New President Of Pitt United Way

Robert S. Griffin, manager of the Greenville Procter & Gamble plant, was elected president of the Pitt County United Way for 1979-80 during the organization's annual luncheon Tuesday.

Griffin announced during the meeting that Dr. Thomas Brewer, Chancellor of East Carolina University, has agreed to serve as this year's United Way campaign chairman.

Griffin succeeds Don Parrott, who served as president during the past year, while Brewer follows Jerry Fulford as chairman of the annual solicitation campaign.

Both Parrott and Fulford were recognized by the United Way for their year of leadership and were presented engraved silver cups.

Parrott and Fulford lead the United Way to its most successful campaign, achieving total pledges of $326,311.70 or some $14,000 over the record goal of $312,269.12. The 1978-79 campaign goal compared to the previous year's figure of $272,465.

Fulford recognized the various division chairmen who served this year and presented them engraved plaques. Receiving recognition were: Harry Leslie, Industrial Division; Dr. Al Ferguson, Professional I; Hal Knox, Professional II; Dr. Harold Deitch, Professional III; Penny Dunn and Susan Peterson, Business I; Rob Powell, Business II; Lawton Nisbet, Business III; Virgie Easterling, Retired Citizens; Bryant Kittrell and Waigthy Scales, Special Gifts; Danny Jacobson and Bill Freelove, Goal Buster; Frank Lawrence, Pitt Plaza; Paul Breitman, ECU; and Etsil Gordon, 200 Plus. Fulford also recognized the various county chairmen who served during the recent campaign.

Plaques were also presented to representatives of several firms that recorded increases of ten percent or more in their United Way pledges. The firms included: Burroughs Wellcome, Carolina Telephone, Eaton Corp., Fieldcrest Mills, Grady-White Boats, Prepshirt, Procter & Gamble, Spunwind, Vermont American, Pitt Memorial Hospital, Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., "The Daily Reflector," and Pepsi-Cola.

Officers elected yesterday, in addition to Griffin, were: Jerry W. Powell, first vice president; Fulford, second vice president; Lester Z. Brown, secretary; W. B. Chalk, treasurer; John C.

UNC Brings Suit To Restrain HEW Activity

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - Claiming compliance with civil rights laws and undue interference by the federal government, the University of North Carolina Board of Governors Tuesday filed suit to block a cutoff of federal funds amounting to $89 million annually.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court and supported by Gov. Jim Hunt, was aimed at a number of federal departments that supply the monetary aid. It seeks a temporary restraining order against the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare "to stop in its tracks incursions upon program content and the places of teaching academic subjects."

The court action erased what little optimism was generated last week by negotiations between Hunt, UNC President William Friday and HEW officials. The Associated Press erroneously reported Tuesday that a compromise had been reached earlier between the parties.

"The University has expended millions of dollars and thousands of hours successfully overcoming the effects of a formerly segregated system of higher education," said the lengthy complaint and brief filed by the state. "Today the University is a single unitary system which has complied with... the Civil Rights Act of 1964."

The duplication of programs at neighboring black and white campuses of the 16-campus UNC system remained the stumbling block in reaching an agreement. Federal officials believe the program duplication encourages segregation, while state officials balk at HEW determining university program content.

Meanwhile, state officials were expected to proceed with plans to seek $40 million or $41 million from the General Assembly for improvements at the five historically black campuses. One administration source who asked not to be named said the governor felt it would hurt North Carolina's standing in court if it did not appropriate the money.

The suit, which said the university is being forced to operate in financial uncertainty because of the potential loss of federal funds, accused HEW of acting unconstitutionally and violating federal civil rights laws in moving to withhold money from the system.

The state has offered to spend $41 million to upgrade conditions and enhance programs at the black campuses. But HEW Secretary Joseph Califano Jr. has said the offer is unacceptable because it failed to specify what the state would do if the expenditure does not bring about sufficient desegregation.

The NAACP Legal Defense Fund brought suit in 1970 seeking desegregation of the university systems of six Southern states. The other five states have since reached agreement with HEW.

North Carolina officials said in the suit that HEW has consistently refused to set standards by which the university and the courts can measure compliance with civil rights laws. It said the only standard HEW has set is to have "enough" white students in black institutions and "enough" black students in white institutions.

Because the state receives money from more than one federal department, the suit also names as defendants the departments of agriculture, commerce, interior, labor and state and the General Services Administration, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the National Science Foundation and the Veterans Administration as well as HEW.

Califano did not comment specifically on the case, but repeated that he hoped the university would still spend $41 million and begin the 22 new programs it promised during the unsuccessful negotiations.

Carter Says U.S. Able To Tell If Soviet Cheating

NEW YORK (AP) - President Carter declared today that the United States will be able to tell whether the Russians are cheating on a new strategic arms limitation treaty from the moment it is signed.

Campaigning for support of the yet-to-be completed treaty, Carter told the American Newspaper Publishers Association in a prepared speech that the nation is faced with the choice of a possibly imperfect treaty or "a dark nightmare of unrestrained arms competition."

In appealing to the publishers to help explain the treaty to their readers, Carter clearly hoped to gain votes for ratification when the agreement is sealed and submitted to the Senate later in the year.

Once again, Carter described the treaty as nearly complete, an optimistic report he has made for several months. He gave no inkling what remains in the way of a final agreement.

But State Department officials said privately there would have to be at least one more, and possibly several, negotiating sessions between Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin.

They said not to expect an announcement of a final agreement before early next week, if that soon.

One issue known to be unresolved is whether the treaty would have to be wrapped up before Carter held a summit meeting with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev or whether they could leave some final details to be cleared away there.

Following the speech, possibly his most extensive defense of U.S. arms policy, Carter planned to attend a town meeting and a Democratic fund raiser in New Hampshire before flying home to the White House.

In his speech, Carter dealt directly with the issue of verification, which looms as possibly the most explosive aspect of debate over treaty ratification.

He insisted that the loss of two monitoring stations in Iran, which provided a ring-side view of Soviet rocket launchings, deprived the United States of only one of many intelligence sources.

"We are concerned with that loss, but we must keep it in perspective," Carter said.

He said the stations, which were closed by Iran's revolutionary regime, helped mostly to check on the way the Soviets modernize their missiles - and on only a part of that process.

Robersonville Hospital Now 'Separate Entity'

WILLIAMSTON - By a three to two vote, members of the Martin County Commissioners, at a special meeting on Tuesday night, approved a motion to divest the Martin County Hospitals, Inc. Board of responsibility for the Robersonville Township Hospital.

The motion further permits the Robersonville Township to operate the hospital as a separate entity with its own board of directors. The date of July 1, 1979 is to be the effective date of the separation of the two hospital units from the single current operating authority.

County Commissioner chairman John House of Robersonville cast the deciding vote following a two for, two against tie vote by the four other commissioners.

The special meeting last night follows a Monday night meeting of the Martin County Hospitals, Inc. Board at which time the board voted nine to three to return the Robersonville Township Hospital to the jurisdiction of Robersonville Township and to divest the Martin County Hospitals, Inc. board of any interest in the Robersonville unit after July 1. The hospital board motion also included a provision that should the township not accept the facility as a separate entity, that it be closed on July 1.

The issue of the hospital board divesting itself of responsibility for the county's second and smaller hospital first surfaced at an executive meeting of the board on April 11, when the board agreed on the divesting recommendation.

Then, on Wednesday, April 18, a large contingent of interested persons attended a public meeting on the issue held at the Martin County Courthouse. The contingent presented a resolution supporting the concept of establishing a separate board of directors to oversee the operations of the Robersonville Township Hospital.

The Martin General Hospital, the larger of the two facilities, located near Williamston, currently has a 50-bed capacity, with the potential of becoming a 100-bed hospital by adding a third story. The Robersonville unit is a 13-bed operation.

Million-Hour Safety Record Is Recognized At Local Plant

The Procter & Gamble plant here was recognized during ceremonies Tuesday for the attainment of one million safe hours worked without a lost workday injury.

John Brooks, Secretary of the N.C. Department of Labor, was in Greenville to participate in the plant activities and present a Certificate of Special Recognition to local plant manager, Robert S. Griffin, from the state department.

The one million safe hours mark, it was pointed out, represented the second achievement of the safety milestone by the Greenville plant.

Griffin also accepted on behalf of the plant employees a one million safe hours plaque from R. D. Fulwiler, associate director of P & G's Industrial Relations Division-Health. Fulwiler, representing the company's Cincinnati headquarters, also presented a green P & G flag signifying the safety mark.

Officials reported that the plant's first one million consecutive safe hours without a disabling injury was attained on Jan. 9, 1977. The date set a company record for attaining the one million hours mark in the shortest time during a startup of a manufacturing facility (one and a half years).

The last lost workday due to a disabling injury occurred on Dec. 14 of 1977 and the plant has since worked over 16 months without a lost workday injury, it was mentioned. The second one million hours mark was achieved on April 9.

Plant officials noted that the facility has received four consecutive safety awards from the N.C. Department of Labor covering the 1974 through 1977 period and has qualified for a fifth award for the 1978 period.

The safety achievement, according to P & G, occurred during a period in which the plant has seen new technologies and initiated expansion with new construction.

Tactile Embroidery: You Don't Have To See It

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Zerline Johnson and Valerie Buckner are accomplished needleworkers, although they are legally blind. Their specialty is tactile embroidery — three-dimensional needlework on three-mesh canvas (three stitches to the inch). It incorporates everything from rug yarn and other traditional yarns to satin tubing, beads, brass rings and, in one of Miss Johnson's projects, a chunk of polished amethyst.

A wall hanging by Miss Johnson and a needlework picture by Miss Buckner are in a special exhibit at the 21st national competition and show of Amateur Needlework of Today, Inc.

Other special exhibits this year include the usual loans by celebrities such as Betty Furness, Ethel Merman, Van Johnson, Renata Scotto and Loretta Swit and a display of State Seals worked by the Cabinet Wives for Blair House in Washington, D.C.

The biennial show opens Tuesday, April 24, in New York City for a 10-day run at The Lighthouse of the New York Association for the Blind — a private, non-profit agency that offers rehabilitation and educational programs for blind and visually impaired residents of the metropolitan area.

The show attracts entries from all over the United States. This year's include a 36-by-51-inch needlepoint rug adapted from the design of an 1885 Navajo blanket by Sigurd E. Anderson II of Des Moines; a needlepoint wall hanging by Doris King of San Francisco depicting the famous King Tut bust of the boy king; a tennis racket cover by 11-year-old Dianne Fisher of Atherton, Calif.; and a needlepoint gourd stool by Mrs. Franklin d'Olier, Jr. of Villanova, Pa.

Special exhibit entries are not eligible for the contest, whose best-of-show award is a gold thimble, but they're sure to attract attention for unusual techniques and skillful execution.

Miss Johnson's hanging is called "Bread and Roses" in tribute to her favorite singer, Judy Collins, who made an album with that title. It shows a round loaf of bread made with satin tubing and wool yarn over foam rubber padding, and a red rose in raised chain stitch with a polished amethyst center.

Miss Buckner's picture is a gift for her grandmother, an adaptation of the design on the greeting card her grandmother sent when her son was born. The hanging shows a fat robin on a branch, with the frame worked in pale blue rug wool.

Both women learned their skills at a Lighthouse recreation class taught by designer-author Pauline Fischer, a volunteer, using ideas suggested by the pupils. Mrs. Fischer also teaches needlework at the Embroiderers' Guild and in private classes.

The whole class worked on a wall hanging design she adapted from a skirt donated by fashion designer Mary McFadden.

Mrs. Fischer said she got the idea for tactile embroidery while teaching a children's needlework class at the Museum of Natural History about four years ago. A child whose mother was blind handed his mother his canvas and said, "See what I'm doing." As the mother fingered it she replied, "I can see."

"And I realized it could be done," Mrs. Fischer said.

At this writing, instructions are available only through Mrs. Fischer's classes. If a book publisher is interested, she said, she'd be delighted to create new designs for publication.

She said the large mesh canvas makes it easy for the sight-impaired to handle, and projects work up much faster than those using smaller mesh canvases.

Engagement Announced

MISS VIRGINIA DARE MILLS... announces her engagement to Ronald Vick Nichols, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Vick Nichols of Greenville. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. Brooks Mills and Mrs. Carolyn Taylor of Bethel. The wedding will take place May 27.

Miss Duff, Mr. Livermon Wed Friday

AHOSKIE — Doreen Elizabeth Duff and Luther Tenyson Livermon III were united in marriage Friday at 5:30 p.m. in a double ring ceremony performed on the lawn at the bridegroom's home.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Duff of Greenville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Livermon II of Windsor.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore her mother's wedding gown and headpiece of chantilly lace and nylon organza.

Edith Marie Duff, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bridegroom's niece and nephew, Kathy and Brad Clear of Coventry, Conn., were flower girl and ring bearer.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the Town and Country Restaurant, Williamston.

Assisting with the wedding were the bride's aunts, Mrs. Ruth Ritchey of Clifton, N. J., and Mrs. Nelda Lange of Holly Park, N. J.

The bridegroom's parents entertained relatives and friends of the bridal couple at the Town and Country Restaurant Thursday evening.

Cookbook Aimed At Efficiency

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new cookbook edited by a mother and daughter team in Iowa provides good training for time and energy efficiency in the kitchen.

Each of the more than 200 recipes selected by Nell B. Nichols and Betsy McCracken for "Cook It Your Way" (Doubleday $10) contains directions adapted for a variety of large and small appliances: range top, full-size oven, pressure cooker, electric frypan, toaster-oven, slow cooker, electric wok and microwave oven.

In some recipes, microwave cooking is no time saver. For example, the stir-fried green beans require 8 to 10 minutes on a range top, in an electric skillet or electric wok, compared with 7 to 10 minutes in a microwave oven set on high; oven and slow cooker.

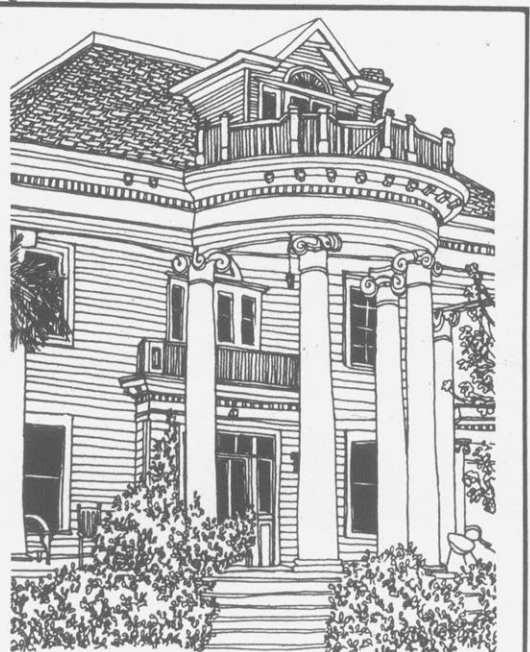

A six-serving meat loaf takes one hour and 10 minutes in a full-size oven or toaster-oven and only 5 minutes longer in an electric frypan. Both the toaster-oven and the frypan would be more energy efficient for such a small quantity of food. The same recipe comes with directions for microwave oven and slow cooker.

Chicken breasts in sour cream sauce take exactly the same cooking time — one hour and 15 minutes — in an electric frypan as in a full-size oven, but less fuel is needed to heat the small pan than the large oven cavity.

Bridal Shower Given Couple

Miss Caroline Edwards and Hugh Therman Hardee III were honored at a miscellaneous bridal shower Saturday evening at the Black Jack Free Will Baptist Church fellowship hall.

Hostesses were Mrs. Melvin Buck, Mrs. Noah J. Buck, Mrs. Bruce R. Buck, Mrs. Randy Dixon, Mrs. Rivers Goodall and Mrs. Leon Raymond Hardee. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Randy Dixon, Mrs. Harold J. Edwards, mother of the honoree, and Mrs. Hardee Jr., mother of the bridegroom-elect.

The refreshment table was covered with a white silk cloth edged with lace and centered with an arrangement of pink and white azaleas flanked by white tapers in silver holders. Mrs. Noah J. Buck and Mrs. Melvin Buck assisted in serving. Floral arrangements of pink and white azaleas and magnolia were used in decorating.

Miss Edwards was remembered with a white daisy corsage by the hostesses.

Good-byes were said to Mrs. Goodall.

The couple will be married May 19 in the Black Jack Church.

Barbara Woods Gives Program

Barbara Woods spoke on setting goals in life and using self-discipline to attain them for the April meeting of Alpha Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. Barbara Zicherman conducted the meeting.

Several ESA state by-laws changes were discussed. Rose Marie Priestley, ways and means chairman, reported on the hot dog sale. Philanthropic Chairman Woods reported on visits to Louise Spencer at Greenville Villa. Alpha Omega will hold a spring picnic for ADAP clients May 17.

In commemoration of ESA's 50th anniversary, members will hold a Founder's Day dinner May 10 at the home of Shirley Westbrook. The group will make a donation to the ESA Scholarship Fund.

Barbara Parker, Nellie Taylor and Mrs. Zicherman were named members of a by-laws committee.

New officers named are: President, Mrs. Westbrook; Vice President, Linda Peele; Secretary, Margaret Roberts; Treasurer, Mrs. Priestley; and Parliamentarian, Louise Spain. They will be installed in June.

Miss Howell Entertained

Miss Denna Howell, May 6 bride-elect, was honored Friday night at a floating miscellaneous bridal shower at the home of Mrs. Louis Tyson.

The honoree and her mother were remembered with corsages of white carnations. Guests were greeted by the hostess and introduced to the bride and her mother, Mrs. John Erwin.

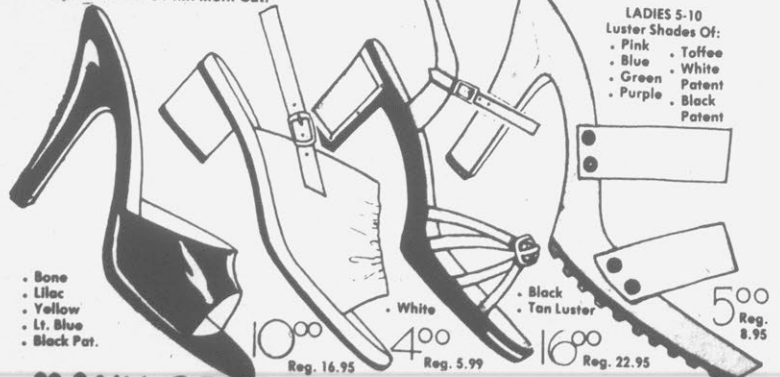

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Ed Jones and Mrs. Donald Boyd. The table was covered with a linen and lace cloth and decorated with a centerpiece of pink carnations and white mums with baby's breath flanked by white candles.

Gifts were displayed on a table decorated with a bride and bridegroom centerpiece and ivy. Wedding bells and candles surrounded by magnolia decorated the room.

The hostess said good-byes.

Careless Cooking Habits Can Offset Fuel Saving Factors

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Energy-efficient kitchen appliances suffer from a people problem.

A study by the National Bureau of Standards shows thoughtless or careless cooking habits can offset the fuel saving factors built into modern kitchen ranges and cooking utensils. It found as much as 50 percent difference in energy consumption among different persons preparing the same recipes.

The federal bureau videotaped home cooks' performance in research for the U.S. Department of Energy. The cooks were recruited for the 1977 study by a newspaper advertisement in Gaithersburg, Md., a Washington suburb. A full report on results was released recently.

Each participant prepared 21 meals from a standard menu representing typical foods for a family of four for seven days. The menus were designed to use all parts of regular ranges.

Inefficient cooks seemed to fuss a lot more, said John V. Fechter, Jr., a psychologist in NBS' Center for Consumer Product Technology.

"They opened the oven door and removed pot lids more often. They kept losing heated air," he said. "It's true — a watched pot never boils."

Most tended to use the right front range burner, regardless of pan size. Energy is wasted on an electric burner if the pan is smaller than the heating coil.

Andrew J. Fowell, chief of NBS' product performance and engineering division, said one high-energy user opened the oven door twice as often and, as a result, used half again as much fuel as a low-energy user.

Fowell said another high-energy user moved pots around on range burners 11 times, adjusted the fuel knobs 35 times and took the lid off to look at the chops 15 times.

Other common errors, Fowell said, included changing the oven rack after preheating the oven; and basting food with the oven door open, instead of removing the food to the range top for that step.

"That's like insulating the house and leaving the front door open," he said.

If something seemed to be cooking too fast, they heated a second burner for it while cooling down the first, and then moved the pan back again.

He said efficient cooks were very confident. They put food on the range, turned the heat on and left it until almost done before checking.

Fowell asked some friends and neighbors to keep a diary of their oven usage. He found they never used the full volume except at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

"Most of the time, you can get by with a large size toaster oven," he said.

Studies by a West Coast utility company confirm that finding. Testing small and large kitchen appliances, researchers at the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. in San Francisco found temperature settings in combination with cooking times make a big difference.

Meat roasted in a full-size range oven for three to five hours at 300 degrees F uses less energy than the same size and shape cut roasted 8 to 10 hours at 185 degrees F, said Virginia Gries, the utility's supervisor of consumer services.

In general, lower temperatures are more economical for baking because the oven does not go on as often as it does at higher settings, Mrs. Gries added in a telephone interview.

She said researchers found pressure cookers saved more energy than slow cookers. Tests also showed a slow cooker set at low for a longer period uses more energy than the high setting for a shorter period.

Food experts now recommend preheating ovens only for baked goods such as cakes, pies and breads. Mrs. Gries said she baked such things successfully with a cold oven start.

She added that preheating is necessary, however, in electric ovens whose preheat cycle uses both the top and bottom coils at once, and in very old ranges with poor insulation.

PSG&E tests also compared electric and range-top skillets. Energy usage for vegetables and one-dish meals is comparable, she said. For baking, both types use less energy than a full-size range oven, she added.

Tests also showed small toaster ovens used one-half to one-third less energy for roasting and baking, compared with the same foods prepared in full-size ovens.

