

Truckers' Strike Spreads Into N.C.; Escorts Ready

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The independent truckers protest spread to North Carolina Wednesday night, and Gov. Jim Hunt today promised Highway Patrol escorts for groups of truckers who ask for protection as they drive through the state.

you want to move it, we'll help you do it." Meanwhile, an Indiana produce company said it may be forced to shut down its operation in North Carolina because its drivers can't get refrigerated trucks to haul produce out of the state. A company official said today that one of its drivers dumped 50 tons of cucumbers in the Robeson County landfill Wednesday because no refrigerated units were available. Ed Demont, vice president of Pilgrim Farms Produce Co. of Plymouth, Ind., said in a telephone interview today that the company is losing a lot of money in North Carolina, as well as in other states. "I can't say how much produce we've had to dump so far," DeMont said. "But we've had several problems. First of all, some of the drivers have been threatened. And we've had great difficulty getting refrigerated trucks to operate. We're definitely losing produce. "We're afraid we'll have to shut down completely in North Carolina," he said. "We've been delaying any decision so far. We've been able to avoid by the hour, but I don't know how much longer we'll be able to hold off." Demont praised North Carolina's government, saying it has been more helpful to truckers than the administration in other states. He said Pilgrim drivers had been held up for days in Kentucky and Tennessee because they had been threatened.

Hunt was on vacation at an undisclosed beach location, but Pearce said the governor ordered stepped-up patrols by state troopers Wednesday night, as the state's independent truckers voted to park their rigs in support of the nationwide strike.

Pearce said the Highway Patrol is offering escorts for groups of 10 or more trucks on North Carolina highways, if the drivers request the protection. He said the patrol increased the number of troopers on the roads at night to daytime levels, and ordered two troopers in every car. Doubling up troopers will allow them to remain on the road longer hours, Pearce said.

"The state of North Carolina will take whatever steps are necessary to guarantee safe passage for any truckers who want to haul their loads," Hunt said in a prepared statement.

"Beginning Wednesday night, the patrol was ordered out in full force. Troopers are patrolling in every county of the state, concentrating on the interstates. They will continue to do so," Hunt added.

Hunt said the strike threatens to cause millions of dollars in losses to North Carolina farmers. "I am deeply concerned about the impact on them, on our processors and on our entire agricultural economy," he said.

A Good Day's Work

COOL MORNING'S PICKINGS — On a cool morning at the break of day, many workers begin their task of cucumber picking. Ten year old Barry Jones, of Ayden, carries a sack that's almost as big as the youngster through the cucumber field outside Greenville. The farm is owned by Cliff Brock of Winterville. Although independent truckers have refused to transport produce, the cucumber picking still goes on. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Additional School Funds Talked In Budget Study

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Pitt County Commissioners are continuing to explore various possibilities as they work on the budget for the coming fiscal year, with an eye toward reducing the tax rate needed to fund the projected list of expenditures.

trim as much off the tax rate as possible. The tax rate this year is 95 cents per $100 valuation and commissioners would like to maintain that rate. Gray explained that several factors have caused the projected tax rate to fall, including a re-figuring of surplus funds, better-than-anticipated May collections, a slight increase in valuation and correction of an error in projections. The board, meeting several times this week to review budget proposals, talked of a possible 7 percent cost of living pay increase for county employees as compared with a five per cent increase suggested originally. The additional two percent hike would cost the county an additional $56,670, Gray said, and equal the average increase approved by the General Assembly for state employees. Commissioners yesterday also considered additional capital outlay funds for the Pitt County and Greenville city school systems.

looking into it, but the tax rate has to come down some more. We're working toward no increase." The county manager noted that one of the problems facing the board is a 41 percent increase in Medicaid costs, brought about by action of the General Assembly and over which the county has no control. He said, too, that the Aid for Families with Dependent Children has increased 15 percent over the current level of spending.

"The state tax refund," approved by the 1979 General Assembly, Gray said, "hasn't helped a soul except for the politicians," because the county has to pick up the bill and raise more money. In addition to work on the budget, the purchase of a 28.8 acre tract of land between Ayden and Grifton, for use as a container site in the solid waste disposal program, was finalized yesterday.

Gray said the property, purchased for $28,596, was bought because no other satisfactory site could be obtained in the area. He noted that the property not needed for the container site might be used as a site for disposal of such things as leaves and limbs that do not have to be disposed of in a landfill.

Commissioners have scheduled another budget session for 10 a.m. Monday.

Robs Bank

WINTERVILLE — A lone man held up the First State Bank here this morning and escaped on foot with an undisclosed amount of money. Winterville Police officer on duty, Craig Fendley, identified the man charged with the robbery as Wilbur Lee Croom, 34, of the Hanrahan's Crossroads community near Ayden. He said the man had been living for the past few weeks at the Ennis Suburban Rest Home here. According to Lee Pascasio of the Pitt County Sheriff Department, Croom is in custody at the Pitt County Jail under $5,000 bond. The money has been recovered, he said. Winterville Auxiliary policeman, Virgil O'Neal, was credited with apprehending the suspect. Pascasio said the man effected the robbery by having an object under a handkerchief "which could have been a gun." The apprehension occurred about two blocks from the bank, he said.

Somoza Avers Killer Of U.S. Newsman Held

By LEW WHEATON
Associated Press Writer
MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Nicaragua's national guard says it arrested the corporal who shot and killed ABC correspondent Bill Stewart as he lay face down at a guard roadblock in Managua, a presidential press card in his hand. President Anastasio Somoza's offensive to drive the Sandinista guerrillas from the slum barrios on the eastern side of the capital appeared to have bogged down as the drive went into its fourth day. Residents said guard patrols were taking heavy casualties, and reporters who visited the area saw several bullet-riddled military vehicles. Stewart was trying to get through a government roadblock to the fighting Wednesday when a soldier ordered him to lie on the ground, kicked him once in the ribs and then killed him with a rifle shot to the head. Stewart's Nicaraguan interpreter, Juan Francisco Espinoza, also was killed, apparently by another soldier. Stewart's camera crew, watching from a van parked near the roadblock, filmed the slaying, and the film was broadcast Wednesday night by all three U.S. networks. President Carter said the killing was "an act of barbarism that all civilized people condemn," and Somoza, expressing his "deep and sad condolences," said "the full weight of the law" would be brought to bear on those responsible. The 37-year-old correspondent, who covered the revolution in Iran in February, had been in Nicaragua for 10 days, ABC said. He was the first foreign correspondent killed in the 24-day-old war between the Sandinista rebels fighting to overthrow the 42-year-old Somoza family dictatorship and Somoza's 13,000-man national guard. Col. Aquiles Aranda Escobar, the guard's public information officer, said Stewart's killer would be brought before legal officers today. Officers and noncoms in the man's unit also would be questioned, he said. He took a copy of the camera crew's video tape for evidence.

Snipers opened fire on trucks in nine states today during a spreading protest by independent truck drivers that is clogging the nation's food and fuel supply lines. "We've had so many incidents during the night it's impossible to follow them all," said Massachusetts state trooper Dennis Remkus at the Grafton barracks. There were no reports of serious injuries. Alabama Gov. Fob James encouraged drivers to arm themselves and shoot back if attacked. Illinois Gov. James Thompson said he is considering calling out the National Guard, as some states have done. "It's time to put the billy back in the billystick," James said. "I'd put a shotgun beside and and go ... and I'd kill anybody that tries to stop me." Dairy farmers dumped their milk and farmers watched their fruit and vegetables spoiling as truckers in several more states heeded another call for a shutdown at midnight. President Carter was considering whether to lift an order assuring farmers all the diesel fuel they need to free additional supplies for the protesting truck operators. The violence, which already has led to one death and numerous injuries over the past several weeks, also saw more trucks shot today in Rhode Island, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Kentucky, Minnesota, Utah and Oregon. Massachusetts state police said there were numerous reports of shots fired at trucks traveling Route 146 in Uxbridge and Sutton and others hit by rocks along Route 20 in Auburn. In Kentucky, two trucks were shot up and a third was set afire on Interstate 75 in Whitley County.

As an all-out blockade of six Connecticut truck stops began following the midnight deadline for a shutdown, the windshields of two trucks blocking pumps at one station were shattered by rifle fire. After a sniper in Rhode Island fired bullets at a Getty Oil tanker carrying 10,000 gallons of gasoline, the company Wednesday night installed bullet-proof windows on the trucks and offered to provide armed guards for the drivers. A driver was shot and killed in Alabama on Wednesday — the first fatality linked to the violence-riddled shutdown. The FBI joined the investigation, and Gov. Fob

James denounced the assailants as "outlaws and cold-blooded murderers." Some 100 Alabama truckers, dismayed at the death of 31-year-old Robert C. Tate of Birmingham, voted to remove blockades and let gasoline flow to drivers who have lined up at service stations. Strike leaders estimate 40 percent to 75 percent of the nation's 100,000 owner-operators have joined the shutdown. William J. Hill of the Independent Truckers Unity Committee, a coalition of trucker and steelhaulers groups, urged more to join the protest today.

A HOTLINE APPEAL

VAN NEEDED
The Pitt County Council on Aging provides transportation for the elderly of the county to destinations such as nutrition sites. In order to continue this service through the summer, the Council is in need of the use of a van during the weeks of July 9-13; July 16-20 and Aug. 13-17. Some 40 cents a mile can be paid for this usage. The Council has a driver with a chauffeur's license. Church vans are ordinarily contracted for, but the vans usually used are needed by the churches themselves during these three weeks. Anyone who can furnish a van during any one of these weeks or can provide a lead to such a van is asked to call the Pitt Co. Council on Aging, 752-1717.

Plan Adopted

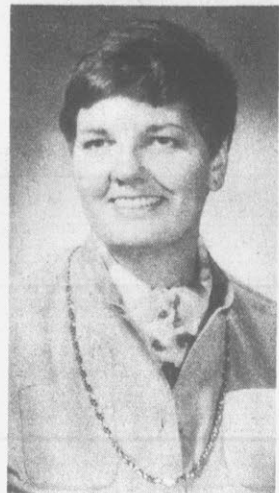

The City of Greenville has received notification from the Planning and Research Branch of the N.C. Department of Transportation that the revised Greenville Thoroughfare Plan has been mutually adopted by the Board of Transportation, at its May 11 meeting in Fayetteville. The next step in carrying out the provisions of the General Statutes and one step toward the implementation of the Thoroughfare Plan is for the state to initiate a study leading toward delineation of state and city responsibilities for various streets and highways included in the Thoroughfare Plan. A timetable for initiating this study has not been given by the state, but spokesmen have indicated that it would be soon. With state approval of the Thoroughfare Plan, the city can begin using it immediately.

Surrenders

SHANNON, Ireland (AP) — An American Airlines Boeing 707, commandeered by a man identified as a Serbian nationalist bombmaker, flew today from New York to Shannon airport, where the hijacker gave himself up to police, authorities said. It was more than 22 hours after the hijacking drama had begun on a New York-Chicago flight. The FBI said the hijacker, who arrived in Ireland with his lawyer, had been armed with dynamite. A crew of three were also aboard, authorities in New York said. A duty office spokesman at Shannon airport said the hijacker walked down the steps from the plane to waiting police in a remote part of the airfield, and there was no violence. Scores of Irish police including a special anti-terrorist unit, had surrounded the plane after it landed at 2:47 p.m. local time — 9:47 a.m. EDT. Two executives from American Airlines had also flown in from London. In New York at about 4 a.m., the Serbian nationalist had switched from a smaller jetliner he had hijacked 16 hours earlier during a flight from New York to Chicago, the FBI said.

Pitt Teacher Named State Young Careerist

Jodi Thompson of Greenville has been named Young Career Woman-1979 by the North Carolina Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. The announcement was made at the federation's state convention in Asheville.

Jodi Thompson

Ms. Thompson, a reading specialist with the Pitt County Schools, was chosen from a group of 12 women from across the state. According to Mrs. Laura Williams, immediate past president of the state federation, Ms. Thompson was chosen because of "her significant achievements in her career area and outstanding contributions to her community."

A graduate of Emmanuel College, Franklin Springs, Ga., and Appalachian State University, Boone, Ms. Thompson is presently attending ECU, working toward a Master's in reading education. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Hyder.

She will represent North Carolina at the BPW national convention, Boston, Mass., July 22-27.

The Young Careerist Career Woman Program is BPW's way of highlighting the significant achievements of young business and professional women. Founded in 1919, BPW has a membership of 170,000 employed women who support legislation to elevate the status of women and implement "women helping women" projects.

Crochet Shorthand Baffles The Young

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Family Editor

Young people today learn crafts from their peers, not from older family members and friends, as in the days when one generation passed skills to the next.

Young people also say the shorthand of traditional knitting and crochet instructions is almost incomprehensible.

Both these findings turned up in a new national consumer survey by Brand-Gruber and Co. for DuPont Co., a leading yarn manufacturer.

The message is not yet reflected in needlecraft books. Instructions in many otherwise fine new needlecraft publications assume a knowledge on the part of users that many obviously lack.

For example, the wearing apparel, accessories and wall hangings in Design Knitting and Design Crochet (Hawthorn $14.95 each) should have wide appeal among style-conscious young women. But directions such as: "Row 1: With A, form a 3 lp foundation chain as follows: (ch4, dc in 4th ch from hk) three times" are hard for even an experienced crocheter to follow. Such considerations may well outweigh a desire to make the projects created by leading free-lance designers.

A better choice for younger crafters would be Lisbeth Perrone's Folk Art in Needlepoint & Cross-Stitch (Random House $9.95). Her instructions and graphs are clear and easy to follow. Designs include wall hangings and pictures, place mats, handbags, a pillow, hand- and tote bags and a charming vest.

Flower Craft, by Barbara L. Farlie and Vivian Abell (Bobbs-Merrill $14.95), Custom Made, by Leslie Linsley (Harper & Row $14.95) and Family Circle Creative Needlecrafts (Prentice-Hall $14.95) also represent good value for needleworkers with wide-ranging skills and interests.

The Farlie-Abell projects use such materials as silk and other fabrics, paper, and beads, and shells and other natural materials for largely adult-oriented projects. Some simple designs could be made by children with adult supervision.

The Linsley book is for people who like customized home furnishings, clothing and accessories but cannot afford, say, embroidered sheets for a child's bed or custom-printed stationery. Projects also include stenciled paper lunch bags, greeting cards, decorated T-shirts, needlework pillows and toys and party trays.

