Flood Waters Rise In Jackson, Miss.

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Record floodwaters poured over sections of the Pearl River levee today, turning more parking lots, front lawns and open fields into lakes and more Jackson residents into refugees.

About 80 miles downstream, a crest of about 27.5 feet was forecast for Friday or Saturday at the city of Columbia, where flood stage is 18 feet. Officials said they expected about 2,000 people would have to be evacuated.

WAR ON WATER — Crews work to strengthen a levee around a key electric substation in Jackson, Miss., which is threatened by floodwaters from the rampaging Pearl River. Three substations serving downtown Jackson were lost to high water earlier and officials say loss of this facility would cut power to much of the downtown area. (AP Laserphoto)

Collision Killed 3

WILLIAMSTON COLLISION KILLS THREE — Three persons were killed and three others injured Monday on U.S. 13-44 when two cars collided head-on. Trooper Robert H. Wright said the accident occurred when Thomas Bunting of Greensboro, apparently attempted to pass another westbound car about one mile west of Williamston. Bunting's car collided head-on with a car driven by Georgia Keith-Lucas, of Chapel Hill. Bunting and Mrs. Keith-Lucas were killed along with the wife of Mrs. Keith-Lucas' husband's brother, Dorothy D. Keith-Lucas of Manor Close, Emberton, England. The husbands of the two deceased women were injured, one of them critically. Bunting's wife, Dana, was slightly injured, but was not hospitalized. (Photo By Roy Hardee)

Israeli Guns Pound PLO Bases In Lebanon After Guerrilla Raids

By LARRY THORSON Associated Press Writer TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli guns were reported pounding Palestinian guerrillas in southern Lebanon today after a guerrilla raid across the border during the night in which the Israelis said all six raiders were killed. An army spokesman said an Israeli soldier was also killed and six others were wounded in the battle when the six Palestinians were intercepted about 11 p.m. Monday near Zarit, an Israeli border village 12 miles east of the Mediterranean coast.

It was the second attempt by Palestinian guerrillas to infiltrate into Israel within 48 hours. An army patrol on Easter morning killed four guerrillas from Jordan who crossed the Jordan River and were intercepted about 50 miles north of Jerusalem. No Israeli casualties were reported in that clash. Another terrorist attempt was reported in Jerusalem, where a bomb exploded on a municipal bus about noon. But a passenger spotted the parcel, everyone got off just before the explosion, and no one was hurt. The bus was damaged.

Newspaper Says HEW Willing To Reduce Demands On UNC

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is willing to reduce its demands on the University of North Carolina system in the continuing controversy over desegregation, according to a newspaper report.

The Charlotte Observer said in today's editions it had learned the government would settle the dispute if the state agrees to spend from $40 to $50 million over the next five years to improve the five traditionally black campuses of the UNC system.

The newspaper said the latest spending figure was disclosed in an interview with a high ranking HEW official, who was not named. Earlier reports indicated that HEW wanted the UNC system to spend in the neighborhood of $90 million on the schools.

The $90 million is about the amount of annual federal aid to the UNC system, which it stands to lose if agreement cannot be reached on a desegregation plan.

A spokeswoman for HEW's Office of Civil Rights denied it would settle for a $50 million outlay. Colleen O'Connor said there was nothing to the report.

The university has offered to spend $21 million in the next five years to improve the black schools — North Carolina A&T State University, Winston-Salem State, Elizabeth City State, North Carolina Central and Fayetteville State.

"If they'd said $50 million instead of $21 million, we would have settled," the HEW official was quoted as saying. However, HEW has not told the university it would settle for $50 million, the official reportedly added, for fear UNC would regard it as an attempt to dictate exactly what the university should do.

HEW and the university have acknowledged that the UNC system receives about $90 million a year in federal funds, but the Observer said it learned from an examination of federal records that the funding is about $125 million, and probably higher.

HEW officials have said a court would have to decide how much money to cut off. On March 26, HEW Secretary Joseph Califano said he would begin formal proceedings against the university in 30 days if agreement had not been reached.

The awards, established by the late Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the defunct New York World, have been awarded since 1917. This year the rules were changed so that nominating juries submitted their choices in each category alphabetically, not in order of preference.

The Pulitzer Advisory Board, whose role had always been more than advisory, renamed itself the Pulitzer Prize Board and picked the final winners. The awards are administered by Columbia University.

Each winner gets a $1,000 prize except in the public service category, in which the prize is a gold medal.

A new award for feature writing went to Jon D. Franklin, science writer for the Baltimore Evening Sun, for a twopart account of brain surgery.

Photography awards went to Thomas J. Kelly III of the Pottstown, Pa., Mercury in the spot news category for a series of pictures of a hostage situation; and to staff photographers of the Boston Herald American in the feature photography category for their work during their city's worst snowstorm in February 1978.

In the arts category, the nonfiction award went to Edward O. Wilson, Harvard entomologist, for "On Human Nature," and the biography prize was won by Leonard Baker for his "Days of Sorrow and Pain: Leo Baeck and the Berlin Jews."

The history award went to Don E. Fehrenbacher, Stanford University professor, for "The Dred Scott Case."

Joseph Schwantner, associate professor of composition at the Eastman School of Music in Rochester, won the music award for "Aftertones of Infinity," first performed in New York last January.

Other journalism awards went to Edwin M. Yoder Jr., for his editorials in the Washington Star; to Russell Baker in the commentary category for his humorous columns in The New York Times, and to Paul Gapp of the Chicago Tribune in the field of criticism for his writings on architecture.

A two-time winner was James Risser, Washington bureau chief of the Des Moines Register, whose seven-part series on pollution by farmers took the national reporting prize. He got the same award only three years ago for a series on grain inspection.

The general local reporting prize went to the San Diego Evening Tribune for its coverage of the nation's worst air disaster, the Sept. 25 midair collision that occurred only 28 minutes before the paper's first edition deadline.

The special local reporting award went to Gilbert M. Gaul and Elliott G. Jaspin of the Pottsville, Pa., Republican for a year-long investigation into the folding of the Blue Coal Corp., once a leading anthracite producer.

'Concerned' By 3 Plants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Three Mile Island nuclear power plant and others built by Babcock & Wilcox have a basic design that makes them less tolerant of mistakes and harder to control if something goes wrong, a Nuclear Regulatory staff official says.

Darrell G. Eisenhut, deputy director of the division of operating reactors, said in a recent interview, that Babcock & Wilcox plants use only one-third as much water as competing designs to generate steam, leaving less capacity to cool the reactor if normal circulation breaks down.

Insufficient cooling can damage the reactor core, as happened at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania, raising the threat of a melt-down which would release large amounts of radioactivity to the atmosphere.

In reports made public Monday by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, operators of Babcock & Wilcox plants related instances in which boilers actually did run dry in minutes, as Eisenhut had suggested they would.

After the accident at Three Mile Island, the NRC instructed plant operators to review similar, though less serious, incidents at other Babcock & Wilcox plants.

Park Service Role Assailed

BEAUFORT, N.C. (AP) — From its intention to ban vehicles on the Core Banks to a decision to allow erosion to wash away the Cape Lookout Lighthouse, the National Park Service has done more to irritate people than to help them, according to some coastal Carter County residents.

"What have they done for the good?" asked Cab Ramsey, manager of Grayson's Motel and Marina on Harkers Island, located near Cape Lookout.

Ramsey believes the motel's business, which is mostly fishermen, has been hurt since the park service took over Cape Lookout, Core Banks and Shackleford Banks in 1976.

But the park service claims it has accomplished much and said its efforts will open the 28,000 acres of the banks to far more people than before.

One particular sore point with Ramsey and others who depend on the fishermen for their economic livelihood is the park service's intention to ban vehicles from the Core Banks.

"That bank is for fishing," said John Rossi, 58, a retired Army colonel. "There is only one way to fish. That's to follow your birds. You've got to have something to move in. The fish come to the shore and the birds follow. You just don't walk over the banks with your fishing gear."

Along Core Banks, where fishing is said to be best, rusted-out cars and ghetto-like groups of shacks dot the beach. They were left by fishermen who ferried them over from the mainland, used them when the fish ran in the fall and abandoned them.

Bruce Weber, chief of interpretation for Cape Lookout Park, said according to responses he has received, most people approve of what the park service is doing.

He said the park service requires the state to haul away the abandoned cars, the shacks are being razed and the banks are acquiring a reputation as a place for everyone — not just fishermen.

Carter Asks Congress Set Aside 64,800 Acres In Western N.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has asked Congress to set aside 64,800 acres in the mountains of western North Carolina as wilderness areas.

The new wilderness areas, protected by law from construction of roads, exploitation of natural resources and other development, would be part of 15.4 million acres across the nation that Carter recommended for the designation.

