

County Budget Not All Manager Hoped

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

"What I have recommended will please no one," Pitt County Manager Reginald Gray told county commissioners in his budget message last week. "It is a budget that is not in keeping with what has been our goal and ambition for the citizens of the county in the past...it is a budget with absolutely no frills."

The "no frills" budget Gray referred to is a list of expenditures he has recommended, totaling $23.07 million, as compared with the $25.46 million that had been requested by various departments and agencies funded by the county for the coming fiscal year.

Gray told commissioners Friday, as they took their first look at the 1979-1980 budget, that in preparing the list of expenditures, "I have done so very conservatively."

He explained, "I am very disappointed in our revenue growth." Revenue for the current fiscal year has not exceeded what was anticipated as it has in the past, Gray told the board, adding that other sources of revenue are not keeping pace with inflation.

According to the county manager, assessed property valuation grew only six percent this year, intangible tax collections are expected to decline, and only a six percent growth is expected in sales tax collections during the coming fiscal year, as compared with a 14 percent growth this year.

"It is the first time in my tenure with the county that I can not recommend any appropriation from surplus funds," Gray said. "This alarms me," he emphasized, adding, "if I did recommend use of surplus funds, and we have another year as we have had this year, where revenue projections and actual collections were so close, I believe the financial condition of the county would be hurt."

This year's budget — $22.7 million as approved by commissioners a year ago — was financed with a 95-cent per $100 valuation tax rate. The $23.07 million budget for the coming year, as recommended by Gray, would require a $1.032 tax rate.

The $25.46 million requested by various agencies and departments would require a tax rate of $1.264, Gray explained.

In the budget message, Gray pointed out, "I have prepared the salary recommendations based on a five percent cost of living raise," which at the time, the General Assembly was considering for state employees.

"However," he continued, "as you are aware, the Legislature has done more for state employees, and I would like to see the board do the same for county employees," staying within the President's guidelines.

Gray, who said the largest expense item in the budget is in the area of salaries, has recommended that 17 new employees be hired during the coming year.

Included in his recommendations are two part-time clerks for the Tax Collector's office, two new deputies for the Sheriff's Department (six requested), an additional jailer and matron for the county jail, two new programmers and two computer operators for Data Processing (to be paid for by Pitt County Memorial Hospital), three new employees for Mental Health (to be funded by a federal grant), a new equipment operator for the County Landfill, and three tax clerks for the Tax Supervisor's office to work on revaluation projects.

Other than in the area of salaries, for the most part, there is very little difference between the current budget and the proposed budget.

There are some areas, however, with sizable increases.

Gray has recommended that Buildings and Grounds receive $545,048 for the coming fiscal year, as compared with the present budget of $396,920, and a request which totaled $588,548.

The major increases are a recommended $140,000 for water, lights and fuel ($46,000 this year), and $36,000 for maintenance of the new county office building on west Fifth Street ($10,000 this year). Those increases reflect both rising utility costs in general, and the fact that a number of county offices will move into the renovated facility in the coming year.

Also recommended by Gray is $90,000 for contributions to the 20 rural fire departments in the county ($4,500 each), an increase of $800 each over the budget this year, as well as for Data Processing, from $586,500 this year to $728,300 for the coming year — mostly in the areas of salaries, and in rental of equipment ($418,650 for the fiscal year as compared with $347,800 for equipment rental this year).

An increase in salaries for the county's communications center, from $59,900 this year to a recommended $71,712, and an increased outlay for rescue squads are included in Gray's recommendations.

As proposed, Greenville would receive $30,400, the same amount as last year, while appropriations for other squads would increase.

Carter Health Care Plan Faces Election-Year Fate

By JANET STAIHAR
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's proposal to limit a family's annual health-care bill to $2,500 appears destined for an election-year congressional struggle with overtones of presidential politics.

Influential Democrats who would guide health insurance legislation are, for the most part, cautiously critical of the latest in Carter's national health insurance plans.

Most appeared unwilling to pick a direct fight with the president over HealthCare, as his proposal is called. But Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who introduced his own version of national health insurance last month, labeled Carter's plan "inflationary and too inequitable."

"The bottom line is...we can't afford it," Kennedy told a news conference.

Carter's limited health care plan would combine Medicare and state-run Medicaid plans for the poor in a program estimated to cost $23 billion to $25 billion in 1983, the first year it would be in effect.

The bulk of that would go for the federal takeover of Medicaid plans.

Carter's plan would also: —Protect everyone against the costs of catastrophic illness by ending limits on Medicare payments and requiring private health insurance plans to limit a family's liability for hospital and medical bills to $2,500 a year.

The elderly and disabled would not have to pay more than half that, or $1,250.

—Guarantee free prenatal care and delivery to all pregnant women, regardless of what plan covers them. Their children would have free care for the first year.

—Require employers to pay at least 75 percent of all health insurance premiums. Employees or their unions could bargain with individual companies to increase that share.

As Carter outlined his limited approach, he was flanked by several long-time congressional backers of a variety of health insurance plans — including Reps. James Corman, D-Calif., and Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., the two who will introduce Carter's plan in the House.

Rangel, chairman of one of two health subcommittees that will consider the plan, said "it falls short of what many of us wanted," although adding that he was pleased the administration was finally sending its long-awaited legislation to Capitol Hill.

The chairman of the House Commerce health subcommittee, Rep. Henry A. Waxman, D-Calif., had a mixed reaction. "While the president's proposal falls short of meeting many of my major concerns," Waxman said, "it's a program which demonstrates a commitment to do more than simply provide catastrophic health care coverage."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., who said he was

Health Bill To Chiefly Assist The Most Needy

By MICHAEL PUTZEL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The unemployed, the working poor, pregnant women, infants and the elderly who fall seriously ill are the people most likely to receive tangible benefits under President Carter's national health plan.

If you or a member of your family works full-time, the president's proposal could benefit you in several ways, but estimates vary widely on the number of people who actually would be affected by one or more of the plan's provisions.

Here are some examples of the plan's possible effect on specific groups if the measure were enacted by Congress and were to go into operation as scheduled in 1983.

—Full-time workers and their families:

All employees would be required to provide — as most already do — some form of health insurance for every employee who works at least 25 hours a week for 10 consecutive weeks. The employee's family also would have to be covered.

At a minimum, the plan would have to cover any family's out-of-pocket health costs over $2,500 a year. This is so-called catastrophic coverage. The White House says 56 million workers and their families have no such protection now. The insurance industry says there has been enormous growth in the sale of catastrophic coverage since 1970, and three out of four people under 65 years old now have it.

The families of full-time workers would include children through their 22nd birthday or through age 26 if they remain dependant on their parents or if they are full-time students.

—Pregnant women and infants:

The plan would give free prenatal care, delivery and pediatric care, including preventive or so-called well-baby care, to all expectant mothers and infants before the child's first birthday regardless of economic status.

—The elderly: Limits on reimbursement of Medicare beneficiaries who are hospitalized for extended periods would be removed, and no one would have to pay more than $1,250 for hospital and medical care in any one year. The federally-run Medicare program now picks up most health care bills for the elderly, except in cases of extended hospitalization or consignment to nursing homes, when government support tapers off over time.

—The unemployed:

People out of work would still be covered under their former employers' insurance policies for 90 days, and if they couldn't find new jobs, they could qualify for coverage under the federally-run HealthCare system.

Utilities Approve Operating Budgets

By STUART MORGAN
Reflector Staff Writer

The Greenville Utilities Commission Tuesday night approved proposed annual operating budgets for 1979-80 for water, sewer, gas and electric funds at $1,597,500, $1,223,600, $2,996,600, and $27,430,000 respectively. The budgets will be submitted to the City Council tonight at 8 p.m.

The following continuing capital project funds, separate from the regular budgets, were also approved: $14,678,000 (water); $1,039,625 (sewer); and $5,000,000 (electric).

The commission also awarded a $38,000 contract to The Pitometer Associates, New York, N.Y., for a survey needed to study water distribution facilities, provide recommendations for additions and provide information on a new plant operating head in Greenville.

In addition, the commission last night awarded the following funds based on lowest and best bids: $39,200 to Rigby Electric Supply Company for 100-25 KVA Pole Type Transformers; $44,100 also to Rigby for approximately 75,000 feet of Cable; $8,752.38 to Cement Asbestos Products Company for 3,822 feet of six inch ACP pipes; $8,450 to John-Manville Sales for 2,600 feet of six inch PVC pipes; and $19,439.20 to Hub Uniform Company, Inc., for uniforms for approximately 182 employees of Greenville Utilities.

During last night's meeting, the commission also decided to permit construction of a water line prior to January 1980 along Belvoir Road, an area having 70 undeveloped lots and 53 potential customers, according to Charles O.H. Horne Jr., director of the Greenville Utilities Commission.

The initial cost of extending the water service ($63,000) will be lowered to $43,000 due to the $5,000 contribution of a developer along Belvoir Road and a possible $15,000 state grant.

Edward C. Askew, manager of Support Services for Greenville Utilities, delivered a report to the commission during last night's meeting concerning the progress of a survey being conducted throughout North Carolina on longevity pay plans.

Askew announced that the surveys, requesting information on the longevity pay plans from 52 other local governments throughout the state, were sent Monday by mail.

He added that he expected from 50 to 75 percent of the surveys to be completed and returned, pointing out that the deadline for doing so will be no later than July 2.

In addition, the commission received a report updating the cost estimates made during preliminary design work for construction of the new water treatment plant.

According to the report, $11,606,000 is the updated cost estimate of the project. With a completed water line, the updated total cost of the project is $12,024,000.

Upon receiving the report, the commission authorized that the design phase of the work on the plant and water mains be continued. The plans are expected to be completed around January 1980.

It was also revealed last night that Virginia Electric and Power Company (VEPCO) has proposed to file an application with the Federal Regulatory Commission for an increase in basic rates and in the excess facilities charge no later than July 31.

VEPCO has requested of the Energy Commission that the increased rates be allowed to become effective 60 days from July 31, the date the request will be filed.

VEPCO explained that the rate increase (approximately 7.4 percent for wholesale municipal customers as a group) was made as a result of a recent cost-of-service study.

The additional revenue requirement will be created in substantial part when North Anna Nuclear Generating Unit Two begins commercial operation.

The reduction in fuel costs attributable to the North Anna Unit Two will automatically be passed on to the wholesale municipal customers in its entirety through the operation of the present fuel adjustment clause. Electricities attorneys will request delay and oppose the increase.

The Utilities Commission also proposed last night to set a basic water facilities charge of $1.50 to each Request authorization for the Department of Transportation to install thermoplastic pavement markings on non-state system streets in the city limits; consideration of a budget amendment; Traffic Commission recommendation; scheduling of public hearings on rezoning requests and consideration of a recommendation by the Planning and Zoning Commission for disapproval of a rezoning request;

Scheduling of a public hearing on an amendment to the zoning ordinance: consideration of the acceptance of Arlington Boulevard from Hooker Road to Evans Street; adoption of a resolution requesting D.O.T. to delete Moye

Boulevard from the state highway system and adding the road to the city street system;

Request by the Greenville Jaycees to conduct the July 4th celebration and consideration of a request by the club for a waiver of privilege license requirements; Applications for beer privilege licenses; request for the refund of a taxicab driver's permit; tax releases for 1978; and consideration of a request by local taxicab companies for an increase in taxicab rates.

Twenty Items Of Business Face City Council

Feminist Center Helps Men, Too

By RICHARD HUGHES
NEW YORK (UPI) — What's in a name? A lot, according to the Feminist Center for Human Growth and Development.

Knowing mere mention of the word "feminist" can conjure up threatening images in the male mind of uppity heterosexual and militant lesbian women plotting mischief, the founders of the center gave it considerable thought.

"We struggled with the name for a long time," said Dr. Charlotte Schwab, a psychotherapist and executive director of the institute. "We felt we had to make a statement. We could have called it a Nonsexist Center but we had to make it clear what we are about."

"It was a conscious act to use that name, in fact. It is taking a risk to make that kind of statement in a culture which is sexist, but we had to do it." The center describes itself as "the first and only non-profit institute with the goal of developing a theory of personality in women and men which is accurate, non-destructive and nonsexist."

The center, the staff of which includes both female and male therapists, offers small group and individual therapy programs and workshops for men and women, women only, men only, and for families, including children.

A sample of the workshops being offered this spring is illustrative of the institute's approach:

—Women: Self & Identity: "Learning self-support, self-esteem, self-actualization, risk-taking, to receive and give support, eliminating gender role stereotyping, assertiveness-energy toward personhood..."

—Assertion Training Workshop: "How do I ask for what I want? How do I maximize my chances for getting what I want? How do I take control over what happens to me? In this workshop, we will help you renew your power for self-direction."

—Assertiveness Training for Mothers: "Are you trying to be super-mom? Assertiveness training can give mothers and children tools for asking for what they want, refusing unfair requests, discovering their rights, providing alternatives to passive or aggressive behavior."

—Homophobia: "Homophobia — traditionally, the fear by men of other men. How does this gut-level emotional response keep men away from men? The basic idea in this workshop is the suggestion that homophobia may be a real fear of loving oneself, and the responsibility and error that this brings to most men."

—Male Sexuality: "Another way to look at sexuality, sensuality, in men. How the sexual pressures — performing, scoring, finding out the latest kinky thing to do, competing with ourselves, getting it up, ejaculating 'on time,' the 'must' of orgasm — keep men ... from their real sexual-emotional needs."

According to Dr. Schwab and Irene Javors, the center's director of research, the purpose of the program is to help women find their own sense of self by helping them free themselves from the social, economic, political and cultural bondage of a society dominated by male values. At the same time, they want to help men free themselves from the bondage of a male society that frowns on men accepting in themselves such female values as sensitivity and gentleness.

"More and more men are coming to the center," said Dr. Schwab. "The kind of man who is threatened by us is closed, controlling and dominating. That kind of man is very frightened by us. But the man who is aware, open, feels he has a right to emotions like tenderness and caring and can identify with feelings, is coming in. In the last group for men and women on issues for single people we had more men than women. That is an indication that we can get men who are not frightened."

The idea for the center was the outgrowth of a chance meeting between Dr. Schwab and Ms. Javors. The two women found they had been thinking along the same lines. As Dr. Schwab explains:

"I had been germinating the idea that a new institute was needed, one not based on Freudian sexist practices, which use a masculinist model that holds that a 'healthy' woman is passive and dependent, a 'healthy' man is assertive, independent and dominant and a 'healthy' adult is assertive, independent and dominant — in other words, a healthy male. Therefore, a woman is in a double-bind. If she is a 'healthy' woman, she cannot be a healthy adult. If she is a 'healthy' adult, she cannot be a 'healthy' woman."

"Our center has developed a theory and techniques that take into account the sexist stereotyping of society and help an individual learn the skills necessary to assess the choices and take the risks to realize her own — or his own — unique integrated dynamic sense of self and to achieve self-actualization."

From their own experiences as therapists in private practice, they were painfully aware of the common practice of the predominantly white male psychiatric profession to "treat" women with potent psychoactive drugs and long-term psychotherapy to "adjust them, drug them and lock them up." The Feminist Center takes a non-drug, non-Freudian holistic approach to help each individual find the center of her own existence and worth, Dr. Schwab said.

In fact, she said, much of the work of the center's staff is undoing the damage of tranquilizers and anti-depressant drugs. She told of a woman who had been seeing a well-known psychiatrist for more than 20 years, paying the man more than $80,000 over that period for "therapy calculated to serve the therapist's economic needs rather than the woman's need to find her own identity."

For the last 10 years of her treatment, the woman took lithium, which kept her "on an even keel and kept her believing she had been cured of her depression but in fact kept her in a submissive role," according to Dr. Schwab. "After a few weeks of work with us at the center, the woman stopped taking lithium and really has gotten it together."

"She is following a nutritional program to achieve a healthy bio-chemical balance and excrete the toxins she has accumulated from the drug. She is asserting herself economically, intellectually and spiritually."

This is just one example of the many women and men who have been helped by the holistic approach of the Feminist Center, which also provides a program to train individuals who want to become "nonsexist therapists," said Dr. Schwab.

He Rated With Ex; Reunited 14 Years

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A reader asks, "How do I get back with No. 1?" Here's how I did it. My wife and I had been divorced for three months.

I missed her like crazy, so I sent flowers with a note, "I miss you, Baby. Love, Allen."

She phoned to thank me, and asked if I wanted to stop by that evening. I went. We talked and cried and hugged and kissed. Then I asked if I could spend the night. She said, "Not tonight. I have a headache." We both had a good laugh because that was a private joke between us.

We admitted that we still loved each other, and decided to try again. It's been 14 years and we're still in love.

L.A. LOVE STORY

DEAR ABBY: I married the same woman three times! She had two husbands in between marriages and I had three wives.

The only ones who came out ahead were the lawyers. Take my advice and move out, cool off, separate if necessary, but don't get a divorce unless you're positive you never want to see each other again.

ALSO SORRY IN FRESNO

DEAR ABBY: I'm only a 13-year-old kid, but I've been through a lot. My mother divorced my father when I was 8. I can't count the number of times she went back to him because she thought it would be better for us kids. It wasn't. Tell the lady who divorced her husband to stay divorced until she can find a man who will give her a better life than her first husband.

CHILD OF DIVORCE

DEAR ABBY: Tell SORRY IN ST. JO, who is considering remarrying her ex, to forget it.

I married the man I said no to half a dozen times. He was the world's smoothest salesman. I finally said yes. He drank and chased, so I divorced him two years later. He wouldn't leave me alone, so like a fool I let him talk me into marrying him again. It didn't work out.

I'm free now. I hear he went to Australia. I hope he stays there.

STUCK TWICE

DEAR ABBY: I'm a man who remarried my ex. It was dumb. I made the same mistake twice.

ROY IN WOBURN, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: Tell SORRY IN ST. JO not to remarry her ex unless the reason they split up has been resolved.

Gary and I were very much in love when we married. Our problem was too much family interference on both sides. After 10 years and three children, they succeeded in breaking up our marriage. We couldn't live without each other, so we decided to move away from both families and try again. We moved from New Jersey to California 10 years ago, and couldn't be happier.

HAPPY TRANSPLANTS

DEAR ABBY: A divorced woman signed NAMELESS asked if she should let her boyfriend sleep with her while her 15-year-old son was home. I'm glad you said no.

When I was 15 I caught my mother in bed with her boyfriend. I hated it. It hurt me to the core. My respect for my mother dropped so far it wouldn't even register on a scale.

It hurt me to see someone I loved being "used" by a man who couldn't control his urges until after marriage.

JOHN

DEAR JOHN: Why did you assume your mother was "used" by a man who couldn't control his urges? Maybe she used him because she couldn't control her urges.

Or, possibly, nobody used anybody — it was an act of mutual consent.

DEAR ABBY: You wrote, "fly to others you know not of." Abby, that is bad grammar. There is an old saying, "Never a preposition use to end a sentence with."

EDWIN IN TORRANCE

Price Reunion Held

LEGGETT — The descendants of Ben S. Price and the families of his brothers and sisters met for a reunion Sunday at the home of Robert and Dorothy Price Jones near this Martin County community.

According to Mrs. Sam (Martha) Bland, daughter of Ben Price, of Rt. 1, Fountain, there were four generations represented. She said family members came from as far away as Washington, D. C., Charleston, S. C. and Louisiana.

Gifts were given, she said, to the youngest present — two months; the oldest present — 81 years; and the one who traveled the greatest distance to attend — 1,300 miles. Everyone signed the family register, which showed that about 175 persons were present.

The meal was barbecue cooked in an old-fashioned pig cooker and Brunswick stew cooked in a wash pot. Cooks were Junior Price, Robert Jones and Mrs. Sue Price Lee.

when buying a wedding gift—think "double duty." For multi-purpose gifts often have a greater chance of being used. Especially if storage space is limited in the newlyweds' home.

So consider buying combination appliances—such as a can opener with a knife sharpener attached. But stay away from gadget equipment. For most newlyweds have little use for extra special-purpose appliances.

Slow cookers or ceramic fry pans make good double duty gifts. Both husband and wife can enjoy cooking with them. And as a bonus, many slow cookers and ceramic fry pans can be used as attractive serving dishes when the food is ready.

Consider the possibility of buying a blender for the happy pair. Even a two-speed model has multiple uses. And a simple—rather than complex—blender may be more satisfactory both to the couple—and your pocketbook.

If you are able to spend a little more money, a portable barbecue grill could be the perfect gift.

If the couple loves gardening and has the space for a plot, think about selecting some all-purpose garden tools.

When it comes to buying a wedding present, think "double duty" in equipment and appliances. You can make both newlyweds happy with one versatile gift.

Longshoring Job Helps Pay For Ballet Lessons

By JOHN J. MULLINS
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — A few years ago, Mark Dovey would finish work for the day as a longshoreman on the Vancouver, British Columbia, waterfront and head for his ballet lessons.

It's a formula that's paid off. He's danced with Rudolf Nureyev, and today he is dancing, singing and acting the role of Greg in "A Chorus Line" at the Shubert Theatre.

