

Legislators Gather Today For Community College What They Hope Is Last Day

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The General Assembly convened today for what legislators hoped would be the last day of the 1979 session.

The House went into session at 9 a.m. and the Senate followed an hour later, and legislative leaders said they expected to finish work on the last bills in time to adjourn the five-month long session by late afternoon or evening.

"It'll be 4, 5 or 6 o'clock before we can get out of here," said Rep. Ben Tison, D-Mecklenburg, who has been conferring with Senate leaders on the adjournment prospects. "The Senate still has bills on its calendar left over from Thursday."

Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green said Thursday he was aiming for a noon adjournment today, but House Speaker Carl Stewart said it could be Saturday before work is finished.

If the session adjourns today, legislators will have met 108 days, quitting three weeks earlier than the last full session in 1977.

"Pack your bags, put 'em in your car, and tell 'em you don't want to pay for another night," Green told senators late Thursday. "We're leaving tomorrow."

The House finished action on all legislation that was before it early Thursday afternoon, then recessed to give the slower-paced Senate time to act on its bills.

An adjournment resolution had scheduled the session to end at 6 p.m. Thursday, but it became clear early in the day that they could not meet that deadline. Both chambers quit for the day without acting on the resolution that formally sets the time of adjournment.

"I don't know when we will be through," Stewart had said earlier Thursday. "I hope it will be tomorrow, but I'm not sure. I thought we would be through today."

Both chambers spent most of the day Thursday and again this morning approving a long list of bills appropriating $13 million to special projects, most of them sought by legislators for programs in their home districts. The money was reserved in the $10 billion biennial state budget enacted earlier in the week.

Both chambers also tried to clear through other bills still pending. In all, 2,478 bills were introduced during the session. Going into the final day, 836 new laws had been enacted and 52 resolutions passed. Only money bills and other legislation passed by at least one chamber will remain alive for the brief session scheduled in June, 1980.

In legislative action Thursday:

State Senator Vernon White today informed Clifton W. Everett, Sr., chairman of the Board of Trustees of Pitt Technical Institute that legislative action in both houses has approved the immediate change in status of Pitt Technical Institute to that of a community college.

Both the House of Representatives and the Senate passed the bill authorizing the change in status, which becomes effective today. Ratification is due today also, as this is the final day of the current session for the State Legislature.

Everett said that administrative details for the name change to Pitt Community College and other administrative action would be coordinated with the N. C. Department of Community Colleges.

Amendment Can Boost Federal Pay

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Salaries for members of Congress and top-level federal employees could rise 7 percent if a little-noticed amendment, which has already won committee approval, becomes law.

But one member of the committee that passed the bill last Tuesday says he plans to fight the measure when the full House takes it up next week.

Rep. George M. O'Brien, R-Ill., who said he first learned of the change when a friend told him about it at a reception Wednesday, said the amendment is "not a proper way to deal with a pay increase. If we feel we are entitled to an increase in our pay, we should so state."

The amendment, which passed the House Appropriations Committee on a voice vote, is expected to be taken up by the full House as part of an overall appropriations bill.

A 7 percent increase would raise a congressman's salary from $57,500 a year to $61,525.

An appropriations committee staff member confirmed the amendment could mean members of Congress, U.S. judges and other federal workers making more than $47,500 a year could receive a hike of up to 7 percent.

The source, who declined to be identified, said the amendment does not guarantee the increase but only clears the way for such action.

"It doesn't give them a 7 percent raise. It just entitles them," said the staff member, who added, "I think the real significance of the thing is it would be limited to 7 percent."

Asked if the amendment would affect members of Congress, the source replied, "It would, sure, since their pay was frozen last year."

Here's the way the amendment would work, according to the committee source and staff members in O'Brien's office:

Each year, President Carter is required to make adjustments in federal pay levels to keep those salaries on a par with private salaries and to offset some of the effects of inflation.

Last year, he ordered a 5.5 percent raise but Congress exempted itself and all federal employees making more than $47,500 a year.

The amendment states, in somewhat convoluted English, that no funds from the bill can be used to increase the pay of these top-level officials by more than 7 percent over what they were making on Sept. 30, 1978.

Thus if Carter orders another 5.5 percent hike this fall, the top-level officials could get the previous 5.5 percent plus 1.5 percent of the new hike for a total of 7 percent, the committee source explained. If Carter orders no increase this year, only the previous 5.5 percent could go into effect.

O'Brien declined to call Tuesday night's committee action secretive, noting it was done in an open meeting. But he added, "I don't think it was as clearly stated as it ought to be."

He said he would not vote for any pay raise "given the present state of the economy." O'Brien also said he opposed any pay hike that affected current members of Congress, saying "In no case should you raise your pay during your term of contract."

Protesting Truckers Hope To Organize Massive Shutdown

By DON HARRISON
Associated Press Writer
Independent truckers who blocked highways in more than a dozen states to protest rising diesel fuel prices want to organize their scattered groups for a nationwide effort to be sure Washington takes them seriously.

Demonstrations, including some that began Wednesday, choked highways Thursday from Florida to Oregon, where organizer Dave Crandall said "the whole West Coast" would be shut down by the weekend.

No incidents of violence were reported. In most cases, a threatened court order or an appearance by police and tow trucks was enough to send the truckers on their way.

The shutdowns by owneroperators have not been sanctioned by the Independent Truckers Association, but there were indications that could change.

In Los Angeles today, the ITA planned to show off a communication center that would enable it to coordinate strike efforts nationwide.

"Basically, people are in a holding pattern," said ITA spokesman Mike Parkhurst.

"The pressure's been building up so we've had to re-activate our national communications center ... There are a few guys that are straining at the bit and want to kick up a little dust."

Parkhurst said the ITA, while not planning a strike, will determine if one is necessary "so we can then formulate our position over the weekend."

The independents, who pay for their own rigs and fuel and make their own contracts to haul freight, are upset by rapidly rising diesel fuel prices. Many say they can no longer meet truck mortgage payments. They also want the 55 mph speed limit lifted, so they can travel faster, and make more trips and money.

Among the larger demonstrations Thursday: —A convoy of trucks crawled through Seattle's rush hour traffic, creating a mile-long traffic jam.

—Several Utah motorists found themselves fixing flat tires after somebody scattered roofing nails on four major highways.

—Six truck drivers were arrested for trespassing in Milford, Conn., after they parked their rigs in front of diesel pumps at a truck stop and locked them.

—About 300 big rigs blocked the Indiana Toll Road near Gary after officials put a 25-gallon limit on diesel fuel purchases. Police diverted traffic around the blockade and no arrests were made.

—An estimated 100 truckers shut down most of the fuel stops in the central part of North Dakota. However, organizer Don Hausaur said they need help.

Three Trustees Are Re-Elected

CHAPEL HILL — The University of North Carolina Board of Governors this morning re-elected three members of the East Carolina University Board of Trustees for four-year terms and named one new member to the board — Harvey Beech of Kinston.

Re-elected as trustees of ECU were Troy Pate of Goldsboro, presently serving as chairman of the East Carolina board, Ashley Futrell of Washington, currently vice-chairman, and Dr. John D. Bridges of High Point.

Beech, a black attorney from Kinston, was named to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Eddie Greene of Dunn, who resigned in April after receiving a judicial appointment from Gov. Jim Hunt. Greene had been a member of the ECU board since 1973.

Beech is presently a member of the Board of Trustees of Pitt County Memorial Hospital. He was first appointed to that post in July 1977 and re-appointed in March of this year.

The terms for the four trustees named this morning will end in 1983.

Pate and Futrell were first appointed to the board in 1973, while Bridges was named a trustee in 1976.

Voter Turnout Fairly Heavy

Voter turnout in the first three and a half hours of today's special referendum on mixed beverage legalization and $9 million school bonds was apparently running fairly high, according to information reported to the Pitt Board of Elections.

Margaret Register, elections supervisor, said that precinct officials reporting early turnout figures indicated that voters were visiting the polls in a "steady stream."

Miss Register said that as of 10 a.m., turnout totals in Greenville included: Precinct One, 57; Three, 41; Five, 256; Seven, 265; Eight, 225; Nine, 252; and Ten, 214.

Pitt precinct figures included: Arthur, 76 voters; Ayden, 223; Belvoir, 65; Bethel, 73; Carolina, 61; Chicod, 48; Falkland, 38; Fountain, 40; Grifton, 136; Simpson, 93; Swift Creek, 35; and Winterville, 220.

Miss Register reminded citizens that polls throughout the county remain open until 7:30 p.m. today.

Nicaragua's War Grows

By TOM FENTON
Associated Press Writer
MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The Sandinista guerrillas claimed they held 25 towns and villages across Nicaragua today as their new offensive against President Anastasio Somoza escalated.

The shooting was accompanied by a war of words between Somoza and eight other Latin American governments.

The fighting cut highway travel and telephone communications between Managua and much of the rest of the country. The rebel Radio Sandino said a noose of violence was tightening around the capital and its 500,000 people. The broadcast said street warfare would erupt soon.

Despite an 8 p.m.-to-4 a.m. curfew, bands of armed young people roamed the streets during the night. During the day the city was virtually paralyzed by a five-day-old general strike called by the Sandinistas.

The national stadium was converted into an induction center for reservists to reinforce the 13,000-man

Joan Little Today Released On Parole

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Joan Little, the young black woman whose murder trial for the icepick slaying of a white jailer stirred international attention, was released today on parole.

Corrections Department officials said Miss Little had been offered a job in New York and would serve out her parole there.

Miss Little became eligible for parole today, and she was released from Women's Prison in Raleigh, officials said.

Miss Little was acquitted in a highly publicized murder trial after she was accused of slaying a Beaufort County jailer in 1975. She claimed she was defending herself from a sexual assault.

She has been serving a sentence of 7- to 10-years for breaking and entering.

Miss Little escaped from the prison in Raleigh on Oct. 15, 1977. She was recaptured in New York City following a high-speed chase about two months later. She was returned to North Carolina in June 1978.

HALF A BILL

I found a muddied half of a dollar bill in a ditch. Is it spendable? A. T.

Cheryl Joyner of Branch Banking and Trust Company here said if a half or more of the bill is intact and if it has a serial number on it, you should take it to your bank. Probably the bank will replace it for you.

Women Physicians Entertained

Greenville's 23 women physicians and one dentist were entertained at a luncheon Thursday at the home of Dr. Judy Yongue. Assisting hostesses were Dr. Malene Irons and Dr. Harriet Wooten.

Plans were made to hold monthly meetings beginning in September and to improve communications as physicians. It was pointed out the group includes seven women from other countries, five are from North Carolina and the remaining 12 are from other states. Dr. Irons, the first woman doctor to practice in Greenville, became her private pediatric practice in 1946, which she continued for 18 years prior to becoming director of the Developmental Evaluation Clinic. Dr. Hazel Johnson Brown is the woman dentist here.

The living and dining rooms were decorated with arrangements of summer flowers.