At the same time, the president cleared the way for energy exploration, logging and other commercial activity on 114,600 acres in North Carolina by declining to seek wilderness designation for it. He suggested that further study be given the use of another 23,800 acres.

The recommendations for North Carolina are similar to those proposed by U.S. Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland earlier this year following extensive study as part of RARE II - Roadless Areas Review - by federal officials.

The question of wilderness designation has stirred a heated controversy between loggers and environmental groups in western North Carolina.

During a series of hearings in several mountain counties last year, loggers disrupted meetings and charged that giving wilderness designation to large areas would disrupt the timber industry and erode the tax base of some rural counties.

The Agriculture Department had recommended that wilderness designation be given about 18,000 acres in the Nantahala National Forest, about 17,000 acres in Pisgah National Forest, about 5,700 acres in the Uwharrie National Forest and about 26,000 acres of Croatan National Forest.

Congress must decide whether to give the wilderness designation to each of the areas on an individual basis.

Wind Spurs Forest Fire

By The Associated Press
Forest fires worsened by gusty winds charred acreage in counties at opposite ends of the state, authorities said Monday.

The worst blaze was in Brunswick County in eastern North Carolina. As many as 1,000 acres — most of it owned by International Paper Co. — were destroyed in the fire near Wilmington.

Smoke reduced visibility on U.S. 17, which was clogged with holiday travelers, and blocked traffic for about 40 minutes.

"This was one of those we had to throw everything we had at," said George C. Black, operations officer for the N.C. Division of Forest Resources district office in Whiteville. "It was tough and go for awhile." Firefighters battled the blaze from about midday to 5:30 p.m. before bringing it under control. The fire blackened a path about two miles long and was contained at U.S. 17.

"I'm just glad we could stop it where we did," Blake said. "No homes were damaged, although a few residences were threatened at times."

Six volunteer fire departments from Brunswick and New Hanover counties aided some 40 men from the U.S. Forest Service in battling the blaze. From the air, fire retardants were dropped from two large aerial tankers and three small air tankers.

In Cherokee County in western North Carolina, firefighters battled two blazes. One consumed about 20 acres while the other charred about seven acres.

Both fires were brought under control by late afternoon.

High winds and dry conditions hampered firefighting efforts.

Water Suppliers To Meet On April 26

Owners and operators of public water supply systems in Pitt County are invited to a meeting about federal laws and regulations governing such systems.

The meeting will be held Thursday, Apr. 26, in the Conference Room of the Pitt Co. Health Dept., 1825 W. Sixth St., Greenville. The meeting is being held by the N. C. Division of Health Services Water Supply Branch, in cooperation with the Environmental Health Division of the Pitt County Health Dept. Mike Bell and Jim Wisely from the Div. of Health Services will be among the main speakers.

Waster systems serving 10 or more connections in North Carolina are affected by state and federal law and owners and operators have certain legal responsibilities to make sure that safe drinking water is supplied to the users of the systems.

The meeting will deal primarily with sampling techniques, how to read results of tests and samples, and the federal law concerning monitoring.

Dear Abby

Proper Wearing Of Wedding Ring Set

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know the correct way to wear my wedding ring set. Which ring goes on first—the engagement ring or the wedding band? And what is the reason for it?

MRS. W.W.

DEAR MRS. W.: The wedding band goes on first. I don't know the reason for it, but I like to think that the wedding ring is closer to the heart.

DEAR ABBY: I am 19 and have a year-old girl. Her father liked to sleep with me but didn't like the responsibility of being a father, so he left.

I swore I'd never get involved with another man like him again.

Now I have a man who is just the opposite. He wants the responsibility of being a father but doesn't like to sleep with me.

He's a businessman who says he's got business on his mind constantly and never thinks about making love.

We've been living together for a year and he's slept with me only twice. He told me he doesn't think we will ever sleep together again. He's loyal, stays home most of the time, doesn't drink, and is a good man. We work together in his store.

Do you think we will make it together?

CONFUSED IN MASS.

DEAR CONFUSED: All that's necessary for two people to "make it together" is for each to need the other. If you can live happily without sleeping with him, and he can live happily with things the way they are, there's no reason why you can't make it.

DEAR ABBY: When Randy first started to date, he'd say: "The girl has no curfew, and I have to be in before SHE does. It's embarrassing."

Randy is our 16-year-old son, and I'd like to know what the parents of teen-age girls are thinking of.

We're not unreasonable, Abby. We ask Randy to leave the girl's house at 10 p.m. on school nights and 1 a.m. on weekends. If he's going to be held up for any reason, all we ask is a phone call.

This girl he has been seeing a lot of lately has just turned 16. She is under no restrictions on dating. Even when nothing special is planned, she asks Randy to come over and just sit around. Needless to say, we are in a constant state of worry. Our son has had a good upbringing, but even nice kids fall in love and get carried away. I'm afraid they're playing with fire. If Randy came to us and said he wanted to get married before he finished his education, we'd be heart sick.

Abby, please, please tell parents of girls to help parents of boys by curbing those dates and long hours! We love our children, and their well-being is the responsibility of both sets of parents. If this is too long to print, maybe you can shorten it and say it better.

RANDY'S WORRIED PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: I couldn't have said it any better, and I'm printing every word.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Robot Offers Nutrition Advice

NUTLEY, N.J. (AP) — Traveling coast-to-coast to visit six cities in six weeks is not an easy trip for anyone, but it's especially complicated if you happen to be a 400-pound, remote-controlled robot.

There's the need for specially designed vehicles, the confusion of traveling in the baggage compartments of airplanes, the inconvenience of batteries that need daily charging, the danger of shorting electric body circuits in the rain, the problem of bolts that come loose over bumpy roads, and the inability to climb steps.

Since his first nationwide tour last fall in a rented high-roof van, Nutro, a robot whose name was suggested by a combination of the words nutrition and robot, has solved some of his traveling problems.

For his spring tour of eight cities, he will travel as a U.S. symbol for the International Year of the Child, as it relates to children's rights to adequate nutrition, in his personal, custom-made van.

It features a hydraulic lift to ease Nutro's exit to the street and a special outlet that runs off the van's alternator to provide on-the-road battery recharging.

Nutro, a creation of the Vitamin Education Program of Hoffmann-La Roche Inc., as a public-service, nutrition-education program, is touring as a "guest lecturer" on the subject of nutrition. His message, delivered in schools across the country, is on the importance of proper nutrition and correct nutrition information.

The 5-foot-2, 31-inch-wide, conical-shaped robot has a moveable globe head, red light-bulb eyes and flexible accordion-like arms. His wood and metal frame is clothed in a combination of yellow spandex and red and blue glittery lurex fabric. It houses over 500 moving parts and 2,000 feet of wire.

Nutro's head moves from side to side and can soar 12 inches skyward when he explains how excited he is about nutrition. His chest lights up to emphasize the essential nutrients printed on his chest wall. He can wave and shake hands.

Nutro may be the most heavily insured teacher's aide around. His voice alone is insured for $150,000 with Lloyds of London, and monthly premiums on protecting his body and his program total $600. The construction bill was $25,000, and an identical stand-in cost $20,000.

Traveling the country is rarely easy for Nutro but it is never lonely. He is always accompanied by Joe Wilkenson, his technician, and Dave Canty, a Ph.D.-candidate nutritionist who serves as his voice and remote-control operator.

In his first tour, Nutro traveled completely assembled inside his original shipping crate. Every night when his companions checked into motels, he went along, sharing a room with his technician, and plugged into electric outlets to recharge his batteries. Meanwhile, his 9-volt voice box was being charged in another outlet and his 12-volt remote-control equipment in a third.

Exiting from his van on a makeshift ramp was a clumsy process during last year's 8,000-mile tour. Sometimes Nutro was wheeled down the ramp but at other times, particularly when a crowd of curious children had gathered, he moved down the ramp on his pneumatic tires under his own power, with Canty working the remote controls.

If there are special problems in traveling with a robot there are also special privileges. None of the motels where Nutro stayed charged him for his visits despite all the electric current he used for his batteries.

Although Nutro's favorite topic of conversation is nutrition, Canty admits that the robot has developed into a unique character with a personality of his own during his months on the road.

In his Munchkin-like voice, he teases motel maids by telling them that he is the replacement sent to take over their jobs.

And although most of his time is spent in schools and the children's wards of hospitals, Nutro has also found time to try out his John Wayne imitation at a Hollywood party, learn to wolf whistle, and do what he calls a "funky robot disco" at a chic Manhattan nightclub.

TRAVELING COMPANIONS—Nutritionist Dave Canty serves as voice and remote-control operator for Nutro, a 400-pound robot who tours the country speaking to children on the subject of proper nutrition.

