

Prayers And Haste By Flood Fighters

By TERRY GOGGIN
Associated Press Writer
JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Workers frantically piled sandbags along muddy levees

today to try to contain record flooding of the Pearl River which has forced thousands from their homes and inundated the city's new $48 million sewage treatment plant.

"We're sandbagging and praying," said Steve Spotts, administrative assistant to

Mayor Dale Danks, as the Pearl's worst flooding in history surged rooftop-high in some places and sent five feet of water into parts of the downtown area.

The mayor's office estimated that 17,200 persons have fled their homes in Jackson, a city of 250,000, but state civil defense officials said only about 8,000 were homeless across the state.

The river was at 42.6 feet at Jackson today, up only two tenths in the last 12 hours, and officials said the levee system, keeping even more water out of the city, was holding.

The National Weather Service said the river was expected to crest between 42.6 feet and 42.8 feet, about 25 feet above flood stage. The previous high water record at Jackson was 37.5 feet in 1902.

President Carter declared the region a disaster area after Gov. Cliff Finch asked for federal aid.

City officials said the state's new $48 million sewage treatment plant was flooded early today despite almost constant sandbagging operations since the flood waters began last week.

"This is a major loss," said city spokesman Carroll Fulham. "The plant is lost to the city for operational purposes until the waters go down. We don't know what's salvageable right now."

Fulham said the city was converting to a sewage lagoon system and service would be continued.

The water covered hundreds of homes and business in Jackson and major city streets were flooded in several sections.

Increased Social Security Checks Planned For July

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The cost-of-living increase Social Security beneficiaries will automatically begin receiving in July will likely be a record of about 10 percent, government sources predict.

The exact increase will not be known until April 26, when the Labor Department reveals the Consumer Price Index for March. Social Security benefits climb automatically each July if the index for the first three months of the year is 3 percent or more above the figure for the same period of the previous year.

Double-digit inflation in January and February already has helped boost the index to 9.3 percent above its level in the first quarter of 1978. The index's March jump, which is inevitable, will push it close to 10 percent, said the sources, who asked not to be identified.

Last July the nation's 34 million Social Security beneficiaries got a 6.5 percent increase. The highest previous automatic hike was 8 percent in 1975, following a year in which inflation hit a postwar high.

The trustees of the Social Security trust funds,

meanwhile, were releasing their annual report to Congress today.

Last year the trustees, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A.
Califano Jr., Treasury
Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and Labor
Secretary Ray Marshall, reported higher taxes had put the system's retirement and disability trust funds on a sound footing until the early 21st Century.

However, they said the Medicare hospital insurance trust fund will go broke by 1990 unless it receives additional revenues.

The cost-of-living increases, which have been automatic since 1975, are one reason the system has been thrown into the fiscal crisis that led Congress to pass higher taxes in 1977.

The maximum Social Security benefit for a worker retiring at age 65 in 1978 was $489 a month, so a 10 percent increase would boost his benefit to $538 a month, or $6,456 for 12 months. A spouse of retirement age is entitled to an extra 50 percent for a total benefit for the couple of

Esteli, People Battle Scarred

ESTELI, Nicaragua (AP) — Blood-stained sidewalks, broken glass and spent cartridge cases littered the streets of Esteli as residents told of atrocities by President Anastasio Somoza's army during the week-long fight to take the city from leftist guerrillas.

Government sanitation teams wearing face masks burned bodies, dead animals and garbage.

Nearly every building in Esteli showed evidence of the fighting. Some were scarred by bullets. Others were reduced to rubble by cannon and mortar fire.

Townpeople who took refuge in the San Juan de Dios Hospital during the fighting said soldiers burst into the building Thursday afternoon, took 40 young persons outside and shot them.

"They shot four men right here in the hospital," said one woman. "All had been wounded and all were unconscious."

Stela Gonzalez de Selva said her husband, a doctor at the hospital, was among those killed by the soldiers.

"They burst into the hospital at 1:30 p.m. Thursday just as he was coming out of surgery," Mrs. Gonzalez said. "He had his surgical gown on and had been working around the clock."

Search Goes On

CRESWELL — The search for two Greenville men, missing since their small boat sunk in Lake Phelps near
today.

Rough water hampered search efforts yesterday, and spokesmen for the Washington County Sheriff's Office in Plymouth said conditions on the lake this morning were about the same as they were yesterday.

Ransom Breedlove and Wayne F. Wilson apparently drowned after the 14-foot boat in which they were riding foundered in the 16,000 acre lake as they were returning to shore from a fishing trip.

A third man in the boat,
Robert Wayne Best of Greenville, survived, spending about 13 hours afloat before reaching the safety of the shore about 5:15 a.m. Thursday.

The Tax Man Thinketh

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, on tax day, is what the tax-man thinks:

—He thinks most Americans, on reflection after getting over their "emotional reaction to the tax system," will agree it is fair, and that taxes, after all, are not so steep.

—He thinks a man from Mars would be amazed that Americans, by and large, pay what they owe without trying to cheat. They do it on the honor system and, by and large, it works.

—He thinks, however, that honesty would not be so rampant if the Internal Revenue Service didn't check some tax returns and didn't occasionally send someone to jail for cheating — 500 out of 90 million taxpayers in an average year.

—And he'd like to double the tax returns that are audited, although, even at that, only three or four of every 100 returns would be looked at. Today it is two of every 100.

—But, like most of his predecessors, the taxman can't sell that viewpoint to the Office of Management and Budget despite the fact that every additional dollar invested in tax enforcement is sure to return many times that much in taxes collected.

The taxman is Jerome Kurtz, 47, appointed IRS commissioner two years ago by President Carter.

He is a gourmet cook who hasn't had time to go into the kitchen since he got here. He gets to the office at 8:45 a.m. and leaves at 6:45 p.m. with a briefcase of things he must read into the night.

In an interview, Kurtz said the average American is not cranky about his taxes when he thinks about them for a while.

"A lot of people have an emotional reaction to the tax system because obviously it costs money, but I think in their more reflective moments most people have to say that it's a fair system and that it is not by any objective standard a very steep tax system," he said.

People in many other countries pay far more, he noted.

As for enforcement, he has not been able to get all the money he would like from the government for his 80,000-person

JEROME KURTZ, IRS Commissioner

agency. The budget people say they cannot increase the IRS budget while holding down the budgets of programs people care about.

Kurtz says he's always prepared his own tax returns.
"I did it on a Sunday at home about six weeks ago," he says.
"It took the better part of a day. I used the long form, and now I'm waiting for my refund."

Watch Mailing Deadline For Tax Return Postmark

The filing deadline for Federal and State income tax returns is midnight Tuesday — extended two days from the usual midnight-April 15 deadline because of the Easter holiday.

However, if returns are mailed in Greenville after 6:15 p.m. they will not be postmarked until after the midnight deadline.

U.S. Postal Service officials said today that in order for tax forms to be postmarked before the midnight deadline, they should be mailed before the last dispatch of the day — 6:15 p.m.

Spokesmen for the local U.S. Internal Revenue Service office said the best advice they had for persons who have not yet filed their returns was, "you just better hurry."

The Greenville IRS office will close at 4:45 p.m. today and will be open from 8 a.m.

until 4:45 p.m. tomorrow to aid tax payers complete their forms.

"They won't be late until midnight tomorrow," officials at the North Carolina Department of Revenue's Greenville office said.

Although other State offices were closed today for the Easter holiday (the U.S.
Government doesn't recognize Easter Monday as a holiday), the Revenue Department office was open to assist last-minute filers.

Spokesmen said the office was not very busy this morning, describing the work load as "steady."

The state revenue office will close at 5 p.m. today and follow its regular 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. schedule tomorrow.

In order to avoid a late-filing penalty on both U.S. and North Carolina income tax returns, the forms must be postmarked before midnight tomorrow.

Concern Felt Over Impact Of New Teacher Test Standards

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —
Some education officials fear an already short supply of mathematics teachers could be worsened if standards set by the state Board of Education are raised.

The board has indicated it wants the passing score for math teachers taking the National Teacher Examination raised from 950 to 1,139 by 1982. Public hearings on the proposed new standards are being held around the state.

The proposals would require all teachers to achieve a score of 529 on the common knowledge portion of the exam by 1982. The passing scores would vary from 470 to 670 on the test of a graduate's knowledge of his field.

The minimum combined scores on both sections for all teachers is now 950.

Math teachers would face
the stiffest standard.

It would set passing on the math test at the 62nd percentile. In other words, 62 percent of prospective teachers tested nationally would fail to meet North Carolina's standards.

With the current score, only 5 percent of all prospective teachers tested nationally fail to meet North Carolina's minimums.

The new standard would eliminate half the supply of new mathematics teachers in the state by 1982, according to projections by the state Division of Public Instruction.

The projection is based on students tested from 1974-78 who would have failed to meet the new standard.
About three-fourths of all graduates would pass the test compared with 95 percent now.

J. Arthur Taylor, director of the state division of teacher certification, said the passing scores were recommended by panels of professors from colleges and universities in the state. He said the high standards chosen in some subjects raise questions about their selection.

"Any standard that compares with a national norm that high (62nd percentile) is obviously not minimal preparation," he said. "If we do not have any feasible, defensible means of dealing with the areas that are very high, we may have to commission another validity panel."

The new minimum score for speech pathologists, also in short supply, would about cut in half the supply of new teachers in that area. The passing score of 1,199 is equal to the 48th percentile.

But in some areas, the standards would be much lower.

For audiologists, the passing score would equal only the 3rd national percentile. Librarians would have to score at the 12th percentile and English teachers would have to achieve the 15th percentile.

Sixteen Words 'Go', Or Else

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Sixteen words — two short phrases — contained in a humorous magazine article entitled "I was Idi Amin's Basketball Czar" are the knot in a tangle between the CIA and Oregon Magazine.

Tom Bates, editor of the 46,000-circulation magazine, said he would decide today how to respond to the CIA's demand that he cut the 16 words from the article, written by a former spy about U.S. espionage in Uganda.

The CIA contends that publication of the 16 words would jeopardize national security, and Bates said CIA representatives had "made it clear that they will seek an injunction if we go with those 16 words."

John Greaney, associate general counsel for the CIA, denied a decision had been made on whether an injunction would be sought.
"That will be up to the U.S.
attorney general," he said.

Bates said he had spoken with a representative of the Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press in Washington, D.C., and had been promised support if the dispute goes to court.

"I told them that however the issue of the 16 words is resolved, it would be very costly and that the magazine would not be able to afford a long court battle," he said.
"They said they thought this case was valuable and would be willing to back us in whatever way they could."

The former spy, Jay Mullen, now a farmer in Medford, describes in the two-part article how he set up a basketball team in Uganda while working at a Kampala university as a coverup for his CIA activities.

The article details Mullen's exploits in Kampala during the early 1970s, including his claim that he punched Amin in the nose.

Part of the article was printed last Friday, but that section did not contain the 16 words the CIA wants deleted.
The rest of the magazine's May issue was due for printing today.

FILE COMPLAINT

March a year ago, several friends and I placed an order for "fuzzbuster" equipment with MTB Corporation, Automotive Products Division in Riverside, Ill. We sent a cashier's check for $661.25. Since then we have had repeated correspondence with the company and have heard a lot of excuses, but have received no merchandise nor money back. We contacted the Chief Postal Inspector in Washington, D. C. and were told there was nothing that could be done to effect a refund for us. C. J.

Hotline contacted the Illinois Attorney General's Office and learned that this company is under investigation by that office. The person we talked to asked that you send a complaint to his office, along with copies of your canceled check and all correspondence. You will become one of the many for whom the office is seeking to recover money.

He also asked that Hotline make the public in this area aware that no one not already involved should sign a contract with the company or send it any money.

The address to which you should send your com-

Pitt Fatality

SCENE OF FATAL COLLISION — Fred
Johnson Jr., 30 of Route 6, Greenville, was killed early Sunday when struck by a car on the Sally Branch Road (SR1417) about 4.4 miles west of Greenville. Highway Patrolman Allen Basnight (with back to camera) said Johnson had stopped his car in the center of the road about 2:15 a.m. He then opened the car door, got out, and was standing beside the vehicle when a car driven by Raymond Earl Wilson

Jr. of Tarboro, rounded a curve and struck Johnson and the opened car door. Johnson's body was thrown 111 feet from the point of impact, and he was pronounced dead on arrival at Pitt Memorial Hospital. No charges were

Couple Weds In Ceremony Webb-Spivey Vows Solemnized Performed Easter Sunday

Sandra Rose Stancill and Gregory T. Stokes were united in marriage Sunday in Belvoir Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. John Moran officiated at the double ring ceremony at 3 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Stancill Sr. of Rt. 4, Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Stokes of Ayden.

Given in marriage by her father and mother, the bride wore a formal length gown of white chantilly lace over white peau de soie designed with a high collar of ruffled cluny lace with miniature floral Venise lace trim. The empire bodice was enhanced by a sheer yoke embroidered in motifs beaded with pearls and outlined in the miniature lace trim and a ruffle of crystal pleating and cluny lace. The full bishop sleeves repeated the trim at the cuffs. The waistline was encircled with white satin ribbon and miniature lace. The full cascading tiers of the skirt and attached chapel length train were edged in the ruffled cluny lace. She wore a fingertip length veil of illusion edged in cluny lace to complement her gown. The veil was held in place by a Camelot cap overlaid in matching lace, beaded with pearls. Her bouquet was white orchids and roses with greenery.

Debra Gray of Greenville, sister of the bride, was honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Glenda Stancill, cousin of the bride, Brenda Stancill, sister-in-law of the bride, Cindy Mills, Maria Jones, both cousins of the bridegroom, Deloris Elks, all of Greenville, and Robin Briley of Stokes. The attendants wore formal length gowns of apricot chiffon over taffeta designed with a square neckline and rows of chantilly lace down the skirt. The gowns had matching capelets edged with lace at the neckline. They carried a nosegay of apricot, lavender and violet spring flowers tied with streamers of apricot and violet.

Christy Stancill, niece of the bride from Greenville, was flower girl. She wore a floor length gown of white organza designed with a Peter Pan collar edged in miniature chantilly lace. The empire bodice featured a yoke of pleated organza centered with a motif of Venise lace. The waistline was encircled with white satin ribbon and a bow and streamers at centerfront. She carried a white lace basket with apricot and lavender flower petals trimmed in apricot and lavender streamers.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were James Ray Stancill, Steven Stancill, brothers of the bride, Stanley Gray, brother-in-law of the bride, Jimmy Dixon, all of Greenville, Carlton Venters of Vanceboro and Eddie Woodall of Selma. The ring bearer was Britt Haddock, of Ayden, cousin of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length gown of pink chiffon over pink taffeta designed with a round neckline edged in piping, blouson bodice and full bishop sleeves edged in piping at the cuff.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a formal length gown of blue chiffon over blue taffeta designed with an open V-neckline, sheer bishop sleeves and a gathered flared skirt. Both were remembered with orchid corsages.

The nuptial music was provided by organist Mrs. Marsha Moran and Catherine Gaskins. Soloists included Greg Stokes who sang "Let It Be Me", Margie Pollard who sang "Evergreen" and Bobby T. Harris who sang "The Love That Lasts a Lifetime" and "Wedding Prayer".

Timmy Stancill, nephew of the bride, gave out rice bags at the wedding. After the ceremony, the bridal couple presented their mothers with a long-stemmed red rose. Mrs. Louvenia Stancill, aunt of the bride, directed the wedding.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall following the ceremony. Mrs. A. J. Barnhill, cousin of the bride, cut the cake. Mrs. Vera Burke, aunt of the bridegroom, poured punch. Sheila Wainwright presided at the guest register. Also assisting in the reception were Mrs. Betty Moore, Mrs. Becky Bell and Mrs. Irene Stancill.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside at Rt. 4, Greenville.

The bridegroom is a graduate of D. H. Conley High School and is currently attending East Carolina University. He is employed at Proctor's Limited. The bride is a senior at North Pitt High School.

The parents of the bridegroom honored the bridal couple with a pig picking before the rehearsal at the church fellowship hall.

