

House Democrats Say No To Carter Oil Decontrol Decision

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats shouted their opposition today to President Carter's decision to lift price controls from domestically produced oil.

On a voice vote, the House Democratic Caucus approved a resolution expressing support for continued price controls.

Passage of the resolution came after the caucus rejected 124 to 96 an attempt at a compromise by White House allies.

The compromise would have urged the president to keep controls on oil at least until Congress enacted a stiff "windfall profits" tax to keep oil companies from profiteering from deregulation.

Today's vote was a major rebuff to President Carter's efforts to reduce U.S. reliance on imported oil by encouraging more domestic production and by making petroleum products more expensive.

A recorded vote on the resolution was postponed until Thursday morning. However, it appeared unlikely that Thursday's vote would overturn today's action.

Carter has announced he will begin lifting price controls on domestically produced crude oil on June 1, allowing the price to rise to world levels by mid-1981.

In a test vote Tuesday, House Democrats expressed opposition to that move by nearly a 2-to-1 margin.

The caucus of all 276 House Democrats was meeting again today to take a final vote on the resolution supporting a continuation of controls.

Carter's decision to lift price controls is not subject to congressional approval and the resolution attacking it is nonbinding.

However, passage of the resolution would put the president at odds with his own party in the House on the controversial issue. And it would be another embarrassment to an administration that has seen other Carter energy proposals rejected by Congress.

Thus, to slow the anti-decontrol momentum, a group of seven Democrats usually aligned with the White House on energy issues announced it would offer the amendment on the tax would overturn today's action.

letter, the lawmakers said, "We believe a preferred position for our caucus would be to set the decontrol in motion only when a stiff windfall profits tax is established."

Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., main sponsor of the anti-decontrol resolution, claims the new amendment would confuse the issue and said he will oppose it.

Offering the proposed "compromise" were Reps. John Dingell of Michigan, Richard A. Gephardt of Missouri, Richardson Preyer of North Carolina, Joseph L. Fisher of Virginia, Philip R. Sharp of Indiana and Vic Fazio and Tony Coelho, both of California.

On a 153-82 vote, the House Democratic Caucus rejected an attempt Tuesday to kill Moffett's resolution.

"This is a complete repudiation of the president's position," said Rep. Edward J. Markey, D-Mass., after the vote. "The Democratic Party has put the president on notice that the litmus test of the 1980 elections will be how he comes to grips with energy problems."

Meanwhile, the Senate was taking up a bill today that some senators claim could be a substitute for the president's rejected standby gasoline rationing plan.

Plan A Kennedy Draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is picking up four more endorsements for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination despite his insistence that he supports President Carter for a second term.

The latest unsolicited support comes from a group of congressmen who were holding a news conference today to announce formation of the Committee for a Democratic Alternative, as the vehicle for promoting opposition to Carter for the 1980 nomination.

Kennedy is their choice for an alternative. Taking the step to draft Kennedy are Reps. John Conyers of Michigan, Richard Ottinger of New York, Edward Beard of Rhode Island, Fortney H. (Pete) Stark of California and Richard Nolan of Minnesota. Nolan announced earlier this month that he was starting a draft Kennedy drive.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said he discussed presidential politics last week with Kennedy and the senator repeated his intention to support Carter.

O'Neill also said he thought Kennedy, a fellow Massachusetts Democrat, could beat Carter.

"The truth of the matter is that if Kennedy were to run, Carter couldn't get the nomination in my opinion," said the speaker, who emphasized he still supports Carter.

Sen. Daniel P. Moynihan said Tuesday that he also thought Kennedy probably could take the nomination away from Carter if he wanted to.

The New York senator said he thought the administration is so preoccupied with Kennedy's reactions it has lost its basic ability to govern.

Proffer List Of Priorities

City officials today presented the priority list for the Greenville area in regard to the seven-year Highway Improvement Plan at a N.C. Board of Transportation hearing in Morehead City.

The Greenville delegation made the highway priority presentation at a Division Two public hearing held by the board to update the seven-year plan.

The priority list is keyed by a request by the city for consideration of Highway 264 Bypass and western loop improvements in the overall plan. The list was adopted at the May 10 meeting of the City Council.

Attending the hearing at Carteret Technical Institute today were City Councilman and Mayor Pro Tem Charles Vincent, City Manager Ed Wyatt, City Engineer Ron Sewell, and Director of Planning Bobby Roberson. Vincent attended for Mayor Percy Cox, who had to attend a funeral and was unable to make the trip.

The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce was also expected to have a delegation at the hearing.

Adjourn Rather Than Face Vote

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — House and Senate appropriations committees adjourned their meeting today rather than face a vote on an effort to reduce state-financed abortions for low-income women.

The panels broke up this morning without deciding on the motion by Rep. Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson, to cut in half the $1 million a year budget for state-financed abortions.

The effect of Campbell's move, if approved in a later meeting, would be to eliminate state payment for elective abortions by Medicaid recipients, legislative staff analysts said. Campbell said he wanted to continue state funding of abortions for women who were victims of sexual abuse such as rape or incest, for minors and for mentally-incompetent women.

Campbell said North Carolina has the most liberal regulations of any state in the South for providing money for abortions to poor women. Congress has eliminated federal funding of elective abortions for Medicaid recipients, and North Carolina is now using state money to pay for them.

"I think it's a question of whether we want to be more liberal in North Carolina than the federal government," Campbell said.

Caught After A Chase

GOLDSBORO, N. C. (AP) — A highspeed highway chase through Wilson County ended early today with the arrest of a man sought in the slaying of a neighbor couple, Wayne County authorities said.

They said Larry Wade Price, 23, of Mount Olive, was held without bond in the Wayne County jail on charges of murder in the shotgun deaths of Nelson Glenn Cashwell and his wife, Barbara, both 38.

Sheriff W.I. Adams said Price's wife, Peggy, left her husband Tuesday afternoon and went to stay with the Cashwells. He said Price went after her and the Cashwells tried to prevent him from getting to his wife. It was then that Price allegedly shot and killed the couple, Adams said.

Adams said the Cashwells' son witnessed the shooting. Deputies said the victims apparently were killed by a single shotgun blast.

Motherhood Is A Big Surprise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — For several years, Rita Martin suffered from gallbladder problems.

So when she experienced recent stomach discomfort, she simply thought it was her gallbladder acting up.

It wasn't. On Friday, Mrs. Martin, 28, and her husband, Patrick, became the proud parents of an 8-pound, 4-ounce boy.

She said she had no idea until Thursday that she was pregnant. "I felt movement (during the recent months of pregnancy) but I felt I was having gas or stomach pains," the 5-foot, 6-inch, 240-pound new mother said Monday.

Judges Again Put Off Murderer's Execution

STARKE, Fla. (AP) — John A. Spenkelink's life was spared early today, only hours before the 30-year-old murderer was to die in Florida's electric chair, when federal judges in Atlanta and Washington granted separate appeals for a stay of execution.

"Praise God!" Spenkelink shouted as the news flashed across a television screen outside his cell a few feet from the death chamber.

His Episcopal minister, the Rev. Tom Feamster, gave Spenkelink Holy Communion at 1 a.m. — just one hour before guards had been due on Death Row to shave Spenkelink's head and leg to increase the efficiency of the electric chair.

Less than 12 hours before, on Tuesday afternoon, Spenkelink's Death Row companion, Willie Jasper Darden, also was granted a stay of execution when a federal judge agreed to hear his appeal.

The executions would have been the first in the United States since a Utah firing squad shot Gary Mark Gilmore more than two years ago.

Gilmore had refused to pursue court appeals, and these would have been the first executions of prisoners against their will in the United States since 1967.

Spenkelink was to have been executed at 7 a.m., Darden at 8.

But minutes after midnight, in Atlanta, Judge Ellbert B. Tuttle of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals issued his stay on an appeal which former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark had helped seek. Tuttle said he would set a hearing date today.

Graduation At PTI Friday

Pitt Technical Institute's graduation exercises will be held Friday, May 25, 8 p.m., in the Hendrix Theatre of the Mendenhall Student Center, East Carolina University.

Robert Griffin, plant manager of Procter and Gamble Paper Products Company, will deliver the graduation address.

Prior to coming to Greenville in 1976 in his present capacity with Procter and Gamble, Griffin had manufacturing assignments in Texas, New York, Illinois, and Tennessee. Griffin has been active in the Greenville community, in such organizations as the Chamber of Commerce, Industrial Development Commission, Redevelopment Commission, Rotary Club and the East Carolina University Foundation. A member of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, Griffin holds chemical engineering degrees from Rice University.

Pitt Technical Institute graduates will receive Associate of Applied Science degrees and diplomas at the Friday exercises. The public is invited to attend.

DID LETTERS DO IT?

I would like to know why the new ECU sign at the corner of Charles Street and Greenville Boulevard was turned off. If it was because of the two letters that were published in "The Daily Reflector," I think it's ridiculous. I personally like the sign. P. S.

Wayne Newnam, Director of Sports Promotion at East Carolina University, said the sign was turned off because of a directive from the Inspections Department of the City of Greenville which alleged that the sign violates a zoning ordinance of the city. The sign, according to a letter received from the Inspections Department by the University, is in an "office and institutions" zone and therefore there can be no advertising signs erected.

Newnam said University and City officials are meeting on the matter. In the meantime the sign has been turned off part of the time and has at other times displayed the stationary words, "Back the Pirates." No advertising has been done since the directive was received.

Trudeau Is Unseated In Canada Vote

By CHARLES HANLEY
Associated Press Writer

TORONTO (AP) — Joe Clark, a smalltown politician whose Progressive Conservatives toppled the formidable Pierre Elliott Trudeau and the 16-year reign of his Liberal Party in Canada's election, pledged today to put "a new spirit, a new life" into this divided land.

Trudeau, who became prime minister on a wave of "Trudeumania" that swept Canada 11 years ago, now becomes the leader of the opposition in the House of Commons.

In New York, his estranged wife, Margaret, said "Pierre Trudeau will be the best opposition leader known to the world." She made the comment at the Manhattan disco Studio 54 early today.

Because the Conservatives failed to win a majority of seats in Tuesday's vote for a new House of Commons, the 39-year-old Clark must head a minority government that analysts say is not likely to last more than a year before he calls a new election.

But the outcome nevertheless may prove to be a turning point for Canada since the new prime minister now is the one who must try to keep separatist-minded Quebec from seceding and splitting the country in two.

With decisive returns in for all but two of the 282 districts, the Conservatives apparently had won 135 seats, seven short of a Commons majority.

The Liberals had 115 seats, the socialist New Democrats

26, and the right-leaning Social Credit 6, according to unofficial tabulations.

In the last Parliament, which had 18 fewer seats than this new one, Liberals held a 133-98 edge over the opposition Conservatives.

Popular vote totals, lagging behind, showed the Conservatives with 2.3 million votes (32 percent), the Liberals with 3.3 million (45 percent), the New Democrats with 1.2 million (17 percent) and Social Credit with 340,000 (4.5 percent).

These early vote totals were distorted because they included the heavy Liberal vote in Quebec but not the big Conservative vote in the West.

The 59-year-old Trudeau, a smooth but tough political fighter who was the longest-serving government leader among the Western powers, told a tearful Liberal crowd at an Ottawa hotel early today he would "recommend to my colleagues that we hand the government over."

"Keep smiling and let's go on fighting," he urged his followers.

Trudeau returns to Parliament now as the member of his home district in Montreal, where he handily won re-election, as expected.

Clark, who becomes the world's youngest elected major government leader, made his victory speech early today in Spruce Grove, Alberta, not far from the Rocky Mountain foothills town of High River where he grew up.

Early Morning Death

FATALITY — Investigators and members of the Farmville Rescue Squad stand by the body of a Farmville man early this morning after he was killed by a car near Farmville. Trooper H. L. Cox identified the man as Wayne McCoy Clemmons, of Farmville. The official said

Clemmons was apparently lying in the west-bound travel lane of U.S. 264 just outside Farmville. Cox said a car driven by Donald Ray Williams of Farmville was traveling west toward Farmville and did not see Clemmons in the traffic lane. Clemmons was dead at the scene. No charges were made in the 1 a.m. accident. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Author 'Swaps' Ghost Stories

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE — Author Nancy Roberts spent last Wednesday at Farmville Middle School here swapping ghost stories with students.

Mrs. Roberts, who lives in Charlotte, is a free lance writer of books and audio-visual scripts and a photographer. She has 18 books to her credit, seven of which are "ghost books."

Her ghost stories, collected from all over the United States and published by Doubleday, seem to be loved by young people, she said, though they're actually for people "nine to 90."

Some of the titles are "Appalachian Ghosts," "Great Southern Ghosts," "America's Most Haunted Places" and "Ghosts of the Wild West."

Research is fun, she said, for herself and her daughter, Nancy Lee, and her son, David, who often travel to remote places with her to learn more about stories related to her by readers.

Mrs. Roberts does not confine herself to writing about ghosts, only, however. She's also published such varied books as "North Carolina — The Goodliest Land," written by her and photographed by her former husband, Bruce Roberts who is now chief photographer for "Southern Living" Magazine, and "David," a book written by her about her son, David, who is retarded.

She also does article assignments for magazines and has formed her own audio-visual film company. Her filmstrip, "The Blue Ridge — America's First Frontier," done before she formed her own company, won an award in the Rocky Mountain

The 1979 canning season is quickly approaching us. Canning is one way of saving our abundant garden-harvest for use later in the year.

All vegetables (low acid) are to be canned in a pressure canner. Your canner should be checked each year to make sure that it is working accurately.

A pressure canner and/or cooker repair clinic will be held on Tuesday, May 29, from 1-3 p.m., at the Agricultural Extension Office, 203 W. Third Street, Greenville.

Most brands, of any size or age, can be checked for gauge accuracy, gaskets, bands, and lugs. A factory representative will be here to render this service. You pay only for the parts and pieces used to put your canner back in good working order.

Literature and conservation materials will be available, and I will be on hand to answer some of your questions about conservation.

Don't forget, we have Teletip that's also available to help you with questions.

Oh yes, you may be one of the readers who has canned vegetables without a pressure canner and have decided this is the year to buy one. Here are some points and tips to help you.

Buying A Pressure Canner
Pressure canners are made of cast or pressed aluminum. They come in sizes measured according to loose-contents capacity. Most popular sizes are the 16-quart canner-which holds seven quart jars or nine pint jars — and the 22-quart pressure canner, which holds seven quarts or 18 pint jars.

A pressure canner is a heavy kettle, with a tight-fitting cover that can be clamped or locked down to make the kettle steam tight.

The canner must be equipped with an accurate gauge — or weight — to register the amount of steam in the canner and to control pressure.

There are usually two types of pressure gauges: a dial gauge and a weight gauge or control. The dial gauge is usually attached to the cover of the canner and has a needle that indicates pressure. The dial gauge should be checked each year for accuracy.

The weight gauge has a weight that is placed on the vent pipe and will jiggle to indicate and control the pressure. Since there is nothing that can get out of order — it does not need to be checked.

All pressure canner covers should have some kind of safety valve. The safety valve may be a part of a pet-cock or vent — or it may be separate in the form of a metal or rubber plug. Another essential part of a canner is a rack or wire basket to hold jars off the bottom of the canner.

There should also be a gasket or rubber or a rubber-like compound — to keep steam from leaking out around the cover. Most gaskets can be removed for replacement as needed. In fact, some can be reversed after a period of time to insure a tighter seal.

There are also canners that have metal to metal seals. The covers must fit tight enough to prevent leakage. If leakage does occur — don't use the container for pressure canning.

Spring Picnic Given ADAP Clients Thursday

The Alpha Omega Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha International Sorority honored ADAP clients Thursday evening at a spring picnic.

A meeting was held at the home of Joan Robinson after the dinner. Barbara Zicherman presided. A Founder's Day salad dinner was held at the home of Shirley Westbrook. The 50th anniversary of ESA is being celebrated this year. Mrs. Westbrook gave a history of ESA. Mrs. Cheryl Adams was a guest and the group presented her a $200 scholarship to be applied to graduate school at ECU.

She is program coordinator for Beaufort Developmental Day Care Center.

ESA presents scholarships to eligible persons who are studying in the special education and mental health field.

Greenville Villa resident Louise Spain will be given a birthday party by members. A report was given on the ESA state convention held in Winston-Salem. Mrs. Zicherman was elected first vice chairman of the ESA State Scholarship board and Linda Peele was named ESA State Publicity Chairman.

Local convention representatives were Linda and Woody Peele, Barbara and Jim Woods, Barbara and Stan Zicherman, Shirley and Hubert Westbrook.

St. Mary's Alumnae Luncheon Held Tuesday

Pitt County alumnae of St. Mary's College in Raleigh held a fund-raising luncheon in Greenville Tuesday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Ray Patrick. Guests were greeted by chairman Mrs. Charles Kavanaugh, Mrs. Patrick, hostess, and Angela Patrick, who is a rising sophomore at St. Mary's.

Special welcomes were given to alumnae and out-of-town guests by Greenville alumnae Mrs. Henry Bennett Bunn, Mrs. Sellers Crisp and Miss Josie Barnes Rawl.

