

Subdivision Amendment Is Adopted

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

An amendment to the local subdivision ordinance was adopted by the City Council last night, allowing developers alternatives to putting up obligation bonds as guarantees that subdivision improvements will be completed.

The amendment stipulates that, "In lieu of actual installation of the physical improvements, a performance agreement, or surety bond, a subdivider may use one of the following alternate methods of guaranteeing completion of...improvements: a performance bond; a certified check; an irrevocable letter of credit; an escrow deposit; (or) a second deed of trust."

In the past, the subdivision ordinance has called for a cash bond to be put up by developers to guarantee improvements. However, the bond provision has seldom been enforced and developers have pointed out that only once instance has arisen here where a developer has defaulted on improvements.

Louis Singleton, the city attorney, explained last night that the amendment authorizes alternative methods to insure improvements and in fact, offers "different ways to do what we have been doing in the past."

In other business during a brief meeting, the Council conducted a public hearing on an application by Burroughs Wellcome Co. for a permit to place one single-wide and two double-wide mobile homes on US 264 for use as office space.

No one objected to the temporary placement of the mobile units, which will be located on property zoned for unoffensive industry use.

The Council adopted an ordinance rescinding a previous resolution and re-establishing the Public Transportation Commission. Mayor Percy Cox noted that the original ordinance adopted in 1974 regarding the commission did not clearly define the duties of the board. He said the new ordinance makes the duties more easily understood.

Other action by the Council included:

— Approval of application by Mrs. P. O. Allen for renewal of a permit allowing the placement of a mobile home at 107 Church Street for use as a residence for her daughter;

— Approval of an application by Ms. Almeta L. McCoy for renewal of a permit allowing the placement of a mobile home at 1306 S. Pitt Street for use as a personal residence;

— Approval of an application by Mini Storage of Greenville Inc. for renewal of a permit allowing a mobile home to be located on State Road 1534 for use as resident manager quarters;

— Acceptance of an offer by Westhaven Properties to donate three lots in Westhaven Subdivision for recreation purposes;

— Approval of authorization for the state to install thermoplastic pavement markings on non-state system streets in the city limits;

— Tabling of a Traffic Commission recommendation that parking be allowed on the east side of Lewis Street from Third to Fourth Streets (will be readvertised to stipulate west side parking);

— Scheduling of public hearings for July 12 on two requests for rezoning property and on a recommendation by the Joint City-County Planning and Zoning Commission that the Zoning Ordinance be amended to allow accessory building or use as a special use in the Health Care district;

— Acceptance of Arlington Boulevard from Hooker Road to Evans Street;

— Adoption of a resolution requesting the N.C. Department of Transportation to delete Moye Boulevard (formerly Nursing Home Road) from the state highway system and adding the road to the city street system;

— Approval of a request by the Jaycees to conduct the July 4th celebration and approval of a waiver of the privilege license requirements for games, concessions, and a street dance at the celebration;

— Granting of applications by Leo's Perco Station at 110 W. 14th Street for an off-premise beer privilege license, by RBJ Lounge at 1107 W. Fifth Street for a renewal of an on-premise beer privilege license, and by Virgo Lounge at 804 W. Fifth Street for renewal of an on-premise beer privilege license; and — Approval of a refund of $5 to Ms. Zeola Mae Holly for a taxicab driver's permit purchased on May 29.

The Council also gave its approval to a revised taxicab zone map adding a fifth

Carter, Brezhnev In Vienna

SALT Talks Begin Saturday

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev arrived in Vienna today for his first meeting with President Carter, a summit conference that the American leader said would be "another step toward security and lasting peace."

Brezhnev, arriving some 13 hours after Carter flew in from Washington, smiled as he walked down the steps from his plane, grasping the railing in his right hand and moving slowly and carefully.

Accompanying the Soviet president were his foreign and defense ministers, the chief of the general staff of the Soviet armed forces and Konstantin Chernenko, a longtime protégé and member of the ruling party Politburo who is considered by some to be Brezhnev's political heir.

Carter in an arrival statement said he and Brezhnev had no illusions that the nuclear arms limitation treaty they will sign Monday "will rid the world of danger or end all differences" between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"But we are confident that SALT II will widen the areas of cooperation and reduce the dangers of nuclear holocaust," he declared.

Brezhnev when he arrived made no statement. After the playing of the Soviet and Austrian national anthems, he walked in front of the honor guard, bowed once, received flowers from two Young Pioneers of the Viennese Soviet School, exchanged a few remarks with Austrian President Rudolf Kirchschlaeger and was driven away to the Soviet Embassy.

The traditional 21-gun salute was scheduled as Carter's big jet landed Thursday night but no guns sounded. Austrian officials had no explanation but suggested the absence of a salute was appropriate for an arms control summit. American officials said Carter planned to meet during the day with Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, Defense Secretary Harold Brown and other advisers.

Vance was expected to meet privately with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

SALT II, the second Soviet-American treaty to curb the superpowers' nuclear arms race, limits the two nations to 2,400 long-range missiles and bombers that can deliver nuclear warheads. The agreement has been under negotiation for nearly seven years and if confirmed by the U.S. Senate will run through 1985.

But U.S. officials are hopeful that the first Soviet-American summit in 4½ years will produce more than the signing of the 80-page treaty that was put in final form Thursday night by American and Soviet negotiators in Geneva.

U.S. sources who asked not to be named held out the possibility that the two presidents might agree on a long-delayed ban on underground nuclear tests.

Schools Ask For Money Some 'Concern' But Pitt Hospital Tower Approved

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners this morning held a public hearing on the proposed 1979-1980 budget, and were urged to provide as much money as possible for public schools.

R. L. Martin, chairman of the board asked for, "any questions...any input you may have," on the proposed budget. "They will be considered and deliberated upon," he emphasized.

Patricia Dunn, representing the League of Women Voters questioned a number of items in the proposed budget, then asked county manager Reginald Gray if the list of expenditures would require a tax increase.

"It will require one right now," Gray said, indicating that county taxes will go up unless other sources of revenue are found, or the board cuts some expenditures recommended by Gray.

Following the discussion of several items, Ms. Dunn said the League would, "like to recommend," that the board consider allocating more funds for the school systems in the county.

Marvin Baldree of Ayden also recommended more funds be allocated for school use.

"We need a new school," Baldree said of the Ayden community. "We've just begun to fight...if that's what it takes," he added.

Ann Frost, chairman of the board of trustees of Sheppard Memorial Library told commissioners, "we are economizing as much as possible," and although the library could use more money, it can live with the $103,350 recommended for 1979-1980.

However, the library official asked the board to appoint a committee to work with representatives of the library board and the Greenville City Council to, "help us work out the best possible library system for Pitt County."

The Pitt County Memorial Hospital proposal to construct a 144-bed tower and to convert 20 existing beds to an intensive care unit status was approved by the governing body of the Eastern Carolina Health Systems Agency (ECHSA) at the agency's meeting on Wednesday.

The approval, however, was made with serious concerns expressed relative to the implementation of the project.

Basically, the concerns expressed by the 44 member body of the agency are centered on (1) The failure of the State Medical Facilities Plan to consider the overall potential need for additional community hospital beds in the 29 eastern North Carolina area known as Health Systems Agency Area VI; (2) The effect the approval of the tower will have upon future bed, ancillary and manpower resource needs of community hospitals, despite the fact that Governor Hunt declared an exemption of the beds in question; and (3) Concern over a suggestion that the Pitt County Memorial Hospital and ECU School of Medicine join with the ECHSA to establish a regional advisory committee. The committee in question would be formed for:

Assisting communities in the recruitment of primary care doctors; assisting in the development of an agreement

Outer Banks Oil Spill

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) — Globes of oil spread on a seven-mile stretch of the Outer Banks were being cleaned up today by the Coast Guard.

The first signs of oil were noticed Wednesday, said a man who lives on the beach at Buxton, but who asked not to be identified.

He said that by this morning, the oil was in clumps along the beach in a band one to two feet wide at the high-tide mark. Other, smaller clumps were on the beach down to the low-tide mark, he said.

"There's no way you can get to the water without stepping on it," he said. "It's just like little clumps of tar. It's not that sticky."

Petty Officer J.M. Chindblom of the Cape Hatteras Coast Guard Station said the spill, which stretches from the Cape Hatteras Lighthouse at Buxton to the town of Avon, was reported about 4 p.m. Thursday by a woman who lives on the beach.

He said neither the cause of the spill nor the amount or type of oil on the beaches had been determined.

Called in to help were the Coast Guard's marine safety office and its Atlantic Strike Team.