JUSTAMINUTE (jus-ta-min-ite), compl. sentence. (a) Unit of time used by children spanning 60 seconds to infinity. (b) Verb prolonging chore or whatever is being done at the moment. Slang: "Get off my case and do it yourself!"

The word isn't in any unabridged dictionary, but it is known to every parent who ever asked their children to do anything.

"When are you going to do the dishes?"

"Justaminate."

"Did you do your homework?"

"Justaminate."

"Are you going to get off that phone?"

"Justaminate."

Children learned a long time ago how effective a tool "Justaminate" can be. By simply uttering the word, they discovered that the table could get set while they were on the phone. The groceries could be unloaded from the car while they were in the bathroom. Their bed could get made while they were playing ball.

Some parents have learned to live with Justaminate. There is a feeling that if you can't break the code, you might just as well give in.

I belong to the death-by-nagging school whose disciples stand around and whine, "Your minute is up!" "You said that ten minutes ago" or "I'm waiting!"

Of course it didn't shave one second off that magical Justaminate.

But my new word did. I founded a word called, "I'LLSEE" (aisle-see) compl. sentence. (a) Giving indication that some consideration will be given to a request, (b) Prolonging a decision on something of importance to someone else. Slang: "It'll never happen."

I'llsee confounded and frustrated children just as much as Justaminate confounded me.

"Can I go to Peg's party?"

"I'llsee."

"Will you have time to shrink these jeans before I wear them?"

"I'llsee."

We've played the game for years. The other night, I told my son to take out the garbage. He jumped up and said, "Yes. Can I have the car tonight?"

I said, "Yes."

Imagine. Our first adverb in 20 years.

How To Save Buying Meat

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

All meat costs plenty these days. "But," says my friend Elizabeth Alston, "you can use the cuts that cost the least in ingenious ways." Roasts, chops and steaks are for special occasions.

Elizabeth is Food Editor of Redbook and she proves her point in the current (February, 1979) issue of the magazine, in a feature called "How to Cook Less Costly Cuts of Meat." Although Elizabeth gives the thrickest cuts of beef and pork their due, her choice of lamb recipes is particularly interesting. Americans are traditionally less adept at cooking lamb than other meats, and that's why we single it out.

One of the Redbook recipes is for Lamb Riblets with Honey-Mustard Glaze, and when we tasted it we felt sure you would enjoy it, too. We hope our hunch is right!

LAMB RIBLETS WITH HONEY-MUSTARD GLAZE
3 pounds lamb riblets
Water

1/2 cup honey
1/2 cup Dijon-style mustard
2 tablespoons curry powder
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1 teaspoon minced, peeled garlic
1 teaspoon salt

Put riblets in a large saucepot and add water to cover. Bring to a boil over moderately high heat and boil 30 minutes. Drain riblets and place in a single layer in a baking pan about 13 by 9 inches. Heat oven to 325 degrees. Mix remaining ingredients in a small bowl. Spoon half the honey mixture over the riblets and bake 30 minutes. Turn riblets and spoon on remaining sauce. Bake 30 minutes longer, until riblets are tender. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Per one fourth of recipe: 380 calories, 30 grams protein, 14 grams fat, 37 grams carbohydrate.

DEAR ABBY: A lady I knew (not well) passed away, leaving a husband and two children. I want to express my sympathy to the husband and let him know that I'm available to do whatever I can to help him through his time of sorrow.

I know him only to say "hi" to. He is very well fixed financially. Attractive, too, so I'm sure there will be a lot of women after him.

I'm a divorcee, new in town, and I don't want to appear too forward or he might get the wrong idea.

I would like to write him a sympathy note that will be out of the ordinary. Something witty or eloquent. Any suggestions along that line?

VIRGO LADY

DEAR VIRGO: If you didn't know the lady well, and know her husband only to say "hi" to, write a brief condolence note. Don't try for wit or eloquence. And please restrain your eagerness to help him through his time of sorrow, or it won't be the "wrong" idea but the right one that might cause him to think you're after him, too.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are planning to take our first vacation away from our children. We have a 17-year-old son and two daughters, 8 and 11.

We're leaving the girls with relatives, and our problem is what to do about our son. He assures us he is able to stay home alone, and wants to.

We trust our son, but I tend to be on the nervous side and don't know if I could handle it if anything were to happen to him while we were away. He's a good kid who does what he's told—if I'm around to check on him. His father has always left the discipline and raising of the kids to me, but Dad has a short fuse and, if anything goes wrong, it's my fault.

In your opinion, should we leave our son alone in the house for 10 days.

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: Your letter suggests that you lack sufficient confidence in your son to insure a worry-free vacation—otherwise why would you have written to me?

A good rule to follow: When in doubt—DON'T.

The teen years are the questioning years. Abby has the answers to all your questions in her booklet, "What Teenagers Want to Know." Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope.

Proof Will Be In Showrooms

So you want an answer to the high cost of gas. Ralph Moody of the auto racing world may have found it. Moody has modified a 1979 Mercury Capri and put it through tests which saw it get 84 miles per gallon. Moody says the exhaust is four times cleaner than anything else running today, it runs like a "hot rod", and "we've only scratched the surface on fuel mileage." He foresees engines that get 100 miles per gallon, and with smaller cars, maybe far more. The Moody car is still top secret but the high miles-per-gallon obviously is tied in with the fuel-to-air-mixture that is ignited in the engine. . . and that goes beyond what the engineers in the auto industry think is possible.

Moody anticipates the production of 2,000 models of the cars and he expects there will be demand for many, many more. There have been rumors for as long as autos have been around of experimental cars which get 50 or more miles to the gallon. Detroit engineers have either denied them or maintained that such cars were impractical for public use . . . but then that has been through an era when fuel was cheap and plentiful. With fuel costs soaring we can bet that someone will produce the 50-to-100 mile per gallon automobile, if it is possible to do so. Perhaps Ralph Moody, with his years of auto racing experience, has done so. The convincing will come when such cars are available in dealer's showrooms.

Freeway Loss Posed A Big Obstacle

North Carolina can breathe a sigh of relief with the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency's decision to drop objections to the location of a proposed Benson-to-Wilmington freeway. It was agreed that the state would construct bridges over environmentally sensitive areas.

The freeway will be helpful to development of the Wilmington port and EPA objections could have held it up for years. It could have perhaps meant the loss of the federal funds allocated to the project. Now things look better for the freeway.

Class-Size Debate Data

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — The pressure is on the General Assembly to come up with a program to reduce class size in the public schools to no more than 26 pupils per teacher; if not this year, then in additional reductions in coming years. If nothing else will serve, then the total cost of such a proposal should help bring to public attention the developing battle.

Debate
Governor Jim Hunt has wondered if class size is a reliable gauge of a school's performance, and has been mulling the thought that in some classroom subjects, large groups of students could be well taught, while in other subjects even smaller groups would then be possible. Numerous classroom teachers maintain that class size is critical to maintaining discipline and a learning atmosphere. The North Carolina Association of Educators has pushed reduced class size vigorously, but it is clear that one of the reasons for this posture is declining school enrollment which would otherwise result in fewer jobs for teachers. The fact is that nowhere has there come together all of the information which is needed to make a logical decision on the obviously expensive step of further reducing classroom size in North Carolina. The question is loaded with political, fiscal and educational dynamite. North Carolina has a law limiting class size in lower three grades and kindergarten to 26 students. The proposed budget would have expanded the smaller class size to grades four through eight. The report of the legislative commission chaired by State Rep. G. Malcolm Fulcher, Jr. of Morehead City recommended an across-the-board reduction to 26 pupils. Now a subcommittee chaired by State Rep. J.P. Huskins of Statesville is suggesting as a step forward, without going all the way, that class size in grades four-through-eight be limited to 30 pupils at a cost of $7.3 million per year. Alternatives Facing the obvious fact that the state doesn't have enough money to reduce all class sizes, Huskins asked the Department of Public Instruction to give cost figures on the various alternatives. It would take a ratio of one teacher for each 23 students to guarantee a maximum class size of 26. That is due to student fluctuation and the absence of uniform distribution of school population. In grades nine through 12 it would cost an added $60.4 million; in the middle grades another $76.3 million; and in kindergarten through grade three it would cost $27 million. To reduce high schools to 30 students per teacher would require 379 more teachers and cost $5.7 million. In grades four through eight it will take 478 added teachers at a cost of $7.3 million per year. The middle grade reduction is the present step which is being recommended by the subcommittee to the Education Committee of the General Assembly.

