

Pitt Asks Governor Aid Hospital Tower

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
The Pitt County Board of Commissioners is asking Gov. Jim Hunt for help in gaining approval for construction of an additional bed tower at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

At a morning meeting today, commissioners gave their approval to a letter signed by chairman R. L. Martin which asks the Governor to, "Please help us and help the State to meet its commitment to the East Carolina University Medical School and to the people of Eastern North Carolina."

According to the letter, "Pitt County Memorial Hospital, in its quest for approval of a Certificate of Need for the construction of an additional bed tower of 166 beds, has reached a critical dilemma. We need help."

The letter to Hunt said the affiliation agreement between Pitt Memorial Hospital and the School of Medicine at ECU, "which you and everyone in the State has lauded as a model marriage between the State, the University, and Pitt County, provides, 'The construction costs of additional beds and other facilities required by the teaching program and related expenses of the support service departments shall be borne by East Carolina University.'"

"Although these funds were included in the Advisory Budget for this purpose in 1977, the Advisory Budget Committee and the State Legislature requested that the construction of the bed tower be delayed for an additional year in order that these funds might be used for other much needed State purposes. This was agreed to on the promise that the funds would be reinstated the next session of the Legislature for the construction of the additional bed tower."

Noting that the funds for the construction of the bed tower have been placed back into the budget, the letter continues: "however, we understand that a moratorium on new beds has been declared by the Department of Human Resources for North Carolina, and it appears that the basis for this conclusion... is a lack of up-to-date information, and a lack of consideration of the growth of the Pitt County Memorial Hospital reviewed in the current State of North Carolina Medical Facilities Plan, and is responsible for this fallacious conclusion on the part of the revisors of the medical plan."

Citing major deficiencies in the health plan, the letter points out that the "data base for the...analysis, was October 1, 1976, through September 1977, and does not reflect the growth of 54 percent of activity since the opening of our new hospital."

The commitment on the part of the State and Legislature to construct the additional beds for the needs of the medical school "has been an essential element in the accreditation of the School of Medicine since agreement was reached to establish a four year program in 1975. The Liaison Committee on Medical Accreditation, the accrediting agency, has stated that this is considered to be an essential element in the school's accreditation..." the request to Hunt continued, adding that a recent letter from the LCME stated that, "The Liaison Committee expects the State and University to keep this commitment."

If the construction of, "this much needed bed tower... is delayed longer, inflation will prohibit the construction of this facility within the funds authorized by the Legislature," the letter suggests.

"We are appealing to the Governor for his direct intervention and help," Martin said after the board gave its approval of the letter.

In other business this morning, the board adopted a resolution approving the bond order authorizing $9 million in school bonds to provide facilities for the Pitt County and City of Greenville administrative units, and scheduled a public hearing on the validity of the bond order and the advisability of issuing the bonds for 10 a.m. April 2.

Both the bond order and hearing are required steps before voters go to the polls June 8 to vote on the referendum, and the bonds issued.

The funds will be distributed on a pro-rata basis to the two school systems in proportion to the number of students enrolled in each school unit.

Commissioners also appropriated an additional $7,700 for the Board of Elections to fund the June referendum.

The board's next regular meeting is scheduled for April 2.

Pace Is Double Inflation Rate Target

Consumer Prices Soaring

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharply higher prices for food, housing and gasoline pushed consumer prices up 1.2 percent in February, the biggest monthly increase in inflation in 4½ years, the government said today. Food prices rose 1.6 percent during the month, and were up 12.7 percent for the 12-month period ended in February. The government said meat prices rose another 4.9 percent and were up 26.4 percent for the February-to-February period.

Overall consumer prices for the 12 months ended in February were up by 9.9 percent.

The sharp one-month rise in the Consumer Price Index was more disappointing news for the Carter administration's already badly battered anti-inflation program. President Carter is known to be considering additional measures to try to hold down the surge in prices which is now about double what he has predicted for the year. The 1.2 percent rise in the price index in February compared with a 0.9 percent rise in January and was the highest since a 1.2 percent in September 1974, a year in which inflation was at a postwar high of 12.2 percent.

If continued for a full year, the February rise in prices would mean a total inflation of 15.4 percent, more than double the administration's 1979 target of a 7.4 percent inflation rate.

Alfred E. Kahn, Carter's chief inflation adviser, disclosed after the report was issued that the administration's anti-inflation program will be tightened with stepped-up monitoring of businesses, especially small businesses, and more active involvement by the president. He said details would be announced next week.

Kahn told reporters it is too early to say that the wage and price guidelines program has failed, although he added, "I surely did not expect" that inflation would be as bad as it has now become. "I am still confident the rate will slow as the year goes on," Kahn said. He predicted food price increases will taper off and that a slower-growing economy will ease over-all pressures on prices.

Kahn said he remains strongly opposed to mandatory wage and price controls, saying they would probably hurt the economy more than they would help it. "I would not administer such a program," he said.

Another presidential adviser, Lyle E. Gramley of the Council of Economic Advisers, said there is a clear risk that inflation this year will exceed the administration's 7.4 percent forecast. He said he could give no new figure but doubted it would exceed 10 percent.

The Labor Department gave the following breakdown for various categories of price increases in February:

—Food and beverages 1.6 percent, up from 1.4 percent in January.

—Housing 1.3 percent, up from 0.6 percent.

—Apparel and upkeep 0.3 percent, up from 0.2 percent.

—Transportation 1.1 percent, the same as January.

—Medical care 0.6 percent, down from 1.1 percent.

—Entertainment 0.4 percent, down from 0.8 percent.

—Other goods and services 0.7 percent, the same as January.

The 1.3 percent rise in housing costs was primarily due to a sharp 3.1 percent increase in mortgage interest costs, a 1.3 percent rise in housing prices and a 1.5 percent jump in property insurance, the Labor Department said.

The rise in mortgage interest was due partially to removal of the statutory ceilings on interest rates in California and New York, the department said. Only in one other month since the housing index was begun in 1967 have housing prices risen so sharply.

Kennedy Will Fight Carter Health Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and his coalition of labor and interest groups pushing for national health insurance have rejected President Carter's limited approach and are proceeding with plans to introduce their own comprehensive bill next month.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, who Wednesday had begged off a White House invitation to discuss the plan with Carter, said the proposal announced Thursday "for all practical purposes abandons the president's commitment" to a comprehensive health plan.

And two senior citizens' groups active in the coalition had similarly sharp words for the "phase one" plan unveiled by Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr.

The National Council of Senior Citizens called

Califano "a cheap huckster of piecemeal health insurance," and the American Association of Retired Persons said the secretary's "sketchy outline of the administration's unformulated national health plan leaves much to the imagination and little hope for prompt action."

Kennedy, who has battled unsuccessfully for national health insurance for nearly a decade, expressed "serious disappointment" with the president's decision to seek only limited expansion of existing programs this year. "I couldn't support this program," the Massachusetts Democrat said.

While "phase one" would cost $10 billion to $15 billion beginning in fiscal 1983, Kennedy said it fails to deal adequately with rising health care costs and therefore would be more wasteful than the present system.

NEW ECU COACH...Former Wake Forest assistant Dave Odom gestures as he speaks to the press this morning after it was announced that he will

Dave Odom, for the past three years an assistant coach at Wake Forest University, was named this morning as the new head basketball coach at East Carolina.

A Goldsboro native, Odom received his master's degree from East Carolina in 1969. He graduated from Goldsboro High School in 1960, and received an A.B. degree from Guilford College in 1965.

Odom, in a news conference, this morning, stressed that he hoped to bring alive the "dormant" state of East Carolina basketball, and give the fans something that they would enjoy watching.

"Our first concern is the players who are here now," Odom said. "I will be meeting with the players later this morning, but right now I don't know any of them. I haven't even seen an East Carolina game in about ten years."

"It's good that I don't know anyone, so we'll all start out even. We have ample time to learn about each other. I have nothing surprising to tell them today."

Odom added that his second concern would be recruiting. "I don't want to bring bodies in. We're not in the charity business. It would be hard for me to tell you I am going to recruit a point guard or a power forward, because I don't know yet what we need."

"But I do believe that we have ample time by April 11 (the national date for letters-of-intent). But if we don't

A HOTLINE APPEAL

CORRESPONDENTS WANTED

"The Daily Reflector" has received a letter from an English teacher in Seoul, Korea, who would like to have correspondents for some of the 3,300 students in Kukje High School. The students range in age from 13 to 18, she said, and have been studying English since first grade of junior high school. They would like pen pals here who can help them improve their English language abilities. Any English teacher or individual wishing to respond may write directly to Miss Kim Ok-hee, Box 100, Central, Seoul, Korea, or contact Hotline for a copy of her appeal letter.

GOOD RESPONSE

The Pitt County Humane Society reports very good response to its recent appeal for contributions to feed the starving seagulls at the Pitt Co. Landfill. "We have received many money donations and even the gift of 600 pounds of wild bird feed from one local grocery store," said the treasurer, Evelyn Beasley. "She said volunteers continue to be needed to help distribute the food to the birds and for other Humane Society activities."

Watched Six Die In Wreckage Of Fiery Car

TRIBES HILL, N.Y. (AP) — It was a sight Jeff Watson won't soon forget: the mangled station wagon, young people inside screaming, the crushed door that wouldn't open — and the fire.

"If I'd had one (a fire extinguisher), I think I might have put it out," said Watson, of Sprakers, N.Y.

While Watson sought help, an explosion silenced the screams. Six teen-agers died — the oldest 17, the youngest 14.

Watson was driving on a rural road outside of this community of 1,184 persons about 150 miles northwest of New York City when he came upon the accident only a minute or two after it happened Wednesday night. After determining he couldn't open the door by himself, he went for help at a nearby home. The station wagon exploded while he was gone.

The dead included the driver, Daniel Bedell, 17, of Tribes Hill, who received his driver's license less than a week ago; Patrick Foundeu, 16 and his sister, Laurie, 14, both of Fultonville;

Tina Rose, 16 of Fonda; Carol White, 16, of Randall and Margaret Sanford, 16, of Fultonville.

Classes were dismissed at midday Thursday for the 600 students of Fonda-Fultonville High School, where the six were students. The school's flag was lowered to half-staff and the main entrance was draped in black. Classes were scheduled to resume today.

Authorities said Thursday they had been unable to find anyone who witnessed the crash.

They still were not sure why the station wagon slammed into a tree and burst into flames.

"The car was wrapped around the tree, but it was almost doubled on itself in the center," said Dr. Fiori Pipito, the Montgomery County coroner. "I've seen some accidents in my time, but nothing as dramatic as this — involving six youngsters in their teens."

He said it was several hours before the bodies could be buried from the charred wreckage. Authorities had to rely on dental records to make positive identification.