Surveying On US-264 Plan Starts Soon

RALEIGH — Studies are underway for improvements to US-264, Wilson to Greenville, and will require that engineers perform surveys on private properties in the area of the proposed project, Secretary of Transportation Tom Bradshaw has announced.

The proposed project calls for a four-lane freeway facility with fully controlled access from Wilson to Greenville.

In a letter to owners of property in the vicinity of the proposed highway, Secretary Bradshaw said, "We want to assure you that your property rights will be respected during these visits." He also wrote, "The building and maintenance of a first class highway system has traditionally been a cooperative undertaking in North Carolina. We enjoy the reputation as the 'Good Roads State' as a result of many generations working together to provide access for our people to jobs and opportunities. We feel this project holds great promise for your area. Thank you for working with us."

This letter is being hand-delivered to property owners in the area as studies begin.

Due to the volume and variety of information being collected for the US-264 improvement project, different Department of Transportation engineering crews may survey one land area on several occasions. The secretary, in his letter, asked that property owners not interpret the presence of surveyors on their property as an indication of the final location of the project.

The Board of Transportation approved a corridor for the four-lane facility in March of this year. The corridor, a width of approximately 2,500 feet, represents the area within which right of way for the highway will be acquired.

Actual right of way necessary for the highway will utilize much less land area than the corridor itself represents. Normal width of a four-lane facility including right of way ranges from 320-350 feet with interchange

City officials Thursday night received an award for traffic safety in recognition for not having a traffic fatality here during 1978.

A framed certificate from the N.C. State Motor Club was presented to Mayor Percy Cox, Police Capt. A. G. Whitaker and City Manager Ed Wyatt by Dan Vaughan, division manager of the motor club, and Norman Wooten, local sales representative.

The State Motor Club spokesman said that Greenville is one of 21 North Carolina cities that had no traffic deaths during the year. "We are proud of your accomplishment," Vaughan told the city officials, "and hope that 1979 will be an even better year for saving human lives."

Energy Officials Told Diesel Crisis Now A Grim Situation

STRANDED — George Thompson of Scottsboro, Ala. stands in front of one of the trucks blocking a truck stop in New Jersey in protest of high fuel costs. Thompson says he is stranded because he cannot find a load that would pay enough to cover the cost of diesel fuel to Alabama. (AP Laserphoto)

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Representatives of 20 Midwest and Western states told federal energy officials Thursday to either reimpose mandatory allocation of diesel fuel or lift controls and let the market work.

Most said that the Energy Department's special rule that assures farmers and agricultural transportation all the diesel fuel needed for planting season, had served its purpose and now was disrupting the market. They said the rule should be scrapped.

Several representatives painted a grim picture of the situation caused by letting agriculture soak up a disproportionate share of diesel: many truck stops closed, no fuel left to move millions of bushels of wheat to market, some coal mines shut down and heavy construction projects delayed.

Paul Burke, deputy assistant administrator for fuels regulation, said he thought the Energy Department would propose an amendment to its diesel policy by the end of June. "A decision (on controls) will come very quickly," he said.

The representatives split on whether refiners should be required to set aside more than the current 4 percent of the diesel fuel they make for individual states to allocate. Some said the amount should be increased to 5 to 6 percent and others said any increase should be left up to the states.

"I don't think controls will solve the diesel fuel shortage," Burke said. "I think we have to have a policy that will encourage increased production and imports and promote conservation. That came through very clearly in this meeting. We need to reduce the demand for diesel by allocating away from utilities and some other big users that could convert to coal or natural gas."

Burke said the Carter administration has a goal of stockpiling 240 million barrels of diesel for home heating by October. The reserves of 125.6 million barrels that had been built by June 1 were 22.6 million barrels less than were on hand at the same time last year.

Burke said the administration is considering relaxing clean air standards and moving diesel from areas of surplus to those areas short of fuel. It is

Somoza Says Managua Driving Back Guerrillas

By LEW WHEATON
Associated Press Writer

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Anastasio Somoza claims his national guard is clearing Sandinista rebels from Managua's fringe of slums and the guard says it blocked a rebel attempt to move reinforcements into the capital.

Somoza's air force bombed and strafed Managua's barrios in a combined air and ground attack on young rebels holding in the slum districts behind barricades.

The Nicaraguan strongman also sent jets and prop-driven gunships Thursday against the guerrillas holding Leon, Nicaragua's second largest city 45 miles northwest of Managua.

Somoza told reporters the air force was trying to keep the rebels from overrunning the national guard command post in Leon, the government's last foothold in the city. He said the government would not try to retake Leon until it had driven the guerrillas from Managua.

"This is the heaviest, the worst we have ever seen," a Leon newspaper editor reported by telephone. "The guard bombed Wednesday from 2 until 5 o'clock in the afternoon and then started again at daybreak."

He said the guerrillas had the national guard command post under heavy attack and had moved to within less than a block of it.

As Somoza's troops appeared to take the offensive in the week-old battle for the capital, foreigners and Managuans stepped up the exodus from the hungry, battered city, and looters continued to rampage through shopping centers. It was apparent that the government was too busy with the guerrillas to do anything about the looting.

Americans in an evacuation convoy organized by the U.S. Embassy said they saw 20 to 30 bodies on the edge of the road to Leon and to Somoza's private airstrip, which U.S. evacuation planes are using because the road to the Managua airport has been cut.

Refugees from Managua's embattled barrios said the slums on the fringes of the capital were rife with rumors that Sandinista leader Eden Pastora was leading a rebel column from Costa Rica to Managua.

Guerrillas of the Sandinista

National Liberation Front are fighting what they call their "final offensive" to end 42 years of Somoza family rule in this Central American nation.

A week of fighting in the capital has driven tens of thousands of residents from the city. They crowd the roads carrying makeshift white flags and whatever bundles of belongings they can, seeking shelter at Red Cross refugee centers while foreigners wait for evacuation flights organized by their embassies.

Electric Car Plant Talked

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — An electric automobile manufacturing company is considering locating a plant near Burlington, officials said.

Chandler H. Waterman, president of U.S. Electricar, has been in Alamance County for several days looking at potential plant sites.

Waterman, an engineer, founded the Athol, Mass., company last March. He said the company is making between five and 10 cars a week, and hopes to be manufacturing 1,000 a week by the end of next year.

"Unless you look closely at this car, you'd never know it is an electric car," he said.

U.S. Electricar autos get more than 60 miles on a charge, Waterman said, and the batteries can be charged overnight using standard household current. The car has a cruising range of about 50 mph.

"The actual cost of running the car using Burlington rates is about half to three-quarters of a cent a mile," he said. The automobile is about the size of a standard compact, and prices start at $7,495.

Wants Boy Roommate; Mom May Nix Plan

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 17-year old girl. I quit high school to work and save enough money for college. My mom helped me get a fantastic job.

I want to move into an apartment closer to my job. I've already made plans and even got myself a roommate!

I'm not running away from home or anything like that. I just want to be independent and get out from under my mom's protective wing.

Here's my problem: I'm afraid my mom won't let me move out, especially when she finds out my roommate is my boyfriend!

I love my mother and don't want to hurt her, but ships weren't meant to sit in the harbor forever. What do you think?

TROUBLED IN TEXAS

DEAR TROUBLED: I can understand your desire for independence, but you're no ship. And even if you were, leaving your berth at 17 to sail the uncharted seas of a live-in arrangement could put you on the rocks in no time.

DEAR ABBY: I was engaged to be married in August. I ordered my bridal gown and four bridesmaid's dresses. It came to a sizable amount.

I have lots of other bills, plus car payments to make, so I am strapped financially.

Two weeks after the dresses were ordered, my fiance broke our engagement, saying he had had serious doubts for over a month about whether we should marry. He said he has now finally summoned the nerve to tell me that he is sure it would be a mistake and we should call it off.

Abby, since he had "serious doubts" at the time the dresses were ordered, I think he should have told me. When I placed that order I had no idea he was having doubts.

Now I am informed that because the dresses were special-ly ordered they cannot be returned.

Is my ex-fiance responsible for this bill?

EX-BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR EX: I think your ex-fiance has a moral obligation to pay for the gowns but, if he doesn't think so, you may have to resort to legal action. Perhaps just the mention of it might produce results. Try it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a good provider for his family which consists of me (age 31) plus our four daughters, 12, 10, 8 and 6.

I lost a baby two years ago. I am enclosing a picture of me. As you can see, I am pregnant and the doctor says I'm carrying twins! My husband took that picture. It's one of the few he's ever taken of me with all my clothes on, which brings me to my problem.