Bringing news of alumnae and campus programs at St. Mary's were June Bourne Long, president of the Alumnae Association and past president of the North Carolina Episcopal Diocese; Jane A. Rabon, alumnae director; and Susan C. Alexander, admissions director. Master of ceremonies was Greenville alumna Mrs. David J. Middleton.

The rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, the Rev. Pat Houston, Jr., gave the invocation.

A party was held later that afternoon for 45 prospective St. Mary's students. The party was hosted by Miss Rawl, at her parents home. She was assisted by Mrs. Jo Betts Barrett Barringer, Mrs. Van C. Fleming III and Mrs. Donald Taylor, Greenville alumnae.

The sizes of eggs are based on the minimum weight per dozen. Extra large must be 27 ounces per dozen, large, 24 ounces and medium, 21 ounces.

Homemakers Senior Citizens Tribute Held On Saturday

The Extension Homemakers of Sweet Gum Grove held its meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mae Briley.

Mrs. Margaret Briley gave a leader report on Landscaping and Gardening. Mrs. Eric Wichard reported on Guidelines for Keeping Cool.

Mrs. Margaret Briley gave the devotional. President Mayo J. Rogers conducted the business session.

Approximately 85 senior citizens were present and the featured speaker was Mrs. Josephine M. Reaves, who is active in many senior citizens projects in the Ayden area. Her program topic was "How Senior Citizens Can Live Long, Happy Lives."

Musical selections were presented by the AKA Ensemble directed by Soror Gloria Hines, the Echoes of Calvary of Mt. Calvary F.W.B. Church and Johnny Wooten, Tammy Edwards and Bernard Little of Greenville Middle School. A special tribute was made by Soror Helen Harrell and Sheila Harrell.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a white lace cloth and Soror Lilla Holsey presented each honoree a plant. Exhibitors included area Agricultural Extension, medical, social and law enforcement agencies in the county.

Mrs. Roberts was born in Wisconsin of North Carolina-born parents and attended St. Mary's College in Raleigh and graduated from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She has spent most of her adult life in Charlotte and has been a publishing writer for about 20 years. Her first ghost books, which were compiled from a group of articles published in a Charlotte newspaper, were put into book form because of the encouragement of famed poet, Carl Sandburg, she lovingly recalled. "I couldn't believe," she said, "that this grand old man thought my stories were good enough to be made into a book, but it was the push I needed to go ahead with the project."

No story she's ever written, Mrs. Roberts said, has been entirely fiction. "I cannot sit home and dream up a story," she said, "I go and research. But I do put flesh and bones on and the human spirit into the characters I get from old ghost stories or historic events or whatever."

Mrs. Roberts said she's been told some good leads for ghost stories during her visit to Eastern North Carolina and will be back soon to this area of the state to check them out.

"That's the part of writing I love," she said, "the detective work."

Class Reunion Held Recently

The Stokes High School graduating class of 1935 held its reunion at Parker's Restaurant. Mrs. Lonnie Staton and Mrs. Mayo J. Rogers presented corsages.

The welcome was given by Mrs. Rogers and Joffree Leggett responded. D. R. House Jr. gave the invocation.

Winning prizes were Mrs. Irma Lee Luger, traveling the longest distance, and Leggett, first to arrive.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Staton, Mr. and Mrs. House, Mr. and Mrs. Leggett, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Congleton, Mrs. Luger, Mrs. Emma Gray Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gray, and Mrs. Rogers.

The fourth reunion will be held May 16, 1981.

The Academy provides a traditional learning environment with structured classes and stress on phonetics, English grammar, writing, and a step-by-step development of mathematical and reading skills. Emphasis is placed on social studies and science by special teachers.

An excellent physical education program has been developed for the children featuring gymnastics, folk dancing, basketball, softball, and many other activities to help with physical and social development of Academy children.

Conversational French is an added advantage in grades K-5. In grades 6 and 7, French culture is emphasized with a visual, oral, and written approach to the language and people. This in depth study of French culture prepares the student for French I in the eighth grade.

High standards of conduct and maximum effort on the part of students are essential at Pace Academy.

Extra curricular activities include: an optional trip to Europe, boy's basketball, girl's basketball, student government, and cheerleading.

All teachers hold North Carolina "A" certificates or Masters degrees in education. Each is carefully selected for their position at the Academy.

Emphasis is placed on small classes with not more than 25 students per class. All children must pass an entrance test before entering Pace Academy.

The Academy is now accepting applications in grades 1-8. We invite you to come out and visit our Academy if you are concerned about your child's education.

New Center Is For Efficiency

Greenville Utilities last week moved into its new operations center which has been constructed at cost of $1.7 million on Mumford Road. A control and computer center is included in the complex, as well as a dispatch point. There is also warehouse space, supervisor's office, lounge, garages and meter and transformer repair departments. The operations center has adequate space for the heavy equipment which is used in the utilities operations and service areas for the equipment have been included.

The operations were moved from the 75 year old main plant which is located off W. Third Street along the river. That is the same building which served as a power generating station for Greenville Utilities, back in the days when it produced its own electricity. It had long ago become obsolete for the operations which are now carried on. The new utilities facility should make for a more efficient operation and, in that way, it should mean better overall service at the most economical cost.

Simply Incredible If Project Barred

The date is rapidly approaching for taking bids to construct a new Pitt County Memorial Hospital bed tower, but there is still concern among hospital officials about obtaining the necessary certificate of need. The local Health Systems Agency review will be held May 24, with a full HSA review on June 13. From there the plans go to the State Office of Health Planning. It would be incredible if approval were not given for the additional beds at a developing teaching clinical facility. Present beds were planned for a county facility, while the hospital has now become regional. There should be no question about carrying out the new construction on schedule.

It's Up To Communities

population dispersal, water availability (and so on and on), North Carolina will get a lot of that growth. The problem develops when government tries to direct that growth. The report concludes that government officials have only limited influence on industry decisions about new plant locations, and quotes Commerce Secretary D. M. (Lauch) Faircloth: "Some, but not a helluva lot." Faircloth says the state exerts considerable influence in about 40 percent of the decisions; no influence in about 40 percent; and slight influence in about 20 percent. Industry hunters concede that decisions of larger firms are less affected by efforts of the state than are decisions of small firms.

designed to move there. But a uniform statewide policy won't work for the diverse regions of the state where the people want different things and the surroundings offer different things. Recommendations developed by the research group and presented in the booklet "Which Way Now?" place heavy emphasis on local planning by citizen groups and the involvement of "the University of North Carolina in cooperation with private colleges and universities, as part of their public service programs, to systematically identify the major growth and growth management problems and opportunities ... to indicate the major policy and investment options ... and distribute the results..." All counties should be required to participate in regional land use and development planning with guarantees built into the law for open citizen participation and knowledge, the report suggests. The universities also should get involved in developing rural economic growth opportunities other than industrial manufacturing.

Essentially, the research project found that businesses will decide to build first on the basis of profitability, and then will take a look at any number of factors important to that particular firm in deciding where to locate. Will Grow By her climate, location,

Does all of this mean that nothing can be done about development? Far from it, the policy research group concluded. For once a firm decides to locate a new facility, it goes looking for the community which satisfies its basic needs, usually involving three steps: identifying a broad geographic region, selecting a potential com-

Community acceptance — and that involves all sorts of things like political attitudes, tax structures, schools, livability, friendly people — becomes the deciding factor. Given these circumstances, say policy researchers, the consideration then becomes not any sort of growth at all costs, but acceptable growth for the long run of the community. Open Study Ideally, says Doty, a community will take a realistic look at itself and in decisions openly arrived at decide what it now has, where it wants to go, and deliberate steps

Public Forum

Letters submitted for Public Forum should be limited to 300 words. The editor reserves the right to edit longer letters.

To the editor: With respect to Ms. Julie Miller, the ECU student who revived a five-year-old child last Saturday; and also to the Daily Reflector comment of May 16, I would like to add the following: As an ECU student who has taken the same first aid course as Ms. Miller and as a North Carolina-certified Emergency Medical Technician, I first congratulate the administration of ECU for offering this first aid course. The public should have the knowledge to act properly in such a situation. However, the general public does not and never will understand completely the proper techniques of emergency care. This knowledge and skill must be obtained through many hours of study and "hands-on" experience. The field of emergency medicine is a complex and constantly changing one, requiring total dedication from its practitioners. The proposed integration of the Greenville Fire and Rescue units would, in effect, destroy emergency care as we know it. This proposed merger would cause the members of both departments to become mediocre at best in the performance of their duties. Each man would be forced to work as both a firefighter and a rescue man (FireMedic). This system would not allow time for proper (even adequate) training in either field. The present fire-fighters learn basic rescue methods. The same is true for rescue men, only to a greater degree. This proposed integration is ridiculous. We have a good Fire Department and a WORLD CHAMPION Rescue Squad, and totally support the complete separation of the two departments.

Steven Ross Williams Greenville

Schools were closed so children could line the streets and see the governor, who may never get to Washington again. Elizabeth Taylor, who now lives in Virginia, was elected "Miss Gas Crunch of 1979," and the U.S. Marine Corps band rehearsed "California Here I Come" for two weeks. Blair House, where heads of state stay during their visits, was put at Mr. Brown's disposal, and all the furniture was taken out to make him feel at home. The Chief of Protocol hired a backup rock band in case the governor decided to bring Linda Ronstadt with him. Well, it was a glorious day. Gov. Brown landed on the White House Lawn on his own private rug, where he was greeted with a warm hug by President Carter and James Schlesinger. President Carter read a statement vowing eternal friendship with the people of California, with whom the United States has had such warm relations over the years. He said that although California has a different culture and tends to panic easily, Washington still considers the golden state a vital part of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and he

Stung By The Senate

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate resolutions usually are like the ones people make on New Year's Day: they sound good but they aren't binding. This time, though, the resolution got results. The Senate's condemnation of revolutionary justice in Iran has added a new complication to relations between the United States and what was a key ally in the Middle East.

There may be more to come. There already is pressure in the Senate for the administration to offer asylum to the deposed Shah of Iran, branded an outlaw and sentenced to death by the new regime. The resolution the Senate adopted last Thursday with no dissent was its 31st of the year. They are not laws, only expressions of Senate opinion on one matter or another. But this one hit home, at least in Tehran. It was proposed by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and it denounced the execution of more than 200 Iranians by order of Islamic courts under the new regime. The Iranians retorted by assailing Javits, and by telling the administration not to send its new ambassador to Tehran as scheduled.

While Javits took the lead, the resolution had 20 sponsors, and among them were Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, Majority leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., and Minority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn. On three occasions, the administration has publicly criticized the summary trials and executions in Iran, although less vehemently than the Senate resolution.

The State Department was conciliatory on Monday, urging Iran to accept the new ambassador in order to resolve misunderstandings between the two countries. Ironically, the administration decided to send a new envoy to help ease relations with revolutionary Iran. State Department spokesman Kenneth Brown said the United States still supports the objectives of the new regime, which he described as freedom, justice and democratic institutions. While the administration sought to smooth things over,

THE INSIDE REPORT

Leaking Game Echoes

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Mississippi's courtly John Stennis, one of the Senate's most powerful members as chairman of the Armed Services Committee, sent a blistering rebuke to Secretary of Defense Harold Brown May 14 demanding a halt to official Pentagon leaks. That turned the tables on Brown, who has been waging a holy war on leakers. Stennis was infuriated to read an account in the newspapers May 12 of a letter Brown had written him the previous day but which he had not received. The story outlined Brown's latest proposals on the MX missile and how it might be deployed in a mobile basing system. Stennis did not receive Brown's letter until May 14. What particularly bothered him was the fact that Congress often takes the blame in the escalating game of leak and counter-leak designed to influence policy. In this case, the leaker clearly was in the Pentagon and possibly in Brown's own office. Stennis was not amused. The irony of Stennis' rebuke is that Brown has been obsessed with leaks from his department, some of them not clearly national security information, as has no public official since Richard M. Nixon resigned the presidency. Officials suspected by Brown of leaking information to the press have been confronted with fingerprinting and lie detector tests and threatened with dismissal. A footnote: Stennis is still highly doubtful about whether President Carter really intends to build the MX missile and give it a mobile basing system. A strong supporter of the MX, Stennis has been unable to persuade the administration as yet to go ahead with the new system.

bearing some fingerprints of John Connally's presidential campaign, to limit Reagan's delegate harvest from his own state. Senate Republican leader William Campbell has succeeded in burying for this year a bill that would change California's winner-take-all Republican presidential primary to a proportional basis, where all candidates share delegates based on their vote. Reagan's political managers count on all of California's 163 delegates in 1980, just as Reagan won all of the state's delegation in 1976. The proportional representation was sponsored by a collection of ultra-conservative and liberal Republican state senators who have various bones to pick with Reagan. But there is no doubt that Connally backers — as well

Strength For Today

ALWAYS GREAT LEADERS
It is refreshing to read the history of the Christian Church during the first and second centuries. Some of the wisest and best men the human race has produced made their great achievements in the church centuries ago. Ignatius of Antioch died a martyr early in the second century. Some of his contemporaries thought that when he was a child he knew Jesus. Polycarp suffered martyrdom at Smyrna in 155 A.D. at a very great age. He had been a particularly close friend of John, the beloved disciple. Irenaeus, Bishop of Lyons, wrote about the joy and power of the Christian faith in a way that gladdens the heart even today. Tertullian summarized the teachings of Jesus for a pagan world in racy, modern style. The careers of these men illustrate that Christ has always been a source of new life for those who trust him. "As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be, world without end."

Seeds Of New Self-Reliance?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — While some Americans worry about bigness in business and mourn what they see as a loss of individuality, there are others who claim the seeds of a new self-reliance are being sown. Joseph Mancuso is one. From his encompassing perspective, he sees able people rebelling against bigness, peaceably and constructively, and asserting and expressing themselves as entrepreneurs. It's a celebration, not a wake, says Mancuso, 38, holder of certain credentials to make such an assessment: Harvard Business School, author of seven business books, teacher, businessman, director, entrepreneur. It is this last-named description that Mancuso prizes most highly, having recently founded the Center for Entrepreneurial Management, a nonprofit organization to develop and promote creative management. Evidence of a growing spirit of risk taking is all about us, he says. That it is often overlooked, is to him simply a fault of perception. Since 1965, he continues, at least 250 college-level entrepreneurship courses have been developed, many on campuses that once considered themselves suppliers of managerial talent to establishment companies. Several entrepreneurial institutions have sprung up: his own, based in Worcester, Mass.; the Entrepreneurship Institute, in Columbus, Ohio; and the School for Entrepreneurs, in Tarrytown, N.Y. Mancuso's effort, which already has 1,000 paid members ($71 a year), offers "software" such as seminars, books, tapes and a newsletter at discount. The seminars are held mainly in the Worcester-Boston area. While entrepreneurs usually work for themselves, in Mancuso's view they may work for others too, including large companies, if given the freedoms their personalities demand. His membership includes both. A number of magazines also attest to the movement. Two were founded this spring: Inc., for new and small businesses, claims a circulation of 450,000; Venture claims an initial circulation of 75,000. Others include Successful Business, a year-old quarterly published in Knoxville, Tenn.; Small Business Reporter and Business Owner, each 2 1/2 years old; and the Journal of Applied Management, four years old. The entrepreneurial base, that Mancuso and others expect will pay economic dividends in the 1980s, also includes a proliferation of seminars on establishing and managing your own business.

 as supporters of other Republican hopefuls — were praying for its passage.
 One of its sponsors: state Sen. John Schmitz, a former member of the John Birch Society and 1972 presidential candidate of the American Independent Party (founded by George Wallace). Invited to or not, Schmitz says he backs Connally for president.
 A footnote: Despite the ease with which his forces put down the primary election bill, Reagan does not have a completely stable home front in California. Some of his avowed supporters — including some big names — confide that they are interested in Connally and would consider jumping to him if Reagan's campaign falters.

Buchwald Col. . . .

 hoped that he could persuade Gov. Brown to let the United States set up monitoring stations in Burbank to verify the SALT II treaty agreements.
 Gov. Brown, without notes, was less diplomatic. He said that for years Washington had been ignoring the people of California and had taken them for granted. He felt that his state deserved all the gasoline it needed, and if it didn't get it, then he might rethink the alliance and become part of Mexico.
 Then both men retired to the Oval Office for lunch.
 The President had an omelette and Brown a bowl of Granola. Jody Powell, the President's press secretary, refused to say how the conversations went but rumor has it that during one exchange between Brown and Schlesinger, the governor broke the Energy Czar's pipe.
 After the meeting, the President agreed to give California more oil as long as Johnny Carson remained with the Tonight Show. Gov. Brown, in a separate press conference, said he was pleased as far as the talks had gone, but said there were still major differences to be resolved, such as how much lead the United States was willing to take out of California's next allocation. He told reporters he was leaving Jane Fonda behind to work out the details.
 President Carter offered to give Brown a State dinner, but the governor refused, explaining he had to get back to Sacramento, because in his absence Republican Lt. Gov. Mike Curb was overthrowing his government.
 The President walked Brown to his rug and the governor took off without waving goodbye.
 It was a day all of us in Washington will remember for the rest of our lives. No one could recall a reception for a head of State like it since former Mayor Abe Beame came to town to bail out New York City.

