

House Gas Rationing Vote Due Today

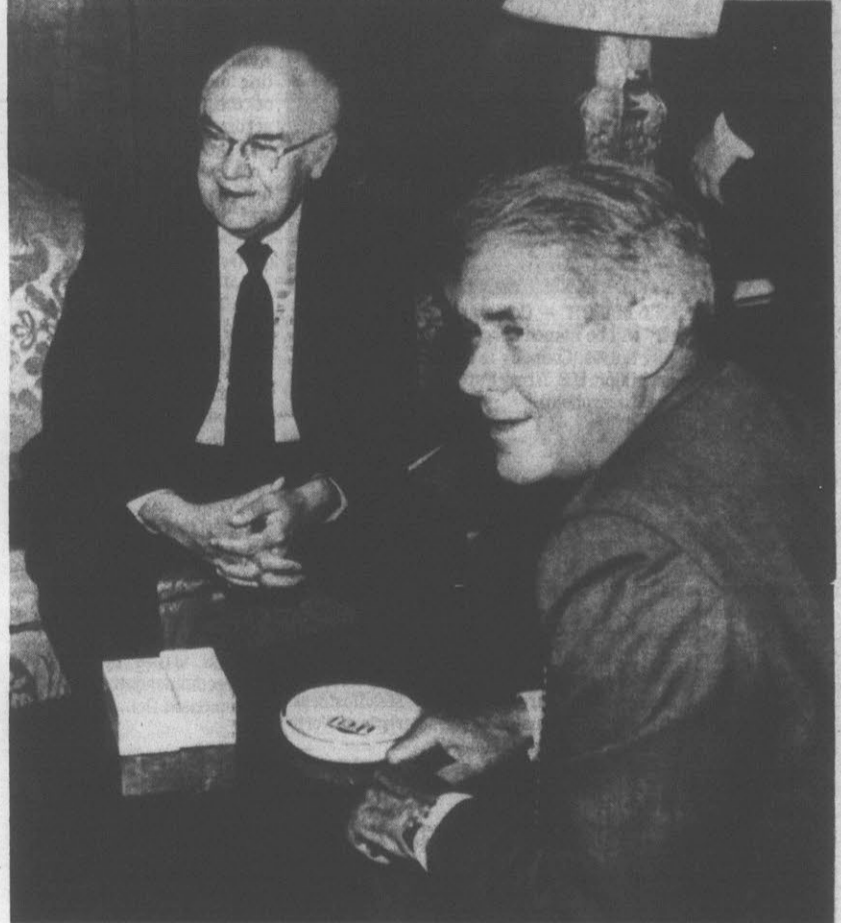

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders are predicting the House will join the Senate and give President Carter powers to order gasoline rationing if there is a severe energy shortage. But a tough fight is expected and the White House was waging a heavy lobbying campaign today to pick up wavering votes for final House action, expected by early evening.

chairman of the House energy and power subcommittee. Dingell predicted passage by the House. However, aides to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said a preliminary head count showed victory might be by an extremely slim margin. House approval would give the president the power to order gasoline rationing — although either chamber of Congress could exercise a veto within 15 days of such a presidential decision. Senators passed the standby proposal only after wringing a variety of last-minute concessions from the president.

Among other promises, the president agreed not to use the powers except in dire emergencies and to make more gasoline available for farmers, taxicab and truck drivers and for certain energy-related industries. Originally, Carter had wanted to distribute coupons based solely on the number of registered vehicles in a household. In an attempt to pick up support from legislators from rural areas with long driving distances, he modified the original approach to make more coupons available in states with a history of heavy gasoline consumption. That change enabled it to pass the Senate, but could pose problems for the plan in the House, with its heavy concentration of lawmakers from urban areas that generally would have fared better under Carter's original formula. Under the final revision, 24 states and the District of Columbia would get more coupons per vehicle than they would have under Carter's original plan; five states would get the same number, and 21 would get less. The average nationwide gasoline ration — assuming a 20 percent loss of oil supplies — would be in the vicinity of 46 gallons a month per automobile, based on a rough calculation. There would be a three-car limit in obtaining coupons. Among other purposes, the limit is intended to keep people from buying junk cars to become eligible for additional gasoline rations. In a last-minute compromise that brought at least 10 Senate Republicans into Carter's camp, the Senate unanimously approved — and Carter agreed to support — a resolution stating that: —Gasoline rationing would only be used when there is a 20 percent loss in U.S. oil supplies for at least 30 days. —This loss of supplies would have to come from an embargo by exporting nations, oil-field sabotage, an act of war or terrorism or an "act of God that destroys substantial production."

Cable-TV Plea Given Parks-Recreation Study

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Members of the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission approved a motion that will permit the Greenville Cable TV an easement to place an amplifier on the grounds in the Town Common and a junction box for an underground cable at the corner of First and Green Streets.

The action was taken in response to a request from Ray Bell, Manager of the Greenville Cable Company, to run a cable underground from Baker Street to the corner of First and Green so that the cable can then be taken across Tar River to provide cable television to residents in the city north of the river. The commission deferred a decision to permit placing a cable underground in the Town Common parallel to the north side sidewalk along First Street until more details can be furnished by Bell.

an exactness in distances between points and that he was not certain that the outlets provided in the underground ducts would correspond to his particular requirements. Bell agreed to provide in writing an agreement that the Greenville Recreation and Parks Commission will not be held liable for any damages that might incur to the amplifier box. The box, Bell said, would be about 12 by 12 inches and stand about 30 inches high, would be of green metal and would be secured with a lock. Commissioners, recognizing that time is a critical factor for Bell, authorized Recreation and Parks Director Boyd Lee to poll each member by phone for a further vote once Bell has provided Lee with additional details concerning the feasibility or non-feasibility of utilizing the underground duct system.

students." One of the regular programs she wants to make a change in is that of the annual woodcutting to provide wood for needy people. "In the past, we have been giving the wood away at the time it was cut, then later we'd get requests from really desperate people and there was none left to give. I'd like to see this wood stored and then distributed to persons who have a real emergency." She said the Jaycees have agreed to help work on the idea of a storage project. The Jaycees are coordinators and provide the main body of volunteers for the annual voluntary woodcutting.

As Congress was moving toward a national rationing plan, California and Texas were involved with gas distribution plans of their own. Eight of California's 58 counties got their first taste Wednesday of an "odd-even" gas plan ordered by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. Lines at gas stations were shorter than they had been previously at some locations. But at others, they were even longer.

Graduation

The 70th annual commencement exercise for students graduating from East Carolina University will take place at 10 a.m. Friday, May 11. Dr. John M. Howell, Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs is to be commencement keynote speaker. The graduation exercise will be held in Ficklen Stadium, and in the event of rain, will be held inside in Minges Coliseum. The public is invited to attend.

In opting for underground placement rather than utilizing the underground duct that contains utility and telephone lines, Bell explained the cable for television is a fragile one and that he will have to determine from engineers whether it can withstand the pressure of being pulled some 1,500 feet through a conduit. Bell also stated that the company serving Greenville has not to date placed a cable within a duct. He added that the placement of an amplifier required

President Urges Support Of SALT

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter appealed today for public support of the new arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union, arguing that its rejection by the Senate would be "a massive, destructive blow to world peace."

Addressing a White House breakfast for retailers, Carter said that if the Senate does not ratify the pact, "we would be looked upon as the warmonger" and would suffer a serious loss of trust among NATO allies.

Rejection of this treaty, now that it has been negotiated... would be a massive, destructive blow to world peace. Since the dawn of the atomic age, the president said, the United States "has taken the lead to put constraints on the evolution of nuclear weaponry."

Arrest Couple For Tuesday Night Killing

A Rt. 1, Greenville couple was charged Wednesday afternoon by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department with first degree murder in the Tuesday night shooting death of 63-year-old John Earl Vanderburg.

The president, asking for individual support by the representatives of the American Retail Federation, also said a Senate turn-down would undermine his efforts to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. Emphasizing the list was incomplete, he cited as potential nuclear powers such nations as Brazil, Argentina, Pakistan, South Korea, India, Taiwan and South Africa.

"If we show now that we reject this mutually advantageous voluntary restraint on our own nuclear weaponry, and initiate the prospect of a massive nuclear arms race, those countries... would feel that there was no longer any constraint on them," Carter declared. He asked his audience "to help me sell to the American people and directly to the U.S. Senate the advantages of ratification, and the devastating disadvantages" if the treaty is rejected. "I think the most important single achievement that

According to Ms. Smith, REAL has 20 volunteers, several of whom are full-time resident counselors, i. e. they live at the center and provide counseling service at all times of the day and night.

Fees Up

Non-resident fees collected by the Greenville Recreation and Parks Department from Pitt County residents have escalated significantly within the past two months, according to Mrs. Eleanor Scheipers, secretary for the department.

In the period March 1 through May 10, a total of $3,525 has been collected. Of this amount, $3,100 represents fees for individual membership at $12.50 each paid by 248 individuals; and 17 family memberships at $25 per family for $425.

"The fees are for a six month period," Mrs. Scheipers commented. "The big majority of memberships are the result of out of city persons who are playing on softball teams in the adult leagues of churches and industries," Mrs. Scheipers said. "Several of the teams have only one or two members who are living within the city limits." Regulations of the department require Pitt County residents living outside Greenville city limits to pay non-resident fees. Persons living outside Pitt County are not authorized to be participants in regularly scheduled programs of the department.

Three Arrested In Farmville Vandalism Probe

FARMVILLE — Farmville Police Chief Ron Cooper announced this morning the arrests of three persons for vandalism and breaking and entering and larceny here over the past few months.

Charged with the cutting of between $17,000 and $18,000 worth of tires at the Farmville Implement Company Apr. 21 were Joey Tripp, 16, of 409 W. Pine Street, Farmville; Billy Ray Stocks, 18, of Rt. 1, Greenville; and William Randy Moore, 16, of 110 W. Lang Street, Farmville. Each was placed in jail under $10,000 bond and preliminary hearing is set for each May 17 in District Court. The charge for each in this incident was damage to personal property. Other arrests will be forthcoming in this incident, Chief Cooper predicted, adding that all the credit for the near completion of this investigation goes to Lt. Wilbur Barber, "who has worked over and beyond the call of duty on this case." Charged with breaking and entering at the Farmville department investigated a shooting incident some two months ago involving McLawhorn and Ross. A truck owned by Ross was damaged in the earlier incident, it was noted. Sheriff Tyson said that an autopsy yesterday revealed that Vanderburg died as a result of liver damage caused by a small caliber bullet. The sheriff reported that a .22 caliber automatic rifle allegedly used in the shooting was recovered Wednesday afternoon from a creek in the Bell Arthur township. He said the weapon was found in approximately five feet of water. The shooting, according to Sheriff Tyson, took place from a truck on the highway. The vehicle reportedly fled towards Falkland after the shooting. Sheriff Tyson, who said that officers are continuing to investigate the incident, added that agents of the State Bureau of Investigation are assisting Pitt officers in the case.

Rail Service Repayment By Cut Opposed 3 Legislators

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state Department of Transportation says a proposal to cut North Carolina's Amtrak passenger rail service by more than half is "unjustly harsh" and should be rejected by Congress.

The Amtrak report, prepared by the federal Transportation Department, would eliminate three of five passenger trains serving the state, including the Southern Crescent which runs between Washington and New Orleans.

The list was compiled under a congressional order to evaluate the financially troubled Amtrak system. It calls for cutting out service on 43 percent of the railroad's track miles across the country.

In addition to the Southern Crescent, Eastern North Carolina would lose the Champion and Silver Meteor, two of the state's three New York-to-Florida trains.

State Transportation Secretary Thomas W. Bradshaw Jr. called the proposal an untimely "budget-cutting exercise," which would end service on one of the railroad's most heavily used corridors.

"This is not the time to be considering any drastic cuts in rail passenger service," he said.

Under the plan, North Carolina would be left with one other passenger train — the Palmetto, which travels from New York to Savannah, Ga., through Rocky Mount and Fayetteville. Unless vetoed by Congress, the recommendations will be implemented Oct. 1.

Weigh Granite As State Rock

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A best open-faced granite quarry rock may join the growing list of North Carolina emblems if the legislature approves a bill to make granite the state rock. Sen. George W. Marion Jr., D-Surry, introduced a measure in the General Assembly Wednesday to adopt granite as the state rock. The bill noted that Surry County contains the largest open-faced granite quarry in the world. The bill described the rock as "unblemished, gleaming and without interfering seams to mar its splendor." The bill also pointed out that granite "is a symbol of strength and steadfastness, qualities characteristic of North Carolinians."

Provisional Members Named By Service League

Seven Greenville women who have completed provisional requirements were welcomed as active members of the Greenville Service League at the May meeting.

The new members recently completed five months of volunteer activities with the Red Cross Bloodmobile, Greenville Art Center and Pitt Memorial Hospital, including the Hospital Gift Shop and chapel.

Contributions of the group were recognized by President Mrs. Jack Whichard. Inducted were Helen Hill Bailey, Sarah (Sally) Jones Freelove, Mary Dickinson Furth, Catherine Grimm Gavigan, Fane Smith Graham, Catherine Gibson Lang and Sharry Teague Tripp.

Mrs. Bailey is the wife of the Rev. James H. Bailey and the mother of four children. A resident of Greenville for the past five years, she graduated from Charlotte High School and attended Chowan College. She is presently serving as co-chairman of Christian Global Ministries of the United Methodist Women.

Mrs. Freelove is the wife of W.R. Freelove and is the mother of one child. Having lived in Greenville for the past two years, she received a bachelor of arts degree in journalism from UNC at Chapel Hill. She has also taken graduate courses in business from UNC at Greensboro. She is a member of St. Pauls Episcopal Church, De Novo Book Club, Potpourri Garden Club and publicity chairman of the Sidewalk Art Show.

Mrs. Furth is the wife of Dr. Eugene D. Furth and the mother of two children. Having lived in Greenville for the past three years, she is a graduate of Skidmore College. She is a member of the First Presbyterian Church, Siera Book Club, Medical Auxiliary, treasurer of the League of Women Voters and president of the Medical School Guild. She is also working with the Job Corps in Greenville.

Mrs. Gavigan is the wife of Dr. J. Richard Gavigan and the mother of two children. Having lived in Greenville for the past four years, she attended the University of Kentucky at Lexington and Extension School in Ashland, Ky. She is a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church where she is active in all areas of church and school work.

Mrs. Graham is the wife of Lawrence S. Graham, attorney at law, and has been a resident of Greenville for the past nine years. She graduated from Peace College and is presently a member of St. Timothy's Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Lang's husband was the late John A. Lang, Jr. former vice chancellor of external affairs at ECU. A resident of Greenville for the past seven years, she graduated from Greensboro College. She is a member of the Finance Committee of St. James United Methodist Church, Democratic Women of Pitt County, Siera Book Club and Brook Valley Garden Club.

Mrs. Tripp is the wife of W.L. Tripp, president of Spunwind, Inc., and the mother of three children. She has lived in Greenville for the past 13 years. She attended the University of Kentucky and Kings College in Charlotte. She is a member of St. Pauls Episcopal Church, library chairman of South Greenville School and secretary of St. Peter's Home — School Assn.

The nomination committee presented the slate of officers for 1979-1980 as follows. Recording Secretary, Mrs. A.L. Ferguson, Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Van C. Fleming, III, and Treasurer, Mrs. Norwin C. Pierce.

President Whichard continued the meeting with the following committee reports: Mrs. R.W. MacKenzie requested volunteers for the two final Bloodmobile visits of the year; May 17 at Burroughs Wellcome and June 1 at Union Carbide.

Hospital Gift Shop Chairman Mrs. Edward Smith reported the arrival of a new push-cart for members' use in serving the patients and guests of the hospital. She reminded members their volunteer services extended through June 8 before breaking for summer vacation. Hospital Activities Chairman Mrs. Robert K. Barnhill reported 13 workers made 326 favors for patients' trays at Easter. Mrs. Bernard Vick furnished four layettes in April.

