Tax Rate Is The Same

City Approves New Budget

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The City Council approved last night the 1979-80 city budget totaling some $9,556,357 million and maintaining the present tax rate of 70 cents per $100 valuation.

Approval was also given at the Council's special call meeting to the Greenville Utilities Commission budget for 1979-80 of $33,247,700, reflecting a decrease of less than one percent from the 1978-79 package of $33,549,452.

While the city's budget total indicates an increase from the 1978-79 revised appropriation of $8,450,221, the budget figure adopted last night is slightly misleading since the total includes roughly a million dollars in grants and inter-fund transfers.

The new budget, which was presented to the Council several weeks ago as an unbalanced proposal, was balanced through a series of revenue increases and expenditure decreases, according to City Manager Ed Wyatt.

Wyatt, who said the initial budget proposal was out of balance in the amount of some $137,271, reported last night that in order to balance the package and maintain the same tax rate, revenue projections were revised to reflect an increase of some $86,452. The increase included $55,317 in cash-on-hand funds and $21,135 as a result of an increase in the utilities franchise tax.

Expenditures were decreased in the 1979-80 projections by $145,048, Wyatt explained, with key items including a contingency reduction amounting to $27,880, a freeing of positions in the Sanitation Division amounting to $25,000, a freeing of positions in the Street Maintenance Division amounting to $15,000, the elimination of the volunteer services coordinator position ($11,126), elimination of the position of assistant building official in the Inspections Department ($11,952), and reduction in police detective salaries ($10,393).

Mayor Percy Cox said that he was "confident with the budget as it stands now" and he commended Wyatt and Gail Meeks, who serves as assistant to the city manager, for an "excellent job" in working on the new package. Cox also lauded the city department heads who he said worked hard to help hold the tax rate at the same valuation level.

Wyatt assured the Council that the financial situation would be watched closely and he expressed the hope that Mrs. Meeks would help in administering the "tight as a tick" budget.

The new package includes 1979-80 appropriations of $7,383,432 for the General Fund; $659,510 for the Revenue Sharing Trust Fund; a Debt Service Fund of $549,632; Public Transportation Fund of $895,942; and Parking Authority Fund of $67,841.

Among the General Fund appropriations are: Police Department, chief's office ($81,654), uniform patrol ($1,004,264), detectives and narcotics ($198,393), and records and identification ($60,679); Fire Department, Combat Division ($855,919), fire prevention ($48,539), and rescue ($177,530);

Inspections Department, Inspections Division ($130,914), Animal Control ($48,359); Public Works Department, administrative ($90,126), Sanitation Division ($817,044), Cemetery ($61,567), Street Maintenance ($490,542), Signs and

Paint ($66,333), and Garage ($129,550);

Recreation and Parks Department, Recreation Division ($29,652), Parks Division ($283,082), West Greenville ($36,610), and Town Common ($10,475); and Airport Authority, $126,500.

Other General Fund appropriations include $102,731 for the Engineering Department, $96,292 for the Planning Department, and Finance Department figures of $83,493 for the Accounting Division and $80,628 for the Tax Division.

In addition to the budget ordinance, the Council gave its approval to an ordinance adopting a revised city pay plan, reflecting a five percent across-the-board pay increase for employees, effective July 5.

The Greenville Utilities budget package includes: Electric Fund, $27,430,000; Water Fund, $1,597,600; Sewer Fund, $1,223,600; and Gas Fund, $2,996,600.

A cost of living increase of five percent is also included for GUC employees as of July 1.

The Council took action on several other matters last night, including the adoption of the 1979-80 budget ordinance for the Community Development budget totaling $732,926.63.

In addition, an ordinance revising the city's personnel policies was adopted, as was an ordinance allowing parking on the west side of Lewis Street, from Second Street to Fifth Street, and prohibiting parking on the east side of Lewis, from Second to Fifth Street.

The Council approved a budget amendment adding $44,325 to the Sewer Capital Project Fund budget for Greenville Utilities, relative to the University Medical Park sewer outfall line.

Saudis Shoot For Small Price Hike

By MARK POTTS
AP Business Writer
GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Moderate members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, already battling more militant members who want a huge rise in prices, found dissension in their own ranks today as giant Saudi Arabia said it would continue to hold out for a small increase.

OPEC, meeting for the 54th time, had been expected by many analysts to decide on a price for oil at about $20 a barrel compared to the current official price of $14.55 and an average price with surcharges of $17.

An increase to $20 a barrel could add as much as five cents to a gallon of gasoline or heating oil in the United States.

The Saudi oil minister, Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, if he would accept a price of $19 or more, said "No, that's too much."

"I won't accept what's abnormal." He then defined abnormal as "everything I've heard up to now."

Price hawks like Iran and Libya have suggested prices as high as $27 a barrel but most other members contacted seem to favor the $20 figure.

"Twenty dollars is a nice round number," said Nordine Ait-Loussine, executive vice president of Sonatrach, the Algerian state oil company.

"I will not go for any sharp rises in the price," said Mana Saeed Al-Oteiba, the oil minister of the United Arab Emirates and OPEC's current president. He suggested a base price of $18 to $20 a barrel and a $21 ceiling, including surcharges for higher-quality crude.

His views were echoed by officials of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Gabon, Venezuela, Algeria and, surprisingly, Iraq, previously one of OPEC's most militant members in price matters.

However, Libyan Oil Minister Ezzedin Ali Mabruk told reporters: "The price of Arab crude (oil) should be about $27." And Cyrus Ebrahimzadeh of the Iranian delegation said his country's new revolutionary government was seeking "over $20" per barrel.

Summit Seeks Import Levels

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — President Carter ended preliminary talks with Japanese leaders today on the seven-nation economic summit at which he will propose a plan to bring world oil supplies and demand into balance by next year.

Word of the energy proposal was relayed to reporters by Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, who said the objective would be to fix country-by-country targets for restraining oil imports.

Blumenthal said the import savings within the industrialized western nations and Japan would total two million barrels a day — approximately the amount by which supplies currently fall short of demand. The treasury chief said the Carter blueprint, which would need the approval of the six other summit participants, would contain an enforcement mechanism yet to be put in final form.

Blumenthal said U.S. officials have received positive responses from Saudi Arabia and Kuwait about Carter's proposal. Meanwhile, Carter said he expects the summit to produce a specific plan for easing the plight of Indochinese refugees.

Elaborating, Carter told a group of reporters: "What we want to do, obviously, is to get the entire world to participate in the acceptance of the refugees, and also to get the world to induce the Vietnamese to change their policy to cut down on the large numbers who are having to leave Vietnam."

Asked if he thought a specific proposal would emerge from the summit meeting that begins Thursday, Carter gave a one-word answer: "yes."

American officials, who asked not to be named, said Carter and Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira devoted parts of two days of formal talks to the refugee question and pointed to a separate meeting on the subject between Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Japanese Foreign Minister Sunao Sonoda.

These officials said some 10,000 refugees are leaving Indochina each month, and that 7,000 of them are finding permanent homes in the United States, which so far has accepted 205,000.

Although energy questions did not figure in Carter's talks with Ohira today, American sources said the two leaders agreed to sponsor a joint meeting of experts on nuclear power safety — a related topic — in the weeks ahead.

Blumenthal told an influential group of Japanese businessmen at a luncheon meeting that he would not be surprised if summit participants agree continued development of nuclear power is essential.

Citing the nuclear accident at Three Mile Island in Pennsylvania, Blumenthal said "I do not believe that that incident will in any way significantly slow down nuclear development in the world or in the United States."

Carter began the day jogging with his wife Rosalynn and swimming with her and daughter Amy. 11.

Both Amy and Rosalynn were fully recovered from a bout with an intestinal virus that forced them to cancel some public appearances Monday.

Carter flew 50 miles by helicopter to the seaside village of Oiso, where he met with Ohira in a villa.

U.S. officials reported that Carter devoted much of the session to what they termed a "very complete and candid" report on his personal exchanges with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev in Vienna last week.

Japanese spokesmen said Ohira told Carter he hopes for early ratification by the U.S. (Continued on page 6)

Final Okay For County Budget Expected To Come On Friday

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners are scheduled to meet Friday at 8:30 a.m. to take final action on the proposed 1979-1980 budget — a list of expenditures expected to total about $23.07 million and requiring a tax rate increase of no more than one to two cents per $100 valuation.

The board came close to approving the budget for the coming year at a meeting yesterday morning, but decided to delay final approval until Friday, hoping something might develop over the next few days that would make a proposed two-cents per $100 valuation tax rate hike unnecessary.

When the board first looked at the proposed budget several weeks ago, they faced a possible tax rate of $1.032 per $100 valuation, a rate more than eight cents per $100 more than the present 95 cents per $100 valuation.

Through budget cuts, unexpected increases in revenue, a slight increase in valuation objected, and correction of an error in projections, commissioners yesterday were considering a 97 cents tax rate, an increase of only two cents in the present rate and hoping that something would surface over the next few days to allow another cent or two to be shaved from the proposed rate.

The various departments and agencies funded by the county had requested budgets totaling $25.46 million, a figure that would have required a tax rate of $1.264...some $12.09 million in ad valorem tax revenues.

However, the $23.07 million budget recommended to the board by county manager Reginald Gray, before the review process began and the proposed tax increase was trimmed, would have required that some $9.86 million in ad valorem taxes be collected.

The 97 cents per $100 valuation, applied to the net valuation of $956.9 million, would raise some $9.28 million in real and personal property taxes in 1979-1980.

In his budget message to the board, Gray said that in preparing the budget, "I have done so very conservatively and I consider it a basic necessity budget." He added, "what I have recommended will please no one," and termed his recommendations, "a budget with absolutely no frills."

Relatively few changes have been made in Gray's recommendations.

The two major changes are in the areas of pay increases for county employees, and the amount of money allocated for school capital outlay projects.

Gray, in his initial recommendations, included a five per cent pay hike for all county employees. However, he said the salary recommendations were based on what the General Assembly was expected to do for State employees.

"As you are aware," he told the board later, "the Legislature has done more for State employees, and I would like to see the board do the same for county employees."

The budget, as tentatively approved, includes a seven per cent cost of living adjustment in wages, reflecting the average seven per cent hike approved for state employees.

As far as school capital outlay expenditures are concerned, Gray first recommended $102,000 for the county school unit while suggesting $45,978 be appropriated for the Greenville city unit.

As tentatively approved, the budget for the coming fiscal year includes some $475,318 in capital outlay funds for the county schools (including $262,396 in "pay-back" to the county for special funds appropriated for the city system for 1975-1976 when a major renovation of Third Street school and repairs to other buildings created an emergency situation), and

New Rule On Libel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a decision that could carry broad impact for the news media, ruled today that persons accused of crimes do not automatically have to prove "actual malice" to win a libel lawsuit.