You see, my husband is camera crazy, and for the last three years he has insisted on taking pictures of me and our daughters in various stages of undress as well as in the nude.

How can I get across to my husband that the girls are getting too big for these "family portraits" (as he calls them). Also, I don't feel like posing in various stages of undress while pregnant, but he insists it doesn't matter.

Am I out of line for putting my foot down?

ENOUGH IS ENOUGH IN OHIO

DEAR ENOUGH: No. I think your husband has an unhealthy preoccupation with nudity. You can get your message across to him by refusing to pose unless fully clothed. And instruct the girls to do likewise.

On the state level she has served on the nominating committee and the finance committee. She served as co-editor of "The Tar Heel Prints," ESA newsletter during the past year.

Margaret Roberts conducted the awards ceremony using Pallas Athene, the Greek Goddess of wisdom and of the home, as the symbol of the ESA awards program. Pallas Athene's attributes define the ESA goal of poise, tranquility and charm which come from acquiring wisdom and the beauty and strength of character which comes with service to others.

There are five degrees of Pallas Athene based on a cumulative point system. Members of Alpha Omega receiving awards and charms on Thursday were Rosemarie Priestly and Linda Peele, first degree, Mrs. Westbrook, third degree, and Mrs. Woods, fourth degree. Mildred Hecker received a charm in recognition of 10 years service in the chapter.

Other awards presented were those received at the ESA state convention. Mrs. Hecker, educational chairman, received the Golden Education award for having all educational programs reported on time. The state first place Rush award was presented to the chapter and Mrs. Westbrook, rush chairman. A special document commemorating the formation of a new chapter was presented to Alpha Omega.

Alpha Omega received a certificate of recognition for contributing $44 per member to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital in Memphis, Tenn. By making the contribution, each member received a millionaire club charm and an ESA Circle of Life certificate.

Mrs. Westbrook, in-coming president, presented out-going president, Barbara Zicherman a silver tray in appreciation of her service to the chapter.

Promise In Farmers Market

The Pitt County Farmers Market was scheduled to open Saturday at the old fairgrounds on N. Memorial Drive.

The market is expected to operate on Saturdays from 8 a.m. until noon and on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 until 11.

It was anticipated that greens, collards, cabbage, string beans and other produce items would be brought to the market by producers for sale.

Agricultural agents want to see additional producers bringing produce to the market. Other vegetables are expected to be added as the crops begin coming in.

If the market is to be successful it will require full participation by producers and customers. It will allow those who grow produce to bring their crops directly to the Farmers Market and sell to the customers.

It could mean fresher vegetables for the consumer and a readily available market place for the farmer.

Never Base Future On Slot Machines

In Las Vegas a new success story emerged over the weekend.

A lady reportedly won $280,000 on a slot machine, the largest payoff ever at the gambling capital.

It brought dreams of prosperity to anyone who has ever coveted quick riches.

Alas, for the great majority there will never be such a payoff. The way to prosperity is by careful accumulation of holdings.

THIS AFTERNOON Will People Remember?

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Gov. Jim Hunt poses an interesting proposition: that of all the things which the recent session of the General Assembly did, people will long remember the tax cut.

Trimming about $45 million a year from the state budget, the action will save a wealthy taxpayer less than $50. Low income people will reap a $10 windfall savings. The cut is centered on a slight increase in dependent's allowances.

Is such a small amount of money a joke to most taxpayers? Is a year of political promises to cut taxes which ends with such a paltry amount something to be long remembered and grateful for?

It is not a joke, Gov. Hunt responds sharply to such questions. If you think it is a joke, then you don't know how many people make less than $10,000 per year, he says. To those, the savings however small is welcome and will mean something in the family budget.

The Principle
More than mere dollars, however, the governor insists that the action makes a deep impression on the people. "People will know that their taxes were cut some ... here is something which has gone down instead of up."

"It will make a deep impression that legislators have said it isn't automatic that state government has to spend all it can get. It can return some to the people," Hunt commented.

But what of all those millions and millions of other dollars: a new office building for legislators and their staff, a tunnel connecting the new building and the existing State Legislative building, higher hunting and fishing license fees; failure to cut effectively the intangibles tax, or to reform the inheritance tax?

Which will people remember longer — that the General Assembly cut taxes a little, or that the General Assembly bowed to pressures from banking and utilities industries to pass laws which will cost Tar Heel consumers millions more? Just a week ago Gov. Hunt lambasted the lawmakers and lobbyists, charging that the special interests did very well; the people not so well, in this session.

The people of North Carolina will remember the tax cut with gratitude, Hunt believes, and it offsets all those other things.

"It showed an awareness and responsiveness to the people ... and will compare favorably with some of those other things you mention," the governor responded.

On the subject of what people will most remember of their lawmakers, what does Gov. Hunt see that might be termed failures in this session of the General Assembly?

He is most reluctant to tackle that area. Dwell on the good and the positive, he argues. Nonetheless, there must have been some.

Failure
Yes; the chief one being failure to get additional money to implement new programs for some severely emotionally disturbed children; failure of the Equal Rights Amendment; failure of the statewide land use policy impetus; failure to rescind electrical bill charges for construction work in progress.

But overall, Hunt says, he is "pleased with the results ... a budget that is austere, in keeping with the needs and temper of these times, but a budget that also provides for important progress in education, children's programs and human services."

He is also happy with steps taken to improve law enforcement, with the fair-sentencing guidelines, the family violence bill, and revision of the juvenile code now enacted.

A New Hospital Idea

WASHINGTON — Blackberry, who is a genius in the real estate business, came to me the other day with a brilliant idea. "Apartments all over the country are being turned into co-ops and condominiums. Why not do the same with hospitals?"

"Keep going," I said.

"Well, everyone knows that one stay in a hospital will cost you as much as a down payment on a house, and when you're discharged you have nothing to show for it, except possibly a scar. Why not allow patients to buy hospital rooms, as they do apartments, and then they could use them any time they wanted to?"

"But people don't use hospital rooms that often."

"So they can rent them out to relatives, friends or even strangers. It would be a tax-deductible investment, as long as the owners didn't use the room themselves for more than two weeks a year."

"You seem to have it all thought out."

"Look, the average hospital room comes to $300 a day; and you have to take whatever they give you. If you bought the room, you could choose your own view, decorate it the way you wanted to, and make it into a second home.

"You wouldn't have to sit through boring admission interviews, the nurses couldn't tell you what you could or could not do, and you would not have strange medical students waking you up day and night asking what's wrong with you. The initial investment might be high, but it would pay off in one short hospital stay."

"What about upkeep?" I asked.

"Mom spoke her mind, and when she put that little extra English on her English it came across like a combination knuckler and spitball. Like, she was against priests "muddling in politics," but she thought they should go all out and help

WASHINGTON TODAY Passing The Energy Buck

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — In other lines of work, it's called passing the buck. In the Senate, they call it drastic, far-reaching action on energy conservation.

What they've done is tell President Carter and the nation's governors to figure it out. Should the House agree with the Senate's emergency energy conservation bill, Congress can claim to have acted and then second guess the results.

In a burst of candor, one sponsor of the measure said that's just what Congress wants.

That's the kind of thing that has passed for leadership on the energy problem for the last six years. The Senate provided a case study the other day in passing a bill that instructs Carter to set up an emergency conservation program if he decides one is needed — after specifying the amendment would have imposed rationing immediately, by limiting driving to six days a week with each motorist choosing the day off.

Under the bill, the president could set an energy conservation target in case of emergency, and tell the states to implement programs to meet the national goal. If they did not, federal programs could be imposed.

There are some things the Senate specified Carter cannot do in such a conservation program, such as order weekend closing of gasoline stations although, curiously, he could order shutdowns on weekdays or on a rotating basis that might

That was rejected overwhelmingly, the vote coming only after proponents of the Senate bill won a ruling that the amendment really wasn't in order anyhow.

The rather curious reasoning behind that parliamentary decision was that the bill dealt with conservation in case of an emergency, while the amendment would have imposed rationing immediately, by limiting driving to six days a week with each motorist choosing the day off.

Under the bill, the president could set an energy conservation target in case of emergency, and tell the states to implement programs to meet the national goal. If they did not, federal programs could be imposed.

There are some things the Senate specified Carter cannot do in such a conservation program, such as order weekend closing of gasoline stations although, curiously, he could order shutdowns on weekdays or on a rotating basis that might sometimes include Saturdays or Sundays.

He can't impose taxes or fees to discourage consumption. According to the bill's chief sponsor, he can't impose gasoline rationing — the House already has blocked his standby rationing plan.