Figures compiled by the Department of Public Instruction show a total cost of $163.7 million per year . . . nearly 10 percent of the entire amount now spent in the public schools. Yet on almost all sides, the needed public debate over classroom size is either being avoided, or muted. Larry Harding, a member of the state Board of Education from Charlotte, has expressed doubts that educational benefit from reduced size can be demonstrated. Educators have not been able to counter with demonstrated advances.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Iran—Economic Chaos?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
TEHRAN — Leading Iran's revolutionary problems is the onset of economic anarchy which, if not stopped quickly, will cost the newborn Islamic Republic all chance to consolidate its revolution. A Korean construction firm recently got an order from the unofficial "committee" that oversees it to hire 2,000 Iranian workers. Yet, unpaid bills owed to it by the government were piled high in the firm's "accounts receivable." The chief engineer of a European firm with a government contract had his passport lifted. Offense: the firm's failure to pay its Iranian workers, which was due to the same phenomenon of uncollected bills owed by the government. Such madcap methods of coercing foreign concerns to lubricate the cash-shy economy are routine. Following the general strike and the immense dislocations of a violent revolution which cost billions in unproduced oil, the Iranian economy has not begun to revive. Some western authorities wonder whether it can. The staggeringly complex problem of doubling agricultural production, following decades of Iranian peasant farmers drawn to the cities by promise of quick rewards, is one of the dificulties. Just how difficult was made clear by Deputy Prime Minister Amir Entezam. "We will make Iran self-sufficient in agriculture," he told us. "Considering that the shah imported $8 billion in food in the single year of 1977, you can see the problem." Such huge imports of food, Entezam said, sacrificed domestic agriculture and were specifically tied to the shah's pro-American policy of relieving horrendous U.S. trade deficits. American officials flatly disagree, claiming that food imports were nowhere near that high and that the allocation of labor from farm to city was part of the shah's plan to jerk Iran into the industrial age and give it enough muscle to stay healthy when the oil runs out. Inflation here makes the U.S. cost of living look horizontal. Estimates vary from 50 to 150 percent. With fresh meat pegged at an official rate of about $1 a pound, a black market is thriving at prices three times that rate. Oranges, an Iranian staple, have tripled in price. This is true despite high unemployment. In Tehran alone estimated at more than one million. The mushrooming "committees," ostensibly controlled by Ayatollah Khomeini but operating virtually independently of the government, run almost everything. They exert power over business and industry through "workers' councils." Tens of thousands of workers who marched against the shah's guns have not yet returned to drab life at the lathe or in the counting house. The partial exception is in the lucrative oil fields. Production is holding fairly steady, not at the claimed 2.5 to 3 million barrels a day but around 2.2 million barrels. That is far less than half the pre-revolution rate. Boosting oil production to sell to the famished world market offers the best immediate salvation. Economic crises are the offspring of most revolutions. What worries economic managers is the lethal political implications of con-

Strength For Today
CIVILIZATION AND UNSELFISHNESS
A recent writer has defined civilization as the necessary adjustment of rights and duties, the harmonizing of interests of the individual and the group. What this writer is saying is that the more civilized we become, the more we learn how to compromise what we consider to be our individual rights and desires in order that others may have a fair chance to have their rights and desires fulfilled. Almost 75 years ago New York City newspapers flamed with indignation because a traffic officer had been stationed at the intersection of Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street. "What are we coming to," cried the editor of one paper; "This is an incredible invasion of personal liberty!" An invasion of personal liberty, yes, but necessary to vindicate the liberty of others. And who would be free in driving his car today if all traffic lights were turned off? Elisha Douglass

Fragile Guide Lines

By OWEN ULLMANN
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a new numbers game in town. Some call it The New Math; others, the Do-It-Yourself Guidelines. President Carter's inflation adviser calls it Funny Estimating.

It's not really a game, of course. It's very serious, this government effort to reverse a spiraling inflation. Big unions, big business, big dollars are involved. As announced last October by President Carter, the "voluntary" rules, or guidelines, are these: price increases over the next year should be smaller than increases in the two previous years; increases in labor costs, including wages, cost-of-living adjustments and fringe benefits, should be held to 7 percent a year. Some players, mostly unions, cried foul from the start. They complained that the price guideline is vague and impossible to enforce, but that the wage figure is too rigid and will turn employers into 7 percent enforcers. Not so, replied Labor Secretary Ray Marshall, chief administration inflation fighter Alfred Kahn and other Carter economic advisers. The wage guideline, they said, was designed to be elastic so workers would be protected from rising inflation if the government's first moves to slow price rises failed. There were several built-in loopholes. The rules allow a union to negotiate a contract with unlimited cost-of-living raises. The result could be a contract with raises of more than 7 percent a year if inflation is high. But if the added money comes from cost-of-living clauses, the package still would meet the guideline. Another rule says a union is entitled to a pay boost of more than 7 percent a year to maintain historical parity with a contract negotiated before the guidelines took effect.

Senators Slam A Door

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK
WASHINGTON — Just before it adjourned for Easter, thus giving implied recognition to the holiest day in the Christian calendar, the Senate voted to scuttle an effort by Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina to let public-school children pray if they want to. The senator is a stubborn man. His amendment, like Lazarus, will rise again. The sequence of parliamentary events was unusual but not really baffling. On April 5, when the Senate was debating the bill to create a new Department of Education, Helms called up an amendment that took the leadership by surprise. His amendment was adopted 47-37, but before it could be nailed finally into the pending bill (by defeating a motion to reconsider), Majority Leader Robert Byrd compelled a weekend recess. On April 9, after sponsors of the education bill had rallied their forces, the Senate stripped the Helms amendment from the bill and, in a nice hypocritical act of dumb-show, solemnly attached it to a wholly different bill — a bill that is certain to die in the House if it survives in the Senate. The effect was to kill the Helms effort altogether. Granted, the senator was embarked upon a novel — though not an unprecedented — course of action. His amendment would have provided, notwithstanding other provisions of law, that the Supreme Court and other federal courts "shall not have jurisdiction rule, regulation, or any part thereof which relates to voluntary prayers in public schools and public buildings". It is beyond dispute that the Congress has power to fix exceptions to the Supreme Court's appellate jurisdiction. The power is spelled out in Article III of the Constitution in words that any child could understand. From the beginning of the Republic, the high court has operated "under such regulations as the Congress may make." The Norris-LaGuardia Act, defining the Court's jurisdiction in certain labor disputes, is one example of a specific exception. By excluding the Supreme Court and the lower federal courts from hearing cases that relate "to voluntary prayers in public schools and public buildings," the Helms amendment effectively would have left this whole area of controversy to the states. His amendment would have nullified the 1962 cases of Engel v. Vitale and its regrettable progeny. I was among those who supported Mr. Justice Black's opinion in Engel nearly 17 years ago. It then seemed to me wrong for the New York State Regents to compose an "official" prayer and to cause it to be said aloud by each class in the presence of a teacher at the beginning of each school day. Even though New York pupils were not compelled to join in the recitation, I still believe the procedure smacked of a forbidden "establishment of religion". If the courts had stopped with Engel, no great harm might have been done — but subsequent decisions have

Other Editors Say Insensitivity

(Goldsboro News-Argus)
This newspaper has been moved from time to time to praise and be critical of our courts and the people who run them. We have some devoted people in our court system. We have, to our knowledge, no one who does not mean well. Some in our courts have listened with seemingly genuine interest and concern when study committees and private citizens have called attention to weaknesses. But to this day we have incidents, far too frequent, in which the courts operate with a gross insensitivity to people who must be there as witnesses or jurors, or in other capacities. A couple from out of town, summoned as witnesses in a Superior Court murder trial, dutifully appeared in court, reported, as ordered, for three different sessions. In each case, the couple finally was advised that the trial had been postponed. It has not yet been called. The couple notes with understandable concern that although they had both left their jobs — and sacrificed that day's pay — each day they came to court, the defendant in the case did not show up. The message would appear to be that while some one advised the defendant that it wasn't necessary to be present, no one bothered to notify the witnesses. For such a thing to happen once to the same people is perhaps understandable. For it to happen three times raises the question of whether the court officials involved in this case were concerned at all about the inconvenience of people whose same officials had told to be present. It has been argued, and perhaps justifiably so, that the courts cannot operate like a business. But they certainly can operate with sensitivity and courtesy. The District Attorney's office, which performs well during major trials, needs to give attention to the problem lamented this week by the out of town couple. It should not be necessary to remind our officials that the courts are there to serve the people. The people aren't there to serve the courts.

40 Years Ago Today

April 17, 1939
The local Health Department announced today that the pre-school examinations in the county schools will soon be concluded. This annual physical examination for beginners has been endorsed by Superintendent D.H. Conley and local principals and teachers. Who have stated that they realized such physical handicaps as decayed teeth, eye strain, malnutrition, deafness, etc., often interfere with normal school progress. In other words, such handicaps are often responsible for a child's failure to make his grade. The children are also vaccinated against diphtheria and smallpox at the pre-school clinics. The clinics are conducted by Dr. N. Thomas Ennett, health officer, and Miss Mary Ann Crockett and Miss Emily Matthews, health department nurses. The clinics are being held today in Farmville and Fountain. Other clinics will be held Tuesday at Chicod and Thursday at Falkland.