The ruling could make reporters and their news organizations easier targets for libel lawsuits stemming from reporting based on public criminal records or open court proceedings.

In today's decision, the court voted "to reject the further contention ... that any person who engages in criminal conduct automatically becomes a public figure for purposes of comment on a limited range of issues relating to his conviction."

"To hold otherwise would create an 'open season' for all who sought to defame persons convicted of a crime," Justice William H. Rehnquist wrote for a six-member majority.

Reversing a federal appeals court ruling, the court revitalized the libel suit of an Arlington, Va., man who claims he was wrongly identified as a Soviet spy.

Driver Shot In Rocky Mount

MOUNT AIRY, N. C. (AP) — A truck driver was shot and wounded Monday night as he drove south along U. S. 52 north of Mount Airy, Surry County Sheriff Bill Hall said today.

Hall said the driver, 35-year-old James Potter of Leesburg, Va., was shot in the right arm shortly after he entered North Carolina from Virginia.

Potter was reported in satisfactory condition at Northern Surry Hospital in Mount Airy.

Hall said Potter had just entered the state when a shot went through the back window of the truck, passed through the sleeper section and hit Potter's right arm. The bullet then went through the front windshield of the truck, the sheriff said.

Meanwhile, crews for the state Department of Transportation were cleaning up nails that were strewn along U. S. 52 south of Mount Airy and along I-77 near the Virginia line early this morning.

A spokesman for the sheriff's office said many truck drivers and other motorists had flat tires this morning after running over the nails.

HAIRDRYER LIST?

I am wondering if you could publish in the paper a listing of the hairdryers that contain asbestos. J. M.

Hotline has obtained a Consumer Product Safety Commission bulletin published May 3, which contains "a partial list" of dryers that are believed to contain asbestos and dryers that are believed not to contain asbestos. "Where possible," the Commission states that it "is indicating the current policies of manufacturers and retailers regarding their products."

It is explained that "inclusion of a hair dryer model on this list does not represent a determination by the Commission of whether the model presents a health hazard."

Oil Pushes Inflation Rate Up 1.1%

By EILEEN ALT POWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Continued rapid increases in the price of gasoline and other petroleum products helped push consumer prices up 1.1 percent in May, the fourth straight monthly increase of 1 percent or more, the government said today.

Still, there was some moderation in food prices, which rose 0.7 percent last month. This led Labor Department economist Patrick Jackman to suggest that "the food situation, for the long run, is starting to look better."

Prices have been going up about 1 percent a month since the start of the year. A 0.9 percent rise in January was followed by increases of 1.2 percent in February, 1 percent in March and 1.1 percent in April. If consumer prices continue to rise for the next seven months at the same pace as the last five, the annual inflation rate would be 13.4 percent, Jackman said.

The Carter administration had hoped to hold price increases to about half that rate this year. An economic slowdown or even a recession could help retard the upward price spiral later this year, although economists expect any such decrease will be smaller than in previous recessions.

At the same time the Labor Department was releasing the Consumer Price Index for May, it released its monthly statistics on workers' earnings.

Average weekly earnings rose 0.2 percent in May, the report said. When adjusted for inflation, earnings were down 3.1 percent since May 1978.

Workers' spendable income — what is left after Social Security and income taxes are subtracted — was unchanged from April and when adjusted for inflation, was down 3.3 percent for the year.

Gasoline and fuel oil prices were the biggest culprits in the May inflation rise, the Labor Department said.

"Gasoline prices increased 5 percent in May, bringing the increase so far this year to an annual rate of 55.1 percent," the report said.

Home heating oil prices rose 5.3 percent. It was the fourth consecutive large increase and helped push the overall cost of housing up 1.2 percent in May. Jackman said the rise in petroleum products was responsible for one-fifth of the increase in consumer prices.

Food prices had been increasing at rates near 1 percent since December, so the May rise of 0.7 percent represented the first relief. The decline had been expected because of recent moderation of farm and wholesale food prices.

The Consumer Price Index stood in May at 214.1, meaning that a marketbasket of goods and services that cost consumers $100 in the 1967 base period cost $214.10 last month.

The Labor Department said the index was 10.8 percent higher than a year ago.

Heating Oil At Very Low Levels Fremont Has Water Shortage

By MARK POTTS
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's stockpiles of heating oil for the winter remain at unusually low levels and oil company executives say they may not be able to build them up enough to reach the government's target before winter.

The companies say they are trying to maintain a precarious balance to satisfy both gasoline and heating oil demand, but that producing enough heating oil may mean less gasoline this summer.

Against that background, a top federal official said Monday in Washington the government will take drastic steps if necessary to guarantee enough home heating oil this winter.

"We're not going to have homes go cold in New England," Deputy Energy Secretary John F. O'Leary told a Senate energy subcommittee. "We are prepared to take drastic action if it's indicated."

O'Leary said such drastic action could include limiting the sale of products such as gasoline and jet fuel.

Even without additional problems, heating oil supplies will be tight and prices may double from last winter's levels.

"Should we endure this gasoline situation and be prudent for winter or should we burn it all now and let tomorrow take care of itself?" asked Samuel Schwartz, senior vice president of Continental Oil Co., in an interview last week.

The nation's refineries cannot produce enough heating oil — one of the petroleum products known as distillates — during the winter months to meet demand. So distillates must be stockpiled from spring to fall to meet the expected winter demand.

The latest figures show distillate stocks at 128.5 million barrels, almost 24 million barrels below the inventories at this time last year. But the stocks are up from the 114 million-barrel level of March, the lowest point in four years.

The Energy Department concerned that heating oil supplies will fall short but also worried about being criticized for short gasoline supplies, has asked oil companies to step up refining of both products.

The companies, however, say tight supplies of crude oil — due to the Iranian crisis and a perplexing drop in domestic production last winter — are limiting production of all products.

"We're going flat out," said James H. DeNike, vice president for oil products of Shell Oil Co. in Houston.

The companies say they can handle the distillate problem and stretch gasoline supplies by continuing to limit the amount of gasoline they sell dealers under the monthly allocation system.

The Energy Department wants companies to build distillate stocks to 240 million barrels by Oct. 1, the earliest such a high figure has ever been reached.

The companies dispute that target and feel they can make it adequately through the winter if they can get stocks to 240 million barrels by November or December.

FREMONT, N.C. (AP) — When the Fremont Town and Country Swim Club pool was filled earlier this month, town officials discovered they had a problem.

The 110,000 gallons pumped into the pool almost emptied both of the town's water tanks, which together hold 168,000 gallons. The tanks failed to refill as fast as they should have.

"Our (water) situation is critical," said Mayor W.A. "Punk" Wooten. "And we realize even more what a precious commodity water is. We need to conserve every drop we can."

Wooten said workers in Fremont checked for leaks but found none that could account for the severe water shortage. The problem may be in the pumps, but that cannot be checked until the pumps are pulled from their operating stations.

"We need at least an eight-hour supply of water on hand before we can pull the pumps," Wooten said.

Fremont, located about 12 miles north of Goldsboro, has a population of about 1,800, and the town needs about 175,000 gallons of water a day for its customers, which include Acme United Corp., the town's largest water user.

A new deep well is planned, but town officials say that's not an immediate answer. A site will have to be approved by the state, bids let, and once the digging starts, the water will have to be purified.

In the meantime, the town is trying several things.

Dry ice will be dumped into one of the town's four wells to dislodge fungus or rust that may be stopping up the lines.

Residents have been asked not to wash cars or water lawns and to conserve water in every possible way.

"We can get by if we tighten our belts and cut down on the use of water. What the town does not need right now is a hot, dry spell," Wooten said.

If you need additional money for non-medical expenses in the event you were to have cancer in your family, call or write John T. McDonald, Jr., P.O. Box 188, Simpson, N.C. 27879 Telephone 752-6692 or 752-9929.

Farm Scene

By GAYLON AMBROSE
Associate Agricultural Extension Agent
First of a five-part series

The use of one or two applications of a contact-type sucker control chemical in the button stage followed by immediate topping is the cornerstone of successful topping and sucker control programs. The proper use of maleic hydrazide (MH) after suitable development of the upper leaves is also a must.

Numerous growers could benefit by the application of contact-type sucker control chemicals and topping earlier than they are currently doing, especially in view of the strong demand for good-bodied tobacco.

About 250 on-farm tests on topping and chemical sucker control methods have been conducted in the Crop Science Extension Tobacco Program at North Carolina State University during the past ten years. These tests, backed by grower experience, were used to develop a topping and sucker control program which has five basic steps. Timing is one of the key factors in this program.

STEP ONE — Apply a contact-type sucker control chemical before topping when about 50 percent of the plants have run up just past the button stage. A good indication that your timing is correct is when a few of the small or late plants are chemically topped by the contact-type material. At first, this seems to be rather harsh treatment, but it actually helps the overall quality of your crop. Normally the late plants would produce a lot of thin chaffy tobacco that would get mixed in with your good tobacco. By chemically topping the weak plants, the remaining ten to 12 leaves will develop some body. These leaves are less likely to reduce the general quality of your cured tobacco.

Contact-type chemicals should be sprayed on before the button is topped out. The button will help catch the spray solution and improve the chances of wetting the tiny suckers in the top leaf axils. The suckers must be wet for the contact chemical to kill them.

STEP TWO — Top the plants that are ready for topping immediately after application of the contact chemical. Just because topping is to be done with a machine, do not delay this job. There are many benefits from early topping.

Research has shown yields are increased about one percent per acre per day by topping in the button stage as compared to topping later. Early topping also stimulates root development and improves drought tolerance. And populations of certain insects are lowered because the eggs and larva of certain insects on floral parts of the plants and upper leaves are placed on the ground where survival is nil.

STEP THREE — Apply a second application of a contact sucker control chemical three to five days after the first application in fields that have irregular growth and flowering. Many fields of tobacco in recent years had enough irregular growth and flowering to justify a second application of a contact-type sucker control chemical. The second application should be relatively soon after the first to help control the suckers missed by the first application. If you wait longer than five days to make the second application, the larger suckers missed during the first application probably will continue to grow. The timing of the second application is extremely important.

STEP FOUR — Top the remaining plants that were not topped after the first contact was applied.

STEP FIVE — Apply MH about seven days after the last contact application and preferably in the morning about two days after a rain or irrigation. The use of a contact type chemical earlier make it possible for one to select a time to apply the MH when it will be absorbed. Tobacco leaves absorb MH best when they are turgid or flexed up which is associated with ample soil moisture for the plant to be in a state of growth. MH applied under dry weather conditions is only partially absorbed.