Members voted to send gifts to the Greenville Recreation Department and the Salvation Army. It was also agreed to provide funds for a Girl Scout and a Boy Scout to attend summer camp.

Chairman Mrs. Frank Layne reminded members of the Annual Spring Luncheon at the Greenville Country Club May 23.

Welcome Wagon Officers Installed

Penny Smith was installed as president of the Welcome Wagon Club yesterday. Katherine Vinson and the outgoing officers conducted the candlelighting ceremony.

Other officers named for 1979-80 are: Becky Logan, first vice president; Peg Davies, second vice president; Joan VanScoy, recording secretary; Sandy Dibbell, corresponding secretary; Candy Brookbank, treasurer; Lynn Sprecher, historian; and Gail Jennings, parliamentarian.

Committee chairmen and group leaders for the new year include:

Judy Trolley and Bev Spivey, membership chairman and co-chairman respectively; Ann Elmer, prospective membership; Maureen Lambe, nursery; Joan VanScoy, directory; Mary Lou McLaughlin, newsletter; Ariene Kraus, publicity; Beth Yeager, sunshine;

Meetings of the interest groups are as follows: ladies bridge, first and third Tuesdays at 10 a.m. at First Federal; couples bridge meets Friday at 7:45 p.m. at First Federal; Share-a-Craft will meet at the home of Theresa Litten Tuesday, May 22, at 7:30 p.m. to make embroidered T-shirts; and couples gourmet will hold its last meeting this month before the summer months.

Doreen Perry was recognized as a new member.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

My mom was visiting the other day and in anticipation of Mother's Day I started to sing a traditional song that has always given both of us a lump in our throats.

M is for the (C)oupons in her cupboard,

O is for the (H)alf price sales she haunts,

T is for her (E)nergy saving tactics,

H is for her (A)nti-extravagance

E is for her (P)atience in recycling,

R means (Y)ears of saving foil and twine

Put them all together they look like a MOTHER, but that is not the bottom line.

Mom has always been sensitive about my lack of thrift. The day she saw me throw away a zipped bag of plastic that had only held shredded lettuce, she told everyone, "I have no daughter. She was lost in the war."

I have to admit that perhaps thrift skips a generation. Somehow, I never shared my mother's zeal for conservation. She invented knots in shoelaces. The first time I saw a whole pair of shoestrings, I thought there was something wrong with them.

She launders aluminum foil and dental floss and hangs them up to dry. She cuts the bottom off plastic tubes of hand lotion, rinses out bottles of bleach and liquid soaps and has saved every box she has ever received anything in. She sincerely believes that toothpicks were put on this earth to dig lipstick and chap cremes out of the tubes.

In all of the years I have known her, I have never known my mother to throw away a rubber band. Her gifts are in boxes that have been in reruns for as long as I can remember.

No leftover is too small to save. No remnant is too skimpy to hang onto. No sample is sparse enough to pitch out.

She's a wonderful manager, a no-nonsense saver, and a credit to homemakers everywhere. But when she is around me she drives me crazy trying to convert me to Saver's Paradise.

"I see you're still throwing money down the drain," she said, plucking a piece of chicken skin out of the sink.

"When I eat it, it settles on my neck," I said.

As she shook her head I started to sing, "M is for the (C)oupons in her cupboard, O is for the..."

She got a lump in her throat. I got mine elsewhere.

Miss Dixon Entertained

Miss Robin Elaine Dixon, bride-elect of Mark Aaron Conway, was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower Friday at the home of Mrs. Joanne Whittington.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Gloria Williams, who invited them to sign the bride's guest book. Mrs. Erlene Stocks, Mrs. Ruby Whichard, Mrs. Virginia Moss and Mrs. Virginia Williams served as hostesses, along with Mrs. Whittington. The home was decorated throughout with spring flowers.

Miss Dixon was presented a daisy corsage. Special guests were Mrs. Lloyd Scott Dixon and Mrs. John A. Conway Jr., mothers of the bridal couple. Mrs. Pat Conway assisted Miss Dixon with the guest register. The wedding will be held May 26.

Houdini Pudding
HOUDINI PUDDING

Our small-size version of the famous magician's delectable dessert.

4 slices firm, homestyle bread (¾ to 1-inch thick)
Soft butter
3 large eggs
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla

2 cups milk, scalded
Strawberry preserves
Trim crusts from bread. Butter both sides of each slice and put together to make 2 "sandwiches." Fit over bottom of a buttered 1½-quart loaf dish (8½ by 4½ by 2½ inches). Beat eggs, sugar and vanilla enough to blend; gradually and gently beat in scalding-hot milk; pour over bread. Place loaf dish in center of 13 by 9 by 2-inch baking pan. Pour enough hot tap water into pan to come up as high as pudding. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until a knife inserted in the custard between the sandwiches as well as at the edges of the dish comes out clean — 50 minutes. Chill. Cover. At serving time, loosen edges; turn out onto a kitchen platter; invert onto a serving platter so bread will be on top. Spread top with strawberry preserves (plain or flavored with kirsch). Makes 4 servings.

Cutting down on sugar? Make applesauce without sugar and add fine strips of fresh dates. A kitchen scissors does a good job of cutting the dates.

Dear Abby

She's A Stooge For A Scrooge

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a jerk. I've worked alongside him in our own business for 30 years but I've never had a dime I could call my own. If I want to buy something for myself or our children, I have to ask him for the money. Afterward, I have to show him the sales slip and give him back the exact change.

I don't drink or smoke. He does both. I've never been extravagant. If my husband had to pay someone to take my place it would cost him plenty. I do all my own housework, too. Including the laundry. Don't you think I deserve a few dollars to do with as I please?

I am so disgusted I could scream. Print this. The jerk reads your column. Maybe this will wake him up.

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: You not only deserve a few dollars to do with as you please, you're ENTITLED to it. But if you've held still for this kind of treatment for 30 years, I'm wondering who the jerk is.

DEAR ABBY: For years my husband and I and our 14-year-old son Brian (an only child) have had Sunday dinner out.

Lately Brian has started something new. He rushes through his meal, long before we've finished, and asks his father for the car keys so he can sit in the car and listen to the radio.

His father doesn't like it any more than I do, but he gives him the keys and we finish our meals without him.

Brian has done this when we've had others eating with us. I think it's rude, but my husband says that if he prefers to sit alone in the car and listen to the radio, we shouldn't insist that he stay with us.

I know my husband is hurt, as am I, but we're not sure what to do about it. What do you think?

BRIAN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Brian is trying to tell you he is bored. Have you tried drawing him into the conversation—directing questions to him—listening to his responses? Try it next Sunday and I'll bet Brian stays through dessert!

DEAR ABBY: How about starting a campaign to get restaurants to offer children's portions at reduced prices to senior citizens? I'm over 65 and can't eat a regular-size meal in a restaurant, but I'm not allowed to order a child's meal.

I just hate to see all that good food go to waste, Abby. Please see what you can do for us older folks.

SMALL EATER IN ILLINOIS

DEAR SMALL EATER: It's a lovely idea, but unless a restaurant shows a profit it can't stay in business. An occasional child's meal at a reduced price won't bankrupt the average eatery, but if it became too popular it might.

Better ask for a doggie bag and take home your leftovers.

DEAR ABBY: What do you say to a niece who has blond hair and blue eyes and is married to a man who also has blond hair and blue eyes and just gave birth to a baby with brown eyes and coal black hair?

UNCLE EDDIE

DEAR UNCLE: "Congratulations."

Intra-City Traffic Suffering

The city is in the process of selecting a priority list of needed thoroughfare projects for submission to the State Department of Transportation.

City planning and engineering departments submitted a recommended list at a public meeting this week. The list is being considered by the City Council.

Tops on the list, and properly so, is the controlled access U. S. 264 and a western bypass of the city.

Development of that segment is considered essential by most to the continued growth of the city and county.

The city staff also recommended improvements to Evans Street from Tenth to Greenville Boulevard, improvements to Arlington from Hooker Road to NC 43 north, improvements on 14th Street from Greenville Boulevard to Farmville Boulevard (an east-west thoroughfare) and improvements to Dickinson Avenue.

It would be difficult to argue that any of these projects were not essential now to handling present day traffic loads. In the future the situation could be even worse.

We could add other projects to the lists, but we would be happy to see most any of the thoroughfare projects pushed along.

There has been work done on the beltline system around the city, Tenth Street and Charles Boulevard in recent years. Many of our intra-city thoroughfares have been sadly neglected, however, and we are paying the price in heavy vehicular congestion.

Continuing To Play Significant Role

We are happy to see that Dr. Edwin Monroe will continue to play a highly significant role in the development of the ECU School of Medicine.

Dr. Monroe has been named associate dean for external affairs for the medical school. He has served as vice chancellor for health affairs at ECU, a post which is being abolished.

The physician left a private internal medicine practice to join the effort which resulted in the establishment of the medical school, and the fact the school exists today is due in large degree to his efforts.

He now will continue to play an important part in guiding the school's progress, and certainly the university and the entire region will be better for it.

Plotting A Gas Tax Hike

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — What the General Assembly gives, it also takes away.

That much-heralded tax cut which Gov. Jim Hunt and legislative leaders have promised will be more than recovered by a higher tax on gasoline.

The machinery is well lubricated for the increased gasoline tax, and it has solid support in the finance committees made up of half the membership of the Legislature. The only question is whether the change will come this year or next.

Political realities being uppermost in minds of the lawmakers, a suggestion put forth by State Rep. George Miller, D-Durham, is likely to prevail.

The increase should be applied as soon as possible while gasoline prices are rising rapidly. That way, the higher tax will hardly be noticed, Miller reasons.

Upset

If the state waits until gas prices level off in a year or so, and then apply the higher tax, citizens will notice the increase and raise a howl. Also, the state will lose a lot of money by waiting.

A lot of legislators agree with State Rep. Mary Nesbitt, D-Buncombe, when she says, "My people tell me they don't want a little tax rebate of $15 or $25. They would rather the money be used to improve our roads."

One of the finance committee chairmen, Dr. John Gamble, D-Lincoln, has been outspoken in his endorsement of a "state appropriation of money ... for the people. That is a tax cut which will be sent back to the citizens."

He is strongly in favor of a gas tax hike. How does he rectify the conflict between wanting to cut taxes with one hand; raise them with the other?

"A cut would apply to all the people. The gasoline tax is a user's tax. Only people who use gasoline ... use the roads ... would pay the higher tax," Gamble reasons.

Another reason for the rush to a higher tax now is the embarrassment among some legislators that the Assembly knuckled under to demands from Gov. Hunt two years ago that taxes not be increased.

Instead, a $300 million road bond issue was put forth, and efforts to raise the gas tax two pennies per gallon failed. Now, legislators realize that the wiser move would have been the higher tax which would have produced more than $70 million new money during the past two years; would produce $350 million over the 10-year period of the bond issue; and would not require any interest.

State System

North Carolina is one of few states responsible for almost all roads and highways in the state. Most let cities and counties look after their own. The state keeps up 77,000 miles of road, and Gamble says the gas tax measure is "a pragmatic approach. It is gonna come whether this session or not."

The hike is in reality a change in how the tax is levied against gasoline. The present nine cents per gallon would be scrapped in favor of a 22.5 percent tax against gas prices at the national wholesale level figured every six months then translated into a cents-per-gallon figure. Thus, the collection method would remain unchanged. The tax would escalate right along with rising prices. The proposal sets a figure now lower than nine cents and no higher than 16 cents. The peak is expected to come in 1985.

In the first full year of collection, the new tax would add $95 million to the highway fund, up from the present $328 million level. Projections for 1988 are that if the tax remains unchanged, income would be $447 million. The new tax would produce $795 million ... up $237.7 million.

Over a 10-year period, the new tax would yield nearly $2.2 billion in new dollars to the highway fund; in addition to the projected $4 billion under the present tax.

BILL NOBLITT

The Lone Star Intrigue

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
AUSTIN, Texas — As a listless session of the Texas legislature nears its May 28 closing, Ronald Reagan's political managers out in California may breathe a tentative sigh of relief thanks to this state's Byzantine politics and to Gov. William Clements.

If it is highly probable the legislature will go home without authorizing an early 1980 Texas primary which would enable native Texan John B. Connally to sidetrack Ronald Reagan's rush for the Republican presidential nomination. Just enough liberal Democratic and conservative Republican senators are blocking action, for reasons that have nothing whatever to do with presidential politics.

But the relief of the Reaganites is only tentative for this reason: Clements, the newly elected Republican governor, could revive the bill with one word of support. What's more, he told us he could give that word, if the primary becomes part of a four-state Southwestern regional primary. That is a very big "if," surely precluding action in this session but possibly not a future special session.

The primary election has become the focus of state capitol intrigue amidst the boredom of a temporary truce on most issues between the conservative Democratic legislature and the conservative Republican governor. What mainly interests legislators about Connally's candidacy is not the presidency but how it rearranges the balance of power in Texas politics.

Hordes of Connally Democrats would surely support the former Democratic governor against Reagan in the May 1980 Republican primary. Thus liberals could control the Democratic primary, threatening a massacre of tory Democrats who run the legislature. Half-a-dozen conservative Democratic state senators are marked for slaughter.

To preserve the status quo, the two powerful Democratic leaders of the legislature — Lt. Gov. William Hobby and House Speaker William Clayton — want a bill for a separate presidential primary in March, preceding the regular primary in May.

The unintended beneficiary would be Connally. Private polls show Reagan's Texas lead over Connally, exceeding 15 percentage points last November, had become a 20-point deficit in April. Such a Reagan debacle in the state he carried easily against President Gerald Ford in 1976 would electrify Connally's campaign if it came March 8, before Reagan could record triumphs elsewhere.

A majority in both houses probably favors passage of the bill, but 11 senators (out of 38) can keep it from being brought up. Since a solid 10 liberal Democrats will vote no, all four Republican state senators must vote yes to be

Ladies' Year In Indiana

By DARRELL CHRISTIAN
Associated Press Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indiana, where politics has long been a man's domain, suddenly finds itself with the possibility of having 20 women mayors next year. It now has two.

In a surprising show of political muscle in this week's municipal primary elections, five women unseated male mayors, the two female incumbents handily won renomination and 14 other candidates won spots on the November general election ballot.

"The day has come when people are realizing we are here," said Democratic state vice chairman Patty Evans.

Their victories Tuesday cut across political and geographical lines. Twelve of the winning women were Republicans, nine were Democrats; they won in cities ranging in population from 2,600 to 108,000.

In West Lafayette, where Purdue University gained a national reputation for turning out engineers and astronauts, Tuesday's voting guaranteed a woman mayor. The fall opponents are Democrat Sonya Margerum and Republican Kathleen B. Hunter, both city council members.

In that race, two-term Republican Mayor Joseph S. Dienhart drew the ire of women when he declared that a mother would be unable to devote as much time to the job as a man. Mrs. Hunter has four children, Mrs. Margerum three.

In Carmel, an Indianapolis suburb of 15,000 where three-fourths of the registered voters are women, Republican nominee Jane Reiman and another woman both ran ahead of incumbent Albert B. Pickett.

Though not all 20 nominees are likely to win when the state's 115 cities choose mayors in November, both Mrs. Evans and Republican state secretary Alan Sutherlin said the primary successes represented a great leap for womankind.

"I think women are becoming much, much more aware of their own abilities, and they're not afraid anymore to go for

Toward School Control

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — If the truth-in-labeling laws applied to acts of Congress, the pending bill to create a U.S. Department of Education would carry the kind of warning that goes with a new and powerful drug. Warning: Federal aid is addictive. Take this medicine at your peril.

During the course of Senate debate, a number of voices were raised to that effect, but the voices went unheeded. The Senate passed the bill on April 30 by a lopsided vote of 72 to 21. In the House Government Operations Committee, the same Catonian cries were heard again, and again they were ignored. Owing to the defection of a freshman Republican from Ohio, Lyle

Williams, the committee sent the bill toward the floor by a vote of 20 to 19.