NEW BERN — Miss Rhonda Sue Spivey and Curtis O'Neal Webb spoke their nuptial vows Saturday afternoon at four o'clock in Calvary Baptist Church here. Pastor Bill Wingard officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norfus R. Spivey of Rt. 2, New Bern. The bridegroom is the son of MSgt. (Ret.) and Mrs. Neal Webb of Ayden.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Bob Karl of Greenville, organist, and Miss Joanne Gillikin of Beaufort, who sang "Each For the Other," "The Wedding Prayer" and "Whither Thou Goest."

Given in marriage and escorted by her father, the bride wore a gown of white chantilly lace and nylon sheer with a Queen Anne neckline and long fitted sleeves. The A-line skirt fell from a fitted waist forming an apron effect and extended into a chapel length train. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion, edged in a double ruffle of chantilly lace, was attached to a caplet of Venise lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses, ed on a table covered with a pink cloth overlaid with white lace and arranged with a portrait of the bride and a pink silk rose. The refreshment table was covered with a pink cloth overlaid with white lace with an arrangement of pink carnations and white daisies flanked by lighted white tapers in a silver candelabra. The wedding cake was placed on a table covered with a pink cloth overlaid with white lace.

Mrs. David Lewis and Mrs. Jack Smithwick of New Bern served cake and Mrs. Durwood Pike of Cove City and Mrs. Juanita Forrest of New Bern poured punch. Assisting were Mrs. Coolidge Murphy of Cove City, Mrs. Henry Williams and Mrs. James Gilbert, New Bern.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Webb of Greenville, David Webb of Ayden, Raymond Spivey of New Bern, and Henry Brown of Whitakers.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of beige polyester with sheer lace sleeves. The mother of the bridegroom selected a floor length gown of lavender floral print. Both wore white orchid corsages.

The church pulpit was arranged with baskets of white mums and pink carnations and a 15 branch candelabra flanked by two seven branched candelabra. Pews were marked with white satin ribbons and ivy.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall. Miss Vicki Banks of New Bern presided at the bride's book which was plac-

Rose High Intern Plans ECU Festival

ECU News Bureau
The days of reading, writing, and arithmetic only are past for today's high school students. Those students showing outstanding potential are now given a chance to explore the business world through Rose High School's Executive Internship Class. One of those interns, Laura Lauffer, is planning a full-scale spring festival. Ms. Lauffer is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard A. Lauffer of Greenville.

The Executive Internship Program places students in various management positions. Some are at newspapers, television stations, law offices, advertising firms, and many others; Ms. Lauffer is the intern at Mendenhall Student Center on the East Carolina University campus.

The festival she created and is supervising is a campus/community event of very large proportions. Since many of her job experiences involved programming entertainment for both Mendenhall Student Center and the ECU Student Union, Ms. Lauffer chose to use these skills in a programming extravaganza.

Called "Barefoot on the Mall," the festival is a full day of various activities. Tuesday, April 17, the ECU Mall fills with arts and crafts, food of all sorts, and entertainment of all kinds. Ms. Lauffer has a committee of Student Union members to assist her, but she is responsible for supervising her volunteer staff, preparing budgets to be approved by the business manager, working with program participants, and supervising all publicity.

While working on her festival, she has also helped conduct Student Union programming in classical music, theatre, popular concerts, and recreation.

Pat's Pointers

By Pat Trexler

Double strands of "Speed-Cro-Sheen" mercerized cotton crochet yarn in a simple knit-purl pattern give you a quick-knit start to the summer season. The two strands of yarn — one light and one dark — give a handsome tweedy effect to a slimming, classic T-shirt.

Directions, written without abbreviations, are for sizes eight through 14. The gauge is 4 stitches and 6 rows to the inch.

To obtain directions for knitting the cotton tweed T-shirt, send your request for Leaflet P-4702 with $1.00 and a long, self-addressed envelope to: Pat Trexler, "The Daily Reflector," P. O. Box 810, North Myrtle Beach, S.C. 29582.

Or you may order Kit No. K-4702, containing instruction leaflet plus two shades of the cotton crochet yarn, from Pat Trexler at the same address. Send check or money order for $14.50 for sizes 8 and 10, $16.50 for size 12, $18.50 for size 14. Specify your choice of fudge brown, royal blue or bright green (white is the contrast color used with each of these darker shades). Price includes postage and handling charges.

DEAR PAT: I have a suggestion which may be useful for other knitters who, like myself, are handicapped in the use of their arms. Since I had polio I have found that I can knit again by using circular needles exclusively.

I am unable to hold my left arm up, so when I would use the straight needles, they would get caught in the chair sides. This problem is eliminated with the circular needles.

I use regular patterns calling for straight needles mostly and just turn the work around and go back and forth as usual.

When it dawned on me that this was my solution, it was better than receiving an expensive gift, believe me. EVELYN S., GLENVIEW, ILL.

Even for those of us blessed with full use of our arms, this is a good hint, Evelyn. I started using the circulars almost exclusively a few years ago, when I was doing a great deal of traveling by air, to avoid any chance of jabbing a seatmate! It also eliminates the possibility of losing one of a pair of matched needles.

As you indicated, you can do either straight or tubular knitting with circular needles. For the beginner I might mention that circular needles are made all in one piece with a tip at either end, joined together with plastic or nylon tubing.

If you plan to use them for tubular knitting, there is just one thing you should watch out for. When you join the piece together after casting on, be sure that the stitches are not twisted on the needle.

That is, the smooth portion of every stitch should be on top of the needle and the "bumpy" part should be on the bottom surface of the needle. If you do not take this precaution, your work could become hopelessly twisted. Unfortunately, this won't become apparent to you until several rows are worked and then it cannot be easily corrected.

If your stitches are twisted, you will just have to rip out and start over. If you are not certain that you can tell if the stitches are twisted or not, work one row as if you were working on straight needles and join work at the beginning of the second row.

Their Wedding Needs Referee

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I divorced after a 20-year marriage. My girlfriend has been living with me for the last nine months.

My eldest son, 19, has his girlfriend living with him, and the problem is that his girlfriend does not like my girlfriend at all. My son and his girlfriend told me they are getting married in July. They've made wedding plans and have decided that my ex-wife and I will be invited, but neither of us is allowed to bring a date. This plainly means the girl I live with is not invited.

I am ready to tell them that if I can't bring my girlfriend I will not attend, either. My girlfriend is so hurt that I'm not even sure she'd go if they changed their minds and invited her.

I'm leaving the decision up to you.

MIXED-UP MESS

DEAR MIXED-UP: First find out whether your son and his fiancée will change their minds and invite your girlfriend. If they won't, and you want a good relationship with your son, go without her. If they DO invite her, try to persuade her to attend with you. If she refuses, go alone.

DEAR ABBY: With the rising divorce rate and the trend toward total truthfulness these days, I firmly believe that the marriage vows should be changed from "till death do us part," to "till something better comes along."

What do you say?

TELL IT LIKE IT IS

DEAR TELL IT: I say that it will never play in Peoria.

DEAR ABBY: How do you tell a relative that it's time she and her husband gave a party? When this couple moved to town over two years ago, they didn't know a soul. We introduced them to all our friends, and now our friends are their friends, too.

They are an attractive couple, well-liked and popular, but if they don't start inviting some of those people back, they won't be well-liked and popular much longer.

Since we, in a sense, sponsored them, we feel somewhat responsible for their social sins of omission. What do we do? I can hardly hold my head up.

KISSING COUSIN

DEAR COUSIN: It's not necessary to stick your neck out in order to hold your head up. If you're concerned about this couple's threatened loss of popularity as well as the reflection on yourselves, tell your cousin that when she starts to reciprocate her social obligations you'll be glad to help her. If she doesn't take the hint — you've done your part.

Undercutting Assimilation

The "melting pot" is becoming a memory. Time was, people from all over the globe came to the United States and gradually became assimilated into one people. They wanted to. Today the federal government works to preserve "ethnic" heritages by requiring schools to provide bilingual education to foreign students or those who come from homes where English isn't the predominant language.

In Florida there is one of those rare absurdities where a school system is hunting a teacher proficient in Tagalog.

To go further in that direction would be to seek out teachers with a New England twang, a Southern accent or a western drawl; and at the bottom line, hire teachers who do not use correct English to deal with youngsters whose parents are lacking in spelling, pronunciation, syntax or knowledge of the literature.

Children in our schools should be presumed to be growing up in this country to make it their home. To survive or to rise above the lowest subsistence level they must be able to communicate and deal with other Americans on an equal level of proficiency in the language, and belong to a common culture. Part of nationhood lies in a common tongue. We suffer from enough divisiveness without creating more to complicate our problems.

Not Done? Only A Few Hours Remain

The deadline, extended because of the Easter weekend, is April 17 — Tuesday.

Elite Death Case Defense

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A high-powered defense team made up of 30 of North Carolina's elite lawyers would be created to move into action whenever an individual faces the death penalty in a trial, according to a legislative proposal now under consideration.

The Capital Defense Assistance Group would operate under supervision of a special advisory council. It would have a fulltime director and staff, and be administered within the Administrative Office of the Courts.

State Senator Henson Barnes, D-Wayne, said funds presently being spent by the state to provide defense attorneys in capital cases would be sufficient to operate the more effective defense program which he proposes.

In practice the proposed system would actually save the state money, since having on call experienced death-case lawyers would help eliminate trial errors resulting in fewer appeals and reversals by higher courts, Barnes thinks.

Pair Trial
A statement of findings accompanying the legislative proposal points to present problems in court-appointed defense: "It is the policy of the General Assembly to 'do everything possible to assure a fair trial,' and since there have been many capital cases reversed on appeal due to errors, 'additional counsel... can help insure competent representation and a fair trial, fewer reversals... a savings of money to the judicial system.'"

The statewide pool of defense attorneys would largely be used whenever the defendant is unable to pay and the court must appoint the defense. It would, under the proposal, be available to people who can pay, if desired, and the defendant would be billed for the services.

Here is how the system would work:

Eleven lawyers appointed by the governor, lieutenant governor, legislators, and court of appeals would form the Advisory Council of the Capital Defense Assistance Group. A counsel pool of not more than 30 attorneys which "shall include attorneys from all regions of the state and shall include both attorneys with trial experience in capital cases and attorneys who possess some expertise in criminal appeals" would be established.

When the court appoints a

defense attorney for an indigent defendant in a capital case, the executive director of the Capital Defense Assistance Group "shall determine whether or not the defendant is in jeopardy," and if so, offer the services of the defense group in the case to whatever extent needed.

During a trial, the court-appointed lawyer may decide to call on the group for help.

At Stake
Senator Barnes says providing a pool of defense lawyers to make sure an individual gets the best possible defense when his life is at stake is responding both to state policy and to higher court decisions and comments which have pointed in this direction. Additionally, he noted that the "district attorney has a pool... he can also call on the Attorney General for special aid."

The defense group would also provide some way to know where in the state the most experienced defense lawyers are located and how to contact them.

The biggest legislative hurdle, Barnes admits, is "how to build the pool without promoting jealousies among the lawyers. Those who might not be included in the pool may be inclined to oppose its creation," he noted.

In theory, this is a good idea, Barnes believes, and whether it is established this year or not, "at least we will get a chance to debate it."

CAPITOL LETTER

16 Universities Needed?

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Growing concern over the University of North Carolina's federal desegregation dispute sent state legislators wandering off last week toward an emotional and political minefield.

That is, they began to really question out loud whether North Carolina has any business operating 16 separate universities.

The question was posed in legislation introduced by Reps. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, and J.P. Huskins, D-Iredell. They would set up a special commission to study whether any of the UNC campuses should be merged, have their administrations linked or even be closed outright.

It was all prompted by UNC's stalemate with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare over improving the five predominantly black campuses and promoting further integration. Concern that North Carolina is going to have to spend a lot of money soon because of HEW's demands — and steps to cut off part of the university's annual federal aid — is now quite real.

But that has led to deeper questions not just about the five campuses and their past neglect, but about the rest of the system that is teaching nearly 100,000 students.

The dimensions of the issue and the agony of the questions were clear in the House Higher Education Committee's first discussions last week. And Gov. Jim Hunt's defense of all 16 campuses two days later signalled how politically tough any different stand would be.

Introduction of the bill was no whim, however. Messer and Huskins are two of the most understated but thoughtful and respected members of the General Assembly. And their bill addressed legitimate questions being posed privately by legislators of both parties.

"Do we need 16 branches of the university? Can we build up 16 institutions?" Messer said, putting the point bluntly. "I don't know if there's enough money for us to bring all up to the level where we can say all offer equal opportunity for education."

With HEW demanding an end to some program duplication, the two universities in Greensboro — UNC-G, a predominantly white school, and N.C. A&T State, a historically black one — were the first to be named as candidates for merger.

But also singled out by Messer, Huskins and others were two white schools, the growing Western Carolina University at Cullowee and the tiny UNC-Asheville, both serving the mountains. Named too was the possibility of linking East Carolina with Elizabeth City State, another of the five once all-black campuses, and of linking UNC-Chapel Hill with predominantly black N.C. Central 12 miles away in Durham.

It would make sense, Huskins argued, to close some of the smaller campuses or put them under the same campus administrators as their larger neighbors.

"I think down the road we're going to have to face the question of whether we can continue to maintain Elizabeth City State, Fayetteville State and

Strength For Today

THERE'S A BLESSING IN FORGETFULNESS
Some people pride themselves on having good memories. This is a very useful ability, but often it is not realized that the capacity to forget is just as necessary to mental health and achievement as the capacity to remember.

Two hundred and fifty years ago the royal governor of Georgia said to the Rev. John Wesley, "I never forget an injury"; to which Wesley replied, "Then you certainly cannot expect God to remember you in His mercy."

People who never forget anything — particularly anything unpleasant that has happened to them — find that they suffer from increasing emotional tension as the years go on.

The world would benefit immensely if nations and races forgot their hatreds and suspicions of each other. Just as important, each one of us needs to forget the injustices done to us.

The Credibility Class

WASHINGTON — "Ladies and gentlemen, the class in remedial nuclear energy will come to order. Last week I gave you an assignment. You are the spokesperson for a major power company and there has been an accident in one of your nuclear energy plants. I will now see how well prepared you are. Mayberry, what is the first thing you would do?"

"Deny it."
"Yes, that would be the best response. But let us suppose the company has been obligated to inform the government that there was indeed an accident. The press has therefore been alerted and is on the scene. As spokesperson, Slayton, what would you say?"

"I would say, sir, that there has been a slight malfunction in one of the cooling systems of the reactor, but the problem is being dealt with and there is no danger to anyone because of the backup systems built into the plant, which are redundant but required by federal law."
"That's not bad, Slayton. Now let's go to phase two. Due to a series of human errors the valves have been shut accidentally, the secondary cooling system is not operating and the reactor is starting to overheat. This information has been leaked to the governor of the state and government officials, and you are asked about it. What would you say, Higginbottom?"

ART BUCHWALD

all costs and minimize any accident, so hopefully the media will go away."
"Excellent. Then, Newcombe, what would you say in this situation?"

"I would say that our engineers are having a slight problem with an automatic pump and are therefore using a backup pump to cool down the reactor, which is still operating as well as possible under the circumstances."
"Prof. Stonewall, suppose the government inspectors are telling the press a different story? What should we do?"

"Well, Malcolm, now you've touched upon the core of the exercise. The credibility of the power company is being challenged by hostile outside forces. Let's see if there is anyone in the class who has any ideas. Altman?"

"I would say that the power company people are in a much better position to evaluate the situation than some outsiders who are just trying to frighten the public. I would add that if there were any danger the company would be the first to admit it, because we consider our major responsibility is to protect the health of our consumers."
"Well done, Altman. We're moving along. It turns out that a hydrogen bubble has formed in the reactor blocking off the cooling water. This builds up pressure in the containment building. You are asked about this at the next

Energy Crisis Solved

By Hugh A. Mulligan
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — In case President Carter's energy saving package fails to avert the threatened crisis, the select committee that meets regularly at the Brew & Burger has some alternate proposals.