The physicians are: Dr. Karla Nelson; Dr. Alice B. Granoff and Dr. Sudesh Kataria, both of the department of pediatrics, School of Medicine; Dr. Patricia A. Penovich and Dr. Mary Raab, both of the School of Medicine;

Dr. Rose Pully, Family Practice Center, Dr. Irene Malesic, department of pediatrics, School of Medicine; Dr. H. Kim Park, pathology department, Pitt Memorial Hospital; Dr. Sumiko Ts'Kamura; Dr. Juliet Kim Song; Dr. Elizabeth Stropnick, Regional Rehabilitation;

Dr. Brown; Dr. Janice Daugherty and Dr. Ann Sly, residents, Family Practice Center, School of Medicine; Dr. Sarah Shillinger, resident, department of obstetrics and gynecology, Dr. Jimmie Shuler, resident, department of pediatrics, and Dr. Josefina Miranda, resident, department of pediatrics, School of Medicine; and who among them thinks he's not, new sportswear from Jockey International may be the thing to bring. The latest items are a dacron and cotton baseball crew neck shirt to $20 and a zip-up arnel and nylon satin running gear for $18.

Right around the middle of our man go the newest belts. Aside from width, one belt does pretty much the same as the next, so small fashion innovations are important. This year, Buxton Leather has introduced a "fly front," a notched slit in the middle of the belt that makes it look as though it has no holes. The belt is called the "Hideout" and sells for $12.50.

Lanvin is offering cowhide belts at a fashionable 1 1/4 inch width with an "L" nicely worked into the buckle for $13.50.

Down at ankle level are the new odor-controlling socks from Levi's, the same folks who make the bluejeans and with the same label sewn in to each and every sock. They come in three lengths — ankle, calf, and extra high heel and sell for between $3 and $3.50.

Finally, for the guy on the go, there's a new, and expensive line of luggage from Samsonite. The "Silhouette" suitcases feature wheels and a steering handle for easy maneuvering. There's a jumbo ($133) and junior ($108) size, both available in bronco brown and silver slate.

Rehabilitation Clients Honored

VANCEBORO — The Vanceboro Extension Homemakers Club entertained 36 clients from the Vocational Rehabilitation, Goldsboro, recently at the Community Center here.

Mrs. Isabelle Roundtree greeted guests, Eldress Virginia Willoughby gave the devotional assisted by Mrs. Tony Moore, James Speight and Mary Blount, clients, responded.

Mrs. Lonnie Harris and Mrs. Joe S. Dawson presented fruit to the guests, who were escorted by Linwood Best, Mack Parks, Ms. Dollie Best, Ms. Thelma Locklear and Ms. Vanilla Heath.

This is the fifth year clients have been entertained by the homemakers.

Father's Day Shopping Complex

By JOHN MOODY
UPI Men's Fashion Editor

The salesgirl sighed as an angry customer stormed away. "She wanted to know what her husband would like for Father's Day. How should I know? I'm not her husband or a father."

Gift-giving on Dad's special day becomes a more complex art each year, because men's wear and men's grooming products are getting more varied by the week.

But because men are also using more products and wearing styles once considered taboo for the "stronger sex," the range of perfectly acceptable and sensible Father's Day gifts has also expanded multifold.

So, when considering what to buy for that special guy, start from the top and work your way down.

For example, Bausch and Lomb has expanded its Ray-Ban line of sunglasses, and this year it includes Ambermatics, capable of changing color in the sun. Prices range from $37 to $48. Other Ray-Ban models are available in 28 frames and 10 lenses.

Diamond jewelry is gaining a solid audience among men, belying the "girl's best friend" reputation they've acquired. The Diamond Information Center says rings, tie tacks and tie bars with diamonds are the most popular gifts. The average cost of a piece of diamond men's jewelry is $322, so save it for a really special dad.

The men's fragrance industry grossed $395 million last year and should pull in $445 million in 1979. New splashables this year include Ted Lapidus after shave — $16 for a 200 milliliter bottle — foam bath, towels and combs.

Also on the market is a John Weitz after shave — $11 for 3.5 ounces — the latest addition to Weitz' successful fragrance line.

If dad is the active type —

Have Party You Can Afford

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to be 30 next month and maybe I'm a sentimental slob for celebrating birthdays at my age, but I want this one to be special.

I would like to invite my friends to have dinner with me at my favorite restaurant, and then go dancing afterwards. My problem is I can't afford such an expensive evening.

Would it be socially acceptable to invite my friends to celebrate with me and pay for their own dinners and dancing? If so, I could let them know that their participation would take the place of a birthday gift. (Or do you think that would be understood?)

Also, is the restaurant likely to give everyone separate checks if I explained the situation in advance.

BIRTHDAY BOY

DEAR B.B.: If you want to celebrate your birthday with friends, invite them to your home (however humble) for coffee, cake, drinks, or whatever you can afford. Under no circumstances should you invite friends for an evening of dinner and dancing at their own expense. And don't mention gifts.

DEAR ABBY: A mother asked you to please write something to persuade her pretty, intelligent, 23-year-old daughter to end her love affair with a married man. You wisely told her that any advice from you would probably be useless, but perhaps a word from someone who had been down that road might help.

Well, I've been there. May I try?

Dear Pretty, Intelligent and 23: I, too, was young, pretty and intelligent when I fell in love with my married man. We were madly in love and talked of being married "someday." We were together whenever possible. And always discreet. Before I knew it, years had gone by. Then I pressured him for some kind of commitment. That's when he told me he could never leave his wife and family and I'd be better off with a man who was marriageable.

Facing rejection from the man I had loved for so many years was almost too much to bear. Not to mention the broken dates, the secrecy, the hiding, never being able to share one holiday with him. Working with him and not being able to tell anyone about "us" because of his respected position in his profession and the community. But the greatest humiliation of all was having him leave our bed after lovemaking to go home to his wife because our time was up.

While I was involved with this man I had no social life because I wanted to be home in case he called to say he could see me for an hour. I didn't keep up friendships with others — or even my family, so now I am having trouble rebuilding my life.

And I'm now too old to have the children I've always wanted.

Please, stop and consider where this dead-end relationship is going. Don't cut yourself off from others to concentrate on your married man. And if you're not strong enough to break it off now, think about it, and break it off the moment you get the strength to do so.

And don't be too hard on yourself. Given the right time, and set of circumstances, any woman can find herself entangled in a relationship she would never have chosen had she listened to her head instead of her heart.

SADDER BUT WISER

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Couple Weds In Bethel Cemetery

BETHEL — Miss Virginia Dare Mills and Ronald Vick Nichols were united in marriage Sunday, May 27, at 3 p.m. in the Bethel United Methodist Church. The Rev. Ellis Bedworth performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. William Brooks Mills and Mrs. Carolyn Manning Taylor of Bethel. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Vick Nichols of Rt. 3, Greenville.

A program of wedding music was presented by Anita Bowen, organist, and Margaret Brooks of Greenville sang "If," "You Needed Me" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by Hilton Tetterton of Bethel, the bride wore a formal length gown of white organza over white peau de soie designed with a high neckline encircled with scalloped chantilly lace. The empire bodice was enhanced by a sheer yoke of imported English net overlaid in a cameo and floral designed embroidery beaded with pearls. The full bishop sleeves of French chantilly lace had scalloped chantilly lace trim at the cuffs. The modified A-line skirt and attached chapel length train were accentuated by a deep ruffled flounce at the hemline and was styled with an overskirt of organza edged in scalloped chantilly lace.

She wore a walking length veil of illusion bordered in scalloped French chantilly lace held in place by a bandeau cap overlaid in matching lace encrusted with pearls. She carried a bouquet. Miss Sharon Mills of Bethel, sister of the bride, was honor attendant and bridesmaids included Miss Pam Andrews, Mrs. Rita Andrews, Miss Cynthia James and Miss Angie Jefferson. Miss Carol Brooks Mills, sister of the bride, was flower girl.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Al and Tony Nichols, brothers of the bridegroom, Woody Andrews, Marty Shirley and Ronnie Joe Meeks.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall.

Children, Elderly Vulnerable To Fire

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Children under 5 and people over 65 are particularly vulnerable to fire death, according to a recent report issued by Honeywell. Together, these two groups account for only 20 percent of the nation's population, yet they represent 45 percent of all fire deaths.

The report said that children often became frightened and hid when confronted with fire, while the elderly were often hindered because they suffered from impaired eyesight, hearing, mobility, lucidity and strength.

New Generation
Gov. Jim Hunt's bill offering a state plan for improved child health care was enacted over the objections of Republicans and a handful of Democratic legislators who warned of socialism and big government. Hunt's bill, called the new generation act, was enacted when the Senate voted 35-9 to concur in House amendments.

The bill sets into law a broad policy of encouraging better health care for young children and establishes a committee to coordinate medical services for the young.

Objections were raised by Sen. Don Kincaid, R-Caldwell, and others. Kincaid cited a state report, entitled A Child Health Plan for Raising a New Generation, that he said was linked to the bill.

"Governor Hunt's socialistic direction of devaluating the importance of the family, and interjecting more and more government while the nation and the world are now going in a conservative direction, will be our number one campaign issue in the next election," Kincaid said.

Sen. Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston, defended the bill, saying health care improvements were needed in rural areas.

"North Carolina ranks worst in the U.S. in infant mortality. Cleveland County, a county I represent, ranks last in North Carolina in infant mortality," Rauch said. "That's why I'm so interested in this."

Lobbyists
Legislation that would have limited the number of lobbyists state government departments and agencies could send to the General Assembly died in the Senate. The bill was killed on a 25-17 vote.

Architects
Bills recommended by the state sunset commission were enacted, extending the life of state boards licensing and regulating architects and landscape architects.

Farms
Farms were granted exemptions from enforcement of pollution regulations under a bill enacted Thursday. The exemption applies to regulations of the state Environmental Management Commission.

The measure became law when the Senate voted 42-1 to approve it, and the House concurred in a minor amendment.

State Workers
Legislation was enacted that allows the state to deduct money from a state government employee's pay check when the worker owes money to a state agency and fails to repay it.

The state could deduct up to 10 percent of the worker's pay. The measure became law when it was approved by the Senate 45-0 and the House voted to go along with Senate changes.

Legislators owing money to the state would not be covered by the deduction provision, but their debt could be turned over to the Legislative Ethics Com-

The Progressive Ladies Auxiliary is sponsoring the Sensational Gentlemen of Songs of Washington, D. C., in concert Sunday at 8 p.m.

The program will be held at St. Gabriel Catholic School.

Also appearing on the program will be the Southern Spirituals, Eastern Travelers of Grimesland and Barbara Rodgers accompanied by Oneson Brooks.

The admission is $2.00 and $2.50 at the door. For information contact Sudie Mayo.

Community Colleges
Legislation creating a separate board of community colleges was enacted when the Senate voted to concur in House amendments to the bill.

The new law removes the 57-campus system from the State Board of Education, setting up a separate board to govern the state's community colleges and technical institutes.

Other Action
—The Senate approved and enacted a House-passed measure making child abuse a felony rather than a misdemeanor.

—A House-passed resolution was enacted by the Senate authorizing a legislative commission to study the issue of newsroom searches by police, and to recommend legislation to the 1980 General Assembly.

—The Senate voted to enact legislation that would allow colleges, civic centers and individuals to levy a service charge on admission tickets to finance the cost of computerization of ticket sales.

—The Senate voted unanimously to enact legislation that makes it against the law to loiter for the purpose of prostitution, aiding and abetting prostitution or crimes against nature.

—The Senate enacted legislation calling for a public referendum in areas where the federal government wants to take land for a wildlife, park or other national land reserve. The result of the vote would not, however, be binding on the government.

