

Warns SALT-Violation 'Confrontation'

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter says if the Soviet Union violates a treaty to limit nuclear weapons "it might very well escalate into a nuclear confrontation."

relationship" between the two countries.
The president's remarks were offered in defense of the nearly-completed treaty to limit U.S. and Soviet long-range bombers and intercontinental ballistic missiles.
White House press secretary Jody Powell said they also were intended as a public warning to the Kremlin.

However, Carter gave no indication he expects the Russians to cheat. And he reiterated his confidence in U.S. means of verifying Soviet compliance "to our complete satisfaction."
Meanwhile, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin scheduled another negotiating session today—their 22nd this year.
Critics of the treaty have doubted both Soviet intentions and U.S. monitoring ability, particularly with the closing of two bases in Iran that gave the United States a ringside view of Soviet missile launchings.

Carter acknowledged "there are limits on what we can do." But he said the Soviets are aware of the risks of violating the treaty and that this lends "an element of stability and rationality" to the pursuit of weapons controls.

He also told reporters that even if the Senate vetoes the treaty he would adhere to its key provisions — providing the Soviets do the same.
"I would do all I could, monitoring very closely Soviet activities, to comply with the agreements reached," he said.

This pledge could lead to new controversy since it implies unilateral U.S. controls. Carter seemed to be aware of that prospect when he said he had "no inclination to minimize the importance of the constitutional process."
The Senate has the power to kill the treaty with 34 negatives votes. The administration needs the nod of at least 67 of the 100 senators for ratification.

Opponents are not likely to calmly accept the prospect of a treaty being put into effect informally if it is rejected in the Senate.
On another matter, Carter said he favors granting trade benefits to the Soviet Union and to China, but is still exploring the legal side of the question.

The move depends on a presidential finding that the Russians and the Chinese are permitting Jews and other minorities to leave freely.
Congress imposed that requirement in 1974, leading to a Soviet decision to give up trade benefits with the United States rather than comply.

N.C. School Bond Issue Area Impact Weighed

By REBECCA BUFFALO
Reflector Staff Writer
State schools superintendent Craig Phillips called for a statewide school bond referendum totaling $600-650 million to finance school construction and renovation for the 145 school systems in North Carolina Monday.
Phillips has noted that the General Assembly should consider putting the school bond issue on the November 1980 general elections ballot.
Phillips has been asked by Gov. Jim Hunt to delay the referendum at least one year in order to allow the economy to stabilize.
Greenville City Schools asked for $8,657,500 through the referendum, and Pitt County schools asked for $20,318,000.

Both school systems are engaged in working toward a $9 million bond referendum in Pitt County, with voting on the issue slated for June 8. The money will be distributed on a per pupil basis throughout the county.
According to Pitt County Superintendent Ott Alford, although Pitt County has asked for $20,318,000 through the state referendum, the $600 million referendum, if passed, would also be distributed throughout the state on a per-pupil basis.
"We anticipate approximately $6 million coming to the Pitt County schools if the state referendum issue passes," Alford said. "That would come to approximately $550 per child, counting on approximately 11,000 students in the system."

Alford explained that the state issue would probably not come up for at least another year, noting the "urgent" needs of the schools right now.
"Even if the $9 million bond referendum passes, we may have some difficulty in completing some of our projects," said Alford. "We may have to cut some corners, and that's where the state bond money, if passed, will be helpful."
The $6 million dollars, if received from the state issue, would allow the county schools to go back and work with the four high schools in eliminating the some 50 mobile units presently used for classroom space, as well as add additional space in growing areas, such as Winterville, Alford noted. Also, the state monies would allow work to be done to make buildings more accessible for the handicapped.

Superintendent Glenn Cox of the Greenville City Schools agreed with Alford that if the state bond referendum should pass, Greenville schools would probably receive only around $2-3 million of the asked for $8,657,500.
"We're talking about $600-650 million for the entire state," said Cox. "When you divide that between 145 school systems, it disappears pretty rapidly."
Cox explained that when the city school system was approached by the state in defining its needs for a possible statewide referendum, school officials allotted approximately $3 million to go toward completion of the Greenville Middle School and add an auto mechanics shop and additional vocational space at J. H. Rose High School.
Replacement of Agnes Fullilove School was set at approximately $12 million, with heating and air conditioning at Rose and E. B. Aycock Junior High School to total around $1 million. An amount of $48,000 was slated for making buildings accessible to the handicapped, with $325,000 to be noted for energy conservation practices in schools, such as the use of dropped ceilings or weatherstripping.
Cox explained that Greenville City schools would stand to receive approximately $2.8 million from the June 8 bond referendum, if passed. The $2-3 million to be received from the passage of the statewide referendum would allow the school system to work on items not included in the June 8 bond referendum.

Bond-Backers Organize To Get-Out-The-Vote

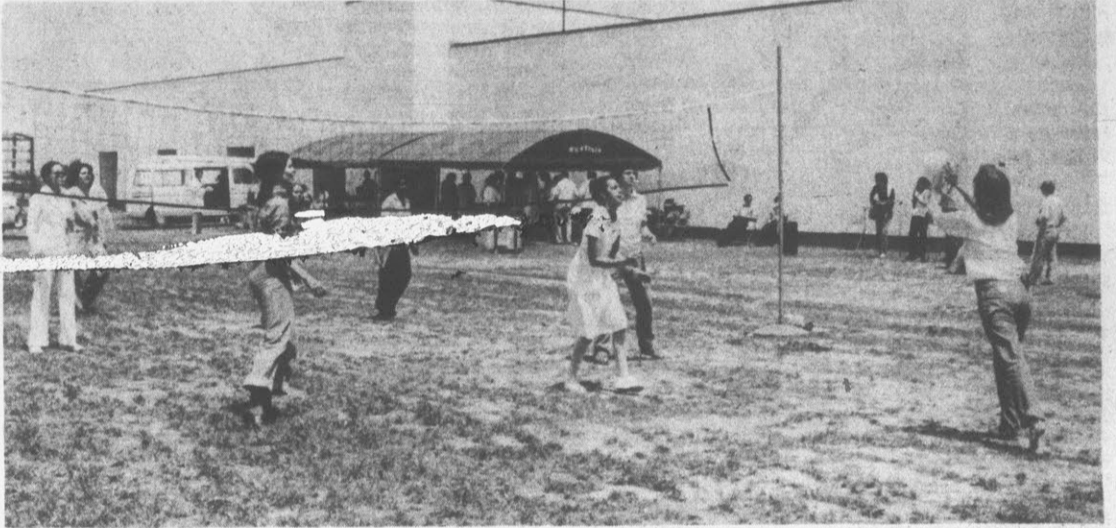

Naomi Edwards was named treasurer of the Countywide Steering Committee For Passage of the June 8 School Bond Referendum at a meeting Monday night.
A total of $305 in donations has been received so far to aid in the promotion of $9 million school bond issue. Ms. Edwards, an employee of Greenville City Schools, will handle the monies. Checks may be made out to: Treasurer, Countywide Steering Committee, and be mailed to P. O. Box 1009, Greenville, NC 27834.
Only non-tax funds may be used for the promotion of the issue, so funds are needed to pay for countywide promotion via fact sheets and newspaper, radio and television advertising.