'Fairly Broad Powers' For Carter Money Probe

By ROBERT FURLOW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Griffin B. Bell is laying down rules today giving "a good deal of independence, fairly broad power" to the investigator he appointed to look into finances of President Carter's family peanut business, a spokesman says.

Release of a charter spelling out powers and job protection of the new "special counsel" comes amid continuing complaints about Bell's refusal to appoint a "special prosecutor" instead.

Department spokesman Robert Havel said Thursday night the charter will give the investigator, former U.S. attorney Paul J. Curran of New York, "pretty free rein" in checking allegations concerning 1975-76 Carter Warehouse loans of more than $6.5 million from the National Bank of Georgia — then headed by Bert Lance who later was Carter's federal budget director.

Congressional critics — primarily Republicans — have been demanding more than a grant of broad authority to a Bell-appointed investigator. They want a full-fledged special prosecutor completely independent of the Justice Department and Bell, who was appointed by Carter.

The Justice Department has said Bell has no legal authority to seek a prosecutor answerable only to a special court panel — an arrangement spelled out in the new Ethics in Government Act. That act, inspired by the Watergate scandal, took effect in October 1978, but department lawyers argue it can't be legally used in this case because it was well under way by that date.

However, Havel acknowledged Thursday night that Bell could have labeled the investigator he appointed a "special prosecutor," since his legal authority was the same as that used to appoint special Watergate prosecutors.

But Bell has said he chose his "special counsel" terminology instead because "we believe in due process of law and we don't announce in advance, before we finish investigation, that we're going to prosecute someone."

Miss Phyllis Tillery Speaks Vows Saturday

FOUNTAIN — Phyllis Ann Tillery and Freddy McDonald Wainwright were married Saturday, at 4 p.m. in a candlelight ceremony at the First Baptist Church here. The Rev. John Allen officiated in the double ring ceremony.

The mother of the bridegroom chose a powder blue polyester knit dress and white carnation corsage. Mrs. Wilma Owens of Tarboro, sister-in-law of the bride, served as director. Mrs. Edith Joyner of Fountain presided at the guest register and distributed rice bags.

After a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will reside in Fountain.

A wedding party was held in the church fellowship hall Friday night, hosted by Mrs. Myrna Strickland and Mrs. Melanie

Mitchell. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Wilma Owens, sister-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Melanie Mitchell made the wedding cake, with punch served by Mrs. Vivian Boone, sister of the bride. Aunt Libby Proves To Be Remarkable

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I know a widow in her 70s who is quite remarkable. (I'll call her Aunt Libby.) Circumstances are such that this lady has had to make her home with her daughter for the last 12 years. Aunt Libby is active, cheerful and a joy to be with. Best of all, she knows how to keep from being in the way.

Aunt Libby makes herself available to stay in the homes of parents who want a responsible adult there for a weekend or longer.

She does this not so much for the money (which she can use, of course) but she likes to get out of her daughter's home for a while. I have even known her to spend her own money to go to a motel for a few days—saying she needs HER privacy, when it is really her wish to give her daughter's family THEIR privacy.

What do you think of a woman like that?

IDAHO READER

DEAR READER: I think she deserves to be nominated for mother of the year.

DEAR ABBY: I've been divorced three years and have a 15-year-old son who lives with me. For the last eight months I have been dating a man I care a great deal for, but we are not engaged. (I'll call him Bob.)

When my son visits his father, which is nearly every weekend, Bob sleeps over, but I never let him sleep with me when my son is home.

This has caused some serious arguments between us. Bob insists that it wouldn't make any difference to my son if we slept together while he was home. I think it would, and I'm not about to ask him.

Do you think I'm being "deceitful and phony" to stick to my decision? My friend says I am.

How do other women in my position handle this?

NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: I think your behavior can be more appropriately described as "discreet" than deceitful and phony.

Stick to your decision.

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you've heard of Peeping Toms, but I'll bet you've never heard of Peeping Tina.

Tina is my wife, and she's got this thing about looking at naked men.

We have a view of a large apartment building from our bedroom window, and Tina gets a kick out of looking at men in various stages of undress. While I'm watching TV she stands in the dark bedroom hoping to get a glimpse of a naked guy. She knows what time certain neighbors undress for bed and who pulls down the shades and who doesn't, and that's her entertainment.

Now I'm not a prude, and I've never denied Tina a good look at me in my birthday suit, so I can't understand why she's so fascinated with naked men. Is something wrong with her? She's 35 and I'm 37.

PUZZLED IN MANHATTAN

DEAR PUZZLED: If Tina's preoccupation with naked men is sudden, maybe something is wrong with her. Such curiosity is considered normal in adolescent children, but at 35 your wife should have outgrown it. She's too young to be considered a dirty old lady, but don't laugh it off. Talk it out. It's obviously sexual. Maybe Tina's missing something.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Hooks of Rt. 1, Grifton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sharon Denise, to Tony P. Baker, son of Mrs. Naomi Baker of Grifton, and the late Mr. Baker. The wedding will take place April 14.

Mrs. Holt Speaks To Home Life Department

A program on "Communicate and Circulate" was presented at the meeting of the Home Life Department of the Greenville Woman's Club Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Ernest Holt was speaker for the meeting. She told of three types of people — some who strive to make things happen, some watch things happen and others who wonder what will happen and do nothing to help bring about a change.

In order for some people to react, they have to be motivated and inspired, she said. Several suggestions were to sponsor a family breakfast or dinner prayer service daily, to promote a special week for National Bible Week, to observe a special thanksgiving service and encourage people to attend in groups or families.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. J. H. Smith, chairman, Mrs. W. N. Jackson, Mrs. Gladys Bowles, Mrs. E. M. Boyle, Mrs. H. L. Andrews and Mrs. W. E. Roseveare.

Department Chairman Mrs. Robert Murphy held a business session. Various committee chairmen announced activities planned for April and May.

The next meeting will be held April 17.

Dr. Pittman Gives Program

Dr. Everett Pittman presented the program at the meeting of the Montage Book Club held at the home of Mrs. June Glutting. Mrs. Janet Conway was assisting hostess.

Dr. Pittman, a member of the ECU School of Music, spoke on Greek mythology. He was introduced by Mrs. Joyce Hastings.

The club's adopted patient at Cherry Hospital will be sent a gift for Easter. The project will be directed by Mrs. Jeanette Lewis and Mrs. Anna Andrews.

make everything we want now, I won't be disappointed."

Concerning his staff, Odom said he was already considering that, and would be making his choices in the near future. "I have a lot of good friends in basketball and a number that I'd like to join me, but I'm not going to rush into it."

Odom set his objectives as "working hard off the court to have a team that will be a pleasing representative of the university; to have a team on the court that will play hard, and to have a lot of fun doing it."

The new coach praised Pat Dye for his building of a football program at East Carolina. "He's done a great job and has a lot of fan support. We want that same kind of fan support."

While a student at Goldsboro High School, Odom played three years of football, basketball and baseball, serving a captain for each of those teams his senior year. He was the school's Most Valuable Player in football his senior year.

At Guilford, he played basketball for four years, and football for three. He was the basketball captain as a senior and was named the Best Undergraduate Athlete in 1965.

Following his graduation, he returned to Goldsboro, where he served in 1965 as assistant football coach. He continued that post through 1968, and also served as assistant baseball coach from 1966 to 1969. In 1968, he served as head basketball coach, carrying on through 1969, when he left to become assistant football coach at Durham Senior High.

At Durham, he continued to aide football through 1975, and became head basketball coach in 1970. He also became tennis coach in 1972, and served both head coaching jobs until he left to join the Wake Forest staff in 1977.

Three times, in 1973, 1975 and 1976, he was chosen as his conference's coach of the year.

In 1970, he was selected as the Outstanding Young Educator, and in 1976, was selected to coach in the McDonald Classic, but had to decline because of NCHSAA rules.

Odom, who will be 37 in October, is married to the former Lynn Atkins. They have two sons, Lane and Ryan.

Odom replaces Larry Gillman, who resigned with one year left on a three-year contract, at the end of the season.

Terms of the new coach's contract were not revealed. Odom did say that it was a multi-year pact.

Eight members of this year's team are eligible to return for next year's team, including two regulars and several who had starting roles from time to time.

Odom said that he would attend the McDonald's Classic in Charlotte tonight, then return to Winston-Salem to spend the weekend with his family.

"Then, I'll be on the road recruiting," the new coach said.

By EDITH M. LEDERER Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — A U.S. Marine going home after 14 years in Vietnam was held by the Navy on Okinawa today for a medical checkup as the Marine Corps began an investigation to determine whether to bring him to trial on charges of collaborating with the enemy.

Pfc. Robert R. Garwood, 33, of Greensburg, Ind., arrived in Bangkok Thursday aboard a commercial flight from Ho Chi Minh City, formerly Saigon. A U.S. military transport flew him to Okinawa, and a Marine Corps spokesman said he would spend "a few days" at a Navy hospital on the southern Japanese island.

"He is being accompanied by Marine Corps officers, and his stay is estimated to be a few days," a Marine spokesman said. "We don't know exactly when he will be leaving for the United States."

In New York, a lawyer who said he was hired by Garwood's family objected to the delay. "I don't believe it's necessary to keep anybody three to five days to give him a physical examination," said attorney Dermot G. Foley. He claimed the delay was "part of the pressure-cooker atmosphere that they're building to get Garwood as deeply in trouble as they can."

The State Department said Garwood was captured by the Viet Cong in 1965 and other prisoners of war reported he remained with the Communists voluntarily.

A Marine Corps spokesman in Washington said preliminary charges had been drawn up against the man alleging unlawful dealings with the enemy, misbehavior while a prisoner of war, suspicion of desertion in time of war, soliciting American combat forces to throw down their weapons and refuse to fight, and attempting to cause insubordination, disloyalty and refusal of duty among fellow prisoners of war.

The spokesman explained that the charges were the basis of an investigation to determine if Garwood would be tried by a court-martial.

Garwood refused to talk to reporters at the Bangkok airport. But Vietnam's official news agency said Thursday that he "crossed over to the liberation armed forces in 1965 after seeing that the then-U.S. war of aggression against Vietnam was an unjust war." It said he asked to stay in Vietnam after the Communist victory in 1975 and was allowed to leave four years later "in keeping with his request to return to the United States to rejoin his family."

In an interview Wednesday in Hanoi with NBC News, Garwood said he chose to return home "because I am American, not a Vietnamese." "I did not betray the United States," he said, "but I betrayed the involvement of the U.S. government in Vietnam. I was in collaboration with the people of the United States against the involvement of the United States government in Vietnam."

He approached an unidentified foreign visitor to Hanoi several months ago and said he wanted to go home. The U.S. government then began negotiations for his release.