He can't allocate fuel among users, override environmental protection laws or regulate factory hours.

On the other hand, there are some pretty drastic things he could do. While the Senate didn't want to do it, the president could order motorists off the road one day a week. A conservation program could include odd-even day gasoline sales, limits on sales and crackdowns on speed limits.

To the editor:

World champions are always honored by their hometowns, state or country. An Ayden native, Demetrius Edwards, is being honored as a potential world champion in the light heavyweight class in Karate. Ayden will show its appreciation, no doubt. The world champion New York Yankees were given the red carpet treatment by their city. The long list of world champions so honored by their cities could go on and on.

The Greenville Rescue Squad has brought honor, praise and recognition to this city of Greenville, North Carolina by winning a world championship in rescue three times. Are there any other world champions of anything in North Carolina? If so, do they have the honor of winning the world championship three times? The East Carolina football team won a bowl game last year. Guess what? The Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce organized a grand homecoming appreciation parade and other goodies for them. Did the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce roll out the carpet for the homecoming world champion Greenville Rescue Squad? No! The Greenville Rescue Squad flew into the Pitt-Greenville Airport in 1977 and 1978 as world champions and the only red carpet treatment they got was organized by themselves. Shame, shame for the city now claiming to be the hub of the East. Last week the Greenville Area Chamber of Commerce had a chance to redeem itself and help the Greenville Rescue Squad. Instead, they virtually destroyed any hope the Rescue Squad had of staying in existence.

The Greenville Rescue Squad is getting its teeth kicked in by a lot of misinformed people in this fair city. World Champions deserve far better treatment than the Greenville Rescue Squad has received at this point.

Summary: A lot of injured and seriously sick will die in Greenville.

Tim McClanahan

"Of course, they would. Most hospital administrators are always trying to figure out how to fill their beds. If they went condominium they would have one less worry on their hands, and they could devote all their energies to medical problems. Instead of treating patients they would be taking care of tenants, and it would make it so much more businesslike for everybody."

"What about semiprivate rooms?" I asked. "How would you turn them into condos?"

"Two families could purchase one and split it. Of course, they would have to agree on the decor, and be willing to share the same bathroom, but I don't see this as a big problem. It's still cheaper to buy a semiprivate room in a hospital than to stay in one for three days."

"Blue Cross won't like your idea," I warned.

"Tough. Blue Cross should have thought of it first."

"What about people who can't afford to finance their own hospital rooms?"

40 Years Ago Today

June 15, 1939

Confronted with their 18th annual two-weeks encampment that will drill them in all phases of modern offensive and defensive military, 64 men and three officers of Battery A, 113 National Guard Field Artillery will leave Greenville 6 a.m. Sunday for Fort Bragg.

Captain Worth Wicker today said that the local battery has been selected again this year for test mobilization to be held during the ensuing two weeks. The honor was bestowed upon the battery for a previous encampment, and the success of the feat has lingered in the minds of National Guard officials until now.

Greenville High School's long-sought trophy case has been completed and a dozen trophies earned by the school over a period of years have been placed in the case.

The case was built with an appropriation allotted by the SGA of the high school and has been placed in a compartment formerly used as locker space on the main floor of the building.

Opinions In Brief

"A moment's insight is sometimes worth a life's experience." — Oliver Wendell Holmes.

"There's an element of truth in every idea that lasts long enough to be called corny." — Irving Berlin.

"Two things are bad for the heart — running up stairs and running down people." — Bernard Baruch.

"In the past, those who foolishly sought power by riding the back of the tiger ended up inside." — John Kennedy.

Strength For Today

PLACE OF HEALING
The word "household", as used in the New Testament, comes from the Greek word "therapeia." From this Greek word we also get the English word "therapeutic," which means the science of healing. In the New Testament, therefore, the household is the "therapeia" or the place of healing.

What a beautiful concept of the home! It is where life grows, where its difficulties are met and conquered, where things which assail it are overcome and its weaknesses rectified and healed. Of all the blessings which God has conferred upon human life, nothing is so great as the provision that we should be born into and grow up amid family surroundings.

Conversely, nothing is so damaging to human life and all its values as when the home is broken by dissension, selfishness, or deceit. It is a melancholy paradox that so many people have the very essence of healing within their grasp — and throw it away.

A Thesis Dominates Family

By GAIL MICHAELS
In case of fire, the first things I would save would be Meg, Phillip, and my thesis. Certainly, the decision about the order of that list wouldn't be in any doubt. But just in case, when I'm not working on it, I keep my thesis in a briefcase by the bedroom window so that I won't have to make a choice.

The protectiveness I feel toward that intimate stack of paper is not a laughing matter. My thesis has been in embryo for 2 and one half years. That's three times as long as the gestation period for Meg.

So naturally, I have a deep affection for it. More precisely, I would be willing to kill for it. Once when a neighbor absentmindedly set her wet glass on the title page, Phillip had to hold me in my chair for fear I might put her in traction.

A thesis or a dissertation really does bear a strong resemblance to a child. When mine seems to be progressing well, I'm ecstatic over it. When it seems to stop responding to me, I cry over it. When it becomes especially balky, I even feel like tearing it to shreds. And I can't count the sleepless nights I've spent worrying about what it's going to grow into.

Of course, all this work preparing the thesis for the time it must get along on its own has not been easy on the rest of the family. Several weeks ago I decided that if I didn't finish it soon, Phillip would sue me for breach of affection. So I got to work in earnest.

During the first four days, I forgot to cook supper twice, I let Meg run out of clean clothes, and I fell asleep during a conversation with my mother.

After that, it was all downhill. I kept forgetting to open the windows, and the temperature in the house climbed toward 90. Even my plastic philodendron wilted.

I didn't even hear the phone any more. And Meg went from clapping her hands to get my attention to poking me in the ribs with a chopstick.

I had such bad eyestrain that I had to read everything with a magnifying glass. I started having nightmares about termites and liquid paper. And I complained. I figured that if I could complain loudly enough about what I was going through, Phillip and Meg wouldn't have the nerve to complain about anything themselves.

But I began to feel a little guilty when I overheard a conversation between Meg and Phillip after her first swimming lesson.

"Did you enjoy your lesson?" I heard Phillip ask.

"Oh, yes, but it's very hard, you know," Meg sighed. "It's almost as hard as writing a thesis."

"We could get them loans through the FHA. Our slogan is, 'Man's hospital room is his castle.' If people own their own rooms they'll take good care of them—keep the floors and walls clean, and wash the windows, and throw out flowers when they wilt. Now people don't give a damn the way their hospital room looks, because they know when they get better, they can walk away from it."
"It's a mind-blowing idea," I said. "Even Teddy Kennedy doesn't want to go that far in his national health plan."
"That's why it has to work. At first it will be a status symbol. People will say, 'You must come visit us at Mass General. We overlook the Charles River,' or 'If you're ever sick in New York and need a place to stay, please use our room at Columbia Presbyterian. We'll leave the key with the hall porter.'"
"It sounds like more fun than owning a yacht," I said.
"And a much better invest-ment," Blackberry replied. "At the rate hospital rooms are going up around the coun-try, you'll be able to double your investment in a year."

Bigger Church Bodies Slipped

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Most of the bigger American church bodies, both Protestant and Roman Catholic, report membership drops in newly issued statistics. Yet overall church membership in this country is again on the rise.

It's now keeping pace with population growth, in contrast to recent years of falling be-hind that index. However, with the exception of the Southern Baptists and Church of Jesus Christ of Lat-ter-day Saints (Mormon), most larger denominations still are registering small, usually shrinking losses.

For Roman Catholicism, how-ever, its drop of 233,144 last year to a total of 49,602,035 was its largest decline of this cen-tury, although it amounted to less than half a percent. That church, the country's largest, thus fell into a pattern that has characterized most major mainline Protestant bod-ies for more than a decade of fractionally declining mem-berships.

However, general church membership recorded a .7 per-cent increase to a total of 132-, 812,470, according to new fig-ures provided in the 1979 Yearbook of American and Cana-dian Churches. That about kept up with popu-lation gains, holding active church membership at 60.8 per-cent of the U.S. population and giving an upbeat note to the present picture.

In comparison, the proportion of Americans belonging to churches previously had gradu-ally edged downward from a peak of 64.3 percent in 1965. But now, it held steady. "It has leveled off into a pretty flat line right now, with some gaining, some losing," ob-serves Constant H. Jacquet, editor of the Yearbook, com-piled by the National Council of Churches.