Given a choice between a full-size gas or electric oven, the gas type is more energy efficient, she said, because of the cost of generating electricity, transmitting it to a utility and from the utility to the consumer.

At Cornell University's College of Human Ecology, informal research found food such as beef stew and macaroni and cheese used about the same amount of energy when prepared in a slow cooker as in an electric skillet. "But there was a great difference in cooking time," said Mary Purchase, a professor of design and environmental analysis.

Prof. Purchase also said an electric skillet offers a slight energy advantage over an electric range-top burner because the skillet is automatic — its thermostat switches off the juice when the preset temperature is reached, but the user has to remember to turn the range burner down.

Cornell researchers also found that four potatoes baked in a slow cooker used much more energy than the same size and number of spuds baked in a microwave oven.

Microwave ovens are often touted for their energy efficiency. Again, it depends on the user.

Teresa Shaffer, an extension food specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, says the average microwave oven and conventional surface burner use about the same amount of fuel energy at comparable temperature settings. Cooking time and the amount of food determine the extent of fuel savings — if any.

Ms. Shaffer says surface burners' energy efficiency can be brought almost as low as a microwave's just by being careful: If you're boiling something, reduce the heat under the pan as soon as the liquid boils; cover pans during cooking to retain heat; use a pan that completely covers the burner on an electric range, and turn it off shortly before the food is done — retained heat will ned finish the cooking.

"The American householder is doing more right than wrong these days," in energy conservation, says Bonnie Maas Morrison, an assistant professor in Michigan State University's department of human environment and design.

Burning Over Club Rejection

DEAR ABBY: My husband has told me that he wants to be cremated. Then his last wish is to have his ashes scattered over the local country club where he was turned down for membership three times. (He never did make it, so he joined another club.)

I told him I thought he was foolish to want his ashes scattered over a club that wouldn't accept him as a member, but he insists that this is the way he wants it and nobody is going to talk him out of it.

What do you think of his idea?

BETTER HALF

DEAR HALF: Permission is required to scatter one's ashes on private property, so tell your persistent husband that he probably won't have any better luck crashing that club after he makes an ash of himself than before.

DEAR ABBY: The letter about the 8-year-old girl who wanted a bra even though she didn't have anything to put in it reminded me of the following anecdote:

I was shopping in a large department store with my 12-year-old daughter and my 76-year-old grandmother whom we call Bubby.

My daughter dragged me over to look at some bras, although she didn't need one yet.

Bubby wanted to know what we were looking at, so my daughter told her she wanted a training bra.

Bubby asked, "What are you training your breasts to do?" Without blinking an eye, her great-granddaughter replied "To grow!" Bubby bought her the bra, thus closing a gap that spanned four generations!

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I will be going on our vacation soon. After much persuasion, we agreed to let our two sons, 17 and 19, stay home and "bach it."

We just learned they're planning to invite about 10 couples to a party at our house while we're gone.

We firmly told them that they could have the party only if an aunt and uncle chaperoned it. The boys didn't like that idea, and suggested instead that a newly-married couple of their acquaintance be the chaperones. (This couple is about the age of our elder son.) My husband promptly vetoed that suggestion. We then gave the boys a choice of postponing the party until we return, have the party before we go, or having the aunt and uncle chaperone it. Well, their noses have been out of joint ever since.

Abby, my husband and I have looked forward to a well-earned vacation. We would not feel at ease unless we were reasonably certain that everything was all right at home. Do you think we are being fair in our demands?

MOM AND POP

DEAR M AND P.: Yes. And hooray for you and for all other parents who insist on having a clean-cut understanding of what their children may and may not do in their absence.

First Real Bike Path Opened

Greenville has its first real bike path in an asphalt section put down next to the sidewalk on Arlington Boulevard between Evans Street and Hooker Road.

City officials dedicated the path, to be used exclusively by bikers, last week. We will soon see how well the bike way is used.

Certainly there are more and more bicyclists taking to the streets. Particularly is this true now that warm weather is here.

In the future we might see bicycles becoming even more essential to many people as the cost of maintaining and operating automobiles becomes ever higher.

If we accept the fact that bicycles are going to be an important form of transportation, then the question becomes how much can the city spend on construction to accommodate the bicycles?

Certainly there is not enough money in sight to build special bike paths along all the city's streets. Perhaps though we can identify bicycle thoroughfare routes leading to commercial areas. Possibly the improvements can be made gradually as funds are available.

The cities of the future will clearly have to accommodate as many forms of transportation as possible. For a number of reasons the automobile is no longer going to serve every need. If we assume that every bicycle on the streets eliminates a car, we can see that encouraging bicycle travel makes a good deal of sense.

First Step Toward Rhodesia Miracle

Rhodesia had its first black majority election last week with a large percentage of eligible voters turning out.

Observers generally agreed that the election was fairly run, even though guerillas threatened to disrupt it.

It will take close to a miracle for the black majorities and the whites of Rhodesia to find a common ground for living together and running the country. A first step has been taken, however, and it could lead to a unique racial partnership in Rhodesia.

Not All Want The Job

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — A trial run in merit selection of judges in North Carolina produced a disconcerting problem: apparently some individuals who might have made good judges simply weren't interested.

That is "the most serious difficulty with early selections under the voluntary merit selection plan" according to Institute of Government specialist C.E. Hinsdale.

Hinsdale concludes, and found the "insufficient number of applicants" of considerable concern.

Problems
 Reporting on his study of the system and a survey of members of the governor's Judicial Nominating Committee in a recent issue of Popular Government magazine (published by the Institute of Government at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill) Hinsdale found several key problems in attracting more qualified applicants.

The rotation system by which a Superior Court judge must move to a different courtroom every six months "does more than any other single factor to discourage good lawyers from seeking judicial appointments", some committee members felt. Rotation is required by the Constitution, and four nights each week in a motel room is especially unattractive to candidates with families, the study shows.

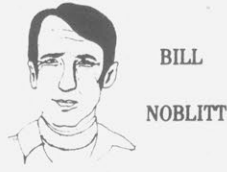

Salary was also mentioned as a stumbling block. The annual $39,500 doesn't appeal to the experienced lawyer in many cases. But Hinsdale concludes that "it is unlikely that enough will ever be offered to eliminate the salary problem entirely."

The 1977 nominations came at an especially bad time politically, Hinsdale determined. The governor's voluntary plan meant that appointees had to then run for election. Appointments were made for the most part in December, with filing for election in January; the primary in May; and election in November. That tight schedule apparently discouraged some who might have been interested.

Another factor in limiting applicants was the fact that names of nominees were made public, causing some lawyers to fear losing their clients should they not be appointed.

New Plan
 The voluntary merit plan used by Gov. Hunt would be replaced by a statutory one covering not only Superior Court judges, but District Court and Appeals Court vacancies as well should voters approve a Constitutional amendment — if that alternative is offered by the General Assembly.

Several problems in the voluntary plan would be fixed. Judges would not run for election, but would face the question of "should judge X be retained" after each term on the bench. Also, non-lawyers would have a majority in the nominating procedure; domination by attorneys was among early criticisms of merit selection.

BILL NOBLITT

As for rotation, Gov. Hunt says some people he wanted to consider for appointment were not willing to travel, and that is a matter he would like the Courts Commission to take up.

As for salary, Hunt said he found that "no major problem."

What Am I Thinking?

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, voting 6-3, ruled last week that public figures suing for libel may inquire into a journalist's "state of mind," and the editorial process behind the allegedly libelous statement. In other words, from now on a reporter will not only be responsible for what appears in print or on the airwaves but also for what he was thinking at the time. Justice Byron White wrote the majority decision, and was joined by Chief Justice Warren Burger, and Justices Harry Blackmun, Lewis F. Powell, William Rehnquist, and John Paul Stevens.

Opposed were Justices William Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall and Potter Stewart.

I naturally will go along with the law of the land. As a matter of fact I might as well

Other Editors Say New York Style

(The Wilson Times)

While some North Carolinians are still questioning the merits of minimum competency testing based upon about an eighth grade level, New York State has adopted rigorous new standards which are scheduled to take effect with the graduating class of 1981.

The state's new Regents Competency Testing Program will require high school graduates to prove that they can do high school level work. New York thus becomes the first state to include high school level material in its definition of minimum competency.

Predictably, the stiff standards have already begun to provide anxiety and criticism. The director of New York City's high schools has estimated that tens of thousands of seniors will be in danger of not graduating, and others will drop out before they even get to that point.

It will be interesting to follow New York's experience with the new standards and to observe what happens to secondary education in that state. For the standards go far beyond those in effect in most other states, where competency tests are designed to assure that graduates possess the basic coping skills necessary to function in American society. Usually this is taken to mean the ability to read, write and calculate at about the eighth-grade level.

In North Carolina, the reading and mathematics portions of the competency test are standardized at about an eight grade level. Even so, the overall failure rate for the first administration reached 16.4 percent, which means that about one out of every six failed the test they must pass to receive a high school diploma.

It is fortunate that North Carolina has stressed remedial work for the students who need extra help in meeting the standards of minimum competency. The emphasis has been placed upon helping students to obtain the "skills and knowledge thought necessary to enable an individual to function independently and successfully in assuming the responsibilities of citizenship." There has been no desire or intention to deny anyone the opportunity to earn a diploma, only to make the diploma a little more meaningful.

The passing score in North Carolina can be raised in the future as our schools do a better job of teaching and our students do a better job of learning, but we are not yet ready to follow the New York example. And it is possible that even New York isn't entirely ready either.

start practicing now by revealing what my thoughts are as I write this article.

My first thought is that as far as the press is concerned the score of this Supreme Court opinion should read, "Chilling Effect 6, First Amendment 0."

The second thought I have is the decision doesn't surprise me. Ever since the Nixon Court came into being, the First Amendment has been clobbered by the anti-press majority.

Now I am thinking if I can get this piece finished by 12:30 I can get a good lunch and a nice bottle of wine. I wonder if I can find some lady to join me?

My thoughts have just gone back to the Supreme Court. I am thinking that Byron White was the worst appointment John F. Kennedy ever made while he was President. Everyone had great faith in White, mainly because as a college All-American he had played football with a helmet.

I am now thinking anything Justice Rehnquist rules doesn't surprise me. I don't even like his haircut.

Chief Justice Burger is another problem. We know he has a phobia about cameras and recording devices. He also hasn't hidden his feelings about how much he dislikes

THE INSIDE REPORT

Carter In Rhodesia Trap

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — Testifying before Congress March 29, the administration's principal policymaker on Africa tightened the catch on the Rhodesian trap that has been insensibly built for Jimmy Carter over two years and is now on the verge of closing.

Richard Moose, assistant secretary of state for Africa, had the chance before the House African Affairs Subcommittee to disengage the president from blind support for Soviet-backed "Patriotic Front" guerrillas. The question was whether the "Front" or Prime Minister Ian Smith and his black allies were in closer compliance with settlement guidelines set by Congress.

A formidable case can be made that last autumn Smith and the biracial moderates were ready to comply fully while the Patriotic Front was intransigent. At the least, both sides could be accused of playing to the galleries. But Moose doggedly testified, in contradiction to reality, that the Patriotic Front, not Smith's group, met the two conditions set by Congress: an all-parties conference and internationally supervised elections.

That climaxed over two years of a policy that now finds President Carter in this uncomfortable position: supporting Marxist terrorists against the ballot box while the U.S. Congress and a predicted new Conservative government in Great Britain race to lift western economic sanctions against Rhodesia. The candid appraisal by one gloomy State Department official: "The problems are going to be horrendous for Mr. Carter."

The policy originated in the belief expressed to us in March 1977 by one of Carter's senior White House aides that "the white man is finished in southern Africa." That meant the U.S. must get on the side of the blacks, even if their ideology was Marxist and their record on human rights questionable.

This policy was becoming untenable last October when the administration reluctantly granted U.S. entry visas for Smith and his black colleague, the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole. Developments behind the scenes, not revealed until now, began pressures on the Carter policy which today are reaching the breaking point.

The Case-Javits amendment, signed into law Sept. 26, requires agreement by the Rhodesian government to attend an "all-parties conference" as one condition for lifting sanctions. So long as Smith objected, it was no problem for Carter. But Senate conservatives, headed by North Carolina's Jesse Helms, persuaded Smith to agree.

Soon after Smith arrived in Washington last fall, Sen. Helms directed an aide, John Carbaugh, to inform the State Department of Smith's agreement. According to Carbaugh, the reaction from Douglas Bennet, assistant secretary of state for congressional relations, was enthusiastic; Bennet suggested an all-parties Rhodesian conference at Camp David, site

Strength For Today

"ALL WELL AND GOD IS WITH US"

In a volume of stories about the seafarers of Finnish Lapland, an old captain takes his sailing ship on a particularly long and dangerous voyage. There are storms; the ship runs aground and is trapped in the ice; some of the men, hunting walrus in small boats, are lost for days. But every night the old captain ends his log of the day's events with the words: "All well and God is with us."

How many of us, in the course of our much less dangerous lives, reflect at the end of each day, "All well and God is with us"? Were we to look back over the record of our personal history and consider the work accomplished, the gains made, the happiness enjoyed, we might be more likely to utter such a sentiment.

For most of us, indeed, though we do not often stop to express our gratitude for it, all is well. With the example of the old captain in mind, it would be appropriate, at the very least, to give thanks.

Conversion Trend Displeases

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — When the buyer, the seller and the bank all like the proposal, you have the makings of a deal, even if it sometimes displeases local government officials.

The deal, in this instance, is the conversion of rental apartments to condominiums or cooperatives. It's been described in some areas as mass hysteria, in others as a fever, and in many places as frantic.

The owner receives more than he would in selling the building as a unit; the buyer gets an inflation hedge; the bank gets to lend money on a secure asset at today's very high interest rates.

A study by Advance Mortgage Corp. and Citicorp Real Estate calls conversions the hottest sector of the housing boom. Though ignored in official statistics, the number doubled last year to 100,000-plus.

The hysteria occurs in New York City, California and Chicago, the two companies say. Big Manhattan conversions sell out when the offering is filed. In San Diego, sellouts occur while buyers line up.

"In less frantic markets, such as Boston, Minneapolis and Denver, 50-100-unit conversions sell out in six to eight months; in Seattle, in two to four months."

At the moment, the party most distressed by conversions are city officials, who fight the trend as a threat to their rental stocks and as a displacer of poor and elderly households.

Others, such as buyers, might be distressed later, when they find, perhaps, that rising maintenance offsets tax benefits. But most seem to feel the immediate benefits are good. Let others fight.

Some fight hard. The District of Columbia permits conversions only of buildings where rents exceed a certain minimum, raised each year. New York requires consent of 35 percent of tenants. Boston and Denver require tenants be given 120 days notice and first refusal rights.

Such impediments do little to stop the practice, and Advance Mortgage and Citicorp Realty estimate the total will reach at least 130,000 this year.

They see the practice growing out of two trends, the demand for ownership by people who used to rent, and the realization by building owners that their return is higher selling than renting.

The desire to own, particularly strong among singles and childless couples, emanates from financial considerations. Tax benefits are one advantage, equity buildup another, appreciation a third.

Market values rise sharply in the first year after conversion. "It runs a minimum of 20 percent in most markets and there are some examples of 50 percent and 100 percent," the study determined.

Thereafter, except in Manhattan and some downtown highrises in other cities, it found, appreciation settles down to a bit less than that on single-family homes.

The second thrust comes from landlords who realize that even in markets with high occupancy they are unable to achieve rent returns that keep pace with costs. Rent controls help exaggerate the trend.

Signals Spring Is Here

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Spring may be a few weeks late; it may even disappear completely when the sun goes down and the wind moves around to the north, but contrary to what the thermometer says, it has definitely arrived around here.

The indicators are everywhere.

The 9:30 morning jogger — you can almost schedule them like trains around here — has shed her winter cocoon of quilted parka and leg warmers and goes flashing by in fetchingly slitted track shorts and skin tight tank top.

The neighborhood snow birds have arrived back from Florida with enviable tans, sacks of grapefruit and tedious tales of how they went swimming in the ocean on Christmas Day. Or was it St. Patrick's Day?

The snowplow driver is now mending potholes.

You can twirl the TV knob and get your choice of seasonal sports: hockey, basketball, baseball, golf, but for a blessed few weeks no football.

The sleds and sacks of salt in front of the hardware store have been replaced by bamboo rakes and sacks of fertilizer.

This morning we spotted our first Frisbee in the flower bed, and a kite has flowered in the big sugar maple at the corner.

The library has scheduled a seminar on crab grass.

An elderly couple up the road claims to have spotted the first purple martin, the first income tax refund check and the first ice cream truck of the season all on the same morning.

The Little League is looking for umpires.

40 Years Ago Today

April 25, 1939

"The People, Yes," might well be given as the theme used last night by Carl Sandburg, East Carolina Teachers College "visitor from the world's greatest mule market to the world's greatest tobacco market" in his lecture at the college, for Sandburg began his talk with the striking lines from one of his books—

"The people, yes, the people sleep...
 The people... the people waken...
 The people march—Where to? What next?"

During the latter part of his program, he sang ballads that he said he has found "here and there on the lips of the people."

Introduced by Miss Mamie E. Jenkins of the ECU English Department, as a speaker whom she felt impelled to greet with the salutation "Good Morning America," because she said he so fully represented his native land. Sandburg looked out over his audience of young people and spoke of the futility of war and the possibility of and need for "friendship across bitterness," so well represented by the relations between Civil War Generals, Sherman (U.S.A.) and Joseph E. Johnston (C.S.A.) after the Atlanta Campaign.

of the just-completed Mideast summit.

But Bennet soon was chastened by a cold wind from Africa. According to Carbaugh, Bennet reported that Joshua Nkomo, one-half the Patriotic Front, "will not come"; as for the other half, Robert Mugabe, "I gather he won't come either." Shifting ground, the Carter administration soon prescribed a conference agenda, to which Smith objected. Both sides now had reservations, but there was no question who wanted to talk and who wanted to fight last October.

That set the stage for the March 29 House hearing when Rep. Stephen Solarz of New York, the subcommittee chairman, asked Moose who was complying with the Case-Javits amendment and who wasn't. Incredibly, Moose testified that Smith, Sithole and their colleague, Bishop Abel Muzorewa, all "rejected" the "concept" of an all-parties conference but that Mugabe and Nkomo "would attend."

That seemed a little thick even for Solarz, no friend of Smith. "Do you know if they have said that they would attend?" he asked. Moose's classic reply: "If you listen to Mr. Nkomo, you may be a bit confused about this, but our belief is that he would attend. I think that he is not necessarily speaking to us when he makes those statements."

Solarz noted that Smith had agreed to attend when he visited Washington. Quite so, said Moose, but later Smith and associates "were not willing to negotiate seriously." What he failed to mention was the added ingredient of U.S. insistence that the all-parties conference consider a transitional administration including the Patriotic Front.

Helms may well raise these points in the Senate this week when he introduces a bill to lift sanctions. That debate will find Carter backing forces in Rhodesia that will refuse to attend conferences, object to elections and have now demonstrated insufficient military or political strength to seriously disrupt the just-completed Rhodesian elections. The only consolation in Foggy Bottom is the biracial coalition will be unable to maintain itself against outside force — a dubious and unworthy prophecy.

It is time to ponder this question over the first gin and tonic of the season.

TRENTON, N.C. (AP) — A construction worker who tried to extort $100,000 from a General Electric Corp. nuclear fuel processing plant by ransoming uranium stolen from the facility pleaded guilty Tuesday to the charge.

David L. Dale, 39, a construction worker, had originally pleaded innocent to attempting to extort the money Jan. 29 at GE's Wilmington Manufacturing Department, Nuclear Products plant.

But he reversed his plea in the chambers of U.S. District Court Judge John D. Larkins, who set a sentencing hearing for May 7 in federal court in New Bern.

The delay in sentencing was won by Dale's defense attorney, William G. Smith of Wilmington. The maximum punishment for the crime is a $10,000 fine and 20 years in prison.

Bond for Dale, who was declared mentally competent to stand trial in an earlier psychiatric examination, was reduced from $150,000 to $30,000.

An employee of a subcontractor at the plant; Dale was charged by the FBI with extortion for trying to ransom 150 pounds of low-grade uranium reported missing from the facility on Jan. 26.

Dale admitted taking the uranium, which experts said presented only a minimal health hazard, because he was "irritated at the company (GE)."

In a letter federal authorities said Dale mailed to the plant manager, Dale demanded $100,000 for return of the fuel and enclosed a small vial of uranium powder. All of the uranium was later found in a field in the area of the plant.

Another sample was mailed to a Wilmington newspaper editor, and federal authorities said Dale also planned to mail samples to President Carter and other national leaders.

the press. If Burger had his way we wouldn't even be allowed in the Supreme Court.

Obviously I would never say these things about the most distinguished members of the bench in this land, but since their ruling I have to tell the truth about exactly what is on my mind or face a contempt citation.

I am now thinking about having a chocolate souffle for lunch. The thought just came to me as I wrote that last sentence. If this decision is for real, and obviously it is, why should I try to lose weight? The fact that most Americans will probably agree with the decision depresses me more than the Supreme Court ruling itself.

I just had another thought. Justices Brennan, Marshall and Stewart have the best legal minds on the court and are great Americans. If my daughter gets appointed to the Supreme Court, I hope she will use the three of them as her role models.

I have been interrupted by another thought. It came to me because the justices wear black robes. My wife asked me to stop by the dry cleaners and pick up her black evening dress.

Where am I? Oh, yes. What is my state of mind at this moment? It isn't bad considering the latest threat to a free press. I certainly bear no malice toward anyone on the court. As a matter of fact, it's amazing how not one malicious thought has gone through my head during the past hour. Maybe it's because if I had any bad thoughts I would be sued.