Garwood, who joined the Marines at 19, is still listed as a prisoner of war and reportedly has more than $146,000 in back pay coming.

Catfish Solution

ATLANTA (AP) — DeKalb County Commissioner Bill Williams wants to use pools stocked with catfish to cut the cost of a state-ordered $60 million sewage treatment plant.

Algae in the pools would clean phosphates out of the water. The fish would eat the algae, but would get the worst end of the deal. They would be harvested and sold as chicken feed to get some of the county's money back.

Part of the sewage treatment problem is the elimination of phosphates, usually removed by an expensive chemical treatment system, Williams says.

If not removed, the phosphates produce excessive algae growth in lakes and rivers. The algae eventually uses up the oxygen in the water, and fish die.

But algae growing in the catfish pools would use up phosphates in the sewage, Williams says, and the catfish could eat the algae.

By avoiding the advanced chemical treatment, the county would save "about $300 million over the next 20 years" — including $24 million of the $60 million plant cost, Williams said.

"If I can remove the phosphates biologically, if I can convert them to some useful form, which is the fish, which can be processed into feed for poultry, I've used the phosphates to start the food chain," said Williams.

Study Damage

An investigation is being made into the extent of damages at Minges Coliseum that were incurred during the concert of "The Outlaws" group held there Thursday night.

James Lowry, chief of Maintenance and Operations at East Carolina University, said that some damage had been done to the electrical fixtures as well as to the soffit (the overhang trim outside the building), and that action was being taken to determine the extent of damages.

Jury Voted For Death

WHITEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A former Fort Bragg Army sergeant was sentenced to death after being convicted of first-degree murder and rape of a 14-year-old Spring Lake girl.

Stephen Karl Silhan, 25, was sentenced by Columbus County Superior Court Judge George Fountain. Fountain followed the jury's recommendation for the sentencing. June 1 was set as the execution date.

The jury deliberated for two hours on Wednesday and about one and a half hours Thursday morning before making its recommendation.

Under the state's capital punishment statute, if the jury had been deadlocked Thursday, Fountain would have automatically imposed life imprisonment on Silhan.

Silhan was found guilty Tuesday of the September 1977 knife-slaying of Mary Jo "Nancy" Coates, who was found in a wooded area near her home in Spring Lake.

Everybody In Favor, Except

It seems that everyone is in favor of open meetings of public bodies — for somebody else. North Carolina had an open meeting law, which provides exemptions for consideration of property purchases and consideration of personnel matters. Now, however along come some government bodies asking for various exemptions from the North Carolina Legislature. Leading the pack is the body which should be most open to the public . . . the Council of State. Secretary of State Thad Eure has requested the Legislature to grant full exemption from the open meetings law for the Council of State. There are also requests from various local government groups for exemptions from the law, which simply allows the public . . . those who pay the bills . . . to sit in on any sessions of their government agencies.

We have to wonder what in the world the Council of State would have to discuss that would require full exemption from the open meeting law. Its members are all public officials and surely anything they consider would be matters of public concern.

A new bill on opening meetings has already passed the House and is now in the Senate. Supposedly it is designed to strengthen the concept of meetings open to the public. With enough exemptions, however, the public's business will go right underground . . . and, after all, it is our business.

After Centuries Of Bitter Animosity

The debate was stormy in Israel's Knesset, but in the end the governing body approved the historic peace treaty with Egypt.

The law makers had to overcome many centuries of animosity between the Jewish people and the Egyptians, as well as the awareness of the dangers to the Jewish nation in an Arab world. The Knesset acted bravely in approving the peace treaty, however, and the action should be all that is needed to making the signing of the treaty a fact.

THIS AFTERNOON

Ponder Policy Changes

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A new look for North Carolina's Community College System is emerging from a variety of legislative activities this session, and while insiders don't predict any immediate major reform, the direction is clear. A separation of the system from the State Board of Education, and establishment of a State Board of Community Colleges and Technical Institutes will most likely result, either by direct action of the General Assembly later this session, or by yet another study commission reporting back to the Legislature next year. What, after 15 years of arguing, infighting, patching and politicking, has produced momentum for change? Two factors are foremost in the minds of lawmakers involved: 1. There is a vacuum in leadership as the system awaits the arrival of a new president, so changes should be made to strengthen the system in the interim; 2. Legislators continue to be upset because of the way some of the 57 colleges pad classes with students to get increased enrollment figures to get increased funds; and the nature of some of those courses.

Many Cases
Details are numerous, and have been reported over the years: entertainment classes at hursing homes; classes for military personnel; prisoner indoctrination; frivolous courses; double funding of courses by counting the students and by receiving direct federal grants or payments from other state agencies. Community College personnel defend the system, saying that the schools are only responding to what local people want, when they want it, and where they want it. Furthermore, the $809 per student in an extension course can allow accumulation of major funds for other courses which are not budgeted. Often, the extension courses may cost less than $200 per student. This surplus, officials insist, allow them to provide the high-skill training which is now being called for. But such duplication and shifting should not be called for, say many lawmakers. State Senator Robert S. Swain, D-Buncombe, sums it up: courses should be offered and the money provided in a straightforward, honest way without need for such maneuvering. Two legislative proposals now working their way through committee action have set the stage for the growing momentum for reform. One resulted when State Rep. Patricia Hunt, D-Orange, reported that a subcommittee which she headed decided to eliminate six area coordinators in extension education. That program, the committee felt, was filled with politics, placed emphasis on signing up students to get more funds, lacked evaluation tools, and often duplicated existing training programs in such areas as law enforcement and firefighting.

BILL NOBLITT

Rep. Hunt is among those who think the time is ripe for a major change. She agrees that the big stumbling block will be local college supporters who don't want to see central state control. Local Control
Some will feel that the state is taking away from local people the campuses and programs which they helped to build. But many others have come to realize that the local units simply can't do the job in the face of growing complexities, cost, and changing statewide needs. Furthermore, hunt feels, it is by now clear that the State Board of Education must spend most of its time and energy on the public schools and the community college system suffers by neglect. State Senator Billy Mills, D-Onslow, is the sponsor of a bill now in committee to establish a State Board of Community Colleges and Technical Institutes which would regulate the system and approve all local building and course programs. Local boards of trustees would continue to function, but with membership not dominated by local boards of education. Mills is a former president of the Community College Trustees Association and has fought hard against any change in the present structure for years. He has now changed his mind and is pushing for reform. While his proposal has some problems, Mills thinks it can serve as a starting place. "I would like to see a subcommittee take this and give it a thorough rewrite . . . I don't think we need another study commission. We've had 14 of those in the last 15 years," Mills said.

ENERGY CONCERN

Public Is 'More Careful'

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer Elizabeth Sullivan of South Boston keeps her thermostat set at 60 degrees. "I can't afford the prices any more," she explained. Concern about the increasing cost of heating oil, electricity and gasoline has prompted many Americans to cut back their use of energy, according to Associated Press interviews in a random selection of cities. Most people say they have been moved more by economics than by President Carter's appeals for conservation, although a few indicate they also are worried about supplies. An Associated Press-NBC News poll, conducted separately from the interviews, showed that most Americans do not think there is an oil or gasoline shortage. One person in five has not made an effort to cut energy use, the poll indicates. And one in four won't drive any less even if gasoline goes to $1 a gallon. Among the findings of the telephone poll of 1,600 persons questioned on Monday and Tuesday were: —A majority of people believe reports of shortages are a hoax to drive up prices. Sixty-eight percent said the oil shortage was a hoax; 70 percent felt the same way about a gasoline shortage. —Asked whether they had trimmed energy consumption in the past month or two, 19 percent said no. Thirty-seven percent said they had lowered the thermostat, 20 percent said they did not drive as much and 16 percent said they used lights or appliances less. —What would happen if gasoline went to $1 a gallon? Twenty-six percent of those polled said they would continue to use their cars as they do now; 44 percent said they would drive less; and 19 percent said they would buy a smaller, fuel-efficient car.

—Almost four out of 10 people blamed oil companies for recent rises in the price of gasoline and heating oil. Twenty-five percent blamed oil-producing countries and 19 percent blamed the U.S. government. Four out of five said the price increases were unjustified. The interviews, meanwhile, yielded mixed responses. Most people said they were trying to be careful of their energy use even before recent presidential appeals for savings. "I take short showers, try to turn off lights . . . when not in use . . . I try to cut down on (car) trips," said Debbie Stern, a Los Angeles piano teacher. "I do it to save (on) bills." Renee Quick of Boise, Idaho, said she has always practiced conservation. "I've had to," she said. "I came

JERRY-ONE-NOTE'S CONCERT TOUR!

By ART BUCHWALD

No 'I Do' But He Does

WASHINGTON — My colleague, Robert Toth of the Los Angeles Times, has finished a six-month research job on what people should call the person they live with if they aren't married. The Ford Foundation, for example, prefers Meaningful Associate, The National Academy of Sciences prefers Special Friend, George Washington University likes Significant Other Person, which has been bowdlerized to My Significant Other. "Marvin" is a new word for living together coined in honor of the actor Lee Marvin. (A woman when in-roducing her roomie might say, "This is my Marvin.") It is not my intention to steal Mr. Toth's thunder and use up all the research he so painstakingly collected during the past half-year, but rather add to it. A small band of us devoted an entire three-martini luncheon to the problem the other day. Here are some of the suggestions that were thrown out. A person could introduce a roomie as: "My friend who has been living with me for three years until she finds an apartment." "My favorite footwarmer." "My illegal better half." "The woman I love who someday may sue me." "The only person who answers my telephone when I'm not there." "My night watchman." "The little lady who irons my shirts, although we never applied for a marriage license." "My designated boarder." "When you go to a party you could say: "May I introduce you to Harry? He's never said 'I do' but he does." "I would like you to meet George, who parks his car in my garage." "This is Thelma, who does everything for me but windows." "This is Marty, who has forsaken all others temporarily while we're having a meaningful relationship." It is difficult to introduce someone you're living with to friends, but it's much harder to explain that person to one's parents, particularly to mothers and fathers who were raised under different rules. Our group had its toughest time thinking up satisfactory introductions to parents. Among those we played around with were: "Dad, this is Peter. He's the main reason you don't have to pay for my apartment any more." "Mom, I'd like you to meet a gal just like the gal who married dear old Dad, with one exception." "Pop, this is Larry, who has been staying with me since my cat died." "Mother, I know you don't speak French, but I would like you to meet my bonne a tout faire." "Father, remember when I went off to school, and you

To the editor:
I came away from the open school board meeting last Monday night feeling perplexed and hurt. Our neighborhood had heard that our children were going to again be moved to a new school and we had met to discuss it and decided to attend the meeting to present our case. The children in our neighborhood have a disadvantage in two ways because we are small. First of all, it is convenient to shuffle us around as happened two years ago when we were snipped off of the South Greenville district because a few children were needed to "balance things out." And secondly and more vital to the issue is that being a small neighborhood, our children identify in some ways more with their school friends than children in large neighborhoods who know each other at home as well as at school. For example, our son has no other boy in the neighborhood in his grade at school. And now for the third time, this being his third school in his upcoming fourth year in school, he is asked to find another set of friends. Ed Carter, school board chairman, says so what? His children have moved three times — as if that makes it right and as if it really doesn't matter. I would think that he, of all people, would be sympathetic. Indeed, considering a move to Greenville between kindergarten and first grade, this is for our son actually a kinder adjustment. Two school board members, Terry Shank and Sue Zadeits, expressed concern for the children who had just moved year before last, but Glenn Cox quickly pointed out that that is just the way the numbers work out — which means that the possibility may exist for us to be moved again next year if the "numbers work out," since having previously moved obviously has no bearing. As I said, I am very sad and hurt, because we went to the board meeting not thinking about numbers or balancing statistics, but simply upset because our children once again have to deal with an emotional and educational upheaval. We have found out from the board that they feel that it really doesn't matter.