Southern Baptists, the coun-try's biggest Protestant body, gained 1.24 percent to a total of 13,078,239, while Mormons in the U.S. increased 3.9 percent to 2,486,261, outstripping popu-lation growth. Many of the generally smaller evangelical-style bodies also recorded solid gains, the collec-tive upswings sufficient to keep church growth even with the population.

But for mainline Protestant bodies, such as United Metho-dists, United Presbyterians, Episcopalians and the three major Lutheran denominations, the trend still was slightly down, although less so in most members, more than account-ing for the overall church loss. Even though some other di-nesces also had losses, combined increases in others out the total loss. The Roman Catholic figures were reported in the Official Catholic Directory for 1979, published by P. J. Kenedy & Sons of New York.

Its business manager, Thom-as S. Walsh, said the Detroit Archdiocese reported its de-cline resulted from roll-clearing to eliminate former members that had moved away or other-wise dropped out.

We've heard so much about the effects of insecurity on the life of a child! It seems urgent to find a picture of security... that elusive ideal that parents want to provide but can never be sure they have.

Notice the importance of the light in our picture. It doesn't really come from that fatherly hand. Someone else has provided the light which links father and son. The father merely stood in that light... and held his son's hand!

Sunday — Father's Day — in hundreds of thousands of churches, earnest fathers will stand in the Light. With their sons they'll worship God... experience again the spiritual understanding of life. See the brightness of that true security reflected in youthful eyes.

World's Largest Department Store Suffers 4-Alarm Fire

NEW YORK (AP) — Linda Elmes was on an elevator in Macy's when she heard the scream, "Fire." In a moment, there was pandemonium when an estimated 8,000 persons inside realized "the world's largest department store" was burning.

The four-alarm blaze Thursday afternoon burned out parts of the fifth and sixth floors and claimed one fireman's life. Fourteen other persons received minor injuries.

Fire officials summoned 120 men to battle the fire while thousands stood in the streets during rush hour to watch billowing clouds of smoke pour out of broken windows.

Fire officials said the blaze broke out on the fifth floor. It was discovered by clerk Anthony Navarra who spotted flames in a rack of jogging suits in the sporting goods department around 4:10 p.m.

Navarra said when he tried to move the burning apparel the fire "just leap-frogged onto other stuff."

The blaze "just started building, building, building," he said. Moments later a manager told Navarra to get out and ordered the area evacuated.

Fireman Walter J. Smith Jr., 31, was killed when he and dozens of other firefighters tried to find the source of the smoky blaze. As they crawled through the sporting goods section of the fifth floor, the fire suddenly "blew out" and Smith was trapped, a department spokesman said.

Two of the injured, a fireman and a woman shopper, apparently suffered heart attacks. Other firemen and customers suffered smoke inhalation and some firemen were burned fighting the blaze.

The 19-story store, famous for its Thanksgiving Day parade and its Santa Claus from the movie "Miracle of 34th Street" was jammed when the fire broke out.

Customers said no alarm was sounded and no announcement made, but the word "fire" spread quickly through the store and customers swarmed down stairways to escape. The elevators were shut off so people would not get trapped in them.

It took more than an hour to clear out the customers and nearly three hours to bring the fire under control, authorities said.

Unstamped Cigarette Sale Known

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A former revenue official said that the N.C. Department of Revenue has known for several years that cigarette distributors are selling unstamped cigarettes to smugglers.

Holland C. Gaines, former head of the revenue division that collects cigarette taxes, said the department "quite frequently" had received reports that North Carolina distributors were selling cigarettes without affixing the state's 2-cent-a-pack tax stamp.

Gaines worked for the department from 1974 to 1977, when he was fired after a change in administrations.

Revenue Secretary Mark G. Lynch has said his department had made a "substantial effort" to discover unstamped cigarettes but had found fewer than 20 cartons in 2½ years.

Smugglers buy unstamped cigarettes in North Carolina, affix a counterfeit stamp from a high-tax state such as Pennsylvania, and then sell the cigarettes through legitimate outlets in those states, evading the higher taxes.

Gaines said they could not stop the smugglers because the department had neither the resources nor the cooperation from other departments to prove the charges.

An official of the State Bureau of Investigation said, however, that Gaines had not been able to obtain support from his superiors in the revenue department to take action against smugglers.

Earlier this week, Gov. Jim Hunt ordered the revenue department to get tough on distributors who violate North Carolina laws or revenue regulations when they supply cigarettes to smugglers.

Three Frustrating Days For Explorer Cousteau

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP) — Undersea explorer Jacques Cousteau has left his anchorage over the Civil War ironclad Monitor after three frustrating days of trying to film the remains of the vessel, which lie on the floor of the Atlantic near here.

Cousteau weighed anchor Thursday and headed for Morehead City, N.C. His next planned expedition is in Venezuela.

"They only had one good day with good visibility. If there's any raw footage, we will see it in about four weeks," said Ted Lillestolen, a sanctuaries operations officer with the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. The NOAA gave Cousteau permission to film the wreck.

Cousteau's research ship, Calypso, arrived Sunday at the site about 16 miles off Cape Hatteras. He planned three days of diving and filming to get three to five minutes of film for a documentary on historic ship wrecks.

Divers made a reconnaissance dive Monday but had poor visibility Tuesday in the wake of a squall that raked the sea with 35-knot winds.

The North Carolina Division of Archives and History, which has been supervising Cousteau's Monitor expedition, has had little contact with the Frenchman since granting him permission to film the wreck 220 feet below the Atlantic.

"We haven't heard a thing from them in two weeks," said the division's Brent Glass. "I guess no news is good news."

Archives and History and NOAA hope to view Cousteau's film and talk to his divers in preparation for a major research expedition at the site in August.

Nine-Year-Old Boy At Picnic Found Drowned

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — A 9-year-old mute boy visiting a park with classmates was found dead Thursday in five feet of water 100 yards from a picnic site after searchers looked elsewhere.

"They told us he was afraid of water so we started looking in the woods," said park director David Drye, whose employees found the body of Scott Helms, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Helms of Monroe.

The victim was one of about 15 students from the Union County Developmental Day-Care Center, a school for multiple-handicapped children. They were visiting county-owned Cane Creek Park Lake for what Drye estimated to be the 30th or 40th time.

Accompanying the students were two teachers, six aides and four parents. At 11:20 a.m., one of the aides came to the park office asking if anyone had seen a blond boy wearing a blue shirt, Drye said.

Dr. Tom Batchelor, Monroe school superintendent, said the boy was gone about 10 minutes before anyone notice he was missing.

Drye said park employees began searching in the woods because they had been informed of the boy's fear of water. A short time later, they focused their attention on the lake, which is unguarded because it does not open for swimming until later this month.

"Then we saw the frisbee he had been carrying floating in the lake," said Drye. "About 20 feet from the shoreline we found him submerged in five feet of water."

Drye said the picnic site is on a hill overlooking the lake. He said 13 park employees were taking a water-safety course about 300 yards from the spot of the drowning.

Southern Baptist Convention Voting Disputed, Investigated

By GEORGE CORNELL
 Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — An official investigation is under way into reported voting irregularities at the Southern Baptist Convention after its tension-wracked annual meeting.

In the disputed voting, the Rev. Adrian Rogers of Memphis, Tenn., was chosen as the convention's president. Officials declined to speculate about what effect the investigation would have on his election.

Rogers brushed off the idea of resigning as "disruptive" and "very hurtful," but he said if serious abuses are found, "which cast doubt on my election, then so be it."

He said he welcomes the inquiry "if there has been any wrongdoing. I would hope it would not cast aspersions on any innocent people, but I would be in favor of exposing anyone who has done anything dishonest."

The voting issue erupted Thursday night, near the end of the three-day convention, after a local registration secretary, the Rev. James Varner of Houston, cited irregularities in registration and voting.

Representatives of the 13.2 million-member denomination, the nation's largest Protestant body, promptly voted for an inquiry. A report on the investigation is due in September.

There have been allegations of multiple voting in the presidential election, of one "messenger" marking and turning in 11 ballots, of others registering absent wives and children and obtaining ballots in their names and of some congregations registering more than their fixed maximums of 10 "messengers."

The convention also displayed its ire at the highly organized, political-style campaign by a conservative coalition backing Rogers. But he has deplored the tactics and said he had no part in them.

After sharp debate on a motion by Ernie White of St. Joseph, Mo., the convention acted to "disavow overt political activity and organization as a method of selection of its officers."

Texas Appeals Court Judge Paul Pressler of Houston and the Rev. Paige Patterson of Dallas were key leaders in the coalition's 14-month campaign to whip up support for conservative leadership to root out alleged "liberal" Bible teachings.