Now I'm thinking there is a mole in the Supreme Court who is leaking all the court's decisions to the media. It must be driving the justices up the wall. Maybe that's why all the First Amendment decisions are going against us. The FBI will have to bug every reporter's telephone to find out who the mole is. The Feds can now do this without a warrant. The Supreme Court came down with this decision on the same day they ruled they could go into our minds. I wonder if this was a coincidence or planned?

I must be getting paranoid. Either that or I'm starting to think too much.

Edmisten Delighted By Supreme Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ruling in a North Carolina case, the U.S. Supreme Court Tuesday said police may question criminal suspects as long as they do not "explicitly" relinquish their rights to remain silent or obtain legal counsel during questioning.

In a 5-3 ruling, the justices struck down a decision by the N.C. Supreme Court in which it was held that criminal suspects do not waive those rights unless they agree verbally or in writing.

North Carolina Attorney General Rufus Edmisten issued a statement in which he said he was delighted the court had ruled in favor of the state's position.

Edmisten said the decision represents a refusal by the court to strengthen the rights enjoyed by criminal suspects. However, it does not weaken the court's Miranda ruling of 1966.

"By creating an inflexible rule that no implicit waiver can ever suffice, the North Carolina Supreme Court has gone beyond the requirements of federal organic law," wrote Justice Potter Stewart for the court's majority.

The court ruled 13 years ago under the late Chief Justice Earl Warren that police must inform criminal suspects of their constitutional rights to have legal assistance and refrain from incriminating statements.

The Miranda decision, named for the suspect involved in the test case, provided for suspects to waive their rights, "voluntarily, knowingly and intelligently."

In overturning a conviction for armed robbery, assault and kidnapping the N.C. Supreme Court said that "waiver of the right to counsel during interrogation will not be recognized unless such a waiver is specifically made ..."

The case of Willie Thomas Butler, who was convicted and sentenced to life in prison for a 1976 bank robbery in Wayne County, N.C., before the state Supreme Court's ruling, will now return to the state courts.

Butler was arrested by the FBI in New York City four months after the robbery.

After he was read his Miranda rights, he confessed to police. But before confessing, he had refused to sign a waiver of his rights.

Governor To Get Briefing

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt will hear state, local and power company officials explain what they would do in case of an accident at a nuclear power plant when the N.C. Department of Crime Control and Public Safety stages a mock problem at the state's only operating nuclear plant Friday.

The hypothetical situation, with officials discussing their emergency plans, was set up for Hunt, according to Linda Irwin, public information officer for the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety.

"The governor asked for a review of emergency capabilities for the state if there were such a situation as Three Mile Island," she said, referring to the recent nuclear accident in Pennsylvania.

Hunt will be briefed by state officials regarding their emergency plans at 6:45 a.m. Friday in Raleigh. He will then fly by helicopter to Carolina Power & Light Co.'s Brunswick nuclear plant south of Wilmington.

At the plant — site of the hypothetical situation — Hunt will talk with local and CP&L officials, then fly back to Raleigh about noon.

Ms. Irwin said the scenario

Friday is entirely hypothetical and there will no evacuation drills or movement of people or equipment.

Downtown Ass'n Meets Thursday

The annual business meeting of the Downtown Greenville Association Inc. will be held Thursday at 9 a.m. in the board room of the Utilities Building, according to Helen Pope, president.

She said that progress reports of the past year's activities and future plans and programming will be the main agenda items.

Summaries will be presented by Linda O'Connor, chairperson of the trade promotion committee; C. B. Tugwell, who has served for four years as chairman of the parking and traffic committee; and Dave Mosier, executive director.

The president urged DGA members to attend tomorrow's meeting.

METROPOLITAN DIES

MOSCOW (AP) — Metropolitan Seraphim, 73, a permanent member of the synod of the Russian Orthodox Church has died. His time of death was not announced by Tass.

RACCOON MEAT
ALMA, Ga. (AP) — High beef prices don't bother Wayne Lewis who operates a food store here. He simply began offering his customers dressed raccoon instead.

"It's delicious," he says.

He's selling as many as 50 raccoons a day at 79 cents a pound to customers who come from as far away as Florida.

He says raccoon meat can be served stewed, baked or barbecued.

"They could do more, and maybe they will if they get tax incentives for such things as solar heating."

Now on annual leave, she is in Washington making a historical study for the DOE of household energy usage from the turn of the century.

Considering the home as a whole unit, Mrs. Morrison said Americans are now voluntarily using about 8 percent less energy, particularly home heating fuels, than they did before the Arab oil embargo.

She said they've accomplished this with such improvements as insulation, caulking and storm windows, new energy-efficient furnaces and appliances — air-conditioners, stoves and refrigerators, among others.

They're also changing their habits, she said. "Maybe they're not keeping the refrigerator door open so long while they decide what to have for lunch, or taking shorter showers or making the wash loads bigger."

SUSPECTED ROBBER — Nancy Santana, described by police as the "Lady Bomber" is shown in custody again in New York Tuesday after allegedly stealing more than $5,000 from a Manhattan bank. Miss Santana, 24, was indicted in federal court last March and accused of robbing four banks of a total of $32,000 in less than a month. She had pleaded guilty to two of the four robberies cited in the indictment and was out on bail pending sentencing. (AP Laserphoto)

Ruling Cancels Planned Liquor Store Divorce

By DAVID AMMONS
Associated Press Writer
OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Instead of getting a divorce over liquor, Phyllis and George Evans say they'll "have a great big party."

der for Mrs. Evans to keep her state liquor license. In an opinion written for the Washington State Liquor Control Board and released Tuesday, Deputy Attorney General Philip Austin said Mrs. Evans won't lose the beer and wine license for her Allentown Superette south of Seattle just because her husband is a beer truck driver. State liquor laws say no one with a financial interest in liquor wholesaling can have an interest in retail outlets and Austin's opinion came in the nick of time for the Evanses. "Thank goodness!" said Mrs. Evans, 34. "We were going ahead with our divorce, thinking it would be several years before we got a ruling. Our divorce would have been final the first of June." In his opinion, Austin said, "a mere salaried beer truck driver" has no direct financial interest in the wholesaling firm, Sid Eland Co. Evans does not make commissions and his paycheck does not amount to a wholesaler illegally giving money to a retailer, Austin said. He also said a married couple could get around the liquor laws by drawing up separate property agreements.

Austin said a couple from Burien is suing the board rather than seeking a divorce. Gerald Junt has an interest in a distributing company and his wife works in a meat department of a supermarket where beer and wine are sold. A third case that has drawn publicity involves Patricia and Lowen Clausen of Seattle. Mrs. Clausen wants to open a Danish restaurant and serve beer and wine. But her husband is a Seattle policeman, and the board has denied her a license, saying her husband enforces liquor laws. The Clausens say they'll divorce and live together in hopes of getting a license that way, like the Evanses had planned. The latest attorney general's opinion does not solve either the Junt or Clausen situations. "I was so against getting a divorce, even though we were going to keep on living together," Mrs. Evans said. "It isn't the same. It isn't easy to think about divorcing someone you love." "I'd be giving up emotional security, plus I couldn't be on my husband's insurance policy anymore." The woman owned her riverfront "hole-in-the-wall" market before she married Evans, 44. After the board said the Evanses appeared to be running afoul of state liquor laws,

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, April 25, 1979—7
the couple began a year-long legal battle. "I felt my rights were taken away," Mrs. Evans said. "I guess I should have gone down and asked the board whom I could marry."

'Kidco' Profits So Big They Buy Town As A Tax Shelter

RAMONA, Calif. (AP) — The four San Diego kids who turned horse manure and dead gophers into a big money corporation called Kidco are making so much money they're buying a town — as a tax shelter. That's not all. They've made a deal to sell the movie rights to their story for $150,000, plus a percentage of the profits, of course. The town they're buying for $750,000 is Gorda, 50 miles north of San Simeon, Calif.

"I'll tell you this, they have a horrendous tax liability and Gorda is just the shelter," their father, Richard Cessna, said in a telephone interview Tuesday. "This never was just a bunch of kids catching gophers," said Cessna. "All of them have been taught to get out and hustle." To Pacific Coast Highway travelers, Gorda is a 20-acre landmark and way-station near Big Sur about halfway between Los Angeles and San Francisco. Two years ago, the Cessna kids — Dickie, 14, Bette, 13, June, 15, and Ne-Ne, 11 — found a good way to make extra money while helping their dad clean his horse stables, so they incorporated. Kidco Ltd. Ventures sold manure as fertilizer, did clean-up jobs for a local developer and killed an occasional gopher for their neighbors in San Diego Country Estates near here. They once said they made $3,000 a month selling fertilizer.

But Cessna says they "shy away from talking about their earnings these days." At the time, state government bureaucrats in Sacramento, sniffing revenue in the Kidco manure empire, demanded an explanation as to why Kidco had not collected or paid sales tax on the fertilizer. In late April 1977, a 12-year-old Dickie strolled into the State Board of Equalization tax office under the glare of television lights and reporters and Kidco came out smelling like a rose. The state decided not to press for the back taxes, and the kids didn't have to pay. Cessna said the Kidco fortunes have been boosted by the creation of a new patented gopher trap, a forthcoming Warner Bros. movie about his children's trials and triumphs and a possible television series. "The theme of the movie is the big bad bureaucrats leaning on the little children," Cessna said. Cessna has six older children not involved in Kidco.

of 427 Langley Rd., and Curtis Jones, 17 of 101 Woodstock Rd. The theft was reported at 1:10 p.m., according to Cannon, who said officers stopped Sutton and Jones in a parking lot off Evans Street, some two blocks from the jewelry store and recovered three watches, valued at $419. Cannon said five watches, valued at $719, were reported taken.

Three Firms Are Fined In Mishap

FORKED RIVER, N.J. (AP) — Three firms were fined $10,000 each for safety violations in connection with last month's fatal construction accident at the Forked River nuclear plant, officials said.

The citations attributed the March 12 accident in which one worker was killed and three others injured to an insufficient guy-wire system, a violation of federal safety standards, Harold Allendorf, district director for the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, said Tuesday. No nuclear material was involved in the accident, officials said.

Arrest Youths In Theft Case

Two teenagers were arrested by Greenville Police yesterday afternoon on larceny charges in connection with the theft of a reported $719 worth of watches from Tetterton's Jewelers at 214 East Fifth St. Chief Glenn Cannon identified the pair as Ricky Earl Sutton, 16

Private Schools Win A Round

By SHARON BOND
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State education officials have lost another round in their fight to block legislation that would remove the state's private schools from their jurisdiction. The House Education Committee Tuesday approved and sent the full House two Senatepassed bills that would set up separate regulations for the state's church-affiliated and other private schools, removing them from the stricter rules of the state Board of Education. The approval came despite state Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips' urging that a decision be withheld until court disposition of a case involving state regulation over the Christian schools. "My strongest point to you is that you await the court's decision before passing any legislation," he said. "It may very well be that a final decision by the courts will show a need for additional legislation." The Supreme Court will begin deliberations May 9 on a deci-

Howver, state education officials denied it was a compromise and said they had no part in drafting it. The compromise strengthened slightly two provisions in the bill dealing with attendance and the minimum competency test. The original bills contained no requirement for a set operating schedule or for passage of a minimum skills test as a prerequisite for graduation. The original bill said the schools must give a minimum competency test of their own choosing, but did not mention anything about requiring passing for graduation. The so-called compromises did not make the bills more palatable to education officials, however. "The legislation takes a completely "hands-off" approach to non-public schools," Phillips told the committee. "This legislation is an abdication of that responsibility (to guard and maintain the people's right to education) to those children who attend the schools exempted." Phillips said after the vote he was disappointed but not surprised at the committee's action. And he said he was still hopeful the full House might block the bills.

Area Special Olympics Slated Here April 28

The fifth annual North Carolina Area I Special Olympics Spring Games, hosted by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department and East Carolina University, will be held on Saturday, April 28 at the ECU track, Bunting Field.

Activities begin at 10:30 a.m. and will conclude at 3 p.m. four hundred Special Olympians, representing northeastern counties, will take part in the spring event. The Olympians are from Bertie, Camden, Chowan, Beaufort, Edgecombe, Martin, Gates, Perquimans, Pasquotank, Halifax, Hertford, Nash, Northampton, Washington and Wilson Counties, and also represent groups from the towns of Tarboro, Farmville and Greenville. Olympians will compete in ten track and field events including the 50 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 440 yard dash, 440 yard relay, running long jump, softball throw, high jump, standing broad jump, and wheelchair race.

In addition, this year the athletes will be able to compete in the soccer skills competition and in two new frisbee-disc events. From these games a number of athletes will be chosen to attend the State Spring games. And from the state games, seven will be chosen to attend and to compete in the Fourth International Special Olympics Summer Games to be held at the University of New York, Brockport, in August. All interested members of the public are invited to attend the Area I Special Olympics on Saturday.

Electricity Blackouts Seen If Plant Closed

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Rotating electricity blackouts are a very real possibility this summer if the Nuclear Regulatory Commission orders Duke Power Co. to close its Oconee nuclear plant, the utility's president warned Tuesday.

The NRC is considering ordering a shutdown of Babcock & Wilcox reactors similar to the stricken unit at the Three Mile Island station in Pennsylvania. The three reactors at Oconee, in South Carolina, are Babcock & Wilcox reactors.

Duke Power Co. President Bill Lee told the company's annual stockholders meeting the problems at Three Mile Island stemmed from equipment other than the reactor. He said Oconee features a different type of equipment.

The utility is already bracing for the summer without a major generating unit at its coal-burning Belews Creek station near Winston-Salem. That unit is out of service for extensive maintenance.

Duke Power Co. has filed curtailment plans with state utilities commissions in both North Carolina and South Carolina, Lee said. If power generation dropped below a certain level, rotating blackouts would be instituted in residential neighborhoods.

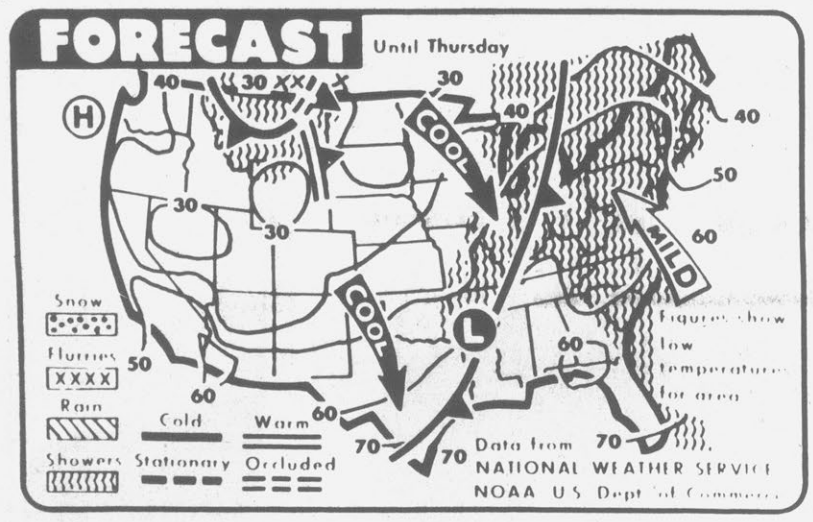

"It involves shutting off certain residential circuits for a specified period of time," Lee said. "That circuit is restored and other circuits are then shut down."

Lee said blackouts would affect an individual circuit for two to three hours, and he said the utility would publicize the possibility or timing of blackouts. The company would not shut off circuits to places such as hospitals or police stations, or to special cases such as persons on iron lungs, Lee said.

"The emphasis of our plan is on residential circuits," he said. "It is our feeling that people would rather go with the inconvenience of doing without air conditioning rather than be faced with the disruption of loss of jobs."

Meanwhile, Hugh Wells, director of the N.C. Utilities Commission public staff, said that loss of the Oconee plant would mean an increase in the price of electricity of 15 to 20 percent for Duke Power Co. customers. "If they have to lose the entire unit, they'll have a very difficult time meeting their load and the price of electricity will go up tremendously," Wells said.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are expected in the forecast period until Thursday morning for most of the East. Showers are also due in the northern Plains. Fair skies and cool weather are indicated for the central and western sections of the country, mild temperatures are due in the east. (AP Laser-photo Map)

By The Associated Press
A trough of low pressure extending from Mississippi to the eastern Gulf of Mexico was moving slowly toward North Carolina today, setting the stage for mostly cloudy skies. Showers were expected to develop across the state during the day and continue tonight and Thursday. The best potential for showers today was over southern and western sections.

The forecast called for mild temperatures to continue across the state with highs today and again Thursday in the 70s except for some readings in the 60s in the mountains. Lows tonight will range from the mid 50s to the mid 60s.

The extended forecast calls for scattered showers to linger across the state Friday along with slightly warmer temperatures. The showers will end Saturday and temperatures will be a little cooler.

Revival Begins Monday Night

The Winterville Pentecostal Holiness Church will hold revival services beginning Monday, April 30 through Sunday, May 6. Services will begin nightly at 7:30 p.m. Betty Dowdy of Tarboro will be the evangelist. The pastor, Rev. Kader Rawls, invites the public to attend.

School Events Are Announced

Chowan College Spring Program

MURFREESBORO — A full day's activities including "A Lazy Afternoon in Squirrel Park" will be held at Chowan College on Saturday, April 28. The spring program includes art and photography exhibits, a spring concert, and coronation of the queen of spring. Registration and reception for guests will be held from 9:45 to 10:50 a.m., with alumni registration to be in Marks Hall beginning at 10 a.m.

Third Street School Luncheon

In conjunction with Governor James B. Hunt's proclamation of Thursday, April 26 as "Teacher Appreciation Day," the PTA of Third Street School will honor teachers there with a pig-pickin' luncheon on Thursday afternoon. During the luncheon, volunteer parents will monitor classrooms so that teachers may attend the PTA luncheon. Also at Third Street, the day long Spring Fling will take place on Saturday, April 28, on the schoolgrounds. Activities planned include games and relay races, a bake sale and a yard sale. The events get underway at 9 a.m. and the public is invited to attend.

Kennel Club To Hold Program

GOLDSBORO — The Goldsboro Kennel Club will hold an all-breed and obedience fun match from 10 a.m. until noon Sunday, April 29. The match will be at Berkeley Park. The Parade of Champions will begin at 12:30 p.m., to be followed by the Junior Showmanship. Judging will be at 1 p.m. The public is invited, and for more information, interested persons are to call 778-7275.

Boosters Note Profit Of $726

A net profit of $726.11 was realized by the D. H. Conley Band Boosters as a result of a chicken and barbeque dinner held recently. The money will be used to help purchase marching uniforms. The regular monthly meeting will be held Thursday, April 26, at 7:30 p.m. at the school. The band will perform at this time. The Board of Directors and officers will meet at 7:00 p.m.

City Folks Study To Prepare For Country Living

By CHARLES S. TAYLOR
ATLANTA (UPI) — Catherine Harkins has a message for city folks who want to try homesteading in the country — do it, but first learn all you can about self-sufficiency.

Ms. Harkins, a trim, black-haired woman of 35, a divorcee and the mother of two nearly grown children, is the moving spirit behind a group that calls itself "Country Bound". It is an organization devoted to helping people return to the land.

Country Bound was started last December and has a membership of 65, with some memberships including entire families. Dues are $25 per family and $15 for singles for six months. A newsletter prepared by Ms. Harkins and a friend who lives with her, Sharon Sanders, goes out to members once a month.

"It's really an information and education program," says Ms. Harkins. Many people find it hard to believe we don't have government funding.

Forty people, on the average, come to the monthly meetings of Country Bound, which are held in various public buildings. Many of the members possess skills that are necessary in the back-to-the-land movement.

"None of us know everything we need to know, but all of us know something," is the way Ms. Harkins put it. "We have tremendous resources among our own members."

At the meetings and special workshops, members are taught how to operate a chain saw, how to grow vegetables and fruits organically, how to build farm structures, even homes, using materials available on the land, such as rocks and timber.

At their first meeting members were asked to list topics most interesting to them. Those topics included designing energy-efficient buildings, energy sources, organic gardening, water and waste disposal, fence construction and maintenance, choosing land, building with stone, shelters, storing food and drying food, woodstove cooking, greenhouse design, beekeeping and fish-pond construction.

"We have a workshop coming up on goats," Ms. Harkins said, "how to milk them and make cheese and butter from the milk, and how to feed them. We're going to call it 'Goat Day.'"

At another recent meeting, Wilma Van Dusseldorp, conducted a workshop on herb growing and organic gardening.

All programs are taped and members can borrow the tape for one week.

"The idea is to learn all of these skills and be comfortable with them," she said.

Some Country Bound members already live in the country. Others have bought land but have not yet made the move from the city.

"There is a great interest in the north Georgia area," said Ms. Harkins. "We're conducting a survey of the north Georgia counties trying to find out what sort of economic and tax base they have, the population density. Some people want to live in a developed county, others like isolated areas."

She says the plans of Country Bound members vary "all the way from people who are extremely vague to people who have pretty definite plans" for getting out of the city and living in the country.

Ms. Harkins and Sanders live in south DeKalb County, where they have an acre of land. They have purchased 22 acres in Habersham County, about 100 miles north of Atlanta. Their plans include building their own rock home and completing a move there over the next seven years.

They have a greenhouse attached to their present home and were busily raising vegetable plants to set out in a backyard garden. The garden area was recently cleared of pine trees, which will be used to fuel a stove in their den.

Ms. Harkins plans to try the French intensive method of gardening this spring and summer. It consists of building raised beds of earth, enriched with manure and planting vegetables close together. The method saves space and reduces the need for cultivation.

The backyard also contains two bee hives from which she gathered 50 pounds of honey last fall.

Living in the country," she says, "means living as a whole person in relative simplicity and having a sense of being in touch with cycles and seasons."

Maladies In No Textbook

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada casino operators are all too familiar with a host of so-called maladies that just don't show in any medical textbooks.

People come to the casinos to escape their pressures, cares and worries. But, according to Gordon Jenkins, security chief at the Sahara-Reno Hotel, some forget that what may be good for the psyche isn't necessarily good for the body.