Self-Torture Is Worst Kind

By GAIL MICHAELS
I am opposed to all forms of physical violence. My value system excludes murder, wife abuse, child abuse, and that most incomprehensible form of violence, exercise. While I vaguely understand how a person might lose his self-control under extreme stress and commit the other excesses, I find it absolutely impossible to discover a motive for self-torture. Advocates of exercise cite greater longevity and an increased feeling of well-being as reasons for their aberrant behavior. These are the same arguments that were offered at the beginning of the health food craze. I said then that German chocolate cake enhanced my feeling of well-being far more than sawdust and honey, and I have retained my bias toward comfortable self-preservation as the health addicts have steadily expanded their sphere of influence. Nor is the sight of the average exercise enthusiast likely to change my opinion. Joggers may differ in sex, weight, speed, and the preference for either the risk of rabies in the neighborhood setting or the circular monotony of the track, but they all have one common facial characteristic: pain. Not that their appearance doesn't play on my emotions. As I drive through town, their squint-eyes, their clenched teeth, and their flapping cheeks stir me from my complacency, placency to the point that I always honk and wave. At moments such as these, I can admit the assertion of the jogger who declared that his ritual helped him to reach an extremely pleasurable mental plateau. It must be akin to the spiritual elevation that a Hindu yogi achieves while lying on a bed of nails. Perhaps what tires me the most about exercise is the constant proselytizing for it. I hardly expect to find an article extolling the virtues of suicide every time I open a newspaper or magazine, but a day never passes that I don't see an article exalting exercise as a panacea for all society's ills. The most recent

I could add that a brisk walk to the outhouse during the middle of the night was also a feature of our ancestors' hardy lifestyle. But I shall content myself by heading for the nearest chair, propping up my feet, unwrapping a Snickers, and contemplating my great-grandmother's life expectancy as compared to mine.

Peace Effort Doubt

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Last December, administration spokesmen were touting the American peace effort in Namibia as the most successful U.S. undertaking in Africa during 1978. Since then, a steady stream of bombings, executions, abductions and other terrorist activities in Namibia have left administration officials wondering whether peace is a realistic objective in that often-ignored area of Africa. South Africa is being pulled in two directions as it weighs the merits of allowing the territory, also known as South-West Africa, to become an independent country through U.N.-supervised elections. For one thing, South Africa's military presence in the dry, underpopulated, Texas-sized territory is expensive. The South Africans also realize that an accommodating attitude toward Namibia could boost their sagging international respectability. On the other hand, Namibia provides a 1,000-mile buffer zone for South Africa between it and Marxist-ruled Angola, where more than 20,000 Cubans have been stationed for the last three years. The installation of a hostile regime in the Namibian capital of Windhoek could pose new security problems for South Africa along its northwestern frontier. The dilemma is not restricted to South Africa. Namibia's main guerrilla group, the South West Africa People's Organization, or SWAPO, has been waging a 12-year war against the South African presence. Its forces have shed much blood in the process and it feels no other group in the country has as much right to take power in an independent Namibia. But could SWAPO win a neutral election? South Africa does not believe it can. The United Nations has designated SWAPO to be the sole legitimate representative of the Namibian people, but, as the South Africans see it, this simply demonstrates that SWAPO is much more popular outside Namibia than inside. Despite the intense mutual (Continued on page 5)

Futrell, superintendent of the Public Welfare program in Pitt County, went to Raleigh this afternoon to work with state officials in mapping plans for the child welfare service program for 1939-40. Policies for selecting workers, which will occupy most of the discussion this afternoon are: 1. Type of county in which the worker is to serve. 2. Quality of the worker. 3. Quality of supervision for the workers. Futrell is on a committee which will be presented at today's session. Six Accidents Here Thursday

A half-dozen traffic accidents investigated by Greenville Police yesterday resulted in property damage estimated at more than $5,300.

Heaviest damage resulted from an 11:49 a.m. collision at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Elm Street, involving a car driven by Cynthia Wells Mercer of Route 1, New Port, and a truck operated by Robert Marion Tallon of 2311 South Memorial Dr.

Police, who charged Tallon with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage at $1,500 to the Mercer car and $100 to the Tallon vehicle.

A 9:45 p.m. collision on Charles Street, 60 feet South of the Tenth Street intersection involved cars driven by Shannon Lynette Avers of 114 Avon Ln., and Merle Hubert Dennis Jr. of Swansboro.

Damage from the mishap was set at $400 to the Avers car and $800 to the Dennis auto.

Wanda Sue Carter of 115 North Library St., was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 12:10 p.m. collision on Farnville Boulevard, 25 feet East of the Memorial Drive.

Investigators, who said the Carter car collided with an auto driven by Christina Elena Baro of 1505 Ragsdale Rd., estimated damage at $550 to the Baro vehicle and $500 to the Carter car.

According to investigators, cars driven by Sidney Taylor Beacham of 202 Sir Walter Dr., and Cora Patrick Montgomery of 1110 Colonial Ave. collided about 6:04 p.m. at the intersection of Third and Cadillac Streets, resulting in an estimated $100 damage to the Beacham car and $600 damage to the Montgomery vehicle.

Cars driven by Bernadine Desiree Freeman of Washington, and Frank Hunter Hollowell Jr. of Route 1, Plymouth collided about 7:45 a.m. at the intersection of Tenth Street and College Hill Drive, resulting in damage estimated at $100 to the Freeman car and $350 to the Hollowell auto, police noted.

Officers said a 3:35 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Charles Street involved a car driven by Mark Roy Wheeler of Virginia Beach, Va., and a truck driven by Gregory Louis Stevens of Falls Church, Va.

Police set damages at $100 to the Wheeler car and $250 to the Stevens truck.

suspicion between South Africa and SWAPO, there were clear signs last year that the two sides were ready to let U.N. supervised elections decide who would govern Namibia after independence.

The United States, with the help of West Germany, Great Britain, France and Canada, seemed on the verge of a diplomatic coup that could serve as a model for Rhodesia.

But since January, tensions between SWAPO and South Africa have increased, raising doubts about whether the U.N. plan will ever be implemented.

With the U.N. plan facing possible collapse, the five Western powers invited South Africa and SWAPO for urgent talks at the U.S. mission to the United Nations this week.

But now American officials are worried about possible new complications. They are wondering whether an influence-buying scandal which is engulfing South Africa will lead to a government paralysis, precluding a definitive decision on what the country should do about its most sensitive foreign policy issue.

Many government agencies and multinational corporations still take a dim view of unmarried couples living together. Therefore, a person must be doubly careful when explaining such a relationship to the boss.

"IBM may think Mr. Pinkerton and I are lovers, but if you check your computer again you'll find we're just good friends."

"Mr. Carruthers, I believe you've heard me speak about Alfred, who lives with his mother on weekends."

"I don't care what the FBI report says. The lady in question happens to be my step-sister who can't get on a plane to Chicago."

"This is Greta. I tried to be my own best friend but it didn't work."

Pressure Russian Religious Leader

By SETH MYDANS

Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia's

most charismatic religious figure has come under renewed pressure from authorities in a move against what some Christians say is a revival of faith among the young.

Supporters of the Rev. Dmitri Dudko say uniformed and plainclothes policemen have intimidated worshippers at his small Russian Orthodox church outside Moscow, standing about inside during the services and roughing up two people outside.

Dudko, who has said "it won't do any good to threaten me, I'm ready for anything," is an officially ordained priest who has become a popular underground figure among young Christians who pass his unofficial writings from hand to hand.

The priest, 57, small and balding with a fringe of long, white hair, has been interrogated and harassed, and in recent years was moved to a small parish after holding a series of unusual question-and-answer sessions for believers in the normally sedate Russian Orthodox Church.

His attempts to connect religion with everyday life have been seen as a challenge to Soviet authorities, who allow the church to survive only in severely restricted form.

Most priests conform, confining their activities to church ritual, and Russia's leading church figures regularly receive Communist Party awards for speaking out on behalf of Kremlin foreign policy.

About 50 million people in the nation of 260 million are said to be Russian Orthodox believers. About 7,500 churches remain open, less than one-tenth the number before the Bolshevik revolution in 1917.

Members of a group of dissident priests who admire Dudko say he appeals particularly to a new generation of young people trying to fill "an emptiness in their lives." These priests claim church attendance around the country by the young has been increasing.

"I have decided to be daring," Dudko said after initiating his "discussions" with his congregation. "The priest cannot worry about what might happen ... If he must suffer, then that will be the greatest joy and the most convincing answer to all questions."

His first 11 discussions in 1973, published in the West as a book called "Our Hope," led to a series of police interrogations that Dudko has described in detail in underground writings.

He was moved to a small church in Kabanova, 53 miles outside the city, and later to the small church where he now serves in Grebnovo, also just outside the radius in which foreigners are allowed to travel. But he has continued his discussions at Grebnovo, conducting some three dozen in 1977.

The "discussions" deal with basic questions of faith and the meaning of Scripture, as well as with social problems that also concern the Soviet press — drunkenness, divorce, "hooliganism."

N.C. Senate Supports Church School Effort

By SHARON BOND

Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The first legislative test is over, and the state's fundamentalist Christian schools have advanced in their effort to remove themselves from State Board of Education regulations.

On a 47-1 vote Thursday, the Senate approved and sent to the House a bill that would set up a separate set of regulations for the Christian schools, removing them from stricter board requirements.

The only "no" vote came from a senator who was not opposed to loosening educational requirements for the schools but was afraid the bill would lead to the growth of cults in North Carolina.