It will take an uphill fight to defeat the bill, but the fight assuredly is worth making. One of the most cherished principles of our political life is that local schools must be locally controlled. By adhering to this principle, we achieve genuine diversity in public education; we promote parental interest and participation in the schooling of local children; and we stave off the disastrous prospect of federal control in the Soviet pattern.

No matter how strenuously the patrons of this bill may deny it, the pending legislation will lead inevitably to the abandonment of that venerable and wholesome tradition. Oh, yes, the bill contains ringing disclaimers. One section proclaims "the intention of Congress to protect the rights of state, local and tribal governments in the areas of educational policies." The act seeks only "to strengthen and improve the control of such governments over their own educational programs." The bill says that the primary responsibility must continue to reside with states, communities and families.

President Carter has revived the polite word for such effusive stuff. The word is baloney. No person who has followed the course of federal power over the past quarter-century will believe a word of it.

Once a Department of Education is created, these pretty avowals will be systematically ignored. We have seen repeated examples of this in existing rules and regulations of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Under existing law, HEW's authority supposedly is limited to federal aid for educational "programs," but the bureaucrats have simply wiped out the word

To the editor:

While it may be a small thing in itself, I am moved to write this letter to you in connection with your piece appearing in "The Daily Reflector" of Thursday, May 3.

Either the person propounding the question to you, or you yourself in reporting it, grievously failed to include all of the elements necessary to make sense. You quote the party as saying that North Carolina was one of the states "in which marijuana was an offense." Obviously, marijuana is a plant and is not capable of violating the criminal law.

Secondly, it would certainly be accurate to refer to Sheriff Ralph Tyson. But it is distinctly inaccurate to refer to him as being "of the Greenville Police Department." Sheriff Ralph Tyson is sheriff of Pitt County and as such is an elected official of Pitt County. Technically he has no connection with the Greenville Police Department.

Thirdly, may I suggest to you that in the future when you are seeking answers to that sort of question about the laws of the State of North Carolina that request ought more properly to be made of the District Attorney, Eli Bloom. His office operates with distinct reference to what the criminal laws of the State are and he is in touch with the office of the Attorney General of North Carolina at all times. I believe that his opinion and his statement as to what the criminal laws in a particular situation is would be more apt to be accurate than the opinion expressed to you by Sheriff Ralph Tyson or any other law enforcement officer.

It is indeed regrettable that the Daily Reflector should occasionally allow these lapses from true and accurate reporting to get into print. Unfortunately because it is always wrong to have an erroneous statement in print. More importantly, it is wrong because in the long-run people tend to believe what is shown in print and forty or fifty years from now some person looking at the history of Pitt County and Greenville in coming across the article as it appears in the paper of May 3 would wonder what kind of political system we were operating under in 1979 if you had a sheriff who was "of" the Greenville Police Department. The very word "sheriff" in its connotation and historical derivation meant a person responsible for the enforcement of the laws of the King of England over a fairly large portion of territory — called a "shire."

Greenville's mayor, superintendent of schools and chamber of commerce secretary will appear on Mayor Ben E. Douglas' "Welcome, Neighbor" program over radio station WBT in Charlotte between 6:30 and 6:45 p.m. tomorrow.

Mayor M.K. Blount, J.H. Rose and Willard T. Kyzer will speak on the advantages offered by Greenville, one of the cities invited to participate on the program. Rocky Mount officials already have appeared on the program and Wilson is scheduled for an opportunity to relate its advantages within two weeks.

F.G. Sherin, field secretary of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics, reported today that a new council of the order is now being organized in Greenville. A temporary organization was formed at a meeting last night in Red Men Hall during which Sherin stated that the outlook is very promising and that the chapter list would soon reach a large number.

New Anti-Housing Philosophy

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The main obstacle to a person acquiring his or her own home isn't the $52,000 median price or the 20 percent down payment or the 10.5 percent mortgage rate, said the real estate man.

He conceded these to be formidable challenges, especially to the first-time buyer. But what worries him more, Donald Hovde indicated, was America's "pervasive anti-housing philosophy."

America against home ownership? How could it be? Between 1940 and 1960, the percentage of owner-occupied homes rose to 61.9 percent from 43.6 percent. In 1975, it reached 64.6 percent. It's probably 67 percent now.

Could Donald Hovde be correct? He has credentials. Hovde, a Madison, Wis., investor, is president this year of the National Association of Realtors, America's largest business organization.

He seems to have some evidence too. Even before taking office, Hovde was red hot about restrictions thrown in the way of homebuilding. Ordinances, regulations, limitations — imposed by those who already own.

"It's pervasive," he says. "It runs through all levels of government." And then this blast: "There is selfishness today in towns and communities that say 'build elsewhere.'"

And how do towns do it? Through building moratoriums, through overly restrictive environmental controls, hoary building codes, harassment of developers through duplicative reviews and needless paperwork...

Regulations that stifle production of housing add 20 percent to costs, said Hovde. He did not say how he arrived at that figure, but building suppliers and contractors sometimes have cited comparable estimates.

This, he continues, puts housing beyond the ability of many families, and forces other families to rely on two paychecks to meet payments, which sometimes consume more than 35 percent of total income.

As viewed by Hovde, a developer, the situation is a national danger. As viewed by many of the 700,000 Realtors, it's a situation that lowers their incomes, made up mainly of commissions on sales.

But in the view of those who own America's 55 million single-family dwellings, valued at $2.2 trillion or about one-fourth the entire wealth of the nation, the picture assumes a different hue and pattern.

To them, new housing often means a strain on water and sewer capacity, and on schools and other municipal properties. A town's environment can be permanently changed, with traffic replacing pastoral beauty.

Whatever the changes, say existing homeowners, they often mean higher taxes. And sometimes, residents complain, in a slowing of in the rate of price appreciation; even worse, the threat of actual price declines.

WATCH AND PRAY
 Will Jesus Christ return?

Unless he does, a great deal of the Bible is untrue. Jesus said repeatedly that he would come again. People sometimes speculate too much about the circumstances of the second coming and live in such rapt expectation of it that they neglect duties near at hand. But on the whole, the modern church is not giving enough attention to this great event.

When Jesus Christ returns

— as he certainly will — the whole earth will be changed. This will be the climax of human history. But the Bible is not plain or consistent in describing how He will come, how long He will remain, and what will follow His coming. As a result, sincere Christians differ widely in their expectations regarding the matter.

"Watch and pray" was our Lord's admonition. Do that and God will do the rest.

Rationing Plan Winners And Losers

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — If talk of gasoline rationing turns to fact, police, bus systems and farmers will be among the few receiving as much fuel as they need, a federal energy report indicates.

The big gasoline losers, according to Department of Energy figures, will be owners of gas-gulping cars and people who live in rural areas with no public transportation for commuting long distances.

Energy Secretary James Schlesinger has called gasoline rationing "a stringent measure intended for use only in the most severe shortage situation" such as another Arab oil embargo.

The Senate voted Wednesday to approve President Carter's request for authority to order rationing and the House was expected to approve the measure by a narrow margin late today.

If rationing ever is implemented, a DOE report entitled "Standby Gasoline Rationing Plan" indicates persons providing essential public services such as national defense, police and fire protection would receive virtually all the gasoline they need to operate.

"Those consumers, such as those in rural areas, who must travel long distances to work and who have no public transportation available as a substitute for driving would be the most adversely affected," the report says.

Alaska, Idaho, Maine, the Dakotas, Vermont and Wyoming are states with big rural populations, the report shows.

It also says farmers and others involved in food production would get as much gasoline as needed to meet production goals set by the president.

Mass public transportation systems could receive even larger allotments than they get now because undoubtedly more people would use them, the report's figures show.

But the same figures show that folks who drive big cars wouldn't get any more gas coupons than those who drive little ones.

"Efficiency will be rewarded," one energy official said.

The report shows that companies using big trucks, the moving firms and short-haul shippers, would receive about 75.5 percent of their gasoline requirements. But companies using small trucks, light vans or automobiles would receive only a little more than half their normal requirements.

Motorcycle drivers would receive smaller allotments than drivers of regular passenger cars.

Congress is still fighting over formulas for deciding how much gas individuals would receive. Under the current plan, families would be issued coupons on a basis of how many cars they owned, limiting the allotment to three registered vehicles per family.

Those who needed more gasoline than they were allocated, such as taxi drivers, traveling salesmen or anyone who wanted to drive more, could purchase extra coupons from anyone who wanted to sell them.

DOE state-by-state estimates show that American families now use 40 to 70 gallons of gasoline each month, depending on where they live.

Administration energy officials say they would not consider rationing unless a fuel shortage of about 20 percent occurred.

Senate Critics Vow To Fight SALT II Terms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate critics of a new treaty to cap the arms race are vowing to change or reject it despite President Carter's plea for ratification to diminish "the shadow of nuclear war."

The strategic arms limitation treaty with the Soviet Union is expected to produce the most searching national security debate since the end of World War II. The outcome is far from sure.

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., told the Senate today he hopes action on the treaty can be completed this year.

In a brief speech at the opening of the Senate session, Byrd emphasized that he remains uncommitted on the treaty.

"I'm not going to be intimidated by the idea that if my vote is against, that it goes down," said Byrd, whose support would be crucial to the goal of obtaining the necessary two-thirds majority for approval.

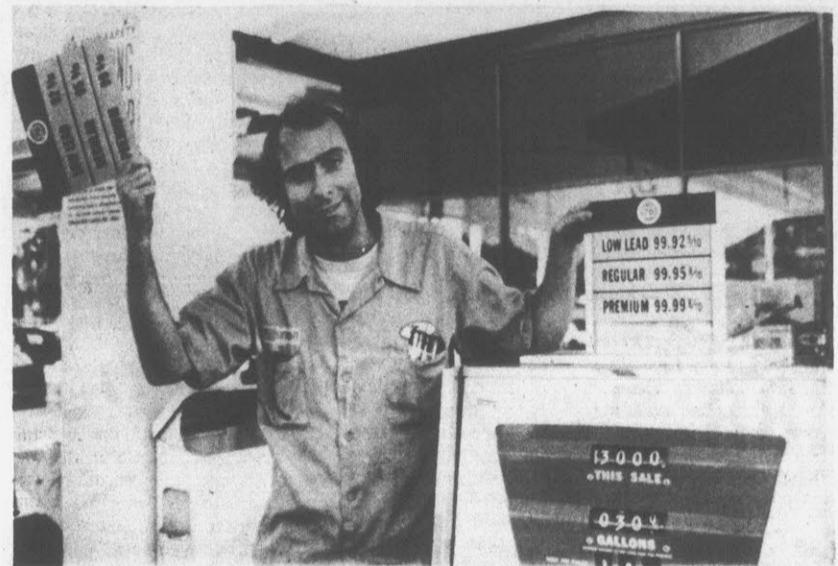

Republican Leader Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee said he offered to keep President Carter informed of the GOP head counts on the treaty as the debate progresses.

"I don't want my president to fly in the dark, to fly blind," said Baker, who stressed his belief that the treaty might require significant changes to win ratification.

SALT II is being denounced by foes as an inequitable and unverifiable pact that will give the Soviet Union a definite advantage in long-range missiles and bombers and a chance of winning a nuclear war with the United States.

"I have a strong feeling the treaty is likely to be amended or returned for further negotiations," Baker said Wednesday after Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Defense Secretary Harold Brown announced that all obstacles to reaching agreement had been resolved.

SHADES OF THE FUTURE? Gas station attendant Paul Williamson poses for a film crew during the making of the movie "Americathon" in Los Angeles. Gas is selling for $99.99 a gallon for premium in the movie's plot set in 1998 as a bankrupt and fuelless U.S.

is forced to hold a thirty-day 24-hour telethon to raise $400 billion to save America from falling into the hands of the United Hebrab Republic, a confederation of oil rich Arabs and Jews. (AP Laserphoto)

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Rain is expected in the period until Friday morning, from the upper Mississippi through the Midwest into the northern Plains. Snow is forecast in the northern Plains with warm weather due in the East, cold weather for the northern Plains and mild weather elsewhere. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By The Associated Press
A low pressure trough that extended from North Carolina to northern Florida, combined with warm, moist air, brought scattered showers to much of North Carolina today.

This wet air mass has been rather stagnant over the southeastern part of the country for the last couple days. But a gradual shift in wind direction to the southwest is expected to dry the air somewhat by Friday.

Meanwhile, a cold front in New England is expected to push south along the eastern seaboard. This front may shift winds to the north and cool things off on North Carolina's northeast coast over the weekend.

However, for most of the state, no sudden or dramatic change in the weather pattern is anticipated into the weekend.

Showers occurred in many parts of the state Wednesday and during the night. Only the northeast portion escaped measurable rainfall. Nearly three-quarters of an inch fell at Wilmington and Asheville.

Highest temperatures were reached in the southeast Wednesday. Goldsboro and Wilmington recorded 82 while in the northwest mountains, Boone had only 63 for its high.

Rain was widespread across the Piedmont, Sandhills, and southern coastal area this morning while temperatures ranged in the 60s. The forecast called for scattered showers and possibly thundershowers today, tapering off this afternoon and becoming partly cloudy tonight and Friday.

Temperatures today were expected to climb to the 70s in the mountains and 80s elsewhere.

ing up the bill. Consequently, this tiny minority has been under intense pressure.

Regular Republicans, anticipating two-party development in the demise of the tory Democrats, oppose the bill. So do Reagan and his fire-eating Texas operatives. So does Texan George Bush, whose fragile presidential candidacy would be blown away by an early humiliating defeat at home.

Connally's official position is one of majestic unconcern. But his agents here (including former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, returning to active politics for the first time since his 1972 defeat for governor as a Democrat-for-Connally) have been lobbying hard for the bill. In private, Connally makes clear his preference. "John told me it really don't matter to him," one Republican legislator told us, "but he also told me he sure would remember who helped him when it counted."

Republican State Sen. O.H. (Ike) Harris has been told by local party workers he need not come home to Dallas if he subjects them to a second primary. But Harris is concerned about like-minded conservative Democratic colleagues and fears their liberal primary election conquerors would defeat conservative Republicans in "brass-collar" Democratic rural areas. Furthermore, Harris is an enthusiastic Connally supporter who backed Ford against Reagan in 1976.

On balance, Harris is choosing to keep peace with the Republican party by voting not to take up the primary bill. State Sen. Betty Andujar of Fort Worth, the state's Republican national committeewoman, is taking the same route, though she too backs Connally. Those two are enough to kill the bill and bail out Reagan.

But Harris and Andujar would immediately switch if Gov. Clements endorsed the bill. During a visit in his office with us, former Dallas oil tycoon Clements shed his usual precise certitude to reveal fuzzy agnosticism toward the primary election. However, he indicated he could become a downright advocate if Texas joined with Oklahoma, Louisiana and Arkansas primaries March 8 to give the oil buckle of the Sunbelt an early voice in presidential selection.

Speaker Clayton is rushing furiously to line up such a regional arrangement, almost surely not in time for this session but perhaps for inclusion in a possible special session on other topics. Clements, avowedly neutral for president, is well known here to have a minimum high regard for Reagan and a low estimate of his chances. It will be a while yet, then, before the Reagan camp can view the intrigue in this old capitol building without some apprehension.

"programs" and inserted their own word, "institutions." One federal court after another has ordered HEW's people to stop perverting the law, but the bureaucracy pays no heed.

We had an ironical glimpse into the future on the closing day of Senate debate. Jesse Helms of North Carolina, a leading opponent of the bill, offered an amendment to this effect — that no school receiving federal aid could require students to participate in sex education instruction without parental permission and without an opportunity for public examination of the teaching materials.

The Helms amendment was well intended. Some of the high-octane material that is marketed as sex instruction could get an "R" or "X" rating in the movies. But what the senator could not understand was that his high-minded amendment provided a perfect, textbook example of the federal controls that will follow inexorably upon the creation of this department. Helms was trying to prescribe by federal law the conditions under which a local school could manage its curriculum.