The Vancouver native is 27 years old, 5-foot-11 and 155 pounds "of solid muscle." He began studying ballet when he was 21, seven or eight years later than usual for a male.

His first classes were with girls 5 and 6 years old, "and they were so scared of me," he said in a recent interview.

There were days when he didn't have time to clean up between work and ballet, and he'd arrive for classes grimy and grease-covered.

"They were so much looser than I was," he added. He was 25 pounds heavier than he is now. The dancing built up his legs; his job built up his chest and arms.

It began when he was a fourth-year student at the University of British Columbia — studying geography, history and English ("nothing to do with the theater.") intending to become a secondary-school teacher.

He joined an amateur musical production of "West Side Story" at the university "to relieve the boredom. It was the best thing I ever did," he said.

In Vancouver, "the idea that you could make it on Broadway was outrageous. I started reading magazines. I realized people could make a living at it (dancing). I shocked everyone. I quit (college)."

CAREER CHANGE—Mark Dovey, 27, talks in his dressing room at Boston's Shubert Theater about his days as a longshoreman in Vancouver, British Columbia. His work paid for ballet lessons that led to a career as a dancer. Today he is dancing, singing and acting the role of Greg in "A Chorus Line."

He gave himself three years to make good as a dancer and said if he were not making money, he would quit. He drew his first pay as a professional dancer three years and two months later.

Dovey said that when he had left school his family had told him he would have to move out if he wasn't making money, "so I had to take a job."

The work that paid the best was as a longshoreman, but it was also hard, uncomfortable and dangerous.

"If I had to do it again, I'd never do it," Dovey said. His ballet classes after work lasted three hours.

He had been active in athletics and student government and found his new life of work and ballet classes a monastic existence "no friends, no social life, no restaurants."

He worked as a longshoreman for one year, which entitled him to one year of unemployment benefits. This enabled him to take three dance classes a day, and he added jazz and folk dancing classes to the ballet lessons. During his third year of classes, he worked as a mailman.

He took a chance, bought a $600 airplane ticket and flew to Toronto to audition for "A Chorus Line." He was hired and played in the show in Toronto and London.

He left the show and returned to Canada to do many television specials and commercials. He was lead dancer in the Pacific Ballet Theatre, danced with Nureyev in "Swan Lake" and also appeared with him in the film "Valentino."

Tense Truce For The Lettuce Fields

SALINAS, Calif. (AP) — A tense truce prevailed in the Salinas Valley, but no further incidents were reported after a violent confrontation between striking United Farm Workers members and nonunion workers, authorities said.

Monterey County sheriff's deputies said several hundred pickets marched peacefully Tuesday at fields along a 70-mile stretch of farmland.

It was in the same general area, between Watsonville and King City, that 1,400 striking workers clashed with deputies and nonunion workers Monday.

More than 100 persons were arrested and 24 were injured during an eight-hour period when several incidents were reported. Both sides were reported armed with tire irons, clubs and crowbars.

It was the worst confrontation since the strike involving lettuce field workers began five months ago. The UFW is trying to get 28 growers to agree to union contract terms.

The 4,200 farm workers employed by the growers earn a base rate of $3.70 an hour. The UFW is demanding a 40 percent increase, while the growers have offered a three-year contract with annual raises of about 7 percent, consistent with President Carter's wage-price guidelines. Since the walkout began Jan. 19, growers say more than $4 million in vegetables have rotted unharvested.

Ruling A Blow To Handicapped

A U. S. Supreme Court decision Monday that handicapped persons have no legal right to attend a school, if they do not meet the physical qualifications of the school, is a blow to all handicapped citizens of our nation.

The ruling involved a handicapped woman who was turned down for the nursing program at Southeastern Community College in Whiteville.

The applicant was academically qualified but had a hearing problem.

A concern about the ruling is that it leaves very unclear the meaning of "qualified" for a handicapped person. Our society abounds with people who have accomplished great things, despite severe handicaps. Helen Keller is a prime example.

Will, desire and energy carry people quite far in this world, and frequently it is handicapped people who exhibit these qualities to the greatest degree. They have to get anywhere. Everybody can't accomplish everything they might desire in this world, but we hate to think that many people with handicaps won't realize their career dreams because they can't get the initial training they need.

Presumably The Saga Is Over For N.C.

Joan Little has been paroled by North Carolina authorities and has left the state for New York.

It might not be surprising if some don't recall that Miss Little was acquitted in North Carolina of a murder charge which brought international attention to Beaufort County. She was serving a previously imposed sentence for breaking and entering.

Alternatives In Growth

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — There are attractive and profitable alternatives to putting most of the economic growth emphasis in North Carolina on industrial — manufacturing — expansion, a number of experts feel.

Labor Commissioner John Brooks opened the door to what he considers an over-emphasis on industrial expansion in the state several months ago when he criticized current directions as not aimed at economic growth but rather at industrialization.

Now, researchers at the privately sponsored North Carolina Center for Public Policy Research worry about similar indications.

"The state must recognize the potential risk over the long run of too much emphasis on manufacturing.

"Increased competition from abroad, not just in textile manufacture but also in the manufacture of higher-technology goods, and the greater sensitivity of manufacturing employment to cyclical changes in the economy make additional dependence on manufacturing a precarious strategy", that group feels.

Differences

A critical part of the problem is that apparently similar development strategies are being placed into effect for the entire state, without recognizing the distinct differences which exist from one region of the state to another; from one community to another.

The short run aim of providing manufacturing jobs for rural residents seems essential and effective, the research group noted in its recent examination of economic development in the state. "However, the best way to get more jobs in rural areas might be through incentives to encourage expanding North Carolina firms to locate there. The state has potentially greater influence over the management decisions of the many manufacturing firms within its boundaries than it does over the decisions of companies located elsewhere," that report states.

But still, making new jobs in rural areas mostly in manufacturing should be only an interim measure.

"In the long run, the state should seek to encourage alternative occupations for the people in these areas that are more consistent with national trends and more likely to contribute to their economic stability", the researchers concluded.

What kind of alternatives? Agriculture and related industries is vital, and the state's "prime agricultural land should not be diverted to industrial uses, and special incentives should be developed to encourage the expansion of agricultural production," the report says. Others mentioned include recreation and leisure time activities, and health-related industries.

Resources

Current medical centers and educational facilities could serve as the nucleus for developments in the health field. Natural attributes of the Variety Vacationland offer substantial potential as "Americans increasingly try to use their leisure time more efficiently and as foreigners find the United States a less expensive vacation place."

Regional and local planning groups with wide citizen participation are suggested by the research group as central necessities to a community attempting to define its potential and to adopt steps necessary to achieve the goals which the residents choose.

The research group suggests that resources of the University of North Carolina system could well be directed at helping accomplish the tasks.

The Skylab Is Falling

WASHINGTON — It isn't too early to start thinking about Skylab. The latest report indicates that Skylab will fall on us "somewhere between June 20 and July 14." Hundreds of pieces of flotsam, some weighing as much as 5,000 lbs., will drop from the sky — God only knows where. Its "footprint" is said to be 100 miles wide and 4,000 miles long. According to Las Vegas bookmakers, the chances of a piece hitting a person are 150 to 1. The chances of it hitting you personally are obviously much less.

But we all know people who take a bleak view of everything and they are the ones who believe that if Skylab is going to fall out of the sky, it will fall on them.

Buzzword is in this category. Ever since he read that the space laboratory was a goner he's been biting his fingernails. "I know it's going to fall on me. I just know it."

"How can you be so sure?"

"There are four billion people on this planet. Maybe, with luck, it will land on the Ayatollah Khomeini."

"This is serious," Buzzword retorted. "Do you know that Walter Cronkite has canceled his vacation so he can cover it when it falls?"

"Walter's always been interested in the space program. He covered Skylab going up, so obviously he wants to see what happens when it falls down. But just because he's worried, doesn't mean that you have to be worried."

"Maybe," said Buzzword, "I should build a Skylab shelter. Then I'd be the only one safe when the sirens sound."

"I wouldn't if I were you," I warned him. "If people find out that you have a Skylab shelter and they don't, they might shoot you to get into it."

"What am I going to do?" he cried. "It will be just my luck that I'll be waiting at a gas station on the 4th of July weekend for three hours, and when I get to the pump a solar panel will come whizzing through the roof of my car."

Glum Party Crowd

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
 AP Special Correspondent
 NEW YORK (AP) — The cocktail party is dead.

That's the word you hear at cocktail parties these days, if you can find any survivors of the species.

The cocktail party crowd used to go around saying that God is dead. But God is alive and in his heaven, even if all is not right with the world, and now it's the cocktail party that is dead.

Most mourners attribute the death of the cocktail party to other than supernatural sources. The Wake, which is expected to be a long and wet one, has echoed with many lamentations and explanations.

Some accuse the current abstemious administration in Washington, with its aversion to the three-martini lunch, of burying the cocktail party under a policy of benign neglect. They say it's easier to get a drink after sundown in Saudi Arabia these days than in the East Room of the White House where Abigail Adams used to hang her wash and many famous historic personages since then have hung on.

The death of the Washington cocktail party, unless the obituaries are premature, brings to a close nearly a century and a half of Capitol conviviality which Andrew Jackson is believed to have inaugurated at his inaugural.

The Schlesingers (Arthur Sr. and Jr., not James) wrote about it: You remember, the revelers getting spaced out on corn liquor and applejack and some unpleasantness about an enormous smelly cheese from Herkimer, N.Y., that someone busted open with an axe, ruining the brocade drapes that Dolly Madison had rescued from the fire set by British troops in the War of 1812?

Anyhow, it was quite a blast, virtually unequalled until Ulysses S. Grant and Warren G. Harding brought their fondness for the cup that

Moynihan On The Ticket?

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — After three separate newsmen had called his office about a rumor that President Carter had hinted about a place on the national ticket for him in 1980, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York felt he had no other recourse than to telephone Vice President Walter F. Mondale.

In his witty style, Moynihan told the vice president he had some good news and some bad news. The good news was that funds for a federal office building in Queens, a project jointly cooperated in by Moynihan and Mondale, had been released. The bad news was that somebody was spreading untrue rumors about Moynihan supplanting Mondale for vice president.

Mondale replied in kind, saying that wasn't bad news at all and that he would be delighted by the change. He was only kidding, of course. In fact, Mondale's staff was not at all amused by the latest variant of the dump-Fritz rumor, simmering for well over a year.

Moreover, many well-placed Democratic politicians are so worried about Republican capture of Catholic voters next year that they want Mondale replaced by a Catholic. Since Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is presumably unavailable, the names most often mentioned are New York's Gov. Hugh Carey and Pat Moynihan.

The story that spread through Washington last week had Carter coyly feeling out Moynihan's availability for vice president during a May 15 White House luncheon, also attended by Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Moynihan.

That luncheon had been set up by top presidential aide Hamilton Jordan to smooth battered relations between the president and the senator.

Moynihan flatly denies the vice presidency was even mentioned over lunch. According to the senator, the first half-hour was spent discussing Mrs. Moynihan's prospective new book. Moynihan then gingerly suggested they might talk politics, but there was no talk whatever of the vice presidential nomination.

A Pinch Of Salt

When the governors two months ago asked President Carter to beef up American trade abroad and explain what they could do to help, Carter promised to send his top officials to a series of regional conferences to explain problems of world trade. Nobody expected, however, this would be served with SALT.

Without invitation, Carter threw in an added starter: retired Lt. Gen. George M. Seignious II, director of the Disarmament Agency and chief salesman of the new strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT II).

The first regional "trade" conference set up by the White House — in Seattle June 6 — was Seignious' show. He had more than one hour on stage, selling SALT to several hundred businessmen from the states of Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Splitting the balance of the time were more senior Carter officials, some of whom got far less time than Seignious. From the cabinet were Juanita Kreps (Commerce), Robert Bergland (Agriculture) and Ray Marshall (Labor). Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, Export-Import Bank Chairman John Moore and several other top officials also were on hand.

Seignious, singing the praises of SALT II, had the prize speaking hour at lunch, discussing a question with only dim connections to world trade.

Leaning On Stennis

President Carter's ace-in-the-hole SALT supporter in the forthcoming Senate battle may turn out to be a long-time leader of the traditional pro-defense block Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Stennis confides to intimates that a Senate rejection of the treaty could be interpreted around the world as a signal that the U.S. govern-

To the editor:

The recent result of the $9 million School Bond referendum dismays many individuals. It distresses these citizens, since many supporters maintain the passage of the bond issue would provide essential money for capital improvement.

"Every cloud has a silver lining" is an adage which may be appropriately expressed regarding this present situation. For many, the rejection of this issue is a bitter, ominous reality. Those supporters of the bond referendum, however, may take solace that the defeat of this issue may lead to schools in which students will improve their competency levels in all subjects by virtue of the new attention focused upon teachers and administrators.

Rather than approving monies for school buildings and auditoriums, the bond result sets forth that money should be possibly spent for an improved quality of instruction. Rather than approving tax increases for landscaping the school grounds, the bond outcome purports the creation of learning environments in which students can master reading, writing and arithmetic within any classroom. Rather than approving monies for the political decision to build new dwellings, the bond result may inspire the educational initiative to enhance teaching and learning.

When school opens in the fall, we all may be able to assess the real impact of this bond referendum. We may be able to understand that it is not as important what the appearance of the dwelling is as it is what quality, what instruction, what learning goes on within each building's classrooms. The citizens of Pitt County may have profoundly articulated this message last Friday.

John W. Maye Jr.

"You've got to look at the big picture," I told him. "There is nothing that says Skylab will even fall down in the United States. It could be strewn all across the Soviet Union or China or the Riviera. That's the beauty of Skylab. Every country in the world has an equal chance of being dumped on. If I know our people at NASA they're going to do everything in their power to see that it doesn't fall on the United States — because if it does their budget is going to be cut."

"What I don't understand," Buzzword said, "is why they would put up a space laboratory if they knew it would eventually fall down."

"They didn't think it would fall down until some time in the next century, and by then most of the people who sent it up would be on retirement pay and wouldn't have to deal with it. Believe me, they're as upset about their calculations as you are. They've hired a battery of lawyers to handle the class action suits that will come out of it."

"Suppose a piece of it hits a nuclear energy plant?" he wanted to know.

40 Years Ago Today

June 13, 1939

Covering 56 miles of dirt and hard-surfaced roads north of Greenville, an estimated 50 Pitt County farm men and women and 4-H Club boys and girls this afternoon completed the last phase of the third annual farm tour of the county.

This year's tour, which carried the rural residents over 131 miles of fertile farming lands in the county, ended around 5 this afternoon. 75 miles were covered yesterday on farms south of Greenville.

An arithmetic textbook used over 100 years ago by a former prominent Greenville lawyer, the late E.C. Yellowby, was found in the old Satterthwaite home near Washington recently by Joe Febre while he was plastering the home's walls.

The book bore the inscription, "The property of E.C. Yellowby, December 28, 1836," showing the book was in use 103 years ago.

Yellowby once owned most of the property which is now College View.

Strength For Today

THE COMMITMENT

Seventy-five years ago, William James, psychologist and philosopher who taught at Harvard, was one of the most notable luminaries of his profession. He had the unusual capacity of being able to write in simple terms about the most learned matters.

In one of his writings James said, "My attitude toward religion is that of deference rather than adoption." This reminds us of the French philosopher Voltaire, who once said as he raised his hat when a funeral procession passed by, "God and I bow, but we do not speak."

How different this attitude is from that of the New Testament. There we have commitment at the very center of all teaching. A Christian, unlike Voltaire, both bows to God and speaks. Likewise, as compared with William James, the Christian both reveres religion and embraces it.

The Gamble That Did Pay Off

By JOHN CUNIFF
 AP Business Analyst

BOSTON (AP) — Beyond the window a seagull sweeps by the spar of a boat anchored near the great stone wharf. The granite buildings across the harbor still seem ready to receive cargoes of cocoa and leather.

An unlikely place, it would seem, for a magazine that aims to be a consultant in modern management to "smaller" companies, those with sales between $1 million and $25 million, or maybe a bit more or less.

Understandable, though, when you consider that "Inc.," a new magazine for small business, is part of an organization whose origins are marine.

Inc. appeared suddenly, audaciously and unrequested this spring in 400,000 business mailboxes, hoping that these or other small businesses eventually would pay to have it continue.

Audacious it was. As Paul Kellam, editorial director, puts it: "A readable Harvard Business Review for small business... a management tool for the harried chief executive that he could find nowhere else."

There would be an emphasis on problem solving, on share experiences, "not on profiles or history, but on how a top executive solved a problem, or failed to solve it." It would teach, but not pedantically.

It was a gamble but, in entrepreneurial style, one buttressed by faith. As small businessmen, Inc.'s founders felt nobody was more neglected than the ordinary, independent business person. Experience told them.

They knew too that others felt the same way. Smith's Machine Shop, as it's been said, can't be treated like General Motors. And yet, the law sometimes tried to do so. And big government, business and unions too.

Inc. didn't have the usual gestation. A staff was assembled last fall and a slick, full color edition was out by April, in time to catch the eye of ad managers before they closed their budgets for 1980.

The goal of publisher Bernard Goldhirsh and Kellam was to serve "particularly those passing from the entrepreneurial stage to the professional," a phase they had recently gone through themselves.

The new venture was capitalized at $2 million, a vastly different endowment than that which financed his first publication, "SAIL," which evolved from a celestial navigation course Goldhirsh devised in order to eat.

That was in the mid-1960s when, just graduated from of M.I.T. and with a yearning to teach, he spent all his money on a floating classroom, sailing the Caribbean, teaching youngsters about various disciplines.

SAIL succeeded. Others publications followed: MOTORBOAT and MARINE BUSINESS magazines, SAILBOAT AND EQUIPMENT DIRECTORY, and MOTORBOAT AND EQUIPMENT DIRECTORY, all published by United Marine Publishing, Inc.

Faculty Members Appear In Programs

ECU News Bureau
Several East Carolina University faculty members recently appeared at state and national professional programs, as speakers and discussion leaders.

Donald Sexauer of the ECU School of Art was main speaker at a meeting of the Institute of Business Designers, Carolinas Chapter, at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem.

The conference theme, "Art and Corporate Environment," was carried out in Sexauer's presentation, which concerned the printmaking process and such curatorial services as framing, matting and storage.

He also participated in a panel discussion at the Southeastern Center for Contemporary Art. Dr. Mel Markowski of the ECU School of Home Economics spoke on "The Mistaken Games Parents and Teachers Play" at the annual meeting of the North American Society of Adlerian Psychology in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Conducting a clinic discussion at the Greensboro conference of the N.C. Association for Research in Education was Dr. Mabel Laughter of the School of Education.

The discussion focused on differentiated instruction in the classroom.

Drs. John Maiolo, Marty Zusman and Fred Wolinsky of the ECU Department of Sociology and Anthropology appeared on the program at the annual meetings of the Southern Sociological Society in Atlanta, where they reported on their research.

Dr. David Knox, author of a recently published textbook, was honored at a reception given by its publisher, Scott Foresman Publishing Co. in conjunction with the Atlanta conference.

ment is unable to function. Whether Stennis himself is convinced of this or is simply reflecting fears relayed to him by the president, is a matter of Senate conjecture.

But a decision by Stennis to vote for SALT II could influence the decision of a rising Senate star: Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia, a protégé of Stennis and one of his greatest Senate admirers.

Stennis was responsible for Nunn's appointment to the Armed Services Committee. Although Nunn has cast many votes contrary to those of Stennis, some friends of both feel that on so vital an issue as SALT II, Stennis' position could sway Nunn.

Teddy In Florida
The pervasive spread of the draft-Kennedy movement has reached the point that the top political operative of a key Carter backer in Florida is in the forefront of that state's draft-Kennedy movement.

Besides being a member of the Democratic National Committee in his own right, Sergio Bendixen is district manager for Rep. William Lehman. The congressman has promised to name only supporters of President Carter to the Florida state convention in November, which Kennedy backers hope will pump up a nationwide Kennedy draft.

Bendixen is playing a key role in that movement. He has helped open draft-Kennedy offices not only in Lehman's North Miami district but also in Jacksonville and Tampa.

cheers to the Oval Office.

A number of social scientists blame the sudden demise of the cocktail party on the rapid rise of jogging, the Scarsdale Diet and so-called body consciousness. The old double Scotch and extra dry martini with a twist just packed too many calories to hack it on the calorie chart at Weight Watchers.

A faint craving for white wine or bottled French spring water has replaced what Christopher Morley once defined as "that faint but sensitive enteric expectancy which suggests the desirability of a cocktail."

Otherwise known in John Updike circles as "dinkey-poo time."

The popularity of less potent elixirs in mixed company can only prove detrimental to gossip columnists, New Yorker cartoonists, alimony lawyers, TV talk show emcees and others who make a living from the foibles of the frolicsome. ## Still Seek To Identify Delta Jet's Hijacker

By DAN SEWELL
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Eduardo Guerra Jimenez once begged for permission to renounce asylum in the United States. Now authorities are trying to determine whether the former Cuban air force lieutenant commandeered a Delta Airlines jet to return to his native Cuba.