Tow away all illegally parked limousines bearing diplomatic plates in Manhattan, Washington D.C., the Hamptons or wherever. Diplomats from OPEC countries can redeem their impounded vehicles for a tankful of crude.

Those from countries un-blessed by nature with oil deposits can reclaim the embassy car after shipping home a freighter load of Louisiana sugar cane, Georgia peanuts or similar American commodities to restore a healthy balance of payments.

Award generous agricultural subsidies to all high schools which plow up the student parking lot to grow corn, sorghum, beef cattle or anything else that doesn't sprout dual exhausts.

Ban all outboard engines in excess of three horsepower on all bodies of fresh water smaller than Lake Huron.

Ban all snowmobiles in wilderness areas smaller than the Mojave Desert.

Forbid restaurants to flambé anything in public. The fuel savings will be minimal, but there will be great benefits to the national digestive tract. Baked Alaska, however, will be permitted in the non-contiguous states.

Grant federal subsidies to trolley car lines, air taxi services employing blimps and any municipalities replacing their freeways with barge canals and gondola docks.

Stockpile all motorcycles, mopeds, chain saws, gasoline-driven lawn mowers and blowers on the federal junk heap and cut off imports of same.

Limit stock car racing to such unscheduled amateur events as the New Jersey Turnpike, the Long Island Expressway and the Embarcadero.

In Defense Of The Workaholic

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) —

Somebody ought to defend the workaholic, mused the professor. Such people, he said, are unjustly accused, abused and denigrated, often termed sick or on the border of pathology.

"One-third of American business and commerce is carried on the shoulders of workaholics," said the professor, esteemed for corporate management know-how. "The ratio might exist in art and science too."

Workaholics, are the achievers, the excellers, he said, but he added sadly, "There is a national conspiracy against excellence." And, he suggested, an undue admiration of commonness and mediocrity.

The speaker is Professor

Eugene Jennings of Michigan State University, an adviser to presidents of blue chip corporations and a psychologist as well as management authority. He has taken up the defense.

What follows is an exultation of workaholics by the professor and author, a man who almost single-mindedly has studied the corporation and its personnel for three decades, or for all his adult life.

The defense opens: "There appears to be a national conspiracy against those with single-minded dedication. It is though we are against those who make uncommon sacrifices because they enjoy doing something."

He blames "pop psychologists and so-called behavioral scientists" for the putdown. "Their chief indictment is that the workaholic has an inferiority complex that compels overcompensation."

The very term is pejorative, he says, and the fraudulence of the verdict is evident in the definition. Inferiority, or low self-esteem, he observes, describes indolence more accurately than dedication.

"We don't seem to realize that very little genius and excellence are achieved by living a well-balanced life. Edison, Ford, Einstein, Freud all had single-minded devotion to work whereby they sacrificed many things, including family and friendship. Great artists did too."

The argument, he says, is between a balanced life, wherein you are involved not just in your life's work but in family, leisure and other activities, and a focused life, in which energies are concentrated.

"One reason why people dislike workaholics is they don't have cocktails with us and they have no time for small talk. They make us feel we're not as good." Adds the professor: "We are not."

One of every three top executives that he has worked with, the professor says, are single-mindedly devoted to business, and through it they achieve their excellence. And they are happy, he maintains.

He even suggests their happiness is work. They are fulfilled; they do not suffer feelings of inferiority; they do not feel they are over-compensating. "They live for work rather than work to live."

Reports Theft Of Vestments

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — have been used since the late 1800s. Easter was turned into less than a joyous occasion for the Rev. J. Glenn Dulken, a cleric of the Polish National Catholic Church, by the weekend theft of eight silk and lace church vestments dating back to the 1800s. Dulken, who was to have delivered some of the garments to a Spartanburg, S. C., parish of the church, still was seeking the return of the hand-sewn garments Sunday. "We're a small church, not a very rich one," he said. The vestments, made for the church's Baltimore parish, have been used since the late 1800s. "They're of sentimental value and great practical value to our church," said Dulken, 26, a candidate for holy orders at Savonarola Theological Seminary, the Scranton, Pa., seminary of the Polish National Catholic Church. He said he was taking the vestments to three new National Catholic parishes which recently have been established in the Carolinas. The Baltimore parish donated the vestments to the new parishes because they have just begun to grow and have little means or equipment, he said.

And he proposed another step sure to raise howls — a central admissions office for the UNC system. "All these students could be assigned to institutions where their needs would be met," he suggested. Hunt, at his regular news conference, was asked about all this. "If you've ever been from Elizabeth City to Greenville, or from Cullowhee to Asheville, you know they're a long way apart," he said. "I think they all have a special role to play."

In expressing support for keeping the campuses, especially the predominantly black ones, Hunt stopped short of vowing never to support a merger or closing of any campus, white or black. The political realities, though, would make it difficult to do. Each campus has its constituency of alumni, faculty, trustees and area loyalists, and threatened campuses would surely form alliances.

"I think it would be extremely difficult to achieve," House Speaker Carl Stewart acknowledged. "And I don't think a study would conclude it is proper." UNC officials have said their desegregation problems are due in part to past accomplishments. No other southern state, they note, established as many predominantly black campuses.

It was compounded. Huskins says, when the smaller white and black campuses were elevated to university status. "We made a mistake when we declared all 16 campuses to be universities," he said. Changing it now, he acknowledges, is certain to be expensive. But he disagrees that it is impossible.

"I would compare it to the bloodletting we had over consolidating the campuses," he said, referring to the 1971 legislative battle that set up the current UNC system. "There were people who said it'd never be possible to merge the greater university with the regional universities, but we managed to do it."

Those who walk can make a similar deduction for shoe repair and replacement, corn plaster athletes foot powder and pit stops at local watering holes. Since school busing seems to be unpopular with everyone except politicians, and mostly so with urchins and school bus drivers, permanently garage or sell for scrap all school buses except those used to transport handicapped children and the football team.

Towns can use the resulting budget surplus to build hike and bike paths to the schools. During the hours when the pedestrian or cycling scholar are heading to and from school, speed limits in the area will be reduced to 15 miles an hour. Parking fees for students in residence on the campus of any college receiving federal funds of any kind shall be increased to half the annual tuition fee and double in the case of dual exhausts.

"Very funny, O'Hare, but not as funny as the F I plan to give you at the end of the semester. What you would say is that the situation remains stable, and although you had to release some gas out of the tank which was slightly radioactive, it is still much safer than if one had to have a dental X-ray. "Now this is very important, so pay close attention. Some wise guy from the press is going to ask you who is going to pay for the plant breakdown and the cleanup. You will reply that the costs will be passed on to the consumers, because the company is not responsible for its own mistakes."

"Won't that cause a stink in the community, Professor?"

"Possibly, but it's the truth, and when you take on the role of a spokesperson for a large company it's essential that you always level with the customer."

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain and showers are expected in the forecast period until Tuesday morning, for most of the West. Showers are forecast for most of Texas and into the southern Plains. Atlantic coast is expected to be cooler but most areas will be warmer. (AP Laserphoto)

By The Associated Press
In the wake of a cold front that has moved across the state, North Carolina will have a few sunny days without the threat of rain. Temperatures will be cooler today.

The fast moving cold front swept across the state Sunday afternoon, bringing a slight chill in some areas when the sun ducked behind the clouds.

Temperatures ranged from the 60s in the mountains to the lower 80s on the coast. Wilmington was one of the warmest in the state with 81 degrees while up on Grandfather Mountain the high was only 47 degrees.

During the night, clear skies prevailed although some cloudiness drifted across the northern Piedmont by early morning. Low temperatures were mostly in the 40s with 50s on the Outer Banks.

Brisk northerly winds were expected over much of the state today with small craft advisories in effect along the northern coastal areas.

High pressure will slowly push down over the middle Atlantic coastal states and this will keep a northerly wind flow over the area for the next few days. Drier air will give cool nighttime temperatures, but with abundant sunshine afternoon temperatures will be mostly in the 60s to the 70s.

Clear skies and cool temperatures are forecast for tonight with a risk of some scattered light frost over the northern Piedmont and northern coastal plain. Lows will be mostly in the 30s with some 40s in the southeast. Sunny skies and temperatures from the mid 60s to the mid 70s are expected Tuesday.

Chinese 'Loved' Easter Bunny

PEKING (AP) — U.S. Rep. Patricia Schroeder — the Denver Easter bunny — brought jelly beans and Easter eggs to the Great Wall, and the Chinese loved it.

"They went crackers," Mrs. Schroeder said Sunday. "They loved it, both the Chinese and the Americans."

The Colorado Democrat is visiting China as a member of the House Military Affairs Committee. She donned a fluffy, white bunny suit and papier mache rabbit head for her Easter foray, which began in the Peking Hotel.

"Everybody gathered and patted me," Mrs. Schroeder said. "I gave out plastic eggs. It was a zoo. They (the Chinese) asked me about the Easter bunny and I explained it was a pagan custom."

Disease is a major concern to pork producers in North Carolina, as well as other hog-producing states. One of the more serious swine diseases is atrophic rhinitis.

It is estimated that 50-90 percent of all swine herds are infected with rhinitis. However, it appears that a vaccination program will enable a producer to check the disease and eventually eradicate it from his herd.

Two atrophic rhinitis vaccines, AR-PAC and B-B PAC, have been available for over a year. According to research, the vaccines seem to be about 85 percent effective in immunizing pigs against atrophic rhinitis caused by Bordetella bronchiseptica.

It has been cleared for use on sows three to four weeks prior to farrowing. Vaccinating the sows make them form antibodies to pass along to the pigs the first few days after farrowing. This will help the pigs ward off the Bordetella infection until they are capable of producing their own antibodies from the vaccination they will receive at seven and 28 days of age.

Producers who have used the vaccine are most enthusiastic about it. They say their feeder pigs are ready for market two weeks earlier, and they have fewer rejects. Market hogs are ready three to four weeks earlier. There is less coughing, sneezing and pneumonia, which are all rhinitis-related problems.

The cost of the vaccine is approximately 35 cents per dose or 70 cents per pig for the two injections. Extra weight gains and improved feed efficiency will more than repay the cost of the vaccine.

A suggested atrophic rhinitis control program is as follows:

— Vaccinate pigs at seven and 28 days of age.

— Vaccinate replacement gilts at seven months of age.

— Vaccinate pregnant females three to four weeks before farrowing.

— Buy boars or herd replacements that were vaccinated as pigs and re-vaccinate them during the 30-day isolation period.

— Continue a management sanitation and herd health program to prevent infection from outside sources.

Televised Surgery Has Jumped His Case Load

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Dr. William Morgan got more than he bargained for when he agreed to appear on NBC's "Lifeline" series last November.

His televised surgery on a chest deformity — a sunken sternum — resulted in an "astronomical jump" in his case load.

"It is a relatively uncommon thing," said Morgan, a pediatric surgeon. "Before the broadcast I treated about 25 cases a year. But since the show appeared, more than 100 people have written and called to ask about having the operation done."

The inquiries have come from as far away as England.

A native of nearby Canton, Morgan, 43, is a graduate of the University of North Carolina and its medical school. He said he is wary of referring the surgery to other physicians who perform the operation.

"I can't really recommend someone else unless I know his results," Morgan said. "If the results are inadequate, I'm the one who's made the referral and that puts me on the line. Because of what's been on TV, there's a tendency for people to expect to get the results they saw."

The procedure Morgan uses involves fracturing the sternum, removing the bent ribs and inserting a metal bar under the breastbone to hold it in place. After about a year, the bar is removed and the patient is left with normal heart and lung function and an improved appearance.

Although heart and lung function is reduced by an average of 30 percent, the blow to the self esteem is often worse.

"The procedure is in that gray area between surgery done for medical reasons and surgery done for the sake of vanity," Morgan said.

Sheila Birchfield of Charlotte watched the installment of the series in which Morgan was featured. Her 10-year-old son, Lester, suffered from the deformity.

After seeing Morgan on television, Mrs. Birchfield decided to "write to Asheville, ask a few more questions and see if I couldn't get things straightened out."

After a two-hour operation and a five-day hospital stay for Lester, she's happy the surgery was performed.

"He had a hole in his chest so deep, you could stick your fist down in it," Mrs. Birchfield said. "That gave him trouble breathing sometimes and he's been slumped over at the shoulders and potbellied since he was 3 years old."

"I'm surprised at how much better his chest looks and now they tell us Lester will be able to run and play like the rest of the children without getting so tired," she said.

Over $60,000 In Deficiency Checks

Feed grain program deficiency payment checks totaling $60,377.28 have been issued to Pitt County producers for their 1978 corn and sorghum crops.

W. F. Tyson, Chairperson of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said farmers who participated in the 1978 set-aside program are eligible to receive the payments.

Based on a payment rate of three cents per bushel for corn and 33 cents per bushel for sorghum, deficiency payments make up the difference between the target price and the higher of the loan rate for the crop or the average price received by farmers.

The 1978 target prices were $2.28 per bushel for sorghum and $2.10 per bushel for corn. The national average loan rates were $2 for corn and $1.90 for sorghum.

Tyson said the payments were computed by multiplying the established yield for the farm by the acreage planted for harvest times the payment rate.

Farmers who participate in this year's set aside program will be eligible for deficiency payments and other benefits on their 1978 crops.

"The sign-up period ends April 30," Tyson noted. "Producers who have not filed their intentions to participate are urged to do so as soon as possible."

Echoes Of Three Mile Isle Mishap Reach Europe

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer
BONN, West Germany (AP) — The nuclear accident in Pennsylvania has forced Western European governments to re-examine their nuclear development plans amid growing criticism that the same thing, or worse, could happen here.

tighten safety standards and calm public fears. Nuclear plants generate only 10.3 percent of the electricity consumed within the nine European Economic Community nations, although plans call for boosting that to 30 percent by 1985.

Most European officials who have spoken out on the Harrisburg affair have insisted that despite the risk, resource-poor Europe has no alternative but to develop nuclear energy.

Non-communist Europe operates some 85 plants, compared with 70 licensed plants in the United States, the world's leading nuclear consumer. Britain leads Western Europe with 33 plants, followed by West Germany with 15. The Soviet Union has 26 nuclear plants.

But planners at the European Commission in Brussels fear that Harrisburg's legacy to Europe will be a delay of at least one year in the pace of nuclear development as governments

Robert Elphick of the EEC's energy commission, says the Harrisburg accident — widely reported in Europe — "has not helped the cause of convincing people we can control this technique safely."

After the accident at Harrisburg, local governments in Belgium and Italy called for a halt in plant construction in their areas until they receive assurances of safety.

Voters in the north German state of Schleswig-Holstein may provide a clue to the depth of anti-nuclear sentiment when they cast ballots April 29 in a legislative election that the Social Democrats want to turn into a referendum on a local power plant.

Danish Prime Minister Anker Joergensen said recently that his country had not abandoned plans to build reactors but added, "on the other hand, we are taking a pause, offering ourselves a respite to examine the information we will get on the U.S. accident."

One European country pressing ahead with nuclear development is France, which has the continent's most ambitious nuclear plans. And the Soviet Union and other-Soviet bloc nations have tended to downgrade the Harrisburg incident and press ahead with plans for nuclear power.

But elsewhere, nuclear energy is under attack by environmentalists and lawmakers skeptical of industry assertions that European safety standards are too strict to allow another Harrisburg-type accident.

In Sweden, where the nuclear power issue helped topple the Socialist government in 1976, the present government shelved plans to open two new reactors pending a referendum next year on the future use of nuclear power.

"The Harrisburg accident has raised new and serious questions," Prime Minister Ola Ullsten said when he appointed a commission to study the U.S. accident and evaluate Swedish standards.

Two weekends ago, nearly 10,000 people marched through Stockholm demanding an end to Sweden's nuclear program.

Anti-nuclear groups planning a protest against a government plan to bury nuclear wastes near the town of Gorleben quickly added "We all live in Pennsylvania" to their chants.