A major concern of the group concerns registration of voters for the June 8 vote. The final date for registration will be Wednesday, May 9.
Committee member Margaret Wirth, a member of the area League of Women Voters, agreed to talk with her league members in an all-out push to register all 18 year olds in the county high schools, as well as register school personnel, both in the city and county.

Committee members also discussed the need for a fact sheet, to be distributed to persons throughout the county to explain why the bond issue should be passed and what it would entail for the county.
According to Jim Black, co-chairman of the committee, the bonds are free of any federal or state tax, therefore giving the bonds a lower interest rate.
The fact sheets would also be given to persons in a countywide speakers' bureau for use at speeches at local civic and church group meetings.
County advisory councils, who will play an important

Fun, Games On Anniversary

THE ANNIVERSARY PICNIC... at Pitt Co. Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon included volleyball playing, bluegrass listening, and barbecue eating. (Reflector Photo By Carol Tyer)

Barbecue, ballgames and bluegrass music were the order of the day as Pitt County Memorial Hospital employees celebrated yesterday the second anniversary of moving into the present hospital facility.
Hospital administrators wore white paper busboy caps and nurses played volleyball and frisbees in their white dresses. During the lunch hour of each hospital employee, it was time for barbecue and fried chicken served out from under a funeral home-loaned tent and participation in the activity of one's choice — whether an active sport or conversation on the lawn with friends.

The crowd livened visibly when the "Caboose on the Loose" bluegrass band struck up its first tune. "Play 'Nine-Pound Hammer'" a maintenance department employee requested and the group, composed of four Greenville-Washington area young people, did just that.

Rozanne Faulkner, Rehab Recreation Therapy Department Director and chairman of entertainment for the event, clogged alone in time to the music for a while and tried to interest others in dancing, but most seemed to prefer other pursuits.
Those employees who work at night of who could not leave their duty stations were to be served a barbecue plate free of charge in the cafeteria during the supper hour, Hospital Personnel Manager Craig Quick said.

Last year's celebration of moving day anniversary was a cake and punch party indoors. This year's outdoor meal and games could be precedent-setting, though, Quick said. "If everyone likes it, we'll probably have it out here on the grounds from now on. And it looks like everyone likes it, doesn't it?"
So it seemed. The caterers loaded many empty food containers into a van and the softball game kept on and on past the planned 4:30 quitting time.

Okay Changes

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A Senate committee today approved House changes in legislation that would remove most state regulations from church-supported and other private schools.
The Senate Judiciary I Committee approved the changes and recommended that the Senate concur.
The two bills have cleared both the House and Senate despite strong opposition from state public school leaders, including Superintendent of Public Instruction Craig Phillips.

MOISTURIZER CONTAMINATED

The FDA Enforcement Agency, according to local Home Extension Agent Evelyn Spangler, has released a report saying that 4,000 jars of contaminated Revlon Milk Plus 6-24-hour face moisturizer are on the market. The product was distributed nationally to direct retail and military accounts from October, 1978, through February, 1979.

Revlon Inc. initiated the recall. Mrs. Spangler said that persons who believe they may have some of this product should look at the lot number stamped on the bottom of each jar. The contaminated lot was No. 881. The product should be returned to the retailer from which it was bought, if possible.

Leslie Named B-W Plant General Manager

Burroughs Wellcome Co. announced several key staff changes involving the production facilities here, including the naming of present plant manager, G. Henry (Harry) Leslie, to a new position.
The company reported that Leslie, who has served as plant manager in Greenville since 1970, has been named general manager at the local facility.

Dr. Gabriel Cipau, formerly director of technical services for Burroughs Wellcome, will assume the duties of vice president in charge of production and engineering, it was announced.

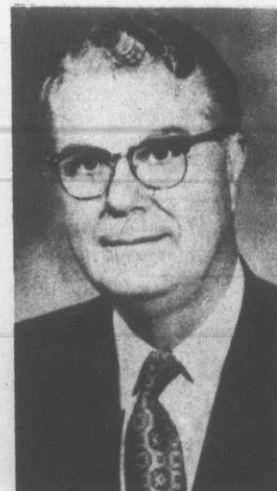

According to the company, Paul Taddiken, who has served as pharmaceutical production manager, has been appointed technical assistant to the vice president in charge of production and engineering, and Jim Goes will succeed Taddiken here as pharmaceutical production manager.

Fred A. Coe Jr., president and chairman of the board of Burroughs Wellcome, commented that, "In his new capacity, Mr. Leslie will be responsible for maintaining a continuing high standard of conduct at our Greenville facilities."
Coe said that Leslie "will also be charged with maintaining the excellent relationship with the various publics of Pitt County which he has built during the past ten years."

Leslie, who has been associated with the company since 1952, has held a number of positions in pharmaceutical production during his career with the company. The official, a graduate of the University of Toronto with a degree in pharmacy, moved to Greenville in 1970 when the company relocated from Tuckahoe, N.Y.

He is chairman of the Pitt Memorial Hospital's board of trustees and as chairman of the hospital's gift fund, he was instrumental in raising half a million dollars to provide supplemental funds for furnishing and equipping the new hospital.
Leslie also serves as vice chairman of the board of directors of the East Carolina University Foundation Inc. and is on the boards of Wachovia Bank and Trust Co. and Pitt Technical Institute. Cipau joined the company in 1970 as a project engineer and was promoted to section head, Pilot Plant of the Chemical Development Laboratories here later in 1970. In 1975, he was appointed department head in scientific computing and moved to the corporate headquarters at Research Triangle Park. In 1977, he was promoted to director of technical services.

Cipau, who will continue to have his office at Research Triangle Park, holds B.S. and Ph.D. degrees in engineering and an M.S. degree in chemistry.
Taddiken joined Burroughs Wellcome in 1942 after receiving a degree in pharmacy from the University of Colorado. He was named pharmaceutical production manager in 1970.
Goes has served in various capacities since joining the company in 1959. He was appointed manager of Burroughs Wellcome de Mexico in 1967 and returned to Greenville in 1971. He was then named assistant pharmaceutical manager.

Measure In N.C. Senate Reopens An Old Dispute

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Legislation renewing the battle between ophthalmologists, who are medical doctors, and optometrists, who aren't, has been introduced in the state Senate.

The dispute is over the question of whether optometrists, who examine eyes, should be allowed to use and prescribe diagnostic and therapeutic drugs in the course of their practice.

A law passed by the 1977 General Assembly says they can, subject to a requirement that they also communicate those drug uses to a licensed ophthalmologist.

The pair of bills, introduced Monday night, take opposite sides in the dispute, and both were filed by powerful Senate leaders.

One, filed by Sen. Kenneth Royall, D-Durham, would repeal the 1977 legislation entirely, effectively preventing optometrists from writing prescriptions or administering drugs.

The other, sponsored by Sen. Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir, would allow optometrists to administer or prescribe the drugs more freely, without the requirement that they consult an ophthalmologist.

Royall said Monday that he voted for the 1977 legislation but didn't fully understand it then. "I didn't know what it was doing," he said, "Everybody said they agreed with it, but it turns out they didn't."

The debate two years ago stirred lengthy debate. Dr. Ernest Larkin Jr., from Washington, N.C., and president of the N.C. Society of Ophthalmology, said his group supports Royall's repeal bill.

"The diagnosis and treatment of eye disease is a highly specialized and complex area of medicine," said Larkin. "The law that is presently on the books does not take this into account, and in fact jeopardizes the health of every North Carolinian."