THE CIA CLUB

One famous supporter of George Bush for the Republican presidential nomination who has not been publicly announced and probably never will is his predecessor as director of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), the controversial William President Ford's surprise selection to the CIA post after a 1975 purge of national security officials, including intelligence chief William Colby. But Colby grew to admire Bush. A one-time registered Democrat who had supported Jimmy Carter in 1976, Colby contributed $1,000 to Bush's campaign Feb. 26.

Bush's aides are grateful for the money but not overjoyed that it is public knowledge. "I thought these old CIA guys were able to run some covert operations," commented one Bush operative, only half in jest.

KENNEDY POLITICS

There is no doubt that Tim Hagan, Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) Democratic chairman, is an ardent supporter of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. But the reason he publicly endorsed him for president so quickly has more to do with local than national politics.
 Hagan's most imperative interest is not electing Kennedy president but defeating his arch-enemy, Major Dennis Kucinich of Cleveland, for reelection this year. Hagan was fearful that Kucinich, a maverick Democrat, might announce a presidential draft for Kennedy, whose popularity in Cleveland trigger by launching a preemptive Kennedy strike.

Four Traffic Mishaps Investigated Yesterday

More than $4,900 property damage resulted from a series of four traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted when cars driven by Audrey B. Wynne of Route 1, Stokes, and Charles Dune of 506 McKinley Ave. collided about 3 p.m. at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Airport Road, causing an estimated $1,000 damage to each of the two vehicles.

A 7:32 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Charles and 14th Streets involved cars operated by Ronald Thomas Brown of Williamston, Suniko Tsukamura Hamilton of 105 Lee St., and Nancy Alexander Flanders of the Ramada Inn.

Police estimated damage from the collision at $550 to the Brown car, $950 to the Hamilton car and $300 to the Flanders vehicle.

Vehicles driven by Mary Taylor Wilkes of 1506A Fleming St., and Gerald Herbert Jenkins of 300 Nash St. collided about 10:18 a.m. at the intersection of Fifth and Contentnea Streets, according to officers, resulting in an estimated $300 damage to the Wilkes car and $400 damage to the Jenkins auto.

Drivers of cars involved in a 4:10 p.m. collision on Greenville Boulevard, 225 feet East of the Arlington Boulevard intersection were identified as Gigi Cynthia Branch of 986 Greenville Boulevard, and Elizabeth Pauline Grizzard of Route 2, Tarboro.

Damage from the collision was estimated by investigators at $125 to the Branch car and $280 to the Grizzard car.

Off To China

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special Trade Representative Robert Strauss is off to China Friday to try to resolve the issue of Chinese textile exports in a new U.S.-China trade agreement.

The issue of textile exports is the chief stumbling block holding up a formal trade pact between the two countries. Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps said Monday the formal agreement could be ready for Congress to consider as early as the middle of June.

Schools Report On Use Of Electricity

The cool April weather didn't help to alleviate the use of electricity in Pitt County schools, according to figures released by George Laws, county Energy Control Officer.

In the four high schools, use rose slightly at Ayden-Gritton and Farmville Central, with electrical use increases of 15.1 percent and 21.1 percent, respectively. However, electrical costs for the schools rose 27.2 percent and 9.9 percent.

D. H. Conley decreased its use by 3.8 percent, but costs rose .6 percent. North Pitt reduced its use by 7.9 percent, and its costs by 9.3 percent.

In the lower schools, 9 out of 16 schools increased both their electrical use and costs over the previous year. Falkland, Belvoir, and Pactolus all decreased both use and costs. Although Chicod decreased its use by two percent, its costs rose .9 percent. G. R. Whitfield increased its use by 7 percent, and decreased its costs by three percent.

The largest increase in both use and costs came from W. H. Robinson School, with an increase in use of 75 percent and costs up 83 percent. Laws explained that the increase was due to additional electrical use by the new cafeteria-office area. A billing error resulted in no figures for Farmville Middle School.

Pledge $4.5 Million For Pensions Fund Gifts From Kiwanians

United Methodists in Eastern North Carolina have pledged more than $4.5 million for pensions for retired ministers, Bishop Robert Blackburn and a Pension Crusade Committee were told in Raleigh May 14.

Wilson said some churches are completing reports, and a final report would be given at the Annual Conference in Fayetteville, June 4-7.
Rev. Wallace H. Kirby, Raleigh was the general chairperson of the crusade, which included 12 district rallies, sub-district meetings and a home visitation program in many churches.

A total of $1,100 has been donated recently by members of the Progressive City Kiwanis Club of Greenville to a quartet of local programs, and at its regular Tuesday morning breakfast meeting, the Kiwanis were thanked by recipients for the financial assistance.

'Eve' Of Three Faces Is Visitor

Chris Sizemore, the Eve of "The Three Faces of Eve" was guest speaker Tuesday of the Mental Health Association in Pitt County in commemoration of May as Mental Health Month. Sizemore, from North Carolina, three times yesterday presented her life story as the famous case of multiple personality.

During her first presentation she discussed her case with professionals of the Mental Health Center and the Pitt County Memorial Hospital and during her second presentation she talked to students from psychology, human sexuality and family living classes at Rose High School.

At 8 p.m., a capacity crowd filled the Allied Health Auditorium on Charles Street for her third presentation of "I'm Eve."

Sizemore's third presentation dealt with her childhood in North Carolina, her fragmented personalities and her recovery in 1974.

Sponsored by the Interagency Child Service Council of Pitt County and the Psychology Department and Allied Health and Social Professions of ECU, "I'm Eve" focused attention not only on the fact that the mentally ill can return to society but also on the promotion of mental health and the prevention of mental illness. Admission was free for each of the three presentations.

Tenth To Die In Pickup's Wreck

BALTIMORE (AP) — A 10th teenager has died as a result of the crash of a small pickup truck on a rural Maryland road last month, matching the death toll of the worst accident ever recorded in the state.

Tina Neal, 15, of Fort Meade, Md., died at University Hospital's Shock-Trauma Unit, where she was taken after the April 23 one-vehicle accident near Crofton, police said. Eight teenagers were killed in the crash and a ninth died a few days later.

The driver of the truck, Alan Cole, 18, of Baltimore, faces nine manslaughter charges in the accident.

Killings By Police Halt Food For The Beseiged

By EDUARDO VAZQUEZ BECKER
Associated Press Writer
SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Police shot and killed 14 men, women and children trying to take food to militants occupying the Venezuelan Embassy. It was the second time in two weeks President Carlos Humberto Romero's forces fired on demonstrators and raised the number killed by his military regime to at least 37.

Associated Press correspondent Gordon Mott said at least three of the dead were women and six appeared to be teenagers or younger. Notebooks and school bags were strewn on the ground and a woman's purse was spilled in a gully where her body had fallen.

The bodies of two children, between 10 and 12 years old lay side by side, their arms intertwined.
Corpses were lying on a street corner half a block from the embassy and a short distance from the Sheraton Hotel in the upper-class northwestern district, and two were found in a dead-end alley where the demonstrators apparently tried to hide from the police.

A Red Cross spokesman said in addition to the dead that an estimated 20 persons were wounded, some of them seriously.

The troops opened fire Tuesday evening as 100 to 150 demonstrators in separate groups marched toward the embassy from two directions, carrying food to nine members of the Popular Revolutionary Bloc who seized the embassy May 11.

Presidential press spokesman Col. Rafael Flores Lima said in a telephone interview that "police received fire from the militants and had to return it," and a witness said the first shot apparently came from the demonstrators, but said he could not be sure because of the darkness.

Guns lay beside at least two of the bodies and they were free of bloodstains, although the hands next to them were covered with blood, indicating the guns were placed there.
Spokesmen for the Bloc, a coalition of peasants, and workers pledged to non-violence, said none of the demonstrators opened fire.

Profits Swell At N.C. Ports

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The State Ports Authority says profits at the state's two ports were more than 3,700 percent higher than projected for the first 10 months of the current fiscal year.

The chairman of the board of the Authority said Tuesday the unexpected profit increase resulted from many long-term plans coming together at once.

In a meeting in Raleigh, the Authority said combined profits for the Wilmington and Morehead City ports were $494,894 from July 1978 to April 1979. They had predicted profits of $12,860 for that period.

"We were expecting many changes, such as an increased number of shipping lines serving the ports, to take place over a long period of time," said Tom Taft, chairman of the board of the Authority. "Instead, we went from zero to five lines at Morehead City over the past year and from seven to 15 at Wilmington.

"We also saw an improvement in the mixture of products shipped from the port. We no longer just ship tobacco," Taft said. "We have made an effort to do business with more lumber shippers. Now we are becoming one of the most important lumber exporters on the East Coast."

For the 10-month period, Morehead City was operating at a $107,558 loss, according to the Authority. A $625,210 loss had been projected. Wilmington had a profit of $611,554 for the period.

Larger than normal shipments in "break bulk," or non-containerized cargo, such as lumber, wood products and peanuts accounted for the increase at Morehead City. Tonnage there has increased 100 percent since January 1976. Tonnage of lumber imports was up 500 percent while export lumber rose 240 percent for the two-year period, according to the Authority's report.

Grant Godwin, state ports director of planning, said that in 1979 twice as many containers would be shipped through Wilmington as in 1978. He said that by September, an additional 18 acres of container-storage area will be opened at Wilmington.

Beachgoers To Be Fenced Off

EMERALD ISLE, N.C. (AP) — Barbed wire fences and barricades will block beachgoers flocking this summer to the western-most tip of Bogue Banks.

Point residents have erected the barriers to end the summer litter and property damage that tourists leave behind each year.

And they have eliminated parking in the sandy, undeveloped parking areas along the banks. This summer beach visitors will have to park three miles away, in the commercial areas of Emerald Isle.

As another curb to parking, the town has posted "no parking" signs and recently began backing up the messages with action. Police handed out warnings until May 1, when they began giving $5 citations.

The changes grew out of a heated debate in Carteret County. Some residents thought the area should be maintained for the residents, while others thought the tourists should be kept in mind.

Many town residents have pressed for public parking at the point as a means of controlling visitors and gaining state and federal funds for erosion control.

State and federal officials have said erosion funding would be provided only if the point was maintained as a public beach.

But area residents oppose the parking lot. They say it would aggravate environmental problems and degrade the neighborhood at the point.

The town board killed the parking plan in March.

Town Commissioner Joe Stanley said many town residents also object to maintaining facilities for people who pay no property taxes.

Stanley said he did not think the elimination of parking on the point would hurt the town economically because people who spend money at the point would not object to paying a reasonable price to park all day.

Urge Budget Bill Haste

Robert Leshar, chairman of the Emerald Isle Association, a citizens group, said the point situation could change dramatically if private plans for development are carried out.

He said a group of investors, which has asked not to be identified, was studying the financial and engineering aspects of a proposed $350,000 causeway and pier projected at the point.

Seek Flexible Use Of Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — State and local police departments would have more flexibility in how they spend crime-fighting money from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, under a Senate-approved bill.

The measure extends the life of the agency for five years, but makes changes in how it hands out money. The Senate approved the bill Monday, 67-8. It now goes to the House. President Carter and others have criticized the agency for alleged waste of money.

Move To Lift U.S. Sanctions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert B. Morgan, D-N.C., and Jesse Helms, R-N.C., are among 30 members of a "balance-the-budget caucus" who have asked a Senate subcommittee to get a balanced-budget amendment out of committee and before the Senate before July 4.

Morgan became the 30th member of the informal caucus Monday when he joined Helms and others urging Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., to finish work on the issue before the July 4 recess. Bayh is chairman of the subcommittee on the Constitution.

The letter sent by the group to Bayh said haste was necessary on the balanced-budget issue because 30 of the required 34 states have called for a constitutional convention to write such an amendment if Congress fails to.

"We do not believe that the push for a constitutional amendment to balance the federal budget is a momentary or passing phenomenon," the letter said.

North Carolina is one of the 30 states that have passed resolutions calling for a convention on the balance-budget amendment.

Bayh's subcommittee has scheduled a hearing on the issue today.

Bingo Control Bill Remains Uncertain Measure

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — House action on a statewide bingo bill that came after two days of lengthy debate and consideration of numerous amendments may be reversed if the Senate agrees to go along with a judiciary committee recommendation and refuse to concur with House action on the bingo bill.

The Senate approved the original version of the bill, but it was rewritten in a House committee and further amended on the House floor last week. After final House approval, it was returned to the Senate for concurrence.

The Senate Judiciary I Committee voted Tuesday not to concur on the House changes. This means a conference committee will be set up of senators and representatives who will try to work out the differences.

The bill is aimed at limiting big-time bingo operations by restricting sponsorship of the game to tax-exempt organizations and some small commercial operations. It would repeal the number of various local acts now in effect.

However, the House version broadened the type of group that could qualify to sponsor bingo legally, and Senate supporters say this will lead to growth of organized crime in North Carolina.

"If we enact this in its present form, we will be opening up the whole state to organized crime," said Sen. Robert Swain, D-Buncombe, a member of the judiciary committee.

"The hodgepodge we have now would be better than what the House has brought forward."

The recommendation not to concur was approved by the judiciary committee and sent to the full Senate.

In other legislative action Tuesday: Tax Sticker
The House gave tentative approval to a bill that would require automobile owners to obtain and display a sticker showing property tax had been paid on their vehicles.

The bill advanced on a 63-49 vote and was expected to be up for final consideration today.

It would require the vehicle owner to obtain the tax sticker each year before Feb. 15 showing property tax had been paid on the vehicle the previous year.

The bill was introduced as a means for catching county residents who do not list and pay tax on their vehicles.

But opponents said the measure would punish the 95 percent to 98 percent of vehicle owners who pay their property taxes just to catch the few who don't.

Bottle Bill
A subcommittee recommendation that action on a bill to require a 5-cent deposit on drink containers be held over until the short session was approved by the full House Judiciary II Committee.

Sponsors of the bill, which would call a referendum on the proposed anti-litter effort, said they feared a vote on the measure now would mean its defeat.

However, the bill could still be killed, depending on the wording of the legislative adjournment resolution. If the resolution specifies that only bills that have passed one of the two chambers can be carried over, the bottle bill will die. It has passed neither House nor Senate.

Sentencing
A House judiciary committee is withholding final approval of a heavily amended version of Gov. Jim Hunt's uniform-sentencing bill to see if the bill's Senate sponsors agrees to the changes.

The House Judiciary III Committee amended a number of amendments, trimming the length of prison sentences on charges ranging from murder to breaking and entering.

But before sending the bill to the full House, supporters agreed to wait until Sen. I. Beverly Lake Jr., D-Wake, the Senate sponsor, has a chance to see the changes.

Supporters said they feared the Senate might refuse to go along with the changes if approved by the full House without Lake's agreement.

If Lake does not go along with the changes, House supporters say they will move to kill the bill in committee rather than see the Senate strike all the changes they've made.

The bill, which the Hunt administration calls the fair-sentencing act, would replace most existing sentencing statutes with a new series of categories, matching crimes with maximum and presumed sentences. Unless they showed in writing aggravating or mitigating factors, judges would be expected to impose the presumed sentence for a given crime.

A bill increasing the cost of hunting and fishing licenses gained final approval in the Senate and was sent to the House. It would raise the cost of the licenses by an average of 26 percent.

The measure is needed, according to sponsors, to cover a $1.3 million deficit of the Wildlife Resources Commission.

Twelve Chosen To Attend Boys' State

Eleven students from Rose High and one from North Pitt High School have been selected to attend the American Legion Boys' State being held on the Wake Forest University Campus beginning June 10.

Ernest Avery, spokesman for the local American Legion, said that a number of local groups were assisting the Legion in sponsorship of the program.

Boys' State is an annual event designed to provide an opportunity for young men to gain a true conception of the ideals and objectives of the function and operation of government.

Those selected each year are rising seniors who have been nominated for the honor based on outstanding qualities exhibited such as leadership, character, scholarship and service.

The youths chosen for the 1979 program and a brief comment of their activities are:

— Henry Clifton Harris of Route 6, Greenville, is a student at North Pitt High School and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C.

Harris, Sr. A school bus driver, he is president of the FFA, a member of the Honor Society, and was president of the freshman and sophomore classes. He has also played basketball for three years.

The 11 chosen from Rose High are:

— Thomas Spencer Hill, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Hill, Jr. holds membership in the French, Anchor and Key Clubs and was one of five students selected to attend the Presidential Classroom for Young Americans in Washington, D. C. Hill has played on the Rose High Baseball Team for two years.

— Joseph H. Goodson, Jr., active in sports, is manager of the wrestling and football teams. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Goodson, Sr., he is also a Boy Scout, a member of the Key Club, and active in the United Methodist Youth Foundation.

— David Holley, who lettered as a center and defensive end of the football team, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. William H. Holley. He is also active in the youth program of Immanuel Baptist Church.

— Scott Littlefield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Littlefield, belongs to a number of clubs, including the Key, Chess and Wildlife Clubs. He plays soccer and is interested in fishing, hunting and water skiing.

