Enforcing Voluntary Guidelines Barred

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge ruled today that President Carter has acted unconstitutionally in trying to enforce his "voluntary" anti-inflation guidelines by threatening to withhold federal contracts.

Dealing a heavy setback to Carter's anti-inflation program, U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker ruled that Carter cannot legally deny federal contracts to companies that violate his wage-price guidelines.

"President Carter has exceeded the authority conferred on him by the Constitution by seeking to control incomes and thereby prices through the procurement power," Parker ruled in the first case that directly challenges Carter's program.

"The court, therefore, reluctantly concludes that the president's anti-inflation program cannot be sustained," the judge said.

There was no immediate comment from White House or Justice Department officials.

Although the ruling strips Carter's guidelines of their only weapon of enforcement, the president apparently can continue to maintain an anti-inflation program based solely on voluntary cooperation from business and labor.

The ruling was a major victory for organized labor, which filed the suit challenging Carter's program.

The government, which defended the program as being legal, was expected to appeal the decision.

The suit, pressed by an unlikely coalition of labor leaders and Republican congressmen, charged that Carter overstepped his authority granted by Congress when he threatened to deny federal contracts worth $5 million or more to companies that violate the guidelines.

An estimated $40 billion to $56 billion a year in federal contracts is affected by Carter's program.

The judge acknowledged that "inflation is a vexing and festering domestic problem. It has plagued, without discrimination, all segments of our population and its impact has been felt in every facet of our political economy."

Parker added: "The efforts of the president, however well-intentioned and commendable they may be, must be predicated upon executive power conferred by the Constitution or by a congressional enactment pursuant to the Constitution."

In this case, the judge said, "the program establishes a mandatory system of wage and price controls, unsupported by the law."

Parker rejected the government's argument that the guidelines are voluntary, saying "the program imposes a real penalty" which makes it a mandatory program.

Sharp Decline By U.S. Economic Index

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government index designed to forecast economic trends declined by a record 3.3 percent in April, providing new evidence that a sharp slowdown in the economy is under way.

However, the department said the figures may have been distorted by several events that occurred during the week they were gathered. These were the Easter and Passover observances and the trucking strike and lockout.

The previous record decline in the composite index of leading indicators was a 3 percent drop in September 1974, during the depths of the 1974-1975 recession.

The decline in the April index was the fourth in the last six months, the Commerce Department said in today's report. However, it revised the March index upward to show an 0.3 percent increase instead of the 0.5 percent decline reported earlier.

Many private economists say the current slowdown in the economy is actually the beginning of a recession that will occur in the second half of this year. However, Carter administration economists say a recession still can be avoided, although they admit there is a risk that one will occur.

The economy has continued to grow for an unusually long time, four years, since the last recession. Economic slowdowns generally occur closer together than this.

In its report, the Commerce Department said eight of the 10 individual economic statistics used in the index were negative in April, led by a sharp decline in the average work week, down 1.7 hours to 39.1 hours.

Also negative in April were the job layoff rate, sales performance, cash and other liquid assets, sensitive prices, contracts and orders for plant and equipment, factory orders and building permits.

The only two positive statistics were stock prices and the money supply.

In the past, the index has been interpreted as forecasting a possible recession when it declines for three consecutive months. When the March report was first released last month, it was the third month of decline.

However, the upward revision in March reported today means there has not yet been three consecutive months of decline in recent months. The index was down in November, January and February, but up in December and March.

The index is subject to frequent revisions, which makes economists distrustful with respect to quick interpretation of the figures.

The index declined for 12 consecutive months during the 1974-1975 recession. It declined for three consecutive months during the spring and summer of 1977, but a recession did not occur at that time.

The index in April stood at 138.7 of the 1967 average of 100.

On Wednesday, the government said in another economic report that a surge in imports of oil and autos pushed the nation's trade deficit to a three-month high of $2.15 billion in April, but administration officials still predicted a decline in the total deficit for the year.

"I regard it as an aberration from an overall improving trend," said William Cox, a top Commerce Department economist.

Double Collision

DRIVER INJURED — The driver of this car, Carol Lynn Whitaker of 505 Contentnea St., being treated by members of the Greenville Rescue Squad at right, was injured when her car collided with a truck driven by Joseph Earl Carawan of Route 1,

Chocowinity, then struck a utility pole, about 2:15 p.m. at the intersection of Greenville Boulevard and Evans Street yesterday. Police, who set damage to the car at $1,200 and estimated damage to the truck at $200, charged Carawan with failing to stop for a stop light and exceeding a safe speed. State-Financed Abortion Plan Adopted By House

By WILLIAM WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Opponents of abortion failed in a final attempt Wednesday to block $1 million a year in state-financed abortions for poor women, and the House then gave its approval to the proposed state budget.

The House voted 72-42 to turn back an amendment that would have blocked state-funded abortions for poor women. It rejected by a larger margin an attempt to delete $3 million for the new science and math high school initiated by Gov. Jim Hunt.

On a voice vote, the House went along with the House Appropriations Committee in rejecting a Senate-passed section of the budget that would allow early retirement at full benefits for some state workers.

It then voted, with 13 of the 14 House Republicans casting the only negative votes, to approve the main budget bill and send it back to the Senate. House leaders expected the Senate not to concur because of the controversial retirement provision and said the budget would be sent to a conference committee.

Meanwhile, the Senate voted unanimously to tentatively approve a $78-million tax-cut package during the same two-year period. The budget bills reflect the planned tax proposal, which includes a $44 million-a-year reduction in individual income taxes.

The abortion proposal had been defeated earlier in the Senate and in House and Senate appropriations committees, but it sparked a long debate.

"The question before us becomes far deeper than appropriating $1 million a year for abortion," said Rep. Mary Pegg, R-Forsyth. "It becomes a question of murdering helpless human beings."

The amendment was proposed by Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Lenoir, who said he and other legislators have received a "tremendous amount" of anti-abortion mail, telegrams and petitions.

"If I read the people right," said Rep. Sam Bundy, D-Pitt, "they're sick, tired and frustrated with their tax money going for this."

GAS-SAVING DEVICE

On Page C-10 of the Sunday, May 20, "Daily Reflector," an article referred to a gasoline-saving device invented by John O. Yeiser. However, the article did not give Yeiser's address. Where can I contact him or possibly purchase the device?

Hotline talked to Charles T. Hindley, the attorney in Long Beach, Calif., mentioned in the article as representing the Southern California firm testing and planning to market Yeiser's invention. Hindley refused to identify the firm which specializes in energy-saving devices. He said that the 84-year-old Yeiser has a heart condition and will soon enter a hospital for pacemaker implant surgery.

Hindley said he has been authorized during Yeiser's incapacitation to answer inquiries about the invention, which he says is a device about the size of a cigarette lighter which delivers a measured flow of water into the combustion chamber of an automobile engine. The expansion of the water vapor under intense heat boosts the cylinder-head pressure, bringing about increased gas mileage and decreased pollution, he explained. De Yeiser is quoted by Hindley as saying he invented the device more than 50 years ago and has tested it himself over the years, finding an average increase in mileage of about 30 percent.

Additional information may be obtained by writing Charles T. Hindley, 2303 N. Olive Lane, Santa Ana, CA 92706.

Eighteen Persons Died In Maine Plane Crash

By PETER SLOCUM
Associated Press Writer

OWLS HEAD, MAINE (AP) — A Downeast Airlines commuter plane from Boston crashed near the Maine coast, killing 17 of the 18 persons aboard, authorities said.

Seven bodies were found late Wednesday and the rest were discovered early today in or near the wreckage, said William Reinhardt, a Knox County deputy sheriff.

One passenger, John M. McCafferty, 16, of Searsmont, was in "serious but stable condition" at a Rockport hospital. The youth, who suffered a broken leg and head injuries, was shouting for help as rescuers arrived.

Police and sheriff's deputies had searched until early today, hoping to find survivors in the muddy, heavily wooded area where the turboprop DeHavilland Twin Otter went down Wednesday night en route from Boston to Owls Head.

The airline was withholding the names of the passengers and crew members until the bodies could be identified and relatives notified.

Flight 46 carried 16 passengers, a pilot and a copilot on the 45-minute trip from Boston's Logan Airport.

The Canadian-built aircraft crashed shortly before 9 p.m. after the pilot made a routine request for permission to divert the flight to Augusta because of poor weather conditions at Knox County Airport in Owls Head, said the Federal Aviation Administration.

But the air traffic controller at Brunswick Naval Air Station lost radio contact with the pilot at 8:43 p.m., said FAA spokesman Mike Ciccarelli, and "the next thing we knew we got word of a crash."

Sheriff Carlton Thurston said the plane lost its wing when it hit a tree on Otter

Point and crashed about 400 yards from the beach. Witnesses said the plane crashed into a large rock and flipped over onto its back.

Broken bodies protruded from the wreckage as medical examiners tried to assess the carnage. Officials at the scene radioed for body bags, saying "we need plenty." A temporary morgue was set up on the grounds of the Rockport hospital.

The Knox County Sheriff's Department said it received the first report of the crash at 9:13 p.m. and found the wreckage 25 minutes later.

An investigator from the National Transportation Safety Board was scheduled to arrive at the scene today with FAA representatives.

Downeast is a small air taxi service headquartered in Owls Head, a village just outside Rockland, a fishing port and tourist center 90 miles northeast of Portland.

Oil Company Execs Called To White House Parleys Today

By GLENN RITT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is meeting with oil company executives amid new signs gasoline will be even scarcer in June than it was in May.

Carter summoned the executives to today's session at the White House one day after his anti-inflation agency said prices at the pump are "far larger than can be explained" by increases in crude oil prices alone.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability Wednesday charged one oil company, the Amerada Hess Corp., with violating the administration's price guidelines during the last six months, and a council spokesman said other probable violators may be announced as early as today.

At the same time, an Energy Department lawyer charged that unnamed agency officials have covered up illegal transactions that drive up the price of oil for consumers.

Joseph D. McNeff told two House subcommittees that most, if not all, of the nation's major oil companies are involved in illegal practices and said the government's own files contain massive evidence of wrongdoing.

His and other officials' testimony led Rep. Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., to assert that Congress may have stumbled on the "largest criminal conspiracy case in our history, involving billions of dollars, and it may be continuing to this day."

Pres. Carter's Wealth Said About $1 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's latest financial disclosures show he is worth about $1 million, despite heavy losses from the family peanut warehouse business that had been managed by his brother Billy.

The disclosure statement released today shows that Carter's Warehouse, which is owned 62 percent by the president, lost more than $50,000 last year.

Billy Carter has been removed from management of the warehouse and he recently completed treatment for alcoholism at a U.S. Navy hospital in Long Beach, Calif.

Charles Kirbo, the president's financial manager, has said he is seeking a buyer for the business.

The disclosure statement, now required of all high-ranking federal officials, was filed late Wednesday with the Office of Government Ethics.

The Carter statement does not give precise financial details, but does disclose assets, liabilities and income in general ranges.

For example, Carter disclosed that he received last year between $101 and $1,000 in interest from the White House credit union. His account there had a cash value of between $1,001 and $5,000, according to the report.

From the report, Carter's net worth appears to be roughly $800,000, excluding the value of his residence in Plains, Ga., and money owed to him by his son Jack.

That would put the president's full net worth at somewhere close to $1 million.

Carter was given a 15-day extension past the original May 15 deadline for filing the statement.

In the report, the president lists property and assets totaling about $1.5 million and liabilities totaling about $700,000.

Parker-Roberson Vows Solemnized On Saturday

ROBERSONVILLE — The marriage of Deborah Lynn Roberson and Jerry Rupert Parker was solemnized Saturday at 2:30 p.m. in a double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. James O. Hagwood in the First Baptist Church here.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Genora L. Roberson and Mr. Donnie G. Roberson, both of Robersonville. Mr. and Mrs. Lionel R. Parker of Bethel are parents of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza over white peau de soie designed with a high collar of chantilly lace on the Queen Anne neckline. The empire bodice was overlaid in chantilly lace and the full shepherdess sleeves were trimmed in the matching lace at the cuffs that featured ruffled edging. The modified A-line skirt and attached chapel length train were enhanced by cascading tiers of organza edged in chantilly lace.

She wore a triple tiered illusion veil with chantilly lace finish held in place by a Camelot cap overlaid in matching lace beaded with pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of white miniature carnations, roses and yellow roses.

A program of wedding music was presented by Joseph Goodwin of Greenville, organist, and vocalists, Mrs. Bev Beverly of Greenville and Jeff Arnette of Goldsboro.

Lisa Bunting of Robersonville, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Cynthia Roberson, sister-in-law of the bride, and Linda Haslip, both of Robersonville, Lisa Ward of Greenville, and Karen Perry of Jamesville, cousins of the bride, were bridesmaids.

The attendants wore formal length gowns of chiffone print in shades of maize, green, brown and ivory on a maize background designed with a portrait neckline edged in piping with miniature rolled bows at the shoulders. The blouson bodice featured short split sleeves and the elasticized waistline was encircled with a rolled tie sash from which fell a circular skirt. The honor attendant carried a nosegay of white daisies and wore baby's breath in their hair. The bridesmaids carried yellow daisies.

The mother of the bride wore an emerald knit gown with a sheer chiffon cape and the bridegroom's mother wore an ice blue knit gown with a scooped neckline. Both wore orchid corsages.

Ushers were Tommy Parker, brother of the bridegroom, and Johnny Nelson, cousin of the bridegroom, both of Bethel, Norman Roberson, brother of the bride, and Jerry Nelson, cousin of the bridegroom, both of Robersonville. Ricky Parker of Oak City, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Hagwood.

The couple will live at Rt. 2, Robersonville, following a trip to Nags Head.

The bride graduated from Martin Academy and is now attending Pitt Technical Institute. The bridegroom graduated from Hobgood Academy and is now employed at Robersonville Products, Robersonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hagwood of Williamston greeted guests at the reception held in the church fellowship hall.

Mrs. Rae Perry of Jamesville, aunt of the bride, served the four-tier cake and punch was poured by Mrs. Lorene Anderson. The refreshment table was decorated with a centerpiece of daisies and snapdragons. The fellowship hall was decorated with hurricane lamps with yellow candles surrounded by greenery.

Mr. and Mrs. Lacy Ward of Robersonville said goodbyes and Miss Lisa Thomas presided at the register.

The bridal couple was entertained at an after-rehearsal dinner at the Town and Country Restaurant, Williamston, given by family and friends of the bridegroom.

BLENDER EGGLESS MAYONNAISE

We hope you consider this recipe as much of a "find" as we do.

5 tablespoons evaporated milk
2 tablespoons lemon juice
6 tablespoons salad oil
3/4 teaspoon French Dijon or English dry mustard
1 pinch of sugar
1 pinch of paprika
1 pinch of salt

Blend all the ingredients in the electric blender until they are smooth and creamy. Store in a covered jar in the refrigerator. If the mayonnaise separates after a week or so, whip quickly with a fork. It will regain its creamy texture. Makes 2-3rds cup. Pilot Club Installation Held Monday

The installation of new Pilot Club officers, conducted by Mrs. Kay Whitehurst, was held during the meeting Monday night.

Mrs. Whitehurst used the theme "Chest of Jewels." Mrs. Irene Prewett will continue as president, whose office was represented by a diamond. The remaining officers were represented by various other jewels from the chest.

It was announced six dozen marigolds had been planted in the Pilot plot on the corner of Fifth and Reade Streets. Susan Tucker, a member of the Anchor Club, has been awarded the Angier B. Duke Scholarship. Mrs. Elizabeth Dupree, Pilot member, is advisor for the Anchors.

Birthday calendars are being sold by the club. The Pilot International convention will be held in Atlanta July 22-26.

The next meeting will be June 25 and the picnic meeting will be held in July.

Einstein. The majority of the writers seemed to feel that by going through life sockless, he had not only endeared himself to Queen-of-the-Washers everywhere, but had made a major contribution to mental health.

Many of the writers were naive, suggesting pinning or clipping socks together, coloring them, or systematically putting them into a mesh bag and washing them alone.

However, that solution was shattered by a woman from Connecticut who wrote she hooked together blue socks for Billy, green for Marty, red for Bill, yellow for Sue, and aqua for Diane, only to have every one come out in perfect pairs, but with three hankies and two pairs of jockey shorts MISSING.

One writer wanted to open a clinic for single socks in the same building with the League of Right Gloves and Care and Rehabilitation of Lost Sweaters. One wanted to line the Grand Canyon with them, another wanted to send all the mismatched socks to Tucson where sandals can be worn all year.

The more practical people wanted to have it out with sock manufacturers... urging them to make a pair three instead of two... issuing them in only two colors, blue and brown. The blue would reverse to brown and the brown to blue. Some opted for disposables like Pampers. One could visualize a daring new style by Bill Blass or Halston of His and Miss socks.

A woman from Canton, Mich., said, "Try to get your children to dress in the dark. If that doesn't work, turn it into a learning experience: (a) not everything in life matches; (b) opposites attract; (c) variety is the spice of life, and (d) how else are you going to distinguish colors?" One mother suggested if we could channel the odor from her son's sweat socks into energy, we'd never have to beg for oil again.

For the greater part the mail reflected a resignation toward the phenomenon — a learn-to-live-with-it attitude.

"Look at it this way," wrote a housewife from Nebraska, "God takes only the good socks to that big utility room in the sky. All the threadbare and holey ones get left behind."

A woman from Forest Park, Ga., wrote happily, "Regard it as a challenge. Why, I even persuaded my husband that his green leg was less tired at the end of the day than his maroon one."

I want to personally thank all of you who responded. I'm not sure we have come up with the cause or the solution for missing socks. However, there must be some comfort in knowing the problem exists throughout the world.

Since working on the story I have had one leg disappear out of every pair of pantyhose I have put into the washer. I will not pursue this story any further. Some things you're better off not knowing.

Presbyterians Inch Toward Reunion

This Guy's Closet Is Fit for a Queen

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the wife who found a pair of panties in her husband's pickup truck: They could have been HIS! I'm a transvestite who had a similar experience when my ex-girlfriend went snooping through my closet and found my entire feminine wardrobe.

At first she thought I had a woman living with me, but when I showed her my wigs, padded bras and make-up she was convinced that they were mine. Abby, she didn't know what a transvestite was. She thought any man who enjoyed dressing in women's clothes was a "queer." Eventually we broke up.