The bearded man who hijacked a flight to Havana on Monday may be the disenchanted Cuban air force pilot who flew a MiG fighter plane through U.S. defenses 10 years ago, authorities said Tuesday. FBI agent Bill Hayes said the hijacker identified himself to Cuban officials in Havana as Eduardo Guerra Jimenez.

In 1969, a man by the same name shocked U.S. officials by landing an armed MiG at Homestead Air Force Base within sight of the government jet used by then-President Nixon, who was at his Key Biscayne retreat some 30 miles away.

The embarrassing display of security weakness resulted in the resumption of government reconnaissance flights across the Florida Straits.

Guerra, then 27, said he left a 10-year-old daughter and his recently divorced wife to get out of Fidel Castro's Cuba.

However, he was arrested at least three times after moving to New York, on charges of marijuana possession, assault and robbery, officials said.

During a 1975 pretrial hearing he begged to be allowed to renounce his asylum here and return to Cuba. The following year he was accused of running down two New York City firemen in his taxi cab.

"He was very quiet but very impulsive," attorney Hal Mayerson recalled Tuesday, hours after the New York-to-Fort Lauderdale flight and its 194 passengers and 12 crewmen returned safely to the United States.

Airborne

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Army Lt. Gen. Thomas H. Tackaberry was named Tuesday to become commanding general of the 18th Airborne Corps and Ft. Bragg.

The corps is made up of the 101st Airborne Division at Ft. Campbell, Ky., and the 82nd Airborne Division at Bragg, plus support units at the two posts.

The 55-year-old Tackaberry, who is expected to take command about Aug. 1, is currently U.S. military representative to the Central Treaty Organization.

He will succeed Lt. Gen. Volney F. Warner, who last month was chosen for promotion to four star rank as commander-in-chief of the U.S. Readiness Command.

Seeks Avoiding Angered Public

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — Dave Edwards, president of the Independent Owner-Operator Union of America, a nationwide organization of independent truckers, said today he was seeking to halt a road-blocking truckers' protest under way in South Carolina.

He said disgruntled truckers were staging the protest demonstration on Johns Island, a large tomato and cucumber producing area below Charleston.

"We're advocating that drivers shut down their trucks at home if they possibly can and not block any service stations or highways. We want the public behind us. We don't want a bunch of people mad at us," said Edwards.

He said members of his organization, about 2,700 strong, were 99 percent shut down in protest of spiraling operating costs, especially diesel fuel.

"For the stuff we haul, rates have not gone up to compensate for the fuel price. We're still getting the rates we were getting four years ago," said Edwards.

"We could run from Greensboro to California for $350; today, it costs $850 to $1,000, and rates have not gone up," he said.

Edwards, who said he was leaving Greensboro before noon for the scene of the South Carolina protest, added that owner-operators are concerned with fluctuations in revenue for the products they haul.

He said they are determined to establish some kind of minimum rate "year around, so we won't have to worry about the fluctuation."

"We used to get a truck unloaded for $35; now, it costs $60 to $80, according to where you go, and the driver has to pay it," said Edwards. "From now on, as of July 1, any loading or unloading fee the shipper or the consignee will pay or we won't haul, it."

Named DOT Engineer

Donald T. Overman, a Stanfordsburg native who received his bachelor's degree in civil engineering from N.C. State University in 1948, and a master's degree in secondary education and mathematics from East Carolina University in 1950, has been named chief engineer for the North Carolina Department of Transportation.

Overman, who taught school in Wilson and Greene Counties before joining the DOT staff nearly 26 years ago, replaces D. W. "Pat" Patrick, who is retiring June 29 after 33 years with the department.

Patrick, who has been chief engineer since 1975, was formerly assigned to Greenville as division engineer.

The chief engineer is responsible for overall management of all activities pertaining to design, construction and maintenance of highways and ferry operations.

Smoking Clinic Begins Monday

A workshop is being held to help people who want to withdraw from cigarettes or to reduce the number of cigarettes they smoke.

Assistance from other people who are also seeking to reduce their smoking will be involved in the workshop. Information relative to risks of cigarette smoking will be given by health professionals.

The program is being offered cooperatively by the Eastern Lung Association and the Pitt County Health Department.

Six sessions will be held, with the first session scheduled for Monday, June 18, at 7:30 at the Eastern Lung Association Building, 112 S. Pitt Street.

A $5 registration charge covers materials used. For more information and registration, call the Association at 752-5093.

Explorers In First Meet

FARMVILLE — Police Explorer Post 891 held its first official meeting here last night.

According to Farmville Police Department Crime Prevention Officer Ken Godwin, who is serving as the Post advisor, 11 persons attended the initial meeting and more are expected to sign up. Boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 18 who live in the Farmville township are invited to join or visit.

Officer Godwin said each Explorer will receive training equal to that of the 240-hour police basic training course, but cannot be certified because the lower age limit for certification is 21. He said, once trained, these individuals will be qualified to do in-office work such as dispatching, filing, typing and the like, can ride with officers for up to four hours, and can work in community service programs such as bicycle safety and crime prevention. To retain active membership, one must spend up to 70 hours a month in Explorer activity, he said.

He invited inquiry from any young person interested in law enforcement.

Successful Year In Bible Study

The New Covenant Bible Class of Grifton has reported a "very successful year of Bible Study."

Five nights of celebration were held. Three nights students of the class preached. About 40 students received certificates and the Rev. Lucy Jones was the commencement speaker.

Mrs. Sarah Mobley received a Senior Citizen's Award; Mrs. Minnie Kilpatrick a Perfect Attendance Award; and the Rev. Collin Kornegay a Musician of the Year Award.

The honor students were Mrs. Arnita Sutton, Mrs. Shirley Williams, Mrs. Jessie Jones, Miss Willie P. Isler, Mrs. Sarah Whitfield, Mrs. Doris Barrett, Mrs. Gay Isler, and Tyrone Greene.

A banquet was held with the Rev. D. D. Garrett Jr. as guest speaker. Gifts were presented to the class teacher, the Rev. Ollie Harris, by Mrs. Gwendolyn Phillips and William Clark.

Jenn-Air's Grill-Range puts the sizzling, outdoor flavor you love into steaks, chops, chicken...

Any meat you prepare on a Jenn-Air tastes better because Jenn-Air's exclusive Char-Flavor grill cooks juicy, outdoor flavor into every bite. Permanent "Flavor Rocks" turn natural juices into curls of smoke that delicately bathe the meat as it grills. Smoke and odors are then quietly whisked away by the powerful built-in surface ventilation system. The result is meat that is golden brown on the outside, tender, hot and juicy on the inside. And, a kitchen that remains clean and fresh! Jenn-Air lets you do a lot more than grilling, too, with an array of deluxe accessories. Love the taste of meat grilled to char-flavored perfection? SAFETY TEST—Capsizing of small boats has caused loss of lives in Norway, where every fifth family owns a small pleasure craft. Here a testing team from the Norwegian classification society Det norske Veritas checks the boat's potential for tipping over.

Norwegians Hoping To Improve Safety At Sea

By ERIK A. WOLD
Associated Press Writer
OSLO, Norway (AP)—About 200 pleasure boats are damaged by fires and explosions every summer in Norway, and 80 to 90 people are killed in such accidents.

It's not surprising, then, that efforts to increase safety at sea for users of small boats rank high among Norwegians.

Safe design and construction have thus become increasingly important considerations in recent years with the dramatic rise in pleasure-boat ownership.

Today every fifth Norwegian family owns a small pleasure craft. They range in size from small open boats with outboard motors, medium-size wood or reinforced-plastic family boats called "snekke" here — or speedy cabin cruisers for long trips along the coast.

Norway also exports pleasure boats, with exports last year reaching some $40 million.

Because of the accidents and lost lives, Norwegian consumer organizations started a safety campaign in 1966.

They came up with a form listing minimum standards of quality. These requirements, however, failed to satisfy everybody concerned and finally the Norwegian ship-classification society, Det norske Veritas (DnV), was asked to develop a new set of rules.

Prepared in cooperation with insurance companies as well as the national Maritime Affairs Directorate, the new rules appeared in 1969 and have since been adopted by all the Nordic countries.

Then classification of all pleasure boats began. Some 170 Norwegian manufacturers collaborated in this effort, and today a total of 185,000 boats and 450 different types have been classified in Norway.

Safety rules cover such features as hull strength, seaworthiness, fire resistance and fire prevention, fire-fighting facilities and provisions for escape in case of fire or accidents.

Many pleasure boats today are made from glass-reinforced plastic, and special attention is paid to their construction requirements. Emphasis is put on thickness of the bottom, sides and the deck. Vessels are also strengthened for engine beds, mast support, mooring fitness and keel.

Boats must also meet special requirements to avoid swamping. Stability is checked in relation to boarding methods and the maximum movement of people on board. Watertight bulkheads and bilge-pump arrangements are specified to prevent leakage through the hull.

All decks need non-slip surfaces — as do all grips, handles and rails. An escape ladder on the outside is a must on all larger pleasure boats.

Prevention of fire and explosion is a central aim of the rules. Certified petrol-engine boats made of glass-reinforced plastic must be designed with separate and individually ventilated gas-tight engine and fuel-tank compartments. All petrol tanks need top connections with special attention being paid to the tightness of fuel pipelines and flexible hoses.

These and other precautions have significantly reduced the risk of fire and other mishaps in small boats around the coasts of Norway and other Nordic countries.

DnV claims the odds of fire in certified boats are only 30 percent of the rate in other crafts. They also say that no certified boat fitted with permanently-fixed extinguishers has ever been a total write-off because of fire.

Clash Over Relocation

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The National Weather Service and the Raleigh-Durham Airport Authority have clashed again over the proposed relocation of the federal agency.

While the airport authority pushes ahead with a $350,000 renovation of a cargo building to house the weather service, an official for the agency told the authority Tuesday that the weather service would not seal the deal until it knows how much the rent will be.

The building currently housing the weather service is scheduled for demolition Oct. 1 to make way for an interim terminal building, needed to ease overcrowding at the airport.

Federal laws regulate the amount of rent that a government agency can pay on the basis of space, McClain said, and the airport's charges must fall within those limits to be acceptable.

But airport authorities say they cannot give a firm figure until the renovation is completed.

"I think that we should express that we're going to start tearing down that building on Oct. 1, and we hope that they've moved so they won't get wet when we take the roof off," said authority member J. Willie York.

York said the weather service had been "very unreasonable" in the relocation negotiations, which have dragged on for over six months.

The authority decided to go ahead with the relocation plans, voting to spend $28,600 to relocate two cargo operators who must be moved to make way for the weather service.

Five Traffic Collisions Listed By Greenville Police Yesterday

An estimated $3,175 property damage resulted from a series of five traffic collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 7:45 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Cotanche and Fourth Streets, involving a car driven by Kathy Outland of 106 Alexander Cir.

Investigators said the Outland car collided with a fire hydrant when the driver swerved to avoid colliding with a second vehicle.

Damage was estimated at $1,000 to the Outland car and $100 to the hydrant.

Frankie Mercer Corey of 609 Ford St. collided with a car driven by Carolyn Barnhill Evans of Route 1, Greenville, about 6:20 p.m. on Fifth Street, 32 feet East of the Darden Drive intersection.

Officers, who charged Corey with failing to yield the right of way at a stop sign and operating left of center, set damage at $400 to the Corey car and $350 to the Evans vehicle.

A car driven by Lena Smith Foreman of 1607 West Fifth St., and a truck driven by Ronnie Dean Lewis of Route 4, Tarboro, collided about 1:15 p.m. at the intersection of Dickinson Avenue and 14th Street, resulting in an estimated $200 damage to the car and $400 damage to the truck.

Police reported a car driven by Lon Slone Felker of 806 Willow St. collided with a motorcycle operated by Lindsay Stuart Savage of 2435 Dickinson Ave. about 8:42 a.m. on Dickinson Avenue, 50 feet West of the Pitt Street intersection, causing an estimated $100 damage to the car and $300 damage to the motorcycle.

Officers, who charged Felker with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, reported Savage received minor injuries in the collision.

Security Screen Will Be Very Tight For Summit

By ROLAND PRINZ
Associated Press Writer
VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Viennese who want to see Jimmy Carter and Leonid I. Brezhnev during their summit visit this weekend should turn on their TV sets. The security screen is going to be very tight.

The Austrian director general for public security, Robert Danziger, said 1,500 agents will be working during the four-day meeting to keep the U.S. and Soviet presidents safe. But a news report said 6,000 policemen, in and out of uniform, will guard the two leaders.

They will be reinforced by armed Soviet and American security men.
Informed sources said up to 600 American and Soviet officials, advisers and aides would accompany or precede the two presidents.

The Russians, one newspaper reported, tried unsuccessfully to book the entire Imperial Hotel, their headquarters during the postwar occupation of the city. The hotel said it couldn't cancel long-standing reservations for guests for the Vienna Music Festival. Brezhnev will stay at the Soviet Embassy near the center of the city. Students at a nearby elementary school were told to stay home Friday and Saturday in order not to interfere with the security precautions.

Carter, his wife and their daughter Amy will stay at the home of the U.S. ambassador in the Hietzing district, in the southwest part of the city near the Schoenbrunn Palace.

The Americans were reported to have reserved all or part of 10 major hotels, and with 2,800 reporters and photographers expected, accommodations were getting scarce. Army barracks were readied for at least 200 journalists.

Carter and Brezhnev will hold their talks in the Hofburg Palace, the former home of the Hapsburg dynasty, in downtown Vienna. They will meet first on Friday afternoon when they pay a courtesy call on Austrian President Rudolf Kirchschlae-ger. On Monday they will sign the SALT II agreement in the Hofburg's ballroom, the Redoutensal.

The newspaper Die Presse said a crew of Soviet doctors have been sent to attend Brezhnev, whose has been ill off and on for months. Two hospitals — one for the Russians, one for the Americans — have been designated to take care of any ailing members of the two delegations.

To transport Brezhnev and his advisers and aides, the Russians have sent a Soviet Zil limousine equipped with inch-thick bulletproof glass, three Mercedes limousines and a Rolls Royce.

Carter will be driven about the city in a Lincoln Continental, also equipped with inch-thick bulletproof glass.
The newspaper Kurier said the Russians and Americans are flying in so much equipment for their leaders that "the only thing made in Austria for them to use will be the water to brush their teeth."

Mrs. Carter and Amy are to attend a performance of Mozart's opera "The Abduction from the Seraglio" at the Vienna State Opera Friday, and the president may accompany them.

There are tentative plans also for Mrs. Carter and Amy to see a performance of the trained Lippizaner horses of the Spanish Riding Academy and to take a boat trip on the Danube.

Donations For 'Wayne Fund'

By REYNOLDS R. RAST
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Donations, some large and some small, are pouring into the hospital where screen legend John Wayne died as fans honor family wishes for "The Duke's" memorial — a cancer fund that won Wayne's enthusiasm in his final weeks.

"Some gifts are in the thousands, usually around $10,000, but I can't reveal the sources," UCLA Medical Center administrator Bernard Strohm said Tuesday.

The family asked that, instead of flowers, donations be made to the John Wayne Cancer Fund.

"This fund was discussed during the last two weeks," said a hospital spokesman.
"Mr. Wayne was enthusiastic about it and he talked about it with the hospital and with his children."

Strohm said there were "many small donations, and a few large ones, but we really haven't looked at it all yet."

Meanwhile, Wayne's colleagues-eulogized the hero who lost the last battle of a brawling 50-year career Monday, when he died of cancer at the age of 72.

"The Duke is dead, which means the tallest tree in the forest has been felled," said Motion Picture Association president Jack Valenti.

President Jimmy Carter said
Wayne was "bigger than life."

"In an age of few heroes, he was the genuine article," said Carter. "But he was more than just a hero, he was a symbol of many of the qualities that made America great. The ruggedness, the tough independence, the sense of personal courage, on and off the screen, reflected the best of our national character."

In San Clemente, former president Richard Nixon, whom Wayne staunchly supported until the darkest days of the Watergate scandal, said, "John Wayne was true grit on and off the screen. The roles he played and the life he lived will inspire Americans for generations to come."

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors ordered flags on county buildings flown at half staff. The Olympic torch atop the Los Angeles Coliseum was lit and will burn until after Wayne's funeral.

Wayne's office said funeral services would be "very private, for the family only." The day of the services has not been announced.

Win Awards In Chemistry

ECU News Bureau
Four outstanding students at East Carolina University are recipients of annual awards given by the ECU Department of Chemistry.

They are Audrey Gunter of Sanford, a freshman, and juniors Howard Newell of Mineral Springs, Ned Craft of Ayden and William Ballance of Fremont.

Ms. Gunter received the Chemical Rubber Company's Freshman Chemistry Achievement Award, based on the results of a comprehensive examination. She plans to major in physical therapy at ECU.

Newell received the annual American Chemical Society-Eastern Carolina Chapter Award, given to an outstanding chemistry major.

He is active in Alpha Epsilon Delta honor society in pre-medical and pre-dental studies and has served on the Student Government Association's Judicial Review Board.

Craft received the Joseph N. LeConte Memorial Scholarship, established in 1977 by E. Quinton Davis, an ECU alumnus, and the LeConte family in honor of a former faculty member who taught chemistry at ECU for 15 years.

The LeConte Award is given to a junior chemistry major who has a superior record of academic achievement.

Reynolds Gives $2,800 To ECU

R.J. Reynolds Industries, Inc., has contributed $2,800 to East Carolina University as part of the company's Educational Matching Grants Program.

In total, R.J. Reynolds has contributed $221,000 during the past year to 281 educational institutions under its matching grants program.

"The contributions match 1978 donations made by employees to schools and colleges of all levels," said C.F. Benhow, Reynolds Industries senior vice president and secretary.

"The gifts, which match 913 contributions made by 570 employees, were donated to the schools in the employees' names."

Gas Dealer Keeps On Pumping Some Of Highest Priced Gas

BOSTON (AP) — He's been criticized, ordered, sued and now arrested — but Glenn Martin Heller keeps on pumping some of the nation's most expensive gasoline.

The bearded and bespectacled gas dealer, whose 24-hour pumps doled out their commodity for as much as $1.56.9 a gallon, appeared in federal court Tuesday to face price-gouging charges.

Heller pleaded innocent before a U.S. magistrate to "unlawfully, knowingly and willfully" selling gasoline for more than the federal price limit — making 55 cents profit on every gallon, prosecutors said.

The 30-year-old Heller was released on $10,000 bail for a probable cause hearing June 29. If convicted he faces up to a year in prison and a $10,000 fine.

But today his tiny Gulf station at the foot of historic Beacon Hill was still pumping unleaded gasoline for $1.56.9 a gallon, a price posted an hour before his arrest by federal marshals Tuesday.

"The thing I can't believe is why people are buying the gas," said Margaret Sullivan, 29, of Beacon Hill. "We couldn't even fill up our bike tires there Sunday because they charge for air."

It costs 25 cents to fill up bicycle tires and 50 cents for car tires at Beacon Hill Gulf, one of the few gas stations in downtown Boston open around the clock.

Heller's arrest Tuesday — based on a complaint against his June 7 price of $1.42.9 for unleaded and $1.39.9 for regular — was not the first time his gas prices have gotten him in hot water.

The Department of Energy has ordered him several times since December to roll back his prices and refund some $80,000 in over charges to customers. Heller has appealed each order and faces $10,000 a day in fines if he loses.

The city sued Heller last week and has asked for triple damages for overcharges.

Even his supplier is angry at him. Gulf Oil Corp. spokesman James Walker said the company "deplores his pricing" policy and two years ago it tried to evict Heller over a rent dispute.

Heller has cited his rent of $1,000 a month as partial justification for his high prices, but Walker said the figure is "substantially less" than that.

Leaving the courthouse Tuesday wearing dirty red sneakers, jeans and wire-rimmed glasses, Heller grinned but refused to answer reporters' questions.

But passersby applauded word of Heller's arrest.

"I think it is great," said Michael Belenky, 19, of Beacon Hill. "I don't understand why it took so long."

Boy's Club To Host A Camp

The Boys' Club of Pitt County will host a summer day camp for boys ages 6 through 13, with the first session beginning June 18.

The camp will feature arts and crafts, nature study, games and sports, archery, hiking, fishing, first aid, cookouts and other camp activities.

Dates for the four sessions scheduled are: first session, June 18-22; second session, June 25-29; third session July 2-6; and fourth session, July 9-13.

The cost for each boy will be $1 for Boys' Club annual membership dues and $2.50 for each one week session. The $2.50 cost includes accident and communicable diseases insurance coverage, drinks during camp, transportation, and craft supplies.

The boys will be transported to the camp site on the Boys' Club bus which will leave the Boy's Club at 9:30 a.m. each morning. The bus will return each afternoon at about 5:30 p.m.

Parents will be responsible for delivery and picking up their child or children from the Boys Club building at 205 West Skinner Street.

Each camper is to bring his own bag lunch each day. Staff members will be at the camp at all times.

Persons who would like to sign up a boy for day camp or wanting more information are to call Ed French, Program Director, at 758-4029.

Explosives Now Out Of Museum

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — A U.S. Army bomb disposal team has removed 21 potentially explosive military artifacts from a storage area at the Kansas Historical Society Museum.