Breaking The Trade Barriers

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — In a period of just five days in Manila, says William McCrea, the executive of a small business "can accomplish more than he could in two years running around the world." During those few days in the Philippines, from June 24 to June 29, hundreds of entrepreneurs, bankers, advisers from large corporations, government officials and others will gather for Project ICONE. The acronym stands for the International Congress on New Enterprise. Out of it, says McCrea, the congress' chairman, small businesses from both emerging and developed nations might find profitable alliances in each other's countries. Businesses in emerging nations can benefit from the knowhow of foreign companies. That's understood. But McCrea explains that small concerns in developed nations also need contacts in emerging nations. ICONE, supported by the Philippines, the U.S. Commerce Department, the U.S. Agency for International Development, Control Data Corp., the World Bank and others, will assemble those who can break such barriers as inability to identify and evaluate opportunities, costs concerns and worries about the mechanics of foreign trade. McCrea, whose idea it is, promises "it will be a concentrated, practical program for those looking for ventures with a partner in other countries. The Seydel Companies of Atlanta will be there, both as student and teacher. Headed by Scott Seydel, the company already is involved in about 20 joint ventures with local partners in developing countries. Seydel is concerned mainly with textiles and textile chemicals, but it is also interested in industrial machinery and agribusiness. Roach Inc., Columbus, Ohio, has signed up. Its international experience is in direct sales of apparel through distributors in many parts of the world. Again, both teacher and student. The same role will be played by The Private Development Corp. of The Philippines, which has been active in more than 50 companies. And the Asham Group, a Nigerian, native-owned conglomerate. About 35 percent of the participants are likely to be the senior executives or presidents of small or medium scale companies from developed countries, with another 35 percent from emerging nations. About 10 percent, perhaps 40 or 50 representatives, are likely to be from large corporations and finance institutions. Another 20 percent probably will be from organizations able to facilitate deals.

Oil Embargo

KUWAIT (AP) — The Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries expelled Egypt from its membership today and announced an embargo on oil shipments to Egypt.

Chairman Omar Al Montasser, the Libyan minister of heavy industries, announced the decision at the end of a two-day OAPEC meeting that was attended by the other nine members of the organization.

Egypt walked out of the meeting Monday.

The move conformed with a decision by the Arab League last month to impose a political and economic boycott against Egypt in retaliation for President Anwar Sadat's signing of a peace treaty with Israel.

The decision to impose an oil embargo on Egypt will mean that Egypt will have to seek some oil supplies from outside the Arab world, its main supplier until the ban was imposed.

Oil industry sources said Egypt produced an average of 90,000 barrels of oil daily during 1978, but it had to import oil from Saudi Arabia to meet its local requirements.

Earlier in the week Egypt was expelled from three Arab financial institutions: the Arab Fund for Social and Economic Development, the Arab Bank for Economic Development in Africa and the Arab Mining Co.

Confusion Continues Despite Five Rulings

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Last week, the Supreme Court heard arguments on the appeals of three death sentences — the Mecklenburg County conviction of Johnny Cherry for murder during an armed robbery, the Cumberland County conviction of Buck Goodman for murder with a kidnapping and robbery and the Wake County conviction of Cardell Spaulding for the slaying of his cellmate while serving a life sentence for a prior murder.

The court has yet to determine how it will carry out its duty to decide if each death sentence is consistent with sentences imposed in other cases.

Questions raised about the law and procedure in the two dozen capital trials since the law went into effect in 1977 include the admission of evidence and the specific instructions given juries prior to deliberation.

In death penalty cases, lawyers challenge both the conviction and the sentence. The Supreme Court must decide when to consider whether the sentence was warranted.

According to law, the court should overturn a death sentence and impose life imprisonment if the sentence is excessive or disproportionate to the penalty imposed in similar cases.

The court may delay making decisions on disproportionality until it is "prepared to make the comparisons required," according to the statute.

Questions by the seven justices in the Cherry case point out that they have not decided how to make those comparisons, which, in turn, makes it difficult for attorneys to address the issue.

After his arguments about error in Cherry's trial were coldly received, defense attorney Mark Michael asked the court to at least set aside the death sentence. Michael said he knew the court would have look at other cases when making the decision.

"What other cases?" asked Justice J. William Copeland. "We haven't got any."

"Up to now, everyone's been other cases, there have been no death penalties affirmed with which the Cherry case could be compared."

Bar Endorses Reappointment

The Pitt County Bar Association has unanimously adopted a resolution endorsing the reappointment of Superior Court Judge Robert R. Browning of Greenville.

The action was taken during the April meeting of the Bar Association. Copies of the resolution are being sent to the Governor and to other Bar Associations in this judicial district, local Bar Association Pres. Danny McNally said.

Judge Browning, a Greenville native, was appointed a Special Superior Court Judge by Gov. James Holshouser in 1973. His term expires June 30, at which time it will be up to Gov. Jim Hunt to reappoint Browning or appoint a successor. Browning is a registered Republican.

McNally commented, "Most of the members of the Association who provided the unanimous vote in favor of Judge Browning's reappointment are registered Democrats. It is my feeling, however, and I believe that of those who voted this way that the filling of this judgeship should go beyond party affiliation, that merit and experience should be uppermost. When you've got a good man in the job you ought to keep him there, I believe."

timed chaos. The noisiest preaching of the Marxist fedayeen — the armed, underground force on the anti-Khomeini extreme left that so far has only barely been kept under control — is that the teachings of Islam lack a foundation for helping workers. The fedayeen are sending agents through the 55,000 villages with this warcry: the new government is hooked on theology; it is betraying the poor.

"The fedayeen are a minority," a powerful Tehran-based ayatollah (spiritual leader) told us. "When they see how well our programs are taking care of the people, they will join us."

That presumes visible progress where today there is none. Cash hoarding and lack of liquidity, we were told by Deputy Prime Minister Ibrahim Yazdi — presently the regime's strong man — will soon be attacked with a public bond sale. But under Khomeini's Koranic law, interest on debt is frowned on, if not illegal.

That is the disorder of the day for the moderate, reasonable men who still dominate the appointed government of Prime Minister Bazargan. With no roots from which to draw and enhance their own power, they are trapped between radical demands of the left and center-left and the Islamic hang-ups of Khomeini, the mystical grandee in Qom who, as father of the revolution, can still call the shots.

Unless the political left is outflanked by speedy economic recovery, requiring extraordinary toughness and imagination by the rootless government, a collision with extremists will be unavoidable, and the mob will move.

That allowed several railroad unions to win contract increases of more than 10 percent a year to keep pace with other rail unions that settled on new contracts last summer.

The giant Teamsters union, however, posed unanticipated problems for the rules. Seven percent a year just would not do, President Frank Fitzsimmons said after Carter announced his program.

As a March 31 negotiating deadline approached, the union insisted it get a 58-cent-an-hour cost-of-living raise based on last year's inflation rate — without having that raise counted toward the guidelines. The administration agreed to exempt 21 cents, giving the union another 1.7 percent raise not charged to the guidelines.

Still not enough. The union nibbled for more and the administration gave in — a nickel here, 22 cents there.

When the union struck on March 31, industry bargainers said their last offer was at the outer edge of the guidelines. Ten days later, when the two sides settled for a little more, the government said the final settlement was at the outer edge of the guidelines.

served matter how totally voluntary it might be. The cure has proved infinitely worse than the disease. When Helms undertakes to restore the possibility for truly voluntary prayer, he merits the support of all those who believe that while governmental establishments of religion must be resisted, the free exercise of religion should be encouraged.

The Senate's action might possibly be explained in terms of the parliamentary situation. Some senators sincerely doubt the wisdom of creating exceptions to the Supreme Court's appellate jurisdiction; other senators feared the Helms amendment would defeat the Department of Education bill. But the Constitution expressly authorizes Helms's approach as a form of restraint upon the judiciary short of a constitutional amendment; and the Department of Education bill is a bad bill to begin with.

Among the 37 senators who opposed Helms's attempt to bring back the possibility of prayer in public schools were Bumpers, Cranston, Culver, Eagleton, Glenn, Gravel, Inouye, Leahy, Nelson and Ribicoff. They bear mention because they're up for reelection next year. Voters may want to keep the fact in mind.

Checkmate. The plastic check that tells everybody you're somebody.

"WHEN I USE A PAPER CHECK, IT TAKES A LOT TO PROVE I'M ME."