There are many more transvestites than most people realize. We are not homosexuals, child molesters or perverts. We are friends, neighbors, relatives, responsible members of the community. We aren't interested in recruiting others to transvestism. We want only acceptance and understanding from those we love, and the freedom to indulge in our favorite pastime in the privacy of our homes without fear of embarrassment.

ALBUQUERQUE T.V.

DEAR T.V.: It may come as a shock to many to learn that most men who enjoy dressing in women's attire privately are not at all effeminate unless "dressed." And their sexual behavior is strictly masculine!

DEAR ABBY: You said yawning is brought about by boredom. Not true! Sometimes it's brought on by too much excitement and too little oxygen. This was pointed out in an article in Reader's Digest some years ago.

It seems that a college professor was upset because he noticed some students were yawning during his lectures. He asked a colleague to sit in on one of his lectures and tell him if he thought it was boring. To his horror, his colleague joined the yawners!

The professor was crushed as the students left the room, then his colleague pounded him on the back shouting, "No wonder they yawned... it was so exciting they forgot to breathe! They were yawning from lack of oxygen, not lack of interest."

So now, Dear Abby, you know.

RIO GRANDE VALLEY

DEAR RIO: Your theory may hold up scientifically, but to me yawning will always signal boredom. Perhaps one day I'll be fascinated with the dynamics of yawning that I'll yawn wide enough to get my foot out of my mouth.

DEAR ABBY: Bravo on your answer to the person who wanted to scream whenever some "nanny" congratulated the girl on her engagement or marriage. You said, "It's proper to congratulate the man and wish the girl luck, but in many instances it's the girl who deserves the congratulations and the man who needs the luck."

The following happened to me as I was leaving a restaurant. A newly wed couple I knew were entering, so I smiled and said sincerely to the couple, "Congratulations!"

The bride tartly replied, "You congratulate HIM, not ME!"

I smiled again and said, "Good luck to both of you!" (And boy, will they ever need it!)

Langley Family Held Reunion

The Langley family held its fourth annual reunion during the Memorial Day weekend. Families came from across the United States to join in the event. Dr. and Mrs. Wiley E. Hines entertained Friday night with a fish fry at their home. Saturday, the Bachelor Benedict Club was the scene of an afternoon dinner, where children in the family gave their views on "What Family Reunion Means to Me." A cocktail party and informal get-together followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Brewington.

Family members worshipped Sunday at Selvia Chapel F. W. B. Church. Mrs. Zra G. Hamm of Baltimore, Md., family member, presented a vocal selection during church services.

A cookout was held Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt Langley to conclude the festivities.

By ROBERT MACY
Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The nation's two largest Presbyterian sects concluded their historic meeting Wednesday with reunion a step closer but differences still to be healed in their 119-year split.

The nine-day session marked the first time the two groups met at the same time and place since ideological differences split the church at the start of the Civil War.

The two groups agreed to a reunion on the synod level, the highest ranking body below the general assembly, but admitted it could be another decade before reunion of the church as a whole is complete.

Differences surfaced in the closing days of the session, particularly in the area of a boycott of the textile giant J.P. Stevens Co. and aid to the World Council of Churches for its work against racism in South Africa.

The 191st General Assembly of the 2½-million member United Presbyterian Church in the United States approved a boycott of the Stevens Company. The company has been the target of intense union organizing efforts in plants scattered throughout the South.

The 900,000-member Presbyterian Church in the United States, with roots in the Southern states, balked at a Stevens boycott a year ago and reaffirmed that position Tuesday.

The PCUS followed the lead of the senior sect in supporting the World Council of Churches' Program to Combat Racism in Rhodesia. But the southern denomination approved an amendment to the proposal, saying it had misgivings about the use of the money and urging special care in how the fund was used. Some elements of the church have contended the money is being used to promote terrorism in the African nation.

Philip Potter, WCC general secretary, was in the audience when the question was debated late Tuesday. He appeared upset by the amendment and told the PCUS delegates "We all know what the press is doing. Thousands of dollars are coming out of South Africa to show that the World Council of Churches is helping revolutionaries."

The UPCUSA reaffirmed action taken a year ago in opposing ordination of self-avowed practicing homosexuals. The PCUS approved the same plank this year after 40 speakers debated the issue for more than two hours.

The UPCUSA passed Wednesday a resolution favoring the restoration of public funding for medically safe abortion care and opposing legislative attempts to ban abortions. The issue passed by a two-to-one margin after an emotional debate.

Members of the church's largest sect were also urged to work against legislation that would reinstate a peacetime draft or establish compulsory national service.

The UPCUSA adopted a resolution warning of "the continuing priority given to military research, development and expenditures over efforts designed to meet the nutritional, health, housing and social development problems that beset the world."

PCUS members were told that the easing of U.S.-China relations would mean a payment of some $750,000 for Presbyterian U.S. properties formerly belonging to overseas mission agencies.

Realities Changing Our Lives

N. C. Labor Commissioner John C. Brooks says the average North Carolina worker is now priced almost completely out of the market for the average new single-family home.

Brooks, Greenville native, cites average estimated construction cost of single family homes authorized in February at $37,738, up 22.6 percent from February, 1978.

Added to this must be other costs of owning a home — lot, closing costs, finance charges and builders' profit. The average price of a single family home at the end of 1978 was $50,000.

For the state's 2,554,300 workers the cost of owning a home is becoming more and more out of reach. The rule of thumb is that a family can afford a home that costs two-and-a-half times its annual income. To afford a typical single family unit the family would have to have an income of $20,000.

"I predict that there will be no relief for this trend until we as a state undertake to institutionalize the programs needed to provide sufficient training in the skilled trades," Brooks commented. "It's a familiar situation of demand exceeding supply. We are not supplying the skilled workers required to meet the demand in the skilled crafts — construction-related workers are only one example of the many which one might cite."

We don't know the answer to the problem, but it is becoming more difficult for North Carolinians to afford home ownership. It's still being done with husbands and wives working to provide the necessary income, but even this may not be sufficient for many families if housing costs keep escalating.

Brooks sees a rise in multi-unit housing in the state as a result of the exploding cost of single units. It may be that economic realities may change our living accommodations radically in the coming years.

Remember Service In Thankless Task

Most of us would rather forget the United States' involvement in Vietnam.

It was a time of divisiveness and suffering that ended in the accomplishment of nothing.

We were left with a legacy, however, of thousands of Vietnam military veterans, many of them maimed for life.

These citizens should not be forgotten. They served in a thankless task. This is Vietnam Veterans Week, and it should remind us of the sacrifices these veterans made.

THIS AFTERNOON

How Good Guys Lose

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The second-term legislator slumped in his chair; glum etched in every weary line of his face, the tilt of his head.

That bright smile which can light up a dark corridor of the State Legislative Building was, instead, dark and threatening.

He had just sat quietly in a meeting of the Joint Appropriations Committee as his one pet project had its throat neatly sliced.

Nobody noticed. Not one colleague yelled "Foul Murder" at the sight of the deed. Nobody threatened to seek justice for such an act.

Even the several committee chairmen and other influential lawmakers strategically seated in the cluttered room seemed to have forgotten, quite conveniently, their pledges of support and protection.

Nobody, it seems, can get all that torn up about some seemingly hopeless, upset, beat-down kids headed for jail unless "somebody does something".

Too Cheap

It wasn't a big thing. Maybe a million bucks in a budget of five billion being so graciously doled out for salary raises and veterinarian schools and new helicopters and cars and desks and printing and a television production center.

The mood sharply contrasted to that of just a week ago. The cameras whirred and lights blinded this young lawmaker; press people wanted details of his innovative and promising idea. He was on the phone with Gov. Jim Hunt; not once, but several times. Judges congratulated him, as did prosecutors and defense lawyers.

"I finally figured it out," he said in a back-hall conversation at the time. "It doesn't really matter how good or right your idea is, you have to work the system."

"I've got the system figured out," he explained "up! leap your mouth shut and go along; you pat the right people on the back — or elsewhere; you do your homework and promise to help them with their special projects if they'll help you.

There are no good guys; no bad guys. They all wear gray hats, and some have a little mud on them. Just use the system and we can win, he elaborated.

The all-powerful "leadership" pledged to help him. But the tide turned, abruptly.

The state agency which would have done the job took a look at it and didn't like what it saw. There was no glory; a low budget, a lot of hard work, and little promise of success.

The project would not have captured buckets of federal money, and it would not have grown by leaps and bounds to a new empire.

Workable

There was, in the proposal

a minimum of red tape and bureaucratic fat. And it called for bypassing some of the machinery already in place. It did, in fact, step on a few bureaucratic toes and invaded some agency turf, and in doing so it promised things that might have been possible but which in their doing would have proved some present programs are on the wrong track.

The agency head called the division head who called the department head who took it up with the governor who talked to his close advisors who suggested present bureaucratic systems are fine enough, tank you, without such a new and untried approach. The word went out. The knife sliced cleanly.

"Maybe next year," we mumbled in hopes of cheering our friend.

"Thanks. That's what they said last year ... and again this year. And they'll say it again next year," was his reply.

The name of that second-term legislator is Legion.

Irritating Slush Fund

WASHINGTON — In the best tradition of the most exclusive club in town, John Claggett Danforth has been seen but seldom heard since he came to the Senate two years ago. The other day the gentleman spoke up on some small expenditures that create large irritations. He denounced the outlays known as public participation payments.

The Missouri Republican doubtless will find larger issues to engage his considerable talents, but one cannot dwell on larger issues all the time. These participation payments are mosquito bites upon the body politic. They ought to be abolished in the fashion of loaded dice and crooked scales.

This is how a public participation payment works. The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) decides that a federal trade rule may be needed to regulate the street vendors of hot dogs, tamales and roasted chestnuts. The FTC suspects that the "foot-long dog" is actually only about nine inches long, that the tamale is not truly "Mexican", and that the chestnut boys have a shared monopoly on the street corners of Manhattan.

If these charges can be proved, a clear case can be made of fraud, deception and conspiracy in restraint of trade. How to prove the charges? The FTC staff is diligent, imaginative and industrious, but staff reports alone may not suffice. Aha! Let us go out says the commission and let us hire some favorable witnesses who will buttress the findings of the staff. Let us pay them well for making a record that will expose the hot dog vendors as the villains they undoubtedly are.

Thus inspired, the FTC awards a $10,000 "participation payment grant" to the Hot Dog Consumers League of America, an outfit formed day before yesterday by two sports writers on the sidewalk in front of the Washington Star. A grant of $4,968 for research is paid to the Society of Mexican-American Tamale Lovers, and $9,410 is paid to the Association for Greater Competition Among Chestnut Roasters. The several organizations prepare 100-page reports, bound in chaste blue plastic; their executive directors testify at length. The FTC thanks them warmly for their absolutely indispensable participation, and the roof caves in on the hot dog man.

Leaders for the first full Service Troop of Boy Scouts to leave tomorrow from Wilson for the New York World's Fair were announced today by Scout Executive John J. Sigwald and Assistant Scout Executive George W. Thomason.

Guy Cox, an eagle scout of Troop 10, Wilson, will be senior patrol leader, Milton Beland will be patrol leader, and Ed Rawl will be his assistant. Other leaders selected for the New York trip were Patrol Leaders Francis Fancer, Washington, with Roy Manning, Jr. as assistant; Nicolas Long, Roanoke Rapids, with Jimmie Leggett, Williamston, as assistant; and E. Beland, Jr., Greenville, with another Greenville Scout, Ed Rawl, as assistant; and Neverson Lewis, Rocky Mount, with Edwin George Kinston, as assistant.

E.C. Hollar, faculty member of ECTC, has reason to believe that "close calls" are certainly on his trail.

Hollar, one of the seven Greenville men who had such a harrowing experience when his boat sunk in Pamlico Sound Sunday night, had another close call last night when, during an electrical storm, lightning struck the chimney of his home. Although no one was injured and no serious damage resulted, several rooms were filled with soot and will have to be painted.

To the editor:

Because of the searing health costs, people of today are having to take a long look at every aspect of the health system. I would like to discuss one branch of that system.

Emergency Pre-hospital Care has come to light to all of us in Pitt County by either direct contact or by the public media. Health care professionals across the nation have recognized the importance of getting properly trained and dedicated personnel to the victim outside the hospital. No longer do rescue squads throw victims in their trucks and race to the hospital. Properly trained personnel like those in Pitt County, stabilize the victim before transporting them.

More than 1,000,000 American lives are claimed a year by some form of medical emergency. Over 700,000 Americans will lose their lives to some form of heart disease and half will die before they reach the hospital; some 15,000 will lose their lives in auto accidents and 250,000 will fall victim to strokes. The tragic fact is that many of those lives could be saved with Advanced Life Support (paramedic level training). Twenty-one counties in N. C. now have A. L. S. and another 20 are starting this fall. The number of emergency calls answered by rescue squads in Pitt County is increasing at an alarming rate. At the present time there are over 25,000 Emergency Medical Technicians (E. M. T.'s) trained in Basic Life Support in N. C. and less than 500 are trained in A. L. S. Presently the people of Pitt County pay very little for the service they now get. Don't you think it is time, past time, for you to show your support. Then men and women of your local Rescue Squad have given many hours of hard and dedicated service to you for more than 10 years.

Get to know the captain and members of your local squad. You'll be surprised at how dedicated and eager to learn they are. I hope one day soon we'll have A. L. S. in Pitt County.

To the editor:

This letter is to inform the citizens of North Carolina what is going on in the prison system. I have been instructed by Jesus in Matthew 25 not to ignore these men.

Saturday we went to Odom Prison and we were not allowed to visit an inmate. They would not give us a reason why. (We have visited him before.)

We have also learned that some of the men had their Bibles taken away as "punishment." I feel we have a responsibility to bring the gospel to these men and the system doesn't seem to want it.

Won't we all do what Jesus has asked in Matthew 25?

THE GALLUP POLL

Mixed News For Carter

By George Gallup

PRINCETON, N.J. — The latest Gallup Poll has both good news and bad news for President Carter.

First the bad news:

The sharp downturn in Carter's popularity over the last two months has come in large part among his fellow Democrats — not an encouraging sign for Carter in view of the primary elections coming up next year in which Democrats in key states will vote for 1980 presidential candidates.

The president's national approval rating since mid-March has declined from 47 percent to 37 percent, matching his low point to date. A similar decline — from 56 to 47 percent — has occurred among Democrats. An even greater decline has been registered among independent voters — from 45 percent to 32 percent.

Now the good news:

As many as three in 10 Republicans express approval of Carter's performance in office, with relatively little change having occurred since the mid-March survey. This bipartisan appeal could be all-important in the coming presidential election, especially among voters who place themselves near the center of the political spectrum.

Following is the question, the national trend since mid-March and the trend by political party affiliation:

"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Carter is handling his job as president?"

Consumers Have Lost Faith

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Other than for the limited supply and high cost of imported oil, is there something about the 1979 brand of inflation that makes control of it unusually difficult?

The answer is yes. Regulatory restraints on borrowing have been eased. So has the American attitude toward public and private debt. Lifestyles are involved, as is lowered confidence in government. And more.

In other years, inflation's onset would mean tighter federal budgets. But for fiscal 1978 the deficit was $48.76 billion. The 1979 deficit is about $33 billion; the 1980 projection is minus $28.4 billion.

While they differ on so many things as to undermine confidence in their craft, economists generally agree that such deficits at the peak of a long economic expansion can only result in inflation.

But private individuals have also run budget deficits. Consumer installment debt — the kind repaid by the week or month — has risen to more than $275 billion, up $45 billion in a year.

A three-year look at the figures reflects the changed attitude. In January 1977, the ratio of installment debt to income was about 13 percent. A year later it had risen to 14. This year it's 15.

Why the willingness to take on so much debt? Surveys show that people have lost faith in the government's ability to restrain inflation, and so buy before prices rise even more.

The rise in the number of women workers has also enabled some families to assume more debt.

Mortgage lenders themselves have sometimes encouraged debt by bending the rules of thumb on the size of loans that can be made on homes, sometimes granting mortgages that amount to 35 percent of gross income.

But they aren't the only lenders who have relaxed standards. Bank credit cards have proliferated, sometimes unsolicited; and with them, lines of credit have often been extended, again unasked.

A particularly important regulatory change has had a big impact on the housing market. That change permits savings institutions to offer highyield savings certificates.

Until last year, a savings and loan association or savings bank could offer long-term savings certificates that, with compounding, might reach 8-plus percent over seven or eight years. Now they can offer $10,000, 6-month certificates that pay close to 10 percent.

The net effect has been to delay the homebuying slump that accompanied inflation in other years, when lenders didn't have funds to lend. The 10 percent rate helped them retain deposits, which could be lent out.

No, it isn't only the cost of oil that has fueled the current 13.9 percent annual rate of inflation. You might say that Americans, as individuals and through government, also added grease to the skids.

REPENTANCE

What is the meaning of the word "repentance"?

Most people would probably say that repentance means being sorry for one's sins. This definition is true as far as it goes, but it represents only the beginning of the process of repentance.

The meaning of the Greek verb translated as repent in the New Testament means basically "to change one's mind". Repentance, therefore is not merely being sorry for one's sins or merely forsaking them, but completing the process by changing one's mind with reference to the sins.

The tree words "I have sinned" are very easy to say, and millions of people say them without the least intention of changing their life styles or habit patterns so that they will not commit these sins again. We will have repented only when we both give up our sin and determine to re-order our lives in such a way that we will not commit the sin again.

Analysis By Political Party Affiliation

Analysis of Carter's ratings also reveals that there is less difference between Democrats and Republicans now than was the case for Carter's three immediate predecessors when they had comparable ratings.

The latest survey shows 47 percent of Democrats and 28 percent of Republicans approving of Carter's performance — a difference of 19 percentage points.

However, at a time when President Ford's national rating was comparable to Carter's today — 39 percent approval in the spring of 1975 — the difference in approval between members of the two parties was 29 percentage points.