Remove Woman's 200-Pound Tumor

By ROBERT LOCKE
AP Science Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A 30-year-old California woman who once thought she was hopelessly obese is starting a new and much thinner life after doctors removed a gigantic tumor that had bloated her abdomen with 200 pounds of tissue and fluid.

Although the tumor must have been growing at least 15 years, doctors said the woman never suspected it was there.

When it was diagnosed, "She was very excited and pleased at the idea that I'm not just fat," said Dr. Russell K. Laros Jr. of the University of California Medical School in San Francisco.

Laros headed a surgical team which last month removed a "very common type of ovarian tumor" that had grown into one of the largest in medical history. He said Thursday the tumor was benign — it contained no cancer — and apparently caused no permanent health problems.

The unidentified woman weighed 300 pounds when she entered the operating room on May 24. She weighed 180 after surgeons worked 4½ hours to remove the tumor, which "would fill a large wash-basin," Laros said in a telephone interview.

The tumor included about 40 pounds of overgrown tissue and more than 160 pounds of water and other fluids — some 20 gallons of liquid.

He said the woman, who is recovering at her San Francisco Bay-area home, is still excited with the results but somewhat overwhelmed by her much-thinner body that is no longer shared by the huge, balloon-like growth.

"It's apparent to her now that this change is going to have a very major impact on her life — on her social life, in what she can do physically and in how she relates to people,"

Laros said. "She is still working that through."

When the patient was a teenager, Laros said, a few cells somehow went awry inside one of her ovaries — female organs that usually are not much larger than a peanut.

The cells began to divide and grow as a single mass, trapping liquids and shoving nearby organs aside. The tumor grew outward, stretching the skin as it went. Laros said further surgery is planned to remove the "tremendous excess skin."

Remarkably, Laros said, the tumor caused no serious health problems. Although it pushed against other organs, it did not invade them or interrupt their functions.

She reported no pain "other than at the time she was admitted" complaining of abdominal pain, Laros said. "By and large, this lady was in excellent health."

And she still is. Although the tumorous ovary was removed, the other seems to function normally and the woman should be able to conceive and bear children if she wishes, the doctor said.

He said it's extremely unlikely the tumor would ever return.

Laros described the patient's tumor as a very common type, although it's great size was "exceedingly rare." Such tumors normally reach only a few pounds before they are diagnosed and removed.

Education Unions Hold Verbal Pier Six Brawl

By CHRIS CONNELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With the fight over creating a separate Department of Education reaching a climax in Congress, the nation's two biggest teachers' unions are locked in a lobbyists' version of a Pier Six brawl.

The National Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers, archrivals in the best of times, were downright nasty to each other as the House opened debate Thursday on the bill that already has passed the Senate.

No vote was expected before next week.

The NEA has been the most ardent advocate of taking the "E" out of HEW and giving education its own voice in the president's cabinet. The AFT has been its most vociferous opponent.

John Ryor, president of the 1.8 million-member NEA, pillo-ried his counterpart, Albert Shanker, and the AFT for sending a representative to a congressional luncheon with anti-department types, including a conservative outfit that opposes collective bargaining by teachers.

Ryor charged this "constitutes nothing less than a betrayal of the entire union movement in the United States."

He also invoked scripture, suggesting Shanker read Matthew 16:25-26: "For what is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Shanker responded with his own diatribe, calling Ryor's letter and press release "a shabby and transparent publicity stunt," and saying there are some odd bedfellows on the pro-department side of the fence, too, including senators who opposed labor law reform and favored tuition tax credits for private schools.

"Perhaps you should heed the prophet Isaiah, 28:31, and 'set thy house in order' before you take any more pot shots at the AFT," thundered Shanker.

The 550,000-member AFT has been waging an uphill battle against the proposed separate department, which President Carter first endorsed in a 1976 campaign speech to the NEA.

Shanker contends that education could get a better shake simply by reorganizing the current structure within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Man Charged With Exposure
William Gardner Carlisle, 41 of Winterville, was charged by Greenville Police Wednesday afternoon with indecent exposure. Chief Glenn Cannon reported today.

Cannon said Carlisle was taken into custody by officers about 3:45 p.m. at the intersection of Howell and Garland Streets following an alleged incident on Smith Street a short time before.

The Chief said a 17-year-old Rose High School student told investigators that a man riding a yellow motor-peddle motorbike, rode by her home several times, exposing himself to her.

Carlisle was placed under a $200 bond.

APRECIATION SERVICES
Appreciation services will be held Sunday, June 10, 7:30 p.m., for Carrie Carr, the oldest secretary of St. Matthew's F.W.B. Church, 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Mamie Gardner will serve as sponsor. Pastor Eldress Hattie Maye Cobb invites the public to attend.

Bed Tower Part Of Early Plan

Recently, some newspapers have raised editorial questions about the construction of a state-financed 166-bed tower at Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

The impression has been left that the bed tower was suddenly dreamed up and planning was rushed through as some sort of afterthought to development of the ECU Medical School.

Nothing could be further from the truth. The bed tower addition to Pitt County Memorial Hospital has been a part of the planning since the affiliation agreement between the hospital and the medical school was first envisioned.

It's construction is a part of the planning presented to the accrediting committees which won provisional accreditation for the ECU medical school.

It's construction has absolutely nothing to do with the medical school plans to utilize other hospitals of the area in its training programs; nor can we imagine how construction of the tower can take away beds from any other county hospital.

Pitt County planned and constructed Pitt County Memorial as a local hospital with beds adequate for Pitt County. It is obvious that with the medical school affiliation there will be far more referrals to Pitt County Memorial than for a normal community hospital. These referrals are not being taken away from Eastern hospitals; they were sent in the past to referral hospitals hundreds of miles away.

It is not likely that Pitt County will need additional community hospital beds for many years, but it does need the beds originally planned for that purpose. Hence the construction of the additional beds by the state.

The ECU School of Medicine has deviated from its projected development plans very little since the effort was begun. Certainly the planned bed tower is right on track.

Multiple-Use Facility Is Welcome

A new shop/classroom building was accepted by the Pitt Technical Institute board of trustees this week.

The building provides facilities for carpentry; heating; refrigeration; air conditioning; electrical installation and maintenance; auto mechanics; human services; commercial art and graphics; early childhood; educational associate and teacher associate programs.

The facility should enable Pitt Tech to do a better educational job.

Juvenile Suits Awaited

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — The stage is now set for a series of court suits in North Carolina demanding that treatment and analysis programs for troubled children be implemented at once.

The philosophy behind the increasing militancy of juvenile court officials, defense attorneys and judges in juvenile and family courts is simple:

The General Assembly, the state bureaucracy, and especially local governments continue to treat the emotional, mental, and physical problems which apparently contribute to juvenile delinquency with an "out of sight, out of mind" mentality.

Even though the Legislature has mandated a number of special programs, and funded some, critics argue that enough has not been done. Additionally, charges surface regularly of local governments across the state which either flatly refuse to provide the necessary programs, or siphon off funds supposed to be for juveniles and use them in other programs.

No Service

As it stands today, many North Carolina communities still do not provide residential treatment programs, alternatives to holding juveniles in public jails, coordinated services to deal with status offenders (truants, runaways, etc.) who can no longer be sent to the juvenile training schools.

The final blow came in closing days of the General Assembly session when the special project battle among lawmakers to capture any surplus dollars for their home districts scuttled a proposal that two residential treatment centers for emotionally disturbed children be launched to work with a small group of children with severe emotional disorders.

About 168 such children have been identified who cannot benefit from any existing state programs, and a number of those are being sent to institutions out of the state. State Rep. Jim Ezzell, D-Nash, who sponsored the proposal, predicts that unless special attention is paid, many of those youngsters will end up in prison.

The Governor's Advocacy Council for the Mentally Ill and Developmentally Disabled pulled no punches in denouncing the legislative action: "...Judge George Bason has publicly stated his support for a class action suit on behalf of three such children who are before his juvenile court in Wake County," the council pointed out.

"The Advocacy Council... will now consider joining such a class action suit, or initiating legal action on behalf of the 20 children in this category who have been referred to us. We feel that the General Assembly would be acting irresponsibly in passing a farcical tax relief package, a politically attractive bonus to state employees, a legislative office building, a vet school, and other pork barrels while neglecting these children."

Five Suits

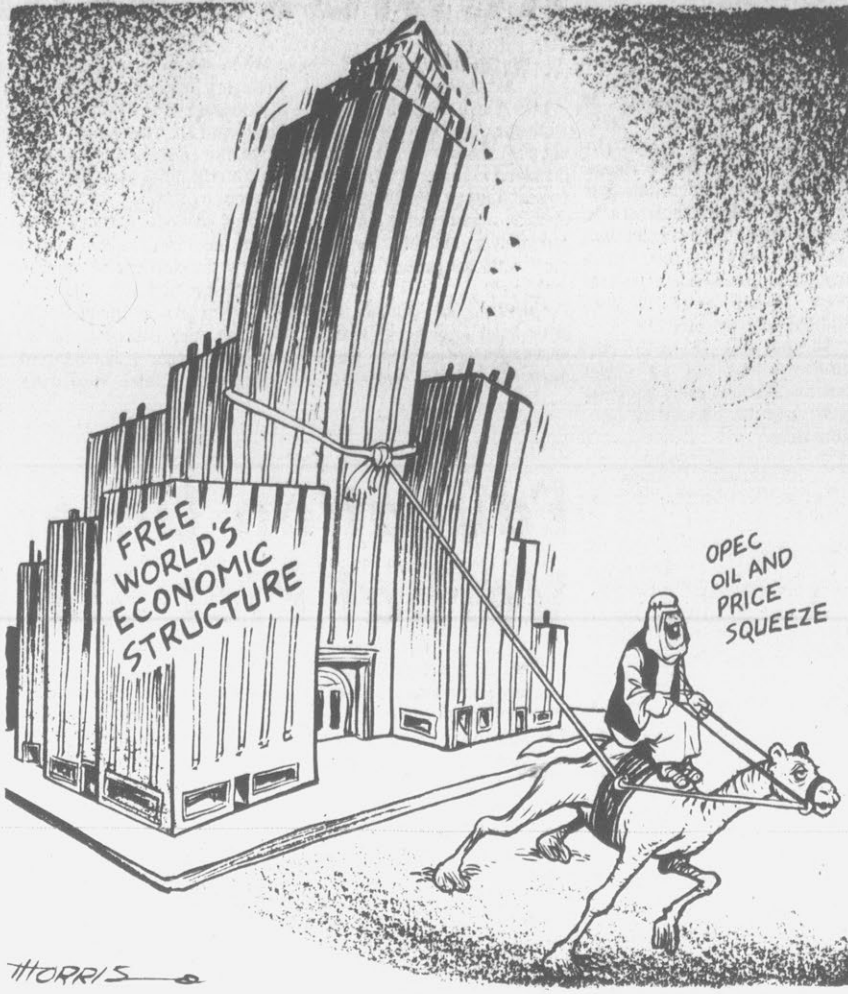

Actually, insiders say, more than a class action suit is now being considered in the close-knit group of people who monitor and lobby for juvenile programs.

Five communities will probably be targeted for action (Chapel Hill, Raleigh, Rocky Mount among them) in which attorneys will ask the court to find the county government in contempt for not providing adequate services, and order that they be provided immediately. Failure would result in stiff daily penalties ordered by the court to be paid by the local governments.