— Dan Mayo, a member of WNCT-TV's Explorers Post, is a member of the Monogram Club. Son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel S. Mayo, he serves with the SGA, and is a member of the cross country and golf teams. Mayo is active in the First Presbyterian Church.

— Don McGlohon, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Don McGlohon, Sr., was sophomore class president. Clubs to which he belongs include the Key, and Monogram Clubs. A marshal and active in sports, he is a member of the football, swimming and track teams and was chosen an all-area defensive end for 1978.

— Herbert Lyman Ormond, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Lyman Ormond, Jr., was a Presidential Classroom for Young Americans student, is a SGA representative, and took part in the First Annual High School Math Contest at ECU. A Boy Scout, Ormond likes basketball and is active in youth work at Jarvis Methodist Church.

— Kevin J. Richards, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Richards, belongs to a church youth group, and is a member of the Swim Club. Other activities in which he is active include membership in the Spanish, Chess, Monogram and Key Clubs.

— William Sneed, who has written sports articles for the Rose newspaper, is on the golf team and is Lt. Gov. of the Key Club. He is a Life Scout, plays baseball and basketball, and is active in a church group. The son of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Sneed, he has entered several creative writing contests.

— Loyd Tyler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Tyler and is active in the Science-Ecology Club, and was a member of the SGA in a private school. In church work, he is an usher. One of his interests is the possibility of starting an Autocross group in Greenville.

— Stephen James Woodward is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Woodward. He has lettered in two sports — swimming and golf, and is a lecturer at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church. Membership in clubs include the French and Science-Ecology Clubs.

'Killer Bees' Re-Appear

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The "Killer Bees" — antic heroes to some, fugitive obstructionists to others — have returned to the Texas state Senate and a triumphant welcome splattered with boos.

The 12 Democrats disappeared Friday and stayed AWOL for five days, robbing the Senate of a quorum until they returned Tuesday. In the process, they virtually assured defeat of a presidential primary bill thought to be tailor-made for former Gov. John Connally.

While the senators were gone, the Texas Rangers were called in but couldn't find them. It was a spectacle that enraged proponents of the bill — and amused many others.

Computer Center Directors Gather

ECU News Bureau
Directors of computing centers and directors of administrative data processing from the University of North Carolina system's 16 campuses and general administration will meet here this week for a two-day conference and workshop.

Welcoming remarks will be given by ECU Chancellor Thomas B. Brewer and by Dr. C. Q. Brown, ECU director of Institutional Development.

Edwin Danziger, Danziger, Director of ADP, UNC-Chapel Hill, will conduct a business session on Friday morning. Separate sessions are then scheduled on Administrative Data Processing problems and services with presentations and roundtable discussions.

Richard S. Lennon Jr., director of the ECU Computing Center, said 30 to 35 UNC system computing center and data processing directors are expected to attend. Sessions will be in the Willis Building.

Junior Historians Awards Event Set

RALEIGH — Awards, project, workshops, a talent show, a disco session, an Indian program and an address by Richard Walsler will be highlights of the 26th annual Tar Heel Junior Historian Association Awards Day being held Thursday and Friday, May 24 and 25 at Meredith College.

teacher, East Cary Junior High School.

More than 400 members of junior history clubs from across the state are expected to be present for the two-day event featuring over 50 projects by elementary, middle and high school students.

Crops Aided By Rainfall

Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service Chairman Leroy James termed the recent rainfall "quite helpful," but noted that crops need some warm nights to stay on schedule.

"The crops look really good to me," the chairman stated. "The rain came at a time when the crops really needed it, and if it closes off now, the crops will look even better."

According to James, who has surveyed many crops throughout the county, very little damage has resulted from the rainfall, except for a few wet, low spots in some fields. He suggested that farmers apply a little nitrogen to those affected areas.

Projects include a model of Reed Gold Mine; a slide program on Currituck County duck decoys; an oral history involving Belmont and Gaston County residents; a voluminous scrapbook on carousels; and a model of the ironclad "Monitor."

On Friday, May 25, the N. C. Commission of Indian Affairs will present the program, "North Carolina Indians." Also on that date, students will attend workshops on archaeology, life saving stations on the Outer Banks, Cherokee Indians, carousels, and quilts.

Guest of honor speaker will be Richard Walsler, author of "Tar Heel Laughter and Short Stories from the Old North State."

According to the Water Department of the Greenville Utilities Commission, the Greenville area only received a trace of rain Monday and Tuesday, with 1.1 inches of rain recorded this morning. Temperatures ranged at the beginning of the week with highs in the upper 70's and lows in the mid 60's and high 50's. The river level fell from 13.7 feet on the national scale Monday to 12.3 feet Wednesday morning.

No Panic Seen In America's First Nuclear City

By RICHARD H. GROWALD
UPI National Reporter
OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UPI) — The first civic works seen on entering the world's oldest nuclear city is a graveyard.

In Oak Ridge the cemetery is admired for its greenery and not as a doomsday omen. Here Jane Fonda is more highly regarded as an actress than an activist.

There is concern in Oak Ridge; "Land for home building is becoming scarce," said realtor Parker Smallen.

"The only trouble with the city that gave birth to nuclear power is that it's sometimes boring," said Ms. Helen Stelson, a mother of four.

"We've lived with nuclear reactors burping away for 35 years and we're still optimistic. The Three Mile Island accident in Pennsylvania caused no panic in the streets of Oak Ridge," said housewife Mrs. Jean Winslow.

"It's a matter of confidence," said City Manager Lyle Lacy. "The people of Oak Ridge deal with nuclear material and are confident of their ability to remain safe. I, myself, fret far more about the possibility of a gasoline or acid truck crashing on the highway here."

In World War II's most secret operation, the U.S. government bought up the land below Black Oak Ridge northwest of Knoxville, moved out the tobacco farmers and other occupants of 1,100 houses and fenced in and built a city that made the first nuclear bomb. The name Oak Ridge was chosen because it seemed innocent.

The barbed wire fence around the 3-by-7-mile bedroom city for the nuclear works came down 27 years ago. The look of innocence remains.

On the concrete walk of the American Museum of Science and Energy, where the city likes to stress it delves into solar and other new power sources as well as nuclear, a family of caterpillars creep. A sign points to the bird sanctuary.

The Girl Scouts are busy in the pre-poured concrete civic center. Women in slacks nurse flower plants, the better to hide the Army barracks-like construction of the homes built for the physicists and troops in 1943. The Lions, the Rotarians, the Kiwanis, the Sertoma and even Women's Lib are alive and well in Oak Ridge.

"There's no sense of living beside a monster," Mrs. Winslow said. "We feel safe with K-25, X-10 and Y-12."

Oak Ridgers come to use the bureaucrats' designations of K-25, the plant that makes uranium so powerfully rich, X-10, the research center with the reactors finding new forms of coal and sun power, and Y-12, the factory making nuclear warheads and other doomsday devices.

In fact, it is to K-25, X-10 and Y-12, nestled like mountain moonshiners in hollows under four-story-high trees, that Oak Ridge folk would flee if things go boom. For they hold the shelters for humans in this first atomic age boom town.

It is a happenstance that has not happened in 36 years. "It's not simply a feeling that it can't happen here. It's a confidence in people," said city manager Lacy. "Note the beauty of Three Mile Island — a crisis solved by people. And here in Oak Ridge we are special people."

"We even sent Herman Robot, who can go into radiation where no human dare, to Three Mile Island as well as our doctors and physicists," said Lacy. "We radiate safety."

Oak Ridge is fond of showing how life can be better in the space capsule of the atomic age. The museum sells inexpensive solar cookers, an arc of coated metal with a spit on which a frankfurter can be roasted by the sun in a few minutes.

Ms. Stelson remembers from pre-Three Mile Island times when Oak Ridge also offered visitors a machine into which one dropped a dime and out it came, radioactive. "The radioactivity wore away almost immediately," she said. "But I can understand, after Harrisburg, why the souvenir machine is no more at the museum."

Ann Jordan, librarian and information analyzer at Y-10, frowned at such post-Three Mile Island jokes as "Question: What is the immediate weather outlook for Harrisburg? Answer: 2,000 degrees and bright!" and "Question: What is the five-day forecast for Harrisburg? Answer: Two days." "Nobody here will laugh at that. For what happened at Three Mile Island is not funny to us at all. For all of us here see nuclear power as the future and the Pennsylvania accident could delay nuclear power development," she said. She ran a hand over a book. "Oh, we do have humor. When Dr. Tom Lincoln, now transferred to Washington, was for a generation our chief medical radiation specialist, he used to smile and say, "Why doesn't somebody have a radiation accident so I can see a real case of radiation?"

University's football team, wiped his eyeglass lenses. "We've lived too long in Oak Ridge with nuclear energy to get nervous. The only concern here is what the Three Mile Island ballyhoo will do for the property and of Tennessee anti-nuke campaigners."

Plaque Salutes

Josephine Baker

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A plaque commemorating former Parisian cabaret singer Josephine Baker's career and philanthropic activities has been placed in the library at Vashon High School.

Miss Baker, born in St. Louis, was touring with a theatrical troupe at age 13 when she was discovered by Eubie Blake.

Her humanitarian efforts include purchase of a French chateau for her 12 adopted children of various ethnic and racial backgrounds.

She refused to appear in places where segregation was practiced in her later years. Miss Baker died in 1975 at the age of 68.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced broadly today, continuing its favorable response to evidence of a slowing economy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 2.86 to 848.23 in the first half hour. Gainers outpaced losers by more than a 2-1 margin in the early count of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market turned upward late Tuesday after the government reported that orders for durable goods fell 8.7 percent in April for their sharpest decline in 11 years.

Ordinarily such news might be expected to depress the market. But analysts noted that Wall Street lately has been operating in a "bad news is good news" climate.

Under this line of thinking, any evidence of a slowdown in business activity is welcomed by investors in the hope that it will bring with it reduced inflationary pressures and lower interest rates.

Franklin Mint rose 1/8 to 9 1/8 after a 1/2-point gain Tuesday, when the company said it planned to begin minting and selling gold bullion coins.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average closed with a 2.94 gain at 845.37.

Advances outnumbered declines by a 5-3 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 30.4 million shares against 25.5 million the day before.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index rose .24 to 56.65.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .57 at 181.75.

Rescued In Fire At Sea

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Four North Carolina men were among 11 fishermen rescued Tuesday after a fire broke out on their 87-foot fishing trawler off the coast of New Jersey.

The Linda Lee, a 140-ton scallop boat, was returning to its home port at Cape May, N.J., about 10:45 a.m. when a fire erupted in the engine room and engulfed most of the vessel.

Crew members on the refrigerator ship Polar Paragay spotted the flames and went to assist the stricken trawler. They lowered lifeboats and rescued all 11 crew members, who had huddled at the back of the trawler to escape the flames. No one was injured in the blaze.

"It was a miracle," said Richard Newton, the Linda Lee's mate. "They (the Polar Paragay) were only about six miles from us when it happened."

Newton, the brother of Linda Lee Capt. Jesse Newton of Arapahoe, said he was steering the vessel back to port after an 11-day fishing trip when he saw the smoke.

Cook Elwood Long of Wilmington said he was in the galley preparing lunch when the fire broke out.

"I was about four feet from the door to the engine room," Long said. "There was this sort of whoosh and a ball of fire came right through the door. It burned the hair on one of my arms and on my head and blew me out on the deck."

Long, a retired Navy engineer, said he suspected that a broken fuel line had leaked diesel fuel onto an exhaust line to start the fire.

The U.S. Coast Guard was trying to determine the cause of the blaze late Tuesday.

The fire was brought under control in about three hours.

The Coast Guard said Tuesday the Linda Lee might be towed back to Atlantic City, N.J.

Marriage Off To Flying Start

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Carter Martin of Charleston have gotten their marriage off to a flying start.

Last weekend, they climbed into a single-engine, four-seat Cessna along with the pilot, Robert Miller, and the Rev. Harry Gill. At about 12:30 p.m., somewhere above the city, Gill pronounced them husband and wife.

"The main reason we did it was just to be by ourselves," Martin said. "Up in the air was about as quiet a place as we could find."

"I think we all enjoyed it. I think Bob enjoyed it as much as anyone. So did the reverend. He said he's done weddings in rose gardens and other places, but never in the air," Martin said.

The groom said his only problem was finding a minister to perform the ceremony.

"I don't know whether they were just afraid to fly or what," Martin said.

Raccoon's Day In Court

STONINGTON, Maine (AP) — Rocky Raccoon, an orphan and family pet, will have his day in court May 31, when a judge will consider whether Rocky can continue living in a private home.

Rocky, who is gentle, loves seafood and generally stays on a leash whenever he meanders outside, currently resides at the home of Elizabeth Nevells. But state law considers raccoons wild animals and requires them to be unrestrained except in special circumstances, such as injury.

Mrs. Nevells is petitioning the state Fish and Game Department for permission to keep him indefinitely. He cannot eat meat without going into convulsions, she said, and he is under daily medication to control the convulsions.

When Rocky's mother was hit by a car in 1977, he was rescued by a Stonington man and later given to Mrs. Nevells. Things went smoothly until May 10.

On the complaint of a neighbor, a game warden issued Mrs. Nevells a court summons for harboring a wild animal without a permit. Mrs. Nevells said the warden was very kind and did not ask that she give up the raccoon on the spot.

She hopes the state will issue her a permanent license so Rocky can continue making his home with the Nevells.

Moore Death Is Ruled Accident

Dr. Stan Harris, area medical examiner, said this morning that the Monday afternoon death of Joe Linwood Moore of Simpson has been ruled accidental.

Moore, 40, apparently stuck his head through an opening in a structure at Simpson, according to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, and lost his footing, causing him to hang by his head until he was unconscious.

Sheriff Tyson said Tuesday that his department was investigating the incident as an accidental death.

TAX TRIAL — Chuck Berry, the rock and roll star, has pleaded innocent in federal court on three income tax violations. His trial is set for July 9. If convicted on all three counts, the singer faces a maximum penalty of up to $20,000 in fines and 11 years in prison. (AP Laserphoto)

Hearings

The Joint City-County and Greenville Boards of Adjustments will conduct two public hearings at Thursday's 7:30 p.m. meeting at city hall.

The joint board will hold a hearing on a request by James Davis for a special use permit in order to place a mobile home at 105 Tripp Avenue. The property is zoned for RA-20 usage.

A hearing will be held by the city board on a request by the Greenville Housing Authority for a variance from the density requirements for multi-family dwellings in order to construct a mid-rise housing development for the elderly at 415 E. Fourth Street. The property is zoned for R-6 usage.

The meetings will be held at the council chambers at city hall.

Rainy days aren't the only days worth saving for.

These days it makes just as much sense, maybe more, to save for a sunny day. That exotic vacation in sun country. A new car or boat that makes you feel like a million.

Here's a practical approach to saving that can guarantee the money's there when you need it. Instead of keeping all your savings tied up in accounts with rigid maturity dates, keep part of it in a regular savings account at Planters. We can even help you set up an automatic savings plan that transfers a set amount from your checking account to your savings account every month.

That way your money's earning a big 5% daily interest, from day of deposit to day of withdrawal which yields 5.13%. But more important, you'll know it's there when you need it. Anytime, rain or shine.

Joe Niekro Wins 100th Downing Braves

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer That's some brother act, Phil and Joe Niekro. Only three other sets of brothers have won more games combined in the history of major league baseball.

1 victory over his Atlanta Braves. "He's got the confidence a knuckleball pitcher needs, plus he's got other pitches better than I do, like his fastball and slider." The pride of brotherhood overshadowed the pain of defeat and Phil Niekro bowed to the victor by sending him a bottle of liquor with a note that said, "Congratulations."