The Family Circle book also covers many crafts: macrame, applique, patchwork, embroidery, needlepoint, bargello, toymaking, home furnishings, purses and accessories, pillows, pictures, necklaces and clothing. Projects include all levels of competence done with the thoroughness of the magazine is known for. All projects appeared previously either in the regular magazine or its special project publications sold on newsstands.

One recent book embodies a concept so unusual that author-designer Patricia Mabry has received a patent on it.

Basic Ribbonpoint Technique (Oxmoor House $5.95 paper) uses 1/8-inch wide double-faced satin polyester ribbon to work patterns on large mesh canvas in stitches borrowed or adapted from conventional needlepoint and bargello. The results are wonderfully colorful and durable upholstery, home furnishings, accessories and decorative items. They also work up much faster than similar projects using wool yarn. Unfortunately, instructions with some graphs are inadequate.

Three other books are mainly for reading.

Pulled Work on Canvas & Linen, by Rosemary Drysdale (Scribners $14.95) covers the origins and history of stitching even weave canvas or fabric so tightly that holes form, and the Beck book is a history of make patterns. One wishes the author had included more pattern designs and color suggestions. Most of her projects require moderate to great skill.

Don't Offer Son Advice

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: This problem concerns my son. Two years ago he was engaged to marry a girl he had been crazy about for years. They were both 21. Then she ran off and married an older man (30) she'd known only a few weeks.

My son was brokenhearted. He couldn't eat or sleep, lost 20 pounds and walked around in a daze for months.

Then he met a lovely girl who raised his spirits and made him feel that life was worth living again. They planned to announce their engagement this month and marry in September.

Out of the blue, his old girlfriend called to say she and her husband were separated. She said she made a terrible mistake, she still loves my son and wants to pick up where they left off.

My son saw her, and is now considering dropping the girl who brought him out of the dumps and going back with the girl who broke his heart.

What should I do?

HIS MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: He should do what he wants to do. And you should offer no advice unless he asks for it. And neither will I.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine being treated for a skin condition told me that her doctor gave her a "word association test" in which he used some very filthy words which made her most uncomfortable.

She is an elderly widow who has raised several children. She is not a prude, but she said she is not accustomed to hearing language like that. Another friend (also elderly) told me that she went to this same doctor for her nerves, and he used some very vulgar language with her, too. She said she was so disgusted she never went back.

Abby, is this something new in the practice of medicine? What can be done about it?

A FRIEND IN OSWEGO, N.Y.

DEAR FRIEND: This kind of "treatment" strikes me as most unconventional. If a patient feels that a doctor has behaved in an unprofessional or unethical manner, that doctor should be reported to the ethics committee of his county or state medical society.

DEAR ABBY: Some of us older folks don't move as fast as we used to, so you'd be doing us big favor if you would pass this suggestion on to those responsible for the sound effects on TV programs. When a telephone rings, I wish they'd use a more unique sound, such as a buzzer, or a beeping sound that is common in European phones. Anything but the familiar telephone bell most of us have at home.

Frequently while watching TV, I've struggled out of my easy chair to answer my phone to discover that it wasn't ringing at all. It was a ringing phone on the television!

Mexican Herbs Grow Well In United States

By TOM HOGE
AP Wine and Food Writer

There's a saying that the cuisine of Mexico stems from Aztec cooking plus Spanish pork fat.

This is because a cornerstone of Mexican food is the tortilla, as it was in Aztec days. More important, the cookery of this land was revolutionized when the Spanish conquistadores brought pigs to Mexico. They taught the natives how to use the lard drippings to fry food. Until then, Aztec women had boiled, broiled or steamed dishes but they knew nothing about frying.

One of the most articulate exponents of Mexican cookery is Diana Kennedy, widow of a U.S. newspaper correspondent stationed in Mexico City for many years. She has written two books on Mexican cooking and has a third coming out.

"There are many regional cuisines in Mexico," she told me. "And to understand them one should visit the colorful market places. There you can obtain the exotic fruits and vegetables that change constantly with the changing seasons."

This would seem to place Mexican food out of reach of anyone not living there, a belief that has made many U.S. cooks shy away.

"This need not be so," said Mrs. Kennedy. "Many basic ingredients, like Jalapenos chilies, are available canned in most U.S. supermarkets. You can also find good substitutes in the U.S."

Take cheeses. Mild cheddar is similar to Mexico's chihuahua, muenster can stand in for asadero and feta can replace panela.

Mrs. Kennedy also found by accident that some seasonings she thought purely Mexican grow wild in this country. She was walking in New York's Central Park one day and stumbled upon a clump of epazote, an essential Mexican herb.

One of Mrs. Kennedy's favorite seafood dishes is Huachinango a la Veracruzana, a red snapper specialty in which the frying, incidentally, is done with olive oil instead of pork fat.

- 4-pound red snapper, cleaned with head and tail intact
- 2 ounces fresh lime juice
- 2 tablespoons salt
- 3 pounds tomatoes, peeled, seeded, chopped with seeds and pulp reserved
- 4 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 large white onion, sliced thin
- 15 pitted green olives
- 3 tablespoons capers, drained
- 4 canned chilies
- "jalapenos en escabeche"
- 1 tablespoon parsley
- 1 sweet red pepper, peeled and cut in strips

Rinse fish in cold water to remove any scales. Pierce flesh on both sides with sharp fork and rub in lime juice and 1 tablespoon salt. Set fish aside in ovenproof dish. Heat oil in frying pan. Fry onions till wilted. Add tomatoes. Press seeds and pulp through strainer to extract juice. Add juice, olives, capers, half parsley and rest salt. Cook over fairly high flame 10 minutes. Pour sauce over fish, cover with foil and bake 25 minutes in preheated 350-degree oven. Remove foil, bake 25 more minutes, basting with sauce. Sprinkle on rest of parsley and decorate with red pepper strips. Serve with rice. Good with dry, chilled, white wine. Serves 4-6 persons.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

The gas shortage is affecting a lot of vacations this year, and it's not unlikely that many families will forsake the open road for a week or two of leisure in their own back yard.

Well, don't kid yourself, it won't be the same. Convenience and comfort are not what vacations are all about. How are you going to feel going back to work rested, relaxed, and ready to face another year? No one will believe you had a good time if you return looking wonderful.

Since it is a nationwide problem, I think we have to address ourselves to ways in which a vacation at home can be simulated to the fun-filled time you might have had if you went on the road.

Pack the car. This is a ritual—no vacation should be without. Remember, water, snacks and car sickness pills in the trunk locked in behind the spare wheel, picnic basket and any other breakables under the dirt bike and sports equipment. On the roof: the cardboard suitcases, clothes, linens and other items that can be destroyed if it rains, and of course, an inflated air mattress that hangs out far enough to cut off the vision in Dad's rear-view mirror.

Buy postcards. Spend the first day writing all your friends telling them what a wonderful time you are having. Do this before you get sick from too much charcoal lighter fluid on the grill, the baby is bitten by a ground squirrel but thinks she can make positive identification, there is a leash law on children and the 100-year flood arrives 57 years early.

Go primitive. No one respects you as a vacationer until you learn to live without life's basic necessities. The more hardship you endure, the better time you will have. Turn off the water, the electricity and limit your existence to two burners, a skillet, a double broiler, an axe, 50 yards of clothesline, three buckets, a spatula, a box of bandages, a tube of ointment and 38 boxes of aluminum foil.

I know what a lot of you are thinking. You're thinking I can sit in a mosquito-free back yard with clean air and clear skies and commune with birds and chipmunks. I can spread out a picnic of non-charred food straight from the microwave oven. I can sleep on sand-free beds and enjoy the benefits and privacy of indoor plumbing. I can have my own private laundromat and if it rains stay indoors and watch television. I can be perfectly comfortable and relaxed in my own home. Yes, but is it a vacation?

BURNING WHALES — Thick black smoke pours skyward from the first of the dead sperm whales being disposed of by burning. State Parks and Service personnel near Florence, Oregon, lit the fire in the first of four trenches, using a napalm-like substance called Alumagel. As the fire burns, additional bodies of the 41 whales will be pushed in. The whales have been on the beach since they swam ashore Saturday night for reasons that remain a mystery. (AP Laserphoto)

Smash Ring Dealing In Stolen Credit Cards

NEW YORK (AP) — Authorities say they have smashed a $1 million-a-year ring that resold airplane tickets purchased with airline credit cards lost or stolen from business executives by high-priced call girls.

Twenty-one men were indicted Wednesday in the scheme, which officials said involved some $3.5 million worth of plane tickets bought and resold since 1975.

Officials said the case was the largest ever involving airline credit cards. The indictments capped a two-year investigation by the New York City police, detectives of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, and the U.S. Postal Service.

Authorities said some of the cards used by the ring had been lost by owners. They said many were stolen by prostitutes instructed to take just the cards from out-of-town corporate executives staying at posh midtown hotels.

The cards were the Universal Air Travel Plan Q cards. Officials said the prostitutes who stole the cards generally sold them to the ring for $125 each. Each card was used to purchase an average of $12,000 worth of tickets. Authorities said one was used for purchases totaling $74,000.

The tickets, for domestic and overseas flights, were resold to clients at a 70 percent to 75 percent discount, the indictment charged.

Mentioned in the indictment were some 36 nationally known corporations whose executives were robbed in the course of non-business activities.

The firms represented included: Hewlett-Packard, Occidental Petroleum, Armco Steel, Wilkinson Sword, Kayser Roth, Standard Oil of Indiana, Citibank, 21 Brands, Hart Schaffner & Marx and Gerber Products Co.

Authorities said their investigation was hampered by the reluctance of the executives to disclose details of their loss.

Fifteen of participants in the ring were arrested Wednesday, arraigned and released on $10,000 personal recognizance bonds. Two others were in prison on other charges, two were expected to surrender today and two were being sought, authorities said.

Authorities said the ring, which netted $1 million a year, was led by John Colagrande, 50, of Westbury, N.Y.

The 31-count indictment, handed up in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, included a variety of charges ranging from conspiracy to the sale of airline tickets purchased with stolen credit cards.

Conviction carries a maximum penalty of 10 years and a $10,000 fine.

Time To Start Merger Plan

Where does Pitt County stand on school merger?
The County Commissioners in January directed the city and county boards to name a merger committee, with a report due Oct. 1, 1979.
Now members of the city board claim they have appointed their members but the county school board has not done so.
Maybe the county board has an answer for this, but it is apparent that little has been done, with over half the time until the report is due, gone.
In the meantime, the Pitt County electorate has defeated a school bond issue, and, a long-time county observer tells us, for the first time in his memory.

The $9 million, which we believe is badly needed, won't be available to the two school systems, nor is much additional money likely to be coming from the regular county budget.
The loss of community support on the part of the schools is deplorable.
Isn't it about time both boards got to moving on some of their most pressing problems? Certainly resolving the school merger question would be a good place to start.

No Small Accomplishment For A City

The city of Greenville was honored by the N. C. State Motor Club last week for having no traffic fatalities for the year 1978.

Greenville was one of 21 municipalities in the state to achieve the record.

It is no small accomplishment for a city size of Greenville to make it through a full year without a traffic fatality, and this is a record that should be continued.

THIS AFTERNOON

Sunset Activity Helped

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — After a shaky start in the 1979 session of the General Assembly, the Governmental Evaluation Commission finally won more than it lost, and is now gearing up for further activity in next year's mini-session.
Commonly called the Sunset Commission, the agency is starting its existence by looking at dozens of licensing and regulatory boards and commissions to see if they serve a useful purpose and should be continued.
Among the first recommendations to the Legislature was an end to the licensing and regulatory functions of the Watchmakers Board, and when the House of Representatives fought that notion vigorously, it was widely concluded that the general mood of the Assembly was anti-Sunset.
But after the hoopla died down, the watchmaker's board was quietly axed in a committee of the State Senate, and with little notice from the public is was disbanded.
Next Year
And also without much public attention, the adjournment resolution adopted in the General Assembly which puts severe limits on business to be conducted in the 1980 continued session, designed to deal primarily with budgetary matters, contains an amendment which allows the Sunset Commission to bring in more reports and recommendations.

This time, even more political heat and in-fighting is anticipated because the principal subject will be medicine and health agencies, and among the hot topics to be considered will be the cost of eyeglasses and dentures in North Carolina resulting from activities of the licensing and regulatory bodies.
There will be a distinct difference in approach in 1980, however. Paul Jordan, executive director of the Sunset Commission, says the experiences this year have convinced those involved that two primary concerns must be kept uppermost in all the studies and recommendations: the health and safety of the public first; and the cost to the public.
In many regulatory agencies there is a legitimate protection of the public health and safety involved, and in such cases the Sunset Commission will not recommend disbanding the program, but instead, beefing up that function.

But were the activity serves no public health or safety function, and where it adds to the public cost of doing business or buying essential items, then the direction will continue to termination of the program.
Added staff will work to produce hard-hitting, fact-filled reports based on this philosophy.
Jordan says the Sunset Commission, at the end, achieved about 90 percent of what it set out to do in this session of the General Assembly. That record was achieved only after some bitter lobbying and political fighting by the special interest groups affected.
Support
Jordan credits that record to the strong support from

State Senator Marshall Rauch, D-Gaston, vice chairman of the Sunset Commission and chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. Rauch was able to win over to his side several key legislative leaders who ultimately became committed to the idea of sunset review of governmental programs.
"We now have a strong nucleus of support which we will need next year", Jordan says. He cautions, however, not to expect major and dramatic breakthroughs in a hurry. "This is the sort of thing which must be done in little steps ... ridding ourselves of unnecessary regulations is going to be a lengthy process."
Even those small steps are being made more difficult in North Carolina because of the organized lobbying capabilities of the affected trades and professions as compared with weak consumer organizations. Jordan noted that in California, Florida and elsewhere, consumerism and Sunset are working together to make gains, but that involvement is presently lacking in North Carolina.

Tokyo Energy Talks

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The economic summit conference President Carter will attend in Japan next week is being transformed by events into an "energy summit" where leaders of seven industrial nations will be under pressure to find solutions to the latest world oil crisis.
Although energy problems have been on the agenda of four previous economic summit conferences, they will dominate the discussions at the June 28-29 Tokyo summit, officials say.
Administration officials say Carter will try to devise a joint energy program with the other leaders that will give Americans some hope of relief from long gasoline lines, a threatened heating oil shortage and a potential energy-induced economic recession.
"They are desperate to come up with something," said one official, who did not want to be identified. "It would be awful for their image if they came away empty-handed and looked powerless against OPEC (the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries)."