That strategy was first proposed by Samuel M. Streit, a Chapel Hill lawyer, former juvenile court probation officer, and an associate at Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Subsequently, Judge Bason, who is a family court judge and chairman of the Juvenile Code Revision Commission, denounced the paucity of state programs for juveniles and suggested court action along the same lines.

'Blind Trust' Is Gone

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter's farming wealth isn't in a blind trust anymore. Call it a "peek-a-boo trust."

The public, and Carter, now has a fairly detailed idea of what is in the trust and how Carter's old friend Charles Kirbo is managing it.

The fuller disclosure could be better than a blind trust's total secrecy for protecting against conflict of interest, although in Carter's case neither one totally eliminates the built-in conflict of a farmer president making farm policy.

In any case the new disclosures provide a fuller and more fascinating view of Carter's farming and peanut warehouse business.

Actually, Carter has always had a pretty fair idea of what was in the supposedly "blind" trust and roughly how it was being managed.

He told Kirbo in writing not to sell off Carter farm land and to give his brother Billy, who is also his warehouse partner, every possible consideration.

Since any land sale would be recorded publicly, the president could assume correctly that he was still in the farming and peanut warehouse business so long as he didn't read any news stories to the contrary.

And in Plains, Ga., it is difficult to keep anybody's business very secret. "You can drive down the road and tell who's renting the farm by seeing whose tractor is in the field," concedes presidential counsel Robert Lipshutz.

Now the trust is even less blind than before because of a new ethics-in-government act requiring Carter and other high federal officials to make general financial disclosures.

Carter could have avoided revealing details of his peanut

Slit Skirts, Bad News

The bad news this week is that the slit skirt is rising at a rate twice as fast as that predicted by leading government economists.

I was sitting in Lafayette Park the other day with one of President Carter's economic advisors, watching women with slit skirts prance by, and he said, "The dressmakers and skirt manufacturers are violating the President's guidelines. He asked them to keep their slits within seven percent of the knee, but as you can see most of the slits are hovering up to the thigh."

"It's sickening," I said.

"How could you people be so wrong on where the slit skirt was going?"

"We didn't put the oil crisis into the computer," he said as he stared disconsolately at a very attractive lady who swished by.

"What has the oil crisis got to do with slit skirts?"

"When people are nervous about gasoline they react by catering to the prurient interests of the opposite sex. Women are sublimating their fears about not getting enough fuel by showing a lot more of their legs than they ever showed before. They have developed a 'let's live for today, mentality, which eventually could lead to an overheating of the entire economy."

"I'm not sure I understand."

He stared at another lady whose skirt was open from the navel to the knees. "If the trend continues we could see a serious downturn in productivity. Look at this park. If it

Pitt County Farms are now being measured under the Agricultural Conservation Program by supervisors to determine the acreage of crops grown in 1939, R.R. Bennett, Pitt County farm agent, revealed today.

Supervisors doing the work have been given field training and a two day school followed by an examination as a partial test of their proficiency. Their work, in turn, is to be spot checked by the county compliance supervisor and the district supervisor, the latter working from the state office.

Polish Jews, numbering more than 10,000 in Germany, were reported being rounded-up today by the Gestapo, secret police, either for deportation or concentration camps in a new Nazi effort to get rid of foreign Jews. Jews and other groups were being escorted to the Polish frontier after being given notice as short as 24 hours that they must leave. So far, only men have been involved in the drive.

To the editor:

I would like to share with the public a very heartbreaking experience I encountered Monday, June 4. A stray dog had been around my place of employment since Thursday, May 31. It was apparent that he would have to be picked up. Instead I took him to the dog pound.

I had been informed previously that the pound worked with Adopt-A-Pet and that the dog would be given a three-day chance.

Never having seen a pound before, I was shocked to see dogs running loose and pens with metal chutes labeled, CATS, LARGE DOGS, and SMALL DOGS, to slide the animals into and one pan of water per pen. Even with this so-to-seem cruelty, I knew I must leave the dog, for better for him to die painlessly than to suffer from human behavior.

My complaint is not the pound directly, but of the people who are supposed to be living in an educated society that let this continue. Pet owners, please free dogs of this misery by not allowing them to breed. If you want a dog, get one from the pound. $2.50, plus a little extra care and medical expense, will in turn give you a loving pet. Persons of Pitt County, I ask you to go to the pound. Just look. Take your kids who so desperately want a pet. And if you have a heart of any kind, you may just feel what I am still feeling and see in every light the big brown eyes of what is still man's best friend.

wasn't for the split skirt, three-quarters of these men would be eating lunch back at their offices. The women would have no valid reason to brazenly stroll down these walks. What we're witnessing is the downfall of the American work ethic. Every inch that a skirt goes up means one million lost man-hours of work."

"I hadn't thought of it in those terms. Has the President given any consideration to jawboning?"

"The jawbone has nothing to do with it."

"Well, what about legboning then?" I suggested.

"It may come to that, but our problem is that we have to have standby skirt controls to hold over their heads. It's doubtful that we could get Congress to give them to us, because so many senators and congressmen have a vested interest in the slit skirt."

"There has to be a solution," I cried. "We can't go on like this, ogling everything that walks by. Would a recession help?"

The Chiefs Knock SALT

By ROWLAND EVANS
and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — A secret warning in writing that "the interest of the United States will not be served" unless "ambiguities" are removed from SALT II has been sent President Carter by the Joint Chiefs of Staff, at least suggesting possible military opposition to the treaty.

The new strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT II) most likely will be endorsed, however unenthusiastically, by each of the four service chiefs and their chairman, Air Force Gen. David C. Jones, when they testify during Senate ratification hearings. By that time, all five of the chiefs will owe their jobs to Jimmy Carter, who has amply demonstrated his refusal to accept independent judgments from the Pentagon brass that conflict with his own.

Nevertheless, the confidential letter the chiefs sent Carter March 12, via Defense Secretary Harold Brown, is an anti-SALT warhead at the Pentagon. It could explode if Senate critics of the new treaty obtain a copy of this letter and many earlier communications between the chiefs and the president.

This complete record of questions raised by the uniformed military leaders about the treaty — privately called an "audit trail" by one member of the chiefs — was referred to by retired Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, former chief of Naval operations, on NBC's "Meet the Press" May 20. Zumwalt said the Senate would be "shocked at how far their (the chiefs') views have been watered down" if the record is given to the Senate.

"Shocked" the senators might be, but that would not compare with the help given the treaty if, as expected, the president wins approval from all the chiefs. Carter has not been shy in asserting his power as commander in chief.

When the top Army post of chief of staff opened up this spring, Carter overruled not only the Army high command but Secretary Brown himself. After personal interviews, he rejected Gen. John W. Vessey Jr., who as commander in Korea had publicly criticized Carter's troop withdrawal. Instead, Carter dipped down through 17 higher-ranking

Strength For Today

BELIEVING AND TRUSTING

Believing in God and trusting God are two entirely different things. People can sometimes be absolutely orthodox in their belief and yet have no religious faith whatsoever. For religious faith is rooted in trust.

IT IS NOT ONLY WHAT WE BELIEVE ABOUT God that redounds to our advantage but the extent to which we can implement that belief. We may believe with our minds that all things work together for good to them that love God, yet frequently when we confront hard problems we forget all about our religious faith. We run to the doctor, to the marriage counselor, the psychiatrist, the money lender, but we are silent about God.

In many of these situations we would do well to let God do the worrying about our affairs. Our duty and privilege is to do the trusting. We should put our affairs in His hands and let them remain there. He is big enough and strong enough to handle them.

Why Housewives Stay Home

By GAIL MICHAELS

It has never been documented, but I think I can explain the increasing popularity of childbirth in the home. It's not that women don't like the sterility of the hospital setting. It's that they're scared stiff to leave their husbands in charge of the house for more than half-a-day.

Even in this age of women's lib, most husbands don't look at housework the way wives do. The average husband thinks that the dusting is done if he can blow on a table without sneezing.

He figures that it's time to do dishes when he can't find any more paper cups to drink from.

He swears that three weeks worth of newspaper on the floor makes the house look lived in.

He decides that the bathroom needs cleaning when he slips on the green fungus growing in the tub and dislocates his hip.

The kitchen floor needs mopping when his shoes stick to it.

The sheets need changing at the end of each month or when his kid plays in the sandbox and then climbs on his side of the bed with her shoes on, whichever comes first.

The stove needs cleaning when the fumes become so noxious that the neighbor calls the fire department while he's cooking supper.

The broom is reserved for emergencies like broken glass. He wouldn't think of wearing it out on common dirt.

Then there's the washing machine. He's never operated it, but he assumes that it's self-loading and that it folds the clothes neatly at the end of the cycle. If he does happen to load it, and three days later it begins to smell funny, he sprays it generously with Lysol and shuts the utility room door.

Dressing the kids is the easiest chore. He lets them do it themselves. If most of the skin between the shoulders and thighs is covered when they finish, he figures that they're dressed appropriately.

I can't even describe some of the get-ups Meg wore when Phillip took over the household chores so that I could study for my upcoming masters comprehensives. He didn't see what was wrong with Meg's wearing a hand-smocked organdy dress to school on fingerprint day. And so what if she wanted to go to a birthday party in jeans and a stained Carolina sweatshirt?"

I managed to keep the two of them in check as long as Meg had to walk past me in the morning to get out the front door, but the weekend before my test, the two of them took off for the beach.

It was bad enough that they were basking in the sun while I was developing permanent eyestrain while bunched over a study lamp. But when they came home, the first thing Phillip did was to show me a Polaroid picture of Meg that some man had taken while she was playing on the beach.

She was wearing a lacy pink sundress.

"That's her very best sundress!" I cried. "She's not supposed to wear that on the beach!"

Phillip looked genuinely puzzled. "Why not?"

"Because the sand will stain it brown, that's why not. And even if the dress doesn't stain, the sand will get caught in the hem, and there's no way to get it out! I just can't figure out what in the world you were thinking of that day."

"Not much," he grumbled, "or I sure wouldn't have let that guy take this picture."

Our wedding day! We all have cherished memories. In fact, the one thing no one can take away from you is your memories. Which is true... but also just a little sad.
Sad, because memories are another word for the past. Fine in its place. But we need to live today, and to look toward tomorrow.
So, don't linger over the snapshot album too long, don't bog yourself down in what was. Get in the mainstream, here and now! A great place for a launching is in the Church.

Up To 3,000 Acres Of Tobacco Is Contaminated By Herbicide

TABOR CITY, N.C. (AP) — Up to 3,000 acres of flue-cured tobacco in North and South Carolina have been damaged by fertilizer contaminated with a potent herbicide, agriculture officials said Thursday.

About 200 tons of Jamaican Tobacco Fertilizer, manufactured by Smith-Douglass Inc., a division of Borden Chemicals Inc. is suspected of being contaminated with a very toxic herbicide, according to George Spain, a state fertilizer specialist.

So far, several acres of shriveling tobacco plants have been reported in Brunswick, Columbus and Craven counties. Similar problems also are occurring in neighboring counties of South Carolina, Spain said Thursday.

Spain is director of the Feed and Fertilizer Division of the N.C. Department of Agriculture.

He said preliminary investigations show that one or two batches — of about 100 tons each — of the tobacco fertilizer apparently were contaminated with Tordon.

According to The Condensed Chemical Dictionary, a standard reference work, Tordon is a trademark for a herbicide containing 4-amino-3,5,6-trichloropicolinic acid. The substance is used as a defoliant for broadleaved weeds and perennials and is considered relatively nontoxic to humans and animals.