State education officials said after the vote they knew their cause was lost when Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green, president of the Senate, threw his support behind the bill and another one designed to do the same thing for other non-public schools.

Officials are hoping it won't be such smooth sailing in the House, and plan to ask for a public hearing on the bill before the House acts, according to Tom Davis, information officer for the state Department of Public Instruction.

"We feel once the education questions are raised, people will see what this could do," Davis said. "It would mean that anybody could start up a school."

Sen. Cecil Jenkins, D-Cabarrus, had the same objection and voted against the bill. He said the language of the bill, which says it applies to any school operated by any church or other organized religious group or body, would foster the growth of cults.

"Why do we have to go down in history as leading the way for cults to establish schools under the guise of religion," Jenkins asked during the floor debate.

The bill would remove the Christian schools from requirements to administer the state minimum competency test and hire certified teachers.

It would still require them to give a minimum skills test but it could be one of the schools' choosing. The bill would also require the schools to comply with fire, health and safety regulations and keep attendance records.

The state and the schools have been embroiled in a dispute since early 1978 over the board regulations. The schools object to requirements to administer the state competency test, hire certified teachers and file annual operational reports as an infringement on freedom of religion.

After the schools refused to file annual reports last year, the state sued and won on its authority to require the reports. However, the court also ruled the state exceeded its authority on some requirements of the Walk Away...

God must have known we'd have frustrations. That's why He gave us the capacity to walk away from them... even on crutches.

Often in walking away from our frustrations we find ourselves. We discover spiritual depths we never knew we had. Finding oneself is part of the deeper quest — finding God.

We are not alone. Life is the Creator's gift. To fulfill its potentials we need His help — especially when our own hopes dissolve in disappointment.

Bring your frustrations to church. Learn how to walk away from them with courage and faith.

That man stands mighty straight who has learned to believe in himself... and in God.

More Amending Of N.C. Open Meeting Law

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Amendments to the proposed new open meetings law would expand actions that public boards can take in secret and may delay the entire legislation.

A subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary III Committee Thursday accepted several amendments to the bill, but put off two major items — whether to keep provisions that would require the currently-closed meetings of the Council of State and the state Advisory Budget Commission to be open.

One amendment adopted by the panel would allow government boards to charge $5 annual fees from citizens who ask to receive notice of specially-called meetings. Notice to the news media would be free.

The addition of the fee provision, however, will likely mean that the entire bill must go to the Senate Finance Committee for approval if the judiciary committee approves it, said subcommittee chairman Sen. Willis Whichard, D-Durham.

Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston, Finance Committee chairman, said he would ask for the bill but did not intend to hold up its consideration.

Another amendment adopted unanimously would allow public boards to take action in closed session on transactions involving the acquisition of property. Current law, and the original bill, allow consideration in private but require final action to be public, said N.C. Press Association attorney William Lassiter.

"We think this is not in the public interest, allowing public money to be spent without anyone ever knowing about it,"

Lassiter said.

Ernie Ball, attorney for the N.C. League of Municipalities, defended the amendment proposed by his group.

"We think it's in the public interest, on occasion, to close a deal before the word is out," he said.

The House-passed bill may go to the full committee next week, Whichard said.

In other legislative business:

Zoo

A request for $7.3 million in state money for the N.C. Zoological Park in Randolph County won narrow approval in a joint appropriations committee. The money, if included in the state budget, would be used to complete the African phase of the zoo.

The action, on a 14-11 vote, means the joint Appropriations Committee on General Government and Transportation will recommend the money to the full appropriations panel.

Radar Devices

The House Highway Safety Committee killed a bill that would have prohibited the sale and use of radar-detection devices, such as Fuzzbusters, in North Carolina.

Only two committee members supported the bill — its sponsor, Rep. Gus Economos, D-Mecklenburg, and Rep. Roy Spoon, R-Mecklenburg, who tried to get a similar bill passed last session.

Social Clubs

The House Alcoholic Beverage Committee began reworking a bill which would force certain social clubs to choose between brown bagging and mixed drinks.

The original bill, introduced by Rep. Hartwell Campbell, D-Holt, D-Alamance, was named to head the 17-member panel.

Stewart said the committee will propose a comprehensive ethics plan for public officials in the executive and legislative branches of government.

Retirement

Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green issued a statement proposing several changes in the state employees retirement program, including a hike in the cost-of-living increase for retirement benefits from 4 to 5 percent.

A second proposed change would make an estimated 22,000 state workers, aged 56 or older, eligible for immediate retirement at full benefits. Green proposed a "rule of 85," in which retirement at full benefits would be available to state workers whose age added to their years of state service totaled 85 or more.

Savings & Loans

The House Banking Committee approved a measure already passed by the Senate which requires additional proof of need for establishment of new savings and loan associations. The move is backed by the N.C. Savings and Loans League.

Early Primary Bill Moving Up

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A bill that would move up the date for the state's presidential primary and, according to its sponsor, "put North Carolina in the spotlight," won approval in a House committee Thursday.

Rep. Dave Diamond, D-Surry, introduced the bill as an effort to make the state's primary more significant nationally. It was approved unanimously by the House Election Laws Committee.

"We would be the first Southern state to hold the primary," Diamond said. "Candidates would have to establish a winning image."

Diamond also said candidates would be forced to speak early in their campaigns on issues affecting the state, such as the tobacco price-support. The bill will now either go to the full

Rate-Fixing Challenged

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Hospital Association has challenged a bill that proposes rate-setting for all state hospitals. Stephen C. Morrisette, director of government relations for the state hospital association, presented the group's opinion in a hearing before the State Legislative Medical Cost Containment Commission.

He said North Carolina hospitals rank 44th in the nation in expense per in-patient day.

Morrisette told the commission the ranking "demonstrates that North Carolina hospitals are among the nation's leaders in developing innovative programs in response to the increase in hospital and medical care costs."

He also said hospitals are one of the few sectors to attempt to do something about holding down inflation. He said hospitals have worked to keep down health-care costs "while business, labor and government have only talked about holding down inflation."

"It would be questionable for the state to establish a new and very expensive bureaucracy to regulate hospitals and other health-care institutions," Morrisette said.

The bill was drafted by Sen. I Beverly Lake, D-Wake, and approved last week by a subcommittee of the medical cost containment commission.

Defends Pay Guidelines

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt defended his position Thursday that pay raises sought by state employees exceed President Carter's wage guidelines.

Two state employee groups and the N.C. Association of Educators have said Hunt is interpreting the guidelines too strictly.

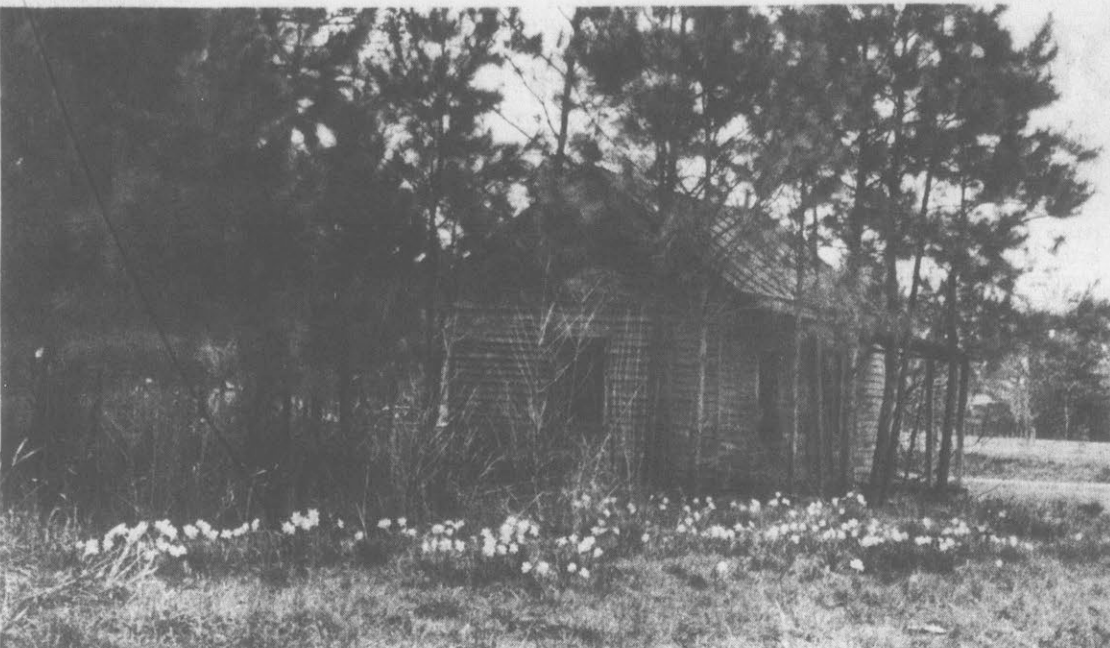

"We are certain we have interpreted the guidelines for the pay raise correctly," Hunt told leaders of the two employee groups Thursday.

Hunt and the Advisory Budget Commission have proposed a 5 percent across-the-board pay raise for teachers and state employees and 2 percent for longevity and merit raises.

The groups are backing a bill that is expected to be introduced soon to make the pay raise a flat 7 percent, with merit and longevity extra.

Hunt said that Carter's wage guideline call for a 7 percent limit on the total pay package.

Hunt made the remarks in a speech to the N.C. State Government Employees Association, which represents highway and corrections employees, and the N.C. State Employees Association, which represents the rest of the state government workers.

Abandoned Baby Is Burned With Trash

MIDDLESEX, N.C. (AP) — An abandoned newborn baby, left in a trash barrel near a Middlesex mobile home, was burned to death when the occupant of the trailer ignited the trash in the can, authorities said Thursday.

Middlesex police report that Cash Williams Cameron told them he did not know the baby was inside the can when he ignited the trash Wednesday.

Cameron said when he discovered the unidentified baby, he wrapped the child in a plastic bag and buried him. He then called the Middlesex police, who notified the sheriff's office.

The trash can was located between Cameron's trailer and the Middlesex Holiness Church.

Dr. R.E. Ziph Jr. said an autopsy at Nash General Hospital had determined that the baby was alive when the fire was started. Nash County Sheriff Frank Brown said the baby was a black male less than 24 hours old.

Brown said there were no clues as to the identity of the infant's parents. He said they could face a murder charge if they were identified.

Brown said, "On the basis of our investigation, the fire was set without knowledge that the baby was in there."

Middlesex Police Officer James Beckwith said early today the investigation was still underway. "We have not eliminated anyone yet," Beckwith said.