Ophthalmologists are doctors trained in the diagnosis and treatment of eyes and eye diseases. Optometrists are trained and qualified to examine eyes and prescribe corrective lenses. The ophthalmology group contends optometrists cannot deal with medical-related defects of the eye.

In other legislative action: Name Change

The House voted 79-30 to give tentative approval to a bill allowing state-supported technical institutes to be renamed technical colleges. Under the measure, a technical institute could be renamed if the school's board of trustees and the governing county commissioners approved.

Supporters of the name change said the term college implies more status and that students would prefer to say they go to a technical college. "This has absolutely nothing to do with curricula," said the sponsor, Rep. Louise Brennan, D-Mecklenburg. "This, I think, will add a little prestige."

But it drew strong opposition from Rep. Sam Bundy, D-Pitt. "We have some universities that we call universities but aren't universities," he said. "Now we're going to call these colleges when they aren't colleges."

Education
A bill introduced by Sen. I. Beverly Lake Jr., D-Wake, would abolish the eight Regional Educational Training Centers run by the Department of Public Instruction. The bill would abolish the jobs of those in the centers and prohibit personnel from being transferred to Raleigh or any other state office unless it is to fill another vacant position.

Church Schools
Two bills removing most state regulations from church-supported and other private schools were sent to the Senate Judiciary I Committee. Both the House and Senate have passed the bills, but they were sent to the panel for review of House amendments.

Nuclear Waste
More hearings will be held Thursday on the disposal of nuclear wastes in North Carolina. The House Natural and Economic Resources Committee will hold its second public hearing Thursday at 11 a.m.

It is considering a resolution that says North Carolina should accept for disposal only those nuclear wastes used in the production of power consumed in this state.

Prayer
The Senate voted 38-9 to adopt a resolution expressing that chamber's support for voluntary prayer in public schools. Copies of the resolution were ordered sent to Congress. The measure was only a Senate resolution and was not sent to the House.

Utcom
The House and Senate public utilities committees scheduled a hearing for Thursday at 10 a.m. to consider Gov. Jim Hunt's appointment of Rep. Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson, to the state Utilities Commission.

A joint session is expected to be held Thursday, May 9, to vote on Campbell's confirmation.

Other Action
—By a vote of 104-1, the House enacted legislation allowing wineries operating in North Carolina to sell wine on the premises.

—The Senate approved on a 43-2 vote, then sent to the House, a bill that would allow prosecutors to inform juries of a defendant's arrest record during sentencing hearings after the defendant was convicted of a capital crime.

—A bill filed in the House for introduction today would add two members to the 10-member state sunset commission and would extend the life of several state regulatory agencies scheduled for sunset review.

—A bill filed in the Senate would exempt from the state gasoline tax fuels containing at least 10 percent ethanol, an alcohol additive for gasoline made from grain.

—Another new Senate bill would appropriate $1.3 million for the acquisition of land and for planning of a new state office building in Fayetteville.

First Class Scouting Awards For 2 Girls

Cadette Girl Scouts Lynn Lieberman and Alayna Keller will receive First Class Scouting Awards Wednesday in a 7:30 p.m. awards ceremony at First Christian Church, Greenville.

The two scouts, members of Girl Scout No. 534, have worked three years to receive the coveted award, which is much on the same level as the Boy Scouts' Eagle rank.

Miss Lieberman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward M. Lieberman of Greenville, is 14 years old and a student at Aycock Junior High School. She enjoys art, traveling, scouting and playing the flute. A travel-related job or the position of linguist interests Lynn, as well as perhaps becoming a Scout leader.

Alayna, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Keller, is 15 years old and also attends Aycock. She enjoys playing the piano and harp, drawing and writing, a hobby that won her a poetry prize in the 1979 Women's Club Writing Contest. Alayna desires to become a space shuttle pilot or a Girl Scout leader.

The scouts, who both received a congratulatory note from President Carter, want to join a Senior Scout troop. However, no one has applied for the position of senior leader in the Greenville area. Their present scout leaders are Pam Smith, Bob Northrup and Mac Little.

Harassment Is Not Yet Ended

AULANDER, C. (AP) — Law enforcement spokesmen say the explosion of a large firecracker outside a home Saturday night indicated that harassment directed at a Hertford County man has not ended.

No one was injured in the explosion at the home of Hunter Wilder Jr. of Rt. 1, Aulander, according to a deputy from neighboring Bertie County.

Wilder's residence is in Hertford County near the Bertie County line.

The deputy, Milton Morris, said Monday he believed the explosion was related to an incident last week in which Wilder and his wife were tied up by three men in ski masks who cut off part of Wilder's ear.

Hertford County Sheriff James E. Baker said he did not know details of the Saturday night incident, and he added that no arrests have been made in connection with either incident.

Couple Weds In Noon Ceremony On Saturday

Philippi Church of Christ was the setting for the Saturday wedding ceremony of Denise Annette Smith and Pfc. Derrick Marcel Williams. The noon ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. B. Williams.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Darrell Moses of Laurelton, N. Y., was given in marriage by her stepfather. She is also the daughter of Benjamin Smith Jr. of Greenville. She wore a formal length gown of white chiffon over white peau de soie designed with a high neckline encircled with white floral embroidered lace. The empire bodice was enhanced by a sheer yoke of English net outlined in the embroidered lace that extended down and encircled the waistline. The long fitted sleeves were trimmed at the elbow with the matching lace from which fell the double flared chiffon sleeves. The chiffon skirt flowed into an attached chapel length train.

She wore a tiered illusion veil held in place by a Camelot cap overlaid in embroidered lace. She carried a Bible with a red rose.

The bridegroom is the son of Larry Williams of Laurelton, N. Y., and the late Mrs. Sarah Williams.

Roger Ingram was organist and soloist. Selections included "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Paulette Foye of Willingboro, N. J., cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a princess styled floor length gown in yellow with a pinched bodice. She carried a bouquet of red roses with a white ribbon.

Stacy Anderson and Pamela Anderson, both of Winterville, were bridesmaids. They wore rose colored princess styled floor length gowns with a matching rose flowered chiffon half cape. They carried red roses with white ribbon.

The flower girl was Darlene Moses of Laurelton, N. Y., sister of the bride. She was dressed in a pale, yellow floor length gown trimmed with embroidered yellow flowers. The ring bearer was William Carr of Greenville, stepbrother of the bride.

Joseph Millidge of Beaufort, S. C., served as best man and ushers were Jessie Phelps of Greenville, Jimmy Jenette of Simpson and Kenneth Foskey of New Bern, cousin of the bride.

The bride attended Springfield Garden High School, Queens, N. Y., and Pitt Technical Institute.

MRS. DERRICK MARCEL WILLIAMS

She is a model and clerk-typist. The bridegroom attended Jackson High School, Queens, N. Y., and is now serving in the U. S. Army, stationed at Fort Bragg, where the couple will live.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall. The reception table was covered with a beige lace over beige cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink sweetpeas and white snow balls flanked by pink candles. Mrs. Alice Faye Brewington of Greenville presided at the guest book. Mrs. Christine Lewis of Greenville received gifts.

Miss Kamala Worthing, Miss Jackie Huggings and Miss Christa Williams assisted in serving.

Good-byes were said by the

Husband Vetoes Her Franchise

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband won't let me register to vote. He says I might have to spend a month locked up in a motel with other members of a jury and no way will he allow that! I realize that the chances of this happening are remote, but I suppose it could happen. I run a business at home and have a 4-year-old child to take care of, so I probably could be excused from jury duty anyway.