The extent of the damage was estimated to be less than 1 percent of the total acreage in North Carolina. An estimated 346,000 acres will be in production in the state this summer.

At last year's market prices, the loss in tobacco revenue could reach $400,000.

Spain said department staffers are working with Smith-Douglass officials to determine where the contaminated fertilizer is and where it came from.

"It seems obvious the components that came to Smith-Douglass, in some way or another, were contaminated," Spain said.

He explained that since farmers generally use a ton of fertilizer per acre of tobacco, there is a risk that as much as 200 acres of tobacco could be killed by the contaminated fertilizer.

Farmers reacted to the destruction of their crop with incredulity.

"I've been farming 20 years or more, and I've never known of anything like this to happen before," said Eugene McKeithan of Whiteville, who said he first noticed some of his crop "shrinking up" during Memorial Day weekend.

He figured that 23 to 25 acres of his 75-acre crop is affected by the spoiled fertilizer.

"It really isn't killing them. They're just drawing up, gnarling up," McKeithan said.

"We're supposed to know Tuesday if we can put any of the leaf on the market. I don't think it would do no good though. It wouldn't cure up or make anything, I don't believe."

Spain said his department will be compiling information on the mishap through the weekend before he can say how many acres are affected.

He said the herbicide makes tobacco leaves look twisted, curled and thickened. "The leaves don't look like leaves — they look like a glob of something," he said.

BABY'S BREATH... the tiny white flowers much used in floral arrangements, are being harvested this week near Grimesland. The crop, unusual for this area, is being grown by Greenville Gardens Inc., a wholesale florist. Shown growing and being cut at its prime is a desirable double bloom variety of baby's breath. The earlier in the year it blooms and is harvested, the greater the price, says Gardens operator, Jim Wilkinson (far right). (Reflector Photo By Carol Tyer) generals to pick Lt. Gen. Edward C. Meyer, more likely to be cooperative with the White House, to fill the vacancy opening June 22.

So, there will be no strident anti-SALT campaign by the Carter-appointed chiefs: Jones, Meyer, Adm. T.B. Hayward, Air Force Gen. Lew Allen Jr. and Marine Corps Gen. Robert H. Barrow. But Senate critics perceive the March 12 letter and all other private communications to Carter and Brown as the magnet to extract the chiefs' real fears.

Phrased in most respectful tones, the letter raised serious questions about five different parts of the intricate SALT II treaty, discussing them under the general heading of unacceptable "ambiguities." In brief, the chiefs:

• Warned that U.S. ability to monitor and verify Soviet compliance is by no means assured; even if arrangements could be made with Turkey to replace the lost monitoring bases in Iran, the "fragility" of depending on foreign help is dangerous.

• Hinted that Moscow will insist that the protocol limiting the range of ground-launched and sea-launched cruise missiles must be extended beyond its 1981 termination. This reflects fear by the chiefs of a worldwide Soviet propaganda outcry against letting the protocol expire, with Moscow possibly threatening to "abrogate" the treaty unless the U.S. agrees.

• Warned that without full presidential backing for financing the new MX missile, along with a quick decision approving a mobile basing system for it, the Soviet missile threat against American land-based missiles will soon endanger this nation's safety.

• Stated that as drafted, the treaty and its protocol are open to risky and contradictory interpretations on whether the U.S. can help its European allies build cruise missiles under what is called the "non-circumvention" clause.

• Much of the March 12 communication, as have prior letters to Carter, dealt with Soviet cheating. The chiefs are not satisfied with the latest treaty version giving the Soviets the right to encode — or withhold from U.S. monitors — missile test data needed to verify compliance. The letter also repeats one of the chiefs' long-standing treaty grievances: not counting the Soviet Backfire bomber, which has an intercontinental range, as a strategic weapon.

The nation's military leaders are convinced that the president will try to deal with some of these "ambiguities" by the simple expedient of "unilateral" U.S. statements before, during and after the Vienna summit between Carter and Leonid Brezhnev. Such statements about SALT I proved worthless because they did not bind the Kremlin. But the chiefs will attest to this fact publicly only if pressed.

Senate critics of the treaty will find little volunteered help from the military chiefs. But they will discover much informed concern if they dig deep enough and ask the right questions. A good place to start is the March 12 letter.

"I don't think so. High unemployment doesn't necessarily mean the lowering of slits in skirts. If we put the brakes on now the slits could even go higher."

"How much higher can they go?" I said in disgust.

"I wish I had the answer to that. You talk to ten dirty old economists and they all have different answers. What we have to hope for is that the open skirt boom will peak by summer, and then the cold weather will give us a rate of slit we can live with."

"And if it doesn't?"

"Then we'll have double digit legs by the end of the year."

business and farm, but only if they were sealed up in a truly blind trust that met standards set out in the law.

It did not. Carter would have had to remove his instructions against selling his land, and might have had to pick a trustee more independent than his old adviser Kirbo.

Carter chose fuller disclosure.

The new information, combined with the net worth statement and federal income tax returns Carter voluntarily makes public, reveal such facts as these:

—The 2,038-acre Carter farm is rented to Don Tanner, Triple H Farms and Leonard Wright of Sumter County, Ga., and is making a modest profit.

—The Carter peanut warehouse, which ran into hard times under his brother's management, is now rented to Gold Kist Inc. and is worse than broke.

—Billy Carter couldn't pay off a loan of more than $250,000 from the Carter farm, owned 91 percent by the president.

Intriguing, but no big deal.

It remains true that President Carter has pushed for federal programs that increase farm income. He promised as much in his 1976 campaign.

May Not See Refund Money

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Utilities Commission has ordered Piedmont Natural Gas to pay its customers $8.7 million in refunds and rate reductions. But gas customers probably won't see any of the refunds.

The refunds were placed in limbo when the state Court of Appeals has granted a temporary stay of commission orders calling for an immediate $3.2 million refund, a subsequent refund of $781,285 and rate reductions totaling $4.7 million.

The court also ordered the commission's Public Staff to respond next week. It could be six months before a hearing is held on the issue.

Piedmont President John H. Maxheim called the commission's orders illegal because the company's rate of return is less than the 9.7 percent on net investment granted during its last rate hearing.

But Jerry Fruitt, chief counsel for the Public Staff, disagreed. He said the $8.7 million is greater than the $5.5 rate increase allowed the utility or the $5.1 million income for the last 12 months preceding the orders.

"There's no question that the contested money has to be refunded," Fruitt said. "The only real difference is which customers it has to be refunded to or when. They (Piedmont) don't want to do it now and they want it done in a different manner.

He said Piedmont's rate structure has caused winter heating customers to pay higher bills.

"Instead of giving it back to the winter heating customers they want to give it back at lower rates to their summer customers which are largely industrial," Fruitt said. "They should spread it out over the year."

Selling Dinners On Saturday

Barbecued chicken and barbecued pork plates will be sold by members of the Church of God Saturday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The plates will be sold for $2.50 each and will include vegetables, bread and a beverage.

The church is located on the corner of Spruce and Skinner Streets.

Say No N.C. Tax Stamp On Shipped Cigarettes

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A Philadelphia grand jury has charged that several million cartons of cigarettes are leaving North Carolina without the state's required two-cent tax stamp.

The grand jury charged that Southern Wholesale Co. in Goldsboro had shipped 4 million cartons of unstamped cigarettes into Pennsylvania since 1972.

But North Carolina revenue agents say they have found less than 20 cartons of unstamped cigarettes over the past 2½ years.

There have been several reports published in The Charlotte Observer and the News and Observer of Raleigh of northern lawmen seizing loads of unstamped cigarettes from North Carolina, although the sources of the loads were not identified.

Southern Wholesale, the largest distributor in the state in 1974, according to company President E. Lee Bryan, has been selling cigarettes to smugglers at least since 1973, when North Carolina lawmen identified a hijacked load of smuggled cigarettes as coming from the company.

According to the indictments, Southern Wholesale paid the North Carolina tax, but did not put the tax stamps on the cigarettes.

The unstamped cigarettes were then shipped to Pennsylvania, where counterfeit Pennsylvania stamps were attached, according to the indictments.

The scheme cost Pennsylvania an estimated $7.5 million in lost cigarette tax revenue, the grand jury said.

Revenue Secretary Mark G. Lynch said his agency has made examinations of cigarette distributors at the request of other states in order to assist those states in their enforcement.

Nevertheless, the department has not used state laws and regulations to revoke the licenses of distributors who sell to smugglers. While it is not illegal to sell to smugglers, North Carolina law does ban, for example, sale of unstamped cigarettes to out-of-state distributors and falsification of records.

Forest Service Speaker Here

Mark Webb of the Pitt County Forest Service spoke to members of Wellcome Middle School's life science class on the duties of the Forest Service. He pointed out his special electrically-powered truck, suitable for aiding in fighting small forest fires.

Webb also spoke on tree diseases and the Forest Service's research. Sheila Bland, a group leader in the fifth period class, labeled some of the trees on the school's Nature Trail and included a report on Webb's visit in her group report.

Pitt School Personnel And Students Are Honored

Several personnel and students from around Pitt County were honored Tuesday during the meeting of the Pitt County Board of Education.

Transportation Supervisor Rodney Bullock presented the school bus overall safety award to the D. H. Conley High School area, accepted by Conley Assistant Principal Jimmy Dunn. School bus driver awards went to Hosea Coley of Ayden-Grifton, Joseph Barrett of D. H. Conley, Carrie Waller of Farmville Central and Brenda Barrett of North Pitt.

Associate Superintendent Tom Craft presented special awards to cafeteria managers and staff from county schools for their outstanding work during the school year. Awards were accepted by Hazel Worthington of Ayden-Grifton, Martha Best of Farmville Middle, Julia Mahler of Grifton Elementary, Betty Bedsworth of North Pitt, Lucy Lamm of Pactus Elementary and Ernestine Boone of G. R. Whitfield.

Chris Paramore, a 12th grade student at D. H. Conley, and LaVorn Teel, an 11th grader at North Pitt, were awarded checks from Procter and Gamble Inc. for their outstanding work in science and math, respectively.

Mrs. Lillian Bradley presented the five overall county Spelling Bee winners for the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades, noting that this week is National Spelling Bee Week. Winners were as follows: Sandy Dixon, Ayden Elementary, fourth grade; Middle, sixth grade; Sonia Hyman, Farmville Middle, seventh grade; and Mike Boykin, Ayden Middle, eighth grade and overall county winner.

The Bonnie Langston Award was presented in its second year of existence to Lewis Lawrence, an English teacher and drama coach at Farmville Central High School. Lawrence, who has taught within the county system for 21 years, serves as school advisor for the yearbook, as well as its chief photographer. He, his wife, Julia, and their six children reside in Falkland.

The Bonnie Langston award is given to the best supporting non-cultural arts teacher in the memory of Ms. Langston, a seventh and eighth grade math instructor who was killed in an explosion about two years ago.

Retiring personnel were honored by the board for their faithful service. Those receiving honorary plaques are as follows: James Lowry, Ayden Middle; Mrs. Eva T. Maye, W. H. Robinson; Mrs. Eleanor Ross, W. H. Robinson; Helen Bradley, Ayden-Grifton; Mrs. Narcissus Jackson, Ayden Middle; Samuel Hemby, A. G. Cox; Hennie Jackson, Ayden Middle; Mrs. Oreba Person, Falkland Elementary; Margaret McCaskill, A. G. Cox; Dicy Hill, Ayden Middle.