The suggested topping and sucker control program is designed to handle a crop that has a reasonable rate of nitrogen fertilizer. Excess nitrogen encourages sucker growth that is difficult to control. Also, the tobacco is rank, ripens slowly and usually cures into poor quality leaf.

4-H Holds Horsemanship Camp

By JIMMY TART
Extension 4-H Youth Editor
ELLERBE — Youngsters have always gone to camp and taken such things as their favorite stuffed animals and ball gloves, but there's a camp near here where they can take their horses.

Youngsters pack their bags, load their horses and travel as far as 250 miles to spend six days at Millstone 4-H Camp.

Two sessions are held each June. Since the first 4-H Horsemanship Camp nine years ago, it has been filled with 4-H members and their volunteer leaders.

"This is the first year we've had a waiting list," explains Dr. Tom Leonard, extension horse specialist at North Carolina State University.

"The 4-H Horsemanship Camp is basically a learn-by-doing experience," said Leonard. "Kids come here to learn to ride but they're graded on such things as stable management and horse care."

The campers go on a three-hour trail ride once during the week but other than that, there's no pleasure riding.

Youngsters receive three hours of riding instruction each day and attend workshops and clinics to learn more about stable management, horse health, handling and training, conformation, showmanship, grooming, equipment and judging.

"We set aside some time for individual help whether it's for a problem horse or for the camper," Leonard noted.

In addition to Leonard, instructors include Dr. Robert Behlow, extension veterinarian, and Dr. John Cornwell, extension animal husbandry specialist, and advanced pre-vet and animal science college students.

The 100 youngsters, mostly ages nine to 14, pay $65 for food, lodging, insurance, program activities and stall fees. About eight volunteer adult leaders are selected to attend each session. Each camper brings a horse, feed and equipment.

It's the kind of camp that youngsters and volunteer leaders come back to.

Couple Weds Sunday In Double Ring Ceremony

WASHINGTON — Ware's Chapel United Methodist Church here was the scene of the Saturday wedding ceremony of Gail Elizabeth Cherry and Douglas Corey Smith. The double ring ceremony was performed at 7 p.m. by the Rev. Robert Randall.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lee Cherry, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown of seaspay chiffon designed with a fitted bodice featuring asymmetrical overlapping layers of chiffon. The waistline was encircled with seaspay satin ribbon styled with a side Dior bow. The modified A-line skirt was styled in tulip layers of chiffon and the sleeveless gown was complemented by a sheer chiffon drape which featured a rolled chiffon collar that extended to fingertip length in back. She wore a tiered illusion veil in matching seaspay accented by a Dior bow of satin with long streamers trimmed in florettes of silk flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Leslie Smith of Rt. 3, Greenville, are parents of the bridegroom. His father was best man. Ushers included Ronald Smith of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, and Hank Cherry of Washington, brother of the bride.

Donna C. Hosey of Washington, sister of the bride, was honor attendant. She wore a full length gown of jasmine yellow magic knit. The neckline was accented with crocheted lace and the bodice featured an empire with symmetrical bows of self-fabric. She wore a brimmed hat with satin ribbon and silk flowers and carried a yellow single mum with greenery and satin ribbon.

The mother of the bride wore a formal gown of Nile green magic knit with the bodice overlaid in a sunburst of accordion pleats of sheer chiffon. The mother of the bridegroom selected a formal gown of cotton blue magic knit designed with an empire bodice overlaid with chantilly lace.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Iris Lilley of Washington, organist, and Alice Ward Sapp of Chesapeake, Va., aunt of the bride, soloist.

The bride is a graduate of ECU and is manager of medical records, Pitt County Memorial Hospital. The bridegroom is a graduate of Appalachian State University and is a loan officer, Production Credit Association, Greenville.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The area was decorated with ivy, white wedding bells, magnolia leaves and flower arrangements of yellow and white gladioli and shasta daisies.

The bride's table held an antique silver candelabra with an arrangement of gladioli and daisies. Mrs. Ellen Peel of Washington, aunt of the bride, served cake, and Mrs. Ernest

MRS. DOUGLAS COREY SMITH

Avery of Greenville, aunt of the bridegroom, poured punch.

Mrs. Cindy Smith, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was mistress of ceremony.

The couple will live in Greenville after a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va.

Barber-Clark Vows Solemnized Sunday

Ballard's Community Baptist Church was the scene of the Sunday afternoon wedding ceremony of Tammy Dawn Clark and Tony Gray Barber.

The Rev. Al Davis performed the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Terri Nelson, cousin of the bride, pianist, and Johnny Nelson, vocalist.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Kenneth Clark of Greenville, the bride was given in marriage by her parents. Her aunt, Enda Bielby, of Greenville was honor attendant. The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers included Dean Harrell and Randy Goff of Greenville, cousins of the bridegroom.

The bride wore a formal length gown of white point de sprit over peau de soie designed with an open V-neckline outlined in ruffled chantilly lace that extended to the waistline which was encircled with white satin ribbon with a Dior bow with streamers at the side. The skirt was enhanced by a peplum flounce edged in chantilly lace and featuring a ruffled flounce at the hemline edged in matching chantilly lace.

The attendant wore a floor length gown of pink dotted swiss. The bride's mother wore a mint green polyester dress and the mother of the bridegroom selected an aqua chiffon. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

For some reason, Americans cannot work up a scrap of compassion for (a) a Mercedes with a flat tire, (b) a price increase in polo scorecards, (c) the woman who holds down the homefront while her husband travels.

The first two I could understand, but why pick on a woman who is bravely shouldering the responsibilities of both mother and father? The women assure me it is true. A friend of mine kept a log of her week just to prove a point.

On Monday, she went to a parent-teacher conference alone to be told her son stole paper towels from the restroom (the girls'), wrote an obscene word in the dust on Mr. Gripper's car, and was flunking lunch. She said her husband travelled a lot and the teacher said she should be glad he was working.

On Tuesday, the dog got hit by a motorcycle, the house payment got lost in the mail and her daughter tried to crush a tin can with her hand like the bionic woman and required a tetanus shot. She told the doctor her husband travelled a lot and he said she was lucky she had a car.

On Wednesday, the television set blew a tube, the car developed a wheeze and she had to cancel a night out with the girls. Her mother-in-law said, "Be thankful you have the children."

On Thursday, as she was making a left-handed turn in her VW Rabbit, a car plowed into the back of her. As she sat there crying softly, "The rabbit died..." a police officer stuck his head in the window and said, "You're lucky, lady. Nobody got hurt."

On Friday at the supermarket, so bored she was carrying on a conversation with a broom display, she went through the mechanics of shopping — lashing one kid to the basket, getting another out of the bean display where he "found" a hole in a bag of pintos, and on finding the third had eaten an unknown amount of fruit, offering to weigh him and anything over 53 pounds, pay the difference. The checkout girl in noting all the convenience foods said, "You're lucky to have your husband gone a lot. At least, you don't have to cook big meals."

On Saturday, she car-pooled it to Little League, two haircuts, one dentist appointment, baton twirling lessons, the cleaners, the post office, and a birthday party. As she pulled in at dusk, a neighbor yelled over the fence, "You're lucky. At least you get out of the house."

On Sunday, she dragged the brood to church. As she extended a limp hand to the minister, he said, "Glad to see you. At least coming to church gets rid of the kids for an hour. Incidentally, if you sleep during the sermon, I'll understand."

He was the only one who did.

Waiving Limits Could Help

In addition to the difficulty in obtaining fuel on the roads, and the high cost of it, independent truckers have also complained about varying weight limits from state-to-state.

The matter is of enough concern that North Carolina's Gov. Hunt appealed to governors of five other states to waive weight limits for tractor-trailers.

Last week the Federal Highway Administration had requested the governors of nine states to temporarily suspend weight limits.

North Carolina's weight limit is at 80,000 pounds, the maximum allowed by federal regulations.

The matter is of particular concern to our state because the large cucumber crop is rapidly spoiling in the fields. Other crops, such as bell peppers, are also being affected.

For the truck operator, the problem is he can start out legally loaded in a given state, only to find he is over the legal limit when he crosses a state line. This is a confusing situation, of course, but the limited payload also cuts the profit for the trucker and requires more fuel.

It is an area that requires study, but it is clear that some sort of uniform weight limit system needs to be worked out. In the meantime, suspending the weight limit by the states now under the federal maximum might get the trucks rolling and save many farmers from financial disaster.

Career Suicide For London Union

A printers union, on strike for seven months in London, has discovered the stark reality that "The Times" and "The Sunday Times" might not resume, and their jobs could be gone.

Union representatives said their members have

It's another case of destroying the village in order to save it. It's unthinkable to us that workers can agree to commit job suicide . . . and yet it does happen.

A Far Reaching Review

RALEIGH — Perhaps the most concise yet far-reaching critical review of North Carolina's justice system was written last year by J. Phil Carlton, now appointed to the North Carolina Supreme Court.

In 1977, Carlton became the first secretary of the Department of Crime Control and Public Safety and first chairman of the Governor's Crime Commission — both agencies created by action of the General Assembly at the urging of Gov. Jim Hunt.

There was considerable puzzlement at the time why the secretary of that agency — a man put there by his close, personal friend, the governor — would criss-cross the state personally conducting a series of 37 public hearings.

And then, last December, there appeared "A Crime Control Agenda for North Carolina," a 562-page book setting forth "a comprehensive crime control report to the governor and the 1979 General Assembly — and matters to consider in the future."

Surprisingly, the careful reader finds Carlton's language and thoughts permeate the book. Inquiry shows that he, in fact, authored most of the material himself.

Experience

The report is premised on those public hearings, but also draws upon Carlton's 12 years as a District Court Judge, his training as a lawyer, and his original thoughts about crime and justice.

It was widely believed that when Hunt moved Carlton from the crime agency to the Appeals Court that the Pinetops native was on his way to becoming chief justice of the Supreme Court. That path was — perhaps temporarily — abandoned when political repercussions threatened at such a departure from traditional appointment of the senior justice.

It is known that Carlton wanted to become an activist, reformist judicial leader to correct some of the shortcomings which he did not hesitate to describe in detail in his "Agenda..." and which even at the time of his appointment to the high court he continues to bring to public attention.

In his introduction to "The Court System" Carlton summed up this way:

"North Carolina has probably made as much progress in developing a modern court system during the past 15 years as any state in the nation. We have one of the few unified statewide systems in the country. Structurally, we doubt that any state can devise a better system.

BILL NOBLITT

"But the people of North Carolina are not satisfied with their court system, nor should they be.