After the convention ordered the investigation, denominational registration secretary Lee Porter of Nashville, Tenn., said that a preliminary survey had raised questions about the voting.

"I found enough irregularities to become concerned," he said. "We need to modernize our complete registration and balloting process."

Art Support Is Honored 3 Years Later

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Zsa Zsa Gabor has filed a $10 million lawsuit against the president of a dinner theater where she worked three years ago, claiming the job left her with physical and emotional injuries.

The suit cites a fall Miss Gabor took down a backstage staircase — although she wasn't hospitalized at the time — and alleges harassment that led to her dismissal without cause.

The companies were cited by the Business Committee for the Arts Inc. of New York in its annual Business in the Arts Awards competition.

More than 300 companies entered the competition this year. Forty winners were selected.

Liggett was recognized for the first time by the committee, while Reynolds, Hanes and NCNB were honored in the return-winner category.

"North Carolina is fortunate to have so many businesses which take an active role in improving their communities' cultural environments," Hunt said. "The fact that four of the 40 winners are from North Carolina is evidence of the growing partnership between the arts groups and businesses in the state and of our leadership in this national movement."

Some Scarcity In Diesel Fuel

By The Associated Press
 Planting season has caused diesel fuel to be in short supply in some areas of North Carolina. But, state energy spokesmen said the adequate supply of gasoline in the state is prompting them to return reserve gasoline supplies to the marketplace.

State Energy Director Brian Flattery said agricultural users of diesel, which have top priority in getting available supplies, are using a large portion of the fuel now that they are getting into the planting season.

Flattery said the state is allocating its set-aside supply to give to areas that say they don't have enough fuel to meet the demands.

The set-aside is 4 percent of the total amount of the state's fuels, which the state holds as a reserve in case of shortages.

Flattery said the state is receiving about 96 percent of the gasoline supplies it was getting at this time last year. Current gasoline demand is down about 1 percent compared to the same period last year.

Some service station owners are afraid of a negative impact on tourism in the Carolinas if service station operators drastically curtail Sunday hours or close altogether.

"If some dealers would close on another day and stay open on Sundays, the possible serious negative economic effect of their closings on Sundays would be minimized," said T. Ed Pickard, president of the Carolina Motor Club in Charlotte.

B.L. Weddington, president of the North Carolina Service Station Association, said the only potential gasoline problem could be created by truckers. He said they have blocked pumps with their trucks in other areas, particularly Tennessee.

Girls State Candidates

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Tar Heel Girls State delegates nominated Angela Wilder of Winston-Salem and Elaine Jolly of Lumberton as gubernatorial candidates of their prospective political parties.

Delegates to the 40th annual event were scheduled to elect one of the two Friday to reign over the final sessions of the week-long conference at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

The conference is designed to give the girls a study of governmental operations. During the week they establish mock state and local governments.

Miss Wilder is the nominee of the Federalist Party, and Miss Jolly was nominated by the Nationalist Party.

Gov. Jim Hunt was scheduled to address the girls before the elections Friday.

In developing their party platforms, both parties supported passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, higher standards for school teachers, expressed concern over the use of marijuana and backed the UNC system in its dispute with the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

No Concern On Water Quality

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Most people in the state will receive notices in August that their drinking water does not meet federal standards, but state officials say there is no cause for concern.

"It means that the water supply has not had a chance to be analyzed according to new monitoring standards adopted by the federal government," said Charles E. Rundgren, head of the Human Resources Department's water supply branch.

"It doesn't mean that the water is harmful," he said.

Under federal law, each of the state's 3,000 public water systems must be tested for radiation levels and inorganic and organic chemicals by June 24. But officials estimate that more than 2,500 have yet to be tested.

Under the new regulations, public water suppliers will have to inform their customers that the deadline wasn't met, Rundgren said.

"Too much had to be done in too short a period of time," he said.

Officials do not anticipate

Fishery Council Meet June 26

ECU News Bureau
 The June meeting of the South Atlantic Fishery Management Council is scheduled June 26-28 in the Willis Building at East Carolina University.
 Using information from the recent meeting of its Inter-Council Billfish Steering Committee, the Council will continue deliberations on the decision elements and final draft of a fishery management plan for billfish which is of wide interest to recreational anglers along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.
 The meeting will also include a report by Florida Department of Natural Resources Marine Science Bureau Chief, Dale Beaumariage, on the mackerel fall-out studies recently concluded off Ft. Pierce, Florida, by Ocean Data Systems of Wilmington.

In addition, the Council will hear a report on the proposed program emphasis for the fiscal year 1982 of the National Marine Fisheries Service by NMFS Regional Director, William Stevenson.
 Another agenda item is the presentation of the terms and implementary legislation of the new US/Canadian Fisheries Treaty and its probable impact in the South Atlantic region.
 On Thursday the Council's Shrimp Steering Committee will develop a work plan which will underlie the development of a fishery management plan for shrimp within the 200-mile limit of the waters of the Carolinas, Georgia and the east coast of Florida.

The South Atlantic Fishery Management Council is headquartered in Charleston. Its meetings are open to the public and members of the press.
 Dr. John Maiolo of the ECU Department of Sociology and Anthropology is a member of the Council's Scientific and Statistical Committee.
 He said fishery management plans now under consideration will "greatly affect" North Carolina's fishing industry.
 "The plans referred to are for marlin and other billfish, shrimp mackerel and such reef fish as snapper and grouper," he said.

Shrimpers To Top '78

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — While the state's 1979 shrimp harvest is expected to be below average this year, it will still be higher than last year's record low catch.

Connell E. Purvis, director of the N.C. Division of Marine Fisheries said Thursday that pre-season samplings in shrimp nursery areas indicate that the total catch with heads off would be about 2.6 million pounds.

An average year produces 3.6 million pounds, he said.

Last year's harvest of 1.8 million pounds forced many fishermen to seek other types of seafood and resulted in disaster designations in 10 coastal counties.

More than $1.3 million in shrimp disaster loans from the federal Small Business Administration were distributed to about 70 fishermen and seafood dealers.

Purvis said the problem this year was caused by cool spring temperatures and too much rain during during late April and early May.

 Rainfall and runoff of fresh water reduces the saltwater level, killing the shrimp or forcing them into deeper water where they are eaten by predators, Purvis said.

A quarter-point cut in the prime lending rate from 11 3/4 to 11 1/2 percent continued to spread in the banking industry today, with New York's Citibank joining in the move.

The reduction in the basic charge on blue-chip loans was initiated by Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York on Tuesday.

But analysts said an upsurge in the money supply reported late Thursday by the Federal Reserve cast some doubt on immediate prospects for any sustained further decline in interest rates.

areas requiring 1,200-1,500 feet.

When the ongoing surveys have been completed and the information compiled, design public hearings will be held this winter to give all interested citizens an opportunity to ask questions and express opinions relative to the project. Time and place of the public hearings will be announced in advance.

Questions or comments regarding surveys on the proposed project at this time should be directed to: Horace Jernigan, Head of Location Division of Highways, Raleigh, NC 27611, Phone: (919) 733-7241.

Questions or comments concerning the project in general should be directed to: W.A. Wilson, Head of Roadway Design Division of Highways, Raleigh, NC 27611, Phone: (919) 733-7430.

"We are working together to see that the highway from Wilson to Greenville becomes a reality," said Bradshaw. "US-264, as well as US-64, are very critical and vital routes in tying our state together with a modern transportation system. We will continue to place a strong emphasis on improving these east/west highways to complement Governor Jim Hunt's balanced growth and economic development policy," he added.

between community hospitals and the ECU School of Medicine to provide training and educational resources to increase available medical manpower for the future; and, assuring that the community hospitals be utilized to the fullest extent possible, with the ECU School of Medicine, in the training of medical students and residents.

In matters other than consideration of the proposed Pitt hospital tower, the governing board of the agency at its Wednesday meeting approved The 1979-80 Annual Implementation Plan (AIP). The plan is a 68-page document and is a shorter-range companion to the "Healthy Systems Plan (HSP) for Eastern North Carolina. The HSP attempts to identify and define changes in the health care system of the 29-county region over the next five years.

The annual plan (AIP) is often referred to as a "community work program" because it is the people of Eastern North Carolina who help to identify the areas of need in the health care system, and develop realistic goals on these needs.

Some of the primary objectives in the AIP with a high priority of consideration are: Recruitment of doctors and dentists into areas of under-service; development and expansion of community-based rural health clinics; identification of ways to reduce inappropriate and costly hospital care; addition of nursing home beds and expansion of home health services; training of Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) to serve on area rescue and/or ambulance squads; expansion of family planning services; expansion of comprehensive dental health services; and several other areas of services to families and children.