Middlesex is located about 30 miles east of Raleigh.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RICHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This day and evening have two powerful influences in effect. The first demands that you do nothing of a drastic or dramatic nature. But secondly, you are under excellent aspects for relying upon your intuitive perceptions and gain much.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Look into some new outlet that will give you added income so that you need not worry so much about bills. Don't argue with others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Not a good day to confer with associates, since there could be big arguments arising. Be busy at work at hand and accomplish much.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Study a new project that will help you to advance. Forget dull duties that yield you nothing. Listen to what one of character has to suggest so you have greater happiness in the future.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Keep focused on your work and do an efficient and exact job so that your benefits increase. Improve your diet if you want your health to be better.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be more optimistic where your partners are concerned and cement better relations with them, become more successful. Use a more up-to-date system that will improve the quality of your work.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Use care in driving and avoid possible accidents. Handle problems at home as wisely as you can. Entertain friends at home, but make arrangements early.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Contact those who can assist you to do a better job at your work, but don't spend money foolishly. Be cheerful and impress them favorably. Make sure you pay bills on time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) If you listen to what home ties have to suggest, you can add much to present abundance now. Your own ideas are too advanced to use now. Make a favorable impression on newcomers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Go ahead with ideas you have since your thinking is clear and so is your vision. Go after the information you need at right sources. Don't permit a personal worry to deter your progress.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Seek out an expert who can assist you where practical affairs mean much to you. Don't listen to a well-meaning friend who has little know-how. Try to control your temper or you get into big trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Pay attention to what an honest friend has to suggest and forget that bigwig who is too busy to help you. Follow rules that apply to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Stop concentrating on troublesome affairs and get busy on the constructive, show you are a conscientious citizen. A higher-up can be helpful to you in the future but avoid a new contact.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be a born philosopher and have most enlightened thoughts, so be sure to screen playmates so that your progeny will not get in with the wrong company and upset the fine promise here. This can be a successful life, especially in foreign countries.

Good Weekend For Kids With A TV Set; Spring Brings Treats

By PETER J. BOYER

AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — This is a good weekend to be a kid with a TV set.

Tonight, CBS pays for whatever programming sins it may have committed in the past year with its annual presentation of "The Wizard of Oz," that extravagant celebration of imagination and nifty movie-making.

How, I wonder, could a kid really believe it's spring without hearing that jovial trio sing: "The Wiz he is a whiz of a wiz, if ever a wizard there was..."? Or without seeing Dorothy and those swell red disco shoes, Toto the dog, the wicked witch and those flying monkeys of hers?

It must be spring. The other networks kick in too, with kid-fare the folks won't have to worry about.

Sunday, where the Osmonds used to be, ABC offers the first hour of a five-week series for kids called "Friends." It's a kids-are-people-too show, but, thank goodness, it doesn't forget that kids are kids, too.

Its stars are Charles Aiken, Jill Whelan and Jarod Johnson as three pals who are growing up together, sharing some bumps and bruises along the way.

In the opening episode, cool Randy (Johnson) has discovered girls. His pal Pete (Aiken) liked it better when Randy just collected baseball cards, but Pete's ready for new things. Randy teaches him to walk cool, talk cool, and then talks him into a double date.

Pete's hip, but he's only 11. He doesn't know if he's quite ready for a real date. So, he asks his pal Nancy (Whelan) to lunch, sort of a practice date.

Nancy takes it seriously, and isn't amused when Pete tells her the next day that he's going steady with the young vamp Phoebe. Don't worry, though, Nancy and Pete survive, and everything works out.

"Friends" is one of those rare kid shows that manages to present nice, bright children that still seem real. Nice job from the folks who brought you

"Family" and (of all things) "Charles Angels." Spelling-Goldberg Productions.

Later Sunday, NBC checks in with an offering for the teenyboppers. It's about a 13-year-old girl who falls in love with a rock 'n' roller who is 17. Sounds prime for a piece of empty-headed bubblegum junk, but the performances are top-notch and the material, considering its calculated, pre-fab appeal, is pretty good.

Denise Miller plays Jessie Walters, a nice little Jewish girl consumed by her budding womanhood and the accompanying sensations thereof. She experiences powerful stirrings when she witnesses a rock concert at a local shopping center; and when the sexy lead singer of the group turns out to be her guitar instructor, well, can you

City Buried In Ad Blitz

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — City officials are launching a half-million dollar advertising blitz to get people interested in visiting here, but they forgot one thing — taking care of the flood of mail asking for more information.

"I think we'll need three additional people just to handle the mail," said marketing director Edward N. Gilbert. "But the money is only supposed to go for advertising and brochures."

"We're going to need more people and more money for postage, and I don't know where we're going to get it," Gilbert said.

The ads, in Better Homes and Gardens, Woman's Day and Newsweek magazines and the New York Times, will extol the pleasures of Philadelphia and invite readers to write the Convention and Visitors Bureau for more information.

The campaign is expected to cost $525,000 — an elevenfold increase over last year's tourist recruitment effort. Gilbert has estimated the bureau will receive between 65,000 and 80,000 inquiries this year, up from the 20,000 inquiries last year.

U.S.-Made Movies Win New Round Of Awards From British Academy

LONDON (AP) — Several movies made in the United States, some of which might already be slightly forgotten stateside, have won a new round of awards — these from the British Film and Television Academy.

Princess Anne, daughter of Queen Elizabeth II, presented makers of "Julia" with the best film, best screenplay and best cinematography awards in ceremonies Thursday. Jane Fonda won the best actress title for her role as an anti-Nazi activist in a story based on author Lillian Hellman's life in pre-war Germany.

Geraldine Page was named best supporting actress for her performance in "Interiors."

Richard Dreyfuss was declared best actor for his performance in "The Goodbye Girl." The honor for best supporting actor went to John Hurt in "Midnight Express," a British production which earned best direction and best film editing awards.

"Superman." Christopher Reeve was dubbed most promising newcomer for his portrayal of the man of steel.

Linda Blair In Florida Court

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Actress Linda Blair got a kiss from her former boyfriend before the couple entered federal court and entered pleas of innocent to charges of conspiracy to distribute cocaine.

The 20-year-old Miss Blair and Ted Hartlett, 21, of Stamford, Conn., met outside the courtroom before their arraignment Thursday. They were released in lieu of $5,000 bond each, pending trial tentatively set for May 21.

Miss Blair, of Wilton, Conn., who at age 14 starred in the movie "The Exorcist," refused to talk to reporters. She told U.S. Magistrate Harvey Schlesinger she has an 11th grade education.

MARIJUANA SEARCH SWAN QUARTER, N.C. (AP) — Search continued today for more bales of marijuana believed to have been on board a fishing trawler that burned and sank in Pamlico Sound Wednesday.

Fund-Raising By Public Radio

WARRENTON, N.C. (AP) — WVSP-FM is trying to raise about $8,000 in local contributions in an effort to increase the station's power from 50,000 watts to 100,000 watts this year.

The public radio station in Warrenton is counting on the federal Department of Commerce's Office of Telecommunication Equipment and Facilities to come through with the remaining funds for the $30,000 project.

The station services listeners in Warren, Vance, Franklin, Nash, Halifax, Edgecombe and Northampton counties, as well as parts of southern Virginia. The power increase would allow WVSP to send a stronger signal into the Triangle area and as far east as Greenville.

SPECIAL CHOIR REHEARSAL The Traveling Choir of Holly Hill F. W. B. Church will hold a special rehearsal Saturday, March 24, 1 p.m., at the church, to prepare for the Friday trip to Washington. All members are asked to attend.

"Ladies and Gentlemen of the Jury:

"This case is unusual. You are not being asked to decide a weighty matter—all that my client claims is at stake was an overtrick. But it did occur in a duplicate tournament, where overtricks can be important. In this particular case it resulted in a bottom score.

"My client, West, led the top of his spade sequence, and declarer played low from dummy. The defendant, East, won the king and shifted to a low heart. Declarer played low, my client won the ace and returned the suit.

"East won the king, but declarer's queen was now established. Indeed, the defenders could not score another trick, and that tenth trick was the killer. My client maintains that all his partner had to do was return a spade and declarer could have come to no more than nine tricks."

"I must remind the jury that it is not enough to verify that a spade return would hold the contract to nine tricks. East, my client, maintains that the opening lead marked declarer with the queen of spades. Therefore, it was obvious that a spade continuation would be futile—declarer had two stoppers in the suit. The heart shift was the only chance to defeat the contract. While that did result in an extra trick for declarer, it was just unfortunate."

"Your honor, we of the jury are faced with an impossible task. The logic of both parties in this case is unassailable, yet both arguments are flawed. Indeed, we do find East guilty, but not of the crime of which he has been accused by West.

"We agree that a spade continuation would have held declarer to nine tricks. But we also agree that a heart shift was the only hope of defeating the contract. The error lies in East's choice of return.

"Had East shifted to the jack of hearts, the contract would have been defeated. Declarer does best to cover. West wins the ace and continues hearts, but East's K-9 constitutes a finesse over dummy's ten. Thus, the defenders must get a spade trick and four hearts. Under the circumstances, is East guilty or not?"

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead today despite the news of the sharpest rise in consumer prices in more than four years. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which rose 3.55 Thursday to a five-month high, added another 2.00 to 863.31 by noon today.

Gainers held a 7-5 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. The government reported early today that the consumer price index jumped 1.2 percent in February — equal to about a 15 percent annual rate — after a 0.9 percent rise the month before.

Investors had had plenty of advance warning that the inflation news would be bad.

But analysts said the figures still seemed to put at least a temporary damper on investors' recent buying interest. UV Industries rose 1/8 to 33 1/2 in active trading. A court ruled in favor of the company in one stage of its bid to ward off what it sees as a takeover effort by Sharon Steel Corp.

Most other issues showed only modest price changes.

The NYSE's composite index rose .13 to 57.22, while the American Stock Exchange market value index climbed 1.21 to 176.49.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 15.35 million shares at noon, against 16.47 million at the same point Thursday.

TPC Leader

Kermit Zarley waves to a cheering crowd on the 18th green Thursday after he finished the first round of the Tournament Players Championship with a 66, 6-under par. The score gave him the lead going into today's second round. (AP Laserphoto)

Zarley Grabs TPC Advantage

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — It was with a definite sense of relief that Jack Nicklaus said:

"That's got to help. I don't know what I'll do tomorrow, but that's got to help a lot."

Golf's greatest performer, off to probably the slowest start of his unmatched career, had just fired a 5-under-par 67 — his best round of the year and his first under-par effort in three weeks.

"I knew it would happen. I just didn't know when. I was getting sick and tired of explaining why I was playing poorly," said the obviously pleased Nicklaus, the defending champion in the $440,000 Tournament Players Championship. "I'm delighted to be back."