"WHEN I USE MY CHECKMATE, EVERYBODY KNOWS I'M SOMEBODY."

When you want to buy something, it can seem like your check's not worth the paper it's printed on. You have to show a driver's license, credit cards, give phone numbers—sometimes even your thumbprint.

All this is not only inconvenient, it can be downright embarrassing. That's why NCNB is introducing Checkmate, the plastic check. It lets you use your NCNB Checking Account just as easily as you use a Visa Card.

The Checkmate card goes through an imprinter just like a credit card. You sign your name, get a receipt. And you're on your way. It's that simple.

You can use Checkmate wherever you see a Visa sign, at 2½ million places, all over town, all over the country and even all over the world. What's more, you can also "cash a check" at any NCNB Banking Machine across North Carolina.

So, if you have a Checking Account with us, ask us about adding Checkmate. If you don't have an NCNB Checking Account, come see us. Soon.

NCNB Checkmate. It's the kind of service that you'd expect from the bank that wants to be the best in the neighborhood.

NCNB CHECKMATE
It tells everybody you're somebody.

Bumper-To-Bumper In Tax Deadline's Derby

By The Associated Press
 As the clock ticked toward midnight, participants in the nation's annual IRS-inspired desperation derby headed toward the finish line — the post office letter box. The winners — to be declared by the Internal Revenue Service — would be determined by how everything added up on the bottom line. Traffic was bumper-to-bumper for blocks around the main post office in Washington, D.C., as the midnight Monday deadline for filing federal tax returns approached. In Chicago, traffic was congested for four blocks east and west of the main post office. And at San Diego, police were called in to help direct traffic as drivers lined up the length of four football fields to post their returns. Neil Michael, operations manager of the Columbus, Ohio, post office, was nearly late for work at 9:30 p.m. — he was caught in the traffic jam. He said the steady stream of cars this year seemed heavier than last year. Inside Washington's main post office, there was a twist to the usual filing deadline event. "It's bad enough that they line up here to mail their returns," one security guard said. "But they're coming in here just to pick up the blank forms." The most popular form of the night was out of stock by 10 p.m. — "Form 4868, Application for Automatic Extension of Time to the U.S. Individual Income Tax Return." "Scalpers could make money on those," one postal inspector said. "If my memory was better, I know I'd actually recognize the same people in here at midnight year after year," said the inspector, who asked not to be named. "It's amazing to watch people standing in the post office filling out their income tax returns at 11 o'clock at night." An estimated 10,000 last-minute filers turned up at the Chicago post office and one of them, suburban Bill Bobzin of the River Forest, said, "I knew I had to pay, so I might as well keep my money as long as I can."

Student Loan Suits

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Winston-Salem State University has filed 41 lawsuits against some former students in an attempt to collect money the school says they owe to repay National Direct Student Loans. Some of the loans were due nearly nine years ago while others were due last year. The amounts range up to $2,000. According to the suit, the students owe nearly $42,000. The federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare reported last month that schools in North Carolina had a default rate of 23 percent on National Direct Student Loans as of last June 30. The national rate was 17.4 percent. Winston-Salem State's default rate was 43.8 percent. "The only reason that large a number of cases were filed in Forsyth County was that it's been a year and a half since we filed any for Winston-Salem State," said Frances Gill, a special deputy in the attorney general's office. "The reasons the ones that are now filed have been is that I've been able to get some temporary help." Ms. Gill added. "We will be filing a whole lot more of them between now and July 1." Last fiscal year, the attorney general's office received 4,500 new accounts from the schools. They sued about 300 delinquent debtors. Turning over accounts to the attorney general's office is almost the last resort for schools. HEW has ordered them to cut their default rates and will accept accounts they can collect. But in order for HEW to accept an account, the school must provide documentation that it has followed strict guidelines in trying to collect.

Tobacco Plants Aided By Recent Warm Days

According to Leroy James, chairman of the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service, the past two nights of cool weather have not been good for tobacco plants, but the warm days have helped in keeping the planting situation under control. "This is nothing new," James said of the cool night weather. "It happens every year. But things look really bright here in Pitt County since we've had these warm days." According to the Water Department of the Greenville Utilities Commission, Easter Sunday's temperature reached 75 degrees Fahrenheit, with a low reading of 47 degrees. Monday was a little cooler with a high of 66 degrees and a low of 40 degrees. "So far, things have gone really well here in the county," James noted. "Farmers have planted probably 60-70 percent of their corn, with tobacco planting moving along." "We might have to do a little resetting of tobacco plants if the cool night weather continues," said James. "We have ample tobacco plants and I think farmers have taken care of those wireworms. Let's just hope for some warm nights to go along with these warm days." No rainfall had been recorded Sunday or Monday according to the GUC Water Department, with the river measured Sunday at 6.7 feet on the national scale and 7.2 feet Monday.

Bridge-Jumper
 MOREHEAD CITY — The Morehead City Police Department reported that a 52-year-old woman who jumped from the top of the high-rise Morehead City-Beaufort Bridge yesterday was dead on arrival at Carter General Hospital. Spokesmen identified the woman as May Wilson Davis of Pine Knoll Shores. Investigators said Mrs. Davis parked her car at the top of the bridge and jumped into the water some 65 to 75 feet below, about 5:05 p.m. Monday. Officers said she was pulled from the water by passing fishermen and taken to the hospital where she was pronounced dead on arrival. Investigation of the death is continuing, officials noted.

Miller Optimistic Over The Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — G. William Miller, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, says the economy is already slowing down nicely, although inflation will continue to plague consumers for several more months at least. "We'll have bad news on prices pretty much for the whole first half of the year," Miller said in an interview Monday. Consumer prices increased 1.2 percent in February. Miller said he believes the Federal Reserve is already following the correct policies to restrain the economy and inflation and that further tightening of the economy would risk a serious recession. "We're in the range of prudence," he said. Miller said it takes from six to 18 months for policies to work and that policies now in place probably won't show up in a lower inflation rate until the second half of the year. The Fed chairman indicated he has no intention of yielding to pressures from some members of the Carter administration to push interest rates higher to slow the economy and help fight inflation. He said inflation itself is helping slow the economy — especially higher prices for food, energy and housing, over which the government has little control.

Plan Appeal Invalidation

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Ramsey County attorney's office says it will appeal to the Minnesota Supreme Court a judge's ruling invalidating an unconstitutional Minnesota law holding fathers solely responsible for the support of illegitimate children. The ruling Monday by Judge Joseph Summers of Ramsey District Court was based on the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment. It was in response to four paternity cases brought by the county to try to recover from the fathers funds which the welfare department had paid to mothers. Under the law, a mother was responsible for raising the children and a father was responsible for their financial support. The objectives for the tour and seminar are to allow engineers and plant managers associated with non-wood products and other industries and organizations to learn more about the feasibility of burning wood for production of process steam or direct heat. Emphasis will be placed on boiler sizes ranging from 20,000 to 200,000 pounds of steam per hour. For more information on the seminar, call Sam Uzzell, Pitt County Agricultural Extension office, 758-1196.

There were 64 injuries and 88 arrests Sunday. At least 60 complaints of police misconduct were filed Monday, LaMunyon said.

Harrah's Homer Wins For Cleveland

Gotcha Houston Astros second baseman Art Howe, still hanging on to Los Angeles Dodger Steve Garvey, looks toward first base after forcing Garvey at second on a grounder by Ron Cey. Howe made the throw in time to get Cey in the second inning. (AP Laserphoto)

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer While Fred Lynn continues to crack pitches, Toby Harrah is just happy to break the ice. "I've been hitting the ball hard all year and coming up with nothing," said the Cleveland Indian third baseman after finally seeing one of his shots turn into something. Harrah hit a two-run homer Monday to help the Indians take a 4-3 decision over the Boston Red Sox. "It was just a matter of time," added Harrah, who incidentally accounted for his team's first homer of the year as well. The same might have been said of Rick Wise, who won his first game of the year after two losses. "It's been a long time for that win," noted Wise. "It just feels gratifying." Lynn, meanwhile, continued his home run assault, hitting his fifth of the young season — all of them off Cleveland pitching. Harrah's two-run shot keyed a three-run fifth that provided the Indians with their winning margin. Wise surrendered six hits before getting relief help from Sid Monge in the seventh. Tigers 10, Blue Jays 4 Steve Kemp, Aurelio Rodriguez and Alan Trammell drove in two runs each to lead Detroit over Kansas City. Kemp had a two-run single in the second inning and later added a double and a single. Rodriguez singled in a run in the third and knocked in a run in the seventh with a grounder. Trammell singled in two runs in the seventh. Kemp's 3-for-5 performance improved his batting average to a lustrous .467. White Sox 8, Blue Jays 4 Alan Bannister, Lamar Johnson and Bill Naborodny each smacked two-run doubles as Chicago exploded for seven runs in the seventh inning to beat Toronto. Rookie Randy Scarbery picked up the victory in relief in his major league debut. A's 4, Mariners 2 Rob Picciolo got his first two hits of the season, including a game-winning triple in the fourth inning, as Oakland beat Seattle. Picciolo, the A's shortstop, was 0-for-22 before he singled in the second inning. In the fourth, his triple to right-center scored Mike Edwards from third base, breaking a 1-1 tie, and Picciolo came home on a passed ball by catcher Bob Stinson.