The governing board approved the use of federal funds for several specific projects, including funds for the Wayne County Mental Health Center; Tri-County Health Services; Pittman Memorial Rural Health Clinic; Greene County Health Care, Inc.; and Pungo District Hospital Corporation.

MIAMI (AP) — A weakening tropical depression was clashing with a high-pressure area over the Mid-Atlantic states today, causing rough seas and abnormally high tides along the coast from Central Florida through the Carolinas.

The depression, the first activity in the 1979 Atlantic hurricane season, had winds of no more than 20 miles per hour near its center, just off the Southeast Florida Coast.

But interaction with the high-pressure system produced winds of 25 to 35 mph with a few higher squalls along the affected coast, according to forecaster Gil Clark at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

He said tides two feet above normal were expected to combine with a rough surf to cause some erosion along the beaches throughout the area.

Small boat owners from just north of Palm Beach to the North Carolina-Virginia line were advised to stay in port today.

The weak depression was expected to continue its slow drift northward.

In addition, the Council approved an increase, ranging from 25 cents to 50 cents in each zone, for the taxicab operations. Taxicab spokesmen indicated that the increase in gasoline costs necessitated the rate increase request, the first submitted by the cab companies since January of 1978.

Evict 76,000

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The Malaysian government said today it will ship out to sea the 76,000 Vietnamese refugees now sheltered in its territory and officials vowed to enact legislation to shoot on sight any Vietnamese "boat people" entering Malaysian waters.

"We will be harsh with them," said Deputy Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad. He said eviction of the refugees would begin immediately and would be carried out in stages.

The Malaysian action was announced as the government joined with Thailand and Indonesia in declaring it will drive away all Vietnamese refugees trying to land on their shores.

Home Affairs Minister Ghazali Shafie said a joint naval force will patrol the South China Sea to curb the influx of boat people into the three countries.

The "shoot on sight" law will take effect soon, Mohamad said. He said the action was being taken because Western nations are not accepting as many refugees for permanent settlement as are arriving on Malaysian shores.

Five Knotted In U.S. Open

By GEORGE STRODE AP Sports Writer TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — They're calling the 79th United States Open Championship the Year of the Tree. And it's an apropos title.

A 25-foot spruce was awaiting Lon Hinkle and his Short Cut Gang today beside the eighth tee at Inverness Club.

Embarrassed officials of the governing U.S. Golf Association hope the tree, put in place Thursday night, will eliminate playing down the adjoining 17th fairway to negotiate an easy par — or even birdie — at the 528-yard, par-5 dogleg hole.

"I was real tempted not to tell anybody about it. We hit to the same landing area that people from 17 do," said Hinkle, who hit a 1-iron to the fairway, a 2-iron to the eighth green and 2-putted from 70 feet for his bird.

The strategy helped him to a 1-under-par 70, good for a share of the first-round lead with 1975 Open champion Lou Graham, Tom Purtzer, Andy Bean and Keith Ferguson.

At least six players — Jerry Heard, Dave Eichelberger, John Schroeder, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Jim Simons and Hinkle — played the eighth hole via the shortcut, which cut about 50 yards from the length of the hole. Heard and Schroeder also birdied it. The others parred it.

The tree incident nearly overshadowed one of the great Open comebacks by Tom Purtzer.

Purtzer, 27, whose only victory came in the 1977 Los Angeles Open, was 5 over par after five holes Thursday. He went double bogey, then triple bogey.

He had hit shots bare-footed from a creek, left-handed from under a bush and from atop a pine cone. He took a fat 39 on the front side.

And this was the world's most prestigious golf tournament, the second of four major championships this year for the men.

Then, in a startling turnaround he couldn't explain himself, Purtzer lashed back at proud, old Inverness, the site of its fourth Open in 59 years.

Purtzer birdied four straight holes, five of the last six for a 31 on the backside and a share of the lead. Despite the playing conditions in sunny mid-80 degree weather, it was one of the most inauspicious first rounds for an Open. Not since 1974 had no players been in the 60s.

Inverness was particularly harsh on some of the sport's glamour names. Johnny Miller, who holds the single round Open record of 63, went for 73. Three-time Open titleholder Jack Nicklaus struggled to 74 as did two more Open kings, Hubert Green and Hale Irwin. Tom Watson, this year's leading money winner and the pre-tournament favorite, explained his 75: "My driving was the worst part. My irons weren't that good either. I just couldn't get the feel of it today."

Arnold Palmer had 76. Lee Trevino, a two-time winner in this tournament; Masters victor Fuzzy Zoeller, and PGA National champion John Mahaffey matched 77s.

Portions of this $350,000 major championship, with a first prize of $50,000, will be carried Saturday and Sunday by ABC-TV (2:30 to 6:30 p.m. EDT).

"I was really tempted not to tell anybody about it. We hit to the same landing area that people from 17 do. I thought to myself, 'This might be the only time something like this ever happens in the U.S. Open.'"

—Lon Hinkle

Wilson Hands Pitt First Legion Loss

By JIM KYLE Reflector Sports Writer A middle-inning scoring flurry by Wilson last night sent Pitt County reeling to its first defeat in American Legion baseball by a 5-4 score.

Wilson scored a run in the fourth, two in the fifth and two more in the sixth and then held off a Pitt County rally in the eighth, getting the final out with the bases loaded and two runs in.

It was the first defeat of the season for Post 39 since league play began and leaves the team with a 4-1 record. Coach Gary Overton said he was confident Pitt County would bounce back, however.

"We just made too many mental mistakes that hurt us early," he said. "I told them in the seventh that we would hold them on defense and that we were still in the game. The guys came back well, they just came up a little short."

A bright spot for Post 39 was the relief pitching of regular third baseman Skip Topping, Overton said. "I think we found us a pitcher tonight. I was very pleased with Skip Topping."

Overton said Topping, who hurled the final three innings, giving up just one hit, walking none and striking out three, will take his place in the starting rotation.

Bob Hemingway was the starter for Pitt County, suffering a loss in his first decision. He went 4 1/2 innings and gave up three runs, all unearned. Jeff Allen came in to replace Hemingway and lasted 1 1/2 frames. He was charged with the other two Wilson runs, both earned.

Top-notch defense highlighted the scoreless initial three innings of last night's game. Wilson left fielder Doug Godwin made a great catch over his head near the fence of Curtis Spencer's fly ball in the bottom of the first, while Topping started off the second with a diving catch of Ricky Matthews' line drive to third.

Wilson, now 2-4, broke into the scoring column with a run in the fourth. Robert Wells led off the frame with a single up the middle and went to third when Mack Smith reached on an error. He was sacrificed in by Matthews.

The winners scored twice in the top of the fifth. Greg Dale reached on an error leading off and Jeff Davis singled him to second. The runners advanced on David Lawhon's sacrifice, and after Kenneth Thorne's walk, they scored when Wells reached on a two-base error.

Pitt County got its first run in the bottom of the frame. With one out, Mark Shank tripled to right field and scored on Will Barrett's base hit.

Godwin walked and stole second for Wilson in the sixth and moved to third on Duke Lackey's long fly to center field. Greg Dale singled in Godwin, stole second and scored on Lawhon's base hit to make it 5-1.

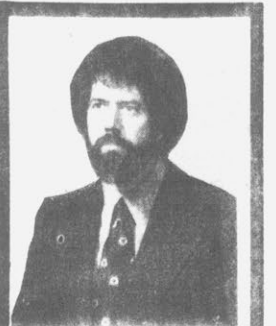

Mark Douglas tripled in the sixth and scored on Will Sanderson's infield out to make it 5-2 and Pitt County came up with two runs in the eighth, but fell short in its comeback bid.

Curtis Spencer led off the frame with a double up the middle and went to third on a passed ball. Micah Dixon walked and Sanderson hit to right to score Spencer. Dixon was thrown out going to third on the play.

Shank got a seeing eye hit to left to plate Sanderson and Barrett beat out a ground ball to short to load the bases, but the final batter hit an infield fly and Post 39 went down in order in the bottom of the ninth.

Pitt County faces a tough Snow Hill squad in another home game Saturday night at Harrington Field. "They've got a good hitting ballclub," Overton said. "We'll have to play good defense to beat them."

Sparky Loses In AL Debut

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
 AP Sports Writer

Things have got to get better for Sparky Anderson but how much better can they get for Willie Aikens?