Federal aid, so-called, now amounts to 9 or 10 percent of public support of public education. The National Education Association, prime supporter of this bill, wants to see the figure rise to 30 or 35 percent. At that level, local control dwindles to impotence, to mere form without substance. For all practical purposes, every significant decision must then require the approval of the secretary. No approval, no money.

The federal government already is deeply involved in the preparation of teaching materials. The example of "Man: A Course of Study" is only one of a thousand such ventures in the subtle manipulation of our children. Institutions of higher learning already have succumbed to the narcotic of federal aid. Once the realm of education is given Cabinet status, federal involvement and federal control can only increase. No matter how good this purported remedy tastes, the House should understand this much: The side effects can be fatal.

Count Four Traffic Mishaps Yesterday

An estimated $4,700 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic mishaps investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 2:50 p.m. collision at the intersection of First and Reade Streets involving cars driven by Eva Jones Brown of Route 1, Bethel, and Emma Susan Whitehurst of Route 3, Washington.

Police, who reported Mrs. Brown and three passengers in her car were injured, estimated damage at $400 to the Brown car and $2,000 to the Whitehurst car.

Sue Rouse Tripp of Beaulville was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 3:40 p.m. collision at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Greenville Boulevard.

Investigators reported the Tripp car collided with a car driven by Richard Warren Minnick of Route 1, Winterville, resulting in an estimated $1,000 damage to the Tripp auto and $250 damage to the Minnick car.

Cheryl Lynn Sprinkle of 2610 Jefferson Dr. was charged with following too close following investigation of a 4:51 p.m. collision on Dickinson Avenue near the Wilson Street intersection.

Officers said the Sprinkle vehicle collided with a car driven by Olivia Cox Rouse of 405 Harding St., causing $500 damage to the Sprinkle car and $100 damage to the Rouse vehicle.

Cars driven by Stephen Harold Reel of 1014B Brownlea Dr. and Emerette Lee Stevenson of 510 East First St. collided about 4:30 p.m. on Evans Street, 50 feet South of the Tenth Street intersection, causing an estimated $250 damage to the Reel car and $200 damage to the Stevenson vehicle.

Officers charged Ms. Stevenson with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

Among Grads At Duke Univ.

DURHAM — Catherine (Cassie) Deyton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Deyton, and Joseph Lee Howell, son of Dr. and Mrs. John M. Howell, both of Greenville, were among 2,100 men and women to receive degrees Sunday from Duke University.

Miss Deyton received a bachelor's degree in economics. Howell was a magna cum laude graduate, with bachelor degrees in mathematics and German.

House Passes Consolidation Of Sex Offense Laws

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A bill that would revise and consolidate the state's laws against sex offenses, equating homosexual rape with heterosexual rape in terms of punishment, won final approval on a 102-0 vote in the House Wednesday and was sent to the Senate.

The bill would raise homosexual rape and gang rape from felonies carrying penalties of 10 years in prison to first-degree offenses, punishable by life imprisonment.

The bill would continue to classify rape as a first-and second-degree offense, and it would create a separate category of first-and second-degree sexual offenses to include homosexual rape.

Supporters, including the state attorney general's office, said the most significant change the bill would make in current law was the recognition of homosexual rape as a first-degree offense.

The bill contains definitions of sexual acts not found in current statutes and specifies how the law would view mentally and physically incapacitated victims. Previously, the sexual acts have been defined only in case law.

Other changes the bill would make include:

— The use of a dangerous or deadly weapon as part of first-degree rape.

— Infliction of serious personal injury in first-degree rape rather than serious bodily injury, allowing consideration of psychological damage.

— Abolishment of age as a legal presumption that a person is incapable of committing a sex offense. The state Supreme Court had ruled that a person under 14 years of age was incapable of committing a sexual offense.

The bill would retain provisions of current law prohibiting charges of rape by one partner in a marriage against the other unless the two are living apart by judicial decree.

In other legislative developments Wednesday:

Colleges
The Senate enacted a bill that authorizes technical institutes to change their names to technical colleges. The House passed the bill cleared the Senate on a 41-1 vote and became law. The measure was supported by some technical-institute leaders, who said the name "college" was more prestigious than "institute."

The measure allows — but does not require — the name change. It must first be approved by an institute's board of trustees and county commissioners.

In the House, another bill that would have established a commission to study the administrative structure of the 57-campus community college and technical institute system was killed. The Senate-passed measure was defeated on a 103-4 vote.

UNC Money
The joint appropriations committees had some hostile questions for University of North Carolina President William Friday when he appeared Wednesday to ask for $40 million to improve the system's five historically black campuses.

Friday said the money was needed to correct basic deficiencies on those campuses and to provide "concrete evidence" of the state's good faith in its law suit against the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The panels took no action on the request.

School Policy
The bill requiring all public school systems to have written personnel policies was resurrected in the Senate Wednesday after being killed in that chamber Tuesday.

It was returned to the Senate Education Committee, where opponents said it would be changed to a non-binding resolution urging the policies.

Sen. Ollie Harris, D-Cleveland, who opposed the bill Tuesday, asked that it be revived.

Mopeds
A bill writing a new legal definition for bicycles with booster motors, called mopeds, won tentative approval in the Senate on a 43-1 vote. The bill would prohibit anyone under age 16 from driving a moped on a public road. And it would limit mopeds, which can be operated without a driver's license, to 20 mph on level ground and 50cc engine displacement.

Insurance
A bill that would have prohibited insurance surcharges based on points for minor traffic citations received outside the state was killed in the House Insurance Committee.

Opponents said the bills would discriminate against the good drivers in North Carolina. The same panel killed a similar bill earlier that would have provided the surcharge exemption for professional drivers who received out-of-state traffic citations for minor offenses.

Products Liability
A Senate-passed products liability bill won final approval in the House but now must go back to the Senate for concurrence on revisions before it becomes law.

The bill, which limits the situations in which a consumer may sue manufacturers, retailers and wholesalers for alleged injury or damages by defective products, was introduced as a means for checking the soaring number of frivolous products liability suits.

New bills filed Wednesday included:

— A proposal that would prohibit brown-bagging in social establishments in any county that does not allow Alcoholic Beverage Control stores.

— A package of court-related measures, including one that would make a guilty plea entered in district court a final action and not subject to appeal.

— A bill that would levy additional points toward drivers' license revocation for those who fail to appear in court in response to a traffic summons or citation.

— A proposal that would authorize companies to offer policies protecting drivers against damages by other motorists who are without liability insurance.

Grand Opening For Ayden Restaurant

AYDEN — Ribbon cutting activities marking the grand opening of the Captain's Table restaurant here were scheduled for 5 p.m. today, according to Mike Bundy, part owner and manager.

The grand opening observance at the new restaurant, located at 1113 W. Third Street at the Harris Supermarket parking lot, will continue until 9 p.m., it was mentioned.

Bundy said that Mayor Ross Persinger was expected to be on hand today to cut the ribbon.

The restaurant will feature seafood and steaks at the evening meal and also serve breakfast and lunch, featuring businessmen's specials.

The facility will accommodate 300 persons, it was mentioned, and two banquet rooms for meetings are available. Ample parking is available, Bundy reported.

The Captain's Table will operate Monday through Saturday from 6 a.m. until 9 p.m. and on Sunday from 11:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. for lunch.

Bundy, a Williamston native, is married to the former Rebecca Goss of Williamston and they have one child.

Marie Cox of Greenville will serve as assistant manager.

Open-Meeting Law Revision Runs Into Obstacles

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Legislation revising the North Carolina's open-meetings law went before the state Senate for the third time

Wednesday, and for the third time was returned to committee without a vote.
The Senate first defeated an amendment supporters of the bill said would have crippled the legislation by limiting those who could file suits to block illegally closed meetings.
But on a 36-10 vote, the bill was sent to the Senate

Finance Committee, a move that could delay Senate action for at least a week and possibly longer.
The bill was sent to finance
when the panel chairman,
Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston, said another amendment adopted by the Senate included a fee provision. Rules of the Senate, he said, required a finance committee review.

Rauch said his panel would consider the legislation next Wednesday. But he offered supporters no assurances that the committee would look only at the finance provision and not address substantive parts of the bill.

proposed by Sen. Harold Hardison, D-Lenoir. It would allow boards to require that broadcast reporters pool their equipment and personnel in crowded meetings.

It would allow boards to charge the news media to pay expenses involved in moving the meeting to a larger room when the media requested it and would allow a $25 charge when reporters want to monitor a meeting held by conference telephone call.

Wade Hargrove, lobbyist for the N.C. Association of Broadcasters, said the amendment was a compromise between his group and Hardison.
The Senate defeated on a 39-7 vote an amendment offered by Sen. John Henley, D-Cumberland, that was opposed by the N.C. Press Association. It would have allowed only persons or domestic corporations living within or owning property within a government board's jurisdiction to bring action against that board.

Sen. Henson Barnes, D-Wayne, floor manager for the bill, cited comments this week by former Sen. Sam Ervin, a constitutional expert, who questioned the constitutionality of the Henley amendment. But Henley said he was unconcerned with that argument.
"I believe all laws are constitutional until they're declared otherwise," Henley said.
Barnes said limiting the power to sue would damage
the only enforcement provision contained in the open-meetings law. He cited the Goldsboro News-Argus and the Rocky Mount Evening Telegram as newspapers that cover

Ex-Senator To Become Judge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Sen. Paul G. Hatfield, D-
Mont., has been confirmed as a U.S. District Court judge to preside in Great Falls, Mont.
By voice vote on Wednesday,
the Senate approved Hatfield's nomination, submitted by President Carter.

LETTER AUCTIONED
ROME (AP) — A hand-written letter by Emperor Charles V, the 16th century ruler of the Holy Roman Empire, was auctioned
Wednesday for $192. The letter, written in Brussels on Oct. 20, 1548, gave military instructions to the then governor of Milan.

Brooke Planning To Marry Again

BOSTON (AP) — Former
Sen. Edward W. Brooke, divorced last year in bitter proceedings which may have contributed to his election defeat, plans to remarry this spring, a source close to Brooke says.

The source, who asked not to be named, on Wednesday identified the bride-to-be as Ann Fleming, a Canadian whose age was unknown.

Brooke, 59, a Republican, was the nation's only black senator when he represented Massachusetts. He was unavailable for comment on the remarriage report.

Brooke was defeated in a bid for a third Senate term last fall.

Twice before the Senate has avoided a vote on the Housepassed open meetings bill. The first time it was scheduled for action it was returned to a judiciary committee that originally recommended it, and the second time it was sent to ways and means.

The fee provision was included in an amendment

Charge Animals
Are Mistreated

MICRO, N.C. (AP) — A 59-year-old Micro woman was charged Wednesday with six counts of cruelty to animals for allegedly restraining five dogs and a cat inhumanely in her home.

Lina Watkins was served with summonses obtained by the North Carolina Humane Federation. She is scheduled to appear in Johnston County District Court on May 22.

The summonses charge Miss Watkins with mistreating the six animals. It said some of the animals are chained with no water, have untreated sores and must live with their own excrement. She faces a possible $500 fine or six months in jail for each of the misdemeanor charges.

She has been keeping 22 dogs and 10 cats at her home. The presence of the animals has generated a long-simmering dispute in which neighbors and town officials have charged that the animals are a health problem and public nuisance.

HELLO, DALI! — Spanish-born surrealist painter Salvador Dali holds up a huge sword he designed with a golden head in the form of an eagle as he arrives in Paris Wednesday for his induction into the prestigious Frenc Academie des Beaux-Arts. Dali, who will be 75 on Friday, wore the traditional gold-embroidered waistcoat. He said the sword was dedicated to his life-long inspiration, his Russian-born wife Gala. (AP Laser-photo)

Pleased With Spending Plans

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Chancellors of the five predominantly black state universities say they are pleased with the additional $40 million requested for their campuses in the General Assembly this week.

But the chancellors say they also want legislators to realize that such an appropriation would be only a step in the right direction, not a total solution for the schools' problems. "They're satisfied, but at the same time, they want to let the general public know this is not the end," said an official of the UNC system.

Gov. Jim Hunt and the university administration have asked the legislature to allocate $40 million to upgrade the black campuses. The money would be in addition to $31 million previously approved.

The additional funds were requested in the wake of the university's desegregation dispute with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dr. Albert N. Whiting, chancellor of N.C. Central University in Durham, said that the request was "a substantial step in the right direction." But he added that he wished the funds could be used for program development rather than capital improvements.

N.C. Central stands to receive $7.7 million of the $40 million, including $2.5 million for a criminal-justice facility.

Lewis C. Dowdy, chancellor of A&T State University in Greensboro, declined comment on the request until it is approved by the General Assembly. His school would get the largest share of the money — $14.9 million, including $7 million for an animal-science facility.

Dr. Lafayette Parker, vice chancellor for academic affairs at Winston-Salem State University, said, "You'll never get me to say it's enough, but we're just so happy to be getting something. It's definitely a step in the right direction."

Marion D. Thorpe, chancellor of Elizabeth City State University, and Charles A. Lyons Jr., chancellor of Fayetteville State University, could not be reached for comment.

Elizabeth City State would get $5.5 million and Fayetteville State $1.4 million.

Another $33 million would be held in reserve to be used for projects on all five campuses.

Volunteer Of Year Is Named

W. Herbert Hollowell of Edenton has been named Volunteer of the Year by the American Lung Association of North Carolina.

Hollowell was recognized at the annual meeting of the Association held May 2 and 3 at the Royal Villa Inn in Raleigh.

Hollowell was cited for his strong leadership in lung association work at both the local and state level. He has served on the Executive Committee of Eastern Lung Association, and has also served as president, vice president and local board member.

At state level he has served as a member of the Executive Committee and held the office of secretary. Currently he is vice-president of the American Lung Association of North Carolina.

Dr. Trenton Davis, president of the Eastern Region Association, noted that "Herbert Hollowell has given unselfishly of his time in helping to direct North Carolina and the Eastern Region in prevention and control of lung diseases. It is people like him who have helped to make our association great."

The American Lung Association is a voluntary health agency dedicated to the prevention and control of lung diseases. The association encompasses 22 eastern North Carolina counties and is funded by Christmas Seal contributions.

Honor Soc. Inducted 27

ECU News Bureau

Twenty-seven students in the East Carolina University School of Home Economics have been inducted into ECU's Beta Eta chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron honor society.

They were formally initiated in a campus ceremony, which was attended by Dr. Miriam Moore, dean of the ECU home economics school; Dr. Jan Zalko, a faculty member and an honorary initiate; and Barbara Fuller, District II Phi Upsilon Omicron Councilor.

The students were initiated in recognition of high academic achievement and leadership abilities.

Membership in Phi Upsilon Omicron is by invitation only, and is based on students' scholarship, leadership, character and service.

Goals of the society are to reward and encourage professional leadership, stimulate participation in civic affairs, promote professional friendships and advance the home economics field.

Area inductees include: PITT COUNTY, Greenville — Allison Peadar, 33 Stratford Arms, and Jimmie Spain, Route 4.

Flea Market And Barbecue

SNOW HILL — The Greene Central Rams' Club will sponsor a flea market and barbecue Saturday, May 12, on the Greene Central campus near Snow Hill. The event is sponsored jointly by the school music and athletic boosters, with funds to be donated to paving a school student parking lot, building a track and practice football field, and outfitting the band with new uniforms.

Barbecue will be cooked on the school grounds, with a "drive-through" service offered from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Flea market participants will include Bear Garden Flowers and Nursery, Greene Acres Ceramics, Team Sports, the Christian Women's Fellowship of the Walstonburg Christian Church, and Charles Shephard of Walstonburg, antique clock dealer, to name a few. Several groups from the school will also sponsor booths.

For more information, contact Mrs. Robert Hicks, 753-4868, in Walstonburg. Rental space is available for displays for $10. No prior reservations are needed.