Our marriage has enough problems without adding another one, so I've abided by his wishes, but I'd really like to vote in the next election because so many important issues are coming up.

Should I go behind my husband's back and register? WANTS TO VOTE

DEAR WANTS: No. Register in front of his face. And don't worry about being stuck with jury duty. If you have legitimate reasons for being excused, you will be.

The right to vote is not only a privilege, it's the responsibility of every citizen who wants a voice in how his country should be run—and by whom. By choosing not to vote, you forfeit your right to criticize your government's policies and its elected officials. Edmund Burke said, "The only thing that is necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing." I'm with Edmund.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a gentleman who lets a lady win in a game of sports or cards? GILDA

DEAR GILDA: If a gentleman lets a lady KNOW that he has let her win, he's either a bad actor or he's no gentleman.

DEAR ABBY: I've been widowed for six years and have two children, 8 and 10. For two years I've been living with a man who lights up my life. My children adore him (they think we're married), and we're a very happy family even though it's not legal.

My live-in friend and I bought a house together (as "Mrs. and Mrs.") and we share all the household expenses. A lot of people think we're married. We just never talk about our relationship. (I am "Mrs." on the mailbox, and we have "Mr. and Mrs." charge accounts, etc.)

I was recently left $100,000 by a relative. Ever since my friend heard about it he has been planning on how "we" will spend it. (He wants to buy a boat.)

I would like to put it in trust for my children. What I need to know, Abby, is this: What will happen to my children if I should die? He is not their real father, and he hasn't adopted them. And what will happen to ME if HE should die? I'm sure he's made no provisions for me in his will. NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: Both you and your live-in friend should see a lawyer and have these questions answered immediately. Don't put it off, don't assume anything and take nothing for granted! Take your legal questions to a lawyer and pay him for what he knows. It's the best investment you can make.

DEAR ABBY: My girlfriend's mother lets her kids call her "Yetta," and I think that's neat.

I tried calling my mother "Sheila" and nearly got hit in the head.

My Mom said when kids call their parents by their first names it shows lack of respect, and there would be none of that in our house.

I wonder how you feel about that, Abby. SONIA

DEAR SONIA: I think your mother's wishes should be respected.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Job Seekers Need Right Wardrobe

NEW YORK (AP) — Although clothes don't make the man, they can often make the difference between getting and not getting the job when a recent college graduate interviews for that all-important first chance, says a specialist in the men's apparel field.

"In an interview situation for a first job, it's often difficult to select one applicant over another," says Marvin A. Blumenfeld, head of a merchandising consulting firm which represents more than 140 men's shops around the country. "They're all enthusiastic and inexperienced and if their course of study and grades are equivalent, the potential employer has to consider other factors."

"And one of them is the way a prospective employee is dressed," adds Blumenfeld, president of April-Marcus Inc., in New York. He offers some basic fashion points a college graduate should keep in mind when he's job hunting.

"First and most important," says the fashion expert, "is that the applicant's outfit blend into the surroundings. The young man who is remembered as 'the one in the green suit or bright plaid blazer probably has created an unnecessary obstacle for himself. When dressing for an interview it's better to err on the side of conservatism.'"

Blumenfeld suggests that the job seeker who is especially interested in a certain company might do well to get a copy of its annual report. In most cases, it will contain a color photo of the chief executive and his key personnel, from which one can get an idea of the company's mode of dress.

Since most college graduates do not have unlimited funds at their disposal to spend on clothing, he advises keeping the job-hunting wardrobe down to its bare essentials "because when an applicant gets a job, he'll be better able to determine the appropriate dress code in his new company and buy accordingly."

Blumenfeld believes that the first-time job seeker can get by with two interview outfits.

"Having only one is a little too precarious," he warns. "In case of a spill or a tear, you don't want to be left without anything to wear. Also, in situations where you have to return for a number of interviews, you can't wear the same outfit during every visit."

He suggests these guidelines for the two outfits:

—Suits. One should be either blue or gray. The other might be blue, gray or brown. The blue and gray should be darker shades and the brown either a darker shade or subdued tan for summer months. Stripes are permissible as long as they

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I really get ticked off at all this flap over the '40s being nostalgic.

How can they be nostalgic when I remember them? As for the fashions of the '40s coming back, if I were asked to pick an era of clothes to bring back, the '40s would be my LAST choice.

We all dressed like we were going to a war. Our jackets looked like they hung from curtain rods, our skirts were pencil slim, and our shoes reflected our shortage of leather and good sense. Not necessarily in that order.

If there is anything I must protest, it is the resurrection of the hat. Some fashions are better off left buried. They make as much sense as Bette Midler when she appeared at an Emmy ceremony wearing a 45 r.p.m. tacked to the side of her head.

For those of you who have never endured a Millinery age, allow me to fill you in.

The choice of hats of the '40s narrowed down to (a) pillbox,

(b) pillbox with a veil. The (a) pillbox defied gravity and was attached to the back of your head by a large hatpin which hooked into your scalp. Any hair left under it turned brown and died.

The hat matched your gloves' purse and shoes. If it didn't your mother made you go back into the house and change.

The (b) pillbox with a veil set yet another tone. If you had good skin, the veil covered it. If you had a bad skin, the veil called attention to it.

The veil was not conducive to sneezing, smiling, scratching, yawning, talking, kissing or picking something out of your teeth with your tongue. The least movement set it off. Once when I took a deep breath of boredom, I nearly inhaled my hat.

The hat is not in the interests of most women. Most of us need all the help from hair we can get. I only remember one instance when I was wearing my pillbox that I got a whistle from anyone.

A tall, dark Marine whistled at me and asked me to store his bag. He thought I was a bellhop.

That's really all I can remember about the '40s. After all, I was only a toddler at the time.

are on the conservative side. Plaids of all kinds are out.

—Shirts. They should be either white or lighter shades of blue or beige. Striped shirts are acceptable as long as they are white with subdued blue, gray or brown stripes.

—Ties. Ties should be striped, conservatively dotted or solid. Solid ties are the only type to wear with striped shirts. Floral patterns and bright shades of any color are out.

There are certain items that Blumenfeld and other clothing experts suggest are better left for wear during the cocktail hour and other social and informal engagements.

They include sports coats and slacks, plaid suits, green, red and certain shades of rust and any other color that conveys the feeling of "loudness."

And, of course, Blumenfeld points out, jeans should never be worn at interviews, no matter how high-style they are.

Skim milk contains less than 0.5 percent milk fat. Most lowfat and skim milk is fortified with both Vitamin A and D. An eight ounce glass has about 90 calories.

No Alternatives For Many

Duke Power Co., faced with the possibility of shutting down three nuclear power stations, had said it could be faced with rolling blackouts of its system.

Fortunately a plan was worked out to shut the reactors down one at a time for safety modifications which the Nuclear Regulatory Commission says the plants must have.

Certainly, in view of the Three Mile Island mishap, the modifications should be made. Nothing, in fact, should be spared to make the nuclear plants safe. At the same time we shouldn't take a panic stance in shutting down plants which have been operating safely for years.

It becomes obvious that we still have things to learn about constructing and operating nuclear power plants safely. It is also likely, however, that the nation simply can't get along without this source of energy in the foreseeable future. There are problems with coal, oil will be depleted and hydro-electric sites are about used up.