While the Seattle Mariners were spoiling Anderson's American League managerial debut by nipping the Detroit Tigers 3-2, Aikens tied a major league record by belting a grand slam for the second game in a row as the California Angels swamped the Toronto Blue Jays 10-2.

In other American League games, the Minnesota Twins turned back the New York Yankees 4-2, the Milwaukee Brewers whipped the Texas Rangers 6-2 and the Cleveland Indians edged the Oakland A's 2-1. Baltimore, Boston, Chicago and Kansas City were not scheduled.

Mariners 3, Tigers 2
 With the score tied 2-2, Anderson thought it was time for a pitching change after Seattle tagged Jack Billingham for 11 hits in eight innings. He waved for relief ace John Hiller but his first AL strategy play backfired when pinch hitter Leon Roberts tripled and scored as Larry Milbourne's two-out grounder went through third baseman Aurelio Rodriguez.

Angels 10, Blue Jays 2
 Aikens' first-inning homer off Phil Huffman marked the first time in 17 years — and the ninth in major league history — that an American Leaguer has hit grand slams in consecutive games. Brooks Robinson of Baltimore last did it in 1962, although Pittsburgh's Phil Garner accomplished the feat in the National League last season.

Twins 4, Yankees 2
 Butch Wynegar's wind-blown three-run double with two out in the fourth inning highlighted a four-run outburst as Minnesota rallied to hand 10-game winner Tommy John his second setback. Wynegar's pop fly came after a two-out error by New York first baseman Chris Chambliss and resulted in four unearned runs when Dave Edwards singled Wynegar home. Juan Beniquez hit a two-run homer in the second inning for the Yankees, who failed to score again despite loading the bases with none out in the fifth inning and one out in the seventh.

Rangers 6, Brewers 2
 Billy Travers scattered seven hits and Ben Oglivie, Sal Bando and Buck Martinez each drove in two runs as the Brewers handed the Rangers their eighth setback in the last 10 games. Bando socked a two-run triple in the third inning, Martinez drilled a two-run double in the fourth and Oglivie blasted a two-run homer in the fifth, his 12th of the season.

Indians 2, A's 1
 Jim Norris pounded a two-run triple with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning following an error by Oakland shortstop Rob Piccolo. Ron Pruitt drew a one-out walk from reliever Jim Todd and was forced at second. Pinch hitter Ted Cox was safe on an error by Piccolo and Norris greeted Craig Minetto with a line drive to the wall in right-center.

Len Barker, making his first start for the Indians, scattered four hits and yielded the A's run before being relieved with none out in the ninth. Oakland starter Matt Keough, who entered the game with a 12-game losing streak, gave up five hits before being removed after 7-3 innings.

Garber Hurls Loss As Expos Nip Braves

By ALEX SACHARE
 AP Sports Writer

When things are going well, it doesn't matter what they throw at you.

Gene Garber tried to jam Montreal's Tony Perez with a fast ball in the eighth inning, and the veteran first baseman hit it for a run-scoring single. So when Gary Carter stepped to the plate, Garber decided to try and slip a changeup past him.

It didn't work. Carter slammed a booming double to left, driving in two runs and giving the Expos a 4-3 victory over the Braves.

The victory raised Montreal's home record to 20-3 and extended its lead over second-place St. Louis to one game in the National League East.

The Expos trailed 3-1 before Rodney Scott led off the eighth with a single, moved to third on Andre Dawson's double off the left-field wall and scored on the single by Perez.

"Perez has been driving in runs like that for 14 years," said Expos Manager Dick Williams. "Garber tried to jam him with the pitch and Tony just fought it off."

Garber, who had entered the game in relief of starter Buddy Solomon after two runners reached base in the eighth, then gave up the two-run double to Carter.

"He took a little off his fast ball and kept the ball down a bit," said Carter. "You just have to stay with him because he gives you so much arms and legs and motion. He can intimidate you when he comes sidarm."

The Braves had taken a 3-1 lead in the seventh on a double by Solomon, a throwing error by Expos starter Bill Lee and a run-scoring single by Bob Horner.

Lee was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning and reliever Elias Sosa, 3-3, held the Braves hitless over the final two innings.

Cubs 8, Giants 6
 Mick Kelleher's two-run single with two out in the ninth inning produced the winning runs for the Cubs. The hit followed a wild pitch by Giants reliever Gary Lavelle that allowed Jerry Martin and Bobby Murcer to advance into scoring position.

The Giants' Willie McCovey hit the 53th home run of his major league career in the third inning. That homer gave McCovey ninth place on baseball's all-time home run list.

Padres 2, Pirates 1
 Tim Foli booted Ozzie

Smith's grounder with two out in the 14th, paving the way for the Padres to score their winning run against Pittsburgh. After Dave Winfield walked, pinch hitter Barry Evans singled on a 3-2 pitch to drive in Smith.

Winfield had singled home a run in the sixth inning, his 55th RBI of the season — tops in the National League.

Actor Noah Beery Has Another Side: A Sculptor

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Chances are if you ever met Noah Beery and didn't know who he was, you'd never take him for an actor.

His skin is parched brown from the sun, the face craggy and weatherbeaten, his thin gray hair awry. His speech is homespun, and his clothes are more practical than fashionable.

He looks at home in the saddle or behind the wheel of a dusty pickup truck. Spend a minute with him and you know instinctively you're going to like him. All of which probably is at the heart of his longevity as an actor.

Dramatic Debut

Set For Raquel

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Raquel Welch will make her television dramatic debut in "The Legend of Walks Far Woman," a three-hour NBC movie to begin filming in July.

Welch, who has starred in musical specials for TV, will play an Indian woman whose life spans the time from frontier America to the complexities of the 1960s.

The actress will age gradually during the film from a young girl to a woman of almost 100 years.

When he's not playing James Garner's father on NBC's "The Rockford Files," Beery's working on his 1,800-acre ranch near Tehachapi. And the 63-year-old Beery is more complicated than that.

He's also a sculptor whose western and wild life bronze pieces bring as much as $2,500, and he has what he calls a "major minor" collection of the works of western artist Charles Russell.

Beery was born into an acting family. His father was Noah Beery, one of the silent screen's most celebrated villains, and his mother was Marguerite Lindsay, a stage and silent screen actress. His uncle was Wallace Beery, one of MGM's top stars, noted for his gravelly voice and such tough-tender roles as "The Champ."

Noah Beery began as a child actor and his first substantial role was in the 1926 serial "Heroes of the West."

In all, he's made several serials, 130 movies, had countless television roles, and starred in five TV series.

"I worked with John Wayne in a serial in 1936 called 'The Three Musketeers,'" he says. "That shows how they'd take a popular title, whether it fit or not. We were in the Foreign Legion."

He had a major role with Wayne again in "Red River" in 1948, and says, "That was worth 20 movies."

Beery made two pictures with his father, "The Trail Beyond" and "Fighting with Kit Carson." His uncle gave him a role in "20 Mule Team" as a wedding present.

"There must have been 80 other juveniles who could have played it better," he says. "But it's a family business, just like anything else. I don't care what they say. My uncle had a reputation as an autocrat."

Dear Charlie:
Thank you for making the arrangements for me to play at the Regency Whist Club on my recent visit to New York. It is a most attractive club and I enjoyed the bridge.

I particularly liked this hand, played by Edgar Nye, a member of the club's governing board. He became declarer at four hearts after an excellent auction. Because of its flat shape North's hand is simply not worth a jump to three hearts over partner's third-hand opening. North's actual approach, even though he risked getting passed in two diamonds, was much more sensible.

My partner led the king of spades and, in response to my signal with the six, he continued with a low spade. I won the ace and led a third round of the suit, forcing declarer to ruff. Edgar led a trump to the queen and then a low trump off dummy. I played the jack.

A careless declarer would have won the king, and now the contract would have been doomed. Suppose declarer leaves two trumps outstanding and starts on diamonds. I ruffed the third round while declarer discards a club from his hand, and return my last trump. Now declarer has no way to avoid a club loser.

Unfortunately for our side, my mild falsecard did not fool declarer. He realized that the only danger to the hand was that trumps might break 4-1, and he adroitly sidestepped that trap. He allowed my jack of hearts to win the trick!

I was helpless. If I returned a minor suit or a trump, declarer would simply win and draw the outstanding trumps, then take four diamonds and two clubs for his contract. If I returned a spade, declarer would discard from his hand and ruff in dummy. After returning to his hand and drawing the trumps, he could then claim his contract with four heart tricks, four diamonds and two clubs.

If the games are all going to be that good, I'll have to watch my money!

As ever,
Omar