Interior Minister Gerhard Baum sent technicians to Harrisburg to study the situation and ordered an investigation of West Germany's 15 plants, despite assurances by the country's leading builder that its plants were superior in design to the Americans'.

Here is a rundown of the nuclear debate in other European nations:

Britain: British officials say the Harrisburg incident is evidence of the superior safety standards of their gas-cooled reactors, which have been in service since the late 1940s with only two minor accidents. But anti-nuclear groups have put forward 50 candidates for the May 3 general election, and 19 of these are expected to make trouble for liberal candidates in marginal seats.

Finland: The Finnish government announced that it saw no need for special safety measures because the possibility of such an accident at one of its two nuclear plants was non-existent.

Italy: Controversy over nuclear safety has held up government plans for an additional 12 plants. Massimo Moretti, director general of the nation's electricity monopoly, warns of drastic power shortages in the 1980s if the plants are not built. "The Harrisburg facts change absolutely nothing because electric energy means economic development," he said. "And nuclear energy is indispensable."

Austria: Voters turned down a proposal last November that would have allowed the country's first nuclear plant to open. Foreign Minister Willibald Pahr proposed that countries be allowed to say whether their neighbors could build nuclear plants near their borders.

Switzerland: Voters go to the polls May 20 to consider a measure guaranteeing that "no more nuclear plants be built than is absolutely necessary."

A measure that would have placed strong curbs on the nuclear industry was narrowly defeated last year.

Belgium: Antwerp's City Council has expressed concern over a nuclear plant in the city and has asked for safety guarantees. Last week, the mayor of the town of Huy ordered a nearby plant closed, but the national government reversed the decision.

Denmark: The governments of Sweden and Denmark established a joint committee to investigate the Harrisburg accident and to report on safety measures at Sweden's Barsebaeck plant, only 12 miles from Denmark's capital, Copenhagen.

Precinct Meetings

According to Betty Speir, Pitt County Democratic Chairman, Democratic precinct meetings will be held at the polling places Thursday, April 19, at 8 p.m. An exception will be Greenville No. 1, whose meeting has been postponed until April 26, 8 p.m., at the polling place.

Order of business will include election of new precinct officers and selection of delegates to the county convention May 19, which will be held at 12 noon in the district courtroom.

There will also be information available on delegate selection and affirmative action plans for the 1980 national convention. All registered Democrats are urged to attend the meetings in the precincts in which they live, according to Ms. Speir.

U.S. Both students are from Greenville. Susie Mayer of Surfside Beach, S.C., and Sandy Wood of Wilmington presented a report on tarcoal beds of the state's coastal plain.

James McCluskey presented a report of his research undertaken in collaboration with Dr. Richard Stephenson entitled, "Aerial Photograph Interpretation of Off-road and Pedestrian Trails at Cape Hatteras National Seashore, 1974-78."

Becky Best of Benson spoke on "An Application of the Holdridge Model in the Eastern U.S." and Neil Gunderson of Winston-Salem discussed his research project, "Coastal Plain Terraces and the Carolina Bays."

Lynne Petterson presented results of her research on the 1977 drought in the southeastern

Dr. Simon Baker of the geography faculty spoke on storms on the N.C. coast. Dr. Donald Stella chaired the Academy meeting's geoscience session.

Older Adults Are Subject Of Report

ECU News Bureau
Social forces affecting older adults lead them to a feeling of being externally influenced by events and conditions beyond their individual abilities to control, says an East Carolina University researcher.

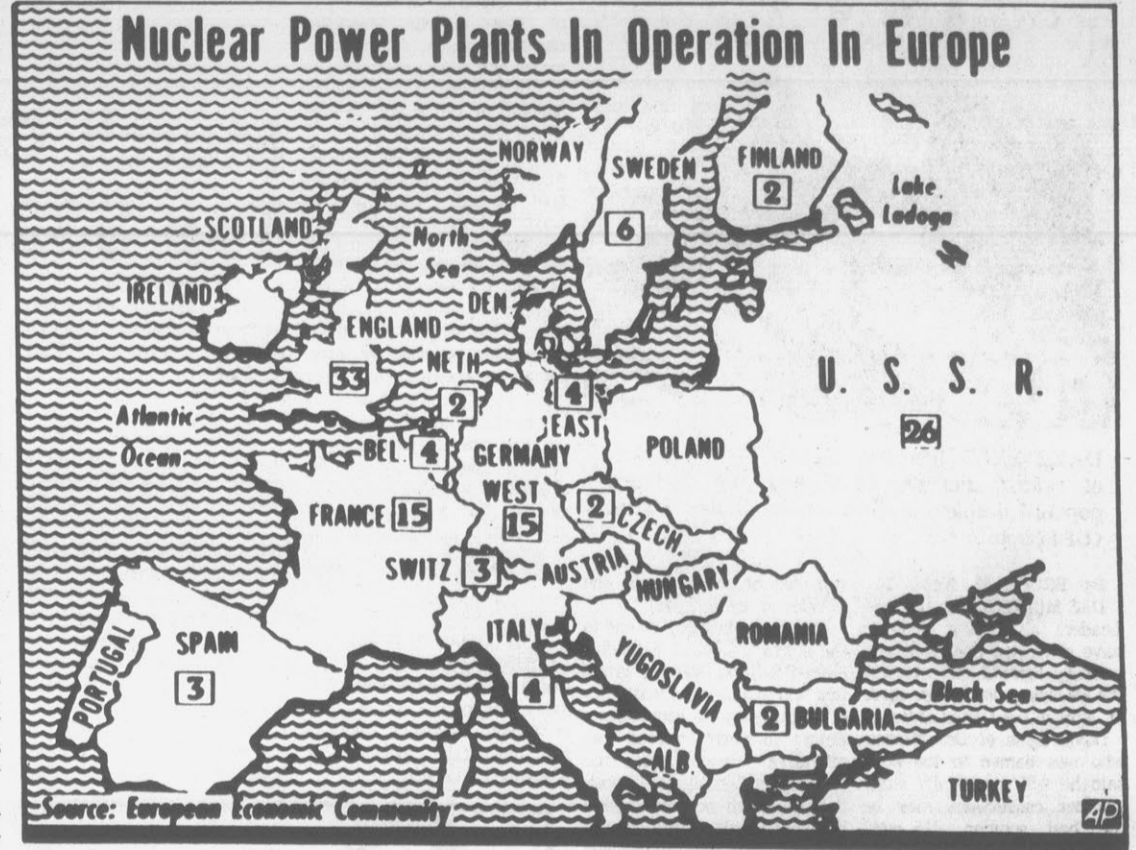

Dr. Shea's presentation on older adults' feeling of loss of control over their lives concluded that if aging persons are able to maintain a stable sense of personal control over their choices and destinies, their transition from the status of worker to that of retiree is made easier.

Dr. Jannis Shea, associate professor in the ECU School of Home Economics, reported on her study of a group of older women at the recent annual meeting of the Southeastern Council on Family Relations in Greensboro.

Also representing ECU at the meeting was Dr. Edward Markowski of the ECU School of Home Economics.

The conference, whose theme was "Adult Transitions: Continuous Personhood," included discussions of such family-related issues as equal role relationships in marriage and adjustment to aging.

GETTING STARTED

Although 76% of newly married couples start out by living in rental housing (primarily apartments), some thought should be given to the other side of the coin — home ownership. Sometimes the solution is buying low-cost income property, a duplex for example. The down payment requirement is usually comparable to a single-family residence, but half the property is supplying income from rental, which helps in making payments. Upkeeping is generally higher, and there are some added responsibilities of ownership.

In a few years, however, it may be possible to use both sides of the duplex for income and buy a single-family house. The income will probably pay for the duplex with some left over to apply against the house payments. At the same time, you will be building an estate for your family with no strain on the budget.

Before making your first housing decision, why not consult with a Realtor and have him show you some possibilities?

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at BLOUNT & BALL REALTY CO., 201 E. Arlington Blvd., Greenville, Phone: 756-3000. We're here to help!

Seeking To End Decline

DAVID BELIN has been given the task by leaders of reform Judaism to reverse the declining population share of Jews in the United States. (UPI Photo)

By BRUCE M. KANNER
DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Leaders of Reform Judaism have given a nationally known attorney the task of reversing the declining population share of Jews in the United States.

David Belin of Des Moines, who was named to the post, said he will specifically study whether conversions may be the best solution. He said conversion has not been used by Jews in 400 years.

The Union of American Hebrew Congregations, parent council of the more than 700 reform, or liberal, congregations, was given the idea of forming a task force at its semi-annual meeting last December.

Rabbi Alexander Schindler, UAHC president, said in an address to delegates that Jews must find a method to combat the declining rank-and-file Jewish population.

"The tide is running against us," Schindler said. "This is the reality and we must face it."

Schindler said the two major causes of the declining population were intermarriage and a low birthrate.

The rabbi said education of Jewish youth was the best way to prevent intermarriage — and in the event of a marriage out of the faith — education was still a viable way to bring the non-Jewish partner into the faith.

"It is the Jewish partner who ultimately determines whether or not there will be a conversion... and whether the children will or will not be reared as Jews. It is the Jewish partner whose will prevails..."

Plan Now To Keep Records In Order For Next Tax Returns

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Now that you've filed your 1978 federal income tax return, it's time to start thinking of next year — particularly if you had to search through stacks of papers to find the records you needed to fill in the forms.

It's important to keep copies of past returns, cancelled checks, receipts, salary statements and other papers for use at tax time. But it's equally important to throw out records which are not essential.

Start with those old returns. According to "Keeping Household Records: What to Discard," distributed by the federal Consumer Information Center, you generally do not have to keep the returns — or the records you used in filling them out — for longer than three years. That's because the Internal Revenue Service has only three years in which to audit federal tax returns.

There are exceptions, however. If you fail to report 25 percent or more of your gross income, the government has five years to act against you. If you file a fraudulent return, the government has six years to initiate legal proceedings, and if you file no return at all, there is no time limit.

Once you have checked your salary stubs against your W-2 form, you can throw them out. Cancelled checks that relate directly to your return and medical bills should be kept for three years.

(State laws on tax audits vary. Check with local authorities to find out what you have to keep and for how long.)

Copies of the household records pamphlet are available, at no charge, from Dept. 638G, Consumer Information Center,

Pueblo, Colo., 81009. Action for Independent Maturity, a division of the American Association of Retired Persons, also offers a free guide on what records to keep. It includes forms on which you can list important account numbers, insurance policy information, etc. You can get a copy of "Your Vital Papers and Where to Find Them" from Dept. VP, 1909 K St., N.W., Washington, D.C., 20049.

Some records should be kept in a bank safe deposit box. They include: birth and marriage certificates, divorce or separation papers, adoption papers, citizenship records, military service files, government bonds and stock certificates.

You can keep one copy of your will in the safe deposit box, but make sure you have another one readily available to avoid legal delays after death. (The attorney who draws up the will keeps the original.)

Records stored at home should be divided into two files: active and dead storage.

The active file should include unpaid bills, receipts for recently paid bills, current bank statements, current cancelled checks and income tax working papers. These items can be transferred to the dead storage file, or in some cases discarded, after three years.

Items to keep permanently in the active file are: employment records, credit card information, insurance policies, copies

March Grants Top $32,000

ECU News Bureau
A total of $32,712 in outside funding was awarded four research and service projects at East Carolina University during March.

The largest grant, totaling $25,000, was given Dr. Garrett Hume of the ECU Department of Speech, Language and Auditory Pathology by the Scottish Rite Foundation to support an aphasia and dyslexia program to be directed by Hume.

Continuing support was given ECU's training program for Child Development Associates by Coastal Progress, Inc., which awarded the program $4,000. The CDA training project is jointly sponsored by the ECU School of Home Economics and the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

Dr. Peter Fricke received $2,417 from Liberian Services, Inc. for technical advice and assistance to the Liberian nation's delegation to a United Nations Conference on Law of the Sea.

He is a member of the ECU sociology faculty and the ECU Institute for Coastal and Marine Resources.

Dr. Daniel Crittenden of the ECU School of Medicine received a $1,295 grant from N.C. United Way to support his research project involving pulmonary structure and function.

Announcement of the grants was made by the ECU Office of Sponsored Programs.

provided of course he or she decides to use that will."

In hopes of bringing an end to the downward spiral, Schindler named Belin to head the group that will examine the feasibility of a program of conversions. Belin formerly served as executive director of the Rockefeller Commission, a position in which he investigated the CIA. He also was a counsel to the Warren Commission during the assassination of President Kennedy.

"Many people believe (America) will have 50 years from now an American Jewish community of less than one percent and perhaps as little as one half of one percent of the total population," Belin said.

Belin, who investigated President Kennedy's assassination when he was with the Warren Commission and the CIA while with the Rockefeller Commission, said the loss of a vibrant Jewish population would be a tragedy.

"The American Jewish community has made tremendous contributions in the areas of the sciences, the arts, the professions, business, social work, in all areas of endeavors," Belin said.

As for conversions, Belin said, "If someone is already an adherent to religion, has religious faith, there is no reason for that person to be subject to conversion."

The attorney said he did not know whether a concerted effort would be made to reclaim young Jews who have left the faith but said he believed if "people were born Jewish and have joined the Christian church, that's their province."

Belin said a program of limited conversion through "Jewish Information Societies," coupled with the increase in the education of Jews about Judaism, could turn the tide in the battle against the declining Jewish population.

Plummeted Into Ground

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — The crash of a twin-engine airplane that witnesses said plummeted out of the clouds, pulled up and then smashed to earth tail first in a remote swampy area west of here killed three persons, authorities said.

A spokesman for the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department said this morning that identities of the three men were being withheld until relatives could be contacted.

Two victims of the Sunday morning crash had Palm Beach County addresses while the third was from South Carolina, said James McCollum, Federal Aviation Administration flight service team supervisor in Miami.

Personnel from the National Transportation Safety Board were to begin an investigation today.

The crash of the Beechcraft Baron was reported by two fishermen, who said they saw the plane go down about 9 a.m. EST, said McCollum.

Stan Kukla, of the FAA flight service station at Tamiami Airport at Miami, said authorities had not been able to learn the origin of the flight or its destination.

"We know of no flight plan, nor anything about any radio contact with any FAA installation," Kukla said.

Witnesses "observed the aircraft come out of the clouds, spiral or spin, pull up, then fall tail first to the ground," Kukla said. He said the plane apparently did not explode or burn.

The crash occurred west of U.S. 441 just north of the Broward County line, officials said. One investigator had to use an airboat to reach the site.

Windmill Is About Ready

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — Soaring energy prices and dwindling supplies have re-introduced the townspeople of Howard's Knob to windpower.

A wind generator, 150 feet tall and weighing 325 tons, will become operational later this month when two slender 100-foot blades are added. It will be the world's largest wind generator.

The renewed interest in alternate energy forms was behind the U.S. Department of Energy's decision in late 1977 to select the tourist-heavy mountain village of Howard's Knob for the wind generator.

In addition to the high visibility the device will get, Howard's Knob offers fairly steady winds averaging 18 to 22 mph. An 8-mph wind will be enough to set the two 100-foot blades spinning.

The blades will reach maximum rpm with a wind of about 22 mph and will lock out if gusts should reach 35 mph. The power from the $3.5 million wind generator will flow into the Blue Ridge Electric Membership Cooperative.

The company estimates it will cost between 3.5 and 5.5 cents per kilowatt hour to produce — a cost competitive with the price BREM-CO now pays for electricity purchased from Duke Power Co., according to a cooperative spokesman.

Christians Around The World Celebrated Easter

By The Associated Press
 Christians around the world celebrated Easter Sunday with appeals and prayers for peace, freedom and human rights. Cheered by 350,000 pilgrims and tourists jamming St. Peter's Square, Pope John Paul II voiced his hope for peace where it "is particularly relevant and particularly awaited" in the Middle East, Africa, Asia, Latin America and among "the peoples who live in the various social, economic and political systems."

The Roman Catholic pontiff took note of the designation of 1979 as the International Year of the Child, making a special plea for "those who suffer hunger, and above all for the little children." And he wished for peace for all those who suffer, are humiliated, disappointed, oppressed, repressed and whose human dignity is violated.