Among the devices was an aerial bomb used in World War II. The bomb contains one-half pound of TNT and had an effective killing radius of 15 feet, authorities said.

The Full Life Of Sallie Cotten

By Dr. H.G. JONES
For The Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — They called her "Mother Cotten," this promoter of women's movements three-quarters of a century ago.

A ship bore her name in World War II, and thousands of students have lived in dormitories named for her at UNC-Greensboro and East Carolina University in Greenville.

Several hundred women have been helped through college by a loan fund established in her honor.

She was Sallie Southall Cotten.

Born in Lawrenceville, Va., on June 13, 1846, the daughter of James Thomas and Susanna Swepson Slms Southall, Sallie for a time was sent to a private school in Petersburg, Va., then joined the household of an uncle in Murfreesboro, where she attended Wesleyan Female College.

When Union troops threatened the town in 1862, Sallie was hustled off to Greensboro Female College where she graduated.

At Tarboro and at Gen. Rufus Barringer's home at Concord, Sallie taught school for one year each. Her teaching career was cut short by her introduction to a handsome Confederate officer, Robert Randolph Cotten of Edgecombe County.

They were married in 1866, and in the next several years she lived in six different places, including Tarboro, Wilson and Falkland.

It was on Cottendale Plantation on the Tar River, about eight miles from Tarboro, that Robert and Sallie Cotten established one of the state's best known residences.

Their son, Bruce, believed that the bathroom built on the porch was the first such indoor convenience in a Pitt County home.

At Centre Bluff on the river Robert constructed a wharf, store, several warehouses, and a bar. Boats then plied the Tar River, and the landing took on considerable importance for the town of Farmville and surrounding area. Cotten also operated a large farm.

Meanwhile, Sallie busied herself with eight children (six of whom grew to adulthood). She might have remained a prominent housekeeper had not her neighbor, Elias Carr, been elected governor in 1892.

Governor Carr appointed Sallie Cotten as one of two "lady managers" for North Carolina's participation in the Chicago Columbian Exposition which was held in 1893.

She took her appointment seriously, traveled over the state identifying exhibits for the world's fair, and then remained on the scene in Chicago during much of the celebration.

Her idea of honoring Virginia

Dare, the first child of English parentage born in America, originated in connection with the fair, and she later wrote a book-length poem, "The White Doe; the Fate of Virginia Dare."

She arranged for the construction of a great desk, carved from holly wood grown on Roanoke Island, and placed it on exhibit at the fair. The carving depicted the legend of the white doe.

The desk, long used by the late Dr. Christopher Crittenden, now is preserved in the state Division of Archives and History.

Her penchant for public service stimulated, there was now no stopping Sallie Cotten. When most women stayed at home, she became a familiar figure in and out of the state.

In 1895, Mrs. Cotten delivered at a conference of women in Atlanta a paper titled "The True Relation of Woman and the Government."

Back home she helped organize the Virginia Dare Memorial Association. At Greenville she formed the End of the Century Club. Then she set out to bring the various women's organizations into a Federation of Women's Clubs.

She wrote that the NCFWC, chartered in 1902, would "bring the women of this State in touch with each other and with the women of other states, thereby securing the increased benefits which come from enlarged acquaintance, exchange of thought, and unity of action."

Until her death, Sallie Cotten was a dominant figure in the organization, and in 1913 the federation established the Sallie Southall Cotten Loan Fund to assist needy young females through college.

When she discovered that state law prohibited women from sitting on local school boards, Sallie Cotten's blood pressure was not relieved until the legislature of 1913 repealed the provision.

Though originally skeptical of woman suffrage, Sallie Cotten changed her mind and worked for ratification of the 19th Amendment. Subsequently she expressed disappointment that women had failed to "elevate the tone of politics and public life."

She died May 4, 1929.

The highest honor paid her was the launching at Wilmington of the Liberty ship "Sallie Southall Cotten" in 1943. The vessel later was given to the Norwegian government in exile and rechristened the "Ole Bull."

Could Reduce Dining Out Cost

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Shopping supermarket specials can cut your grocery bill. Everyone knows that.

The same principle can be applied to eating out, says Harriet Kohn, an extension service nutrition specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. She suggests looking for early-bird specials, which many restaurants offer for meals eaten during non-peak hours. Some also offer cents-off coupons or two-for-one specials.

In some restaurants you can save money by eating your main meal at midday. Many serve the same meals at lunch and dinner, but charge less for the lunch.

Proffer Record Card On X-Rays

WASHINGTON (UPI) — To avoid excess X-rays and keep track of the ones you've been exposed to, the government is offering a free record card designed to fit wallets.

To order the X-Ray and Vaccination Record Card, write Consumer Information Center, Dept. 651G, Pueblo, Colo.

The center also offers these tips on avoiding excess X-ray exposure:

—Don't decide on your own that you need an X-ray and don't insist on one.

—If your doctor orders an X-ray, ask how it will help with the diagnosis.

—Tell the doctor about any similar X-ray exams you've had.

—Ask if gonad (sexual organ) shielding can be used — for children as well as adults.

Southern Baptists Pick Prexy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, AP Religion Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — A right-wing coalition of Southern Baptists pushed its drive to tighten controls on Bible interpretation today after winning election of the Rev. Adrian W. Rogers of Memphis, Tenn. as president.

Additional proposals were in the works at the annual convention of the nation's largest Protestant body to bring about stricter doctrinal conformity and denominational seminary teaching.

The moves came after Rogers' surprise first ballot victory Tuesday, swamping five other candidates regarded as moderate conservatives in the generally conservative denomination.

It was "a definite turn to the right," said Marse Grant, editor of the North Carolina State Baptist paper, Biblical Recorder. Others offered similar assessments, but the Rev. Jerry Glisson of Memphis put a different slant on it, saying "this represents a trend to the right after years of moving to the left."

A highly conservative faction charging inroads of "liberalism" about the Bible in various denominational institutions has been trying for about a decade to gain official ascendancy, previously in vain.

But this time, the group mounted a political-style campaign, including six months of pre-convention rallies around the country and extensive caucus activity here. The strategy, called unprecedented in Southern Baptist history, succeeded.

"I'm elated and grateful," said the Rev. Paige Patterson of Dallas, a leader in the campaign. An ally, the Rev. Harold Lindell, head of the Baptist Faith and Message Fellowship, called the outcome "a first step" in a continuing battle for Biblical orthodoxy.

He said the "people from the pews" have given the new president "a mandate to take a hard look at the theological seminaries" in the 13 million-member denomination.

Rogers, 48, pastor of the 11,000-member Bellevue Baptist Church in Memphis, said he is not taking over the top office "with blood in my eyes, but with love in my heart."

Talking with reporters, Rogers said he wanted to project a positive tone, but would stand against any tendency to "compromise the word of God."

Rogers and the highly conservative group have insisted that denominational institutions uphold so-called "Biblical inerrancy," meaning that God literally inspired every word of Scripture, not just the ideas it contains.

Disputing claims that the focus on doctrine would detract from evangelism, Rogers said he is 100 percent behind the denomination's "bold mission thrust" to present the gospel to all the world by the end of the century.

The election results "meant there was a lot of unity behind Rogers," commented the Rev. Buddie Gregg of Silver City, N.M.

Donald McGregor, editor of the Mississippi Baptist Record, termed Rogers' election a result of grass roots suspicions that the "existing structure is an ivory tower."

Others also saw an anti-institutional streak in the mood of the three-day convention, which runs through Thursday with about 13,000 "messengers" registered so far.

However, the ultra-conservatives lost out in the election of the first vice-president, which went to Abner McCall, president of Baylor University.

Raleigh Man Cleared In Dumping Of PCBs

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A Superior Court jury found a Raleigh man innocent Tuesday of three charges in connection with last summer's dumping of toxic PCBs along about 11 miles of Halifax County roads.

Robert E. "Buck" Ward, president of Ward Transformer Co. of Raleigh, embraced his sobbing wife after the verdict. Tears poured from his eyes.

"I'm so relieved and so grateful," said Ward. His company is one of the largest facilities in the country for repairing and selling electrical transformers.

His attorney, Wade Smith of Raleigh, said of the verdict, "It makes you feel good about our system."

Ward still faces federal charges in connection with the PCB dumping. He has pleaded not guilty to those charges. No trial date has been set.

When deliberations first began, the jury was divided 7-5 for acquittal, said foreman Hugh Carroll.

Of the accessory before the fact charges, Carroll said, "If it had been after (the fact), we would have found him guilty."

Ward had faced 22 years in prison and fines on two felony charges of being an accessory before the fact of damage of public property (roadsides) and a less serious misdemeanor charge of conspiring in the dumping with three New York men.

Thousands of gallons of oil-laced PCBs, a chemical linked with cancer in laboratory animals, were dumped along 210 miles of roads in 14 Eastern North Carolina counties last summer.

Charges against Ward's son, Robert E. "Bob" Ward III, were dismissed last week for lack of evidence.

Ward, 55, was charged with two counts of being an accessory before the fact and one count of conspiring with three New York men to dump the PCBs.

The three New Yorkers, Robert J. Burns and his three sons, Timothy and Randall, have pleaded guilty to draining oil from a specially rigged truck onto the roads. They testified against Ward and are awaiting sentencing.

The defense questioned prosecution claims about the danger of PCB, polychlorinated biphenyls, to the health of humans and animals in the concentrations present along the roadsides.

Carroll indicated that he thought the prosecution concentrated more on the health effects of PCBs than on evidence against Ward.

Offer Blood Pressure Clinic

A free public service clinic for taking blood pressure readings is being offered by the Greenville Moose Lodge over a two-month period.

The first session will be from 7 to 9 tonight, to be held in the Red Room of the Lodge, located on Dickinson Street extended in the West End Shopping area.

Your registered nurses will be on hand to take blood pressure readings. Members of the Moose Lodge will assist with registration and other administrative work.

Any persons interested in having their blood pressure taken is invited to come by. The clinic will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. each Wednesday for seven succeeding Wednesdays.

There is no charge involved in the service.

Pedal-Power Flight A Satisfying Challenge

By PAUL TREUTHARDT
Associated Press Writer
CAP GRIS NEZ, France (AP) — The first human aircraft engine to conquer the English Channel says he did it to prove there are still "pleasing, challenging, physically strenuous" goals that "add to rather than subtract from the whole human experience." Bryan Allen, the 6-foot, 137-pound Californian whose pedal power turned the propeller that pushed the wide-winged, 70-pound Gossamer Albatross across the 22-mile channel in 2 hours 49 minutes Tuesday, said maybe he will make a movie demonstrating his craft in flight.

But "there's something about the plane that film doesn't convey," the 26-year-old biochemist from Bakersfield said, "a certain magical quality that you have to be there to see."

It was the longest man-powered flight in history, winning $200,000 for Allen and the designer of the plane, Dr. Paul MacCready of Pasadena. It far outdistanced the 1.15-mile figure-eight flight they made with a similar but heavier plane, the Gossamer Condor, in August 1977. That won them $100,000. MacCready, America's first world gliding champion, said the channel flight demonstrated new concepts of efficiency and of the strength of man.

"I don't think it will start some new commercial era," he said. "There are not going to be a lot of man-powered aircraft around. It's a specialized thing, so large, so flimsy, in order to be low-powered enough for man to propel, but it certainly does alter one's perspective of what man is capable of, both in design and actual power of things." However, he said the Albatross concept could be developed into a practical sports plane "just by putting in a three-horsepower motor, a model aircraft motor, and you could fly to some altitude and really have a lot of fun."

The Albatross is made of aluminum spars covered with transparent Mylar polyester film only five ten-thousandths of an inch thick and has a wingspan of 96 feet. The pilot's pedals rotate a bicycle-like chain that turns the propeller mounted at the rear.

Drowned Off Ocean Isle Beach

OCEAN ISLE, N.C. (AP) — A Riegglewood man drowned Tuesday afternoon 200 yards off Ocean Isle Beach, authorities said.

Carl M. Bennett, 28, was pronounced dead at Brunswick County Hospital, police said.

According to Ocean Isle police, Bennett was swimming about 200 yards off shore with his sister-in-law, Frances Gore, 29, when both got into trouble.

Ms. Gore was rescued by a youth who brought her to shore on his surfboard, but Bennett was unconscious when pulled from the water.

Ms. Gore was listed in stable condition.

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you avoid the tendency to break up existing conditions and refuse to be drawn into confrontations or disputes, you can gain active assistance from influential persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) By using more modern methods, you can gain personal aims more readily. Plan to have more prosperity in the days ahead.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Listening to the ideas of the influential is wise, but depend on your own judgment for best results. Allow time to meditate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Stop fretting and do something constructive about frustrating conditions. Make a new contact who can be helpful to you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be more loyal to your mate and don't permit others to influence you so much. Avoid one who has loose morals.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to cooperate more with associates and you can be more successful in the future. Use reason instead of losing your temper with others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Don't run off on any tangents at this time and keep busy at important work. Don't jeopardize your health in any way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take time to be with good friends and forget anxieties for the time being. Later you can handle business matters wisely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Go after vital data you need to improve working conditions and steer clear of partners who are irate now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Have serious discussions with associates and then get busy at your end of the work to be done. Clear up whatever is in error.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy and improve your property and possessions so that you become more successful. Be more practical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Plan just how to attain your personal aims and with less effort. You can gain the support of a higher-up at this time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan how to gain a special wish that means a great deal to you. Sidestep persons who have given you trouble in the past.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will, from an early age, be interested in highly technical matters, so be sure to give free rein and to modern schools for best results. The fields of electronics and advanced science are fine in this chart. Give cultural advantages.

Expected Oppose Office Change

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The U.S. Corps of Engineers regional office is expected to recommend Wednesday that its Wilmington district office not be closed or reduced in size, according to a spokesman for Rep. Charles Rose III, D-N.C.

The corps has been studying reducing the size of the office or consolidating it with district offices in Charleston, S.C., and Savannah, Ga.

Clean-Up Group Meets Thursday

A special call meeting of the Beautification, Clean-Up and Litter Control Committee has been scheduled for Thursday, June 14 at 11:30 a.m.

Among the items scheduled are reports on: business and industry; communications; community organizations; East Carolina University; municipal operations; schools; and a report on litter produced in Greenville and control measures now being enforced. In addition, reports will be given by the committee secretary, vice chairman and chairman.

Committee members will consider resolutions concerning recycling of paper waste by ECU, industries, businesses, city school district and government agencies, and also concerning articulation of committee activities with Sheltered Workshop recycling programs. The selection of a committee slogan is also slated.

Bring Fun Into Math

ECU News Bureau
Students in several eastern North Carolina high schools were intrigued and entertained with various applications of high mathematics during the past school year, when members of the East Carolina University mathematics faculty visited their classrooms.

Schools visited during the series were New Bern High School, Tarboro High School, Eastern Wayne High School, West Craven High School, Rose High School, East Goldsboro High School and Farmville High School.

Members of the ECU Department of Mathematics who participated in the series were Dr. Lokenath Debnath, Grace Foster, Dr. Milam Johnson, Frank Saunders, Dr. Katye Sowell, Dr. James Wirth and Robert Woodside.

The series is coordinated by Dr. Katherine Hodgkin. Interested teachers are invited to write the ECU Department of Mathematics for details concerning the 1979-80 program.

See Improving Picture On Rhodesia Sanctions

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's chances of maintaining trade sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia are improving, despite a Senate call for ending the 14-year-old embargo. White House officials say. Administration lobbyists say the president has doubled Senate support for his position on the newly elected black majority government in that southern African nation. And they say he has more than enough votes to sustain a possible veto of attempts to end the restrictions. The Senate voted 52-41 Tuesday night to kill an effort to extend the trade embargo through Dec. 1, and perhaps longer. The lobbyists, who asked not to be identified, said the 41 votes favoring the president's position represent a solid base from which to sustain a veto of any legislation containing provisions to lift the sanctions. And they said the vote shows a significant improvement in the president's position since the Senate went on record in a 75-19 vote three weeks ago to urge Carter to lift the trade embargo. "We came in expecting to get no more than 30 votes and we broke 40," a White House lobbyist said. "I think the continuing education on our southern Africa policy is bearing fruit, and we expect to increase our margin in the weeks ahead." Carter announced last Thursday he would retain the restrictions as a way of keeping pressure on the new Zimbabwe Rhodesian government to make further progress toward "more genuine black majority rule." The president is required to lift the economic sanctions if he determines that free and fair elections have been held and have resulted in a government that has made a good faith effort to end the guerrilla war. An amendment, sponsored by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Ind.-Va., to end the embargo was written into the pending $41 billion military procurement bill by the Senate Armed Services Committee. The House version of the bill has no such language. Thus, attempts to put the Byrd amendment into law face possible tests in the House and in a Senate-House conference committee, as well as in a possible final confrontation over a Carter veto. "I would say this is just the opening gun in the battle, and the war is far from over," said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance spent several hours Tuesday telling members of both the Senate and the House that lifting the embargo now would be a diplomatic — and possibly economic — disaster for the United States.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market gained more ground in active trading today amid speculation that interest rates might have passed their peak.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 1.90 to 847.19 in the first half hour.

Gainers outnumbered losers by close to a 2-1 margin in the early rally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

On Tuesday New York's Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. lowered its prime lending rate from 11 3/4 to 11 1/2 percent.

Analysts said investors took the reduction in the basic charge on blue-chip loans as a signal that interest rates might have reached a turning point.

The news helped the bond market extend its recent rally. When bond prices rise, their yields decline, and falling yields on interest-bearing investments theoretically make stocks more attractive by comparison.

Today's early volume leaders included Philip Morris, up 1/4 at 33 3/4; Continental Telephone, unchanged at 16 1/2; and Ford Motor, up 1/4 at 43 1/2.

On Tuesday the Dow Jones industrial average gained 7.71 to 845.21.

Advances outnumbered declines by more than a 3-1 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached a seven-month high of 45.45 million shares against 28.27 million in the previous session.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index rose .56 to 58.18.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index jumped 1.97 to a new high of 196.04.

committed to Kennedy's proposal, said he would work toward a compromise. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., echoed that call, saying: "It is essential that we submerge personalities for the common good.... There is enough credit to go around."

Kansas Sen. Bob Dole, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, branded Carter's plan an attempt to "federalize" the nation's health care system.

Likewise, Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., labeled the proposal a "gigantic step" toward increased federal spending and government regulation.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said that while Carter's program is not perfect, it sets the stage for Congress to put national health insurance at the top of the agenda.

Kennedy, chairman of the Senate Human Resource health subcommittee, which also will handle the issue, did not appear at Carter's White House briefing on the new legislation.

At his own news conference a few hours later, Kennedy said:

"The president's plan may well become the straw that breaks the back of the American health care system."

Kennedy's plan would insure everyone against most health care costs and impose strong cost controls on both hospitals and physicians. Private insurers would provide improved coverage for working Americans while Medicare-Medicaid programs would expand services to the elderly and poor.

The nation's 1979 health care bill is estimated to total $206 billion. The $23 billion to $25 billion cost of Carter's plan would be in addition to that, while Kennedy says his proposal would add only about $5.4 billion.

Hearings on the various national health insurance proposals, including Carter's and Kennedy's, will run most of the year and may come up for a full House and Senate vote in 1980.

While benefit plans plans often find a generous reception in an election year, that tendency could conflict with the current belt-tightening mood on Capitol Hill.

$3,500 each if Gray's recommendations are accepted, as compared with $2,750 each received this year, while Fountain and Falkland would receive $2,530 each. This year, Falkland received $1,600 while $2,200 was appropriated for Fountain.

The Department of Social Services under the proposed budget would receive $1.55 million as compared with this year's $1.36 million.

Gray, emphasizing that commissioners have little or no control over the Social Services budget, said one of the largest increases in the proposed budget involves a 33.3 per cent hike in the cost of Medicaid to the county. He noted that just last week, state officials said another 5.9 per cent should be added to the increase.

He noted that the hike in Medicaid costs is the result of action by the 1978 General Assembly.

Under the proposed budget, Medicaid costs would total $432,600 as compared with $324,400 this year. Aid to families with dependent children amounts to $516,200 under the proposed budget as compared with $471,500 this year, and aid to the disabled and aid to the aged would increase from $88,000 this year to $119,700 next year.

Other increases in the DSS budget include $110,600 for purchased day care ($75,700 this year), $40,000 for clothes and school fees for foster children (no appropriation this year), and $50,000 for county initiated checks (no appropriation this year).

In all, the DSS budget as proposed for the coming year would total $3.49 million as compared with $3.23 million this year.

As in the past, the largest portion of county expenditures is allocated for education.

In his budget message, Gray told commissioners that the request for local current expense funds for the county school system was 25 per cent over the current level of expenditures, while the capital outlay requests from the county system totaled $1,002 million.

"I have recommended a 9.2 per cent increase ($3.9 million total)," in current expense funds Gray said, while recommending $102,000 for capital outlay. Gray noted that his recommendations, made prior to the defeat of a proposed $9 million school bond issue last week, were based on the hope that the bond issue would be approved.

