphasizing personal service, convenience, access to credit and specialty merchandise. Both she and advertising executive Frank Longino recommended that Farmville not attempt to directly compete with the soon-to-be-opened Carolina East Mall and the variety of stores in Greenville, but that Farmville trade on its convenience to local residents, personalized service, and its attractive historic setting.

Architect Ronald Morgan brought participants up to date on work being done by his firm to assist restoration of downtown commercial buildings. He emphasized that Farmville will only be successful in recapturing a unique atmosphere for its central business district if there is widespread cooperation by virtually all merchants and property owners. If there is significant unwillingness to participate and to compromise personal values, he warned, the restoration effort will be half-way and unrecognizable, denying the town its special image.

Community Planner David Quinn detailed Hendersonville's revitalization movement in a slide presentation and Tarboro planners Ann Forrest and Susan Sumner explained how their town has combined use of a community development program and establishment of a downtown historic district to stimulate the local economy and enhance the quality of life there.

Farmville Town Administrator Patrick Thomas reviewed the availability of N. C. Department of Commerce grants for use in promoting local business and noted that a number of chambers of commerce, historic groups and similar organizations in the eastern part of the state have taken advantage of these grants.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE COMPREHENSIVE ANNUAL SERVICES PLAN UNDER TITLE XX STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA

The Final Comprehensive Annual Services Plan for social services under Title XX of the Federal Social Security Act is being amended to reflect the plans for use of additional funds received from the federal government. For the federal fiscal year beginning October 1, 1978 and ending September 30, 1979, North Carolina has received an additional $5,096,000 in 75% funds for the basic Title XX program and $5,096,000 in 100% funds specifically earmarked for child care services. The proposed amendment lists the agencies and programs in which the funds are proposed to be used.

In addition, the tables in Appendix B which provide the totals on clients to be served and dollars to be spent have been corrected to accurately reflect the data in the plan.

THE PERIOD FOR PUBLIC COMMENT begins on March 1, 1979 and ends March 30, 1979. The amendment may be reviewed in any county department of social services.

PUBLIC COMMENTS on the amendment will be accepted in writing at the office listed below.

THE PROPOSED EFFECTIVE DATE of this amendment is April 1, 1979.

Doctor Convinced Mind Is A Force For Curing

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Cancer sufferers who go to Dr. Bernard Siegal for treatment can expect to have meditation prescribed along with chemotherapy, radiation and other more common conventional treatments.

Siegal is a cancer surgeon who believes that a patient's mind can be one of the potent forces in curing the body's maladies.

Although there isn't clear proof, Siegal says he is convinced that unrelieved mental stress breaks down the body's ability to combat the cancer cells forming inside all the time.

Ulcers are a good example of the body telling the mind that "it's going in the wrong direction," he said. The same may be true of cancer, he added.

Many of the cancer patients he has treated during his 15-year medical practice have changed their lifestyle or had a traumatic experience within 18 months of the cancer's appearance, he said.

"Western society uses illness like Eastern society uses meditation. When we need a vacation from work, we have to get sick to get time off. We also get sympathy, which we don't when we are healthy. We learn to be sick instead of learning to be well," he said.

"Meditation, whether it be transcendental meditation or just sitting in a room relaxing for a half-hour twice a day, gets people back in touch with themselves and their inner guide, who can tell them what it is they should be doing," he said.

Siegal, who is associated with several other surgeons in New Haven, encourages his cancer patients to attend his weekly group therapy sessions, believing that through mental therapy patients help in their own treatment.

"If it all comes from outside you, if you feel that healing is done to you, then it will be harder to cure your cancer."

If that thinking is carried to the extreme, a patient may be beyond saving.

"When I ask somebody 'What do you have to live for?' and the answer is 'Nothing,' it may be impossible to turn that patient around," he said.

"Some people are just looking for a way out of their problems and getting cancer is one awful solution."

Siegal feels he is supported by findings of scientists who in recent years have linked stress with cancer. They also view meditation as one way to reduce the stress.

But the surgeon admits he is in a minority when he tells people that cancer is a psychosomatic illness and that only the patient can heal himself.

"I know I don't talk like a doctor," he said. "But I think that doctors have failed their patients. We've used everything to treat people except the patients themselves."

OVER 60 UNITED NATIONS (AP)

The number of people over 60 will double in the next 21 years, according to projections by the U.N. Fund for Population Activities.

The over-60 group is expected to number nearly 600 million by the year 2000, the agency reports.

The increases will include a high proportion of women who will survive into their 60s particularly in North America, Europe and the Soviet Union, it adds.

Examining Water

Two federal agencies are taking a close look at the quality of water in the Chicod Creek Watershed in Pitt and Beaufort Counties.

A study is being made by the USDA-Soil Conservation Service and the U.S. Geological Survey "to determine the effect, if any, of channel work on the quantity and quality of streamflow and ground water levels" in the watershed, according to SCS State Conservationist Jesse L. Hicks of Raleigh.

A study has been underway since October 1975 and a monitoring network to collect data was activated in November of that year, according to SCS Environmental Specialist Lawrence E. Clark of Raleigh.

After more than seven years in federal litigation, the Chicod Creek Watershed Project saw work begin late in 1978, with Phase I completed in November of that year. Phase I consisted mainly of clearing and snagging and was completed in a few weeks.

Phase II of the project will be installed during the next year. Water quantity and quality changes, if any, will be monitored continuously. The monitoring network will collect data for five years after the project is completed.

01 PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE OF SALE IN THE COURT OF JUSTICE SUPERIOR COURT DIVISION FILE NO. 78 SP 347

NORTH COUNTY PITT COUNTY LILLIE HARRIS McLAHWORN, Plaintiff vs. SUSIE JAMES, EDNA HARRIS HEALEY and husband HAROLD T. HEALEY, et al.

By authority of an order of Louise W. Snowden, Assistant Clerk of Superior Court, Pitt County, North Carolina, dated January 30th, 1979, the undersigned Commissioner will offer for sale the highest bidder, for cash, at the courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, at 2:00 P.M. on the 7th day of March, 1979, the following described real estate:

Lying and being in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, State of North Carolina, and presently known as 1206 Cotnam Street, beginning 132 feet North of the Northwest intersection of Reade and Thirtieth Streets, running thence a Northernly course with Reade Street 70 feet to a corner; thence a Westerly course at right angles with Reade Street 110 feet to a corner; thence a Southwesterly parallel with Reade Street 75 feet to a corner of R. L. Butler's lot; thence a Northernly course with Reade Street 110 feet to the beginning. And being the same property conveyed by deed from Albion Dunn, Trustee to W. S. Harris in fee simple estate and wife Addie Harris as a life estate, which deed is dated March 25th, 1947 and recorded in Book W-24, Page 464 of the Pitt County Registry.

The highest bidder at the sale shall be required to make a cash deposit of ten per cent (10%) of the successful bid pending confirmation or rejection thereof by the Court. This sale is made subject to any encumbrances and unpaid taxes, if any.

This is the 1st day of February, 1979. DeLyle M. Evans Adversary, Clerk of Superior Court, 110 W. Second Street, Greenville, N.C. 27631