When President Nixon's overall rating stood at 36 percent (fall 1973), the difference was 44 percentage points. And when President Johnson's national rating was at 39 percent (summer 1967), the difference was 32 percentage points, as seen in the following table:

Carter — 37 percent national approval (latest)
Democrats	47%
Republicans	28
Difference	19 percentage points
Ford — 39 percent national approval (fall 1973)
Democrats	28%
Republicans	57
Difference	29 percentage points
Nixon — 36 percent national approval (fall 1973)
Democrats	28%
Republicans	72
Difference	44 percentage points
Johnson — 39 percent national approval (summer 1967)
Democrats	65%
Republicans	33
Difference	32 percentage points

The results reported today are based on in-person interviews with 1,509 adults, conducted in more than 300 scientifically selected localities across the nation during the period May 4-7.

Pacemaker In Cerebral Palsy Victim

BRAIN PACEMAKER — Dr. Ross Davis holds a cigarette lighter-size brain pacemaker similar to the one he implanted in the chest of 11-year-old Barbara Mc Sherry in an unprecedented operation. (AP Laserphoto)

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Eleven-year-old Barbara McSherry, when not grabbing the ringing telephone next to her hospital bed Wednesday afternoon, talked of attending her friends' graduation from elementary school next week and kept laughing. "I'm all right, I feel fine."

Only hours earlier, Barbara underwent an operation that surgeon Dr. Ross Davis said is unprecedented — and will greatly improve the young cerebral palsy victim's ability to walk and perform other simple tasks.

"We don't expect her to be completely normal, but we do expect her to be a little more independent," said Barbara's mother, Theresa McSherry of Tampa. "She's very excited and cheerful."

Davis, chief of neurosurgery at Mount Sinai Hospital here, implanted a cigarette lighter-sized brain pacemaker into a little pocket of flesh under her chest. He performed two more of the operations within about six hours.

The other two patients were identified only as a 38-year-old Dayton, Ohio, man, and a 25-year-old Darlington, S.C., man.

The new pacemaker was connected to electrodes already implanted at the base of the patients' brains. Since Dr. Irving Cooper pioneered surgery to stimulate cerebral palsy victims' brains to relieve spasticity in 1973, the 257 patients who've undergone surgery had to carry a battery pack and antenna with them.

The antenna sent radio signals to the implanted electrodes, stimulating the cerebellum and relaxing the patients' muscles. All three patients operated on Wednesday had their first surgery over two years ago.

Davis said the new transmitter, connected to the electrodes, will "lower the spasticity," besides having the added advantages of convenience.

"It doesn't work miracles. But I could sum it up by saying whatever abilities the patients have will be improved. If they are on the verge of walking, they should be able to walk," he said.

He said the new transmitter, which utilizes a lithium battery, will last 5½ years, while the commonly used transmitters operate on mercury batteries that ran down after three days. Davis said the external apparatus also caused problems.

"We even had cases where the patient dropped the battery pack into the bath water," he said.

He said the improved transmitter, extensively tested on animals, should come into wide use because of its relative simplicity.

Barbara's external-type pacemaker allowed her to walk for the first time when she received it in November, 1975. But as often happens, the receiver stopped working after about two years.

She was confined to a wheelchair again and her parents and older brother (age 14) had to carry her to bed and put her in the car.

"She was depressed, once a week she would go through this crying thing, saying, 'I could do this before, now I can't,'" Mrs. McSherry said.

When the family contacted Davis, who performed the first surgery, he told them that the new transmitter had been developed.

"I'm all for it," Barbara said.

goes on all the time at the FTC. As Senator Danforth pointed out, Congress appropriated $500,000 in 1976 for such participation payments. Next year the FTC is asking $750,000. Chairman Michael Pertschuk says the commission's decision-making process has been "enormously enriched" by the participation of those who "never could have afforded to participate" without such subsidies. Mr. Pertschuk says the hired witnesses are "vital" to the regulatory system.

Senator Danforth says this is nonsense, and the senator is right. Only 10 percent of the FTC's participation payments has gone to organizations that might be considered even remotely in opposition to a proposed trade rule regulation. Ninety percent of the money has gone to "public interest" groups whose whole reason for being is to encourage more federal rules and regulations. The FTC is using tax funds to feed the hands that feed it.

Have some specific examples: "The Council on Children, Media and Murchandising is run by one person, says the senator; but it has received $187,000 in grants to support four different regulations. The Consumer Affairs Committee of the ultra-liberal Americans for Democratic Action is practically on the FTC's payroll. So is the militant Consumers Union. The Center for Auto Safety has benefitted from $48,000 for testifying on a mobile home rule, $9,000 for assisting the FTC on used cars, and $5,000 more for some regulation having to do with the posting of octane ratings. When the FTC was working up its case against the funeral directors, half a dozen Punch-and-Judy outfits were hired to pad the supportive record.

The senator says flatly that "the practice is wrong." Almost have the money has been allocated to "public interest" outfits here in Washington. It is absurd to contend as Chairman Pertschuk contends, that these po'lil needy societies "never" could appear without a participation payment. They could get there by taxicab for $1.50 or by Metro for 50 cents.

When the FTC acts on a trade rule, it acts legislatively. It has no more business paying tax funds to witnesses than a committee in Congress would have in paying Ralph Nader to testify on a consumer protection bill. The rule ought to be that all witnesses stand equally at the bar, but with the FTC's slush fund, some are more equal than others.

Crime Control Urged States

An estimated $500 damage resulted to a Greenville Police Department car yesterday when struck from behind by a second vehicle, officers reported today.

Highway Patrol investigators said the mishap occurred about 9:17 a.m. on Memorial Drive, 93 feet South of the Dickinson Avenue intersection.

Trooper Wayne Taylor identified the driver of the police vehicle as Edward Carson Moore of Route 3, Greenville, and listed the driver of the other car involved as William Beachum of Route 1, Grimseland.

Taylor, who estimated damage to the Beachum car at $700, reported the police vehicle headed South, was stopped in the left-hand traffic lane, preparing to make a left turn at a cross-over, when struck from the rear by the Beachum car.

The Patrolman noted that Beachum attempted to stop for the city-owned car, but his foot slipped off the brake.

SUNDAY SPEAKER

Bishop Best will be the speaker at the 11:00 Sunday service of The House of God. Everyone is invited to attend.

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — States should take the lead in developing a comprehensive program to reduce crime, North Carolina Gov. Jim Hunt told a national crime-control conference Wednesday.

"We hope this conference will stimulate governors in states across the nation to take the lead in developing an all-out comprehensive program to reduce crime in their states," Hunt said in prepared remarks.

In the keynote address to the conference, Hunt said, "In every state, governors should take charge and work with local governments and interested citizens to organize an aggressive, overall offensive against crime."

Hunt, chairman of the National Governors Association's Committee on Criminal Justice and Public Protection, organized the conference, which runs through Friday.

Three hundred crime control advisers to the nation's governors were expected to attend.

Hunt said the purpose of the conference is two-fold: "We want to give you a report on the state of the art in crime control — what works, what doesn't work, what have other states and communities tried, what success did they have."

"The governors are the people who can pull together the local police, the courts, the citizens, the state criminal justice planning agencies, the prisons and everybody else who has responsibility here; the governors can bring them together and develop with them the comprehensive, coordinated offensive that is absolutely essential to reducing crime," he said.

The conference features workshops on prisons, juvenile justice, court reform and crime prevention.

Fort Restoration Dream Now Fading

HAMILTON, N.C. (AP) — A farmer who owns land on which a Confederate fort stands has given up his fight to make the site a historical landmark.

Henry Winslow has protected the site from relic-seekers for almost 20 years. But now he says he is disappointed that the fort still hasn't been named as a public historic site.

"My attitude is the hell with it," he said in a recent interview. "I know it's a good site and it will be a good thing in the future. I'm going to sit on it."

State officials say the site is rare because most of the guns and earthen walls are intact. Fort Fisher, a popular historic attraction near Wilmington, stands only 20 percent intact.

State officials say the drive and the money for a state historic site must come from local groups.

The fort, named for local war hero Lawrence O. Branch, was constructed overlooking the Roanoke River in 1862.

When the Confederate army collapsed in 1865, the cannons, artillery, equipment and supplies were dumped in the river to prevent confiscation by Union troops.

After a lengthy court battle, the state recovered three cannons removed from the river by private salvagers in 1972. After the courts ruled the artifacts were the property of the state, they were restored and displayed in the area.

The state raised four cannons with carriages and numerous smaller artifacts in 1977. After scientific preservation, the wood and metal material was returned to the fort.

But despite state involvement, much of the material is not available for the public to view.

JACKSONVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Army green is gaining on blue jeans as the uniform of the day at Alabama's Jacksonville State University.

The college in northeastern Alabama is one of three civilian institutions in the country — and the only one east of the Mississippi — offering a bachelor's degree in military science through its Reserve Officers Training Corps program.

The volunteer program, in effect since 1973, now has 615 students — almost triple the number in 1975. A third of the students are women.

For a degree in military science, a student must complete 21 hours in the field above the basic courses. Also, nine hours of study in advanced history, political science, geography or economics is required.

The ROTC courses include leadership, map reading, small unit tactics, military history and principles of war.

A six-week camp at a military post also is required.

Advanced students, many of who are veterans, are paid $100 a month, and there are full ROTC scholarships available to qualified students.

Upon successful completion of the four-year course, the graduate is commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Army.

Bather Dies In Undertow

PINE KNOLL SHORES, N.C. (AP) — An instructor at North Carolina Central University drowned in the surf Wednesday while trying to save a colleague, authorities said.

Wayne Maurice Dunn, 27, of Durham, had swum out to assist Janice Annette Harper, 24, also of Durham, who called for help after she fell from a raft about 25 to 30 yards offshore.

Dunn began to swim out but was caught in an undertow, said Pine Knoll Shores Police Chief H.N. Overman.

Two off-duty lifeguards from a Holiday Inn were on the beach and answered Ms. Harper's cries for help and pulled her in.

Meanwhile, Dunn had disappeared.

Bathers and staff from the Holiday Inn formed a human chain to try to find Dunn, who was said to be a strong swimmer. But, said Jim Lester, manager of the motel, "They couldn't find him. The water was so murky that you couldn't see your hand."

Ms. Harper was treated for shock at Carteret General Hospital and released.

Two photographic contests currently in progress offer opportunities and competition for America's creative and inventive minds.

One is for amateur photographers only and the incentive is not in winning a prize but in the privilege of being represented in a 100-print exhibit for display in U.S. embassies around the world.

The other contest, open to all photo enthusiasts from students to amateurs to professionals, seeks original inventive ideas in any area of photography for a $1,000 top prize and other awards.

The first contest is sponsored by the International Photographic Council (IPC), a non-profit association of photographic-industry publications, groups, executives, and amateur and professional photographers. The contest theme is everyday life in the United States as seen by amateur photographers in color, black-and-white or instant pictures. They can focus on whatever is important to them in day-to-day living as Americans, in the home, business, schools, playgrounds, at sports or cultural events or in leisure-time activities and hobbies.

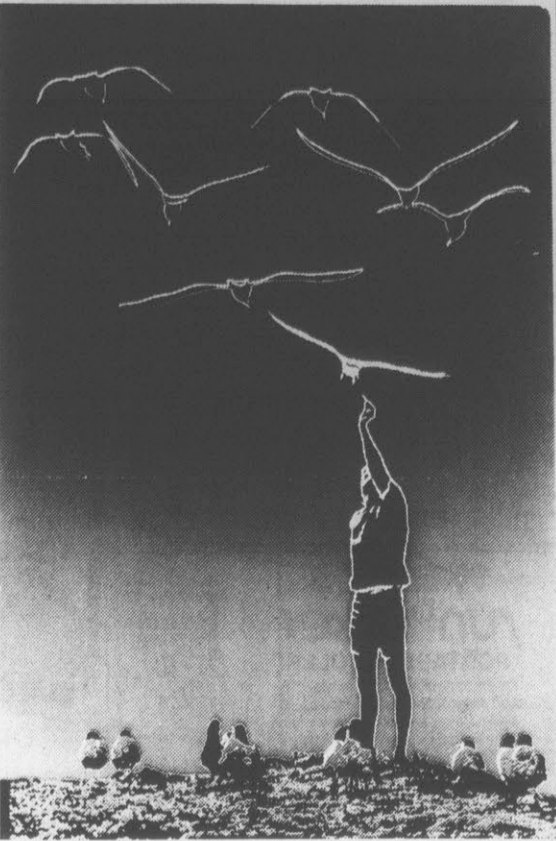

All entries must be submitted through participating photographic retail stores or photo-finishing who have official entry blanks with the rules. Each applicant can submit up to two photographs, one snapshot and one instant picture, no larger than 5 x 7 inches. The deadline for receipt of entries is May 1, 1979.

A working committee of IPC will select and prepare the print exhibits for display abroad under the auspices of the U.S. International Communication Agency with the name of each photographer represented properly credited. All negatives of selected snapshots must be made available for exhibition purposes.

For further information, rules and entry blanks, write to: Sophie Smoliar, Photo Weekly, 1515 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10036.

The second, "Invent Something Contest," is sponsored by SIMA Products Corp., a company which markets offbeat photo accessories. Entry blanks are available in major camera stores throughout the country and the deadline is May 31, 1979.

Any original idea that is camera related or can be used in the darkroom or as a photographer's gadget is eligible as an entry. To participate, entrants must describe their original product ideas clearly in 50 words or less. No plans, models or sketches should be submitted; if sent they will not be returned. All ideas submitted remain the sole property of the entrant.

CREATIVE AND INVENTIVE, is an apt description of the technique used by Richard Welch in producing "Gull Feeder," originally in color. The offbeat photo won recognition in a Kodak International Salon, a contest Welch entered as an employee

Three nationally known experts will judge the contest: Prof. Terry Bollman of Rochester Institute of Technology's School of Photography; Rowland Michaelis, engineering vice president of the Society of Photographic Scientists and Engineers; and Mel Ingeber, technical consultant for Time-Life Photographic Year.

They will award the $1,000 grand prize and also select 10 honorable mention recipients, each receiving $50 in SIMA products.

In addition, after the judges have made their choices, all entries will be screened further for evaluation as new products by SIMA President Irwin Diamond and his marketing division.

"In our search for marketable new products," Diamond says, "it makes no difference whether an entry has been deemed a 'winner' by the judges.

"For example, an entrant may come up with a brilliant idea, one that the judges feel merits the top prize. Yet, in terms of new product development, that idea may not be economically feasible to produce or it may not have sufficiently broad consumer appeal in our opinion. However, the inventor will be $1,000 richer and will have the satisfaction of having created a concept which appealed to a nationally respected panel of judges.

"On the other hand, someone may submit an idea which fails to win one of the contest prizes, but we may feel it is an extremely practical and promotable new product possibility. The entrant will be notified, will receive a royalty contract, and we will go ahead with its production after getting his or her approval of the terms. Incidentally, none of the winning ideas will be disclosed publicly without the written permission of the winners."

As examples of the type of inventive ideas the contest is after, these are some of the innovative accessories which SIMA distributes at present: FilmShield pouches, envelopes which protect films from low-dosage airport X-ray damage; Sports Pouch, an air-cushion, waterproof, floatable and shock-resistant bag for photo equipment; two types of Capkeepers, methods to attach lens caps to cameras to prevent their loss; and Optic Foam, an anti-fog and anti-static lens cleaner which won't spill or run.

Interest Rates Market Force

Courtesy of INTERSTATE SECURITIES CORP.

The level of interest rates is one of the most potent forces affecting stock prices. Low interest rates and a plentiful supply of money are usually very favorable for equities. Tight money and high interest rates are typically bearish influences on stock prices. Thus it follows that accurate interest rate forecasts can be quite helpful in recognizing trends in the stock market.

Recent comments by some market advisors have alluded to the fact that when interest rates peak there will be a major stock market rally. Usually it is not this simple. Virtually every market is different but interest rates frequently peak ahead of bear market lows.

In 1970, interest rates peaked in January of that year. Stock prices had been in a severe bear market for over a year at that time. Nevertheless, the market continued to fall. A bottom was not reached until late May of 1970. The 1973-74 bear market had a similar profile. The prime interest rate hit a peak of twelve percent in July 1974 after a long climb from six percent. Rates started falling in early September of that year. Nevertheless, stock prices continued to fall. While many stocks hit their lows in October, the Dow Industrials did not hit bottom until December 1974. This was a full three months after the first break in interest rates and the prime rate had dropped one and one-half percentage points in the meantime.

Monitoring The Hansen Twins

By RON BARKER
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — For the first time in their lives, 19-month-old Siamese twins Lisa and Elisa Hansen are sleeping in separate beds, recovering from the delicate surgery that separated their fused skulls.

As soon as medically possible, their parents, David and Patricia Hansen of Ogden, will be able to hold Lisa and Elisa in their arms, one at a time, and cuddle them like any infants, officials said.

"We've become very close to the girls. They're like members of our own family," said Dr. Stephen Minton, a spokesman for the medical team that labored for 16½ hours to separate the twins.

"I love them. I want them to be perfectly normal," Minton said Wednesday with tears in his eyes. He said the doctors and nurses working with the twins know many things could go wrong in the weeks ahead.

The girls were being monitored for signs of infection or bleeding, but Minton said they appeared to tolerate the operation very well.

Teams of surgeons tied off shared blood vessels, separated the girls' skulls and covered their exposed brains with specially treated human tissue that resists rejection and will gradually be absorbed into the twins' own bodies after they develop their own covering for the brain.

In addition, folds of skin from each girl's head, plus small grafts from their legs, covered the openings left by separation.

It will be some time before doctors know how normal Lisa's and Elisa's lives will be, Minton said.

Doctors who had thought the girls' brains were separate found during surgery that the brains joined at one point in the lower rear area, he said.

"There are several functions which that section affects," he said, "and we don't know the exact location (of the joining), but some emotions, smell and so on are located there."

He said it was too early to tell whether Lisa or Elisa would suffer brain damage as a result of the separation. Gradual retardation was considered likely had the girls not been separated, he said.

Other attempts to separate

Siamese twins who shared extensive cranial tissue have resulted in retardation or death, Minton said.