Incidentally, the brother combinations ahead of the Niekros in victories are, Gaylord and Jim Perry with 485; Johnny, Art and Walt Clarkson with 390 and Christy and Henry Mathewson with 373, all of them by Christy. In other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies took a 3-1 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals; the New York Mets stopped the Chicago Cubs 4-2; the Montreal

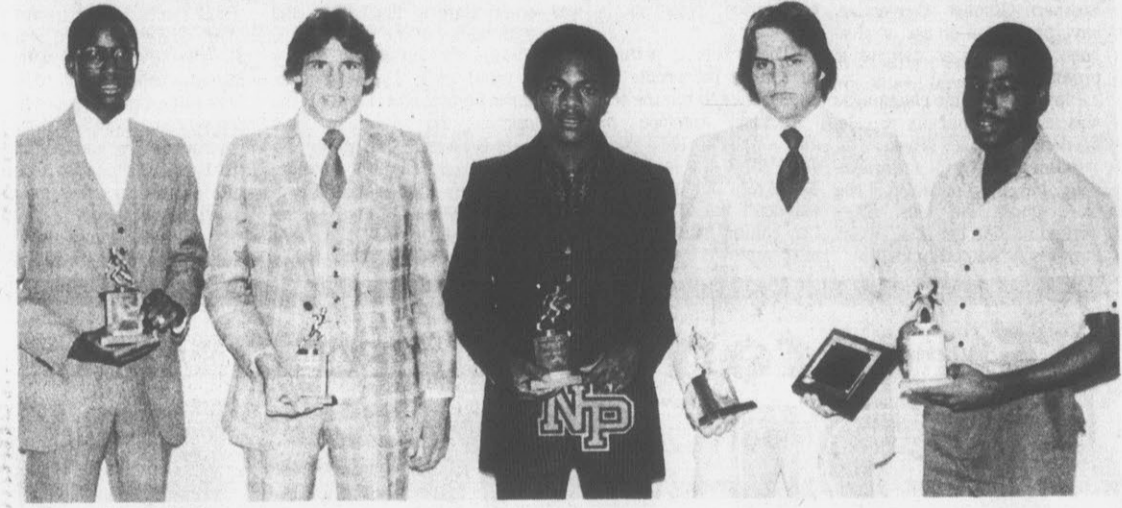

Expos turned back the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3; the San Francisco Giants routed the Cincinnati Reds 12-2 and the San Diego Padres stopped the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-6 in 10 innings. The only run off Niekro, 5-2, came on Bob Horner's RBI single in the ninth. Phillies 3, Cardinals 1 Greg Luzinski's two-run homer in the ninth carried Philadelphia over St. Louis. Cardinal right-hander Bob Forsch had a four-hitter starting the ninth and retired the first batter. But Pete Rose singled to right. The slump-ridden Luzinski worked the count to two balls and two strikes, then lined a pitch over the right field fence for his fifth homer of the season. Mets 4, Cubs 2 Richie Hebner drove in three runs to back the combined sixth pitching of Kevin Kobel and Dale Murray as New York defeated Chicago. Hebner hit his third homer of the season in the first inning off loser Dennis Lamp after Lee Mazzilli beat out an infield single with two out. Hebner singled home Frank Taveras in the fifth for the final New York run after Taveras had beaten out an infield hit, stole second and advanced to third on a wild pickoff attempt by Lamp. Expos 6, Pirates 3 Tony Perez's bases-loaded double keyed a four-run third inning, pacing Montreal over Pittsburgh. Montreal starter Ross Grimsley held the Pirates to a single run until a pair of errors on the same play narrowed the Expo lead to 5-3. Veteran Woodie Fryman shackled the Pirates over the final 2-3 innings and nailed down the Expos' fourth victory in the last five games. Giants 12, Reds 2 Ed Halicki scattered nine hits and had 14-hit support, including three singles and three RBI by Darrell Evans, as San Francisco beat Cincinnati. The National League West Division leading Reds had a horrible night, displaying sloppy fielding and atrocious baserunning. A potential scoring threat, in the seventh inning, ended with two baserunners at third base. Padres 7, Dodgers 6 Broderick Perkins' bases-loaded single in the 10th led San Diego over Los Angeles. The winning run was set up by an error by Dodger second baseman Davey Lopes that allowed Jerry Turner to reach second on a grounder. Turner took third on a wild pitch by Jerry Reuss and then Dave Winfield and Fernando Gonzalez were walked intentionally to load the bases before Perkins' game-winning hit.

McPhatter Seeks National Finals

For East Carolina's Cookie McPhatter, the meets keep getting bigger every week it seems. McPhatter, a junior from Raeford, is the first East Carolina woman to qualify to run in this week's AIAW track meet, the women's national collegiate championship, at Michigan State University at East Lansing, Mich. "The biggest meet I've ever been in before this championship was the Tom Black Classic at Tennessee last Saturday," McPhatter said. The bright-eyed speedster with a big smile is hoping for a berth in the finals in this meet, but realizes what that will require. "My personal record is a 2:09.4 which I ran at Maryland about a month ago," she said. "I think it will take a 2:05 or 2:06 to place, but with the training I've been doing I think my time can come down. I just hope it comes far enough." McPhatter has come a long way just to make the AIAW meet. She didn't even run the 800 meters until this year, and bettered a stiffened qualifying standard over the one which prevailed a year ago. "I ran the 400 meters until this year," she said. "But I like the 800 better. There is more time to work the race and think about what I'm doing. I don't like to lead. I'd rather settle in close to the front and then plan when I should kick." "If I can run a good first 400 and a smooth 600, I'll put it on the last 200 meters. If I can stay close with the pace then I think I can have the kick to finish well." "I see all the other runners in a race and that affects me some, but I have to concentrate on running Cookie's race." She will run trials on Thursday afternoon with the semifinals set for Friday and the final set for Saturday, all on the Michigan State track. Cal State-Northridge is the favorite to successfully defend its team championship in the event.

Rampants End In Tie For 5th

CHAPEL HILL — Rose High School's golf team finished in a tie for fifth place in the North Carolina High School golf championships completed yesterday in Chapel Hill. Burlington Williams took first place in the team event with a 617 total, while East Forsyth finished five back at 622. Myers Park was third at 626, followed by South Mecklenburg at 628. Rose, along with defending champion Terry Sanford, finished fifth with 630. A total of 22 teams participated in the team competition. Williams sophomore Mark Thaxton nipped Greensboro Grimsley's John Inman for the individual title. Thaxton, a sophomore, finished with a 143 total, while Inman had a 144. Thaxton is only the second sophomore in state history to win the individual title. The other was Andrew Stiles of Terry Sanford, who had a 149 to tie for fifth this year. Mike Moyer led the Rose scoring with a 75-150, tying him for tenth place among the individuals. Jack Mann had 77-78-155 to tie for 25th, while Pat Dye Jr. had 81-80-161 to tie for 66th. Greg House, the fourth member of the team had 83-81-164, tying for 76th place.

Herb Gray Returning

Former East Carolina basketball player Herb Gray has indicated to new head coach Dave Odom that he will return to the Pirate program for his senior season next fall. Gray scored 724 points in 2 1/2 seasons with the Pirates prior to missing the second semester last year. He played in the first seven games in 1979 with a 4.9 scoring average and a 2.9 rebounding average. His career scoring average is 11.9 for 61 games. He started 40 times. "I've never had a chance to coach Herb, but I know he is a fine talent and we're glad to have him back at East Carolina," said Odom. Gray is 6-8 and from Seat Pleasant, Md.

Rose Fete Thursday

Rose High School will hold its annual All-Sports Banquet Thursday night at 6:30 p.m. at the Greenville Moose Lodge. Simon Terrell, executive director of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association, will be the speaker for the occasions. Top athletes in each of the Rose High School sports programs will be honored during the evening. Tickets for the banquet are on sale at Rose High School or are available from any member of the Rose coaching staff.

Bochte Relaxes At Plate, Has 4 Hits

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
If American League pitchers appear tense, it could be because Bruce Bochte is more relaxed.

"I think it's all psychological," Bochte said after Tuesday night's 12-1 Seattle Mariners victory over the Kansas City Royals in 12 innings. "I'm just more relaxed this year."

Relaxed at the plate, Bochte slammed a home run, a triple and two singles, driving in six runs.

"In the past, with runners on base, I would get tensed up," the Seattle first baseman said. "Now I'm approaching it from the standpoint that I'm gonna do what I'm gonna do and that's that."

In other AL games Tuesday, Boston defeated Baltimore 7-5, Cleveland stopped Toronto 8-6, Milwaukee clobbered California 7-1, the New York Yankees outlasted Detroit 12-8, the Chicago White Sox edged Oakland 5-4 and Texas nipped Minnesota 4-3.

White Sox 5, A's 4
Jorge Orta's two-run homer in the eighth inning lifted Chicago over Oakland, snapping a three-game White Sox losing streak.

Lamar Johnson singled to start the eighth. After a sacrifice, Orta smashed his second homer of the season off loser Dave Heaverlo, 2-3.

Red Sox 7, Orioles 5
Fred Lynn's three-run homer was the big blow as Boston scored seven runs in the second inning, then held on to beat Baltimore. Lynn, the AL home run leader, now has 14 for the season.

Billy Smith hit a three-run homer for the Orioles, whose East Division lead over the Red Sox was cut to one-half game. It was only the sixth loss in the last 29 games for the Orioles.

Yankees 12, Tigers 8
Chris Chambliss, Roy White, Jay Johnstone and Bucky Dent drove in two runs each and Willie Randolph, Reggie Jackson and Jerry Narron each got one RBI as New York outslugged Detroit and gave Luis Tiant his first victory as a Yankee. New York battered Mark Fidrych, 0-3, and reliever Sheldon Burnside for eight runs and seven hits in the third inning.

Indians 8, Blue Jays 6
A grand slam homer by Andre Thornton was the big blow as Cleveland downed Toronto. It was Thornton's first grand slam of his career and sixth homer of the season. Eric Wilkins, 2-2, gained the victory in relief while Toronto starter Mark Lemongello, 1-6, took the loss.

Brewers 7, Angels 1
A five-run fifth inning, sparked by Paul Molitor's two-run single, backed Larry Sorensen's five-hitter as Milwaukee stopped California. Dick Davis also knocked in two runs for the Brewers, who won for only the second time in their last nine games and snapped the Angels' six-game winning streak.

Rangers 4, Twins 3
Buddy Bell's first home run of the year in the bottom of the eighth inning boosted Texas past Minnesota and handed Twins pitcher Jerry Koosman his first American League loss. Bell also singled home two runs in the third. The loss dropped Koosman's record to 7-1 while Jim Kern picked up his sixth victory against no losses in relief.

The Twins had tied the game on Ron Jackson's seventh homer of the year.

Malone Selected As Best By NBA Players

HOUSTON (AP) — The National Basketball Association's most valuable player award has made a comedian out of Houston Rockets giant Moses Malone.

Malone, seen prominently but seldom heard during most of his first three years here, spoke freely Tuesday about his MVP honor and winning the league's rebounding title.

He even got off a one-liner. "I never thought I'd be the most valuable player or lead the league in rebounding," Malone said. "But I got a lot of help from my teammates — they did a lot of missing."

Malone, 24, beat out San Antonio's George Gervin, his closest rival, by a 112-35 margin. Washington's Elvin Hayes was third with 28 votes and Los Angeles' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who has won the MVP title five times, was fourth with 15.

Jamesville, GC Dates

Greene Central and Jamesville have set sites and dates for their second round state baseball playoff games, although one site is only tentative.

Greene Central, in the 3-A playoffs, will play host to White Oak on Thursday at 8 p.m. on the Rams' home field. Greene Central will be seeking its second win in the playoffs.

Jamesville, in the 1-A playoffs, is scheduled to meet Manteo at Mattamuskeet High School in Swan Quarter at 4 p.m. Thursday. However, some work is being done to the backdrop at the baseball field there, and it will not be certain whether the game can be played there until later today.

Bullet Coach Ron Davenport said he hoped that if the game could not be played at Mattamuskeet, it could be moved to Northeastern High School in Elizabeth City.

Jamesville will also be playing its second round game in the tournament.

Meanwhile, in girls' softball, Greene Central was scheduled to play host to New Bern in the first round of play in that competition today at 5 p.m. at Snow Hill.

Allegations Fly In Bird Bidding

BOSTON (AP) — The lid has blown off contract talks between the Boston Celtics and the negotiator for college star Larry Bird, with an explosion of demands and allegations.

"There is nobody in professional sports, including Red Auerbach and myself, who can accurately determine what is a fair contract for Larry," attorney Bob Woolf said Tuesday.

Nevertheless, Woolf, Bird's Boston-based agent, called a news conference to insist both that his current contract offer is fair and that the National Basketball Association team, through team president Auerbach, begin "bonafide" negotiations.

"He (Woolf) means negotiate as long as I go up," Auerbach responded later. "Can I go down?"

The stalemate centers on the Celtics' refusal to budge from their original $500,000-a-year offer to the college Player-of-the-Year from Indiana State. Woolf initially asked for $1 million a season, plus another $200,000 in extras. Sources now say Woolf has come down to about $700,000 a year.

Bird was drafted No.1 by the Celtics a year ago as a junior. The team has until the NBA draft June 25 to sign him or Bird goes back into the 1979 draft pool.

"I thought we'd have a clean, fast deal," Auerbach said. "Give them your best shot, bowl them over, make him the highest paid rookie in NBA history and that's it."

Instead, Woolf claims Auerbach simply won't bargain and that unless he does, "I would not be optimistic" about Bird's chances of joining the Celtics.

Woolf conceded he wants somewhat more than the Los Angeles Lakers will pay Michigan State star Earvin "Magic" Johnson, who will be the team's and league's top pick in next month's draft.

Woolf said reports are that Johnson will get $600,000 a year. But Celtics officials say it's far less — $250,000 cash and real estate, with money paid over a period of years.

Woolf said the Celtics also want to pay Bird on a long-term basis, without interest. But Auerbach responded, "I'll give the money anytime."

Citing controversy centering on Bird's money demands, Woolf blamed the Celtics, saying, "I am at a loss to understand why the Celtics organization, by inference or innuendo, would in any way unfairly blemish the image of a fine young athlete..." The agent said Bird "has never made any suggestions as to what the terms of his contract should be."

Auerbach's response was, "We've been more than fair. There's only three people in the NBA who make more than we're offering." David Thompson of the Denver Nuggets is said to be No.1, with a salary of $800,000 a season.

Despite the hostilities, both sides said they still want Bird to play for Boston, and Woolf said, "That's Larry's goal."

ROZELLE SPEAKS

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle of the National Football League, always a hard-headed realist about pro football, wants the rate of change slowed a little.

"We need a period of stability now," he said recently. "It will be better for everyone, especially the public. We don't want excessive or too frequent expansion. And we don't want too much change in alignment. It's hard enough to keep track of everything even now."

Bill Russell of Boston also won the title five times while Wilt Chamberlain, Philadelphia, won it four times and Bob Pettit, St. Louis, was a two-time winner.

Other previous winners are Bill Walton, Portland; Bob McAdoo, Buffalo; Dave Cowens, Boston; Willis Reed, New York; Wes Unseld, Baltimore; Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati, and Bob Cousy, Boston.

Malone averaged 17.6 rebounds per game and beat out Jabbar and New Orleans' Rich Kelley, tied for second with 12.8 averages, by the third widest margin in NBA history.

Malone played 3,390 minutes last season, more than any other player in the league, and was fifth in scoring with a 24.8 average. He set a season individual high of 37 rebounds against New Orleans on Feb. 9.

Malone led the league in both offensive and defensive rebounds and his 567 offensive rebounds set an NBA record. Malone got 857 defensive rebounds.

"Mainly, I work hard on my game," Malone said of his style. "There are a lot of players better, but I don't want anybody working harder than me."

"He's only three quarters of what he can be," Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke said. "He's only scratched the surface of his potential."

Bob Dandridge, Washington, was fifth in the voting with seven votes followed by Lloyd Free, San Diego, five; Jack Sikma, Seattle, four; David Thompson, Denver, and Phil Ford, Kansas City, three each and Walter Davis, Phoenix, two. Nine other players received one vote each.

Other previous winners are Bill Walton, Portland; Bob McAdoo, Buffalo; Dave Cowens, Boston; Willis Reed, New York; Wes Unseld, Baltimore; Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati, and Bob Cousy, Boston.

Malone played 3,390 minutes last season, more than any other player in the league, and was fifth in scoring with a 24.8 average. He set a season individual high of 37 rebounds against New Orleans on Feb. 9.

Champagne Dousing Downs Team's Hopes

PHOENIX (AP) — Southern Baptist-owned Grand Canyon College will not allow its No.1-ranked baseball team to compete in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics world series this month because players celebrated their last victory with a champagne toast in the locker room.

"Because it's a Christian school, they (the administration) feel we made a disgrace of the school," Ed Bonine, the Antelopes top pitcher, told The Arizona Republic.

Grand Canyon defeated Sam Houston State, 10-2, Friday to earn the Area 2 tournament and a berth in the world series scheduled to begin Memorial Day in Nashville, Tenn.

The team violated school rules, however, with a champagne bash in the locker room after the victory and the school administration decided not to let the team compete in the nationals, the Republic said.

Grand Canyon assistant coach Kent Fulmer told the newspaper that veteran head Coach Dave Brazell had called him to say, "We aren't going."

The school's athletic administrator, Bill Estes, admitted Tuesday that the administration had made a decision and said the NAIA would be notified Wednesday morning. He would not elaborate.

Brazell and school President Bill Williams could not be reached for comment.

Several Antelope players admitted there was champagne in the locker room after Friday's win, and an Associated Press photograph showing the jubilant players popping corks was transmitted across the country and appeared in a Phoenix newspaper Saturday.

A student handbook published by the college, which is owned and operated by the Arizona Southern Baptist Convention, says possession or use of alcoholic beverages on campus is prohibited.

Players claim the champagne was used symbolically in celebration, not to get drunk.

Fulmer said, "It's unfortunate that they pulled the rug from under the kids. They worked hard to get this far and they really wanted to go."

Bonine, who has an 11-record this season, said, "We were wrong by having champagne in the locker room. We used poor discretion but it wasn't how it appeared. The champagne was warm and we just poured it on each other in celebration. None of it was drunk."

"The school is getting pressure from the people who donate money to run the school," Another Antelope pitcher, Jim Gerlach, 12-2, added, "I don't think it's fair to kick 20 ballplayers out of a dream. It just isn't fair. There's no way I'm coming back to play here next year."