Maybe some other energy source will be developed, but the practical matter is that the nuclear plants are operating now, and they can't be replaced within years by anything else. We should never fail to review and improve on safety aspects, but for much of the nation there are no alternatives to nuclear power generation... short of doing without electricity, that is.

Chicod School Built Ties For Alumni

It was a unique event for Chicod School. Some 800 persons who had attended school there came back for a 50th anniversary celebration last weekend.

The school was a high school in a rural setting for 42 of those years. When the four new consolidated high schools were built, students from the area shifted to D. H. Conley High School a few miles down N. C. 43. There were fond memories for hundreds who once sat in its classrooms as they re-visited the old building which has since been remodeled for continued educational use. Considering the turnout, it was obvious the old school had done its part in building the educational strength and fiber of its alumni.

Health Units Framework

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Government agencies and any private firms employing more than 50 people would be required to offer membership in a Health Maintenance Organization as an alternative to existing medical and hospitalization insurance programs under a legislative proposal now being studied.

This apparent attempt to encourage establishment of pre-paid group health plans in North Carolina is the key ingredient of a bill known simply as the Health Maintenance Act of 1979.

Popularly known as an HMO, the pre-paid group plan is seen by numerous experts in Raleigh and in Washington as the most promising step currently available to curbing escalating costs of health care.

The nut of an HMO operation is that it offers competition to the existing medical establishment, and that is expected to at least contain rising costs—if not lower them.

Here is how the HMO

works: A number of individuals and families join a group and pay into a pool just as insurance is now bought. The HMO operator may be a private firm or individual, a non-profit organization, a governmental agency, or a company offering services only to its employees.

A clinic, sometimes a hospital, and other facilities are bought or leased and health care providers including physicians, dentists, therapists, nurses, etc. will be hired or contracted with.

Members, then, receive all health services from start to finish. Physical exams, office calls, preventive advice, hospitalization, surgery...

North Carolina's HMO Act of 1979 is sponsored by state representatives Ted Kaplan, D-Forsyth, and Ernest Masser, D-Buncombe. It was developed by a legislative study commission which grew out of a previous study group on containment of Medicaid costs, when it was realized that controlling runaway Medicaid payments must involve lowering medical costs generally.

BILL NOBLITT

Essentially, the proposal now in the legislative machinery sets up the framework for establishing and operating an HMO in North Carolina. Technical law on such operations, ways they can be financed and operated, how they can be advertised and promoted, and provisions for licensing, monitoring, and reviewing annually by the Department of Insurance is included.

A major part of the law would be relief for HMO groups from the state's Certificate of Need Law to a large degree. That federally-imposed review process is supposed to function to see that all health programs and services actually meet a local need.

Cost Control
The intention is to restrict and control expansion in an effort to control cost. But critics contend the opposite often results: that existing facilities and practitioners use the law to eliminate competition.

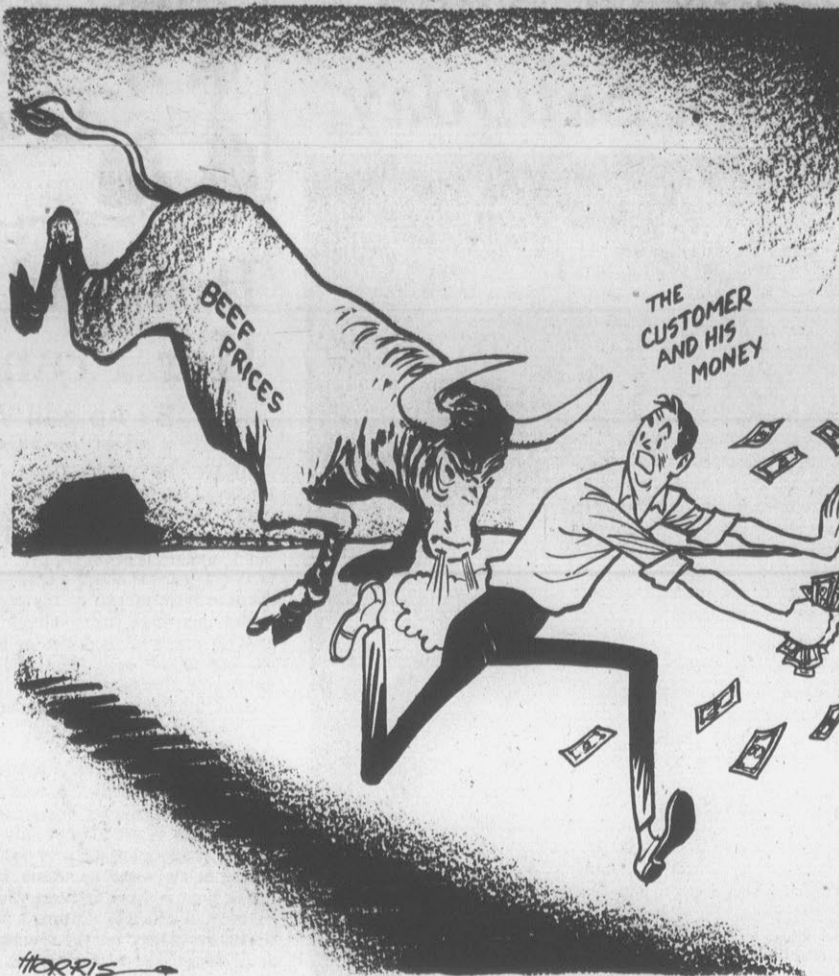

A section of the law entitled "Dual Choice" is the one which is expected to encourage establishment of HMO Groups by nonprofit corporations, or by businessmen who see the opportunity to make a profit.

All state and local governmental units which offer health insurance "shall make available to and inform its employees" of the option to enroll in a Health Maintenance Organization. Likewise, any private employer of more than 50 must make the same option available.

The proposal states that the employer must not be required to pay more for the HMO membership than is already being paid for insurance coverage.

Chill Wind Is Blowing

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court's recent opinion in the Herbert case, viewed in isolation, is not especially worrisome. What concerns many of us in the news business is the whole trend of cases before the high court. A chill wind is blowing, and it gets chillier all the time.

In the case at hand, CBS broadcast a report six years ago on "60 Minutes," having to do with a retired army colonel, Anthony Herbert. The program was produced by Barry Lando and narrated by Mike Wallace. Herbert sued in the federal courts for libel. His lawyers launched upon the process known as pre-trial discovery.

In their efforts at discovery, Herbert's lawyers asked thousands of questions of Lando. The producer answered questions having to do with what he had seen, whom he interviewed, and where he found sources. Lando provided transcripts of interviews, volumes of reporters' notes, a series of preliminary drafts of the "60 Minutes" telecast, and even the contents of his conversations with Wallace and other colleagues.

But after 26 days and 3,000 pages of pre-trial examination, Lando balked at questions going to his "state of mind" in making editorial decisions. The lower courts sustained his refusal to cooperate in this kind of subjective examination. A couple of weeks ago, the Supreme Court reversed, 6-3, and in effect ordered Lando to answer. Most of my own colleagues of the press reacted with cries of outrage, and one infuriated publisher asserted that what is needed is "an examination into the state of mind of the Burger Court."