For the Greenville City Schools, Gray recommended

The North Carolina Arts Council has awarded 21 grants totaling $39,450 to organizations in the northeastern area of the state, according to an announcement by Sara W. Hodgkins, secretary of the Dept. of Cultural Resources.

Statewide, there were 129 grants totaling $264,946 awarded for special arts projects. In addition to these grants, the council provides arts funds to each county of the state on a per capita basis through the Grassroots Arts Program. The 1979-80 Grassroots awards will be announced shortly after July 1.

Among the northeastern North Carolina grants, the largest were in the area of local government challenge grants, in which counties and municipalities are awarded money on a cash match basis to support local arts organizations.

The grants announced are:
— City of Wilson and Wilson County, $5,000 each, both for the Arts Council of Wilson; — City of Kinston and Lenoir County, $5,000 each, both for their Community Council for the Arts;

— City of Goldsboro and Wayne County, $1,500 each for the Goldsboro Community Arts Council; — Town of Edenton and Chowan County, $1,000 each for the Chowan Arts Council; — Town of LaGrange, $200 for the LaGrange Arts Council.

In the category of general grants, two were given — $900 to Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, for the "Crucible" literary contest; and $400 to the N.C. Poetry Society, Goldsboro.

Goldsboro is also receiving a $1,500 grant to help the Cultural Movement of Goldsboro stage its second annual Black Arts Festival.

The Kinston City School system received $7,325 for arts-in-education grants covering a dance residency, a visual artist-in-residence, poetry residences, and a dramatist-in-residence. A $400 grant for poetry was also awarded Lenoir County Schools.

Other school systems in eastern North Carolina receiving arts-in-education grants are: Currituck County Schools, $2,675; Weldon Graded Schools, Halifax County, $675; Wayne County Schools, $800; and Dare County Schools, $1,075.

Money for Arts Council grants is provided by the N. C. General Assembly and the National Endowment for the Arts, a federal agency.

customer plus a flat rate of 45 cents per hundred cubic feet to become effective July 1.

Although the increase is expected to be nominal for residential and small commercial users, the cost of water increase for large users is expected to increase sharply. Local industries were notified several months ago about the increase.

Reese Helms, director of the Greenville Energy Conservation Office, informed the commission that over 60 new homes have been built to E-300 Standards since the program's inception in December, exceeding the 50 mark earlier projected for mid-summer.

He added that it now appears that 75 to 85 E-300 homes will be started and/or completed by that time.

Helms also said that 23 Home Energy Inspections were completed during May, adding that the pace of such inspections is being stepped-up to reduce the 600-customer backlog of requests which have been made for the service.

He further added that an audit to determine the total energy consumption (by fuel type and end use) in Greenville during 1978 has started. The task will take approximately four months to complete and represents one of four key parts of the Comprehensive Community Energy Management Program.

an 8.07 per cent increase ($1.76 million).

He said of the city school requests, "this budget represents the most conservative and realistic request I have seen for a long time." He noted that the city system asked for an 11.4 percent hike over the current budget.

In the capital outlay budget, Gray said the city asked for $253,800. "It was very difficult to only be able to recommend $45,978," Gray noted.

In all, Gray recommended a total of $5.66 million in county funds for school current expenses (divided between the city and county on a student population basis), as compared with the current year's budget of $5.21 million, and $147,978 for capital outlay, as compared with $478,600 this year.

A public hearing on the proposed 1979-1980 budget has been set for 10 a.m. tomorrow at the court house.

Ten-Run Inning Keys Met Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer After the Cincinnati Reds scored five runs in the top of the sixth inning, the New York Mets knew they really had to come up with something. They did — 10 runs. "I had a premonition that we were going to score 10 runs after they got their five," said New York center fielder Lee Mazzilli. "I said to Joe (Torre, the Mets' manager) that we were going to get 10. I called the shot."

Mazzilli had a hand in the inning, the Mets' biggest in their history, by drawing a walk and scoring one of the runs. "This was definitely not a game-plan situation," noted Torre with a grin. "And I will have to say that they helped us a lot, defensively."

The Reds contributed two costly errors to the monster inning in which only four of the runs were earned.

"I never remember an inning as big as this without a ball being hit out of the park," said Cincinnati's George Foster. "They always kept the pot boiling. They always had men on base."

The big hits in New York's outburst included Doug Flynn's inside-the-park homer that accounted for three runs and Frank Taveras' two-run double.

In other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies blanked the Houston Astros 4-0; the San Francisco Giants whipped the Chicago

Cubs 7-2; the Los Angeles Dodgers outscored the St. Louis Cardinals 9-3 and the San Diego Padres posted a 6-3 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Reds had taken a 5-2 lead with their five-run sixth before the Mets came back with their 10. Before Tuesday night, the most the Mets had scored in a single inning was eight runs.

The combined total of 15 runs by the two teams in the sixth fell two shy of the modern National League record of 17, set by the old Boston Braves and New York Giants in 1912. The modern major league record for runs by two teams in an inning is 19, set by the Cleveland Indians and Boston Red Sox on April 10, 1977.

Mike Schmidt's two-run homer in the fifth inning powered Philadelphia over Houston behind the six-hit, no-walk pitching of Nino Espinosa. Houston's Rick Williams pitched perfect ball through the first four innings before walking Greg Luzinski at the start of the fifth, and Schmidt followed with his 18th homer of the season and a 2-0 lead. Espinosa, who had lost four straight games, recorded his first victory since defeating San Diego on May 10.

Giants 7, Cubs 2

Bill North and Mike Ivie hit home runs in the first inning and San Francisco added four more extra-base hits to beat Chicago. Jack Clark had three of the Giants' nine hits, including a run-scoring triple in the second and a bases-empty homer in the fourth. The home run was his 10th of the year and gave him 40 RBI.

Bob Knepper got the victory, allowing nine hits, including Jerry Martin's solo homer in the ninth, and walked seven in an erratic performance. Loser Ken Holtzman allowed all of San Francisco's runs in the first and retired only one batter.

Dodgers 9, Cardinals 3

Pitcher Burt Hooton's two-out, two-run single highlighted a three-run rally by Los Angeles in the fourth inning and triggered the Dodgers over St. Louis. Hooton scattered nine hits, but it was his bases-loaded single that snapped a 2-2 tie to give the Dodgers a lead they did not relinquish. The Dodgers added three more runs in the fifth, two on a bases-loaded single by Joe Ferguson, and Ron Cey singled home two more in the sixth.

Padres 6, Pirates 3

Dave Winfield hit a three-run homer and Gaylord Perry gained his 273rd career victory as San Diego defeated Pittsburgh.

Perry, 6-4, scattered 11 hits, including Dave Parker's three-run homer in the ninth, to move into a tie with Red Ruffing for 17th place on the all-time victory list. The 40-year-old right-hander recorded 10 strikeouts to run his season total to 70.

Winfield extended his National League-leading RBI total to 53 and now has hit safely in 15 of his last 16 games.

baseman Keith Hernandez tries to tag him out after a pickoff throw from pitcher John Denny in the first inning Tuesday night. (AP Laserphoto)

Pitt County Claims Fourth As Rally Gets By Edenton, 6-4

EDENTON — Pitt County's American Legion baseball team spotted Edenton a 4-2 lead last night, but came back in the late innings to take a 6-4 victory and extend its record to 4-0.

Post 39 scored the game's first runs with a pair in the top of the first, but gave up one in the second and three in the fourth for a 4-2 deficit.

Pitt got back on the scoreboard with a run in the sixth and then regained the lead with two in the eighth. The local team added its final run in the ninth.

Ben Wilson went the distance for Post 39, getting his second win against no losses. He gave up eight hits, striking out five and walking four. Edenton used four hurlers with reliever Eric McDaniels being charged with the loss.

Wilson got things rolling for Post 39 and aided his own cause in the first inning. With one away, Will Barrett singled and Wilson followed with a home run that gave the visitors a 2-0 lead.

Edenton cut into that margin in the second, however. John Perry walked with two away and scored on Dwayne Crank's walk after Miles Brite singled and Phil Woodell got a base on balls.

Post 40 then scored three more runs in the fourth. Ken Meekins led off with a single, but was thrown out when Perry reached on a fielder's choice. Brite got a base hit and Perry scored when Crank singled. Brite came in on an error and Crank scored on a wild pitch.

Micah Dixon scored in the sixth to cut the Edenton lead to 4-3. He singled, moved up on Mark Douglas' infield out and scored when Will Sanderson, Mike Campbell and Mark Shank all walked.

Sanderson led off the eighth with a walk and Mike Williams came in to pinch run. He advanced on Campbell's infield out and went to third on a passed ball. Barrett tripled him home and then scored himself when Wilson reached on an error.

Skip Topping scored the final Post 39 run in the ninth. He led off with a double and scored on a two-bagger by Dixon.

Barrett and Dixon were both 2-5 for Pitt County, while Steve Underkofler was 3-5 and Brite 2-3 for Edenton.

Pitt County's next game is Thursday night when it hosts Williamston.

Pro-Junior Tourney

Greenville Golf and Country Club will play host to a Pro-Junior Tournament on Monday, with a 10:30 a.m. shotgun start.

The tournament is open to all junior members of the clubs, ages 11-17, both boys and girls. Those wishing to play should call the pro shop to sign up.

Other clubs interested in fielding teams should contact pro Gordon Fulp at Greenville Golf and Country Club. There is a $10 entry fee for each pro, and a $12 fee for each junior. The fee includes prizes, carts and a pig-picking following the play. Visiting teams should include three juniors, with Greenville to furnish a fourth.

First Loss For Snow Hill, 1-0

GOLDSBORO — Goldsboro's American Legion baseball team pushed over an eight-inning run to gain a 1-0 victory in a pitching duel with Snow Hill last night. The defeat was the first in three league starts for Snow Hill and knocked them out of a share of the lead.

Snow Hill's Ken Johnson and Goldsboro's Byrum Sasser teamed up for the pitcher's duel. Johnson struck out eight, but also walked seven and hit four. Sasser struck out nine and walked five. Johnson allowed two hits, while Sasser gave up three.

The lone run came in the eighth. Terry Coates walked and stole second. He scored on a single by Ron Pennington.

Snow Hill missed out on a chance to tie it up in the top of the ninth. Philip Gordon doubled and Allen Moore singled. Gordon, trying to go home, slipped rounding third and fell and was thrown out.

Moore ended up with two of the three Snow Hill hits.

Snow Hill plays at Williamston tonight.

Last Out Proved Difficult For Teams

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The game's never over until the last man is out...and sometimes it's not even over then.

The California Angels and Milwaukee Brewers never did get that elusive last out Tuesday night, blowing two-run leads in the ninth inning and losing, respectively, to the Cleveland Indians 11-10 and the Texas Rangers 7-6.

The Boston Red Sox, leading Kansas City 6-4, appeared to have the last out — and their sixth consecutive victory — in sight when Willie Wilson lofted a catchable fly ball, but left fielder Jim Rice turned it into a three-base error, Steve Braun followed with a game-tying homer and the Royals pushed across a run in the 10th to beat the Red Sox 7-6.

The New York Yankees scored three times in the ninth to beat the Minnesota Twins 4-1 despite an injury to pitching ace Ron Guidry.

In other American League action the Chicago White Sox clobbered the Baltimore Orioles 12-4, the Detroit Tigers trounced the Oakland A's 9-2 and the Seattle Mariners defeated the Toronto Blue Jays 5-1.

Along with the agony of ninth-inning losses — "I've got a bad headache from that one," said Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger — was the ecstasy of Detroit third base coach Dick Tracewski managing a game for the first time in his 27 years in baseball. "Happiness is a seven-run lead in the ninth," said Tracewski, who will fill in until Thursday's arrival of Sparky Anderson, the Tigers' new skipper.

Royals 7, Red Sox 6

With two out in the ninth and the Red Sox leading 6-4 on Carl Yastrzemski's two-run homer in the eighth, Wilson hit what appeared to be a routine game-ending fly ball which clanked off Rice's glove as center fielder Fred Lynn cut in front of him. Braun then homered off loser Dick Drago to tie it up.

In the 10th, George Brett singled and went all the way to third when Darrell Porter's bunt rolled through the vacated second base position — Jerry Remy had broken to cover first — into short right field for a double. Al Cowens followed with a game-winning sacrifice fly.

Rangers 7, Brewers 6

Buddy Bell, who drove in two earlier runs with a homer and single, drilled a tie-breaking single to cap a three-run ninth inning rally. Not only didn't the Brewers get the last out, they never even got one out in the fatal ninth. Lary Sorensen held a 6-4 lead but walked Larvell Blanks, hit John Ellis with a pitch and then threw wildly to first on John Grubb's sacrifice as Blanks scored. Billy Sample, who earlier hit his first major league homer, singled off Bill Castro to tie the score and Jerry Augustine intentionally walked Al Oliver before Bell's game-winning hit.

Indians 11, Angels 10

A two-out, two-run homer by Toby Harrah in the bottom of the ninth off Dave LaRoche tied the game. Bobby Bonds followed with a single off loser Mark Clear, stole second and scored on Andre Thornton's single, his fourth RBI. A two-run single by Tom Donohue in the seventh gave the Angels a 9-7 lead after they blew a 6-0 bulge. The rally gave Don Hood, the sixth Cleveland pitcher, his first victory since last July.

Yankees 4, Twins 1

Roy White and Mickey Rivers stroked run-scoring singles in a tie-breaking three-run ninth inning and the Yankees got four-hit pitching from Guidry and Ron Davis. Rookie Darryl Jones started the ninth off with a double and one out later White singled to snop a 1-1 tie and send Jerry Koonsman to his fifth consecutive setback.

Guidry allowed all four Minnesota hits before leaving after the seventh inning with an apparent back injury. Guidry was wheeled out of the locker room on a stretcher. His neck was in a brace and he appeared to be groggy but X-rays showed no fractures or nerve damage. The preliminary diagnosis was a muscle strain off the spine.

White Sox 12, Orioles 4

Junior Moore and Chet Lemon hit two-run singles in a seven-run second inning and Wayne Nordhagen and Claudell Washington slugged home runs as Chicago snapped Baltimore's six-game winning streak. Ken Kravec was the winner while loser Mike Flanagan was unable to retire a batter in the big second inning.

Tigers 9, A's 2

Designated hitter Rusty Staub knocked in three runs with a homer and a double and rookie Pat Underwood won for the second time in as many major league starts by hurling a six-hitter for his first complete game. Jerry Morales also homered for Detroit and Alan Trammell became the first Tiger to steal home since Al Kaline in 1973.

Mariners 5, Blue Jays 1

Dan Meyer, Joe Simpson and Larry Cox delivered RBI singles in the first inning and coasted behind Glenn Abbott's six-hit pitching. Meyer also homered for Seattle's final run in the ninth.

Putting Winners

Led by Irving Bennett, the Aces defeated the Top Ten last night, while the Ace Machines downed the King Putterers at Putt-Putt Golf Course.

Bennett's 62 paced his team, while Danny Harris had a 65 and Darrell Cox and Gene Frazier both had 66's. David Manning had a 63 for the Top Ten.

Carl White shot a 63 for the Ace Machines, while Gary Morgan was low for the King Putterers with a 65.

Net Events Scheduled

Two Greenville players are among the seeded for the State Heart Fund Tennis finals, to be played in Chapel Hill, starting Friday.

Dan Crittendon of Greenville is seeded third in the men's singles, behind defending champion Andrew Skakle of Kinston and Mark Boyles of Winston-Salem.

In the men's 35 singles, John Eatman of Greenville is also seeded third. Top seeded is Semi Mintz of Rockingham, while Don Miller of Selby is second-seeded. The tournament is scheduled to wind up on Sunday.

The 1979 Eastern Carolina Tennis Classic will be held July 6-8 at Aulander.

A men's doubles, and consolation tournament will be held in the event. A $10 entry fee per person is charged, and silver trays will be presented to the first and second place winners in each division.

The deadline for entries is Saturday, June 30. The field is limited to 32 teams.

Gminski's Move Had Nothing To Do With Knight's Coaching

By DICK BRINSTER
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Bob Knight has been accused of being less than a prince when it comes to handling difficult matters diplomatically, but Mike Gminski, who has quit Knight's Pan Am basketball team, has no complaints.

One of the last things Gminski, the Duke University All-American, had to say before he went underground Tuesday, was that he had no difference of opinion with Knight.

"Playing time didn't have anything to do with it," said Gminski, who called Knight Sunday to day he was too ill to remain with the team. "I wasn't unhappy with Coach Knight or anything like that. It was purely a physical situation."

Gminski, who has decided not to discuss the situation publicly any longer, said through his father that he had been sick to his stomach for several days. His father, Joe Gminski, said the 6-foot-11 center decided to withdraw from the team when he became ill on Saturday in Chicago.

His sudden departure brought speculation that Knight had not given him enough playing time. Gminski had shared duties with two other centers during a warmup tournament for the Pan Am Games.

His father, who spent much of Tuesday receiving calls in his Durham apartment, said Gminski became ill during the team's three-game series in Venice. According to his father, Gminski quit the team for that reason alone.

"I know a lot of people try to hang things on Bobby Knight, but he had nothing to do with why Mike quit," said the elder Gminski. "He got sick and had to go to the hospital in Chicago on Saturday. He came home Sunday and said he couldn't play."

Earlier published reports quoted Gminski as both confirming and denying he was unhappy because he was not playing enough. But if his play did not measure up to its usual standards Knight said he could not tell.

"It was difficult to evaluate the players because I had not seen very much of them," said Knight, who is preparing the U.S. team at Bloomington, Ind. "I couldn't tell how well he played because I had nothing to compare it to."

Knight said Gminski never said a word about playing time, noting that each member of the team was given an even chance to be observed. "He never complained to me or anybody else and I had no complaint with him," said Knight.

"He called me and said he had a viral infection that could develop into mononucleosis and therefore he would not be able to play. I have every reason to believe him."

Gminski's father said his son is feeling slightly better after a period during which he was unable to hold anything on his stomach.

"He's better today, but he's not his old perky self," said his father. "He would like to take a couple of days to relax and he just doesn't want to talk to anybody about it. Mike has been through some pretty rough times physically."

Sparky Named Tigers' Boss

DETROIT (AP) — Fifty-three games into the American League season, Jim Campbell saw the Detroit Tigers "just rocking along" a notch above .500.

So the team's president and general manager decided to rock the boat by firing low-key skipper Les Moss and hiring George "Sparky" Anderson, a self-described "crazy extrovert and wild enthusiast."

Anderson, 45, fired last November after nine seasons and two world championships in Cincinnati, agreed Tuesday to a five-year contract with the Tigers — the longest pact ever offered a Detroit manager.

"We're building an organization here," Campbell said.

"I think Sparky can be a cornerstone."

Anderson will reportedly earn $110,000 a year with Detroit.

Moss, 54, will be paid off for the remainder of his one-year agreement and has a spot somewhere in the Detroit system "if he wants one," Campbell said.

The Tigers were 27-26 under Moss, and Campbell said he was "just not satisfied" with the team's progress.

But, "had Sparky not been available, we would not have made the move at this time," Campbell said.

Anderson had been mentioned as the leading candidate to manage several clubs since leaving the Reds.

Good Year For ACC Recruiters

By The Associated Press

The Atlantic Coast Conference may have saved face after this year's successful basketball recruiting season.

Last winter's traumatic post-season tournament play for ACC teams left those outside the conference saying the league isn't all it's cracked up to be.

But then Ralph Sampson, the nation's most sought-after high school basketball player, chose Virginia.

Sampson, the 7-foot-3 center from Harrisonburg, Va., had been hearing every conceivable pitch college basketball's recruiters had to throw. He was not alone.

Among the most popular lines delivered by those talent scouts was the one about the ACC not being as good as its self-proclaimed reputation. Apparently they didn't do badly with that one.

The ACC sent an unprecedented five teams into battle in second-round play in the NCAA and NIT tournaments. Of those teams only Virginia was forced to play in unfriendly territory.

The Cavaliers lost, but so did North Carolina, Duke, Clemson and Maryland. The sales pitch simply read, "The ACC ain't what it used to be."

But basketball observers believe the ACC, primarily on the strength of Sampson landing at Virginia, has weathered the storm. The 1979 signees salvaged for the conference a satisfactory recruiting season.

Including Sampson, the ACC landed five of the nation's top 50 prospects. North Carolina got James Worthy (6-8) of Gastonia and Jimmy Braddock (6-1) of Chattanooga, Tenn.; North Carolina State claimed Sidney Lowe (6-0) of Hyattsville and Duke signed Tom Emma (6-2) of Manhasset, N.Y.

In the signing of top 50 prospects Kentucky fared the best, recruiting four. UCLA and Notre Dame signed three apiece. Indiana, Nevada-Las Vegas and San Francisco joined North Carolina with two signees each.

While ACC recruiters may not have enjoyed an All-America-type season for themselves, the conference as a whole should be strong, notwithstanding the events of last March 11-12.

With the likes of Duke's Mike Gminski and Gene Banks; North Carolina's Mike O'Koren, Dave Colescott and Al Wood; North Carolina State's Hawkeye Whitney and Clyde Austin; Maryland's Albert King and Greg Manning; Clemson's Billy Williams and Larry Nance; Virginia's Jeff Lamp and Lee Raker; Wake Forest's Frank Johnson and Georgia Tech's Lenny Horton returning, the ACC is far from hurting.