"They see trials delayed for months after arrest, the time of jurors, victims, and witnesses wasted for hours and days, serious felony charges reduced to misdemeanors, sentences they consider too harsh in some cases and too lenient in others, disparity in sentences throughout the system... Trouble

"They see arrogant attitudes on the part of some court personnel who forget that the courts belong to the people, resistance by some court personnel to any recommendation that deviates from the traditional way, cases continued time after time again because the lawyer could not be present in court, defendants charged with serious offenses out on bail in hours and back on the street committing other crimes while awaiting trial, the names on ballots of candidates for trial and appellate judgeships about whose qualifications they know nothing... and more."

The system needs improving, and "it always will," Carlton found, and suggested a number of actions and study recommendations for consideration now and in coming years.

Among those ideas: merit selection and retention of judges, a fair sentencing system, career district attorneys to stop training prosecutors to become defense attorneys, removal of traffic cases from criminal dockets, training of judges, reform of the jury system, etc.

Worries For Older Citizens

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

America is getting older and the growing number of people who retire each year are finding that their dreams of a life of relaxation can turn into a nightmare of financial worries.

The number of people 65 and over is expected to increase by about 33 percent between 1972 and 1990, according to the Census Bureau. That compares with an anticipated increase of 28 percent in the population as a whole and it has focused new attention on retirees.

Knowing what to expect can be the key to successful retirement. Ideally, you should start planning when still in your 40s.

For most people, retirement means a sharp drop in income. But economists at Citibank in New York point out that it also can mean a drop in spending. Income taxes are lower. Commuting expenses may disappear. Clothing needs change.

Using the latest available Labor Department figures, Citibank compared budgets for working and retired families.

It found that the average U.S. working family spent 31.1 percent of its money on food, 28.2 percent on housing, 10.6 percent on transportation, 7.2 percent on medical care, 9.2 percent on clothing, 8.2 percent on personal care and other expenses and 5.5 percent on miscellaneous items like gifts.

The retired couple spent proportionally less on transportation, food, clothing and personal care, but proportionally more on housing, medical care and miscellaneous.

As a general rule, you will need approximately 70 percent of your after-tax, pre-retirement earnings to maintain your standard of living during your first year of retirement.

You will have to increase your income in successive years to cover inflation and those increases can add up

Questions On New Law

By WILLIAM M. WELCH
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — When the Senate adjourned this month in a fit of pique with the House, it threw into question a comprehensive new ethics law proposal for legislators and others in state government.

The Senate acted just moments before it surprised the House by adjourning without the traditional joint ceremony. It withdrew a resolution it had already passed, which would have permitted an ethics bill to be considered during the short, 1980 legislative session.

Many have called for a new ethics statute because the existing law covering legislators is so ridden with loopholes. Although there is a provision for censuring legislators, it's never been carried through, and legislators really face only their own conscience when there is a financial interest at stake in their vote.

Common Cause, the public interest group, has made passage of a new ethics bill its top priority in North Carolina. Its proposal would set up an independent commission to review complaints about legislators and would also replace the executive ethics act ordered by Gov. Jim Hunt to cover state government policy-makers.

House Speaker Carl Stewart named a select committee to come up with such a bill this year. The committee had not by session's end, and that was why the panel asked for the resolution — to gain more time and a chance in next year's budget session.

"I think there are a great many more conflicts in voting than are being recognized," Stewart says. "If we had a group handing down advisory opinions, we would be greatly restricted in our voting."

"It seems to me if you are a director of a bank, you do have a built-in conflict when you're voting on banking and interest matters," he added.

Such conflicts of interest were recorded throughout the legislative session. It may have contributed to the conclusion, reached by even Hunt, that special interests had a field day in the 1979 General Assembly.

In banking, for instance, 11 of the 14 members of the Senate Banking Committee appointed by Lt. Gov. Jimmy Green were officers, directors or held significant amounts of stock in banks or savings and loans. The comparable House committee appointed by Stewart had nine of 25 members with such financial ties.

"I think the (current) statute has been more honored in its abuse than in its compliance," acknowledges Stewart.

Also evidence of its ineffectiveness was the few number of times when legislators refrained from voting. In the House and Senate, few insurance agents avoided the major insurance bills; few teachers avoided voting on a pay raise for themselves; few lawyers avoided bills dealing with legal judgments.

"I think there's definitely some conflicts of interest," said Senate majority leader Craig Lawing, D-Mecklenburg. "People on banking committees have interest in banks. But there's not much you do up there without half the people having a conflict of interest... Most of the people up there have interest in a bank."

Under the ethics law written four years ago, a joint House and Senate committee is established to hear complaints. This year was the Senate's turn to head the committee, and Lawing was named chairman by Green.

But the committee never met. In fact, Green didn't even appoint the four other Senate committee members until May 23, two weeks before the session adjourned.

The only case that committee has ever considered was Asheville Rep. Claude DeBruhl in 1977, when he was accused of conflicts in running a state-funded farm for alcoholics. The panel found no wrongdoing, but DeBruhl was defeated at the polls the next year.

Common Cause state director Donna Jones says her group wants that committee replaced with another

40 Years Ago Today

June 26, 1939

More than 75 incoming Lions Club officials, including presidents, secretaries and committee chairmen from 20 clubs of District 31-C of the international association, embracing the eastern third of North Carolina, assembled for an unofficial meeting in the Greenville Woman's Club at 2 p.m.

Neil Hester, Raleigh newspaper editor, who is district governor elect of the district, said the session, which lasted about two hours, was for the purpose of familiarizing the Lions of the district with objectives to be followed during the ensuing year and to acquaint the new officers with each other.

Three deputy district governors, along with several zone chairmen, were in attendance. The deputy governors were C.T. Bowers of Warren, W.A. Taylor of Plymouth and J.H. Parker of Clinton.

All Lions clubs in the district will not begin an official new year until July 1. Incumbents will hold their offices until that time.

THE INSIDE REPORT

Carter Astonished JCS

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — President Carter's claim that the Joint Chiefs of Staff "will testify for" the new strategic arms treaty (SALT II) before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee astonished the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

"We were flabbergasted," one of the five chiefs commented privately the day after Carter's Monday evening televised speech to a joint session of Congress.

What "flabbergasted" the chiefs, led by Air Force Gen. David C. Jones, the chairman, was that Carter apparently had misunderstood them when he asked their opinion on the treaty the day before he left for the Vienna summit with Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev. Either that or the president, deliberately boxing them in, listed them as supporters of SALT II while knowing they had not committed themselves.

In plain fact, the chiefs do not even agree with each other on SALT II. Like most other Americans, they split according to hawkish, dovish and in-between opinions. What they told Carter in that last session before the Vienna summit was that each would testify on his own during Senate hearings scheduled to start next month. They will not present a "collegiate"

Other Editors Say With Dull Knife

Wilson Daily Times

It has been more than a quarter century since the Hoover Commissions on reorganization of the federal government offered recommendations for paring the bureaucracy. And, the few economies which were adopted as a result have been long since lost in governmental growth.

Recognizing the overdue need for a similar effort, President Carter promised to eliminate any federal agencies that no longer serve a purpose. After a year, the administration's management and budget chief sent to Congress a list of superfluous government agencies. Included were:

- The Low-Emission Vehicle Certification Board, which couldn't find a pollution-free vehicle to certify.
- The U.S. Marine Corps Memorial Commission, which completed its work 20 years ago.
- The Annual Assay Commission, jobless since the Coinage Act of 1965 cut off use of precious metals in coins.

Elimination of the three small and generally unknown panels would save the taxpayers an estimated $100,000 annually. Perhaps we should be grateful for even small gestures of economy, but it appears the administration is using an extremely dull knife in its attempts to whittle the federal bureaucracy.

Strength For Today

FIRST THINGS FIRST

"He thinks the world owes him a living". This is a judgment always indicating contempt for the person against whom it is directed. But in a slightly different context the statement can apply to most of us at some periods of our lives. We frequently assume that God is under obligation to keep us happy. If He does not do this, we feel that He has let us down. Then we begin to wonder how we can have faith in a God who behaves in this unfeeling manner.

But the experience of the human race and the testimony of the word of God is that life is a struggle. God has put us on this planet for a purpose, and it appears that this purpose is to prepare ourselves for a greater life after death. We are here to learn how to grow souls. Happiness is fine, and let us hope that we shall all have some measure of it. But it is not, and never has been the end and purpose of life.

Will Industry Commit Itself?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The slack that develops in consumer spending will be picked up by a rise in corporate expenditures for plant and equipment, thereby reducing the threat of recession.

It's the cushion that will soften the economy's fall, that will give it bounce when it most needs it.

That's the optimist's view, and it is one of the few arguments of its type that has enjoyed a modicum of acceptance, though guarded, among analysts whose perspective generally has been glum.

But now the doubts are growing, particularly after weak April and May retail sales. The big question analysts now are asking is this: Will industry be willing to commit itself before those sales rise again?

That question is always a legitimate one, even in relatively stable times. And recent history shows that industry has answered it without much vigor. It has been hesitant to spend without assurance of sales.

Those sales, of course never can be guaranteed, but in earlier times one could at least make reasonable projections. Now there is far less certainty. What will the price of oil be? Is inflation manageable?

In fact, the worries go far deeper than these questions.

Businessmen today must worry not simply over what track the economy is in, which makes forecasting rather easy, but whether the economy's is on a brand new track taking it in a direction they don't understand.

William Wolman, Business Week economist, comments that in recent years energy and price uncertainty may have "anesthetized" the business community's willingness to risk spending in advance of market growth.

And now, with those uncertainties so pronounced, he suggests, it is unreal to expect a change of attitude. Capital spending won't turn consistently strong, he says, until energy supplies are assured.

But before the optimists can convert even that somber assessment into something encouraging, Wolman adds: "And if you can believe that will happen soon, you can believe in the tooth fairy."

Merrill Lynch's Alexander Blanton agrees that the optimists are hoping more than analyzing. While capital spending has shown some strength, Blanton points out that the rate of gain is slowing.

He prefaces his analysis by observing that "Recent articles in widely-read business periodicals have said that capital spending by business is strengthening and that the rate of increase is accelerating."