He was tied for second behind Kermit Zarley, who took advantage of ideal playing conditions to rip tough Sawgrass with a course-record matching 66 and establish the first-round lead Thursday.

Sharing second with Nicklaus at 67 were U.S. Open champ Andy North and Lanny Wadkins, winner of the Los Angeles Open earlier this year.

Gil Morgan, Ron Streck, Canadian Jim Nelford and veteran Don January were at 68. And there were a dozen players at 69 — in sharp contrast to the scores usually yielded by the Sawgrass links, which often are raked by gale-force winds. Last year, for example, there were only 25 subpar rounds in the entire 72-hole tournament and only one score under 70. On this day alone, there were 20 scores under 70 and 53 under par.

"This golf course will get it back," said Wadkins. "The weather was perfect today. You have to take advantage of it when you can."

Tom Watson and Lee Trevino each shot 70 in the almost-windless weather and Arnold Palmer, the oldest man in the tournament at 49, matched par 72.

South African Gary Player, the Masters champion, opened his American campaign with a 73 and must improve if he is to qualify for the final two rounds. Hubert Green also had a 73 and Ben Crenshaw 74. Seve Ballesteros of Spain registered a fat 76, including 43 on his back nine.

Zarley, 37, winner of three titles in his 16 years on the tour, had what he called "one of the best putting rounds I've had in a long time."

Pirates Sweep UNC-Charlotte

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

After struggling to get past UNC Charlotte in the first game of a doubleheader, 5-2, the Pirates of East Carolina came back with strength in the second game and romped to a 14-0 victory.

The wins pushed the Pirate win streak to five in a row, and increased their record to 9-6 on the season. Charlotte fell off to 3-7.

Rick Ramey got credit for the victory in the first game, going five and a third innings and allowing only two hits. Both of the runs, unearned, came off him as he walked five and struck out five. Bill Wilder came on to earn a save, hurling one and two-thirds innings of hitless ball, not allowing a baserunner, and striking out three. The win was Ramey's first in four decisions.

Bobby Patterson hurled another two-hitter in the second game, going the distance. He walked two and struck out 14 in claiming his third win in four decisions.

"Ramey didn't pitch that bad a game," Coach Monte Little said. "He was just a little off in his timing, and that caused his problems. Patterson threw a really good game."

The second game was highlighted by several arguments that saw the ejection of four Charlotte players, along with the school's Sports Information Director.

The Pirates pushed over their first run in the first inning of the opener. Mike Sorrell led off with a walk and was balked to second. Billy Best reached on an error, moving Sorrell to third. He scored on a passed ball.

The second run came in the third. Best singled to left and stole second. He scored when Raymie Stynes reached on an error.

Charlotte came back with its two runs in the top of the fourth inning. Mark Davidson reached on an error and Mark Vogler singled. Ramey hit Phil Hooker and Steve Philpott on successive pitches, forcing in Davidson. Joey Tatum reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Vogler with the tying run.

formation Director.

The first two ejections came in the fourth inning, when Tim Hardison of East Carolina scored from second base on a wild pitch. He slid in under the tag of relief pitcher Buster Williams, and Williams argued hotly with plate umpire Joe Kolenda. Sports Information Director Marty Rasnake also charged the plate off the bench, and Kolenda thumbed both of them out of the game.

Later, in the top of the fifth, catcalls continued from the bench, and Kolenda ejected another player, followed by two more in quick succession, thumbed out by base umpire Joe West.

The Pirates pushed over their first run in the first inning of the opener. Mike Sorrell led off with a walk and was balked to second. Billy Best reached on an error, moving Sorrell to third. He scored on a passed ball.

The second run came in the third. Best singled to left and stole second. He scored when Raymie Stynes reached on an error.

Charlotte came back with its two runs in the top of the fourth inning. Mark Davidson reached on an error and Mark Vogler singled. Ramey hit Phil Hooker and Steve Philpott on successive pitches, forcing in Davidson. Joey Tatum reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Vogler with the tying run.

But the Pirates quickly regained the lead. Max Raynor reached on an error and Hardison cracked a two-run homer over the left field fence, making it 4-2.

The other run came in the fifth. Sorrell walked, took second on a passed ball and third on a wild pitch. Best walked and stole second. An error on the attempt to get Best allowed Sorrell to score.

Like Charlotte, East Carolina had only two hits in the first game, relying on errors and walks to chalk up their runs. All but one was unearned.

In the second game, the Pirates did their heavy hitting, banging out 14. Macon Moye, Hardison and Jerry Carraway each had a pair in the second game. Moye, who was four-for-four on Wednesday night, went two-for-four overall last night to up his average to .353 on the young season.

Only three Charlotte runners reached as far as second base in the second game, with just one advancing as far as third.

The Pirates, meanwhile, were circling the bases with regularity.

They pushed over three in the first. Sorrell walked and was sacrificed up. He stole third and Stynes also walked. Miye doubled in both runners, and scored when Max Raynor singled to center. Raynor advanced on the throw home, and scored on Jerry Carraway's single.

Two more scored in the second. Sorrell singled and Best got a hit. Best was then cut down on an infield grounder by Stynes. Moye walked, loading the bases and a walk to Raynor scored Sorrell. Stynes scored when Hardison grounded to the infield.

The fourth saw four more runs score. Stynes opened with a double and Moye slapped a two-run homer. Hardison singled and Carraway reached on a fielder's choice. A wild pitch allowed Hardison to score from second, and Carraway to go to third. He scored on Bob Neff's infield hit.

The final four came in the fifth. Jay Carraway doubled and M'ye walked. Rick Derechailo hit the evening's third homer, a three-run shot, clearing the bases. Hardison reached on an infield hit and Mike Sage got a single. Jerry Carraway finished it off with a double to left, scoring Hardison with the 14th Pirate run.

Hayes: A Broken Man

DALLAS (AP) — Bob Hayes, once at the top of amateur and professional sports in America, is a financially and spiritually broken man at 36, with his imprisonment just days away because he trafficked in narcotics.

"The Bullet" and "The World's Fastest Human" — as sportswriters dubbed Hayes after he won two sprint gold medals in the 1964 Olympics — was sentenced to five years in prison Thursday by State District Judge Richard Mays on a guilty plea of selling drugs to an undercover agent.

Hayes received two five-year terms, to be served concurrently, on charges of selling cocaine to an undercover agent in March 1978. Hayes was assessed seven years deferred probation for selling methamphetamine. He could get out in less than a year on good behavior.

The former wide receiver for the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League was free on $30,000 bond until formal sentencing, expected next week.

Taking the stand in a desperate defense effort for probation, Hayes said, "I'm guilty. I was wrong. I've paid the price in image and my respect. People see me as Bob Hayes — the dope dealer — not Bob Hayes — the citizen. It hurts."

"I have hit rock bottom financially. I'm broke," Hayes added.

He said the narcotics trafficking cost him lucrative commercials with a beer company and a credit card company.

Cunningham Quits UCLA

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gary Cunningham said pressure to win didn't cause him to resign as UCLA's basketball coach and Chancellor Charles Young claimed stories of undue pressure were "complete distortions."

In a surprise move, Cunningham quit after two years and a 50-8 record because he "wanted a different lifestyle" including more time with his family.

Cunningham and his wife have two young daughters and the 39-year-old coach said he had only five weekends free for his family the past year.

Cunningham succeeded Gene Bartow, who in turn had succeeded the legendary John Wooden — whose clubs brought 10 national championships to UCLA. After two years, Bartow said the pressures were too great.

"Pressure? It depends on the individual," commented Cunningham, who had been Wooden's chief assistant for four years prior to the latter's retirement in 1975.

At that time, Cunningham did not seek the job but later said he missed coaching and applied when Bartow quit.

"I have not felt pressure on winning at UCLA," said Cunningham, whose clubs went to the NCAA playoffs each year after winning conference titles. "I never felt this was a high pressure job. I had the support of the people that count."

As Cunningham looked forward to an undisclosed administrative position with the school and UCLA sought a new coach, Chancellor Young told newsmen:

"I think our UCLA athletic program is the finest in the United States."

Conley Tops NP

BETHEL — D.H. Conley slipped to an 8-6 victory over the North Pitt girls' softball team yesterday.

The Pant-HERS grabbed off the initial lead, scoring a run in the first. Both teams scored single runs in the second, but Conley pushed over five in the top of the third, to take the lead for good. The Valkyries added two more in the fourth, while North Pitt got one in the fifth and two in the sixth to fall two short.

Lexanne Keeter got the victory for Conley.

Anna Roberson and Tammy Streeter each had three hits for Conley, while Starla Singleton had three for North Pitt.

North Pitt fell to 0-3 with the loss, while Conley climbed to 4-1. Tuesday, Conley is at Ayden-Grifton, and North Pitt enters C.B. Aycock.

Pro-Ladies Event Set

Brook Valley Golf and Country Club will play host to a Pro-Ladies Golf Tournament Monday.

The tournament is being co-sponsored by Brook Valley and Stroh's Beer (Hallow Distributing), and is fully sanctioned by the Carolinas PGA.

The field for the tournament has been filled with 30 pros from Eastern North Carolina. Each pro will bring along three women, and a Brook Valley lady will round out the team. All women will play at three-quarter handicap.

The total purse for the tournament is $1,400 and a 10:30 a.m. shotgun start will be observed.

Rampants Take First

WILSON — Rose High School's Rampants gained their first track victory of the season, downing Northern Nash and Wilson Hunt yesterday.

The Rampants finished the meet with 81 points, while Northern Nash had 58½ and Hunt had 38½.

Rose and Northern Nash each won five events, while Hunt had three wins. Hunt and Rose also tied for first in one event. Rose won two of the three relays, while Northern Nash took the other.

Holmes Defends Title Tonight

LAS VEGAS (AP) — "Good luck," said Ossie Ocasio. "You need it," replied Larry Holmes. "Me no Jimmy Young."

Most people agree with Holmes, who is an overwhelming favorite to successfully defend his World Boxing Council heavyweight championship tonight against Ocasio, who will be trying for the big prize in only his 14th fight. His last two fights, decision victories over the highly regarded Young, earned Ocasio the WBC's No. 3 ranking and his title shot.

The Puerto Rican's big chance will take place at the Las Vegas Hilton Pavilion, the site of Leon Spinks' stunning upset of Muhammad Ali Feb. 15, 1978. Spinks won the title in only his eighth pro fight, but he had many amateur bouts and won an Olympic gold medal. The 23-year-old Ocasio had only three or four amateur fights.

Before Holmes makes his second defense of the title he won on a split decision from Ken Norton here last June 9, Norton will meet Earnie Shavers in a 12-round bout, with the winner to fight Holmes in September should Holmes "break Jaws" as he promises. Ocasio's nickname is "Jaws."