Besides Carter, others at the summit will be the leaders of Japan, France, Germany, Great Britain, Italy and Canada, all of whom are as deeply concerned as Carter about the latest oil crisis.
Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal said for the first time Wednesday there is a danger of a worldwide recession if the upward spiral in oil prices continues. Prices are up 35 percent just since December.
Significantly, the Tokyo summit will open only 48 hours after OPEC meets in Geneva, Switzerland, to decide whether to increase oil prices again. U.S. officials believe OPEC will vote yet another increase, possibly to $20 a barrel, up from the current official OPEC price of $14.75 barrel.

'Lousy 2 Million Bucks'

WASHINGTON — Rudy Boschwitz saved the taxpayers five million bucks the other day, and might have saved them a little more, but after five months in the Senate the gentleman from Minnesota has learned a thing or two; and thereby hangs this tale.
The pending business in the Senate on this particular day was S. 670, the Rural Development Policy and Coordination Act of 1979. The bill is the particular baby of Senator Patrick J. Leahy of Vermont, who explained it in this fashion:
"In essence, what would result from this legislation is that the Secretary of Agriculture would control a process involving the executive branch, states, and local governments in the for-requirements call for five different and overlapping annual reports on rural income, housing, federal assistance and so forth. The Leahy bill would replace these with a single massive report every five years, supplemented by progress reports every two years.

For all practical purposes, the Leahy bill was unopposed. But Boschwitz had some objections and reservations, and if you want to know how the United States Senate works, you couldn't find a better small textbook than this brief debate provided.
First a word about Boschwitz: He is 47, tall and lean and limber, a little lantern-jawed, as rangy as Jimmy Stewart playing Mr. Smith Goes to Washington. He was elected last November to succeed Wendell Anderson; he styles himself an independent Republican, and he is a very attractive fellow.
In the matter at hand, Boschwitz had concluded that $20 million was too much for the grant program. He wanted to keep the authorization at its present level of $10 million, mainly because the number of grants actually awarded is declining. He also objected to the model demonstration information and assistance centers as a sheer waste of money on "another layer of bureaucracy."
Boschwitz therefore undertook to negotiate with Leahy. On the section 111 grants, Boschwitz wanted $10 million, Leahy wanted $20 million; they agreed of $15 million. Boschwitz offered an amendment to that effect. Said Leahy: "By the force of sheer eloquence and Seven members of the Greenville Merchants Association have returned from the state convention in Durham and reported a "most successful" meeting.

O.P. Matthews, president of the local association, was elected to the board of directors of the North Carolina organizations.
Persons from Greenville who attended the meeting, besides President Matthews, were Mrs. Cora Powell, executive secretary, Miss Imogene Ricks, assistant secretary, G.C. Honeycutt, Curtis Perkins, J.L. Askew and L.A. Stroud.
Among the highlights of the program, according to local delegates, were addresses by Charles G. Powell on the topic of reducing unemployment compensation taxes through the merit rating system, one by William J. Cheney on unethical trade diversion, and one by Dr. H.E. Spence on the seven secrets of success in salesmanship.

WASHINGTON TODAY

Symptom Of Disarray

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal has been designated as President Carter's chief economic spokesman — for the third time.
It is indicative of the disarray among Carter's economic policy-makers that the president must periodically say who is boss.
"It's a bit silly. It's basically a matter of leadership," said one high-level administration official who asked not to be identified. "If Blumenthal exerted the proper leadership, then Carter wouldn't have to keep showing him support."
It's not that simple. Blumenthal's authority repeatedly has been undercut by the White House staff, with whom he has never been popular.

The appointments first of Robert Strauss and later of Alfred Kahn to head Carter's anti-inflation program both were embarrassing to Blumenthal because they removed a major area of economic policy from his immediate supervision.
White House aides repeatedly have leaked criticism of Blumenthal.
Even the latest presidential pronouncement that "the secretary of the treasury... is the administration's chief economic spokesman..." was handled in a way that raised doubts about its sincerity, at least in the minds of Blumenthal aides.
For one thing, reliable sources reported, Blumenthal had requested that it be issued because he felt he needed "a reaffirmation" of his authority, and it was drafted by the Economic Policy Group, which he heads.

For another, the statement, although short and to the point, languished on the president's desk for at least a week — two weeks according to one source. It was finally distributed as a routine press release at the White House late on a Friday afternoon, a manner and time of issue certain to draw little attention.
From the beginning of the administration, Blumenthal's authority and prestige were diluted by responsibilities given to former Budget Director Bert Lance and Charles L. Schultze, the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.
Schultze voluntarily stepped down as co-chairman of the Economic Policy Group, the administration's top economic policy-making body, leaving Blumenthal solely in charge.
When Lance was forced from office later in 1977, it left Blumenthal in an ideal position to dominate the policy-making apparatus.

But he was frustrated in the attempt, in part by a White House staff unhappy with the apparent zest with which he pursued the Treasury Department investigation of Lance's private banking practices. That inquiry produced some of the information that led Lance to resign his budget post under a cloud.
Furthermore, Blumenthal faced criticism within the administration on grounds he was unenthusiastic in his support of Carter's tax reform legislation, which failed in Congress. Some Carter aides considered him a poor spokesman for the administration in its dealings with Congress and the business community.
As a result, new rivals emerged — some of them encouraged by the White House — amid occasional speculation that Blumenthal would resign. Besides Strauss and Kahn in inflation matters, there was Stuart Eizenstat, Carter's top domestic issues adviser, who began to assume a growing

To the editor:
Since there has been some controversy lately over the administrative relationship of the Rescue Squad and the Fire Department, we feel obligated to put in a good word for the Rescue Squad and to urge strong support for this organization. Recently, by prompt and efficient and highly professional services, this outfit was instrumental in saving the life of a member of our family. The young men who answered our call for help were obviously well-trained and skilled Emergency Medical Technicians. We are concerned that the administrative arrangements, especially the cross-training aspect approved by the City Council at a recent meeting, may result in less-skilled rescue men in the future. Naturally, we sincerely hope not. We know from the service already rendered our family how important a well-trained Rescue Squad is for our city. We want to express publicly our appreciation for this service.

Mutual Investment Paid Off

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — As a member of the Mutual Investment Club of Detroit, Tom O'Hara has invested $6,425, mostly in monthly $10 or $20 amounts, over a 39-year period. The investments now are valued at $71,658.
That's not the whole story. With funds he withdrew, O'Hara paid off the mortgage on a home, sent his two boys through an exclusive private school, and has just given one of them $10,000 to buy a house.
What remains, he says, is far underpriced. In the next few years he is confident the club's holdings will double, which would mean of course that his holdings would double too. Club members win or lose together.
The club's investments during this span totaled $121,668.91 at the end of April. At the same time, the 16 members counted assets of $628,000. An interviewer didn't insist on including the precise penny amounts.

Did members possess extraordinary investment skills? They were bright, obviously, and they had a deep interest in the market. Two of them are investment analysts, but the others pursue from various callings.
"You don't have to be sophisticated," said O'Hara. "You simply follow your principles and be consistent." By that he means you don't "play" the market, but invest on a regular schedule for a long time.
You also reinvest all dividends. And you don't worry about market fluctuations; values are benefit from the wisdom of George Nicholson.

Nicholson, along with O'Hara a founder of the Mutual Investment Club, is also recognized as founder of the national — and now international — investment club movement. He is also a professional investment adviser.
Other members of the Mutual Club, however, consider themselves to be amateur, part-time investors. As openings occur because of death or geographical transfers, they purchase shares in order to join.
O'Hara and Nicholson and others in the association maintain that a club that endures is one that succeeds. That is, bad times represent only a buying opportunity. Perseverance pays, they say.

LOCATING GOD
Some years ago a man in a midwest state died and provided that his possessions be given to God. The will came up for probate but was rejected. God, said the probate officer, could not be located in that particular county.
There are plenty of people in the world today who have not been able to find God. Go into almost any group and you will find people who live from day to day as if God did not exist. They may attend church once in a while, but they never bring God into the vital issues of their lives. And sometimes after due and intelligent search, people are confused and say that they have not been able to find God.

Yet the Bible affirms that He is very near to every one of us. We may not find Him in any particular county or state, or even in the church in which we were brought up. But if God continues to elude us, we can be sure of one thing: we are not looking in the right places.

role in shaping domestic economic policy.

Blumenthal, former chairman of the Bendix Corp., a major conglomerate, did say recently he would not serve a second term as treasury secretary if Carter is re-elected.

The new endorsement of Blumenthal probably won't change his position very much, for better or worse. When asked if Carter's latest statement meant Kahn is no longer the chief spokesman on inflation, a Blumenthal aide replied, "Kahn is still expected to speak on inflation matters."

But there is no real question that Blumenthal is the ranking economic authority in the administration after the president himself. The secretary of the treasury is supposed to be such an authority. The fact that Blumenthal and the White House need to reaffirm it periodically is what raises eyebrows.

the price of a barrel of imported oil costs Americans an additional $4 billion a year.

In a related development, a new report by the International Monetary Fund showed countries that export oil took in $36.7 billion more than they spent abroad in 1978, with $16.3 billion of the surplus coming from the United States and $11.4 billion from Japan.

Conserving oil must be "first and foremost" among the issues at the summit, Blumenthal told reporters. He said the summit nations "must cooperate together to eliminate the imbalance between demand and supply" that is encouraging OPEC to raise prices.

At Top Of U.S. Ballet

NEW YORK (AP) — Dancer Mikhail Baryshnikov has leaped to the top of the American Ballet Theater.

Baryshnikov joined the ABT after defecting from the Soviet Union in 1974 but left last year to dance with the New York City Ballet.

The board of governing trustees of Ballet Theater Foundation named Baryshnikov director and elected him to the board at its regular meeting Wednesday. He will assume the position Sept. 1, 1980.

Baryshnikov left the ABT last June to join George Balanchine's New York City Ballet. When he returns to ABT, he is expected to dance as well as direct the company.

Former ballerina Lucia Chase, director of ABT since 1945, announced in January that she and her co-director, set designer Oliver Smith, would relinquish the directorship on Sept. 1, 1980.

Baryshnikov issued a statement saying, "I have accepted the challenge of this position in the hope that I might bring something worthwhile to it. What that will be, exactly, I am not prepared to say at this point, since it is much too early. Also, I do not believe in making statements which later come to haunt one."

State Plans To Offer Counties Medicaid Loans

By LORI COOKE
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state plans to offer loans to 13 counties that say they can't afford to make additional Medicaid payments, but several county administrators say that won't solve the problem.

Reactions from officials in Alexander, Anson, Buncombe, Burke, Caswell and Stanly counties ranged from complete disinterest to reluctant acceptance of the possibility as a last resort.

Taron Jones, Anson County manager, said the county had not worked out a solution yet to the problem of additional Medicaid payments. He was unenthusiastic about a possible state loan.

"We have met our responsibilities," he said. "The legislators are the ones that changed the rules in the middle of the ball game. I don't think (finding the extra funds) should be our responsibility."

The problem resulted from a law the legislature enacted last year which changed the formula for paying Medicaid bills.

In an effort to induce people to stay in less expensive rest homes rather than nursing homes, the General Assembly reduced the amount the state pays for nursing home care and raised its allowance for rest home care.

The action had the effect of forcing the counties to pay more nursing home costs for Medicaid patients.

Secretary of Human Resources Sarah Morrow sent letters to the counties recently offering to loan them the money to meet their obligations.

"I don't really think we'd be interested in a loan," said Caswell County Manager Steve Stewart. "That would not really solve the problem. The problem is that the money is not there. If we get a loan it will have to be repaid and the money will have to come from somewhere."

Stewart said in his talks with the county commissioners they indicated they are looking for a solution to the problem other than a loan.

Margaret Coleman of the Buncombe County Social Services Department said the county is not interested in a loan. She said Buncombe County had spent $123,095 more on Medicaid by May than it budgeted for this fiscal year.

"We really don't like to borrow," said James Blakely, director of Social Services for Burke County. "By state law, we have to live within our budget once it's established."

Blakely said the problem is "the state doesn't put any money in the Medicaid program." He said it's great for state legislators "to come up with these fancy formulas to save the state money — but not at the expense of the counties."

Burke, along with Stanly, Sampson and Watagua counties, has another problem with state funding. Because the four counties did not submit budgets that the state found acceptable, the Department of Human Resources is threatening to cut off their state and federal funding.

Burke County has been given another month to submit its budget. Stanly County has filed a lawsuit to block the fund cut-off.

Blakely said if funds are cut off, "the state may end up taking over the program."

Stanly County Manager Robert Helms said the state law requiring counties to have a balanced budget makes the county reluctant to borrow.

"We'd have to go back and tax the people twice next year," to pay off the loan taken out this year, Helms said.

"They haven't done us any favors," Helms said of the loan proposal. "They need to solve the problem — whatever caused this situation in the first place."

A spokeswoman for Alexander County Administrator Jim Varner said the state loan "might be the only solution" for the county to pay off the additional Medicaid costs. She said the county has already had to increase taxes because county property had been undervalued.

The Department of Human Resources hopes to have the loan proposal finalized by late this week or early next week. Liz Martin, a department spokeswoman, said the counties are obligated by law to meet the additional Medicaid expenses.

"We have no power to relieve them of their obligation," she said. "We can't be in the position of breaking the law."

perseverance Senator Boschwitz has worn me down. He has appealed to my own lopsided sense of fiscal responsibility, and because of that, I would join him in this amendment."

So the five million bucks was saved. On the matter of the information centers, Boschwitz did not fare so well. This is how he explains the situation:

"The centers would cost at least $2 million a year for starters. They would provide jobs for a number of bureaucrats and paper shufflers who, naturally, would state to 50 states, and one more make-work bureaucratic empire would have been created.

"If I had forced a roll-call vote on the issue, I think a majority of the Senate might have agreed to knock out the centers. But there were only three or four of us on the floor. A roll-call would have dragged 95 others away from what ever they were doing. They'd come to the Senate and ask what the roll-call was all about. And they'd be told that Boschwitz had insisted on a roll-call over a little old, lousy $2 million. Well, I'm still learning the ropes. I registered my objection in the Record, and that was that."