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The reality of racing is little more than an afterthought at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway today with the possibility looming of either a 44-car field or no race at all when the starting time arrives for Sunday's Indy 500.

Matters came to a boil Tuesday when car owner Wayne Woodward filed suit to halt the $1 million race and the U.S. Auto Club decided to offer 11 other entrants an opportunity to qualify their cars in a special session Thursday.

Woodward's suit, filed in Marion County Superior Court and scheduled for a hearing Thursday, asks the race be stopped unless his car is reinstated. Woodward's racer was removed from the lineup after qualifying amid allegations of cheating on power restrictions imposed by USAC.

Woodward's car, driven by Dick Ferguson, was not among the 11 offered an unprecedented chance to win places in the field. All of those cars were bumped from the grid during time trials by faster cars.

Any of the cars in the special session qualifying faster than the slowest car now in the field — placed there by Roger McCluskey at 183.908 — would be relegated to the back of the traditional 33-car lineup.

The offer was made by USAC President Dick King under a USAC competition rule allowing special rulings "for the well-being of automotive competition." The only stipulation was that all 33 entrants already in the race agree in writing to the extra qualifying round.

Lindsey Hopkins, owner of the car that Johnny Parsons has qualified in the third row, wouldn't speak for his fellow owners, but said: "I'll agree to it. I think it's a temperate, wise decision."

King said the action was taken because the 11 cars involved qualified before a USAC bulletin was issued prior to the final day of time trials "suggesting" that intake exhaust pipes have a minimum inside diameter of 1.47 inches. The bumped drivers said that amounted to legalizing attempts to override power restrictions and put them at a competitive disadvantage.

The special qualifying session, which would begin at 10 a.m. Thursday, would be open to the cars originally qualified by Steve Krisloff, Spike Gehlhausen, John Martin, Bill Vukovich, Dana Carter, Jerry Karl, Al Loquasto, Tom Bigelow, Joe Saldana, John Mahler and Larry Cannon. Krisloff, Gehlhausen, Bigelow, Saldana and Mahler qualified in other cars after they were bumped, thereby opening the possibility of other drivers qualifying those cars.

King took issue with the rumor that cheating on power restrictions had been widespread on both the first and second weekends of qualifications. He said those reports were "based largely on rumors and hearsay."

"USAC's technical committee, headed by Jack Beckley, are competent, fair-minded people who know what they are doing," he said. "Every wastegate assembly from a qualified car has been inspected and sealed. They must be used on race day in the same configuration as was used during qualifications."

"Nevertheless, many of these previously qualified but bumped car entrants feel that they were deprived of an opportunity to qualify with a reduced exhaust pipe. If the other 33 entrants agree, we will give them that opportunity."

Woodward's car was not included because Ferguson had a second qualifying attempt but failed as his engine died in the final hour of time trials Sunday. Earlier qualification runs of Krisloff and Bigelow also were disallowed, but they were able to make the field later after restrictions in the exhaust pipe were removed. Ferguson's qualification run was disallowed Saturday when officials found that the exhaust pipe had been welded shut.

Woodward said he filed the suit out of desperation. "I don't want this race halted on my behalf in any way, shape or form unless that's what it takes to put my car back in the race," he said. Named as defendants in the suit were USAC, the Speedway and Eldon Rasmussen of Indianapolis, who qualified in 33rd and last position for the race. Woodward said one driver would have to be bumped if Ferguson was reinstated, and Rasmussen was listed although his speed isn't the slowest in the field.

Later, Woodward said the suit would be amended to list McCluskey instead.

College Education Costs Rising Again Next Fall

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Students looking forward to college this fall also can look forward to paying more for their education, but youngsters and parents who plan carefully can ease the burden on the family budget.

An annual survey by the College Scholarship Service of the College Board shows that a student who attends a four-year, private college or university and lives on campus can expect to spend $5,526 during the school year that starts in September.

That's 10.6 percent more than the same student at the same school would have spent during the year that is just ending. The scholarship service said Sunday that average expenses at all types of institutions would be 9 percent higher in the 1979-80 academic year than they were in 1978-79.

It is late in the season to start searching for financial aid, but you may still be able to get some help. The College Scholarship Service says $12.3 billion in public and private aid will be available for students in the coming year. "Many students, including those from middle-income families, may qualify for financial aid and should apply for funds to help them attend colleges they might not be able to afford on your own," said Joe Paul Case, director of program administration for the scholarship service.

If you can't get more money, you will have to figure out how to spend less and the latest study by the scholarship service provides some clues for would-be savers. The budget section where you can trim the most, says the non-profit association, is the one that varies most — tuition.

At private, four-year colleges, tuition, including fees, will average $2,923 in the coming year. At public, four-year colleges, it will average only $680. You could save more than $2-200 a year. Note: Public institutions often charge extra for non-resident students. Ask about additional fees.

You also may be able to save by attending a two-year college. The career you plan on may not require four years of college. If it does, you may be able to get a degree from a two-year school, then enroll in a four-year institution to complete your training. Tuition at private, two-year colleges for the coming year will average $2,043 — almost $900 less than at four-year schools, according to the scholarship service. Tuition at public, two-year colleges will average $389.

Once you know what tuition will cost, sit down with a pencil and paper and figure out your other expenses. They will vary from school to school and individual to individual, but the scholarship service suggests the following averages for the coming year:

—Transportation: $250 to $450.
—Room and board: $1,400 to

$1,700 for students who live on campus, $850 to $1,000 for commuters. (Many families forget to count room and board expenses for a student who lives at home; there may be no rent charge, but feeding a college student is sure to add to the budget.)

—Books and supplies: $230.
—Personal expenses: $500.

Makes Clothes For Discarding

By DOUG SPOMER
American News
ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) — Mildred Baker of Aberdeen is an artist of sorts, but her work usually ends up crumpled on a bar-room floor. Mrs. Baker — a 47-year-old grandmother of 10 — makes costumes for touring strippers.

Her seamstress career for dancing women began about six years ago when she got a part-time job at an Aberdeen lounge. There she got to know several of the strippers and they told her about the large amount of money they paid for costumes.

Mrs. Baker didn't see a lot of competition in this career, and she had been sewing most of her life, so she decided to give it a try.

"I spent almost two years watching and talking with the girls," she said. "The sewing is really a small part of it."

"You have to see what colors match under the lights, and also pay attention to the material and durability of the costume. And the dancer has to be able to put it on and take it off gracefully."

"Basically I guess you'd call them all strippers, but there are different categories," said Mrs. Baker, describing them as ranging from the lowest-paid go-go girls to show girls who perform intricate acts and skits with more elaborate costumes.

"Why, you just wouldn't believe some of the stuff they put on — and take off. They dress up as cowboys, Indians, parlor maids, just about anything."

Since she has started making costumes, Mrs. Baker has gotten to know many of the dancers very well and says they are just as ordinary as the girl next door.

"These are just the nicest, politest girls that you'd ever want to meet," said Mrs. Baker. "They're very respectful, and they always call me Mrs. Baker. Except my best dancer friends call me mom."

"It's kind of a shame some of these girls are looked down on," she said. "Some of them are earning money during the summer so they can apply themselves more to their studies in college. They make more doing this in one week than they would in a month as a waitress."

She often dreams about wearing some of the flashy gowns and outfits she makes, but said that because of her age and the town she lives in, it would be impossible.

"My kids tell me, 'Mother, now don't you get carried away with what you wear.' And I tell them, 'If this was a larger town and people accepted it, you would have the flashiest mother in the whole world.'"

'Vitamin B-15'
Is No Vitamin

NEW YORK (UPI) — Vitamin B-15 is the popular name for pangamic acid, which is not a vitamin at all, says Elaine Rose of Cornell University's consumer education program.

To qualify as a vitamin, Ms. Rose says, a substance must be tested under controlled conditions to prove that the body will function abnormally without it.

Ms. Rose says pangamic acid does not measure up to these standards, and adds that the Food and Drug Administration recently issued a warning to consumers to watch out for false vitamin promotions such as this.

The FDA also says potassium chloride, sometimes called potassium salt, is marketed as a diet supplement or salt substitute — but accidental use of this substance has been known to kill.

Any product labeled as a salt substitute should be used with caution and under a doctor's supervision, Ms. Rose says.

How Tar Heel Representatives, Senators Voted

Roll Call Report Service
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 10 through May 16.

HOUSE
ALASKA — By a vote of 268 for and 157 against, the House approved an Alaskan lands bill favored by the environmental lobby but opposed by oil, mining and timber interests. The bill (HR 39), which was sent to the Senate, gives an area of federal land larger than California virtually blanket protection against man's encroachment. With this vote, the House adopted the strictest of three conservation bills under consideration.

Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., a supporter, said "there ought to be a few places left in the world the way the Almighty made them. Americans will never see a buffalo herd again, and if we are not wise today, our grandchildren will not be able to see a caribou herd."

Rep. Jerry Huckaby, D-La., had sponsored a less-extensive bill to preserve much of the Alaskan wilderness while permitting limited oil and gas development. He said his bill allows for "precious oil and gas mineral supplies" at the same time it "supports all of Alaska's crown jewels and leaves them intact."

Members voting "yea" favored the strongest possible legislative protection of the Alaskan wilderness.

Reps. Charles Whitley, D-3, Ike Andrews, D-4, Stephen Neal, D-5, Richardson Preyer, D-6, Charles Rose, D-7, W. G. Hefner, D-8, and Lamar Gudger, D-11, voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones, D-1, L. H. Fountain, D-2, and James Martin, R-9, voted "nay."

Rep. James Broyhill, R-10, did not vote.

FEDERAL AID — The House refused, 179 for and 222 against, to increase by fifteenfold the fiscal 1980 budget authority for federal payments to help the elderly, handicapped and poor pay their home heating bills. This amendment sought to increase the authority from $11 million to $164 million. The vote came during debate on the resolution (H Con Res 107) setting guidelines for the fiscal 1980 budget, a measure later passed and sent to conference with the Senate.

Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., the sponsor, said the $11 million "is not going to begin even to address the problem of people who are living on fixed incomes, (who are) handicapped, (who are) living at the poverty levels and below."

Rep. Robert Giomo, D-Conn., an opponent, said: "I plead with the members do not start this program now as a new federal giveaway program which will come back to haunt us and make it that much more difficult for us to get control over our budget."

Members voting "nay" wanted a low funding level for the program under which the federal government helps certain disadvantaged persons pay home-heating bills.

Jones, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Hefner, and Gudger voted "yea."

Fountain, Rose and Martin voted "nay."

Broyhill did not vote.

GAS RATIONING — The House voted, 159 for and 246 against, to deny the President standby authority to impose a nationwide gasoline-rationing plan. Although the Senate had okayed the authority, this vote was the final word for the foreseeable future.

Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., a supporter said that "if something happened to one of the countries that supplies us with a great deal of oil, we would have a disaster in this country, because we do not have a rationing plan in place."

Rep. Dave Stockman, R-Mich., an opponent, said: "...if there were ever a case of a cure certain to have a fatal effect on the patient, then this plan takes the prize hands down."

Members voting "yea" wanted the President to have standby authority to order gas rationing in the event of an emergency.

Jones, Whitley, Andrews, Preyer, Rose and Hefner voted "yea."

Fountain, Martin, Broyhill and Gudger voted "nay."

Neal did not vote.

SENATE
RHODESIA — The Senate adopted, 75 for and 19 against, a non-binding "sense of the Senate" resolution urging President Carter to lift the sanction if he were to determine that Rhodesia's April, 1979, elections were free and a major step toward majority rule. Carter has until June 15 to decide.

Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., the sponsor of the resolution, said it would be "especially tragic if the U.S., long the proponent of political liberty and democratic pluralism, were to give less than full support" to the newly-elected government of black Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., an opponent, said he was against the resolution because "it preempts the President's authority in making foreign policy."

Senators voting "yea" favored the non-binding resolution.

Sens. Robert Morgan, D, and Jesse Helms, R, voted "yea."

DISASTER LOANS — By a vote of 46 for and 38 against, the Senate voted to kill an amendment to lower interest rates on federal loans to homeowners whose property is hit by natural disaster. The vote came during debate on S 918, which would provide disaster-assistance loans of three per cent on the first $55,000 and 8.5 per cent on higher amounts. The amendment killed by this vote would have lowered rates to one per cent on the first $10,000, three per cent on the next $30,000 and 7 % per cent on higher amounts. S 918 was later passed and sent to the House.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., a supporter of killing the amendment, said: "One per cent loans in today's market are totally indefensible. They do nothing but open up the (disaster-assistance) program to abuse by those who are seeking easy money."

Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., an opponent, said: "I think we ought to adopt this amendment to demonstrate to disaster victims in the U.S. that we are not without genuine concern and feeling."

Senators voting "nay" favored disaster-assistance loans as low as one per cent.

Helms voted "nay."

Plans Bury People And Pets Together

By JIM MORRIS
ELKRIDGE, Md. (UPI) — William Green, who has buried all types of pets in 15 years at Bonheur Memorial Park, is preparing to bury their owners too.

A local appeals board has opened the way for the park to bury people alongside their pets.

Green figures a human will take up the space of four averaged-sized pet graves. He said he has already taken four orders for plots.

"About 20 others have expressed interest in the new ruling," he said. "Once word gets around, I'm sure there will be more. We've already had calls from Australia and Canada as well as from around the country."

The new burials will create changes in the 11-acre park. A three-acre section in the rear of the cemetery will be opened and used mostly for the human burials, although some people whose pets have already been interred have requested that they be placed near them.

There will be more elaborate markers than the 8,000 small brass plates that give Bonheur the appearance of a military cemetery.

Green said those interested in burial with their pets vary.

"It's not just an old man who has only had his dog for a companion the past 10 years. One woman who is 23 or 24 is buying a grave next to where her dog is buried. And married couples — young ones, too — have expressed interest."

A Baltimore-area funeral director called Green's quoted price of $1,100 for human burial "reasonable."

Green said pet burial starts at $225 for the smallest, a German shepherd would run about $300 to $330 and a racehorse, about $2,000.

The cemetery, in addition to dogs and cats, contains rabbits, mice and hamsters. Green said "we even have an elephant that died at the Baltimore zoo."

The pets, whose owners may view them before burial in a small room behind Green's office, receive the same funeral most humans get.

"All our burials are done the same way as across the street," said Green, pointing to Meadowridge Memorial Park — for humans only — across a busy highway.

"Most people have their own ministers perform the service, although some find reasons why they can't do it," he said. "We have all religions here — there's even a Buddhist priest who has performed services for a group of Chinese families who live near here."

Club Plans June Outing

Seventy-five members of the Town and Country Senior Citizens Club met for a luncheon and business session Thursday in the fellowship hall of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

According to Mrs. Sarah Ashton, president, there are still some reservations open for the trip to Manteo June 6. Interested members should contact Mrs. Ashton immediately.

Several Town and Country members will aid the American Legion Auxiliary in distributing poppies this Friday and Saturday.

Walter Wilder, resident artist at Pitt Technical Institute, entertained club members with musical selections on the lute, recorder and ocarina.

Members serving on the luncheon committee were as follows: Mrs. Mamie Roper, Mrs. Ruby Parkerson, Mrs. Lucy Hannaford, Mrs. Louise Ward, Mrs. Lillian McDaniel, Mrs. Sadie Worthington and Miss Louise Tucker.

The Rev. Adrian Brown opened the meeting with prayers. Mrs. Ruby Parkerson gave the Sunshine report.

TO LABOR CAMPS

Circles And Sticks Not For Writing

By ROSALIND ROSSI
CHICAGO (UPI) — "Circles and sticks" may not sound very ominous, but to Donald Neal Thurber they're a formidable foe.

Thurber says he is fighting illogic, conformity and a 50-year tradition in an attempt to persuade elementary schools to use his new approach to printing, called D'Nealian handwriting.

Thurber, 50, principal of Gibraltar School System in Rockwood, Mich., hopes teachers will discard traditional printing, where letters are formed by joining component parts of "circles and sticks," in favor of his new method.

"It's my professional dedication to blow away circles and sticks forever," said Thurber at a teacher workshop here. "It creates frustration, confusion. It's illogical, conformist and leads no where."

"I'm comfortable in saying, that within a decade, everyone in the country will be using the D'Nealian method."

Thurber, an educator since 1953 with a masters degree in reading, called D'Nealian "the first major change in handwriting in 57 years."

In contrast to traditional printing, a D'Nealian printer writes most letters in one continuous stroke — without lifting the pencil from the paper. Letters are slanted and need only simple joining strokes to change them into cursive writing.

The program stresses legibility but recognizes that printing is an individual project and no two people write alike, Thurber said. Different degrees of slant are allowed, as is variety in spacing and openings of letters.

D'Nealian reduces student frustration because there is more flexibility in what is considered the "right" way to write, Thurber said. For this reason, he said, the method has been particularly effective with learning disabled children.

D'Nealian teachers also are instructed to use a lingo that is attractive to students when explaining how to form letters. For example, traditionally, a teacher would tell students to form an "a" by joining a circle to a stick.