Both fights will be televised live by ABC, with the Norton-Shavers bout to begin at approximately 5:45 p.m. PST.

The officials will be appointed by the Nevada Athletic Commission, with the blessing of the WBC. A dispute between the Nevada commission and the World Boxing Association prevented a light heavyweight title fight between Mike Rossman and Victor Galindez from taking place last Feb. 24. That fight is scheduled to be held April 14 in New Orleans.

Holmes has a big physical advantage over Ocasio. He weighed in Thursday at 214 pounds, giving him a seven-pound advantage over the challenger, and at 6-foot-3 he has a 3½-inch height advantage and an important four-inch edge in reach.

But the biggest advantage the 29-year-old Holmes enjoys is in experience. A pro since 1973, he has won all 29 of his fights, 20 by knockout. He has been 15 rounds before, against Norton, and he's been in with good hitters like Norton and Shavers. Holmes earned his title shot against Norton with a one-sided 12-round decision over Shavers last March 25.

Ocasio, who is 13-0 with nine knockouts, has been as far as 10 rounds only three times — his last three fights. Besides Young, a clever fighter but certainly no puncher, the best opponent Ocasio has faced is journeyman Kevin Isaac. He outpointed Isaac over 10 rounds last year.

Ocasio is getting $250,000 while Holmes is earning $1.2 million.

Norton, 33, is getting $750,000 and the 34-year-old Shavers $250,000 for what could their last shot at getting another title chance.

Norton is rated a 2-1 favorite to win the fight, which most observers felt would not go the distance.

Boards Key Sonics

SEATTLE (AP) — How do you overcome a shooting disadvantage of 51 to 43 percent from the field?

The answer for Seattle was rebounding as the SuperSonics dominated the boards 59-41, survived a late fourth-quarter scare and hung on to defeat the Boston Celtics 112-100 in a National Basketball Association game.

"Seattle's offensive rebounding especially hurt us in the first half," said Bob McKinnon, Boston assistant coach. "Seattle works very hard at rebounding, and they take a great deal of pride in it. They also have one of the best offensive rebounding players in Paul Silas."

"This is a dominance on the backboards that we have not seen by any team this year."

In the only other NBA game, the Indiana Pacers, led by Johnny Davis' 22 points, edged Cleveland 108-106, handing the Cavaliers their seventh straight setback.

Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens admitted the Sonics "relaxed a bit" down the stretch but added, "What is important is that we won."

Seattle's fourth consecutive victory put the Sonics 2½ games in front of Phoenix in the Pacific Division. It was Boston's third straight loss and seventh in a row on the road.

Jack Sikma, Silas and John Johnson helped keep Seattle in control of the boards through the first three periods.

Trailing by 12 points opening the period, Boston cut the gap to 106-105 with 1:05 left as Bob McAdoo sank two free throws to give him a game-high 31 points.

With time running out on the shot clock, John Johnson put up a desperate 20-footer. Silas got the rebound, and Sikma then sank a 15-foot jumper. Four free throws by John Johnson and Dennis Johnson in the final 20 seconds clinched the victory.

Sikma led Seattle with 24 points and 15 rebounds. Cedric Maxwell, pacing the Celtic rally with 13 points in the final quarter, finished with 26.

"In the first half we went to the boards well. We wanted to concentrate on blocking them out," Wilkens said. "I didn't think we maintained the concentration as well as we should have."

Exhibition Game Draws Crowd N. Duplin

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — For a meaningless exhibition game, the scene was surreal. It was more like last October's playoff at Boston's Fenway Park.

The New York Yankees were in town to play the Red Sox. Scalpers asked $20 for a $2.50 general admission ticket and fans lined up more than 5½ hours before game time to buy even standing room — on a rise far beyond the outfield fences. However, baseball fever reaches its peak whenever and wherever the Yankees and Red Sox meet, whether during the regular season, a playoff with all the marbles at stake or in a small park in central Florida during spring training.

Let's face it — the Yankees and Red Sox would draw fans even in Dogpatch on Sadie Hawkins Day. The two teams not only are good, they have charisma. Each drew more than 2 million both at home and on the road last year and both are setting Florida attendance records.

The Yanks and Red Sox boast one of the bitterest rivalries in professional sports while respecting each other to the utmost. However, neither team expected the reception it got Thursday at little Chain O'Lakes Park, the Red Sox' training camp.

The park, seating 3,809, was packed, with fans jamming the aisles and standing in every nook. So, too, were newly erected stands seating about 600 well behind the fence in left and left-center. Others brought various types of chairs, even chaise lounges, to join standees on the hilltop behind the fences in center and right.

The result was a whopping crowd of 6,196, shattering the old Winter Haven record of 5,121 for a Red Sox preseason game.

Neither team felt the pressure as in their last meeting. That was on Oct. 2, when the Yankees rallied from a 2-0 deficit and held on for a dramatic 5-4 playoff victory for the American League East championship.

ECU Personnel Share In Work With Deaf

ECU News Bureau

Several staff members of the East Carolina University Program for Hearing Impaired Students represented the campus at recent gatherings for lay and professional persons involved in work with the deaf.

Michael Ernest, program director, and staff interpreter Jim Haslup attended a recent workshop on the legal rights of the deaf consumer in Charlotte.

The event was sponsored by the N.C. Council for the Hearing Impaired, Central Piedmont Community College and the N.C. Legal Defense Fund, and drew 150 deaf citizens, sign language interpreters, rehabilitation workers and educators.

Haslup served as interpreter at a workshop panel discussion.

Ernest, Haslup and ECU interpreter Bob Coltrane attended a March 19 organizational meeting of the eastern North Carolina chapter of the National Registry of Interpreters for the Deaf in Wilson.

Ernest and Debbie Parvin of Wilson were elected to chair the newly-developed chapter.

Persons interested in the organization are invited to attend its April 30 meeting at McAdams Hall on the campus of the Eastern N.C. School for the Deaf in Wilson.

Ernest, Haslup and Coltrane, along with ECU student Fred Mangrubang of Hawaii, were featured at a recent program at the Wilson school, in which they did sign language interpretation of several contemporary songs.

They will perform in a similar program at the N.C. Association for the Deaf convention in New Bern May 25-26, and Haslup will conduct an April workshop in Raleigh for the N.C. Registry for the Deaf on interpretation of music.

Propose Funds End If Grads Fail Licensing

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A joint appropriations committee Thursday recommended that the University of North Carolina Board of Governors cut off money to nursing schools if half the graduates fail the state licensing board examination.

Rep. Jay Huskins, D-Iredell, submitted the recommendation, which would require that half the graduates of nursing schools in the university system pass the boards by June 30, 1980. By 1981 two-thirds would have to pass and by 1983 three-quarters would be required to pass.

Huskins said he had included an escape clause that would allow the board to continue providing money to a school if its graduates show a significant improvement over the last test results, even if a minimum percentage do not pass the exam.

Currently, schools in the UNC system where less than 50 percent of the graduates pass are Winston-Salem State, N.C. A&T and N.C. Central, Huskins said. They are three of the five traditionally black campuses on the 16-campus system.

"These schools are going to have to start doing a more effective job of teaching," Huskins said. "It doesn't matter if they're black, they're just not teaching those kids."

Huskins' recommendation will go to the full appropriations committees, along with the supplemental budget requests approved Thursday by the Joint Appropriations and Base Budget Committees on Education.

The joint committee approved requests of $40 million for UNC's 1979-1981 budget. UNC President William Friday had requested a total of $51 million, including items for capital improvements at North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill and expansion of current agricultural programs.

Among the items the committee approved was one for $9.4 million for capital improvements that Friday said were the Board of Governors' top priority.

The committee has not acted on a request for $10.9 million in salaries for 1980-1981.

Supplemental appropriations are made from general state tax revenues in addition to funds already earmarked for education in the budget.

Two Leave Planning Bd.

WINTERVILLE — Alfred McLawhorn and Hoyt Hammond, two of the charter members of the Winterville Planning Zoning Board, resigned at the Monday Board meeting, both citing health reasons. The board has been in existence since 1970.

In other business, the board approved the preliminary plat for the Parks subdivision, which will consist of nine lots.

The board also recommended to the Town Board of Aldermen that the zoning ordinances be amended to allow such businesses as antiques to obtain conditional use permits to operate within an agricultural residential zone.

The recommendation was made pending a request from Norman Worthington of Tar Road Antiques.

No action was taken by the board after a presentation was made by John Weatherington of a proposed 49-lot mobile home park, to be tentatively placed east of the Mid East Regional Housing Authority.

Gas shortages may be on way

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is predicting motorists could find gasoline in short supply this summer due to the Iranian revolution and that it will cost at least three to four cents more a gallon than now.

Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger told a House committee Thursday that unless Iranian production is restored line shortages of "noticeable but not crippling" severity during the summer driving season.

Health-Related Programs Held

ECU News Bureau
Several members of the East Carolina University faculty are involved in training programs for professionals in the health care delivery fields.

The programs are sponsored by the Eastern Area Health Education Center.

Therese Lawler and Virginia Tate of the ECU School of Nursing and Joel Vickers of the School of Allied Health and Social Professions are among instructors in a Staff Development Series for managers and supervisors in health care settings.

The program is designed to assist participants in planning, organizing, directing and controlling educational activities in their work locations, and consists of day-long monthly sessions at Pitt County Memorial Hospital here.

Jennifer Lang, oncology nurse with the ECU School of Medicine, is directing a short course for nurses in physical assessment.

Its purpose is to enable participating nurses to develop their skills in data collection, physical examination, use of screening tests and other procedures routinely done with patients before diagnosis and treatment.

The short course consists of Wednesday evening sessions at the ECU School of Nursing.

Break-In Case Sees 2 Arrests

Two persons have been arrested by Pitt County deputies on charges stemming from a Feb. 15 break-in at a service station-grocery near Farmville.

Arrested, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, were Bobby Gene Anderson, 17 of 529 N. Main Street, Farmville, and William Randy Moore, 16, of Lang Street, Farmville.

Sheriff Tyson said that both men were charged with breaking, entering and larceny at L & M Service Station, owned by Carl Brock, on Rt. 2, Farmville. Some $80 in cash was reported taken from the business in the incident.

Bond was set for Anderson and Moore at $500 each, the sheriff reported, with hearings scheduled for April 12 in District Court here.

Penn Grads Will Hear 2 Winners

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two Pulitzer Prize winners — playwright Tennessee Williams and cartoonist Garry Trudeau — have been given the stamp of approval as graduation speakers by seniors at Pennsylvania University.

Trudeau, who created the comic strip "Doonesbury," will address the baccalaureate ceremony May 20, while Williams will speak at commencement exercises May 21.