The 20 minutes ended with a little speech by Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd: "I want to commend a new member, Rudy Boschwitz, for his skillful and effective leadership in helping to manage the bill, and for his fine cooperation on this measure today." That's the Senate for you. It's a great institution.

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — Skylab will be clearly visible over the Carolinas for the next several nights if skies are clear, a scientist at Appalachian State University said today.

Tom Rokoske, an associate professor of physics and astronomy instructor at ASU, said Sunday evening will be the best time for viewing Skylab in North Carolina and South Carolina but that it can be seen easily through next Tuesday.

"It's spectacular," he said. "It's moving nearly 18,000 mph, so you can see quite a movement across the sky. It's not like some of the earlier satellites that moved very slowly."

He said Skylab, which has the brilliance of the brightest star visible in the skies, could be seen tonight at 9:34 p.m., Friday at 9:28 p.m., Saturday at 9:23 p.m., Sunday at 9:17 p.m., Monday at 9:12 p.m. and Tuesday at 9:07 p.m.

"The best time for viewing will be Sunday night. It will pass nearly overhead at about 166 miles up, which is kind of low. It will be visible in the Carolinas for about four minutes and 42 seconds," he said. "The next best time is Saturday at 9:23 p.m."

Tokoske said Skylab, orbiting the earth about every 90 minutes, moves generally from the northwest toward the southeast.

BARC Joining In Field Day Project

Field day activities for the Brightleaf Amateur Radio Club will take place June 23-24, marking the close of Amateur Radio Week.

Codes Reviewed By Commission

The possibility of creating a separate zoning classification for owner-occupied multi-family and duplex housing was looked at last night by the Codes Review Committee of the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission.

Also looked at were the first two articles of a proposed subdivision regulation, now being drawn up by the Planning Department, according to Bobby Roberson, Director of Planning for the City of Greenville.

12th year for the Greenville club to enter into the activities, and stations all over the United States and Canada will be contacted during the 24 hours of continuous operation.

Again, the club call W4AMC will be used during the operations; and in addition to the multi-transmitter set-up, a beginners' (novice) operation is planned and another call sign used. Only novice and technician class operators will participate in this activity.

Club members say beam type antennas to be used on the frequency bands, will be of a temporary nature, for the occasion.

Operation is planned from the building behind the old Pitt Hospital on Route 43 where the BARC club room is located. Emergency power will be used and both code and voice operation will be utilized in the exercise.

Club spokesmen note one of the projects is to train some of the newer members for emergency operations, as well as a test for equipment being used.

Priority To Hospices

The Statewide Health Coordinating Council has designated care of the terminally ill as a priority program for the coming year.

The N. C. State Health Plan has included the following directive as a priority action: "By 1980 to develop in each Health Service Area in North Carolina at least one program specifically designed to administer to the special needs of terminally (cancer and other) patients and their families."

The Council has chosen to implement this directive by working specifically with Hospice of North Carolina, Inc. It has stated that it will "work with Hospice to disseminate to the citizens of the state information about the Hospice concept and about the work of the Hospice organization, to develop alternatives to hospitalization for the terminally ill and to disseminate to cancer patients and their families information about available options in the area of terminal care."

The central office of Hospice of North Carolina Inc. is located in Winston-Salem. Inquiries should be addressed to Carl L. Whitney, Exec. Director, P. O. Box 11452, Winston-Salem, N. C. 27106.

Keeping Hands Off

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The Jacksonville City Council has adopted a hands-off attitude in a dispute involving a charge of alleged misconduct by a city policeman, and a possible coverage of an investigation into the incident.

The State Bureau of Investigation has entered the case to check charges of improper actions during the investigation.

The council was advised by city attorney Marshall Dotson not to take action on the case until the current investigation was completed. No official action was taken by the council at its Tuesday meeting.

Police Capt. Ed Brown was placed on administrative suspension as a result of the probe. It was he who asked the council to look into the allegations that a veteran on the force Sam Hudson, had been involved in sexual misconduct. This week, Brown accused Police Chief Roger Halbert of attempting to hinder Brown's investigation.

Thefts, Defiance, Fights In Gasoline 'Rationing'

By PETER MACKLER
Associated Press Writer
Defiance, fuel thefts and mixed success greeted the first full-scale "odd-even" gasoline rationing in the East, where fights erupted at pumps, a gun was pulled and a service station owner was run over. New Jersey, Maryland, northern Virginia and the District of Columbia began selling fuel by the numbers today. Florida's Dade County — the Miami area — was starting voluntary rationing. Polk County, in the center of the state, was trying it at midnight.

The screams of angry motorists were heard, and federal officials refused to relax fuel economy standards for passenger cars of the 1980s and planned new efforts to develop synthetic fuel to replace imported oil.

President Carter was reviewing ways to help service station owners, who say they need to boost profits — and thus prices — by as much as 4 cents a gallon. The administration also agreed to review its planned cutbacks on the Amtrak passenger rail system.

Blocks-long lines were reported Wednesday at some gas stations in Connecticut and the New York City area — where gas was up to $1.39 a gallon — despite their first day of rationing. "It's still a miserable situation," said Frank Hardy, manager of a Mobil station in midtown Manhattan. "After a day or two, if everyone follows the rules, it'll be OK."

But some people reported their waiting time at pumps cut by as much as 75 percent and officials said it would be a week before the distribution plan fully took hold.

Scuffles were reported at some pumps and one motorist in Port Washington, N.Y., was arrested for running over a station owner who had closed up for the day, breaking the man's arm.

In Norwich, Conn., a man pulled a gun when told he couldn't buy gas because his license plate ended in an odd number and it was an even-numbered day. The man left without firing any shots.

Some gas station operators, who face $1,000 fines in both states plus up to a year in jail in Connecticut for non-compliance, balked at going along with the rationing rules.

At Jim's Auto Center in Newington, Conn., owner James Canonic openly flouted the regulations and dared officials to come after him. "If I have to go to court I will. It's against my constitutional rights," Canonic said. "I think it's ridiculous. If I have to sell the business to pay the fines and I have to go to jail, I'll do it."

Officials in both states said they were being flooded with requests for exemptions granted to emergency and other selected vehicles.

Many Connecticut drivers were seeking their gas in neighboring Rhode Island, which like Delaware has passed up rationing for now in favor of minimum purchase requirements to stop people from "topping off" nearly full tanks.

In Washington, Transportation Secretary cited the fuel crisis and long gas lines in denying requests by General Motors and Ford Motor Co. for relaxation of fuel economy standards on passenger cars for the model years 1981-1984.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill announced he has scheduled a vote for next Tuesday on a bill providing $2 billion in subsidies for synthetic fuels.

How's The Weather?

WEATHER FORECAST — Showers are expected in the forecast period until Friday morning from the northern Rockies to the Central Plains. A band of rain is forecast from Texas and Arkansas to New England. Cool weather is expected for the northern Plains, warm weather for the Southeast and seasonable temperatures elsewhere. (AP Laserphoto Map)

Puts Away Gun In Favor Of Tear Gas

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A discount store manager has decided to put away his gun as a means of fending off would-be robbers. But Norman Arazie says he has found a new weapon in the war on crime.

With the legalization of pocket-sized tear gas devices by the General Assembly this year, Arazie has switched to the small cans as a means of self-defense. In his own store, he has sold three dozen in two weeks.

Before the law went into the books, only licensed security guards and law-enforcement officials were able to carry tear gas. But tear gas has already been legalized for use by civilians in 45 states.

A Charlotte police attorney said the new law shows that people still desire to protect themselves, but they would rather not carry guns to do so.

"There are a large number of people around the state, and I am one of them, who do not want to carry around a gun...for self-defense," said attorney Bob Thomas. He added that the law does not allow indiscriminate use of the gas.

Maj. Robert Edison, commander of Charlotte police operations, said he thinks there are better ways with which to protect oneself.

"A hatpin, an object to poke at the eyes, or self-defense tactics are probably more effective."

Some storeowners says they are not as willing to use the tear gas as others.

Jerry Austin, owner of a local coin and stamp shop, said he carries the tear gas in his store, but said it could be a problem if children were to use it.

The recently passed law specified no age limit for possessing tear gas devices.

SPECIAL SPEAKER

The Rev. Tyrone Turnage will preach at Sweet Hope F. W. B. Church Sunday, June 24, 6:30 p.m., accompanied by Hadock's Chapel choir. The Rev. W. J. Best, pastor, invites the public to attend.

PERFORM SUNDAY

FARMVILLE — The Mighty Rock Island Singers will be performing at St. John F.W.B. Church here Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

It was incorrectly stated in last Friday's paper that the performance would be at 3 p.m.

Summer arrives in North Carolina this evening — 6:56 p.m. — and for starters the forecast called for scattered thundershowers in the west and partly cloudy in the east.

The high pressure center which has been giving North Carolina its mild fall-like temperatures the past few days was moving eastward today, cutting off the cool northeast wind and pulling cloudiness behind it.

A cold front in the midwest was moving toward the state and it was responsible for setting off the showers and thundershowers.

Temperatures ranged in the 70s to the low 80s Wednesday, and they were expected to be about the same, or slightly warmer, today.

Low readings this morning ranged in the 50s and 60s. The temperature dropped to 56 degrees at the Raleigh-Durham Airport and tied the record low for this date set in 1954.

MUSICAL PROGRAM SUNDAY

BETHEL — There will be a musical program held at Mayo Chapel Baptist Church Sunday, June 24, 7:30 p.m. Featured groups will include the Lewis Chapel Male Chorus of Farmville, the Community Male Chorus of Bethel, and the Waterside Male Chorus of Little Creek F. W. B. Church. The Rev. Walter Cherry Jr., pastor, invites the public to attend. The event will be sponsored by the Usher Board.

Only The 'Elite' Earn A Place On 'Most Wanted'

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Making the FBI's list of most wanted criminals these days is a little like winning admission to a top-notch graduate school.

There are few openings and only those with outstanding qualifications get accepted.

There is even a complicated quota system. For example, the FBI frowns on having more than one representative of a Puerto Rican terrorist group on the list of its 10 most wanted fugitives. There's also one airline hijacker, one drug smuggler, one police killer, and one woman.

"We're after the best fugitives," said Raymond A. Connolly, who has headed the FBI's fugitive unit for four years. "We select the ones who are most violent prone and who have demonstrated high mobility."

The idea is to use publicity where it can be most effective, by increasing the visibility of a particularly dangerous suspect to make capture more likely.

However, highly publicized cases are left off the list to leave room for those who have gone unnoticed. For that reason, Patty Hearst was never on the list.

The list plays another role, Connolly said, in raising the morale of agents by giving them a trophy to shoot for. "Most agents never capture one of the top 10," he said. "But when you do, you can go home and tell your wife the job was worth it."

The list was created in 1950, and FBI officials say it has undergone significant change since the death in 1972 of the bureau's first director, J. Edgar Hoover.

Critics have said over the years that to enhance the bureau's reputation, some names were placed on the list just as the FBI was closing in. (The record short stay on the list is two hours.)

In the early 1970s, some said the list overemphasized left-wing radicals and other charged it always made too much of second-rate holdup men and others whose threat to society was exaggerated.

The new emphasis on quality was adopted by Clarence M. Kelly and carried on by the current director, William H. Webster. The two have attempted to shift the focus away from routine bank robberies and toward white-collar crime, organized crime and terrorism.

Now is also the time, Webster says, to deflate FBI rhetoric and stress quiet professionalism and political detachment. To a degree, the most wanted list reflects that goal.

At one time under Hoover, the list swelled to 10 names with the addition of extra left-wing radicals.

But now Katherine Ann Pugh

BAD COMPANY — Pictured are the FBI's ten most wanted criminals. The group is very exclusive; there are many contenders and few openings. Those who make the list are fugitives the FBI considers the most violence-prone and who have demonstrated high mobility. (AP Laserphoto) of the list's only woman also is the only one whose reputation is inseparable from a radical idea developed in the early 1960s. The FBI says she was in a small, radical-type organization that attacked violent attacks against established society and contribution of its robbery proceeds to such organizations as the Black Panther Party.

Now 30 and on the list since 1970, she allegedly took part in a Boston bank robbery that resulted in the death of a policeman.

Two others on the list have ties to terrorist groups, according to the FBI.

Raymond Luc Levasseur, 32, added in 1977, is said to belong to the so-called Sam Melville-Jonathan Jackson Unit of the People's Forces. The FBI regards him as an expert on making bombs. He too is accused of taking part in armed bank robberies.

Carlos Alberto Torres, 26, was added to the list in 1977. The FBI says he headed a bomb-making operation in Chicago for the FALN, a terrorist group advocating Puerto Rican independence.

The most recent addition to the list indicates the FBI's new focus.

Leo J. Koury, 44, added in April, is described as a Richmond, Va. businessman tied to organized crime. He has been indicted for murder, racketeering and extortion. Investigators say he killed one of his competitors and tried to kill another to keep a virtual monopoly in bars and restaurants catering to homosexuals in Richmond.

His place on the list had belonged to Anthony D. Liberatore, an alleged Cleveland mobster. Liberatore, indicted in an alleged plot to kill an underworld rival, was the only one on the list captured this year. Six from the list were captured in 1978.

Liberatore was at large for nearly a year, a typical time to be on the top 10. There have been 366 fugitives on the list in its nearly 30-year history, including six women. Some 340 were captured.

Here are the others now on the top 10:

—Charles Lee Herron, 42, sought since 1968 and believed to have had some connection with the black power movement years ago. Herron, the list's only black, is wanted in the killing of two Nashville, Tenn., policemen.

—Willie Foster Sellers, 45, a prison escapee and convicted bank robber. He allegedly took part in 10 armed robberies of banks in the Southeast that netted more than $500,000.

—Ronald Lee Lyons, 31, added in late 1978, wanted for air piracy and kidnapping. In 1977 he escaped from a Tennessee prison where he was serving time for robbery.

—John M. McDonald, 61, who the FBI says belonged to a Boston gang involved in loansharking and gambling. He is wanted in connection with transporting a valuable stolen stamp collection across state lines.

—Charles Everett Hughes, 34, an alleged drug smuggler on the list since 1978. He is accused of killing two men and two teen-age sisters who accidentally discovered a million-dollar shipment of marijuana being unloaded along the Florida Coast.

—Billy Dean Anderson, 44, added to the list in 1975, allegedly a career criminal who escaped from a Tennessee jail in 1974. He was being held in connection with the shooting of a deputy sheriff.