"Most kids find it difficult to draw a perfectly round circle, let alone put it up against a perfectly straight stick," Thurber said.

However, a D'Nealian printer slants his "a" and is told to write it in one stroke by moving his pencil "around, up, down, and a monkey tail."

A "b" is formed with a "high start, down, around, up into a tummy." A "g" begins "around, down, up, down, and a fishhook under water."

Thurber recommends teachers begin by asking students to trace letters on their own fist hands, so they are introduced to printing through the sense of touch. Letters are not presented alphabetically, but according to similar formations. By the end of the first teaching day, a child can start putting together simple words, like "add," "dad," and "dog."

Teachers reported D'Nealian's similarities to cursive allow many students to begin cursive writing as early as the end of first grade.

"It's much easier than learning separate components of circles and sticks," said Myra Welling, a second grade teacher at Hale Elementary in Minneapolis. "The student reaction is excellent. And it's so close to cursive that a lot of kids start cursive on their own."

Marie De Haven, a teacher at Candlebrook Elementary in King of Prussia, Pa., said many students are attracted to D'Nealian because they don't have to use "jumbo pencils" or lined paper, and the printing looks more "adult."

"As I go through the classroom, I think I see better printing today than I saw four years ago," said Caroline Sapsford, principal at Bates Elementary School in Dexter, Mich.

"It's going over very well," Thurber said of the program, which was research tested for 10 years before being marketed through Scott, Foresman and Co. About 4,000 schools across the country currently are using the method.

Volunteers Are Harder To Come By

By HENRY DAVID ROSSO
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Millions of Americans every day are doing something for nothing — volunteer work for some cause they believe in. But there are some ominous signs that volunteerism in the United States is on the wane.

This has a number of people worried because a number of activities that Americans take for granted — Red Cross disaster aid, for one — could not continue without a ready supply of volunteers.

Because the problem of volunteer work for civilian causes happens to dovetail with shortfalls in recruiting for the all-volunteer armed forces the United States has sought to maintain since the end of the Vietnam War, it is getting attention in Washington.

Two proposals have surfaced this year which would nudge the nation's youth to dedicate themselves to a year or two of service in either civilian or military capacity.

The proposals have received praise from people who would not be affected. The criticism has come from those who would.

Rep. Paul McCloskey, R-Calif., introduced legislation to replace the Selective Service System with a National Service System.

The bill would require every American, male and female, to register at age 17. At age 18, each would have three choices: volunteer work in a civilian activity for one year; active service in the military for two years; or active military duty for six months followed by five and a half years reserve obligation.

The young person who turned down these options would be subject to military draft until age 24.

A study conducted by the Potomac Institute proposed similar programs by which America's youth would be engaged in some sort of voluntary service for a year.

The Committee for the Study of National Service last February announced a plan whereby at least 1 million young people would be employed on a volunteer basis either in a civilian or military capacity.

The committee, co-chaired by Harris Woffard, former president of Bryn Mawr College, and Jacqueline Grennan Wexler, president of Hunter College, said such existing programs as the Peace Corps would become part of national service.

McCloskey's proposal would give youths who chose two years of military service, four years of educational and training benefits. If the idea caught on, he says "there might be no need to have a draft."

"Congress doesn't have the power to force people to do anything except serve in the military," McCloskey said. "But the bill makes it possible to avoid military service."

McCloskey's office was the scene of a noisy demonstration in April by young people protesting his legislation. McCloskey, one of the first Republicans to publicly oppose the Vietnam war, heard echoes of the chants of a decade earlier — "Hell, no, we won't go."

The call to service is not new.

Almost two decades ago President John F. Kennedy began the Peace Corps and in 1965, President Lyndon B. Johnson proposed that the nation "search for new ways" through which "every young American will have the opportunity — and feel the obligation — to give at least a few years of his or her life to the service of others in the nation and in the world."

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara suggested in 1966 that young Americans serve for two years in either a military or civilian capacity. Those not entering the military, he said, could serve in the Peace Corps or in "some other volunteer development work at home or abroad."

But times changed between Kennedy's Peace Corps and the Johnson-McNamara call to youth to serve their country as volunteers.

Kennedy was assassinated and opposition to the war in Vietnam was growing. The situation did not improve with the assassinations of Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy followed by Watergate.

"The seventies began with a spirit far removed from 'Ask not what your country can do for you — ask what you can do for your country,'" the national service report said.

But the report expressed optimism that the time may have come for another attempt at national volunteer service.

There presently are millions of people of all ages doing volunteer work. Depending on whom you ask, the number ranges from 20 million to 55 million.

ACTION, the parent organization of the Peace Corps, lists 280,639 American volunteers serving in the Peace Corps and other organizations such as VISTA (Volunteers In Service To America).

But the American Association of Fund Raising Councils said in its 1978 report that "America may be heading for the day not enough volunteers volunteer."

The AAFRC study said psychologists attribute the worry that volunteerism may be declining to "a variety of factors" including the "women's movement, an increased political militancy among the disadvantaged and a tendency to so-called self-absorption, which one behaviorist characterized as 'enlightened selfishness.'"

The AAFRC said the National Organization for Women (NOW) has passed a resolution stating that all unpaid volunteer work is "an unconscionable exploitation."

ACTION Director Sam Brown, who more than a decade ago organized demonstrators against the Vietnam War, said in talks to student groups he finds "there are a lot of young people looking for a way to serve."

"I'm always being told, 'Look back on the good old days of the war protests,'" Brown said in an interview. But "we considered it a victory for volunteer service, if 40 or 50 people show up. The good old days were not really that good."

"We (ACTION) had some 200,000 information calls last year," he said. "That's a whole lot of folks."

Cynthia Wedel, national volunteer chairman for the American Red Cross, said the Red Cross has no trouble getting volunteers per se but "we're having trouble getting different kinds of volunteers."

"We used to depend on the middle-aged housewife, but that group is shrinking fast because women are going to work," she said. The slack is being taken up by arranging for employed people to do volunteer work: "Many people find their jobs routine and dull and love a chance to become more creative."

"Today's young people are serious, concerned and willing to work," she said. "They know what's going on and are awfully willing to work ... but they want to be in on the planning."

Brown put it another way. "I don't believe young people are a problem to society, rather society is more a problem to the young," he said. "We need to turn that around. We need to find a way that people can serve so they are real participants."

He said a draft should provide "an alternative," what he called, "an option for people whose instincts... are different."

Sen. Paul E. Tsongas, D-Mass., a former Peace Corps member, said his two years as a Peace Corps volunteer "had more influence over the course of my life than any other event." In a statement released with the committee report, Tsongas said "undoubtedly, the people served and the people who serve would mutually benefit."

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., said the committee's report should be made an issue of debate in schools throughout the nation, adding that he was having copies of the report distributed to schools in his Michigan district.

Vernon E. Jordan, president of the National Urban League, said it "should be evident to the nation as a whole that we must provide increasing opportunities for our young people or else run the risk of seeing their lives wasted."

Alan Beals, executive director of the National League of Cities, said the League was asking mayors throughout the country to initiate studies of the problem.

Yesterday's Cryptquip - CURIOUS ORCHIDS THRILLED TODDLER.

Today's Cryptquip clue: B equals P
The Cryptquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Numbers Provide A Basis For Language

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - A former Indian businessman has devised a number-based language which he hopes will unite the world.

"Abasama," a word which has no meaning, is the name its originator, K.R. Gopalakrishna, 48, has given to both his language and to himself.

Pronouns like I, she, he or it have the same root number, 1,000. The zeros change to other figures to denote gender, case and whether the word is singular or plural.

"And numerical values are constant - they don't change," said the enthusiastic Abasama, who says he developed his language over the past 15 years.

So far, only Abasama himself has mastered the language. But more than 1,000 persons subscribe to a monthly magazine about it, he says, adding that some scholars have praised his system.

"You are a pain in the neck," is translated into Abasama as "1131 3310 1590 1654651 2250 1411237," which is pronounced: "Kacha chikom kupom kuntinduk gantom kingith."

All the words are found in a 2,500-entry English-Abasama dictionary. The inventor plans to expand it to more than five times the size.

"The greatest advantage of the dictionary is that since it is based on numbers, it gives the same meaning for a word no matter what language is concerned, which no other dictionary can," Abasama told The Associated Press.

He sees great advantages if his number script is used for data processing and computer programming.

"Any theory or project can be reduced to its numerical value and stored in the computer for ready use and translation into any language for any person who needs the knowledge," he said.

Abasama claims his language lends itself more to scientific usage than Esperanto, the first attempt at an international language, which uses Roman letters.

He also asserts that Abasama is ideal for communicating with possible intelligent life in outer space as it is "more logical" than other languages on earth.

Summer Jobs For About 700

According to the Martin County Community Action Manpower Staff, approximately 700 economically disadvantaged young people from ages 14-21 in Martin, Pitt and Beaufort Counties may have a chance to become involved in the CETA Summer Work Experience Program this summer.

Participants in the program will be given the opportunity to work at public or private non-profit institutions for 36 hours a week, with four hours allotted for classes in labor market orientation and career education or special tutoring sessions. At least 100 of the participants will be enrolled in vocational education classes for 20 hours per week and 20 hours on the job.

According to Charles Wilder, program director, participants will be able to gain valuable work experience and earn money to contribute to the total family income.

Haywood L. Harris, executive director, noted that coordination will be handled through the Employment Security Commission, Social Services, Health Departments, Specialized Opportunity Services, Youth Opportunity Services, Vocational Rehabilitation, Boards of Education, Technical Institutes, Community Colleges, private non-profit organizations and other businesses. The program will begin June 18 and end August 10.

Applications are being taken through the Mt. Hermon Masonic Lodge in Greenville and the Professional Building, Market St., Washington. The Martin County Community Action office is located on W. Main St., Williamston.

at the highest level.

I had tried to deflect the opponents from completing the rubber by putting in what for me was a very daring overcall at the four-level. I would not have liked it if South had doubled, though we might have wriggled out to our 4-4 spade fit, which could have lessened the disaster. But South persisted to game in hearts, and my partner led the king of spades.

Now I knew that my partner was not the sort of player who would indiscriminately lead a suit other than the one bid by his partner, so I decided that he might well be void in diamonds. If we could score two diamond ruffs in addition to two spade tricks, we would do exceedingly well. But where were the necessary entries to my hand?

The lead of the king of spades marked partner with the queen. It dawned on me that, if partner held the jack of spades as well, my ten would be the second vital entry. Accordingly, I overtook the king of spades with the ace and shifted to the queen of diamonds, to show that my entry was in the higher-ranking suit.

Partner got my message. He ruffed the diamond and dutifully returned the deuce of spades. My ten held the trick, and another diamond ruff spelled finis to North-South's hopes of a quick rubber.

The fates were kind. We went on to score game on the next two deals and win the rubber. I still feel we deserved it—we earned it by our defense on this hand.

As ever,
 Charlie

Dear Omar:
 You ask me what I think is the most important attribute of the bridge expert. It is quite simple: Respect and confidence in the ability of his partner!

As an example, I would like to show you this hand, which I defended almost 50 years ago in Philadelphia. My partner was a relative newcomer to the area, but in the few times I had watched him, I could see that he knew how to handle himself in combat

Sentenced In 1977 Death

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - A Raleigh man was sentenced to four years in prison Tuesday after he pleaded guilty in Wake County Superior Court to involuntary manslaughter in the 1977 death of his 5-year-old stepdaughter.

Charles T. Mapp Jr. had been on trial for second-degree murder in the death of Margaret Catherine Spence. He pleaded not guilty to the charge last month but after a plea bargain, he pleaded guilty to the lesser charge Tuesday before testimony began.

Last month, Mapp's wife, Margaret Catherine Mapp, was convicted of second-degree murder in the child's death.

Mapp was originally on trial with his wife, but the judge ordered him tried separately at the request of his attorney.

Judge A. Pilston Godwin Jr. sentenced Mapp to not less than three years and 360 days nor more than four years in prison.

Godwin also recommended that Mapp be placed on work release.

During Mrs. Mapp's trial, a pathologist testified that the child died from a blood clot in her throat and was suffering from severe blood poisoning from untreated wounds.

A child-abuse specialist testified that based on the number of wounds on the child, he considered the child a victim of the "battered-child syndrome."

NOTICE
TO ALL INTERESTED AGENCIES, GROUPS AND PERSONS:
The City of Greenville proposes to request the US Department of Housing and Urban Development to release Federal funds under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (PL 93-383) to be used for the following project:

a. Construction of sidewalks in the vicinity of Sadie Sautter School.
b. The project proposes to construct sidewalks in the area to provide safe access for schoolchildren to Sadie Sautter School.
c. The project is located in Enumeration Districts 27, 28, and 29. Total projected costs $12,500.
It has been determined that such request for release of Federal funds constitute an action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment and accordingly, the City of Greenville has decided not to prepare an Environmental Impact Statement as required by the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (PL 91-190).

The reasons for such a decision not to prepare such statement were as follows:
Project One
Sidewalk construction will be concentrated along sections of Battle, Roosevelt, Tyson, and Fleming Streets. Without implementation, access to Sadie Sautter School will continue to be hazardous to schoolchildren walking back and forth. Adverse effects of the project, limited to the period of construction.
An Environmental Review Record respecting the within projects has been made by the City of Greenville which documents the environmental review of the project and more fully sets forth the reasons why such statements are not required. The Environmental Review Records are on file at City Hall and are available for public examination and copying upon request at the office of the City Planner between the hours of 8:00 AM and 5:00 PM during weekdays.
No further review of such projects is proposed to be conducted prior to the request for release of Federal funds.
Interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments to the City of Greenville to the office of the Mayor, South written comments received will be considered on or before June 15, 1979. All such comments so received will be considered in the preparation of the Environmental Review Record for the project prior to June 15, 1979.

Benson Chief Is Cleared

BENSON, N.C. (AP) — Benson Police Chief Lindell Nordan has been cleared of charges by former police officers of misconduct involving traffic cases. District Attorney John W. Twisdale said Tuesday that he had found "no evidence of misconduct or anything...illegal" following complaints that Nordan had ordered traffic cases dismissed.

Twisdale said in a statement to Benson Town Attorney Donald Parker that he saw no need for further investigation into the case.

Five of Benson's eight policemen resigned in late April and early May after telling town officials that Nordan had ordered traffic cases dismissed.

Nordan had denied that he ordered officers to ask for dismissals.

Twisdale said the former officers cited 11 cases and that in each case, "there appears to be extenuating and mitigating circumstances which justify the dismissals."

NEWEST ANGEL — Actress-model Shelley Hack, the Charlie Girl on the television commercial, is the new angel on ABC-TV's "Charlie's Angels", producer Aaron Spelling announced Tuesday. Miss Hack is to replace Kate Jackson, who quit the series after three years as angel Sabrina Duncan. (AP Laserphoto)

Methodists To Gather

The annual meeting of congregations of the North Carolina United Methodist Conference will be held at Methodist College June 4-7, with Bishop Robert M. Blackburn presiding.

During the four days, the laity and clergy will hear reports from the conference agencies and related institutions, share in worship, including two ordination services and vote on the conference program and the to be raised in 1980.

The conference will also include the election of a delegation to represent the conference at the United Methodist General Conference (national) and Jurisdictional Conference (Southeast region) in 1980.

Each United Methodist charge, which includes one or more churches to which one pastor is assigned, will send a clergyman and a lay member to the annual conference. Over 1400 persons are expected to attend.

The conference encompasses the eastern 56 counties of the state and includes 212,280 United Methodists in 847 churches.

The new appointments of ministers for 1979-80 will become effective when read by Bishop Blackburn at the close of the annual conference, June 7.

Sidewalk Rollerskating Enjoys A General Revival

By JACK V. FOX
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Are you ready, America, for the latest craze out of Southern California?

Roller skating! Not your discos and rinks. Outdoor, sidewalk roller skating. Like when we were kids.

Of course, it isn't your basic scabbled knee, clamp skate, leather strap, key around the neck, metal wheels, spine-jarring, racket-creating, stubby cement roller skating.

A good pair of shoe-skates now costs around $90 although you can get them for as low as $45 and go as high as $500. Then there are the accessories. Knee pads. Elbow pads. Wrist bands. A few helmets but not many because they create a "negative image."

Then there is the optional equipment. Transistor radios implanted in head sets that look like giant ear muffs or airline pilots' earphones so you can skate to music. For the more esoteric, cassette decks strapped to the back so you can play tapes and not be annoyed by commercials.

The wheels are made of a plastic called urethane so skating is almost noiseless. The ball bearings are ground to the precision of the wheels of the racing cars in the Indianapolis 500.

The age bracket has changed, too. The 11-year-olds have been elbowed out of the way — by price among other things — by a set that runs principally 20 and over and employs skating as a sort of mobile courting rite.

Pot smoking on skates is considered declassé although beer can skating sometimes seems almost de rigeur. Some young mothers are seen skating with baby carriages. There are, of course, the hot rods doing intricate turns and twists but they are outnumbered by the stumblers and lurchers.

One thing has not changed.