Rose Tourney Sets Opening

Bill Lee Fires Two-Hitter At Chicago For Montreal In 2-0 Win

MONTREAL (AP) — Left-hander Bill Lee of the Montreal Expos may be the subject of off-field controversy, but there's no disputing the way he handles himself on the field. Making his home debut at Olympic Stadium, the 32-year-old hurler came within two singles of a no-hitter Monday as the Expos blanked the Chicago Cubs 2-0. Lee recently was fined $250 by Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for discussing his use of marijuana, but left that issue behind as he won his first game of the season. Lee was far from charitable to the Cubs Monday. He lost a perfect game with one out in the sixth on Barry Foote's single. The only other safety off Lee was a ninth-inning base hit by Bill Buckner. In the only other National League game Monday, the Houston Astros defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-0. Rain postponed Philadelphia at Pittsburgh. The first hit off Lee was a controversial one. Ellis Valentine claimed that he caught Foote's sinking liner, but umpire John Baird ruled that he trapped the ball. The Expos got the only run they needed when Warren Cromartie hit a home run in the first inning off Mike Krukow. Gary Carter's RBI single gave Lee an insurance run and chased Krukow, who struck out 10 and walked one in 61-3 innings. Astros 4, Dodgers 0 Ken Forsch hurled a five-hitter to lead Houston over Los Angeles. Forsch, who pitched a no-hitter April 7 against Atlanta, did not allow the Dodgers a hit until two were out in the fifth inning, when Dusty Baker and Rick Monday hit consecutive singles. The Astros scored two runs in the first inning against loser Don Sutton on a walk to Terry Puhl, a triple by Jeff Leonard and a single by Jose Cruz.

Last Ump Resigns

NEW YORK (AP) — "It was the easiest decision of my life," said American League umpire Ted Hendry, who has filed notice that he is terminating his contract to join his 51 non-working colleagues. Hendry, a rookie umpire, had signed a contract with the AL before the current contract dispute began and was advised by the Major League Umpires Association to honor his agreement. He did until last weekend, when he decided to submit his resignation. "I want to be with my brothers," said Hendry, who was greeted warmly by about a dozen umpires who attended a press conference called by attorney Richie Phillips. Hendry said he was embarrassed by the level of officiating he had seen during the two weeks he had worked. "I've been so humiliated," he said. "Most of the guys who are working don't want to work. They're scared. After one game, one of the umps I worked with...I don't know his name...told me a player had cursed him out and called him 'a homer.' I said, 'Why didn't you run him?' He said, 'I've missed some in my time, but that one's easy.' Hendry and Paul Pryor were the only umpires to sign 1979 contracts and begin the season on duty.

Set For Jail Term

DALLAS (AP) — Olympic gold medalist and former Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Bob Hayes has started serving a five-year prison term following his conviction on a charge of selling cocaine to an undercover officer. Prosecutors said Hayes, 36, could be free in 10 months on good behavior. Hayes pleaded guilty last month to selling cocaine in March 1978 to an undercover police officer, and elected to have his sentence set by the judge. State District Judge Richard Mays sentenced Hayes on March 23 to five years each on two counts of selling cocaine, with sentences to run concurrently. He also sentenced Hayes to seven years deferred probation — to be served after he gets out of prison — for selling methaqualone.

Jamesville, Roanoke Win

JAMESVILLE — Roanoke and Jamesville advanced into the finals of the Jamesville Invitational Baseball Tournament yesterday, while Bear Grass was ousted. Roanoke slipped past Tarboro, 2-1, while Jamesville bested Manteo, 7-0. Bear Grass was beaten by Southwest Edgecombe, 6-3.

Today, in the first game at 5 p.m., Southwest will face Tarboro for third place, while the championship game between Jamesville and Roanoke will follow. In the Tarboro-Roanoke game, both teams did all the scoring in the second inning. Tarboro grabbed off the initial lead with its only run, a round-tripper by Tim Crisp. Roanoke came back to score twice in the bottom of the inning. Street Lee reached on an error and scored when Wesley Johnson singled, and moved on to third on an error on the play. Anthony Lathan tripled in Johnson. Keith Parrisher led Tarboro's hitting with three, while Wally Keel had two for Roanoke. In the final game of the day, Jamesville got the lead with two in the second. Alan Frazier and Stanley Lilley both walked, as did Keith Long, loading the bases. Toby Holliday singled in Frazier, while Danny Lilley singled in the second run. The Bullets came back with four in the third. Tommy DiNardo singled, as did Frazier. Stanley Lilley walked and Greg Sullivan was hit by a pitch, forcing in DiNardo. Holliday walked to score Frazier, and Danny Lilley's sacrifice fly scored Stanley Lilley. A passed ball let Sullivan score. The other run came in the fourth. Frazier singled and moved to third on an error on the play. He scored on Stanley Lilley's single. Frazier and Danny Lilley each had two hits for Jamesville. Details of the Bear Grass-Southwest Edgecombe game were not available.

San Antonio Hopes To Break Pattern

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
The San Antonio Spurs hope to break a playoff pattern tonight when they take on the Philadelphia 76ers in the second game of their Eastern Conference semifinal series.

Last year the Spurs won the National Basketball Association's Central Division, got a bye through the first round of the playoffs and then beat a weary Washington team in their series opener. But the Bullets came back to win the second game and eventually take the best-of-seven series en route to the NBA title.

This year the Spurs again won the Central Division and drew a first-round bye. Again they won the opener of the Eastern Conference semifinals, this time beating a tired Philadelphia club 119-106 on Sunday.

The pattern is familiar, and the Spurs are well aware of it. "We were kind of cocky last year. We haven't forgotten that," said Spurs guard George Gervin, the NBA scoring champion the last two years. "This year we've got our confidence, but we're not cocky."

The Seattle SuperSonics, who reached the playoff finals a year ago, play host to the Los Angeles Lakers, while the Phoenix Suns entertain the Kansas City Kings, surprise winners of the Midwest Division.

In the other East semifinal, the NBA's defending champion Washington Bullets will go for a 2-0 lead tonight when they face the Atlanta Hawks in Landover, Md.

Meanwhile, the two West semifinals get under way tonight in Seattle and Phoenix.

Spurs Coach Doug Moe has no intention of letting his team take tonight's game lightly.

"We remember what happened last year," said Moe. "Something like that doesn't pop out of your mind. We came out flat that second game. We have got to keep the same enthusiasm. We'll have to find a way to keep each other charged up."

The Sixers, meanwhile, have to find a way to get themselves charged up after a lackluster performance in the series opener, when they fell behind by 18 points at halftime and by 26 points early in the third period and never really threatened.

Coach Billy Cunningham is hoping a day of rest will do the trick. His team finished its first-round series Friday night, then had a long flight Saturday and got little rest prior to Sunday's game. The Spurs, meanwhile, had a week off after receiving a first-round bye.

"There's no question the rest helped the Spurs," said Cunningham. "We were just a step slow. You'll see a different team on Tuesday."

Atlanta battled Washington on even terms through most of their series opener before the Bullets pulled away with an 18-4 burst at the end. The Hawks managed just one basket and a pair of free throws in the final 5:22, and their shot selection did not please Coach Hubie Brown.

Rodgers Renews Claim To Being World's Greatest Distant Runner

By DICK BRAUDE
AP Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Hometown boy Bill Rodgers, the superstar marathoner with a fiery will to win, has renewed his claim to the elusive title as the world's top runner of the grueling road race.

The 5-foot-9, 128-pounder from Melrose, Mass., ran away from Seko on the famed "Heartbreak Hill" to win his third Boston event in 2 hours, 9 minutes, 27 seconds. It broke the U.S. record he set in 1975, winning his first Boston race in 2:09.55.

The victory Monday, by 45 seconds over Seko, was a near-breeze down the homestretch through cold rain. Rodgers won the 1978 race in 2:10.13 by only two seconds over Jeff Wells of Dallas in the closest 26-mile, 385-yard event on record.