Jerusalem was a babel of bells and foreign tongues as Roman Catholics, Protestants and Coptic Christians celebrated Easter, the Eastern Orthodox churches observed Palm Surgeons in Odesa implanted artificial lenses in the eyes of a circus seal that was going blind with cataracts. When the seal recovered it was so happy it got up and performed tricks for the doctors, Tass, the official Soviet news agency, reported Saturday.

"I stopped going to church because I thought God had forgotten us," said a worshiper at the Anglican cathedral. In England, the leader of the world's Anglicans, the Archbishop of Canterbury, called for freedom in the Soviet Union and other Communist countries.

Jane Byrne Is 'Taking Over'

CHICAGO (AP) — Jane Byrne takes over as Chicago's mayor today, riding in a limousine and walking an Irish-green carpet to her swearing-in ceremony at City Hall.

Churches across the United States were filled with worshippers, and 50,000 persons braved sporadic showers to stroll in the annual Easter Parade along New York's Fifth Avenue. President and Mrs. Carter and their daughter Amy attended the Easter service at the First African Baptist Church on Sapelo, the Georgia island

Mrs. Byrne scored a stunning upset in the Feb. 27 Democratic primary over Mayor Michael A. Bilandic, then went on to defeat GOP mayoral nominee Wallace Johnson in the April 3 election by the largest margin on record. She is the first woman to hold Chicago's top office.

For Some Americans, Easter Was A Disaster

By The Associated Press
 For most Americans who celebrated Easter it was a time for the traditional church services, family dinners and Easter egg hunts. But in Mississippi and Alabama, thousands spent the day away from home — forced to flee because of swirling flood waters.

Cardinal Terence Cooke celebrated the 100th solemn pontifical Easter Sunday Mass at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City, before the 2,500 worshippers streamed out onto Fifth Avenue to join the Easter parade of spring fashion finery. In Los Angeles, 11,000 persons attended the 59th annual Hollywood Bowl sunrise worship service, while in suburban Burbank, Mickey Mouse led a parade of 75 Walt Disney characters and floats ridden by honorary grand marshals James Cagney and Irving Berlin. Downtown Skid Row missions held services and served dinners to hundreds of derelicts. In the flood areas, such charity was for the thousands forced from their homes. The Red Cross prepared about 3,500 Easter dinners Sunday for residents cleaning up flood-soiled homes along the Illinois River near Peoria and for crews working along the flood-swollen waterway. "We've got 30 turkeys in the works now and all the trimmings," said Larry Brown, Red Cross director of the operation. There was no official estimate on the number of persons left homeless by the flooding in Alabama, and there were conflicting reports on the number of homeless in Mississippi. State civil defense officials today estimated that about 8,000 persons were homeless, while aides to Jackson Mayor Dale Danks said 17,200 area people were forced from their homes. In Wichita Falls, Texas, about 2,400 people worshiped at the city auditorium. Ten churches were flattened by a tornado that cut an eight-mile

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took a sharp drop today amid expectations of further credit-tightening by the Federal Reserve.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 9.10 to 861.40 by noon.

Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 3-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Federal Reserve's policy-setting Open Market Committee holds its monthly meeting Tuesday. Many analysts expect it to decide to push short term interest rates higher in response to the early-1979 surge in the inflation rate.

Such expectations depressed the bond market last week, and apparently helped cool off the stock market's recent rally. The Dow Jones industrial average dropped 5.19 last week, ending a string of five consecutive weekly gains.

"Last week's performance was ragged, and it may have convinced some people that the market was losing steam," said Larry Wachtel at Bache Halsey Stuart Shields.

Middle South Utilities led the active list, off 3/4 at 14 1/4 in trading that included a 272,000-share block at that price.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .42 to 57.11, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was off 1.09 at 179.23.

Volume on the Big Board came to 13.33 million shares at noon, against 11.52 million at the same point Friday.

Anniversary Was A Gas

READLYN, Iowa (AP) — Wesley and Delores Sauerbrei celebrated the 25th year of their service station business by selling gasoline for 50 cents a gallon.

"We wanted to do something that the whole public could enjoy," said Sauerbrei, 49, who with his wife, Delores, 48, owns and operates the station.

So, for one hour this weekend, the Sauerbreis pumped 1,400 gallons of gasoline, gave away door prizes and treated customers to cake and ice cream.

The Sauerbreis normally sell leaded gasoline for 78 cents a gallon and unleaded for 79.5, with about an eight-cent profit margin. They estimate that the one-hour price slash cost them about $250.

"At our five-year anniversary, we sponsored a free dance," Sauerbrei said. "But there's no local dance hall so we wanted to do something that the whole public could enjoy. And it seems like they did."

In addition to the cheap gasoline, the couple gave away 17 door prizes. And, once every hour the motorist who happened to be at the pumps when an alarm clock in the station went off received a free "service" gift — several quarts of oil, a grease job or free car wash.

Marriage Set By Debby Boone

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Debby Boone, daughter of Pat Boone, and Gabriel Ferrer, son of actor Jose Ferrer and singer Rosemary Clooney, will be married early in September, the couple have announced.

Ms. Boone's recording of the Grammy and Academy Award-winning song, "You Light Up My Life," earned her the best new artist of the year Grammy in 1977.

Deer And Elk Said Surviving

DENVER (AP) — The Colorado Division of Wildlife says a combination of emergency feeding programs and milder weather has averted the threat of widespread death among the state's deer and elk.

Severe winter conditions, called the worst in decades, had prompted wildlife experts to predict that up to 60 percent of the state's deer and 20 percent of the elk would die for lack of food. But Division of Wildlife spokesman Pete Hanson said those early estimates have been sharply reduced.

MEET TUESDAY

The West Greenville Business Association will meet Tuesday, April 17 at 7:30 p.m. at the Jaycee Building on Chestnut Street.

Big Robbery

OTTAWA (AP) — The biggest robbery in Canadian history netted a gang of well-briefed thieves an estimated $4 million to $5 million in negotiable money orders, traveler's checks and other loot from the main Ottawa post office, police said today.

The thieves broke through a door in the northeast corner of the block-long building early Sunday while the only guard was on duty at the southeast corner. They went to the registered mail room on the third floor, broke in and in two hours collected an estimated $2.4 million in negotiable American Express money orders and traveler's checks plus cash, jewelry, sets of minted coins and Canadian and foreign passports, the police said.

Rioting At Rock Concert

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A three-hour riot at an outdoor rock concert in which 16 policemen and 25 concert-goers were injured was the worst such incident in the city's history, authorities say.

No one was seriously injured in the rioting that occurred Sunday night in a four-block area on the city's south side, officials said.

About 500 law enforcement officers used tear gas to quell the riot at the Herman Hill Park concert. One hundred of the estimated 3,500 persons gathered for the concert were arrested.

Police Chief Richard LaMunyon said the incident began around 5:30 p.m. when officers asked from the bandstand for vehicles parked illegally to be moved.

Most persons complied with the order, he said, but a group of men around a pickup truck carrying a keg of beer "decided to take the officers on."

"The police were doing their job, enforcing the law, but maybe getting a little rambunctious," said Bob Lawrence, program director for radio station KICT, which had publicized the concert. "It just broke into warfare."

The officers used tear gas to disperse and control the crowd. Some rioters threw the gas canisters back at police.

Fast-Paced Week For N.C. Assembly

By Sam D. Bundy
N. C. House of Representatives
 Another fast-paced week with meetings, sub-committee meetings, long sessions and public hearings. We are now in high gear; however, the date of adjournment is still not in the immediate future. I have said all along it would not be before June 1 and now, some are talking June 10. We are still introducing bills with the total now in the House being 1,187 and the Senate being 699, which makes a grand total of 1,886.

The so-called Merit Selection of Judges bill was introduced this week and will call for extended and heated debate. I plan to oppose it and speak on the floor of the House against it. Bills calling for Balanced Growth and a New Generation Policy have hit the floor.

When and if they are passed, they will be considerably weakened by amendments. Many members voice opposition on the basis that when you set policy, you open the way for heavy spending down the road.

The past week has been one of meetings. The weekend of April 7 was Jefferson-Jackson Day,

Animal Virus Seminar Set

There will be a producer seminar on parovirus Thursday, April 19, at the American Legion Bldg., adjoining the Wilson County Fairgrounds, Wilson, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Bill Mengeling from the National Animal Disease Research Laboratory, Ames, Iowa, will be the guest speaker. According to Mike Regans, Pitt County associate extension agent, parovirus infection should be considered in any herd with a history of reproductive failure. For more information on the seminar, call Regans at the Extension office, 758-1196.

Zoeller Takes Masters Playoff

By ED SHEARER AP Sports Writer AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Fuzzy Zoeller considers booming tee shots "a God-given gift." But his free and easy style is of his own making. He combined both Sunday to win one of golf's most coveted prizes — the Masters championship.

he blew a 5-shot advantage in the tricky winds of the famed Augusta National Golf Club course. The victory came on an eight-foot putt on the 445-yard 11th hole, a part of the famous "Amen Corner" that has provided victory as well as defeat during the 43 years of this prestigious event.

When the putt fell, the broad-shouldered Indiana native hurled his putter into the air, raised his arms in a victory salute and embraced his caddy, Jerry Beard, who Zoeller said "led me around all week long." The fifth-year professional thus destroyed the myth that a player in his first Masters had no chance to win.

But he did have some doubts earlier in the round. "I didn't think I had a chance (going to 15)," Zoeller said. "I was sitting at 7-under and Ed was at 11." But Sneed then opened the door by going bogey-bogey-bogey on the final three holes, giving him a closing 76 on a sunny Easter Sunday that left him at 8-under-par 280, a figure matched by Watson's closing 71 and Zoeller's 70.

He also had to worry about Jack Nicklaus, who reached 8-under with a birdie at 16, only to lose that shot when he bogeyed 17 and finished at 69-281. Sneed built his advantage back to three with birdies at the two par 5s, Nos. 13 and 15, before disaster struck. "I never at any time felt like I lost control," Sneed said. "It just didn't happen. There's no other way to explain it."

The victory was worth $50,000 to the 5-foot-10, 190-pound Zoeller, who had earned his first tour victory earlier this season in the San Diego Open — a triumph that got him into this invitational event. Watson, leading money winner on tour this year, and Sneed each earned $30,000. After Nicklaus came Tom Kite with a 72-283 and first-round leader Bruce Lietzke finished sixth at 74-284.

Braves Embarrass Pirates

By WOODY PEELE Reflector Sports Editor Pembroke State, ranked 12th among NAIA schools in baseball, embarrassed the East Carolina Pirates Sunday afternoon, sweeping a doubleheader from the Bucs, 8-0 and 7-2.

year-late sophomore jinx continued to catch lost only four games in his first two seasons. Britt was tagged for three runs in the top of the second before exiting. Mike Leonard opened up with a walk and Johnny Corbett cracked a home run over the fence in left for a 2-0 lead.

Billy Best singled to center with one down in the first, and stole second. He scored when Macon Moye singled to left. Pembroke then came up with three in the third to chase starter Bobby Patterson and take the lead for good. Bennett opened up with a bunt single and moved up on an infield out. Goetke walked and McAllister singled to center, scoring Bennett. George Mattonelli singled, but Robert Poole reached on a squeeze bunt that scored Goetke. Seidel then walked to bring in McAllister.

The Pirates got their other run in the bottom of the fourth. Max Raynor singled and scored when Jerry Carraway doubled. East Carolina had threats in the fifth and seventh, but did no more damage. Pembroke picked up two more in the fifth. Gillis reached on a fielder's choice and Robert Britt singled to right center. Bennett laid down a squeeze bunt, and the ball was error'd in the attempt to make a play at home, scoring Gillis. Sessions then squeezed in Britt with another bunt, ending the scoring for the day.

"We didn't come out here mentally or physically ready to play," a disgruntled Monte Little said afterwards. "It just wasn't our day." A reflection of how bad it was could be highlighted by one play in the second game. The leadoff batter for the fourth inning hit a high pop up just in front of the plate.

The other three came over in the seventh. With one down, Corbett walked and Butch Gillis reached on an error. Seidel singled to load the bases, and Robbie Bennett's hit to right plated Corbett. Sessions singled to left, scoring Gillis and Seidel, and a ground out by David McAllister brought in Bennett with the final run.

Two more Brave runners crossed in the fourth. Bennett reached on the pop up in front of the plate that was allowed to fall, and with one down, Goetke cracked a homer to right center, raising the lead to 5-1.

The twin defeat dropped the Pirate record to 17-12, while Pembroke climbed to 23-10. East Carolina is idle until Wednesday when it plays Harrington Field.

'Fuzzy' Adds Life To Golf Tour

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Fuzzy Zoeller knocked in an eight-foot birdie putt to win the nerve-stabbing overtime Masters, and somewhere in golf's Valhalla one could imagine old Walter Hagen lifting a glass of Scotch and proposing a toast.

Down in Houston, Jimmy Demaret must have leaped clear out of his pastel-colored jeans. In Augusta's locker room, Lee Trevino had to let out a war whoop, and down the hall in the Trophy Room green-jacketed Arnold Palmer must have tried to suppress a bemused smile.

Keith Modlin was 2-3 and Danny Lilley 2-4 for Jamesville, which will face Manteo in the second round tonight at 7:30. Bear Grass will move into the loser's bracket against Southwest Edgecombe this evening at 5:00. No information was available on the Bears' loss.

Tommy DiNardo pitched the win for the Bullets, striking out 18 batters of the 25 he faced. He gave up just two hits in the game.

Jamesville dealt a 7-0 shutout to Southwest Edgecombe, while Manteo defeated Bear Grass 8-4 in the first round of the Jamesville Invitational baseball tournament Saturday.

There was a ray of light only briefly in the second game, as the Pirates took a short-lived 1-0 lead.

Week Of Rest From Bye Proves Helpful In Playoffs

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

After six months of arenas and airports, there's nothing like a week of rest and relaxation to get a basketball team back on the beam.

The Philadelphia 76ers and Atlanta Hawks found that out the hard way Sunday when they went up against two well-rested division champions as the second round of the National Basketball Association playoffs got under way.

The 76ers ran into a buzzsaw at San Antonio, where the run-and-gun Spurs took advantage of the weary 76ers by racing to an 18-point halftime lead and coasting to a 119-106 victory in the opener of their best-of-7 series.

The Hawks managed to stay with the defending champion Washington Bullets for 3½ periods before running out of gas. The Bullets outscored Atlanta 18-4 down the stretch to pull away to a 103-89 triumph.

San Antonio and Washington earned byes through the first round of the playoffs by winning the Central and Atlantic Divisions, respectively. That gave them a chance to rest last week while the 76ers were beating the New Jersey Nets and the Hawks were upsetting the Houston Rockets in best-of-3 miniseries.

Also on Sunday, the Los Angeles Lakers and Phoenix Suns advanced to the second round of the playoffs by winning the third games of their respective Western Conference miniseries.

The Lakers beat the Denver Nuggets for the first time ever in Denver 112-111 on Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's hook shot with 12 seconds left and the Suns outscored Portland 33-15 in the fourth quarter to beat the Blazers 109-99.

In Tuesday night's second-round openers, Los Angeles will play at Seattle and Kansas City at Denver. The second games of the two East series also will be played Tuesday night.

Billy Cunningham, coach of the 76ers, knew his team would be in for a long afternoon after playing at New Jersey Friday night and then traveling 1,500 miles Saturday.

"There was no question that the rest helped the Spurs," he said. "We were just a step slow."

But San Antonio Coach Doug Moe wasn't buying that.

"You play three nights in a row sometimes in the regular season," he said. "You're not tired when you have a day off."

George Gervin scored 31 points and Larry Kenon had 30 for the Spurs, who were ahead 63-45 at halftime and then outscored the Sixers 10-2 at the start of the period to stretch the lead to 26 points. Philadelphia could come no closer than 11 points after that.

Despite the easy win, the Spurs are being careful not to become over-confident.

"It's only one game," Moe warned. "We remember what happened to us last year."

year we've got our confidence, but we're not cocky."