And when the top 50 prospects of the last five years are combined the ACC, with 37, is second only to the Big Ten's 44.

Little League

Welcome 8, Exchange 7

Wellcome scored three runs in the bottom of the sixth to gain an 8-7 win over Exchange yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League.

Wellcome pushed over three in the first inning. Lark Wetherington walked and was balked to second. Cedric Hines doubled him in, and Trave Fuqua singled. Russell Vines doubled, driving in both Hines and Fuqua.

Exchange came back with three in the second. Billy Michel reached on an error and moved to third on wild pitches. He scored on Monte Atkinson's single. Steve Childers got a hit, and both runners scored when Dale Hudson singled.

Exchange moved ahead with two in the fourth, but Wellcome matched it in the bottom of the frame. Exchange went back out with two in the top of the sixth.

Then, in the bottom of the sixth, Wellcome came up with three to win it. Bruce Thompson walked, as did Wetherington. Hines singled, scoring Thompson. Fuqua reached on a fielder's choice, with an error allowing Wetherington to score. Vines also was safe on a fielder's choice, scoring Hines with the game-ending run.

Atkinson led the Exchange hitting with three, while Hudson added two. Hines led Wellcome with three.

Wellcome is now 6-5, while Exchange is 5-6

Optimists 4, Coca-Cola 4

The Optimists held off a Coca-Cola rally in the fifth inning to gain a 4-3 win in the North State Little League yesterday.

The Optimists upped their record to 7-4, while Coke fell to 3-8.

Coke scored first, getting one in the second. Timmy Wood reached on a fielder's choice and Chris Hilliard walked. Bruce Gee doubled to score Wood.

The Optimists came up with two in the third. Steve Iaboni reached on an error and Gary Scott hit a two-run homer.

The other two came in the fifth and provided the difference. Iaboni singled and Scott again provided a two-run homer.

Coke came back to score two runs in the bottom of the fifth, but never caught up again.

Scott led the Optimists hitting, with three, while Gee had two for Coke.

Senior Babe Ruth

Winterville 6, Kiwanis 4

Winterville remained unbeaten in Senior Babe Ruth League playing, taking a 6-4 win over University Kiwanis last night. Winterville is now 5-0, while the Kiwanis are 2-3.

Winterville pushed over two runs in the first inning to take the lead. Sammy Tucker singled and moved up on an out. Mike Edens reached on a three-base error, scoring Tucker. Gary Brock then singled in Edens.

Winterville added a third run in the third, and another in the fourth.

The Kiwanis came up with their first run in the fifth. H.L. Austin walked, moved up when Woody Whichard walked, and took third on a passed ball. Arthur Fletcher reached on an error, scoring Austin.

Winterville then scored two in the top of the sixth to win it. Joel Brown singled and stole second. Peter Carmon reached on a three-base error, scoring Brown. Terry Mills walked, and stole second, getting caught in a rundown to allow Carmon to score.

The other three Kiwanis runs came in the bottom of the sixth.

Farmville 20, North Pitt 9

Farmville romped to a 20-9 victory over North Pitt last night in the Senior Babe Ruth League.

Farmville is now 2-2, while North Pitt is 1-2.

Farmville scored nine runs in the first inning to take the lead. Tim Garing reached on an error, as did Tony Eason. Allen Corbett reached on a fielder's choice, loading the bases. A wild pitch scored Garing, and Greg Oakley walked. David Joyner reached on an error, scoring Eason. Jeff Joyner walked to force in Corbett. Robbie Jones was safe on an error, scoring Oakley, and another wild pitch scored Joyner. Eddie Wooten walked and Mike Tugwell reached on an error, with Jeff Joyner scoring. Garing walked, forcing in Jones, and Eason reached on an error, scoring Wooten. Corbett hit a sacrifice fly to score Tugwell with the ninth run.

North Pitt came back with two in the first. Mickey Hines walked and moved up on an error on a pickoff try. Jerry Pitt also walked and stole second. Both scored on Ronnie House's single.

North Pitt came up with four in the second to cut the lead to 9-6.

Farmville scored two in the fourth to assure the win. Oakley doubled and scored on David Joyner's single. Jeff Joyner got a hit, and a single by Jones brought in David Joyner with the 11th Farmville run.

Farmville went on to score two in the fifth, two in the sixth and five in the seventh. North Pitt got three more in the sixth.

Eason led the Farmville hitting with three, while Corbett and Oakley each had two. Pitt had two for North Pitt.

North Admits Chances Of Defense Unlikely

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Andy North realizes his chances of becoming the first golfer in 28 years to win back-to-back United States Opens are improbable, if not impossible.

"But who knows. I like to think I can or I wouldn't be here," said North after a practice tour Tuesday of Inverness Club, the site of the Open for the fourth time.

Ben Hogan, in 1950-51, was the last to capture consecutive Opens. The only others in the 79 years of America's No. 1 golf tournament were Willie Anderson (1903-04-05), John McDermott (1911-12) and Bobby Jones (1929-30).

North does not rank with the favorites. Since his Open triumph at Cherry Hills last June, the tall, lanky 29-year-old has finished in the top 10 just once.

The line of favorites starts with Tom Watson and includes Jack Nicklaus, Lanny Wadkins, Fuzzy Zoeller, Lee Trevino, Gray Player and Andy Bean.

The field of 138 professionals and 15 amateurs facing the first round Thursday includes 11 former Open champions. The titleholders are led by three-time winner Nicklaus and two-time king Trevino.

Watson, 29, recognized by nearly everyone as the game's No. 1 current player, numbers no Open title among his 15 victories.

"You must win an Open to be recognized as a truly great player," says Watson.

A victory here would add more luster to a great 1979 for the red-haired Missourian. Watson has won four times and has been second four more in 14 starts for earnings of almost $354,000 — just $8,000 from his all-time record in 1978.

For Nicklaus, it's simply a matter of winning. The man with 15 major professional titles and more than $3.8 million in career earnings, both unparalleled, has not won since Philadelphia last July.

The 39-year-old Nicklaus is fighting over-the-hill talk. He's been in the top 10 only once in eight 1979 starts and frankly admits, "I need a win under my belt to get untracked."

Marathon Runs Are Planned

Plans for two marathons have been announced. One will be held between Washington and Belhaven, and the other in Union Grove.

The third annual Washington-Belhaven 26-mile Run/Walk-Run/Bicycle Marathon will be held July 4, kicking off the annual Belhaven Fourth of July Festival, and raising funds for the World Vision International.

The marathon will begin from the parking lot of the Y-Grocery located on River Road, five miles east of Washington, and will proceed down Highway 308 to the intersection of Highway 264, and from there through Yeatsville and Pantego into downtown Belhaven.

Each participant will receive certificates of appreciation, trophies, or medallions, depending upon order of finish. Four categories are scheduled for competition: run; walk/run (scout's pace); bicycle; and special mode of transportation, such as speed-walk, unicycle, horseback, wheelchair, etc.

Winners will be recognized in four divisions, also: women, men, children 12 and under; and seniors (35 and over).

Entry fees are $3 in advance and $5 the day of the event. First starting times will begin at 4:30 a.m., for walkers, and be staggered through 7 a.m.

The course will be measured at 6.2, 10, 15 and 20 miles, allowing those who wish to run a specific portion and walk the rest of the way.

Entry fees or donations may be sent to OCMF Fund, Box 5051, Raleigh, N.C. 27650.

The Union Grove Marathon, planned to become an annual event, will be held on September 8.

The 10 a.m. race will begin near the Yackin River at Elkin-Jonesville and end at Union Grove, on the grounds of the Old Time Fiddlers' Convention, which is sponsoring the event in cooperation with the Autumn Leaf Bluegrass Festival.

The champion will be presented a trophy and winners and runners-up in each division will also receive awards. Certificates will be presented to all finishers.

Further information and entry forms can be obtained by writing J. Pierce VanHoy, Box 38, Union Grove, N.C. 28689.

'Abundance' Of Peaches

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — State investigators found more problem sites Tuesday in their examination of more than 1,000 acres of Eastern North Carolina tobacco damaged by fertilizer containing a potent herbicide.

William A. Wilder, assistant state agriculture commissioner, said new fields of tobacco thought to be contaminated were found in Wayne and Harnett counties.

Wilder met in Raleigh with agriculture officials and inspectors to discuss the contamination, now thought to exist in 12 counties.

The herbicide, picloram, found its way into shipments of three grades of fertilizer manufactured by Smith-Douglas Inc. at its Kinston plant.

The state Agriculture Department Monday halted the sales of the fertilizer grades. Company officials told the state Tuesday they were still unable to determine the source of the contamination.

Wilder said state scientists were attempting to determine the concentrations of the contaminant and whether to allow the damaged tobacco on the market.

The 12 counties with sites under investigation for possible contamination are: Brunswick, Craven, Columbus, Duplin, Harnett, Iredell, Lenoir, Onslow, Richmond, Sampson, Wake and Wayne.

The contamination was discovered when tobacco farmers complained last week that some of their tobacco appeared unhealthy, with the leaves and buds drooping and curling.

ATTACKED ARAB HOMES

Flew With Presidents- They All Preferred Steak

By RICHARD H. GROWALD
UPI National Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The man who flew with presidents remembers the time Richard Nixon made a joke.

"We were flying from Moscow during his presidency and Mr. Nixon was sitting with (H.R.) Bob Haldeman and he asked me if we had any eggs," says Lee Simmons.

For two decades and four presidents Simmons, 48, served aboard Air Force One, mostly as chief steward. In a New York restaurant, The Summerhouse, he remembers his craft, carefully thanking the waiter for each served dish, fork and glass.

"I left Mr. Nixon's compartment and asked the Air Force One cook, Sgt. Russ Reed, if we had eggs. Russ said no, we had left Washington 10 days ago and the eggs had become old and he had tossed them out in Moscow.

"I went up forward and told the President we had no eggs. Mr. Nixon nodded and said, 'Well, then, do you have any chickens?'"

"I said I would check and was starting to go when Haldeman said, no, the President was making a joke about chickens producing eggs," Simmons says.

Simmons smiled. "That's what I remember of President Nixon's humor," he said.

He served two Democrats, John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson, and two Republicans, Nixon and Gerald Ford, on Air Force One. Simmons does not discuss politics. His memory is more personal.

"Ah, Republican or Democrat, it made no difference. They all loved steak best of all on Air Force One." He grins at the steak on his restaurant plate.

Simmons has his favorite. He likes best the President who displayed an unending appetite for butter pecan ice cream. He left the Air Force and its Number One plane upon President Carter's inauguration and went into private service for the butter pecan champion, Gerald Ford.

"Air Force One always had that ice cream aboard when President Ford flew," he says. "One day (White House physician) Dr. (William) Lukash put Mr. Ford on a diet and sent us a list of proper foods and butter pecan ice cream was not on it."

"By mistake a lunch tray was handed the President with butter pecan ice cream on it. President Ford ate it up before touching anything else on the tray and told us not to tell Dr. Lukash."

Simmons still frets he did not serve Kennedy well enough on that President's first flight. "I was too much in awe; it was my first Air Force One flight," he says.

And Simmons remembers fear. "I was afraid of President Johnson. If something went wrong, he would bawl out the nearest person to hand, no matter what the trouble was, and I was near at hand very often.

"Once, during an Air Force One conference, President Johnson ordered soup and I served it and it sat there 15 minutes while he continued in conference. So, when he tried it, it was cold. He complained. We reheated the soup — including the spoon."

Simmons, born in Akron, Ohio, and once a rubber factory worker there and 20 years the "man in the aisle" of Air Force One, clasps his hands and remembers his favorite moment.

"When President Ford left Washington in January 1977, he flew to California on Air Force One and I was on that plane — as a guest, no longer a crewman.

"At first I felt something was wrong. I knew what it was; I was sitting there, a member of the Ford staff, seated when cabinet members sit.

"I had told myself I wouldn't do it. But I did it. I reached up and pushed the button summoning the steward.

"Down the aisle came Sgt. Eddy Cecil. Did I wish something? I said, yes, I would like a glass of that famous Air Force One lemonade. Sgt. Cecil smiled and got it.

"That glass of lemonade was the best thing I ever drank in my life."

Simmons, the Ford family's major White House souvenir, acts as steward, travel agent, scout, valet and man-Monday-through-Friday for the former first family.

He comments that Ford's hosts, and those entertaining presidents the past 20 years, have a habit of serving a president too strong a drink. "Much liquor and little water in the glass," he says. "A president can always expect kickapoo juice."

the man who flew with president has these suggestions for air travelers:

—Never board a plane with an empty stomach. Always eat before flying. An empty stomach makes an air traveler queasy.

—A good excuse for a drink is flying. An alcoholic drink can calm a nervous passenger.

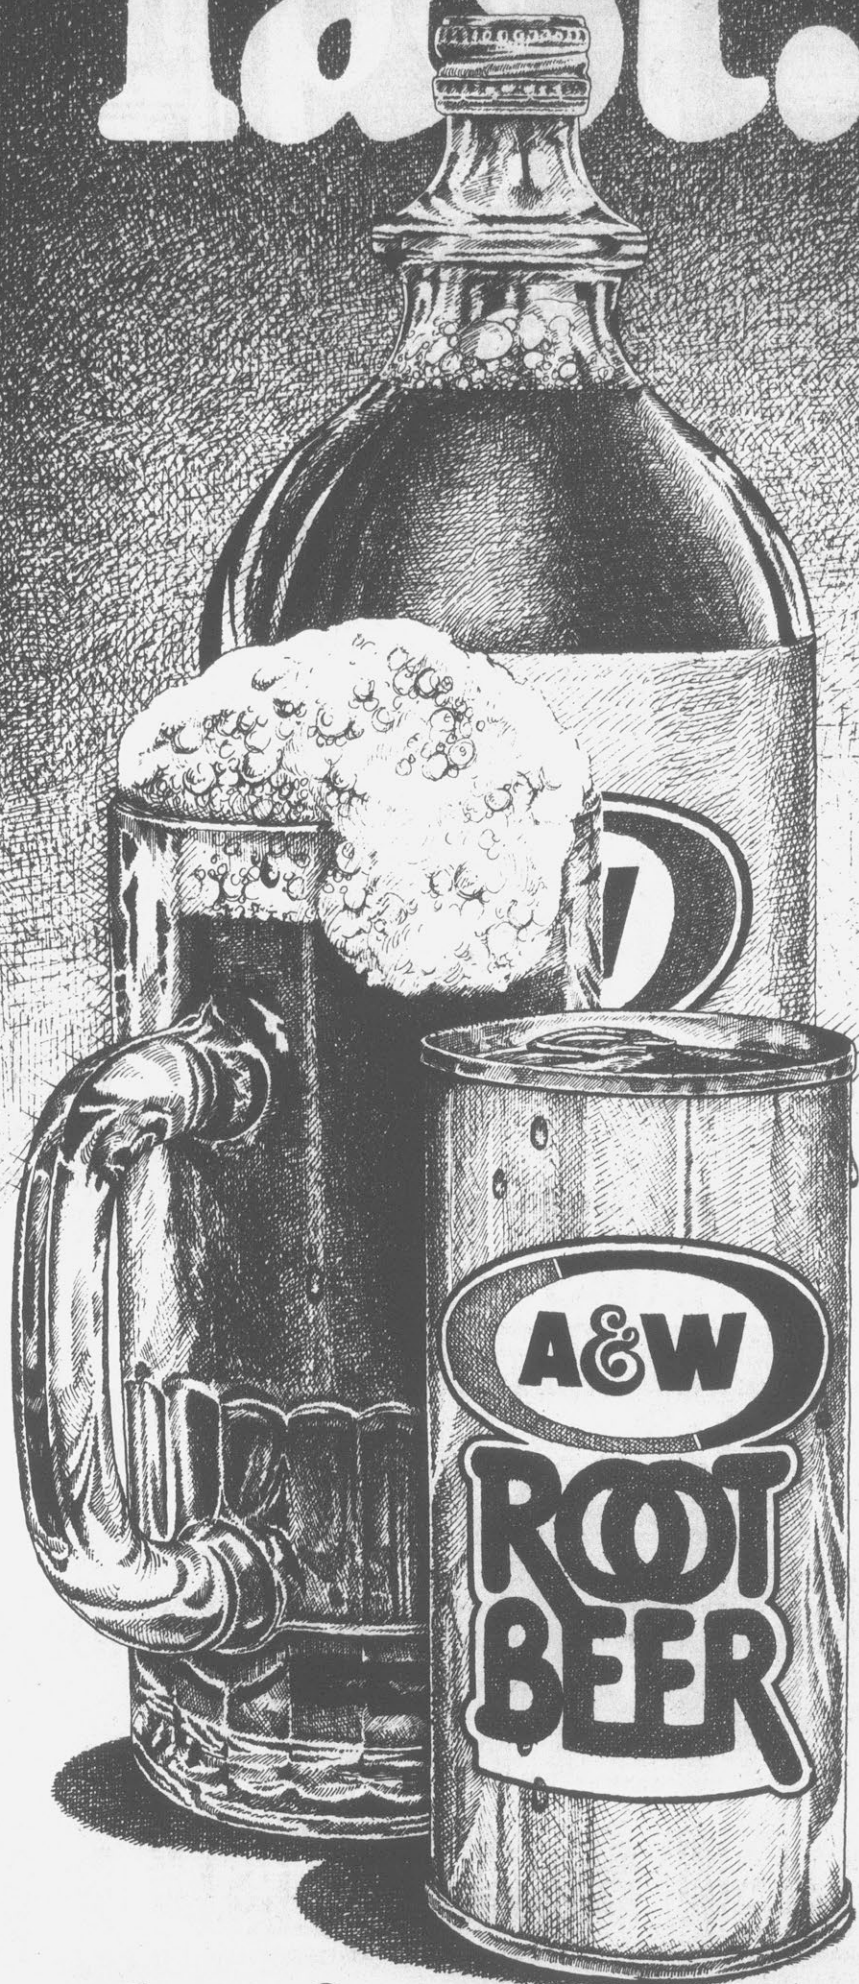

—During the flight, eat no foods — such as beans or sauerkraut — that produce gas in the tummy. Makes an air traveler uncomfortable.

—Always put a name tag on all luggage. Simmons says every case of lost luggage by persons traveling with presidents has been due to failure to have a name tag on the suitcase.

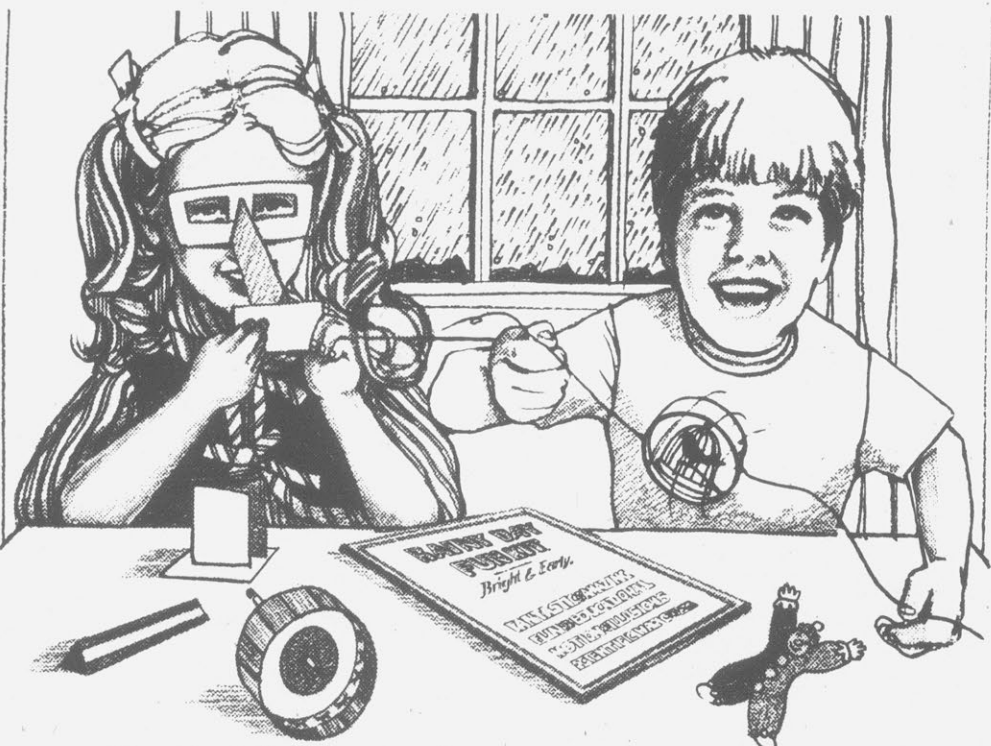

LEE SIMMONS, who served aboard the presidential plane for four presidents, says "they all loved steak best". (UPI Photo)

U.S. Aggies To Aid China Food Needs

By ALINE MOSBY PEKING (UPI) — The United States has started a far reaching program to help China solve the age old problem of providing food for its millions. To wring more food out of China's good earth, a dozen heads of American agriculture colleges will set up a training program here this summer.