Looking at Mr. Justice White's majority opinion, I fail to see what all the hollering is about. The opinion, in my own view, does little to extend the existing law that governs the libel of a public figure. For Colonel Herbert to recover damages, he must eventually prove not only that the broadcast allegations were false, but also that the defendants published these allegations knowing them to be false or in "reckless disregard" of whether they were false or not. That is a

Letters submitted for Public Forum should be limited to 300 words. The editor reserves the right to edit longer letters.

To the editor:

I am writing for friends and myself.

We are students at ECU. We contribute an enormous amount of money and services to the community in many ways. We enjoy being here in the Greenville area, but we have a small complaint that is very important to us.

Each of us pays a large sum each month for our home away from home. We feel each of us should have a parking space with our apartment. We feel when we rent an apartment we should have a parking space in front or very near our apartment. We do not have parking space. We have to park wherever there is an open space, sometimes three or four apartments away from ours. This is not right. We should have our apartment number on our space. Then the guest should have to park in the unmarked spaces away from our apartment.

Students: I urge you to join my friends and myself and ask for a parking space when we lease our apartments this next fall. This is important to us, especially in bad weather.

Most of us take care of our apartments and have high respect for the place we call home during our school years. We feel that this is only a small thing to ask for, so please do something on the apartment parking areas. Do give us a parking space with our apartments.

Lon Braddock

To the editor:

Although I was inconvenienced by the lack of a quorum among the County members at the Joint City-County Planning Commission, I do not agree with the proposal made by a member of the Greenville city staff and supported by you in your editorial page of Apr. 27, 1979.

The interests of citizens in the extra-territorial regions can best be served only by representatives from those areas and not by city people.

To guarantee that there will always be a quorum from the County, I would like to propose that the County Commissioners appoint an alternate for each County representative to the Joint City-County Planning Commission or else a pool of alternates. It should not be too difficult to find people willing to serve as alternates.

There is more logic to this approach than to have joint matters settled by a simple majority from the city.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Cutting Down COPE

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — A closed-door meeting April 25 of big labor's political arm, called COPE, decided to keep its financial contributions to pro-labor political candidates flowing despite a potentially devastating April 17 U.S. court decision.

That decision by U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey rules out what the court viewed as overlapping contributions by the national COPE, headed by Alexander Barkan, and separate political action committees (PACs) of individual AFL-CIO unions. Under new campaign spending laws, the decision implied, the $5,000 limit by any PAC for a single candidate in a general election — and an equal amount during the primary election — should include the sum of all AFL-CIO contributions, national or local. That means that if candidate Smith received $5,000 from the national COPE, no statewide COPE or individual AFL-CIO union could contribute more.

The court decision, in a case brought by the national Right-To-Work Committee, overruled two unanimous decisions by the federal election commission (FEC). These held that PACs of AFL-CIO unions could make contributions to a candidate wholly independent of contributions by the national COPE.

Assembling COPE leaders from a score of AFL-CIO unions, Barkan instructed them to continue as before, without any change, pending COPE's appeal. If not reversed, the decision would cost labor-backed candidates millions of campaign dollars. The loss to business-backed candidates of lumping contributions from national and local PACs together — for example, national and state American Medical Political Action Committees (AMPAC) — would be far less.

George Bush's Wallcette Charles Snider, the former chief political operative for George Wallace who recently signed on with George Bush's presidential campaign, had been vigorously sought by Ronald Reagan's camp — which now is blaming backstage corporate influence for their loss.

Snider and his partner, Alton Dauphin — Wallace's former brother-in-law — flatly deny any such pressure. Snider told us he joined the Bush campaign after two long meetings with Bush and his campaign chairman, James Baker, after being introduced to Bush by Bill France, the impresario of stock-car racing, in February 1978.

Reagan's men are privately claiming they would have Snider today but were fished by one of the biggest corporate clients of the Snider-Dauphin, Inc., consulting firm of Montgomery, Ala., which pushed Snider into the Bush camp.

Snider ran Wallace's presidential campaigns in 1972 and 1976 and remains an influential figure with the

Strength For Today

A high school student who is not very good at spelling recently wrote in an English composition, "God is conspicuous in the world by His presents." He meant to say, of course, that God was conspicuous by His "presence". But the original statement is true none the less.

We live surrounded by God's presents. In our physical surroundings He has given us majestic mountains, cool and sparkling lakes, fertile green fields, and lush forests. These are freely given to us to be enjoyed by everybody.

Even if our home is not in a lovely countryside, however, God's presents are still conspicuous everywhere. His best gifts, indeed, are not reserved for nature, but are in our fellow human beings. The love of our wives and sweethearts, the loyalty of our friends, the affection of children, the generosity of parents — these too are gifts. Truly, God is conspicuous by His presents.

TV In House Is Dull

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives is well into its first television season and the ratings have been a bit disappointing.

Obviously, something has to be done if telecasts of House sessions are ever to challenge "Mork and Mindy" or "Laverne and Shirley" for the top spots in the popularity ratings.

How could House leaders have been anything but bitterly disappointed last week when the debate on the State Department authorization bill failed to win audiences away from the soap operas and cartoon shows. However, despite the consistent failure to show anywhere but at the bottom of the ratings, there is no sign of panic in the House. Sources involved in programming vow there will be no changes in this season's lineup.

But viewers can expect a re-evaluation of the entire show next October when Congress plans to quit for the year.

One question that must be resolved soon is whether the House will shift to three months of re-runs to fill the time between October and the start of the second half of the session in January.

Here are some other lively possibilities for change:

A new set might help. The House chamber is a huge room designed for use by 435 representatives, with some extra room for staff and functionaries.

But the truth is, there rarely is more than a handful of people on the floor. The debates might have a lot more appeal if they shifted to a set that looks like someone's kitchen. The members could sit around the kitchen table, sip coffee and debate the bill.

Do all the programs have to be House floor debates? Why not have members show slides and movies from their overseas trips. Not even the National Geographic Society has as many people visiting exotic locales around the world at any given

40 Years Ago Today

The new marriage law requiring certificates showing the participants to be free from social diseases evidently is having its effect in Pitt County. Only three licenses have been issued during the past week.

Only 15 licenses were issued during the month of April, five of that number were granted before the new law went into effect. 33 were granted during March.

Voting was heavy at each of the voting places today in Greenville as local residents, cast ballots in what is conceded to be the largest election in the history of the city, in that more voters were registered than in any previous election.

Lines began forming at the local courthouse as soon as the polls were opened early this morning and had shown only a slight decrease after 12 noon. Voting was also heavy at the city hall, the other voting place, where politicians and other interested parties congregated to discuss pros and cons of the voting.

Women Organizing For Push

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The women are not taking a thing for granted. Though their future in business seems assured, they are not sitting back and waiting for invitations. They are organizing for the push.

A few weeks ago the Financial Women's Association of New York held a breakfast meeting at which they released the names of women they felt should be invited to sit on corporate boards.

So far, not much has happened to that list, the publication of which some claim was a sure way not to get an invitation. But the women stirred up talk, and they got a progress report from General Motors.

As guest speaker, GM chairman Thomas Murphy told the women their future in management was a "skyline of rising opportunities."

At GM, he said, "we should see women filling upwards of one-third of all our engineering and plant supervision positions," many of which once were, considered too weighty and technical for delicate females.

But as some women see it, those jobs will not be filled unless they press for them. They had to push in the courts to open the door a crack, they remember; and now, they say, they have to keep their weight against it.