Washington Coach Dick Motta said his club played "almost picture-perfect defense" in the final period to pull away from Atlanta. "When it came down to the white knuckle time, we had the experience and poise to get the ball down deep."

The Bullets trailed 76-71 going into the fourth quarter and the score was tied 85-85 before Washington put the game away with 12 points in a row. The Bullets outscored the Hawks 32-13 in the fourth quarter.

Elvin Hayes led the Bullets with 31 points and 15 rebounds while Washington's other forward, Bobby Dandridge, scored 30.

Phoenix also came up with a big defensive effort in the fourth quarter to wipe out a 76-68 third-period deficit. Paul Westphal led the Suns with 26 points and Walter Davis scored 23.

Coach Jack Ramsay of Portland was asked if his team was too impatient toward the end. "I think that's a fair analysis," he replied.

On the other hand, Phoenix

Coach John MacLeod said his team "showed great composure and poise" in the final period. "We overcame a lot of adversity. We did not lose our composure. We stayed aggressive and didn't try to do it all at once in a hurry."

Abdul-Jabbar's sky hook from eight feet capped a wild finish that saw the teams trade one-point leads after the Nuggets, who trailed for most of the game, went ahead 107-106 on Dan Issel's three-point play with 1:49 left.

After Abdul-Jabbar's basket, the Nuggets worked the ball to their all-star guard, David Thompson, for a foul line jumper. But it bounced off the rim, the Lakers cornered the rebound and the buzzer sounded.

"It went right down to the last shot and we got the shot we wanted," said Nuggets Coach Donnie Walsh. "David Thompson is the right man to have taking the last shot in any game. He just didn't make it."

But Abdul-Jabbar, who finished with 29 points and 16 rebounds, did.

Walzel Wins Playoff In Magnolia Classic

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Bobby Walzel says he thought he had ruined his chances of beating Buddy Gardner in the $50,000 Magnolia Classic golf tournament before Sunday's final round began.

But he shot a 5-under-par 65 in the final round and survived two holes of sudden death golf to win the tournament and $9,000.

"I went into the playoffs thinking that he would have to birdie to beat me," Walzel said. "I've been playing good golf and making good swings and thought I would be able to make at least par on every hole. I thought I blew it Saturday even though I shot 67, because I missed too many good birdie putts. I just made a couple more today."

Gardner, who had missed an 18-foot putt on the final regulation hole — which would have won the title outright — shot 69 the final day on the 6,280-yard, par 70 Hattiesburg Country Club course.

Their four day total of eight under par 272 put them ahead of Ed Fiori, Bruce Fleisher, and Wren Lum by one shot, and two strokes in front of a group of five at 274.

Lum missed his chance at the playoff by bogeying the final hole, and Ed Byman, who finished at 274, double-bogeyed the final hole.

First and second-round leader David Lundstrom shot 72 Saturday and 73 Sunday to finish well back at 278.

Gardner and Walzel started their head-to-head battle at the first hole and both players made good pars. Gardner hit a good drive but overshot the green on his second, while Walzel drove in the woods and hit a super shot out to set up his par.

On the 230-yard par 3 second, Gardner hit first and missed the green with a two-iron to the right, and Walzel hit a two iron 18 feet behind the hole. Gardner chipped his second shot 12 feet past, and hit his par putt good only to see the ball lip-out. Walzel then two-putted to win.

Gardner won $5,400 for second, while Fiori, Fleisher, and Lum took home $2,691 each. Greg Powers, Homero Blancas, Lee Mikles, Scott Simpson, and Byman all won $1,607 for their fifth-place tie.

'Fuzzy' Zoeller...

Like Sam Snead, Fuzzy has a robust, corn-pone language all his own.

He said the three men in the playoff flipped coins for the order of teeing off.

"I drew last but that was no surprise. With a name beginning with 'Z' I'm used to that."

After Snead and Watson stuck their approach shots on the first extra hole close to the flagstick, Zoeller said, "I couldn't find any room on the green for my ball — and there I was with my white knuckles holding an eight-iron."

Thumbnailing his round, he said, "I started fast and ended quick." He birdied three of the last six holes to come from nowhere.

On three-putting the fourth hole, he said, "I hammered the putt. It went 10 feet past."

Describing other holes, he spoke of getting birdies with six and eight-foot putts.

"What club did you use?" a reporter asked

"A putter," he replied tartly. Everybody guffawed.

After sinking the winning putt, he tossed his putter about 50 feet in the air. He was asked if he retrieved it.

"I left that to my caddie," he said. "I had more important things to do."

He wasn't worried about the putter.

"I call the putter 'Betsy,'" he said. "I got another just like it. I don't want Betsy to think she can't be switched."

A Hitting Field Day In AL

AP Sports Writer

The pitchers are supposed to be ahead of the hitters this time of year, but you'd never know it from Sunday's American League games. Five teams scored in double figures and the 14 AL clubs combined for 96 runs, an average of nearly seven per game.

"That was wild and wooly," said Detroit Manager Les Moss, after his Tigers rallied for seven runs with two out in the ninth inning, handing the Texas Rangers their first loss of the season Sunday, 11-6. "What's the odds on something like that happening?"

Bill Mankowski had a two-run single and Lance Parrish delivered a two-run double in the Tigers uprising.

The Minnesota Twins rapped 20 hits, seven of them for extra bases including home runs by Willie Norwood, Mike Cabbage and Jose Morales, and routed the Seattle Mariners 18-6. The 18 runs were the most scored in the majors this season.

Rick Burleson drove in three runs and Jerry Remy, Fred Lynn and George Scott knocked in two apiece as the Boston Red Sox clobbered the Cleveland Indians 14-4.

Tigers 11, Rangers 6

With two out, the bases empty and relief ace Sparky Lyle on the mound, the Rangers' seventh victory appeared to be in the bag. Nine batters later, the Detroit Tigers had handed Texas Manager Pat Corrales his first major league loss.

The Tigers loaded the bases against Lyle, who was making his fifth appearance in as many days, on two walks and a single. Corrales then called on Jim Kern, who had pitched well early this season but was hit on the wrist by a line drive Friday night.

Kern yielded a two-run single to Mankowski and RBI singles to Tim Corcoran and Lynn Jones. An error by Texas shortstop Bert Campaneris kept the inning going and Parrish capped it with his two-run double.

Twins 18, Mariners 6

The Twins scored three times in the first and fourth innings and five times in the fifth and eighth innings. Their 18 runs and 20 hits were the most against the Mariners in the franchise's three-year history.

Jerry Koonsman, 2-0, eased to the victory despite allowing 12 hits, including home runs by Leon Roberts, Bill Stein and Larry Cox.

Red Sox 14, Indians 4

Remy drove in two runs with a triple and a single, Burleson had three RBIs with a double and a single, Lynn hit a two-run homer and Scott had a two-run single as the Red Sox drove 13 hits, eight of them for extra bases.

Royals 12, Blue Jays 10

Kansas City struck for four runs in the eighth inning on three doubles and a pair of singles to overtake Toronto. Hal McRae drove in the first run of the eighth with a double, Amos Otis tied the score with a single, Wathan singled home the go-ahead run and Clint Hurdle capped the rally with an RBI double.

Angels 8, A's 1

The Angels completed a three-game sweep of the A's in which they outscored Oakland 27-5 and collected 40 hits, including five home runs. As a team California is batting .313.

Carew had a homer and three singles in his best day since joining the Angels as a free agent during the offseason. It raised his season batting average to .368.

Yankees 6, White Sox 5

Mickey Rivers broke a 4-4 tie with a run-scoring double in the ninth inning and scored on a single by Willie Randolph that Chicago right fielder Claudell Washington lost in the sun as the Yankees beat the White Sox.

The White Sox got one run back in the bottom of the ninth on an RBI single by Alan Bannister before Rich Gossage got Eric Soderholm to ground into a game-ending double play.

Brewers 4, Orioles 2

Larry Hise belted a two-run homer and Mike Caldwell shut out Baltimore for eight innings as the Brewers completed their three-game sweep of the Orioles.

Caldwell, 3-0, struck out seven in becoming the AL's first three-game winner. He lost his shutout in the ninth when Eddie Murray belted his first home run of the season leading off and Rick Dempsey later added a run-scoring single.

Do your part by marketing only good-quality upstalk tobacco.

Leave low-quality primings and nondescript leaves in the field. The Flue-Cured Stabilization Co-op already has about a two-year supply of downstalk tobacco. Unless these stocks are reduced, losses could occur which would jeopardize the support program.

In 1978, upstalk grades averaged $1.41 per pound. Downstalk averaged 38 cents less—only $1.03 per pound.

Help yourself and save the program too—participate in the "Four-Leaf" program.

Sign up to qualify for 10 percent more acreage if you need it. But, whether you sign up or not, leave those bottom leaves in the field!

Most of the sports activity for this week consists of baseball tournaments on the high school scene. The Easter week gives many teams a chance to find out how they stack up against outside competition now that they've played some of their conference games.

Here in Greenville, Rose High School will be playing host to a tournament that runs Wednesday through Friday. Three games will be played each day, with seven teams involved in the field.

All of the games will be played at Guy Smith Stadium.

Wednesday's first round sends New Bern against

Farmville Central at 3 p.m., followed by Wilson Fike against Conley at 6 p.m. and North Pitt against Rose at 8 p.m.

Washington, the seventh team, drew a bye for the first round. The second and third rounds will play down through sixth place in the tournament. The team losing on the first two days automatically gets seventh and does not play on Friday.

Elsewhere, a couple of other tournaments got underway Saturday involving area teams. Greene Central and Williamston are playing in the Rocky Mount Invitational, while Roanoke and Bear Grass are part of the field at the Jamesville Invitational.

Both of these events conclude with play today and tomorrow.

East Carolina's Pirates, who played a doubleheader against Pembroke State yesterday, have several games coming up as they open up a string of five straight home games over a four-day period, starting Wednesday.

Wednesday evening, the Pirates host N.C. State in a twin-bill, starting at 5 p.m., then meet Virginia Commonwealth on Thursday, and Liberty Baptist on both Friday and Saturday.

So for those who like their baseball, there is plenty to be seen during the next few days in this area.

Nearly 8,000 In Boston Marathon

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP)—Way back in 1897, a hardy band of 15 distance runners toed the starting line for the first Boston Marathon.

Dodging dust-raising bicycles and horse-drawn carriages, John J. McDermott of New York plodded the 26 miles, 385 yards in what was considered a remarkable time of 2 hours, 55 minutes, 10 seconds.

Today, on the 83rd birthday of one of the world's most prestigious marathons, McDermott would barely qualify, with a rigid standard of three hours for men and 3 1/2 hours for women and men over 40.

However, a whopping field of more than 7,800 qualifiers, including 517 women, traveled to the little town of Hopkinton today for the start at high noon of the run to the Prudential Center in Boston.

Even officials of the sponsoring Boston Athletic Association described the field — 3,000 more than last year — as "frightening." Less than 15 years ago, the normal field was 250 with no qualifying restrictions.

Today's starters included 90 runners who could boast of running a marathon in 2:20 or better, heralded by Boston race officials as "an unequalled quality of talent in the history of amateur marathoning." No fewer than 28 foreign countries were represented, plus a South African delegation running unofficially after being barred by the AAU.

The runners came from all walks of life. They included professors, bankers, clergymen, doctors, policemen, authors, politicians, lawyers, dentists, laborers and college students.

Defending champion Bill Rodgers, who set the course record of 2:09.55 in winning as an unknown in 1975, was favored to dominate the field again. The Boston sporting goods store owner was listed at 2-1 by a Las Vegas bookmaker publishing odds on the race for the first time.

Rodgers survived a sprinting finish by Jeff Wells to win by two seconds in 2:10.13 last year. Wells did not enter this year after the closest finish in Boston Marathon history, and his No. 2 was awarded to 1972 Olympic champion Frank Shorter, who finished 23rd in his first appearance here in 1978.

Although eight of the first 10 finishers last year are back, Rodgers expected his toughest competition to come from a newcomer, Toshihiko Seko of Japan. Seko won the Fukuoka marathon last December in 2:10.21 as Rodgers finished eighth.

Esa Tikkanen of Finland loomed as a threat on the basis of last year's third-place finish in 2:11.15, the sixth fastest time in the world in 1978. Also returning was New Zealand's Kevin Ryan, finished sixth a year ago.

The sentimental favorites were Johnny "The Elder" Kelley, 71, and Johnny "The Younger" Kelley, 48. The elder Kelley, Boston winner in 1935 and 1945, was set for his 48th Hopkinton-to-Boston run. The younger Kelley won here in 1957.

Former Mets Shine Against Their Old Club

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Since being traded to the Philadelphia Phillies from the New York Mets four years ago, Tug McGraw has come back on more than one occasion to haunt his old teammates. Now Nino Espinosa is beginning to scare them a bit.

Both ex-Mets came through with strong performances against their former club Sunday afternoon in Philadelphia as the Phillies swept a doubleheader from New York 3-2 and 6-3. McGraw saved the opener for Dick Ruthven and Espinosa combined on a six-hitter with Ron Reed in the nightcap.

"I liked that trade when we made it and I like it even more now," said Philadelphia Manager Danny Ozark, referring to the deal this year which brought Espinosa to the Phillies for Richie Hebner.

"Espinosa didn't have overpowering velocity today, but he moved the ball around and mixed his speeds very well," Ozark said. "He didn't look so good when he got behind the hitters in the eighth inning, but I thought he pitched very well."

Ruthven and McGraw combined on an eight-hitter and Bob Boone drove in the winning run with a sixth-inning single in Philadelphia's opening-game triumph. Espinosa got hitting support in the nightcap from Mike Schmidt, who slugged a three-run homer for the Phillies in the eighth.

Braves 11, Dodgers 4
Barry Bonnell and Jerry Roster drove in three runs each to pace Atlanta over Los Angeles.

Espinosa allowed a first-inning double by Lee Mazzilli and then limited the Mets to two singles until the eighth, when Mazzilli hit a three-run homer. Then the right-hander needed help from Reed.

"It was a terrific feeling to have a six-run lead," Espinosa said. "I almost lost it when Mazzilli hit that shot. But I think I'm going to like pitching for this club."

In other National League games, Atlanta beat Los Angeles 11-4; St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh 9-4; Chicago stopped Montreal 5-1; Houston trimmed San Francisco twice, 4-3 and 9-1, and San Diego beat Cincinnati 6-3 in the opener of their twin bill before losing the second game 7-5.

Ruthven and McGraw combined on a six-hitter and Bob Boone drove in the winning run with a sixth-inning single in Philadelphia's opening-game triumph. Espinosa got hitting support in the nightcap from Mike Schmidt, who slugged a three-run homer for the Phillies in the eighth.

Braves 11, Dodgers 4
Barry Bonnell and Jerry Roster drove in three runs each to pace Atlanta over Los Angeles.

Atlanta scored four runs in the first two innings off Burt Hooton and five more in the seventh and eighth against reliever Charlie Hough. The Braves added two runs in the ninth with the help of a throwing error by first baseman Steve Garvey.

Cards 9, Pirates 4
A three-run double by Keith Hernandez capped a five-run, 10th-inning burst that triggered St. Louis past Pittsburgh in a game played in cold weather and intermittent rain at Three Rivers Stadium.

Bernie Carbo's sacrifice fly preceded Hernandez's big hit, then Tony Scott singled home the final run of the rally off Pirates reliever Kent Tekulve. Winner Mark Littell pitched the final two innings.

Cubs 5, Expos 1
Lynn McGlothen pitched a six-hitter and Dave Kingman slammed a two-run homer to pace Chicago over Montreal. The victory was the Cubs' first of the year after four losses.

The Cubs nicked Expos starter Steve Rogers for a run in each of the first two innings, then scored three in the sixth on Bill Buckner's RBI double and Kingman's two-run shot.

Astros 4-9, Giants 3-1
Jose Cruz belted two home runs — one in each game — and drove in eight runs to power Houston's sweep of San Francisco. Right-hander J.R. Richard improved his record to 3-0 with relief help from Joe Sambito in the opener and right-hander Joaquin Andujar pitched a five-hitter in the second game.