YOUR DAILY Horoscope

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Although all day is excellent for considering how you can make a greater success of your life, it is best to get an early start to realize the fullest possible potential. Let those who are able to help be aware of your greatest potentials and abilities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Consider a new system for getting your talents working more efficiently. Meet with good friends late in the day for entertainment you like.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Come to the right decisions with kin about home and money affairs and the future is easier for all. Good time for entertaining at home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Talk over with outsiders those new ideas and plans you have and gain their cooperation to make them work. Bring your finest talents to the fore. Take no risks where money is concerned.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study your monetary status and decide how best to improve it. A new project you are working on can bring excellent benefits.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use good judgment in taking care of personal affairs. Make plans for future social affairs and contact the right people. Pay bills on time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Good time to gain the cooperation of others for whatever is most important to you. Schedule your time and activities early and then full speed ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get in touch with an influential friend and talk over an important deal. Gain the advice and backing you need. Attend a formal social function that can bring you benefits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Have a talk with a bigwig and show you are willing to follow suggestions. Outside activities can bring you fine benefits now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have inspiring ideas now, so put them in operation early in the day and get good results. New contacts can prove to be most helpful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find the right method for handling promises and gain the goodwill of others. A loved one views you from a more favorable light now, so make the most of this.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A special thought for associates brings fine benefits at this time. Add to prestige via civic involvement that can also be helpful to others. Take time for recreation in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Update your present system for getting work done and make it easier and more profitable. Strive for more harmony with fellow workers.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will learn his or her lessons very early in life and also have an understanding of public matters and will be patriotic. Give as fine an academic education as you can and this will be a most successful life.

ahead of California Gov. Edmund G. (Jerry) Brown almost 2-to-1.

But the bad news for the Carter White House was Carter's weakness, not Kennedy's strength. Asked whether they would vote to re-elect Jimmy Carter president (no opponent named), only 22 percent of all respondents said "yes" — 62 percent said "no." Carter did not gain a plurality in responses to that question, even from Democratic voters alone — or more surprisingly, from Virginia's black voters. He lost among Democrats by 43 to 39 percent; among blacks by 44 to 41 percent.

The Worm Turns
Only a few months after his policies led to the forced resignations of several hundred officers considered by some intelligence experts to have been the CIA's best, retired Adm. Stansfield Turner has ordered a recruiting campaign that, among other gimmicks, is based on solicitations for help to those very same ousted agents.

Turner's director of personnel, Harry E. Fitzwater, mailed scores of letters last month seeking aid. "As you are aware," he wrote, "recent years have seen a number of retirements from the (Central Intelligence) Agency in the operations area. This has resulted in a need for larger numbers of career trainees during the next few years."

In short, having depleted

Nab Three For Shooting Cops

BARNWELL, S.C. (AP) — A 16-hour search by police from nine law enforcement agencies ended when bloodhounds flushed out three heavily armed men suspected of shooting two Blackville policemen, authorities said.

David Leroy Eamond, Donald Hallock and Thomas Michael Shaw carried several high-powered rifles and handguns when they were apprehended in a wooded area of Barnwell County Monday evening, State Law Enforcement Division spokesman Hugh Munn said.

Munn said Eamond and Hallock had tried to double back on agents who were tracking them. The men "ran smack into the SWAT team" and surrendered without resisting, Munn said.

Bloodhounds found Shaw hiding under kudzu vines a short while later, Munn said. Munn said early today that the ranks of the all-important operations agents by forced "retirements." Turner is unable to refill those ranks. One retired officer expressed the prevailing mood in a confidential letter to a former CIA director. "If this isn't chutzpa I don't know what it is," he wrote. "First the agency cuts itself to ribbons and lowers morale to the point where even middle-level officers leave because they see no future in current personnel policies, and then the agency looks for help among those it maligned."

all three would be charged with assault and battery with intent to kill, assault on a police officer, kidnapping and armed robbery.

The assault charges stemmed from an incident in which Blackville police officers Pat Stroman, 39, and Henry King, 31, were shot when persons in two vehicles they had stopped for speeding early Monday caught them in a crossfire of shots.

Stroman was in critical but stable condition Monday night after a bullet entered under his left eye and lodged in his head. King was hospitalized for a gunshot wound in the arm and for cuts on his upper body, apparently from gunfire-shattered glass.

Shaw, 29, of Greenville, escaped in April from the Lee County Jail, where he was serving a sentence for armed robbery, Munn said. Eamond, 30, of Charleston, has a criminal record but apparently was not an escapee, the SLED spokesman said.

Authorities believed Hallock escaped from a federal prison in Atlanta while serving a term for bank robbery, Munn said. The FBI had been called in to investigate Hallock's background, he said.

The kidnapping and armed robbery charges resulted from an incident in which two men handcuffed a Charleston man to a tree and stole his car, Munn said.

Two cars believed used by the suspects were found at different locations Monday morning, Munn said.

Here is an account of the Barnwell County shootings, pieced together from accounts of different policemen and from evidence:

Shortly after 3 a.m., King and Stroman, partners in a squad car, had just finished writing a traffic ticket to a motorist when two cars sped by. King said the first was driving in the lane left of the center line and failed to dim its lights. The officers pursued the cars on U.S. 78, between them and turned on its flashing blue light. The cars stopped about a mile west of Blackville and Stroman got out first, King said.

Stroman was shot by someone in the first car, according to King, who said he then got out of the squad car, pulled his pistol and was also shot. King said occupants of both cars were shooting at him.

Five minutes after King radioed for help, Blackville Police Chief Judson Gantt arrived at the scene.

Munn said the suspects abandoned one of the cars on some railroad tracks and fled in the second car.

Just before 4 a.m., Snelling's lone police officer gave chase to a car that drove through the town at a high rate of speed.

Named To Chief Position

The daughter of a Greenville woman was recently promoted to a branch chief position in the Logistics Directorate of the U.S. Army Communications Systems Agency/Project Manager DCS Communications Systems.

Ms. Mary Pinkett, who resides at Ocean, N.J., was named chief of the Communications Systems Agency's Materiel Readiness Branch of the Logistics Directorate.

As one of six branch chiefs in the directorate, Ms. Pinkett will supervise 16 military and civilian employees. Her branch, it was noted, plans and develops logistics management programs for Defense Department and Army communications systems and equipment.

The civilian branch chief is the daughter of Mrs. Bettie D. Mitchell of Greenville. She attended William Penn Business School in Philadelphia and holds memberships in the International Toastmistress Club, National Organization for Women, Federally Employed Women Inc., and the Society of Logistics Engineers.

quickly. Action for Independent Maturity, founded by the American Association of Retired Persons to help people plan for the future, calculated the amount of money needed by someone who retires now with an annual income of $10,000 and wants to keep pace with a 6 percent rate of inflation — relatively modest by current standards.

The experts found that by the end of the 10th year, the retiree who started with $10,000 would need nearly $18,000, just to stay even.

An AIM guide to retirement is available, at no charge, from 1909 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C., 20049. It includes information on financial planning, housing and legal decisions.

Your two basic sources of retirement income probably will be Social Security and a pension. It is important to find out exactly what you are entitled to and what you have to do to get it. Mistakes can happen — clerical or computer errors, for example — and they can cost you money. Contact your local Social Security office to find out about benefits and write the Consumer Information Center, Dept. 545G, Pueblo, Colo., 81009, for a free copy of "Pension and Welfare Law: What You Should Know," to learn how the Employee Retirement Income Security Act protects you.

panel that does not have a majority of legislators. An independent group, she reasons, would be freer to point out conflicts of interest among powerful legislators.

"There's an obvious reluctance among legislators to come down on each other," she says.

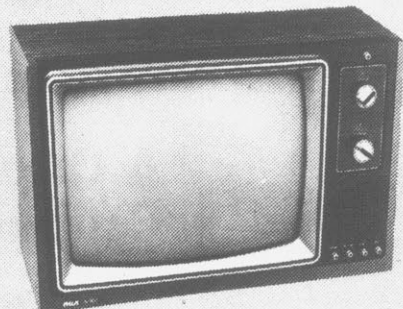

The Senate's last-minute trick with the ethics resolution does not dash hopes for new legislation next year, however.

If Stewart supports such a measure as strongly as he now says he will, he could likely get it through the House while speaker. And if he runs for lieutenant governor, as he plans, and wins the spring primary, he would also have much influence in the Senate.

Green, who may also seek re-election, is not seen as a friend of the legislation. His end-of-session comment that "vultures" in the press were making public service unattractive by demanding candidates make financial disclosures underscores that view.

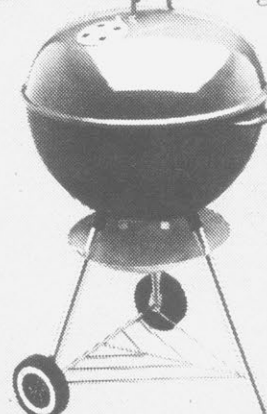

French aviators used to carry bricks in their airplanes during World War I and would throw them at the enemy's propellers in close combat.

Wachovia Bank is relocating its Dickinson Avenue office to a new office, at 102 Stantonsburg Road. And to celebrate our move, we're having a Grand Opening, June 11 to 29, when you can come by the new office during banking hours and see our new building. We're open Monday through Thursday from 9 to 5, and on Friday from 9 to 6. And what's even better, you can register for one of three great prizes that will make your summer the best ever.

First Prize An RCA 19" color TV. This Glenrich XL-100 gives a brilliant color performance in a compact table model, has a 100% solid state XtendedLife chassis, and features RCA's new Super AccuLine picture tube. A reliable set designed for low power consumption, high efficiency, and long life. So you can see those great baseball games, summer movies, or spectacular sports events, all in beautiful color.
Second Prize A Weber Bar-B-Q grill. A large, sturdy kettle grill that smokes your food while it cooks it, so you get the kind of delicious flavor you love. For backyard cook-outs. For family picnics. Even the beach. Definitely for summertime eating fun.

Third Prize An authentic Hatteras Hammock. To relax in during those long summer afternoons. Guaranteed to make the summer swing comfortably, lazily by. Wachovia Bank's new Medical Park office will be looking for you during the Grand Opening, June 11-29. Drop by and meet Personal Bankers Ray Rogers & Sue Grady, and see our new office: it has a drive-in window, more safe deposit boxes, and more parking spaces. And don't forget to register for these great prizes to be given away at 5 p. m. on June 29. You do not have to be present to win. And have a great summer, from your friends — at Wachovia.

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced slightly today, undeterred by energy worries and more bad news on inflation.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.38 at 845.63.

Gainers held a 3-2 lead over losers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The government reported this morning that the consumer price index rose 1.1 percent last month, maintaining a double-digit annual pace in the rise of the cost of living.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, meanwhile, was meeting in Geneva to decide on a new oil price increase.

Analysts said such negative news seemed to be overridden by spreading expectations of an economic slowdown, and an accompanying decline in interest rates.

We're pointing out the inadequacy of most home insurance. Before a thief does.