Casino security people have to know what to do in such cases. That's why Jenkins and Frank Barnes of Western Nevada Community College set up a casino crisis workshop.

Barnes said the original plan was to teach security personnel how to handle natural disasters, bomb threats, fires and the like, but when they started asking what problems are most common, old timers listed the maladies.

He said the workshop was expanded to cover such maladies as:

—Reno Syndrome. Visitors forget to eat for a day or more, then gulp down a seven-course special. The blood rushes from the head. The victim faints.

—Blackjack Blackout. Someone who sits for hours at a 21 table shouldn't stand up suddenly. Same effect as Reno Syndrome.

—Slot Machine Elbow. Similar to tennis elbow. A rubdown helps.

—Keno Coma. Casinos provide Keno players with free drinks. Effects of alcohol are stronger in Reno's thin 5,000-foot air.

—Time Warp Syndrome. Victim finds the weekend ended two or three days ago. Too often discovered at checkout time.

—Poker Paranoia. During a run of bad luck, victim accuses some observer of hexing his hand. Harsh words follow.

Biggest Bank's Check Bounced

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Is the world's biggest bank — Bank of America — having trouble balancing its check-book?

A $50 check given April 9 by the bank's legal department on its revolving account as a filing fee to the state Court of Appeal bounced.

The check went through Bank of America branches in Sacramento and San Francisco and was returned to the court marked "Not sufficient funds."

When the bank's legal department was called, the court clerk was told to send the check through again.

But, he told the woman, he couldn't do that.

The check had been stamped "Do not resubmit."

Downstalk Plan Is Again Urged Tobacco Growers

By BILL HUMPHRIES
NCSU Agricultural Information
RALEIGH — Flue-cured tobacco growers once again are being asked to let the bottom leaves on each stalk remain in the field this year.

Growers will be permitted to plant 110 percent of their effective allotment and still receive price support if they file an agreement by May 1 agreeing not to harvest the four bottom leaves.

This is known as the "four-leaf" program. Its purpose is to reduce the inventory of downstalk tobacco held under loan by the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation, which handles the price support program for growers in all six flue-cured states.

"Every grower should give this matter his serious consideration," said Dr. T. Carlton Blalock, director of the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service.

Blalock said growers who concentrate on producing and marketing high-quality tobacco not only stand a good chance of boosting their own profits from the 1979 crop, but they also will be helping their Stabilization Cooperative to cope with the troublesome downstalk problem.

Production of downstalk priming (P) and nondescript (N) grades in the past five years has far outstripped demands. As of early this year, "P" and "N" tobaccos accounted for 231 million pounds or 39 percent of the total loan inventory held by Stabilization.

Receipts of downstalk under loan were sharply reduced in 1978, when the growing season was good and producers of about one-third of the crop participated in letting lower leaves stay in the field. In the past year or so, however, Stabilization has been able to sell only small quantities of the downstalk tobaccos held under loan.

"It's quite apparent that Stabilization cannot continue to hold these tobaccos for a long period of time without sustaining significant losses which could place the price support program in jeopardy," said Fred G. Bond, general manager of the cooperative.

Charles R. Pugh, extension economist at North Carolina State University, said the price spread between upstalk and downstalk tobaccos in recent years shows that growers who let bottom leaves remain in the field can achieve two goals simultaneously.

"They can increase their own profits and also help alleviate the situation with respect to Stabilization stocks," he said. In 1978, "P" and "N" grades across all belts averaged only $1.03 per pound, compared with an average of $1.41 for grades from middle and upper stalk positions. That was a difference of 38 cents per pound. The price difference amounted to 41 cents in 1977 and 28 cents in 1976.

Data from NCSU economists indicate that the growing cost for tobacco to replace unharvested bottom leaves is about 20 cents a pound.

Effective this year, farmers no longer will be able to store excess tobacco in carryover pools operated either by private marketing agents or by the Stabilization Cooperative. For this reason, Pugh said, the grower should ask himself how he can most profitably market the pounds he is authorized to sell.

Upstalk tobacco is easier to harvest, either by hand or machine. It is also easier to cure and, under present demand conditions, can be expected to bring a higher price. If a grower's yield history indicates he needs more acreage to replace downstalk tobacco with additional upstalk leaf, he has the option of signing up formally in the "four-leaf" program. Then he will be entitled to plant up to 10 percent extra acreage.

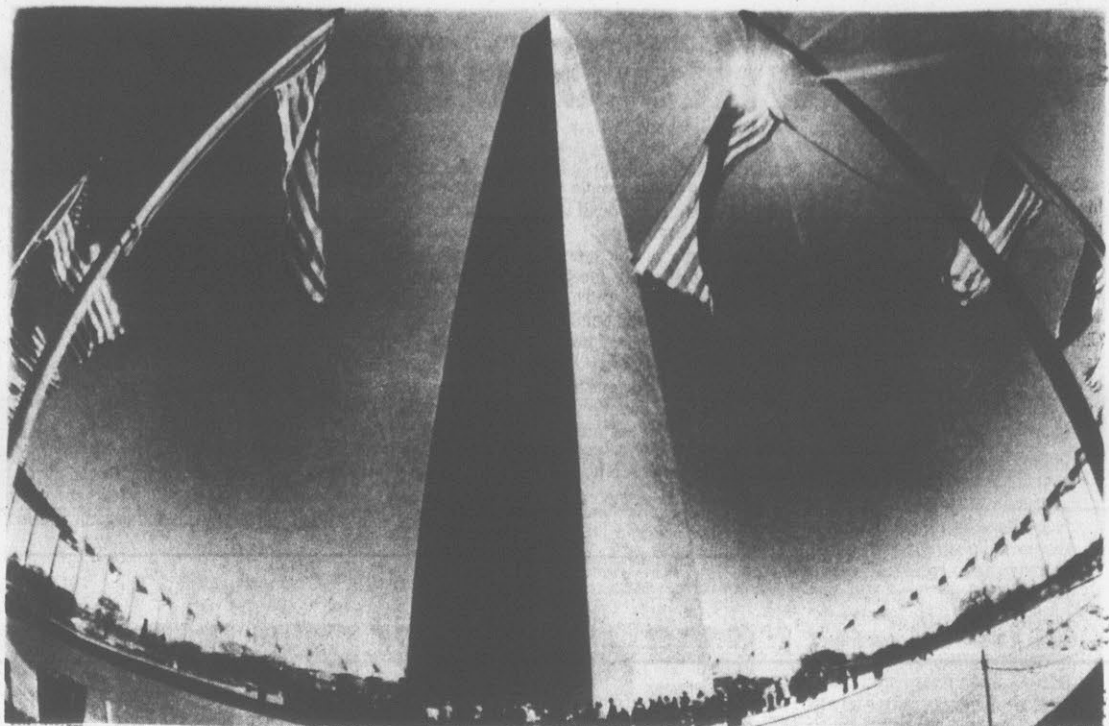

Many growers, however, will be able to produce their full marketing quota on no more than 100 percent of their allotted acreage.

"Regardless of whether a grower signs up for the program, he can help out Stabilization and increase his own profits by letting his low-quality downstalk leaves remain in the field," Pugh commented.

"His marketings then will consist of higher-quality upstalk leaves which are in demand for both domestic and export markets and which therefore can be expected to bring higher prices," he continued.

If only upstalk leaf is harvested, the NCSU economist said, the peak load is tightened on harvest labor and machinery use. But this should be a minimal problem in 1979, he said, since effective quotas are down on most farms and extra investments in barns and machinery are not likely to be expected.

A grower who "locks himself in" by signing up for the four-leaf program may lose some of his flexibility. But any portion of his marketing quota that he is unable to produce and sell will be carried over and added to his quota for the following year.

Sears Refuses Further Government Contracts

CHICAGO (AP) — Sears, Roebuck and Co., the nation's largest retailer, says it will accept no further federal contracts because of a "campaign of harassment" by federal investigators over Sears' hiring practices.

Company chairman Edward R. Telling said Tuesday that Sears will honor existing government contracts but will not bid upon or accept contracts "for an indefinite time, beginning immediately." The company's dealings with the government amount to about 1 percent of its annual business — $20 million of $17.2 billion in sales.

Telling said Sears was taking the action because the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs had started what he said appears to be "a campaign of harassment, subterfuge or retaliation." Companies that bid on government contracts must comply with federal civil rights and affirmative action laws and regulations.

In January, Sears sued 10 federal agencies, including the contract compliance agency, to resolve what it described as conflicting laws and regulations restricting jobs and promotions for minorities and women.

"After 15 months of silence, but within weeks after our suit was filed, the OFCCP suddenly decided to 'field test' the company's model affirmative action compliance plan," Telling said. "Last month, the OFCCP told us it intends to conduct almost as many on-site reviews in the next two months as it conducted in all of 1978."

Agency director Weldon Rougeau said "the government has not harassed or intimidated Sears."

Rougeau said Sears approached his office two years ago to obtain approval of a national affirmative action program (AAP) that Sears had prepared.

"After review by our staff and lawyers, we determined that several changes were needed and requested that the format for the national AAP be tested at selected Sears facilities. Sears balked and refused to be cooperative with the government."

Secretaries Week Here

Mayor Percy Cox proclaimed the period of April 22-28 as Secretaries Week and asked that "all business and industry join in giving due recognition to this group, paying special attention to Secretaries Day on Wednesday, April 25."

Cox, in his proclamation, said that "in keeping with the finest tradition of their profession, secretaries are accepting vital responsibilities and are performing important roles in commerce, industry, government, education, and the professions."

The mayor said that "to recognize the secretaries now doing their jobs diligently and to encourage others to enter this worthy career, it is essential that rightful acknowledgment be given their talents."

He said that the "efforts of these professionals and their many contributions to the nation's programs are significant."

Economy Second To Quality Among Gardeners

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Roy Chun of Honolulu uses his garden as an escape from his hectic job as a factory representative.

"I guess maybe the Chinese were right," Chun says. "Several hundred years ago some Chinese philosopher was quoted as saying, 'If you want to be happy for a day, get drunk. If you want to be happy for a week, get married. But if you want to always be happy — grow a garden.'"

Fumi Ishii, a Hawaiian grammar school teacher, also gardens for relaxation — and to save money. Both she and Chun are members of the Makiki Garden Association. Popular vegetables there range from taro, a root, to Chinese cabbage and lettuce — the latter "because it's so expensive in stores," the teacher says.

People who think a home garden saves money are only partly right.

"The potential savings are almost nil the first year and possibly even the second and third," says John O. Davies III of Gardens for All, a Vermont-based national, non-profit organization that promotes home gardening.

"If you go easy on purchasing tools, plant intensively and spend a lot of time on what's growing," your chances for saving money are better, Davies told a food preservation seminar in New York City.

The organization's sixth annual Gallup survey indicates family food growing last year continued a slow downward trend that started in 1976. Only 41 percent of U.S. households had a garden last year, compared with 49 percent in the peak year of 1975.

The survey also indicated 44 percent plan to expand their gardens this year.

The 1975 peak in home gardening coincided with a period of inflation, high food prices and fossil fuel shortages — conditions that are repeating themselves today. But many gardeners drifted away, the Gallup study showed, as economic and energy pressures lessened somewhat and/or the gardeners' interest diminished.

In Washington, a social science analyst at the U.S. Department of Agriculture said, "My gut feeling is that there will be more gardens this year than last." In a telephone interview, Evelyn Kaitz speculated that memories of the past winter's lettuce and cabbage price increases will lead more people to grow the greens themselves this summer.

Also, "If we have an energy crunch, if people can't drive, they're going to be looking for things such as gardening to do at home," she said. "This is what happened in 1975."

Mrs. Kaitz said USDA surveys never ask people how much they get from their gardens in terms of yield and retail value.

In fact, department studies show economy is second to better quality and flavor as the reasons people give for gardening.

They plant at home and elsewhere. The Gallup study found 88 percent of last year's gardens were in the owners' backyards.

Community gardens, almost non-existent seven years ago, now attract about one million families annually, or three percent of the total last year, according to the Gallup study.

Many community gardens offer an economic advantage over backyard plots in the form of free rototilling, tools and fertilizer, for example.

Some community gardens this year have waiting lists and others are crippled by inflation and austerity programs.

Some are troubled by vandalism, especially in inner cities.

The Makiki group in Hawaii is among those with a waiting list. A three-man inspection committee checks up twice a month. Gardeners who fail to work their plots or who let them go unattended must surrender them to the next person on the list.

St. Louis's four-year-old program for low income families has shifted its emphasis from vacant lots to smaller projects on backyards and side lots as one way of coping with such problems as vandals and dogs, said Martin Rosen, associate executive director of the sponsoring Human Development Corp.

Canning, Freezing Don't Always Pay

NEW YORK (UPI) — Growing your own fruits and vegetables for canning and freezing doesn't always pay.

A Cornell University professor who conducted a cost analysis of home canning and preserving found that even when it does, the savings in dollars and cents aren't great.

Ruth Klippstein reported on her project at a food preservation seminar in New York City. She and five summer assistants at Cornell's Ithaca, N.Y. campus prepared the analysis using food from home gardens and roadside stands last summer.

"If you can get peaches from a neighbor's tree or 'free' ... it is well worth the effort (to can them)," Mrs. Klippstein said. "If not, then expect the cost of a quart to be substantial. If you must add the cost of the jars and lids you are in the price range of the commercial product.

If you can tomatoes, she said, it's BEST to know a gardener with surplus," because of the progression of cost of the raw fruit. If you lack that option, she added, it does cost less to grow your own, and the dollar cost of home preserved tomatoes is attractive.

As for home canned green beans, those from the garden cost two cents more per quart than beans bought by the bushel at roadside stands in the area.

Mrs. Klippstein said their cost calculations did not take in the price of gasoline to drive to and from the roadside stands — or to and from stores for jars and lids. Nor did they calculate the costs of raising and picking beans, and the time spent preserving them. They did include the cost of jars and lids and fuel — both gas and electricity.

She said peaches, tomatoes and green beans were selected for the project because they are foods people preserve in large quantities by canning or freezing.

126 Are Initiated By Honor Society

ECU News Bureau

The East Carolina University chapter of Phi Kappa Phi honor society initiated 126 graduate and undergraduate students in its annual initiation ceremony April 23.

Also inducted as a member of the society was Dr. Thomas Brewer, Chancellor of ECU.

Prof. George Broussard of the ECU School of Music faculty president of the ECU chapter, formally conferred membership on 34 graduate students and 92 seniors, all of whom were invited to become members on the basis of their superior academic grade point average.

Two students received the chapter's annual awards.

Catherine Anne Dreyer of Langley Air Force Base, Va. was given the Phi Kappa Phi Outstanding Freshman Award, and William Griffin Garner of Greenville received the Outstanding Senior Award. He is majoring in accounting and finance in the ECU School of Business.

Dr. Brewer was featured speaker at the ceremony. Following the initiation, he and Mrs. Brewer honored the new Phi Kappa Phi members and their guests at a reception at the Chancellor's Residence on East Fifth Street.

One of the oldest and largest honor societies in the nation, Phi Kappa Phi encourages and rewards achievement in all academic fields.

An annual project of the ECU chapter is sponsorship of a major symposium on a topic of widespread concern. These have included symposia on the energy problem and world hunger.

William Garner is the son of Leslie Garner of 1702 Knolwood Drive, Greenville.

ERA Opponent Ready For Another Big Challenge

By TOM UHLENBROCK ALTON, Ill. (UPI) — Having won what she calls the greatest political victory of this century, Phyllis Schlafly sits in her stone mansion on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi River and awaits her next challenge.

"I enjoy certain achievements," she said. "I certainly have enjoyed defeating very powerful forces in the fight against the Equal Rights Amendment."

When ERA backers failed to gain ratification in 38 states before the March 22 deadline, Mrs. Schlafly was the center of a gala victory celebration in Washington, even though Congress has extended the deadline. "I think it's the most remarkable political victory of the 20th century," she said in an interview. "We've been fighting the full power of the federal government. Millions of dollars of your tax money have been spent to ratify ERA."

Mrs. Schlafly, mother of six and wife of a wealthy lawyer, swept into the national limelight in 1964 with her book, "A Choice, Not an Echo," about presidential candidate Barry Goldwater.

She enjoyed her spot in the public eye.

"I was writing a monthly newsletter called the Phyllis Schlafly Report — I had been doing that since 1967 — and when Congress voted out the ERA in February 1972, I wrote one called 'What's Wrong with Equal Rights for Women' and it took off into orbit."

The anti-ERA forces needed a spearhead and Mrs. Schlafly was a perfect choice to lead the Stop ERA group.

Mrs. Schlafly's tailored good looks and graciousness cultivated by a life spent in the proper circles presented an image of respectability.

Always conscious of the public image, Mrs. Schlafly believes ERA backers hurt themselves in the early going with bra-burning stunts and other theatrics.

"And their image didn't improve as the years went on," she said. "The high point of their advertising themselves was the Houston Conference in November 1977. It was a disaster. They had $5 million to spend and they were worse off after they spent it."

Such stands as lesbian rights — a much publicized topic at the Houston meeting — soured the public. Mrs. Schlafly capitalized by talking of the draft, combat duty, alimony payments, child custody and insurance rates when telling women why the ERA was not an advance.

Mrs. Schlafly said ERA is now muddled in legalities — she questions the extension and says only four states did not include the seven-year deadline in their ratifications — and will not meet the new deadline of June 30, 1982.

If the battle continues, Mrs. Schlafly is prepared. "When you win the heavy-weight championship," she said with a smile, "you still have to defend your title."

Asked about other plans for the future, Mrs. Schlafly said, "I already have the greatest job in the world being a lawyer's wife and a free lance writer."

But politics also is a possibility for Mrs. Schlafly, who ran unsuccessfully for Congress in 1970 and served as a Republican National Convention delegate.

Mrs. Schlafly, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Washington University in St. Louis with a master's degree in government from Radcliffe College in Cambridge, Mass., spent 3½ years recently earning a law degree and is in the midst of her bar exams. She acknowledged that she has been asked to run against Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill.

"There's starting to be more efforts for me to run for Adlai Stevenson's seat," she said, "but I don't think I want to do that."

However, she noted that all six children are away at school and her efficient operation is too good to disband.

"I've built up quite a nice organization. It would be effective if I wanted to run for office."

And she said her law degree could allow her to become a career woman.

"I made myself into the country's expert on the Equal Rights Amendment, which is something of great constitutional significance," she said. "It's been very useful to me to have that degree."

"I think it's a great example of what a woman can do."

Pre-Med Students To Attend Program

ECU News Bureau Shelia Bowe of Elizabeth City and Michael Judge of Rocky Mount, pre-medicine students at East Carolina University and members of Alpha Epsilon Delta honor society, have been selected to participate in an intensive eight-week medical education session at UNC-Chapel Hill this summer.

They were among 60 pre-medicine students selected from 500 applicants to participate in the program, whose form and content is similar to the first semester of medical school.

Participants in the Medical Education Development Program attend classes offered through the UNC-Chapel Hill School of Medicine.

Alpha Epsilon Delta is a national honor society for pre-medicine and pre-dentistry students which recognizes and encourages achievement in undergraduate preparation for medical/dental studies.

The ECU chapter recently elected new officers for the 1979-80 academic year. Ms. Bowe was elected treasurer and Judge was elected reporter.

Other officers are Stephen Bridgers of Clarkston, president; Milbrey Cate of Houston, Texas, vice president; Jerry Price of Fremont, historian and Patricia Vaughan, secretary.

New England Journal Of Medicine Not 'Dull'

By DANIEL Q. HANEY Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The top man at the New England Journal of Medicine is accustomed to opening letters from irate doctors.

Editor Arnold S. Relman knows the gripe well:

"Somebody calls the doctor and says, 'What about such and such a drug?' The doctor says, 'What drug?' And the patient says, 'Well, I heard it on the radio this morning. It's in the New England Journal of Medicine, and it's good for what I have.'"

It's a problem most magazines would relish.

The journal publishes so many newsworthy stories — usually one or two a week — that newspapers and networks treat it as a regular source of medical news. Thus patients learn of new treatments before their doctors get the journal in the mail.

The magazine has been recording medical firsts since 1812. It is the oldest medical journal in the world, and in the opinion of many doctors, it is the best. Relman claims his journal is the only one a general practitioner will ever need to read.

The journal has made a point of being the first to publish medicine's newest techniques, discoveries and observations since the days of founder John Collins Warren, an eminent Boston physician.

Warren's own work helped build the journal's reputation. He used it in 1846 to tell of his part in the first public demonstration of ether — one of the most important medical events of the 19th Century.

Among other publishing landmarks: in 1853, the journal printed the first report on a hysterectomy; in 1943, the first description of a ruptured spinal disc, and in 1967, the first use of L-dopa to treat victims of Parkinson's disease.

How did the journal become so important?

"Simply by being around for a long time and developing a tradition that reflects the character and quality of medicine in Boston and New England," says Relman, a 55-year-old kidney specialist who has edited the magazine for two years.

The Journal, $25 a year by subscription only, has a circulation of 190,000. It is owned by the Massachusetts Medical Society but operates from the top floor of the Harvard Medical School's Countway Library.

About half of the nation's 310,000 physicians subscribe to it, and its international circulation is unrivaled.

Angler Maintains Pollution Is Killing U.S. Trout

By FRED T. FERGUSON
NEW YORK (UPI) — No way is George Mendoza your average trout fisherman. This author and poet goes trout fishing, all right. In fact, next to his books and poetry, fishing is the passion of his life. But his trout fishing nowadays is confined to such faraway places as Yugoslavia, Spain, Chile.

In fact, with trout season at hand George stopped by to say a few good things about going fishing. He was going fishing at the time — to Yugoslavia again.

There, he said, "It's absolutely the best, most wonderful trout fishing in the world and I've fished for trout just about everywhere there's great trout fishing."

Actually, when he got to the getting of it, George had very little good to say about what's happening to his favorite kind of fishing in most places and in North America in particular.