Nuclear Plant Clusters Next

By DAVID BRISCOE
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The government is proceeding with studies of colossal nuclear power complexes — capable of generating 4½ times more power than present facilities — despite problems at existing plants and heightened public concern about atomic energy.

Being studied are huge nuclear clusters in Utah and South Carolina that would provide power for millions of customers in several states.

The federally sponsored studies will cost $1.3 million, but the plants may never be built at the sites being investigated.

Governors of both states have expressed reservations about nuclear power, and one official noted that Utah, with its uncertain water supply, and South Carolina were chosen only because they were the only two states to display any interest.

The Utah center, estimated to cost $10 billion, would increase the assessed valuation of the entire state by nearly two-thirds and create a construction city of 20,000 or more. Nine or 10 plants would be built within a single fence near sparsely populated Green River in eastern Utah.

The South Carolina complex would be the largest in the world — 12 reactors generating more than 14,000 megawatts of electricity near Lake Hartwell on the Georgia border. The complex, estimated to cost $12 billion is not far from Anderson, S.C., population about 30,000, and several smaller communities in South Carolina and Georgia.

Theoretically, it would provide enough electricity to supply a city of about 14 million people — equal to the population of South Carolina, North Carolina and Georgia. The Utah complex would produce up to five times the 2,500 megawatt generating capacity of Utah Power & Light Co., which serves Utah and parts of Idaho and Wyoming.

The output from the two complexes alone would equal half of today's U.S. nuclear power production.

The largest existing nuclear generating facility — three reactors at Decatur, Ala. — puts out about 3,200 megawatts.

Government scientists say the clusters would make it possible to keep an elite corps of nuclear experts on hand. Other advantages cited include the need for only one battle to win approval for the project, more efficient construction, increased security, and better safety measures.

Disadvantages cited include the need to transmit power over longer distances, the attractiveness of the sites as targets in wartime, and the impact of any failure or accident which might affect the whole complex.

The Utah and South Carolina "nuclear power centers" — once called "nuclear parks" by some power experts — wouldn't be completed until perhaps 2020.

The studies are being funded by the U.S. Department of Energy at a cost of $800,000 in South Carolina and nearly $500,000 in Utah.

James Byrne, study director for Utah, said the accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant near Harrisburg, Pa., and recent concern over danger from low-level radiation have not hindered the studies. But he said there would be more emphasis on "radiological and safety considerations" and on public reaction.

He said a major question in Utah, where there are no nuclear power plants, is water. State officials say water would be available, but it would have to be purchased from those who hold water rights.

In South Carolina, which has several nuclear plants in operation and others under construction, water is not a problem.

John Sharp, energy adviser to South Carolina Gov. Richard Riley, said major concerns are over regulation and taxation, since several states would use the power. "That would be an awful lot of real property. We've got to decide who would own the plants, whether they would be taxed and who would get the tax revenue," he said.

The studies will address whether the state or public utilities should build the plants.

Sharp said safety would be a consideration, but added there is not enough money in the studies for detailed safety analyses.

"These are really 'what if' studies," he added.

Howard Bauman, engineer at the Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Tennessee, which is overseeing both studies, said Utah and South Carolina were picked because they were the only two states which expressed an interest in the concept.

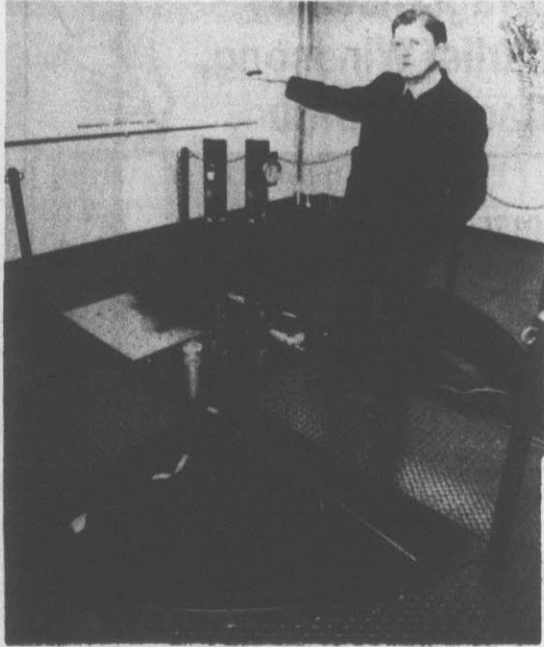

There has been little organized opposition to the proposals, but their massive scope has raised some concerns.

Utah Gov. Scott Matheson, in agreeing to the study, said the state reserves the right to set its own nuclear policy and may not allow the plants at all.

Gov. Riley of South Carolina has said he would be reluctant to add any plants not yet under construction until several questions about nuclear waste disposal are answered.

The Utah and South Carolina studies follow a 1975 federal report on the concept of locating several plants in large nuclear energy complexes, including as many as 40 plants at one location.

This was reduced to a maximum of about 12 after government scientists said too many nuclear plants in one place might affect the weather.

TINY NUKE — Brother Conrad Gabriel Kane of Manhattan College stands atop a New York novelty — the city's only active nuclear reactor, located on the college's campus in New York City's northern Bronx borough. Deflating fears of a nuclear catastrophe in the nation's largest city, Brother Gabriel emphasizes the limits of the educational unit, first activated in 1964, with the comment "Why, you couldn't even heat up a cup of tea with it." (AP Laserphoto)

Environmental, social, political, legal and technological concerns will be covered in the two studies, scheduled to be finished in 1981. Congress would then decide whether to go further.

Physics, Church Role Intermesh

MARRIOTTVILLE, Md. (AP) — An atomic physicist who also is an Episcopal priest, the Rev. William G. Pollard, says the two fields do not conflict but rather intermesh and reinforce each other.

He told a conference of college professors in literature, education, engineering, religion, biology, economics and other fields that faith is essential both in physics and religion.

As a physicist, he said it would be difficult for him to comprehend so orderly and predictable a universe unless there was reason behind its organization.

ROOF INSPECTION
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — After a storm, take a few moments to inspect your roof.

Wind and rain can dislodge or tear off shingles, says Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., shingle manufacturer. Out-of-place shingles can allow water to seep under the roof, causing leaks.

If the damage is caught in time, often only one shingle need be replaced. If not, the wood deck under the shingles may rot, causing damage to the roof.

- No Prior Knowledge of Computing is Required to Use the TRS-80
- TRS-80 is the World's Most Widely-Used Small Computer
- Designed and Manufactured in the USA by Radio Shack

Businessmen, professionals, teachers and students by the tens of thousands have taken advantage of Radio Shack's microcomputer price breakthrough, in some cases waiting months for delivery. Now the waiting—except for a few peripheral items—is over. You can get into computing WITHOUT DELAY at over 7000 Radio Shacks and dealer stores around the world. And we service what we sell!

Fully Wired and Tested, NOT a Kit

TRS-80 is the world's first mass-produced complete microcomputer system. It includes its own 12" video monitor. It's U.L. approved. It's fully expandable in power, language and its ability to accept printers, disk drives, telephone interfaces, voice synthesizers and a wide range of off-the-shelf software. At less than the price of a Leica camera or most video tape recorders, TRS-80 could well be the most satisfying investment you've ever made for your business, trade, education or merely the pure pleasure of understanding the technology that's "taking over" our world.

The system shown here can help teach you to analyze investments, manage the budget of a household or small business, teach students math or other subjects. It can also catalog collections of all kinds. Or entertain you by playing chess!

Add accessories and TRS-80 will really surprise you. It'll keep a 100-account General Ledger with up to 1800 entries per month. It can control a 1000-item inventory. It can calculate and print paychecks. And, with a little imagination, you can create your own computer programs. Like the surgeon who uses his TRS-80 to calculate delicate cornea transplants.

Miss Getaway Due Bathroom

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — Two men with stockings over their heads robbed a convenience store, while a woman accomplice remained in their getaway car, authorities said. But when the men ran back to the car, the woman had gone to the bathroom — taking the car keys with her.

A short time later officers arrested Gene Audrey Johnson, 22, Uless Reed Jr., 23, and Peggy Jean Butler, 21, and charged them with armed robbery.

The store clerk, Thomas Taylor, alerted officers as soon as the men left Tuesday. He said all but $3 of the $150 taken in the holdup was recovered.

Closing Black Campus Outlook Is Said Slim

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
 Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt said today the chances North Carolina would ever close one of its five predominantly black University of North Carolina campuses are "very, very slim."

Hunt, at a news conference, said there is an economic need for each of the traditionally black campuses, but that costs may force the state in the future to reconsider whether it needs all 16 UNC campuses.

The governor, responding to questions about the university's latest request for $40 million to upgrade the five campuses, said the question of closing or merging any of the traditionally white or black campuses would be highly political. "I think the chances of having that come about are very, very slim," he said.

At a news conference, Hunt also said the state's standby emergency gas rationing plan was ready for implementation "at a moment's notice."

And the governor took issue with a study issued by the N.C. Center for Public Policy Research, saying researchers that criticized his balanced growth policy "haven't done their homework."

On the university, Hunt said the state should make the mainly black campuses "attractive and strong," by spending the $40 million requested by the UNC Board of Governors.

That money was part of the state's offer to negotiate an out-of-court settlement with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare in its desegregation dispute over UNC. Hunt is backing the request despite the failure of those talks.

"I think there is an economic reason for all of them being there," Hunt said of the black campuses. "In time, it may be that finances will dictate something else."

Referring to gasoline shortages in other states, Hunt said the state would implement the rationing plan if long lines develop in North Carolina. Hunt said he "wouldn't be surprised" if the plan was needed this summer.

On another question, Hunt said he was still committed to his plan for a 5 percent pay raise plus two percent additional fringe benefits for state employees and teachers. House Speaker Carl Stewart, seeking a compromise with employee groups who want a 9 percent raise, went to Washington Thursday to consult with the President's Wage Council on its interpretation of wage guidelines.

Hunt said he still believed an additional increase would violate the guidelines, but would look at any new interpretation Stewart may find.

BAR ASSOCIATION—William C. Brewer, Jr. (above) was installed as president of the Pitt County Bar Association during the Ladies Night meeting held Tuesday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club. Other officers installed were: Mickey A. Herrin, vice president; W. Walton Kitchin, secretary; and Henry Gorham, treasurer. Entertainment for the evening was a magic act performed by Bill Robinson.

In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here is a brief summation of the proposed SALT II treaty, based on briefings by the Carter administration.

DURATION: The treaty runs through 1985, with a protocol that will expire at the end of 1981.

LIMITS: Each side would be limited initially to a total of 2,400 strategic missiles and bombers. The overall limit would drop to 2,250 in 1981.

Within those limits are subceilings: no more than 820 land-based missiles with multiple warheads (MIRVs); no more than 1,200 land and sea-based MIRVs and no more than 1,320 total MIRVs and bombers equipped with cruise missiles.

ARMS REDUCTIONS: The Soviets would, by the end of 1981, have to destroy some 270 aging missiles, according to American estimates. They would also not be allowed to deploy the SS-16, a mobile missile they have tested with mixed success. The United States might have to destroy some 35 B-52s currently in mothballs in 1984 or 1985, depending on when its new Trident submarines are deployed.

NEW WEAPONS ALLOWED: The two sides would each be allowed to equip their bombers with new cruise missiles, and to develop one new land-based missile. After 1981, it could be a mobile missile. Each would be allowed to develop as many new types of submarine-based missiles as it could. In addition, each side would be able to substantially increase the number of warheads it deploys: from 8,500 to more than 12,000 for the United States and from 4,000 to more than 8,000 for the Soviets.

And the Soviet Backfire bomber would not count against the strategic limits. It would be dealt with in a side letter from President Leonid Brezhnev.

Another Arrest
 Greenville Police yesterday arrested Daniel Eugene Fulford of 1405 VanDyke St. on charges of breaking, entering and larceny in connection with a May 5 break-in at 505 Church St.

Police Chief Glenn Cannon said Fulford is the second person charged in connection with the break-in and theft.

Billy Green of 511 Church St. was charged in connection with the incident three days ago, the chief noted.

Several pieces of SCUBA diving equipment, a shotgun and an AM-FM stereo unit were reported taken.

A Casualty At Alamo Battle

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A skull found during recent excavations at the Alamo apparently was that of a casualty from the 1836 Texas Revolution battle, according to archaeologists at the University of Texas at San Antonio.

A band of about 185 Texans was wiped out March 6, 1836, by more than 1,000 Mexican troops under Santa Anna in a crucial revolutionary battle that followed a 13-day siege. Anne Fox, historical archaeologist at UTSA, said there is no way to determine whether the skull was that of a Texan or a Mexican soldier. It is believed to be that of a 20-year-old man.

Lightweight Spurs Nip Bullets

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The racehorse San Antonio Spurs have never been confused with barroom brawlers under the basket. But they say they'll continue to physically challenge the heavyweight Washington Bullets — like they did in Wednesday night's 116-114 playoff victory.

Whether they can keep it up remains to be seen, says a doubting Washington Coach Dick Motta.

The bantamweight Spurs, showing uncharacteristically tough inside muscle, neutralized Washington behemoths Wes Unseld and Elvin Hayes in grabbing a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven, NBA Eastern Conference championship series.

The massive 6-foot-7, 250-pound Unseld, who had bullied the Spurs for 40 points and 41 rebounds in the first two games of the series; was limited to six points and 18 rebounds. Worn out by the Spurs elbows and their patented running attack, he sat out much of the fourth quarter in foul trouble.

The 6-9 Hayes, meanwhile, scored a mere 15 points, 11 under his playoff average. He hit only seven of 20 shots and one of six free throws.

"Mark (Olberding) and Billy (Paultz) just didn't let Unseld get through," said San Antonio Coach Doug Moe. "They beat on him as much as he beat on them. Before it was just him beating on us and him shoving us out of the way. Today it was both ways.

Moe promised that the 6-9, 230-pound Olberding and the 6-11, 240-pound Paultz would again try to match muscles with the defending NBA champions when the series continues Friday night in San Antonio.

"It'll be okay for one night, but it's not going to be a continuous thing," said Washington forward Bobby Dandridge, who got 28 points Wednesday night. "I don't think they can keep it up.

The Spurs trailed 58-56 at halftime, but outscored the Bullets 20-11 in the first six and one half minutes of the third quarter. They led 89-84 after three periods and held a 107-93 bulge with 6:35 remaining in the game.

But the dogged Bullets clawed back and closed to within a point, 113-112, when guard Kevin Grevey tipped in a rebound with 53 seconds remaining.

San Antonio's usually explosive Larry Kenon, shackled by Dandridge on only eight points up until then, got a key basket on a rebound dunk with 32 seconds remaining and then rebounded when the Bullets missed their next shot.

But he was called for traveling while trying to make a hot dog windmill pass attempt on an unnecessary fast break with 19 seconds remaining. That allowed the Bullets to close the gap to 115-114.

Fouled by Dandridge with three seconds remaining, Kenon then hit one of two free throws and gathered in the crucial rebound when Washington's Charles Johnson missed a clean shot from the corner at the buzzer.

"He had not had an outstanding game, but he was able to hang in there mentally and come up with their last three points. It's the mark of a good ballplayer," Dandridge said of Kenon.

Pirate Club Meets Tonight

The Greenville Pirate Club will hold a meeting tonight at the American Legion Building.

Cocktails will be served from 6:30 to 7:15, with the barbecue dinner following. The program, featuring head football coach Pat Dye, and head basketball coach Dave Odum, will begin at 8 p.m. A social will follow from 9 to 11 p.m.

There is a $5 per person admission fee, and the meeting is open to all people interested in East Carolina athletics.

Rose Does Well In Sectionals

WILSON — Rose High School's tennis team advanced all six of its entries into the third round of the sectional tournament at Wilson yesterday, the only team among the 26 participating to achieve that rank.