Carrie Oakley, Central Office; Mary Little, G. R. Whitfield; Emma McIntyre, W. H. Robinson; Lois J. Averette, D. H. Conley; Alice Oglesby, Ayden Middle; Willie Artis, H. B. Sugg; Frank Dupree, Maintenance.

Help Disabled Enter Colleges

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (UPI) — A pilot program has been established at Adelphi University in Garden City to help high school graduates with learning disabilities gain admission to college and complete degree study. Dr. Fred Barbaro, director of the new program and a social work professor, says students who cannot process oral and written material in a conventional way can still complete college and earn a degree — but many need help to do this. Barbaro said Adelphi plans to admit 25 learning disabled students in the first class this fall.

PROCTER AND GAMBLE HONOREES — LaVorn Teel, left, an 11th grader at North Pitt, and Chris Paramore, a 12th grader at D. H. Conley, received checks from Procter and Gamble, Inc., for their outstanding work in math and science, respectively.

NEW YORK (AP) — A four-day rally faltered today as the stock market headed lower.

At noon, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off by 1.47 at 835.50, with advances outnumbering declines by 6-5 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume fell to 14.5 million shares after two hours of trading from 20.2 million at noon Thursday.

The Conference Board reported consumers' confidence in the future of the economy — and their plans to buy cars and appliances — fell in May.

In Washington, a Japanese economic official said his government would like to see the yen appreciate substantially. The statement pushed the dollar sharply lower in New York and Europe.

Energy issues were mixed as the Interior Department proposed stepping up the sale of offshore oil leases on the Outer Continental Shelf off the U.S. East Coast.

Tesoro was unchanged at 15 and Texaco up 1/8 at 26 1/2 in active trading. Phillips lost 1 1/2 to 37 1/2 after reporting it has cut its estimates of oil and gas reserves in the North Sea. Dome Petroleum, which has risen sharply in recent sessions, fell 2 1/4 to 41 1/2 on the American Stock Exchange.

Hogs
RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The overall trend on the North Carolina hog market today was mostly .75 to 1.50 higher. Wilson, 42.50; Rocky Mount, 41.50; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pink Hill, Chadbourn, Ayden, Pine Level, Laurinburg and Benson, 43.00. Salisbury, 40.00. Kinston 42.50 and Spivey's Corner, 39.00-40.00. Sows: Spivey's Corner, 325-600 pounds, 28.50-30.50; Fayetteville, 400 pounds up, 32.00.

Poultry
RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina F.O.B. dock broiler market was lower, supplies adequate, demand light, weights desirable. The dock weighted average price for next week is 40.04 for small purchases of plant grade broilers picked up at processing plants. Estimated slaughter today was 1,739,000.

Hens
RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — The North Carolina hen market was steady on very limited trade with one load sold at 18 cents. Prices paid per pound for hens over seven pounds at farm, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday slaughter, too few to report.

Subpoenaed By Synanon

POINT REYES, Calif. (AP) — Pulitzer Prize-winning publisher David Mitchell's notes and records on Synanon have been subpoenaed in connection with a $32 million civil suit against the organization, but he says he will not turn them over, according to the San Francisco Examiner.

Mitchell, who won the Pulitzer this year for a series of articles on Synanon in the weekly Point Reyes Light, also said he would not appear as a witness in the suit by attorney Paul Morantz against the drug rehabilitation group, the newspaper said.

"In other words, they want to go on a fishing trip through our files when we don't have anything to do with the suit," Mitchell said. "Our position is that we could not have carried out our investigation of Synanon unless we were able to promise sources they would be kept confidential."

"We are not about to betray those sources. We are going to fight it," he said.

Branch Robbed

KINSTON, N.C. (AP) — A lone gunman robbed the Vernon Park Mall branch of Branch Banking and Trust Co. shortly after noon Thursday, authorities said.

Authorities said the suspect carried a small caliber, automatic hand gun. He escaped with an undetermined amount of cash.

Officer G.B. Broadwell said the suspect walked into the bank, pointed the gun at a teller, handed her a plastic bag and said "Hurry-up."

The FBI has been called in to the case and is reviewing film from the bank's cameras to get a clearer description of the suspect.

Restrictive Bingo Law Passes

By SHARON BOND
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina will have a statewide bingo law, beginning Sept. 1, that will restrict the game to non-profit, charitable organizations and repeal the numerous local bingo laws now on the books.

Both the Senate and House approved a compromise bingo bill Thursday, bringing the last important piece of legislation out of deadlock.

The Senate voted unanimously to accept the compromise. House members did not approve it immediately because some representatives didn't like the fact that it will allow the qualifying organizations to spend the proceeds from bingo operations on capital expenditures for their facilities.

As originally written, the organizations could only spend the money earned from bingo operations on charitable projects and the upkeep of the bingo equipment.

"They can build palaces to themselves on the proceeds of bingo," said Rep. Joe Johnson, D-Wake. "We adopted an amendment in this House that said the proceeds should for charitable purposes only."

The House finally did accept the compromise on a 83-29 vote, after half an hour's debate and objection to several other provisions in it.

Sponsors of the legislation introduced it in an effort to out-law big-time commercial operations. Under the new law, small-time commercial operations, like those found in vacation areas, will be allowed to continue to operate but are limited to awarding $10 prizes.

Action on the bill deadlocked after the Senate approved it and sent it to the House where a number of amendments were added. One that drew objections from the Senate would have opened up all bingo games held by the tax-exempt membership organizations to the public, allowing non-members to play if they desired.

The compromise bill retained a modified version of the open-to-the-public provision that says as long as bingo games are restricted to club members and their families, they do not have to be open to the general public.

But once any members of the public are allowed in, the game is open to all members of the public, under the new law.

Under the compromise, non-profit volunteer rescue squads, non-profit volunteer fire departments and bona fide homeowners' or property owners' associations will be added to the list of organizations qualified to sponsor the game legally.

The compromise sets the maximum for a single prize that can be awarded at a bingo game at $500 in cash or merchandise and limits total prizes that can be given out in a session to $1,500 in cash or merchandise.

A House amendment prohibiting the sale or consumption of alcohol during bingo games was retained in the compromise as was a limitation on the number and length of sessions in one week.

Also left intact was the ban on the use of professional bingo managers or contract bingo.

Iran's Banks Taken Over

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The revolutionary government today took over the management of all private banks in Iran, the state radio announced.

The announcement appeared to stop just short of outright nationalization, according to banking sources here.

Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan, in a statement read over Iran Radio, said the government still "believes in private ownership," and said bank deposits will be guaranteed. His statement indicated the government was not taking over the assets of the banks.

"But in view of the drawbacks of the private banks," Bazargan said, the government had decided to take over their management "to safeguard national rights and revenues" and prevent the flight of capital abroad.

Bazargan said all bank employees would remain in their posts, but would henceforth be considered civil servants.

He said all banks in Iran will remain closed until Monday, when they will reopen under management appointed by the government.

There are 35 banks in Iran. Most are wholly Iranian-owned, but at least nine have minority foreign participation in their ownership, according to the latest official statistics.

Bazargan's statement was seen as blaming the private banks for the sluggish state of the Iranian economy since the February revolution that toppled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, an Iranian economist regarded as the economic adviser of revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, has frequently attacked Iranian banks as "looters, operating for Western interests."

Kay Adler, State Board member, gave a comprehensive summary of last week's North Carolina LWV board meeting.

Board of Directors members are Pat Dunn, president; Anne Frost, first vice president; Elaine Schaal, second vice president; Rhea Markello, secretary; Mary Furth, treasurer; Carolyn Bowyer, voters service officer; Edith Webber, environmental quality officer; Mary Daugherty, publications distributions officer; Elaine Schaal, international relations officer; Mildred Indorf, public relations officer; Judy Stokes, membership officer; Nell Paul, finance officer;

Ivie's Homer Slips Giants Past Cards In 12-10 Slugfest

By PAUL LeBAR
AP Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sitting on a 2-0 count in the ninth inning of a tie game was no time for the San Francisco Giants' Mike Ivie to be choosy.

"It was high and hard," he recounted of the pitch he belted on a towering trajectory into the center field seats to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 12-10 in a Thursday night slugfest.

"I don't know whether it was a backup slider or what, but I saw it good," Ivie observed. "We've been in a rut. I'm hoping something like this will provide us a spark." Ivie's home run, a three-run blow, severed a seven-game Cardinals victory string in one of two Thursday National League games. In an afternoon game, the Chicago Cubs edged the San Diego Padres 4-3.

"We've got a much better team than we've shown, I'll guarantee you that," Ivie said after manufacturing only the second San Francisco victory in 12 games.

"I think 90 games will win our division," he conjectured. "Of course, if the frog had rubber legs he'd be on the moon.

But, there is no question, if we were playing the same way we'd be ahead."

The Giants, who used five pitchers, trailed throughout after St. Louis exploded for six runs in the opening inning on six hits, one of them Keith Hernandez' three-run homer.

It was 9-5 when Johnnie LeMaster and John Tamargo singled around an out in the eighth inning, then became 9-7 on Ivie's RBI grounder and a single by Terry Whitfield.

Larry Herndon singled off Tom Bruno and Darrell Evans off Darold Knowles to start the San Francisco ninth. That brought on loser Mark Littell, 4-2, who might have been better off at home.

Bill Madlock drew a pinch-walk, loading the bases, and Herndon scored on LeMaster's force play grounder.

Evans next crossed the plate with the tying run when Hernandez, the Cards first baseman, failed to come up with a low throw on a try for a double play. Afterward, Ivie smashed his seventh homer following a walk to Tamargo.

Rice Still Not Satisfied After Hitting Two Homers In Sox Win

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer
Jim Rice has a problem with pitchers. The pitchers also have a problem: Jim Rice.

"I'm still not driving the ball the way I'd like because I'm not getting good pitches to hit," the Boston slugger said after blasting his 10th and 11th home runs of the season Thursday night, leading the Red Sox to a 9-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Last year, Rice slammed 13 homers in the month of May alone and ended up the season with 46, tops in the majors. He also led the major leagues in total bases with 406, slugging percentage with .600 and runs batted in.

"The two pitches I hit for homers tonight were outside the strike zone," Rice said. "The first was high and in, the second low and away. But you've got to swing at something, so I swung."

In other AL games in an abbreviated schedule, Texas clobbered Milwaukee 7-1, Minnesota stopped the New York Yankees 4-1 and Baltimore edged Kansas City 3-1.

"I compare him with Willie Mays," Chicago Manager Don Kessinger said of Rice. "He's just a great hitter."

The American League Most Valuable Player last year, Rice ignited a three-run fourth inning with his first homer, a tremendous drive off Chicago pitcher Ken Kravec, 6-4, over the screen beyond the high wall in left center.

Then, leading off the seventh, Rice unloaded against reliever Rich Hinton, lining a shot into the Boston bullpen in right center. He drove in a third run with an infield hit in the eighth.

Rookie Chuck Rainey, 4-3, got the victory as Dwight Evans added four singles to Boston's 17-hit attack.