He'll be casting on the Gacka River in Croatia when this report is published. So he let fly.

"It's really terrible. The waters are polluted just about everywhere. I've fished all over the United States. But basically for some years now, I've done my fishing abroad because of the pollution. Of course, it's not confined to this country.

"There used to be great fishing in Canada. There still is. But I just read Lee Perkins — he's president of the Orbis Co. which makes tackle — was fishing north of Alberta. Said the fishing was great. But what a shame. The fish were not edible.

"And that far north. I wouldn't have believed there would be pollution. But there is. I find today more and more people are telling me to go fishing now for I may not be able to tomorrow.

"When I lived near the Battenkill River in Vermont, it was lovely. Then one night I was fishing and a friend came down and said, 'Did you hear? You can't fish here anymore?'"

"Most of the fish have died in the Adirondack Lakes.

"Out west, you have the great salmon hatches. But now I've heard many fishermen saying, 'What's happening to the hatches?'"

Your average fisherman will say, this Mendoza with the gentleman outdoorsman look — tall, curly black hair, an ascot always at his neck — doesn't know what he's talking about. There's good fishing in such places. In Montana, too, which is another former love of George's.

So perhaps he is a bit carried away by the threat to the nation's and the world's trout streams. But let him explain. "Oh yes, the pressure is tremendous now, trying to preserve stretches of these rivers. But we're seeing the end in this country of what was once great trout fishing. Some day, not too far off, many fishermen will be going only to stocked streams."

Stocked is the key word. George isn't that kind of fisherman.

"The last time I fished in this country was a year or so ago. Went up to a stocked pond south of Boston for the NBC

Today show, not really to fish. But the idea I want to get across is that we no longer have the wild fish.

"I grew up as a boy in Vermont knowing wild brook trout and brown trout. There's something mystical about these creatures. They grew up over hundreds of years. They're not manufactured by man's hands."

And so he goes abroad to fish where he says the trout are still wild.

He's a great collector of trout flies. But when he fishes, he's never loaded with tackle boxes. He takes three or four flies only. And his hooks are no longer barbed because a trout he caught last year showed a spot of blood at the mouth. Nor does he use a net. He beaches his fish, then gentles them back to the water to be fished again some day.

Nor does he fish with a group. A companion or guide, that's all.

Most of his books are for children. Coming out this year are one with Andres Segovia on learning to play the guitar and two of his poetry with Norman Rockwell illustrations. But he's written also of fishing. His book, Secret Places of Trout Fishermen — Macmillan, describes his favored fishing haunts.

He's fished, to name a few, Ireland, Germany, Spain, France, England, Scotland, Switzerland, Afghanistan, most of the U.S. and Canada, and Chile and Argentina where he tries to return each year in January or February.

"Of them all," he maintains with a religious fervor, "Yugoslavia has the best.

"The water is so pure on the Gacka, you can see to the bottom. You fill a wine bottle to drink the water. The trout are very big, 5 to 12 pounds. They're very selective in taking the fly.

"Last year I rolled up a 12 pounder. For 10 seconds the rod was bent over, reeled out screaming. He snapped me, that is the thrill of it, to go into the wild areas, the free open spaces, with a sense of rhythm with nature, the power of nature. You feel it in the hands, the heart."

GEORGE MENDOZA, who grew up as a boy knowing wild brook trout, says Americans are seeing the end of what was once great trout fishing. (UPI Photo)

Varied Meaning In Rose Colors

CHICAGO (AP) — There are many different colors of roses, and each hue has a special meaning, according to the Rose Information Bureau, which adds that when several colors in various stages of bloom are combined in one arrangement, the floral bouquet can "speak a whole sentence, instead of just one thought."

"Rose talk," the bureau notes, has its roots in the past. In Victorian times, such meaningful nosegays were known as "tussie-mussies," and courtships were often carried on from first blush to the altar with rose bouquets.

The tradition is regaining favor with today's young romantics, reports the bureau, which offers some of the most widely accepted meanings for different rose colors, blooms and arrangements:

—Red roses say "I love you," and also stand for respect and courage.

—White roses have several meanings: "You're heavenly," reverence and humility, innocence and purity, "I'm worthy of you," and secrecy and silence.

—Red and white roses together, or white roses with red edges, signify unity.

—Pink roses in general symbolize grace and gentility. For more subtle shades of meaning, choose deep pink to stand for gratitude and appreciation. Light pink conveys admiration or sympathy.

—Yellow roses usually stand for joy and gladness, but can also say "try to care."

—Coral or orange roses denote enthusiasm and desire.

—A deep burgundy rose means beauty.

—Red and yellow blends stand for jovial and happy feelings.

—Pale colors convey sociability and friendship.

—Rosebuds symbolize beauty, youth and a heart innocent of love, or: "You are young and beautiful." Red rosebuds mean "pure and lovely" and white rosebuds signify girlhood or "too young to love." The moss rosebud stands for confessions of love.

—A single rose stands for simplicity. In full bloom it means "I love you" or "I love you still," and a bouquet of roses in full bloom signifies gratitude.

—Withered white roses have two meanings: fleeting beauty and "you made no impression."

—Hybrid tea roses mean "I'll remember you always," and sweetheart roses symbolize just what their name implies.

—Two roses taped or wired together to form a single stem signal an engagement or coming marriage.

—A full-blown rose placed over two buds forms a combination that signifies secrecy.

—A crown made of roses signifies reward of virtue.

—In general, leaves are a symbol of hope.

Their Suspect Blue In Face

ERLANGER, Ky. (AP) — Police have arrested a robbery suspect who was not quite red-handed but certainly was blue in the face.

Patrolman Tom Sharp said a customer in a convenience store thrust his hand into his pocket and demanded $50 Monday from a woman clerk. But the clerk squirted a stream of blue ink into the bandit's face and he fled without the money.

Minutes later, Sharp arrested the man, who has been charged with criminal intent to commit armed robbery.

"It wasn't hard to identify him," Sharp said. "He had ink all over his face and in his hair."

Accident-Free Trucker Honored

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — For the past 43 years, Frank Waldron, a trucker, has logged 3.5 million miles behind the wheel — the equivalent of 140 times around the earth — and has not been involved in an accident.

Waldron, 67, who now drives for a Dallas transportation company, was honored recently as the national driver of the year by the American Trucking Association, Inc.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged upward today, struggling to extend the modest rally of the past three sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 11.61 points in the past three sessions, added another .60 to 867.46 in the first half hour today.

Gainers outpaced losers by a 3-2 margin in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said generally strong first-quarter earnings reports have helped the market in recent sessions.

Another dose of bad inflation news is expected Thursday when the government makes its monthly report on the consumer price index.

But brokers noted that it was unlikely to come as a surprise to most investors.

General Motors was the early volume leader among NYSE issues, unchanged at 59 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average, up 11 points at its mid-day peak, closed with a 6.76 gain at 866.86.

Advances outnumbered declines by a 5-3 spread on the NYSE.

Big Board volume came to 35.54 million shares against 25.61 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index gained .32 to 57.61.

Arrest Woman In Flim-Flam

Greenville police yesterday, assisting an investigation by the Beaufort County Sheriff's Department and the State Bureau of Investigation, took a 22-year-old Raleigh woman into custody in connection with a $30,000 flim-flam scheme.

Chief Glenn Cannon identified the woman, charged by Beaufort County authorities with attempting to obtain money by false pretenses, as Joanne Devonshire.

Beaufort County Sheriff O. E. "Red" Davis said Ms. Devonshire was jailed under a $40,000 bond pending court action in the case.

Davis said Ms. Devonshire allegedly approached Mrs. Nellie G. Whitley, 71 of Route 2 Washington, Monday at a Raleigh shopping center and said she would give Mrs. Whitley half of some money that she had found if the Washington woman would put up some money as collateral.

The sheriff said Mrs. Whitley withdrew $18,856 from a savings and loan office in New Bern yesterday and was in the process of withdrawing several thousand dollars from a Greenville savings and loan when police moved in and took Ms. Devonshire into custody about 1:45 p.m.

Davis said Deputy Nelson Sheppard and SBI agents are continuing their investigation into the alleged fraud attempt.

If Too High, Do Not Buy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland says high-priced beef to a consumer is a little like a high-priced tractor to a farmer: "If you can't afford it, don't buy it."

But Bergland said Tuesday he is opposed to a planned consumer boycott of beef or "meatless days" to protest high prices.

"I think we who consume should buy what we can afford," he said. "There is no way to alleviate a shortage except by price."

Bergland told the annual meeting of the Newspaper Farm Writers of America that beef supplies will not increase until cattle producers finish rebuilding herds two or three years from now.

Until that happens, he said, prices will stay high and the limited amount of beef available will go to those with enough money to buy it.

The Agriculture Department now expects retail prices for all cuts of beef to average more than 20 percent higher this year than last year's record $1.82 a pound.

Arrested On Forgery Counts

Greenville Police yesterday arrested Mary Sharp Oakes, 34 of 100 Holly Brook Estates on charges of forgery and uttering forged checks in connection with six cases here earlier this month, according to Chief Glenn Cannon.

Cannon said Ms. Oakes allegedly used forged checks totaling $105 in connection with two incidents at Kroger's on April 10, two incidents at Brody's on April 9 involving $85, an incident at Brody's on April 7, involving $75, and another incident at Brody's on April 4, involving $65.

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Nineteen adults and one juvenile were arrested Tuesday night and charged with felonious possession or sale of controlled substances in a sweeping drug raid conducted by Richmond County law enforcement agencies and the SBI.

Development Workshop Set

WILLIAMSTON — A Coastal Plain Development Association Development Workshop will be held Thursday, April 26, at the Martin County Agricultural Extension Office here. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

Sally Wade and Joe Albertson of the Governor's Office for Citizen Affairs and Cecilia Winiacki of North Carolina State University will present ideas on resources for community development. Paul Thompson of NCSU will give a slide-tape presentation and discussion on organizational maintenance.

Vance E. Hamilton, NCSU, will explain CPDA programs and explain the purpose of the workshop. The meeting will be geared toward community lay leaders.

Interested persons should call Leroy James of the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Office, 758-1196, to make attendance plans.

MAKEUP MEETINGS

The following Democratic precincts will hold makeup meetings Thursday, April 26, 8 p.m., at the respective polling places: Greenville No. 1, No. 5, No. 6, and Winterville.

Pirates Nip Marlins On Passed Ball

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
East Carolina used a bases-loaded passed ball to push over a run in the bottom of the ninth inning and take a 6-5 baseball victory over Virginia Wesleyan last night.

The win climaxed a game that saw the Pirates fail to score an earned run thanks to eight errors by their opponents.

But East Carolina helped things along by making two errors of its own that contributed to a four of the five Blue Marlin runs, including a three-run rally in the top of the ninth that tied it up.

The game erupted into a near-brawl as the winning run, represented by Bob Neff, slid across the plate.

Losing pitcher Donnie Newbold had some words for batter Raymie Styons as he walked back toward the dugout, and the two turned toward each other, with the benches of both teams emptying briefly before order was restored.

Coach Monte Little, who had made one trip to the plate about the situation earlier, complained after the game that the officials had let things get out of hand.

"They (Virginia Wesleyan) were calling out players' names and numbers, taunting, making threats, cursing, and so on. Umpires are not supposed to allow things like that to go on. That's probably why things happened at the end like they did."

Parker Davis opened the game for the Pirates and rolled through the first eight batters without incident before allowing the first Marlin hit, a single by Kenny Adams.

After being touched for a run in the fourth, getting in trouble again in the fifth, and giving up another run in the sixth, he was relieved by Billy Wilder, who later allowed the Marlins to tie it up. Wilder, however, was around for the end and received credit for the win, his second against no losses.

Newbold, now 2-3, went all the way.

Wilder, in just over three innings, allowed four hits, gave up three unearned runs, walked three and struck out seven.

The Pirates, after threats in the first and second, pushed over four unearned runs in the third as the Marlins made four errors. Mike Sorrell reached on the first of the miscues, and Bob Neff grounded to third. The fielder first started to go to second, saw he had no time, and then was too late on his throw to first, as Neff beat it out for a hit. Billy Best grounded to the mound, getting Sorrell at third. Butch Davis reached on another error at third, loading the bases. Macon Moye then tripled to deep center, scoring all three runners. Max Raynor reached on the third error on the inning, and when a pickoff attempt at first was awry, Moye trotted home with the fourth run.

Virginia Wesleyan came up with its first run in the top of the fourth. Dan Page doubled and scored on Matt Sinnen's two-out single.

The Pirates got that back in the bottom of the inning making it 5-1. With two outs, Neff reached on an error. He stole second and went to third on an error on the throw-down. He scored on Best's single to left.

After missing out on a chance in the fifth, the Marlins scored again in the sixth. Page singled and was safe at second when Doug Carroll's grounder was misplayed. After two outs, Greg Harris singled to right, scoring Page.

Virginia Wesleyan scored again in the ninth, getting three to tie it up. Bob Smith walked and Rob Fallon reached on an error. Scott Smith also walked and Greg Curtis hit back to third, getting Fallon, but allowing Bob Smith to score. Doug Carroll walked, loading the bases again, and a single by Sin-nen brought in Scott Smith and Curtis to tie it up.

The Pirates, after threatening in the fifth, pushed over the winning run in the bottom of the ninth. Neff led off with a single to center and Best sacrificed him up. Davis was intentionally walked and Moye was hit by a pitch, loading the bases. With two down via a strikeout, a passed ball allowed Neff to streak home with the game-ending run.

The victory raised the Pirate record to 21-14, while Virginia Wesleyan fell to 18-13-1.

Knights Rip Goldsboro, 17-3

GOLDSBORO — Greenville Christian Academy romped to a 17-3 victory over Goldsboro in a five-inning game, shortened by a 10-run rule.

Richard Smith pitched a two-hitter for the Knights, striking out 13 of the 15 batters he faced, as GCA raised its record to 6-6 overall and 4-1 in the conference.

The winners pushed three runs across in the first inning yesterday. George Griner led off the first by reaching on an error. He stole second and was singled in by Troy Hudson. Hudson stole and David Williams reached on an error to score him. Williams stole second and scored on Chuck Allen's single.

Griner scored what turned out to be the winning run in the second when he singled, stole second and came in on Hudson's base hit.

Chuck Allen paced the Knight hitting with a 3-4 performance, while Griner was 2-3, Hudson and Ben Haddock 2-4 and Smith 2-5.

The Knights play at Calvary on Monday.

Roanoke Nips Plymouth Nine

PLYMOUTH — Roanoke scored six runs in the seventh inning to defeat Plymouth 16-12 in a high-scoring baseball game yesterday.

The Redskins got off to a 9-0 lead in the first three innings, but Plymouth came back to tie the score at 10-10 going into the final frame. Roanoke scored six runs in the top of the seventh and Plymouth pushed across two in the bottom before the game ended.

In the seventh, Will Harris and Anthony Latham singled for Roanoke and moved up on a sacrifice. Glenn Cargile walked to load the bases and Mutt Smith got a base on balls to push in Harris. Latham scored on Tony Whitfield's fielder's choice and while Keel singled in Cargile and Smith. Street Lee got a base hit to score Whitfield and Wesley Johnson knocked in the final run.

Roanoke was paced by Latham, Keel, Lee and Clay Roberson with two hits each, while Waters had three and Barber two for Plymouth. The Redskins are now 8-2 overall and 4-1 in the Northeastern Conference. They play at Williamston on Friday.

Disheartened Rampants Suffer Second League Loss By 9-5

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer

Rose High's injury-riddled baseball team suffered its second defeat of the season yesterday when Northern Nash defeated the Rampants 9-5.

After losing starting shortstop Ronnie Chapman and starting first baseman Will Sanderson for the season in last week's Greenville-Pitt Baseball Tournament, Rose fell behind 5-0 in the early going yesterday before attempting to rally.

The Rampants pulled to 5-3 in the fifth, but gave up three more runs in the sixth. They pushed across a pair in the bottom of the sixth to make it 8-5, before the Knights scored their final run in the seventh.

"We didn't play well," coach Ronald Vincent said after the game. "We weren't ready to play today, and that's my fault." Vincent said his team reached an emotional peak when it won the tournament Friday night and was not prepared mentally for yesterday's game.

In addition, the team was without its number two batter, Chapman, and number three batter, Sanderson. Chapman broke his ankle in a slide Thursday night, while Sanderson suffered a liver injury in a collision along the first base line Friday night. Both are seniors and will not be back after undergoing surgery for their injuries.

Vincent said he saw some positive signs in the game, despite the loss. "The important thing is our guys never gave up. They came battling back."

Because of that, Vincent said, "We feel pretty good. We made a lot of errors, but we don't feel like we're going to make them too many more times." The Rampants had five errors, three in one inning. Only five of the Knight runs were earned.

"On top of that, Northern Nash is a good-hitting team." The Knights had nine hits in the game, including five doubles.

Northern Nash, now 7-8 overall and 3-3 in Division I, scored its first run in the top of the first. Ray Long reached on an error and went to second on a fielder's choice. He was doubled home by Bruce Ellis.

The Rampants missed a golden opportunity to score in the bottom of the frame when Mark Shank reached third with no out, but the next three batters grounded to third base to end the frame.

The Knights scored four runs in the third, all with two out. Wells doubled with two away and was singled in by Long. Ellis walked and Dwayne Pridgen doubled to score Long. Donald Boyd singled up the middle to plate Ellis and Pridgen and make it 5-0.

The Rampants finally got things unwound in the fifth. Mike Williams led off with a walk and moved to second when Joey Matheis' fielder's choice was erred. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch and Mark Douglas singled them in. Douglas scored on a base hit by Shank.

Three Rampant errors in the top of the sixth allowed the Knights to score a trio of unearned runs. Leadoff batter Donald Boyd reached on an error before relief pitcher Skip Topping got the next two batters out.

James Jones then got on via a Rose misplay and Steve Proctor did the same thing to score Boyd. Jones and Proctor scored when Wells doubled.

Topping hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the inning to pull the Rampants to 8-5. Junior Neal led off with a single to left and Topping followed by hitting the first pitch over the left field fence. He squared around to bunt before slamming the ball out of the park.

Two more Rampants reached base in the inning, but neither was able to score.

Ellis led off the top of the seventh with a double for Northern Nash came in on a single by Mike Thomas to round out the scoring.

Lindsey Winstead started on the mound for the Rampants and suffered his first loss of the season to put his record at 6-1. He pitched for 2½ innings before Topping came in to finish up.

James Jones started for the Knights and got his third win against no losses. Carl Payne pitched the final two innings for Northern Nash and picked up a save.

Rose has another Division I game Friday night when the Rampants host Wilson Hunt in a 7:30 game.

Williamston Blasts Ahoskie

AHOSKIE — Williamston High School rolled to a 10-5 baseball victory over Ahoskie High School yesterday.

The Tigers pushed over two runs in the top of the first for the initial lead. Chuck Rogerson walked and Randy Ellis hit a two-run homer.

Ahoskie came back to tie it up with two in the bottom of the frame. Bonds singled and Renner walked. Both stole up, and Spivey brought in Bonds with a sacrifice fly. Renner then stole third and scored when Rountree grounded out.

In the third, Williamston put the game away with six runs, taking an 8-2 lead. Rogerson walked and Ellis reached on an error. Alan Peaks walked, loading the bases. McKinley Williams singled in two runs, and an error on a stolen base let Peaks score. Williams then scored when Victor Thorne grounded out. Phil Peaks got it going again with a double, scoring when Keith Clark singled. Jeff Odom then doubled in Clark.

Williamston added single runs in the fifth and sixth, while Ahoskie got one each in the third, sixth and seventh.

Ellis led the Williamston hitting with three, while Odom and Clark each had two. Renner had three and Murray, two, for Ahoskie.

The Tigers, now 5-9, entertain Edenton today.

Lady Jags Defeated

FARMVILLE — Charles B. Aycock gained an 8-2 girls' softball victory over Farmville Central yesterday.

Aycock got all it needed in the first inning, scoring five runs. It added single runs in the second, fourth and sixth. Both Farmville runs came in the fifth.

T. Gardner pitched the victory for Aycock, while D. Head and Bunn each had two hits for the Falconettes.

Beth Massey, Angie O'Brien and Hope Strickland each had two hits for Farmville.

The Lady Jaguars, now 1-10, travel to Greene Central today.

Conley In Victory

HOLLYWOOD — Southern Nash pushed over two runs in the second inning to move ahead for good and take a 7-2 victory over D.H. Conley in baseball yesterday.

Southern scored its first run in the opening inning as S. Griffin walked, stole second and scored when R. Wilder singled.

Conley came back to tie it up with one in the bottom of the inning. Sammy Tucker singled and later scored when Micah Dixon grounded out.

In the second, the Firebirds added two for a 3-1 lead. A. Stone singled and stole both second and third, scoring on R. Strickland's out. H. Dunn reached on an error, scoring when Griffin also was safe on an error.

The loss dropped Conley to 8-6. The Vikings play Charles B. Aycock on Friday.

Southern Nash 120 040 0-7 9 2
Conley 100 001 0-2 3 4

Southwest Tops A-G

PINETOPS — Southwest Edgecombe eased to a 5-1 baseball victory over Ayden-Grifton High School yesterday.

The Chargers played the game under protest when officials at the game forced the game to be played under speed-up rules, against the consent of Ayden-Grifton.

Southwest scored first, getting a run in the first. Leonard Mayo singled and moved to third on two wild pitches. He scored when Jeff Ellis singled.

Ayden-Grifton tied it up with one in the second. Vic Setliff reached on an error as did Chris Phillips. Hector Lewis walked, and a single by Chris Strickland brought in Setliff.

In the fourth, the Cougars came up with three runs to take a 4-1 lead. Jay Harwood walked and Mayo singled. Ellis reached on an error, scoring Harwood. Edmondson walked and a single by Bruce Rhodes brought in Mayo and Ellis.

The other run came in the fifth.

Ayden-Grifton fell to 2-13 with the loss. They entertain Farmville Central on Saturday.