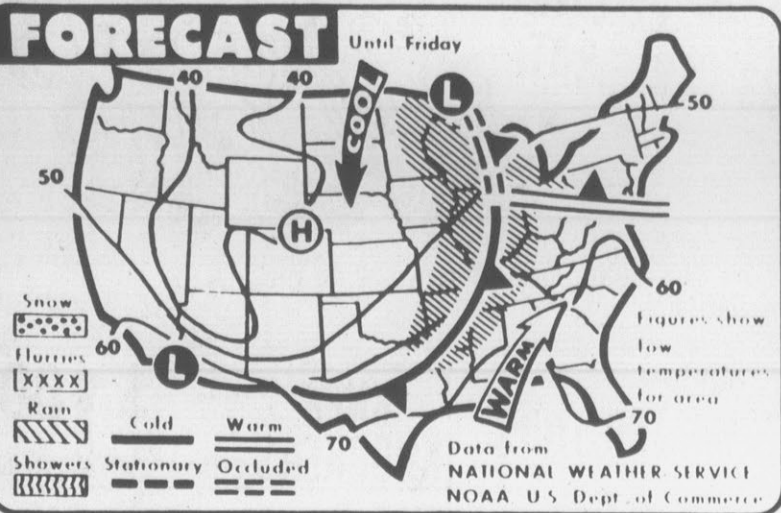

The girls may need additional cosmetic surgery, although he said each will have a "perfectly normal forehead with a line of hair" where it should be.

Erika Forte, a medical social worker assigned to the family, said it is impossible to assess the feelings Lisa and Elisa have experienced since separation. "They are very young children and have been nurtured and loved and cared for very carefully," she said.

Lisa and Elisa will have to learn movement. When other babies their age began to crawl, so did they — with one going forward and the other creeping backward, their father said.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — The National Weather Service forecast for today until Friday predicts rain for the central part of the nation from northern Louisiana along the

By The Associated Press
It will be a damp day across North Carolina today, but some drier air will be moving through the state tonight and Friday.

The National Weather Service says the showers and thunderstorms that will dampen the state today are associated with a low-pressure system that extends over most of the Southeast. The system was expected to move northward today.

Some locally heavy rains were expected in today's thundershowers, according to the weather service.

Across the state Wednesday, dense morning fog covered much of the interior of North Carolina. But by mid-morning, fog gave way to sunny skies. A few thundershowers were reported over the extreme south-western mountains.

High temperatures on Wednesday ranged from the 70s in the mountains to the low and mid 80s elsewhere in the state. Asheville with a high of 77 degrees was the coolest of the regular reporting stations. It was 80 at Cape Hatteras and 87 in Wilmington.

Highs for today were expected to be in the low to mid 80s. Friday's highs, under partly cloudy skies, will also be in the 80s except for some 70s in the mountains.

Four Are Appointed Danforth Associates

ECU News Bureau
Four faculty members of East Carolina University have been appointed Danforth Associates for a six-year period.

In the School of Allied Health and Social Professions are Laurretta Lewis of the social work department and Mary Susan Templeton of the physical therapy department. The two will participate in programs designed to recognize and encourage effective teaching and to humanize college-level learning for all members of campus communities.

Ms. Lewis has BS and MS degrees in social work from the University of Tennessee at Nashville.

Ms. Templeton has degrees and certificates from Southwestern at Memphis, Duke University and UNC-Chapel Hill. Marilyn Steele of the East Carolina University School of Home Economics and Ralph Steele of the ECU Department of Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Safety have also been appointed Danforth Associates.

The couple will participate in various programs designed to recognize and encourage effective teaching and to humanize college-level learning for all members of campus communities.

A doctoral candidate at the University of South Carolina, Marilyn Steele teaches in the ECU Department of Food, Nutrition and Institution Management.

She is an alumna of Iowa State university and holds the MS degree from ECU. In addition to teaching, her career has included work as a therapeutic dietitian and nutrition research assistant.

Ralph Steele is a professor in the ECU parks, recreation and conservation program and is an associate in the ECU Institute Coastal and Marine Resources.

He holds the BS degree from the University of Illinois and advanced degrees from Indiana University.

Plan Music And Revival Series

A program of music is scheduled for Sunday, June 3 at 8 p.m. at Mill Chapel Free Will Baptist Church with the Southern Spirituals taking part.

Revival services will be held at Mill Chapel June 4-9 with services beginning each evening at 7:30 p.m. and featuring a visiting choir for each service. Choirs taking part Monday through Friday night are the Arthur Chapel Traveling Choir, Bennett Chapel Choir, Poplar Hill Choir, Rock Spring Traveling Choir, and Bethel Chapel Senior Choir.

The Rev. Clifton Garner will conduct the services for the week. The pastor, the Rev. J. L. Swinson, invited the public to attend.

Local Student On Dean's List

Jacob Worth Cox of Greenville has been named to the Dean's List for the spring quarter at Wilkes Community College at Wilkesboro, the school announced.

Cox achieved the academic honor, according to the school, by maintaining a grade point average of 3.5 or higher while enrolled in 12 or more hours of college courses.

Correction

CLUB MEETING

The Progressive Club of Philippi Church of Christ will meet at 4 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L.B. Blount. All members are invited to attend.

Alleged Plot Probe Ends

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The government has dropped its investigation into an alleged plot to assassinate President Carter and has released two men held in connection with the alleged scheme.

Raymond Lee Harvey, 35, who was arrested just before Carter was to address a Cinco de Mayo gathering here, and Osvaldo Espinosa-Ortiz, 21, who was held as a material witness, were released Wednesday.

Harvey was carrying a starter's pistol and several rounds of blank ammunition when he was arrested May 5 because he was "looking nervous," authorities said.

Later, Harvey told the Secret Service and FBI that he and three other men plotted Carter's murder in a Skid Row hotel on May 4. Harvey contended he was to have fired the starter's pistol as a decoy. No shots were ever fired.

"At this point the investigation is completed," said FBI special agent Tom Sheil. "That's not to say that if tomorrow someone came forward with some additional information that we are not aware of that we wouldn't reinstitute the investigation."

Returning To Conservatory

Mamie Ellene Maye of Greenville is returning to the Conservatory of Music, University of Missouri at Kansas City, to continue her studies toward a DMA degree.

Miss Maye, daughter of Mrs. J. W. Maye Sr. of Greenville, has taught two years at St. Paul's College in Lawrenceville, Va.

Annual Games On June 1-3

The annual Spring State Games, sponsored by North Carolina Special Olympics, Inc., will be held June 1-3 at St. Andrews College, Laurinburg.

Twenty-nine athletes from Pitt County will attend, along with approximately 1,000 participants from across the state.

"The Story of the GOLD BEAD"
It all began with one gold bead on a chain...the beginning of a necklace which was to be cherished through the years. Then, as other beads were added, the necklace grew in beauty and value, until at last the chain was full...lovely and sentimental.

Spoletto Has Eye-Catcher

EYE-CATCHER — Mezzo-soprano Brenda Boozer, who sings in the opera The Desperate Husband, uses the bicycle for her travels around Charleston. The opera is being performed in connection with Spoleto Festival. (AP Laserphoto)

By AL LANIER
Associated Press Writer
CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Swinging down Meeting Street on a bicycle — dark dress and dark tresses flowing — long-legged Brenda Boozer prompts male whistles, turning proper Charlestonians into romantic Romans.

The Italian connection is entirely fitting as Spoleto USA hits high gear. It's a more than $1.2 million festival of the performing arts ranging from opera to jazz, from ballet to basket-making.

If not the premiere attraction, Brenda Boozer is certainly prettier than the T-shirted, teen-age classical musicians, the real and fancied devotees of the arts, and thousands of others who mill the 18th century streets of Charleston as a result of the unique festival.

In everyday life, Miss Boozer is the wife of comedian-actor Robert Klein, who is currently starring in the Broadway hit, "They're Playing Our Song," a role that may win him a Tony Award. They have been married six years and she flies back to New York after almost every performance to be with him.

Professionally, she is a top-ranked opera singer, with plaudits from all quarters. The 28-year-old mezzo soprano is making four Spoleto appearances as Dorina in "The Desperate Husband," a 200-year-old Italian farce never before sung in this country.

Spoletto USA, the brainchild of Gian Carlo Menotti, is in its third year in Charleston. It is a sister festival of the composer's original gathering of the arts in Spoleto, Italy, which opens its 18th year in late June.

The Atlanta-born Miss Boozer promises to become a fixture in Charleston. She sang last year at Spoleto and has received rave reviews for that and other singing roles around the country.

"They invited me back to Charleston, and I wanted to come," she said in an interview. "It's a lovely and exciting city."

The finer points of Charleston the willowly singer should know very well. She jogs six miles each morning, whether in South Carolina or New York, except when a performance is scheduled that night.

She also is a scene-stealer on the bicycle she pedals whenever possible.

With her looks and vocal ability, she is a natural for television. She has been a guest several times on the Johnny Carson show and with Merv Griffin. Another Carson appearance is coming up in mid-summer.

"I love television," she said. "No costumes, no rehearsals. There's lots of pressure, but where else can you get the exposure to millions of people? I feel very comfortable on TV."

Some performers and opera buffs think being a soprano is essential to attaining true fame. Most leading roles for women are written for the higher range. Miss Boozer does not disagree, and may become one — if it comes naturally.

"So many women singers think that's the pinnacle," she said. "But I don't think so. I'm very happy with being a mezzo."

"If that's what my voice is, I won't force it. I'll do whatever is natural for my instrument."

Bloodmobile

A Bloodmobile visit is scheduled for Friday at Union Carbide, according to Mrs. Ruth Taylor of the Pitt Red Cross, who said that the visit will be open to the general public.

Mrs. Taylor said that tomorrow's blood drive will get underway at 11 a.m. and continue until 5 p.m.

She pointed out that the Union Carbide visit is one of the few open to donors from outside the plant as the blood program now encourages donors to make appointments and visit the local Blood Center.

Mrs. Taylor urged the general public to support the Union Carbide visit.

Recalls Hot Air Balloon Race Dangers Over The Mountains

By WILLIAM E. SCHULZ
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Racing a hot air balloon over mountains is a bit more dangerous than drifting over flatland, Bucky Brown of Jacksonville, Fla., said as he prepared for today's annual Helen to the Atlantic hot air balloon race.

"There are not too many landing spots near Helen" in the north Georgia mountains, said Brown, the defending champion. "Pine trees are not too good for a balloon. It's also very embarrassing to explain to everybody why you landed in a pine tree."

"Mountains are a lot of fun," he added. "There are different air currents. Mountains give chase crews (which follow balloons on the ground) something to do."

Racetime was set for 7:30 a.m. Pilots have the option of taking off or waiting, depending on the weather, which wasn't expected to be favorable, said Barbara Gay, one of the race organizers.

A dozen balloons were expected to race, with 20 more flying locally.

Brown said he had a new balloon, built in Atlanta, for the race.

"It's a large one, 91,000 cubic feet," said Tarp Head of Cleveland, Ga., maker of Brown's new silver and blue balloon "Don Q," and Brown's racing teammate. Head also is one of the original racers in the 6-year-old event.

"It's 55 feet in diameter and 885 feet tall. It is probably one of the largest balloons in the country," he said.

"The weather is now marginal," Head said Wednesday night. "If we don't get off at 7:30, we'll get off sometime in the morning. We're officially going to start the race at 7:30, and the pilots — it's up to their discretion."

"If they think they can make it to the coast and the wind is headed toward Dahlenega (in the other direction) — if they think they can climb to another wind, it's up to them."

Last year, Brown said, he was blown to Dahlenega before he got started.

The race is to the Atlantic, "anywhere there's salt water, anywhere from Miami to New York," Head said.

He said the shortest distance is about 200 miles, to Hilton Head, S.C., but winds looked like they would take balloonists toward Norfolk, Va.

The challenge of this race, which lasts until noon Saturday, is "endurance," said Brown.

"After four or five hours of standing under that burner, which generates eight or nine million BTUs, it will cook your brains," he said.

A hot air balloon is kept aloft by a flaming burner which heats the air in the balloon, keeping it hotter, and lighter, than the air outside.

A pilot must constantly watch his altitude, firing up the burner to heat the balloon's air when needed to increase altitude, Brown said.

"The average flight is an hour," Brown said. "After four or five hours, the heat gets to you. This race, with decent winds, can take a day and a half to two days."

A race deadline was set last year when bad winds kept any competitor from reaching the coast for several days. "Whoever is the closest at noon Saturday will be declared the winner," Ms. Gay said.

DESERT ART — A girl visitor walks through lots of concrete columns raising from the Sinai desert sand on the road from Rafiah to El Arish, now Egypt, marking a war monument for Israeli soldiers who had been killed during the 1967 Six-Days War in the

Says Reported Crimes Rose Over 18 Percent

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State Attorney General Rufus Edmisten announced today that the number of crimes reported to law-enforcement agencies in the state's five largest cities rose by more than 18 percent during the first three months of 1979, compared with the same period last year.

The statistics were released today in the Uniform Crime Report Trend Release that is published by the Police Information Network, a division of the state Justice Department. The figures are based on information furnished by law-enforcement agencies in the state's five cities with populations of 100,000 or more.

The cities include Charlotte, Durham, Raleigh, Greensboro and Winston-Salem.

A total of 16,106 offenses were reported, up 18.4 percent over 1978 figures — the heaviest volume of reported crime ever recorded for the first three months of a year in the five cities.

The report showed that violent crimes of murder, rape, robbery and aggravated assault increased by 18.6 percent. Robbery reflected the largest single increase at 24.1 percent. Murder decreased by 3.6 percent, while both rape and aggravated assault increased 6.4 percent and 18 percent respectively.

Nearly $6 million worth of property was reported stolen in the major cities during the first quarter of 1979. About $2 million of the stolen goods was recovered.

"I am alarmed at this drastic increase in serious crime," Edmisten said. "We in law enforcement need more help from the public, local government agencies, and especially the General Assembly of North Carolina.

"Crime reduction will not significantly improve until we decide that it is the top priority in this state. Unfortunately, the reduction of crime takes a back seat at appropriations time," he said.

A Non-Union Driver Shot

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP) — A non-union driver for a company being struck by the Teamsters union was shot in the leg Wednesday while driving a company truck along U.S. 64 near Momeyer, authorities said.

The company said it will ask for additional police protection of its non-union employees.

Stacy Fulford of Rocky Mount was hit by what was believed to be a rifle bullet as he and another worker, James Westry, were making a delivery to Charlotte. Westry was uninjured.

Nash County authorities refused to speculate, however, whether the shooting was related to an eight-week strike of Seaboard Foods Inc. by the Teamsters.

Joe Gurganus, vice president of the company, said that he thought the shooting was related to the union dispute. He said the company planned to ask for additional police protection for non-union workers who have been hired to replace the 36 striking warehousemen and drivers.

Fulford was listed in fair condition at Nash General Hospital.

The men said two shots were fired into the truck about 2 a.m. Wednesday. Company officials said four bullet holes were found in the truck.

Fulford and Westry said they didn't see any other vehicles on the highway, and police said it appeared that the shots were fired from a grassy area near the road.

The Rev. Vance, pastor of St. Mark F.W.B. Church, Kinston, is a noted evangelist and singer. He will be accompanied by his choir and congregation. Music will be provided by the Conference Choir of York Memorial and also the Youth Choir.

The Edwards Singers of Greenville will also appear along with choirs from St. Julie A.M.E. Zion from Jacksonville and Silverdale. Pianists and organists Mrs. Paulette Dove and Johnny Wooten will accompany the congregational testimonial service.

The Rev. Luther Brown will be pastor. The public is invited to attend.

Driver, Mobile Home Collide

An estimated $3,000 damage resulted to a car driven by Kathy D. Jones of Route 1, Ayden, in a 9:30 a.m. mishap at Johnny's Mobile Homes on Greenville Boulevard, yesterday.

Investigators reported the Jones car collided with a Havelock Homes trailer parked on the Johnny's lot after an unidentified vehicle forced the Jones car off the roadway.

Investigation into the mishap is continuing.

Office Complex For Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Plans were unveiled recently for a 65-acre, $50 million office complex in southeast Charlotte.

The complex, scheduled to be started within the next two weeks, will house two major corporate headquarters, a shopping center and a 150-room hotel. The hotel was announced in November by golfer Arnold Palmer and associates.

A spokesman for the project said the new office will provide about 665,000 square feet of rentable space.

Dissidents Finally Find Freedom In West Virginia

By BARRY RENFREW
Associated Press Writer
CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — After almost 40 years, two Russian dissidents finally have found in a little West Virginia college town the freedom they fought for and dreamed of in the Soviet Union.

After a long crusade for human rights, Nikolay and Ludmila Williams were expelled from Russia in 1977. So they returned to the country of their forefathers and settled last year in Bethany, where Williams teaches mathematics at Bethany College.

In a quiet, gentle voice, Williams, struggling with the language and accents of America, recounted in a telephone interview their lives in the Soviet Union: the grim, ordered society he remembers as "a political circus" where you paraded like a show horse at the command of the ringmaster's whip.

Williams' great-grandfather was an American who went to Russia in the mid-19th century to help build the first Soviet railway. He settled there after falling in love with a Russian woman.

Williams still has relatives in this country, but he has not heard from them since 1941. A search launched by friends when he first arrived in the United States has been unsuccessful.

"They said back home we might be related to Jack London, the writer, but who knows," he said.

Occasionally breaking into rapid, lilting Russian to translate the conversation for his wife, Williams told of their disillusionment with life in Russia; the joy of finding others who shared their beliefs and the hopeless acts of public defiance.

He also recalled the swift retribution of the KGB, the Soviet secret police, the years of harassment and intimidation that led to a prison camp in the Arctic Circle and finally their departure from Russia.

Mrs. Williams was a longtime member of the Communist Party. But for years, she said, she was caught between the teachings of a strict upbringing and the realities of the Soviet system.

"I was never a Communist...no, no, no," Williams says. Though he had little interest in politics, he was nonetheless initiated into the realities of Stalinist Russia while a student at Moscow University.

As a member of a small group who met to discuss art, literature and politics, Williams was arrested by the secret police in 1945 for anti-Soviet agitation. Like millions of others, he was sent to a prison camp for treason.

"I was lucky. You must remember the time. Just after the war things weren't so bad. If it had been earlier or later I could have gotten a much worse sentence," he said.

His "light sentence" was five years in a labor camp where inmates worked in Arctic weather, clearing frozen wilderness with little more than their hands. Williams remembers passing away his youth on a diet of gray, tasteless bread and endless propaganda.