Orioles 3, Royals 1
Gary Roenicke's bases-loaded single drove in two runs in the eighth inning, boosting Baltimore past Kansas City. Kansas won his first game since April City had taken the lead on Al Cowens' home run in the fifth inning. The Orioles tied the score in the bottom of the inning when Roenicke walked, took third on Eddie Murray's single and scored on a sacrifice fly by Doug DeCinces.

Twins 4, Yankees 1
Three pitchers combined to scatter eight New York hits and give Minnesota its victory over the Yankees.

Geoff Zahn, 4-1, started and won his first game since April 29 despite giving up a fifth-inning home run to Chris Chambliss. Mike Bacsik came on in the sixth and Mike Marshall relieved in the eighth to register his 13th save of the season.

Breaking Up Helped Game

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer
ATLANTA (AP) — Mark Lye's golf game has turned around, and he thinks he knows why.

"I broke up with my girl friend six months ago and that's probably been the turning point of my game," Lye said Thursday after the best round of his pro career, a 9-under-par 63 that staked him to a 4-shot lead in the opening round of the $300,000 Atlanta Golf Classic.

"I'm spending a lot more time on the golf course now," said the 6-foot-1, 165-pound Californian who is seeking his first victory in the United States since joining the PGA tour in 1976.

Lye, who during one stretch Thursday played eight holes at 8 under par, credited his sparkling performance over the hilly, 7,019-yard Atlanta Country Club course to an "aggressive attitude I've never had before."

The closest pursuers were Barry Jaeckel, Larry Nelson, Ed Fiori and Wayne Levi, all at 67, while a group of 10 was deadlocked at 68 — Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller, Great Britain's Peter Oosterhuis, Tim Simpson, Charles Coody, Gene Littler, Bob Murphy, Jack Renner, Bill Calfee, Peter Jacobsen and Grier Jones.

Defending champion Jerry Heard had a 72 and South African Gary Player, beginning his second U.S. tour this season, had a 75.

"You play like the guys around you, I feel," Lye said, citing Jerry McGee's 11-under round and Craig Stadler's 10-under at a tournament in Charlotte, N.C., last week. "I kept thinking, who's going to shoot 10-under today?"

It almost was Lye, who captured foreign golf titles in Australia and Switzerland in 1976. The eight-hole stretch on which he suddenly went from 1-under to 9-under, started at the 17th green, where he rolled in a 25-footer for a birdie and followed that with an eagle 3 from three feet at No. 18. Lye started his final nine on the front side of the hilly terrain with three straight birdie putts ranging from six to eight feet, parred the fourth and then added birdie putts from 15 and 10 feet.

His previous low round was a 64 at the Colonial Country Club in Fort Worth.

The round was delayed an hour and 20 minutes at the start because of fog.

"I was not hitting the ball very well this morning," Lye said, "so the hour delay helped out."

He really came to life with his eagle on 18.

After his tee shot, Lye still needed 230 yards to reach the green over a pond and was 260 yards from the hole.

"My caddy said, 'Let's go for it,' and I said, 'You're crazy.' I was thinking about it, though, and he gave me that last little shove."

His 3-wood cleared the water and stopped three feet from the cup.

"That was the best shot I've ever hit in my life," he said.

Fullerton State And Arkansas In Finals

By CHUCK SCHOFFNER
AP Sports Writer
OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — When Fullerton State Coach Augie Garrido said his team's game with Pepperdine in the College World Series would be a "dog-fight," he wasn't kidding.

That's exactly what took place Thursday night. When the dust finally cleared after 3½ hours of baseball, there had been 24 hits, two players and a coach ejected, two records tied and most important, Fullerton had an 8-5 victory.

The triumph puts the Titans, 59-14, and rated third nationally, in tonight's championship game against seventh-rated Arkansas, 49-14, which had the night off. It will be a rematch of a game Wednesday night, when Fullerton outslugged the Razorbacks 13-10 to stay alive in the double elimination tournament.

Fullerton and Pepperdine split four games during the regular season. Fullerton won the Southern California Baseball Association title and Pepperdine, which finished the year 52-18, was second.

While Fullerton and Pepperdine were going at it in an emotionally charged game, Arkansas had the luxury of resting. That could work in the Razorbacks' favor, but Pepperdine Coach Dave Gorrie said he thinks Fullerton will win.

"They're a better team," he said. "Arkansas is an excellent team, but I feel Fullerton is stronger overall."

Left-hander Steve Krueger, 10-1, the winning pitcher in Arkansas' 5-4 victory over Pepperdine in the first round, will start tonight. Garrido will go with right-hander Dave Weatherman, 14-2, who started Thursday night but lasted only one-third of an inning, giving up three runs.

"I don't know what to expect," Garrido said. "The way both teams have been hitting, it could be a five-dozen baseball game. If the wind is blowing out and some of those gorillas start hitting the ball, we might need seven ball boys to run them down."

Sam Favata drove in the go-ahead run against Pepperdine in a three-run fifth inning and Mickey Palmer, making his first start of the series, tied a record by getting five hits.

Palmer hit .346 last season, but was batting only .236 coming into Thursday's game.

Two of Palmer's hits were bunts and another was a slow roller that he beat out.

Pepperdine's Tim Gloyd tied a record by stealing his seventh base of the series. He was thrown out trying for his eighth by Fullerton catcher Kurt Kingsolver, who threw out two others runners and picked one off first.

Pepperdine first baseman John Lais was ejected by home plate umpire Randy Christal after arguing a called second strike in the seventh inning. Christal also banished Albert Arrieta, who had been relieved as Pepperdine's starting pitcher, from the bench and ejected third base coach Robert Dam-wijk.

Tony Hudson turned in another superb relief job for Fullerton, pitching the final 21-3 innings to earn a save.

Prospect came back with a run in the top of the second. Locklear reached on a fielder's choice and Cummings walked. Bullard hit a fielder's choice with Cummings being thrown out at second and Sanderson singled in Locklear.

Neither team scored again until the sixth when the final Jamesville run came in. Keith Long singled and Stan Lilley went in as a pinch runner. Danny Lilley singled and Toby Holliday and Trent Ange walked, pusing in Stan Lilley.

Danny Lilley was 2-2 for the Bulets with three steals. Holliday was 1-1, walking three times. Long was 2-4.

Prospect hurler Eric Collins did a good job of pitching out of trouble. Davenport said. "Collins was in trouble in five of

Greenville Golf and Country Club

The team of Bill Mitchum and Steve Hinshaw took top honors at the Greenville Golf and Country Club's Member-Guest Tournament this past weekend.

Mitchum and Hinshaw won both the pre-tournament tournament, and took the "A" flight championship during the actual event itself.

Other pre-tourney winners included John Hill and Frank Orgel, second; Charles Bridgers and David Draper, third; and a three-way tie for fourth between Mickey Herrin and Bill Stocks; Garry Pegram and Allan Hahn; and Dillon Watson and Frank Lawrence.

In the tournament, other flights were won by Fred Webb and Ricky Webb, "B" flight; Billy Brown and George Tennile, "C" flight; Harry Hastings and Brownie Tripp, "D" flight; and Tommie Little and Gray Poole, "E" flight.

Mitchum also fired a 68 during the past week for his best round at Greenville.

Lester Brown eagled the par four fifth hole, hitting a six-iron into the hole. Michael Gavigan had his best nine, a 46 on the front side.

A number of events are scheduled for the coming month at Greenville. They include: June 14-15, the Ladies Club Championship; June 18, a Pro-Junior Tournament for junior members 10-17; June 19, the Interclub Junior Championship at Brook Valley; June 24, a Men's and Women's Captain's Choice with a 2 p.m. shotgun start, and a 4 p.m. June 23 sign-up deadline; June 29-30, the Men's, Women's and Junior "Tough Day" with a $1 entry fee; July 23, a free advanced ladies clinic from 4 to 5:30 p.m., limited to the first 20 women members to sign up; and July 24, a clinic for beginner women with the same times and limitations.

Grifon Golf and Country Club

A number of activities are slated for the month of June at the Grifon Golf and Country Club.

Men's Stag Night will be held Wednesday, with a 5:30 p.m. shotgun start to a 9-hole Superball Tournament. The entry fee of $10 includes golf, carts and a steak dinner following the tournament. A noon deadline on Tuesday is observed for signups.

Junior clinics will be held Tuesday through Thursday. Ages 7-10 will meet at 9 a.m., with 11-14 at 10 a.m. and 15-17 at 11 a.m. No clubs are necessary for the clinic.

A junior superball tournament will be held June 15, with awards and a cookout to follow. All junior members are welcome to attend the awards ceremonies and cookout.

A Father's Day Tournament will be held June 17. It will be a Mixed Superball over 18 holes with a 2:30 p.m. shotgun start. The $6.20 entry fee includes golf and carts. A noon June 16 deadline is observed for signups. A "bring your own food" cookout follows.

Ladies Stag Night will be held June 19 with a 6 p.m. start to a 9-hole superball tournament. The $10 entry fee includes golf, carts and a steak dinner. Non-golfers may attend the dinner for $5.

A two-men Invitational Superball Tournament will be held June 23-24, with a $50 per team entry fee. A 9 a.m. shotgun start will be held on Saturday, and a 1:30 p.m. start on Sunday. Entry fees include prizes, carts, a Saturday cocktail party and a Sunday awards party. The deadline will be observed at noon on June 21, or when the first 48 teams has signed up, whichever ever comes first.

The Ladies Tar Heel League will meet at Grifon on June 29.

Ayden Golf and Country Club

The Ayden Golf and Country Club has a series of clinics coming up next week for junior and lady members.

The clinics will be held Tuesday through Friday. Juniors will meet at 9 a.m., and ladies at 5:30 p.m. each day.

Dallas Jackson recently shot a 66 while playing with Tom Boyd, Mike Wells and pro Tim Smith.

Brook Valley Golf and Country Club

The team of Evelyn and Gene Ward and Maxine and Red Hawley took first place in the Jack and Jill Tournament at Brook Valley Golf and Country Club this week. They fired a 30.

A three-way tie for second place developed as each team shot 32. They included Joyce and John Jackson, Nena Barrett and Mike Moye; Becky and Perk Ashby and Margie and Bill Clark; Nancy and Billy Clark and Cathy and Bobby Wallace.

Third place went to Scrappy and Joanne Proctor, and Nancy and Bake Baker with a 33.

A men's Superball Tournament will be held Sunday. Deadline for signups is 6 p.m. tonight.

The junior club championship will be held Tuesday, with the Interclub Junior Championship on Tuesday, June 19.

Bird To Ink Pact

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird's signature on a five-year, $3.25 million National Basketball Association contract today caps the Boston Celtics' quest for the college star who will become the highest-paid rookie in sports history.

The Celtics called a 10 a.m. Boston Garden news conference and said Bird will be present. Signing the college player-of-the-year from Indiana State was viewed as a major step in rebuilding the once-dominant franchise.

Sources close to the negotiations pegged the annual worth of Bird's pact at $650,000, including salary and fringe benefits.

Lawyer Bob Woolf, Bird's agent in the often-bitter two-month negotiations with Celtics President Red Auerbach, would say only: "It appears Larry will be a Celtic."

The Celtics, fearful of an 11th hour snag, declined to say anything. Bird has been at home in French Lick, Ind., throughout negotiations.

The settlement, in the works for several days, was a compromise.

Woolf originally sought more than $1 million per year when bargaining began April 10, but Auerbach countered with $500,000 per season. When Celtics owner Harry Mangurian intervened last week, the team hiked its bid to $600,000, with Woolf seeking $700,000.