One American expert recently on a tour of China, Edward Schuh, deputy undersecretary of the Department of Agriculture, said that since 1949 — the year of China's communist revolution — there has been only a small annual increase in per capita availability of food.

"In effect, they have done little more than stay ahead of the population increase," he said. "Agriculture is an enormous problem here."

China recently disclosed that the amount of arable land has decreased because of industrial expansion. Because of population growth, the area of food-producing land per person is only half what it was at the time of the revolution.

The American farm program for China also includes:

- sending U.S. experts to modernize bakeries so the Chinese will bake more bread and thus use more wheat. The Chinese now eat little bread, mainly in the form of rolls.
- teaching China to use soybeans as food for animals.
- showing the Chinese how to improve the quality of breeding cattle.

- two-way exchanges of experts on pest control, animal health and seeds.

Schuh said the program also will benefit the United States because the Chinese are expected to then import more American wheat and soybeans. And American farmers may stand to learn something from Chinese techniques.

The United States also expects to sell large quantities of farm machinery to China. Mechanization of agriculture to improve production has been said by Chinese leaders to have top priority.

During the recent tour of China by U.S. Commerce secretary Juanita Kreps, members of her delegation noted rows of American farm machines lined up along a road near Shanghai.

The new yellow machines will contrast strikingly with the usual Chinese farm scene — the bent back of the peasant in a wide straw hat, the water buffalo, and the simple plough — little changed in 2,000 years.

"There is so little mechanization on farms here that labor productivity is low," Schuh said. "They have concentrated instead on productivity of the land, depending largely on commercial fertilizer with some night soil. They need more fertilizer, too, and have contracted to build fertilizer plants."

"Their land does better on crop yields per acre than Brazil and most of Latin America and India. The United States did the opposite, raising labor productivity with farm mechanization. But our yields per acre were the lowest in the world. Now we are concerned about land productivity."

Schuh said China has invested heavily in irrigation and 40 percent of the land now is irrigated.

Schuh said that China will import 5 million to 6 million tons of grain from the United States this year and about the same amount in 1980.

China so far plans to pay for the food in cash although it is eligible for credits under the 1978 Farm Trade Act.

Electric power production is another area where the United States can help China, said another expert traveling with Mrs. Kreps.

Tom Hayes, chairman of International Engineering Corp. of San Francisco, which builds hydroelectric dams, said he gave the Chinese three proposals on power plants and transmission projects.

"They have an ambitious plan for power, including 20 hydroelectric plants to achieve 450 to 500 megawatts by the year 2000, ten times their present capacity," he said.

Gasohol Gets A 2nd Chance

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Henry Ford used it to run the nation's first autos, the Germans used it to stretch fuel supplies during World War II and now it's taking the second gasoline crisis within five years for the product to become popular.

"It" is gasohol, a mixture of alcohol and unleaded gasoline and motorists who use it swear by its performance.

"It's the best I've ever used," said mechanic Steve Pearce of Raleigh, one of the original Raleigh gasohol customers.

Pearce said he pays an additional two cents per gallon — 85.9 — for gasohol. "This is all I've been running since it came out. It doesn't harm anything and I get better mileage. I don't care where it comes from. It works better," he said.

The fuel comes from Midwestern corn distilled into alcohol in Philadelphia and Decatur, Ill.

Wake Auto Sales in downtown Raleigh became the first service station in the Carolinas to begin selling the mixture on May 17.

This week, five service stations in the Carolinas were pumping about 7,500 gallons of gasohol a day. By next weekend five more stations will be selling it, and by the end of the year gasohol may be available at more than 150 Carolinas outlets. Should the mixture become more popular throughout the nation it would make the U.S. less dependent on foreign oil sources. One of those who has been strong in his support of gasohol is South Carolina Gov. Dick Riley.

After World War II, the Germans, Swiss and Austrians began working on better methods for producing the concoction, and New Zealand imported American cars specifically altered to perform on a high proportion of alcohol.

Gasohol was taken seriously in the U.S. during the 1973 gas crisis but did not gain appreciably in popularity until this year.

Summer Camp Trims Weight

By MARY ELLEN HASKETT
 United Press International
 Cynthia was an unhappy 14-year-old girl hiding from the world because she weighed 270 pounds. With some work, she became a happy, 120-pound college student.

She is one of the 250 overweight teen-agers who spend seven weeks in the Catskill Mountains near Ferndale, N.Y., each summer an accredited co-educational weight control camp — Camp Shane.

The "fat kids' camp" forces boys and girls aged 7 to 17 to exercise in normal outdoor activities and avoid fattening foods. They usually leave camp from 10 to 50 pounds lighter.

"For 14 years, I was a miserable fat kid until I came here," said Cynthia, who has spent several summers at the camp opened in 1969 by Irving and Selma Ettinberg.

"I'm probably the oldest camper in the world," said Mrs. Ettinberg, 50, who calls herself a reformed "foodaholic." "I started going to camp when I was 32 as a head counselor and worked several years as director of a diet camp."

She said overweight children usually shun summer camp and its athletic competitions.

"But I think every kid should go to camp. It's a great experience. I run a traditional camp. I don't think fat kids should be treated differently."

The young campers are offered the standard activities — swimming, tennis, soccer, football, basketball, golf, gymnastics, hikes and overnight camp-outs.

They also are required to do calisthenics for half an hour each day.

Meals at the camp combine good nutrition with foods children like, she said. No candy or "junk food" is allowed in the 1,400 calories a day each camper receives.

Mrs. Ettinberg, who weighed 200 pounds at age 15 and still must watch her calories, teaches daily sessions on nutrition — healthy, low-calorie food — and behavior modification ("If you always stop at the doughnut shop on your way home, find a different way home").

"The kids know every cockamamie diet there is, but they don't know anything about nutrition," Mrs. Ettinberg said. She tells them how to eat better — fruit and vegetables instead of "junk food," a coffee and milk milkshake instead of a chocolate malt.

Mrs. Ettinberg said Camp Shane has three goals for its campers: Promoting their health and safety, giving them a good time and helping them lose weight.

"They're a captive audience. They're going to lose weight so it might as well be fun," she said. "Losing weight at camp is simple, it's when they get home that they have problems."

The daily "rap sessions" help the campers understand how to eat less when they leave camp. Some rules: One piece of pizza is nutritious, but stop before the entire pizza is gone; order chicken instead of lasagne at an Italian restaurant; and make a list of everything you eat.

Mrs. Ettinberg said the children come from all over the world, but many have Italian or Jewish backgrounds and come from families where food and meals are the focus of good times and traditional gatherings.

To make sure there's no on-the-sly eating, the Ettinbergs and the 90 counselors take precautions. When campers are allowed to leave for trips into Ferndale, they can't take money with them.

Most out-of-camp activities are arranged in advance.

"When we take them bowling, we arrange for diet soft drinks to be waiting for them," Mrs. Ettinberg said. "We give them pickles to take to the movies."

At the end of the summer, the campers are taken to shop for new outfits — several sizes smaller than the clothes they wore to camp.

"It's very gratifying — the positive way the kids react," she said.

The camp, which costs $1,475 for the seven-week session that begins at the end of June, does not attract many grossly overweight teen-agers because it is co-educational, said Mrs. Ettinberg.

But one girl at the camp noted, "Fat boys are better than no boys at all and besides, they're getting thinner all the time."

Julie Andrews Is Back In Hollywood

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Julie Andrews has come back to town to make her first Hollywood movies in almost nine years.

Her return cannot be interpreted as a "comeback" in the conventional sense because she has been seen frequently in television specials.

She starred in "10," to be released later this year, for her director husband Blake Edwards and is currently costarring with Walter Matthau in "Little Miss Marker."

The English-born star was in her Universal Studios dressing room the other afternoon with her short blonde hair in pin curls. A makeup specialist daubed on eye shadow.

She still managed to look serenely beautiful.

Since the late 1950s when she mesmerized American audiences on Broadway in "My Fair Lady," Julie has been fighting her public image of pristine innocence. Her screen reputation was established by two of the most popular films ever made, "Mary Poppins" and "The Sound of Music."

She further enhanced herself as a pillar of virginal rectitude in a third boxoffice bombshell, "Thoroughly Modern Millie."

Julie changes all that in "10," playing a contemporary light opera star whose boyfriend takes off in pursuit of a younger beauty. She probably will shock a segment of "Mary Poppins" fans with some un-Poppins-like expletives.

"I use some four-letter words," Julie said, smiling. "But I sometimes manage a few of them in private life, too."

"As a contemporary woman in '10' I use contemporary language. Her morals and standards are just as high as Maria Von Trapp's in 'Music.' But she is a straight, cool sophisticate who has been around.

"I think the public will be able to tolerate anything I do or say, on screen. It was the people who made movies in the old days who wanted to keep me in the sweet and innocent mold."

"Anything as successful as 'Poppins' and 'Music' inevitably encourages producers to maintain an image."

"A whole new generation has grown up since 'Poppins.' Youngsters tell me their mothers loved my movies. And sometimes I'm asked if I still sing. Of course, I do. I sing a song in '10.'"

Julie was interrupted by the appearance of Jim Garner whose TV series, "The Rockefeller File," is filmed at Universal. They costarred in 1963 in "The Americanization of Emily" before she gained her reputation for screen purity.

They embraced and Garner accepted a cup of tea.

"We don't see as much of each other as we should," Garner said. "Lois (his wife) and I don't go out much."

"Blake and I are homebodies, too. Not much for partying," Julie said. "But Jim and I bump meet in the doctor's office from time to time. We share the same internist."

The fact that Julie's home is in Gstaad, Switzerland, and Garner's in Bel Air doesn't make for get-togethers either.

Julie returned to the subject of her change of image in "10." Garner grinned. "A lady can say anything and get away with it. Some other types can't carry it off."

After catching up on the latest family news, Garner kissed Julie goodbye.

When he was gone, Julie said, "It was great fun working with Jim. In one love scene in 'Emily' we spent a day in bed involved in a warm embrace."

"While I was still lying there, one of the women on the set asked me if I was affected by working with an exciting leading man like Jim in such intimate circumstances."

"I said, 'Of course not. It didn't affect me at all. Then I got out of the bed and my legs buckled. Honestly.'"

Julie is enjoying herself working with Matthau in "Little Miss Marker," but she is more enthusiastic about "10" than any film she has done in years. It is the third movie under her husband's direction. The others were "Darling Lili" and her last picture, "The Tamarind Seed."

"It's a joy working with Blake," she said. "I feel altogether safe. How many chances does an actress have to really talk to her director?"

"We discuss our work on the way home to our beach house in Malibu every day. But once we got home we were too busy with domestic chores — children, the dog and that sort of thing, to hash over the picture."

"When we're working together, I become a very professional actress. But I do want to please Blake more than

I do other directors. It gives me a greater sense of responsibility.

"The best part is that it allows us to spend a great deal more time together."

Julie and Blake are planning to team in yet another picture, "S.O.B.," in which Julie plays an actress who wins an Oscar for her performance in "Peter Pan."

"Sounds like a bit of type-casting, doesn't it," Julie said, grinning.

Import A Week Of British TV

By PETER J. BOYER
 AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some might suggest that network television's summer fare — reruns and didn't-make-it-pilots — is enough to make viewers wish they were elsewhere. KHJ-TV Channel 9, a local independent TV station here, hopes to capitalize on those sentiments.

Channel 9 has chucked its usual prime-time fare — movies, game shows and the like — for a week of programs from Britain. The station has bought a package of shows from Thames Television, the biggest commercial TV supplier in England. The package includes comedy, adventure, documentary, drama, specials and news.

The station's brass got the idea from Channel 9 in New York, KHJ's sister station, which ran a week of British TV about two years ago. It was a huge success, with the station's ratings soaring to about twice the usual numbers.

"It did very well in New York," said Lionel Schaan, KHJ's general manager, "but they did it about a week before the networks premiered their new fall shows. We elected to do it now, when the networks are all doing reruns."

He figures that "Thames on 9" could put KHJ ahead of the local network affiliates, for at least a week, anyway, and predicts:

Katharine Ross And 1,000 Men

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Katharine Ross will costar with Kirk Douglas in "The Final Countdown," an action drama in which the actress will be the only woman in a film with a cast of 1,000 men.

Much of the action will feature the crew of the U.S.S. Nimitz nuclear aircraft carrier which is a major part of the story.

"The Final Countdown" will feature Martin Sheen and James Farentino with Don Taylor directing for Bryna Productions which is owned by costar Douglas.

"I think this is going to be one of the most successful weeks in TV for any independent station in this country. The curiosity factor is going to be very strong."

British commercial TV, though, isn't the class act many may suppose it to be after having seen Alistair Cooke a few dozen times. Some of it is very good, but some of it, especially the comedies, are as cheap and sleazy as the cheapest and sleaziest of American shows.

And jiggle ... the British have made TV jiggle a special art.

But it is different, and another sign that independent television stations are beginning to think of themselves as legitimate competitors with the networks.

"It gives us another supplier from which to draw," Schaan says. "The independents have really expanded their horizons over the past few years. We're not dependent on reruns so much, we're starting to program original vehicles."

"Whether we're buying it from London or here, we're trying to buy the best and to be viable competitors. In many markets, we're achieving just that."

$10,000 Prize To Songwriters

NEW YORK (UPI) — A $10,000 prize for songwriters is being offered by the town of Castlebar in County Mayo, western Ireland.

That is the first prize in the 14th annual Castlebar International Song Contest, to be held Oct. 1-6. All told $20,000 in prize money is being offered, making the contest the richest of its kind in Europe. Last year's contest attracted 1,100 entries from 28 countries.

Entries must be original and unpublished and the closing date for entries is July 14. Applications may be obtained from the Irish Tourist Board, 590 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10036.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠.

If we told you that a slam could be bid and made on a combined count of 12 high-card point, you would be right to treat our statement with skepticism. Yet if we stated, unequivocally, that it was not possible to reach and make a slam with only 12 points in the two hands, you would be fully justified in calling us liars.

South did not pass on his near bust for fear that West would convert East's takeout double to penalties—a prospect South did not relish. After West's strength-showing cue-bid, North feared that, because of the distributional nature of his hand, his opponents might be able to make a slam in a black suit. In an effort to keep them from getting together, he decided to pre-empt all the way to the six-level. With some of his values in diamonds, East's decision to double rather than gamble on a spade slam cannot be faulted.

West got off to his natural lead—the ace of his shorter suit—then sat back, a helpless spectator to what followed. Dummy ruffed the opening lead and the ace of hearts was cashed to give declarer a club discard. He took careful note that West followed to this trick with the ten.

Next declarer cashed the ace of diamonds, revealing the unfortunate news that he had a trump loser. A heart ruff felled West's queen, and a spade ruff in dummy provided the entry to lead the jack of hearts for a ruffing finesse. When East failed to cover, declarer discarded another club. A heart ruff set up the suit, and declarer entered dummy with another spade ruff to lead a high heart. East ruffed with his master trump, but declarer shed his last club and claimed the rest of the tricks.

Had West led a club originally, the defenders would have defeated the contract one trick. But that would have been a cheap price for North-South to pay because East-West could have made 11 tricks at a spade contract.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. # Rail Safety Agency Under Fire

By LEE MITGANG
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Railroad Administration, created 12 years ago to enforce rail safety, faces a mounting challenge from Congress and other agencies that claim the FRA hasn't done the job.

This comes following several rail accidents involving hazardous cargo and at a time when interest in passenger rail travel has revived because of the short supply of gasoline.

Among the criticisms is a congressional report saying that FRA's inspection force is too small to insure compliance with safety standards. Another report notes that in one year fewer than one-sixteenth of hazardous-material tank cars were inspected. And a third charges FRA tardiness in responding to safety recommendations.

Joseph Walsh, the newly appointed head of FRA's Office of Safety, conceded in an interview that many flaws exist. But he said FRA's track standards, formulated in 1971, have helped reduce track-related accidents for trains traveling over 40 mph, and steadied the rate for trains traveling between 10 mph and 40 mph.

However, he noted that the number of accidents under 10 mph has risen sharply, and conceded that one reason for this is that deteriorating track is forcing trains to travel more slowly.

Overall, FRA's own statistics show a worsening rail safety picture since the agency's founding in 1967. That year, there were 7,294 rail accidents that caused at least $750 in damage. To account for inflation the FRA now measures only accidents of at least $2,900 damage; in 1978 the agency listed 10,991 such accidents.

Rep. James J. Florio, D-N.J., chairman of the House subcommittee on transportation and commerce, told The Associated Press he plans hearings this summer on rail transport of hazardous materials.

He said his committee will examine whether there are "too many darned agencies" involved in rail safety. In various ways, the FRA, the National Transportation Safety Board, the Materials Transportation Bureau, and the Interstate Commerce Commission make decisions affecting rail safety.

"I honestly don't know what the chairman (Florio) is talking about," said Walsh, adding he believes the various federal agencies work well together.

The proposed hearings follow several sharply critical federal reports on the FRA's performance as the U.S. rail safety enforcer.

The transportation safety board issued a report in March that concluded:

—The FRA's safety inspectors spend, on average, "less than 50 percent of their productive time on inspections."

—The FRA's hazardous materials safety program "is fragmented and reactive without established goals, objectives or criteria by which success can be determined."

—Though the FRA has sharply increased fines for safety violations — $7.5 million in 1978, more than double the year before — "there is currently no indication the FRA safety program is reducing the number of track-caused derailments."

A report released in January by the General Accounting Office focused on the FRA's apparent tardiness in responding to recommendations of the National Transportation Safety Board.

The board's recommendations to the FRA are not legally binding, but the FRA is required to respond within 90 days. The GAO found that of 76 safety recommendations to the FRA in 1975-1977, the FRA complied with that limit in just 15 cases. In the remaining 61 cases, the FRA took an average of 247 days, and as much as 610 days.

Walsh said of the GAO report: "I suppose I'd have to say it's a fair finding. When I took over, I found board recommendations that go back to 1971. I've been talking with the chairman of the safety board to see how we can close them out."

But he added the 90-day requirement is unfair for some of the more complex safety board recommendations.

Another report released in April by the Senate Committee on Commerce, Science, and Transportation concluded that: "The inspection forces of... FRA are so small that they can make no more than a token number of inspections of those parts of the hazardous materials industry that they are responsible for."

money for 380 safety inspectors, including 65 new positions, according to Walsh. But the FRA has only 334 of these jobs filled, many with clerical workers. Only 16 are considered hazardous materials inspectors.

Walsh said 42 more inspectors will be hired soon, adding that it hasn't been easy to lure applicants who have the necessary experience with railroads. "You can't just go out on the street and say, 'Okay, Congress has given me money and now I'll go out and hire,'" he said.

The Senate report cited statistics to back its conclusion that the FRA — along with other Department of Transportation agencies — "do not take vigorous enforcement action."

Of 160,000 railroad tank cars that regularly transport hazardous materials, 9,700 were inspected by the FRA in 1977, the latest year for which figures are available.

—That same year, the average penalty against railroads for safety violations was $1,451. The maximum allowed by law is $10,000.

Questions also have been raised by union leaders such as United Transportation Union representative James Snyder, over the staffing of the FRA's upper echelons.

The head of the FRA, Jack Sullivan, who was co-chairman of President Carter's 1976 election campaign in Pennsylvania, was appointed in 1977. He came to the job with no previous experience in railroads.

Drug-Using U.S. Soldier Just An Average American Citizen

By WELLINGTON LONG
STUTTGART, West Germany (UPI) — U.S. military officers, trying to get a handle on the army's growing drug problem, describe the typical soldier-user as an average young American.

Medical officers who have treated thousands draw this profile of the average American military drug user:

A white, unmarried, male high school graduate, in the service for between one and three years, working in the job for which he was trained and now either a private, private first class or corporal.

The number of such American soldiers using both soft and hard drugs already is high. But army officers and senior sergeants assigned to bring the situation under control report a rising trend in hard drugs use during the past year.

The statistics may be, and probably are, inadequate. For instance, surprise urinalysis of company size units among the 88,000 soldiers in the VII Corps headquartered in Stuttgart showed 3 percent take hard drugs.

Opinion surveys among the same soldiers indicate that as many as 7 or 8 percent may use hard drugs at least once a month while up to 40 percent may use soft drugs.

"Most soldiers now using drugs in Europe either used or experimented with soft drugs in the United States before joining the army," says a veteran drug abuse officer.

He attributes the recent rise in use to "increased availability of heroin in Europe."

The U.S. and West German governments are improving their cooperation in an attempt to suppress and interrupt the supply of hard drugs, most of which apparently now comes to Western Europe from Turkey. American officers believe the West German government recently has taken a more concerned view of the problem than it did even a year ago.

All army drug abuse officers begin briefings by saying that "the army's biggest problem remains alcohol." Gen. George S. Blanchard, commanding general of the U.S. Army, Europe, has instituted a program to treat alcoholics, including senior officers and noncoms, and promises alcoholics will be promoted if they go through treatment and stay dry afterwards, although he has yet to sell his concept to the rest of the army.