Call Angers Both Giants, Mets

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer
 Joe Torre of the New York Mets and Joe Altobelli of the San Francisco Giants played their version of "Who's on first?" — only this one wasn't very funny to either manager. "It was like Abbott and Costello out there," quipped New York infielder Richie Hebner after watching the act at Shea Stadium Tuesday night during the Mets' 10-3 victory over the Giants.

The discussion between the two about a bizarre play at first base ended in what Torre called "a compromise — the Camp David accord." But there was still some confusion over the details after 28 minutes of animated talk.

"After you allow the man to second base, how do you call him out for not going back to first base?" Torre wondered aloud.

This was the situation: The Mets had runners at first and third when Lee Mazzilli hit a fly ball to right that Jack Clark appeared to catch. Hebner, halfway to second on the play, retreated to first only to find Mazzilli waving at him to reverse directions. Now it appeared that Clark had dropped the ball.

Umpire Phil Lospitalier was still signaling 'out' when Clark relayed the ball to Bill Madlock, who stepped on first for what San Francisco thought was a double play. The Mets, however, had different ideas, claiming the dropped ball made both Hebner and Mazzilli safe.

Both teams howled and the umpires — working in place of regulars who are involved in a contract dispute — vacillated. Finally, they ruled Mazzilli out and ordered Hebner back to first. It hardly satisfied either Torre or Altobelli, each of whom filed a protest.

Things were a little calmer around the rest of the National League Tuesday night, as Pittsburgh routed Cincinnati 9-2; Philadelphia edged Los Angeles 7-6 in 10 innings; St. Louis took a 6-5 decision over Atlanta and Montreal whipped San Diego 5-1. The Houston-Chicago game was postponed by rain.

Pirates 9, Reds 2
 John Milner's two-run homer and a solo blast by Dave Parker helped Pittsburgh beat Cincinnati. The Pirates jumped on last-minute starter rookie Frank Pastore for two runs in the first inning and four more in the fourth. Pastore was a last-minute choice of Manager John McNamara when Tom Seaver, who was scheduled to start for Cincinnati, complained of a lower back sprain during his pre-game warmup.

Phillies 7, Dodgers 6
 Relief pitcher Ron Reed doubled with two outs in the 10th inning and scored on Larry Bowa's single to lead Philadelphia over Los Angeles. Reed's run capped a night of comebacks for both teams. The Dodgers built a 3-0 lead, fell behind 6-3 and tied it in the eighth with three runs to send the game into extra innings.

Expos 5, Padres 1
 Ted Simmons belted a solo home run in the 10th inning off relief ace Gene Garber, pacing St. Louis over Atlanta. The victory went to Cardinal reliever Mark Littell, who also beat the Braves in relief in a 10-inning game Monday night.

Loser Gets Fix-Up Bill

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — Former North Carolina stars Walter Davis and Phil Ford are on opposite sides in the NBA playoff between the Phoenix Suns and the Kansas City Kings, and first one out fixes the apartment.

Davis, 1978 NBA Rookie of the Year, is averaging 23.8 points per game for Phoenix this far in the playoffs while Ford is performing his ball-handling wizardry for Kansas City, although slumping somewhat in the scoring column.

But off the court, Davis and Ford are the closest of friends, and whoever is knocked out of the playoffs first returns to Chapel Hill to decorate the apartment they will share this summer.

"We feel it's bad we have to meet this soon in the playoffs," Davis said Tuesday. "We would have liked to have met later — in the finals. It means one of us will go back to Chapel Hill early and start decorating the apartment. I went home early last year. I don't want to go this time."

Tuesday night, Davis left the Suns' motel and went out to dinner with the Kings' Ford, something the two former teammates usually do when their teams are playing in Phoenix or Kansas City.

Right now, they're in Kansas City where they play tonight with Phoenix leading the playoffs 2-1. So far, the Suns have been effective in shutting off Ford, leading contender for this year's NBA Rookie of the Year honor.

Jaguars Take Win

FARMVILLE — Farmville Central defeated Greene Central 6-3 in a tennis match yesterday. The Jaguars lost the first three singles events, but came back to win the final six matches.

The win gives the Jags 7-2 record, while the Rams are now 6-8. Farmville plays at Southern Nash Thursday, while Greene Central hosts C. B. Aycock on the same day.

Summary:
 Lennie Herring (GC) d. Lonnie Pierce, 6-1, 6-4.

A-G Girls Trip SWE
 LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton outslugged Southwest Edgecombe yesterday in a girls' softball game, 14-8.

Ayden-Grifton pushed in three in the first and added two more in the third after briefly losing the lead to four by the Cougarettes in the top of the frame. Southwest came back with two more in the fourth for a 6-5 lead, but five by Ayden-Grifton in the bottom of the inning put the game away.

The Chargers added four more in the fifth, while Southwest picked up two more in the seventh.

Evelyn Barfield got the victory on the mound for Ayden-Grifton. Marie Lewis, and Ann Strong each had two hits for Ayden-Grifton, while Shanda Brock, Barfield and Joan Albritton each had two.

Janice Staton had a grand-slam homer for Southwest in the third.

Ayden-Grifton is now 5-5 and plays Tuesday at North Lenoir.

Summary:

Valkries Nip Nash

STANHOPE — D.H. Conley's girls outlasted Southern Nash, 6-5, in an Eastern Carolina Conference softball game on Tuesday.

Conley scored first with a run in the first but Southern came back with two in the bottom of the inning. Conley pushed back ahead with two in the third, but three in the sixth let the Lady Firebirds regain the lead.

Conley then scored three in the top of the seventh to win it.

Gail Cates hurled the win and also led the Conley hitting with three. Pat Doughty led Southern Nash with two, including a three-run homer in the sixth.

Conley is now 10-2 and travels to C.B. Aycock on Friday.

Summary:
 Conley Southern Nash 102 000 3-6 .9

Plymouth Tops Squaws
 ROBERSONVILLE — Plymouth High School erupted for eight runs in the eighth inning to take a 12-4 softball victory over Roanoke yesterday.

Roanoke had scored twice in the first, then allowed Plymouth to score four in the fifth. The Squaws came back with two in the bottom of the inning to knot it at 4-4. But the eighth in the eighth broke Roanoke's back.

Jennifer Jackson hurled the win. Julie Harris led the Plymouth hitting with four, while Jamie Harris and Louise Woods each had three. Rosalind Dawson had three to pace Roanoke, while Mary Langley had a two-run homer for the Squaws in the fifth.

Now 4-3, the Roanoke girls play host to Williamston on Thursday.

Hawks Top North Pitt

BETHEL — North Lenoir rolled to a 12-5 victory over the North Pitt girls' softball team yesterday.

North Lenoir pushed over four in the first and added three more in the third. They added one in the fourth and four in the seventh. North Pitt got one in the sixth and four in the seventh.

Gillette got the win for North Lenoir, while Julia Redmon led the North Lenoir hitting with two.

Connie Dupree, Paula Morris and Cathy Harris each had two hits for the Pant-HERS, while Sandra Atkinson had a grand-slam homer in the seventh.

North Pitt is now 0-10 and entertains Southern Nash on Thursday.

Summary:
 North Lenoir 403 100 4-12 .9
 North Pitt 000 001 4-5 10

Rose In Net Win
 Rose High School's tennis team rolled to a 9-0 victory over Northern Nash yesterday, as the Rampants boosted their Division I record to 6-1.

The Rampants hold a 9-2 overall mark. They play host to Rocky Mount on Thursday.

In an exhibition match, Bobby Gantt and Bill Lee downed Dillon-Harper, 8-5.

Summary:

Tommy John Wins Fourth For Yankees

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
Tommy John was fit to be tied — and untied.
The new ace on a New York mound staff filled with aces chalked up his fourth victory without a loss Tuesday night, muffling Oakland on five hits as the Yanks beat the A's 3-1.

"I just want to contribute and do what I'm being paid for. I don't think of myself as an ace," John shrugged. "When you have five pitchers on a championship club, they're all good."

John got a break when A's relief pitcher Dave Heaverlo broke a ninth-inning tie by heaving Thurman Munson's grounder down the right field line, giving the Yanks a pair of runs.

It not only broke a 1-1 tie, but it broke John's 87-87 tie with himself. The sinker-balling southpaw who had won 87 games as a National League star with the Los Angeles Dodgers posted his 88th in the American League.

In the rest of the AL, Toronto silenced Texas 2-0 as Dave Lemanczyk tossed a one-hitter, Kansas City blanked Chicago 5-0, Boston beat Seattle 4-3 in 12 innings, Cleveland defeated Minnesota 7-2 and Baltimore downed California 7-2. The Detroit Tigers' game at Milwaukee was rained out with the Brewers leading 4-2 after two innings.

John and Oakland's John Henry Johnson, 0-3, matched each other through eight innings. But when Bucky Dent singled to open the ninth, Heaverlo took over. Mickey Rivers grounded out and Willie Randolph was walked intentionally before Munson hit a slow roller to the right of the mound. Heaverlo pounced on its but his wild throw allowed both runners to score.

Blue Jays 2, Rangers 0
Lemanczyk, who had staggered through a 4-14 season in 1978 and hadn't won a game since last July 29, crashed out of his slump with the one-hit performance against the Rangers.

He baffled every Texas batter — except Pat Putnam — with a steady diet of fastballs. Putnam sliced a single to left field in the third inning to demolish any hopes Lemanczyk had of pitching the season's second no-hitter. "It was the biggest mistake I made," Lemanczyk said of his pitch to Putnam. "It was a fastball over the plate."

Royals 5, White Sox 0
Willie Wilson's three stolen bases and two runs scored — and his on-the-button throw from center field to nail Chicago runner Marvis Foley at the plate — supported Dennis Leonard's seven-hitter for the Royals. Frank White homered for Kansas City in the first inning, then Wilson bunted for a hit, stole second and came around on two grounders in the third. Wilson also led off the fifth with a single, stole second and third and scored when Foley, the White Sox catcher, let a pitch get past him.

Red Sox 4, Mariners 3
Larry Wolfe's 12th-inning sacrifice fly stretched the Red Sox's winning streak to five games and Seattle's tailspin to nine. Unbeaten Dick Drago pitched 42-3 innings of scoreless relief for his third victory.

Carl Yastrzski hit a two-run homer in the sixth inning and also doubled in the second, when Boston scored its other solo homer in the seventh off run. Bob Stinson drove in all three Mariner runs with a homer and a single.

Indians 7, Twins 2
Andre Thornton's two-run double in a five-run first inning against Roger Erickson and his solo homer in the seventh off Gary Serun led Cleveland past three Mariner runs with a homer and a single.
Rick Wise was peppered with 11 Minnesota hits but managed to go seven innings for the victory. It's the first time this year the Indians managed to win two in a row.

Orioles 7, Angels 2
Jim Palmer's back acted up again, but not until the seventh inning. By that time the Orioles had a 7-2 lead, thanks in part to two solo home runs by Ken Singleton, off loser Don Aase in the third inning and Dyar Miller in the fifth. Rich Dauer homered off Aase in the first frame.

George Dickel Tennessee sippin' whisky. Smooth as moonbeams.

—Merle Beatty, Store Owner, 1871

"I remember we were tryin' to tell this city feller that George Dickel's whisky tastes smooth 'cause it's made with clear, sweet springwater. 'And it's mellowed good and proper 'cause Ol' George gives his sour mash extra time to get into the flavor. 'Well, I could see this city feller wasn't much impressed with our jawin', so I stopped talkin' and started pourin'. 'One sip was all it took. Said he'd never tasted a finer Tennessee Sour Mash. Didn't surprise us none. 'Cause when it comes to George Dickel's whisky, tastin' is believin'."

CRYPTOQUIP 4-25

DVUQWI BWUVJWRRJ BWSF FKZ DI-
BRFI FRRJZ KJSVQ

Yesterday's Cryptquip — RURAL COUNTY REVELS IN LOVELY LILAC SCENT.
Today's Cryptquip clue: D equals B
The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The sponsor of a $70 million state income tax cut proposal says he has struck a compromise with Gov. Jim Hunt over a tax-relief plan.

Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Lenoir, who introduced a bill that would increase the standard state income tax deduction and personal exemptions by 20 percent, told a subcommittee Tuesday that he and Hunt had agreed to merge their proposals.

Hunt has proposed a $40 million tax-cut plan, benefitting only families with children or other dependents, by raising the dependent's exemption from $600 to $1,000.

"As a result of two conferences with the governor, we have agreed to join forces if I would go to $800 on the dependent deduction and reduce the 20 percent to a dollar amount that can be afforded," Lilley said. "He has decided he does not want to keep out a million plus taxpayers."

Carothers Talking Here

Merlin R. Carothers, author and television personality, will hold a two-day crusade at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church Thursday and Friday of this week.

His talks telling how praise is the key to life well-lived will be held Thursday at 7:30 p. m. and Friday at 2 and 7:30 p. m. He will explain in each of the three services how God works to bring goodness and strength and growth to his children through problems as well as through happy situations.

MERLIN CAROTHERS

Carothers' first book, a spiritual autobiography titled, "Prison to Praise," has sold more than three million copies. He has followed it with five more books, enlarging on his original theme. The public is invited to any or all of the three talks.

Lilley's plan, estimated to reduce anticipated state revenues by $70 million annually when fully implemented, has received more support from legislators working out a tax-cut package than Hunt's proposal.

Lilley said there had been no decision on how much the percentage would be reduced.

He told a subcommittee of joint House and Senate finance committees of the compromise. The panel is considering tax-cut proposals, and received still another one from Senate Finance Chairman Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston.

Rauch's plan involves granting tax credits, giving the largest credit to taxpayers who pay the lower amounts of taxes. It would not apply to taxpayers who make more than $20,000.

In other action, the subcommittee rejected a bill that would increase the standard income tax deduction from $500 to $800.

It gave tentative approval to a bill that would change the state inheritance tax, providing a credit that would have the effect of exempting from taxation the first $100,000 of an estate.

In other legislative action Tuesday:

Marijuana
A bill relaxing the penalties for possession of between one and four ounces of marijuana cleared the House and was sent to the Senate. The bill was approved on a 75-33 vote.

It would make possession of one to four ounces a misdemeanor instead of a felony. Possession of an ounce or less is a misdemeanor under a 1977 law, punishable by a $100 fine and 30 days in jail. Possession of amounts over an ounce is a felony, punishable by up to five years in prison.

The penalty for possession of one to four ounces would be a maximum of two years in prison and $2,000 fine. The bill's sponsor, Rep. Al Adams, D-Wake, said the measure was needed to provide an intermediate penalty for marijuana offenses.

"We are trying to get at the first offender," said another supporter, Rep. Parks Helms, D-Mecklenburg.

Exhaust
The House killed a Senate-passed measure that would have required automobiles to have exhaust systems in good working order and free of major defects before the auto could receive a state inspection sticker.

The bill had been killed in the Senate earlier in the session, then revived and approved in an unusual turnaround. The House vote against the bill was 76-26.

Banking
The Senate approved and sent the House for concurrence a bill aimed at ensuring that a majority of public members sit on state commissions regulating banks, savings and loans and credit unions.

The House now faces the question of concurring on a Senate amendment some say gutted the bill. That amendment allows stockholders with holdings of $1 million or more in some cases to be eligible for a public representative's seat on the state Banking Commission.

The bill would ensure that a minority of the members are working bankers.

Voting
The House killed a Republican-backed measure that would have made it easier to vote a split ticket on a paper ballot. The bill would have allowed a voter to mark a straight ticket, then cross over and vote for one member of the opposing party.

The measure failed 20-86.

Jobs
Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green said he has asked the Senate Base Budget Committee to review the necessity for 5,426 state jobs he said have been recommended by the Hunt administration.

Marijuana-Health
The House Health Committee amended and sent to the full House a bill that would allow physicians to prescribe a marijuana derivative for the treatment of cancer patients.

The original bill would have allowed doctors to prescribe marijuana, but it was amended to limit prescriptions to the drug's active ingredient only,

Green released a prepared statement saying he had forwarded the request to Sen. Robert Jordan, D-Montgomery, the committee chairman.

Green said the number of state employees had grown by 25 percent since 1972.

Revenue
Mark Lynch released monthly figures showing a dramatic drop in the growth of general state tax collections, which prompted him to caution the General Assembly in preparing the state budget.

The drop confirmed a preliminary analysis done by legislative economists.

Taxes collected by the state grew by only .13 percent during March compared to March 1978, Lynch said. The decline dropped the growth rate for the nine months of the current fiscal year from 15 percent to 12.7 percent.

Other Action
The Senate Judiciary III Committee approved and sent the full Senate a House-passed measure that would prohibit blind bidding — bidding by exhibitors to show movies when they haven't seen them — in North Carolina.

The Senate voted 49-0 to approve and send the House a bill that would make it easier to prosecute persons for writing worthless checks.

CAN A TRASH BAG BE STRONG, ECONOMICAL AND DEGRADABLE?

It can if it's BES-PAK®. At BES-PAK we expect a lot from our trash bags. We expect them to be strong. Economical. And we expect them to help make a better environment. For you and for future generations.

You see, BES-PAK trash bags are specially treated. This treatment does not effect the strength of the plastic, until after the bags are used and placed outdoors.

Here's how it works: Use the bags. Put them outdoors as usual.

When the plastic has been exposed to prolonged sunlight of sufficient intensity (in your yard or at the dump), a gradual chemical change will begin. And a few weeks or months later, the plastic will break down and turn back into harmless natural elements. Even if it's buried in landfill.

Isn't it nice to know you can help save the environment for your children and at the same time, save some money for yourself?

A trash bag can be strong, economical and degradable.

Ex-Spy Advocates Counter-Terrorism Measures

By RICHARD BEENE
POWDER SPRINGS, Ga. (UPI) — International arms dealer Mitchell Livingston WerBell III, retired from the cloak and dagger world of espionage after more than 30 years, is now preaching what he used to practice: counter-terrorism.

WerBell has acted as a military adviser in most of the world's hotspots — China, Burma and India during World War II, the Dominican Republic and countless Central American countries in the 1950s and 1960s, and finally in Vietnam where he helped train mountain tribesmen in counter-insurgency tactics.

Since World War II, however, WerBell has not always acted with government approval, tacit or otherwise. To the contrary, some activities have attracted the attention of government prosecutors, leading to several highly publicized court trials involving WerBell and his family. But with uncanny consistency WerBell has survived them all.

Along with six others, WerBell was once arrested for allegedly conspiring to invade Cuba after the Castro revolution. Initially indicted for violating the Neutrality Act and the munitions control laws, the Justice Department later dropped the charges.

In the 1974, two more incidences threw WerBell into the public eye. The first came when WerBell's son, Mitch IV, was charged with conspiring to sell 2,000 submachine guns to an undercover Alcohol, Firearms and Tobacco agent in Atlanta. The younger WerBell was later acquitted.

Later that same year, WerBell III was linked with fugitive financier Robert Vesco, then living in Costa Rica. WerBell had flown to Costa Rica to talk with Vesco about establishing a machine gun factory, and although the deal never materialized, he was called to Washington to testify before a Senate committee.

In 1975, WerBell found himself under indictment again, but this time for conspiring to smuggle 20,000 pounds of marijuana into the country. WerBell promptly dismissed the charges as "judicious," employed former military trial judge Reid Kennedy as his commando training, covert attorney — Kennedy presided over the court martial trial Lt. William Calley — and again was acquitted. At 61, the feisty weapon expert is now battling an enemy of which he knows little — cancer. It is a fight for which three decades of guerilla fighting, operations did not prepare him.

Instant Greenhouse: Just Add A Weekend

Build it this weekend - enjoy it year 'round!

Yes, you really can build this attractive 8' x 8' greenhouse in just one weekend. It's easy with Lowe's complete materials package and simple step-by-step instructions. Your greenhouse will allow you to enjoy your favorite plants and flowers all year 'round. It's attractive, air-tight, and a breeze to build.

Here's what you get in the package. Our building package includes all the materials necessary to build this 8' x 8' greenhouse. We've thought of everything: tough corrugated panels on the roof, rear and side walls—clear panels on the front. It also has extras like a 1" x 4" slat shelving system . . . redwood stain to add good looks and to protect against water and insect damage . . . and a top quality aluminum insulating storm door.

We even provide the caulking to make the structure airtight. It's designed to sit directly on the ground because a greenhouse needs no floor. There's more than 6' of stand up headroom. "Our job," he says, pacing ramrod-straight as a drill instructor, "is not just to kill the crazies — you call them terrorists, I believe. Hell, anybody can do that with a screw driver. What we want is to keep somebody from being killed. And that ain't easy. We are strictly what you would call dogs of war."

Six months after radical surgery for prostate cancer and bored with the absence of intrigue, WerBell established the anti-terrorism school to counter what he considers an inevitable explosion of kidnappings and assassinations in the U.S.

"What you see happening in Europe now, those crazies running around in Italy and West Germany, is just around the corner for us," he said.

WerBell and his "dogs of war" — a team of six martial arts instructors and retired military officers — set up a counter-terrorism school on the sprawling 60-acre WerBell estate just west of Atlanta.

Secured by an electronic fence and a half-dozen guard dogs, the estate houses a small arsenal of some of the world's most advanced weapons and a generation of "James Bond" gadgetry — pen pistols, walking canes with daggers, attache cases rigged with concealed pistols and WerBell's own brachychild, a muzzle silencer suitable for both handguns and machine guns.

"Our job is not to go shoot somebody up; our job is to keep our man away from assassination teams and hit squads, to get by terrorist roadblocks . . . to keep the man safe, for Christ's sake."

"Marksmanship is secondary," he adds. "Quick fire is essential."

WerBell said his first client was Lyndon H. LaRouche Jr., president of the New York-based U.S. Labor Party. He said other political figures and corporate executives, fearing the terrorism sweeping western Europe, have also signed up their bodyguards to take the course, although WerBell refused to disclose their identities.

WerBell's teaching credentials are undisputed. At 61, he is no stranger to the world of espionage, terror and "special operations."