Nevada Leader In Marriages

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — No longer the nation's divorce capital, Nevada still is easily the most-marrying state, a new report says.

The state has produced a report showing that Nevada's liberal laws and 24-hour wedding industry resulted in 115,617 marriage licenses being issued in 1978 and 11,213 divorces and annulments, about a 10-to-1 ratio, compared to the national average of about one divorce for every two marriages. The figures also show that in Nevada there are about 170 marriages per 1,000 people, compared to a national average of about 10 marriages for every 1,000 people.

Nevada is the only state with no blood test requirement, mandatory waiting period or out-of-the-ordinary age requirement.

Work Time Slightly Up

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Workers in various North Carolina industries found themselves working slightly longer hours per week for May than in April. But in statistics released by the Employment Security Commission Wednesday, those industrial workers were making a few pennies more for their efforts.

The commission also reported that unemployment in the state rose fractionally during May, from 4.4 percent to 4.5 percent. The former figure matches totals for April 1978.

Textile workers averaged 39.6 hours-per-week in May, as opposed to 38.3 hours in April. They made $4.41 an average hourly wage, an increase of four cents over April, and 34 cents over the same period a year ago.

The furniture industry gave workers an increase of four-tenths of an hour in May over April (38-37.6). The hourly wage averaged $4.46 cents, a rise of three cents over the month, and 37 cents in the past year.

Tobacco workers had the biggest jump in work time, averaging nine-tenths of an hour more than in April. Their wages actually dropped by one nickel, down to $7.14. That figure, however, was 45 cents better than April 1978.

May Vote On Coastal Drilling

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The public will have a chance to voice its concerns over drilling for oil and gas off the North Carolina coast when the state holds hearings in August on potential drilling sites.

Seven major oil and exploration companies have nominated 350 sites off the state's coast as potential areas for drilling, Gov. Jim Hunt announced Tuesday.

Angie Skelton, coordinator of the Outer Continental Shelf Task Force of the Marine Affairs Office, said the hearings will give residents of the areas involved a chance to comment on the plan.

The office has tentative plans for three hearings and the Bureau of Land Management will have experts there to answer any questions on the drilling.

The companies making the nominations include Tenneco, Chevron, Mobil, Shell, Exxon, Getty and Transco. The 350 tracts are locations where they believe oil or gas production may be possible.

Attending Nat'l JC Convention

Steve Evans, State Director of the Winterville Jaycees, is attending the National Convention in Nashville, Tenn. from June 17-22. Evans will be a delegate for the North Carolina Jaycees.

The North Carolina Jaycees finished the 1978-79 Jaycee year as the number one Jaycee state in the United States and the World.

Harold Herring, the 1978-79 State President, will be a candidate for National Vice-President of the U.S. Jaycees.

Evans is President of Ritter Evans, Inc. REALTORS Real Estate firm serving the Greenville-Pitt County area.

Final tract selection is scheduled for April, 1981, with the sale to take place the following month. Before that, interested federal agencies are to submit their joint recommendations for tract selection to the U.S. Secretary of the Interior. After an environmental impact statement has been prepared for all tracts, the secretary will select the ones to be sold.

Ms. Skelton said the sites of the proposed tract selections will be given to state officials at a briefing Friday.

Ms. Skelton said more refineries are a possibility in the state if oil or gas reserves are discovered off the coast.

"Any comment right now on the construction of refineries would be purely speculative," Ms. Skelton said. "But it's true that refineries are located close to a source or close to the market."

"What the public needs to understand is that it would be at least 1982 before any drilling could possibly take place," she said.

"After a lease sale takes place, there is an extensive process for permits to begin exploratory drilling. And several permits are required for the operation, plus the environmental report. It would probably be 1983 before any type of drilling could get started."

Pitt CAFTA Had Meeting Monday

The Pitt County Chapter of CATFA (Citizens Against Tax Funded Abortions) held a public meeting Monday at the Arlington Street Baptist Church.

The Rev. Van Dale Hudson, pastor of Trinity F. W. B. Church, opened the meeting with prayer and introductory remarks. A slide show, "Love and Let Live," introduced by Presbyterian minister Bill Shumaker, demonstrated the stages of growth of unborn children. Procedures used in abortion, and the need for a Human Life Amendment to restore legal protection for all human beings in society.

The director of the organization, Mrs. Eleanor Shumaker, then spoke on the dangers of abortion to women, corruptions of the medical profession resulting from abortion and experiments on live aborted babies.

In the discussion which followed, concern was expressed by all present, including a World War Two veteran who participated in the liberation of Nazi concentration camps, who said, "I have come to wonder if the fighting I did was worth it when I see this mass murder in our own country." A strategy session focused on the 1980 elections and abortions performed at Pitt Memorial Hospital. The meeting was closed with prayer by the Rev. Cedric Pierce, pastor of the Black Jack F. W. B. Church. Time and location of the next meeting will be announced soon.

Bets Plant On Smoking

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A major cigarette producer is betting a new manufacturing plant in North Carolina on smoking habits to survive longer than federal campaigns against smoking. And he says plans are in the works for even more plants in the future.

Shepard Pollack, president of Philip Morris USA, told the Charlotte Rotary Club Tuesday that his firm is going ahead with plans to build a large plant near Concord, even though critics have constantly denounced smoking as dangerous to one's health.

Pollack struck out at activists "who combine a resentment of smoking with a desire to penalize those who do smoke. He called the critics "zealots of the kind that once brought us prohibition in the '20s and seat-belt interlocks in the '70s."

"Smoking has been under attack for four centuries and the tobacco business has prospered in every one of those 400 years," Pollack said.

The newest facility, to be located in Cabarrus County, is slated to begin production in 1982, with an estimated labor force of 2,000 employees. Pollack also said Philip Morris plans to spend over $3 billion dollars in expansion through 1984, with most of that being directed toward expanding cigarette operations and the Miller brewing operations.

Pollack said the new plant would be the most modern cigarette facility in the world, producing cigarettes for worldwide sale.

Awards Presented Town Employees

FARMVILLE — Awards were given town employees during the annual Town Employees' picnic held here last Thursday.

Electrical supervisor, John Matthews, received an award for "substantial contribution to the improved safety of work environment and procedures." He shared in a work team productivity award.

Police dispatcher, David Holloman, was honored with a Public Relations Award.

Service pins for consecutive years of municipal service were given. Among these were one for 34 years to Ernest Lee Jones, meter reader, and J. A. Wooten Jr., utilities director.

Recipients of cash awards for superior performance were as follows: Work Team Productivity Award — Wilbur Barber, Genevieve Childers and Kenneth Godwin of the Police Department "for special efforts in solving a series of break-ins and vandalism incidents; and to Billy Baker, Bill Sugg, Gentry Moore, Wilson Gay, Eddie Lee Bynum, Johnny G. Moye, Johnny Matthews, Donnie Croom, Billy Carlton, Edward King, William Joyner, and Willie Moye of the Utilities Department "for their efforts in saving contractual costs during the downtown revitalization project."

Cost-savings Awards went to J. A. "Bud" Wooten Jr. for "efforts in energy conservation (load management) and the downtown revitalization project which resulted in significant savings," and to W. R. "Bill" Oakley, Public Director, "for successful transition to smaller sanitation collection crew sizes and successful conversion to a solid waste transfer station."

Other employees receiving public service pins for substantial periods of consecutive service were as follows: for 15 or more years — Sylvia Fisher, Everette Parker, John Matthews, Elbert Cates, Margie Tripp and Bill Oakley; for 10 or more years — Bill Sugg, Billy Carlton, and Preston Sims; for five or more years — Wilbur Barber, Joe Phillips, Jenny Childers, Patricia Thigpen, Johnny Carmon, Margie Joyner, H. P. Norman, Fred Harper.

Airline Traffic Keeps Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Domestic and international scheduled airline traffic increased by 15.7 percent in April 1979 compared with the same month a year earlier, the Air Transport Association reports.

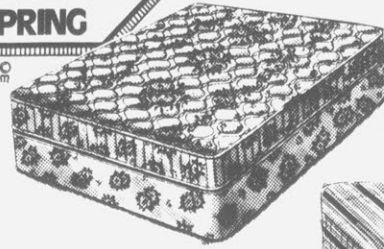

It says that for the first four months of 1979, scheduled airline traffic increased 17.8 percent from the same 1978 period.

Merit Smashes Taste Barrier.

—National Smoker Study

Majority of smokers confirm 'Enriched Flavor' cigarette matches taste of leading high tar brands.

Read what smokers had to say about MERIT in a recent nationwide survey.

Confirmed: Majority of smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

And in research conducted among current MERIT smokers:

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

First Major Alternative To High Tar Smoking

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy! This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is the first real alternative for high tar smokers.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market staged a moderate advance today, making a bid to end the stalemate of the past several sessions.

Gainers took a 5-3 lead over losers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.38 at 843.21 by noon.

Wall Streeters were awaiting the Federal Reserve's weekly money-supply report, due after today's close.

Last week the Fed reported a record increase in the money supply, dealing a setback to many investors' hopes for an early decline in interest rates.

Another important item on the market agenda was next week's meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabia's oil minister, said today his country would stick with a policy of "moderation" as OPEC members consider pricing and production policies.

Anticipation of a further rise in world oil prices kept many of the North American energy stocks strong. Volume leaders on the American Stock Exchange included Dome Petroleum, up 1 1/4 at 43 1/2, and Imperial Oil class A stock, up 3/4 at 30 3/4.

That helped push the American Stock Exchange market value index, which closed Wednesday at a record high, up another 1.61 to 199.18.

The NYSE's composite index rose .23 to 57.88.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 15.90 million shares at noontime, against 15.38 million at the same point Wednesday.

State Using More Gas In Its Vehicles

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Despite a cutback in consumption of gasoline, state agencies used 11 percent more gasoline than were allocated last month by the supplying oil companies, a spokesman says.

Thomas E. Todd, state purchasing officer responsible for buying the state's fuel, said Wednesday that state agencies used 400,000 more gallons during May than the 3.65 million gallons that had been allocated for state government by Exxon and Gulf. Todd said the extra gasoline was provided upon request by the two companies.

Todd added that despite the additional gas used, the state agencies cut back their fuel consumption by 9 percent over April.

Three-fourths of the excess fuel went to school systems, Todd said. He said late school closings this year caused most of the increase. Todd warned that schools could face shortages of No. 2 fuel oil in the fall.

Citing the rising costs of fuel prices, Todd said the state was currently seeking bids for the purchase of six million gallons of fuel oil. He said the state would like to have 60 million gallons of No. 2 fuel available during the school year.

"This is probably going to create some real scrambling for us," Todd said. "There will perhaps be some hardship cases."

He said the state should be able to buy the fuel it needs for the schools before they reopen in the fall.

The Department of Transportation, in a related matter, said it was restricting use of its fuel depots to department vehicles and other "principal" users. The move came after DOT officials discovered a 40,000-gallon increase in the amount of fuel used this May over May 1978.

The Department of Administration has ordered state cars not to purchase more than 10 gallons or one-half tank, whichever is less.

District Young GOP To Meet

WASHINGTON, N.C. — The Young Republicans will hold a District Meeting for the First Congressional District on Monday in Belhaven, District Director Steve Rader has announced.

The meeting will concentrate on planning for future activities including organizing new YR clubs in counties where no such club now exists. Young Republican state Chairman Linda Anderson is expected to attend.

The meeting is scheduled for 7:00 p.m. at the River Forest Manor in Belhaven. All interested persons are invited.

The Young Republicans are open to anyone between the ages of 18 and 40.

City Counted 3 Collisions

An estimated $4,875 property damage resulted from a series of three collisions investigated by Greenville Police yesterday.

Heaviest damage, officers said, resulted from a 4:17 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Charles and 10th Streets involving cars driven by Sharon Glynn Vandiford of 2804 Crockett Dr. and Linwood Chance of 125 Trent Cir.

Police, who charged Ms. Vandiford with failing to stop for a stop light and exceeding a safe speed, set damage at $1,675 to the car driven by Ms. Vandiford and $2,300 to the city-owned auto operated by Chance.

Vehicles driven by Preston Lee Knox of 206 Circle Dr., and James Mitchell Meeks of 1603 Longwood Dr. collided about 9:15 a.m. at the intersection of Fifth Street and Cemetery Road, causing an estimated $300 damage to the Knox car and $200 damage to the Meeks vehicle.

Cars driven by Ada Joyner Savage of 2511 Dickinson Ave. and Ronald John Farias of Route 1, Vanceboro collided about 4:45 p.m. on Fourth Street, 65 feet

One More Role For Dan Moore

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A former governor of the state will take on the task of handling the future transportation needs of North Carolina, Gov. Jim Hunt announced Wednesday.

Former Gov. Dan K. Moore, who also served as a state supreme court justice, will chair a 32-member commission which will also evaluate needs of financing highway improvements for the future, and will turn those evaluations over to the 1981 General Assembly.

Hunt noted Moore's experience in public affairs and knowledge of the state's transportation needs as the reason for the appointment.

Secession Referendum In Quebec Next Spring

QUEBEC (AP) — Quebec Premier Rene Levesque said today the long-awaited referendum on secession for his largely French-speaking Canadian province will take place next spring.

Levesque's separatist Parti Quebecois government plans to ask voters in the referendum for a mandate to negotiate sovereignty for Quebec, but with continued close economic ties with Canada. The PQ calls this arrangement "sovereignty-association."

In announcing the schedule to the National Assembly, Quebec's provincial legislature, Levesque said an assembly debate on the exact phrasing of the referendum question should take place early next year. He gave no specific date for the referendum.

The PQ government had narrowed the choice down to a vote either this fall or next spring. Since there was division within the PQ on whether to call a fall or spring vote, "tactical considerations" were set aside in order to consider only the public interest, Levesque said. He said the coming fall would be a period of reflection and a time to proceed with important legislation and to try to settle contract negotiations with public servants.

A document clarifying the government's option of sovereignty-association is to be published in the fall. A public opinion poll earlier this year indicated that 50 percent of Quebecers would vote in favor of giving the Levesque government authority to negotiate sovereignty-association.

Even if the PQ wins the vote, however, it must still persuade the other nine Canadian provinces to enter talks that could lead to the break-up of the 112-year-old Canadian confederation. Thus far, no major political leaders outside Quebec have endorsed such talks.