"It was not too good, other camps were much worse," he says.

After his release, Williams worked at a mathematics institute outside Moscow, but his wife's activity in the Soviet civil rights movement kept him from becoming little more than a clerk, he said. Mrs. Williams was one of the founding members of the Moscow Helsinki Watch Group, formed to monitor Soviet compliance with the human rights provisions of the Helsinki Accords.

Though she was prominent in the movement, Mrs. Williams was never sent to prison, something that puzzles them both. However, they were harassed, they say, by the secret police until they left the U.S.S.R.

Among the leaders of the dissidents' movement with whom Mrs. Williams worked were Alexander Ginzburg and Yury Orlov. Ginzburg, one of several dissidents recently traded for two Russian spies, recently came to Bethany to visit the couple.

Mrs. Williams continues to work for human rights in the Soviet Union, meeting with other exiles in the United States and Europe to rally Western support for their cause.

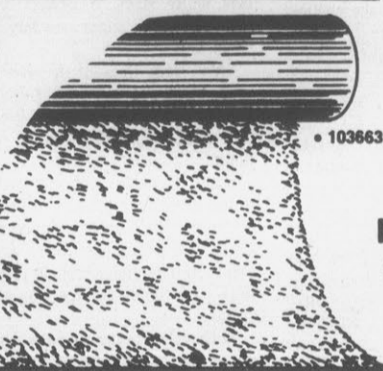

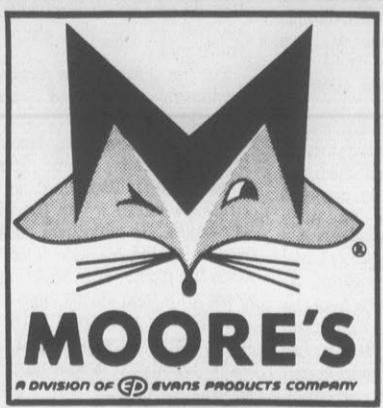

"We like the United States," Williams said, "life here is very different."

Their year at Bethany College has been a revelation. They are still amazed by the freedom at the school. In Soviet colleges, they say, failing an exam means instant expulsion. "So many things here are taken for granted, the rights of youth to exercise any kind of freedom...nobody forces you to follow the rules," he said. But he added: "young people are often the same anywhere, except they are a lot hairier here."

The Williams intend to remain in America, but they have discovered that even in a land of freedom, life can be difficult. His contract at Bethany has expired and he has not yet found a new job. Still, he is quick to add, he has no regrets. America is now job I suppose," he said.

Old Dog Statue Is A Tradition

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Standing in front of an old three-story house here is a 4-foot-tall, 340-pound iron statue of a Labrador.

It has been there for three-quarters of a century, having weathered attacks from vandals and pranksters.

It is believed the statue was erected after the dog had performed some heroic deed. It is also believed the dog's name was Rover.

Mrs. Robert Carrel, whose family bought the house in 1970, says the dog is a hero to children now growing up in the neighborhood. And tour buses slow down and sometimes stop for a better look at the dog.

"If we sold our house and moved, we could never take the dog," she says. "It would be a terrible thing to do."

Communication Surge Predicted

CHICAGO (AP) — Former astronaut James Lovell predicts a growth in telecommunication markets over the next two decades that may rival the expenditures on the Apollo moon program.

Now a director of the North American Telephone Association, Lovell said in a recent speech that the explosion in new equipment and services should add some $20 billion or more to the current $50-billion-a-year telecommunications industry.

The Apollo moon program cost about $25 billion.

Two Names For Double-Header

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — David Wayne Rice, 6, faced an unusual problem recently — finding a name for his pet turtle who has two heads.

David finally named him Herman and Bo.

His mother, Jean Rice, says Herman — the right head — seems more active than Bo.

The turtle was found in their backyard.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices showed some further losses today after Wednesday's sharp drop, but the market began to stabilize as the session progressed.
 The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off almost 4 points at the outset, was down 2.08 at 820.08 by noontime. The average had fallen 10.39 points on Wednesday.

Losers outpaced gainers by a 7-4 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.
 Before the opening of the government reported that the index of leading economic indicators fell 3.3 percent in April.

That marked the largest decline in more than 4 1/2 years for the index, which is designed to detect evidence of the future course of the economy.

Brokers said energy worries also were weighing down the market. They cited reports that Saudi Arabia, the main force for pricing moderation among the oil-exporting countries, was apparently yielding to pressure from other oil nations to go along with new price increases.
 One group which moved against the trend was the gold-mining stocks, aided by a sharp rise in world bullion prices.

Dome Mines gained 1/4 to 110 1/4; Campbell Red Lake 1/4 to 38 1/2; Homestake 1/8 to 33 1/2, and ASA 1/4 to 28 1/2.

The NYSE's composite index lost .12 to 55.89. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .50 at 185.14.

Volume on the Big Board came to 13.73 million shares at noontime, against 12.91 million at the same point Wednesday.

Pitt, Craven Boards Ask State Funds

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners, and commissioners from Craven County, have asked the Department of Transportation to allocate special state funds for adjustments needed for bridges in the Swift Creek Drainage District.

According to a resolution presented at a DOT highway hearing in Morehead City last week, 131 highway crossings in Pitt and 23 crossings in Craven County will need adjustments as the Swift Creek drainage work is implemented in the coming fiscal year.

While some of the costs for the adjustments will be the responsibility of the drainage district, it may take as much as $250,000 to fund the highway structure changes, the resolution explained.

"If this amount of money is used from (secondary road) maintenance funds, the funds will be completely depleted and there will be none available for urgently needed maintenance...therefore," Pitt and Craven officials asked that special state funds be allocated, "so that the maintenance funds for the highways in the Division will not be used for this purpose."

In addition to the request for special funding for the Swift Creek project highway crossings, the Pitt board submitted resolutions asking for the four-laning of N.C. 11-U.S. 13 from the N.C. 903 intersection North of Greenville, to Bethel; for widening N.C. 43 from its present 18-foot to a 24-foot wide roadway with paved shoulders, "from N.C. 121 at Bruce, bypassing Falkland, to the Edgecombe County line;" for widening N.C. 43 to a five-lane curb and gutter section from Greenville Boulevard to Bell's Fork; for widening N.C. 33 to a five-lane curb and gutter section from the Greenville Boulevard intersection for for elective abortions, and the Hunt administration has supported continuing state payment of abortions for those women. Supporters of the abortion funding said it was not a moral issue, but a question of allowing poor women the same rights as those who can afford an abortion.

"We're talking about helping poor folks," said Rep. Ben Tison, D-Mecklenburg. "You're talking about bringing children into the world when the parents don't want them. You're talking about self-inflicted abortions."

The House voted 79-30 to kill an amendment that would have deleted $3 million earmarked to begin operation of the state science and math high school. Rep. LeRoy Spoon, R-Mecklenburg, proposed the deletion, saying the General Assembly had never fully considered alternatives to the new school being located in Durham.

The state budget for the 1979-1981 biennium is covered in two bills. A capital projects budget bill, which includes a $40-million appropriation for improvements in the five predominantly black campuses of the University of North Carolina system, was approved with only seven dissenting votes.

The dispute between the House and Senate, however, is in the main budget bill. At issue is a so-called rule of 85, which would allow retirement at full benefits for state employees over 55 when the sum of their ages and years of service total 85.

The main budget includes a pay raise for teachers and state employees that totals 7 percent, plus a one-time $200 cash payment to all employees in November.

It also includes a 5 percent pay raise for legislators, beginning in 1981.

Code Violations

Greenville Fire Marshall Jerry McLawhorn said today that a number of fire prevention code violations involving gasoline have been observed over the past few days.

He described the violations as, "people filling unlabeled drums, barrels, and plastic containers with gasoline, then transporting the containers across the city in unlabeled trailers and trucks."

McLawhorn emphasized that dispensing gasoline in, "improper containers and transporting any flammable liquid in unlabeled containers or vehicles," is a violation of the National Fire Prevention Code, adopted by the City of Greenville in 1976.

Describing the violations as, "very serious and hazardous, to both life and property," the Fire Marshall said individuals violating the city code could be fined up to $100.

He emphasized that gasoline and other flammable liquids should be placed only in approved, and properly labeled containers, and transported in labeled vehicles.

Florist Found Cocaine In Boxes

NEWLAND, N. C. (AP) — Florist Michael Greene has wanted that stuff even around only been in the business for 10 months. He supplies flowers to over 40 dealers in Kentucky in addition to his own store in Minneapolis.

But the shipment he received Wednesday contained more than flowers. Greene opened his box of baby's breath from South America and discovered some small packages within the bigger boxes. He took them home, where he and his wife tried to open the plastic bags which had come with their florist supplies.

"But they were real hard to open, they were wrapped so tight, taped and double-taped," Greene said. "And then I seen this white stuff. It looked like that powdered sugar you buy in bags at the store."

"My wife thought it was a joke, but I got to thinking those flowers were from South America, and I figured it had to be dope."

What Greene and his wife found were four pounds of pure cocaine. He contacted Avery County sheriff's deputies, who conducted a field test to confirm that the substance was cocaine.

Authorities estimated the value of the cocaine at $4 million dollars on the street.

"When I heard that, I got to shakin' all over. Something like that just don't happen," he said.

Expos, Astros Soaring

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Montreal Expos and Houston Astros are sure getting up in the world.

After being down so long in their respective divisions, both National League expansion teams are off and winging this season, lately taking the play away from the longtime powers.

The East-leading Expos continued to dominate the Philadelphia Phillies Wednesday night, beating the defending NL champions 2-0 for the fifth time this season without a loss.

The Astros whipped the Reds 6-3 for the second straight night and moved into a virtual tie with the West leaders, only four percentage points behind.

Pitching has been one of the main reasons for the success of both teams — most notably Montreal's Bill Lee and Houston's Joe Niekro. Those two came through again for their teams, Lee pitching a six-hitter and Niekro winning his sixth straight game.

In the other NL games, the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the San Francisco Giants 6-5; the San Diego Padres hammered the Atlanta Braves 10-2; the Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the Chicago Cubs 9-2 and the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the New York Mets 7-3.

Lee, 5-2, got all his offensive support from Gary Carter's two-run homer in the second. Carter's ninth homer of the season came after Tony Perez had bloomed a single off Nino Espinosa, one of only four hits against the Phillies right-hander in six innings.

Niekro, 7-2, had allowed only one run in 26 innings before he lost his shutout in the eighth when Junior Kennedy hit into a bases-loaded double play, scoring Cesar Geronimo from third base. Niekro was later tagged for a two-run double by Geronimo in the ninth before Sambito came in to secure the victory for the Astros.

Dodgers 6, Giants 5
Dusty Baker doubled home Ted Martinez from first base to break a tie in the eighth inning, leading Los Angeles over San Francisco. Ron Cey slugged a three-run homer for the Dodgers in the first inning, but San Francisco came back with four runs in the top of the second.

Reggie Smith's third-inning sacrifice fly got the Dodgers even at 4-4, but Bill Madlock's fifth home run in the sixth gave San Francisco a 5-4 lead.

Padres 10, Braves 2
Dave Winfield drove in five runs — including a three-run homer which keyed a seven-run fifth inning — as San Diego routed Atlanta. Winfield's production gave him a league-leading total of 39.

Bob Shirley, 2-4, came on to pitch in the second and allowed just three hits while striking out seven en route to the victory. Starter Mickey Lolich was forced to leave the game with a sore shoulder after giving up a leadoff walk in the second inning.

Pirates 9, Cubs 2
Jim Rooker tossed a two-hitter and Willie Stargell and Bill Robinson slammed homers to lead Pittsburgh over Chicago. The Pirates earned their fourth triumph in a row as Rooker raised his record to 2-0 after spending the first six weeks of the season on the disabled list with an ailing shoulder.

Cardinals 7, Mets 3
Garry Templeton tripled and scored on an error to snap a 2-2 tie and Lou Brock followed with a home run, powering St. Louis over New York. Templeton's triple and Brock's homer came off Mets right-hander Craig Swan, 4-4, starting the fifth.

The blasts were part of a 15-hit homer, his 10th of the year off Cardinal attack, which also featured Ted Simmons' three-run New York reliever Jesse Orosco in the seventh.

Greenville Legion Takes Second Win, Downing Washington 8-2

WASHINGTON — Pitt County's American Legion baseball team posted its second straight victory last night as Post 39 rolled past Washington 8-2.

It was the second win against no losses for the local team, both of them over Washington in non-conference match-ups.

The game was another opportunity for Post 39 coach Gary Overtun to look over his team. He used 15 different players, including three pitchers.

Mike Williams started on the mound for the winners and pitched three innings, holding Washington hitless and scoreless. He was credited with the victory.

In addition, Jeff Allen hurled four innings and Melvin Howard two. Allen gave up both Washington runs in the seventh. Pitt County banged out a total of 10 hits in the game with doubles by Will Barrett and Mark Douglas. Barrett, Ben Wilson and Curtis Spencer all went 2-4 to lead the Pitt County hitters.

Post 39 scored all eight of its runs before Washington got on the board. The first run came in the second. Leadoff batter Spencer singled, moved up on Jeffrey Hines' infield out and scored when Douglas reached on an error.

Two more runs came in in the sixth. Wilson led off with a base hit and Skip Topping followed with a single. They advanced on Spencer's infield out and scored when Douglas got on via a Washington misplay.

The winners broke the game open in the top of the seventh with a five-run barrage. With one out, Mark Shank, Barrett, Wilson and Topping all walked.

Jamesville In State Finals

JAMESVILLE — Jamesville High School, which made it as far as the Eastern finals last year, won its way into the state 1-A finals this season, downing Midway last night, 6-3.

The win boosted the Bullet record to 23-1 on the year and will send Jamesville up against Prospect High School of Maxton for the state title.

Prospect downed Tryon, 6-2, to win the Western title, and will be the host team for the state playoffs. The best-of-three series is scheduled for June 7-8-9 at Maxton.

Jamesville got all six of its runs in the fourth inning. Tommy DiNardo and Alan Frazier both walked with one away and Carl Ange reached on an error, scoring DiNardo. Keith Long

Pirate Club Helps Athletics, Which Helps Build Community

When it comes to running the football team at East Carolina University, the coaches have to depend on their quarterback.

But when it comes to running the whole athletic program, the Pirate Club, East Carolina's Educational Foundation, is just as vital as that quarterback is to the football team, according to Gus Andrews.

Andrews, the executive director of the Pirate Club, pointed out that ECU athletic director Bill Cain is surrounded by "pressure-cooker economy," and that he has learned to depend on the Pirate Club and its members to provide the financial boost to sustain the school's athletic scholarship program.

"It's been said that John Wooden couldn't have won all those basketball championships at UCLA without the horses—fine athletes, with a great desire to excel," Andrews said. "Athletic success at any institution, East Carolina included, depends on recruiting the finest student-athletes to the school, a task which makes money for scholarships mandatory."

A large number of men and women currently are attending East Carolina because they are receiving these scholarships from the East Carolina University Educational Foundation. These tax-deductible donations go directly for scholarship assistance, playing the university bills for tuition and the like.

"The financial crunch has hit many schools to the extent that some have dropped football, but thanks to the Pirate Club and the student body and the success we have enjoyed, our football program is expanded and has an unlimited growth potential," Cain said.

"The Pirate Club members have put in excess of $300,000 into the scholarship budget and that has enabled us to assist many student-athletes in receiving a college education. It wouldn't have been possible to do this without Pirate Club aid."

During its history, the Pirate Club, under the direction of leaders like Reynolds May, Booger Scales, Ray Minges, Ed Rawl, Ed Casey, Dr. M.W. Aldridge, Les Garner, Joe Hallow, Graham Flanagan, Norwood Crawford, Bill Brinkley and Max Joyner, all club presidents, has grown into an organization the counts over 2,900 members.

"Just as college football attendance has shown an annual growth in recent years, the same has happened in Pirate Club contributions," Andrews said. He added that the club is expected to raise an all-time high of a half-million dollars this year, and continue to grow in 1980.

"Greenville and Pitt County residents and businesses are the ones who financially benefit the most from successful ECU athletics," Andrews said.

"According to a Chamber of Commerce report in Wake County (1976) and adapted to Greenville (1979), ECU athletics means $36 million being turned each year in Greenville. It makes an excellent investment for the community for ECU to be on top."

With few exceptions, athletic foundations rely on local communities for at least half of their support in dollars and numbers. Greenville, according to Andrews' figures, currently supplies about 40 per cent of the total dollars to the Pirate Club. "And this comes from only 700 people in a town of over 30,000," he added.

"Of these 700, about 100 are ECU staff and faculty, who have joined through the efforts of Dick Farris and Dr. Frank Saunders, who work to generate more campus support.

"But even with this, we need more Pirate Club members in Greenville and Pitt County. ECU athletics provide a focal point around which the community can rally—no matter where you went to school—and provides excitement and pleasure. It's a sound investment," Andrews said.

"The Pirate Club is already one of the fastest growing around, and it supports one of the fastest growing programs around. But it's got to have continued and growing support for the program to continue to grow and expand."

The Pirate Club is currently in the midst of its 1979-80 membership drive.

Lady Rams Are Beaten

PLYMOUTH — Parker hit a solo home run for Currituck in the sixth inning yesterday as her team slipped past Greene Central 7-6 in the quarterfinals of the state softball playoffs.

Currituck scored first in the game with a pair of runs in the second. The Lady Rams posted two in the top of the third, but Currituck scored a trio of runs in the bottom of the frame.

Greene Central took a 6-5 lead in the top of the fourth, but Currituck tied the game in the bottom of the frame.

Fisher was the winning pitcher, while Brower was 2-3 for Currituck. Cindy Creech was 3-4, including a home run, for the Lady Rams, while Lisa Speight was 2-3 and Lisa Taylor 2-4.

The loss ends the Greene Central season. The Lady Rams finished with a 21-2 record.

Sturdevant Wins Event

Robert Sturdevant jumped off to an early lead, then barely held off a challenge by Frank Fuller at the Wednesday Night Putt-Putt Tournament.

Sturdevant finished up with a 94, while Fuller was only a stroke back with a 95. Mike Brown finished in third place with a 97.