Rodgers, who has won the Fukuoka race along with back-to-back victories in New York City's young but prestigious marathon, was beaten by Seko last December. On the run from rustic Hok-

"I could taste that third win," the 31-year old former school teacher said Monday after wearing down Japan's Toshihiko Seko to set an American record in winning the 83rd Boston Marathon. "I didn't want someone to take it away."

ington to Boston, Rodgers said athletes tend to get overconfident, explaining, "You have to restrain yourself. And you have to make your move at the right time."

For the victorious Connecticut native, now operator of a running store located along the Boston Marathon route, that charge came as Seko was struggling uphill.

Rodgers blasted 15 yards ahead on the big incline and widened his lead. Police escort motorcycles had to move quickly to stay ahead of the hard-driving champion, whose goal is to win an Olympic gold medal at the Moscow Olympics.

Canada's Jerome Drayton, who won the Boston race in 2:14.46 two years ago, settled for 11th place — one second slower than in 1977. And 1972 Olympic gold medalist Frank Shorter from Boulder, Colo., finished 79th in 2:21.56.

Declarer won the opening lead of the queen of diamonds and drew three rounds of trumps smartly. He led a heart to the jack, which held, and then crossed back to his hand with the ace of diamonds to lead another heart. West ducked and the queen won.

Declarer's problem now dawned on him. He had no way to get back to his hand to lead another heart up to dummy. So he played the king of hearts in the hope that the suit would split 3-3, which would establish dummy's fourth heart for a club discard. But that was not to be, and declarer went down a trick.

All declarer needed to do was to lead a heart at trick two. Now, after the jack wins, declarer can return to his hand by drawing trumps and then lead another heart. West can duck again, but declarer can reenter his hand with the ace of diamonds to lead a third heart. The fourth heart in dummy will be established for a club discard while the ace of clubs is in dummy as an entry.

Revolution With Videotape Cassette

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A record producer named Jeff Wald will hit the streets this week with a videotape cassette under his arm. To Wald, it is television's equivalent of Mao's Long March.

SENIOR SWEETHEARTS — Jack Albertson and Mary Martin stroll together in scene from "Valentine" — a film about romance in a retirement village between two 70-year-olds. The plot includes complications, such as opposition by their families, and a terminal illness — yet ends on an upbeat note. (AP Laserphoto)

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Take care you are not extravagant today or you regret it tomorrow. Plan to save more in the future also. Make necessary repairs to dwelling.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't be forceful in personal affairs with others or you could get into trouble with them. Avoid the social in the evening since there could be arguments, disagreements.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Good day to spend time in studying ideas that will propel you to new heights of endeavor. Don't place limitations on yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Steer clear of friends who are apt to argue with you. Show others that you are willing to cooperate with them. Find right avenue through which to gain greater success in business and socially.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be good at figuring out what is wrong with businesses and other practical matters and knowing how to improve, straighten them out. Teach early to avoid personal arguments and this becomes a fine, successful life. Teach to assert self more also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to you!

Wald hopes to sell this tape to CBS or ABC or some big sponsor. He'd sold it once, to NBC. Then he bought it back, for about $500,000. Therein, he claims, lie the seeds of a revolt that will change the way network television does business.

Wald, whose record business dealings made him a millionaire, says he made a deal with NBC to make the special with a general understanding that it would be aired on or near Mother's Day. While vacationing in Hawaii last week, Wald was told by the network that the special would air sometime this summer. Wald didn't like this.

"I told them I don't make primetime specials with Helen Reddy, Jane Fonda and Elliot Gould for the summertime." "We haven't seen the special and it was not prepared to show in May (which Wald denies). We didn't have an exact air date. Wald may have wanted it scheduled at a certain time to coincide with a record release, and since he felt so strongly, we let him buy it back..."

Producers are frequently angry with networks executives over seemingly capricious treatment of their products. But rarely do they cuss and holler and announce a new day in television. And then buy the product back. "What I'm doing," Wald said, "is making a statement to the creative community that they don't have to take this kind of thing."

Heavy Use Of PCP At Base

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Evidence is mounting that phencyclidine, an unpredictable and dangerous drug, is being widely used among some personnel stationed at Fort Bragg, the post's drug rehabilitation officer said.

Lt. Col. C.N. Simmons said the drug, known as PCP, is heavily used at Fort Bragg, according to evidence based on confiscated amounts.

"PCP is not as big a problem nationwide as it is here," Simmons said. "Fort Bragg is experiencing marked increases in the amount of PCP in use."

The first concrete evidence of extraordinary PCP use on the post surfaced last year when Fort Bragg participated in an Army-wide test in which the installations furnished a laboratory in Oakland, Calif., with a sample of every drug confiscated.

"We came up as one of the highest" on the subsequent listings in PCP use, Simmons said.

According to the Institute for Chemical Survival in Phoenix, Ariz., PCP has been linked to bizarre criminal behavior, including murder.

Under certain circumstances it can create hallucinations. Other times it can provide the lift of amphetamines or the drowsiness of barbituates.

The drug can cause recurrence of unpleasant sensations long after it is ingested.

"Some people have been admitted to Ward 4-A (the psychiatric ward at Ft. Bragg's Womack Army Hospital) as much as two weeks after taking PCP, because of its flashback effect," Simmons said.

The drug is manufactured locally with chemicals that can be purchased legally, according to one narcotics agent. It is often disguised as another drug, such as heroin, before sale.

Generic Drug Bill Wins Unanimous House Support

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A generic drug selection bill won unanimous support in the state House on a tentative vote Monday, as supporters promised it would reduce medicine costs for many consumers.

The measure would allow pharmacists to substitute a less-expensive brand drug for the one named on a doctor's prescription, if both were of equal medical value.

The House, meeting in a long evening session while the Senate took an Easter Monday holiday, voted 104-0 in favor of the bill. Final House action was delayed, as some legislators said they planned to offer technical amendments today.

"This bill is designed to help people who have to buy their own drugs," said Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood. "In some other states, it has saved these people a lot of money. It will have a tremendous impact on older people."

The bill, opposed by some drug manufacturers, would allow drugs to be substituted unless the prescribing doctor expressly forbid it in his written prescription.

Rep. Barney Paul Woodard, D-Johnston, a pharmacist, sponsored the bill.

Messer, chairman of a House committee on aging, said generic drug substitution is now allowed in North Carolina for persons whose drugs are paid through Medicaid. Woodard said 40 other states now have some type of generic drug substitution law.

Under the legislation, most doctors' prescription forms would have a place for the doctor to designate whether substitution would be permitted, or if the drug was to be filled as named. If no designation was made, the pharmacist would be able to substitute a less expensive brand.

The bill also states that a pharmacist's liability in law suits would not be increased by substituting another drug, if done legally.

Woodard said there would not be an economic incentive for pharmacists to substitute cheaper drugs. But he said it would not cost most pharmacists money to sell cheaper drugs either, because most pharmacists add a set fee to each prescription price, rather than charging a percentage of the drug's cost.

In other legislative action:

Insurance
Rep. Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson, told an insurance subcommittee he would propose a plan abolishing the legal requirement that all motorists obtain auto liability insurance. Under his plan, motorists who wanted it could buy liability insurance for themselves, and purchase a second liability policy protecting themselves from damages caused by another, uninsured motorist.

He made the remark as Deputy Insurance Commissioner Byron Tatum told the panel increases in automobile insurance rates for people living in some cities has far exceeded that expected when the 1977 legislature enacted a new insurance law.

Tatum said that because of a provision allowing different rates in different areas of the state, drivers in Charlotte had to pay 15 percent higher rates, while drivers in Asheville had to pay only 10 percent more.

The 1977 law also allowed a surcharge for drivers whose coverage was transferred by insurance companies to the reinsurance facility, a pool set up for poor risks. For Charlotte drivers in that facility, the increase has been 27 percent, Tatum said.

The insurance commissioner's office also contended that not all drivers whose coverage was placed in the facility were poor risks. Insurance department attorney Vance Kinlaw said 70 percent of the drivers in the facility had no accident or driving citation in three years.

Balanced Growth

Gov. Jim Hunt's balanced growth policy act, watered down in both the House and Senate, was enacted when the House voted to go along with Senate amendments. The bill sets into law broad policies favoring balanced industrial growth and encouraging establishment of industrial centers in each county.

Wine
Unfortified wine may be sold in all Alcohol Beverage Control stores, under a bill given tentative approval in the House.

Unfortified wine is now sold commercially, but is allowed in ABC stores in eight systems. The bill, approved 83-26, was originally introduced to authorize ABC store sales of unfortified wine produced in North Carolina. But House ABC Committee Chairman Rep. Jim Morgan, D-Guilford, said that version may be unconstitutional, so it was broadened to include all unfortified wine.

Technical Institutes
A bill that would allow any of the state's technical institutes to be renamed technical colleges was introduced by Rep. Louise Brennan, D-Mecklenburg.