Peddles Gas Pump Signs Condemn 'Year of the Child'

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Keith Smith is a young businessman with a knack for keeping tabs on the changing American scene. So he's doing a thriving business these days peddling big sacks to cover up gasoline pumps. The white sacks shout in large, stenciled letters to the gas-hunting driver, "PUMPS CLOSED."

Smith has sold $3,000 worth of the $18 bags. Smith says a millionaire friend once told him always to keep an eye out for what people need. And Smith noticed gas station operators were struggling to post suitable signs announcing they were out of fuel.

"I started out with the idea of making a plastic cover to sell for three or four dollars," Smith said. "But the station operators told me those bags would rip. They wanted something that would last."

Smith says one thing he has discovered is that many motorists just don't believe in signs — and covers — unless the pump handles are hidden from sight too. His lightweight, durable nylon canvas covers the whole works.

BOMBING

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A bomb exploded near the Tel Aviv Country Club north of the city, but there were no casualties or serious damage, police said.

Perry Captures 274th Career Win

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer
Philadelphia's Tim McCarver may know Steve Carlton better than anyone else. McCarver catches Carlton when the 34-year-old left-hander pitches for the Phillies, and acts as his spokesman when the hurler shuns interviews — which is often.

ton's four-hitter had helped Philadelphia beat the Atlanta Braves 10-4, McCarver offered this statistic: "That's about the sixth time Steve has stopped a mini-losing streak for us." Carlton's eighth victory in 15 decisions this season was, in fact, the sixth one following one or more Philadelphia losses. The Phillies, who begin a weekend series with the National League's West Division-leading Expos on Friday, at least can take with them the solid performance against the Braves. In the other NL games Wednesday, the Expos beat the Cincinnati Reds 5-4 in 11 innings, the Houston Astros trimmed the New York Mets 5-4, the Pittsburgh Pirates bested the San Francisco Giants 8-5, and the San Diego Padres defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 3-1. Pete Rose's two-run homer, Carlton's two-run single and a two-run double by Greg Luzinski were enough to beat Atlanta. The Braves got an unearned run in the second when Barry Bonnell walked, took third on an errant pickoff throw by Carlton, and scored on a wild pitch. They added two in the sixth and another in the eighth on a home run by Bob Horner.

Expos 5, Reds 4
Jim Mason, a ranking officer of Montreal's "BUS" squad, slapped an 11th-inning double to drive in Tommy Hutton — another BUS member — with the run that gave Montreal its victory over Cincinnati. BUS stands for Broke, Under-rated Superstars, and Hutton is the squad's captain. He hit a one-out double, then watched from second base as Jerry White, another club member was walked intentionally.

Pirates 8, Giants 5
Manny Sanguillen's eighth-inning sacrifice fly drove in Renie Stennett, who had tripled, snapping a tie and carrying Pittsburgh to its fifth consecutive victory. Padres 3, Cardinals 1
Gaylord Perry gave up 11 hits but just one run in recording his 274th career victory and taking over 17th place on the all-time win list. San Diego scored three fourth-inning runs, two with the help of St. Louis miscues, to insure the triumph.

Pitt County Rallies To Take 7-3 Win, Moves Into 1st Place

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Pitt County's American Legion baseball team rallied for three runs in the seventh inning and gained a 7-3 victory over Wayne County last night.

The victory enabled Pitt to move into sole possession of first place in the conference with a 6-1 record. Wayne County tumbled to 3-5 with the loss. Williamston and Rocky Mount are tied for second place with 6-2 records. Wayne County scored first, getting a run in the top of the first inning. Joe Strouse led off with a single to left field and he stole second. He scored when Mike Burrell reached on an error.

Pitt County then came back with two in the bottom of the first. With one down, Will Barrett singled off the pitcher's glove and Ben Wilson walked. Skip Topping singled to left, scoring Barrett, and when the ball got past the fielder, Wilson came home, too. Wayne County tied it up with one in the third. With one down, Byron Sasser singled and was sacrificed to second. He scored on Ron Page's hit to center. Wayne County then took the lead, 3-2, with a run in the sixth. Craig Browne singled to center and stole second. He advanced to third on an infield out and scored when Jeff Brodgen's fly to center was misplayed and fell in for a double.

Pitt County got back in the game with the second pitch of the bottom of the sixth, when leadoff batter Topping cracked a towering home run over the fence in left for a 3-3 deadlock.

Pitt then came up with three in the seventh to move ahead for good. Junior Neal walked and so did Mark Shank. Barrett reached on an infield hit, loading the bases. Wilson followed with a single to right, scoring Neal and Shank. Topping got his third hit of the evening, a single to left scoring Barrett for a 6-3 lead.

The other run came in the eighth. Neal singled to right, moved up on a hit by Shank and scored when Barrett's popup to the mound was dropped. "We did the little things right that it takes to win," Coach Gary Overton said afterwards. "Our relief pitching did an adequate job. That and a good defense is what won it for us."

While admitting that the team seemed to be a little flat early in the game, Overton said that Topping's homer "seemed to get us charged up to go for the win." Topping's three hits led Pitt, while Barrett had two. Browne had three for Wayne, while Strouse added a pair.

Mel Howard got the victory for Pitt, coming in relief in the seventh inning. It was his first decision of the year.

Williamston In Second Defeat

WILLIAMSTON — Rocky Mount slipped past Williamston, 6-5, last night in American Legion baseball to knock Williamston out of first place.

Both Rocky Mount and Williamston are now 6-2, tied for second behind first place Pitt County, 6-1.

Rocky Mount took the lead early, scoring a run in the first. Rafor Long singled, moved up on a passed ball and a sacrifice and scored on another passed ball.

Rocky Mount then added three more in the second for a 4-0 lead. Dwayne Pridgen singled and Carl Payne walked. Long singled in Pridgen, and David Wells singled to score Payne. Bill Merrifield's hit brought in Long.

Williamston rallied for one in the bottom of the second. Joe Holly doubled, took third on a sacrifice and scored on Brady Pinner's sacrifice fly.

In the third, Williamston scored two more to close the gap to 4-3. Wade Brabble reached on an error and Anthony Latham walked. Hank Edwards also reached on an error, loading the bases. Trent Ange singled in Brabble and Holley singled to score Latham.

Rocky Mount got another run in the fifth. Jeff Newsome reached on a fielder's choice, scoring when Kevin Bunn doubled.

In the sixth, Williamston scored again. Eldred McQueen singled and Pinner got a hit. Brabble singled to score McQueen.

Williamston then tied it up in the seventh. Ellis tripled and came in on a passed ball.

But Rocky Mount came back with the winning run in the eighth. Bunn walked, moved up on a sacrifice and a passed ball and scored on an infield out.

Long led the Rocky Mount hitting with two, while Ellis and Holly each had two for Williamston.

Williamston plays host to Pitt County tonight.

Snow Hill Nips Washington

WASHINGTON — Snow Hill's American Legion baseball team squeezed out a 6-5 victory over Washington last night.

Washington scored first, getting a run in the first inning. Lawrence Tolston reached on an error as did Keith Modlin. Neal Prater then hit a sacrifice fly to score Tolston.

It stayed 1-0 until the sixth, when Snow Hill rallied for three runs. Billy McLawhorn and Jimbo Fulghum both singled. Al Murray then provided the runs with a three-run home run.

Washington came back in the seventh with two to tie it up. Pete Lee led off with a solo homer. Vic Walls then doubled and scored on Tolston's single.

In the eighth, Williamston went back out with two runs. McLawhorn singled and Fulghum's sacrifice bunt was error. Murray reached on a fielder's choice that got Fulghum at second. Philip Gordon singled to score McLawhorn, and Donald Shaw reached on a fielder's choice. Alan Moore reached on an error, scoring Murray.

The winning run scored in the top of the ninth. Jeff Scott was hit by a pitch and moved up on a sacrifice. McLawhorn singled him in.

Washington rallied for two in the bottom of the ninth, but fell short.

McLawhorn led the Snow Hill hitting with four. Walls had three, while Tolston and Bill Batchelor each had two for Washington.

Snow Hill is now 4-4, while Washington fell to 1-7. Snow Hill entertains Wayne County tonight.

Senior Babe Ruth

Robersonville 8, Winterville 2

WINTERVILLE — Robersonville handed Winterville its first loss in Senior Babe Ruth League play last night, 8-2, and tightened up the race for the pennant.

Winterville fell to 5-1 with the loss, while Robersonville is now 4-2.

Robersonville scored first, getting a pair in the fourth inning. Whitfield singled and moved up on a wild pitch. S. Wallace reached on an error and W. Harris arrived via an error, allowing both runners to score.

In the sixth, Robersonville struck for four more to put it away. Wallace and Keel both singled and Cargile walked to load the bases. A pickoff play was errored, and both Wallace and Keel scored. Simpson and Lee both walked, reloading the bases, and two passed balls scored Cargile and Simpson for a 6-0 lead.

Winterville got both of its runs in the bottom of the sixth. Kevin Ivey and Sammy Tucker both walked and scored when Carl Arnold singled.

The other two Robersonville runs came in the seventh.

C. Roberson led Robersonville with two hits. No one had more than one for Winterville.

Little League

Big Value Drugs 11, Wellcome 8

Big Value Drugs clinched at least a tie for first place in the Tar Heel Little League yesterday with an 11-8 win over Wellcome.

A single win by Big Value, now 10-3, or a single loss by First Federal, 8-5, would wrap it up. Wellcome is now 7-6.

Big Value scored three times in the first inning. Steve Wall singled and Les Turner walked. Kevin Lang also walked, loading the bases. Matthew Saieed singled in Wall and Turner, and Gene Leggett singled to score Lang.

Six more crossed in the second to give Big Value a 9-0 lead. Eric Jarman singled and Wall got a hit. Sterling Edwards reached on an error, scoring Jarman. Turner walked, loading the bases, and Lang reached on an error, scoring Wall and Edwards. Saieed then cracked a three-run homer.

Big Value added one in the third and another in the fourth.

Wellcome got its first in the third. Terry Warren reached on an error and Lark Wetherington walked. Cedric Hines singled and an error let Warren score.

Wellcome added one in the fourth and then rallied for six in the fifth.

Hines led the Wellcome hitting with two, while Wall, Saieed and Leggett each had two for Big Value.

Coca-Cola 8, Union Carbide 6

Coca-Cola picked up an 8-6 victory over Union Carbide yesterday in North State Little League play.

Both teams now post 4-9 records on the year.

Coke scored twice in the first inning. Mike Sasser reached on a fielder's choice and Jay Wynne slapped a two-run homer.

After seeing Coke score two more in the second, Union Carbide came back with two in the second. Dwight Smith singled and Billy Overton got a hit. An error let Smith take third, and a double steal brought in Smith. Overton moved to third on a passed ball and scored when Tim West grounded out.

Union Carbide added three more in the third for a 5-4 lead.

But in the top of the sixth, Coke came up with four to win it. Chris Hilliard doubled and scored on a triple by James Matthews. Sasser walked and Wynne again homered, making it 8-5.

The other Union Carbide run came in the sixth.

Wynne and Hilliard each had two hits to pace Coke, while Steve Rhodes and Smith each had three to pace Union Carbide.

Babe Ruth

Aaction Movers 2, Pepsi-Cola 0

Aaction Movers got a two-hit shutout from Jeff Wilson to beat Pepsi-Cola, 2-0, last night. Pepsi pitcher Terry Smith held Aaction scoreless until the sixth inning in the hurling duel.

Aaction brought its record to 6-6 with the win, while Pepsi slipped to 4-8.

Both runs scored in the sixth inning. Donnie Daughtridge singled and Scott Wilson walked. Both were sacrificed up, and Chris Joyner sacrificed to score Daughtridge. Bryan Dye singled, driving in Wilson with the second run.

Rudy Stalls had two hits to pace Aaction, while no one had more than one for Pepsi.

Planters Bank 4, Home Builders 3

Planters Bank captured the Babe Ruth League championship last night with a 4-3 victory over Home Builders.

Planters boosted its record to 12-1, while Home Builders fell to 8-4.

Planters scored first with a run in the first. Gordon Douglas singled and moved up on an error. He scored when Crowell Pope singled.

In the fifth, Home Builders tied it up with one. Roger Williams reached on a fielder's choice, as did Tony Burroughs. Horace Barrett then singled to score Williams.

Planters went back out with a run in the sixth and added another in the seventh, but Home Builders rallied for two in the bottom of the seventh to win it.

Then, in the first extra inning, Planters got the win. Mike Pollard led off, reaching on a three-base error. After two outs he stole home with a 2-2 count on the batter, who then struck out to end the inning. Home Builders came back to threaten, but had the tying run thrown out at the plate to end the inning.

Scott Galloway had two hits to lead the Builders, and was the lone hitter in the game with more than one.

Scott Scores From Second On Sacrifice Fly For Kansas City

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Great Scott! How do you go from second base all the way home on a sacrifice fly?

Even George Scott doesn't know.

"I never did that before," said Scott after scoring from second on a sacrifice fly in Wednesday night's 9-2 Kansas City romp over the Oakland A's.

The newest of the Royals is not only hitting the ball at a good clip, but showed his teammates some flashy running ability as well in his latest outing.

"I just kept on running," Scott said of the rare play in the seventh inning on Darrell Porter's sacrifice fly. "The third base coach (Chuck Hiller) waved me on and I just never stopped."

Porter's fly ball was caught by Mike Heath in left, the outfielder making a nice running catch. Heath's momentum carried him nearly to the wall, as Scott took off from second.

"I didn't think he was going to run," said Heath, who appeared to relax a bit after the catch.

But when he finally fired the ball back into the infield, the burly Scott was chugging around third and heading safely home.

Scott also collected three singles, boosting his batting average as a Royal to .400, and scored three times.

In the other American League games, the Boston Red Sox whipped the Detroit Tigers 13-3; the Baltimore Orioles stopped the Cleveland Indians 5-3 in a rain-shortened 5½-inning game; the Milwaukee Brewers trimmed the Minnesota Twins 8-3; the Seattle Mariners turned back the Chicago White Sox 5-3; the California Angels nipped the Texas Rangers 5-4 and the New York Yankees beat the Toronto Blue Jays 2-1 in the opener of a double-header before losing the nightcap 3-2.

Red Sox 13, Tigers 3

Six different players hit home runs as Boston bombed Detroit behind right-hander Mike Torrez. Fred Lynn, Carl Yastrzemski, Bob Watson, Dwight Evans, Butch Hobson and Jim Dwyer each hit homers in Boston's single-game high of the season. The Red Sox also had five doubles in the assault on four Detroit pitchers.