Fuller is still the leader for Putter of the Year honors.

Rangers Take Ninth From Bosox, 3-2

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The Texas Rangers always get their man...and their man always seems to be the Boston Red Sox.

The Rangers made it nine in a row over the red-faced Red Sox in Arlington Stadium Wednesday night when Richie Zisk singled Al Oliver home from second base in the 10th inning for a 3-2 triumph. The Red Sox haven't won in Texas since September of 1977.

"I guess everybody knows we have lost nine in a row in Texas," sighed Boston Manager Don Zimmer. "That's what happens when you don't get clutch hits and leave runners on base. We left six on base in the last five innings."

Unbeaten Texas reliever Jim Kern earned his seventh victory by allowing two hits in four innings.

Royals 2, Orioles 1
Amos Otis hit a two-run homer in the first inning and Rich Gale pitched out of several jams before giving way to Al Hrabosky in the ninth. George Brett singled with one out in the Kansas City first and with two out Otis hammered Mike Flanagan pitch for his third home run of the season and 144th of his career, making him Kansas City's all-time leader, surpassing John Mayberry's 143.

The game marked the return to the Kansas City line-up of outfielder Al Cowens, who suffered a broken jaw May 8 when he was hit by a pitch from Texas' Ed Farmer. Cowens doubled on his first at-bat and later added a single in four trips.

Yankees 5, Brewers 2
Juan Beniquez and Bucky Dent hit sacrifice flies and Mickey Rivers added an RBI double in New York's three-run 11th inning. Play was interrupted for 32 minutes when 6-foot-4, 217-pound Cliff Johnson collided with plate umpire Lou DiMuro after scoring the second run of the inning. DiMuro, who was conscious and responsive to questions, was taken by ambulance to a hospital for treatment of possible neck or back injuries.

Angels 3, Mariners 2
Brian Downing opened the ninth with a single, stole second, went to third on Merv Rettenmund's grounder and scored the winning run on Bert Campaneris' squeeze bunt single.

Meanwhile, Nolan Ryan held the Mariners to three hits — including homers by Ruppert Jones and Leon Roberts — and struck out 12. Don Baylor homered for the Angels.

A's 5, Twins 4
Mitchell Page singled home the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning and the eventual winning run came home on a wild pitch by Minnesota reliever Mike Marshall. The A's got strong relief efforts from John Henry Johnson and Bob Lacey, who put down a threat in the ninth after the Twins had runners at second and third with one out.

Tigers 8, Blue Jays 2
Milt Wilcox scattered five hits and Rusty Staub and Lance Parrish each cracked solo home runs as the Tigers won their fifth game in a row and reached the .500 level for the first time since April 26. The Tigers scored twice in the fourth inning to break a 2-2 tie when third baseman Roy Howell booted Alan Trammell's grounder, allowing Parrish to score from third, and Lou Whitaker's sacrifice fly brought home Aurelio Rodriguez. Parrish, who had four hits in five at-bats, hit his fifth home run of the season in the eighth inning.

Indians 6, White Sox 4
Ron Pruitt crashed a two-run homer to highlight a four-run uprising in the fifth inning. Rick Waits yielded five hits and three unearned runs in five innings and was credited with his fifth straight victory. He left after the fifth when he developed a blister on the middle finger of his pitching hand. Pruitt's homer, his first of the season, followed a walk to Andre Thornton and gave the Indians a 5-3 lead.

Collision Raises Some Questions About Help

By MIKE O'BRIEN
AP Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — American League umpire Lou DiMuro apparently escaped serious injury Wednesday night in an ugly collision which raised questions about procedures and responsibilities for handling on-field accidents at Milwaukee's County Stadium.

At least, no one could explain why it took about 20 minutes for an ambulance to arrive after DiMuro was hurt in a collision with the New York Yankees' Cliff Johnson in the 11th inning of a baseball game with the Milwaukee Brewers.

Johnson, 6-foot-4 and 217 pounds, scored on a sacrifice fly. Running full speed, he crossed home plate, abruptly turned and collided with the 6-foot-1, 175 pound DiMuro, the plate umpire who was crouched in the catcher's box as he watched the play.

Both tumbled to the ground and television replays showed DiMuro's neck seem to snap back in whiplash fashion as his body hit the dirt. He lay motionless while Brewer trainer Curt Rayer rushed from the first base dugout. Rayer was joined at the scene by Dr. Ian Gilson, the physician on duty for the game.

Although it first was feared DiMuro, 47, had suffered a severe spinal or neck injury, it took 32 minutes for an ambulance to arrive and for DiMuro to be lifted into it on a stretcher.

DiMuro was taken to Mount Sinai Medical Center, about five minutes away, for examination by neurosurgeons. The injury was diagnosed as a minor spinal contusion, or bruise. Dr. Paul Jacobs, the Brewers' chief physician, said DiMuro would be held, possibly for a day or two, for observation.

"He took a hell of a jolt, but X-rays were negative and we hope he will be 100 percent better in 24 hours," Jacobs said.

Johnson, who bruised an elbow in the collision, also was examined at the hospital, and X-rays were negative.

Bird, Celtics Close To Coming To Terms

By DICK BRAUDE
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Intervention by owner Harry Mangurian has come close to assuring the Boston Celtics will soon have basketball's most coveted Bird in hand.

After weeks of bickering between Celtics President Red Auerbach and lawyer Bob Wolf — agent for Indiana State star Larry Bird — the two sides are close to terms today on a multiyear pact worth more than $600,000 per season.

The breakthrough came Wednesday as Mangurian and the Celtics increased their original offer by some $100,000 per year.

Wolf is under increasing pressure to agree to the contract at the next bargaining session Friday and bring the college player of the year to Boston and make it final.

Mangurian, in Boston to investigate building a new arena for the Celtics in nearby Somerville, stepped into the previously stalled talks, getting Auerbach and Wolf together for negotiations.

"I'm really encouraged. We accomplished quite a bit. Our next meeting is Friday and it could be our last," the owner said after the two-hour session in Auerbach's office. "Red has handled the situation and he did today (Wednesday). Hopefully, it can culminate in the next few days."

Wolf asked for time to digest the Celtics' offer, giving rise to speculation that he may yet seek extra cash for his client. What Bird thinks was unknown because the big blond from French Lick, Ind. was said to be "out fishing" back home.

In a nutshell, the Celtics backed off their earlier take-it-or-leave-it stance. Auerbach had refused to budge from an initial offer of $500,000 per year.

Wolf first sought $1 million per season for six years, plus $200,000 in fringes, but later pared that demand to $700,000.

The agent still insists Bird will get somewhat more than the reported $600,000 per season being paid another National Basketball Association newcomer, Earvin "Magic" Johnson of Michigan State, who has agreed to terms with the Los Angeles Lakers. The Celtics say Johnson is getting less than half that amount in salary, however.

David Thompson of the Denver Nuggets is said to be the league's highest paid player at $800,000 per year.

"The Celtics are now negotiating in good faith," said Wolf. "I'm being reasonable and they're being reasonable."

"Things are looking better," said Auerbach. He added that new Celtics Coach Bill Fitch, who was in the team's offices Wednesday, "is very high on Bird. That was a big factor."

The Celtics, meanwhile, face a deadline for signing Bird, drafted last year as a junior. If he doesn't come to terms before the NBA draft June 25, Bird will again be available in the draft pool.

THE TIME, APPARENTLY, has finally come.

High school cage superstar Ralph Sampson said Tuesday that he will announce tonight where he plans to attend college.

Sampson, a 7-3 3/4 product of Harrisonburg (Va.) High School, has been the subject of more speculation in the past few months than the New York Stock Exchange. His name has become almost a household word as nearly everyone even mildly interested in college basketball awaited his decision.

Many months ago, Sampson announced that he had narrowed his choice to four schools, North Carolina, Kentucky, Virginia and Virginia Tech. He visited all four of those schools plus East Tennessee State.

Rumors have flown hot and heavy since then. The most recent one is that Sampson has already signed with Carolina and is trying to get his parents to go along. His parents, according to the rumor, would like him to stay closer to home.

Sampson led his high school team to two consecutive Virginia state championships. Behind his 30 points and 20 rebounds per game, Harrisonburg was 26-0 this past season. Sampson was also the only non-collegian chosen to the U. S. Pan-American Games team last month.

He won't mean an automatic NCAA championship, but Sampson could probably turn any program into a winner. Kentucky has also had a phenomenal recruiting year, signing among others the nation's other top big man, 7-2 Sam Bowie of Lebanon, Penn. It is surprising that Sampson would consider Kentucky since Bowie is already committed there, but the Wildcats should have a great team next season and may be unbeatable should Sampson decide to settle in Lexington.

Of course, both Virginia and Virginia Tech could greatly use Sampson's services and Carolina might finally win that elusive national championship with a center like Ralph Sampson. A dominating big man has been a vital missing link in the Tar Heel lineup for the past few seasons.

Another school has cropped up recently in the Sampson saga, Maryland. Sampson's high school coach, Roger Bergey, is reportedly under consideration for a position on Lefty Driesell's staff and he and Sampson are reportedly very close. Bergey denies, however, ever having discussed a "package deal" with his superstar.

The Sampson case has been an interesting one to observe. As the last of the big name prep stars to sign, Sampson attracted the attention of not only the recruiting freaks, but nearly everyone in sports.

You didn't even have to us his whole name for someone to know who you were talking about. "What's Ralph done..." or "Has he decided yet..." have been asked many times daily over the past few months. Even lately, when many grew tired of the long wait, curiosities were still high.

If you can believe the reports, the wait will end tonight.

The Seattle SuperSonics' 114-112 overtime victory over the world champion Washington Bullets Tuesday night gives them a seemingly insurmountable lead in their NBA championship series.

The Sonics lead the best-of-seven affair by a 3-1 margin, a delead which has never been overcome in a championship series.

The Bullets have recovered from a 3-1 deficit in a playoff series before, however. The teams return to Washington Friday night for what could be the final game.

One-Ball Rule Goes Into Effect Today

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A one-ball rule was scheduled to go into effect today in the first round of the $350,000 Kemper Open golf tournament.

Most of the game's leading players endorse the rule, believing it will make no change in their game. But some predict in ill-concealed delight that it will bother others.

"It's going to raise hell with some guys," predicted Andy Bean, the defending champion in this tournament.

"Some of them have downwind ball, cross-wind balls, upwind balls."

The rule, set by the U.S. Golf Association and followed by the PGA tour, requires that a player use only one type ball during a round. If a player starts the round with a certain brand and type of ball, he must play that brand and type throughout the round.

Previously, players were allowed to use as many different brands and types as they desired. Many touring pros had a habit of using different balls under different situations. One particular brand was very popular for use when low shots into the wind, or great distance were required.

Most of the leading players, however, insist they have never used but one ball. Among them are Jack Nicklaus and Tom Watson.

"It's a good rule," Nicklaus said last week. "It's like the 14-club rule. If you have a wind ball, it's like having a wind club."

Watson, at the same time, agreed.

"I like it," he said. "In fact, I think I'm partly responsible for it. That comes out of a talk I had with Sandy Tatum (president of the USGA) about the situation a year ago."

Sampson To Tell Choice Tonight

HARRISONBURG, Va. (AP) — At least four college basketball coaches are looking forward to the relief of knowing tonight where Ralph Sampson, the hottest prospect left on the recruiting circuit, will play his college ball.

Rumors were rampant Wednesday about where the 7-foot-3 3/4-inch center was going. All were baseless, said Ralph Bergey, Sampson's coach at Harrisonburg High, because Sampson himself hadn't decided yet.

Sampson will have to make up his mind by 7 p.m. tonight, the hour for which he has called a news conference at the high school gym to name the college of his choice.

Sampson in April said he had narrowed his choices of colleges to four — Virginia, Virginia Tech, North Carolina and Kentucky. Rumors Wednesday named all of the schools except Virginia Tech as the winner.

The chosen coach won't be told until shortly before the news conference, when the coaches of the four schools will be informed of Sampson's decision. Only one will get good news, but all will be relieved.

"...I'm glad it's almost over," one coach who has pursued Sampson said Wednesday. "My wife says she doesn't think one person deserves so much attention."

Sampson averaged nearly 30 points and 20 rebounds a game during his senior year while leading Harrisonburg High to a 26-0 record and a second consecutive Virginia Group AA scholastic championship.

He was the only non-collegian named to the 12-man United States team for this summer's Pan-American Games.

Miami Seeking College Crown

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Miami second baseman Howie Shapiro says his team was "in a cloud" when it played in the 1978 College World Series.

It was a new experience for the Miami players and the result was a third-place finish.

But Shapiro says that won't be the case this time. The team is a year older and a year wiser and he says that could be the difference as second-rated Miami goes after the title that eluded the Hurricanes a year ago.

Miami (55-9) is one of seven teams from the nation's top 10 in the 1979 CWS, which opens Friday. Northeast Regional champion Connecticut is the only unrated team in the field, which also includes No. 1 Texas.

The series opens Friday with No. 7 Arkansas (46-13), runner-up to Texas in the Southwest Conference, meeting eighth-rated Pepperdine (50-16). Miami then tangles with No. 5 Arizona (42-23).

First round action concludes Saturday as Texas (54-6) plays Connecticut (31-11) and No. 3 Fullerton State (55-13-1) meets No. 4 Mississippi State (47-10).

Miami is the top finisher back from the 1978 series. CWS champion Southern California and runnerup Arizona State, two regulars in the series, failed to qualify for their regionals.

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — The Seattle SuperSonics are on Cloud Nine.

The Sonics, with a commanding 3-1 lead in their best-of-seven series with the defending champion Washington Bullets, can win their first National Basketball Association title Friday night.

"We have been fighting off adversity all year long," said guard Fred Brown. "But here we are, one game away from the world championship. We feel we could wrap it up Friday night."

The Sonics got a big boost Tuesday night when they won their third straight game over the Bullets, 114-112 in an overtime contest that featured 58 fouls and 72 free throw attempts.

No team has ever come back from a 3-1 deficit to win three in a row in an NBA final. But the Bullets, who made such a comeback in the Eastern championship against the San Antonio Spurs, think they can do it again in the final.

"This is about the toughest position we can be in," said Bullets guard Kevin Grevey. "You never want to get down this far to any team, especially a team as good as Seattle.

"From now on we have to play with reckless abandon. I know we're in a tough spot. But if we keep playing this way, we can win on Friday night, come back out here and take one and then we'll be in a good spot," said Grevey.

Game 7, if necessary, would be played next Wednesday here in the Capital Centre.

Despite their lead, the Sonics say they aren't going to take it easy Friday night because they remember what happened last year when, up 3-2, they relaxed in Washington and got blown off the court. The Bullets went on to win the championship.

"We found out last year that three wins doesn't mean anything," said Jack Sikma. "We're going to be ready to play."

Sonic Paul Silas said, "To stop us, the Bullets are going to have to win three, and we think that's going to be pretty tough for them to do."

John Johnson said, "We're very confident. We'd like to get this over as soon as possible." As Fred Brown summarized it: "Only one more win. Ain't that beautiful?"

Welcome 2, Pepsi-Cola 0

Welcome got a one-hit shutout from Tray Fuqua yesterday and nipped Pepsi-Cola, 2-0.

The win boosted the Wellcome record to 4-3, while Pepsi-Cola fell off to 5-2.

Fuqua gave up just one hit, that coming in the first inning. He struck out eighth and walked two.

Both of the Wellcome runs came in the third inning. Lark Wetherington got a one-out double and took third on a passed ball. After Terry Warren walked and stole second, a sacrifice fly by Fuqua brought in Wetherington. Cedric Hines then singled in Warren with the second run.

Wetherington led the Wellcome hitting with two.

Lions 16, Coca-Cola 2

The Lions remained unbeaten in North State Little League play yesterday as they rolled to a 16-2 victory over Coca-Cola.

The Lions are now 7-0 on the year, while Coke is now 2-5.

William Ward allowed only one Coke hit, but was tagged for two runs in the sixth inning. He lost his no-hit bid in the third.

The Lions pushed over one in the first inning, then came back to score 11 in the third. Patrick Rand led off the third with a single and Tony Taylor doubled him in. Taylor moved up on an error and scored on a wild pitch.

Then, after getting two outs, the Coke team saw the Lions come up with nine more runs before they could get the third out. Tom Moyer walked, as did Ralph Harper. Steven Garrett was hit by a pitch, loading the bases, as was Burt Aycock, forcing in a run. Mike Taylor doubled in two runs, and Rand tripled in two. Tony Taylor singled in Rand, and William Ward reached on an error. Kevin Pace also was safe on an error, scoring Taylor and Ward. Moyer reached on another error, allowing Pace to score for a 12-0 lead.

The Lions got four more in the fifth.

The two Coke runs came in the sixth. Brian Gee and Lee Allen both walked. Bruce Gee reached on an error that allowed both runners to score.

Tony Taylor led the Lion hitting with four, while Rand added two.

Pitt County Junior Babe Ruth

Chicod 15, Ayden 9

Chicod ran its record to 3-0 yesterday with a 15-9 victory over Ayden.

Jeff Cox was the winning pitcher in the game, while Chris Buck and Todd Rouse each had two hits for Chicod.

Ayden was led by Timmy Suggs and Scott Tucker, each with a pair.

Ground Service Crews Getting DC-10s In Shape

THIRTY-DAY OUTLOOK — This is the way the nation's weather shapes up for the next thirty days in terms of precipitation and temperatures, according to the National Weather Service. (AP Laserphoto Map)

By PETER MACKLER
Associated Press Writer

Airline mechanics worked around the clock getting DC-10s in shape to pass government muster, but while dozens of the jumbo jets returned to the air, some remained on the ground with new problems.

More than half the 138 DC-10s owned by eight U.S. carriers were cleared for service Wednesday and ground crews raced to get more of the wide-bodied planes air-ready by early today.

Some domestic DC-10 flights were canceled Wednesday, but airlines were able to juggle routes and planes to accommodate passengers. Most foreign airlines that voluntarily grounded their DC-10s Tuesday, also reported their service returning to normal.

While the DC-10s were being declared fit for the flying public, some travelers wondered if they were ready for the jets hit by two inspection orders and the nation's worst air crash.