Fred Matney, the defending champion, and this year's top seed, captured all three of his matches in the first day's competition. Matney opened up with a 6-0, 6-4 win over Greg Sims of Goldsboro, then defeated Dennis Rowland of Roanoke Rapids, 6-4, 6-1, and topped Hunt's Will Webb, 6-2, 6-0, in the third round. A win in the first round today will insure him of a spot in the regional tournament next week.

The doubles team of Jeff Quinn and Larry Talbert, seeded third in the field, came from behind to down Mark Joyner and Dave Coombs of Tarboro, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, then eased past Craig Stepany and Paul Robertson of Edenton, 6-0, 6-1 to gain the semifinals.

The other doubles team, Brian Kilcoyne and Chuck Blade downed Steve Cooper and Danny Adcock of Northern Nash, 6-0, 6-3, and then beat Mark Cunningham and Steve Taylor of Hunt, 6-1, 6-3. They were then defeated in the next round, 7-5, 4-6, 4-6, by Washington's number one doubles team, Bill Manning and John Ayers.

Elsewhere in singles, Scott

Bailey defeated Michael Bowen of Washington, 6-1, 6-2, and Edenton's top seed, Bobby Ashley, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, before bowing to fourth seeded David Frazier of Roanoke Rapids, 6-1, 6-2.

Among other area teams, the only entrants were Greene Central's Steve Cook and Lennie Herring in the doubles. They lost in the first round to Brad Howell and Mark Jenkins of Goldsboro, 6-0, 6-0.

Fike leads the way into the final day's play with 30 points, while Roanoke Rapids has 29, Rocky Mount has 28, Rose has 25, and Hunt has 19.

Everyone Feeling Sad For Seattle's Center

SEATTLE (AP) — Almost everyone is feeling sorry for Seattle SuperSonics center Jack Sikma.

Teammate Fred Brown said Sikma, who hit only two of 13 shots from the field in Tuesday's 100-91 National Basketball Association playoff loss to the Phoenix Suns, is being "neutralized" by the officials.

Phoenix center Joel Kramer, who took over in the third game of the Western Conference championship playoffs after center Alvan Adams sprained his ankle Sunday, agreed Sikma had "a bad shooting night...but I don't think this is indicative of how he shoots."

The best-of-seven playoff series is tied at two games each, with the teams returning to Seattle's Kingdome for the fifth game Friday night.

Officials are "not giving Jack a chance to play," Brown complained. "Jack can't even move around. They're neutralizing him. It wasn't our fault Adams sprained his ankle."

Seattle Coach Lenny Wilkens, meanwhile, said his players paid too much attention to the officiating and should let him do the griping to officials. Wilkens drew a technical foul in the second half of Tuesday's game.

"We're just not playing good basketball right now," Wilkens said. "We're out of sync, for some reason. One thing is that when we get upset at the officials, we're standing around."

For the second consecutive game, Phoenix's bench helped win the game. The Suns' reserves produced 25 points and 23 rebounds Tuesday, compared with only 10 points and 12 rebounds by Seattle backups.

"Those guys on our bench are pretty good players," said Phoenix guard Paul Westphal. "Not famous, but they have confidence."

Three Sign As Free Agents

Three East Carolina football players have signed contracts with professional football teams since the recent National Football League college draft.

Safety Gerald Hall and defensive end Fred Chavis signed with the Oakland Raiders of the NFL, while wide receiver Terry Gallaher has inked a contract with the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football League.

Hall, an adept pass defender, ranked among the best collegians in punt returns with a 13.3-yard average last season and will likely have a chance to vie for that spot with the Raiders. Chavis was signed to play linebacker, and is also a possibility for special team action.

Gallaher was the top receiver in each of his four years with the Pirates and the only player ever to lead the team in a single category four times.

Two other Pirates, defensive end Zack Valentine and running back Eddie Hicks, were chosen in the regular NFL draft. Valentine was taken by Pittsburgh in the second round, while Hicks was chosen in the sixth round by the New York Giants.

Tarboro Rips Redskins, 13-6

ROBERSONVILLE — Tarboro High School romped to a 13-6 victory over Roanoke High School last night as the Redskins added eight errors to 11 hits by the Vikings.

Tarboro scored first, getting a run in the top of the first. Parrish tripled and scored on an error on a pickoff play.

Roanoke came back with one in the bottom of the first. Anthony Latham singled and stole second. He moved to third on an out, and when the ball was relayed to third on the attempt to get him there, an error allowed him to score.

It was the only time the Redskins had it tied up. Tarboro went on to add one in the second and another in the third. Roanoke came back with one in the bottom of the third, but Tarboro picked up three to Roanoke's one in the fourth for a 6-3 lead.

Then, in the fifth, Tarboro scored five and put it away. Lewis reached on an error and Squire and Kinlaw both walked, loading the bases. Hutchinson reached on an error, scoring Lewis, and Batter singled in Squire. Parrish singled, scoring Kinlaw and Hutchinson, but Batter was out on appeal for missing second base. K. Parrish then singled in the other Parrish with the 11th Tarboro run.

The Vikings added two more in the seventh, while Roanoke's final three came in the sixth. Keith Parrish and Jeff Hutchinson led the Tarboro hitting with two each, while Latham had three and William Harris had two for Roanoke.

Roanoke is now 12-5, and plays at Washington on Friday.

No Chance For ACC Shot Clock

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Atlantic Coast Conference coaches say a proposed basketball shot clock doesn't stand a chance of being approved at the ACC coaches' annual spring meeting.

The coaches are scheduled to meet Saturday through Tuesday in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

North Carolina's Dean Smith, a former shot-clock opponent, will introduce the proposal.

Chances of the clock, which would give a team with the basketball a certain number of seconds to shoot, being approved were hurt recently when NCAA coaches rejected the proposal. ACC coaches say it is doubtful the ACC will initiate the clock because it would be hard for a team to adjust to a slower-paced game in tournament play.

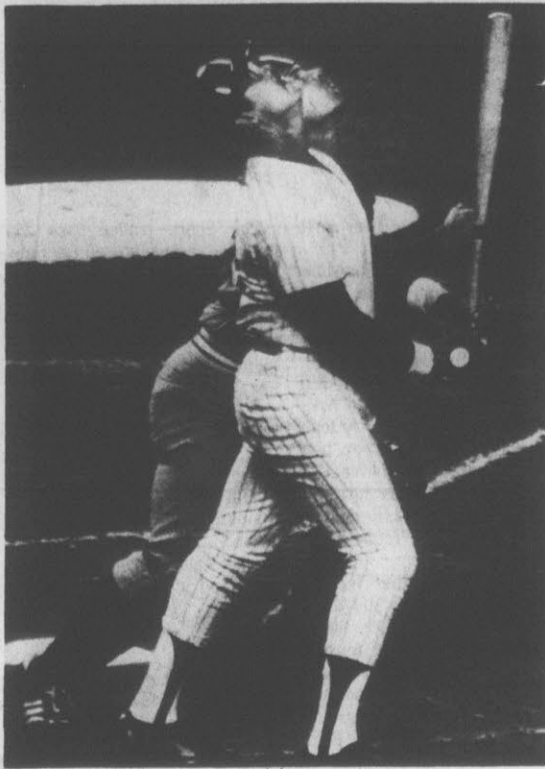

Other items on the agenda include:

long-range football and basketball scheduling; establishment of sites and dates for the 1979-80 championship events; the 1970-80 basketball television schedule and women's athletics.

Faculty representatives of the eight member schools will attend the meeting along with athletic directors, sports information directors and head football and basketball coaches. Special guests for the event will be representatives of most of the football bowl games.

The basketball coaches will hold their first session at 1 p.m. Sunday and the executive committee will meet at 4 p.m.

Proposals from basketball and football coaches will be presented to the athletic directors at the joint meetings of the groups Monday.

Young Fred Lynn wasn't there when the Boston Red Sox really needed him — but ol' Carl Yastrzemski sure was.

Lynn, the major league home run leader, hit his 12th of the season with one man on in the sixth inning and unloaded No.13 with two aboard in the seventh inning Wednesday night.

But after Brian Downing's homer had put California ahead by a run in the top of the ninth, Lynn led off the bottom of the inning — and fanned.

With that bit of business out of the way, Angels reliever Dave LaRoche proceeded to walk Jim Rice, then fed a fat fastball to Yaz who crashed it into the right field stands for Boston's 9-8 victory.

Butch Hobson also homered for the Red Sox, who weathered California's 17-hit attack and, with the victory, moved 10 percentage points ahead of Baltimore and into first in the East Division.

A's 4, Orioles 2
Oakland's Mike Norris lost his no-hitter, his shutout and his 2-0 lead when Gary Roenicke of Baltimore doubled with one out in the bottom of the seventh inning — but Norris didn't lose his cool.

It was the Orioles' only hit, and when Mario Guerrero and Jeff Newman drove in runs in the ninth to hand Jim Palmer the loss.

Yankees 5, Mariners 0
Ed Figueroa checked Seattle on five hits for his first shutout and third complete game this year while Lou Piniella and Thurman Munson hit RBI singles and Reggie Jackson unloaded a mammoth three-run homer in the Yankees' victory over the Mariners.

Indians 8, Brewers 7
Bobby Bonds had a home run and three singles and drove in three runs and Toby Harrah also hit a homer in Cleveland's victory. But it was relief pitcher Sid Monge who was the Indians' hero — and nearly the goat. Monge came on with the bases loaded, one out and Cleveland in front 8-4 in the ninth and got Milwaukee's Cecil Cooper on a pop-up.

First Loss For Aycock Juniors Bow To RM

NASHVILLE — E. B. Aycock suffered its first baseball loss of the season yesterday, a 5-1 decision at the hands of Nashville.

Jaguar Billy Brannigan was the leading hitter in the game with a pair, while Richardson hit a home run for Nashville. Payne was the winning pitcher, while Roger Williams suffered the loss.

Aycock, now 11-1, will be at Washington on Tuesday.

BETHEL — Bethel took a pair of games from Chicod yesterday.

In the girls' softball game, Bethel gained a 5-1 victory. B. Purvis and M. Taylor led the Bethel hitting with two each. No one had more than one for Chicod.

In the boys' baseball game, Bethel took a 9-8 win in eight innings. Eddie Roberson led Chicod's hitting with four, including a home run, while Todd Rouse had three and Chris Stancich had 2. T. Hines led Bethel with three.

Kansas City took advantage of four Texas errors, two by Al Oliver, to beat the Ferguson Jenkins and the Rangers.

Kansas City scored twice in the first. Steve Braun and George Brett singled, Darrell Porter's single scored Braun, then Brett scored on Oliver's wild throw from center field. Braun also homered.

Tigers 5, White Sox 4
Ralph Garr drew a bases-loaded walk from Detroit's Milt Wilcox to force in one run in a three-run third and hit a homer for another run in the White Sox's victory.

Lions 5, Kiwanis 0

The Lions opened their 1979 North State Little League season with a 5-0 shutout victory over the Kiwanis yesterday.

Lion hurler William Ward allowed only one hit by the Kiwanis team, a first inning single by William Smith, as he struck out 16 and walked four.

The Lions got all they needed in the first inning, scoring one run. Patrick Rand led off, reaching on a passed ball and in infield out, scoring on an error.

The other four came in the third. Tom Moyer walked, as did Rand. Mike Taylor singled, and Moyer scored on an error. Another misplay scored Rand. Ward doubled in Taylor and scored when Kevin Pace singled.

Ward and Pace each had two hits to lead the Lion hitting.

Pepsi then came back with two in the bottom of the first to get all it needed. Joey Hallow and Paul Sullivan both walked. Fletcher Phillips singled in Hallow, and Clark Stallings walked, loading the bases. Clay Yount walked, scoring Sullivan for a 2-1 lead.

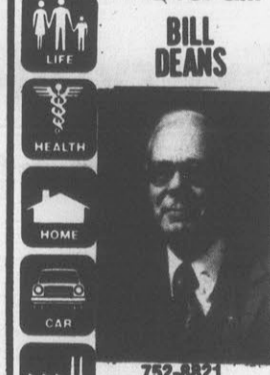

They added another in the second, and picked up three more in the third.

No one had more than one hit for the Moose, who got only three off Stallings, who struck out 11 and walked three. Pepsi got only one hit, a single by Phillips, off two Moose hurlers, but 11 walks helped them along.

EAST CAROLINA'S BASEBALL team opened and closed the 1979 season with victories over powerful South Carolina, but in the 42 games between those two, the Pirates were only moderately successful.

There were high hopes when the season began that the Bucs could make their first trip to the NCAA playoffs since becoming an independent. But after that opening victory, the team struggled for awhile and never put it all together, staying near the .500 mark all year.

The similarities between that season-opening 4-3 win in Columbia, S. C. and Sunday's 5-4 win in Greenville are amazing. Both games were 10-inning affairs with the winning run coming on a Pirate homer. Raymie Styons was the hero Sunday with a three-run shot, as Butch Davis was with his two-run homer in the opening game.

Gamecock pitcher Jeff Twitty suffered the loss in the first game and was the losing pitcher Sunday, hurling just one inning. Those are his only two losses of the season in seven decisions.

South Carolina, which closes out the season with a four-game series in Columbia against second-ranked Miami (Fla.) and may have a make-up game left against the Citadel, was hoping to sweep the Pirates and pick up a host site in the NCAA playoffs.

The Gamecocks beat the Bucs Saturday night 3-2, but were unable to repeat that feat Sunday afternoon. At 31-12, they are still in the running for the tournament, and may even have a shot at hosting the Eastern Regional.

HEAD COACH MONTE Little made his final appearance at the Pirate helm in Sunday's game and Styons said he and the rest of the team were trying to win the game for him.

Little resigned to return to school and pursue his doctorate degree. He will finish up in a year at Middle Tennessee State, he said.

After that, he is unsure what he will do. But whether or not he returns to college coaching, he promised to dedicate himself to helping young men in athletics.

Little will follow with interest the fate of the Pirates next season under new coach Hal Baird, who was Little's top assistant. He also said he would return for next season's Old-Timer's Game.

Little served for three years as head coach of the Pirate baseball team, compiling records of 30-12 and 27-18 to go with this season's 25-19 mark. His first season, he led the Bucs to the Southern Conference championship in the school's final year as an SC member.

The popular Little will be missed next season, but he expressed extreme confidence in Baird's ability to continue the winning tradition of Pirate baseball.

Nationals Play Can You Top This

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer

In early 1950s radio, moderator Peter Donald used to ask the question: "Can You Top This?"

There was a revival of sorts of this radio comedy mainstay in the National League Wednesday night.

Here's how it went:
—The Pittsburgh Pirates blasted Atlanta 17-9 with the help of John Milner's grand slam home run and two homers by Bill Robinson. There were two near brawls as the benches cleared twice in the ninth inning, both teams played the game under protest, five persons were ejected, four were hit by pitches and Atlanta's Gary Matthews also hit a grand slam.

—San Francisco Giants left-hander Vida Blue became the first six-game winner in the league with a 9-2 victory over the Montreal Expos. He went the route, scattering 10 hits in what is becoming typical Blue.

—Philadelphia Phillies right-hander Dick Ruthven became the second six-game winner in the NL with a one-hitter. He went 62-3 innings without yielding a hit, beating the San Diego Padres 2-0 in his third complete game and sixth consecutive win without a loss.

—Houston beat St. Louis 5-4 in 16 innings, but not before three Cards — including Manager Ken Boyer — were ejected. A Houston policeman had to move into the St. Louis dugout after the ninth, when irate Astros fans began pelting the Cards with debris.

Elsewhere in the league, Cincinnati downed the Chicago Cubs 7-4 and Los Angeles whipped the New York Mets 7-2.

Both Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner and right fielder Dave Parker, two of the four Pirates ejected, said it was the craziest game to which they had ever been a party — Parker adding, "from knot hole until today."

The Pirates scored seven runs in the ninth to break open a 10-9 ball game, capped by Milner's slam, which he hit right after the first bench-clearing. Atlanta reliever Gene Garber plunked one off Parker's size-large body, his second hit batsman of the inning.