Torrez settled down after giving up three runs in the first inning and finished with a seven-hitter in improving his record to 7-4.

Orioles 5, Indians 3

Gary Roenicke, Eddie Murray and Rick Dauer hit fourth-inning home runs to power Baltimore over Cleveland in their rain-shortened contest.

Roenicke hit his 13th homer of the season leading off the fourth against Cleveland starter

Rick Waits. With one out, Murray hit his seventh homer, and after Lee May singled, Dauer came through with a two-run shot, his fifth of the season.

Brewers 8, Twins 3

Gorman Thomas sparked a four-run Milwaukee third inning with an RBI double and hit a sacrifice fly in the sixth, while Sal Bando slapped three singles and scored twice to lead the Brewers over Minnesota.

Bando, who had been in what he said was the second worst slump in his 12 major league seasons, has raised his batting average from .221 to .243 with 13 hits in his last 37 times at bat.

Mariners 5, White Sox 3

Bruce Bochte singled in one run and doubled to set up another, and Willie Horton hit his 301st career home run to lead Seattle over Chicago.

Winner Odell Jones scattered eight hits through eight innings before needing last-inning relief help.

Angels 5, Rangers 4

Don Baylor doubled to drive in two runs and Bert Campaneris had two singles, scored a run and equalled a club record with three stolen bases in leading California over Texas.

California's Bobby Grich had his 20-game hitting streak snapped. Jon Matlack walked him in the second inning, struck out Grich in the fourth and got him to ground out in the sixth. Facing reliever Sparky Lyle in the eighth, Grich fled to right.

Yankees 2-2, Blue Jays 1-3

Bucky Dent singled home the tying run in the fifth inning and scored on a wild pitch as New York edged Toronto in the opener of their double-header.

John Mayberry's 10th home run of the season with one out in the ninth inning gave the Blue Jays their victory in the nightcap.

Sunday Telecasts

ROANOKE, Va. (AP) — The Atlantic Coast Conference reportedly is considering televised Sunday night basketball games.

The Roanoke Times & World-News said today the plan would not call for any additional televised games. The conference has several Saturday games tentatively scheduled for next season that may be switched to Sunday night.

"We've talked about it as a conference," said Gene Corrigan, athletic director at the University of Virginia, "and I'd have to say it's a possibility. At least, I haven't heard any strong objections."

Several ACC teams have played nationally televised games on Sunday afternoons — including Duke and Wake Forest, the conference's two church-affiliated schools.

The proposal is expected to be a topic at the next ACC meeting, June 29 in Greensboro, N.C.

NBA Owners To Vote On 3-Point Shot

AMELIA ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Should an open jump shot from 22 feet out on a basketball court be worth more than a twisting scoop shot made after driving through the teeth of a collapsing defense?

will be in the 1979-80 National Basketball Association season. The NBA's Board of Governors, which began its annual summer meeting today, is expected to adopt the three-point goal into the league by-laws for next season. Under the proposed new rule, which is similar to that used by the old American Basketball Association, any shot made from beyond roughly 22 feet will be worth three points instead of two.

Auerbach, president of the Boston Celtics, who feels the league is making the move out of panic caused by poor network television ratings and declining attendance in certain major Eastern markets. "I say leave our game alone. Putting in the three-point goal reminds me of a team that trades four, five and six players every year out of panic." "I'm personally against it," said Jack Ramsay, coach of the Portland Trail Blazers. "I don't think we need any gimmicks." "I don't think it's a gimmick, but rather that it will be a legitimate part of the game," countered Bob Ferry, general manager of the Washington Bullets. "It adds another way to win or lose a game, and the more of those you have, the more excitement you have." The league's coaches and general managers met last week and voted in favor of the three-point goal, the coaches by a 15-5 margin and the GMs by 15-7. Their recommendations were passed along to the league's Rules and Competitions Committee, which met Wednesday, and the Governors were expected to give their seal of approval. Other items on the Board of Governors' agenda included a proposal for continuation of the three-referee system, which the NBA used on an experimental basis last year; consideration of a more compact playing schedule, under which the season would end roughly two weeks earlier than in the past, and formal confirmation of three new franchise owners — Jerry Buss of the Los Angeles Lakers, George Maloof of the Houston Rockets and Sam Nassisi of the Indiana Pacers. Expansion was another topic to be discussed. The league is committed to adding two new teams by the 1980-81 season, and while Dallas and Minneapolis-St. Paul appeared to be the front-runners, several other cities are under consideration including Cincinnati, Miami, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and Toronto.

Nicklaus Hopeful At Canadian Open Start

OAKVILLE, Ontario (AP) — There are some hopeful, positive signs for Jack Nicklaus. "I feel pretty good about the state of my game right now," Nicklaus said before teeing off today in the first round of the 70th Canadian Open Golf Championship.

"I played the last 27 holes 6 under par last week (in the U.S. Open) and that's not bad," he said.

But it came too late. Nicklaus, owning the greatest record in the history of this ancient game, took himself out of the American national championship when he three-putted five of the first seven holes in the second round.

"That just put me too far back," he said.

It was a continuation of the sort of thing that has plagued him throughout the year — the worst season he's ever had.

His performance over the last few holes, however, kindled some hopes.

"I have to start playing good sooner or later," Nicklaus said, and smiled. "I'd rather it be sooner."

There are a variety of reasons. Perhaps foremost is the fact, Nicklaus said, that "I'm getting awfully tired of explaining why I'm playing the way I am. Actually, I haven't played all that badly. I just haven't been able to put the scores on the board."

And the answer to his problem is simple.

"The only way I get people to stop asking me why I'm playing like this is to start playing better," he said.

And this national championship would be a near-ideal spot for it.

For one thing, he designed the 7,050-yard, par 71 Glen Abbey Golf Club course that will become a permanent site for the Canadian Open.

For another, this is one of the few important titles in the world that has eluded him.

"This would be a nice time to get back on the right track," he said.

He'll be facing one of the strongest fields of the season in the 72-hole chase for a $63,000 first prize.

The major standouts are Hale

Irwin, seeking to add a second consecutive national title to the U.S. Open championship he won last weekend, defending champion Bruce Lietzke and Tom Watson, the outstanding player in the game over the last 2½ years and the only four-time winner this season.

Also on hand are Gary Player and Jerry Pate, who tied for second behind Irwin last week, two-time Canadian Open champions Tom Weiskopf and Lee Trevino, Lanny Wadkins, Andy Bean, Ray Floyd, Ben Crenshaw, Ed Sneed and Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller.

CBS will provide national television coverage to the United States for portions of the final two rounds. CBC will televise nationally in Canada.

Parseghian Has Hip Operation

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Former Notre Dame football Coach Ara Parseghian, recuperating from surgery on a 30-year-old hip injury, figures he'll be up and around by the end of the summer and back on the golf course within six months.

"This should relieve the pain," he said of the 3½-hour operation at the Indiana University Medical Center. "I should be able to golf, swim, bicycle, all the activities a normal 56-year-old guy should be able to do."

Parseghian, who compiled a 95-17-4 record and two national championships in 11 seasons as Irish coach, originally injured his right hip as a player with the Cleveland Browns in 1949.

"It was in an exhibition game," Parseghian recalled during an interview on Wednesday. "I was carrying the ball and somehow got off kilter and had a partial dislocation of the hip."

"It went right back in, but apparently I did some damage to it as it went out and back in. I did very well for 28 years on it — this is the first operation I've had on it — but it deteriorated on me the last couple of years. I really started going downhill."

"I was in a lot of pain," Parseghian continued. "I couldn't walk a golf course or do any activities that created a lot of pounding on the hip. I just became darn near crippled."

The operation, performed on Monday, involved a partial hip replacement.

"It's a new technique," Parseghian said. "You keep most of the bone stock of your own femur and replace the hip joint. Way back, years ago, they used to have total hip replacement. It's been refined, and they have pretty good success."

Parseghian, who has done television color for ABC's college football games since he left Notre Dame after the 1974 season, said he misses the sidelines but doesn't anticipate a return to coaching — at least for now.

"I've had enough challenges in my life, and I have plenty to do. As long as it remains that way, I'll probably stay out of coaching," he said.

Asked about rumors he would be offered the head coaching job if Indianapolis is awarded an expansion franchise in the National Football League, Parseghian laughed and said, "I haven't even heard they were getting a franchise. I don't know what the NFL's plans are. I haven't concerned myself with it."

Company Buses Taking Employees To Their Jobs

RIDING TO WORK WITH THE PILOT — Employees of the Pilot Life Ins. Co. board one of the company's 11 buses which carry them to and from their jobs at the company's Jamestown (N.C.) offices. (AP Laserphoto)

By JEFF HERRIN
High Point Enterprise
JAMESTOWN, N.C. (AP) — Not only do the employees of a large insurance company in Jamestown sail with the pilot, they ride with him.

In 1928, Pilot Life Insurance Co. began a bus route to transport employees to and from work. Now in its 51st year of operation, the insurance firm uses 11 vehicles (six to Greensboro and five to High Point and Thomasville to transport some 300 of its workers).

And with the rising costs of gasoline, fuel shortage threats and urges to conserve energy, the company has no intention of stopping that service now.

"The employees really like it, too," Dick Andrews, public relations director for the company said. "I really used to enjoy it. I used to drive one of the buses. It provides a great way for workers to make friends and a lot of times they would sing going or coming home from work."

The transportation plan was designed for different reasons than those thought of in today's fuel-conscious society though.

"Back then it was a necessity," Andrews said. "We were way out in the country and not too many people had a means of getting out here."

Personnel director Earl Adams elaborated on the need for the plan.

"That was in the days right before the Depression," Adams said. "It was unheard of for a company to all of a sudden move from downtown Greensboro to some place out in the country. We had to provide a means for our employees to get to work. Not too many people had cars back then."

Even as the ownership of automobiles become more commonplace, the participants in the bus system stayed. In fact as the company grew in size and work force, the number of bus riders also increased.

"It was still a convenience, especially for young people," Adams said. "A lot of boys didn't get their licenses while they were in high school back then. They waited until they could afford a car."

The numbers strengthen Adams' statement. Roughly one-third of the company's approximately 900-person work force still turns to the blue and white buses for transportation to and from work.

If statistics are any indication, a safer means of travel would be hard to come by.

"I know of a couple of bumps we've had along the way," Andrews said. "But there's never been any accident of any consequence to my knowledge. No one's ever been hurt in an incident involving one of our buses."

With gasoline prices continuing to rise, neither of the insurance company officials have noticed a significant increase in ridership, but they feel it's a little too early to tell right now. "Back in '73 and '74 when the oil embargo was going on, the numbers gradually picked up, but we could see a definite change," Adams said. "I think it's been increasing kind of erratically this time, but we'll probably see something of significance before too long."

And the service provides something most company officials hadn't even thought of at the time the bus system was incorporated.

"People come up to me all the time and say something about those blue and white Pilot Life buses," Andrews said. "I can remember when I was just a boy and the Pilot Life bus was stopping down the street every day. I don't think we intended to get any advertising from them, but it worked out that way."

And neither Andrews nor Adams are complaining about that.

To Test PCB Dumping Sites

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The state will begin testing dumpsites in counties which have agreed to use of the sites as possible burial grounds for PCB-contaminated soil in as soon as one month.

Herbert Hyde, secretary of Crime Control and Public Safety, said Wednesday the state would begin testing in the counties in which commissioners have agreed to it. He said the state is waiting for the results on just how the soil is to be removed from the 210 miles of roadsides.

Officials in Lee, Harnett, Franklin, Johnston, Halifax, Wilson and Warren counties had agreed to the testing by Wednesday afternoon, according to a department spokesman.

Meanwhile, commissioners in Wake, Alamance, Chatham and Person counties rejected the state request. Three other counties where the illegal dumpings took place last summer — Edgecombe, Nash and Granville — had not responded.

State Department of Human Resources officials will conduct the tests. Once data is analyzed, the sites would have to be approved by the federal Environmental Protection Agency before the tainted soil could be buried in the landfills.

The tests determine the depth of water tables at each site. They also measure the composition of the soil as opposed to federal guidelines for PCB storage.

Hyde said refusal by the four counties to go along with the testing program and the possible rejection of sites by EPA would not hinder the storage plans. He added that the state had no plans for the contaminated soil in counties where officials refused to agree to the testing.

"Many of these county places may not be proper," Hyde said. "We may talk with them, or we may decide something else, but we're going to start testing the others."

Finds Eagerness Among Chinese

PEKING (AP) — Violinist Isaac Stern says he would like to see a chamber music orchestra perform in China's forbidden city.

"There is a great sense of tranquility," Stern said Wednesday as he visited the imperial courtyards and buildings of Peking. "And a chamber music orchestra playing in the courtyard of the forbidden city would be a great symbol of that tranquility."

Stern is on a three-week tour of China that includes classes and performances here and in Shanghai.

Earlier Stern rehearsed with the Central Philharmonic for his Friday and Saturday performances here. He conducted a class for three young violinists and showed a young girl how to stand and hold her violin.

"There is an enormous amount of talent here," Stern said. "But the teaching is not strong because of the 10-year hiatus during the cultural revolution....No musician can help but be touched by the evident eagerness one senses among the Chinese people."

Mental Health Groups Seek Overturning Court's Ruling

By RICHARD CARELLI
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A coalition of mental health groups will ask state legislatures to overcome a Supreme Court ruling that denies children the right to contest their parents' attempts to commit them to state mental hospitals.

"Legislative efforts are definitely the way to go now," Norman Rosenberg, a lawyer for the Washington-based Mental Health Law Project, said after Wednesday's ruling.

"More protection against wrongful commitments is needed than the court is willing to provide," Rosenberg said.

Deciding a pair of test cases from Pennsylvania and Georgia, the court said in a 6-3 vote that parents' traditional role in bringing up their children precludes any constitutional right by a child to have his or her own lawyer help fight the parental decision for committal.

The twin decisions struck down lower court rulings that had invalidated procedures used by Pennsylvania and Georgia to commit juveniles to mental hospitals. Some 38 states have similar procedures.

The court said states must provide an informal hearing by a "neutral fact finder" before commitment takes place, but said a full adversary hearing is not required to protect children's due process rights.

However, in an opinion by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, the court said states are free to allow such formal hearings even though the Constitution does not require them.

"Pitting the parents and child as adversaries often will be at odds with the presumption that parents act in the best interests of their child," Burger said.

Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall and John Paul Stevens joined in a strongly worded dissent.

"The risk of erroneous commitment is simply too great unless there is some form of adversarial review," the dissenters said.

David Ferleger of Philadelphia, who represented the Pennsylvania children, said Wednesday's decision is "a tragic loss for liberty in the United States. It condemns children to second-class citizenship."

In other decisions Wednesday, the court:

—Ruled by a 5-4 vote that children accused of committing crimes may in some instances be questioned by police even after they ask to consult with an adult who is not a lawyer.

—Ruled 7-2 that police must obtain a warrant before searching an unlocked suitcase taken from a car. Even though cars may be searched without a court warrant, that rationale cannot apply to luggage once it is seized, the court said.

—Ruled 5-3 that police need not obtain a search warrant before installing a device known as a pen register, used to keep records of outgoing calls made on a specific telephone.

Doubts Ormandy Heart Attack

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Orchestra conductor Eugene Ormandy's doctor says chest pains that put the maestro in the hospital probably were not caused by a heart attack.

"Mr. Ormandy had an excellent night," Dr. Edward Viner said Wednesday. "He rested well and had no further discomfort. He will not be conducting Thursday night, but we do hope that he will be discharged shortly."

Ormandy, 79, has conducted the Philadelphia Orchestra since the 1936. He has announced plans to step down at the end of this season.

Dirty Water Is 'Needed'

MONROE, N.C. (AP) — For years, federal and state officials have been trying to figure out ways of keeping municipal water supplies clean. Millions of dollars have been spent to try and keep rivers and streams pollution-free.

So what are the people at the Union County waste-water treatment plant trying to do? They are hauling in sludge to the facility to make the water dirty again.

From January through the middle of May, workers have hauled in 100-gallon tanks of sludge from 10 to 12 miles away. The sludge is being used to keep the treatment plant working properly.

The Union County Commissioners were told at a meeting recently that a local automotive parts manufacturer had poured so much clean water into the system each month, that a biological balance at the plant was being disrupted.

Public Works Director Bill Summerlin said the Baker Waste Treatment Plant is operated on a biological reaction system.

"There are micro-organisms there that thrive on sludge. The clean water that Schraeder (the automotive plant) was discharging was diluting the organisms and washing them out of the plant," Summerlin said.

Summerlin said the cost of hauling the sludge was minimal, and that the Schraeder plant was pouring the clean water into a drainage ditch.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 22, 1979

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to be alert to changes and new arrangements. Plan the future so you can be more prosperous in the days ahead. The late afternoon and evening are fine for social outlets.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Engage in creative work and put aside whatever is tedious during the day and you make big headway. Be more optimistic.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Do whatever will most please family members and have more harmony at home. Take no risks with your reputation now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go to the right sources for the information you need. Make sure that your financial affairs are in good order.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have a good opportunity to add to present holdings at this time. Strive for increased happiness.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use good judgment in all your business dealings today and gain the benefits. Come to a better understanding with loved one.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study well what a higher-up has to suggest so you can advance in career matters. Clear your desk of unfinished work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle routine duties early in the day so you will have time for important matters later. Express kindness to others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Bring your finest talents to the attention of prominent persons who can help you get ahead. Show sincerity and thoughtfulness.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Join with a trustworthy person in a project that is most appealing. Your hunches are very accurate now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Adopt a new method for handling obligations and get excellent results. Take no risks in financial matters at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Cooperate more with associates and you gain the benefits. Be more alert to opportunities in your line of endeavor.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact one who has much experience in your line of work and get good ideas. Avoid one who could lead you in the wrong direction.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one who needs cheerful and optimistic individuals close by in order to profit the most. Be sure to give the best education you can afford. Don't neglect religious training early in life. Sports are good here.

Barclay's Bank Goes Into N.C.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A world leader in the banking industry, an organization dating back to the 17th century, has announced intentions to extend its knowledge and influence into the rapidly growing North Carolina Piedmont city.

Barclay's Bank Ltd. of London, through Barclays Bank International, announced Wednesday that it has purchased controlling interest in the American Credit Corp., a Charlotte firm which offers a variety of financial services.

Barclay's dates back to the days when America had just been settled by the English. Its emblem, an eagle, first appeared on the side of a building of a goldsmith-banker doing business on London's Lombard Street.

The purchase, described as the largest in the firm's history, is one in a series of purchases in a 10-year worldwide expansion program. The eagle of Barclays is now seen in over 700 cities around the world.

A company report which traced the history of Barclay's, said international expansion started in 1925 with the development of networks in former colonies in Africa and the Caribbean. The report noted that the eagle now flies in more than 120 nations around the world. Prior to expansion, the total was 40.

Despite the obvious successes, Barclays has seen its share of troubles. Some of its stockholders have objected to company involvement in South Africa because of racial separation policies. Stockholders of American Credit Corp. have been less than enthusiastic about merger plans, expressing

Court Martial Action Halted

YORKTOWN, Va. (AP) — Court martial proceedings against the commander of the Coast Guard cutter Cuyahoga have been temporarily halted while defense attorneys seek to have the Coast Guard judge disqualified.

A military appeals court Wednesday granted a stay sought by attorneys for Chief Warrant Officer Donald K. Robinson, charged with negligence in the collision of the Cuyahoga and the freighter Santa Cruz II in Chesapeake Bay last October. The cutter sank and 11 of its 29 crewmen died. Attorney Jerome Flanagan argued that Coast Guard judges might be influenced by the fact that the court-martial was convened by Adm. John Hayes, the Coast Guard commandant. Cmdr. R.A. Appelbaum, the presiding judge, Tuesday denied a motion that he disqualify himself.

Dear Readers: Photography has brought me a multitude of personal friends since I started writing this weekly column 31 years ago.

Photography, for each of us, is a special hobby, art or profession which you share with others and which multiplies its pleasures, excitement and sense of creativity as it passes along.

Recently, I discovered again how much photography has enriched my life through the friendships formed with camera fans, column readers, professionals and colleagues in the photographic industry. Three events occurred in the past year which changed the heretofore normal path of my life, and in each case photography played a major role in making a drastic change easier to adjust to.

First, in the early part of 1978, my wife, Gertrude, died. She had been my photographic companion, partner and subject for 40 years, an integral part of everything I did in photography. Mother of our three daughters, she provided me with the most compelling magnet for pictures: children and their endless parade of photographic activities.

Though she is gone, the memories of 40 years remain in precious images that bring solace and comfort, not only to myself, but to my children and grandchildren. Thanks to photography, the pictures are our "roots," permanently fixed and perennially flowering.

The second event was a decision to uproot myself from New York, the city in which I was born and lived. After living in an eight-room house for 26 years accumulating thousands and thousands of photographs, it was a monumental task to take along only enough for a small condominium in Delray Beach, Fla.

Part of the problem was solved by offering the vast amount of material and photographs involved in the writing of this column to New York's International Center of Photography. Director Cornell Capa accepted the material for the center's archives as a possible source for study for students in the future after proper cataloging.

An even greater collection of negatives and pictures was turned over to the American Museum of Magic in Marshall, Mich. I have been photographing magicians in action for more than 40 years, and museum director Robert Lund says it is an important historical collection in magic, probably the largest photographed by one individual in the world.

The tremendous job of disposing of a house and possessions and moving to another part of the country involved a transition period requiring all my time and effort. That's when old friends in photography came to my aid and offered their help as guest columnists.

Among the first was Walter Chandoha, whom I had met about 25 years ago on the photo lecture circuit. In those early years he had established a national reputation as a photographer of cats. As our families got to know each other better, his reputation expanded and he excelled in photographing dogs, horses and other animals. Finally, he's also become an expert in the farm, gardening and agricultural areas.

Another volunteer was Arthur Goldsmith, formerly with the Famous Photographers School and at present editorial director for Popular Photography. Contributor Alex Siodmak, a professional photographer when we first met, now teaches high schoolers the practical aspects of photography. Harvey S. Zucker, formerly president and honorary life member of the Photographic Historical Society of New York, wrote about collecting photographic and how to differentiate between daguerreotypes, ambrotypes and tintypes.

Just as the transition period of moving to Florida was resolving itself, unexpected event No. 3 took place: an auto accident in which I was a victim and which kept me hospitalized for one complete month.

As word of my predicament spread, my friends in photography rallied to keep my column going and speed my recovery with personal visits, cards, and flowers which made my hospital room look like an annex of the botanical gardens.

Cornell Capa bounced in after returning from Venice, with a complete report of the photographic miracle which he conceived and organized for that city for the next three months: "Venezia '79".

Other hospital cheerer-uppers were David Eisendrath, one of this country's most authoritative photographic technicians and consultants; Marty For-scher, the nation's top camera repairman; and Yale Joel, LIFE magazine photographer and author of the newest "photo card" teaching system of which you'll hear more about. Just talking photography proved to be a revitalizing force in recovery, I found.

Meanwhile, other guest columnists kept the weekly deadlines on schedule. There's Ed Hannigan, whom I first met as editor of U.S. Camera magazine and who introduced me to Irish coffee at Shannon Airport in 1956. That was our first trip to "Photokina," Germany's famous world's fair of photography. Hannigan is now dean of the School of Modern Photography in Little Falls, N.J.

Other bylines were by Bernie Hoffman, now teaching photographic techniques in his home workshop school in Freehold, N.J.; Chuck Kurtak, director of the Nikon Gallery; and Jack Jeffers of Lyndhurst, Va., a strong advocate of fine-art photography using time-tested rules of composition, mood, taste and archival printing integrity.

The Reinvestment Plan Is Widespread

INTERSTATE SECURITIES CORP

Corporations were first permitted to offer automatic dividend reinvestment plans just ten years ago, and now more than 600 listed companies offer such programs.

Dividends which might otherwise be spent by a stockholder can be reinvested in that company's stock. Once a shareholder joins a plan, his account is credited with the full or fractional shares that the dollar worth of the dividend will buy. Participants receive a statement following a purchase showing the amount of money invested, the cost of the shares bought, any charges against the account, and the balance after purchase.

Most companies offering dividend reinvestment plans require the shares to be registered in the owner's name, but a few companies will permit participation when the stock is held in street name. Administrators of the plans are typically banks, which purchase the stock in the open market. Their fees, usually five percent, are passed on to the stockholder. A small number of companies will absorb part or all of the cost of the plan.

Additionally, many will offer a five percent discount from the market price at the time of purchase, but the money saved by this discount, as well as the reinvested dividends, are treated as taxable income. Some companies will also allow investors to combine cash with the dividends to make additional purchases of stock, but there are upper and lower limits on the amount of cash that can be contributed.

The benefits to a company offering dividend reinvestment are many, including building goodwill with shareholders and providing market support to the price of the stock through open market purchases. And in recent years, many utilities have been able to raise capital by offering additional stock to participants in dividend reinvestment plans, rather than buying stock in the open market.

For a shareholder, dividend reinvestment provides inexpensive record keeping and custodial services, as well as convenience. And dividend reinvestment permits use of the dollar-cost-averaging approach to investing by systematically adding to the equity position in a company.

Real Tar Heel Hero Of The Spanish-American War

By Dr. H. G. JONES
For The Associated Press
CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP) — The Spanish American War is sometimes belittled as "not much of a war."
 But for Victor Blue, a North Carolina native, it provided both excitement and danger. When it was over, he was one of its real heroes.
 As a lieutenant aboard the converted yacht "Suwanee," Blue volunteered for three hazardous expeditions in Cuba. He came through all of them unscathed but not "unscared."
 In May, 1898, the American Navy needed to contact General Gomez of the Cuban insurgent forces ashore to arrange for the landing of badly needed supplies.

 The "Suwanee" chanced detection by Spanish patrol vessels by approaching the north coast of the island on May 31. Blue then took a small number of sailors and two Cubans in a small boat and sneaked through the cays of Buena Vista Bay.
 After midnight they reached the mainland, planted the United States flag, and were warmly welcomed by the Cuban rebels. Trying to return to the "Suwanee" before daylight, the Americans in the dark ran upon two small Spanish sloops. Rather than escape, the American party slipped up on the first sloop, found no one aboard, and surmised that both crews were partying on the second vessel.

 Perhaps foolheartedly, Blue decided to attack. Spraying bullets across the ship, the Americans drove the Spanish crews into the water and took possession of both vessels.
 Less than two weeks later, Blue, perhaps emboldened by this almost comical exploit, volunteered for another hair-raising mission.

The "Suwanee" had joined Admiral Sampson's fleet blockading the port of Santiago, where the main body of the Spanish fleet was believed to be hiding. Dependable information, however was lacking.
 Blue volunteered to go ashore near Asseraderos, 20 miles from Santiago, slip through the Spanish lines, and proceed to the heights overlooking the harbor.
 He successfully maneuvered through the lines, looked down on the fleet from the hills, and returned on June 13 to confirm the presence of the enemy ships. He had traveled 73 miles.

 The American ships, as long as the Spanish vessels were in the harbor, could not be freed to assist the insurgents elsewhere on the island. So, on July 25, Blue again set out for Santiago, twice crossing Spanish lines.
 Successfully evading the enemy again, he drew a chart of the harbor and sketched in the exact location of each major vessel. He obtained sufficient information on which to base a torpedo attack which destroyed the Spanish fleet.

The lieutenant was decorated by Congress, advanced in rank five numbers "for extraordinary heroism," and given command of the ship "Alvarado."
 Blue was born in North Carolina's Richmond County on Dec. 6, 1865, the son of John Gilchrist and Annie Evans Blue. His father had been a state legislator and a lieutenant colonel in the Confederacy.
 When the boy was 5 years old, the family moved to Marion, S. C., where he grew up. He returned to North Carolina for schooling at Laurinburg, then attended and graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy in 1887.

 He served at a number of duty stations prior to the Spanish-American War. Afterward, he commanded the USS Yorktown and served as chief of staff for the Pacific fleet.
 In 1913, Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels surprised many ranking officers by naming Blue chief of the Bureau of Navigation with the temporary rank of rear admiral.
 Returning to the sea, Admiral Blue was commanding officer of the battleship USS Texas in the North Sea in 1917-18 and took part in receiving the surrender of the German fleet.

 He was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for "exceptionally meritorious service" and was decorated as a commander in the Order of Leopold by the King of Belgium.
 Because of a heart ailment, the admiral returned in 1919 and settled in Fort George, Fla., where he had extensive real estate interests. He died Jan. 22, 1928, and was buried at Fort George.