A United ticket clerk who declined to give her name said at New York's Kennedy Airport that "quite a few" people balked at taking DC-10s and asked for another plane.

The Federal Aviation Administration had first ordered the inspection of engine mounting bolts on all U.S. DC-10s following Friday's American Airlines crash in Chicago that killed 274 people.

United Airlines mechanics found a crack in an engine reinforcing plate on one plane and another crack in one of two braces supporting the plate. A problem with another United DC-10 had prompted the latest checks.

"We consider both of these cracks major problems," said Ed Williams, a United official.

United official William Poerstel said 80 percent of the company's 37 DC-10s were expected to be in the air early today. The rest needed repairs and it was not known when they would be ready, he said.

American spokesman Dave Frailey said eight of the airline's 30 DC-10s returned to service Wednesday, three more were to be in the air by early today and eight more by later in the morning. It was not immediately known when the remaining 11 jets would take off.

A check of the other U.S. airlines operating DC-10s showed: —World Airways had its six DC-10s flying again Wednesday morning. At Trans International Airlines, spokesman Rich Slakoss said all three DC-10s had been inspected and were flying on schedule.

—National spokesman Walt Robshaw said inspection of all National's 16 DC-10s was completed in time to resume normal service Wednesday afternoon.

—All 22 Northwest Orient DC-10s were inspected Wednesday and cleared for service.

—Western Airlines said all of its nine DC-10s were cleared and operating.

Saver Offered Interest Raise

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Financial leaders in the state say regulatory changes announced by the federal government will allow North Carolina savers to earn higher interest on their deposits in banks and savings and loan associations.

The changes, announced Wednesday, were approved by the Federal Reserve Board and Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

its because of the low interest rates on their old mortgages.

North Carolina financial industry leaders said they welcomed the changes.

"It gives savers the opportunity to earn a higher interest rate," said John G. Medlin Jr., president of Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. "It also enables banks to better compete for savers' deposits with other investment opportunities that savers would have in a higher interest rate environment like we have today."

The most important change increased allowable interest rates on passbook accounts to 5 1/4 percent for banks and to 5 1/2 percent for savings and loans. Banks are currently restricted to 5 percent and savings and loans to 5 1/4 percent.

The new rules, which take effect July 1, also eliminate requirements that savers deposit minimum amounts to qualify for certificates of deposit, which pay higher interest than passbook accounts.

Bertram A. Jones, president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Raleigh, said, "Certainly the higher rate is long overdue. We had been hoping that they would increase the passbook rate even a little more."

But several industry spokesmen said the higher interest rates will cause lenders to raise their rates to borrowers.

Certificates of deposit, which mature over a number of years, yield as high as 8.86 percent interest. The agencies also reduced penalties for withdrawal of certificates of deposit before maturity.

Another major change in the regulations affects homebuyers by allowing savings and loans to offer home mortgages with interest rates that rise and fall with the interest rates in the nation's money markets. Savings and loans officials have said they couldn't afford to pay higher interest rates on deposits.

"Home mortgage rates will definitely go up," said F. Guy Walker, president of Raleigh Federal Savings and Loan Association. "In one day, it's going to cost us $162,500 (in additional interest) just to raise the passbook rate a quarter of a point."

The new mortgage plan, called a variable-rate mortgage, applies only to the 46 federally chartered savings and loans in the state. A few state-chartered savings and loans already offer such mortgages because state law does not prohibit them.

Happiness Is: Parking Space

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Forget the fame, glamour and dollars, for Shelley Hack, the newest of television's "Charlie's Angels," happiness is her own studio parking space — two of them.

The 27-year-old Miss Hack, already a "Charlie" girl in TV spots for Revlon cosmetics, was in Hollywood heaven Wednesday as she discussed replacing fallen angel Kate Jackson in the hit show.

"I can't believe it," she said. "I get the series and I get to go to the Caribbean (to film the opening episode). And I get two parking spaces — one by the sound stage and one by my dressing room."

Injunction Curbs Plans

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The status of an Environmental Protection Agency meeting next week with scientists from around the world was in limbo Wednesday, with questions raised about a court injunction designed to keep the agency from discussing matters behind closed doors.

told the more than 20 participants they would be paid as though the workshop had been held. There was no estimate on the cost of the aborted workshop or whether the $10,000 bond posted by the institute would cover the cost to EPA.

The scientists were supposed to discuss information for a document that will be used in revising the air pollution standards for sulfur oxides and particulates.

A similar workshop Wednesday was cancelled after the order was received.

The injunction, sought and received Wednesday by the American Iron and Steel Institute in Pittsburgh, prevents the EPA from having closed workshops on background documents setting sulfur oxide emission standards.

No decision had been made Wednesday on the second workshop scheduled next week with more than 100 scientists from around the world expected to take part.

But many scientists say the court's action will hinder work on EPA documents.

The restraining order, signed by a Pennsylvania district judge, stopped EPA from conducting closed workshops on the background documents for sulfur oxides and particulate emissions. It also ordered EPA not to hold such meetings without a stenographic record.

A hearing on making the injunction permanent is scheduled for June 11 in Pittsburgh.

The first of two workshops covered by the order began Wednesday at the EPA's Research Triangle Park office, but was disbanded after the court order was read.

FIRE ANT MENACE!

SCIENTIFIC SOLUTION. NEW FROM BLACK FLAG®

Amazing formula from Black Flag® kills fire ants... without dangerous gasoline or burning.

Fire ants are dangerous

Fire ants breeding in mounds can attack with the slightest provocation. Just an innocent step on a fire ant mound and fire ants can swarm over their victim. They attack viciously with a burning sting like a hornet's. Can leave disfiguring chicken-pox like pustule for days.

Special scientifically proven formula

Tests on fire ant mounds prove Black Flag® Fire Ant Killer destroys fire ant mounds. Special exterminator-proven ingredient kills fire ants. It's Black Flag's scientific method for killing fire ants.

Use without fear

You don't have to be an expert to use Black Flag Fire Ant Killer. Just mix with water and gently sprinkle on mound with an ordinary watering can. No need to fear a fire ant attack as you're using it. As you're soaking the nest with the insecticide that kills them, fire ants react as if it's simply rain — and won't swarm out to attack you or your family.

Penetrates into mound

Unlike many other fire ant remedies — Black Flag Fire Ant Killer actually penetrates into the mound to kill fire ants where they hide and breed. Destroys deadly fire ant mounds with its proven efficacious formula.

No dangerous gasoline

With Black Flag Fire Ant Killer there's no need for dangerous gasoline or burning. Black Flag Fire Ant Killer doesn't destroy your grass, lawn or shrubs.

Protect your family from fire ant menace now

Black Flag Fire Ant Killer kills fire ants. So protect yourself, your family and your pets from the fire ant menace. Destroy fire ant mounds and kill fire ants with Black Flag Fire Ant Killer.

Mrs. Sams Ending Long Career As School Cook

By DIANE SECHREST
The Asheville Times
ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — When Margaret Sams was growing up under the influence of a mother who was a good cook, her greatest desire was to learn how to bake a perfect egg custard.

"My parents had a truck farm in Canton," she said. "Every Friday they would leave me with my grandfather and I would cook his noon meal. I was so determined to make that egg custard right that I gave him one every week."

Her grandfather never complained, and after a few weeks, perfect egg custards were coming out of the oven. By the time she was married and on her way toward raising four children, her reputation as a cook had spread among her family and neighbors.

Then, in the late 1940s, she became famous in broader circles. "The principal of Candler School called and asked me to help out in the cafeteria for a day or two," she said.

It wasn't long until the students found out that Mrs. Sams and her skills at baking bread were the best things to happen to Candler School in a long time. She stayed more on more than four years.

On June 29, Mrs. Sams will retire, ending a career in school food service that spanned more than 30 years and carried her from a lunchroom worker earning $13 a week to her present position as the food service director for Buncombe County schools.

Today's school kitchens with their warming ovens, time-saving conveniences and electric stoves are a far cry from the type of kitchen where Mrs. Sams began her career.

"With a little paring knife, we would shred slaw for 700 students at Candler," she said. Cooking was done on a coal-fired stove.

Mrs. Sams was a working wife and mother long before it was fashionable. She rode the school bus to work each morning with her children. At the end of the working day she went home to can vegetables from her garden and sew clothes for her family.

When the Pisgah Elementary School was built in 1951, Mrs. Sams was hired there as cafeteria manager. In her first management position, she tried to avoid doing things that irritated lunchroom workers, such as making them stay late to prepare foods for the next day.

"People all need to go home and have their home life," she said.

After four years at Pisgah, Mrs. Sams moved on to the new Enka High School as cafeteria manager. "I don't guess I've ever had more personal satisfaction from anything than the years I spent there," she said.

Mrs. Sams soon learned that high school students can be finicky eaters. Every day, she cooked at least one item that would send delicious smells wafting into the classrooms and would encourage hearty appetites. Her homemade cinnamon rolls were guaranteed to bring the entire student body running.

Even today, students return to thank her for making them appreciate good food.

In 1963, Mrs. Sams became food service director. In those days, the school food service was decentralized. Each school cafeteria manager ordered her own food, paid her own workers and wrote her own menus. Many of the cafeterias struggled financially.

But the trend in the state was toward centralization. On Oct. 9, 1967, the county school board voted to centralize the food services of the 32 schools in the system and gave Mrs. Sams two weeks to complete centralization.

T.C. Roberson, who was then superintendent of schools, doubted whether the deadline could be met. "I told him, 'I will give it a try, and if I can't do it, I will tell you,'" Mrs. Sams said.

The deadline was met. "We didn't miss a meal and we didn't miss a payday. Centralization really paid off. By the end of the first year, we had money in the bank," she said. Purchasing, payments, distribution of government commodities, labor and eventually menu planning all were centralized.

At that time, Mrs. Sams said, only one Type A plate lunch was served at each school. Today, schools serve breakfast, have hot plate selections and operate salad and sandwich lines.

Mrs. Sams isn't retiring because she wants to, but because "time has run out," she said. However, she has been a working woman for a long time, and just reaching the age of retirement doesn't mean she is ready to leave the world of work. "During July," she said, "I think I'll clean my house and get a job."

Now students will eat neither dried beans nor greens. Macaroni and cheese is no longer accepted. Pizza and tacos, unheard-of then, are among the most popular items now.

Mrs. Sams said, "When I was at Candler, dried beans and greens was one of the favorite meals," she said.

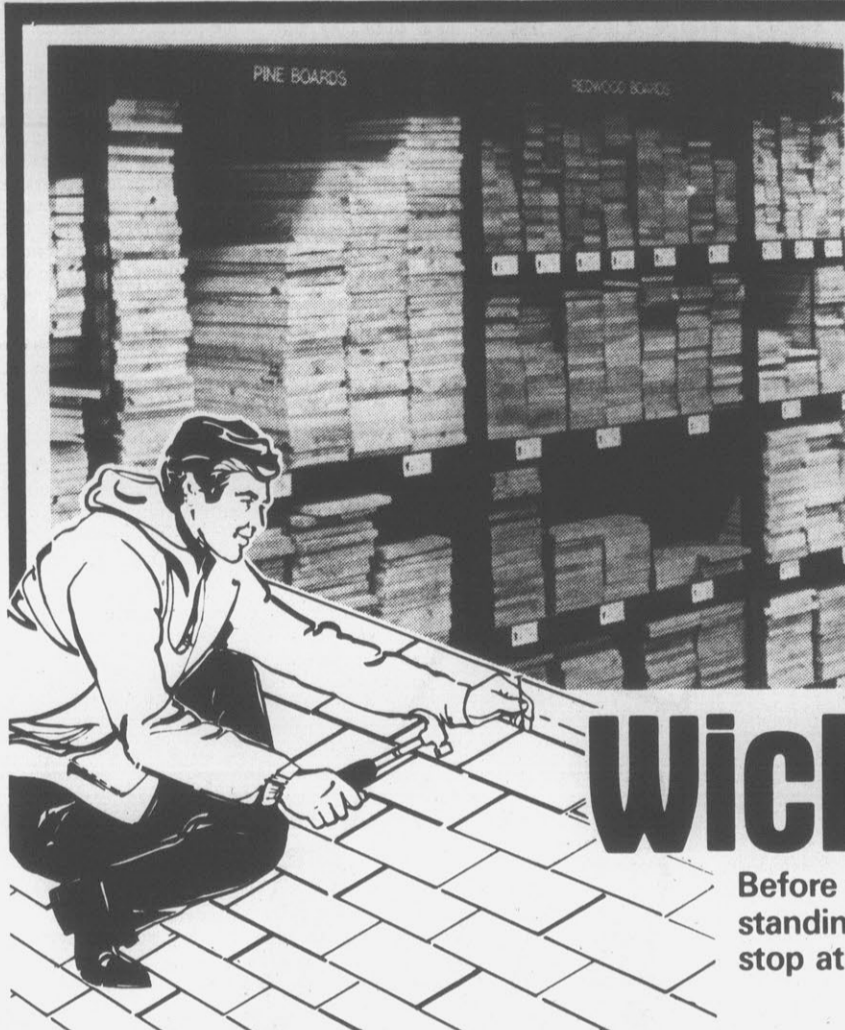

think I'll clean my house and get a job."

Liquid Diet Is Fraught With Danger

The liquid protein diet fad persists, despite the warnings that physicians offer to their patients. Those who search for the "easy way" to lose weight seem to be heading for trouble. Case after case is being reported of confusing illnesses, vague symptoms and almost 100 deaths in the past year. All of these have been attributed to the liquid protein diet preparations. As yet, there are no legal restrictions on them, but the Food and Drug Administration is moving rapidly to develop regulations that would require mandatory warnings on the labels of liquid protein cans.

In a survey made by the FDA it was found that these protein preparations are "mixtures of amino acids derived from collagen (the hoofs, skin, hides and other parts of cattle)."

It is believed that the real danger of a liquid protein diet is that it can be compared to almost a starvation diet. No wonder it works! Those people who have died on this diet had remained on it for two to five months and lost an average of 83 pounds. They lost weight, and they lost their lives.

Apparently, with the loss of weight on the liquid protein diet, there was a general deficiency of minerals, vitamins and fat. Potassium, too, was inadequate. It was also found that "when a normal diet was resumed too abruptly, problems of salt and water retention occurred."

Often, with dangerous after-effects.

No one, but no one, should go on any such regime without being under the expert supervision of a doctor. Certainly, under the doctor's care, the liquid protein diet would only be used for a short time.

Rivers and streams all over the United States are filled with the excess vitamins that are excreted by millions of Americans who take them in unusually large quantities. Recently, I had a patient who gave himself a vitamin B injection twice a week, for years. He was sure that it helped him for hangovers and severe fatigue.

Fortunately, the body is able to compensate for extraordinarily large doses of certain vitamins. It can handle vitamin C, and protect itself against overdosage. Not so with vitamin A and vitamin D, however, which, in large doses, can cause an enormous amount of difficulty.

There are many excellent vitamin supplements which satisfy all the daily nutritional requirements of the body. These are quite sufficient for people who are adding this to a normal, sensible nutritious diet. Only when there is a definite diagnosis of a vitamin deficiency are larger, therapeutic doses necessary. And when these are prescribed, they are to be used only until the condition is controlled.

Public Employee Union Ban Measure Is Delayed

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The sponsor of a bill that would regulate public employees' membership in unions and prohibit them from striking asked for a delay on action on his bill Wednesday, prompting union organizers to claim they had won another round in their fight to get the bill defeated.

Rep. Hartwell Campbell, D-Wilson, requested that his bill be sent to a subcommittee of the House Constitutional Amendments Committee for further study. He said there were too many questions about the bill that had not been answered.

Christopher Scott, a Teamsters' representative from Winston-Salem, said the delay in action was a "substantial victory" for his side.

Union organizers had accused the legislative committees handling the bill of trying to rush it through in the waning days of the session without proper public airing.

After that charge was made last week, the two committees agreed to a public hearing on the measure, which was held Tuesday.

After the public hearing, the bill was back before the two committees. It is scheduled to be on the agenda for the Senate Manufacturing and Labor Committee today if the committee meets, and labor leaders say they don't expect that committee to delay action.

"I think the Senate committee would be more inclined to act," state AFL-CIO President Wilbur Hobby said Tuesday. "The bill's got too many sponsors in that committee. I think the powers that be could push it through and could do it tomorrow."

The bill would prohibit public employees from becoming members of unions that use strikes as bagging tools and require members to participate in authorized strikes.

It would also prohibit police officers from joining unions that represent employees in private industry in the same municipality.

It is sponsored in the Senate by Sen. I. Beverly Lake, D-Wake, who said it is needed to prevent the interruption of vital services by striking public employees.

In other legislative action: Tax Stickers Legislation that would require motorists to display stickers on their vehicles showing that they paid property tax was postponed at the request of its House sponsor.

Rep. Billy Watkins, D-Granville, said there was too much confusion about the bill among county tax collectors and county commissioners and the delay would allow time for the confusion to be cleared up. Watkins asked that the measure be held over until the short legislative session next year.

The move could mean the death of the legislation, however, depending on the wording of the final session-adjournment resolution. Legislative leaders say both the House and Senate may agree to keep alive until next year only those bills that have passed one of the two chambers.

Watkins says the measure would force all auto owners in the state to pay local property tax on their vehicle.

Sentencing The House voted 89-7 to give its final approval to the Hunt administration's uniform sentencing proposal. The bill would replace most sentencing statutes with a system of categories, matching crimes with a presumed sentence.

Judges would be expected to impose the presumed sentence for each crime, unless they showed in writing why they should vary from the expected sentence.

The measure was returned to the Senate for concurrence in amendments.

Minimum Wage Action on a House-passed bill that would increase the state minimum wage from $2.50 per hour to $2.75 per hour in July and to $2.90 per hour next July was stalled on the Senate floor and sent to the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The bill would extend the state minimum wage to state employees, in addition to private businesses already covered.

Conference Panels Conference committees were named to attempt to iron out major differences between the House and Senate on three separate pieces of legislation.

One panel was named to resolve disputes in the bill extending a 1977 law that allows insurance companies to implement higher rates for automobile and other casualty policies without the prior approval of the state insurance commissioner. Other conference committees were named to consider bills rewriting most state wildlife laws and restricting the operation of bingo games.