Giants 9, Expos 2
Blue now has completed four games this season, none of them classics. He has thrown two nine-hitters, a seven-hitter and a six-hitter, and his ERA is 4.62.

Blue struck out six and walked two, pitching out of numerous jams. He retired the side in order only once — the first inning.

Bill Madlock drove in two runs with a single, and Jack Clark smacked a three-run double.

Phillies 2, Padres 0
Ruthven's sixth win was a bit more stylish than Blue's. He didn't allow a hit until Dan Briggs doubled with two out in the seventh. He struck out two and walked two in his second consecutive shutout.

"If you don't get a no-hitter, you shouldn't get upset," Ruthven said. "A no-hitter's gonna take a lot of luck."

Astros 5, Cards 4
Bob Watson's bloop single drove in the Astros' winning run in the bottom of the 16th, ending a long, uproarious ball game.

St. Louis tied it 4-4 with a run in the sixth. Then in the bottom of the ninth, the Astros mounted what looked like the winning rally.

With Jimmy Sexton on first via a single, Terry Puhl laced down a bunt which Cards reliever Will McEnaney fielded and threw to second. Umpire Dave Pallone ruled the throw pulled Garry Templeton off the bag. In the ensuing argument, Boyer, Ted Simmons and Keith Hernandez were ejected.

Reds 7, Cubs 4
George Foster slammed a two-run double to snap a 4-4 tie in the top of the seventh, powering Cincinnati over the Cubs. Paul Moskau, 2-0, worked six innings for the win, and Doug Bair, the third Reds pitcher, got his fifth save with two innings of relief.

Dodgers 7, Mets 2
Don Sutton tossed a three-hitter for his 209th career victory, tying him in that category with all-time Dodgers great Don Drysdale. Sutton, 4-3, retired the final 20 Mets in order.

Ron Cey and Steve Garvey each hit three-run homers.

School Bd. Prexy's Children Stay Home

PORT BYRON, N.Y. (AP) — School Board President Thomas Hempel, unhappy with the education in the classrooms he helps supervise, isn't sending his children to school anymore. "I really think the public school system turns out mental and moral cripples," Hempel said Wednesday. Hempel has been teaching his three youngest children at home for the past eight months, ever since he pulled them out of the parochial schools where he sent them after trying the Port Byron public schools. He now faces charges of parental neglect for keeping his pre-teen-age children out of school. If Hempel is found guilty, the court could take his children away or order them back to the public schools. But Hempel doesn't think he's setting a bad example. "If they understood the problem," he said, "it would be the parents who do send their children to school that are guilty of neglect. I don't think many do understand."

Hempel, who is nearing the end of his five-year term, says he was unhappy with the education given his seven oldest children, who graduated from public high schools. "I always thought it was the kids' fault. I didn't know what to do about it. They kept coming home with funny ideas about life and morality," Hempel said. Federal and state governments have taken control of the public school systems, which are dominated by socialists "who can't see the American point of view," he contends. The Roman Catholic schools didn't teach enough religion and had programs almost identical to the public schools, he said. Hempel says he spends five hours daily schooling his children in such subjects as religion, spelling, arithmetic, and English.

back in school, Van Scoy said. Hempel was in Cayuga County Family Court on Tuesday and will be back next month as the case is argued. Hempel says his children are benefitting from his teaching and he will not give in. "It's been so rewarding they would have to chop me off at the shoulders to make me stop," he said.

characteristic response on the occasion of his 80th birthday today. The ultimate dancer of show business history, Astaire plans to spend his four-score anniversary in his usual modest style — a dinner with daughter Ava, son Fred Jr., and their families, including a half-dozen grandchildren.

in is the profession he pursued from age 5½, when he entered vaudeville with sister Adele. "I won't dance," he said in a telephone interview Wednesday, echoing one of the famous songs associated with him. "I danced up to the age of 70, when I did my last television special. That was too damned long," he added. "It was strenuous, but fortunately I suffered no ill effects. I'm just not going to push my luck."

About his life today: "I'm doing the things I want to do." Besides his family, he is interested in race horses. His greatest success was with Triplicate, who won the Hollywood Gold Cup and earned $244,000 before retirement. "I have a brood mare and couple of foals that are not ready yet," he reported. "I don't know if they ever will be. But I'm hoping."

He relented on his vow for no more dancing in 1976, when good friend Gene Kelly persuaded him to join a brief duet for MGM's musical cavalcade "That's Entertainment, Part 2." The Astaire artistry remains a legend, from the Broadway musicals with Adele to 10 films with Ginger Rogers to other glittering musicals with such partners as Joan Crawford, Rita Hayworth, Joan Fontaine, Audrey Hepburn, Leslie Caron and Cyd Charisse. The choreographer George Balanchine once called him "the greatest dancer in the world," a judgment Astaire termed "undeniably erroneous." He was on best-dressed lists year after year and to many, in his top hat, white tie and tails, he was simply elegance personified. From "Dancing Lady" in 1933 until the 1976 duet with Gene Kelly, Fred Astaire was the impeccable dancer and complete gentleman to generations of movie-goers. And now, while he won't dance, he hasn't retired from acting. His role as a disabled older in a television movie, "A Family Upside Down," won him an Emmy last year. His latest role was in a segment of the outer space series "Battlestar Galactica."

Woman Dies Of Wreck Injuries

HOOKERTON — A Rt. 4, Snow Hill woman died Tuesday the result of an auto accident earlier in the afternoon near here.

Lenoir Memorial. Three rescue units — from Snow Hill, Hookerton and Castoria — transported the victims.

Mrs. Kathryn Davis, 28, died in Pitt Co. Memorial Hospital, Greenville, about 2 p. m. Tuesday of injuries received in a two-car collision between here and Maury shortly after noon.

Oakley said Davis is being charged with failure to stop for a stop sign.

The investigating officer, N. C. State Trooper C. W. Oakley, said Mrs. Davis was a passenger in the car operated by her husband, Mac Charles Davis III of Rt. 4, Snow Hill. He said Davis' car ran through a stop sign at the intersection of N. C. 123 and Rural Paved Road 2400 and was struck by a car driven by Jane Hunter Oregina, 26, of Kinston.

Business Senior Is Recognized

William Garner of Greenville, senior student in the East Carolina University School of Business, is the 1979 winner of an annual honor sponsored by Beta Gamma Sigma honor society in business.

Other passengers in the Davis car were Joel Davis, two, son of the driver and the deceased woman, David Davis, 19, brother of the driver, and Gina Faulkner, 20.

The ECU chapter named Garner the year's Most Outstanding Senior. Garner, a business administration major at ECU, has maintained a perfect 4.0 academic grade point average during his studies here.

Trooper Oakley said none of the persons involved in the wreck, besides Mrs. Davis, suffered serious injury. He said the Mac Charles Davises and their son were taken to Pitt Memorial and David Davis, Miss Faulkner and Ms. Oregina were taken to

Order Probe Of Police Plaints

He'll do other roles if they interest him — "I'm reluctant about jumping into anything; I just say, 'Bring me the script and I'll let you know.'"

BENSON, N.C. (AP) — The Benson Board of Commissioners has ordered its town administrator to investigate the complaints of five police officers who have resigned following disputes with Police Chief Lindell Nordan.

"I don't eat too much, and I don't diet," he says. "I'm basically light; I'm rarely over 135 pounds. I don't go in for any physical torture; I don't jog or anything like that. I like to loosen up and play golf and occasionally some tennis. "The main thing is that I keep moving around. I'm lucky to retain command of whatever athletic ability I've had."

Mayor Whitley Hood said Wednesday that the board met in closed session with officers for about two hours Tuesday night to determine why they had resigned.

Other aspects of the Astaire regimen: no cigarettes — "I hate smoking;" a cocktail at dinnertime; early to bed. He considers himself a lucky man. "Even though 80 is just a round number, I'm glad I got here," he says.

One of the officers said the five resigned mainly because Nordan had pressured them to ask for dismissals of several traffic tickets they had written, including some written to prominent Johnston County residents.

Nordan denied the allegations Tuesday and said he had encouraged the officers to dismiss tickets only if they felt a case warranted dismissal.

Circuit Rider Comes Via TV Screen

By SUE JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
COBBS CREEK, Va. (AP) — He rides into your living room on a horse named Justice in the wee hours, just before television signs off on Saturday night. It's The Circuit Rider, bringing his low-key religious message in a saddlebag.

He dismounts and pulls out a flower or a ladybug or maybe an apple on which he has based the night's program.

"This is just to get a simple Christian message into the hearing of people who don't go to church," says the Rev. William Livermon.

er" appears on 40 to 50 television stations mainly across the Southeast, but Livermon has received mail from as far away as Seattle and Southern California.

He finds it easy to get free public-service air time because "we don't mention denomination or doctrine or beg for money."

Livermon is a circuit-riding minister on television because "it's traditional."

"In the early church in America, ministers rode from church to church, home to home, brush arbor to brush arbor.

"The things that were so glittery in my life — a home, cars, income, security — just didn't fill the bill."

Livermon felt a similar calling to begin the television program early in 1972 after he started riding Justice, a Standardbred former harness racing horse who is a frisky 23 years old.

"When I got to riding the horse, I knew I had to do something worthwhile with him. I couldn't just have fun with him."

The Circuit Rider doesn't identify himself on television, so most of Livermon's communications from viewers are letters addressed to his post office box in Cobbs Creek. But he sometimes gets phone calls or visits.

Livermon said he once got a call from a man in Richmond: "He said, 'Are you The Circuit Rider?' I said 'yes.'...And I asked him, 'How did you get my name?'"

"He said, 'Well, I have an oral surgeon friend...and he had a patient come in from Cobbs Creek. Instead of asking him what he wanted done to his mouth, he asked if he knew The Circuit Rider.'"

"They actually came up to visit in the church, and they're coming back. This oral surgeon had not been in church since 1963, but he came to Powhatan to see what was going on up there."

A patient in the psychiatric ward of St. Mary's Hospital in Richmond once asked The Circuit Rider to visit him. The hospital staff told Livermon, "he's a rough customer. They finally let me in to talk to him."

"All he wanted to do was communicate with somebody. I let him know that I cared...and that I would try to help him."

Livermon doesn't know whether The Circuit Rider has changed the course of anyone's life, but he hopes he's helping people with problems. "All we do is just offer a very simple message, a word of encouragement."

As The Circuit Rider tells you when he rides in at the beginning of each program:

"Justice is the name of a grand old horse. Once he paced the race tracks, and now he comes to bring a friend with a simple secret in his saddlebag."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC AUCTION

The Public is hereby notified that the Board of Aldermen of the Town of Winterville have authorized by resolution adopted February 5, 1979 the sale of certain real property on Jones Street north of the water tower. A legal description of the property to be sold is available in the Office of the Town Clerk during normal office hours. Sale shall be by public auction to be held May 12, 1979, 12:00 noon on the property site. Terms of the sale shall be cash to the highest bidder. Starting bid will be $41,000.00. Any offer or bid must be accepted and confirmed by the Board of Aldermen before the sale will be effective. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Walter A. Dail
Mayor

Livermon in real life is a Methodist minister in Powhatan County who hangs his saddlebag over the altar rail on Sunday mornings. He was assigned to a church in Cobbs Creek in Mathews County when his program began, and The Circuit Rider still receives mail here.

"I hear more from college kids, drunks and dope addicts than anybody else, and the preponderance is from college kids wandering around, no lessons to get, no money to spend, looking for something interesting."

And the country preacher with his homespun wisdom has become a folk hero of sorts to the young.

One young man in Livermon's congregation hadn't heard of The Circuit Rider until he entered the University of Virginia.

"He had never said half a dozen words to me until the first weekend he came home from school, and he stopped me in the vestibule. He said, 'Mr. Livermon, I want you to know The Circuit Rider's big at the university.'"

"He said they had several groups on campus who would sit up and try to guess what The Circuit Rider was going to pull out of the bag."

"I had a wedding sometime ago...a beautiful wedding, and they had a rock group to come out and play. And there I was with my robes on, and all of a sudden the drummer said, 'The Circuit Rider! Man, I've seen you a thousand times.'"

"Justice and the Circuit Rid-

"They preached wherever they could find anybody to preach to."

Livermon, 62, a portly man with a hearty laugh whose face is lined with character, wants to do his television preaching to late-night viewers.

He tried the program in a good time slot, with sponsors paying for it. "All I heard from were the Sunday school teachers. They wanted printed copies of the object lessons to teach the children."

He stumbled on the Saturday sign-off time when it was offered to him free by a man at a Roanoke station. "It immediately opened up this whole new area."

The Circuit Rider uses objects from nature to illustrate his three-minute messages because "I'm sure that God has built a real lesson into everything he ever created."

For instance, one program filmed on a boat on the Piankankank River features a spat, or seed oyster. A spat must find something solid to attach itself to in order to live. People, too, need something worthwhile to attach themselves to, Livermon says.

The Circuit Rider program is a family production, with Livermon's wife of 43 years, Thelma, doing the filming.

Mrs. Livermon "can't take a picture with a Brownie or an Instamatic" but learned to operate a movie camera when they found a professional photographer cost $50 an hour. She also edits the film and has learned how to add the sound track.

"You see, we've done this on a shoestring," says Mrs. Livermon. "We've done it ourselves because that's the only way we could have done it."

Livermon, a Rocky Mount, N.C., native, was 42 years old when he gave up a five-figure income as a postal inspector in Martinsville to become a minister with an annual salary of $3,800.

"A lot of people would say, 'Well, he decided to begin to preach at that time,' but I didn't decide. I was called. I didn't want to preach. I was making money and having a good time, traveling around..."

But "I got hungry and began to search.

Record Degrees For Engineers

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. chemical-engineering colleges will award degrees in June to an all-time record number of engineers, notes Chemical Engineering magazine.

Bachelor degrees in chemical engineering will be awarded to 5,500 students, eclipsing last year's all-time high of 4,621.

The publication says demand for chemical engineers will continue strong for the next three years. Growth, however, will not keep pace with the "onslaught of graduates."

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's planetary aspects can cause a desire in others to act in a rash and impulsive manner without proper analysis of what is likely to follow. Be alert at all times.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can accomplish a whole lot if you act with restraint at this time. Make sure that you keep your bookkeeping straight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Something turns up that will enable you to come to a better understanding with a most talented person. Follow the advice of experts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take care of personal affairs early in the day for best results. Steer clear of one who is detrimental to your progress.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Curb that desire to go out for recreation and engage in creative work that can bring you fine benefits.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use tact at home with family members since planetary conditions are not right. Don't lose your temper with anyone.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take care you don't do anything today that could cut down your present security. Find better ways to add to abundance.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle business matters early in the day so you will have more time for personal affairs later. Take needed health treatments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You find that others oppose you in your wishes today, so take it easy and gain them later in the week. Be tactful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The private work you do today can be most helpful in gaining your aims in the days and weeks ahead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Look to friends to assist you in gaining a most cherished wish, but don't be forceful. Let your intuition guide you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take no risks whatever, either in business or personal matters at this time. Be more active and accomplish more.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study new outlets that could help you to express your finest talents and get more benefits in the future. Express happiness.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those remarkable persons who is capable of developing a plan and carrying through with it to the last detail and become a huge success. There is musical ability in this chart which should not be neglected.

The bidding:

South West North East

2 NT Pass 3 NT Pass

Pass Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♠.

When a ship is in danger of foundering, even precious cargo is jettisoned in the interests of safety. Similarly, at the bridge table a high card can constitute an unwarranted hazard, and should be dumped at the first opportunity.

Purists might claim that South was a point short of his two no trump opening bid. However, his plethora of aces and kings gave his hand added weight, so we do not quarrel with his choice. North had just enough to raise to game, and West made the textbook lead of fourth-best from his longest and strongest suit.

East won the first trick with the ace of spades and declarer contributed the seven to the trick. In that brief moment declarer's chance to make the contract disappeared.