The color TV in our picture cost $350 when new. Most homeowners' policies would give only $150 for it today — enough for a black-and-white set. Aetna's new Homeowners Contents Replacement Cost Coverage would give the owner a brand new color TV — about $450. Because our new coverage replaces old contents for new up to 400% of their current cash value! The additional amount this new coverage pays can provide thousands of dollars in added protection. But it costs only a little more. Do you want the best home-owners coverage you can buy? Give us a call and ask about Contents Replacement Cost Coverage. We'll be glad to call on you. ## Elvis' Dad Dead

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Vernon Presley, father of the late Elvis Presley, died this morning in a Memphis hospital, Shelby County Mayor Bill Morris said.

Presley, 63, a Mississippi sharecropper who moved his family to Memphis more than 30 years ago searching for a better life, entered Baptist Hospital on May 29 after complaining of an irregular heart beat. It was the third time in seven months he had been hospitalized with a heart problem.

His son, Elvis, died of heart failure 20 months ago, and Vernon was the executor of his estate.

A diabetic, Presley was admitted for an eight-day stay in October after complaining of dizziness and a rapid heartbeat while working at his office at Graceland, his late son's estate.

He was hospitalized from Jan. 15 to Feb. 17 after a flare-up of the heart problem.

In addressing the business group, Blumenthal underscored the universal energy worries that promise to dominate the economic summit.

Because of oil price hikes and shortages, Blumenthal said, "all countries are agreed that intolerable strains are being placed on the world economy and that something must be done about it."

As Carter strolled through the lush gardens of the villa where he met Ohira, he expressed confidence that the economic summit Thursday and Friday will produce a consensus plan to deal with increasingly costly and scarce oil supplies.

"It will have to be a seven-nation plan," Carter said, discouraging the idea that he and Ohira would gang up against France, Britain, West Germany, Italy and Canada at the summit.

Both Carter and Ohira said the United States and Japan are not developing a common position on oil, but will seek a broad agreement among

Mack, Maynor Chosen Early

By The Associated Press
Dudley Bradley probably thinks 13 is a pretty lucky number.

Monday, the North Carolina basketball bandit was the 13th player chosen in the National Basketball Association draft and will go to the Indiana Pacers.

For Jim Spanarkel of Duke, the lucky number was 16, and he'll play for the Philadelphia 76ers.

But for both, the real lucky number was one — both were the first players chosen by their respective new teams.

"I felt it was a real honor to be the first player chosen from the ACC," said Bradley.

"We think he's the best defensive player to come out of college this year and maybe in a long time," said Lee Daniel, Indiana's publicity director. At 6-foot-6, "we think he can play both guard and forward ..."

Bradley spent the afternoon in Chapel Hill making calls from the office of North Carolina coach Dean Smith, answering the same questions over and over again. It took him more than three hours to return calls from the media, not to mention those of friends and admirers.

Spanarkel wasn't returning calls. He sat with his parents in their Jersey City, N.J., home. The phone rang a little after noon, when he was informed he was Philadelphia's top choice.

"So many people told me I was going here or there. There were so many theories on it that I just blocked them out of my mind," said Spanarkel, the 6-5 guard who is Duke's all-time leading scorer.

"I was hoping to go in the first round and to be honest I was hoping to be chosen by a cataway, N.J., while their new arena is being built in the New Jersey meadowlands just 10 miles from Gerdy's home in Little Falls.

"You always have that dream and ambition to play professionally before all your friends, so I couldn't be happier," said Gerdy, named earlier this week as Southern Conference athlete of the year.

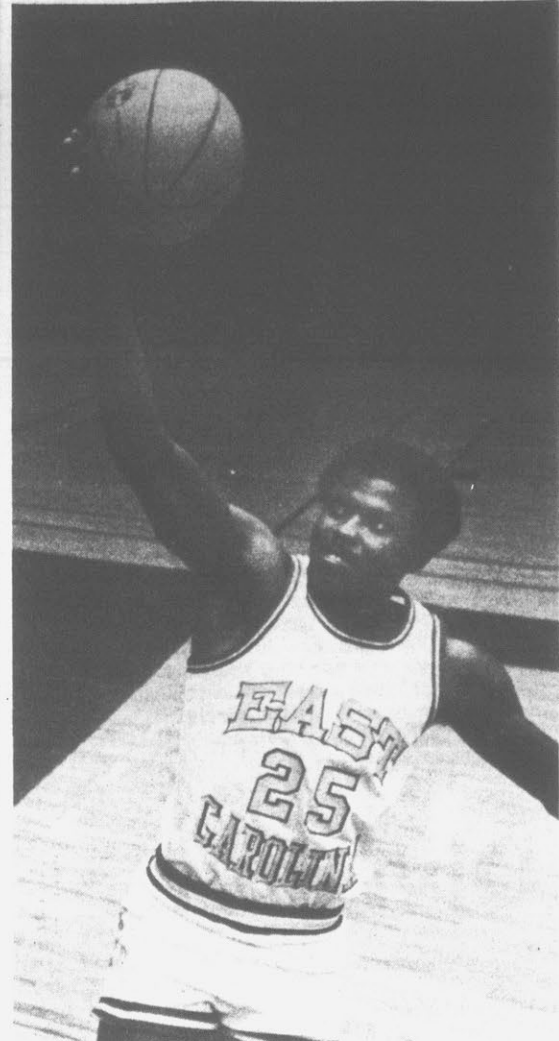

Oliver Mack of East Carolina was the third pick in the second round and will go to the Los Angeles Lakers. His teammate George Maynor was chosen by the Chicago Bulls in the fourth round.

Darryl Robinson of Appalachian State went to Portland in the fourth round and Tiny Pinder of North Carolina State was picked by Atlanta in the fifth. San Diego took Bob Bender of Duke and Atlanta picked Dwight Williams of Gardner-Webb in the sixth round.

North Carolina State teammates Glenn Sudhoo (Boston) and Tony Warren (Chicago) went in the eighth round.

Calvin Natt Leads Southeast Players

By The Associated Press
Calvin Natt became the first player selected from the Southeast when he was chosen by the New Jersey Nets in the first round of the National Basketball Association college draft Monday.

Natt, a 6-foot-5 forward, is Northeast Louisiana's all-time leading scorer with 2,581 career points. He was the eighth player chosen in the opening round.

Other players from the Southeast selected in the first round were Dudley Bradley of North Carolina, by Indiana; Reggie King of Alabama, by Kansas City; Wiley Peck of Mississippi State, by San Antonio; and Kyle Macy of Kentucky, by Phoenix. King was recently named Southeastern Athlete of the Year. The 6-foot-6 forward is Alabama's all-time leading scorer.

Second round picks from the Southeast were Tico Brown of Georgia Tech, by Utah; Oliver Mack of East Carolina, by Los Angeles; James Bradley of Memphis State, by Atlanta; Larry Wilson of Nicholls State, by Atlanta from Houston; and Victor King of Louisiana Tech, by Los Angeles.

In the third round, Cedric Hordugs of South Carolina went to Chicago; Walter Daniels of Georgia went to Los Angeles; Terry Crosby of Tennessee to Kansas City; Sylvester Norris of Jackson State to San Antonio and Al Green of LSU to Phoenix.

In the fourth round, Eugene Robinson of Northeast Louisiana went to Milwaukee; Rick swing of The Citadel to Cleveland; George Maynor of East Carolina to Chicago; Sammy Drummer of Georgia Tech to Houston; Darryl Robinson of Appalachian State to Portland; Lionel Garrett of Southern U-Baton Rouge to San Diego; Ray White of Mississippi State to Los Angeles; Lionel Green of LSU to Houston; Al Daniel of Furman to San Antonio, and Malcom Cesare of Florida to Phoenix.

team in this area," said Spanarkel, whose home is 100 miles from Philadelphia.

Philadelphia coach Billy Cunningham admitted Spanarkel's lack of speed might be a problem, but added, "I think he can compensate for that with quick hands and court awareness."

Sonics, Nets Make A-1 Picks

NEW YORK (AP) — Who got the best of the National Basketball Association draft?

Los Angeles, Chicago, New York, Detroit and Milwaukee had the first five picks in Monday's lottery, and all appear to have done well.

But Seattle and New Jersey may have done best of all.

The NBA champion Sonics, owning the sixth and seventh picks because of deals, cashed them in for 6-foot-9 center-forward James Bailey of Rutgers and guard Vinnie Johnson of Baylor.

Bailey gives the Sonics a good big man who should fit right in with players like Jack Sikma, Lonnie Shelton and Tom LaGarde and provide extra rest for aging forwards John Johnson and Paul Silas. Vinnie Johnson, meanwhile, is a highly rated backcourtman who will give Seattle depth at that position.

"We feel we got two quality players," Coach Lenny Wilkens said. "Bailey gives us a lot of versatility and Johnson is a take-charge, run-the-show type of guard."

"There's no better team to be drafted by than Seattle," Bailey said. "I think playing with people of their caliber will help me, and it will give them more depth."

New Jersey would like to have gotten Bailey, a local favorite since the Nets play their home games at the Rutgers Athletic Center.

But they still managed to strengthen their frontcourt with the eighth and 11th picks on the first round, taking highly touted Calvin Natt of Northeast Louisiana and 19-year-old Cliff Robinson of Southern Cal.

"It's quite an unbelievable draft for the Nets," Coach Kevin Loughery said. "I expect both of these players to put in an awful lot of minutes."

Natt, 6-5 and 225 pounds, averaged 24.4 points and 10.9 rebounds per game and drew raves from Loughery.

"He always gives 100 percent," Loughery said. "I never expected him to be available. We felt he would be one of the top three players picked. He's a 6-6 Willis Reed."

Robinson, a 6-9, 220-pounder, elected to pass up his final two years of college eligibility to turn pro. He played center in college but the Nets have him penciled in at power forward, and he likes the idea.

Los Angeles, meanwhile, came away from the festivities at the Plaza Hotel with Earvin "Magic" Johnson signed, sealed and ready for delivery.

The Lakers opened the draft by picking the 6-8 guard from Michigan State, and two hours later Johnson put his signature on a contract that reportedly calls for $3 million over five years.

'Magic' Johnson Looks Forward To Life As Professional Cager

NEW YORK (AP) — The gleam is there in the eyes, the sparkle that makes Earvin "Magic" Johnson more than a basketball player.

He's a pro now — it became official Monday when Johnson signed his contract with the Los Angeles Lakers after they made him the top choice in the National Basketball Association draft. But he's still the same ebullient teenager who lit up the college basketball world last winter.

"I'm so happy just thinking about next season," he said, with genuine enthusiasm, as he lounged in his room at the Plaza Hotel prior to the draft. "I'm really excited. I can't wait for Sept. 15."

That's the date he'll report to the Lakers' rookie camp and begin life in the play-for-pay ranks. Does Johnson feel he can have as much fun in pro ball as he had leading Michigan State to the NCAA title?