The 6-foot-9 college star, who led his underdog team to the NCAA finals, apparently has beaten his rival Earvin "Magic" Johnson in the money grab, after failing to do so on the basketball court.

Michigan State and Johnson, who is turning pro as a hard-ship case, beat Indiana State in the NCAA tournament. Bird and Woolf were intent on signing for a richer contract than Johnson, whose pact with the Los Angeles Lakers reportedly is worth $600,000 per season in salary and real estate.

The signing of Bird enables Auerbach, whose team missed the playoffs for two consecutive years, to begin a long-awaited house cleaning. A deal for forward Bob McAdoo, acquired by Boston from the New York Knicks last February for three first-round draft picks and reserve center Tom Barker, was in the works.

The trade, made by former Celtics owner John Y. Brown — who later sold his half interest in the team to Mangurian — left the Celtics without a pick in the June 25 NBA draft until the third round.

Auerbach has been planning player moves with new Coach Bill Fitch.

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Jerilyn Britz, the first round LPGA Championship leader, stood in the 17th fairway. She looked at the Nicklaus Golf Center scoreboard for the first time.

The red figures showed she was 7 under. "That struck me. I never remember seeing 7 under beside my name. Usually, when I get to 2 under, I lose it," said the shaken Britz.

She didn't Thursday. The 36-year-old former school teacher wiped out one all-time LPGA record and shattered a tournament record with her 64, 8 under par, and good for a 4-shot lead over Australian Penny Pulz.

Nancy Lopez, the old LPGA Championship record holder with 65, stumbled to a 1-over-par 73, nine shots off the pace. "I'm not thinking about the nine shots. I'm mad at myself. I was not concentrating at all," she said.

Lopez, bidding for a fourth straight tournament triumph this year, tried unsuccessfully to have play halted when she was on the fifth hole.

"The wind was blowing the rain in our faces. It hurt. We couldn't stand up. We couldn't hold our umbrellas up. It was unfair," she said afterward.

Among those in a six-player snarl for third place at 69 were two former U.S. Open champions, Donna Caponi Young and JoAnne Carner.

The others at 69 were Amelia Rorer, Shelley Hamlin, left-handed Bonnie Bryant and Amy Alcott, the 1978 LPGA runnerup to Lopez.

Another shot back at 71 came Sue Roberts, Muffin Spencer-Devlin, Peggy Conley, Cathy Thompson and Judy Kimball.

Lopez wasn't the only big name well off the pace. Judy Rankin, Jo Ann Washam and Sandra Post, the current No. 2 money winner, were among those at 72.

At 73 were reigning U.S. Open titleholder Hollis Stacy,

Studying The Situation

Jerilyn Britz and her caddy, Mike Jansen, study her putting situation on the 18th hole of the opening round of the LPGA Championship Tourney in Mason, Ohio, Thursday. Britz, who pulled out a par on the 18th, birdied nine holes and carded a course-record 64 to take the lead in the tourney after the first round. (AP Laserphoto)

Feud Overshadows Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Spectacular Bid's trainer, Bud Delp, heard someone behind him greet a friend.

"Hello, slugger," the man said. Delp quickly looked over his shoulder and smiled. "Slugger? Who's the fighter around here? I thought that Franklin was standing behind me," Delp said.

The fisticuffs took place after the fourth race at Belmont Wednesday. Films of the start of the race showed that Cordero's mount, Ski Pats, cut sharply into Franklin's mount, Lorine, forcing Franklin to stand up in the saddle and check his mount.

"I guess he tried to drop me," Franklin said of Cordero. "When I got to the (jockey) room, I walked up to him and he took a swing at me.

"I think I hit him a couple of times. I don't think he hit me," said Franklin, who will ride Spectacular Bid in Saturday's Belmont Stakes. Asked if Cordero had said anything to him, Franklin said: "He threatened my life. He said to me in Spanish, 'I'm going to kill you.'"

Both jockeys were fined $250 by racing stewards.

Britz In LPGA's Lead

Jane Balock and Jan Stephenson. Veteran Kathy Whitworth, the game's all-time money champion and a three-time winner of this major, scrambled to a 77.

But the drama had unfolded hours before the game's glamorous names had teed off. Britz was one of the early morning dew sweepers in the third threesome.

The woman who had first played golf as a 17-year-old life-guard did not qualify for the LPGA Tour until she was a ripe 31.

Her new putting stroke worked so well that she took only 27 blows on the soft, but fast greens on the 6,313-yard layout. She had nine 1-putters, four of them in one stretch.

Britz' performance, played mainly in cloudy, calm weather, er, helped her tie the nine-birdie performance for a single round held by six other players. She came within two shots of Mickey Wright's all-time 18-hole record for an LPGA tour stop.

This $150,000 tournament, the first of three recognized majors for the women in 1979, carries a first prize of $22,500. Portions of the final rounds Saturday and Sunday will be on NBC-TV.

Little League

Coca-Cola 8, Jaycees 7

Coca-Cola outlasted the Jaycees, 8-7, yesterday in the North State Little League.

The win left Coke with a 3-7 record, while the Jaycees are now 6-4.

Coke scored first, getting a run in the first. Mike Sasser singled and Lee Allen doubled. After Jay Wynne walked, a hit by Aaron Smith scored Sasser.

Coke added two more in the second.

The Jaycees rallied for three in the third to tie it up. David Lee was hit by a pitch and stole second. Maury Harris singled and Kenneth Butler doubled both runners in. He was thrown out trying to score later in the inning. Jordy Smith walked, moved up on a wild pitch and scored on Rocky Ziehr's double.

The Jaycees added two in the fifth and two more in the sixth. Coke picked up one in the fifth, then came up with four in the sixth to win it.

Bruce Gee walked and Brian Gee got a hit. An error on the play let Bruce score, but Brian was thrown out, later after James Matthews walked and as Sasser reached on a fielder's choice. Allen also reached on a fielder's choice, loading the bases. Wynne walked to score Matthews, and Smith reached on an error, allowing Sasser and Allen to score with the game-ending runs.

Butler had two hits to lead the Jaycees, while Sasser and Allen both had two for Coke.

First Federal 11, Wellcome 0

First Federal romped to an 11-0 victory over Wellcome yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League.

Rickey Outlaw hurled the shutout win, giving up three hits.

First Federal got all it needed in the first inning scoring one run. Tyrone Barrett reached on an error and took second on a wild pitch. Outlaw then won his own game with a run-scoring triple.

First Federal scored three more in the third, two in the fourth, and five in the sixth, including a two-run homer by Ervin Best.

Barrett and Outlaw led the First Federal hitting with two each, while Traye Fuqua had two of the three Wellcome hits.

Senior Babe Ruth

Winterville 9, Clifton Insurance 5

Unbeaten Winterville gained a 9-5 triumph over Clifton Insurance in the Senior Babe Ruth League last night.

Winterville is now 4-0, while Clifton slipped to 3-2.

Winterville scored its first run in the opening inning on a homer by Carl Arnold. They added two more in the second, before Clifton came up with its first two in the bottom of the second.

Wayne Stokes led off the second for Clifton with a single and Jamie Adams reached. on an error. Jamie Byrd also was safe on an error, loading the bases. Reggie Selby grounded out, scoring Stokes, and an error let Adams score.

Mike Edens provided Winterville with its fourth run with a homer in the third, but Clifton came up with two in the bottom of the fourth to tie it 4-4.

Winterville then pushed over three in the fifth to go ahead for good. Ben Hyman singled and Peter Carmon walked. Joel Brown singled in both runners, and moved up on the relay. He took third on an out and scored on Arnell Crede's single.

The other two Winterville runs scored in the sixth, while Clifton added one in the seventh.

Credle, Arnold, Edens and Gary Brock each had two hits for Winterville, while Jeff James had two to lead Clifton.

Kiwanis 4, Robersonville 3

ROBERSONVILLE — University Kiwanis gained a 4-3 victory over Robersonville in the Senior Babe Ruth League last night.

The win upped the Kiwanis record to 2-2, while Robersonville fell to 1-2.

Jesse Matthews hit a two-run homer in the final inning for Robersonville to put on a mild rally for the losers. Other details were not available.

jack of trumps to draw the ten, and claimed the balance. Where South declared three no trumps and went down, the opening lead was the nine of hearts. Declarer succumbed to an acute case of greed. He ducked in dummy and East won the queen. The shift to the jack of clubs was automatic. Declarer gave himself his best shot by rising with the ace and knocking out the ace of diamonds. Unfortunately, East won the diamond trick and reverted to the ten of clubs, so declarer had to lose four club tricks in addition to the trick in each red suit. And to think that all declarer had to do to guarantee the contract and give himself play for over-tricks was to win the king of hearts at trick one and then start on the diamond suit!

When this hand was played at a recent tournament, the contracts varied greatly. At one table North-South reached six diamonds, which was made, on the bidding shown above. At another, a contract of three no trump went down two when declarer neglected to play safely. Note that, despite the fact that he held almost half the deck, South never once jumped. After he heard a one heart response to his one diamond opening, South was not sure where he wanted to play the hand, so he bid a quiet one spade to await developments. North had a strong distributional hand, so he jump raised opener's first suit. South showed slam ambitions with a cue-bid, and when North cooperated by making a return cue-bid, South decided that a small slam would be well within his grasp. West led the queen of spades, and declarer elected to play the hand as a dummy reversal. He won the king of spades, cashed the ace and king of hearts and ruffed a heart with the queen of trumps. Now he led a low diamond and finessed the eight! East won the ace and shifted to the jack of clubs. Declarer won the ace, led a low diamond and finessed the nine. A heart ruff with the king of trumps set up the long heart. Declarer entered dummy with a club ruff, cashed the

Effort By Black Nursing Schools

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — More than 60 percent of the graduates of the three predominantly black nursing schools in the University of North Carolina system failed their licensing examinations last year. But a study released Thursday said the schools were working hard to improve performance. Two years ago, the UNC Board of Governors approved a plan requiring that two-thirds of a school's graduates pass the exam on their first try by 1981 and that three-fourths pass by 1983. The board said it would terminate programs that did not comply. The report presented to the board's planning committee Thursday showed that the schools were far from meeting the goal. But the committee chairman said the board generally felt the schools had made "substantial and adequate" progress and that no immediate action would be taken. Passing rates at N.C. Agricultural and Technical State University in Greensboro went up 26 percent since 1977. Forty-seven percent passed the exam this year. At Winston-Salem State University, the rate went from 26 to 31 percent. But at North Carolina Central University in Durham, the passing rate dropped from 46 percent to 38 percent. Overall, 39 percent of the graduates of the three schools passed the exams, compared with 30 percent in 1977. The passing rate for graduates of the UNC system's five predominantly white nursing programs was 80 percent. The author of the report, Jeanne M. McNally, UNC associated vice president for academic affairs, noted that students taking the exam last year began their studies before the changes were initiated. Many of the changes have not yet taken effect, she said.

Yesterday's Cryptoquip — TODAY THE OLD-FASHIONED GIRL FEARS ONLY STINGERS.
Today's Cryptoquip clue: X equals A

The Cryptoquip is a simple substitution cipher in which each letter used stands for another. If you think that X equals O, it will equal O throughout the puzzle. Single letters, short words, and words using an apostrophe can give you clues to locating vowels. Solution is accomplished by trial and error.