Land A Senate-passed bill requiring that a public referendum be held before the federal government takes land for use as a park or other reserve cleared the House Rules Committee and was sent to the full House.

It is being sought by opponents of efforts by the federal government to make beach land in Currituck County part of the Outer Banks national seashore system.

Even if the measure is enacted, however, rejection of the takeover by voters would not necessarily stop the government from taking the land.

"I have no idea what effect it would have. It might have none," said Rep. Roberts Jernigan, D-Hertford, a supporter of the bill.

School Buses The House Highway Safety Committee approved legislation strengthening the requirements for school bus drivers. Under the bill, a person must have six months driving experience to be eligible to drive a public school bus.

ABC Rules The Senate voted to enact a House-passed bill that clarifies the authority of the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board to establish rules concerning the sale of mixed drinks and the practice of brown bagging in social establishments.

Sponsors of the bill originally tried to write it narrowly enough to prohibit both brown-bagging and liquor-by-the-drink sales in night clubs. But they abandoned that version in the House and settled for legislation instructing the ABC board to set rules and regulations.

Child Restraints A House committee decided to delay until next year consideration of legislation that would require use of restraining devices by young children riding in automobiles.

The House Highway Safety Committee recommended the creation of a special study commission to study the restraint proposals.

Doffing Suits On Ocracoke

OCRACOKE, N.C. (AP) — Temperatures reached the upper 80s this week on the Outer Banks, and some people evidently thought that was too hot for wearing even the skimpiest swimwear.

On the isolated island of Ocracoke, where four persons were arrested last year for sunbathing in the buff, about a dozen sun worshippers doffed their suits.

And so far, it hasn't appeared to bother anybody. Last summer, after complaints from some residents, the National Parks Service called in the Hyde County Sheriff's Department, whose deputies made the arrests on state charges of indecent exposure.

"If we get a complaint, we'll check it out," said Carl E. Teeter, a Hyde County deputy. "If they're back in the dunes and not bothering anybody, I don't see nothing wrong with it."

"It's a totally sensual experience," said a resident of Charleston, W.Va., who along with a similarly unclad friend was throwing a Frisbee along the beach. "It's the most incredible feeling of freedom I know."

A woman from Homer, Alaska, whose 2-year-old son Edward romped naked around the National Parks Service campground and along the dunes, said being nude was natural and shouldn't offend anyone.

"I don't see anything wrong with it," she said. "It's totally natural. Edward's ... got the best tan of anyone here."

An official with the National Parks Service, which maintains the Ocracoke beach and others on the Cape Hatteras National Seashore, said there are no federal laws against going naked on the beach.

But Lawrence D. Roush, head of law enforcement and safety for the park service's Manteo office, said that park rangers could ask Hyde County deputies to arrest the nude sunbathers on state charges if "we get a complaint and the situation became serious."

"Park rangers advise them it's against the (state) law and they recommend people stay clothed," he said. "There's not much park rangers can do about it (because) there are no federal laws against it."

The indecent exposure charge carries a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $500 fine.

Business In N.C. Dips

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — The Wachovia Business Index showed that the level of business activity in North Carolina declined slightly last month.

The index registered 155.5, or down three-hundredths of a percent from the March level.

The decrease resulted from lower non-agricultural employment and average manufacturing work week. Average hourly earnings were up slightly, the index showed.

The decline in manufacturing employment reflected decreases in the non-durable goods sector, where employment in textiles and apparel was down.

Non-manufacturing employment decreased slightly. Increases in construction and government employment were balanced by declines in services and trade.

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for the state was 4.8 percent in April, up three-tenths of a percent from March. The national rate for April was 5.8 percent, up one-tenth percent.

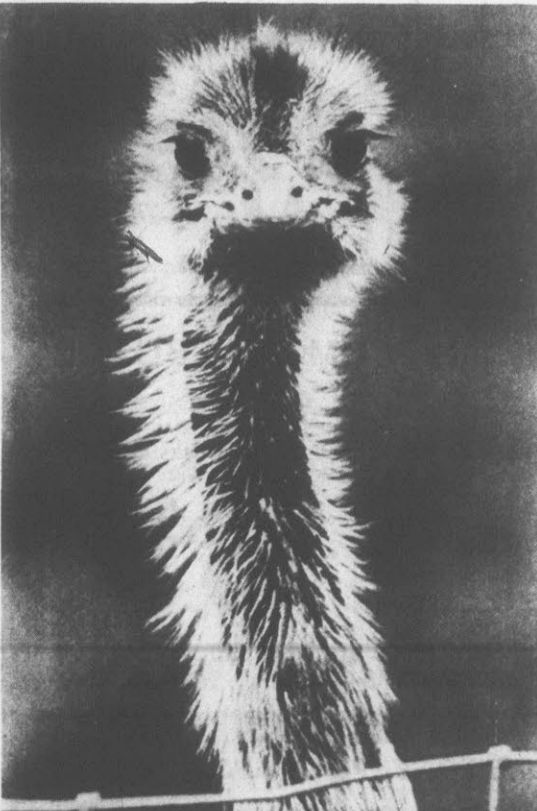

The unadjusted unemployment rate in North Carolina was 4.6 percent in April.

The index showed that the number of cars sold was up in April while the number of trucks sold during the month declined. The number of cars sold in North Carolina during April was higher than that of the same month of 1978 for the first time this year.

The Wachovia Business Index measures the level of activity in North Carolina on a monthly basis. Using 1967 as the base of 100, it reflects indicators of employment, production and spending in the state's economy. All figures are adjusted by Wachovia-calculated figures for expected season fluctuations.

SING SATURDAY

The Gethsemane Quartet, led by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Andrews, will sing at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Community Baptist Church, 111 N.E. College St., Ayden. The public is invited to attend.

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.

Instead of being lulled into a false sense of security when a contract seems foolproof, you should ask yourself the question: "What accident can possibly befall me?" The answer could point you in the right direction.

West took advantage of the vulnerability to make a featherweight overcall in the hope that his side could thwart North-South from completing the rubber. North suppressed his weak four-card spade suit on the first round, but when South showed a strong hand by reversing into spades, North happily raised to game.

The king of diamonds opening lead was won by the ace, and a low trump from dummy brought forth the queen. Another trump lead corroborated the fact that West had started with four trumps. Declarer could not afford to draw all the trumps, because he needed a heart trick to make his game. If he extracted trumps first, the defenders could run the dia-

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 1, 1979

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Do not make any sudden and dramatic changes now and especially where any intimate involvement or business relationships are concerned. You may make a very serious mistake that will take a long time to make right.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You want to have a good time at any cost, but this would be unwise - stay within your means. Get busy on a special talent you have and add to your income appreciably.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't act on impulse but use tact and get better results. Know what is causing trouble at home and quietly get rid of it. Control temper.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Don't antagonize a good ally or you could later regret it badly. Much care in travel can avoid an expensive accident. Do not allow a sharp-tongued individual to annoy you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't think that money will buy anything today, but use more direct methods with others and get better results. Don't be coned into a responsibility that you do not care about.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Refrain from using unwise methods to force others to do your bidding. Show you are charming and be more concerned with the needs and feelings of others. Sincerity is the keynote now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Instead of downgrading or criticizing good friends, be of help wherever possible. This is not a good time for much socializing. Keep busy at whatever is important to your welfare.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You feel you are not making much progress, but this is not the case, so cheer up. Analyze your position carefully and know where to apply more effort.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try not to upset anyone in authority or you regret it later. Handle community work conscientiously and get good results. Avoid the social in the evening and rest.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You are inclined to jump into new ideas haphazardly, but this would only bring you trouble. Use only good judgment since your intuition is not working accurately now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Listening to what close ties have to suggest is wise since this can be helpful to you and them. Pay debts that have been giving you trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Help partners more and get good results in the future. A situation arises that must be handled carefully and accurately now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't go off on any tangents. Stick to work at hand or you get in trouble. Strive for greater accuracy instead. A co-worker could be acting strangely but don't let it bother you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do well in any outlets where many changes can occur testing the ability to handle them efficiently. There is musical ability here that should be trained early. Sports are a must.

mond suit when they got in with the ace of hearts.

So declarer led a heart to the king and was somewhat disappointed when East won the ace - West should have held that card. East deduced that his partner was probably void in clubs, so he shifted to that suit. West ruffed, cashed the queen of diamonds and exited with the jack of hearts. Eventually the defenders scored another heart trick for down one.

Could South have avoided the accident? The answer is yes. It was quite evident that the hand could not be lost unless the enemy got in a club ruff, and the only defender who could ruff a club was West. Therefore, the hand should have been played so that East could not conveniently obtain the lead.

At trick three, declarer should win the second round of trumps in dummy and lead a heart from the table. If East ducks, the queen wins and declarer has his tenth trick - he can draw the outstanding trump and cash his clubs. If East rushes in with the ace to give his partner a club ruff, he gives declarer an extra trick in hearts to make up for the club loser. And if West has the heart ace, he can do declarer no harm.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? 'Blind Ambition' Miniseries Helped Retake Lead In Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) - CBS attracted a substantial and apparently regular audience for the last three chapters in its four-part miniseries based on John Dean's "Blind Ambition," and the boost helped the network break ABC's 19-week run in first place in the weekly ratings.

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday night installments in the CBS miniseries compiled ratings ranging from 20 to 21.2.

indicating people who began the week with "Blind Ambition" stayed on through the conclusion. Ratings for Part I were included in the previous week's accounting. ABC, nonetheless, won each of the three nights, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show. Monday night went to ABC with the help of a movie, "Vacation in Hell," Tuesday night with its comedy lineup, including the week's most-watched show, "Three's Company," and Wednesday night with a boost from "Barry Manilow's Third Special."

"Blind Ambition" did win head-to-head competition Monday and Tuesday with the concluding chapters in NBC's "A Man Called Intrepid" miniseries.

ABC listed eight of the Top 10 programs in the week ending May 27, but CBS scored with a couple of specials, "Body Human: The Sexes" and "Dummy," both CBS, all 21.7 or 16.2 million, tie, and "Barry Manilow's Third Special," 21.6 or 16.1 million, ABC. The next 10 shows:

"Blind Ambition," Parts 4, 2 and 3, all CBS; "Dukes of Hazzard," CBS; "Young Guy Christian" and "Carter Country," both ABC; "60 Minutes," CBS; "Barney Miller," ABC; "Best Place to Be," Part I, NBC, and "Barnaby Jones," CBS.

NBC's top-rated program, the first installment in a two-part movie-for-TV, "The Best Place to Be," was No. 19 in the ratings.

CBS' rating for the week was 17.2, with ABC second at 16.8 and NBC third at 13.6. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 17.2 percent of the homes in the country with TV were tuned to CBS.

Networks Not Baseball Fans

By PETER J. BOYER
 AP Television Writer
 LOS ANGELES (AP) - If

you're a baseball fan, you've probably noticed that the season is about one-third completed and there has not yet been a Monday night baseball game on TV.

There is reason for this: Networks aren't that fond of baseball. At least, not ordinary baseball. Networks like the World Series and playoffs and heated head-to-head competition of the sort that doesn't materialize in baseball until the latter days of the season.

Announcers can't open a July 2 game by saying, "This is a 'must-win' game for both teams." In football, the announcers can say that almost anytime, and usually do. The networks like football.

Actually, says ABC's news and sports chief Roone Arledge, it's not that the network doesn't like baseball, "The stations don't like Monday night baseball games."

Network affiliated stations, he says, "like everybody, like to have the scotch and not the rum. They'd like to have the World Series and the All-Star and the league championships, but not the regular-season games unless it happened to be a 10-9 game to determine first place between two classic teams."

Viewers usually find something to do in the summer other than watching sports on television. But in order to get the World Series (which ABC has this year), baseball asks that ABC televise Monday night games, too. Take it or leave it.

"That's one of the reasons we were able to get into baseball," Arledge says. "We were willing to do Monday night games. But it bothers the stations because baseball doesn't rate as well as entertainment programming might. The other networks use it to build hits."

Indeed, NBC and CBS can hardly wait for ABC Monday Night Baseball to begin next week. At their annual meetings with network affiliated stations this month, executives from both CBS and NBC practically rubbed their hands in glee when speaking of ABC's baseball obligation.

"It drives our programmers up the wall," Arledge says. "Take CBS last year, for example. Their 'Lou Grant' was on its last leg, ready to go off the air, and they moved it back to Monday against baseball that summer and they build a very strong Monday night."

Lynn Anderson Has A Baby Boy

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Country music singer Lynn Anderson has given birth to a 7-pound, 6-ounce boy at St. Patrick Hospital in Lake Charles, La.

"Lynn and the baby are both doing fine," the singer's secretary, Vicky Clausi, said after the birth Wednesday night. She said the parents have not decided on a name for the baby.

The singer and her husband, businessman Harold Stream, maintain homes in the Nashville suburb of Brentwood and in Lake Charles. Miss Anderson has another child, 8-year-old Lisa Lynn, by a previous marriage.

Smoker Fights Infringements

STATESVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Leroy Templeton of Union Grove says he's mad and he doesn't want to take it any more. The 36-year-old employee of the Statesville Record & Landmark has started a new group and is urging smokers across the country to protect their rights to the habit.

The organization's symbol is a smoke ring. Members will receive a membership card and bumper sticker bearing the logo. Templeton smokes a pipe and said he resents the recent wave of anti-smoking rules and regulations.

"Merchants, for example, post 'No Smoking' signs in their stores to cater to the anti-smokers, while smokers probably out-number the anti-smokers. We spend our money just like they do, and if the merchants are willing to take our money, they should be willing to put up with our habits," he said.

"I'm not advocating smoking... If someone asked me if they should smoke, I'd have to tell them no. But for those of us who already smoke and who enjoy smoking, I think we should have the right to do so."

The group, called Smokers' Freedom Ring of America, plans to run advertisements Sunday in newspapers in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Pennsylvania asking smokers to join the group. "It all boils down to a few narrow-minded people who want to impose their views and feelings on the public," Templeton said. "And I think it's gone on long enough. People who choose to smoke have been harassed long enough by anti-smokers. My intention is to lobby for the rights of smokers... I plan to lobby on the local, state and eventually national levels for legislation protecting the rights of smokers," he said.

The organization's symbol is a smoke ring. Members will receive a membership card and bumper sticker bearing the logo. Templeton smokes a pipe and said he resents the recent wave of anti-smoking rules and regulations.

NOTICE OF TAX LIEN SALE FOR TOWN OF SIMPSON

Under and by virtue of the power vested in me by the laws of the State of North Carolina, particularly Chapter 310 of the Public Laws of 1939, as amended and pursuant to an order of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, I will offer for sale and will sell at public auction for cash to the highest bidder at the Courthouse door in Greenville at 12 o'clock noon on Monday, the 4th day of June, 1979, liens upon the real estate described below for the nonpayment of taxes owing the year 1978. The names of the owner or of the person who listed the real estate for taxes, the real estate which is subject to the lien, and amount of the lien being set out below. Reference is made to the records in the Office of the Tax Supervisor for more particular description of said real estate, and notice is hereby given that the amount of the liens set out below are subject to the addition of penalties as provided by law, and the cost of sale.

This 10th day of May, 1979

Consumer 'Crusader'

By MARK D. FRANK
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — It was Christmas 1966. Judy Braiman-Lipson had had her third child just a few days before. Then, without warning, she developed a bad cough and began spitting up blood.

Doctors first diagnosed the frightening symptoms as pneumonia.

Her condition worsened. Her illness was diagnosed as lung cancer.

Surgeons cut into her chest and discovered up to 60 "rounded nodules" in her lungs. They removed a portion of the housewife's left lung.

A pathologist, after requesting her to bring all the aerosol sprays from her home, determined the nodules were "inhalation abscesses" caused by the woman's favorite hair spray and not cancerous.

She was outraged, grateful and befuddled.

"I had used that hair spray about six months," she recalls. "I was absolutely shocked that it could be caused by an outside influence and I demanded to see my X-rays."

"I thought the doctors didn't want to tell me I was really dying," she said. "I said, 'How can you have lung cancer one day and be cured the next?'"

But laboratory tests convinced her that her infirmity had been caused by the hair spray.

From that day on, Mrs. Braiman-Lipson has been involved in one campaign after another, taking on the government and corporations in the name of product safety for consumers. Now a well-known consumer advocate, she is president of the Rochester-based Empire State Consumer Association, an all-volunteer group of 187 persons.

The association is primarily concerned with toy safety and the perils of cosmetics. Mrs. Braiman-Lipson has been instrumental in having certain products temporarily removed from shelves or having warning labels affixed to them.

She served two "frustrating" years from 1975-77 on the federal Product Safety Council. "I was pretty disgusted when I served because everything was dragging on," she said.

Government officials, she said "don't do anything until they have a death toll or body count."

She has been threatened with lawsuits — one by the hair spray manufacturer — and with arrest. Her house had to be guarded several years ago when she took on a company with alleged underworld connections.

"I'm not frightened by the size of the company if the facts are right," she said.

But now, she said, "the companies deal with us by talking to us."

Success is measured not in whether a product is banned, but whether it's taken off store shelves until a final determination on the product's safety is made.

"I resent being a guinea pig, particularly here in Rochester because we're a test market," she said. "They tell us products are safe and they're not. People figure if it's on the shelves it's safe. Everything should be questioned."

Soon after her recovery, she participated in a boycott of local supermarkets that resulted in the shares of one local supermarket chain falling to record lows.

"I found out then that we can register a protest of vote at the checkout counter," she said.

She's currently petitioning Washington to ban genital sprays. She also wants perfume tampons banished.

She generated publicity over aerosol, non-stick food sprays because of the chemical iron. "Kids get high off that stuff and there've been several deaths because of that."

Her group conducts a Christmas toy survey. "Last year we found potential hazards in projectile toys — again."

She's concerned with chemicals in toys. "People have complained about their children breaking out. Why should children have to break out from a toy?"

Toys with sharp edges are on her unsafe list. And she wants improvements made in existing products.

"There are absolutely no standards for skateboards. Some are so shabby built it's ridiculous."

"I try to practice what I preach," she said. "In my house we avoid overly processed food. I bake my own bread. We don't use foods with nitrates."

The youngest of her five children play with building blocks.

There are no aerosol spray cans in her home. "Those products are bad for us and our environment," she said.