One of the problems is that men still control big business; and at the top, they rely heavily on each other. Some call it the old boy network; and out of it come job opportunities and invitations to sit on boards.

In almost no instance are the women going it alone. Practically every seminar or new organization has managed to attract some form of aid from big business, and for very good reasons.

One prominent reason is that women have a great deal to say about how money is invested. They have made swift professional advances in the financial field. And personally, they own a great deal of stock in corporations, some left to them by deceased husband-executives.

The New York financial women obtained Murphy for obvious reasons. As the biggest employer among manufacturers, GM is constantly in the spotlight. It seeks recognition for its minority employment practices.

Among other accomplishments, it has two women directors; the corporations secretary is female, as are two corporate assistant secretaries. It has just named a female vice president, its first.

Aware that they will be employing women MBAs for legal and good business reasons, Exxon, Procter and Gamble, Scott Paper and the Sun Company funded the Wharton meeting.

And when you are able to gain the financial and moral support of that against which you are pushing, it suggests pretty good organization and superior management techniques.

Ailing Singer Presented Gift

The Echoes of Calvary Youth Choir of Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church here has patient and gospel singer, Barbara Rodgers, with a gift of $2,000.

"The gift, we hope, will help defray Barbara's expenses of going back and forth to Duke Hospital for treatment," said John Moore, director of and advisor to the choir. The choir is composed of persons 13 to 17 years old.

The gift money was raised by sponsorship of a concert by internationally known gospel singer, Shirley Caesar, held here last Wednesday night. Miss Caesar and the Caesar Singers sang to a sold-out, standing-room-only audience in the Rose High School Gymnasium. The choir which sponsored the event paid expenses, raised the $2,000 gift they'd hoped for, and provided a love offering for Miss Caesar and her backup group.

Also on the program were the Echoes of Calvary themselves, Eldress Shirley Daniels, the Rev. Jasper Suggs, and the beneficiary of the program, Miss Barbara Rodgers herself. The Rev. Dave Hammond served as master of ceremonies and John Moore told of the significance of the occasion and presented the gift check to Miss Rodgers.

More than 1800 persons attended the concert.

old Wallace constituency throughout the country, particularly in Alabama. Consequently, Snider long had been sought for the Reagan campaign by both veteran Reagan political aide Lyn Nofziger and David Keene, Reagan's Southern director in 1976.

When Keene shifted allegiances to become Bush's national field operations director several weeks ago, he informed Snider of the change. Snider then revealed to Keene for the first time that he had been approached by Bush himself and was seriously considering joining his campaign.

The oddity of a Wallaceite preferring the more moderate Bush over Reagan, long a favorite in the Deep South and especially admired by George Wallace, can be explained by the big corporate client, claimed the Reaganites. "Charlie's heart is still with us, but his bank account is with Bush," one Reagan insider told us.

Nonsense, Snider told us. He acknowledged that France is a client, and that France, an original Bush backer, tried to interest him in Bush. But the Snider-Dauphin, Inc. account with France is far too modest, Snider told us, to influence his political decisions.

Refusal Of The 'Refusniks'
Rep. Charles Vanik of Ohio picked up no encouragement from Russian dissidents during his recent visit to the Soviet Union as he pressed his campaign to suspend the Jackson-Vanik amendment.

Meeting with the "refusniks" in Russia, Vanik made clear what we first revealed a few weeks ago: he no longer agrees with Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington about the wisdom of continued economic pressure on the Kremlin to liberalize Soviet emigration policies.

The Soviet government refuses to declare the freer emigration policy demanded by the Jackson-Vanik amendment as a pre-condition for full trade between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. Nevertheless, Vanik believes that the flow of Soviet emigrants has increased so impressively that President Carter should back suspension of Jackson-Vanik.

This was the pitch made to the Soviet "refusniks" by Vanik. They refused to buy, telling the congressman that the pressure of Jackson-Vanik should not be relaxed now that the Kremlin is feeling its economic pressure. That was precisely the position taken by Jackson in private meetings with Vanik before his trip to Russia.

MIRACLE PILL

A recent article in a well-known national newspaper revealed the thoughts of doctors who hailed the attributes of the safe, natural L-TRYPTOPHAN, that can virtually eliminate stress, depression and sleeping problems, and is available without prescription.

It is not a drug. According to medical experts in the article, L-TRYPTOPHAN can calm you down by relieving nervousness and stress. It can pick you up when you are blue, and help you to sleep like a baby. L-TRYPTOPHAN has been tested and can replace Valium, Tranquilizers, and Anti-Depressants. It is the first safe non-barbiturate, non-toxic sleeping pill that leaves you with a clear head in the morning. It is better than tranquilizers because it is non-habit forming.

fall order.

It puzzles me to understand how Herbert, or any other plaintiff, could hope to make his case if he were foreclosed from questioning defendants on these precise points. Did it cross Lando's mind that the charges might be untrue? That strikes me as a fair question, though most probably an unproductive one. What led Lando and Wallace to conclude that Herbert was the duplicitous fellow they made him out to be? The lawyer who embarks upon this kind of fishing trip is likely to return to dock with an empty boat, but no matter. Mr. Justice White cited more than 40 cases in which such questioning has been accepted in defamation suits in the past.

It is not the Herbert opinion that justifies alarm. Over the past ten years, since Warren Earl Burger became chief justice, we of the press have won a few. In the Pentagon Papers case, we won rulings against prior restraint on publication. In a Miami case, we won a judgment that the press cannot be compelled to print a particular statement of a politician. The record is not wholly bleak.

But against these infrequent victories for a free press, the record discloses a steadily rising stream of cases in which the Court has demonstrated its nearly total incomprehension of what a free press is all about. A majority of the Court is willing to protect a right to publish, but it perceives no right to report. This is like saying a motorist has a right to drive, but no right to acquire a car. This mindless reasoning protects a right to travel but denies a right to leave home. Reporting and publishing are indivisible parts of the same seamless web.

The Court cannot get this through its collective head. Thus we must expose our confidential sources, we must admit the cops to rummage through our city rooms, and we may take only guided tours of prisons. Under the Herbert decision, we are a little more exposed to the ruinously expensive costs of a possibly frivolous libel suit. All this chills investigative reporting and tends to silence robust debate on public issues. Bless, O Lord, Justices Stewart, Brennan and Marshall, and if it please you, Lord, kindly cause the other six to see the light.

moment as the House. Travelogues would produce more than enough material to fill most of the air time between October and January.

A game show format might liven committee hearings. Imagine, members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff sitting in separate booths and competing for shares of the defense budget.

Clearly, what the House needs is the kind of stars that will attract an audience. It seems that once a congressman develops a little charisma, some star quality, he runs for the Senate, where members still do not allow television cameras.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., is a pretty good standup comic. But if the House really wants to challenge the networks for a share of the viewing audience, why not persuade Johnny Carson to run for Congress.

With Rep. Carson opening each day's session of the House with a 15-minute monologue, the show would be on its way to the top of the ratings.

An information hotline was established, using the Greenville City and Pitt County Schools' phone numbers, 752-4192 and 752-6106, so persons could call to get information on the bond issue. Superintendents Glenn Cox and Ott Alford explained that once a person called, his or her question would be written down, with someone to call them back as soon as possible.

The committee will also be seeking information from County Manager H. R. Gray as to what effect the bond passage would have on the present tax levy, as well as seeking endorsement of the bond issue from the Pitt County Board of Commissioners.