"I definitely do," he responded without hesitation. "I enjoy playing basketball. Every game I play is fun. That's not going to change."

Other things have changed for the 19-year-old from East Lansing, Mich.

"I'm a businessman now," he said with a smile, then he rolled his eyes toward the ceiling. "The phone is always ringing. A guy comes in with what he says is a great insurance deal or a great investment. All sorts of deals have been coming in."

"It's been good and bad. There are times when you want to be left to yourself, so that part is bad. But it's forced me to learn a lot about business at a young age and that's good, because if I make a mistake now, maybe I won't make it when I'm older.

One change Johnson would like to make involves the Los Angeles fans, notorious for their laid-back approach to the Lakers.

"Hopefully we'll be able to change their attitude," said the 6-foot-8 Johnson, who is expected to team with Norm Nixon in the Lakers' backcourt. "I want to create some excitement. That's going to be a challenge."

Johnson is a young man who doesn't shy away from challenges. Rather, he relishes them. That's why he decided to turn pro after his sophomore year at Michigan State, joining the Lakers for a reported $600,000 a year.

"I wanted to play pro ball all my life," he reflected. "When I got the opportunity to go with a good team, a strong franchise, I had to take it. It was a great opportunity and a great challenge, and I just had to go."

Some NBA officials look to the arrival of Johnson and Boston rookie Larry Bird and the return of Bill Walton with San Diego as spurring interest in pro basketball next season. All three are outstanding team players, a common trait that is not common at all in pro ball.

"That's what it takes to be a champion — team basketball," said Johnson. And that's what he hopes he can bring to the Lakers, who already have fine personnel in Nixon, center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and forwards Jamaal Wilkes and Adrian Dantley. The Lakers picked Brad Holland of UCLA with their other first-round choice Monday.

"I think I can come in and be a floor leader," he said. "Part of my role will be to try to get us to work together as a unit."

Johnson pointed to the NBA champion Seattle SuperSonics as an example of what can happen when a team works together.

"That's what it's all about," he said, his eyes shining at the thought. "They're doing it and they're having fun. And they're champions. It's a feeling nobody will ever know but them, a once in a lifetime thing."

"That's what I want." Johnson leaves the impression he can take a big-money contract in stride and enjoy playing ball on the professional level.

"My game plan is to have fun, with a capital F-U-N," he said. "That's all, just have fun."

"It's going to be harder for him to have fun in the pros than it was in college, but I think he can do it," says his father, Earvin Johnson Sr. "I don't think he's going to let the money go to his head. That's not the way he is."

Magic shares his father's confidence. "We know some things are going to change, but not the important things," Earvin said. "I want us to be the same family, the same people, we always were. That's important. People in our community look up to me, and I've got to give something back to them."

Little League

First Federal 6, Wellcome 3

First Federal scored three runs in the third and three more in the fourth and then held off Wellcome in the fifth and sixth for a Tar Heel League victory yesterday.

Ervin Best and Ricky Outlaw both singled to get things started for FF in the third and Rodney Harris was hit by a pitch. Brian Joyner knocked in Best and Outlaw and Harris scored on an error.

Chris Meeks walked, Tyrone Barrett singled and Best reached on a fielder's choice in the fourth. Meeks scored on the fielder's choice, Barrett came in on an error and Best scored on Outlaw's sacrifice.

Wellcome got a single run in the fifth and a two-run homer by Traye Fuqua in the sixth. Barrett had three hits and Best two. Outlaw was the winning pitcher and Cedric Hines the loser.

Jaycees 13, Coca-Cola 6

The Jaycees exploded for 10 runs in the third inning yesterday to easily defeat Coca-Cola 13-6 in a North State Little League contest.

Losing pitcher Jay Wynne got the first two outs in the third easily enough, but the last was a long time coming. Jordy Smith and Rocky Ziehr doubled, Mike Garris singled and Tyrone Daniels and Tommy Roche got walks.

David Lee reached on an error, Maury Harris and Kenneth Butler walked, Evan Hause and Smith reached on errors and Ziehr singled in the final run.

Smith and Ziehr had two hits each for the Jaycees and James Matthews had a pair for Coke, including a home run. Smith was the winning pitcher.

Babe Ruth

Coca-Cola 4, Aaction Movers 1

Aaction Movers scored first in the game, but Coca-Cola came back for a 4-1 victory with runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

Marshall Rand started things off for Coke with a double in the fourth. He scored on Jeff Porter's base hit, but Porter was thrown out. Paul MacMillan singled, stole second and scored on Jon Catlett's hit.

Mitch Brann and Randy Warren rounded out the Coca-Cola scoring in the fifth. Bryan Dye got Aaction's only run in the second.

Rand was the only batter with more than one hit in the game. He was 2-3. Brann pitched a three-hitter for Coke, while Bill Kittrell was the losing hurler.

Home Builders 9, Wachovia 5

Five runs in the fourth ining enabled Home Builders to get past Wachovia 9-5 in another Babe Ruth contest last night.

Both teams scored a run in the first and HB added three in the second to two for Wachovia. Five runs in the fourth wrapped things up for Home Builders, while Wachovia added one in the fifth and one more in the seventh.

Horace Barrett led off the fourth for Home Builders, reaching on a two-base error. Roger Williams walked and Chuck Allen singled. Lloyd Jackson and Curtis Evans got a base hit, scoring on an error.

Allen and Danny Woods each had two hits for HB, while Roderick Harrell and Sammy Hodges both had a pair for Wachovia. Scott Galloway was the winning pitcher and Sammy Hodges and Mike Tucker pitched the loss for Wachovia.

Sunshine Garden Center defeated Rogers Furniture 7-3 yesterday in the first round of the Southern Pitt Little League tournament.

Harley Jackson pitched a one-hitter for Sunshine and teammate Todd Cochran was the leading hitter in the game with a pair.

Jackson Sidelined

Yanks Won't Trade Sidelined Jackson

TORONTO (AP) — The New York Yankees have rejected Reggie Jackson's request to be traded with a verbal slap at the sidelined slugger while Manager Billy Martin adopted a policy of silence after firing one final shot.

Shortly after the Yankees announced Monday night that "the club has done all it intends to do toward bringing Jackson around," Martin said he would have "no comment whatsoever anymore on that subject."

It was another wild and crazy episode in the on-again, off-again Jackson-Martin feud but this time owner George Steinbrenner was in Martin's corner and the next move was up to Reggie.

In a statement released during Monday night's game here against the Blue Jays, the Yankees disclosed that Jackson had asked the club last Thursday to put him on waivers so that a possible trade could be worked out.

Ironically, Jackson's name — along with six other Yankees — had been put on the American League waiver list two days earlier, usually a routine piece of baseball business, even for star players. The waiver period expired Monday and Jackson's name was withdrawn when he was claimed by several clubs, including the Blue Jays.

"It was not an idle claim," said Toronto club president Peter Bavasi.

"I'm not trading Reggie Jackson," said Yankee President Al Rosen, "unless I can get a Reggie Jackson in return."

The outfielder, asked about the constant turmoil surrounding his dealings with Yankee management said, "It's no fun." Jackson added he has been on waivers before and that the procedure once was explained to him by Oakland A's owner Charley Finley.

"Charley told me I was on waivers once or twice," Jackson said. "He said it was a formality, that sometimes you do that to sneak another player through. Sometimes you have a lesser talented player who you want to waiver. So you lump him with a bunch of others. The other teams figure, 'They're not gonna let those guys go, so they'll just waiver the whole group. And the one guy you really want waived is slipped through.'"

Since Jackson did not clear waivers and was withdrawn, his name cannot appear on the waiver list again for 30 days, meaning he will remain a Yankee for at least that long. After that, who knows?

"No man is indispensable," Steinbrenner said.

Earlier in the day, Steinbrenner told The Associated Press that Jackson had said 10 days ago that "I don't think I can play for Billy in 1980." At the time, Martin was scheduled to return as manager next season, but two days later he was appointed to succeed Bob Lemon — the man who replaced him last July — and he took command of the team last Tuesday.

"I can forgive but I can't forget," he said Monday after taking special batting practice at Yankee Stadium. Jackson has been sidelined for more than three weeks with a calf injury and the Yankees hope to have him back this weekend when the Boston Red Sox make their first 1979 visit to New York.

Expos Top NL East Division

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

It's not the national sport in Canada, but the way the Montreal Expos are playing baseball these days it soon could be.

The Expos have won their way into the hearts of their fans, not to mention first place in the National League East.

"We have confidence in ourselves as a ballclub," says first baseman Tony Perez. "This is something we didn't have before. We just have to play the best — and see what happens."

So far, things have been pretty good — a solid 41-25 record which includes two more victories Monday night. The Expos beat the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 in the completion of a suspended game, then 8-2 in the second game at Busch Stadium.

"Our club is the club to beat," said Montreal Manager Dick Williams. "I do respect all the other clubs in our division. But the Expos are having fun. They know they can play well; they believe in themselves."

The Expos' victories were their 10th and 11th in their last 15 games.

"The pitching has been good — the bullpen and the starters," noted Perez. "We have as much confidence in our pitching this year as I can ever remember."

Elsewhere, the Cincinnati Reds whipped the Houston Astros 2-1 in the first game of a double-header before losing the second game 4-0; the Atlanta Braves took a 6-1 decision over the San Francisco Giants; the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the San Diego Padres 4-3; the Pittsburgh Pirates stopped New York 8-1 in the first game of their two-night double-header before the Mets came back to win the nightcap 4-0 and the Chicago Cubs beat the Philadelphia Phillies 8-2.

Warren Cromartie's leadoff homer in the top of the 11th led Montreal's victory in the completion of a game that was suspended after 10 innings on May 17 to permit the Cardinals to make flight connections.

Larry Parrish belted a three-run homer and Gary Carter chipped in with a two-run shot to pace Montreal's triumph in the regularly-scheduled game. The Montreal victory in the second game featured a seven-hitter by left-hander Dan Schatzeder.

Reds 2-0, Astros 1-4
Tom Seaver and two relief pitchers combined on a three-hitter and George Foster clubbed a two-run homer in the first inning to lead Cincinnati's first-game triumph. Seaver gave up three hits in 72-3 innings before needing Dave Tomlin's relief help in the eighth. Doug Bair pitched the ninth for the Reds, gaining his 10th save.

"I'm very happy with the way I've been pitching," said Seaver. "It was another day at the office and I still enjoy what I'm doing."

Enos Cabell's two-run triple keyed a four-run seventh inning and Randy Niemann scattered six hits as Houston won the second game.