Cruz's two-run homer was the key blow as Houston erupted for three runs in the fourth inning of the first game. He then smashed a three-run shot to help the Astros mount a 5-0 lead after five innings of the nightcap.

Padres 6-5, Reds 3-7
San Diego scored six unearned runs and Randy Jones gained his second victory of the year with relief help from John D'Acquisto as the Padres won their opener from Cincinnati.

Cesar Geronimo launched a string of six consecutive singles for Cincinnati in a four-run sixth inning to help the Reds win the second game.

Johnny Bench, who sat out the nightcap, had an RBI in the first game to give him a career total of 1,116, moving him past Tony Perez for first place on the all-time Cincinnati RBI list.

State, Clemson Battle

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—The team championship in the Atlantic Coast Conference tennis tournament appeared headed for a settlement on the outcome of four head-to-head meetings, two each in singles and doubles, between North Carolina State and Clemson.

Finals, delayed a day because of rain Friday, were scheduled at the University of Virginia with two top-seeded singles players and one top-ranked doubles team already on the sidelines.

N. C. State, which tied North Carolina for the team title last year, had four singles finalists and two teams left in the doubles to three singles finalists each for Clemson and Virginia and two for Duke. Clemson had two doubles teams left, Virginia and Duke on one each.

The Wolfpack went into the finals with 54 points to 51 for Clemson, 45 for Virginia and 44

for Duke. Out of contention were North Carolina, 37; Maryland 29; and Wake Forest, 28.

Top-seeded Armand Molino of Wake Forest was a 2-6, 6-4, 7-6 victim of Ruby Porges of Duke in the No. 1 singles semifinals Sunday, while No. 1-ranked John Stauffer of Duke was beaten in the No. 3 singles by Geoff MacDonald of Virginia, 7-5, 6-1.

In the No. 1 doubles, both the first and second-seeded teams were beaten.

North Carolina's No. 1 team of Gary Taxman and Dick Potts fell to N. C. State's Andy Andrews and Scott Dillon, 7-6, 5-7, 6-3, and Duke's second-ranked team of Porges and Mike McMahon lost to Clemson's Mike Gandolfo and Mark Buechler, 6-0, 6-2.

Top-seeded players remaining in the singles were Buechler, No. 2; Mark Dickson of Clemson, No. 4; Ross Dubins of Duke, No. 5; and Dillon, No. 6. Clemson's Dickson and Pender Murphy remained as the top seeds in the No. 2 doubles and Virginia's MacDonald and Rodney Crowley were left as the No. 1 seeds in the No. 3 division.

On Program In Illinois

ECU News Bureau
Jo Ann Bell, director of the East Carolina University Health Affairs Library, and Fred Roper, assistant dean of the UNC-Chapel Hill School of Library Science, appeared on the program at a recent conference at the University of Illinois.

They presented results of their study, "The Relationship between Graduate Education and Continuing Education in Health Sciences Librarianship" at the Allerton Invitational Conference on Education for Health Sciences Librarianship.

In response to recent technological and social changes in the field of health sciences librarianship, 40 leaders, including Ms. Bell and Roper, were selected to produce guidelines for possible use by library schools.

The Bell-Roper presentation indicated that the rapid rate of change experienced by all professionals can result in professional "future shock" and obsolescence unless adaptive mechanisms enable them to respond positively to changes in their work.

ECU Chemist Is On Program

ECU News Bureau
Dr. Myron Caspar of the East Carolina University Department of Chemistry chaired the chemistry session and reported on his current research at the recent annual meeting of the N.C. Academy of Sciences in Greensboro.

Caspar discussed his work on the use of Diels-Alder reactions in the preparation of compounds of medicinal interest.

His studies in this area have been supported by grants from the National Science Foundation and the N.C. Board of Science and Technology.

$100 Bills Are Said Evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The ex-wife of Sen. Herman Talmadge has turned over 77 $100 bills to Senate investigators looking into allegations of financial wrongdoing on the part of the Georgia Democrat, according to unidentified sources quoted by The Washington Star.

The newspaper said the evidence contradicts Talmadge's sworn testimony that his source of pocket money was small cash gifts from constituents. In Sunday's edition, the Star said Betty Talmadge reportedly told Senate ethics committee investigators that in 1974 she took the money from an old overcoat in the couple's apartment here. Asked about the cash, Talmadge said: "I know nothing about it."

Some Found Gasoline In Tight Supply

By The Associated Press
American motorists taking an Easter day drive found tight supplies of gasoline in some parts of the country, leading to empty fuel tanks and pleas for help.
Phones "were running over" with calls from drivers looking for an open gas station, the emergency road dispatcher for the American Automobile Association in Seattle said Sunday.
"We can't keep up with it."
State police in the Seattle area were giving motorists one or two gallons to limp into gas stations, but some stations ran out of gasoline.
"Mostly we're getting calls from people nearing empty," said state patrol communications officer Mike Hart in Seattle. He said stations were open, but many were low on gas.
Andrew Bovek, a spokesman for the Chicago Motor Club, said the office had gotten 10 to 20 calls this weekend from motorists stranded because of empty tanks. He said not many stations were open over the weekend, but mostly because of the holiday, not a lack of gas.
Many service stations decided to close on Sundays following recent delivery cutbacks by suppliers. The American Petroleum Institute said last week that gasoline inventories are about 11 percent below 1978 levels, largely due to the Iranian crisis and high demand. Most oil companies have limited the amount of fuel they will sell dealers to about 90 percent of last year's levels, although gasoline demand is rising at an annual rate of 4 percent.
Meanwhile, a survey of prices at 16,700 gas stations taken earlier this month showed the average price of a gallon of gasoline has jumped about 12 percent, from 67.99 cents to 76.22 cents, since Jan. 1, according to a survey taken earlier this month by the Lundberg Letter, an authoritative oil industry newsletter.

Boys Drown In N.C. Pond

BELCROSS, N.C. (AP) — The bodies of two brothers, ages 2 and 4, were pulled from an industrial pond Sunday. The parents of the children tried in vain to revive them with artificial respiration.
"I did everything I could," said the distraught father, Calvin Ray Lamb.
His sons, Charles Harold Lamb, 2, and Calvin Ray Lamb Jr., 4, apparently wandered to the pond about 300 yards from their home. The pond is on the property of the concrete firm owned by Lamb.
The boys were discovered missing about 15 minutes later by Lamb.
"They were both together, floating near the edge of the pond," Lamb said. "I just reached out and pulled them in. I yelled to my wife. We each took a boy, got the water out of them and tried to revive them."
"I did everything I could," Lamb said.
He said the boys had never shown any interest in the pond before.
"Maybe they saw some little fish," he said. "Curiosity drew them to it, I'm sure. There has to be a reason."
The small pond is about 12 feet deep. It drops off quickly in depth from the shore.
An embankment was built around the pond and Lamb speculated that perhaps one of the boys slipped and fell in and the other tried to pull him out.

Minister Plans Join Carter

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP) — President Carter's getting a new speech writer — Dr. R.L. Maddox, minister of the First Baptist Church of Calhoun.
The 43-year-old minister told his congregation at Easter Sunday services that he will join the White House staff May 15. He has been pastor of the north Georgia church for 7½ years.
Among the 850 members of the congregation are Jack and Judy Carter, one of the president's sons and his wife.
Saying he is "cut from the same cloth" as the president, Maddox said he accepted the position "out of a sense of call and responsibility."

Cheerleaders Expected Lure Viewers

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some words from TV producer Brad Marks:

"I consider television itself tantamount to a Milky Way bar; I call it mind candy. It feeds your need for sugar."

Those sentiments considered, you won't be surprised to hear that Marks is the man behind an annual CBS special called

"The National Collegiate Cheerleading Championships, the second volume of which we are offering this evening."

This is 1 1/2 hours of cheerleaders cheering without benefit of a team or a game. You might not think that would sustain a variety show. It does. Last year's cheerleaders special drew a phenomenal 41 percent of the TV sets in use. Predictions are that tonight's affair will do as well.

Now, these figures made me wonder. I watch college football the time, and I've never seen a televised game without cheerleaders. But here are cheerleaders without a game, and it's big-rated stuff. Hmm. Maybe it's not whether you win or lose OR how you play the game that counts.

Maybe it's the flush-cheeked action on the sidelines that matters. Hey, this could be a whole new sport. The National Cheerleading League. College drafts and everything. I could be commissioner. I could...

Oh. Wait a minute. Seems somebody has already thought of that. Brad Marks.

legue cheerleaders within the ranks of pro squads will bring a rich tradition of true cheerleading along with proven crowd leadership to the professional fans."

Ge, and I thought they were just there to look at.

Marks says he got the idea for this pageant of bounce while watching college football coverage on ABC.

"I was watching the UCLA-USC game," he says. "Andy Sidaris (director of college football coverage for ABC) was watching the cheerleaders more than the game. I thought, hey, there's more to this than meets the eye."

His eye, maybe.

Anyway, since these cheerleader specials have more viewers than most football games, I figure the time is ripe for the National Cheerleading League. And if Marks insists on being commissioner, maybe I'd just settle for my own franchise.

Naah. I couldn't handle the free-agent problem.

CRYPTOQUIP 4-16

Q Z I R T H Q Z I Y T H Y O C Y I R T H :
Q Y C O Q Z I R

Saturday's Cryptoquip — INEPT BUTCHER MAY PLANE THUMB VIA HEAVY CLEAVER.

Today's Cryptoquip clue: C equals T

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, APRIL 17, 1979

YOUR DAILY Horoscope from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Morning is excellent for getting your affairs in better shape and for coming to a better understanding with close companions. Start day right early, but the afternoon finds a difficult problem in effect that requires more than usual care in solving it properly. Take care of your health.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Pursue career matters wisely and then give a helping hand to a friend who is having problems. Make certain to handle a credit affair well before considering amusement.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 21) If you change your attitude in the morning, you can get good results with others, expand interests. A new contact can turn into a fine ally, so cultivate. Take no risks with credit.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Seek more security where all of your affairs are concerned. Handle problems connected with new activities. Plan time to please the one you love more. Show thoughtfulness, kindnesses.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can put your ideas across to a partner with relative ease now and then get into annoying problems, work. Gain favor of bigwigs in civic world. Take time for meditation.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Gain the respect of fellow workers by doing an excellent job and come to a fine understanding with partners later. Take health treatments that give you added vitality and more vigor.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan time for amusements that relax you before you plunge into work ahead of you. Show more affection for a loved one and get fine response. Take no risks with your money.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle home affairs wisely and then tackle all that creative work facing you. Get fundamental affairs on more even keel. Take no risks with faulty utilities.

Linda Says Only 'Noes'

LONDON (AP) — Linda Ronstadt watchers note: she says he hasn't proposed to her, she hasn't married him, and she doesn't want to hear anymore about such "absurd rumors."

He, of course, is California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. But when the 32-year-old singer arrived at London's Heathrow Airport from Kenya on Sunday night, it was "Governor who?" when reporters asked if she and the 41-year-old Brown had gotten married.

"I don't know him, really. Why are you asking me these questions?" she replied.

"No, I haven't married him, and I would like to know how these absurd rumors get about."

And, as for those rumors, she said: "Would you marry somebody you'd known for just two years? I know some rock stars have reputations for whirlwind romances, but I don't."

Brown and Ms. Ronstadt arrived in Nairobi, Kenya, on Friday after spending two days at a wildlife camp in southern Kenya.

Brown also was expected to arrive in London from Tanzania, where he attended Easter services at a Roman Catholic church with President Julius Nyerere.

RECORD SALES

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Eastman Kodak Co. announced that at year's end about 10 million of its instant cameras were sold in world markets, sales of its instant film in the U.S. had more than doubled 1977 totals, and domestic sales of Kodak traditional cameras in 1978 were up by over 40 percent.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You find a new way to convince others of your ideas. Make new agreements easily. Improve conditions at home by using positive methods.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle those duties that bring you the finest returns quickly. Don't waste an opportunity to add to present assets.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Pursue a personal goal early and attain it. Later, you can get into financial affairs and get good results. Be more concerned with the social which you have been neglecting lately.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Planning the future more carefully is wise at this time. Improve your appearance also. Put best foot forward in social life. Solve problems wisely. Get the information you need.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Gaining backing you need from affluent friends is important now, so don't hesitate to approach them. Be conscientious in all that you do. Later, go after a personal wish and get it.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want to have an organized and secure way of living, so be sure to give a good education that will permit your child to do just that. Teach gently to give more attention to details since your child could be annoyed with such, due to lack of patience.

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN AND OMAR SHARIF © 1979 by Chicago Tribune

Q.1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦A9532 ♦K76543 ♦A ♦6
What is your opening bid?

A.—This looks like the sort of hand on which you can expect a highly competitive auction. Experience has shown that it is sound policy to treat the lower-ranking six-card heart suit as being equal in length to the five-card spade suit. Open one spade so that you can show both major suits economically without "reversing" the bidding.

Q.2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦Q6 ♥J976 ♦102 ♦KJ764
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♦ Dble. Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Don't even consider converting to penalties by passing. Your trumps are under the bidder and you might not even make one trump trick, and you have little else to contribute to the defense. Since partner has asked you to bid your best suit, you should oblige by responding one heart.

Q.3—Both vulnerable with 60 on score, as South you hold:
♦Q73 ♥5 ♦KQ942 ♦K643
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♥ 1 ♦ 2 ♥ ?
What do you bid now?

A.—In the light of the score, you can be certain that the opponents will not let you bid the hand at two of two spades. Therefore, you should plan the auction on the basis that you will have to bid twice. In that case, it would be more economical to bid three diamonds now, then support spades at your next turn. This will put partner in a position to double if the opponents compete over three spades, and will provide him with an easy opening lead.

Q.4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦J10932 ♥K954 ♦63 ♦K7
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass Pass 1 ♦ 1 ♥
Pass Pass Dble. Pass ?
What action do you take

A.—Your hand was almost good enough for a free bid of one spade, so to simply respond one spade now is far from adequate—partner will think that you are bidding under compulsion rather than from desire.

Since partner must have a good hand to reopen, jump to two spades—he won't play you for any more values than you have, because you have already passed twice.

Q.5—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦AJ5 ♥J4 ♦AKQ62 ♦KQJ
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—If your hearts had been a whit stronger, you would have opened the bidding with two no trump. Now, however, two no trump would be an underbid. This rebid shows 19-20 points, and might be passed if partner was sub-minimum for his initial response. With 21 points and a good five-card suit, you must jump to three no trump. That is not a shut-out bid, but shows this type of powerful hand.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦42 ♥943 ♦K62 ♦AKJ83
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♦ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—With 11 points and a decent five-card suit facing an opening bid, you should be in the game zone. You cannot rebid three clubs, because that would suggest a somewhat weaker hand with longer clubs. The only sensible rebid is two no trump, gambling that partner has a heart stopper as part of his opening bid.

Q.7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♦K76 ♥KQ32 ♦J3 ♦A1065
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ Pass ?
3 NT Pass ?
What action do you take?

A.—Partner has shown a hand of about 21 points, and you have 13. Simple arithmetic reveals that your side has about 34 points in high cards, which is sufficient for a small slam, but not enough for a grand. Bid six no trump.

Q.8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♦K8 ♥97653 ♦Q6 ♦7432
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
2 ♦ Pass 2 NT Pass ?
3 ♥ Pass ?
What do you bid now.

A.—Your first response promising nothing, but in view of partner's rebid, your hand has become very useful indeed. You have five-card support for partner's second suit, the queen in his first suit and an outside king. Since partner's opening was forcing to game, a raise to four hearts would be inadequate—it would show nothing more than a desire to play four hearts. You must indicate positive values by jumping to five hearts.

Atrocities By Idi Amin's Regime Are Confirmed

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer
KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — The story of Idi Amin's regime is told at the headquarters of his State Research Bureau, where invading soldiers found a handful of emaciated prisoners who had survived over a month by gnawing at the corpses around them.