The three of spades was ducked to the queen, declarer won the spade continuation and entered dummy with the king of diamonds. The heart finesse succeeded, but when the king failed to drop under the ace, declarer could come to no more than eight tricks.

The winning play at trick one was for declarer to abandon the hope of making two spade tricks and drop the king under the ace. That would have been no act of charity. Declarer's side of the boat was too heavy, and the jettison would help to balance matters.

This dramatic play would not have cost a trick—it merely postpones the taking of it and transfers the trick to dummy. That means that dummy will now have two entries: one in spades and the king of diamonds. Thus, declarer will be able to take two heart finesses, thereby making four heart tricks and his contract.

Possession of too many high cards can, at times, be a millstone around one's neck. Tenaciously holding on to one at the wrong time has proved costly to many a card-player.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal format. Do they know something you don't? Chevy Chase Appears Anxious To Go

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — You get the feeling, talking to Chevy Chase, that this child of television is in a hurry to leave the business. The TV business, not show business. He's in the middle of a three-year contract with NBC, a pact born of his performance on "Saturday Night Live," NBC's late-night inspiration. Tonight we get a Chevy Chase special, only his second in two years. You get the feeling he'll do another next year, and then look for the first express out of television.

Some Chase sentiments on TV: "Would I do a series? Nooooo. I signed a contract expressly stating, 'no series.' I think it would be a very dumb thing to do. If I did one, that would be so much exposure, that I would be unable to do films."

Oh. Maybe that's why we haven't seen much of him since he left "Saturday Night" two years ago. That was when everybody was saying he'd be the next Johnny Carson. Was there anything to that talk?

"That's horsetuff. Nobody asked me to be the next Johnny Carson, and I don't want to be. And it's still happening, I still read about it — 'Chevy Chase is going to be the next guy there.'"

"Let me tell you what the facts are. I'm with NBC for three specials. This is my second. I never had any other deal with them. That's why I'm out of that (the limelight). It (television) is not a medium in which you can do a whole lot, unless it's a late-night show like 'Saturday Night,' and then, you don't have prime-time exposure or prime-time force."

"And movies appear to have more prestige. I don't know if they actually do or not, but they do afford you a hell of a lot more freedom. I want to do films because I want that freedom. And if you have a series, nobody's going to pay to see your movies. NBC has no option of any kind on me."

So, besides an annual special, what's Chevy doing with himself these days? Aw, you guessed.

"I've been very busy, writing scripts. I have a movie called 'Saturday Matinee,' which is ready to go right after this special. Back to the freedom of movies, and why he wouldn't do a TV series (you care, don't you?):

"Films are not sponsored like TV programs. On a network, you have a standards and practices thing (censoring department) to deal with. This would not allow you to use language that would be considered 'R' rated in films. It goes without saying, but clearly, the freedom I'm speaking of is the freedom to touch on controversy you can't touch on television. Would you see Woody Allen doing a television series?"

Well, no. I wonder what Chevy's going to do with this freedom, what angst is screaming for release?

"I'm interested in only one thing, and that's laughs. I don't care how I go about doing it. If it's picking my nose, I'll do that." Right. Now about tonight's special, "The Chevy Chase National Humor Test"...

Retained Lead For 17th Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Bolstered by high ratings for shows featuring a rather odd trio of characters, "Mork and Mindy" and "Ike," ABC-TV swept to first place in the A.C. Nielsen Co.'s ratings for the 17th week in a row.

An episode of "Mork and Mindy" at 8 p.m. EDT last Thursday grabbed first place in the ratings for the week ending May 6, and "Mork and Mindy" at 8:30 the same night was tied for second with Parts I and III of "Ike," the network's three-part war years biography of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Part II of "Ike" was 15th in the ratings.

Only two programs, the Miss U.S.A. beauty contest and "60 Minutes," both on CBS, stood between ABC and a clean sweep of Nielsen's first 15 places. ABC's heavy representation at the top added up to a rating for the week of 20.5. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 20.5 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to ABC.

The week's No. 1 show had a rating of 27.6. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with TV, 27.6 percent saw at least part of the program.

All three networks scored with specials in a week sprinkled liberally with reruns. The Country Music Awards show on ABC was No. 16, NBC's "The Best of 'Saturday Night Live' Part II," was No. 27, and "Castaways from Gilligan's Island," also on NBC, was 32nd.

NBC's best regular program was a repeat of "CHiPs," No. 20.

Each of the networks was represented at the bottom of the ratings: "Mackenzies of Paradise Cove" on ABC was 55th, followed by "Supertrain" on NBC, a "CBS Reports" news special on the Three-Mile Island nuclear accident, "The Osmond Family Show" on ABC and NBC's "Highcliffe Manor."

Here are the week's Top 10 programs:

"Mork and Mindy," 8 p.m., with a rating of 27.6 representing 20.6 million homes, ABC; "Mork and Mindy," 8:30 p.m., "Ike," Part I, and "Ike," Part III, all 27.1 or 20.2 million, all ABC; "Three's Company," 28.5 or 19.7 million, and "Laverne and Shirley," 26.3 or 19.6 million, both ABC; "Miss U.S.A. Beauty Pageant," 25.5 or 19 million, CBS; "Happy Days," 23 or 17.1 million, "Taxi," 22.9 or 17 million, and "Fantasy Island," 22.2 or 16.5 million, all ABC.

The next 10 shows: "Love Boat," ABC; "60 Minutes," CBS; "Charlie's Angels," CBS; "Beach Patrol" and "Samurai," and "Ike," Part II, all ABC; "Country Music Awards," NBC; "Eight is Enough," ABC; "Alice" and "Dukes of Hazzard," both CBS, and "CHiPs," NBC.

ANOTHER MILESTONE

LONDON (AP) — The London production of "The Mousetrap," Agatha Christie's long-lived thriller, passed another milestone, & it's 11,000th continuous performance Wednesday night.

Bomb Threat At Nuclear Plant

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Officials have tentatively identified the chemical used to contaminate fuel elements at Veeco's Surry nuclear plant as sodium hydroxide, but not all are ready to describe the incident as sabotage.

Virginia Electric & Power Co. faced another problem at Surry Wednesday night when a phoned-in bomb threat forced the evacuation of non-essential personnel for a few hours.

An anonymous caller phoned a telephone operator from a pay phone in Norfolk about 7:45 p.m. and said there was a bomb at the plant, said James Surrat, duty officer for the state office of Emergency Services.

He said Veeco's chief of security flew to the plant immediately and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission was notified.

Veeco personnel searched the plant for a bomb but found nothing, said C.M. Stallings Jr., Veeco vice president, and the employees at the plant, which is not operating now, were back at work by 11:45 p.m.

The bomb threat came two days after Veeco officials discovered that a white crystalline substance had been poured over 62 of 64 new, unirradiated fuel elements.

"I understand it's (the substance) sodium hydroxide," said James P. O'Reilly, director of the NRC's Region 2.

Sodium hydroxide, a highly alkaline substance, is stored in large drums in several locations on the site, a Veeco spokesman said, and is used, among other things, to clean water purifying equipment.

It also is kept on hand for use in the event of a radiation release in the reactor containment buildings.

The substance is still being tested for positive identification.

Veeco has labeled the incident sabotage, and the NRC is calling it "industrial sabotage."

But the FBI is holding back pending its investigation because sabotage legally means an act against the national defense, according to William Ervin of the Richmond FBI office.

In view of the tight security at the plant, however, both FBI and Veeco officials agree it probably was an inside job, and that theory would be bolstered if it's found the chemical used was one readily available at the site.

The NRC sent inspectors to Surry and North Anna, Veeco's other nuclear plant, to check security measures and see if any NRC regulations were violated.

A Veeco spokesman said the fuel elements at North Anna in Louisa County have been checked and no tampering was found.

The fuel elements at Surry are housed in a building between the two nuclear reactors and are accessible only to someone who has a special card that activates the door.

Whenever a card is used, the time, date and identity of the card-owner is recorded on tape. Stallings said those records have been impounded and are being examined by the FBI and the NRC.

Donald Burke, resident NRC

inspector at Surry, said more than half of the 250 Veeco employees there carry the cards. No cards have been reported lost or stolen, Stallings said.

Construction crews are at the plant for repair work on Unit 2's steam generators, but Stallings said there was no reason for them to have authorized access to the fuel storage plant.

Whoever did get into the storage area and the unirradiated fuel elements also had access to radioactive spent fuel rods, which are kept in a pool of water.

Veeco officials said Wednesday a visual examination by a metallurgist from Westinghouse, the fuel supplier, indicated no damage.

Stallings said the fuel elements were being removed and hosed down with pure mineral water and later will be immersed in cleansing baths. If no damage is found, he said, the cleanup process should be completed within two weeks.

The fuel elements were to be used sometime in late summer or early fall to refuel Surry Unit 2, now out of operation for repairs and NRC-ordered stress tests. Unit 1 also is down for the tests.

Iran Raising Price Of Oil

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran has decided to increase the price of a barrel of its crude oil by 60 cents beginning May 15, oil sources reported today.

The move will raise the price of a barrel of Iranian light quality crude to $17.17 and a barrel of the heavy grade to $16.64.

The 60-cent increase affects all existing contracts, the sources said, and is in addition to a surcharge imposed April 15.

At that time, Iran slapped a $1.90 surcharge on light crude and $1.80 on heavy crude, over the basic prices set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

An official of the National Iranian Oil Company said an announcement about the price increase was expected later today.

The 3.6 percent increase on all grades of oil came as a surprise here and was expected to upset the tenuous stability into which oil prices had settled.

Post-revolutionary Iran was producing an average of 3.9 million barrels a day, compared to 6.2 million barrels during the regime of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. About 750,000 barrels is now set aside for the domestic market and the rest is exported.

Participant In Recent Session

ECU News Bureau Dr. Louis J. Reith, catalog librarian at East Carolina University, was a recent participant in the recent 14th International Congress on Medieval Studies at Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo.

Dr. Reith chaired a session on "The Reformation in the Habsburg Lands" which featured papers on the progress of the Lutheran and Calvinist Reformation in Slovakia and Hungary during the 16th century.

Due to the unexpected illness of Prof. Mihaly Bucsay, a church historian at the Evangelical Academy in Budapest, Dr. Reith translated his paper on "Peter Melius and Hungarian Protestantism" and read it in Prof. Bucsay's place.

HARRIS IN CONCERT

The Gospel Choir of York Memorial A. M. E. Zion Church will present Mrs. Rosa Harris in concert Sunday, May 13, 4 p.m., at the church. The public is invited to attend.

Home Tours Saturday, Sunday

Group Ten, an organization of ten local builders, announced that its first Tour of Homes will be held Saturday and Sunday from 1-6 p.m.

Van Fleming III, general manager of Group Ten, said that the tour will involve homes located in various local neighborhoods. All of the tour stops will be marked from the street, he noted.

According to Fleming, Group Ten is in the process of conducting a study of housing costs and the tour will tie in with the study in furnishing feedback from the public on possible cost-saving ideas.

Fleming explained that the organization is looking into the feasibility of adding energy features to new homes over and above the features designed in the Greenville Utilities' E-300 program. He added that all of the Group Ten participants build under the E-300 program.

The spokesman said that the builders are looking into the elimination of some of the cosmetic features of home construction in an effort to stabilize new home prices.

Fleming pointed out as an example, that the organization is studying the marketability of installing wood burning heaters in homes rather than more costly fireplaces as one cost-saving feature.

He said that Group Ten, which has been in operation here since last November, plans to make the Tour of Homes a semi-annual event, with a second tour scheduled for the fall.

Spokesmen for U.S. Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C.; U.S. Rep. Walter B. Jones, D-N.C.; and Gov. Jim Hunt all said the elected officials oppose any federal acquisition of the Currituck County Outer Banks and Virginia's Sandbridge.

Large Turnout Opposes Acquiring Outer Banks

CURRITUCK, N.C. (AP) — About 300 people turned out at Currituck High School Wednesday night to oppose the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's proposal to acquire large sections of Currituck County's Outer Banks and Virginia's Sandbridge.

Spokesmen for U.S. Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C.; U.S. Rep. Walter B. Jones, D-N.C.; and Gov. Jim Hunt all said the elected officials oppose any federal acquisition of the Currituck County Outer Banks.

"The proposed land acquisition in this case is along the Currituck County Outer Banks, one of the few remaining areas across this nation which is available to our citizens where they may enjoy life without the rigid restrictions imposed by an all-powerful government," said Floyd Lupton, an aide to Jones.

Mike Mann, an aide to Morgan, said the Department of the Interior has had problems with its citizen neighbors elsewhere on North Carolina's Outer Banks.

"We're not in favor of any more acquisition," Mann said. Dr. J. Parker Chesson, chairman of the North Carolina Coastal Resources Commission (CRC), read into the record a letter from Hunt criticizing the Fish and Wildlife Service for poor communication and failure to involve state and local governments in planning for the protection of North Carolina's Outer Banks.

Chesson said the CRC, the state watchdog on coastal development, will oppose any acquisition of the Currituck Outer Banks by the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Currituck County Commissioner Ernie Bowden drew intermittent applause during a 35-minute dissection of the Fish and Wildlife Service proposal. Bowden said the Department of the Interior had bent its 1938 mandate from Congress to restrict access to wildlife refuges and instead was attempting to eliminate all access to those refuges.

Bowden's questioning failed to draw a specific response from Fish and Wildlife Service officials on the definition of the "buffer zone" that would separate protected wetlands from high ground that would remain open to the public.

Bowden said the Currituck Outer Banks north of Corolla are oriented to Virginia because of geography. The nearest hospital in Virginia is 23 miles away, but the nearest hospital in North Carolina is 88 miles away in Elizabeth City, Bowden said.

He said the Fish and Wildlife Service plan to close Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge to Outer Banks residents Dec. 31 would cut them off from their historic ties with Virginia.

David Janes, a Fish and Wildlife Service official who will coordinate the preparation of an environmental impact statement on the takeover proposal, said the five alternative acquisition plans are "not hard and fast."

"What we're trying to do here tonight is to seek suggestions and alternatives that we may not have considered," Janes said.

Front Porch Value Cited

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A North Carolina doctor says an old-fashioned front porch could solve a lot of mental problems that professional therapists are handling.

Dr. William DeMaria said years ago the porch was the place where people would talk out their day-to-day problems with family and neighbors. He said the lack of front porches on modern houses has caused people to become neighborhood isolationists.

DeMaria, medical director of Blue-Cross-Blue Shield of North Carolina, said when the front porch was fashionable, neighbors would gather in the evenings to share problems. He said the result was that people would go to bed without problems and mental discomforts hanging over them.

Severe problems, too delicate for front-porch discussion, were talked out on the back porch with a close friend, he said.

DeMaria said the disappearance of the front porch has meant decreasing communications with our neighbors. He said informal porch chats have been replaced by professional therapy and "we have to go out and pay for it."

He said 85 percent of everyday mental discomforts could be handled by friends and neighbors at home rather than by professional therapists. "We seem to have lost that wonderful art of talking, not only to our families, but also our neighbors."

DeMaria was one of three health officials who spoke Tuesday at a meeting at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte on preventing health problems. They offered ideas on how to improve health care and reduce health-care costs.

NATIONAL REPRESENTATION WHEN BUYING AND SELLING REAL ESTATE

It won't kill crabgrass, but it gets rid of houses fast.

Between one mowing and the next, your house could change owners. And you know that's fast!

How can we be so sure?

Because we're a member of the Homes For Living Network.

When our sign goes up a lot of things happen. With our exclusive Homes For Living magazine, a picture and description of your home can be available to home buyers in our area. And, through our 2,000 affiliated offices, we'll reach potential out-of-town buyers.

After all, they account for one-third of all home sales.

When you consider that our 25,000 Homes For Living sales associates have more than 10-billion dollars in home sales each year, you know we don't let any crabgrass grow under our feet.

Call us today.