A former officer in the Office of Strategic Services, military adviser, guerilla fighter, weapons inventor and paramilitary expert, he is an authority on weaponry. More than a decade ago, he developed a muzzle silencer and adapted it to the world's smallest machine gun, the American-made Ingram.

Proud Of Work On Toilet Bowls

ONTARIO, Ohio (AP) — Larry Burson claims he's both an assembly line worker and an artisan and proud of his job — putting finishing touches on toilet bowls.

"It's satisfying," the 30-year-old Burson said of his job here at Artesian Industries. "It's one of the higher-skilled" jobs at the plant, as well as one of the few "hands-on" jobs left.

He takes the three pieces — top, bowl and base — from molds, fits them together and hand-finishes each before the assembled product gets a ceramic spray.

He can tell at a touch if the surfaces are smooth, if a bowl needs a little buildup here, a bit of rubbing there, or whether it needs a wet sponge and perhaps more rubbing.

After he checks the bowls, they go to a spraying and firing kiln for their final ceramic finish.

Nuclear Debris—From Antarctica To California

By ROBERT LOCKE
AP Science Writer
PORT HUENEME, Calif. (AP) — Three times in three years the cargo ship Schuler Otis Brand has docked at this U.S. Navy base and emptied its hold of dirt and gravel scooped from the barren coast of Antarctica. And each trip brought complaints and protests that radioactive rocks, contaminated by a nuclear power plant near the South Pole, were being dumped in Southern California and there was next to nothing Californians could do about it.

HOT ROCKS — Three times in three years the cargo ship Schuler Otis Brand has docked at U.S. Navy base at Port Huene, Calif., and emptied its hold of dirt and gravel scooped from the barren areas around McMurdo Sound. Each trip brings protests that radioactive rocks contaminated by a nuclear power plant near the South Pole were being dumped in Southern California. (AP Laserphoto)

But by the third and final trip in March, the state had withdrawn its once-vehement objections, which last year had included a threat of legal action. State officials said this week they now agree with the Navy that the 14,200 tons of debris, stored under a blanket of asphalt, are only slightly radioactive and aren't dangerous.

The Navy wants to spread the rock and dirt as landfill and cover it with asphalt for use as heavy-equipment parking lots and storage areas at the base, a plan that needs the approval of the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

"This material poses absolutely no hazard to man or the environment," said Lt. Cmdr. Frederick Gorrell, the Navy's Los Angeles spokesman. "You would have to lie on it 24 hours a day for six months to receive the same exposure you would receive from a chest X-ray."

The Ventura County Safe Energy Council, an anti-nuclear group, is not convinced. "It is dangerous. There is no safe level of radioactivity," said the group's spokesman, Eric Schwartz.

"One thing the public learned from Harrisburg, Pa., is that you can't believe these statistics they're handing out — they hand out whatever makes their job easier," he said, referring to the accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant last month.

The crushed rock and soil was contaminated by cooling water that leaked from the Navy's small PM-3A nuclear power plant at McMurdo Sound.

For about a decade, before being shut down in 1972, the plant had supplied heat and power to civilian scientists at the Navy-supported outpost on the Antarctic coast.

Gorrell said the reactor was replaced with a petroleum-burning plant after its insulation was soaked by a water leak and inspection and repairs were deemed too costly.

He said the reactor's parts and fuel were buried at licensed disposal sites in other states. The contaminated rock was dug up and removed, the Navy says, to comply with Article V of the 11-nation Antarctic Treaty, which prohibits storing radioactive materials on the frozen continent.

The debris was removed by the Schuler Otis Brand, which makes one round-trip each year between Port Huene, 50 miles northwest of Los Angeles, and McMurdo Sound to deliver supplies to the scientific station.

The first load of radioactive rocks arrived here in March 1977, and the second followed a year later.

By that time, state officials were publicly complaining that the debris could pose a long-term hazard.

"If it is a threat to life at the South Pole, as far as we're concerned it is a threat to California," Health Department spokesman Bob Nance told reporters in March 1978.

He said California wanted the rocks removed and "if we don't get relief shortly ... we will seek ways and means of getting into the federal courts."

Now, however, George Hersh of the state's Solid Waste Management Board, talks of "some early excited responses" by state officials.

"It was one of those situations where you expect the worst until proved otherwise. What has happened is that, to our satisfaction, it has been proved otherwise."

Hersh said the solid waste board and the Health Services Department jointly studied the material and also hired an outside consultant to investigate.

"We all agreed on the answers," said Joe Ward, the department's chief of radiologic health. "The bottom line of the thing was that it would be reasonable to allow on-site disposal if it was done properly."

He said the Navy plan to use the debris in asphalt-covered parking areas was "an acceptable disposal system."

Hersh said the outside consultant was hired because "we were concerned some anti-nuclear people might have reservations about a study done by a state agency, so we wanted this independent study as a backup."

The "anti-nuclear people" have reservations, nonetheless. But, Schwartz said, "We're not saying they should put it in somebody else's backyard. A minimum recommendation would be to contain it much better" than currently planned.

The Antarctic rocks, meanwhile, have become another symbol for the anti-nuclear movement.

The contaminated material "represents how bad nuclear power can be," Schwartz said. "We just don't want it at all, and we don't want any more of it produced."

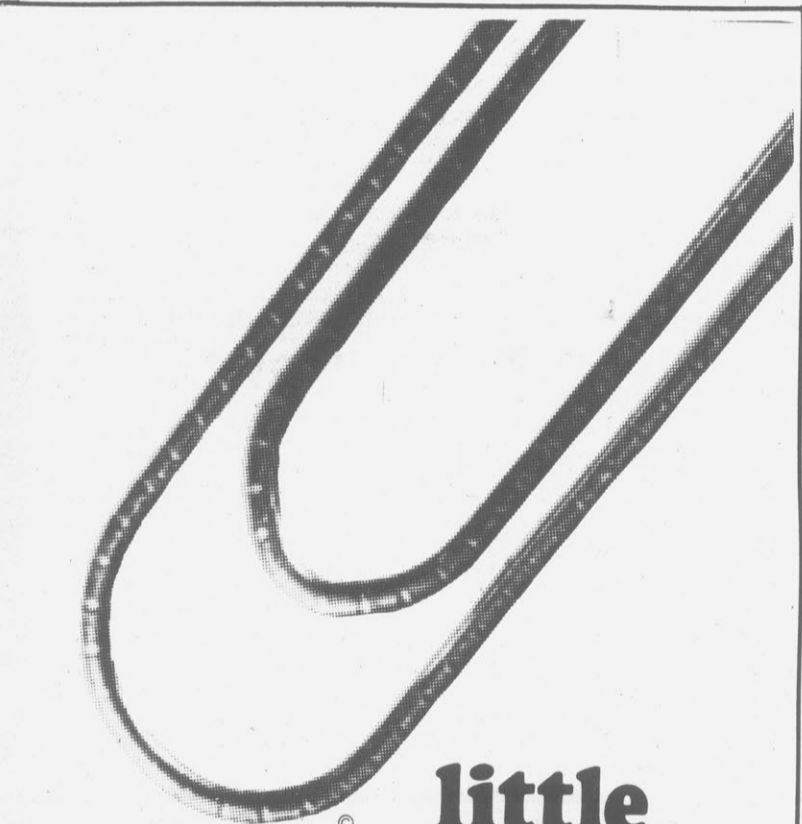

Red Cross Classes

The American Red Cross announced plans to conduct, for the 57th year, aquatic, first aid, and small craft schools to help meet the need for qualified swimming and lifesaving, first aid, CPR and boating instructors.

Andy Warren, chairman of the Pitt County chapter, said that this spring and summer, hundreds of new instructors will be trained at the seven to ten-day schools, located at 30 camps and college campuses across the nation.

According to Warren, schools are scheduled in North Carolina for June 1-11 and Aug. 15-25 at Black Mountain.

Persons seeking further information and application forms should contact Mrs. Ruth Taylor at the local Red Cross office or call 752-4222.

Thomas Wolfe's Epic Is Heavily Slashed For TV

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Thomas Wolfe's "You Can't Go Home Again" is 743 pages of poetic rumination, an overflowing literature that asks such questions as, "For what is man?" and then answers them in a couple of thousand words, give or take a few hundred. CBS' "You Can't Go Home Again," airing tonight, is a one-hour, 48-minute made-for-TV movie.

They say Wolfe's genius begged editing, but goodness, CBS must have put "You Can't Go Home Again" through a blender. Missing from CBS' little movie is about two-thirds of Wolfe's giant book.

I guess "You Can't Go Home Again" had to be cut at with thick swipes by the adaptors to make it manageable. Wolfe was that the bookish call an inner writer, a writer who sometimes issued forth entire chapters without a word of dialogue or a thread of plot. Not, in other words, the kind of writer whose work could be easily shoved into short-movie form.

So, why did they? I don't know. Maybe they figured the famous title would be enough. It doesn't seem to be.

Much tinkering was done, but one bit will be particularly irritating to Wolfe admirers. Wolfe's novel concerned a young artist's search for the answer to his own being, a search that led around the world and brought him finally to this insight: "You can't go home again...back home to your family, back home to your childhood, back home to romantic love, back home to a young man's dreams of glory and of fame..."

This movie, though, opens with our hero, George Webber, coming home. And in a box, Purists might scream at their sets here, protesting that Webber doesn't die in the book, he just predicts his death. But through the magic of TV, Webber not only dies, his death is used as a device to twist the meaning of the novel.

Wolfe tells us "You Can't Go Home Again." The narrator of this movie tells us that, "One day men come home again." And if we don't believe him, why, there's George Webber's casket heading home.

Such subversions, of course, mean nothing unless you're a Thomas Wolfe freak. So, on to the movie.

As a Wednesday night diversion, it's tolerable. George Webber is presented as a drunken, crazy Youngblood Hawke type, who's in love with a wealthy, married older woman, Esther Jack. He is a one-dimensional lout who stomps around a lot, leaves her, comes back, leaves her again, and has a brush with some Nazi goons in Germany.

It's enough to sustain a two-hour TV flick, and Lee Grant is enjoyable as Mrs. Jack. I wish I could say the same for Chris Sarandon as George Webber. He plays drunk and he plays Southern in a manner that suggests he has never been either (though his publicity bio lists his birthplace as West Virginia).

"You Can't Go Home Again," CBS-style, isn't exactly Wolfe. On the other hand, it's a stab at literate TV, and that deserves some commendation. Besides, it's easier to get through than 743 pages of poetic rumination.

'The Duke' In His Hometown

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Robert Conrad, the battle-scarred veteran of several TV series, is starring in yet another, "The Duke," which is filmed in Chicago.

By happenstance, the Windy City is also where the actor now makes his home.

A native of Chicago, Conrad left his job as a milkman to come to Hollywood seeking stardom in movies and television. He succeeded in TV after only middling success in films.

He returned to his hometown in 1977 and became a permanent resident last October. Coincidentally, NBC decided to film "The Duke" there to take advantage of locations that hadn't been a part of a regular

In the new show Conrad — who starred in "The Wild, Wild West" and "Baa, Baa Black Sheep" — plays a middleweight boxer who gives up the ring to become a detective.

Conrad leads the life of a single man although his marital status is not altogether clear. Most of his children, Joan, 26; Nancy, 25 (an aspiring actress); Christian, 14; Christy, 11, and Shane, 7, live with their mother in California's San Fernando Valley.

He and his wife, Joan, remain close friends and confidants. They see a great deal of one another when Bob visits the children on trips to California. The children, too, fly to Chicago to spend time with their father.

For time time being, daughter Joan travels with her father as a production assistant and lives with him off and on in the actor's Chicago apartment.

His present domicile is an apartment on famed Lakeshore Drive 14 stories above Lake Michigan. It has two bedrooms and reflects Bob's taste in furnishings. There are 32 paintings on the walls, most by young artists.

He also keeps an apartment in Los Angeles which he prefers using to a hotel when he is working in Hollywood.

"The reason I moved back to Chicago is that I dig the people and the four seasons of the year," Conrad says.

Some day he plans to build a large house on acreage he owns in the mountain resort of California's Bear Valley where he plans to do a lot of skiing.

A physical fitness buff, Conrad is a good amateur boxer for his age. He jogs 10 miles every day, even in the snow. He must keep physically active to counteract his love of food and beer.

As a single man he eats in restaurants almost every night of the week. He fasts on Sundays, drinking beer and watching sports on the tube.

Conrad claims he's a good cook but it bores him. In his free time he rents airplanes and is working on his license to pilot multi-engine aircraft. He plans to buy a plane of his own one of these days.

Bob's penchant for casual clothes sometimes creates problems for him in Chicago restaurants where the midwesterners customarily wear suits and neckties.

Chances are slim that Conrad will ever marry again. He said he isn't even taking women out these days.

"Dates?" he asks, innocently. "That's what you buy in a market."

Limited TV Series Fail

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC continues its struggle to schedule attractive new programs with consistent, albeit unsuccessful results.

Four limited series begun by NBC in the last several weeks were among the least watched during the week ending April 22, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

In a development outside of prime-time, though perhaps as significant, ABC's "World News Tonight" nudged NBC's "Nightly News" from second place in the evening news ratings for the first time in at least five years.

ABC said twice in 1972 its news program was No. 2, but in both instances, the ratings were tied to political and Olympics coverage.

NBC, in prime-time, listed four of the week's five lowest-rated programs, including its "Weekend" newsmagazine in 6th place, followed by newcomers "Cliffhangers" and "Highcliffe Manor," an ABC news special called "Men Under Siege: Life with the Modern Woman," and the third installment in a rerun of NBC's "Wheels" miniseries.

Two other recent offerings from NBC fared almost as poorly, "Whodunnit" in 56th place and "The Duke," 59th.

ABC also enjoyed success with "Friendly Fire," a movie starring Carol Burnett as a mother trying to determine how her son died in Vietnam, finished No. 4 in the ratings and contributed to another easy victory for the network in the week's prime-time ratings race.

ABC placed reruns of three programs, "Three's Company," "Laverne and Shirley" and "Taxi," ahead of "Friendly Fire," which was based on C.D.B. Bryan's account of an actual event.

The rating for "Friendly Fire" was 25.9. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with TV, 25.9 percent saw at least part of the show.

ABC had called an end to the prime-time season the week before, though CBS and NBC, which began their 1978-79 programming a week after ABC, continued through the most recent ratings period.

that would be only defensive trick number four. Since five tricks were required, it would be necessary for the defense to score a diamond trick. If West did not have a high diamond, there was no way to defeat the hand. And since West might find it embarrassing to lead a diamond, East's proper play at that point was to switch to the suit. Declarer would have had no recourse but to take the finesse, and the king of diamonds would have been the setting trick.

If we were to suggest to our readers that it takes five tricks to defeat a three no trump contract, we would be accused of adopting a patronizing attitude. But from time to time a hand comes up that reinforces our belief that that is exactly what we should do.

Everyone is aware that declarer should plan his campaign before playing to the first trick. But the fact that the defense should also adopt an organized plan is frequently lost sight of. Observe what happened after West led the top of his spade sequence against South's three no trump contract, reached in routine fashion.

Declarer allowed West to win the first trick, then won the spade continuation with the king. He led the king and queen of clubs, and West allowed both to win to shut out dummy's club suit. The third club went to the ace, and West continued with the ten of spades to remove declarer's last stopper in the suit.

The queen and jack of hearts were led, and this time it was East who held up the ace to prevent dummy's king from becoming an entry. With nothing better to do for the moment, declarer continued with a heart to the king and ace.

East promptly led his last spade. West won, but he was obliged to lead away from his king of diamonds, giving declarer two tricks in the suit and his contract — two spade tricks, three hearts, two diamonds and two clubs.

East was guilty of playing without planning. When he won the ace of hearts, he knew his partner had only one more spade to cash, and

Cars Collided At Intersection

Cars driven by Nita Gardner Hendreen of 1901 East Fifth St. and Alton Lewis Puryear of 206 South Eastern St. collided about 5:52 p.m. yesterday at the intersection of Fifth and Elm Streets, Greenville Police reported.

Investigators estimated damage from the collision at $400 to the Hendreen car and $300 to the Puryear vehicle.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, APR. 26, 1979

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when you can get the rights results by being practical and down-to-earth in handling business matters. Make plans to have more stability and security in the days ahead.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study just where you are going in your career and make improvements to plans where needed. Follow the advice of a money expert.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get conditions around you improved and there will be smooth sailing in the future. Evening is fine for social enjoyment.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be alert to opportunities in which you can advance in your line of endeavor. You can make a fine impression on others now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) This is not the time to become involved in a new interest. Sidestep one who could lead you in the wrong direction.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Think carefully before you handle a public matter and avoid a possible mistake. Go after your aims and get excellent results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have many fine ideas but you must select the best of these if you want the future to be brighter. Don't neglect health.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Attend to unfinished duties early in the day. Put your mind to work and accomplish more. Do something thoughtful for loved one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Now you can comprehend better what associates are thinking, so listen to their comments carefully. Let your talents be known.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure your business affairs are in good order. Follow through on plans made and have fine time with congenials today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study your home and make plans for improvement, but don't be hasty. Forget a new interest which is not really good for you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Work and travel at a measured pace and get better results today and tonight. Sidestep one who wants to waste your time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Not a good day to make radical changes of any kind. Avoid a temptation to spend more money for pleasure than you can afford.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will easily understand difficult matters so be sure to give the best education you can afford. Teach to first comprehend the overall picture and the motivations behind any enterprise for best results throughout lifetime.

Outlet For Writers Of Short Story

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Sylvia Tanelk is a literary detective who always finds the elusive author.

Sam Tanelk is an energetic entrepreneur who launched Sylvia on her career as a literary detective. He gave up a position as head of a photo-graving firm to start a new publishing venture.

Sylvia and Sam are editor and publisher, respectively, of Short Story International, a pocket-sized publication which features the work of writers from around the world.

Short Story International, published bi-monthly in Great Neck, N.Y., and distributed from nearby Farmingdale, is now three years old. It has republished short stories by such authors as Graham Greene, Alberto Moravia, Isaac Bashevis Singer, Arthur Miller, Yukio Mishima, and many others.

"It took us a year to get out our first issue," Sam Tanelk said in a recent interview during a trip he and Sylvia made to New York. "We devoted all of 1976 to making contacts and setting up supply lines."

Tanelk had felt the short story was a neglected piece of literature, cast aside by the folding of such magazines as Liberty, Collier's, the old weekly Saturday Evening Post and other widely read periodicals.

He got the chance to do something about reviving interest in the short story after meeting Sylvia, who was to become his wife. Both Sam and Sylvia had lost their spouses through death. Their mutual interest in literature made them an ideal husband-and-wife team for the launching of a new periodical.

"Sylvia has a great rapport with the authors," Sam said. "There is one in London who calls her at least once a month. If she does not hear from him, she wonders if something has gone wrong."

Tanelk noted that Sylvia tries hard to locate an author once she wants to reprint one of his short stories, and always finds him.

One writer, Pira K. Sudham, lived in Thailand. Sylvia queried publishers, literary agents, and editors in a fruitless search for his whereabouts. Then someone suggested that she send a letter to his home in Thailand.

"His home was out in the hills," Sam said. "There were no roads to his home, only water buffalo trails. And the letter was addressed to him in English. But he got it and we were amazed that it could be understood and delivered."

Short Stories International, which does not accept advertising, has been endorsed by notable writers, among them John Updike, James A. Michener and Mary Hemingway. It has been available only through subscription, but now it is being test-marketed in major American cities.

Once Short Stories International became established, stories began pouring into the Tankels' base of operations in Great Neck, giving Sylvia, Sam and their staff of 12 employees a chance to be selective.

Sylvia said every effort is made to get the best—short stories available, regardless of the author's reputation.

"When we get a story, we put a card over the name of the author so we won't be influenced," Sylvia said. "Sometimes we will turn down a famous author," Sam added.

While every effort is made to represent authors from as many nations as possible, two from the same country may show up in one issue if the Tankels feel their stories are better.

"The translators are generally from the same country as the author," Sylvia said. "Some of the translators are authors, too. In this way the author is in on the translation. We don't want to lose the flavor in translation or the author's intention."

Gospel Sing Sunday Evening

WINTERVILLE — A gospel sing will be held at the Winterville Free Will Baptist Church Sunday featuring the Chapeletes of Chocowinity. The service will begin at 7:30. The public is invited to attend, according to the Rev. Bob Futrell, pastor.

Love Canal Chemical Disaster Is Grim Reminder

By GREG MCGARRY
Associated Press Writer
NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — From her living-room window, Marie Pozniak gazes out at rows of abandoned houses just a stone's throw away. For her and hundreds of others, the sight is a daily and haunting reminder of the grim reality nearby — the chemical disaster known as Love Canal.

Mrs. Pozniak and some 500 others were left behind in the modest neighborhood when the state evacuated their neighbors nearest the dump after it was decided their health was endangered by the chemicals. She and many of the others feel cheated and trapped.

Cheated, because they believe Gov. Hugh Carey's evacuation of 239 residents last summer was simply a campaign gesture — one that left them behind and their own and their loved ones' lives endangered.

Trapped, because no one will buy their homes — houses that have potentially dangerous chemicals leaching through basement walls.

"State officials warned us not to grow a garden," Mrs. Pozniak remarked recently. "We can grow our children here but we can't grow a garden here. That absolutely blows my mind. It's horrible."

For more than 10 years, the Hooker Plastics & Chemical Corp. dumped a total of more than 80 different chemicals into the site of the never-opened canal. The state's evacuation of the immediate area was prompted by studies that showed a high rate of miscarriage and birth defects in the area possibly linked to the leaching chemicals.

Mrs. Pozniak's family is one of many in the periphery area with serious medical problems. And she, like many of the others, feels the chemicals are the cause.

Although the state is currently offering limited financial assistance to perhaps as many as 130 families in the periphery area to help them temporarily relocate (only those with children under 2 or pregnant women are eligible), the state's current stance is that studies thus far have not justified further evacuations.