Firemen said the cause of the fire was apparent faulty wiring around a kitchen exhaust fan.

Firemen said heat from the fire melted plastic items throughout the home.

Pirates Get Revenge On Bulldogs

By JIM KYLE
Reflector Sports Writer
East Carolina's baseball team spoiled Atlantic Christian College's hopes for a 20-win season last night by defeating the Bulldogs 10-7 in their final game of the year.

By Raymie Styons and Max Raynor. "It's an improvement," Little said of the Pirate hitting. The coach is still not pleased with his team's overall play, however, "I'm not really sure what we have to do to get all the facets of our game together. We're just not playing a complete game."

of the fifth that proved costly in the final outcome. Jim Young, who had relieved starter Russell Holton in the fourth, got two quick outs, but then Macon Moyer singled and scored when Styons' walk and a throwing error by right fielder Brinn. Mike Sage, Styons and Caraway all waited out walks, pushing Raynor across, before Young was pulled in favor of third baseman Hodges.

Bulldogs brought shortstop Carmichael to the mound, who got the third out and ended up finishing the game. With a 7-5 Pirate lead, Styons hit a solo homer in the seventh, but ACC scored two more in the top of the eighth. Tim Bardin led off with a single, and after one out, Carmichael and Dillon walked. Bardin scored on a wild pitch by Bill Wilder and Carmichael came in when Mark Watkins reached on Bob Neff's error.

With one away, Moyer singled up the middle and Raynor followed with a home run to right. The Bucs left the bases loaded. Young was charged with the loss, dropping his record to 2-3, while Wilder picked up the win to make him 3-0 on the year.

Greg Luzinski's two-run homer and a solo shot by Garry Maddox powered Philadelphia over San Francisco. Dick Ruthven, 4-0, pitched six innings before leaving with a tender elbow. He was relieved by Tug McGraw, who hurled three scoreless innings. Luzinski singled a run across in the first inning, Maddox homered in the second and Luzinski connected in the third.

The eight-game losing streak matches the Giants' longest since they moved from New York to San Francisco in 1958.

Baylor Finishes Off Hot Month By Helping Angels Whip Yanks

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

April was a hot month for Don Baylor — figuratively speaking, of course. And his figures include 28 runs batted in.

The California Angels' exalted outfielder simply tore through April and ripped up the American League record book in the process.

Continuing to produce in machine-like fashion, Baylor delivered a bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth inning Monday night to provide the Angels with a 2-1 victory over the New York Yankees.

Baylor's RBI broke Joe Rudi's mark of 27 in 1977. The major league mark for RBI in April is 29, set by Ron Cey in 1977.

Baylor not only drove in the winning run, but was partly responsible for California's initial run. He broke up a no-hit bid by Ed Figueroa with a single in the fifth and eventually scored on Carney Lansford's base hit. The Angels' victory set a club record for triumphs in April — 15.

In other American League action Monday night, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Seattle Mariners 8-7 in 10 innings; the Oakland A's defeated the Boston Red Sox 5-4 in 11 innings; the Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the Cleveland Indians 8-0; the Minnesota Twins beat the Toronto Blue Jays 6-3 and the Texas Rangers nipped the Kansas City Royals 8-7.

bottom of the ninth inning and then socked a two-out, run-scoring single in the 11th to lead Oakland over Boston.

The A's totaled only five hits in the game played before their biggest home crowd of the year — 14,716 — but three of those hits were homers. Besides Newtman, Dave Revering smashed a two-run homer in the fourth and a solo shot in the sixth.

Brewers 8, Indians 0
Jim Slaton fired a two-hitter, Ben Oglivie powered two home runs and Gorman Thomas slammed a three-run shot to pace Milwaukee over Cleveland.

A two-out single by Bobby Bonds in the fourth and Bo Diaz' leadoff single in the ninth were Cleveland's only hits and the Indians' only baserunners of the night off Slaton, 2-1.

Twins 6, Blue Jays 3
Butch Wynegar smashed a two-run homer and a run-scoring single to spark Minnesota over Toronto. Winner Paul Hartzell scattered seven hits.

Rangers 8, Royals 7
Richie Zisk keyed a five-run rally in the third inning with a two-run single and made a spectacular catch in right field to smother a Kansas City uprising in the sixth as Texas beat the Royals.

The Saga Of Charles O. Finley: A True Story Of Riches To Rags

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

Shed a few tears — salty ones, if you must — for Charles O. Finley. The "O" stands for "Oh, No, No, No!" Or maybe, "Oh, my Goodness!"

It's hard to visualize how things could be worse for the snow-haired baseball maverick. With the season less than a month old, his Oakland A's are settling into their familiar pits in the cellar of the American League West. Charlie O. has to be on an aspirin diet. Every day brings a fresh headache.

Fans are staying away in droves. Average attendance is around 4,000 a game. Sometimes there are fewer fans than employees in the ball park, such as the 653 that showed up for a recent game against Seattle. Now the Coliseum has filed a $10 million suit against the Oakland owner, charging that since 1975 he has not lived up to his agreement to field and promote a big league baseball franchise on the premises.

Technically, Charlie O. can't run and can't stay. His original 20-year lease runs through 1987. When he says he'd like to move — there have been gestures toward Seattle, Denver and Washington, D.C. — the landlord responds, "Nothing doing." So the mad, sad circle goes on.

The saga of Charles O. Finley reads like a Horatio Alger paperback classic in reverse. It's sports' most compelling "riches to rags" non-thriller.

Five years ago, the Oakland A's were coming off their third straight World Series championship and were being proclaimed a "diamond dynasty" compared to the old Yankees." Charlie O. was defiant and flying high.

His free-spirited musketeers were the scourge of baseball in their beards, bright-colored uniforms and white shoes. Charlie's mule, Charlie O., had the run of the house. Charlie O., the man, was daily feeding the flames of feuds with the establishment, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, Congress and his own fans.

Then the botton fell out. Erasure of baseball's reserve clause was the principal factor, but Charlie O.'s bull-headed stubbornness had a lot to do with the A's sudden demise.

Today there's not a shred left of the great team Finley fashioned with his shrewd knowledge of talent and clever wheeling and dealing.

Where did they all go? You can find most of them by reading the agate boxscores in your favorite newspaper. The best ones have signed million-dollar contracts and are toiling with rival teams. Some got as far away as possible, the Mexican or South American Leagues. Others retired and — poof — were gone.

Outfielder Reggie Jackson ($2.9 million) and pitcher Catfish Hunter ($3.5 million) wound up with the New York Yankees, where they continued collecting World Series rings.

And what of Charlie's favorite mule? Dead, and — like the A's — buried in a California graveyard.

In the fourth, the Rams picked up three more for a 5-0 lead. Chip Hardy reached on an error and Holmes and Jimbo Fulghum both walked. Murray then doubled, driving in all three runners.

National Smoker Study:

“Wish I'd Tried One Sooner.”

Low tar MERIT proven major alternative to high tar smoking—see results below.

Can low tar MERIT packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco measure up to the taste of high tar cigarettes?

Read the results from a nationwide research effort involving smokers who actually tested MERIT against leading high tar brands.

Results Confirm Breakthrough

Confirmed: Majority of smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

And in detailed interviews conducted among current MERIT smokers?

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an “easy switch” from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy!

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is what it claims to be: The first real taste alternative for high tar smokers.