Drug abuse rates greater attention because, unlike alcohol, drugs are illegal.

The army in Europe increased its drug suppression staffs in November, enabling a stepup in the number of drug busts. One of the largest occurred early this year in the 3rd Division when Operation Snow White resulted in 92 soldier arrests and the seizure of $1.29 million worth of drugs. Of the soldiers, 22 received bad conduct discharges and 29 administrative discharges.

A senior sergeant involved in the anti-drug campaign since it began in 1973 reports:

—He cannot recall an officer being caught using hard drugs.

—He sees no correlation between drug use and race.

—While most of the soldier-users of heroin turned up in the mid-70s were addicts who required detoxification, soldiers now being caught for heroin use generally are not addicts and do not require detoxification.

"Apparently now, they'll use whatever is available at the moment," the sergeant said. "They'll use any kind of dope or pills, even go from an upper to a downer and vice versa, and mix it all with liquor. In fact, most of those now dying are being killed by a combination of alcohol and pills."

Tripleheader In The Family

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — At 2 a.m. recently, the Craig Drouillard got a telephone call that they had a new nephew. A son was born to Drouillard's brother, Joseph.

At 5 a.m., the telephone rang again, this time announcing the birth of a daughter to Mrs. Drouillard's sister, Mrs. David Murray.

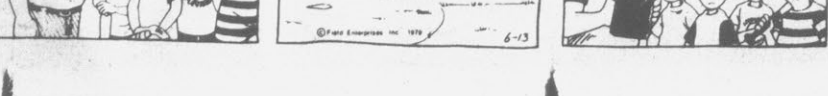

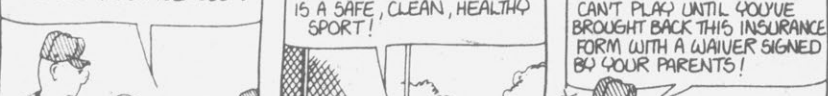

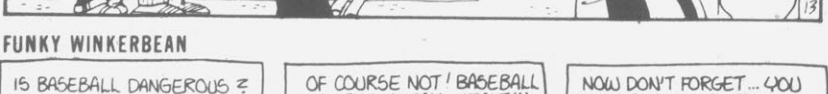

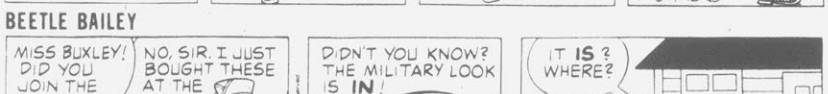

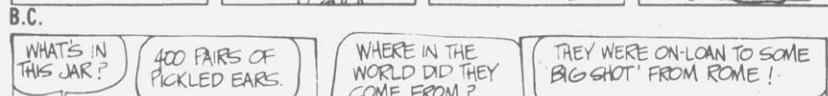

At 6 p.m., word came that Mrs. Drouillard's other sister, Mrs. Richard Malone, had just given birth to a son.

Hot Rocks For Heat, Cooling

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The hot rocks used in the nation's largest solar-energy system that heats and cools Honeywell's office here are not stolen diamonds.

In two huge underground tanks 580 tons of river rock along with 17,400 gallons of heat-transfer oil, are used to retain solar heat. On cloudy days and after sunset the stored heat can supply the needs of the eight-story building.

Doctor Is Basically A Writer

By PETER COSTA
NEW YORK (UPI) — From his wrist to his knuckles, a blue Nile of a vein ran in raised relief across the brown plain of his well-washed hand.

A metaphor of the man, his strong but uncalloused hands proclaimed him: surgeon.

A person of almost transuranium energy, Dr. Robin Cook, M.D., Boston eye surgeon, author of the best-selling book and film, "Coma," and writer of the new novel, "Sphinx," ($10.95, Putnam's), is also an accomplished woodworker, carpenter, electrician, impressionistic painter, Egyptologist and avid basketball player.

But when all his interests are distilled down, the one precipitate remaining is that of writer.

He spoke about the necessary apprenticeship he feels as a writer in an interview recently in New York.

"Just as I went through a training period to become a doctor, I feel I am in a training period for writing. I took all the wrong courses in college in terms of writing. I suffered from my education; it was so skewed in science," he said.

And yet he admits that there is less of divergence and conflict between the two cultures of science and writing than most people imagine.

"One thing medicine has done is that it has given me the opportunity to view experience, to witness crises. The range of experience afforded a doctor is unique. And that has given me subjects, topics to write about," he said.

"A surgeon is trained in episodic decision making. Surgery is crisp, sharp. You have to make second-by-second decisions in surgery — do I take the eye out now, can I save it, will this technique work, shall I try it, must I try it — and that kind of decision making compels you to have a clarity that other professions do not."

Nevertheless, there is something of the mechanic, something of the calculating literary engineer about Cook the novelist. For "Coma," he read over 200 paperback thrillers and took his pulse and blood pressure at those points he felt himself getting excited while reading. He then could chart those techniques and later use them in his own thriller, "Coma."

His current novel, "Sphinx," uses many of the excitement-enhancing devices that proved so successful in "Coma," but Cook insists that his new book is not a rewrite of "Coma."

"Coma" turned on one clever idea. This book has a more complicated plot, more intrigue. Even the setting, Egypt, is fascinating," he said.

But Cook admits he has to use more devices to keep the reader turning the pages than other successful writers of the suspense novel genre. But because of his reliance on such devices, "Sphinx" suffers from an emotional shallowness in parts. A few of his characters are, to use a phrase of E. M. Forster, flat as phonograph records.

"Maybe because I am so interested in the mechanics of fiction that it has become a self-fulfilling prophecy: I'm interested and therefore find it more interesting to write this type of fiction. But I have to use more devices than say someone like Puzo who can keep the reader reading on the sheer brilliance of his writing style," he said.

At 39, he looks a bit like Kirk Douglas' son, Michael. His hair is longer and grey not blond but he has the same distinctive chin. His high cheekbones thrust out from his face like ramparts protecting his bright grey-blue eyes. He is tall and thin and the thinness accentuates his height. His voice is slightly high in tone, and when he speaks he does so in a sparse, clipped way. It is easy to envision this man speaking the same such elliptical phrases through a surgical mask.

The conversation again returned to medicine.

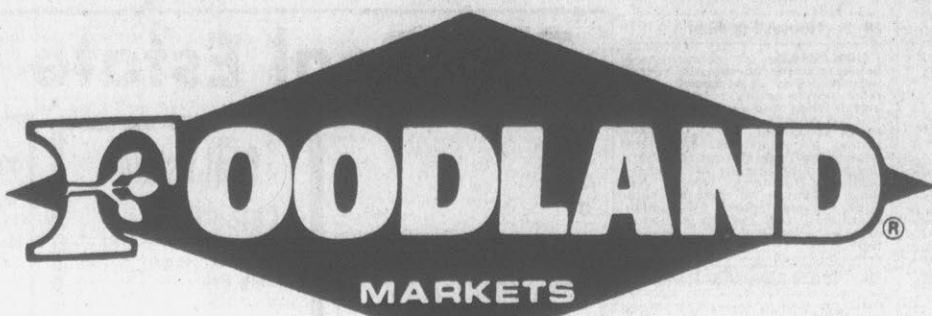

"The way we train doctors today, all that time we spend on the cardiovascular system, the urology system, the neurological systems, but almost no thought is given to the kind of stress we are going to put people through as doctors.

"And medicine today is ... well ... almost side by side, you see in some cities one institution that is consistently good next to one that is bad. It is as if our system automatically segregates the good doctors from the bad ones. The system doesn't rank doctors, it just orders them," he said.

How Tar Heel Senators, Representatives Voted

Roll Call Report Service
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 31 through June 6.

HOUSE
M-X MISSILE — The House rejected, 89 for and 311 against, an amendment to eliminate $265 million for a new "M-X" land-based, movable missile from a bill authorizing $1.3 billion in additional defense spending this fiscal year. The bill (HR 2575) was later passed and sent to conference with the Senate. It contained money for the missile.

Proponents say a movable missile such as the M-X is needed because current stationary land-based missiles will soon become vulnerable to a surprise Soviet attack. Opponents say submarine-launched and cruise missiles are sufficient to deter an attack.

Rep. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., sponsor of the amendment, said: "The M-X will stimulate the arms race and cause its own obsolescence....

Cheaper, safer alternatives are available. This weapons system is a dangerous departure on a new road."

Rep. Charles Dougherty, R-Pa., an opponent, said: "What we must do is what the Soviets require us to do. As long as they continue to develop sophisticated nuclear weapons, we have no choice but to respond."

Members voting "yea" favored eliminating money for the M-X.

Reps. Walter Jones, D-1, L.H. Fountain, D-2, Charles Whitley, D-3, Ike Andrews, D-4, Stephen Neal, D-5, Richardson Preyer, D-6, Charles Rose, D-7, W.C. Hefner, D-8, James Martin, R-9, and Lamar Gudger, D-11, voted "nay."

Rep. James Broyhill, R-10, did not vote.

MASS TRANSIT — By a vote of 127 for and 270 against, the House rejected an amendment to spend an additional $125 million this fiscal year for grants to develop mass transportation. The amendment was proposed to HR 4289, a fiscal 1979 appropriations bill later passed and sent to the Senate. The money was to have been in addition to $1.25 billion already appropriated to help states and localities buy buses, build subways and undertake other mass transit programs.

Rep. Hamilton Fish, R-N.Y., a supporter, said: "With people lining up at gas stations, we should be purchasing more buses and railcars."

Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., an opponent, said that in view of budget limitations, "we simply cannot afford to spend any more" for mass transit.

Members voting "yea" favored spending an additional $125 million for mass transit in the current fiscal year.

Jones, Fountain, Whitley, Andrews, Neal, Preyer, Hefner, Martin Broyhill and Gudger voted "nay."

Rose did not vote.

CITY MONEY — The House rejected, 159 for and 263 against, an amendment to transfer $200 million from the fiscal 1980 Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) program to the Community Development Block Grant fund. The amendment was proposed to HR 3875, a Housing and Urban Development (HUD) spending bill headed for final passage.

The purpose of the amendment was to downgrade the UDAG program, under which categorical grants are awarded to fund community development proposals which HUD feels are particularly innovative.

Rep. Dave Stockman, R-Mich., a supporter, said: "UDAG is a lousy, counter-productive shell game, and if we are going to waste money we might as well waste it honestly by pouring it into the community development boondoggle, because nobody is more accomplished at efficiently wasting money than the mayors who are getting that money today."

Rep. Stewart McKinney, R-Conn., an opponent, said the amendment "is going to take $200 million out of a targeted program that sends money where it is needed and...send money where it is not needed."

Members voting "yea" favored downgrading UDAG.

Jones, Fountain, Andrews, Martin and Broyhill voted "yea."

SENATE

TAIWAN — By a vote of 59 for and 35 against, the Senate adopted a non-binding resolution that criticized President Carter for terminating on his own the mutual defense pact with Taiwan. The resolution said that Senate approval is "required" before a President can end any treaty.

Although the vote does nothing to repair the Taiwan treaty that was ended when the U.S. opened diplomatic relations with Peking, it has symbolic value in that the Senate is scolding Carter for acting unilaterally.

Sen. Harry Byrd, I-Va., sponsor of the resolution, said it's his belief that the Senate has "a constitutional responsibility in regard to the termination of treaties just as it does in regard to the ratification of treaties...."

Sen. Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., an opponent, said that in place of Byrd's resolution he favored a similar but softer Foreign Relations Committee resolution. He called the latter "more protective of the role of the Congress...."

Sens. Robert Morgan, D, and Jesse Helms, R, voted "yea."

BUSING — The Senate voted to table, and thus kill, an amendment to outlaw school busing programs as energy-wasters. The vote to table was 52-39. It came during consideration of a bill (S 1030) dealing with energy conservation, later passed and sent to the House.

Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., a supporter of killing the amendment, said that while he is opposed to busing for racial purposes he felt this amendment was "not properly" part of the legislation at hand.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., an opponent of tabling and the sponsor of the amendment, said: "In developing pupil assignment plans, federal courts and bureaucracies have been as heedless of the energy drain created by unnecessary busing as they are of the other burdens these plans impose upon American society."

Senators voting "yea" were opposed to the amendment to ban school busing for racial purposes, in order to save energy. Morgan and Helms voted "nay."

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Drugs Can Damage Unborn Child

I'm pregnant. I'm in a class with 17 other women and we're learning the technique of natural childbirth. Of course, we all get to know each other very well. I was shocked to find out that one of the pregnant women sniffs cocaine. I don't know how many others smoke marijuana. This has never come up for discussion because the instructor knows nothing about it, and I'm not about to tattle. I would like to say something to them privately. I need your support for this. — Mrs. V.E.L., N.J. Dear Mrs. L.:

I've previously written about the dangers of the drug alcohol (alcohol is a drug) on the developing fetus during pregnancy. Other drugs, such as amphetamines, marijuana, LSD, tranquilizers, narcotics and barbiturates, when taken alone or in combination, can do damage to the developing child and the newborn infant. It is believed that all of these drugs freely cross through the placenta and may be responsible for congenital malformations. Heroin and methadone, for example, when taken by the mother during pregnancy, can produce addiction in the newborn infant. Far too many mothers, fearful of revealing their narcotic habit, may give birth to a child who soon thereafter will die because the baby's own addiction has not been suspected. When it is known that the infant is a heroin addict, the technique of gradual withdrawal will help it to survive this ghastly inheritance.

It is well-known that cocaine, amphetamines and LSD can be responsible for birth defects. The problem of marijuana is widespread. Many cases have been reported of congenital deficiencies in infants born to mothers who smoke it.

Those who are enthusiastic about marijuana emphatically deny that it can be harmful to the unborn or newly born child. It is a sad paradox that the mothers in your class who are trying to give their infants the best physical and emotional advantage are, at the same time, exposing them to the hazards of drugs. It really doesn't make sense does it? It doesn't make any sense, in fact, when you recognize that family doctors and obstetricians are trying to reduce to a bare minimum any drug, even therapeutic ones, during pregnancy.

By all means bring it up for open discussion, at least among the mothers themselves. You can become a great contributor to the eventual health of their children.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... When you push down the button in the door of your car you are merely making it impossible for others to enter from the outside. You are not insuring the fact that children cannot open the door from the inside — while the car is in motion.

Keep Eye On Weather Is Good Advice

By BILL CHAPMAN and Staff National Weather Service Written for United Press International

ENTIRE FAMILY WIPED OUT BY FLASH FLOOD
SAILBOAT CAPSIZES IN UNEXPECTED SQUALL — CREW DROWNS

Headlines such as these increase every summer as Americans take to the outdoors for recreation and vacation.

To avoid tragic weather-related experiences, it helps to have some knowledge of summer thunderstorms and ways of protecting yourself from them. Smaller cumulus clouds of summer flourish and grow rapidly to the towering thunderstorm clouds in warmer, moist currents that move northward from the Gulf or southern ocean regions.

Most severe thunderstorm development occurs along and just ahead of stronger summer cold fronts. They develop in a squall line several hundred miles long.

Squall line thunderstorms invariably have a continuous line of strong gusty winds, heavy rain and/or hail, which affect numerous locations.

In the continental United States we often observe peak winds in excess of 60 mph with squall line thunderstorms. They usually move from West to East or Northwest to Southeast at a speed of about 30 mph.

Since radar studies show the thunderstorm life-cycle, from start of growth to maturity and decay, to be very complex and quite short, it is most difficult if not impossible to forecast and communicate short term storm details to remote locations. Often, one location may have heavy rain and high winds while another just downstream may be entirely missed.

So you should keep a close watch for critical sudden weather changes at your particular site. A rapidly darkening western or south-western sky followed by distant lightning and thunder will give a half-hour or more advance notice. Dust in the distance ahead of the storm signals the onset of stronger, gusty surface winds.

Individual thunderstorm cells often move from Southwest to Northeast. Movement of the individual storm is normally toward the direction of the higher, white, anvil-shaped cloud blowing out ahead of the storm cell. This type of storm can often be seen developing 40 to 50 miles away.

Peak gusts of intense or severe thunderstorms strike abruptly. They leave little time to secure campsites, campers or boats.

American Falls Reservoir, Lake Tahoe, Great Salt Lake, Lake Powell and Lake Mead have often experienced peak gusts in excess of 60 mph with squall line thunderstorms. This is more than enough to overturn a camper or trailer or upset a sailboat.

In a matter of minutes gusty high winds can rapidly generate waves in excess of six feet on shallow lakes or in narrow canyon-walled reservoirs such as Lake Powell.

The water temperature of higher mountain lakes can be cold enough to paralyze, adding to the danger to boaters upset during storms.

Many larger inland lakes and campsites in the Plains states, the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys and along the Gulf Coast states have experienced peak wind gusts of more than 80 mph associated with squall line thunderstorms. These regions have many severe summer thunderstorms that feed on warmer, moister air from the Gulf of Mexico.

More violent thunderstorms often spawn or are associated with the development of tornadoes.

February Found A Safe Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fewer accidental deaths occur in February than in any other month of the year, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

The council says "latest government statistics show that February usually records some 7,400 accidental deaths while July records over 10,000 deaths annually, the most of any month."

Paralyzed, He Still Is Productive

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "I remember the first thing I asked after the accident was if my hands and arms were all right — I knew my legs were shot," said Toni Talbert, an artist before a motorcycle crash deprived him of the use of both his legs.

Ralph Prouty, who for years had produced a line of high quality, hand-made hunting knives, was stricken three years ago with the rare virus, Guillan Barre syndrome, which attacks the central nervous system. He was paralyzed from the waist down.

Talbert is now set up in his own home to make cast-metal sculptures that, he hopes, will bring in enough cash at local shows to allow him to continue exploring his art.

Although he still makes hunting knives two days a week, Prouty spends the rest of his time developing and building specialized equipment for other handicapped people.

For both, thanks are in order to the Vocational Rehabilitation's Innovative Services Project, funded through the Federal Office of Human Development Services, which helps to smooth the way for the severely physically handicapped to become self-sufficient.

Betty Nelson, director of Innovative Services, has a staff of three counselors who provide job engineering services, search out home-bound employment opportunities, and provide adaptive equipment for 75 clients in Oregon.

"Besides helping me acquire some artists' supplies and improving the lighting in my studio, they introduced me to an agent who is helping sell my works at various art shows," said Talbert.

"I was resigned to becoming an architectural draftsman, something I really didn't want to do," he added. "But they came along and gave me a great deal of encouragement. They told me to be innovative. Now things are looking up so that I hope soon to be able to open an artist's foundry in Portland. There is nothing like that here now."

The efforts of Peg Roseboro, ISP home-bound employment counselor, along with those of adaptive-equipment specialist Kay Bennett, helped to establish Prouty's business in the basement of his home.

"Prouty's company, the Quad Squad, is not only a boon to his own independence — but also to us and our clients as well," Ms. Nelson said.

"Right now he is working on a device to assist a person with limited hand and arm strength to load a wheelchair into a car behind the driver's seat. There are a lot of people who could get around better if they could get their chairs into their cars. We have been to vendors with the problem but it would have cost too much. Prouty can build it a lot cheaper once he gets parts and materials."

Prouty is well-qualified for the task. He rebuilt his own workshop to accommodate the limitations of his paralysis. As an example, he designed and built a device constructed from an auto seat belt and a carabiner — a metal loop used by mountain climbers — that allows him to stand at his lathe and move back and forth while working metal.

While Nelson believes that she has found a real treasure in Prouty because of the kinds of help he has given her clients, Prouty concedes that it is a two-way street.

"If it hadn't been for ISP providing me with part of the cost of my therapy and picking up the tuition on four semesters of business courses in accounting, cost accounting, and marketing, I'd be dead in the water now as far as my business is concerned," Prouty said.

Don Simms is the job-site engineer. Armed with camera, measuring tape and stop watch, Simms is a trouble shooter for handicapped employees who are having difficulties on the job and for employers who would like to hire a handicapped person but who don't know how to accommodate him.

"The employer usually thinks accommodations and modifications are going to be expensive," Simms said. "Sometimes they are, but we look for simple, inexpensive solutions — and usually we find them."

In one case, Simms used a clothes pin to solve a problem of a quadriplegic who worked with microfilm and had trouble holding the spool while he was winding it.

ALL BEEF IS U.S. BRED

Kroger refuses to compromise on the quality of any ounce of beef we sell - and beyond the farm gate, our men have selected the best of the choice! All our beef is fresh and always, only from American mutton-growers. It's never frozen. Light, your favorite, with a thin white fat covering. The first time you see a "Beef" label, you know the meat makes the U.S. difference.

BEEF & LAMB U.S.D.A. CHOICE

we sell is graded "choice" by the U.S. govern-yond that, you have our word that Kroger meat cted the top of the choice grade...the choicest All Kroger lamb is also U.S.D.A. choice grade ny American lamb, not an import from foreign
s. Kroger lamb is always fresh - never been yonger meat that's pink and firm with only a over; delicately flavored and fork-tender. Next "Beef Sale" or "Lamb Sale" in town - be sure the e U.S. choice grade. Kroger's always does!

Kroger means better meat.*