But the homeowners say their own informal study shows a much higher rate of disease. A cancer researcher from Buffalo's Roswell Park Memorial Cancer Center agrees.

Dr. Beverly Paigen, who recently urged evacuating most of those left behind, contends that many of the homeowners were reluctant to state such things as neurological disorders or mental illness on the survey forms the state Health Department distributed.

"There was a definite elevation of certain diseases. And there was a definite pattern — the diseases were more concentrated along the old stream beds (or swales). I put forth the hypothesis that chemicals were migrating along paths of the old streambeds and getting into houses," she said in an interview.

"We found increased rates of miscarriages, increased risks of birth defects, increased urinary tract problems, and a striking effect on the central nervous system," she said.

The state, in offering temporary relocation to certain families in the area, agreed that the chemicals posed a potential health threat to fetuses and children under 2.

It also agreed that there have been higher rates of miscarriages and birth defects in the swale areas, but it said studies thus far indicate no threat to the general population.

Dr. David Axelrod, the state health commissioner, said the department understands the concern of the residents left behind. But he adds that he will recommend no further evacuations unless studies link the chemicals to certain diseases.

"We have to make certain that there is a scientific basis for our recommendations to the governor," he said in an interview.

"While it may appear to the individual that his symptoms are clearly related to exposure, we can't make judgments on the basis of an individual ... The stakes are high here in terms of cost."

Jim Clark — an admittedly bitter man whose family has been plagued with medical problems and whose yard is littered with signs like one reading "Welcome to Chemical City" — is one resident who feels there's no need for scientific studies.

"My kidney just solidified and quit functioning," he said.

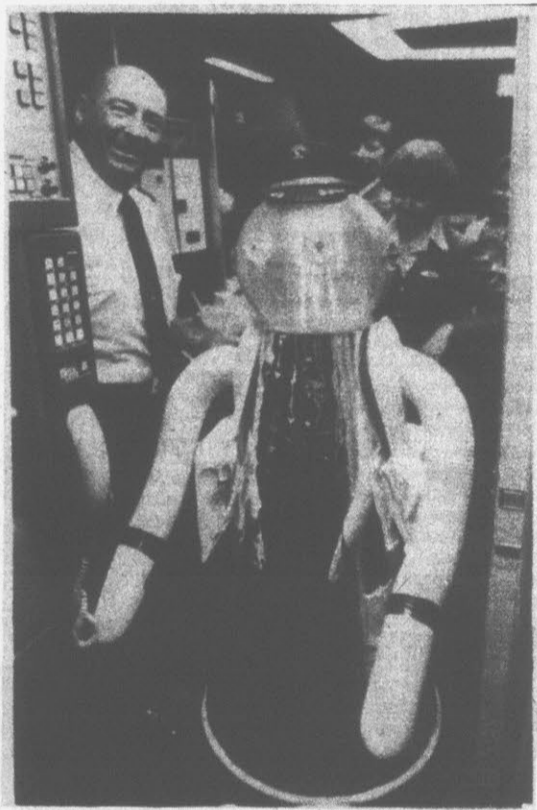

"My four kids all display hyperactivity. We have three members of the family now who have skin problems. My one son quit growing at 12, developed an ulcer at 15 and he's an acute diabetic. My wife has cardiovascular problems and just everybody feels generally rotten.

"You can't prove any of this stuff," he concedes, but adds, "To me it's obvious it was the chemicals."

Lois Gibbs, president of a homeowners group that oversaw Dr. Paigen's survey, criticized the methods the state used in investigating health problems in the area.

"When we did our survey we sat down and talked to the individual resident on a one-to-one basis," she said. "What the Health Department did is they came out, knocked on the door, said 'Mr. Clark, here's your 22-page survey, fill it out. We'll be back after dinner to pick it up.'"

Axelrod said care was taken to make sure the residents understood the forms. "We did leave the questionnaires off with instructions and asked if they had any problems with it they contact us," he said, adding that in the immediate area of the dump, "we did carry out face-to-face interviews but we don't have sufficient manpower to spend the required time with each individual family."

TO THE ELECTRONICS SHOW — Capt. Kit Carson and crew members of Eastern Airlines flight 741 from New York's LaGuardia Airport react as a robot passenger enters the first class section of the plane. The robot, manufactured by the Quasar company in New Jersey, was being flown to Fort Lauderdale to take part in an electronics trade show. (AP Laserphoto)

Hobby Runner Told Try More

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Glover, author of books on the subject of running, suggests that if you're a "hobby runner" doing three to five miles several times a week, you should consider one longer run.

"Throw in a run of six to 10 miles once a week," he advises. "Go easy and follow it with just two or three miles a day or two later. Alternating long and short runs will build strength and fitness."

Friends See America As Slipping

By PETER A. BROWN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's friends see its international influence waning, both militarily and economically, according to opinion surveys and social scientists.

The current issue of Public Opinion Magazine examines whether the "American Century" is ending and finds widespread belief that it is.

Although there seem to be mixed feelings about which nation is the most powerful, Gallup polls in the United States, West Germany, the Netherlands, Japan and Britain reflect a popular belief the Soviet Union is increasing its power at a faster rate than the United States.

Only in England, however, does a plurality believe the Soviets actually have become the dominant military power.

The polls show 58 percent of Americans surveyed think the United States is less respected around the world than a decade ago. But by a 4-1 ratio, Americans want the U.S. role in international affairs increased.

All the polls — they were never before presented as a package — were taken before the signing of the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

Besides the perceived decline in U.S. military strength, the data show a widespread slippage of foreign confidence in America as an economic power.

"Europeans are increasingly apprehensive about the reliability of the United States as an economic partner and they are less and less awed by the quality of American goods," writes Robert Worcester, chairman of Market and Opinion Research, a British research organization.

Worcester cites a poll in which the Belgians, French, British, Dutch and Germans all say West Germany produces the highest quality goods. U.S. products nosed out Dutch goods for second place.

In Sweden, says pollster Hans Zetterberg, local respect for the United States dipped sharply during the Vietnam War and, although it has risen since, it remains far below levels in the 1950s.

Of Germany, social scientist Werner Kaltefleiter of Kiel University says: "At the beginning of the sixties, the United States was regarded as stronger than the Soviet Union, but since the early seventies, superiority has been conceded to the Soviets."

In England, according to public opinion expert Richard Rose of Strathclyde University, "British sympathy with America does not ... automatically generate confidence in American foreign policy."

He said a January 1979 Gallup poll showed only 34 percent of Britons are confident the United States will "deal wisely" with world problems, compared to 54 percent that thought so in May 1977.

According to prominent pollster Jerome Jaffe, the French are more interested in a European defense alliance than in returning to U.S.-led NATO. They now consider old wartime foe West Germany their "best friend."

Polls show the Japanese, under the protection of the U.S. defense umbrella since the end of World War II, want to continue that relationship and are increasingly worried by the trend towards U.S. military withdrawal from Asia.

Must Submit To CAB Approval

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board says the Irish airline Aer Lingus must have board approval from now on to operate charter flights between the United States and Ireland.

An unwritten agreement has allowed Aer Lingus to operate as many charter trips as it wanted over routes on which it has scheduled service — such as New York to Dublin. Monday's CAB move, which takes effect in 30 days, was in retaliation for the Irish government's refusal to let two U.S. carriers, Texas International Airlines and World Airways, fly charters between the two countries.

NOW 33 COUNTS
CHICAGO (AP) — John W. Gacy Jr., already accused in the killings of seven young men and boys, now faces a total of 33 counts of murder in a new series of Cook County grand jury indictments.

Swine Virus Threat Seen In Midwest

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Midwest pork producers are facing a threat from pseudorabies, a swine virus that has the potential to completely wipe out a farrowing business.

Pseudorabies — which attacks the nervous system in hogs and cattle — is called "potentially the most economically damaging disease facing pork producers" by an Illinois Department of Agriculture animal disease expert.

The highly contagious disease permeates any herd that comes into contact with it and presently is spreading at a rate of more than 10 percent per year in Illinois and other midwestern pork-producing states.

The National Pork Producers Council estimates the virus costs hog producers nationally more than $20 million a year.

Dan Hoffman, director of market relations for the council, said although individual farmers may suffer a severe economic loss because of pseudorabies, the disease has not affected the supply or price of pork.

"At this point we hope pseudorabies doesn't have a significant market effect, but the potential is there," Hoffman said. "It has a very, very real impact on an individual seed stock producer (breeder) that experiences a pseudorabies outbreak."

Dr. Paul L. Spencer, chief veterinarian for the Agriculture Department's bureau of animal health, said 54 cases have been identified in Illinois since last June. Seventy cases were reported in fiscal 1978 and Simpson said the 1979 total almost certainly will top that figure.

Spencer, who has been involved in pseudorabies research since the Agriculture Department first began studying the virus in 1974, said two new vaccines and more than $500,000 in research annually have barely kept the virus in check. The only aspect of the disease that isn't devastating, he said, is that it doesn't contaminate the animal's meat. Pseudorabies infected hogs can be sold for slaughter with no fear of affecting people who purchase the meat.

The disease can strike any swine, Spencer said, but the most damaging occurrence is in sows bearing piglets. He said a sow contracting the disease while carrying pigs can lose all of its newborn, and pigs up to five months of age can die from three to seven days after contracting the virus.

The presence of pseudorabies in a herd, Spencer said, doesn't automatically mean sows will birth stillborn pigs. He said the disease has been known to lie dormant — present in the bloodstream but not active — for years without killing the herd's productive capabilities.

But a catalyst — a change in the weather, a hard freeze or almost anything upsetting the animal's equilibrium — can activate the disease and totally destroy the herd's productivity, he said.

"Pseudorabies will not go away; it's going to be a major problem to the swine producer," Spencer said. "Vaccines (presently in use) will never eradicate the disease ... eliminating pseudorabies is maybe 10, 15 or 20 years off."

Pseudorabies is commuted by contact or ingestion, he said. The disease is most commonly passed on from within the herd, he said, although it may be commuted by dogs, raccoons or other animals.

The most telling signs of pseudorabies are increased temperatures — as high as 105 degrees — and loss of motor skills. A pig contracting the disease will lose control of its muscles and stagger, walk erratically and finally drop to the ground, moving its legs in a padding motion.

Spencer said the best way for a pork producer to guard against pseudorabies is to be careful around his own hogs.

"If your neighbor has sick pigs, stay home," Spencer said. "Don't go look at them... the disease can be tracked in on clothes or footprints. If you have a dog that roams the neighborhood, confine it."

The most important thing a producer can do when struck by pseudorabies, Spencer said, is to carefully dispose of the dead animals.

"If you have an affected farm, dispose of animals by burying, burning or by selling them to a rendering company. The worst thing is to just throw dead pigs out."

By Roll Call Report
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded recently on major record votes.

HOUSE
CORRUPTION? — The House rejected, 101 for and 246 against, an amendment to remove the Zaire government as the distributor of U.S. surplus rice in that country. The amendment sought to have private relief organizations distribute the rice directly to the masses, thus bypassing the existing government system of middlemen who drive prices up and diminish chances of the rice reaching the underfed. The vote came during debate on HR 3324, a foreign aid bill later passed and sent to the Senate.

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., the sponsor, said that continuing government distribution would "provide fuel for the engine of corruption in that country (but) do nothing whatsoever to actually provide food for the hungry people of the country."

Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wisc., an opponent, said steps are being taken to clean up the alleged corruption, and added that adoption of this amendment would "undermine the work of our embassy and AID mission" in Zaire.

Members voting "yea" wanted private distribution of rice to the people of Zaire.

Reps. Walter Jones, D-1, L.H. Fountain, D-2, Charles Whitley, D-3, Ike Andrews, D-4, Stephen Neal, D-5, Richardson Preyer, D-6, Charles Rose, D-7, W.C. Hefner, D-8, James Martin, R-9, James Brodyhill, R-10, and Lamar Gudger, D-11, voted "nay."

FOREIGN AID — By a vote of 318 for and 77 against, the House cut five per cent from the approximately $4 billion fiscal year 1980 non-military foreign aid bill. The cut affected all outlays except those for American schools and hospitals abroad, the Food-for-Peace program and countries in the Middle East. The bill (HR 3324) later was passed and sent to the Senate.

Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., a supporter of the cut, said the foreign aid bill can "use some judicious paring" in a year when the budget "is facing a $30 billion deficit."

Rep. John Buchanan, R-Ala., an opponent, said that with foreign aid programs "we help to build a world in which we can live more securely and a world where people rather than starving like flies will become active trading partners (such as Taiwan and Korea.)"

Members voting "nay" opposed cutting spending for non-military foreign aid.

Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Rose, Hefner, Martin, Brodyhill and Gudger voted "yea."

FOREIGN AID — The House voted, 239 for and 157 against, in favor of a one-year rather than two-year foreign aid bill. Later, the House passed the bill (HR 3324) and sent it to the Senate. The measure authorizes about $3.9 billion for non-military foreign aid in fiscal year 1980.

Supporters of the one-year funding period said the foreign aid bill is virtually the only vehicle House members have for directly influencing U.S. foreign policy. They said they wanted an annual opportunity to vote on such issues as U.S. policy toward the Middle East and Africa.

Opponents of the one-year authorization said a two-year cycle is preferable because it allows longer-range planning and thus more effective State Department administration of the U.S. foreign aid program.

Members voting "yea" wanted the House to have annual rather than biennial control over the foreign aid budget.

Fountain, Whitley, Neal, Hefner, Martin and Gudger voted "yea."

Jones, Andrews, Preyer, Rose and Brodyhill voted "nay."

SENATE
SUPREME COURT — The Senate passed, 61 for and 30 against, a bill that relieves the Supreme Court of the "obligation" to hear certain appeals. The bill (S 450) was sent to the House. If it becomes law, the court will have almost total discretion to decide which appeals it will refuse and which it will accept for a ruling on the merits.

Presently, Congress allows the court a good deal of discretion. But the court is obligated by law to rule on a few categories of cases — for example, when a federal district court rules a state law unconstitutional.

The Justice Department and Supreme Court justices favored S 450. Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., also a supporter, said the bill will give the court needed flexibility to turn away cases that break no new legal ground and concentrate instead on ones involving a novel issue.

Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, an opponent, said he would vote against the bill because more time is needed to study "what it will do...to the right of the individual states to present their case to the highest court of the land."

Senators voting "yea" favored giving the Supreme Court virtually total autonomy in deciding which appeals it will accept.

Sen. Jess Helms, R, voted "yea."
 Sen. Robert Morgan, D, voted "nay."

Rescued By 'Eagle Lady'

APOPKA, Fla. (AP) — "General Patton," a bald eagle, will never fly again. A barred owl nearby is blind for life, the result of being hit by a bottle. A great horned owl named Bandit had both wings broken so he could be kept in a roadside zoo.

They're all part of the family for Doris Mager, whom kids here simply call "The Eagle Lady."

Mrs. Mager, 53, has 16 birds of prey at her Central Florida home, victims of human cruelty. She cares for them with the help of volunteers and $10,000 a year from the Florida Audubon Society. She's a vice president for research and rehabilitation of predatory birds.

General Patton often accompanies Mrs. Mager to schools, his right wing still bandaged where half of it was amputated after he was shot 2½ years ago.

"He's really good to take to school because then the children realize what the problem is with shooting them," she said. "And it's working. I can show you stacks of letters from kids just crying their hearts out for the eagle with the broken wing."

Mrs. Mager concentrates on children. She says they are the greatest enemy of soaring birds, often not considering the damage they do with thoughtless target practice.

She says her message is getting through to some. Last January in the Panhandle a tip from two youngsters led to the state's first conviction of a man for shooting an eagle.

Mrs. Mager started Audubon work in the society's gift shop at Maitland, Fla., in 1962, then began caring for robins and other small birds.

Since then she's tended hundreds of wounded birds.

Child Fantasies Said Beneficial

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Fantasy and folklore can be powerful and beneficial influences during childhood, believes Gertrude Herman, library-school professor at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

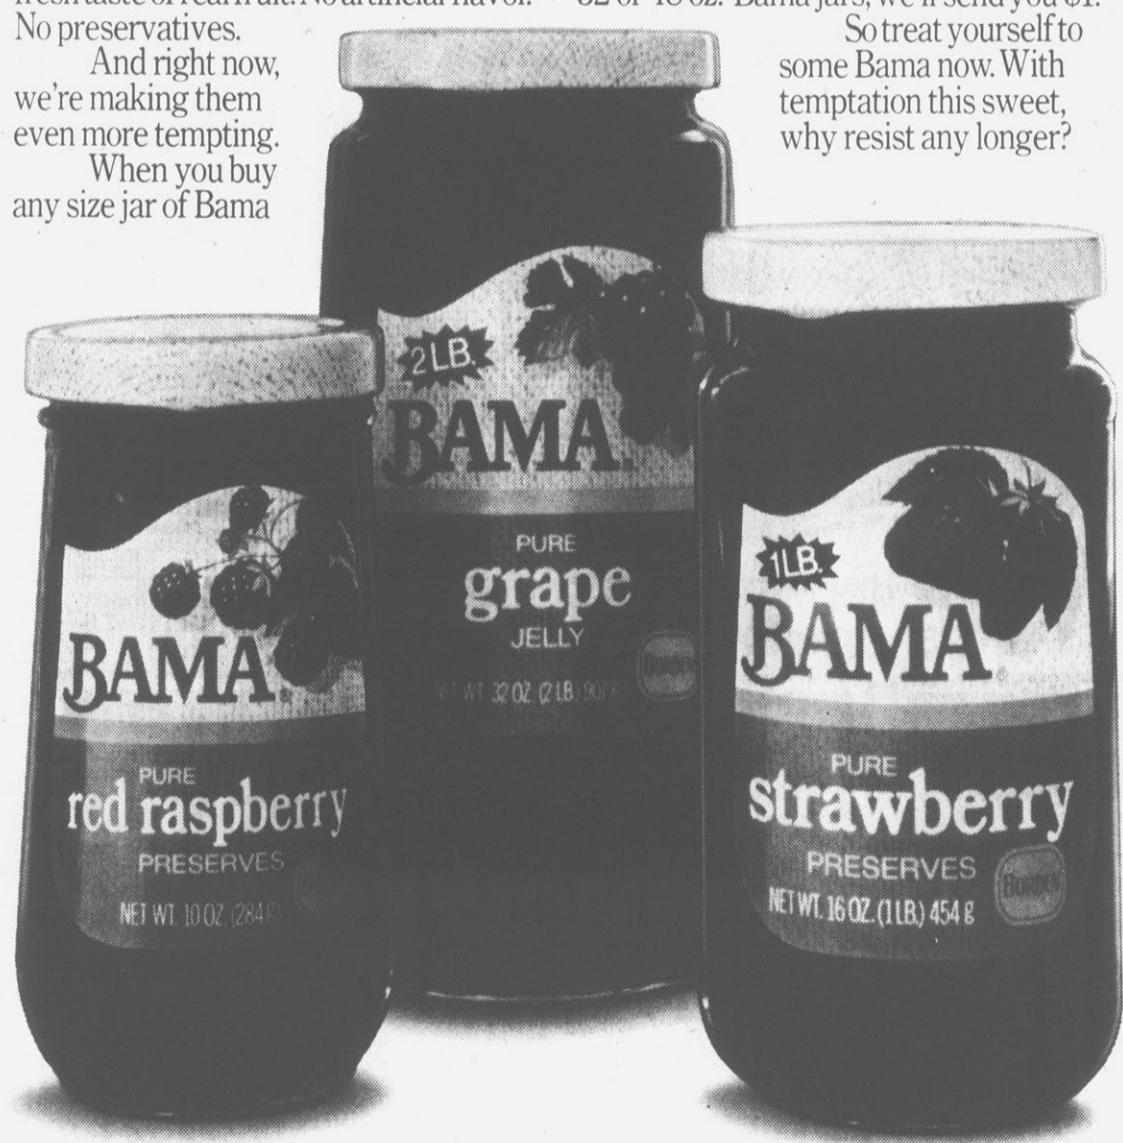

In a course in storytelling and oral literature she passes her belief on to students who are or will be librarians and teachers.

"As we write more realistic stories for children about death, drugs and divorce, college students are fascinated by tales of fairies, gnomes and hobbits," she says. "Maybe they're telling us they missed something."

An 'Occupation' In Asylum Life

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — "Being a full-time crazy person is becoming an occupation" for a certain segment of our society, says Sue Estroff, a University of Wisconsin anthropologist.

Living in a system that supports people who acknowledge their disabilities, she says many chronically disturbed people "earn their living by being different."

The 28-year-old anthropologist spent two years living with a group of chronically disturbed people to write her doctoral thesis. She attended therapy sessions, took powerful antipsychotic drugs, wandered around downtown Madison with her subject and developed personal relationships with 43 mental patients.

While many behavioral scientists have studied mental patients in hospitals, she may be the first to live among the growing number of mental patients who receive treatment outside hospitals.

MAINTAIN PRESENCE
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. aircraft carrier Constellation has left the Indian Ocean, but the carrier Midway has replaced it to maintain a significant American naval presence in that region, Pentagon officials say.

Always fresh, Grade A Holly Farms chicken! We wish every meat-merchant in town could honestly make that claim, because then it would be easy to compare prices. Kroger sells only fresh (never frozen and then thawed) chicken. Grade A fresh turkey, too. There's all the flavor difference in the world! If your family's getting a "little tired of chicken" fry some of Kroger's in butter and sprinkle with basil and they'll love you. Again!

Serving You Comes First. in the Kroger Sav-on garden

In the Kroger Sav-on garden most of our fresh fruits and vegetables are in bulk displays as opposed to pre-packaged, as many stores have. You can choose one green pepper or 3, one lemon or a dozen. And you pick and choose the one you want. Then take your choice to the "Gardener" for weighing and pricing. Your Kroger Sav-on "Gardener" will be pleased to answer your questions about any of the hundreds of fresh fruits and vegetables we have here for you.