There is a lot of falling down. The roller skate phenomenon is swelling geographically. There are reports that the natives of Central Park in New York City are adopting the custom. From Honolulu, comes the word that the wahines are renting skates in Waikiki and cruising nearly deserted sidewalks between 11 p.m. and 3 a.m.

And San Francisco! In Golden Gate Park they cordon off the streets on weekends and the roller skaters go undulating along the gentle rises. One correspondent said the picturesque scene of skaters in bright costumes reminded him of a French impressionist painting of gay (in the original sense of the word) young people cavorting in springtime on the boulevards of Paris.

But, as they must, the origins go to Southern California.

There is a stretch of 20 miles of beachfront south of Los Angeles running from Santa Monica to Redondo Beach which is the vortex of the revival. At its center is the community of Venice which still has the stagnant remnants of a canal system which an enterprising real estate developer built in the 1920s as a copy of the Italian city.

Gondolas no longer ply the canals. It is the eternal home, however, of male muscle builders, beauty queens, surfers, skateboarders, volley ball players, sun bathers, bicyclists, swimmers, hula hoopers. Also winos and muggers.

On a May weekend these days the sidewalks and bike paths of the 20-mile stretch are host to something like 100,000-plus rollerskaters. The numbers will swell when summer arrives. The bicyclists used to outnumber them 20-1 but now the ratio is being rapidly reversed.

And, therein, lies a conflict which is becoming increasingly volatile.

The city of Los Angeles built a bicycle path along most of the 20 miles except for a detour around Marina Del Ray. Bicycle rental shops prospered. For years the scene has been an idyll out of the turn of the century with certain costume aberrations.

Now the skate rental shops have moved in. For $1.50 an hour you can rent a pair of skates. For $4 you can keep them all day. The deposit is either your driver's license or $50.

There is a pedestrian walkway which is open to the skaters. The bike path is supposed to be exclusive to the cyclists. But its concrete surface is so smooth — "it seems like ice skating" — so enticing that Venice has turned into a maelstrom of cyclists, skaters, walkers and skateboarders.

The Los Angeles Police Department has dozens of men trying to keep order. It is a $15 violation to roller skate on the bike paths. But so far only citations have been issued. In one small area, a police officer reported, the paramedics cart off in ambulances a half dozen people a day suffering anything from broken legs to aching tailbones.

The outdoor roller skating revival had to start somewhere and the consensus is that 25-year-old Jeff Rosenberg of Venice was the pioneer. Rosenberg is willing to accept that accolade as the guru of the cult.

Rosenberg is the owner of an outfit called "Cheap Skates." (Get it?) It sells and rents roller skates including one outlet in Venice. Rosenberg lives on the second floor of an apartment facing the Pacific Ocean in Venice.

Here is his story:

"Five years ago I was a student at Santa Monica City College. I was working in odd jobs including a plumbing salesman and in a clothing store. I played football and basketball. I used to roller skate as a kid and decided to take it up again. For one thing I didn't have much money and it was hard to find a place to park at the school for a car.

"I tried to find a pair of roller skates and the stores just didn't have them, at least not in my size. It took me three months to find a pair. I started skating and my friends joined me and we thought it was great. It was as much fun as when I was a kid.

"So I got this idea — why not try to bring back roller skating? I only had $1,500 and I couldn't afford to rent a place in Venice so I got a van and backed it up on the beach and started renting the skates. I'll never forget the day. It was June 15, 1976.

"At first we had very poor business. I would skate around the sidewalk and I got a couple of friends to skate around. Kinda like skills. Some of our first customers were the winos. They tried it a few times and went back to the bottle.

"There were a bunch of looky-loos at first and then they began trying it and the next thing you know there were more customers than we had skates. At that time there were about 15 bicycle rental shops and only my skate shop."

Rosenberg says his business has bloomed so that he expects to gross between $2-3 million this year in sales, rentals and accessories. He is opening a rental outlet in Central Park in New York. Others in Newport Beach, Calif., Texas and Arizona.

Rosenberg says that the tremendous interest in jogging was part of the boom. He says that jogging is great for some people but not for everyone but that roller skating does not cause some of the problems of stress and jarring the body.

He says that he does not believe roller skating will be a fad that fades away after a few years although he acknowledges that has been happening to the skate board business.

Rosenberg also acknowledges the conflict in this area between cyclists and skaters but he says he feels it is something authorities can work out.

Rinks, of course, have been doing a big business for years and disco skating is coming on strong. Singer Linda Ronstadt is a big fan. Cher rents an entire rink once a month for a skating party.

But what about the common folk? Why is outdoor roller skating making such a comeback? We asked Lisa Adler, a college student in her 20s who lives with her seven-year-old son in Venice, why she took it up.

"Because I am a slavish follower of fads," she said. "Before this I was into meditation. Before that hula hoops.

"No, seriously, it's really great fun. A great feeling. Wonderful exercise. My son and I got skates and we have a ball."

Joe Shevelson, vice president of Chicago Roller Skates, says demand has exceeded their capacity.

"Just yesterday one of the big sporting goods owners in Chicago said he had never seen a boom like this," Shevelson said.

Howard Iszart runs a small skate shop in Los Angeles. Like the others, he is selling the new shoe skates in high volume but he also has some old-fashioned customers.

"People are digging into closets and coming up with rusty old clamp skates that haven't been used for years and years and bringing them in here for me to fix up and put on new wheels. Some of them prefer the old metal wheels," Iszart says.

We can relate to that.

Advised On Retiring, Enjoying It

EDITOR'S NOTE — How to retire and like it is a growing concern for employee and employer alike. Enter pre-retirement counselors, most of them who retired and didn't like it.

By TERRY KIRKPATRICK
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — When Bernard Belinsky retires from the Bulova Watch Co. he won't get the traditional sendoff — a gold watch, a handshake and a "What's your hurry, fella."

Although Bulova still sells about 20,000 custom-made gold retirement watches a year, it's one of a growing number of companies trying a new departing gift: A course on successful retirement.

"I have enough gold watches right now to hold me awhile," Belinsky says. (Three. Bulovas.) What he does want is advice on how to fill his time and how to make ends meet when the paychecks stop.

"The one prime thing is, can we survive, really survive?"

Some of his questions were answered in a series of eight meetings in which he and 60 other employees were given pointers on money, health, housing, legal and second-career problems of the elderly.

The retirement advice business is fairly new, but booming. One of the latest entrants is Ralph Lutrin, who has set up a course at Fordham University to train pre-retirement consultants. Lutrin and four of his students, all retired, designed the Bulova program.

With the birthrate dropping and people living longer, he says, "what was a minor minority is now going to become a major minority. If the elderly are totally unprepared, we're going to have a lot of misfits in our society."

Lutrin says he was a misfit when he retired at age 40 (he could afford it) as president of a food manufacturing and catering firm. He set up a winter home in Florida and a summer home on Long Island and started the semiannual shuttle — and "soon became bored."

He taught English for a while, wrote for a newspaper, sold advertising for it, managed an art gallery, became a real estate broker, went back to school for a degree in psychoanalytic counseling, began counseling families and older people and hired himself out to corporations as a consultant on retirement.

"Pre-retirement counseling is very much on the upswing," says Roger Omeara, who does retirement studies for the Conference Board, a business research organization. "Probably more so now that the mandatory retirement age has been pushed to 70."

Retiring a less productive older worker becomes harder with the higher age, he says, and "companies are going to have to increase the value of the lures."

"It's naive to think they're only concerned with the retiree," Lutrin told his class in a recent discussion on how to sell the idea of retirement seminars to corporations. "There is some corporate conscience, but there's a question of what's in it for them."

Retirement was little known before the industrial age. Lutrin says, and it was not until about 100 years ago that the age of 65 — decreed by Chancellor Bismarck in Germany — was chosen.

A person nearing retirement should look at his current spending, estimate his retirement income then decide what to give up to make them match. Ideally, Lutrin says, a retired person should maintain 80 percent of a working year's income.

And the earlier a person starts planning, the better.

Bernard Belinsky, for instance, is only 55 — 10 years from retirement as Bulova's manager of customer relations in the clock department. "The years fly by before you realize it," he says.

He learned in one of the sessions that he can work part-time as an accountant without reducing his Social Security benefits, and that some employment agencies specialize in placing retired people.

Working a few days a week would meet another need. He already suspects what Lutrin knows from experience.

"My wife and I enjoy golf, but I don't think a person could spend seven days a week playing golf. I don't think I'm the type to fully retire at 65. I couldn't sit in front of a TV set and rock."

Students On Tour Of D.C.

GRIMESLAND — A group of eighth grade students from G. R. Whitfield School recently toured Washington, D. C.
 Highlights of the trip included visits to the Capitol, the Supreme Court Building, the Arlington Memorial Cemetery, Embassy Row, Kennedy Center, National Cathedral and Smithsonian Mall.
 While in Washington, the students visited Congressman Walter B. Jones, who presented them with a new flag for the school. Congressman Jones answered questions about his duties for the students.
 The following students participated in the trip: Gary Adams, Kim Baker, Georgia Boseman, Charlie Dawson, David Elks, Keith Gatlin, Alvah Hardee Jr., James Hardee, Martha Harding, Alice Harrison, William Hines, Adriann Howard, Garrette Jones, Roger Jones, Lynn Kite, Daniel McLawhorn, Catissa Martin, Cleve Mills, Deana Ross, Lynn Stokes, Ray Taft, Pete Thompson, Kim Tripp, Monnie Ussery, and Wanda Venters.
 Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hardee, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tucker, Mrs. Ann Baker, Mrs. Linda Howard and Mrs. Eleanor Mills accompanied the students on the trip.

Not All Swedes Approve 'No Punishment' Law

By DICK SODERLUND
Associated Press Writer
STOCKHOLM (AP) — A new law that forbids parents from beating, spanking, cuffing or otherwise harming their children takes effect in Sweden in July, but some parents are not happy about it.

One father questioned said he thought spanking was good for children, and a spokesman for the small Maranata religious sect said frankly: "We will go underground if we have to but we will continue to exercise our natural rights."

Sweden will become the first nation with such a law, adopting it in the International Year of the Child. The law is a new step in a long process aimed at protecting children's rights here. A children's ombudsman and an emergency phone watch for youngsters already exist.

When the minority Liberal government introduced the bill to ban parents from spanking last March, Justice Minister Sven Romanus said it means "our society has taken an increasingly negative view of beating or spanking as a means of bringing up children."

There has been no organized opposition to the law but reactions from jurists, lawmakers, and parents have been mixed. Said one annoyed father of three:

"Spanking and spanking ... there's a difference between deliberate spanking and what I would call an outburst of temper. I never spanked my kids in cold blood, only on the spur of the moment. I am sure it does not hurt them but help them."

Most critical of the law were spokesmen for the Maranata sect, a group of about 300 persons who split from the Pentecostal Church in the 1960s. It sees physical chastisement by parents as a natural means of correction and an "ethical, moral and religious right."

The sect operates its own "pilgrim" schools in protest against the public school system, and Hans Brynte, principal of one Maranata school, said:

"If the authorities try to stop us we will go underground and fight on. They are suddenly outlawing an old cultural tradition and parents are declared idiots incapable of rearing their children. People in other countries will laugh at this and a whole generation will be criminalized because some sociologists shall have their way."

When the new law was debated in Parliament, Conservative Tore Nilsson protested it. Quoting the Bible, ancient Icelandic life rules of the book Havamal and a centuries-old Swedish law document, he said, "The law against spanking conflicts with our cultural tradition, with parents rights and personal integrity and with Western humanism." Justice Minister Romanus took a different view. "This development reflects the now-dominant view that the child is an independent individual who can demand full respect for his person, integrity and own value," he said.

The new law prohibits "any act which, for the purpose of punishing, causes the child physical injury or pain, even if the disturbance is mild and passing." It is meant to include psychological punishment, but legal experts have criticized the wording on this as too vague.

Many child psychiatrists, psychologists, sociologists and doctors have welcomed the new law as necessary to protect children.

"This law is long overdue because so-called spanking has in effect been a legalized, milder form of assault and battery or could lead to worse abuse," said Gunnell Linde who belongs to a children's rights organization and has written a book on child beating.

And one welfare officer said: "In my work, I often become amazed at how little parents know about their children. They don't have to be bad to beat them, just ignorant, teaching the kids only the most primitive and ineffective way to solence against someone weaker."

Grade school children aged 8-10 polled at a recreational center were definitely against being spanked — not surprisingly — though they found it natural to occasionally beat a brother or sister themselves.

Peter, 10, noted, "My sister is always riling me. Then I hit her but that's OK because we are evenly matched. If my dad would hit me, or mom, it would not be fair but I would hit back too ..."

"Hitting is no good," he continued. "But some parents think they cannot bring up kids without spanking them. There the only thing is to run away for awhile so they become anxious and regret it." Legal medical officer Sven-Olof Lidholm took a stern view of parents who beat their children. Criticizing authorities for laxness in caring for maltreated youngsters, he said he receives more than 600 reports of child beatings annually about 10 of them fatal. And he believes there are perhaps some 5,000 other children who are beaten regularly without being reported.

The new ban does not carry any specific punishment. However, ordinary criminal law allows sentences of up to 10 years for serious cases and up to two years in milder ones.

Protecting children from bodily harm has been a long process in Sweden. Flogging in schools was partially banned in 1918, but as late as 1958 teachers in lower grade schools were still allowed to use some physical punishment on students.

Pompeii Lives Again In New York Exhibition

By JOAN BRUNSKILL
NEW YORK (AP) — "Pompeii AD79," the exhibition now at New York's American Museum of Natural History, artfully telescopes 1,900 years to show what life was like in a provincial Roman city.

Its companion exhibition, "Volcano!," thunderously dramatizes the scientific background of the catastrophe that was a blessing in disguise — for succeeding generations, at least. It preserved in that city a wealth of color and detail that most ancient ruins lack, from glowing murals to graffiti, from solemn statues to egg-cups.

The Pompeii show is made up of about 350 objects retrieved from underneath the blanket of ash and mud which buried Pompeii and Herculaneum when Vesuvius blew up one horrifying morning in late summer in A.D. 79.

Most of the exhibits, which then lay entombed in the forgotten sites for 1,600 years, are on loan from the National Archaeological Museum in Naples and the Antiquarium in Pompeii. They include gold jewelry and silverware, sculpture, mosaics, wall paintings, tools and household items.

In the museum's pleasing installation these Pompeian relics are grouped into eight sections — the house, religions, trades and occupations, leisure and so forth. "Beautiful objects in the context of how Pompeians used them," is how the museum planned it, blending art and science in one environment. The collection had been shown previously in art museums, but the Natural History Museum is an appropriate showcase, too. For this is not a great "high art" exhibition: its strength is that it's an exceptionally fine and revealing display of decorative arts — an ethnological House and Gardens feature of its times — with much social and historical content.

The show makes it plain there was indeed gracious living then for the rich who had the desire and the skilled artisans available to make their villas places of beauty. Here are the elegant accessories, the bric-a-brac they had around them. But here, too, are the working tools of the craftsmen who made the artifacts, tradesmen's stamps and weights, evidence of how business life, street games, the pursuit of the arts, and the raffish side of life flourished in the Pompeii of long ago.

Pompeii did not die slowly; it wasn't built over, plundered or modernized. And so what has been found there is a direct link to that long ago — the fresh tones of the wall-paintings, the touching detail of trinkets left lying around the house.

The marvelous advantage of the actual site of Pompeii, its history-in-place quality with streets to be walked along and homes to enter, is suggested in the museum's arrangement. The exhibition space is divided into variously sized, room-scale areas, lined with the wall-paintings, softly lit and set off with green, growing plants. There's even an appealing, life-size peristyle garden, with trees and sculpture around a fountain.

For a 20th-century visitor knowing the shadow that loomed over that sunny scene, the warm liveliness of the show has a poignant quality. The Pompeians hadn't suspected Vesuvius might become active, although an ominous earthquake in A.D. 62 had caused extensive damage and in 79 they were still rebuilding. But all around them and in their houses were their shrines and statues of the multiplicity of gods they worshiped, gods who still didn't save their city.

The sobering last section of the show contains two plaster casts, made from molds of their bodies, of a girl and a dog who didn't get away in time, although probably about 18,000 of Pompeii's 20,000 residents did.

"Volcano!" is a multimedia presentation prepared with the help of the museum's Department of Mineral Sciences, and it has an indefinite closing date.

The Pompeii show, which was arranged through the cooperation of the Italian Ministry of Culture, and is supported in part through grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities and Xerox Corp., will close July 31.

It has already been seen in Europe, and in Boston, Chicago and Dallas, and this is its final stop in North America.

LADY OF THE LIGHTHOUSE — Diane Werling, 35, adjusts a 500-watt lamp inside the lens of the Grosse Point Lighthouse on the Lake Michigan shoreline in Evanston (Ill.). No "small-package" price premium! Notice how some store's meat departments quietly increase the per-pound charge for small packages of ground beef, chops, thin steaks, small roasts? Kroger just won't do that! The price-per-pound is the price-per-pound - whether the package weights a half pound or less, just a shade over three-quarters...or 2 1/4 pounds.