Braves 6, Giants 1
Buddy Solomon and Craig Skok combined on a four-hitter as Atlanta beat San Francisco. Joe Nolan gave the Braves their first run with a homer in the second inning and Jeff Burroughs hit a two-run homer in the sixth off Giants starter John Montefusco, 1-4.

Solomon, 4-2, allowed a line-drive single by Mike Sadek in the third and a bloop single by Larry Herndon in the sixth. Skok earned his second save, giving up a ninth-inning homer to Mike Ivie.

Solomon started despite a bad cold.

Dodgers 4, Padres 3
Joe Ferguson slugged a two-run homer with one out in the bottom of the ninth to lift Los Angeles over San Diego. Ron Cey slugged two homers for the Dodgers, who snapped a three-game losing streak.

Loser Rollie Fingers, 6-5, who took over for Gaylord Perry in the ninth inning, walked Cey to lead off the inning and after striking out Dusty Baker, gave up Ferguson's 11th home run of the season.

Pirates 8-0, Mets 1-4
Dave Parker and Rennie Stennett drove in two runs apiece to back the five-hit pitching of John Candelaria as Pittsburgh downed New York in the opener of their double-header.

Pete Falcone fired a five-hit ter for his first shutout and first complete game in more than two years and Lee Mazzilli hit a two-run homer to carry the Mets to victory in the second game.

Cubs 8, Phillies 2
Jerry Martin's two-run homer capped a three-run first inning and Ivan DeJesus smashed a bases-loaded triple in a five-run second, leading Chicago over Philadelphia. The triumph was the ninth in the last 11 games for the Cubs.

Lynn McGlothen, 7-6, beat the Phillies for the third time this season, allowing eight hits in eight innings, but wasn't very impressed with his performance.

Stanhouse Saves Birds

BALTIMORE (AP) — Earl Weaver didn't have to go and hide when Don Stanhouse came in to pitch, still he couldn't escape the usual agony of another cliffhanger by the Baltimore reliever.

The Orioles' manager, ejected from the game in the eighth inning, watched closed circuit television in nervous wonder as Stanhouse extricated himself from a no-out, bases-loaded jam in the ninth and preserved a 3-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Monday night.

"How many years can you take it?" was Weaver's rhetorical question after the Orioles had won for the 16th time in 18 starts. "I ask him why he does it, but he has no answer...he just keeps winning and saving ballgames."

After Baltimore took a 3-1 lead with three runs in the eighth, two when right fielder

Bobby Bonds dropped a fly ball, Stanhouse relieved Steve Stone, 5-5, when Rick Manning singled for Cleveland's third hit to open the ninth.

Blue Jays 3, Yankees 1
Tom Underwood shackled the Yankees on three hits and Al Woods slammed a three-run homer in the fifth inning as Toronto broke New York's four-game winning streak and its own four-game losing skid.

Underwood, 2-10, outpitched Ken Clay, who was making his first 1979 start after 19 relief appearances. Clay surrendered an infield hit to Rico Carty leading off the fifth, then a single to John Mayberry and Woods' blast.

Putt-Putt

Bobby Ipock and Ken Paramore combined to win the Add'em Up best ball tournament at Greenville Putt-Putt last night with a 37-under 71 over three rounds.

Tim Manning and Curtis Ebbs finished second at 77, while Carl White and Jack Squires took third with an 81.

Snow Hill Wins

SNOW HILL — Snow Hill's American Legion baseball team slipped past Washington last night for a 4-2 victory.

Snow Hill scored first in the game when Philip Gordon singled in the second and came around on base hits by Walt Tyndall and Jimbo Fulghum.

Washington got a run in the fourth, but Snow Hill added two in the fifth. Chris Walsh reached on an error, Allen Moore walked and Al Murray singled in Walsh. Gordon reached on a fielder's choice with Moore being thrown out and Tyndall singled in Murray.

Both teams scored a run in the eighth. Snow Hill's came when Gordon walked, Tyndall sacrificed and reached on an error and Gordon came in on a double steal.

Neil Prater was 2-7 for Washington, while Gordon and Tyndall were 2-3 for Snow Hill. Snow Hill is now 7-5 in the league and hosts Rocky Mount Wednesday.

New Ride For Park

CHARLOTTE — Carowinds theme park will be the site of a $2 million roller coaster in 1980 that will contain two consecutive 360 degree vertical loops followed by two consecutive 360 degree barrel rolls, park officials announced Friday.
 "This roller coaster will be the only roller coaster in the world that will turn riders upside down four times," stated Carowinds General Manager Lew Hooper.
 Hooper reported that the site for the coaster will be in the Frontier section of Carowinds behind the station of the Frontier Cables.
 "Site preparation work for this coaster has already begun," noted Hooper. "Guests to the park this summer will be able to watch a very unique roller coaster going up right before their eyes."
 Carowinds, located on the North Carolina-South Carolina border ten miles south of Charlotte, is currently open every day except Fridays until it returns to its weekend schedule August 18.

N.C. Tourists Avoiding Cars

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — More people are apparently abandoning plans for trips by car this summer and finding other means of transportation. A check with airlines, buses and Amtrak showed all were carrying more passengers than usual from the Raleigh area.

The reason — spiraling gas prices and the fear of fuel shortages. Said the Rev. W. Claude Godwin of Raleigh, who plans a trip to California with his family this summer, "I had figured up the costs around January or February, and as I remember it, when I figured it up again a couple of weeks ago, the cost of going by car had gone up well over $100.

"That, and the uncertainty of getting gas, made the airlines much more attractive," he said.

Amtrak, which makes four stops a day in Raleigh, served about 25 percent more passengers at its Raleigh station during the first two weeks of June, a spokesman said.

At Greyhound Bus Lines, ridership from Raleigh was up 23 percent for the first two weeks of June over the previous two weeks in May, said Norman Barclay, terminal manager.

Some of it was a seasonal increase, but he said he attributed at least half to people avoiding the cost and hassle of getting gas.

S.R. Cobbs, executive vice president of Carolina Trailways in Raleigh, said ridership had increased primarily on weekends. While airlines officials said other factors may have helped their sales the higher price of gasoline and difficulties getting it probably added a brisk tailwind to bookings.

Meanwhile, the state Commerce Department believes the gasoline crunch is costing North Carolina's tourist and travel industry $1 million a day.

"We have gas but we don't have people," said Bill Arnold, director of travel and tourism.

He said the number of tourists has declined 20 percent during the first six months of 1979.

Worst Said Over For NBC Stations

By PETER J. BOYER
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC, its executive staff chanting "stability, stability" at every possible moment, continues to send signals to reporters and NBC affiliates that the worst is over at the No. 3 network.

Ceaseless talk of stability, aimed at countering criticism that the network seemed to be floundering, and the hiring of big names are central to the network's efforts to climb out of the ratings quagmire. The fall schedule announced several weeks ago featured a host of familiar names: Shirley Jones, Claude Aikens, Robert Conrad, William Devane, being a few. It is the hope of network President Fred Silverman that viewers will give a show a better chance if they recognize its star.

But it's also a matter of image. Big stars, like the resurrected NBC peacock, suggest a state of well-being that has been absent at NBC for the past couple of years. Stability, if you will.

Last week NBC announced that Mel Brooks, he of the crazy head and big audience appeal, had signed with the network. Brooks, who wrote for TV before his successes as an actor and director, will act as a consultant for NBC and star in a special next year.

Mike Weinblatt, president of NBC Entertainment, sent another signal to the NBC-affiliated stations when he said he would announce this week the network's entire prime-time schedule up to Dec. 31.

"This marks the first time any network ever revealed virtually its entire hour-by-hour and night-by-night plans this far in advance," Weinblatt said, "and it reflects the stability, strength and confidence we have in our 1979-80 programming."

Weinblatt will announce the expanded schedule Thursday on a close-circuit telecast to affiliated stations.

Other developments: NBC announced that Meadowlark Lemon, the Harlem Globetrotter great, will become a regular on "Hello Larry," McLean Stevenson's sitcom. Lemon's signing is one element of a general reworking of the show, intended to help its weak ratings.

Lemon will play himself on the show.

The network also announced the signing of an exclusive movies and specials contract by Gary Coleman, the little fellow on "Diff'rent Strokes" whose star shines brighter than any but Johnny Carson's at NBC. Speaking of Carson, there are no public indications that he will remain as host of "Tonight" beyond next spring, a year before his contract runs out. Perhaps thinking of meeting that eventuality, NBC has signed comic David Letterman to an exclusive contract.

Letterman has hosted local talk shows and has appeared on Carson's show a few times, and is considered by some at the network as the likely choice to replace Carson. Only a rumor, of course.

The bidding:

South West North East
1 ♦ 2 ♠ 3 Pass 2 ♥
2 ♦ 2 Pass 3 ♦ Pass
4 ♦ Pass Pass Pass
Opening lead: Ten of ♠.

The success of many contracts depends on taking full advantage of the distributional features of a hand. On this deal declarer realized that he needed to ruff clubs in dummy to make his spade game. Unfortunately, his management of his assets left something to be desired.

The bidding followed orthodox lines, though there is a large group of players today who would raise to two spades on North's hand at his first turn. However, all was well, for South persisted in bidding a second time despite the enemy action, and North belatedly gave his support. South clearly had enough to go on to game.

West led the ten of hearts, won by declarer's jack. In order to start ruffing clubs as soon as possible, declarer immediately played a low club from his hand. West followed low and East won the eight.

The defense was obvious — East shifted to a trump. Whether declarer rose with the ace or finessed, he was doomed to defeat. In pracrice, he won the ace and ruffed two clubs on the board, but he still had to lose a second club and tricks to both major-suit kings.

Have you spotted the relatively simple maneuver that would have brought home the contract? Declarer should have realized that even one trump lead from East could be ruinous, but that West might not be able to attack spades without possibly giving up a trump trick. Therefore, every effort should have been expended to keep East off the lead.

That was not a difficult task. At trick two declarer should have returned the king of clubs! That simple tactic would have forced West to win the first club trick — as the bidding indicated. West would then have been faced with a choice of losing alternatives. A trump lead would hold declarer to two club ruffs in dummy, but would sacrifice the defenders' trump trick. Any other lead would permit declarer to ruff three clubs in dummy. Either way, declarer would come to ten tricks.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal bridge format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four-Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. ## RFD Club Held Picnic

The RFD (Retired from Dupont) Club met Friday, with about 50 members and their spouses taking part in a picnic at the Kinston Dupont Plant's picnic area.

Two new members and their spouses were introduced.

Members recounted their activities, including trips. Howard Kress, the Kinston plant manager, and his wife, Barbara, were honored guests. Members were told that the next club function would be held in September.