Kampala, a stench of decaying corpses and sewage permeated the building still.

When the Tanzanians reached the building Wednesday morning, a dozen rotting bodies were sprawled outside, badly mutilated. In a blood-caked drain gutter, the grotesquely swollen bodies of five men and a boy were still there today.

The gutter was the last place prisoners stood before they were shot. The next prisoner in line would remove the body in front and wait for his end. The blood poured neatly down the drain.

In one dungeon cell, the soldiers found 15 or 20 bodies.

"We also found four or five people still alive in the basement," said John Opeto, a Ugandan platoon commander who came in with the Tanzanians.

"They could walk, but they couldn't talk. They just wandered off."

One was an old woman, and soldiers said the prisoners had survived by cannibalizing the corpses.

When the Tanzanians invaders drew near, people say agents began bringing out about 200 bodies a day, chained and wired together by the neck, presumably for disposal elsewhere.

Residents in the neighborhood also knew when the agents began burning records. The color and smell of the smoke changed, they said, from the smoke of burning flesh. The last of the bureau men left by noon Tuesday, the day before the Tanzanians arrived.

One door in the dungeon the Tanzanians were unable to break down. They were told it led to Amin's neighboring residence.

The Nakasero headquarters was only one of many such buildings and prisons across Uganda where agents of the State Research Bureau — 2,000-3,000 men who favored flowered shirts and mirrored sunglasses — detained, tortured and killed to keep Amin in power.

No one will ever know how many people disappeared. Estimates of those killed in the course of Amin's eight years in power range from 90,000 to 300,000, and stories are legion about tribal genocides, corpses fed to crocodiles, and families being slain for daring to enquire about the fate of missing relatives.

The State Research Bureau extended everywhere. Its agents came from all tribes and spied on every level, from the lowly district commissioner to ranking diplomats and ministers.

Whenever a delegation of Ugandans went abroad a Research Bureau man went along. Files found on Nakasero Hill included detailed reports on officials of every rank, with "reliability ratings" estimating what was the chance the man would defect if allowed abroad.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Biopsy Is Not Indicative of Cancer

Since my wife was told she should have a biopsy she has been in a state of panic. She has a small growth on her cheekbone and, of course, she is sure it is cancer. She refuses to have the biopsy done because she is certain of the outcome. I can't drive any sense into her head. I wish you could help me. — Mr. J.O., Texas.

Dear Mr. O.:
Fear is an irrational "disease." Many people do themselves a great injustice by living in a state of fear, giving up all the joys of living because they are so sure that they have an incurable disease. It is pathetic to see good lives wasted, especially when they later learn that there was no justification for their uncontrollable fear.

Many patients react as your wife does to the word "biopsy" and immediately associate it with cancer. This is a false and misleading concept. "Biopsy" is simply the removal of a small piece of tissue for meticulous study under the microscope, in order to positively identify the tissue and aid in the diagnosis.

The tissue that is removed is sent to a laboratory where it is embedded in a paraffin block. It is then cut into sections so thin that they are barely visible. After the sections are "stained," a pathologist (a specialist in tissue study), examines the cells, classifies the tissue and makes recommendations to the doctor for treatment.

Biopsies are performed for many other reasons than cancer investigation. The fact that the doctor has not actively pursued biopsy study or surgical removal of the growth should give your wife the added assurance that he feels she does not have a serious problem.

Now that she knows what a biopsy is, and how routinely it is done, she should have this made and gain relief from her unnecessary anxiety.

Two of my daughter's friends take water pills for reducing. Now, my daughter wants us to get them for her. I don't understand how other mothers can be so absurd as to permit this. Do you agree? — Mrs. G.H., Maine.

Dear Mrs. H.:
I most certainly do agree. Unless diuretics (water pills) are given for very specific medical conditions, it is silly to take them as a means of dieting.

Sure, people who take them can lose weight... temporarily. But that weight loss is due to the loss of fluids which quickly is replaced when any fluid is taken. So, you see, they're really kidding themselves. Water pills cannot substitute for a sensible, well-regulated low calorie diet.

Not only is this a ridiculous way to try to lose weight, there are also some inherent dangers to the indiscriminate use of water pills. With the loss of fluid can also come a loss of valuable minerals, especially potassium, which is essential to good health.

JOURNEY'S END — Aboard the damaged two-masted sailing schooner Pride of Baltimore, that was towed into Wilmington, Del. Saturday evening, is a happy Lori Watson — ship cook, and ship mascot Dogo. The ship was damaged when a storm tossed it onto a Delaware Bay shoal. The eleven-member crew was safe. (AP Laserphoto)

Adriatic Coastline Devastated By Heavy Tremors

By IVAN STEFANOVIĆ
Associated Press Writer
BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Tens of thousands of Yugoslavs spent the night in the open after an earthquake Easter morning devastated more than 60 miles of Adriatic coastline in southern Yugoslavia and Albania and killed at least 235 persons.

Aftershocks continued through the night.

Belgrade Radio said there were more than 200 known dead in Yugoslavia. It said the Albanian news agency reported at least 35 persons killed and 350 injured in Albania, Yugoslavia's southern neighbor.

Doctors flown in from across Yugoslavia treated hundreds of injured in makeshift relief centers. Rescue workers, using specially trained dogs, searched more than a dozen coastal towns and villages for survivors or bodies buried in the rubble. Frogmen probed the coastal waters for persons whose homes slid into the sea.

The Seismological Institute in Belgrade said today that the original quake registered 6.5 on the Richter scale, revising previous reports that gauged the quake at 7.2 on the ground motion scale. It was the strongest quake ever recorded in Yugoslavia, although the toll was far less than that of the 1963 quake in Skopje, 100 miles to the east, in which more than 1,100 were killed.

Officials at the institute said the quake, which occurred at 7:20 a.m. Sunday, had the power of 10 million tons of explosives. Hardest hit was a coastal strip in southern Montenegro from the town of Herceg-Novi on the north to Ulcinj, 10 miles from the Albanian frontier.

The initial 50-second shock tore open hotels, hospitals, factories and homes along the coast. Buildings and roads slid into the sea. There were waves of violent aftershocks, and by evening more than 80 tremors had been reported.

"There is not a single house that has not been damaged in one way or another in Herceg-Novi," said Dusko Seferovic, mayor of the resort town on Kotor Bay.

Local officials said the quake leveled virtually all older buildings in 13 towns along the coast, a popular, sun-drenched tourist area.

All roads and most rail lines in the area were damaged and telephone, water and power lines were broken.

"The blow was tremendous," said the captain of a ship anchored a mile off the coastal town of Bar when the quake struck. "At first I thought some other ship had collided with us or we ran aground."

Vojislav Savic, who was riding in a bus near Petrovac, said he saw "a church wall crumble and others followed.

Smoke rose, as if from a volcano. The sea turned red from the Earth."

President Josip Broz Tito, who was vacationing near Herceg-Novi, visited the stricken area and ordered aides to mobilize rescue and relief operations.

"It was lucky it was not a working day," the 86-year-old president said, surveying a shipyard buried in a landslide.

"Many families sustained a tragedy and these losses cannot be recovered," Tito said in a broadcast appeal to the nation for help.

Belgrade scientists said the focal point of the quake was in the Adriatic seabed off the coastal resort city of Dubrovnik, just north of the hardest-hit zone. They said it originated about 12 miles underground, causing damage to be spread over a larger area than the Skopje quake, which was three miles beneath the surface, localizing the impact but making it more concentrated.

"Lucky the epicenter was in the seabed," said Vladimir Riberic, chief of the Ljubljana Geophysical Observatory. "This should lessen the impact."

Tremors from the quake set buildings swaying as far away as West Germany, Austria and Hungary. In Salonika, Greece, Naples, Italy, and in Belgrade, the Yugoslav capital, people fled into the streets in panic.

The Richter scale is a gauge of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one whole number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. Thus the reading of 6.5 for Sunday's quake meant that it was five times stronger than the Skopje quake, which measured 6.0.

Faculty Members At Recent Conferences

ECU News Bureau
Several members of the East Carolina University faculty represented ECU at recent national, state and regional professional gatherings.

Dr. Simon Baker of the ECU Department of Geography participated in a Hazard Awareness Workshop in Corpus Christi, Texas, which was sponsored by the Natural Hazards Research and Applications Center, the Texas Coastal and Marine Council and Texas A & M University.

Four members of the ECU speech, language and auditory pathology faculty presented short course sessions at the annual N.C. Speech, Hearing and Language Assn. meeting in Wilmington.

Dr. Duane Logue spoke on neuropathologies of speech, Drs. Garrett Hume and Robert Muzzarelli spoke on management and grantwriting in speech and hearing services, and Dr. Richard Shine spoke on management of stuttering in children, adolescents and adults.

Dr. Patricia Terrell of the elementary education faculty attended the N.C. Council meeting of the International Reading Assn. in Winston-Salem. The conference theme was "Reading: Passport to the Future."

Dr. James Mathis, chairman of psychiatry in the ECU School of Medicine, attended a symposium in New Orleans on "Patients in Distress," where he presented a report of new research in alcoholism.

George Broussard of the ECU School of Music attended a trombone symposium at North Texas State University in Denton, Tex., where he helped to evaluate two Conn trombones.

Seven faculty members attended the spring meeting of the Assn. of Historians in Eastern North Carolina in Kenansville. They were Dennis Lawson and Marguerite Wiggins of the library services faculty and Professors Charles Cullop, Donald Lennon, Herbert Paschal, Charles Price and William Still from the history faculty.

Dr. Price was elected to serve on the organization's Program Committee, and Dr. Cullop began the second year of a three-year term as secretary-treasurer.

Two members of the library science faculty participated in recent workshops.

Judy Donnelly was involved in a Library Educators' Conference given by the Ohio College Library Center in Columbus, Ohio, for library educators working in the areas of technical services, library automation and networking.

Dr. Carol Veitch, along with Nell Eutsler of the ECU English faculty and Greenville children's librarian Joe Stines, attended a workshop on the Southern tradition of storytelling at James Madison University, Harrisonburg, Va.

Orderly Exit By Bluegrass Fans

UNION GROVE, N.C. (AP) — The exodus of 150,000 bluegrass music enthusiasts from northern Iredell County Sunday was accomplished without any problems following the 55th annual Old Time Fiddlers' Convention.

"Everything went real smooth," said a dispatcher for the sheriff's department. "They're all gone."

Libby Van Hoy, wife of con-

Randy Howard of Milledgeville, Ga., was the center of attention Saturday night as the festival concluded with his being chosen as "world champion fiddler." A panel of judges awarded Howard the $1,000 top prize while Buddy Pendleton of Stuart, Va., and J.P. Prince of High Point finished second and third.

In competition among bands, the Smoky Mountain Boys of Mount Airy were named best band in the "old-time" category while the Blue Ridge Boys of Olin took top honors in the bluegrass category.

Shortly after midnight Saturday, highways leading out of Union Grove began to fill with hitchhikers, motorcycles and a variety of vehicles.

L. G.L. Griffin of the sheriff's department said about 150 people were arrested during the three-day festival, most on drug charges. There was no violence or serious injuries.

Last year, one man died of a drug overdose.

The Fiddlers' Convention has attracted nationwide attention in recent years, and that publicity has drawn even more people to Union Grove.

Griffin said even though the festival ended Saturday night, "I'm sure we'll get one or two people who'll roll in next week, wanting to know when the fiddlers' convention starts."

Dr. James Mathis, chairman of psychiatry in the ECU School of Medicine, attended a symposium in New Orleans on "Patients in Distress," where he presented a report of new research in alcoholism.

Dog Assists In Pushups

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — If Harry Welch doesn't do his one-armed push ups correctly, his dog gives him a nudge.

Welch, 31, who recently broke the world's record for one-armed pushups, says a lot of the credit goes to Fred, his Labrador retriever.

"If I'm not doing 'em right, he rolls me over a little bit," said Welch, who started doing pushups when he was about 12 and does 25 to 50 every morning.

Welch, the general manager of radio station WTKR here, looked up the record for one-armed pushups in the Guinness Book of World Records two weeks ago. "I looked at the figures and just thought I could beat them."

So, last Thursday, he rounded up eight witnesses and started pumping.

He completed 140 pushups using his left hand to shatter the old record of 112 and 144 using his right hand, narrowly beating the old mark of 139, he said.

It was no big deal to Fred, however.

"He helped me more than anything else, but when I came home and told him about the record, he didn't seem one bit impressed," Welch said.

3 Drown In Oregon Inlet

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) — The Coast Guard is investigating the deaths of three men who drowned in Oregon Inlet despite life preservers.

The victims were identified as James S. Wood, 45, Wrightsville Beach; Algon Ray Hartley, 20, Morehead City; and Sean J. McCormack, 20, of Grafton, Va. They drowned after their 70-foot fishing vessel, Captain Jim, ran aground on a sand bar and sank.

"None of us can really speculate what happened," Coast Guard spokesman Darryl Dutkowski said Sunday. "They had life preservers on. We really don't know what happened."

Overnight exposure to the 51-degree water was believed to have contributed to the deaths, although autopsies showed that drowning was the cause.

The last message transmitted by the crew was broadcast about 11 p.m. Friday, the Coast Guard said. The men said they would remain at the Oregon Inlet sea buoy and wait for visibility to clear before trying to cross the sandbar.

It was unclear if the men purposely attempted to cross the sandbar that night. However, there were signs they knew the boat would not last through the night.

One man had tied a jar with the boat's papers around his neck, according to James E. Miller, a fisherman. Miller said the crew was an experienced group operating out of Wilmington.

On Saturday morning another fishing vessel discovered the Captain Jim sunk and aground just off the bar. The vessel picked up two victims, one dead and the other showing vital signs who died shortly afterward.

The Coast Guard, assisted by two fishing vessels and a Dare County helicopter, began a search of the area and the third body was found about a mile from the Captain Jim.

Legal Scholar In Helms' Corner

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legal scholar Raoul Berger says he now thinks Congress has the right to decide the jurisdiction of the federal courts, including the Supreme Court.

Berger's reassessment of Congress' powers puts him in the same corner with Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who says Congress can shut the Supreme Court out of school prayer cases. The constitutional expert, in an upcoming law review article, will set forth his new opinion on the courts, reversing the views he expressed in a book 10 years ago. "I have been compelled to reassess my views," said Berger, who described himself as "a lifelong liberal."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legal scholar Raoul Berger says he now thinks Congress has the right to decide the jurisdiction of the federal courts, including the Supreme Court.

Berger's reassessment of Congress' powers puts him in the same corner with Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., who says Congress can shut the Supreme Court out of school prayer cases. The constitutional expert, in an upcoming law review article, will set forth his new opinion on the courts, reversing the views he expressed in a book 10 years ago. "I have been compelled to reassess my views," said Berger, who described himself as "a lifelong liberal."

Solicitation Requests OK'd

City Manager Ed Wyatt announced the approval of two requests for solicitation permits in Greenville.

Wyatt said that the requests were submitted by the Pitt County Shrine Club for permission to sell tickets to the Shrine chicken fry on April 13 and 14 to raise funds for the crippled children's hospital, and by the Redeemer Faith Temple Church to conduct a sidewalk sale April 5-25 to raise funds to improve the church.

LONG RIFT ENDING
TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese and Soviet Communist parties have patched up a 15-year rift and will formalize their renewed renewed friendship this winter, the Japanese party has announced.

SAVE ON POLYGLAS THIS WEEK.

SAVE ON POLYGLAS NEXT WEEK.

For a limited time Goodyear's best selling bias belted tire, the Custom Power Cushion Polyglas is now sale priced to sell even better!

Goodyear's Custom Power Cushion Polyglas has always been built to perform. Now, it's priced to sell.

You'll pay less for the strong tropy polyester cord body. And the two tough fiberglass belts.

You'll pay less for the traction tread pattern, proved both on dry pavement and wet.

Best of all, you'll pay less for the confidence you'll get riding on this famous Goodyear tire. It's been original equipment on many Detroit cars every year since 1970.

Do you want to save? You'll have to hurry...
